Smuts Wins in Cities; Some Majorities Enormous

Some Anxiety About Vote in Country Districts—The Labor Party is Loyal and the Secessionists Have Elected Very Few So Far.

London, Feb. 9.—(By Canadian Press.)—A Johannesburg cable to the Canadian Press says that at 1 o'clock this morning the returns show that the South African party had elected thirty-eight candidates, the Nationalists five, the Labor party eight, and the Constitutional Democrats one.

General Smuts has been returned for Victoria West by a big majority. The feature of the results, so far as known, is the collapse of the Labor party, which lost eleven seats, including nine to the South African party. Apparently the Labor party will have only eight members in the new assembly, against twenty-one in the last house. Colonel Crewe, leader of the Laborists, was defeated in Treynville.

The urban results have been very encouraging to the South African party, but the country returns are causing anxiety to the government. The minister of justice in the Smuts administration has been defeated by a Nationalist in Potchefstroom. Sir Abe Bailey, well known in racing circles, retains Krugersdorp.

Cape Town, Feb. 9.—Enormous majorities were given the South African party in Durban and Cape Town yesterday, while the Labor party suffered a severe reverse in the Rand district. In Cape Town the South African party gained two seats, in Durban three, in the Rand district, and in East London one.

The victory of the party headed by Prime Minister Smuts is attributed to the fact that workmen voted against the secession issue raised by General Hertzog, and did not pay much attention to sectional issues raised by labor leaders.

The elections were considered as vitally important to the future status of the British dominion. General Jan Christian Smuts, prime minister, headed the South African party, which represented the larger British element of the population and Dutch who believe that in the union had been found the solution of the political problems of the country.

General Hertzog sponsored a policy which virtually amounted to secession from the British empire, and numbered among his followers many of the men who fought with the Boers against Great Britain.

Frederick H. Creswell was leader of the Laborite party during the campaign, and it was charged that a strike was called in the Rand district for the purpose of consolidating the ranks of the labor organization.

General Smuts was also a prominent officer in the Boer army which fought against the British in the South African war twenty years ago, but with many other Boers he has become reconciled to the union with Great Britain, and is now a stout defender of British principles and connections. He led the South African contingent with the British in the recent war.

CREW SAVED; THE SHIP SINKING WHEN LAST SEEN

Montreal, Feb. 9.—The British steamer Bombardier has been abandoned in latitude 40 19 N., longitude 64 10 W., according to a radio message picked up by the Cape Race, Nfld., station and relayed to the office of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co. here. The message came from the steamer Mount Clay, which announced that it had rescued the Bombardier's crew. When last seen the Mount Clay advised the Bombardier was sinking rapidly.

SEES GENERAL ELECTION ON HORIZON

New York, Feb. 9.—Jack Britton, welterweight boxing champion, today was ordered to appear before the State Board of Fistic Etiquette of Monday in his fight with Ted "Kid" Lewis. After protesting against the use by Lewis of a rubber tooth protector, Britton became involved in an impromptu bout with one of the Englishman's seconds. The referee, however, did not make any plans which could not be changed.

WARNED AGAINST CASES OF TYPHUS AMONG STEERAGE PASSENGERS

New York, Feb. 9.—Radio warnings of the danger of typhus, together with orders to "clean ships" and make a careful examination of steerage passengers, were flashed to passenger liners heading for New York last night.

Representatives of steamship companies here also called their home offices advising them of the situation brought on by the discovery of several cases of typhus among immigrants last week.

Vocational Training
Not Dead so Far As
Council is Concerned

Mayor Schofield said this morning that there was still opportunity for in favor of the continuation of vocational training to have their wishes carried out. He said that he would be willing to attend a meeting at which pupils of the school might be called to show how the instruction benefited them. If it could be shown that any appreciable number of them were benefited and enabled to increase their earning capacity, he said it could be arranged that sufficient money could be obtained to keep the schools in operation.

"I was influenced more in my decision regarding the grant for vocational training," he said, "by those who did not appear at the committee meetings thrown open for the purpose, than I was by those who did appear." He said that if the meeting which he proposed could be arranged, and some of the pupils of the school could not attend, he would like them to write a statement of the benefits they had derived.

MORAN WILLING TO MEET CARPENTIER

Some Difficulty in Getting Georges to Sign

Cochran Still Interested in Championship Bout—Jack Britton Called Before Boxing Commission—Late Sport News.

Paris, Feb. 9.—Terms for a fight between Georges Carpentier, heavyweight champion of Europe, and Frank Moran of Pittsburgh, who is now in Paris, to be held before the Continental Sporting Club of Paris, have been accepted by the latter. Promoter Roth, it is said, is meeting with some difficulties in obtaining Carpentier's signature owing to high terms insisted upon. The tentative date for the bout is given as July 14.

New York, Feb. 9.—Chas. B. Cochran, English boxing promoter, has not withdrawn as a joint promoter of the proposed Dempsey-Carpentier championship match said Dan McNetrick, former promoter of this city, today. McNetrick said he received a cable yesterday, in which Cochran of the bout, and by his agreement if the other promoters lived up to their contract.

Recently, the three-cornered promotion project was reported to have fallen through when certain members failed to post forfeits. This was followed by an announcement by James A. Brady, that he and his friend Cochran would withdraw. Tex Rickard, the third member, then undertook to promote the match alone.

Was Not on the Card.
New York, Feb. 9.—Jack Britton, welterweight boxing champion, today was ordered to appear before the State Board of Fistic Etiquette of Monday in his fight with Ted "Kid" Lewis. After protesting against the use by Lewis of a rubber tooth protector, Britton became involved in an impromptu bout with one of the Englishman's seconds. The referee, however, did not make any plans which could not be changed.

Nice, France, Feb. 9.—Susanne Lenglen, woman champion of the world in tennis singles, will probably not go to the United States this summer. She declared she had not received an invitation, and had planned to remain in Europe. She added, however, that beyond the present Riviera tournament she had made no plans which could not be changed.

"Hiram," said the Times reporter to Mr. Hiram Hornbeam, "I see that you and Mrs. Hornbeam are at a skating carnival at Rothesay the other night?"
"Yes, sir," said Hiram, "Governor Pugsley ast us to fine him there for the sake of the old times, and to show them there young sprouts around Rothesay some figger-skatin' like we used to hev when him an' me was boys. LABOR PRESENTS BIG PROGRAMME

Forwarded Yesterday to Government at Ottawa

Eight Hour Day, Unemployed Insurance, Immigration Restriction Among the Items—Federal Election Day a Holiday.

Ottawa, Feb. 9.—The eight hour day, unemployed insurance, restriction of immigration and the repeal of the bill providing for the deportation of British-born Canadian citizens are among the important points included in the legislative programme of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress which was forwarded to Premier Meighen and members of the federal cabinet yesterday by Tom Moore, congress president.

Mr. Moore has indicated to Premier Meighen that the congress executive would appreciate a meeting with the cabinet to discuss the proposed legislation.

Repeal of the clause of the franchise act, prohibiting contributions from trade unions to election campaign funds is demanded as is making of federal election day a public holiday. Election under proportional representation is supported.

Other items in the labor programme include legislation to encourage co-operative wholesale societies, public ownership of manufacturing and utility plants, amendments to copyright act, shipping act, registration of union labels, protest against increased military and naval costs, and pay for rural mail carriers on a mileage basis instead of the present contract system.

The labor proposal for unemployed insurance lays down that payments should not only be made to unemployed persons, but to those employed under seventy-five per cent of their regular working hours, and that employers should not be allowed to discharge employees without due notice to an employment service council. Further, the congress demands that employers be allowed to discharge workers until their working hours have been reduced to at least half of normal.

This plan of the labor proposals also includes provision for old age pension and state insurance for sickness.

The board of directors of the laboring recruiting labor outside Canada, and declares the alien labor law is not sufficient protection for the Canadian population.

Congress in making tariff requests, asks the appointment of a tariff commission, but it is indicated that the congress desires moderate protection for industry.

In the more immediate labor field amendments are suggested to the Industrial Disputes Act to give adequate restraining action pending the decisions of the board.

Dealing with collective bargaining and the democratic development of public services, the congress requests "that the declared intention of granting representation to the workers on the board of management of the Canadian National Railways and the express companies be carried out."

That the establishment of national and departmental councils after the Whitley plan in the civil service would "eliminate the waste of any expense caused by the hiring of so-called efficiency experts."

Labor is asking for amendments to the criminal code and especially the repeal of the so-called efficiency experts. The right to "picket" is also demanded and a further amendment provides for the punishment of persons hoarding foodstuffs unit for consumption.

Sir Ernest Plans Venture to Far North—Warns Against Bolshevism.

Ottawa, Feb. 9.—Sir Ernest Shackleton, antarctic explorer, intimated on his arrival here last night that his next venture would be to the Arctic regions. Beyond this he did not discuss his plans. He has just returned from Norway.

"Bolshevism is a real menace to any nation that has not experienced it once," he said with much earnestness. "It panders to cupidity and does nothing to encourage a decent standard of living. I have seen it and I cannot speak too strongly against it."

He also expressed the opinion that the doctrines of Lenin and Trotsky were making considerable headway in Norway. Other European nations, too, were feeling the effects. "You on this continent do not realize what it means," he continued. "Bolshevism is certainly a great menace to the world and the sooner this is realized the better it will be for civilization."

Sir Ernest recently arrived from England on the Aquitania. He landed at New York and spent last week in Montreal.

BAVARIANS MUST DISARM GUARD

Berlin Means to See Order is Carried Out—Effect on Reparations Case.

Munich, Feb. 9.—Opposition to the disarmament of the Bavarian civilian guard on the part of Premier Von Kahr may render his retirement inevitable, according to newspapers opposed to the present Bavarian administration. North German Socialists openly threaten to break with Munich if the government persists in preventing the Berlin cabinet carrying out obligations assumed at Versailles and recently prescribed by the supreme allied council in Paris.

Berlin, Feb. 9.—Bavaria's attitude relative to the disarmament of civilian guards is indefensible, in the opinion of members of the Reichstag still in this city. They believe it will result in materially complicating the task of Foreign Minister Simons during the coming conference in London.

Up until late last night officials here had received no word from Munich, but the Berlin cabinet was reported to be determined to carry out disarmament proposals without equivocation in order that it might strengthen its position in preventing counter-proposals on the reparations issue.

Paris, Feb. 9.—Germany is now executing her pre-war production of color dyes, according to the dye experts attached to the reparations committee and that by the end of the current month will have surpassed any previous monthly production of fine chemicals. Color dyes produced during January are estimated to have totalled 12,000.

ASK PROVINCE TO PAY QUARTER COST OF BRIDGE; N. B. TO QUEBEC

Delegation Lays Proposal Before Meeting in Fredericton

Dominion to Pay Half and Quebec and New Brunswick Divide Rest is Suggestion—The Legislature—Dominion Good Roads Association.

Fredericton, N. B., Feb. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—New Brunswick has been asked to contribute one quarter of the cost of a proposed inter-provincial bridge across the Restigouche River from Campbellton to Cross Point, Quebec.

What the structure will cost at the present time is not known as it is some time since surveys and estimates were made but the available figures show the probable cost to be not less than $500,000, of which it is suggested that the federal government pay one half and the New Brunswick and Quebec governments one quarter each.

The proposition was placed before the provincial government here last night by Arthur T. LeBlanc, W. H. Miller and J. Harquail, of Campbellton, and Pius Michaud, M. P., for Restigouche, Madawaska.

Premier Foster told the delegation that the government realized the importance of the proposed bridge and promised that the suggestion of the delegation would be given careful consideration. The Legislature.

The date for the opening of the legislature had not been definitely fixed up to now today but Premier Foster said it probably would be determined before the meeting of the government concludes. In government circles it seems to be expected that the session will not open before probably March 17. The date will be fixed in accordance with reports to the government from the provinces which will be engaged in the Restigouche election petition case; that case will open on Feb. 10 and the house was intended to open before those proceedings were completed that case would be adjourned.

