Poetry.

Little Feet and Little Hands.

Little feet and little hands,
Buy all the day,
Never staying in your playing
Long upon your way,
Little knowing whither going,
Come to me, I pray!
Bring the sweetness, in its footsteps,
Of the little flowers,
And the blessings and caresses
Of your sunny hours!

Little Feet and Little Hands.

What awaits for you?
Sad to-morrow with its sorrows?
Clouds, or skies of blue?
With the pleasures come with treasures
Ever glad and new?
Never tarry feet that carry
Little ones along,
May they bear the darlings where the Air is full of song!

Little Feet and Little Hands.

Ye are wonderful fair!
Ye are straying in your playing
From a balmy air
Gently blowing, never knowing
Any thought of care
To its breeze, if it pleases
Him who guides our way,
May you wander, over yonder
Where they ever play,
And no smiling or beguiling
Woo again to stray!

Miscellany.

The Bewitched Clock.

About half-past eleven o'clock on Sunday night, a human leg, enveloped in blue broad-cloth, might have been seen entering Cephas Carberry's kitchen window. The leg was followed finally by the entire person of a lively Yankee, attired in his Sunday-go-to-meetin' clothes. It was, in fact, Joe Mayweed, who this burglariously, in the dead of night, won his way into the deacon's kitchen.

"Wonder how much the old deacon made by orderin' me not to darken his door again!" soliloquised the young man. "Promised him I wouldn't, but didn't say nothin' about winders. Winders is just as good as doors, if there ain't no noddle to tear your trousers over. Wonder if I shall come down? The critter promised me. I'm afraid to move here. I might break my shins over somethin' or nother, and wake the old folks. Cold enough to freeze a polar bear here. Oh, here comes Sally!"

The beautiful maiden descended with a pleasant smile, a tallow candle and a box of matches. After receiving a rapturous greeting she made up a roaring fire in the cooking stove, and the happy couple sat down to enjoy the sweet interchange of views and hopes. But the course of true love ran no smoother in old Carberry's kitchen than it did elsewhere, and Joe, who was making up his mind to treat himself to a kiss, was startled by the voice of the deacon, her father, shouting from her chamber door—

Sally, what are you getting up in the middle of the night for?

Tell him it's most morning, whispered Joe. I can't tell a fib, said Sally.

I'll make it a truth tho' said Joe, and running to the huge old-fashioned clock that stood in the corner, he sat it at five.

Look at the clock, and tell me what time it is, cried the old gentleman up stairs.

It's five by the clock, answered Sally, and corroborating the words, the clock struck five.

The lovers sat down again and resumed the conversation. Suddenly the staircase began to creak. Good gracious! it's father.

The deacon, by thunder? cried Joe's hide me, Sal!

Where can I hide you? cried the distracted girl.

Oh, I know, said he, I'll squeeze into the clock case.

And without another word he concealed himself in the case and drew the door behind him.

The deacon was dressed, and sitting himself down by the cooking stove, pulled out his pipe, lighted, and commenced smoking very deliberately and calmly.

Five o'clock, eh? said he. Well, I shall have time to smoke three or four pipes, then I'll go and feed the critters. Hadn't you better go and feed the critters first, and smoke afterwards? suggested the dutiful Sally.

No, nookin' clears my head and wakes me up, answered the deacon, who seemed not a whit disposed to hurry his enjoyment.

Bur-r-r—whizz—ding—ding! went the clock.

Tormented lightning! cried the deacon, starting up, and dropping his pipe on the stove. What is creation's trick?

It's only the clock striking five, said Sally tremulously.

Whiz! ding! ding! went the old clock furiously.

Powers of mercy! cried the deacon. Striking five! it's struck a hundred already.

Deacon Barberry! cried the deacon's better half, who had hastily robed herself and how came plunging down the staircase in the wildest state of alarm. What is the matter with the clock?

Goodness only knows, replied the old man. It's been in the family these hundred years, and never did I know it to carry on so before.

Whiz! bang! bang! bang! went the clock. It'll bust itself! cried the old lady, shedding a flood of tears, and there won't be nothing left of it.

