I had begun to feel like a veteran moose hunting long before it fell

Sad Fatality.

CORNELIUS MCGOURTY'S HEROIC ACT
COSTS HIM HIS LIFE.

The Misses pulp mill works were the scene of a sad fatality yesterday morning. Work has been in progress toward the laying of pipes, and, in doing this, it was necessary to use dynamite in blasting the rock, and Mr. Cornelius McGourty was foreman of the men engaged at this work. In a boiler house near the works he had about 50 sticks of dynamite hanging in a rack over the boiler to prevent their freezing. It is said two of the sticks were about 10' long. Suddenly the dynamite exploded. He went into the boiler house about 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and seven or eight other men were there too. Mr. McGourty took the bag of dynamite cartridges and placed it on the ground while he lighted his pipe. Suddenly the bag was seen blazing and some one drew Mr. McGourty's attention to it. He called to all to run and they did so. He himself stayed to pick up the blazing bag with his terrible courage and made for the door, with the evident intention of throwing the bag into the river.

He had not got out beyond the doorway when there was heard a terrible explosion—the fire had reached into the sticks of dynamite. Glass in the mill, 40 yards away, was smashed, the shed covering the boiler was blown to pieces, the workmen fleeing from the boiler house were thrown stunned to the ground, while the heroic man faced death to save the others. He died, his body torn and mangled by the awful death-dealing agent.

The body lay face downwards and, as the men turned it over, they found it terribly disfigured, both arms being torn off at the shoulder, and no trace of them was to be found. They may have been driven into the river, which is near by, and the finding on the wharf of a piece of cloth which the deceased had wrapped round a wounded finger leads some to think this is what happened.

The body was carried to the office of the works and Coroner Berryman summoned. He drove out, as also did Undertaker Fitzpatrick to bring the remains to the city. Money Messrs. Berryman felt anxious that the matter be inquired into and it is likely an inquest will be held. If so it will be begun this evening, for then the employees of the works will be in the city, as is customary on Saturday evenings, and those needed to attend to the body will be easily available. The coroner meantime allowed the body to be brought to the city, and it was taken to the residence of Martin McGourty, Waterloo street, where he was a well-known contractor and was about 50 years old. He was a widower and had four children who are living with relatives at Black River. He had been employed with Messrs. Berryman since the pulp mill work started and was regarded as most competent. He lately resided in Carleton, and was a member of the Carleton branch of the C. M. B. A. Mr. McGourty has many friends in the city who will regret his sudden death coming, as it did, when in the effort to save the lives of others.—Telegraph.

A PARSONS HORROR.

SCANDALOUS ILL-TREATMENT OF AN UNFORTUNATE BOY.

The Parsons Leader gives the following particulars of an alleged outrage near that place:

It is our duty this week to lay bare to the public the details of a case that is a lasting disgrace to a civilized community. About a year ago, an illegitimate boy born in Black Rock was taken charge of by the overseer of the poor, and farmed out to Mr. Robert Taggart, then living in New Prospect, who received the sum of $40. Mr. Taggart gave bonds for the care of the boy and agreed to bring him up and treat him as one of his own children. About a fortnight ago Taggart turned the boy over to the charge of Thomas Weston, and it was then that the story of the boy's terrible suffering was revealed. When he was taken charge of by Mr. Weston his feet were frozen, and were actually decomposed. Dr. Corbett was called to see the boy and found it necessary to amputate one of his toes in order to save his feet. He had been kept out in the bitter cold cutting wood, with shoes on that were too small for him until both feet were frozen, and getting no care or attention they became simply corruptions. He has been starved, beaten and abused in a horrible manner. On his head are scars over an inch long, which have been caused by blows, with a poker in one instance, a flat iron in another and with anything that was 'handy' in the house. A daughter of Mr. Taggart struck him with a broomstick and broke his thumb.

INDIA'S NEW VICEROY.

CALCUTTA, Jan. 6.—Lord Curzon of Kedleston formerly assumed the viceroyalty of India to-day. A large gathering at the government house witnessed the ceremony.

At 9.30 a. m. the new viceroy, preceded by his aides-de-camp, arrived at government house and proceeded to the throne room, where he shook hands with the Earl of Elgin, the retiring viceroy, with the latter's family, with aides-de-camp, the members of the council and with the Lieutenant Governor and others. General Sir William Lockhart, the commander-in-chief of the British forces in India, then Lt. Genl. Lord Curzon's procession and the whole party proceeded to the council room, where the impressive ritual was performed, appointing Baron Curzon of Kedleston, viceroy of India westward.

