NATIVES OF ALASKA FAST DYING OUT!

One-Third of the Residents in One Section Passed Away Last Year.

Washington, D.C., Oct 8.—The rapid decline of the native population of the Aleutian chain of islands is told by a report just received by the marine and steamship service from F. J. Thornbury, its first surgeon at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, The report says that formerly there were 120 villages on the islands, with a native population variously estimated at from 1,500 to 2,500. Now in the same district there are only ten villages and 1,000 inhabitants, exclusive of whites; 3,300 are Creoles (mixed breeds) with Russians and Creoles (mixed breeds) with Russians and Creoles (mixed breeds), with Russians and other nationalities, and 700 Aleuts. The report says: "Last year Unalaska had 353 inhabitants, 16, or nearly one-third, of whom died. According to data obtained from the Russian priest of the Greek Catholic Church, who has the only morcatholic Church, who has the only moltality records kept in the village, there being no health officer of even physician, 30 deaths were ascribed to 'cold,' 24 to consumption, 33 to measles, and 7 to old age; 5 were drowned. The remarkable mortality from measles among the natives in Alaska during the past year appears to in Alaska during the past year appears to be due to the bad sanitary environment and lack of precaution against exposure. On the Kuskakwin and in other sections of the mainland, from one-half to two-thirds of the natives died, and many were left unburied in the mud houses where they lived, surviving members immediately deserting the place, which would often contain from one to a dozen natives, living regardless of family relations. As many as a half-dozen bodies have been seen by prospectors in a single hovel, and numerous dead bodies were seen lying about on the ground, partly eaten by the foxes. There are numerous instances of whole villages being deserted, the few surviving natives having a superstition about staying where so many of their number had died.

ON THE FARM.

There's many a successful business man who sits in his city office and lets his mind slip back to his boyhood days on the farm. How good it felt to live! What an appetite he had! How good everything tasted! How sound his sleep was! How eagerly he rose with the sun and raced with him through the long day. And now he's a successful man. But he can't sleep. He doesn't enjoy his food. His stomach is weak, his nerves are shaken, and he no more rises with the sun to race eagerly against him. His vitality is low and now and again his heart seems to plunge in his breast as if it would break loose. That's the price he has paid for success.

The mischief of the whole business is that he buys "tablets" of one sort or another to "aid" his digestion, and indulges in bromides and other nerve stimulants, just to hold himself together, and wonders why he seems to be getting

The whole trouble with such a man generally lies in what is called a "weak" stomach. The food he eats does not nourish him because it is only partially digested and assimilated. No man can be stronger than his stomach, because it is in the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition that strength is made from the food which is eaten.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the strength of the body in the only way strength can be restored, by food which is perfectly digested and assimilated, when the diseased stomach (with its allied organs) is cured of disease. It is a blood-making, body-build-ing medicine, inasmuch as blood is made from food and the body is built up by blood. It is not a stimulant, containing neither alcohol or any other narcotic.

NO OTHER DOCTOR FOR ME.

"Last spring, early, I wrote you my feelings and condition," says Mr. A. J. Vanderwater, 873 West Division Street, Chicago, Ill., "and you advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical west Division Street, Chicago, Ili., "and you advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery (a few bottles), and then write you how I felt. I am happy to say I am getting to feel fine. In all I have taken six bottles of the 'Discovery' and four or five vials of the little 'Pellets.' They have done me worlds of good. All my friends say: 'Vanderwater, how well you are looking. What in the world have you been doing?' I tell them I have been doctoring with Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. 'Why,' they say, 'you haven' been there?' No, I say, but I took his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and his little 'Pellets.' These medicines have wrought the great change in me. From a slow mope of a man that could hardly crawl, tired and sick all the time, and could do no work; to a man who can work, sleep, eat, and feel fine, and that tired feeling is all going away. I am very thankful that I wrote to Dr. Pierce. His 'Golden Medical Discovery' and his little liver 'Pellets' have almost made a new man of me. I feel young as I did at thirty years. No other doctor for me, only Dr. Pierce."

HAD GIVEN UP HOPE.

"I will express my thanks to you for the kindly advice you have given me in regard to my case." writes Miss Carrie J. Wharton, of Dunavant, Spottsylvania Co., Virginia. "When I wrote to you last spring I was in a terribbe state of health. Had given up all hope of ever being better. I spit up my food all the time and it seemed sour as vinegar. I would have a bad sick headache every other week; in fact, my head never felt clear, and I was perfectly broken down under the strain of losing my food constantly. I had read a great deal in your books of what your medicine had done for others, so I wrote you and got your advice. Bought two bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the first dose I fook I felt better. When I had finished taking the two bottles the spitting up had entirely stopped and my head was much better. I believe your medicines are inst what you have said of them.

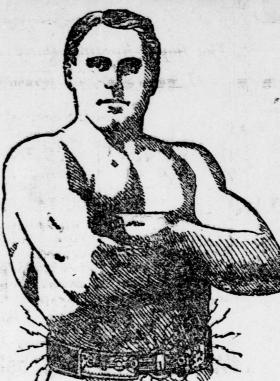

"I carefully read the books you sent me and shall always speak a good word for the 'Golden Medical Discovery' whenever I have a chance.

"You can publish this if you think it worth while. It might induce some one else to try your medicine who was suffering as I did. It was by the testimonials of others that I was induced to try it. I shall always rely upon your advice and feel safe to do as you tell me."

IMAGINARY GARDENING

God Planted a Garden, and Indeed It is the Purest of Human Pleasures.

[Lord Rosebery.]

If I might parody what I see was said by an Irish judge, lately deceased, "I yield to no one in ignorance of scientific agriculture." But then I am not sure that this is not one of the cases in which the ignorant do not have almost the best of it.

I admit when I walk with an expert throught a garden, I feel an ignorance and humiliation which are almost abysmal, but I may be happier than and shortcomings in the garden, and as he shows you hothouses he is stunned by the recollection of superior hothouses belonging to a rival, and he is always haunted by the recollection of orchids which he does not pos-On the other hand, the ignoramus

If he sees a weed, which would distress an expert, if he sees groundsel growing where it should not grow, he thinks only of his canary, and as for orchids! when he asks his soul and his conscience, he infinitely prefers a There is another way in which we gnorant people can enjoy gardens. There is a literature of hortfculture. Publishers will tell you there is nothgardening, but the books that I love best on gardening were published at a time at which one may safely say that their publishers did not care whether they brought in a profit or

There is, for example, Lord Bacon's essays, which contain one exquisite essay on gardening, which sums up in a sentence the best that can be said on gardens, and if you will allow me I will read the sentence. "God Almighty," he said, "planted a garden and, indeed, it is the purest of human pleasures. It is the greatest refreshment to the spirits of man, without which buildings and palaces are but gross handiwork." You can nothing better of gardens than We ignoramuses can derive pleasure not merely from the contempla tion of gardens but from the reading of books about gardens. When people are much worried with business I do not know a better receipt to clear and soothe their minds -except possibly the use of the herb tobacco-than taking up one of two books. One is a gardening bookbook about gardens, which, when you shut your eyes after running over it, enables you to see the picture be-fore you and to lull yourself with imaginary sights and imaginary senses.

