Sweet Eva!

CHAPTER XXX.
She leaned her chin in the palm of her hand and looked into the glowing heart of the fire.

Something in the leaping flames and the silence made her think of that last night at the Highway House when she had left the note for Philip. That night had seemed like the first decided step leading on to the final tragedy. Even now she winced as she thought of that moment when she had waited for him and waited in vain.

It had been humiliation upon humiliation until that last terrible night . . . and since! Well, he had not bothered sufficiently about her since to be anything but indifferently courteous.

The outer door of the flat banged, and she started up.

Peter already! Then he could not have seen Kitty!

But the man taking off his coat in the hall was Philip.

She smiled rather grimly. His wife looked at him, and her heart began to race in the old, traitorous fashion.

"I thought you were Peter," she faltered.

"I did not flatter myself that you were waiting up for me," he said.

CHAPTER XXXI.
Philip followed his wife into the drawing-room; he looked round it quickly.

"Calligan gone?" he asked.
"Yes—he went some time ago with Peter."

"Peter!"
"Yes—Kitty was out when he called before dinner, so he has gone again."

There was a little silence; Eva stooped and began picking up the music which strewed the floor.

She had not been alone with Philip since the night she went to the theatre with Calligan, and she felt painfully nervous.

She wondered why he had come home so early; as a rule it was long past midnight when she heard him let himself into the flat.

Philip stood with his shoulders against the mantelshelf staring up at the ceiling.

"I've been with Faulkner to-night," he said.
"Faulkner!" Eva echoed the name vaguely.

"Yes," Philip brought his eyes down to her face. "Perhaps you don't remember him—he came to Aspley for the wedding; big man with grey hair . . ."

"Oh yes." She did not remember him in the least, and it did not seem to matter, but she rose to her feet; somehow she felt that something that did matter was to follow.

"He has a lot of property abroad," Philip went on. "In Rhodesia—chiefly . . . he wants a man to go out and look after it for him." Eva put out a hand and steadied herself against the piano; she knew now what was coming.

"You mean that he has asked you to go," she said with stiff lips.

"Yes."
"And you—are going?"
He frowned.

"I haven't decided. It takes consideration, of course. If you would rather that I refused . . ."

"You must do as you please. I should not care to influence you."

There was a chair close to where she stood, and she sat down with an overwhelming feeling of weakness.

The firelit room and Philip seemed a long, long way off; but she could hear his voice with painful distinctness. It seemed almost as if he were shouting at her.

"It amounts to this," he was saying in a hard voice. "I can't spend the rest of my life hanging round town doing nothing. I've had enough of it already. I'm getting stale and flabby. There's nothing to keep me in England, except . . . except the matter, and she'll agree to my going if I—if I explain things to her. Faulkner has made me a generous offer—possibly because he doesn't know my incapacities. He doesn't want me for another six weeks or two months, so I can get some hunting in . . ."

He turned his head suddenly and looked down at her. "Well?"

She raised her eyes.
"There seems nothing left for me to say."

Her voice was so quick that it would have taken a more shrewd man than Philip Winterdick to have guessed what she was really feeling; to know that her heart was one wounded, unanswered question:—

"And what about me—what about me?"

"It's not as if you were depending on me," Philip went on grimly.

"Faulkner!" Eva echoed the name vaguely.

always go to the Highway House—if you care to—mother would be glad to have you."

"Yes." The little monosyllable sounded to him like an indifferent acquiescence, and a wave of uncontrollable bitterness swept through his heart.

"You've no objection," he asked presently.

She laughed faintly.
"I've no right to object—we've agreed to go our own way—you must do as you please."

"Very tactfully put," he submitted dryly; then, with a sudden burst of passion: "Why can't you speak the truth and say you'll be damned glad to be rid of me?"

There was an excited flush in his face; he controlled himself with an effort.

"I beg your pardon," he said, after a moment. "I seem to have no manners, no common decency at all in these days . . ." He drew a long breath. "Are you going to wait up for Peter?" he asked with a sudden change of tune.

"Yes."
"Do you mind if I don't? I'm tired . . ." he snatched at any excuse which would take him away; he dreaded another scene, but he felt that if he stayed he would say or do something which he would repent for the rest of his life.

"No—please go."
Eva listened to his step in the hall desolately. How much more did he think she could bear, she wondered. She grasped the sides of the chair with both hands and rocked herself to and fro.

He was going away—he was going to Rhodesia and she would be left behind.

She might as well have refused to listen to Calligan. She might as well have carried out her intention and snapped the farcical tie of her marriage that bitter morning.

There would be an added humiliation now to bear. People would say that Philip had left her, that he had either never cared for her or that he had soon grown tired.

She did not know how long she sat there by the dying fire; did not know that the minutes had crawled away into hours, or that it was nearly one o'clock when Peter came in. She had given him a latchkey, and he was in the hall before she could go to meet him.

She tried to chase the shadows from her eyes—tried to smile as she went towards him, but the smile was frozen stiffly on her lips when she saw his face.

"Peter," she said with a catch in her voice.

He did not seem to hear. He hung up his hat and coat and stood for a moment aimlessly in the hall, as if he had forgotten where he was.

"Peter," said Eva again. She went over and touched his arm. "Peter—is anything the matter?"

He roused himself with a start.
"No, oh no . . . Have you waited up? You must be dead tired."

He went back with her to the drawing-room. He stooped over the fire and held his hands to the dying warmth.

Eva watched him apprehensively. She saw how pale he was, and heard the strain in his voice. She tried to speak naturally:

"And Kitty? I hope Kitty is well?"

He did not answer for a moment; then he said hoarsely: "I only saw her for a moment. She didn't come in till past twelve. I waited up and down the street for her—I couldn't come home till I'd seen her."

"And wasn't she surprised to see you? What did she say, Peter?"

He laughed grimly.
"She certainly seemed surprised. She said—his voice broke, but he controlled it fiercely—"she said, 'How dare you follow me and spy on me like this?' He caught his sister's hand in a hard grip. 'I've got to tell someone—I've got to tell you.'"

"But you won't ever tell anyone else know, will you, Bonnie? Promise me—promise."

"Peter, of course, not—but—"

"She wasn't glad to see me; she was angry," he went on despairingly. "She said I had no right to come. She said that she supposed I was just spying on her to see what she was doing. And that fellow stood there—that brute Featherstone, or whatever his name is, and laughed. I could have killed him," he added, between clenched teeth.

DODD SAYS IT PUT HIM BACK ON HIS OLD JOB ONCE MORE

Saint John's Man Works Fourteen Hours A Day And Feels Fine All The Time.

"A short time ago I was nothing but skin and bones and so weak I couldn't move from one room to another without help, and here I am to-day back on the job feeling fine and twenty-two pounds heavier, so you may know what I think of Tanlac," said George Dodd, Black Head Road, St. John's, West, Nfld.

