

FULLY A THOUSAND PERSONS PERISHED
BY TERRIBLE TYPHOON AT HONG KONGFinancial Loss Estimated at Several Millions of Dollars—Great Fleet of Vessels Sunk—Many Buildings Wrecked—Shipping Trade Paralyzed.

Manila, Sept. 19. — 3 p.m. — The latest advices from Hong Kong state that one thousand lives were lost during the typhoon, and that the damage to property, public and private, will amount to millions of dollars.

Twelve ships were sunk, 24 were stranded, 7 were smashed, and one-half of the native craft in port were sunk. The shipping trade has been paralyzed through lack of lighters.

Without Warning.
Hong Kong, Sept. 19. — The typhoon which swept this port yesterday, destroying a great number of vessels, and causing much loss of life, came suddenly and without warning. The observatory had claimed pretty moderate winds. Half an hour after the gun signal had been fired the storm was at its worst. It lasted two hours. Most of the damage done was wrought on the Kowloon Peninsula.

The losses are estimated at several million dollars.

Immense Loss.
Over one thousand sampans and junks are missing from Hong Kong. Wharves were swept away and houses collapsed. The military barracks are in ruins. The steamers Montague, Fatsan, Heungshan, Wing Chi, Hermania, Castellan, Tak Hing, Emma Layken, San Rosario, Shiva, Pakhong, Petrarch, Chin Lee, Sexta, Sunon, Chang Sha, Signal and Chinkai Maru are ashore. The American ship S. P. Hitchcock was also driven ashore, as were many of the launches that run about the harbor.

The steamers Kwong Chow, San Cheung, Sotsogon, and Kong Moon were sunk. The steamers Apnarde and Johanne are partly awash.

The British reserve sloop Phoenix, and a small gunboat, the Dongola, are ashore.

The British torpedo-boat destroyers Moerhen, Robin and Takue were damaged. The Sir William Jervois was sunk. The French torpedo-boat destroyer Fronde was wrecked, and the Francisque is ashore.

The guns of the Fronde were saved, but three petty officers and one seaman lost their lives. A Chinese revenue cruiser is ashore, and several Indian China and Manila liners narrowly escaped disaster.

The harbor is strewn with wreckage thrown up on the shore. Hundreds of Chinese boatmen and their families were saved by the bravery of the police and civilians, but several thousand of the Chinese water-dwellers must have perished, many within a short distance of the shore.

Loss of Life Appalling.
The losses in lives and property among the Chinese were appalling. Today the police stations in Hong Kong are surrounded by Chinese identifying their dead. The families of the Hong Kong boatmen and thousands of these people are now homeless. The Chinese take the disaster calmly, and show no manifestations of grief.

One launch that was capsized had 130 Chinese on board. They were all drowned. The river steamer Fatsan drifted into collision with the French mail steamer. The entire Chinese crew climbed aboard the French steamer and left Capt. Thomas, who was injured, one officer and the engineers to navigate the Fatsan to Shelter Bay, where she was blown ashore.

The Bishop of Victoria, Dr. C. J. Hoare, was on his way to visit some neighboring islands when the storm broke, and is reported missing. His launch has been found floating bottom upwards.

Many valuable steel lighters have been lost. Some of them were hurled ashore. Channels will have to be dug to permit some of the vessels ashore to be refloated.

The force of the wind and waves was such that some vessels were landed almost high and dry.

The Japanese steamer Sada Maru rescued 66 natives and 1 English pilot as she was approaching Hong Kong. The English mail steamers Delhi and Poona escaped damage.

The British cruiser Terrible entered port yesterday afternoon and reported fine weather up to the harbor.

Sir Matthew Nathan, governor of Hong Kong, and the authorities are doing everything possible to render assistance.

Fresh Disasters.
Reports of fresh disasters are arriving every hour; only a few Europeans are missing.

No reports are on hand to show how the fishing fleet and the ships outside the harbor fared.

Public opinion is incensed at the observatory for not reporting the approach of the typhoon. An inquiry has been demanded. For years past the observatory has been subjected to adverse comment, but on this occasion it is not believed to be blameable.

THE KING INTERESTED

Wants a Series of Moving Pictures of Canada.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 19.—If the King cannot come to Canada, he would like Canada to go to him. In confirmation of the truth of this statement, the King has requested Leo Lefebvre, a noted Parisian moving picture man, to secure him a series of moving pictures of Canada, which are to be presented at Buckingham Palace just before Christmas. Lefebvre leaves by the Imperial limited tomorrow for the west to carry out his intentions.

Realizing their danger, the painters lowered themselves to a small window, and having cleared the scaffold, when it fell to the ground, all the ropes having been cut.

ROCK ISLAND TRAIN DASHES
INTO THE CIMARRON RIVERCrashed Through Bridge That Was Weakened by Flood —Number of Lives Lost Not Definitely Known.

Dover, Okla., Sept. 19.—At daylight today, no bodies of victims of yesterday's Rock Island train wreck had been recovered, but it was believed two persons had been drowned, Hank Littlefield, and a negro car repairer. The injured are being cared for at King Fisher, Okla. The passengers were nearly all residents of Oklahoma.

The collapse of the bridge was due to high water in the Cimarron River. The river is falling as rapidly as it rose, and the bridge will be repaired, and the submerged cars raised today.

First Accounts.
Guthrie, Okla., Sept. 19.—First accounts state that eight persons are dead, twenty more or less injured, and as many more missing, as the result of the wrecking of the Rock Island passenger train three miles from Dover at 8:30 this morning.

The engine, tender, baggage and mail cars, smoking car and day coach, of passenger train No. 12, northbound, left the high bridge that spans the Cimarron River and plunged into the stream, which is flanked by treacherous quicksands. The locomotive disappeared almost immediately. The mail and baggage clerks escaped from their cars and swam to the shore.

The accident was due to drift wood, which piled against the bridge and swayed it out of line.

The train was an hour late and was running at high speed. The engineer did not see the condition of the bridge until he was within a few yards of it. He shouted to his fireman and jumped. He landed on the verge of the river and escaped unhurt. The fireman sustained severe injuries.

Bridge Gave Way.
When the engine struck the bridge the structure collapsed, precipitating the engine, tender and day coach into the water. Two Pullmans remained on the track. The current whirled the day coach down stream and lodged it against a sandbank. The occupants were helped out through the doors and windows.

The smoking car floated to a sand bar and four men were seen to clamber through the windows and pull themselves on the top of the car, calling loudly for help. Those on shore were unable to reach them on account of the high water, and while they were drifting for assistance, a mass of drift wood swept them away. Three others crawled through the rear door of the smoking car. They were rescued.

Number on Board.
The most authentic account places the number of passengers in the smoking car at between 25 and 30.

One man was fished out of the river at Cashion, 20 miles from the disaster. He was almost dead. Others have been reported floating down the river.

The injured were hurried to King Fisher, where the residents have turned their homes into temporary hospitals. It may be impossible to ascertain the exact number of dead for several days.

Sheriff J. P. Love, of King Fisher, who was in the smoking car, says that there were at least 30 in that car.

"Just as the car was turning on its side," he says, "I fought my way to the door, and forced my body through the door. When I came to the surface I was swept down stream by the heavy current. When in the last stages of exhaustion I touched bottom and drew myself up on the bank. There were at least 30 others in the smoking car. I saw two beside myself escape."

NEW SPELLINGSays Blow at Recognized Rules
Is Blow at Morality Itself.

Hawick, Scotland, Sept. 19. — Lord Rosebery, speaking at the jubilee dinner last night of the Hawick Archaeological Society, of which Dr. Murray, editor of the Oxford new English dictionary, is president, said amid laughter that he came especially to hear Dr. Murray's opinion of President Roosevelt, and was disappointed that not a word has been murmured on the subject.

Lord Rosebery then humorously referred to Mr. Roosevelt's spelling reform, saying a blow struck at the recognized rules of spelling of the English race was a blow at morality itself. Conscientious and virtuous people, he said, were hampered by spelling, but the unscrupulous and virtuous spelled ahead according to phonetic rules of their own, producing results fully acceptable to themselves, and sometimes understood by others.

He was not at all sure that the archaic rules of spelling laid down by tradition and stereotyped by the dictionaries had not filled half the lunatic asylums of the country. The conscientious man got muddled, but the unscrupulous went ahead, and at the last moment of his life might be honored by the homage of the President of the United States.

A CLOSE CALL.

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—J. K. Paisley, proprietor of the Grand Union Hotel, while out driving this afternoon met with an accident which left him badly cut up and bruised. His horse shied on Elgin street and the rig struck against a telegraph pole. Mr. Paisley was thrown out with considerable force. He was unconscious for nearly two hours. He will be laid up for some time.

