It has been a pleasure to watch the development of the renovation in the Progression Boulevard of the Trafalgar Square and park. For some time the park's committee have been somewhat negligent in caring for the beautiful natural and artificial scenery which surrounds Trafalgar Square, but this year under new management a grand change has taken place.

One of the greatest improvements has been the building of a new cement reservoir. The old wooden reservoir according to figures obtained from one of our oldest and most respected pioneers, Mr. John Castle, was built in 1860, A. D., and for the last 4 or 5 years has caused a heavy expenditure to the park committee to keep it in running order at all. Its timbers were so decayed, and so much rubbish and sediment had collected in it that Dr. H. Green, the Inspector of parks, condemned it as being in an unsanitary condition, and recommended that a cement one be built. This has been accomplished. Ten year debentures were issued and found a ready sale, which speaks well for the real estate of Progression Boulevard. The old reservoir and site are advertised for sale, tenders will be received by Mr. Spencer Bennett, the secretary of the committee. Other improvements have been the widening and graveling of the main driveways.

Although some more improving could be done, the committee think they have spent enough money for one year, but promise to go on another year with the beautifying of the park. Our residents can now be pardoned if they boast of having one of the finest pleasure resorts in the Province.

It matters not what a holiday seekers hobby may be, we have every thing to present, from fishing, swimming, boating and hunting, to nature study in the viewing of the picturesque falls as the waters leap from the smooth, peaceful Warner river to the foaming, raging billows below. It was keen foresight on the part of the committee to use their influence in persuading the Canadian Pacific Railway, when building their line from Hamilton to Guelph Junction, to build an overhead bridge through the park, thus making it safer for children.

At the 1920 annual meeting in March, the town council appointed the following committee and officers, Father P. S. Green, chairman; Spencer Gunby, D. D.; Mayor Ingle Bousfield, Allan Eaton, K. C.; Rev. John Harris, John I. Alderson, M. D. and Wm. Ashbury, L. L. D. The committee at their May meeting appointed Messrs. J. A. Scoons and C. A. Newell as speed cops and general traffic managers.

From the top of the old Red Mill a most enticing view can be seen of the surrounding country, the river for miles above and below the falls, the sites of many mills and industries of by-gone days, the many beautiful residences with their well kept lawns and trees of various kinds studded along the banks, all add interest and beauty to the scene.

Carlisle will celebrate its Civic holiday on August 18th. A grand procession will leave the Town Hall at 9 o'clock and proceed to the park, where games and sports of various kinds will be indulged in. Come and enjoy the day with us.

Waterdown

A seventh heaven of delight.

Founded by angles on this earth,
That to great men hath given birth,
—Waterdown.

They talk of all their cities large,
And stately towers fair,
But none of these they can compare
—to Waterdown.

The scant in size and population,
It's the best place in creation;
May it always thrive each generation,
—Waterdown.

And now God bless thee, village fair,
Some day you'll be a town;
And may you always prosper,
—Waterdown.

Base Ball

(By the Sporting Editor)

Ragged baseball featured the game at Wabasso Park on Saturday last. Using the baseball as a football seemed to be the opinion of the players of both teams. However the W. A. A. came out on top as usual, which helped some. It will be just as well for them to get all the bad games off their stomach before they enter the semi-finals, as the caliber of baseball put up last Saturday will not do.

The score by innings.

The following letter from Bruce, Bruce & Counsell was received by the village clerk, Mr. J. C. Medlar.

Hamilton, August 11, 1920.

Mr. J. C. Medlar,

Village Clerk, Waterdown.

Dear Sir:

We have been instructed by Dr. J. O. McGregor, a ratepayer of the Village of Waterdown, to apply to the Supreme Court of Ontario for a Mandamus to compel the Corporation of the Village of Waterdown, and the Municipal Council of the same, to levy in the year 1920 a rate to produce the sum of $1,743.69 in accordance with the provision of the By law passed by your council authorizing the issue of Debentures to the amount of $20,000.00, for the erecting and equipping of a Memorial Hall.

