"The Dominion's March" is About Ended.

"Put a branch in Buffalo," reads an advertisement in Toronto theatre programmes this week. "Why?" Because the Dominion's march toward industrial independence is ended. Strong words these—frank, open speaking, with a vengeance, and worthy in all respects of the energetic and progressive Buffalo organizations who signed their names below it and paid for its insertion—the Chamber of Commerce and the Manufacturers' Club of Buffalo. It is the way men talk who have not only spied out the promised land but are apparently confident of their ability to enter into possession of it in the very near future.

"The Dominion's march toward industrial independence is about ended." There is the paeon of the great industries over the prospective triumph of their sobriety; there is the slogan of the Trusts who have been looking for years with anxious eyes at our wealth of natural resources; there is the rallying cry of depressed trade and of hungry exploiters all along the border.

Nor is there anything surreptitious or secretive in it. The two most powerful commercial influences of Buffalo publicly subscribe to it; they shout it abroad not only in the United States, but in the nearest large city of Canada. The mine has been laid and the fuse is already lighted. "Come over and make what terms you can"—that is the purport of their message.

"The Dominion's march toward industrial independence is about ended." That is the way men talk who feel that they are speaking with the authority of certain knowledge. President Taft put it more delicately, but President Taft is a diplomat and not a business man. His "evangelist," Mr. Hearst, has said it many times in seductive words and alluring words, but Mr. Hearst is an "evangelist" and has the feelings of his "honest and earnest friends" and co-workers in Canada to consider.

The Buffalo Chamber of Commerce and the members of the Manufacturers' Club were constrained by none of these restrictions. They could speak out what was in their minds—and they did. All they neglected to mention was who had told them that this was to be the result of reciprocity—and that, after all, was not necessary.

"The Dominion's march toward industrial independence is about ended." Let us hear no more from Canadian reciprocity-shouters about the agreement "affecting only natural products," or about President Taft's simple and sincere desire to foster our national growth, or the "absurdity" of reading into the pact more than appears on the surface. The gentlemen of the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce and of the Manufacturers' Club have made all this abundantly plain.—Star.

Big Men Breaking Through the Lines

Another bomb was thrown into the camp of the reciprocity supporters when Mr. Thomas Robertson, of Toronto, head of the great confectionery firm of Robertson Brothers, Limited, announced on this occasion he would not support Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Mr. Robertson has been a Liberal since the days of George Brown. His gigantic factory employs six hundred loyal people. It is the largest exclusively confectionery factory in the Dominion.

Mr. Robertson is a man of broad experience. He did not announce his break with the Liberal party without mature consideration. He sees the industrial life of the country threatened and its transportation services injured. There is no aspect of the agreement and its possible consequences that Mr. Robertson has not studied. The following statement to a reporter of The News makes the position clear:

THE STATEMENT.

Mr. Robertson dealt with the effects of reciprocity on his own business and then with the commercial and national consequences.

"You can see for yourself what the result of reciprocity will be as far as our business is concerned," he said. "We are going to be crowded out by the confectionery manufacturer on the other side of the line. In fact, our place will be destroyed altogether. We now employ six hundred hands and we have through all these years built up a business that now extends from Halifax to Vancouver. This reciprocity agreement is a rough deal for me, an old Liberal, who built up this business from a very humble beginning."

BY WHAT RIGHT?

"I want to know what right any man has to take away from me my business. How would the farmer like to have his farm wrestled from him?"

SENATOR JAMES McMULLEN

Senator James McMullen, who fought and won a valiant battle in the Liberal interests through four general elections in North Wellington has decided to part company with the Government on the reciprocity issue. The announcement that such an influential and respected Liberal leader takes Mr. Borden's view of the trade agreement has caused a flurry in the Liberal camp of North Wellington, and will have a wide influence throughout the Dominion. The Senator sent a message to Sir James Whitney, who spoke on Wednesday night at Mount Forest, that, although unable to be present he endorsed the speaker's attitude towards reciprocity and wished his cause every success.

