WHITE'S FORCES IN TERRIBLE CONFLICT WITH THE BOERS

light, and brought their heavy guns into play. Their practice was magnificent. At the fourth shot the enemy's 40-pounders had been knocked out of action. The town is now, therefore, freed from apprehension of bombardment. Throughout the engagement the Boers held their ground with courage and tenacity, and, considering the intensity of our artillery fire, they must have suffered severely.

MEN FROM H.M.S. PHLOMEL Did the Work of Disabling the Boer Guns—Range Was 10,000 Yards.

London, Oct. 31.—It is believed that the naval brigade which arrived yesterday (Monday), at Ladysmith, consists of a hundred men from the H.M.S. Phloemel, 47 quick firing guns, with a range of 10,000 yards, firing a 45-pound shell. The battery that was lost is probably one consisting of six two and a half inch muzzle loaders and 36 miles.

INDECISIVE RECONNAISSANCE. Is What The Daily Telegraph Correspondent Calls the Fight at Ladysmith Yesterday.

London, Oct. 31.—The Daily Telegraph has the following account of the Ladysmith engagement from its special correspondent: An indecisive reconnaissance occurred today (Monday) before daybreak. The Boers advanced from Ladysmith, moving toward Tinta Inyoni. Two brigades of the British, under General Buller and General Buller, went toward Buluan, while two regular battalions under the command of Major-General Buller, moved to the right, holding the line against the Boer advance. The Boers were found to be in great force at all points.

To Be Their SUPREME EFFORT, It is Said That the Boers Will Return to Ladysmith After Being Driven Off.

London, Oct. 31.—The despatch to the Associated Press from Ladysmith this morning... The Boers had had field pieces, machine guns and a 40-pounder. General White in the afternoon withdrew his forces upon Ladysmith. The losses on the Boer side were considerable.

FROM THE STANDARD.

The war correspondent of the Standard... The mountain battery on the left reported that it had suffered through a great deal of sniping. Our artillery, cavalry, mounted infantry and volunteers behaved splendidly in difficult circumstances.

THE DEFEATING NOISE.

At the height of the engagement the noise was almost deafening above the rattle of the musketry could be heard the quick firing guns, which considerably added to the difficulties our men had to encounter. The purpose of the reconnaissance had, however, been gallantly achieved and our infantry began to fall back.

ARMORED TRAIN AT WORK AGAIN.

Got Within 1000 Yards of a Boer Lager—Maxim Worked With Effect.

London, Oct. 30.—A War Office despatch from Cape Town, dated Oct. 26, says: "An armored train, under Liewellyn got within 1000 yards of the Boer lager, three miles west of Fort Teka. The train had driven in their horses on the approach of the train. Three Maxim rifles were discharged and the Boers who must have had considerable loss. They returned ten shots with no effect. Colonel Pinner's outpost of the Boers is on the Crocodile River."

BAYONET ATTACK ON BOERS. Said to Have Been Made by Baden-Powell's Men From Mafeking.

Lorenzo Marquez, Oct. 30.—A despatch received here today from Pretoria, under date of Oct. 28, says General Cronje, the Boer commander, announced that the British garrison at Mafeking made a bayonet attack on Commandant Louw's lager, near Grandstand, but were repulsed, leaving six dead on the field, and it was believed that many of the attackers were wounded. The despatch adds that Saturday morning Col. Baden-Powell asked for reinforcements in order to retake the town. Cronje assented to this, the Boers assisting in placing the dead in the wagon returning to Mafeking.

LITTLE CHANGE IN THE POSITION As a Result of Gen. White's Skirmish With the Boers Yesterday.

London, Oct. 31.—Yesterday's engagement at Ladysmith, which, despite the rather heavy losses, must be regarded rather as an extended reconnaissance or skirmish than a battle, seems to make little change in the actual position. It is disappointing to the British, as it shows the Boers are in possession of a number of heavy guns, the transportation of which causes wonderment here, they have available marvelous ability. Unless commanded by a skillful European officer, it is hardly considered probable that Boer farmers would have assumed a position so far in front of the line of defense, as they evidently did, in front of the right column, with the intention of forcing the British to attack over a fire-swept zone.

MAKING AND KIMBERLEY. Are Proposed to Be in a Position to Withstand the Boer Assaults All Right.

London, Oct. 30.—The latest news from the western border has apparently reassured the British authorities as to the ability of Mafeking and Kimberley to withstand assaults. Col. Baden-Powell's despatch from Mafeking, "Dog killed," gives a vivid picture of his happy frame of mind.

Correspondents on the Field Not Permitted to go to the Front During Action.

OFFICIAL BULLETINS THE RULE. Information Showing Just What the "Special Cable" Fakers Get for the Public.