For Good Roads Congress.
A delegation composed of T. P. Regan, president of the N. B. Auto Association, and J. E. Tillon of St. John appeared before the provincial government regarding the coming convention of the Dominion Good Roads Association, which was scheduled for New Brunswick originally but has been changed to Halifax because it is felt that the Nova Scotia city affords better hotel and other accommodations for a convention of such size.

The three maritime provinces are being asked to contribute to the funds necessary in connection with taking care of the convention, as the western provinces did when the convention met in Winnipeg last year. The delegation last evening asked that New Brunswick's share be $1,000 and it was said the Nova Scotia government would give liberally and that the city of Halifax and P. E. Island government would also make grants. It is said New Brunswick will contribute, but to what extent has not yet been definitely decided.

MONKTON PLAYERS GET FLATTERING RECEPTION HERE

"Chimes of Normandy" Presented to Two Packed Houses at the Imperial Yesterday.

The pick of the youth, beauty and musical talent of the city of Monkton invaded St. John yesterday at noon and went away again last night at midnight with two distinct and undeniable triumphs. Before packed houses both afternoon and evening at the Imperial, they presented Planquette's beautiful and picturesque opera, "The Chimes of Normandy," and richly deserved it. One thing is certain—St. John audiences appreciate good music, and yesterday's performances measured up to the requirements of the most discerning.

LONDON GOSSIP OF CHANGES IN THE CABINET

Discussion of Successor to Lord Chief Justice

Mr. Justice Darling One Favored—Disarmament and World Peace Jimmy Wilde and Herman—A Football Victory.

(From our own correspondent.)
London, Jan. 20.—Every year regularly, about the month before the beginning of the parliamentary session, come the usual rumors of cabinet changes, and it is not exactly being there is at any rate in all political clubs a very considerable amount of discussion on what racing people call "form." Under the Lloyd George regime this kind of speculation is much more difficult than it ever was before, because Lloyd Georgeism, whatever its other merits, does not run to clubs. When Mr. Balfour was prime minister, and Lord Salisbury before him, it was safe to say that anybody in the Carlton Club knew what was going on.

Clubs and the Cabinet.
When Mr. Asquith was prime minister there were always little circles round Mr. McKenna and Mr. Runciman and the Master of Elibank at the Reform who would tell you exactly who was going to become a Right Honorable and who was not. But though the prime minister has been elected a member of the Reform Club and has dined at the Constitutional, and occasionally at the National, and occasionally at the Reform, still, under a strong bodyguard, ventures into the smoking-room of the National Liberal, he has the timeous and ineluctable habit of picking his ministers from unexpected places and elevating to the highest positions people like Herbert Fisher, who when he became minister enjoyed the respect and esteem of everybody who knew about education, but who might have passed down the smoking-room of the National Liberal or Constitutional clubs without anybody turning his head.

Remoted Changes.
We, therefore, cannot know who the new ministers will be. Lord Milner, they say, is going. His health is by no means good and his work on the Egyptian Commission, successful as it has been, has been a severe tax upon him.

Normally speaking the Lord Chief Justiceship would go to Sir Gordon Howart. Unfortunately, however, Sir Gordon enjoys, and rightly enjoys, enormous prestige as a judge and eminent lawyer in the country, and as a man who cannot be replaced by anybody now visible on the legal horizon in the handling of the complicated and costly series of state cases arising out of the war. This public indisposability of Sir Gordon is matched by the fact that last year he drew more than £19,000 in fees, earnings considerably in excess of the Lord Chief Justiceship. But he is a man, as he would himself be the first to admit, who enjoys earning money, and important and dignified as the position of the Lord Chief Justiceship is, nobody of enterprise, activity and good health willingly put himself on a shelf however gilded and eminent when he can be happy working below it.

The last time I heard the attorney-general express any opinion on his own future he said that he loved the bar and proposed staying at it for another ten years. In this there is nothing extraordinary, for he would still, if he did so, be much junior in length of advocacy to Sir Edward Carson, to say nothing of less eminent leaders. If, therefore, he does not take the Lord Chief Justiceship, it must fall outside parliament.

By all rights, it ought to go to Mr. Justice Darling, a judge who is cultured, humane and intelligent, and has suffered and survived an entirely undeserved reputation for flippancy because he occasionally says witty things which get reported to the exclusion of everything else in his conduct of a case. If I were to be tried for murder or highway robbery, or what is more likely, having regard to the character of this column, to be the defendant in a libel action, I should certainly prefer to be tried before Mr. Justice Darling than anyone else on the bench. It is true he is 71, but he does not look it, talk like it nor, I am sure, feel like it, and if the attorney-general does not choose to exercise the option which his office carries with it of succeeding Lord Reading, Mr. Justice Darling certainly ought to have the job.

Falling him, there are Lord Stendal and Sir Henry Duke, who is now president of the divorce division, whose daily on the bench he shakes a melancholy head over the frailties of society.

Mr. Justice Darling is a man who is now president of the divorce division, whose daily on the bench he shakes a melancholy head over the frailties of society.

Some people ask whether this American proposal does not involve negotiation of the existing nucleus of a League of Nations, but the larger view is that it might, on the contrary, breathe life into the dry bones of that piece of academic optimism. The views expressed so seriously and devoutly by the president elect on the necessity for a closer comity of English-speaking people are exceedingly welcome.

The Campana's Passing.
It is announced that the admiralty have abandoned all hope of solving the wreck of the famous old-time Cunarder, the Campana, which was sunk in the Firth of Forth just before the armistice. She was lying in Burntisland Roads, an historic anchorage off the Fife coast, and in a gale dragged her moorings and drifted across the bows of the battleship Revenge. She was badly holed that night, but it was a surprise to everyone when in the morning nothing but her masts remained above water. No lives were lost, as she kept afloat several hours after the collision. Her remains will be blown up to clear Burntisland Roads.

The Secret of Charm Never Changes

Throughout the ages it exerts its power—this charm to which the world bows, changing history and making queens—of nations as well as hearts.

Few can describe it, for charm doesn't depend upon beauty alone. The woman who wields it may be dark or fair, of any race or type.

Only this is certain—she has a perfect skin, fresh, youthful, free from blemishes—the irresistible attraction which all understand and admire.

Begin today to give your complexion the care it needs and this charm will also be yours. It's a beauty secret of ancient Egypt and the beautiful Cleopatra.

Before you sleep, cleanse with Palm and Olive oils

Bad complexions are largely due to lack of proper cleansing. The pores become clogged, then enlarged, then irritated. Blackheads and blotches follow.

Soft and flabby skins often show the lack of a cold water tonic. Rough skins are often caused by using harsh, irritating soaps.

The best preventive is a daily cleansing with Palmolive soap. It makes a balmy, creamy lather, for the base is palm and olive oils. A gentle massage makes it penetrate. A rinsing takes it out, and with it come all accumulations which have clogged the skin.

Volume and efficiency permit us to sell Palmolive for ous life the Englishmen, playing like inspired supermen, and combining throughout the whole side on the most approved modern methods of open play, made the Welsh side look almost foolish. Naturally, the pressure relaxed, but England, definitely superior at everything except getting the ball in the scrums, could have won by more than the final eighteen points to three. Wales was particularly outplayed at half and three-quarters, but the English forwards were much the better lot in the line out, at the fast dribble and at all open play. The Gloucester forward, Voyce, was magnificent. His autumn curls led every dash. Lt.-Commander Davies, the English stand-off-half and captain, was at his best, and the English side as a whole was the best seen for years. So perhaps we may have an end now of those silly jeremiads about England's sporting decadence.

Meghan's Plans.
When Lloyd George went down to Buckinghamshire a few days ago to visit Chequers, he took with him Miss Meghan Lloyd George. That young lady expresses herself highly delighted with the new country house which Lord Lez. of Fareham has handed over to the nation for the use of future prime ministers.

There is a suite of rooms overlooking the grounds, which Meghan promptly commandeered for her own use. At least she expressed her desire to do so, and when his favorite daughter expresses a wish, it is almost tantamount to an order, where the prime minister is concerned. Megan took riding lessons some time ago, and when her father goes into formal occupation at Chequers, she hopes to have a mount of her own. His golfing friends are wondering whether the prime minister will desert the Surrey links, on which he usually plays, when he comes to use Chequers as his recognized week-end resort. During the war he generally played at Walton Heath, but he gave up his cottage on the famous Heath some time ago, and now, I believe, generally plays at Coombe Hill, which happens also to be one of Mr. Balfour's favorite links near London.

Legal Criticism.
A lawyer who was in the courts when the mixed juries began hearing cases gave me his impressions. He expressed the view that one reform will soon follow the admission of women to jury service. Jurors will have to be paid. The first woman foreman in the London courts raised that point at once. And women are now voters. So this old grievance of the male juror will now receive special attention from parliamentary candidates.

But my legal friend so of opinion that though at present apparently there is a prejudice against the woman juror on the part of the man in the dock, before long they will become distinctly popular as jurors with the habitual criminal class. Their sentimental outlook, their profound belief in the accuracy of their psychollogical impressions, and their susceptibility to picturesque "blaming" from the dock, will be regarded hopefully by the "old swards" of the courts. "If I were innocent," said the lawyer, "I personally should prefer a male jury. If I were guilty, I think I should like a preponderating feminine jury, and I should plump for a woman foreman!"

HARBOR COMMISSION.

The only profitable discussion that can be held on the subject of harbor commission is that which relates to the commission itself. All generalizations on the subject must be brought back to the particular act that is offered to St. John.

THE FREE KINDERGARTEN.

A tag day for the Free Kindergarten is necessary because the work cannot be carried on without funds. That work should be carried on in public school buildings, as part of the school system.

New York Evening Post: "How many farmers will be fooled by the pretence that the Fordney tariff bill would really benefit them? How is a tariff on grain and cotton in a country which exports those products?"

Another link in the chain of good fellowship between St. John and Moncton was forged yesterday when more than half a hundred young people from the sister city charmed and delighted St. John audiences.

The railroads are doing their best to promote the improvement of the highways of the country. The Toronto Globe remarks: "Unduly increased rates for railway travel and the carrying of freight will drive a larger share of the traffic to the highways year by year."

IT IS NOT A FAD.

Referring to vocational training and the Standard's description of it as "Mr. Magee's vocational training fad," the Standard Transcript says: "It is important to note that all the other provinces and all the advanced countries of the world are much better equipped for vocational training than New Brunswick, and they do not consider provision for this kind of education a fad."

New York Times: "Germany will gain nothing by 'rejecting' the demands of the Supreme Council that she must pay 230 billion gold marks in reparations. She is not in the position to reject the sentence passed upon her, it is not for her to say how much she is going to pay."

While some of the most influential government journals are calling upon Premier Meighen to get supply through parliament and go to the country, there are some who believe he will hold on to office as long as possible.

"It ought to be said that there are no illegitimate children," said Rev. Peter Joyce, chairman of the Ontario Mothers' Pension Committee, "only illegitimate parents."

There is still a prospect that the new bridge at the falls may be raised to right the needs of navigation. The agitation was worth while, because it was in the public interest.

It is said that Sir Auckland Geddes will return to Washington with authority to urge a world conference on disarmament. As soon as the new president is inaugurated we may anticipate more definite action at the American capital.

Editor Lynott of the Woodstock Sentinel advises St. John to go forward and not backward in the matter of vocational training. Woodstock led the province in this matter and its citizens know whereof they speak.

Is it not possible for the Standard in discussing vocational training to see something in it besides people "who want soft jobs?" Suggestions of that sort do not add to the dignity of the discussion.

Once more the British prime minister has warned the Sinn Fein that independence for Ireland is not to be considered for a moment. The sooner the advocates of a republic change their minds the better for Ireland.

Sir Philip Gibbs is quite right in assuring the American committee that Great Britain does not regard the American navy as a menace. A clash between the republic and the Empire is unthinkable.

