Simply Wonderful for Chest Colds
Makes 'Em Well Over Night

Nothing Half So Quick to Relieve and Cure as Good Old "Nerviline."

Don't lie awake to-night coughing your throat sore—don't let our chest cold develop further—that's the way to coax on pneumonia.

Be sensible, and, as thousands before you have done, use Nerviline. It sure is a bully fine thing to knock out a cold or bad cough.

After once using Nerviline you'll swear by it for all time to come.

You'll say it's more like a miracle than anything else to feel its warm soothing action upon your tight chest. You'll be amazed at the quick way it cured your cough and broke up your bad cold.

It's safe for even a child to rub on Nerviline. Although five times more powerful than most other liniments, yet Nerviline has never yet burned or blistered the tender skin of even a child.

It's worth while to remember that wherever there is an ache or pain Nerviline will cure it.

Try it on your sore muscles, on a stiff joint, on the worst possible case of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, or lumbago. These are ailments Nerviline is guaranteed to cure mighty quick.

The mother of a large family can save heaps of work and worry, can cure little ills before they grow big, can keep the whole family well by always having Nerviline handy on the shelf. The large 50c. bottle is the most economical.

CHAPTER XVI.

"You understand? I have made you understand? And you are a good girl; you will not come between my mistress and the man she loves? I do not ask you for her sake. You do not know her, love her, as I do; it is not to be supposed; but I ask it for, his. You care for him—a leetle? Ah, yes. I thought so. I see it in your face, in your eyes. If you do, you will not ruin him, will not stand between him and his fortune, between him and my mistress, whose father will make him great, will help him to rise to lofty heights, to power, in your state. You will break with him, will cast him off—before it is too late?"

Her piercing eyes, her intense scrutiny, could glean nothing from the white face before her. Mina sat motionless, almost expressionless. Sara looked round the room.

"You are poor, is it not so?" she said, in a friendly, confidential way. "You earn your living, like the rest of the poor. If you decide to go away from him, out of his sight, it will be difficult for you without money. I do not offer you money to buy him of you. No, no! But you will not refuse to accept a small sum for—the expenses of the removal, your journey?"

She took a gold-netted purse from the recesses of her voluminous skirt and pushed it slowly and gently across the table. Mina looked at it, her eyes fell on it mechanically; she did not touch it.

"If you will take the advice of a friend—for I am now your friend, Mees Mina; now that I know you are good—you will go away, to a great distance, where he cannot find you; and you will stay hidden till he is married. After that, if you come to me, write to me, I will help you all I can."

She paused and scanned Mina's face; but there was no response in it. She stretched out her hand to pat Mina's arm, but Mina shrank back out of her reach.

"You are sorry, unhappy? Ah, yes, it is natural. It is the way with us women! These men, these sahibs, they make love to us, they swear to be true to us, but they trample on our hearts while they caress us with their kisses. It is the lot of us women, here in England, India, everywhere; man is all alike in every country! We love, we suffer, but we must be wise. Be you wise, my pretty child. Cast him away; do not be misled, deceived. He means you no good. Why should he? He will marry my mistress, my dear mistress, the Lady Edith."

Mina rose, her hands gripping the table, her head thrown up, her eyes flashing.

"It is a lie!" she said. "He will not marry her—he will marry me. I know it!"

The words sprang from her lips, from her heart. Behind her natural gentleness, humility, and modesty, there burned in Mina a spirit, which now sprang into a fierce flame. Mingling with this woman's persuasive tones, Clive's voice murmuring, "I love you, I love you!" had been ringing with convincing force. It was not the timid girl who had shrunk in terror from the gang of hooligans, but the girl who had stood between Clive and certain death, that confronted Sara at this moment. Love is the strongest passion that man knows, it is far stronger in women than in men; and at this moment it absorbed, engrossed the whole of Mina's being. As she stood there with white face and parted lips and flashing eyes, she was an inexperienced, unsophisticated girl no longer; but a woman fighting for that which a woman holds dearer than all else in the wide world—the possession of the man she loves. Clive she knew, trusted, and believed in. This woman, with the strange face and dress, she did not know, did not believe; she cared nothing for her or for her vaunted mistress. It was just possible that Clive might have intended to marry this Lady Edith, but that he intended to do so now was simply incredible, for only a few short hours ago he had told her, Mina, that he loved her, had asked her to be his wife; had told her that he would come in two days' time to repeat his avowal of love, to ask her for her betrothal pledge.

It was Clive against this strange woman; and her heart did not hesitate in its arbitrament, its decision. She might be standing between Clive and his ambition, his worldly welfare, but the woman's heart in her knew that the fulness of her love for him, the wealth of her passion, would more than console, compensate him for anything he might lose by marrying her.

She belonged to the common people; she was, as this woman had said, of lower class and caste; but her schooling had taught her much; unconsciously, intuitively, if you like, she felt at that supreme moment that she could make her lover happy, and that happiness, especially such happiness as she could give him, would far outweigh any worldly success which he might obtain by marrying this Lady Edith. So she stood erect, almost defiant, and spurned the suggestion so insinuatingly made by this strange woman.

Sara leaned forward and stared at the slight figure, straight as an arrow, the beautiful face, white as death, but eloquent of an immovable determination.

"Soh!" she hissed rather than spoke. "You refuse my offer! You will not release the sahib, will not go?"

"I will not," responded Mina, her bosom heaving, her hands clenched. Sara leaned back and laughed contemptuously.

"You are a fool!" she said, with a shrug of the shoulders; her brown fingers turning the bangles on her wrist. "You have listened to what I say—and you refuse? You are a little English fool. And you will be sorry—when it is too late. When he has cast you off and you are deserted—and he will cast you off and desert you, be sure—you will think of what I have warned you, and you will be sorry. You are pretty; ah, yes!" She nodded and smiled, a forced smile which belied the fury in her dark eyes. "But the sahib will tire of your prettiness. They always do. Because you see, you are not of his caste; if he marry you, he will sink to your level; he will ruin himself; will be no longer one of your Parliament and great in public life. You will have dragged him down to your level, your low caste, and he will be sorry for what he has done. He will be like a man who has tied a stone round his neck and cast himself into the Ganges. He will be a nobody, a mere nobody. Then he will think, 'Why did I marry this foolish, common girl; I, a noble of the higher caste?' He will cast you away, desert you. Do I not know?" she demanded vehemently.

"I have lived with these people, these great people; I know their ways, the thoughts they think; they are all alike. They cannot herd, cannot wed, with the lower caste." Her mood changed and she went round the table and put her hand on Mina's shoulder. "Come now, be a sensible little girl," she said persuasively, with a friendly, confidential smile. "Do not be misled by him. Give the sahib up while there is time. While there is time! You will, will you not? You will take the money and fly, before it is too late?"

Mina shook off the thin, clawlike hand, and with an indignant gesture swept the purse from the table to Sara's feet.

"I will not!" she panted. "I do not believe what you say, what you tell me! He loves me! I love him; and—I will marry him!"

Sara recoiled and, clasping her arms across her bosom, looked Mina up from head to foot.