London, Oct. 30.—The war correspondents are not allowed to go to the front when a battle is impending in Natal. This is the reluctant confession which is being made by the War Office. It has been known at headquarters in the British army that restrictions would be removed when the preliminary manoeuvres and arrangements of forces. The war has been in progress for many days, but the correspondents have not been permitted to go to the front. The official bulletins are being issued in rapid succession, and have provided a safeguard against sensational journalism.

Authentic Information. The Official Bulletin is Numerous.

It is extremely evident that the public likes this is exactly for supplying official information as rapidly as it is received. The official bulletins are numerous, and are being issued in rapid succession, and have provided a safeguard against sensational journalism. The war correspondents are not allowed to go to the front when a battle is impending in Natal.

MORE TWO-FACED BUSINESS.
 There is one thing The World has always insisted upon in regard to the public affairs of this country, and that is that public men and public journals ought to be, as the saying is, up-and-up; that they ought to be one thing or the other, and that the double-faced man or the double-faced journal should receive no recognition from the people, but should be frowned down on every occasion. It has long been charged against Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and especially has the charge been made by The Mail newspaper, that he had one face for Quebec and another face for Ontario, that he was for remedying the situation in Quebec and against the situation in Ontario, that he was a protectionist one day and a free trader the next. Repeatedly it has called him "the double-faced politician." As against Sir Wilfrid we believe The Mail's charge holds; but what about The Mail newspaper itself? The French-Canadian papers and Mr. Tarte and other politicians in Quebec are trying to hold the Conservative party responsible for the double-faced attitude of the people who control The Mail. As everyone in Toronto knows, The Mail as a morning paper and as a newspaper of the set of men, and the administration of both is conducted from the one office. The French papers point this out and say that in The News of all last week there were a number of bitter attacks on the French-Canadian people as a race, and on their loyalty to Canada and the Empire, while in The Mail, not only last week but yesterday's issue, there were articles to the effect that the French-Canadians as a people were all right. Here are two extracts in parallel columns that show two faces from the set of men on this very important issue:

News Edit., Oct. 28, Mail Edit., Oct. 28.
 The attention of The Verite, the paper which believes in per which is talking French-Canadian loyalty about the separation of the Province of Quebec from the Dominion, is a little sheet run by one Mr. Tardivel, who writes all its copy and prints the type on his hand press. The advice to which it gives is to cry in the police court any man who is convicted in such a way as to show that he is a traitor to the Empire. The Verite is a very interesting paper, and we have said before and we say now that it is a paper which is not to be judged by a few firebrands who really ought to be ashamed of themselves.

It is a pity to see the English-speaking people of Canada who close their eyes to the state of affairs that exist in the Dominion to-day. They have kept their eyes shut since the late Mr. Laurier was Premier, and they are not ready to be enlightened. It will be for the benefit of the Dominion if the English-speaking people of Canada would take an interest in the situation and understand the ambitions that animate the men who hold the reins of power. It is clear that the sooner the real situation is recognized, the better it will be for Canada and the Empire.

Mr. C. Riordan is published as president of the Ontario and W. Douglas, the elder, as the manager of one and W. Douglas, the younger, as the manager of the other. From the foregoing it must be evident that there is hypocrisy in Ontario as well as in Quebec, and that a two-faced newspaper management is as apparent to the public as the two-faced politician, and that the two-faced newspaper management which charges a politician with the crime of having two faces is a little brazen in its conduct. We do not know of anything that will do more to injure Ontario in the eyes of the people of the Dominion than this.

 It Makes Weak Women Strong, And Sick Women Well.

It acts directly on the organs affected and is at the same time a general tonic for the whole system. It cures female complaint right in the privacy of home. It makes unnecessary the disagreeable questioning, examinations and local treatments so universally insisted upon by doctors, and so abhorrent to every modest woman.

J. S. Eversitt, of Hagerman, Washington Co., Florida, writes: "For five years my wife was in an almost hopeless condition, suffering from female weakness. Last September I decided to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Manly Pills. I am now a happy man, whereas I thought for four years that I would be left in this world without a companion. Dr. Pierce's medicines are truly worth a thousand times the money they cost and every suffering woman in the world should try them."

COMMERCE AND WAR.
 Since the London Chamber of Commerce issued its invitation to the Boards of Trade throughout the Empire to send representatives to the Congress of 1890, which has broken out, which bears to some extent an international character, for the Orange Free State, which is now fighting against the Empire, was included in the South African Customs Union, together with such unimpoverished British colonies as Natal and Cape Colony. In fact, at the Ottawa Conference of 1894, when the resolution was passed that the colonies of Great Britain should take steps to place each other's products on a more favored customs basis than those of foreign countries, it was further resolved, "That for the purposes of this resolution, the South African Customs Union be considered as part of the territory capable of being brought within the scope of the contemplated trade arrangements."

