Germans Find Canadians Accurate With Big Guns

GERMAN SUBMARINE TORPEDOES TWO BRITISH SHIPS

CANUCK ARTILLERY DOING GREAT WORK

Marksmanship and Behavior Under Fire Reaches High Standard.

DRIVERS LIKE VETERANS

Coolly and Skillfully Handle Their Horses in Hot Actions.

[Special Cable to The Advertiser.]

London, March 17.—In a long account of the work of the Canadian artillery received at this office today from one serving with them, the correspondent writes: "We are now right in business. Our guns have been busy nearly a fortnight. You will be pleased to hear they are performing splendidly. Firing is continuous and heavy night and day. It did not take our gunners long to remove any misconception which the Huns may have possessed with regard to the efficiency of Canadian artillery. Everybody in fact is surprised at the excellency of the work; that is everybody except those who really knew of what our gunners were capable. Not only is their marksmanship excellent, but the behavior of the men is splendid, too. They go about their work as calmly and methodically as any veterans. Fire from German guns does not disconcert them in the least.

Drivers Complimented.

"Drivers, too, were complimented upon the cool, purposeful way they ran the guns into position. It was the first time a great majority of them had ever been in action, but the control they maintained over their horses was magnificent. There was no excitement, no chaos, just well-ordered manoeuvre, as though we were still on Salisbury Plain. All criticism levelled at Canadians as to lack of discipline is receiving an answer now, for here, right in the thick of the fighting, there is no better disciplined man in the whole British fighting force. Though a Canadian has no love for ceremonial and finds it difficult to digest

ENLISTED BECAUSE HIS BOAT WAS SUNK BY RAIDER "EMDEN"

Advertiser Illustrations.

PTE. WILLIAM JAMES, C Company, is more than anxious to strike a blow at the Kaiser. He lost everything last fall when the Emden crew deliberately sunk his steamer, the Van Dyke, near Montevideo. Pte. James has, although only 20 years old, been shipwrecked three times. His father is captain of the White Star liner Laurentic.

DEAD PILED HIGH IN STREETS OF ST. ELOI

Bodies Served As Barricades For Living—Germans Gained By Force of Numbers At First, But Bayonet Charge Took Village.

[Canadian Press.]

London, March 17.—The Daily Mail's correspondent wires from Rotterdam:

"The German wounded who have arrived at Bruges declare that desperate fighting continues southwest of Ypres. The fight for St. Eloi was bloody and determined. Every cottage was a fort, and every corner a deathtrap. The dead were piled so high in the streets that they served as barricades for the living.

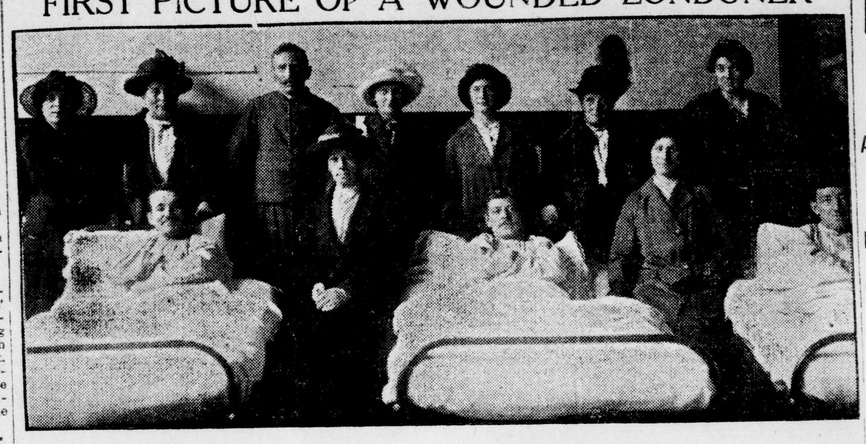

"The Germans, strongly reinforced by fresh troops from Bruges, advanced from Zillebeke and Hollybeke, converging in great strength on St. Eloi. The British fought stubbornly against heavy odds, being, however, well supported by their artillery, which was placed on a small hill near Helmet.

"The Germans were mowed down in swathes, but the sheer weight of numbers prevailed.

Triumph Short-Lived.

"The British fell back to the protection of the small canals. The Germans' triumph was short lived, for British reinforcements were hurried up and flung themselves against the village, which was carried at the point of the bayonet. The slaughter was terrible. The Germans, undaunted, summoned more troops, who were billeted in surrounding villages, and for two days the battle raged around St. Eloi hill."

FIRST PICTURE OF A WOUNDED LONDONER

Advertiser Illustrations.

The above illustration, taken from a photograph made in a military hospital in Cardiff, Wales, is the first one received in this city showing a Londoner wounded in the great war. The hospital cot on the left is occupied by James Beadle, 725 Maitland street, this city, a British army reservist, who was one of the first in this city to respond to the call to the colors, and left immediately war was declared.

While fighting with his old regiment, the Essex, he was shot below the knee in both legs. A few weeks ago he was transferred with his wounded comrades-in-arms from the base hospitals of France to Cardiff, where he is now in the hospital on the occasion of one of the daily visits of the Women's Soldiers' Visiting Club of the city. It was received by his wife today, and is the first of its kind to come to this city.

Pte. Beadle is rapidly recovering from his wounds, and expects to be back on the firing line before long to have another go at the German invaders.

Aside from its interest in showing a wounded Londoner, the picture strikingly illustrates the interest taken in the old land in the wounded heroes of Britain. In Cardiff, as in every other hospital city, clubs have been organized to pay daily visits to the soldiers, and by little home comforts and cheerful conversation brighten the lives of those who have given their blood for "KING and COUNTRY."

TWO BRITISH STEAMERS HIT

Atlanta and Fingal Torpedoed, Latter Sinking, With Six Lives Lost.

MINE-SWEEPER BLOWN UP

Athens Dispatch Says British Boat Was Destroyed In Dardanelles.

[Canadian Press.]

London, March 17—12:45 p.m.—Official announcement was made today that the British steamers Atlanta and Fingal had been torpedoed.

The text of the communication follows:

"The British steamer Atlanta, 519 tons, owned by J. and P. Hutchison, of Glasgow, was torpedoed by a German submarine off Inishturk, on the west coast of County Galway, Ireland, about noon of March 14. The crew was landed on Inishturk Island, and the vessel is now in the harbor."

Fingal Sank.

"The British steamer Fingal, of 1,562 gross tons (661 net tons), owned by the London and Edinburgh Shipping Company, of Leith, Scotland, was torpedoed and sank at 10:50 a.m., March 15, off the Northumberland coast. Twenty-one members of her crew were landed at North Shields, but six lives are reported to have been lost, including the chief mate and the stewardess."

BOAT WAS FOULED.

North Shields, Eng., March 17—The survivors of the Fingal were landed here today. They declare that the casualties on board were due to the fact that the vessel went down before the starboard boat could be freed. The Fingal, as she sank, dragged this boat underwith her, leaving the occupants, including the captain, struggling in the water. The port boat picked up the captain and several others, but six men lost their lives.

The Fingal was proceeding in a northerly direction with fine weather, when she was struck by a German torpedo. She at once began to settle, and went down quickly.

MINE-SWEEPER GONE.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, March 17.—A British minesweeper was blown up in the Dardanelles yesterday, with the loss of several lives, when a mine exploded as it was being removed from the straits, says a special dispatch from Athens.

PRZEMYSL GIVEN ONLY A FEW DAYS

Russians Expect To Capture Fortress Near Point of Starvation.

SPRING CAMPAIGN BEGINS

Never Before Such Continuous Activity Along the Whole Front.

[Canadian Press.]

London, March 17.—The Petrograd correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Company says that the capture of the Austrian fortress at Przemysl is considered in the Russian capital as a matter of a few days only.

Austrian soldiers captured by the Russians during unsuccessful sorties say the garrison is existing on famine rations, and that the hospitals are crowded.

The Austrian fortress at Przemysl, in Galicia, has been described as one of the strongest positions held by the troops of the dual monarchy. It has been besieged since the early weeks of the war, and never for a moment has the Russian cordon been relaxed.

SPRING CAMPAIGN OPENS.

Petrograd, March 17—12 (noon)—Via London, 2:55 p.m.—Active encounters of considerable strategic importance along the 600-miles front constitute, in the opinion of military authorities here, the beginning of the spring campaign. These engagements are spread along the line from the River Niemen in the north, through Russian Poland and eastward through Galicia to the River Dniester. Never before in the history of the war in the eastern theatre has there been such continuous activity along the whole line.

Success at Stanislau.

In the Carpathians, the Russians appear to have been successful in turning the Austrian right flank south of Stanislau, in a spectacular battle. Half-buried in snow, which in places was over the heads of the combatants, the Russians rushed the Austrian fortifications near the village of Tarnowice. Abandoning the customary military formations, they scrambled as best they could through the drifts, sometimes strung out in Indian file, sometimes almost losing touch with each other. They succeeded, however, in reaching the fortifications in sufficiently good order to take the Austrians by surprise and possess themselves of the stronghold in a short time, capturing a large number of prisoners and guns.

Expel Enemy From Eastern Galicia.

This movement was followed by a general flanking operation which drove the Austrians from the Dniester. The Russians now hope to expel their opponents from East Galicia.

An encounter of equal strategic importance occurred between the Uzsok Pass and Turka, in Galicia, to the north of the pass, in which the Russians captured trenches and seized railroad communications.

In the north, between Credno and Selny, Russian cavalry which has been operating in this district for several days, has been supplemented by several infantry divisions. Along the River Orzyc, which has been one of the principal routes of the German advance from East Prussia, the invasion appears to have been checked effectively by the Russian capture of the important and heavily-fortified German position at Yednorozec.

The bombardment of Ossowetz still continues. Heavy artillery firing along the Bzura indicates a reawakening of German activity on the Warsaw front.

BELGIANS CAPTURE GERMAN POSITIONS

Take Farm and Trenches On Pervyse-Schoorbakke Road.

FURIOUS BOMBARDMENTS

Enemy Shells Nieuport, While Allied Ships Are Pounding Westende.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, March 17.—"The enemy is again furiously bombarding Nieuport, this time with 16-inch howitzers," says an undated message from the Petit Parisien's war correspondent, who adds: "Thirty shells have fallen in the town, making enormous holes and demolishing several buildings, but no one was hurt.

"Belgian troops, profiting by a slight recession of the waters in the district they occupy, carried two German advanced positions. The first was on the Kloosterhoek farm near Stuvekenskerke, while the second was a line of trenches on the road from Pervyse to Schoorbakke.

"Warships and monitors of the Allies vigorously bombarded Westende.

"The Germans replied feebly, but none of their shells took effect. Torpedo-boat destroyers protected the bombarding ships, shelling a German submarine which attempted to approach. The fire against the shore positions was directed by aeroplanes."

VICTORIES WILL BE SIGNIFICANT

Interest Centres On Battles in the East and West Fronts.

[Canadian Press.]

London, March 17.—Neuve Chapelle and St. Eloi in the west and Przasnysz and Przemysl in the east are the pivots of the battle areas in which struggles that may mark milestones in the war are now being fought.

The outcome of the fight for Neuve Chapelle, from which the British have driven the Germans with a loss of nearly 20,000 men, should prove, according to the opinions of British observers, whether the Germans can mass men and retrieve ground lost by them with the same battering tactics they displayed last year.

On the other hand, if the British can hold the positions gained by them, it will go far toward attesting what may be expected when the Allies begin their spring advance.

The outcome of the battle of Przasnysz will demonstrate whether Field Marshal von Hindenburg again has failed and virtually nullified all his costly efforts to reach Warsaw.

Report Unconfirmed.

London has received no confirmation of the report that the British cruiser Amethyst has penetrated the Narrows of the Dardanelles as far as Nagara, and unless the destruction of the forts has been more rapid than officially has been reported, such a feat is regarded as unlikely. Nagara is the northern limit of the Narrows, to reach which a ship would have to run the gauntlet of the forts on both sides at ranges varying from 900 to 2,000 yards.

Calls For Big Attendance

Mayor H. A. Stevenson, who was instrumental in arranging the big reception to citizens at Carling's Heights on Friday afternoon, is anxious that as many residents as possible should put in an appearance at the grounds.

Lieut.-Col. Wigle, commanding the 18th Battalion, has stated that he will make the afternoon interesting, and a program is being arranged.

The newly-organized band of the battalion will be present, and many patriotic airs will enliven the afternoon.

Some tactical manoeuvers, which the 18th will execute, will be found most interesting, and will give citizens some idea of the movements of troops in actual warfare. It is likely that a sham battle on a small scale will be staged on the heights.

Lieut.-Col. Wigle also announced today that arrangements had been completed for the bringing of the Stratford 28th Regiment Band here to parade with the 18th Battalion at this public reception.

CALLS BECK'S ACTION "PETTY POLITICAL TRICK"

Ald. George H. Haney So Characterizes His Opposition To Stockyards—Wanted Them On L. and P. S. and Fought Against Bill For That Reason.

Characterizing Sir Adam Beck's opposition to the stockyards scheme as a "mean political trick," Ald. George H. Haney, chairman of the special stockyards committee of the council makes no bones about the way he regards the action of the private bills committee of the Ontario Legislature in striking out the clause of the city of London bill authorizing the council to expend $7,000 in the purchase of land and the construction of buildings for a municipally-owned stockyard.

"It was simply petty politics on the part of Beck to knock it," said Ald. Haney today. "Someone whispered in the ears of the city members from Toronto, and they, too, fell in line and registered their opposition.

L. and P. S. R. Reasons.

"When the clause was under consideration yesterday, some of the committeemen at the rear of the room called out 'Carried! carried!' Immediately the city members objected, and Sir Adam was forced to make an explanation. This he did, claiming it was a new venture, and should have the support of the people. Later he told me why he knocked it—because the stockyards were not to be located on the London and Port Stanley line.

"As I told him then, and as I told him before, the stockyards must go on a trunk line. I showed him how easy it would be to run his electric road to the stockyards.

"Another statement made by Mr. Beck was that the city should go into the packing house industry at the same time. I do not agree with him in that respect. There is plenty of private capital to go into the business, and run it, provided they can secure a supply of cattle, and that is what we propose to insure for this city."

Rushed $60,000 Through.

"Sir Adam took good care to rush his own $60,000 through. If I had wanted to I could have objected on the grounds of a technicality. He got the stockyards measure left over to the last, and went around and talked to some of the members, men who are pledged to stand by the Toronto stockyards, and, of course, they voted against it then. I think Sir Adam did this simply because we did not go to him and kow-tow to him to get the measure through, and it was pretty small business for him to do it."

Planning For Vote.

Plans are already being matured for the vote on this stockyards question in June, and Ald. Haney and others will see to it that the case is presented fairly to the people, and that every opportunity will be afforded for the ratepayers to familiarize themselves with the benefits that are claimed to follow the introduction of such an industry in this city.

DESCRIBES FEAR SHELLS INSPIRE

First Experience Leaves Men Afraid, Says Londoner's Brother in Letter.

MOCK HEROICS USELESS

Only Service in Trenches That Makes Soldiers Indifferent To Artillery Fire.

Honor and glory, bravery uncelled, a do-or-die spirit, heroics and a few things of like ilk are popularly supposed to be synonymous with a soldier's life in the trenches of Flanders and France, but James Adams, a brother of George Adams, 34 Wyatt street, this city, makes no apologies for wishing he was home when he saw a German shell come screaming over his head and burst near him.

James Adams enlisted in the A. M. C. of the first contingent at Kingston, and describes his experiences in the trenches in the following letter to his brother here. The letter was written under the date of February 25.

"I have been away for a week up to the firing line, so excuse me for not writing before this. We are at present in a schoolhouse which we are using as a hospital.

A Lucky Escape.

"The other day, as I was walking through a village, a shell burst near me, but nothing came my way. It killed two horses and wounded a man so I was lucky to escape. The sound of these guns gives me a sore head.

"We get good food here, that is much better than we expected.

A Warm Welcome.

"Some of the Canadians went into the trenches and somehow the Germans got to know it. They gave them a royal salute and a rifle fire as welcome.

"As I saw this shell, in the distance, coming over, I wished that I was back in Kingston, but when we go to the firing line for good, I will be much more used to them than the other fellows, so I am prepared to take what comes.

Mock Heroics No Go.

"I can tell you it's no good for a fellow to go into the firing line and see and hear the shells and then come and say he was not afraid. You are naturally inclined to feel a little afraid at first, but you get used to them and so in time you don't mind them at all.

"I was only ten yards from the British guns, and to hear them go off is no fun, but to look at the British gunners you would think they were merely playing with the Germans. I can tell you the whole thing is terrible.

"I will let you know all the news when I write again.

"Your brother,

"JIMMIE."

CITY WAR FUND SEEMS PROBABLE

Mayor Stevenson Preparing Scheme To Provide For Contingencies in Connection With the Local Overseas Units.

In accordance with the editorial suggestion of The Advertiser, it is altogether probable that the city council will undertake to provide a contingency fund to be used for military units gathered in this city.

Mayor Stevenson pointed out today that the training of the volunteers in this city meant the expenditure of more than $200,000 each month, which in a year would reach the enormous total of $2,400,000.

"We would quickly give $200,000 or $300,000 to an industry that would provide as many well-paid men, said the doctor.

"You must remember that the men are boarded and generally provided for in the city," he added. "This means that there are large purchases of supplies. I am told that one grocery firm receives about $20,000 a month from the Government.

"I am thoroughly in accord with the spirit of your editorial. It is not that we wish to give some return for the money spent alone, because I believe citizens are ready to do more than their share if there was never a cent of benefit. But we can thank the soldiers for the extraordinarily good business merchants of all kinds are doing. It is a good stimulant for business.

"I do not say that the city should give $100,000, but we should be ready to provide any necessities that have not been provided. I have a scheme which will be brought forward at the proper time. I am sure the aldermen will be in accord with it."

GENEROUS RESPONSE TO 18TH'S APPEAL

Stratford Latest City To Give $750 For Travelling Soup Kitchens.

Lieut.-Col. Wigle today received $750 more from Stratford towards the soup kitchens required for the 18th Battalion. Similar amounts were received from Chatham and Leamington, and $500 from the local D. O. E. Lieut.-Col. Wigle stated today that Windsor will give $750 also. The collection is now being made there. The 7th Regiment has given the battalion one entire soup kitchen, and with the money coming in as it has there will soon be enough to secure the other two.

PRISONER COLLAPSED

Mrs. Angle, on Trial for Manslaughter, Soon Recovered.

[Canadian Press.]

Bridgeport, Conn., March 17. — Mrs. Helen M. Angle, on trial for manslaughter, collapsed today during a recess of the court, her strength giving way under the ordeal of the cross-examination.

She is charged with having caused the death of Waldo R. Ballou, in Stamford last June.

Mrs. Angle revived shortly, and was on the stand at noon recess. It was expected that her cross-examination would be completed during the afternoon.

Houghton, are still in quarantine, and will be kept isolated for the rest of the week.

GAVE UP PAPERS TO NEW YORK EDITORS

Steamship Company Manager Had Stegler's Passport and Letters.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, March 17.—Frederick G. Behle took the stand today as a Government witness in the trial of Richard Madden and Gustav Cook, charged with aiding Richard Stegler to procure a false American passport.

Behle corroborated Stegler's testimony that Stegler had met Cook in Behle's room and that he (Behle) had stepped out of the room while the other two were discussing the matter of getting the papers necessary to procure Stegler a passport. Behle also testified that he heard Cook and Stegler talking about getting the passport, in a Hoboken cafe.

Edouard D. Harrington, manager of a steamship company, testified that Stegler had turned over to him, for safe keeping, the false passport, the birth certificate alleged to have been procured by Madden for Stegler, three letters introducing Stegler to persons abroad, and two letters and telegrams addressed to Stegler. Harrington said he turned the papers over to the editor of a New York evening paper and subsequently to an editor of a morning paper.

He denied that he had demanded money for the use of the papers.