"You will not?" she hissed, her eyes flashing balefully, her lips stretched, showing the white, even teeth. "You will not give him up! You will come between him and my mistress, my beloved mistress! You shall not! Nothing shall come between her and anything she desires. You think you can hold him, this sahib, whose shoe-strings you are not worthy to tie. You are a common girl, of a low class. You dare to lift your eyes too high. He marry you! Bah! You mock yourself! I tell you you shall not. You will be his fool, his mistress—" In her fury she broke into Hindustani, and poured it like a lava over Mina. "Idiot! Slave! You to come between my mistress and the man she loves!" She laughed scornfully. "We shall see! Sara will see!"

She snatched up the purse, drew her shawl round her with an angry, passionate gesture, and strode to the door. There she turned and cast a malignant eye over the girl's slight, but still erect form.

"Beware!" she panted almost inaudibly. "Rather than see you come between them, I would lay you and him—and him! mark me—dead at my feet!"

The door slammed on her, the room seemed still to sway with the fury of her passion; but for some moments Mina still stood, her hands clenched, her bosom heaving, her eyes flashing with indignation, with all a woman's anger; and it was not until Sara's footsteps had died away that the girl she had tortured sank into the chair, gasping for the breath that seemed to choke her in its coming.

CHAPTER XVII.

Perfect love casteth out fear. Mina's love for Clive was as perfect a one

Various Forms Of Headache

"It is necessary in order to treat headache properly to understand the causes which produce the affection," says Dr. J. W. Ripley of Brockton, Ala. Continuing, he says: "Physicians cannot even begin the treatment of a disease without knowing what causes give rise to it, and we must remember that headache is to be treated according to the same rule. We must not only be particular to give a remedy intended to counteract the cause which produces the headache, but we must also give a remedy to relieve the pain until the cause of the trouble has been removed. To answer this purpose Anti-kamnia Tablets will be found a most convenient and satisfactory remedy. One tablet every one to three hours gives comfort and relief in the most severe cases of headache, neuralgia and particularly the headaches of women."

When we have a patient subject to regular attacks of sick headache, we should caution him to keep his bowels regular, for which nothing is better than "Actoids," and when he feels the least signs of an oncoming attack, he should take two A-K Tablets. Such patients should always be instructed to carry a few Anti-kamnia Tablets, so as to have them ready for instant use. These tablets are prompt in action, and can be depended on to produce relief in a very few minutes. Anti-kamnia Tablets can be obtained at all druggists.

as we imperfect mortals are capable of; and notwithstanding the impressiveness of the Hindu woman's appearance and the well-nigh tragic force with which she had carried her part of the interview, and the fact that Mina had herself heard the name of "Lady Edith" on Clive's lips when he was unconscious, Mina would not permit herself to yield to doubt and fear which insidiously attacked her. She believed in his truth as she believed in her own. As she had said to Sara, whatever feeling he may have had for this Lady Edith, this beautiful daughter of a great nobleman, he now assuredly loved her—Mina.

She would not doubt him, she would not be depressed. She would say nothing to Elisha or Tibby; but would go on just as usual; indeed, she would practice longer than she ordinarily did, would work harder at her lessons, so as to fit herself to be the wife of the great man the strange woman had declared "Mr. Clive" to be.

Singularly enough, Mina was not frightened or awed by the discovery of the vast difference between their social positions. All along she had known that his station was above that of hers, so very far above, indeed, that the knowledge of his high birth did not affect her as it might have done. She had been just as unworthy of him when he was to her an ordinary gentleman, "Mr. Clive;" she was little more unworthy of him now that he proved to be the son of an earl. He could not stoop any lower than he had stooped in asking her to be his wife, and the girl, suddenly transformed into a woman by her love and the terrible ordeal to which she had felt, how she knew not, but instinctively, as all such feelings come, that her great love leveled all distinction.

When he came the day after tomorrow to tell her again that he loved her, and again to ask her to be his wife, she would show him her heart plainly, tell him all that was on her mind, all that the Hindu woman had said, and leave the decision to him.

And even at that moment, when every nerve was racked by the woman's visit and tragic threat, she had no fear of the result. True love is quick to recognize its kin; she knew in her innermost heart that he loved her, and with a strange determination in a girl so young, so unsophisticated, she possessed her soul in patience. She practised for a great many hours that day, and begged permission, which was readily granted, to remain at the school a longer time than usual, so that she might pick up her dropped lessons.

But though she strove, by incessant occupation, to drive away the remembrance of the Hindu woman, it intruded itself at odd moments and harassed her, and she was looking pale and tired when she came in to supper.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Pattern Cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

1418-1418. — A JAUNTY SUIT FOR EARLY FALL.

Coat—1413. Skirt—1418.

Plaid suiting is here shown in brown tones, with facings of tan faille on collar and pockets. The coat is loose fitting, and finished with a smart collar. The skirt has graceful attractive lines, with plaited fulness at the sides. The pockets may be omitted. It will require 2 3/4 yards of 44 inch material to make the coat for a medium size. The coat pattern, 1413, is cut in 3 sizes: 16, 18, and 20 years. The skirt pattern, 1418, is cut in the same sizes, and requires 3 1/2 yards of 44 inch material. It measures about 3 yards at the foot. In blue broad cloth with black, or white satin facings this would make a smart street suit.

1419. — A CHARMING DRESS FOR MOTHER'S GIRL.

Girl's Dress with Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths.

Galatea, gingham, serge, linen or percale, may be used for this model. It is also good for velvet, corduroy, taffeta, mixed suitings, cashmere or gabardine. The fronts and back are cut long in panel effect, and the waist sections are lengthened by plaited portions, that may be trimmed with the pointed tabs. If preferred a belt may be used as shown in the small view. The sleeve in wrist length has a band cuff. In short length, a band holds the gathers at lower edge. The Pattern provides a chemise for high neck finish. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 8 requires 3 yards of 44 inch material. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

From the Front.

Messages Received Previous to 9 A.M.

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, Oct. 12. General French reports that a German attack on the 8th resulted in a very severe reverse.

The French Government report marked progress near Souchez, and fresh progress also in Champagne, northeast of Tatuire.

Russia reports the Germans driven back near Dvinsk.

The Serbians have evacuated Belgrade. Fighting continues.

STATEMENTS DEFERRED.

LONDON, Oct. 12. The statement by Sir Edward Grey, Foreign Secretary, on the Balkan situation, was not made to-day in the Commons. It is deferred until Thursday.

Asquith announced that he was unable to give the decision of the Government on the subject of re-appointing Herbert Samuel, Postmaster General, advised abandonment of the proposal to abolish halfpenny postage.

THE LOAN BILL PASSES.

LONDON, Oct. 12. The Bill authorizing the loan which has been negotiated in the States, passed all its stages in the Commons to-day.

In the course of the debate there was some criticism of the rate of interest. John Dillon supporting the terms, declared that the success of the loan was an index to popular sentiment in America toward the Allies.

It was a business transaction, but more than that, he said, and six, seven or eight per cent. would not have succeeded in obtaining the money, if it had not been for the deep wave of sympathy in America in favor of the Allies.

