After the capture of the central fort, it appears from their statements, the left wing of the attacking forces advanced and occupied Chanshan at 5.10 o'clock yesterday morning. Chanshan was the base of the right wing of the German line and is a trinagular fortification. Then the other forces at the point of the bayonet captured the forts of the first line including the intricate and dang-crous defence works connecting them. Other forces advanced in rushes on the main line of defences, made up of the forts of Iltis, Bismarck and Moltke.

Vice-Minister of the Navy Suzuki, speaking to-day of the future of Tsing-Tau said:

"While the European war continues, Tsing-Tau will be administered by Japan. At the conclusion of the war, Japan will open, negotiations with China."

Furtuer details of the Tsing-Tau fighting, reaching Tokio, show the Germans made desperate efforts to repair the damage to their batteries, but without success. Japanese shells killed the men at work and demolished the batteries anew. The projectiles from the Japanese ships started fire in several parts of the city, certain parts of which were burned. TOKIO, Nov. 7.—Tokio is celebrating to-day the fall of the German fortress at Tsing-Tau after an actual siege of a few days more than three weeks. It was in the middle of September that the real attack began although the preparations for the taking of the German stronghold in Asia were begun immediately after war was declared by Japan on August 11. Crowds collected overywhere today and many processions were formed, the enthusiastic people, dragging about with them floats decorated with flowers as a symbol of victory. Japanese and British flags are floating everywhere throughoutthe city.

The final and successful attack on Tsing-Tau began shortly after midnight Friday morning and the first inroad by the allied forces, which was largely instrumental in the fall of the place, was the taking of the middle fort of the first line of defence. This was accomplished by a brilliant charge of infantry and engineers, led by General Yoshimi Yamada. Simultaneously with the charge of General Yamada, others were made the troops dashing forward with cries of "ban zai." A detachment of the first line, occupied the Iltis, Bismarck and Moltke forts at 7 c clock in the morning and then the enemy hoisted the white flag on the weather astronomical station, adjoining, the governor's office. Another white flag was hoisted on the coast forts at the mouth of the Haipoat at 7.30 o'clock. Germans Will be Forced to Give Battle on Their Own Territory-Austrians Have Been Routed at the River San-A New Period of War.

[By Special Wire to The Courier]

PARIS, Nov. 7.-An official statement by the Russian general staff is given in a Petrograd despatch to the Havas Agency. It

"Fierce combats on the River San and south of Przemysl, which have been going on for more than three weeks, resulted on Novem-ber 5 in a general retreat of the Austrians.

"On the preceding night the Austrians made a last effort to repulse our troops who were crossing the San. Until a late hour the enemy attacked on an extend-ed front, taking the offensive in dense, successive lines, but everywhere they suffered enormous losses and were repulsed.

"On November 5 the enemy's columns commenced to move from the San in the direction of Dukla Pass, across the Carpathians, and south of Przemysl, seekians, and south of Przemysl, seeking everywhere to leave the battle front. We pursued them energetically all along the line.

of the Austro-German armies against Warsaw and Ivangorod.

"At the beginning of October our troops were engaged along a front extending for 330 miles and passing through Warsaw, Kozienica, Przemysł and Czernowitz.

Towards October 20 we succeeded in galinna a decisive angeces. over the Germans on the right bank of the Vistula in the region of Warsaw, that is to say, on the right wing of our general strategic front.

"Our next object was to strike from the north those portions of the enemy's forces still holding positions on the Vistula and the San. In the fighting, which last-ed from the 23rd to the 27th of October, we succeeded in breaking the stubborn resistance of the Austro-German army in the Ko-zienica-Ivangorod region. In danitza, this army fell back pursued by our troops.

