Court of Revision

The adjourned meeting of the Court of Revision was held in the council chamber on Monday evening. All the members present.

The appeal of J. H. Mulvena for equalization was first considered. The assessment on his land was increased $200 and the assessment on the buildings thereon was decreased $250.

Part of H. W. Kincaid's appeal was allowed, and his assessment on income and salary was decreased $200.

The question of equalizing the assessment on other Main street property was discussed at considerable length, but lacking necessary data to proceed with the work, adjournment was made until Friday evening next.

CHEESE STILL HIGH

There was a large attendance of members of Brockville Dairymen's Board of Trade at the meeting on June 2, and a large attendance of visitors, all apparently interested in the sale of cheese. Salesmen were not expecting 12c per lb. for their goods, as the 12c snap in the market has gone into May history as something uncommon in the record of the Canadian product.

At one time, it looked as if there was a dead set in the question of price and no sales would be made. The buyers offered 11c per lb and wanted the goods for sure. However, the salesmen turned it down every time. Finally, a basis of operation was reached by the president making an offer of sales of the board at 11½c per lb., at which price nearly every box was sold, and the salesmen returned home feeling that a good price had been obtained for the goods.

One year ago, same date, our cheese sold at 9 3/16c per lb. The price obtained on Saturday in very nearly two cents per lb. in advance of last season, which was perhaps the best one for many years. The sales for the day, on and off the board, were placed at 8000 boxes, which represents a snug sum of money for the dairy farmer and his interesting family.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, DELTA

Large audiences attended the reopening services in connection with St. Paul's Church, Delta, on Sunday last, and heard inspiring sermons by Rev. W. P. Fitzgerald, M.A., of Lyndhurst. Many from Athens and Lansdowne were present. The services were bright, a reflection of the thankfulness and justifiable pride which all felt in the thorough rejuvenation that had been wrought in the old building. Both had been effected. New floors, new seats, new and very beautiful stained glass windows give to the auditorium a class, impressive, inviting appearance.

The old building has a history well worth preserving. It was erected in 1811. The work was commenced by the Anglicans, but before its completion it was decided to invite the Baptists to share with them the cost and use it for a place of worship for both religious bodies. This arrangement worked well for years, but finally by the removal of Baptist families to Phillipsville and of Anglicans to Lansdowne the number of either body using it was comparatively small. The building fell into great disrepair, and as the divided responsibility seemed to militate against its improvement, the Baptists sold out their interests to the Anglicans in 1868. It was then repaired and renewed and has since been used exclusively by the Anglicans.

After nearly forty years of service the congregation and their energetic pastor, the Rev. R. B. Patterson, M.A. decided that it was time to again renovate and embellish the building. At first, only limited improvements were contemplated, but the lure of beauty and utility led them on until they completed a work that gives to them a house of worship creditable alike to their heads and hearts.

SNIDER—McAVANA

A quiet wedding took place at the residence of Mr. Alonzo Earl, Abel street, Smith's Falls, on Wednesday evening, May 30th, when Miss Nellie McAvana of Rockspring was united in marriage to Mr. Alfred A. Snider of Addison.

The ceremony took place in the drawing room, which had been prettily decorated for the event, and was conducted by the Rev. B. B. Brown, B. D., of St. Henri, Montreal, cousin of the groom, assisted by Rev. A. L. Boyd, B. D. of Point Fortune. The bride was becomingly attired in a dress of white organdie trimmed with lace and insertion and wore a bouquet of lilies of the valley and was assisted by her sister, Miss Catharine McAvana of Clark Mills, N. Y., who was also attired in white. Mr. Clifford Earl, cousin of the groom acted as best-man. The wedding march was played by Mrs. (Rev.) B. B. Brown. After the ceremony, the party adjourned to the dining room where a dainty wedding repast was partaken of by all.

The bride's travelling suit was of blue Amazon trimmed with white applique, with hat to match. The young couple, after spending their honeymoon in Smith's Falls and other parts, will take up their residence in Addison.

We Do Not Pay Your Fare —OR— Supply You With Meals

But, We Can Save You Twice or Three Times as Much When You Come to Our Store

Last Tuesday, a man came in our store looking for a suit and a rain coat; he liked them pretty well, but he was anxious to look around before buying. In an hour he came back, bought that suit, rain coat, two shirts, a tie, underwear and hat. He told us that "he was in almost every store in town—he saw a good many suits, but liked our clothes better than any of them—that ours were much lower than in any other store." He also remarked, "Of course, they'd pay my fare, some said they'd pay for my dinner, but I said, no, thank you, I am not after that, I am after the best clothes for the least money; so I came back here. No wonder, with the prices they are charging, I should think they could pay my expense for a couple days."

That's only one example, but ever so many are telling us the same thing. Now, Sir, don't swallow any bait, but come to our store if you want to get the best for the least money.

THIS ORIGINAL DOCUMENT ENTITLED IN VERY POOR CONDITION

Crime of Lese Majeste

In all monarchial countries it is an axiom, accepted by everybody that the person and character of the ruling sovereign are sacred, and even though the idea may rest upon nothing more tangible than custom or an unwritten law, it is observed in most countries in a loyal spirit.

In Germany, on the other hand, where the laws regarding "lese majeste" are so strict, scarcely a week passes without the conviction of some unfortunate person who has dared to infringe one of the scores of clauses in the law, and suffers accordingly.

The law is so worded as to bring within its scope any remark which can by the exercise of great ingenuity be twisted into something reflecting, be it ever so remotely, on the character or person of the sovereign, and to make it a criminal offense, and to make it so loosely worded that the widest possible interpretation may be placed on any remark which falls under suspicion.

The latest case occurred a few days ago, when a Berlin butcher was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for having spoken disrespectfully of the Kaiser three years ago. Not long ago the editor of a German newspaper received a sentence of three months for remarking in his journal that the Kaiser received £2,000 daily for appending his signature to a few state documents.

One of the most extraordinary prosecutions was that against a governess who was convicted of "lese majeste" for having written her name in the visitors' book of an hotel immediately beneath the signatures of the King of Saxony and two princesses.

INTERESTING BILEAN CURE.

No matter of how long standing the ailments for which Bileans are applied those ailments gradually vanish. For the greatest portion of her life, Mrs. Francis Clark, of 40 Warrington Road, Widnes, had suffered from indigestion, headache and allied ailments.

"I was treated at Welbeck Dispensary, at St. George's Hospital, at St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington, and at Croydon Hospital, but without result. I have spent pounds and pounds on doctors, but they never gave me any benefit. Sometimes I got relief for a day or two, but the pains soon returned.

"The doctors didn't seem to know what was the matter with me. One said one thing and another said something else; but in spite of all their medicine I got no better. One day an insurance agent in Runcorn said that if I was suffering from indigestion I should take Bileans, which had cured him of that complaint.

"I had no faith in proprietary medicines, and had never taken any, but I determined to follow his advice. For the first week of taking Bileans I felt no very great improvement, as my friend had foretold, but I persevered with them and soon began to feel an improvement. From that day I never looked back. Gradually the indigestion, headache, dizziness, and other ailments were overcome. I took in all nine boxes of Bileans and they cured me completely. Bileans are worth $10 a box, and I only wish I had known of them earlier. I am pleased to let other people know how I have benefited by them.

Bileans for Biliouness cure head-ache, constipation, piles, liver trouble, indigestion and all digestive disorders, female ailments, skin eruptions, biliousness, sick headache, bad taste in the mouth, fainting, dizziness, feelings of uneasiness, wind, pain, anemia, debility, etc.

Obtainable from all druggists and stores at 50 cents per box, or direct from Bilean Co., Colborne Street, Toronto, upon receipt of price. 6 boxes for $2.50.

A High Personage. For a fortnight, each May, the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland is in session at Edinburgh, in one of the great halls of Holyrood Palace, under the presidency of a peer of the realm, holding a patent from the King as his Lord High Commissioner. During that fortnight the Lord High Commissioner enjoys altogether vice-regal honors. He is received on his arrival in the Scottish capital by its municipal dignitaries, headed by the Lord Provost, and by the Lord Lieutenant of the country, and then, escorted by cavalry, drives in state carriages, with postillions, through streets lined with troops, to Holyrood Palace, where he is quartered during the two weeks' stay.

Like the Viceroy of the Indies, he is addressed as "Sir"; and he is also accorded the predicate of "Your Grace!" Not merely men, but ladies as well, are expected to rise from their seats when he enters a room and to remain standing until he bids them be seated. He has a large staff of lords and gentlemen-in-waiting, while his wife has her maids-of-honor.

SECRETS IN HANDWRITING.

Curious Puzzles Experts are Expected to Solve.

Yes, said an expert in handwriting it is no easy matter to tell which is a forged name and which is a bona-fide one, for the professional forger of to-day is an expert in his art. Fifty or sixty years ago handwriting experts were suspicious by their absence; now there are scores of them in London alone, and the leading ones are constantly brought before the public in connection with law cases—big, sensational and curious.

Professional handwriting artists have much curious work to do. I am called upon almost daily to banish or confirm suspicions in matrimonial squabbles. Some weeks ago a young lady brought to me a birthday card she had received bearing a few words, but no name written with a pen. She was anxious to know whether the name was genuine or not. I was told that the name was written three months before and not afterward seen. She showed me a letter she had received from him in days of yore, and though the handwriting on the birthday card was disguised, I proved beyond a shadow of doubt, on comparing it with the letter, that it was from the young fellow in question. The lady was very pleased when I pointed this out to her, and I have since heard that the quarrel has been patched up and the parties are to be married a few weeks hence.

