"It is more than possible," he said. "If you stayed here for any time at all, your step-mother would come and fetch you back, and I should get into terrible disgrace. Mr. De la Borne would probably turn me out of my house," he added as an after-thought.

She sat down and looked out of the window in despair. The storm was still raging. The skies were black, and the window pane streaming with rain-drops. She shivered a little.

"If I could help you in any other way," he continued after a moment's pause, "I should be very glad to try."

She turned upon him quickly.

"How can you help me, or any one else," she demanded, "unless you can take me away from these people? Listen! Until a few months ago I had scarcely seen my step-mother. She fetched me away from the convent, took me to Paris for some clothes, since then I have done nothing but go to parties and houses, where the people seem all to have fine names, but behave horribly. I know that I am rich. They told me that before I left the convent, but is that any reason why I prepared, old and young, should say foolish things to me and pretend that they have fallen in love, when I know all the time that it is my fortune they are thinking of. And my step-mother speaks of marrying me to be disposed to the highest bidder. I do not like her friends. I do not like the way they live. I have never liked Major Forrest. Last night your lodger and another man came to the Hall. They asked questions about Lord Ronald. I am sure of it. It got on my nerves. I thought I should strike Major Forrest dead into Lynn, thirty-five miles away, at six o'clock in the morning, and sure that he could not have driven a car a hundred yards."

"Good God!" Andrew muttered.

"I am sure of it," Jeanne continued. "Two days before Lord Ronald disappeared, he wanted the car to take us over to Sandringham, and he got into the car with me. I saw him get into the car, and he came back intoxicated. Lord Ronald was angry, and he sent the man away. The car was there in the coach-house, and there was no one who could drive it."

"But," Andrew protested, "Major Forrest was seen returning in the car."

"He was pulled up the avenue in it," Jeanne answered. "How he got the car there I don't know, but I don't believe that it had ever been any further."

"Why do you not believe that?" Andrew asked.

"She leaned towards him.

"Because," she said, "I was up early. The car was there at eight o'clock, alone just outside the gates. There were the marks where it had come down from the house, but there were no marks on the other side. I am sure that it had been no further. I felt the engine and it was cold. I do not believe that it had been started at all."

Andrew was looking very serious.

"Then," he said, "if Lord Ronald was not taken to Lynn that morning, what do you suppose has become of him?"

"I do not know," she cried. "I am afraid. I dare not stay there. They all look at one another and leave of talking when I come into the room unexpectedly. They all seem as though some trouble was hanging over them. I am afraid to be there, Mr. Andrew."

Andrew was very serious indeed now.

"I will go up to the Hall at once," he said, "and I will see Mr. De la Borne. I have some influence with him, and I will get to the bottom of the whole matter. I will take you back, and I will make inquiries at once."

She settled down in his easy-chair. Her dark eyes were full of pleading. "But, Mr. Andrew," she said, "I do not want to go back to the Hall. I am afraid of them all, and I am afraid of my step-mother more than any of them. Why may I not stay here? I will be very good, and I will give you no trouble at all."

"My child," he said firmly, "you are talking nonsense. I am only a village fisherman, but you could not possibly stay in my house here. I have not even a house-keeper."

"That," she declared calmly, "is an excellent reason why I should stop. I will be your housekeeper. Come and sit here by me and let us talk about it."

He walked into the window. He did not choose at that moment that she should see his face.

"You do not wish to have me," she cried.

MAKES LIVING BY BETTING IN STREETS

Toronto Man Says it Plainly in Court—Stated Case Will Be Made of it

Toronto, Oct. 8.—"I just make my living by walking about the streets and taking bets," was the startling statement which Arthur Ellis made in the police court here. He came up on a charge of vagrancy, and his candor was the outcome of his assurance that the law could not touch him.

He was represented by T. C. Robinette, who argued that the definition of a vagrant did not affect his client. The law described a man as a vagrant who had no general profession or calling, but made his living by "gaming." The lawyer maintained that according to the decisions of the Canadian courts, betting on horses could not be called gaming. A decision of a magistrate in London, England, was produced by the chief inspector, to show that a man who took bets on the street in the old law was a vagrant. Colonel Denison replied that the law in this country was different, and thought he would have to dismiss the case.

At this point Ellis made the candid statement about his way of making his living. "We can produce evidence to show that," said Mr. Corley, "but he has now announced it in open court, and it would be a most extraordinary thing if our law did not make that method of living an offence."

