On motion it was decided that one half of the amount of $50.00 received from Mr. Charles Pickford, of Grand Pre, for the services of the Fire Co. at his recent fire be donated to the firemen.

The Town Manager was instructed to provide such additional street lighting during the visit of the Odd Fellows next week as he may deem necessary.

A leave of absence during the month of August was granted to Town Clerk Ford, his place to be filled during his absence by Mr. Albert Corey.

In the matter of the request of Porter Bros. to have the sidewalk extended in front of their premises on Main street, which was referred to the Streets Committee at a previous meeting, the Committee stated that they were not yet prepared to report. Additional time was given to the committee, with the understanding that a special meeting of the Council would be held when the report was ready.

The Town Manager reported to the Council that Mr. C. C. Hancock was desirous of making addition to his building within the brick district, and asked permission. It was decided that Mr. Hancock be asked to submit plans and that the Manager use his discretion in the matter.

GASPEREAU

Mrs. Minnie Coldwell, of Boston, is visiting her brother, Mr. William Eagles.

Rev. J. D. Spidell, pastor of the Liverpool Baptist church, occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church here at the morning and evening services on Sunday last. Mr. Spidell, who was a former pastor here needs no introduction. He and his daughter, Mrs. R. L. Eaton, of Kentville, sang together at the morning service and Mrs. Eaton gave a solo at the evening service which was very much appreciated.

Many will be pleased to learn that the Misses Dorothy Schofield, Marion Coldwell, and Madeline Davis were successful in obtaining their "B" certificates.

Work has now begun on a new cement bridge. A road has been made through the river for teams and cars.

The Women's Institute meets in the church vestry on Thursday afternoon of next week. Roll-call response being a quotation.

Miss Sadie Redden, of Kentville, spent a few days of this week with the Misses Dorothy and Hilda Schofield.

Rev. D. B. Hemmeon spent Sunday at Annapolis Royal, he having exchanged pulpits for the day with Rev. M. H. McIntosh, who delivered two helpful sermons at St. Andrew's United church.

INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

On the return trip from Chester via Halifax on Sunday afternoon last Mr. H. E. Fraser, of this town, met with a serious accident. When two miles east of Hubbard his car became unmanageable and went into the ditch. In attempting to get back to the road it became overturned.

Mrs. Fraser, who was one of the passengers, met with serious hurt, breaking a leg and sustaining other injury, as did her sister, Mrs. Hughes, of Avonport, who was also in the car. Both ladies were taken to the Victoria General Hospital at Halifax and at last report were progressing favourably. Mr. Fraser and two children were unhurt.

TOLLS HOW LONG HUBBYSHOULD LAST

"A husband should last as long as love lasts," says beautiful Peggy Hopkins Joyce, star in her own right of two matrimonial adventures and heroine of many affairs de amour.

Just how long one does last is told in the most humorous manner in "Her Temporary Husband", a First National picture which opens at the Orpheum Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

Owen Moore, Sidney Chaplin and Sylvia Brenner will be seen in the starring parts, while such prominent players as Chuck Reisner and Charles Gerrard are in supporting parts.

The picture was directed by John McDermott and is an adaptation of Edward Paulton's Broadway stage success by the same name.

It's getting to be a regular custom now when orders come in from the West for a P. S. to be added, asking for some of Moir's Cake to be included in the carload lot of chocolates. A car for Vancouver leaving tomorrow is an example.

When a jam of logs was removed at the Millview Factory, Bedford Basin, an ardent angler on the staff was successful in capturing more than a dozen salmon.

ODD FELLOW'S CONVENTION

Large Attendance of Members in Session at Wolfville This Week

This is Odd Fellows' week in Wolfville. Delegates are here from the Subordinate Lodges, Rebekah Lodges, and Subordinate Encampments in the provinces of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, and the Dominion of Newfoundland, attending the annual sessions of the Grand Lodge, I.O.O.F., of the Maritime Provinces of Canada, the Rebekah Assembly and the Grand Encampment.

The number in attendance is somewhere between five and six hundred, about 350 being entertained in the buildings of Acadia University and the remainder in boarding houses, private families and hotels.

While weather conditions have been slightly disappointing to the visitors and those who have had the arrangements in charge the generous showers have greatly benefited the crop and refreshed the country after weeks of continuous drought.

The various business places in town have been tastefully decorated in honor of the Grand Lodge session, the colors of the order being generously displayed in every direction.

The local reception committee, headed by D. G. Whidden, are L. B. Fielding, J. D. Harris, A. C. Cox, Allen Harris, G. H. Ruffee, and H. Harris.

PLAY-OFF SERIES ARRANGED

Six Teams Will Compete for Championship of Province

At a meeting of the Nova Scotia Baseball Association at Halifax on Monday evening it was decided that six teams, Dartmouth, Springhill, Liverpool, Wolfville, Westville and Sydney, will participate in the play-off series for the amateur baseball championship of the Province. Representatives were present from all the teams interested with the exception of Liverpool, and the meeting proved to be the most enthusiastic ever held by the Association, inasmuch that there were no lengthy disputes and everything went along harmoniously.

N. C. Ralston, President of the Association, was in the chair. Representatives included J. I. Marshall, Secretary of the Association; F. F. Barnstead, Dartmouth; Harry Slater, Springhill; Messrs. Oliver and Roy, Westville; Messrs. Davidson and Nowlan, Wolfville. Liverpool not represented.

The application of Sydney, winners of the Cape Breton Amateur League, to participate in the Provincial play-off series was received and accepted without any opposition on the part of the other teams interested. The application was accepted subject to certain conditions, first among which was that the Sydney Club pay the necessary entrance fee to the Association; second, that all players participating in the series have played with the team previous to July 1, this to be vouched for by the President of the Sydney Club.

The following schedule of games was then drawn up:

- Western Section
- August 13—Liverpool vs. Liverpool at Wolfville.
  - August 20—Liverpool vs. Wolfville at Liverpool.
  - August 21—Liverpool vs. Wolfville at Liverpool, if necessary.
- Central Section
- August 16—Springhill vs. Dartmouth at Springhill.
  - August 20—Dartmouth vs. Springhill at Dartmouth.
  - August 21—Dartmouth vs. Springhill at Dartmouth, if necessary.
- Eastern Section
- Westville vs. Sydney—Three game series to be completed by August 28.
- Semi-Finals
- August 27, Sept. 3 and 4—Winners of Western Section play winners of Central Section. Central Section team home club first game.
- Finals
- Sept. 10 and 17—Winners of Western and Central vs. Eastern Section. Eastern Section to be home club first game.
  - The umpires for the play-off games are to be agreed upon by the teams participating in the games.

Rebekah Assembly

The Rebekah Assembly was instituted at Lunenburg, N.S., August 13, 1903. Mrs. Minnie B. Robinson, of St. Stephen, N.B., being the first President.

Jurisdiction

Originally the jurisdiction embraced the three provinces, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, but in 1907 legislation was enacted in Grand Lodge providing subject to approval of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, for the affiliation of Atlantic Lodge, No. 1, St. John's, Nfld., and any lodge or lodges which might afterwards be instituted on the island, if they so desired; and in 1910 Atlantic Lodge, No. 1, and Exploits Lodge, No. 2, which had subsequently been instituted, were transferred to this jurisdiction, and the whole island was transferred.

In 1900 the title of the Grand Lodge was changed to the Grand Lodge of the Maritime Provinces, coming into effect January 1st, 1901. Before this, from 1892, there had been a confederation in the name of the jurisdiction, for while the Grand Lodge was "of the Lower Provinces of British North America" the Grand Encampment was "of the Maritime Provinces of Canada".

Opening Sessions

The trustees of the Maritime Odd Fellows' Home held the annual meeting of the Board in Seminary chapel at 2.30 Monday afternoon, all trustees being present except Mr. C. H. Black. The reports of the President, Sec'y-Treas., Superintendent and Physician were presented in printed form, adopted and referred to the Grand Lodge.

At this meeting it was decided to recommend to the Grand Lodge that an expenditure be authorized of a sum not to exceed $35,000.00 for the building of an extension to the Home. By-laws as previously amended by the suggestion of the Board were submitted by the President, adopted and sent to Grand Lodge for adoption.

Grand Lodge was asked to authorize the trustees to make arrangements whereby summer cottage sites and camping rights might be leased by lodges and members of the Order.

A resolution was adopted asking Grand Lodge to enact legislation providing for the payment to Grand Lodge of five dollars, by the lodges, for every member initiated after the first of January following such enactment.

A levy of seventy-five cents per capita, for maintenance of the Home, was asked for the ensuing year.

The Rebekah Assembly met in special session Monday evening at eight o'clock in the Gymnasium and conferred the Assembly degree on eighty-three new delegates.

The Rebekah Assembly opened its regular annual session at 9.30 a.m. Tuesday, Mrs. Agnes Davis, of Halifax, President, presiding, and all other officers present.

The Secretary, Mrs. Harrington, presented a very creditable report in which the Rebekah Lodge membership in the jurisdiction is shown to be 2,835 brothers and 7,392 sisters, a total of 10,227.

Miss Margaret B. Peabody, President, Mrs. Agnes Davis, of Halifax, President, presiding, and all other officers present.

At the afternoon session officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President—Mrs. Elizabeth Matatall, of Truro; Vice-President—Miss Ethel Johnston, of St. Stephen, N.B.; Grand Warden—Mrs. Laura Cross, of Kentville; Sec'y—Mrs. Mary Harrington, of Bridgewater; Treasurer—Mrs. Jamie Mac Gowan, Moncton, N.B.

The attendance at the Grand Encampment was not so large as usual, but all the officers were present. Twenty-seven candidates were presented for the Grand Encampment Degree. Grand Patriarch McKay, of Stellarton, extended a welcome to the visitors. Responses were made by Past Grand Patriarch Miller, Grand Master McKay, Grand Warden Barnaby and Dr. Peabody, Past Grand Master of the State of Maine.

Several resolutions were passed at this meeting. The first was in regard to deceased members. A committee consisting of Patriarchs Bazanson, of Sydney, and Mills, of Truro, was appointed to incorporate the resolutions in the "Annual".

A resolution dealing with a juvenile branch, endorsing the actions of the representatives at last year's Grand Lodge was passed.

The committee on the proposed hospital provision in connection with the Oddfellows' Home in Pictou, recommended necessary equipment in the Home and the installation of one hundred radio sets for the inmates.

The latter proposition was favorably received and the former was referred back on the suggestion of Dr. F. L. Walker, of Halifax, who recommended an arrangement with Pictou County Hospital, the cost to be borne by the Grand Encampment. This is very likely to be adopted. The Encampment then adjourned.

