MY DAUGHTER WAS CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md.—I send you here with the picture of my fifteen year old daughter Alice, who was restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

My dear Robert, every other person is a writer. It is a fashion to wear out hearts on our sleeves and ask a small fee for their in pectum. I know lots of women who, when they are weary, write down their feelings and exchange them for a little base coin.

Really? This is the age of confessions. No matter how sorry a figure the inner man and woman make, they must have their little exhibition.

And this was a confession to a young girl, given with so much grace and such eloquent glances, that it left Carter delighted to receive it. He felt at that hour only the invincible captivations of his wife, and her very imperfections seemed a part of them.

It is not often that events come to our expectations; but Ambrosia was satisfied with the result of an unexpected move. The next day she was busy engaged in the ordinary of her house, and during this time she has a unique and very novel pleasure—she had her husband entirely to herself. They were quite alone for the first time since they had commenced housekeeping. It was like a second honeymoon. The trouble is that human nature can not long keep up to its highest points under any emotion, and that custom dulls the sweetest joy. Ambrosia noticed the slightest subsidence in her husband's feeling, before she herself was conscious of the least.

One morning, a week after her return, Robert, in leaving the house, said to the housekeeper: 'Mrs. Ryan, tell Meta not to come to office to-day.'

Ambrosia, who had just opened the door in order to go upstairs and make a street-toilet, heard the words distinctly. She thought there was something less formal in the tone than a mere order to a domestic warranted. And who was Meta? No servant of that name was in her employ. Yet Robert spoke as if 'Meta' were a regular member of the household.

She was annoyed and troubled by the circumstance and she sat down again to think it over. Her first natural thought was to ring for Mrs. Ryan and ask her about 'Meta.' She put it aside immediately. The question would show a servant that Doctor Carter did not altogether rely on his wife. She could not endure the humiliation of such a position. It would be best to ask her husband for the information, and she resolved to do so that very evening.

But she fell in the snare of her sex's weakness, and instead of a plain direct question, she went on her search by devious ways. She asked if he had been informed of the change during the summer; if there had been any trouble among the girls, etc., etc. She tried to get under and around the person called Meta without the slightest effort. The doctor answered her questions with precisely the air of an innocent and non-interested man.

The shadowy Meta troubled the peace of the evening. Ambrosia had a feeling of resentment. She had 'led up' to a point so frequently, where the doctor must have remembered Meta, and yet he gave no information about her. The circumstance depressed her. She could not talk or sing or rise to any level for which it was possible to command her husband's sole attention. He finally took a book and began to read and make notes, and Ambrosia sat down among the cushions of the sofa and pretended to go to sleep.

In the morning there was the same politeness, the same inertia, the same broken sympathy. The doctor thought his wife was in one of her disagreeable moods. He advised her to take a certain medicine and kissed her with the air of a man who is at once tolerant and grieved. Ambrosia thought her husband was deceiving her. He knew something about a person called Meta, and he had not told her, though she had exhausted confidence, so far as her own

Recipe for 16 Ounces of Cough Syrup

No Better Remedy at Any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a 16 oz. bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore larynx and all the natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this respect. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has it or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ontario.

One morning, a week after her return, Robert, in leaving the house, said to the housekeeper: 'Mrs. Ryan, tell Meta not to come to office to-day.'

Ambrosia, who had just opened the door in order to go upstairs and make a street-toilet, heard the words distinctly. She thought there was something less formal in the tone than a mere order to a domestic warranted. And who was Meta? No servant of that name was in her employ. Yet Robert spoke as if 'Meta' were a regular member of the household.

laboratory, which was situated above the office. In the early days of their married life, Robert had given her a key of these rooms, and she had often gone there an hour before dark and persuaded him to ride or walk with her. But she found at last that the smell of the gases and chemicals made her sick; and the doctor had promised to reverse the order and come for her. He did so for a little time, and then the custom, for various reasons, fell into disuse, as all over-drafts upon affection must surely do.

She looked now for the forgotten key, and found it in the top drawer among the soiled gloves and odds and ends of lace and ribbons, broken fans and crumpled programmes that are usually the contents of that receptacle. Then she dressed herself with a tasteful attention. She had no plan beyond this invasion of her husband's sanctum and her own beautiful toilet. But she had a great faith in her personal influence and a great confidence in beauty adorned with its most effective ally.

It was a lovely evening, and she assured herself that Robert would think her idea of a stroll before dinner a good one. With a good deal of affected confidence, she turned the corner and went to the office door. It was open. She needed not to have a guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has it or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ontario.

It is not often that events come to our expectations; but Ambrosia was satisfied with the result of an unexpected move. The next day she was busy engaged in the ordinary of her house, and during this time she has a unique and very novel pleasure—she had her husband entirely to herself. They were quite alone for the first time since they had commenced housekeeping. It was like a second honeymoon. The trouble is that human nature can not long keep up to its highest points under any emotion, and that custom dulls the sweetest joy. Ambrosia noticed the slightest subsidence in her husband's feeling, before she herself was conscious of the least.

She was annoyed and troubled by the circumstance and she sat down again to think it over. Her first natural thought was to ring for Mrs. Ryan and ask her about 'Meta.' She put it aside immediately. The question would show a servant that Doctor Carter did not altogether rely on his wife. She could not endure the humiliation of such a position. It would be best to ask her husband for the information, and she resolved to do so that very evening.

But she fell in the snare of her sex's weakness, and instead of a plain direct question, she went on her search by devious ways. She asked if he had been informed of the change during the summer; if there had been any trouble among the girls, etc., etc. She tried to get under and around the person called Meta without the slightest effort. The doctor answered her questions with precisely the air of an innocent and non-interested man.

The shadowy Meta troubled the peace of the evening. Ambrosia had a feeling of resentment. She had 'led up' to a point so frequently, where the doctor must have remembered Meta, and yet he gave no information about her. The circumstance depressed her. She could not talk or sing or rise to any level for which it was possible to command her husband's sole attention. He finally took a book and began to read and make notes, and Ambrosia sat down among the cushions of the sofa and pretended to go to sleep.

In the morning there was the same politeness, the same inertia, the same broken sympathy. The doctor thought his wife was in one of her disagreeable moods. He advised her to take a certain medicine and kissed her with the air of a man who is at once tolerant and grieved. Ambrosia thought her husband was deceiving her. He knew something about a person called Meta, and he had not told her, though she had exhausted confidence, so far as her own

'Really? This is the age of confessions. No matter how sorry a figure the inner man and woman make, they must have their little exhibition.'

And this was a confession to a young girl, given with so much grace and such eloquent glances, that it left Carter delighted to receive it. He felt at that hour only the invincible captivations of his wife, and her very imperfections seemed a part of them.

