COL. HARRY COCKSHUTT SOUNDED SLOGAN OF UNION GOVT. IN PARIS

Win the War Candidate Delivered Clear Cut Address to Electors of Brant Riding on Saturday Evening—Attendance of Women a Feature of the Gathering

(BY A STAFF REPORTER) Paris, Nov. 19.—"They are fighting for us, and here at home we cannot understand what they suffer over there. But are we going to sit idly by, or are we going to send them the help for which they call, the help they need? I say, let us send not men alone, but money, supplies, whatever they need, for the war must be won, and we must have a peace strong enough to guarantee us against future wars such as the present."

In these ringing words Col. Harry Cockshutt on Saturday evening sounded the slogan of Union Government before the electors of Brant riding, at a largely attended convention in the Borden club rooms, here, appealing to his hearers for support in the time of crisis and for the much needed aid for the men overseas.

A feature of the gathering was the large number of ladies present, the fair sex comprising probably half of the number present, and men and women alike, enthusiastically affirmed their confidence in Brant's union candidate, by the applause which throughout the evening greeted the utterances of Col. Cockshutt and the other speakers.

Dr. Lovett occupied the chair in a most capable manner during the evening, paying a tribute in an opening address to the character of Col. Harry Cockshutt. He then called on F. D. Reville. "Though an old campaigner," observed Mr. Reville, "this is the first meeting I believe I have ever attended at which the fair sex have been so well represented. The women of Canada are, indeed, entitled to the vote, for during the war they have shown themselves willing to work shoulder to shoulder with the men, anxious to do their bit. Yes, more than their bit in sacrifice and in work for the boys at the front. The speaker passed on to a consideration of the present one great issue, the winning of the war, which engrossed all our thoughts, and for which all must stand together. Affairs at the front were in a critical condition to-day, with Russia plunged into chaos and confusion, and Italy the victim of tremendous Austro-German pressure and apparently in the early stages some tendency of disloyalty in the ranks. French and British reinforcements were being hurried to their aid, but the situation was still serious, and political and other feelings should be set aside. Mr. Reville explained the manner in which the election, which he declared to be a great mistake, had been forced upon the Dominion at the present time. The Opposition, headed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, objected to conscription, while the Union Government declared that the boys at the front should be cheered with reinforcements as they had been cheered on the day they marched away. The Canadian troops to-day were making a great mistake for themselves, were leading lives of great stress and strain, were dying that we might enjoy God-given freedom. In view of all this, Canadians should not stand idly by and let the valor and devotion of their men overseas be set aside. The Opposition program pledged itself to stop the Military Service Act, and to take a referendum, which would entail weeks of delay, while the wastage went on. In October said wastage among the Canadian troops at the front had been double the enlistments and they would probably be even higher this month. In Quebec Bourassa was making every Laurier candidate sign a pledge not only to have the Military Act suspended, but also to have Canada take no further part in the war. "Are you going to be sent our boys and leave them stranded over there, or are we going to support them and make good our pledges?" Mr. Reville went on to touch upon the splendid record of the Canadians at the front. The Canadians were not a fighting people, they had lived in peace, and had not expected war; yet all classes had responded to the call, and had met the pick of the German army, proving them-

W. F. Cockshutt's Nominators: W. S. Brewster, Brantford, Barrister-at-Law. L. B. Markle, Oakland Farmer. Edw. Steadman, Brantford, stationer.

CIVIL WAR IS RAGING IN MOSCOW

Disorders Prevailing in that City More Serious Than in Petrograd

By Courier Leased Wire London, Nov. 19.—The fighting in Moscow between the Bolsheviks and troops of the provisional government has been far more serious than anything that has occurred in Petrograd, according to special despatches received here from the Russian capital. The Petrograd correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says he talked with a member of the Moscow city council, who came to Petrograd to appeal for help. He was besieged for four days in the council building from which he made his way to the railway station through the Bolshevik lines. He said the real fighting began on November 10, when the Bolshevik force seized the Kremlin. They were expelled by a party of cadets who, in their turn, were killed by the Bolsheviks. The revolutionists later were again driven from the Kremlin. From November 12 onward, the despatch adds, the councilman reported that the military operations were concentrated in the centre of the city. The government force consisted of about 3,000 military cadets and a hastily organized white guard of students. It had three guns, a plentiful supply of rifles and a number of machine guns. Of the 100,000 soldiers forming the Moscow garrison, not more than 15,000 supported the Bolsheviks. Most of the regiments remained in their barracks but thousands of soldiers escaped from Moscow by train and on foot. The Bolshevik Red Guard in Moscow was composed mostly of boys from 12 to 18 years old. It had about fifteen field guns with which the Kremlin was bombarded continuously from Sparrow Hill. From other points their firing was very bad, the shells falling wide of the mark, smashing private houses and killing the inmates. Three thousand persons, chiefly members of the peaceful population, had been killed or wounded up to Wednesday, the councilman said, and thousands of soldiers escaped from bodies, they lay for days where they had fallen. There had been continual firing in many parts of the city from windows and roofs, and the population was terrorized and afraid to move. It was impossible to get food supplies to the centre of the city. The National Hotel, where there were many British and French visitors, was under fire for several days, and the upper part of the hotel was destroyed by a shell. The British shells began to fall on the city last night, the committee on public safety was sitting, and the committee decided to move to the Kremlin. The pavement was dug up and a trench made to ensure a safe passage. When the councilman left Moscow the Kremlin was well defended by machine guns manned by cadets, and there was an abundant supply of ammunition and food. A violent bombardment was concentrated on the Kremlin last Wednesday, the day the councilman left Moscow. On Wednesday the Cathedral of the Assumption within the Kremlin, with the famous tower of Ivan Veliky was destroyed and the Church of St. Basil caught fire. This wanton destruction of national shrines, the correspondent says, shrines which Napoleon spared, seems to have stimulated both sides to conclude peace. He adds: "The fantastic church of St. Basil is a priceless treasure and one of the wonders of Oriental architecture, while the Cathedral of the Assumption was the glory of the Kremlin. The news will send a shudder throughout Russia. M. Lunacharsky, Bolshevik minister of education, was so shocked that he resigned, but has since withdrawn his resignation. He has issued an appeal to the people to preserve the national treasure. On all sides the exclamation, 'The Germans would not have done this.'" The peace concluded in Moscow, the correspondent says, is a peace of exhaustion and fear, but means a victory for neither side. A despatch to The Daily Mail from Petrograd reports that the art treasures from the Hermitage, Brancaccio, and the Hermitage, were sent to the Kremlin for safe keeping, have been destroyed. It says also that the Hotel Metropole was attacked. The guests, including a number of foreign dignitaries, were rescued unharmed by the Petrograd fire. Petrograd, the despatch adds, was perfectly quiet Sunday, although the populace is becoming increasingly anxious concerning the future. The food ration will be reduced on Monday to three quarters of a pound every two days. It is hoped by this action to avert famine for twelve days.

