MOOSE SLAUGHTER.

Stories of Big Game Being Butchered.

ONE MAN FINED.

Another Case Reported to the Chief Game Commissioner.

From all along the line come reports of the abundance of big game and concurrent with them come also reports to the effect that in some quarters a war to the death is being waged against the monarch of the forest. A party of fishermen visited the lakes in the Charlo region not long ago and report that one evening they were surprised to hear the crack of a rifle and on starting out to learn the cause found a large bull moose in the throes of death on the shore of the lake. Looking around for some trace of the perpetrators of the illegal act, they were again startled by the report of a rifle and another large moose rushed out into the water in front of them and dropped in his tracks. The would-be sportsmen remained under cover, unfortunately, or it is altogether likely that they would long ere this have received the due reward of their inglorious deed in the law courts. This case was reported the Chief Game Commissioner.

On Friday, Deputy Game Warden Verge of Campbellton had Peter Johnson of the Tobique brought before Magistrate Matheson for killing moose. Johnson had been found openly selling the meat around town. The result was a fine of $50 and the confiscation of the meat, which was sold by the warden to J. T. Vautour.

It seems that this is not the first offence of the kind that has been committed this summer but it is hoped the vigilance of the wardens will result in better protection for our big game.

CODFISH SCARC.

Such is the Report from Gaspé Coast

POOR TOURIST BUSINESS

Alleged Discrimination Against Gaspé said to be the Cause

Mr. E. A. Prevost, of Montreal, the well known commercial man was in town last evening on his return from the Gaspé Coast. He left Montreal on July 11th by steamer "Gaspé" and made the trip to Gaspé in two days, since which time he has been around the coast on business for his firm. He says that the fishing along the coast is very poor, although Andrew Baker of Little River East is reported to have secured 153,000 lbs of fish in one week recently, while another firm at Grand River is said to have done fairly well. The fish although very scarce are quite large, some of them weighing from 80 to 100 lbs. Pabos has almost entirely recovered from the effects of the fire which did so much damage there this summer. Already a large number of houses have been rebuilt and the place has quite a busy appearance.

Tourist travel to the coast, Mr. Prevost says, is not quite so heavy this season as formerly, which is no doubt owing to the fact that the Campagna will not afford sleeping accommodations for passengers to Gaspé until those who are booked through to Pictou have been served. This discrimination against Gaspé has had its effect to some extent.

Mr. Prevost also has a good word for the Gaspés. He says she is a fine sea boat, her officers most obliging, and the service on board up-to-date in every respect. The people of Gaspé and surrounding country are loud in their praise of their service.

NEW CARLISLE.

Attention of Government called to its Shipping.

BY MR. MARCIL

Work on A. O. and W. Railway to be Commenced Shortly.

OTTAWA, Aug. 2.—Mr. Marcil having been informed that the "Admiral" does not stop at New Carlisle and that people are put to a great deal of trouble in having to have their freight to and from Paspébiac, has called the attention of the government to that and pointing out that New Carlisle and Paspébiac are entitled to fair treatment and the "Admiral" should be made to stop at New Carlisle and the trains of the A. & L. I. Ry run to the end of the month mile, near Paspébiac. He has received a letter from Mon. Mr. Lieux, now in London in which the latter states that he has met the Board of the Atlantic Quebec and Western Railway and that that Company intends commencing work shortly on the line between Paspébiac and Port Daniel.

BONAVENTURE CO.

Long List of Subsidies for Public Works.

GREAT IMPROVEMENTS

Mr. Marcil Has Been Very Successful in His Good Work.

The following parishes of the county of Bonaventure figures in the estimates of the Public Works for amounts ranging from $8,000 to $25,000 for public work now in progress to be made:—Gascons; Port Daniel, Shigawake, St. Godfrey, Paspébiac, New Carlisle, Bonaventure, Caplan, New Richmond, Migouasha. The amounts all cover works for which amounts appeared in last year's estimates with the exception of New Carlisle which is a new item of $10,000 to authorize an expenditure of $20,000 for an extension to the wharf which is badly needed. All these works will involve an outlay of something like $150,000. Besides these works, since Mr. Marcil represents the county $75,000 has been expended at Maria, Cross Point, Carleton and Ruisseau LeBlanc, and $20,000 on the I. C. R. at Metapedia and St. Alexis, and $10,000 on light-houses at Port Daniel, New Richmond and Bonaventure and on bait-freezers at Bonaventure and Caplan.

The following summary of what Mr. Marcil has obtained for his large and long-neglected constituency in round numbers in less than four years is interesting. Wharves and breakwaters $225,000 Railway subsidy 118,000 To pay railway debts 46,000 Improvement I. C. R. 20,000 Light-houses and bait freezers 10,000 Settlers home Matapedia 1,500 Railway subsidy to Port Daniel 90,000 $510,500

These are the large items to which may be added a long list of other improvements in steamship and mail service, interprovincial bridge at Cross Point and Matapedia, post offices, agricultural lectures, etc.

Mr. Marcil is thankful to the administration that he has been able to do something for his large constituency which needed so much and he hopes to be able to do more during the year which he has but commenced.

THE crop conditions in the West improve daily, and there seems no longer to be doubt as to the harvest. While Manitoba and the Territories will have a good average crop, European crops experts anticipate a shortage on that continent of fully 200,000,000 bushels as compared with last year.

Long Out-standing Claims Against A. & L. S. R'y

WILL BE SETTLED.

Order in Council Passed for the Necessary Amount.—Other R. R. Matters.

Less than four years ago when Mr. Marcil was elected in Bonaventure County he undertook to do his utmost to assist the railway in his county by having the subsidy on the last thirty miles which had lapsed, revived, that the road would be finished and something saved from the subsidy for the unpaid claims for labour, board, material, and supplies.

It was a long up hill fight which he undertook but he has kept it up for more than three years under adverse and trying circumstances and he had been successful.

An order in council has been passed granting $46,800 for the payment pro rata of these claims. This is a successful termination which far exceeds Mr. Marcil's most sanguine expectations.

This will be good news to the long suffering people of the County of Bonaventure. To secure ample and adequate justice being meted out to all parties irrespective of politics. Mr. Marcil asked that Mr. Justice Carroll of the Superior Court of Bonaventure be appointed to hear parties interested at New Carlisle and make an award as to the claims to be paid and divide up the subsidy among them, the Department of Railways and Canals to act upon his recommendation.

The government thought this was a reasonable proposition in keeping with law and equity and as Judge Carroll for personal reasons was unable to accept he has been replaced by Mr. Justice Francois Langelier, of the Superior Court of Quebec, one of the brightest judges on the bench and who is currently spoken of as the coming chief justice of that court.