The Quebec liquor bill would prohibit exportation from that province. Let us hope this feature will be adopted. It will be of great benefit to other provinces.

Mr. Lloyd George declares that the danger to world peace has not yet passed. In impressive words he warns the British people that there is still a great task before the statesmen of the world.

Premier Smuts appears to have the greater respect for the musical and dramatic gifts of the young people of Moncton.

UNDERNEATH THE LINDENS.

We sat in Lubeck underneath The lindens of the minister-cloze Paint flutings of the fluctuant breeze Sang from the orchards out of sight.

And, whistling low, a goosher came, And led his flock across the grass; And then we saw a burger dame Demurely smiling, pass.

We sucked the juice from tangled skeins Of currants, rose-red and white, And in the wind the ancient vanes Were creaking out of sight.

And little maidens, too, came by, And shook their tails of flaxen hair; We held a concave, small and shy, To taste our juicy fare.

Then, wandering down by mouldering towers, We reached at last a little knoll; And as we sat the nansy-flowers, We read of "Atta Troll."

How sweetly in the falling light The brood still river, like a moat, Swung, with its water-lilies white, And yellow buds about it.

Lighter vein. Pay First. "Is it here where a reward is being offered for a lost dog?" asked a tramp. "Yes," replied the householder. "I'm offering $5. Have you any news of my terrier?"

"No, not yet. But as I was just going in search of it I have come to ask if you will give me a little on account." -Houston Post.

A Cost Customer. "And what did Mr. Owens say when you told him you were a bill collector?" "Said he was, too, and that if I'd leave my bill he'd take pleasure in adding it to his collection." -Boston Transcript.

Gene Begging. "What is the Higgins family doing now?" asked Mrs. Jones of her neighbor. "The wife is writing poems that nobody will read, the daughter is painting pictures that nobody will buy, the son is writing plays that nobody will perform, and the husband is writing checks that nobody will cash." -The Bits.

From the Liberal side it is thought likely that L. J. Gauthier of St. Hyacinthe will be invited to find a seat on the government benches, as his recent statements in regard to the possibility of his entering the cabinet have made him somewhat unpopular among the Liberal members.

SENATOR DOMVILLE'S HOME DESTROYED

"The Willows," the new site residence of Senator James Donville, at Rothsay, fell a prey to flames last evening and all that remains today is a tall chimney.

which marks the spot where a stately residence stood yesterday. Despite valiant efforts on the part of the boys of the Hothouse Collegiate school and willing neighbors, the flames, which had gained considerable headway when discovered, wrought complete destruction. Much furniture and nearly all the furnishings of the beautiful house were salvaged.

The fire was discovered at 4:30 in the afternoon. Both the house and furniture were partly covered by insurance. The motor fire engine went out from the city, but on account of the lack of water was of no use. The house was of historic interest in that the late King Edward then Prince of Wales, visited there in 1860. It was then owned by Hon. Robert H. Hazen and was purchased by General Donville, father of Senator Donville. Senator Donville went there to reside about thirty years ago.

WAS ALMOST A NERVOUS WRECK

Halifax Woman Restored by Tanlac Year Ago—Still in Splendid Health.

"At the time my wife began taking Tanlac," said John A. Hayter, 123 Maynard street, Halifax, "she had suffered from stomach trouble for four years, and was almost a complete nervous and physical wreck. She could scarcely eat anything, as everything disagreed with her so bad, and often vomited. She did not sleep, and in fact, she was in a state of constant suffering. She had had headaches and dizzy spells constantly, and was hardly able to do her housework. One day a friend told her about Tanlac, and got her to try it. Well, she eats anything she wants now without the least pain or distress, has a fine appetite, and, in fact, is rid of all her troubles, and is doing her housework with ease. We can't praise Tanlac too highly. Although it has been something over a year now since Mrs. Hayter's experience with Tanlac, she stated in an interview with a special Tanlac representative a few days ago that she was still feeling fine, which is another link in the long chain of evidence regarding both the immediate and lasting results being obtained from the Master Medicine. Tanlac is sold by F. W. Munro, and the Ross Drug Co.; L. C. Allingham, Campbell, N. B.; T. H. Wilson, Fairville, N. B.—(Advt.)

ENGLAND CAN HOUSE POOR PREMIER NOW

Lord Lee Presents Nation With Fine Estate.

London, Feb. 9.—Britain's prime ministers have at least an official place of residence, Premier Lloyd George being the first occupant of the beautiful estate, known as the Chequers, in Buckinghamshire, which was presented to the nation by Lord Lee of Fareham "as a thanksgiving for her deliverance in the Great War" and as "a place of rest and recreation for her prime ministers for ever."

It is generally assumed that No. 10 Downing Street, London, is the official residence of the premier, but this is not so, as the office of prime minister is not recognized by the Constitution. "No. 10" is the official residence of the first lord of the treasury, just as No. 11 Downing Street is the residence of the chancellor of the exchequer. Usually the premier takes the office of first lord of the treasury, but he cannot occupy 10 Downing Street unless he does—except by the grace of the proper occupant.

The Chequers, which is within handy reach of London, however, is specifically designed for the prime minister, whatever office he may hold. Premiers like the late Marquis of Salisbury, the Earl of Rosebery, the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, and Arthur Balfour had huge estates, but Premier Lloyd George is a comparatively poor man, as was ex-Premier Asquith. Lord Lee was convinced that at no very distant date England may have a labor premier, who in ordinary circumstances will certainly not be able to keep up proper state. On January 8 Lord Lee invited the premier and a select party down to the Chequers and after dinner, he and Lady Lee quietly drove away, saying, "it is yours from now onwards."

The municipality of Munich makes the proposal that the carnival scheduled for that city on Tuesday be turned into a day of national mourning.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Senator Smoot's proposal to prohibit smoking in most government buildings in Washington met sudden death in the Senate, but out of grew a substitute by Senator Wadsworth, Republican, New York, requiring department heads to prohibit smoking when it would endanger public property. Senator Smoot's amendment to the Sunday Civil Bill went out on a point of order by Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, a non-smoker, who declared it was unfair because it would permit senators and representatives to smoke in their offices and in the Capitol, but would prohibit the president, cabinet officers and department clerks from smoking. The Smoot amendment drew fire from all sides. Senator Smith, Democrat, Arizona, protested that it was "an entering wedge for a most contemptible and restraining law."

Protesting generally against such laws, Senator Smith said that "blue law would prohibit the president, cabinet officers and department clerks from smoking. The Smoot amendment drew fire from all sides. Senator Smith, Democrat, Arizona, protested that it was "an entering wedge for a most contemptible and restraining law." Senator Robinson, Democrat, Tennessee, suggested that the amendment should apply to the entire District of Columbia. He said smoking in any building might start a fire which would endanger government buildings and their records. Senator Robinson, who does not smoke, and Chairman Warren of the committee which brought in the amendment and who is a smoker, defended the amendment. Both said it was designed to prevent fires in government buildings. Mr. Smoot also said it would stop government clerks from wasting their time. Senator Shields, Democrat, Tennessee, suggested that the amendment should start a fire which would endanger government buildings and their records. The president and his dinner guests being required to leave the White House to enjoy their cigars or cigarettes.

Burglars before dawn removed a 800-pound safe from the store of Seize Box, at 209 King street, Union Hill, N. J., opened it by means of the combination and extracted $300 in Liberty bonds and several insurance policies. Then the robbers carried the safe in an automobile to Bozox's home at 128 West Twenty-third street, West New York, more than two miles away, and threw it on the lawn near his front steps. Two women passing Bozox's home saw the safe with the door open, and awakened Bozox. He recognized the safe and informed the police of Union Hill. They told him that a few hours before a policeman had discovered his store had been robbed, but they didn't know his safe had been taken. VACCINATING DOGS. Paris, Jan. 29.—Vaccination of dogs against rabies is to be tested on a large scale by scientists working under the direction of the Society of Practical Veterinary Medicine. It is claimed that in isolated cases dogs have been rendered immune from the disease for two and three years with a serum already developed. Professor Vallee, in charge of the experimental work, will seek to lengthen the period of immunity and to develop the vaccination into a practical method. Experiments also will be made with the anti-rabies serum of the Pasteur Institute to determine if it can be used for prevention as well as cure. COSTS GOING DOWN. Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 9.—Another hopeful sign of the downward flight of the high cost of living was the action of the Alberta Jewellers' Association, who authorized a revised repair list at their recent annual convention held here. MORE CLINICS FOR HEALTH CENTRE OF NOVA SCOTIA

(Halifax Chronicle)

Two additional clinics have been authorized for the Health Centre at Admiralty House that will have far-reaching effect in this community and will be watched with keen interest in public health circles throughout the continent. Arabella Mackenzie, D. D. S., L. D. S., D. D. C., has been appointed the first of these, a pre-school age dental clinic. At the last meeting of the National Association of Dentists of Canada in session in Ottawa, and of the American Association in session in Boston, delegates from the Halifax Dental Society discussed Halifax Health Commission with the proposal of the Massachusetts reference to starting a pre-school age dental clinic. Both of these national associations agree with the commission that proper preventive work in dentistry must begin with attention to the nourishment of the expectant mother, must consider proper (natural or artificial) nourishment of the new born babe, must include careful watching of the eruption of the first deciduous teeth at about the age of six months, the watchful care to continue up to the age of six years and later.

Health habits established before the age of six are the habits that count most for hygiene of the mouth. This dental clinic limited to the pre-school age, in the opinion of the two national associations, is the first of its kind to be organized in the world. The chief of the service will sit in conference with the chiefs of the various clinics in the health centre in determining diet required to give the essential food elements in nourishing teeth, at the time the doctors are determining nutrition requirements for other parts of the body. Dental prophylaxis and proper tooth nourishment will be the slogan of the clinic. The second clinic authorized, practically new in this part of the country, will be organized by Dr. W. Alan Curry, and is to be known as the Posture Clinic. This clinic will run parallel with the clinic for undernourished children, those for the child of tuberculous tendency, and the dental service. The function of the Posture Clinic will be to correct the faulty postures so often shown in the children who have been handicapped with scoliosis and tonsils, and who come with drooping shoulders, necks projecting forward, gaping mouths and narrow chests. Incipient curvatures of the spine, faulty development in various parts of the body, defects of extremities not requiring surgical operations all of these conditions are susceptible of correction and cured by manipulation and with simple apparatus will be handled through this posture clinic.

Had Bad Cough For Three Years

The constant hacking, racking, persistent cough that sticks to you in spite of everything you have done to get rid of it, is the kind that is dangerous. The longer the cough sticks, the more serious menace it becomes to your health. There is no remedy that will relieve coughs—coughs that won't let go—like Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It has a healing and soothing action on the air passages and at the same time acts as a disinfectant of the respiratory organs, destroying the germs that produce serious lung complications.

Mrs. John Miller, Milburn, Ala., writes: "I had a very bad cough for three years. I went to several doctor and tried different cough medicines but nothing seemed to help me. On day a friend told me about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after using several bottles I became completely relieved. I always keep a bottle in the house, and also recommend it to others. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has been universally used for over 30 years and so great has been its success, it is only natural that a great many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper, and bears the trade mark, No. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100. YOUNG WOMEN AVOID PAIN

This One Tells How She Was Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Regina, Sask.—"For two years I suffered from periodic pains and nausea so I was unable to get around. My mother had me take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am much better and able to go about all the time which I could not do before. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my friends. If I know they suffer the same way, you may publish my letter if it will help any one, as I hope it will."—Miss Z. G. BLACKWELL, 2078 Oliver Place, Regina, Sask.

If every girl who suffers as Miss Blackwell did, or from irregularities, painful periods, backache, headache, dragging down pains, inflammation or ulceration, would only give this famous root and herb remedy a trial they would soon find relief from such suffering. It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who will continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world. For special advice women are asked to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of forty years' experience is at your service.

Concerning Education And Juvenile Delinquency

To the Editor of the Times.