"Between October 28 and November 2 we overcame the enemy's resistance in a new region, that of Alexandria and Sandomir.
On November 5 the Austrian army in Galicia was compelled to

"Following up our successes during eighteen days, on a front of 330 miles, we broke the resistance of the enemy, who is in full retreat. This victory we owe to the inexhaustible grace of God, who blesses the superhuman hero-ism of our admirable warriors, of whom Russia has a right to be proud.
"This victory enables our troops to proceed to a realization of fur-ther tasks which will inaugurate a new period of the war."

in that region. He says:

"This town was occupied by the Russian forces about noon today after a brief night attack.
For once we were well forward and we entered the town with the Russian troops on the very heels of the enemy. The opposing forces

The Russains attacked over a front of about 14 miles, taking the centre about seven miles east of here by a vigorous night attack. The Aus-trians made a strong defense in a church yard and in a village, but they were driven out with the bayonet, as I can testify from ob-serving the wounds of the dead. The Austrians did not leave town until 10 o'clock this morning and we entered about noon.

"It was a picturesque spectacle to observe the Cossacks and infantry, soiled with the hard nights fighting, and the artillery, fresh from their positions, pouring into the quaint square which was barely emptied of the enemy. Our infantry and guns pushed forward and by the afternoon were again engaging the enemy about twelve miles south and west of here.

"The Russians are pushing on with their advance with the utmost vigor, averaging in this quarter about fifteen miles daily, while certain regiments on the flanks make nearly 25 miles. From information given by people in the villages, it is learned that the Germans secured supplies of all entered about noon.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Nov. 7-Offic ial announcement has been received by the Newfoundland government. that the British admiralty is prepared to enlist 500 men of the former members of the Newfoundland naval reserve for immediate active service in Europe, to continue for a period o one year. It is also desired to increase the existing strength of this reserve from 600 to 1,000 men. Euistment for both services is actively proceeding. It is understood that the nen to be sent to Europe will drafted into Eritish ships with as little delay as possible to help fill up the gap caused by the losses sustained in the sinking of British war ves-sels in the North Sea.

THEY STAGGERED FORWARD BUT BRITISH FIRE STOPPED THE ADVANCING COLUMNS

LONDON, Nov. 7-A Daily Mail correspondent in orthern France, writing under date of Friday, says:

"The big contest for Ypres, which raged all last Sunday culminated Monday afternoon in the supreme effort. The Germans advanced all along the line after a terrific cannonading of the British position, but the entrenched British soldiers had not been shaken and as the German infantry approached they met them with volley after volley of rifle

"The Germans staggered forward falling by dozens under the withering hail of bullets. They held on bravely for ninety minutes, determined to win through if at all possible. Then finding all attempts vain they withdrew all attempts vain, they withdrew under cover of darkness, leaving thousands of their wounded behind on the field.

"Now that Germans are short of uniforms it is becoming a quite common practice for them to strip the wounded of every scrap of miltary clothing. Great number have died from exposure from this cause.

"Though railway communica-tion with Lille has not been reestablished the Germans evacuated the city five days ago. Wells and cisterns were full of dead bodies and there was not a drop of water fit to drink. Rigorous sanitation will recede the granting of permit on to the inhabitants to return to their homes.

Everywhere Germans Have Failed to Break Through

[By Special Wire to the Courier] PARIS, Nov. 7 .- With renewed energy the Germans are clinging tenaciously to their positions in Flanders, especially the Ypres region, but the initiative, so important in modern warfare, is now passing to the Allies. Eye-wit-nesses from the front declare that the fighting around Bixschcote is as furious as ever. The Germans have attacked again and again, and positions have been won and lost many times, but the advantage has remained with the Allies. No less violent was the struggle south of Ypres, between Wytschaete and Messines, for command of the high road leading from Ypres to Armentieres and Lille. This road is now in possession of the Allies. Now or never is the time for the Germans to bring up reserves to make a decisive effort to win through, in the opinion of military experts. According to prisoners taken recently, how-ever, while there is no lack of men, there is a great dearth of officers, large numbers having been sent to the Russian frontier, where the need of them is greater to make up staffs for the reserve corps opposing the ever-growing Russian army. The German efforts to pass Arras and break through to the coast by way of the hilly country of Artois continue, but with less success. The army formerly commanded to the army formerly commanded to the army formerly commanded to the coast of the commanded to the coast of t by the Crown Prince east of the Argonne region has resumed its attempt to force a passage across the forest to join the army on the other side. The French, however, retain command of the only roads across this difficult region, and all attacks, though made with great determination, have failed to shake the French positions.