The afternoon session of the Grand Encampment opened with a report of the standing committees. These were received and adopted. A special committee on obituary reports of the death of ten members during the past year was adopted. The special committee on hospital promotion recommended deferring the matter. It adopted a clause to purchase radio sets for the home at Pictou to cost $250. The election of officers followed.

G. W. Boyce, of Halifax, was elected Grand Patriarch. The other officers are Grand High Priest, J. W. Warner, Goldboro; Grand Senior Warden, Amos H. Conway, Stellarton; Grand Scribe, Melville McKean, P.G.R., Pictou; Grand Treasurer, Charles A. Sampson, Fredericton; Grand Junior Warden, G. H. Love, Lunenburg; Grand Marshal, John Boutiller, Stellarton; Grand Sentinel, C. C. McLean, Glace Bay; Deputy Grand Sentinel, Eber Ingraham, Plaster Rock, N.B.; Grand Representative 1924-25, Jas. R. McDonald, P.G. McSherrbrooke; Grand Representative 1925-26, J. McLaughlin, Charlottetown; Past Grand Patriarch, Aubrey E. McKay, Stellarton.

The installation of these officers was immediately proceeded with. At the close of the installation, addressed were made by High Priest Warner, and other elected officers, also by a number of Past Grand Patriarchs. A vote of thanks to Patriarch Messervey for the assistance given the Grand Secretary was passed and responded to.

In the evening the Rebekah Degree was exemplified in the gymnasium by the Degree Staff of St. Eudora Rebekah Lodge, No. 43, of Berwick, N.S., there being three hundred and twenty-five delegates present, who were served with light refreshments by the Rebekah sisters and brothers of Wolfville. The work of the Degree Staff was of a very high order, and elicited great praise.

At 8.00 p.m. the Grand Lodge met in special session and conferred the Grand Lodge degree on 95 new members. At 9.30 p.m. a degree staff from Pesaquid Lodge, No. 38, of Windsor, N.S., conferred the Initiatory Degree upon a candidate, for Orpheus Lodge, the work being put on in Harris' hall to give room for the large number of Odd Fellows who wished to witness it, and who were very strong in their praise of the work done.

Yesterday morning the Grand Lodge, I.O.O.F., of the Maritime Provinces of Canada, opened in regular annual session, all the officers being present except the Grand Marshal; ninety-five lodges answered the roll-call, and delegates from several other lodges entered later on.

WOLFVILLE LOSES TO LIVERPOOL

South Shore Champions Win Close Contest—Score 4 to 3.

Wolfville lost the first game in the semi-finals for the provincial baseball championship when they went down to defeat yesterday before the Liverpool boys, champions of the South Shore, the score being 4 to 3. On account of the rain the game was postponed from 1.30 to 5.45, when a good sized crowd turned out to witness the contest. In spite of the wet field a splendid brand of ball was played and both teams put up a game fight. Only seven innings were played.

From the outset it was seen that the teams were evenly matched, and the score at the end of the fifth inning was 1 to 0, in favor of the home team. Munro struck out five men and allowed only two hits. These came in the sixth inning and coupled with a walk and several errors allowed the visitors to score their four runs. During the other innings the locals played fine ball and deserved to win. Munro was given excellent support by the other members of the team and some splendid catches were made in the field.

Chandler pitched for Liverpool, striking out four men and allowing eight hits, and was also given great support by his team mates. Next Wednesday a return match will be played at Liverpool, which should be another close contest. If the locals will steady down they should win this game. They have had very little practice during the past few weeks and it showed in yesterday's game.

The teams lined up as follows:

Liverpool—Winnis, 3b; Feoner, cf; Jodrey, rf; Thirben, 1b; Boyd, 2b; A. R. Winters, c; Mullah, lf; Chandler, p; N. Winters, ss.

Wolfville—Bartaux, ss; Kenney, 2b; Woodworth, cf; Leighton, 3b; Murray, 1b; Elderkin, rf; C. Munro, c; Dick, lf; D. Munro, p.

AN HONORED SON AND DAUGHTER OF ACADEIA

Dr. Edward D. Ferris and Mrs. Ferris, of Brooklyn, N.Y., accompanied by his sister Mrs. W. F. Barnhill and her daughter Miss Mary Barnhill, R.N., motored from St. John, N.B., and were guests of Rev. C. H. Martell and Mrs. Martell, Tuesday night of this week.

Dr. Ferris was born in Fairville, N. B., and received his education at Horton Collegiate Academy and Acadia University. From thence he entered the Medical School in New York University and graduated April 1, 1893. He then went to the Norwegian Hospital at Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, N.Y., at that time a small frame building which cared for about 55 patients.

After serving as interne eighteen months he became assistant surgeon, and in a short time, the attending surgeon. During his over thirty years of service in this Hospital, Dr. Ferris has thrown every ounce of energy into the task of making the Norwegian Hospital an institution which has no peer in the care of the sick, and his surgical skill has won for him the reputation of being one of the best surgeons in Greater New York.

He is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons, a member of the Medical Society of Kings County, the Medical Society of Greater New York, the Brooklyn Surgical Society, and the Bay Ridge Medical Society. The latest honor conferred on Dr. Ferris is his election of an honorary membership in the Norwegian Hospital Corporation in recognition of his untiring service in that institution. Several years ago Dr. Ferris gave up his general practice, except his care for a few old friends, in order to devote all his time to surgery.

Mrs. Ferris, better known to old friends as Miss Minnie Long, graduated from Acadia Seminary in 1887, and is a worthy co-worker with her distinguished husband.

Miss Barnhill, R.N., spent over three years in France nursing sick and wounded Canadian soldiers, and now is in charge of the Military Hospital, St. John, N.B.

Among distinguished Odd Fellows in attendance at the Grand Lodge meeting are two who were present at the former session held here in the year 1881. These are Mr. Charles A. Sampson, P.G.M., P.G.R., of Fredericton, N.B., and Mr. James R. MacDonald, P.G.M., P.G.R., of Sherbrooke, Guysboro county, N.S. Both these gentlemen have pleasant recollections of their former visit to our town, and have seen great progress made by the Order since those days. The former is accompanied by his daughter, Miss Sampson, who for some years back has attended similar gatherings.

REV. G. W. WHITMAN

Deputy Grand Master, I.O.O.F.

The death of Dr. Carl A. Shaw occurred suddenly on August 9th at St. Kitt's, B.W.I., where he had been practising his profession for some time. Dr. Shaw was a son of the late Isaac Shaw, of Berwick, and was for some time a student at Acadia University. He had a distinguished career in Medicine, having for the most part made his home in the West Indies. For a time he was a resident in Wolfville and he also lived at Canning and in Halifax. A few weeks ago he was in Wolfville and in company with Mr. and Mrs. Phinney made a trip to the Milford Lakes at which time he was in good health although earlier in the season he had been unwell. He was an interesting companion and his death is learned of with sincere regret. He is survived by two brothers, Prof. Harlan Shaw, of Bridgewater, Mass., and Rev. Avery Shaw, D.D., of Brooklyn, N.Y.

All the officers were present. Twenty-seven candidates were presented for the Grand Encampment Degree. Grand Patriarch McKay, of Stellarton, extended a welcome to the visitors. ### ODD FELLOWS CONVENTION

For the second time in the history of Wolfville the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows for the Maritime Provinces is holding its annual session here this week. The former occasion of the Grand Lodge's meeting here was in August, 1881, forty-three years ago. THE ACADIAN is very glad to extend a warm welcome to the visiting Odd Fellows, to tender them the freedom of the town and a cordial invitation to inspect its various attractions and enjoy the privilege of a residence here, if only for a few days.

Since the former meeting of the Grand Lodge here the order has made wonderful progress throughout this as well as in other jurisdictions.

In the latter part of the eighteenth century there were organized in England lodges the members of which soon became known as "odd fellows". The movement became popular, and as each new lodge was about to be formed it became apparent that a head or grand lodge was needed from which charters would issue. In 1812 the lodges, or a number of them, united under the name of Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows, with headquarters in Manchester, Eng.

On the 26th of April, 1819, Washington Lodge, No. 1, was instituted in the city of Baltimore, by five who had been members of lodges in England, the leader in the movement being Thomas Wilkey. Soon other lodges were organized and the states of New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania had Independent Grand Lodges, and again a governing body was found necessary, which resulted in supreme powers being vested in the Past Grand of Washington Lodge. Then came the Grand Lodge of Maryland, and then of the United States, which later became known as the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. In 1827 Thomas Wilkey, by his personal efforts and at his own expense, succeeded in getting a charter of independence for American Odd Fellowship, and from that time there have been two distinct branches of Odd Fellowship—the Manchester Unity and the Independent Order. In 1850 a degree was authorized for the wives and daughters of scarlet degree members in good standing, and in 1868 Rebekah lodges were established.

Since 1827 the Manchester Unity and the Independent Order have both made rapid growth, developing into two large fraternal organizations. The latest statistics available are those published by the Sovereign Grand Lodge in 1923 up to Dec. 31, 1922, which show the condition of the Independent Order to be at that date as follows: 1 Sovereign Grand Lodge; 7 Quasi-Independent Grand Lodges (Australia, Denmark, Germany, Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland); 68 Grand Lodges; 16,829 Subordinate Lodges; 10,156 Rebekah Lodges; 1,938,476 Lodge members (male); 735,980 Rebekah Sisters; a total of 2,674,456 members.

In 1922 there was paid out for relief $7,708,132.85. From 1830 to Dec. 31, 1922, there was paid for relief $216,994,016.53.

Although the history of American Odd Fellowship begins with the institution of Washington Lodge, Baltimore, the files of the Acadian Recorder show that there were in Halifax two lodges of Odd Fellows, as far back as 1814, the names being Royal Wellington and Royal Benevolent Bon Accord.

GOVERNMENT OLD AGE PENSIONS

The federal government has under consideration a plan to establish old age pensions in Canada such as are now provided in England, New Zealand, Australia and certain other countries. A special committee has been looking into the matter, and at the recent session a report of their investigations was presented. This question has been before the house since the year 1907 but for various reasons no definite recommendations were made by any of the committees to which it has been submitted.

Recently a questionnaire was sent to one hundred and thirty-five mayors of cities and towns of every province and from information thus obtained, as well as from other sources, the report of the committee is made up. The recommendations contained are:

1. That an old age pension system be established at the earliest possible date for deserving indigent persons of seventy (70) years of age and upwards.
2. That applicants for pension must be British subjects of at least twenty (20) years' residence in Canada, or naturalized subjects of at least fifteen (15) years' naturalization and twenty-five (25) years' residence.
3. (a) That the maximum rate of pension be twenty ($20) dollars per month which will be lessened by private income or partial ability to earn.
- (b) That one-half the amount of pension payable be borne by the federal government; the other half, by the provincial governments of such provinces as express by legislation their desire to adopt the system—the cost of administration to be borne by the provincial governments.