It would therefore, be a mistake to criticize the loan, to which we are now committed, as if the people of the States had taken advantage of our necessities.

Sir Henry Dalziel thought Dillon's interpretation of criticism of the loan unjustified. We are all one in our sentiments towards the American people, he said, based on financial considerations alone.

The loan, said McKenna, is for the purpose of paying our trade debt and maintaining our exchange with the States. Our imports from North America have largely increased since the beginning of the war, and our exports have diminished.

The increase in imports for the first six months of 1915, excluding Government supplies, not included in the Customs returns amounted to £58,500,000.

The reduction of exports during the same period to £12,000,000, thus making an adverse balance of £70,500,000.

Some relief for this balance against us may be obtained by the sale of American securities held in this country.

Every effort has been made to obtain relief from this source, but in itself this will be insufficient. We should not be doing our duty, continued McKenna, if we neglected to take other means for maintaining the normal level of exchange.

I am sure this House will desire to express thanks to the Commission. Its members have accomplished their task with skill and success.

The American people are not accustomed to large external loans. I believe this is the first of any magnitude in the whole history of the States.

We must not overlook the fact that there are many crosses of opinion in that country. Although the transaction is purely for the purposes of meeting liabilities already incurred, no little opposition was raised by some parties whose sympathies were not on the side of the Allies.

I hope the existence of these parties will not be overlooked during the debate, and that care will be taken to avoid the use of any language that might be twisted by the hostile element to its advantage, and to the detriment of the Allies.

The loan is a trade transaction, its terms are fair and reasonable. I confidently recommend its acceptance by the House.

BRITISH SUCCESS.

LONDON, Oct. 12. Another success of the British arms in Kamerun, the German colony in Western Africa, where the allied troops have been fighting the Germans for several months, was officially announced to-day.

The statement says: "Wumbagas, in the Kamerun, was captured by the British forces after a 30 hours engagement on Oct. 9th. The enemy in considerable numbers, is being pursued. The last previous British report of the campaign in Kamerun was on Sept. 2nd, when a German defeat near Gashama was reported. The Germans were then said to be retreating."

ARMENIAN ATROCITIES.

LONDON, Oct. 12. A bill authorizing the loan which has been arranged in the United States, was introduced into the Commons to-day by Mr. McKenna, who defended it as fair and reasonable, the terms of the loan, arranged by the Commission. He said the true value of these terms could be estimated only by comparing them with the rate of interest paid in this country.

De-ducting accrued interest, he remarked that the British 4½ per cent. loan now stands at 98½. As American underwriters have been fighting the German loan at 96, it is argued that Britain is paying one half of one per cent. more than the market rate.

All information in possession of the British Government on the subject of massacres and deportations of Armenians by Turkey, was made public by the Marquis of Crewe, in his recent speech in the Lords. Sir Edward Grey told the Commons this afternoon.

There can be but one feeling of horror and indignation about it, the Foreign Secretary added.

SUCCESSFUL RAID.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 12. Despatches state that the recent raid by allied aviators on Ghent and the neighboring town of Genève, was so successful that not a single hangar on the German aviation grounds was left standing. All of them with their contents were burned by incendiary bombs. Ten houses were burned.

FIGHTING AROUND SOUCHEZ.

PARIS, Oct. 12. Fighting continued last night northwest of Souchez and on the heights of La Folle, according to an announcement given out this afternoon by the French War Office.

GERMAN LOSSES HEAVY.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 12. Admission that German losses have been very heavy in the past few days in the western front, is made by a correspondent of the Berlin Tageblatt.

RUSSIANS FORCE GERMAN LINES.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 12. Russian forces have penetrated the Austro-German lines on the Strypa River. They have already taken prisoners more than two thousand, and have captured four guns and ten rapid firers. The Russian advance is being pushed vigorously.

AUSTRIAN CITY ABOUT TO FALL.

GENEVA, Oct. 12. The Austrian city of Gorizia, twenty two miles northwest of Trieste, is about to fall, according to a telegram received here to-day, from Brezicia. The Italians, the despatch says, have brought up a large number of heavy guns, and are bombarding the town from five different points. At the same time the Italians are attacking the inner defences of Tolmino, while on the Carso the Austrians are said to have been forced to abandon several miles of trenches. Heavy snows in the Carnic Alps are reported to have buried the Austrian gun positions in deep drifts.

ARRESTED BY MISTAKE.

GENEVA, Oct. 12. Swiss soldiers yesterday arrested the French Ambassador and British Minister, while they were riding in an automobile near Neuchatel. The mistake was soon discovered and an apology made by the Federal authorities.

PREMIER VIVIANI'S STATEMENT.

PARIS, Oct. 12. In addressing the Chamber of Deputies to-day, Premier Viviani said Russian troops to-morrow would be fighting alongside the French and British troops in the Balkans. France, Britain and Russia, were in complete accord, he said, and ample troops were available without weakening any front.

SEMENDRIA CAPTURED.

BERLIN, Oct. 12. The War Office announced to-day that both the town and fortress of Semendria were captured yesterday.

BULGARIA DOES NOT DESIRE WAR.

SOFIA, Oct. 12. General Jecoff, the Bulgarian Minister of War, who has just been appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Bulgarian forces, said to-day in a statement to representatives of the foreign press, that Bulgaria does not desire war. We mobilized only when the Serbians, instead of giving up Macedonia, concentrated troops on the Bulgarian frontier. Instead of compelling the Serbians to adopt a compliant attitude, the Quadruple Entente presented an ultimatum to Bulgaria, demanding an immediate breach with the Central Powers. This would have meant suicide to us.

BULGARIAN MINISTER DISMISSED.

LONDON, Oct. 12. The following official announcement was issued to-night: His Majesty's Government announces that the Bulgarian Minister has been handed his passports. Diplomatic relations between Britain and Bulgaria are broken off.

PREMIER ZAIMIS' REPLY.

LONDON, Oct. 12. When the Serbian Minister at Athens officially advised Premier Zaimis of the beginning of the Bulgarian offensive against Serbia, Premier Zaimis, according to a despatch to the Star from Athens, replied: "Greece remains in the position of armed neutrality."

NOTE TO GERMANY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12. In a note despatched to Germany

CONSTIPATENTS

Read This— It must be remembered that the bowels should move freely once a day to ensure perfect health. When such is not the case the poisonous waste material is absorbed into the system, thus producing a self blood poisoning. The causes of Constipation are many and varied. Among the more common may be mentioned poor stomach digestion, a deficiency of bile in the intestines, a lack of secretion in the bowels, and a want of the natural muscular contraction of the intestines from above downward. Abbey's Effervescent Salt, sold everywhere at 25c and 60c, stimulates and restores the stomach digestion, increases the flow of bile into the intestine, causes a flow from the intestinal glands, and restores the natural downward action of the intestines, rendering it easy to secure a free action of the bowels, which is one of the most important requisites to health.

"CAN YOU AFFORD TO TAKE CHANCES?"

A little cold may not seem a dangerous thing—you may feel inclined to let it go on hoping that to-morrow it will be better—but can you afford to take chances? Just as the little insignificant acorn grows if let alone, the mighty giant oak, that though if not stopped may grow to a very serious illness. When a cough starts there's no telling where it will end. You know no doubt, of cases right among people you have known where serious complications and fatal illnesses have had their start from a neglected cough or cold.

