The paper | number over 2,500. advises that Great Britain and France jointly occupy China, declaring that in doing so they will render an immense service to civilization, in whose cause China has done nothing. Moreover, such a movement would rescue China from inevitable decay. It is unworthy of Europe, the paper adds, to tolerate any longer the persistent pillage of the dwellings of Europeans, the massacre of missionaries and the violation of commercial interests. Skeletons in Chains.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 27 .- Some skeletons, with manacles on the arm and leg bones, have been found buried close to the surface of the courtyard of the custom house here.

A similar discovery was made a few years ago at almost the same place. Instruments of torture were also discovered then with the skeletons.

In 1730, after the death of Peter II., the Imperial Council offered the vacant throne to Anna on several conditions, among them being one that she was to govern according to the decisions of the Supreme Council. Anna agreed to the conditions, but after her arrival at Moscow a numerous party petitioned the Empress to assume the autocracy of her predecessor. Anna immediately did so, and the framers of the Russian constitution were either banished or perished on the scaffold. During the whole reign of Empress Anna Russia was governed in the most tyrannical manner by her favorite, Biren, or Conservatives.

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 27 .- There was a ery interesting time at the meeting of the Young Conservatives Tuesday evening, and the final battle over the religious question was fought to a finish. When the club was organized some time ago a plank was placed in the platform which made it necessary for all members of the P. P. A. who desired to remain members of the club to drop their anti-Catholic theories. This, of course, caused a row, which nearly ended in a fight several times in the meeting.

Have Been Issued.

The P. P. A. Faction Creates Confusion

in the Ranks of Windsor

I we weeks ago notice was given by Mr. James McCollum, who is among the leaders in the P. P. A. movement in Windsor, that he would at the next meeting introduce a resolution as a substitute for the anti-P. P. A. plank, demanding that all members of the club pledge themselves to support and vote for the party candidates, of whatever religious sentiment they might be. As a result the factions were gathered in full numbers Tuesday evening, and when the resolution was introduced the excitement began. Mr. McCollum and Mr. Harmon supported the resolution in strong speeches, and were opposed by Mr. J. L. Murphy and Mr. M. J. O'Conner, the leaders of the opposing faction. Nearly two hours were consumed in the discussion. Charges and counter charges were made, and the personalities at times were of the bitterest kind, and Vice-President White, who was acting as chairman, was called upon to stop the disgraceful proceedings. This he finally did by calling for a vote, and the "ayes" so far discounted the "naya" that the vote was announced as carrying the new resolution, regardless of the objections coming from Mr. Murphy and his

The strongest argument that was made, and which seemed to have a telling effect, was the showing that in a city of 12,000 people, with a big Conservative majority, the club had but 40 members. After the fight was concluded, the club received fourteen applications for membership, which were accepted.

TRADE IN CANADA.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of the Situation.

Business Slowly Improving - Barley Dealers Disappointed-Failures.

TORONTO, Sept. 28 .- R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade in Canada says: Reports from the country indicate a fairly satisfactory condition of trade. While orders are not for large quantities, they are numerous and many. Manufacturers and wholesale dealers in Toronto express surprise with the good business now being lone by travelers. There was a slight expansion in the notification of the banks during August, but the total is only $30,270,000 as compared with $33,308,000. The cash reserves Canadian banks, however, are much greater than they were a year ago, and in case of any unexpected activity in the money market rates are likely to be kept comparatively low.

The improvement is slow, but on this ccount it will be more permanent. The earnings of the railways are more tisfactory, in that the decreases as comared with last year, when the traffic was eavy in consequence of the Chicago exhi-oition, are not as large as several weeks Some disappointment is expressed by barley dealers. Inquiries from the United States for this cereal are neither as numerous nor as urgent as many expected. It is claimed that the barley grown across the border has improved in quality, while the Canadian barley has deteriorated somewhat, through lack of attention paid to this grain by our farmers. Brewers, too, have become more accustomed to cheap substitutes. It is evident that our farmers will be obliged to be more particular in the cultivation of barley.

The failures for the week were 55, as compared with 36 for the corresponding week of last year,

Mr. Denuis O'Grady, an old and re spected resident of Sarnia, died at his residence on Christina street, Wednesday. He held the honored position of commander of Sarnia Tent. No. 1, K. O. T. M., for the year 1893. His funeral will be held on Friday, Oct. 28, under the care of the Knights of the Maccabees of Sarnia and vicinity. He leaves a wife and one son, and was insured in the order for $2,000. Prof. Ronald Stewart and his company will give a grand Scottish concert in the Boys' Brigade hall on Thursday evening next, Oct. 4. Two Chinamen are now stopping at the Western Hotel here under bond. They claim to be on their way from Hong Kong to Chicago, at which latter city they were in business for some years. Their names are Ching Yang, aged 45, and Chin Wah, aged 25. The customs authorities at Port Huron doubt their story and will not let them land in Uncle Sam's domain until thoroughly satisfied that they are American citizens. The union fall fair of the West Lambton and Sarnia Township Agricultural Societies will be held in Sarnia this year on Thursday, Oct. 4. A good show is predicted, judging from the large number of entries and the great interest taken in the event. Sarnia Lodge of Good Templars will hold an open meeting in the A. O. F. hall on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 9. A number of singers from Port Huron are expected, and no doubt a pleasant time will be en joyed by all who attend. The Hotel Northern is completed, and Mr. Peterson will now be able to entertain the traveling public in grand style. A new summer hotel on a large scale is to be erected at Courtright this winter and will be called Maplelands. The new steamer Un que will be put on the river route again next week.

How very small is the proportion of ladies who reach middle age wearing the bright glow of health which was their maidenly attraction, and of which they have been robbed by functional disorders and nervous weakness! We take pleasure in recommending to all thus afflicted the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. a tried remedy, safe and sure in all cases. JOSEPH MARSHALL, M.P.,

Will Carry the Conservative Banner in East Middlesex

In the Coming Deminion Election-Richard Tooley, on M.P.P., John Geary and T. E. Robson Decline.

