RUSSIA TO BE RE-UNITED BY GOVERNMENT

Kerensky's New Ministry Sets About Healing Breaches in Country

WILL VISIT FRONT President to Lay Real Issues of Nation Before the Army

ANARCHY STILL RIFE Universal Peace Will Allow of Marshalling Forces

Petrograd, Oct. 11.—The new government has begun the task of rebuilding the breaches in the country's economic and military lines created by the political uncertainty since the Bolshevik uprising in July.

Premier Kerensky and his principal lieutenants have left for the front, where they will spend several days in placing before the soldiers the purposes of the coalition ministry. The foreign minister will also confer with the allied military agents at the front and explain to them what Russia needs and devise schemes of co-operation which he will probably present before the allied war council at Paris.

The reconstructed government yesterday issued a declaration which says:

"Fresh troubles have broken out in the bosom of our country in consequence of the Korniloff movement, though this movement is being rapidly suppressed, it still menaces the very existence of the republic by the disturbances it provokes.

The wind of anarchy is blowing through the land and the thrust of a foreign foe is increasing in force."

The government is profoundly conscious that a universal peace will allow of Russia's marshalling all the creative forces and adds:

"The government will pursue an active foreign policy in the spirit of the democratic principles proclaimed by the Russian revolution and will strive for the conclusion of a universal peace."

At Allied Conference

Petrograd, Wednesday, Oct. 10.—The new Russian Government in a declaration to-day regarding its participation in the forthcoming allied conference says that while discussing questions connected with the common war, the Russian representatives will seek to reach an understanding with the allies on the basis of the principles proclaimed by the revolutionary government at its inception.

The government, it adds, will extend its whole strength in support of the common cause of the allies, to defend the country, to oppose every attempt at the conquest of territory of other nations and every attempt to impose the will of others on Russia.

In restoring the fighting power of the Russian army, it is declared, the government will follow the democratic principles already promulgated by the war minister.

Petrograd, Oct. 11.—With the announcement of the new cabinet conference, presented to Agent W. W. Cobb, Secretary of the Interior, advised publication of this will not be held back.

TO PUNISH ALL IN PLOT

Iron Severity Urged For Those Who Planned Disorder in Fleet

Amsterdam, Oct. 11.—Those guilty of complicity in the plot to paralyze the German navy through mutinies should be handled with iron severity, says the Rheinische Westfalishe Zeitung, of Essen. It adds:

"They are liable to the death penalty. Thank God, Liebknecht (the German Socialist leader now in prison) was properly dealt with, and in the present case there can only be similar action."

HUNS BEHIND SOCIALISTS

Proposed Stockholm Peace Conference of German Instigation

London, Oct. 11.—A Bordeaux special to the Times says: "In the sitting of the Socialist Congress, the whole question of the German origin of the Stockholm conference will be raised. M. Thomas, in relating the incident of his journey to Russia, will declare that Bjarnberg, the Danish Socialist deputy, had himself admitted he was going to Petrograd to propose Stockholm on behalf of the German government Socialists with conditions of peace not far from the pan-German program."

BULGARS CLAIM TO HAVE REPULSED BRITISH

Strong Attacks on Doiran Sector of Saloniki Front Were Repulsed, Says Official Report

London, Oct. 11.—Allied troops made a strong attack Tuesday south of Doiran, north of Saloniki, according to the Bulgarian official statement issued Wednesday. The attacks begun after violent artillery fire, were broken up at two points by the Bulgarian artillery. The Entente losses are reported to have been heavy, while the Bulgarians suffered only slightly. Allied troops, who gained a temporary footing in one of the Bulgarian advanced trenches, the statement claims, were either killed or captured.

Likely False Alarm

The reported Allied attacks south of Doiran probably were not in force. The Bulgarian official statement said that the British detachments which attacked after lengthy artillery preparation. There has been no British statement on this fighting.

GIANTS, WITH HOPE RENEVED, TO PUT FORTH SUPREME EFFORT

New York Takes Fresh Heart Following Yesterday's Victory; Will Strive to Level up the Series Today

New York, Oct. 11.—The New York Giants, flushed with their victory of yesterday and the Chicago White Sox, stung by the defeat, were prepared for a stirring battle to-day in the fourth game of the series for the baseball championship of the world.

The two to nothing victory has greatly heartened the New York players and baseball sharps would not be surprised if they carry the fighting "right home" to the White Sox and lengthen the series to seven games. The fact that they were able to get to the mastery pitching of Cicotte, Manager Rowland's best pitcher, has done more to revive the waning hopes of the Giants than anything else. They admit Cicotte was not hit to any extent except in the fourth inning when Robertson's slashing triple, Holke's double and Burns' infield single netted two runs, but they feel the defeat will tend to shake Cicotte's confidence in his ability to hold the New Yorkers if he is again sent in against them.

The Giants are more than anxious to take to-day's game. To win in the fourth contest will put them on even terms with their western rivals and give them increased confidence in the games to come.

Fans look for Manager Rowland to send either Russe or Fisher to the pitching box this afternoon. The Giants would like to see Fisher pitch again. He won his game when all the Giant pitchers were being hit hard, and New York followers feel he will not have as easy a time in the next game he twirls. McGraw's choice probably will be either Schupp or Sallee. Which-ever one does not pitch will be held in reserve for the fifth game. The Chicago White Sox cannot see another victory to-day for the National Leaguers. Schupp was knocked out of the box last Sunday, and they feel sure he cannot

TELEGRAPHS U.S. WORKED FOR YEARS

Evidence of Propaganda Having Been Spread As Early as 1909

Washington, Oct. 11.—Germany financed Irish-American propaganda organization in the United States as early as 1909 to combat the newly developed movement for celebration of one hundred years of peace between America and Great Britain, President Wilson has learned from leaders in the Centenary celebration.

John A. Stewart, of New York, chairman of the American branch of the centenary committee, who recently called on the White House with H. S. Ferris, of London, a leader in the British phase of the movement, brought evidence that within five weeks after announcement of the centenary celebration early in 1909, German and Irish-American interests in the United States formed a number of associations and leagues to foster interest in German affairs.

Most of these organizations, Mr. Stewart stated, shortly became merged with the American Truth Society, whose president, Jeremiah O'Leary, was mentioned in the secret message to Count von Bernstorff from the German government, disclosed yesterday by Secretary Lansing.

The Argentine papers commented extensively on the disclosure that the German legation at Buenos Aires paid for the publication of a booklet by the editor of a newspaper in this city, predicting war between Brazil and Argentina.

Senor Carlos Rodriguez Laretta, the former Argentine minister to France, declared in a published article to-day that a von Luxemburg dispatch which has not yet been made in Argentina to German intrigues.

He says that the neutrality demonstration planned for next Friday is six times as big as the Argentine celebration as planned at a time when sister republics are breaking with the common foe.

CHINA AND ALLIES TO CO-OPERATE

Beijing, Oct. 11.—The Chinese Government, replying to the representatives of the Entente Allies concerning China's entry into the war, thanks the Allies for their postponement of payment of the Boxer indemnity.

The reply says internal disturbances will be quelled, thus allowing allied commerce to proceed without interruption.

Enemy shipping, according to the reply, can be rechartered from the present charterers, but enemy concessions must be controlled by China.

Peruvian Minister at Berlin Asks For Passports At Once

Amsterdam, Oct. 11.—The Peruvian minister to Germany has handed to the government a note announcing the rupture of relations between Peru and Germany, and also has requested his passports, according to a despatch received here from Berlin. Peru severed diplomatic relations with Germany, October 4, by an almost unanimous vote of Congress.

KAISER'S AIMS ARE MODIFIED

No Longer Plans To Divide Alsace-Lorraine With Bavaria

Amsterdam, Oct. 11.—The Reichstag probably will take a decisive step forward with regard to the question of Alsace-Lorraine within a few days. The Vossische Zeitung of Berlin says. The Reichstag majority supports formation of a monarchical federal state with democratic and parliamentary guarantees. The newspaper believes this plan also is favored by the Imperial government, which has abandoned the scheme of dividing Alsace-Lorraine between Prussia and Bavaria.

HUNS TO HANG ON TO ALSACE AND LORRAINE

Germany Can Make No Concessions There, Says Foreign Secretary

WILL HOLD HERITAGE Never Surrender "Glorious Legacy" While German Hand Can Hold Gun

REVOLT A SURPRISE Revelations In Reichstag Resemble a Theatre of Scandal

Amsterdam, Oct. 11.—In the course of his speech before the Reichstag yesterday, Foreign Secretary von Kuehlmann said:

"The great question prolonging the struggle is not the future of Belgium, but of Alsace-Lorraine."

"Great Britain, according to information, has pledged herself to France that she will continue the fight for the conquest of Alsace-Lorraine, both politically and with her armies so long as France desires to adhere to the programme of retaining those provinces. This being the actual situation, I think it proper to give a clear and firm statement of our attitude, since, seriously enough, there still seems to be a misconception in this respect among our enemies and even among our neutral friends."

"There is but one answer to the question, can Germany in any form make concessions with regard to Alsace-Lorraine?" said the foreign secretary. "That answer is no. So long as one German hand can hold a gun the integrity of the territory handed down to us as a glorious inheritance by our forefathers can never be the object of negotiations or concessions."