In our short days in the Scottish win ers we should, from the literature you might read when you are working. It is a guide book. I admit this is a digression, but I do not know a greater happiness when you are cooped in London or Edinburgh by business, without any hope of extricating yourself, than to take up a guide book and take an imaginary journey in a magic carpet to countries where the sun eternally shines and countries which are redolent with the history of which you have read. This is a little receipt of my own which I give to you. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures radically-that is, it removes the roots of disease. That's better than lopping the branches. Queensland, in Australia, grows great quantities of sugar cane, and has thousands of acres yielding grapes, bananas and oranges. HAVE YOU TRIED Holloway's Corn

THE OZONE COMPANY, Ltd., TORONTO, ONT. Gentlemen: About two years ago my stomach completely gave out. I was in a wretched condition, and my life was anything but pleasure. I tried several prescriptions from my doctor, and also other remedies which I saw advertised for dyspepsia, but I was getting worse all the time. I might say that at the same time I had a breaking out on my face and body, which gave me great annoyance. No remedy I took could relieve me of this vexatious disease. At last I was advised te try Ozone. The first bettle gave me relief. I took about ten bottles altogether, and I am thankful I can report to you that I am completely cured. I can eat anything now without the least uneasiness; also the itching eruptions, which I believed were germs in my blood, are all gone. I also use Ozone for my children when any ailment overtakes (Signed) ALEX. LANG, 67 Sumach St., Toronto. Shipper P. Freyseng & Co., Cork Mfrs., Toronto.

BROOKLYN BRIDGE.

Too Weak to Stand the Pressure of Boreas -Must Be Strengthened,

New York, Oct. 8 .- District Attorney

Philbin has made public a report of Edwin Duryea and Jos. Mayer, the special engineering experts appointed by him to look into the condition of the Brooklyn bridge after the breaking of several suspender rods and suspender bands July 24 last. The experts find that in sections the structure is faulty, but that the bridge is now practically as strong as when completed. They say the structure must be strengthened. The accident of the breaking of the suspender rods and bands is found to have been due to the wind pressure, the wind blowing against the platform and cars causing a pressure transverse to the bridge, thus causing the rods to bend.

They found that the safety of the bridge can be increased by remedying certain defects in the design.

The Weary War in South Africa.

It is about two years since the war segun. It was supposed to be finished, at the very latest, on the 15th of last month; but it seems sometimes to be as lively as ever. Of course, the Boer war must have an end, but to all concerned the end seems a long time in coming. It has been a wonderful war, full of strange surprises and dreary disappointments; it is always the unexpected that has happened. Africa has turned out to be as mysterious to the moderns as it was to the ancients; a land of strong contrasts, unlooked for events, and spoiled reputations. If the things that have taken place there had been predicted, they would have been laughed to scorn. And what is to happen there in the future, who can tell? We are told that British policy there in the past has been superficial and changeful, and who can be certain that it will be strenuous, persistent and unified in the future? There are, however, some things certain. The Boers were the victims of ignorance, and bigotted patriotism, as well as the dupes of deceitful men, when they concluded that the path of duty led them to challenge Great Britain to deadly conflict. The British statesmen have little to be proud of in their diplomacy and conduct of affairs during the past six years. The British people, the great sufferers, in many ways, have set themselves with grim determination to the task forced upon them, but they are utterly weary of it. These things are certain, and the future historian will find other certainties with the lessons they bring. All excitement has worn itself out. "Mafeking," to use the new suggestive word, has had its day; the glamor of the war has died not be unhealthful. It is perhaps partout: and there is nothing but the ly a remainder from the earlier days prosy, sad reality of suffering on all and a great problem waiting to be solved. We cannot help admiring the steady perseverance with which a man like Lord Kitchener performs the terrible duty laid upon him; but as we approach the anniversary of Kruger's ultimatum, we confess to a strong desire that the work of the soldier might give place to that of the statesman.

Good Advice From Goldwin Smith.

Mr. Goldwin Smith has recently shown in a generous gift his appreciation of King Alfred, and his recognition of the needs of the present time. Toronto University, and, through it, the whole country will, we trust, be benefited by his handsome subscription to the Library. From such a man words of advice to students are worth pondering. Some foolish cynic has said that the worst kind of vice is advice, and certainly advice in general is often regarded as something that is cheap and useless. But advice on matters pertaining to English literature from a man of Mr. Smith's experience. a man who exerted an influence at Oxford, the center of classic culture, lecturing to men who were to play a great part, as well as to the man who was to be the King. Critics are sometimes spoken of as men who have failed in everything else. Goldwin Smith is a critic, and from some of his criticism both in literature and theology, we venture respectfully to dissent; but he is not a critic of that class, for no one has a more charming and effective English style. It is both polished and picturesque. We cannot now follow Mr. Smith into a discussion of the authors he names, but we desire to emphasize his advice. Read good books: begin to read them when you are young; and keep on reading. Re-read the great books. Have a few chosen works that you can turn to again and again. For purposes of investigation and education one must have access to a large library, but for culture in the true sense, it is surprising what a few books will do. Wide reaching these should be, but for many there is danger in the multitude of books. This is wholesome advice, and the young man who follows it will soon be able to make a wise selection for himself.

The warning against promiscuous and continuous novel-reading was specially opportune. "The selections should be carefully made, and novel-reading should not be too freely indulged in. It was pernicious, seductive, at the time no doubt, but sure to impair the mental abilities." The fact is that in this so-called scientific age there are a great many people reduced to a flabby, mental condition, unfit to form a clear, deliberate judgment on any serious matter, because they spend too much of their time reading fiction of a very low order. We do not preach total abstinence in this connection, but what Mr. Smith calls "careful selec-

Dr. Gray's Last Message.

The last issue of the Chicago Unterior contains a touching dying message from its late editor, the Rev. Dr. William C. Gray, to his editorial brethren of the religious weekly press. This is the message:

"I expect within a few hours to glide off the stays like a launching ship and be afloat on the wide ocean of eternity, and I desire to say to my contemporaries of the press, of whom I am probably the senior, that they contributed to the pleasures of my long editorial life. I have never met one of the fraternity who did not leave me happier when he retired. There has, therefore, grown up in me a more than a respectful, even an iffectionate regard for the members of the religious editorial fraternity, and to them I send a cordial and loving greeting. I expect in a few hours to be in the shadows which are only a brighter life, and from that misty egion I call back most cordially God prosper and bless you all. It pleases me to think that this shall be among the last of my coherent thoughts."

Dr. Gray was a born editor. Like every real editor with cumulative experience and influence, his personalwas inseparably inwrought with the Chicago Interior, just as the tpeople of Canada so long as he lived thought of George Brown and the Globe as interchangeable terms. Rev. Dr. Hillis paid Dr. Gray a noble compliment when he said that "things seemed a little safer with his presence

The North American was founded in 1852, but the new impulse of energy under direction of W. B. Wanamaker (son of John Wanamaker, the great merchant) has been such as to thoroughly modernize and practically re-create the paper. The special issue to which we refer takes the reader, by illustrated description, though every part of the process of making of a great newspaper. The Philadelphia North American is a great newspaper; it has achieved a great standing, and The Advertiser wishes it a continuance of its great success.