A small number of East Middlesex Conervatives met in the banqueting hall of the Masonic Temple yesterday afternoon to choose a candidate to contest the riding at the coming Dominion election. A number of workers had been mentioned as candi dates. Joseph Marshall, M.P., appeared to meet with disfavor in the eyes of many, but he had a strong coterie of friends. Capt Thos. E. Robson, of Ilderton, county clerk of Middlesex, was a general favorite, while the old war horse, Richard Tooley, thrown overboard at the last Ontario nomination by his East Middlesex friends after 22 years in Parliament, was named as a probable

Especially anxious to get the nomination was the present member for the riding. The party was slow to move, and about three weeks ago Mr. Marshall became so uneasy at the state of affairs that he had the executive called together. This body instructed the secretary to notify conveners, and meeting were held in every polling subdivision for the choice of candidates. Delegates were selected in some places and in others no action was taken. Some of the chosen ones came to the city to nominate a standard bearer, and a number stayed at

Capt. Robson, president of the association, occupied the chair. In a short address he explained the object of the meeting, and called for nominations, the following being made: Joseph Marshall, M.P., the present member; John Geary, dairyman, London township; Richard Tooley, ex-M.P.P.. Dorchester; Thomas E. Robson, Ilderton.

The four nominees made addresses expressing their thanks for the honor proffered them, but Messrs. Robson, Geary and Tooley respectfully declined. Mr. Marshall was as ready as ever to carry the flag. He consented to stand, and the convention made his nomination unanimous. The meeting did not last over an houra striking contrast to the stormy sessions when Tooley was endeavoring to secure the candidacy for the Ontario House. An elderly man who once resided in East Middlesex-not a delegate, he saidwandered into the Masonic Temple about 3:30, He wanted to attend the convention, as he had always done. The banqueting hall was deserted, and the old man was in a quandary as to what to do. He left the building and started to hunt up some of the delegates. The first one he met was Richard Tooley, seated in a box wagon and eastward bound. Richard was hailed. After pulling up and shaking hands Mr. Tooley was asked what kind of a meeting

"Not very large," said Richard. "Is that so?" gasped the friend. "Yes; they did not even call the roll."

"And Marshall is nominated again?" "Yes," said Mr. Tooley, and the pair There was a look of disgust on their aces. The ex-East Middlesex worker told an ADVERTISER reporter who was standing by that he believed Marshall was afraid of in a hurry and had the other nominees at his mercy.

Mr. James Gilmour, of Dorchester, was not present.

CALLS IT A CURSE.

Dr. Charles A. Briggs on Denominationalism-The Policy of the Catholic Church.

South Deergield, Mass., Sept. 27 .- At the Connecticut Valley Congregational Club meeting here Dr. Charles A. Briggs, of Union Seminary, was the principal speaker. The general topic was church unity, and some strong opinions against the A. P. A. were brought out by President Seelye, of Smith College. He dwelt upon the hopeful attitude which the Catholic Church is now assuming. The tendency which is shown by denominations of the Protestant Church to unite is also encouraging. Theological controversies are not nearly so destructive as formerly.

Dr. Briggs spoke of the attitude of the Catholic Church to the Protestant Churches. The Pope, cardinals, bishops and archbishops have their hearts on church unity, and will make sacrifices to that end. The Pope will one day speak an infallible word —that of unity. Dr. Briggs added:

Denominationalism is a terrible curse, and unless it is abolished Catholicism will conquer our country. Our denominations waste a great amount of resources, both of men any money. The Catholics have in the United States 9.157 ministers and 6,231,417 communicants, with an average of 685 to one minister, and 8,776 churches with an average of 709 communicants to a building. The Protestants have 99,636 ministers and 14,038,435 communicants, an average of only 142, and 133,056 buildings, wish an average of 105 communicants to a building. This is a terrible waste, and the wonderful economy of the Catholic Church will conquer in the end unless there is unity. Dr. Briggs declared the Protestants could do their work better with 50,000 fewer ministers.

Colonize a Church and Try to Monopotizo Trolley Rails.

Ansonia, Sept. 27 .- The Congregationalits of Deep River who went to church last Sunday were powerfully impressed with the fact that while the church is a sacred edifice, it is not always free from sacrilege. One day last week Alexander Cochrane, the village tinsmith, went up to the courch to overhaul the furnace and put it in readiness for the cold weather. Mr. Cochrane took his dog along, simply because it is the dog's custom to follow him, and not as a helper; but the dog proved to be a helper, though his services will not be included in Mr. Cochrane's bill. The furnace needed overhauling badly and it got it. When the door was opened six lively skunks popped out, knocking Mr. Cochrane down and tumbling all over him. They were in a playful mood and did not use their natural weapons, seeking only an outlet for escape. But Pete, the dog, seeing his master bowled over, pitched into the skunks, and very soon Mr. Cochrane had to retire, leaving Pete and the skunks to fight it out. The dog finally came out the victor, but the church had to traces of the combat which filled the air. The electric railroads which run through the woods in some parts of Connecticut are proving detrimental to the safety of the skunks. There is an attraction about the electric currents which runs through the rails that draws the frisky little animals to them, where they sit and let the electricity tickle their spines juntil a car comes along and ends their fun.

The Second Day Was an Immense Success.

A Big Crowd and an Excess of Entries.

Some Good Horse Racing-The Vogetable Display Unsurpassed -About 4,000 People in Attendance - Distinguished Visitors.