Mr. Marcil has been congratulated upon all sides upon the success which has crowned his efforts in the fight which he put up for the poor man. On two occasions he was addressed the House of Commons on the subject as well as the Railway Committee and besides had numerous interviews with Sir Wilfrid, Messrs. Blair, Fielding, Emmerson, Prefontaine, Fitzpatrick and practically every member of the administration.

The total subsidy to be paid for the last thirty miles of this railway from Caplan to Paspébiac according to the report of the accountant of the Department of Railways and Canals is, in round numbers $169,000 or something over $5,500 per mile. By the report of Mr. McLeod, the engineer of the department who held a most searching investigation at Mr. Marcil's request into the work done by the trustees and the portion of the subsidy to which they were entitled awarded them in round numbers $118,000 leaving $46,000 for the creditors.

It will be remembered that the subsidy act passed in 1901 specifically mentioned that the subsidy was to be used for three purposes—To put up five iron bridges $32,000; to complete the road and the remainder to go pro-rata to the claimants for labour, board and material.

It will also be remembered that when Mr. Blair was minister of Railways he issued a circular asking for claims to be sent to the Railway Department. Claims for over $200,000 were sent in. Later on Mr. Mothersill an official of the Railway Department went down to the county to report on the claims which he reduced by half, but of many questions of law arose in connection with many of the claims it has now been judged advisable to have a final pronouncement made by a judge of the High Court so that payments fair to all can be made. Mr. Marcil has received the assurance that no time will be lost in finally closing up this long drawn out chapter in the history of this famous railway. The member for Bonaventure has thanked the Premier, Mr. Emmerson and their colleagues for this act of justice to his constituents.

A large number of men are wanted and he is engaging all who apply for work, there being now a large crew working. It is expected that 800 or 1000 men will be at work there this month.

The building of this new road will create quite a stir in Campbellton and we trust to soon see it in operation.

Mr. Marcil had the pleasure last week of wiring to the promoters of the Interprovincial Navigation Company of Restigouche, Bonaventure and Gaspé that he was authorized by the Minister of Trade and Commerce to announce that the effort had been successful and that a five years' contract for a steamer service between Campbellton, Dalhousie and Gaspé had been awarded to them on condition that they put on a new boat which they promise to do beginning with next year.

COMPLAINT ABOUT WHARF.

OTTAWA, July 28.—Mr. Fowler in the House today read some letters from William Richards & Co., Campbellton, complaining that orders had been given by the Marine Department providing that vessels loading from the cars would get the choice of berths to load at. The old system that the vessel that arrived first would get the best berth had been changed. By this change the government wharf was practically placed at the disposal of one lumber firm, and Richards & Co. would have to stop shipping there.

Mr. Prefontaine said that if Mr. Fowler had given him notice he would have had the information for him, but as it was he would just have to look into it.

THE BAY SERVICE.

Contract Has Been Awarded to Interprovincial Co.

SUBSIDY $12,500.

New Company Promises to Put on a New Boat Next Spring.

(Special to Events)

The contract for the steamer service for five years commencing next season, between Campbellton and Dalhousie and Gaspé calling at landing places in Bonaventure and Gaspé Counties has been awarded to the Interprovincial Navigation Company, composed of business men of the counties of Restigouche, Bonaventure and Gaspé. Mr. Marcil was authorized by Sir Richard Cartwright, minister of Trade and Commerce to wire to that effect to Mr. F. S. Blair, secretary of the company.

The deputy minister, Mr. Parmelee, has since notified the company that to effect requiring them to furnish plans and specifications as to the steamer which they intend placing upon the route. As soon as this is done the contract will be signed. It seems understood that the company will have a steamer built in England, modern in every respect, and have her on the route next spring. This should be immensely satisfactory to the people of the Bay Chaleurs and should put an end to their troubles in this respect. The government have assured Mr. Marcil that they would be delighted to see the new company succeed in their undertaking and put in a route a splendid steamer for passengers and freight which would be a credit to all and an attraction for that popular route. The subsidy is $12,500 per annum and there is an additional subsidy of $3,000 for a service in December and January between Paspébiac and Gaspé, Point St. Peter.

The "Admiral" is running without a contract but she will be paid the portion of the subsidy rather than allow the coast to be without a service. The new company would have been given the subsidy this year if they had been able to place a boat on the route. The whole business is now in the hands of the people of the Bay Chaleurs country who will only have themselves to blame if they do not make a success of it, but they promise they will.

It now remains for the Maritime Provinces to determine whether the grade of high class attractions shall increase or diminish. The tour of "The Silver Slipper" will in a measure be largely responsible for the class of big attractions to come. Should Mr. Fisher's production meet with the business anticipated, it will be known to every first-class manager in the States, and the result will be that managers who have regarded the Provinces as an impossible venture will immediately send their best attractions, in which case the Maritime Provinces will see a class of plays not excelled even in New York, Philadelphia, Boston and other leading American cities. Much of the credit in securing "The Silver Slipper" for Nova Scotia is due to Mr. John D. Metcalfe of Halifax.

ON THE LITTLE TRACADIE

"Alderwood" and the Entertainment It Affords

How the old familiar feeling Of a fellow comes a stealing When the balmy spring announces That the fishing season's nigh— When the days are warm and mellow In the "lazy boys," a fellow Gets to itching for a chance to wade a stream and cast a fly.

With what fond anticipation, And with what elaboration Does he set about to make the trip a pleasant one? Now note There's his rod and reel and tackle Files-white miller and brown hackle And a jug of bait to wash away the cobwebs in his throat.

For the sport he makes provision— He selects with great precision Hooks and spoils and long gut leaders, and a line that's stood the test For he knows the angler's feeling When a "whopper" he is reeling And the fish escapes with broken line and hook and all the rest.

Ah, his boasts of all the catches Ere the start! See how he snatches On the moraine of departure just a little light repast.

For he's no awful hurry, Fairly quivering to scurry Where the wary troutlet hides to make his first triumphant cast.

Then he hides him where the dash is— Little streamlet comes a splashing And the waters whirl and gurgle over mossy logs and stone.

As the old electric feeling Through his tumbler rod comes stealing Why, he wouldn't exchange places with a king upon his throne?

Here we'll leave him, for I wouldn't Dare to tell you, and I couldn't If I wanted, of the "whoppers" that just nibbled bait that day.

But he'll hear home in his glory, And we'll hear the old, old story Of the "bouncin' bustin' monsters" that I caught—but got away!