Heinrich Dove, a Radical Socialist who has returned from the front, reported to the members of the Reichstag that the soldiers everywhere had expressed the desire that the war be speedily ended.

Naval Revolt.

Amsterdam, Oct. 11.—The statements of Vice Admiral von Capelle, the German minister of marine, have turned the Reichstag into a theatre of the wildest scandal, says the Vorwaerts, discussing the disclosure of mutinies within the German navy. The Socialist newspaper adds that there is no shadow of proof that any deputies were guilty of illegal action in connection with the mutiny.

The Vossische Zeitung describes the attack on the Independent Socialists as a deplorable and illegal trick on the part of the government. The Tagblatt contends that if the Reichstag believes that the Independent Socialists are guilty, they must be handed over to the court.

The Koelnische Zeitung expresses surprise that the government "when it had such strong proofs of guilt against three persons suspected of treason it did not ask the consent of the Reichstag to take legal measures. No Reichstag would have been able to refuse consent."

The newspaper complains that the treatment of the affair in the Reichstag will be explained abroad to the disadvantage of Germany.

Kaiser to Visit Sofia?

Amsterdam, Oct. 11.—Extensive preparations are being made in Sofia, Bulgaria, to entertain the German emperor during his forthcoming visit there. It will be the emperor's first visit to Sofia, and the burgomaster has issued a proclamation inviting the population to participate.

A despatch from Amsterdam Wednesday says that German Foreign Secretary von Kuehlmann would proceed on an early date on a visit to Vienna, Sofia, and Constantinople. It was said that his mission has important political and peace significance. There has been no reports within the last few days that the German emperor was to go to Sofia, he having returned from Roumania only ten days ago.

POOR WEEK FOR THE POOR WEAK U-BOATS

Sub Campaign Rapidly Failing; No Morse Ships Destroyed Last Week; Three French And Two Italian

London, Oct. 11.—Not one Norwegian ship was sunk last week by German submarines for the first time in more than a year, according to a despatch from Christiania. The Tidens Tegn of Christiania brings a diagram purporting to show that Norwegian sinkings have decreased as the efficiency of the allies in dealing with submarines has increased.

Paris, Oct. 11.—Three French steamers of more than 1,600 tons were sunk during the week ending October 7. Two vessels of less than 1,600 tons were lost and eight ships attacked without success. Six fishing boats were sunk.

Rome, Oct. 11.—Last week two Italian steamers of more than 1,500 tons and two of less than 1,000 tons were sunk by mines or submarines. One sailing vessel of more than 100 tons also was lost. One steamer and one sailing vessel were attacked without success.

HEAVY COUNTER-ATTACKS OF HUNS PROFIT THEM NOTHING

Attempts to Retake Captured Terrain Last Night Were Repulsed by the French—Tuesday's Victory Decisive

Paris, Oct. 11.—The French last night defeated enemy attempts to capture ground taken in the French offensive in Belgium this week, and war office announces. On the Verdun front the Germans broke into advanced French positions, but were repulsed after a spirited engagement. Following is the official announcement:

"In Belgium during the night we broke up a German attack delivered east of Draehbank against our positions between Victoire Farm and Patogget Farm.

"On the Alsace front, an enemy patrol, which was seeking to approach our lines in the region of Cerny, was dispersed by our fire.

"On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) in the region of Hill 344, the Germans made an attack which enabled them to gain a footing momentarily in portions of one of our advanced trenches. After a spirited engagement we repulsed the adversary and remained masters of our positions.

"Sub-Lieutenant Boyau yesterday brought down his tenth enemy airplane."

Story of the Fight.
London, Oct. 11.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa agency)—Telegraphing yesterday evening, the Reuter's correspondent at British headquarters says:

"Although the achievements of Tuesday are not as complete as might be hoped, they amount to a great victory and the tactical result is of major importance. The home divisions and Australians again covered themselves with glory, while the gallant Newfoundlanders' achievements were superb. A Lancashire territorial division received its baptism of fire. Its task was to advance over the most exposed and sudden ground on the whole front.

JOIN INDEPENDENTS

Amsterdam, Oct. 11.—Herr Simon, a deputy in the German Reichstag, has left the Majority Socialist party to join the Independent Socialists says the International Korrespondenz. Four other deputies, it adds, are expected to take similar action. Three of the four are Herr Ewald, Edmond Fischer and Herr Hugel, of Bayreuth.

THE SITUATION
The mutiny of sailors on German war ships cannot be regarded as otherwise than deeply significant. In addition, there is the further fact that marines, on the other hand, refused to fire on them. The trouble was suppressed, but without much doubt the smouldering feeling is still there, and probably also in Germany, the men of the Kaiser's land and sea forces are kept under with an iron hand, and it may be taken for granted that isolated manifestations of discontent will be speedily put down, but if a general feeling in the same regard ever becomes manifest, then it will be good-bye to Prussianism. The German Minister of Marine asserts that it is the Russian revolution which "turned the heads" of the demonstrators. If so, and it does the same more generally, that uprising may prove to be a blessing in disguise after all. And the irony of the whole thing is that Germany has herself had a large part in stirring up the Muscovites.

Powerful Teuton counter-attacks and the difficulty of "digging in" operations in the terrible mud, have caused the British to fall back slightly on small portions of the Flanders front, but otherwise they are successfully meeting all attacks and consolidating the ground recently taken. The official report for last week of British vessels sunk by submarines shows a slight increase. Kerensky would seem to be getting matters somewhat more in hand once more, and he and some of his associates are on a visit to the front to further explain the state of affairs to the soldiers.

The Yorkshire Post is authority for the statement that if Canada is to get a full share of future war orders, she must be prepared to finance them. This is another added lesson for the people who have money to invest, to devote the same to war issues.

THE U. S. AWAKENING
The disclosures still continue with reference to the sinister and outrageous manner in which the Teuton outfit played Uncle Sam while professing friendship to that country. The German ambassador was at the head of the precious gang of cut throats and traitors, and our neighbors were gulled and bamboozled right up to the eyes. In this regard the Chicago Tribune plaintively remarks:—
"It is difficult for a disclosure of German intrigue in the United States to cause a genuine shock of astonishment any more. We may be amazed by our own ingenuousness than anything else. American comprehension seemed incapable of taking in facts and probabilities."
Even the Lusitania incident failed to make many Americans realize the true nature of the Hun, but the long overdue awakening at last arrived, and with it a highly concentrated determination to take a full share on behalf of throttling the power which impudently started in to place the whole world in bondage.

The Boston Transcript, while regretting the tardiness of American help, goes on to say:—
"For the Kaiser's campaign of frightfulness can never be atonement. For our culpable laxity there can and we venture to hope there will be atonement in a firm and resolute though belated campaign against every enemy of the republic whether he call himself German or Pacific, or I.W.W., or what not else. Germany struck a blow of frightfulness at the beginning of the war. We shall strike a blow of prudence and of justice when the war is far advanced. And it may well be that, to adapt an old saying, he strikes best who strikes last, provided he strikes in time."
It is in this spirit that Uncle Sam is now girding on his armor, and even the most critical will agree that he has entered the arena with characteristic energy. His money for the Allies has already talked to some purpose. His men, his aeroplanes and so on will not be of striking value for some time, but in the long run they also will prove of great service on behalf of the final decision which must and will be attained.

Perhaps Mack Bennett believes in evolution, or maybe he just approves of the use of the law of contrast. Anyhow, in several of his newest Paramount comedies he illustrates certain advance ideas by dressing the men in skirts and the girls—well, wait till you see them!

LIBERAL ORGANS AND COALITION.

For a lengthy period most of the Liberal papers in Canada made a loud outcry on behalf of the need for a coalition government during this war period. Premier Borden made such an offer to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and was turned down. Then he proceeded to open negotiations with other Liberals and now a great many of the self same grit sheets which were clamoring for a Fusion Ministry are seeking to belittle the men whose names are mentioned for inclusion. "Sound choices" is the manner in which the Toronto Globe correspondent at Ottawa speaks of them and other papers of same stripe speak of "Turn Coats" and "Nominal Liberals."

As the Hamilton Herald (Independent) remarks "The conviction deepens that on the part of these newspapers malcontents there was never a genuine desire for union government, but that the demand was made for it for no other purpose than to hamper and worry Borden."

Meanwhile the Western Liberals are still holding out. What they evidently want is not a "win-the-war" government, but one in which they shall have the say so with regard to Tariff charges and a lot of other things with reference to Western demands and to the mischief with the rest of the Dominion. Through it all Borden persists in the course which he has mapped out and in these endeavors he has the sincere endorsement of the men and the women who are not utterly blinded by party.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Y. M. C. A.—You May Come Across and should if you can.
The leaven of discontent is evidently working among the German forces.
The scarcity of coal still continues which is cold comfort for those desiring coal comfort.

The tolls are off the Paris road and their existence should be tolled altogether.
Rev. Mr. Gordon (Ralph Connor) says that he was deeply disappointed on returning to Canada from the front to find that a union government had not been formed in Canada. And the great stumbling block in this regard has been Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

AVIATOR KILLED.
By Courier Leased Wire
Detroit, Oct. 11.—Don McGee, of Saginaw, Mich., a civilian instructor at Selfridge aviation field near Mount Clemens, lost his life in Lake St. Clair yesterday when his airplane plunged into the lake from a height of 3,000 feet. McGee attempted a nose dive, but his machine failed to right itself and plunged in nose first.

