The connoisseur of today demands perfumes in a highly concentrated form, not to secure loud or pungent effect, but to so combine delicacy with strength that only a few drops need be used. This requirement is admirably met in the exquisite and flower-like odors we have just placed on sale.

These fragrant extracts will be found finer in quality than any yet offered, and we recommend them in the most unqualified terms.

BALKS AT KAISER'S DEMANDS. That Prince Chun still remains at Basle, and has not made up his mind when he will leave for Berlin to make ameads for the murder of Baron von Ketteler is due to the fact that Germany and the prince himself have only now awakened to a full consciousness of the serious expiatory nature of his errand. Germany, acting apart from, but in the interests of the offended powers, made alterations in the ceremony of reception, while Prince Chun, misled by the honors he receivthat his reception by the kaiser would at least not be humiliating and might tell of terrible experiences and narrow possibly be friendly. The report is confirmed that the obstacle to Prince Chun's coming to Berin is Emperor William's insistence that the humble, expiatory character of the prince's mission te emphasized. members of the mission consider that the abjectness asked for by the emperor does not fit their dignity.

JOHN BULL LAUGHS. Germany's difficulty with Prince Chun is regarded in England with illconcealed amusement. There has been throughout antagonism to Germany's overbearing demeanor in China, and to her rudeness to her allies. This was confirmed by the deprecatory speeches made by Count Von Waldersee since his return from Pekin. The hope is expressed in London that Prince Chun will remain master of the situation. Nobody can compel him to proceed from Basle to Potsdam. In any case, It is seen that the ceremony of prostration performed in Europe would be devoid of serious significance. THE BRITISH PREMIER.

I feel certain the party would not allow him to retire, unless age made far greater inroads on his health than it has at present. I think you will see Lord Salisbury premier so long as his health lasts and a Unionist government is in power."

SITUATION IS EXPLAINED.

Major Gorgas, chief sanitary officer, made the following statement: "Some confusion has arisen regarding the precise position of the sanitary department in connection with the yellow fever experiments. In March of this year the sanitary department established an inoculation station at Las Animas for the purpose of inoculating non-immunes—that is to say, giving them yellow fever in order to make them immune. This was not an experimental station and is not such, the sole object being to effect immunization.

This is especially shown in an exhibit of Nernst and incandescent lighting side-by-side, and so arranged as to compare simultaneously the color effects on the same materials. The only electric lamp approaching a satisfactory color value in the early stages of electric illumination was the direct current arc lamp. BALKS AT KAISER'S DEMANDS. That Prince Chun still remains at Basle, and has not made up his mind when he will leave for Berlin to make amends for the murder of Baron von Ketteler is due to the fact that Germany and the prince himself have only now awakened to a full consciousness of the serious expiatory nature of his errand. Germany, acting apart from, but in the interests of the offended powers, made alterations in the ceremony of reception, while Prince Chun, misled by the honors he received before reaching Europe, believed that his reception by the kaiser would at least not be humiliating and might possibly be friendly. The situation is not acute, but no date has been fixed for the resumption of the journey of the Chinese messenger.

The report is confirmed that the obstacle to Prince Chun's coming to Berin is Emperor William's insistence that the humble, expiatory character of the prince's mission te emphasized. The members of the mission consider that the abjectness asked for by the emperor does not fit their dignity. JOHN BULL LAUGHS.

Germany's difficulty with Prince Chun is regarded in England with illconcealed amusement. There has been throughout antagonism to Germany's overbearing demeanor in China, and to her rudeness to her allies. This was confirmed by the deprecatory speeches made by Count Von Waldersee since his return from Pekin. The hope is exreturn from Pekin. The hope is ex-pressed in London that Prince Chun will remain master of the situation. Nobody can compel him to proceed from Basle to Potsdam. In any case, It is seen that the ceremony of pros-tration performed in Europe would be devoid of serious significance.

Dunfermline, Scotland, Aug. 31 .-Three miners were rescued yester-day from the mine which caved in last Monday. Two of the three were men who tried to rescue the others yesterday, and were cut off during their efforts to save their comrades. The third had been entombed for 66 hours. There are eight others still in the mine, and their case is hopeless. The survivors tell of terrible experiences and narrow escapes. They were in deep water and moss after the subsidence. One saved himself by clinging to a bar in the roof of the working. He tried to extricate another who was up to his neck in water, but failed. The poor fellow was choked by the rubbish washed down into the channel.

MILEAGE OF MAN. THE QUESTION BIRD AND ENGINE. OF MARRIAGE!

Statistics Showing Relative Distances Traveled in a Year.

An engine on the Great Northern Railway of England has completed 4,-000,000 miles of running in 31 years probably the greatest distance ever traveled by a man-made machine.

American engines run only half as far before being replaced by better ones. An "ocean greyhound" covers 72,000 miles a year between New York and Liverpool. It would take her 55 years to run 4,000,000 miles, even if she never paused for repairs.

A horse drawing light loads can avofficials sent by the war department erage twenty miles a day for twenty given him to solve when he reaches a to investigate the origin and propagation of yellow fever, although it did supply the Carroll commission with mosquitoes.

This gives a life-record of marriageable age.

The first point to present in this question of marriage is the principle doubled. An exceptional man can walk of it; that it is unquestionably for the 10,000 miles a year for 60 years—a total good of almost every young man that of but 600,000-though it would be hard he shall marry to find one who has done this.

Ruminant animals such as the deer cover in a short lifetime smaller distances. They must remain quiet while grazing, and seldom use extreme speed to lead a single life; in fact, there are except to escape an enemy. Tigers and lions have all the cat's laziness and only prowl for food or companionship Though capable of a swift, short rush, they have no sustained speed. African naturalists have seen antelopes feeding in plain sight of lions, which can only capture them by a dash from ambush. Wolves, the most energetic travelers among the lower animals, are comparatively short lived. Probably no wolf ever traveled so far in a lifetime as a veteran letter-carrier. On the earth man's "mileage" is the greatest. But when the air is considered the triumph of man's muscles and machinery fades. The swallow commands a speed greater than the Empire State express. It is only when the wind rises to 60 miles an hour that even clumsy birds are blown against lighthouse windows. The famous flyers, like the condor, the Australian crane, the American eagle and the larger speed, rising according to some observers to a hundred miles an hour, but live far into their second century. These great birds fly for their food;

they seem to fly for pure pleasure. In a hundred years of daily swooping and soaring, rushing almost in an instant from a height of five miles to sea level the condor may easily fly, and probably does fly, forty million miles-ten times as far as the crawling locomotive is hard to conceive when through her air, and at rates of speed hitherto undreamed of, to rival it.

The Asthmatic's Agony,

Wakeful night, suffocating sensations, difficult breathing. Who can describe it? This disease, partly nervous, partly congestive, partly the result of microbic irritation, is no longer treated by nauseous stomach destroying drugs, but by Catarrhozone, that destroys the microbe, relieves congestion, and relaxes the nervous irritability that renders breathing so difficult. The medication is carried by the air you breathe to the very seat of the disease, and removes at once the cause. The great discovery is known at Catarrhozone. Its influence upon Asthma is simply marvelous. Catarrhozone prevents as well as cures, and is the only remedy guaranteed to cure. Your money back if it fails. Two sizes, at all dealers, 250 and $1. #### THE DOMESTICS'

The Soldier and the Policeman Are the Favorite Lovers of the English Servant Girl.

Every English girl of the lower classes and of the lower middle classes, who is not hunchbacked, a dwarf or hopelessly disfigured, has her And when an English servant girl is about to accept an engagement as cook or maid before she ettles the question of wages she asks her future mistress how many times a week she will be able to go out with her young man.

She sweethearts on Sundays, and, besides one or two evenings a week. The permission is invariably accorded, unless the young man happens to a grenadier or some other red-coat in His Majesty's service, of whom the English lady is just as suspicious as the Parisienne is of her servant's "cousin."

The red-coat is seldom allowed to pay a visit indoors. As I say in "John Bull and His Island." the love of the English for their soldiers is very curious. John Bull gives them ovations, showers medals and decorations upon their heads when they return home from some little expedition; but if he goes to a public place of amusement meets a soldier he exclaims: 'Let's go home, this place is not respectable; soldiers are admitted.

In the singular, the soldier loses all his prestige. So he, who admires hair in the mass on the head of a lovely woman would make a very wry face if he happened upon one in his soup, even though it had strayed from the tresses of his beloved one

The soldier is not admitted to the kitchen. He is thought to be less dangerous outdoors, this irresistible English warrior, with his hair parted in the middle and well plastered with pomade, with his light trousers and his odiferious penny cigar.

Of all the sweethearts of the domestic servant, the most favorite one is. perhaps, the policeman, who appears to me to enjoy his good fortune the most quietly and securely.

This peaceful official has the most admirable facilities for making the best available choice. As he stalks leisurely up and down the street on duty, he is not long in discovering the prettiest cook or maid on his beat; and one of the surest protections against burglars in London is to have a pretty housemaid.

The policersan will take all the safety of your house to heart. He will even, in his zeal, go so far as to come and see, between 10 and 11 o'clock at nights, whether the door is well fas-

If you should be keeping late hours any evening, and he should perceive a glimmer of light between the Venetian blinds, this guardian of the honest and peaceful citizen will not hesitate to knock discreetly at your door. If the servants have gone to bed and you should answer the door yourself, he will apologize; he "was afraid some one might have got in."

You thank him warmly, give him a tip, congratulating yourself that the payment of your income tax, which is partly devoted to remunerating the policeman for his trouble, insured you the full and undisturbed enjoyment of your goods and chattels, and does away with the necessity for your sleeping with your eye open. As you watch him retire with a smile

ascribing his radiant look to the satisfaction born of a high sense of duty fulfilled; and as a government official is always glad to have an opportunity of showing the zeal with which he accomplishes his duty, you doubt not that the worthy fellow was delighted you opened the door to himself, for this opportunity he would have lost if your pretty housemaid had gone to the door instead, and, most decidedly, it was not in the hope of seeing her that he paid you this little nocturnal

> The policeman, however, is prosaic. and it is the affections of the cook he generally covets. A little cup of beef tea, a little nip of something as he passes, refreshes him and makes him anticipate all the comforts of home.

Plattsville, Ont., Aug 26 (Special).— The Echo of this place has printed an account of Mrs. J. Barrett's case. Mrs. Barrett was cured of a general nervous weakness by Dodd's Kidney Pills. The following is an extract from The Echo's story, in which Mrs. Barrett's statement is published in her own words:

"I was a physical wreck. I could not sleep, had no strength, suffered backache, headache and neuralgia and was nervous and miserable. I was treated by doctors, but their medicines afforded me no relief. I chanced to read of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I tried I have taken in all twelve boxes, and feeling better from first have steadily improved until now I have never enjoyed better health."

WHEN MAJOR TAYLOR RODE BACKWARDS

How the Tricky Colored Rider Outwitted the Frenchman.

In connection with his second race with Jacquelin, Major Taylor tells a story of uncommon humor, says the New York Sun. Taylor, years before he became a sprint racer, was a "rubber" of racing men, a trick rider, and served a term in sprint racer, was a "rubber" of racing men, a trick rider, and served a tefm in a bicycle factory at testing wheels by riding down a corrugated incline and taking a sheer drop of several feet to the floor. He can ride a machine on the rear wheel only, have it stand still while he crawls through the frame, and he can ride backward with much expertness. In his second race with the French champion Taylor received a hard "push-off" by his man at the tape, while Jacquelin had an easy push, that barely got him moving. Taylor was a dozen yards ahead in a minute, although he backpedaled. He realized that if he took the lead and made the pace he would be beaten. His only chance was to do as the French do, and ride a loafing race. As Taylor slowed up, Jacquelin slowed and came practically to a standstill. Taylor was still several yards ahead. The Afro-American champion then put his trick-riding ability into play, and deliberately rode backward until he was abreast of Jacquelin, yet all the while keeping a ready leg and shifty eye on the alert for any possible jump by the Frenchman. The maneuver of riding backward was too much for the audience, and it arcse and cheered. Taylor says that Jacquelin himself laughed outright when he saw him coming back.

SHOULD THEY MARRY?

Wives Should They Have?

Humorous Views by Max O'Rell in New York Journal.

Firstly, should authors marry Secondly, if they marry should their wives be chosen from among the intellective als or not?

After giving the matter very careful consideration I have come to the conclusion that authors, poets and novelists, especially, have no business to marry, not so much for their own sake perhaps as, to put in the shape of a Hibernianism, for the sake of their wives. Why?

Simply because the author of fiction is unlike any other person. If he were not he would never be an author. In the words of the great Turkish philosopher, "Allah is with him," which is another way of saying that he is mad. Some English writers have looked at the matter from very much the same

"Great wits to madness nearly are allied." St. Augustine practically said Well, in that case they ought not to be allied to anything

The average stolid man of commerce is content with his equally stolid helpmate. He does not want to see much originality in her. Your author is not constituted in the same way. He goes through life at such a rate that he exhausts one woman's potentialities of attraction in a few years. The author defies the conventionalities. His fancy runs wild, his aspirations have to be fed, his imagination has to be worked up. He lives in a different world from that of his wife. He has to be in turn each one of the characters which he creates; otherwise his characters would not be alive. He has to live them himself.

But there is a worse wife for an author than one who does not appreciate him. There is the terrible who thinks she can write as well as e, and who constantly irritates him by her criticisms.

Heaven forbid! It is quite enough for an author to have to see what the Saturday Review says of his books. Whenever anything like an unfavorable criticism appears he never runs the risk of not seeing it.

There are always kind friends to post it to him, strongly marked in blue pencil. He does not want criticism at home. He wants sympathy, adulation and praise. If he loves his wife he will appreciate her praises more than all the press and the public can say, and this does not arise from conceit on the author's part, but from his very constitution. A critical wife has been the cause of many an author to be unable to produce; of many a painter to have to put aside his colors and brushes. This article is suggested to me by an essay on the subject which a few days ago I read in the London Sun. The writer concludes it in the following words: "If the author (or painter I would add) must marry, the right type of wife for him is the woman without too much intellect, but with overflowing sympathy, for what that man wants in his home is love, sympathy, help, a little understanding of his efforts and aims.'

