— OR —
THE STORY IN THE LONE INN.

CHAPTER X.

"I will!" said Orrie, decidedly.

"Will marry him?" said Disbrowe, still laughing.

"Yes!" said Orrie, soberly; "I shall. I'll ask him about it the next time I see him. Will you live there, too?"

"No, I am afraid not. I must go home shortly."

"Where is your home?"

"Oh, away over the sea—far away." Orrie's countenance fell.

"I shan't like it, then. I had rather go with you. Couldn't I marry you, and go there too?"

Disbrowe laughed heartily.

"What are you laughing at!" said Orrie, sharply. "I don't see anything to laugh at! Perhaps you are laughing at me!" she exclaimed, as the thought struck her for the first time.

"Laughing at you?" said Disbrowe, composing his countenance. "I hope I have better manners. No, indeed, Miss Orrie."

"Well, will you marry me, though?" said Orrie, curiously.

"It's very likely I shall," said Disbrowe, maintaining his gravity by an effort, "though I must refer you to papa! Oh! here comes the old witch of Endor herself. Good-by, Orrie. I'll think of your proposal."

And kissing the small face, upturned in all gravity for that pleasant operation, he sat her down, sprang on Saladin, and galloped off, just as old Grizzle, in angry astonishment, came to the door.

It was some time in the afternoon when he reached Fontelle. Wishing to see his uncle for a moment, to discover if he had any message to send to Lord Earncliffe, to whom he was about to write, he inquired after luncheon where he was, and learned from Tribulation that he was in the library, according to his custom, in the afternoon.

The library was at the end of the south hall; and to reach it he had to pass the rooms of Jacquetta and Jacinto, which were opposite each other. Thinking of her with returning tenderness, he started on his errand, humming a verse of an old song.

The door of Jacinto's room lay open as he passed, and something caught his eye, and he paused.

Well he might! Well might he stand transfixed, while the blood flushed in a crimson tide for one instant to his very temples, and then retreated, leaving him white even to his lips.

On a sofa indolently reclined Jacinto—his head resting on one hand, the other toying with the silken curls of Jacquetta, while he gazed up in her face with eyes full of love and

joy. She bent above him, her arms around him as she knelt beside his couch, talking in softest whispers; and at last, as he stood there, he saw her stoop down and press her lips warmly to his.

The sight maddened him. What he would have said—what he would have done in his first fierce outburst of rage and jealousy, it would be hard to say; but both had heard him, and both were on their feet in a moment. Face, and neck, and brow of Jacquetta grew crimson for an instant—the next, it vanished; and with a look on her face he had never seen there before, she walked over and confronted him.

CHAPTER XI.

There was a pause, during which they stood gazing at each other, one in scorn, and the other in defiance. Jacinto stood with his face averted—silent, too. Jacquetta was the first to speak.

"Well, sir," she said imperiously. He bowed in mock humility.

"I beg your pardon, Miss Jacquetta. I was on my way to the library to see my uncle, and passing here—"

"You stopped to look in."

"Not intentionally. The door being open, I gave a passing glance in, naturally; not expecting the interesting little tableau vivant that met my eye. Excuse me for interrupting it; I would not have done so for the world."

She grew crimson at the insinuation his tone conveyed.

"Insolent! What you mean, sir?"

"Mean? Oh, nothing, my dear cousin! But would you mind my advising you to shut the door, in future, when you indulge in such little excursions? They are very natural and harmless, no doubt, but some of the servants may chance to see you, and servants will talk, you know!"

"Our servants will not; our guests appear to be more given to eavesdropping than they are. Be assured, sir, we shall take the precaution of shutting the door, in future. Have you anything else to advise?"

"Nothing," said Disbrowe, pale with passion and jealousy, "but that midnight interviews with old hags and afternoon interviews with young Spaniards, should both be more discreetly managed, lest Miss Jacquetta De Vere find herself in trouble, some day."

"Miss Jacquetta De Vere is very much obliged to you, but is quite capable of taking care of herself. Anything else, my worthy cousin?"

"Nothing else. Good-afternoon, Miss De Vere."

"One moment! Did you dream this pleasant little scene was to happen?" said Jacquetta, with a curious smile.

"Some faint vision like it may have passed through my mind, of late, but nothing quite so enchanting as the reality. I see now, why I was refused. Allow me to take the present opportunity of congratulating you on your good fortune, lest another should not occur speedily."

"Where are you going?"

"To the library, just at present."

"Is papa there?"

"My uncle is there—yes," said Disbrowe, with emphasis.

"What do you mean, sir?" she demanded, with a sharp flash of her eye.

"Nothing. Part of my dream merely crossed my mind."

She looked at him as if she would have pierced him with her sharp, angry eyes; but his face wore no expression, save one of contemptuous sarcasm. It stung her to the quick; and again her pale face flushed, and her eyes blazed with a dangerous light.

"I presume you are going to tell him what you have seen?"

He bowed.

"Miss Jacquetta is at liberty to construe my conduct as she pleases. At the same time, I would humbly insinuate I am neither an eavesdropper nor a talebearer."

"I confess, it looks like it," she said, with a curling lip. "One thing is certain, your conduct, since you came here, has been very far removed from that of a gentleman."

"Miss De Vere!" he said, haughtily. "How has it been?" she broke out fiercely. "Was it the part of a gentleman, in the first place, after receiving the hospitality of this house, to insult the daughter of your host by an offer of the love long ago pledged to another? Was it the part of a gentleman to follow me into a quarter of this house you knew was forbidden, to see, and hear, and spy on my actions? Was it the part of a gentleman, I say, to stop looking in doors and at scenes you had no business to look—at things never meant for your eye?"

"I can believe that, Miss Jacquetta," he said, in scornful anger; "and I might retort, by saying: 'Was it the part of a lady to become an actor in such forbidden scenes—a De Vere stooping to love a nameless foreign adventurer? I thought better things of my cousin.'"

"Who cares what you thought, sir!" she said, with a passionate stamp of her foot. "I will love when I please, do what I please, stoop to what I please, and defy you to your face."

"Altogether to claim the same privilege, then."

"You to come here to dictate to me!" continued Jacquetta, completely overcome by passion, and pacing fiercely up and down, after her custom when excited. "You, a complete stranger, who, because your mother chanced to bear our name, forsooth, think yourself privileged to rule lord and master of Fontelle Hall and Jacquetta De Vere. Who are you, sir? What are you, that you should dare to talk like this to me?"

"Verily, a man of little account," said Disbrowe, with a cold, calm smile, that fairly maddened her, "and with no authority either in Fontelle or over Miss Jack De Vere; but, as she bears my family name, and claims kindred with me, I feel friendly interest in her and her reputation."

If a bullet had struck her, she could not have paused more suddenly in her passionate tread, nor turned of a more livid whiteness. Again, she clasped both hands over her heart as if she had seen her do before, and reel as if she had got a blow.

USELESS GRIEF.

"Oh, why are you weeping," said to my niece, "my comfort assailing, disturbing my peace? And why are you wringing your hands and your hair, when you should be singing a jubilant air?"

"I fear I am jilted," Miranda replied; "my spirit is writhed and broken my pride. With sorrow I'm saddled, my hopes are decayed, my lover skeaddled with some other maid." "With youth in your keeping," I said, feeling sore, "you should not be weeping or walking the floor. New lovers to-morrow will ask for your hand, and all to-day's sorrow will straightway be canted; some guy with a carriage will take you a ride, and talk about marriage with you as the bride. Some jay with a silver will ask you to go, and he will deliver you out of your woe. But always providing you dry up your tears; you'll not be asked riding with brims on your ears. With youth in your keeping, unlined be your brow; its wickedness weeping or raising a row. You have your to-morrow, the future is yours; youth hasn't a sorrow that hasn't its cures. And I, who am laden with multiplied years, can't stand for a maiden

'Twas Real Liquor Made Rats Drunk

MAN AND WIFE ARE CONVICTED AND SENTENCED ON RODENTS' TESTIMONY.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 30.—Thirteen sleek rats, penned in a cage in a chemist's laboratory, were useful to government agents in obtaining conviction of an Omaha man and his wife on a liquor selling charge, with subsequent sentence of a year in jail and a heavy fine for each in Federal Court.

The question of sampling the liquor which the pair sold was brought up in court, and to determine whether it was fit for human consumption, the agents submitted it to a chemist. He fed it to the rats and then watched their reaction.

The rodents displayed many of the characteristics of an intoxicated human, the chemist reported. Not one died, rather they all thrived, he declared on the witness stand.

Although defense counsel questioned the admissibility of the experiment as evidence, it was allowed to stand as indicating the potency and possibility of the liquor for beverage purposes.

Taking the Hills on "High"

Trying to climb every hill on high gear not only may injure the engine of your car, but may result in serious accident.

Sometimes it happens that a driver, attempting to rush a hill on "high," finds when he gets half way up that the speed of the engine is so reduced it will not accelerate sufficiently to continue climbing on low gear. The brakes may fail to work properly and the car backs down hill, perhaps landing in a ditch and resulting in tragedy.

PLUGGING THE HOLES IN THE COVENANT.

GENEVA, Sept. 18. Plugging up every hole in the covenant of the League of Nations so that nobody can crawl out and have an excuse to draft, the statesmen and jurists are bending every effort to construct a protocol that will really be a peace. Paragraph of Article 15 of the Covenant declares that in a dispute between two parties is claimed by one of them, and is found by the Council to arise out of a matter which by international law is solely within the jurisdiction of that party, the Council shall so report. Every day regards this as negative and as having a hole in the covenant which must be plugged up. Raoul Fernald, of Brazil; M. Politis, of Greece; and M. Loucheur, of France have been charged with this plugging operation and are beginning their study of the question to-day. The French government-in-chief of the Chekiang armies, forced to flee from his provincial capital Hang Chow, by the reverse of the third defence force of the Chekiang third army, issued a personal statement to-night expressing willingness to retire. No danger to the foreign settlement here is expected to-night, in anticipation of the breaking down of the Chekiang defence of the city and the resultant influx of the refugees, every foreign defence unit has been mobilized while especially heavy guards were placed at all approaches.

CHEKIANG FORCES BEATEN.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 18. Collapse of the Chekiang forces defending Shanghai from the Kiangsu armies at Tuchen Chi Yuan last night was believed imminent. Lu Yuan, commander-in-chief of the Chekiang armies, forced to flee from his provincial capital Hang Chow, by the reverse of the third defence force of the Chekiang third army, issued a personal statement to-night expressing willingness to retire. No danger to the foreign settlement here is expected to-night, in anticipation of the breaking down of the Chekiang defence of the city and the resultant influx of the refugees, every foreign defence unit has been mobilized while especially heavy guards were placed at all approaches.