VOTE DEFEATED
By Courier Leased Wire
Amsterdam, Oct. 11.—A despatch from Berlin says a motion made by the Independent Socialists in the Reichstag censuring the government and expressing the view that the treatment of the party's interpellation concerning propaganda in the army did not meet with the views of the Reichstag, met with defeat, the Social Democratic parties alone voting for it.

TO CLOSE FOR WAR
By Courier Leased Wire
San Francisco, Oct. 11.—Alaska's placer mines, when they close down for the winter, will not re-open until after the war unless operating expenses are reduced, according to a statement received to-day by F. S. Hamill, a mining man from the Circle City district, who is on his way east to confer with financiers on the situation.
Hamill said placer mining in Alaska at present promises no profit. He laid the cause of this to shortage of labor, increased cost of all supplies and the 8 hour labor law.

CHILD'S ROMPERS.

By Anabel Worthington.
The playtime hours of childhood should be unhampered by such things as fussy clothes, and common sense tells us that a pair of rompers is by far the most comfortable and practical garb that children can wear. The ones shown in No. 8427 are cut with kimono sleeves and there is a tuck over each shoulder to give fullness. Long sleeves gathered into narrow cuffs or simple elbow sleeves may be used. The lower section of the back is left open for a short distance at each side seam, and a belt buttons at each side of the front over the pockets.
The children's rompers, No. 8427, are cut in sizes 1, 3 and 5 years. The 3 year size requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material, with 1/4 yard of 32 inch contrasting goods.
To obtain this pattern send ten cents to the office of this publication.

PARIS LAD IS LAID TO REST

Funeral of Master William Cavan Took Place This Afternoon

WOMEN'S MISSION MET Paris Bible Society To Launch Its Annual Campaign For Funds

Paris, Oct. 11.—(From our own correspondent.)—The funeral of Master William Cavan, who passed away at his parents residence in Detroit on Monday, took place this afternoon from the residence of his uncle, Mr. David Cavan, Oak Bank Farm, Brantford Township, to the family plot in the Paris cemetery. The Rev. J. C. Nicholson conducted the service. Deceased was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cavan, and was born in Paris twelve years ago, but for the past two years had been living in Detroit. He had only been ill a few days with pneumonia, and many friends in town will regret to hear of his early demise. Besides his ailing stricken parents, he leaves three brothers, James, John and Orson of Detroit, to whom the sympathy of the community is extended.
The ladies of the Presbyterian Church held their annual missionary meeting yesterday afternoon. The president, Mrs. McCosh, was in the chair, and introduced Mrs. Hurd of Brantford to the ladies, who gave a most inspiring address on "Mission Work," which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. Miss Stella Beggs favored with a solo, and Miss Young read a very interesting paper on "A Soldier's Thoughts on Foreign Missions." Mrs. Moss presided at the piano.
The thank offering amounted to $50.00. Rev. J. C. Nicholson closed with prayer, and before leaving a hoping that a liberal contribution will be able to carry on their good work. The following collectors have been appointed:

For sometime past boys riding bicycles seem to have gotten into the habit of frequently leaving go of the handle bars. Last evening a lad named Bert Tucker while riding down River street, either lost go of the handle bars or was holding same very loosely, when the front wheel struck a stone throwing Tucker head first into the road. He was found in a semi-conscious condition. Medical aid was obtained and he was taken home. The right side of his head and face were badly bruised and he seemed to be suffering from concussion.
We understand that Mr. Lavell of the Walker press, has been notified to report at Montreal. The same is said to be in connection with military service.

Miss Gertrude Armitage of Toronto has been holidaying with her friend, Miss "Kitty" Adamson.

THE PROMISE

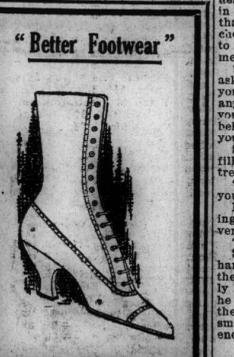

By Frederick Bontel.
A Vivid War Story From the Elements of a Tabloid War Drama.

(The New York Tribune prints this beautiful story by Frederick Bontel. It appeared recently in Le Journal of Paris. The translation is by William L. McPherson. Mr. Bontel has, in a high degree, the art of illuminating little incidents and situations—or filling them with a meaning larger than themselves. The emotional reactions which war inspires on a grand scale are in "The Promise" in miniature. The abnegation of death and the passionate appeal of life and love—these are the two motives whose contrasts dominate every war tragedy.)
The afternoon was wearing on. The shade of a coming storm had deepened the shade of the forest as the soldier who was following the wooded path debouched into a large clearing. He recognized this place, once, remembering the description of it which had been given to him. He covered the house with his eyes, seeking, in haste he crossed the clearing and, as the first drops of rain fell on his forehead, he saw the dust of the path, he knocked at the door, which was promptly opened.
"M. Marry?" he asked.
"Papa is not here; he has gone to town," answered a fresh voice. "But if you wish to see his assistant, he lives only a little distance away."
A young girl had appeared on the doorstep, followed by a huge dog, who growled and whom she told to keep quiet. She seemed to be about sixteen or seventeen years old. In her gray cloth dress she looked tall and well developed. Her clear face showed lines that were still childish; but her eyes were serious, calm, serene. With her hand she brushed from her brow some unruly strands of chestnut hair.
"I wanted to speak first to M. Marry," the soldier stammered.
On seeing her he recoiled involuntarily, and she now gazed at him with astonishment, for he was obviously and justly embarrassed, and that didn't go well with his great height, his vigorous features and his frank and open expression.
"If I could come back again," he murmured. "But that is impossible. I must take my train this evening. She said softly that they did not meet one with whom I must speak."
The young girl had scarcely caught those last words, so violent was "M. Marry" answered a fresh voice, and she now gazed at him with astonishment, for he was obviously and justly embarrassed, and that didn't go well with his great height, his vigorous features and his frank and open expression.
"If I could come back again," he murmured. "But that is impossible. I must take my train this evening. She said softly that they did not meet one with whom I must speak."

"If I could come back again," he murmured. "But that is impossible. I must take my train this evening. She said softly that they did not meet one with whom I must speak."

"Why?" she returned, with a forced smile. "Because I am alone in the world—absolutely alone. I have neither parents, nor relatives, nor fiancée—nobody who cares for me. In short, I am without any personal attachments. And even now there, you know, there are moments when it is hard to have to say that. But I am talking about things which do not interest you."
She said softly that they did not meet one with whom I must speak. The soldier, after a little hesitation, ventured another question.
"Have you a fiancée down there?"
She shook her head and her face reddened. They stood there silent, both under the spell of vague feelings of tenderness, with which mingled the sadness of mourning, evoked by the poor souvenirs which lay on the table between them. The soldier thought confusedly of the death which he had so narrowly escaped, and he had an imperious desire to live and to love, the image in which that desire flowered being that of a budding young girl with chestnut hair. But he did not dare to put his thoughts into words. He merely said:
"I must go. But I should like to ask you to favor before I go. Will you allow me to tell a comrade, if anything happens to me, to send you some things which I shall leave behind? That will not displease you?"
She looked at him, her gray eyes filled with pity and emotion, and, trembling a little, answered:
"You will come back—I am sure you will come back."
Hesitating to read the true meaning of her look and tone, he said very softly:
"I shall come back—here?"
She nodded assent. He took her hand, bent across the table on which the little package lay and awkwardly kissed her on the forehead. Then he went away in the dusk, following the path through the woods which smelt of verdure and freshly moistened earth.

ed to return at once, and I must keep the promise I gave. I came from the front, you know. My name is Jean Vautier, and I was the comrade of the man you know well. Yes—Paul Tullier. He is wounded—gravely very gravely—
"Mour Diez!" he cried. "He is not—Tell me the truth!"
He made no answer, realizing that she understood. He was grieved and annoyed that he should have told his tragic news so abruptly, when he had intended to lead up to it more circumspcctly. Venturing to look at the young girl, he saw that she had turned pale and that her cheeks were wet with tears. But he had a feeling of surprise. There was no trace there of that terrible despair which he had feared to see. He began again, in a low voice:
"I promised him to bring here, if anything should happen to him, some of his effects—as souvenirs. Here they are."
Here they were, when they had placed a little package, tied with a black ribbon.
"Mour Diez! Poor Louise! What a misfortune!" murmured the young girl.
"Louise? You are not Louise?"
"You are not Paul's fiancée?"
"No, no," she answered, shuddering in confusion and anguish. "Louise is my sister. She is twenty years old. They were engaged before the war. I was only fourteen then. Poor Louise! She loved him so much. These last days she has been very uneasy. She had received no letter for a long time. She went to town with papa to try to get some news."
"You are Emilie?" said the soldier. He talked to me about you—
"Yes, I am Emilie," she replied. After a moment of silence he began again, motioning to the package.
"That is for your sister. He said that I must bring it here if anything happened to him. He fell beside me, killed on the spot. As soon as I was able to do so I kept my promise. He was my best comrade, Tullier; for months we were together. When he made me swear to come here he offered to do the same thing for me. I should fall. Only, in my case, it was not worth while."
"Why?" asked Emilie, raising her eyes.
"Why?" she returned, with a forced smile. "Because I am alone in the world—absolutely alone. I have neither parents, nor relatives, nor fiancée—nobody who cares for me. In short, I am without any personal attachments. And even now there, you know, there are moments when it is hard to have to say that. But I am talking about things which do not interest you."
She said softly that they did not meet one with whom I must speak. The soldier, after a little hesitation, ventured another question.
"Have you a fiancée down there?"
She shook her head and her face reddened. They stood there silent, both under the spell of vague feelings of tenderness, with which mingled the sadness of mourning, evoked by the poor souvenirs which lay on the table between them. The soldier thought confusedly of the death which he had so narrowly escaped, and he had an imperious desire to live and to love, the image in which that desire flowered being that of a budding young girl with chestnut hair. But he did not dare to put his thoughts into words. He merely said:
"I must go. But I should like to ask you to favor before I go. Will you allow me to tell a comrade, if anything happens to me, to send you some things which I shall leave behind? That will not displease you?"
She looked at him, her gray eyes filled with pity and emotion, and, trembling a little, answered:
"You will come back—I am sure you will come back."
Hesitating to read the true meaning of her look and tone, he said very softly:
"I shall come back—here?"
She nodded assent. He took her hand, bent across the table on which the little package lay and awkwardly kissed her on the forehead. Then he went away in the dusk, following the path through the woods which smelt of verdure and freshly moistened earth.