ITALIANS HOLD FOE IN CHECK

Reawakening of Fighting Looked For Upon West Front Also

By Courier Leased Wire Rome, Nov. 19.—Italian forces have begun an offensive on the Asiago plateau, and have occupied advanced elements of trenches, the war office announced to-day. Further attempts of the Austro-German troops to cross the Piave have been stopped. On the west front of the Piave, south of Quero, great numbers of Austro-German troops are attacking the Monte Monfenera and Monte Tomba lines. In Trentino and along the Piave the Italians have the Austro-Germans in check and there are indications of a re-awakening of fighting activity on the western front especially in Flanders and around St. Quentin.

WEATHER BULLETIN Toronto, Nov. 19.—A depression which developed in the St. Lawrence valley is now centred near and west of Newfoundland causing moderate gales over the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Maritime province. Light falls of rain or snow have occurred from peninsula of Ontario to New Brunswick, while fine mild weather has prevailed in the west. Forecasts. West to southwest winds, fair and cold to-day. A little milder on Tuesday.

East and northeast of Ypres the British are now well established on the Paschendaele ridge. These positions have been under heavy bombardment by the Germans for several days, apparent evidence that the Germans are nervous and hope by their artillery fire to check a new British thrust. Around St. Quentin north-west of the Aisette, where the French gained a notable success recently, German and allied patrols have been busy. North of St. Quentin both the British and Germans carried out raids. French artillery has been shelling heavily the German positions south of the town for several days and a thrust by French troops, evidently a feint, was repulsed by the defenders, Berlin reports. Although the Teutonic pressure from Asiago east to the Piave continues very strong, the Italians hold valiantly to their positions and the invaders have been unable to make much progress. On the Asiago plateau the Italians repelled violent attacks and near Casera recaptured an advanced position taking 100 prisoners. Between the Brenta and the positions from which the Italians withdrew. Austro-German efforts to force the Italians back from the western bank of the Piave at Zenson and Fagare have failed. The invading force which crossed at Fagare has been driven back across the river while efforts to debouch from the bridge head at Zenson were repelled by Italian counter attacks. On the right bank of the Piave the Italians have taken nearly 1,300 prisoners in two days. Another army is reported marching on Petrograd to oust the Bolsheviks from control there. The vanguard which is said to be near Gatechina, 30 miles southwest of the capital, already has had several brushes with the Bolshevik forces. It is rumored that Premier Kerensky is returning with the new force. All reports lack confirmation. There apparently is internal dissension in Petrograd between the Maximalists and the less extreme Socialists, who have protested against acts of the Bolshevik regime. A report received in London says there has been a split in the Bolshevik ranks, and that some of the ministers have resigned. In Moscow, the revolutionists and the provisional government forces have reached a truce after days of fighting in which several thousand persons were killed and some of Russia's religious shrines within the Kremlin were damaged or destroyed by the artillery of the revolutionary forces. The American embassy in Petrograd has asked for a special train to take 200 Americans to Harbin, Manchuria, whence

Liberal Convention at Simcoe Saturday Endorsed Anti-Conscriptionist

APPROVE J.A. WALLACE

Two Exemption Claims Disallowed by Tribunals Saturday

(From Our Own Correspondent.) Simcoe, Nov. 19.—Time was in Norfolk when the name Wallace stood for principle and intelligent patriotism for the policy of a close knit empire in which Canada should be no mean component part.

Never saw such a state of things before. We always had a good response. Here we are with a blank sheet," said the chair. "How shall we proceed?"

Stream Could Not Be Dammed. W. E. Kelly: The situation is confused owing to the delay to call a convention.

Railroading Again. Col. Smith: The last speaker would lead one to think that there has been an attempt to introduce a candidate in on us.

Why Not Endorse Mr. Wallace? A Yeager: Let us have an expression of the meeting as to Mr. Wallace. He was here last week and moved for this meeting.

Where Are We At? Walter Blayne: Matters have been taken out of our hands. We ought not to be so used.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! Its tongue is coated give "California Fig Syrup of Figs."

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Fig Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother. It coats, gives a teapsootal of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teapsootal to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

LABOR PARTY EXONERATED

Did Not Violate Charter By Attending Fusion Convention

After a thorough investigation, the local branch of the Independent Labor party have been completely exonerated from any charges of violation of the constitution by conferring with representatives of the Liberal-Conservative and Liberal parties for the purpose of selecting a Union candidate.

W. R. Rolfe of Hamilton, president, and Jos. T. Marks of Toronto, secretary of the Ontario party, were in the city on Saturday to investigate the matter. They found that nothing had been done to violate the constitution and issued a statement to that effect as well as issuing a charter to the local branch.

The statement reads: "We, the undersigned officers of the Independent Labor party, have investigated the statements and charges made in connection with the manner in which the Brantford Independent Labor party have been conducting the affairs of the party in Brantford and we find that no time have they violated the constitution of the I.L.P. of Ontario."

The statement also endorses the candidature of Ald. M. M. McBride. Through the executive of the Provincial organization a charter has been issued to the Brantford branch. The charter was delivered by the president and secretary while they were in the city on Saturday.

"This charter has been issued to the Brantford branch of the Independent Labor party of Ontario with Allan Rose as president and Harry F. Harcup as secretary to transact and conduct all business that may be brought before it, not conflicting with the constitution of the party and to organize the city and district for the purpose of taking independent political action, including the nomination and reporting of candidates for Federal, Provincial and municipal offices and such other work as may be brought constitutionally before it."

WINDSOR MAN HAS GAINED 20 POUNDS

"I Now Know What a Wonderful Thing Tanlac Is," Says Pickell

"I have gained twenty pounds by actual weight and now I know for myself that Tanlac is something wonderful." William S. Pickell who made this remarkable statement is a well-known paint contractor and resides at 51 Windsor Ave., Windsor.

"About a year ago," continued Mr. Pickell, "I began suffering from stomach trouble and going down hill. My appetite went square-back on me and I always had to be very careful about what I ate. I was very easy to take cold and was annoyed a great deal by a hacking cough caused by the irritated condition of my throat. I fell off to one hundred and thirty-eight pounds and felt run-down and tired all the time. My sleep was broken. I was very nervous and just felt worse than I can describe. Many days I simply felt like giving up entirely and it was by mere force of will that I kept at my work."

"I had read so much about Tanlac that I concluded to see if it was good for me and what it has done in my case proves its value in building up people who are all run-down like I was. I have a fine appetite now and eat just anything I want with no bad after-effects. My sleep is sound and restful and I don't have that tired feeling any more. I now weigh one hundred and fifty-eight pounds, have made an actual gain of twenty pounds already—and have just finished my second bottle of Tanlac. I really feel like a different man, and two bottles of the medicine have done my daughter a world of good, too. I expect to take a few more bottles and am telling all my friends how fine it is."

Tanlac is sold in Brantford by Milton H. Robertson & Co., Ltd., in Paris by Apis Ltd., and in Mt. Vernon by A. Voegtlin and in Middleport by William Peddie.