It's bewitched, said the deacon, who retained a leaven of New England superstition in his nature. Anyhow, he said, after a pause, advancing resolutely toward the clock, I'll see what's got into it!

Oh, don't cry the daughter, affectionately seizing one of his coat tails, while his faithful wife hung to the other.

Don't chorused both the women together. Let go my raiment! shouted the deacon. I ain't afraid of the powers of darkness.

But the women would not let go, so the deacon slipped off his coat and while, from the sudden cessation of resistance, they fell heavily on the floor, he darted forward and laid his hand on the door of the clockcase. But no human power could open it. Joe was holding it inside with a death grasp. The deacon began to be dreadfully frightened. He gave one more tug. An unearthly yell as of a fiend in distress came from the inside, and then the clockcase pitched head foremost on the floor, smashed its face and wrecked its proportions.

The current of air extinguished the light—the deacon, the old lady and Sally fled up stairs, and Joe Mayweed, extricating himself from the clock, effected his retreat in the same way that he had entered. The next day Joe Mayweed was alive with the story of how he had seen Barberry's clock had been bewitched; and though many believed its version, some, especially Joe Mayweed, effected to discredit the whole affair, hinting that the deacon had been trying the experiment of tasting frozen cider, and that the vagaries of the clock case existed only in a disordered imagination.

How to be Man.

Not long since a boy of some seventeen years of age called on a merchant doing a large business in New York. Being busily employed at the time, the boy had to wait a little before getting an opportunity for an interview. Occasionally the merchant cast a glance at him as he stood respectfully at a short distance. He was rather poorly clad, and showed evidences of pretty hard work; but his face indicated honesty and common sense, with a firm and energetic manliness, under the somewhat rude exterior. A practical business man requires but brief examination of a boy to declare as to his weight and worth of character.

When at liberty, the merchant said:—Well, my young friend, what can I do for you?

I called, sir, he replied, to ask you for a situation as an engineer. I was told you were having a new engine built, and I want you to give me the place. I'd like to run it for you.

Are you an engineer? asked the gentleman.

No, sir! I can be, he answered, setting his lips firmly together, standing squarely before the gentleman, and looking him full in the face. I don't understand the business well; I know something of it, though. But I can be an engineer and I will be. And I wish you would give me a chance.

His modest but determined manner pleased the merchant. He was having a new engine built for a certain department of his business and could of course have as many experienced operators as he desired. It was no object to him to take up an unexperienced boy and at tempt to train him; no object except to help the boy. Such deeds he was noted for a fact which no doubt had encouraged the boy to make his application.

What are you doing now? he inquired.

Working in a machine-shop, in Brooklyn. I have been fireman, and I often worked the engine. I think I could get along pretty well with one now, if anybody will have a little patience with me.

What wages do you get?

Five dollars a week, sir.

What do you do with your money?

Give it to my mother, sir.

Give it to your mother? lump! lump! what does your mother do with it?

Well, you see, there is mother, sister and me; and mother takes in sewing. But it goes pretty hard you know. They don't give much for sewing, and it's pretty hard work too. And then with the other work she has to do, you know she cannot get along very fast at that rate, so I help her all I can. If I could get an engineer's place I could get more wages, and it would make it easier for mother.

How do you spend your evenings? asked the gentleman.

I attend the free schools at the Cooper Institute, studying mechanics, he replied. I spend all the time I can get studying. I know I can be an engineer.

Do you ever drink liquor?

He looked up with an expression of astonishment on his countenance that such a question should be asked, but answered firmly:—No, sir.

Do you chew, or smoke, or go to the theatre?

Never—can't afford it. Mother needs the money. And if she didn't, I could make a better use of it. I'd like to have some books if I could only spare the money to get them.

Do you go to church or Sunday school?

He held down his head, pretending to brush the dust off the floor with his foot, and replied:—No, sir.

Why not? asked the merchant, a little sharply.

