TRUE LOVE'S PASSION.

CHAPTER X. A Love Match.

"I shouldn't call that a fault," she said, "and it is not the character she generally bears; but don't think I am speaking against her. Girls will be girls, and you can't put old heads on young shoulders, especially when the heads are so pretty as Becca's. But don't let us waste time talking about her; I want to hear all about yourself—that is, all you care to tell me," and she slid her hand onto Norah's.

"I will tell you everything, but there is very little to tell," said Norah, and she began, shyly at first, to describe her past life and the little cottage on the cliff. Lady Ferndale drew her on, now and again bestowing a gentle pressure on the small hand, and before they had gone a couple of miles, Norah found herself talking to this new friend as if she had known her for years.

As Lord Ferndale often said, his wife would draw the heart out of a stone, if it possessed one.

"And you lived alone with this old servant with the strange name? You must have felt very solitary sometimes, dear. And what a change all this must seem to you!"

"Yes, it was lonely sometimes; but Catherine was not like a servant; she was a second mother to me," said Norah, in a low voice, her head averted. "The change!" she smiled. "It is like a fairy story. It is all so beautiful that it is like a dream. I only wish—"

"Well?" asked Lady Ferndale, with a smile.

"Oh, sometimes I wish that it was not all quite so grand. I am always afraid that I shall make some mistake."

"I am quite sure you haven't," retorted Lady Ferndale, shrewdly. "My dear, you behave as if you were born in the purple. As I told your father, you must have got your manners from him, the best of his. But it is a change! And it will be greater and more striking presently, for we mean to make a great deal of you. You are our latest acquisition, you know, and must expect to be treated to a little lionizing."

As she spoke, they entered a lane up a steep hill, and she pulled up the ponies into a walk.

Norah smiled. "I shall be such a very poor kind of lion," she said. "I'm afraid I don't even know how to roar. I—" She stopped suddenly, and Lady Ferndale glanced at her to see the cause.

Norah had happened to glance toward the left side of the lane just a little ahead of them, and saw a young man seated on a gate. An easel stood below him, but he was evidently taking a rest, and sat with his arms resting on his knees, and smoking, in deep thought.

She tried not to blush, but she felt the hot blood rising to her face, and she knew that Lady Ferndale's quick eyes had noticed it.

"Who is that, dear?" she asked. "His name is Cyril Burne," replied Norah, quietly, and as indifferently as she could. "He is an artist."

"Evidently," said Lady Ferndale. "What a handsome young fellow! Is he a friend of yours, dear?" "Scarcely a friend—I have only met him once—" She paused, remembering the voice on the terrace. "He is painting bits of the park."

"Of course; I had forgotten that you only came the other day. Yes, he is remarkably handsome, and it's a nice face, too," said Lady Ferndale, dropping her voice as they came within Cyril's hearing.

He looked up, saw Norah, and dropping from the gate, took his pipe from his mouth and raised his hat.

"Shall I stop?" asked Lady Ferndale, in a whisper. "Oh, no," replied Norah, in an equally low voice, and the color rose more decidedly.

"Very well," said Lady Ferndale, and the ponies walked on. "I'm rather disappointed," she said, with a little laugh, "for I wanted to hear him speak."

Lady Ferndale's disappointment was short-lived, for they heard some one running behind, and looking back, she saw Cyril with a handkerchief in his hand.

"I've dropped my handkerchief," said Lady Ferndale, and she laughed. "It is a fortunate thing it is mine, instead of yours, or he would have thought—"

"Yes, it is mine," said Lady Ferndale. "Oh, thank you so much. I am so sorry you should have had so much trouble."

"It was no trouble," he said, in his frank, musical voice, which evidently pleased her ladyship, for she smiled upon him graciously.

"Introduce him, dear," she said, in a low voice, as she put the handkerchief in the carriage basket.

Norah bent forward and made the introduction, not blushing now, but with that sweet gravity which Lady Ferndale had noticed and been so quick to admire.

Cyril bowed, and waited to be addressed.

"Lady Norah tells me you are painting some views in Santeigh, Mr. Burne," said Lady Ferndale. "I hope you will not be too exclusive, and that you will not altogether neglect the rest of the locality. Santeigh doesn't monopolize all the picturesque; we have got some of it at Ferndale."

He looked at her, with the pleasant smile in his handsome eyes.

"Dare I take that as a permission?" he said.

"Oh, yes," replied Lady Ferndale, in her open-hearted way. "Lord Ferndale will be delighted if you will paint where you please. He is almost an artist himself."

"I am very fortunate," he said.

It was just the kind of response to gain Lady Ferndale's heart, and she gave a little nod of approval.

"Well, I think you are, to have such a lovely profession, and such lovely places for it," she said. "Good evening."

Cyril paused a moment to set a rein straight that had got crooked, then lifted his hat and stood back. As he did so, he raised his eyes and looked at Norah for a moment—not with the bold stare of the ill-bred, but with a respectful glance—which she responded to with a slight bow, and the carriage drove on.

"I daresay you think me a very eccentric person, to ask you to introduce me to a man who is almost a stranger to you, my dear," she said, with a smile.

"Was it strange?" said Norah, with a little start, as if she were waking from a dream.