It is dangerous—so the big thing is to find a reliable remedy—one that will give you quick, satisfactory relief.

There are many treatments that are recommended for a cough or cold but "STAFFORD'S PHORATONE COUGH AND COLD CURE" is recommended to be the safest, surest and most satisfactory way to cure a cold, grippe, etc.

Price 25 cts.; Postage 5 cts. extra. Prepared only by DR. F. STAFFORD & SON, St. John's Nfld. Manufacturers of 3 Specialties: Stafford's Liniment, Stafford's Prescription "A," Stafford's Phoratone Cough & Cold Cure.

What Dyspeptics Should Eat

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, should try a meal of any food of foods in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has direct action on the stomach; by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than eat possibly done by any drug but get rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and note remarkable results.

WET WEATHER.

The rain still falls, whenever it can, and breaks the heart of modern man. The rain-drops slug me in the eye, and from my whiskers wash the dye, t h e y spoil the colors of my shirt, and still they splash and drop a n d drop and squirt! One fact keeps running in my brain—that people used to pray for rain! The streets are running ankle deep, and in the basement waletlets creep; the roof is leaking, and the walls are dripping, as the torrent falls. The water streams adown the pane—and people used to pray for rain! The windows in their frames are jammed, and can't be raised and can't be slammed; the doors won't shut, or, if they will, they stick like beeswax to the sill, and one must find a crowbar, then, if he would open them again! Such weather gives a man a pain; and people used to pray for rain. I bless the weather man, his luck; the drawers in all my desks are stuck; the grass is drowned upon the lawn, the flowers to sailors' graves have gone. One fact is driving me insane: The people used to pray for rain!

The Loan Question

The House of Commons made quick work with authorizing the American Loan bill at the stages of the bill authorizing it were put through at one sitting, and in all probability the same despatch will meet it when it is before the House of Lords. The next news we shall get about it will probably be that the bill has received the royal assent and that it has become statute law. The notable feature on which discussion centered was the rate of interest. As the interest offered on the hundred dollar bond is five dollars annually, and the bonds were offered to the underwriters at a discount of 4 p.c. or at 96 the British Parliament is authorizing the payment of Five Dollars a year for the loan of $96, or at a rate of nearly 5.21 per cent. The moral for us in Newfoundland is that we cannot borrow abroad, if at all, at less than 5 1/2 or 6 per cent. But we have to borrow (1) to meet our railway building obligations; (2) to meet the floating loan effected in London eighteen months ago by Sir Edward Morris; (3) to make sure of having money in hand to avoid defaulting on our debentures. Newfoundland does not want to be forced into confederation by financial embarrassment. The way out is clear: (1) Curtailment of expenses; (2) Taxation, and (3) Local Loans.

To effect these purposes to free us from the menace of a Confederation, Newfoundland should drive out the Morris Government and put in men who can be trusted to handle the financial situation rationally and can inspire our local depositors in Savings Bank to take up loans at 5 1/2 per cent and save us from Confederation.

Wedding Bells.

WHITE—McALLISTER.

A very pretty wedding took place at the R. C. Cathedral yesterday afternoon when Miss Bridie McAllister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McAllister, of Curling, Bay of Islands, was united in matrimony to Mr. Geo. P. White, telegraph operator of the Postal Telegraphs, this city, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. J. McDermott, Administrator. The bride was attended by Miss M. White, sister of the groom while Mr. J. Mahoney supported the groom. Following the wedding the newly married couple drove to the residence of the groom where refreshments were partaken of after which they took the 5.30 train for Williams' Hotel, Bay Bulls, where the honeymoon will be spent. The bride who was a popular assistant at the Royal Stores, Ltd., was the recipient of many beautiful presents. On return to the city Mr. and Mrs. White will take up their residence at Cathedral Street. The Telegram joins in wishing the bride and groom many years of happiness.

HARPUR-SMITH.

A very quiet wedding was solemnized yesterday at Newton Villa, Gower Street, the residence of Mr. R. Neyle, when Elsie Isabel Smith, daughter of the late Mr. R. C. Smith, Supt. of the Anglo-American Telegraph Co. and grand-daughter of Mr. R. Neyle, was united to Mr. Robert Harpur, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, a native of Londonderry, Ireland. Rev. J. S. Sutherland, of St. Andrew's Church, performed the interesting ceremony. Only the immediate relatives of the family were present. The bride was prettily robed in white directoire satin with veil and orange blossoms, and was attended by Miss Edna Blair, daughter of Mr. H. Blair, who wore a pretty gown of pearl grey silk with pink chiffon trimmings. Mr. W. J. Robinson, a friend and fellow countryman of the groom, acted as best man. After the ceremony the happy couple motored to Tor's Cove. The bride was the recipient of many valuable presents, including several cheques.

COLLEGE.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swash."

A college is a factory for turning raw material into case-hardened athletes, kid-finished society leaders, and future members of "Who's Who." Its work is marvellous. It can take an eighteen-year-old youth with premature trousers, haystack hair, and an Adam's apple like a plum, and in four years can work him over into a calloused football champion who looks as if he had just stepped out of a ready-made clothing advertisement. It can transform a bashful boy, who turns his toes in so that they will not be too prominent, into a loud noise in a flat hat and a sore throat medicine, who is only happy when he is steering the wheels from under a trolley car. It makes statesmen out of fence-holders, society leaders out of plow-boys, half-backs out of mother's darlings, and wise men out of high school seniors. And it accomplishes all of this without taking the material apart or using an axe on it!

Colleges were invented a great many centuries ago, but have only become virulent during the last fifty years. Formerly, a college was only a place in which to learn things in books, and was as dull as a monastery. Now it is a place in which to learn all about Science, Politics, Law, Economics, History of Art, Blocking Off With the Elbow, Evidence of Christianity, How to Keep a Dance Program Straight, Trigonometry, Sign Stealing, French Advanced United States, Physiology, Eating in All Its Branches, Baseball, Gymnastics, How to Live on Credit, Matrimony, the Science of Making the Hair Stand Up Straight, Political Economy, Noises—Mechanical and Vocal—Greek, Human Nature, Girls and Policemen. The college student of to-day learns all there is to learn about all these things in four years, whereas one hundred years ago a graduate was lucky if he could read Latin and Greek at sight, and could dodge hearses on the streets. Its inventors boast of the great strides made by science in the last century. But science is a canal boat compared with education.

Colleges are useful because they produce teachers, preachers, writers and statesmen. They are a nuisance because they produce 'Rah 'Rah boys in explosive clothes, who have confused their studies to a thorough education in the conquest of this. Happily, these are greatly in the minority.

Statistics show that of all the men in America, less than one-fifth are college graduates. On the other hand, one-fourth of all the famous men in the country are college men. One-half of the members of Congress are college men. Seventeen out of twenty-six Presidents have been college men. Nine-tenths of the writers of the country, and one-half of the millionaires, are college men—and only one out of a thousand inmates of prisons are college men.