HUN WARSHIPS CHASED TO PORT

One Light Cruiser in Flames and Machinery of Another Damaged

MINE-SWEEPER SUNK

British Light Naval Forces Return Without Losses—Slight Damage

London, Nov. 19.—German light cruisers, which fled through Helgoland Bight Saturday before British warships of similar type, were pursued to within thirty miles of Helgoland, where they came under the protection of the German battle fleet and mine fields, the Admiralty announced today. One of the German light cruisers was observed to be in flames, and the machinery of another seemed to be damaged, while one German mine sweeper was sunk. The British light forces returned without losses, with but little material damage to the ships and slight casualties among the personnel.

The statement reads: "One of the enemy's light cruisers was set on fire, another appeared damaged in her machinery, as she was dropping astern. An enemy mine sweeper was sunk in addition. We had no losses, and only slight damage in ships. Our casualties in personnel were slight."

British Reprisals, Says Foe

Amsterdam, Nov. 19.—Strong British forces, for the first time since early December, attempted to break into the German Bight (Helgoland) on Saturday morning, says a Berlin despatch today, quoting an official statement dated Saturday.

The British were located by the German guard ships on the North Reef-Torchelling line (about sixty miles from Helgoland island), and the advance German naval forces by a speedy counter thrust easily repulsed them, it is declared, without losses on the German side.

Big Explosion Heard

Copenhagen, Nov. 19.—Advices from the Island of Mene say that a most violent cannonading was heard from the North Sea between 8.30 and 10 o'clock yesterday morning. At intervals during the firing there were great explosions. Several warships were observed on the horizon.

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYSHURT

Eat less-meat if you feel Backache or have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush out the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will act set fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

THE SITUATION

It begins to look as if the Italians would succeed in checking the Austro-German invaders even before British forces come materially to their aid. Without any doubt it is the approaching help of the latter which has served to steady the Garibaldians and when the combined forces get working the invaders will not only be held but driven back. As it is, desperate efforts of the foe to force crossings of the Piave River have been driven back and by a brilliant counter attack, Teuton forces, which had previously gained a footing on the west bank have been completely swept out of the area. Altogether the Italian situation at this writing looks decidedly better, although not yet cleared.

In Palestine the Turks are evidently in demoralized retreat. Jaffa—the Joppa of the Bible—has been taken by the British without resistance. It is situated on the sea coast of Syria about thirty-three miles north west of Jerusalem and is the seaport of that city.

The stories which continue to come out of Russia are still as contradictory as the temperament of the people. Kerensky, previously reported as down and out and in the contemplated suicide class, is now stated to be making overtures on behalf of an internal truce in order to avoid further local bloodshed. It is pretty safe to discount just about all the stories now emanating from there.

On Saturday British light cruisers had a brush with German cruisers in Heligoland Bight and the latter, after a running fight, as usual, made for cover. One foe cruiser is stated to have been in flames and a mine-sweeper sunk, but the entire affair was evidently of a minor nature.

British troops on Saturday took some more German defences north of Passchendaele.

PARIS MEETING

That was a most heartening and responsive meeting in the interests of Harry Cocksbutt at Paris, on Saturday night. There was a tone of enthusiastic earnestness on behalf of winning the war and the candidate himself, eschewing all personal or controversial subjects, made a most eloquent plea in that behalf.

One of the features of the evening was the address of Sergt. Clifford Barber, a returned soldier. Without any oratorical attempt he told in tense tones of the need at the front and exclaimed:

"For God's sake back up the boys at the front; they love Canada and let us reciprocate and love them."

The words added still further to the determination of the patriotic crowd and cries of "we will" and enthusiastic cheering filled the building.

On all hands Mr. Cocksbutt's candidacy is meeting with the whole-hearted support which his own efforts on behalf of the war and the great cause in hand so pre-eminently merit.

ANOTHER PROOF

Premier Borden has once more demonstrated his sincerity in connection with a Union Government in fact as well as in form by appealing to the Conservatives of the Riding of Queens-Shelburne, Nova Scotia, to give Hon. Mr. Fielding acclamation. In the course of a letter addressed to them he says:

"Mr. Fielding has taken a strong stand in support of Union Government, and his long and notable connection with public affairs as a member of the Liberal party makes his adherence to the cause of Union most important in its influence throughout the Dominion. I realize the circumstances alluded to in your letter, which have naturally created embarrassment and aroused certain irritation among the Conservatives of Queens and Shelburne. In this solemn hour it is my bounden duty to overlook all such matters, and to take such action as may be conducive to the common-wealth."

It is therefore my most earnest hope that, having regard to the greater issues that are involved in this election, which concerns the future of our country and of the whole Empire, all personal or party antagonism will be laid aside, and that Mr. Fielding will be returned by acclamation as the member for the constituency of Queens-Shelburne."

And yet there are some small souled men who are still seeking to claim that Borden is seeking to play Liberals for dupes.

SENTIMENTS WHICH ARE BACK OF THE LAURIER CANDIDATE

It is difficult in reading the reports of some of the speeches at the Laurier Liberal meeting which nominated Mayor Bowby, to realize that they were made in a British community.

Two or three of them sound, for the most part as if made in Quebec.

In the first place Dr. Wiley, president, gave a direct mislead to the gathering as follows:

"Dr. Wiley read the report of Sir George C. Gibbons' speech at London, in which Laurier's Ontario chief stated that while the Military Service Act was law, yet after the 100,000 had been raised, a referendum should be taken."

Dr. Wiley had no authority whatever to make any such statement. Gibbons, for party reasons, made the assertion without the slightest warrant and in direct contradiction of the position taken by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in his manifesto as follows:

"AS TO THE PRESENT MILITARY SERVICE ACT MY POLICY WILL BE NOT TO PROCEED FURTHER UNDER ITS PROVISIONS UNTIL THE PEOPLE HAVE AN OPPORTUNITY TO PRONOUNCE UPON IT BY WAY OF A REFERENDUM. I PLEDGE MYSELF TO FORTHWITH SUBMIT THE ACT TO THE PEOPLE, AND, WITH MY FOLLOWERS, TO CARRY OUT THE WISHES OF THE MAJORITY OF THE NATION AS THUS EXPRESSED."

Moreover Bourassa is making each Laurierite candidate in Quebec sign a pledge that in addition to at once revoking the Act they will also support Canada's withdrawal from the war altogether. And it is under the domination of such traitors that the Laurier Liberals would place us.

Mr. C. W. Gurney said he "made no special plea for the farmers' son" and added that in the city they were taking boys whose places were taken by foreigners. Is Mr. Gurney not aware that many men of the farm are to be found in all of the munition factories? He further declared that "the Liberals of Brant refused to be hoodwinked by the Union Government."

Is it possible that this man believes that such Liberal stalwarts as Rowell, Carvell and the rest are being used as catspaws? Cannot he comprehend that some men in this awful crisis are capable of rising above party, as they have done in the Old Land? The same gentleman exclaimed:

"There was a new democracy arisen, the democracy which elected Woodrow Wilson, the saviour of the war."

Yes, and about the first act of said Wilson was to enroll the manhood of the States without any referendum, a course which Gurney declares to be absolutely wrong in Canada!