WOODEN WEDDING WAS A FEAST OF DEATHCouple Found Lifeless After Their Joyous Celebration.

New York, Sept. 18.—Mr. and Mrs. Bajek, of No. 408 East Sixty-fourth street, celebrated the fifth anniversary of their marriage in the true observance of a "wooden wedding" Saturday night. Yesterday morning, the opening day of the sixth year of married life, found them dead. The gas jet in their bedroom had been blown out by the high wind and they had been asphyxiated.

The Bajekes were a frugal couple. Both were employed in a cigar factory, and through the combined efforts they were enabled to have a neat and comfortable home in a new law model tenement. For months they had been saving to celebrate the wooden wedding, with dancing and a Hungarian feast, spread for ten. The guests departed, wishing the happy couple many more years of happiness.

Among the guests was Maria Mader, of No. 415 East Sixty-fourth street. When she came to the feast she brought a piece of meat for her Sunday dinner. It was placed in the Bajekes' ice-box. In the morning Mr. and Mrs. Bajek were found dead. The coroner took the bodies to the morgue. At the door she detected escaping gas and gave an alarm, which led to the discovery of the dead couple.

On a bureau was found a bottle of wine from which each had drunk a glass. The other, and done up in a pocket handkerchief were the wedding ring and other jewelry that had been given to the wife on her wedding day.

SNEEZE UPSET BOAT

And as a Consequence Two Fishermen
Were Drowned.

New York, Sept. 19.—While fishing from a rowboat on Ford's pond, at Troy Hills, near Madison, N. J., Patrick T. Healey and Andrew Healey, brothers, of Montclair, were drowned. According to the officials of Morris County, the boat was upset accidentally by Patrick while in the act of sneezing.

FIVE FLAT BOATS SUNK

Three Persons Reported Drowned in Buffalo Lake.

Rosthern, Sask., Sept. 19. — Commissioner McKenna's party met with a violent storm on Buffalo Lake, a body of water 33 miles long, 8 miles wide and 350 miles north of Prince Albert. Five small, flat boats were all attached to a steamer tug when the storm broke. The report said the small boats were all swamped and the baggage, books and supplies all lost. It is said three persons were drowned, but the report is not confirmed. The commissioner sent word to Charles Laviolette, Muck Lake, who guided them to Green Lake, to return to that point and bring the party back to Prince Albert. The party is now en route. The party is composed of 35 men, including the commissioner and staff, scrip buyers. Everyone carried considerable money. A private letter recently said Commissioner McKenna's son was nearly drowned in shooting the rapids at Portage la Piche.

London Globe on Result of Canadian

London, Sept. 19. — The Evening Globe, referring to President Ballantyne's speech to the convention of Canadian manufacturers at Winnipeg, says that Ballantyne shows a right and businesslike determination to promote the growth of Canadian industry, and asks, "What have we in this country to set against these proved results of preference in Canadian trade and this generous, patriotic, forward policy of the Canadian manufacturers? We are neglecting the plain testimony of our friends' experience, and turning the cold shoulder to their promise of a vigorous imperial comradeship."

Situation Improved.

The situation at Springbank showed some improvement today, the water in the reservoir showing a depth of 5 feet 6 inches, a gain of eight inches since yesterday morning. The supply for the city is still being drawn from the reservoir, instead of being dumped direct.

Yesterday the pumps at the Grand Trunk's pumping plant gave out, and the company asked for permission to supply their locomotives from the city pipes, until the pumps could be repaired. The request, however, had to be refused, and the engines had to be supplied from the immense tanks, which are generally kept full for such emergencies.

A SUSPICIOUS CASE

The Death of Mrs. Cook and Babe
Toronto To Be Investigated.

Toronto, Sept. 19.—Circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Eliza Cook and the burial of a prematurely-born babe in the backyard of the Cook home, have led to the coroner making an investigation of the case.

Mrs. Cook is the wife of Fred Cook, a farm laborer, living seven miles back of Highland Creek, a village 14 miles northeast of Toronto.

On Wednesday, Sept. 15, the woman was taken ill, and Dr. A. Glendenning of Markham road, at Malvern, was called in.

Cook's story is that he held chloroform to his wife's face while the doctor performed an operation resulting in the birth of a seven-months-old male infant.

The child was dead at birth, and Mr. Cook says, on the advice of the doctor, he buried the body in the back yard. Mrs. Cook died of blood-poisoning on the evening of Friday, the 17th, and was buried in Locust Hill Cemetery the following evening.

The facts of the case were reported to Crown Attorney Drayton, who ordered an investigation, and last night County Constable Burns was on the scene making inquiries.

Building Robbed of Valuables.

Toronto, Sept. 19.—While the watchman slept Monday night, thieves broke into the Women's building at the Exhibition grounds, where Camp Wright of the I. O. O. F. is located, and secured considerable booty.

In this building some of the patriarchal militant cantons are quartered, the men sleeping in cots. Among those robbed are Major Lumbee, Erie, gold watch, worth $125, and $45 in money; C. Allen, Erie, Pa., $15 in money; Chevalier Holden, Erie, Pa., $17 in money; and a railway ticket home. Others lost small sums, while some lodge jewels, valued at $100, belonging to the Indiana contingent, were also stolen. Entry was gained to the building through a window in the washroom.

Watchman's Demise Imperils Many Lives Before Discovered.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 18.—With a corpse in the watch tower, the St. Clair avenue crossing of the C. and P. railroad was practically left unguarded for four hours early yesterday morning.

Crowded street cars bumped over the tracks every few minutes, the passengers ignorant of the danger. Freight trains and yard engines passed back and forth in all that time the gates were not lowered once.

STABBED THE WAITER

Italian Was Served With Pork Instead of Beef Steak.

Milwaukee, Sept. 19.—Because when he wanted a hamburger steak he was served with a pork chop, Vespo Rocco, an Italian, who came here from Antigo two days ago, tried to kill Jasper Caro, a waiter, and yesterday was arraigned in the district court on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder. The testimony showed that Rocco came into a restaurant in the Italian quarter and called for chopped meat, meaning hamburger. The waiter brought him pork chops. Rocco flew in a rage and refused to accept the order. Then he quieted down and offered to buy drinks, asking Caro to drink with him. When the waiter approached Rocco drew a knife and stabbed him in the breast, inflicting a serious, but not dangerous, wound. Caro is in the hospital. Rocco fled, but was captured.

MR. MONTAGUE SAYS "NO."

Hamilton, Sept. 19.—Hon. W. H. Montague tonight, when shown the rumor that his name was being discussed in connection with the vacancy in East Hamilton, said he knew nothing of it and that if his name were being so used it was entirely without his consent.

"You may add," he said, "that I have neither the time nor the inclination to re-enter politics."

HON. MR. HYMAN AT AYLMER;
STRONG SPEECH AT BIG MEETINGMinister of Public Works Deals With National Affairs
—Hon. A. B. Aylesworth's Interesting Address.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Aylmer, Ont., Sept. 18. — The campaign in behalf of W. F. Hepburn, the Liberal standard-bearer in East Elgin, is being conducted with a vim and vigor which augurs well for the success of the Liberal cause. Tonight the town hall was packed to the doors with an audience composed of the intelligent voters of Aylmer and the district, as well as a large number of the fair sex. The lavish applause showered on the several speakers evidenced the fact that the people of East Elgin are well satisfied with the Laurier Government, and it is predicted that the candidate, Mr. Hepburn, will redeem the constituency by a handsome majority on Oct. 4.

The speakers were Hon. C. S. Hyman, Minister of Public Works; Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice; Mr. Hepburn, the candidate; Mr. W. E. Stevens, a well-known barrister, of Aylmer, and Mr. W. H. Dowler, of Tillsonburg. The candidate made a vigorous, manly speech, which made him many friends. Mr. Hyman produced an array of facts which were convincing, and were incontrovertible testimony to the wisdom of the Liberal policy, and Mr. Aylesworth delivered a masterly eulogy of the Canadian Premier, which threw the audience into paroxysms of enthusiasm.

Great credit is due the young Liberals of Aylmer for the success of the meeting, and Mr. G. A. Bingham, the hard-working secretary, comes in for the lion's share of the credit. Among those invited to seats on the platform were R. Francis, president of the East Elgin Reform Association; Dr. F. H. Miller, vice-president; F. W. Summerland, editor of the Journal; St. Thomas; George Lemon, Aylmer; M. E. Lyons, Aylmer; M. M. Black, Springfield; G. H. Haight, Sparta; J. C. Dance, ex-M. P. P. Kingsmill; S. S. Clifton, Victoria; Thomas H. Mason, Hamilton; W. O. Pollock, Yarmouth; Alvin White, Springwater; W. C. Lewis, Yarmouth.