Flags were flying in Strathroy yesterday, and the West Middlesex Union Fall Show was in full swing. Never before in the history of the fair have the entries been so large, the attendance so numerous, and the exhibits so worthy of commendation as at the show now in progress. The weather was delightful yesterday. It was a day without a fault—Indian summer in all its loveliness. The bright sun prevented chilliness, and the advanced season prevented extreme heat. The first blush of autumn was on the trees, and with harvest home and their minds easy the members of the West Middlesex, Lobo and Adelaide Agricultural and the Strathroy Horticultural Societies, with their many friends, set out to make a success of their union show. And they made a success of it. The entries numbered 2,734 this year, against 2,233 last year-a clear increase of 502. Over 4,000 people were on the ground during the day. Robt. Boston, M.P., Dr. Roome, M.P., and Hon. G. W. Ross were present. Messrs.

A. B. Powell, J. B. Cox, Eli
Griffith, N. Sage, J. W. Humpidge. Wm. Tripp, Wm. Young, Robert Frank,

A. Young and many others went down from London.

As already stated the entries were much more numerous than last year. The display of vegetables, for quality and variety, was not surpassed at the Western. These, with roots, grain and seed, fruit and dairy produce, were away ahead of other years. The cattle exhibit held its own; the horses were fewer in number, and there was a falling off in pigs. The poultry building was too small to contain the collection, and about fifteen cages were shown outside. The ground flour of the main building contained a very creditable collection of exhibits and every inch of space was occupied. Locally a saddler, an upholsterer, a hardware man and a stove man made good showings. The pianos and organs were there and the people who play them. In a corner was a display of home made bread, biscuits, cakes, pies, preserves and canned goods. It proved to be of more interest to the practical farmers' wives and daughters than anything on the grounds. They hung over it all day and discussed the merits of the his chances, that he got his friends together | place it occupied, next to the fine arts. From the looks of the floral exhibit it would seem that London florists can give West Middlesex farmers few, if any, pointers on horticulture. Connected with this building is the grand show of vegetables, roots and fruit.

"Oh, I don't think I would care for such oig potatoes," sighed a lazy little girl. "They are so hard to peel." It certainly ooked as if one would be a meal for a family. The usual roots, apples, pears, peaches and other fruits completed a very choice collection.

THE SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS. There was Bowes from London with his foghorn voice, and "hokey-pokey, doublejointed, silver-plated, sugar-coated, California peanuts," and a dozen other peanut men and cheap lunch counters and taffy stands. The steam merry-go-round never carried such a load in its life before. The wooden horses bobbed and pranced to the air of the Marseillaise, and the whirligig only stopped when the organ played "Comrades." It was innocent enjoyment. Then the cheap jewelry adjuncts were in full blast. Every time you struck the baby you got a cigar. The cane you succeeded in "ringing" was the cane you carried away. And the envelope you pointed out on the rack was your own. It only cost you 25 cents a chance, and you stood to win a whole jewelry store. Then for the small sum of 5 cents you could take liberties with the head of Peter Jackson's only brother, who lives in Canada (and, by the way, he comes from the third ward.) You bought three throws for 5 cents, and if Mr. "Jackson" did not dodge quick enough, and the thrower was accurate, there was a possibility of him getting hit on the face. This protruded rom a sheet, and if he did get hit, which vas not often, a baseball mask provented njury. The Wonderland Musec (late of lundas street and previously of the Market quare) was there with Punch and Judy. An Indian tooth doctor did business next to the boy tumbler, and the man who sold cider and unfermented grape juice made a small fortune. There are no ring restrictions and the crowd sauntered everywhere, content, happy and smiling. When they were tired they sat down on the grass, and nobody seemed to mind. When they were satiated with the good things to be seen and heard in the inclosure they crowded to the palings and saw THE HORSE RACES.

Strathroy's half-mile track is a good one. Yesterday it was a trifle dusty, but that did not bother anybody. Intense interest was shown in the sport, although the prizes were not so large as they will be today. The favorites failed to win yesterday, but then, you know, the winners of yesterday are debarred today and the prizes are larger today. Every heat was cheered. The results follow:

Clerk Zandt turned from the window a few moments to do some figuring. When he went to take up his stacks of bills to make some change he found that out of $500 only $10 remained. The money was on a shelf inside the window, about a foot below it. The theory is that someone must have reached through the window and abstracted the bills.

WILL THE AMERICAN REPUBLIC ENDURE?

In the Forum for October are two striking articles that possess unusual interest for Canadians. The first is by President Eliot of Harvard University, and is entitled, "Some Reasons Why the American Republic May Endure," and the other is by Octave Thanet, and is named "The Contented Masses." The subject treated by President Eliot is of immense importance to us. Our Dominion lies side by side with the United States. No progress can be made by our neighbors that is not shared in some measure by us, and no disaster could some to that country that would not react prejudicially on Canada. Moreover, every student of history recognizes that the best destinies of the human race are connected with the stability and continuance of the English-speaking people, and as that is so, it is impossible that we can look with any other feeling than that of sympathetic solicitude on the largest member of that English-speaking body, and one which will undoubtedly hold numerical pre-eminence in the future, President Eliot takes an optimistic view of the destiny of his country. The world has seen the rise and fall of great republics which possessed many elements of strength -notably those of Greece, Rome, Italy and France - but that causes no alarm to this eminent student of history and observer of current events. He finds that there are a number of very substantial intellectual and moral causes of permanence in the American republic that were unknown or were not given reasonable play in the earlier republics. The first moral cause enumerated is the advantage which the United States has in the principle of toleration of religion. It is a principle which is a positive promoter of good-will and mutual respect among men and of friendly intercourse unembarassed by religious distinctions. Another mental and moral force which makes for the permanence of American institutions is universal education. Must we not hope, asks Dr. Eliot, everything from this new factor in civilized life-from the steady cultivation in all classes of correct observation, just reasoning, and the taste for good reading? It is reasonable to expect that even the evils of inherited vicious tendencies and habits will be mitigated by universal education. None of the republics which have died had anything more than a small educated class. The masses grew up in crass. est ignorance. It is claimed by Dr. Eliot that better family life prevails in the United States than was known to any of the republics that have perished, or, indeed, to any earlier century.

