JOINT THRUST BY FRANCO-BRITISH MAY FORCE IMMEDIATE DECISION IN WEST

Haig Renews Offensive To-day on Ypres Front

Haig's Men, in Conjunction With Allies, Went Over the Top at an Early Hour This Morning--Plan to Force Decision Before Cold Season

By Courier Leased Wire.

LONDON, Oct. 9---The British attacked on a wide front northeast and east of Ypres this morning, the war office announces.

Satisfactory progress is being made everywhere. The attack, the statement says, was made "in conjunction with our allies."

The text of the British statement says:

At 5:20 o'clock this morning we again attacked on a wide front east and northeast of Ypres in conjunction with our allies on our left. Reports indicate that satisfactory progress is being made on all parts of the battlefield. The weather continues stormy.

FRENCH SHARE IN DRIVE

PARIS, Oct. 9---French troops on the Belgian front at 5:30 o'clock this morning attacked in conjunction with the British army, the German positions south of the Forest of Houthoult, between Draibank and Weindendref. The French official statement issued this afternoon says that the struggle is continuing and is developing favorably for the French army.

By Courier Leased Wire.

The text of the French War Office statement follows:

"In Belgium this morning at 5:30 o'clock we attacked in conjunction with the British army, the German positions south of the Forest of Houthoult, between Draibank and Weindendref. The battle continues to develop favorably for us.

"On the Aisne front there was marked artillery activity, notably in the region of the Pantheon.

"In the Champagne we were successful in penetrating the German lines near the Butte of Tahure. After destroying the dugouts our forces returned with prisoners.

"On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun region) the artillery duel continues in the sector north of Chaume Wood.

"There is nothing to report from the rest of the front."

The Situation

Without regard to the highly unfavorable weather conditions prevailing and in a surprisingly short time after the successful British thrust of last week the British and French forces in Belgium have launched another heavy attack on the German lines.

The blow fell early to-day in the region east and northeast of Ypres, where Crown Prince Rupprecht's lines had already been dangerously bent back by the previous British thrusts.

The British commander early reported satisfactory progress on all parts of the front of the attack, which he announced was made in conjunction "with our allies on our left."

Shortly afterward the Paris official statement indicated clearly that the French forces in Flanders were those alluded to by the British commander-in-chief. The launching of an attack in concert with the British was announced and the favorable development of the attack reported.

A considerable force of the French troops took part in the beginning of the Flanders drive on July 31, and in the subsequent fighting that consolidated the ground won by them from a point northeast of Langemark as far north as Dixmude.

This section of the front remained comparatively quiet while the British to the south were renewing their push late last month. Apparently the time is now considered opportune for bringing the line to the north more nearly on the level with the advanced British front. The French attack today extended as far to the north as Houthoult forest, about five miles towards the coast from Bixchoote.

It had been pointed out that with the salient parts of the Paschendale-Ghekuvelt Ridge in their hands as the result of their success last week the British were in an admirable position to push further east towards the Menin-Roulers railway line. The invaluable line of communication for the Germans between their bases in southwestern Belgium and northern France and their Belgian coast positions was already commanded by the British guns. The renewed push is in the direction of this line, which before this morning's attack was about five and one-half miles distant from the point of the British wedge at Broodseinde.

Numerous indications have been found, according to reports from the Flanders front, that the German morale in this sector had notably deteriorated under the crushing blows of the British and their overwhelming artillery superiority. Lack of the former vigor in the German counter-attacks and their com-

NO GAME IN NEW YORK TODAY; RAIN

Crowds Stood in Drizzle All Night To Obtain Tickets

By Courier Leased Wire
Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 9.—Rain, a heavy downpour that came out of the northwest with no promise of cessation, caused a postponement of the third act of the world's series drama between the New York Giants and White Sox. Fifteen thousand fans of the kind whose courage the two defenses of the National League champions, did not diminish, braved the stormy day and were a disappointed lot when shortly before one o'clock the official announcement megaphoned the news that the contest had been postponed until to-morrow.

New York, Oct. 9.—Postponement of the third world's series game was announced at the National-Commission headquarters at 12.36 p.m.

The game scheduled for to-day and to-morrow, will be played at the Polo Grounds to-morrow and Thursday. Friday's game at Chicago will be moved to Saturday, and in case a sixth game will be necessary, it will be played at the Polo Grounds on Monday, October 15, as originally arranged.

New York, Oct. 9.—A light, cold rain which fell in the early hours made weather conditions uncertain to-day for the third game between the New York Giants and Chicago White Sox of the baseball championship of the world. The weather bureau forecast for the day was fair and cool, but fans became anxious that the rain would fall.

The atmosphere was decidedly colder, which was testified to un-ambiguously by the shivering fans who stood outside the gates of the Polo Grounds all night. Rain fell early last night and then ceased, but before four o'clock it started again and continued to fall, making the well-groomed playing field heavy for the game.

Police officials and Polo Ground guards who stood in the early hours of the night, were the smallest that a world's series game here in years. The first man to appear arrived at 11 o'clock last night. He was a little old man, more than sixty years of age and took his place at a ticket window in order to hold the place while the first streaks of dawn when the sale of seats began. The line grew slowly and at midnight there were perhaps a hundred boys all way in the upper pavilion. Some slept peacefully and others discussed the chances of the Giants to even up the series.

While the first streaks of dawn and while the rain was still falling lightly the lines began to grow and soon all arteries of travel led to the Polo Grounds. When the gates were opened at nine o'clock the lines stretched up and down the streets and the shivering fans who stood in the cold all night were rewarded by first choice of seats in the unreserved sections. The first man to appear arrived at 11 o'clock last night. He was a little old man, more than sixty years of age and took his place at a ticket window in order to hold the place while the first streaks of dawn when the sale of seats began. The line grew slowly and at midnight there were perhaps a hundred boys all way in the upper pavilion. Some slept peacefully and others discussed the chances of the Giants to even up the series.

Despite every precaution taken by President Hempstead, reserved seat tickets were to be had from speculators at the grounds and at the prominent hotels. Last night $25 was asked for one set of tickets to the three games, but prices fell to-day, due to the damp weather. The total attendance was expected to be more than 38,000, the capacity of the stands.

While the betting odds favored the American League champions all through the night, the special followers of the Giants still were outwardly optimistic. Local fans, while admitting the superiority of the White Sox in the first two games, insisted that McGraw's men have not yet displayed their real baseball ability.