"Well, it was a little; but then, you see, I knew that he was a gentleman."

"Why, yes!" said Norah, below her breath. "Yes; at my age, one is never deceived. One look is enough; and if his face had not proclaimed him, his voice would have done so. But I suppose it was wrong. My husband is always scolding me for what he calls my precipitancy. You mustn't follow my example, but rather take warning by me."

They drove up to the house through a quaint garden in the Dutch style, and Lord Ferndale came down the steps. He was dressed in a white linen suit, with a straw hat, and a smile beamed over his handsome face when he saw who it was his wife had brought home.

"Behold the captive of my bow and spear, Edward," said Lady Ferndale.

"This is a delightful surprise, Lady Norah," he said, taking her hand and holding it with a gentle pressure. "I'm awfully glad to see you."

The Earl of Arrowdale would have gone to the stake rather than utter such a word in his welcome to a lady, but to Norah it sounded deliciously hearty, and she looked at Lord Ferndale with a shy gratitude in her dark eyes.

Guildford Berton never does anything that one can complain of. And, really, I ought not to prejudice you against him, for you will be sure to see a great deal of him."

So they talked, the elder lady as delighted with Norah as Norah was with her, and after a time they reached a rambling Queen Anne mansion in red brick, looking, as Norah thought, like a picture of Millais' rather than real brick and stone; and with the ivy climbing over it, and setting every glistening window in a deep green frame.

"Yes, it's very pretty," said Lady Ferndale, in response to Norah's exclamation of delight; "and of course I'm very fond and proud of it, though it is not nearly so grand a place as yours. I have spent many happy years there," she added, with a little sigh and blush. "Mine was a love match, my dear, and, unlike some love matches, it has turned out very well. I am still in love with my husband, and I think he likes me a little," and she laughed.

They drove up to the house through a quaint garden in the Dutch style, and Lord Ferndale came down the steps. He was dressed in a white linen suit, with a straw hat, and a smile beamed over his handsome face when he saw who it was his wife had brought home.

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, Nov. 6.
The Governor, Newfoundland:
The French have taken Fort Vaux and the villages of Vaux and Damoupy. On the Somme bad weather and only minor operations. The Italians have made important progress east of Gorizia and Carso, capturing nine thousand prisoners. No change on the Roumanian and Russian fronts. In East Africa a strong enemy column has been defeated on the Rufiji River. A British submarine torpedoed an enemy battleship in the North Sea yesterday. The extent of the damage is unknown.

BONAR LAW.

GERMANS REPULSED.

PARIS, Nov. 6.
A violent attack by German troops was made last night on the position captured by the French between Sailly Saillisset and the St. Pierre-Vaast Wood. The war office announced today that this assault was repulsed with heavy loss to the Germans. Some ground was gained by the Germans in the Wood and in the village of Saillisset. On the Verdun sector there has been active cannonading in the Damoupy region, but no infantry engagements occurred. Elsewhere along the front the night was calm.

ANOTHER NORWEGIAN SUNK.

LONDON, Nov. 6.
Lloyds announce that the Norwegian steamer Lånse has been sunk by a submarine and thirty men have landed at Barry. The Lånse was sunk Oct. 28. The men who landed at Barry were brought in by the Norwegian steamer Trimp.

BRITISH RELINQUISH GROUND.

LONDON, Nov. 6.
Strong German counter-attacks last night compelled the British to relinquish a portion of the ground they had captured in the neighborhood of Tante-De-Wartencourt on the Somme front, the war office announced today.

TEUTON TROOPS RETIRE.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 6.
The war office announces that Rumanian forces in Dobruja have compelled the retirement of the Teutonic troops, which in their retreat set fire to several villages.

GERMAN BATTLESHIP HIT.

is not known, the Admiralty announced. The official announcement follows: One of our submarines operating in the North Sea reports she fired a torpedo at a German battleship of the dreadnought type near the Danish coast, yesterday. The vessel was hit, but the amount of damage is unknown. The British announcement gives no intimation whether any considerable portion of the German high seas fleet was in the North Sea yesterday. It was off the Danish coast that the main German and British fleets engaged in battle last May. On several occasions the German fleet has left its base for a short cruise in the North Sea. Ordinarily a dreadnought would not be employed merely for reconnoitering.

FRENCH FLAG HOISTED.

LONDON, Nov. 6.
Reuter's Athens correspondent says it is reported from Patras that the French flag was hoisted yesterday on the Greek light flotilla at Keratsini. The Greek government last week refused to permit the entente allies to use this flotilla for patrol purposes on the ground that it would be equivalent to a departure from neutrality.

ITALIANS BEAT OFF ATTACKS.

ROME, Nov. 6.
Austrian attacks on the Italian positions on the Carso front were beaten off at the point of the bayonet, the war office announced today. The Italian lines in this district were advanced towards Trieste, being pressed and straightened out at several points. A few prisoners were taken.

ROMANIANS COMPELLED TO RETIRE.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 6.
The Rumanian troops in the vicinity of Predeal were compelled to retire yesterday before the invading Austro-German forces, the war office announced today. In the Dobruja the Russians have carried out successful operations.

GERMAN SUB. DESTROYED.