MR. J. D. PENNINGTON

Mr. J. Pennington, a loyal supporter hitherto a Liberalism in Dundas, and through his personal qualities and his ownership of the Valley City Sailing Company, a citizen whose opinion is respected, has split from his party and come forward to combat the so-called "Reciprocity" agreement. The agreement affects Mr. Pennington's industry not a jot; he views it on general business and national grounds, and is giving his support to the local Conservative candidate, Mr. Gordon C. Wilson.

MR. R. E. DALE OF HARRISTON

Yet another "separated" Liberal is Mr. R. E. Dale, whom the people of Harriston elected Reeve for this year. Mr. Dale has been a Liberal all his life, but regards the agreement as an attack upon the farming interests of Canada. He is therefore giving his services in several ridings addressing audiences in the interests of the anti-reciprocity candidate.

Canada's True National Policy.

1. Retain the Canadian home market.
2. Develop a varied industrialism in the Canadian West.
3. Perfect our east and west railway and canal systems.
4. Develop the neglected hinterlands of the older Provinces.

At Brockville Mr. Borden said: "We have hardly begun to realize the potentialities of our material development. Consider this great Province of Ontario and consider especially the possibilities of what is called New Ontario. In that great north land there is everything to attract the settler and to induce immigration; magnificent soil, broad climate, abundant water, splendid stretches of timber land and untold mineral wealth. But there is also the 'white coal,' the magnificent water powers crying out for development and affording opportunities in every branch of industry that are unequalled in any part of the world."

Besides this, there is a ready market near at hand for everything that soil can yield. There is no reason why immigration should not pour into New Ontario within the next ten years at a rate now undreamed of. Much has been done by the Provincial Government to place before intending immigrants the advantages of the northern country, but the Dominion Government has treated this greater Ontario with almost absolute neglect and disregard. The Liberal-Conservative party, if returned to power, will see that New Ontario receives its just and full share of attention and that its wonderful natural advantages are brought to the attention of the world in an effective manner and by efficient methods."

A French Paper Tears the Veneer Away and Reveals the Real Laurier.

Le Devoir, Montreal: "When we are betrayed it is by our own friends," says an old proverb. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the campaign in which he is now actually engaged prove the eternal verity of it.

The ministerial politicians are putting him in an unworthy role. They are making such a barrab about him that one would imagine that he was a rich charlatan or a bungling millionaire.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier returned from Europe. A whole fleet of yachts lined the port at his entrance. All the vessels owned by the country were chartered for the occasion at the people's expense in order to make the ministerial triumph still greater.

Fireworks were set off and the ministerial newspapers that are pensioned by the state went into ecstasies over the prestige of the prime minister, just as formally in Rome the common people, surfeited with food and amusement, gave ovations to any shoddy Caesar.

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier goes to the country they unfurl rolls of calico and bunting and in the windows there are paintings and big transparencies wherein Sir Wilfrid Laurier is made to appear as the man who cures ills, or rather as the savior of the Canadian nation.

At Simcoe the "barrab business" took the place of argument.

At Ahuntsic a crowd of flatterers surrounded the prime minister with illuminations of all kinds as if some new Nero had set fire to another Rome.

In Quebec they speak of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and they exploit the sentiment of race and we hear of Sir Wilfrid as a Catholic and French-Canadian patriot.

They speak, and will speak, of the old age of Sir Wilfrid, of the "white locks" of Sir Wilfrid, of the health of Sir Wilfrid, of the "long career" of Sir Wilfrid, of the "forty years of public life" of Sir Wilfrid.

Sir Wilfrid's pretails and his profusions of happiness are and will be the two great ministerial "arguments," and one will see and one has already seen politicians invoking all these things to cover up the turpitudes of the regime and to snatch a new verdict from the French-Canadian people.

And Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself—and great men sometimes lose their heads—sets all shame aside and exploits his own glories and his merits. Again they speak not of policy, but only do they speak of sentiment.