The American poet who wrote those verses was describing of course, the kind of thing which happens in his own country. If the fishermen had come to New Brunswick and was lucky enough to reach the North Shore and could get to Little Tracadie river there would be a different story to tell, for the "bouncin' bustin' monsters" would be real—and not fictions of the imagination; he could have the fish in his basket, and he could have a conscience unstained by fibs—a consideration of importance, even to disciples of Ike Walton.

For a stream in which one can go out for an hour or morning or evening and bring in a couple of dozen good sized fish may fairly be considered a treasure in these days especially at a time when poachers have been netting the fish in the upper waters of the river.

The Little Tracadie river empties into the Gulf of St. Lawrence at Tracadie village, Gloucester County, and Mr. J. J. McGaffigan is the fortunate owner of the land on both sides of the stream for a long distance, commencing at a point a few miles from Tracadie. It is one of the best fishing privileges in the province, trout being plentiful, large and "gamey." There is no such word as "tail" in the lexicon of the fisherman—professional or amateur—who has the opportunity of casting a line in the deep pools, of the placid waters, or under the alder bushes which fringe its lovely banks. These alders, by the way furnish the appropriate name given Mr. McGaffigan's camp, viz., Alderwood. It is not so clear however, why Alderwood should be called a camp, for it is a most substantial house, with sleeping accommodations for twelve or fourteen persons, a dining room in which twenty can sit at table, a commodious sitting room and other necessary apartments. Few club houses in the country are equal to it in any respect. Situated on the east side of the river, close to the stream, with a beautiful background of forest and surrounded by grounds on which croquet and tennis can be played with splendid fishing, delightful opportunities for paddling, and sheltered paths for strolling, Alderwood certainly fills the bill of an ideal place for a summer holiday. Realizing this and desiring to share his enjoyment with his friends, Mr. McGaffigan year after year has filled his house with guests and given them all the comforts of home.

Neither the melancholy sound of the fog horn nor the gritty noise at the trolley line disturbs the St. John man's morning slumber on the Tracadie. He is away, too, from telegraph and telephone lines, and can commune with nature to his heart's content without neglecting any of the duties of life. Even with the thermometer indicating 90 degrees in the shade he can manage to pass the time pleasantly, for a reading club may be organized and he can listen—the St. John man is not likely to talk much—while the book of the hour is read and discussed in a cool corner. And if the weather is not too warm, drives can be taken further into the country or to the village, or the picturesque river can be explored in a canoe. And then there may be a musical evening, and a varied programme of entertainment, rounding out a day of real pleasure.

Alderwood furnishes great enjoyment, and Mr. McGaffigan generously takes care that his friends, as well as himself, have their share, for which reason there are grateful persons in a dozen towns between the Restigouche and the Bay of Fundy.

Irrecoverable Waste.

The utilization of what formerly were considered waste products and the restoration of materials from a used state to a new condition of serviceableness have in recent times been developed to such a degree of completeness that we are scarcely prepared to admit that anything is ever irrecoverably lost. In this respect we believe in the conservation of material just as we have long been taught to believe in the law of conservation of energy. From a purely practical point of view, however, some things certainly may be so completely lost to further use that their loss may well be considered absolute, and one of these is the metal lost in the wear of railway rolling stock.

For the speculator in copper values, the promoter of a copper "boom" to use the broker's cant, the copper which has gone into railway brasses need have no terror. It is not likely ever to be available again in full measure. It is dissipated so completely, in part at least, that its practical recovery is not likely to receive much serious consideration. From the best available deductions on the subject it appears that 5 per cent of the annual copper production of the world disappears in this way every year.

Flat Wheels.

"Flat wheels" growed the old retired conductor as the trolley car in which he sat went thumping along at twelve miles an hour, shaking the passengers uncomfortably at every revolution of the wheels.

"What makes flat wheels?" asked the man sitting next to the conductor.

"Fools," said the conductor. "It's this way: If a man doesn't know how to stop his car he makes a flat wheel. On the steam roads some brakemen flatten a wheel every time they put on a brake. When the wheel suddenly stops revolving and the momentum of the train carries it along the wheel slides along the track, and a flat is started. Next stop makes it worse, and so it goes until the wheel is no good. If a brakeman knows his business he never makes a flat wheel unless he has to suddenly avoid an accident. If he keeps his wheels turning slowly they don't flatten. Now, these fellows on the trolleys take no care at all, and every other car in some places has a flat wheel."

The Khrygys' First Woman.

The Khrygys of Burma are probably the only race or tribe of people that have any tradition of the origin of the human race that do not have a man or woman being in some way connected with that important event. The Khrygys genesis opens in this wise: "In the beginning of the world, after the sun, moon and stars had appeared, the earth by its own inherent power of productivity brought forth a female creature, which was called Heenem. She laid 100 eggs and hatched them in cotton wool, and from them sprang 100 human beings, the progenitors of the different races." The least that can be said of this curious belief is that it is a striking example of the multiple theory as applied to the origin of the human race.

Tools of the Ancients.

An investigator who lived during two years in a tomb at Ghaz collected evidence to prove that the tools used in working stone 4,000 years ago had jeweled cutting edges like modern tools. He says that the builders of the pyramids used solid and tubular tools, straight and crooked saws and many other tools supposed to be modern. In some specimens of granite a drill had sunk one-tenth of an inch at each revolution, indicating that the pressure was at least two tons. Nothing is known of the material of the tools. As the diamond was scarce then, it is probable that corundum was used.

Two Expensive Banquets.

The costliest meal ever served, according to history, was a supper given by Julius Verus, one of the most lavish of all the Romans of the latter days, to a dozen guests. The cost was 6,000 sesterces, which would amount to $322,500. A celebrated dinner by Vitellius, a Roman emperor of those days, to his brother Lucius cost a little more than $200,000. Suetonius says that the banquet consisted of 2,000 different dishes of fish and 7,000 different fowls besides other courses.

Shifting Eyes.

No matter of what color, beware of the eyes that have no desire to look you full in the face. There is something wrong behind the shifting, uneasy glance and the owner of such optics will prove to be unworthy of trust. Read well the signs, for if actions speak louder than words eyes speak even louder than actions, and to be forewarned is to be forearmed.

Reversing the Ages.

They found the bride in tears. "I cook pies and things that are something fierce, but George will not eat them," she sobbed miserably.

"Ah, you must first make him love you. The way to a man's stomach is through his heart," they said, for they were worldly wise.

Be Cheerful.

You find yourself refreshed by the presence of cheerful people; why not make earnest efforts to confer that pleasure on others? You will find that half the battle is gained if you will never allow yourself to say anything gloomy.

Getting Back at Him.

