

PERSIA'S PEA SHOWS LEAGUE NEAR DISASTER

French Think Lloyd George Inspired Appeal Against Bolsheviks.

PARIS REMAINS COLD

Considers it an Attempt to Bolster Britain's Near East Policy.

Paris, June 3.—The League of Nations is foundering in Paris, with Premier Lloyd George throwing out a lifeline, not only to save the league in the eyes of Europe but to use it as a political agency for Great Britain's Near East policy.

On top of other recent developments this has caused the league agents to be the subject of violent discussions, wherein France appears utterly cold toward its assumption, now or in the future, of power given to it by Articles X and XI, which Persia as a member now invokes.

Question Change in Policy.

Lloyd George's sudden change in policy, which seems to be directed toward making the league a more active diplomatic agency in contrast with the views of all other governments, has a suspicious look.

Members of this group recently began an attack in the press against the British Premier's coldness to the league, advocating that it should immediately supplant the Supreme Council or sit in with the members in future discussions, contending that a plot existed to kill the league.

Many French newspapers see a deep design on the part of Great Britain to get the other nations to extricate her from the perils threatening her far flung empire, particularly new zones like Persia and Mesopotamia.

For example one, Poland, a league member, without the league's sanction is conducting an offensive war against Russia, while Britain, another member, is conducting negotiations with a Soviet emissary in London.

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION RESUMED SESSIONS YESTERDAY

Two Sessions Held and Adjournment Made Until Friday Next—Telephone Company Want $309,186 More Than Last Year—Increased Taxes, Insurance and Wages Set Out at $86,000 Expense More Than Figured in Report.

The hearing of the case of the New Brunswick Telephone Company in connection with their application for increased rates was resumed before the Public Utilities Commission in the Government Rooms yesterday morning.

UNDERWRITERS OF UNITED STATES CARRY OUT CONSERVATION WORK THROUGH SEPARATE DEPARTMENT

A Canadian, T. Alfred Fleming, Heads the Work of Organized Fire Prevention of National Board.

EACH STATE TO BE COVERED FULLY

Women, Business Men, Manufacturers, School Children — All Will be Joined in Work of Saving Nation from Great Fire Loss.

One outgrowth of the war activities of the United States has been the organized conservation work now being undertaken under the supervision of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The need for combating the evil work of those who fought with bomb and torch and the need also of increasing output in all essential commodities to the limit without interruptions caused by preventable fires led to widespread conservation work in that country during the war, and was so successful that it is being continued on a wider and more organized scale. When the United States entered the war the National Board of Fire Underwriters turned over to the Government all the records at their control, including surveys of industrial plants, warehouses and depots, which were necessary to bring American industries to the highest pitch of productive efficiency. Every inspector in the employ of the large American insurance companies—over 5,000 in all—also lined up for the Government work, and were assigned to various parts of the country to aid in protecting food and other supplies in the field and in warehouses. As the result of the inspections and corrections made by these inspectors much saving was effected.

When the war stopped the efficacy of fire prevention work had been proven, and it was natural that there should be a widespread demand that it should be continued. The result is the organization that is now being moulded into being in the United States.

It is a matter of interest that the man at the head of this great work is a Canadian, T. Alfred Fleming, who was born in Kilmory, Ont., a short distance from Owen Sound. Mr. Fleming was educated in Owen Sound and at Toronto University and then went to Cleveland, Ohio, where he became a preacher of the Gospel. In the early days of the war he became interested in campaigns to combat "Red" activities, and it was this connection with this anti-Red work that led him to see the need for fire prevention and conservation work. He took up the work wholeheartedly, and two or three years ago was appointed fire marshal of the State of Ohio. As fire marshal of that great industrial state, his work became widely known, and he was elected president of the Fire Marshals' Association of America at the 1915 convention, and presided at the convention held in Toronto last summer. Now he has been made supervisor of the conservation department of the American National Board of Underwriters.

The adoption of the conservation work is bringing into shape an extensive organization. In each State is being formed a permanent body to be known as the "Conservation and Fire Prevention Association," and its membership includes many experts in insurance and fire prevention work. To start off its good work each association had made an inspection of every building or other property where necessities of life are stored or manufactured. Buildings are carefully inspected, and the owner advised as to any conditions on the premises that might lead to loss. In this way the educational effect makes the campaign of permanent value. Inspectors are not permitted to take up or discuss the subject of insurance or the process of rating during their interview with the owners. It is a voluntary service with the backing of the insurance companies.

This work is only the beginning. In any city or town in a State there is a serious fire loss ratio—such as instances in Halifax, in Canada—the State organization will concentrate its energies on that particular spot in an endeavor to discover and relieve the cause of the high losses. Members of the association will cooperate with the local Chamber of Commerce or other representative bodies and with the local authorities, and point out changes that should be made. It is hoped that thousands of minor causes of fire and conflagrations can be removed in the course of this work, which will be on a permanent basis.