Warm Welcome to Candidate.

Mr. Hepburn was greeted by loud applause. He congratulated the young ladies of Aylmer upon the splendid audience, which reflected credit upon them. Two years ago he was chosen as the standard-bearer of the Liberal party, and the result showed that a keen, clean fight had been put up. He had been strongly criticised by his opponents because of the part he had taken in the distribution of the patronage of East Elgin, and especially was this so in connection with the expenditures at Port Springwater; W. C. Lewis, Yarmouth.

Want Them Classed as
"Undesirables."

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Sept. 19.—I. G. MacPherson, M. P. Vancouver, and W. A. Gailher, Kootenay, waited on Sir Wilfrid Laurier today, and asked that Hindoos, who are now arriving in British Columbia in large numbers, be shut out of Canada. They want the clause in the Immigration act under which "undesirables" are not permitted to arrive in Canada to be applied to them. Mr. MacPherson says that 1,300 have already arrived, and they are coming in by every steamer. The immigration department is now investigating the matter.

The Transcontinental Railway commission will call for tenders soon for the construction of 200 miles of the line north of Lake Abitibi. It is the intention to extend the Ontario and Temiskaming road to the lake, so that material can be conveyed over this line for the construction of the transcontinental road.

MARKED FOR MASSACRE

Police Cut Trees in Front of Jewish Homes in Odessa.

Odessa, Sept. 19.—Revolutionaries yesterday made an attempt to burn down the political prison here. They only succeeded, however, in partially burning the roof.

Police, accompanied by soldiers, made tours of the city and cut marks on the trunks of trees standing close to a great number of shops belonging to Jews. These actions are supposed to be in preparation for the intended attack by the military, and a great panic ensued when the people learned what had been done.

Representatives of the Jews appealed to the mayor to investigate and the investigation is said to have confirmed the story.

A police official was tried here on charges of having killed eleven Jews during the anti-Jewish attacks last year. Although the murders were fully proved, the man was condemned to only three years' imprisonment. Three other police officials who were convicted of having looted and destroyed a Jewish dwelling were acquitted.

THE WINNIPEG STRIKE.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 18. — There is little change in the strike situation. The strike committee have asked the builders' exchange to appoint a number of their members to meet the strikers' committee in arbitration. Laborers and hod-carriers hold a meeting tonight with a view of joining in the strike. LIFEBOAT COXSWAIN'S RECORD.

Liverpool, Sept. 19.—David Cook, the veteran coxswain of the Princeton volunteer lifeboat, has brought his 50 years' record of life-saving to over 1,000 lives. Of these 105 were saved by him unaided. Cook is now helping to raise £375 for a new lifeboat, towards which £200 has been obtained.

BULLET MISSED THE MAN'S HEART

Then He Repented of Having Shot Himself—Phoned for the Janitor.

New York, Sept. 18.—Directly after a mysterious woman, heavily veiled and dressed in black, had quitted his apartment, Julius Spier, a wealthy manufacturer of terra cotta, whose wife and three children are traveling in Europe, shot himself through the body near the heart with a heavy hunting rifle. He held the muzzle of the weapon against his breast, aimed, as he thought for the heart, and pulled the trigger with his left hand.

Discovering a moment later that the shot was not well aimed and that perhaps the wound was not a fatal one, Spier regretted his rashness. With almost his last ounce of strength he staggered to the telephone on the wall of the room and rang up the janitor, Joseph Craig.

"Well, Joe, I've done it," said Spier. "I couldn't stand it any longer. But, Joe, I don't want to die. Please hurry up and see me, for I guess it's all over with me now. I've shot myself through the heart."

Craig ran up to Spier's apartments, which are on the third floor of the building at No. 306 West Eighty-second street. He found the would-be suicide sitting in his pajamas on a couch in the library. In front of him on the floor lay the rifle with which he had shot himself. Spier was perfectly conscious, and said he regretted that he had followed the blind impulse to end his life.

Craig called up the Roosevelt Hospital on the phone and summoned assistance. Then he ran out and called in a policeman.

"I didn't mean to make such a fizzle of the job, and am sorry to make you so much trouble," said Spier to Dr. Parker, who came with the ambulance. "I got up this morning and got out my guns to fix them up for a trip to a shooting lodge in Maine. I am very lonely without my wife and children, and I guess I must have been a bit melancholy. The impulse just came over me to shoot myself, and so I did."

Spier has been something of a bon vivant for several years, and is a well-known figure in the Broadway lights. His habits led to trouble with his wife from time to time, and early last spring he went to a sanatorium at her request.

There he was under treatment for the liquor habit. The doctor failed to cure the effect, and soon after Spier left the sanatorium his wife and children sailed for Europe. Since that time he has lived alone in the luxurious apartments.

Some of the tenants in the building saw the veiled woman in black enter and go up to the third floor. It was before 3 a.m. She did not take the elevator, but walked up the stairs and left the door open. Spier's apartments only a few minutes before the shot was heard, and Spier called Craig up on the phone.

Spier was taken to Roosevelt Hospital, where the surgeons said that the bullet had not hit any vital part, but that he had small chance of recovery. The bullet passed entirely through the upper part of his body and lodged in the ceiling. It had struck a rib and been deflected from its course. Mrs. Spier and the children are expected back from Europe shortly.

POLICYHOLDERS HEAVY LOSERS

Many Millions in Insurance Surrendered or Lapsed in Time of Scandal.

New York, Sept. 18.—Interesting figures indicating the effect of the life insurance disclosures upon the policyholders are contained in the full report of the State Insurance Department for 1905, just issued. The report shows in detail the amount of insurance that lapsed and was surrendered in that year of scandal.

In the 26 regular life companies doing business in the state, exclusive of the Industrial companies, policies calling for $131,418,929 were surrendered in 1905. This is an increase of $40,302,420 over the policies calling for $91,116,509 in 1904.

Policies calling for $482,753,491 were allowed to lapse, and this is not counting the "expiring" policies of the New York Life of $109,141,000, a large part of which would, it was said yesterday, be reported as lapsed were it not that the New York Life has a special way of making up its report.

The increases in lapses for 1905 were $20,822,584 and $1,076,822, the increased "expirations" in the New York Life are added, the total increase is brought up to $50,551,322.

The Equitable Mutual and New York Life policyholders were more active in surrendering their policies and in allowing them to lapse than those of any of the other companies. In the Equitable $3,778,866 policies, calling for $1,861,589 insurance, were surrendered in 1905, as against 3,661 policies, calling for $1,306,929 of insurance, surrendered in 1904. More than 6,000 policies, calling for $3,511,230 of insurance, were allowed to lapse in the Equitable in 1905, as against 5,000 in 1904.

The Mutual Life had 10,095 policies, calling for $23,753,386 of insurance surrendered in 1905, as against 7,011 policies calling for $18,866,141 in 1904. The Mutual had 38,835 policies, amounting to $2,116,481 of insurance lapsed last year, which represents an increase of 8,920 policies, and $1,307,427 in insurance.

In the New York Life both lapses and surrenders show apparent decreases from the 1904 figures. 8,715 policies having been surrendered in 1905, as against 11,415 in 1904, the amount of insurance represented by each being $2,925,555 in the former year and $3,949,383 in the latter. Similarly, 19,896 policies, calling for $9,635,469 of insurance, were surrendered in 1905, as against 22,546 policies calling for $7,825,511 of insurance in 1904.

Inquiry in insurance circles yesterday brought out the explanation that it has been the practice of the New York Life when a policy which would otherwise lapse because of the suspension of premium payments, to give term insurance to the policyholder for a period of two months. Thus, when a policy is finally "expiring" rather than "lapses," the figures on expirations are taken into account in computing the lapses.

President Paul Morton of the Equitable demonstrated recently that it was the small policyholder, the man with a contract calling for less than $500, who was being tricked out by the disclosures, and who was consequently the heavy loser.

BERNARD SHAW

A NUDE MODEL

A Photograph of Him as "The Thinker," Rodin's Great Work of Art.

London, Sept. 18.—George Bernard Shaw, the "Thinker," is the sensation of the Photographic Society's annual show, which opened Thursday. It is an impressionist photograph by a widely known American artist, Alvin Langdon Coburn. When he was asked if it really was Shaw, Mr. Coburn referred the questioner to the dramatist himself.

But Shaw is not talking on that subject.

By a remarkable exercise of the photographic art Coburn has got rid of Shaw's misanthropic expression and has produced a wonderful resemblance to Rodin's great work. The photograph was suggested by Rodin himself to Shaw when the latter was sitting to that artist in Paris this year for his statue.