Another despatch from Petrograd, declares that a general pursuit of the retiring Austrians is under way, but the cautious tone of the official communication, added to significant admissions from Vienna, creates the impression that the Austrians are regaining their fortified positions without suffering great disaster. With the Teutonic allies safe in their new positions, it is quite likely in the opinion of London observers that heavy reinfreements have been sent from the eastern front. been sent from the eastern front for th supreme effort along the western line of battle.

The feeling is growing here that the recent raid of the German fleet off Yarmouth was not the sum total of naval activities in the North Sea and this impression

LONDON, Nov. 7—The correspondent of The Express on the Belgian frontier, under date of Friday, telegraphs the following: "The kaiser himself is close to the front in Flanders, making efforts to inspire his troops to gain Calais. Despite the nearly successful bomb attack on him at Thielt Sunday, the kaiser continues to drive daily through the territory behind the Bruges and Courtrai' roads. His route is always kept secert and he uses a ways kept secert and he uses a new car of different appearance each time, in order to prevent a description from reaching the

The kaiser dined with the staff at Ghent yesterday and returned to the staff headquarters thorough ly dissatisfied with the result of the past few days of the campaign. A party of refugees saw the kaiser in an automobile yesterday. One of them said: "The kaiser sat on the rear seat with the Duke of Wurttemburg. The front seat was occupied by infantrymen, while the pilot car, filed with soldiers went in front, The kaiser's extreme pallor and rigidity of features, were very marked. He sat like a statute, wrapped in a gray coat and listened to the report of a passing officer. At the end he saluted but without a smile and then nodded silently to the soldier chauffeur to go ahead."

BERLIN, via London, Nov. 7. -The police a six o'clock Friday morning notified all Englishmen from the ages of seventeen to fifty five to report to the police stations for transport to Ruhle-ben, near Berlin. They were ad-vised to bring two blankets, sheets and so forth. The exodus is now proceeding.

Ruhleben has hitherto been chiefly used as a camp for Russians, but about 100 Englishmen, subjects of suspicion or without domicile, were earlier interned there. The quarters at Ruhleben, hitherto used as stables, are well built and prisoners there were supplied with straw mattresses, but more recently they have been given bedsteads. The new arrivals will probably be housed accord-ingly. No arrangements have yet been announced for family visit-

THE COURTER

THE SITUATION.

The grim grip between the Allies maintained. As a matter of fact, it is much better to have the Germans spend themselves in attacking foreign territory than invading them just now on their own. They have plenty of stamina, all right, but the toll exacted from them must have been terrible, and the long weeks of their struggle have been practically without any result save the temporary crushing of poor little Belgium, but not all of it, for they are still standing up to the odds in the game like men.

INDIVIDUAL AND GENERAL.

Once a man gets the habit of buying things made in his own country, he gets a satisfaction that he never enjoyed before. It's a good bit of human nature not to care where things are made so long as they fit the case. But it's a better and a bigger part of selfish human nature to figure out how one's purchases help along the general movement of prosperity in ihs own human nature to figure out how one's purchases help along the general movement of prosperity in ihs own country. In this co-operation between the individual and the general welfare, the personal effort of every man and woman counts when it comes to the big national push that gets the country out of the rut. The text of the communication follows:

"On our left wing the situation is relatively quiet on the Yser, down stream from Dixmude. The Belgiam troops who advanced advanced along the right bank of the Yser from Nieuport in the direction of Lombaertzyde, and who had been counter attacked by the Germans, were sustained in time. The situation has been entirely re-established in this locality.

"At Dixmude the Marine Fusliers repulsed a fresh counter offensive movement. Further to the south the attacks of the enemy around Bixschoote also were repulsed by French troops, who subsequently advanced. To the cast of Ypres, the situation is without change. To the southeast of this town we have resumed the offensive in combination with the British troops operating in this region, and repulsed an attack particularly violent and pronounced by detachments belonging to the active army corps recently brought into this region by the Germans.