We tried everything we could think of but without success. One day one of our neighbors asked what was the trouble with the little girl, and we told him. Country Before Party

The Honor Roll of Liberals who are Opposed to Reciprocity

The Following are a Few of the Names of the Tens of Thousands of Liberals who Have Determined that Canada Shall Not 'Suicide by Reciprocity':

Sir George W. Ross, great Liberal chieftain, senator, former Liberal Premier of Ontario, whom Sir Wilfrid Laurier described his "right hand man," a director of the chief Liberal organ, the Toronto Globe.

Hon. Clifford Sifton, the great Liberal chieftain of the West, Sir Wilfrid's ex-minister of the interior, and the one man in all Canada whom Sir Wilfrid selected and still retains as chairman of the national conservation commission.

Senator James McMullen, a life-long Liberal and for years Liberal member of Parliament for North Wellington, who has broken old party ties and is openly opposing the Reciprocity proposals of the Government.

W. M. German, Liberal member in the last House of Commons for Welland, and a leading supporter of Sir Wilfrid, who opposed the Government on the Reciprocity issue and is running in the present election as an anti-Reciprocity candidate.

R. Lloyd Harris, of Brantford, who although a Liberal member in the last Parliament, spoke against the Taft-Fielding pact and says that 90 per cent of Liberal members of Parliament were against it when the pact was first submitted to Parliament, and that the great majority of Liberals throughout the country are against it now. He is the largest employer of labor in Brantford, a great manufacturing centre, and says the vote against Reciprocity in that place will be overwhelming.

Judson Baker, Cole Harbor Road, Halifax, one of the most successful farmers in the country, and a life-long Liberal, says: "I am dead against Reciprocity, because it will swamp us."

William Cross, one of three brothers, all Liberals, says: "We don't want to be swamped. Reciprocity will not get my vote."

W. E. Harris, of Wolfville, one of the most faithful supporters of Sir Frederick Borden, has written to the cabinet minister saying: "Canada belongs to Canadians and we have a country too valuable to give away at the present time to Americans. So on this vital trade issue I am going to vote against you—the first time I have done so."

S. B. Chute, of Berwick, a former Liberal and former advocate of Reciprocity, but when he received an order for 16,000 barrels of apples from Winnipeg and the West, he concluded that Canada was good enough for us Canadians. He says, "Reciprocity would be a colossal blunder!"

W. P. Purney, of Liverpool, formerly secretary of the Liberal organization in Fielding's constituency of Queens-Sheburne, and only a few months ago Liberal Candidate for the Nova Scotia Legislature, says he is opposed to Reciprocity because it will kill the home market.

E. M. Bill, barrister, formerly secretary of the Liberal party in Mr. Fielding's constituency of Shelburne, now on the stump against finance minister.

Mr. McEachen, of Inverness, C. B., life-long Liberal, who is running as an Independent Liberal candidate in Inverness county in opposition to "Suicide by Reciprocity."

Hon. Robert Drummond, one of the Liberal leaders in the Legislative Council in Nova Scotia and for a quarter of a century one of Mr. Fielding's right hand men in Nova Scotia. Also expert writer for both the Halifax Herald and the Halifax Chronicle, on the coal trade, says Reciprocity will be disastrous to Nova Scotia's great industry.

Sir Edmund Byron Walker, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and a life-long Liberal.

Sir William Mortimer Clark, stalwart Liberal and ex-lieutenant governor of Ontario.

W. D. Matthews, a director of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and a life-long Liberal.

John T. Eaton, head of the T. Eaton Company Ltd., Toronto, and a Liberal all his life.

E. R. Wood, a director of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and a life-long Liberal.

Z. A. Lash, one of Canada's greatest lawyers and a Liberal always.

W. K. George, former president of the Toronto Liberal Association, ex-president of the Toronto Board of Trade, and one of the leading merchants of that city; who has thrown aside party ties and publicly denounces the Reciprocity proposals of the Government.

Wm. White, president of the National Trust Company, Toronto, a life-long Liberal, who not only differs with his party on the Taft-Fielding proposals, but has taken to the public platform in support of the movement against the pact.