Last February a well known city merchant received a dually colored valentine. He brought it to me, stating that the sender was a clerk in his employ to whom he had refused an increase in salary. He wanted to know whether the valentine was correctly written. The word "miser" was written on the valentine in red ink, and on comparing this with the usual writing of the clerk in question I discovered similar peculiarities in both, proving that the clerk was the guilty party. However, for the sake of the fellow's sake, I kept my knowledge to myself, pointing out to the merchant that in suspecting his clerk he probably was making a mistake.

The difficulty a forger has to contend against when imitating some one's handwriting is in disguising his own. Experts are always on the lookout for foreign characteristics, for they very often lead to the identity of the forger.

Moreland, the Oxford tutor, one of the most successful and capable forgers who ever lived, could not only reproduce the handwriting of other people, but could write no fewer than seven distinct hands. One of them had one falling, however, in writing in a different hand some of the characteristics of his own unfortunately. This evidently proved his downfall. He wrote a number of blackmailing letters in a very fine, delicate, womanly hand. One of these letters was placed in the hands of the officials at the Home Office and the handwriting expert who examined them detected the characteristics of Moreland's natural writing in the calligraphy of the "lady."

Were it not for the most perfect detection of forgeries would be almost impossible. Quite recently a cheque for the sum of $200 was presented at a London bank, and it was found to have been forged. An eminent expert who was called in examined with a powerful hand lens the signature on the cheque, and found nothing suggestive of forgery. He then put the cheque to the photographic test and found upon the resulting photograph unmistakable signs of erasure and shading. The forger, however, he had first sketched the name in pencil, and then filled it in with ink, shading the down strokes careful with a fine pen.

Autograph collectors should be careful when purchasing letters, etc., that are supposed to be in the handwriting of eminent people that they obtain the real thing. There are men in London who make a good thing of buying up old letters and selling them at auction rooms and bazaars. One man known to me, has made as much as $60 in a month in this way.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CASE

Here is Something That Will Be Welcome News to Many a Discouraged One.

"For several years I have been troubled with gas around my heart, shortness of breath, my food did not digest properly, it turned sour in my stomach, causing me great distress; often, too, I had disagreeable attacks of belching gas and heartburn, and severe pains across the small of my back.

"I tried Dr. Leonard's Anti-Pill and from the very first I felt relief. Anti-Pill has indeed cured me." This is the voluntary statement of Wm. H. Reed, of 165 Queen street, Kingston, Ont. All Dealers, or the Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

Good to Winner. Finally, acknowledgment must be made of the courtesy with which the Greek people entertained their guests. Everyone one met with the most charming treatment, and in the eyes of those who realized the bitter disappointment inflicted by the defeat of the native champions in the great Marathon race, the magnificent triumph given to the victor was a great triumph of cordiality and good sportsmanship.

"IT IS A MIRACLE!"

—say Hamilton People. Bleeding Piles Cured after Years of Suffering.

Miracle-days may be past—but the day of saving people from suffering is ever-present. What is more distressing than itching, Bleeding Piles? Some say the only cure is the knife. We say, operations are unnecessary. Read this letter!

"For years I had Piles, which protruded and bled freely. The itching pain was sometimes almost unbearable. Often I suffered so severely it was next to impossible to remain on duty. It was hardly to walk. I tried many remedies, but with poor success. This winter, in New York, I read the Great Chicago I suffered greatly—was almost compelled to remain in my room. I tried several remedies—without relief. On my return home, Mrs. O'Rourke used and advised. I used it in only a short time, all the irritation and pain ceased. I can now walk with ease and attend my duties as a member of the Fire Department. I strongly recommend Mrs. O'Rourke's ointment to suffering from this annoying complaint." Hamilton, March 9, 1906. Keep Minard's Liniment in the house. How to Chew. "Thirty-two chews to each morsel," said Gladstone. "Chew till you can taste no more, and don't get angry," says Fletcher. Perhaps the second dictum in his philosophy explains Fletcher's tum in his philosophy as much as the first. His philosophy is helpful, and his career, as described in the American Magazine for June, holds more interesting adventure than three ordinary men amass.

Amazing Marine Procession. The fleets of the world which roam the seven seas occasionally bunch up like the most prominent port or passageway like the Suez canal and make an imposing showing. But in point of magnitude almost any of these marine processions fall short of that unending commercial parade which is forever steaming down the great lakes and through the canals. The immensity of this traffic is reflected in the official figures for April, 1906, for the "St. Lawrence" canal alone. During the thirty days of last month, 1,079 vessels of 2,096,640 tons net register and carrying 2,513,267 tons of freight passed through this great highway. Nearly one-half of this traffic was iron ore, with coal to the extent of about 650,000 tons second in prominence and grain and flour next on the list.—Portland Oregonian.

Czar's Wealth in Forests. Few people who have not travelled about the Russian empire can imagine how boundless is its wealth in timber. "Wooden Russia" is the name applied to the vast forest areas of Russia in Europe, which cover nearly 5,000,000 acres, or 38 per cent. of the entire area of the country. In Russia houses built of any other material than wood are almost unknown outside the cities and wood constitutes the principal fuel. The forest belt called the "Taiga," in Siberia, stretches in a direct line from the Urals to the Pacific for 4,000 miles and is a great many parts is 500 miles broad. All this is the property of the czar.

The Open Door in Egypt. While there can be no doubting the intention of the British Government to henceforth dominate openly the political control of Egypt as a part of the British empire, the proposals of Lord Cromer clearly indicate that there is to be equal opportunity for all nationalities and full respect for acquired and vested rights. In other words, modern Egypt is to be governed on the open door principle so strongly advocated by the United States in China and the far east generally. Do You Get Duns? Lots of people regard every request made to them, either verbal or in writing, to settle a bill, as a dun. A dun is supposed to be more or less offensive. Just why any man should find fault when someone one to whom he owes money asks him to pay it is more than we have asked him to comprehend. If you owe a been money you ought to pay him if you can. If you cannot, it is your business to explain why you cannot. Most people intend some time or other to pay as prompt as bills, but not many are as prompt as they should be. It is a very easy matter when asked to pay a bill, to explain to the creditor why you cannot do it and ask for more time. The debtor will generally get extra time if he is dealing with a reasonable man. The exasperating thing in connection with creditors is to write the letter after or send statement to the creditor, and have him ignore them apparently with silent contempt. It is under such circumstances that the creditor gets irritated and gives the account perhaps to an attorney, when exercising a little sense of the part of the debtor, the matter could be easily and amicably adjusted. Do not look on a dun to irritate you. It is the right of a creditor to ask for his money when he does not get it, and to keep asking at intervals till he does get it.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION OF KING ALFONSO AND HIS BRIDE.

Bomb Thrown at Royal Carriage While Returning from Marriage Ceremony.

The King and Queen Escape, but Sixteen Persons Killed and Many Injured.

Report That the Assassin Has Been Captured—Full Details of the Tragedy.

A Madrid cable says: Alfonso and his bride had come from the altar and were receiving an ovation from their myriad of subjects such as even this proud capital had never seen before, when suddenly they were brought face to face with the peril of assassination in its deadliest form. Roses flung from every side were falling in a soft cascade upon the royal chariot. The young Queen, in unfeigned delight, was bowing right and left in acknowledgment of the deafening unending cheers of welcome and congratulations, and the King, ignoring the multitude, was feasting his eyes upon the face of his bride, when a bunch of roses, flung from a balcony, fell with a rush as though made of lead in front of the chariot and just behind the mules drawing it. There was a terrific crash, and a little smoke rose in the air. Death and consternation in an instant supplanted the mirth and rejoicing. A score of men and women lay dead or mutilated.

There was a moment of paralysis and horror. All eyes turned instinctively towards the bridal couple and saw their pale faces amid the ruins, gazing pitifully at the terrifying scene around them. The first man to regain his self-possession was the Duke of Cornuchuelos. He rushed forward, opened the door of the royal coach, and fairly dragged the King and Queen to the ground. Others of the royal escort instantly surrounded them, and they were led to another carriage. The young King speedily mastered his emotion and gave all his attention to his terrified bride. The line of march was quickly taken up to the palace, which was only a quarter of a mile away. Neither the King nor Queen was hurt, although how they escaped seems little short of miraculous.

The bride made a brave effort to control her feelings, but the fearful transition from joy to horror was too much for human nerves to endure and presently she burst into tears. If the truth must be told, the King himself wept in sympathy. Meantime, at the scene of the outrage the first paralysis was succeeded by great confusion. The crowd, when it realized what had happened, became infuriated and surged toward the spot intent upon wreaking vengeance upon the author of the crime. Quickly a cordon of troops was formed, and it was with the greatest difficulty that the dead and injured were cared for and removed.

About a Score Killed.

At this writing it is not definitely known how many victims there were. The dead are given as from eight to 12, and the wounded from 20 to 30. Some say the bomb was thrown from No. 88 Calle Mayor. Others assert that it came from a top storey window. Still another version is that two bombs were thrown, one of which struck a balcony as it fell from above, while the second one was thrown directly in front of the wheels of the royal carriage. It was a powerful engine of destruction, being of polished steel two-fifths of an inch thick. Its explosion instantly killed two mules, four soldiers, a lieutenant, and two women, and beheaded a policeman. The passion for revenge was so great among the spectators that they attempted to lynch three French detectives, assuming that they were foreign Anarchists.

Almost Lynched Him.