Prosecution Rests.

The Government rested its case today, and George E. Cutley, for the defence, addressed the jury. He said that he would prove that Stegler never saw Madden in his life, that Madden, Cook and Stegler were never together, that Madden had procured the birth certificate in order to get a passport for himself, and that the certificate had been stolen from him.

VALI OF SMYRNA'S ERRAND WAS FUTILE

Dispatch Says Bombardment Was Interrupted While He Boarded British Flagship.

[Canadian Press.]

London, March 17.—The Central News publishes a dispatch from its Athens correspondent, who says that Vali of Smyrna went on board the British flagship after the bombardment of that Turkish port, and held a conference with the British commander, during which the shelling was suspended. No agreement was reached, and the Vali, on landing, gave out a proclamation, saying he would resist to the end.

All subjects in Smyrna of countries hostile to Turkey have been interned, the correspondent says.

SOLDIERS RUSH TO NIAGARA DISTRICT

But Movement Is Only Test, Not Due To an Invasion.

[Canadian Press.]

St. Catharines, March 17.—What is termed a tactical concentration is taking place in the Niagara district this afternoon. It is a test to see how quickly troops could be mobilized to defend the Niagara Peninsula against an attack of an enemy. All the soldiers have been rushed to a given point, and in fact the whole military organization put into action.

The movement of troops caused the usual stories of a German invasion by way of Buffalo, and the newspapers' telephones were kept buzzing answering inquiries by alarmed folks. One detail of today's manoeuvres consisted all the automobiles in St. Catharines being sent on a prearranged plan to a given point to convey imaginary troops to the border.

MANY VETERANS COMING

Banquet of 7th Northwest Force Will Be Large One, It Is Expected.

Preparations for the reunion to be held in this city on April 7 by the 7th Regiment Northwest Rebellion Field Force Association are nearing completion. The reunion has been held every five years for many years.

It is expected that this year, although many of the veterans of the rebellion who served in the ranks of the 7th have passed away, the attendance will be large. Letters are received daily from veterans far and near by the secretary of the association, Captain Frank Butler, promising to be on hand to meet old comrades.

Lieut.-Col. A. M. Smith is the honorary chairman. The banquet will be held in the Tecumseh House on the anniversary of the home-coming.

READING MATTER WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD

Canadians Need Tobacco, Pipes, Socks, No Woolen Comforts.

[Special Cable to The Advertiser.]

London, March 17.—We have been asked to notify the societies working for the Canadian contingent that most kinds of extra woolen comforts will not be required much longer, as supplies in hand are likely to meet the demand. Socks, however, are always required, also colored handkerchiefs, tobacco, pipes, games and newspapers.

The War Contingent Association here is sending over frequent consignments to all sections of the Canadian forces in the field, also to those sections still in England.

Concerts, which have been so popular at Salisbury, are to be continued at Shorncliffe.

A Canadian officer, writing from the front, apropos of the last batch of magazines sent out, says they are almost worth their weight in gold. Twenty-five sacks of Canadian newspapers were sent last week.

CARRANZA TO HELP

Will Co-operate In Aiding Americans Leave Mexico City and Taking in Supplies.

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, March 17.—Consul Silliman, at Vera Cruz, reported today that General Carranza had agreed to co-operate in providing transportation for Americans and other foreigners wishing to leave Mexico City, and to facilitate the transportation of Red Cross supplies to the Mexican capital.

Similar assurances of co-operation have been received from the authorities controlling Mexico City.

ALARM AT PROGRESO.

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, March 17.—Foreigners at Progreso, alarmed by disorders in the city, have asked for refuge on the American cruiser Des Moines. Gen. Carranza, however, after conferences with United States naval and diplomatic officers at Vera Cruz, has promised full protection for them.

"DOWN WITH AUSTRIA": "DOWN WITH GERMANY" SHOUT THE ITALIANS

[Canadian Press.]

PARIS, March 16.—The Havas Agency received today the following dispatch from its correspondent at Milan:

"There was a great demonstration here last night in favor of intervention by Italy on the side of the Allies. Crowds of manifestants marched through the streets and gathered in front of the cathedral. The Republican deputy, Eugenio Chiesa, made a speech to the crowd in front of the Chamber of Commerce.

"The police charged and dispersed crowds which were shouting: 'Down with Austria!' Down with Germany.'"

AUSTRIA UNWILLING TO GRANT DEMANDS OF THE ITALIANS.

ROME, March 16.—The political pressure on the Italian Government to pledge Italy's course in the future, either to the empires of central Europe or the Allies has been augmenting for some time, and is today believed to have reached its climax.

According to thoroughly reliable sources of information, Prince Von Buelow, the German ambassador, has given formal assurances that Germany will be able in the end to overcome the resistance of Austria and induce Vienna to concede to Italy the territorial concessions demanded, together with a free hand in Southern Albania. In addition, the central empires would further Italy's ambitions in the eastern Mediterranean. The German diplomat pointed out furthermore that the marine supremacy of Great Britain and France would have the effect of crushing Italy.

Allies' Arguments.

Representatives of the Allies' in their negotiations with the Italian Government, have presented the matter in quite a different light. They have united in saying that the defeat of Germany and Austria-Hungary is inevitable even without the participation of Italy. In case Italy refrains from taking part, she will receive nothing from the Allies when the settlements are made. They advance the further argument that with the conclusion of peace, or shortly thereafter, the separation of Hungary from Austria is quite to be expected. This would lead to the absorption of the Austrian provinces of German nationality by Germany and the consequent extension of German dominion to Triest, which thus would forever be lost to Italy. In addition, Italy would be forced to abandon Avlona and the Aegean Islands.

Difference Is Great.

What is believed in high quarters to be an authoritative outline of the territorial demands of Italy and the position of Austria in regard to them, was obtained today. The difference between the Austrian and Italian points of view as thus indicated appears to be so great that persons in authority see no likelihood of an agreement. The concessions which Austria is believed to be willing to make are insignificant as compared with the demands of Italy.

FUGITIVE PRIEST CARRIES FORTUNE IN JEWELS TO N. Y.

NEW YORK, March 16.—A king's ransom in jewels, blazoned in the royal eagles of Spain at the time Charles V., most powerful monarch of the sixteenth century, ruled Castile, Aragon and the German Empire, lies under guard at the customs house here, awaiting appraisal.

The gems, set in gold on white and purple robes and mounted on two golden crowns, were brought into New York by a Catholic priest, clad in shabby clothes, who fled from Mexico City a month ago, made his way to Vera Cruz, and sailed aboard the steamer Montevideo. The Montevideo reached New York March 6 with this priest and six other fugitive priests who had been banished from Mexico by General Obregon, Caranza's lieutenant at Mexico City.

From the depths of a battered suitcase the gems and robes were tumbled out upon the dock for inspection by the customs authorities. They so dazzled the inspectors that they were hastily put back into the suitcase. Under guard, they were taken to a safe deposit vault where they were locked up and special guards put over them. Rough estimates placed their value at from $300,000 to $500,000.

Meantime, the priest who brought the gems and robes into the country, is waiting without divulging his identity, for the appraisal.

The Supreme Test of a Healing Agent

Psoriasis or Chronic Eczema Defied All Treatment Until Dr. Chase's Ointment Was Used.

After suffering with the terrible itching of Psoriasis for five years, and being told by physicians that she could not be cured, Mrs. Massey turned to Dr. Chase's Ointment and was entirely cured.

MRS. MASSEY

You will find this letter interesting, and will not wonder that the writer is enthusiastic in praising this ointment.

Mrs. Nettie Massey, Concession, Ont., writes: "For five years I suffered with what three doctors called psoriasis. They could not help me, and one of them told me if anyone offered to guarantee a cure for $50.00 to keep my money, as I could not be cured. The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I am glad to say I am entirely cured, not a sign of a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise this ointment enough."

Can you imagin a more severe test for Dr. Chase's Ointment? This should convince you that as a cure for eczema and all forms of itching skin disease Dr. Chase's Ointment stands supreme. Put it to the test. 60c a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

BORDEN DOWN TO PARTY POLITICS

His Speech Pure Campaign Work From Start To Finish.

SIR WILFRID REPLIES

Says Sir Robert Told Him That This Was To Be a War Session.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, March 16.—Yesterday Sir George E. Foster made a speech marked by high statesmanship. Today Sir Robert Borden spoke and talked party politics; there was nothing but recrimination in his speech from the opening to the close. It was pure campaign work and contained the threat of an election.

The Premier opened with bitterness. Sir Wilfrid's reference to the failure of the Canadian Government to follow the examples set by the British Government of consulting the Opposition, had evidently stung him. Premier Borden said that the Monday before the day the session opened, he had communicated to the Opposition leader the general program of the Government as far as he could foresee it, with the exception of the financial proposals, which could not be disclosed. At the conference Sir Wilfrid had promised to transmit to the Government the Opposition program. But so far, "I have not received a word from him."

Called It a War Session.

At the close of the speech Sir Wilfrid replied briefly to this, saying that the Premier had come to him and told him that this was to be a war session, and confined to war legislation, that there would be measures for further appropriations for war to indemnify the Government's action regarding Dominion notes and further war tariff changes. "I told him that we were quite satisfied with any legislation for advancing the cause of the war, and that if there was anything else to be brought up on our side of the House apart from the war, I would give him notice. Nothing else has occurred." That, Sir Wilfrid intimated, was the reason there had been no communication to the Government. "If the Premier suggests that the Opposition was consulted, as the British chancellor of the exchequer consulted the Opposition leaders in the British Houses," said Sir Wilfrid, "I can only say that he is absolutely mistaken."

Criticizes Amendment.

Almost at the opening of his speech Sir Robert declared that the Liberal amendment to the tariff resolution was a want of confidence motion, and that the proposals of the Opposition leader were merely negative, he believed, they amounted to a declaration that Canada should not take her fair share in the war. There were cries of "No" and "Shame" from the Liberals, and applause from the Government side at this statement. The Liberal leader, said Sir Robert, had attempted to arouse feeling in this country which would set class against class at a time when there should be harmony. He had charged the Government with being unfriendly to the mother country in the addition of five points duty against British goods. The answer to this charge was that in the tariff changes of 1907 the Liberal Government had amended the British preference so that it was less advantageous to the mother country than it had previously been. He censured and denied Sir Wilfrid's charge that the new taxation proposals of the Government was a free trader out of office, and a protectionist in office; that he had a free trade leg and a protectionist leg to hop on. Sir Robert repeated the argument of Sir George Foster, that under the new tariff the British manufacturer had been given increased preference because the duties had been raised only five per cent against British while they had been raised seven and a half per cent against foreign goods entering Canada. He frankly declared that the tariff increases were for the purpose of giving the manufacturers more protection, and said that unless the people wanted to see the Canadian factories closed in large numbers there had to be additional protection given at this time. Revenue had to be raised and to raise it the Government had to borrow or to tax; the more they taxed the less they would have to borrow.

Sir Robert declared that the action of the Liberal majority in the senate in killing the Government naval bill had given great satisfaction to the Germans, and quoted a Hamburg paper to that effect.

Sir Robert's Flop.

That in England the Opposition had really been consulted by the Government in regard to all legislative proposals was declared by Mr. F. B. Carvell, who followed. It was not to be wondered that the Premier was troubled as to the navy, after subscribing to a Canadian navy in 1909 and killing it in 1911, and in substitution proposing a gift of money for ships which would not have been completed until this war was ended. If the Government had exercised economy it could have paid for the Transcontinental and the Hudson Bay railways out of the surpluses which the Liberals had left to them; if they had shown reasonable economy they would not have to impose fresh taxation now. No one could doubt that the tariff changes were for the purpose of increasing protection and not for raising money. How the tariff increases would operate in regard to boots and shoes showed this. It was estimated that in Canada everyone spent about five dollars a year on boots and shoes, which made the total expenditure of the Canadian people on this account about $40,000,000. About five million dollars worth were imported, so that the Canadian manufacturer supplied about thirty-five million dollars worth a year. The seven and a half per cent increase in duty would enable the Canadian boot men to increase the price of their product so as to take two and a half million dollars more from the people, while the treasury would be receiving an additional revenue from the extra taxes on imported boots and leather of not more than $600,000.

The Liberals were willing to vote a hundred millions or a hundred and fifty millions for war with unanimity, but where the Government made war the excuse for other things there would be criticism.

ASSOCIATED PRESS FREED OF BLAME

No Violation of Federal Anti-Trust Act, Says Attorney-General.

SUN COMPLAINT QUASHED

Associations Have Right To Refuse Services To Other Papers.

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, March 17.—Attorney-General Gregory has written a letter addressed to James M. Beck, counsel for the Sun Association, disposing of the complaint against the Associated Press for alleged violation of the federal anti-trust act made by the New York Sun Printing and Publishing Company.

The Attorney-General's letter, dated March 12, makes known that there is no ground for action by the federal authorities against the Associated Press under the anti-trust act.

The Attorney-General's letter is the result of a petition filed on February 3, 1914, by the Sun Printing and Publishing Association, asking the Attorney-General to make an investigation and then to institute proceedings against the Associated Press.

Associations Legal.

The chief point of interest in the Attorney-General's letter is his statement as to the right of a group of newspapers to form an association under given conditions, as follows:

"Assuming that the kind of service in which the Associated Press is engaged is interstate commerce (a question not free from doubt), I am nevertheless of the opinion that it is no violation of the anti-trust act for a group of newspapers to form an association to collect and distribute news for their own benefit, and to that end to agree to furnish the news collected by them to each other, or to the association, provided that no attempt is made to prevent the members from purchasing or otherwise obtaining news from rival agencies.

Corollary True.

"If that is true, the corollary must be true, namely, that newspapers desiring to form and maintain such an organization may determine who shall be and who shall not be their associates.

"This, of course, is not to say that such an association might not develop into an unlawful monopoly. The facts adduced, however, in my opinion, do not show that that has happened in the case of the Associated Press."

The complainant states that last Saturday afternoon, when leaving one of the amusement houses for home, she was followed by the accused men, whom she alleges, pursued her upstairs to her rooms and forced an entrance. The men will get a hearing on Tuesday, the 23rd inst. They were let out on bail.

The case has created considerable excitement.

Suffered Intense Pain In Her Back

Could Hardly Do Her Housework.

If a pain attacks you in the back "stop and think" what it is and what causes it.

If the kidneys are at fault—and in a large majority of cases of pain in the back they are—doctor them at once, and doctor them persistently, as it is impossible to have a well, strong back unless the kidneys perform their functions properly.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all forms of kidney trouble, and cure them to stay cured.

Mrs. H. F. Jacob, Lavant Station, Ont. writes: "I take pleasure in telling you how much good your medicine has done me. I had suffered from intense pains in my back and was so bad I could hardly do my housework. My kidneys were also bothering me a great deal. I tried several kinds of patent medicines and was almost discouraged, and was looking for some other kind of medicine to try when I noticed your advertisement of Doan's Kidney Pills, so I thought it could not hurt to try them. I noticed a great difference when I had used one box, and to my great relief when I had used three boxes I was entirely cured, and I have not been bothered since. I will not hesitate to recommend them to all I know."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c a box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering direct specify "Doan's."

THIN PEOPLE CAN INCREASE WEIGHT

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with ten or fifteen pounds of healthy "stay there" fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good test worth trying. First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story, and most any thin man or woman can easily add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but, mixing with your food, it turns the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten into rich, ripe, fat-producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepares it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. All this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol stops the waste and does it quickly and makes the fat-producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive.

Leading druggists in London and vicinity sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back. Mr.

Just One Application and the Hairs Vanish

(Toilet Talks.)

Any woman can keep her skin free from unsightly hair or fuzz if she will follow these simple instructions: When hairy growths appear, apply a simple paste, made by mixing some water with powdered delatone. Apply this to fairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a harmless treatment, but be sure you get the real delatone.—advt.

THREE SOLDIERS GOT TUBERCULOSIS

Result of Having Their Feet Wet in Their Defective Boots.

EVIDENCE FROM CAPTAIN

First Footwear Received by Halifax Men Soon Wore Out.

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, March 17.—Captain Kaiser, of the 63rd Regiment, who had presided over a board of inquiry into the boots on McNab's Island, Halifax, on September 29, was the first witness called at the resumption of the parliamentary boot inquiry this morning. He testified that the boots which had been part of an issue of Gauthier boots had been served out on August 14, and had worn out under fairly heavy service, including trench digging, in two or three weeks. The chief cause of complaint had been the soles. He had gathered from some of the men that they appeared to have burned their boots.

The witness said that a second issue of boots received on October 12 had proved satisfactory and, though they received harder service than the first ones, had caused no complaints. He had complained of the boots long before this issue was made, as many men were going around day and night with bags tied around their footwear.

"It's a wonder some of them didn't die," said Hon. Charles Murphy.

Soldiers Bought Boots.

Capt. Mumford, president of another board of the 63rd, which sat on September 29, gave somewhat similar evidence. The first issue of ante-bellum Gauthier boots had worn out in two or three weeks—his board having rejected 15 pairs—as they seemed not heavy enough for trench digging. A second issue in October had proved quite satisfactory, especially as this gave the men two pairs, and as dubbing had been provided for them. The witness stated that some of the men had purchased privately, for $3.65, a black boot made according to the militia pattern, which seemed more satisfactory.

Some Tubercular Trouble.

In reply to a question by Mr. Murphy, he stated that three men had suffered with tubercular trouble as a result of getting wet feet. However, he added, any man on outpost duty had to take this chance in sleeping out with wet feet.

Capt. Forbes, president of another board on McNab's Island on September 29, and Capt. William Taylor, president of a board at York Farm Camp, on September 30, both stated there had been many complaints of the first issue, and none of the second. Capt. Taylor said that if two pairs of boots had been issued to each man in the first place there would not have been nearly so much complaint.

Delay Due to Red Tape.

Col. Seeley, of Fredericton, president of a board which on September 31 inquired into boots served previously to the 23rd and 24th Batteries, stated his board had recommended oil-tanned larrigans, as the boots had admitted water very readily. There had been no new general issue of boots before his battery had gone to Salisbury.

Major F. W. W. Doane, quartermaster of the 63rd Regiment, was recalled and testified that although he had put in a requisition for new boots in September they had not been supplied till February. He supposed the delay was due to red tape.

Should Be Waterproof.

Major MacKenzie, president of a board which inquired on December 21 into boots issued to the 26th Battalion, second contingent, at St. John, and which had condemned the boots as containing "rubbish leather" and being of low military standard, stated, though Mr. Pringle quoted military authorities to the contrary, that he considered a military boot should be a waterproof one, even for marching. Some of the boots had worn out in two weeks. Witness had not considered whether the boots had been burned by their wearers; that was a new idea.