"Between Armentieres and the canal of La Bassee the British army, on its side, repulsed a violent attack on Nuvechapelle. Between the canal of La Bassee and Arras, as well as between Arras and the Oise, several counter attacks delivered by night and by day, have been checked. #### Civic Employes Get Together

The civic employes met in the city hall last night for the purposes of getting together and amalgamating in one harmonious whole for their matual benefit. They decided that the meeting would be called every first Friday in the month and that it would be named the Municipal Officials Association. The duties of the departments were discussed and ideas exchanged for a peaceful existence in the old city hall.

How time flies!

Fourteen weeks since the war started. With it a feeling of depression spread broadcast; some at the beginning prophesied "hard times ahead." Still the fact remains that while certain lines of goods have been reluctantly raised in price, on account of shortage in raw materials, we are all holding our own, and striving to make conditions better by trading with our local merchants, and buying Canadian-made goods.

Brantford Merchants Need Your Support

By buying at home we are helping the bread-winners of Brantford to keep the wheels turning; a great responsibility rests on the shoulders of every adult Brantfordite at this time. Every dollar spent in Brantford indirectly goes to help a multitude of Brantford people. If we send our dollar out of town we lose this mighty effect, and others who are in no way responsible for the re-investment of our money with us, are benefited.

War at its best is a mighty hard proposition to deal with, but we, as good British subjects, unhesitatingly accept our responsibility, and bear our burden unflinchingly. In several different lines large manufacturing concerns have benefited and are working night and day shifts to turn out their goods. Those who are closely identified with these concerns are the gainers. In other lines it may be that business has slackened to some extent. This state of affairs cannot be governed in these times. Our own responsibility rests with keeping the wheels turning at home.

Patronize Your Local Merchant

Spend your money where it will do the most good to the majority, and don't forget you are one of the majority. Your money spent at home, with the other fellow's money spent at home, gives the local merchant a working capital to re-invest in labor. Your sons and daughters, husbands and neighbors are the gainers. We are all dependent on one another; and don't think that by buying out of town, for an imaginary gain, you are saving money. You cannot prove it, and it will not work out.

Why is it that when a circus comes to town it is taxed a high rate by the city authorities for show privileges? Because it takes so much money out of town. It is here to-day and gone to-morrow, but we remain. We have got to look to home industry for our daily bread-something that is a fixture, that produces in our midst. We all should become fixtures, producers, not mere transients, in that we exist from Brantford capital, and spend it for the Brant Creamery, Brantford, Ont.

The last three days of this week will be a Made-in-Canada display, and will be given by the retail business men of this city, when every merchant in Brantford is requested to give the utmost prominence, in his windows and throughout his store, to the merchandise that he usually carries in stock which is "Made in Canada." The purpose of this display is to familiarize the people of this vicinity with the nature of the goods that are the manufacture of Canadian artisans, so that such an increased demand will be created for this merchandise that the wheels of industry will be kept in operation during these trying times and unemployment reduced to a

When it is remembered that last year Canada bought nearly $700,000,000 worth of foreign goods, nearly half of which could have been made in Canada, it will be realized that if this business can be diverted into the factories of this country that the commercial depression caused by the war would be largely minimized. Every Canadian is imbued with a strong sense of loyalty, and if every opportunity is taken to make the people more familiar with what "Made in Canada" actually means, undoubtedly the business of the industries of this country will be increased as a result. Let every merchant enter heartily into this movement, and see that his store is attractively decorated with "Madein-Canada" merchandise on Thursday, Friday and Saturday next, and every citizen is urged to visit the stores on these days to become more familiar with the extent and nature of the goods that are made in our own country. Remember, every two dollars spent on goods of foreign manufacture deprives a Canadian workingman of a day's pay.

There is a sense in which we must bear our own burden (yerse 5), "Every one of us shall give account of himself to God" (Rom. xiv, 12). If we have been redeemed from the curse of the law we are here to do good unto all as we have opportunity, having reference first to believers, the household of faith; never weary in well doing, knowing that the reaping time is sure and that our labor is never in vain in the Lord (verses 9, 10; I Cor. xv, 58). easy mind when he turned his lace to France.