Outside the main question as to whether the Giants can stage a spectacular come-back, the followers of the game devoted the rest of their speculation as to the rival pitchers in the absence of official announcements. The opinion seemed to be general that either Cicotte or Russell would start for the visitors, while McGraw would pin his faith on Sallee or Benton. New York rooters admitted to-day that the Giants must win the third game to have a look-in at the championship. To lose this game, they agreed, would mean that the world's series title would probably go west for the

MEMBER FOR BRANTFORD DELIVERS AN IMPRESSIVE ADDRESS ON A "WIN THE WAR" BASIS

Tells of What Has Been Accomplished and the Need for Sustained Support From the People—Franchise Act and Other Matters Explained—Resolutions Passed Affirming Confidence in Premier Borden and Mr. W. F. Cockshutt.

"That this meeting approves most thoroughly of supporting a Union Government of both parties with the sole and sincere purpose of winning the war."—Messrs. S. A. Jones and Harvey Clement.

"That this meeting desires to express its deep appreciation of the address delivered to-night by Mr. Cockshutt and of the clear, concise manner in which he has presented the facts of the present situation and also expresses its appreciation of the course of the member for Brantford in the House."—Messrs. G. A. Ward and Armstrong.

"We must win the war. Nothing else matters. On the outcome of this war rests the future of the Empire and of the Dominion of Canada."

"So you will see, the main issue of this election is the winning of the war, and every part of our country should be asked to bear its fair share in blood and money."—W. F. Cockshutt.

"I think we all realize, that the chief object we should have now is to do all possible to win the war."

"Let us forget petty party politics and devote our energies to the winning of the war."—W. S. Brewster.

Pulsating with patriotism and explanatory of the present situation in Canada, was the address delivered by W. F. Cockshutt, M. P., to a gathering at the Borden Club on Saturday night. Canada's present relation to the war at the present time was thoroughly analyzed and the important events that have occurred at the Capital and throughout the Dominion in the past few years were explained.

Throughout his address, Mr. Cockshutt emphasized the extreme need of renewed efforts on the part of the Dominion toward winning the war, and the most efficient, reasonable and practical method of achieving this object was that of Sir Robert Borden when he suggested a union Government. His purpose had been clearly defined, both in caucus and in the House, and he had committed himself to this policy.

W. S. Brewster who presided over the gathering, strongly advocated a thorough and complete prosecution of the war, and advised that all party politics be eliminated until the struggle had been concluded. He said: "I think that we all realize that the chief object we should have now, no matter to what political party we belong, is to do all possible to win the war. The Dominion of Canada has done much in the past few years, far more than was expected of us at the outset. However, we are just beginning, the war is not yet won, victory is not yet in sight. We must, therefore redouble our efforts until victory rests on the standards of the Allies. We will be called upon to extend our best efforts, not so much to win the political fight, but to do our best to assist in every conceivable way, the winning of the war. Sir Robert Borden has done all that was within his power, and has maintained a clear-eyed purpose, and if now remains for us to second the able efforts put forward by him. Mr. Cockshutt has also done all that is possible for him to do. He has been represented by his sons at the front, he has been alert in urging steps with regard to food matters, he has taken an active interest in local recruiting, and in every way identified himself with Canada's true purpose in this time of trial. His course throughout he felt sure had the hearty endorsement of his constituents.

There will probably be a coalition government, including broad-minded Liberals. I have nothing to say time contest to be most undesirable and inimical to the prosecution of the great cause. Last year an extension of the life of the House had been agreed upon. This year the Premier had asked for a further extension, stating that agreement with regard to the same would have to be practically unanimous in the House or he would not approach the Imperial Government in the matter. Sir Wilfrid Laurier had opposed the request and the majority was not large enough, and Sir Robert Borden had declined to proceed further because of lack of unanimity on the question. Later Premier Borden had gone to Sir Wilfrid and offered to give fifty per cent of the positions in the Cabinet to Liberals, he to retain the post of Premier. Surely that was a fair offer which breathed of the sincerity of the man, but it was declined.

To Win the War

"We must win the war. Nothing else matters. On the outcome of the war rests the future of the Empire, and of the Dominion of Canada, and the foe will not retire until forced to do so. The struggle has been bitter, and among all those who have shed their blood on the battlefields, some have occupied a nobler part than the Canadian troops, and none of the boys who left this country have taken a superior place to the men who left Brantford and the country of Brant, and I say that with pride and satisfaction. Some of you may not know that our casualties amount to over 100,000 men, but many of these who have been once wounded have hurried back to the front as soon as possible after their convalescence.

"Many are the relatives of men at the front who have called on me and requested that steps be taken to bring back their loved ones on leave, and this was the disposition of the department, but it could not be fulfilled because the recruits did not equal the losses, and at this time we have found the failure of the voluntary system.

"I do not wish to cast any imputations upon my fellow citizens, but I agree with Sir George Foster when he says that 100,000 men should come out of the Province of Quebec to make their effort equal to that of the balance of the Dominion. I may frankly say that the attitude of Quebec in relation to the present war has been one of the greatest disappointments in the history of the country.

"So you will see that the main issue of this election is the winning of the war, and every part of our country should be asked to bear its fair share in blood and money."

The Financial Side

There has been a lot of talk with regard to the conscription of wealth. Well, the people have not been slow to pour out their means. They have been paying the shot for every man who has left our shores, and will continue to do so. Every issue of war bonds has been over-subscribed. Patriotic and Red Cross funds have been liberally supported, extra taxes have been cheerfully met, and no loyal citizen is going to equal no matter how much they may be asked to do. The Government had made mistakes no doubt; the wonder was that there had been so few in connection with such a sudden added burden, but on the whole they had risen to the occasion manfully and well. Fault had been found, and he himself had uttered criticism in the House with regard to the food situation. In fact had introduced a resolution in the commons three years ago on that matter. A Food Controller had been appointed, an excellent man, but he must not be expected to work miracles, for with myriads of producers in the firing lines, there must be a world shortage and consequently higher prices. However, Mr. Hanna was bravely tackling his task

FUN, FAST AND FURIOUS

Did you ever see a hundred youngsters swimming or playing in the boys' department of the Y.M.C.A.?

It's worth seeing, if you can stand the racket. A boiler shop is quiet in comparison.

But if you watch for a minute you will see something. There is no rowdiness. There is a spirit of give and take. There is fair play.

There is no restriction to the fun, but there is unobtrusive, kindly guidance. The youngsters are having a good time and incidentally they are learning to be little gentlemen and are being prepared for future citizenship.

It's great work. The wonder is that the Y gets along on so little money. Certainly there can be none wasted. But if you watch for a minute you will see something. There is no rowdiness. There is a spirit of give and take. There is fair play. Get ready to do your share to-morrow and Thursday.