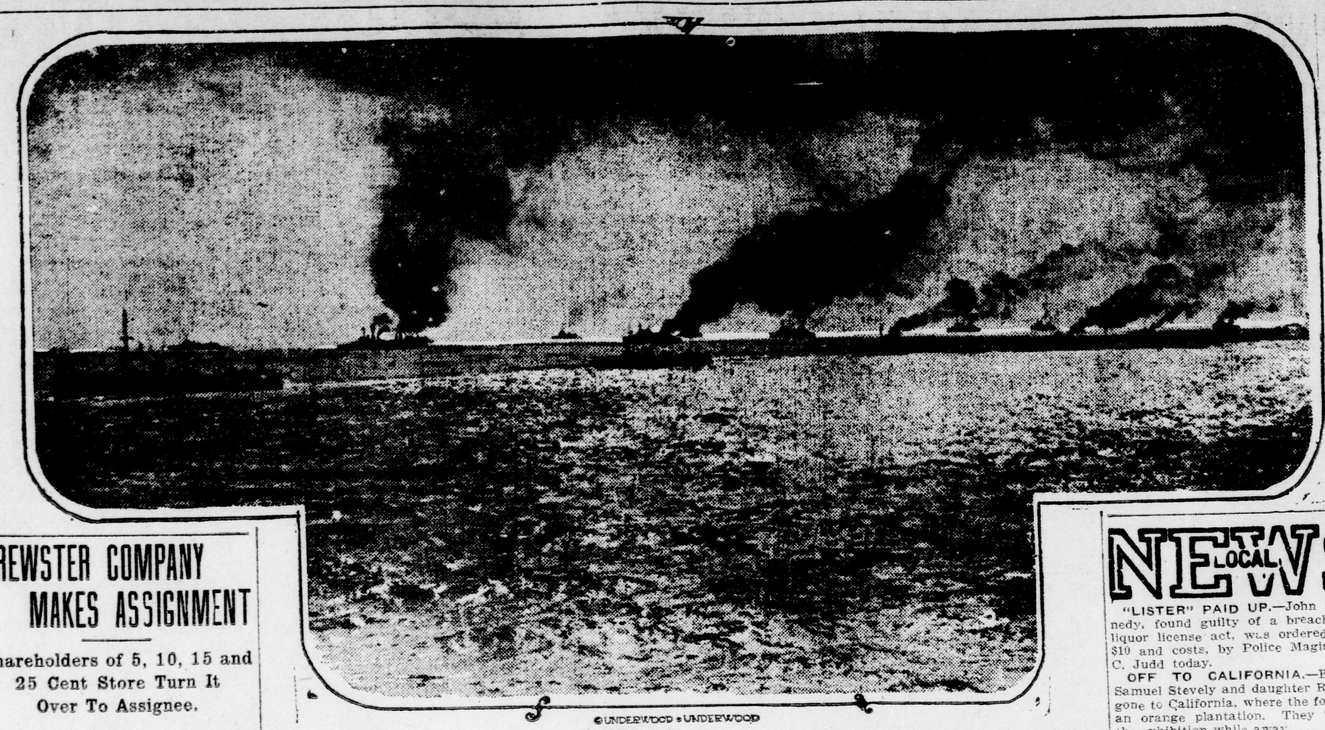

Wanted New Boots.

He did not think burning was the case in regard to the boots he had examined. He thought the heels had been filled with rubbish leather; however, he had not inquired particularly as to why the boots wore out. They had worn out, and he had been anxious to get them condemned, so as to be able to take the men on parade with decent boots. Some 169 pairs had been condemned, their owners meanwhile not being able to drill, and had afterwards been repaired, he thought. The boots had been examined on the men's feet, and the evidence of the men wearing them had not been taken under oath.

Sir James Aikins examined the witness as to his qualificattions as a judge of footwear. It was brought out that Major MacKenzie had no experience of military boots till last September.

The committee then adjourned till this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

BREWSTER COMPANY MAKES ASSIGNMENT

Shareholders of 5, 10, 15 and 25 Cent Store Turn It Over To Assignee.

Shareholders in the Brewster's, Limited, 5, 10, 15 and 25 cent store made an assignment of the business in the county court today. The assignee is Henry Macklin.

George M. Reid, the president of the concern, would make no statement regarding the failure. The assignment was handled by the firm of Gibbons, Harper & Gibbons, barristers, who also refused to divulge any of the affairs of the company at present.

C. G. Lewis is the secretary, and J. S. Friery has been the store manager.

Misfortune has followed the business, which was started in St. Thomas a number of years ago, since it has displayed the name of J. G. Brewster, the organizer of the original store. On the day of its opening in London, the store collapsed with Reid's Crystal Palace, killing a number of people who were inside and walking by on the sidewalk. Mr. Brewster retired from the business several years ago, and he is not a stockholder at present.

Several years ago the store was almost totally destroyed by fire.

VETERAN CONDUCTOR DIES

Sam McGaw, of Pere Marquette, Succumbs to Auto Accident.

Another veteran conductor of the London district has made his last run.

Word was received at Grand Trunk headquarters today of the death in the Walkerville Hospital, of Sam McGaw, a veteran conductor of the Pere Marquette, and one of the best-known railroaders who ever ran a train in this district. For more than a quarter of a century he ran from Walkerville to London, and it was only the result of an auto accident that caused his retirement from the service and ultimately his death.

Some weeks ago Conductor McGaw was struck by an auto in his home city, and both legs were broken. He never recovered from the accident. The dead veteran of the rail was known as the "black-gloved conductor." Because of an affection in his hands he wore black gloves the year round.

P.S.C. BOYS ASK FOR ENGLISH SPEAKING DOG

French Poodles Decline To Stay With Contingent From This City.

The following letter has been received by a member of The Advertiser staff from B. L. (Loudy) Kerr, with the A. S. C., at Quebec:

The London boys of the Army Service Corp would like you, through the columns of your paper, to ask the citizens if some of them would send a dog as a mascot. We have had two dogs, but the dogs will not stay with us, as they don't understand English. What we wish is a dog of any kind.

Our crowd is showing up wonderfully, and our training will soon be over. We expect to sail any time now; have all our equipment for overseas. The boys are keen for Lieut. Millar, who has not onerlooked any bets for us.

On Sick List.

Frank Hodges is on the sick list at present, and many of the boys are indisposed, owing to a terrific sleet storm which laid all the power lines low for over a week, and for five days our quarters were without heat, owing to the foregoing.

Our corps is made up of men from Winnipeg, Kingston, Toronto, Ottawa and London, and it is a select crowd. The recruiting officers in these centres sent the best men. A regiment of French-Canadians arrived here Saturday to train for the overseas forces. Another regiment is expected tonight.

Given Great Treatment.

The citizens of Quebec are according us the best of treatment, and the man who is not connected with the army in some way is not very popular. There are about 3,500 men of different units here. We anxiously look forward to the arrival of The Advertiser here, and each man waits his turn, as we only get one copy. Best regards from the London boys to The Advertiser and staff. Yours sincerely,

B. L. KERR.

ROUGH RIDING

Mounts' Heels Play Tatoos on Legs of C. M. R. Men, But No Bones Broken.

Several of the 7th C. M. R. men were painfully injured today by being kicked in the legs and hips by their mounts. Very few of the horses are shod, to prevent injury to the men. Had the horses been shod, today, in almost every case, the men would have received broken bones.

There are now 1,800 horses for the various troops being looked after at the fair grounds.

SEVEN YEARS PAIN FROM ACUTE NEURALGIA

Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Neuralgia is not a disease—it is only a symptom. It is the surest sign that your blood is weak, watery and impure, and that your nerves are literally starving. Bad blood is the one cause—good, rich, red blood its only cure. There you have the real reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure neuralgia. They are the only medicine that contains, in correct proportions, the very elements needed to make new, rich, red blood. This alone reaches the root of the trouble, soothes the jangled nerves, and drives away the nagging, stabbing pain, and brace up your health in other ways. Mr. M. Brennan, an ex-sergeant of the 2nd Cheshire Regiment, now a resident of Winnipeg, Man., says: "While serving with my regiment in India, on a hill station, I contracted a severe cold which brought on acute neuralgia, at times lasting for three weeks. I was constantly suffering almost every month in the year for over seven years, the pain being sometimes so severe that I wished I was dead. On my return to England I seemed to get no better, though I spent large sums of money for medical advice and medicine. Then I came to Canada, and about a year ago saw the advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in a Winnipeg paper. Although I had begun to think my complaint was incurable I told my wife that I intended giving the Pills a fair trial. I was suffering from terrible pains when I began taking the Pills, but before the second box was finished the pain began to disappear, and under a further use of the Pills it disappeared entirely, and I have not had a twinge of it during the past year. Only those who have been afflicted with the terrible pains of neuralgia can tell what a blessing Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been to me, and you may be sure I shall constantly recommend them to other sufferers."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

GOOD CHARACTER HELPS

Reduces Sentence of Young Cat Thief to Thirty-Day Term.

On account of his previous good character, Albert Swanwick, charged with the theft of oats from Francis E. Dale, Westminster Township, was given a short term of 30 days in jail but Judge Edward Elliott today.

Swanwick is an orphan and many persons for whom he had worked spoke well of his character at the trial on Monday. A button torn from the fur coat he was wearing on the night of the theft led to his arrest.

Answering an appeal to have Swanwick let go on suspended sentence, the judge declared that the sentence was as lenient as he could possibly make it, but that the evidence of crime was too strong to disregard the actions of the young man.

PERSONAL MENTION

Calvin Connor and Mrs. Herbert Leonard have returned to Detroit, after attending the funeral of the late Wm. McKay, of Westminster Township.

Why Try to Fool Your Stomach?

Some folks have an idea that if they eat big meals, their brains and bodies will be strong.

Strength and energy don't come from gorging the stomach, but depend upon eating the right kind of food.

For nourishment of brain and body, Nature abundantly supplies in her field grains the elements needed.

The famous wheat and barley food

Grape-Nuts

contains in splendid proportion all the nutriment of the grains, retaining the mineral salts—phosphate of potash, etc. stored under their outer coat, and which are especially necessary for keeping brain, nerves and muscle in working trim.

Grape-Nuts food is in the form of crisp, nut-like granules—delicious with cream or good milk—easy to digest—economical—

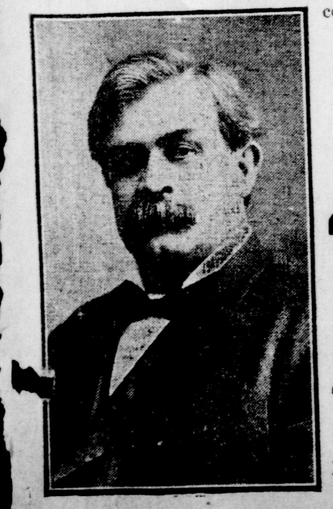

The perfect food for sound nourishment!

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 17.

HOGSHEAD RULE.

THE private bills committee of the Ontario Legislature refused the city of London's request to include in the annual bill from this municipality the bylaw reducing the number of licenses by six.

While the Legislature may plead that it had no authority to pass the bylaw while the petition which brought about the vote on the question was in the courts, the sight of a faction led by one of the "whisky kings" of the province forcing this clause from the bill despite the city's request that it go through, will give the whole country a jar.

The Legislature has let many illegalities slip through in its bills from the city of London. The London and Port Stanley Railway bill could have been thrown out on technicalities had any one chosen to press the issue, but it was allowed to go through without a question.

But this clause to reduce licenses in London strikes at the pocket of members and the friends of members, and if anything possible can be done to serve the liquor interests it will not be left undone.

The alliance of the Ontario Government with the rich liquor party is so strong that it is difficult to touch the one without drawing the full strength of the other. When the liquor party is attacked the Government fights for it, and when the Government is attacked the liquor party rolls up a full money barrel. The hogshead counts in this province.

We are assured that the cutting out of the clause for reduction will have no effect on the reduction of licenses. Temperance people will know just how far to trust that statement. Why not say the decision of the courts could not affect the ruling of the Legislature; at least the law passed by the Legislature would be amendable, and it would have facilitated the local determination if the Legislature had put the clause through. The city of London asked for it and was prepared to accept the responsibility.

But though a majority of Londoners have declared for reduction, the Legislature is missing no opportunity for service to the liquor interests. Else why should the Gooderhams and their henchmen line up against the clause?

UNFAIR FIGHTING.

HERMAN RIDDER, one of the Kaiser's band of professional apologists and champions in the United States, says that the sinking of the American ship Frye by the Prinz Eitel was justified, because "the weaker party has the right to do the best he can." This argument, while put less brutally, is in a line with the outrageous principles of waging war laid down by Trietschke, Bernhardi and the rest. This is a new reason given for outrage, or rather an old excuse put in a new and milder way, as it is the same reason put forward for the murderous war on neutral shipping of the German submarine.

But if it is fair for the weaker of two belligerents to violate the laws of warfare, does not the same thing apply to the stronger? If Ridder's excuse was adopted generally by nations at war, the framing of international rules and regulations for the conduct of conflicts would be a waste of time. Germany, because she is the weaker on the sea, has the right, according to Ridder, to sink merchantmen of any flag, "to do the best she can." Until recently Great Britain and France were the weaker on land, and therefore, from the German standpoint, would have been quite justified in resorting to barbarisms comparable to the Prussian outrages on both land and sea. Fortunately for international decency, the Allies have fought fairly, and will continue to do so. There will be no warship or airship raids on defenceless towns, no submarine attacks on defenceless merchantmen. "The best they can do," so far as the Allies are concerned, will be accomplished without outrage or recourse to the inhumane. That is the only sound principle on which warfare can be conducted by the weak and strong alike.

THE BLOCKADE THAT FAILED.

FROM the beginning it was evident that Germany's submarine blockade could not succeed. By this time it is not conceivable that official Germany believes it possible to cut off the British food supply. The attempt has cost them dearly through the sinking of many of their submarines. As well, their outrageous war on merchantmen opened the door for British reprisals which will shut Germany off completely from the outside world. Germany has failed to make the blockade effective, has failed to embroil Great Britain with neutral powers and has furnished an excuse for a British blockade that otherwise could not have been brought into play. The whole thing is another instance to show that Germany's wonderful military efficiency is sadly hampered by inability to see things in the right proportions.

That the great "blockade" has failed to terrify shipping away from the coasts of the British Isles is vividly shown by the fact that since the raid was started nearly five thousand ships have entered British ports and three thousand have departed. So numerous are the vessels of all types sailing under the British flag that it would take a German submarine fleet several hundred strong to make any impression whatever on the vast quantities of foodstuffs, war machinery, ammunition and raw material that are finding their way to the ports of Great Britain. But at best Germany has not more than a score of submarines big enough to operate far from the base for any length of time, and these are being picked off by the British destroyers. Already a round dozen have fallen a prey to the enemy's destroyers or to some of the numerous accidents their fragility and complicated mechanism render them liable to, and the Kaiser cannot afford to weaken his navy for his last throw when he leaves the shelters of Kiel to fight it out. It would not be surprising if Germany's "paper" blockade were to suddenly peter out.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Talking about blockades, have you ever tried walking around the house in the dark during housecleaning?

The Germans are beginning to eat straw, and from that it's a quick descent to "crow," as a national dish.

Great Britain's financial condition grows stronger every day, which means there will be no lack of the "silver bullets."

If Italy enters the war she will give a good account of herself. There is no better soldier than the Italian. He will enter the conflict full of enthusiasm, full of courage, well disciplined and alert.

Von Bethmann-Hollweg says that Germany will not discuss peace at present. Of course, she won't—she won't get the chance.

The German armies are great at the shuttle game, but some of these days the thread is going to become badly tangled and the machine will buckle.

John D. Rockefeller is said to have accumulated $600,000,000, but he probably considers his wife's death a loss of treasure immeasurably greater than his vast fortune.

HAPPIEST.

(Chicago Herald.)

The position of a neutral may not be a happy one, but take one consideration with another, it's a great deal happier than that of any of the belligerents.

NIAGARA.

(Kansas City Journal.)

It is a place of rugged rocks
And waters bold.
With awe the folks who come in flocks
The same behold.

The stream advances with a rush
That ne'er subsides.
Thus ceaselessly the waters gush:
So do the brides.

FAVORED BY NATURE.

(Philadelphia Ledger.)

There is this advantage in being two-faced: you can rest one while you are saying unkind things with the other.

ALL THERE.

(Judge.)

"She talks like a book."

"Yes, the volume of her speech is truly wonderful."

THE ROAD TO MAY.

(Folger McKinsey, in Smart Set.)

When we were young in Eden,
Remember how we'd stray
From out the April shadows
Into the sun of May?
Well, every year the Eden
That love knew comes again,
When May walks down the morning
To kiss the lips of men.

The argosies have vanished
That plowed the Aegean deep;
But still upon the Nilus
The oars of Cupid sweep
The barge of Cleopatra
Along its pristine way
Through dead Egyptian gardens
Unto the morn of May!

All things awake and tremble
The lark on viewless wing
Takes up to God's blue heaven
The love that helps him sing;
And we are young in Eden
As we were yesterday,
When through the clouds of April
We found the road to May.

CHATTEROLOGY.

(Washington Post.)

Woman is no longer a chattel, declares a defender of the sex. Of course not; but, nevertheless, she still chats.

(Chicago News.)

If modern civilization wishes something to be shocked at in addition to the war it may use the widespread drug habit for that purpose.

FADDY.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

Chicago reports a raw food fad which taboos cooking and prefers sawdust as a diet. But with the decreasing timber supply, this is not going to reduce the cost of living much.

A PREHISTORIC REMINISCENCE.

[Philadelphia Ledger.]

When you and I were monkeys,
A million years ago,
We played upon the treetops
On the coast of Borneo.

You chased me through the forest
Armed with a flinty rock;
You bumped my slanting forehead
Till of stars I saw a flock.

At eventide we'd cuddle
'Mid the dinosaurus's wails;
And just to change the subject
We'd hang down by our tails.

These were the happy hours
Of pre-Darwinian Jape;
When you were but a monkey,
And I a simple ape.

WHAT SHE SAID.

(Montreal Herald.)

"Hello, that you, dear?"

"Yes."

"I'm going to bring Green up to supper tonight. We're on the way now."

"For goodness sake, how many times have I told you never to invite your fool friends up here without giving me notice. I haven't a thing in the house. You make me tired. I've been working hard all day and was going to have just a little picked-up lunch tonight, and now you spring Green on me at the last minute. You must think I like to stand around a hot stove. I'll tell you right now you're not going to get any swell meal tonight. You'll get yesterday's cold lamb and some warmed over potatoes, and if he doesn't like that he can lump it."

"Yes, dear, that's fine. Just the thing. We'll be right up."

"What did she say?"

"She's tickled to death to have you come. Said she'd been wondering why I hadn't brought you up before. Come on."

THE COLONIES.

(By Alexander Louis Fraser.)

Thou dear, old mother, still untouched by age,
Whose deep, grey eyes survey the long-loved sea,
Whose home, the home of Justice, Liberty,
Now that against thee enemies do rage,
It is no time that trifling deeds engage
Thy children's hands—no hour for levity!
What child cares not when 'gainst Adversity
The long-left home a cruel fight doth wage?

We tell our children of thy glorious deeds—
(This page will make faces unborn to glow)
And now we send them forth that who so reads;
The annals of these stirring days may know
Our mother's kiss upon our brows lies wet,
Through arteries of sea her blood flows yet!

PERHAPS.

[Cleveland Leader.]

Horace Fletcher tells the Europeans that if they will chew more they will need less food. Perhaps that accounts for the absence of famine signs in Germany.

PRECAUTION.

[Chicago News.]

Speaking of fashions, merchant ships would do well to wear hoopskirts this year.

FACT.

[Washington Post.]

Short men may make the better soldiers, but the other kind are preferable as customers.

USUALLY.

[Pittsburg Dispatch.]

And now another professor says we sleep too much. Who shall decide when professors disagree? Well, the ordinary citizen generally does anyway, irrespective of the professional opinions.

THE DARDANELLES.

[New York Sun.]

I've always longed to view the spot
Where bold Leander
Breasting the wave to Hero's grot,
Defying Slander;

Yes, ever since I was a boy,
My fancy's beckoned
Across the storied plain of Troy
That Homer reckoned.

And, oh, to see where Xerxes led
His legions fabled:
Where Alexander fought and bled,
Killed and disabled.

Then next my bark in fancy plies
(At dawning it is)
To where enhorned in gold there lies
The pearl of cities!

But from the recent news we've had
It must be hot there.
And I confess I'm rather glad
That I'm not there.

MEAN.

[Life.]

"Do you remember that I asked to be your valentine and you accepted?" he said.

"Yes," she replied, "and ever since we've been married I've been wondering if it wasn't a comic valentine I got that day."

JOUNEYS AT HOME.

[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.]

It is said that five thousand pleasure trips are made every year to New York, Boston or Philadelphia to see the theatres, the stores and the crowds. If the people who go on these trips averaged a hundred dollars a piece, that means five hundred thousand dollars carried out of the country. The suggestion is made that for the present at least this money might be spent in Canada. Canada needs the money, and it would do the people of Canada no harm to get acquainted with the scenic beauty of their own country.