As soon as the bomb was thrown, the thrower was seized and was taken down stairs. As he entered the street the people flung themselves upon him, shrieking: "Kill the assassin!" They would have torn him to pieces if the mounted guardian civile had not wheeled and charged the mob. Under a strong escort the murderer was led away while the procession was in panic stricken. The King, however, quickly recovered himself and speaking through a broken window of the royal carriage enquired what damage had been done. He immediately sent an order to reassure his motor and princess Henry of Battenberg. Then His Majesty, raising his voice, commanded the procession to move on. Queen Victoria was deathly pale, but she smiled courageously. At that moment all the King's thoughts evidently were for her. He patted her arm and spoke to her continuously all the way to the Palace.

A rumor had already reached the Palace that the King had been killed, and utter consternation prevailed until the royal carriage came into view. The King and Queen shouted with joy. A few minutes later the King and Queen appeared hand-in-hand on a balcony of the Palace, smiling and bowing in response to the frantic cheering of their subjects.

Murderer Kills Himself.

It was learned later that the bomb was thrown by an Italian Anarchist, who shot himself. Four of his companions were arrested after being rescued from the mob. The bomb struck a balcony below the one from which it was thrown, killing Marquesa de Tolosa and her daughter, and fell into the street.

A captain of the escort and some other officers fell dead, and the royal coach was shattered. One of the mules was killed, and grooms riding on both sides of the carriage were wounded, but the royal pair were not touched. The King and Queen alighted and entered the "Coach of Respect" and drove to the palace.

It is rumored that 48 hours ago the King received an anonymous warning. Some days ago the Italian Government warned the Spanish authorities that it had lost track of a notorious Anarchist.

Alfonso was terribly anxious for his wife, but he himself was not affected by the affair.

BOMB OF POLISHED STEEL.

Escape of King and Queen Almost Miraculous.

A Madrid cable says: The scene in the vicinity of the explosion was horrible.

KING ALFONSO AND QUEEN VICTORIA OF SPAIN.

As the municipal guards hastily improvised litters to bear off the mangled corpses dense crowds pressed in upon them, causing indescribable confusion.

At least 16 persons were killed by the bomb's explosion, most of them being of the personal and military escorts. Thirty or forty others, spectators, were injured. The dead identified thus far are:

Capt. Barros, commanding part of the King's escort.

Lieut. Reyssent.

Lieut. Frendergast.

Six soldiers.

The Marquesa of Colosa and her daughter.

Don Antonio Calvo and his niece, aged 6 years.

Jose Sola, 70 years old.

One story is that the assassin's name is Mateo Moral, and that he escaped.

The bomb, which was concealed in a bouquet, was of polished steel, half a centimetre thick. It was thrown from a third floor window. The house is opposite the Church of the Sacrament and the Captain-General's residence. The royal procession had come to a temporary halt, with the royal carriage exactly opposite the house, when the bomb was thrown.

The missile fell to the right of the royal carriage, between the hindmost pair of horses and the front pair of wheels.

The Duke of Sotomayor, who was riding on the right-hand side of the carriage, was slightly wounded.

Several of those killed were standing on the balcony from the house of which the bomb was thrown. The explosion occurred just as the royal couple were about to enter the palace.

The route of the cortege had been diverted from Arsenal street to Mayer street, owing to the popular desire. The procession had just passed through Mayer street, and was about to turn into the esplanade leading to the palace, when an explosion shook the buildings in the vicinity, stunning a large number of people and throwing the cortege into inextinguishable confusion.

The royal coach was brought to a sudden stop by the shock, officers and soldiers of the escort falling to the ground about the querry and horses that had been killed. The screams of the terrified multitude mingled with the groans of the dying. It was seen that the royal coach was intact except as it had been damaged by flying splinters. King Alfonso immediately alighted and assisted Queen Victoria out of the carriage. They then entered another coach and were driven swiftly to the palace.

The bodies were wrapped up in blankets and removed on litters, while the wounded were carried to hospitals in ambulances. The pavement literally was covered with blood and the upper storeys of the buildings nearest were spattered with it.

The place from which the bomb was thrown is a boarding-house. The chamber from which the missile was hurled was taken May 22 by a man from Barcelona, giving the name of Moral. When the police surrounded the house the man came to the door, but was captured. Another man escaped over the roofs of houses.

One of the injured proved to be a son-in-law of Premier Morri's private secretary.

According to an official statement it is not known whether one or more bombs were thrown. The statement continues that it is impossible to ascertain at present the author of the outrage, although it is known that a Catalan named Manuel Duran took an apartment in the house from which the bomb was thrown on May 22, paying in advance with a 200 peseta bill. He was well dressed of elegant appearance, and showed a fondness for flowers.

TWO BOMBS?

With Corpses and Wreckage Looked Like Battlefield.

A Madrid cable: The officials here are beginning to believe that two bombs were thrown at the King and Queen yesterday, and that the missiles exploded simultaneously with one vivid flash. The scene which followed was like that witnessed on a battlefield. Corpses, pools of blood and wreckage were strewn upon the ground. The front of the house, 88 Calle Mayor, before which the bomb was thrown, was covered with holes, and blood dripped from the curtains of a window on the first floor. In the apartments of the Duke of Alameda, the Marchioness Tolosa and her daughter were killed. One body was jammed in the balcony railing, and was removed with difficulty. No. 8 Calle Mayor and all the nearby houses were surrounded by police, who prevented spectators or groups until they had been thoroughly searched. A tenant on the top floor of a young man who was leaving the house were among those arrested. The crowd tried to lynch the prisoners, and the police only prevented it by charging. Numbers of people hurried to the scene to seek news of relatives, but they were not allowed to enter the buildings. The Marquis of Tolosa, when he heard of the death of his wife, was one of those who arrived and the guards at first refused to admit him. Finally, however, he was allowed to enter and a heartrending scene followed.

KING'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Fragment of Bomb Struck Decoration on His Breast.

A London cable: Another despatch from Madrid says King Alfonso had an even more miraculous escape than generally known. A fragment of the bomb struck his breast, but the force was broken by the chain of the Portuguese Order of Santiago, which he was wearing. The chain was broken, but it stopped a piece of steel which might otherwise have pierced the King's breast.

King and Queen Brave.

The coolness of the young King was marvellous. On reaching the palace after the explosion he sent adjutants to assist the wounded, and later sent officers among the families of the victims, doing everything possible to console with and assist the sufferers.

The Queen Christina, the Prince and Princess of Wales and the Archduke and Archduchess Francis Ferdinand of Austria had already reached the palace and were waiting for the King and Queen with the Infantas. When some time had passed without the royal coach appearing the prince of Wales and the Infanta Theresa, who were waiting at the palace entrance, became deeply anxious, and they were more disturbed when they saw the empty coach arrive with its bloody horses. But the royal family were finally relieved when they saw the King and Queen arrive, and Queen Christina embraced them and uttered her deep thankfulness at their escape. The Princess of Wales was solicitous regarding the victims, and asked for information about the fate of the Marchioness Tolosa.

It is stated that letters were received in Government quarters last night that this man had been the last attempt, as the band of conspirators had declared its intention to keep up the effort. This led to a discussion of the adjournment of some of the main features of the fetes in which the royal family were to be conspicuously present. The tragic event has already cast a deep gloom over the festivities. The people no longer show liveliness and hilarity. There was a magnificent display of fireworks with street singing and dancing last night, but they proceeded with lack of spirit. A pall seems to have fallen over the community.

The proximity of the coach of Grand Duke Vladimir of Russia to the royal coach at the time of the explosion led many of the spectators to believe that the attempt had been against his life, but later it was generally accepted that it was directed against the King and Queen. The courage of the latter was greatly admired. She was somewhat overcome with emotion at first, but the King calmed her, saying that it was nothing serious. Later she recovered her self-possession and bore herself well throughout the trying ordeal. Some of those who saw the young Queen alight from the royal coach just after the explosion say that her bridal veil touched the bloody pools on the pavement, and that it bore an impress of the terrible scene as she returned to the palace.

The King yesterday evening received the princes and ambassadors, and declares that he profoundly regretted the loss of life among his brave soldiers.

COLD FOR THE WHEAT.

The Western Crop Not Making Much Progress.

Winnipeg, June 4.—The weekly report of agents of the Canadian Pacific Railway regarding the condition of the wheat crop was received to-day, and continues very satisfactory. Growth has not been rapid during the past few days owing to the prevalence of cool weather, but the grain has received an excellent start and with the advent of warm days will spring up and grow vigorously. From five to eight inches is the greatest height reported.

The weather has been unobtainably cool, the warmth not being sufficient to induce much growth during the past week. Many agents report cool weather, some cold, and a few very cold, with hard frost. The frost, however, has done no damage and moisture has been on the whole ample.

MAN AND BOY SOLD FOR LARD.

Fell Into a Rendering Caldron of Lard.

Strange Story Told by a Chicago Charity Agent.

Chicago, June 4.—A father and son fell into a rendering cauldron at stockyards and were converted into lard and sold to the public.

A. M. Simons, for three years agent of the Chicago Bureau of Charities at its stockyards station, is authority for this statement.

During the time he was there, eight years ago, two cases came directly to his notice and he was informed of a third.

The cases that came directly under his notice were those of a boy 10 years old and the child's father. The boy, who carried his father's dinner to him every day, went too near one of the steam cauldrons, which are not protected in any way and his father, waiting for him, heard his death scream as he slipped and fell headlong into the scalding steam, carrying his dinner bucket with him.

"The father made frantic efforts to get to the boy and his fellow-workmen did all in their power, but it was ten minutes before the steam could be shut off, and an examination made, and by that time nothing was left of the boy but the bones.