At the grounds a few hundreds of people were present. The chief attractions this year will be the midway and the races. The farmer has taken up so much space that the auto exhibit tents have been interpreted into the centre of the open space to the left of the grand stand, which formerly was occupied as a meeting place for the crowd.

And there is some midway, too. About one dozen attractions brought in by Weeks-Matthews, with a troupe of about one hundred, and every one of them a real show. Spidora, the spider girl, and the world's smallest pony, 25 inches high, weight 42 pounds, age 5 years.

Uncle George's Yachtville Circus calls one next and Hall's Museum show follows. As good a picture as one ever saw of the world's smallest man is tattooed on the crown of the head of the leading figure in the next show, whose entire body, even to the soles of his feet, all except the face and neck is wrought in a continuous maze of patterns. His wife is present with him in a second, and there is a wild animal show being well patronized. But the Battle of Heligoland, which stands next, is unique. The models—have been made by a mother of four children, whose father is in khaki overseas and good demonstrations of naval combats and torpedoes and submarines. The management are to be congratulated on what appears to be a thoroughly clean midway. The management prohibits the sale of any merchandise, except lunches and confections, and there are a number of stalls of these there.

The E. H. Jackson Company, Rutherford and Kayser, and Murdoch, clothing company, were fitting up displays in the exhibit room yesterday morning. The apple exhibit is a general surprise. Few expected to see any, but the offering is better than that of last year. In horticulture, Britton's flowers took many prizes. Ryerse Bros. had an excellent display and added a special by way of illustration as to how to keep vegetables fresh during the winter without canning.

W. Q. Jackson took first prize for factory butter, both solid box and box of prime R. W. Caswell of Lynn Valley, was second.

The fine arts room was closed during the afternoon for judging, but the exhibit is good. The track is in good condition, and the management are hopeful of good weather.

The War Not Conducted on Partisan Lines

In utter refutation of the claims made in certain quarters that the Government was conducting the war on a partisan basis, the speaker cited several instances, both local and in the country as a whole.

War Election Act.

We are likely to have an election in the near future, and there is an element that has never to my knowledge been present before—a War Time Election Act.

A Strong Hand

Referring to the foreigners and the aliens resident in the Dominion, Mr. Cocksbutt said: "The government has kept a strong hand on the aliens. Some have been interned and strong measures have been used to prevent them from leaving the country."

TO AID Y. M. C. A.

To assist in every way possible in the Y. M. C. A. financial campaign that commences on Wednesday of this week, is the unanimous decision of the war veterans of the city, and a resolution to that effect was passed at the Saturday night meeting.

B. C. I. RUGBY

Three hours of vigorous, exhausting practice, followed by a brisk run from the grounds to the showers at the Y. M. C. A. was Saturday afternoon's programme for the respective members of the 1917 B. C. I. Rugby squad.

SLIGHT BLAZE

In some unaccountable manner a basket of clothes in an upstairs room in the home of Thomas Bachelor, 138 Marlboro St., became ignited on Saturday night shortly after seven o'clock, and the fire department were summoned. The flames reached the partitions, but the inmates of the house worked bravely and had the blaze practically under control when the firefighters arrived. The damage was slight.

You are reminded about sale tomorrow, 1.30, at 101 Brant Ave., Mrs. Alfred Watts. See advertisement on another page.

INTERN INSURGENTS.

The alien element of Canada's population and the resultant problem from their presence, has stirred the Kitchener Manufacturers' Association to taking action, and that organization has written the Minister of Labor, the Hon. T. W. Crothers, requesting that some action be taken.

POLICE COURT.

To have seen the automobile of Jacob Jaskoff, pre-igniting precariously from one side of the street to the other, and at times essaying a course along the sidewalk, on Sunday afternoon, the casual spectator might have wondered whether the driver had solved the high-cost-of-gasoline problem by substituting alcohol or other invigorating liquor.

A REMINISCENCE

It is just three years ago this month that the "Mad Fourth" battalion, in which there were many Brantford boys, was inspected on Salisbury Plains by the late Lord Roberts.

Through the medium of the schools, a membership campaign will be conducted next week in the interests of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A.

WEDDING BELLS

Murder will out! So will marriage, or at least the city's firefighters are of that opinion. On Saturday evening, Fireman John Hatley walked into his room at the station, and in conversation with a medical attendant removed his hat, disclosing a beautiful color combination of natural gold and multi-colored confetti.

Laid at Rest

The funeral of the late George Butler was held on Saturday afternoon from the family residence, 80 Gillingham street.

A private service was held for the immediate relatives and family and a public service at the Oxford Street Methodist Church, held in the charge of the Pastor, the Rev. Wray Smith.

During the service at the church Mrs. White sang very sympathetically "Some Day We'll Understand," and Mr. Fernald rendered "On the Resurrection Morn," and at the conclusion the congregation sang the favorite hymn of the deceased, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

The cortege then proceeded to Mt. Hope cemetery where the interment took place. The pall bearers were old friends and relatives, Messrs. J. Bragg, Ed. Sayles, J. Lundy, E. A. Worthing, J. Clement and Frank Chillaupka.

THANKSGIVING UNION SERVICE

Consecration of Harvest Urged by the Rev. C. E. Jenkins.

Yesterday was Thanksgiving Day, and a dull, dark, drab Thanksgiving Day it was; but the little sunlight which shone during the morning gleamed through the stained glass windows of Wellington street church and shed a mellow light upon the congregation within.

Dismal weather conditions may have had a deterring effect upon the attendance of many, but there was scarcely an empty seat in the main body of the church for the union thanksgiving service conducted there under the auspices of all the evangelical churches of the city.

Capt. Jenkins, finding his words in the gospel of St. John, "Lift up your eyes and look upon the fields white unto the harvest," reviewed the year which had passed, until in the providence of His Almighty God, we saw the dawn of another Thanksgiving Day.

PROCLAMATION ON SATURDAY

By Courier Leased Wire
Ottawa, Oct. 9.—The first men drafted under the Military Service Act will not actually be called to the colors till December 10. The date has been fixed to place all men called on an absolute basis of equality. By then exemption tribunals must have their work completed and the man who applies for exemption will thus gain no time as compared with the man who reports for service without making any such claim. There will be no possibility of claiming exemption for the purpose of delay.

The proclamation, which will be published broadcast on Saturday, provides that the first class of men, "Every man within the class called out must either report for service or claim exemption on or before November 10.

Imprisonment only is provided. There is no fine.

"Exemption tribunals will begin their work on November 8 and must complete it by December 10, which is the earliest date on which any man will actually be called to the colors.