J. H. Stewart, prominent egg dealer of Antigonish, who says Reciprocity will work havoc to the farming industry, if it is allowed to go through.

Parnell Smith, Chatham, Ont., a steadfast Liberal who refuses to place party ties before his Canadian citizenship.

R. J. Gourlay, Toronto, one of the prominent figures in the business and financial life of that city, a life-long Liberal, who is supporting the anti-Reciprocity candidates in the present campaign.

M. J. Christie, one of the patriotic "18" Toronto Liberals who publicly opposed the Reciprocity pact as dangerous to Canadian interests.

John L. Blaikie, president of the North American Assurance Company, who has hitherto supported the Liberals in all appeals to the country, but who is out in denunciation of the Reciprocity proposals of the Government.

H. F. Strathy, Toronto, president of the Traders' Bank an old time Liberal, who condemns the Reciprocity Agreement as unwarranted and dangerous.

L. Goldman, Toronto, managing director of the North American Life Assurance Company, who opposes the Liberals for the first time on account of the Reciprocity issue.

W. H. Chase, of Port Williams, Nova Scotia, says Reciprocity will be of no advantage to the fruit growers of that province.

John R. Barber, of Georgetown, the dean of the paper manufacturers of Canada, a former Liberal member of Parliament for Walton, Ontario, is dead against Reciprocity.

William Braund, a life-long Liberal, of Brockville, Ont., calls upon his fellow Liberals to vote against Reciprocity and save Canada for Canadians.

Rev. S. J. Robins, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church Brockville, who never voted Conservative in his life, has taken the stump against "suicide by Reciprocity," and says "in the crisis now upon us it is the duty of every loyal son of the Empire to cast aside all considerations of party and vote to keep Canada within the Empire."

Captain Fennell, of Brantford, a Liberal of forty years standing, has separated from his party on this vital issue, until it returns to sanity.

J. D. Pennington, Dundas, Ont., head of one of the most important industries in his district, who although his business interest is not affected at all, is opposing Reciprocity on national grounds and supporting the Anti-Reciprocity candidate in his riding.

R. F. Dale, Harrison, Ont., reeve of his township, who says the interests of Canadian farmers are seriously menaced by the Reciprocity proposals of the Government.

T. A. Trenholme, Montreal West, a practical farmer with large interests on the island of Montreal, and a steadfast Liberal. He says Reciprocity will swamp the Canadian farmer.

T. W. McAnulty, a member of the Montreal Stock Exchange who has always voted Liberal, but who is opposed to the Reciprocity proposals of the Laurier Administration.

Raoul Lanthier, of the Kingsbury Footwear Company, Montreal, a life-long Liberal who will vote the anti-Reciprocity ticket in the coming elections.

E. W. B. Snyder, former Liberal, M. L. A. for the county of Waterloo, Ontario, where Hon. W. M. Mackenzie King is running in the present election, who is opposing the pact, saying that its workings will "do Canada no good."

James Scott, of Waterloo, Ont., a life-long Liberal, who says the Taft-Fielding Agreement would be "ruinous to Canadian farmers."

W. P. Niles, Wellington, Prince Edward county, Ont., who was a Liberal candidate in the last provincial elections, but who is opposing the Government because of the Reciprocity issue.

C. D. Atkinson, Cornwall, an old time Liberal who says that he is going to vote Conservative in the next elections in order to record his protest against Reciprocity.

E. H. Riley, former Liberal member of the Alberta Legislature who has cast aside his old-time party affiliations and is out in denunciation of the Reciprocity pact, saying:—"Taft says we are at the Parting of the Ways. As a loyal Canadian I refuse to assist in the parting."

D. A. Weese, a prominent business man of Kingston, Ont., who has always voted Liberal, but who will support the anti-Reciprocity candidate in the Limestone city, believing that the pact is a menace to Canadian destiny.

Matthew Kennedy, Own Sound, Ont., head of the firm of William Kennedy and sons, and once a Liberal candidate in his constituency, who is convinced that Reciprocity is but the thin edge of the wedge which would ultimately split Canada's progress asunder.