Shaw has also been posed this year by Neville Lytton, the Earl of Lytton's brother, in imitation of Velasquez's famous portrait of Pope Innocent X.

Another famous writer has been causing a sensation, though a milder one. William T. Stead has visited London music hall for the first time in his life, and this is the way he describes the effect upon him of the show:

"If I had to sum up the whole performance in a single phrase, I should say, 'Drivel for the Dregs.'"

"My first impression was one of utterable boredom. For three and a half solid hours I sat, patiently listening to the most insufferable banality and imbecility that ever fell upon human ears."

"My second impression was one of wrathful indignation. It seemed intolerable that in Anno Domini 1906, the heirs of thousands of years of civilization and the product of 35 years of the education act should relish this inane drivel. It was not the immorality that roused me so much as the imbecility. I did not feel that they were vicious so much as nakedly stupid and unashamed."

"My third impression was the absence, with one or two exceptions, of anything beautiful or melodious."

"La Miti's" classical poses met with his warmest encomiums, and he declared it impossible to see anything indecent in them.

The directors of the pavilion, which Mr. Stead visited, are considering the question of bringing a libel suit.

SHOT AFTER SHORT TRIAL.

Mitau, Russia, Sept. 18.—Lyndenberg and Kent, two of the most prominent revolutionary outlaws, have been arrested, tried by drum-head court martial, and executed by shooting at the scene of their last murder. In a previous attempt to capture these two men they were pursuing them. Before their execution, Lyndenberg and Kent boasted of many murders. They took part, with other revolutionists from the Baltic Provinces, in the Sveaborg mutiny. They were in receipt of weekly salaries from the terrorist organization, paid from the proceeds of bank and train robberies.

CRAZY TO SEE

ALICE LONGWORTH

Columbus Crowd Stampedes at Unveiling of McKinley Monument.

Columbus, O., Sept. 18.—With panic thronging a crowd of 50,000 persons surging about a stand erected in the capital grounds, frantic to secure a glimpse of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, the President's daughter, the oratorical exercises arranged for the unveiling of a statue of William McKinley Friday afternoon were suddenly postponed until the president had been hurriedly unveiled.

The crowd was so large and cramped that it got beyond control, and a shattering of women and children, who were caught in the crush, rapidly worked the crowd into a frenzy. Many women fainted and were carried out of the crowd by the police. Mrs. Eliza Louise Munn, and a negro were trampled on, and had to be removed in an ambulance. Barry McIlwain, Mr. and Mrs. Longworth had an extraordinary experience in escaping from the excited crowd. From the speakers' stand they went through a window overlooking the platform into the governor's office, but they were scarcely inside when the people began to surge through the doors from the corridors, and the office was quickly filled.

The Longworths then attempted to reach an automobile which was waiting for them in the street, but once inside the building they were caught in a surging crowd. Finding no immediate avenue of escape, Congressmen Longworth fought a way for his wife out of the capital grounds and across Broad street into the Outlook building.

There they remained until the police cleared a way for a carriage, which took the congressman and his wife to the hotel. Later the Longworths took a train for Cincinnati.

As a band was playing an overture women in the crowd next to the speakers' stand began to scream and cry for help on account of the crush. Several women fainted and were carried to the stand. Rev. Washington Gladden rose to deliver the invocation, but he had spoken only a few sentences when the roar of voices decreed him to stop. Governor Harris then attempted to quiet the crowd.

"Keep back," he shouted, "you are crushing the people in front to death."

The governor's voice could not be heard 20 feet away, on account of the din. The commotion then became so bad that those on the stand asked Mrs. Longworth to come forward in the hope that a glimpse of her might satisfy the crowd. She came to the front of the stand, and the crush became almost a stampede.

It was then decided to unveil the statue at once. Mrs. Longworth then pulled a ribbon, which drew aside the flags covering the statue. A man hoisted on another's shoulders grasped the ribbons, and they were quickly torn into fragments by relic-seekers.

The crush was then stopped for a few minutes, but as Mrs. Longworth sat down it was renewed, and she again went to the front of the platform and bowed to the throng. The committee on arrangements having decided to defer the addresses until evening, allowed Mrs. Longworth to retire from the platform and announced the change of programme.

The programme of exercises was carried out at Memorial Hall, which was filled with people. Governor McKinley presided. The speakers were William R. Day, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States; John W. Daniel, United States senator from Virginia; Gen. Joseph McKay, of Brooklyn, N. Y., national commander-in-chief of the G. A. R.; Mrs. McKinley was unable to attend.

In the fulness of life, with a message of goodwill and kindness yet fresh on his lips, meeting the people who delighted to testify that affection and appreciation which was the highest reward for faithful and unselfish services, he was felled to earth for no other reason than that in his person he represented the head of the nation, and stood for liberty, respect for the laws of God or man.

"He lives in the love of his countrymen. His memory grows brighter with the years; the nobleness of his life, the sublime heroism of his death shall never perish from the thoughts of men. He lives in the thousands of homes where comfort and domestic peace reflect the wisdom of his statesmanship. He lives in the beneficence of his example at every heart where succeeding generations shall recount the strength and beauty of his character and tell again the story of his life."

MORMON FIGHTS WITH A ZIONITE

Religious Argument Winds Up in Fisticuffs-Guards Had to Interfere.

Zion City, Ill., Sept. 18.-In a clash between Mormon elders and Zionists here today a general riot was only stopped by the arrival of a score of guards.

A crowd of 200 people, who were surrounding the stand, in the main street of the north shore town, from which the Mormons were speaking, became involved in the altercation.

Ex-Deacon Schumaker, of the Zion Church, and Elders Christianson and Elliott, of the Mormon Church, were injured.

The trouble started when Schumaker, it is alleged, made a verbal attack upon the Mormons.

This was resented by the Mormons, and Elders Christianson, of Rock Island, and Elliott, of Chicago, replied. Then, it is asserted, Schumaker struck Christianson.

Elliott came to the relief of his brother Mormon and the fight became general.

The sixteen Mormon elders, who are conducting the crusade for converts, charged the crowd of Zionists. They beat back the crowd, which was reinforced by other citizens.

The Zion City guards, attracted by the noise of the battle, rushed to the scene.

Striking Mormons and Zionists indiscriminately they forced back the crowd.

The Mormons rushed into the open door of the pure food supply house, in front of which they were speaking, and closed the heavy doors in the face of the Zionists.

Later they were conducted to the hospital.

John Alexander Dowie has given up the fight to regain power in Zion and is preparing to leave Zion City for Mexico, where he hopes to regain his health and bring about the realization of his plantation scheme.

Dr. Oronhyatekha on Witness Stand-Few New Features.

Toronto, Sept. 19.-Dr. Oronhyatekha was the witness before the insurance commission yesterday and continued his evidence along the line followed on previous days.

He took the position that actual experience was of greater value in determining the basis upon which the insurance business could be safely conducted than actuarial calculation.

He also submitted comparative statements showing the cost of business done by four giant insurance companies in the United States and the I. O. F., and also made a comparison between a leading company in Canada and the I. O. F. on the same basis.

That Canada and the United States have no division except that mapped out by the engineers was one of the themes in a brilliant address of Hon. A. S. Pinkerton, of Massachusetts, before the commission yesterday.

The odd fellows past grand representatives' reunion in Massey Hall last night. He argued that Oddfellowship bound the two peoples close together with inseparable links. His address mainly dealt with the relation between the order and the state, and he claimed that since individuals were improved by the order national life would be advanced. "We may live under different flags, but as long as those flags are bonded together the safety of the world and of the individual rests securely in the hands of a strong and conquering race," he said.

Addresses were delivered on somewhat similar lines at the same meeting by Dr. C. I. Campbell, past grand sire, of London, Ont., and Hon. Hill Montague, of Virginia.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 19

THE CAPTAINS OF INDUSTRY.

The annual address of the president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Mr. Ballantyne, strikes a cheerful note. Times are good, Canadian industry is in a healthy and flourishing condition, and manufacturers are making money. Their one drawback is the scarcity of labor, but it is better for the country that they should complain of the lack of workmen, than that labor should complain of the lack of work.

Mr. Ballantyne cites a convincing array of prosperity statistics. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, Canada's foreign trade amounted to $552,000,000, an increase of $12,000,000 in ten years. Our exports alone increased $20,000,000 in the past year. The imports from the United States increased 8 per cent and the imports from Great Britain 13 per cent. A large proportion of the increase of our purchases from Great Britain Mr. Ballantyne attributed to the preferential tariff.