A few weeks after the boy's death the workmen hear a cry and saw the father fall into the same vat. Says Mr. Simons:

"There was no special effort made to get him out and when after nearly half an hour, examination was made, there was not a trace of him; even the bones had been dissolved.

"The flesh of this man and of his boy went on with the rendered meat in the cauldron and in due time was placed in buckets and sold on the market.

"No attempt was ever made to clean the cauldron and the foreman of the room probably reasoned that it would be so much of a loss to throw the entire contents of the cauldron out just because a man had fallen into it."

LYNCHERS ARRESTED.

THIRTEEN IN THE TOOLS FOR LYNCHING JOHN JOHNSON.

Charlotte, N. C., June 4.—Thirteen members of the mob which early on Monday morning lynched John V. Johnson at Wadesboro, N. C., are in jail at that place without privilege of bail, the charge being murder.

There are warrants out for five others who have not yet been taken. The arrests were made at the village of Morven yesterday by several deputies and were accomplished without incident, the men saying that they would have come in and given themselves up if the sheriff had informed them he had warrants for them.

Gov. Glenn, who passed through Charlotte yesterday after a visit to Wadesboro, declared that the crime of the lynchers was greater than that charged to death, and expressed a determination to see that all known members of the mob are placed on trial.

"WEALTHY WIDOW" BAIT.

Postal Authorities Stamp "Fraudulent" on the Mail.

New York, June 4.—Beautiful at twenty-six, worth $75,000, of pleasing disposition and rare temperament, and a widow was the alluring bait which "Higgins & Barton," of 500 Fifth avenue, dangled before the eyes of men matrimonially inclined, through advertisements.

It was after an investigation, lasting two months, that the postal authorities in Washington ordered the word "fraudulent" stamped upon the mail of "Higgins & Barton," and caused the flight of the man who trafficked in the susceptibility of his correspondents. The fee for a glimpse of the widow was $10, and this forthcoming, the "lawyers" would readily arrange an interview for an additional $50. Thereafter, it depended upon the personality of the claimants to the fair widow's hand. It was discovered the wealthy widow was a myth, and hence the action of the authorities.

AMERICA'S EX-CHAMPION WRESTLER

is amongst these who have proved the value of Zam-Buk. Writing from Cameron St., Toronto, he says:—

Gentlemen,—After my great wrestling match with J. Mellor, of Staley-bridge, at the Crystal Palace, England, for the International Championship, I was covered with cuts and bruises. I applied my favorite balm, Zam-Buk, and in a marvellously short time the abrasions and cuts were healed and I was fit and well again. At another time I had a piece of flesh almost torn completely off my arm above the elbow. I anticipated being unable to do anything with the arm for a long time, to my delight, however, Zam-Buk closed up the wound in two days. In three days it was covered with new skin, and a few days after there was no trace of the injury.

Zam-Buk was introduced to me a few years ago when touring in England by a celebrated trainer, who said he had known it to do more good for bruises, cuts and abrasions than any known balm.

Neither I nor my friends ever thought of going on the mat without Zam-Buk being handy. It is a splendid healer, and I can give it a good name wherever I am. I recommend it for cuts, bruises or skin injuries of any kind, and have no objection to you using this statement if you think proper. Yours truly,

Hugh Lannon

Rev. Wm. Pearson and Mr. Ed. Leech are attending conference at Smith's Falls. Mr. D. D. Davidson occupied the pulpit in the Methodist church on Sunday evening. A number went to Smith's Falls via steamer Rideau King. The Jopl also took a number to the Falls on Saturday and will return to-day.

Rev. Wm. Timberlake was renewing acquaintances in town on Friday and Saturday.

Mr. R. P. Tett's new sign was placed in position on the 20th century boot and shoe store last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kelly of the "Idylwyld," Chaffey's Locks, spent Wednesday evening in town.

PHILLIPSVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davison have the sympathy of their neighbors and friends in the serious illness of their four year old son.

J. V. Philips and John Nolan have rented the Cavanaugh farm. Thomas McGrogan rented his home lot. Robt. Godkin bought of Mr. Cavanaugh the lot near the cemetery for $550.

The rapid growth of the pastures helps the cows to yield a large flow of milk, and as cheese sold for 12c, the farmers are feeling jubilant.

Ray Halladay has his house nearly enclosed. His brother, George of Elgin has the contract.

W. H. Earl has his house and stable nearly completed. A. M. Webster of Lyndhurst has the job.

We are having plenty of rain in this vicinity. Meadows are doing well. The cold win is and frosty nights have colored the grain somewhat yellow.

Wm. Dargavel and wife called on some old friends here one day last week. They were on their way to Wm. Tackaberry's to attend a birthday dinner in honor of the 72nd birthday of Mrs. Helen Nichols, relict of the late David Nichols.

Rev. C. N. Dewey, Hillsburg, preached two very appropriate sermons in the Baptist church.

P. J. Young of Almonte is visiting his mother and sister. Mr. Young is not getting the best of health. We hope for his speedy recovery.

H. Putnam had the misfortune to lose a valuable horse by getting the thill run into its flank.

THE BACON HOG

The hog question is an important one to the Ontario farmer, and anything that can be done to aid this industry will be readily acknowledged by the producers. About a dozen years ago the hog production of Ontario was quite different from that of today, in point of quality of the output. Then it was the thick, fat hog that was raised everywhere, and the farmers set their ideas to the box type—if we can call it such. And, in view of the demand from the lumber woods and fat-eating population of the big cities, this was a justifiable type for our farmers to grow. But an English demand for bacon, that might be described as "streaked," created a change in the style of the hog to be produced. Thus we had the selection of the long-sided smooth bacon pig, that nearly every farmer now knows at sight. A visitor to stock yards in 1890 and again in 1906 was particularly struck with this great change in the conformation of the pig. The lumbermen have found out the desirability of the bacon type also, and do not desire so much the thick fat sides of yesterday. Still there are some farmers who produce the fat kind, and these are sent to supply Montreal and other cities where fat meats are still in some demand.

The hog required for the bacon type should not be less than 170 pounds and not more than 220 pounds in weight.

A Warning

To feel tired after exertion is one thing; to feel tired before is another. Don't say the latter is laziness—it isn't; but it's a sign that the system lacks vitality, is running down, and needs the tonic effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It's a warning, too—and sufferers should begin taking Hood's at once. Buy a bottle to-day.

Men's Suits from $8 to $14

We call "United" brand, because a number of S.-R. agents have "united" (joined together) and are buying cloths direct from the old country mills, thereby saving from 25 to 50 per cent on the cloth. They then get Semi-Ready Co. to make up these cloths into suits. The finished article is a "United" Suit—prices from $8.00 to $14.00.

And, sir, if you purchase one of our "United suits, you are wearing clothes that cost you from $3.00 to $5.00 less than you would have paid for them any where else.

We don't ask you to believe this but we ask you to find out for yourself whether it is true or not. If it is not true, we are liars, and you may call us such, if you find us to be such.

Every one of our United suits are made from old country Bannockburn tweeds (twisted wool), and not an inch of shoddy or cotton in a mile of the cloth.

We want to convince you Are you ready? Are you?

United suits for men from $8.00 to $14.00. Semi-Ready suits $15.00 to $30.00. Youths and boys (United) $2.50 to $15.00

We pay one way to Brockville $10.00 of goods are bought.

St. Regis Lumbago Cure AN INDIAN REMEDY. Guaranteed to Cure Lame Back or money refunded! An excellent remedy for Rheumatism, Lame Back, Etc., Etc.

Read the following testimonial from a man you all know: Mr. W. A. Singleton, Forfar, Feb. 6, 1906. Crosby, Ont.

Dear Sir,—Being laid up with lame back, I thought I would drop you a line to tell you that your St. Regis Lumbago cure will do all you claim for it, as I have only used part of the bottle and I feel no returning symptoms of the disease. I may say I have been troubled with lame back for the last ten years, and tried several other patent medicines but without results. I can heartily recommend it to any troubled with lame back, and I feel safe in saying that it's the cheapest medicine on the market. Yours Truly, JAMES McCUE

If your dealer does not keep this medicine, kindly ask him to order same for you as any sized order will be filled promptly. First order, freight prepaid. Yours truly, W. A. SINGLETON

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST

When you buy a knife for instance, you consider the quality of the steel in the blade. The biggest and heaviest knife is not necessarily the best. Now there is just as much difference in the quality and strength of steel in fence wire as there is in a knife blade or razor. The Page Co. use a high carbon steel wire, which though it costs you but little more, is fifty per cent. (50%) stronger than wire in other fences. The lightest PAGE fence is as strong as the heaviest of other makes. Notice the lock in PAGE "EMPIRE" FENCE. You may have noticed also that others are imitating it. That is a good recommendation for it. Where we lead others follow. "All PAGE wire is "COILED," not cramped.

THE LOCK IN PAGE "EMPIRE" FENCES.

Besides the extra strength and superior workmanship, PAGE FENCES are dipped in a special white paint, which on top of the best of galvanizing, will lengthen the life of wire for years. And, also, this white coating makes wire much more slightly. Owing to the great strength and elasticity of PAGE fencing, one-third less posts are required, thus reducing the cost of the fencing. As you get in PAGE FENCES one-half more fence strength, greater protection against rust, better workmanship, better appearance, use less posts, can you afford to use other fences, even though you could buy them for one-half the price of the PAGE? But, really ours cost you little, if any more.