Yacht Racing.

There seems to be naturally what we may call a sporting element in human nature, and within proper limits it may when the lives of men were not so artificial, not so much hemmed in by the machinery of civilization, but were freer, more adventurous, and in closer contact with nature. In this land, with its forests, lakes and mountains, there is still something of the primeval open to those who care to seek it. But in the large cities of old or new countries where men are confined and cramped, there are close, stifling influences, which drive men to seek excitement. When this is sought in drinking and gambling, it begets a feverish life, which in most cases leads to shallowness of nature, and often to speedy

If sheep, and follow a leader. recreation becomes the main thing, then it becomes a small thing, harmful instead of helpful, but though there are dangers, all sensible men recognize that it has a place in a well-balanced life. Life is very largely a competition; this has its evils, but it does not seem possible now to get away from it; and it is a great thing for men to learn to fight fair. Hence a contest like that between the Shamrock II. and the Columbia has interest for a wide circle of people. These two boats represent the energy and enterprise of two great peoples. It is evident that two boats have been built, manned and equipped on the most scientific principles, to attain certain ends; that no expense, thought or skill have been spared, and that the result is somethink like equality. Of course, these are mere racing machines; that is the end and aim of their being, and everything is made to work towards that end. Such sport is an expensive luxury, only open to a large purse or to a combination of purses; but the spirit of healthy rivalry that has been produced and the temper of fair play that has been shown can be carried into less ambitious sports and many homely enterprises. It is no dishonor to lose a contest, especially when the loss is but by a hairsbreadth, after every means has been used to win. The great thing is to bear defeat and to carry victory in a spirit of fairness and moderation.

The Hamilton Post, a daily morning paper, has suspended publication after sixteen months' trial. The chief difficulty in making a morning paper successful in Hamilton was, of course, the proximity of that city to Toronto; the morning newspapers of the provincial capital arriving and being delivered in Hamilton before breakfast. The Spectator a few years ago had a morning issue, but found it more profitable and judicious to drop the morning edition and confine operations to the evening field. The arrangements of modern life are such that the evening affords with most people the principal opportunity for newspaper reading; and as the evening newspapers bring up the news of the day from all tion." A Candid Confession.

"Not Wanted" Mr. Whitney. [Kingston Whig.]

Mr. Whitney is great as a destructive force, and there is no demand for his service. The province may trust him, as the obstructor of the government in all its efforts to open up New Ontario, but it is hardly likely. The party which has some constructive service, which has contributed to present results, which is allied with the men that are producing the wondrous changes in this new country, which has saved the land itself to the people, merits the commendation of the electors, and will receive it when the time for action arrives.

Humor and Pathos.

[New York Observer.] It is well to be as cheerful as possible under the most untoward circumstances of life. President McKinley has given marked proof of his bravery by his calmness and cheerfulness under trial. One day he humorously complained to an attendant of the narrowness of the hospital cot on which he was lying. "Why, it's no bigger than a bunk on a warship," he said, "and I am supposed to be commander-in-chief of the navy!" Such humor is not levity, but true kindness to one's fellows. Everyone has burdens to bear, but a little wit mingled with the wisdom of life will do much to lighten such loads. How true the president's heart was to the solemnities of existence was evidenced by the fact that as he passed under the influence of the ether, as the operation was about to be performed, he was heard by the attending physicians to murmur softly the Lord's

Black TAR MACADAM

Ratepayers Seek to Delay Passing of Bylaw.

Mayor to Issue Proclamation About Royal Reception.

Cessation of Business From 10:30 a.m. Till the Departure of the Royal Party.

Last night's council session lasted nearly two hours and a half. The chief topic of discussion was the King street tar macadam pavement. The bylaw received its second reading, and the third reading is set for the next meeting of the council. That the vexed question is nearing its quietus is apparent from the mayor's statement that the only matter to be considered by the council is the bylaw, and any petitions cannot affect the outcome. During the discussion last night a lively verbal tilt occurred between Ald. Jolly and Olmsted, with the honors about even. Others matters which came up for consideration in one form or another were the regulation of bicyclists, the reception of royalty on Saturday, the death of Inspector Bell, the construc-

R. R., and minor routine matters. THE KING STREET MIX-UP. The much-discussed King street pavement bylaw came up for consideration under the order of bylaws. A largely signed petition of property owners had been presented, praying that the council defer the passing of the bylaw until next year, so as to give further opportunity for testing the tar macadam pavement on Queen's ave-tion of coal sheds by the L. E. and D.

Ald. Campbell asked what effect the delay in passing the bylaw would have Ald. Olmsted thought that it would throw the whole thing over for two years. Ald. Winnett advocated passing the bylaw and letting the contract at once. The work could not be gone on with until next spring, but it would give the contractors ample time to collect the large quantities of material necessary for the work. The effort to delay the passing of the bylaw was only an attempt to saddle the city at Color. large with the cost of the pavement. In answer to a question, Mayor Rumball said that the bylaw was the only thing before the council for considera tion. No petition in now or to be sent | Prices. in could affect the bylaw. The opposition to it seemed to have become personal matter between two or three

Ald. Cooper, seconded by Ald. Garratt, moved that the bylaw receive its second reading. The motion carried Ald. Jolly then moved that the by-

Ald. Olmsted moved in amendment that the third reading take place at body must be going to make something the next meeting of the council. by having these contracts awarded at Here it was that the sponsors of mo tion and amendment came to high words.

Ald. Olmsted explained that he wished to see the earlier date of reading chosen because several of the aldermen would be going out of the city about Nov. 1. Ald. Jolly-They shouldn't go. They Annoying Rashes, Inflammations and Irritations Are Soothed, Healed and Cured by the Great Skin Food.

Dr. Chase's Ointment.

There is always mystery and doubt about the action of internal remedies. Time is required for the medicine to take effect. It is different with Dr. Chase's Ointment, for it is applied externally, and you are sure to be surprised by the remarkable change it brings about in a few hours. Its cleansing, soothing, healing action allays inflammation and irritation, removes redness and roughness of the skin, and leaves the skin delightfully smooth, soft and velvety. Notwithstanding its powerful action in the severest cases of skin diseases, Dr. Chase's Ointment can be used with perfect safety on the most tender skin, and is especially suitable for the chafings, itchings and irritations which are so troublesome. Ladies keep it constantly in their toilet, and mothers who have used it in place of powders for their babies would not think of changing. It does not clog the pores of the skin, as do powders, does not stain the linen, and is pleasant to

Mrs. E. Clark, 74 Inchbury street, Hamilton, Ont. states: "The results experienced from using Dr. Chase's Ointment on my children for various sores have been satisfactory in the extreme, especially so with baby, now two months old. All the soreness, scalding and chafes were removed from the little fellow immediately the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall after using Dr. Chase's Ointment on him, which freed him from pain. It came as a blessing. The cuts and bruises my children meet with always disappear before it, and I consider Dr. Chase's Ointment the very best of its kind. I advise mothers to have it in

We had tried any number of cures without any permanent relief, but from the hour we commenced using Dr. Chase's Ointment there was great relief, and the improvement continued until there was a complete cure. We think it the greatest of family ointments."