The fly in the ointment, from the manufacturers' point of view, is the large volume of Canadian purchases in the United States. Our dutiable imports from that country last year were valued at $94,200,157. A large percentage of these were manufactured goods, which Mr. Ballantyne thinks could have been made just as well in this country. Whether it would be more profitable to have them made in Canada, or purchase them in the United States, is, however, a question upon which there will be difference of opinion. There is already a Canadian tariff on these goods, which would cause them to be made in this country if the cost of production was not greatly in favor of the United States. No doubt the tariff could be raised sufficiently high to compel their manufacture in Canada, but the majority of the people of Canada are not convinced that it is good policy to pay any price for any industry.

Mr. Ballantyne was aware that his views would meet with less acceptance in the west than elsewhere, because the west is mainly interested in agriculture, and he cleverly appealed to the farmer to support a policy of all-round protection which would exclude competing farm products, and build up a home market. The home market, however, will not determine the prices of Canadian farm products, which find their chief market abroad, and Canada will not soon reach the stage, which the United States is approaching, where it will cease to be an exporter of foodstuffs. Mr. Ballantyne points out that of 171,000,000 acres of arable land in the United States only about 4 per cent is under cultivation, and that if only one-fourth of it is put under the plow, our granaries will contain more than four times the requirements of Great Britain. This means that for many years to come the consumption of wheat in Canada will have no influence upon the value of our vast and expanding wheat crop, the bulk of which will have to be exported to other countries. And so long as the value of agricultural products is fixed in the markets of the world, any imports of these products from other countries will not disturb home prices.

Mr. Ballantyne advocated Imperial preferential trade, and undertook to explain the position of the Canadian manufacturers. He would place a virtually prohibitive tariff upon foreign imports. An "equalizing" tariff he described as one which would place the Canadian manufacturers on an equal footing with the British rivals, having regard to the cheaper labor of Great Britain. Whether British and Canadian manufacturers could agree in their definition of an "equalizing" tariff, or frame a schedule of duties upon that basis, is one of the problems which beset the question of an Imperial preference.

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE IN FINLAND.

It may be considered an anomaly that the latest victory for women's suffrage, and the most complete, has been won within the bounds of the Russian Empire. Thus we have the seeming phenomenon of the unrestricted exercise of the franchise by women in the most radical countries on earth, Australia and New Zealand; and also under the most despotic government in Christendom. The movement has not made the headway its champions hoped for in other civilized countries. The section of the Russian Empire in which the cause has achieved a triumph is Finland, a little nation that has kept the torch of liberty burning in spite of the efforts of Muscovite tyranny to quench it.

The Baroness Gripenberg, one of the band of educated and progressive Finnish women, has sent broadcast a circular letter explaining the events leading up to what is little short of a miracle. The movement began in 1884, but political conditions were unfavorable. In 1905 the self-governing rights of Finland, which had been largely suspended by reactionary influences at St. Petersburg, were restored by an Imperial manifesto, in which universal suffrage was foreshadowed. This removed the question from domestic politics, where it had been almost stalemated, and gave it a great impetus. The women's associations worked diligently, and young lady students in the university traveled about the country lecturing. Many meetings were arranged by peasant women. When the Imperial proposal, signed by the Czar, conferring political equality upon married and unmarried women, came before the Finnish Diet, very little opposition was offered. Women have not only been given the ballot, but are eligible for election to Parliament. In Finland women receive the same education as men, and work side by side with them in many occupations, as do their sisters in Great Britain and America. The gift of the suffrage, and of eligibility to the Diet, gives them a more advanced position than in any other country. This will surprise people who have imagined that all social progress is a monopoly of the Anglo-Saxon race. The Baroness Gripenberg modestly concludes her letter thus: "The gratitude which we women feel is mingled with the knowledge that we are much less worthy of this great success than the women in other countries, especially in America and Great Britain, who have struggled a much longer time and with much more energy and perseverance than we."

A CANADIAN FLAG.

Referring to some remarks in these columns, our local contemporary says:

"Canada should be signified in the British ensign by some more simple figure. A white star would serve the purpose as indicating the position the Dominion holds in the great constellation of British protectorates. But perhaps some better device might be found if inventive genius would but consider it."

The idea of a more simplified Canadian emblem is a good one, and has been strongly urged in many quarters. The device which has been generally favored is a single maple leaf, standing clear and distinct in the field of the British ensign. The maple leaf is accepted by Canadians as the national emblem, and the Canadian national anthem, "The Maple Leaf Forever" has been written around it. The present Canadian emblem is an unintelligible jumble of provincial coats-of-arms. Not one in ten Canadians can unravel it. The maple leaf would not be sectional, but would appeal to patriotic sentiment with equal strength in every portion of the Dominion.

Just here it may be remarked that Canada is a nation, not a protectorate.

A CALLING.

He—"Neither; it's a calling."

HOW TO GET SERVICE.

[Exchange.]

A man who travels a good deal and who recently visited San Francisco confides to the Chronicle of that city his method of obtaining the utmost service from waiters.

"Usually when I arrive at a hotel," he said, "I take a $2 bill and tear it in half. One half I give to the waiter and the other I keep."

"Now, John," I say, "if everything comes along all right, the other half is yours; if not, you don't get it."

"Usually I get the best of service and the most marked attention. The waiter always has his eye on the other half."

"I find this method to be the best I ever tried."

HALF WAY ROUND THE WORLD.

[New York Sun.]

The Canadian Pacific Railway has just given notice that it will book travelers for a trip half way round the world, to be made in 30 days, with only two changes. This means 12,000 miles under one flag and one ticket, with baggage checked right through.

This is how it figures out:

Days.	Miles.
Liverpool to Quebec	7
Quebec to Vancouver	4
Vancouver to Hong Kong	19
Vancouver to Yokohama	4,283
Yokohama to Shanghai	1,178
Shanghai to Hong Kong	819

Totals39 12,004

The first train left Quebec on Aug. 21, and the first return trip will leave Vancouver Sept. 17, on arrival of the Empress of India from the Orient.

NOT A FINAL SETTLEMENT.

[Minneapolis Journal.]

The person who settles a matter and settles it wrong is in the position of a man who has got rid of the skunk under his porch by driving the innocent little animal under the barn. Then every wandering boy who knows the facts comes along and works for hours with a pole trying to prod the animal. Whether he succeeds or not, the attempt is ruinous to the brand of atmosphere used in the neighborhood.

PRESSURE ON THE SON.

[Weekly Telegraph.]

While Archbishop Trench was dean of Westminster, he delegated Canon Cureton to preach at the abbey on a certain saint's day. On such days the boys of Westminster school attended service and afterward had the rest of the day as a holiday. While Mr. Cureton, on the morning of the day he was to officiate, was looking over his sermon, at the breakfast table, his son asked, in a tone vibrating with anxiety: "Father, is yours a long sermon today?"

"No, Jimmy; not very."

"But how long? Please tell me."

"Well, about twenty minutes, I should say. But why are you so anxious to know?"

"Because, father, the boys say they will thrash me awfully if you are more than half an hour."

THE KING.

[Boston Transcript.]

Perhaps it is a statement not likely to be challenged by those who have closely and impartially watched the career of Edward VII, since he ascended the throne, that he is one of the best kings that England has had since the days of Alfred. He is a monarch who achieves and achieves wisely. There is nothing spectacular about his methods, hence he is not identified with mouth-filling deeds, but we doubt whether another ruler in all Europe has been so instrumental as he in preserving his peace and promoting its highest welfare.

CANNED MUSIC.

[Benton Bradley, in Butte Inter-Mountain.]
There's a gramophone next door.
'Cross the street are seven more.
And about the block I live in there must be at least a score.
(I have counted twenty-four).
And they warble and they sing.
And they play the most perfect thing.
Ragtime, ragtime, band tunes, grand tunes,
Banjo tunes and Highland fling;
And they cackle and they hoot,
And they whistle and they toot.
"Miserere," "Carmen," "Hannah."
Everything that you can think of played
In every sort of "ragtime."
Sleep's entirely out of question.
It has spoiled my good digestion.
Edison be cursed forever! How can anybody prate
One who made that screechy business with his sleep-disturbing ways?

We are living in a flat—
There is nothing strange in that—
But whenever we endeavor to engage in friendly chat
There's a gramophone din,
Which comes floating loudly in
From below us and above us.
Browning out the voices of us—
Stuff from "Johnny Jones" or "Wood-land," arias from "Lohengrin,"
Shreds and patches of a tune.
Operatic, love or coon,
Slow or fast time—what a pastime,
Underneath the silver moon!
George M. Cohan's "Yankee Doodle,"
Mixed with "Tramplers" and such,
Till your poor bewildered noodle
Whirls and spins to beat the Dutch.
I would move, but that is useless; it is Useless to endeavor to escape.
For wherever I might wander I should meet that fearful shape—
Yes, and hear the strident tone
Of that measly gramophone!