"Almost from the first dose of Tanlac my appetite began to pick up and my strength began to come back. By the time I had finished my first bottle I was able to walk to the drug store and buy the second bottle for myself. From then on I got strength right along, and now I do fourteen hours hard work a day and feel as well and strong as I ever did in my life. I don't believe the equal of Tanlac as a medicine has ever been made, when it comes to building a man up and giving him new life and energy."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

CONFERENCE WILL GO ON.—LONDON, Feb. 10. Great Britain will agree to no postponement of the Genoa Economic Conference, unless the request for such postponement emanates from Rome. It was authoritatively declared here to-day.

AMENDMENT DEFEATED.—LONDON, Feb. 10. The Labour Party's amendment in reply to the King's speech was defeated in the House of Commons by a vote of 270 to 78.

KILLED AND ROBBED.—BELFAST, Feb. 10. Lieut. Morgan Brown, of Kildare, was shot dead to-day by armed men as he was returning to barracks at Curragh with 500 pounds he had drawn from the bank. His assassins escaped with the money.

RUSSIA'S POVERTY.—MOSCOW, Feb. 10. Russia has only thirteen per cent. of the agricultural implements her farmers owned in peace, according to M. Kamenoff, head of the Famine Relief Works. Towns and cities have only one-fifth of their pre-war wealth, while the wealth of the country is only one-half of what it was before the war.

KIDNAPPING DEMANDS PRESENCE OF TROOPS.—LONDON, Feb. 10. An announcement was made in the House of Commons to-day that Premier Lloyd George had notified Michael Collins, head of the Irish Provisional Government that kidnaping in Ireland showed the necessity of the presence of British troops in Ulster. It was also announced that the Northern Irish Parliament had been assured that the number of British troops would be increased to any extent necessary for the protection of the inhabitants.

FAMINE RELIEF SHIP DESTROYED.—CHRISTIANIA, Feb. 10. The British steamship Lowlands, bound for Murmansk with a cargo of food for the Russian famine sufferers, has been destroyed by fire. Members of the crew who were landed on the Murmansk Coast described the situation there as terrible and said the people resembled wild beasts. The sailors further declared that food alone was useless and that medical aid was necessary to save the starving population.

A SENSATIONAL PROPOSAL.—WASHINGTON, Feb. 10. Senator King of Utah, who to-day introduced a resolution in the United States Senate looking to the acquisition by the United States of a slice of Canada in return for United States endorsement of the St. Lawrence waterways project, does not seriously expect that Uncle Sam will acquire added territory as a result of his move. To the Canadian Press he admitted he was prompted by opposition to the project, his resolution being merely a spectacular way of advancing his argument that the United States would be paying half the cost of a work which would be largely outside United States territory. His resolution calls for the cession by Canada of that triangular section of Quebec Province bounded by the Richelieu River and Lake Champlain on the east, the State of New York on the south, and the St. Lawrence River on the North.

RETAINS CHAMPIONSHIP.—NEW YORK, Feb. 10. Benny Leonard, World's Light weight boxing champion, retained his title to-night by receiving the judge's decision over Rocky Kansas, of Buffalo, at the end of a 15 round bout.

At the Curling Rink.

Souvenir From Beaumont, Hamel.

The first smoker for the season was held by the Newfoundland Curlers' Association last night in the club room at the Curling Rink. Besides the members of the Club, a number of guests were present. The guest of honour of the evening was Rev. (Lt.-Col.) Nangle. Shortly after nine o'clock the Curlers and their guests assembled in the main room of the club, and President W. H. Duder, in a very happy speech, welcomed all present and invited them to enjoy themselves in the true "Curling" spirit. He then called upon Mr. Jas. A. MacKenzie to conduct the musical programme. With "Bert, a noteworthy at the piano the well known "Hall! Hall! the gang's all here" was struck up and lustily sung. When the last strains of the lively chorus had been rendered, Mr. James MacKenzie announced a programme in which the following gentlemen took part: James Bindon, J. H. Scammell, John Cornick, J. A. Young, "Sandy" Lawrence, A. H. Salter, and Messrs. Whitford and Pritchard of the S.S. Digby. In some clever impersonations of international characters, Mr. Pritchard displayed great talent. The different songs and recitations by the foregoing gentlemen received well merited applause. The President then introduced Col. Nangle as the "Padre of the Curlers" and called upon him for a speech. On rising to speak, the reverend gentleman received a tremendous ovation. Colonel Nangle thanked the Curlers for their reception and for the splendid entertainment given. He then referred to his present work of raising funds for the War Memorial. He said that it should not be any trouble to collect an amount sufficient to erect a memorial suitable to the memory of our gallant lads who went over and have paid the Supreme Sacrifice. With this object in view he had offered his services to collect $50,000, and within a few days he had nearly that amount in sight. He thanked the Curlers for the help which they had promised him, and was confident that their effort would prove an unequalled success. As an earnest of his feelings he presented the Association with a signboard from Beaumont Hamel as a souvenir. The signboard is coated with mud and bears the following inscription, "Beaumont Trench, Front Line." As a work of art the board is absolutely valueless, but as a souvenir of that day, July 1st, when so many of our boys went "West," it is priceless. In feeling language he described the activities of our boys on that day. He concluded by urging all to do their utmost in forwarding the movement. President Duder, on behalf of the Association, thanked Padre Nangle for the souvenir which, he said, would be plated and framed and hung in a place of honour in the Club Rooms. After refreshments were served Messrs. E. A. Chafe, E. B. McInerney and other gentlemen rendered some excellent songs and recitations. Secretary A. H. Salter then spoke. He thanked Colonel Nangle for the souvenir and assured him of the support of the Club. He then distributed tickets for the gala day, Wednesday next. Mr. W. J. Higgins then assumed control of the meeting, and the usual programme was continued until an early hour this morning. During the evening Mr. Gordon Christian relieved Mr. Noseworthy at the piano. The whole affair was indeed a "real roarin'" time, and proved in no uncertain manner that when the Memorial Day comes "The Curlers will not be short."

CAMPAIGNING TO DESTROY FRENCH CREDIT.—PARIS, Feb. 10. Police investigation of an alleged campaign to spread false news about French Banks was said by Minister of Interior Maunroy to-day to indicate the existence of a systematic campaign directed from London against the credit of France. While London appeared to be the headquarters for the movement, he said, there were indications that the campaign did not involve British subjects, but was conducted by foreigners. He added that there were indications that German and Bolsheviks were involved.

HOW TO BAKE BREAD FROM CANADA'S BEST FLOUR.

MATERIALS:
3 quarts of Windsor Patent Flour,
1 Tablespoon Salt,
4 Cups Lukewarm Water,
1 Dry Yeast Cake.