But the organization does not end with the State Association. In every town and city in the United States local conservation committees are being formed. The committees include members of the municipal government, the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club, Credit Men's Association, Manufacturers' Association, superintendent of schools, women's clubs, chief of the Fire Department and chairman of the Board of Health, together with representatives of any other forces that could contribute time or energy to the work of cleaning up the town.

Through this committee, fire prevention ordinances will be obtained. Educational campaigns will be carried on in the schools. Their support will be obtained in getting for the town proper apparatus for fighting fires and keeping up the efficiency of the local fire-fighting forces. There will be organized "clean-up" campaigns, fire prevention and other movements. And to extend the work of conservation ever further, Credit Men's Association will be brought into line, it is hoped, so that proper insurance and protection against fire may be made an essential basis for all credit. Manufacturers' associations and similar bodies will be asked to do their part also.

It is a great work and a work with a wide scope. The organization could easily be adapted to Canadian conditions, and indeed it does not seem impossible that Canadian insurance companies and industries will eventually get together for the same purposes.

ORDERS SHIP BOARD TO SELL ALL LINES

Reorganized Shipping Bill Provides Clean Sweep of Merchant Marine.

Washington, June 3.—All vessels in the Government's merchant marine are authorized to be sold, under the reorganized shipping bill as it has been agreed by the Senate and House conferees. The agreement was announced this afternoon.

Some differences are required to be adjusted between the two houses. The policy as to sale is to be that of a prudent business man in the sale of similar vessels or property which he is not forced to sell.

To this end the board is authorized and directed to sell as soon as possible, consistent with good business methods and the objects and purposes of the act, at public or private competitive sale, after appraisal and due advertisement, to persons citizens of the United States, all vessels owned or acquired by the board. The board may fix conditions, except that deferred payments may not run over fifteen years; interest rates to be fixed in the board's discretion.

The Shipping Board is rated from five to seven members, salaries are increased from $7,500 to $12,000, and it is required that the board shall be bi-partisan. The members shall be two from Atlantic and two from Pacific States, one each from Gulf, lake and interior States.

Provision is made for creation of a fund from ship sales or operations through which the board may make loans to companies or individuals to help them establish shipping lines and routes to the advantage of American trade. The Shipping Board made it clear today that the United States Mail Steamship Company, organized to recondition and operate the former German ships in Atlantic passenger service, 100 per cent American. The identity of the stockholders, or even the officers of the company, will not be made public by the Shipping Board. Additional facts, it was officially stated at the board's offices today, will have to come from the company or its officers in New York.

The provision of the bill as it passed the Senate, prohibiting the sale of the bottoms "at a loss price than the cost at the time of making such sale of constructing vessels of similar types minus depreciation" was stricken out by the conferees.

The sale of vessels to aliens can be ordered by the board only after five of the seven members have agreed that they cannot be disposed of to advantage in the domestic market. The Senate provision limiting the sale to aliens of vessels not exceeding 5,000 tons and not less than ten years old was stricken out by the conferees.

The perfected bill provides that 75 per cent of the stock of vessels operating in the coast trade and the majority of the stock of vessels operating in the foreign trade shall be held by American citizens.

The Senate bill provides a fund of $30,000,000 a year instead of $25,000,000 for this purpose and gave the Shipping Board power to construct the ships in private ship yards for the creation of new routes if private concerns were not willing to establish lines deemed necessary by the board. The revolving fund will operate for five years.

The former German piers at Hoboken are to be turned over to the Shipping Board January 1 next, while other property acquired during the war, except the former German liners already in the hands of the board, will be turned over at the discretion of the President.

CABINET TO RUSH HOME RULE BILL

British Government Convinced This Best Course—Troops to be Doubled.

(By Carl W. Ackerman, Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Co.)
London, June 4.—Convinced that peace negotiations with Ireland for the present do not hold out much prospect of success, the British cabinet has decided upon a threefold policy as follows:

First. The number of troops, especially cavalry, is to be increased in southern and western Ireland under General Sir Nevill Macready's command. The initial success of cavalry patrols, as reported by General Macready at yesterday's cabinet meeting, has encouraged the Government leaders and made them more confident that law and order can be restored.

Second. As a result of reports submitted by Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary, and Arthur J. Balfour, who has just returned from Rome after conferences with Vatican officials, the cabinet decided there was no immediate possibility of negotiations succeeding, even to the extent of amending the home rule bill, and it was decided to put through the measure without further delay. To assist in perfecting this bit of Lloyd Georgean legislation Sir Hamar may remain several days in London, taking his seat in Parliament and participating in the Irish debates.