Colonel Denison thought that under the circumstances he would like to make a test case of it. A decision in favor of the man would lead to very serious consequences. The defendant will come up again on Oct. 10, when his worship will probably give a stated case.

Fashion Hint for Times Readers

FISHER THE SEASON'S SMART FUR.

Every winter sends some fur to the pinnacle of favor. This year it is fisher, a fur hitherto much liked in England for handsome coat linings, but little used in this country. Fisher is a rich, very dark brown pelts, which makes up into particularly effective muffs and stoles. This fisher muffs has the new roundness which distinguishes this season's models.

PARIS DOCTORS TO INCREASE FEES

Greater Cost of Living Given as Cause of Their Action

Paris, Oct. 7.—Doctors in Paris and vicinity have decided to raise their fees for medical attendance on a date soon to be set. They claim that the increase in cost of living during recent years necessitates the step. The minimum fee for visiting a patient at his home will be 4 francs, and for consultation 3 francs. Higher fees will naturally be charged in a matter to be settled between doctor and patient.

Dr. Grunberg, formerly member of the council of the Doctors' Federation, said that the proposed increase of fees was perfectly justifiable. The remuneration of all other classes of workers except doctors had increased of late years. With regard to fees above the minimum proposed, Dr. Grunberg said that in deciding their doctors should take into account the following points:—

Seriousness of the illness or operation.

Number of visits to the patient.

Loss of time and difficulties encountered with respect to hours of visit.

Relative eminence of medical men.

"If we give our services free of charge to needy persons and ask a small fee from those of the middle class, higher fees will be demanded, and it is only right that those who can afford to do so should pay dearly."

Over and over again the doctors insist that there is the question of the individual practitioner's skill and repute. It is natural that a professor of the Faculty of Medicine should charge more than a practitioner should charge higher fees than his colleagues."

SYNOD CLOSURES ITS SESSIONS; MEETINGS OF MUCH INTEREST

The Presbyterian synod closed its sessions last evening in St. David's church after transacting a great amount of business. The meetings were marked by some very interesting and at times spirited discussions and many able addresses were listened to by those in attendance.

The debate on the recommendations of the moral and social reform committee, which occupied a large part of the time of the morning session was again taken up in the afternoon. The subjects were recommendations that the synod should urge the government of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick to enact provincial prohibition and that these governments discontinue the use of alcoholic liquors at state functions.

Dr. Sedgewick openly charged that by passing the resolutions the synod would be turning itself into a political organization. PULITZER LEFT $200,000

Vienna, Oct. 8.—The will of Albert Pulitzer, who committed suicide here Sunday afternoon, has been proved. He left a fortune of all but $200,000 of his fortune. Of this amount a part is left to the Vienna Ambulance Society; there are several small legacies, and the remainder goes to his son, Walter Pulitzer.

It is rumored that the testament will be contested on account of Mr. Pulitzer's mental condition, and because a later will is said to exist in Paris. It is reported that Mr. Pulitzer had been heavily in South African speculation. Another part of his fortune, about $800,000, by arrangement with several London and Paris insurance companies, afforded him a fixed income.

CRITICIZES EARL GREY

The Ottawa Evening Free Press, local government organ, takes Earl Grey to task for his recent remarks in the west on German war scare and naval situation. It says:—

"If our governor-general were to retain the great respect which the fact that they are the direct representatives of the king entails them to, they must keep out of politics. They must shun even an appearance of partisanship discussion. We can imagine rumors the would be uttered among large sections of the people of the British Isles if King Edward were to express such opinions as those uttered by Lord Grey, and why should the Canadian monarch general go further than the monarch whom he represents would dare?"

72 Days of Dish Washing

You spend two hours every day washing dishes. That's 720 hours a year or 72 days of ten working hours each. This means that half the time is wasted. For with Taylor's Borax Soap you finish your work in one hour instead of two.

Isn't it worth five cents to have 36 days a year to yourself—to have cleaner and sweeter dishes than ever before with less than half the work?

Taylor's Soap

This wonderful soap is unlike any other you have ever known. It digs into the corners of dishes and loosens the dirt almost like magic. It cuts away grease and leaves the surface clean and polished.

Hard water makes hard dish washing, but Taylor's Borax Soap means the hardest water and it makes the work easy. But it does more than soften the water—it softens the hands and leaves them even whiter than before.