I once called on a very well known author who had a wife of this type. He was in his greenhouse taking greenfly off certain plants. "Look at him," said his wife fondly, pointing out the great man to me. "Look at You wouldn't think to see him killing greenfly that he is such a great man and writes such beautiful things out of his own head!

"He says it is all owing to the way I feed him that he is able to give such great thoughts to the world, and that as long as I look after his digestion and believe in him he'll write the books. Isn't he a dear?"

So are you, dear little woman.

Changes in England.

[Boston Herald.]

The report that went the rounds of the American press a few days ago, that E. L. Godkin, former editor of the New York Evening Post, was dving in England, is hardly confirmed by the interesting, vigorous letter from him, dated Lyndhurst, England, July 31, and printed in the Evening Post of Saturday. Mr. Godkin writes of changes in England within the last 40 years, and he makes it plain that they are notable: "At the time I refer to, the poor man in England who had ever left his home was a prodigy; now nearly half his substance goes in excursion fares. A dissenting minister used to be an object of abhorrence and contempt; not he is quoted in parliament by politicians. A lord used to be an object of dread and reverence: now he is hardly better than a foreign count. In the England that I remember, third-class passengers on the then newly built railroads stood in boxes like cattle; now they sit on cushioned seats, the third-class cars being so like the first-class that the gentry have largely taken to using them." But the greatest social change is that wrought by the multitude of Americans to be seen everywhere, "bothering hotelkeepers for ice, hiring all the conveyances, and crowding the theaters and churches. * * * The American who, in any profession, enjoys ever so slight a distinction at home has little idea what a great man he is until he comes to England." There are no longer secluded spots in England, such a habit of excursion has seized upon the people. The famous locality of the lake peets "is so overrun with tourists that the road through the mountains seems to be leading to a fair." Any place that has a touch of Americanism in its history is apt to be so overrun that the inhabitants want to move away.

Two or three of these salutary fieliets, taken before going to bed, followed by doses of one or two pills for two or three nights in succession, will serve as a preventive of attacks of dyspepsia, and all the discomforts which follow in the train of that fell disorder. The means are simple when the way is known.

COWS AT THE PAN-AMERICAN

If Geniuses Do So, What Sort of Important Dairy Tests Are Being Made at the Great Exhibition.

> The Temperature Influences Largely the Milk Producing Power of an Animal—The Results From Different Breeds.

There is no other condition which the cows have to contend with which makes as much variation in the flow of milk as does that of atmospheric temperature. So long as the temperature is about the seventies the cows keep up a good, even flow of milk, but just as soon as the thermometer goes up in the eighties down goes the milk, no matter what the feed is. Green corn cut and green millet have taken the place of silage for the past ten days, and the cows were doing well on this feed until the present hot spell came upon us, wnich commenced on the 19th inst., and the cows are now suffering from the heat as much as they have done at any time since the test commmenced, with a consequent shrinkage in milk. There is the greatest variation in the heavy milking breeds; they drop the most when the conditions are unfavorable, and they respond more quickly when the conditions are favorable. week ending July 28 was the most trying week of the season until the but at the present writing the thermometer stands at from 85 to 86 degrees, and the milk has again fallen off badly. Up to the present time all the cows have been milked three times daily—5 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 8 p.m.—but there has been much debating as to whether this is the wisest course under such trying conditions, with the result that three of the American herdsmen broke over the lines yesterday and are now milking only twice per day. The result will be watched during the month, as some claim that more milk and butter will be produced by three milkings than by two milkings, and those interested will do well to watch the result, which will be given from time to time as the test goes on.

During the cool weather the Holsteins made the greatest gains with the exception of Meg, as she had a week's sickness, which put her back very much in her milk. The cost of feed, however, still keeps them down to fourth or fifth place on the butter test. The Guernsey, Mary Marshall, has again asserted her supremacy as queen of the barn, and headed the list with $2 05 profit, while last week she gave a profit of $2 37. The Jersey, Primrose, which headed the list two weeks ago with $2 33, stood second last week, $2 22 profit, and this week

The Jerseys as a breed, stood at the head last week, with a lead of 95c, but they have lost heavily during the week just ended, Aug. 20, and the Guernseys have increased their lead by 56c, making their total lead at present $6 66. It may not be generally understood how the Guernseys got such a lead of the Jerseys during the first month, but, in justice to the other breeds, it might be stated that the Guernseys were all in fine working trim at the beginning of the test. Four of them freshened in April (two of them after they arrived on the The Jersey, Primrose, ground). een milking two months before the test commenced, and Rexina did not calve until the end of the second week after the test commenced, and she was paying for her feed in the mean-which put her back about $4. The Red Polls are making a remarkably good record, and Mayflower holds second place on total profit since May Mary Marshall (Guernsey) stands first, with $39 03; Mayflower, (Red Poll), second, $33 79, and Primrose (Jersey), $33 66. The whole of the Red Polls in the test are owned by Capt. V. T. Hills, of Delaware, Ohio, who has made some remarkably good sales as a result of his cows' record here. The Canadian cows, as a whole, are making a good record and are a much finer lot of cows than their competitors, and they will all give a good account of themselves by the time the test is closed. There are four prizes given in this test—one for most profit on estimated butter as revealed by the Babcock test, the butter valued at 25c per pound; one prize for most butter by the churn test; one prize for total solids in the milk valued at 9c per pound, and one prize for total solids plus the gain or loss in flesh of the cows, valued at 3c per pound.

The first is creating the greatest interest and is the one in which the profits, so far, have been based and published. The churn test is not considered to be at all reliable on account of only one day's milk from each herd per week being separated and churned, the result for the week being es-timated from that one day's churning. There are so many contingencies which might and do arise to affect the product of one particular day that the result can only be approximated at The prize for total solids is best. based on the value of the whole milk as food, estimated from the wholesale Refreshments were served and a pleasprice for city delivery, and in this, the sugar of the milk figures very largely, forming about 33 per cent of the total solids. In the making of cheese the greater part of the sugar passes off in the whey and comprises about 70 per cent of the solids in whey and of which no account would be taken if a cheese test had been used as a basis for a prize, but in this test for total solids a pound of milk sugar figures the same as a pound of casein or a pound of milk fat.

In the competition for this prize the order of the herds is completely changed, and at the present writing

MELBOURNE Melbourne, Aug. 30.-The Presbyterians of Melbourne united with the Riverside people last Sunday, Aug. 25, in celebrating the tenth anniversary of the opening of their church. Rev. J. McInnis, of Thamesville, preached with acceptance to large and appreciative congregations on Sunday. Monday evening a very largely attended open-air concert was given in the school grounds. The concert was a success from every standpoint. In addition to local talent, instrumental music was given by the McKee or-chestra, of St. Thomas, and Wight-man band, of Burwell Road. Mr. Blakie, of London, gave several solos in excellent taste. The chief attraction was the elocutionary efforts of Miss Hambly, of Belmont, formerly of the Boston School of Oratory. Hambly gave each number with such telling effect that she was repeatedly called back to the platform. With a strong, yet pleasing voice and accurate articulation she could be distinctly heard by every one in the vast audience. The hope was strongly expressed from all sides that Miss Hambly would in the near future appear again in this vicinity.

BYRON.

Byron, Aug. 30.—The other evening the home of Mrs. Robson was the scene of a gathering of a large number of friends for the purpose of expressing their regret of the departure asion family from the village. Mr. Robson has filled acceptably the position of principal in the public school for four years, and now has taken a school near Kamloops, B. C., where in a few days Mrs. Robson and Miss Minnie will join him. As a tangible token o the esteem in which they were held by the school section, they were presented with a silver tea service. The address was read by Mr. S. Elwood, and the presentation was made by Mr. Mc-Neice. Immediately following this, or behalf of the trustee board of Methodist Church, of which Mr. Robson has been Sunday school superintendent and organist, Mrs. Miss Robson also having taken prominent places in the choir Sunday school, Messrs. Griffith and Lissons presented them with an appreciative address and a well-filled purse. Mrs. Robson was taken wholly by surprise, and with almost uncontrollable emotion, because of the pain of parting, accepted these evidences of grateful appreciation. ant social time was spent, when all separated with feeling too great for words to express of the personal loss each sustains in the removal from our midst of friends whom to know was to highly esteem. They enter their new home with the wish accompanying them that the bright prospects before them may ever be realized.

Proprietor of the Popular Montreal Hostelry Talks About Dodd's Kidney Pills

Used Them Some Years Ago For a Bad Case of Kidney Weakness-Recommends Them Highly to All Those Who Are Worried by Any Urinary Sediment.

Montreal, Aug. 30.-Dan W. Allan, proprietor of the Way Freight Hotel here, make a strong statement about the well-known remedy Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Allan's hotel is at 463 St James street, and enjoys considerable popularity with railroad men. Some of the latter were discussing ailments peculiar to engineers, brakemen, firemen, conductors, and train crews generally. It was acknowledged that the greatest difficulty a rail way man has to contend with is kidney trouble. The continual jarring of the train weakens the filters of the system, and various forms of Kidney Trouble result. "Every man that works in an engine cab, or any part of a railroad train, ought to use Dodd's Kidney Pills,' said one man.

"Are Dodd's Kidney Pills what they are cracked up to be, though?" put in the second.

"Yes, sir," returned the other emphatically. "Dodd's Kidney Pills are what they are cracked up to be, and I'll leave it to Mr. Allan.' "Gentlemen," said Mr. Allan, "I firmly believe Dodd's Kidney Pills will do everything that is claimed for them. They are genuine medicine. They cured me of Kidney Trouble, I know My urine was full of a kind of red brick dust for years. I knew it was my Kidneys, but could get noth-

Carrie's Encounter With New York Police Chief.

Colonel Murphy Loses His Temper at Questions Put by Kansas Terror and Tells Her She Is Crazy.

New York, Aug. 31.-A scolding match between Col. Michael Murphy. the commanding officer of the police force in New York city, and Mrs. Carrie Nation, "joint smasher" and general terror of western liquor interests. was one of the events which took place at police headquarters Wednesday. Honors were easy, for it would be difficult to decide which made the poorest exhibition.

Mrs. Nation was taken to police headquarters by her manager. "I've come to ask you to give an account of your stewardship," said Mrs. Nation, in a peremptory way. "I want to ask you if you don't think "No, I don't think anything of the kind," said the commissioner, rather testily. "O, yes it is," replied Mrs. Nation, cheerfully, and smoothing out her duster. "It is a bad place. It is full of joints and murder shops. "Stop right there," said Commission-er Murphy, sternly. "I don't want to listen to you. I won't discuss the matter with you." Mrs. Nation then quoted scripture to the effect of the wickedness of those who won't see, and then said: "Do you mean to say you won't discuss these murder shops, these sinks of depravity, in New York? You don't mean that, do you?" "That is just what I mean to say."

said Murphy, somewhat irritably. But

MRS. NATION ASKS QUESTIONS. "I want to ask you," began Mrs. Nation, her voice rising, "why the saloons are permitted to be open on Sundays?" "I won't discuss the matter with you," said Commissioner Murphy. "Why are saloons permitted to do business on any day?" asked Mrs. Na-

"They have a right to do so," said Commissioner Murphy. "I only came here to do this city some good. I want to do some good for humanity. I want to do something for you.' "You do not know what you're talking about," said Commissioner Murphy, angrily. "Go back to Kansas and stay there. If you want to do something, why don't you do it for your husband?" "I have no husband now," said Mrs. Nation sadly. "I suppose you know all about that matter?' "Oh, yes," said Commissioner Murphy rather exultantly. "I have heard it and all I have got to say is that I congratulate Mr. Nation. He ought to be a happy man now."

TELL HER SHE IS CRAZY. More questions were fired at Murphy and finally he said: "I don't want to talk with you. You are not in your proper mind.' "Do you think I am crazy?" asked Mrs. Nation.

"Yes, I do," said the commissioner. "You say just what the wicked, riotous, rum-soaked Republicans say." Mrs. Nation continued: "Now, father, I want to talk to you. I don't want to quarrel with you."
"Don't call me father," said Murphy.

"I will call you father. You are enough to be my father," said Mrs. Na-"That's another fabrication of yours. You don't know my age," said Murphy.
"I'll call you father, anyway," said Mrs. Nation. "Father, don't you think a little 'hatchetation' would be good for New York?' "If you violate the laws I'll have you locked up," said Murphy.

Mrs. Nation talked some more and then withdrew. Deputy Commissioner Devery was one of the audience at the colloquy. Mrs. Nation called on John

A Sensible Way to Put It. Sir Wilfrid Laurier put the population question in its most sensible and favorable light in his speech at the opening of the Toronto Exhibition, If 75,000,000 Americans export and import $2,125,000,000 per year, an average of $29 per head, and 5,400,000 export and import $380,000,000 worth, or about $70 per head, which is the better off? The Canadian is three times the man the American is, judged by worldly gear. It is the same old story. What difference does it make whether a man lives in a city of 40,000 of 400,000, or in a country of 5.000.000 of 50.000.000, so long as he is comfortable, prosperous, protected in the enjoyment of his property by equitable laws, and has all the advantages of a high civilization? Better be small in numbers and select in quality than gross numerically and no account otherwise.

China is the largest nation on earth and the most no account. If Canada goes on building up her trade and keeping the population select we will one day be a nation of millionaires.-Ottawa Citizen.

Our Conservative contemporary at the capital certainly states the case in a fair and attractive form, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier did in his noteworthy address at the opening of the Toronto Exhibiton. We would all have liked to have seen a greater number of people registered by the census enumerators. who everywhere had definite instructions from Commissioner Blue to let no man, woman or child escape from being counted.

If the numbers are not so great as we could have wished, however, there is no cause for discomfiture. The country has been doing very well, indeed, and it has only just begun the live opening-up period, which, in the past, has come to every nation possessing like great natural resources.