The ceremony, though formal, was most striking, the brilliant uniforms of the officials and the foreign consuls lending much color to the scene. Lady Curzon was among those present. A royal salute was fired and the national anthem was played. Directly after the warrants had been read the Earl of Elgin and Lady Elgin and their immediate party left the government house. Lord Curzon accompanied the Earl of Elgin to the river side and then returned to the government house escorted by a full bodyguard of the Calcutta light horse. The route was lined by troops, another royal salute was fired and the squadron of vessels in the Hooghly displayed all their bunting.

The Earl of Elgin embarked on board a launch, which took him to the steamer Olive, at Diamond harbor on his way to England.

OUT OF DEATH'S SHADOW.

THE EXPERIENCE OF A LADY WHO HAD GIVEN UP HOPE.

Torture with Pains in the Stomach for Four Years—Doctors and Hospital Treatment Failed to Help Her—In Her Extremity Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Restored Her to Health.

From the Pensacola Observer.

Wherever man is to be found there also, side by side with him, is disease and suffering. Those who have devoted their lives to the alleviation of the suffering and bodily weakness of human beings are surely benefactors of mankind. For special houses in this line may be pointed out the discoverer of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Recently the case of Mrs. Maggie Brunette, of Chester, Ga., came prominently under the notice of the Observer. Her husband, it is to be his duty, on bearing of Mrs. Brunette's restoration from prostrate illness to health, to interview the lady and record her experience for the benefit of others who may need the healing influence of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. Brunette's farm house was found to be very comfortable and even elegant, located near the base of an immense hill, an out-gate of the Laurens Mountains. The reporter was warmly welcomed and Mrs. Brunette was very glad to have an opportunity to testify to the great benefit Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had conferred upon her. She is 48 years of age now. Her husband, the late Chas. Brunette, died 14 years ago, and after his death she worked very hard for some years, with the result that she became completely run down, so much so that, although quite tall, she weighed only about 90 lbs. After taking the slightest food she felt such distress that she was compelled to lie down for hours, being so weak that she was unable to sit up. At last she thought she must have been attacked by cancer of the stomach, so violent were the pains she constantly harassed her. She consulted the best physicians and spent more than a hundred dollars in medical treatment and medicine, in addition to which she spent nine weeks in the hospital at Pembroke. But still she was ill four years, and finally decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and accordingly she procured a box. Although they benefited her almost from the time she began taking them, she kept on taking the pills until she had taken sixteen boxes, and then felt that she was completely cured, the pills accomplishing in three months what four years of medical treatment had failed to do. From that time, nearly three years ago, Mrs. Brunette has been a good housewife, earning her own money, and is in perfect health. I intend to lay my household work and the dairy and poultry, and have a large number of cows to milk. I never fail to say a good word for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills when I have an opportunity, for they did wonderful things for me. Mrs. Brunette is a well-educated lady, speaking French and English fluently.

CALLS FOR THE DEATH PENALTY.

QUEBEC, Jan. 6.—La Verite demands that the sentence of death passed on Sam Parole and Cordelia Poirier, for the murder of the latter's husband, be carried out. It says there is not a shadow of extenuating circumstances. The murder was most atrocious and long premeditated, and it adds: 'We must not forget the words of the woman brought out at the trial, "that they do not hang any more." It is possible that Poirier would be still alive had his wife been convicted by death unless there were extenuating circumstances. Sentimentalism must not lead us away from our duty to society.'

He called to all to run and they did so. He himself started to pick up the blazing bag with his terrible contents and made for the door, with the evident intention of throwing the bag into the river.

He had not got out beyond the doorway when there was heard a terrible explosion—the fire had reached the capped sticks of dynamite. Glass in the mill, 40 yards away, was smashed, the shed covering the boiler was blown to pieces, the workmen fleeing from the boiler house were thrown down to the ground, while the hero, Mr. McGourty, who had been to save the others, lay dead, his body torn and mangled by the awful death-dealing agent.

If so it will be held this evening, for then the employees of the works will be in the city, as is customary on Saturday evenings, and these needed to give evidence will be easily available. TO SHUT OUT AMERICANS.
PROPOSAL IN BRITISH COLUMBIA LEGISLATURE.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 6.—The British Columbia Legislature opened yesterday. The speech from the throne included an announcement which came like a thunder clap. It was that legislation will be introduced to exclude aliens from taking up or working claims, in the province of British Columbia. This means that Americans are to be debarred from mining in the Atlin district, which promises to be richer than the Klondike, as it is reached with greater ease.