I haven't any clothes fit to wear, he replied. It takes all the money I can get for us to live; and I can't have any clothes. He looked down at his coarse and well worn suit. It didn't use to be so when father was living. I was brought up to go to church and to Sunday School. If I can get engineer I shall go again. I know I can run an engine.

Telling him to call at a certain time, when he expected his engine would be in use, and he would talk further with him, he dismissed him. But he must have that engine, said the merchant to a friend to whom he related the circumstance. He will make a man, that boy will. A boy who is determined to do something; who gives his mother all of his money to lighten her burdens; who does not use tobacco, and does not go to the theatre; who spends his evenings in study after working all day, such a boy would make a man, and deserves to be helped. I have not told him so, but I shall take him and put him under one of my engineers until he is fully capable of taking charge, then let him have the engine. He will get twenty dollars a week instead of five, and be able to lighten a mother's burden, have clothes to wear to church, and buy books to aid in his business.

A noble boy, though hidden among hard conditions and under unattractive garbs, will work out and show his manhood. He may not always find friends to appreciate him; but determined, virtuous, and willing to endure, he will in due time conquer.—[Mother's Journal.]

Female Affection.

Woman is not half so selfish a creature as man. When man is in love, the object of his passion is himself. When woman is enamored of man, she forgets herself, the world and all it contains, and wishes to exist only for the object of her affection. How few men make any violent sacrifice to sentiment. How many women do every man know, who have sacrificed fortune and honors, to pure and disinterested motives! A man mounts a breach; he is glorious and great. He has saved his country. He has acquired fame, preferment, riches. Wherever he appears, respect awaits him, admiration attends him, crowds press to meet him, and theatres receive him with bursts of applause. His glory does not die with him. History preserves his memory from oblivion. That thought cheers his dying hour—and his last words, pronounced with feeble pleasure, are I shall not die.

A woman sends her husband to the war; she lives but in that husband. Her soul goes with him. She trembles for the safety of the land. Every billow that swells, she thinks it to be his tomb; every hail that flies, she imagines is directed against him. A brilliant capital appears to her a dreary desert; her universe was a man, and that man her terror tells her is in danger. Her days are days of sorrow; her nights are sleepless. She sits movable in her mourning, and in all the dignity and composure of grief, like Agrippa in his chair; and when at night she seeks repose, she has fled her couch; the silent tears steal down her cheek and wet her pillow; or if by chance extended nature finds an hour's slumber, her disordered soul sees in that sleep a bleeding lover, or his mangled corpse. Time passes, her grief increases till worn out at length by too exquisite sensibility, she falls a victim to too exquisite sensibility, and sinks with sorrow to the grave! No, cold unfeeling reader! these are not the pictures of my own creation. They are neither changed or embellished, but are faithfully copied from nature.

Too Much Turkey.—Friend "Jerry" is a good natured, civil fellow, who attends to his business and provides well for his family, but has a little failing, in this, that when he goes to his home in the suburbs at night, he is usually more or less under the influence of contraband fluids. One night, a little after dark, he started for home with a nice turkey, safely done up in strong wrapping paper, under his arm. "Jerry" found the road from the station to his pretty cottage, some half mile distant, uncommonly rough that night. He several times stumbled and fell over all sorts of obstructions in the path. Each time he fell, he dropped his turkey, but contrived to pick it up again. On entering his house, he staided himself as well as he was able, and said to his wife, "Here wife, I've got 'leven turkeys for you." "Eleven turkeys, Jerry, what do you mean? There's only one." "There must be 'leven turkeys, wife, for I fell down 'leven times, and every time I found a turkey. There must be 'leven turkeys."

uncommonly rough that night. He several times stumbled and fell over all sorts of obstructions in the path. Each time he fell, he dropped his turkey, but contrived to pick it up again. On entering his house, he staided himself as well as he was able, and said to his wife, "Here wife, I've got 'leven turkeys for you." "Eleven turkeys, Jerry, what do you mean? There's only one." "There must be 'leven turkeys, wife, for I fell down 'leven times, and every time I found a turkey. There must be 'leven turkeys."

