NOW IS THE TIME TO ADVERTISE

OUR PATRIOTIC OFFER

To Assume Halifax and Esquimaux Praised by the King.

After a Chequered Session British Parliament Prorogues Till October 30, When It Will Be Further Prorogued—King Hopes For Peace Settlement Between Russia and Japan—Norway and Sweden's Trouble.

London, Aug. 12.—Parliament was prorogued yesterday morning after a chequered session, which will long be remembered for the unprecedented number of votes of censure and motions for adjournment moved with a view to the embarrassment of the Government.

The session produced two measures of sociological interest—the Alien's Act, the latter creating facilities for the providing of work and wages for all able-bodied applicants—and the conflict between the Scottish churches was also settled. Otherwise, the work of the session was mostly of a routine character.

Only 50 M.P.'s Present.
Not more than 50 members of the House of Commons assisted at yesterday's closing scene. The Black Rod summoned them to the House of Lords, where there were only two peers, besides the three royal commissioners. The Lord High Chancellor, the Earl of Halsbury, read King Edward's speech, the most interesting clauses of which, from an international point of view, referred to the peace negotiations and the crisis in Sweden and Norway.

Regarding the peace negotiations, the speech says: "Negotiations, due to the initiative of the President of the United States, are about to be entered upon between the Russian and Japanese Governments, for the purpose of terminating the deplorable conflict still proceeding in the Far East. It is my earnest hope that they may lead to a lasting and mutually honorable peace."

Sweden and Norway.
Concerning the Swedish-Norwegian situation, the speech says: "A dissolution of the union between Sweden and Norway apparently is imminent. I am confident that, by the exercise of wise moderation on each side, a settlement will be arrived at which will be acceptable to both countries as to that it will be a settlement to maintain with the people of the Scandinavian Peninsula the same friendly relations which have prevailed in the past." The speech refers to the continued friendly relations with other powers, and "cordially hopes" that the outcome of the conference summoned by the King of Italy to consider the establishment of an international institution dealing with agricultural matters, will be of service to agriculturists, both at home and abroad.

King Praises Canada.
The speech then proceeds: "My Government has received from the Dominion of Canada a most patriotic offer to assume the entire administrative and financial responsibility for the defence of Halifax and Esquimaux, and that offer has been cordially accepted. The transfer of control will take place at an early date, under arrangements in regard to which my Government have been fortunate to obtain the fullest and most appreciative co-operation of the Dominion Government."

Otherwise, the speech was of no general interest.

Parliament was nominally adjourned to Oct. 30, when it will be further adjourned.

IDEAL SPOT

Thos. Holmes of Detroit, Formerly of This City, Spends Vacation at Joy Club and is Much Impressed.

Thomas Holmes, of Detroit, a brother of Chief Holmes of this city, was in Chatham yesterday. Mr. Holmes is head engineer of the large post office building in Detroit and was returning to his duties after spending two weeks at the Joy Club.

His wife and six children accompanied him during his stay at the club house, also Richard Connors and family, Geo. Hammond and Fred Nickerson, all of Detroit.

"We had a delightful time," said Mr. Holmes. "The Joy Club has an ideal spot. We lived on fish, fruit and eggs. One of the juiciest morsels I ever tasted was a twelve pound catfish we caught on a night line. Stuffed, like a chicken, and baked, they are in a class by themselves. The Detroit people thought I was robbing the farmers when I got chickens for 20 cents apiece. The frogs out there are very obliging. They hop right into the house. We relieved them of their hind legs to cure them of the habit. There is another regal dish."

"The Joy Club has every reason to be joyous over being the possessors of such a spot as they have. Boats of all sorts are there and one can wade out into the bay nearly two miles, making an ideal bathing place."

Although residing across the border, Mr. Holmes still lifts his hat to the Union Jack. He says it is in the blood and he can't get rid of it.

Reserve Aug. 22nd for your holiday to Detroit, and join the members of the I. O. F. on their annual excursion.

OVER 14,000 PICNICKERS

AT GOVERNMENT PARK

Stupendous Success of Howard's Great Annual Outing—Reeve McLarty, Judge Houston, H. S. Clements, M. P., P. H. Bowyer, M. P., P. Crown Attorney Smith and Others Deliver Addresses—Liberal Speakers Praise Splendid Work of Mr. Bowyer—Program of Sports—Phinney's Detroit Orchestra in Attendance—Only One Casualty.