"Regulations which will be published with the proclamation contain some stringent provisions. Several penalties are provided for bribery or attempted bribery. Any person found guilty of attempting to bribe any member of an exemption tribunal or medical board or military representative will be liable to a term of imprisonment not exceeding five years and not less than one year.

There are also regulations of special importance to employers. In certain quarters the fear has been expressed that an unscrupulous employer might attempt to take advantage of the act to bring down wages or similarly, an employee might offer to work for less wages—conditionally on the employer claiming exemption for the man. Under the regulations, any such action will be an offense punishable by a fine not exceeding $100 or imprisonment not to exceed six months.

Any employer who enters into an agreement with an employee providing for any reduction of an employee's salary or wages, or for the alteration of any condition of employment, in consideration of the employer, exercising or refraining from exercising his right to claim exemption from military service on behalf of an employee, will be guilty of an offense punishable as indicated.

Penalties are also provided for the employer who knowingly retains in his employment any man in the class called up, who has not on or before November 10, either reported for service or claimed exemption.

Suicide Verdict

By Courier Leased Wire
Winnipeg, Oct. 8.—"According to the evidence we believe that the deceased came to his death by his own act," was the brief verdict returned to-night in connection with the death of Mrs. Ada Olive Mather, who was found dead in her room at a local hotel September 27, as the result of a gunshot wound in her throat, the tragedy having occurred three or four days previously.

Prof. W. H. Mather, husband of the deceased, who was an occupant of the room during the period referred to, but according to his evidence, in a lethargic state, was the principal witness. He gave details of his wife's affliction by which her eye sight was threatened and of a suicide pact that had been entered into between them, which had been retracted a short time prior to her death. He also related details of two previous occasions on which Mrs. Mather had attempted to take her own life, once by swallowing potassium cyanide and the other by asphyxiation. Mrs. Mather was formerly Miss Hewitt, of Toronto.

HAIG'S MEN

parative infrequency are cited as corroborative of this.
The theory is thus suggested that despite the unfavorable weather conditions, Field Marshal Haig decided to hit the Germans another hard blow while they were still staggering from the effects of their defeat last week, and thus shake still further their precarious hold on western Belgium, possibly to the point, where they would be compelled to let go.

The new British drive is being made in the same region as the attack of last Thursday, one of the most successful British efforts of the war. On that day the Germans were expelled from high ground along the ridge east of Ypres, giving the British dominating positions of great strategic importance. The wedge in the German line has been driven so deep that with the high ground lost their position has been made most unfavorable and another "strategic retreat" has been predicted.

Recent despatches from the British front, however, told of heavy rains and deep mud conditions under which ordinarily a renewal of the offensive would not be expected. The decision of the British staff to return to the attack so quickly may indicate a purpose to force a decision before the cold weather sets in or before the Germans have recovered from the last blow, which appeared to have partial-

SUGGESTIONS TO SICK WOMEN

How Many Are Restored To Health.

First.—Almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes unnecessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful periods, displacements, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

Second.—The medicine most successful in relieving female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates and strengthens the organism; it overcomes disease.

For forty years it has been making women strong and well, relieving backache, nervousness, dizziness and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularity and periodic pains. It has also proved invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the Change of Life.

Third.—The great number of unsolicited testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, are proof of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of female ills.

BATTLE SCARRED YPRES.
British Front in France and Belgium, Monday, Oct. 8.—(By the Associated Press).—A prosperous farming country before the war, the region east of Ypres is now a desolate waste of large and deep shell craters. It has been the scene of much bitter and sanguinary fighting, and the artillery fire has done its work.

Few sectors of the western front have been laid waste as has this one. Farm buildings and villages have been swept away by the shells. But a few pieces of wall mark where buildings once stood. Grass and other green things have disappeared in the turning up of the earth by the innumerable exploding shells.

From Ypres out across the Westhoek ridge and over the site of what once was Zonnebeke, from which the Germans were pushed last Thursday, the scenes of demolition recall the days of the battle of the Somme.

The unprecedented havoc wrought on the Somme front hardly surpassed that which exists along the Ypres front. More striking than all the rest were the scenes of death on every hand. German dead lay in great numbers over this ground, which has not yet been cleared. At many places groups of Germans had been killed as they fought together and they rested as they fell. Shell holes at some places were choked with bodies.

The village of Zonnebeke is but a memory. Some shattered walls remain of the big church and in very few places there are marks of other buildings, but the village as a whole has disappeared. The railway station on the Ypres-Tournai line, where for days the British and Germans battled fiercely at close range is gone and there remains only a small concrete remnant, about which the Germans made their last stand. The Ypres-Tournai railway, which for so long was under British gunfire and is now being hammered by the Germans, is nothing but a broken mound of earth. The rails have been twisted into knots and hurled here and there.

FIGHT FOR BREWERY.
Bulletin, British front in France and Belgium, Oct. 9.—(By the Associated Press).—The British have pushed back the Germans through Poocappelle and are fighting in the eastern outskirts of the city, about a large brewery.

All the highways here and on other parts of the battlefield have been damaged severely. They are pitted here and there with shell holes. A thousand yards in front of Zonnebeke was Broodseinde ridge and village with its famous cross roads, where many Germans were killed recently by the British artillery fire. The British line is over the crest of this ridge on the eastern side. Broodseinde has gone the same way as Zonnebeke. Rentel, Gravenstafel, Paschendale and many other hamlets.

The German redoubts and pill boxes in the Zonnebeke region mostly had been smashed by shell fire, though many of them put up a stout resistance. There was one great concrete and steel redoubt which had withstood the terrific fire to which it had been subjected. Its defenders had been driven out by the infantry.

In a pitched battle. The redoubt was eighty yards long and about 40 yards wide. The walls, which were of concrete reinforced with steel rails, were about five feet thick. The building was made of sheet steel. The building contained six large rooms which would hold several hundred men. The whole country hereabout was covered with similarly built defences of varying sizes.

Just north of Broodseinde, the Germans held out strongly. The British surrounded the wood and hot fighting followed. The attackers pushed forward a considerable distance down the slopes of Broodseinde ridge to the lower ground.

At many places the French and British have advanced to a depth of 1,200 yards or more. The British troops on Gravenstafel ridge advanced on to Paschendale ridge and rested 1,000 yards southwest of the town of Paschendale. The French crossed the Jansbeek and Broesebeek Rivers, in the direction of Hontholde forest, and at an early hour were reported fighting about Mangolare, some 1,500 yards beyond their original front lines. At 8.30 o'clock they had taken several hundred prisoners.