The clause providing that no approaches be made on cement walks except on the order of the engineer and then only in cases where absolutely necessary, provoked some discussion. The vote on its adoption stood 5 to 5, but the mayor voted with the committee, and the clause carried. No. 1 committee's report referred to George C. Gunn addressed the council,

A BEARISH MARKET.

A BEARISH MARKET. New York, Oct. 5.—The weekly circular ssued by Henry Clews & Co., brokers, Broad and Wall streets, New York, says: "Values on the stock exchange continue to exhibit a declining tendency, Sentiment has gradually lost its bullish character, and the extravagant expecta-tions of three months ago are giving way to more rational opinions and actions.

* * The immediate future of the stock market is indefinite. No bull movement is yet in sight, and bearish sentiment seems to predominate in spite of the fact that the big interests seem connected that that the big interests seem opposed to all pronounced declines. The situation therefore offers excellent trading opportunities; good stocks being a purchase on all sharp declines, and equally good sales on all peronounced rallies. Conser-vatism is still the only safe course."

Soothing Syrup. IN NATURE'S STOREHOUSE THERE IN NATURE'S STOREHOUSE THERE ARE CURES.—Medical experiments have shown conclusively that there are medicinal virtues in even ordinary plants growing up around us, which give them a value that cannot be estimated. It is held by some that Nature provides a cure for every disease which neglect and ignorance have visited upon man. However this may be, it is well known that Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, distilled from roots and herbs, are a sovereign remedy in curing all disorders of the digestion.

SOME PERSONS have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhea, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking and green fruit is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. CRUSHED BY YARD ENGINE!

ductor William Birkett.

Stepped Off His Train and Was With Ladies of the Party Her Highness Struck and Killed by a Moving Yard Engine.

G. T. R. Conductor William Birkett, who resided at 91 Bathurst street, was killed, almost instantly, by a yard engine at the Rectory street crossing of the road last night. Conductor Birkett, who for the past five years has been in charge of the Stratford accommodation, stepped off his train after it had entered the East London yards, to register. In alighting he stepped upon an adjoining track, and had barely touched the roadbed before he was struck by a yard engine backing rapidly from up the yards. The wheels passed over the lower portion of the unfortunate man's body, and he died almost instantly. The lower limbs were crushed in a horrible manner, but the upper portion of the body was uninjured. When the body was picked up head rested against the lantern which Conductor Birkett carried at the time of the accident.

Police Officer Richard Coursey was standing at the crossing watchman's shanty when the accident occurred. When he saw the yard engine about to strike Conductor Birkett he endeavored to warn him, but was too late. Coroner Dr. Piper, who was summoned immediately after the accident, viewed the remains, but did not arrive at a decision in regard to the necessity of an inquest.

Condutcor Birkett leaves a widow and two children, the latter aged 2 and 5 years. He was regarded by the officials of the G. T. R., by whom he had been employed for many years, as one of their most capable and trustworthy men. He was extremely careful, and it is said that only a short time before he lost his life he warned one of his brakemen to be cautious in alighting from the train. He was popular not only with his fellow employes but with the traveling public, and his deplorable death will cause widespread sympathy.

STARTS FOR TORONTO!

Terrible Fate of G. T. R. Con- Duchess of Cornwall Enjoys a Novel Experience.

Takes a Ride on a Hand Car.

Regina, N. W. T., Oct. 7 .- The royal progress is now divided into three sections. The duke is shooting ducks on the shores of Lake Manitoba. Lady Minto's train, to which the press cars are attached, is at the moment of writing in the vicinity of Regina, and that bearing the duchess is an hour or so behind it. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is at Winnipeg. At the larger centers of population, such as Medicine Hat and Moose Jaw, the same interest was manifested in our train as if it contained the real thing, but we were in reality a glittering mockery. There was, of course, no singing of school children, or anything of that kind, but there were surprisingly large gatherings on the platforms, and the decorations, although a little frayed and dishevelled, were still in evidence. The various specials going through have evidently somewhat mystified the people, and one of our pressmen who rejoices in a fairish mustache and closeclipped beard has enjoyed the felicity of being suspected on the station plat-forms, of having the blue blood of the Tudors, Stuarts and Guelphs flowing in his veins.

THE DUCHESS ON A HANDCAR. News has been forwarded to our train that among the novelties which the duchess and some of the members of her staff gained experience of today was a ride on a railway handcar. The car was comfortably fixed up with shawls and rugs and a short run was made from Parkburg, eastward about a mile and a half. The duchess was accompanied by Lady Mary Lygon, Hon. Mrs. Keppel, Sir Arthur Biggs, Sir John Anderson, Major Denison, Dr. Manby and Messrs. Baker, Milestone and Duff, of the C. P. R.

LADY MINTO AT REGINA. Lady Minto opened the Victoria Cottage Hospital at Regina tonight. The Lady Minto Cottage Hospital fund contributed $1,500 towards its erection, and the trustees were desirous that it should be opened by her excellency. Dr. Moggin, superintendent of education for the Territories, made a little speech, and Lady Minto replied gracefully, and formally declared it open. She then inspected the wards.

HAVOC AMONG THE DUCKS. York Lodge, Lake Manitoba (via Poplar Point), Oct. 7.—Yesterday and today were probably the most informal spent by his royal highness the Duke of Cornwall and party since they began their tour through Canada. After arrival at the lodge last evening the party partook of a splendid dinner, served in banquet style in a marquee erected for the purpose, immediately adjoining the cottage erect-This Man Lived a Life of Misery for Six ed for his royal highness. The morning was an ideal one for duck shooting, the sky being slightly crowded and a light breeze blowing, and the party took every advantage of the morning flight. For five hours the sound of the guns could be heard from every part of the big marsh, and shortly after ten o'clock canoes arrived at the lodge. first to land was the duke, and although there was no cheering crowds to greet his arrival, this did not appear to depress his spirits, for the excellent morning's sport and splendid luck had thoroughly delighted him. Lord Minto, Sir Charles Cust, Prince Alex-ander of Teck, Major Maude and Senator Kirchhoffer arrived in quick succession, and the duck-laden canoes were landed. As a result of the morning's sport nearly 200 ducks, number included all varieties known to Manitoba hunters, were brought in, and in addition to this number numerous birds were shot, but could not be secured because of the impassable marshes. AN EXCELLENT SHOT. His royal highness proved himself an excellent shot, bagging 52 birds, and of the adventurous ducks coming within range of his unerring aim few indeed escaped. He expressed great pleasure, and was enthusiastic over the outing. Early this afternoon the party started out again to remain until sundown. HER ROYAL HIGHNESS' TRAIN. Crane Lake, N. W. T., Oct. 7 .- The special train carrying the Duchess of Cornwall from Banff to Poplar Point, Man., where she is to rejoin the duke, left the Rocky Mountains behind at midnight, and when the day came was well down on the plains. Calgary was dark and asleep when the royal train pulled through, and Medicine Hat was just stirring when the special halted at its depot. On through the day there were crowds at all of the frontier towns anxious to again see and cheer the duchess who will some day be Queen of England. The special will be put through to Poplar Point, with only such stops as are necessary to supply fuel and water.