"For eleven years I have been caretaker of the Bond Eau Government Park," said the venerable Isaac Gardiner in a short interview with The Planet last evening near the close of the mammoth annual picnic of Howard Township, "and I never saw anything to equal to-day. In my opinion—and I have had considerable experience with throngs and picnickers, the number present would easily total close to fifteen thousand."

"Yes, easily," said John Wade, of Morpeth, who was standing near by, "I never saw anything like it in my life."

"The Howard Council and promoters deserve infinite credit," added Dr. T. L. McRitchie, of McKay's Corners. "They have worked with energy and liberality to the end attained and Providence has blessed them with delightful weather. Besides East Kent as a whole is immensely pleased with the interest which is being taken in the care and improvement of the park which has been inaugurated by our popular and esteemed member, Mr. Bowyer. The fact that he has obtained material concessions in the estimates for the development of the splendid park means much, and if the money is wisely expended, everyone will reap untold benefit."

It was a great day. From early morning to midnight the people literally thronged to the park. Miles and miles of rigs were tethered under the trees and anywhere, everywhere, the people moved and mingled in the genuine enjoyment of the day.

The speaking took place shortly after noon from the pavilion platform. Reeve McLarty, of Howard, presided and was enthusiastically received. The speaker made a capital address and heartily welcomed the multitude to the picnic.

"Ex-Reeve James Brown followed in a spirited speech, which was much enjoyed. He traced the development and growth of the great annual outing."

County Crown Attorney H. D. Smith was next called. He expressed his pleasure at again being present among the good people of East Kent.

He congratulated them all on the successful picnic and spoke of the pleasure it gave him to learn that the new Government had actively interested itself in this splendid provincial park.

This splendid park, he pointed out, was doubtless a tribute to the energy and enterprise of Mr. Bowyer. Applause. He understood that ere long a splendid electric road would be running to the park and many other valuable acquisitions secured.

CHEERFUL BOWYER.
The announcement of the name of Philip H. Bowyer, M. P., was the signal for a splendid outburst of enthusiasm. It is a striking indication of the character of East Kent's member that he holds such a warm place in the hearts of his constituents, at a time when he is so generally regarded as a political opportunist.

People had come to enjoy the pleasures of the splendid picnic and not to listen to speeches, he smilingly declared. It was genuine pleasure to be present and he paid a high tribute to those whose energy and ability had brought about such grand results. The people of East Kent had reason to be proud of their Provincial Park and he was exceedingly glad that the Government was setting about earnestly to develop and improve it. He believed it was the intention to utilize the waste timber and apply the appropriations now in the estimates to the improvement of the park without destroying any of its natural beauty. It was likely that a large club house or temperance hotel would be erected in the near future and an effort made to secure a charter for a satisfactory and beneficial electric railroad service.

Mr. Bowyer concluded with extending his appreciation and good wishes to the good Howard people who had realized such success.

WELCOME TO CLEMENTS.
Herbert S. Clements, M. P., West Kent's popular representative, was given a rousing reception. In a bright and humorous way he described the difficulties which beset his way out, which illustrated the advantages to be secured for the electric service. He said he came to the Eau by rail in the morning and there was no service over, but Judge Houston had kindly and courteously sailed him over in his boat. He was delighted to be present among such a magnificent gathering of Kent's sons and daughters and to have the pleasure of meeting again so many old and warm friends. He congratulated all on the wonderful success of the day.

A MAN OF HIS WORD.
His Honor Judge Houston was heartily received. After expressing his cordial greetings and pleasure at being present, the Judge said he had been delighted to hear the assurances of Mr. Bowyer regarding the future of the park. It was not ante election talk and he knew it was sincere and true. "The people of Kent, altogether apart from politics, know Philip Bowyer to be a man of his word," declared the Judge warmly, "and they esteem him and respect his utterances as such."

Continuing, Mr. Houston spoke of the splendid possibilities of the future and closed by making appropriate allusion of the success of the occasion.

BASEBALL GAME.
At the conclusion of the speaking a spirited game of baseball was played between teams from Scotland and Botany. The Botany team won out by the score of 12 to 10. The game was followed by races and other sports.

While the game was in progress, Mr. Wilkinson, of Barrie, met with a very painful accident. He was standing near the home plate when one of the players was batting. The bat slipped out of the hands of the batter as he struck at the ball, and hit Mr. Wilkinson on the head, severing the temple artery. Dr. McRitchie who was fortunately on the ground, dressed the man's wound and sent him to Ridgeway. It was thought that the unfortunate man was not seriously injured.

Early in the evening, Phinney's Orchestra, of Detroit, who were the last music in the pavilion. The dancing was continued far into the night.