In October last the American Government renewed the proposition for arbitration, and a convention was signed, which now awaits the ratification of the Senate.

SHAMEFUL NEGLECT.—Another distressing case of inhuman neglect has occurred in this town. On Friday of last week, a man named Lawrence Moore, who had been working on Western Extension in the employment of Brooks & Robinson, having been taken sick, was intended to be sent by Mr. Robinson to St. Andrews to be taken care of, but the train failed to make the connection and he was brought to St. Stephen. The Commissioners of the Poor were applied to for temporary shelter, but they peremptorily refused, on the ground that the man did not belong here. We are informed, however, that St. Stephen is much his home as any other place, and that he was employed in the building of our Branch Railway. Mr. Crangle and Mr. John Rose then interested themselves to get him taken care of and applied to several persons for lodging, even offering to pay his board, but without avail. The policeman had him taken care of in some way for the night, but next day he hung around the Station House in a dying condition. Mr. John Rose did the best he could and got him the use of a sofa. Finally Mrs. Dennis Cleland took him in and cared for him, and on Tuesday he passed beyond the reach of human sympathy or St. Stephen inhumanity. God help the poor—[St. Croix Courier.]

Canada is not alone in its new Fenian panic. A London correspondent of the New York Herald tells a tale of the extent of that order which would be very startling if any one were to believe it. He says it will some day surprise us all as an earthquake surprises a sleeping city in the dead of the night; and if the difficulty with America ends in a war the first shock of the Fenian earthquake will shake the very foundations of the British empire.

The Viceroy of Egypt had hardly left his entertainers at Paris and London, before stories were afloat of his designs to effect the independence of his country. The European creditors of Turkey were alarmed. If the Viceroy's tribute of more than half a million sterling per year to the Sultan were to stop, what would become of the Turkish loans and the coupons attached thereto? So hints succeeded of the deposition of the Viceroy and the intended movement of Turkish troops to Alexandria. The Sultan's government has borrowed of western Europe in the last seven years no less than sixty millions sterling, so we can well understand what worth would be felt at any proceeding calculated to increase his inability to refund. Meanwhile the Viceroy scandalizes good Mahometans by his innovations. His harem, we read, "may often be seen driving out dressed almost entirely in the European fashion, with the exception of a very thin veil, and with Englishmen in scarlet and gold liveries as drivers and footmen." Divans are to be abolished in all government offices, and small tables, chairs and sofas are to be used instead. Conservative believers are in despair and await the judgement of Allah.

HENRY KERN, who died in New York Friday, began life in a poor house from which he was bound out to a farmer who promised to send him to school but didn't, and ended it the possessor of millions. By driving team and doing odd jobs he laid by a few dollars, which, in the crisis of 1837, he invested in depreciated city and county shillings and when these rose with the return of confidence the foundation of his fortune was laid. He afterwards entered Wall street and became widely known as a bold and successful operator in railroad stocks. At the time of his death he was president of the Chicago and North-western Railroad owning $1,500,000 of its stock and was largely interested in numerous other Western railroads.

THE STANDARD.

SAINT ANDREWS, AUG. 11, 1869.

Death of Master of the Rolls.

The melancholy duty devolves upon us, of recording the death of the Hon. NEVILLE PARKER, which took place here on Friday last. The Judge for the past two or three years had been in ill health, which led him to resign his seat on the Bench, recently. He came here with Mrs. and Miss Parker a few weeks ago, to visit his friends and enjoy the pure air, and appeared to be gaining strength, but his long continued ill health, had so undermined his constitution, that he peacefully passed away on the morning of the 6th inst. At the opening of the Court, Judge FISHER having been apprised of the melancholy tidings, pronounced a eulogy on the character and abilities of the great and good man, and adjourned for the day.