With this soap you save all the bother of rubbing and most of the scouring. You simply have no idea of the work this soap can save—the greatest surprise you have ever known. The glasses have a lustre that glistens with brilliance. The china ware looks as fresh and inviting as new. Yet you work only half as hard with this astonishing soap.

No soap could be purer than this, for during the boiling process we run thousands of gallons of clean water through the soap. Thus every impurity is carried away and the soap is absolutely clean.

Borax also sterilizes and sweetens. It kills every germ and leaves no possibility of contagion. It destroys all odors and leaves a clean scent that is simply delightful.

WAS GREAT WORKER AMONG INDIANS

Sketch of Rev. Ezerion Ryerson Young Who Died This Week

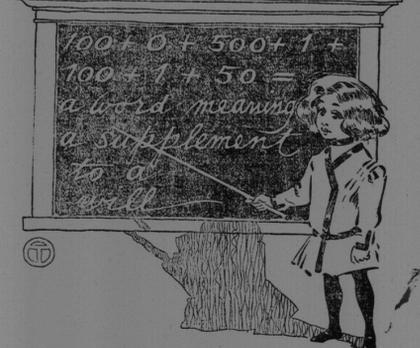

Rev. Ezerion Ryerson Young, noted Canadian missionary, and author, who died at his home in Brandon, Ont. this week, from injuries received in a runaway accident about a year ago was born in Smith's Falls, Ont., in 1840, the son of the Rev. William Young, pioneer Methodist preacher. He was educated in the rural and grammar schools of the county, and at the Toronto Model School. He left home at the age of 16 and taught school until 1863, when he entered the ministry, being stationed at Thorold, and vicinity for four years. After his ordination he became pastor of the First Church of Hamilton, in the United States. The entire population of Canada westward from Winnipeg to the Pacific was not more than 100,000. Today, he continued smilingly, "there are one and a quarter million people in that territory, and one million bushels of wheat are being handled on the railroads whose total mileage is nearly 100,000 miles. It seems wonderful that such great progress should have been made in the short space of thirty years. Canada has without doubt grown faster than did the western states of the great American union during a like period."

"At that time, 1871," pursued the railway magnate, "I was working on a construction contract for the Canadian Pacific railway, which was being built by government aid out into the Far West. I started my railway career by taking contracts to build stretches of the line. In 1879 passengers to Winnipeg journeyed by boat from St. Vincent. The C. P. R. had been surveyed from Emerson to St. Boniface, across the river from there to now the thriving metropolis of the Canadian middle west. Then, in 1896, or thirteen years ago, William Mackenzie and myself secured a short strip of line west of Winnipeg, and today we have 3,000 miles of steam road in the western provinces alone. Yesterday our cars handled 425,000 bushels of wheat."

Regina is to have a new Catholic cathedral.

When a man or woman finds sickness coming on, such as indigestion, weak eyes, kidney trouble, etc., it is time some attention is given to the subject of food and drink.

In practically all such cases, where coffee or tea is the drink, one can obtain relief by quitting the coffee or tea and taking Postum.

It leaves off a drink that is an active producer of disease and takes in its place a powerful liquid food that contains elements for rebuilding the nerve centres which have heretofore been torn down.

INSPIRATION FROM QUEBEC Rev. Dr. Shearer pointed out in an address last Sunday evening that, Quebec province was in advance of most other provinces in the adoption of effective temperance legislation. The laying of the corner stone of a technical school in Montreal, and the announcement of Premier Gouin that the government of the province will shortly take up the question of a school of forestry, suggests that Quebec may set the pace in other directions.

The laying of the corner stone of the Technical School is an event of at least equal importance to the community with the founding of a university. A Technical School is, in fact, a university of labor. Far more of us are called upon to earn our livings and contribute our share to the general weal by the practice of arts taught by the Technical School than in any other province in the Dominion, and it is quite as vital that the former receive a scientific education as that the latter are so favored.

The Gazette (Conservative) says:— "The laying of the corner stone of the Montreal Technical School is an event of promise for industrial instruction, not only in Montreal and Quebec, but in Canada. The plans have been prepared on a large scale. The institution in size and scope will have few equals in America, and while it will take time to obtain the benefit of the instruction it will give, the end will be profitable. The institution will do for the worker what the science department of the university does for the designer. It will help him to understand the principles of the processes he is engaged in, to master the idea as well as do the task, and to be a more useful and capable factor in the industrial development of the country. It should be for the industry of the city and of the town what the Macdonald College is for the agricultural industry of the country, and should help place Quebec in the advance line in the work of industrial training. There is in the appreciation of the classes of the Council of Arts and Manufactures an evidence that the new institution will be valued by those for whom it is designed, and as Montreal's diversified industries include some of the largest in Canada, and as their number is continually growing, there is promise that the pupils will find ample demand for their skill. The government that conceived and the legislature that provided the means for carrying out the scheme did a good service."