"I'm 'm'!" the actor when a cabbage came within an inch of his nose. "That somebody in the audience has lost his head."

The selfish, loving only themselves, are loved by no one, so selfishness is moral suicide.—De Gaston.

Myrtle.

The creeping plant we call myrtle is not a myrtle at all, but should be called by its proper name, periwinkle. Botanically it is Vinca minor. Long ago it used to be called "the ivy of the ground." Clauzet mentions it as "fresh periwinkle, rich of hew." The large blue flowers are very pretty. In Tuscany it is known as "the death flower" on account of its being so often planted upon graves, a custom which is beginning to prevail in this country. There is a pretty variegated leaved variety and also a sport with white flowers not so pretty as the blue.

A Poer.

A verbatim fragment from the law courts:—

King's Counsel (examining witness)—Did you—I know you did not, but I am bound to put it to you—on the 25th—it was not the 25th really; it was the 24th; it is a mistake in my brief—see the defendant—he is not the defendant really; he is the plaintiff—there is a counter claim, but you would not understand that—yes or no?

Witness—What?—St. James Gazette.

That Terrible Child.

The small son of a certain university professor, whose parents are deservedly popular for their tact and courteous speech, appeared at the home of a fellow professor and hesitatingly asked Mrs. — if he might look at the parlor rug. Permission was of course granted, and Mrs. — felt some surprise to see the little fellow stop over the rug and stare silently for some half minute. He straightened himself up, and meeting her wondering expression, said triumphantly:—

"It doesn't make me sick!"

Work For the Stomach.

For the average healthy man I think there is something to be said in favor of a good meal even if a trifle heavy now and then. I believe it is a fact that the human stomach, although it is not a gizzard, like that of a goose, still does its work better when slightly stretched, just as the lungs work better with deep inhalations induced by bodily exercise in the open air.—London Telegraph.

A Leveler.

Fond Parent (to young hopeful)—Unless you keep your face and hands clean, your teeth brushed and look neat the children of nice people won't have anything to do with you; they won't play with you.

Young Hopeful—I bet if I had a goat and a wagon they would.

Mistaken.

"I suppose you thought you were fishing when you caught me?" growled the man who is always disagreeable.

"Well, I used to think so," sighed his little wife, "but now I know I must have been bear hunting."

Some folks are like good natured dogs. If you pat them on the head they will jump all over you.—Schoolmaster.

USE IT RIGHT

THE question, what is the best use of Sunday? implies that the day has many actual or possible uses. Exchange.

THE best use of Sunday will include some, but not all of these 'actual' or proposed uses. There is the most obvious use of Sunday, as a day of rest. Even the unbeliever values Sunday as a day when he can escape from the office, the shop, the mill, the teacher's desk, on the weekly round of worry, although unfortunately he does not so generally take pains to see that his own immunity from Sunday toil or care is not purchased at the price of another man's excessive labor. It is worth a great deal, from a physical and hygienic point of view, to intermit the usual routine once in seven days even if a considerable amount of activity of a religious kind, quite wearing in its way is substituted for the secular service of the week. Probably some Christian overwork on the Sabbath enjoying in which is practically a religious dissipation but the ideal use of the day provided for a due amount of rest for tired exhausted nerves. Yet it is not necessary to slumber and snore all day Sunday in order to fulfill its function as a rest day. Some overlook the resting as others overlook the religious hustling. The golden man will be observed by all intelligent people of religious disposition who seek to use the Sabbath in the very best way.

A New York paper wants to know why the pulp industry in New Brunswick is not a success. Why indeed?

SUCH JABBERING DOESN'T COUNT

The postmaster general has a delightful scheme to prevent the circulation of newspapers containing accounts of "marvelous, extravagant or improbable cures" from proprietary medicines. This is a noble idea, but what postal official shall decide whether a cure is marvellous or extravagant or improbable?

Thus closes the St John Sun attempt to ridicule a very sensible proposal. The Sun knows probably better than we do the value of an innovation of this kind. But it is useless to expect an honest opinion from a party hack.

The Sons of Scotland of Woodstock, Ont. have adopted a resolution to the effect that it was an insult to Scotchmen to exploit Lord Dundonald for party purpose. Evidently there are some sensible and clever Scotchmen still left in the liberal camp.

PERMANENT SIDEWALKS

Superintendent Waddell informs the Advocate the total cost of the walk now laid is $50. Of this sum the property holders are responsible for half—Newcastle Advocate.

That's not at all bad! According to the Advocate 120 feet of sidewalk was laid in Newcastle and the total cost was only $90. Half of this sum is contributed by the abutter. Newcastle's scheme must appeal to the economical as well as to the public spirited and progressive. It is a scheme which is being carried out by other towns too. A vast majority of municipalities have done experimenting with temporary sidewalks. Let us soon have permanent sidewalks so that we may save money and enhance the general appearance of the town.

AS TO REUNIONS

The Toronto Sun, in reporting the reunion of one of the old families of Canada directs attention to the wholesome moral effect of such gatherings. Of one clan, a member said to the hundreds of representatives gathered at his home a few years ago—"None of the Trulls has ever brought disgrace on the family." Last week near Toronto a speaker at another reunion said "I have not yet met a Reesor who failed to do credit to the connection. 'We are not inclined', as a rule, to set much store by a morality and efficiency bolstered up by family pride. Yet we find the 'Old Home Week' growing in favour here in New Brunswick and in New England too, the 'squattling' ground of so many North Shore people and it is possible that the prospect of meeting a great number of relatives at some old New Brunswick or Nova Scotia homestead might act as a brace to a weak brother tempted to forget an honest ancestry. There is no reason, at any rate why the Keesors or the Smiths should not as Goldwin Smith suggested at the Toronto reunion serve to bring nations closer together. Blood is thicker than water? With ten thousand kin of the Reesors in Pennsylvania and four thousand in Canada, a gathering of the two sections would do more for the principle of reciprocity of sentiment, if not of trade than most town or city Boards of Trade or Chambers of Commerce.

BAD TIME TO RAISE IT

The lumbermen of this province have lately had three very prosperous seasons. The one drawing to a close is unfortunately not one of them. In fact the present season has brought the reaction and a terrific slump is on. In spite of this fact the lumbermen are compelled to pay an eight dollar mileage whereas throughout the three prosperous seasons the government exacted only a four dollar mileage. There seems to be inconsistency here. At a meeting of the Provincial lumbermen the other day strong obligations were made to the doubling of the mileage in the face of a severe depression. In our opinion the lumbermen are quite right. The government should keep tabs on the market and raise the mileage when the lumbermen are doing a brisk and prosperous business and not when they are struggling tooth and nail for a profit which can only be a beggarly one at its best.