THOUGHT BABY COULD NOT LIVE

Doctors Said Chances were Small Because of Severe Stomach Trouble, but Dr. Cassell's Tablets Cured Her.
Mr. Corby, Harrison P.O., Ont., says: "Our little girl was weak from birth, and though we tried doctor's medicine and other things she got no better. She just lay and cried, and neighbors all thought we could not save her. The doctors said she had stomach trouble, and that her chances were small. Yet Dr. Cassell's Tablets cured her. They have been worth their weight in gold to us. I don't think there is any medicine for children like Dr. Cassell's Tablets."
A free sample of Dr. Cassell's Tablets will be sent to you on receipt of 5 cents for mailing and packing. Address Harold F. Ritchie and Co., Ltd., 10 McCaul street, Toronto.

Licensed Wines O.K. at Present

In this city, as in other centres throughout Western Ontario, medicated wine is meeting with a ready sale, and the Ontario License Board is taking the necessary steps to curb this trade.

Local druggists find a ready sale of this variety of medicine, and have been somewhat dubious as to their rights to dispose of it under the Ontario Temperance Act.

It is claimed that under an amendment introduced at Ottawa during the recent session, prosecutions of manufacturers of medicated wines can now be instituted under the Ontario temperance act. The penalties attaching to convictions in these instances are said to be ten to twenty times as severe as those for infractions of the proprietary medicines act, and shut out the privilege of appeal.

Recruiting Committee

Messrs. Spence, Livingston and Slemin to Represent Flying Corps

As the result of the visit to the city yesterday afternoon of Capt. J. P. Beatty and Lieut. P. Arbon, of the Royal Flying Corps, an interviewing committee consisting of His Worship Magistrate Livingston, John Spence, Collector of Customs, and Chief Constable Charles Slemin, was appointed with offices at police headquarters where prospective members of the R. F. C. making application to that unit, may secure the necessary information, and be passed on to Toronto without further delay.

"I regret exceedingly that owing to being engaged as counsel in a case in progress, this telegram did not reach me until half-past five, at which time I was unable to locate the representative of the Flying Corps, inasmuch as I regard that method of warfare as very important, if not the most important, to defeat the Germans and preserve the liberties of the world," stated Mayor Bowby this morning in explanation of the circumstances that prevented him from conferring with the visitors from the Aviation Corps.

The recruiting activities in mind are for young men who wish to become identified with the Cadet Pilot Wing and application forms may be obtained from the police station. This presents a very excellent opportunity for eligible young men between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five, of good high school education to join the senior branch of His Majesty's service.

 By Courier Leased Wire
 London, Oct. 11.—The official statement issued by the British War Office regarding military operations on the battle front in France and Belgium says:

"There was a heavy rain again last night. The enemy's artillery showed considerable activity during the night west of Paschendaele. Otherwise there was nothing of special interest to report."

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

AN UNPUNISHED CRIME STILL UNKNOWN TO TORONTO

An Example of the Tragic Stories That Sometimes Exist Behind Innocent-Looking Little Paragraphs in the City Newspapers.

(By Harry M. Wadson, in Toronto Star Weekly)
 Newspaper items: "Mr. —, well known in financial circles, died suddenly at his home last evening. His body was found on the floor of the library and near the telephone. It is believed by the police that, feeling unwell, the deceased had attempted to ring for a doctor. After investigation the coroner decided that an inquest was unnecessary, death being due to heart failure."

Tragic stories often lie behind innocent looking paragraphs in the newspapers—stories whose chapters never see the light of day, because they lack that overt act which would bring their principals within the clutches of the law. One of these, now many years old, is still fresh to memory. Philip X., a heartless schemer with a vicious hunger for money, received word that his rich bachelor brother, with whom he had quarrelled and to whom he had not spoken for twenty years, was dying. Suspecting that his brother's sole companion, an aged housekeeper, would probably inherit her employer's money, X. decided to use his daughter, Marion, a pretty girl of eighteen years, as peacemaker.

With this end in view, X. ordered his wife to take the girl to the bedside of the dying man and if possible to win him over. Unable to alter her husband's plans, Mrs. X. took Marion to the home of the uncle and together they quickly supplanted the housekeeper. Unsuspecting Marion soon won her way into the heart of the dying man, who, before passing away, altered his will, bequeathing all his wealth to his niece and her extravagant brother, Walter, two years her senior, the money not to be touched, however, until Marion should reach the age of 21.

A Young Girl's Fate
 On learning the contents of the will X. vented his spleen upon Marion, whose age he regarded as a gap between the family and his brother's wealth. Daily the father subjected the unfortunate girl to insult and taunt, but the persecution was borne in silence. Brother Walter, an obstinate, dictatorial young chap, followed his father's estimable example and added more weight to his sister's money-lender so much he turned her adrift. She then went back to her aunt's home.

Later, and this was the stage at which the police received their first intimation of what was happening within fifteen minutes walk of the City Hall, the brother visited the home of his brother-in-law and was promptly threatened with arrest for forgery. A scout took place near the telephone and the old usurer fell to the floor. Walter, startled to find that his sister's husband had apparently died of heart failure, exhibited his high moral principles by cleaning out the safe. As the police found no trace of violence and knew nothing of the events which had led to the "occurrence," they closed the affair in the usual official manner, the coroner having decided that death was due to natural causes. The law having first played entirely into the hands of the villains of the piece now assumed the role of friend to the victim whose husband's intestacy entitled her to one-third of his wealth.

TOLLS ARE REMOVED

On Saturday of last week the tolls were removed from the Paris and Brantford toll road, by a Government inspector sent here to investigate the circumstances. Complaint had been made to the Highways Department from various sources regarding the condition of the road, and when the inspector made an investigation of the complaints he found them well founded with the result that the tolls were removed for two months, at the end of which time they may be restored if the road has been sufficiently improved.

At the last meeting of the County Council in the summer months, a committee consisting of Messrs. R. Greenwood, chairman, J. B. Seace, Jas. Scott, A. Creighton, and Walter A. B. Rose was appointed to look into the question of the toll roads in the county and a report of what has been accomplished was submitted at this afternoon's session of the County Council. The people of Paris have been only too willing to co-operate in any way that will result in the abolishment of the tolls. The road is the property of the Patton Estate, of which David Patton, a farmer residing in the vicinity of Paris, is manager. He has expressed a willingness to discontinue the tolls, but what will be done in this connection has not yet been determined.

Aches and Pains of rheumatism are not permanent, but only temporarily relieved by external remedies. Why not use an internal remedy—Horn's Sarsaparilla, which corrects the acidity of the blood, which rheumatism depends and cures the disease?

COUNTY COUNCIL

The next step necessary in the development of the county good roads system, was taken at yesterday afternoon's meeting of the County Council when a resolution was passed requesting the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council to direct under the Highways Improvement Act of 1915 that a commission be selected to govern the administration of the system. This commission will consist of three members, one recommended by the city, another by the county, and the third selected to act as chairman. The duties of the commission will be to designate and define the suburban roads or portions thereof on the county system towards the construction and maintenance of which the City of Brantford shall contribute.

In appreciation of the services that the Y.M.C.A. had rendered to the men who have enlisted in the present war, a grant of $100 was made to the local institution in its campaign toward removing the debt from the building.

The balance of the afternoon was devoted to the reports of various committees.

The Buildings and Grounds Committee reported that the work of redecorating Judge Hardy's chambers and Mr. Hollirakke's office had been completed satisfactorily. The repairs in the Governor's residence has also been done to his satisfaction.

The brick work under the boilers in the County building has been repaired and grate bars lowered in accordance with the inspector's recommendation.

Jail Supplies.
 The chairman of the committee on jail supplies reported that the clerk called for tenders for groceries, meat and bread required at the county jail, commencing October 1st, 1917.