YEARNING FOR UTTERANCE.

[Judge.]

Small Frances, aged three, was told that she must not talk at the table—that children must be seen and not heard. One day at a company dinner her mother noticed the child apparently gasping for breath.

"What is the matter, darling?"

"Mudder, my mouf is so full of talk, I can't swallow!

IN THE INTERNATIONAL ZOO.

Some Eagles raised a vengeful hue,
The Dove prepared for flight,
The Bear into a tantrum flew
And bristled in his might.
The Lion roared—the Cock he crew,
And each declared for fight;
While lists they chose, the world withdrew,
And gripped his scabbard tight.

The dreadnoughts sailed, the airships flew—
It was a thrilling sight—
The Dove sought refuge in the blue
In horror and affright.
The Lion, lithe and strong of thew,
Crouched low before the Bight—
As Cock, and Bear, and Eagles drew
Around the pit to fight.

Against a neutral neighbor flew
An Eagle in his might,
In disregard of treaties true,
And ev'ry lawful right.
He plumed himself to soar right through
While none might stay his flight,
But soon his neighbor made him rue
Such tactics impolite.

Now, next against the Cock he threw
The millions of his might;
Zeppelins sailed, and Uhlans slew,
Till Paris was in sight;
Then suddenly he wheeled and flew
In frenzy and affright—
And Nemesis doth still pursue
This Eagle day and night.

This theme my Muse would fain pursue,
But I must stay her flight—
From day to day there's little new,
(The censorship is tight).
The air with battle-smoke is blue
By day as well as night;
But, as for news, well, what comes through
Is garbled, of the fight.

And what is false, and what is true,
Or what is wrong, or right—
I cannot guess, nor yet can you,
Or gain the least insight.
The Lion, lithe and strong of thew,
Still crouches by the Bight
To deal the foe his Waterloo,
Or Armageddon fight.

The world is left with scarce a clue,
While nations slay and smite;
And grips his helm, and scabbard, too,
In readiness for fight;
But we shall find, when truth is due,
The Lion sitting tight—
Lithe of limb and strong of thew,
Still guarding Right 'gainst Might.

PRESS COMMENT ON THE WAR

THE KAISER'S GAME.

(Philadelphia Press.)

Germany undertakes to place upon Great Britain the blame for a policy which purposes to ignore the rights of neutrals on the high seas.

UNCLE SAM.

(Philadelphia Inquirer.)

More than one belligerent would like to take this country by the scruff of the neck and chuck it into the fight—on its own side.

NAVY'S JOB AFTER ALL.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

It looks as though the British navy was even yet going to have the honor of bringing Germany to her knees. The armies of France, Russia and Britain prevented a quick victory for Germany. The British navy will make the continuance of a long war suicidal.

A NEW DIFFICULTY.

(Pall Mall Gazette.)

We are rapidly approaching a fresh stage in the process of national armament. So far, the new armies have been filled by those who could be spared from civilian life without any great interference with the essential needs of industry. But that primary supply is becoming exhausted, and large numbers of men are still required. The point must soon be reached where recruiting will have to be accompanied by a careful "underpinning" of those productive enterprises from which the men are withdrawn.

Music and Musicians

"Then rose the riot and the din,
Above, beneath, without, within!
For, from the lofty balcony,
Rung trumpet, shalm and psaltery."

—Scott.

Military Signalling Instruments.

The use of musical instruments in warfare has always been more with to have been first used as a means of ageous deeds than as a means of conveying orders and commands. We find evidences of the use of trumpets and drums for this purpose, however, as far back as the thirteenth century. The French charge at the battle of Bouvines (1215) was signalled by trumpets, and for the next 200 years the instrument used for signalling seems to have been the trumpet alone.

It is in Italy that the drum seems to have been first used as means of signalling. Macchiavelli in his "Art of War" states that the drum proclaims all the commands of the officer to his troops.

The earliest musical signals came from Italy. These were spread over Europe, but were altered and modified by the different troops using them. The two signalling instruments, however, remained the same with the single exception of Germany, where the fife seems to have been used.

It frequently came about that trumpet sounds were used for cavalry signals, and drum-beats confined to the infantry. This distinction was made in England, as well as on the continent, at any rate as early as the sixteenth century.

The bugle, the instrument now generally used, was introduced in 1792, and in 1798 the first authorized collection of bugle sounds was issued. In 1804 these sounds were adopted by every regiment and corps of cavalry in the English service. The use of the drum for signalling is almost extinct, except for parade purposes, but, combined with the fife, it is used for marching purposes.

The Melancholy Flute.

When I was a student in Leipzig I used to be awakened every Sunday morning by an enthusiastic amateur practicing the flute. I used to wake up with the most horrible depression of spirits imaginable. I had often heard the flute spoken of as a melancholy instrument, but never till then had I realized it. I wondered why the flute, an instrument of such beautiful quality of tone, should have such a depressing effect on one's spirits. I discovered the reason.

Every tone has, in addition to its fundamental tone, numerous so-called overtones or composite tones. These are scarcely distinguishable by the ear, but they are the determining factor in the quality of all musical sounds. Any one voice differs from another in quality only in the number and intensity of its overtones. Any instrument which possesses many and prominent overtones, such as the trumpet, is stirring in character. The flute has very few overtones, and those few weak in intensity, consequently the tone very soon palls, and the effect, beautiful at first, soon becomes a melancholy monotony.

What Is in Those Songs That Become So Popular?

That unpretentious little ditty, "My Little Grey Home in the West," by Lohr, has become immensely popular. It has even been parodied, a sign usually, however, that the popularity is at its height. Now, what's in it? No one could call it a paragon of musical perfection. As a work of art it is distinctly poor. Lohr never could write a decent accompaniment. He can, however, compose a good tune, and he has done so in this case. He also understands the capabilities of the voice and how to make the most of it. He also writes to the words the right kind of tune. All these he has done in "My Little Grey Home." In addition to these things, however, the words express a very tender bit of human sentiment, and I think it is to this fact, combined with its musical qualities, that the song owes its extraordinary popularity.

Answers to Correspondents.

Questions sent to this department should be addressed, "Musical Editor, London Advertiser," and must be clear and to the point. They must also be of general musical interest.

Do you think the study of music unfits a boy for a man's work?

ONE INTERESTED.

This is a question I'd like to turn over to the philosophers. Not having one handy, however, I'll ask you one. Do you think that the study of the finest thing in the world would unfit anybody for anything?

In regard to your second question as to the best way of educating the people in your town to a better class of music, I can only say that so far as I know there is only one way, and that is to provide the people with frequent opportunities of hearing good music, both by your own playing and that of your pupils. People get to like good music only by coming into contact with it. The lot of the musical missionary is hard, but console yourself with the thought that you are doing a good service.

When the Shells Fell

Most of the people of Hartlepool live in rows of little two-story houses. One six-inch shell would do for one of these houses. If it struck on the roof, there wasn't any roof left, except a fragmentary second floor. It it struck in the middle, there wasn't any second floor, and the roof was lapping over on the kitchen stove. Sometimes people were found alive amid the ruins, and sometimes they were in remnants. If a 12 or an 11 inch—there was some dispute about the size, though one inch more or less did not matter in the results—shell were used, you saw some debris between two other houses, which became "semi-detached villas," to use the British expression.

One of the big ones got the Baptist Chapel in a way to leave the observer in doubt at which end the pulpit was. Another struck an ivy-covered rectory. Mortar-colored gashes showed through the sturdy vine which seemed to hold the wall in place. The rector's family had taken to the cellar early. When silence settled above, they ascended through the debris white with dust, looking like the miller's family who had been helping father at the mill quite unhurt.

If they had been in Rheims or Soissons or Antwerp, they would have known what to do. They would have made, as the rector did, for the cellar; or better still, they would have taken the reverse side of a building from which the shells were coming.

"We laugh about it now—some people did look so ridiculous," said one man. "I must have, myself. When the first shell went over I went down on all fours. I thought I'd been knocked down, though that shell was two hundred feet overhead."

No wonder! A 12-inch shell makes the noise of a train gone free of the track through the air at 90 miles an hour.

"We stayed in the house," said a workman's wife, "right in the kitchen. It was the Germans, we says, and that's all. But when some soot come down the chimney we stood in the back door."

She laid particular stress on the soot. When soot came down the chimney it was time for her retreat from Mons. Three houses away a man and his wife were both killed.

"I took the children and started for Mrs. Deakin's, next door," said another woman, "and Mrs. Deakin she started at the same time, and we met, and we just stood there, our children around us, and wrung our hands and prayed."

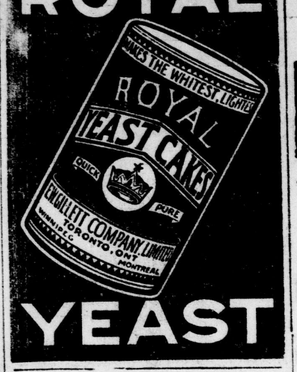

"I don't know what I did. I just went out in the street where the others were and did what they did till it was over."

"A funny thing was a man who kept crying: 'Keep cool!' and every time a shell would go screaming over he'd double up and put his hands to his stomach," said another man. "Those shells did sound like they was scooping all your flesh off your bones. Then that man'd take his hands off his stomach and wave them up and down and say: 'Keep cool!' till the next shell came."

He was just acting the part he thought he ought to act. Human nature does work out under shell fire. Yes, there were lots of funny things. You remember in pictures, and you can't tell how far apart the pictures were or what happened between. Funny—yes funny, if you could forget some of the pictures.

There was a little girl running in the street and a great crash came around her—and she was gone.—Frederick Palmer in Collier's Weekly.

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letters can be answered privately.]

Plant Troubles.

Dear Miss Grey,—Would you please answer a few questions for me?

1. What day did October 31, 1897, fall on? Also November 29, 1895?

2. Do you know of anything that would kill little white worms on plants?

3. What are the meaning of these names: Alice, Lillian, Leon, Adah, May and Alma?

I hope this will not be too much trouble for you.

4. Last of all, what do you think of my writing? SUSIE.

Ans.—1. Sunday; Friday.

2. Spray parts affected with a weak solution of tobacco and water; follow by an application of clear water.

3. Alice a princess, or, of noble birth; Lillian, a lily; Leon, lion-like; Adah, happiness; May, probably a contraction of Mary, or named after the month of May; Alma, lofty.

4. Fairly good.

Primrose Dying.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have a primrose plant which looks to be dead. Could you tell me what to do to make it grow? I have been watering it mostly every day, and still it don't seem to do any good; it is in the window where it gets lots of sun.

SCOTCH LASSIE JEAN.

Ans. — The plant has probably "flowered itself to death." I think if you cut the stems down to within a couple of inches of the roots, and set the pot in a cool, sheltered place, watering only once or twice a week it might help to keep the root alive. In the summer dry it out, and repot in the autumn. If there is life in the plant it should revive by this treatment.

Cannot send you the song as I haven't a copy.

Cake for Mutt and Jeff.

Dear Miss Grey,—Will inclose the cake recipe that Mutt and Jeff inquired for. Oatmeal cake—Half cup butter and lard mixed, two eggs, one and half cups brown sugar, one cup sour milk, one and half cups oatmeal, one and half cups flour, one cup raisins, one cup currants, 5c worth dates, 5c worth walnuts, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon baking powder. Don't take more flour than called for as oatmeal will swell.

Rose cake—Half cup white sugar, half cup butter, whites of two eggs, half cup pink sugar, half cup sweet milk, two cups flour, one teaspoon baking powder. Flavor with rose water; ice with pink icing.

Wishing you every success, I remain MRS. E. M. B.

Ans.—Many thanks for your kindness in helping. The pattern order has been sent to the right department as you asked.

Money Should Be "Ours."

Dear Miss Grey,—Here is a cure for asthma that has cured several and may help the one who wrote to you.

Oil of sassafras, oil of hemlock, oil of juniper, get equal portions of each and take ten drops on sugar each night; 25 cents worth will last for some time.

Now about who keeps the money. We have been married ten years; we have our separate purses when going to town, but only one pocketbook, as we call it. If I want money I get it; if my husband wants money he does the same. I know of families where husband and wife each have their own money. If the wife gets money from her husband she must pay it back the same as if it were borrowed from a friend; the same with the husband. Now, I think when a couple are joined in holy wedlock they are as one, and the money should belong to both; it should be called "ours," not "mine" and "yours." I have often heard very unkind words spoken because some insist on "mine and your money."

Don't you think, Miss Grey, that if "Nine Years Married" would invite some of her friends, say a man and his wife, to her house and not tell her husband, so he would have no chance to skip out. Probably when he found out how enjoyable her friends were he would change his ideas and allow her to have company oftener My father was of that same class, but mother paid no attention, and did as she thought right, and I don't think she did wrong by inviting friends in and letting us go out, because if he had had his way we would have grown up entirely by ourselves. He enjoyed the company as much as anyone, and used to ask questions when we came home, but yet he never wanted us to go. He has not changed yet. I don't think that mother has anything to grieve over, as she always used him good, but he never returned her kindness. I do not think marrying young is the cause of unhappiness. I was married at nineteen; have never been sorry yet, and could you blame girls when their homes are anything but pleasant? I always had poor health till about eight years ago, which I think was caused by the unpleasantness at home, as I missed many meals. I was of a timid nature, and could not eat if there was any trouble in the house. If we would all strive to do the best, and when there are mistakes made, each try to smooth them over and forget, married people would be happier and their children would have no cause but their own for leaving home young.

Now, just for one question. Would you be kind enough to print the recipe for watermelon cake? The hired man always reads this page, and I have lost the one paper entirely. Thanking you in advance. A HAPPY WORKER.

Ans.—I sincerely enjoyed your interesting letter, and like your opinions on the various matters you touch upon. Perhaps your views on the household finances may encourage others to write, too.

Here is the cake recipe. I feel quite flattered to think that the hired man takes an interest in this feminine department:

Watermelon Cake.—White part: 1 cup pulverized sugar, ½ cup butter, ½ cup sweet milk, 1½ cups flour, whites of 2 eggs, ½ tablespoon baking powder.

Red Part.—½ cup red sugar, ¼ cup butter, ¼ cup sweet milk, 1 cup flour, ½ tablespoon baking powder, ½ pound raisins; put the red part in the centre of the pan and the white part on the outside.

Was Printed Before.

Dear Miss Grey,—In reading your column the other night, I noticed that someone asked for an old song, and sent a few lines of the chorus, and in tonight's paper I also see that another reader has sent the song in to which I is "Erin on the Rhine." Well, Miss Grey, I sent that song in a month or two ago, and you printed it, but I suppose you have so many old songs sent that you forget sometimes, and I thought I would just remind you that I sent it, although I spell the word "Erin" differently to the other reader, but maybe I am wrong in that and she is right. M. R.

Ans.—The song had been set up in type before your kind note was received. On account of the difference in names I did not recognize it as the same one. However, as two or three folks were asking for it, I guess it did not do any harm to reprint.

Helped Us Before.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is the second time I have sent for help to your Mail Box. It was I who sent the words of that old song "Mary and John," which I saw in print a few days ago. After seeing in this morning's paper a request from "An Alvinston Reader" for the words of that old song, entitled "My Dad's Dinner Pail," I am now inclosing them. When writing before, I asked if anyone could get for me the music of that old song "I'll Remember You, Love, in My Prayers." I had it myself a few years ago, but mislaid it in some way, and have never found it, and as it was an old favorite of my mother's, I have tried hard to replace it, but have never been able to. I have tried in several music stores to get it, but have failed, and now I am coming for help to the Mail Box—the part of The Advertiser I never fail to read.

I would be willing to send my address and the price of the music if someone could get it for me.

Hoping these words of this song may be the ones "An Alvinston Reader" wishes, I remain, AN ADVERTISER READER.

Ans.—We are much indebted to you for your "old song" help, and I only hope we may be able to obtain, through the Mail Box, the music you desire Does anyone happen to have a copy?

Birdie Here Again.

Dear Miss Grey,—Well, Birdie is here bothering you again. Would you please answer these few questions for me?

1. We have an organ just three years old, and the keys have turned yellow. Is there any way we could clean them to make them white?

2. These are my sisters' names; what do they mean—Reta, Vivian and Jean?

3. I am tall, with dark hair and brown eyes. What colors could I wear for this spring?

4. I intend going out west this spring. What would be the best to get, a suit or a sport coat? BIRDIE.

Ans.—1. Put a very little tartaric acid in some lukewarm, soft water; wash the keys with this, then with clear water, dry, and polish. Use soft cloths for the entire process. This may help some.

2. Reta is presumably a contraction of Margarita, which means a pearl; Vivian, lively; Jean, gift of God.

3. The dark shade of blue, known as "crow blue," should look well on you, also dark brown and khaki shades, pale yellow, black and white, and a very pale shade of pink should be becoming.

4. I believe the separate coat would be most useful.

Are They Too Young.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is the first time I have written to you, but have received many useful suggestions from your page. Will you please answer through your paper the following questions:

1. Are girls of seventeen too young to be accompanied home from church or concerts with a boy friend?

2. Does drinking tea spoil your complexion?

3. Are sport coats going to be worn this spring, and what would be a nice way to have it made?

4. What is the meaning of the following names—Jean, Rolly, Wilfred, Gladys, Milton, Nichol, Everest, Haroid, Milly, Franklyn? F. C. G. B. M.

Ans.—1. No I think not, if "mother" approves of the "boy friend."

2. I do not think so unless drank to excess.

3. Yes, especially in polo cloth or corded velvet.

4. Jean, gift of God; Roland, fame of the land; Wilfred, peaceful protector; Gladys, lame; Clarence, illustrious; Florence, flourishing; Harold, a champion; Milly, Mildred, mild speaker; Franklyn, Francis, free, or frank.

THESE PRETTY PARTY FROCKS YOU PRETTY GIRLS WILL WEAR

"Springtime" is the name of the gown shown at the right. It's designed for the Easter season, and the colors of spring are reproduced in the orchid satin and floral trimmings, as well as in the corsage of orchids.

Tiny pink rosebuds are used to outline the double triangular design at the right front, and the left front of the slightly draped skirt. The low-cut bodice is an artistic arrangement of gold-threaded lace brought into a fan-shaped drapery at the right. From this drapery falls a broad strand of brocaded lace finished with a fringe of cut steel and jet.

At the left is shown a charming frock for "party" wear made of white taffeta with an odd little overskirt made in double apron effect topping a satin underskirt ruffled with white chiffon and the ruffles give the skirt the flare effect which every skirt must have this spring. The bodice is of satin with scallops ruffled just below the bust line and a wide girdle of chiffon. The shoulder sleeves are also of chiffon.

DAD'S DINNER PAIL.

'Twas an emblem of labor, dad's dinner pail,
It hung in a corner beyant on a nail,
It belonged to my father before I was born;
Preserve that old kettle all blackened and worn.

Chorus.

It glistened like silver, all sparkling and bright,
I'm fond of the trifle that held his wee bite;
In summer or winter, in rain, snow or hail,
I've carried that kettle, my dad's dinner pail.

When the bell rang for meal time my father'd come down,
He'd eat with the workman about on the ground;
He'd share wid a laborer, and say ho'd go bail,
You would ne'er reach the bottom of dad's dinner pail.

If the day should be rainy my father'd stop home,
And he'd polish his kettle as clane as a bone;
He'd joke wid me mother, as me he would wale,
If I just put a finger on dad's dinner pail.

There's a place for the coffee, and also the bread,
The corn beaf and praties—and oft it was said;
Go fill it with porter, with beer, or wid ale,
The drink would taste sweeter from dad's dinner pail.

CHECKING BABIES.

