BRITISH COLUMBIA

Vancouver, still a civic infant, stands pre-eminently at the front when compared with any other city in Canada in progressiveness and enterprise, as the following facts will show:

Twenty years ago her leading thoroughfares were simply trails through the wilderness of a semi-tropical forest; to-day she is a thoroughly wideawake, go-ahead and modern city.

Incorporated April 6th, 1886, population

Population, 1906 70,000

Population, 1908 70,000

The population has doubled in the last few years, and is still increasing rapidly.

Thousands are flocking to the city and country, attracted by the vast timber and mineral wealth, the great fisheries, the immense stretches of fine fruit and agricultural lands in our fertile valleys, and the limitless possibilities of the country, all of which spell opportunity. Potentially the richest portion of the Canadian confederation, British Columbia will in time outrival in wealth any other country under the sun.

Pointers for Capitalists

There is no point in the West that offers better inducements for the investment of capital than Vancouver. Not a vacant store or house can be seen within its precincts. It is the industrial centre of the Canadian far West. It manufactures more lumber for local and foreign trade than any point on the Pacific Coast; has well equipped sugar refinery, salmon canneries, engineering works, sash and door and box factories, foundries, ship-building yards, marine ways, nail factory, cooperages, pipe works, biscuit and cardy factory, fruit cannery, brick-making plants, quarries, grain elevators, etc., and offers exceptional advantages for industrial development.

The Fruit Industry of British Columbia

Maxwell Smith, Dominion Fruit Inspector,
Vancouver, B. C.

Although it is only sixteen years since the first full car-load of fruit was shipped out of British Columbia, progress has been fairly rapid and people are now beginning to realize something of its possibilities as a fruit-growing province. In the season of 1904, the fruit crop of British Columbia was valued at $600,000 and the area under cultivation estimated at 14,000 acres.

In 1905 the area under fruit had been increased to 20,000 acres, and the total revenue derived therefrom was nearly $1,000,000. In the same year something like $500,000 was expended in the purchase and improvement of fruit lands, and the average price received for grade No. 1 apples from October 1, 1905, to March 31, 1906, was $1.27 per 40-lb. box, f.o.b. shipping point. The early varieties started out at $1 net, and during the latter part of February and March as high as $2 per box was being paid for strictly No. 1 in carload lots. The average prices of other fruits for the season of 1905 were : Pears, $1.38 per 40-lb. box; prunes and plums, 75c. per 20-lb. box; peaches, $1.15 per 20-lb. box; strawberries, $2.30 per 24-basket crate; raspberries $2.19 per 24-basket crate; blackberries, $2.40 per 24-basket crate; gooseberries, 5½c. per lb.; crab apples, 2½c. per lb.; tomatoes, 5½c. per lb.; currents, 7c. per lb.; cherries, 9c. per lb.

Outside of the quantities consumed in our own cities the chief market for British Columbia fruit is the prairie provinces; a market which will always demand the best that the fruit-grower can produce and in ever-increasing quantities, so that British Columbia need have no fear, no matter how rapidly the industry develops, of an over-production of good, clean commercial varieties. The province is most favorably situated, in being contiguous to the great plains of the middle west, where fruit-growing on a commercial basis is not likely ever to be a success. That territory is sure to increase rapidly in population and the consumption of fruit will be enormous. It is a curious fact that the average family on the prairies consumes more fruit than do those of British Columbia, and it is quite natural, also, to expect that as the farmers of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba succeed, within a comparatively few years, in laying by sufficient to keep them in comfort for the rest of their lives, they should look to British Columbia, with its congenial climate, magnificent scenery and tremendous, unexplored and undeveloped natural resources, as a place in which to spend their declining years.

A Man's Chief Asset is His Appearance

There is no disputing this nor the fact that clothes play the most important asset. This being so, it is quite natural that the majority of those men who dress well seek the clothes that bear the Danaher label.

Here they have the most to choose from, for never before in our history have we been able to offer the variety that we do this season.

The styles are the very latest and the values are greater than ever, notwithstanding the advance in prices of almost everything that enters into the making of a garment. This advantage in value-giving is due, of course, to our greatly increased buying capacity.