A TWO SIDED MAN

"Von Plehve is dead! An ulcer has been cut out of the rottenest government in the world."

Dr. Antonette Koribow, organizer of the Russian Women's Socialist club of Boston made the above exclamation when apprised of the news of the death of Russia's Minister of the Interior. The spectacle of a person glorying in the death of another is a sad one to behold at any time. Von Plehve may have been a very bad man. Like all great men he had many enemies. And to have enemies in Russia usually means exile or assassination. Von Plehve is said to have been the lash of Siberia. He is also said to have been responsible for the denationalization of Finland and it is even asserted that the infamous Kishineff massacres were perpetrated with his knowledge if not at his instigation. Perhaps so. One thing is certain however, Von Plehve had a clear cut purpose in life. It was the protection of the Russian oligarchy from a horde of financial upstarts. He realized that his purpose could be accomplished in no other way than by the adoption of stern and drastic measures. He realized that he could not parley or reason with people who were "hell bent"

—to use a vulgar term—on the downfall of the Russian monarchy and he was therefore responsible for violent deeds, which perhaps were blessings in disguise. In a word he seems to have prolonged the life of the present government of Russia despotic through that government may be. It is doubtful if he deserved the appellation of "the evil genius of Russia." On the other hand Von Plehve is said to have been the leader of the war party. If this is so he was a curious mixture of the sane and the insane. But nothing that he accomplished or left unaccomplished justifies his assassination.

The Boston Post declares that the celebration of the murder of Minister Von Plehve which filled Cooper Union in New York last Monday evening was un-American. In the words of Cicero "know thyself."

Editor's Mail

Dear Sir: As there appears to be some offence taken by one Robert Ferguson from my letter of July 21st, which appeared in the issue of July 21st, I wish to say that the second part of that letter was not intended for anyone in particular, but stating facts of what happened on several occasions. Yours truly, HELEN MOTT

LITTLE CASCADIA.

What has happened to our little Cascadia correspondent?

We notice quite a few tourists have arrived to our flourishing little village and seem to be enjoying the warm weather.

Mrs. Braidwaite and family of Hamilton, Ont. are spending the summer at the Cascadia House.

Professor and Mrs. de Pierpont of Grog, N. Y. are spending the summer at Belle View Cottage and are delighted with the beautiful scenery of New Richmond.

Quite a sensation was created here on Saturday evening when three gentlemen from Montreal: Messrs. DeBellefroid, Reed and Nichol arrived at Belle View Cottage in their automobile. After spending a few days here, they intend going down the coast to Gaspe Basin. Belle View Cottage seems to be well patronized this summer.

Miss Dolly More and little niece and Miss Phelan of Montreal, were the guests of Mrs. Z. Cye last week.

Miss Emma McKenzie and her cousin Isabel McKenzie from Ont., left last week for Port Daniel to visit friends.

Miss Laura Cye from New York is home on a visit to her parents. Some of our farmers have commenced haying and we trust they will be favored with plenty of sunshine.

It rumors are true wedding bells will ring in the near future.

PICKINGS FROM FICTION.

Life is short—avoid causing yawns.—Eleanor Glyn in "The Damsel and the Sage."

A man's conscience is the best barometer of his ability.—Owen Kildare in "My Mamie Rose."

Women's counsel may not be worth much, but he who despoth it is not wiser than he should be.—Amelia E. Barr in "The Black Shilling."

Human nature is not always at its highest level, and heroic sacrifices arise only from heartfelt motives.—Sir George Trevelyan in "The American Revolution."

Life is the only real counselor. Wisdom unfiltered through personal experience does not become a part of the moral tissues.—Edith Wharton in "Sanctuary."

Do not attempt to do a thing unless you are sure of yourself, but do not relinquish it simply because some one else is not sure of you.—Stewart Edward White in "The Forest."

Don't be fooled by a cheer or by a crowd. Cheers are nothing but a breeze, as for a crowd, no matter who you are, there would always be a bigger turnout to see you hanged than to shake your mitt.—Alfred Henry Lewis in "The Boss."

The Hedgehog.

The hedgehog runs the roads in England freely. He is a quaint little fellow, our hedgehog, having far more intelligence than people give him credit for. It is curious, as you stand perfectly still in the middle of the road, to see him come running along, then stopping to sniff and whine and examine the high, strange object that hardly breathes lest he startle the little creature. Then, with a gentle grunt, he will pass you by. A very low yet decided "unt he gives, and he whines as well."

Some Salvation Army Hymns.

The Christmas War Cry contains the following among other eddies culled from corps reports:

Lieut. P.—sang a wondrous pretty solo.

We mean to serve God to the bitter end.

"We finished up with a hallelujah whine-up."

The people drank in the Bible truths from the writer's lips.

The Lieutenant was taken seriously ill with the quins.

A little boy sang in good faith, "He taught me how to wash and pray."

"The audience was so attentive you could hear a pin drop on the floor."

After a hasty supper the Brigadier went at it again, belching forth words of love and fire.

A soldier (a brother) prayed, when a sister was at the penitent form: "O Lord, kindle a fire in her heart, and pour water upon it that it may bring forth fruit."

A Matter For Wonder.

Mrs. Peck (who has returned from Niagara) stood speechless.

Mr. Peck—Wonderful, wonderful! (To himself)—I wonder how Niagara did it!

A Tough Rawhide Story.
A Hopkins man is an early day, relates that most voracious of all Misouri newspapers, the Hopkins Journal.
hauled lots of cord wood and used rawhide harness on his teams. Rawhide, we all know, expands when wet and contracts on drying out. Well, this man was hauling an exceptionally big load one day when a thunderstorm overtook him just as he reached a long hill leading to his home. He was walking beside his team that he might pay close attention to them and did not notice what the rain was doing for his rawhide harness until the top of the long hill was reached, when to his utter amazement the wagon stood at the bottom of the hill, the rawhide tugs being fairly stretched into fiddle strings. He was puzzled for a moment, but just then the sun came out, and a happy idea found lodgment in his fertile brain. He unhitched the team, fastened the tugs securely around a big tree and went in to dinner. When he returned the sun had caused the rawhide to contract sufficiently to bring the wagon up that steep hill with a momentum that smashed both front wheels, when it came in contact with the tree around which the tugs had been fastened.

Interviews and Interviewers.

How the Newspaper Paragapher Jares With the Worlds Famous Men.

When "Ryan" and I reached the hotel we went straight to McCreery's room.