This teaches us that the college boy who minds his teachers, and does not burn down the buildings during his course of study, stands an exceedingly good chance of landing at the top. But it does not teach us that a college boy is destined to receive a free ride to fame. The world is full of college graduates who are still waiting for the band wagon to come along and haul them to the White House; and some of them are having difficulty in paying their board bill while waiting.

Enjoy your meals by taking a teaspoonful of Stafford's Prescription "A" before eating. Trial size 25c. bottle; postage 5c. extra. Large size 50c. bottle; postage 10c. extra.—sep21,tj

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

"What is the proper way to word an announcement card when only the mother of the bride is living?" queried Madge.

"The card may read thus," said her aunt. Mrs. Charles Horace Doan has the honor of announcing the marriage of her daughter Frances to Mr. Harry L. Frank, on Thursday, February the third, nineteen hundred and one, at St. Margaret's Chapel.

WINARD'S LINIMENT CURE COLDS, ETC.

435th Day of the War TO-DAY'S Messages.

11.15 A.M.

GERMANS OUTFITTING WAR YACHTS IN AMERICA.

WASHINGTON, To-Day. British agents are investigating the operations of certain yachts which they suspect had been prepared or were being outfitted for use against ships carrying oil from Mexico for the British navy.

WILL NOT ABOLISH CENT POSTAGE.

LONDON, To-Day. A picture postcard known as "Thumbs Up" touched the newspapers today on Raphael Tuck and Sons, announcing the withdrawal of the proposal to abolish the halfpenny post.

LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, To-Day. Serbia is now being attacked from the north and the east. The Austro-Germans after their capture of Belgrade and Scutaria are advancing southward, while the Bulgarians have sent forces to endeavor to interrupt communications north and south of Nish.

(this sector and the German official report to-day says the position of German troops with him is unchanged.)

THE KAISER IN SERBIA.

LONDON, To-Day. Emperor William arrived at the Austro-German headquarters in Serbia according to a despatch from Copenhagen to the Morning Post, which gives as authority to the statement, a telegram received at Copenhagen from Berlin.

TORPEDOED GERMAN.

LONDON, To-Day. A despatch from Karlskrona, Sweden, says a German steamer, the Direktor, Copenhagen, 1683 tons, Stettin, was torpedoed by a British submarine. The fate of the crew is not known.

BRITISH SUBMARINES ACTIVE IN BALTIC.

COPENHAGEN, To-Day. The Politiken says British submarines in the Baltic Sea are causing German mercantile fleet great loss. Five steamers are now known to have been sunk, says the newspaper. How many British submarines have got through the Narrows and Sound is not known, but it is evident Germany was too late in laying the Baltic mine fields. The traffic across the Baltic—the Politiken adds, is in a state of disorganization.

WILL JAP TROOPS BE SENT TO BALKANS.

TOKIO, To-Day. Advice received here from London says British opinion in some quarters is at least favorable to the despatch of Japanese troops to Balkans and have suddenly re-opened the question at Tokyo as to what Japan's future course will be. There is a strong impression here that on the return from Paris of Baron Kikuriishi, recently appointed Minister of Foreign Affairs, previously Ambassador in France, it will be followed by a full reconsideration of the International situation, with special reference to Japan's policy for preservation of her own permanent interests. Another factor arousing discussion on this subject is the arrival of Hugues LeRoux, editor of the Paris Matin, who although without official mission comes, it is understood, with introductions from and approval of M. De Casse, French Foreign Minister, to discuss the military question with prominent Japanese, with a view of determining whether the latest developments justify a change in Japan's decision not to send an army to aid her allies, and likelihood of despatching troops to the Balkan theatre.

1.15 P.M.

CONSCRIPTIONISTS BUST.

LONDON, To-Day. The Parliamentary correspondent of the Daily News asserts that the Conscriptors members of the Cabinet, headed by Churchill and Curzon, will make a renewed attempt, at today's Cabinet meeting, to force the issue and obtain a definite ruling for or against conscription. Conscriptors members believe the News says that Kitchener is more inclined to the "no" than he was a month ago and that he also believes that if the British Government should announce the adoption of conscription at the present juncture, when the new war is beginning in the Balkans, it would have a striking effect on the military situation.

BULGARIA DECLARES WAR ON SERBIA.

LONDON, To-Day. Bulgaria has declared war on Serbia, says a despatch from Paris.

CHANGE IN RUSSIAN MINISTER.

LONDON, To-Day. A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Petrograd says Alexander Volin has been appointed new Procurator General of Holy Synod. He has been head of General Department of Ministry of Interior and is credited with being initiator of the recently adopted statute extending residential rights to Jews. Other Cabinet changes are imminent, it is said that Ministers of Agriculture, M. Krivosheina and Education, Ignatiev, and Controller General Harlotonoff have all resigned, but that for the present their resignations have not been accepted, and many changes are being made also in Secondary Government posts.

GREECE REPLICATES TREATY.

PARIS, To-Day. The Athens correspondent of the Matin says he has learned from diplomatic sources that the Serbian Government having raised at Athens the question of Greece being called upon to give her support under the terms of the treaty of alliance, the Greek Government replied that the present aggressive action of Bulgaria had not a purely Balkan character, and therefore did not come within the provisions of the Greco-Serbian treaty.

PARALYZES TRADE.

STOCKHOLM, To-Day. The activity of British submarines in the Southern Baltic has virtually paralyzed what hitherto had been a lively mercantile trade between Sweden and Germany.

Stephano Sails.

The S. S. Stephano sails at 4 o'clock this afternoon for Halifax and New York. The following passengers are booked to go in saloon: Mr. F. and Mrs. Borrow, A. G. Winter, Mr. and Mrs. D. Storie, Miss G. Barter, Miss E. French, Miss Goodridge, Miss Ruby Ayre, Miss Mary Rendell, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Payne, A. E. Nessery, Mrs. Whitten, Messrs. McGregor, Carr and Brown, Ed. Dickie, Mrs. Bessie Boone, Miss G. Turner, Miss H. Fitzgerald, T. O'Brien, Mrs. O'Brien, Misses Habbie Smith, Constock, Haber, Mabel Barrett, White, Stone, Kean and Meta Orr and 26 second class.

COAL CARGO ARRIVES.—The s.s. Anna reached port last evening from Philadelphia, after a six days' passage. She brought a cargo of anthracite coal consigned to A. Harvey & Co.

Amusements.

THE FATAL OPAL AT THE CRESCENT.

The Crescent Picture Palace presents to-day: "The Fatal Opal," a great feature produced by the Kalem Company in two parts, featuring Marion Sais. "His Prior Claim" is a fine domestic drama produced by the Biograph Company. "Butterflies and Orange Blossoms" is a very interesting melo-drama with an appealing story. "Cactus Jake, Heart Breaker" is a laughable western comedy by the Selig Company. Mr. Dan Delmar sings the latest ballad: "Don't Take My Darling Boy From Me." Every afternoon at 2 o'clock, every night at 7 o'clock.

THE CONTENTS OF THE TREASURE BOX.