Thomas Robertson, of Robertson Brothers, Toronto, an employer of 600 men, who although a Liberal, strongly opposes the Reciprocity proposals as inimical to the best interests of Canadians.

Dr. E. S. Kirkpatrick, of New Brunswick, former trade commissioner to Cuba, a Liberal, who renounces his party because of its espousal of the Reciprocity cause.

Duncan Munroe, Cornwall, one of the oldest Liberals in that town, who opposes the Reciprocity issue on national and patriotic grounds.

Thomas Dilworth, president of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association, a life-long Liberal, who denounces the Agreement, saying that it would be disastrous to Canadian growers.

Geo. A. Somerville, Toronto, a prominent business man and hitherto consistent Liberal, who signed the protest against Reciprocity with greenleaf other leading men of the party in that city.

M. E. Williams, financial editor of the Montreal Star, a great admirer of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but who cannot swallow Reciprocity.

E. M. Trower, secretary of the Toronto Retail Merchants' Association, who says that the retail men of the Dominion are menaced by the influx of American goods, made possible through the operation of the Taft-Fielding pact.

Are all cured by the Use of

MILBURN'S HEART and NERVE PILLS

Mr. Peter Haldane, Tilley, Alta., writes: "I take great pleasure in writing a few lines to tell you what your Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I had a long standing case of nervous prostration, sleeplessness, palpitation of the heart, and dizzy spells. I bought a box of the pills and they did me so much good I continued their use until I had used several boxes and they restored me to health again. They are a great remedy and I recommend them to all my friends."

The Incoming Tide.

The Conspiracy of Time and Tide and the Joy of their Little Messenger.

It was late in the afternoon of a sultry August day that Mr. James Maynell walked down to the long stretch of white sands that lay between Lime Tree Villa and the little watering place of Cliffes.

'Poor old Hugh!' Mr. Maynell said as he turned in the direction of Cliffes.

He was a stoutly built man of over sixty years of age, and his overhanging eyebrows, square jaws and ebullient smile gave him an appearance that was in keeping with the qualities of grim determination and obstinacy with which friends and foes alike endowed him.

'How hot it is!' he said. Cliffes lay some distance away, and from the sands beyond the town there came the sound of music and of human voices rising in applause.

'That accounts for the pleasant quiet here,' he said, and he leaned his head against a hollow in the face of the high cliffs that rose behind him.

'Wake up! wake up!' a shrill, childish voice said. 'Wake up, or you'll get drowned.'

'Oh, wake up! the shrill voice insisted. What made you go to sleep here? Every one knows how quickly the tide comes in.'

Mr. Maynell stood up, thoroughly awake, and looked round him in bewilderment. The sea had set across the sands that still glittered and shone with its reflection, and between him and Cliffes on one hand and Lime Tree Villa on the other the waves were rolling so heavily.

'You couldn't, the boy said. There are sudden hollows and the waters are deep. You would get lost.'

'Then, Mr. Maynell looked toward the cliffs that rose sheer and straight, 'can we climb?'

'I might—but you couldn't. Sand back, the boy said as the waters rolled to their feet.

'Oh, why did you go to sleep? Now there's no way out of this—except, he added, 'you are missed, and that some one knows you are at the White Cliffs.'

Mr. Maynell's face had grown paler. 'No one knows,' he replied. 'And you—how did you come here?'

'I saw you from the rocks above. There's a sort of track and I slid down. There was no time to go back to the town.'

Pains in the Back

Are symptoms of a weak, torpid or stagnant condition of the kidneys or liver, and are a warning it is extremely hazardous to neglect, so important is a healthy action of these organs.

They are commonly attended by loss of energy, lack of courage, and sometimes by gloomy foreboding and despondency.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cures kidney and liver troubles, relieves the back, and builds up the whole system.

He saw that the cave was of large extent and that the ground sloped steeply upwards. The boy gave a little cry.

'See, there are boxes at the end. We can sit on them.'

