of the Queen yesterday promised to be as stately as the initial stages. The representatives of royal families arrived from London at about 1 o'clock, and drove to Windsor Castle. The streets of the old town were still hung with wreaths, sadly faded since Saturday. The stores were closed during the interment. The final rites were concluded at 3:20 p.m., and the Queen's body was laid to rest in Frogmore Mausoleum, near those of the Prince Consort. King Edward, Queen Alexandra, Emperor William and others of royal family attended the services beside the cofficat an early hour this morning. Dismounted Life Guardsmen, in their scarlet cloaks, the white plumes of their helmets glistening in the sun, kept the route clear from the castle slope. Amid the bare boughs of trees below the mist arose from the damp earth, trampled into mud by the uneasy feet of thousands. The air was sharp and cold. From the Albert Me-morial Chapel to the mausoleum, nearnorial Chapel to the mausoleum, nearly a mile from the great gate of the castle, there is a steep slope of 500 yards, at the bottom of which is the lodge gate and a fence. On the castle side of this were hundreds of ticket holders. On the other side, where the Long Walk commences, the public was massed. massed.

THE PROCESSION STARTS. At 3:15 p.m. the procession passed slowly out of King George's Arch in the following order: The Queen's com-pany of Grenadier Guards, with arms reversed; the governor and constable of Windsor Castle, the Duke of Argyle, Highlanders and pipers, royal servants, band of the Grenadier Guards, the Bishop of Winchester and the Dean of Windsor, the lord chamberlain and the lord steward, the gun carriage with the coffin, supported by the late Queen's equerries and house-hold, flanked by the same officers as appeared in Saturday's ceremony in London. Following the coffin walked King Edward the Duke of Connaught, Emperor William, the King of the Belgians, Prince Henry of Prussia and all the other royal personages, including Queen Alexandra and princesses, with the exception of the few who had already left England. Those present were accompanied by their suites.

THE ROUTE. The route was through the Norman Gateway, across the quadrangle, through the George IV. Archway, down the Long Walk, through the lodge gates, and then from the Long Walk to the mausoleum. The route from the George VI. Archway to the of the mausoleum was lined with troops, under the command of Col. Napier Files, of the Fifth Life Guards. The Queen's pipers played from the gates to the mausoleum itself. On arriving there the Queen's company of grenadiers opened out-

AT THE TOMB. The choir met the funeral cortege on the steps. The Highlanders, the pipers and the servants went into the mausoleum and took up the position allotted to them. Then the coffin was carried into the mausoleum, preceded by the choir and the clergy. The members of the royal family took places on each side of the sarcophagus, the royal household standing in the transept. The rest of the cere-mony was private, as the space inside the mausoleum was limited. The them, "Yea, Though I Walk," the hymn, "Sleep Thy Last Sleep," and Tennyson's "The Face of Death Is Turned Towards the Sun of Light," set to music by Sir Walter Parratt.

Another account says: The last honors have been paid to Queen Vic-toria. Her body now rests peacefully near that of her husband in the mausoleum at Frogmore. The final cere-monies were more of a funeral and pathetic character than any of the obsequies which preceded them. Shortly before 3 o'clock, in the presence of the royal mourners, a Grenadier guard of honor lifted the coffin from its temporary resting place in the Albert Memorial Chapel and placed it on a gun carriage. In the meanwhile the Queen's company of Grenadiers, drawn up in the quadrangle, presented arms and wheeled into line, the rifle muzzles pointing to the rear at the reverse, and with slow, measured steps, marched towards the castle gate. At the head of the procession was a band playing Chopin's funeral march. Slowly the cortege passed on the Long ong Walk commences, the public was a sassed.

eyes of millions since the march to the grave began at Osborne. THE ROYAL MOURNERS. Close behind walked the King, Emperor William and the Duke of Connaught, wearing dark military overcoats and plumed cocked hats and looking pale and careworn. In similar dull attire were the Kings of Portugal and Belgium. All heads were bent. blue and gray of the German princes redeemed the royal group of perfect somberness of color. Behind these walked Queen Alexandra and the royal princesses, deeply veiled. The Queen carried an umbrella, but the others had their hands folded. As the last trio of these veiled women passed out from the castle, there came two boys dressed in bright tartan kilts and velvet jackets. Between them was a young girl, her fair, loose hair glittering against the crape of her mourning.

Two of these were children of the Princess of Battenberg, and the other was little Prince Edward. His tiny legs could hardly keep pace even with the slow progress of the mourning band. The rear of the procession was brought up by the suites of the kings and princes, their vari-colored overcoats forming a striking patch of color.

Down the Long Walk, with the band still playing Chopin's dirge, the throng slowly made its way to the mausoleum. The horses attached to the gun carriage were inclined to be restive, but as an extra precaution, a drag of ropes was attached to the wheels and held by sturdy artillerymen. At the lodge gates the strains of the band died away, and the pipers commenced their lament. There, between the broad avenue of stately trees, the crowds were thickest, forming dense black banks. The Bishop of Winchester read the last part of the burial service. After a further singing by the choir, benediction was given, and, amid the privacy of the family tomb, the last majorand then lieutenant-colonel of his farewells were said, the funeral came to an end, the mourners drove to the castle and the crowds dispersed.

Tributes to the Departed. MR. CARNEGIE'S EULOGY.

New York, Feb. 5.-Andrew Carnegie spoke in Carnegie Hall Sunday afternoon on the moral character of Queen Victoria. The meeting was held by the West Side Y. M. C. A., in honor, as the programme said, of a "womanly Queen and a queenly woman." One of the important traits," said Mr. Carnegie, "of Queen Victoria, was her large, liberal and generous toleration of all sects. She was always looking for the great fundamental truths that unite all mankind. Queen Victoria kept her court pure. The chief jewel in her dower was purity. No scandal or loose living was ever tolerated there." Mr. Carnegie went on to say that her un-

When he died she had the following inscription put on a tablet above his grave: "A tribute of loving, above his grave: "A tribute of loving, and everlasting friendship above his grave: "A tribute of loving, grateful and everlasting friendship from his truest, best and most grateful friend, Victoria." "If we all treated our servants in that light," commented Mr. Carnegie, "I think there would be less to say in regard to the domestic problem in this country. Victoria stood pre-eminently for peace toria stood pre-eminently for peace. She had an especial love for her kin on this side of the Atlantic. I rejoice to know that this sentiment is also shared by her successor. CONAN DOYLE'S EULOGY. London, Feb. 5.—The great mother has gone down alone upon the dreary road which leads to the black portal. With reverent silence we have seen her this day pass through us, and never more shall the eyes of her people look upon her. Of all the millions who lined her course, how many would have given their own lives to have her back? But we watched in helpless sorrow while through the black banks of the mourners, down the valley of white faces, the great Queen swept onward out of the symblety into onward, out of the sunlight into the gloom. The little body on the dark gun carriage yonder, frail and fragile, scarcely larger than a child's, is that to which 400,000,000 of us who dwell under the red-crossed flag looked as the center of all things, the very heart of our lives, our respiration, our stan-dard of duty, the dear mother of us

But there came one who summoned her, and amid an awful hush in crowd-London she passed on into the shadow. Living pomp and power were around her in that last journey. The measured tread of her soldiers sounded in front. Kings and the children of kings/followed behind. But to us who stood by their were all chedren who stood by they were all shadows. The one mighty reality was that silent woman who would pass no more; the dead saint whose work was over, and whose rest was come.

To the old it seemed that it was their own lives which had passed upon the dark gun carriage, for an epoch—the only epoch they had ever known—was passing down with the great Queen. The young might learn new ways and new ideals; to them the future belonged. But gray heads bowed and dim eyes wept as their Queen went by, for their era was closed, and the rest was but a lingering and a remembrance.

And England! How stands England? Can we think of any England save the England of the Queen? Has England too, gone down into the shades with the great mother—the England that led the world in commerce; the England that covered the sea with her ships; of the greatest empire that the world has ever seen? That was the England She has gone, and will that also go? It needs no seer to tell us that the days are coming, may even now be at hand, when we shall be tested once more by the iron hammer of destiny, to break us or to weld us firmer still. When that hour comes pray God that the spirit of the great

Mrs. Nation Meets With Her First Defeat

In Her Saloon-Smashing Career-Free-for-All Fight With the Proprietors—Black Eyes and Bloody Noses Abounded.