It is true that the Opposition press and leaders are not a unit in the criticisms of the Government with regard to the census. The Hamilton Spectator pooh-poohs the evidences of prosperity and progress adduced by the Prime Minister, sentiments unequivocally indorsed by the Ottawa Citi-The Spectator professes to see no virtue in foreign trade, and compares our commerce with the outside world to the two boys who "made from $10 to $15 each trading coats and jackknives with each other." How absurd is the comparison! If the argument of the Spectator were well founded it would mean that there is no money for Canadians in selling their surplus products in Great Britain or elsewhere, and accepting in pay therefor products of other lands which they require to meet their daily wants. It would mean that the money we spend-all parties regarding it as wise-to improve the navigation of the St. Lawrence is thrown away. It would mean that it is unwise to encourage the ocean shipping trade, and should place every obstacle in the way of the exporters who find a market for Canadian wheat, butter, cheese, bacon, eggs, apples, cattle, horses, and the manufactures of wood, iron and steel. The Spectator may be serious in its contention, so very much at variance with its Ottawa Conservative contemporary, but we doubt if there are many of its readers who will accept as well founded its condemnation of the export trade of the country, which has so greatly extended since the present Government came into power, as absolutely unprofitable and unworthy of being

Mr. Maclean, Conservative M. P. for East York, declares that it would be wise for the Government to spend "fifty or a hundred million dollars" on procuring the best settlers from Europe. Mr. Maclean will no doubt support the Government immigration policy, which provides by a much more modest expenditure than he counsels for the encouragement of immigration of the best class adapted for Canadian settlement-that is, of persons able and willing to cultivate the soil of our vacant lands.

Out of Tune.

Bir Charles Tupper professes to be out of the prophesying business. He also appears to have foresworn reading Ontario Conservative newspapers. In a late review he said the census of Quebec Province was disappointing to him, as, for example, on looking at the figures, he found that Montreal was credited with a population decidedly smaller than he believed it possessed. Now, if Sir Charles had been reading such fournals as our contemporary, the London Free Press, he been greater advances in the last quarter of a century than that of the nurse. From becoming, as it was in the days of Charles Dickens, the work of the drudge, any inexperienced woman being regarded as good enough to look after the sick, it has become a noble profession in Great Britain, and indeed throughout the Englishspeaking world. Here in Canada, 20 osity, and even for the most critical much." cases it was difficult to enlist her serequipped for the momentous task, Now, thanks largely to our hospital system, and its intelligent directors. the corps of trained nurses in every community like London is large, though not more ample, in ordinary cases, than the increasing demand for their services warrants. In Great Britain, even more than here, the vocation of trained nurse is most highly regarded. The latest lady of rank to join the sisterhood is Lady Hermoine Temple-Blackwood, daughter of Lord Dufferin, whose abandonment of the drawing-room for the earnest work of trained nurse has just been announced. Canadians are somewhat interested in her ladyship's decision, as she is a native of the Dominion, having been born here while her father was Governor-General.

Wrong Place for Refuse.

The matter of disposing of city garbage and other useless material is one which becomes of increased importance and difficulty with growing population and industrial activity. From the mills there is less waste, comparatively, than formerly, owing to the material which at one time could be turned to little or no use. But the matter of disposing of waste material will still require the unabated energy of our civic authorities.

A favorite dumping ground for the refuse of this city is along the banks of the river. The river is also made a repository for dead cats and dogs. Now, from a sanitary point of view, if from no other, this should not be allowed. There is scarcely a more fruitful source of disease than an atmosphere reeking with the miasma of decaying animal matter thrown in the

In addition to the health view point, we have the scenic aspect of the river. With the waterworks dam in a good state of repair, as it is at present, the river from near Blackfriars to Springbank is likely to grow in popularity as a place for boating. Nature has dealt very generously with it in the provision of trees and shrubbery, which add to the pleasure of boating, especially to the aesthetically inclined, and who does not enjoy the rich verdure of trees? But, at the very outset the view is marred by an unsightly heap of rubbish dumped on the banks near the bridge at the foot of Dundas street. Under the York street bridge is a dam across the south branch of the river, built of cinders and refuse of furnaces of a manufactory near by. This obstruction to begin with is illegal. It is illegal to the Dominion fishery laws on the subject: "It is illegal to permit coal of. ashes, lime, chemical substances or druggs, poisonous matter, dead or decaying fish or remnants thereof, mill rubbish or sawdust or other deleterious substance to pass into, or to be deposited into any water frequented by any of the kinds of fish mentioned in the fisheries act"-58 and 59 V. (Dom), chapter 27. A stroll along the regarded as an evidence of the probank of the river from the Blackgress and prosperity of the country. friars bridge to the Ridout street bridge is all that is necessary to see how the above law is observed. If the dam referred to, under the York street bridge, is a necessity, those who are directly interested should, after having obtained permission from proper sources, erect a structure of wood, or some other material that can be moved in spring, so as not to check the speedy flow of water incident to the time of the year. Besides, the loose material to be found elsewhere along the river banks is carried down by the spring floods, with a tendency to fill up the bed of the river. Cannot something be done to end such a condition of affairs? What is needed is a removal of the present obstructions and eyesores, and a rigid enforce-

The Death Rate.

[Boston Herald.]

Ten years ago the average age of death was 31.1 years; now it is 35.2 In general there is an increase of deaths from old age diseases and a decrease in the diseases of infancy. While infant deaths still constitute about one-third of the total, there is an encouraging falling off in deaths from infantile diseases. This improvement no doubt is due to better sanitation, purer water and a more general observance of the laws of health. The advance in this respect is more marked in the cities than in the rural districts. The statistics show a lower death rate in the country than in the but allowance must be made for the fact that many country people who are fatally ill go to the city hospitals for treatment, and their deaths then appear upon the city's mortality

This agrees with the statement of the ministers themselves, who say they slept in the Mansion House that night. Their names could not be found on the register, and the landlord and his clerk were reported as saying last week most positively that they did not stay in that house. They reached Syracuse on Monday evening, and thus a great deal hinged on their ability to account for that night. They did not register their fictitious names till Tuesday. Rev. W. J. Clark and Mrs. Clark came from the west last evening, and almost before they had accustomed themselves to their home surroundings, Mr. Clark was asked by the ubiquitous newspaper man to tell him something about the country that the census says is forging ahead by such large percentages. He had just arrived at the end of a long journey and was really too tired to protest, even had he felt so inclined, and so The Advertiser is able to tell its readers a little bit about a trip that Mr. Clark said was indeed delightful.

"I suppose," he said, "that you want most to know where we spent the holiday?" and the reporter said yes, he did, generously throttling his desire to ask a lot of other things, having in mind the knowledge that these other things were precious because of the future uses to which they might be

New York, Aug. 31.-Four persons vere killed and seven seriously in a Brooklyn tenement fire last night. The dead: Mrs. Rosie Rothegiser, 37 years old, jumped from the fourth story window; Annie Beck, 10 years; Tillie Beck, 5 years, burned to death. Frank Budd, infant, died at the hospital. The explosion of a kerosene oil stove started the fire. Nets were spread to catch those who jumped from the windows. Mrs. Rothegiser missed the net spread for her, struck on the side walk and was instantly killed.

review, weekly summary:

There has been a fair volume of business done at Montreal the past week. The sorting trade for the fall has now begun and the PROSPECTS ARE VERY ENCOUR-AGING.

The demand for staple goods for the eastern part of the country is expanding, and the increased demands for funds from centers of industrial activity in the east is also very marked. St. Louis, $38,402,628; increase Pittsburg, $31,258,078; increase

Trade at Toronto continues to expand as the season advances, and it received a marked impetus this week, in connection with the number of exhibition visitors, who always take advantage of this time of the year to make purchasing trips to the city. A large movement is looked for in drygoods, millinery and other wholesale departments the next two weeks. Collections are fair.

TRADE ACTIVE.

Trade at Hamilton has been quite active this week. Large shipments of fall goods have been made, but there is every prospect of a big sorting business being done. Value of staple goods are firm.

Trade in Manitoba is in a satisfactory position for the fall. The retailers have been buying liberally, and still further sales of large lots of staples are looked for in the next few weeks. Labor is well employed. The money circulation is increasing, and collections are expected to improve shortly.

Business at Ottawa continues to improve as the opening of the sorting season for fall goods approaches. The sales of fall goods have been large, and there is still a great deal of trade for the fall to be done. Values continue to be firm.

At Quebec fall orders continue to come in various lines. As a rule collections are generally reported fair. From the Lake St. John district reports indicate the absence of rain has told severely on the crops. The lat-ter in some quarters is a total failure. In shipping circles business is fairly

IN THE UNITED STATES.

New York, Aug. 30.-Dun's review-Quotations of steel products are still nominal, owing to the difficulty experienced in securing prompt delivery. iron consumption has been curtailed, and an increase in furnace stocks on Sept. 1 is expected, but with higher prices and activity at the Woolen mills are crowded with orders, even the smaller concerns participating, and the woolen market is steady, despite weakness abread. Both raw rubber and silk are strong. Even in cotton goods, which have been the slowest to respond to the vigorous tone of domestic trade the past week, has brought distinct improvement. Pressure at Fall River being removed, the print cloth market became strong, while in the bleached goods division the gains were still more pronounced. Such evidences of better things in the market for goods naturally gave a firmer tone to the raw material, which was further supported by the unsatisfactory weather in Texas. Against losses by drouth in the largest state there is compension in the greatly increased acreage throughout the entire cotton belt, but an advance of $3 a bale since the advance began does not appear unreasonable. crop year ends with a visible close to a million bales-by no means the severe scarcity estimated earlier in the Liabilities of failures in four weeks aggregated $8,648,134, of which $4,373,-446 were in manufacturing, $3,695,385 in trading and $579 33 in commercial lines. Failures for the week numbered 202 in the United States, against 178 ast year, and 21 in Canada, against 19 last year.

CORN CROP IMPROVED. Bradstreet's report-A further improvement in corn crop advices, confidence in the early ending of the steel strike, a further advance in cotton and the advent of cooler weather are unitedly responsible for a still further enlargement of general trade distribution at nearly all markets and a perceptibly better and more cheerful of business generally. The strength of cotton is the feature of staple prices this week, based originally upon crop reports from the south, too dry in Texas and too wet in the eastern half of the belt, but helped now by better reports from the drygoods trade and higher prices paid for otton goods. With the exception that the cheaper grades of shoes are not in active reuest, this trade is in good shape at the east. Hides, however, have advanced %c further, and the tanners complain that there is no money in upper leather. Sole leather is very strong. Chicago reports leather active and firm, and tanners have all the orders they can take care of.

The air of patient serenity with which the iron and steel trades view the trade and the strike situation is significant of the confidence growing that the end of the strike is in sight. Finished product, such as hoops, tubes, sheets and tin plates, are still bringing higher premiums. Structural material, plate and bar mills have orders for months ahead. Wire is scarce at Chicago, owing to the Joliet shutdown. At Pittsburg merchants are at the end of their orders, and must pile stocks next month if the strike lasts. Foundry iron is in good demand at St. Louis, and hardware is in active distribution at all western markets. The pressure of supplies here and the weakness in Europe caused a drop of 1-16c to 3-16c this week in raw sugar. Refined, on the other hand, was active. Business failures for the week number 188, against 181 last week, 165 in this week a year ago, 131 in 1899, 164 in 1898 and 198 in 1897.

EXPORTS OF WHEAT. Wheat including flour exports for the week aggregate 6,607,611 bushels, as against 6,606,899 bushe's last week and 3,284,321 bushels in this week last weeks) aggregate 57,286,320 bushels, as against 25,888,477 bushels Labor World, calling for the impeach-last season. Corn exports aggregate ment of President Shaffer; the march 441,918 bushels, as against 528,385 of the strikers of McKessport to 441,918 bushels, as against Toronte, Aug. 30.—Bradstreet's trade | bushels last week and 3,717,490 bushels last year. July 1 to date exports are 10,192,969 bushels, against 30,887,214 bushels last season.

BANK CLEARINGS.

The following are some of the weekly clearings as compiled for the week ending Aug. 29, with percentage of increases and decreases, as compared with the corresponding week last year: New York, $1,069,732,137; increase 73.9. Boston, $108,946,880; increase 34.2 Philadelphia, $121,323,864; increase 79.5 Values of staples are steady, and the feeling in general trade cincles is buoyant. Country remittances are expected to show up better after the crop movement gets larger.

Trade at Toronto continues to expected to show up better after the crop movement gets larger.

CONVENTIONS: MUNYON'S THEIR RESULTS, DYSPEPSIA

recent years possible. Half a century ago, even a generation ago, the proposal to bring together ten thousand persons from all parts of the continent for convention purposes would have been regarded as wild in the extreme, and men, who in those days found it necessary, for business or political purposes, to journey great distances to a country's capital or to a seaport town, did so at the outlay of much time and money, and at the sacrifice of comfort to an extent from which we would shrink today.

The writer's experience of convenspeak therefor of those monster rallies of fraternal and benefit societies that, from year to year, gather in some one of the great centers of this continent Of religious gaterings those held in connection with the Christian Endeavor movement have been the great est in point of numbers, and in spec-tacular effect. The reason for this is not alone in the fact that Christian Endeavor has been and is one of the greatest religious movements that the world has seen, but its membership being made up almost entirely of young people, the convention idea has appealed to them, both because of the in spirational feature of its influence, and doubtless because of the expositional character that great conventions usually, to a very large extent, assume.