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS
Cannot be cured by ordinary soothing syrups. The disease must be attacked at the root to eradicate the irritation of the lungs, heal the wounds and strengthen the respiratory organs. The composition of of Tar and Cod Liver Oil and other Medicinal Extracts makes it amongst all other remedies as the true specific for the diseases of the throat, the bronchial tubes and the lungs. Here are a few conclusive proofs:

Dear Sirs,—Yours of the 22nd inst. received re Mathieu's Syrup. I have been using the article in my home for the last seven or eight years, and know of nothing better to use when one is subject to cough or cold. In fact, we would not be without it for twice its value. I have very much pleasure in recommending this article, and in selling it over the Island I have the same report from our customers.

Dear Sirs,—Yours of the 22nd to hand asking for testimonial for Mathieu's Syrup. I have handled Mathieu's Syrup for one year, and find it one of the best sellers in a cough medicine that I have ever handled. I am ordering one gross from your traveler to-day, as I sold the last bottle in stock yesterday.

A Remarkable Test!
Locally Made
By Messrs. W. & C. RENDELL.
To test Solignum as a preservative for Wood against the attacks of Worms, we tried a piece of x 4 Spruce, about two feet in length, by painting one-third with Solignum, leaving the balance clear wood, this was suspended by a wire through the centre, in the water about one foot from the bottom, immediately over a pile of stones, the remains of a sunken wharf (which is the place where our Wharf Shores are eaten off first) for Three Months. On taking it up at the end of that time we found some half-dozen small holes only a very short distance in the clear part of the wood, which shows the liquid had penetrated through the whole piece and the worms had hardly begun boring before coming in contact with it.
Last year as a test of some brands of Copper Paint we handled, we had a similar piece of wood treated at both ends, leaving the centre third clear; this was in exactly the same place as the piece for the Solignum test for Three Months and Three Days, when taken up the painted ends were perfect but the centre was riddled with worm holes.
Both these pieces of wood are to be seen at our Office by those interested in the preservation of Wharf Piles or any other wood work.

The Evening Chit-Chat
By RUTH CAMERON

"Love me and tell me so sometimes."
—Gail Hamilton.
I want you to do something for me.
"Y o u," this time, means all my married folk friends, and, especially those married folk who have been married folk for over five years.
I want you before February fourteenth to go out and buy a valentine and I want you to carefully disguise your hand-writing just as you used to do, and I want you to send it to your wife or husband.
Next door to me there lives one of those beautiful couples who through sickness and health, through failures, discouragements and success, through child bearing, child rearing and child marring, and straight into grandparent stage, have carried on romance so that they do this little thing every year.
And not only do it, but take as much genuine delight in the doing as the little boy across the street when he drops the lace and gilt creation that so chastely declares,
"The rose is red, the violet's blue, Sugar is sweet, and so are you,"
as this little lady love's front gate, and runs and hides around the corner and crouches against the house with his heart almost exploding with excitement and two buttons getting rubbed off his coat.
The way I happen to know about it is that last year the lady next door was ill, and to me was entrusted the solemn mission of buying and mailing that valentine. I thought at first I'd tell you about it right off and then I decided to wait until this year so it would be fresher in your minds.
St. Valentine's day is supposed to be a young lover's day, but I think it would be much more beautiful if it were made an old lover's day, too. In fact it seems to me it ought to be specially for the older lovers, for the young lovers don't need the reminder of any special day to make them confide in each other about that wonderful feeling—"that itching of the heart that can be scratched," as someone has unpoetically but graphically called it—which they have with them.
They're doing that all the time. While the old lovers—well they may be loving each other just as deeply, but I guess they are more apt to forget the last part of Gail Hamilton's advice, "Love me and tell me so sometimes."
And isn't this a beautiful time to remember it?
Of course I don't insist that you shall confine yourself to a gilt and lace valentine. I'll be quite as well satisfied if you go out and buy a bunch of violets or a pair of gloves, or whatever he wants the most if I'm talking to the lady in the case, and put a little valentine verse in with the gift.
Only you mustn't omit the verse. And you mustn't fail to have it say, "I love you," just as sweetly and foolishly as the verses you used to send in the days before.
Of course you know the old Navy Toast:
"Here's to our sweethearts and wives. May our sweethearts soon be our wives. And our wives always be our sweethearts."
Don't you think St. Valentine's day is a good time to get some of the spirit of that toast into your lives?
Ruth Cameron

The Fountain Head of Life
Is The Stomach
A man who has a weak and impaired stomach and who does not properly digest his food will soon find that his blood has become weak and impoverished, and that his whole body is improperly and insufficiently nourished.
DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY
makes the stomach strong, promotes the flow of digestive juices, restores the lost appetite, makes assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder, and restorative nerve tonic. It makes men strong in body, active in mind and cool in judgement.
This "Discovery" is a pure, glyceric extract of American medicinal roots, absolutely free from alcohol and all injurious, habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are printed on its wrappers. It has no relationship with secret nostrums. Its every ingredient is endorsed by the leaders in all the schools of medicine. Don't accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this time-proven remedy of known composition. Ask your neighbors. They must know of many cures made by it during past 40 years, right in your own neighborhood. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R.V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

Fads and Fashions.
While all the gowns for morning and afternoon wear are still straight short and narrow, pleated flounces and even those that are gathered are appearing at the bottom of them, and especially in this fashion being adopted in lingerie gowns now being designed for spring.
The Roumanian coat will shortly be all the rage. It is without sleeves and is made in white cloth, with either fine black braid or else a double strip of white and black piping if self around. It is a simple yet chic and is slipped over thin blouses when the air is a little chilly.
The strong tendency toward Empire fashions is one of the most notable things of the season. Instead of decreasing, it is increasing. The length of line from foot to artificial waist is abnormal, and the droop of the shoulders and the scantiness of the skirt are pronounced.
KAISER WILL VISIT ROME.
Rome, Feb. 7.—The announcement that the German Emperor will visit Rome as the guest of the Quirinal on the occasion of the fifteenth anniversary of the proclamation of Rome as the capital of united Italy, has caused the report that other heads of State may come also during the celebration. Those mentioned more particularly are President Fallieres of France and King Haakon of Norway. King Peter of Serbia will arrive here on Feb. 15, and it is thought not improbable that King George may visit Rome after the Coronation.
Though steam heat is cleaner generally than a furnace, it will soil the curtains and walls much more, especially if the radiators are placed close to the wall or under the windows.

HERE'S a HOME DYE
That ANYONE Can Use.
HOME DYING has always been more or less of a difficult undertaking—Not so when you use DYOLA.

With DYOLA you can color either Wool, Cotton, Silk or Mixed Goods Perfectly with the Best Dye. No chance of using the WRONG Dye for the Goods you have to color. A TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU.
The trouser skirt, launched in Paris by M. M. Polret and Doucet, has now made its appearance in American fashion stores, but it is modified—most decidedly modified. In fact, it is a very modest divided skirt, giving greater ease in walking, but without the slightest noticeable masculine tendency.

Ends Dyspepsia in Few Minutes.