PREPARATION

Let yeast cake dissolve in ¼ cup lukewarm water for about 10 minutes. Put salt into mixing pan. Add water and enough flour to make a stiff batter (about the consistency of pan-cake mixture). Add yeast and beat two or three minutes; put in warm place to rise over night; in the morning sponge should be twice its size. Add enough flour to make a dough stiff enough not to stick to hands or board; after flour is all mixed in, turn mass out on bread board and knead two or three minutes; let rise again about twice its size, then mold lightly into pans, cover well and let rise twice its size. Bake in a modern oven until loaf is nicely browned and feels light when taken out of pan. This quantity makes 5 small loaves. If large batch of bread required, increase materials accordingly.

That "Innocent-Looking Blackbird."

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—My attention was drawn to a letter which appeared in your paper a few days ago in which the writer expresses great dissatisfaction because he happened to see an innocent looking blackbird nestling among the trees out near Smithville. Who the writer P.K.D. is I do not know, but I take it that he is not long a resident of the city or such a simple incident would not set his thinking machinery in motion. I notice he quotes a well-known business man who gives it as his opinion that the blackbird in question was a different species of blackbird from that which we have in summer time, but I can assure this gentleman that the blackbird that P.K.D. saw out on the Long Pond Road is a descendant of the same old blackbird that we caught on the farmers "heads" years ago in our happy boyhood days. Why it is so uncommon occasion any other day for a citizen to take a walk countrywards in February and see a blackbird here and there quite happy in his winter home. I.P.K.D. had seen a tom fox or a yellow hammer about this season of the year, well then, that would be an occurrence worth relating. However, Mr. Editor, as every man is entitled to his own views on this matter, I should like to have an expression of opinion from Mr. W. A. B. Selater, our local naturalist, as no one in Newfoundland has a better knowledge or made such a close study of the habits and customs of our game, either of birds or animals, than this gentleman. Hoping that Mr. Selater will throw some light on this matter, I am,

Yours truly,
OLD ST. JOHN'S BOY.

Basket Ball Games. An interesting series of Basket Ball and Hockey games are now being run off at the C.C.C. Armoury. In the senior Basket Ball series there are nine teams entered, and they have been drawn so as to be evenly matched as possible. In the junior series seven teams are competing, and up to the present the winners of the series cannot be predicted. The Basket Ball games are played on Monday and Tuesday nights, and Hockey on Friday's. Each team has its own particular name, and a close finish is expected. Next week will see the opening of the Hockey schedule, and here too the teams are matched as evenly as possible, and in all seven teams are participating namely, Cree-ents, Falcons, Caribous, Shannons, Rangers, Stars and Victorias. The hockey games promise to be most interesting, and the lads are practicing hard and the keenest of rivalry exists.

Digby Arrives. S.S. Digby, Capt. Chambers, reached port from Halifax at 6 o'clock last evening. The ship reports meeting much ice on the passage. The ocean for 30 miles South of the Cape is covered and consequently progress was slow. At the entrance to port the ice barrier is very heavy, and only through careful management was the ship brought through. The following passengers arrived by the Digby:—F. Crane, Mrs. M. Crane, Mrs. M. R. Caulfield, Mrs. S. Fisher, Miss M. Freeman, Miss Bride Mooney, J. J. Bates, Miss Marion Dave, Miss C. B. Hughes, D. S. Kerr, Mrs. E. A. Kerr, W. B. Miller, J. H. McDonald, C. A. Manuel, E. McInley. The Digby is taking a large outward cargo, and will not be sailing for Liverpool till Monday. The following have booked passage by the ship:—Hon. F. H. and Mrs. Steer, Gen. Hall, Mrs. Medlock, J. M. Brown, J. W. Hiscock, M. S. Sullivan and E. J. Brown.

Train Notes. As the road has been cleared of all fresh snow, all trains will be running on time to-day.

A local train from Carbonear arrived here at 9 o'clock last night. The road is now clear all through.

The Coaker-Special with Hon. W. F. Coaker and party on board, which had been snowbound at Clarenville during the past few days, arrived at Port Union at 11 o'clock last night.

The flowing sleeve and wrapped scant skirt are being shown together.

A Splendid Flight.

By flying to Angle Brook and back in two and a half hours, Major Cotton has not only established a new record, but has once more demonstrated the incalculable benefit which the establishment of an aerial mail service would be to Newfoundland. Periodical communication by air between St. John's and various outports to which there is no other means of approach, could be easily maintained at little cost and the matter should receive the careful consideration of the Department of Posts.

A Newfoundland University.

In a letter in yesterday's Telegram, Dr. V. P. Burke refers to a local university. This is a matter which has frequently been discussed and there are several who believe that such an institution should be established. But is the erection of a university feasible, and is it necessary? In the first place, the expense which would be incurred in keeping up such an institution would be enormous and certainly not to be thought of at the present time. Secondly, it is doubtful if there are enough prospective students to render its establishment necessary. It would be far better to expend money on such scholastic institutions as at present exist here, rather than to incur the risk of having still another "White Elephant" left on our hands. If only part of the money that might be spent on the erection of a university were offered in scholarships which would enable the winners to complete their education at some recognized institution abroad, infinitely more good would result.

The Humber Proposition.

Public attention from the commencement of the year has been monopolized by the Humber Development Project. In the Clubs, on the street, in fact, everywhere, the proposition has been the chief subject of conversation. Nor is this anything but natural when it is realized that never before has there been such great need for employment throughout the country, and when the magnitude of the proposition is considered. Two months have elapsed since the first information concerning it was given to the public. Since then, the whole country has been kept in the dark as to the attitude of the Government, and apparently, those in authority have no intention of taking the people into their confidence until it suits their purpose. This is manifestly wrong. No secret should be made of the policy of the Government towards a project which may affect the whole future of the country and in demanding that this policy be made known, the people would not be exceeding their rights and privileges. In the meantime, Dame Rumour has been busy and reports are daily circulated concerning the attitude of the Government. That the Executive is divided on the question is no secret, and it is equally certain that if the proposition were to be laid before the Legislature, the opening of the House would not be further delayed. Whatever policy the Government intend to adopt, the people have a right to demand a speedy pronouncement concerning it, or they should be furnished with further details which would enable them to pass their own judgement upon its merits or demerits, as the case may be.

Twenty Years Ago To-Day.

Twenty Years Ago to-day... (Evening Telegram, Feb. 10th, 1902). The Newfoundland hockey team to play with Toronto were selected by Messrs. R. G. Reid Jr., A. Donnelly and W. Warren. They were as follows:—W. Woodley, C. Parsons, G. Marshall, J. Vinnicombe, A. Munn, R. Simms, A. J. Herder. Mr. E. A. Hayward was selected manager of the team, and Messrs. W. J. Higgins and N. Vinnicombe as spare men.