More recently the Epworth League, combining all branches of the Metho-dist Church, and the Baptist Young People's Union have had international gatherings, which have been characterized by the same enthusiasm as has marked the Christian Endeavor conventions, although their platform has been necessarily narrower on account of their denominational character. The marvelous proportions to which these conventions have grown has been a feature that has attracted world-wide attention. At the great gatherings in Boston, New York, Minneapolis, Cleveland, hosts of young people assembled from every part of continent; as one of the speakers Minneapolis said in 1891: "We have at Minneapolis said in 1891: come up from every part of the vast continent. The United Society of Christian Endeavor has said to the North, 'Give up,' and to the South, 'Keep not back; bring my sons from far back related chiefly to the constitu-tion of the executive. The first pro-the earth, and they have listened and vided that the executive committee obeyed. produce any lasting good, or if such re-sults remain as justify to any extent the great expense entailed and the serious labor required for months beforehand in order to insure their success. The reply to such a question car hardly be categorical, for it will depend entirely upon what results are looked for as sufficient and reasonable. To those who look for educational results, or even for definite personal results in the shape of experimental blessings to the individual, conventions are probably disappointing and may regarded even as an unnecessary and unjustifiable expense. But all who have studied the different methods by which every great cause has advanced in the world must understand that exposition and demonstration have place in religion as well as education and enlightenment. For such purposes the great conventions referred to have proved successful. They have served for the country and for the Christian forces themselves, as a display of the energies within the body for exercise, and of the strength already obtained. It is unquestionable, too, that the interdenominational spirit that has been so conspicuously fostered in recent years has been greatly strengthened and developed by these gatherings. Denominational lines have been all obliterated, and the massing together on common ground of earnest hearts from all sections of the church has done much to familiarize all Christians with the good that is in other denominations outside of their own. This result, were there no other, would jus ured that a million of interest could tify in the minds of many all the expense and trouble that have been en tailed by the holding of these convenadopted the project, and steps will be tions, for surely this is an age unity, and not disunity, should be the church's watchword. A result by no means trifling or un important has been the bringing of such vast multitudes from all parts of the earth under the direct influence of many of the most conspicuous of the church's leaders. To those who live in large cities, or to those who are privi-leged to travel, the opportunity of hearing men whose reputation is worldwide is not so precious as it is to those who live in districts remote from the great word centers. The convention idea has brought men like Meyer, Pentecost, Burrill, Sheldon, Harper, Dixon, Campbell, Morgan, Wilbur Chapman, Patterson, Landrith, and a host of others, into touch with the lives of tens thousands who have felt the magnetism of their personality and have been will fill the vacant vice-presidencies in thrilled by the charm of their quence, and who, but for these gatherngs, would have known these men only voring the extension of the principle by name and through their writings. To be a successful convention speak trel of public services depending on er requires gifts somewhat different from those that serve for more ordin the use of the streets, retaining ary style of address—a voice that can be heard by ten thousand persons in a building whose acoustic properties electric railways, and supporting the movement for tree planting on city are not always perfect, and a readiness to adapt oneself to the spirit of the audience, and an alacrity in seiz-ing that undefinable something that tells when a responsive chord has been Palson's Merviline Cures Rheumatism The remarkable strength and marvelous soothing power of Nerviline renders it quite infallible in rheumatism. Any man who feels the tremendous opportunity afforded him in the audience of many thousands, who are ready to listen to him for thirty minutes, cannot fail to realize that the time is too precious to be wasted in anything that has not the elements of permanence and

Lately the method of conducting conventions has much changed. The inspiration of the great mass meeting is not neglected, but far less time is given to it, while by means of sectional meetings, in which special departments of Christian work are studied under leadership of experts, a work that is

There are many who predict for the great convention a speedy decline, but it is probable that so long as men are tions has been confined chiefly to great moved by the eloquence of the orator, religious gatherings, and he cannot and attracted by the magnetism of born leaders, so long will they be found ready to assemble in multitudes where these attractions are to be found.

The Miracle of Life.

Of all miracles the most wonderful is that of life-the common daily life which we carry about with us, and which everywhere surrounds us. The sun and stars and the blue firmament, day and night, the tides and seasons, are as nothing compared with it. Life, the soul of the world, but for which creation were not.

It is our daily familiarity with life which obscures its wonders from us; we live, yet remember it not. Other wonders attract our attention and excite our surprise; but this, the great wonder of the world, which includes all others, is little regarded. We have grown up alongside of life with life within us and about us; and there is never any point in our exist-ence at which its phenomena arrests our curiosity and attention. The miracle is hid from us by familiarity, and

Fancy the earth without life-its skeleton ribs of rock and mountains unclothed with verdue, without soil, without flesh! What a naked, deso-late spectacle, and how unlike the beautiful aspect of external nature in all lands! Nature, ever varied and ever changing, coming with the spring and going to sleep with the winter, in constant rotation. The flower springs up, blooms, withers, and falls, returning to the earth from whence it springs, leaving behind it the germ of future being. For nothing dies—not even life, which only gives up one form to assume another. Organization is traveling in an unending circle. The trees in summer put on their they blossom; ripens-falls; what the roots gathered up out of the earth returns to earth again; the leaves drop one by one, and decay, resolving themselves into new forms, to enter into other organizations; the sap flows back to the trunk, and the forest, wood, field, and brake compose themselves to their annual winter's sleep. In spring and summer the birds sang in the boughs, and tended their young brood; the whole animal kingdom repoiced in their full bounding life; the sun shone warm, and nature rejoiced in green-ness. Winter lays its cold chill upon this scene; but the same scene comes round again, and another spring recommences the same "never-ending" still beginning succession of vital changes. We learn to expect all this, and become so familiar with it that it seldom occurs to us to reflect how much harmony and adaptation there is in the arrangement—how much of beauty and glory there is everywhere above, around and beneath us.

It is life which is the grand glory of the world; it was the consummation of creative power, at which the morning stars sang together for joy. Is not the sun glorious because there are ors gorgeous, because there is the liv-What were a Creator himself without - intelligence - understanding to know and adore Him, and to trace His finger in the works that he hath

Maiden Speeches.

Some interesting facts concerning the maiden speeches of politicians are given in "Macmillan's Magazine" this month by Mr. Michael MacDonagh. There is no record of Burke's maiden speech, but it would seem from the political gossip of the day to have been successful. Lord Byron also made a promising performance. Thos. Erskine, who became lord chancellor, was a failure in parliamentary debate. His maiden speech was disastrous. George Canning's first speech was "remarkable neither way," and Mr. Gladstone's first speech was "obscure and disappointing." great orator, from Demosthenes to Burke," Mr. Glatstone once said, "has suffered from nervousness on the eve of an important speech, and although I cannot claim to share the gift of and dropping wise sayings by the golden speech, I can claim more than a fair share of the defect of nervous-

To Lord Salisbury's first speech, delivered when he was Lord Robert Cecil in 1854, Mr. Gladstone the same evening paid a high tribute. The most successful maiden speech of recent times was, we are assured, that of Sir William Harcourt. He was 41 when he took his seat for Oxford in 1869, and just a week later addressed the house for the first time. His spech, which occupied six columns in Hansard, was loudly applauded throughout. Nervousness is not commonly recognized as an Irish failing, but at least three celebrated Irishmen have in this century owned its mastery when up for the first time before the House of Commons. When Parnell rose to deliver his maiden speech he could "only stammer out a few barely intelligible sentences about Ireland not being a geographical fragment." The tinguished Irish member named Doherty, who became lord chief justice of his country, was told by Canning that in his first speech he had called the speaker "sir" too often. "My dear friend," said Dogherty, "if you knew the mental state I was in while speaking you would not wonder if I had called him ma'am." Whiteside, who also became chief justice of Ireland. used to relate that when during his maiden speech he saw the speaker's wig surrounded by blue flames he knew it was time to sit down.

But to a Witticisms of Irish Judge. verse apart from mind. But to a healthy human feeling there must always be something very inadequate, say rather something abnormal and monstrous, in this phase of morality. It is as if a good citizen in a monarchy were to pay all the taxes conscientiously, serve his time in the army, and fight the battles of country bravely, but refuse to take off his hat to the queen when she passed. If we did not note such a and a dispensary doctor stated that he | fellow altogether with a black mark, as a disloyal and disaffected subject, man, the suggestion being that twelve for a horse could not, therefore, be excessive. "Never mind your eight atheists, whether speculative or practical; they are mostly crochet-mongers and puzzle-brains; fellows who spin silken ropes in which to strangle themselves; at most, mere reasoning machines, utterly devoid of every noble inspiration, whose leaden intel-lectual firmament has no heat and no color, whose whole nature is exhausted in fostering a prim self-contained conceit about their petty knowledges. and who can, in fact, fasten their coarse feelers upon nothing but what they can finger, and classify, and tabulate, and dissect. But there is something that stands above all fingering, all microscopes; and all curious diagnosis, and that is simply, Life; and life is simply energizing Reason, and energizing reason is only another name to conceive the steam-engine without the intellect of James Watt; it is to make a map of the aqueducts that supply a great city with water, without indicating the ountain-head from which they are supplied; it is to stop short of the one possible; it is to leave the body without the head. By no means, therefore. let a young man satisfy himself with any of those cold moral schemes of the present age of reaction, which piece together a beggarly account of duties Stomach Pains from external induction. #### Dr. Johnson's Advice to Young Men.

The first years of man must make thinks never can be wise. Perpetual levity must end in ignorance; and intemperance, though it may fire the spirits for an hour, will make life short and miserable. Let us consider that life is of no long duration, and that in maturer age, when the enchantments of fancy shall cease, and phantoms of delight dance no more about us, we shall have no comfort but the esteem of wise men and the means of doing good. Let us, there-fore, stop, while to stop is in our power; let us live as men who have sometime to grow old, and to whom it will be the most dreadful of all evils to count their past years by follies, and to be reminded of their formaladies which riot has produced.

Don Quixote's Wisdom.

Sancho Panza has won such a reputation for wit as to almost eclipse his master's credit for wisdom. Tilting at windmills, however, is not incompatible with levelling a lance at folly way; and Florence Macunn has done the gentle knight of La Mancha a good turn by her paper in "Good Words" on "The Wisdom of Don Quixote," in which are to be found some gems of exquisite sanity. "Nor think, sir, that I meant here by 'vulgar' merely plebeian or humble people; but rather all those who are ignorant, whether lord or prince, must be reckoned of that creed." "Let the poor find in thee more compassion, but not more justice than the intelligence of the rich." "Him, whom thou has to punish with deeds, illtreat not with words." "Many are the ways by which God carries his own to heaven." "Chivalry is a religion, there are saintly knights in heaven." "I say he who brings himself content with poverty must live much with God.

Dying Words of Distinguished Men.

Napoleon - "Head of the army." Byron-"I must sleep now." Walter Scott-"I feel as if I were to be myself again." Washington-"It is well." Franklin—"A dying man can do nothing easy." Jefferson—"I resign my soul to God and my daughter to my country." Adams—"Independence for J. Q. Adams—"It is the last of earth." Daniel Webster-"I still live." Jackson—"Now, Lord, lettest thou Thy servant depart in peace." Taylor—"I have endeavored to do my duty." Queen Elizabeth—"All my possessions for a moment of time." Sir Thomas More (ascending the scaffold)—"May I pray you see me safe up; for the coming down let me shift for myself." Goethe-"Let the light enter."

Boswell's Johnson.

A desire of knowledge is the natural feeling of mankind; and every human being whose mind is not debauched, will be willing to give all that he has to get knowledge. There is nothing too little for little a creature as man. It is by study of little things that we attain the great art of having as little misery and as much happiness as possible. Life admits not of delays; when pleasure can be had it is fit to catch it: every hour takes away part of the things that please us, and perhaps part of our disposition to be pleased. Always set a high value on spontaneous kindness. He whose inclination prompts him to cultivate your friendship of his own accord, will love you more than one whom you have been at pains to attach to you. If I had no duties, and no reference to futurity, I would spend my life in driving briskly in a post-chase with a pretty woman; but she should be one who could understand me, and would add something to the conversation

Knowledge may in some cases produce unhappiness, I allow. But, upon the whole, knowledge per se is certainly an object which every man would wish to attain, although, perhaps, he may not take the trouble necessary for attaining it.

If a man has led a good life for seven years, and then is hurried by passion to do what is wrong, and is suddenly carried off, depend upon it he will have the reward of his seven years' good life: God will not take a catch of him.

Lawyers know life practically. A bookish man should always have them to converse with. They have what he wants.

To cultivate kindness is a valuable part of the business of life. No man is obliged to do as much as fact which renders all the other facts of his life to himself. Laboring men who work hard, and live sparingly, are seldom or never

For a number of years he traveled for the Upper Canada Bible Society, and whenever it was known that "Lachlan Taylor" was to speak there was sure to be an overwhelming audience. Thirty years ago he was in the hight of his glory as an orator. He was a tall man, with a mobile, expressive countenance, mer luxuriance of health only by the and a voice he could modulate to suit every sort of passion. He was, though then elderly, unmarried, and always defended his bachelorhood by saying, "he loved all the ladies so much that he could not think of preferring one to another." The very sweep of his long arm had eloquence in'it, and his warmth, and wit, and pathos, and patriotism made him admired on the platform and welcome in the home wherever he might And he was every inch of his whole frame, a Highlander. "Oh," he would say, "after all, there's something in the oatmeal and the sweat of the rocks to make men." Once in his Bible Society tours he stayed over night in my father's house at St. George, and finding that one of his appointments had broken down he lengthened his stay to two days and two nights altogether. My mother and he sat up nearly all night telling Scotch stories; and Dr. Taylor enjoyed most of all one my mother told of an Englishman, lost and nearly famished in the Highland mountains. | year 1870), "I was lecturing in Ottawa He came to a house at last and begged for something to eat. But I have never heard of and imagined that a special miracle had been wrought in his behalf. He more is the pity, for he must have told his friends, when he got home, of been the actor and spectator in many his extremity and his succour. His words were: "The woman said she would prepare me something, and she some dirty water into it, and by some good providence it came out a pud-ding." We often remark that the world is too small nowadays; and if we wanted to hide ourselves there would be sure to turn up somebody who knew us. One of Dr. Taylor's stories illustrates this. What is supposed to be the 'mandrake," mentioned in Genesis, grows in Palestine, with a most sweet and aromatic white, waxen-like flower. A Scotchman living in Jerusalem found that its root was large and fleshy, and argued to himself that if the flower were so sweet, the root must needs be edible and delicious. Here was a gastronomical discovery. He would dig some of it. But (at that date) there was not a decent pick or spade in all Jerusalem. So he armed himself with a large carving knife or butcher knife-a "gullie," as he would call it in Scotch-and marched out to seek mandrakes. He made a famous stew of them and ate heartily, for the Jerusalem vegetable market was a poor affair. But woeful to tell, it had some deleterious effects. and the man almost died; and the story of the Scotchman and the Jerusalem kail became a standing joke in the small English-speaking colony

And after getting thus far, Dr. Taylor added (this was about the about two months ago and I told this story there And after the lecture was over a man came up the aisle and said: "You were telling a story -a thin and slightly acid flummery, about the Jerusalem kail; I am the

PECULIAR RURAL EXPRESSION EXPLAINED Over on the middle east side of New York is a considerable section of the city's cow district. Here the walleyed steed and the ne-horned "mooly cow" and the little cavorting calf and the brindle heifer are to be foundfor a little season before they are converted into roast beef and veal cutlets and tripe a la Creole. here the cry of "Co', bossy" takes the man who strays that way back to the "boyhood's happy days down on the farm, farm, farm," and tells him again of the time he used to get up at four in the morning and relieve the herd of their lectealis, the while sitting on the three-legged stool of glorious memory. "Co', bossy," said one of these men softly, as he strolled around the yards the other day. "So', bossy!" And can you tell me, sir, what you men when you say "co', bossy?" The genius of the district couldn't tell for the life of him. He had been engaged in the cow line for a good many years, he allowed, and he had found the expression in use when he started. He didn't know where it came from, and he hadn't inquired, and he wasn't quite clear just what it meant. But the cows seemed to like it. That was enough for him. The man who had lived in the country and had also read a bit hunted up a rather more intellectual audience than that furnished by the genius of the district and his followers in the cow line. When he had opened the subject he said:

"Boss is practically identical in meaning with the Latin word bos. That's one thing to remember. Then, as an offset, and a puzzling offset, there is the improbability of farm hands interspersing their remarks with quotations from a dead language. That, as it happens, isn't exactly a specialty of the horny handed son of toil. Bartlett got at the idea earliest, I think, when he presented the diminutive 'bossy' with reference to the calf After this the word got into the dictionary, the farm took naturally to the term and the cows got to answer when they heard the oall 'Come, bossy,' which has been shortened to 'Co, bossy,' or 'Co, boss,'

Price of Slaves.