FRENCH PREMIER ATTACKED BY COMMUNISTS.

PARIS, Sept. 18. Premier Herriot, of France, narrowly escaped injury in Marseilles last night when 22 Communists, swinging canes and sticks and shouting "amnesty" made determined attempts to surround and mob the Premier in Rue Cannediere, the main thoroughfare of the southern city, members of the Premier's party said to-day on arrival here. M. Herriot was rescued from the excited crowd only after the police, who arrived belatedly upon the scene, had forced back the Communists and dispersed the gathering. The Premier ran into the hostile gathering because of his insistence that he be permitted to walk through the streets of the city. When he landed from the torpedo boat which had brought him from the warship Las Provence from the deck of which he had witnessed a great naval review, M. Herriot refused to enter the luxurious limousine which awaited him at the wharf. It is more fitting, he said, that a democratic Premier should walk. The Premier was pale during the uproar, but remained cool and collected.

PRINCE AT BASEBALL GAME.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. The Prince of Wales entered a box at the Polo Grounds unheralded during the third inning of the second game this afternoon between Cincinnati and New York teams of the National Baseball League. He was given a rousing reception when the fans recognized him. He leaned far over the concrete railing and studied closely by each phase of the game, the first he had ever seen.

NO FISHERMEN'S TROPHY RACE THIS YEAR.

HALIFAX, N.S., Sept. 18. W. H. Dennis stated to-day that in view of the unsatisfactory termination of last year's series of race, the trustees had decided there would be no contest this year. When it was suggested to Captain Angus Walters, of the unconquered Lunenburg schooner Bluecrop, that Gloucester might put up a purse for a race there even if the international trophy were not at stake, he said that if such invitation were extended he might consider it.

GLOUCESTER'S REGRET.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 18. Regret that the international fishing championship has been withdrawn from competition this year was expressed by Mayor MacInnes, of Gloucester, to-day, upon receipt of a press despatch from Halifax saying that the trustees of the trophy had taken this action owing to the unsatisfactory termination of last year's race. Little enthusiasm was shown among local fishermen over the suggested matching of a Lunenburg boat with the Gloucester schooner Columbia, with a purse to be raised in Gloucester.

VICTIMS OF THE AUGUST STORM.

GLOUCESTER, Sept. 18. With no report of the Anita and Bernice, since the gale of August 27th, the belief is growing to-day that another Gloucester fishing vessel has passed to the port of missing ships. The Anita and Bernice sailed from Boston four weeks ago, on a sword-fishing trip to the George's Banks. She was last sighted on the Bank just before the storm struck the North Atlantic Coast in late August. The schr. was commanded by Capt. Albert Larsen of this city and carried a crew of seven. The men who sailed on her were Edward M. Proctor, Peter Mann, Peter Nelson and Charles Larsen, all of Gloucester; Joseph Targrett, of Newfoundland; Albert Selig and Hilary Conrad, of Lunenburg, N.S.

LOAN OVERSUBSCRIBED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. The portion of the Canadian Government's financing which was offered to the United States was oversubscribed this morning. The Chase Security Corporation, which headed the nationwide banking syndicate which handled the loan on this side of the line, announced shortly before noon that the books had been closed, the amount having been heavily oversubscribed.

Many Advantages

There are many advantages in using Pearlina, the great washing powder. Women find it easier to wash with than soap and it does not injure the hands or the fabric. Pearlina makes light work of wash-day, and for cleaning pots, pans, kettles, etc., it has no equal. A package of Pearlina in the pantry is a good investment for every woman who prides herself on the cleanliness of the home. Ask your grocer for Pearlina, he can sell you a generous package for ten cents. sept19.1f

Big Lillian Gish Film, "The White Sister," Coming

"The White Sister," the greatest triumph of Lillian Gish's career, will have its premiere at the Nickel Theatre on Monday. "The White Sister," which is an inspiration production released by Metro, has been acclaimed one of the most significant films ever made. The story was taken from the famous novel by F. Marion Crawford and screened entirely in Italy and northern Africa. Rome, Naples, Sorrento, Tivoli, and even Mt. Vesuvius were some of the "locations" used, and the result, according to critics in the larger cities where the picture has played as a two-dollar attraction, is the most beautiful production yet made. Besides Miss Gish to interpret the thrilling story, the cast includes Ronald Colman, a newcomer to the screen who has scored a sensational success; J. Barney Sherry, a motion picture pioneer; Gail Kane, heroine of many Broadway successes, and a thousand others drawn from the ranks of European players. "The White Sister" has been called the artistic triumph of the present film season. Miss Gish has never appeared to better advantage, and her restrained conception of the difficult role of Sister Angela stands at the top of her many famous characterizations. Those who recall her in "The Birth of a Nation," "Way Down East," "Hearts of the World" and "Orphans of the Storm" will, it is promised, be delighted still further by her versatility and the depth of her playing in her latest effort. This film will be shown only at the Nickel Theatre in St. John's.

S.S. Christen Jensen Condemned

As a result of a fire which started on board the Norwegian steamer Christen Jensen, and consumed her part cargo of pit props, the ship has been condemned. The Christen Jensen was loading at Silverdale, Green Bay, when the fire broke out. An effort was made to subdue the fire and last week the Senef brought down pumps to free the ship of water, in order that a survey could be made. It was found that the holds, where the fire gained headway, extensive damage was done, and it was decided to condemn the ship and have her sold by public auction. The ship was about 4,500 tons register and is about 27 years old. Last year, however, she underwent a thorough repair and a considerable sum was spent on her. Motifs of embroidery are encrusted with narrow bands of mole on the skirt of a black satin dinner dress. The lining of the coat may be the only connecting link between the dress and coat of a three-piece costume.

The Largest Floating Dry Dock in the World

(By S. W. Catworthy). When the Prince of Wales formally opened the largest floating dry dock in the world recently at Southampton, England, that port made a bid to become the world's leading haven for the greatest ocean liners. Previously liners of the size of the Majestic and 40 Pains in the Back Disappear when Kidneys are Regulated with Dr. Chase's Kidney & Liver Pills At all Drug Stores GERALD S. D'YLE, Distributor.

Leviathan were compelled to go for repairs to Hamburg or to Boston.

Lifting the 52,000-ton steamer Majestic will be a comparatively simple procedure in the new dock, since it has a lifting power of 60,000 tons. Built on the sectional plan, it can be enlarged at will by the addition of another section. The over-all length of the dock at present is 960 feet; width 170 feet, and height more than 70 feet. In its construction about 3,250,000 rivets were placed.

When the dock is to be submerged to receive a vessel, water is admitted into compartments through special inlet pipes equipped with valves operated by hand and by an electromagnetic control system. Indicators show the depth of water in the various compartments.

The 14 main pump motors for ejecting water and thus lifting a ship are arranged so that there is one motor for each section. These motors are controlled by a press-button system from the valve house. A complete telephone system connects the valve house with each of the motor houses. Because of the great weight of ships to be lifted, the blocks and supports are of unusual strength. On a continuous timber base running along the center of the dock are cast steel wedge blocks surmounted by a timber block. The bilges of a vessel are supported by timber blocks with steel bases. These are made adjustable to any ship.

A ship is centered automatically by four electrically driven side shores, arranged so that opposite pairs are geared together and driven by one motor. On each side wall is a three-ton warping capstan.

The dock is connected with the shore by four mooring booms 110 ft. long, anchored to reinforced concrete dolphins.

The electric-lighting system is designed so that the light may be concentrated on any part of the dock or ship.

Rotary Luncheon

At the Rotary Luncheon held at Starling's Restaurant on Thursday, Chairman Rotarian "Will" Barker introduced Rev. Mr. Robinson who is associated with Dr. Morgan in his work. The usual musical programme was dispensed with out of respect for the dead in the recent motor tragedy.

Mr. Robinson gave a brilliant address on the fundamentals of Social Work, being fluent, versatile and entertaining. His fourteen years' experience in social service work has eminently fitted him to intelligently discuss and direct such work.

His description of the first impressions of those boys of tender years who are admitted to the Settlement Houses gave one a keen appreciation of the excellent work carried on by these institutions in helping, as one youth expressed it, to "give a feller a chance." The development of character is the most essential thing, and healthy, clean environments are necessary for its attainment. The housing problem in some sections is acute and required immediate consideration if the health and morals of the community were to be maintained. Some of his experiences in this connection were painful: in one City a ten room house was occupied by one hundred and thirty-six men, women and children. Congested, dirty streets and environments cannot develop the innate love of nature in the child. Some incidents in his experience were pitiful: one little chap, taken to a fresh air camp for the first time, hollered to his chum, "Say, Jimmie! come here! did you ever see such a lot of sky? I never saw so much in all my life." And yet another asked, "What are those yaller things up here, blinking at me?" He had never heard of the stars. Ensuring sufficient open space in the City is a movement along the right lines; children must play, and in this, the Rotary Club is doing excellent work in providing supervised playgrounds.

Every boy and girl has the right to be well born—to enter the world under sound healthy conditions. We have had to organize fights against impurity in the far Western Cities. In Quebec and Montreal the fight has been waged against graft and evil. The evil doesers fail to see the harm they do to others; to those who would correct them, they retort, "mind your own business." But, we realize that in America, sixty thousand people are blind, and of these, twelve thousand are blind because of the impurity of the father or mother. And yet they say "mind your own business." Liberty is here distorted; liberty is no such thing. I have a right to strike out with my fist, but, if my friend's nose is in close proximity I have no such right. Liberty of action should be compatible with the best interests of the community. A friend halted a taxi at a Railway Station. The driver was under the influence of liquor. A collision occurred, my friend was killed. Has he the right to jeopardize lives? There are those who say "I have the right to live as I wish." They have no such privilege. Their life touches every other life, and so we are all bound together, and every good or bad man effects the community for good or ill. Communities are judged by the character of their citizens; and character is the essential factor. I have watched with great care many big systems for the reformation of society, but I have always come back to this main thought—character. I have seen systems of Church and other organizations made to help people by changing their surroundings, but as Sam Jones says, "If you put a pig into a parlor, it won't be the pig that will change." However, this like an epigram is rather sharp; clean surroundings will even have its effect on a pig. A change of environment, a little material assistance if necessary, helps to get people to think right. I have seen men who had slight contact with better environments, leave the slums and settle down in the quiet, attractive surroundings near a village. In a Doctor's surgery in Winnipeg I once saw a poor fellow under treatment. I discovered that he was longing for some one decent to talk to. There are very many in the world like this man, longing for decent influence. There are good points hidden in the hearts of the bad; an innate yearning for a better life, and if good influence is exerted upon them and their efforts guided along the right channels, the sad man very often becomes a powerful influence for good.