The mid-week programme at the Nickel Theatre is one of the finest quality and will no doubt attract large audiences. For the convenience of the public the first show this evening will start at 7 o'clock sharp. There are feature pictures to-day which are sure to please. In the first place "The Million Dollar Mystery" will be continued, the twenty-first episode being shown. Then there is the "Trey O' Hearts" which is even more attractive than the "Million Dollar Mystery." There are two comedies which are side splitters. Messrs. Huskins and Cagney will be heard in novelty songs. Don't fail to attend to-day and see the contents of the treasure box.

ROSSLEY THEATRE.

At Rossley's last night the audience was delighted with the greatest novelty act ever seen here. Miss Atlantis the dainty little lady of the rolling globe, and Donald Pisk held the audience spell-bound and thrilled. The costumes were all changed again last night. Miss Atlantis made five changes even to shoes and stockings, while Donald Pisk makes four complete changes in full view of the audience, making nine changes of magnificent costumes every night. They change many of their tricks every night. The electrical part of the act is a positive dream of beauty. They have a curtain of gold which is a blaze of brilliancy and the serpentine dance on the rolling ball with the wonderful effects is something to be remembered. The dog Jack also comes in for a share of applause. The pictures were also changed last night; the great two-reel feature "Destiny's Night" and others are very fine. Mr. Rossley is to be complimented in bringing such wonderful act here. Two shows nightly. Don't miss seeing this.

His Grace at Fermuse.

Special Evening Telegram. FERMEUSE, To-day. On Monday, October 11th, in spite of the inclemency of the weather, His Grace Archbishop Roche, Fathers McDermott and McGrath, and our esteemed pastor, Father Doutney and resident priest Father Enright, arrived here from Renewa. Amidst cheering and volleys of guns the Archbishopal party passed under decorated arches, provided by the school children to the church. His Grace thanked the people for the kind reception after blessing them and visiting the school, the party left for Admiral's Cove by motor boat where the same enthusiastic reception greeted them. His Grace there visited the church where lies the remains of Mother Bernard Kerwin, one of the first nuns that came to the country. The happy remembrance of the first visit of His Grace will be long cherished by the people of Fermuse. Wishing him ad multos annos. FERMEUSE.

Drowning Fatality.

Mr. Frank Miller, the courteous Purser of the s.s. Prospero, informs us of a drowning fatality which occurred a fortnight ago near Cape Norman, and in which four fishermen lost their lives. The names of the men could not be ascertained, but it was learned that three of them belonged to points in Trinity Bay and the other hailed from Quirpon. They were engaged trawling when a heavy sea raged with a strong easterly wind and they were forced to leave the fishing grounds. On their way to the shore their boat was struck by a heavy swell and capsized, the occupants being thrown into the water. They struggled hard to reach the bottom of the overturned boat but failed, and were buried beneath the waves. The tragedy occurred quite near the land and was witnessed, we are informed, by some twenty men, who were powerless to render any assistance owing to the heavy sea running.

Supreme Court.

Court met at 10 a.m. to-day pursuant to adjournment. Present: Mr. Justice Johnson, Mr. Justice Emerson.

Abraham Keen vs. W. F. Coaker and The Union Publishing Co.—This is an action for libel arising out of an article which appeared in "The Fishermen's Advocate" during the time of the enquiry into the sealing disaster of 1914. Furlong, K.C. and W. Kent, K.C. for the Plaintiff; Morine, K.C. and Kent, K.C. for Defendants. The following special jury are in attendance: J. Leonard, P. Taylor, J. McDonald, E. Hirst, W. Pike, L. Bartlett, P. Taylor and John Connors. Warren, K.C., states the Plaintiff's case. Abraham Keen is sworn, examined by Furlong, K.C., cross-examined by Morine, K.C. Fred M. Sterling is sworn and examined by Furlong, K.C. This closes the Plaintiff's case. The evidence of Patrick J. Burkley and Capt. Joseph Keen taken before a commission, is read and put in evidence. This closes the Defendants' case. Morine, K.C. for defts. addresses the jury. Furlong, K.C. for plaintiff addresses the jury. At 1 p.m. the court takes recess. The judge began to charge the jury at 3 p.m.

Another Wedding.

SNOW-ROBERTS. A very pretty wedding took place at St. Mary's Church, South Side, yesterday afternoon when Mr. Charles Snow, steward of the s.s. Stephano, and Miss Jessie Caldwell, daughter of Mr. James and Mrs. Roberts, were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. Uphill, assisted by Rev. H. Pike. The bride was given away by her father, and as the wedding party entered the church the hymn "Lead us Heavenly Father" was sung. The bride was fastidiously gowned in satin and under silk embroidery with net veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of tea roses and maidenhair fern. She was attended by her sisters, Miss Florence and Elsie Roberts, and Misses Jessie and Bessie Snow, sisters of the groom, while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. William Snow. Miss Nellie Snow, sister of the groom, acted as flower girl. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to Smithville where a reception was held, after which the happy couple motored to Holyrood where the honeymoon will be spent. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents. The Telegram joins in the congratulations extended and wishes the young couple many happy years of wedded life. Mr. and Mrs. Snow will return to the city on Saturday next and will take up residence at King's Road.

Controlling Your Life!

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

The things that happen to us and the way we take them, these two factors make up the whole of life. The things that happen to us we can only partially control; the way we take them we can entirely control. And yet, while most people struggle and plan and contrive all their lives long to control the things that happen to them, comparatively few set themselves to control the way they take these things.

I am speaking not only of the big things that happen now and then, but of the little things that happen every day and hour and minute.

When The Child Upsets The Milk.

At a dinner table in a certain house where I once stayed, one of the children upset a cup of milk.

"The father, a man of nervous, irritable habits, at once began to fuss. 'Look at that milk, all over the tablecloth and the floor! It will ruin the carpet! Look out or it will get on your dress, Margaret! Can't you be less awkward?'—to the embarrassed child. 'There it goes onto that chair!'

During this tirade the mother had swiftly but quietly righted the cup, mopped up the milk, laid a napkin over the soiled spot and soothed the child, who was ready to burst into tears, all without any appearance of hurry, any show of nervousness or irritability. Having done all that could be done, she slid into her seat, assured her anxious husband that the spot could easily be removed from the carpet, and closed the incident by

All Women of all Denominations

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Suffer me to use the columns of your paper to appeal to all the women of all denominations in Newfoundland to very earnestly pray to God, as instructed by their own Churches especially at this time for the success of the Prohibition movement. Perhaps 12 o'clock, noon, might be the best time for Universal Intercession and according to the Faith of the Faithful it shall be unto them.

More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of."

Do all the voters realize that to vote against Prohibition would be to assist in destroying the brother or sister for whom (we all believe) Christ died.

Let every wife, mother and sister persistently pray for their enlightenment, even as the W. C. T. U. did in its infancy when all the saloons of Hillsboro were closed in one week.

Yours sincerely,
EXTREMELY ANXIOUS.