It is estimated that under such a system as is suggested there would be approximately 98,840 eligible pensioners and that if all of these were to receive the maximum rate of pension, namely, twenty dollars per month, the federal government's portion of the total yearly expenditure would amount to $11,860,920. This amount, however, would be reduced by any private income or partial earnings.

The old age pension is a proposition that appeals to us as reasonable and proper, and deserving of public support. While the cost to the country would be considerable the expenditure would be well justified and the amount required might easily be realized through the cutting out of unnecessary governmental expenses alone.

REALIZE ITS WORTH

"The general business public seems at last alive to the worth of newspaper advertising," says an editorial in a current monthly. "If anything will aid in eliminating business depression, persistence in advertising will. The columns of the press are valuable when business is good, but they are indispensable when it begins to fall away. The rewards come to the merchants and manufacturers who persist in making the worth of their goods known."

The man who isn't willing to work to help himself, isn't worth helping and the man who prefers crime to honest labor deserves little mercy when he is caught.

SCOTTISH IMMIGRATION TO MARITIMES

A party of five Hebrideans who are touring the Maritime Provinces spying out the land in the interests of thousands of their countrymen who must leave the Islands to make a home elsewhere, are expected to visit the Annapolis Valley in the near future. The Maritime Provinces should have a far greater attraction for Scotch immigrants than the West, and if given a fair show there is little doubt but that conditions here would attract these people as citizens. It is true that former Hebrideans have passed us by, but no attempt was made to locate them here. What more natural than that these people finding in New Scotland so much that reminds them of the home land should select this province as the land of their adoption. We would suggest that nothing should be left undone that will cause them to be favourably impressed when they reach this region where the opportunity for fishing, lumbering, and mixed farming should appeal strongly to this most desirable class of settlers.

ADVERTISING AND CIRCULATION

Time was when the basis upon which a newspaper's value as an advertising medium was determined was the number of its circulation. Advertisers in those days paid at so much per thousand of the actual number of papers printed regardless of other conditions. This is now all changed. Advertising experts have found that it is often the case that a newspaper with a small circulation may prove to be more valuable to them than one with a very much greater number. The fact to be determined is which paper reaches the people that the advertisers seek to interest.

CALL KANSAS DRY AFTER 44 YEARS

And Kansans Proclaim That They Won't Consider Repeal or Modification.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 26.—"The Victory Message to the World" is the title of a circular being broadcast by several Kansas organizations and signed by widely known Kansans. It purports to set forth the Kansas view "after forty-four years of prohibition". The list of signers is headed by former Governor Henry J. Allen, Governor Jonathan M. Davis, Attorney General C. D. Griffith, William Allen White and Victor Murdock.

Kansas was the pioneer State in the United States to prohibit the liquor traffic by constitutional amendment, and it proclaims the success of this legislation "which forever barred intoxicating liquors from the State's boundary", the statement says.

"Today, more than four decades after the passage of the amendment, there is found throughout the State a well-developed temperance conscience, a strong disgust for intemperance," the circular continues. "Respect for the law, which in early years of prohibition was bought about by compulsion, now is voluntary. Each generation is further removed from an appetite for poisonous drink."

"When the Eighteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution closed all the distilleries and breweries of other States a few people in Kansas proceeded to equip themselves to produce what they wanted. The result was a new violator of the law—the manufacturer of home brew. Thereupon, Kansas proceeded to provide a law which penalized these violators."

"Kansas views on prohibition, summarized through the expressions of her peace officers, are: "No repeal or modification is needed, wanted, or considered. "Ease of enforcement grows with enforcement. "Official and private citizens are agreed that prohibition is the State's best business asset. "Many crimes that are committed in communities that tolerate liquor are absent from Kansas. "Conviction of violators is easier now than at any time in the past, due to the years of proof that intoxicating liquor is a commercial and social detriment to any community. "Many undesirable influences that attend liquor were banished from the State when liquor was banished. "Liquor sales are not even permitted in Kansas on doctors' prescriptions. "Liquor is an outlaw in Kansas. "Kansas is forty-four years removed from the thought of ever returning to the days of the saloon."

ONLY SURVIVING CHARTER MEMBER OF ORPHEUS LODGE NO. 31

The only one of the charter members of the original Orpheus Lodge No. 31 who survives and is a member of the present Orpheus No. 92 is Mr. George W. Abbott, one of the oldest and most highly esteemed residents of this town.

Mr. Abbott was born in Newfoundland, where his father, who was a sea captain, owned quite extensive shipping interests. When the subject of this sketch was nine years old the family decided to remove to Halifax and with that end in view all their property was disposed of and passage was taken on a sailing boat for their future home.

When construction began on the old Windsor and Annapolis railway he joined the force and worked at pile-driving when the bridge across the creek here was built. He also worked on the bridge at Hortonville where he fell from the staging to the bed of the river a distance of forty-five feet.

He is an enthusiastic and well informed member of the order and has filled the office of Noble Grand five times. A charter member of the old lodge he was largely instrumental in bringing about its re-organization in 1904.

tion here and owned a fine equipment. Fire destroyed this building about the year 1884, when practically the only thing saved was a collar which one of the members happened to have taken home with him from the previous meeting.

Orpheus of today has a membership of 113, none of whom is more interested or faithful than the octogenarian subject of this article. Mr. Abbott was elected as one of the representatives of Orpheus Lodge at the Grand Lodge meeting which has been in session here this week.

A TRIP ON FOOT FROM AVONPORT TO MASSACHUSETTS

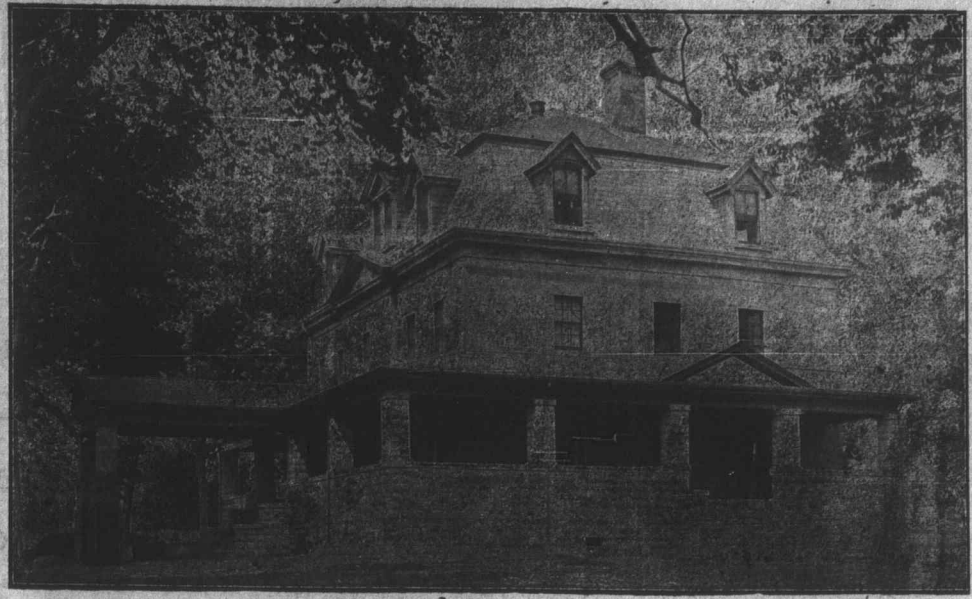

(From the Needham (Mass.) Chronicle) It is not every day that one reads of a young man "beating his way" a distance of approximately 700 miles, and yet that is what a Needham boy, Barton Wallace, 159 Hillside ave., has just succeeded in accomplishing in practically five days.

Mr. Wallace left Needham five weeks ago to spend a vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Wallace, at their home in Avonport, N. S., and who for a number of years resided at Eard's Corner, Needham Heights. While there he heard of a young man in a neighboring town who had just hiked and beaten his way from Washington, D. C., a distance of some 1200 miles. Much against the advice of his parents, Mr. Wallace decided to try to make Boston in the same way, and after a month on their 15 acre farm, started out on Tuesday morning, July 22nd, on foot for Boston.

On the 100 mile hike from Avonport to Digby, Mr. Wallace covered a large portion of the distance on foot, and was finally picked up by a man whom he stopped to assist with a blowout, and who was also on his way to Digby, with his wife and two small children. The boat, which leaves daily at 2.45, had been gone just three-quarters of an hour when they arrived there, and so it was not until the following day he crossed the Bay of Fundy into St. John, N. B. Hiking from there he was picked up and given a ride to Musquash, N. B., where he spent the night.

Early the next morning he walked 15 miles to New River, and while on the way to St. Stephens was picked up by two business men, on their way to the city who gave him a lift of about 80 miles. "That was pure luck," said Mr. Wallace. Arriving at St. Stephens about 4 o'clock, he walked and then crossed the bridge into Calais, Me., and reached Whiting, the next town with only an occasional ride, and spent the night there at the Whiting House.

The next morning, a few miles out from Whiting, he was given a ride in a car that was well loaded down with luggage, but, said Mr. Wallace, "I had some pretty bad blisters on my foot, and I certainly appreciated the offer." They carried him as far as Machias, and he walked through the town, and while on the road to Ellsworth, after walking about half way, was treated to some more "good luck". A party in a R. I. Ford, who were headed for the city, stopped and gladly took him along. From there, Mr. Wallace, desiring to see Bangor, took the Bangor road about 5 o'clock, and walked a little more than half the distance when he was picked up and given a ride into the city, where he spent the night at the Y. M. C. A.

After seeing the sights in Bangor, he started out for Portland, and here he had his "biggest stroke of luck", being picked up about 5 miles outside the city by two business men going to Augusta, Waterville, Pittsfield, Fairfield, and Portland, a distance of 130 miles, where, no rooms being available in the Y.M.C.A., he spent the night with a private family.

The next morning, Sunday, Mr. Wallace entered a restaurant and looking at the clock asked the proprietor if that was the correct time. On being assured that it was, he found that he had overslept, and instead of being on the road at 7 as he expected, he was eating his breakfast at 1 o'clock. From Portland he took the coast route into Old Orchard and spent several hours there, before starting on the road for Portsmouth, New Hampshire. With the exception of a few short rides, he covered the distance between Old Orchard and Portsmouth on foot, arriving there late in the evening. The next morning he started for Boston, and although he was picked up for several short distances between the towns from Portsmouth to Boston, he walked a large part of the way, and arrived in Boston in good time on Monday.

