NO LAWS TOUCHING RELIGION

SUBJECTS ON WHICH THE DUBLIN PARLIAMENT CANNOT LEGISLATE

Clause Four of the Irish Bill Under Discussion—It forbids the Making of Laws Bearing Upon Religious Matters, Rights of Life and Property and the Public Sea Fisheries.

LONDON, June 14.—Sir Charles Russell of British counsel before the Behring Sea Tribunal of arbitration has returned to London, and in time to take part in the opening of the debate on the fourth clause of section 7 of the Irish Home Rule Bill.

This clause forbids the making of laws by the proposed Irish Legislature bearing upon religious matters, the right of life and property, and the public sea fisheries of the people to the right of sea fisheries.

It is a constitutional clause and characterizes the Hon. Thomas Cochrane, Liberal-Unionist member for the north division of Yorkshire, proposed that the clause should be omitted from the third amendment of clause 4. By the omission of this word the clause would mean, in effect, that any law of the proposed Irish Legislature which was not "predominantly" affecting the public sea fisheries should be valid.

Sir Charles Russell opposed the proposed change and he was supported by Mr. Thomas Cochrane, Liberal-Unionist member for the north division of Yorkshire, who also spoke in opposition to the change in the sub-section referred to. After a short debate Mr. Cochrane withdrew his motion to amend the clause.

A second amendment rejected. Mr. Viscount Gibbs, Conservative member for the St. Albans division of England, moved the adoption of an amendment retaining the Irish Legislature from imposing disabilities or conferring privileges upon institutions owned or conducted by any religious order.

The Government was not willing to accept the amendment, and several Liberal and Irish speakers protested against its being incorporated in the bill.

When the question of incorporating the amendment into the bill was put to a vote the House rejected it without a division.

COLLISION IN MID-OCEAN.

The Canadian Servis Ben Down and sank the A. Metcalum.

QUEBEC, June 14.—The Canadian steamer Servis, which arrived today, reports that on June 7 she ran down the American ship A. Metcalum, from New York, April 28, for New York.

The Metcalum was so badly damaged that she had to seek a sheltered anchorage after the accident. The Servis remained 24 hours on board. One man named Miles was drowned.

The second officer of the A. Metcalum was found in his berth when the boat was hoisted. The Servis shatters his cabin and threw him to the floor. The Metcalum was overturned, and the water rose to the level of the windows, which ignited the bedclothes.

Wreckage blocked the door of the room, and the water rose to the level of the windows, which ignited the bedclothes.

English Workmen Resolve to Ignore the Coming Royal Wedding.

LONDON, June 14.—The recent agitation of the Radicals against practically taxing workmen by the loss of a day's work, and the contributions to the fund for the Duke of York and Princess Mary is beginning to bear fruit.

Citizens meetings have been held at Oldham, Bristol and other places throughout England.

At these meetings, which were called by the mayors of the respective towns to discuss the manner of the celebration of the royal wedding, there was much enthusiasm, and the masses of workmen who were present were also in favor of ignoring the event altogether.

AN ABEONAUT'S PERIL.

Her Balloon Took Fire, but She Descended in Safety.

GALT, June 14.—During the festivities here a balloon ascension took place about 7:30 p.m. and everything went right until the balloon was about 1000 feet above ground, when it looked for a time like a serious accident for the aeronaut, but she wondrously held on to the parachute and dropped slowly and safely to the ground. The crowd cheered and began talking to collection for the brave and dervy lady to recuperate her for the loss of her balloon, which was entirely burned up before it reached the ground.

Crab Shooting.

"Crab shooting" has struck the town and scores of joints are in full blast. So little do the proprietors regard the price of the "crabs" as they will sell across the table at a price that is almost a miracle.

No More Round Shoulders.

Shoulders, necks and arms of the "barbers" are simple, and it is a relief to the public to see them in such a state.