Topeka, Kan., Feb. 4.-Mrs. Nation this afternoon met the first defeat in her saloon smashing career. Later at the police station she laughingly declared that it was by no means her Waterloo, and she would soon again be at her chosen work. With six women, each armed with new hatchets. she had started out at 3 o'clock to wreck a restaurant in East Sixth street that dispensed liquors. Before she could wield her hatchet she was disarmed and a free-for-all struggle between restaurant people and wreckers was begun. The greatest excitement prevailed for a time, during which numerous eyes were blackened during and many noses bled. Mrs. Nation herself, unable to accomplish anything, orders to her followers to reopen the onslaught, but the hatchet brigade had been stampeded and not another hand was raised against the obnoxious restaurant. Mrs. Nation was led away to the station on a charge of disturbing the peace and was followed by a jeering crowd. THE HATCHET BRIGADE.

She took her determination to raid the place very suddenly. A group of women had gathered in the United Presbyterian Church to plan for a raid tomorrow morning, when Mrs. Nation decided to go out immediately and show how the could "smeath a and show how she could "smash a joint." At a meeting of the "hatchet brigade" in the United Presbyterian Church in the afternoon she announced that a raid would be made on a drug store and joint at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning. The women were greatly alarmed at the publicity Mrs. Nation gave her plans, but Mrs. Nation said she "was not particularly interested in keeping the matter a

"All those women who will promise me to come with their hatchets tomorrow morning to do some work, stand up," said Mrs. Nation. Nine women stood.

PLAN OF CAMPAIGN

"That's g od," exclaimed Mrs. Nation. "Two are enough to smash a joint and three women are a host. I broke up a joint myself all alone in twenty minutes. Now I want to give you a little advice. We are not fooling about this thing. We are in a holy warfare. Don't be scared. If you are afraid to start the work I will start it for you. Above all be quick about it. Smash just as hard as you can. These saloon men won't hurt you. You will see them shake as if they had the ague when you come near them. They are afraid of come near them. They are afraid of the arm of God. You men need not come with hatchets; don't come armed, for there is to be no bloodshed. But if a saloon man tries to stop us women you may have the privilege of rolling him

everybody take courage and come around bright and early tomorrow

ON THE WARPATH,

Then came the conference and the determination to wreck a joint immediately. Surrounded by half a dozen women, all armed with hatchets. Mrs. Nation led the way down Kansas avenue. She was followed by thousands of peo-ple, who tramped behind and before ple, who tramped behind and before her in the deep snow, shouting like a mob. Mrs. Nation had no hatchet. She stopped at a store and bought one. The procession went on until the Unique restaurant, 116 East Sixth street, was reached a few minutes before three o'clock. Then the women, headed by o'clock. Then the women, neaded or.
Mrs. Nation, made a rush for the door. She had warned the proprietors she would raid the place if they did not stop selling liquors, and they were pre-pared for her attack. The hatchet was jerked from her hand by a stout man and the women were forced back.

FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT. A fierce fight followed between the restaurant men and Mrs. Nation's defenders. For a quarter of an hour they struggled in the street, while the mob yelled encouragingly to Mrs. Nation. Many personal encounters took place, but the police seemed without power to stop it. out power to stop it. Finally they arrested Mrs. Nation and took her to jail. The crowd followed her, and the restaurant was left unharmed. Mrs.

Nation was not injured.

Nation was not injured.

During all the fierce struggle that went on in the street, while women and boys were knocked down and trampled on, and the crowd was shouting and yelling, Mrs. Nation never lost her presence of mind. The hatchet was jerked from her hands hatchet was jerked from her hands, but that did not disturb her. She appeared surprised, but smiled and called to the women: "Ladies, you are armed. If you can't get to the place, throw your hatchets through the windows." But the women were too demoralized to obey her. They had not her presence of mind. Mrs. Nation was led away by two big police officers. She was not downcast at her lack of success, and laughed when people spoke jestingly to her.

PRAYER IN THE POLICE STA-TION.

At the police station Mrs. Nation was formally charged with disturbing the peace, and her name was entered on the docket. The police judge was at the station. Mrs. Nation refused to go to his room to see him regarding her offense, but insisted that he come to her, which he did. Mrs. Nation was informed that she would have to report for trial at the police court to-morrow morning, and was then released on her own recognizance. said she would be glad to do so, and then proceeded to hold an impromptu prayer meeting in the police station. She prayed that the work which she had begun in Topeka would be abundantly prospered. While she was praying a drunken man was brought in by a policeman. Mrs. Nation immediately went to the prisoner and informed him that she was his friend at all times, even though the policemen were not. She then delivered a scathing address to the members of the police force present. She said they would permit the joints to run in open violation of the law all the while and would then arrest the men who were made drunk by the liquor Mrs. Nation taunted the police, calling them cowards afraid to arrest anybody but women and

BOUND TO SMASH THE JOINTS. Followed by the crowd, Mrs. Nation went to the Federal building, where she inquired for her mail. She then mounted the steps of the building, and made an address to the crowd. She said she would smash all the joints of the city and she would stay here long may have the privilege of rolling him enough to accomplish this purpose, if it took months. She had not intended

REPORT OF PIONEER FARM.

Work Accomplished at the Experimental Farm in Northern Ontario.

To the Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture:

Agriculture:

Dear Sir,—I have the honor to submit herewith the annual report with details of work accomplished on the Pioneer Farm at Dryden during the year 1900. The rainfall during the year has been variable; up to the 19th of June no rain of any consequence had fallen, and after that date until it froze up in the fall only a very few days elapsed at a time when it did not rain more or less, except in harvest, when we had two the fall only a very few days elapsed at a time when it did not rain more or less, except in harvest, when we had two weeks of very favorable weather. We commenced working the land on the 16th of April, and it froze to stop the plow on the 5th of November. For the first time since the establishment of the farm this year is the only time anything has been damaged by summer frosts. On the last day of June we had a frost that cut down about two and one-half acres of potatoes. The part of the field not frozen yielded over twice as many bushels per acre as the part frozen. Fortunately nothing else was injured except a little garden stuff.

Taken as a whole, the results of the farm yield have been very satisfactory considering the great drought during the major part of the growing season. The grain is of good quality. The hay crop, however, was light; we cut only patches in the fields, gathering only about ten tons altogether. Considerable grain will have to be fed to stock this season, owing to using straw as rough fodder almost exclusively, except to milch cows. The yield of grain, as nearly as can be ing to using straw as rough loader almost exclusively, except to milch cows. The yield of grain, as nearly as can be measured, allowing four and a quarter cubic feet as one bushel, is as follows:

Yield per Yield per Barley ... 10 340
Spring wheat ... 10 125
Peas ... 1 15 Potatoes

All this season's crop of grain, except about 300 bushels of oats and a few bushels of barley and wheat, is being held over for feed and seeding until spring, when the surplus will be sold for seed. Small fruits on the farm have done nicely, but experiments with apples done nicely, but experiments with apples, etc., have not been successful. It is hoped, however, that some hardy varieties will be found which can stand our winter climate. During the year 23 acres were cleared and stumped. It has been plowed twice, and is ready for crop next season. During the intervals beween the season. During the intervals between the plowings the land was worked fine with the disk and smoothing harrow. This clears all the land lying south of the creek—that is, a little distance north of the center line of the farm. After our fall plowing was finished we stumped twelve acres north of the creek, and along the government road on the west side of the farm.

The country as a whole has read the property of the country as a whole has read to the farm. The country as a whole has made progress during the year; while settlers have not come in very rapidly, yet those that have come are of a very desirable class. One new school section has been formed in the township of Wainwright.

Mainwright.