But more interesting than these extracts are the words of Sir Lomer Gouin, premier of Quebec, showing as they do the attitude of his government towards education in that province. He said:— "We have established this school for the working men of the city of Montreal and of the province of Quebec. This school has been established at the request of the humble, the obscure, those who are looked down upon as almost nothing, but who, looked at more closely, are the best we could have, those to whom we must confide the future of this province—the working men. "It is in order to give to the youth of our province an opportunity to educate themselves and put themselves on the same level as the technical men that we have had to draw from foreign lands up to the present, that this school has been begun. It is to afford them the advantage of a technical education that will enable them to undertake the management of our factories and the exploitation of our resources that have started this institution. "I thank the promoters of this school most sincerely. They may rest assured of the appreciation of the whole population. The government of this province—and I do not say this boastfully—desires to achieve works that will bear fruit in its province. We had already established several schools between 1897 and 1903—a new school every two years—and since

1905 we have built two new schools every year. I recently attended the foundation stone laying of the school for higher commercial studies. That is, a great enterprise upon which we base many hopes for the commercial advance of our province. Shortly we shall begin the construction of an institution similar to that at Quebec, which ought also to supply the country with intelligent minds for the cultivation of our resources and national riches. "In establishing these institutions we are fulfilling our duty, and we are doing something to meet the requirements of the age, leaving to the spirit of patriotism in every instance the work of continuing and perpetuating the task we have begun. "The government, adhering to its programme, will shortly take up the question of giving this province still another school—a school of forestry. We will open new spheres of activity to the youth of our province; we will develop their intelligence; we will find scope for their activities, in order that the drawbacks and disadvantages which, up to the present time, have stood in the way of their choice of careers for themselves, may no longer exist. They will have many directions in which to employ their talents and exercise their ambitions. "I have but one thing more to say. I salute the youths who will study at this technical school in order to gain the scientific knowledge that will aid them in more easily winning their livelihood, and, in consequence, will contribute to the industrial progress of our province. I hope they will profit greatly from the practical instructions that will be given them, and that the country will benefit, along with them, to the greatest possible extent."

THE FISHERIES CASE The case of Great Britain in the Newfoundland fishery dispute, and that of the United States, have both been prepared. A Washington despatch points out that this is the first case between the United States and Great Britain to be referred to the Hague court for arbitration under the general arbitration treaty of April 8, 1908. In four months the counter case of each government as to the intent and meaning of the provisions of Article 1 of the Treaty of 1818. Seven specific questions are submitted for the arbitration of the court. The first relates to whether fishing regulations promulgated by Newfoundland are justifiable. The second question is whether American fishermen have a right to employ as members of their fishing crews of their vessels persons who are not inhabitants of the United States. The third question is designed to test the validity of Newfoundland regulations, which require American fishermen to report at customs houses and to pay harbor or other duties or similar requirements. The Hague court is also asked to define where the "three marine miles" must be measured. A decision is also requested as to whether American fishermen have a right to fish on that part of the southern coast of Newfoundland which extends from Cape Ray to Rameau islands or on the western and northern coast of Newfoundland from Cape Ray to the Quirpon islands, or on the Magdalen islands. Dr. Heinrich Lammasch of Austria will act as president of the Hague tribunal. The members of the tribunal are Louis M. Drago of the Argentine Republic, A. P. De Savornin Lohman of the Netherlands, Judge George Gray of Delaware, and Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, chief justice of the supreme court of Canada. The British case was prepared by the Hon. A. D. Aylesworth, minister of justice of Canada.

The death of Hon. W. T. Pipes is a distinct loss to the province of Nova Scotia. He has been a member of the government for more than ten years, and has been active in the politics of the province for more than thirty years. He first became a candidate in Cumberland county to oppose the redoubtable Sir Charles Tupper, and though not successful in the effort to enter the parliament of Canada he became a strong factor in provincial politics, holding for a short time in the early eighties the office of premier. The announcement is made from Ottawa that the government is considering its naval programme, which is expected to involve the expenditure of perhaps three millions per year for several years. It is intimated, the construction work will be carried out in Canada, the question becomes one of special interest to St. John, which as one of the great ports must be considered in any scheme of naval defence.