CHICAGO WELL ON THE WAY TO VICTORY IN WORLD'S SERIES

With Two Games to Their Credit, and Blood in Their Eye White Sox Invade Gotham Today—Outside of Batting, Pitching, Fielding, Base Running and Strategy, Pale Hose Have Nothing on Their Opponents

Chicago, Oct. 7.—The Chicago American League baseball machine trundled half way to victory in the world series clash with the New York Nationals to-day when the White Sox defeated the Giants 7 to 2 in the second game of the titanic struggle. The teams are speeding eastward to-night for the Polo Grounds where on Tuesday the series will be resumed, and if the deal team continues to play the type of game it has displayed here, supporters of the Comiskey clan are convinced that the Sox should at least break even with the Giants in the next two contests at New York.

The White Sox rolled over the Giants to-day like a baseball juggernaut, leaving disaster and dismay in their wake. The second victory in two days was far more impressive than the win of Saturday, and when the teams left the field, the Chicago Club was surcharged with confidence, while the New York combination was badly shattered, both physically and in morale.

Giants used Four Pitchers

The Giants were obliged to use no fewer than four pitchers this afternoon, and at the close of the second day of play, the White Sox had sampled, with satisfactory results from their standpoint, the services of five of the seven hurlers who form the twirling corps of the Giants. Only Benton and Demaree remained unscorched and it will be a problem for Manager McGraw to select a pitcher who can hold the Chicago batters in check even on the home grounds.

Both at bat and in the field, the White Sox maintained the impressive advantage which they showed in the opening game. The offensive and defensive methods and play of the American League standard bearers was far superior to that shown by the New York Club, and in no department of the national sport did the Giants appear to have the edge on their Western rivals. Some idea of the superiority is gained from a comparison of the figures of the two games to date.

The White Sox have scored nine runs to three for the Giants, twenty-one hits to fourteen, and these hits have netted the local club 24 bases to 17 for the Giants, while in stolen bases, the Sox lead 4 to 1.

In field strategy, management and shrewdness, individual and collective dash the Sox have outshone the New York players and it will require a remarkable recovery on the part of the Eastern team when it reaches its home field to check the Chicago plan in its impetuous rush for the world's baseball championship.

SATURDAY'S GAME.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Eddie Cicotte, of Detroit, pitcher extraordinary to the Chicago Americans, piloted his team to victory Saturday over the New York Nationals by a score of 2 to 1 in the first game of the 1917 world's series, played at Comiskey

Park. At the wheel of the White Sox machine he was the master of the Giants at every stage of the contest, which thrilled 32,000 followers of the local American League champions and sent them away from Comiskey Park convinced that after several years of waiting the highest titular honors of the baseball field were to fall to Chicago.

Cicotte was ably assisted by White Sox machine, which played almost faultless baseball against the New York team, and in no department admitted stand of the National League standard-bearers, who would not admit defeat until the final catch of Holke's fly by John Collins ended the contest. Cicotte's team-mates played with such a sure and steady hand that the combination proved too much for the vaunted power of the Giants.

An even 32,000 spectators paid admission to the field of the club with a result that $73,152 was divided among the players, clubs and the National Commission. Of this amount the players receive $39,502.08; each of the clubs, $13,167.36; and the National Commission $7,315.20.

There was not a vacant seat in the baseball amphitheatre when the players took the field, and hundreds of disappointed fans thronged the streets unable to penetrate the police lines. Every point of vantage which in any way overlooked the diamond was occupied by men and boys long before the game began.

TORONTO MAN HAD LOST 26 POUNDS

Suffered 30 Years and Was So Weak Could Not Walk A Block Without Help

"Only those who have suffered with rheumatism like I did before I began taking Tanlac, know how terrible the pain is, and it would be impossible to describe it," said Richard Faulkner, who has been a butcher in Toronto for many years, and lives at 83 McGIN street, recently.

"The rheumatism bothered me mostly in my legs," he continued, "especially my feet and ankles, but it extended also into my arms and shoulders, and for nine or ten years now I have simply suffered torture from it. Just that nagging, almost unbearable pain that seemed to strike clean to the bone, and all day at my work I would almost go mad if I suffered so. I could get no rest, and many a night I have had to get out of bed and walk the floor. I just couldn't sleep on account of the misery. My legs would get stiff and draw together so I couldn't walk, I just had to hobble around, and the boys who worked with me expressed pity for me. I have also had bad stomach trouble for thirty years, and this together with exposure to cold and dampness in the shops, no doubt brought on the rheumatism. My appetite was all gone, and what I forced myself to eat disagreed with me terribly. Gas would form on my stomach and keep me in misery for hours, feeling like I would choke to death. After breakfast I would become nauseated in a few minutes and vomit up all I had eaten. I also had a hurting in my right side and pains around my heart caused by the gas on my stomach. I had fallen off 26 pounds from my usual weight, and was so weak that I could not get up that my son would have to meet me at the car—and we lived just a block from the car line—and help me home.

"I certainly was in bad shape, and when I look back now and think of the awful suffering Tanlac has relieved me of, I don't see how I stood it as long as I did. But Tanlac has just about cleared me of it all. My stomach is now in fine shape and the rheumatism is so much better that I can hardly tell I ever had it. All the pain and stiffness has gone out of my joints and I'm feeling altogether like a different man. I couldn't ask for a better appetite. I'm not troubled with indigestion any more and it has been a long time since I could enjoy eating like I do now. I have already gained several pounds of my flesh back, and to say my wife and I are both delighted with what Tanlac has done for me doesn't half express my feelings. Tanlac is by far the best of all the many medicines I have ever tried, and I will gladly tell any one trying to find relief what I have found out about it."

GUELPH BEAT GALT EASILY

Last Year's Rugby Champs. Whitewashed Rivals 52-0.

Guelph, Oct. 9.—The first scheduled game in the interscholastic football series of Western Ontario, was played here Saturday on the campus of the O.A.C. between the Galt Collegiate Institute and Guelph Collegiate Institute teams. The result was a hollow victory for the Guelph team, last year's champions, who simply overwhelmed their opponents, the score being 52 to 0, in their favor. The weather was ideal for good football and there was a fair crowd present, including a number from Galt.

The local team put up a brand of football which surprised even their own admirers. They showed speed, weight and plenty of ability in all departments of the game and from the very start the visitors never had a chance to score. The Guelph back division, composed of Carroll, Nunn and Smith, was like a stone wall on the defensive, while they gained ground whenever they chose, all during the game. They all kicked well, followed up fast and had no difficulty in breaking through the Galt line. Carroll distinguished himself by kicking two field goals in fine style. The Guelph line was solid as a rock and only on a rare occasion did the opposing team manage to get through on them. On their showing Saturday the Guelph Collegiate should have no difficulty in again winning the Hamilton Cup, which they have held for several years. The visitors lacked speed, fumbled badly and showed a want of knowledge of the game. The half time score was 36 to 0.