How comes it, then, that the prospect of the closer union and of preferential trade between the colonies is now overshadowed by the smoke of intercolonial war? How was it possible that the program of 1894 should be first neglected, then forgotten and at last rendered almost impossible by the outbreak of hostilities?

It is not so very long since the leader of the colonies proposed to the Conference of 1887 that the colonies should contribute the proceeds of a two per cent duty on foreign importations towards the defence of the Empire. When attending the Ottawa Conference the same gentleman, Mr. Hofmeyr, repeated the proposal in terms that would have done infinite credit to any advocate of the doctrine of imperial unity. The following is an extract from his speech:

"I think it is highly necessary for the welfare of the Empire—I can almost say for its existence—that a closer connection should be established, from a customs tariff point of view, between the United Kingdom and the different parts of the British Empire. The different parts of the Empire, of such connection is felt in various degrees, but it is necessary, in my view, that if the United Kingdom itself does not within a limited number of years come forward and make proposals to enter into such closer connections with our colonies; we are prepared to make proposals from our own side for more favorable terms than from foreign countries, you will find the colonies will, for the sake of maintaining their trade with France and the United States and other powers to obtain advantages of trade which cannot get within the British Empire. I spoke at great length on this subject at the Colonial Conference in London in 1887, and I think my views are as well known in Canada. I believe in going a little further—that something more should be done for the defence of the Empire and the various colonies. But how about the going to depend on subsidies? The subsidies of war will not be provided by the colonies but by the extension of the tax to be borne by the whole Empire. And what tax would be proposed? None, except such as would be levied on the colonies and the Empire. The impression that while they are paying the cost of their own defence, they are benefiting themselves in the markets of the Empire. Therefore it was that in London in 1887 I proposed that the various colonies of the British Empire should be levied an additional tax on imports and exports from abroad, and that the proceeds of such a tax should be used for imperial defence purposes."

This was surely not the tone of the leader of a race hostile to the British Empire. Is it not reasonable to suppose that, if this plan had been considered by the authorities of the Empire and had been followed up by the necessary negotiations, a much more friendly feeling might have been created between the Dutch of South Africa and England, and made it difficult for either of them to break the peace? And why was not this course followed? Simply because the proposal interfered with the economic position of Great Britain, and seemed to be tainted with protectionism. Thus it appears that the peace of the Empire has been sacrificed to the Moloch which has already devoured so much of the prosperity of the Old Country. As in many previous instances in our history, the politicians seem to have blundered into an impossible position, from which they have to be extricated by the valor and blood of the army and navy.

Of course, the extrication will follow, thanks to the soldiers and sailors of the Empire. Long before the Trade Congress meets, in June, 1890, the trouble will be overed by the colonies of South Africa will be British, and another division will be organized, which, with Canada and Australia, will in the end help to establish that Imperial Customs Union for which we have been striving so long. Meanwhile let us pay some attention to the principles above set forth by Hofmeyr, of Great Britain, at the Congress assembly, the Canadian delegates may be unanimous and energetic in advocating a system which will simultaneously provide for imperial defence and secure commercial advantages to all the communities existing within the bounds of the British Empire.

Toronto Junction, Oct. 30.—(Special.)—John Mack struck an obstinate cow on Dundas-street this afternoon. Eye-witnesses saw the cow strike Mack unmercifully. Druggist Wright was crossing the road, and stopped to see how much the brute would stand without bawling. He had something to say to Mr. Mack about his cruelty, whereupon Mack gave the cow a rest to attend to the druggist. A nearby constable took in the situation, and yanked Mack into the cage, and shortly after he appeared before Police Magistrate Billis, and was fined $1. GOLD PRODUCTION INCREASES.

More than One-half the Supply of 400 Years Has Been Produced in 40 Years.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Of the $10,000,000,000 of gold produced in the world since the discovery of America, more than one-half has been produced in 1890, and more than one-fourth since 1885. To put it in other words, one-half of the gold product of the last four hundred years has been produced within forty years, and one-fourth within fifteen years. The compilation shows that the grand total of gold production from 1492 to last included the first year for 1890 amount to $9,853,050,000. An estimate of the gold production in 1890 shows that of the $9,853,050,000 gold produced since 1492, $5,241,835,000, or considerably more than one-half, has been produced since 1890, and $2,540,200,400, or more than one-fourth, since 1885.