BERLIN, Nov. 6.
The destruction of the German submarine U-20 by her crew, after she had gone aground on the west coast of Jutland, is reported by the German Admiralty today. The official announcement reads: On the evening of Nov. 4 the submarine U-20, in consequence of fog, ran aground at Bulbjerg, on the west Jutland coast, all attempts to float her being futile. She called for assistance, but efforts made by torpedo boats to drag her away were without success. The submarine at noon of Nov. 5 was therefore blown up. Her crew were taken off by a torpedo boat.

IN THE CARPATHIANS.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 6.
Fighting has occurred near Kiriliba in the Carpathians, on the border between Bukovina and Hungary, where the Austro-German forces were repulsed after a temporary success.

FRENCH MINISTER AT SALONIKA.

PARIS, Nov. 6.
General Rouques, Minister of War, has arrived at Salonika. The French official journal of Nov. 1 said that General Rouques was absent from Paris on an important mission.

GETTING READY TO START.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 6.
Work of re-loading the undersea freighter Deutschland for the return trip to Germany, began in earnest today. It is expected that the cargo of crude rubber and nickel, which she is to carry back, will be on board by Friday, which day it has been indicated the submarine will start back for Bremen.

INTERESTING RUMOR.

LONDON, Nov. 6.
In many quarters here an interesting bit of gossip is afloat. It is to the effect that Sir Robert Borden, Canadian Premier, will assume the duties of Canadian High Commissioner in Britain, relieving Sir George Perly, on the latter's appointment as Canadian Minister of Militia Overseas.

POLITICAL INTEREST LIVELY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.
Political headquarters still presented scenes of activity today. The last reports received from the political battleground, containing final instructions, sent by both chairmen, contained little to add to the previous forecast. Republican Chairman Willcox predicted that Hughes would receive 100 majority in the Electoral College. While Democratic Chairman McCormack gave Wilson 364 votes in that body. The necessary elective vote at the College for either candidate is 234. The larger participation of women as voters in the Presidential campaign and Congressional elections are of keen interest to politicians generally. Returns from States in which women will vote, it is admitted, will be closely and anxiously scanned. So far as Congress is concerned, a full House of Representatives and 33 United States Senators will be elected. The total members of the House is 435. The necessary majority is 218. In the Senate the present membership is 96, and the necessary majority 49. In all 35 new Senators will take seats next March. Of these the Republicans elected two at the September elections in Maine. Forty-two of the States will elect the same officials to-day in addition to the National and Congressional candidates. Of these States 35 will elect Governors. Fair weather and a moderate temperature is the forecast generally for election day. If this prediction holds true, virtually a full vote is expected to be cast throughout the country to-day.

AEROPLANES RESTING.

With the French Army on the Somme Front (via Chanilly), Nov. 6. (From the Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press.)—The battle to-day in the district between Saillisset and St. Pierre-Vaast Wood was fought without the assistance of aeroplanes. The wind was blowing eighty miles an hour and prevented the planes from ascending, consequently the artillery fire from 100 German batteries as well as from French and British, was uncontrolled aerially. Every inch of the battle ground was a danger spot. The correspondent of the Associated Press and other correspondents were compelled to take shelter in dug-outs. When the French infantry attacked a powerfully defended series of trenches with trench mortars and grenades, they found a strong garrison, of which one portion surrendered in a body. With officers and more than 500 men running at racing pace in the French lines for two miles and a half, with the rear accompanied by only half a dozen French guards, it was a strange sight as they ran the gauntlet of the German barrage fire. St. Pierre-Vaast Wood, which is more than two kilometres square, with many positions enfilading each other, proved a most difficult problem for the French, but the French infantry finally rushed the place and held it with slight losses. The battle continued into the night.

HEAVILY SHELLED.

LONDON, Nov. 6.
A war office statement issued this evening says: On the front between the Ancre and the Somme we were heavily shelled in the neighborhood of Les Bouffes and Le Sara. On our right we continued consolidation of the ground occupied yesterday. Our artillery and trench mortars successfully bombarded hostile trenches south of Armentieres. Yesterday, in spite of a gale, our air craft did useful work in observing for our artillery. One machine was in the air more than three hours.

TIMES' COMMENTS ON TEUTONIC PROCLAMATION.

LONDON, Nov. 6.
To-day's Times comments as follows on the Teutonic proclamation of Independence of Poland, under the heading of "Trap for Poles": Russia held out to the Poles as a reward for the sacrifices of exceptional danger she had called upon them to face, the abolition of the boundaries which have served as the living body of the nation since 1772, the national freedom under the sceptre of the Czar for the freedom of faith and self-government. The Central Powers made no such offer. They propose to form an independent state, with an hereditary monarchy, not out of all the territories of the old Polish Republic, but only out of the Polish district they have seized from Russia. Russian Poland's national development, which implies the necessity of a re-union of the Polish Provinces of Austrian and Prussian Poland, is arrested and paralyzed. From the first curious stress has been laid on the proclamation of the military department in the projected kingdom. There in the ranks of the Central Powers are dangerously planned. New Poland is to have a new army of her own; indeed, there is reason to believe that the whole scheme is merely a device to force the Polish subjects of Russia in the occupied districts, into the military service of Germany. Hindenburg has insisted upon this new source of manpower in the future, and he has called for 700,000 recruits from this source. The first service of the Independent Polish State will be to supply them. The Kingdom has been created in order to lend a show legally to the conscription of Russian subjects for war against Russia. Such a project is a flagrant outrage against the first elements of international rights, but in accordance with Frederick the Great's practice of making prisoners fight their own countrymen.