A number of the applicants against the proposed revision of the County Division of Toronto have already filed with the town clerk.

Train Derailed—Several Killed.

PARIS, June 4.—A train on the railway between Paris and Orleans, 35 kilometers from Paris, was derailed today and several persons were killed and a number wounded.

LIZIE'S DAMAGING ADMISSION.

Sensational Testimony at the Borden Trial—Evidence Touching Her Purchase of Prussic Acid.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 14.—The Borden trial was conducted promptly at 10 o'clock, every seat in the house being occupied. The first witness was City Marshal Hilliard of Fall River.

Major John W. Coughlin, Fall River, who testified the marriage testimony as to his conversation with the defendant, who excluded the evidence as to the demonstration of Mrs. More's efforts by the government to show that the police later surrounded the house in good faith for protection, not for surveillance.

Called Her Stepmother Names.

Mrs. Clifford, a dressmaker, testified against Mrs. More's efforts by the government to show that the police later surrounded the house in good faith for protection, not for surveillance.

The Government offered to show that the prisoner said in November, 1892, that her name was Elizabeth, but this testimony was excluded.

Damaging Admission Overheard.

Hearing the conversation at the police station, Fall River, testified that the prisoner was in her charge at one time.

Announced Her Name.

"You have given me away, Emma, but don't care, I won't give you that," [Miss Emma said, "Oh, Lizie, I didn't," at the time she was arrested.]

Anna More's Evidence Brought Out.

The court decided not to admit the testimony of Anna H. Borden, with whom Lizie More lived, because she had been present at the trial and had seen the prisoner.

The purchase of Prussic Acid.

The defence objected and Mr. Cochrane argued that the evidence offered was competent as bearing on the prisoner's state of mind, showing her deliberation in the crime. At the conclusion of the arguments the justice ordered the testimony to be admitted.

Evidence As to the Prussic Acid Admitted.

The court remained in consultation half an hour and then came in and announced that the evidence as to the purchase of prussic acid was admitted.

THE PURCHASE OF PRUSSIC ACID.

Mrs. Truett says that it was not her brother who had purchased it.

Mrs. Truett, wife of Capt. John Truett, the steamer man, living at 42 Metcalfe street, received a telegram yesterday from the chief of the Canadian King. As the telegram was addressed to her, she was very much surprised, as she has not relative in Canada, with the exception of a brother, who is employed in the Canadian King. As Captain Truett is out of town Mrs. Truett is believed to be the person who is not acquainted with any person in Windsor.

ELOPED WITH LADY MEREDITH

THE FLIERING COUPLE FOLLOWED BY AN ENGLISH DETECTIVE.

Richard Cecil Leigh and His Companion Departed Hastily for Canada From New York—Capt. Leigh of the Horse Guards Follows His Brother-in-Law Meredith Will Seek Divorce.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Guests at the Hotel Savoy have for several days been discussing a couple who came there a day or two before the Princess Estella, and who after living in state for a week or more vanished just as an English detective appeared on the scene, taking their first trunk, but leaving the lady-princess behind them. The couple were taken from Europe. According to the story as it has since developed, the couple were Richard Cecil Leigh and Kathleen, Lady Meredith, who had eloped from London.

Leigh was under 30 years of age, with a fine physique, and was a member of the well-known Leigh family. He was well-built, well-dressed and well supplied with money. Lady Meredith was even younger, an Englishwoman of charming manners and appearance. She is described as the wife of "Sir Henry Meredith" of London.

The couple arrived on the steamer La Touraine from Havre, May 20, and after a visit to the banking-house of August Belmont & Co. were driven to the Madison Avenue Hotel. The following day they went to the Hotel Savoy and engaged the finest suite of apartments in the hotel, which was named "Mr. and Mrs. Leigh and maid, London."

Shadowed From Scotland Yard.

All this time a detective was following them, who came from the mother, but he did not take her home, and the couple are now supposed to be in Chicago.