Previous to the game the junior teams of Galt and Guelph Collegiate played four ten-minute quarters, resulting in a win for Guelph by a score of 6 to 0. The seniors lined up as follows:—

It Seems a Pity to Let These Babies Starve!

TRUE, this is another Belgian appeal, and you are a little tired of Belgium's trouble. But, remember, while it is your problem how to plan variety in three meals a day, most of the Belgian population is standing in line hours every day for a bowl of soup and a slice of bread!

No child can thrive on this ration. Tens of thousands of Belgian children (under 12) are becoming victims of tuberculosis, rickets and other ailments due to the pitifully inadequate food.

The Belgian Children's Health Fund enables the Dutch authorities to take some of the starving little ones to Holland for care and treatment for six weeks. Then what? They must go back to Belgium to make way for other of the 15,000 odd in the waiting list. More could be done if you will listen to the appeal of these babies.

The Belgian Orphan's Fund takes care of fatherless, motherless, friendless waifs. Think how they lost their fathers: $2.70 of your money feeds, clothes and educates an orphan for a whole month. Can you hear the call?

Whatever you contribute goes entire to the Dutch authorities, through the Belgian Minister of the Interior (at Le Havre, France). Not a penny is deducted for administrative expenses, even for this advertising. It is absolutely guaranteed, too, that the Germans derive no benefit whatsoever.

When you are planning your own comfort and luxuries, think of these little tots!

BATTLE STORIES FROM THE FRONT

No Man's Land and Overhead.

"The last day I spent in a balloon was full of quiet fun," said a balloon pilot. "I went up about 10.30 to do counter-battery work. I took up with me a young sergeant to train as observer. He had marvellous sight and presently he picked out a big transport convoy coming to the quarry behind F-1."

"I immediately told an 18 pounder and an 8 inch How. battery all about it. The 18 pounders got to work first and reached them with the third shot. All the drivers scuttled for cover at once, and then the Hows. blew the whole caboodle to small pieces. Very exhilarating, and it got a good mention in 'the Intelligence Summary.'"

"However the Huns guessed we had been the cause of the trouble and began reproving us with 5.9 shrapnel, which is unpleasant, and putting H. E. into the camp."

"About three o'clock it got very cloudy and I told them to pull me down. We were less than 400 feet from the ground. Just then, to my horror and consternation, an Albatross appeared right alongside the envelope, into which he began firing Tracers. That was a moment for swift thought and rapid action. I shoved the Sergeant over the side and hopped out after him. Our ungentelemanly assailant, realising that while the balloon was imposing, we were more important, neglected the former and began tapping away at us, as we floated gracefully through the air. "Whizz," "Crack" and so on. We also passed through a machine gun barrage for the ground."

"Three hundred feet is dangerously low to parachute, but luckily there was a wind blowing which saved us from coming down too straight. I saw my observer strike an unusual attitude and bury his head in a haystack, and a moment later I landed in a farmyard, across which I was waded till my head came in contact with a cow-shed. "Blit," "Thud," "Stars", I hurried to my feet and the first person I saw was a gunner Colonel who had come over to see me. I got little sympathy from him merely a request to do it again as he hadn't seen the first act properly.

"The balloon was all right save for four scorched holes."

"I went up again soon after, but found my eye was inclined to wander to the planes as they flew past, and every time a gun fired I almost left the basket. So I put in for ten days rest and change and here I am. My only wounds are this sun-set eye, and this jagged cut on my bump of Caution."

"Usually of course, you get a message from below saying: "Hun diving at you" and then you get plenty of time to get ready; but the fact that I was coming down, combined with the low cloud, made it rather a sticky five minutes."

"What happened to my battalion" said a Sergeant in a Light Infantry regiment, "often happens in offensives nowadays."

"We were getting along nicely and suffering very little, because the bit of ground over which we were attacking had been easy for the guns to tackle. All the Pill Boxes were laid out or stuffed with dead, the wire was torn to small bits, and the trenches blown in. But the chaps on our right were hung up by four strong posts in a dip of the ground, which the artillery hadn't been able to get at properly. We didn't discover it for a bit, and kept pushing on till suddenly we found we were getting it in the back of the neck. It was a dirty business."

"I heard a man tell the Major that there was a gap somewhere on the right and that the Huns had got through behind us. The Fritzies in front were getting their courage back now they saw us hung up, and began opening heavy machine gun fire on us. Then our Major showed he was a soldier. He sent most of us on as if there was nothing the matter, and it's not always so easy to get men going with a swing immediately after a check, and he himself went with a party of rifle grenadiers, two Lewis gun banches and a platoon to fill up the gap. By a real bit of luck some tanks came along soon after to clear up the trouble."

"Some of them knocked out the nests which were holding up the right and another played tidleywinks with the ones who'd been shooting at the back of our necks. Meanwhile we'd gone and taken our final objective. Presently our right came on and did the same."

"Not that our troubles were over. The Boches counter-attacked us like sin and drove us out twice; but we were in possession all right when the bell rang, and our men are well out beyond that now."

"But it shows what good judgement is. If our Major had got the wind up, as he might easily have done, for being shot at from behind is the worst thing that can happen, he'd have retired us and then, perhaps, that would have put "paid against the whole outfit."

Music and Drama

"VERY GOOD EDDIE" COMING Manager J. T. Whittaker will have his attraction at the Grand Opera House for Tuesday evening, Oct. 9th. Marbury-Domastock Co's "Very Good Eddie," which is one of the greatest musical treats in years. Its tuneful, catchy score and "whistleable" melodies mark it as one of the greatest musical successes of recent seasons. For the present season the management has provided a cast of all-round excellence; one that will give an effervescent, sparkling performance in rapid tempo and which is known as "pep" for want of a better name, and which is the life and bone and sinew of a musical comedy of the ultra-modern pattern such as "Very Good Eddie."