25 cents Destroys Your Dandruff and Stops Falling Hair

Save your hair! Make it thick, wavy and beautiful—try this!

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine to-night—grow—any time—will surely save your hair. Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Baseball.

The Red Sox, champions of the known world of baseball, are sold. Last night the deal was consummated whereby the ownership of the same masters of the realm of the diamond sport passed from the three-year-old possession of Joseph J. Lannin into the hands of Harry H. Frazee of New York City and Hugh J. W. of Philadelphia, tyros in the venture of owning a baseball club, and with the experience only of having carried through to successful conclusion large affairs in the theatrical world. The price said to have been paid by the new owners is $750,000.—Boston Post, Nov. 2. [Jos. J. Lannin is married to a Newfoundland young lady.]

The "Gift of Kings."

There is no gift which conveys such a personal message of regard—as a Portrait—for years it has been the gift of romance, the "Gift of Kings"—there is nothing so delightful to give—there is certainly nothing so welcome to receive. The exquisite Sketch Photographs made at the Studio of S. H. Parsons & Sons, corner of Water and Prescott Streets, are entirely different from ordinary work. The convincing likeness, the refined simplicity, the absence of accessories, the slight suggestion of background, the freedom of the black pencil work, give the portraits an unrivalled charm and interest. For good class work such as the firm of S. H. Parsons & Sons are noted for, it is essential that ample time be allowed for the completion of all orders. There are a large number of people who make praiseworthy resolutions to have photographs made early for Xmas, but who put off ordering "till the last moment"; we advise these people to place their orders as early as possible to avoid disappointment. We have on hand Leather Pocket cases for photographs, a most welcome present to your friend to take abroad. Studio open every night.

Largest English Mail.

By far the largest English mail to be received at the G. P. O. at one time arrived by the S. S. Durango yesterday, consisting of 45 large sacks of papers, 8 bags of letters containing 176 registered letters and about 20,000 ordinary letters, and also 22 baskets of parcel post. Yesterday was indeed a busy day for the postal officials, for besides the Durango's mail there was an English mail by the coast country express, which also brought over 150 sacks of Canadian and American mail.

The Presidential Elections.

There would be little purpose in speculating upon the result of to-day's elections in the United States, for it will be known here to-night or at the latest, to-morrow morning. Few presidential elections, it may be said, have been marked by such uncertainty, contrasting strangely with the importance of the times. Therein possibly lies the explanation, for even the large domestic issues will probably yield first place to the question of foreign policy in the minds of the voters, and the character and divergent opinions of the nation are well reflected in the indecisiveness of the candidates' own attitudes. The question being one so close to the national prestige, the American people rather deserve our sympathy in being given no opportunity to pronounce a clear judgment upon it. Wilson's desire has evidently been for peace at any price, though this has been indignantly denied; and in the opinion of many Americans the price actually paid has been the honour of the nation, and too high. The Democrats countenance willingly the slogan "He kept us out of war" and even their leader seems to like the sound of it. A cynic would enjoy himself analysing the meaning of the words and the ideas in the minds of those that utter them. They clearly imply that America was in danger of war and that the danger was in some way averted by her President. But it was not threatened by Germany, who, if she had wanted war, would have made it without the asking—she merely wished to do what damage she could without it, and that is still her attitude. The alternative, therefore, must be accepted, that the threat of war was in the obligation laid on America herself to defend her honour and uphold her sovereign dignity, and that it was America herself that was by Wilson restrained and "kept out" of war. It will be seen, then, how utterly humiliating, how degrading, how unworthy of any nation the cry is. It is bad enough to have to confess the shame, but to trumpet it aloud as the chief merit and recommendation of the man primarily responsible reveals a strange moral vision indeed. It is materialism naked and unashamed. Unfortunately, those who appreciate all this cannot arise in their might and their numbers and give their answer. They can, of course, vote for Hughes—and justify at the polling booths by phenates and pro-Germans, who will claim them as allies. Hughes' own denunciation and Roosevelt's fiery declamation notwithstanding, he has the German support, and they are identified with his cause whether he approve their own or not. And though Wilson may have halved America and Peace in a glory that has blinded him to everything else, he has never been guilty of overt undue friendliness to Germany, while under his government the Allies have undoubtedly got much material help from his country. Under the peculiar circumstances, outsiders, particularly the belligerents, look to the issue with more interest than concern. If the betting, which leans slightly to Hughes' favor, justifies itself, we cannot look for any marked change in American policy until he takes office in March. The "Marina" situation, which will undoubtedly become acute when the excitement of the polls has subsided, will in any case be left in Wilson's hands. There are more unlikely things than that he will then consider himself free to handle it more firmly than when the elections had to be kept in view. If Hughes is returned, there will still, in all probability, be opportunity enough when he assumes office to show his hand, and we shall see whether consistency is considered a more necessary virtue in his than in other political offices.