Some little time ago a large department store arranged to let mothers check their babies and leave them in care of a nurse while the mothers did their shopping. Soon after, a Catholic church in New York City made the same provision for the comfort of mothers and babies, and reported an increased attendance of mothers at mass as a result. Then the suffragists of White Plains, N. Y., took like action, in order to make it easy for mothers to vote at the school election. No one protested against having a competent person take care of the babies while their mothers made purchases or went to church, but as soon as the same thing was done to enable the mothers to vote, it was at once suggested that the children would suffer and the foundations of the home be undermined. Yet it takes less time to vote than either to shop or to attend a church service. What is so irrational as anti suffrage prejudice?

SUFFRAGISTS MAY WIN IN SOUTHERN STATE

Arkansas may be the first southern state to be brought within the equal suffrage fold. The suffrage amendment to the state constitution will be voted on February 15, and the prospects for its adoption are promising.

"STOP KISSING; DISEASE LURKS IN LIPS," IS DOCTOR'S WARNING

KISSING.

Many diseases, both of the mouth and other parts of the body, are conveyed through the mouth.

Many diseases are transferred from an infected person to a well person by the habit of spitting indiscriminately in public places.

Kissing, too, has its evil results.

As a common practice it is to be condemned.

Physicians who have given close attention to this habit brand it as unhealthy and insanitary.

In an address on mouth hygiene at the meeting of the American Public Health Association at Jacksonville, Fla., a speaker said:

"To give humanity what it is entitled to from an hygienic standpoint you would have to place gauze muzzles over the mouths of 90 per cent of the population. Yet, we muzzle dogs for one kind of disease. Why not muzzle human beings who will not obey the common rules of sanitation in the same way?"

Prevention of tooth decay is one of the most important branches of public health work today. It is vitally connected with work done among children in schools for the reason that upon their treatment in the growing stage depends the lasting qualities of the teeth and their service to the owner.

"Stop indiscriminate kissing if you can—arrest the spitter—if you will; prohibit the drinking cup if you must and when these things are done you will have made progress," continued the above authority.

When you are not exactly sick, but feel "all run down" that's the time to see the family doctor. It's when you are "run down" that infection overtakes you. Your power of resistance is low, and you have little strength to resist disease.

CAROLINE COE'S TALKS TO HOME BREADMAKERS ABOUT FLOURS AND BAKING.

[BY CAROLINE COE.]

Wheat flour is high and it's steadily going higher in price, but instead of worrying about the high cost of flour, the canny housewife supplies her family with graham bread, rice bread, whole wheat bread and other variations of the staff of life made from cheap but wholesome flour.

To make good bread one must have good flour that is fresh, clean flour, not necessarily the highest priced flour on the market, and the yeast, too, must be of good quality.

There are fifteen billion of yeast cells in a three-cent cake of yeast. Combine this yeast force with the proper amount of sugar, heat, moisture and flour for them to thrive on and we have good, wholesome bread. The yeast plant grows best at about 78 degrees, the bread is of a finer grain, but one can hurry the bread by raising the temperature, but at 130 degrees, of heat the plant is blighted. Cold chills but does not kill the plant.

Bread may be made with milk, water or "half and half." That made with water is tougher, but keeps better than that made with milk. Milk breads also brown more quickly in the oven than those made with water.

Loaves of bread four inches thick should bake one hour.

If you desire a soft crust on the loaf do not cover when taken from the pan.

Butter or milk rubbed on the top of the loaf as soon as taken from oven and pan makes the crust soft and sweet.

In my own family we use all kinds of flour and only make the so-called white bread about once in two weeks. Remember there is really more nourishment in whole wheat or rye bread than in the white bread. Cornmeal bread made after the recipe that I give has been a staple food in my family for six generations.

PARSNIP HISTORY AND RECIPES

When the kitchen calendar brings us again, in the near-by cold days, to the use of the parsnip, we can think of it as a very old friend, for when our ancestors established themselves on this continent parsnip seed was among the seeds of garden vegetables they brought with them. To their surprise the Indians were already growing parsnips and could not remember when it was introduced among them, although it was known that early Spanish explorers had established it in Mexico.

The parsnip is one of the oldest root vegetables to be redeemed by cultivation from the wild weed life of its ancestors, and has proved a valuable addition to our fresh foods throughout the winter. Served as they usually are in the plain boiled or fried fashion, we are apt to tire of them, but there are other ways of using the parsnip that form a pleasant variety.

Parsnip fritters are made by cooking the parsnips 45 minutes in boiling salted water. Then they are drained and plunged into cold water, when the skins will slip off easily. They are mashed then, seasoned with butter, salt and pepper, shaped in small, flat, round cakes, rolled in flour, and fried in butter or dripping.

Parsnip timbales, the word timbale meaning cup-shaped, are baked either in small greased molds, or in a shallow pan. To prepare them, scrape four good-sized parsnips, laying them in cold water, cut in halves, or quarters, until needed. Cook them in boiling salted water until tender. Drain them and mash through a colander. Add two beaten eggs and half a cup of milk. Season with one teaspoon salt, a dash of pepper, and one teaspoon onion juice, then bake. This can be served as a dinner dish, either plain or with a white sauce.

Scalloped parsnips make a nice dish for tea or lunch. Boil them until tender, in the usual way, and rub through a fine sieve. To enough parsnips for a small dish add a little butter, a tablespoonful of cream a teaspoon of grated cheese, and pepper, salt, and cayenne to taste, adding enough milk to make the mixture like thick cream. Butter and fill a baking dish, sprinkle bread crumbs on top and bake for about ten minutes.

WOMAN'S CAUSE.

Together, dwarfed or god-like, bond or free
In the long years liker they must grow

And so these twain upon the skirts of time,
Dispensing harvest, sowing the To-Be.

SHAUGHNESSY CONDITIONS N. H. A. CHAMPIONS HERE

Ottawa Hockey Team and Famous Manager Stop Off in London on Way to Coast and Have a Game of Catch on Station Platform.

[BY BERT PERRY.]

Frank Shaughnessy and the Ottawa N. H. A. championship hockey team were in London for a brief time yesterday, stopping off here for about fifteen minutes on their way to Chicago, and thence to Vancouver, to meet the Coast League champions in the hockey world series. They had a special coach on train No. 12, and when the train pulled into the local Grand Trunk depot, nearly all the players and Shaughnessy got out on the platform, and tossed a ball around. "Shag" is a great little believer in condition, and when ever the train carrying the N. H. A. champions westward stops for any length of time at a station, he has the boys out on the platform stretching their limbs and taking out the kinks in their joints that result from travelling.

"Shag" Takes Exercise, Too.

Shaughnessy also intends to keep in condition himself for the baseball season, as he takes just as much exercise as any of the players. The boys play catch with a couple of baseballs, and the speed that Shaughnessy sets keeps them hustling around.

While the players were tossing the ball around on the local platform yesterday, quite a crowd of people gathered. One small urchin who had seen "Shag" in action at Tecumseh Park yelled: "Hello, there 'Shag,'" and the big fellow cracked a smile and returned the greeting. "They must know you in this town," said one of the Ottawa players. "You bet they do," replied Shaughnessy, "and they call me worse names that that, too."

Looks for Good Season in Baseball.

Shaughnessy had little to say about baseball, except that he is looking for a good year in the Canadian League in Ottawa, despite the war, and he thinks with proper and economical handling, every team in the league should make money. The salary limit this year, if lived up to, will cost the clubs $1,000 less this year than last, and there should be a big saving in transportation also.

Shaughnessy is confident that the Ottawa team will beat Vancouver for the Stanley cup and the world's hockey title, and the Ottawa players also express confidence in the result of their trip to the coast. Most of them are Ottawa boys. Their victory over the Wanderers has added a lot to their confidence. They expect to arrive in Vancouver on Saturday. They play the first game Monday.

Bob Fitzsimmons Is Trying To Get Married Again

Applies For License To Marry 28-Year-Old Divorcee, But Is Refused.

Newark, N. J., March 17.—Robert Fitzsimmons, formerly heavyweight champion pugilist, applied for a marriage license at the city hall here yesterday, announcing that on Saturday he intends to marry Mrs. Temo Slemomin, divorced wife of Henry Slemomin, of Portland, Oregon. As Fitzsimmons did not have a certificate of his own divorce, the clerk refused to grant the license until it was produced. Fitzsimmons said he would return with it later. He was accompanied by a young woman. Fitzsimmons lives in Dunellen, N. J. He is 53 years old, and his fiancee is 28.

J. Franklin Baker has quit. The opposing players always said he would.

Christy Mathewson fears that three leagues will spoil major league baseball. If they can spoil the brand played by the National last year, we'll undertake to spoil Jess Willard as a boxer.

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person is troubled with catarrh in some form.

Science has shown that nasal catarrh indicates a weakened condition of the body; that the secretion of the mucous membranes are quickly affected, and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building-tonic, free from harmful drugs or opiates. Try it.

WON FORM NEW ST. JAMES WON FROM ST. JAMES

Boys' and Girls' Basketball Teams From Both Sunday Schools Play Friendly Match.

St. Andrew's girls' and boys' basketball teams defeated two teams from St. James' Sunday School, in St. Andrew's Church gymnasium last evening.

The girls played the first game, and the teams were quite as evenly matched as the score would indicate. The score at full time was 10-9 in favor of St. Andrew's. Which team would be the winner was a matter of conjecture until the final whistle found the girls from St. Andrew's leading by one point.

Both teams played good basketball, and while no one in particular starred Miss J. Wardrope and Miss M. Simson were the leading scorers for St. Andrew's, and Miss Headley for St. James'.

The lineups were as follows:

St. Andrew's—Misses J. Wardrope, K. Allen, M. Tune, M. Simson, and J. Love.

St. James'—Misses W. Bryden, A. Dibb, M. Headley, W. Ashplant, and K. Ashplant.

Boys' Team Won.

The second game between the boys was fast and furious from the start, but St. Andrew's showed superior team work, and the final score showed them leading by 56 to 19. Every man on the winning team played a great game, and at times their combination was dazzling. The St. James', however, were short some of their regular team and the fact that they had two substitutes, might account for the great difference in the score. K. Bell and Don McLean were the leading basket-getters for the winners, while J. Tanton and L. Purdom were very close seconds. J. Bell proved himself a stone wall defence in basketball, as well as hockey. For the loosers G. Pelton and "Bud" James played their usual strong game, and scored most of the points for their side.

The teams line up as follows:

St. Andrew's—K. Bell, J. Bell, D. McLean, L. Purdom and J. Tanton.

St. James'—T. Simpson, R. Sanborn, G. Pelton, B. James and R. Burridge.

After the games the players participated in a light lunch, which the girls of St. Andrew's prepared, and which was much enjoyed.

Referee—A. S. Thompson.

Timekeeper—W. Anderson.

Scorer—G. Marr.

M'CLARYS WON FIRST FOR SIMCOE RINK CUP

Defeated Wellington Street by Six Goals to Four.

FAST IN SECOND HALF

McClarys Got Away to Big Lead at Start, But Were Outplayed at End.

McClarys, winners of the Manufacturer's League championship, defeated Wellington Street Methodists, runners-up in the Church League championship, who were acting for St. Andrews in the first of two games for the Simcoe rink cup, last night, by the score of 6 to 4. The stove men were ahead all through, leading at half-time by 4 to 2. After the first period, the ice was in good condition, and the game fast and exciting. Wellington Street put up a good game and made the Manufacturers' League winners travel all the time. They were much better in the second period, when both teams scored two goals each. Six men aside were used to conform to the rules in the Manufacturers' League.

Campbells Starred.

For the winners, the two Campbells starred. The one who played on the defence scored four of his team's goals and played a star game all through. He was given good support by the rest of the team, for Wellington Street Hamilton, who replaced LeSeuer at centre, put up a fine exhibition, while Southcott and McCormick were also good.

Tommy Munro refereed and kept the game free of rough play. The teams will meet again tonight and as goals count on the round, Wellington Street still has a chance. Seven men will be used tonight. The teams lined-up:

Wellington St.		McClarys
Bugg	Goal	Prudholme
Southcott	R. defence	Buchanan
McCormick	L. defence	R. Campbell
Hamliton	Centre	D. Campbell
Delaney	L. wing	Clarke
Firle	R. wing	Wilson

Referee—T. Munro.

C.A.H.A. DISCUSSES ALLAN CUP AFFAIR

O.H.A. Representatives Present at Meeting in Winnipeg.

SOME MISUNDERSTANDING

O.H.A. Understood Vics Engagements in West Were Broken by C.A.H.A.

WINNIPEG, March 16.—Several matters of particular interest to the Ontario Hockey Association were discussed at the meeting here of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. There was the three-months, residence rule, which the O. H. A. had clearly understood to be retroactive or operative from the date of its enactment. Then there was the position of the Toronto Victorias for whom the C. A. H. A. wished to intercede. The O. H. A. made it clear that the Toronto Victorias left Toronto on their own initiative and under orders not to play Melville till further orders. The challenge sent in for the Allan Cup games had never been filled in with the name of the Toronto Victorias. The report that Messrs. Farquharson, Hewitt and Turner will take back to Toronto, will be convincing proof of the good faith of all the other delegates, who also received satisfactory evidence that the O. H. A. had no other knowledge of the Ottawa meeting than that given by its representative, who had received the impression that the three-months' rule was retroactive.

Secretary Hewitt, of the O. H. A., impressed the meeting with a new angle on the Toronto Vics. He showed that he and other officials of the O. H. A. had ben given to understand that the Toronto Vics. had engagements with Winnipeg and other teams before leaving Toronto and that the western teams broke those engagements at the instigation of the C. A. H. A.

Claude Robinson pointed out that Winnipeg Vics. had no such engagement and that their reason for refusing to play the Toronto Vics., unless they went on to Melville first, was founded on their reading of the constitution and on the rule that the challenging team in the C. A. H. A. could not play exhibition games prior to cup game, without the association's consent.

OLD TIMERS TO PLAY IN BENEFIT AT STRATFORD

STRATFORD, March 16. — For the purpose of raising a benefit fund or Mrs. Thomas Rose, wife of the late "Tommie" Rose, popular in all sporting circles here, a game has been arranged for Thursday night between the senior O. H. A. champions and stars of ten years ago against this year's senior Northern League. The "old-timers" are well known throughout O. H. A. circles. The line-ups will be:

Dr. Baker	Goal	Bart
Duff Baker	R. defence	Pletsch
Rob Easson	L. defence	Reynolds
Wallie Hern	Rover	Verner
Poddie Gifford	Centre	Vivian
Charlie Lloyd	R. wing	Tobin
Sky Easson	L. wing	Lavelle

"Toad" Edmunds will referee.

BOMBARDIER WELLS KNOCKED OUT BANDSMAN

MILWAUKEE, March 16.—A cablegram today from London says "Bombardier" Wells, British heavyweight champion, knocked out "Bandsman" Rice in six rounds in Belfast, Ireland. Wells is matched to meet Frank Moran, of Pittsburg, the last of this month

SMITH AND DILLON WILL MEET IN 10-ROUND BOUT

MILWAUKEE, March 16.—"Gunboat" Smith and Jack Dillon, heavyweight boxers, will meet at catch weights in a ten-round, no-decision bout here tonight. Dillon is a 4 to 5 favorite among the betters.

TWENTY-ROUND BOUTS LEGALIZED IN NEVADA

CARSON CITY, March 16.—A bill legalizing twenty-round boxing contests in Nevada passed the Assembly last night. It had previously passed the Senate, and now goes to the governor. The Legislature will have finally adjourned before the time the governor may keep this bill has expired.

Control plus brains makes successful pitchers according to our old friend Cy Sanborn. We've observed that in the cases of Ed. Reulbach, Boston Bill James, Rube Waddell, Rube Marquard and Bugs Raymond.

Having heard the wails of eight National League managers as to how the 21-player rule has ruined their clubs, we reach the conclusion that the fight managers have no monopoly on the advance alibi.

WHITE SOX MYSTE RY TEAM OF 1915—IT'S GOOD ENOUGH FOR PENNANT ON PAPER.

Manager Rowland and a pair of new stars of the Chicago White Sox, Bunny Brief, first baseman, and Happy Felch, outfielder.

The way in which Manager Rowland, a minor leaguer, has won over his team, young and old, has been the astounding feature of the spring training.

Two veteran reporters who have been with the Sox year after year write me that they never have seen or felt such spirit, and that it looks like a new team, acts like a new team, and IS a new team. They declare that Collins and Rowland are likely to prove another Evers-Stallings combination.

As for mechanical strength, the White Sox have plenty to win a pennant, provided the spirit lasts, and they have the luck. They are not yet strong enough to overcome a run of hard luck, and, in fact, need the balance of luck on their side to run first. But no other team in the league outclasses them far enough to lay claims to the pennant if things break luckily for the Sox and badly for them.

The astonishing discovery found in the dope is that Chicago at last has a hitting ball club. There are four normal .300 hitters among the regulars.

Schalk will, of course, do the bulk of the catching. Kuhn will assist Cicotte, Scott, Wolfgang, Faber and Jasper will form the pitching staff. Rowland has jerked big Reb Russell, the best of the left-handers, up short and made him work and forget he is a star. Ellis Johnson, a right-hander, from the Toronto club; Klepfer, from Venice, a corking left-hander, who looked good when tried by the Yankees, and J. Lynn Scroggins, college youth and a promising southpaw, form the recruit staff.

Joe Benz, really the best of the pitchers, will be under a heavy handicap, because illness last winter will hold him back months in getting right. Ed Walsh probably will not be with us actively, although he is making desperate efforts to come back.

Bunny Brief, from Kansas City, will play first. He is a good right-handed hitter, and a corking fielder, at least the best the Sox have had in years. He is a lot more finished than when with the St. Louis Browns, and glad to be back.

Eddie Collins makes all the difference in the world both to the first baseman and the shortstop. Weaver will be much improved. Rowland picked Bromwich from Davenport for third, probably because he knew him best. He is extremely unfinished, but a willing worker and a considerable hitter. Rus Blackburne and Breton will be subs, and probably Baker will be held in reserve.

The outfield will be much stronger than it has been. Shano Collins is a pretty fair player, who can hit bad pitching hard and good pitching fairly well. Felch, from Milwaukee, is the best ball player out of the Association in some time. He is still crude, and has a lot to learn.

The big hope, however, is Chappell. This fellow ought to be a great ball player. He has everything save the temperament. Under Callahan he had trouble all the time. He worked for Rowland when he was a kid, and thinks Rowland is about the best in the world.

Roth, a corking little ball player, and Ray Demmitt will be the outfield understudies.

Quite a ball team—and don't forget it is filled with the old pep this spring.

The Chicago White Sox appear at this time to be a ball club raised from the 5-6-7 probability to a 1-2-3 team. It is a transformation that makes the American League race more uncertain than it has been in years. The sudden change of a hopeless club to one of pennant possibilities, combined with the smash-up of the Athletic machine, makes for a keener race than the American has had in years.

The White Sox are wonderfully strengthened by the addition of Rowland and Eddie Collins, but more so by the injection of a spirit that has not been felt in the team since the days when Fielder Jones led it.

"We're going somewhere this season. That is the way they express it. They feel it. The spirit was with them when they went into camp at Paso Robles, and every day since then it has increased."

Feds Will Not Appeal Decision of Judge Baldwin

Gilmore Says No Matter How Case Is Decided, Newark Will Have Club.

Chicago, March 17.—There will be no appeal from the decision of Circuit Judge Baldwin in the case brought by the Kansas City club against the Federal League, according to a statement by James A. Gilmore, president of the league.

The decision, which was expected to be announced today, will decide whether the Kansas City club shall retain its franchise in the league. If the court rules that Kansas City is entitled to its francise, President Gilmore said the club will be obliged to pay $38,000, the sum advanced by the league late last season.

"But no matter how the case is decided, Newark, to which the Kansas City franchise was transferred, will have a club in the league this season," President Gilmore said. "I have nothing to say, however, regarding the transfer of any other club east."

Chicago, March 17.—Decision in the injunction suit of the Kansas City baseball club to restrain the Federal League from declaring its franchise forfeited, and transferring the club to Newark, was postponed today by Judge Baldwin until next Tuesday.