Then there is greater attention to the means of public health and pleasure; by publicity in the press, that which is good is promoted, and that which is bad is exposed and punished; even corporations, with all their disadvantages, are conducted on an improved plan. There is further increased mutual dependence of man on man, and therewith a growing sense of brotherhood and unity. There is greater hopefulness and cheerfulness of men's outlook on man, the earth, the universe, and God; and finally the objects and methods of religion and its institutions are so changing as to more and more soften and elevate the characters and lives of men in this world and to ameliorate the common lot, thus making right living in this world the best preparation for life in the world to come. In conclusion, this representative citizen of the United States says:

"It is the working of these principles and forces, often unrecognized, which has carried the republic safely through many moral difficulties and dangers during the past 30 years. These things, and not its give the American republic long life. These bulwarks of the commonwealth will prove all the stronger and more work on them, and help to transmit them, generation." pondition of the population. That is old world castle?

so. Even in those crowded centers of population there are thousands of agencies working for the amelioration and advancement of the people, while in the rural districts there are millions of happy and contented settlers. Now that the country is getting pretty well filled up, the masses of "raw material" who have come from the poverty-stricken and ll-educated European countries, will gradually be absorbed and improved and better conditions will be established than have been possible in the past. We, who have one-fourth of our people resident in the United States, can read these bright and optimistic surmises regarding the future of our brethren with pleasure and with hope that they may be fulfilled. On he peace and progress of North America, we are convinced, depend much of the future of our race.

-Promiscuous kissing is strongly conle mued by medical experts. The letter from Dr. Gardiner in another column ertainly contains a startling warning. That any one of three of the worst diseases known to medical science should be easily transmitted from person to person by means of osculation should make grown people careful, and induce them to teach their children carefulness.

The Montreal Star supports the present Administration at Ottawa, therefore the ollowing, which appears in a recent issue, To what denomination did Sir A. T.

PRETTY THOROUGH-GOING-IF LIVED UP TO.

We are asked to state in brief the official attitude taken by the recent Quadrennial Methodist Conference in its declaration of principles as touching the liquor traffic. It is pretty far-reaching and thorough-going, if lived up to. Here is the pith of it:

1. That the liquor traffic cannot be legalzed without sin.

2. That it is the duty of the civil government to prohibit the trade in intoxica-

3. That the candidate of no political party who refuses to publicly commit himself to the destruction of the liquor traffic at the earliest possible moment can have the support of the members of the Metho-

MR. HARTY AND HIS SEAT. There has been some discussion by overzealous newspaper opponents of the Mowat Administration with regard to the position of Hon. Mr. Harty. Dr. Bourinot, clerk of the Dominion House of Commons, an acknowledged authority on parliamentary questions, now says:

"There is under the circumstances not the slightest impropriety in Mr. Harty being retained in the Cabinet. This is true specially in view of the protest entered gainst the return of his opponent, which may result in showing that he was not legally defeated in Kingston. But even if here was no centest, the retention of Mr. Harty in the Cabinet would be perfectly in accord with constitutional practice and precedent, and is justifiable on the score of public convenience. Of course, when the time draws near for the meeting of the Legislature, and if Mr. Harty should be without a seat, and not intending to try for a new constituency, the question would then assume another color. There is not the slightest doubt about the matter. When Sir John Macdonald was defeated what a great public inconvenience it would have been if he had been compelled to immediately resign from the Cabinet."

A case will be found quoted in Todd, where Mr. Gladstone, though defeated, remained in the Cabinet and attended Cabinet meetings even during the session of Parliament. Long before the Legislature meets, Mr. Harty will in all probability be in possession of his seat. What nonsense, then, to make a fuss now?

-Rev. Leo. Gaetz, of Red Deer, N. W. T., formerly of this city, is proposed as a candidate for the Patrons and Prohibitionists for the Northwest Assembly. It is doubtful, however, if he will accept. He is devoted to his pastoral occupations.

WHY DESERT US? Canadian rich men still continue to return to the old country, to buy castles, and to spend the money earned in the Dosize and wealth, make our people love their minion. This would be nobody's business country. These things, we believe, will if so many of them did not at first receive special consideration at the hands of the Government, under the excuse that they lasting because women as well as men can asked for these special privileges, at the ever broader and firmer, from generation to expense of their fellows, in order that they might build up the country, for whose Octave Thanet supplies a correspondingly future they professed to be pining. #### A PASSING PHASE.

(Canada Presbyterian.) Badgering a public man on account of his religious creed is a comparatively new thing in Canadian politics. The past generation understood British liberty too well to engage in such miserable work. So little was then said about the altar at which a public man worshiped that we doubt very much if one in a thousand of the present population of Canada can tell the denomination that some of the most prominent men of 30 years ago belonged to. What church did Baldwin belong to? Where did Sir Francis Hincks worship? Galt belong? What creed did Holton profess? Where did Joseph Howe attend church? How many Ontario people knew that Dorion was a Roman Catholic? The personal friends of these great men could answer, but not one in a thousand outside of the list of personal friends could say what denomination these statesmen belonged to. Are the religious beliefs of public men dragged into politics now because this generation is more pious than the last one? Are we so much more holy than our fathers that we must know the altar at which every public servant worships God? Nay, verily? The reverse is sadly true in many cases. Sectarianism, narrow and bitter, has been dragged into politics as a substitute for the mental ability and moral worth that are indispensable to success in public affairs.

TO REBUILD TALMAGE'S CHURCH

Plan to Issue Bonds Bearing His Portrait and Autograph. NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—A novel plan for ebuilding the Brooklyn Tabernacle has een suggested by N. P. Stanton. It will shortly be laid before the trustees. "My plan comprises an issue of $1, $20 and $100 bonds, noninterest bearing and payable in twenty years," said Mr. Stanton, "Upon each will be fine pictures of the tabernacle, of its pastor and the doctor's autograph. I believe that it would require no effort at all to dispose of $300,000 worth of these bonds. How many of the people who listen to Dr. Talmage's sermons are there who would not jump at the chance to aid in his way in the rebuilding of his church nome and keep him where he belongs-in Brooklyn?"