A Hero Every Inch.

Tributes by His Men to the Bravery of 2nd Lieut. Cecil Chitt. By yesterday's mail a number of letters were received from which are gleaned particulars of the latest fighting in which our men were engaged. When they are all known, the story will be almost as stirring and glorious as that of Beaumont Hamel. Especially touching and sincere are some of the tributes paid by the men in his charge to the late Lieutenant Cecil Chitt. Lance Corporal Robert Chafe, writing home, tells how Lieut. Chitt addressed them before they went into action. It would be death or glory to them, he said: if he fell, the Sergeant would command them, and each man was to carry on steadily. He was absolutely fearless, entirely forgetful of himself and seemed to be everywhere. His example inspired his men, who would have followed him anywhere and who, when he fell, swopt on past him in obedience to his last orders.

Reds' Boats.

The Argyle left Placentia at 6 a.m. to-day for west. The Clyde leaving Lewisporte to-day. The Dundee left Port Blandford at 12.30 p.m. yesterday. The Ethie due at Flower's Cove from north. The Glencoe left Belleoram at 2.15 p.m. yesterday, going west. The Home left Pilley's Island at 12.15 p.m. yesterday inward. The Kyle left Port aux Basques at 8 p.m. yesterday. The Meigs reached Port aux Basques at 11.50 a.m. to-day. The Sagona is north of Twillingate. The Neptune is due at Twillingate from the north. The Wren left Clarendville at 7.30 a.m. yesterday.

Wedding Bells.

Last Tuesday at St. Patrick's Church the friends and relatives of Miss M. Spencer of Placentia and Mr. J. H. Walsh of Willess Bay, witnessed a very pretty wedding, when Rev. Fr. Rensford united the above mentioned couple in the holy bonds of marriage. After the ceremony refreshments were served at the residence of the groom's brother. At 5.30 the party entertained for Willess Bay where a good time was enjoyed by a large circle of friends. The bride was assisted by Miss served at the residence of the groom's while Mr. Alex. Fraser of the city, acted as best man. We wish the young couple every happiness.

Here's a Poser.

Boston Transcript: Flying German Bases on American warships in honor of the Kaiser's birthday is a quaint old national custom followed by Mr. Wilson on the eve of Presidential elections, but when was the wife of the hero who sank the Lusitania born? The Trepassey train reached the city at 12.30 p.m. to-day.

Fishery Exports.

Proposed Dog Show.

A very enthusiastic meeting was held in the Board of Trade Building on November 4th, to consider the proposal of holding a Dog Exhibition in conjunction with the coming Poultry Exhibition. The following ladies and gentlemen were present:—Mrs. W. G. Gosling, Mrs. G. M. Barr, Commander McDermott, Rev. L. Pike, Messrs. Chafe, McPherson, Harvey, Bindon, Ryan, Chancer, Satter and Kavanagh. The following committee were appointed:—Commander McDermott, Chairman; P. Kavanagh, Secretary; Treasurer; Messrs. R. Harvey, Harold Macpherson and L. Chancer to act in conjunction with above. Anyone interested in the above association is requested to attend the meeting to be held on Friday, Nov. 10th, as advertised.

Police Court.

(Before Mr. Hutchings, K.C., J.P.) Two greyhounds, who were arrested last night, being found loaded below the "plimsoll," were cautioned and let go without fine. A horse case between a business man of the interior and a city cabman occupied the attention of the Court the remainder of the forenoon.

Chilly Days Ahead.

(From the New York Herald.) An altogether abnormal demand is responsible for the rapidly soaring cost of coal, according to reports gathered by departments of the Government. Exportation statistics furnished by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce show that for the nine months of this year ending with September the export of bituminous coal was more than 2,000,000 tons in excess of that for September, 1915, the increased export of anthracite for the same period being approximately 700,000 tons. The heavier demand is domestic, however, and comes from factories working day and night on war orders. Many of their contracts contain time penalties, so it is necessary to lay in heavy supplies of coal as early as possible to guard against failure to make contract deliveries. Statistics furnished by the Geological Survey show that there is no shortage in the supply of coal, and that the railroads are carrying more than ever before. But there is a car shortage owing to the railroads having been unable to purchase needed equipment during recent "lean years." Here in New York the price is doing a "leaps and bounds" act, and the supply in the hands of dealers is small. There may be chilly days ahead for those who did not do their coal buying early.

TO-DAY'S Messages.

11.00 A. M.

BISHOP OF WORCESTER SPEAKS.

NEW YORK, To-day. Speaking at a luncheon given in his honor here to-day by the Pilgrims of the States, the Right Rev. Hugh Wolcott Yeatman Biggs, Bishop of Worcester, England, asserted the role which the English people believe the most thoughtful Americans desire to play, that their nation shall be hailed by all the world, even by those who have been at war, as the herald of true peace and of the progress in which every nation, big or little, will have a place in God's sun. Later in his address the Bishop said, "I doubt whether the temper of the Allies would ever suffer any suggestion of peace intervention until the cause for which we are ready to give our all is accomplished. When peace comes, it would be indeed helpful if neutral countries lent a hand in the adjustment of all our furniture and the adjustment of these several conditions which will make for a lasting Commonwealth. That is what we aim at; and we are tired of the word 'Empire.' I do not think we want any longer to talk of the British Empire; we want to talk of the British Brotherhood and the British Commonwealth."