"A MORMON MAID" starring Mac Murray, supported by Hobart Bosworth, Frank Borsage and a strong cast, was the Thanksgiving attraction at the Grand Opera House, attended by a large number. The picture is a powerful portrayal of life in western America in the middle of the last century, and is a preachment against the religion of the Latter Day Saints. Moreover, it is a production of exceptionally strong dramatic opportunities, and Mac Murray has seldom appeared to better advantage than in the role of Dora Hogue, the girl driven to confess to a sin not hers in order to escape being forced into a Mormon marriage. Other films shown included a travel picture and a Black Diamond comedy, featuring Victor Moore, he of

CHILDREN HATE PILLS, CALOMEL AND GASTOR OIL

If cross, feverish constipation, give "California Syrup of Figs"

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them. With our children, it's different. Mothers who cling to the old ways of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them. If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

the infinitesimal smile and averted pupils. THE BRANT Admirers of Douglas Fairbanks—who is not—need no advice to see him in his latest Artcraft release "Wild and Woolly," in which he heads the bill at the Brant theatre for the first of this week, with the result of crowded houses afternoon and evening on the holiday. The acrobatic Douglas plays the role of an eastern lad who longs for the wild and woolly west, and who finds it most unexpectedly. Incidentally, Doug gets away with some of his cleverest gymnastic feats, and displays riding ability which few can equal. Little Mary McAllister, the child wonder, makes her debut to Brantford audiences in the first of a novel series of Essanay pictures, "Do Children Count?" with a motive sufficiently original to ensure success. Don Quimby and Anglin, entertainers de luxe, present a high class vaudeville offering.

WEAK BOYS AND GIRLS It is a mistake to think that anaemia is only a girl's complaint. Girls probably show the effect of weak, watery blood more plainly than boys. Delayed development, pale faces, headaches, palpitation, and a feeling of listlessness, call attention to weak blood in the case of girls. But many boys in their teens grow thin and "weedy" and have pimples on their face, showing that they have not enough blood. The anaemic boy is just as likely to become a victim of consumption as the pale, breathless girl with her headaches and worn-out look. Let the boy in this condition catch cold and he will lose his strength and his health becomes precarious. To prevent serious disaster to those of the rising generation, let both boys and girls be given the new rich blood which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are famous the world over for making. When given these pills watch how soon the appetite returns and how the languid girl or the weak boy becomes full of activity and high spirits. Remember that the boy has to develop, too, if he is to make a strong, hearty man. Give both the boys and girls a fair chance to develop strongly through the new, rich blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make. You will see active boys and girls, instead of weakly children around you. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be obtained by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Medical Boards are Ready!

Medical Boards are now ready to examine all men who apply as to their physical fitness for military service. These boards are established throughout this district. Upon examination, the medical board will classify each applicant according to his fitness; into Category A if he is fit for service in overseas fighting units; Category B if fit for service overseas in Army Medical Corps, Forestry Battalions, etc; Category C if fit for service in Canada only, etc.

Only men whose medical examination places them in Category A will be included amongst those required to join the colours in the first instance; the men placed in any other category will remain at home until men in the category to which he has been assigned are called to the colours. The men placed in Category A may still apply for exemption on any ground.

Men between the ages of 20 to 34 inclusive, who were unmarried or widowers without children on July 6th, 1917, are strongly advised to report before a Medical Board at once. This is the quickest and surest way for them to find out their status under the Act.

Parents and employers are also urged to have those in whose cases they are specially interested visit a Medical Board and undergo examination. The methods of examination are simple and will result in no discomfort or inconvenience.

Now is the time for employers to obtain facts of the greatest value to them in making their calculations. The Medical Boards will determine how many of their employees will be left at home for physical reasons and how many will be selected for service unless an application for exemption be made with success.

Issued by The Military Service Council.

An Outsider

(By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE)

AUTHOR OF
"The Lone Wolf"
"Joan Thursday"
"The Brass Bowl" etc.

(From Saturday's Daily.)
Behind her back the furtive business of searching her room, so inevitably pre-destined to failure and confusion, was being vigorously prosecuted, to judge by the sounds that marked its progress. And from the shifting play of shadows along the wall she had every reason to believe that Miss Pride was leading the detective a willing hand. If so, it was well in character; nothing could be more consistent with the spinster's disposition than this eagerness to believe the worst of the woman she chose to consider her rival in the affections of Mrs. Gosnold. A pitiful, impotent, jealousy-bitten creature, Sally was almost sorry for her, picturing the abashment of the woman when her hopes proved fruitless, her fawning overtures toward forgiveness and reconciliation. Possibly she had been one of the two to accuse Sally on the cards.

The other? Not Mrs. Standish.
She would hardly direct suspicion against the girl she despised when by so doing she would imperil her own schemes. She was too keenly selfish to cut off her nose to spite her face. Sally could imagine Mrs.
Standish all this while as remaining conspicuously aloof, overseeing the search with her habitual manner of weary toleration, but inwardly more than a little tremulous with fear lest the detective or Mercedes chanced upon that jewel-case and so upset her claim against the burglar-insurance concern.

Lytleton, too, would in all likelihood be standing aside, posing with a nonchalant shoulder against the wall, his slender, nicely manicured fingers stroking his scrubby mustache (now that he had discarded the beard of Sir Francis, together with his mask) and not quite hiding the smirk of his contemptible satisfaction—the satisfaction of one who had lied needlessly, meanly, out of sheer spite, and successfully, since his lie, being manufactured out of whole cloth, could never be controverted save by the worthless word of the woman libeled.

More than probably Lytleton had been the other anonymous informant.
And whatever the outcome of this sickening affair (Sally told herself with a shudder of disgust) she might thank her lucky stars for this blessing, that she had been spared the unspeakable ignominy of not finding Mr. Lytleton out before it was too late.

Trego, too, though she could consider a little more compassionately the poor figure Trego cut, with his pretensions to sturdy common sense dissipated and exposing the sentimentality so susceptible that he was unable to resist the blandishments of the first woman who chose to set her cap for him. Poor thing; he would suffer a punishment even beyond his deserts when Mrs. Arden had consummated her purpose and bound him legally to her.

For all that, Sally felt constrained to admit, Trego had been in a measure right in his contention though it had needed his folly to persuade her of his wisdom. She was out of her element here. And now she began to despair of ever learning to breathe with ease the rarefied atmosphere of the socially elect. The stifling midsummer air that stagnated in Huckster's Bargain Basement was, preferably, heavy though it was with the smell of those to whom soap is a luxury,

and frequently a luxury uncovered;
there, at least, sincerity and charity did not suffocate, and there, humbler virtues flourished.

Bitterly Sally begrudged the concession that she had been wrong. All along she had nourished her ambition for the society of her betters on the conviction that, with all her virtues, she was as good as anybody. To find that with all her faults she was better, struck a cruel blow at her pride.

A low whistle interrupted at once her morose reflections and the mute activity of the search.