It is astonishing how many cheerful faces one sees in a slave market, faces that absolutely bespeak a sporting interest in what is about to happen to them. To the younger folk it is the possible opening of a career. A slave boy may rise to be the ruler of a city; I have known such a thing to take place. As for the girl, there is the world to see; she has escaped the trammels of her native village. At least, there is the reasonable hope that by bearing a male child she may become the privileged concubine of her master with a position only inferior to that of wife, and who may that master bepossibly a sultan.

But the cheerful aspect of the many only serves to throw further out into relief the attitude of the few who have lost something, and who realize their loss.

The prices of slaves, like the prices of any other commercial commodity, vary with the current conditions of supply and demand, but there is well understood average, and relation between the values of the different types of stock, which serve as a basis for trading calculations. The following table is the result of a careful consideration of current praces during the period that I was in Nigeria, Western African territory of Great Britain:

Child, 7 years old, male or female ..... 2 10 Child, 10 years old, male or female ..... 3 Boy, 17 years old ..... 5 Boy, good-looking, 12 to 14 ... 7
Girl, 14 to 17 years old ... 9
Young woman, say 20 or 21 ... 5 Man, full-grown, with, beard .. 3 10 Adult woman ..... 2

Five pounds for a young woman of 21 marks the early decadence of the woman in this realm of tropical anxiety, and £3 odd for a full-grown man shows that the slawe holding classes appreciate to the full the influence of a past, for while the man is then still in the full hey-day of his physical vigor, if he has recently been made a slave, the spirit will probably have gone out of him, and if he has often changed owners, in all probability he will be callous and hard to manage. I have put the adult woman, say 35 years of age, at £2, but most of them are of no market value, and I have seen them given away. — Empire ReDr. T. Felix Gouraud's Oriental Cream

HOW CANADA HAS GROWN!

Census Statistics of Other Years and the Lesson They Teach.

Then the old enumerators had a very provoking habit of taking the census of Acadia in one year, and then the census of Quebec five years later, so that to get an idea of the population of all that territory which now constitutes Canada to take a stride forward. Canada's good deal of estimating and calcustoscape growth during the next half century lating of proportions must be done; and in a country like Canada, constantly receiving immigrants, nothing is so delusive as the matter of finding a correct ration of increase for a term of

This difficulty of correctly estimating the population of all Canada previous to 1851 is not due to lack of censuses, for, as Johnston, in the Year Book, states, few countries have had their population counted so many times as Canada. The first official census of New France was taken in 1665, fifty years after Champlain landed, when the European population was found to Hamilton ...... 9,889 consist of 538 families, or 3,215 persons of all ages. Montreal was the largest place, with 625 inhabitants, but the country about Quebec was more thickly populated. There were, besides, from 1,000 to 1,200 troops in the garrison who were not included in the census. But, leaving these out of account, the males outnumbered the females by 853, a disproportion which testifies to the wild, hard life of the pioneers. It was esti-mated that there were not more than 100 Europeans in Acadia and Cape Breton, while the Indian population of New France was 11,700, and of Acadia,

In the thirty-five years that remained of the seventeenth century, the population of New France was counted eight times and that of Acadia four times. In scarcely any one case was the counting of the people in both Canada and Acadia done in the same

Some years ago, an old census return was found among the archives in the court house at Montreal, which gives all the information that is obtainable concerning the population at this period. The census was taken in 1790 in "Canada," which included of what is now called Quebec, part of New Brunswick and all of Ontario. Concerning the year 1792, a note in one of the later census returns states that that part of Quebec which now forms the Province of Ontario may be said to have been without inhabitants was therefore on the incoming of the peas 3 shillings per bushel and hay United Empire Loyalists from the United States from 1776 to the end of United States from 1776 to the end of townships with the largest returns for ed paper on "Mid-Air Dining Clubs," by the century, but particularly in the years immediately following 1784, that Ontario was first peopled by persons 26 bushels 35 pounds; Scarboro, York of European descent. In 1806 a general census was taken over most of British America, with the following result:

New Brunswick ...... 35,000 Prince Edward Island ...... 9,676 Total ....... 429,754

This showed that the presence of U. E. L. had caused Canada to was rapid, but it is not easy to get the figures for all the provinces or colonies at one time. The figures for Ontario are obtainable and show the following increases: 1811, 77,000; 1824, 151,097; 1832, 261,061; 1834, 320,693, an increase of 11.42 per cent over previous year; 1841, 465,357; 1851, 952,-004, an increase of 10.54 per cent. The figures in Quebec are: 1831, 511,920; 1844, 690,782; 1851, 890,261.

The figures of some of the cities and towns of Ontario in 1848 will prove interesting. Here are a few of them: Bytown (Ottawa) ...... 6,275 Toronto ......23,503 London ...... 4,584 Kingston ...... 8,369 Niagara ..... 3,100 Peterboro ........... 1,906 Woodstock .....

Those who grumble at the questions of the enumerator once in ten years should feel thankful that they did not live in the second quarter of the century when from 1824 to 1842 a census was taken every year for 19 years. The first census taken with anything like modern completeness was in 1851. The population figures for 1851 are: Upper Canada ...... 952,004 Lower Canada ...... 890,261

 Nova Scotia

Some of the detail figures show up strongly against figures of the present Canada failed to make the Upper Canada in 1851 was 12,675,603, an crop was 3,480,343 bushels of wheat, advance that has been made in one line. The total exports of manufactures for all Canada in 1851 was $56,-638, while in 1900 they were valued at $13,692,000. The total acreage under crop in Ontario in 1851 was 2,274,476 acres, and in 1890, 8,753,926. In 1851 the amount of land under wheat in Ohio was 1,231,437 acres, and the crop was 14,487,351 bushels. Thus, though Ohio has a greater acreage under crop than the whole of Canada, yet the crop was considerably less than the crop in Canada. A curious feature in the report in the list of manufactures was 9,772,199 pounds of maple sugar. The other manufactures, so far as specified, were butter, cheese, cider, flannels and linen. The prices are also interesting. Wheat was worth 4 shiloats 1 shilling per bushel. wheat in 1851 were Esquesing, in the Cleveland Moffett, who feels quite at ease county of Halton, with an average of 26 bushels 35 pounds; Scarboro, York county, 24 bushels 3 pounds; Blenheim, Oxford county, 21 bushels and other followers of "Careers of Danger and Daring." These down town lunching 51 pounds. The total export of wheat and flour, computed in bushels, amounted to 10,145,081 bushels.

It will be seen that each census has increased in complexity and in exactness, and also that the science of statistics becomes constantly more interesting and more valuable. Ву means of Carefully-collected census reports the wealth of one country may be compared with that of another, and the distribution of that wealth among the different classes of the community ascertained. Attention is drawn to the great natural industries upon which all wealth is based, and by the intelligent study of these facts as presented the public no less than the statesmen can devise means, and go into those lines of work which will result in furthering the great ends of humanity, life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

The matter of meat eating is becoming an important subject for consideration. The greatly increased cost, attributed to the "meat trust," and the question of the quality of meat products as now produced, brings the subject to the attention of the people in a very practical way. If physical and mental vigor can be main-tained without the use of flesh food, then many people would greatly prefer to lessen the amount used, if not abstain from it altogether. In this manual Dr. Latson considers the matter fairly, and shows quite clearly that all the food shows quite clearly that all the food elements found in meat can be obtained by the use of other products, as cereals, nuts, vegetables, fruits, etc., avoiding the use of foods that in and of themselves are likely to be unhealthful.

The author calls attention to the fact that in the animal body there is a constant breaking down of tissue, which becomes waste matter. The flesh of the animal is laden with poisonous waste. animal is laden with poisonous waste and this taken into the human body is and this taken into the human body is a frequent cause of weakness and disease. The subject is presented in a simple and practical way, and many other in-teresting and valuable facts are presented by the writer. The booklet can certainly by the writer. The booklet can certainly be commended to the thoughtful reader who is interested.

The sale of thousands of copies of a 10-cent magazine at $1 apiece was a very curious happening at the time of the Chicago World's Fair. The Cosmopolitan prepared a World's Fair number, contributed to by many famous writers, and so theroughly illustrated that it surpassed even the most expensive book which had up to that time been issued. In those days the magazine was printed from two sets of plates only, and when these were worn out it was impossible, without a great loss of time, to put further editions on the press. The newsdealers, taking advantage of this condition, raised the price of the Cosmopolitan's World's Fair number to $1 a copy. A few sales were even made toward the close at the phenomenal figure of $5. Undoubtedly this happening is unique in the history of magazine literature. The Cosmopolitan will endeavor to repeat its past success, with a Pan-American Exposition number, which will be even more attractive, if possible, than its World's Fair predecessor.

The most famous writers of the country have been invited to take part in the preparation of this issue. After many days' careful study of all the wonderful days' careful study of all the wonderful scenes of the exposition, more than 100 photographs have been prepared, which, taken as a whole, give a thorough conception of the marvels of this exposition. It is doubtful if any book, selling at forty times the price of the magazine, will give any description of the fair which will approach in interest and artistic value the Sentember Cosmopolitan. Those who visit September Cosmopolitan. Those who visit the fair will preserve this number as a delightful reference book in the years to come, and those who are unable to go there will secure such a comprehensive view of its main attractions as will be well worthy of preservation.

The September number of the Smart Set Magazine, New York, fully sustains the reputation of that fascinating magazine for vivacity and cleverness. The number opens with an amusing novelette by Caroline Duer, entitled "A New Bonnet for Mary." The adventures of the ingenuous and unconventional hero-ine, a society heiress, who assumes to descendent of the society heiress, who assumes to ine, a society heiress, who assumes to be a dressmaker's assistant for sweet charity's sake, and dramatically assists in the recovery of a large quantity of stolen gems, are diverting to a degree. Among other articles that make up the varied contents are: "Summer Shadow-graphs," by J. J. O'Connell; "The Widow," by R. L. C. White; "Compensation," by Guy Somerville; "The Island of Love," by R. S. Powell, and "Resurgam," by E. S. Tupper.

Recent experiments with dirigible balloons, together with the interest aroused by the forthcoming competitions for airships at Paris, lead optimists to think that aerial navigation is much nearer than ever before. To these Professor Simon Newcomb's conservative article in the September McClure's Magazine, "Is the Airship Coming?" will be incontrovertible testimony in rebuttal. Looking at the question of aerial navigation both from the scientific standarding and from the scientific standpoint and from the practical standpoint, Professor Newthe practical standpoint, Professor New-comb points out the very serious diffi-culties which must be overcome. He also shows that, from a commercial stand-point, there is no demand for, or need of, transportation by airship. This he con-siders a very serious obstacle in the solu-tion of the problem. There is the he tion of the problem. There is, he be-lieves, nothing in the realization of aerial navigation to warrant an inventor's giving time and thought to the subject. He says practically, "What's the use?"

The fiction in the September Atlantic Monthly (Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boson) includes Miss Alice Brown's "His Enemy," W. R. Lighton's "Big-Governor-Afraid-of-the-Cottonwood," and Miss Virginia Woodward Cloud's "Liza Wetherginia Woodward Cloud's "Liza Wetherford." In the brilliant installment of Miss Johnston's "Audrey," the heroine has a chance to repay some of her obligations. This number of the Atlantic Monthly centains also an article on "The City at Night," by Rollin Lynde Hartt. This is a story of Buffalo and the Pan-American. The author has followed, hour after hour, from sunset to dawn, the normal work and play of the great inland seaport.

THE FLIGHT OF THE ARROW.

The life of man Is an arrow's flight, Out of darkness Into light. And out of light Into darkness again; Perhaps to pleasure, Perhaps to pain.

There must be something Above, or below. Somewhere unseen. A mighty Bow, A Hand that tires not, A sleepless Eye. That sees the arrows Fly and fly; One who knows Why we live-and die.

Thine are these orbs of light and shade-Thou madest life in man and brute, Thou madest death, and lo! Thy foot Is on the skull which thou has made, wilt not leave us in the dust-Thou madest man, he knows not why; He thinks he was not born to die; And Thou hast made him-Thou art just.