On Monday afternoon, the funeral cortege assembled at the departed Judge's late residence; the Sheriff and Doctor, the Magistrates of the County, the member of Parliament and Collector of this Port, walking two deep, led the mournful procession, followed by the Barristers in their robes; next followed the hearse with the remains of the departed Judge; the Pall bearers, the Hon. Mr. Justice Fisher, Hon. Wm. Todd, County Judge Stevens, J. W. Street, Esq., G. F. Campbell, Esq., and Wm. Curran, Esq., after whom followed the mourners, and a large concourse of gentlemen from Fredericton, St. John, this Town and County. After service in the new Church, the procession re-formed, and proceeded to the new Rung C-metry, where the remains were deposited in the narrow tomb, amid the profound regret of those who came to pay the last tribute of respect to departed worth. The following brief sketch of Judge PARKER is copied from the St. John "Globe."

"The Hon. NEVILLE PARKER, was a brother of the late Chief Justice ROBERT PARKER, to whom he was junior by only one or two years. Their father held the office of Collector of Customs at this Port, and was, we believe, the son of an officer who held high command in the British navy. Mr. PARKER was born in this City, and was educated here and at King's College, Windsor, N. S., where he was a class mate with his brother and the late Rev. Dr. I. W. D. GRAY, under Dr. PORTER. Like them, he was a fine scholar, and always cherished his early attachment to classical literature. He studied law, and held a prominent position at the bar, having been associated in professional partnership with his brother, and after the elevation of the latter to the Bench of the Supreme Court in 1834, with WILLIAM JACK, Esq. In 1838 he was appointed Master of the Rolls, and presided over all the equity causes in the Province, until 1854, when the Court of Chancery was abolished, and he was transferred to the Bench of the Supreme Court. His knowledge of equity and jurisprudence was extensive, and under his administration our Court of Chancery always sustained a deservedly high character. For a long period he was a member of the Council of King's College, Fredericton, and always evinced a deep interest in the welfare of that institution. He recently resigned his seat on the Bench, on account of long continued ill health. He leaves quite a large family. By his death the community has lost one of its best and most honored public officers, and society an educated, courteous and gentleman."

THE ECLIPSE was not observed here so well as in some other parts of the Province.

Some heavy clouds passed between the Sun and the Earth, a few minutes after five o'clock so as to obscure it.

A writer in the "Evening Globe" is discussing at some length the benefits which in his opinion would flow from Annexation to the United States. Unlike some others we read what can be said on Annexation; but it does not follow that we either desire it, or approve of the proposed connection.

The Bazaar.

Held yesterday by the Ladies of All Saints Church, was largely attended. Visitors from St. Stephen, Raspoat and St. George by the Steamers "Belle Brown" and "Wm. Barrows," and by Rail from Woodstock, took advantage of the very fine weather and patronized the Bazaar as they should.

THE BOAT RACES.

Took place at half past 2 o'clock, and drew large crowds on the wharves; but the contest in the first race was between St. Andrews boys, neither the St. Stephen or Campbell boys were present. The new and old Thetis started, and from the commencement to the end, the new Thetis kept the lead; the Sheehan boys and McDonald are hard to beat, either at 3 or 4 mile races.

The second race was an exciting one between four of the crew of H. M. S. Muller, and the St. Andrews winning crew, in the Steamer gigs. The St. Andrews boys won, and afterwards exchanged gigs and won again.

Well done St. Andrews; all the new Thetis crew require, is time to practice, and they will be in a position to sustain the world wide reputation of the celebrated Paris Crew—all of whom are New Brunswickers.

In the evening the Bazaar room was crowded, sales were brisk, and amusement and good feeling was brisk. We only give currency to the opinions expressed by visitors—"that the people of St. Andrews know how to get up a Bazaar or kindred gatherings, successfully."

ORDINATION.—On Friday evening last, the Rev. I. E. Bill, Jr. was ordained a Pastor of the Baptist Church here. A number of clergymen of that denomination met in the Baptist Church for the purpose. The services were solemn and interesting. The Revs. Messrs. I. E. Bill, sen., Carey, McKenzie and Spencer took part in the services, and were assisted by other clergymen. The church was filled by a large number of people. The address to the candidate by the Rev. I. E. Bill was most affecting and solemn, the right hand of fellowship by the Rev. Mr. Spencer, the address to the people by the Rev. Mr. Carey, the sermon by the Rev. Mr. McKenzie and the prayer by the Rev. Mr. Pitblado, and the benediction was pronounced by the pastor Rev. I. E. Bill, Jr. The Rev. gentlemen left next morning in the Steamer for St. John.