The farmers, as far as I have learned, without exception are well pleased with their success this year. The credit of bringing in the first steam thresher goes to Messrs. Coates Bros. & Coleman, formerly of Cartwright, Manitoba. The farmers that have threshed are pleased with the abundant yield of grain from the amount of straw. Owing to the drought the straw was short this season. During the year in Dryden the Presbyterians have built a nice church. The Methodists erected a church last year. A public hall has also been built. The erection of these churches shows that the people are satisfied in their new homes, and they will add stability to the place. Yours very truly, A. E. Annis, superintendent.

SARA INSURES HER LIFE. Chicago, Feb. 5.—During her recent stay in this city, Madam Sarah Bernhardt took out a life insurance policy for $100,000, naming her son, Maurice Bernhardt as the beneficiary. ### GREAT ADVANTAGES AND SUPERICRITY OF DIAMOND DYES.

For twenty-five years Diamond Dyes have been acknowledged as the standards of excellence for domestic dyeing in every part of the world. Jealous competitors have labored hard to foist their crude preparations on the public, and in their work of deception have imitated as closely as they dared, the style of package used by the manufacturers of Diamond Dyes. The manufacturers of adulterated dyes have deceived many people in the past. However, one trial of the common dyestuffs was enough for those who bought them. The deceptions sent home dyers back to the ever reliable Diamond Dyes, so easy to use and always successful.

The new century came in with Diamond Dyes leading the whole world, and the demand increases every day. While many crude dyes have died with the old century, there is still need to exercise care in buying, as some merchants have still a stock of common dyes which they desire to dispose of. Home dyers, who wish to save money, avoid failure, loss of goods and bitter disappointments, should insist upon getting the warranted Diamond Dyes when they ask for them.

PUNCH CARTOONIST FOR FIFTY YEARS

Sir John Tenniel's Retirement Recalls Memories Extending Over Half a

Tenniel's work for Punch is ended. After fifty years of the closest association with illustrated British humor, at the ripe age of eighty the dean of the world's cartoonists retires, with all the honors. Since he took Leech's place, in 1864, there has been scarcely a week in which Tenniel has not been the draughtsman of the cartoon which epitomized, from John Bull's standpoint, the chief event of the day in the sphere of politics or national history.

To sum up the situation, to hit off in telling outline the current phase of public opinion and feeling was the aim which Tenniel consistently followed through an unprecedented term of pictorial illustration and with a success that will be hard to rival. followed in the tradition set up by Leech, but with a development of his own. Joining the Punch staff in 1850, known as the second cartoon of the paper, the post filled for many years past by Mr. Linley Sambourne, who now succeeds him, and during four-teen years was intimately connected with Leech's work.

Leech had been a schoolfellow of Thackeray at the Charterhouse, had drawn for Hood, was a master in indicating delicate raillery in line, and had no inclination, if he possessed a power which was never used to express political animosity in heavy mallet strokes. Punch, when Tenniel took up the chief pencil perhaps lost something of its full humor, for Leech was inimitable on his own ground, but gained in some artistic elements. later cartoonist was the better in his knowledge of the human form and in his power of dramatic effect. For that reason as a pictorial chronicler Ten-niel may figure more largely in the annals of the time.

SOME OF THE CHIEF CARTOONS.

Gladstone hailed as the Chief of the Midlothian campaigns, or as Mrs. Gummidge, in another and quite different phase of his career; Bismarck as the pilot whom the headstrong young Kaiser is dropping from the ship of state, and many more are impressions ineffaceable with the generation to which they appealed. So with Napoleon III. in the character of Blondin crossing the Niagara rapids of revolution; Disraeli "educating his party in Fagin's "Political School" and "Moise in Egitto" on the occasion of the purchase of the Suez Canal shares, and Mr. Chamberlain as the duckling, with Mr. Gladstone as the hen, anxious "where will he go to Tenniel was a Londoner, like Leech. He taught himself to draw, and with such accuracy that at twenty-five one of his cartoon designs for the historical frescoes in the House of Parliament was accepted. He soon abandoned oil painting, however, and turning to wood engraving became known for the delicacy and finish of his book illustrations. "Aesop's Fables" was one of the first subjects which gained in charm from his representations. Later came his pictures presentations. Later came his pictures to Longfellow's "Tales of a Wayside Inn" (1866.) Most of all to make his pencil familiar in thousands of homes were the illustrations with which he matched Lewis Carroll's whimsicalities in "Alice in Wonderland" (1866) and in "Through the Looking Glass" (1872).

TENNIEL JUBILEE A FAMOUS PUNCH DINNER.

The genesis of Punch's weekly cartoon is now well known from the light that has been shed upon it by Mr. M. H. Spielmann and others. Punch's weekly dinner with its band of wits gathered at the round table, is an institution round which cluster as many literary reminiscences as belong to the Cheshire Cheese on the opposite side of Fleet street. It is here that the idea for the following week's cartoon is supposed to light from the clash of esprit. The subject chosen, it was Sir John Tenniel's custom to devote whole of Friday to give it body and form in his cut. For more than forty years he followed the practice of drawing on the wood block, but at length gave in to "process," and during the last six or seven years has drawn his cartoons in pencil, leaving them to be photographed on the block. At the beginning of last month one special dinner marked Tenniel's completion of his jubilee and his impendhe was engaged to draw what is ing retirement. He has outlived the emporaries Mayhew, Mark Lemon, Leech, Keene. Thackeray and Du Maurier, but the younger generation of the Bernand regime feasted the veteran, who is venerated among them much as a Colonel Newcome or Don Quixote. In one respect at least he resembles the latter. He is a knight, and no honor in the lists of 1893 was received with more general approval.

SIR JOHN TENNIEL'S SUCCESSOR. Mr. Linley Sambourne, who succeeds Sir John Tenniel, was born in 1845. As a boy he attended the City of London School and Chester College, thence passing into the draughtsman's offices of Messrs. Penn, the marine engineers of Greenwich. His first drawing in Punch appeared in 1867. For many years he has produced the second cartoon for the paper, marked by greater elaboration of detail than is the case with Tenniel's work.

The memorial service in Christ Church, Delaware, on Saturday afternoon was very largely attended. Both the Church of England congregations at Burwell and Mount Brydges joined on this occasion with Delaware in a most impressive service, conducted by the rector, Rev. T. H. Brown. The church was richly draped for the occasion. Miss Ella Nagle presided at the organ, and rendered the solemn music with great sympathy and expression. The bell was tolled during the playing of the Dead March at the close of the service, the whole congregation standing out of respect to their late sovereign.

THE PINE LOG CUT IN ONTARIO. Toronto, Feb. 5.-From reports reseived by the department of crown lands it is estimated that the cut of pine logs in Ontario this winter will amount to $750,000,000 feet, board measure. This is one hundred millions more than a year ago, which was slightly less than 650,000,000 feet. At present there are about 17,000 men employed in various lumber camps, housed in 300 shantles, and getting wages averaging $27 per month and board. This wage rate is higher than it ever was before. The active demand for lumber both in Canada and the United States is largely the cause of the increased cut.

GIRL BURNED TO DEATH.

Montreal, Feb. 5.-At the residence of Mr. J. N. Peltier, St. Hubert street, Saturday, the servant, Rosanna Gagnon, lost her life. While Mr. Peltier was dressing he heard cries of "Fire!" coming from the basement, and on rushing down found the girl a mass of flames. She was removed to the Notre Dame Hospital, where she died in a few minutes.

CLOSE CALL FOR GEORGE. Uxbridge, Ont., Feb. 5.-George Mc-Millan, a young man of this town, had a narrow escape from death yesterday. He and a companion named Clarence Stiner started from here, each in charge of three horses, which they were delivering to Claremont station. As they were crossing the railway track on the fifth concession of Uxbridge township, a freight train suddenly appeared in sight. Stiner got across all right, but the horse McMillan was on was killed under him, and he was thrown considerable distance. He escaped, however, with a few bruises. The horse he leading died shortly after being struck.