For meat, the only tender received was from Mr. Alfred Livingston who has been supplying meat to the jail for a number of years. This tender was to supply shanks at 45c each and meat for 15c per pound. These prices were considered satisfactory at the present time. Mr. Livingston was given the tender. Two tenders for the bread supply were received and the contract was awarded to E. Hammond at 8 cents per one and a half-pound loaf.

FOE REPULSED ON THE CARSO

Repeated and Violent Attacks by Austrians All Driven Back.

Rome, Oct. 10.—The official report from Italian Headquarters to-day reads:

"Yesterday between the Adige and the Brenta, and on the Bainsizza Plateau, there were lively artillery duels. East of Gorizia the activity of reconnoitring parties was noticeable. An enemy patrol was captured."

"On the Carso Monday evening by repeated attacks, preceded by intense concentrations of gun-fire, enemy storm troops attempted to gain ground in the Castagnavizza area. Furious fighting followed, but our positions were all firmly maintained, and the enemy was repulsed with losses."

"Yesterday evening between Vipacco and Castagnavizza violent destructive fire began by the enemy, which had the character of artillery preparation was promptly crushed by our batteries. Numerous strong parties, which afterwards attacked our positions in that sector, were driven back with heavy losses."

London, Oct. 10.—British merchant vessels of 1,600 tons sunk by mine or submarine in the past week number fourteen, according to the official statement of the British Admiralty to-night. Two vessels under 1,600 tons and three sailing vessels also were sunk.

The summary: arrivals, 2,519; sailings, 2,632. British merchant vessels over 1,600 tons sunk by mine or submarine, including one previously sunk, three. British vessels unsuccessfully attacked including three one previously, two. Fishing vessels previously, five.

The above report shows an increase of three vessels of more than 1,600 tons over the Admiralty's weekly report of last week, but the figures are the same as those of the previous week with regard to vessels in the smaller category.

Von Tirpitz Denies.

GIANTS RALLIED; TOOK THIRD GAME

Turned Tables on White Sox Yesterday By Decisive 2-0 Score—Benton Was a Puzzle To American League Champions

New York, Oct. 11.—Cheered on by thousands of loyal rooters, the New York Nationals turned desperately upon the Chicago Americans in the third game of the world's series here yesterday and shut out their inter-league rivals by 2 to 0. It was an entirely different appearing team that faced the White Sox at the Polo Grounds. For the first time since the present struggle for titular baseball honors began the Giants fought and won both victory and the breaks of the game.

As was the case in the initial contest in Chicago, the struggle developed into a pitchers' battle, but yesterday it was Eddie Cicotte who was forced to bow before the prowess of the opposing hurler and the sweeping bats of the Giants. Pitted against "Rube" Benton, the star of the White Sox hurling staff, Cicotte was as skillful as he in delivery, as crafty in generalship, and who refused to allow Cicotte's team mates the visitors reached first, five on hits and one on a fielder's choice, and of these only two saw second base.

One Inning Did Trick

Behind Benton, the Giants played with a dash and brilliancy which were completely missing in their preceding games. Despite Cicotte's fine control and deceptive curves, they smashed into the delivery of the White Sox pitching star in the fourth inning and hammered out the two runs which spelled victory and restored their confidence for the contests to come. After the game, the Nationals expressed the belief that they would be able to repeat to-morrow and start westward Thursday night on even terms with their American League opponents for the fifth game of the series set for Saturday in Chicago.

Among the fans last night the name of Davis Robertson is praised in equal proportions with that of Rube Benton. Between them these two diamond combatants brought about the downfall of the Chicago break in the series of defeats was none too bright.

For three and a half innings the opposing boxmen had proved invincible, and the thirty odd thousand fans present were settling down for a hurrying duel when Robertson sprang into the calcium glare of fame. He ended the White Sox fourth inning attempt to penetrate the pitching of Benton with a great running catch of Gandil's long, sizzling drive to right field when he hurried himself against the concrete wall of the grandstand and plucked the ball with one hand just as it was about to strike the wall. Had he missed the catch Gandil's smash would have gone for at least a two base hit.

REVOLT ON GERMAN WARSHIPS PUT DOWN WITH SEVERITY

Papers Found on Marines at Wilhelmshaven Said to Have Shown Conspiracy With Independent Radicals of Germany—Many Men Pay Death Penalty

(Canadian Press Despatches) London, Oct. 11.—A revolutionary outbreak on German warships at Wilhelmshaven about six weeks ago is reported in a Central News despatch from Copenhagen. This uprising is said to have had all the elements of a widespread and organized revolt, and to have been suppressed only with the greatest difficulty. Several mutinous outbreaks also are reported to have occurred among soldiers at the front. These were not of such a grave character, the despatch says.

Not Unjust Punishments. A Reuter despatch from Amsterdam says advice received there from Berlin as to the effect that Chancellor Michaelis declared the punishments inflicted on the men at Wilhelmshaven were not unjust, papers found on them indicating that they had bound themselves to recognize the principles of the Independent Socialists, and proving that they had carried on an extensive agitation in the fleet. The Chancellor is reported to have decided that the independent Socialists belonged to a party in which he could place his confidence, as they were endangering the State.

The punishments meted out to the men, he said, had to be severe, as everything was at stake in a critical moment.

A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Copenhagen says that after the statement of Admiral von Capelle in the Reichstag concerning the naval plot, Deputies Dittmann, Haase and Vogther denied the correctness of his assertion. They had conferred with the sailors, they said, but no such plan as Admiral von Capelle alleged was submitted and received their approval. They added that the Admiral aimed at forming a coalition against the Socialists.

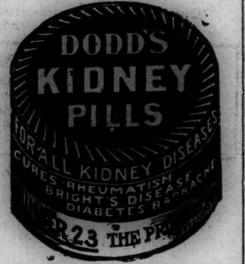

A despatch to the Central News from Amsterdam says that at the conclusion of Admiral von Capelle's statement in the Reichstag on the mutiny in the German navy there were scenes of a most disorderly character, the shouts from the other Deputies being heard loud above the furious interruptions of the Socialists.

ST. GEORGE POST-MASTER TELLS FACTS

Says His Wife's Like a New Person Since Taking Tanlac

Probably no higher endorsement of a proprietary medicine could be given than that of C. P. Keefer, postmaster at St. George, while at the Robertson drug store Saturday in talking to the Tanlac representative about the recovery of his wife's health. Mr. and Mrs. Keefer had four bottles of Tanlac in their auto. While Mrs. Keefer was doing shopping, Mr. Keefer entered the drug store and called for his fifth bottle of Tanlac. To the Tanlac man he said: "This medicine has made a new woman of my wife, and you can't imagine how grateful we feel over her recovery. One or two more bottles will complete her recovery as she already has taken four bottles and her improved condition in every way is the talk of our neighborhood."

"For several years," continued Mr. Keefer, "my wife suffered with persistent indigestion. At times her food would ferment and she would spit it up and suffer for hours in the pit of her stomach. Then bilious attacks would come on, accompanied by severe headaches. She was nervous nearly all the time and during nights would frequently wake up feeling miserable and depressed with a bloated condition. "She seemed to get no nourishment from what she ate and generally had a tired, draggy feeling through the day. She had little energy or ambition and nothing, not even her household duties, seemed to interest her."

"Mrs. Keefer was so nervous at times that the least noise would startle and disturb her, and her rest and sleep was often broken up. She suffered much with severe pains in her back, side and shoulders. She fell off in weight and the decline in her health alarmed me and her relatives and friends. I hardly knew what to do for her as she had almost all kinds of medicine and treatments and nothing seemed to help her."

"Finally we began reading about Tanlac and concluded to try it and it has been worth its weight in gold. Mrs. Keefer is now a different person. She retains her food and that bloated condition has disappeared. Those bilious attacks are less frequent, her color is better, her appetite is fine and she sleeps now like a child. She is no longer nervous, has regained her strength, is not bothered any more with headaches and those pains in her shoulders and back have also disappeared."

A.F. CLASS MET IN Y.M.C.A. HALL

Unique Gathering of Former Baptists of City Now Overseas

The following interesting letter has been received by the Rev. L. Brown: My Dear Pastor: We had a rather unique little gathering of the old members of the A.F. class now in this camp, the other night, and I thought you would be interested to know of same. We made arrangements with the Y. M. C. A. officers in charge of one of our huts, and he prepared a nice little supper, in fact the boys said it reminded them of one of the old A.F. banquets.

These present were the following: Sig. A. Brigham, Corporal Lloyd Schram, Clarence Parsons, Almer Peirce and Bert Spencer, Lieut. Jack Orr and yours truly. We spent a very profitable evening chatting over the old times, and I can assure you that many incidents which happened in the old First Baptist Sunday school were recalled. We were fortunate in having with us Capt. Bert Spencer, who was home on leave from France, and we were more delighted still to know that he had received the Military Medal for conspicuous bravery. Bert looks fine after two years and four months in France. I enclose herewith a copy of report giving particulars re the decoration, and I am quite sure he will not be the only one to be thus decorated before this terrible war is completed.

Most of the boys still carry with them their class pin, and I feel quite sure have really endeavored to sustain its motto, that is, "Always faithful." You can imagine how greatly I appreciate this opportunity of again touching the lives of these brave lads, and my heartfelt prayer is that I may have the opportunity of going back with them to France. I like to think that it is part of God's plan in my life in thus bringing me back from France, which made it possible for me to meet these boys. There is hardly a night in the week that one or more of these lads do not drop in my office, and at such times we love to discuss the latest news from home. As I have repeatedly said to you, and I wish you to pass it on to the parents of these boys, that if at any time I can in any way be of assistance, I wish them to use me.