"Mr. Ryan, I understand that you made a statement here to-day to the effect that the Dominion Iron and Steel Company has been absorbed by the Morgan Trust," began McCreery in his slow southern drawl as soon as Ryan had been presented to him.

"I did," Ryan quickly returned. "Will you tell me on what authority you made that assertion?"

"I am the personal representative of J. Pierpont Morgan."

"I don't believe it," said McCreery looking straight into the eyes of the supposed New Yorker.

Naturally Ryan waxed indignant. The conversation which followed was brief and to the point. It was then that Ryan showed what he was made of and I must admit that I felt he had the best of McCreery when he picked up his hat and hastened to the door with these words uttered in a sharp inclusive tone.

"Mr. McCreery, if this is all you have sent for me for, our interview is at an end. Good night."

I followed Ryan outside and from his manner I judged that he blamed me entirely for disagreeable encounter with McCreery and believed that the whole affair had been a put up job.

I made it clear to him, however that McCreery's attitude was entirely unexpected.

That night Ryan was dined and wine at one of the clubs and on the following morning boarded the express and gave it out that he was going to Halifax to transact some legal business in connection with the big deal. He engaged the services of a leading Sydney barrister. This gentleman was to join him in Halifax on the following day and I was also to go on and get further details of the absorption.

Well, to boil down my narrative, Ryan disappeared at Truro and as far as I know has not been seen since by anyone who encountered him in Sydney.

Needless to say his announcement was given an emphatic denial on the following day. But I was slightly under the impression that the denial might have been given out sooner and it looked a little bit as though Mr. Ryan had been acting in the interest of the directors of the Sydney Company for the day following the stock of Dominion Iron soared rather high. However, this is a mere conjecture. It has never been definitely ascertained what Ryan's motive was. Perhaps he was only springing a joke. If so he came rather a long distance to do so.

DOUGLASTOWN

The picnic, which was given by some of our young people on Wednesday was a grand success. The weather was not too hot nor too cool, and many were heard to remark "it is just right!" The tea was very refreshing and was served by Miss Alice Hoblaug and Miss Helena Cleary. The afternoon was spent in rowing, fishing and playing games, and the evening in dancing and singing. The party separated with regret toward the "sea" side, hours. The S.S. "Admiral," arrived here early on Thursday morning. The passengers were: Mrs. Patridge, Mr. Gail, Mr. Charlie Kennedy and Mr. Gavin Kennedy. They will spend a few weeks with their friends in Douglas town.

We are delighted to note that a new addition is being built to the store of Goodman and Nadler, who commenced business here last August.

Rev. Father Gillis, accompanied by the Sisters of the Holy Rosary, will leave on Sunday for Kimouski where they will spend a few weeks.

Although we did not have any rain on St. Stephen's day, we have had delightful showers during the past week. It is hoped that this will improve the crops, which are doing good.

The fishermen had the pleasure of making a good catch during the last few days.

Always the same—always the best! Kendrick's Liniment will cure—every bottle guaranteed.

ESCUMINAC.

We are glad to welcome back to our midst Rev. Mr. Anderson of Sumnerville, Mass., who has come to spend his summer vacation here.

Miss Andrew of Campbellton is the guest of Mrs. Thomas Bailey.

Miss Bessie Parker is visiting Miss Katie McKenzie.

Mrs. McLeod and family of Springhill, N. S., are visiting friends and relatives here.

Mrs. Edward Sullivan and Master Lindsay of Campbellton are the guests of Mrs. Robert Dickie.

Mrs. McLatchey and family of Campbellton, accompanied by Miss Saverly are spending the summer months here.

Mrs. J. T. Reid and little daughter are spending a few weeks at her old home.

Mr. D. T. Edwards is visiting friends in Campbellton and Metapedia.

Mr. and Mrs. James Mann spent Sunday at Oak Bay.

Hay-making is very backward owing to the rainy weather.

An Automobile passed through, on Saturday.

A noted Horseman's Experience.

Mr. Antoine Wendling, owner of Deveras 211-34, and proprietor of the Clifton House, Brockville, says no eminent compares with Nerviline for general use around the stable. For strains, sprains, swellings, internal pains and especially for affections of the whirling bone Nerviline is unequalled. Mr. Wendling believes Nerviline is indispensable as a horse liniment; it has strength, penetrating power and works thoroughly. Every horse and stock owner should use Nerviline. Sold in large 50c bottles.

"Oh, Manchuria belongs to China. All that we shall seek is to secure an international guarantee that it shall always belong to China, and that China shall never hand it over to any other power."

"And the Russian railway?"

"Oh, that will be made international and strictly and exclusively commercial, with its access to the sea at Port Arthur."

"I see; you propose to reproduce in the far East the settlement made in the near East after the Crimean War. Korea Japanized as Egypt is Anglicized, without annexation and an international guarantee of the integrity of the Chinese Empire in Manchuria. The railway is to be the Bosphorus and Port Arthur the Constantinople of the far east, with free access for trade, but hermetically closed for all purposes of war. And do you think the Russians will ever agree to that?"

"Not willingly, of course," said the baron. "But possibly. Who can say?"

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea.

"About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and castor oil, as directed with each bottle, and a cure is certain. For sale by all druggists."

NEW RICHMOND.

A very pretty wedding took place on the 26th inst. in St. Andrew's church at three o'clock in the afternoon, when Jennie, daughter of Mr. John Doddridge was united in marriage to Mr. Irving Aubrey Willet both of New Richmond. The nuptial service was performed by Rev. J. F. McCurdy. As the bride party entered the church the choir sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden."

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in cream voile with silk and point lace trimmings. She was attended by Miss Alice Willet, who looked very pretty in pink nuns veiling. Immediately after the ceremony the guests repaired to the bride's home where a reception was held. After the large company of guests had taken of refreshments they drove to the groom's home where a pleasant evening was spent. The bride received many useful and valuable presents and we all join in wishing them bon voyage through life.

We are all pleased to see Mrs. P. McNicol in town on a visit seeing friends.

Miss Laugh arrived on Saturday. We are pleased to welcome her back. We are sorry to say Mr. Win Gilker of this town was taken suddenly ill on Sabbath last and there was little hope of his recovery.

An English service was held last Sabbath at the house of Mrs. Johnstone; Black Cape and quite a number of New Richmond were over.

Mr. H. Louder from Toronto is here the guest of Dr. Thornton.

The yacht Puritan is in harbor and we expect Mrs. Harvey to give us a picnic shortly.

We are glad to see our town advanced. Mr. R. S. Montgomery in putting up a nice little cottage. It looks suspicious.

Miss Eva Brash arrived home on Wednesday looking very well after an absence of two years.