Thou seemest human and divine, The highest, holiest manhood, Thou; Our wills are ours, we know not how: Our wills are ours, to make them Thine.

Our little systems have their day, They have their day, and cease to be-They are but broken lights of Thee, And Thou, O Lord, art more than they.

We have but faith, we cannot know For knowledge is of things we see; And yet we trust it comes from Thee-A beam in darkness; let it grow.

Let knowledge grow from more to more. But more of reverence in us dwell, That mind and soul, according well, May make one music as before,

But vaster. We are fools and slight, We mock Thee when we do not fear; But help Thy foolish ones to bear, Help Thy vain worlds to bear Thy light.

Forgive what seem'd my sin in me, What seem'd my worth since I began, For merit lives from man to man, And not from man, O Lord, to Thee.

Forgive my grief for one removed, Thy creature, whom I found so fair: I trust he lives in Thee, and there I find him, worthier to be loved.

Forgive the wild and wandering cries. Confusions of a wasted youth; Forgive them where they fail in truth. And in Thy wisdom make me wise.

The Speed of Birds.

If you consult the usually accepted authority on the speed of birds in their flight you are likely to be misled by an exaggeration of from 100 to 300 per cent. This is because figures have been given on hearsay, appearance, and very superficial observation. But ache, sideache, scanty, cloudy, thick recently American, English and French and highly-colored urine, diabetes, observers have been comparing notes. and are practically agreed, after most careful calculation, on the speed of the best known birds. They started with the carrier-pigeon and have made him a base of comparison. He has heretofore been credited with 110 miles an hour, but it is now agreed that he is entitled to 50. A quite recently long distance carefully conducted test of 592 miles, from the Shetland Islands to London, showed that the most rapid pigeons made 37 miles an hour. On shorter distances none made more than 50 miles.

Because frigate birds have been seen far from land, and have been supposed not to fly by night or to rest by the water, they have been credited with a speed of 150 to 200 miles an hour. If they did fly at that speed they would have to overcome an atmospheric pressure of from 112 to 130 pounds to the square foot of flying surface. There is no certainty that they fly more rapidly than a carrier pigeon or that they do not fly at night or do not sleep or

NO CURE NO PAY

DR. McLAUGHLIN'S OFFER.

My Electric Belt is a positive cure for weakness of every kind in men and women. It gives the vitalizing power of electricity direct to all weak parts, developing the full natural vigor and strength, and removing the cause of disease. I want everyone who lacks the strength he should possess to use it, and to tell his friends of its surprising effects.

PAY WHEN

There is more in Electricity, rightly applied, than you think. It performs wonders in a broken-down man. It not only sets the wheels of health and vigor in motion, but makes a man feel so gloriously young and lighthearted that he can't help telling of it, and then paying for it comes easy. Pay me when cured—that is my proposition.

Can you ask a fairer offer than that? Will any other man take such chances on his remedy? I make you safe. You know what you are buying, as you pay for it after you are cured. How can I do it? Because I have found by experience that nine men out of ten are honest enough to acknowledge benefits received, and if the tenth man beats me I can stand it if he can. I'd hate to pack his conscience about me.

These grateful people are shouting its praise, you cannot doubt such strong proof:

Rarley, Oatmeal, Apple and Toast Water Popular Hot Weather Drinks in Britain.

Barley water has become so fashlonable a beverage that whereas it was only asked for by the delicate and the faddy till lately, and was then not made the subject of any extra charge, it is now in such constant demand that it is priced at twopence a glass, says the London Express. These are the proportions of barley and water needed to produce a good and beneficial drink: Take two ounces of barley; soak it in cold water for an hour; then throw the water away and put on the barley a quart of clean, cold water, and allow it to boil for twenty minutes. Just before the twenty minutes have expired add strips of lemon rind to the water, then strain the result and serve it. A less-hackneyed beverage, called apple-water, quenches the thirst well. Take half a dozen apples of a reasonably large size, peel, core and cut them into slices. Two fresh lemons and one ounce of lump sugar will make a pint and a half of good lemonade. Peel one lemon very thinly, so that the rind shews yellow on both sides; the white pith would give a better taste to the beverage. Peel the other lemon in the ordinary way; the rind of it will not be needed. #### THE BACHELOR AND THE FARM.

An Unaccountable Tendency Among Young Farmers to Refrain From Marrying.

[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.]

The census returns are giving rise to nuch curious discussion. They afford a text on which editorial sermons are being preached. The Hamilton Herald devotes an editorial to the statement of a Wentworth county farmer who ascribes the slow growth of the rural districts of old Ontario to the unwillingness of the young farmers to marry. He declares that within a radius of two miles from his farm there are seventeen old bachelors, each of whom owns at least one hundred acres of good land. This is a sad state of affairs, and, if it is general, it must have an important bearing on the question of population and the present census returns. And we are inclined to think that such a state of affairs is But if more general throughout Ontario than many people suppose. The Wentworth could probably be paralleled in some parts of this district. In West for instance, we have often heard it remarked that the number of old bachelors is surprising. It affects the school population-along with the tendency to small families in the present day. The difference between the number of children attending the rural ons into a jug. Many Cut Off in Early Manhood and Womanhood on Account of Neglecting to Keep Vitality at the High Water Mark.

In the factories and workshops, at the offices and stores, yes, and in the homes, too, people are being ground to death by the monotonous wear and tear of unceasing toil. Day after day, week in and week out, it is the same story of work and labor, of excessive toil and struggle, without opportunity of recreation and recuperation. In the summer, above all other times, the burden is heavy to bear, and many a victim falls by the way, overcome by nervous exhaustion, heart failure and physical decline.

It is useless to talk of rest in the cooling breeze of some lake or ocean resort. The world's work must be done. The toiler must toil on. There is one method of replacing wasted nerve cells and building up the worn-out system, and that is by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food after each meal. It gives vigor and tene to the system and prevents exhaustion and prostration. It is the friend of the working people, because it makes them strong and well and fills them with new hope, new confidence and stronger determination to succeed. When the curtain falls on the climax at the end of the act, and the play-goer either settles back to enjoy the orchestra's selection, or hastens outside to "see a man," few in the audience give a thought to the busy scene which is transpiring on the other side of the drop-curtain. Only the occasional sound of the hammer, the rumble of heavy furniture being moved, or the creaking of ropes and pulleys is heard above the strains of the music to give a hint of the hurried efforts being put forth by stage carpenter and scene shifter to prepare the stage for the succeeding act. A very small proportion of the general ting farm help, farmers who have families of their own to assist them are the the new Grand Opera House during the past few weeks would have proved of interest, for they would have witnessed the process of the making of theater scenery by Mr. Henry Drolshagen, of Detroit, an artist whose fitness for his profession is demonstrated by the admirable work done The difficulties encountered by the

The canvas on which the scene is being depicted is stretched on a frame about 28 by 42 feet in dimensions, and means of counterbalancing weights moved up and down as required by the The chief difficulty is, as may be expected, the securing of a correct perspective, while an expert knowledge of color and light and shade effects is also required. The paint used is a specially prepared water color, which dries quickly. Oil paints would be totally useless for scenic painting, which must be visible from all viewpoints and from different distances. The work of the scene painter, as viewed from the platform, is decidedly impressionistic, and one must be many yards away before the apparently meaningless blotches and dabs of color resolve themselves into the foliage, grass, water, rocks and distances of a landscape, or the curtains and other features of an interior. Thirty-six sets is accounted a full equipment of scenery, but there are few opera houses in America, outside the largest theaters in a few leading centers, which possess such an equip-ment. When complete, the scenery of the new Grand here will comprise about 28 sets, a larger outfit than that sessed by either a Detroit or oronto theater. The scenery of the trand will cost close to $3,000, and of this amount probably $200 will be for plain canvas, and more than twice that sum for wood frames, while over en miles of rope will be used in the rigging of the scenery.

The Canadian Music and Trades fournal, under the heading "Manages Many Theaters," contains the followng sketch of Mr. Ambrose J. Small, of the Grand Opera House, Toronto, who, as booking agent of the new Grand Opera House here, is an important factor in the providing of amusement for London theater-goers: Mr. Ambrose J. Small is a theatrical man of no mean ability, as the ollowing facts will show. He entered the Grand Opera House (of which he is now lessee) as a boy of 17, selling tickets in the gallery at nights, while he studied at school during the day. In a short time he became treasurer of that theater, holding the position for five years, when he went over to the Toronto Opera House in a like capacity. It was not long before he rose to be manager for the lessees, and on one partner going out was taken into the firm, styling itself as Sparrow & Small. Some few years ago he became sole lessee of that house, and last April he leased the Grand Opera House, Mr. O. B. Sheppard (the former manager) taking up the management of the Princess Theater."

Mr. Perley has completed the cast for "The Chap-erons," and finds he will have an organization even larger than was his Nielson Opera Company. As the company now stands there are eleven principals, twelve second parts, sixteen girls for special musical numbers, 40 chorus women and eighteen chorus men, making 97 people who will be seen on the stage. Among those signed is Marie Celeste, last seen here in Sousa's comic opera, "The Bride-Elect," and whose last appearance on Broadway was as prima donna of "San Toy." The Perley organization, it is promised, will contain other new principals, and only a few of the prominent members of the present company. Manager Perley finds an idle opera company, that of "The Fortune Teller," on his hands at a time when he is too busy with the forthcoming production of "The Chaperons," to let anything interfere with his plans. Mr. Perley has given out that he will take care of "The Fortune Teller" people that are under contract, but that his new opera will not be ready, perhaps, before the middle of the season. The uncertainty about when "The Fortune Teller" company would return from London effectually blocked all plans for its future. "Had it been known two months ago," says Mr. Perley, "when Mr. Musgrove would end the London engagement, Harry B. Smith and Victor Herbert, who were to write the new opera, might have gone ahead. Now neither composer, librettist nor manager can take up the work until the productions they have under way are disposed of."

Catarrh

The cause exists in the blood, in what causes inflammation of the mucous membrane.

It is therefore impossible to cure the disease by local applications. It is positively dangerous to neglect it, because it always affects the stemach and deranges the general health, and is likely to develop into consumption.

Many have been radically and permanently eured by Hood's Sarsaparille. It cleanses the blood and has a peculiar alterative and tonic effect. M. J. McDonald, Tronton, Ont., writes: "I had catarrh, my system was weak, blood was bad, and my liver torpid and inactive. I tried many medicines without benefit until I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has completely cured me and I highly recommend it to all sufferers."

BEST ATTRACTIONS OF THE SEASON.

What Springbank Park Will Have All Next Week-Closing Week of the Season -Matinee On Monday

The attractions at Springbank Park will be withdrawn after next week. As a closing and fitting climax to the varied and very entertaining amusements provided during the season, the London Street Railway will put on a big bill for next week. The list of performers, with one exception, are all well known, having already appeared at the park sometime during the season. The names of the performers are a guarantee that the week's show will be very largely patronized. Every performer has received plaudits and encores while at the park, and thousands of spectators who attended previously will be pleased to learn of their return visit. The programme as erranged consists as follows:

Walton and Jones, in a clever skit interluded with specialties. The dancing of Miss Walton and the trick cornet playing of Jones was one of the best turns of the programme during their former visit here.

Fairman will bring along several new illustrated songs. Of the similar turns that have appeared at Springbank, Fairman leads them all.

Those sweet singers, the Llewellyn sisters, return for the week. Twice before they have put in a week's en gagement. This is evidence that they are pleasing performers. A batch of new songs will be rendered.

A new act of the week, and one that promises well, is the Baker trio. Three children will sing and do several separate turns. They are appearing this week at the Avenue Theater, Detroit. Zonolia, the genteel toe dancer, who appeared at the park last week, is also on the programme. This is the most expensive list of performers of the season and every turn is a good one. On Monday a special Labor Day matinee will be given. Remember, this is the last week.

For Monday, the opening day, the full programme of special attractions will be presented in the ring together with Willis — Hassan, the head-tohead balancers.

Secretary Nelles has returned from Toronto where he secured a number of special attractions. A great drawing card for the Fair will be the picture, "Christ in the Temple," a most interesting work, and will be seen in the art gallery, on the south side of the main building, together with another work of art, "Not Guilty," by Stuart Taggart, of Ottawa. Two beautiful models of ocean steamers are also to be seen in the main building. A special effort has been made this year to secure London firms to exhibit in the main building, and the result will be noticeable to every visitor. Many manufacturers and retail and wholesale merchants, both here and elsewhere who have not participated in the Fair for years, have consented to exhibit again, and they have assured the directorate that it will not be on a small scale.

TROUBLE NEVER

Sad Case of Mr. E. Shoemaker, Who Recently Came to London-

The truth of the old saying that troubles never come singly, has been proved in a painful manner in the case of Mr. E. Shoemaker, who recently came to London from the west in the interests of Scribner's Magazine. On the journey to this city, Mr. Shoemaker left his wife at Detroit, where she stopped to visit with relatives. He had been in London but a short time when he was seized with an illness that necessitated his removal to Victoria Hospital, where he remained a week. He left the hospital, only to discover that his little daughter Dorothy, who had been left with Mrs. Chapman at 439 Dufferin avenue, was suffering from spinal meningitis. Thursday night the little girl died 'at Victoria Hospital in the arms of her heart-broken father, and Treasurer Spence says the today she was buried in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

A telegram was at once sent to Mrs. Shoemaker in Detroit. The reply that reached Mr. Shoemaker was from a physician. It contained the informatio that Mrs. Shoemaker was dangerously Bay City, Mich., Aug. 31.-George D. Trade relations cannot be compelled, but they can be encouraged by law. For example, it is now apparent to every one that if our government had fixed a reasonable duty upon timber products coming from Canada to this country, our revenues would not have een impaired, and Canada would not have retaliated by, in effect, probibiting the exportation of logs."

erican people are irrational in their eagerness for education. This is no that gives it utterance. doubt true, although as good Americans we prefer to substitute some we may be persuaded of the soundness of our individual zeal, we are too familiar with those whose views are so different from our own as to make us feel that they are very stupid or very nearly mad. It is pathetic to meet whose only idea for the education of their children is that they may have that magic gift they missed, or that their children shall not waste time in mastering what they in their idle boyhood loitered over and refused to learn. One note is constantly emergent in the speech of parents. sire that the education shall be practical. The cultivation of power is the parent's plea. Not all would limit bread and ignoble this to studies. Many want Greek and Latin in the foundation. But rare, very rare, is any plea for the beautiful presented There is scarcely any department of esthetics which makes a vigorous claim for recognition in the educational field of school or college.