We are advised that the council have passed a resolution not to make the levy this year, and we would point out that if the levy in 1920 is not made, the sum authorized to be raised by the By-law will not be attained.

In the event of the council still declining to make the levy, and we have to apply for the Mandamus, we will ask that the cost incurred in connection with the same be paid by the members of the Council personally.

Unless we hear from you by the 18th inst. that the Council have rescinded the resolution, and passed a resolution authorizing the levy, we will take necessary steps to make the application.

Yours very truly,
Bruce, Bruce & Counsell.

LEADER OF O. B. U.

Winch Carries on His Work in British Columbia.

Cordova street is one of the oldest highways of original Vancouver. It was the centre of old Gastown before the fire of 1886. Many of the buildings which face upon it are becoming mossy. Not a few are third-class hotels. Occupying the second and third floors of one of these are a pair of smart-looking girl stenographers, half a dozen young men clerks, a long table containing many thousands of cards—each of which represents a human unit—and a stooped and exceedingly cadaverous individual of 45. This prematurely-aged man is as much the proprietor of the institution as if he owned it. He is a dyspeptic crank, so cranky and so dyspeptic that he can only eat one meal a day—and that tea and toast. The name of this man is E. Winch, and the institution he runs is all that is left of the O. B. U. in British Columbia.

The latter statement is general and means to be only approximate. In any event it is the only active and outward manifestation of the One Big Union which flourished in a dozen places a year ago. So far as one may judge of the position today compared with what it was in so weeks preceding the general strikes in Vancouver and Winnipeg last year, the O. B. U. has steadily lost ground and is not a real factor in the labor situation in British Columbia with one single exception—and that is in the case of the loggers union. Winch was at the head of the loggers' organization when the general strike took place. Its collapse did not cause him to quit, though it had that effect on many other active organizers, but in the case of the loggers the claim is made that their O. B. U. is stronger to-day than it ever has been before.

Winch is a curious individual in more ways than his habit of getting along without dinner or supper. He claims to have reduced the art of striking to an exact science, so as to play both ends against the middle and the angles as well. Because men are thrown out of work and consequently suffer in any large strike he does not believe in a general tie-up of industry. Nothing so crude as that is on Mr. Winch's program—which may account for the fact that up to this date he enjoys an eminence of comparative success in a sea of O. B. U. failure. Winch believes in compelling the industry—if he can—to finance and maintain the strikes while the latter are proceeding.

He points quite proudly to the episode of the Capilano Timber Co. The O. B. U. called a strike there six months ago and two logging camps were quickly tied up. The men wanted an eight-hour day, a $5 minimum and a lot of reforms in accommodation. The company sent out agents looking for new workmen and found them. To get them to go to work the company improved wages and conditions to some extent and was soon in full swing again. There was neither picketing nor other interference by the union or former employees, and apparently the company won out. But not according to Winch, who claims that everything was done on his schedule. "Their 'scabs' were our own men," he declares. "We furnished them, though the company did not realize it, and to-day we are in their camps just as strongly as before and under improved conditions of pay and accommodation."

For a feature act for the coming season Winch has his eyes on the paper mills. Eight hours and a five-dollar minimum are his aims in this industry. But nothing is farther from his thoughts than to attempt to tie it up all at once. Workers are to be called out in one mill at a time, according to the program mapped out, so that while that mill is idle they can still find useful and remunerative employment in other plants up and down the coast. When the time has come to reconnoitre in No. 1 mill, the O. B. U. representatives in another plant will have found something to complain about and the shutdown stunt will be repeated there, with a loss of time to the workers extending very little beyond the limits of a welcome holiday.

In the card-index on the big table at O. B. U. headquarters are listed 17,000 loggers in "good standing." The larger half are in B. C., but organizers are busy around Fort William, in Northern Ontario, and are now pushing on into the Quebec woods. Each man pays dues of $1 per month. Apparently they pay promptly, for large expenditures are made from Winch's office. Ten thousand dollars has lately been invested in printing charges for propaganda. More than 50,000 O. B. U. buttons have been bought from an uptown store at 30 cents each; $1,000 per month has been contributed to the Winnipeg strikers defence fund. Altogether there is an air about the shabby offices as if somebody with cash in the bank was administering things.