We were discussing the other night the possibility of the A. F.'s being reorganized after the war. Who knows but that I may once more have the opportunity of again leading this group, now grown to be young men in Bible study in the old school.

I had a very interesting evening the other night when I had the privilege of meeting Mrs. Holman Bentley, widow of the late Baptist minister in the Congo. She is one of the most brilliant women I have ever met, and although advanced in years still retains a keen intellect and sparkling personality. I had the pleasure of looking over the biography of her husband, of which she was the authoress. She has also written a number of other books for the Congo, having translated French into Congo, compiled a Congo arithmetic, grammar and music. As you doubtless are aware, her husband spent many years translating the Congo language into English. She told me that she spent 19 years in the heart of Africa, and is looking forward with very pleasant memories to visits to this very interesting home. Well, I must not consume any more of your very valuable time, but close with kind regards to you and yours. I am, as ever, Most cordially yours, WILL H. PEIRCE.

TRADES AND LABOR ENDORSES BYLAW

Urges Property Owners To Vote Favorably On Fuel and Food Question

Five members of the Trades and Labor Council gathered around a table in the Labor Temple, and held a chatty little informal meeting last night. President Stinchcombe, Financial Secretary Albert G. Brown, Recording Secretary George Keen, and Delegate Moreau. Delegate Keen pointed out that the city fathers on Monday night adopted the recommendation of the T. and L. council, that the fuel referendum be voted on before the 1st of January, and pointed out that the only opposition that could be expected was from the property owners. The following letter from the Fuel Controller was read, and was followed by a general discussion of the fuel situation.

Office of the Fuel Controller for Canada, Ottawa, Oct. 9th, 1917. Attention George Keen, Corresponding Secretary. Dear Sir,—I have your letter of October 4th, relative to the coal situation in your city, and enclosing copy of resolution passed by the Brantford Trades and Labor Council. In reply, I may inform you that definite regulations are now being drafted for submission to His Excellency, the Governor General, dealing with the whole question of retail and wholesale prices of coal, and providing definite machinery for administering its provisions. It is hoped that these regulations may be promulgated and become law within a very few days.

Yours faithfully, CHAS. W. PETERSON, Deputy Fuel Controller. Brantford Trades and Labor Council. The consensus of opinion was to the effect that the principle of the fuel referendum was one which the workmen of the city should support and the following motion to that effect was unanimously passed, all five councillors voting yeo.

The discussion culminated in the passing of the following resolution, moved by Secretary Brown and seconded by Corresponding Secretary George Keen: "That this Council go on record as endorsing the fuel by-law and strongly urge that all property owners support the same as being in the best interests of the citizens. The agitation now being promoted in certain quarters of the city for one-half holiday each week for the girls who work in the stores was referred to by Corresponding Secretary Keen, who thought that the claim of the girls was unjust one. A resolution to this effect was passed.

Representation in Y.M.C.A.

That there was no representation of the working men on the Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A. was called to mind by Delegate Kite. It was pointed out that the institution has frequently appealed to the workmen for support and that in the personnel of the board not one workman was included. Delegate Keen expressed the opinion that if workmen would engage in Y.M.C.A. and undertake the responsibility they would have as much an opportunity as any other class to become members of the board.

KORNILOFF JUSTIFIED BY RECENT LIGHTS ON SITUATION

Commander-in-Chief Merely Intended His Revolt To Crush Threatened Uprising Of Bolsheviks For a Separate Peace

London, Thursday, Oct. 11.—The Times says: Accounts of the Korniloff movement hitherto have been entirely one-sided. No word has reached this country except through channels under control of Petrograd. We are able to place before our readers an interesting document, namely the order of the day to the army on Sept. 16, which gives Korniloff's version of some events attended with the movement.

In this document Korniloff gives his reply to most, if not all, the charges that have been brought against him. Unfortunately for him and his supporters, this order of the day and most of the other appeals sent by him to the army and people never reached their destination. The Bolsheviks and their allies isolated him from his friends and misinformed the army of the intentions of their commander-in-chief.

When Korniloff realized that he had been betrayed and could no longer help the country he surrendered himself to Kerensky, with whom he had been willing to loyally co-operate in the country's cause. He is still a prisoner, but his well-intentioned efforts have not been all in vain. The formation of a coalition cabinet on the lines set forth by him may be regarded as an indirect result of his movement.

Plot to Make Shameful Peace.

Extracts from Korniloff's order follow: "I have submitted to the Provisional Government conditions which are regarded as indispensable to the salvation of the army. Among these measures was the introduction of the death penalty for the rear."

"Time was precious. Every day lost threatened us with dire consequences, yet the Provisional Government could not decide, on the one hand, to carry my proposals into effect, and, on the other, permitting them to be subjected to criticism in the newspapers and various organizations. Simultaneously, with a view to achieving the final disruption of the army, a campaign was begun against the representatives of the high command.

"According to authentic information, preparations were being made at that time for an armed uprising of the Bolsheviks in Petrograd. There was clear indication that they intended to seize the Government if only for a few days in order to proclaim an armistice and take decisive and irrevocable steps for the conclusion of a shameful separate peace, and therefore destroy the issue.

"That such intention on the part of the Bolsheviks and certain irresponsible organizations was probable appeared from the fact, which was proved beyond all doubt, that among them were many traitors and spies working for the benefit of Germany for German money.

"Seeing the weakness of the Provisional Government and their lack of decision to take energetic measures against the persons and organizations who were clearly leading to forestall the catastrophe, I decided to concentrate four cavalry divisions at Petrograd, so should the Bolshevik uprising take place, it might be crushed in a most decisive and prompt manner, as it was necessary to make an end at once to all criminal activity of traitors in the rear.

There are certain diseases of the mind for which there is no treatment so powerful as homeopathic treatment. And chief among these is an overdevelopment of the habit of bluntness.

We all know the type of person who thinks himself on his bluntness. He doesn't believe in fact. He thinks it's difficult. And he is so bluntness. He says exactly what he means. (Strange he should so often mean something disagreeable.)

He tells you that your new gown is unbecoming, that you are looking very tired, that you should have faced your house in the opposite direction, that he wouldn't give house room to the kind of electric fixtures you have bought, that you are looking twice as large as those you pride yourself on, etc., etc.

He thinks he tells the whole truth. Doubtless if you asked this man why he didn't tell the whole truth as well as the truth, he would inflame his chest and tell you that is exactly what he aims to do.

But it is exactly what he doesn't do.

For every disagreeable truth there is usually some compensating pleasant truth. Your new gown may not be becoming but it is beautiful, material and smart style. Your electric fixtures may not be to his taste but they may be excellent of their kind. Why is it any more truthful to say the disagreeable than the agreeable bluntness? The size of the bluntness is the size of the dose of the homeopathic treatment.

SIDE STAKES

Your patient has the disease of too much bluntness. The homeopathic theory is that like cures like. So treat him with a similar bluntness. Be as frank with him as he is with you. There are things about him that don't wholly suit you. Bring them to his attention. Don't do it just after he has got under your skin with one of his disagreeable truths, else he will think you are merely resentful. Do it in the same matter of fact way that he does. (And don't be homeopathic in the size of your doses.)

Thin Skins Go With Blunt Tongues.

Doubtless he will set him thinking. Theoretically he should appreciate frankness in others. Actually people who are so frank cannot seem to stand frankness at all. Bluntness, and thin skins appear to go together.

If he has the stuff in him, this dose of yours will set him thinking. He may begin to see why frankness is not always the best thing in the world.

If he hasn't the stuff in him it will simply make him sore on you. He may cut you from his list of friends. But to quote a wise honored phrase, "you should worry."

GUY BROTHERS.

A Buffalo paper says: Guy Brothers' minstrel opens a three nights' engagement at the Grand last night to an audience which applauded the theatre, and judging from the laughter and applause the performance gave the best satisfaction. The first part in which numerous ballads and comic songs are rendered is interspersed by jokes from four funny end men. The songs are generally new and nicely sung. The drum major act of Fred Smith is an artistic feature of this portion of the performance. The olio introduces a number of taking specialties. The performance concludes with a funny afterpiece entitled "The Spy" in which the entire company joins in the merry making. Guy Brothers come to the Grand October 15th.

Ford Car Containing Five Men Struck on Galt Crossing

TWO VICTIMS DEAD

Two Others Badly Injured Are in Galt Hospital

Galt, Oct. 10.—When Grand Trunk passenger train No. 182 from Guelph this afternoon ran into a Ford car containing five men, just starting on their way for Rockton Fall Fair, two were killed and the other three were injured. The dead are Charles Winters and Douglas Houghton, of Hepler Road. Both met instant death. Arthur, brother of Douglas Houghton, sustained injuries to his legs and a fracture of the skull. Elmer, son of Charles Winters, sustained injuries to his head, and James Laroque, who came from the West last night, with Douglas Houghton, who had been harvesting, was not seriously hurt. The injured were removed to Galt Hospital. Coroner Dr. Dakin has ordered an inquest to be opened tomorrow morning. Both of the dead men resided near the city limits, and were well known. Houghton was single, but Winters leaves a widow, five sons and three daughters. Charles Winters, owner of the car, was at the wheel and apparently did not see the approaching train. The motor hit the car squarely and smashed it to pieces.