The announcement was made when attorneys and many interested in the proceedings went to the courtroom to hear the expected decision.

The international League intends to remain in the field. It may be advisable to send out a scout occasionally during the coming season to see if they still are playing.

Manager Bresnahan is a genial fellow, writes one new scribe with the Chicago Cubs. He probably would refer to Hank O'Day as companionable.

Officers raiding the Beach Club at Palm Beach found the club members dancing, probably playing human roulette.

Advertising is a great art, but we tip our hat to one automaker who advertises that his car is used exclusively by Chicago's most exclusive bandits.

Freddie Welsh declares he is going to retire with the title—oh, very well, we know just what kind of matches he intends to make from now on if he sticks to that.

A New York baseball expert, selecting the twenty best ball players in America, picked eighteen from the two New York teams and filled out with Cobb and Johnson, probably to prove that New York experts can recognize talent, even if it is not connected with New York.

THE FUNNIEST PLAY I EVER SAW.

In Which Bill Donovan's Famous Smile Suddenly Froze to Look of Terror.

BY GEORGE MORIARITY,

Veteran Infielder, Detroit Tigers, Still One of the Best in the Game.

The funniest thing I ever saw on a ball field wasn't a darned bit funny to me when it happened, and it was at least two years before I could see how funny it was. Even then it was hard to laugh at.

It happened in our world's series with the Chicago Cubs—the first one. We had a great team, playing great ball, and we expected to beat those Cubs and win back some of the honor they had grabbed away from us. Donovan was pitching and was going as good as he ever was—and that was going some.

GEORGE MORIARITY.

Bill always smiles, and it is hard to make that smile come loose. He was smiling and happy when he came to bat, and we had a chance to go ahead and cinch the game. Bill always was pretty dangerous as a batter considered from the pitcher's standpoint, and he caught a curve and drove the ball hard on the line to right field.

He had the happiest brand of his smile all over his face when he hit that ball. He started down to first at an easy lope, smiling proudly. I wasn't watching the ball; my eye was still on Billl, and suddenly his face changed. You never saw such a transformation scene in your life. The smile went away and that long jaw dropped. A look of positive terror came over his face, and he started to try to get up speed.

I whirled just in time to see the cause of the Jockey Club that the King, although in favor of continuing racing, would not attend the meetings.

the transformation. Schulte had sprinted forward the instant the ball was hit, and, scooping it on the second bound, had shot to first base. Bill awakened just in time to realize Schulte had the jump on him.

That play broke our rally and probably changed the entire game, for the Cubs beat us, and ran away with the series. But Bill's change of expression when he saw what was going to happen was the funniest thing I ever witnessed—now, not then.

ST. MIKES BEATEN BY ST. NICKS IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 16.—St. Nicholas team, champions of the Amateur Hockey League, defeated the St. Michaels, champions of the Ontario Hockey Association, here tonight by a score of 5 to 1. The locals took the lead in the first period, 2 to 0. Fox scored three goals, and Ellis two, while Baker's efforts were successfully blocked. LaFlamme scored the visitors' tally.

JESS WILLARD ARRIVES IN HAVANA WEIGHING 250

HAVANA, March 16.—Jess Willard, who is to fight Jack Johnson for the heavyweight championship early in April, arrived here this afternoon from Key West. He was accompanied by his trainers, and said he was in excellent condition and weighed about 250 pounds.

JACK DILLON HAD SHADE ON "GUNBOAT" SMITH

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 16.—Jack Dillon, Indianapolis heavyweight, had a shade the better of "Gunboat" Smith, of New York, in a ten-round no-decision boxing bout here tonight, according to a majority of the sporting writers at the ringside.

Jess Willard should insist upon fighting at Juarez, March 6, the further away from Johnson he is the safer he'll be.

DETROIT FIRST SACKER UNDERGOES OPERATION

GULFPORT, March 16. — Word was received from Trainer Harry Tuthill at noon today over long distance 'phone from New Orleans, that the operation on George Burns, the Detroit Tigers' first baseman, had been performed, and that the patient had come through it finely.

In the opinion of the surgeons at the Illinois Central Hospital, the recovery will be an unusually speedy one. Dr. Leake, who performed the operation, found the appendix to be in extremely bad condition. Had Burns delayed going to the hospital, there might have been grave danger for him.

BROTHER OF HUGHIE JENNINGS IS DEAD

SCRANTON, March 16.—Henry Jennings, brother of Hughey Jennings, manager of the Detroit Tigers, died at his home in Rendham, a few miles from this city, last night. He was ill only a few days. Pneumonia was the cause of his death. Mr. Jennings was assistant foreman at the Jermyn coal mines at Rendham, and one of the best known men in that section. A widow and six children survive him. He was 53 years of age.

Joe Welling, the lightweight who has sprung into prominence through his clever work this winter, is after big game. He wants a crack at the Champion Welsh himself. Welling has improved so much this winter that the sharpshooters who have been watching his work around Chicago declare that he is the peer of any man in the lightweight division and the coming champ of the welterweights.

SOLDIERS AT GUELPH HOLD BOXING BOUTS

Some of Tom Flannigan's Boys From Toronto Take Part

NO DECISIONS GIVEN

Most of Bouts Resulted in Draws—Newman and Gallagher Feature.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

GUELPH, March 16.—Two thousand men, soldiers and civilians, filled the Arena galleries to watch the boxing bouts of the first tournament held by the men in the barracks here tonight.

Tom Flannigan brought up a string of coming champions to contest with the soldiers, and they certainly put up a splendid exhibition. Some of the Riverside Athletic Club boys, of Toronto, had a hard time to hold their own with the soldier boys of the 34th Battalion. The bout of the evening, which furnished probably the most fun for the spectators, was that between Private Spence and Smith, of Riverside Club. The long, lean boy of the Queen City would have been declared the loser had a decision been allowed, and though he was fast and had an exceptionally long reach, the Guelph lad had a punch that hurt, and he landed it at most opportune times.

The bouts were refereed by Sergt.-Major Gaunt, of the 34th Battalion, and Tom Flannigan refereed the bout between Gallagher and Newman. This was the fastest bout of all, and showed clearly how the game is played by the boys who have the careful tutorage of that master of ring-craft, Tom Flannigan.

The classes and entries are as follows: Driver Bruce, of the 16th Field Battery vs. Corporal Cook, B Company, 34th Battalion, 145 pounds, draw in three rounds.

Private Foote, A Company, vs. Private Newman, C Company, 135 pounds, two rounds, draw.

Sootoo, 109th Regiment, Toronto, vs. H. Martin, 109th Regiment, Toronto, 130 pounds, three rounds, draw.

Vanwinkle, Toronto Athletic Club, vs. Russell, Toronto A. C., 115 pounds, three rounds, draw

"Red" Gallagher, Riverside A. C., Toronto, vs. Private Newman, 34th Battalion, Guelph, 135 pounds, two rounds draw. Tom Flannigan referred this bout.

"Red" Gallagher, Riverside A. C., Toronto, vs. Private Foote, 34th Battalion, two rounds, draw.

Private Spence, D Company, 34th Battalion, vs. Smith, Riverside A. C., Toronto. Spence won on points in two rounds.

Private Winters, vs. Private Jordan, 34th Battalion, three rounds to a draw.

ST. ANDREWS EXPLAIN THE STAND THEY TOOK

Sporting Editor, London Advertiser:

Dear Sir,—There seems to be some misunderstanding regarding St Andrew's Hockey Club in the Simcoe trophy series, brought to light through the columns of your sporting page. Contrary to assertions, St. Andrew's did not refuse to meet McClarys in a two-game series, but had made arrangements, as mild weather made it impossible to play on Monday night with McClarys, to play a sudden-death game with six-man style in vogue, the same as the Manufacturers' League teams have done all season. However, the management of the Simcoe rink did not see it this way, and insisted on drawing up a new schedule, which necessitated playing on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, giving the impression of capital working against labor.

The management of St. Andrew's Club considered it out of the question to ask their men to play two games in as many consecutive nights on soft ice, and declined to be a party to the scheme.

The series now appears that it makes little difference to the rink management which teams play for the Simcoe trophy as long as it results in gate receipts.

Thanking you for your valuable space, I am, yours for true sport,

H. S. GRAY,
Secretary St. Andrew's Hockey Club.

GIANTS ARE INOCULATED WITH TYPHOID SERUM

Marlin, Tex., March 17.—Nearly all members of the New York National League club were inoculated yesterday with typhoid serum as a precautionary measure. The condition of Pitcher Rittener, who is suffering from typhoid, was reported improved today.

They are saying now that Jack Johnson wants something softer than Jess Willard to fight, from which we judge he desires a three-round go with a jelly fish.

Tip O'Neill umpired a game in California. There is one umpire no ball player ever will talk back to a second time. After Tip gets through talking there isn't any language left.

We suspect, however, that Tom Jones would be willing to buy a drink for Jack Johnson just now, but we shudder to think what he'd put in it.

TIRING, CEASELESS BACK-ACHE CAN BE RUBBED AWAY TONIGHT

Relief is Almost Unfailing From Even the First Application

RUB ON NERVILINE

Cold has a vicious way of finding out aching muscles or weak joints. How often pain settles in the back, causing inflammation and excruciating soreness. Stiffness and aching all over follows.

An application of Nerviline at the start gives immediate relief and prevents worse trouble.

When the pain is very acute, Nerviline has a chance to show its wonderful penetrating and pain-subduing power. It strikes in deeply, and its strike-in-deep quality quickly proves its superiority to feebler remedies. Then this goodness is magnified by its strength, easily five times greater than most liniments.

Surely so powerful and curative a liniment as Nerviline offers perfect security against pain.

Nerviline is the only guaranteed pain remedy sold in Canada. Forty years of success in many countries warrants its manufacturers saying if it does not relieve, get your money back.

No curable pain, not even neuralgia, lumbago, sciatica, or rheumatism can resist the magic power of Nerviline. Try it today. Rub it on your tired back, let it ease your sore muscles, let it take the swelling and stiffness out of your joints. It's a marvel—thousands say so that use Nerviline.

The large, 50-cent, family-size bottle of Nerviline is more economical than the 25-cent trial size. Buy the larger size today. Sold by dealers everywhere, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Canada.

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally That Nobody Can Tell.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

SAYS JULY WILL SEE END OF WAR

Financial Writer Thinks Expenses Will Exhaust Some Belligerents.

[Canadian Press.]

LONDON, March 17. — 3:10 a.m. — Edgar Crammond, a prominent financial writer, read a paper before the Royal Statistical Society yesterday, dealing with the cost of the war. In his opinion the war must end in July, through the exhaustion of some of the belligerents.

Mr. Crammond estimates the total cost of the war to the end of July as $16,990,000,000, and the total economic loss, through damage to property and other indirect losses, at $45,740,000,000. He estimates that Great Britain alone will spend up to the end of July £708,000,000.

The Times, commenting on Mr. Crammond's figures, thinks he takes a somewhat exaggerated view, although he is in possession of facts which entitle his opinion to respect. The Times points out that Premier Asquith's estimate of Great Britain's expenditure during the same period was only £500,000,000, but adds: "This certainly now appears too low, even if Mr. Crammond's estimate is too high, and it is already believed in financial quarters that the Government will be obliged to recourse to a new war loan sooner than was anticipated, probably in the month of May."

BULGARIA PREVENTED GREECE FROM HELPING

LONDON, March 17.—12:14 a.m.—A Reuter dispatch from Rome, gives an interview which the correspondent of the Corriere Della Sera has had with Eleutherios Venizelos, the former premier of Greece, in which M. Venizelos is quoted as saying that twice since the outbreak of the war the Allies have asked Greece to send men to help Servia, but the attitude of Bulgaria prevented Greece from doing so.

When the operations against the Dardanelles began, the Allies semi-officially inquired whether the King was disposed to intervene. M. Venizelos, who was then Premier, proposed that 50,000 men should be sent to aid the Allies, and urged that in return Greece should obtain the vilayet of Smyrna.

Owing to objections which were immediately raised, M. Venizelos reduced his figures to 15,000 men, and proposed the co-operation of the Greek navy and the use of a naval base. The entire proposal was rejected by the crown council, and M. Venizelos resigned.

SUBMARINE TUNNEL TO IRELAND PROPOSED

Member of British Commons Brings Up Question—Premier Non-Committal.

[Canadian Press.]

London, March 17.—Proposals for a tunnel between Great Britain and Ireland, underneath the Irish Channel, have been revived by the difficulties of navigation since the new German submarine warfare came into effect.

One of the questions answered by Premier Asquith in the House recently was: "Whether, in view of recent operations in the Irish Sea, and possibility of blockade in future, the Government would consider the advisability of constructing a tunnel between Great Britain and Ireland."

Mr. Asquith's reply did not commit the Government either for or against the scheme. He contented himself with the observation that "the suggestion of the honorable gentleman is hardly practicable in the present circumstances."

PROMISES BY LATEST MEXICAN PRESIDENT

Garza To Assure Public Safety —No Disorder In the Capital.

[Canadian Press.]

Mexico City, March 17.—A long statement in which he pledges himself to take every possible precaution to assure the safety of the public in Mexico City, was issued last night by Provisional President Roque Gonzales Garza. He announced that martial law would be declared today.

Business houses here were opened yesterday after a complete suspension of operations for 18 days. There is no disorder in the city.

ENTERED WITH ZAPATA.

Washington, March 17.—Unofficial advices reaching the state department today told of the return to Mexico City of Roque Gonzales Garza, elected provisional President by a convention of generals January 27.

Garza succeeded Eulalio Gutierrez, and he presumably entered the capital with Zapata forces last week after its evacuation by General Obregon. Information concerning actual conditions in Mexico City has been scant since the latest change in control, but state department dispatches from the Swedish legation there have said conditions are deplorable. These dispatches told specifically of alleged outrages to Swedish subjects.

Await Answer.

State department officials today awaited an answer to a request that transportation be furnished Americans and foreigners desiring to leave the capital. Concern still was felt for the safety of foreigners at Manzanillo on the west coast. Urgent representations have been sent to General Carranza, calling attention to the serious situation there.

STARS AND STRIPES USED BY CORSICAN

MONTREAL, March 16.—The stars and stripes were floated from the mast of the liner Corsican while she was steaming down the Mersey on her way from Liverpool to Halifax on her last voyage, because two German submarines were waiting in the waters hard by, according to one of the passengers on the Corsican, Mr. David McKay, of the C. P. R. freight department, Winnipeg, who arrived in Montreal tonight from Halifax. The American flag was hauled down, he said, as soon as the steamer cleared the Mersey and dropped her pilot.

GERMAN LINER ESCAPES

Interned Boat Gets Away From the Canary Islands.

LONDON, March 16.—2:58 a.m.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Las Palmas, Canary Islands, dated Monday, says:

"The interned German liner Macedonia disappeared from this port during the night. The Macedonia was towed here by a Spanish cruiser last November from Palma, and was moored in the inner harbor, where the authorities removed parts of her machinery.

"It is presumed that the confiscated parts were duplicated, thus enabling the vessel to slip out of the harbor. The Macedonia carries a wireless and has a cargo supposed to be composed of war stores."

BERLIN CALM OVER DRESDEN DESTRUCTION

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, via London, March 17.—The destruction of the cruiser Dresden at Juan Fernandez Island came as no surprise to the German nation. Newspapers generally express wonder that she should so long have evaded hostile warships. They praise the successful raids of the cruiser on commerce, and the hero is the capitan.

PRICES GO UP AS RESULT OF TARIFF

Manufacturers' Notices Read in the House of Commons.

VERVILLE SHOWS RESULT

Canada's War Expenses Are Paid With Borrowed Money.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, March 17.—The budget debate closed at an early hour this morning. The Government had its majority, and after defeating the Laurier amendment carried the resolution to put on customs stamp and business taxes.

Hon. George P. Graham closed the debate with a capable speech.

The House divided and the Government showed its control over its majority, some time after 3 o'clock in the morning.

OTTAWA, March 16.—"This is no time to place added burdens upon the backs of the workers of the country. This is no time to increase the cost of food and clothing. Why further oppress the mass of consumers? Why make the poor poorer and the rich richer?" said Alphonse Verville, the labor member from Montreal, in the House of Commons tonight.

He gave the House some information in regard to the effect of the new tariff. He read notices from manufacturers to their customers, stating that as the result of the tariff changes they proposed to increase the prices of their products. The first of these communications Mr. Verville read was from the Ames-Holden Boot & Shoe Company, of Montreal. Mr. A. B. Ames, the Conservative member, who is largely interested in the company, was not in the House, but the news was received with Liberal jeering.

Prices Go Up.

"Prices go up but there is no announcement of wages going up," commented Mr. Verville. Sir Wilfrid Laurier spoke truly in saying that the tariff tax had been made to favor privileged and protected interests at the expense of labor men and consumers. The labor man urged that if more taxes had to be levied it should take the form of a direct tax levied upon those best able to bear it. There should have been an income tax. The manufacture of liquor should be prohibited. Temperance would result in economics, and work wonders to alleviate existing distress. The made-in-Canada propaganda was being used to catch the workers' sympathy, while fraudulent stuff was being placed on the market. Large corporations had employed girls at pitilessly low wages to remove from imported goods the words "made in Germany" and substitute the words "Made in Canada," thus was the public being deceived.

Three years ago the Government had prevented the establishment of a shipbuilding industry in Canada, which today would have given employment to workmen and ships for defence and commerce. Over 80 per cent of Canadians in the trenches come from the homes of Canadian laborers.

R. B. Bennett, Conservative, of Calgary, praised the loyalty of the Conservative party, praised tariff protection, said that the amendment of the Liberal leader was an unworthy want of confidence motion, that it was a shame Canada had not given thirty-five millions for dreadnoughts. He approved of the progress Germany had made under protection, and said the teachings of Dr. Michael Clark would tend to disrupt the empire.

Not a War Budget.

The right to discuss the budget was claimed by Mr. E. M. MacDonald, Liberal, who followed, and denounced those who held that in a free country the tariff proposals could not be discussed by the Opposition without the cry "disloyal" being raised. This was not a war budget. War operations were provided for by loans from England. The Finance Minister said that he had been worrying about the money for the war. "Why, the Minister of Finance has the money in his pocket; he borrowed it from England. The only thing he was worrying about was how many of his party followers could be enabled to get a portion of that money," he exclaimed. The Finance Minister called himself an economist but his record showed he was a spendthrift. This was not a war budget, but a budget to cover Government extravagance at home. Not a dollar from the special customs taxes applied in the August war session had gone for war; war operations were paid out of fifty millions lent by England. Not a dollar from the customs tax now applied would go for war; the hundred millions just borrowed from England would pay war operations to the end of the year.

Finance Minister White claimed that the Canadian Northern was a baby the late Government had left on the doorstep of this Administration.

The C. N. R. Baby.

"I have always understood," said Mr. MacDonald, "that the Finance Minister himself was a Canadian Northern baby left on the doorstep of the Prime Minister." The Premier and Finance Minister flushed as Liberals cheered this.

NEW SIEGE GUNS OF THE ITALIANS SURPASS AUSTRIA'S

GENOA (via Chiasso and Paris, March 16—8:57 p.m.—The officers of the Italian General Staff, who came here for the purpose of testing the new 305 millimetre siege cannon, stated today that they had found them to be excellent guns, surpassing in exactness and range the famous Austrian cannon of the same calibre.

SPEZIA, Italy (via Chiasso and Paris), March 16—8:57 p.m.—A commission of artillery officers came here and tried out some of the new 305 millimetre cannon, recently. They stated that the guns would be most powerful engines in making an attack on fortifications. These cannon, together with others of the same calibre now ready at Genoa, are being transported to Piacenza, the largest Italian central artillery depot. From Piacenza the guns can be transported easily and speedily to whatever front requires them.