TOM GIBBONS SAYS ENGLISH BOXERS ARE TOO LAZY TO FIGHT.

They are Plucky, but Slack, the American Pugilist Tells a London Newspaper Man.

(London, England, Dispatch).

"Your boxers do not train hard enough."

This was the keynote of some trenchant criticisms passed upon British boxers by Tom Gibbons (the American who defeated Jack Bloomfield), in a special interview with a Weekly Dispatch representative before he departed for the United States.

"I think it is an admitted fact—and it certainly is a generally accepted one in America—that Britain has come to a sort of deadlock in the production of fighters that matter," said Gibbons.

"I was playing golf the other day at Hendon with one of your best trainers and he asked me the question point-blank, 'Why is it, Tom?' I fear I answered rather bluntly, but as I am convinced that my reply was correct, I will repeat it. I said, 'Because British boxers are too darn lazy.'"

"It is useless to beat about the bush and try to excuse the failure of your men, particularly the heavy-weights, by figuring out all sorts of weird excuses. Far be it from me to criticize the methods of your would-be British champions, but as a boxer who is trying to fight his way to the top of the world's tree, I think I can speak from experience when I state that hard and continued training is necessary for the creation of champions.

American's Way.

"I do not think your boys train hard enough, nor do they fight enough. It appears to be that they are content with three or four big fights a year. These are preceded by a very short course of training with partners who are in most cases merely human punching bags and are not highly skilled fighters.

"In America we are training and fighting every day of the year. I do not mean to suggest that we are engaged in matches continually, but I do say that hardly a day passes that we do not have a bout or two in the gym, and a good and strong quarter of an hour with the punching ball. For myself I never let a day pass without at least a five mile tramp from my home to my hunting grounds, an hour in the gym, and, when the weather permits, a round or two of golf. In this way I keep perfectly fit, and am practically ready for big contests without what you might call crammed training.

"Can you tell me any of your budding champions who can say the same? I have not heard of any aspirant to ring honors who is either a golf, football, cricket, or running enthusiast. Yet all these games keep one up to the mark and ensure a state of normal fitness, which is vital to the success of a fighting man.

Three Essentials.

"You have the brawn and the brains in Britain, but neither are developed to proper advantage. No man—I do not care who he is—can slack for five or six weeks, keep late hours, smoke heavily, not sparing the cocktails and the whiskeys and sodas, and then imagine that by a fortnight or so of forced training that he can go into the ring and beat a man who is as hard as nails because he has regarded his health and fitness as the greatest asset of ring-craft.

"Theoretically a man may know all there is to know about boxing, but unless his knowledge is backed by muscles of iron, horse-like stamina, and a perfect constitution, he will never achieve his ambition.

"It seems to me that the average boxer in this country is content to win a fight, get his purse and live the life of a gentleman until some promoter can put up enough money to tempt him to meet one of the world's champions. Experience of the past has proved how pitiful the result has been. Your best men have been knocked down like nine-pins when it has come to meeting combatants who are in no way superior in muscle or mind, but are stronger in nerve and immeasurably superior constitutionally.

"They Must Train."

"Your English boys lack nothing in courage or determination. They have the heart to win, but they do not go about it in the right way. They must train, train—and then train.

"They must realize that when they meet men from other countries they are coming up against opponents who believe that training is the essence of victory. If an aspiring champion is employed during the day on ordinary work which precludes him from participating in some hobby such as I have mentioned, let him devote what spare time he has to the perfection of his body. Let him substitute the gymnasium for the cinema and music-hall, let him abandon cheering his favorite football team on Saturday afternoons and use the time in either playing himself, or in taking part in some other form of body-developing sport.

"If your youngsters will cut out the light stuff and get down to a course of persistent painstaking and sometimes grueling training, I feel sure that there will arise a champion who will yet wrest the honors which have gone elsewhere apparently because you men have treated boxing in a casual, slipshod way, a way which must ever mean failure."

Unread Letters of Major Cameron

MONEY TROUBLES — CANCELLED RIGA APPOINTMENT.

Letters left by Major Cecil Aylmer Cameron, D.S.O., officer commanding the 49th Battery, Royal Field Artillery, who was found shot at Hillsborough Barracks, Sheffield, recently mentioned at the inquest at Sheffield, but were not read. Lieut.-Col. Orford Somerville Cameron, Royal Artillery, said that the dead man, his brother, was 40. He last saw him alive on July 15. His brother expected to receive an appointment at Riga as military attaché. That appointment had not materialized, and consequently the major was very depressed. After receiving a letter the next that he heard of his brother was when he received a telegram from the officer commanding the troops at Sheffield asking him to go there as his brother was dead.

It was stated that when Major Cameron was found a revolver was lying on the floor between his legs. One empty cartridge was in the case. No Shot Heard.

Lt.-Col. Murray Muirhead-Murray, Royal Artillery, also of Hillsborough Barracks, said he met Major Cameron coming from the officers' mess. He appeared normal. About 11.40 he heard sounds coming from the bedroom of the major. It was a very loud, snuffing noise as though a person had difficulty in breathing. He called up Major Day who was sleeping in the next room.

They listened for some time, and then heard a moan and opened the door of Major Cameron's bedroom. They went in, switched on the lights, and saw him in his chair. The room was in darkness when they entered. Blood was flowing from a hole in the head. He heard no shot, and so far as he could understand no one else had heard one.

Plenty to Feed His Dogs

WHILE CHILDREN STARVE.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Aug. 30.—Jan. Bishop, of Freemansburg, fed his hound dog, Duke, instead of his four undernourished children.

State Agent Peifer, of Easton, with Constable Joseph Reed, of Freemansburg, visited the Bishop home and found the children in a destitute condition, with little food in the house, while outside a pan contained plenty for the dog.

Peifer ordered the animal shot and Constable Reed, carried out the order. The dog's life was sacrificed so that the children might live properly.

Trace The Evil to Its Source

Baby Week is over, and it has served its purpose. The emergency hospital is an accomplished fact, public interest in the city's health has been aroused, and the response of citizens to the appeals for funds and supplies has been general and most generous. And now, what?

The object for which the Child Welfare Association and citizens are working is to raise the standard of health of the children in the community, and it follows as a matter of course, of the adult population also, and the questions which must be answered are, what are the main factors which tend to undermine their health and render them susceptible to disease, and how are these difficulties to be overcome? Bear in mind that the rich as well as the poor have to put up with the dust of the city, that the flies which breed in poisonous drains are no respectors of persons, that the foul air of the slums finds its way also into the palatial residences not far removed from them, and yet whatever epidemics are prevalent find their victims, for the most part in the homes of those who are poorly circumstanced.

These are the factors which must be considered and the reasons why such is the case are not far to seek. The command given nearly two thousand years ago, "FEED MY LAMBS," is explained more often than not as referring to our spiritual welfare, but it surely has a practical application also, for did He not when circumstances arose act in a most practical manner and find food for the hungry? The vital need of the people today is for FOOD, CLOTHING, and FUEL, and because they are unobtainable by many in sufficient quantity, their families are left unprotected against the attacks of the diseases by which we are all surrounded.

Establish hospitals by all means, extend them if the circumstances are such as to demand it, but let us turn our attention to the source of the evil and direct our efforts towards making hospitals as far as possible unnecessary.

It is bodily nourishment that the people require, bodily comforts and comfortable houses, and of these they are deprived because the prices of essentials place them beyond their means. Charity does not meet the case; it merely adds to the evil, and should only be applied in cases of extremity. The cost of living must be brought down until it is possible for the humblest workman to purchase what is required in order to live in frugal comforts, and enable him at the same time to preserve his pride and his manhood.

Who is to blame for the existing condition of affairs? We ask ourselves this question and we yet are fully aware that the responsibility is our very own. It is known to all of us where profiteering has been going on, but what have those of us who could make his influence felt done to combat the profiteer who has amassed wealth at the expense of the health of the community? Have we not even heard of individuals whose fortunes have been made out of the excessive prices charged for goods supplied to public institutions? It has gone on for years and we have remained supine.

All the blame, however, cannot be laid at the door of the suppliers, but it still is ours. Governments have gone on strengthening the blockade which cuts us off from the markets of the world by high customs duties on the bare essentials of life, and again we have been passive in our attitude towards them. What care we so long as we can manage to make ends meet? Nothing! We take a greater interest in a movie than we do in the serious matters connected with an election, or we allow ourselves to be bamboozled by wordy orators, and pay no heed to his qualifications to act as a representative of the city or of a district. A football match or a dance will arouse the enthusiasm of the young generation, but in a matter of public importance they are apathetic.

What of the others? The mother denies herself of her share of the food in order to maintain the strength of the breadwinner. As prices go up, the amount of fuel is reduced; the supply of clothing gets less and less; repairs cannot be made to the house, and finally she too is driven by the children's cries for food to leave her family and seek work. The result is that home life is destroyed, the children are neglected, and soon fall easy victims to physical dangers and evil influences.

We are faced with a difficult proposition if we are really determined to bring about an improved condition of things. Today we are applying emergency measures to the evils that exist, and undoubtedly the efforts which we are making are commendable, but we must apply the axe to the very roots of the evil if we are to succeed in our campaign. All the influence that we possess must be brought to bear upon the authorities until they have cut overhead expenditure to the minimum in order to enable them to reduce the taxes. Our voices should be raised in protest against every case of profiteering that comes to our notice, and if our voices are unheeded let us use the means at our disposal, and which have been applied with effect elsewhere, to compel compliance with our just demands.

Admiral Field Expresses His Appreciation

Editor Evening Telegram.

Sir,—I am directed to forward herewith copy of a letter received by His Excellency the Governor from Vice-Admiral Sir F. Field, Commanding the Special Service Squadron, and copy of His Excellency's reply thereto. It is desired that these letters may be published in the next issue of your paper.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,
 J. R. BENNETT,
 Colonial Secretary.

September 22th, 1924.

[Copy.] H. M. S. "Hood", Special Service Squadron, At Topsall Bay, 16th Sept, 1924.

Your Excellency,

I desire, on behalf of the Captains, Officers and Ships' Companies of the Special Squadron, to express to you, and, through you, to the Government and people of Newfoundland, our most sincere thanks for the warm-hearted welcome and generous hospitality that we have received throughout our very pleasant stay.

Although it was not possible for the Squadron, on account of the deep draught of the battle cruisers, to enter St. John's harbour, the excellent facilities for transport from Topsall Bay enabled officers and men to meet the people of St. John's. For these facilities our best thanks are due to the Government for arranging special trains and for allowing the personnel of the Squadron to make use of the railways entirely free of cost. We are also most grateful to all those private owners of motor cars who so generously provided transport.