A very large number of people were present from Eriksen, Mr. Pellet's launch "Togo" was kept very busy all day, going backward and forward, carrying excursionists. The demand for tickets was so great that the "Outlaw" was put in commission behind the scenes. The dancing at the pavilion was excellent and keenly enjoyed by all.

POPULAR BACHELORS.
Early in the evening Crown Attorney Smith made a happy suggestion. He urged that a ballot be taken among the myriad daughters of East Kent present as to the most popular bachelors in the constituency, pointing out what a magnificent contest would result between Ben, Willson of Ridgeway, and Neil Watson, of Mull. The idea was regretfully abandoned, however, as it was feared the excitement would prove too much for the anxious contestants.

THE PARK PIERS.
"I was awfully sorry I missed seeing Mr. Bowyer," said Arch. Park, "but I'll make my suggestion through The Planet, where it will doubtless meet his eye. The piers as at present constituted are somewhat dangerous to landing sail boats and except at the end there is no place where ladies can land with comfort. How would it do to build a small platform on the outside of the railing and running along evenly, thus doing away with the projecting beams which are such a danger to landing sail boats. If Mr. Bowyer can see his way clear to do something in this matter the joy and gratitude of yachtsmen will be unconfined."

RAPID WORK.
On Thursday Contractor Blight laid one of his workmen, John Tewksbury, a yaggar that the latter could not lay 25,000 paving brick in a day's work.

Mr. Tewksbury accepted the challenge and chose the Head street pavement as the scene of the experiment. He placed 12,500 brick in position between the hours of 7 and 11 a. m. and would, undoubtedly, have won the wager had he not run out of material—the teams being unable to haul enough to keep pace with him.

The performance is an astonishing one, when it is considered that the laying of 15,000 brick is thought a good day's work.

SWAM A VAT OF HOT LYE

Brave Act of Fireman to Save a Comrade's Life.

Fire-fighters Parboiled in a Soap Blaze, In New York—Fifty Unconscious Firemen Taken From Poisonous Smoke—Many Heroic Rescues Were Made—Crawl Upon Stomachs on Sidewalks in Order to Fight Fire.

New York, Aug. 12.—Twenty firemen were carried, burned and unconscious, from boiling soap, five of them very badly parboiled, from a fire in W. H. Daggett's soap factory, on West 12th street, yesterday. Tanks containing 70,000 gallons of soap fats exploded after a fire in the three-story building had been brought under control.

For five hours the firemen fought this new danger, crawling on their stomachs on sidewalks outside the building, unable to stand in a poisonous cloud of smoke, which poured from the fiery soap greases.

Before the fire was under control, six of the firemen had been carried to the hospital, and many others, who did not go, were barely able to walk. The loss was estimated at about $50,000.

The soap greases continued to burn all day, and by night, when the fire was under control, 50 unconscious firemen had been taken from the poisonous smoke to be relieved by comrades, and many heroic rescues were made.

Fire Lieutenant Martin Mahoney swam through a vat of hot lye to save Fireman Clancey of engine 30, who had fallen unconscious. Both the fireman and his lieutenant were carried with the fall of a 5,000-pound safe through the floor into a cellar room, where a strong lye had been formed from the water and soap materials flooding the building. Clancey was crushed and internally injured during his fall, while the lieutenant fell into the lye uninjured and on top of the safe, where he partly kept himself out of the lye respiration. It was so dark that he could not see, but, feeling something in the fluid beside him, he took hold of it and pulled a boot off Clancey's leg. Then he realized for the first time that a comrade had fallen into the vat with him, and more every minute, he swam in the direction the boot came from, and found the unconscious form of Clancey, whose head was submerged. The lieutenant held the fireman until their comrades rescued them, and fainted when taken out. At the hospital the fireman's condition was said to be precarious, while the lieutenant suffered from prolonged unconsciousness.

Twelve hours after the start of the fire a crew of thirty fresh men from the fourth and sixth divisions filled the vacancies in the firemen's ranks, made either by those who were in the hospital or those too weak from successive fainting spells to work any longer.

DROWNED AT THE SOO.

Dollie Watson Gives up Companion and Sinks to Death.

Sault Ste. Marie, Aug. 12.—Miss Dollie Watson, 13 years old, daughter of James Watson of the steel plant, was drowned in the river above the rapids yesterday afternoon.

Desiring to change positions in the canoe, moored beside a boom log, Miss Thompson got out on the log, and it began rolling with her. Miss Watson attempted to assist her from her position in the canoe, with the result that both fell into the water.