Sir—In the light of the recent report on the appalling increase in juvenile crime in our Dominion, it seems important that this momentous national calamity should not be passed over in any thoughtless or unbecoming manner, for each and every one of us is in some way responsible for this increase and will be for its continuance. Our responsibility toward these delinquents lies in the lines of heredity, environment, education and treatment, for in every character, no matter what the degradation, slanders noble features.

Luckily we are not in the grip of heredity. No man is under obligation to accept any heritage. Those who cannot overcome by auto-suggestion can through daily suggestion. Environment is daily eradicating hereditary defects from our very eyes. The future of this race of ours depends on the transmission of a miscellany of racial traits through contact with our true Canadian training and Canadian institutions. It should be the aim of education not only to develop every individual that he may use to the best advantage the organism which heredity and circumstances have given him, but to qualify that organism for the highest mental and moral expression, for the true wealth of this wonderful Canada of ours is not its number of men and women, but its financial standing, but the worth in brains in the way of treatment for these boys of ours much can be done, and is being done—not by punishment but real mental treatment for the cause behind their criminality is frequently more often than recognized, (especially by our legal authorities) some form of mental or moral disease which our profession has not yet specific. Our profession today treats patients, not diseases. The man today who claims to invariably cure consumption, cancer, Bright's disease, mental disease, etc., by one means, is an unscrupulous falsifier. Yet the falsehood is greedily assimilated by the public, for of all lies the easiest to swallow is a good and lie, when liberally coated with the matter of scientific truth. Therefore these boys and girl criminals of our time cannot be cured of their moral and mental diseases by drugs nor punishment. Only by an honest and sincere segregation, of the mentally and morally defective of our city, on a basis of man to man justice, and unswerving and conscientious help and treatment, can we hope to do any thing to lessen this juvenile crime, of which even St. John has its share, as witness our police court and Industrial (?) Home. It is in these institutions that one sees much of the results of our neglect of the moral and mental insanity of our city juveniles. Much seeming viciousness is really disease. Moral insanity that comes out at puberty, is characterized by incapacity for education, distaste for family life, marked peculiarities of character, extreme cleverness in certain directions, bad sexuality and criminality. Their crimes are often without object, and against people for whom they have no animosity. Only a very short time ago a young lad of some twelve years was sent here to the Industrial (?) Home for the reason that he had set fire. (Sent by his parents, too). I have my serious doubts that the lad was in any way or manner either morally or mentally responsible. I doubt if the responsibility had not more justly been put on other shoulders. This boy is a sick lad, suffering from pyromania, a motiveless mania for destroying things by fire, and is a true form of mental alienation. Was this sick boy given a medical examination for his mental condition before he was sent up for trial and punishment? Even in the English army it is considered a soldier's right to be examined by his medical officer before he is sent up for even a very minor offence, but our boys and girls? We do not seem to be advancing very rapidly in our ideas of punishment vs. treatment, in fact we are not as far advanced as the ancients, for we find all forms of punishment in vogue today for our poor defective children and precious little in the way of sincere, loving treatment for these little unfortunates.

Heredity and environment make us what we are. Heredity though, is but a drop in the whole. Heredity represents a mass of potent suggestion transmitted from ancestors through the medium of the so-called "heredity-carriers" or germ plasma, that unite to form the human embryo. What is called anti-natal impression is but suggestion to the forming self by the physical mother, while environment may be explained as suggestion to the formed maturing and educating self by surrounding influences. It is generally understood that physical characteristics, predisposition to disease, mental, moral, and spiritual attributes, insanity, and criminal tendencies, are heritable. It may not be so widely known that excess in the use of alcohol and narcotic drugs induces in parents abnormal nervous states that are the direct cause of feeble-minded as well as "white-hot," or epileptic, idiotic, and even criminal children, the untoward tendencies being perpetuated under natural laws to the third and fourth generation.

Where lodges the responsibility for viciousness, profligacy, or crime in the grandchild of the drunkard? And who would dare hold that the offspring of an inebriate mother, saturated with alcohol before their birth, are any way personally responsible for the nervous or moral diseases that come into this world with them and cling to them through life, unless a cure is instituted. Fortunately, in all these cases, there is a strong current of reversion setting toward the normal types and higher standards of reversionary ancestors; and this is the reason why direct suggestion is so efficacious in curing weakness or sin, and throw into relief the noble traits that slumber in every character.

It has been contended that in view of the inheritance of multifarious attributes, human beings of the present are but little claim to originality. With equal force it may be argued that for many of our acts, we are not morally responsible. In the romance, "The Veil," Dr. Holmes illustrates this point. The real aim of the story, as I remember it, was to "test the doctrine of original sin, of inherited moral responsibility for other people's misbehavior." Was Elsie, poisoned by the venom of the snake before she was born, morally responsible for the villainous moral sins which, transcribed into acts, became what is known as sin, and it maybe, what is known as crime? How far is a child responsible for inherited tendencies which he knows nothing about and cannot prevent from acting? I cannot but believe, with Dr. Holmes, that all the children who are morally poisoned before they see the light and act in accordance with natural tendency, are prompt objects of divine pity rather than of divine wrath. To me they appeal with an unwonted interest.

In truth there need be no Elsie Venner, strictly such, these days, because the effects of anti-natal shocks are removable by suggestion. The influence of maternal impression upon the nature of an expected child, if not perfectly understood, is universally admitted. The dominant ideas, delusions, imperative fears of prospective mothers that menace the moral and mental health of self, inner, never-dying self, my real greater self, as distinguished from my smaller ordinary thinking self) am in no sense

Possess Good Health By Looking After THE BOWELS

A free motion of the bowels, once or twice a day, should be the rule of every one, as half the ills of life are caused by allowing the bowels to get into a cramped condition. When the bowels are allowed to become constipated, the stomach gets out of order, and the liver does not do its work properly on account of holding back the bile so that it does not pass through the bowels, but is allowed to get into the blood, thus causing a poisoning of the whole system.

If you would escape constipation, sick and bilious headaches, heartburn, floating spots before the eyes, coated tongue (bad breath), the nasty irritable bleeding and itching, and protruding piles, you should keep your liver stirred up by the use of Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills. These pills, being purely vegetable, keep your liver working actively, helping it to resume its proper functions, and thereby removing the bile that is circulating in the blood and poisoning the whole system.

Mrs. H. Barrows, Enfield, N. S., writes: "I was troubled with sick headaches and constipation. One day a friend told me of Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills. I got two vials, and found they had a great faith in them." Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills are 25c a vial, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co. Limited, Toronto, Ont.

doing it—but the inherited tendency to deviation from the divine law is the accountable factor in my wrong doing. I have had drinkers of all grades tell me, "I wish to God I couldn't get it" because they realized their ability to withstand the temptations which we legally allow.

Let us place in lucid moments have deplored their weakness and explained their position in the words of St. Paul. The conscience in direct line with God advises not to do, but the flesh, perverted and served in every wish, cries out to the other. The spirit may be willing, but the flesh is strong. And these two selfs of Paul correspond to our subjective or sub-conscious self, the pure spirit inherent in all, whether we will or not, which is swayed by impulses and intuitively resists any deflection from the perpendicular of truth, and the susceptible, continuously tempted self with its objectively contrived ego for gratifying the desires of the flesh. In the light of the experience of each of us we must recognize that we possess a duplex personality, which daily bears witness to the battle of selfs and questions not the doctrine of inherited propensity to do wrong, but of the inherited responsibility for that wrongdoing.

On this same principle, immoral attacks, inspired by the constant suggestion of wicked or misguided parents, certainly do not find place in the category of punishable wrongs (sins if you wish). The parent who forever worries, grieves, fears, scolds, raves, fattens on candor, must induce depraved states in the minds of the children growing up about them, through the potency of incessant suggestion. They develop into selfish, jealous, narrow, uncharitable beings because their objective or conscious "intellec-tuals have through their most suggestive years been impressed in these false views of life like ointments, for their prejudices, aversions and hates, their mental preferences and loves, is so truly a legitimate question for discussion.

A principle involved is entirely distinct from that which obtains in deliberate suggestion to matured minds, where the obligation to examine both sides of a presented case is binding, and the responsibility of deciding in accordance with the evidence is fixed and recognized. Under such circumstances, the soul is held responsible for wilfully or thoughtlessly entertaining the compromising suggestion. Duty implies not only doing the right but finding out what is right in order to do it.

It is not unlikely that sane adults endowed with powers of examination and judgment are not accountable for their individual responsibility of the child wrongs. But I wish to show that the their care and recognize little of their own responsibility for the future of the child. All self-interest for the time put aside—dead to all self-interest, but with a self-developing condition to be in, to live in, what far-reaching results for teacher as well as child.

It is evident that between suggestion as involved in heredity and suggestion as implied in environment a large mass of what is called responsibility, the state of being answerable or accountable for deliberate thoughts, words and actions, is obliterated.

BY DIRIGIBLES TO ALBERTA OIL FIELDS. Calgary, Feb. 9.—Plans to provide transportation from Edmonton to Fort Norman oil fields by dirigible air ships are under way, and C. K. Wollam, associated with Captain E. L. Janney head of the concern which proposes to open up a quick route to the far north, is now in the United States completing arrangements for the delivery of the first "ship" to be used in trail flights.

Mr. Wollam is convinced, after meteorological survey and of a general search into the conditions prevailing in the north, of the absolute feasibility of the scheme, and is confident that in a short time a passenger service from Edmonton to Fort Norman and back in thirty hours will be an accomplished fact.

It is proposed that dirigibles capable of carrying 22 passengers shall be used.

SAVING THE STUMPS. Victoria, Feb. 9.—A big hoist for clearing of land is expected to follow the west of a stump-using industry in British Columbia, according to provincial officials who have been conferring with R. Crooke, a stumping inventor. The industry which Mr. Crooke is establishing uses all the waste of stumps and roots which are usually burned, and thus makes profitable the pulling of stumps.

Small portable mills are being sent to various points in the province. They cut across sections of roots and stumps. Up to three hundred slabs an inch thick are obtained from each root. The grain is beautiful and takes a good polish. The round slabs are practically unbroken, and are used as seats for chairs and other things. The market price for slabs runs up to six dollars each—or nearly $1,800 for a whole sized stump.

GAVE PLAY IN HAMPTON. The farce-comedy entitled "The New Minister" was presented last night in the Hampton Methodist church hall by the Society of "Tens" of the Douglas avenue Christian church of St. John. Those taking part were congratulated in the manner in which they presented the play. A crowded house greeted them, and the proceeds, which are for the benefit of the Hampton Methodist church, reached a substantial sum. Rev. J. C. B. Appel, pastor of the Douglas avenue church, accompanied the players to Hampton.

A HAPPY EVENING. The Queens of Avalon and Four Squares of the First Baptist Church with their leaders, Miss Helen Sims and Miss Mabel Babington, entertained the Tuxedo Boys and their leaders at the church at a social in the vestry last evening. Then came a sing song of "old familiar" and after refreshments the happy gathering broke up, sorry that the delightful evening had come to a close.

NOT A GRASPING LANDLORD. Bart Rogers, St. James street, believes a recent reference in a letter to the Times concerning increased rentals was aimed at one of his houses. Mr. Rogers says he is getting fifteen dollars per month for each of three flats of six and seven rooms with bath, and that if the city desires to purchase cheap houses for the poor he will sell it and some others at what they are assessed for. He submitted to the Times figures of cost, repairs, taxes and water rates which made it clear that his profits as a landlord are not excessive.

MRS. KATHERINE O'BRIEN. Friends of Joe Page, who is in the city today will be sorry to learn that since his visit here last week death has entered his home at 29 Curosel street, Montreal, and removed one who had been a member of his household for many years—Mrs. Katherine O'Brien. The funeral was held last night at St. Anthony's Church.