WHITE FLAG DISREGARDED BY BOERS

London, Oct. 7 .- A dispatch from Lord Kitchener to the war office says: "Lieut. Miers, Somerset Light Infantry, employed with South African Constabulary, went out from his post at Riversdraal, Sept. 25, to meet three Boers approaching under white flag, who, after short conversation, were seen to shoot Lieut. Miers edad, and immediately galloped away. Inquiry is being made and evidence recorded.

A ONE-MAN RAID. London, Oct. 7.-A Reuter dispatch from Middelburg, Cape Colony, states that Lieut. Grant of the 12th Lancers entered Scheepers' laager alone on the night of the 25rd inst. and called on the Boers to surrender. Three of them immediately did so, whereupon Lieut. Grant threw their rifles and bandoliers into the river. He then drew his re-volver and wounded two Boers, causing confusion among the enemy, who fired at random, killing one and wounding two of themselves.

BOTHA DEEP IN THE TOILS. Pretoria, Oct. 7.-In the fight between Col. Kekewich's command and the Boers, under Gen. Delarey, at Moedwill, the first picket rushed was ten men of the Derbyshire Regiment, of whom six were killed and four wounded. Soon afterwards the British camp was surrounded on three sides. The Derbyshires took advantage the one opening, and turned the flank of the Boers. Scouts bring in reports that the Boers were severely punished when they were repulsed, and their losses were heavier than at first supposed. It is also said that Gen. Delarey's men are disgusted and dis-heartened at their failure in this atwounded and they got nothing in the way of supplies.

The Scottish Horse are now with Gen. Featherstonhaugh. There is no late news from Zululand, but it is reported that Gen. Botha is in the toils of the British col-

Mafeking, Oct. 7.-Fifty mounted men of the Northumberland Fusiliers proceeded from Lichtenburg to a farm at Dulkersfontein, with the object of capturing Gen. Delarey, his staff, and family. The farm was rushed at daybreak, but Delarey had fled overnight. Eleven Boers were captured.

TRAIN-WRECKERS REPULSED. Kimberley, Oct. 7.—Before daylight a ganger at Koodoo Siding discovered some Boers placing dynamite on the line. He fired and wounded one man severely. The enemy returned his fire and wounded him. The sound of shots brought help from a blockhouse near, and the Boers then retreated. Both the wounded men have been brought

MR. SAUER'S OPINION.

London, Oct. 7.-The Cape Town correspondent of the Chronicle states that Mr. Sauer expresses the opinion that war will be over in three weeks. This is probably too optimistic a view of the situation, says the correspondent, but Mr. Sauer ought to know. NATAL ELECTIONS.

London, Oct. 7.-A Durban dispatch reports that in the recent elections for colonial parliament all the ministers have been re-elected by substantial majorities.

HOME-GROWN SUPPLIES. London, Oct. 7.—A Pretoria dispatch states that Col. Morgan has established government farms near all the principal garrisons in the Transvaal. The farms supply more than sufficient green forage and vegetables for the local forces. Nearly 2,000 acres of land are cultivated in this way near Pretoria. CAMPAIGN AGAINST BEET SUGAR INTEREST

Another Aggressive Movement Made by American Sugar Refining Company.

San Francisco, Oct. 8 .- Another aggressive move has been made by the American Sugar Refining Company in the campaign which it has begun against the beet sugar industry.

The cut in the price of granulated sugar to all Missouri River points. which was announced last week has been followed by a reduction in the price of beet and cane sugar in all The reduction as announced by the which is allied with the American Sugar Refining Company, amounts to 20 cents a hundred on cane sugar. Robert Oxnard, vice-president of the American Beet Sugar Association, in speaking about the latest reduction, "It is a fact that the Western Sugar Refining Company has made a decline of 20 cents per hundred on their cane sugars and 30 cents per hundred on their beet sugars. This makes the difference in their price between cane granulated and beet granulated 20 points instead of 10 points as heretofore. The cut affects all markets from California to Colorado inclusive. I know of no change in the general sugar situation to account for it. Further than this I do not care to discuss the matter at present.'

In order to discriminate further against beet sugar the Western Sugar Refining Company announces that it will entertain no orders for granulated sugar which calls for over 50 per cent of beet sugar. The reduction in prices has also affected Hong Kong sugar, of which there is assmall supply in this market.

AT THE LONDON OPERA HOUSE. The Burrill Comedy Company last night produced "Jerry the Tramp," to a satisfied audience. For this week some excellent bills are offered. Tonight a society drama, "Forgiven, will be put on, and a good house should witness it. During the week "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "Rip Van Winkle," and "Ten Nights in a Barroom" will be presented. Taking specialties will be given between each act. On Friday night another amateur contest will be held, thus giving those whose names had to be struck off on account of the late hour another chance to compete for the $5 prize. Specially good plays will be put on Saturday, the Duke of York's day, when a souvenir matinee and night performance will be given, presenting ticketholders with a handsome four-colored souvenir of the duke and duchess, with a production of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the matinee, and "Ten Nights in a Barroom" at night.

"FAUST" TOMORROW. Lewis Morrison will positively apelaborate scenery and gorgeous dresses, added to a newly invented system of electrical effects novel and startling in their operation, would make Lewis Morrison's "Faust" remarkable anywhere. > "THE BOSTONIANS" NEXT WEEK In the production of "Robin Hood." which will be heard here at the New Grand on Oct. 16, as presented by the original Bostonians, all the famous singers will positively appear, including Henry Clay Barnabee, W. H. MacDonald, Frances Miller, George Frothingham, Adele Rafter, Josephine Bartlett, Albert Parr, Allen Hinckley, McDonald Dorrington, Vernon Stiles, W. H. Fitzgerald, Gertrude Zimmer, Charles J. Swikard and others. No other opera written within the last 50 years has enjoyed such a popularity as "Robin Hood" and its many charming melodies, clever concerted numbers and romantic story in Sherwood Forest, combine to make it a lyric entertainment par excellence. Already society and musical circles have been stimulated by the approaching engagement, and there is every reason to believe that the theater will be crowded during the coming performance. NEWFOUNDLAND AGREES

Fortune Harbor, Nfld., Oct. 7 .- (Special).-However this Island and the Dominion stand on political questions, there is one theme on which they are unanimous, and that is in their opin-ion of Dodd's Kidney Pills. In Newfoundland Dodd's Kidney Pills have duplicated their Canadian reputation. On all sides they are spoken of as a really wonderful medicine by those who have tried them, whose number increases every day. Richard Quirk, of this place, writes about Dodd's Kidney Pills in the universal terms of high praise.