Dr. DeWolfe created a profound impression by the scholarly manner in which he presented his subject, holding his auditor's in a grip of intense interest for over an hour. The speaker possesses the enviable faculty of interesting an audience from the start, and he was very cleverly presented, what might under ordinary circumstances be dry facts, in such a manner as to hold unflinching the interest of the lay mind.

There is little doubt that these lectures are doing a great deal of good in the community, and many lives might have been spared had work of this sort been undertaken several years ago.

The Rev. Mr. Sutherland of the Presbyterian church and the Rev. Mr. Wilson of the Church of England occupied the platform and the former voiced the sentiments of the large audience when he thanked the lecturer for his brilliant effort, and urged those present to follow carefully the suggestions laid down in the course of the address.

It is probable that the lecture will be repeated at other points along the coast.

A meeting is being held tonight to arrange for a cordial welcome to the distinguished prelate.

The Bachelor's Annual Clam Bake was held at Caron Point on Tuesday night, August 2nd. A very large number were present including our celebrated trick performers contortionists who jollied the crowd till luncheon was announced, when ample justice was done toward the eatables by those in attendance. The whole affair was a decided success.

Mrs. Arthur Berry of Campbellton is visiting at her home in Bathurst.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Melanson have taken a cottage at the Points for the month of August.

The guides are now at work fitting up their camps preparatory to their fall hunts and those who have just returned from the wilds report having seen plenty of large game.

The weather looks a little more settled and consequently the farmers are making a rush at haying and the humming of the mower can be heard in the distance from dawn till twilight. If there are no showers this week a large quantity of hay will be well saved.

Mrs. John McKinnon of Montreal accompanied by two of her children is visiting her people here. It is stated that she is negotiating to sell out their Bathurst property before returning to Montreal.

Mr. Sam McKenna of Montreal who is always a welcome visitor here, is in town for a few weeks renewing acquaintances.

Lumbermen Meet Government.

PERCE, Aug. 2.—The local government tonight held a meeting with Tweedie, Lablouis, Farris and Sweeney present and received a large delegation of representative lumbermen who requested a reduction of the stumpage from $8 to $4.

The existing depression in the lumber market was urged as the reason for the proposed reduction. Among those present were Henry Hilyard, Kilgour Shives, David Richard, T. M. Burns, Frank Curran, W. B. Snowball, Allan Ritchie, J. D. Irving, Hon. J. P. Burchill, S. H. White and C. T. White. The delegation was given an attentive hearing and the government promised careful consideration. THE HUMAN ELEMENT.

A Suggestion to Canadians in the Preservation of Historical Data.

Lord Rosebery, in his address to the Scottish History Society the other day, urged strongly a matter which Canadians might do well to consider in regard to the preservation of what he calls the "human element in historical records."

He laid stress upon the necessity of a society which would not only keep record of ancient charters and official documents, but which would take the greatest pains to educate people generally to believe that old diaries, account books and private letters were the best possible records of the society of the period, in which they were written. Now, I do not know how it appears to other Canadians, but I do know that from a personal standpoint, writes Lally Bernard, The Globe's London correspondent, I have found it almost impossible to preserve what reason tells me will be valuable documents from the point of view of the social historian.

Our modern Canadian houses are very deficient in attic, store rooms, and one cannot with any satisfaction keep letters or papers in a cellar, again, and in the case of "rubbish" what is in truth valuable material for the scribe of the future, and this tendency is growing rather than diminishing in Canada. The younger generation find but little interest in the correspondence of their forefathers, whom they know little about—for ten to one their parents have migrated from the old land to the new, and in the rapid march of events about them closely written epistles in faded ink represent but little to the modern iconoclast.

There are, of course, still in existence families who are endowed with that form of eccentricity which enables them to see the accumulation of a family correspondence in the light of historical record, but they are few and far between. We write and receive many scraps of letters, which we deem of no possible importance, and doubtless waste paper baskets were unheard of things in the days when postage was enormous and lucifer matches a luxury, so the paper on which the letters were written was preserved to be used for "spilling" to light candles with, or else the letters went the round of the family circle before they were tucked away in one of those roomy, old-fashioned desks which were the treasure chests of many a writer in the beginning of the century.

Everyone is very anxious to know what has become of Lord Howton's collection of "Dizzy's" letters. These are, of course, priceless from an historical point of view. But they were doubtless left the world, which delights in characteristic touches, much less in the letters of a statesman, terms of some Eton boy of that period to his relatives and friends. Canadian may remember the letters of an English interpreter student from Pekin at the time of the Boxer troubles. One or two were published in The Times and the parents of young Townsend, the boy in question, after the sad death of their son from typhoid, published for private circulation the whole series of letters written to them from the time the lad went to China, via Vancouver, until that last and letter, received after the trouble was over and he was on his way to Japan, where he died. It was very difficult to have access to that little volume. I sincerely hope that it may one day be given as a record of boyish heroisms and pluck to the "boy world" at large.

If Lord Rosebery could see that book I fancy he would deem it of extraordinary value as a bit for preservation in the archives of historical material. Even to-day, when the peroration has been one of months, rather than years, one feels their graphic, lucid power, in contrast to official reports.

The Canadian Historical Society has an educational work of great magnitude to perform in inculcating among all classes of Canadians some method of keeping letters of all sorts and kinds, and in having that advantage to say which is worthy of preservation.

"Operations of 'The Shiners'." The lumber industry along the Upper Ottawa was developed very rapidly during the thirties and early forties, and there was much competition among the operators to secure the finest pines and those most accessible to the streams and lakes.

In those days the only patent to a timber limit necessary was a gang of fighting men, and the operator who had the most formidable men got the timber. It was in 1868 that the "Shiners" became the terror of all lumbermen and lodge-keepers, who were not on friendly terms with their employer, Walter Beckett. Beckett was then the chief lumberman along the Muskoka, and had evidently determined to retain the status. At Bytown he employed a man named Gillespie, a redoubtable bully, to hire his men, and before a man was engaged he was obliged to fight Gillespie, who was thus enabled to judge the portliness of his applicant. Only once was Gillespie known to have been thrashed, when he met his Waterloo at the hands of James Reilly, a strapping young Irishman, whom he once engaged, and who afterwards became the boss bully of the Beckett gang. The operations of the "Shiners" did not long continue; civilization and the strong arm of the law were close at their heels, and they were soon forced to abandon their tactics. Many of them afterwards settled and became good citizens.

Powerful Argument. Kate—You know Nellie has always said that she would never marry Tom, and yet when he brought around that solitary diamond ring that she is wearing now she accepted him right away.