By the flickering match light the two made their way to where a couple of stout boxes, that had once no doubt held the rinds of some picknicking party were, and seated themselves. The boy gulped, and the last glimmer of a match showed a couple of big tears rolling down his wan cheeks.

'Are you frightened, little man?' Mr. Maynell asked. He had noticed the dryness of the higher end of the cave and had no misgivings now regarding their fate.

'Mother will be, the boy replied slowly. 'What's your name?'

'Jim. 'At, I'm James, too. We're gamekeepers,' Mr. Maynell replied that Jim's mother should be well recompensed for her night's anxiety.

'She will remember about my scapular and my medal though,' he was evidently comforting himself, 'and about Our Lady, too. You know the story?'

The boy had drawn close to his companion. Mr. Maynell put out a hand and drew him closer still.

'What's your story?'

'Then Jim, in simple words, told of Mary's search for her lost son. 'I expect she will think of that as concluded confidently.'

'But what about your father?'

'Daddy's away, far, far away. You see we are poor, and daddy couldn't find work. He wasn't brought up to work, mother says, and so he emigrated. Jim stammered at the word. 'But he has got work now—in the place where the war was, you know.'

'South Africa, Mr. Maynell said. 'That's it. We are going there next week. We have lived here through the winter, because of the cheapness, mother said.'

'I see, Mr. Maynell observed, and there was again a period of silence, broken only by the rush of the incoming waves on the strand. The gleam of light from the narrow opening grew grayer and grayer; the boy leaned more heavily against the man. All at once he sat bolt upright.

'My prayers!' he exclaimed; 'I forgot to say them. We'll say our prayers now. It must be past bedtime, I'm so sleepy. Will you begin, Mr. James?'

'Oh, oh!' Mr. Maynell passed. His nightly orisons were short and hurriedly said, if said at all, and though he went to church each Sunday his recollection of the clergyman's prayers and exhortations were usually vague.

'You had better say the prayers, Jim,' he answered, 'and I'll follow.'

'All right,' the lad agreed, and slipped to his knees. Mr. Maynell did likewise.

Jim made the Sign of the Cross and began the 'Lord's Prayer.' This the man followed easily; he hesitated when Jim came to the 'Hail Mary.'

'Fine old inn, sir,' commented the host. 'Everything in this house has its story.'

'I don't doubt it,' remarked the grouchy tourist. 'And is there any legend connected with the old piece of cheese?'

'I congratulate you, madam, on being Jim's mother,' Mr. Maynell said, raising his hat. 'Your boy, I have no doubt, saved my life.'

'Saved your life!' the woman said. And Mr. Maynell proceeded to explain.

'I should doubtless have tried to make my way back to Lime Tree Villa,' he concluded, 'once I woke.'

The woman shuddered, and Jim interposed.

'We were quite safe, mother, and it was not so dark in the cave. It was Ned, the fisherman, who first showed me the cave.'

'We—I and the neighbors—have been out all night, Jim's mother turned to Mr. Maynell. Her eyes widened after a long, earnest, startled look, and she moved as if about to turn away.

'May I ask your name, madam?' Mr. Maynell said.

'My name is Maynell,' the woman replied quietly. 'Maynell?'

'Yes, I am Roger Maynell's wife. 'My son's wife?'

'Yes. I thought your face was familiar; I saw your photograph.' Mr. Maynell held out his hand.

'My dear,' he said, 'I made a great mistake. Jim's mother must be a good woman. Will you forgive me and ask Roger to come home?'

Mrs. Maynell gave a dry gasp as she put her hand in that of her father-in-law.

'I mustn't cry,' she said; 'Oh, I mustn't cry, and there is nothing to forgive. And yes, of course, Roger will come home if you wish it.'

'I do wish it. I couldn't manage to do without a sight of my grandson now and then. And you named him Jim?'

'Roger wished it. 'My grandson Jim?' Mr. Maynell lingered over the words. 'Thank God I was caught by the incoming tide!—Magdalen Rock in Berzelger's Magazine.'