A man, who saw the accident rescued Miss Thompson, but the other girl disappeared. The body was recovered thirty minutes later, after efforts at resuscitation were of no avail. Miss Watson was employed as stenographer in the office of the Lake Superior Corporation sawmill.

PRESENTATION

Mr. Wells Made Recipient of a Token of Esteem From his Fellow Teachers at the C. B. C.

Mr. Wells, who has been on the Canada Business College staff for the past two years, has received the appointment of Commercial Master of the Durango High School, Colorado, duties to commence Sept. 7th. His fellow teachers on the staff of the C. B. C. called at his residence on Victoria avenue a few days ago and presented him with some handsome volumes of standard work as a mark of their esteem, and handed him the following address:

Mr. Edward Wells,

Dear Fellow Teacher, We, the members of the Canada Business College, hearing of your good fortune in securing the position of Commercial Master in Durango High School, Colorado, cannot but rejoice with you in your success, and yet we want you to know that while we share your joy with you, viewing it from the standpoint of your advancement, nevertheless we regret that your promotion in another field means separation.

Our intercourse in the Canada Business College has always been marked by the most pleasant relations, and we sincerely trust that your new acquaintances in the west may give you as warm a corner in their hearts as your friends in the east have always had for you.

We are glad to know that Mrs. Wells, whom we all so highly esteem, is not to go to Durango for the present, as, while she remains here, there will still be the hope within us, that at some future time you might return to make this city your home.

Hoping that you may enjoy the West, and that your days may be as free from that which would mar as the lines traced by your willing pen, we are,

Your late co-workers,

D. McLAUGHLIN,

J. E. CAUSGROVE,

J. W. POWERS,

B. ELLISON.

FREIGHT WRECK

The morning G. T. R. train was delayed about three hours by a slight freight wreck near Komoka. Gravel trains are at work ballasting the right of way east of this city and while one of them was working an engine, to which was attached a caboose, crashed into it.

The heavy gravel train got off with slight injury, but the colliding engine was badly shattered. Two of the engine crew, one of them being the driver, were injured—one sustaining a broken arm and the other being quite badly cut.

RAPID PROGRESS

The work on the Chatham and Wallaceburg electric road is progressing splendidly. The work of grading the right of way has been completed within two miles of Wallaceburg. Another week will see the line in the 'Burg. Survey parties have been over the southern territory and have mapped out the line as far as Blenheim.

In all five miles of steel have been laid already. To-day a connection was affected with the C. P. R. off of Raleigh street and a small locomotive will soon be at work hurrying the building material to the front.

It has not yet been decided whether to reach Lake Erie by going straight out to Cedar Springs or to go via Blenheim. At any rate the line to Blenheim will be constructed.

To Enfranchise Indians.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—Chief John King of the Indian Reserve at Temiskaming is in the city conferring with the Indian Department concerning a proposition made by Thomas Murray, ex M. P., to buy from an Indian of the band a plot of fifty acres. Mr. Murray's plan is to establish a town there, and to found industries, including a brick yard. Chief King is also discussing a proposal to part with the reserve and allow the Indians to become enfranchised.

MARLEYBONE WINS

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—The gentleman of England in the second match against the Ottawa Cricket Club, played here this afternoon, made up for their small score of the day previous and won out by one run and six wickets! The Ottawas went in first, and though they hit well, were all out for 91 runs, making a total for the two innings of 211. This gave them a lead of 140. The visitors going to bat were wary, and did not hit out until they felt sure. At 4.50 p. m. they made 141 with six wickets to spare. The game was then stopped and play continued as an exhibition game, when Wyld, who had made 80 for his team, did some pretty hitting. Henley Byre and Stow also did well.

GOOD PROGRESS

A splendid grandstand sidewalk has been laid on the west side of the Market Square, extending from the building to the curb. The work on that on the opposite side is going on this morning. The police station is finished with the exception of the slate roof and the interior furnishings. Good progress is being made on the sheds, and it is expected that they will be far enough advanced next market day to use them.

Swimming is part of the curriculum of the public schools of Yarmouth, England. The boys are taken to the shore in parties and are trained till they can swim fifty yards in the sea. This is a wise provision against drowning accidents. One who can swim fifty yards can swim as much farther as his strength will permit, probably many times over fifty yards.

—of package Teas, the objection to them is that the cost of packing them is too great. It has to be made up in one of two ways, either decrease the quality or increase the price.

In making this statement, you understand of course, that we are stating our own opinion merely. We sell package Teas, but we do think you get much better value when you buy Teas in bulk.