There is just one cure I see,
And it don't appeal to me,
But I think I'll have to take it, however harsh it be—
It is this: I'll take my peep
From the far upon the shelf
And—oh, fearful vengeance!—buy a gramophone myself!

A REVISION.

[Washington Star.]

"After all," said the dyspeptic philosopher, "what a man is depends largely on what a man eats and how he digests it. The cook is the most responsible factor in our civilization."

"Quite true," answered Miss Cayenne. "The old song should be changed from 'Hail to the Chief' to 'Hail to the Chef.'"

BY THE RIVER'S BRIM.

[Washington Star.]

"I saw a cowslip by the river's brim," murmured the long-haired boarder, who had just returned from a stroll.

"I hope 'twasn't one of my cows," said the practical farmer. "Did she slip clear in?"

"She would have, but I saw the bull-rush to her assistance."

UNCERTAIN, COY, AND HARD TO PLEASE.

MR. HOWELL'S TYPES.

[Chicago Inter-Ocean.]

"Typographical errors," said William Dean Howells, the famous novelist, "are always amusing. When I was a boy in my father's printing office, in Martin's Ferry, I once made a good typographical error. My father had written:

"The showers last week, though copious, were not sufficient for the millmen."

"I set it up 'milkenm.'"

PRaising THE DEAD.

[Washington Star.]

"Why is a great man more appreciated after he is dead?"

"He is not more appreciated," answered Senator Sorghum.

"He is more freely complimented because he is less feared by envious rivals."

MISAPPREHENSION ABOUT MR. HOLLOWAY.

[Oskaloosa (Iowa) Globe.]

The reason Mr. Holloway decided to purchase a second auto was probably because some of his friends complained that he had been using a new brand of gasoline in his other machine, but on investigation it was learned that he had accidentally run over a skunk.

A RECORD CROWD AT STRATHROY FAIR

Over Seven Thousand People on Grounds Yesterday.

ENTRIES NUMBERED OVER 3,000

Establishing a Record Also in This Respect—Nearly Every Department Crowded.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Strathroy, Sept. 18.—The Strathroy Fair of this year will undoubtedly prove to be the most successful in the history of the association, not only in the matter of entries, but in attendance as well.

Yesterday was devoted largely to the preparation of the exhibits, but today found everything in shape at an early hour and ready for the inspection of thousands of visitors from all parts of the western country. A year ago today there were fully 7,000 people on the ground, possibly establishing a record, but today this number was at least equaled, and many are of the opinion that it was surpassed very considerably. Everything was favorable to the success of the fair, the weather was the very best that could have been desired, and this enabled the farmers to come to the fair from points 20 and 30 miles distant. During the early part of the day every road leading to Strathroy saw a continuous stream of vehicles bound homewardward, and jammed to their utmost capacity.

While the fair this year will prove the most successful financially, it establishes a record for entries, the total number exceeding 3,000. There was scarcely a department that was not full. Many were overtaxed.

The horses were a splendid lot, and what is more, they were mostly the property of the farmers of West Middlesex. In the sheep, there was a record number of entries, while in ladies' bazaar display there was an extra good. Of the Strathroy fair it can invariably be said that it has the finest exhibition of ladies' work to be found at any exhibition outside of Toronto. The ladies of the western section of the country appear to take a special pride in fancywork, and some of the articles that are to be seen at Strathroy year by year are decidedly creditable to them.

For some reason unknown, the number of entries in the poultry department this year showed a slight falling off from a year ago, but the quality was up to the usual mark. The dairy exhibit was one of the features of the fair this year. The judges were George Barr, secretary of the Western Ontario Dairyman's Association, London, and he took occasion to compliment the directors on the extent and quality of the display. The principal winners in the butter sections were J. O. Custer of Point Hill, C. A. Gregory of Lobo, and P. W. Crealy of Carleton Place, each of whom showed over a pound. A lady demonstrated the exhibition of butter-making during the day.

Mrs. James Bogue captured the first prize in a rather novel contest—that of the best gentleman's cold dinner. A feature of the afternoon was the fancy driving contest for ladies and the contest for the best gentleman's turn-out. There were upwards of a dozen entries in the former, Mrs. E. Drexel of Kerwood, winning first, and Miss Anna Whitting of Strathroy, second. Other prize-winners were Mrs. E. Zavitz and Mrs. A. Zavitz.

A number of speed events were held during the afternoon, some good racing being provided. The following were the summaries:

Time—38, 38, 38.

Judges—James Lawson, Samia; Dr. McGillicuddy, Watford; Mr. P. McKellar, Genesee.
In the evening a concert was held in the open air, the programme being provided by the band of the Twenty-sixth Regiment, of London; the Imperial Male Quartet, of London, and the Highland Pipes, of Toronto.

Tomorrow the attendance is expected to be fully as large as that of today, and if it approaches the exhibition of 1906 will go down in history as the biggest of them all. No small share of the success is due to the efforts of the president, Mr. D. J. Donaldson, of Carleton Place, and Mr. David Evans, of Strathroy, the energetic secretary.

A MONTE CRISTO IN MISSOURI

Fate Denied His Prayer by Five Years.

DIED JUST AS HE PREDICTED

After Many Vicissitudes Came Into Large Fortune—Wanted Fifteen Years to Spend It.

Macon, Mo., Sept. 19.—Macon's Monte Cristo died just as he said one year ago that he would die. In talking with a friend who had been reminding him that his ceaseless energy might throw him on a sick bed he remarked a trifle sadly:

"When my time comes it will find me in the harness. My life will go out like the crack of a pistol. How do I know? Well, there are some things a man knows that he can't explain."

For ten booming years Col. F. W. Blees was the center around which all things in these parts revolved. He was the town. If he thought a street ought to be paved the city officers would get together and order it paved. They knew it was money in the town's pocket to do whatever the German suggested.

He had a hand in nearly every enterprise of consequence in the city. The largest military academy in the west was established here and personally managed by him.

Not long after the war with Spain the Government sent an officer of the regular army here to see if all the great things told of the colonel's big military academy were true. This officer was so impressed with the colonel and his school that he got the Government to send here two of the largest guns taken from one of the Spanish battleships smashed at Santiago.

The military academy, conservatories and athletic grounds, comprising some 800 acres, used up about $400,000 of the colonel's inheritance from his German parents, but that was a mere bagatelle in comparison with his other investments. He bought the main hotel, the opera house, built a carriage factory at a cost of $250,000, put up a bank and a number of office buildings, erected a large and comfortable German manor home in the residence district, erected a stable that the country people are always mistaking for a church, invested $200,000 in a shears factory and operated an extensive farm near the city.

It was natural that a man with so much ready cash and with such a willingness to use it should become the victim if the impecunious. People with all sorts of propositions besieged him. At first he yielded to their importunities, but later became known as a hard proposition for grafters.

Then there were lawsuits, some entirely without a shadow of merit. The litigants relied upon the colonel's good nature to settle rather than to appear stubborn. In some instances he did settle. In all of them he tried to effect an amicable adjustment.

The final action brought against the colonel, and the one which was greatly disturbing him at the time of his death from heart disease, was instituted by relatives in the German Empire. It was for $130,000, a legacy alleged to have been left to Marie Aulor, a niece of Maria Blees, Col. Blees' mother.

A United States marshal waited in Macon all of last Saturday to serve the papers upon Col. Blees, who then was lying dead in his room at the Southern Hotel in St. Louis. The complainant and her husband, Dr. Julius Aulor, alleged that Col. Blees surreptitiously and without the knowledge of the complainants took the legacy from the safe and invested it in property in Macon.

The matter had been worrying Col. Blees considerably of late. In all of his dealings the colonel had been found straightforward, honest and truthful; and his friends here think that if he has taken any money belonging to the other heirs of the estate it was in marked variance with all other acts of his life.

When the remains of Col. Blees arrived in Macon automobiles, carriages and vehicles of all sorts were strung out for two blocks along the railway yards. As the red coffin box was carried from the express car to the house every man down the long line removed his hat.

The day of the funeral was by official proclamation made a holiday in order that everybody might attend it. All the fraternal orders, the old soldiers, the city administration and the school children formed in procession ahead of the hearse and carriages. It was the last tribute of the people to the man who had practically made their town.

No one here has ever been able to gauge the extent of Col. Blees' fortune. It had been variously estimated at from $10,000,000 to $25,000,000.