Third. In respect to the threats of a general strike in Ireland, the cabinet decided not to act until the Irish Labor party or the National Union of Railwaymen forced the issue by calling a strike. In case such a strike is called the cabinet will seriously consider Sir Hamar Greenwood's recommendation of an embargo.

From the official who made the foregoing statements to your correspondent it was learned that Charles H. Gray's mission to Ireland is purely one of observation on behalf of President Wilson.

On Convention's Eve Party Leaders Consult "Digest's" Poll for Guidance

The deep interest that has been aroused throughout the nation by THE LITERARY DIGEST poll of 11,000,000 voters, and the influence that the results may have upon the Republican presidential choice next week, are indicated by the requests by telephone, by telegraph, and through the mails from party leaders everywhere asking for the latest returns. The fact that in almost every case the results of THE DIGEST poll have corroborated the decisions of the people at party primaries would seem to indicate that it accurately registers the people's choices for President.

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for June 5th the poll enters its eighth week with a total number of ballots considerably in excess of 1,500,000. The votes of more than thirty candidates are tabulated State by State, and there is also a summary of the votes cast for second choice candidates.

Whether or not you feel that a "favorite son" or a "dark horse" will be led forth at the Republican Convention next week, you will do well to read and study the returns of THE DIGEST'S mammoth Presidential poll of the nation in this week's DIGEST.

CHILEANS PURCHASE BRITISH DESTROYER

Secure the "Broke" Which Made a Record for Activity in Recent War. London, June 3.—It is announced that the Chilean Government has purchased the British torpedo boat destroyer Broke. The destroyer Broke and the destroyer Swift made themselves famous in 1917 when they defeated six German torpedo boat destroyers in a battle in the English Channel off Dover. The Broke torpedoed two of the enemy's vessels and rammed another, while the Swift used its guns against the destroyer and then torpedoed it amidships. Both the Broke and the Swift were badly damaged in the fight but returned to port.

POPE AND ITALY NEARING TRUCE

Indications of Breaking of Barriers Between Rome and the Holy See. Rome, June 1 (delayed).—The papal encyclical is the object of comment on all hands. Almost all the Senators, it is reported, intend to bring the subject before Parliament, even raising the question of the revision of the law of excommunication passed in May, 1871, establishing the status of the Pontiff in Rome. The aim of these Senators is to open the way to a complete reconciliation between the Holy See and the Italian State. It is recalled that during the Paris Peace Conference the delegates of several countries suggested privately that a satisfactory solution might be found in the conclusion of a concordat between Italy and the Holy See, but all agreed that the question must be left entirely to the two parties interested, as any outside interference would only prevent good results. As is known, all idea of actually getting back the temporal power has been abandoned, even under the form of a strip of land from the Vatican to the Mediterranean Sea. Under Pope Pius X. a suggestion was made that the status of the Pontiff and papacy in Rome be settled by international agreement. But on the side of the Italian Government it was remarked that it would be impossible to accept this, as it would mean possible interference in the internal affairs of Italy by any foreign state signatory to this agreement under the pretext of its violation by Italy. These arguments seemed so reasonable that this project also was abandoned. What the Vatican fundamentally objected to was that the status of the Pope should be regulated by a law passed by the Italian Parliament, which would be subject to modification. Thus the idea of a concordat arose, and this, having the character of a regular treaty, could be communicated to the Holy See by the foreign Powers in this way, having virtually an international sanction without having any foreign intervention in the regulation of Italy and the Holy See. There is discussion of the possibility that Pope Benedict may be seen outside the Vatican. Pope Pius X. on various occasions expressed the desire to leave the Vatican when occasion seemed to demand it, and at the time of the Messina and Calabria earthquakes it was thought he would proceed to the scene of the disasters to comfort the victims.

Newcastle, N. B., June 4.—A miraculous escape from serious injury or even death was recorded here on Monday, when a car driven by Mr. Walker Avery, with Mrs. Avery and two children and Mrs. C. C. Hubbard as passengers, backed over the bank at Lower Mill Cove and made a drop of about twenty feet into the brook below. Mrs. Avery was unable to make the grade on the lower side of the hill and was backing up for a start, when the car became unmanageable and backed over the bank. Neither car nor occupants suffered a scratch, but, needless to say, the latter had a very bad scare.

