ADMIRAL BERESFORD'S ADVICE.

Admiral Beresford ("Condor Charlie" gave his first Canadian interview on Saturday, and left no doubt as to his own views upon the problem of imperial naval defence. "Make your own navy with your own men," is his counsel to Canada; and he gives convincing reasons for it. First, Canadians will have an intimate personal pride and interest in a fleet manned by their technical schools. Second, cruisers are needed to guard the trade route Mr. F. F. IS A REVOLUTION IN WARFARE APPROACHING.

Magazine writers are just now discussing the progress made in aerial possible uses of the airship in time of war. In McClure's for August is a notable article on the subject by Carl Diensthach and T. R. MacMechen, to go loose at the seventh or Aghth which shows deep study of the theme and a technical knowledge of aviation. Considerable data are furnished by the writers, who have reached the conclusion that even with the few dirigible airships of the Zeppelin typa the world is much nearer a revolution in warfare than is generally supposed. The result of the introduction of the airship into land warfare, they say, will be that if cavalry or infantry are moved over a country patrolled by airships, they will be annihilated; if they are held under the direct protection of artillery they will be starved by the destruction of their supplies. Indeed, the writers hold that even when troops are protected by the best of artillery. the airship can annihilate them by quick dashes, with practically no danger to itself. Although it will take time to bring about the change, these contributors to McClure's see in all this the abolition of infantry and cavalry, and the end of land war as it is

The writers are convinced that airships of the size that will be attained in the next few years would cannot in the public safety be allowed have every advantage in a trial of to roam at will. strength with battleships. They admit that, like the fort on land, the battleship at sea would be an airship's most dangerous enemy, for the reason that 1t can be fitted with specially constructed high-powered guns, always in readiness for shooting at aerial craft; but they claim that, making every allowance for this, it is almost certain that half a dozen airships, costing less than a quarter of one Dreadnought, could destroy any battleship now afloat or likely to be designed.

As viewed by Messrs. Dienstbach and MacMechen, the aerial warship is simply an advance in the development of war that started with the modern | High over head the startled sea gulls battleship. They point out that up to the present time war has been a conflict of populations, and express the belief that it is now to be a duel between fighting machines operated by trained experts. The ocean battleship greatly reduced the number of individ. uals involved in war; with the still more concentrated and terrible fighting engine that has now appeared, the writers think, the number will become an almost negligible fraction of the population. This would end the military world, as it has been known, and national power would no longer be founded on the mass of fighting males. but be the product of a great struggle of intellect, dependent directly on national progress in the mechanical arts and in accumulated wealth. Ottawa, Aug. 28.—Napoleon Laroche of Hull, sent to prison for nine months for being concerned in the death of a 5 member of the Stav Out Late Club, has

29 been released as a result of a petition to the Minister of Justice. WHO THEY WERE.

(Toronto News.) A friend sends in this story: A resident of a Highland parish in Scotland was entertaining two nieces in snowy white. During the course of his sermon, the minister, speaking of angels, asked: "And who are these in white array?" The answer came from the pew occupied by the aunt of the Canadian girls: "It's my two nieces, sir, frae Canada,"

THE MAN FROM THE

BY. E. EVERETT GREEN. Author of The Marriage of Marcia, Lady Elizabeth, The Juggernaut, etc.

Mary smiled, but a faint qualm of aneasiness began to steal over her. Her uncle had been well up in the family history of his neighbors, and would tell Mary long stories about the landed gentry of the neighborhood. She remembered quite well his speaking of an Anthony Gaskell who had run away and disappeared after a quarrel with his father, the last Viscount Cotswold. Maurice was only the heir in default of this elder son, and any progeny he might leave. She had always taken for granted that the elder branch was extinct, that it was proven to be extinct, but then who was this Anthony Gaskell, just from America? And why did the man presently retire with Lawyer Lawley into another room, where they remained a great while shut up together?