Vigorol

If you want to feel well, bright and cheery, full of ambition; be able to move about quick and smartly—VIGOROL, the Great French Tonic, will brace you up—it cleanses the whole system. If the manufacturers could only impress this upon every one who does not feel as they ought to, the world would owe them a great gratitude; but all we can do is to ask you to try one bottle and see for yourself. The change will be wonderful. You need a spring medicine—then take VIGOROL. Sold at all drug stores.

Pack glass or china in hay which is slightly damp. This will prevent the articles from slipping about.

If you are run down from LaGrippe or Bronchitis, take "The D. & L." Emulsion. It will soon build up your weight and strength. 50c. and $1.00 bottles. Davis & Lawrence Co., Montreal.

Hr. Grace and Prohibition.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—We are now in the height of the prohibition fight. This fight reminds me of the present war as it is a battle for right against oppression and slavery. The meeting last night must have been very interesting. Tom was there and he brought home every word that was spoken so full of interest was he in all that was said. He says the remarks of Rev. Dr. Jones were truly wonderful, and added Tom, if all the rumsats were there and listened to his castigation of the trade they would quit the job at once. The other speakers of the evening all did well, were Messrs. A. A. Parsons, J. F. Downey, M.H.A., E. Parsons, M.H.A., Thomas Hanrahan, M.A., and John Casey, J.P. William Ward, Esq. was chairman of the meeting. Oh, the liquor traffic must go, as a protection to the young and rising generation. A few words on rum from my feeble pen won't hurt.

Red Rum—Let us get it in a clearer light by reading it from the last letter to the first murderer. And is it not so? The young man who indulges in liquor is committing murder in different ways. He is murdering his chances in life, ruining his health, losing his friends except of course, those who while apparently friendly are his bitterest enemies. I can recall to memory men who started out in life well, but yielded to the temptation, were egged on from one degree to another until they found they could no longer stand the strain and then they traced their steps, and on they went step by step down the road to destruction. We have heard liquor dealers say of this class, poor fellow, he is a good soul and has not an enemy but himself. Yes, he is surely murdering himself. Ah, I hear some moderate drinkers say, "I will never get so far down as that." Stop my friend, let us admit for the sake of argument that you will not. Then recall to your mind the many accidents, disasters, etc. that have been recorded where rum was wholly or partly responsible, and vote for prohibition and remove the temptation from the poor fellows, your fellow creatures, who have not the power to stand against this demon. Of course the outports are nearly if not all free from this vile stuff, but seeing the good results, they, the outports, are now anxious to rid St. John's of the curse as well, and do that city much good, besides assuring themselves of a greater benefit as well.

Again I will call on all females to work, talk, pray, plead, and leave no stone unturned from now until the 4th of November, in order to drive this demon from our shores, forever—yes, forever.

Again wishing the prohibition cause every success.

Yours etc.,
MARY.

Why pay more for "less satisfactory results?" Incandescent gas is at once the cheapest and the best form of illumination. It is the cheapest not only on account of its low initial cost, but also because by keeping the air in a room constantly moving gas is a powerful ventilating agent and therefore a foe to doctor's bills. Moreover, being "artificial daylight" it does not exercise a deleterious effect upon the eyesight. Children can work or read with perfect safety and comfort in a gas-lit room, and parents may thus avoid laying up for their youngsters the headaches and general "back of tone" which eyestrain causes.

Gas may claim aesthetic as well as hygienic value. Modern gas fittings have been brought to a very high standard of artistic merit, and can be designed to harmonise with any period of decoration or furniture. Gas means household health, economy and beauty.

One Hundred Persons With Symptoms of Beri-Beri—Expert Observer—Need of Better Diet—Patriotic Fund and Tobacco.

S. S. Strathcona, Spt. 30, 1915. Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—During the past season I have treated among a very large number of patients suffering from deficient diet diseases, over one hundred with the symptoms of multiple neuritis, which for want of a better name we call Beri-Beri—most of these are in men—and comparatively young men, some have lost the use of their limbs, four have lost their lives. It seems specially dangerous at childhood and may be one of the contributory causes to the number of rickety, unhealthy and marasmic children we register. This in an environment of exceptional natural excellence. I would ask you, sir, to influence your readers to influence the Government when supplying flour to the very poor to insist on the use of white wheat flour. Every body has spoken to them they would prefer that which affords them the best safeguard against incapacity, and there can be no light of experience no longer be any question that with the restricted diet of the Government paupers whole wheat flour is most desirable.

I have twice visited from Cape John to Cape Norman and once round the Straits and east Labrador Coasts this year, and have had with me expert colleagues that our returns and deductions may no longer be proclaimed in public newspapers as exaggerations of facts without willful misrepresentation being intended by them.

The deductions from our new system, of records, supported by those of our intermediate observers at all our stations, who keep similar records, are not all that I have to say of the superficial inquiries of travellers on mail steamers whether in Government employ or others, and for every fact we state the undeniable record of our books shows ample evidence. Dr. Paddon's centre at Indian Harbour, has been re-inforced by a small cottage hospital for winter in Hamilton Inlet, and though the mail subsidy was withdrawn from that bay, the power yacht Yale has been running up and down all summer with Dr. Thomas or Dr. Paddon. Battle Harbour is to be strengthened also by a residence in the bay for Dr. Grieve the winter. Forsau and Harrington and we hope Paul's River again also, will all be winter stations. St. Anthony and Pelly's Island will be open as usual, and we expect strengthened this winter by a doctor's residence at Bale Verte, a young doctor having applied for service. Beside these points we have had teachers at Turnavick, L'Anse au Loup, Kirpon, Currant Island, and other centres, all of whose reports are those of people who know of what they speak, all being highly educated trained observers. When a medical man visits house after house and finds pale children on dry flour diet, and again this season as every year visits women struggling to keep alive, unfortunate babies without a drop of milk of any kind being procurable can scarcely be blamed if he does not describe the condition as merely cases of milk famine. Every year we use cases alone, and our books which can be inspected show how often we are called on to supply fats and always whether it be food or clothing supplied we exact work if it can reasonably be given, and in that the people entirely concur. Even at the present moment I have on board two fathers of families, one whose young wife is down with beri-beri, and who has only four and very little of that, the other whose family is in very little better circumstances. Fortunately for White Bay the mill at Englee is enlarging its scope, and the Empire Company are offering work to a large number of men. South of Whoooping Harbour, as far as LasCote, the fishery has this year been a lamentable failure. You would also, Mr. Editor, render a service if here you would sound again—issue a warning against the waste and wickedness of spending money on patent medicines. Last week I examined two young men who had just spent ten dollars cash in purchasing a truss from some ruffian in America, though both were hard up for food for their families and neither of them were really ruptured. When will our people learn that the ratio of money expended on patent medicines is in inverse ratio to their level of intelligence.

Once more, sir, people have most rightly praised the people from Englee to Griquet and Cape Norman for last winter so generously subscribing $1,500 to the Patriotic and Belgian fund in cash. But, sir, we have talked this matter out up here, and find that the same district consumed certainly over $5,000 in tobacco. Can you, sir, not help a national campaign to persuade us all for twelve months to give up tobacco and send the money to the Patriotic Fund. Thousands of our best and bravest are now sacrificing their lives for their country and for us. What kind of a patriot is the man who won't sacrifice a needless luxury, say for one year, for the sake of his Empire?