WEST END SOCIAL. A poverty social was held in St. George's church school room, West St. John, last evening, with the rector, Rev. W. H. Sampson, in the chair. It was well patronized and much amusement was caused during the collection of the luxury tax on all finery and jewelry. This was the means of raising funds and the proceeds reached a substantial sum, and will be devoted to the building fund of the new parish hall, the dedication of which will take place in the early fall on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of the church. The Misses Campbell and Dykeman contributed to the programme with musical selections. Refreshments were served under the co-operation of Mrs. Hoyt Hearty of the ladies of the W. A., and the social closed with the singing of the national anthem.

Scouring, general staff officer of the district. This afternoon the inspector-general inspected the St. John cadet corps at the armory and for the occasion a half holiday in the schools was declared. The lady marched to the armory about noon and much favorable comment was passed regarding their soldierly appearance. General Burstall will lecture before the Canadian Club tonight and during the evening will finish the inspection of the local units in the city. He will go to Moncton tomorrow and complete the inspection of the district there.

THE EXAMPLE OF WOODSTOCK

What Editor of Woodstock Sentinel Says of Vocational Training.

Other parts of the province are watching St. John to see what the chief city of the province will do with vocational training. Mr. S. L. Lynott, of Woodstock, editor of the Carleton Sentinel, was in the city this week and was much interested in the question. Woodstock has led the province in the matter of vocational training. Through the generosity of a wealthy citizen it was provided with a building and was thus able to begin under most favorable conditions. The Fisher vocational school is one of the notable features of the town. Mr. Lynott says this school is a great boon to Woodstock and the county at large. Its classes derive the greatest benefit. It is not confined to boys and girls, but men and women with hair turning gray may be found taking a course. Nor is there any restriction as to who shall attend. Any man or any woman may take advantage of any course. Mr. Lynott's advice to St. John is not to drop its evening classes, but to carry on on an 8 1/2 hour as possible open day classes. He says the Woodstock school is of such value that any talk of a backward step would get no hearing from the people.

RECEPTION FOR GORMAN PLANNED

No further word was received today from Charles Gorman, and it is not definitely known whether or not he will be able to participate in the International Skating Championships. Frank White, upon receipt of a telegram from Gorman yesterday saying that he was suffering from a sore foot, wired him instructing him to follow his doctor's instructions and not to attempt to skate if he was not in condition to do so. Charlie is expected home next Monday, and Mr. White is arranging for a fitting reception. The Commercial Club and the Knights of Pythias are also arranging for a banquet, under the joint auspices. They are also planning on presenting to him suitable remembrances for his creditable performance both in the Canadian and the National championships.

K. C. RECEPTION FOR NEW KNIGHTS

A very enjoyable smoking concert was conducted last evening in the room of the Knights of Columbus, Coburg street, taking the form of a welcome and reception to the candidates initiated the previous evening. There was a large crowd present and a good programme carried out. Refreshments were served before the close. E. J. Hensberry, grand knight, presided, and gave an address as did Dr. W. P. Broderick, state deputy; Hon. R. J. Ritchie, Dr. J. F. Donnelly of Montreal, A. L. Gunn of Halifax, and J. Melissac of Charlotte-town. Among those taking part in the programme of entertainment were D. J. Higgins, Joseph Moore, R. D. McDade and J. L. Mully, who presided at the piano in his usual able manner. The gathering was brought to a close just before midnight with the singing of the national anthem.

POLICE COURT

Emmett Burke was before the police court this morning on a charge of having liquor in his beer shop, Simonds street. He pleaded not guilty. Inspector Henderson gave evidence, and Inspector Thompson corroborated him. The accused said he was out at the time and did not know anything about the liquor being in his store. The magistrate imposed a fine of $200. W. M. Ryan appeared for the prosecution, and J. A. Barry for the defence. Edward Murphy was reported for having liquor in his beer shop in Prince William street. He was not in court. W. M. Ryan acted for the prosecution. One man charged with drunkenness pleaded guilty and was remanded. The man was brought to central station during the morning suffering from the effects of inebriety too freely, but his case will not be dealt with until he is in a condition to appear in court.

THE STEAMSHIPS

No further word had been received at noon today from the C. P. O. S. liner Pretorian, which is enroute here from Glasgow. According to a radio received yesterday she will arrive here sometime tonight. The C. P. O. S. liner Metegama may not be able to get away on this afternoon's tide. The second section of the Montreal train, which is bringing a large number of passengers, is reported running two hours late and this may delay the steamer until midnight. A transfer train left the Union station this morning and took quite a large number of people to Sand Point to embark.

Crown Attorney J. W. S. Corley Completes 15 Years' Service

Will Retire This Month—Prefers Horses to Motor Cars—Growing Roses a Hobby—Luxuriates in the Classics—A Great Practical Joker.

ABOUT the end of the month Mr. J. W. Seymour Corley, Crown Attorney of Toronto, expects to retire after fifteen years service as prosecutor of the offenders of that city.

He will resume his private practice of the law, for while it is on his physician's order that he is relinquishing his public office Mr. Corley is only a young man as lawyer—go about fifty-five, just at the age when great advocates and jurists strike their stride.

"It will be an adventure," said Mr. Corley, "after fifteen years of duty as prosecutor of cases once more to be on the defense."

But it may not be so novel an experience as he supposes after all. For according to the lawyers court officials and newspaper men who have been observing him all these years, the Crown Attorney, while usually supporting his brief after the fashion of good lawyers has never been able to forget that justice and that law is the greater thing, and times without number while he stood forth in the Police Court as prosecutor, he has produced evidence with a mysterious insight into human nature that sent the vindication and release of his prisoner.

Lawyers who engage almost daily with him dine with him at least twice a week to argue the apostolic succession and other wide themes.

Mr. Corley is an anomaly. He represents one of the problems of Canada. For this ardent Imperialist and Tory was born in Meaford Ontario. He starts to study for holy orders at Trinity College, but is articulated to a lawyer in Meaford on the strong wish of his parents; goes to Detroit to practise law, but returns to Toronto, becomes Crown Attorney of this hustling and democratic city; yet remains in conduct and aspiration a Tory and an Imperialist. In aim as demonstrated how the English blood holds faith.

All Energy and Speed In court Mr. Corley is no remote, drawing dignified English advocate. In court he is a further anomaly. He is all energy and speed. In that pandemonium which is Toronto's Police Court there are only two people who know what they are doing. Colonel Denison and Mr. Corley. Rapidly, ruthlessly, definitely, these two proceed about the business of dispensing daily justice, surrounded by a court full of confused, stumbling, yammering officials, witnesses, prisoners and counsel for the defense. It is amusing and amazing that these two who are declared and bulldozed Anglophiles are in command of a court which for racket and rury and absence of calm and holy dignity could not be equaled even in the more violent parts of "those United States."

Colonel Denison and Mr. Corley come frequently to verbal blows with the greatest of dignity, cold, severe, they suddenly disappear. Mr. Corley will quote some immutable point of law. Colonel Denison will wave it laughably aside. There is menace in his voice. A silence, almost, falls on the court-room, while those who are not acquainted with affairs feel they are witnessing a tragedy—two old friends falling out. The case proceeds. But there is a restraint.

But two minutes after court adjourns, out come the Magistrate and the Crown Attorney, side by side, chins up, chests out, sticks swinging, and they proceed down Bay street to lunch at the National Club, as they have done daily for fifteen years, discussing affectionately on the magnificence past and present of the British Empire.

In law there are no friends. Mr. Corley also has a very full and almost boisterous fund of Canadian humor and fun in him. A few years ago a neighbor of his on a very fast horse in the Hill district was in the habit of having a gang of friends and several night-riding play-poker. Mr. Corley discovered the fact and could not resist a practical joke. He got a couple of detectives who were off duty to raid this slightly respectable game of night-riding. Mr. Corley burst in in the best "movie" fashion bursting in past the door, opening the door, charging up to the room where the game was, and shouting "Gettens put your hands up. Don't touch a card or a chip!" Then collecting the "goods" in a tablecloth, he put in a fake call for the patrol wagon. Of course, the obvious thing happened.

The owner of the house, frantic telephoned to his neighbor, Mr. Corley the Crown Attorney. Mr. Corley at once came in, deeply shocked that such conduct should disgrace the neighborhood. But sorry that he could not interfere in the matter, however he did quietly assist one young gentleman in the party to make his escape helter-skelter over back fences and away.

"No judge could possibly have equalled your speed, Colonel!" "And why not, if he had sense, mental legs, and ability to decide quickly?" "Because judges work with juries and you don't."

"Say young man are you going to do the expounding here or am I?" and he leaned forward in his chair, and scowled at me on the knee, "sounding again. 'What sort of man would I have been if I'd had to live with your juries. Instead of with my own instinct for fair play? Juries would have dragged me down, for it's scarcely possible, I'm sure, to bring them up. When I began sending men to jail I used to worry over their sentences; and wonder whether I had done right. But I got over that. I found that my own instinct did the work as well as any machine stowed down by a jury of twelve inexperienced men. Could it be? An old English judge once told me that there was no enormity a British jury wouldn't commit, and that his hardest job was to steer a jury away from convicting prisoners against whom the evidence was inconclusive. One time, when he was presiding at the Old Bailey in London and someone started talking about the jury, he was very just and humane man. He strongly opposed the change in the law on the ground that unlettered prisoners would be at the mercy of assuming a nurse. The evidence against him was apparently conclusive. He got up, stepped into the box. His jury swiftly and absolutely convicted the judge that he was the victim of blackmail, and he was honorably acquitted. Hawkins says that innocence never been so fairly and honestly proved as by a jury. And he's dead right. After all, though I like all lawyers, they are human and never really want to see the innocent imprisoned, however much they may like to see the guilty free."

"So there, my boy, before we talk of something else you have the case for the golden rule of criminal justice."

"That's everybody's gally!"

"You don't think much of the jury system?" I queried. "No, nor of any mere system that isn't run with common sense and healthy human instinct," the colonel replied. "Our judicial system is the finest in the world no doubt, but the finest system in the world can't deliver justice out of a couple of pedantic lawyers and a stupid judge. Every day I thank God I wasn't a lawyer, and that in spite of many adverse influences I have remained the human being my mother brought into the world and my father corrected. You know the golden rule for a court of summary jurisdiction?" "I said I hadn't the faintest idea."

"It's 'Pay more attention to the prisoner than to the lawyers.' You develop a sort of sixth sense judging cases summarily—you come to know a great many things which you don't know how you know. Your eye and ear put your mind on to the criminal in a way you can't explain and you learn to trust that strange faculty of sleep of eight or nine. I don't think of the crowd of fellows in jail who would be outside but for the few words you said to them on their inauspicious occasions."

"Here's a man with a black eye, got in a street fight. Three witnesses say his assailant gave it to him with his right flat, and two say he did it with his left. The judge says 'Well, you'll have to go with the three, the truth is in the black eye and the responsibility for starting the fight. Too much time is wasted in courts by lawyers trying to establish things that a seasoned magistrate doesn't need to trouble about on little bits. Faith, my boy, is the evidence of things not seen. The right is in the instinct for the truth, which no man hath seen at any time. I'll make that good on the confession of one of the greatest judges of modern times—Mr. Justice Law, who was a very great judge, even if he did utter the famous phrase, 'My boy, my boy, my boy.'"

"In his reminiscences Sir Henry Hawkins, who was a very great judge, believed in the wisdom of prisoners being allowed to give evidence in their own behalf, when they were convicted by English law till towards the close of his career. Though they called him 'the hanging judge,' he was a very just and humane man. He strongly opposed the change in the law on the ground that unlettered prisoners would be at the mercy of assuming a nurse. The evidence against him was apparently conclusive. He got up, stepped into the box. His jury swiftly and absolutely convicted the judge that he was the victim of blackmail, and he was honorably acquitted. The Confessional COLONEL DENISON

By Emil Longue Beau.

"COME in, come in, real glad to see you," said the Colonel, as soon as the old-man opened the door. "Some of the fellows have talked to you as if they were scared to put their foot in it."