ST. THOMAS KIDNAPPING CASE. St. Thomas, Ont., Feb. 5. — John R. Donahue and John W. Cook, charged Donahue and John W. Cook, charged with kidnapping Miss Burke from the residence of her brother on the evening of Jan. 5, came up before Judge Hughes yesterday. Miss Burke, the plaintiff, declined to appear as a witness, claiming that she was ill, and requested that the case be adjourned for a week. His honor refused to grant the request and the case was proceeded the request and the case was proc with. The evidence was similar to that already published. The accused were found guilty of common assault and fined $2 50 each.

BEET SUGAR DISCUSSED BY ALDERMEN

Small Sum Voted Conditionally for Experiments.

The Building of North End Fire Hall Advocated, But Not Decided Upon-Citizen Wants $266 Damages for Alleged Unnecessary , Quarantining.

The city council met last night, and disposed of its business with commendable dispatch. Consideration of the beet sugar industry and the possibility of getting a factory built here occupied the most time, and finally resulted in the council passing a motion that $200 be placed at the disposal of the officers of a looked-for company and the manufacturers' committee, to be used in encouraging the growth of beets in this county, provided that the county council do likewise. The suggestion that a new fire hall be built in the north end of the city was not com-pletely frowned down, and the alder-men seemed inclined to look upon the recommendation more favorably than has been done in recent years. Its erection will depend upon the amount of the estimates for more immediately necessary work. Only Ald. Gerry was absent.

NUMBER THREE COMMITTEE. No. 3 committee presented Chief Roe's annual report, which was considered clause by clause. Some necessary repairs to No. 1 fire hall were ordered. The committee laid over the recommendation to buy new horses for the East End Hall. The perennial recommendation to build a hall in the North End was considered. It was not supported by the committee.

Ald. Cooper asked that this recommendation be not shelved at present. He desired that it be laid over until the estimates are presented. If the hall would increase the tax rate too much he would not ask for it, yet if it would not do this, he would ask the council to afford protection to the northern part of the city.

Ald. Parnell supported him. If it were seen that the hall could be built without taxing the citizens too high, it might be well to consider the proposi-

Chief Roe addressed the council briefly. He said that in his opinion the hall was necessary, not only for the protection of that part of the city, but also for the purpose of increasing the fighting strength of the department. At present there was not a sufficient number of men in the South London hall, and the force, as a whole, was not large enough. Ald. Cooper moved in amendment that the recommendation be laid over until the estimates are prepared. Car-

The chief's recommendation that four fire horses be purchased, and that a new man be placed at the East End Hall, was laid over until the estimates are prepared.

No. 2 committee's recommendations that tile sewers be laid down on Wellington street, between King and York streets, and on Dundas street, between Adelaide and Elizabeth, were adopted, and the engineer was instructed to advertise for the year's supplies in the three daily papers. M. C. R. Agent Paul requested that the communication of his company reconnections be considered at once. Therefore, Ald. Winnett moved that the matter be referred to No. 2, with power. It was not deemed the proper thing to do, and the original disposition of the communication was allowed

H. Yeomans and W. Kermath for remission of income taxes were filed, the committee having no power; and the petitions of Jonathan Magge and R. A Dougherty for remission of personal property taxes were also filed. No

BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY. No. 1 committee recommended that a grant of $200 be devoted to the encouragement, by way of prizes and soforth, of the beet sugar industry.

Ald. Cooper moved, seconded by Ald.

Jolly, that it be referred to the manufacturers' committee.

In amendment, Ald. Garratt moved that the clause be struck out.

Mayor Rumball said that the sugar beet business was coming prominently before this province. Factories were being started in various places and the Ontario government was voting money to be applied as bonuses to these factories. This part of the country was yet to be tested as a beet-producing district. He would not vote for the grant unless some guarantee was given that producing district. He would not vote for the grant unless some guarantee was given that a factory would be built here. If it was built, he had no doubt that it would be a great benefit to the city. It would give work to many men, and their money would be spent here. He was anxious to see this. A company should be formed and its members should apply to the government for a share of the bonus money. They should demonstrate to capitalists that this county can grow money. They should demonstrate to capitalists that this county can grow beets. If this were done, the money would be well spent. Ald. Garratt said that the mayor knew very well that he could not spend one cent for anything of this kind

Ald. Greenlees favored the resolution on the grounds that this city should encourage manufacturers to come here; that it was necessary to demonstrate that the county of Middlesex is a good place to grow beets of a suitable kind. If this were done, it would encourage investors to build a factory. If not, they would have nothing to do with the scheme.

Aid. Parnell thought that Ald.

Greenlees had touched the kernel of the whole matter when he said that unless it was shown that the beets could be grown here it would be grown here it would be grown here.

could be grown here, it would be out of the question to expect capitalists to invest in a factory. He was strongly of opinion that the council had not been fostering the incoming of factories enough for the city's good. Mr. Green deserved much credit for the interest he had taken in the matter, and it should be carefully considered.

Ald. Beattie acknowledged that, at first, he had not been kindly disposed towards the project, but since the appearance of the board of trade's in-fluential deputation he had been inclined to favor it. However, he would move in amendment to the amendment that it be deferred until the estimates are being considered, then they could test the bona fides of the gentlemen who are urging that a factory be

Ald. Olmsted-I'll second that. I'd like to see a company capitalized at $500,000 come to this council and ask for $200 to spend in prizes. I'll second the motion on those grounds.

Ald. Cronyn expressed himself as favoring the plan to arouse interest in the subject, and in order that the city's interests might be safely guarded, he desired to insert a clause plac-ing the money at the joint disposal of the projected company and the manufacturers' committee.

Mr. H. C. Green again pressed the claim of necessity for immediate action, if any good was to result. Ald. Stevely thought that it would be wise to pass the clause, as he be-lieved the matter one of much im-portance to the city.

The original motion having been defeated, Ald. Cronyn moved in amendment, inserting the clause as stated, and this carried. Ald. Parnell will be in Toronto next week, and was delegated to attend a meeting of the Beet Sugar Association, and report. INQUIRIES AND MOTIONS. Ald. Stevely asked if arrangements secretary is securing information re the cost and design. Ald. Cooper suggested that No. 2 committee take steps to obtain a supply of stone for municipal purposes.

Ald. Garratt moved, seconded by
Ald. Stevely, that the city solicitor be instructed to prepare a memorial to the government, asking that May 24 be declared a statutory holiday and called "Empire Day," in honor of our late beloved sovereign Victoria. This was made a notice of motion.

Bylaws empowering an extension of the time to return the collector's rolls and regarding renewal of certain notes were finally passed.

Tomorrow's Opening.

The Parliament of the Dominion meets tomorrow. There are many reasons for believing that the session will be a short one. It is the first session of a new Parliament. The Liberal Government have returned from the country with a large majority at their back. There are no great questions of public policy pressing for immediate solution. The country is prosperous and progressing under the policy inaugurated by the present Government, and the people will no doubt be contented to have the same policy continued, with improvements, as time \ and experience proves them to be neces-

This is the position of the Government today. The Opposition is not in a position to offer any policy in Parliament that, if adopted, would be likely to be more acceptable than that advanced by the Administration. The Opposition are leaderless, At the late election their best men were defeated. Sir Charles Tupper retired in disgust at his ill-success, and Hugh John Macdonald, whom the Conservative leaders brought forward as the "savior of the country." in succession to Sir Charles, was so badly trounced by Hon. Clifford Sifton in the Brandon contest that he has retired from public life, and solemnly vows that no inducement can again influence him to re-enter it. They say that whoever is appointed to lead the Opposition in Parliament is not to be regarded as a permanency, but as a man on trial, to be bowled out in course of time, as Sir Mackenzie Bowell was by his colleagues, whom he denounced subsequently as "a nest of traitors." This may be a satisfactory arrangement to the ambitious politicians who know that they would not be chosen leaders by the people, but who hope to profit by establishing a kind of "regency" in the party kingship, that will enable them to cavil in such manner as to promote their own fortunes. But it cannot be said to be a very satisfactory arrangement from the broad view of party advantage. However, these are considerations for the Opposition rank-and-file, not for independent journalists like ourselves, who view the unusual spectacle from the point of view of public chroniclers of passing events. Our immediate interest is as to what effect these conditions will have on the length of the session. We are hopeful that the conditions on both sides will have a tendency to make the session a short and sharp business one.