Mary slept rather brokenly that night, and was glad on the following morning to escape out of the house with the children before Mrs. Gaskell had appeared. She did not want to call her "Sadie," as had been suggested the previous evening, or to rush into intimacy with her. That freeand-easy American way of talking grated on her. In Val—a man and a last neir advocate—at any late, during tween the capital investment and the kinsman-she had liked it; but somehow Mrs. Gaskell's conversation set her nerves tingling. The "sand" was rather of the nature of mud, though beyond Miss Lawley's red walls was the best stretch to be had in the neighborhood. The children were soon hard at work on fortifications, and Mary had settled herself in the shade with a book, when the sight of two advancing figures caused her a curious thrill and start Lord Cotswold was coming toward her over the sand, and with him a portly gentleman, quite unknown to her, yet whose voice and laugh as they approached were unmistakable, brought unbounded bewilderment into

For those two they were golden, and the sea was azure blue; and the little town behind them was wrapped in a glamor it had surely never worn before. It was long ere they returned to the realities of earth again; or, perhaps, leaving the realities behind them, came back to the world of shadows.

SPEER'S END IS CALLED NATURAL

There Is a Tragedy in the Mystery.

Buffalo, Aug. 28.-After long silence, the local papers are breaking into the declaration that Speer was not asnot taken home dead on a Saturday night, and died from purely natural causes on a Sunday afternoon. The ley, cognizant of the hundreds or rumors which have been affoat since Speer died, also interested because certain friends of Speer have urged that all mystery be cleared away in justice to them, to Speer and to his family, has been making a quiet but thorough investigation. The inquiry has been hampered by the absence from the city of the physician who attended Speer, Dr. John H. "Whether or not what the district attorney so far has ascertained, or what he may ascertain later, will justify taking the Speer case to a grand tury for formal investigation, is a question none now can answer positively.

"District Attorney Dudley can apply to a court for an order to exhume the body of Speer. To do that, with any certainty of obtaining the court's permission, the district attorney must be able to show reasonable probability that Speer was murderously assaulted, or that there was something criminal in connection with his death.

"Many theories are talked of as to the causes of Victor Speer's death. "First-Speer died as the result of an assault, committed upon him by some person with whom he quarreled or who bore him a serious malice. "Second-Victor Speer died from poi soning, either taking the opiate with suicidal intent or through accidentally taking what was an overdose, considering his physical condition on the night he returned home after visiting Medina and Williamsville "Or, third, and lastly, Victor Speer' death was due to natural causes, as stated in the certificate of death made by Dr. John H. Pryor, the physician who was called by Mrs. Speer, Sunday afternoon, and who attended him

The paper contends that Speer died from natural causes, and that nobody ships. Header at Windy City Saturday By 6 to 4 and 2 to 1. Chicago, Aug. 28.-Chicago won both games of a double-header from Washington, 6 to 2 and 2 to 1, today. Grav performed the peculiar feat of holding the White Sox to one hit, but allowed them to score six runs without an error by his support.

In the second inning he gave eight bases on balls, and seven of those came in succession, forcing in five runs. The only hit was a high bounder Unglaub's head with which Dougherty opened the second.

Chicago won the second by scoring one run in each of the eighth and ninth. Killifer's fumble on Tanne-Kling Incorporates Company Bearing hill's bounder allowed Parent to score the winning run with two out in the ninth. Scores:

GREAT SUBWAY PLAN

FOR WINDY CITY An Eighty Million Dollar Under ground Project Is Talked Of. Chicago, Aug. 30.-Plans for a subway system that will eliminate the present loop in the downtown district and substitute eight loops that will be operated entirely underground and do away with all grade and elevated crossings have been drawn up by Mr. George W. Jackson, and are to be submitted soon to Mayor Busse. The estimated cost of the new system is in excess of $80,000,000, but Jackson and his associates say they are ready to make a contract with the city for the work forthwith. soon as Mayor Busse receives formal notification of Jackson's offer the city council will be asked to apappoint a committee to examine the plans and investigate the financial standing of Jackson's company and its general responsibility for undertaking the task it proposes. The subway will be operated distinet from any existing street car or elevated railroad company, but the plans include the provision of suffiient space underground to make it possible for the elevated railroads to ficulties and annoyances of the present oop and do away with the dangers the overhead crossings. Space is also to be provided in the tunnels for telephone conduits, gas and vater mains, electric light and power conduits, cold air mains, steam for The total mileage proposed in Jackson's present plans is great, and it is pointed out that these admit of almost indefinite extension toward the outlying parts of the city.