FRENCH PROGRESS.

PARIS, To-day. Additional progress was made during Monday by the French troops operating in the northern part of St. Pierre-Vaast Wood, and more prisoners were also taken by them, according to an official issued last night.

SHACKLETON IN SAN FRANCISCO.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., To-day. Sir Ernest Shackleton, Antarctic Explorer, arrived here yesterday whence he will take passage on Wednesday for Australia on his way south on the Polar expedition to rescue 10 of his men wrecked in the expedition in which Shackleton's Captain, Worsley, from New Zealand, was wrecked in the Polar ship Endurance.

WAR SUMMARY.

LONDON, To-day. After a week or more of doubt concerning the operations in the Dobruza region in Roumania, where the forces of the Teutonic Allies had been marching almost unimpeded from the Black Sea to the Danube, comes the report that the Roumanians have now taken the offensive, probably with aid by the Russians, and compelled the Teutons to retreat at several points. On the Transylvanian front, however, the Roumanians in the Jull Valley, who for some time have been holding the upper hand over the Austro-Germans, forcing them to give ground, have now been stopped and the Teutons have brought up reinforcements. In the Fredral Pass region, after heavy fighting, the Roumanians also have met with a reverse, being compelled to retreat after long stubborn battles all along the battle line. In France between the Somme and Ancre Rivers the Germans are tenaciously disputing attempts by the British and French to gain further ground. Berlin says in Sunday's fighting over a front of twelve miles the French and British suffered heavy losses and won nothing except a local gain in St. Pierre-Vaast Wood. London admits the British were compelled to give back to the Germans the ground the British previously won at Butte de Warlencourt. In St. Pierre-Vaast Wood, however, the French on Monday made further advance in the northern part of the Wood and captured additional prisoners, 600 of whom were taken in the fighting on Sunday and Monday.

ITALIANS HOLD THEIR GAINS.

ROME, To-day. Reports are that the Austrians are bringing up heavy reinforcements on the battle front north of Trieste. Here the Austrians apparently have taken the offensive but nowhere have they been able to regain any of their lost positions according to Rome. Bombardments and small infantry attacks continue the feature of the fighting in the Macedonian front.

THE LANSO INCIDENT.

LONDON, To-day. The morning papers give great prominence to the report that the steamer Lanso, sunk by a German submarine, was an American ship. Lloyds report that the vessel was no longer of American registry and has not been published here. The Lanso was hailed in the darkness 25 miles off the Portuguese coast by a German submarine on Nov. 2nd. The chief officer, who is a Chinaman, took crew aboard the submarine, which sank the Lanso by a bomb placed in the engine room. The members of the crew say that while they were aboard the submarine a British steamer was unsuccessfully attacked.

DUEL FATAL TO BOTH.

ROME, To-day. An Austrian submarine and an Italian destroyer were sunk in a duel on the night of Oct. 18th, according to an official statement. The submarine had attacked a transport which escaped.

THE CAPTAIN'S NARRATIVE.

LONDON, To-day. A Daily Chronicle despatch from Barry, Wales, says the officers and crew of the United States steamer Lanso were landed by the Norwegian vessel Tromp at Barry on Saturday night. The Lanso was bound from Manila to Havre with a cargo of rice. Captain Mainland, the commander; G. Godinez, chief officer, and William Minson, chief engineer, of the Lanso were seen by me and told me the story of their adventures on the evening of October 28. Said Captain Mainland: We were passing St. Vincent on the Portuguese coast when we encountered a German submarine. When we sighted her she was engaged in sinking a Norwegian vessel. She afterwards endeavoured to sink an English ship but was driven off by the guns of the latter. We slackened speed in order to sink the submarine, "waving orders to sink all ships of whatever nationality carrying contraband for the Allies. He regretted that he was compelled to do this, but he informed us his orders were imperative. He sent an officer and four sailors on the submarine, who ordered us to get into the ship's boats and go aboard the submarine. Then he placed a bomb in the engine room of my ship. A terrible explosion followed after we left ship, I didn't see her sinking. The Germans took away every article of value belonging to the ship, including the picture of my wife. They carried off the sextant and barometers. The submarine cruised about some time and finally the Commander put us aboard the Norwegian steamer Tromp, which brought us to Barry. We saw no more of the German vessel after we left."

CHICAGO, To-day. By far the largest vote in the history of Illinois elections is expected to be cast to-day by reason of the fact that women for the first time will vote for the President and Vice-President. SILVER FOR GERMANY.

NEW LONDON, Conn., To-day. Six and a half tons of silver bullion from the mint at San Francisco, valued at $150,000, was unloaded here to-day at the railway station and transferred to the German merchant submarine Deutschland for shipment across the ocean.

Leaving there the party will march to the C. L. B. Armoury. On Wednesday night the S. A. Band will turn out with the boys; on Thursday the T. A. Band and on Friday the C. C. C. Other speakers will address the meetings on the last three nights mentioned.