We would like to give you a sample of Tea at the price you are using, and have you compare them. In particular we know that our English Breakfast Teas are splendid value. You can be sure of a cup of good Tea in buying any one of them.

"Royal Household" is in a class by itself.

Flour that gives half nourishment and double work to digest is not good flour.

Cheap and inferior flour gives the digestive organs double work and half pay—inferior flours contain indigestible waste—this waste must first be overcome by nature,—that means extra digestive work.

Indigestibles destroy the nutriment of flour, therefore poor flour gives more work and less nutriment to the system.

Royal Household Flour is in a class by itself—it is the only really pure flour—and it is pure because it is purified and sterilized by electricity.—it is the most easily digested and most nourishing because it is absolutely pure.

The moment a woman puts her hands into "Royal Household" she knows it is a finer flour than she ever used before.

"I had stricture for eleven years. It finally brought on Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. I had an uncomfortable shooting pain in the groin and feeling as though something was in the urethra. My back was weak and I could scarcely stoop over. Urine was full of sediment. Had a desire to urinate frequently. Family doctors, so-called specialists, patent medicines, electric belts, all failed. I was discouraged. I had spent hundreds of dollars in vain. Finally I consulted Dr. Kennedy & Kergan as the last resort. I had heard a great deal about them and concluded from the fact that they had been established over 25 years that they understood their business. I was delighted with the results. In one week I felt better and in a few weeks was entirely cured. Have gained sixteen pounds in weight."

TRANSPORTER BRIDGE OVER THE ENGLISH RIVER MERSEY.

Took Three and a Half Years to Build—Traffic, Both Foot and Wheel, Carried on in a Car Suspended From the Underside of the Bridge—Cost of the Work Was About $600,000—Time in Crossing.

The Runcom-Widnes bridge, which has been building for three and a half years, is now completed, says London Sphere. The bridge is of the "transporter" type and in design is precisely similar to an ordinary stiffened suspension bridge, with the exception that the approaches to the bridge are at a level, thus dispensing with the costly high level approaches, and the traffic, both foot and wheel, is carried on in a car suspended from the underside of the bridge. The bridge crosses the river Mersey and the ship canal between Runcom, on the Cheshire side, and Widnes, on the Lancashire side, by a clear span of a thousand feet, this being by far the greatest span of any bridge in the United Kingdom designed to carry road traffic.

The four towers are constructed wholly of steel, and each consists of four square braced legs, upon the top of which is built a lantern 7 feet 6 inches in diameter and 8 feet high to the eaves, in each of which are placed powerful arc lamps. There are two main cables, each built up of 2,413 steel wires, anchored into the solid rock from these cables are suspended two longitudinal stiffening girders, upon the lower flanges of which runs an electric trolley about 77 feet long, driven by two 35 horsepower motors. From the trolley is suspended the transporter car, 55 feet long and 24 feet wide, capable of carrying at one time four two-horse wagons and 300 people. On the top of the car is fixed the operator's cabin, in which is placed the controller and other apparatus, by means of which the operator has the car quite at command and can go about, reverse or put on the brakes at a moment's notice.

The time occupied in crossing the bridge is about two and a half minutes, so, with loading and unloading, it will be possible to make nine or ten trips per hour. The cost of the work has been about $600,000, which is about one-third the cost of an ordinary high level bridge with costly approaches.

The Boastful Swedes. It is somewhat surprising to note the tone of disdain that marks the speeches of Swedish politicians and public men in their allusions to Norway and Norway's people. There is a supercilious curve of the upper lip, as though the speakers were representative of the world's culture and brains, while the Norwegians struggled along in the subcellar of medieval ignorance or hopeless stupidity.

They thus make themselves absurd in the eyes of the world. For to-day there live in Norway: Fridtjof Nansen, Henrik Ibsen, Bjornstjerne Bjornsen, Edvard Grieg.

These are men of achievement, whose fame has gone around the world, and whose work has influenced the life of two hemispheres. They have done great service in the fields of science, art and letters.

Sweden cannot point to a single contemporary within her borders who can match any one of them.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

When We Were Seven. Judge Grosscup of Chicago said at dinner: "As the world matures, it improves, just as we improve as we mature."

"A man of mature mind is an improvement on a child. He is in every way better. He is more generous, more kind."

"I have no sympathy with those who laud childhood and the virtues of children. I hold that children are only a little removed from savages, and, when I hear them lauded, I think of a boy I used to know."

"This boy's brother lay ill with a fever, a bad fever, so that it was feared he might succumb."

"To the well youngster the nurse said one morning: 'What will you do if your brother dies?'"