Mr. Morgan Resigns.

AWAITING ACTION OF GOVERNMENT. The Telegram understands on good authority, that R. C. Morgan, Chairman of the Railway Management Committee has resigned his position and will be leaving for Winnipeg shortly. Rumour to this effect have been prevalent of late and questioned by the Telegram on Wednesday, President H. D. Reid of the Railway denied the report. Mr. Morgan would neither confirm or deny his rumoured resignation when in conversation with the Telegram yesterday. He admitted, however, that he had completed his report. Mr. Morgan was only on a few months leave of absence from the C.P.R. and will probably return soon to his duties with that Company. He is at present understood to be awaiting the action of the Government.

Police Court.

No less than five drunks were lined up on the sinner's seat at the C.D. Court this morning. Three of these had been engaged on relief works. Only one was fined, the others were allowed to go on payment of cash hire. A resident of Haywards Avenue was charged with the larceny of two vests, 1 cap and a ladies hat the property of the Royal Stores and also a pair of boots and skates, the property of J. Wilcox of the Prince's Rink. The accused pleaded not guilty. A clerk at the Royal Store was called and identified the vests and cap. Miss Murphy of the Millinery Department deposed to making up the hat. Mr. Wilcox identified his boots and skates as amongst some ten pairs stolen from the Rink. The Royal Stores' expression stated that he left his horse tied to a pole near Duddy's Garage whilst he went to deliver some parcels. The hat and other property were in the express van when he left but had disappeared when he came back. Constable Byrne being called stated he found the vests at the seaman's Institute where they were left in charge of the caretaker. The cap was recovered from a man to whom it had been sold for 50 cents. The skates and boots were found at the prisoners' home. A resident of William's Street deposed to buying the hat for $1.50 from the prisoner. The latter claimed that he had picked it up. In delivering judgement Judge Morris asked the accused if he had any explanation to which no reply was given. He commended the authorities on the manner in which the guilt of the prisoner had been established. "Every link in the chain of evidence is absolutely complete," said the Judge. The prisoner was sent down for six months hard labor.

Regimental Ball.

At a meeting of the ex-officers of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment held in the G.W.V.A. rooms on Thursday night, it was decided to hold a dance in the C.C.C. Hall on Monday, 20th, next. The affair will be in the nature of a Regimental Ball and a special committee to finalize matters has been formed. Many novelties will be introduced. The proceeds will be devoted to the National War Memorial Fund.

SAGONA'S PASSENGERS.

SAGONA'S PASSENGERS.—S. S. Sagona arrived at Argentia at 8 a.m. from Port aux Basques and landed the following passengers:—A. Smith, E. Tupper, T. Skinner, H. A. Crocker, J. Baker, Miss K. M. Baker.

Czarina Dismasted.

VESEL WORKING SOUTH. A radio message from the S.S. Sab-Hij via Cape Race, received by Messrs. Monroe & Co. states that the schooner Czarina had been dismantled in lat. 37N, long. 67W, on February 1st. The position is 275 miles due North of Bermuda. The Subtil loaded at Havana for France. The message added that the Czarina was making her way South. She was bound here from Barbados with a load of molasses, having left there on Jan. 12th. It is evident that the Czarina refused help and is in a position to make port. In the hand of a capable mariner like Capt. Taylor, there is no cause for anxiety.

The "President Coaker" Enquiry.

The enquiry into the matter of the cargo of the "President Coaker", which is being conducted by a specially appointed commission, was continued yesterday. The evidence of Sir John Crosbie was taken and the cheques produced in the House last year were tabled. In connection with the salt question, which forms part of the charges which are being investigated, it is said that the Government salt stored at Port Union had to be blasted out with dynamite, as it was German and caked together.

Fire at Bay Bulls.

House and Contents Destroyed. Inspector General Hutchings received a message this morning from Constable Fahy of Bay Bulls, stating that Hearns' house and all its contents had been burned to the ground at 4.30 a.m. A somewhat similar message was received by a well known business man of the city, but in the latter's message it was stated that the inmates barely made their escape in their night clothes. The loss to Mr. Hearn, who left for home by S. S. Portia yesterday, is a very heavy one. He had a splendid house and it is said only carries $3,000 insurance. Last year Mr. Hearn met with another serious loss by fire when his store was consumed. The loss at this time was estimated at $10,000, on which only $5,000 insurance was carried.

A QUIET EXCUSE.

A QUIET EXCUSE.—A drunk, who is so well known to the public that there is always a warm welcome awaiting him at the Police Station, complained when arrested yesterday that his shovel had got tired. He had been engaged in snow shovelling for relief purposes and got drunk on his first pay.

Explaining "Nationalization."

The Hon. Mr. Coaker has been in the city, and through the Advocate has been explaining "Nationalization," the nostrum he announced at Joe Batt's Arm, some months ago, as the policy regarding fish marketing he would propose to the country at the next general election. In place of his discredited and repealed Fish Regulations. It is good to know that Mr. Coaker himself is behind these explanations, because he is thereby more securely tied to them, and cannot shrug and change as usual. It was pointed out recently that the National Marketing Board proposed by Mr. Coaker would be both "political" and "autocratic," and the Advocate, far from denying this charge now admits (see its number dated 7th inst.) that the Board would be not only "autocratic" but "arbitrary," which any good dictionary describes as "despotic," "harsh" and "unfeeling." "Arbitrarily" "Arbitrary power," said Washington, "is most easily established on the ruins of liberty abused to licentiousness." Mr. Coaker himself would be the "despot," and he makes no secret of his intention to seize a "tyrant's" power.

The Advocate (7th inst.) says: "The actual appointment of the Board would be made by a committee of the Board of Trade and the Government. The exporters should be well represented. The fishermen should be well represented. The Government should be well represented." The Board of Trade has now no power to make appointments, and so would have to be empowered by statute. How could fishermen, as such, be well represented on a Board to be composed wholly of "Experts in Marketing," as the Advocate says in another place. And only recently the Advocate said that such a Board would be absolutely free from politics, yet it proposes that the Government (i.e.—Coaker) shall be on the committee of appointment, and on the Board itself; that is, that Coaker shall dominate the Board, as he dominates the Codfish Exportation Board. The truth is, that it is not even thinly disguised that such a Board would be a mere smokescreen for Despot Coaker.