Another incident while Mr. John Muir was speaking, was this: "Isn't Bourassa with Laurier," asked a questioner.

"No, never. Sir Wilfrid will never be fouded with a disloyalist," answered Mr. Muir.

The undoubted fact nevertheless remains that Bourassa is backing Laurier in this fight and has openly said so in his paper Le Devoir.

George E. Cook, was in a threatening mood. Having made the statesmanlike remark: "No one wanted conscription, but Borden went over to England and hobnobbed with the Lords and got the bug," he went on to say with regard to Liberal Unionists that "the men who had left the party should get back or they would not have them around afterwards." That is a notice to such men as C. H. Waterous, T. H. Preston, and scores of other stalwarts. Speaking of the referendum he said:

"And if the people turned it down well, the United States was in the war and they could send over three or four million men."

Canada to skulk from the field and Canadians to cease their efforts while they watched Uncle Sam rally to the Empire. Perish the thought.

That would be like some man coming to the help of another in a fight and the latter then standing aside to let the voluntary assistant get all the blows. Well the bulk of Canadians, thank God, are not built that way.

Another of the assertions of the speaker was that the papers supporting the "win-the-war" Union Government, "had been bought."

By whom? The Huns, or the brave Canadian soldiers at the front whose need for reinforcements is urgent and pressing?

Apparently Mr. Cook cannot understand support of the cause of Empire and liberty except on a cash basis.

That is what his insult to the Canadian press means.

CASE SETTLED. The case of The Brant Mutual Farmers' Fire Insurance Company vs. Mr. John H. Campbell the Company's late Secretary-Treasurer, which stood on the present Assize list for trial, has been settled between the parties without the intervention of the Judge. The action arose over a dispute between the Company and Mr. Campbell in regard to certain premiums which the Company claims were not paid over by Mr. Campbell before his resignation. This fact, Mr. Campbell denied, also disputed the correctness of the audit made by the Company's Auditors after his resignation. A compromise was arrived at between the parties by which Mr. Campbell paid over to the Company the amount of the claim not in dispute and in addition thereto a further sum to be accepted by the Company in full of all disputed items. The Company on the other hand to pay Mr. Campbell his salary in full to the date of his resignation. Each party to pay their own costs of the litigation.

KILLED IN ACTION.

Information has been received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Meyer, 232 Darling street, of the death on November 6th of Private Percy Meyer. Private Meyer enlisted in Terry Sound in September, 1915 and went overseas with the 37th battalion in November of the same year. He was later drafted to the 3rd battalion and went to France with that unit in March, 1916. In June of that year he was invalided to England, after the Battle of Zeebeek and was later transferred to another unit after his convalescence. He was finally with the 5th Field Ambulance Corps and was with this branch of the service when he was killed in action, November 6th. His parents resided at Echo Place when the young man joined the colors, but have since removed to the city.

SHORT OF MEN AT FRONT SAYS GEN. E. C. ASHTON

Lack of Reinforcements Prevents Sending of 75th Division to France

36TH SCATTERED FAR Food Prices Higher in Canada Than in Old Land

"In January last I accepted a position with the Fifth Canadian Division, expecting to go overseas within a couple of months, but owing to difficulties in securing reinforcements for the four divisions now at the front, the Fifth Division has never been able to get to the front."

The strongest argument yet brought forward in favor of the Military Service act is summed up in those words as they fell today from the lips of Brig. Gen. E. C. Ashton, Canada's newly appointed adjutant general, who returned this morning to his home here.

After nearly thirty months of service overseas, Gen. Ashton has returned to Canada, to accept at the hands of the government, one of the highest military commands in the Dominion, and Brantford's premier soldier son bears modestly the honours.

BRIG. GEN. E. C. ASHTON Canada's New Adjutant-General who has reached his home here.

ors which he has won and merited by his notable service overseas. Interviewed by a Courier representative at the home of Mr. W. F. Cockshutt this morning, Gen. Ashton gave an interesting account of conditions in the old land, and traced briefly the history of the 36th battalion from the time of its departure from Canada, in June, 1915.

"We arrived in England," said the speaker, "just after the first Canadian division had been so badly cut to pieces at the second battle of Ypres. The second division was still in England and the first division in need of immediate reinforcements, as a result of which the 36th and six other units which had crossed with it were drawn upon for this purpose. The 36th was reorganized as a training unit."

"I was given command of a training brigade at West Sandring, in which men drafted from other units were given a fourteen weeks' course prior to going to the front. I remained there until about a year ago, when I received command of the Canadian training division at Shorecliffe, where I was in command of four brigades. When Gen. Turner arrived in England, a month later, I carried out the re-organization of all the training units in England, when all the old battalions were regrouped into regiments. The old 36th then became the 3rd reserve."

In January 1917, I was offered command of a fourth brigade, 5th division, and accepted this post, but owing to lack of reinforcements the division never went across. I remained in command until the first part of the present month, when I was recalled to Canada, to take up the post of adjutant general for the Dominion."

Gen. Ashton was high in his praise of the Fifth division, declaring it without question the best trained division of any type ever in England since the days of the first expeditionary force. The 125th battalion is considered one of the best battalions in the division. Some three hundred men from the 215th have been absorbed into the 125th. Gen. Ashton has a reply to often uttered criticisms that men will remain in England rather than go to the front. It is a matter of chance, he states, and upon the time of a battalions arrival in England depends the probability of its officers getting across to France. If a division is preparing to go across, their chances are good; if not, no effort or influence on their part will be of the slightest avail to expedite their going to the front.

Brantford: Capt. F. D. Fraser and Lt. Harold Brewster have made the supreme sacrifice. For the latter Gen. Ashton uttered high commendation.

"An exceptionally valued officer," he declares, "he rendered good services in France, before he was killed in England, while making a trial air flight."

Well over half of the Brantford men of the original 6th have made the supreme sacrifice, and the others have been scattered through ten or more different units, so that it is difficult to keep track of them. Two old members of the 32nd Battery, which Gen. Ashton commanded at the time of his departure, came home on the same ship with him, in the persons of Sergt. Major Hardy and Sergt. Match. The former, a British reservist, was called to his regiment on the outbreak of the war, served his time, was discharged, returned to Canada and enlisted in the 6th Battery, with which he went again overseas, becoming brigade-sergeant-major in France. He was very severely wounded, and after a long sojourn in hospital is now invalided in the army through an attack of rheumatism.

Gen. Ashton's trip home was a very quiet one, nothing disturbing the serenity of the six days' voyage. The ship carried some three thousand wounded soldiers, as well as a large number of women and children, soldiers' dependents. The British Imperial Military Mission to Washington, under Lieut. Col. Appleton of the 14th Hussars, was also aboard the vessel, and has proceeded to the American capital. It is composed of some one hundred and fifty men, all officers and N.C.O.'s, specialists in various branches of training, who will assist in the training of the U.S. armies.