As a result of these greatly appreciated arrangements we were enabled to make a number of visits to the surrounding country and we have been very much impressed by its great natural beauty, its facilities for sport and its industrial possibilities. The fishing, for which Newfoundland is so famous, was keenly enjoyed and I desire to express my special thanks to the Government for advancing the shooting season by three days so that officers might have some shooting before the Squadron sails.

I shall be writing to the Prime Minister and also to Major Leonard Outerbridge, the Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, to thank them personally for all that has been done to make the visit so pleasant and enjoyable. In writing to the Chairman of the Entertainment Committee I shall ask him to convey our appreciation to all those who have extended such generous hospitality, especially to those who have accommodated officers in their private houses.

Finally I wish to thank Your Excellency for all the personal kindness which you and Lady Allardyce have shown to me and the officers and men of the Squadron. The officers and men who took part in the ceremonial march through St. John's were greatly honoured by your consenting to receive the salute from the naval brigade on that occasion. We shall leave Newfoundland with the happiest memories of a delightful visit.

I am addressing this letter to you now in view of your departure from St. John's to-morrow.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,
 (Sgd.) F. FIELD,
 Vice Admiral Commanding Special Service Squadron.

Obituary.

DR. JOHN MURPHY, B.A.M.C.

We regret to announce that in spite of the unremitting attention of his relatives, brother physicians and attendants and the gallant fight made by the patient himself, Dr. John Murphy passed away at 5 o'clock this morning.

Stricken with infantile paralysis on the 10th of September, during the performance of his professional duties, Dr. Murphy remained conscious of his surroundings until three hours before the end came, and even, when possible, assisted those who were attending him. A week ago when his condition was considered critical the Sacred Rites of the Church were administered. The deceased was 32 years of age and was the youngest son of the Hon. J. J. and Mrs. Murphy. Educated at St. Bonaventure's College, he proceeded from that institution to Ampleforth College, Eng., and afterwards completed his course of study at the London Hospital Medical College and obtained his degree in 1916. War having broken out, he joined the Student Officers Training Camp and secured his commission upon graduation. He was sent out to Macedonia as medical officer with the Rifle Brigade and later was transferred to the medical unit on the Bulgarian front. He was on active service until the troops were demobilized when he returned to his native land and opened a practice in St. John's. Here he quickly gained a high reputation in the profession especially in surgical work. In 1913 he married Miss Elsie Kenway of Bristol, England, who with three children survives him, one boy and two girls, the youngest an infant.

The late Dr. Murphy's fight with death was anxiously watched by the whole community by whom he was highly esteemed, and the deepest sympathy is felt for his bereaved relatives.

The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from his late residence on Duckworth Street. A military funeral has been arranged, and six of his brother officers will act as pall bearers. Ex-service men of all ranks are also invited to attend.

Communications Regarding Eel Grass

September 18th, 1924.

Sirs:

I beg to enclose herewith copy of a message received from the High Commissioner, London, with respect to the Newfoundland Eel Grass, a sample of which was shown at the Exhibition at Wembley. I have sent a copy of the telegram to the Board of Trade here, and also to the Department of Agriculture & Mines and Marine & Fisheries. I shall be glad if you will kindly print the message in the next issue of your paper for general information. There may be some persons in Newfoundland who would be interested in the proposal, and led to make an experimental shipment.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,
 J. R. BENNETT,
 Colonial Secretary.

The Proprietors "Evening Telegram."

[Copy.] LONDON, Sept. 17th, 1924. Colonial Secretary, St. John's, Nfld.

Much interest taken in sample Newfoundland eel grass at Exhibition. Enquiries convinced this commodity would find ready sale in United Kingdom but in order ascertain suitability this market have recommended that large sample consignment of about five tons equal in quality to that on view at Wembley should be sent over. Brokers consider they could dispose of this five tons for ten pound per ton c.i.f. London, although do not guarantee this price as matter largely experimental. Am cabling this information in view advancing season in case interested parties may wish send further consignment this year.

SWINDLER GETS 6 YEARS IMPRISONMENT.

The Polish Jew named Sluet who engaged in a number of swindling exploits at Deer Lake and Corner Brook after he had deserted from his ship at Botwood was tried before the Supreme Court on Circuit at Grand Falls and sentenced to six years imprisonment. Sluet was indicted on four counts for false pretences. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty on each of the counts and he was sentenced to 18 months imprisonment on each conviction the sentences to run concurrently. The prisoner is being brought in by express by constable detective Bennett, who conducted the investigation.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

Sept. 18th.—The city to-day in the deepest gloom, since the funerals do take place of those that were killed in the motor accident of Monday night. The naval funerals taking place in the morning, a great crowd of citizens to the City Hall to do honour to the two gallant officers. The parade a most impressive one, the coffins drawn on gun carriages and are draped with ensigns. Sad to see the flags, swords and medals of the two officers resting on the coffins. Among those that do honor to them are the members of the Cabinet and the City Council, and also official representatives of other governments and organizations.

So to the funeral of Captain Whitty mightily impressive and is attended by the greatest crowd that did ever pay tribute to a former comrade. This indeed the saddest day that the city has known these many years and will be long remembered in sorrow by all who saw.

REACHED CITY AT 12.30 TO-DAY.

The east bound express which left Port aux Basques Wednesday morning, comprised of two engines and nine cars met with a derailment at 3 p.m. yesterday at the 204th mile, four miles west of Arnold's Cove and as a result did not reach the city until 12.50 to-day. The accident occurred on a fairly level part of the road. The baggage car, diner, day coach, sleeper, and two second class cars left the rails, and sped over the ties several hundred feet before coming to a standstill. The cars remained upright, and were apparently undamaged, although the roadbed is somewhat torn-up as a result. The passengers and those of the train crew received a bit of a shaking up, but all escaped injury. The cause of the run-off is not known, but an official of the railway has proceeded to the scene to investigate. Following the derailment a wrecking train left Clarendville at 5 o'clock and arrived there three hours later. The work of placing the cars on the rails was carried out with despatch and by 3 o'clock this morning the train was able to proceed. Yesterday's west bound express was delayed five hours at Arnold's Cove as a result.

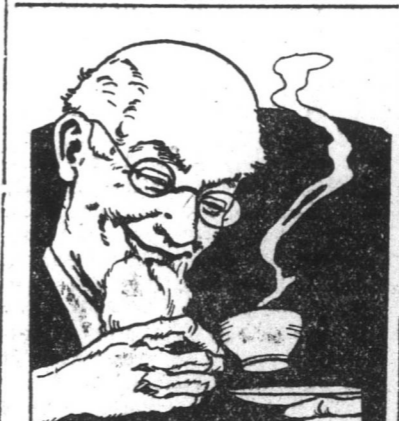

THE TRAINS.—The belated express reached the city at 12.50 p.m. Thursday's west bound express was delayed at Arnold's Cove five hours, due to the derailment of the east bound express, and did not leave Port Blandford until 2.30 this morning.

Magistrates Court

The city salesman who appeared before the Magistrate's Court about a week ago charged with embezzling certain money, the property of his employer, was before court this morning, and the case was withdrawn. The complainant, through his lawyer, made a motion to this effect, which was consented to by the court. Arrangements have been made between the two parties for a satisfactory settlement of the amount stolen.

A sailor charged with being drunk and disorderly and deserting his ship, was sent back under police escort.

A second sailor, charged with being drunk and disorderly, was discharged.

A woman, without a home, was arrested by the police at an early hour this morning wandering about the streets. In court she was charged with being a loose and disorderly person, and the Judge had no other alternative left than to send her to the penitentiary for the next three months. After sentence had been passed she attacked the Constable who had arrested her in the open court, but the blows delivered had no effect. With the assistance of another policeman she was removed from the court room down the winding stairway to the cells below where she renewed the attack, but was safely landed behind the bars.

A motorist from Portugal Cove, charged with driving without having his car registered, was ordered to pay costs.

In the case of a motorist driving without a license sentence was suspended on payment of costs.

Laid to Rest

Yesterday afternoon the funerals of G. J. Whitty, M.C., Lieut. W. M. R.A.F., and Mr. Clinton Duder, victims of Monday night's tragedy, took place. Despite the inclemency of the weather, thousands of citizens gathered to pay their last tribute to the departed. The funeral of the late Lieut. King took place at 2.30, from the residence, Tor Cottage, Waterford Road, to the General Protestant Cemetery. The hearse bearing the casket, was draped in the Union Jack, and was preceded by the C.L.B. Band. The cortege formed up as follows: Detachment of ex-Soldiers, Guard of Honor from Avalon Lodge, A.F. & M., a detachment of Veterans carrying many wreaths, representatives of the Government, the Mayor, and in addition a large gathering of citizens. As the sad cortege moved off, the C.L.B. Band rendered "The Dead March in Saul." The service at the Fairbairn, assisted by Rev. Hammond Johnson. The G.W.V.A. Ritual was recited, during which the Executive of the Association directed people in the grave, whilst the Missions sang a sprig of accola. The procession reformed and wended its way to the funeral of the late Captain Whitty, Waterford Bridge Road. The cortege left the deceased's residence at 3.30 and the processional order was the same as that of Lieut. King, with the addition of a Guard of Honor from the C.C.C. whilst ex-Captain of the Regiment acted as Pall bearers, while many citizens brought flowers to the grave. As the cortege proceeded down Water Street, the C.L.B. Band played "The Dead March in Saul," "Nearer My God To Thee," and other solemn music, whilst thousands lined the thoroughfare and bowed their heads as the funeral passed by. During the National War Memorial procession made a brief halt, when several wreaths were placed on the Memorial as a tribute to the deceased's memory. The cortege then proceeded via Cochrane Street and Military Road to the Cathedral where prayers for the dead were recited by Rev. Dr. Carter, assisted by Rev. Frs. Ryan, Savin, Murphy, McGottigan and Kennedy. At the conclusion of the service the "Dead March in Saul" was played forth from the organ. Leaving the Cathedral, a detachment of naval men in charge of two officers from HMS Constance joined in the procession to Belvedere Cemetery, where the funeral took place. The funeral of the late Clinton Duder took place from the residence of Mr. W. F. Joyce, Barnes Road, at 10 a.m. and was attended by a large number of citizens. Interment took place at the General Protestant Cemetery. The service at the graveside was conducted by Rev. R. J. Power, of the Presbyterian Church, and Rev. A. B. S. Stirling, of St. Mary's.