One Ingredient of Zutoo

Is soda—just old-fashioned soda, that our grandmothers took to settle the stomach. The principal ingredient—the one that stops the headache, is a vegetable ingredient, imported for us from Japan. It won't hurt you any more than will the soda. The other ingredients of Zutoo are just as harmless. If you know what the drug stores contain, and their ultimate effect on the system, you would discard them at once and take Zutoo, which is harmless as

Soda.

A Few Facts for Women

About Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets

These tablets are the prescription of a distinguished specialist in women's diseases. They are compounded for the special needs of women alone. They embody the results of the very latest medical discoveries. They contain ingredients recently discovered that no other remedy contains. They are a compound remedy, that is, they contain something for every organ of the female system. They are purely vegetable, and unlike the liquid preparations contain neither alcohol nor opium. There are six dozen tablets in one box, enough for an extended treatment. They Make Healthy Women.

An Extensive Dairy

It may be remembered by some Reporter readers that eleven years ago Mr. William Graham of Caintown carried the mail from Mallorytown to Athens. Well, he and his three boys, William, Burton and James, bought a farm near Caintown—370 acres. They worked the farm one year on shares—last October they bought. The bargain included 70 head of stock, a full and complete outfit of farming implements, wagons, and a span of horses. Price, $12,000. Last season they put in 1,500 lbs. of milk daily, part of the time. They sold a lot of hogs. Next fall they will have 20 head of beef cattle, besides a large number of younger stock, Holstein grades. They are now milking 52 cows—15 fine Holsteins—100 head all told. They enjoy the good wishes, good will and confidence of those around them.

Parlor Social

The ladies of the W.C.T.U. extend a hearty invitation to the public to their social at the home of Mrs. Arza Wilcox on Wednesday evening, June 13th. A good programme will be given and refreshments served. There is no fee asked, but the following donations will be acceptable:—Marked Testaments, sacred songs and solos, pledge cards, bandages (assorted sizes from 1 inch to 2 1/2 inches wide, made of old cotton, also strips of new cotton 1 1/2 yards long and 4 inches wide), finger stalls, absorbent cotton, ointment, adhesive plaster, vaseline, coarse factory yarn (grey mixed, black or white), coarse darning needles, coarse thread No. 10, linen, needles No. 3, shirt buttons, pants buttons, large pins or safety pins, and money. The contributions will be sent to the lumbermen of Ontario, as the Union has missionaries engaged in the lumber camps from the Ottawa to Lake Superior.

The 12th at Lyndhurst

Great preparations are being made for celebrating the 12th of July at Lyndhurst. An energetic committee have charge of the arrangements and they have entered upon the work in a spirit that promises success. Their efforts are being enthusiastically endorsed by the many loyal Orangemen of that district, and they will have the cordial cooperation and support of the people of the village generally. A large number of the neighboring lodges have signified their intention to be present. The programme, as at present outlined, will be as follows:—Headed by the Lyndhurst Citizens' Brass Band, lodges will form procession at 1 o'clock sharp and march to the agricultural grounds, on the shore of the beautiful Lyndhurst Lake, where appropriate addresses will be delivered on selected topics by the following gentlemen:—

J. R. Dargavel, M. L. A., Rev. R. B. Patterson, M.A., Bro. Rev. E. Crane, Rev. J. A. McDonald, Bro. Rev. W. F. Fitzgerald, M.A., Rev. Thos. Meredith, Bro. A. W. Gray, P.C.G.O., Bro. A. W. Johnston, P.C. Bro. Geo. Taylor, M.P., will occupy the chair. A sumptuous dinner will be served in the Agricultural Hall. Tickets, 40c single; 75c double.

Will not save a diseased tree. Whatever it is that threatens the life of the tree must be discovered and attacked directly. It is the same with rheumatism which has been considered incurable in advanced stages because the ordinary remedy instead of going to the root of the disease simply prunes the branches. The trouble is in the bone or joint and must be got at there, must be driven out. This is where the pre-eminence of Tuck's Rheumatic Bone Oil comes in over all other remedies. It goes to the root of the trouble in the quickest and most direct way, penetrates to the bone and effects a sure, permanent and speedy cure. Here is what one sufferer says of it:—

Dear Sirs—You ask me if Tuck's Bone Oil did me any good. I can tell you that it did. It cured me of rheumatism and nothing ever helped me for neuralgia until I got that. I suffered every thing for years from rheumatism and at times I thought it was going to my heart and would kill me. All my neighbors know how I suffered and they all know that Tuck's Bone Oil cured me because I tell everybody I see. I took small doses of it about four drops in milk, and I had it thoroughly rubbed into my legs which were both affected. It seemed to penetrate right to where the pain was and even the first application gave me relief, but the grumbling pain came back in a few hours. I kept on using it and before I had used all the fourth bottle I was completely free of rheumatism. During this time I had a terrible attack of neuralgia. I used Tuck's Bone Oil and got almost instant relief. I am willing for you to use this any way you like because I think your Bone Oil should be known by everyone. W. H. Dean, Farnham, Quebec.

For rheumatism, lame back, neuralgia, sprains, coughs, colds, quinsy or bronchitis, in short for any and all kinds of inflammation there is nothing to equal Tuck's Bone Oil. A bottle should be on the shelf in every home. For sale by all medicine dealers at 50c. A bottle or sent prepaid by The Tuck Bone Oil Co. Limited, Smith's Falls, Ont.

REAR YONGE AND ESCOTT

Court of Revision was held on May 29th with Reeve Mulvena as chairman. The following appeals were disposed of:—

Mrs. Freeman, that assessment was too high. Not allowed. Leavitt Southworth was assessed for the business tax for Cedar Park Hotel. Rev. S. S. Lindsay, that he was not a property holder. Allowed. Cottages on the Holiness Movement camp grounds were assessed to Andrew Henderson at $400. Henry Hollingsworth, that he was overcharged. Not allowed. Assessment of Mary and Alex. Green was reduced to $3,000.

Minutes of two previous meetings of the council were read and adopted. Walter J. Taber was appointed high school trustee for the unexpired term of Johnson A. Green. The reeve was appointed to look after paying for crushing stone. S. W. Kelly was appointed overseer in Div. 7. Samuel Spence was ordered to expend $15 on roads in Div 22. James Kavanagh was given permission to do his statute labor in Road Div. 22. All wire fences were ordered to be inspected and certified to before Dec. 15th. Fred S. Hayes was given $4.60 for bonus on 23 rods wire fence, and account of the Municipal World of $1.05 was ordered paid. Council adjourned until August 15th at one o'clock.

BRITISH POSTAL SAVINGS.

System Started in 1855 With 435 Depositors—Number Now Reaches 3,403,852 in United Kingdom. Great Britain's postal savings banks to-day hold deposits aggregating nearly $1,900,000,000. The banks were established in 1855 after the disastrous failure of many private banks. Three hundred stations were opened at the beginning and on the first day 435 working men deposited in all $5,000. Penny banks followed, and school banks came as a matter of course, finding the children eager to start an account in their own names. To-day there are 14,362 postoffice savings banks in the United Kingdom, with 3,403,852 depositors. Taking the population of Great Britain and Ireland at 40,000,000, it proves that one person in every four and a half has deposits, and that the average amount per person is $77.70. Every class is represented among the depositors, and the fishermen often elbow the clerk at the postoffice. The advantages to the public are: First, the absolute security from loss; second, the convenience of making deposits; third, the ease of repayment, which is not affected by change of residence; fourth, safety against personation and fraud; fifth, the prevention of poverty by the development of thrift; sixth, the ready means where no other banks exist, of safe deposit; seventh, the education of the young and untrained to the knowledge of the use and management of money; eighth, the tendency to discourage reckless and speculative expenditures. The advantages to the country itself group themselves under seven headings: First, the people receive the profits as interest on their savings when these are used as a public investment; second, the country's wealth is kept growing within itself; third, by the wide distribution of these savings money can promptly reach points needing it suddenly from local causes; fourth, in remote places stringency from too limited banking facilities is prevented or lessened; fifth, the laboring people feel a direct personal interest in the stability of the country; sixth, sectionalism among the less intelligent classes is lessened by continual and close touch with a common financial institution; seventh, by special investment, the people's savings may be made the foundation of securities for financial institutions, or loans for municipal improvements or special national undertakings.

Cruel Elephant Hunters.

A correspondent of The London Times writes of elephant-hunting in Africa: "The most deadly method of killing elephants, and that most frequently employed by the natives of East Africa, is the ph, sufficiently deep—roughly, 20 feet—long and wide to engulf and foot an elephant. After a period of frantic struggling, hunger and exhaustion the wretched animal is done to death by native spears. If the spears and powers of the animal are weakened, it is difficult to imagine a more revolting, brutal picture of torture; but this is the common practice of the natives of the country, and is being enacted daily throughout British territory. "A priest had taken out a sportsman's license ($250), with the object of building a church in the event of his hunting being successful. He shot a fine elephant, with heavy tusks, and while he was examining the animal natives appeared and claimed the tusks; the elephant belonged, they said, to their chief, Maquenda. To claim their claims, asserted that the elephant had been lame, and pointed to a festering opening in the sole of one of its feet, extending up the leg. "But the priest ascertained that the chief Maquenda had caused spearheads to be wedged places upright in the ground in the forest game paths for the purpose of laming elephants and so rendering them a prey to his hunters. This happy discovery put an end, at least for a time to this abominable measure, for the circumstances were reported to the authorities and the chief was punished."

Willing to Compromise.