The food situation in England is far from being as critical as is generally believed, according to Gen. Ashton. The only actual shortages existing is in sugar, tea, and bacon. Sugar is only obtainable by ration cards and the other two commodities are difficult to obtain at times. For a period of three months the last spring potatoes could not be bought in the open market.

"From my limited experience," stated Gen. Ashton, "prices for food generally appear to be higher in Canada than in England."

The absence of motor cars in the old land is one of the most noticeable results of the war. Petrol at the present time costs 75 cents per gallon, with a Government tax of six pence per gallon added. Recent regulations permit the use of motor cars by private individuals for certain specified purposes only; for touring to railway stations, to towns or villages for the purpose of securing food supplies, or for visiting military hospitals or other sick institutions. Even in such cases, the total allowance is only five gallons per month, with a penalty of one hundred pounds for a violation. Gen. Ashton during the past year was restricted to the above allowance for his car for military and semi-military purposes. The motor car has thus practically disappeared from British roads.

"The Zeppelin," states Gen. Ashton, "was never of any practical military value, nor has it had any moral effect upon the people of England. The lighting restrictions keep the whole country in darkness, and the Zeppelins never know where they are, ninety-five per cent. of their bombs falling on open fields. While in Kent we were subject to Zeppelin raids off and on."

"The Gothas, large biplanes or triplanes, which are able to carry out their raids in daylight, have proved more destructive, but the situation of the barrage defence system in London has rendered them, too, ineffective. British opinion is steadfastly against reprisals, and although retaliatory flights are constantly conducted, they are always against military defences of some nation, and not against unfortified towns."

BIG FIRE THREATENED. A serious conflagration threatened on Saturday afternoon, at half past three when boxes, piled too close to a gas stove on the third story of the George Foster, Wholesale building on Colborne street, became ignited. The fire was discovered by one of the employees, who noticed the dense volumes of smoke, but the blaze had made rapid headway by the time the firemen arrived. The upper story was filled with dense acid fumes, but the firemen forced their way up and by the use of the chemicals managed to extinguish the blaze. Considerable damage resulted, chiefly on account of the smoke and chemicals.

"FREEMAN" AGAIN MAKES APPEARANCE

Georges Clemenceau's Paper Re-appears Under Original Title

By Courier Leased Wire. Paris, Nov. 19.—Georges Clemenceau's newspaper re-appeared under its original title, "L'Homme Libre, (The Freeman). His name between the title is now preceded by the word "founder" instead of political director as formerly as he is no longer writing for his newspaper now that he has become premier. Stephen Plechon, political editor of the Petit Journal, who has been appointed foreign minister in the Clemenceau newspaper writes: "A leaflet article addressed to his readers that ministerial functions are always temporary, so he hopes some day to address them again. Therefore, he says 'Au revoir,' and not 'goodbye.'"

M. Clemenceau changed the name of his newspaper early in the war, after its original title had been suspended because of its refusal to suppress certain passages of an article.

BEFORE THE TRIBUNALS

TO-DAY'S LIST OF EXEMPTIONS GRANTED AND REFUSED BY LOCAL BOARDS.

Already at least one of the local exemption tribunals in operation in the city, under the military service act have to deal with conscientious objectors protesting against Military Service. Last week two members of the Church of God, one a minister of that religion appeared, basing their claim on religious scruples. Both men were colored and their cases were adjourned until to-day in order, as the military representative said, to give him an opportunity of looking up the Bible on which he was admittedly a little rusty to discover what religious leaders and prophets had gone to war that examples of warlike Christians might be produced to encourage these conscientious objectors.

Another draftee who entertained scruples in this regard came before a tribunal and explained his reasons for not wishing to fight. He was asked if he believed in the principle of turning the other cheek, and replied that he did. The more specific question was then asked, if he were struck on one side of the face, would he turn the other side to the smiter? The applicant would not do this and it was then pointed out to him he did not really believe in what he had advanced as an excuse to evade service.

WOMEN WHO HAVE RIGHT TO VOTE

Voting privileges have come so quickly upon Canadian women that it is difficult for them to grasp at once the full significance of their new citizenship, and it is feared that many women who are entitled to do so may not cast their ballots in the forthcoming election because they do not understand that they have the right to vote. Others, also, may not have studied the methods being employed to give them a place as citizens, and for these it may be explained that enumerators will call at each house, and the question they will put is this: Are You One of These: "Are you the mother, wife widow, daughter or sister of anyone (man or woman) who is on active service overseas, who has died while on active service, or who has been honorably discharged from the service?" "Are you over 21 years of age? Have you lived in Canada one year, and in this municipality thirty days?" If any woman can answer "Yes" to all of these questions she is privileged to use the franchise, given first in this Dominion to those women who have sacrificed their own flesh and blood in the cause of country and of freedom. HANLEY SCORED STALE SAINTS

Evangelist Draws No Distinction Between Saint and Sinner

A week of the Evangelistic Campaign has gone. Judging from the tone and suggestions of Dr. Hanley Brantford will have to speed up some before we may expect an old time revival to break forth. Some are only ankle-deep in the waters of revival. Multitudes have hardly got their feet wet yet, while the majority stand on the banks of their effete religious criticizing.

The Evangelist wore his clerical frock coat to-day; but you would never dream from his looks that he had started his ministerial life as a country parson, after being a lawyer, athlete and soldier for he's a veteran of the Spanish-American war, and evidently still keeps up his physical training. One is almost amazed at Dr. Hanley's virility, memory, power of imagination and not least his bubbling sense of humor. The staid folks of Brantford, not used to laughter in Church services will need to have patience and blame this to his ancestral relationship to the Emerald Isle. Humor in a Yankee-Irishman simply must find vent.

Dr. Hanley does not imitate Rev. W. A. Sunday. (Billy) They are friends; but both fight in their own armour. When the Evangelist sat down to-night after a most thrilling

"Her Money Troubles"

They get more vexatious as the cost of foods climbs skyward. Meat, eggs and vegetables are almost beyond the family purse. Happy is the housewife who knows Shredded Wheat, its low cost and its high food value. A better balanced ration than meat or eggs and costs much less. Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits with milk or cream make a complete, perfect meal, supplying all the nutriment needed for a half day's work at a cost of a few cents. message or talk as he likes to call it, one could not feel even if they did not agree with all that he said, that you have listened to a man, not an imitation of one, but an honest, fearless soul possessed with an alert brain, gifted with oratorical ability and favored with a physique of very fine quality. "I suppose you weigh 125 lbs Dr. Hanley," said an interviewer. "I am 152 lbs" was his smiling reply. One wonders where he keeps it.

His address to 1500 people on "Stale Saints" in the afternoon was calculated to stir Christians who through unwatchfulness and sin have lost their spirituality. With terrific force he declared, "we've lost a lot of our power, because we are stale and do not realize it. We are broken through inactivity. God only gives His power to be used. When we do not use it we are like a lot of soldiers marking time with their feet, not going forward. Satan is a personality of whom the Evangelist has not a shadow of doubt, wants Christian people to become inert and sleepy. The spiritual snore of some churches could be heard; but true religion was as natural as a well-used muscle, or as real as a living stream. Another reason Christians were shorn of power was, they were super-critical of their pastors. Finding fault with the man of God often developed into positive slander, often causing broken-heartedness and a wrecked career. One pleasing feature of this service was the singing of W. S. Needon's melody "He Saves Me," by Mrs. Frank Leeming who rendered it with fine voice and well-chosen emphasis, and clear enunciation.