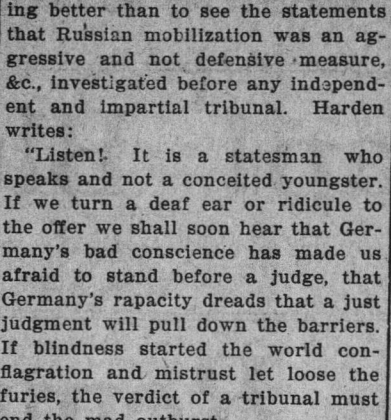

CHANGING HANDS.—The Norwegian steamer Jacobsen, which was engaged running in the coal trade between Sydney and this port, has been sold to another Norwegian concern and, we hear, at a handsome figure, her old age notwithstanding. The Jacobsen, with her consort the Njord, now in port here getting a new tall shaft, prosecuted the seal-fishery for her late owners in the Gulf the last two seasons at a loss. She is now at Sydney and soon will proceed to Norwegian waters, where, it is said, she will be used in connection with the fisheries there. Some of the crew of the Jacobsen were St. John's men, and they arrived here on the Sable L last night.

Harden For a Plan to Fix War's Blame.

Editor of Die Zukunft Approves Viscount Grey's Suggestion for Tribunal—Calls People Guiltless—He Sees Nations as Friends, with Mutual Agreements on Armaments. Berns, Oct. 29.—The whole of the current number of Die Zukunft is occupied by an article written by Maximilian Harden, who entitles it "Preliminary Examination" (Voruntersuchung). The article was obviously suggested by Viscount Grey's recent speech and its object seems to be to inculcate the idea which Harden has already mooted that Germany stands to gain rather than to lose by inquiring seriously whether the time has not arrived for a change in its war policy and a modification of its war aims. Harden describes Grey as being bowed and chastened by sorrow, occasioned by the war, and says the soul of this man is in mourning and the descent to official language is an unpleasant duty for him. Harden says he can quite understand that the British Foreign Minister has little to say on the war itself, and although he re-

More Lost Stories.

By RUTH CAMERON.

The lost and found department for lost stories is still flourishing. The person who supplied the information that "Satan Sanderson" was the name of the old-fashioned novel described in a previous issue, will please consider his or herself hanked. Here are some more lost notices.

"Do you think you can help me locate a little poem which was published in some of the Sunday papers at the time the Teddy-bears first became popular, telling what the dolls thought of the bears, for usurping their place in the affections of children that had hitherto been theirs? If this poem could be found, I would be very glad."

How The American Flag Was Made.

"Could you give me any information concerning a story that was published in one of the city newspapers in July about the American flag? It started 'Gee, ain't it fierce we ain't got no flag,' and then went on to tell how the woman took her skirt and made a flag."

We Washed The Gulls.

"Can any of your readers tell me where I could find a story which appeared some years ago in a paper partly given up to advertisements? The story was of the father of a family of taxidergers who, having married the wrong one, feels an immense relief and asks for a holiday to go on an spree to celebrate. After receiving the coveted permission, he returns in a few days and tells his fellow-workers at the office what a delightful spree he has had, going across the ferry and back, watching the gulls."

"I am one of many who think this department a blessing to seekers of lamented lost stories." About A Youth Who Wanted To Learn A Trade.

"I would like to find a lost poem. We had it for examination years ago. It was about a youth who wanted to learn a trade and he always found some fault with each, for instance, when he took up paper-hanging, he did not like the smell of paste, etc." Can anyone help these people out? The payment for such help is, as before stated, other people's willingness to try and help solve any similar problems you may have.

Makes Hair Grow.

All drug stores sell SALVIA, and it is guaranteed to grow hair or money back. The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of. If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears. The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, the Great American Hair Grower, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed.

And remember it destroys the Dandruff germ, the little pest that saps the life that should go to the hair from the roots. SALVIA is sold by first-class druggists under a positive guarantee to cure Dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in ten days, or money back. A large bottle costs 60c. The word "SALVIA" on every bottle.

"I have occasion to make several business calls a year upon men. Is it proper for me to send in my card when visiting offices?" asked Jane. "No, a woman does not send in her card at a man's business office. A better way is to give your name verbally to the clerk or servant," replied her aunt.

Von Hindenburg Presents Views.

Teutons are Confident Their Armies Will Win.

Berlin, Oct. 30, via Sayville.—"The situation is as good as possible, and all will be well also in the future."

This Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, chief of the German general staff, described the present war situation to a representative of the Vienna Neue Freie Presse, whom he received at headquarters in the presence of General Von Ludendorff, first quarter-master-general.

As to the duration of the war, Field Marshal Von Hindenburg says:

"That depends upon our enemies. Prophecy does not pay. During a war one had better leave it alone. It is possible that the year 1917 will bring battles which will decide the war. However, I do not know and nobody knows. I only know that we will fight this war to a final decision."

General Von Ludendorff here added: "We do not think of peace. We are absolutely decided to continue the war, as is shown with sufficient clearness by the measures of the allied (Teutonic) army commands."