"No tongue can tell," he says, "the pleasure I feel in being able to say that I am indeed permanently cured of my backache by Dodd's Kidney Pills. I never imagined that any medicine could cure me of so old a complaint, and am high in the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills to everybody who comes my way."

As a sequel to the harvest home of Sept. 30, the choir of St. James' Church South London), 40 strong, gave a service of praise under the direction of the organist, Mr. George C. Phelps, last night. The choruses included Mozart's 'Ave Verum," Mendelssohn's "Thirteenth Psalm," and Woodward's "Crossing the Bar," all being sung in the real sacred spirit so characteristic of these composers' works. Notwith-standing the changeable weather, the soloists, Misses R. Taylor, M. Fox, N. Hodgens, and Mr. Lockhart, were in splendid voice, their fine work delighting the congregation. Mr. W. H. Hewlett was present, and not only did he play his three programme numbers, he remained afterwards and gave a little impromptu recital to a number who remained. Mr. Hewlett is a great favorite in St. James', and he fully sustained his reputation last night. Mr. Phelps and the choir were in receipt of many congratulations over the suc cess of this their first service of praise together.

AT OSGOODE HALL.

The following case came up in divisional court, before Chief Justice Meredith and Justice Lount: Re McIntyre .-G. F. Shepley, K.C., for the London and Western Trusts Company, the executors of the will of the late Hugh McIntyre, deceased, and for the widow, appealed from an order of Boyd, C., in chambers (12 C. L. T. Occ. N. 380), giving directions to the executors as to the distribution of the estate among the residuary legatees, and as to the payment of annuities provided by the will. The chancellors declared that the parties interested in the residue were entitled to have sums set apart to answer the annuities time to time, from executors, or to have sums applied in the purchase of government annuities in the same way, from time to time, as shall seem most expedient to the master if the parties differ. The executors contended that they had a right to complain that the estate was taken out of their hands, and that the court should not interfere with the administration by them, and practically set aside the will, no impropriety being alleged against them. M. D. Fraser (London), for Hugh McIntyre, the younger, supported the appeal. A. B. Aylesworth, K.C., for David McIntyre, J. Folinsbee (Strathroy) and D. Urquhart for other adults, opposed the fants. There is widespread condemnation of the government for allowing such freedom to the Macedonian committee as to enable it to engineer the outrage. "Political motives," she said to herself; "I don't quite understand them. I wish how I wish that he was here to welcome me. It seems odd"—she would not say unkind—"to leave only this funny old woman to welcome me after so long a fourney, and no fire." She shivered.

No tea! Elsie was too tired and weak to be exactly hungry, but she would have liked to have hot tea and a good warm fire. Instead, the funny old woman took her through a scantily-furnished salon, or parlor, paid the finest Franch better. her through a scantily-lurnished salon, or parlor, into the timiest French kitchen. The floor was of red tiles, the atmosphere was stifling, there was a very small, uncomfortable looking sofa covered in red cretonne; there was a large pillow and a couple of dark blankets. She found that she was expected to accommodate herself toc ircumstances and to make herself as comfortable as sne could in this comfortless bed. The old woman lit the gas and cnattered very fast. She hoped, she said, that the next day she would perhaps be able to make ar-

She would perhaps be able to make arrangements that would be more comfortable to mademoiselle; but her other rooms were let, with the exception of this kitchen and the salon through which mademoiselle had passed.

Elsie could not understood much more than half of what the old dame said. She was, however, so utterly tired that she felt thankful even for the hard, miserable sofa, on which she could scarcely turn. The old woman left her at length, with directions to lower the gas when she was undressed, and to bolt both the doors if she felt disposed, and Elsie bolted them safely as soon as the old creature was gone.

them safely as soon as the old creature was gone.

The first thought that struck her when she was alone was that her father must be very poor, much poorer than she had imagined, to provide so badly for her on her arrival. The question of pounds, shillings and pence had never, up to this time, troubled Elsie particularly; she knew she was not rich, and that she was qualifying herself for a governess, "or something of that sort," as she vaguely expressed it to herself; but she had always possessed all the necessaries, and even some of the comforts and refinements of life; now she was hungry; her couch had no sheets; she was perished with cold, and there was no fire. How was she to wash and dress in the morning? she asked herself this plain question in a sort of apathy, for she was too tired to be over-anxious about a difficulty still some hours removed from her.

In her traveling bag were necessaries for the night; she undressed, lay down, and her youth stood her friend—her youth and her fatigue; kind sleep came and sealed up her white lids almost as soon as her head touched the pillow. It was then about half-past one. At half-past six, just when Elsie was in the deepest depths of what Tennyson calls the "gulfs of sleep," a loud shaking and rattling of the door, a high screeching voice arounsed her from confused yet pleasant dreams of Charteris Court and the countess, of Lord Hammond, Miss Bracegirdle, and Basil Byrne. She had not dreamt of Owen Hammond. We seldom dream of those we wish to dream about.

Elsie was obliged to get up then, after her long and fatiguing journey. There was no help for it, none whatever; besides, it was something to find a room with water and soap and towels ready for her use. Elsie threw her coak over her found the room and locked herself in. It was not deficient in a certain kind of comfort. There was a nice bed, a good carpet.

I wonder what papa pays for me? I must have a proper room."

Then Elsie dressed herself. Refreshed by cold water and wearing a fresh lace collar, she left Madame Jotte's room, resolved to ask that little brown woman several questions. Madame Jotte rushed out when she heard Elsie's group and the solved to ask that little brown woman several questions. Madame Jotte rushed out when she heard Elsie's step, and took her into the scantily-furnished salon. It is in the more old-fashioned rooms in houses on the continent that one understands how small an amount of furniture or decoration is thought needful. There are hotels where they charge you at the rate of an English half-crown for a tough steak; where the brick floors of the salons are carpetless, the table is of plain deal, the chairs of white, unvarnished wood; where there are neither couches nor cushions nor curtains. Such a rooms was this. Madame Jotte, however, brought Elsie some hot boiled coffee and milk, with some rolls, butter and an egg. As soon as she had breakfasted, Elsie took the liberty of following Madame Jotte to her tiny kitchen, and putting

Sir Thomas Lipton Would Like to Have Another Yacht Race.

New York, Oct.7.-Sir Thomas Lipton s far from satisfied that the recent yacht races have conclusively demonstrated the Columbia to be the better boat. And it is now more than evident that he would be glad to arrange for another race. In conversation with a press reporter on board the Erin today Sir Thomas said: "Knowing we are whipped, I still believe the Shamrock the better boat. Remember, I am not disparaging the other boat or the New York Yacht Club in the least. But the fact is that the other boat in the last two races got the best of the wind, while we did not. The other boat simply profited by getting puffs of wind that we did not be the two did not be two did not did not did not be two did not di hat we did not happen to have. I may add that there were certain little fea-tures about the condition of the Shamock which might probably have been mproved on the last day of the race. but there is no fault whatever to be found with her handling." "Then you would like to have another race?"
"Yes. I think it would be well to arrange another race." "This fall?" "Oh, no, nothing would be done now before another year." "How about the proposition to race with exchanged crews?" "That never was my proposition." Shall you take the Shamrock home, or would you leave her here in the event of another prospective race?" "That, of course, is all undetermined yet. My plans for the immediate future are entirely unsettled, except that shall remain in Chicago probably a week. How long I shall remain in this country is undetermined."