At seven o'clock Prof. Fisher with sunny face and silver toned voice had his full choir of several hundred voices sing "It Pays to Serve Jesus". The large building was packed and an overflow meeting was conducted by Rev. Emmett in Wellington Street church.

Song after song was joyfully taken up by the audience. Rev. J. W. Gordon of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church read responsively the 27th Psalm. Rev. Croft, Dr. Hanley's assistant, prayed briefly. Mr. Jones of this city, who promises to become an excellent tenor, sang tenderly Moody's favorite, "I Have a Saviour, Who's Pleading in Glory." Prof. Fisher called upon those in the audience at the back, sitting behind the last row of supports, to sing antiphonally in answer to the choir. It had a marvellous effect. The audience was touched. The music sounded as if it were off among the hills.

Rev. David Alexander of Emmanuel Baptist was called upon to read the scripture lesson from Matt. 27:11, 25.

Dr. Hanley then opened his talk as he likes to style his orations or sermons or whatever you wish to term them by a graphic description of Munkasky's "Christ Before Pilate," the subject on hand. In his own inimitable way he threw himself into this dramatic Bible scene. With burning eloquence and vivid imagination you saw the scene enacted before you.

Pilate was the product of his time. The roots of his life ran back into a sensuous and ignoble parentage, which poor Pilate never conquered. Like many modern politicians Pilate was a time-server, and a coward in heart. He knew the right, but did it not. Many great men had bowed before sin and gone down before its power; but great and small would all stand before the judgment seat of Christ, and it was the business of everyone to be ready for that tribunal. Meanwhile Christ was offered as Lord and Saviour, and the evangelist closed his powerful appeal by graphically telling the story of a Scottish shepherd, along with his dog, going out into the night to seek for a missing sheep. It was a fine preparation for the singing of "There Were Ninety and Nine" by Mrs. Secord, who more than excelled herself in the interpretation of this world-old melody, composed by Miss Elizabeth Clephane, in the land of Sir Walter Scott, and which Ira D. Sankey in the city of Edinburgh set to music in a moment of inspiration. Dr. Hanley quietly and reverently closed a memorable service by prayer.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA, GAS OR INDIGESTION

Each "Pape's Diapepsin" digests 3000 grains food, ending all stomach misery in five minutes.

Time it! Pape's diapepsin will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour gassy or out-of-order stomach surely within five minutes.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from your pharmacist a fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach was just there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large fifty-cent cases contain enough "Pape's Diapepsin" to keep the entire family free from stomach disorders and indigestion for many months. It belongs in your home.

The Passing of Miss Linscott

Miss Edith Mary Linscott, Secretary-treasurer of the Bradley Garretson Co. Limited, and youngest daughter of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Linscott of this city, passed away on Nov. 15th, 1917, after a short illness. The funeral services, which were largely attended, were held Saturday afternoon at "Seven Acres," the family residence, to Greenwood cemetery. An unusually large quantity of flowers were banked up around the casket, many of them sent from long distances, showing the loving esteem in which she was held. The Bellview Boy Scouts, in their uniforms, acted as flower bearers. The pall bearers were her four brothers, Messrs. Thomas H., Wesley W., Dr. Garretson and Dr. Bradley Linscott, and her cousin, Mr. Tom Linscott, and her nephew, Mr. Howard Edmondson. The services were conducted by the Rev. C. T. Logan, M.A., the pastor of the Colborne Street Methodist church, of which Miss Linscott was a life-long member, assisted by Rev. Dr. Henderson, the chairman of the Brantford district of the Methodist church. Rev. Llewellyn Brown, President of the Brantford Ministerial Alliance, and others, Mrs. Frank Leeming sang a beautiful and appropriate solo.

Mr. Logan, in graceful and sympathetic language, referred to the many good qualities of the departed, and comforted the hearts of the parents and mourning family.

Miss Linscott was of a retiring and modest disposition, who literally carried out the instructions of Jesus her Master. "Let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth." During the time her father, Dr. Linscott conducted Sunday evening services in the Bellview assembly hall, she was the pianist and choir leader, but besides she took great interest in the moral and religious welfare of the many big boys of the district, who used to gather around the services, but in the beginning could not be induced to come in. She invited them to spend an evening of song at her home each week, and the large drawing room was generally filled. Most of the young men were cigarette addicts, and with other bad habits. They began to attend the services, and most of them joined the choir. They all gave up their bad habits and became estimable young men, and so continue. They regard Miss Linscott as the one who led them to Christ and the Christian life. Most of them are now in France fighting for the great cause of righteous democracy. She corresponded with them regularly up to ten days before her passing away, and frequently sent them boxes of soldier comforts. The last thing she did before taken with the illness that carried her off, was to pack and ship ten Christmas boxes to her soldier-boys at the front. Through the effect of a serious illness when a babe, she had a delicate body, but her mind was strong and her will power invincible. She failed in nothing she undertook, and choosing a business life she developed unusual executive ability and a phenomenal grasp of details. She forgot nothing, and supervised a large office staff with skill.

When any members of the family were ill, she was the unselfish one who got up several times in the night to care for them. A tender-hearted, capable little nurse, a Christ-like Christian, an able business woman, considerate of everybody, generous to prodigality to the sick, the poor and the needy, she will be greatly missed in her home, in the community, and the business firm of which she was an official, but her good influence will go on forever.

The Courier extends its sympathy to Dr. and Mrs. Linscott and to the other members of the bereaved family.

Women's Institute

MOYLE TRANQUILITY INSTITUTE.

On Wednesday evening, November 14th, a most successful and interesting meeting of Moyle Tranquility Women's Institute was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Laine, Governor's road, when nearly seventy of the members and their friends, including gentlemen, enjoyed a program full of interest and a pleasant social time.

In the absence of the president the chair was taken by the second vice-president, Mrs. N. W. Clump. The meeting opened by singing "The Maple Leaf" and repeating the motto, "Be just and fear not; let all the ends thou aim'st at be thy country's, thy God's and truth's."

Business was then disposed of. Mrs. N. W. Clump was appointed delegate to the convention at the Technical School, Toronto.

Thirty Christmas boxes are being packed and sent to the soldier-boys of this district, who are serving their country in England and France.

It was the unanimous wish of the meeting that a letter be sent the president, Mrs. G. T. Wood, expressing sympathy in her recent illness, and bestowing upon her a tribute of gratitude for her unselfish and untiring work in connection with the management of the serving of lunches and dinners at the plowing match, which resulted in such a splendid achievement for the Red Cross.

It was decided that the institute purchase a gramophone and records and present it to Nursing Sister Agnes Craddock, one from this district who is helping to bring comfort and cheer to our wounded heroes in the new Canadian hospital at Basingstoke, Hants. As there are seventy-five beds in Miss Craddock's ward, much enjoyment will be derived from this gift.