"The first mistake you've made in your young life, Colonel," I answered. "It wasn't they who were afraid of putting their foot in it, but I. You've been some father confessor yourself; but the difference between a father confessor and me has been for publication. Maybe you won't see so free yourself by the time we get through."

Colonel Denison, Toronto's veteran police magistrate, laughed as he said: "I'll never cease being free of 'peevish' till my chin's tied up. One thing I've been determined on all my n-g-u-s-e-r-a-l life is that I would never allow a train of lawyers to interfere with my thinking or curb my liberty say what I think. People say I've talked too much about myself, but they're wrong. I've talked about the subject I know most of—and that's life as I've lived it. For a magistrate I've got the pace."

"The pace of justice. Getting on for fifty years I've handled one or two criminal cases per hour, but any other head of a court, past or present."

"No judge could possibly have equalled your speed, Colonel!" "And why not, if he had sense, mental legs, and ability to decide quickly?" "Because judges work with juries and you don't."

FIRST PUBLISHER TO BE GOVERNOR

W. Nichol, of Vancouver Province, Wins New Honor for Can. Newspaper Profession.

YEARS IN TORONTO He Has Never Been Active in Politics Personally or Through His Paper.

CANADIAN newspaper men by the score have been elected to seats in Parliament, and one of them has been elevated to the British House of Lords, but the first at being the first in the "profession" to be made the Lieutenant-Governor of a Province has been reserved for Mr. Walter Cameron Nichol, publisher of the Daily Vancouver News, whose appointment was announced a few days ago.

Hon. Walter Nichol is a real newspaper man, his ambition to become one and his development in his early newspaper days. His name was first known to a wide circle of his fellow newspaper men by his appointment as a member of the News staff he had the reputation of having a keen nose for news and being a bright and original writer. When he left the News it was to join Mr. E. E. Shepp in editing Saturday Night. That connection was severed when Mr. Nichol decided to start on his own account a paper similar in character. It was named Life, but it only lived about twelve months and even shortly before it gave up the ghost. Mr. Nichol was back in Hamilton on the staff of the Herald, which he in turn became city editor and editor. A few years later he moved to London, Ont., to edit the News, a new publication. Although he was only in London about a year it proved long enough for him to secure a wife.

When came the only hiatus in his newspaper career. He caught a severe attack of the gold fever, packed off his grip, and hurried off to British Columbia to search for the yellow metal. That was in the spring of 1898. And although he applied the same energy in searching for gold as he formerly had in quest of news, he found it not.

Well Qualified for Position. AFTER a few months of fruitless endeavor, Mr. Nichol went to Victoria as editor of the Province, then a bright little weekly, published by Senator (then plain Mr. Hewitt Bostock). But Mr. Nichol was not satisfied to maintain the Province as a weekly. He held it should be turned into a daily. Finally he was able to persuade Mr. Bostock, who had substantial capital at his command, to concur in his point of view. The Province was accordingly moved to Vancouver and transformed into a daily, with Mr. Nichol as editor. This took place twenty-two years ago, and in the meantime Mr. Nichol has acquired the controlling interest, while the Province has become the brightest and most influential daily west of Winnipeg.

The appointment of Mr. Nichol to the Lieutenant-Governorship of British Columbia was somewhat of a surprise to his friends in the east. Not that anyone doubted his capacity for acceptably filling the position. But since he settled in the Pacific Province he has never taken an active part in politics, and like his paper, has been consistently self-independent politically.

Hon. Walter Nichol in stature is slightly below the average. But he has a good appearance, and will be commonly wear his official appointments when the functions appertaining to his office demand it. He is candid and outspoken. He is on all occasions full, as he is polite as a trained statesman. He is naturally genial and being a good "mixer" can readily adapt himself to all sorts and conditions of people. Of "ade" he has none. At the same time, however, he knows when dignity has its place. And plus his own fitness for the high office to which he has been appointed, the new Lieutenant-Governor has in Mrs. Nichol a lady who is admirably qualified to fulfill her part in the social functions at Government House.

Although the first of Canadian newspaper men to occupy the office of Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. Walter Nichol is not the first of the Nichol family to serve the State. His grandfather, Col. Robert Nichol, having fought in the war of 1812 part of the time being on the staff of Gen. Brock, while a great-grandfather on the maternal side of his family served as commodore under Lord Amherst.

Harry K. Thaw, Sullen and Worn, Plays With Rabbits in the Asylum

Nearly Fifteen Years After His Famous Crime He Still Fancies Himself a Popular Hero—A Paying Guest at Philadelphia Institution—Appearance Greatly Changed, Not Manner.

THE rabbits furnish his chief present hobby amusement. He feeds them personally, ministers to them if they seem ill, pets them and takes endless childish delight in them. After he has wearied of his rabbits Thaw makes his way to the grandstand, where he sits and watches the games of the hospital. Thaw is reserved and exclusive. He is not always in a good mood, even in his diversions. A certain pride and sensitiveness in him appears to express itself in surly and groundless irritability so that he is not always a welcome figure in the place games of his unfortunate fellows. The hospital dinner is served at noon and not in the evening. Once more it is brought to Thaw on a tray and he eats in his room. His dinner over Thaw goes back to the hospital grounds and again visits his rabbits there, where, however, he does no exercising. He has grown decidedly stout in the last few years and is not well acquainted with him, nearly twenty years ago, when he was a slender youth who murdered Stanford White on a silly and extinct affluence of fennel.

Old Locking and Unhappy THAW'S hair is white at the temples and along the sides. He looks his age and shows his strain. Whether under the medication of the hospital or through other causes, there is a glaze in the eye that was one of the Thaw's stigmas in the older days has disappeared. There is no wrinkle in the man's face, a condition common enough in persons suffering from his disease. At 4 o'clock every afternoon Thaw receives all the Philadelphia and some New York afternoon papers. Then he shuts himself in and devotes himself to the papers. Supper a light meal is served at 5:30 on a tray and in private. From 6 o'clock until toward midnight Thaw continues to read his papers or to pound a typewriter. Often as early as 11 o'clock and never later than midnight Thaw opens his door and throws the read news papers into the hall. This is the signal that he wishes to sleep. The night keeper thereupon immediately turns out the lights of the Thaw room with a key. The dances—madhouse sarabands—are attended by all of the non-violent patients who wish to go by the hospital physicians the keepers and the women nurses. Thaw himself ways attends, but seldom or never dances. Instead, he amuses himself by standing or sitting by the wall and carping at the dancing, the looks or the manner of those who are diverting themselves. At other times, while the music is throbbing and the couples whirling to the strain, Thaw falls into a dream, as though his memory and his yearning went back to his own days of freedom and revel and debauch. No one who knew Thaw before the fatal 25th of June, 1898, needs to be told how carefully he dressed, or what minute attention he devoted to his appearance. Now he goes about in a sweater, throws his clothes into corners upon the floor, even upon the walls, and is always baggy and wrinkled. He does not care any more. Thaw's manner has undergone a mutation. He still speaks in a bawling and domineering tone. He addresses his attendant and his keepers with imperious commands. He believes that he is something of a hero in the eyes of the general public. "The people are with me," he said when some one warned him of the fate that awaited him if he ever stepped across the border of New York State. After fifteen years Thaw is still unable to speak or think of Evelyn Nesbit without deep and mad emotion. The Broadway wife over whom he wantonly destroyed Stanford White a great architect, appears still to occupy his affections. In spite of good treatment Thaw is discontented and unhappy. He wants to be free and is never through plotting his escape. There was a plot more than six months ago to take Thaw out of the place and set him aboard a steamer. A certain group of Western doctors and mad men were the interested persons. Whether they or Thaw originated the plan I do not know, but my impression is that the inspiration in this instance came from without. Thaw was approached by indirectness and the plan outlined to him. He was enthusiastic about it, but declined to pay anything in advance. On this rock the ship of plotting came to wreck.

A woman or white rabbits which Thaw has established in the hospital grounds furnish his chief hobby or amusement at the present time.

Left Many Bel'nd THEY were talking of people who always set on in the world, and Jones pointed to a meek little man sitting with his wife, and remarked: "He has left behind lots of people who struggle to overtake him." "Is that so? Who is he?" "A bus conductor."

Pat's Latest DEAR TIM—I am sending you my old coat by parcel post. I have cut off the buttons because it will make it lighter. You will find them in the breast pocket. Yours, etc. Pat.

Fuel Situation In Budapest Is Acute

CAUSES GREAT INCREASE IN WORK OF JUVENILE COURT—RESTRICTIONS ON USE OF GAS—WARNING TO HUNGARIANS IN UNITED STATES—FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE MAKES CONDITIONS WORSE.

Budapest, Jan. 16.—(Associated Press Correspondence)—Many of the poor people of this city are being driven to wretchedness by the fuel shortage. The recent theft of twenty-five carloads of wood from one train of 100 carloads as it entered the city shows the extent to which the stealing is going on.

Wood is so scarce that when a wagon-load is driven through the streets people stop and gaze after it until it is out of sight.

Daring small boys are ever on the alert for a stray piece of wood or anything that will give heat at home. They scamper after every passing wood wagon but are soon frightened away by long whips in the hands of two women who sit on guard outside the load.

The operation of unloading a ton of Hungary's inferior brown coal before a house attracts many neighbors who make a pathetic picture as they watch the basketful after basketful disappear into the coal bin of the more fortunate one.

Juvenile Offenders.
Because of the urgency to obtain fuel, by dishonest means, if honest ones are of no avail, the juvenile courts were never so crowded with youthful offenders.

The scarcity of fuel arose more acute daily as winter advances. The street railway services have been sharply curtailed and people wait for hours exposed to the bitter cold. The worst operated American street car never tolerated such crowding.

Gas factories are provided with coal for only 24 hours at a time and the gas is turned on now only at noon and after 6 o'clock. Only one light is permitted in a room and not more than three rooms in a house or single apartment may be lighted at the same time. Even at the most expensive hotels there is no running hot water. Saturday is bathing day. On other days baths can only be had at the public baths for which Budapest is famous.

One of the largest and most drastic steps of the new government is the deportation of undesirable citizens, those suspected of Bolshevik tendencies or who are known to be opposed to the present form of government. Hundreds of these have come to Hungary since the outbreak of the war. Now their houses and flats are being commandeered and turned over to homeless refugees from Transylvania and other sections who have been living in freight cars in the railroad yards.

The majority of the people have parted company with the last of their articles of jewelry and the dealers from other lands are not getting many takers of their offers of fabulous prices for gold and silver. What is called the State Exchange Bureau, a sort of national pawnshop, has paid as high as 80,000 crowns for a kilogram (of 220 pounds) of scrap gold and dealers are offering 120,000 crowns in an effort to coax another kilogram from people who may be hoarding their precious metal. For pure gold 250,000 crowns a kilogram is offered with no takers. The explanation is that most of the gold has been smuggled to other countries where the money has more value.

The Hungarian newspapers print a warning to 150,000 laborers of Hungarian origin in the United States to desist from their reported intention to return to their native land at this time. The papers say that the economic crisis in America can never be as bad as it is here and urged their countrymen not to further embarrass Hungary's unemployment problem.

As if the country's cup of misery was not full it is now visited by an epidemic of hoof and mouth disease and people are prohibited from buying cattle from neighboring states. All frontiers are closely watched and all cattle within 20 kilometers of the border must be registered with the health authorities.

CHAPLIN MAKES A TRAGEDY WHILE NEILAN ESSAYS COMEDY.

Leading Directors Change About.

The motion picture industry is being treated to a good many changes at this time. Charles Chaplin leaves the pies for tears and dramatic situations, Charles Ray quits the rube role for a tough character in "45 Minutes from Broadway," D. W. Griffith supplies a good many comedy situations in his master dramatic production, "The Idiot Dancer," and Marshall Neilan, the inimitable, brings us, instead of his usual mile-a-minute drama, a two-mile-a-minute comedy, which is a preaching in a way, "Don't Ever Marry" with an all-star cast.

From the opening to the closing scene there is not one moment that does not abound with humor and clean comedy, which come from situations through a combination of circumstances which every day people find in their everyday life. The story was originally written by Edgar Franklin for the All-Story Weekly, and has that delicious humor that has put Mr. Franklin at the head of his profession. Mr. Neilan, with the aid of an all-star cast, has added touches made possible only through the possibilities of the motion picture camera.

To say it is a "snatch-quick" hardly does it justice, and if you hate to laugh, please stay away from the Queen Square Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 10 and 11.

The prices for this engagement, which is extraordinary, will remain the same for the evening.

An American physician who has collected a mass of statistics regarding serious accidents on railroads, in mines and factories, has put it on record that the dangerous period of the month is from the 20th to the 28th. He declares that nearly half the bad accidents of the whole month occur those seven days.

TO EXPERIMENT ON RECREATION WITH DANCING

Social Service Council Takes Up Problem—Varying Shades of Opinion Expressed.

The advisability of recommending dancing as a desirable form of "rhythmic recreation" was the subject of some discussion and various shades of opinion at the Social Service Council of Canada in session in London, Ont., last week.

The question came up during the presentation of the report of the Social Hygiene Commission by Bishop Sweeney of Toronto.

This report recognized the "fundamental need for joint recreational and social meetings between young men and young women" and recommended that experiments be made in the carrying out of programmes of games, including such "rhythmic recreations" as "one step," "fox trot," and "Sir Roger de Coverley."

Some amusement was caused by the fact that Bishop Sweeney's name appeared at the foot of this programme, which was placed at the end of the report.

The Bishop assured the council that he knew nothing at all about the "fox trot" and disclaimed all responsibility for the programme.

Cut Up the Report.
Upon the report being referred back to the committee, the offensive programme was eliminated, and all words appearing to endorse dancing were deleted from the report. The recommendations were made to read as follows:

"We believe that the organizations working for men and women should be encouraged to accept the responsibility in planning programmes for supervised recreations."

"We recommend that a systematic study of experiments be made along these lines."

"We recommend that such experiments might be made in communities where conditions are most favorable, and where such activities are most needed by the young people of both sexes, and that this committee be informed of the progress and results of all such experiments, and that publicity be given to those which are deemed most satisfactory."

"To this end we urge that the Social Service Council of Canada request some of its units to experiment along the lines of these recommendations."

Intersperse Group Games.
Referring to "social dancing," the report stated that "group games, simple forms of group athletics and some of the other social and recreational types of activity previously suggested, should be interspersed with the dancing. Before the first number is announced, a skilful and enthusiastic leader may introduce a new game, with the suggestion that it be tried for a few minutes. Care should be taken to avoid playing the game too long and thus defeat the very purpose of the mind. One of the best ways in which to begin co-operation in physical activity ties is by leaders of men's and women's organizations coming together for discussion of problems and actual practice on the gymnasium floor in some type of activity which can be entered into with profit to both organizations and individuals."

During the debate on the report in its first form, Rev. Dr. Ernest Thomas of the Methodist Social Service department warned the council to be sure it was going to carry its whole constituency before it recommended experiments in dancing.

Rev. J. Coburn of Toronto suggested that the report be referred back.

A woman delegate from the W. C. T. U. objected to the whole report, declaring that there had already been sufficient experiments in dancing and that it was largely responsible for the prevalence of social vice.

Can't Stop Dancing.
Miss Whitton, assistant secretary of the Social Service Council, said that it was because of the commercial dance hall that the recommendation had been put forward. "We can't stop young people dancing; we are not recommending municipal dance halls, we are merely recognizing the need," said Miss Whitton.

Rev. J. P. Edmiston, secretary of the Presbyterian Home Mission Board, said that dancing was a live question in the church today, and had been up for discussion in all centres. He was not content to pass over the question without some recommendation. "If we are going to have dancing—and we are—then it should be supervised; I will go so far as that," said Mr. Edmiston.

Rev. E. H. Bean of Milverton said the present age had gone "amusement mad and crazy." He thought the churches were seeking the way of least resistance, and that their attitude should be one of no compromise. He was sorry to see the name "fox trot" in the report. "Why did you not include the 'bunny hug'?" he said. He went on to say that he could not see any difference between social dancing and commercialized dancing, it all led to the same place.

Dr. Ernest Thomas explained that the revised report did not endorse dancing in any form.

"What, then, is the meaning of the word 'experiment'?" asked Rev. W. J. Smith of Toronto.

Dr. Thomas said it referred to group games. He further said that the Methodist Church had never opposed "rhythmic movements," and simple folk dancing, but had taken a stand along with the Catholic Church against objectionable forms of dancing imported from Hungary and other foreign countries.

Rev. M. C. Maclean of Toronto said he represented a church (Baptist) that was not in any suspense on the question of dancing.

Better Recognize It.
Ex-Controller J. O. McCarthy said he was amazed at the intimate knowledge of dancing displayed by his brother Methodists. He said that the report merely took cognizance of the fact that there was such a thing as dancing. "I think we had better recognize it," he said, "and laugh. 'Dancing is common to all classes; the error is in taking a negative position. There is a necessity for positive action.'"

Miss Ford of the Y. W. C. A. National Council, said that the Y. W. C. A. had been making experiments in supervised recreation in its various institutions throughout the country.

The report as revised was carried by a vote of twenty-four to five. An amendment to refer it back was rejected.

780 RUSSIAN WAIFS RETURNED TO THEIR FAMILIES
Washington, Feb. 9.—The last of 780 little Russian waifs rescued by the American Red Cross in Siberia have been restored to their relatives in Petrograd, having traveled around the world meanwhile. Red Cross headquarters announced it had been advised that repatriation was completed three months after the children were landed in Finland.

Contrary to expectation, parents or near relatives turned up in most cases, though three years had passed since the children were sent into Siberia for safety, only to be picked up by the Red Cross starving and running wild.

Sells 1200 Pair of Hose in Two Days

One hundred letters and one hundred telephone calls to Topka women and a notice printed three times in a local newspaper resulted in the sale of 1200 pair of silk hose by the Pelletier Store Co. in two days.

When the hosiery market began to fall a few months ago, A. P. McKown, manager of the store, had an appropriate time to put on a sale. He got in touch with a knitting company and obtained one hundred dozen pairs of women's silk hose which he sold at a profit of $1.98 a pair.

Personal letters were written to one hundred women in the city who had bought hose at the store in the past. These letters were simply announcements that the store had obtained this lot of silk hose, containing a brief description of the goods and mentioned the price and the day the hose would be on sale.

The telephone was next called into service. One hundred women among them were called from the store. Each was told that the Pelletier Store thought she might be interested in knowing a special sale of silk hose at $1.98 a pair would be held on certain days. In every case the women called back at once, and many of them were given the leaflets ever glanced at in the advertisements.

A small box in the store's regular advertisement contained the announcement of the sale. This appeared in three issues.

A mob at the hosiery counter when the sale opened, and the whole went fast. At the end of the second day the sale force reported the sale of 1200 pair of the $1.98 hose remained. Many women bought six or eight pairs.

"We could have sold a lot more hose," Mr. McKown, "but our stock was exhausted—not only the special lot we bought but all we had on our shelves in regular stock. We had counted on the sale going so big, but that, I think, was due to the personal letters, the telephone calls and the ads."

Small Phonographs Help Sell Big Cases. Last summer when Lyon & Healy of Chicago advertised small portable talking machines the idea was to get customers to use them on vacation trips and bring them back from the trips and exchange for larger machines.

In this way the firm was aiming to secure a steady stream of new customers for the smaller, as well as to sell more of the larger models, but some of the reasons for the success of the campaign were not what was expected, though in a different way.

The outstanding fact, which we learned through our office, was a member of the organization, "was that the possessor of one of these machines became so attached to it that he is unwilling to part with it. It is not a substitute for the larger models, but some of the reasons for the success of the campaign were not what was expected, though in a different way.

In fact, the owner often prefers to pay outright for a new large machine and other places to which the large instruments did not lend themselves so well. One of the advertisements had a catchword: "WE WILL LEND YOU A PHONOGRAPH."

Purchase of small portable machine now and in the fall will allow you the full price paid toward a larger instrument. The campaign was a success.

Furthermore, you need only to pay for a few records now. You can settle for the instrument by small monthly installments.

LYON & HEALY. This is a record for a large number of the small machines, but sold a bunch of the larger ones, as well.

Try Speaking Up Clerks Before Making Cuts. With definition of sales volume and profits a very patent fact. The first move to this end was a good idea to lay in a supply of American shoes before you sell.

"The tide is turning! You can stop it from turning against you, but you must stop it. We have been investigating conditions and salaries paid by other concerns in our line and we find that our men are receiving more for real value obtained than in any competing house. This will make us feel badly if you do not continue to earn as much in the future as you have in the past."

"With the continued dullness in business and depression of food markets undoubtedly many people will have to be reassured. There will be more work this winter than for many winters. We have arrived at the period of readjustment."

"We would like to see you will not be compelled to make any downward readjustment of salaries and that we can continue to carry our entire text, but we cannot do either unless we get the business."

"Every one of us will have to make an extra effort. You who are selling must exert your utmost abilities to move all the merchandise possible. Those not directly concerned with selling must see to it that their jobs are filled 100 per cent. See that all old and hanging merchandise is brought to the front. Clean and small stocks is the watchword of the day."

"Take a live interest in your work, suggest improvements to those in charge where you believe improvements are needed."

"We do not want to be pessimistic, but we cannot help feeling that unless every one puts his shoulder to the wheel things will become increasingly hard."

"Keep the tide from turning against you."

adopted this novel advertisement. Yes, they sell oysters by the yard. By measuring a certain number of shells an average was struck and it was found that seven and a half shells made up an average of thirty-six inches. Instead of disposing of oysters by the quart or pint, as most dealers do, the Fox store puts them out by the yard, opening each yard as the customers call for the bivalves.

In addition to arousing interest in the store, which was the primary object in instituting the yard method of disposing of oysters, the Fox store found many persons like to know just how many bivalves they will receive, which is hard to judge when buying by the pint or quart. When a person contemplates a dinner with oysters on the menu, it is embarrassing to be short of oysters, and by the yard method one can tell just how many will be in the cardboard container handed over the counter.

Girls in Cretonne Made Record Sales. W. K. Barnhart, buyer of the Meier & Frank drapery department, conceded to be the largest in Portland, Ore., recently inaugurated a novel sales idea which created a demand for 613 yards over and above the usual cretonne sales the first week of its existence.

A simple and practical house dress was designed by Miss Delcia Robinson, a salesgirl, and the model was displayed in an attractive window trim, as well as by every girl in the department who wore a dress during the introductory week.

Three and a half yards of cretonne were required to the dress and 175 or more dresses were sold the first week. Orders for making them up were filled in the alteration department, where a charge of $2.50 each was made, in addition to the material. The dresses, complete, were sold

CASUALTIES FROM RUM GREATER THAN OF WAR
(Ottawa Journal.)
Total prohibition would be a greater victory to Canada than the winning of the Great War, Rev. Dr. A. S. Grant, secretary of the provincial referendum committee, told the congregation of St. Leo's Street Methodist Church last night. Dr. Grant stated that the rum traffic seriously injured the nation's health and that the casualties from this cause were more numerous than the casualties of the war. Alcohol, he said, was to a greater extent responsible for the number of young men being unfit for war than perhaps any other cause. They simply had not had a chance in their childhood owing to drunkenness of their parents.
Dr. Grant denounced the rum traffic as one of the greatest curses of the world. The closing of the bars was followed by wiping out the slums among the poorer classes, but had increased them among the rich who had simply transplanted the bars to their own homes.
"Parents. It is a question of your boy or your booze whether you prefer keeping your liquor in the cellar and letting your sons acquire the habit," he said.
Scientists and medical men all denounced the influence of alcohol on the human body, maintaining that it reduced the efficiency of the individual. From a strictly commercial viewpoint liquor was injurious to business efficiency. From a religious standpoint, it also reduced the religious efficiency of the individual. Dr. Grant closed his sermon by exhorting the members of the congregation to take advantage on April 15 of their votes, to safeguard their interests and the interests of their fellow men.

Dr. A. S. Grant also conducted the service at Chalmers Presbyterian church in the morning and spoke along similar lines, urging his hearers to take advantage of their franchise to better conditions of their country.
HACKENSACK RIVER A GIANT HIGHBALL
Crowd Whistles Dirge as $2,500 Worth of Rum is Mixed With Stream
To the alternate strains of the "Doxology" and Chopin's "Funeral March," whistled by the large crowd assembled to witness "the last sad rite," liquor valued at $2,500 were poured into the Hackensack River at Hackensack, N. J. The cases were brought to the river's edge in wheelbarrows by the police and janitors of the County Court House, who opened them and emptied their contents into the stream at the sign of County Prosecutor A. V. Hart, who had charge of the ceremonies.
The liquor was seized recently in a raid on a hotel at Hasbrouck Height. The owners were arrested on charges of violating the New Jersey Crimes Act which requires a license for the sale of intoxicants. Gambling machines which had been seized by the sheriff were stacked up and burned at the same time the liquor found its watery grave.
In compliance with instructions received from Prohibition Commissioner J. F. Kramer in Washington, Charles R. O'Connor, State Prohibition Director, issued all permit holders other than wholesale druggists for an inventory of all liquor in their possession as of Feb. 1. The report is to be made in duplicate on the forms issued for this purpose, and the statement must be made under oath. Three days are allowed for the return of the blanks.
Federal Supervising Agent Daniel J. Chapin said that about three weeks would be required for the inventory of the liquor seized by prohibition agents and held in the Knickerbocker Warehouse. This is the first inventory of the confiscated liquors, which have an estimated value of about $2,000,000.

LANDRU'S TRIAL AGAIN POSTPONED
(Associated Press Correspondence)
Paris, Jan. 23.—Henri Desire Landru, under indictment for the murder of seven women to whom at various times he had promised marriage, and whose trial before the French assizes had been set for March 1, has succeeded in obtaining another postponement of his trial. Landru has been in jail for two years and recently was sentenced to five years in jail and subsequent deportation for swindling.
Under French law, a man accused of crime has the right to take cognizance of the case in his own defence before the jury. He may make a fight upon the legality of any of the documents submitted to the jury.
The dossier in Landru's case includes 7,000 documents, all of which have to be copied, as the public prosecutor does not trust the originals in the hands of the accused. The work of copying the documents will occupy more than a month.
Landru has informed the court that he will require several weeks in which to study the documents, as he intends to challenge all of them as irrelevant.
Landru caused considerable worry and annoyance to Judge Bonin while the latter was investigating the case and now that it has been turned over to the prosecutor of the republic he has adopted the same tactics.
"To one of the assis (Lafite) of the prosecutor who reproached him with procrastination saying that French justice has other things to look after than the Landru case, the alleged Gambais Bluebeard replied:—
"Then why don't you let me go, I am perfectly willing." Then he added: "How I miss Judge Bonin. At least, he was a gentleman."
PREMIER ADVANCED IN MASONIC FRATERNITY
Toronto, Feb. 9.—Hon. E. C. Drury, premier of Ontario, a member of Corinthian Masonic Lodge, Barrie, Ont., was raised to the third degree at St. Andrew's Masonic Lodge meeting here last night, in the presence of nearly 500 members. It was "empire night" and the lodge was honored with a visit from F. W. Harcourt, K. C. grand master, and the officers past and present of the grand lodge. All the officers at the function are members of the legislature.

THE TELEPHONE FIEND.
(Toronto Telegram.)
A woman member of the faculty of the University of Illinois, Miss Marjorie Sims, declares that "the average woman wastes a large part of her life visiting on the telephone." She believes that women should "observe business hours as men do. The only way to accomplish this is to have the women agree to do no visiting during certain hours each morning." If, remarks the New York Sun, she means as good business men do, very well, but if she thinks that the fair sex is the only culpable one in the matter of wasting time she does her sisters a wrong.
There is a great deal of time wasted on the telephone, and it is squandered by both men and women. The real waste, however, is not so much the time of the person who has the telephone habit, but the time of him or her who is called up and compelled to listen to piffle.
Telephonicitis is a disease of the uncoupled and lazy. The person who is too slothful to make a visit, business or social, is still able to drag the telephone instrument to his or her elbow, to ring a victim's ear and to pour forth all the trivial gossip and the banal inquiries that kill time and friendship.
Of course politeness is needed in telephone conversations. The tone of voice, the form of address, should be as distinguished as if a yard and not a mile separated the talkers. But it is necessary to remember that the person at the other end of the wire may have been interrupted by the bell in the midst of most important business.
A symptom of telephonicitis is that it requires no tie in others. The person who has it does not consider that he or she may be breaking in on a man who is trying to complete a sale or a woman who is engaged upon the multifarious duties of a household. The telephone friend wants to telephone to somebody and that somebody must take the consequences or be accused of rudeness.
Those who have telephonicitis believe that by calling up a dozen persons and chattering with them on every subject from the weather to golf and opera criticism, they are accomplishing a morning's work. The person called up may be interested in those topics, but not in the discussion of that particular time.
As to the point the telephone fiend has neither knowledge nor consideration. It is enough for the fiend that the telephone is a cheap and quick way of trapping a victim.
The only escape from one of these misusers of the telephone lies in cold and somewhat brutal treatment of the guilty.

New Zealanders Eager For More Trade With Canada

BY A. G. CUMMINGS.

Auckland, New Zealand, Dec. 22.—Wherever I went during the course of my 1,500 mile tour of New Zealand I found suggestions of closer trade with Canada sympathetically received. I interviewed the Canadian trade commissioner at Auckland, W. A. Geddes, and he pointed out various ways in which the two dominions could still further expand their mutual commerce. As it was he showed me, the existing trade on the whole was showing a satisfactory tendency, but was still far from what it ought to be.

In 1914, said the trade commissioner, "New Zealand imported from Canada about $2,500,000 worth of goods and exported about $2,970,000. At present that volume of trade has increased to roughly about eight million dollars. But we could augment it much further. New Zealand wants lumber, wire and motor cars. I have been trying for weeks to place an order for wire and can find no manufacturer who will undertake early delivery."

Asked as to the Canadian government's marine and its influence on Canadian trade with New Zealand, Mr. Geddes hoped for great things from it in the future. If all perishable cargo were shipped direct to New Zealand, instead, as had happened, being sent to Sydney first, New Zealand importers would be more satisfied with it.

An American Monopoly. Making inquiries elsewhere as to motor car imports I learned an astonishing thing in regard to the position of Canadian manufacturers. I found that most of the Canadian firms were actually unable to send any cars at all to New Zealand and that the trade was monopolized by the Americans! Only the Ford Company of Canada was free to export Canadian-made cars to New Zealand.

The explanation, it appears, goes back to the inception of the industry in Ontario. When American firms wished to enter Canada they made arrangements with existing Canadian firms of carriage makers, offering them a liberal interest in the new concerns it was proposed to establish north of the border. The American firms, however, reserved themselves the right of controlling all export trade; and consequently today if a New Zealander wishes to buy any car in Canada, other than a Ford, he cannot do so! All that business must go to American firms.

And it is a very important and rapidly growing business at that. During three months recently New Zealand imported 1,900 Ford cars and 3,000 other makes, and from the bulk of this business Canada is altogether shut out by the action of her own business men! Another obstacle to the development of trade I found to exist in the management of the mail steamship service. Calls from Vancouver and San Francisco are expected to take place at regular intervals so as to provide fortnightly service with the Southern Dominion. But this is what happens instead. With forty-eight hours after my arrival in New Zealand one steamer from Vancouver and the other from San Francisco reached port. This meant, of course, that an entire month must elapse before the next Canadian mail would be received.

As regards the lumber industry, Canada has a tremendous field open to her, if only she would organize for it. As things are, New Zealanders sent to Seattle and Tacoma for their lumber because, as several of them told me, "we can never get quotations from Vancouver." I explained that British Columbia lumbermen just now were taken up with the domestic market and had failed to organize for export as they might have done. The expressed opinion given with emphasis in reply was that the British Columbia lumbermen were very shortsighted people because they did not seem to know that only by building up a sound export trade could they maintain the prosperity of an industry during time of slackened domestic markets.

Would Produce Own Lumber. New Zealand obviously intends to depend for no great length of time on imports from the United States where she now gets the bulk of her lumber. She is embarking on an extensive reforestation policy and has already secured the services of a Canadian forestry expert, Captain L. Mackintosh Ellis, to carry out the work.

As an indication of steady growth not to be dispensed with. Trade methods I discovered have an adverse influence on expansion between Canada and New Zealand. A leading business man whom I met in the Pacific Club in Auckland inquired from me when he learned what I represented, how it came that Canadians could not do business through their own banks but had to have it done instead through those of New York.

I asked for an explanation. "Well," he said, "it is this way. When I buy goods in Canada I am asked to pay for them through New York. Agents for Canadian firms here do business on the basis of making payments in American exchange. Now what I want to know is why should you Canadians be so dependent on a foreign country as not to be able to make settlements in your own currency. There is a difference of forty cents or so between the Canadian and American currencies, and what I want to know is this, where does that difference go? Does the Canadian exporter get the benefit of it and if not who does?"

I gave it up. But I undertook to put the matter before the Canadian public that they might see how it was certain certain methods of doing business in some respects gave offence in New Zealand.

Premier Massey's Warning. There are those naturally who see a setback to all this prosperity. Mr. Massey, the Premier, in Parliament, just lately envisaged a possible decline in the natural courses of things, wool prices must come down, the butter and cheese market will be better supplied from Europe, and the frozen meat trade reach its normal level. Then, he said, the prices of dairy lands must fall also and he warned those who speculated in them now to be careful lest they meet disaster in the future.

So perturbed are some of the more conservative people in New Zealand at the present tendency to speculate that a tax on each transfer of agricultural land with the view of stopping "land gambling" was advocated by one member of the House during my visit there. He pointed out how race meetings were controlled because of the gambling that went on—how much more ought there to be some control of land speculation which brought even greater evil in its train.

The Prime Minister pointed out that there was a heavy stamp duty on such transfers at present, and did not see what other impost could be levied. It is likely, however, that the "boom" will pass without doing much harm in New Zealand. The country economically is so sound, it has such prosperous basic industries in dairying and wool-raising and meat production and the best system of co-operation in the world that a depression such as it once before underwent in its history before the invention of cold storage is unthinkable. There may be a temporary depression when the readjustment period comes and the world's markets get back to normal. But the best opinion available holds that that will be all.

GENERAL BRUTINEL

Despite Brilliant Record He Had to Be Examined With His Class—Served With Canadians.

Paris, February, 7.—During this month in France boys of the class of 1921 are called up for medical examination for the army, and so also are those men who have not passed revision test out of the army. That business is done thoroughly as this story tells.

In Paris, the other day there appeared among the young recruits a man 85 years old. With the others, he had to strip and go through the complete examination. That was because he forgot to do it in 1920 when he should have come up with his class for revision. Of what had happened in the interval the French authorities took no account. Their red tape didn't allow for such incidents as wars and alliances, and it was not till after they had gone through the business in thorough style that it was discovered that the man who was still liable for military service was a private in the French army of the 18th, and entitled to wear as well the French War Cross and the Rose of the Bath, and entitled to wear as well the French War Cross and the Rose of the Bath, and entitled to wear as well the French War Cross and the Rose of the Bath.

General Brutinel and the "Independent force" over which he had command during the closing period of the war, figured prominently in the final route of the German armies. His force consisted of motor machine guns and armored cars which, while independent of any divisional organization, co-operated with the Canadian divisions wherever his services were required. It is worthy of note that a fleet of Brutinel's armored cars were amongst the first British detachments to enter Mons on Armistice Day.