Though meeting on Wednesday, it will probably be Friday before the big speeches on the address in reply to the speech from the throne are delivered. Tomorrow, Chief Justice Strong, of the Supreme Court, will come down to the House, and announce that until the new members elect their Speaker, the representative of the Crown does not choose to open Parliament. The members will then be sworn. They will elect Mr. Brodeur, the Government nominee, as Speaker, and afterwards his Excellency will come to the Senate, read the speech in both official languages, and Parliament will be open. It will be a somber affair, this year's opening. The brilliant spectacle usually witnessed on the floor of the Senate Chamber will be absent. Mourning for our late Queen will be everywhere evident, from the handsome draperies on the external walls of the House of Parliament to the mourning costumes of the ladies who usually crowd the floor of the Senate Chamber. Indeed, Lady Minto and the wives and daughters of Cabinet Ministers and distinguished visitors to the capital promise this year to forsake the floor altogether, and wrapped in mourning costume, to take places in the galleries-an innovation certainly which will entirely alter the situation.

The addresses at the opening will give scope for suitable addresses from the eloquent Premier in the House of Commons, and from the strongly imperialist leader of the Government in the Senate, Hon. David Mills. The tentative lader of the Opposition, whoever he may be, will also be heard from, but it is not expected that the debate will be prolonged. There is a disposition to get down to business, which the Government has been facilitating by bringing down their annual reports of the departments in advance of the meeting of Parliament, and as the Ministers are not likely to promote any very contentious legislation, we may expect that Hon. Mr. Fielding, the Finance Minister, will reach his annual statement at an early day, and that expeditious progress towards the close of a short session may be made.

Will these hopes be realized? We can but wait and see. Much will depend on the temper of the Opposition, which, fortunately, has been shorn by the electorate of not a few of the talkative machines that clogged the business of Parliament, and wearied the nation, in the sessions that have gone by. The question is, Have these men suc essors? Experience will show.

An Unkind Cut from a Former Ally.

Premier Bond of Newfoundland, while in Montreal, on his way to Great Britain, where he goes to confer with Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, was interviewed by a Gazette representative. Among other things, the follow-MONTREAL AGENCY. - A. McKim & Co ing question was asked, followed by

"Will you visit Ottawa while in Can-

"I do not expect to visit the Can-adian capital during my present so-journ here. There are no questions between the governments of Canada and Newfoundland that require an in-terview or discussion. Confederation as an issue is dead with us now. I am afraid that Canada lost a fine opportunity of securing another prov-ince, but I cannot help thinking that had Sir John Macdonald or Sir John Thompson been premier of Cantda at the time of our negotiations they would have been successful."

"Or Sir Charles Tupper?"
"Yes, or Sir Charles Tupper," the Newfoundland leader quickly added.

This is a somewhat unfriendly drive at Sir Mackenzie Bowell and his colleagues, who last had the subject of the confederation of Newfoundland with the Dominion under negotiations in 1895. Moreover, an attempt was made by Sir John Macdonald to secure the union of Newfoundland with Canada, and it failed, and Sir John Thompson was one of a delegation sent in 1892 by the Conservative Government of that day to attempt to settle the difficulties then pending between Canada and Newfoundland. This attempt also failed. Then there was the last effort in the same direction made, as we have stated, in 1895, when Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Sir Adolphe Caron and Messrs. Foster and Haggart were appointed a committee of the Privy Council to discuss the terms of union with the Newfoundland delegation which visited Ottawa. But, as Mr. Johnson, Dominion statistician, says, 'The proposals did not catch the Newfoundlanders." The fact is that very many of the people of Canada, while ready to indorse any reasonable terms for the admission of Newfoundland into the Dominion, have not been very keen to see Canada saddled with the shore difficulty with France that has long troubled Newfoundland and Great Britain. We shall welcome Newfoundland by-and-bye as a province of this prosperous North American nation and auxiliary kingdom of His Majesty King Edward VII., but it is of the very highest importance that the French claims on 800 miles of the shores of the island should be first settled. But why should the Montreal Conservative organ take delight in making it appear that Sir Mackenzie Bowell and his associates were so many chumps, unable to achieve what others could have accomplished, whereas these same men had also tried and failed? The Opposition leader in the Senate may well exclaim, "Save me from my one-time friends!"

The New World's Tribute.

The spontaneous and chivalrous eulogies of the dead Queen from all parts of the United States must be gratifying to all who desire to see the English-speaking peoples of the world in lasting accord. The fine tribute following, from the New York Tilbune, so well typifies the all but universal voice among our neighbors, that we think it important to reproduce it in this part of the paper. Says the Tribune:

"All is over and done. All is well done, as well as fell within the scope of loving, reverent human power to do. No tribute that could be paid to woman and to Queen has been withheld. The stateliest funeral pageant the world has ever seen, with princes and emperors to bear the pall, and kingdoms and empires to mourn about the bier, has conveyed all that was mortal of Victoria to her last resting place. There has been no false note, but everything has been in the true taste which genuine feeling dictates. And yet we are not sure that the most impressive, or rather the most significant, part of the great memorial was anywhere on the road from Osborne to Frogmore. Rather may it well seem to have been in a far distant land and city, and under an alien

"No thoughtful observer could yesterday have failed to be deeply impressed by the funeral services held in this city and by the mortuary tributes here paid the Queen. They were more noteworthy than those in Washington, for those savored to some inevitable degree of official and diplomatic form, while these were spontaneous and popular in the best sense of the words. These were by no means devised by and attended by people of British allegiance or of British birth. They were as cosmopolitan as the city in which they were held. They were not spectacular or attractive to the mere sensation seeker, but were marked throughout with the solemn humility of woe. They were an unexampled manifestation of that human nature which transcends all geographical lines and political distinctions and makes the whole world kin. "They were something more even than that. In no other land outside of the British Empire would precisely such a manifestation have been possible. It was not only possible, but natural, easy and inevitable here, in the land that was once a part of the British realm, and that later fought against it in deadly strife. In this land, cleft from the empire of Victoria's grandsire, representatives of all the lands of the earth have been gathered and welded and fused into one nation, and brought by the genius of the race so into touch with the dominant element that all are become in a measure Anglo-Saxon in spirit, if when George III. was King, and King over New York as well as over London, and in which for years prayers were regularly offered for that sovereign. It was a church, too, in which George Washington worshiped as first president of the republic which had been formed from King George's revolted colonies. And now it was thronged to the doors with citizens of this republic to pay a last tribute of love and honor to the Queen who was the granddaughter of George III. In that gathering were to be seen rich and poor alike, and young and old. There were those of pure English blood and those of other races, Celtic, Gallic, German, Italian, African, Mongolian-a veritable world's congress gathered in a far land in homage to Victoria's name.

"In that scene, it may well be thought, the world's tribute reached its most significant expression. It was a tribute to the woman and to the sovereign as high as could have been paid in any land. It was a token not to be surpassed elsewhere of the substantial integrity of human nature throughout the world. It was alsoa fact at once of less and of far greater moment than these-a demonstration of the strength of the bonds which, despite all changes and all distances and all lapse of time, unite in sympathy the great branches of the English-speaking race. Victoria did much, inestimably much, in her life and reign to promote the friendship of the two kin nations. In her death she has sealed that work with a seal that will not be broken."

University Extension.

The report of the first decade of university extension work by the American Society shows that 954 courses of lectures were delivered to 180,755 persons. The university extension movement is really the university of the people. It is intended for all classes, and all who feel the thirst for knowledge avail themselves of such opportunities for self improvement. The teaching is carried on at such places where it is convenient for people to get together, and at times that do not interfere with their daily work. At this stage in the progress of the work it has not been possible to be very systematic with the instruction. The teaching is intermittent and often discursive, as it is difficult matter to adapt it to the special needs of such a variety of students. What it lacks here is made up in earnest and painstaking efforts in behalf of the public. It would be well if it were pursued on a more extended scale in Canada than it has been. We have here experienced, a great difficulty in obtaining instructors competent to carry on the work successfully. Were university extension work in greater public demand we might look for the following results: The renewed use of libraries; a more intelligent reading of books; the use of books of the better sort; an school teaching; higher standards for public lectures and the creation of new ideals in art and literature. Rev. Dr. Frank Marling Falls Dead Ex-Mayor Briest of Trenton Gives in Port Chester, N. Y.