Holds World's Slow Record

At Wembley may be seen what is regarded at the world's slowest moving creature, the Tuatara lizard. This strange creature which often stays still for as long as two weeks without even moving its eyelids, is to be added to the exhibits in the New Zealand pavilion at Wembley. It has the remains of a third eye on the top of its head, and is the slowest breathing animal in the world. If two of the species are menaced by a rat, the small jumps on the back of the larger. If, then, the rat approaches too near, the big Tuatara grabs it in its jaws and goes to sleep, leaving the rat no alternative to a gradual extinction.

Dr. Morgan's Services

The events of Thursday afternoon were a tribute to the hold the teaching of Jesus have upon the English-speaking people in all lands. The absence of singing at the funeral of Lieut. King, many officers coming in from the Outpost, there were the throngs praying before the Cathedral awaiting the funeral of Lieut. King, there was a really good audience in Canon Wood.

Colonel Cloud led in prayer and the services of the training school were held in a body. Dr. Morgan told the audience that 37 years ago in his office he and Colonel Cloud, then a very young officer, were associated in a great revival. It was announced that the Mission hall would be open at Gowey street, mornings at 11.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL BOOK

The world is Luke, according to men, because he is both properly scientific and beautifully artistic with respect to his subject. The preface of the book is always written last. Never before the preface. That of Luke is the only one in scripture and its laws those of all the writers of Holy Writ. He states his subject, his service, his methods and his purpose.

His subject is Jesus, "The Word" the same as in John. But no one in the audience had noted the fact because for unknown reasons all editions of scripture print it with a small w. The sources of Luke were carefully examined probably including Matthew and Mark. He was a doctor. It was especially fitting that Mary's story should be given to the world through the sympathetic pen of Luke. Luke insists on his own accuracy, that is scientifically, but also on the fact that he has written in order, that is in beautiful arrangement. Lastly Luke was written in order that the man already instructed by word of mouth should have a fixed standard of comparison which is also the purpose of all scripture.

THE PERFECT MAN

is delineated by this scientific artist in Chapters 1-5 to 111 fins. The Perfect man is perfect, that is demonstrated as such 4 to 9.50. From 9.51 to the end here is the perfecting of men as the result of his suffering. (Compare lectures on Matthew and Mark). Modern scientific biography begins with prenatal facts and then considers the baby and the period of adolescence. These are just the facts Luke records. Maturity is the next period. More generally than thought maturity comes much later than 21. Here is a scientific outline. Men have not outgrown the Bible. They have not caught it up. Twelve years at a burst in the life of Jesus are covered in one verse. "Jesus grew" 2:40. Compared with that 2:52 says "Jesus advanced in wisdom." That is plain. A child grows but a youth has the power of choice and the right to use it. Jesus used the power of choice.

THE VIRGIN BIRTH

as discussed in Matthew is from Joseph's standpoint. In Luke the view is that of Mary. Mariolatry has led the Protestant Church to go to the other extreme and not give Mary her proper place. The man who does not believe in the Angels who are mentioned in the birth story is a Sadducee. They did not believe in Angels. Nazareth at the birth of Jesus was a city of 20,000, at the junction of two of the greatest trade routes of the world, and had become a cess pool so that it seemed as though no good thing could come therefrom. But in that city was a woman endowed with grace and character and royal lineage. The Lord was with her. She was not troubled because an angel appeared, but in her humility was surprised that the angel should call her one filled with grace.

The moment Mary heard the name Jesus spoken as the name of her child she knew that she was to be the mother of Messiah. With no mock modesty this lovely woman at once raised the question "How can this thing be?" The answer was "This thing will take place by the power and action of God." That is most rational. If God is limited by the laws man has discovered the Virgin is impossible; but there are birth laws men do not know. The statement of the angel gives absolute rest. Men accept or reject this doctrine according to their philosophy of God. If Jesus was not of Virgin birth, he was the miraculous and perfect son of imperfect parents. Jesus as the second Adam is as impossible on the basis of the theory of evolution as was the first Adam. One doctrine declares Mary to be immaculate in order to provide for the sinlessness of Jesus. Our right of private judgment would lead us to demand that the same rule be required regarding Mary's mother and so indefinitely. The true doctrine of the Immaculate Conception is that Jesus, the unborn child, was withheld by divine act from contact with sinfulness. The transfiguration was the perfecting of humanity, Jesus might have gone to glory that day without death, but denying the glory of humanity he set himself to suffer finally both as Son of God and Son of Man for men.

EVENING DIET.

This ancient word diet is here used to describe a religious service. The meaning is still the same. The heart requires food as well as the body. Campbell Morgan is feeding the faith of multitudes. Rev. J. Joyce of Wesley was on the platform and led in prayer. Rev. R. J. Power, chairman of the local committee made a brief statement regarding the finances. Mr. Power is gifted in tactful presentation of any subject of which he takes hold. Dr. Morgan is in St. John's with no contract or guarantee of any sort from anyone. He frankly presents the budget of the work for the party as nearing $1500 and the rest is left to the audience.

THE ROMANCE OF BIBLE STUDY.

To grip that subject one must know something of the book. The first test of a book is its selling value. Second, how long does the book live is a more severe test. The third test is the demand for translation, world wide human interest. Holy Writ leads in all three points. Only three books in all the world have reached one hundred translations. Two of these, by Thomas A. Kempis and Bunyan, are directly founded on Holy Writ. Between 700 and 800 is the record for The Bible and in 300 cases the language was first reduced to writing for the Bible. The wonders of these languages are a proof that man did not come up from some lower source. Here is romance even apart from religion.

SO GREAT A BOOK.

therefore demands study. The Bible is not being studied as it ought even by the church. Some people keep a Bible. Some people open the Bible and put a finger down on a text looking for guidance. The speaker protested. Some people read according to a committee's plan. He knew of a woman who for 40 years, only missing 25 Sundays, marked every text she heard discussed. HIGHER CRITICISM So called is a legitimate thing unless you include a certain materialistic school which denies all miracle. None of these is genuine study of the Bible. For that sort of study there must be open mind and determined will. Dr. Morgan's father who lived to be 80 years of age was in early life a Baptist Minister who never read a novel in his life. Dr. Morgan reads one every day. Up to sixteen years of age he never knew that any one of good reputation could doubt the scripture. Then he started to prepare for teaching. That was the age of the nationalistic group which included Darwin and his friends. That was the day when God was written with a small "g". Agnosticism gripped him and though he had

A GREAT TRIBUTE TO A GREAT ARTISTE BY A GREAT CRITIC:

"There is nothing on the stage this season, nor was there anything on the stage last season, to compare for one moment with the pathos, the suspense, the spectacular magnificence and the gorgeous finale of the picture which presents Lillian Gish in 'The White Sister.'"—Alan Dale, in N. Y. American.

preached from 13 to 18 he thanked God that for the two years he was uncertain he kept his mouth shut. If a man really believes one great truth let him preach that and make music like Fagotini on one string. In despair he stopped buying books either in favor of or against the Bible. For 40 years he has just studied the Bible. Seven years he never studied any other book.

THE BIBLE IS NOT A BOOK.

It is a library. In that lies Romance. There is need for study in 66 books, at least 30 known authors and 1500 years. First, Unstitch the 66 books. The New Testament is a farago of nonsense unless we have the Old Testament. The Scriptures of the Jewish Church belong to the Christian Church. This library is not a scientific treatise nor a system of philosophy or theology. It is the literature of religion. The American revision is the best translation up to date, though of course another revision will be needed. Get a copy without chapters and verses. The best in Moulton's. Chapters and verses are a hindrance. For example the 14th chapter of John begins: "Let not your heart be troubled." That is an impertinence for it divides the literature of religion. The passage reads: "The cock shall not crow till thou hast denied me thrice, nevertheless Peter knowing the worst that is in you I will help you through to the ultimate fellowship with me that you desire. So let not your heart be troubled."

STUDYING MICROSCOPICALLY

One knows almost at once that he knows nothing. The speaker is just beginning to find out how little he knows. Perhaps Heaven will give the opportunity for endless study. Reasonably. What is meant. When a man studies the Bible always truths leap out and demand obedience. No other literature does that. If a man refuses to obey he inevitably ceases to study. This is the only destructive

The Loss of Schooner Little Gem

Capt. D. Stoyles who lost his schooner Little Gem at Labrador during the early part of the month is at present in the city. He leaves in a day or two for the coast in an endeavour to locate the wreck and save some of his fishing gear. The schooner Little Gem with about 350 qts. codfish, left Pleasure Harbor about 6 o'clock Friday morning. Sept. 15th, bound across the Straits. When about 5 miles east of St. Peter's Islands Capt. Stoyles noting that the rising wind threatened a hurricane started to take in canvas and steer for Henley Harbor. In bringing his schooner to windward the foremast broke and about 14 feet of the spar with the two jibs and forestal came down bringing with it the main mast. Two of the crew were caught underneath the wreckage and Capt. Stoyles thought at first that they had been killed, but fortunately they escaped injury. The Captain's son Albert who was at the helm was knocked down the companionway into the cabin by a piece of the topmast which hit him on the head and also smashed three spokes from the wheel. Although stunned by the blow he recovered after a short while. After the schooner was dismasted she became helpless. Heavy seas playing on her decks made it almost impossible for the crew to leave in safety. A quantity of oil was poured on the water and all were enabled to get aboard their motor boat, in which they reached the shore. Sarah M. Capt. Miller who landed them at Henley Harbor. The Little Gem had on board 320 qts. codfish, five casks cod oil, two cod traps and all the necessary outfit for a fishing schooner. None of the cargo or outfit was insured and the loss to Capt. Stoyles is a severe one.

Sydney.—When the Moorland Fruit Co. imported baskets of Mexican wasps to aid the pollination of its blue-berry barrens, near here, its officers believed they had hit upon a bright idea. When the 1924 crop turned out to be the heaviest in living memory, they felt sure of it. But when the wasps multiplied in proportion to the berries they began to have doubts, and swarms of them attacked the pickers and drove them off, putting several in the hospital with blood-poisoning cases, they were sure the remedy was worse than the disease. Now the company is advertising for some expeditious method of exterminating its too-enthusiastic colony of workers.

Highland Gatherings

The origin of the Highland Gathering dates from the time when forays and battles were a part of the life of the clansmen. Highland games encouraged the most virile members of the clan and caused the clansmen to strive in healthy rivalry. In those far-off days there was no entrance fee; there were no spectators from the south to strive, often unsuccessfully, to follow the various events and pronounce names unfamiliar to the Sassenach or English ear.

There are few primitive, and therefore attractive, Highland gatherings in these civilized times. One—in the island of South Uist, in the Outer Hebrides—is noteworthy in this respect. Here no admission fee is charged, there are no fashionable spectators to sit in boredom watching the puzzling events. Yet excellent prize money is given, the result almost entirely of local subscriptions, and the spectators consist of Gaelic-speaking men and women, following eagerly the fortunes of the competitors, all of whom are known to them personally.