An Englishman at a dinner once told a tale of a tiger he had shot which measured twenty-four feet from snout to tail tip. Every one was astonished, but no one ventured to insinuate a doubt of the truth of the story. Presently a Scotchman told his tale. He had once caught a tiger which, he said, he was unable to pull in alone, managing only to land it at last with the aid of six friends. It was a skate, and it covered two acres. Silence followed this recital, during which the offended Englishman left the table. The host followed. After returning he said to the Scotchman: "Sir, you have insulted my friend. You must apologize." "I dinna insult him," said the Scot. "Yes, you din, with your two acre fish story. You must apologize." "Well," said the offender slowly, with the air of one making a great concession, "tell him if he will take ten feet off that tiger I will see what I can do with the fish."

A Scattered Message.

When Lord Randolph Churchill was leader of the House of Commons he was a somewhat unconventional occupant of that exalted post, according to a story in the biography by his son. "I am commanded by the Queen," said Lord Idesleigh, writing of Lord Randolph from Balmoral, "to say that Her Majesty was greatly amused by the contents of your dispatch box last night. I suppose you won't understand this message without some explanation—there was a liberal sprinkling of tobacco in it."

Recreation From Golf.

Soon after being beaten at the recent election ex-Premier Balfour was on the links with some friends. One of his companions expressed his sorrow that Mr. Balfour would not have a seat in Parliament. "Too bad," agreed the former Prime Minister. "I don't know what I'll do now for recreation from golf."

The Chorus Girl's Prize.

Our old nobility has ever been of the way of drawing its new blood from the stage. Just as Napoleon's soldiers were said each to carry a field marshal's baton in his knapsack, so may every chorus girl imagine that in her snapeck box lies a peerage.—London Chronicle.

Sunday School

INTERNATIONAL LESSON NO. XII JUNE 17, 1906.

Commentary.—I. A night of prayer (v. 28). 28. About an hour and a half... Peter and John and James—It was the same favored three who had gone with Him into the room where he raised Jairus' daughter...

was the response to Peter's suggestion, a wise answer to a foolish prayer; denying the petition in order to grant something better. There came a cloud, and overshadowed them—Matthew says a "bright" cloud. O cloud had frequently been the symbol of the divine presence. It was a cloud that guided and protected the children of Israel (Exod. xiii. 21; xv. 19); a cloud that took possession of the tabernacle (Exod. xl. 34); a cloud that filled the temple at the dedication (1 Kings viii. 10, 11); and the Lord maketh clouds His chariots (Psa. civ. 13). Peter himself refers to the cloud that overshadowed them on the mount as the "excellent glory" (II. Pet. i. 17). They feared—This glorious manifestation of God's presence caused them to tremble. It is very likely that the transfiguration took place in the night, in which case the light of Christ's countenance, and the dazzling brightness of His garments, and the glory of the cloud, would have a marked effect, because of the absence of the solar light. Entered into them—The cloud seemed to descend over them and envelop them. 33. A voice—The voice of God the Father. "It revealed nothing new, but confirms the old, for it was the same voice which had been heard at His baptism."—Trench. This would show to Peter and the apostles present that they did not need to detain Moses and Elijah in order to add to their happiness. This is my beloved Son—Matthew adds, "in whom I am well pleased." They had Jesus with them, and He was more than all the hosts of heaven would be without Him. Hear Him—He is superior even to Moses, the great law-giver. Moses himself had made such a statement (Deut. xviii. 15). He is superior to Elijah and the prophets, and is the one to whom they pointed. Hear Him; attend to His instructions and obey His words. The way for men to glorify God is to harken to and honor the Son (John v. 23). To reject the Son is the greatest insult that can be offered to God, and brings the most disastrous results to man.

ENGAGEMENT OF BERTHA KRUPP TO VON BOHLEN UND HALBACH.

He is Secretary of Prussian Legation at the Vatican and She is One of the Richest Heiresses. Edden, Prussia, June 4.—The engagement is announced of Bertha Krupp, owner of the Krupp works, to Gustav von Bohlen und Halbach, secretary of the Prussian Legation at the Vatican.

THE NEW 'FRISCO.

WILL BE GREATER AND MORE BEAUTIFUL THAN THE OLD. (San Francisco Bulletin.) The leading merchants who have united in forming a new, though temporary, retail district on Van Ness avenue, between Sacramento and Post streets, have begun grading and building on the devastated lots. Those who have secured locations on the west side of the avenue are busy with plans for remodeling the houses or erecting temporary maris. So successful has been the plan that it is now assured that Van Ness street will be a great retail business street until the town assumes its old appearance in the fashionable shopping district.

MICHAEL DAVITT'S WILL.

Leaves Property to Wife—His Undying Prayer to Ireland. A London despatch says: The will of Michael Davitt, the Irish leader, who died yesterday, leaves all his property to his wife. It concludes: "To all my friends I leave kind thoughts, and to my enemies the fullest possible forgiveness. To Ireland I leave an undying prayer for the absolute freedom and independence which it was my life's ambition to obtain for her."

WOMEN IN OUR HOSPITALS

Appalling Increase in the Number of Operations Performed Each year—How women May Avoid them.

Going through the hospitals in our large cities one is surprised to find such a large proportion of the patients lying on those snow-white beds women and girls, either awaiting or recovering from serious operations. Why should this be the case? Simply because they have neglected themselves. Female troubles are certainly on the increase among the women of this country—they creep upon them unawares, but every one of those patients in the hospital beds had plenty of warning in that bearing-down feeling, pain at left or right of the abdomen, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back, dizziness, flatulency, displacements of the organs or irregularities. All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the female organs, and if not heeded the penalty has to be paid by a dangerous operation. When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful periods, weakness, displacement or ulceration of the organs, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, bloating (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy.

CHURCH USED AS A BARN

Causes a Scandal Among Anglicans at Kingston. Sacred Texts and Scrolls Painted Out by Rector. Congregation Censured and Ordered to Get Back Property. A Kingston, Ont., special despatch: Several months ago All Saints' Church was, for sentimental reasons, and to help a sister parish, turned over to St. Luke's at a nominal price by a diocesan committee. St. Luke's congregation used the main part of the church as an addition to its parish church and sold the chancel and sanctuary for use as a barn, with the altar and chancel steps, the sacred texts and scrolls in full view of the passers by.

CANAL GATES BROKEN.

A Very Serious Accident at Montreal—Averted in a Remarkable Manner—Wacoodah Carries Away Lachine Canal Gates. Montreal, June 4.—A singular accident occurred in the Lachine Canal close to Montreal harbor this afternoon, and by a most remarkable circumstance a great disaster was averted. The steamer Wacoodah, a grain carrier from the upper lakes, acquired too great a speed, and before she could be stopped broke through lock No. 2 at Black's Bridge, carrying both gates with her. The rush of water that followed was terrific, for behind the lock is an immense basin, but by a fortunate and almost miraculous coincidence the suction was strong enough to lift up automatically a stop gate that was lying at the bottom of the canal, thereby preventing the inrush.

When you plan your meals you never think of bread, yet you always have it, and if it is left off the table it is the first thing that is missed. You can live without bread, but you can live without any other food with less hardship—think along these lines and the absolute necessity of bread comes home to you.

Royal Household Flour has convinced the women of Canada that it is the best for pastry as well as for bread. Try Ogilvie's Royal Household Flour. Your grocer recommends it, because it gives such good results. Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Ltd. Montreal.

Well, Uncle Sandy, cried Mona, coming to the rescue, "you must admit that all work and no play makes Jack a very dull boy."

"I am no sure o' that; I worked hard enough and I never was dull."

"And pray, Mr. Macalister, how is trade at present?" asked Mrs. Debrisay, comprehensively, with a view to changing the subject.

This produced a lengthy and rambling reply, after which Uncle Sandy avowed his intention of closing his eyes for a quarter of an hour. He therefore re-ascended with his "mayfews" help to his room. Mrs. Debrisay excused herself, because she had promised to visit some professional friends, so Mona was left alone with her newly discovered cousin.

When he returned, he sat down by the table, resting his elbow on it, and shading his eyes with his hand, he looked curiously at Mona, who was reading a French book of travels, which she laid down politely on his reappearing.

"She uncle seems a good deal tired," he said. "I don't know what in the world to talk about to this tall, semi-civilized young man."

"He is that; but he is an aged person; he has nearly reached the years allotted to man."

"I suppose so."

"When my uncle wrote to me that he had found his brother's daughter, I did not think I should find such a grand young lady. You don't seem to belong to up, though the Macalisters are an old stock."

"You see, I was always brought up in London and on the continent; that makes me seem different. I am not grand."

"It is more than that," he said, reflectively, "more than that. Yet you are like a young lady I used to go to school with when I was a wee lad. I saw her again in my autumn when I was back in Glenhoulaghan; and she is like you—ferry like—only you are taller and stouter."

"And has she a 'bonnie reed heid,' as my uncle says I have?"

"Your locks are more gold than red," said the young Highlander, with an admiring smile; "but Mary's are browner, and she seems younger."

"And I suppose you enjoy getting away to the mountains and lochs of your native place?"

"Eh! another life! I had not been back for two years, and I had no mother to welcome me this time."

"He stopped abruptly."

"That made a sad difference," said Mona, softly.

"He did not speak immediately, and when he did, it was to ask, in an altered tone: "Were you ever in the Highlands?"

"Never."

"There is nothing like them anywhere. To be sure, I haven't seen much else, but there can be nothing finer. Whether it's the grey dawn flushing redder and redder over the mountain tops, or the soft evening fading into twilight, and purple and gold and blue, to the pale blue mist and silvery moonlight; and the air so fresh and free; the springy heather, that makes your step light; the grand, exulting sense of climbing higher, I feel a man among my native hills—I'm just a dull machine in this big, breathless town."