But there was one more visit to be paid and one thore farewell to be spoken ere Nigel could leave the moorlands where he had dwelled so long. That evening he donned his brightest tunic, dark purple velvet of Genoa, with trimming of miniver, his hat with the snow-white feather curling round the front, and his belt of embossed silver round his loins. Mounted on lordly Pommers, with his hawk upon wrist and his sword by his side, never did fairer young gallant or one more modest in mind set forth upon such an errand. It was but the old Knight of Duplin to whom he would say farewell; but the Knight of Duplin had two daughters, Edith and Mary, and Edith was the fairest maid in all the heather-country.

the same trunk. Both were tall and of a queenly graceful figure. But there all resemblance began and ended.

Edith was yellow as the ripe corn, blue eyed, winning, mischievous, with a chattering tongue, a merry laugh, and a smile which a dozen of young gallants, Nigel of Tilford at their head, could share equally amongst them. Like a young kitten she played with all things that she found in life, and some there were who thought that already the claws could be felt amid the patting of her velvet touch. Mary was dark as night, gravefeatured, plain-visaged, with steady brown eyes looking bravely at the world from under a strong black arch of brows. None could call her beautiful, and when her fair sister cast her arm round her and placed her cheek against hers, as was her habit when company was there the fairness of the one and the plainness of the other leaped visibly to the eyes of all, each the clearer for that hard contrast. And yet, here and there, there was one who, looking at her strange, strong face, and at the passing gleams far down in her dark eyes, felt that this silent woman with her proud bearing and her queenly grace had in her something of strength, of reserve and of mystery which was more to them than all the dainty glitter of her sister.

Such were the ladies of Cosford toward whom Nigel Loring rode that her sister.

Such were the ladies of Cosford toward whom Nigel Loring rode that night with doublet of Genoan velvet and the new white feather in his cap.

He had ridden over Thursley Ridge past that old stone where in days gone by at the place of Thor the wild Saxons worshiped their war-god. Nigel looked at it with a wary eye and spurred Pommers onward as he passed it, for still it was said that wild fires danced round it on the moonless nights, and they who had ears for such things could hear the scream and sob of those whose lives had been ripped from them that the fiend might be honored. Thor's stone, Thor's jumps, Thor's punch-bowl—the whole country-side was one grim monument to the God of Battles, though the pious monks had changed his uncouth name for that of the Devil's jumps and the Devil's punch-bowl of which they spoke. Nigel glanced back at ley village. Then a thought came to her mind and in an instant her anger was forgotten and she was hot on a new scent.

"What would you do if T were injured, Nigel? I have heard my father say that small as you are there is no man in these parts could stand against you. Would you be my champion if I suffered wrong?"

"Surely I or any man of gentle blood would be the champion of any woman who had suffered wrong."

"You or any and I or any what sort of speech is that? Is it a compliment, think you, to be mixed with a drove in that fashion? My question was of you and me. If I were wronged would you be my man?"

"Try me and see, Edith!"

"Then I will do so, Nigel. Either Sir George Brocas or the Squire of Fernhurst would gladly do what I ask, and yet I am of a mind, Nigel, to turn to you."

"I pray you to tell me what it is."

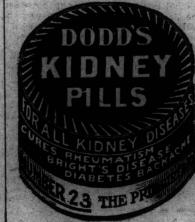

"You know Faul de la Fosse of Shalford?"

"You mean the small man with the

"You mean the small man with the twisted back?"
"He is no smaller than yourself, Nigel, and as to his back there are many folk that I know who would be glad to have his face."

Boy Knight Notes

Mr. Everest gave a splendid address, dwelling on the great help it was for a boy to have training in his early life, showing by apt illustriations the value of politeness and good habits, the impressions that older people received at times, from boys, who at times were thoughtless as to their behaviour and conduct, while on the street and other places. Addresses were also given by Mr. Vansickle, Mr. G. Hunt and Capt. Vansickle, who is going with the second contingent. Solos were sung by Capt E.