The month of the more fashionable Highland gatherings dates from mid-August to mid-September.

In August the Crieff and Nairn meetings are held, and, toward the end of the month, the Lochaber Gathering at Fortwilliam and the Skye Gathering at Portree.

The first week of September sees the fashionable meeting at Aboyne, on Deeside, and the Braemar Gathering, to which an incredible number of persons, attracted by the presence of royalty, flock.

Then come the Argyllshire Gathering at Oban and the Northern Meeting at Inverness, with its two highly fashionable balls, crowded with dancers.

Piping forms a considerable part of each Highland meeting, and the playing of the classical music of the Highland pipe—Piobaireach (Anglicized Pibroch), or Great Music—is the event usually taken first on the programme. The event—the most truly Highland one in any gathering—is held early, when few spectators are on the ground, for the simple reason that few persons nowadays show any interest in the finest form of pipe music.

A pibroch is a slow and usually a very old composition. It probably goes back three hundred years, to the time when Patrick Mac Macrimmon was piper to MacLeod of MacLeod at Buvagan, in Skye, and composed a number of immortal tunes. Very few pibroch tunes have been composed during the past hundred years.—Seton Gordon in Daily Mail.

"Plastigrams" Scores Big Hit at Nickel

PATRONS EXPERIENCE GENUINE THRILL IN THEIR DEMONSTRATION MOVIE.

The first picture made by the Third Dimension Movie, entitled "Plastigrams" was seen at the Nickel Theatre last night. So startling were the effects seen by the spectators that they experienced an entirely new set of thrills when articles were seemingly thrust in their faces from the screen, or when a beautiful girl held a foaming drink out to them, or when taken for a thrilling and dangerous ride in a speeding automobile. So real was the illusion that audiences shrieked with laughter or surprise, or gasped at the thrills.

Intensely dramatic is the story of "The Kingdom Within." It possesses in a marked degree that necessary element of drama: conflict; the conflict of wills and emotions rather than that of physical force though that, too, is not lacking. It is a production that tells a gripping story and one which holds the interest throughout. The entire cast is excellent, especially the role enacted by Gaston Glass, who brings to the screen a character wealthy in sympathy and ability.

In this week's episode of "Fighting Blood," Leech Cross the famous boxer appears in combat with George O'Hara, the leading character of the story.

Adopted Babies Riddle

Paris.—Dinorah Coarer, the woman with as many adopted babies as she has aliases, who called herself the Marquise de Presles and Jacqueline de Saint Gilles, who posed as a doctor, as an actress and a nurse, was interrogated for the first time by the examining magistrate at Agen, in the southwest of France, recently.

She is tall, dark-haired, with a distinguished appearance. During the few hours she was being questioned she wept and groaned. At times she drew herself up to make an indignant reply.

From her replies it appears that her eldest "daughter" is in reality Jacqueline Demernez, 22. She is on her way to Agen to give evidence.

"I adopted her," Coarer told the magistrate, "because I thought it would please my friend M. Gernot, who was fond of babies. She was then five. But M. Gernot did not like her, and so I sent her to live with my mother at Nantes.

"As for Christian and Alfred," she continued, sobbing, "they were children that I presented to M. Gernot, telling him they were his. When he left me in 1912 he took them with him. One s, I believe, employed in a hospital, and the other is on a farm. You can send for them also to give evidence."

And so the list of adopted children was read through by the magistrate while the woman added her explanations.

"Marie Jeanne was M. Gernot's own child by another woman," she said; "but I loved her. Madeleine was the child of my maid and was born in 1915. I left her behind when I went to Constantinople. I loved all the children I adopted, M. le Juge, and I looked after them as if I had been their real mother."

The magistrate, turning over his immense dossier, asked her if that was the case how she could account for the death of one of the youngest, the three-months-old Pierre, who was taken for a long train journey when he had meningitis.

"Don't speak to me about little Pierre," she replied. "I suffered too much when he died. Remember, we were then penniless, and that we

French Detective Lands His Criminal
 AFTER LONG CHASE.

PARIS.—(A.P.)—This is the story of a Paris detective who travelled half way around the world for his quarry, and finally, in the dense jungle of Annam, threw aside his disguise and arrested his man, who is now doing three years in jail.

As related here an antiquary named Malraux was under the observation of the Paris police, suspected of being responsible for some recent thefts from French museums. It was also thought he had designs on collections of antiques in one of the French provinces, and as a matter of routine a detective was assigned to trail Malraux and a companion, wherever they might go.

The pair went to a seaport and there took passage on a steamer for Saigon, French Indo-China, and the detective went along on the same vessel. He did not even have time to buy a change of clothing, but made friends among the crew and borrowed what he needed.

At Saigon Malraux and his friend posed as rich travellers, anxious to see the country, while the detective slouched around in the background. He had, however, made known his mission to the local French authorities, and when Malraux asked for guides to the remote districts of Annam, the detective was among the natives assigned, but cleverly disguised. The party scoured the region of Angkor, rich in holy relics and fine specimens of old Chinese art, and Malraux and his companion bought freely. Also they did not hesitate, conditions being favorable, to burglarize Annamite temples for particularly fine specimens.

The border of Siam was not far away, and the collectors, having decided to leave the country by that route, called up the native guides and dismissed them. Then the detective had his day. The humble disguise was cast aside, the French policeman stepped out, and Malraux and his friend were placed under arrest.

The case was tried at Phom-penh, Cochinchina, and Malraux had no defence. It came out, during the trial, that his antiques were destined for a New York antiquary, and were worth 1,000,000 francs.

Sun Yat-Sen Party
 Again Declares Its Pro-Foreign Policy.

Canton, China, Aug. 4. (A.P.)—The Kuomintang, the party of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, president of the South China republic, took advantage of the recent strike of house boys at Shanghai, the foreign settlement of Canton, to reiterate the party's pro-foreign policy. In a statement given out by Dr. C. C. Wu, son of the late Wu Ting-fang, one time minister to Washington, the Kuomintang refuses to entertain an alleged proposal of certain Shanghai members of the party to rescind the party's order refraining from anti-foreignism.

A new and stronger order was in fact issued. This reads: "It is the duty of this party to make China a really independent and sovereign state on the basis of the party's three principles. It regards all narrow and anti-foreign sentiments as harmful to society and the world at large; and detrimental to the complete independence and equality of the Chinese state and race. For this reason the party has always strongly exerted itself in suppressing such tendencies."

The pronouncement asserts that even during the Manchu uprising of 1900, when the Manchus were encouraging the Boxers in their "insane movement to destroy the foreigner" the Kuomintang, which had started a revolution at Wuchow, accorded protection to foreign life and property. Since then the revolutionaries, whenever they took up arms, never failed to take special care to give adequate protection to foreigners.

The northern militarists on the other hand, Dr. Wu's statement continues, "having usurped the Peking government, have not hesitated to work in league with the imperialistic powers, and to sell the country in order to further their selfish aims. Our people have often denounced their slavishness towards foreign powers, but the minds of the militarists and reactionaries are really suffused with medieval and monarchial notions and superstitions which are closely associated with anti-foreign sentiments. While in their conduct they are servile, in their mentality they are really hostile to foreigners."

Locusts Invade Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 11.—(A.P.)—Rivers of locusts which flooded the right of way near Munoz, Vera Cruz, almost wrecked a train on the Inter-oceanic railway and blocked traffic for a day, according to reports from Vera Cruz on the recent plague of "mountain jumpers" as they are called in Spanish. The insects have swept great stretches of cultivated lands in Puebla, Oaxaca and Vera Cruz.

An afternoon gown of purple velvet brocaded chiffon is quite regally finished with gray fur.

Berlin Sends Men Abroad to Study Traffic Control

BERLIN, Sept. 11.—(A.P.)—Street traffic in Berlin has increased to such an extent within the last few months, chiefly due to the larger number of automobiles now in use, that the city authorities have sent experts abroad to study the ways of handling traffic in other cities.

New York and other American cities will be visited by the traffic chiefs as well as London and Paris. It is planned to establish a signal system of some kind at the most congested street intersections.

In Potsdamer Place, Berlin's busiest corner, where five streets intersect, eight to ten policemen are engaged when traffic is at its height.

At another busy corner, where Wilhelm street crosses Leipziger street in the shopping district, four policemen are on duty during most of the day.

Know Your Car

WHEN THE CLUTCH STICKS.

Once in a while the clutch on your car will refuse to disengage. This trouble, which may have serious consequences in crowded traffic, is commonly known as "sticking." In a cone clutch it is usually caused by abuse of the mechanism: in a multiple disk clutch it is often due to the fact that the oil supply has become neglected or that the oil has become congealed. To remedy the condition, do not try to throw out the clutch by force, but depress your gearshift lever into neutral position and coast to a stop at the side of the road. If the clutch is of the cone type, it will soon release itself, after its leather surface cools off. If it is a multiple disk clutch, the application of kerosene or gasoline will limber it up. Kerosene is preferable.

If, in a cone clutch, retinning is necessary, new lining obtained from the manufacturers of the clutch is preferable, because of convenience and accuracy. If not obtainable, however, new lining should be cut, using the old as a pattern. It should be much thicker than the old lining.

In putting on new leather lining, it is important to see that it fits tightly and true to the cone. Neatafoot oil should be applied frequently to the new leather while it is being worked in.

In a disk clutch, if the plates are not too badly worn, they may be refaced; otherwise new plates will have to be installed. If the disks are sprung or grooved, new ones will be necessary, and they should be obtained from the manufacturers of your car.

Better Wives and Mothers

The emancipation of women as evidenced by the evolution in dress from steel stays that made a twenty-inch waist and the long street-sweeping skirts to the sports clothes of the present day has certainly had its effect upon the health of women. With proper attention to diet and exercise a race of better wives and mothers is assured by it. If, however, ailments develop as evidenced by irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness and irritability, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be depended upon to overcome them. Thousands of women testify to its success.

1087 THE PATENT OFFICE

Stories Revealed by Earth Strata

A story that began 15,000 years ago, far back in those dim times before men emerged from the shadows of pre-history, is written in earth strata found at Laagerie Basse, France, on a spot where, ages ago, primitive men encamped often and in great numbers. A huge, overhanging cliff that gave shelter, probably attracted them.

The oldest stratum contains the residue of hearth fires, for those ancient men knew many uses of fire. A few crudely engraved objects are mixed with the char and ashes. Then an empty stratum occurs. During the period of its formation evidently the encampment was not used. Possibly a great migration emptied the region, the emigrants lured by tales of teaming hunting grounds elsewhere.