The convener of socks reported thirty-six pairs having been sent to headquarters this month.

A delightful program then followed, vocal solos being given by Miss Sinclair and Mr. McCammon, accompanied by Miss Begg, all of Paris, and a reading by Miss Rosalind Sharp. A talk full of intense interest to everyone was that given by Nursing Sister Florence Nichols on her work in the hospitals behind the lines in France. Amid all the sadness and suffering of those having loved ones at the front must come a gleam of comfort to know that gentle influences, such as hers, are exerted so close to No Man's Land.

A hearty vote of thanks was given the host and hostess for their kind hospitality, and after refreshments were served the meeting was brought to a close by singing "God Save the King."

The Sealed Valley

By HULBERT FOOTNER

Author of "Jack Cheney"

 "I have a map of North Carolina that Father Ambrose, the missionary made," said Stack. "Do you know it?"

"I have a copy," said Ralph. "I was looking at it last night." Stack went on. "I found Gisborne Portage and Hat Lake. That little lake seems to be one of the sources of the great Spirit River. I wonder if it's possible to follow all those little lakes and rivers to the main stream?"

"You'll have to ask somebody more experienced than I," said Ralph.

He was an indifferent dissembler. The note of evasion was not lost on the little man. He passed to something else.

Later they were talking about rapids. "A fellow in town told me that the worst rapids in the North were in the Rice River," said Stack. "He said it was white water all the way from the mouth of the Pony to the forks of the Spirit."

Ralph was caught off his guard. "A lot he knew about it!" he said. "It's smooth going all the way."

He had no sooner said it than he regretted the slip. Looking sideways at the little man he was reassured by the innocence of his expression. Stack started to talk about other things.

Thus during the four days of the stage trip, and the day and a half on the steamboat, Stack collected his tiny scraps of information and stored them away without arousing Ralph's suspicions.

Thrown upon each other as they were during the whole time, Stack managed to create and maintain a certain fiction of intimacy between them. But as they drew close to Fort Edward he was disappointed with the net results.

Of real intimacy there was none. It was clear to any one who watched him that Ralph had a secret. When he was off his guard he could not keep his eyes from turning north, nor keep the shine of his hidden fire from showing in them.

Stack naturally thought it was gold that induced the shine. In his own way the little man was clever, but hardly clever enough to distinguish between the dazzle of gold and the dazzle of love in a young man's eyes. He laid himself out to win Ralph's confidence seeking to tempt him with more or less apocryphal confidences of his own.

Ralph was never moved to open his heart in return. A resentful look began to show in the mouse-colored eyes when Ralph's head was turned away.

Ralph was a little surprised to find Fort Edward unchanged. The raw packing-case still rose from among the little soap-boxes; the mud was still undried; the stumps undrawn; and the little Tressbury lay with her nose tucked in the bank. True, he had been gone only a month, but such changes had taken place in him that it seemed unreasonable to find everything going on as before.

The "boys" were all waiting on the bank, of course. Ralph a little dreaded the ordeal that awaited him. It is difficult to guard a secret in the wide and empty North where men have a little to talk about. When he was seen from the shore shouts of surprise and welcome were raised.

The mere fact that he was returning from the south when he had gone north betrayed the length of the journey he had taken.

Stack, hearing the welcome, brightened somewhat. It would not be difficult to learn something about one who was so well known, he thought.

Ralph was carried off to Maroney's, Little Stack, clinging to him like a burr. There, all lined up before the pine shelf, the questions began. "Well, Doc, give an account of yourself!"

"Gentlemen!" began Ralph with an air of portentous gravity. "An astonishing adventure happened to me! I woke up in Joe Mixer's shack that morning with a dark brown one's whiskey, and I went for a walk up the river to cool my head."

"As I was standing there admiring the view I heard a buzzing like a sixty horse power dumble-bee over my head, and I'm darned if one of those aeroplanes that you've all heard about didn't come down and light in the grass beside me like a crane. 'Surprised!'

"You could have laid me out with a rabbit's foot! The fellow aboard it, he was nervous too. Seems he had only a quart of gasoline left, and he'd far from home. He asked me where he could get some more country. 'Maroney buys it all up,' said I, to put in his whiskey."

Ralph paused to let the laughter spend itself.

"The fellow was in a great taking then," he went on. "Didn't know what to do. Suddenly I remembered about Tar Island up the river. I said, 'There's a place ten miles from here where they say that petroleum oozes right out on the ground.' 'Couldn't we gather it up and refine some gasoline?' 'You're on, rat-foe,' said he; 'climb aboard.' Say, we made Tar Island in five minutes, but I was deaf the rest of the day with the wind in my ears."

"It was a slow job, you understand, because we hadn't anything but a tin pail and a whiskey-bottle and a strip of birch-bark to make a distillery out of. We were there three weeks, and then we had him tacked up, and he flew South and dropped me off at Kimowin. That's all."

This tale, which was in the style of humor most admired at Maroney's, made a decided hit.

Maroney himself conceded that the next found was on him. In every gathering of men it is tacitly understood that a man has a right to keep his affairs to himself—provided he can also keep his temper. When they saw that Ralph did not mean to tell where he had been they let him alone.

Little Stack bit his lip in his disappointment.

Stack had not been in the bar five minutes before the batteries of wit were turned on him. "The stiff tangle of his mouse-colored hair procured him the name of 'Haystack' and 'Jack-Straw.'"

Later Dan Keach carried Ralph away to his office.

This was more difficult for Ralph because Dan as his friend had a claim on his confidence. Ralph had a story ready to tell him, but first he had to find out how far it would coincide with the Port gossip.

Joe Mixer knew where he had gone; Joe had probably told the steamboat men, who would bring it back with them. Still, to his surprise and relief, no one in the bar had offered to chat him about any half-breed girl.

"What do they say about me?" he asked Dan.

"Nothing," said Dan. "You simply disappeared from Gisborne portages. They say Joe Mixer knows where you went, but he won't tell."

Ralph's conscience reproached him for the story he was about to tell, but there was no help for it.

"There's no secret about it," he said carelessly. "I met some Indians going up the Campbell, and they took me along with them. I staked out a point on the river, a beautiful place, and just off the proposed line of the railway. I went on up the river to Cheval Noir Pass, and went over the new line. While I was outside I filed my claim, and now I have to go back and clear a part of the land and build a shack to fulfill the conditions."

"Is that the story you want to have circulated?" Dan asked, with the suspicion of a whimsical twinkle. "Just as you like," said Ralph stiffly.

They returned to Maroney's for supper. Entering the dining-room they saw that there were only two vacant places remaining at the general table.

As Ralph put his hand on his chair to draw it out the fat back on his left was turned, and he found himself looking into the leering, swollen face of Joe Mixer. He waited, stiffening.

Joe sprang up. "Hellow, doc!" he cried joyfully. "Welcome home! Just dropped down on a raft myself. They tell me you been having grand adventures. 'Sit down and tell us!'"