Mr. Wallace, talking to a Chronicle representative, said that he had not tried to make record time, he had just done it for adventure and the fun of it. "But," said Mr. Wallace, "I should never take such a long trip alone again, for the lonely stretches without a companion are lonely indeed. I am glad I did it, and even though it cost more than to come by boat or train, I have had the satisfaction of knowing that I succeeded in "beating my way" for 700 miles, and really enjoyed it."

Mrs. C. G. Newcombe, of Prospect street, is entertaining as her guest her sister, Miss Fanny Gilliat, of Portland, Maine, who motored here with the C. F. Cogswell's, of Winchester, Mass., they being guests of their daughter, Mrs. G. A. Chase, of Port Williams. The party arrived on the 5th, having come by the way of Aroostook, Maine, a wonderful time to see the far famed potato fields in full bloom. They report the roads in fine condition except where under construction, and will start on the return trip the 20th.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Prat returned this week from a short visit with friends in Annapolis county. Mr. Prat, who is now 88 years of age and remarkably active both in mind and body for one of his years, spent his early life in Bridgetown where he found but one surviving of the friends of his boyhood.

Among the visitors from the United States in Wolfville at present are Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Cross. Rev. Mr. Cross, who is rector of Trinity church, Elizabeth, N. J., is an Ontario man by birth, but has spent most of his adult life in the United States where he has held important pastorates in the state of Michigan. He will preach at the morning service at St. John's church next Sunday.

WOLFVILLE PLAYERS WIN AT TENNIS

The Nova Scotia Tennis Tournament is being played at Halifax this week and the following members of the Wolfville Club are taking part—Miss K. McLean, Miss D. Holmes, Dr. Leslie Eaton, Dr. Eugene Eaton, Dr. C. E. A. deWitt, Messrs. Austen Chute, Murray Beardsley and George Boggs. The opening matches were played on Monday when the only Wolfville player taking part was Murray Beardsley, who defeated E. Jubien, North Sydney, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2.

On Tuesday a number of matches were played and all the local members who took part were successful as follows:

Dr. E. Eaton defeated B. Freeman, Alexandra, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

Dr. L. Eaton defeated D. McDonald, Amherst, 6-2, 6-0.

Dr. deWitt defeated K. H. Butler, Waegwoltic, 6-0, 6-1.

Dr. L. Eaton and M. Beardsley defeated Dr. Stultz and A. Smith, Waegwoltic, 6-2, 6-2.

Dr. deWitt and Miss McLean defeated G. Hopson and Mrs. G. Dwyer, South End, 6-2, 6-3.

The rain interfered with the playing yesterday.

GASPEREAU WOMAN DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Mrs. Delight S. Coldwell passed away at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Fred M. Davidson, San Francisco, California, at the advanced age of 91 years, 9 months and 12 days.

Born in Gaspereau, N. S., Oct. 9, 1832, daughter of the late John Gertrude, she married James L. Coldwell April 14, 1853. He and Ebenezer Martin were drowned March 28, 1877, when their saw-mill was destroyed by a freshet.

She is survived by two sons, Owen of Los Gatos and Leverett of San Francisco, and two daughters, Mrs. S. A. Cameron, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Fred M. Davidson, with whom she made her home, also five grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

The funeral was held at Los Gatos, July 23. Interment, Los Gatos Cemetery.

intended more particularly for the younger folks of the vicinity, but effort will be made for the comfort of all those more elderly who have so long been regular attendants at the church. The first service was held Sunday last at Clear View with a much larger attendance than could have been expected on such short notice, the first announcement being made at the morning service. The out-door service consisted largely of song, the guests of Clear View splendidly assisting with musical features. A short address by the pastor on "Loyalty" outlined in an interesting and impressive manner for the younger folk Loyalty to truth and right, being the great outlying principle of Christianity. The service was very beautiful and greatly enjoyed. Some passing cars drew in, the occupants enjoying the service in a rather unique way.

WOLFVILLE CRICKETERS LOSE

A well contested cricket match was played between Wolfville and Kentville teams last Saturday, resulting in a win for the visitors, the score being 50 to 40. The home team, which was stiffened up by a few of the seniors including Mr. E. Robinson, M.P., and A. C. Cox, went first to the wickets and ran up a score of 40. McElhiney, a left hander, bowled very effectively for Kentville and also made a very large score. Robinson and Grant bowled for Wolfville and the fielding of the locals was excellent. D. Munro made some fine catches. The batting of the younger members of this eleven has made marked improvement, which showed itself in their score made against the veteran team from Kentville.

Hon. Frank Carvell, chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners of Canada, died suddenly at his home at Woodstock, N.B., on Saturday last.

Next Sunday we will be visited by over one hundred representatives of the Bankers Life Insurance Co. of Des Moines, Iowa, who will arrive in Halifax by special train from Quebec on Friday. On Sunday they will come by special train to Grand Pre and arrangements have been made to give them a drive through Wolfville and the surrounding country to Kentville, where they will entrain for Yarmouth.

Another party to visit the Valley next week will be over two hundred French Canadians from Quebec, who are leaving Montreal on Sunday for a tour of the Maritime Provinces. They are expected to visit Grand Pre on Wednesday morning.

Meaning of Course, George Melford's "Flaming Barriers"

Enough thrills for a full length serial are incorporated in the George Melford Paramount production of "Flaming Barriers" which comes to the Orpheum Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. Jacqueline Logan, Antonio Moreno and Walter Hiers are featured players and in the portrayal of their respective roles they accomplish death defying feats such as would put fearless circus performers to shame.

Miss Logan pilots an aeroplane over a flaming forest and drives a fire truck over a bridge enveloped by flames. Mr. Moreno has his hands full in quenching the fire as it licks its way toward a gasoline supply truck, throwing himself full length upon the flames with a soaked mattress, saving hundreds of lives of excursionists who are trapped by the conflagration. These and other thrills galore distinguish this production.

Kentville was en fete on Saturday last on the occasion of the visit of 200 or more representatives of the British navy from H. M. S. Hood, Repulse and Adelaide, now in port at Halifax. The town was gay with flags and the Kentville band was in attendance to render suitable music. A reception committee composed of Mayor Chesley and other citizens of both sexes welcomed the visitors who were taken on a motor trip to surrounding sections. Wolfville was not favored by being included as a place of call, although there is no doubt but the visitors would have enjoyed an inspection of our pretty town. At Starr's Point the party was greeted by Mr. Geo. H. Starr, who by strange coincidence proved to be a namesake of the chief of the company, Engineer Commander G. H. Starr, R.N. On exchange of greetings it developed that the antecedents of both gentlemen were from the same part of England, which added not a little to the pleasure of the meeting. At the Experimental farm a call was made and a program of sports was put on under the supervision of the G.W.V.A., and refreshments were served.

When the day is a broil and your mouth is parched, you're tired. That's a rule of nature, and it prescribes refreshment. And when you take a pleasant cooling drink of something good, you're suddenly on your toes again. Take nature's hint when you're thirsty. A nice cool drink of Tennant's Oxolia is exactly the prescription you need. At the first mouthful the fatigue will lift. It has the effect of a breath of fresh air, when you have been closed up all day. And it tastes so good. While waiting for your Luncheon or Dinner to get ready at

Seven Rules for Making Better Coffee. KEEP YOUR COFFEE FRESH. It loses strength and aroma when exposed to the air. Keep it in a tight container. MEASURE CAREFULLY. Measure the water as well as the Coffee. Use plenty of Coffee—at least two ounces to a quart of water. Guessing usually means a poor cup of Coffee. USE GROUNDS ONLY ONCE. Don't waste fresh Coffee by adding it to old grounds. Used Coffee grounds are of no more value in making Coffee than ashes in building a fire. BOIL THE WATER. Be sure it is boiling. Then pour over the Coffee. This makes the kind of Coffee which scientists have found to be the best. SERVE AT ONCE. Many a pot of perfect Coffee has been ruined by letting it cool. If you must delay serving, keep the Coffee piping hot until served, but don't boil. Re-cooking injures the flavor. SCOUR THE COFFEE-POT. It is not enough to give the pot a hurried rinse and set it away to dry. Clean carefully and let it dry each time it is used. Use "WOOD'S COFFEES". Selected from the best of the World's product for those who appreciate QUALITY. W. O. PULSIFER Phone 42

AUTOS TOOK TOLL OF 6,100 LIVES

Figures for First Half of 1924 Published by U. S. Chamber of Commerce

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Throughout the United States for the six months ended July 31 there were 8,100 persons killed by automobiles, statistics made public last night by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce show.

The report states, however, that 217 newspapers throughout the country show that a number of centres reduced their motor fatalities in June as compared with May. Among these are New York, Detroit, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Baltimore and Philadelphia.

The Chamber of Commerce's report cites efforts put forth in Connecticut against reckless driving. Robbins B. Stosckel, commissioner of motor vehicles in that state, is quoted: "Every conviction for reckless driving will result in suspension. The person convicted may then have to appear before the hearing officer of the motor vehicle department to get his license restored."

The report continues: "The actual number of motor fatalities reported by 217 newspapers and other sources was 680 for June and 2,918 for the first six months. These figures included all cities over 100,000 and additional communities, covering a total of 36 per cent. of the population.

"Assuring that the fatality rate was similar for communities not reporting the toll for the six months was approximately 8,100."

TRAVEL RECORD OF YARMOUTH PORT IS HIGHER THAN EVER

In July 13,242 Persons Passed Through Port, 9,228 of Whom Came Into Province

YARMOUTH, August 6.—Travel by the steamers North Land and Prince George between Yarmouth and Boston has so far eclipsed all previous years including to date, last year, which far exceeded any previous twelve months in the history of the line. For the month of July a total of 9,228 persons arrived in Yarmouth from Boston and 4,014 left this port for the United States, making a total of 13,242 persons to pass through this port. For July, 1923, there were 7,923 arrivals and 4,893 departures, or a total of 12,816, or about 426 less than the month just past, notwithstanding that the out travel of July, 1923, was 889 in excess of last month, while the inward for last month, was 1,305 over that of the July previous.

The transportation of autos between the two ports has also greatly increased, and for the month a total of 295 cars have been carried by the Boston-Yarmouth steamers. Of that number 196 entered this port from Boston and 99 were taken from here to Boston. A traveler who arrived in Yarmouth via the South Shore by auto from Halifax on Saturday stated that in all his many years experience on the road he never before saw so many cars from the United States and Upper Canada as he encountered on this trip.

August promises to be another heavy month, and yesterday morning the North Land arrived with 783 passengers on the list, which breaks all previous records. The ship also brought between decks fourteen autos, making a total of 28 for the four trips this month, while the inward passengers for these trips total 1,842.