It is, of course, true that there has been some professed activity in the direction of instruction by means of PICTURES IN THE SCHOOLS. But it is hard to reckon this a move in the field of esthetics, as the pictures are selected with little regard to the artistic merit of the originals, and the reproductions have generally mended themselves because of their cheapness rather than their beauty. The conscious education in the beau tiful being so neglected, it is natural to inquire what the unconscious edu-cation is. Nature has been lavish in many parts of our land. Especially in many portions of our Eastern States there is as fine scenery as can be found in any thickly settled region. Our people appreciate this, and are as much accustomed to seek the beauty of sea and river, of hill and mountain, as any other race. Among the more cultivated there is, perhaps, a greater proportion of travelers who seek the grand and the lovely in nature than is to be found in any are vast sections of our great continent which are flat and monotonous and without the stimulus which the variety and richness of natural scenery affords to the esthetic faculty. And when we turn from nature to the work

The small ler towns are too commonly marked by the extreme prominence of the country tavern with its conspicuous bar room and livery stable. The more pretentious buildings such as churches, school houses and court houses are almost invariably without a single mark of esthetic purpose not a line has been studied with regard to any other line, not a proportion given a moment's consideration. Columns many kinds are used without the remotest conception of the laws which govern the construction of such sunports, whether mechanical or esthetic. And from house to house colors flame forth in youth brought up in the midst of such surroundings? There is no model for the carpenter's, or the blacksmith's apprentice to form his future on. There is no suggestion to lift the mind of any child to a recognition of beauty of form or of color.

Most of our great cities are over-grown towns. They have much that is purpose to go in search of it; but very little which is so related to the life of the people as to afford an unconscious What is true in this material side of life is true also of intellectual ten-lencies. In speech there is little recognition of the fine phrase. No Ameri can audience waits upon the honeyed lips of the orator as the Athenians did in ancient Greece, or the Parisians do in modern France. Except in very small circles there is little appreciation of the exquisite in form or and our speakers increasingly content themselves with a blunt and rugged style, full of vitality and replete with but as transient as the breath

What is true of oratory is as true of music. The other word for irrational. Yet however STANDARD OF MUSICAL TASTE in the country at large is astoundingly The musical instruments tha are in demand illustrate this on the one hand, and the terrible wave of "rag-time," which lately swept over the country gives it emphasis. It is not necessary to speak of painting and sculpture. These great arts scarcely touch the average American. They are significant only for the more cultivated few who are not under con-We stand at a critical point in our history as a people. highly cultivated taste, but of inferior The great AGE OF THE RENAISSANCE not only wrought marvels for its own men and women, but transmitted posterity the monuments of its love for he beautiful. Every traveler in Southern Europe knows the subtle charm in the campanili and the colonnades which so often meet his eye. How noble are the proportions of youder tower on the hill, how graceful the iron work i the gate of the neighboring monastery On every side appear the memorials an age whose every art and craft be informed with a beauty locked hands in an age-long clasp with itility. Even today, after centuries of decay, the carpenter fashions his col umns and pilasters after models transmitted from Greek and Moorish originals through generations of Italian and Spanish artisans; and the smith toiling at a primitive forge cannot quite es ape the gracious beauty of his surroundings

Do we not need more definitely to recognize the importance to us as a pec ple of fostering in our manual training schools the knowledge of the principle of beauty, and of establishing trade schools in which our youth can be taught to appreciate and produce beau-tiful fabrics? The existing schools scarcely seem to appreciate portance of a systematic and thorough training in the fundamental princip and they certainly are wanting in any real enthusiasm for the bighest eraftsmanship. No doubt the American spirit which makes youth eager to ge to the top-not of a chosen calling but of a series of callings-enters in as a disturbing force. The well taught car penter's apprentice aspires to be a contractor or an architect; the successful sign painter becomes a fourth-rate portrait painter. The great lesson of cessful industrial artisanship, the lifting of the craft to an untouched level, goes unlearned. This important field ought not to go which drove the members of a party to the point of preparing to become cannibals. Brown relates that George Dean, Jack Huston and Joseph Thierry, prospectors, started several months ago from their camp on Portage Creek in an endeavor to reach civilization. 22 days they subsisted on snails, grass, roots and the eggs of wild fowls. Finally Dean became sick and died of starvation. The day after Dean's death. Louis Reich and George Wood, prospecting in the neighborhood, discovered Huston and Thierry, who had cut flesh from the body of Dean, and were about to cook it. The rescuers were

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—Except for very good butcher cattle, of which there were not more than two or three loads in the market, trade was off in every class at the cattle market today. Export dealers were not buying, owing to a shortage of shipping space, and no outgoing vessel is in immediate prospect. Prices, therefore, were weak, and drovers had to sell at a disadvantage. Of choice quality butcher cattle there were not enough to supply the demand for the local trade. Light export shippers, therefore, had to be picked up, thus accounting for the fact that in some instances the wholesale butcher paid as much as $4 80 to get what butcher paid as much as $4.50 to get what ing to give that figure as a fair quota-he required, though it would be mislead-ing to give that figure as a fair quota-tion for butcher cattle. Stockers were selling at $2.50 to $3.40, those at the latter figure being good-sized cattle, weighing 900 lbs. The sheep and lamb trade was very dull, about 300 lambs being left un-

The reason assigned for the company's failure is the over-expenditure on plant

PIET DELAREY A PRISONER

Escaping hurriedly, the Boers marched northwest towards Transvaalkrantz, but, hawklike, Capts. Nickalls and Sandeman were watching their movements, and during the night moved north from Steynsburg, while Col. Crabbe, whose force had by this recovered from its fatigue, marched northwards from the western spur of the Zuurberg. Col. Gorringe also continued the pursuit, and CAUGHT UP THE ENEMY on the following afternoon in the Doornkloof Mountains. Kritzinger himself just managed to escape. Col. Gorringe, however, still followed the spoor, while Col. Crabbe moved to Tygershoek, and Capt. Nickalls and Sandeman extended their forces with a wide front towards Venterstadt, in order to prevent the enemy breaking It was intended that this driving line, by the gradual closing in of its rough crescent formation, should finally take the form of a circle; but on the morning of the 15th Kritzinger, accompanied by remnants of his force, numbering about 100 men, crossed the Orange River at Frank's Drift. The enemy were vigorously shelled from the top of a small kopie on the north bank of the river. Many of the enemy were on foot, and all appeared to be thoroughly demoralized.

DIFFICULT TASK ACCOMPLISHED The expulsion of Kritzinger's force from the colony, which was one of the objects of Gen. French's movements, was thus accomplished. Only those who know the difficulties of the country, which are intensified for the British by the absence of local informa-tion, owing to the disaffection of the majority of the inhabitants, can appreciate the magnitude of the task. While it is always possible that Kritzinger may return, it is considered un-likely that after this first experience of a really hard pursuit he will attempt to re-enter the colony unless he is able to gather together a greater force than before.

THE BRAVERY OF A JAILER'S DAUGHTER

Prevents the Escape of Thirth-three Prisoners, Five Charged With Murder.

St. Louis, Aug. 31. - A daring attempt to deliver 33 prisoners from the Madison county jail at Edwardsville was made last night by James Johnston, a man under indictment for the murder last summer of James Ryburn, a citizen of Alton. But for Katharine Holz, the daughter of the jailer, the attempt would have proved successful. As it was, 17 of the 33 prisoners, among them five alleged murderers, managed to escape from their cells into the main corridor of the jail, and there kept the sheriff, his deputies, Turnkey Threadley and a large number of citizens at bay for three hours.

The fire department was finally called in, and after turning on half a dozen streams of water, the prisoners cried for mercy. They were then handcuffed and returned to their cells.

How to Feel Right

One must needs have a clean and sweet stomach. Parke's Lithiated Fruit Granules sweetens the stomach and stimulates, the liver and kidneys to a healthy action. A teaspoonful in a glass of water makes a pleasant drink and carries away the poison which causes headaches, neuralgia and rheumatism. Large bottles, 25 cents. Sold by Cairneross & Lawrence.

One way of keeping out of trouble is not to give advice. When in Rome most people, are done as the Romans do them.

IT NEEDS NO TESTIMONVAL.—It is a guarantee in itself. If testimonials were required they could be furnished in thousands from all sorts and conditions of men in widely different places. Many medicines are put forth every year which have but an ephemeral existence, and then are heard of no more. Dr. Thomas' Eelectric Oil has grown in reputation every day since it first made its appearance.

"Then you shall have a brace. You shan't accept them; but I will send them, all the same, from the Hon. Richard Hammond to Miss Carew—that's my dear old dad you know."

Hammond to Miss Carew—that's my dear old dad, you know."
"Yes," said Elsie, demurely.
She felt safe, secure, and happy, walking side by side with handsome, reckless Owen Hammond, whom she admired as being "splendid looking," manly, and possessing an honest, sympathetic and most intelligent face, with something perhaps wanting in it—some force of will or singleness of purpose, some calm philor singleness of purpose, some calm philosophy of judgment.

osophy of judgment.
"The tramps were right, then, after all," said Elsie, when Owen Hammond led the way through a little iron gate which opened through the fence into the thick wood. said," she continued, "there was a path through the wood which was a short cut to Allanbury."
"The scamps!" cried Charlie Hammond, locking the little gate and putting the key in his pocket. "How did they know anything about our park? They could not open that gate."
"They leaned over the fence from Paky.

open that gate."

"They leaped over the fence from Raby Manor into the road!" said Elsie.

Both the brothers stood still in anger and amaze. The game-preserving instinct of the aristocratic English landowner was awake in their hearts.

"I shall set Roberts on with the dogs tonight!" said Owen, hotly.

"Don't you think game ought to belong to everybody, Mr. Hammond?" asked Elsie. "I think so."

"Why, Miss Carew! Should our houses and plate belong to everybody?" and plate belong to everybody?"
"Game," said Elsie, resolutly, "is different. Wild birds—poor, pretty creatures—and hares and rabbits, ought to belong to the poor, who want food, more than to the poor, who want food, more than to the rich."

"Ah, Miss Carew, when ladies begin on public questions I always get out of the argument as quickly as possible; I should have not chance with you. Only suppose all the tramps and scamps had the right to come into our woods and shoot our birds—why, they would kill them all in a week."

"I suppose they world," said Elsie. "I did not mean that, exactly. I should not like your beautiful woods spoiled; but still, it seems a selfish thing for a few people to hold all the best and richest lands among themselves. I wish things were more equally divided in this world," "I wish they were—life is full of intertion." wish they were-life is full of in-

There was a passionate ring now in the young man's voice. Elsie wondered what it meant. He seemed dissatisfied about something or about somebody. "Perhaps he is in love." thought Elsie, "in love with some great lady whose parents don't consider him rich enough to be her husband. If I were a great heiress I would like to marry him—at least, somebody like him, as frank, and manly, and brave, and with just such kind, bright eyes; and I like him better as he is—a poor gentleman of noble family—than I should like him rich, and prosperous, and arrogant. Prosperous, prosperous, and arrogant. Prosperous, rich people are arrogant, I think!"

As Elsie thought thus she sighed a little quick, pitiful sigh, that came from her young, warm heart. Owen Hammond heard it, and wondered who she was sighing for. He wished it could be his own especial individuality.

own especial individuality, his very pleasant and good-looking self, that she was thinking of.
"She has the sweetest little face in Christendom!" the young man said. "I have always said so (to myself) when I have seen her sitting up primly in church have always said so (to myself) when I have seen her sitting up primly in church with that little close, poke bonnet on her head, and her face inside it like a rose or a lily in a flower-basket. She is to be thinking of some ideal hero doesn't exist. There are no heroes! Perhaps it's a curate She looks good, like one who would carry packets to the poor and think a curate with spectacles and a lisp was a saint! I ought to wish you a merry Christmas, Miss Carew!"

have one, Mr. Hammond. Where do you propose spending it,

"At Coome Hill House," she answered, quickly. "Oh. please, don't talk any more about it!" she went on, hurriedly. "It will go past like any other day; it can't last for ever," she continued, laughing a little nervously, "so I will try to forget it as quickly as I can; but I hope I shall not be left quite alone the Christmas Day after next!"

"Alone at Coome Hill House! By Jove! you don't mean that you are alone there?" Well, there is the housemaid, and the boy who cleans the knives and opens the door; he wears a blue coat and buttons then, but now he is busy in the gardenhe looks after the poultry, and so on. I don't often talk to him."

"You are left alone at Coome Hill House to spend Christmas with two servants, and nobody else in that great rambling barn of a place? What a murderous shame!"