Ralph was obliged to shake the detestable hand or precipitate a conflict on the spot.

The meal proceeded without further incident. It was not an observant crowd, and only one pair of sharp eyes across the table marked Ralph's stiffness, and perceived the painful glitter in Joe's little eyes when he thought himself unobserved.

Stack patiently bided his time. Later in the evening Ralph and Dan went away together to Ralph's shack. Stack maneuvered until he succeeded in getting Joe a little way from the others.

"I got a bottle of outside whiskey up in my room," Stack whispered. "Come on up and have a touch."

"Outside whiskey" was worth five dollars a bottle at Fort Edward. "Sure!" said Joe brightening, and wiping his mouth on the back of his hand in anticipation. "Keep it quiet," he said. "There ain't enough in one bottle for the crowd."

They sat with the bottle between them. Stack played the role of the humble seeker after information about the country until he thought Joe had had enough to render him incautious.

Finally he said carelessly: "Seems to be something more in this trip of the doctor's than he wants to let on. It had an electrical effect on Joe. His breath hissed through his teeth. His face purpled.

"You're right, there's something more!" he cried savagely, with an oath. "There's a woman behind it!"

"So," said Stack, remembering the emerald pendant. "He took her from me by a low trick!" Joe went on. "By playing the snivelling preacher, blast him! They went away together a month ago. I'll pay him out if it takes the rest of my life!"

"I've got a boat in his baggage," said Stack softly, tilting both glasses again. "Maybe he's on his way back to her now."

"Sure he's going back to her!" said Joe—adding with drunken mystification: "I'm just waiting for him to start!"

Stack bethought himself how he could learn more.

COL. HAPPY COCKSHUTT SQUARED PAINS IN SIDE AND BACK

(Continue from Page One.) Fought His Fight. "They may apply," he declared; "I have them with me all the time. I started in life at $2.50 per week, and I have worked ever since, for 35 years, in the same factory. I have fought my fight, and I have had my dark and blue days, but I put my hand to the plough and never turned back, and I am here to play the game and to play it fair, and I ask you to help me, to take me forward to victory. If there is one lot of people another, is the Indian, who have everywhere promised me their support."

The 215th. Col. Cockshutt reviewed his efforts during the war; he had entered into patriotic work from the first week of the struggle, had become president of the Brant Recruiting League; he had organized and raised the 215th battalion, and had gone through with it as far as possible; nearly 1,500 men had been raised for the battalion, but so many had been found physically unfit that the strength of the 215th battalion to England was not forgotten in France and England; the speaker personally had seen Christmas remembrances to every man of the unit, and the Ladies' Auxiliary had done likewise. His only regret was that he had not been able to see the thing through with them, but being a civilian, and not by experience a practical soldier, he had been compelled to stay behind, where he might do more good by carrying a share of Canada's burdens at home. "But the men of the 215th Battalion, I have often remembered, looked after me, and will continue so, so long as I am here."

Col. Cockshutt dwelt upon the seriousness of the present situation, every man should be an individual citizen; deploring the attitude taken by Sir Wilfrid Laurier upon the conscription issue, he appealed to all to drop their feelings, to contribute to the war effort. The women of Canada were setting a notable example of devotion and loyalty to the other sex. His Pledge. "I accepted the nomination for this riding with a great deal of hesitancy," declared the speaker. "It was urged upon me, until I finally consented. The field was then empty. I have tried to settle the difficulties which have arisen, but I have eliminated myself, I even resigned in favor of a fusion candidate. But such an effort has failed, and I tell you, ladies and gentlemen, I am not of a retiring nature; there is nothing further from my thoughts at the present time than dropping out of the fight, which it has been rumored that I will do. I am going to see the campaign through, and I trust to head the polls on Dec. 17. I will do the best I can, I will serve you to the utmost of my ability. I will act according to the dictates of my conscience, and I will do what I think right. I will vote for what appears to me the proper measures to bring about victory. Will you help me?" "Yes, yes," replied numerous voices from the benches.

Col. Cockshutt went on to paint a forcible picture of the hardships endured at the front, with no comforts, leading only the roughest kind of life. They had been there, many of them, since the first of the war, and he at home must do what he could to reinforce them, and to cheer the men of the holiday they deserved. "They are fighting for us," declared Col. Cockshutt, "and here at home we cannot understand what they are going through. We are sitting idly by, or are we going to give them the help they ask for, the help they need? Let us send not men alone, but money supplies, everything we can lay our hands on. We must be won, we must have an absolute victory, and a peace strong enough to prevent future wars such as this one; we must stand up to our duty, and have history record how the men and women of this era stood forward for the cause of liberty. "We cannot, we never will, appreciate the thing which is being done for us over there. The mother country is straining, and we, her children, are called upon for aid. Canada is the greatest of her colonies, and we may well be proud of our nation within an empire, we may well hold up our heads and say that we will help the Mother country with the last drop of our blood and with our last cent."

Situation Grave. "I speak to you from the heart, ladies and gentlemen, when I say that the cause for which we are fighting is the cause of liberty and justice, and that we must not falter, but must go on to the end. And that I think, it is enough to make our hearts grow sick, as we read of Russia, shattered and disintegrated by internal strife; of Italy, overrun by the enemy, betrayed to a large extent by her traitors; of France, the French and the British are rushing aid to their ally, and God grant that they may drive back these barbarians, and lash them with the scourge which they deserve; that they may carry the disgrace of a dishonored nation, which has broken its word, which has ridden rough shod over the small nations of Europe, and has sought to chain the world down to slavery under Prussian militarism. "Canada had done much, the speaker continued, but much more must be done. He expressed the hope that the union government might steer a course which would go down in his-

Burlington, Wis.—"I was very irregular, and had pains in my side and back, but after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and using two bottles of the Sensitive Yeast I am fully cured of these troubles, and feel better all over. I know your remedies have done me a world of good and I hope every suffering woman will give them a trial."—Mrs. ANNA KELLY, 710 Chestnut Street, Burlington, Wis.

The many convincing testimonials constantly published in the newspapers ought to be proof enough to women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine they need. This good old root and herb remedy has proved unequalled for these dreadful ills; it contains what is needed to restore woman's health and strength. If there is any peculiarity in your case requiring special advice, write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., for free advice.

Germany is Transferring Large Forces, Plans Offensive Elsewhere. RUSSIAN SITUATION. Kerensky Reported Loyalist Army Luga. By Courier Leased Wire. Copenhagen, Nov. 20. From several sources in the north of the assumption of advantage of the German front, the German Government making heavy transfers from the Russian front. It is reported that the front is too narrow, the use of great numbers of troops, a blow by von Hindenburg other points in the position, may perhaps be a serious matter. Some troops are reported to have been moved to the western front, this is not necessarily a sign of a retreat. It is necessary to frequent exhausted German divisions and newspapers discuss the prospect of an offensive on the Italian front, but have never said about the obvious smashing blow at Ronsard. The German army had been in the Italian front, but have never said about the obvious smashing blow at Ronsard.