Immediately she heard the detective explain: "What's this?"
Miss Pride uttered a shrill cry of satisfaction.

Mrs. Standish said sharply: "Aunt Abby's solitaire!"

To this chorus Mr. Lytleton added a drawl: "Well, I'm damned!"
Unable longer to contain her alarm and curiosity, Sally sprang from her chair and confronted four accusing countenances.

"What do you know about this?"
the detective demanded.

Clipped between his thumb and forefinger a huge diamond coruscated in the light of the electric.

Momentarily the earth quaked beneath Sally's feet.

Her eyes were fixed on the ring and blank with terror; her mouth dropped wittlessly ajar, there was no more color in her face than in white paper, never a countenance spelled guilt more damningly than hers.

"Yes!" Miss Pride chimed—in triumphantly. "What have you to say to this, young woman?"

Sally heard, as remotely, her own voice ask hoarsely: "What—what is it?"

"A diamond ring," Mason responded obviously.

"Aunt Abby's," Mrs. Standish returned.

"Aunt Abby's," Mrs. Standish repeated.

Mason glanced at her. "You recognize it?"

She nodded.

"Where did you find the thing?"
Sally demanded.

"Rolled up inside this pair of stockings," Mason indicated the limp, black silk affairs which he had taken from a dresser-drawer. "Well, how about it?"

"I don't know anything about it,
I tell you I never saw it before."

The detective grinned incredulously. "Not even on Mrs. Gosnold's fingers?"

"No—never anywhere."

"Mrs. Gosnold seldom wears the ring," Mrs. Standish put in; "but it is now the less hers."

"Well, where's the rest of the stuff?" Mason insisted.

"I don't know. I tell you, I know nothing about that ring. I have no idea how it got where you found it.
Somebody must have put it there."
Sally caught her distracted head between her hands and tried her best to compose herself. But it was use-

HOW TO BUY
Go to the store yourself.
Select for yourself the article you desire to purchase. Inquire its price.
If quality and price please you, be sure that you get in weight or measure the amount you buy. Watch the scale. Watch the measure.
You are entitled to all the bone and the trimmings of the piece of meat that you buy. You should take home and make use of such bone and trimmings. The fat can be rendered and used for cooking purposes; the bone and trimmings used for soup or stew. When the trimmings are not taken home, the butcher throws them into a box under the counter and sells them to someone else. They belong to you and you should have them.
In buying meat, don't go in and ask for 25c worth of meat, and leave the butcher to decide how much meat you should have for a quarter. Select your piece of meat, ask the price per pound; say how many pounds you want; have it weighed; see that you get your weight and that the butcher's calculation as to how much meat you have, at a certain price per pound, is correct. Many a penny is lost to the customer by neglecting the above simple precautions.
Don't buy in small quantities if you can possibly avoid it. Buy for cash and buy in large quantities foods that are not perishable. Buy where you can do the best.
Whenever possible buy in bulk and not in package.
You will find it cheaper to buy your vinegar by the gallon than by the bottle.
Have you ever stopped to figure out how much more you would get for your money if you bought certain articles of food by the pound instead of by the package?
Food that is wrapped and sold in attractive-looking packages must of necessity cost more than the same food sold in bulk, which means sold by the pound. There are several reasons why so many foods are put up in packages.
First. The package looks pretty, appeals to the eye, and makes the food seem more appetizing.
Second. Most of the packages are air-tight and dustproof, and for sanitary reasons a great many people prefer food that is done up in packages.
As a matter of fact, it is possible for your grocer to keep on hand, in bulk, exactly the same foods as the packages contain, and it is also possible for him to keep them in bulk in sanitary, dustproof containers, so that the foods should be clean when they get to you.

LADY'S EMPIRE KIMONO.

By Anabel Worthington.

A kimono of some sort is a necessary garment which every woman requires, particularly when she is travelling. A very popular style is illustrated in No. 8473. It has the Empire waist line in an irregular shape, which gives the effect of scallops. A broad collar of satin is an attractive feature, and corresponding trimming pieces are stitched to the sleeves. The pattern is perforated for two lengths—the full length kimono and the style which comes just below the hips. Japanese crepe, washable silk, crepe de Chine or flowered lawn will make a pretty kimono.

The kimono pattern, No. 8473, is cut in sizes 32, 36, 40 and 44 inches bust measure. Width at lower edge of kimono is 2 1/4 yards. The long one requires in 36 inch size 5 yards 26 inch material, with 1/2 yard 36 inch contrasting goods.

less; the evidence was too frightfully clear against her; hysteria threatened.

"Mrs. Standish gave me the stockings," she stammered wildly, "rolled up as you found them. Ask her."

"Oh, come, Miss Manwaring; you go too far!" Mrs. Standish told her coldly. "If you are possibly innocent, compose yourself and prove it.
If you are guilty, you may as well confess and not strain our patience any longer. Don't try to drag me into the affair; I won't have it."
"I guess there isn't much question of innocence or guilt," Mason commented. "Here's evidence enough it only remains to locate the rest of the lot. It'll be easier for you," he addressed Sally directly, "if you own up—come through with a straight story and save Mrs. Gosnold trouble and expense."

"He passed encouragingly, but Sally shook her head.

"I can't tell you anything," she protested. "I don't know anything.
It's some horrible mistake. Or else it's a plan to throw suspicion on me and divert it from the real thief."

"Plant?" Miss Pride queried with a specious air of bewilderment.

"Thieves' jargon—manufactured evidence," Lytleton explained.

"Ah, yes," said the old maid with a nod of satisfaction.

"If it's a plant, it's up to you to show us," Mason came back. "If it isn't, you may as well lead us to the rest of it quick."

"You've looked everywhere, I presume?" Lytleton inquired casually.

"Everywhere I can think of in this room and the bath-room," the detective averred; "and I'm a pretty good little looker. That's my business, of course. I'm willing to swear anywhere hereabouts."

"Unless, perhaps, she's got it on her person."

"That might be, of course, Mason allowed, eyeing the girl critically.

"But somehow I don't think so. If she had, why would she have left this one piece buried here? No;
and you don't feel like doing much of anything. You are likely to be dependent and to borrow trouble, just as if you hadn't enough already. Don't be a victim any longer.
The old reliable medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, gives strength and tone to the kidneys and builds up the whole system.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar herbs. No other medicine acts like it, because no other medicine has the same formula or ingredients. Accept no substitute, but insist on having Hood's, and get it today."

ed, "but if you insist—and on dear Abigail's account—"
With a tremendous effort Sally whipped her faculties together and temporarily reassessed the normal outward aspect of her forceful self.