Owing to the common use of the auto, few of the travellers stop at any one particular place for any great length of time, but they are continuously moving. Motor parties are to be found everywhere, and anywhere one meets them in conversation they all appear highly pleased with the good roads and delighted with the accommodation which the various hotels afford them, while the climate they proclaim as greatly invigorating.

There is a perpetual Sabbath on the earth. The Greeks observe Monday, the Persians Tuesday, the Assyrians Wednesday, the Egyptians Thursday, the Turks Friday, the Jews Saturday and Christians Sunday—sometimes.

A NEW SCHOOL HOUSE FOR HANTSPORT

For sometime past one of the most urgent needs of the town of Hantsport has been a new School house.

The present old building after many years of faithful service is constantly growing in a more dilapidated and unsanitary condition. The taxpayers at present are not able to take over the extra burden of building a school such as is the due of the youth of our town.

Realizing this the "Lambda Sigma" has volunteered, with the consent of the Town Council, to start a fund for this purpose. The campaign embraces different methods of raising the money, viz., by sales, entertainments, subscriptions, etc.

It is hoped that the loyal support of old scholars, who received their first start within the shelter of the old school, will materially aid in putting the drive for funds over. Other organizations are asked to follow the "Lambda Sigma" lead and join their energies and efforts towards the completion of the fund in order that the day will not be far distant when Hantsport will boast a school which will comfortably house its precious youth, and that they may spend their school life in such conditions and surroundings that their health (life's most valuable asset) will be protected.

The Town Council has guaranteed that all money subscribed for the purpose is to be placed in trust until such time as the fund warrants the building of the school.

WHITMAN-VEINOT

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday afternoon, August 5th, in St. Andrew's Episcopal church, the contracting parties being Robert Veinot and Marjorie Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Whitman, Hants Borden.

The bride, who looked the picture of girlish loveliness, gowned in white satin with overdress of cream tulle and lace, wearing the conventional veil and orange blossoms and carrying a bouquet of white carnations and maidenhair fern, entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March efficiently rendered by Mrs. F. A. Coffin, and took her place beside the groom beneath a beautiful arch composed of green foliage, roses, and sweet peas festooned with white ribbon from which was suspended a floral bell. The groom was supported by his brother Mr. G. Veinot, of Lunenburg, while Miss Kathleen Whitman, sister of the bride, looking very charmingly attired in a gown of yellow tulle lace over yellow satin with hat to match, acted as bridesmaid. Little Miss Helen Wood, cousin of the bride, dressed in pale blue crepe de chene, made a winsome flower girl.

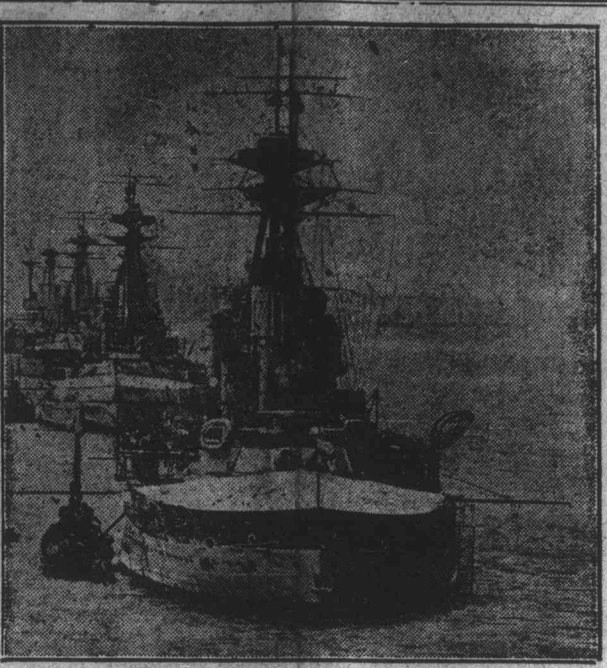

Dr. Judd, of Windsor, tied the nuptial knot, the beautiful and impressive ceremony of the Anglican church being used. A full choir rendered very impressively several marriage hymns. The ushers were Messrs. Grace Whitman, Mildred Fain, Evelyn McKinley, and Ethel Alley.

After the ceremony, the bridal party and guests repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was held and delicious refreshments were served. Amid showers of confetti and good wishes the happy couple left on the afternoon express for Halifax. The bride's going away gown was of gray flat crepe, with wrap and hat to correspond.

The out of town guests present were Mrs. Veinot, mother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. George Veinot, Lunenburg; Mrs. D. Fain, Mr. and Mrs. H. Fain, Annapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson, Halifax; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wood, Windsor. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts including silver, cut glass, china, linen, and cheques. We extend congratulations.

SEWING CIRCLE GOSSIP

There was some discussion at the Sewing Circle this week about the delights of a holiday trip to England. The wife of the Radio Operator, who has lived nearly all her life in Boston, said that she would like to go just to see what kind of coffee one gets over there. She had heard that they used the very finest quality at Buckingham Palace. The wife of the new Bank Manager stated that when her husband was in England, he did not find a coffee anywhere that tasted more delicious than LUXOR, which is the kind used in the homes of all Circle members at the present time.

SUNDAY AT THE CHURCHES

Rev. A. L. Tedford, of St. John, filled the pulpit of the Baptist church on Sunday. Mr. Tedford delivered a very forceful and practical address.

Rev. Dr. Johnson filled the appointments of the Rev. A. B. Higgins in the Methodist church on Sunday. At the evening service Mrs. M. Oulton was heard to great advantage in the rendition of the solo, "Nearer My God to Thee," by L. Carey.

Miss Mabelle Trask, contralto, of Boston, Mass., a former resident of Hantsport and daughter of the late Israel Trask, well known here, delighted the congregation of the Baptist church, which she attended as a little child and where her father and mother laboured faithfully for so many years, at both morning and evening services by the rendition of several choice selections. Miss Trask is gifted by nature with a voice of remarkable power, unusual range and rich quality, and sings with convincing authority and intelligence which is enhanced by a clear finished diction and broad artistic style, therefore pleasing the large and appreciative congregations. Miss Trask is touring Nova Scotia, visiting relatives in Yarmouth, Shelburne, and is at present a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Coffin of this town. She is much impressed with the advanced improvement made since residing here.

DIARY OF MARGARET D. MICHENER

Saturday afternoon, Sept. 8th, 1849. This has been a rainy day. Mr. Harris had his house raised today. I still have to walk with my knee on a chair. Monday Mrs. Dickie was in to see me, on Tuesday Mr. Dickie was in a while, then they returned to Cornwallis; he preached here twice on Sunday, but about two o'clock and I came home; it seems as if he can not rest, he is so anxious about his wife. Ann got Amelia Frost to stay with her while I was gone.

15th. Uncle Willy came today to saw wood. Ann went home after breakfast. Just as I had got the floors washed Capt. Michener came in to ask if I could accommodate some company that had come to see Mrs. Michener; he was afraid she might be disturbed. So I started to go over but met them coming in. Mrs. Shaw and her daughter from Newport, Mrs. Parker and her two children. She is a niece of Capt. Michener, being a daughter of James Michener of Eastport. Theresa Harvie came with them, and went over to her sister's in the afternoon. Mrs. Shaw and daughter went to Elizabeth Faulkners. Abigail and Mrs. Parker came in here a while. In the evening Robert, John, and Ann came down and Dan Huntley came in also—we spent the evening singing.

16th. I arose at daylight and got a breakfast. Shortly after, Mrs. Thos. Faulkner came in and stopped until her sister came with the wagon and Mrs. Parker, then they all went away for home. The boys went to Sunday School. Elmira came in and brought me a letter from Grace, which afforded me much pleasure. It seemed next to seeing her, and it brought to mind the days when we were school girls together. I have been reading the Bible and Josephus today. I am very thankful I am able to walk again. Father and Mrs. James were in this afternoon. The children are all in bed. I should like to know where all my sailing relatives are. May they all arrive at their destination in safety. 17th. This has been a rainy day. I preserved the plums Capt. Michener brought for Mary and me.

19th. Mother came down yesterday afternoon and we went over to Granny's a while. At night I went over and sat up alone until two o'clock, when I called Maria, then came home. Mother said she had not been asleep. She went home after breakfast. When I got the work done I went back to stay with Granny and relieve Capt. Michener. I fanned her and read some of those beautiful chapters in Isaiah concerning the peacefulness of Christ's kingdom and the happy lot of the righteous.

20th. This morning before breakfast I went over to see Mrs. Michener. I found her alone, the others were eating breakfast. I asked her how she was and she said she would not be here by night. I came home and took breakfast, then Ezra came in and said Granny was dead. Soon after, Mr. Michener came in weeping; he seemed bereft sure enough. He said they had lived together so long and so peacefully it was hard parting. I went over and took the children with me; she was looking so peaceful and pleasant. The last she said was asking some one to help her sing. No doubt she had some spirit took its flight. Sister Ann came down to help me sew in the afternoon.

MRS. DAVID FULLER

There passed away after a few days illness, at her home in Avonport, on Saturday, Aug. 9th, Mary, widow of David Fuller, at the advanced age of 87 years. The late Mrs. Fuller was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Starratt, who came from Londonderry in the early thirties and settled at Avonport, then called Horton Point.

In January, 1858, she married David Fuller of Grand Pre, of Loyalist descent. They celebrated their Golden wedding in 1908. Her husband predeceased her about eleven years.

She is survived by one brother, Jas. Starratt, of Avonport, nine children, twenty-six grandchildren and eighteen great grandchildren. The daughters are: Mrs. Edward McDonald, Falmouth; Miss Alice, at home; Mrs. George H. Pye, Sheffield Mills; Mrs. L. W. Daniels, Windsor Forks; Mrs. F. H. Crane, Grand Pre; and Mrs. P. W. Shaw, Falmouth. The sons are Dr. Albert J. Starratt, of Yarmouth; Dr. Lewis O., of Shelburne; and Leverett, of Avonport, all of whom were with her during her last illness.

The late Mrs. Fuller was a woman of exemplary Christian character, and very highly esteemed in the community. She enjoyed excellent health and was able to perform her household duties until within a few days of her decease. She was a great reader and keenly interested in all public affairs. In religion, she was a Presbyterian, a member of the Covenanter church of Grand Pre. She was a Bible Student of the old school and possessed a wonderful knowledge of the scripture. The funeral was held from her late residence on Monday.

For the Efficient Business Man

The efficient man would as much think of sending poor unattractive printed matter as he would an unkempt, careless, or ill-bred salesman.

Your printing often introduces you to your business prospects. If it fails to make an acquaintanceship, it's an unsatisfactory job. Particularly does it apply to the stationery you use—as well as other printed matter.