Heartburn, Gas, Indigestion and all stomach misery very promptly relieved.
There would not be a case of indigestion here if readers who are subject to Stomach trouble knew the tremendous anti-ferment and digestive-lytic contained in Diapepsin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest gas or discomfort, and relieve the sourst acid stomach in five minutes, besides overcoming all foul, nauseous odors from the breath.
Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on each 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily understand why this promptly cures indigestion and relieves such symptoms as Heartburn, a feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, Belching of Gas and Eructations of undigested food, water brash, Nausea, Headache, Biliousness and many other bad symptoms; and, besides, you will not need laxatives to keep your stomach, liver and intestines clean and fresh.
If your Stomach is sour and full of gas, or your food doesn't digest, and your meals don't seem to fit, why not get a 50-cent case from your druggist and make life worth living? Absolute relief from Stomach misery and perfect digestion of anything you eat is sure to follow five minutes after, and, besides, one case is sufficient to cure a whole family of such trouble. Surely a harmless, inexpensive preparation like Diapepsin, which will always, either relieve at daytime or during night, relieve your stomach misery and digest your meals, is about as handy and valuable a thing as you could have in the house.

A Boxing Match.

Flynn Beats Burns at Olympia.
There was a very poor attendance at the Olympia Annex yesterday when the principal event was a twenty-round contest between Dan (Porky) Flynn, of Boston, and Jack Burns, of California. The match went its full length, Flynn winning easily on points after having all the better of matters from start to finish.
The men soon got to close quarters, but so wild were their swings and hits that not one in ten reached its intended mark. There was no mistake, however, about their earnestness, and when the end of the second round arrived they were both a trifle troggy.
On coming up for the third time Flynn tried to box scientifically, but he soon returned to his old sloping tactics, and just as the going rounded both men went over the ropes.
The fourth and fifth rounds showed Flynn up much better as a boxer, and he upper-cut Burns in neat fashion many times. The Californian, however, showed marvellous capacity for taking punishment. In the eighth round Flynn paid great attention to his opponent's belt. On one occasion he put Burns down while eight was counted, but the Californian was evidently only taking a rest, for he rushed Flynn away in rare style when he went in to finish him.
In the tenth round Burns got home in Flynn for the first time with a straight left to the face. In the eleventh round Flynn drove Burns all over the ring with a straight left and right swings, any one of which would have knocked out an ordinary man.
From the fifteenth round it was all Flynn, and the amount of punishment that he dealt to Burns was simply astounding. Burns' jaw must be made of something harder than iron to have stood the punishment he did.
In a ten rounds contest between Young Nipper, of Bermondsey, and Jack Morris, of St. George's, Nipper knocked his opponent out in the fourth round.—Daily Mail, Feb. 2.

Indigestion & Dyspepsia

In all its Forms can be Cured.
It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything, I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, my appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion, I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden.
Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a Bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription A. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at
DR. F. STAFFORD & SON,
Duckworth Street and Theatre Hill.
Small size, 25 cents; postage, 5c extra; large size, 50 cents; postage 10c extra. Mail orders must be accompanied by remittance.—oct29,1m.

Steamers Arrive.

S. S. HEATHCOTE.
Yesterday the s.s. Heathcote arrived in port. The ship had been off this port since Tuesday morning, but could not enter owing to the ice blockade. The ship has been at Bell Island and the past four weeks dredging around the piers of the D. I. S. Co. She went along in the fore up the Southern Shore and steamed in through off Bay Bulls, the ice having loosened up, so that she easily made her entrance to port. She will likely dock for repairs.
S. S. ADVENTURE.
The s.s. Adventure, Capt. Couch, arrived at A. J. Harvey & Co. at 8 p.m. yesterday after a run of 38 hours from Louisburg. She could not reach Sydney, where it was the intention to load coal, and had to run to Louisburg owing to ice. The ship experienced some rough and extremely frosty weather on the run and was badly led up, her decks, bridge, boats, winches, etc., being coated in some places to a depth of 12 inches.
FOUNTAINS COVERED.—The snow storm of last night and this morning piled up drifts on the higher levels and most of the fountains and hydrants were covered with it. People who had to get a supply of water early this morning had to clear some of the fountains with shovels.

8862—A MOST BECOMING MODEL.
Ladies' Shirt Waist.

A distinctive feature of this design is the closing which is made on the left side, and notched to show a group of inserted tucks at the lower part in front. The sleeve is gathered at the elbow and may be developed in either of two lengths. The design is appropriate for wash fabrics for silk or cloth. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes—32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 inches bust measure. It requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for the 36 inch size.
A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

8621—GIRLS' PRINCESS DRESS.

Closed at the Left Side of Back—A New and Modish Style for Mother's Girl.

A very effective and simple model is here shown. The waist portions are lengthened by plaited section to meet the front and back panels. The neck opening may be square and filled in with a tiny yoke of contrasting material or finished with a standing collar. This design will develop effectively in blue serge with military trimming of braid and gilt buttons. The pattern is cut in 5 sizes—6, 8, 10, 12, 14 years, and requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for the 8 year size.
A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Fishermen, Take Warning!

It is evident that the industrial agreements submitted to the Legislature by the Government for endorsement need very careful pruning to eliminate mischief to the Colony and to carry out the intent of benefiting the country.

In the agreement with Messrs. Trefethen and Lord, care must be taken that our Belt Policy is not jeopardized, and that our lobster men are not handicapped out of business. Mr. Trefethen is a fish merchant of Portland, who is in a very big way of business in the fresh and pickled fish, and is also interested largely in cold storage. Mr. Lord is a fish merchant in the salt fish line.

They apparently contemplate going into all kinds of business connected with fish here. They will handle herring by smoking, by cold storage and in other ways. They contemplate doing a big lobster trade. At their canning factories they will can lobsters extensively. They will go into fishing, and will use gasoline engines and gasoline to work them.

Why should these big American fish merchants be allowed to get in free of duty gasoline for motor boats for fishing, and also tin sheets, solder and printed labels, while our own fishermen and lobster packers have to pay duty?

These are only a few of the many serious defects of this agreement.

There are also objectionable features in the Explosives Agreement and in the Peat Agreement which should be eliminated.

Life-Savers Rewarded.

To-day at 1:30 James Crotty and Wm. McGinn, the boys who saved the life of Ethel Connolly on the 8th of January after she had gone through the ice at Deadman's Pond, Signal Hill, were presented with handsome silver watches by His Excellency Sir Ralph Williams at Government House. The presentation was attended by Lady Williams, Mr. Fitzherbert, Hon. R. Watson, Colonial Secretary, and Dr. Macpherson, Secretary of the St. John Ambulance Association. His Excellency in an eloquent speech heartily complimented the lads on their bravery and detailed the facts of the case, showing the heroism that each exhibited. Crotty, when the girl went through, being an expert swimmer, kept her above the surface by "treading" water, and McGinn bravely crept out on the ice and helped both out of the water. The watches are handsome and pretty, and His Excellency hoped that throughout their lives the boys would always be ready to help the unfortunate as unselfishly as they had done in this instance and also hoped that their conduct would be an incentive to the youth of the country to emulate the heroism exhibited by these lads. He then presented the watches, congratulating the boys heartily, and they warmly thanked the Governor for his kindly offices in their behalf. Lady Williams and the others also commended the lads on their plucky conduct.