TEN FAST STALLIONS. Boston, Sept. 27 .- Today's races of the Breeders' meeting at Mystic Park were looked upon as second in importance only to those of yesterday, and there was a crowd of 10,000 or 12,000 people at the park. The chief attraction was the 2:19 class stallion race, in which ten fast ones started, and ell stayed to the end but one. Mahlon fully justified the expectations of his backers, and won three straight heats. Ralph Wilkes, ch s, 5 years old, owned by Col. John E. Thayer, went a mile to beat 2:101. doing it handily in 2:091. The quarter was made 33, half in 1:051, threequarters in 1:371. Summary:

TEAM RACING. COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 27 .- Fully 10,000 people went to the driving park today to see the several attempts that were made to lower the world's turf records. The only record broken was that of double team racing by Roselenf and Sallie Simmons, driven by Starr, going against Aztoe and Answer, driven by McDowell. The teams kept side by side from the start to the three-quarter stretch, Answer and Azote having the pole. There Answer broke, and Starr sent his team ahead, and though Answer's conduct was splendid up to the finish, Starr brought his team under the wire winners by a neck. The first quarter was made in $45, the half in 1:082, the three quarters in 1:42, and the mile in THE WHEEL.

RECORDS REDUCED. WALTHAM, Mass., Sept. 27 .- Johnson failed to lower Bliss' one mile record today, the best he could do being 1:53 2-5. A. W. Porter, the crack rider of the Waltham Club, lowered the two mile class

The Order of the Palms Conterred-Annual Meeting of the Woman's Art Club-Officers Elected.

Mile. Vanden Broock, an artist of widely recognized merit, and well known in art ircles in London, has lately returned from Paris, where she spent the summer. During her stay in the gay capital Mile. Vanden Breeck was highly honored by the French Government, having been decorated with the Order of the Palms, the greatest distinction conferred upon artists by the ruling body of France. Mile. Broeck is a native of that country, but finds the Canadian climate more congenial to her health. She is instructor of the London Woman's Art Club, and consequently her return was a matter of unusual interest to the members of that organization.

The annual meeting was held in the club room, Richmond street, yesterday afterncon, and a reception was tendered the instructor, fully 150 of the members and next heat was likewise won easily by It was a regular welcome home to Mila. FROG SKIN GRAFTING.

Little Patches of Skin From the White Bellies of Frogs Used to Save a Man's Lie.

If Joseph Swilsor, who is now in the Eastern District Hospital, is ever discharged from that institution he will have stump of a right leg that will have four kinds of skins on it. Same of it, a very ittle, is his own, but the rest has been contributed by a doctor, a nurse and a number of frogs. The last named, however, did not contribute willingly. Swilsor was employed in the Mollenhauer sugar refiner at the foot of South Eleventh street, and on Aug. I last he was caught in the machinery of one of the elevators and his right leg was crushed and mangled in a shocking way. When taken to the hospital it was thought that he could not live through the night, and a Polish priest administered the last rites of the church.

The injured leg was amputated, but as the skin had all been town off the stump the doctors thought that gaugrene would set in. Anyway the man was not expected to live but a short time.

Swilsor, however, b gan to revive, but his leg still remained raw and sore. Dr. Castner, the house surgeon, was greatly interested in the case and thought he would try skin-grafting. The man had no friends who could be called on, but one of the nurses, Albert Wagner, took pity on the poor iellow and offered to give up some of his own cuticle. Over a dozen pieces of skin were taken and transferred to Poole's leg. Then Dr. T. G. Winters, one of the visiting surgeons, submitted to having bits of his skin taken, and day after day little particles of skin were placed on the wounded stump. It was not enough, however, but Drs. Neesen and Babbington stepped forward and offered to sacrifice themselves in the interest of science. They have not been called upon as yet, for Dr. Castner has commenced to use the white skin on the stomach of frogs. Every day a frog is carefully washed and then tied on a board. With peculiarly-shaped scissors the doctor snips little pieces of the skin and transfers them to Swilsor's stump of a leg. An Eagle reporter called at the hospital while the operation was going on, and Dr. Castner told him that the possibilities were that the man would recover, although he might be in the hospital for a month or more yet. The situation of Swilsor is pitiful in the extreme. No friends call on him, and as he cannot speak English the physicians at the hospital have to send out for an interpreter whenever they desire to communicate with him. As it is, he passes days without anyone to talk to at all .- [Brooklyn Eagle.

CRIMINALS IN COREA. | them utter a cry of pain, and I saw that

THE HORRIBLE TORTURES INFLICTED UPON THEM.

Terrible Fate in Store for Rebels in the Present War Should China be Victorious -A Visit to Prisons and an Inspection of Punishment Methods. Treason is nowhere so terribly rewarded as in Corea. My blood runs cold when I think of the punishment which will be meted out to those who have rebelled against the king should the Chinese become victorious and his majesty's corrupt officials be allowed to carry out the laws which now exist. I have told you how the body of the dead rebel. Kim Ok Kiun, was brought to Corea; how it was cut into six pieces, and how the bloody head, the hands, the feet and the trunk were carried ever the country and hung above the gates of the cities as a warning to rebels. Not only this man himself was killed, but his whole family and all of his relatives have been terribly punished. His father did all he could to prevent his boy from rising against the king ten years ago, and after his rebellion he went into retirement. He was old and blind, but after Kim's death he was dragged out and his head was cut off. The men of the family, even of the third and fourth generation, were executed, and the women, including Kim's 17year-old daughter, were given over to be the slaves or concubines of the officials. After this rebellion the mothers, the wives and the daughters of all who have taken up arms against the king will become the common property of the government and of the magistrates of the provinces in which they live. They will be dragged from their homes to be concubines and slaves. As their beauty wanes they will be handed from one high official to a lower until they descend to the bottom dregs of the government service. They will have no rights that anybody will be bound to respect, and their only chance of happiness will be in death.