Went From New York City to Deliver a Sermon on the Queen.

The following special dispatch to the Toronto Mail and Empire will interest many Advertiser readers in this city and throughout Canada:

"Port Chester, N. Y., Feb. 3.—The Rev. Dr. Marling, of New York city, formerly of Toronto, a retired Presbyterian clergyman, 70 years old, dropped dead this morning or Highland. ped dead this morning on Highland avenue, while on his way to the Presbyterian Church. Dr. Marling came to Port Chester on Saturday evening on the invitation of the Rev. I. E. White, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, to preach this morning on "Some Lessons From the Life of Queen Victoria." He had just started from the manse with Rev. and Mrs. White, when he reeled and fell on the sidewalk. He expired almost immediately in Mr. White's arms. Dr. Mead, who was called, said that he had died of heart disease."

Dr. Marling was born in Stroud, Gloucestershire, England. In 1840 he left England with his parents and went to Toronto, Canada. He was educated at the University of Toronto and ed at the University of Toronto and McGill University. He pursued his the-ological studies at the Congregational College of Canada, in Montreal. Dr. Marling's first charge was in Montreal. His second was in Toronto. He went to New York in 1875, and became pastor of the Fourteenth Street Presbyterian Church. He resigned this place in 1887, and has since held no charge. Dr. Marling leaves a daughter, Mrs. Henry E. Crampton, and three sons. His wife died several years ago.

Dr. Marling's brothers, Arthur and Alexander, were for many years connected with the education department of the Ontario Government. Mr. Marling's mother was a sister of the late Mrs. William Rowland, of this city, and consequently he was a cousin of Mrs. A. T. H. Johnson, also of London, and of Mr. Harry Rowland, of Ingersoll. Mrs. Alfred Rowland, of Lake Geneva, Wis.; Mrs. John Millar, of Toronto; Mrs. Ure, Mrs. Harbridge and Mr. H. R. Clissold, of Chicago, and E. Clissold, of The Advertiser, are also cousins. Rev. Mr. Marling was a preacher of marked ability and strong convictions, while his generous, warm-hearted nature won for him the esteem of all who knew him.

Trenton, Feb. 4.—Ex-Mayor John Briest, of Trenton, has made a statement of what he knows about the kid-napping of Charley Ross. He was brought into the case because it was believed at first that the boy was hidden in or about Trenton and the police wanted Mr. Briest's help in searching for him. Most of his knowledge of the case came from the Philadelphia detectives. Mr. Briest says: "The secret as to who the kidnappers were was confined to the heads of the Philadelphia and New York police departments, and both supposed that they were on a boat plying either on the Delaware or Raritan or the Penn-sylvania Canal, the letters being posted from Trenton, Bristol, New Bruns-wick and Newark tending to confirm that theory.

"The detectives felt so certain that they would have the kidnappers within a few days, and receive the credit and reward, that their identity was kept a close secret among them-selves. Had the matter been made as public as was the Cudahy affair, at Omaha, the criminal abductors would have been arrested within a few days by the police officers of Newark, Jersey City or Bayonne. Their theory that the kidnappers were on a boat was correct, but it was not the kind of a boat they were looking for, as it afterward turned out.

"William Mosher and Joseph Doug-las were the abductors. They had been peddlers and engaged in an oil and lamp store in Philadelphia, with a branch store in this city in charge of other parties. The wagon was one that had been used in the business. They brought Charley from German-town to this city over the lower Delaware bridge, and through Bridge street to Hamilton avenue, and across the state to a yacht they had prepared for the purpose on Raritan Bay. The detectives had the right parties, but they were on the wrong scent for the boat, and the kidnappers kept them so by depositing their letters in the Trenton postoffice and other cities near

"Mosher and Douglas no doubt kept Charley Ross on that boat while they sailed around Newark, Raritan and New York bays and adjacent waters and up the Hudson River on marauding available to maintain themselves. ing expeditions to maintain themselves.

There he was secure from prying eyes and gossipy neighbors.

"Charley Ross died not more than three months after his capture, from proclets be a secured by the secure of the secured by the secure of the secure of neglect, homesickness and disease, and his little body was buried in the waters of Newark Bay. The body of a boy about his size and age, dressed in clothes too large for him, as if they had been purchased at random, was found floating on the bay, and turned over to the authorities of Jersey City. Mr. Ross was called over to see it, but he failed to identify it as that of his

"Whether it was the body of the boy whose fate had touched the heart of millions of mothers and fathers throughout the land I am not prepared to say. But I feel just as certain that that was the end of the unfortunate boy as I am that he was kidnapped. They did not mean to harm him, but only to hold him, as Pat Crowe did the Cudahy child, until they could get the ransom money in their hands, and then he would have been sent home or placed where he could have reached

"William Mosher was a man of ability. He had children of his own whom loved, and for whom he had striven hard to earn honest dollars, but poverty had been the lot of him and his, and his wife said that they had always been poor, and he took that means to secure money to secure some of the luxuries of life that others were enjoying, and which he coveted. He had no idea of doing harm to the boy, but thought that he would be ransomed within a very short time. Douglas was only a weak man in Mosher's hands, and was under his subjection. The mistake of the detectives was in the kind of boat kidnappers were on, and in keeping within themselves the names and descriptions of the abductors. Full and general publicity at the start would have resulted in their capture, and the restoration of the boy to his loving and almost broken-hearted parents.

"On the night of Dec. 14, 1875, Mosher and Douglas broke into the house of Judge Van Brunt, at Bay Ridge, L. I., and were discovered. Mosher was shot and killed. As Douglas lay on the grass plot where he had been carried, wounded unto death, he said: 'We stole Charley Ross.' He was urged to say more, being assured that Mosher was dead, but he would not believe it, and died before he could again open his lips."

THREAT OF KIDNAPPING. St. Louis, Feb. 4.-Al Wagenman, clerk of the criminal court, has received the following letter: "Dear Sir .- I take this means of letting you know if you do not place $5,000 under the board walk on Mc-Pherson avenue, between Euclid and Aubert avenues, by 10 p.m. Sunday, I will, with my confederates, take your son and you will never know what became of him."

The letter is written in lead pencil in a large, bold hand. The kidnappers would probably find some difficulty in carrying off young Wagenman, as he is an athletic youth of 19. The matter has been placed in the hands of detectives.

KILLED AT HOCKEY. Toronto, Feb. 4.—A special from Winnipeg says Fritz Barron, a clerk in the Dominion Bank, was killed in a hockey match with the Merchants' Bank team at the Auditorium Friday night. He was a son of Judge J. A. Barron, of Stratford, Ont., formerly member of parliament for North Victoria. The young man was 25 years old.

THROWN FROM HIS SLEIGH

THROWN FROM HIS SLEIGH. Charlottetown, P.E.I., Feb. 4.—Joseph Simon, a Hebrew junk peddler, was instantly killed at Summerside, while driving his sleigh along the main road. He was thrown out, and the sleigh, which was heavily loaded, passed over his body, killing him instantly. ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING.

Essex, Ont., Feb. 4.—A sad shooting accident occurred at Maidstone, near here, on Saturday. Henry Ellis, son of John Ellis, was out hunting, when he slipped off a log, the gun discharging, blowing off two fingers of the right hand, also badly wounding his face about the mouth. He is in a very critical condition; recovery doubtful.

SKEPTICISM.—This is unhappily an age of skepticism, but there is one point upon which persons acquainted with the subject agree, namely, that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is a medicine which can be relied upon to cure a cough, remove pain, heal sores of various kinds, and benefit any inflamed portion of the body to which it is applied.

AT THE CAPITAL.

A Mail and Empire Story Contradicted.

The Opening of Parliament on Wednesday Will Be Very Quiet.