Passengers on the Rosalie, the last boat down, say the Atlin district is rich in gold, and is extremely rich, an ounce of gold coming from some claims, while from No. 12 $500 was taken from six feet square of earth.

THE EXPERIENCE OF A LADY WHO HAD GIVEN UP HOPE.

Torture with Pains in the Stomach for Four Years—Doctors and Hospital Treatment Failed to Help Her—In Her Extremity Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Restored Her to Health.

From the Pembroke Observer.

Wherever man is to be found there also, side by side with him, is disease and suffering. Those who have devoted their lives to the alleviation of the suffering and bodily weakness of human organization are surely benefactors of their kind, and deserve the praise of all mankind. For special houses in this line may be pointed out the discoverer of that wonderful remedy, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

Recently the case of Mrs. Magie Brunette, of Chester, Que., came prominently under the notice of the Pembroke reporter. He felt it to be his duty, on hearing of Mrs. Brunette's restoration from prostrate illness to health, to interview the lady and record her experience for the benefit of others who may need the healing influence of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mrs. Brunette's farm house was found to be very comfortable and even elegant, located near the base of an immense hill, an outcrop of the Laurentian Mountains. The reporter was warmly welcomed and Mrs. Brunette said she was very glad to have an opportunity to testify to the great benefit Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had conferred upon her. She is 42 years of age now. Her husband, the late Chas. Brunette, died 14 years ago, and after his death she worked very hard for some years, with the result that she became completely run down, so much so that, although quite tall, she weighed only about 90 lbs. After taking the slightest food she felt such distress that she was compelled to lie down for hours, being so weak that she was unable to sit up. At last she thought she must have been attacked by cancer of the stomach, so violent were the pains that constantly harassed her. She consulted the best physicians and spent more than a hundred dollars in treatment and medicine, in addition to which she spent nine weeks in the hospital at Pembroke. But, whilst she was ill four years and deprived of the speech from the throne, she decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and accordingly she procured six boxes. Although they benefited her almost from the time she began taking them, she kept on taking the pills until she had taken sixteen boxes, and then felt that she was completely cured. The pills accomplished in three months what four years of medical treatment had failed to do. From that time, nearly three years ago, Mrs. Brunette has been in good health, resuming no medicine. 'You can see,' said Mrs. Brunette, 'that I never fail to say a good word for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I have a rare opportunity, for they did wonderful things for me.' Mrs. Brunette is a well educated lady, speaking French and English fluently.

QUEBEC, Jan. 6.—La Verite demands that the sentence of death passed on Sam Paretow and Cordelia Paretow, for the murder of the latter's husband, be carried out. It says there was no shadow of extenuating circumstances. The murder was most atrocious and long premeditated, and it adds: 'We must not forget the words of the woman brought out at the trial, that they do not hang any more.' It is possible Cordelia Paretow would be still alive had his wife been convinced that murder, even when committed by women, invariably was followed by death unless there were extenuating circumstances. Sentimentalism must not lead us away from our duty to society.

INDIA'S NEW VICEROY.

CALCUTTA, Jan. 6.—Lord Curzon of Kedleston formerly assumed the viceroyalty of India to-day. A large gathering at the government house witnessed the ceremony.

At 9.30 a. m. the new viceroy, preceded by his aide-de-camp, arrived at the government house and proceeded to the throne room, where he shook hands with the Earl of Elgin, the retiring viceroy, with the latter's family, with aide-de-camp, the members of the council and with the Lieutenant Governor and there, General Sir William Lockhart, the commander-in-chief of the British forces in India, the former Lord Curzon's procession and the whole party proceeded to the council room, where the impressive royal warrant, appointing Lord Curzon of Kedleston, viceroy of India, was read.

The ceremony, though formal, was most striking, the brilliant uniforms of the officials and the foreign consuls lending much color to the scene. Lady Curzon was among those present. A royal salute was fired and the national anthem was played. Directly after the warrant had been read the Earl of Elgin and Lady Elgin and their immediate party left the government house. Lord Curzon accompanied the Earl of Elgin to the river and then returned to the government house escorted by a full bodyguard of the Calcutta light horse. The route was lined by troops, another royal salute was fired and the equadron of vessels in the Hooghly displayed their bunting.

The Earl of Elgin embarked on board a launch, which took him to the steamer Olive, at Diamond harbor on his way to England.