Windsor, Oct. 8 .- The report of Asessor Black fixes the total of the asessment of Windsor property at $5,-487,250, an increase over last year of $190,000. The amount of exempted property is $875,000. The increase in the street railway property is from $26,000 to $88,000, due to the change in the law requiring the rails and wires to be assessed at something near their real value. Mr. Black gives the pepulation of Windsor as 12,642, which is an increase over last year of 513. The Dominion census gave the population of Windsor last summer as 12,154.

The Penobscot tribe of Indians, which numbered 245 in 1880, is now about 400 strong. Maine appropriates annually $8,000 for their benefit.

Paine's Celery Compound has added years of peace, free from the infirmi-ties of old age to thousands of lives. It stimulates the vital powers; it keeps the body free from pains; it gives perfect action to the kidneys; it keeps up nerve force; it builds strength and makes life happy and enjoyable. Multitudes of people, reduced in strength, sleepless, nervous, and apparently near he end of life, have joyfully testified to rapid gain in vigor with regular and refreshing sleep.
Mr. George Crawford, London, Ont., writes as follows:

"After using eight bottles of Paine's Celery Compound, I wish to let you know the results. I had a painful fullness and an unnatural heat in the top of my head, and it felt as if something was rolling through it. I had dizziness, I slept little and irregularly, was troubled with restlessness and uneasy dreams, and my appetite was bad. I am now vastly changed by the use of your medicine; I sleep well and relish my food, and my nervous system is greatly renewed. I feel my whole system better. I cannot expect at 79 years of age to be as I was at 30, but Paine's Celery Compound has done wonders for

He told the same story as narrated by the woman. IN COURT.

been to assist Sloan in placing Mrs. Goodrich in the hands of the Law and Order Society. He had not been told of the intentions to rob the woman. Wallace was the only prisoner to testify. He said Sloan had suggested to him the plan by which Mrs. Goodrich was to be about the interests of the Law and ducted in the interests of the Law and Order Society, which organization would reward them for their services. Later, Wallace said Sloan made the proposition to rob the woman. Wallace refused to become a party to the robbery, he declared, and said, fur-ther, that he did not see Sloan from that time until the day of his arrest.

In answer to questions, Wallace said the suggestion to capture Mrs. Goodrich for the Law and Order Society was made by a newspaper man who had not been arrested. Counsel for Mrs. Goodrich asked that the prisoners be held on charges of conspiracy, highway robbery, assault and battery, and kidnapping. This was done, excepting in the case of Wallace, who was held for conspiracy and kidnap-ping, the penalty for which, as count-

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.-Charged with kidnapping a woman and holding her a prisoner for four days, robbing her of jewels worth more than $2,000 and compelling her to sign blank checks for large sums of money, is the story which the police unfolded when they announced the arrest of two newspaper men, a stenographer in another newspaper office, and a barber, all of whom are charged with complicity in the

The men now locked up at the central police station are Howard K.

The victim is Mabel Goodrich, proprietress of an establishment in North Tenth street. Last Monday Mrs. Goodrich went to police headquarters and told a story of kidnapping and robbery so daring that the police at first doubt-ed its truth. She said that a young man who represented himself as a resident of Germantown, had been a frequent visitor at her establishment. Last week she said, he proposed a drive through Fairmount Park, and she consented to Fairmount Park, and she consented to go. At a lonely place in the park the carriage was stopped by a man whom she said represented himself as D. C. Gibbony, the secretary and attorney of the Law and Order Society of this city. This man she want on to say city. This man, she went on to say, told her that he had a warrant for her arrest on a charge of keeping a disorderly house, but that the matter could be fixed up. Mrs. Goodrich was kept a prisoner from Tuesday night until Friday night without anything to eat or drink, and was taken on another long drive, blindfolded, to a house, where she was kept from Friday till Monday. She did not sign for more than she possessed, but they compelled her to promise that she would make up the deficiency when they released her. She said a man they released her. She said a man took her on another drive and put her out of the carriage at Tenth and Poplar streets, about a mile from her house. With other information the woman gave them the detectives hegan to work on what they thought was

Setting a description of him the police returned to the city, and found the young man, who is only 21 years of age,

Mrs. Goodrich concluded her testimony by stating that she had been robbed of her jewelry, valued at $2,590, and cash amounting to $70, and forced to sign checks for $500. After a check for $155 had been cashed she had been released she said.

Five salesmen and twenty wardrobes in a Semi-ready store are equal to 15 salesmen in any other. That is, the wardrobes do the work of about ten men, as well as all the crush, fade and dust preventing services they render.

Wardrobes earn no salaries, they belong to Semi-ready.

Ten extra salesmen would greatly increase expenses. Stores would have to be twice the size to accommodate them and the numerous tables and shelves the wardrobes entirely dispense with.

The wardrobes constitute one of

ABOUT MODERN YOUNG WOMEN

Thoughtful Addresses by Miss McCall and Miss Carson.

The Young Woman and the Strenuous Life of the Present Day-Some Suggestions.

A meeting was held last night in St. Andrew's Church in the interests of the Young Women's Christian Association of this city. In the absence of Rev. Dr. Johnston, Rev. Mr. Scott, of Dundas Center Methodist Church, presided. The attendance, composed chiefly of women, was not as large as the importance of the subject would warrant. Rev. W. J. Clark, of the First Presby-Rev. W. J. Clark, of the First Presbyterian Church, was the first speaker. He thought the Y. W. C. A. work was a worthy undertaking, and worthy the financial support of the citizens of London, and that the city should have a building such as would meet the requirements of the young women. He stated that a young woman, coming to the city as a stranger, was at a serious disadvantage when compared with a young man in a similar situation, in the matter of obtainwhen compared with a young man in a similar situation, in the matter of obtaining a desirable boarding place. This, among other things, he thought justified the Y. W. C. A. in their efforts to obtain adequate and comfortable quarters, and he hoped the faith and persistence required would be crowned by success.

The part number was a sole by Mrs. The next number was a solo by Mrs. Wheeler, MISS C. I. McCALL.