"The actual marketing," say the Advocate (7th inst.) "would be done by the Board. It would have agents in the various markets, experienced 'efficient' men, Newfoundlanders, speaking the language of the markets; they were in, visiting the clubs, 'mixing with the people. The actual sales would be arranged by the agents, only outright sales (for cash) would be allowed." We quote freely, for it all sounds, in the light of facts, like the ravings of a lunatic. Where can Newfoundlanders, experienced in marketing, and speaking foreign languages, be got. How could such men get the entry to "clubs" abroad, (made up, presumably, of business men), and at the same time mix freely with the people generally. How could sales for cash be made more freely than at present. Presumably, the agents would have to sell to the wholesalers who now handle fish in foreign markets, and on the usual terms. Otherwise, the agents would have to sell to retailers, or possibly become retailers themselves. To sell in lots less than cargoes, the agents would require warehouses in the foreign markets, and these would have to be built by the Board, at the cost of the Colony.

"The Marketing Board," says the Advocate, "would have to be brave 'men, fearless and independent. Only 'experts could be appointed; only 'men who knew the marketing game 'from A to Z. The Board would have to be the cream of the marketing ability of the country. All that the most 'of the merchants can do will be to 'buy." The question naturally arises, who are the "experts" filling such a specification, who are the "white sheep in a black flock, and what would they require in the shape of yearly salary to serve on the Board? Are they to retire from private business, give up their profits, and accept salaries and "pocketings" instead. And, by the way, is Mr. Coaker one of these experts, does he know the whole alphabet of marketing; and if so, when and how did he learn it?

Hockeyists May Go.

Up to the present nothing definite has been arranged in regard to sending a hockey team to play a series of games at Boston. Very satisfactory terms have been offered by the Fans from the Hub, and it is not improbable that arrangements will be made to send up a team by the S. S. Digby on her return trip from England. Last season an effort was made to have a team visit Boston but nothing came out of it.

HIS DIARY. February 10th.—Comes Mr. V. S. Bennett to tell me how Major Cotton did fly to Angle Brook and with a passenger, and the whole time taken only to be about three hours. News comes to me of a Commission which sits to inquire into the matter of the cargo of the "President Coaker," and Hon. M. G. Winter the Chairman of it. At night to the hockey match, and a most ridiculous game. So home and to bed, with a pain of my side which troubles me mightily.

B. I. S. Meeting.

PRESENTATION OF PORTRAITS OF PAST PRESIDENTS. The preliminary (annual) meeting of the Benevolent Irish Society was held in St. Patrick's Hall last night, the President, W. J. Higgins, K.C., presiding. At the conclusion of the regular business, Messrs. M. J. O'Mara and W. S. Dunphy, on behalf of the Portraits Committee, presented three beautiful oil paintings of Past-Presidents. They were the Honorable James Tobin, Edward Morris, and James D. Ryan. The former, Hon. James Tobin, held the office from 1841 to 1843. He was a gentleman well-known in the public and commercial life of the colony, being the senior member of the firm of Jas. Tobin & Son, which did a large mercantile business in St. John's in the thirties and forties of the last century. He was also a member of the first term of Responsible Government, during which time he was delegated Newfoundland's representative to the British-French Conference held in Paris in 1857, over the vexed Treaty Rights on the French Shore and Bay of Islands—now known as St. Barbe and Bay St. George. Mr. Tobin was a linguist of no small pretensions, and also celebrated for his original wit and humor, some of which, on various occasions, enlivened our social gatherings in the long ago. He left Newfoundland in the early sixties to reside in London, where he died some forty-five years ago.

Hon. Edward Morris presided over the Society for fourteen years—from 1854 to 1874—having been successively elected during that period, finally resigning. He was well-known commercially and otherwise, and for a number of years held the position of President of the Legislative Council, during which time, on two occasions, was acting Governor of the Colony. Mr. Morris was also Governor of the Newfoundland Savings Bank up to the time of his death in 1887. He was a brother-in-law of the late lamented Archbishop Howley.

Hon. James D. Ryan, whose name is familiar to the present generation, was continually elected for twenty-five years—from 1895 to 1920—being the longest in office of any one president since the inception of the society in 1806. Like two of his predecessors he, at present, holds the honorable position of President of the Legislative Council and some two years ago was honored by His late Holiness Benedict XV., in receiving the dignified title of Knight Commander of St. Gregory. On his resigning the Presidency of the Benevolent Irish Society, Mr. Ryan was unanimously appointed its Vice-President.

The portrait of the Hon. James Tobin was donated by Mr. P. E. Moore, M.H.A.; Hon. Edward Morris by Mr. W. B. Comerford, first Asst. V.P., and the Hon. James D. Ryan, by the Society. The pictures were executed by the Art Photography, London, England.

WILL SEEK GUARANTEE.—We have in on good authority that a guarantee of some $500,000 will be asked in connection with the establishment of the proposed flour mills. This information, however, has not been given us by the gentleman who is here in connection with this enterprise.

Stafford's COD LIVER OIL Compound TONIC and TISSUE BUILDER

This combination possesses the curative properties of cod liver oil without any of the latter's disagreeable features, as well as the medicinal virtues of the other standard remedies that enter into its composition. It is palatable, effective, and does not, even in the most delicate, produce stomach disturbances and other bad after-effects that are such a drawback to the best action of cod liver oil in its crude state and many other disagreeable medicines.

That Flour Mill Project.

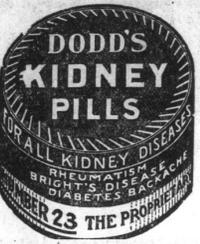

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—I notice by articles in your paper the past two days that a gentleman named Palmer is preparing the public mind for the project of erecting a flour mill at Shoal Harbor, Trinity Bay. This is a grand idea which will commend itself to everyone provided there are no strings to it, and Mr. Palmer and his friends do not later on look for legislation that will keep out Canadian and American flours by a tariff wall that will oblige us all to take only flour made at the Trinity Bay mill whether we like it or not, and whether it is good, bad, cheap or dear. I am reminded in this connection of the insidious way in which the Imperial Oil Co. worked its way into St. John's a few years ago, and kept on its harmless looking course till all competition was killed and all other oil shut out. At that time the papers rang with the news of the good results that would follow from giving the Imperial Co. the concessions they asked for. They were not much and we were going to get cheaper oil. At that time dealers could buy Kero oil in Canada and the States from the various competing companies and land it here as low as 15 cents a gallon. To-day Kero oil is about three times this price, and the poor public who do not use electric light have to pay for it. In the nineties I know Kero oil to be sold here at the small profit of 25 cents a barrel. To-day it is sold to those who should know that the profit is $4 a barrel. This lesson ought to make us cautious in considering the flour mill project. They always talk of the employment that is going to be given 500 men, 5000 men and so on. This is the sugar of the mill and makes it easy to swallow. It would be cheaper for the public generally to pay the 500 or the 5000 men all the year round for cutting firewood or digging turf or road stones than to put a chain around the necks of all that will last for all time. It is the same old trick as old as Esau that takes advantage of a man's seeming poverty to make him give up all he has. Esau did it for the moment because he was for the moment hungry and he spent the rest of his life in regretting what he had done. Employment is all right, but it should not be used as a cry to make people sacrifice their dearest rights that can never be retrieved once the shackles of the law are put on the people who gave the concessions to because they are quite different people and will laugh in your face if you make a protest. At the present time we hold a unique position in the flour markets. We get the best because we have some fifty or sixty mills competing for our trade. They are using all their ingenuity to turn us out the best flour from the best wheat. Will it be so when we are tied down to one mill in Trinity Bay and all the others shut out by a tariff wall that cannot be jumped over by the smartest flour athlete? Now is the time to discuss this thing. Don't allow ourselves to be lulled into sleep like we were when we thought we were going to get cheap Kero oil for about 20c a gallon. Maybe Mr. Palmer and his friends do not intend to ask this protection. All right then let them come by all means. Let their machinery or original plant come in duty free, but let there be no attempt to get a tariff to keep out the good, cheap flour—the best in the world—that we are getting now.