Death of Miss Gibbons.

A telegram was received in town to-day by her friends announcing the death of Miss Katie Gibbons at St. Vincent's, St. Mary's, yesterday morning, at the age of 21 years. Deceased lady was very popular amongst her large number of friends and there is much regret over her early demise. The Telegram tenders her parents its sympathy in their great sorrow.

ANOTHER SUSPECTED CASE.

One of Mrs. Rankin's sons is to-day feeling unwell at his home in Fagerty's Lane and it is feared he is developing typhus. There are 5 persons in the house. Mrs. Rankin and 4 children, but with the exception of the person alluded to, all are in good health up to date.

Will Export Whale Meat

The price of whale oil we learn has gone up to a high figure in the foreign markets of late, and as a result of this the whaling companies of Newfoundland will operate far earlier this year than for any period since their inception. Most of the ships will be on the grounds by the 15th of March, and there will be keener competition than ever amongst them for fish. The crews of some of the steamers are now on their way here from Norway. In connection with this year's work a new departure will be taken and a German firm will take an active part in it. These people who already have an advance agent here will export all the whale meat they can procure and ship it to the Fatherland to be used as food in the navy principally. They have patented a process for the curing and canning of the meat of the fish and are already in treaty with at least three local companies to supply them with the meat of the fish. Cold storage ships will come here to the factories and take it to Germany during the summer and fall months and there it will be cured and canned and used as food. Under the process evolved it is said to be a tasty fish and not lacking in nourishment either. The bone of the fish will be ground up and utilized with meal as food for cattle. This will add to the value of the fish for the local shareholders.

Train Notes.

The west bound express arrived at Little River at 7:50 a.m. to-day.

No. 2 west bound express is cancelled.

Here and There.

FULL LOAD OF HERRING.—The Schr. Hispanola, Capt. W. Lane, with a full cargo of frozen herring, is ready to leave for Halifax this early opportunity.

SMALL CATCHES OF TROUT.—A large number of trout returned to town last night, having got small catches of trout, owing to the weather being too cold.

CARD TOURNAMENT.—The K. of C., Dalton Lodge, had a card tournament last night at Harbor Grace. Joseph Curran, of Gumbo, won the prize—a case of pipes.

SAILS FOR BARBADOES.—The schr. Olive, Capt. Edgecombe, sails for Barbadoes to-day, taking for Goodridge & Sons 300 casks, 53 drums of fish, 100 barrels of herring and 15 barrels of salmon.

Bruce Still Caught.

The Reid Nfld. Co. received a message from Capt. Drake this forenoon saying that the Bruce was in the same position, with no immediate prospect of getting free. Most of the passengers walked ashore yesterday. A strong southerly wind is needed to free the ship. The s.s. Stanley is also jammed about a mile to the west of the Bruce's position. She was on her way to Port Hastings to cut out some schooners jammed there.

Dunlop Appeal.

Mr. Howley this morning commenced his appeal against the verdict rendered last week in the Dunlop case. All three judges of the Supreme Court were present. Mr. Howley appeals stating as his grounds that Dr. Pritchard was improperly recalled and gave evidence in rebuttal; that the Judge expressed an opinion on the credibility of the witness; that the Judge misdirected the jury, and that the verdict was against the weight of evidence.

The moment you feel that peculiar dryness in the throat, that heavy tired feeling in the limbs, that portends the onset of an attack of grippe or feverish cold, you should begin to take Quinine and Cinamon Perles. They will in very many cases cut short the attack and enable you to proceed with your usual business without interruption. The main point is promptness in beginning treatment, and to be able to begin at once it is well to have a box of these perles at hand. Price 35c. a box.

Turned Out of the Assembly.

Mr. Geoffrey Healey says that he went into the House of Assembly yesterday after going into the boiler house for a few minutes, the police were called and he was forcibly ejected from the precincts of the "People's House." This treatment is only what an honest man like Healey could expect from our Morris-Tory Combination. However, it won't be long before this clique will find themselves fired and not by the police either, but by the boots of an outraged electorate. The squandering of the revenues, huge fees for trips to the Hague and Washington, with the sacrificing of the public interests for our competitors abroad, will soon impel the people to turn them out.

CORKUM GETTING COD.

We learn from passengers by the Prospero that Capt. Corkum is still in Fortune Bay and has 300 barrels of herring on board the schr. Coronation. The vessel is at Pool's Cove and this is all the herring that can be procured by him. He is now filling the vessel with salt bulk fish.

Taking the average length of an honest cigarette at two and one-half inches, the increase for 1910, if placed end to end, would make a string 73,403 miles in length. This would be sufficient to build an unbroken line of cigarettes around the earth, and then track the system. The entire output for the year was 8,117,546,925 cigarettes, or enough on the same basis, to reach around the world more than 10 times. These, be it understood, are cigarettes of American make.

That the increase is due to the fact that hotels provide smoking rooms for women is denied. Dealers point to the increase in the enrolment at the larger schools and colleges as a possible factor.

Death of Mr. Feehan.

His many friends will regret to learn of the death of Mr. Joseph Feehan, cooper, of the West End, who passed away at 11:30 last night. Deceased was in his 71st year, and leaves a widow and one son to mourn their loss. He worked at the coopering trade all his life and was an industrious citizen who lived at peace with all men.

Smallpox at Western Bay.

We learn that smallpox has developed at Western Bay as well as at Northern Bay, and that two young men named Seliars have been stricken with it. We also learn that sometimes ago others had the disease but the eruptions appearing in their bodies were treated as ordinary sores, ointments being placed on them, and that only recently was it discovered that they had been suffering from smallpox. The disease was brought there from Cape Breton, and if what is reported is correct we would not be surprised to hear of an epidemic in that section.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

In the police court to-day a drunk was discharged.

An assault case between a young man and his stepmother was settled out of court.

An affiliation case was tried in camera.

Horse Goes Overboard

A fine horse owned by Harvey and Co. while drawing snow in a box slide to the edge of their pier to-day, in turning accidentally went overboard bringing the vehicle with it. Men jumped into a boat and cut it clear of the traces after which they towed it, swimming as it went, to the jetty on the King's Wharf. Here a crowd of men had assembled with ropes, and only after great difficulty got the animal on terra firma. The poor oxer was chilled from its long immersion, but liberal doses of liquor soon restored it.

The Home Floated.