In the early days after he had entered into possession of it he spent prodigious sums in charity and the entertaining of his friends. He traveled in private cars from one end of the land to the other. On one occasion when on his way to Europe he took as his traveling companion a clerk in one of the Chicago hotels just because the clerk had by some tactful courtesy won his admiration.

He was constantly indulging in unusual enterprises. He chartered a railroad train to bring some of his friends in St. Louis to Macon to take Thanksgiving dinner with him, the condition being that the run should beat all previous records up to date and should hold for ten years.

Chris Smith, a veteran engineer, told the trick and earned the money for the road. The colonel could have got a special out of St. Louis to this place for $300, but it cost him $1,000.

Do Your Ears Ache?

Nothing penetrates to the very core of the pain like Polson's Nervine. Rub it in and ease comes at once. Results guaranteed. Sold everywhere in 25-cent bottles.

with the added condition of a record run.

The colonel set great store on the value of his time during business hours. He had hours plenty when a friend called on him socially, but when he was occupied on a business subject the moments were as money.

He was summoned before a notary public once to give a deposition. The legal rate for a witness before a notary is $1 a day. The colonel was cross-examined for two hours and the lawyers thanked him for his courtesy in attending the hearing.

"Who pays?" asked the man of military, as he picked up his hat.

The lawyer who had summoned Col. Blees blushed and fished into his pocketbook for a dollar, which he timidly held out. The colonel waved it aside.

"Just at present my time is worth $100 a day," he said. "You have had me here two hours; that makes $20. If you haven't the money with you, just send it around any day this week. Good morning."

He bowed pleasantly and left the office. He was never afterward required to give his deposition in an open court. Col. Blees was born in Aix-la-Chapelle, May 30, 1860. His father was a German baron who owned coal mines and iron works. These properties had been in litigation, but just before the death of the old baron the court decided in his favor.

Col. Blees was the only son, and on the death of his parents he took charge of the estate, which he promptly transferred to America, and immediately thereafter there was something doing for the last ten years of the heir's busy life.

Col. Blees came to America in 1881, and while teaching school in Louisiana met a handsome Southern girl, Mary Staples, at a baseball game. They were soon afterward married.

During his early life in America the colonel had the vicissitudes of a young man who had to win his spurs. Because of the litigation his father was unable to assist him. From Louisiana the young officer went to Iowa, and while residing there was a military instructor in a large academy. Then he came to Macon, and took charge of St. James' Military Academy, which had been established in 1875 by Bishop Talbot, of Pennsylvania.

After Bishop Talbot left the academy it went down, and when Col. Blees took charge it was in a tottering condition, but he soon revitalized it and was succeeding well with it when called to Europe by the death of his father.

"I don't care to live to be a very old man," Col. Blees remarked soon after he came into his fortune; "give me fifteen years from now and I will be satisfied. Fifteen well spent, usual years, when a man is working at his very best and has the means to work with, ought to be sufficient."

Fate denied the prayer by five years.

HOW IT IS DONE BY THE FRENCH

Chief of the Paris Detectives Outdoes Sherlock Holmes—An Illustration.

Paris, Sept. 18.—There is generally something peculiarly theatrical in the methods of the French detective police. A good example of this was the manner in which a confession was extorted from Georges Amyot, a 17-year-old ruffian, who, with the help of his 13-year-old brother, Paul, murdered a woman in the early part of this week after robbing her of 750 francs in money and her watch and jewelry.

The contrast between the methods of M. Hamard, the chief of the detective police in Paris, and the English detective could not be more marked. The latter is obliged to warn immediately a person who has been arrested that anything he may say may be used against him. From the start he is protected by counsel of his own or appointed by the court and he is presumed to be innocent until he has been proved guilty.

Things are different in France. M. Hamard inspected the room where the murder had been committed, took a few notes and posted men in the wine shops in the neighborhood. He waited until evening when he received a message and immediately entered a cab and drove to a dirty little cafe, where Amyot was drinking, followed by a couple of detectives. His secretary went into the wine shop and arrested Amyot. The latter made some pretense of resistance and his friends, who had been drinking with him, drew knives. Hamard, who is a white-bearded, bull-necked and stolid-looking man of 50, said quietly that he was the chief of the secret police and that they had better not resist. Then, turning to the other hooligans present, he said:

"Wait until you have heard the conversation and if I have made a mistake gentlemen, you may do what you like with me."

Then addressing the murderer, he said: "You have changed your coat. It was gray this morning, but there is blood on your waistcoat and trousers."

"My nose has been bleeding," said Amyot.

"From excitement, I suppose," said Hamard, "excitement caused by your robbery of Mme. Lucas yesterday evening."

"I was nowhere near Mme. Lucas last evening," said Amyot, who turned very pale.

"You lie," thundered Hamard. "Look at your left boot." All eyes were turned at the boot and it was seen that the third button was missing.

"Here is that button," said the chief, "found in your victim's blood. Confess!"

Amyot confessed at once.

KAISER TELLS FUNNIEST STORIES

He Loves to Get Party of Men Together After Dinner.

SMOKE, DRINK, CRACK JOKES

Lays Majesty Aside to Be a Jolly Good Fellow—Has Grip That Makes One Wince.

Berlin, Sept. 18.—Emperor William is about to begin, now that the fall army maneuvers are over, a round of visits among the great nobles of his land with whom he is on terms of particular intimacy.

Unlike his uncle, King Edward, the Emperor does not enjoy these visits unless they are free from all state and ceremony. King Edward never "puts on airs," but he avoids overfamiliarity with his hosts. The Emperor is at once familiar and jocular and becomes for the time a member of the family. He mixes with the other guests on a footing of perfect equality.

Nothing pleases him more than a "Herren Abend" (men's evening) at one of the great houses he visits—a post-prandial gathering of the gentlemen of the party for beer and cigars and entertaining anecdote. And it must be said that at these gatherings his majesty's stories are usually the best and the most piquant.

He cannot abide any lavish display of the culinary art. In this respect his tastes are of the simplest, and his favorite dishes are so well known that he is served with them wherever he goes. In summer he likes cold bouillabaisse, fresh fish and plenty of vegetables. He has been known to declare that he could live on vegetables. Potatoes dressed in a variety of styles always meet with his approval. His favorite dish of meat is "German beefsteak," finely chopped beef and onions, with a little flavoring and fried in a pan. His favorite "sweets" are what is known as German eggcakes, a sort of thin pancake.

A Connoisseur.

He cares little for expensive or rare wines. He often says he knows nothing of French wines. One exception is the famous Johannisberg Rhine wine, of which his majesty is a connoisseur. It was a bottle of the most famous Johannisberg vintage which the Kaiser took to Prince Bismarck when they last met shortly before the great statesman's death.

If his majesty had his own way he would drink nothing but a light table beer. The beer supplied to his table is never in bottles, but drawn directly from the cask—beer tankards holding about a quart each.

Archduke Frederick, the heir to the old Austrian Field Marshal Archduke Albert, and therefore the richest landed proprietor in Austria, had a pressing invitation from Emperor William to attend the Prussian maneuvers this fall. The Emperor and the Archduke have a sincere regard for one another, for Frederick and his wife, Archduchess Isabella, are the members of the Austrian Imperial House who started least on ceremony. Last year the Emperor accepted with the greatest pleasure the archduke's invitation to hunt in the famous preserves of Belye in the Danube delta in South Hungary. Four of the archduke's daughters who are still unmarried—he has six in all and full of fun—were there to receive the Emperor, and William was never seen in such brilliant humor as that time.

Old Hunchback's Mistake.

He had been there once before and remembered every servant and forester. When they stood up in line at the castle gates to receive him he singled out a hunchback with whom he had become very chummy during his former stay, when the funny old man was intrusted with leading the Emperor's gun.

This gun is of peculiar construction, with a bend in the middle so that it should, since he can shoot with one hand only. Naturally he does not like everybody to see this gun, which is such clear evidence of his being crippled.

When the old hunchback advanced from the line of the archduke's retainers the Emperor held out his hand to him, and the simple man took it in both his own and shook it heartily. The master of the hunt, behind the Emperor's back, signaled for the old chap to kiss the Emperor's hand, but the signaling only made him shake William's hand more frantically.

At dinner one of the princesses told the Emperor of the hunchback's blunder, and he laughed till the tears ran down his face. He had mistaken the interminable handshaking for devotion beyond expression in words.

Of course the crippled hand prevents him from being a first-rate shot, but he is nevertheless passionately fond of the sport.

Didn't Deceive Him.