The next stratum reveals that the returned men had achieved a higher civilization during their absence. A sculptured reindeer head, amulets, and other proofs that art had been born, were found. So too were flint graving tools.

In the next stratum, fine, barbed harpoons appear. More and better carvings on animal bones were left here.

Then for nearly 3,000 years no human traces are left. A thick layer of natural rubbish overlays the older records of progress. Then a new race established itself—the Neolithic men. Their polished axes and pottery far excel the handwork of their predecessors. Dog and pig bones reveal probable domestication of these animals. A crude but sturdy civilization had arrived. Shortly after this period, the record ends.

Strategy Wins Autograph From Rudyard Kipling

BURWASH, England, Sept. 11.—(A.P.)—"H" is not the only letter which is frequently silent in England; "W" also is often lost, especially in proper names, as in Burwash, which is pronounced Bur'ash.

Knowledge of how to pronounce the name of this town recently won an enterprising woman an autograph letter from Rudyard Kipling, the most celebrated resident of Burwash. Kipling wrote a parody on one of his poems and mailed it to the poet. In the parody she rhymed words with Burwash which showed she knew how to pronounce the name correctly and Kipling was so surprised that he mailed her a letter of thanks.

THE NON-BELIEVER.

The non-believer is a man
Who lets the morning sunshine in
And thinks by chance this world began.
As men throw dice and lose or win;
He sees the violets bloom and blow,
But not the power which makes them grow.

Chance charted every planet's course!
By chance the summer follows spring
Chance gave to man the faithful horse
And made the swallow fleet of wing!
How these things came he doesn't know,
He thinks they merely happened so.

Oh, what a jumble there would be
If chance were shaping beasts and men,
Could blind chance once repeat a tree,
Or through the June rose back again?
The simplest truth we've learned to know
To-morrow chance might overflow.

Without confusion or mistake
There is a power which rules us all,
A higher law we cannot break,
An eye which sees the sparrow's fall.

In every twig and leaf and blade
I see God's handwork displayed.

Clara Kimball Young at the Majestic

"CORDELLA THE MAGNIFICENT," STARS GREATEST TRIUMPH.

Another big photoplay feature "Cordella the Magnificent," was shown at the Majestic last night when the renowned actress Clara Kimball Young registered her greatest success. The story is one that will deep you on the edge of your seats right up to the smashing climax which you least expected.

"Cordella the Magnificent" is known to the thousands of readers of "Hearst's International" in which it ran in serial form. And this fascinating story of New York society life is fresh in the minds of the great number of persons who followed it eagerly through its startling and enthralling developments. The editors agree that it is one of the best stories they have ever published and it has received the enthusiastic commendation of fiction readers throughout the country. Little wonder, since the author, Leroy Scott, is one of the most popular writers in America.

"Cordella the Magnificent" is a thriller, a story of satin souls, fascinating and thrilling. The drama of a girl who played the limit. It will be repeated to-night, to-morrow afternoon and night.

Ruthless Secrecy

MARKS DAILY DOINGS OF RUSSIAN POLICE.

Moscow, Aug. 21. (A.P.)—To Russians the Cheka is the most-feared organization in Russia, the very mention of the name connoting terror and ruthlessness. Its chief purpose is to suppress counter-revolutionary activities and to punish all who attempt to injure the present Soviet regime.

In a larger sense the Cheka resembles the American Secret Service or the English Scotland Yard, except it has much greater scope, exercises plenary powers, acts as "judge, jury and executioner," maintains its own army, prisons, and is all-powerful in every department of Russian life. There is no appeal from its decisions.

With the Red Army, the Cheka constitutes the most formidable weapon the Bolsheviks possess for maintaining themselves in power. No person, no group, no community, however influential is strong enough to resist the all-embracing tentacles of the Cheka octopus which reach out to every nook and corner of Russia. The number of counter-revolutionaries and political prisoners it put to death during the revolution and terror runs into tens of thousands.

Since the late Premier Lenin introduced the so-called "new economy policy" of the government, the Cheka has been re-christened with a view to depriving it in the minds of the Russians of its sinister aspect. It now goes by the mild name of "state political department," or "G.P.U." these being the initial letters of the Russian words. In it are employed many of the agents of the old Czarist secret service, whose knowledge of old political offenders is of special value.

The G.P.U. is the most highly organized and severely disciplined of all Soviet institutions and its members are the most devoted to the Communist cause. Any disclosure of its plans by an employee or agent would mean certain death. Its working force numbers hundreds of thousands of men and women. Every employee of every communistic institution throughout Russia is a potential agent or spy of the G.P.U.

Felix Dzerzhinsky, the mild-speaking, soft-mannered Pole who presided over the organization up to his present high state of efficiency, has been elevated to the chairmanship of the Supreme Economic Council, but he still directs the broad policy of the G.P.U.

Steamship Co's Hit by Alien Exclusion Law

TOKIO, Sept. 13.—(A.P.)—Effects of the Japanese exclusion clause of the new American immigration act are already felt adversely by Japanese steamship companies operating trans-Pacific services, which are now carrying only a small fraction of their former steership passenger lists.

Steership accommodations of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, Toyo Kisen Kaisha and Osaka Shosen Kaisha trans-Pacific liners formerly were almost altogether taken up by Japanese immigrants or Japanese residents of America. The new law has practically ended travel of this class. The N.Y.K.'s Kaga Maru, on a recent voyage from Seattle, carried only one steership passenger.

In 1923 the three Japanese companies carried 14,333 steership passengers across the Pacific, this yielding an important item of revenue. The loss of the larger part of this income is causing the companies to the government to pay them subsidies, "desiring that they more aid they cannot continue trans-Pacific services."

Honest time and a sure call

THE man who wants a clock that will tell honest time all day as well as awaken him in the morning usually looks for the name Westclox on the dial of the clock he buys. Westclox are famous for the good time they keep.— And that applies to the watches as well as the clocks. The alarm clocks all sound their calls punctually and loud enough to wake the soundest sleepers. Ask your clock dealer for Westclox.

BUT WHAT'S THE COIN?

"It doesn't pay." Every once in a while you hear someone say those three words.

"It doesn't pay" to be considerate of the people who work for you.

"It doesn't pay" to try to be a good person and give the other fellow the best of the doubt and all that sort of thing. If you want to succeed in life you've got to be ruthless and think out yourself all the time; the other fellow won't look out for you.

"It doesn't pay" to sacrifice yourself the time to do things for your children. They won't love you any better for it.

"It doesn't pay" to try to do such carefully careful work. Who's going to know the difference whether you do it right or not?

"It doesn't pay" to care too much for your wife. They aren't going to care as much for you.

"It doesn't pay" to know the sort of thing "they" are always saying.

"It doesn't pay" to add that they are perfectly right.

"It doesn't pay" to add at the same time perfectly right.

"It doesn't pay" to see it all depends upon what kind of coin you expect your pay in.

"It doesn't pay" to want one thing and some other.

You Won't Get It. If you do everything with an idea of getting some tangible advantage out of it for yourself, it is doubtful if any of these things do pay. I agree that people who work for you will sometimes work harder if you make them afraid of you by being disagreeable to them than if you try to be considerate.

I agree that you can sometimes win the game of tennis or of business by calling the ball in when it is "out"—if you can get by the umpire. I agree that children seldom repay by extra love the extra sacrifices that they receive from parents who are passionately eager to give them a better chance and a better time than they had themselves.

I agree with the infinitely careful painstaking work does not always bring a money return adequate for the extra effort.

And I agree most fully that you do not always get back the love you give. And yet I do not agree that "it does not pay."

Only Know What You Want. For if you do these things because something in you demands that you do them I think you will get your pay in a different kind of coin.

Your reward will be subjective rather than objective.

Of course "they" will say that there is no reward at all. And they have a right to their feelings just as you have to yours.

The important thing is that we should try to know what we want and what kind of coin we want to be paid in.

For it is rather sad to want one kind of pay and to suddenly discover that we are getting another.

Famous Recipes for Home Cooking

APPLE SAUCE PIE.

(Really delicious—quite different from "regulation" apple pie.)
1 cupful strained, thick, unswetened apple sauce.
1 cupful sugar.
½ cupful cream.
2 tablespoonfuls Crisco.
2 eggs (well beaten).
½ teaspoonful grated nutmeg rind and juice of small lemon.

Mix together sugar, apple sauce, cream, melted Crisco, nutmeg, rind and juice of lemon. Add eggs.

Pastiry. Sift one and one-half cupfuls flour, one teaspoonful salt and cut in one-half cupful of Crisco with knife, adding cold water to hold. Roll and bake on inverted plate. Fill with mixture, return to hot oven until set. Cover with meringue or whipped cream.

BINDON—WHELAN.

On Monday, September 8th, a very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Placentia, when Miss Teresa Whelan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Whelan, Jersey Side, Placentia Bay, was united in the bonds of Holy Matrimony to Mr. Jas. Bindon, the well known business man of this city. Rev. Fr. A. T. Whelan, brother of the bride, performed the ceremony, which included a Nuptial Mass. The bride was given away by her father, whilst the bridesmaid was Miss Jessie Dunphy. Mr. M. J. Mulcahy, of the Imperial Life Assurance Company, supported the groom. A large number of friends of both parties were present at the Nuptial Mass, after which the happy couple, accompanied by their many friends, repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where the reception was held. Rev. Fr. O'Flaherty of Placentia proposed the health of the bride and groom. He was supported by Mr. Mulcahy. Mr. Bindon replied. After the toasts of the bride's parents and the clergy were duly honored, the bride and groom, amidst the congratulations of their assembled friends, motored to Rourke's, Holywood, where the honeymoon was spent. Monday they returned to St. John's, their future residence, 11 Livingstone Street. The bride and groom are well known in St. John's and Placentia and other parts of the country, and in consequence a large number of presents were received. Congratulations.

NORMAN—VARDY.

A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized at Gower Street Parsonage on Monday night, September 15th, by the Rev. Hammond Johnson, when Bessie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Norman, Clarke's Beach, was united in matrimony to Mr. James Vardy, formerly of Hickman's Hr., Trinity Bay, but who now carries on an enterprising lumber business in this city. The bride was given away by Mr. E. J. Sansom, and looked charming in a suit of brown gaberdine, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas and maiden-hair fern. She was attended by her sister Miss Mary Norman, while the groom was supported by Mr. D. I. Chetwynd. After the ceremony the happy couple with a few friends motored to Donovan's where supper was held and the usual toasts honored. Games and music were then indulged in, and after a very enjoyable evening the party returned to town. The following morning the bride and groom motored from Donovan's to Clarke's Beach, where the honeymoon will be spent, after which they will return to the city where they will reside in future.