The Reid Nfld. Co. received a telegram from Mr. A. D. Brown who is at Rushoon, this morning, saying that the S. S. Home was successfully floated this forenoon. Steam was got up on her all right, but as she was found to be leaking considerably it was decided to tighten her as well as possible from the inside. She will probably be ready to steam here to-morrow.

WEATHER UP COUNTRY.

Along the line to-day the wind is N.W., light and dull; temperature 5 to 30 above.

Newfoundland Girl Dies in Montreal.

THIRTY CASES OF INFLUENZA.

Dr. Chisholm, who came in from Mannuels to-day, reports that influenza is very prevalent there just now. No less than 30 cases developed the past two days.

Marine Notes.

The Florizel is due to-night from Halifax.

The Tabasco sails for Liverpool to-day.

The Waterwitch was cleared to-day by Bowring Bros, taking 3,870 qts. of fish in drums and halves for Bahia.

The Shenandoah left London at 11 a.m. to-day bringing a mail. Captain Gounick, well known here, is in command.

The Tabasco sailed this morning for Liverpool, taking one additional passenger, Mr. Galton.

The Bloodhound hauled over to this side to-day to be made ready for the sealfishery.

A berquentine was reported off Cape Race to-day, and it is believed she is the Atilla from Brazil.

The schr. Jean, Capt. Kennedy, started loading fish at Baird's to-day for Brazil.

The Florizel passed Cape Race at 1 p.m. to-day and is due here at 6 from New York and Halifax.

Excursions by wharves had attractions for which one was adventurous port of Ferryland. The distance is forty miles, and the ship as the Adventurer for big expectations.

At 2:30 p.m. the ship from the wharf of Ferryland and in a few minutes clear for the Narrows. The excursionists were quite lively and the sun shone in.

The excursionists covered, and their heads had assembled on the deck off displayed the ship. The conditions of sailing and we felt like saying "be an excursionist!"

was short lived, for Cape we saw looming effects, a huge fog. Time we were up to the deck, surrounded by its crew. At once the engines were speed, and almost reverse of those that wharf a few minutes later.

Everybody aboard had last delay, meant time and so it proved. After the situation began to the excursionists who standing in little groups, decks. At last a vote the result that the people headed for home, just lifted and the hulls.

and we saw Green Island Bay, about two miles from the wharf, and the ship about again and with full speed about Ferryland. For a while and everybody was full of sure of seeing the which they had heard of often. Soon Ferryland sight, but there was an indication of more deepened, and with the evening gathering air of making port did, some of us saw the light not suffice. By this time passengers began to opinions somewhat thought that the best done. There were those who said that they of ship to Ferryland; they the place, and of course it. They had been there if they had charge of it.

I. C. MORRIS.
CHAPTER VIII.—WE JOIN THE EXCURSIONISTS FOR FERRYLAND.

Excursions by water have always had attractions for the writer, hence when one was advertised for the historic port of Ferryland, we decided to join the company and make merry for a while. The distance from St. John's is forty miles, and with such a steamer ship as the Adventure there was room for big expectations among the excursionists.

At 2.30 p.m. the ship dropped off from the wharf of A. J. Harvey & Co., and in a few minutes her course was clear for the Narrows. The band played quite lively for the moment, and the sun shone in all its splendour. The excursionists were smiles all over, and their hosts of friends who had assembled on the pier to see them off displayed the same good feeling. The conditions of starting were ideal and we felt like saying, "who wouldn't be an excursionist?" But our ecstasy was short lived, for beyond us at the Cape we saw looming with all its effects, a huge fog bank. In a short time we were up to it, and were soon enshrouded by its vapour and mist. At once the engines were put at half speed, and almost every face was the reverse of that which left the wharf a few minutes before.

Everybody aboard knew that the least delay meant missing Ferryland, and so it proved. After a little while the situation began to be discussed by the excursionists who were sitting or standing in little groups about the decks. At last a vote was taken with the result that the good ship was headed for home. Just then the fog lifted and the hilltops came in sight, and we saw Green Island, near Witless Bay, about two miles on our starboard. Immediately the Captain put the ship about again and made a dash with full speed ahead for the port of Ferryland. For a while all went well and everybody was full of hope and felt sure of seeing the historic port of which they had heard so much and so often. Soon Ferryland Head came in sight, but there was also a haze and an indication of more fog. These depended, and with the shades of evening gathering around, all hopes of making port died away. Twice some of us saw the light, but that did not suffice. By this time some of the passengers began to express their opinions somewhat boldly, and thought that the best was not being done. There were those on board who said that they could bring the ship to Ferryland; they all knew about the place, and of course they could do it. They had been there before, and if they had charge of the Adventure's

Young Men's Franchise.

"THEY HAVE NO USE FOR THE VOTE OF THE YOUNG AND INTELLIGENT CITIZENS."

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—Such are the remarks that can be heard on our streets and club rooms owing to the action of our City Fathers in not adopting Councillor Mullaly's resolutions, so well and ably submitted by this young and intelligent representative, whom the taxpayers honored with a seat at the Council Board in the recent Municipal election. As one of the many young men who are at present debarred from having a voice in our city affairs, permit me to publicly protest against such an outrage in this twentieth century, and to state that I am surprised that our respected Mayor allowed such an up to date and democratic movement to pass through his hands without calling for a vote to be taken on such an important matter. Perhaps His Honor may not be aware that at the present time there are upwards of 1,200 young men in the city who would be eligible to vote if Councillor Mullaly's poll tax became law. As to the amount charged per head, I venture to say that not many of those 1,200 young men would refuse to pay provided that the said tax would be reasonable. Paying a poll tax would not be new to some of us. There must be some very grave reason for not adopting such an up to date system of taxation. Is it that the Councillors are afraid of what may happen to the majority of them at the next election, or is it that the city treasury is overflowing with a large surplus that we hear so much about in Government quarters? Well, then, Mayor Ellis, why deprive the young men of the city of their right of saying who will preside at the civic board—wooden men or intellectual ones? We can assure the present members of the Council that the time is come in St. John's when men of Mullaly's stamp, fearless and independent, will be brought forward and returned to power, there to inaugurate new methods in running the city government, for we, the young men, are now determined to seek for our franchise, not from Mayor Ellis and his five colleagues, but through our representatives in the House of Assembly. For is not the father of manhood suffrage, Sir Robert Bond, there in his place today as he was when he had the Bailor Act passed, which, thanks to him, is one great safeguard to-day.

Yours sincerely,
A. W. B.

FESTIVAL OF EMPIRE.

Dressing the Pageant of London.

Elaborate preparations are now being made for the Pageant of London, which is to be one of the principal features of the forthcoming Festival of Empire, to be held at the Crystal Palace, from May to October next, under the patronage and with the support of His Majesty's Government. A distinction rarely accorded to events of this kind.

The Pageant promises to be one of the greatest historical spectacles ever witnessed for neither money nor pains are being spared in the effort to make the 24 scenes, which are to be enacted, accurate representations of events of the various periods selected. The costumes and dresses for this huge undertaking are in themselves a very big item and some idea of the work that is being done in the way of dressing the Pageant in the exact mode of the respective periods may be gathered from the fact that there are no fewer than 15,000 performers taking part in the various scenes.