[Special to Advertiser per C. P. R.] Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 4.—There is not a word of truth in the story in today's Mail and Empire about F. R. Latchford taking a position on the bench. Mr. Latchford, who is here, gave it a straight contradiction, stating that he intended remaining in provinical politics, where, for the present, he thought he could serve his party best.

[G. N. W. dispatch.]

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 4.-Senators and members of parliament are arriving in the city from all points to be present at the opening of parliament on Wednesday. All that will be done on Wednesday. nesday is to elect a speaker. The formal ceremonies, peculiar to the opening, take place on Tuesday, but owing to the national mourning the op-ening this year will be very quiet. There will be caucus of the Conservatives tomorrow night to select

THE "SCRAP IRON" ACT

May Be Repealed and the Plants of Companies Assessed at Their Value.

Ottawa, Feb. 4.-Private information received here states that the provincial government, acting on the unanimous demand of municipal corporations, has prepared a bill for presentation to the legislature at its coming session, which will abolish the "scrap iron assessment" of the plants of companies holding public franchises and provide for the taxation of the same as going concerns. The announcement means a great deal for Ottawa, for it will affect the Ottawa Electric Company, the Gas Company, the Bell Telephone and the telegraph companies, and result in a material increase in the city's revenues from assessments. Under the present system the plants of such companies on city streets are not valued on the basis of their worth to the companies using them, but the assessment is rather confined to the value of such plants as "scrap iron." The city is thus done out of a very large amount of revenue, and it was the intention of the council to send a deputation to Toronto to urge the repeal of the obnoxious system re-

BASEBALL.

LONDON BASEBALL CLUB. A meeting of baseball enthusiasts was held in Dr. Hutchison's dental parlor on Friday night, and it was decided to organize a London baseball club. Among those present were Bert Sheere, John Gunn, N. Wanless, Wm. Tierney, Sam Lee, Art Sippi, James Delaney, Dr. Hutchison, "Mooney" Gibson, Robert Gibson, W. Earley, James Bell, Guy McFadden, "Torch" Carroll and F.Ashplant. The club will have a purely local team. An effort will be made to form a league with Galt, Guelph, Woodstock, Hamilton, Waterloo and Berlin, and the chances look good for at least a six-club league. Bert Sheere, the energetic secretary of last year's London team, was appointed president, secretary and treasurer, and Art Sippi manager. James Bell and Dr. Hutchiwere appointed auditors. Games will be played at Tecumseh Park. Another meeting will be called shortly to further arrangements.

FISTIC. JEFFRIES AND RUHLIN STILL TRAINING.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 4.-James Jeffries and Gus Ruhlin and "Denver Ed" Martin, and Frank Childs today continued their training for the two championship contests planned for this city Feb. 15. They will not cease their preparations until the decision by the court on the state attorney's application for an injunction. Even if Judge Hollister should refuse to grant an injunction, the Saengerfest Athletic Association still will be confronted with Governor Nash's declaration that the whole power of the state will be use to prevent the fight. The sheriff and the prosecutor today replied to governor's communications by assuring him that they would do their duty as outlined in his communications to them, as the governor promised to assist them with the full power of the state, the outlook for the fight in Cincinnati generally is regarded as unpromising.

SAN JOSE SCALE SPREADING. Toronto, Feb. 4.-The San Jose scale is still spreading in certain frontier counties and districts, and a deputation representing the fruit growers of Ontario, waited on the minister of agriculture, and asked that the precautions to prevent the spread of the pest be continued. Among the new measures proposed is that "every grower in suspected districts be required to inspect his own trees during the months of November and December in each year, and to report to the in-spector not later than the 1st day of January following, on suitable blank forms to be furnished, that the work has been carefully performed, together with a statement of the condition of the orchard at the time of inspection."

Toronto, Feb. 5 .- B. B. Osler, the well-known criminal lawyer, of this city, died suddenly this morning at Atlantic City, N. J., where he had been staying for some time.

Mr. Osler was the second son of the late Rev. F. L. Osler, M.A. He was born in Simcoe, Ont., June 19, 1839, and was educated at Barrie grammar school, and took the degree of LL.B. at Toronto University in 1862. He studied his profession under the late Wm. Notman, Q. C., Dundas, and afterwards with the Hon. James Patten, Q.C., and being called to the bar in 1862, practiced his profession in Dundas until 1878, when he moved to Hamilton. Appointed crown attorney for Wentworth in 1874, he held that office up to December, 1880, when he retired therefrom, and in 1882 moved to Toronto. In 1876 he was created a Q. C. by the Ontario government, and had the same honor conferred upon him by the Marquis of Lorne, in 1880. He was elected a bencher of the Law Society in 1885, and re-elected on every succeeding year, and became an honorary lecturer on criminal jurisprudence in Toronto University in 1888. He has been also president of the York County Law Association. Mr. Osler had been styled by the press of the Dominion as the most eminent criminal lawyer in practice in Canada, and there will be few, we fancy, to dispute this title. He had had great experience in both criminal and civil courts, and his eloquence in address and ability in cross-examining are now matters of history.

A remarkable tribute to his talent was that paid him recently by Prof. Goldwin Smith, who, at the recent Ontario bar dinner, declared that Mr. Osler's address to the jury in the Birchall murder case and the Ponton case were worthy of rank with the efforts of the classic orators. He was one of the prosecuting counsel in the state trials at Regina arising out of the Riel rebellion in 1885; he was prosecuting counsel in the proceedings against McGreevy & Connolly, in obedience to the order of the House of Commons in 1891; and more recent-ly he was prosecuting counsel in the Hyams, the Hendershot, and the Sternaman murder cases. He was also prosecuting counsel in the celebrat-ed Birchall murder trial in 1890.

Most of his work, however, was in civil courts. He was an associate of the Canadian Society of C. E., and was one of the counsel of the Grand Trunk Railway. He was one of the counsel for the Dominion Government, in the claims brought by the C. P. R. for the insufficient construction of the road through British Columbia, a case which involved many millions and which took about 250 days' sitting of board to try, and in which the government substantially succeeded. In religion, he was a member of the Church of England, and in politics an Inde-pendent, though he ran as a Liberal for Welland in 1882.

Outside of his profession he was a director of the Ontario Trusts Corpora-tions, and was president of the Hamilton and Dundas Railway Company. He was married in 1863 to a daughter of the late Capt. Henry Smith, and some two years after her demise he was again married, to Elizabeth Mary, eldest daughter of A. G. Ramsay, of Hamilton

Mr. Osler was well known in this city, especially among the legal fraternity, as he was at various times engaged in the conduct of important cases here.

To representatives of The Advertiser, Messrs. G. C. Gibbons, K.C.; T. H. Purdom, K.C.; James Magee, county, crown attorney, and others, gave expression to the great loss sustained by the profession.

East Aurora. N. Y., Feb. 4.—Severe winter weather now prevails in this vicinity. A couple of feet of snow covers the ground and the sleighing is better than at any other time this winter. The ice harvest season is also on. Hunters are in their glory and each morning sees a number go out after game, which is said to be rather scarce. New York, Feb. 4.—Five inches of snow had fallen in New York during the twenty-four hours ending at 10 o'clock tonight. The street cleaning department is working hard to clear the streets of snow. The snowfall was heavier up the state than in the city. Local trains arrived at the Grand Central depot on time, while the expresses

WE MAY SOON TALK TO THE MAN IN THE MOON.

It is possible that, writes Garret P. Serviss in the January number of "Suscess," within fifty years, the visual power of telescopes will have been increased to tenfold its present maximum, to employ a much-used form of illustration. Such an increase in magnification would bring the moon within an apparent distance of ten miles, and Mars, when he is nearest, within less than two thousand miles. But, even without such power, there is little doubt that similar advances in astronomical investigation will solve the problem of the existence or non-existence, within the sun's domain, of other planets than the earth, capable of supporting intelligent life. And, if that problem, in a single instance, receives a distinctly affirmative solution, sober science will most certainly attack, in earnest, the still more difficult problem of establishing the actual existence of such life and the possibility of effecting some communication with its repr

The Queen's Veil.

RESERVED RES When there came a rap on her door a few moments after, she, supposing it to be her landlady, who had come to tell her of the visitor waiting below, bade her come in.