"Certainly not a dull one; you are a poet, Mr. Macalister."

"Me! Well, no; I never tried writing verses; but I am a good craig's man, and no bad shot; as to fishing, few can touch me. Did you ever land a salmon?"

"No; I have only seen it boiled on a dish."

"Well!" enthusiastically, "but it's just grand! And I could take you all over the big mountains, the glens, and the straths; and row you out on the quiet loch in the hush of the evening."

"I wish you could! I should enjoy such a ramble immensely."

and a most horsey and repellent aspect. He had his back turned toward Mona as she came up. The gentleman with whom he was in deep conversation, and who faced her, was Waring.

Waring was looking dull and sullen; his clothes carelessly put on, and an indescribable air of self-neglect pervading his appearance. Mona was so startled that she almost unconsciously put her hand through Macalister's arm, drawing near to him; and he, somewhat surprised, bent his eyes upon her with a smile.

Waring, who was talking eagerly, angrily glanced toward them at that moment. Their glances met—Mona blushed vividly. Waring grew white, hesitated, raised his hand to his hat; but Mona had passed before he could lift it.

"What was the matter?" asked Kenneth. "I thought I saw a gentleman I used to know, and I—I was afraid he might come and speak with me."

"You should not be afraid of any one when I am with you, Cousin Mona! I would not let any one trouble you."

"But there are some things you might not be able to help. However, it is no matter. No, Kenneth—do not look back, please."

"I cannot make out who it was," said Kenneth. "Never mind. Tell me, where did you go to church to-day, for you were not in time to go with Uncle Sandy?"

"I had letters to write, so I stayed in my lodgings; it's a comfort to write sometimes."

"No doubt it is; and I do not think you care for your work in the city?"

"No, I hate it; but I must stick to it now; I am too old for anything else. I would have liked to be a farmer—or a soldier."

"What opposing fancies—a gentle shepherd or a fighting man?"

"Shepherds have always been fighting men; David killed the Philistines!"

"True. And why then did you choose a career you disliked?"

"Because I was forced. I am the only son of my mother, and she was a widow. I was in haste to deliver her from the burden, and the quickest way was through Uncle Sandy. He got me a clerkship in a Glasgow house, and then I got recommended to London; and it is slow work. It will be many a long day before I can get a home of my own, unless my uncle helps me; and he is such an ill-tempered curle, I doubt if he would do much good to any one whatever."

"He is not unkind," said Mona, thoughtfully. "No; he is not," returned Kenneth, who was getting over his ill-humor; "and he told my mother that I should be his heir if I would take his name! Now that is what I dimly hope for."

"Why should you mind that?"

"Because I would like to see him! You could put Macalister before the Craig, and it would not sound badly."

"May be not; any way, it will be long before I need to use it."

"Why, Kenneth, you speak as if you wanted poor Uncle Sandy to die."

"No; I want no such thing. God knows; but a bit help just now would be worth thousands later on when one is too old to enjoy it."

"Tell—tell him! Why I don't suppose he would ever see my face again if I did."

"They talked in a friendly fashion till they reached the house, when the servant informed them that Mr. Craig had been asking for them, and the rest of the Sabbath was devoted to him."

Mona's sudden start and slight confusion soon passed from young Macalister's mind. But the encounter with Waring affected by seeing him look so changed for the worse. Ought she to bear the blame of this in any way? No! However grieved she might be, she could not wroth such mischief. It was only his natural downward tendencies that were swaying him. And there was so much of good in his nature, it was an infinite relief that he was thus dragged down.

What a horror the man was to whom he had been speaking! Poor Waring! She would have liked to renege with him and save him; but, even had she the chance of doing so, she would have put herself in a false position by showing the kindly interest she felt. A few days after this little adventure, and much about the time Mrs. Newburgh had died the previous year, Uncle Sandy was seized by a very sharp attack of bronchitis.

For a few days he was even in danger. On this occasion Mrs. Debrisay distinguished herself. She was a capital nurse, and

NO OLD MAIDS IN TURKEY

There to be Married is Every Woman's Right

There are no old maids in Turkey, and no equivalents for the word spinster in the Turkish language according to Mrs. L. Parkes-Richards, widow of Samuel Richards, the American artist.

"Whatever a girl's social position or personal attractions," says Mrs. Richards, "if she has lived a number of years in Constantinople, she is considered to have a right to a husband, and she gets one."

"To be unmarried is a shame in Turkey. Even the slave girls after seven years of service get their freedom and are presented with a husband."

"In Turkey married men are regarded with special favor. Yet as a fact they have very little to do with getting married. Neither, for that matter, have the girls they marry. It's the man's mother who does it all."

"She makes a tour of the harems that seem likely, looking over their eligible girls, and by and by she picks out one for her son. It is a mother's privilege in Turkey to select her own daughter-in-law. The girls who are not voluntarily chosen are somehow supplied with husbands by the bribes of diplomacy of their fathers."

"Sometimes this system, which seems to have been devised for the special benefit of plain girls, and unattractive women, since the bride is never seen unveiled by the bridegroom till after the marriage ceremony, results in tragedy."

"The young man was overwhelmed with gratitude at what he regarded as his chief's supreme act of confidence in him. One day, though, a friend said to him: "Has your commander tried to get his ugly, chicken-eyed daughter off on you?"

"To be chicken-eyed is to have an ailment that makes one blind at night. Nothing could be more prejudicial to a woman's charms in a Turk's view than poor eyesight. Well, the young naval officer, leaving his prospective father-in-law raging and threatening."

"For a time, in his chagrin and disappointment, the young man eschewed all thought of marriage. After a while, however, his friends prevailed on him to contemplate matrimony again, and arranged for him to wed a young woman who, they assured him, was everything desirable in a wife."

"Why marriage ceremonies the bridegroom was at liberty to lift the veil from the bride's face, he beheld not a Turkish girl at all, but a Kurdish woman."

"You're ugly, hideously ugly," he shrieked. "I won't have her."

"But he already had her. The only thing left him was to get divorced."

"Not polygamy, but divorce, constitutes the grievance of the Turkish woman. Few houses contain more than one wife, but divorce is frequent and attended by few legal complications. The husband can always redivorce his wife three times. If after he divorces her and wants to remarry her she must go through the formality of being married to another man and then divorced from him."

"This practice has given rise to a new profession, that of proxy husband. The proxy husband generally blind and a bear and relinquishes his bride without ever seeing her. The legal process has been gone through."

"Sometimes, however, he insists on holding on to her. There was a man living on the shores of the Bosphorus who quarrelled with his wife and divorced her three times, but he would not let her go. Although he had difficulty in living with her in peace, he had no sooner lost her than he found he could not get along without her. How to remarry her for the fourth time was the problem."

"This crisis a friend offered to play the role of proxy husband. His offer was accepted. When the legal ceremony had been performed he refused to relinquish her. The angry husband raved and threatened, but the proxy asserted his legal rights, and kept her."

"This story, however, is no more typical of Turkish life than the 10,000 wife divorces in Chicago last year and the 1,000 divorces cases now on the docket in Ohio are typical of American life. The Turk has no statistics, but it hardly seems as if he needed to tie his knots much tighter to compete with us."

"The only way a Turkish husband has of getting even with a teasing or bad-tempered wife is to threaten her with divorce or a second wife. While divorce is thus trifled with, there are checks upon it such as the obligatory return in full of the wife's dowry."

"In Turkey, it is the prospective husband, not the bride's father, who settles her dowry upon the bride and thirty parents see to it that this is commensurate with the bridegroom's position and in case of divorce sufficient to secure to the woman independence and dignity."

"In Turkey the bride brings nothing, yet when she leaves her husband's house for good she takes with her all her personal property, even to her slave girls, bed linen and the kitchen utensils."

"There is no accounting for the Turkish woman, anyhow, according to Mrs. Richards, who says that in a land of surprise she is the biggest surprise of all."

"Though supposed to be oppressed and suppressed, she is pre-eminently a woman's rights woman, fully aware of her privileges and insistent on getting them."

Mrs. Richards said, "Though at home she is confined within barred cages, when abroad she goes about freely."

"Though supposed to be shy, complimentary without force of will, she is neither shrinking nor retiring. The Turkish woman is not only self-sufficient but self-assertive."

"Her rights, and especially her legal rights, are more clearly defined and more rigorously enforced than the rights of women in many more advanced countries. In the first place she enjoys the right to protection. Everywhere and always she is under the protection of society."

"Inside her home she is as if in a shrine; outside her home she is the object of special concern to every policeman. There are no men ogling her from street corners, no impertinent young fellows to come up beside her when she pauses to look in a shop window. She is never spoken to on the street. For a man to speak to a Turkish woman on the street or offer any attentions would be as much as his life was worth.

"In Turkey no man speaks to a woman when on the street or accompanies her in public. Fathers pass their daughters by without a greeting, brothers disesteers, even husbands their wives. The reason for this is not far to seek.

"With all the women veiled, except as to their eyes and mouths, it is almost impossible for a man to tell one woman from another out of doors, and when he thinks he is greeting his wife, say, he may be addressing a total stranger. Such a situation would be intolerable to the Turkish sense of fitness.

"So far do the Turks carry their desire for the complete social separation of the sexes in public that it is rare for a Turkish gentleman even to look at a Christian woman. For the same reason, if he chances to meet a European or American lady whom he knows, he will not greet her till she has greeted him. It took me some time to find this out, until I did I thought all the Turkish men of my acquaintance were cutting men."