There were orders that at the show in the evening, when the game was spread out in the castle courtyard and the sportsmen viewed it by the light of torches held by the archduke's retainers, the finest heads of game were to be designated as shot by the Emperor, never mind who really shot them. But the Emperor would not allow himself to be deceived. He generally knew what he had shot and pointed to his booty with outstretched finger.

He feels so much at home in Belye that in speaking he lays his right hand with full force on the shoulder of the person he is addressing. This is a favorite movement of his when at home. But only those who have felt that hand resting on their shoulders know how strong the Emperor really is.

It must be that, unable to use his left hand at all, his right hand has grown so strong that he can make any man cry out if he grips his hand unaware. Sometimes even the ladies wince when he takes their hands to kiss them.

SNAP-SHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS

Jeffries is thinking of doffing his farmer's togs long enough to erase "Ink Spot" Johnson from the championship claimant list.

The Yankees, leaders in the American League at present, will lose considerable prestige if they persist in refusing to play a post-season series with the Giants.

Britt will be Gans' next victim.

Long hair is in style again—football season is coming on.

Philadelphia Jack O'Brien is rapidly gaining a reputation as a slippery customer, outside the ring, as well as in it. Manager McCarey, of the Pacific Athletic Club, has been on his trail for several days. McCarey is trying to get O'Brien and Noah Brusso, better known as Tommy Burns, together.

The Rockets, of the City Bowling League, corralled two games from the Tasmos last evening. Mic Macs and Ramblers lock horns tonight.

The Barracks and the Police Force ball teams get together on Carling's Heights on Thursday afternoon.

Soon we shall behold the knights of the pilskin battling as of yore on the gridiron. The Forest City Football Club is practicing every evening, and expects to be soon in shape for a gruelling season. In some parts of the country movements are on foot to get the teams to adopt numbers for the players and label them like athletes in track sports. Beyond doubt, this system, if adopted, would cause the public to take greater interest in the manly game. Many people go to a football match to watch the work of individual players, but lose all trace of them when the game begins. All players look pretty much alike on the field, in their uniforms.

Hockey is rapidly becoming the leading winter sport in many large cities on the other side. Basketball and bowling have heretofore monopolized the attention of the American sport-loving people, but Canada's great ice games draws greater crowds than basketball, in cities like Pittsburgh and New York, while interest in bowling, over there, seems to be on the decline.

The baseball season in the big leagues is rapidly drawing to a close, and from present appearances, Chicago has the National League pennant clinched, with New York and Pittsburgh trailing along in the order named. In the American League, Chicago and New York are having it out with a vengeance, being divided by only a few points. Baseball is a good, clean, and interesting game, and the interest in the game is growing greater each year.

Compared to other sports, the championship career of a pugilist is very short. The lightweight class, perhaps, furnishes the best evidence of this assertion. Outside of Kid Lavigne, who, by the way, was the greatest lightweight that ever donned the gloves, no champion in this class has held his title any length of time. Frank Erne, of Buffalo, one of the cleverest boys of the ring, was champion of this class for about a year. Then Gans came along and toppled him over in a round at Fort Erie. Shortly after this Terry McGovern, the 126-pound whirlwind, received a decision over Gans in Tattersalls, Chicago, by reason of Gans lying down, at the instigation of the notorious Al Herford, his manager. McGovern, by virtue of his defeats of Gans and "Chocolate Drop" George Dixon, laid claim to both the feather and lightweight championships, and for a few years had the rest of the pugilists in these classes jumping sideways. Then came the eventual "Thanksgiving Day" down in the Hartford, Conn., arena, when McGovern tackled "Young Corbett," of Denver. To Sam Harris, McGovern's manager, this bout was looked upon as being merely a Thanksgiving meal for "Terrible" Terry. Terry "got his" in short order, and the sporting world gazed with admiration on a new lightweight champion. This fight was supposed to be for the featherweight title, but as neither could make the weight, it was nearer a lightweight affair than anything else. "Corbett" promptly started in on the road to a short life and a merry one, and his system was soon run down. Jimmy Britt, of San Francisco, a recent house name, and Battling Nelson put the "has been" stamp upon his championship career shortly, and since then he has been beaten by numerous second-class men. Among these can be numbered "Unk" Russell, of Philadelphia, a fighter who claims to be a lightweight, but fights at about 142 pounds, and Aurelia Herrera, the Mexican scrapper, who, by the way, is said to train in wine, cards and strong cigars. Then Joe Gans, the real albeit fading champion, and J. Britt donned the "sleep mitts" out "Frisco way. Gans won on a foul in the fifth round; but it has since been proved that he laid down. Britt's claim to the title was punctured by Nelson in that memorable battle of 45 rounds out on the coast. Nelson was "it" then, and it looked as though he would hold the honor for a long time, especially as his manager, Billy Nolan, refused to allow him to battle with Joe Gans on account of the latter's shady record. Finally, when he got Gans to agree to box at a weight which Nolan deemed almost suicidal to all chances of victory, he allowed Nelson to take a chance with the boy from the Baltimore water front. The result is well known. How long Gans will retain the title he has really always held, although technically having lost, is a matter of mere conjecture. Gans, like Jeffries, is in a class by himself, and as there are no likely opponents in the field, he may have to retire as the big fellow did. Kid Herman is mentioned as having a chance with Gans, but where it is cannot be seen by many. Herman is clever, but lacks the punch and ring generalship that Gans possesses.

MISS WILKES HAS SOME FAST ONES DOWN SOUTH

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 18.—Some sensational work was witnessed at the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association track during the last few days. Probably the most talked of performance was that of the 2-year-old Futurity candidate, Kentucky Todd, recently brought here by Harry Stinson, trainer of the stable owned by the Canadian horsewoman, Miss K. L. Wilkes. This sensational colt worked a mile and repeated in 2:16 3/4, and 2:16 1/2, and trotted the last quarter of the final heat in 32 1/2 seconds—a 2:10 clip. Miss Wilkes bought this colt in Kentucky last October, after he had won sensational form as a yearling, for $8,000. He is by Todd and out of the famous Paronella, the dam of Country Jay, 2:10 1/2; Nella Jay, 2:14 1/4; a Kentucky Futurity winner, Malise C., 2:17 1/4, and Judge Parker, 2:27 1/4. Stinson also worked the 3-year-old Kentucky Futurity candidate, Directiel, a mile in 2:14, and the performance was very cleverly done. Directiel is a black colt by Directly, 2:03 1/4, and out of Susie T., 2:09 3/4, by Ambassador. Stinson sent Miss Wilkes' racing mare, Fond Heart, formerly known as Tillie R., back to Canada, where he came on to Kentucky. She worked three heats for him in 2:08 1/2, 2:07 1/2, and 2:06 1/2, but went lame. Stinson does not think her lameness is permanent, but believes she will come out all right next season and prove a topnotch racing mare.

SWIMMING.

ANOTHER RECORD FOR DANIELS.

St. Louis, Sept. 17.—C. M. Daniels, of the New York A. C., yesterday lowered the world's swimming record for 220 yards at Laughlin's Lake. The New Yorker set the new mark at 2:42 2-5, breaking his own record by 1 2-5 seconds.

STARS CHALLENGED FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

The Stars, champions of the City Baseball League, have been challenged by the Wellingtons, of Toronto, for the championship of Ontario. Any Saturday in the near future will be suitable for the Wellingtons. It is probable that the Stars, who are considering the matter, will accept. If the game is played, it will come off at Tecumseh Park, and will doubtless draw a great crowd.

THE BALLOON BALL

Willetts and his balloon ball were the commanding features of a glad-some game of ball Friday afternoon at the Wellingtons. It is probable that the Stars, who are considering the matter, will accept. If the game is played, it will come off at Tecumseh Park, and will doubtless draw a great crowd.

The balloon ball is a novelty in the national game. There has been nothing like it since Spike McBrien, the armless wonder, used to pitch with his feet for the Tink-a-ling brothers' circus freak team.

In the delivery of this new pitch, the Wichita person appears to drag the pellicled sphere from his sock and hurl it in the general direction of heaven. The batter sees it coming, but does not realize that it is more like a gas well explosion than a piece of twirly. He whacks at the sphere as it zips above his head, some eight or nine feet from the earth, and the cruel crowd, with groaning laughter, calls him a Big Dub.

George Stovall whacked at one of those balloon things the first time he mixed up with Willetts. It was so high above Brother George's head that he resembled Prof. Bugatcher out slapping butterflies with a net. Conag also bit on one, and broke a tooth.—Cleveland Press.

THE RING.

PRACTICALLY SETTLED. San Francisco, Sept. 18.—It has been practically settled that "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien and Sam Berger are to box 45 rounds for the heavyweight championship of Colma on the afternoon of Thanksgiving Day.