The door opened and Lady Holborn

She went straight to Tina's side, and kneit upon an ottoman there.

"I have come to ask you to forgive me," she began, hurriedly, and with streaming eyes. "Ever since that dreadful day, until my son came to me the night before last, and told me how you had been saved, I have believed you dead and myseff to be a murderess. I have not known one moment of peace had been saved. I have believed you dead and myself to be a murderess. I have not known one moment of peace—your white face has haunted me like an avenging ghost, and I have suffered horribly—not because I was sorry for lay former treatment of you, or would not have been glad to have you taken out of his way, if it could have been accomplished in any other way, but because I must feel the brand of Cain upon my brow as long as I should live. When Ernest came and told me how miraculously you had been saved I thought the sadden reaction would kill me, for it lifted a fearful burden of guilt from my heart. When he further said that you had told him that you fell from that piace I was dumb with astonishment; I was confounded and shamed by your goodness and forbearance, for I did not believe that such a spirit as you have displayed existed in the world. I have hated you," confessed this thoroughly humbled woman; "I have wished that anything, no matter how bad, might happen to you rather than that you oughly humbled woman; "I have wished that anything, no matter how bad, might happen to you rather than that you should become my son's wife; but I did not mean to do that dreadful deed. I had no thought that we stood so near the edge, or that my fierce anger would result so fataily. I did not want you to die. If you could have been removed in any other way from my path and his I should have been glad. I confess this to you because you have humbled. You have not told my boy how nearly his mother came to being the murderess of the only woman whom he could ever love. You have left me what I prize most in the world, his affection and respect, and I have come to thank you, if my thanks are worthy of your acceptance, and to beg your forgiveness for all the wrong that I have done you."

It was a fitting day for this open confession this conf that anything, no matter how bad, might It was a fitting day for this open confession—this quiet, glorious Sabbath morn. It was a fitting season for these two to make their peace with one another, on the eve of the beautiful girl's marriage with the proud matron's son.

Thus the bond was sealed, and Lady Holborn was ever afterward thankful from the depth of her heart that she had made her peace with Tina on the day before her marriage.

CHAPTER XXXVIII. Monday dawned, a fair, perfect day, and it was our beautiful Tina's wedding and it was our beautiful Tina's wedding day.

Old Barbara hovered around her all the morning, as if inspired with a fear that she would never be the same to her again, while her every word and act told how deeply and tenderly she had grown to love the gentle girl whose life during the last year had mingled so strangely with hers.

Tina was very lovely in her simple though elegant suit of pearl-gray silk, and a stylish hat of the same color, ornamented with graceful, nodding plumes.

She wore no ornaments save the betrothal ring which Lord Holborn had trothal ring which Lord Holborn had placed upon her finger a day or two previous, and a few delicate ferns mingled with lilles of the valley—the princess' favorite flower—at her throat. But the perfectly chiseled face was as peaceful and clear as the cloudless sky, and in her dark eyes there was a look of trust and happiness such as only a joy-ful bride could wear.

"God bless every hour of your future life, dear child," Madame Beza said, earnestiy, as she heard a carriage drive to the door, and knew that the time had arrived for Lord Holborn to claim her as his own

"Whether he sends me joy or sorrow as my future portion, there is one thing certain—that I shall never cease to love and be grateful to you," Tina answered, heartily, as she threw her arms around the little old woman and embraced her

Tina tried to make her accept a nice black silk dress for the occasion, but she had said she would prefer to wear her own clothes, unless they would be ashamed of her. In that case she would not go with them to the wedding; she could go alone, slip into a side seat, and see them married; and no one would imagine that she belonged to them, as, of course, she really had no right to say that she did, only she had grown into that way of thinking of late.

So Tina said no mere about the black silk, as she had no wish to hurt her feelings; but she would not hear a word about her going by herself to the wedding. black silk dress for the occasion, but

But a strange incident occurred to disarrange all these plans.

When Lady Hollorn was seated in her carriage, after the party had left the church, a boy came to her and handed her a note.

Wondering somewhat, she opened it, and read:

"Madam,—I am told that your son is to be married today at 12, and I am about to make a request which, under about to make a request which, under any other circumstances, might appear very strange; but, knowing the past as you do, you will not, perhaps, wonder that I should do so. After the ceremony has been performed, and before the young couple leave, will you ask them to drive to my residence, that I may make their acquaintance? This I ask them to grant for the sake of the relation that I once hoped to bear to your family. I include all the wedding party in this invitation.

The affidavit enters into another case considered by the Ontario hockey executive today. Belleville has lodged a protest against the Peterboro juniors, charging that Kavanagh, of the Peterboros, is over the 20 year limit for juniors. Kavanagh has made an affidavit as to his age, and a sub-committee was appointed today by the executive, which will examine the register of births to determine the matter.

The application of Little, of the London team, who applied for reinstatement as an amateur, saying he knew nothing of the Lindsay fraud, was laid over.

WATER COMMISSIONERS.

The water commissioners held a regular meeting yesterday afternoon, those present being Chairman Jones, Commissioner Little, Engineer Moore and Secretary Elwood. Engineer Moore presented his report on the sup-plying of water to the Canadian Veneer Company, but its consideration was deferred until a later meeting, to allow of the mayor being present. A requisition for needed supplies was presented, and a number of accounts were passed. The pumping engineer's report for the fortnight ending Feb. 3 showed the total amount of water pumped to have been 38,152,702 gallons.

A POPULAR SPORTSMAN. Toronto Globe: Fred Chittick, of Ottawa, for a dozen years has been one of the most widely known of Canadian amateur sportsmen. In his connection with athletics at Ottawa he has perhaps come into most prominence, though at London, Ont., years before he went to Ottawa, Fred Chittick was both a popular and a clever athlete. In his day he is reputed to have accomplished one hundred yards over turf in better than eleven sec-onds, while he was one of the early promoters and best players of ama-teur baseball in Ottawa. At different times he helped the players of the Ottawa Lacrosse Club before the amalgamation of 1892, the Ottawa Football Club Association and Rugby, Ottawa Hockey Club and the track team of the Ottawa Amateur Athletic Club. In Ottawa, this week, as signalizing his approaching marriage, many of the local athletic organizations appropriately remembered his past services to

A New, Effectual and Convenient Cure

For Catarrh. Of catarrh remedies, there is no end. but of catarrh cures, there has always been a great scarcity. There are many remedies to relieve, but very few that really cure.

The old practice of snuffing salt water through the nose would often re-lieve, and the washes, douches, powders and enhalers in common use are very little, if any, better than the old fashioned salt water douche.

The use of inhalers and the application of salves, washes and powders to the nose and throat to cure catarrh is no more reasonable than to rub the back to cure kidney disease. Catarrh is just as much a blood disease as kidney trouble or rheumatism and it can not be cured by local treatment any more than they can be.

To cure catarrh, whether in the head, throat or stomach, an internal antiseptic treatment is necessary to drive the catarrhal poison out of the blood and system, and the new catarrh cure is designed on this plan and the remarkable success of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets is because being used internally, it drives out catarrhal infection through action upon the stomach, liver and bowels.

Wm. Zimmerman, of St. Joseph, re-lates an experience with catarrh which is of value to millions of catarrh sufferers everywhere. He says: "I neg-lected a slight nasal catarrh until it gradually extended to my throat and bronchial tubes and finally even my stomach and liver because affected, but as I was able to keep up and do a day's work I let it run along until my hearing oegan to fail me and then I realized that I must get rid of catarrh or lose my position, as I was clerk and my hearing was absolutely necessary.

"Some of my friends recommended an inhaler, another a catarrh slave, but they were no good in my case, nor was anything else until I heard of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and bought a package of the draw store. They herefitted age at my drug store. They benefitted me from the start and in less than four months I was completely cured of catarrh although I had suffered nearly all my life from it.

"They are pleasant to take and so much more convenient to use than other catarrh remedies that I feel I can not say enough in favor of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets."

A little book on cause and cure of catarrh will be mailed free by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., and the tablets are sold by all drug-