We are equipped to handle any printing job you may want and we take pride in turning out only the best work.

CHAPTER XI

The quality of persistence in the face of difficulties is one that men are variously endowed with. Hope, revived in some breasts sooner than in others. To some the spur of a desire, a need, a conviction, never ceases wholly to rowel them into action. They cannot for long accept defeat, or frustration as final. For such, the least resistance is closed. Reason, logic, all the chances of success may be against them, but they strive with infinite patience and unflagging courage toward a given end.

Rod Norquay had quite clearly defined Mary Thorn as a given end. Some times in analytical mood he took stock of his feelings about her and marvelled at the depth and intensity, the consistent urge of this desire. A flare of impatience would burn up. He would be angry with Mary, with the strange way for a woman to feel, to love a man, to admit frankly that she satisfied her ideal of a man, that her flesh yearned to his after the law of nature—yet to fear, to hold back from the decisive step because of—what? Social differences? Rod dismissed them with a gesture. They existed, but they did not matter. What then? An unexplained reluctance to give up her freedom? Some undivulged ambition? A secret desire to try her own individual wings before they were clipped by marriage?

"You have some queer ideas about the business of living," he said to her impatiently, one day. He had blazed a trail from the upper workings on Valdez to join the path that ran from the Granite Pool to Oliver Thorn's. He had made several journeys over that ridge before Mary went back to town, sometimes in the evening, sometimes on a Sunday afternoon. It was pleasant to see the momentary glow in her eyes when he came in.

"I like you in mackinaw and called boots, Rod," she said irrelevantly. "Are you going to make a profession of logging?"

"I said you have some queer ideas about this business of living," he persisted. "No, you only think them queer," she said. "They're sound enough. I don't want to make a blunder."

"You think marrying me might be a blunder?"

"I don't want to marry anybody, Rod," she repeated, a statement that never failed to anger him. "Is it so important that one should marry?"

"It's important to me," he said.

"Are you the only one whose will or desire counts?" she inquired. "It isn't like you to take that position about anything."

"Mary, Mary, you know what I mean," he exclaimed. "Life doesn't seem more than half-complete without you in the picture. When we were kids playing together we lived from day to day. But we can't do that now. You wouldn't be either got to be sure of you, or give up all idea of you. All this stuff that seems to stick you—my people and money, and what they'll do to me in disapproval, and all that—it doesn't really amount to anything. If I didn't know how you feel about me I'd say it was worth while combatting such fool impressions."

"Ah, if you found yourself cut off from a great many things you unconsciously value; deprived of things you've accepted as your birthright, you'd begin to change your tune, I think. You wouldn't be human if you didn't," Mary commented. "Anyway, that isn't all, and you know it isn't, Rod. She broke out with unexpected heat. "I'm not so sure you are that marriage is an end in itself. It's just a step. Probably instinct tends to drive a man and a woman into each other's arms. It seems so. But I can see things ahead of us in such a step that I rather shrink from. And what is just as important, I happen also to see things ahead of me that I rather anticipate, things I want to try and do. I want—oh, what's the use, Rod? We don't get anywhere talking about this. Why can't we just be friends and let it go at that?"

"Could you be just friends with me now?" he challenged.

And when the girl's fundamental truthfulness brought a thoughtful look and a touch of color to her face Rod was answered without words.

It was like swimming upstream, he thought to himself, talking on his way to look down on the tide roaring and foaming through its narrow passage by Little Dent. Manhood wasn't proving quite the careless easy way of his youthful fancy. It had sometimes seemed to him that, with preternatural vision for a boy, that for well-born people the chief trouble lay not in getting things they wanted, but in wanting anything much. His life had seemed to him then a matter of absolute certainties.

And it wasn't. Not by a long shot. He wanted Mary Thorn. He wanted very much to write brilliantly and acceptably about his native land, which he loved for its rugged beauty as well as for what it had so generously bestowed on him and his. He could neither have one nor accomplish the other. But he would! Oh, yes. He pursed his lips and set his teeth upon that determination, as he lingered down to the Granite Pool on one side and the new one slanted to the camp at tidewater.

The autumn haze hung like a diaphanous veil over mountains and waterways. Vine maple and alder shone brick-red and gold in the low ground. Hawk's Nest lifted its flaming roof across the channel. He wondered if there were a week-end party there. He wondered how they would look at him, these sons and daughters of the well-to-do, if he came stalking up the porch steps in calked boots and Mackinaw shirt. Rod smiled. Even Phil considered him a little too thoroughgoing in his logging career. To the rest, to Grove's crowd, it would simply be a joke. They all believed in work—in getting it done—not in doing it—and most of them were a little tainted with the idea that labor, especially such labor as is hard and poorly paid, was the exclusive privilege of the laboring class. Rod, who had learned a great many astonishing things in two months among men who were not in the least dismayed by sweat and dust and noise, found himself for the present viewing Grove, the fat crowd Grove traveled with, very much from the logger's point of view.

If you neither feed yourself, nor clothe yourself nor direct the production of anything useful, nor create anything beautiful, what the hell justification have you for existing?" Andy Hall had once attacked the idea of a leisure class very much in the manner of Veblen. Then he proceeded to attack it, first on moral grounds, then on the basis of its social utility. Rod found himself half in agreement just then. There was not and had never been in his mind any doubt of the courage, energy, and usefulness of the first Norquays. The original Roderick had reaped for himself and his followers the reward of enterprise initiated by himself. He had handed on to his sons, so far as Rod could see, there was no great virtue in merely standing pat and holding on,—resting on dead men's accomplishments. That was a bog he determined his feet should never sink into. Grove, for instance, was not standing pat. Yet curiously, he had always thought of Grove and the Norquays as a dubious undertaking—sublimous in character and uncertain as to outcome. By all the conventional signs and tokens he was wrong. Grove was certainly moving with purposeful intent. He was a dynamo for energy. Already he was credited with stupendous achievements. But to Rod that seemed a great deal worse than the gentlemanly laissez faire which his father had set as a standard.

"Oh, damn, I wish it were spring again," Rod muttered as he strode down the hill.

Spring was at hand almost before he realized that the vernal equinox had come and gone. But winter had preceded spring. In October the fall rains broke in bitter earnest. The sodden drip of eaves lulled him to sleep at night and greeted him on awakening. He went to work in the morning with his fellows and trudged back at night soaked through heavy clothing. The bunk house reeked with steam from sodden garments festooned above a red-hot stove. Day and night, for weeks on end, gray clouds and drifting mist hovered above the trees. Every gully discharged a stream seaward.

Yet the logs came down. The falling gangs went grumbling into the wet thickets about the base of the trees they must fell. The rigging-slingers and the book-tenders cursed as they fumbled the slippery cables. Donkey engineers prowled in oilskins from gang to gang, silent, eagle-eyed, on the job. Rain or shine the timber came log by log to the booming saws. The boom men with their picks arranged it in sections, and when the sections grew to a shattering raft, a tug hauled in, hooked on her towline and the cedar and fir of Valdez began its journey to the mills.

During those sodden weeks Rod Norquay put by all that he had ever been. His work, that opus which had led him to forswear, however briefly, the ease and comfort of Hawk's Nest, was laid away. Not forgotten. He sat sometimes in the evening, dreaming. He had wanted to see what made the wheels go round, to know how and why men labored and endured privation, to see what life was like in the raw. And he was getting insight into a vengeance. He saw men throw down their tools in a passion and quit at a word. He saw men reel drunkenly down a steamer's gangplank and go to work next morning with aching heads and blood-shot eyes. He saw a snap phrase bring a blow a fight to a finish. The whole panorama of the timber trees, men, machinery, shifted before his eyes that winter, gave him food for thought as well as sometimes a flash of something that stirred his pulse. For there were taken and skilfully avoided. A flying limb, a snapped cable, a rolling log. A man had to be alert. It was no place for a dullard. The logger had his pride of calling. It was borne in upon Rod that only tried men followed the woods. It was something of a satisfaction that he qualified as one of them on the job.

It was not so repented in the family circle, he discovered to his secret amusement. Grove openly disliked the idea of any Norquay mixing with the men. Norquay senior observed dryly that Rod need not make quite so close a contact with logging and loggers. Phil frankly invited him on different occasions to come in out of the wet.

At the Christmas shutdown, foregathered at Grove's house in town, Rod noted the growing concern on his behalf. There was a hint of protest in the jocular remarks about his devotion to logging as a vocation, Grove's thinly veiled contempt, Laska's mild wonder that he should go in for "that sort of thing" nettled Rod.

He sat back, appraising his father, his brothers, the friends of the family, the train of people who came within all of his observation, all well-to-do, all thoroughly insulated against material discomfort, able to command and have their commands obeyed without question. They were as supreme in their respective positions as Jim Handy was on the Valdez job,—mor so, because Handy's power was only delegated to him, and these people Rod knew, wealthy merchants, financiers, propriated magnates of various sorts, held their power in their own individual right.

He wondered if they knew their power and how far the roots of such power penetrated the social soil, if they had grasped it with clear purpose and sure intent; and if they would have the resource and determination to keep it when they were challenged by what they called the "rabble"? Rod wondered. There might never be such a challenge. Andy Hall doubted the possibility within several generations. But Rod himself was not so sure. He had none of the purblind middle-class hatred of and contempt for labor sometimes those sometimes sincere and sometimes hypocritical mouthpieces of the muddled aspirations of the wage-workers. Rod had a working knowledge of economics, a trained understanding of cause and effect in the world of industry, in the field of production and distribution. He was without prejudice, and he knew what he knew. Men like Andy Hall, when they did not clap up out of the class where they originated, remained within it and festered. They could never be servilely contented. They had too much force, too positive a character. Their perception was too keen.

It amused Rod to speculate on how his father and Grove, the Deanes, Walls, Richstons, et al would fare if they were ever faced with a situation in which they would have to black their own boots, prepare and serve their own food, wear overalls instead of tailored clothes. They couldn't. That was his cynical conclusion. They wouldn't know how. And they had an attitude which could only be translated as contempt for those who did know how, or skillful, by the grace of God, or chance, entrenched behind material fortifications, their hands grasping the strings of an ample purse. And from behind these fortifications they looked out with narrowed eyes upon lesser folk.

That, it struck Rod all in a heap, was the thing that confronted Mary Thorn when he talked to her of love and marriage. She had grasped the essence of class distinctions. She doubted his their—power to overcome an idea fixe. Whereupon he straightway hunted up the place where she boarded and led her forth to a show and afterward to supper in the Exeter Grill, where he was most likely to encounter some of his own crowd. His cogitations had put him in a defiant mood. He would show them.