The Conservatives were trying to make capital out of the naval situation. They had little to be proud of in this. They had stopped the creation of a Canadian-built navy, which would have been afloat, sinking German cruisers when war came. They tried to have dreadnoughts constructed in England which would not have been afloat today, or for many months. The Government at the opening of the war had the Niobe tied up in Halifax while German steamships were passing the port. They had been compelled to put the Niobe into commission, and today that cruiser with a Canadian crew on board was doing useful service under admiralty direction beside British cruisers on the North Atlantic patrol.

TAY PAY SETTLES STRIKE WITH A BEER FUND

NEW YORK, March 16. — T. P. O'Connor, the Nationalist leader, settled the strike of coal passers on the Liverpool docks, which tied up the transatlantic liners for more than a week—settled it in 24 hours by agreeing to have the strikers each advanced a shilling a day for beer, according to passengers of the steamer Philadelphia, which reached here today. The Philadelphia was detained eight days by the strike.

The deceased was a grandson of Mrs. Desbarats, 85 Durocher street, Montreal, and eldest son of Baron William De Blaquiere, formerly of this city, but now of Bath, England.

SALVATION ARMY CAPT. IS MOVED TO DRESDEN

[Special to The Advertiser.]

INGERSOLL, March 16.—Lieutenant Stevens, who has been connected with the local corps of the Salvation Army for several months, has been promoted to the rank of captain. He is to take charge of the Corps at Dresden, and will leave Ingersoll on Thursday.

At the town hall this evening the Irish drama, "Erin Go Bragh," was given a highly creditable presentation by the St. John's Dramatic Club. The hall was filled and the audience was most appreciative during the three acts of the play. The parts were all admirably taken and the play abounded with interest. For several years St. John's Club has given an annual play and this was in keeping with the previous high standard.

JEWS ARE EXCITED

VENICE (via London), March 16.—11:10 p.m.—The Jewish population of Vienna, augmented by 50,000 Galician fugitives, is greatly exercised over the question of Passover bread, which, owing to the war, has not been prepared in accordance with the Hebrew ritual.

The chief rabbi has induced the Government to consent to a wholesale distribution of potatoes to orthodox Jews, during the Feast of the Passover, and 300 tons have already been given out.

WOMEN OF ALL NATIONS INVITED TO CONGRESS

Dutch Proposal, Looking Toward Peace, Supported By Suffrage Societies.

[Canadian Press.]

London, March 17.—The proposal of a committee of Dutchwomen to hold a women's international congress at The Hague in April has met the undivided support of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies, the non-militant body.

In their appeal, the women of Holland said:

"We feel strongly that at a time when there is so much hatred among nations, we women must show that we can retain our solidarity and that we are able to maintain a mutual friendship."

Women from every country, regardless of nationality, are asked to attend The Hague congress.

"The peace of the nations must not be a flabby thing, like a flabby angel on a damp cloud," declared Miss Bodenfield, speaking for the resolution to support the congress. She said the future peace of Europe would largely depend on the international relations of its women.

ARGUES IN BEHALF OF BANK SHAREHOLDERS

TORONTO, March 16. — Before Official Referee J. A. McAndrew, at Osgoode Hall, this morning, William Laidlaw argued for the shareholders of the Farmers' Bank against application of the double liability rule.

As there had never been any application by the shareholders for the certificate which had been obtained by fraud, the shares were not legal, and therefore the double liability would not attach to them. Counsel for the liquidator argued on the contrary that the bank, having been in operation four years, irregularities in that organization cannot be set up as a defence to liability upon their shares. Judgment was reserved.

PIMPLES

Appeared On His Face and Hands

The primary cause of pimples arises from the blood not being in a good condition. When the blood becomes impure you will find that pimples will break out all over the body, but more particularly on the forehead, nose and chin, and although they are not a dangerous trouble, they make you appear unsightly both to your friends and yourself. What you need, when these pimples break out, is to get a real good blood purifying medicine such as Burdock Blood Bitters. One that will build up the system by cleansing the blood of all the impurities and poisons which cause the skin to break out in these eruptions.

Mr. F. A. McKenzie, Portage la Prairie, Man., writes: "Last summer I was all rundown and unfit for work of any kind. All kinds of food seemed distasteful to me. Pimples appeared on my face and hands, and I seemed to grow worse every day. One day a friend advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. Half-heartedly I did so, and the results obtained were marvellous. I regained my health, I took on flesh, and in a short time the pimples and skin eruptions disappeared entirely; thanks to the healing powers of B. B. B. I freely recommend it to all sufferers."

B. B. B. is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A SIMPLE WAY TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Prevent Falling Hair and End Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you value your hair, you should get rid of dandruff at once, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it.

The Germans expressed gratitude for the care they had received from the British.

NURSE'S KIDNEY COMPLAINT

Cured By Dr. Cassell's Tablets After Operations Failed

She was too weak to walk alone.

In frightful pain for hours at a time.

Had undergone two operations.

Faced With a third operation she took

DR. CASSELL'S TABLETS

And was cured.

Two years ago Nurse Dowdeswell, of 37, Alfred street, Gloucester, England, wrote to say that Dr. Cassell's Tablets had cured her of acute kidney trouble, and saved her from operation, and she now tells her story for the benefit of fellow sufferers in the Dominion. She says:

"I am pleased to say that I have had the best of health since I told you of my cure by Dr. Cassell's Tablets some two years ago. People remark on how well I look. When I think of what I suffered before I knew of Dr. Cassell's Tablets, I feel I can never sufficiently praise your splendid medicine. Kidney trouble had reduced me to such a state of helplessness that I could not walk alone. I had undergone two operations, and taken endless medicine; but nothing helped me. Often I was in frightful pain, pain that lasted for hours at a time. I was also a martyr to dyspepsia, and so weak and spiritless that I used to wish I could die and be done with suffering. Although, as I have said, I was twice operated on for kidney trouble, I got no relief at all. I was urged to undergo a third operation on my left kidney, but by that time I was taking Dr. Cassell's Tablets, and the benefit was so apparent that I refused the operation, and persevered with the Tablets. Then I mended rapidly. I had no more pain: the dyspepsia, too, was cured and I began to gain flesh. In a remarkably short time I was thoroughly well and strong. Now, if ever I feel a little run down—and my work as a nurse is sometimes very trying—I just take a dose or two of Dr. Cassell's Tablets, and they never fail to set me up again. They are just splendid."

That is the testimony of a trained nurse. That such a lady should praise Dr. Cassell's Tablets is sure evidence of their curative value.

Dr. Cassell's Tablets put new life and vigor into the kidneys by strengthening the nerves that control kidney action. That is why Dr. Cassell's Tablets cure even very severe cases. Here is another instance which further emphasizes the extraordinary healing and vitalizing powers of the great British remedy, Dr. Cassell's Tablets

ACUTE KIDNEY PAINS Made Her Life a Torture.

Mrs. Ada Elliott, 6 Russell Grove, Regent Park road, Coventry road, Birmingham, England, says: "I first of all noticed that something was wrong with me when I wanted to stay in bed beyond my usual time. When I got up I trembled from head to foot, and cruel pains caught me in the small of my back. My head ached fit to split, and I had no heart or energy for anything. I had the best advice, and was told that my kidneys were affected. Medicine after medicine was tried, but no matter what I took or did the grinding pain went on. All food disagreed with me until I got to dread meal-times coming round.

"My skin was of a sickly, unhealthy color, and puffy rims formed round my eyes, and I dragged out the miserable days as best I could. All I wanted was rest, and to be free from the constant pain which was tearing the life out of me.

"The headaches and backaches became worse and worse, until there were days and days when I could hardly stir. I got very little sleep at nights, and this added to my sufferings. I was completely worn out, for my nerves went all to pieces. A few months ago I read a report of Dr. Cassell's Tablets having cured a long-standing case of kidney trouble and nervous prostration. I started taking the tablets at once, and am delighted to tell you that I am now cured. The wretched headaches and grinding backaches left me, and my health is now splendid."

Largest Sale In Britain. Popularity now world-wide

These cures are real cures, complete and lasting, and the accounts related, true beyond all question, are given out of sheer gratitude for new health, strength and vitality brought about by Dr. Cassell's Tablets. This genuine and thoroughly tested remedy is now in world-wide repute for Nervous Breakdown, Nerve Failure, Infantile Weakness, Neurasthenia, Sleeplessness, Anaemia, Kidney Trouble, Dyspepsia, Stomach Disorder, Wasting, Palpitation, and they are specially valuable for nursing mothers and girls approaching womanhood. All druggists and storekeepers throughout the Dominion sell Dr. Cassell's Tablets at 50 cents. People in outlying districts should keep Dr. Cassell's Tablets by them in case of emergency. A free sample will be sent on receipt of 5 cents for mailing and packing, by the sole agents for Canada, H. F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., 10 McCaul street, Toronto, Ont.

DAMAGES FOR BELL COMPANY.

BREAD LAW FOLLY CLEARLY SHOWN UP

St. Thomas Howls Indicate Its Weakness in Protecting Public.

BETTER CONDITIONS HERE

Bakers Break the Law, But Their Customers Benefit With Heavier Loaves.

While residents of St. Thomas are paying five cents for loaves of bread weighing twelve ounces and under, citizens of London, Aylmer, Windsor and other Ontario cities and towns, are paying five cents for loaves weighing fourteen to sixteen ounces. All through Middlesex County this illegal bread, baked in London, is being sold.

The above item shows the folly of the present bread law. In St. Thomas the bakers are obeying the law, and the people are getting a twelve-ounce loaf for five cents. In London the bakers are not observing the law, and the people are getting a loaf of fifteen to sixteen ounces for five cents, probably the largest amount of bread for the money sold in the province.

If the bread law were enforced in the city at the present time the bakers would be forced to sell either a twelve-ounce loaf or a twenty-four-ounce loaf. They could not possibly sell the twenty-four-ounce loaf for five cents, and it would be necessary to make a twelve-ounce loaf. The price would not be below five cents.

Not Always Breaking Even.

The bakers of this city have continued the 15 and 16-ounce loaves, and kept the price at 5 cents, despite the fact that they have not always been able to break even.

The Advertiser recently saw the audited annual statement of one of the large bakeries. The owner, because of large production, was making a fair profit, but his margin was small. Only the opportune purchase of flour enabled him to sell the amount of bread for the price of 5 cents.

London is said to have the cheapest bread and milk in Ontario.

Find Law Unfair.

The bakers find the present law a most unfair one, all saying that they are willing to label the bread, and to give as many ounces as are shown on the label. But a twelve or twenty-four-ounce loaf does not fit the popular price nor the requirements of the average family.

GERMAN IDEAS OF BRITISH CONDITION

Papers Tell People Blockade Is Choking Albion To Death.

[Canadian Press.]

London, March 17.—Public opinion in Germany, says the Daily Chronicle this morning, has absolutely declined to believe that the blockade of British harbors is ineffective.

"Although some weeks have gone since February 18," says the Chronicle, "and although the results of the new marine frightfulness have been so insignificant, the conviction has not weakened that 'inviolable Albion' is shorn of her bulwarks and that Germany's 'ring of steel' (submarines) is gradually but surely robbing us of naval supremacy.

Life Not Worth Living.

"An article on this subject appears in the Taglische Rundschau descriptive of the dire conditions existing in this country. Our troubles, it seems, began in November with the appearance in our midst of German 'ombs. Since then life in England has not been worth living.

"When German ships appeared on Albion's coasts, our national feelings became still more depressed, and we knew that it was no longer German bluff, but German seriousness. And then in rapid succession, says the Rundschau, came German warships and submarines, airships and aeroplanes in 'beautiful rings,' and the populace were shaken out of their lethargy, the old boasting ceased, and terror fell upon us.

Worse and Worse.

"But more terrible followed. At Heligoland, our fleet suffered serious injuries, and then came the most awful blow of all—the rush of German submarines to our shores. With giant steps they encircled the British shores. Ships bearing food and drink to England were sent to the bottom of the sea, and the 'iron girdle' was forged around the 'inviolate island.' It will crush her until her breath is choked out of her, says the Rundschau.

"In dithyrambics a writer describes the ineffectiveness in action of the British fleet, 'condemned to idleness by the superiority of German geist (spirit) and heroism.'"

Refuses Liberty Under His Parole

Belgian Defender of Liege Wants Chance to Fight Again.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, March 17.—General Leman, Belgian defender of Liege, now a prisoner in Germany, has refused to accept his liberty under a parole which the Germans have offered him, according to a letter received by one of his friends, a major in a Belgian corps.

General Leman replied to the offer, wrote his friend, that his first act on obtaining freedom would be to offer his services to Belgium and his king. He added that the wound in his foot, which had troubled him so long, had at last healed.

CARBOLIC FOILS MORBID "LOVER"

Kenneth Howell Takes Too Strong a Dose and Escapes With His Life.

DID NOT SWALLOW ACID

Result Is That Despondent Youth, Disappointed in Love, Discharged From Hospital.

In a fit of despondency because, it is alleged, the parents of a girl friend had forbidden him to visit their daughter, Kenneth ("Honey Boy") Howell, aged 20, a chauffeur, residing at 138 Queen's avenue, took carbolic acid on Clarence street, near Dundas, shortly before 9 o'clock last night.

Howell was rushed to Victoria Hospital in the police motor ambulance. At the institution it was discovered that the young man was only burned about the mouth. The dose was evidently too strong, and he swallowed none of the acid. Today the young man was discharged from the hospital by the authorities.

Police officials announced today that the young man might be taken into custody on a charge of attempted suicide.

Young Howell was found by a member of the 18th Battalion, who was walking north on the east side of Clarence street. The young fellow seemed dazed, but was able to tell the man in khaki that he had taken carbolic acid.

Quarrelled With Girl.

In a statement given to the hospital authorities last night Howell stated that after taking the dose it had burned his tongue so badly that he had expectorated into the street. He had swallowed none of the acid, he declared.

"My girl and I quarrelled, so I thought I would end it all," he said, in answer to a query why he had taken the poison.

WOMEN SACRIFICE AS MUCH AS MEN

Possibly More When They Allow Their Dear Ones To Go To Front To Fight.

Someone has said that in every man's career there is a story of human interest, and with nearly three thousand soldiers quartered in London one would think that statement could get a fair test.

But there are humble homes in the city today, in which the weaker sex are playing a part of more than passing interest. Here is one which could probably be duplicated many times.

Tommy Atkins (of course, that is not his real name) was for several years a member of the Seventh Regiment of this city. When the war broke out he felt a personal call for duty. But his wife and little daughter persuaded him that there were plenty of single men who would offer their services, and advised him to wait. When the day came for his comrades to leave the city, who had joined the first contingent, he marched with them to the station, but only as an escort.

I'm Going, He Said.

"If Canada sends a second contingent, I'm going," he announced as he reached home.

The call came, and "Tommy" was one of the first to reach the recruiting office at the armories.

"Have you got your wife's consent?" asked the recruiting officer.

As he had overlooked that all important point he was told to report again.

But the little woman at home hesitated, and arguments pro and con were indulged in until a late hour that night. Finally the wife compromised by saying that if he could pass the doctor she would consent.

The next night he reached home with the news that he was medically fit.

"Give me till morning to sign this," pleaded the little wife, as the full significance of the consent dawned on her.

As he entered his wife's room the next morning the paper was handed to him in silence, but the swollen eyes told of the struggle that had been fought in the presence of Him who tries all hearts.

Solemn Oath.

Anyone who has heard the solemn oath of allegiance taken by the British soldier cannot fail to be impressed, but the sacrifice of the noble women who give their loved ones for the cause of war is a higher and finer proof of courage.

As the 18th Battalion marched through the city streets the other day the little woman who is playing her silent part in this great war, watched them go by. She did not cheer, although the sight thrilled her, and who can express in cold type the emotions that swayed her being as her little daughter proudly exclaimed, "Mamma, there goes daddy."

Canada's sons are making history, from the soul-testing field of battle, dispatches tell us, that the spirit of the troops is wonderful. When the history of the war is written will it not be said that the memory of the sacrifices of the loved ones at home nerved the soldier's arm, and taught the haughty Prussian that "the bravest are the tenderest, the loving are the daring?"

VESSELS CHARTER FOR GREAT LAKES TRADE

High Prices for May Delivery Create Demand for Ships.

[Canadian Press.]

Duluth, Minn., March 17.—Chartering in the grain trade on the Great Lakes becomes more active with the approach of the season on navigation, and considerable grain is being offered for early shipment. High prices for grain in the May delivery are responsible for the demand for vessel room. There is also the consideration of taxes, to avoid which shippers are anxious to get their grain loaded for shipment by May 1. Shippers have obtained vessel capacity for two million up to today. Most of the business was done at 1½ cents on wheat to Buffalo.

A number of steamers in Duluth are being held at 1¾ cents.

G. T. R. TRAFFIC EARNINGS.
[Canadian Press.]

Montreal, March 17.—Traffic earnings of the Grand Trunk Railway for the week ended March 14 were $857,147, compared with $1,016,088 for the same week last year, a decrease of $158,941.

ABSOLUTE FARCE, SAYS MR. BOWMAN

No Facilities Given Committee To Investigate Expenditures of Province.

QUESTIONS DISALLOWED

Chairman Lennox Follows the Blocking Policy of G. Howard Ferguson.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, March 17.—The first sitting of the public accounts committee this morning spent some time investigating the item of $544,000 in the financial statement entered as received from the T. and N. O. Railway for interest, which was really charged out of consolidated revenue fund as part of the federal subsidy received last year.

Details Asked.

Mr. Bowman pressed for details, had the books produced to show how the entry was made and asked, inasmuch as the money had not been received, what the actual receipts would have been without the amount being taken into consideration.

Chairman Lennox made it clear that he would follow the policy of his predecessor, G. Howard Ferguson. He refused to allow the question to be answered, claiming that the facts could be ascertained by consulting the figures themselves.

Committee Refuses.

In this he was sustained by the committee, which steadily refused to allow any question to be put that would make it clear what the receipts would have been irrespective of this item.

Mr. Bowman declared that the proceedings before the committee were an absolute farce, and no facilities whatever were provided for making a proper investigation into the expenditures of the province to ascertain what the real facts were.

CANUCK'S ARTILLERY

month after month, the rigorous drill necessary to shine in septacular parade, he possesses in abundant degree all the traditional fighting qualities of the British soldier, and to whatever branches of the service he belongs, I do not think you will find him at all backward in this campaign.

Will Move Only Forward.

"I do not see much of the infantry boys. They are busy holding the trenches, but I do know they have been there nearly a fortnight, and have not given an inch yet, and are not likely to. I do not know what is likely to happen. If I did, I would not be allowed to mention it, but if I may be permitted to hazard an opinion, I would say when the boys do move it will be forward.

"So far as I am concerned, I have been in no danger up to the present. Shells are whizzing about all over the shop, but one never has been near enough to disturb our slumbers, though, of course, it is no use crowing too soon.

Life Is Exhilarating.

"Except for restrictions upon our letters, I could write an interesting account of life out here, which I have no doubt you would be glad to read. As it is, I must not mention names of places we passed through, or describe them even in the vaguest possible way. I can, however, tell you I find life very exhilarating. No doubt, should I come through all right, the experience of today may in future years be of much service to me. At anyrate, nothing in the world could induce me to return so long as I am able to keep going. What we are going through now is probably but a feeble imitation of that which will come. I had a bath yesterday for the first time since I was in London, over two months ago, and can assure you it is the biggest luxury I have had for many a long day. It is an odd picture to see about sixty of us standing naked round shallow tubs, being timed by a clerk, while we remove the accumulation of many weeks of dirt. Ten minutes was the time allowed. As soon as we were out, another bunch of grimy soldiers took our places. The relief wrought by that ten minutes of soap and water was inestimable. We hope we shall not have to wait two months for the next."

LONDONER SHOT IN TRENCH BATTLE

Mrs. Geo. Fullerton Hears From Soldier Husband in Hospital.

MAY BE RELEASED SOON

Message Comes in Form of Printed Military Postcard.

"I am in the hospital wounded."

"I expect to be released soon."