Yours truly, FOREWARNED. St. John's, Feb. 11, 1922.

Why Should They?

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—Please permit me to ask, why should our local vessels be condemned? The answer is, they are not strong, not seaworthy; they cannot stand the strain of the ocean. Why? Is it because they are neglected and not looked after? Now, sir, these vessels should have a good overhauling once a year, not a patch here and there. I want to say right here I have never seen a surveyor that will take a mallet and iron and try the seams. What we want is a surveyor that will have their work done and done good. There is nothing that will shrink plank so much as frost will. This opens the seams, and the wet oakum is frozen so much it heaves out. That is why vessels lying to the wharf over winter should have a good overhauling, the pitch taken off, and a good horsing and a thread or two put in. This will make the vessel strong and sea-worthy. We have splendid vessels right here in our harbor, some living up over a twelve month. You put those vessels out, and what is the result? I will say for the sake of your fellowmen, get to work and have these vessels done up. They can be made just as good as there is going. Why not have two or three fitted out for the ice and give some of us a chance to earn a little. To those that have the work to do, give it to the shipwrights, men that you can rely on and will not slight their work. Some say ask the Government for work. Well, what they promised they gave not, but save what they never promised.

Gingerbread baked in muffin rings is delicious served with cheese or chocolate sauce. Macaroni may be served with a meat gravy. Most men prefer this gravy to a tomato sauce.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

NOT RELEASED YET. LONDON, Feb. 11. Early to-day there was still no news of the liberation of the men kidnapped in Ulster or any knowledge of their whereabouts. No further kidnapping have been reported, however. A communication issued last night from Downing Street stated that Arthur Griffith had informed Lloyd George that he had been assured the men would be "safe and that the Provisional Government would be able to get them gradually released."

DECLARING AMNESTY. LONDON, Feb. 11. On behalf of the Provisional Government in Ireland says the Exchange Telegraph Company, Michael Collins has issued an announcement declaring a general amnesty for all men of navy, military and police service "by whom acts of hostility toward Irish people were committed."

REPRESENTATIVE QUESTS. LONDON, Feb. 11. A number of Labor leaders and representatives of Trades Unions are being invited to attend the wedding of Princess Mary in accordance with the wish of King who says the Daily Mail, desires the guests to be as representative as possible of all classes. In view of the need of national economy and widespread unemployment, the authorities are urging that there be no costly illuminations and decorations on the occasion of the wedding.

FOUR ADDITIONAL BATTALIONS FOR BELFAST. BELFAST, Feb. 11. Sir James Craig, Ulster Premier, returned this morning from his visit to London, and announced on his arrival that he had been assured four additional battalions of troops would be sent to Belfast immediately.

Parental Prophecies.

When a Gainsborough picture sold in London a few days ago for 10,000 guineas (about $50,000) few people recalled the fact that the sale falsified a very confident parental prophecy. The Gainsboroughs were a clever family. One brother was nicknamed Scheming Jack. He made himself a cradle which rocked itself and a cuckoo which "cuckooed" all the year round and never migrated. The far more famous Thomas, the great painter, at an early age stated his father by forging his signature to a message addressed to the local schoolmaster, which ran as follows: "Kindly give Tom a holiday." The signature was wonderfully done, and its accuracy and cleverness provoked the parental prophecy. "Tom will be hanged one day." Tom was hanged—to use artist's slang, in the Royal Academy. So that prognostication was right and wrong. Tennyson was the subject of two prophecies, one by his grandfather and the other by his father. The first was wrong and the second right. Alfred wrote a poem at the early age of nine on his slate and showed it to his grandfather, who gave him a guinea, with the words: "The first money poetry has brought you, my boy, and, believe me, the last." Seeing that Tennyson holds the record as a money-making poet, and quite legitimately, this prophecy went remarkably wrong. His father, during an illness of the boy, said to him—and he was a hard man who did not indulge in flattery: "If Alfred dies England will miss one of her greatest poets." Charles Darwin, who lies in Westminster Abbey next to Newton, was the subject of a very drastic parental prophecy which went far wrong. He was very fond of country life, and as his father's taste did not lie in the same direction, that stern parent said to Charles: "You care for nothing but shooting, dogs and rat catching and you will be a disgrace to yourself and all your family." But for Lord Clive India might be ruled by another power to-day and the whole history of the last century altered. Yet his father concurred with his schoolmaster's verdict that he was a hopeless fool, and prophesying total failure, packed him off to India out of the way. It was only when he dropped his clerk's pen and took to the sword—which in his hands was certainly mightier—that he disproved the parental prophecy and gave Britain a new empire and its King an additional title.

STALWART RADICAL IN POLITICS.

On the other evening I called at the house of a friend to hear the news and to see a feature or two of the bill-boarding then in progress. While this occupied I met an old friend and fellow-citizen. Of course we exchanged the customary greetings and then proceeded to discuss the "situation" politically, socially and generally. He is now in the same old job as in 1911 when the paths of Stalwart Radicalism in politics and Nonconformity in religion were not as wide as they have been in the last few years. His father was a radical in politics and in religion and a Nonconformist—a body which has advanced in the van of social and political progress from the time of the Reformation down to our own day. It is a distinct advantage in a Nonconformist that he is not a Nonconformist of the Nonconformist type, but a Nonconformist in things as they are. Every Nonconformist is compelled to think for himself and to stand on his own feet. It is a position of individualism and of assertion of individual rights against the dogmatism of the majority, of freedom of reflection, and of the necessity of men of stronger mind than that which is generated in the hot-houses of State establishments. It was in such a household that Sir Robert Bond was born, in such an atmosphere that he was reared, and the shape of his mind was formed under the influence of the Nonconformist.

THE VANISHING VALENTINE.