In one particular Winch has been forced to confess defeat. Many Orientals labor in various capacities in B. C. lumber camps. The Japanese have freely joined the O. B. U., but no progress has been made with the Chinese. With native caution and clanishness they prefer to make their own bargains. If they join anything it is simply a One Big Chinese Union.

Two Explorers.

Martin Killin and Adelbert Gumaer, the last two member of Vilhjalmur Stefansson's Canadian Arctic Expedition to leave the Arctic, are reported aboard the trading schooner Anna Alga, which is working its way toward Nome.

Killin and Gumaer were not members of Stefansson's original party. They were members of a party Storker Storkerson, Stefansson's lieutenant, led on to an iceflo last year in the hope that the Arctic drifts would carry the floe westward to Siberia. After spending eight months on the ice the men found themselves about fifty miles from their starting point. They all came ashore and Storkerson and one other member headed overland for the outside world. Killin and Gumaer boarded the Olga and started for Nome.

Storkerson's trip outside was his first in eleven years. He has been an explorer, trader and trapper along the northern rim of the continent ever since 1908. He expects to associate himself with Stefansson in handling the Canadian Government's proposal to stock the northern tundra plains with reindeer.

Dogs Eat Esquimo Church.

In the Hudson Bay country, where the dogs are half wolves, a band of these famished animals actually ate up a church. The Esquimo Christians had built a tiny chapel to hold twenty people. But the poor converts did not long enjoy the little church, of which they were so patriotically proud. The building was of whalebone, an edible substance, and one Sunday the pagan dogs ate every morsel of the sacred edifice.

Indians Died from "Flu."

Five thousand Indians succumbed to the epidemic of the "flu" during the fall and winter of 1918 is the statement of the deputy superintendent general of Indian affairs.

Ole the Bear.

Ole the Bear (A. R. Westerberg), mail carrier between Revelstoke, B.C., and Downie Creek, forty-five miles up the Big Bend, succeeded in accomplishing a feat that establishes a new record in this district. The great depth of snow up the Big Bend, together with the heavy crust caused by raining and freezing, made it practically impossible for a horse to travel the roads, but Ole conceived the idea of making snowshoes for his horse, which he did out of birch, constructing them circular in shape and more than a foot across. For protection he covered the horse's leg with blankets, and thus he succeeded in making Revelstoke in three days without harm to himself or horse.

Scarcity of Pulp Wood.

The bulk of the world's supply of paper is made from spruce and other soft woods, the supplies of which are steadily diminishing. The quantities of soft woods available within the Empire are comparatively small, and so it has come about that the Empire is largely dependent on foreign countries, especially Scandinavia, for its supplies of paper or the wood pulp from which it is made, the chief source of supply within the Empire being Newfoundland and Canada. The Imperial Institute has therefore given special attention to the possible substitutes for wood which are to be found in the grasses growing in tropical and sub-tropical countries. Among these is the tannin grass of South Africa. This, on examination at the Imperial Institute, was found to give a yield of about 33 per cent. of paper of excellent quality, and the prospects of a paper industry in South Africa based on this material are now being carefully considered. Tannin grass is by no means the only paper-making material obtained in South Africa, and from the information available it seems likely that the range of materials will enable several classes of paper to be made.—Family Herald.

His Difficulty.

At a training camp during the war the officer of the day was making the rounds of the post. It was during challenging time. He seated himself on the corner post of a fence and waited for the sentry. The sentry, a raw recruit from the woods came slowly up and stopped only a few feet from the O. D. After waiting in silence for a few moments the officer asked: "Well, what are you going to say?" "Durned if I know what to say," drawled the recruit. "If you were walking I'd say 'Halt!'"