In order that every little detail of the costumes may be absolutely accurate a research committee was formed, whose duty it was to trace in the various museums and private houses old master pieces and tapestries portraying characters and scenes in striking lines long gone by. Then a large staff of artists, all specialists in this kind of work, was engaged to make copies from the paintings, and from these coloured drawings the designs for the dresses were executed.

Of the ten thousand or more costumes required for the Pageant there are nearly seven thousand already completed, work which necessitated a staff of over 200 workers being engaged practically night and day during the past twelve months. All the material employed in the manufacture of the finest quality, and all the principals, and there are many hundreds of them, will be clad in the finest satins, silks, and richest velvets, compatible with the dignity of the characters they are impersonating.

It will thus be seen that the cost of dressing the Pageant alone is a very big item of expenditure, for the dresses range in price from two pounds to thirty guineas, the latter price having been paid for the outfit for the lady who will play the part of Queen Elizabeth. Another important item is the armour for the Knights. It is doubtful whether there is sufficient available armour in the country for the hundreds of characters that will be clad in the Pageant, so it was decided to manufacture special suits for the occasion. In order to do this a special armoury has been established at the Crystal Palace, where no fewer than 80 workmen are busily engaged in turning out the mail armours. The chain armour, another big item in itself, has been contracted out.

Another important item is the facis and figures connected with the staging and dressing of the Pageant of London. There are a thousand and one other minor details, all more or less important in themselves.—London, January 27, 1911.

PASSENGERS WALK ASHORE.—All the passengers on the S. S. Bruce—about 20 in number—walked ashore yesterday morning and landed in Sydney.

T. A. BILLIARD TOURNEY.—The T. A. Club will likely begin their billiard tourney about the 1st March and a large number of players will take part.

LAUNCHED IN APRIL.—Bowling Bros. new steamer, the Stephano, it is expected, will be launched on the 10th of April. Capt. Clarke of the Florizel will go to Glasgow to bring her out.

FREIGHT ACCUMULATING.—The delay to the S. S. Bruce, which has been occasioned by ice in the Gulf, has caused an accumulation of freight at Sydney, and it is possible the Invermore will be put on for a couple of trips to relieve the congestion.

VERY LOW TEMPERATURE.—From passengers by the Prospero we learn that up on the S. W. Coast the weather was very severe and the glass went down to 25 below zero, while at Conn River it went to 28. Most of the harbors along the coast are frozen over.

CLEARING WATER STREET.—The Reid Nfd. Co. yesterday had a number of men engaged on Water St. taking away the snow piled up by the sweeper. The piles of snow were a great impediment to teamsters, and they are now being leveled to the regulation, 6 inches.

Nerves Were Exhausted

Wants others to know of her remarkable cure by use of DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Mrs. Martin's condition as described in her letter below gives some idea of the extraordinary reconstructive power of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Such cures as this have placed Dr. Chase's Nerve Food where it stands today as the most popular and most effective nerve restorative that money will buy.

Mrs. Edwin Martin, Ayer's Cliff, Que., writes:—"Before I began using Dr. W. Chase's Nerve Food I was in a terrible condition. Dizzy spells would come over me and I would fall to the floor in a faint. I could not even sweep the floor without fainting and my nervous system seemed to be entirely exhausted.

"The use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food has built up my system wonderfully so that I can do my housework and washing without any trouble, and I want others to know about it." In fact on getting the genuine Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cts. a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The Government's Peat and Explosive Measures Criticised.

Yesterday afternoon the House of Assembly was engaged in a discussion of the Government's Bill to encourage the manufacture of Peat and Explosives in this country, and Sir Robert Bond took up most of the time in an exhaustive criticism.

With regard to the Peat Bill, he said that it was very desirable that proper inducements should be held out to the companies to encourage the business, but he thought in the Agreement before the House the Government had gone too far in that direction, and further had not properly protected public interests.

First, he would observe that there was no stipulation in the Contract as to how the peat areas are to be worked. This is a very serious defect. A few years ago he had made it his business to visit the West of Ireland on purpose to see how the peat areas were worked in that country, and he found that there is a restriction in force as to the depth to which the peat may be graded. This was for the purpose of leaving a residue that may be turned into pasture land, or converted into areas of still higher cultivation.

The same restriction applied in Holland, where immense areas of peat have been worked. With such a restriction it would be recognized that the lands to be conveyed to the company may be stripped of all seed bed material down to rock bottom and the country will be left with desolate rocky wastes. The amount of peat graded annually in Holland amounts to over one million tons, and the amount of land stripped in the process is estimated at close upon one thousand acres yearly. There are now in a high state of cultivation in Holland two hundred and ten thousand acres of this cut-away bog, some of which is valued at one hundred and sixty pounds sterling per acre.

The Premier admitted this omission and the great importance of Sir Robert Bond's proposed amendment, and promised the House that provision would be made to safeguard the country in this respect by an amendment to the Crown Lands Act. Sir Robert then took up another point in the Agreement. He said he could conceive of no just reason for granting this company water powers. It would be observed that the water powers may be selected anywhere in the island and to any number that the company might deem sufficient for their purposes. Water power was not necessary for the conduct of this peat industry, because peat itself is one of the very best generators of electrical power. He based his assertion upon the opinion of probably the highest authority extant on this subject, namely, Sir R. H. Sankey, K.C.B., R.E., late Chairman of the Irish Board of Works. Not long ago that distinguished gentleman had published a paper on the utilization of the peat bogs of Ireland for the generation and distribution of electrical energy. He further says that no less than 13 power schemes have already obtained parliamentary authorization in the British Isles within the last three or four years, and it is not too much to assume that before another decade has passed there will be hardly an existing industry anywhere which will not be within reach of electrical energy and able to apply it. Water power, Sir R. H. Sankey further declared, was incapable of competing with peat for generation of electrical energy. In the face of such an opinion as this, it would be absurd for the Government to contend that these water powers that they proposed to give away were necessary to the establishment of the peat industry. No water powers have heretofore been leased or granted except subject to a royalty or rental payable to the Government.

Sir Robert Bond then pointed out what was perhaps the most serious defect of all, namely, that the Agreement did not contain a clause for continuous operation and forfeiture of the lands granted in the event of non-operation.

The Premier contended that it did. Sir Robert Bond challenged him to point it out. After fumbling with the paper for some time the Premier had to admit that Sir Robert was right. There is no such clause, and this Company may at any time move out, take away all their machinery, hold on to the water-powers and immense areas of land, and as Sir Robert Bond said leave the Colony with a few old clappanets that covered their machinery to represent the value of the large concessions granted under the Agreement.