Another once popular observance, I notice, promises to be, ere long, a memory of the past. I refer to the "Feast of St. Valentine." Oh! what pleasure it used to bring to us when we were budding into man and womanhood! But it is rapidly dying out, the more's the pity! The 14th of February, in old times, opened the door to the beginning of a good deal of very excellent love-making, and it is a distinct impoverishment to the Dominion that one of the opportunities for indulging in the most innocent and most delightful of all pastimes should have gone out of fashion. Then there is to be considered the loss of trade and industry involved in the present small production of Valentines. Practically, there is, I understand, but one or two firms left in the Dominion that in the valentine business.

THE QUESTION OF STATE SCHOOLS.

I notice that, "in the opinion of the Cathedral Debating Club, the present system of education in Newfoundland is not good enough for the country, and State Schools would be more beneficial." This is just the decision the Government ought to have arrived at years ago. Public opinion demands a change in our present educational

THE GOOD SAINT HIMSELF.

Saint Valentine, after whom the day is called, was a priest of Rome, martyred in the third century; but he seems to have had no connection with the notions and practices to which his day since been given up. This, it is scarcely necessary to say, is a day thought to be especially devoted to Cupid and Hymen. Possibly, its being about the season when the birds choose their mates may be the origin of this belief. Antiquaries have also pointed out that the Lupercalia—feasts of ancient Rome in honor of Pan and Juno—were held at this time, that amongst the ceremonies was a game in which young persons of the opposite sexes chose each other ness. The astonishing decline of the valentine within the past ten years brought ruin to many a wholesale manufacturer, to whom the trade was worth $100,000 a year, between the years 1880 and 1890—the golden age of the valentine. At this period a single maker would keep six designers and eighty girls employed on valentines all the year round. Nice paper from China was brought by the shipload; plush in wholesale quantities of 5,000 yards at $1.00 a yard; and silk fringe from Coventry, in bales of a hundred gross of yards. Twenty years ago, too, the big valentine dealer's turnover in England was $5,000 a week during the three months of the season; and in his workrooms a quarter of a ton of the finest white gum disappeared in the dainty trifles. Four well-paid male artists designed the "Comics"—mainly trade skits and domestic incidents—and these were reproduced on 1,500 reams of paper. The machines were kept going night and day, turning out a million cartonnages a week, of which some five thousand gross were despatched from England to Australia in steamers and sailing vessels in May and June. From a hundred to a hundred and thirty different comic designs were produced every year, and one house would have five smart "commercial" show-ers in the pattern books to retailers in all parts of the British Empire. Lyon here in St. John's in pre-war days, an important trade used to be done in valentines, book and stationery stores often being kept open till eleven at night.

is not surprised at this. To-day men and things, even in Newfoundland, are not what they were twenty years ago, when party leaders could get off a lot of rubbish about Liberal principles, and thereby retain the support of their constituents. Oh, no! None of that will do now. At present there is no Liberal Party at all. That party has been sold and assigned to "a third party" by a few unscrupulous office-seekers. The popular standard-bearer in the next election, whenever it takes place, must be a man of backbone and of brains, not a political jelly-fish; and when he enters the arena he must give security for his conduct as an honest and faithful servant of the Dominion.

To-day men and things, even in Newfoundland, are not what they were twenty years ago, when party leaders could get off a lot of rubbish about Liberal principles, and thereby retain the support of their constituents. Oh, no! None of that will do now. At present there is no Liberal Party at all. That party has been sold and assigned to "a third party" by a few unscrupulous office-seekers. THE GOOD SAINT HIMSELF.

Saint Valentine, after whom the day is called, was a priest of Rome, martyred in the third century; but he seems to have had no connection with the notions and practices to which his day since been given up. This, it is scarcely necessary to say, is a day thought to be especially devoted to Cupid and Hymen. Possibly, its being about the season when the birds choose their mates may be the origin of this belief. Antiquaries have also pointed out that the Lupercalia—feasts of ancient Rome in honor of Pan and Juno—were held at this time, that amongst the ceremonies was a game in which young persons of the opposite sexes chose each other

Secrets of Sleep.

HOW IMPORTANT IS IT TO THE HUMAN BODY TO SLEEP?

Everybody dreams. Everybody has a hobby, but few people have given a thought to the connection between the two. It is not until we are unable to sleep that we realize the importance of sleep. The kind of sleep we enjoy has an effect on our health. A good night's sleep is closely associated with good health. It is not until we are unable to sleep that we realize the importance of sleep. pressure with which his blood passes through his body drops. It remains at this low pressure until sleep actually begins, when there is a further fall.

OUR SELF-WINDING BODIES.

Throughout the night, however, as we continue to sleep, our blood pressure gets stronger, until it rises to a point slightly below the normal. It is then we wake up and feel refreshed, and at the moment of waking there is a sharp rise in our blood pressure, and our heart is working strongly and well.

In a very similar fashion the temperature of our body falls with the lowering of the blood pressure.

In the early morning as our hearts are feeling the benefit of our bodies rising, and regains its normal value at the moment of waking.

The effect of sleep is to make our breathing slower and deeper. When we are awake we take approximately the same time in inhalation as in exhalation; but whilst we are asleep inhalation is much slower, and in comparison, exhalation is quicker.

During sleep our muscles are greatly relaxed, because we relax them thoroughly. The pores of the skin are cleaned, for the output of perspiration is almost doubled.

The bodily energies, released from our duties, turn their attention to digestion, and that function is expedited to a considerable extent.

It is not generally known how sight, smell, hearing, taste, and touch are affected during sleep.

HOW IT AFFECTS US.
Contrary, perhaps, to general belief, a sleeping person is not easily awakened by a light thrown on the eyes. A less bright light would affect the eyes if the person were awake and had merely closed his eyelids. The effect on a sleeping person's sense of smell is similar to the effect on the eyes. A small has to be stronger to be noticed.

Our ears are rested after only an hour's sleep, and our hearing (as also our sense of touch) recovers to a point very close to normal after that brief spell of rest, until just before waking it again rises slightly.

MOTHER!

Open Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and give you a well, playful child again. Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" hand. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! you must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

In the case of touch, too, there is a slight reduction of susceptibility, but only for a short duration.

So it will be seen that sleep reduces the general activity of the body, which becomes less affected by its surroundings until "rest" is received.

The effects of deprivation of sleep are more likely to be fatal than depriving the body of food for the same period. Several cases of faints lasting more than a month are on record, but it seems that seven days and seven nights is the longest period the human body can endure without sleep.

Many instances, where people have tried to refrain from sleep for longer than this period, have ended in either serious illness or even death in quite strong healthy people on or before the seventh day.

A person deprived of sleep loses weight, and some authorities state that there are microscopic changes in certain brain cells.

EAT WELL, SLEEP WELL.