If the Patriotic Fund would start a branch fund into which every man who was really willing was to make a sacrifice for his country could put the money saved, Newfoundland would stand up among the children of the Motherland for relative financial aid. It would be yet one further sacrifice she could afford to make, she would be far richer instead of poorer, and for all ages a contribution so significant of real unselfishness, and so large and valuable to both giver and receiver, it would shine in our island's possessions as no material wealth will shine, when the actors on our stage of to-day are living only a memory of the past. It would be an imperishable heirloom of value to our children showing that we were made of unusual stuff. Is not that a most desirable? Would it not be a glorius corollary or colleague of the splendid effort now being made for prohibition?

WILFRED T. GRENFELL.

Last Night's Lecture.

Rev. Mr. Hemmeon lectured to a large gathering at Wesley Church last night, taking as his subject "Modern Fiction." After a very pleasing solo had been given by Mr. C. Hatcher, Rev. H. Royle, who presided, introduced the lecturer, who entertained his audience for over an hour. In his opening remarks Mr. Hemmeon defined good fiction as gossip plus art. He said that in order to give pleasure to the reader there must be gracefulness and taste combined with imagination in all stories of romance. The oldest fiction known is folk lore, and the genesis of all history and cradle of all truth is tradition. He then went on to name the four essentials in good story writing—love, adventure, wit and mystery, the four great passions that go to make up life. Modern fiction may be said to have begun with the writings of Sir Walter Scott in 1771. He then referred to the influence of the writings of Shakespeare, Scott and Dickens upon the British people up to the present time. The lecturer dealt with the essentials which help to gauge the value of a story, viz. popularity, permanence, art and insight, pointing out that while one writer's works showed insight they lacked art; others were popular but were not permanent. He then referred to several well known books and briefly reviewed their respective merits as works of fiction. He recommended the writings of John Goldsworthy, William De Morgan, M. Hewlett and Robert Louis Stevenson very highly, and mentioned many of the books which had given him much enjoyment. He dealt strongly with the so-called sex novels and was of the opinion that they should be banned, as they were merely a rebound from the prudishness of former days. He made an urgent appeal for the reading of good books and recommended the works of Charles Dickens, who had no competitor in his day. After the singing of "We love thee Newfoundland" by Misses Taylor and Nichol, a vote of thanks was unanimously accorded the lecturer for the enjoyable entertainment. The National Anthem and the Benediction brought the enjoyable evening to a close.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" if cross, sick, feverish, constipated.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them. If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow.

The King Versus Channey For Arson. (Before F. J. Morris, K. C. J. P., and M. A. Devine, J.P.)

The charge in this case is that the accused on the 18th day of September last did wilfully and maliciously set fire to his dwelling house, situate on Freshwater Road, with intent thereby to defraud a certain Insurance Company.

To this charge of Arson the accused contended to a primary trial, and pleaded "Not guilty."

The following facts were given in evidence by the witnesses for the prosecution: The accused has a policy of insurance on his house for the sum of $1,000. The house was mortgaged for the sum of $850. One witness Littlejohn, swore to the fact that the accused had been offered $1,500 for the house but he would not sell it for less than $2,000, and that he believed that the value of the house was worth that figure. The furniture, personal and other effects, in the house at the time of the fire would be worth about $500 or $600. If the accused had succeeded in burning the house and its contents, he would stand to lose in the neighbourhood of $2,000.

The defence set up by Mr. Higgins, B.L., who appeared for the accused, was, "That the accused was temporarily deranged and insane through drink, that his mind was incapable of reasoning, and in a fit of drunken madness he attempted to set fire to his house. That the evidence submitted by the Crown as to the accused's condition on that day went to show beyond any question of reasonable doubt that the accused on that day was so mentally incapacitated, by reason of his drunkenness, that he was not able to judge the difference between right and wrong, and that the charge that the accused burnt his house with intent to defraud the insurance company was fully answered by the fact that had the house been burnt, he would have lost all he possessed in the world."

In support of his plea Mr. Higgins cited from the following authorities:—Archibald's Criminal Practice, Malicious Damage Act, 1861, Halsbury, vol. 9, 772, Rex vs. Davis, 14 Cox 628, Rex vs. Bains, 1886, Liverpool Assizes.

It is a felony at Common Law to wilfully and maliciously burn the house was the property of the accused. The Statute Law has made it a felony to burn a dwelling house any person being therein at the time. No person but the accused was in the house at the time of the commission of the alleged offence. It is a felony by Statute to burn a house or other building, whether the same be in possession of the offender or any other person, with intent thereby to injure or defraud any person, and it is with this latter offence that the accused stands charged.

Lord Halsbury in his Treatise on Criminal Law has this to say on the plea: "A person who becomes drunk as the result of his own voluntary act, and while drunk commits a crime, is not excused for the crime by reason of his drunkenness alone; for a person although drunk, may be capable of forming an intention and the force of committing an act. But a person may by drunkenness be rendered entirely incapable of forming an intention, and drunkenness may, therefore, even though voluntary, sometimes be used as a defence for the purpose of rebutting the presumption of a criminal intention, which would otherwise arise from an act; such presumption is deemed to be rebutted, where it is shown that the accused's mind was so affected by drink that he was incapable of knowing what he was doing, or of forming a wrongful intention."

In the case of the King vs. Meade, reported in 1 "King's Bench Division, 1909, and the latest dictum on this point, Lord Coleridge, J., says:—"A man is taken to intend the natural consequences of his act if this presumption may be rebutted in the case of a man who is drunk, by showing his mind to have been so affected by drink he had taken, that he was incapable of knowing that what he was doing was dangerous, or likely to inflict serious injury. If this be proved, a presumption that he intends to do grievous bodily harm is rebutted."

Arson is one of the offences in Common Law in which the intent is the essence of the crime, and in this case from the facts and the evidence by the Prosecution, we unhesitatingly come to the conclusion that the accused (Channey's) mind was so affected by the drink he had taken on the 18th day of September, that at the time he had set fire to his house, he was incapable of knowing that what he was doing was wrong or dangerous or likely to inflict serious injury on any person.

It appears to us to be inconceivable that a sane person will set fire to his house with intent to defraud the Insurance Company, when the commission of such an act would entail upon himself a loss amounting to twice the sum covered by his insurance policy.

There must be an intent to injure or defraud some third person not identified with the prisoner, and therefore in this case, even if the accused set fire to his house for the purpose of showing spite towards his family or doing them a personal injury, he would not commit an offence under the statute.

We therefore acquit the accused on the charge of setting fire to his house with intent to defraud an insurance company, or with intent to injure or defraud any other person. Dated Tuesday, the 12th day of October, A. D. 1915.

Inspector General Sullivan conducted the case for the Crown. Mr. W. J. Higgins, B. L., Counsel for the Accused. EARL OF DEVON BACK.—The earl of Devon, Capt. Carter, arrived in port from the White Bay service last night and reports a stormy winter during the whole trip. Captain Carter says that there has been no improvement in the fishery since his last trip north. The Earl of Devon brought a considerable freight and several passengers.