Dear Boys and Girls—Those of you who live in the country, and the most of my little C. C. friends do live there, have been making me quite envious during the past few weeks by the descriptions they have been writing me of the beautiful things to be seen in the nature world. How I too have longed to see the new corn, pink and white here, and everywhere, the stately trees with their new dresses and also the feathered friends which so many of you have so minutely described. But now I have seen too. Yes, indeed I have had several trips into the beautiful country lately and can quite understand your rapture and joy over such things. The wonderful greens when seen in small patches about the city do not impress one with their beauty, the same as when viewed in huge proportions as you see them in the open country, and so I can understand how you appreciate all you write about the Mother Nature grandeur much more than I could. It was a glorious treat and I found such a lot of wild flowers too, the prettiest I think were the violets they were so large with blue long stems and such rich shades of purple and seemed to be so plentiful. Then the trees which were in bloom, along the edge of the forests looked so cheerful and promising against the sombre surroundings. Of course some trees were quite dressed up in their green robes and they looked so fresh while others just made you think of slow Tom. Their buds were so tiny and tight that unless you went up quite close you wouldn't think they had even started to wake up, however, another week or so should see even the latest species "all dressed up and nowhere to go."

The Path to Health

For many thousands of women the Path to Health has certainly been through Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When this great remedy was first introduced, and for many years after, skeptics frowned upon its curative claims, but as year after year has rolled by and the little group of women who had been cured by it has since grown into a vast army of hundreds of thousands—doubt and skepticism have been swept away by a mighty tidal wave, until today this purely vegetable medicine is recognized as the greatest remedy for woman's special ills in the world. This is because it is a wonderful tonic and reconstructor which acts directly and favorably upon the feminine organization and is a specific for that purpose.

Women in All Countries Depend Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. BOTTLED BY THE LYDIA E. PINKHAM COMPANY, LOWELL, MASS., U.S.A.

Ladies of the Lower Millstream Baptist Church were entertained at the Parsonsage on Tuesday afternoon when the regular meeting was attended by a large representation of members. Afternoon tea was served and a very social time enjoyed. A number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Kingston Doherty invaded their home on Wednesday evening, June 2nd, to tender them hearty congratulations on the arrival of the eleventh anniversary of their wedding day, and incidentally bestow on them handsome and practical gifts. A very pleasant evening was spent in music and other entertainment concluded by a bounteous luncheon. Miss Lena Fenwick spent a few days of last week here preparatory to reopening her residence for the summer.

As a Precaution. He was an Englishman who had put up for a night at an American backwoods "hotel." Finding his room stuffy he got out of bed to open the window. The moment he pulled down the sash a loud report deafened him, and a bullet whizzed over his head. He started, seized the window frame, and exclaimed, "What you think I should open it for? For fresh air, of course!" replied the Englishman indignantly. "That won't wash, stranger," said the landlord derisively. "Hain't the air fresh enuf for the body, comin' up purried by the microbe-destroyin' bacoc-smoke an' sperrit fumes from the bar below?" "And may I ask what you mean by that loaded revolver fixed to the window?" Do you know it nearly killed me?" roared the landlord. "Waal," exclaimed the landlord, in surprise, "only a Britisher wouldn't know that was to stop fellows from leavin' by the window in the 'air mornin' so's to heige payin' for their bed!" Missed his Mark. A professional conjurer sells an amusing incident at his own expense. He was staying in an hotel at the seaside on one occasion, and thought that he was unknown to everybody. One gentleman, however, who was aware of his identity, was sitting next to him at dinner, and was quite prepared for developments. In the middle of the meal the wizard leaned over, and, separating some lettuce leaves on his neighbor's plate, revealed a large "s" ring. "Goodness! how careless you are!" exclaimed the conjurer, expecting to see his neighbor start in surprise. But the other remained quite cool and imperturbable. "Put, put," he said, "I am always leaving things like that about here, Mary—here is a little present for you," and he handed the jeweller's "s" ring to the woman, who was waiting at the table. "Don't suppose you're a space, as the which the conjurer meant as if he would like to kick himself. No Punyfoot. "Called me a catapaw, 'e did! Me 'eet drives a brewer's dray!"—London Sketch.

Oldsmobile

EIGHT

Now Made in Canada

"Thorobred" Eight-cylinder Seven-passenger Oldsmobile

"Pacemaker" Eight-cylinder Oldsmobile, Speedster Model

Oldsmobile Four-cylinder "Economy Truck"

THE new Canadian Oldsmobile establishes new standards of refinement and efficiency in Canadian motor cars. The eight-cylinder Oldsmobile motor develops surplus power, and delivers it to the rear axle with the smoothness possible only in an "Eight."

The body appointments of the Oldsmobile are extremely refined, and show the result of painstaking effort on the part of master craftsmen.

The long, sweeping lines and its beautiful finish make the new Canadian-built Oldsmobile a car to be admired wherever seen.

The mammoth new plants in Oshawa have commenced on a large production schedule to satisfy an existing demand for a high-class Canadian built car. Sample cars are now being sent to Oldsmobile dealers all over Canada, and from first reports the demand for this new Canadian quality car will far exceed the supply.