The usual treatment nowadays for insomnia is a sleeping draught. A well-known doctor, however, who has himself been a victim to this distressing complaint, has made a study of it. He derides the practice of the sleeping draught. In his opinion it is in defiance of all sound medical principles, as it aims merely at the elimination of the symptoms, not at the removal of the cause of sleeplessness.

Of the many cases he has investigated he has found that most people admit that, at one time or another during the evening, they feel "sleepy," but add that "the feeling passes off."

His advice was to urge them to go to bed whenever they feel sleepy—no matter at what hour. He does not advise them to make their last meal of the day a light one. A good solid meal is the best preparation for sleep; but it should be followed by a short walk afterwards, continued until a feeling of sleepiness sets in.

FREEZONE

Corns Lift Off with Fingers

Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn. Instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. It doesn't hurt a bit.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the cellulose, without a particle of pain.

The Long Arm

of the N. N. W. M. P.

Every little while the pages of the newspapers are brightened by the recital of some romance of the Far North that contains all the elements of imagination and seems too wonderful to be true. Occasionally, as a grim variant, a tragedy of the frozen wilds intrudes itself upon the public. They read, comment, and forget.

Hardly one in a thousand stops to give a thought to the men who are most vitally concerned in these outcroppings of human nature on the edge of the Arctic—the Royal Northwest Mounted. Yet it is to the Mounted Police that the task is invariably entrusted of inquiry, praise or blame, punishment or acquittal.

Five Eskimos have been murdered as the result of an astounding triangle of romance, such as no other part of the world could provide. An Eskimo whose wife had been "annexed" by a trader went to look for a wife whom the trader might marry in order that the Eskimo woman might return to him. He found such a woman, but as there was the trifling incubus of a husband already existing, he shot the latter: in order to make everything plain sailing, he was himself shot, and after that it seems to have developed into a general killing all round, culminating in the strangling of a poor little four-year-old girl who had been orphaned in the proceedings. Now the Mounted Police are out hunting for the entire gang, who have disappeared.

It may be weeks, it may be months, or it may be years, but the Northwest Mounted will get those Eskimos in the end. Men may die in the rigors of the hunt, others may succeed those now in command, but the order has gone forth, and the North-West Mounted never fails. If one dies, another

Be Careful How You Sleep.

According to a doctor, if you sleep with one hand under your cheek your eyes will slant and the corners of your mouth droop, for all the time you are massaging your face in the wrong direction.

If you sleep curled up like the letter C you will soon begin to stoop, while if you have a large pillow your head will bend to one side. A high pillow bends the nose to the left, if you sleep on your right side, and to the right if you sleep the other way round. If you sleep on your left side, your heart does not have enough space in which to beat, and if you lie on your back your circulation is ruined. Also your tongue falls back in the mouth, prevents proper breathing, and causes snoring. The best position is on the right side, with the body kept straight.

Just Folks

POPPING CORN.
Tell you what, it's fun to be just a little boy like me. When the blizzard starts to blow, Piling up the streets with snow, And the wind goes shrieking past Doors and windows booted fast, And you can't go out, and you wonder what you're going to do— If your father says: "We might Pop a little corn to-night."

Then we gather 'round the fire With the popper made of wire, And we shake and never stop Till the corn begins to pop, Dancing up and down and back With a fast and furious crack Till it can't hold any more; Then Pa just unlocks the door And he flips it with a swish Into Mother's baking dish.

MILLEY'S

MUTT CAN LOOK EVERY COLLECTOR IN THE EYE NOW!

MUTT, CHRISTMAS IS ALMOST HERE AGAIN AND AS USUAL I'M IN FOR A BIG CHUNK OF WORRY! I'M ALWAYS BROKE AT THIS SEASON OF THE YEAR!

MUTT, YOU'RE CERTAINLY A LUCKY DOG!

WHAT D'Y MEAN, LUCKY DOG? EXPLAIN!

I MET YOUR WIFE THIS MORNING AND SHE TOLD ME YOU'VE GOT ALL YOUR CHRISTMAS PRESENTS PAID FOR!

QUITE SO! I PAID FOR THE LAST OF THEM YESTERDAY!

MY WORD, AND I AIN'T EVEN BEGUN TO THINK OF ALL THE PRESENTS I'VE GOT TO BUY!

OH—

NEITHER HAVE I FOR THIS YEAR. MY WIFE WAS SPEAKING OF LAST YEAR'S PRESENTS!

Sometimes Pa he lets me take hold of it and help him shake. And I watch the pop corn swell Till it bursts just like a shell. And he says: "Now don't you stop Shaking there to watch it pop! Keep it moving to and fro, Till it's all as white as snow. When it's finished, if you wish You can put it in the dish."

You can bet it's fun to be just a little boy like me When the wind begins to moan And the doors and windows groan, If your father looks about, Knowing that you can't go out, Yawns a bit and says to you: "Tell you, Sonny, what we'll do, We can have some fun all right, We'll just pop some corn to-night."

WHAT A. C. HAYES SAYS ABOUT DR. KINSMAN'S HEART TABLETS & DYSPEPSIA POWDERS, ETC.

"I suffered for six or eight years with my heart, and many times it was so I could not lie down at all, and the only way to I could get rest was to lie on my left side for three or four years, and when I was able to walk at all, would have to stop many times and hold my hand against my heart, and wait until it would start to beat again, as it seemed to stop, and I felt as if I would suffocate every minute. Since taking your Heart Tablets and Dyspepsia Powders I have never felt any of the symptoms, and can rest as well on my left side as my right. I am sure they saved my life, as I could not have stood it much longer. I thank God that I was able to hear of your Tablets and Powders, and hope that every sufferer will have an opportunity to use them, as they are worth their weight in gold. My friends ask how I cured myself, for I am now a new man."
HEART TABLETS $1.00 per box
DYSPEPSIA POWDERS 50c. per box
ASTHMA REMEDY $1.00 per tin

What is Your Verdict!

Is it not safe to assume that the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, who manufacture in their own huge perfectly equipped plant practically every part of the Ford car, are the people best qualified to make replacement parts at the lowest price compatible with the high quality which must be maintained?

Manufacturers of spurious parts, operating as they do on a small scale with limited capital and inadequate equipment, cannot possibly make parts of the same quality or accuracy at any where near the low price you have to pay for Genuine Ford Parts. Yet you are asked to believe that these spurious parts not only equal Genuine Ford Parts in quality but can be produced to sell for less!

We rest our case here. The verdict we leave to you.

LIKE CHAMPAGNE.

Champagne loses its properties if allowed to stand after being poured. In the same way tea tastes best if taken immediately upon being poured from the pot.

Let Blue Bird infuse for around five minutes in a warmed earthen pot, using water that has just come to its first boil, drink it as soon as poured, and you have the best tea made the best way.