"The child answered calmly: 'I'll have his Noah's ark, won't I?'"

A Marshal's Advice. Many queer blunders are attributed to Marshal MacMahon of France. It is related of him that once, when he visited the military school of St. Cyr, he encountered a negro cadet. The color of his skin at once attracted the worthy marshal, who said, with some surprise: "Vous êtes nègre, n'est-ce pas?" "Oui, M. le Maréchal." "Ah, très bien; continuez de l'être." This might be rendered: "Ah, I see you are a negro." "Yes, M. le Maréchal." Here the marshal paused. Not knowing what to say, he added: "Ah, that is well; continue to be so."

Pandora Savings

Because the Pandora range utilizes all the heat in the fuel it does the work quicker and better. If a range sends half its heat up the chimney it must burn more fuel to do a given work. It takes longer to burn a large piece of wood or chunk of coal than a small one, also it takes a longer purse to pay for the large stick of wood or big chunk of coal.

The quicker you can get the necessary units of heat to boil the kettle or cook the roast, the quicker your work is done and the less it costs to do it.

Because of the scientific construction of the Pandora range it gets more units of heat from a given quantity of fuel than any other range. It keeps all the heat in the range where the work is to be done.

For these reasons the Pandora range lightens the labor of cooking—eases the drudgery of kitchen work; it helps to make life easier; it gives more leisure because it saves time; it saves worry because it is absolutely reliable, and thus it saves the nerves; it saves the muscles because it is so easy to handle; it requires less attention than any other range; it does its work uniformly; it is an A 1 range in every particular; it is an economical and a handsome range.

It makes Kitchen work easy.

A Chance For Inventors.
The Government of the Netherlands has instituted a competition with the object of discovering a process of cutting diamonds which will dispense with the use of an alloy dangerous to health. For a complete solution of this problem a prize of $2,275 is offered. The answers must be written in English, French, German or Dutch and submitted to Professor L. A. Ronstein, chemical laboratory of the Polytechnic school, Delft, Holland, on or before Jan. 1, 1906.

Woman is often referred to by man as "doubling his joys and halving his sorrows." That may be complimentary, but it would seem to be rather dry. It is not so much the truth as the terms it means that where things are going well with the man his wife makes them go better. But when things are going ill with him, he expects the wife to share half his burden. Among the pleasant letters received by Dr. Pierce are those from husbands who have wakened up before it was too late to the crushing burdens laid upon the wife, and in the search for help have found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a restorative which has given back to the mother the health of the maiden and the maiden's happiness. "Favorite Prescription" always helps, and almost always cures. It has perfectly cured ninety-eight out of every hundred women who have used it when afflicted with diseases peculiar to women.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

A CHAIN OF WOOD.

Work For the Boy Who Has a Knack For Carpentering.

A pretty experiment which boys with a knack for carpentering will find interesting is the making of a chain out of a single block of wood. This is how the feat is accomplished. This diagram almost explains itself.

Take a piece of very soft wood an inch square by six inches long. Out of this cut a piece like that shown in Fig. 2. Then mark off the links as shown in Fig. 3. Hold this piece aside and cut out the darker portions shown in the illustration in Fig. 4. Do the same thing on the other side of the piece. A small bit of wood will be left between each of the links. Cut through this and they will loosen. Round out the pieces and sandpaper them down. The illustration Fig. 5 shows only three links, but a chain of about twenty-four links can be made easily by using a much longer piece of wood, and it will serve many useful purposes.

AN ODD FISHERMAN.

The Funny Way Boys in Some Parts of England Catch Pike.

There are many odd methods of catching fish, but one of the funniest is employed by boys in some parts of England when they wish to catch pike. They use a goose, and, in their own words, "to catch the goose is the hardest part of the whole affair."

Suppose this difficult feat is accomplished, they then take an ordinary fish line, about eight feet long, on one end of which is fixed a barbed hook or spoon, and tie it to the leg of the goose. She takes to the water right away, and the line goes with her. For awhile she swims about in her usual dignified fashion, but pretty soon, if the time is well chosen, she starts suddenly, as if awakened from a dream.

It is only that the pike has nibbled at the bait and has become hooked in so doing. This hooking means a sharp jerk to the leg of the unsuspecting goose, which makes a dash for the shore. She splutters through the water and comes climbing up the bank, hissing furiously and dragging her captive after her.

An Old Game.
This is an old game which has many modifications. The children form a ring and with arms upraised sing:

Round and round the village,
Round and round the village,
Round and round the village,
Round and round the village.