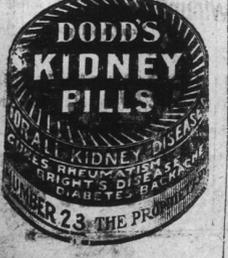

With regard to the Government's Explosives Agreement, Sir Robert Bond raised the same objections as to grant of water powers and timber areas, but he said the granting of timber areas in the case of this Company was particularly objectionable because it was not alone for the purpose of the Company's business here, but to supply their business branches in other parts of the world. The Agreement actually provided that the Company may enter into the manufacture of timber to supply their factories the world over. They are given a free timber area, they pay no stumpage fee or royalty, they are to be subject to no future taxation and are thus to compete most unfairly with every mill owner in the country. While this Agreement, Sir Robert Bond remarked, purports to be for the encouragement of a new industry in this country it actually subsidizes the Company to carry on their business elsewhere by free timber limits and free lumber for the making of boxes to export material made in other countries. It was apparent to him, Sir Robert, that the Government did not realize what they are about for the concessions they have given must defeat the big object they have in view, namely the manufacture here of explosives for export. If we want them to manufacture here it is nothing short of imbecility to facilitate them in carrying on their manufactures elsewhere.

Sir Robert Bond then took up another point in the Agreement. He said he could conceive of no just reason for granting this company water powers. It would be observed that the water powers may be selected anywhere in the island and to any number that the company might deem sufficient for their purposes. Water power was not necessary for the conduct of this peat industry, because peat itself is one of the very best generators of electrical power. He based his assertion upon the opinion of probably the highest authority extant on this subject, namely, Sir R. H. Sankey, K.C.B., R.E., late Chairman of the Irish Board of Works. Not long ago that distinguished gentleman had published a paper on the utilization of the peat bogs of Ireland for the generation and distribution of electrical energy. At the regular meeting of the Lodge, held on the 14th inst., the annual report was presented, showing the Lodge to be in a good healthy condition, both numerically and financially. There are now 450 members on the roll in good standing and over seven thousand dollars to its credit in the bank. During the past year there has been paid out for funeral and sick benefits over $1,500. This institution, in addition to all other members a weekly allowance when sick and a mortuary benefit on the death of themselves, their wives and their children, also furnishes its members with a doctor free of all extra charge.

Herring Fishery in Fortune Bay.

Passengers by the s.s. Prospero report that the herring fishery at Fortune Bay is about winding up. The total catch is not so big as was at first expected. When the herring were most plentiful there were no schooners there to buy them. The few vessels that came there the latter part of January secured full cargoes. There was also a large quantity put up salted in barrels by the fishermen. The herring struck off at Connaigre Bay last Saturday. The bankers have secured all they need for the first halting.

Lying in Lane.

Last night as Inspector Collins and Sergeant Sackie went up Water Street, they heard a man remark to another, who was intoxicated and whom he was trying to get along up McDermott's Lane, "I cannot go further with you." He then walked away from the unfortunate, who fell and lay in the thoroughfare. It was fortunate that the officers observed the man, for it was very cold and shortly afterwards became stormy. Had the unfortunate been left where he was he would have perished. Procuring a sleigh the officers brought him to the station.

- Piano Solo—Mr. Miller.
- Piano Solo—Miss Duffin.
- Song—Mr. Foster.
- Song—Miss LeMessurier.
- Mandolin Solo—Miss Goodland.
- Song—Miss McKinley.
- Duet—W. and J. Thomas.
- Song—H. Dewling.

Mr. W. H. Goodland read the report of the work of the Harbor Mission (new during the year 1910) which showed that satisfactory progress had been made. The tables which were well patronized were in charge of Lady Horwood, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. Bowring, Mrs. Clapp, Mrs. Harvey, Mrs. R. B. Job, Mrs. Outerbridge, Mrs. Geo. Shea, Mrs. White, Mrs. Stone, Mrs. Thistle, Miss Pilot and Miss Hayward. Some very fine selections were given on the gramophone kindly lent by the C. E. T. S.

A vote of thanks proposed by Rev. James Bell was carried unanimously. All present voted the whole entertainment as one of the most enjoyable they ever attended.

Man's Dangerous Predicament.

At 10:30 Tuesday night a gentleman passing up the street near Victoria Hall found a man lying in the snow there in a stupor from liquor. He could not arouse him, and as the weather was intensely cold, to leave him there would be possibly to seal his death warrant. He therefore entered the Hall and, telephoning the police station, officers Cleary and Bussey took him to the station, the man being compelled to carry him. On arrival there it was found that one of the man's hands was badly frozen, and procuring snow the officers rubbed it until the frost was drawn out, after which by chafing the member the circulation was restored. The man was also bitten about the face, but not severely. He was later placed near the stove and thawed out. The pain caused by the frost burns was so intense that when the man was placed near the stove he cried aloud. Had he been left on the street he would have quickly succumbed from cold and exposure.

Plenty Fish at Channel

Last week fish was very plentiful on the banks of Channel. The Violist May, Capt. Tibbo, made a dart out with herring bait and setting their trawls secured 90 qts. in two days. The fishermen in small skiffs about Burgeo and Ramea are also doing well, averaging 5 qts. a day for a dory. The Holletts of Burin are getting their bankers ready and will sail next week.

The vessels will be on the grounds early in March.

IRISH HOME RULE

Discussed in the House of Commons Yesterday.

Special Evening Telegram.
LONDON, This morning.

The Nationalist members who have come across the Irish Channel were out in full force in a preliminary skirmish on the Home Rule question yesterday, which arose as a result of an amendment to the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne moved in the House of Commons by Dan Macdonald, Conservative member for Croydon, complaining of the obscurity of the ministerial statements on the subject of Home Rule which avowedly was one main reason for altering the existing constitution and had hampered effective deliberation on the proposed changes in the relations between the two Houses of Parliament. Premier Asquith followed in a speech which drew forth vigorous replies from the Irish and the Liberal members. He declared that every one had voted at the General Election in December with the full knowledge that when the power of the House of Lords, the great obstacle to the achievement of liberal legislation was cleared away the task of the Government will be to carry out the policy of full self-government for Ireland. Mr. J. Redmond, on behalf of the Nationalists, welcomed the Premier's declaration and said he believed Home Rule as defined by Premier Asquith would be a final settlement of the question, and in so far as they could, Nationalists would pledge their countrymen to that effect. He denied he was a Separatist Nationalist, he said, had accepted Imperialism. He invited the House of Commons to make it effective, and expressed the hope that the reign of the present King would be made glorious by the opening by the Sovereign in person of a Parliament of a friendly reconstituted Irish nation. Mr. Winston Churchill said if the Government cancelled the Irish and the English peoples around them the monarchy would gain advantage equal to many divisions of the fleet and army. Mr. O'Brien did not doubt that Home Rule would come immediately, but he doubted the possibility of carrying the measure in the present Parliament however, but he promised the Premier the hearty co-operation of his party. Mr. Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, summing up the debate, said Ireland alone could deal satisfactorily with her own affairs; they could not do justice to Ireland on the floor of this House. He promised that the Government's Home Rule scheme should be placed before the House so soon as the Parliament bills were passed. Mr. Macdonald's amendment was defeated by 326 to 213.