The bride was the recipient of many costly, and beautiful, presents which testify to the high esteem in which she was held by her many friends.

Baby Week

Yesterday's inclement weather was responsible for a smaller number than usual attending at the Star Hall, but those who braved the elements and went to the exhibition were glad they did so, and were much impressed with their visit. One of the principal attractions of "Baby Week" is the free cinema picture which is shown at the Star Theatre every afternoon. The film which is mainly for instruction purposes contains much that is valuable for parents, and all interested should make an effort to be present and see it. To-day at 5 o'clock, Mr. C. E. Hunt will deliver an address, having for his subject "Some legal obligations."

What's happening in your mouth?

Nothing goes on in your mouth that your Prophy-lactic Tooth Brush doesn't know about. The inquisitive, saw-tooth-pointed bristle tufts dig into every nook and cranny. Even the hard-to-get-at backs of back teeth are scrubbed clean by the large end tuft.

The Prophy-lactic is curious about the germ that makes teeth decay. It hunts him up and chases him out. That is what prevents decay and gives your teeth that look of beauty that comes with white, strong, and healthy teeth.

C. L. B. Cadets

Rev. J. Brinton, Battalion Chaplain, is on duty this week and Capt. Phil Rendell as Orderly Officer with F. Co., Section No. 2 as duty Company.

Orders announce two weekly drills in future, Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7.45 sharp. Lt.-Col. W. F. Rendell, C.B.E., and the following staff were on duty last night notwithstanding the weather: Brigade Major Williams, Capt. Stick, P. B. Rendell, Fred Burdon, C.M.O.; Lieuts. Eric Jarrett and W. R. Mott, the latter in muffs and 118 all ranks.

Last Sunday the Regiment paraded at 3 p.m. to St. Michael's Church. Some allege that the weather man had no discrimination at all. The weather proved as usual who the real Brigade men are, and who are members of Sunshine Company C.L.B. An officer recommended the Colonel to award the D.C.M. as a reward of merit, but he had not enough medals to go round, for every man deserved it, so no awards were made. Everybody got soaked as far as the skin, but the harder it rained the more everybody smiled and packed all their troubles in their old kit bags. The strength Sunday was 277. The Rector of St. Michael's, Rev. E. J. R. Nichols, preached. The choir was present.

On Tuesday the Brigade were all delighted to have the opportunity of visiting the Special Service Squadron, visits being made to H.M.S. Hood and Repulse. The lads left town at 12.30 and proceeded direct in two parties, one going to each ship. Everybody was given a real British sailors' welcome. The Jack Tars were all voted a jolly lot and they gave the lads a royal time. Those visiting the Repulse said they had the best of it. The speed boat was the great attraction outside the capital ships. The parties left the Squadron at 5 o'clock. Quartermaster Lt. Mott, C.M. Sergeant-Skewins and Sergeant Major Johnson had the kettles boiled at the old camp grounds and gave the 250 lads all the hot tea they required.

Sergeant Major Sidney Bursell, Bugle Bandmaster, put one over on everybody when he silently marched his Bugle Band to parts unknown. The secret afterwards leaked out that he entertained his "pets" to a pork and cabbage supper, Newfoundland's national dish. Now all the Regiment want to join Bursell's Bugle Band. Captain Stick was busy examining recruits Thursday. Fifteen recruits passed their exams and eight failed. To those who did not get through we say carry on. Often those who fail at first make better progress afterwards, as failures are lessons which make us the keener on our objectives, so carry on recruits carry on.

Lamaline Company, No. 3470, has 26 on the roll and six parades for August. Pte. Fred Kirby is still on leave. Most of the gallant lads of Lamaline are fishing in the summer. Second Lieut. H. Kings, Lamaline's enthusiastic officer and Naval Veteran, is on a month's holiday. Quartermaster Guy Shears of St. John's and Reserve Lt. Stanley Cate, formerly Bandmaster of the Battalion Band, have each presented a C.L.B. flag to the Lamaline Company. The officers tender both officers their grateful thanks.

The Brigade this week is again mourning the loss to the nation and Newfoundland in the tragic passing of ex-member Clinton Dunder of C. Co., and also of Capt. Whitty, War Veterans Secretary, and Lieut. W. S. King, and of the strangers within our gates, Lt. Commander O'Callaghan, and Lt. Burrows of H.M.S. Constance. All ranks at C.L.B. Headquarters deeply mourn the loss of such promising men, three of them having played a man's game in the great struggle for liberty 1914-18.

We are pleased to hear that several ex-C.L.B. Ambulance men were doing their part in assisting with the volunteers helping the doctors in connection with artificial respiration for Dr. John Murphy.

We congratulate Dr. Fred Burden, Medical Officer of the C.L.B., for his great interest in the ambulance department. Capt. L. Stick will give a series of lectures to all M.C.O.'s on Tuesday nights in future, beginning October 7th.

Fads and Fashions.

A tailored coat-dress of striped flannel is worn with a small felt hat trimmed with a jaunty quill.

A new imitation chinchilla is very popular as trimming for the fall evening wraps of rich velvets.

Some of the loveliest of the fall dance frocks and negligees are made of the new shaded georgettes.

Rows of black braid make a narrow panel down the back of a tub-like frock of cloth ending in tiers.

Many of the new frocks have all attention centered upon the front, with the back straight and flat.

People everywhere are giving up Floor Canvas and are buying Congoleum Art Rugs. There are many good reasons for this. Here are some of them:—

1st—Congoleum Art Rugs are more fashionable, more refined, more stylish, they look better and wear better.

2nd—Congoleum Art Rugs are without seams, no joints in the middle of your room to catch dust and to eventually become shabby.

3rd—No cutting or matching necessary, therefore no waste. No tacking to be done, the Rugs lie flat and can be taken up easily at house cleaning time, therefore they are more healthy.

4th—Their charming patterns and colors display the good taste of the "woman of the house." Congoleum Art Rugs are really beautiful.

5th—Their low price, about quarter the cost of a carpet square, though they are better than carpet, in so far as they are dust-proof, waterproof and insect proof.

You really should see Congoleum Art Rugs. Come in when you are down town and let us show them to you!

Cardinal Mercier Expresses Belief in World's Future

New York, Sept. 10. (A.P.)—Cardinal Mercier, Archbishop of Malines, Belgium, whose defiance of Germany during the invasion of his country at the beginning of the war attracted universal attention, has written a letter to George L. Duval, of this city, in which he gives his hopes for the future of the world from the moral point of view.

"The world at this hour," writes the eminent prelate, "is a great invalid. All eyes are turned to the physicians, all lips anxiously asking: Is there hope of recovery? Have you a remedy, the remedy? The physicians have no concrete answer, or rather, they give divers answers all at once. The more the consultations and remedies multiply the more we realize that we are at a standstill."

"Optimist or pessimist, which shall it be? From a hypothetical consideration of the situation in the present, there is something to justify and explain either tendency, but, in my humble judgment, under the broader view which should be decisive, optimism must prevail. Be confident in spite of all, were my words to my fellow citizens at one of the darkest hours of recent history. No matter how troubled, how close to disaster and despair conditions may be, let every one keep his head erect and his heart steady, because discouragement has never begotten energy, and energy alone breeds triumph."

"O, ye young men, compatriots, men of the people and representatives of the people, whether of Belgium or of other countries, do ye wish to help your brothers, the allies of yesterday, in the struggle we have made for ten years to attain peace? Then be men of energy. Should some vacillate or yield, be ye, the controlling majority, at all events steadfast."

"Alas! I know that both nations and individuals have undergone a great change: self-seeking, the thirst for pleasure, the lust for money have too often overcome self-denial and devotion to the common weal, while political partisanship and class strife have impeded unity of action and have retarded the commonwealth ascender. In this, however, I recognize the effects of nerve collapse due to the hyperstrain of protracted war. A few more swings, and the pendulum will return to the vertical. Here in Belgium and in France, there is no doubt that the rising generation gives promise of an abundant reserve of national energy, faith and discipline. Respect for and love of authority are growing, clearing the air, spreading currents of confidence, casting seeds of peace."

"If all countries agreed to submit to one and the same moral authority, it would be possible to keep the peace. But should one of them deny this moral authority, seek alliances to build up its predominance over others, the peril of war must inevitably ensue."

"The notorious 'internationale' dreamt of by socialism or communism is really a universal and permanent organization for war: the very antithesis of peace."

"Bolshevism, the last end of social dissolution, is radically atheistic. Anti-bolshevism, the restoration of order, can only be built upon God."

"Christ and He alone is King of peace. He teaches us that we are all brothers, that we have one and the same Father in heaven, and that the predominant law of our life, in which all other commandments are compassed is charity. The love of all for their Father, and for the sake

ALITIES IN INDIAN RIOTING.
SIMLA, India, Sept. 19.—Reference to the recent fatal riot between Mohammedans and Hindus was made by B. D. Foreign Secretary for the Government in India, in the Legislative assembly today. Secretary Vray said that eleven Mohammedans were killed and twenty-three injured, and that Hindus were killed and thirty-three injured. Gandhi, the former leader of non-co-operationists, who was in prison for some time as the result of passive resistance to the British, and who had recently announced that he had surrendered and fought no more, said that he will be released in twenty-one days because of his conduct at Kohat.

GENEVA, Sept. 19.—Budget Committee of the League of Nations today rejected by a vote of 16 to 15 the Italian proposal to increase the money voted to the health organization by 200,000 francs. Great Britain, South Africa, Poland, and India, voted against the proposal. Australia and Ireland voted for it. The Canadian delegation proposed when the vote was taken an increase of 150,000 francs to the health organization should be carried by a vote of 22 to 12.

CAPE TOWN, S.A., Sept. 19.—A leader on Imperial Policy, Cape Town Times refers to "transformation" in spirit which lives with institutional structure of the British Empire brought about by war, and that unhappily the Foreign Office and the Colonial Office have both in the last few months that they are almost incredibly ignorant results of the war and in consequence of the peace treaty upon the Dominion of the Dominions. "The Dominion branch of the British Government is staffed with men who have no knowledge of Dominions," says the Times. The Dominion branch of the British Colonial Office could not have made a mistake of lamentable blunders during his hasty visit to the Dominion Union as he did make. The Dominion Branch had provided a brief which he had right from them.

Labradorite

Always we have prided ourselves on the quality of our Labradorite and refused to place on sale stones that did not do credit to the peculiar beauty that is its chief charm. We have now received the first samples of our new stock and they fulfil in every way our ideas of what Labradorite should really be like when made into jewellery.

Specially selected and extra well polished stone made into an assortment of Pendants—Bean, Oval and Square shape are the chief items in our new selection.