The annual fall sports of the Every Day Club should prove attractive to the citizens. There is a good entry list and the club is endeavoring to develop clean amateur sport in this city. Public support is essential to success. It is stated that over $7,000,000 has thus far been expended on Grand Trunk Pacific construction work in New Brunswick.

HELLO! Of this poem, by S. W. Foss, the late Dr. A. K. H. Boyd, of St. Andrews, says: "It will never be in any language. Though it brings the tears to one's eyes, it is quite devoid of sentimentality. I prefer a suitable text: 'And he was a Samaritan.' "When you see a man in a white coat, Walk right up and say 'Hello!' Say 'Hello!' an 'How d'ye do?' How's the world a-goin'?" Slip the fellow on his back, Lift yer hand with a smack, Walk right up and don't go slow, Greet and shake, and say 'Hello!' If he clothed in rags! O sh! Walk right up and say 'Hello!' Rags is but cotton roll, Feet for wraps! up a soul, An' a soul is worth a true Hile an' a true Hile 'I've do!' Don't you wait for the crowd to go, Walk right up say 'Hello!' When big vessels meet, they say, They salute and sail away; He who comes as you an' me, Lonesome ships upon a sea, Each on waiting for his own, For a port beyond the fog, Lift yer speakin' trumpet low, Lift yer hand and say 'Hello!' Say 'Hello!' and 'How d'ye do?' Folks who are good as you. When ye leave yer house of clay, Wander in the faraway, Then the souls that wander the strange' Country 't'her side the range, Then the souls that wander the strange' Country 't'her side the range, Who ye be, and say 'Hello!' Hello! (repeated eight times).

"I never had no bankerin' to be a porch-catcher." DIDN'T MEAN TO. It was indeed a proud moment for farmer Giles when he went to see his sailor son on board the ship. He had never seen a vessel so close before, and he marvelled at her size. Just as he caught sight of the two ropes which hung over the side to assist the sailors in clambering on deck, he heard "dial bells" go. As he stepped on deck he met the officer on watch. He saluted him, and said timidly, "You haven't kissed me, but I didn't mean to ring so loud."—Tit Bits.

THE POPULAR CONCEPTION. Clergyman (examining a Sunday school class)—"Now, can any of you tell me what the word 'ambition' means?" Small Scholar—"Please, sir, they're sins you ought to have committed and haven't."

A WAY WE HAVE AT CHRISTMAS. She looked at the little man archly. "Hullo!" she said. "I know you are beginning to grow rather handsome?" "It's a way I have," he answered, "as Christmas draws near."—New Orleans Times Democrat.

MEASUREMENT. "Why do you insist on regarding yourself as only half educated?" "Because," answered the modest man, "I have read of the recorder draw the lease and properly safeguard the city in it. Some of the lots asked by Mr. Craig cannot be leased to him until next May but all that are now open he will get and the others when the present leases expire. The lease will run for 14 years and the annual rental will be $800. Mr. Craig appeared before the committee and in his remarks made it plain that he did not intend to enter into the manufacture of cement. His industry will turn out patent concrete houses, of which only one-eighth part is composed of cement. At the outset he would buy the cement he required but hoped eventually to make cement enough for his own use. However, the committee would only be a secondary consideration. A question of a change in auctioneer's licenses whereby an auctioneer could have a deputy to hold sales for him when he was unable to be present, was on motion of Ald. Kelley, referred to the bills and laws committee. S. L. T. Burnham, secretary of the David Craig Company, which is to establish a concrete house-making plant at Fish Lake, will arrive in the city on Saturday and with Mr. Craig will go over the property and arrange for the necessary buildings and plant."