He looked across the table into her eyes and wondered if she had always been as keenly aware of the invisible fences about him as he was fast becoming himself. Well, he promised himself lightly, some of those fences were due to be smashed.

CHAPTER XII

Isabel Wall, the pert and pretty sister-in-law of Mr. Grove Norquay, became at last the cause of Rod's first definite breach in the fences.

When summer full-blown came tripping on the heels of spring, Rod left the Valdez camp for good. It had been a wholesome experience. One year in the woods had shown him quite fully the technique of big timber operations. It had shed an unreckoned light, moreover, upon the nature and mental processes of the men who handled the timber, which Rod was sure seldom appeared to the owners of the woods as a matter of any particular importance.

He knew himself fully qualified as a practical logger. He was capable enough to believe himself more capable of getting results without friction than most logging bosses. But he had not set out to qualify in timber so much as to get inside the shell of his class and see how and what a man in general functioned both in and out of the woods. He had covered the first phase that occurred to him. His own individual job, to look, began to nag him again, to assume form proportion, to cry out for embodiment. So he laid aside calked boots and Mackinaws for canvas shoes and flannel, and took up the pleasant ways of Hawk's Nest when June brought the first coho salmon into the rapids and a chair in the shade was a comfortable thing.

Perhaps, as Phil put it in fraternal railway, Isabel thought that if one thing in the Wall family was a good thing, two would be better. The truth is that Isabel suddenly became aware of Rod as a man and character, and sought to annex him by the usual methods. She had finished her education in a presumably fashionable school on the Atlantic seaboard that spring, coincident with Mary Thorn's graduation from the University of B. C. Isabel's social experience had been judiciously expanded in the intervals of education. She was twenty now, a sophisticated young person, accustomed to associating with other sophisticated young persons of both sexes. She had seen little of Rod—except during summer vacations. For a year she had not seen him at all. Now she seemed to discover him anew and to mark him for her own.

Rod granted her uncommon charm. She was pretty and petite and modish, and she spoke the current lingo with effortless facility. But while she pleased his eye she failed to stir his blood. There was a sufficient reason for Rod's immunity, which of course Isabel did not know.

It became obvious that Isabel was in deadly earnest. And when it became equally obvious to Rod that both families were complacently agreeable to Isabel's maneuverings he grinned first, then grew sober as the remedies he used to cure Isabel merely aggravated the disease.

It wasn't a simple flirtatious liking Isabel had for him. Rod was too keen to make such a mistake. It seemed to him that his dainty doll-like creature was capable of intense feeling and not too sure in her control of the emotional disturbance. Rod began by being amused, then he felt sorry. In the end he grew a little alarmed over the net result of being sympathetic. It is highly discomforting to a young man to have a girl we spontaneously to his chest, unless he conceives it to be his special mission and blessed privilege to soothe this particular damsel's tears. Isabel did that one evening in the shadow of a hoary old cedar in Hawk's Nest. She couldn't help it, she said, after a long embarrassed silence during which she dabbed the tears away. She was a fool and she knew it, but it couldn't be helped. One wasn't responsible for one's feelings, was one?

And Rod, with a little ache in his breast, a great deal of wordless sympathy for Isabel, because he had for a long time suffered that queer state of stifled longing that seemed sometimes as if it would drive him mad, agreed that one was not. They let it go at that.

BETTER MANNERS

To the Editor of THE ACADIAN
Dear Editor,—I am sure that Wolfville people are proud of the eminent position to which our town has been raised by the campaign for Better English which is now in progress. It is a pleasure to hear our language properly spoken and to even those of us who have not enjoyed the advantages of a modern education many of the expressions in common use grate harshly upon the ear. More strength to those who are engaged in this splendid service.
May I suggest in connection with this another equally necessary movement that deserves public attention. "Better manners" is a need among our people that is very apparent, particularly among the youth of the land. A better appreciation of the rights of others and the respect that old age properly requires from the young are among the important things of life which should receive more consideration. The realization of those who seek to make our community noted as a centre for pure English is most devoutly to be hoped for. The reputation of being a people of exceeding "good manners" might be of even greater value.
Etiquette.

The man who will not lend his brains, his energy and some of his money to the efforts of his fellow citizens, or who will not heed suggestions which he, in his own mind, knows are for the welfare of his city, is not a useful member of society. No man has a right to absorb all that a city can give him and refuse to contribute towards community benefit. To do so is to become a community parasite.

Advertisers, Attention!

The Acadian has just installed the Bonnet-Brown Advertising Mat Service and Stereotyping Machine.

You will now receive the same ad service that the large metropolitan newspapers render their advertisers.

Illustrations that Help Sell

Under this splendid New Service Plan, we receive fresh each month, ads and illustrations for every kind of advertising.

We receive these illustrations in matrix form—a paper mold of the cut-to-be. This new stereotyping machine enables us to pour hot metal into this form and make a plate for printing the illustration in THE ACADIAN or on a circular.

Advertisers who receive matrices of their merchandise from their manufacturers or wholesalers can bring them to us and we will make cuts for use in their advertising.

This service, we are confident, will result in greatly increased business for every advertiser who takes advantage of it.

You will be better able to tell the people of Wolfville and vicinity about what you have to sell or what you want to buy.

And you can put your message across in a concise, easily-understood manner that will be pleasing to readers of THE ACADIAN and most satisfactory to you in the greater results obtained.

Advertising Service for Every Business

And, in addition to being able to supply you with suitable cuts for illustrating your ads, we are prepared to furnish advertisements covering practically every line of business.

These ads have all been written by competent advertising experts—and are so planned and executed that they exert the maximum amount of pulling power possible in the space used.

So, when you want to run an ad, instead of spending time to write it yourself, come in and let us help you. We'll give you one that fits your needs—illustration and all.

Come in and see the machine work—it's interesting

"NOBODY asked you, sir," said the coy maiden. And in matters of buying, as well as in affairs of the heart, most people like to be "asked". Often, indeed, they insist on a proper invitation.

He is a wise merchant who keeps the welcome sign constantly before the community in the form of ADVERTISEMENTS in the home paper. There everybody sees it—for ADVERTISING is "the light of directed attention".

Speak up. Light up. Hundreds of good customers are listening for your message and watching for your welcome sign in "The Acadian."

PORT WILLIAMS AND VICINITY

Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Ellis motored to Halifax on Saturday, and boarded the White Star Liner "Pittsburg" for a trip to New York. They will visit Mrs. Ellis' sister, Mrs. Dr. Baker, at their summer camp in Vermont before returning. Her aunt Mrs. W. O. Taylor, of Wolfville, is with Miss Mary during her parents' absence.

Mrs. Lila Chase, of Church Street, has returned to the Sanatorium as a relieving nurse on the first floor infirmary.

Mrs. Stanley Barkhouse, after visiting friends in Halifax, is now the guest of her mother Mrs. Stoddart, at Sheet Harbour.

Mrs. R. A. Beckwith, of Hantsport, spent part of last week the guest of her nieces, Mrs. Robt. Newcombe and Miss Claire Cogswell.

Mr. Neal Coulstan and family, Mr. G. A. Dodge and family, and Mr. T. S. Lockwood are spending their vacations at Margreetsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin West and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. MacKenzie and son left on Monday for a motor trip to different points in Massachusetts.

Miss Laura Kinsman, of the Mar. Tel. and Tel. Co. staff, Wolfville, spent a few days the guest of Miss Irene Gates.

Mrs. Fred L. Jackson, of Lower Church Street, is at the Westwood Hospital for treatment.

The W. M. A. Society of the Baptist church held a very interesting session in the vestry on Wednesday last. Mrs. Tedford, who leaves in a few weeks to resume work in India addressed the meeting. Mrs. Hartel and Mrs. Freeman, of Wolfville, also brought messages, all of which were appreciated. Mrs. S. L. Gates and Mrs. O. G. Cogswell were appointed delegates to attend the W.B.M.U. convention meeting this month at St. John. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of program.

Mrs. Walter Rand and children, and her sister Miss Carrie MacKeen, all of Vancouver, with their father Mr. Chas. MacKeen of Peregé, were guests of Mrs. G. C. Ellis on Tuesday. Miss MacKeen will be remembered here as the popular dry goods clerk of the Hilsley & Harvey Co. several years ago.

Mrs. Belle Harris left on Saturday for a week's visit to Chebogue, Yarmouth Co., to be the guest of her brother Mr. W. G. Cogswell.

Mrs. Kirwin, of Canning, is the guest of her sister Miss Maude Orr.

Misses Mary and Muriel Starr and Miss Shirley Kedston have taken a cottage at Kingsport.

Miss Pamela Doll, of Belcher Street, spent a few days last week in Avonport, the guest of Mrs. Childers.

Miss Alice Lockwood, of Halifax, is spending her vacation with her mother, Mrs. Margaret Lockwood.

Mrs. Donald B. Chase received on Wednesday afternoon for the first time since her marriage. In spite of the rain a large number attended. The bride, who looked charming in white, was assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. Bancroft, of Lawrence-town, and the groom's mother Mrs. B. Chase, while three little nieces, Donalda Harvey, Margaret Hibbert, and Stuart Lydiard, daintily dressed attended the door. Mrs. Lila Chisholm and Mrs. Marriot poured tea, with Drs. Lalia and Lillian Chase and Mrs. Robt. Newcombe serving refreshments.

Miss Mabel Regan, who graduated last week from the Children's Hospital and the Grace Maternity at Halifax, is enjoying a well earned rest at her home. Her mother, Mrs. Mark Regan, and sister, Miss Queenie, attended the graduation exercises.

Mrs. Percy Corning and daughter Miss Dorothy, of Yarmouth, are visiting at Mrs. Capt. Eldridge's.

Miss Marion Irving, of Waltham, Mass., is the guest of Mrs. Elizabeth Chase, Church Street.

Miss Dorothy MacKinnon has returned from Truro where she attended the Summer Session of Normal Teachers' Work, being successful in all her exams.

Mr. and Mrs. David Sutton are enjoying the Fundy's breezes at Scotts Bay.

Mrs. Kempton Bezanson has as her guest her sister Mrs. Arnold, of Natick, Mass.

The reports of the Grand Officers were presented in printed form, and distributed amongst the Grand Lodge committees.

The reports from the trustees and officers of the Home were also presented and distributed.

From the Grand Secretary's report it will be seen that there are 129 subordinate lodges, with a membership on June 30, 1923, of 14,372. During the past year 461 members were admitted by initiation, 83 by card and 88 resigned. However, 122 withdrew their cards, 690 were suspended for non-payment of dues, and 135 deceased, so that the net decrease for the year was 315, making the present membership 14,057. The total amount paid out for relief during the year was $26,416.80. The total assets of the lodges is $42,925.87. The percentage of dues paid for relief was 39.