Mildred—Yes, she told me the next day that his argument that he had had a very convincing ring.

EXCHANGING BANK PAPER.

How It Is Done in the New Toronto Clearing House Which Was Recently Opened in That City.

The New Toronto Clearing House in the building of the Bank of British North America, corner of Yonge and Wellington streets, was opened for business on a recent morning in the last month of 1903. The clearing house is situated on the first floor above the ground floor, and is a handsome, spacious apartment 49 by 45 feet. The room is well lighted by large windows and the furnishings are all done in finely polished quarter-oak, the wall panelings being of oak, and green and red plaster, and the floor of polished wood. In a semi-circle round the room are arranged the desks for the various banks, while near the centre is the desk for the manager, Mr. G. W. Yarker. Provision has been made for twenty-four banks, but at present only nineteen of these desks are in use, as there are only that number of banks in the city.

Four massive pillars, fifteen feet high, support the ceiling; and the carving of the woodwork above the entry, and of the panelings, is very artistic.

Here is how the system is worked: Each bank is represented by two clerks—one, a messenger, who brings with him the cheques, drafts, etc., that his bank has received the day previous on the other bank, which are called the "exchange," and are assorted for each bank and placed in envelopes. The messengers take their places in a line outside of the semi-circle of desks, each opposite the desk assigned to his bank, while on the opposite side of each desk is a clerk of the bank represented by that desk.

The hour for making the exchange or general delivery is 10 a.m. Just previous to that time the manager takes his position at an elevated desk near the centre of the chamber and calls the "outs to order." At the stroke of 10 each messenger moves forward to the desk next his own and delivers the envelopes containing the cheques, etc., for the bank represented by that desk to the clerk on the inside. The messenger immediately passes to the next desk, delivering the exchanges for the bank represented by that desk, and so on until he has made the circuit of the room, and reached his own desk, the starting point, having delivered to each bank the exchanges he had for it, and consequently delivering his entire exchange for all the banks. Every other messenger does the same, the whole moving on at the same time. In other words, each messenger has visited every bank and delivered to each everything his bank has received the day previous from it, consequently the entire exchanges are delivered, while each clerk on the inside has, of course, received from every other bank the amounts each had against his bank.

Besides the time saved by the clearing house method over the old system, each bank is enabled to know the exact balance for or against it at once, as the clerks after receiving the envelopes containing the cheques, etc., make an entry of the aggregate amount from each bank, the difference between the total amount they have received, and the total amount brought by them being the balance either due to or from the clearing house to each bank.

Few men in the Province know north British Columbia better than Mr. James Findlay, and he only claims to have a surface knowledge, so vast is the country. He inclines to the belief that Kitimat would make the best terminus for the G. T. P. Railway. Owing to the readiness with which it can be approached, both by rail and water, it seems to him a better site than Port Simpson, moreover, it is farther away from those now famous United States islands in Portland Canal. At present the chief thing about Kitimat is its Indian reserve.

Mr. Findlay has been told that a line could be put through from Kitimat Arm to the rich Bulkley Valley, without heavy grades. The valley is a beautiful one, well timbered and easily adaptable for agricultural purposes. The Bulkley Valley is, says Mr. Findlay, well mineralized in copper and gold. Intending settlers have been about Kitimat for a long time, and a good deal of land there within the past few years. From Bella Coola a fine valley runs up into the famous gold country, comprehensively called Omineca, while farther on is the celebrated Chilcotin ranching country. For a railway the grade would be easy. The chief settlement has been by a colony of Norwegians, who were taken there during Col. Baker's incumbency of the Provincial Secretaryship. They have already broken considerable ground, and are raising cattle and grain.

Principal Story in Montreal. Montreal many years ago had a tall, handsome young Scotchman as assistant minister of St. Andrew's Church. His name was Robert Story. To-day he is Principal Story, of Glasgow University, and the other day he was telling the young lady students of the commercial capital of Scotland that their mental culture will not expand over reading the novels of Anne Swan and Mrs. Henry Wood. He is equally famed in Scotland for his acid wit and the presence, full, white bearded, with handsome flashing black eyes, the Principal carries himself with the mien of an old-time cardinal. In debate in the Established General Assembly he is feared for the keenness of his replies, couched in irony which no member can equal. An example of his withering retort may be given. An officer in the suite of the Lord High Commissioner had, in the lobby of the Assembly, accidentally entangled his spur in the Principal's robe and tore it. Profuse apologies followed, but the Principal was not to be placated. Starting at the delinquent with his haughtiest gaze, Principal Story jolly remarked: "An officer of Volunteers, I presume?"

How Cigar Dealers Lose Custom. "This may be a good cigar," said a man as he puffed at it, standing for a moment in the shop, "but I don't seem to relish it. Guess my stomach's a trifle off."

"That's just the way it is," remarked the philosophic tobacconist. "About 200 persons come into this store every day. Some of them spend $10 a week with me for cigars, and others don't spend $2. I lose a certain amount of this trade every week not because I keep inferior goods, but when smokers get a bit out of condition and the cigars don't taste as good as usual they will blame the cigars, and off they go to another shop.

"But it works about the same way with all. My dissatisfied customers go to some other man's store, and other men's dissatisfied customers come to me. So it even up in the end. Out of every ten strangers who drop in here for the first time to buy a cigar I know by experience that I can count on one or two of them becoming regulars."

To Lose Flesh. To reduce the flesh one must have the fortitude to give up a number of the pleasant things of life, for a time at least, and many of them for good and all. One must, first of all, become an early riser and not sleep longer than seven hours. Before finishing the morning toilet exercise for twenty minutes with Indian clubs, dumbbells or wands. For breakfast take no cereal, coffee or milk, but tea, not too strong, fruit and toast. Sugar is a fat producer; so also are bread and all farinaceous dishes. Not more than half a glass of liquid should be taken at any meal. For luncheon partake of stewed or raw fruit, a salad dressed with vinegar and oil, green vegetables and a chop. For dinner the bill of fare can comprise fish, mutton, lamb, lean beef, vegetables, especially tomatoes and beans, stale bread and a light dessert.

A Real London Fog. A recent example of London fog was the cause of some queer blunders. A Baywater bus got nearly as far as Camden Town when the driver thought he was headed for Portland Station. Horace knew their way better.

A wagon drawn by two horses belonging to a firm of grocers in Coventry was left by the man in charge just outside Rugby, ten miles from their destination. The animals started off and were quickly lost to sight in the fog. They reached home without mishap, although the fog was so thick that objects could not be distinguished a few yards away. The driver, who had to find his way on foot, did not arrive until five hours later.