R., is in the city, accompanied by his son, Inspector Damery, of the Somerville police force, who is in the city yesterday, and will leave for his home today. According to Hugh McCarthy, a boatman, an effort is being made to recover near Point Lepreau seventy-five or eighty tons of sovereigns, sunk in the British warship Plumper, which was wrecked there in 1864. WILL GRANT LEASES TO CRAIG COMPANY At a special meeting of the general committee of the city council held yesterday afternoon the request of the David Craig Company for a lease of lots at Green Hill for the establishment of a plant for the manufacture of concrete houses was discussed at length and it was decided to have the recorder draw the lease and properly safeguard the city in it. Some of the lots asked by Mr. Craig cannot be leased to him until next May but all that are now open he will get and the others when the present leases expire. The lease will run for 14 years and the annual rental will be $800. Mr. Craig appeared before the committee and in his remarks made it plain that he did not intend to enter into the manufacture of cement. GENERATE POWER AT COAL MINES TO WORK DREDGES Ottawa, Oct. 7.—During his midsummer stay on the Pacific coast, Hon. Wm. Templeman, minister of inland revenue and mines, paid an official visit to the Yukon, and inspected the principal mining camps in the neighborhood of Dawson. Asked for his impressions of the future of the mining district, the minister said that as far as placer mining is concerned, the Klondike district is practically played out. Mining is now done there on a large scale and with immense outlay of capital. The gold is being won by hydraulic mining and dredging. These methods of operation employ considerably less labor for the return produced than did the old methods of bucket and sluice-box. The result was that the population of Dawson was very much less than it was ten years ago. The yield, however, is still considerable, and the minister expects that the output for the present year will considerably exceed that of 1908. The revolution in mining methods has wrought other important changes. For instance the adoption of electricity as a motive power for the dredging plants has become almost general, even though the current has to be developed by the use of wood for fuel, which is extremely expensive. A new departure, and one in which the minister was greatly interested, is about to be taken in this respect. About forty miles from Dawson on the Klondike, an excellent deposit of bituminous coal, owing to the excessive cost of transportation, it has been very little used in the Dawson district thus far. What is now being done in the way of developing looks to the utilization of these coal measures by a more correct method. A large generating plant is being erected in the immediate vicinity of the mine, the power will be generated by steam engines and with coal along at the pit's mouth. From this centre power will be transmitted at very reasonable rates to the large hydraulic plants and dredges within a distance of 50 miles. Hon. Mr. Templeman says that the Stewart river is now being looked to as the almost certain successor to the Klondike as the Eldorado of the placer mines. Some very rich strikes have been made on the Stewart during the past season, and the dredging operations have yielded highly gratifying returns.

NO ENFORCEMENT OF BREAD WEIGHT BY-LAW MADE

Only One Baker Said to Be Marking Weight on Loaves—No Sign of Lower Price

Although the price of flour has declined from the recent high-water mark, there seems little likelihood of a reduction in the price of bread. When the advance in flour prices some months ago, the bakers decided that the price of bread should be raised from seven to eight cents retail, the latter figure is now selling. There has been no move on the part of the bakers, however, to reduce the price, now that flour is lower.

A prominent baker in discussing the situation claimed there was nothing in the condition of the market to warrant a reduction by the bakers. The advance in Manitoba flour, he claimed was about $2 above the normal when it reached its highest figure. There had since been a drop of about 70 cents making the price even yet $1.30 higher than it should be. An advance of $1.25 to $1.50 a barrel in flour, he contended, would represent an advance of one cent a loaf in bread. Sometimes, he went on, the price of bread favored the consumer and sometimes the baker, just at present it favored the baker, though there was a long period when they sold at a price which represented a loss to them.

Regarding the weight of bread, a matter which was considered by the council last spring and a new by-law passed, it seems that the law has never been enforced. It was ordained by the council that all bread must be clearly stamped with the weight and that it must not contain any deleterious substance. The police are authorized to enforce the law and a penalty of $25 is provided for any person offending against any of the provisions of the law.

So far as is known only one of the bakers has complied with the requirement to mark the weight on the loaf and he claims to mark four-fifths of his output. The loaves so marked are sealed at 1 1/2 pounds when they are baked, but there are a number of bakers who are distributing loaves weighing slightly over a pound.

Chief of Police Clark was asked if anything was being done looking toward an enforcement of the law, and replied that until there was a complaint he did not contemplate taking any action.

CHIVALRY FINDS EXEMPLIFICATION ON INTERCOLONIAL

Conductor's Gracious Act for Indian Woman and Child—Rev. Mr. Phillips' Commendation.

That the age of chivalry will not pass while a certain conductor on the I. C. R. is in the running is the firm conviction of Rev. C. T. Phillips, who was in town yesterday, and whose eyes are open to observe the things about him which make for human welfare. He told the story to a Times man yesterday.