All sorts of crimes are terribly punished in Corea. The truth about such matters is kept as far as possible from the foreigners, and you will find little information about prisons and punishments in any of tle published on the country, and the incessible to me on account of the letters of introduction which I carried and the risks which I took in going right in among the people and persisting in my questions and investigations, notwithstanding the objections of the officials.

Corean thieves are decapitated for their erimes. They are only cut into two pieces, however, and the law provides that their bodies need not lie on the execution grounds longer than two days before their relatives can take them away and bury them.

Strangling is done in a curious way. There is a hole in the door of the cell just large enough for a piece of rope about the eize of a clothesline to pass through. A noose is made at the end of the rope, and this noose is placed around the criminal's neck. The other end of the rope is put through the hole in the door of the wall, and the police pull at the rope until they bring the man's chest and neck above and below the hole and until the neck breaks and the man is dead.

Another method of execution is by suffocation, and this, strange to say, is done with paper. The man is laid flat upon his back, and a sheet of Corean paper is spread over his face. This has been soaked in water, and fits over the man's face, being pressed down so that it makes a veritable death mask, shutting out every bit of air, and the man dies. Anyone who has seen the paper of Corea will appreciate how easily this form of execution could be carried out. It is made by hand. It is as thick as a sheet of blotting paper and almost as strong as leather. When moisture is applied to it it becomes exceedingly soft, but does not lose its strength, and it would make an excellent molding material. Among the most terrible of Corean crimes are those against your parents or ancestors. There is a prison in Seoul that is devoted entirely to prisoners who commit crimes against their parents. If a rich son refuses to support his father he can be gent to jail, and the boy who strikes his father can be whipped to death. The parricide is burned to death, and it is in Corea much the same as in China, where the killing of one's parents subjects the child to be sliced into thirty-odd pieces or carved up by inches.

The torturing of prisoners to make them confess is common in Corea, and it is wonderful what inventions of torture are sometimes in use. Think of tying a man's bare feet to a stake in the ground and burning his toes with powder. Think of all sorts of flogging and pinching and cutting, and you can get some idea of the powers of a Corean magistrate. In the prisons you will find iron chains, stocks and all sorts of manacles. These Coreans know how to whip so that the flesh is raveled off of the bones, and I have a photograph of a man tied in a chair, with his knees bare, and a jailer whipping his bare shins. In one of the prisons which I visited I saw three men fastened in stocks. The stocks consisted of a log of wood about fifteen feet long and at least a foot in diameter. This had been split in two, and holes had been bored through it just large enough to hold the bare ankle of a man. The three criminals each had one foot fastened in this log, and the jailers, when I appeared with my soldiers and photographer, tried to move them out into the sun so that I might get a good photograph of them. As they pulled them along I heard one of the features of all were contorted with agony. It made me sick, and I desisted. I told the jailers to let the men be, and that I would not take their pictures.

Paddling and flogging are the most common punishment. This prevails everywhere, and the official is very low indeed who cannot order the common man down to be paddled. In paddling, the man is tied to a board, which lies on the ground on two small blocks of wood. His body is bared from the walst to his ankles, and he lies upon his belly on the plank. There is a rope around his waist which is fastened through a hole in the board, and there are also ropes about his feet, which bind him so tightly that he cannot move. The keso stands behind him with his paddle, and the officers look on to see that he is properly whipped. Often a half-dozen men are paddled at the same time in this way. If there are no planks handy, they are laid flat on the ground on their faces, and their feet are sometimes fastened in this position in wooden stocks, so that they cannot move. They are laid out in rows and each man has his paddler beside him. Each paddler's arms are bare to the shoulder, and they work in unison.

The first strike usually makes a blister and at the close of the second the paddle is wet with water or blood. As these executioners drag it off they rub it into the sand, pressing it there until the kesos again cry La-heo-aa-hoo-oo. Then the paddles are raised again, and, as they are brought down this time, they are covered with sand. They pound the particles into flesh, and as the men drag them off they take away the skin as though it were sandpapered. I can give you no conception of the punishment, and when you remember that any official has the right to paddle any man below him, and almost any one of prominence can paddle those of lower rank, you can get some idea of the condition of affairs in this country.

FRANK G. CARPENTER. KEEP A STIFF LOWER LIP.

It is the Tell-Tale One, and the Upper Lip Can Take Care of Itself. "I can't understand," said a young lady of observation, "why you men, who see so much and know so much, persist in the phrase, 'Keep a stiff upper lip.' You use it as a sort of picturesque synonym for firmness of purpose and demeaner, but it has no value as such. The upper lip is not the weak member of the two; it is the under lip that wants stiffening. The upper lip is practically expressionless. It usually lies flat on the teeth, it is nearly always covered with a mustache-I refer, of course, to the male upper lip-and in conversation, especially in correctly languid conversaion, it does not move at all. Like the Chinese joss, it's a harmless oreature and can be safely let alone.

"It is the nether lip that has to be watched and controlled. I can always tell when a man is going to propose to me by the way in which he wets his under lip and presses it against the upper for companionship and support-just the very thing he is seeking for. And I can always formation which I give you was only ac- tell if a man is lying by a peculiar fluctua ation and pulsation in this same lower lip. He will look you right straight in the eye, grow fierce, and drop his voice into his boots through the weight of his emotion, but if there is that twitch about the lower lip I don't believe him-and I've never been wrong yet. If a man feels deeply, I mean feels sorrow, not affects it, it is in the tremulcusness of the under lip that he shows it. The sensitive man's lower lip is seldom still, and there is sometimes about t a positive pulsation that takes in the whole curve of the chin. The pout begins in the lower lip and is really confined to it. for the upper lip is only pushed out by pressure from below. You can't pout vith your upper lip alone. "In fact, you can't assume or affect any expression with the upper lip alone. Just try it. Hold the lower lip firm with the finger and look in the glass there. The mouth has become simply a hole in the face, you see, and so far as the expressionful character of the lips goes, it is as if you had lost a feature.