Annexation Talk.

Special Evening Telegram.
WASHINGTON, This Morning.

Some semi-jocular remark which Champ Clark, Democratic Speaker to be, which were made in the House yesterday during the debate on the Reciprocity Agreement to the effect that he believed the Stars and Stripes would one day float over the entire Western Hemisphere stirred up an unexpected trouble. President Taft wrote to Representative McCall a letter deprecating annexation talk, and followed it up with personal remarks more emphatic. News that Clark's allusions had created excitement in Canada and England occasioned surprise, as the entire speech was delivered in a half taunting vein.

Sores Spread From Eye to Neck
Miss Mary Conley of 184 Fulton St., Montreal, writes: "Over a year ago I became bothered with a slightly sore on my right cheek. The sore spread until it reached the neck, below the ear. It was covered from the eye to the jaw, the neck, below the ear. It was noticeable that people asked me if I had cancer, and I began to feel the bad. I fully expected the sores would heal some day, and I tried many highly recommended salves and ointments, but nothing did any good."
"I was about to consult a specialist when a lady friend spoke of Zam-Buk and advised a trial of it. First, Acting on her advice I procured a box of Zam-Buk and noticed the immediate effect the balm had on the sores. I used three boxes only, and as I kept applying it each evening before retiring I could see how the sores were being cleaned and dried up. My improvement continued until my eye was cleared of sores completely. Zam-Buk is certainly a marvellous balm. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for sores, chapped hands, frost bites, eczema, blood-poisoning, varicose sores, scaly sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, boils, eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises, and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post paid from Zam-Buk Co., St. John's, N.F., upon receipt of price. You are warned against harmful imitations and substitutes. Local Actors' Successful Work

"THE LITTLEST GIRL."
When the 1911 record of local theatricals is complete, last night's performance of "The Littlest Girl," gripping vital playlet—will be seen to have won a place among its successful accomplishments. From start to finish it is a fine, natural, subtle incident in which could not see have occurred in real life, and in broader view the drama, teaches moral lesson. And it was splendidly acted. In the role of Van Bibber, O'Grady built an ideal of cold vividness, and Mr. L. Murphy limned clearly the firm resolution of Mr. Carruthers. And the neatness of the acting extended even to the minor roles—Davenport, played by Mr. Farrell, and "The Littlest Girl" played by Miss McCoubrey. As an afterthought to a concert or charitable entertainment it would be a great success.

New Owner of the Fateful Hope Stone.

MRS. McLEAN BRINGS BEAUTY AND RICHES INTO COMBAT WITH FATE.

"Will the famous or infamous Hope diamond prove the Nemesis of Mrs. Edward McLean, mother of the $100,000,000 baby"? That is the question all the country is asking to-day, and especially the society women of Wash- ington city. Will she accept the glove thrown down by fate, and enter the lists? Already, it is said, she is con- templating sending back the diamond. Will she do so? Who knows?

Noted for Beauty.
As Miss Evelyn Walsh, the owner of the diamond, was noted for her beauty; when she married Mr. Mc- Lean, himself a rich man, it was gen- erally conceded that the match was an ideal one.
So far the couple have been very happy; their one child has been zeal- ously guarded night and day on ac- count of reports that the infant might be kidnapped.

What will happen, now that the beautiful mother has been made the recipient of the Hope diamond from her husband? Will she be able to break the spell that has surrounded the unlucky stone through all its history, if she decides to keep it? Time alone can answer this ques- tion.

Most Valuable in America.
At any rate Mrs. McLean is the possessor of the most valuable dia- mond in America and one of the most valuable in the world. To no other stone is there anything like the ro- mance attached that there is to this fateful gem. Its scintillating rays bespeak a score of tragedies; in its wonderful depth are concealed state secrets and marvellous adventures.

Look at its record! It is believed it was a part of the same stone brought from India by the famous French traveller Tavernier in 1642. It was sold by him to Louis XIV., and was for three years one of the crown jewels of France. In 1792 it was seized by the Revolutionists and de- posited in the Grand Meuble, whence it was stolen and until 1830 was lost to the world. Recut and made small- er, it was sold to Henry Thomas Hope.

Leech of Misfortune.
And now for the misfortunes that have followed, like so many leeches, the owners of the diamond. The Grand Monarque allowed Mme. Mont- espain to wear it, and her downfall dated from that moment. Fouquet, that brilliant but unscrupulous star who held sway over the French finan- ces, borrowed the stone for a fête which he gave in honor of Louis, and the splendor of the feast so impress- ed the monarch that he at once took steps to banish the subject who could so nearly rival his own glory. Dur- ing the reign of the dissolute Louis XV. it lay in a crypt apparently for- gotten, but when Marie Antoinette came from Austria to wear the crown as the French Queen of Louis XVI., she also wore the jewel and then lent it to her bosom friend, the Princess de Yamballe. The princess was torn limb from limb by infuriated Revolu- tionists and the Queen lost her head on the guillotine. Louis followed his wife to execution.
The stone next appeared in a

The EVENING TELEGRAM.

THE advertiser who puts his Advt. in the EVENING TELEGRAM never complains of results. It is read and believed by the people who buy goods. That is one reason why the TELEGRAM'S advertising columns Carry More Advertising Than Any Other Newspaper in Newfoundland.

That fact "speaks for itself," and it is not our intention just now to emphasize it further. What we want to do is to bring home to the business men (if there are any who have not availed of our columns in the past) the advantage to be gained through a liberal use of the TELEGRAM, in bringing before the people what they want the public—the great buying public—most to know:

The Kind of Goods They Have To Sell, the Quality of the Goods, Prices, &c.

If that is what the shopkeeper wants the public to learn, the TELEGRAM is the right medium through which it can be conveyed, because—

1st. It has the largest cir- culation, and

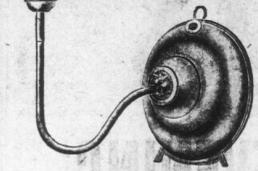

2nd. Consequently it is the most widely-read newspaper in Newfoundland;

3rd. Naturally, then, it must be THE BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM in Newfoundland;

4th. Therefore, the advertiser has everything to gain, and nothing to lose, by availing of the services of the EVENING TELEGRAM during 1911.

The Little Beauty Night Lamp

This is by far the handsomest, safest, most economical and odorless Night Lamp ever invented. It burns ordinary Kerosene Oil, and from one filling will burn 40 hours or 5 nights without odor. The oil will cost you less than 2 cts. for the 5 nights.

The lamps are made of brass, handsomely nickel plated and look like an electric lamp when lighted.

For entries, doorways, stairways or anywhere, and in case of sickness this Lamp will be found of great value. Will stand or hang.