As we have done before,
The child going "round the village" is supposed to get back to his starting point a certain number of times, according to the size of the ring, by the time the verse ends.

Then they sing:

In and out the windows,
In and out the windows,
In and out the windows,
In and out the windows.

As we have done before.

This time he must go faster and get in one window and out the next, running in and out of the ring, and back to the starting point while the song lasts.

Carrying Children in the Pocket.

Not every one has so easy a way of disposing of children as the pretty and curious sea horse, which is a common creature in all seas. The sea horse has a pocket—a regular, properly shaped pocket, which it carries just as if it were strapped to its waist. In this it keeps the children, and as the sea horse has large families, sometimes numbering as many as fifty, fishermen are often finely surprised after catching a sea horse and putting it into water to find that their single captive has apparently turned into half a hundred.

Can You Do This Sum?

A grocer asked a lady how many eggs she had in her basket. She replied, "When counted two, three, four, five, six, at a time I always have one odd one left, but if I counted seven at a time they came out even seven."

How many eggs in the basket?

Two Little Girls.

Little Sally Sunbeam lives across the street.

Every day I watch and wait her pleasant smile to meet.

Just a little darling, though she's small and plain,

But as welcome as bright weather after days of sodden rain.

Pretty little Thundercloud is my near neighbor too.

Dear heart, it's ill to meet her, e'en when the skies are blue;

When they are gray and darkling, why, little's like a storm.

Just to see her frowning makes the air less clear and warm!

What makes all the difference between small maid and maid?

Why, one is always cheery, the other grim as shade.

Little Sally Sunbeam finds all the world a friend.

While pretty little Thundercloud—I wonder how she'll end?

RULES FOR THE BATH.

Not Every Woman is Able to Stand the Cold Morning Bath.

The early morning cold bath is beneficial only to those persons who possess sufficient vital energy and nervous force to insure a good reaction with no subsequent languor or lassitude.

If one feels greatly refreshed after one's morning bath, but two or three hours afterward feels tired or languid, there is sufficient evidence that the practice is injurious and should be discontinued.

Those who have an ample supply of blood and flesh, who possess a lymphatic or sluggish temperament and whose nervous force is not depleted may indulge in their morning bath to advantage.

Those inclined to be thin, whose hands and feet upon slight provocation become cold and clammy, who digest their food rather slowly and assimilate it with difficulty, who are nervous and are burdened mentally, all such individuals should avoid bathing during the early morning hours.

To all such persons a bath during the middle of the day or before retiring at night will prove of much greater advantage. The bath should be followed by rest of body and brain, till equal conditions of circulation are re-established.

Then there is another class of persons—those who are weak in nervous power, but who have such excitable peripheral nerves that after a cool bath perfect reaction takes place at once, losing more, however, in after effects than gain in the first place from the bath.

This class of individuals should not bathe too frequently and when they do bathe should use tepid water.

Oxford Chancellor Range

One of the troubles with most wood-burning ranges is the lack of hot water. The usual reservoir is of small capacity and not placed near enough the fire to raise the water to a sufficiently high temperature, and it takes considerable time and fuel to heat the water at all.

The Oxford Chancellor wood-burning range is fitted with a large reservoir of planished copper, which is easily kept clean. This reservoir is placed next the fire-box, and therefore the water heats very quickly and to a high temperature. The reservoir may be detached or attached to the range in five minutes by anyone.

Write us for booklets about the Oxford Chancellor Range, and the address of the nearest dealer who can show it to you. A post card will do.

New Lingerie Styles

UNDERCLOTHES so well cut that they would seem almost built entirely on tailored lines, were it not for the utterly feminine, utterly charming ways of trimming with a frill of lace and a bit of ribbon; exquisite handwork—daintiest of designs worked out in “pearls of stitches,” and with seams rolled to the merest line and joined by delicate French veining—these are the main characteristics of the new lingerie.

At first glance, you say that everything is simpler, that there's less and less trimming used; but look into the style a little—there's more trimming used than ever, only nothing is fussy, the trimming being quantities of handwork carried out in exquisite detail, but so subordinated to the style of the piece it trims as to be inconspicuous.

Scallops and eyelets embroidered by hand make a simple trimming that is as beautiful every time the piece is done up as it was when new, and wears until the piece itself gives out. And lace—German valenciennes mostly—seems stronger than the lighter mesh we used to wear; or perhaps the styles provide for its being set in places where there is practically no strain on it. At any rate, lace-trimmed pieces wear better than they used to.

The softest and most supple of materials are used for the new lingerie. Everything must fit, and must be so soft as to be easily adapted until it takes on just the right “set.” Real valenciennes—the merest edge of it—is finding its way on a lot of the new lingerie, though the imitation laces have a tremendous following for this sort of use.

Chemises are short, coming just above or to the bend of the knee. Nothing was ever uglier than chemises in that half-long, half-short length. When the chemise is worn outside the corsets it is usually more satisfactory, especially to wear with sheer summer dresses, if it is made into a “marguerite,” which is nothing in the world but a chemise gathered into a belt, or a combination corset cover and petticoat, whichever way you choose to wear them. The belt does away with any necessity for adjusting fullness, which sometimes, with the usual chemise, shows under a little light gown in creases.

The marguerite designed has the fullness taken out of the upper part by tucks; the skirt is carefully shaped and is very full at the hem, where it is trimmed with a four-inch ruffle edged with lace.

The square neck is outlined with insertion, edged with lace, and the ribbon is run in an odd little casing made by setting the insertion on over the material, instead of on the edge. The belt is made of embroidery insertion, through which wash ribbon—a wider ribbon than is run through the neck-casing—is threaded.

At the back, the fullness of the corset cover is disposed of in little tucks like the front; while the skirt is at its fullest, the belt making the different treatment possible.

A lingerie dressing sacque is included in almost every summer wardrobe. The one designed in the picture is intended to be made up in lawn, dimity, Swiss, batiste, or any one of the dainty, inexpensive summer stuffs. The yoke is made of two strips of embroidery insertion (or bands of the material briar-stitched with soft embroidery cotton), separated by a band of lace insertion, and the full sleeves are trimmed to match, with the frill at the neck repeated on the edge of the sleeves.

Another pattern is a design for a lounging robe which can be made up equally well in a luxuriant robe in wash flannel, unlike most room-wrapper designs. The long, straight box-pleats are stitched down about half-way to the hem in front, graduating to shorter stitches toward the back. These pleats do away with much awkward fullness, and yet leave the skirt of the robe as full as all such robes should be.

The sleeve is just a moderately full style, elbow length, ending in a deep frill of the material. But the collar is the prettiest part of all. It is an adaptation of sailor styles, square in front as in back, and with a repetition of the idea expressed in a second collar which extends from under each side of the collar out over the tops of the sleeves.

The lower is the prettiest combination of flowered and plain stuffs—all-white—imaginable. But whatever you do, don't make the apron up in anything that has flowers on in color! Its style is at its prettiest in all-white. Swives and linen and a dozen stuffs come with flowers and squares embroidered on or woven in—got at in every sort of stunning way; and the skirt of the apron being plain stuff throws the figured into delicate relief.

SHOP NOTES

Chemisette styles hold their own in popularity.

Foulards came out to so much better advantage since they have come out in double width.

Boleros have a new recruit in the shape of a tiny affair of Irish crochet, the fine, delicate kind known as “Baby Irish.”

Wash-silk, the pink-and-white and blue-and-white kinds most of all, are being made up into summer pajamas and kimonoes.

If you're getting pongee for coats, get the kind they call rajah. It has a little more body to it, and you don't want that long, loose coat lined.

Odd little square, or round, or three-cornered bits of Swiss come embroidered and ready to set in underclothes. The edges must be rolled and whipped to other rolled edges.

Plain stockings, or those with clocks or embroidery all in the same tone, are best liked, but a host of novelty things are out, with tiny flowers embroidered in colors on a black ground.

Cotton voiles make up the summeriest sort of dresses, and are immensely popular, which is rather a surprise, in spite of their self-evident prettiness. All sorts of good-looking clothes are made of them, usually in some form or other of checks.

Cut the stiff ribs off the ends of your wide silk shoe laces. They'll fray out a little, but not too much, and they'll take on more the look of ribbon.

Chiffon-taffeta is next popular to pongee—light or dark or medium—and is used for every sort of thing. Those redingotes are stunning made of dark blue chiffon-taffeta, and as unusual in their way as the pongee coats in theirs.

For porch shoes, novelty upon novelty displays itself. Odd leathers and odder things that look like soft, silky cloths, made with the high French heels that belong by right to slippers, and the big bows that were characteristic of pumps, but which appear now on every sort of slipper and low shoes.

A woman, who is in “second mourning,” fit upon a dainty idea for her summer clothes. She is wearing white this summer, but instead of the inevitable white shoes, she's “gone in” strongly for gray shoes and stockings—silver gray—and is wearing exquisite belt buckles of silver as the only other note of color about her costume.

The silver and white effect is stunning.