There are a number of strangers in town from the United States, Canada, and various parts of this Province; some of them on business and others seeking recreation and pleasure and to recruit their health. They express themselves delighted with the scenery, climate and country drives. They say that a large hotel, and good private Boarding House would be well patronized during the summer months, and that the want of them prevents visitors coming here. The houses we have are well kept, but for tourists who wish to visit the place they are not sufficiently commodious. We know of some families who would come here, if they could obtain private lodgings for a short time.

TOO SENSITIVE.—While passing along Queen Square, St. John, on Sunday with a friend, he appeared considerably annoyed at an American who resides in that vicinity flying the "Star spangled banner" from the roof of his house. We did not see that the "flag" amounted to anything more than to indicate that there was a live yankee living in the house, who was doing business in the city of St. John. The British population do not require any such exhibition of boasting on their private residences in the commercial emporium. It would not be out of place however, were they to erect a high flag staff in the centre of the Square, and purchase a large Union Jack, which might be hoisted on the Sabbath and national days. A look at the time honored fine old historic flag would remind them that they enjoyed the proud title of Britons.

H. M. S. MULLEN, 5 guns, Capt. Kelly, engaged in the protection of the Fisheries, arrived here on Sunday last. Our reporter says that the Steamer, is a pattern of neatness, and the officers, gentlemanly and attentive to visitors—true specimens of British tars. We wish that their stay among us was not so limited. Capt. Kelly would be a favorite on any station.

THE ECLIPSE was not observed here so well as in some other parts of the Province. Some heavy clouds passed between the Sun and the Earth, a few minutes after five o'clock so as to obscure it.

A writer in the "Evening Globe" is discussing at some length the benefits which in his opinion would flow from Annexation to the United States. Unlike some others we read what can be said on Annexation; but it does not follow that we either desire it, or approve of the proposed connection.

The Circuit Court.

The causes are progressing slowly. The first cause Chedy vs. Gaptill has been tried.—Verdict for defendant. The second cause Murphy vs. Ellis et al may go to the Jury to-day. Key vs. Thomson with a special jury, was set for to-day.

The 78th Highlanders it was reported were ordered from Halifax to St. John in consequence of some ridiculous reports with reference to Fenians. The report wants confirmation. We saw a company of this gallant regiment marching to Divine Service last Sabbath in St. John, and a more noble, stalwart and handsome set of men it would be hard to find. They were in full dress, Kilts, plumes and phillabegs, and are men who would give a good account of themselves on the field of battle or elsewhere.

Mr. Bailey, editor and proprietor of the "Boston Herald" is at present travelling in Europe. His letters published in the Herald are interesting sketches of travel. A personal friend of his of the same name, was recently mistaken for him in St. John, by a contemporary.

The Principal of the Yarmouth Seminary J. A. McLellan, Esq., M. A., was presented with an address and a silver service, by the pupils of that Institution on his retiring from his position as their Teacher. He was also presented by some gentlemen of Yarmouth with a pair of 20 Sovereigns, as a mark of their respect and friendship. Mr. McLellan left Yarmouth on Saturday with his family for Toronto.

PETER'S MUSICAL MONTHLY for August is before us, and is without exception, the best musical publication received from the United States. How Mr. Peter can publish so large a selection of original music, worth $50, and 108 pages of choice reading for $5 U. S. currency can only be explained by his immense sales and the excellence of his publications. The August number contains four new songs, words and music; three new pieces, mazurkas, waltz, and march, two quartets, and two sacred pieces with words. We will be happy to show specimens of this musical Magazine.

THE WEEKLY STAR is the title of a neatly printed, well filled and ably conducted paper, published at Montreal, by Marshall & Co., at the low price of 50 cents a year. It contains 24 columns of news, editorial and takes.