"If you want to keep back a smile, it's the lower lip that you must look after, Weakness begins there, whether of character, health or age. It is not the weak upper in that tells of downfall; it is the drooping. pendulous lower lip shows it. 'And let me tell you something, please,

IN THE CRIMINAL COURTS.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 27.—At the assizes here Bobert Parry was found guilty of improper relations with his cousin, May Perry, a girl of 14 years. Prisoner was recommended to mercy.

An action for slander was entered by John M. Sutherland, of West Zorra, against his sister, Miss Betsy Sutherland, she having accused him of stealing certain goods out of her house in July last. The suit was settled by defendant making a comprehensive apology, each party to pay their own costs.

By a recent ordinance of the Scottish University Commission the universities are empowered to throw open to women such bursaries, scholarships and fellowships as they may see fit.

THE expression, "Mind your Ps and Qs," arose from an old custom of innkeepers marking down the scores of their customers on the wall or door with a bit of charceal. Q stands for quart, P for pint, and a hint to mind one's Ps and Qs was equivalent to a reminder that he was drinking too much.

BISHOP William Boyd Carpenter, of Ripon, England, is the court preacher. A story is told of him that when he was asked how he managed to address so exalted a personage as the sovereign and yet maintain his composure he replied that he never addressed her at all. He knew there would be present the Queen, the princes, the household, the servants, down to the scullery-maid. "And," said the bishep, "I preach to the scullery-maid, the Queen understands me."

The Bean Crop.

A leading importer of New York city is quoted by the Tribune as saying that the American, Canadian and European bean crops are short this year. The first suffered from long drought, the second from late pianting and early frost, and the third was blighted by prolonged and unseasonable rain. Importations of beans range from 300,000 to 359,000 sacks of 229 pounds each, coming maihly from Holland, 220 pounds each extremely low prices. Since 1887 foreign beans have declined from 11s to 13s per have reduced their acreage in late years, owing to the extremely low prices. Since 1887 foreign beans have declined from 11s to 13s per 110 lbs to 7s. Now they bring 10s to 11s, and will soon be higher. The new tariff reduces the duty a little over one half, but this is offset by the advance in price. Other dealers thought the American crop would not be more than 10 per cent short, as the acreage was 20 per cent greater. The importation from Canada last year was 220,000 bags, against 112,000 barrels and bags of American received in New York.

She had told all she knew. Richard North stepped over the bucket again, remarking that he might meet Tim. Sure enough he did so. In taking a cross cut to the works, he came upon him, leaning against the wooden railings that boarded a ece of waste land. He looked very ill; Richard saw that; a small, slight young man with a mild, pleasant countenance and inoffensive manners. His mother had been a cousin of Mrs. Green's, but superior to the

He did not suspect Wilks of having written the anony- whether he was going right for Whitmous letter; he told him this candidly; but he suspected, nay, knew, that it must have been written by some one who had gathered certain details from Wilks's gossip. Mr. Wilks's reply to this was, that he had not harangued the public at the Wheat. sheaf. He remembered being at the house quite well, and there had been a good deal of argument in the parior; chiefly, he thought, touching the question as to whether masters in general ought not to give a holiday on the 1st of May. There had been no particular haranguing on his part, he declared; and he could take his oath that he never opened his lips there about what had come to his knowledge. One thing he did confess, on being pressed by Richard that he had no remembrance of quitting the Wheatsheaf, or of how he reached home. He retained a faint idea of having seen Dr. ie's face bending over him later, but could not say whether it was dream or

Nothing more could be get out of Timothy That the man was guiltless of intentional treachery was as undoubted as the treachery had occurred through his talking. Richard North bent his steps to the Wheatsheaf, to hold conference with Packerton, the landiord of that much frequented hostelry.

And any information that Packerton could give, he was willing to give; but it amounted to little. Richard wanted the names of all who went into the parior on the night of the 30th of April, during the time that Wilks was there. The landlord mentioned as many as he could remember; but said that others might have gone in and out. One man - who looked like a gentieman and sat by Wilks - was a stranger, he said; he had never seen him before or since. This man grew quite friendly with Wilks, and went out with him, propping up his was holding on by the railings, the boy said, talking with the other as fast as he could talk, and the other was laughing. Richard North wished he could find out who this man was, and where he might be seen; for, of all the rest mentioned by the landlord, not one was at all likely to have written the anonymous letter. Packerton's opinion was that Wilks had not spoken of the matter there; he was then hardly "far enough gone" to have committed the imprudence.

"But I suppose ho was when he left you," "Yes, air, I'm afraid he might have been. He could talk; but every bit of reason had gone out of him. I never saw anybody but Again Richard North sought Wilks, and questioned him who this stranger, man or gentleman, might be. He might as well have questioned the man. Wilks had a hazy impression of having been with a tall, thin, strange man; but where, or when, or how, "I'll ask Rane what sort of a condition

Wilks just like this when they've taken too

Wilks was in when he saw him," thought

But Richard could not carry out his intentions until night. Business claimed him for the rest of the day, and then he went | be far advanced in consumption.

home to dinner.
Dr. Rane was in his dining room that night, the white blind drawn before the window, and writing by the light of a shaded candle. Bessy North had said to her father that Oliver was busy with a medical work from which he expected good returns himself no labor, over that, or anything else, often writing far into the small hours. He was a patient, persevering man; once give him a chance of success, a fair start on life's road, and he would be sure to go on to for-tune. He said this to himself continually; and he was not mistaken. But the chance Dear Sirs—I have us had not come yet.