They were pained, naturally, at my wishing to spend Christmas among gay, cheerful young persons, whose connections 'wore the trade mark,' as Aunt Jahanna calls,' they their hard. She gave me yards of good advice, and now she is gone off to spend her Christmas at Cannes, on account of Aunt Fanny's asthma." "At any rate," said young Hammond, armly, "I should say that you were warmly, "I should say that you were lucky in escaping the society of such an old lady as this abominable old aunt

MATCHES.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 31.—The National Rifle Association of America began a ten days' shooting tournament on the New Jersey State camp ranges at Sea Girt yesterday. Two matches of international character will be decided before the close of the meeting. The special challenge match at 800, 900 and 1,000 yards between representative teams from the Ulster Rifle Association and the world's the race, at a distance of a mile, championship team contest, for which Michael won by almost a lap. The sec-Rifle Association and the world's only two teams have entered, making it a match between Canada and the United States. Yesterday the Ulster men and several of the American shooters, from whose ranks Gen. Bird an exhibition mile against time on W. Spencer will elect the N. J. R. A. motor bicycle. Time, 1:38. F. G. Vanteam, monopolized the long ranges, beginning at the 800 yards ranges and going back to the 900 and the 1,000 by W. L. Losee yards, each man shooting eleven times at each distance. At 900 yards John Morgan, of Ireland, scored 10 successive bullseyes, and out of his first 23 shots he made 20 bullseyes at 800 and 900 yards. When each side had finished the round of the three distances, Mergan had 135 points out of a pos sible 150, and Robert Duncan, another Ulster man, had a similar score. There was only a light wind in evidence while the men were firing over the shorter ranges, but when they began at 1,000 yards there was a fitful, puffy wind, which bothered them, and the scoring became irregular at this distance. J. R. Williams, of Belfast, made the top score of 45 out of a possible 50, and his total for the three ranges was 134. The next best work done was that of Major J. K. Miller, whose name has been identified with international rifle shooting since 1874, when the Irish team first visited Creedmoor. Among the American representatives who participated in the long range work were Dr. Holmes, William Dev Foulke, Capt. Whittaker H. M. Pope, and many other members of the New Jersey Rifle Association. They all acquitted themselves creditably. None of the scores of the American contingent were made known but it was generally understood that

THE FINAL TRIAL RACE. Newport R. I., Aug. 31.—The final series of races between the Constitution and Columbia will begin over the Newport courses today. Of all the contests that have taken place between the American boats this season, these are the most important, for on their result depends the selection of the defender to sail against the Shamrock II. in the great races for the America's cup, off Sandy Hook. Out of sixteen races already finished, each boat has now eight, and so close are the two in the matter of speed that many good yachtsmen say that whatever the outcome of the trials, it will still be a hard task to choose between them. At the finish of the trial races next Wednesday, the regatta commit-tee will turn over to the challenge committee the data regarding all the races between the Constitution and the Columbia. Both racers are at their moorings in the harbor, fit for the fray. The Constitution has been put in the best possible trim by none other than her designer, Nat. Herres-hoff, whose illness has hitherto prevented him from devoting much time to the boat. The new boat was given a trial spin down the bay yesterday, and the sails had a good stretching. The head stays which slackened where the boat was hauled out were also set taut and all the rigging was given a thorough overhauling. The Columbia was given final touches, and both Detroit boats are now ready to show the best speed there is in them. Sir Thomas Lipton, owner of the cup challenger, will be a spectator of the race on Mon day. He has accepted an invitation to be the guest of Commodore dedyard at dinner on Monday, and the event will be made the first official welcome to the British yachtsman by the officers of the New York Yacht Other guests will be the owners of the Constitution and Columbia.

CRICKET.

SAWBONES WON. The "Sawbones" and "Jawbones" played a game of cricket at the Asylum grounds yesterday, which resulted in favor of the former by the following score: Doctors, first inning, 66; second inning, 62; total, 128. Lawyers, first inning, 58; second inning, 54; total, 112. The lawyers threaten to issue another challenge to the doctors.

THE WHEEL.

MICHAEL BEATS TAYLOR. New York, Aug. 31.-"Jimmy Michael broke the indoor bicycle record behind motor pace for two miles at the Madison Square Garden track last night and defeated "Major" lor in two straight heats in their match race. Michael covered the two miles in 3:10%. In the first heat of ond heat, at two miles, Michael finished over a lap ahead of Taylor. Henri Fournier, winner of the automobile race from Paris to Berlin, rode cott won the half mile, open, amateur, and the half mile, handicap, was won

GOLF.

SMITH BEATEN. Chicago, Aug. 30.-Bruce D. Smith, who broke the record for the course in the qualifying round in the Glenview golf tournament, was defeated yesterday in the quarter mile finals of the championship by Abram Poole, jun., of Onwenantisa, by one up. Poole will meet William Holabird, jun., in the finals today for the championship. A. C. Hibbard and Louis Allis, both of Milwaukee, will fight it out tomorrow for the second cup, both players having won their matches in the semifinals today. Hamilton Vose will meet William Waller, of Onwenantisa, in the finals for the look-in cup. For the championship the following was the final score: William Holabird, jun., Glenview, defeated Walter G. Eagen, Onwenantisa, by 1 up in 19 holes; Abram Poole, jun., Onwenantisa, defeated Bruce D. Smith, Onwenantisa, by 1 up.

TURF.

CRESCEUS FAILED. Providence, R. I., Aug. 31.-Cresceus failed to lower the world's trotting record in his start against time at Narragansett Park yesterday afternoon. His time was 2:05 flat. The attempt to break the record was not made until six o'clock when the wind had died down. The track was smoothed over and was in the best of shape for the champion's footing. He scored down once, but did not get a good start. The second time down George Ketcham nodded for the word, but Cresceus went off his feet in the stretch and they came down once more. A runner followed and a hundred watches were snapped on the great chestnut stallion as he shot under the wire. He got to the quarter in 31½ seconds, where a second runner joined and took up a position a length behind the first. The half was reached in 1:021/4, and the three-quarters in 1:841/2, and hope of breaking the record was gone, but Cresceus came home strong between the two runners, making the last quarter in 301/2 and the mile in 2:05 flat.

Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister, saw the great mile from the judges' stand. There was a good card of events and a crowd of people, making the last day a huge success and bringing a notable meeting to a close. Dan Patch, 2:04½, the unbeaten son of Joe Patchen, 2:01¼, took the first race, the 2:08 pace, in straight heats, and Mazette ferced him to make the first in 2:041/2, but the next two were easier. LAWN TENNIS. THE NIAGARA TOURNAMENT. Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., Aug. 31. The Niagara international tennis tournament was brought to its final stages yesterday on the course of the Queen's Royal Hotel. As the previous matches had weeded out all the poor players, yesterday's matches being of high quality, brought large crowds mer resorts. The tournament, it is expected, will be concluded today with all the finals and the championship round in the men's singles. Men's open singles, final round-E. P. Fischer, New York, beat Robert Leroy, Columbia, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2. Men's handicap, singles, second round—H. H. Hackett, owe ½-30, beat H. E. Avery, owe ½-15, 6—1, 4—6, 6—1. Semi-final round—H. H. > BLAZE NEAR CHATHAM. Chatham, Ont., Aug. 31.—The dwelling of Geo. Rosbourgh, Harwich, and the barns, farm implements, crops and stock, were destroyed by fire Thursday night. About $150 in cash was also lost. Farmer Accas Wright yesterday lost wheat, 500 bushels of oats, and a quantity of hay. Insurance and loss not known. The origin of both fires is a mystery.

> MAN MISSING. Ottawa, Aug. 31. — Thomas Eversion, late secretary and acting treasurer of the local Machine Woodworkers' Association, has been away for four weeks, and none of his friends know anything of his whereabouts. Eversion is an Englishman and has no relatives in Canada. He left his boarding house on Aug. 3, wearing his working clothes, but did not go to work, and has not been seen since. A day or two before leaving the city, Ever-sion, it is said, broke off his engageto a young lady with whom he had been keeping company. PROPHETESS CREATES PANIC. Chicago, Aug. 31.-Mrs. Mary Lark, a negro prophetess, caused a stampede in the African Methodist Church in Galesburg, Ill., the other evening. She had been appealing fervently to a large congregation to repent of their sins. "I foretell," she screamed, "the destruction of Galesburg in the near struction of Galesburg in the near future." As she said this a vivid flash of lightning dazzled her audience, which was already highly excited. The entire congregation broke for doors and windows and in five minutes not

$4,500 FOR HIS LEG.

Toronto, Aug. 31.-Justice Falconbridge yesterday gave deferred judgment confirming the verdict of $4,500 damages obtained by Harry Myers, a boy, and his father, J. W. Myers, for the loss of the lad's leg while working for the "Soo" Pulp and Paper Company. The company, the judge finds, neglected to have the machinery that took off the boy's leg properly protected.

About Molina Rolled Wheat, we make this simple statement—It is a wholesome breakfast food, made from white Wheat thoroughly cleaned, partially cooked and therefore easily digested and it will fully substantiate this claim.

If your washing medium does that, what matters its cheapness or its working power? Is it safe? That's the first thing. Some imitations of PEARLINE are not safe. They eat the clothes, slowly, but surely. Don't experiment. You are sure of PEARLINE; stick to it; it is standard, tested, proved, by years of use and millions of women.

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are troubled with this disease—many unconsciously. They may have a smarting sensation, sharp, cutting pains at times, weak organs, and all the symptoms of nervous debility—they have STRICTURF, Don't let doctors experiment on you by cutting, stretching or tearing you. This will not cure you, as it will return. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT absorbs the stricture tissue, hence removes sorbs the stricture tissue, hence removes the stricture permanently. AMUSING MUNICIPAL SCENE. A rather amusing scene took place at a meeting of Dundee town council last Thursday in connection with one of the members, Mr. High, divesting himself of his coat after the meeting was constituted. No direct attention was paid to Mr. High, while he remained sitting, but on his rising to address the council shortly after the business began, he was greeted with laughter, and Mr. William Brownlee, rising to a point of order, asked if Mr. High was in order in appearing in a state of undress. He added that he had been a long time a member of the council, but he had should like to know where this was to end. If the coat came off first, what was to come off next? (Great laughter.) Mr. High proceeded to address the council minus his coat, although asked by Lord Provost Hunter to resume that garment, but, after he had concluded his speech, he complied with the request of his colleagues by again donning his coat.

HOW TO BUILD A BODY. One of the most important discoveries of late is the application of the right kind of food to rebuld the lost substances of the body, thrown off by the active, nervous work of Americans. Careful investigation by experts in food and diatetics, has brought out the fact that albumen, which is contained in various foods, is acted upon by the phosphate of potash, not such as obtained in drug stores, but such as is found in certain parts of the field grains in most minute particles, arranged in Nature's laboratory, not man's. The part of the grain containing the phosphate of potash is used in the manufacture of Grape-Nuts Food, therefore the active, nervous, pushing brain worker can feed the body with food that goes directly to the rebuilding of the broken down gray matter in the brain, solar plexus and nerve centers all over the body, with the results that the individual who refreshes and rebuilds the body with proper material of this sort, obtains a definite result, which he can feel and know of, and which is apparent to his friends A vigorous brain and nervous system is of the greatest importance to any business man, or brain worker. Wilcox goes to Aberdeen school in place of Miss Robertson. Miss Mc-Connell, to King street, in pdace of Miss Spence. The committee decided that if the teachers did not comply with the regulations in this respect by Tuesday next they would not be permitted to take their classes.

A Business Education.

How to best give our children a business education is a much debated question. We know of no better start in life than a thorough knowledge of shorthand. It brings the young man in closer contact with the head of the firm, and if there is any special talent it is seen and appreciated. There is no better profession for young women; the hours are short and the work light. A course in the Western Ontario Shorthand and Business Academy, 76 Dundas street, will qualify you for a situation, and every pupil of this academy is placed in a situa-tion. Seventy-five have already been placed this year. This academy is thoroughly up to date. Mr. Coo and Miss Morphy, the principals, visit the leading schools in the United States every year, and if there is anything new they know it. ### OPINION ABOUT

No. 1 Committee Sends Matter to City Council Without Comments.

The finance committee last night sent considerable correspondence, re trading stamps, to the city council, naking no recommendation. The opinion of the city solicitor that he doubted if the council had power to pass a prohibitory bylaw, to take effect before Jan. 1 next, was sent to the attorney-general's department, and the following answer was received:
"I do not think," he said, "that the municipal council has any power to postpone the coming into force of a bylaw, except in the case of bylaws creating debts, and in that case the power is specially conferred. If a bylaw is passed prohibiting the use of trading stamps, its going into effect will be postponed by force of the provisions of the municipal amendment act, 1901. I am of opinion that they can pass the bylaw now, but it does not become operative until after Jan. 1 next. There has been some correspondence with reference to stating he case as to the constitutionality of this provision. I think it may be well for your council to postpone action for a few weeks until it is ascertained what other municipalities are doing." The contract for the printing was awarded to A. Talbot & Co.; the bookbinding to Reid Bros., and the advertising to The Advertiser. The questions of the proposed Wellington and South street belt were laid over, and a number of minor tax remissions granted.

AN HISTORIC EVENT.

Is the Visit to Canada of the Great Westminster Abbey Singers. The coming to Canada of the singers representing a great English cathedral choir is an event of such unprecedented rarity and interest as to be properly considered historic. West-minister Abbey is the scene of all great national ceremonies which require the seal of the church. The members of the Westminster Abbey Choir, who are to be heard here on the evening of Friday, Sept. 6, are all well-known artists of high rank and renown, while the boy sopranos possess the most beautiful and remarkable voices. The Davis, is recognized as possessing the finest soprano of any boy in Great Britain. A delightful programme of glees, madrigals, part songs and choruses with several solos will be presented. Madam Marie Hooton, a well known contralto, accompanies the choir party as lady vocalist.

WHEN THE DUKE COMES TO CANADA

What Troops Will Form the Guard of Honor -Official Programme May Be Late.

Quebec, Aug. 31.-The guards of honor on all occasions while the roya party will remain in Quebec will be furnished by the city garrison troops. They will be divided up between the Royal Canadian Garrison Artillery, 8th Royal Rifles and 9th Battalion There will be five guards of honor, which will on all occasions be composed of 100 men, rank and file, in command of a captain. The first guard will be at the landing of the government wharf, where the royal party will arrive from the Ophir; the second one at the citadel; the third drawn up in front of the Provincial Government buildings. The fourth will be at the citadel on the day of departure, and the fifth at the railway station. The Queen's Own Canadian Hussars will compose the escort on the day of arrival and departure of their royal highnesses and the Duke of York Regiment of Cavalry all the traveling escorts. Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 31.-Major-General O'Grady-Haly will command in the Toronto and Quebec reviews in connection with the welcome to the Duke of Cornwall and York. It is not probable that the official programme for the royal visit will be issued until after the Ophir has pass-ed Ascention. It is understood that the programmes from various places which have been cabled to the Duke have been productive of apprehension lest the people of the Dominion should overwork their illustrious guest during his visit and give him no time for rest.