From the report of the Secretary-Treasurer of the Home it will be seen that eighteen residents have been received into the Home. Of these one was able to provide for himself and left, and one died during the year, leaving sixteen in residence, of whom eight are children and eight aged people.

The Grand Lodge has spent on capital account to June 30, 1924, the sum of $32,122.39 and the Rebekah Assembly has furnished by card and 88 resigned during the year, making the total cost of the Home property $40,126.44. During the eleven months, from August 1, 1923 to June 30, 1924, $10,225.71 was expended for maintenance and $894.48 returned, leaving the maintenance expenditure $9,331.23.

After some discussion on the report of the Committee on Finance the Grand Lodge adjourned to receive the Mayor, President of the Board of Trade, Stipendiary Magistrate, as well as a number of citizens.

Grand Master W. A. McKay, of Truro, presided, and called on Mayor Chambers who read the following address of welcome:

Grand Master of the Grand Lodge, Grand Patriarch of the Grand Encampment, President of the Rebekah Assembly of the Independent Order of Oddfellows of the Maritime Provinces of Canada, and delegates from the Maritime Provinces, and the Dominion of Newfoundland.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

As Mayor of the Town of Wolfville it gives me much pleasure to welcome you in convention to our town.

I believe this is the first occasion of such a gathering here, and to some of you perhaps your first visit to Wolfville. I hope that the reception given you, and the remainder of your visit, will create such an impression that you will be able to say that "truly it was a good thing to have been here."

The citizens of our town, not only those who belong to the Order, but all classes, have looked forward with great expectation to this Convention, and although this has been a busy convention and tourist season with us, this year's gathering is the outstanding event.

Formerly cities and towns received their distinguished visitors by strewing flowers in their path; we have gone one better, and made it concrete. You will honor us by christening our new sidewalks. I might also say that we have increased the police force. There is nothing suggestive about this, but as they are merely "silent policemen" to keep your cars from bumping.

We give you the freedom of the town. It is a good place to spend a few days. Some of us think it is a good place in which to make our homes. A splendid educational centre, surrounded by a rich farming and fruit raising district, centrally situated with good shipping facilities there should be opportunities here for business men.

We hope you will be able to take in the beauties of the surrounding country, the many beautiful drives and points of interest. The "Look Off" The Gaspereau Valley, Historic Grand Pre with its memorial Park, Evangeline Beach, and the "Ridge". If you were ever a student at "Acadia" you will

GREENWICH

The friends of Mr. Charles Forsythe learned with regret of his severe accident one day last week, fracturing the bone of one ankle by falling from the hay-mow to the barn floor. We hope for a full recovery before many weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Manzer, of Somerville, Mass., have been visiting for several days at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. George Bishop, having motored all the way with friends. They are now guests of Mrs. Manzer's sisters in Woodville. Mrs. Bishop spent the day last Wednesday, a guest of her sister, Mrs. Burgess, of Woodville.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Banks, of Kingsport, and baby son motored through and were guests last Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burpee L. Bishop.

Miss Annie Pearson went to Parrsboro last Thursday to be the guest of a girl friend for a time. Mr. T. A. Pearson accompanied his daughter, returning on Friday, making the trip by the Prince Albert.

Mr. Archer Pudsey, of Massachusetts, arrived Saturday and is now visiting at the home of Mr. Omar Pudsey.

Miss Evangeline Cox went to Canning last Saturday to visit her cousin, Miss Edna Eaton.

Mr. Murray Forsythe motored to Berwick last Sunday, accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Lila Forsythe and Mrs. A. K. Forsythe, and cousin Ormond Forsythe, also Miss Betts. They all attended and enjoyed the services on the Camp Meeting grounds.

Rev. Mr. Tedford, now of Wolfville, Baptist missionary on furlough, gave a splendid and interesting address on the work in India last Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church here, being sent by the regular minister, Rev. Dr. Hemmeon, of Wolfville, who preached at Annapolis Royal last Sunday.

Miss Esther Pearson, accompanied by friends, motored to Evangeline Beach and spent Sunday evening.

Mr. George Wilson motored to Halifax with friends on Sunday, not returning until Monday evening. The British warships and many attractions of the Carnival were of great interest.

Miss Elsie Piper, of Beaver River, Yarmouth county, who has been a guest of her friend, Miss Esther Pearson, over a week, left on Monday morning to return home, visiting friends at Digby en route.

Mr. and Mrs. George Webster and two children, of Massachusetts, were guests on Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Bishop. Mr. Webster was Miss Carrie Lutz, a former school teacher here. They have been visiting for several weeks at the home of Mrs. Webster's parents in Aylesford.

Mrs. Ernest Johnson is enjoying a visit from her brother and wife, Mr. Emmerson Franklin and Mrs. Franklin, of Warren, Ohio, who made the entire trip in their automobile and are visiting relatives and friends in this county.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason, of Newport, Hants county, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bishop and Mrs. Emma Harvey.

Mrs. Thomas Fraser, Scotts Bay, who has spent the past two weeks here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. I. Fraser, left on Tuesday by automobile for Canning, where she was to remain a few days before proceeding home. Mrs. Fraser is recovering from a serious operation performed at the Hospital in Halifax.

Mrs. Lorne Pudsey received word through a friend last Saturday that her husband, who has been working the past few months in the States, was now remember the old stiles, the scene of many a romance.

To the beautiful grounds of Acadia University we point with pride, but it is outside my province to extend invitations. The President will do that, and no doubt much more before you get away.

I extend a hearty welcome to your Rebekah Assembly. Not being an Odd Fellow I know nothing of the origin of this title, but I suppose it is based on that beautiful old love story in the 24th chapter of Genesis, with which we are all so familiar. We are quite sure that the Rebekah mentioned there was a Rebekah, but not sure that Isaac was an Odd Fellow.

I welcome you as Odd Fellows because I believe your order stands for those things that are worth while, the ennobling of character, alleviation of suffering, brotherly kindness, rather than a selfish political ambition.

May you live long and do much to put this unsettled old world back again into the paths of peace and prosperity.

Addresses of welcome were also given by Edson Graham, President of the Wolfville Board of Trade; Dr. F. W. Patterson, President of Acadia University; and Stipendiary D. G. Whidden. Appropriate replies were made by Grand Master McKay; Mrs. Matatal, President of the Rebekah Assembly; and Past Grand Patriarch A. G. McKay of the Grand Encampment.

Grand Lodge held a two hour session last evening, when visitors, from other jurisdictions who had been introduced at the morning session, entertained the delegates with masterly and deeply interesting addresses. The speakers were: J. E. Anderson, of Lindsay, Ont.; Grand Master of Ontario, who said that he had, since coming to the provinces, learned things he had never known nor even thought of, referring to the relations between the Maritimes and Upper Provinces, and especially the question of freight rates, and said that when he returned home he would spread the gospel he had learned here.

W. C. Miller, Grand Master of Maine, and Dr. Fred B. Peabody, Past Grand Master of Maine, both speakers of no small calibre, were listened to with a great deal of interest.

The 12th Past Grand Officers' Reunion was held last night at the Royal Hotel, where Host Sanford did himself credit both as to menu and service.

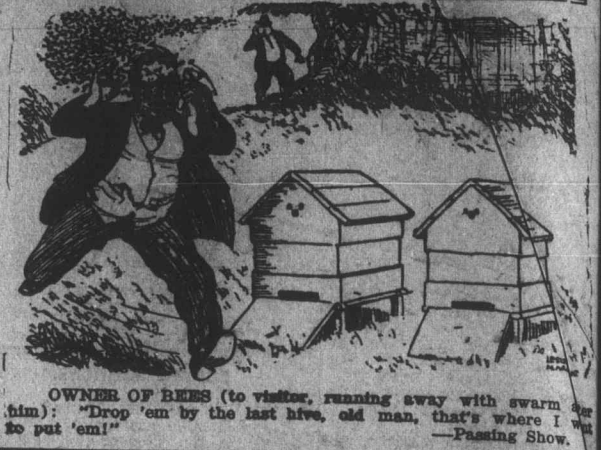

After dinner a toast was proposed to His Majesty the King; the President of the Association, J. G. Thompson, P. G. P., made a few remarks and introduced as speakers: J. G. Anderson, G.M. of Ontario; W. C. Miller, G.M. of Maine; Dr. Fred B. Peabody, P.G.M. of Maine; W. A. McKay, G.M. of the Maritime Provinces and A. G. McKay, P.G.P.

Music by the Kentville Orchestra, during dinner, was greatly enjoyed.

KENTVILLE MERCHANT SUFFERS BROKEN LEG

Roy Calkin, junior member of the firm of T. P. Calkin and Co., Ltd., of Kentville, suffered a double fracture of a leg Monday afternoon at Aylesford, when he fell from the firm's truck on which he had accompanied the driver with a load of merchandise. He was standing on side of the car, and was jolted off backwards. X-Ray examination at the Nova Scotia Sanatorium disclosed two breaks in the femur, and the injury is so serious that Dr. A. S. Burns, who is attending him, ordered his removal to Victoria General Hospital, Halifax.

Mr. Landry and three sons, of Quebec, are guests at Mrs. Geo. H. Gates.

in the hospital, having fallen from a building on which he was working and broken his leg. Up to Monday evening Mrs. Pudsey had received no further or more definite word, for which she is anxiously waiting. Their friends here are kindly interested.

Today—Tuesday—a portion of our Main street is being swept, both by machine and hand, and we understand the work of putting on the tar preparation will commence tomorrow on this part of the street.

A splendid assortment of Birthday Cards, including some very pretty book-lets, at THE ACADIAN store

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Gay with Gay's sister and husband motored to Stoughton, Mass., and are guests Mrs. Gay's sister, Mrs. Chas. St. Belcher Street. They spent Saturday calling on old friends at the Port. The large three-masted schooner, "E. W. L. Tucker" is in port loading sugar from S. L. Gates & Co. for Bermuda. Capt. Salter, of Parrsboro, has his daughter with him. It is some time since so large a vessel has been here.

Capt. Eldridge and family motored Halifax last week to visit friends at Dartmouth. While there they enjoyed the privilege of visiting the different warships in port.

The Newspaper Has the Greatest Advertising Influence

The Women's Advertising Club of Los Angeles, working through the Women's Clubs of that city, conducted a questionnaire on advertising media and their influence, which should be very interesting to the retail advertiser. The computation was made that 90 per cent. of the buying is done by women and that millions of dollars are squandered every year in an effort to gain their attention. All walks of life were covered and the results figured on the basis of one thousand returns.

"Which of the advertising media influence you most?" was the question. The answer was announced as follows:
