

VOL. XX. No. 29.

CAMPBELLTON, NEW BRUNSWICK, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY, '19, 1925.

FIVE CENTS PER COPY

PLAN TO RE-ESTABLISH THE MILK LUNCH FOR CHILDREN IN CAMPBELLTON SCHOOLS

TRAGIC DEATH OF RESTIGOUCHE MAN

OIL MEN HOLD CONFERENCE HER

A GOOD MOVE

This week a well supported petition was forwarded to the Quebec Govern-would doubtless bring trade to local merchants.

MEETING OF TOWN COUNCIL

Communication respecting to assessment and application for position were referred to proper committees. The Secretary of School Board wrote

It was moved and seconded that the meeting request the Town Council, the Board of Trade and the Retail Merchants Association appoint delegates to proceed to Ottawa, at mee-

BATHURST GIRLS
HERE MONDAY

DECREASE IN EXPORTS TO U. S.

pected to be made next week in Fredericton and York Co. when a petition to the effect mentioned will be circulated for public signature. The belief is that the petition can be c

RESPECTED CITIZEN DIED SATURDAY

GEORGE G. McKENZIE CO.
Silk hosiery special. Colors black, blue, navy, cream, taupe, suede, black and white. Price 59 and 79 cents.

Dalhousie, N. B. Among the appropriations for the Province of Quebec in the Main Estimates submitted this week in the House of Commons of Canada, is an item of $10,400; Upper gressive farmers of Lower and Upper Miguasha, who feel the great need of communication by water with the Restigouche Co towns.

Bonaventure Mayors Meet at N
Carlisle To Protest Against

ack, resolution was sustained by two eze, two votes (22) in a total vote
(24)

_____

_____

A close-up photograph of a stone wall. A prominent horizontal crack runs across the middle of the frame, separating a darker, more textured upper section from a lighter, smoother lower section. The stones are irregular in shape and size, with some showing signs of weathering and discoloration. The lighting is somewhat uneven, highlighting the texture of the stones.

The Campbellton Graphic

CAMPBELLTON, NEW BRUNSWICK, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY, 19, 1925.

Well Made Storm Sashes

Make Your Home snug and Tight for Winter

WE CAN SUPPLY ALL
STOCK SIZES
PROMPTLY

SPECIAL
SIZES MADE
TO ORDER
IN FEW DAYS

WRITE, PHONE OR CALL FOR PRICES

J. & D. A. HARQUAIL CO., LTD.

CONTRACTORS & BUILDERS

CAMPBELLTON, N. B.

Get our Catalogue and Price List for all kinds of Building Materials

Mantle Clocks

We have a few Mantle
Clocks at $8.50

Special Cash Prices.

8 day, half hour strike in Black Enameled Cases, movements guaranteed.

H. R. Humphrey

A MAN

Careful of his personal appearance is usually careful about other things.

Good dress reflects a well ordered mind,
good habits, intelligence.

Many an intelligent man has failed to convince others of his intelligence, because of his careless slipshod manner of clothing himself.

A man who has pride in his appearance naturally turns to this store for his correct apparel.

NEW ART CLOTHES.

Ferguson & Wallace

RESTIGOUCHE NOT GETTING RIGHTS AS A COUNTY

Demands Are Repeatedly Ignored—Writer Makes Some Pertinent Statements.

Under this heading will be found a letter, received last week from a prominent citizen of this county, dealing briefly with the subject of Restigouche Rights. Because of the importance of this topic we are incorporating it with further remarks and presenting it in such a way as will, we hope, attract the attention of every reader in Restigouche.

Repeatedly Ignored
The question of "Restigouche Rights" is a subject which is too seldom discussed and one to which, as progressive citizens of a progressive municipality, we give far too little attention. As a county our rights are repeatedly ignored—and ignored with an amazing lack of consideration or fairness. Whatever may be said against us as citizens of New Brunswick we must be exceptionally cool-headed and long-suffering or we would undoubtedly have been up in the air long ago.

Given Little Attention
Although few people seem to fully realize it, Restigouche County is rarely taken into consideration on a single provincial issue of any kind. The voice of the people of the North seems to count for nothing so long as other municipalities, fortunately located nearer the political firebrands, are satisfied. It makes no difference what our grievances are or how vital they are to the welfare of Restigouche, they are given little or no attention. And there is scarcely a department of municipal life which, in its history, does not hold proof of this lamentable neglect.

Manifestly Unfair
That any municipality of the province should be treated in such a manner is manifestly unfair, but that this county should be Restigouche, one of the largest revenue producing municipalities in the entire province, gives the matter the aspect of rank injustice. In spite of the fact that Restigouche is one of the most important municipalities of the province, it has even a representative in the Federal House at Ottawa, an unsatisfactory arrangement which is not sufficient even upon the face of it, which contributes much less to the provincial treasury. In the matter of appointments or honors which the Government has to make, Restigouche is ignored. In the matter of appointments to the Senate, nearly every county in the province has been so honored but Restigouche has apparently never come anywhere near having a senatorship conferred upon a native son. These two facts alone ought to be enough to arouse the citizens of Restigouche to action and to demand the recognition which is clearly their due.

In many other ways Restigouche is repeatedly overlooked but we will not discuss these here. We merely wish to bring this matter to public attention. This article will be followed by others which will deal with the question of Restigouche Rights in more detail and which, we hope will have a beneficial effect in bringing about a clearer realization of what we deserve as a county and how little consideration we are receiving from the government and other parts of the province.

The letter referred to follows:
The Editor,
The Graphic,
Campbellton, N. B.

Dear Sir:
As I have been reading for some time past the move that is on foot to give the Maritime Provinces that share of the Canadian trade to which they are entitled and place our province down by the sea on the map as far as trade and commerce is concerned, I note with pleasure the measure of success that is attending their efforts. I just wondered why this was not done long ago and as my mind went back to a meeting in St. John at which Sir Henry Thornton the president of the Canadian National Railway delivered an address he pointed out that the people held the cards in their own hands and he showed them how to start the ball rolling. The people wake up and the result is as it always will be when people wake up—the Government will listen and the Maritimes will get their rights. They will get their rights because their demands are reasonable and justice will prevail.

Now while thinking along this line I thought of our County of Restigouche and I asked myself the question, Are we getting our rights as a County? We are one of the largest counties in area, we have large fishing industries, we have large lumbering industries, we have splendid harbours and we have the largest export trade of any county in the province—that is, of trade originating in the province. St. John, of course has more but it originates in other parts of the country. In fact Restigouche is one of the largest revenue producing counties in the province. We had the largest increase in population of any county in the province in the last two decades our town and country where are numerous, we have very few business failures, our banks are all prospering, our business men are considered smart, shrewd business men. Then why is our County passed over with positions of honor or that the government has to pass upon any board of arbitration or any of the positions of honour such as Senator, to serve in the councils of our common country? No, Restigouche is never dreamed of but instead the Powers that be will try to get as many packed in St. John as possible and if they cannot get room enough for them there they will get them as near there as possible. What is the reason for this embargo on the county of which we are all so proud? Is it because we have no brains? It cannot be that because we are a maritime county and maritime men being fish eaters are considered the brainiest men in the land. Is it because we do not go after our rights in earnest? Just as the people are going after their maritime rights today you must remember that while we number this has done with this generation but it will effect our children and our children's children. We are spending money to educate our children which is the right and proper thing to do, but unless we rise up in one united effort and demand our equal share of the public money and public offices that are the gifts of the Government at Ottawa our descendants will be in an inferior position compared with other parts of the province.

We are splendid fellows at the elections, we know how to get behind the right party—so we think, but just let us forget that for a while and for once let Whig and Tory all agree that we will demand our rights as a county and be put on equality with all the other counties in the province and give us our turn at the wheel when filling offices of trust and honor.

CITIZEN.

INTEREST GROWS IN A PROPOSED MOVE FOR INDUSTRIES

EFFECTIVE WORK OF HEALTH BOARD SHOWN IN HANDLING OUTBREAKS OF DIPHTHERIA

Death Rate Reduced Greatly In Last Few Years—Economy One Of The Features Of The Work—Last Years Cost To County Only $10.15.

In the efforts of the Board of Health to carry out their program of combating disease and promoting public health in Restigouche County no branch of their activities shows more effective work than that performed in connection with handling diphtheria. This is easily realized when it is known that in 1924 only two deaths resulted from a total of thirty-two cases in this county. Not many years ago it was a common thing for several deaths to occur in each family afflicted. The reduction in the death rate from this disease as shown by the above figures is eloquent of the good work of the board. One of these deaths occurred in a case where there was evidence of carelessness on the part of parents in not securing the services of a doctor soon enough. In the other case death was largely due to other complications which set in making recovery impossible.

Good Results
Two or three years ago cases of diphtheria were constantly being reported in one section of the county. Dr. H. Cyr, Medical Inspector of Schools, was induced by the Board to visit this district, investigate conditions and act accordingly. He did so and wherever necessary administered anti-toxin. This treatment prevents a child of from three to five from catching diphtheria for almost a life-time. The result of this work was that the trouble in the district referred to has been almost entirely wiped out.

According to the experiences of the Board of Health diphtheria does not break out in any one section and it has been found that when promptly reported and looked after usually only one case results in a family. The effectiveness of the work now being done is made more appreciable when it is recalled that formerly an outbreak of diphtheria almost invariably meant death to several members of a family. Those connected with health work, however, strongly urge parents to take timely action and when a child complains of a sore and troublesome throat to have it attended to without delay. Records show that the greatest trouble arises from parents neglecting to secure medical advice before a death has occurred in the family. In cases where such neglect has been indulged in, the health authorities do not have a fair chance to render effective service.

CORRECTION
In the article appearing in last week's issue relating the work of the Board of Health in connection with the threatened epidemic of smallpox the sentence reading, "to have had the work done otherwise would have cost this county $25.00 to $30.00," should have read $250.00 to $300.00.

WRONG NAME
"I don't like your heart action" said the medical examiner. "You've had some trouble with angina pectoris."

1	2	3	4	5	6
7	8	9	10	11	12
13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30

- Answer to Puzzle
- KEY TO CROSS WORD PUZZLE
- Horizontal
- To cut.
  - Tepid.
  - Instructed.
  - Sharp, eager.
  - In days gone by.
  - A preposition.
  - A rug.
  - A thought.
  - Ripped.
  - A little.
  - Behold.
  - A conjunction.
  - A covetousness.
  - Lumber in its natural state.
  - Girl's name.
  - Sympathy.
  - Don't wait.
- Vertical
- Pastry.
  - Pertains to news, or an account.
  - Kitchen utensil.
  - What for.
  - Small particle.
  - To join.
  - Something to prolong life.
  - A valley.
  - Worshipped by heathen.
  - A Roman Emperor.
  - Pro noun, article.
  - Indefinite.
  - Prevent.
  - A boat of logs.
  - Spice.
  - An indenture.
  - A month.
  - To fit.

Some Timely Facts Are Presented On A Question of Vital Interest.

If the interest that has been aroused over the question of promoting the establishing of suitable industries here means anything it can probably be taken as an indication that at least a few local business men are coming to realize the undeniable importance of this matter and the urgent necessity of some co-operative action. It is to be hoped that such is the case and that some progressive move will be made shortly to formulate a definite plan of procedure. At any rate considerable discussion has been started. That is always a good sign and it is just possible that some definite action may be decided before this issue goes to press.

Graphic Takes The Lead
Two weeks ago there appeared in the Graphic an article, dealing with the matter of establishing suitable industries here, and pointing out the necessity of finding a lucrative market for our surplus hydro electric power. The great need for such industries was also pointed out and some of the possible benefits enumerated. This paper has taken the lead in endeavoring to bring to public attention this important matter and it remains for local business men, and other representative bodies to get together and study this question which is undoubtedly, one of the chief issues demanding our attention at this time.

Some Opinions
During the past few days the writer has made it his business to secure the opinions of some local business men on this subject. And all these agree that Campbellton has reached a stage in her progress where industries are imperative to further growth.

One man in his statement reiterated the Graphic's assertion that our town is in the end everyone is effected and effected in a most unpleasant way, for cause and effect always run in a cycle—in the industrial and commercial world at least.

It would be possible to go on and on indefinitely presenting the disadvantages under which all of us, as citizens of Campbellton are working and incidentally getting nowhere, but it is to be hoped that our situation is becoming generally realized. The only solution of these unprofitable conditions is the promotion of industries. Once we have started to PRODUCE, other benefits will follow. It will take some time before we can bring about any Utopian existence to be sure, but the sooner a strong, co-operative move is made the sooner will conditions be improved.

Unemployment
Still another man in response to our question concerning the necessity of industries, touched on the lack of sufficient employment. In fact he became quite voluble—and we do not wonder at him. This year in Campbellton there are a large number of skilled workmen who have scarcely struck a tap since early fall not because they are too indolent to work but for the simple reason that there has been nothing to do. The only possible alternative is "the bush" and that field of activity is already overcrowded. In fact, it always has been; and that fact alone there is a powerful argument in support of the need for more industries. There is so little suitable employment that each fall every other laborer becomes a makeshift lumber-jack by force of circumstances. He goes to the woods in

DALHOUSIE PLAYED GOOD GAMES

Another Near Win For Visitors in Archer Cup Curling Matches Saturday.

Dalhousie had two strong rinks on the Campbellton ice Saturday afternoon, playing for the Archer Cup and for a time it looked as if the visitors would carry home this beautiful trophy which has reposed so long with the local club prizes.

While at no time did either club have a large margin the score was tied all around at the thirteenth end, but Campbellton scored sufficient to hold the cup in the last ends.

The rinks and scores were as follows:—

Dalhousie	Campbellton
Mck. Anderson	G. A. Mowat
F. Winchester	F. D. Olson
S. L. T. Clifford	F. P. Wetmore
A. J. LeBlanc	Rev. W. M. McNain
Skip 13	Skip 14
A. Barberie Jr.	C. McKenzie
J. Oakleaf	Alex McLenan
A. Barberie Sr.	J. T. Aowat
Murray McKay	J. P. Jardine
Skip 14	Skip 17

After the game the visitors were entertained by the ladies who served sandwiches, cake and coffee.

a hopeless effort to keep the wolf from his door. And in many cases he is glad to go for the miserable pittance which has, every year, with a few exceptions, constituted the lumberman's wages. Wages that in cold figures represent an amount insufficient for his own needs, to say nothing of wife or family. As a consequence the town is flooded with people who are seeking to buy the bare necessities of life at the lowest possible price—which, at times, even this they are unable to pay. As an inevitable result our merchants get neither the volume of business they should nor the class of trade they desire. In the end everyone is effected and effected in a most unpleasant way, for cause and effect always run in a cycle—in the industrial and commercial world at least.

It would be possible to go on and on indefinitely presenting the disadvantages under which all of us, as citizens of Campbellton are working and incidentally getting nowhere, but it is to be hoped that our situation is becoming generally realized. The only solution of these unprofitable conditions is the promotion of industries. Once we have started to PRODUCE, other benefits will follow. It will take some time before we can bring about any Utopian existence to be sure, but the sooner a strong, co-operative move is made the sooner will conditions be improved.

ECONOMY
OXO Cubes give you at small cost the nourishment of the finest beef—seasoned and ready for use.

Use OXO Cubes for hot drinks as well as for gravies, stews and meat pies, to give more nourishment and flavor.

In tins of 4-15c. and 10-30c.

OXO CUBES

EDICT SPEAK
ODOR HOWL
SUVA APE ETNA
ONE SIREN OAK
AT D NOT E PI
KOREA G ALLEN
AUSTRALIA
PATCH A LANCE
AD E AMY S ON
NET DEMON SOD
GNAT TEN TAPS
RAIN GANG
HENNA ENTER

Answer to Puzzle

THE CENTRAL BOOKSTORES

SCHOOL AND OFFICE
SUPPLIES

VICTOR GRAM PHONES
AND RECORDS

OUR LENDING LIBRARY
range of New books being week

STORES

The Graphic

H. B. ANSLAW, MANAGER

Subscription - $2.00
 Strictly in Advance, $2.50 per year
 To the United States $2.50
 The rates for Transient Advertising in The Campbellton Graphic, effective April 1st, 1923 are as follows:
 Per inch, first insertion 80c
 Per inch, second insertion 40c
 Local readers Adv. 15c per line each insertion. Minimum charges 50c
 Card of Thanks, Notices of Births, Deaths, Marriages and Deaths, 60c.
 Poetry with Deaths or Memorial Notices, 10c per line extra.
 General Mercantile display rates on application.

CAMPBELLTON, N. B. FEB. 19, 1925

THE VALUE OF CO-OPERATION

Those who have followed the activities of the Campbellton Hockey team this season have been given a first class demonstration of the value of co-operation and team play. And the moral pointed by its results might well be thoughtfully considered even by those who take no part in hockey, for co-operation is something that is sadly lacking in many phases of our life today.

We can all recall various issues affecting the welfare of our town and county which have been lost simply because they were not backed by co-operative effort. In connection with different worthy projects denied the efforts of the promoters simply because party interests have been allowed to creep in and petty differences of opinion permitted to cloud the main issue and retard progressive work. On the other hand, we can also recall a few memorable occasions when co-operation brought about the desired results.

In the value of treatment and co-operation there is much for our leaders of the present day to think about and there is much that should inspire thought in the mind of every citizen. Campbellton and Restigouche both have their problems to solve and these will not be satisfactorily disposed of unless with co-operative effort.

A SQUARE DEAL NEEDED.

The editor of our contemporary is in a happy mood, and can see the funny side of an otherwise serious subject. Everything was lovely when the town was obliged to strike off two thousand dollars from his assessment because he had been assessed upon a typetting machine which was purchased from a Toronto firm upon the usual lien contract. But when the Graphic asks that it be treated in a like manner, things are not so funny, and he makes his usual rash and unfair statements.

It may interest the citizens of Campbellton to know that the Graphic is assessed nine times as much as its contemporary for plant alone, and that the Graphic's editor was last year assessed upon income two and a half times as much as our esteemed up-town competitor. We hardly think that there is one fair minded citizen who will state that this is a equitable way to treat two firms in the same line of business, especially when our contemporary has the presumption to claim that his circulation is larger than the Graphic's.

We have always endeavored to pay our taxes without quibbling, and will continue to do so, but we feel that we should not be placed under any handicap as the above. In all fairness we cannot see how the town council can refuse to adjust this matter as requested.

EDITOR'S MAIL

Editor of The Graphic,
 Dear Sir:-

In looking over the specification of the new Jail and Court House combined, I see that the Court House part of the building is to be faced with white brick. Now Sir, in making extensions on brick buildings or in painting we always have respect to the color. We try if possible to get back of the same size and color. As this is a public matter we should all be interested and see that we will have something to be proud of as well as substantial in every possible way. The Post Office has a red night-

Oak Hall

Spring Suits

Tailored to your Measure
 Guaranteed Absolute Satisfaction
 No Try On's
 Perfect Fit or No Sale
 Our Cloths are the Best
 English Quality
 $35.00 and up

Oak Hall
 McRae's Ltd.

cap on a stone chimney. Now if we get a court house and jail, one part white and the other part red Dalhousie will begin to look up. This is not intended as a mere criticism. I want the opinion of our people through the press.

An architect should be an artist as well. I would ask the artist to stand on Water Street in front of the new jail and court house combined, he should know what this building will look when completed, one part white, the other red. I have been trying to reconcile this picture in my own mind for some time, but the more I think it over, the more hideous it appears.

If this style of building was to save cost, we might suffer it, but it will cost several thousands more.

Trusting you will give space in your valuable paper.

Yours truly,
 JOHN DICKIE,
 Point La Plume, N. B.

Jacquet River

Mr. and Mrs. John Johnston are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a baby in their home.

Misses Josephine Williams and Blanche Dufresne were visitors to town last week.

Rev. Father Savoy, Rev. Father Burgeon and Rev. Father Delgarde were guests of Rev. Father Trudeau last week.

Miss Lou Davidson entertained a number of her lady friends last Wednesday evening, tea was served and a very enjoyable evening was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Frenette were the guests of Mrs. John Culligan last week.

Mr. Dan Shannon has gone to the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Campbellton to undergo treatment.

Mrs. Arthur Culligan was the guest of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Alvin Culligan, last week.

Mrs. Jackie Culligan was a visitor to Jacquet River last week.

Miss Rita Clowater has gone to visit friends in Doaktown.

Many young people gathered at the home of Mr. Manuel Firlotte last Friday evening. Music and dancing was the order of the evening.

The guests were Misses Adeline Daley, Mary Devereaux, Amanda Hickey, Lou Davidson, Lena Powers, Gertrude Hickey, Messrs. Delphie Frenette, Alfred Goodin, Aldon Shannon, Herman Roy, Arnold Laviolette and Paul Boudreau.

We are sorry to hear of a sad accident which occurred to Mr. Jim Cooke while engaged with the Lousion Lumber Co. he had the misfortune of injuring his hand.

Mr. Martin spent Sunday at his home last week.

Miss Nellie Beaudry was a visitor to Jacquet River.

Mrs. Arnold Laviolette and Mr. Everett Firlotte spent Sunday at his home here.

Many young people gathered at the home of Charles Daley on Saturday night, tea was served and a very enjoyable evening was spent in dancing and other games.

Miss Amanda Hickey and Lena Powers were guests of Reta Clowater Wednesday evening.

The stork made a flying trip to our district on Wednesday 14th, leaving a fine baby boy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Shannon.

There is considerable illness among younger element of this place many cases of whooping cough are reported.

Mr. Leslie and Ralph Culligan spent Sunday at their home here.

Many friends of Miss Lena Powers gathered at the home of Mrs. Sandy Dufresne on Sunday night and a very enjoyable evening was spent.

Mr. Billy Doyle was the guest of Mr. Ben Firlotte last week.

Mrs. Sanford Devereaux, Firlotte, and Jimmy Young made a flying trip to Jacquet River on Tuesday night from Nash's Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. James Haggart are receiving congratulations on arrival of a new baby girl in their home here.

Mrs. Louis Pargie and Mrs. James N. Doyle were to New Carlisle last week on a business trip.

Mr. Fabie Gallant spent Sunday at his home in Archibald Settlement.

Miss Pearl Leracy who was in Bathurst for the past months has returned to her home.

Mr. Dan Shannon was to Bathurst on Friday last on a business trip.

Miss Margaret Boudreau who is visiting in Campbellton guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Firlotte.

Miss Mary Boudreau was the guest of Mrs. Stella Boudreau last week.

Miss Adeline Daley and Amanda Hickey were the guests of Miss Hary Currie Sunday.

Mr. Raymond Doyle was visiting in Jacquet River Sunday.

Mr. Sanford Devereaux spent Sunday at his home here.

Mr. Arthur and Billy Elzigher spent Sunday in Jacquet River.

Mr. George Cooke spent Sunday in Jacquet River.

Miss Blanche Duchip of Richibucto is the guest of Miss Josephine Williams.

CARNIVAL AT JACQUET RIVER

The second Carnival of the season held on Goodin's open air rink on Friday evening, February sixteenth, proved to be a great success. The mild weather which prevailed afforded a splendid opportunity for a large number of spectators to be present, and to enjoy the beautiful sight of costumes, which appeared on the ice.

A large number of children who participated, and thoroughly enjoyed the sport. Varied and picturesque were the costumes worn by these little ones, and a surprise and a delight to their relatives and friends, to notice the grace and speed in skating that they had acquired during such a short period of practice.

Many friends of the neighborhood were also present, and caused a great deal of amusement by their clever and playful antics.

The prizes were awarded as follows: Ladies' medal awarded to Miss A. Dalry, as Witch, and Miss A. Hickey as Butterfly, -drawn by Miss Hickey.

Little girl's prize, Miss Gertrude

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Make Wonderful Home Made Bread

Standard of Quality for over 50 Years

Ellis, as White Rabbit.

Gentlemen's Prize, Mr. Earl Archibald as King of Hearts.

Little boy's prize, Master Odell Firlotte, as Indian Boy.

A few of the other impersonations worthy of special distinction were, Miss Bess Ellis, Coon Cobb, Miss Lena Powers, June Brice, Miss L. Steves, Red White and Blue; Mr. P. Purvis, Pirate; Master Gus Hickey, Gipsy Fortune-Teller; and Master Paul Boudreau, Russian Soldier.

The judges were Mrs. P. Salter Mrs. D. Archibald and Miss Mary Devereaux, for the ladies; Mr. S. McAllister, Mr. P. Salter, Mr. and Mrs. T. Hamilton for the gentlemen.

Mr. Alfred Goodin the popular proprietor of the rink wishes to announce that there will be another Carnival on Mardi-gras. Mr. Goodin expects that this will be the last of the season.

Doyleville

The weather has been very spring like this week.

Mr. Arnold Laviolette and son Joe were calling on Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Doyle Saturday evening.

Mr. W. and A. Ediger spent Sunday at their home here.

Mr. A. Cooke and R. Doyle spent Saturday evening at Mr. Marcel Auger's.

Miss Charlotte Doyle spent Sunday at her home here.

Miss E. Smeier and Miss G. Cooke and Mr. J. E. Smeier attended the carnival at Jacquet River Friday night.

Mr. R. Doyle, A. Cooke and Billy Cooke, were at the carnival in Jacquet River Friday night, and spent a good time.

Mr. Loney Murphy as at his home here since he met with an accident while in the employment of the Lousion Lumber Co.

Mr. and Mrs. W. McCormack, Miss Hazel Murchie and Mr. W. Jamieson were calling on Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cooke Sunday night.

The Ladies around here are pestered with a gentleman tramp, and all have their doors locked, and it is tell your name before being admitted this man comes down from the country and we would be very glad if he would stay there.

Mr. A. Hickey, and Mr. M. Devereaux were guests of Mr. D. LaPointe Sunday evening.

The young folks around here are sorry to hear the Farmers Hall at Carleton Place is on fire.

The many friends of Mr. J. Landry Jr. are sorry to hear he is on the sick list.

Mr. Dan Murchie who was burned at the Murchie Goutier Mill is getting better.

Miss Gladys Cooke is spending a few days in New Mills with Miss Jean McNeill.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Peter F. Firlotte.

There passed away on January 23, at her home in Covina, California, Marianne Firlotte wife of Peter F. Firlotte and daughter of the late Isaac and Julia Firlotte of Durham Centre.

Decceased was in her seventy second year and was an active, energetic woman for her age. She was ill but a few hours, having been seized with an attack of acute indigestion after the evening meal, to which she succumbed.

The earlier years of her married life were spent near Jacquet River, where her family grew up around her. Later she lived at Five Fingers when her husband was engaged in business there and when he left for California six years ago in search of health she joined him there where they have been living ever since in their new home.

A devoted member of the church all her life she was noted for her piety and good works. A good neighbor and to the poor and sick she gave freely of her time and effort. During the influenza epidemic which wrought such havoc and loss of life among the new settlements surrounding Five Fingers and St. Quentin, she was on the front line and night for weeks together nursing and caring for the victims of the dread disease; and there are many who owe their lives to her who will regret her passing.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and five children, Peter of Five Fingers; Austin J. on the old homestead in Archibald Settlement;

Mrs. J. W. Munroe of the Atlantic Hotel, Montreal; Mrs. F. Bennett McLaughlin of Perth, N. B., and Miss Julia of Covina, Cal. Three brothers and three sisters survive, Stephen, Marquette, Wis., John and William of Durham Centre, Mrs. Angus Davidson, Jacquet River, Miss Julia of Chicago, Ill., and Sister Mary Ambrose of St. John's Convent, New Aberdeen, C. B.

After a long and useful life she has gone to her reward; To Him who said: "If ye give a cup of water for My Name's sake ye give it unto Me." May she rest in peace.

The late Peter Fugere

On Monday morning at the church of St. Budget of Maria, Que., a large congregation of friends and relatives conveyed to their last resting-place, the remains of the late Peter Fugere, son of Mrs. Delphine Fugere of Maria parish.

The late Mr. Fugere was deceased by his father, Andre Fugere on a recent date.

The funeral services were very impressive. Mass was celebrated by Rev. Alphonsus Myville assisted by Rev. Edouard Myville of New Richmond.

Second mass was celebrated by Rev. Pierre Saldon of St. Eustache. The pall-bearers were: Messrs T. T. Beau, Edmond and Emile LeBlanc, F. Gaudier and Ernest Gaudier.

The deceased is survived by one brother, Alfred and three sisters, Ida, Annie, and Alice. The funeral services were very largely attended.

New Carlisle

A special meeting of the County Council of the County of Bonaventure was held at New Carlisle on Wednesday, the 4th instant.

This meeting, the first special meeting called by the County, for the purpose of entering a protest with the Government Authorities at Quebec, against any division or proposed division of the County, as there seems to be a serious movement on foot emanating from the Matapedia County to annex very large and valuable part of our territory.

The meeting was attended by every Mayor of the twenty-three Municipalities in the County, and they objected in no uncertain tone, with the exception of the representatives of St. Alexis and St. Andre, to any dismemberment of the County and emphasizing that its present boundaries should be kept intact.

3000 players in "The Sea Hawk."

Notice of Legislation

Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of New Brunswick at the next session thereof for the passing of Acts authorizing the Town Council of the Town of Campbellton:

1. To appoint a Tax Collector for the Town of Campbellton and prescribe the duties of such official by Law.

2. To provide for an annuity or superannuation allowance for the present Town Treasurer not to exceed the sum of One Thousand Dollars a year.

3. To issue bonds for an amount not to exceed the sum of Sixty-five Thousand Dollars ($65,000.00) to cover capital expenditure during the years 1922, 1923 and 1924, on the electric light system, fire alarm system, water system, sewerage system, permanent streets and sidewalks.

4. To provide for the assessment of personal property within the Town of Campbellton, title to which vests in non-residents of the Town.

Sgd. JOHN T. REID, Town Clerk.

Sgd. H. A. CARR, Town Solicitor. Feb. 18-24.

Notice of Legislation

Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of New Brunswick, at the next session thereof, for the passing of an Act, to make an issue of debentures in a sum not exceeding fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00) to cover capital expenditure during the years 1922, 1923 and 1924, on the electric light system, fire alarm system, water system, sewerage system, permanent streets and sidewalks.

Dated this sixteenth day of February, A. D. 1925.

J. ALLEN LEBLANC, Solicitor for Municipality of Restigouche. Feb. 17-24.

Notice of Legislation

Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of New Brunswick, at the next session thereof, for the passing of an Act, to change the law at present in force relating to the County Councils' elections in the Parish of Addington in the County of Restigouche, so that none but ratepayers of the Parish residing within the Parish outside of the limits of the Town of Campbellton may have the right to vote at such elections.

Dated this tenth day of February, A. D. 1925.

J. ALLEN LEBLANC, Solicitor for Municipality of Restigouche. Feb. 17-24.

Notice of Legislation

Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of New Brunswick, at the next session thereof, for the passing of an Act, authorizing the Municipality of Restigouche to impose a tax of Five Dollars per head annually on all laborers not residing within the County of Restigouche and working within the said County, legislation not to apply to the Town of Campbellton and Dalhousie.

Dated this tenth day of February, A. D. 1925.

J. ALLEN LEBLANC, Solicitor for Municipality of Restigouche. Feb. 17-24.

FIRE SALE!

Our Fire Sale is still going big and will end Saturday the 21st. inst. New Specials are being put on Sale every day at prices in some cases one-quarter of their original prices. It will pay you to take advantage of this Sale.

A FEW SPECIALS

House and Porch Dresses up to $4.50 Sale Price 98c

Odd Lines of Children Misses and Ladies Sweaters to clear at 79c

And Serge Skirts Sale Price $1.98

Our entire line of Silk Waists to clear $1.98

Combing Jackets $3.50 to $4.50 Sale Price $1.29

Cretonnes special prices at 29c and 39 cts yd

Childrens and Ladies Knit Gloves . . . . . 9c pr.

Perrins Guaranteed Kid Gloves to clear. $1.29 pr.

Clean up prices on Hosiery, Embroidery, Laces etc.

Geo. G. McKenzie Co. Ltd.

PHONE 511 512

PHONE 511 512

The First Requisite

One of the first requisites in making 1925 one of the happiest and most prosperous years, in your life is to guard your health. Health and Happiness go hand in hand.

WE RECOMMEND

Durick's Cough Syrup

For coughs, cold, Bronchitis, and Inflammation of the throat or lung passages. Baby's Own Syrup. A reliable cold remedy for the little ones.

TRY THE BIG "D" FOR BETTER HEALTH GET THE BIG "D" HABIT PHONE 112

Durick's
 Drug
 Depots

ST. JOHN, N. B.
 NEWCASTLE, N. B.
 CAMPBELLTON, N. B.
 PHONE 112

THOS. J. DURICK, Prop. THE PRESCRIPTION DRUGGIST

A Well Equipped Home!

No home is well equipped for health comfort and happiness that has not put rubber goods in every department of the household.

Rubber Gloves Fountain Syringes and Combinations
 Price $1.00 per pair $3.00 to $5.00
 Bath Sprays Ice Bags
 Hot Water Bottles In Rubber and Metal

WE SOLICIT YOUR INSPECTION

PHONE 457 and ask to have it sent J. H. MOORES P. O. BOX 515 Careful Attention Given all Mail Orders
 DRUGGIST & CHEMIST

New Mills. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robertson are sorry to hear of their little boy Willie being very sick hope he will soon be well again. Miss Gladys Cook of Doyleville is visiting Miss Jean McNeill at Sea.

Local Items of Interest

Newsy Notes of Town and Happenings Gathered by Graph

It's coming! "The Sea Hawk"

HOCKEY MATCH. There is to be a hockey match tonight between a shiretown team and a team coming from Inverman, Gloucester Co.

DALHOUSIE VS. MATAPEDIA. On Wednesday evening Dalhousie suffered a defeat from Matapedia in the Dalhousie Rink, the score being 6-0.

CARD OF THANKS. Mr. and Mrs. George McDonald and family of New Carlisle wish to thank their many friends for the kindness and sympathy shown them during their recent sad bereavement.

CHEAP FARE TO OTTAWA. In order to permit as many delegates as possible to go to Ottawa the C. N. R. is offering a special rate of $17.00 return, good going Feb. 25th, and returning up to and including March 1st.

THE ESTIMATES. About three thousand dollars have been placed in the estimates for necessary work on the Restigouche, while $80,000 has been placed in the estimates for work on other Miramichi.

CARD OF THANKS. Mrs. George Wilkins and family wish to express their sincere thanks for the many expressions of sympathy extended to them during their recent sad bereavement.

TO CHOOSE DELEGATES. A meeting of the Campbellton Board of Trade will be held in the Curling Rink, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock to choose delegates to go to Ottawa.

"The Sea Hawk" by Rafael Sabatini.

MATAPEDIA CHURCH SERVICES. Matapedia Presbyterian Church services, Sunday, Feb. 22nd, 1925. Upsalquitch 11 a. m. Weyers Brook 8 p. m. Matapedia 7 p. m.

For these services the Pastor will exchange pulpits with the Rev. E. V. Forbes, M. A. of Tide Head. All are cordially invited.

CORRECTIONS. In a letter from Mr. William Court, of Esquimaux, the Graphic compositor made several blunders and omissions which somewhat destroyed the full meaning of the said letter, but we are sure that the letter as it was must have been convincing enough to show that a great injustice had been done in this matter, and the government would do well to investigate the matter thoroughly.

NEW DOLLAR BILL. New $1 bills of the Dominion of Canada were put in circulation last week for the first time but will not come into general circulation until all of the old issues have been disposed of. The new one is called the King George issue. The bill has on the face an excellent likeness of His Majesty. On the reverse side instead of the out of the parliament buildings is a picture of the library at Ottawa.

TREES BROWN. Last year the town of Campbellton went to considerable expense in planting ornamental trees along our streets, and it does seem a pity that so many have been wilfully broken by school children. Along Aberdeen street every tree from the Presbyterian Church to Mine Street has been broken and the foot-prints in the snow clearly show that this was done by children. We would suggest that the teachers in the various grades of the town school give a short talk upon the value of such trees several times throughout the term.

Don't Miss It! Frank Lloyd has produced the most dramatic and artistic success of the year. A mammoth spectacle of sea battles, land fights, hand scenes, galley slaves at the oars, slave markets in Moorish villages and a show and one other thrills to stir the blood and fire the spirit of love and adventure. See "THE SEA HAWK"

The Dalhu served as in the case of the Bonspiel.

APPOI Mr. James been appoint the County c Feb. 19-24.

OAB The relative of Mr. friends for t shown them bereavement.

ESCUIMIN/ Sunday, F Oak Bay: Pt. a la G Escumina Subject: 'hold of God 'The Chu of stability, ship come t

Who can r Sady m

A Glagh the Orang Feb. 23rd, Campbellt

time is i Dance On music and tion. Th is schedu

ALEX In the f skip A. V McLaughl This land ner for c club many E. Alexan phy whic 1910.

DOCT 0

"Yes, sir, I always goes to church when you preaches."
"I am glad to hear that, but why when I preach—why not every Sunday?"
"I'm always sure of getting a good seat when you preaches, sir!"

The Graphic $2.00 year.

A
Proves
Cold
Pain
Toc
Neu

Why Endure PILES MISERY

The weakening agony of piles robs life of its pleasure, turns days of brightness into days of misery, and brings periods of acute suffering. Overwhelming evidence proves Zam-Buk incomparable for banishing the pain, bleeding, swelling and inflammation.

Mr. Alf Brown, of Merriton, writes: "I hope that my testimony will reach thousands suffering from that dreadful ailment, piles. For six years I was never free from pain. No one ever spent more money in search of a remedy. A sympathetic friend gave me a box of Zam-Buk to try. Its soothing power was marvellous, and I soon had a further supply of this grand herbal healer. I used Zam-Buk until the old painful trouble was gone completely."

Equally successful for eczema, psoriasis, salt rheum, pimples, boils, bad legs, alopecia, scalp disease, poisoned wounds, cuts, burns, scalds, etc. Dealers everywhere sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, $1.00 for $1.25.

FATHER JOHN'S BUILDS ENERGY COLD NO DRUGS

FLOOR SCRAPING MACHINE

I have purchased a "Universal Floor Scraping Machine" (one of the best on the market) and am now prepared to scrape hardwood floors of every description in a thoroughly first-class manner at most moderate prices.

RATES ON APPLICATION
THOS. R. MCKENZIE
Phone 271 Campbellton
Sept. 4-11

"After taking Two Bottles my wife made rapid progress back to health"

Carnol is one of the finest remedies ever discovered for use by the expectant mother. There is no time in a woman's life when it is so vitally necessary to safeguard her health. Not only should she protect her own health, at a most trying period, but she must consider also the health of the unborn child. Read what Carnol did for Mrs. Perry: "My wife, about two years ago, just before our baby was born, was suffering from anemia and indigestion. She could keep nothing on her stomach. We tried a great many so-called remedies, phosphates and even beef, iron and wine tonic, but to no effect. One day I went into one of our local drug stores. Cautiously by name and asked him to give me a reliable tonic for my wife. He handed me a bottle of Carnol, recommending it highly, and told me to give it a fair trial. After taking two bottles my wife made rapid progress back to health. The color came back to her cheeks and her appetite was completely restored. We find Carnol most invaluable for our baby. It serves as a useful medicine, especially at teething time, and we are never without a bottle in the house. It gives me a great deal of pleasure to recommend the merits of Carnol. As a body-builder, nerve remedy and a powerful restorative in all run-down conditions, I don't think there is any medicine anywhere equal to Carnol."

—Arthur I. Perry, 327-10th Street, Brandon, Manitoba.

For Colds

Proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for

Colds Headache
Pain Neuritis
Toothache Lumbago
Neuritis Rheumatism

Safe

Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions. Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets. See bottles of 24 and 100. Druggists.

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacturing Co. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany).

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacturing Co. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany).

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacturing Co. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany).

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacturing Co. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany).

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacturing Co. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany).

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacturing Co. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany).

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacturing Co. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany).

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacturing Co. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany).

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacturing Co. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany).

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacturing Co. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany). Bayer is the trade mark of the Bayer Chemical Works, Ltd. (Incorporated in Germany).

A Romance of the Spanish Main CAPTAIN BLOOD By RAFAEL SABATINI

SYNOPSIS
Peter Blood, a young Irish physician, is deported as a slave in the Barbadoes by King James. He is bought by Colonel Bishop and falls in love with Arabella, the niece of the rich captain of the Spanish ship, the Chino Llagas. Don Diego de Espinosa y Valdez captures Bridgetown. Blood saves Mary Trail and Arabella. They are to sail together when Levasseur, the Spanish galleon, the Chino Llagas. After escaping from another Spanish ship at Hispaniola, Captain Blood sails to Tortuga, rendezvous of the buccanniers of the Spanish Main. There, feeling that Arabella is lost to him forever, he takes command of a pirate fleet and changes the name of the Chino Llagas to the Arabella. Levasseur, a Frenchman who is in love with Madeleine, the romantic daughter of d'Ogeron, joins Blood. They are to sail together when Levasseur gets word from Madeleine to rescue her from a Dutch brig. Levasseur takes the Dutchman, makes a prisoner of Madeleine's brother, and earns her contempt by his brutality.

CHAPTER XIV—Continued.
The simple words, and more than that, the words, their tone of voice, disdained aroused the passion that never slumbered deeply in Levasseur. He opened the door, and flung her brother through it.

"Put that rubbish under hatches until I call for it again," he roared, and shut the door.

Composing himself, he turned to the girl again with a deprecating smile. But no smile answered him from her set face. She had seen her beloved's nature in curl-papers. Fear growing to panic was written on her face, as she stood there leaning for support against the table. He caught her, seized her in his long arm and pulled her to him.

"No, no!" she panted.

"Yes, yes," he mocked her, and his mockery was the most terrible thing of all. He crushed her to him brutally, deliberately brutal because she resisted, and kissed her whilst she writhed in his embrace.

Some one knocked. Cursing the interruption, Levasseur strode off to open. Cahuse stood before him. The Breton's face was grave. He came to report that they had spied a leak between wind and water, the consequence of damage sustained from one of the Dutchman's shots. In alarm Levasseur went off with him. Ahead of them a low cloud showed on the horizon, which Cahuse pronounced one of the northernmost of the Virgin Islands.

"We must run for shelter there, and careen her," said Levasseur. "I do not trust this oppressive heat. A storm may catch us before we make land."

"A storm or something else," said Cahuse grimly. "Have you noticed what he pointed away to starboard?"

Levasseur looked and caught his breath. Two ships that at the distance seemed of considerable bulk were heading towards them some five miles away.

For the remainder of that day Levasseur's thoughts were of anything but love. He remained on deck, his eyes now upon the land, now upon those two slowly gaining ships. To run for the open could avail him nothing, and in his leaky condition would provide an additional danger. He must stand at bay and fight. And then, towards evening, when within three miles shore and when he was about to give the order to strip for battle, he heard a voice from the crow's-nest above announce that the larger of the two ships was the Arabella. Her companion was presumably a prize.

Levasseur put off in a boat accompanied by Cahuse and two officers, and went to visit Captain Blood aboard the Arabella.

"Our brief separation has been mighty profitable," was Captain Blood's greeting. "It's a busy morning we've both had."

—Arthur I. Perry, 327-10th Street, Brandon, Manitoba.

CHAPTER XV
THE KANSOM
In the glory of the following morning, sparkling and clear after the storm, with an invigorating, briny tang in the air from the salt-pools on the south of the island, a curious scene was played on the beach of the Virgin Magra, at the foot of a ridge of bleached dunes, beside the spread of sail from which Levasseur had improvised a tent.

Enthroned upon an empty cask, the French filibuster to transact important business: the business of making himself safe, the business of making himself safe. Before him, guarded by two half-naked negroes, stood young d'Ogeron. Near at hand, and under guard, stood Madeleine, a young girl of about sixteen, with her hair pulled up in a high coil of sand. Levasseur addressed himself to M. d'Ogeron.

"I trust, monsieur," said he, with mock suavity, "that I have made myself quite clear. Your ransom is fixed at twenty thousand pieces of eight and you shall have liberty on parole to go to Tortuga to collect it. Meanwhile, your sister remains with me as a hostage."

"I refuse—utterly and absolutely, no—understand? So do your worst, and be damned for a filthy pirate," cried d'Ogeron.

"Remember your sister's honor is in pawn," Levasseur said. "If you forget to return with the dowry, you will not consider it unreasonable that I forget to marry her." M. d'Ogeron observed, in his leaky condition, that he had almost reached the beauty from her face.

"No, you do! A thousand times no!"

"I beg that you will spare yourself and your sister," said the captain, "being reasonable. I have been too modest. But since I have said twenty thousand pieces of eight, twenty thousand pieces it shall be."

"And for what, if you please, have you said twenty thousand pieces of eight?"

Startled, Levasseur and his officers looked up and around. On the crest of the dunes behind them, in sharp silhouette against the deep blue of the sky, they beheld a tall, lean figure scrupulously dressed in black with silver lace, a crimson ostrich plume curled about the broad rim of his hat, affording the only touch of color. Under the hat was the tawny face of Captain Blood.

"Good morning, my Captain," said he, "it was last night's hurricane compelled our return. But who are these?"

Levasseur gnawed his lip, and changed color. But he controlled himself to answer civilly: "As you see, two prisoners."

"Ah! Washed ashore in last night's gale, eh?"

"Not so," Levasseur contained himself with difficulty before that irony. "They were in the Dutch brig."

"I don't remember that you mentioned them before."

"I did not. They are prisoners of my own personal merit. They are French."

"French?" Captain Blood's light eyes stabbed at Levasseur, then at those prisoners. He frowned thoughtfully upon Levasseur.

"Yesterday you surprised me by making war upon the friendly Dutch. But now it seems that not even your own countrymen are safe from you."

"Have I not said this is a matter personal to me?"

"Ah! And their names?"

"I am Henri d'Ogeron, and this is my sister."

"Are you related by chance to my good friend the Governor of Tortuga?"

"He is my father."

"The saluts preserve us now! Are you quite mad, Levasseur?"

Captain Blood sat down on the cask that Levasseur had lately occupied, and looked up blandly. "I may inform you, to save time, that I heard the entire proposal that you made to this young lady and gentleman, and I'll also remind you that we sail under articles that annul such liabilities. You have fixed their ransom at twenty thousand pieces of eight. That sum then belongs to your crews and mine in the proportions by the articles established. But what is far more grave is that you have concealed from me this part of the pieces taken on your last cruise, and for such an offense as that the articles provide certain penalties that are something severe in character."

"Ho, ho!" laughed Levasseur unpleasantly. Then added: "If you dislike my conduct we can dissolve the association."

"That is my intention. But we'll dissolve it when and in the manner that I choose, and that will be as soon as you have satisfied the articles under which we sailed upon this cruise."

"What do you mean?"

"I'll accept the situation as I find it. Yourself you've fixed the ransom of this couple at twenty thousand pieces, and as I rather, the lady is to be your prisoner. But why should she be your prisoner more than another's? Seeing that she belongs by the articles to all of us, as a prize of war? However, I'll not dispute her to you if you are prepared to buy her."

"Buy her?"

"At the price you have set upon her."

"That is the ransom of the man. It is to be paid for him by the Governor of Tortuga."

"No, no. You've set their value at twenty thousand pieces, and for that sum you may have them, since you desire it; but you'll pay for them the twenty thousand pieces that are the ransom of one and the dowry of the other; and that sum shall be divided among our crews."

"What Captain Blood should dare to oppose him with but a dozen followers whilst he had a hundred at his beck and call never entered the ruffian's head. But he did not reckon on the capriciousness of his own men. They saw twenty thousand pieces within their reach. Levasseur demanded some time until he had captured sufficient booty. But Blood would have none of that. Death lurked always in this desperate business, and he added: "Then let some one buy the prisoner who has."

"And who do you suppose has it if I have not?"

"You have," Levasseur's mouth fell open. "You . . . you want the girl?"

Captain Blood drew forth a small bag, twenty pearls poured into his hand, and Cahuse appraised them as worth the ransom. Levasseur, in anger sprang at Cahuse, and with a blow scattered the pearls in the sand. The men dived for them.

Levasseur's hand on his sword, and you shall have liberty on parole to go to Tortuga to collect it. Meanwhile, your sister remains with me as a hostage."

"I refuse—utterly and absolutely, no—understand? So do your worst, and be damned for a filthy pirate," cried d'Ogeron.

"Remember your sister's honor is in pawn," Levasseur said. "If you forget to return with the dowry, you will not consider it unreasonable that I forget to marry her." M. d'Ogeron observed, in his leaky condition, that he had almost reached the beauty from her face.

"No, you do! A thousand times no!"

"I beg that you will spare yourself and your sister," said the captain, "being reasonable. I have been too modest. But since I have said twenty thousand pieces of eight, twenty thousand pieces it shall be."

"And for what, if you please, have you said twenty thousand pieces of eight?"

Startled, Levasseur and his officers looked up and around. On the crest of the dunes behind them, in sharp silhouette against the deep blue of the sky, they beheld a tall, lean figure scrupulously dressed in black with silver lace, a crimson ostrich plume curled about the broad rim of his hat, affording the only touch of color. Under the hat was the tawny face of Captain Blood.

"Good morning, my Captain," said he, "it was last night's hurricane compelled our return. But who are these?"

Levasseur gnawed his lip, and changed color. But he controlled himself to answer civilly: "As you see, two prisoners."

"Ah! Washed ashore in last night's gale, eh?"

"Not so," Levasseur contained himself with difficulty before that irony. "They were in the Dutch brig."

"I don't remember that you mentioned them before."

"I did not. They are prisoners of my own personal merit. They are French."

"French?" Captain Blood's light eyes stabbed at Levasseur, then at those prisoners. He frowned thoughtfully upon Levasseur.

"Yesterday you surprised me by making war upon the friendly Dutch. But now it seems that not even your own countrymen are safe from you."

"Have I not said this is a matter personal to me?"

"Ah! And their names?"

"I am Henri d'Ogeron, and this is my sister."

"Are you related by chance to my good friend the Governor of Tortuga?"

"He is my father."

"The saluts preserve us now! Are you quite mad, Levasseur?"

Captain Blood sat down on the cask that Levasseur had lately occupied, and looked up blandly. "I may inform you, to save time, that I heard the entire proposal that you made to this young lady and gentleman, and I'll also remind you that we sail under articles that annul such liabilities. You have fixed their ransom at twenty thousand pieces of eight. That sum then belongs to your crews and mine in the proportions by the articles established. But what is far more grave is that you have concealed from me this part of the pieces taken on your last cruise, and for such an offense as that the articles provide certain penalties that are something severe in character."

"Ho, ho!" laughed Levasseur unpleasantly. Then added: "If you dislike my conduct we can dissolve the association."

"That is my intention. But we'll dissolve it when and in the manner that I choose, and that will be as soon as you have satisfied the articles under which we sailed upon this cruise."

"What do you mean?"

"I'll accept the situation as I find it. Yourself you've fixed the ransom of this couple at twenty thousand pieces, and as I rather, the lady is to be your prisoner. But why should she be your prisoner more than another's? Seeing that she belongs by the articles to all of us, as a prize of war? However, I'll not dispute her to you if you are prepared to buy her."

"Buy her?"

"At the price you have set upon her."

"That is the ransom of the man. It is to be paid for him by the Governor of Tortuga."

"No, no. You've set their value at twenty thousand pieces, and for that sum you may have them, since you desire it; but you'll pay for them the twenty thousand pieces that are the ransom of one and the dowry of the other; and that sum shall be divided among our crews."

"What Captain Blood should dare to oppose him with but a dozen followers whilst he had a hundred at his beck and call never entered the ruffian's head. But he did not reckon on the capriciousness of his own men. They saw twenty thousand pieces within their reach. Levasseur demanded some time until he had captured sufficient booty. But Blood would have none of that. Death lurked always in this desperate business, and he added: "Then let some one buy the prisoner who has."

"And who do you suppose has it if I have not?"

"You have," Levasseur's mouth fell open. "You . . . you want the girl?"

Captain Blood drew forth a small bag, twenty pearls poured into his hand, and Cahuse appraised them as worth the ransom. Levasseur, in anger sprang at Cahuse, and with a blow scattered the pearls in the sand. The men dived for them.

Levasseur's hand on his sword, and you shall have liberty on parole to go to Tortuga to collect it. Meanwhile, your sister remains with me as a hostage."

"I refuse—utterly and absolutely, no—understand? So do your worst, and be damned for a filthy pirate," cried d'Ogeron.

"Remember your sister's honor is in pawn," Levasseur said. "If you forget to return with the dowry, you will not consider it unreasonable that I forget to marry her." M. d'Ogeron observed, in his leaky condition, that he had almost reached the beauty from her face.

"No, you do! A thousand times no!"

"I beg that you will spare yourself and your sister," said the captain, "being reasonable. I have been too modest. But since I have said twenty thousand pieces of eight, twenty thousand pieces it shall be."

"And for what, if you please, have you said twenty thousand pieces of eight?"

Startled, Levasseur and his officers looked up and around. On the crest of the dunes behind them, in sharp silhouette against the deep blue of the sky, they beheld a tall, lean figure scrupulously dressed in black with silver lace, a crimson ostrich plume curled about the broad rim of his hat, affording the only touch of color. Under the hat was the tawny face of Captain Blood.

"Good morning, my Captain," said he, "it was last night's hurricane compelled our return. But who are these?"

Levasseur gnawed his lip, and changed color. But he controlled himself to answer civilly: "As you see, two prisoners."

"Ah! Washed ashore in last night's gale, eh?"

"Not so," Levasseur contained himself with difficulty before that irony. "They were in the Dutch brig."

"I don't remember that you mentioned them before."

"I did not. They are prisoners of my own personal merit. They are French."

"French?" Captain Blood's light eyes stabbed at Levasseur, then at those prisoners. He frowned thoughtfully upon Levasseur.

"Yesterday you surprised me by making war upon the friendly Dutch. But now it seems that not even your own countrymen are safe from you."

"Have I not said this is a matter personal to me?"

"Ah! And their names?"

"I am Henri d'Ogeron, and this is my sister."

"Are you related by chance to my good friend the Governor of Tortuga?"

"He is my father."

"The saluts preserve us now! Are you quite mad, Levasseur?"

Captain Blood sat down on the cask that Levasseur had lately occupied, and looked up blandly. "I may inform you, to save time, that I heard the entire proposal that you made to this young lady and gentleman, and I'll also remind you that we sail under articles that annul such liabilities. You have fixed their ransom at twenty thousand pieces of eight. That sum then belongs to your crews and mine in the proportions by the articles established. But what is far more grave is that you have concealed from me this part of the pieces taken on your last cruise, and for such an offense as that the articles provide certain penalties that are something severe in character."

"Ho, ho!" laughed Levasseur unpleasantly. Then added: "If you dislike my conduct we can dissolve the association."

"That is my intention. But we'll dissolve it when and in the manner that I choose, and that will be as soon as you have satisfied the articles under which we sailed upon this cruise."

"What do you mean?"

"I'll accept the situation as I find it. Yourself you've fixed the ransom of this couple at twenty thousand pieces, and as I rather, the lady is to be your prisoner. But why should she be your prisoner more than another's? Seeing that she belongs by the articles to all of us, as a prize of war? However, I'll not dispute her to you if you are prepared to buy her."

"Buy her?"

"At the price you have set upon her."

"That is the ransom of the man. It is to be paid for him by the Governor of Tortuga."

"No, no. You've set their value at twenty thousand pieces, and for that sum you may have them, since you desire it; but you'll pay for them the twenty thousand pieces that are the ransom of one and the dowry of the other; and that sum shall be divided among our crews."

"What Captain Blood should dare to oppose him with but a dozen followers whilst he had a hundred at his beck and call never entered the ruffian's head. But he did not reckon on the capriciousness of his own men. They saw twenty thousand pieces within their reach. Levasseur demanded some time until he had captured sufficient booty. But Blood would have none of that. Death lurked always in this desperate business, and he added: "Then let some one buy the prisoner who has."

"And who do you suppose has it if I have not?"

"You have," Levasseur's mouth fell open. "You . . . you want the girl?"

Captain Blood drew forth a small bag, twenty pearls poured into his hand, and Cahuse appraised them as worth the ransom. Levasseur, in anger sprang at Cahuse, and with a blow scattered the pearls in the sand. The men dived for them.

Levasseur's hand on his sword, and you shall have liberty on parole to go to Tortuga to collect it. Meanwhile, your sister remains with me as a hostage."

"I refuse—utterly and absolutely, no—understand? So do your worst, and be damned for a filthy pirate," cried d'Ogeron.

"Remember your sister's honor is in pawn," Levasseur said. "If you forget to return with the dowry, you will not consider it unreasonable that I forget to marry her." M. d'Ogeron observed, in his leaky condition, that he had almost reached the beauty from her face.

"No, you do! A thousand times no!"

"I beg that you will spare yourself and your sister," said the captain, "being reasonable. I have been too modest. But since I have said twenty thousand pieces of eight, twenty thousand pieces it shall be."

"And for what, if you please, have you said twenty thousand pieces of eight?"

Startled, Levasseur and his officers looked up and around. On the crest of the dunes behind them, in sharp silhouette against the deep blue of the sky, they beheld a tall, lean figure scrupulously dressed in black with silver lace, a crimson ostrich plume curled about the broad rim of his hat, affording the only touch of color. Under the hat was the tawny face of Captain Blood.

"Good morning, my Captain," said he, "it was last night's hurricane compelled our return. But who are these?"

Levasseur gnawed his lip, and changed color. But he controlled himself to answer civilly: "As you see, two prisoners."

"Ah! Washed ashore in last night's gale, eh?"

"Not so," Levasseur contained himself with difficulty before that irony. "They were in the Dutch brig."

"I don't remember that you mentioned them before."

"I did not. They are prisoners of my own personal merit. They are French."

"French?" Captain Blood's light eyes stabbed at Levasseur, then at those prisoners. He frowned thoughtfully upon Levasseur.

"Yesterday you surprised me by making war upon the friendly Dutch. But now it seems that not even your own countrymen are safe from you."

"Have I not said this is a matter personal to me?"

"Ah! And their names?"

"I am Henri d'Ogeron, and this is my sister."

"Are you related by chance to my good friend the Governor of Tortuga?"

"He is my father."

"The saluts preserve us now! Are you quite mad, Levasseur?"

Captain Blood sat down on the cask that Levasseur had lately occupied, and looked up blandly. "I may inform you, to save time, that I heard the entire proposal that you made to this young lady and gentleman, and I'll also remind you that we sail under articles that annul such liabilities. You have fixed their ransom at twenty thousand pieces of eight. That sum then belongs to your crews and mine in the proportions by the articles established. But what is far more grave is that you have concealed from me this part of the pieces taken on your last cruise, and for such an offense as that the articles provide certain penalties that are something severe in character."

"Ho, ho!" laughed Levasseur unpleasantly. Then added: "If you dislike my conduct we can dissolve the association."

"That is my intention. But we'll dissolve it when and in the manner that I choose, and that will be as soon as you have satisfied the articles under which we sailed upon this cruise."

"What do you mean?"

"I'll accept the situation as I find it. Yourself you've fixed the ransom of this couple at twenty thousand pieces, and as I rather, the lady is to be your prisoner. But why should she be your prisoner more than another's? Seeing that she belongs by the articles to all of us, as a prize of war? However, I'll not dispute her to you if you are prepared to buy her."

"Buy her?"

"At the price you have set upon her."

"That is the ransom of the man. It is to be paid for him by the Governor of Tortuga."

"No, no. You've set their value at twenty thousand pieces, and for that sum you may have them, since you desire it; but you'll pay for them the twenty thousand pieces that are the ransom of one and the dowry of the other; and that sum shall be divided among our crews."

"What Captain Blood should dare to oppose him with but a dozen followers whilst he had a hundred at his beck and call never entered the ruffian's head. But he did not reckon on the capriciousness of his own men. They saw twenty thousand pieces within their reach. Levasseur demanded some time until he had captured sufficient booty. But Blood would have none of that. Death lurked always in this desperate business, and he added: "Then let some one buy the prisoner who has."

"And who do you suppose has it if I have not?"

"You have," Levasseur's mouth fell open. "You . . . you want the girl?"

Captain Blood drew forth a small bag, twenty pearls poured into his hand, and Cahuse appraised them as worth the ransom. Levasseur, in anger sprang at Cahuse, and with a blow scattered the pearls in the sand. The men dived for them.

Levasseur's hand on his sword, and you shall have liberty on parole to go to Tortuga to collect it. Meanwhile, your sister remains with me as a hostage."

"I refuse—utterly and absolutely, no—understand? So do your worst, and be damned for a filthy pirate," cried d'Ogeron.

"Remember your sister's honor is in pawn," Levasseur said. "If you forget to return with the dowry, you will not consider it unreasonable that I forget to marry her." M. d'Ogeron observed, in his leaky condition, that he had almost reached the beauty from her face.

"No, you do! A thousand times no!"

"I beg that you will spare yourself and your sister," said the captain, "being reasonable. I have been too modest. But since I have said twenty thousand pieces of eight, twenty thousand pieces it shall be."

"And for what, if you please, have you said twenty thousand pieces of eight?"

Startled, Levasseur and his officers looked up and around. On the crest of the dunes behind them, in sharp silhouette against the deep blue of the sky, they beheld a tall, lean figure scrupulously dressed in black with silver lace, a crimson ostrich plume curled about the broad rim of his hat, affording the only touch of color. Under the hat was the tawny face of Captain Blood.

"Good morning, my Captain," said he, "it was last night's hurricane compelled our return. But who are these?"

Levasseur gnawed his lip, and changed color. But he controlled himself to answer civilly: "As you see, two prisoners."

"Ah! Washed ashore in last night's gale, eh?"

"Not so," Levasseur contained himself with difficulty before that irony. "They were in the Dutch brig."

"I don't remember that you mentioned them before."

"I did not. They are prisoners of my own personal merit. They are French."

"French?" Captain Blood's light eyes stabbed at Levasseur, then at those prisoners. He frowned thoughtfully upon Levasseur.

"Yesterday you surprised me by making war upon the friendly Dutch. But now it seems that not even your own countrymen are safe from you."

"Have I not said this is a matter personal to me?"

"Ah! And their names?"

"I am Henri d'Ogeron, and this is my sister."

"Are you related by chance to my good friend the Governor of Tortuga?"

"He is my father."

"The saluts preserve us now! Are you quite mad, Levasseur?"

Captain Blood sat down on the cask that Levasseur had lately occupied, and looked up blandly. "I may inform you, to save time, that I heard the entire proposal that you made to this young lady and gentleman, and I'll also remind you that we sail under articles that annul such liabilities. You have fixed their ransom at twenty thousand pieces of eight. That sum then belongs to your crews and mine in the proportions by the articles established. But what is far more grave is that you have concealed from me this part of the pieces taken on your last cruise, and for such an offense as that the articles provide certain penalties that are something severe in character."

"Ho, ho!" laughed Levasseur unpleasantly. Then added: "If you dislike my conduct we can dissolve the association."

"That is my intention. But we'll dissolve it when and in the manner that I choose, and that will be as soon as you have satisfied the articles under which we sailed upon this cruise."

"What do you mean?"

"I'll accept the situation as I find it. Yourself you've fixed the ransom of this couple at twenty thousand pieces, and as I rather, the lady is to be your prisoner. But why should she be your prisoner more than another's? Seeing that she belongs by the articles to all of us, as a prize of war? However, I'll not dispute her to you if you are prepared to buy her."

"Buy her?"

"At the price you have set upon her."

"That is the ransom of the man. It is to be paid for him by the Governor of Tortuga."

"No, no. You've set their value at twenty thousand pieces, and for that sum you may have them, since you desire it; but you'll pay for them the twenty thousand pieces that are the ransom of one and the dowry of the other; and that sum shall be divided among our crews."

"What Captain Blood should dare to oppose him with but a dozen followers whilst he had a hundred at his beck and call never entered the ruffian's head. But he did not reckon on the capriciousness of his own men. They saw twenty thousand pieces within their reach. Levasseur demanded some time until he had captured sufficient booty. But Blood would have none of that. Death lurked always in this desperate business, and he added: "Then let some one buy the prisoner who has."

"And who do you suppose has it if I have not?"

"You have," Levasseur's mouth fell open. "You . . . you want the girl?"

Captain Blood drew forth a small bag, twenty pearls poured into his hand, and Cahuse appraised them as worth the ransom. Levasseur, in anger sprang at Cahuse, and with a blow scattered the pearls in the sand. The men dived for them.

Levasseur's hand on his sword, and you shall have liberty on parole to go to Tortuga to collect it. Meanwhile, your sister remains with me as a hostage."

"I refuse—utterly and absolutely, no—understand? So do your worst, and be damned for a filthy pirate," cried d'Ogeron.

"Remember your sister's honor is in pawn," Levasseur said. "If you forget to return with the dowry, you will not consider it unreasonable that I forget to marry her." M. d'Ogeron observed, in his leaky condition, that he had almost reached the beauty from her face.

"No, you do! A thousand times no!"

"I beg that you will spare yourself and your sister," said the captain, "being reasonable. I have been too modest. But since I have said twenty thousand pieces of eight, twenty thousand pieces it shall be."

"And for what, if you please, have you said twenty thousand pieces of eight?"

Startled, Levasseur and his officers looked up and around. On the crest of the dunes behind them, in sharp silhouette against the deep blue of the sky, they beheld a tall, lean figure scrupulously dressed in black with silver lace, a crimson ostrich plume curled about the broad rim of his hat, affording the only touch of color. Under the hat was the tawny face of Captain Blood.

"Good morning, my Captain," said he, "it was last night's hurricane compelled our return. But who are these?"

Levasseur gnawed his lip, and changed color. But he controlled himself to answer civilly: "As you see, two prisoners."

"Ah! Washed ashore in last night's gale, eh?"

"Not so," Levasseur contained himself with difficulty before that irony. "They were in the Dutch brig."

"I don't remember that you mentioned them before."

"I did not. They are prisoners of my own personal merit. They are French."

"French?" Captain Blood's light eyes stabbed at Levasseur, then at those prisoners. He frowned thoughtfully upon Levasseur.

"Yesterday you surprised me by making war upon the friendly Dutch. But now it seems that not even your own countrymen are safe from you."

"Have I not said this is a matter personal to me?"

"Ah! And their names?"

"I am Henri d'Ogeron, and this is my sister."

"Are you related by chance to my good friend the Governor of Tortuga?"

"He is my father."

"The saluts preserve us now! Are you quite mad, Levasseur?"

Captain Blood sat down on the cask that Levasseur had lately occupied, and looked up blandly. "I may inform you, to save time, that I heard the entire proposal that you made to this young lady and gentleman, and I'll also remind you that we sail under articles that annul such liabilities. You have fixed their ransom at twenty thousand pieces of eight. That sum then belongs to your crews and mine in the proportions by the articles established. But what is far more grave is that you have concealed from me this part of the pieces taken on your last cruise, and for such an offense as that the articles provide certain penalties that are something severe in character."

"Ho, ho!" laughed Levasseur unpleasantly. Then added: "If you dislike my conduct we can dissolve the association."

"That is my intention. But we'll dissolve it when and in the manner that I choose, and that will be as soon as you have satisfied the articles under which we sailed upon this cruise."

"What do you mean?"

"I'll accept the situation as I find it. Yourself you've fixed the ransom of this couple at twenty thousand pieces, and as I rather, the lady is to be your prisoner. But why should she be your prisoner more than another's? Seeing that she belongs by the articles to all of us, as a prize of war? However, I'll not dispute her to you if you are prepared to buy her."

"Buy her?"

"At the price you have set upon her."

"That is the ransom of the man. It is to be paid for him by the Governor of Tortuga."

"No, no. You've set their value at twenty thousand pieces, and for that sum you may have them, since you desire it; but you'll pay for them the twenty thousand pieces that are the ransom of one and the dowry of the other; and that sum shall be divided among our crews."

"What Captain Blood should dare to oppose him with but a dozen followers whilst he had a hundred at his beck and call never entered the ruffian's head. But he did not reckon on the capriciousness of his own men. They saw twenty thousand pieces within their reach. Levasseur demanded some time until he had captured sufficient booty. But Blood would have none of that. Death lurked always in this desperate business, and he added: "Then let some one buy the prisoner who has."

"And who do you suppose has it if I have not?"

"You have," Levasseur's mouth fell open. "You . . . you want the girl?"

Captain Blood drew forth a small bag, twenty pearls poured into his hand, and Cahuse appraised them as worth the ransom. Levasseur, in anger sprang at Cahuse, and with a blow scattered the pearls in the sand. The men dived for them.

Levasseur's hand on his sword, and you shall have liberty on parole to go to Tortuga to collect it. Meanwhile, your sister remains with me as a hostage."

"I refuse—utterly and absolutely, no—understand? So do your worst, and be damned for a filthy pirate," cried d'Ogeron.

"Remember your sister's honor is in pawn," Levasseur said. "If you forget to return with the dowry, you will not consider it unreasonable that I forget to marry her." M. d'Ogeron observed, in his leaky condition, that he had almost reached the beauty from her face.

"No, you do! A thousand times no!"

"I beg that you will spare yourself and your sister," said the captain, "being reasonable. I have been too modest. But since I have said twenty thousand pieces of eight, twenty thousand pieces it shall be."

"And for what, if you please, have you said twenty thousand pieces of eight?"

Startled, Levasseur and his officers looked up and around. On the crest of the dunes behind them, in sharp silhouette against the deep blue of the sky, they beheld a tall, lean figure scrupulously dressed in black with silver lace, a crimson ostrich plume curled about the broad rim of his hat, affording the only touch of color. Under the hat was the tawny face of Captain Blood.

"Good morning, my Captain," said he, "it was last night's hurricane compelled our return. But who are these?"

Levasseur gnawed his lip, and changed color. But he controlled himself to answer civilly: "As you see, two prisoners."

"Ah! Washed ashore in last night's gale, eh?"

"Not so," Levasseur contained himself with difficulty before that irony. "They were in the Dutch brig."

"I don't remember that you mentioned them before."

"I did not. They are prisoners of my own personal merit. They are French."

"French?" Captain Blood's light eyes stabbed at Levasseur, then at those prisoners. He frowned thoughtfully upon Levasseur.

"Yesterday you surprised me by making war upon the friendly Dutch. But now it seems that not even your own countrymen are safe from you."

"Have I not said this is a matter personal to me?"

"Ah! And their names?"

"I am Henri d'Ogeron, and this is my sister."

"Are you related by chance to my good friend the Governor of Tortuga?"

"He is

Our orders placed for early Spring delivery have been shipped and on the road to us from the leading Manufacturers.

F. E. SHEPARD AND COMPANY

Spring de- n the road
turers.
MPANY

Q. Upper and Lower Canna, went to the New England States. From there he and his late wife went to Portland, P. Oregon, where they were most successful. It is not very long ago that Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Meagher made her last trip to her native land. Much sympathy will be extended to Mr. Meagher in his sad bereavement. He is in his 74th year. No children.

Mr. James Green, Fishery Officer, Lower Maguasha, P. Q. was in Dal-

The young people are...
the rumor that a grand White... is soon to be held in the Soldiers' Memorial Hospital in Dalhousie, in the Soldiers' Memorial Hospital in Dalhousie.

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CARS
POUR BONAVENTURE ET GASPE CHANDLER, QUE.

Anglois
NT
S MOTOR CARS
E CHANDLER, QUE.

C. Carleton, P. Q. Charles Jr. and his wife, after working for many years in the store of his uncle John Charles, was representative of the Union of Upper and Lower Canada, went to New England States. From there he came to the United States, where they were most successful. It is not very long ago that he was in the office of his brother, visited their Bay of Chaleur friends and it was at the home of Mr. Jos. Q. Fichette, Campbellton, that old friends met, the happy Western couple, who in the company of the one who made her last trip to her native land, sympathy will be extended to Mr. Charles for his bereavement. He is in his 74th year. No children. He was a member of the Order of the Magashua. P. Q. was in Dalhouse on Saturday.

The bean supper was held on Friday evening under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society at the home of Mrs. M. M. Macdonald.

The young people of the town and the surrounding area are soon to be held in the Social Rooms in Dalhousie, in aid of the St. Mary's Hospital, Miramichi, New Brunswick.