A freight-train was standing at a station between St. John and Moncton. It had been there some time, shunting and shifting cars, and an Indian woman and little girl boarded the passenger car. Presently the woman sent the little girl out for something, and before she returned the train started. She was a very little girl. The train had pulled out of the yard before the conductor became aware of the situation.

The Indian woman was as nearly frantic as the stoical nature of the race permits its womanhood to be. The conductor gazed along the rails and saw a tiny flying figure far back toward the station, hopelessly trying to overtake the train. He glanced at his watch, saw that he had more than enough time to make the next station, where he was to cross another train, and promptly pulled the bell-cord. The train stopped, the conductor walked back to meet the now exhausted child, and assisted it to get into the car. Then the train moved on, with ample time to make the next station.

"I asked the conductor his name," said Mr. Phillips, "and I thanked him, on behalf of humanity in general. He perhaps would not have stopped his train for me, but he did a finer thing."

ANNIE A BOOTH AND TOW BOAT IN COLLISION

Schooner Towed into Vineyard Haven and Beached With Four Feet of Water in Hold

The following is from Vineyard Haven: "A miscellany on the part of either the skipper of the schooner Annie A. Booth or the master of the tug Helen M. Field, brought the two vessels in a glance to collision on the Cross Rip wharf early Thursday and the schooner getting the worst of it, was dragged in here at daylight by the tug and beached in the upper wharf, with four feet of water in her hold.

"The channel off Cross Rip is fairly wide, and according to those on the Booth, the schooner was standing along on the starboard tack when the Field was sighted, coming from the seaward with a couple of barges in tow. Before those on the schooner realized their danger the tug was dead ahead and as the schooner swung up in answer to her helm, the bow of the tug scraped along the port side of the Booth. Chain plates, port rail, some standing rigging was tipped off and a few minutes later it was discovered that the schooner was leaking. The tug immediately anchored her barges and towed the Booth here, for temporary repairs.

The Booth was loaded with lumber and bound from Parrsboro, N. S., to New York, while the Field had a tow for Boston."

URGES AMERICAN CITIZENS HERE TO RENEW REGISTER

U. S. Consul Says Majority Have Neglected Matter of Importance to Them—Rents Coburg Street House

United States Consul Moorehead announces that the registration of most of the American citizens in St. John has expired and he advises that the matter should receive the attention of those interested, as it is of considerable importance.

In referring to the matter, the consul said that every American citizen residing outside the United States is supposed to register once every year at the nearest consular office. Since taking up the duties of the office here, he has found that in most cases where registration has been made the time has expired and it is necessary to again register.

In the case of naturalized citizens it is of the utmost importance to them, he says, as they are in danger of losing their citizenship, the number registering heretofore has been about thirty or forty, which does not represent all the citizens of the United States now making their homes here.

The consul says that where citizens are not registered, any complaints or applications for assistance from such would receive little attention. If Canadians who have become naturalized citizens of the U. S. come back to Canada and do not register within two years, the presumption is that they wish to lose their citizenship, and if any citizens go to a foreign country and remain away five years, it is presumed they lose their citizenship, and they lose it.

Where children are born abroad to American citizens they are required to be registered within one year of their eighth birthday, or else the presumption is that they do not wish to retain their American citizenship, and they lose it.

United States Consul Moorehead has rented the large stone dwelling at No. 24 Coburg street, formerly occupied by Mrs. James Miller, and will take up his residence there. Mr. Moorehead's household effects are now on their way here from Acapulco, Mexico, where they passed through an earthquake and until they arrive here Mr. Moorehead will not know whether they have been damaged to any extent or not.

SUPERIOR PAINLESS DENTISTRY!

"There is a world wide cry against the dentists that they torture their patients. Those of strong physique submit and endure the agony. With a second class this is simply impossible, and thousands of teeth are neglected and lost even though the patients may be able to pay for our most skillful services. Then there is a third class who, after months of mental torture in anticipation, finally come into our hands, and, with nerves strung to a hurtful point, pass through the ordeal, but at what a cost! We do not sufficiently consider the consequences of shock in the dental chair, yet undoubtedly many suffer for months and even years from injuries to the nervous system received whilst in our hands.

The greatest duty of our profession today is to discover and adopt a mode of painlessly performing our operations."

NOTE—The above is an abstract from a paper read by an eminent dentist of New York City before a society of dentists in Philadelphia.

The famous Hale Method of painless dentistry, for which we are sole agents for Canada is the best Method on earth.