The death occurred at Devizes yesterday morning of Hannah Miles, wife of Mr. Edward Miles, of the 14th concession, London township. Mrs. Miles was a highly respected resident of the township, and was very popular with a large number of friends. Deceased was a native of England, and was 33 years of age. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

—Sergt.-Major Copeman, of Wolseley Barracks, on Sunday afternoon left for St. John, N. B., from where he sails for England, having severed his connection with the Royal Canadian Regiment. Prior to his departury. It was because of this strenuous activity that they were gathered together. It has been said that woman should have no place in the rush of modern business activity; but this is not so. No woman would care to push herself to the front. She is, however, to a large extent, a creature of circumstances. The girl is pushed forward at a very early age in school; at home her parents are anxious to see her advance—to see her occupy a prominent position in social circles, and to meet the demands that are made upon her, it is necessary that she exert herself. The question, then, is not, how shall we get rid of the stress of the life of the present day, but how shall we successfully withstand it? The speaker emphasized the idea that all are but parts of one stupendous whole. "We are all tied together." This is a simple but very expressive way of showing the position of interdependence that exists among womankind. Two kinds of society are required, namely, that which stimulates to the very best, and that which stimulates to feed it. The young woman who takes upon herself the responsibility for these outside her home circle will invaribly be found the most queenly within that circle. Miss McCall dwelt upon the necessity of opening up adequate rooms for Y. W. C. A. work in every town of over 10,000 inhabitants.

MISS CARSON. habitants.

MISS CARSON. MISS CARSON.

Miss Carson, general field secretary of the Y. W. C. A., spoke on "The Great Need of an Up-to-Date Building for Young Women's Work in This City." She classified the young women of the day into (1) young women of leisure, and (2) young women of business. The women of today stand side by side with the men of today in business life. She stated that there were between six and eight thousand young women in business in this city, not to mention the young women of leisure. The great need of the day was for physical culture, such as would be afforded by a well-equipped gymnasium. The present Y. W. C. A. building is wholly unsuitable, as it will not accommodate more than 50 young women. There is also no gymnasium, no sort of place for a hall for general meetings, and no boarding home. A good Y. W. C. A. should possess all these requirements. In addition to this it should help any young woman to be a home-maker. In order to do this it must be a sort of educational center. More than this, it should be a home for a young woman who has no other home; it should be a place where she can feel that somebody cares for her; and here is where those more fortunately situated in our cities can wield a benign influence.

In conclusion the speaker dwelt upon Miss Carson, general field secretary of he Y. W. C. A., spoke on "The Great influence.

In conclusion the speaker dwelt upon the importance of a Y. W. C. A. as an auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. She reterred to the success of the movement in the town of Peterboro. She enjoined upon her hearers the importance of united effort and of persistence, and hoped that before long London would be on an equal footing with other Canadian cities in the matter of a thriving Y. APPRECIATED SYMPATHY.

In a reply to a resolution of sympathy on the death of President McKinley, passed by the St. George's Society of this city, Mr. J. B. Cox, the energetic secretary, has received a letter from Mr. Alfred R. Wiggan, of Philadelphia, president of the North American St. George's Union, in which the writer says: "I appreciate your words of sympathy very deeply. I read your letter, as also the resolutions of your society, which Bro. Yates sent me, at a meeting of our society last evening, and the kind and brotherly sympathy therein expressed was very kindly and appreciatively received. Out of this sad bereavement there has girung a closer and more travesty sketch by Macomber (or Sturgeon) and Engleton. Their act, ranging from light comedy to a scene from "Virginius," brought forth excellent dramatic talent in these two artists. Joe Welch, in a Hebrew sketch, was exceedingly droll. W. C. Fields' turn in a balancing act, with balls, hats, canes and sticks, was extremely funny and clever. The four Serenaders, in a topical medley of songs and graceful marches, pleased all. The stage setting for the turn was very elaborate. Elizabeth Murray, in character songs, received four encores, her rendition of an Irish song being the best on the list. Otto Johnson gave a number of clever tricks with cards. The Aglos Trio was the best act of the evening. For skill and strength, accompanied by studious training, it would be a difficult matter to eclipse. The closing act of McIntyre and Heath was a disappointment. From the reputation already established by this black-faced team, more was expected. The same bill will be given this afternoon and evening. For the admission prices charged, the performance is really worth witnessing. travesty sketch by Macomber (or Sturger)

Laugh and Grow Fat.

WHY THEY GUSHED.—"But his letters are so gushing," they protested to the fair young thing who was corresponding with a sentimental youth. "I know they are," she said, "but you must remember that he writes with a fountain pen."-Baltimore American.

HER GLAD SURPRISE .- "I have found out one thing about my hus-band," said the bride who had been married before, "that surprises me greatly." Her friend moved up a little nearer so that they could whisper, and asked: "What is it?" "His salary is just as big as he told me it was."—Chicago Record-Herald.

AN INDIGNANT DENIAL.-"So!" exclaimed Senater Sorghum melodra-matically, "that politician says I have betrayed my trust, does he?" "Yes." "Well, you can go and tell him to his teeth that he has uttered an untruth. I have stood by my trust ever since it put up the money for my campaign years ago."-Washington Star.

MAGNANIMITY.-It became necessary for an Emsworth papa to chastise mildly his small son the other evening. Some time later, wishing to negotiate for a favor, the chastised one stated his wishes, and as an inducement added: "Papa." "Well, James? 'If you'll do this, papa, I'll excuse you for that whipping you gave me.'

No Argument Needed

Every Sufferer From Catarrh Knows Tnat Salves, Lotions, Washes, Sprays and Douches Do Not Cure.

Powders, lotions, salves, sprays and inhalers cannot really cure Catarrh, because this disease is a blood disease, and logical applications, if they accomplish anything, at all, simply give transient relief. The catarrhal poison is in the blood and the mucous membrane of the nose, throat, and trachea tries to relieve the system by secreting large quantities of mucous, the discharge semetimes closing up the nostrils, dropping into the throat, causing deafness by closing the Eutachian tubes, and after a time causing catarrh of the stomach or serious throat and lung troubles.

A remedy to really cure catarrh must be an internal remedy which will cleanse the blood from catarrhal poison and remove the fever and conestion from the mucous membrane. The best and most modern remedies for this purpose are antiseptics scientifically known as Eucalyptol, Guaiacol, Sanguinaria and Hydrastin, and while each of these have been successfully used separately, yet it has been difficult to get them all combined in one palatable, convenient and efficient form: The manufacturers of the new catarrh cure, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, have succeeded admirably in accomplishing this result. They are large, pleasant-tasting lozenges, to be dissolved in the mouth, thus reaching every part of the mucous membrane of the throat and finally the stomach. Unlike many catarrhal remedies, Stuart's Catarrh remedies contain no cocaine, opiate or any injurious drug whatever and are equally beneficial for little children and adults. Mr. C. R. Rembrandt, of Rochester, N. Y., says: "I know of few people who have suffered as much as I from catarrh of the head, throat and stomach. I used sprays, inhalers and powders for months at a time with only slight relief, and had no hope of cure. I had not the means to make a change of climate, which seemed my only chance of cure.

"Last spring I read an account of some remarkable cures made by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and promptly bought a 50-cent box from my druggist and obtained such positive benefit from that one package that I continued to use them daily until I now consider myself entirely free from the disgusting annoyance of catarrh; my head is clear, my digestion all I could ask, and my hearing, which had begun to fail as a result of the catarrh, has greatly improved until I feel I can hear as well as ever. They are a household necessity in my family." Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are sold by druggists at 50 cents for complete treatment and for convenience, safety and prompt results they are undoubtedly the long looked for catarrh cure