This is the brief message conveyed to Mrs. George Fullerton, residing at 61 Wellington road, on a military postcard from her husband, with the forces of the Allies fighting the German hordes in the trenches in France. Mrs. Fullerton has no idea how seriously her husband is wounded or how long he has been ill in the field hospital. The address on the card has been deleted by the censors.

The message is in printed form on the regulation postcard issued to the men of the Canadian expeditionary force, along with the other British soldiers at the front. On the card statements such as "I am well," "I am ill," "I am seriously ill," appear in rotation. Through the statements which a writer does not wish to use, a pencil is drawn.

Mr. Fullerton left this city with the men of the Seventh Field Company, Canadian Engineers enlisted in the first contingent in September. Since the Canadians embarked from England for the trenches in France, Mrs. Fullerton has heard nothing of her husband, until the arrival of the military card yesterday.

She is anxiously awaiting further word of his condition from the military department at Ottawa.

Nothing further had been learned by Mrs. Fullerton late this afternoon.

KEEP PREFERENCE; WE ARE WITH YOU

Liberals Would Have Sacrificed Much To Save the Country's Honor.

CONSERVATIVES REFUSE

Government Carries Budget Item Destroying Advantage Given Britain.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, March 16.—"Could there be a worse time for it to be announced to the world that Canada, the greatest of the daughter nations, was raising a barrier against the mother country at a time when the motherland was struggling with the greatest war in history?" asked Hon. George P. Graham, at the close of the budget debate in Parliament this morning.

Generous Offer.

"I have an offer to make the Finance Minister which should prevent this undesirable announcement going to the world," said Mr. Graham. "Here and now, ere it is too late, I offer on behalf of the Opposition, that if you will drop that portion of the budget which cuts five points away from the British preference we will agree to withdraw our amendment which the Government has so strenuously objected to. This will be a considerable sacrifice on our part, but we are willing to make it in order that the announcement may not go to the world that Canada has at this time been guilty of an unfriendly act towards the motherland."

Obedient Majority.

To this offer there was no response from the Government. By silence it insisted that the British preference must be hamstrung, and the vote was called.

The Government majority was obedient. A hundred and four French and British Canadians behind Sir Robert Borden voted against Sir Wilfrid's amendment, which deprecated the increase of protection and the curtailment of the preference.

Fifty-nine Opposition votes were recorded, so the Speaker declared that the Government had its way by a majority of 45.

To Escape Criticism.

The Administration desires to escape criticism of its failings. In the boot committee, soldiers testified that when their boots wore out after twelve days' wear men had to tie shingles upon their feet to keep them from being cut by the ground. In the House the British preference was practically destroyed with shipping conditions as they are today. Therefore the session is to be closed with speed. Notice is given that to shorten the session the House, beginning with next week, will sit in the mornings and on Saturdays.

JAP PREMIER'S VIEWS

Says Germany Trying to Incite China—Constantinople to Content Russia.

[Canadian Press.]

Tokio, March 17.—The Osaka Jiji has published an interview with Premier Count Okuma, during which this Japanese statesman said he expected good results from the negotiations going on at the present time with China. The Premier said that Germany was instigating China against Japan, but that the result would be futile.

He said that if Russia secured Constantinople it was his opinion that she would be content to abandon her ideas of obtaining an outlet in the Orient.

FIRE DOES $500,000 DAMAGE IN ILLINOIS

[Canadian Press.]

Champaign, Ill., March 17. — Fire, threatening the destruction of a large section of Champaign's business district, within an hour after its discovery today had destroyed the Morrison building, in which it started, with a loss estimated at $300,000. A high wind carried flames to neighboring structures and several others soon caught fire. Loss to the Lewis department store, which occupied part of the Morrison building, was $200,000. Firemen and apparatus from nearby towns aided the local department.

THE LOCAL MARKET

Oats remain at quoted prices, with a slightly higher trend. The top price today was $1.84 per cwt. Wheat was one cent higher, selling at $1.26 per bushel. The supply is small.

Live hogs were shipped for $7.60 per cwt.

GRAIN.

Winnipeg, March 16.—Wheat made a strong opening this morning on the firm Liverpool cables, but gradually subsided later, and at 11:30 was around Monday's closing figures. Opening prices of wheat were ⅜c to 1¼c higher. October opened late at ½c under yesterday. Oats opened unchanged, but weakened later. Flax opened 1c to 2⅜c higher, but showed unsettled later, and fluctuations were narrow.

The volume of business was light, the buying for the most part being in the hands of the speculative element.

There was no new business reported in export sales, bids being out of line. The conditions in the Winnipeg cash market were unchanged. There was an excellent demand for cash wheat and oats, but offerings were not on the market.

Inspections numbered 491 cars, of which 335 cars were wheat and 155 cars oats.

Wheat futures closed ¼c to 1⅛c lower; cash ¼c to ¾c lower; oats, ⅜c lower, and flax, 1¼c to 1¾c higher.

Chicago, March 17.—Rather general commission house selling today carried the wheat market down grade. The chief impetus came from lower quotations at Liverpool, where reports were current that the fleet attacking the defences of the Dardanelles was again making progress. There were also predictions of larger shipments to Europe from Argentina. After opening 1⅞c lower to ½c advance, prices here sagged all around.

COTTON

Washington, March 16.—Cotton exports during February were almost twice those of February, 1914, but the quantity sent abroad during the seven months, ending February 28, was far less than the same period a year ago, the deficiency due largely to the war, being 1,759,725 bales. The census bureau monthly report disclosed these figures today.

Liverpool, March 16.—Cotton—Futures closed irregular and unsettled; May-June, 5.17½d; June-July, 5.22d; July-August, 5.29d; October-November, 5.45½d; 5.45½d; January-February, 5.54d.

The sales of the day were 8,000 bales, of which 200 were for speculation and export, and included 7,200 American. Receipts were 16,000 bales, all American.

New York, March 16. — Cotton — Futures closed steady. Closing bids: March, 8.64c; July, 9.18c; October, 9.50c; December, 9.68c.

Cotton—Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 8.90c. Sales, 1,400 bales.

WALL STREET.

New York, March 17.—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Indecision was the keynote of today's early stock market, the principal issues showing little change from yesterday's reactionary tendency. Reading, whose directors meet today for dividend action, recorded an initial decline of ¾ from yesterday's close, but soon recovered. United States Steel and some of the motor stocks were lower, while Bethlehem Steel rose to 58½, achieving a new high record. Trading was small, with a narrow range. London forwarded the usual number of declines in the international list.

Noon.—The list improved toward midday, after further irregularity in Canadian Pacific and some of the specialties. Reading rose a full point above its low quotation, and the leaders displayed a little more animation, but trading as a whole was in decreasing volume. Arrival of another consignment of gold from Canada and indications of additional improvement from other s ces were among the incidents of the early session. Naval news from abroad seemed to excite little interest. Bonds were irregular.

1:30 p.m.—Declaration of the regular Lehigh Valley dividend imparted further firmness to prices in the early afternoon. Trading was largely confined to the specialties, however, particularly Beet Sugar and Mexican Petroleum.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

London, March 17.—Money and discount rates were firm today.

The stock market maintained a generally good tone, and a large business was done in war loans, some rails and colonial bonds at steady prices. Japanese bonds and Kaffirs were easy. Rio Tintos were firm on the declaration of a dividend of 35s on the ordinary shares of the year, and the carrying forward of $810,000 of the earnings.

American securities were neglected. There were few markings among the leaders during the day, and the closing was dull.

KINCARDINE HAS ITS MUNICIPAL TROUBLES

KINCARDINE, March 15.—The water and electric light commission met this evening. Mr. Welsh objected to the water and electric light commission giving a bonus to the hospital, on the ground that the commission had no legal right to do so. None could speak positively of how the law was on the point.

W. Welsh pointed out the illegality of a commissioner doing work for or selling or buying to or from the commission, and blamed the chairman for holding his position as chairman and passing his own accounts as a wrong to the commission.

There was a suggestion from James Watson, who took his seat in the place of W. Arnold (resigned), that a committee of the whole meet the town council to devise some plan for the better lighting of streets. This was embodied in a motion and carried.

Owing to the town council allowing the gravel to be taken off the shore, to the injury of the property of the commission, the latter body holds the council responsible, and says it should at least pay a share of what damage was done.

The commission was instructed to visit the shore and report upon what is required to make the reservoir safe and free from the contamination that now wash into it. This will be attended to at once, and the town will have as good water as Lake Huron can furnish.

Permission given to a contractor to take about four thousand yards of gravel off the shore, because it was handy, is likely to cost the town and waterworks hundreds of dollars in the way of repairs.

Owing to the alleged extravagant charges by some of the town workmen and shopkeepers, it was decided that the engineer be instructed to buy as many fixtures as possible wholesale and thus lessen charges.

Sure Way to Regain Robust Bloom of Youth

A smooth, velvety-soft skin, with a delicate peach-like bloom, is one of the Creator's most exquisite works. When the first blush of youth is over, this beautiful tint and satiny lustre are rarely seen. How to preserve them—that's the question. Famous beauty experts abroad long have known that ordinary mercolized wax works wonders in this direction. It actually gives a new surface to the skin, restoring that marvelous girlish color and softness in a remarkable manner. An ounce of this wax, procurable at any drug store, will convert a faded, freckled, worn-out or discolored complexion into one of captivating loveliness in less than two weeks. No special skill is necessary in applying the wax, it being smeared on at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

To remove wrinkles, or delay their formation, a face bath made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel will be found wonderfully efficacious. This tones up relaxed skin, causing it to remain firm and smooth.

LIBERAL CLUB DANCE HYMAN HALL TONIGHT

Another delightful evening of cards, and dancing to the music of a special orchestra, will be held this evening by the Liberal Club in Hyman Hall. It will be "ladies' night," the fourth of the season.

The club will follow the custom of staging a euchre contest from 8 to 10 p.m., and follow this with a dance until midnight. So far, the Liberal Club holds the record for large attendance for any club or similar association in the city. Nearly 300 persons were present at the last affair held several weeks ago.

The dance is perhaps the attracting feature about the "ladies' night" affairs, but scores take great interest in the euchre games, for which the winners are given prizes by the club. The event this evening, it is expected, will eclipse all previous affairs, as several weeks have intervened since the last, and it has been looked forward to with interest. The usual weekly euchre parties, without dancing, have been held since early in the season, each week bringing a larger attendance. The club membership is also increasing as the interest in these gatherings becomes wider.

CALL OF THE WILD, STRUGGLE FOR RIGHT

Dr. M. P. Fikes, of Detroit, Addresses Big Audience in Talbot Street Baptist.

"The Call of the Wild" was the subject of a heart-searching talk last night in Talbot Street Baptist Church by Dr. M. P. Fikes, of Detroit. Dr. Fikes portrayed in vivid, living colors the terrible struggle that rages on the battlefield of human consciousness in every life.

It was an address based on Paul's picture in Rom. vii, 23, "For I delight in the law of God after the inward man; But I see another law in my members warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members."

"Jack London has given us a striking commentary on the seventh of Romans," said Dr. Fikes, "in his story popularly known as 'The Call of the Wild.' It is the tale of a great dog, 'Buck,' who, although domesticated and an aristocrat among his species, felt constantly the call of the wolf-pack, and was prevented from springing away into the forests and to the kindred of his ancestors by the superior power of love for a man, Jack Thornton, his master.

"Stevenson has thrilled the world with his remarkable allegory, 'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde,' which is but another way of putting the thought first expounded by Paul in Romans, vii., and by Jack London in his 'Call of the Wild.' Edgar Allan Poe hits a similar trail through the possible quality of men, in his delineation of William Wilson, who met, constantly, his double, with the same name, but of a distinctly different character.

Struggle Never Ceases.

"Science has succeeded in grafting two insects into one monstrosity of life, possessing absolutely antagonistic tendencies, thus perpetuating a life-long struggle for supremacy between the opposing characteristics. And so both literature and science illustrate what Paul dramatically portrays as the moral struggle that never ceases in the depths of each intelligent soul. It is the tragic war between light and darkness, health and disease, joy and sorrow, smiles and tears, pain and pleasure, right and wrong, the highest and the lowest, the best and the worst, aspiration and degeneration, the call of the hearthstone and the call of the wild.

"It is no subtle theological imagination, but the most matter-of-fact, down-to-the-minute, practical problem that meets one at the threshold of every day life. It is a war to the finish. Either Dr. Jekyll or Mr. Hyde will dominate; either William Wilson or his double will win out; either the natural man or the spiritual man must be vanquished; either the call of Christ or the call of the wild will prevail. Millions of men want to do right, yearn to be true, but 'another law warring in their members' makes it increasingly difficult for them to achieve

Victims of Their Double.

Men of breeding and culture, men of education and training are seen to turn from every high and noble aim, sinking lower and lower in the mire of uncleanness, debauchery and degradation, until at last they have no self-control, no manhood, no reason, no hope. They have heard and heeded the call of the wild. Dr. Jekyll had tasted the poisoned drug that transformed him into Mr. Hyde. William Wilson died by a thrust through his vitals at the hands of his double. The spiritual man of the heart was murdered by the natural man of the passions. The dog went back to the wild. Wilson died at the hands of his double, Hyde triumphs over Jekyll.

"But let us not overlook the important and hopeful point of it all. It was within the province of the will to decide and determine which to become. The call of the wild need not overcome the love that holds us to all that is sweet and pure, true and noble. It is the 'Love that will not let me go' that becomes our hope in this awful struggle. Religion is will. We determine who shall take the throne of our destiny. Let it be Jesus Christ."

SCORES INSTANT HIT

18th Battalion Band Makes Successful Initial Appearance.

Instruments for the 18th Battalion band, which has recently been organized, arrived yesterday, and were immediately distributed among the twenty-two bandsmen. The musicians lined up at the barracks yesterday and played well-known Canadian, English and Irish tunes and "Tipperary" which quickened the pulses of the soldiers on parade. The band was warmly complimented by Lieut.-Col. E. S. Wigle, commanding officer of the battalion.

The band is in charge of Bandmaster Featherstone, and has already scored an instant hit with the soldiers. It is not quite complete, as it still lacks players for four B-flat clarionets, two B-flat cornets and one euphonium. Any local musicians wishing to join the organization should apply to Capt. G. W. Nelson, adjutant 18th Battalion, C.E.F., Wolseley Barracks.

The band will play on Friday at the citizens' reception.

"MIDDLESEX PIONEERS"

Peter McArthur Lectures to Historical Society on That Topic.

Peter McArthur, the Ekfrid writer and lecturer addressed the London and Middlesex Historical Society last night in the Public Library, speaking on the subject "Pioneers of Middlesex." Interspersing with the dry facts of the hardships and struggles of the early settlers of this county, many humorous touches, for humorous touches there were aplenty, according to the speaker, he kept the audience in smiling interest.

Dozens of anecdotes with the quality of real human interest the speaker narrated, which he had heard and which he had heard and which had come under his own observation as results of the lives of those who opened up this part of the country to civilization.

The story dealt with the southwestern part of Middlesex chiefly, a district with which he is quite familiar. The residents of Longwoods roads in the early eighties furnished most of the material for the lecture.

Mr. McArthur was the guest last night of Rev. R. W. Norwood, rector of the Cronyn Memorial Church.

CRUEL RELATIVES HOME BREAKERS

Dr. Gordon Calls Them Traitors of Society In Last Night's Address.

WILL OPEN NEW CAMPAIGN

Winnipeg Evangelist To Start Services at St. Andrew's Tonight.

Dr. J. L. Gordon concluded his campaign for Christian citizens at the First Methodist Church last night, and will commence a week's campaign in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church tomorrow evening with an address on "Spiritualism—Is There Anything in Spiritualism? Ghosts, Real and Unreal—Do the Dead Return to the Earth?"

The subject of last night's address was "Cruel Relatives, or the Traitor in the Home." Dr. Gordon spoke of eight kinds of individuals who could be classed under this heading, folks who always discouraged people in the home where they lived.

"In heaven's name," he said, "if there is one place where a person has the right to expect encouragement, it is in his own home, but there are homes in which you find nothing but discord.

Believe in Self.

"The trinity of faith is faith in God, faith in man, and faith in yourself. It is more important for you to believe in yourself than for anybody else to believe in you; and the main thing to believe is that, since you are in the world, there is something in the world for you to do. God has a man for every emergency, and an emergency for every man.

"They conquer who think they can. The worst kind of cant is not religious cant, but the persistent influence and effect of individuals who are forever asserting and reiterating that you "can't" achieve anything magnificent or splendid.

"The first kind of individual, therefore, against whom I utter a rebuke, is the kind that forever insists that you can't succeed, that you can't win, that you can't prosper, that you can't progress."

The second class of cruel relative referred to was the man who never says thank you in his home; the man, who, in spite of blessings and comforts, never thinks it worth while to recognize what he has received by uttering words of appreciation.

"The man has never been born," said the speaker, "who does not appreciate a compliment, and it is mighty little to ask that people who have received courtesy, kindness, attention, and consideration should have the grace the chivalry and the dignity to say 'thank you.'"

In the third class was placed the daughter who is indifferent of her father's dream. The happiest man in the world was the man who had a daughter old enough and sensible enough to enter into his dream of life and desires of achievement.

Next came the daughter who was indifferent to her mother's love. There were thousands of prodigal girls who had never left home. Their prodigality took the form of an innate selfishness. The speaker said he knew a girl whose mother simply lived for her, and yet who never lifts a finger to help that mother.

Thoughtless as Beautiful.

There were scores of beautiful young women in the homes of the country who were just as selfish and just as thoughtless as they were beautiful.

The speaker next referred to the home in which the "old people" do not feel at home. He said he once was in the home of a wealthy man—a home made beautiful by the kindness and loving-ness of the head of the house, and yet when the old man asked his daughter to sing one of the old songs, such as "Scots Wha Hae," or "Way Down Upon the Swanee River," or "Rule Brittania," or "My Maryland," she refused curtly, saying: "They don't sing those old songs in these days."

"My friends," he went on, "the 'old folks' will not be with us very long, and by and by in our turn we shall become the 'old folks.' And it might be well to practice tenderness towards those in the household who are wearing the silver crown of old age."

The sixth category was that in which was found the man who crucified his wife on the altar of meanness. Dr. Gordon said he had heard of white slavery and black slavery, and he had a profound contempt for both, but in almost worse case than any slave, was the woman who was expected to preside over a Christian household, and yet who never had her own personal purse or any financial allowance of which she was the absolute mistress.

Seventh, was the man who was weaving a fearful memory for himself, such as the man described by the speaker, who, while his wife was suffering the agony of child-birth, was under the influence of liquor in the haunt of a fallen queen in the red light district.

Last came the boy, who by his degeneracy, broke his father's heart. There was nothing which took the soul out of a man like a degenerate son. That would spoil a man's age, even though he possessed millions.

DEATH CLAIMS THIRD ERAMOSA TP. REEVE

Wm. Parkinson Expires on His Doorstep—Had Never Met Council.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

GUELPH, March 16.—Wm. Parkinson, a prosperous farmer and reeve of Eramosa, died suddenly at his home this afternoon. He had been in Guelph on business in the forenoon, and during the afternoon had assisted in killing some hogs. When he had finished and was about to enter the house collapsed on the doorstep, and before assistance could reach him, expired.

It is remarkable, this being the third reeve of the township of Eramosa to die inside of a few months. Reeve Chas. McNabb died last fall after a short illness, and James Black was elected to fill the vacancy. He was re-elected in January, sat at the county session, and died at St. Joseph's Hospital following an operation early in February.

An election was held March 1, and Wm. Parkinson was elected reeve by a majority of seven. He had never even sat in a township council meeting.

This move is in line with the suggestion of The Advertiser, that the city should make an effort to furnish necessities which the Government is not providing, and it is believed that the response will be prompt and generous. The Advertiser will be glad to receive subscriptions to help the good work along. Subscriptions may also be sent to Mrs. Hodgins, 291 Central avenue, or Mrs. Campbell, 327 Queen's avenue.