By Anabel Worthington.

A very small amount of material will be sufficient to make this distinctive little dress, No. 8431. The waist is quite plain and has tabs shaped like scallops at intervals, and these button to the skirt over the belt. The dress may be made so that it opens all the way down the front. The skirt is in three pieces and is without fullness at the waistline. The shape of the good looking collar harmonizes with the general design. Either long sleeves gathered into cuffs or elbow sleeves may be used.

The pattern is cut in sizes 4 to 10 years. To make the 8 year size requires 2 3/4 yard of 36 inch material, with 3/4 yard 18 inch contrasting goods.

To obtain this pattern send ten cents to the office of this publication.

Good Night Stories

LINDA AND SQUEEDEE

Linda sat under the cherry tree with a basket of rags, trying to patch up a dress for Lady Jane Grey, her old rag doll.

"Oh I wish you had a silk dress like other little girls' dolls," said Linda, "I don't like you in that faded gingham dress."

Lady Jane Grey never answered, but sat sadly watching her little mistress.

"Wouldn't you love to have a purple gown with a silver lining in it, just like that beautiful cloud up yonder?" cried Linda, pointing to the cloud that hung over the top of the hills. "I'm sure I'd love you, a hundred times better, for you'd not look like a plain old rag doll then."

"Hello, there, Linda!" cried a cheery voice, and Linda saw her little friend Squeedee standing near.

"So you think a fine dress on Lady Jane Grey would make a fine doll for her?" Squeedee asked.

"Where can we find one?" asked Linda.

"That's easy," answered Squeedee. "I'll run on my way to Twilight Town and I'll take you both with me if you'd like to go."

Linda nodded, and taking the rag doll in her arms, she caught hold of Squeedee's hand and away they sailed, up, up into the air, right through the beautiful cloud into Twilight Town.

The fairies were busy sewing the lovely lining on the gaily colored clouds, and they looked so brilliant like the stars in the night sky.

"And so I planted peas, my beans, uprooted all my lilies, and raised a thousand tons of greens, and now I have the willies. For no one seems to want the truck I raised with so much ardor; no man will buy a single bush to fill with his ladder. My neighbors all have done the same, great piles of fodder growing; the wise guys steered them to the same, just as they set me going. No nation comes to buy my sass, no king or queen has rubbedered and priced my peas or sparrows, my squashes, plain or Hubbard. So I lament, my rocs dried, my cup of sorrow drinking; next year the nations will be fed by someone else, I'm thinking."

Courier Daily Recipe Column

Spiced Pears.

One peck of pears, 5 cloves in each pear, boil soft, turning them, as you would potatoes.

Syrup.

One quart vinegar, 1 pint water, 1 cup sugar, 1/2 lb. butter, pour over the pears and let them stand in the jar. Let them get cold before they are covered.

Spiced Peaches.

Cover 5 medium sized pears with water, adding 1/2 ounce of sugar for each pint of water, cook in a slow oven until done. When cold, remove the pears, and add 1/2 cup of sugar, 1/2 cup of vinegar, 1/2 cup of water, 1/2 cup of raisins, 1/2 cup of currants, 1/2 cup of prunes, 1/2 cup of figs, 1/2 cup of dates, cut into small pieces and 18 English walnuts, broken into halves. Pour into a wet mould, let harden on ice and serve with whipped cream.

Apple Frosting.

One cup sugar, white of 1 egg 2 good sized apples, grated beat all together 15 minutes.

Rippling Rhymes

Last spring wise people came around and said it was my duty to put to spuds my garden ground, to forego the sowing of flowers, and to plant only peas and other wholesome things, not columbines and things like that, to feed the nation. I was told that I should plant peas, my beans, uprooted all my lilies, and raised a thousand tons of greens, and now I have the willies. For no one seems to want the truck I raised with so much ardor; no man will buy a single bush to fill with his ladder. My neighbors all have done the same, great piles of fodder growing; the wise guys steered them to the same, just as they set me going. No nation comes to buy my sass, no king or queen has rubbedered and priced my peas or sparrows, my squashes, plain or Hubbard. So I lament, my rocs dried, my cup of sorrow drinking; next year the nations will be fed by someone else, I'm thinking."

RUM COMMANDERED.

London, Oct. 10.—Beginning today, rum will be the only beverage that will be allowed in the United Kingdom. No one owning a license to sell spirits, without the consent of the Admiralty, may sell, remove or otherwise deal in it.

USE STEAM IF POSSIBLE.

By Courier Leased Wire

Toronto, Oct. 10.—Regarding the increasing shortage of electric power in Ontario, Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, stated this morning that some of the municipalities having steam plants would shortly be notified that they must shut down their hydro. A meeting of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Union has been called for Tuesday next to consider this and other matters.

Filmlets.

George Hill, the genius of the motion picture who, without the aid of an assistant, photographed every scene of "Polly of the Circus," starring Mae Marsh went for days with even less sleep than Thomas A. Edison demands.

Something had to be devised to keep him awake as he turned his camera crank, and Studio Manager Kennedy hit upon a graphophone. Fifty records were provided, mostly of the lively jazz band variety, and they were played continuously, when almost started for sleep, he was detected in an attempt to smuggle in a record of his own. This proved upon investigation to be that undying classic, "Please Go Way and Let Me Sleep."

Sessue Hayakawa. Paramount's famous Japanese actor, who made four false starts on his six weeks' vacation and each time has been called back for a retake. Finally he began to think he was being "kidded" and announced that before he would do another retake he would have to see the bad place in the film.

Al St. John, because he is supporting Rosemary "Patty" Arbuckle in Paramount Arbutle comedies, believes he is entitled to a medal for bravery. Those who doubt his claims are referred to "Oh, Doctor!" the latest film from this fun factory.

TORONTO CITIZEN FINALLY CLEARED

Remarkable Confusion of Identity Cost Victim a Fortune

ARRESTED AS FORGER

Mr. MacCauley Required 9 Months to Establish His Innocence

Toronto, Oct. 10.—After a nine-month legal fight costing him many thousands of dollars and bringing upon him notoriety of the most undesirable kind, Alexander F. MacCauley, well-known in Toronto mining circles, has finally cleared himself before the eyes of the United States authorities of almost innumerable forgery charges and established to the satisfaction of the police that he is not "Christmas Keough, a forger of unusual ability and success."

The case stands out as one of the most remarkable in the history of the New York courts. It was made possible by a resemblance between

GIRLS! MOISTEN A CLOTH AND DRAW IT THROUGH HAIR

It Becomes Beautiful Soft, Wavy, Abundant and Glossy at Once

Save Your Hair! All Dandruff Goes and Hair Stops Coming Out

Surely try a "Dandarine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Dandarine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Dandarine dissolves every particle of dandruff, invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Dandarine is to the hair what showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its oxidizing, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong, and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25-cent bottle of "Dandarine" from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

Save your hair! Keep it looking charming and beautiful. You will say this was the best 25 cents you ever spent.

the Toronto man and the forger, and its outcome was what it is only because Mr. MacCauley had the resources to fight what seemed to be a perfect case against him and to retaliate by sheer weight of numbers of Toronto as to his identity, the numerous depositions by storekeepers in several parts of the United States in which he was asserted to be "Christmas Keough, and the man who had victimized them by forged travelers' cheques, which were almost always drawn upon a Toronto bank.

He went about that business, having committed himself to it, in a most businesslike fashion; he kissed (as he would have said) for keeps, kissed her lips hungrily, ardently, and most thoroughly; he had been wanting for a long time, and now that his time was come he made the most of it.

She was at first too stunned and shocked to resist. And for another moment a curious medley of emotions kept her inert in his arms, of which the most coherent was a lunatic notion that she, too, had been wanting just this to happen, just this way, for the longest time. And when at length she remembered and felt her anger mounting and was ready to struggle, he disappointedly set her down upon her feet.

"There!" he said with satisfaction. "Now that's settled—and a good job, too!"

She turned on him furiously. "How dared you—"

"Didn't I deserve it, catching you the way I did?" he asked, opening his eyes in mock wonder at her.

"And didn't you deserve it for being so silly as to try anything like that?" He jerked his head toward that window. "What on earth possessed you—"

"Don't you know? Don't you understand?" she stormed. "I've been accused of stealing Mrs. Gosnold's jewels—locked up. You knew that surely!"

"What an infernal outrage!" he cried indignantly. "No, I didn't know. How would I? I—he faltered—"I've been having troubles of my own."

That drove in like a knife-thrust the memory of the scene in the garden with Mrs. Artemas. The girl recoiled from him as from something indescribably loathsome.

"Oh!" she cried in disgust, "you are too contemptible!"

A third voice cut short his retort, a hall from above. "Hello, down there!"

With a start Sally looked up. Her window was alight again, and somebody was leaning head and shoulders out.

"Hello, I say! Is that the Manwaring woman? Stop her; she's escaping arrest!"

Trego barred the way to the garden; and that was as well (she thought in a flash) for now the only hope for her was to lose herself temporarily in the shadows of the shrubbery.