Lightened or likely to have much COMMERCE AND WAR. The London Chamber of Commerce's invitation to the Boards of throughout the Empire to send representatives to the Congress of 1890, was not of an encouraging character, for the Free State, which is now fighting the Empire, was included in the African Customs Union, together with unequalled British colonies as a part of the Empire. In fact, at the Conference of 1890, when the resolution should be passed that the colonies should obtain the same treatment as the products of a more favored basis than those of foreign countries was further resolved, "That, for reasons of this resolution, the South African Republic should be considered as a territory capable of being within the scope of the contemplated arrangements." It is, then, that the prospect of closer union and of preferential treatment to the colonies is now obscured by the smoke of intercolonial war? How possible that the program of 1890 is first neglected, then forgotten and rendered almost impossible by the effects of hostilities? So very long since the leader of the Confederation proposed to the Conference of 1887 that the colonies should consent to the proceeds of a two per cent. foreign importations towards the support of the Empire. When attending a Conference the same gentleman, Hofmeyr, repeated the proposal that would have done infinite harm to the colonies. The following is an extract: "It is highly necessary for the Empire—I can almost say assistance—that a closer connection be established between the various parts of the Empire, and that the best possible connection be maintained between the British Empire. I believe that the Empire has been for a limited number of years and says: 'We are prepared to enter into such a closer connection with the colonies; we are prepared to accept of our own colonies under the same terms as those from foreign countries; you will find the colonies will be of material benefits, turn to the Empire and the Empire will obtain advantages of trade which would not be obtainable if the Empire were a mere collection of independent States. I believe in the Empire, and I believe in the Empire, and I believe in the Empire. I am afraid if you are dependent on a tax to be levied on the Empire. And what tax would you levied on the Empire? None except such as conveyance of the colonies. I believe in the Empire, and I believe in the Empire, and I believe in the Empire. Therefore it was that in London I proposed that over and above the customs duties of the various parts of the British Empire there should be levied a tax on foreign goods. From abroad, and that the proceeds of such a tax should be used for defence purposes. It is surely not the tone of the leecher hostile to the British Empire. It is reasonable to suppose that, if had been considered by the colonies of the Empire and had been followed by the necessary negotiations, a friendly feeling might have been betwixt the British of South England, and made it difficult for them to break the peace? And not this course followed? Simply the proposal interfered with the prejudices of Great Britain, and the feeling with professed affection appears has the peace of the Empire to the Moloch which they devoted so much of the products of the Old Country. As in many instances in our history, the poison to have blundered into an invasion, from which they have been saved by the valor and blood of the navy. The extraction will follow, and the soldiers and sailors of the Empire before the Trade Congress June, 1890, the trouble will be whole of South Africa will be another dominion will be which, with Canada, and Australia, the end help to establish that systems Union for which we have long so long. Meanwhile let us attention to the principles above by Hofmeyr, so that, when the members, the Canadian delegates and energetic in advertisement which will simultaneously Imperial defence and secure advantages to all the communities within the bounds of the British Empire.

BUFFALO GETTING SCARED

The Deepening of St. Lawrence Canals Has Caused Consternation Among the Shipping Men.

WASHINGTON WILL BE BESIEGED.

In an effort to get the Government to take the Erie Canal in hand and deepen it.

Buffalo, Oct. 30.—The seriousness of the rivalry promised the Erie Canal by the St. Lawrence route, and the danger of divergence of the grain forwarding trade from one to the other, are being realized in Buffalo, and several of the newspapers are publishing the fullest possible details on the subject and demanding immediate action for averting, if possible, the destruction of the enormous business done by the large colony of grain elevators at this port. The alarm is general made so by the published statements of Hon. Mr. Tarte upon the policy of the Dominion Government in the management of the St. Lawrence route. Particularly Mr. Tarte's statement that the Government has agreed to a concession which would be prepared to spend millions more to divert traffic to the canals has forced upon the business men of Buffalo the full significance of the competition to be expected by the St. Lawrence route, now that a 14-foot depth between Port Colborne and Toronto has been attained. Local interest is intensified by the knowledge that a Buffalo syndicate with undoubted power to control the grain trade to the St. Lawrence route is negotiating with the Dominion Government for a concession which will enable them to make the St. Lawrence route the greatest economical highway on the continent. The superiority of the St. Lawrence route is no longer questioned. It is beyond doubt now that Congress will be besieged this session with demands to take over the Erie Canal and make every possible effort to prevent successful competition by the St. Lawrence canal route.

FREE BOOK FOR WEAK MEN

Read the book "Three Classes of Men," which we send free, sealed, by mail. It tells of our famous invention, the Dr. Sanden Electric Belt, with special attachment for men, the great home self-treatment for all results of youthful errors or later excesses. It strengthens the nerves and fills the body with the vigor of youth.

The Sanden Electric Co., Toronto, Ont. Gentlemen: Your Belt has done all you claimed for it in my case. I was for two years that I could not straighten my back, but after using your Belt for four weeks I am entirely cured. I do not need the Belt at all now, but would not take $1,000 for it if I could not get another.

Yours truly, M. MALOY. Dineen Building, Toronto.