The clock was striking eight, when the doctor heard a ring at the door bell, and Phillis appeared, showing in Richard North. A thrill passed through O.iver Rane; perhaps he could not have told why or wherefore.

Richard sat down and began to talk about Wilks, asking what he had to ask, entering into the question generally. Dr. Rane listened in silence.

"I beg your pardon," he suddenly said re-membering his one shaded candle. "lought to have asked for more light."

"It's quite light enough for me," replied lehard. "Don, t trouble. To go back to Richard. "Don't trouble. To go back to Wilks; Did he say anything about the bill an your hearing, Rane?"

"Not a word; not a syllable. Or, if he did, I failed to catch it." "Old Mother Green save he talked about bills," said Richard. "That was before you saw him."
"Does she?" carelessly remarked the doctor, "I heard nothing of the kind. There was no coherence whatever in his words, so far as I noticed; one never pays much attention to the babblings of adrunken man."

"Was he quite beside him self?— quite unconscicus of what he said, Rane?"

"Well, I am told that it is the peculiar idiosyncrasy of Wilks to be able to talk and yet to be unconscious for all practical purposes, and for recollection afterwards. Otherwise I should not have considered him quite so far gone as that. He talked certainly, a little, seemed to answer me in a mechanical sort of way when I asked him a question, slipping one word into another. House.

If I had tried to understand him, I don't suppose I could have done so. He did not say much; and I was away from him a good deal about the house, looking for water and rage to put on his head. 'Then you heard nothing about it, Rane?"

"Absolutely nothing." The doctor sat so that the green shade of the candle happened to fall on his face, making it look very pale. Richard North, absorbed in thought about Wilks, could not have told whether the face was in shadow or in light. He spoke next about the stranger who had joined Wilks, saying he wished he could find out who it was.

"A tall thin man, bearing the appearance of a gentleman?" returned Dr. Rane. "Then I think I saw him, and spoke to him.' "Where?" asked Richard with animation. "Close to your works. He was looking through the iron gates. After quitting Green's cottage, I crossed the waste ground, Greens in station. Timothy would held his head considerably above North and saw him standing at the gates, held his head considerably above North the middle gass lamp. I had to visit a patient down by the church, and took the

"You did not recognizehim?" "Not at all. He was a stranger to me. As I was passing, he turned and asked me berough. I pointed to the high road and told him to keep straight on. Depend upon it, this was the same man.'

"What could he have been looking in at my gates for!" muttered Richard. "And circumstance of the drawing of the bill; or what—for this is of more consequence—had rather the renewing of one, had penetrated he been getting out of Wilks!" "It sems rather curious altogether," remarked Dr. Rane. "I'll find this man," said Richard, as he got up to say good night; "I must find him. Thank you, Rane."

But after his departure Oliver Rane did not settle to his work as before. A man, once interrupted, cannot always do so. All he did was to pace the room restlessly with bowed head, as a man in some uneasy dream. The candle burnt lower, the flame grew above the shade, throwing its light on his face, showing up its lines and angles. But it was not any brighter than when the green shade had cast ever it its cadaverous

FOSTER IS NOT INFALLIBLE. (Toronto Globe.)

Protection is founded on the assumption hat Minister Foster knows more about the implement making business than the members of the Massey Manufacturing Company, and that he is equally omniscient in regard to every other industry and business in the Dominion. The fact that every tariff change has failed to effect the results intended, and has produced results never thought, of has not shaken the faith of true believers in this assumption. But it has the effect of narrowing the circle of true believers. Free traders contend that neither Mr. Foster nor any other Finance Minister -Liberal, Conservative or Patron of Industry-can possibly become possessed of that quantity of knowledge. To know enough to let others, who must necessarily know better, manage their own affairs is the hight of wisdom to which any Finance Minister can possibly attain.

"Williams' Royal Crown Remedy Saved John Weir's Life,"

May be seen in large letters on the covers of the horses that precede the handsome Royal Crown Remedy wagon at Toronto and Western Fairs. To a Globe reporter, Mr. Weir said: "This is a most marvelous care. I became pale as a corpee; my blood seemed to be turned to water. I had dizziness and a ringing noise in my head; my hands and feet were cold all the time, and my limbs were completely swoolen up to the body. Some doctors called it censumption of the blood. I got so weak that I could not walk, and finally took to my bed." Mrs. Weir says: "All M. Weir has told you is true. At times he lay for days unconscious and unable to take nourishment of any kind, and was reduced to a mere skeleton of & pounds; and I fully believe that if we had been one day later in getting Williams' Royal Crown Remedy he would be in his grave to day. So it may well be said 'Williams' Royal Crown Remedy he would be in his grave to day. So it may well be said 'Williams' Royal Crown Remedy saved John Weir's life. Herrmann, in his marvelous entertainment of magic, mirth and mystery. His programme this season includes many new and startling wonders. In sleight of hand tricks Herrmann has no equal, and his illusions are wonders to behold. He is so well known that anything more than the simple announcement that he will be here seems superfluous. His programmes are always interesting, his by-play and conversation being as attractive as his feats of legerdemain. An audience is always amused and never tired by Herrmann. The programme this season includes, besides his wonderful sleight of hand work, his latest and most sensational illusion, which he has named "After the Ball." The city, has left for Edinburgh to pursue his wonderful illusion, "The Escape from Sing Sing," which created such a sensation a Herrmann's own playhouse on Broadway, will also be given.

As of yore, Hermann's entertainment will include some startling feats of prestidigitation and legerdemain to which his own original and collective brain has given existence. The Serpentine, Butterfly and La Blance dances, to be presented here for the first time by Mme. Herrmann, are the success of the season, and the critics who have seen the famous La Loie Fuller in the Serpentine dance aver she is not the equaof Mme. Herrmann. The effect is greatly heightened by a system of fourteen calcium lights, and it is safe to say no danseuse over appeared under more favorable circumskirts that fascinates while it bewilders the audience.