The thought of the trees that stood between the grounds and the highway was vaguely in her mind with its invitation to shelter when she turned and darted like a hunted rabbit around the corner of the house.

Before Trego regained sight of her she was on the landward lawn; crossing them like the shadow of a wind-swept cloud, she darted into the obscurity of the trees and vanished.

And Mr. Trego, observing Mr. Lytleton emerge from under the portecochere and start in pursuit, paused long enough deftly to trip up that gentleman and send him sprawling with all the good-will imaginable.

Frantic with fright, her being wholly obsessed with the one thought of escape, Sally flew on down the drive until, on the point of leaving the grounds by the gate to the highway, she pulled up her skirts and jumped back in the nick of time to avoid disaster beneath the wheels of a motor-car that was swinging inward at a reckless pace.

Involuntarily she threw a forearm across her eyes to shield them from the blinding glare of the head-lamps. In spite of this she was recognized and heard Mrs. Gosnold's startled voice crying out: "Miss Manwaring! Stop! Stop, I say!"

With grinding brakes the car lurched to a sudden halt.

Weak, spent, and weary, the girl made no effort to consummate her escape, realizing that it had been a forlorn hope at best.

CHAPTER XVII.

Expose

Some little time later there filed into the boudoir of the hostess of Gosnold House a small but select troupe of strangely various temper.

Mrs. Gosnold herself led the way, a portentous countenance matching well her tread of inexorable purpose, but in odd contrast to the demure frivolity of the Quaker Girl costume she still wore.

Sally followed, nervously sullen of bearing toward all save her employer.

Mr. Walter Arden Savage came next, but at a respectful distance, a very hang-dog Harlequin indeed, a cigarette drooping disconsolately from the corner of his mouth.

At the door, he stood aside to give precedence to his sister, no longer Columbine, but a profoundly distressed and apprehensive blond person in a particularly fetching negligee.

Miss Pride alone wore her accustomed mien—of sprightly spinsterhood—unruffled.

Mr. Lytleton was almost too much at ease; Mr. Mason was exceedingly dubious; Mr. Trego, was, for him, almost abnormally grave.

This last, bringing up the rear of the procession, closed the hall door at a sign from Mrs. Gosnold. The company found seats conspicuously apart, with the exception of Mrs. Standish and Savage, likewise Mercedes, who stuck to her dear Abigail as per invariable custom. Sally, on her part, found an aloof corner, where she could observe without being readily observed.

"So," said Mrs. Gosnold, taking her place beside the desk and raking the gathering with a forbidding eye. "Now, if you will all be good enough to humor me without interruption, I have some announcements to make, some news to impart, and perhaps a question or two to ask. It's late, and I'm tired and short of temper, so you needn't be afraid I shan't make the proceedings as brief as possible. But there are certain matters that must be settled before we go to bed to-night."

She managed a dramatic pause very effectively, and then: "I've been kidnapped," she announced. Murmurs of astonishment rewarded her. She smiled grimly. "Kidnapped," she iterated with a sort of ferocious relish. "At my age, I don't wonder you're surprised. I was. So were my kidnappers, when they found out who I was. For, of course, it was a mistake. They were conventional kidnapers, with not an ounce of originality to bless themselves with, so naturally they had meant to kidnap a good-looking youngster—Miss Manwaring, in fact."

She nodded vigorous affirmation of the statement. "So I'm told, at least; so Walter tells me; and he ought to know, he claims to have been the moving spirit in the affair. When he found out his mistake, of course, he posted off after me to rectify the hideous error, and arrived just in time to effect a dramatic rescue. And then he had to confess."

"The whole business," she went on, "from beginning to end, was very simple, childishly simple. In fact, ridiculous. And sickening. You're not going Adele?" she interrupted herself as Mrs. Standish rose.

Without answer her niece moved haughtily toward the door. Mrs. Gosnold nodded to Trego.

"Oh, yes, let her go. I'm sure I've no more use for her. But half a minute, Adele; the car will be ready to take you and Walter to the nine-thirty boat to-morrow morning."

There was no answer. The door closed behind Mrs. Standish, and her aunt calmly continued:

"It seems that Adele's notorious extravagance got her into hot water shortly after she divorced Standish and had only her private means to support her insane passion for clothes and ostentation in general. She went to money-lenders—usurers, in fact. And, of course, that only made it worse. Then Walter, who has never been overscrupulous, conceived the brilliant notion of squaring everything up for a new start by swindling the burglar-insurance people. Adele has always carried heavy insurance on her jewelry—albeit the only sensible habit she ever contracted. And so they conspired like the two near-sighted idiots they were."

"On the afternoon of the day they were to start for the island, they gave all the servants a night off, and contrived to miss connection with the Sound steamer. Then they went to the Biltmore for dinner, and when it was dark Walter sneaked back home to burglarize the safe. I understand he made a very amateurish job of it. Into the bargain, he was observed. It seems that the servants had carelessly left the scuttle open to the roof, and Miss Manwaring, caught there in a thunderstorm, had taken shelter in the house—which was quite the natural thing, and no blame to her. In addition, a real burglar presently mimicked his way in, caught Walter in the act of rifling his own safe, and forthwith assaulted him. Walter and the jewels were only saved by the intervention of Miss Manwaring, who very bravely pointed a pistol at the real burglar's head, and then having aided Walter to turn the tables, ran away. So far, good; Walter booted the burglar out of the house, loaded up with the jewels, and left to rejoin Adele. But fate would have it that he should meet Miss Manwaring again in the Grand Central Station." (Continued in Friday's Issue).

To Serve You-Sons of Canada

---and to serve your comrades, the women in hundreds of thousands of Canadian homes have pledged themselves and their families to observe the Food Service Regulations.

Whether they be of the log cabin or of the palace--of the city street or of the broad acres, these women radiate the Spirit of Comradeship and Determination to do all in their power to insure you sufficient food supplies.

So, in your trenches from the North Sea to Switzerland---on your ships wherever they may be, they send you this message.

"For all that you have done for us---in standing between the Civilized World and the Hun, we are proud and glad to render you this small service---we will live up to our Food Service Pledge.

Practical Housekeeping Hints

Substitutes for Meat

Meat has always been considered the best tissue or flesh building food, and for this reason people have always eaten in a great deal. Meat of our meat has come from the Western Provinces, but the tremendous, large ranches of twenty years ago are gradually being cut up into small farms and cattle are not being raised in such large numbers any more. This is one reason why meat costs so much. Another reason is the great demand there is for it on the part of our people who do not know that there are other foods that will supply the needs of the body in just the same way that meat does and which in ordinary times do not cost as much as meat. For instance, we can use fish in place of meat much more than we do.

Other foods that can be used in place of meat are eggs, milk, cream soups, cereals, peas, lentils and nuts.

Eggs should be eaten with foods that are rich in starch, such as bread and potatoes. If so eaten, they will take care of the body just as completely as meat would.

Milk contains heat-giving, energy-giving and tissue-building properties. Cream soups made with skim milk and the pulp of vegetables can take the place of meat.

Cereals contain in varying proportions all the elements necessary to support life. They contain a great deal of starch, which is valuable as an energy giver. Oatmeal and corn-meal contain more fat than the other cereals, and, therefore, make a good winter food, especially for hard-working people. Cereals with cooked fruits are particularly appetizing.

Peas, Beans and Lentils are richer in flesh-building elements than any other vegetable and can be used in place of meat. Lentils are more easily digested than either peas or beans. If properly prepared, all these make very appetizing dishes. A dish of baked beans costing about 20 cents, will furnish a family of six with more nourishment than two pounds of beef costing 50 cents.

Nuts contain in a condensed form flesh-building material as meat.

In stating that these dishes can be used in place of meat it is not our purpose to urge you to give up eating meat altogether. It is a fact, however, that as a people we eat too much meat, and you would undoubtedly find yourself much benefited physically if you would cut down on the amount of meat you eat and vary your diet more than you do.

The evangelistic meetings, conducted by Rev. Alexander Torrey, B.A. of Toronto, are in full swing at Burch.

Anyone who fails to avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing one of the greatest evangelists of the day will live to regret it sincerely.

The messages which he delivers are of vital interest and he drives his points home into the hearts and souls of the people with such force that it is impossible for them to forget. Words cannot express the attractions of this church at the present moment, it is positively necessary for everyone to come and see for him and herself. Meetings every evening at 7.45, Saturday included. Three services next Sunday, one at eleven, one at three for men only, and the evening service at 7.30. This mission only lasts for the short space of two weeks and the attendance every night is large and growing still larger.

Come early and avoid the rush. You will also have the opportunity of attending again if you come as soon as this invitation reaches you. All are welcome.

Friday Day was fittingly observed on Sunday last. The decorations of the church were beautiful, and many compliments were received therefrom by the primary class.

There were several interesting numbers on the programme, among them were a song by the primary class "The World's Children for Jesus," and an address by Rev. Mr. Torrey of Toronto, which was highly appreciated and enjoyed not only by the adults, but also by the children. A Missionary Exercise by four young people was a pleasing feature, and the reports of the different classes brought the Philathea Class out first in the contest of obtaining visitors.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE
Don't Stay Gray! Here's a simple recipe that anybody can apply with a hair brush.
The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmothers' time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.
But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.
A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two, it becomes beautiful dark and glossy.
Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.