It is said that the water is so dense in Salt Lake, that man cannot sink in it. Persons bathing in it when they come out, the water condenses on them, and they have the appearance of being covered with white chalk.

ITEMS.

The Montreal Star notices the death of Mr. J. H. Daly, the popular and efficient Emigration agent in that city, from paralysis, on the 30th July.

PRINCE ARTHUR is expected to arrive at Halifax about the 22nd inst., and will remain there a few days. He will then proceed to Charlottetown and reach St. John via Shediac.

The Bergerer gives a favorable report of the crops in Cumberland County. Hay is heavy, particularly in the upland; and potatoes, oats, barley and buckwheat will reach the average.

Rich silver mines have been discovered at Carlin, Nevada. Some of those interested in them think they will rival the richest of White Pine claims.

The old American Cable Company are about to reduce their tariff to conform to the cheap prices promised by the French Company. Five dollars in gold it is thought will soon be the total cost of a European telegram of ten words.

The August statement of the public debt, of the United States, shows a reduction during the last month of $7,435,744. Over fourteen millions of interest have been paid since the last statement was made, and the reduction of the total debt, principal and interest outstanding, is about ten millions.

MARINE DISASTER.—The schooner DeLonnair, 34th, hence from Boston, lumber laden, went ashore on Gull Lodge, Grand Manan, during the fog of last Thursday week, and became a total wreck. Vessel and cargo were sold by the Captain for the benefit of all concerned.—[Telegraph.]

Tuesday morning last many of the citizens of Whitehall, N. Y. were awakened from their slumbers by a rumbling sound, and in many houses dishes were rattled upon the shelves. The shock seemed to pass in an easterly direction and lasted about two minutes. About this same hour meteors shot across the sky, lighting up the earth for a period of about three minutes as light as day.

MARRIED.

On the 5th inst., by the Rev. W. Q. Kelchum, Mr. James Scoop, to Miss Martha, second daughter of Mr. John Treadwell, both of this Town.

DIED.

On Friday the 6th inst., in the 72nd year of his age, the Honorable NEVILLE PARKER, Master of the Rolls of this Province.

Such testimony
CANNOT BE DISCREDITED.
From the mass of evidence in our possession we select the following:
From L. J. RACINE, Esq., of La Motte, Montreal. "Having experienced the most gratifying results from the use of Dr. Wistar's Balm of Wild Cherry, I am induced to state that the most gratifying which I have in my life. For nine months I was most cruelly afflicted with a severe and debilitating cough, accompanied with acute pain in the side, which did not leave me a moment of ease. I consulted several of the most eminent physicians, and received no relief. I was at length induced to try Dr. Wistar's Balm of Wild Cherry. In three hours after I commenced using it, the pain was greatly relieved, and in less than three days was entirely cured. I am now well, and I have since recommended the Balm to many of my neighbors, who have used it, and in no case have I known it fail of effecting a speedy cure.
You are at liberty to make any use of the above my testimony, if it shall induce anybody to use your Balm. I shall be glad to have your name published as the author of this testimony."
Yours,
Proprietor of the Balm of Wild Cherry.
Messrs. SETH W. FOWLE & SON,
Gentlemen—Several months since a little daughter
of mine, ten years of age, was taken with Whooping Cough in a very aggravated form, and nothing we could do for her seemed in any way to relieve her sufferings.
We at length decided to try a bottle of Dr. Wistar's Balm of Wild Cherry. In three hours after she had commenced using it, she was greatly relieved, and in less than three days was entirely cured. I am now well, and I have since recommended the Balm to many of my neighbors, who have used it, and in no case have I
known it fail of effecting a speedy cure.
You are at liberty to make any use of the above my testimony, if it shall induce anybody to use your Balm. I shall be glad to have your name published as the author of this testimony."
Yours,
Proprietor of the Balm of Wild Cherry.
Messrs. SETH W. FOWLE & SON,
Gentlemen—Several months since a little daughter
of mine, ten years of age, was taken with Whooping Cough in a very aggravated form, and nothing we could do for her seemed in any way to relieve her sufferings.