"In Turkey the policeman becomes a monitor, a judge of social observances, an enforcer of rigid conventionalities. If people don't know what is the decent thing to do or are so careless that they won't do it, he is there to lead them back into the right path. For instance, I was told of the case of a newly married young Turkish couple who were so much in love with each other that they overlooked the regulations and began to take walks together. For this purpose they chose the quietest, most secluded streets in the immediate neighborhood of their own homes, instead of taking to more frequented thoroughfares, although they were both what might be called emancipated. Their action, however, did not escape the vigilant eye of a police officer. First they were sent to jail, he was walking up and down, hand in hand, and to be talking together."

"Such a breach of etiquette smacked unmistakably of European license and cried aloud for conviction. The policeman intervened. He had to be a representative of the Ottoman Empire and as a Turkish gentleman there was nothing else left him to do. He told that guilty pair of married lovers that they really would have to stop—such going on could not be tolerated on a public highway—and stop they did."

CHILDHOOD AILMENTS. Most of the troubles that afflict little ones may be traced to the stomach or bowels, and if these are put right the child will get well and thrive well. Baby's Own Tablets will cure all stomach and bowel ailments, and all the other minor troubles of babyhood and childhood. And the mother has the guarantee of government analyst that this medicine contains no poisonous opiate or harmful drug. Mrs. Wilbert McKenzie, Chelmsford, Ont., says: "My little girl was troubled with obstinate constipation to such an extent that we did not think she would live. She cried almost constantly, and was wasting away. I got a box of Baby's Own Tablets, and in three days found a great improvement. I continued giving her the Tablets for nearly a month, and every trace of the trouble has disappeared, and she has since been a bright, healthy child, and has grown nicely." You can get the Tablets from any medicine dealer or by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

UNDERMINED LONDON. The Cross of St. Paul's Cathedral Said to be Three Feet Out of Plumb. From time to time alarming statements have been made about the condition of St. Paul's Cathedral. These have frequently been denied by the cathedral authorities, but the experts remain insistent. Now, it is declared the danger has become serious, and urgently calls for investigation.

The foundations are said to be sinking as a natural and inevitable consequence of the pumping which accompanies the work of driving the various tunnels that have been constructed and others which are still in progress in its immediate vicinity.

The cross and ball which surmount the dome are now stated to be three feet out of the perpendicular. This is the conclusion arrived at by Mr. Frederick Howden, secretary of the London Institution, after spending two years in finding a plumb-line among the adjacent buildings in order to gauge the deviation.

The experts go further still. This incessant tunnelling which is proceeding in all parts of London is undermining the several other buildings which have had to be supported by underpinning.

To Keep Servants. Give your maids as good wages as you can; pay her regularly, or give her reasons why she should wait. Do not expect her to be a mind-reader, but tell her just what you want done. Give her as pleasant a room as possible, and let her have time to keep it in order. Do not talk as if you own was the only right way to do things. Never allow children to treat her with disrespect or make her unnecessary work. A command given in an abrupt, disagreeable tone will often make her angry and unhappy. If you like her, tell her so sometimes. If she is cross or irritable be patient with her. She may be suffering acutely, mentally or physically. Never reprimand her before children or strangers. Always say "Good morning" and "Good night." Always say "please" and "thank you" when you ask her to do anything for you, and insist upon the children doing the same.—Woman's Life.

A woman's husband either comes up to her ideal, or her ideal comes down to him.

PALE, WEAK WOMEN

Gain New Health and Strength Through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Anæmia is just the doctor's name for bloodlessness. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People actually make new blood. Can any cure be made direct or certain? Blood is bound to cure bloodlessness. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure anæmia just as food cures hunger. They cured Mrs. Clara Cook, a young English woman, who recently came to this country from Portsmouth, England, and is at present residing at Prince's Lodge, Halifax County, N. S. She says: "I am an enthusiastic believer in the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a cure for anæmia. I had suffered from the trouble almost from childhood, but a few years ago it developed into a severe type of the trouble. My skin was pale and waxy, my lips seemed bloodless, and my entire system was run down. I suffered from headaches, dizziness and weak spells, and my friends feared that I was going into a decline. I tried tonics and emulsions, but without benefit. A friend who had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the same trouble advised me to try them. In a short time they helped me and in a couple of months I was quite well. My color having returned to my face, my appetite improved and I had gained in weight. I can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all anæmic girls and women."

The pale anæmic person needs only one thing—new blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do only one thing—they make new blood. They won't cure any disease that isn't originally caused by bad blood. When Dr. Williams' Pink Pills replace bad blood with good blood, they strike straight at the root and cause of all common diseases like anæmia, headaches and backache, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, kidney trouble, and the secret troubles that every woman knows, but none of them like to talk about, even to their doctors. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

When Mr. Craig was able to get up, and stagger with Kenneth's help into his sitting-room, he was less disposed than usual to growl and find fault.

"Well, madame," he said, "you may be wrong in the matter of doctrine, but you are at right in the treatment of the sick. I'd have wanted to do while they were seeking the doctor."

"I am very glad to be of any use to you; but I think, as far as constant attention went, Mona was the best of all. She left nearly all her lessons to stay with you. However, I am glad to say she has only lost two or three."

"Lost! Did you say lost?"

"Yes, my dear sir. You see, Tuesdays and Fridays are always very busy, and she gave up three pupils for those days, not to forego her attendance on you."

"That was varra kind—varra. I'll not forget it."

He seemed lost in reflection, while Mrs. Debrisay murmured to herself:

The Gamble House, Athens, is trying to live up to its reputation of being one of the best managed country hotels in Ontario. The handsomely grained wood-work of the first flat has been varnished and in the second and third storeys the brush-artist employed in this work. Preparations are now in progress to install a water service throughout the whole building, and a Brantford wind-mill has been erected on a steel tower to force the water up. The stationery of the hotel is now illuminated with a well-executed photo-gravure of the proprietor, Mr. Fred Pierce.

On Friday afternoon the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Easton while playing on the sidewalk, fell and was picked up in an unconscious condition. She recovered rapidly under medical treatment and on Saturday was as well as usual.

Mr. Milton Smith, who has been seriously ill at his home in Addison for several months, died on Monday morning. He is survived by his wife and three children, to whom the sympathy of the neighborhood goes out in their sore bereavement.

Early closing is this season not being observed by all of Athens' business men. The dry goods stores all close at 6 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evening, but some dealers in other lines keep their places of business open as usual.

The Elgin youth was found guilty of the charge of indecent assault on which he was tried before Judge McDonald, and sentenced to one month in common jail. The prisoner is only fifteen years old which accounts for the light sentence imposed.

A large amount of salmon fry was deposited in Charleston Lake last week. Of these little ones only a very small number indeed will reach maturity, and this suggests the thought that if we had a branch of the fish and game protection society in Athens we might secure the establishment of a nursery at the lake. By this means Charleston Lake could be made the best fishing ground in Ontario. Without it, we shall soon be reduced to counting perch and sunfish in the day's catch.

The authorities of the state of New York have issued an order prohibiting the sale of cigarettes. As New York is the centre of the millinery trade on this continent, and makes the styles, this order, if it is enforced, means that bird trimmings are out of style henceforth and forevermore. It is not a thing to be regretted.

In the results of exams at Trinity University, we are pleased to note that Mr. Arthur G. Parish has won the degree of B. A. As Arthur has not yet attained his majority, his record is highly creditable, to the schools of Athens as well as to his ability as a student. He passed with honors.

Put down the year you were born add 4. Then add your age at your next birthday, provided it comes before Jan. 1; otherwise your last birthday. Multiply the result by 1,000. From this subtract 695,423. Substitute for the resulting figures the corresponding letters of the alphabet—a for 1, b 2, c for three, etc. The result will give the name by which you are popularly known.

The date and place have been selected for the reunion of graduates of the Athens Model School from and including the class of '01 to the class of '05—the period during which Mr. C. Ross Mackintosh has been principal. The reunion is to be held at Lily Bay on the St. Lawrence, near Hillcrest, from July 9th to 14th inclusive. Invitations are to be sent out in a few days and a prompt reply will oblige the committee on arrangements.

"The baker," said the knowing youth, "is the happiest man ever. Everything he airs pans out well. All he kneads is his, he has dough to burn and his stock is still rising. He certainly takes the cake. He's a stirring chap and does things up brown. Though he is well bred and somewhat of a high roller, he is not above mixing with his attendants. Besides he is pious, and cheerfully doing his favors for everybody. The baker is the original wise man of the yeast."

A Sudden Death
On Saturday afternoon last death came suddenly to Mr. Sylvester Stevens. He left home for milking, and was not again seen alive. His wife, becoming anxious at his failure to return, went to look for him and he was found lying in the road, dead. It was decided that he had received a stroke of apoplexy and had been dead for some time before the doctor arrived. The horse was standing near where he had fallen.

Deceased, who was 74 years of age, moved from Daytown to Athens two years ago, and has since resided on the Trickey farm near the toll gate. The funeral service was conducted on Monday by Rev. L. M. Weeks, B.D., and interment was made at Elgin.

Caintown Improvements

Messrs. Thomas and Earnest Tennant of Caintown have put up over 400 rods of mostly woven wire fence. Another season's work like this will set about 900 rods, and the old homestead will then be fenced entirely with wire. The saving in repairs annually will be a heavy percentage. Now they are pulling down a cluster of outbuildings, replacing all under one roof, which, when painted, will match well the fine brick mansion which at present adorns his valuable farm.