Austria-Hungary Confident. This interview with the chief of staff was given out to-day by the Overseas News Agency for publication. It continues:

"The correspondent, in turn, reported to Field Marshal Von Hindenburg on the general feeling in Austria-Hungary, declaring it was one of confidence and satisfaction, but that, as everywhere, the end of the war was wished for. The Field Marshal replied:

"That we all wish: I understand this well. The Austro-Hungarian people have accomplished their full duty during this war, and have made all the heavy sacrifices which were necessary. But still new sacrifices must be made, lest those already made have been made in vain."

General Von Ludendorff interjected:

"Tell your Austrian friends that there is only one efficient means for ending the war, a firm will to end the war by victory. Every soldier and all others must work together. They must realize that no way but war leads to peace. Munition is not all, grenades, but the morale of the troops brings the final decision and the morale of the German and Austro-Hungarian troops is superior to that of all our adversaries. Nevertheless, munitions mean very much in this war. At a previous visit the Field Marshal told you 'the main thing is discipline.' That is true. Discipline is based on the complete education of every individual man."

Asked whether there was any chance that the war would be culminated by a decisive blow, General Von Ludendorff said: "Perhaps. The trend of events must show this, but we prefer to make no statements."

Exhausting the Masses. As to whether the masses will be exhausted, Field Marshal Von Hindenburg replied: "They are already becoming so. The Russian army commanders have charged themselves with that. There is no doubt that new masses will grow up in Russia. But that makes no difference. We, too, have enough men. Germany has a profusion of reserves, and in Austria-Hungary the reserves are by no means exhausted. We never were afraid of the British numerical superiority. We know no numerical superiority."

General Von Ludendorff, taking up the situation said: "Numerical superiority and danger only exist for the weak. Who objects against it ought better to object against himself. A firm will commands fate. There is no blind fate."

The New Russian Armies. Field Marshal Von Hindenburg then continued: "The new Russian armies are as good or as bad as the former. The main quality of the Russian soldier is blind obedience. He makes no progress of a military kind; only the Russian artillery has become more efficient on account of instruction by French and Japanese officers, who partly command. But our artillery remains superior."

"During a certain period the Russians had more munitions than they formerly had. Their munitions supplies have now become diminished because of the end of importation by way of Archangel and Vladivostok."

The correspondent asked whether, When a Man Gets to be 50

Still, there would have been a precedent for the bestowal of the V. C. in this case, had the authorities seen fit to follow it. It happened as long ago as 1866, when Private Timothy O'Hea, of the Rifle Brigade, when stationed in Canada, broke open the doors of a railway van laden with powder and ammunition, and put out a fire which had it reached the powder, would have caused an immense explosion. This did not occur even in war-time, but the action was accounted so immensely plucky that the supreme military decoration was awarded.

in the opinion of the chief of staff, the termination of the war was only possible in the east, to which Field Marshal Von Hindenburg replied:

"People do not know what nonsense they talk. One does a great injustice to the army commander by attributing to him a programme. He certainly has in his head a plan of war, a general view of war. But there is no prepared program, except that one—to gain victory. Where and how that shall be done can only be decided each moment anew on the basis of events. Therefore a decision can be looked for as well in the east as in the west."

"It is nonsense if they tell you that I intend to shorten my front in the west. I never thought of it. Why should I do it? The front in the west stands as firm as a rock, and if our enemies, by gigantic use of artillery, here and there gains little terrain, they shall never break through. In order to do this they would still have to attack for thirty years, provided they had enough men."

Take "Cascarets" if Headachy, Bilious And Constipated

Best for liver and bowels, bad breath, bad colds, sour stomach.

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, head and nose clogged up with a cold—always trace this to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.

There is probably no more famous officer in all Great Britain than the man chosen by wise admirals to combat the German spy system and to penetrate at a time the German espionage system. He is Captain William Hall, an outbreak of the war command cruiser Queen Mary, destroyer fight off Jutland, and one of the German commanders actually in the first Heligoland battle. Believes You Should Love Your Enemy and Shoot Straight.

There is probably no more efficient officer in all Great Britain than the man chosen by wise admiralty heads to combat the German system of espionage and to penetrate at the same time the German espionage armor. He is Captain William R. Hall, at the outbreak of the war commander of the cruiser Queen Mary, destroyed in the fight off Jutland, and one of the British commanders actually to sink a German man-o-war. This he did in the first Heligoland battle.

Hall is a new fighter of the finest type, a sailor with the salt of the seven seas in his veins and hatred for no man in his heart. They made him chief of the Intelligence Division of the navy, because he knew men as well as ships, and the rest of the world as well as Britain. I have known his encouraging smile to batter down spy disguises, where the usual third degree methods would be futile. It takes a strong man to talk an hour with Hall and not reveal himself.

I never think of Hall as a secret service director without recalling an incident that occurred on the bridge of the good ship Queen Mary as she raced in to the death after scoring a fatal hit on a German cruiser in that tussle in Heligoland light.

Hall is a religious man. Also, like the ablest sea fighters everywhere, he could face death himself with a hundredfold less feeling than would reach the heart at the sight of an enemy bound to the regions of Davy Jones.

Hall first found the German with a shell at seven or eight miles. A broadside from the Queen Mary tilted the enemy, and Hall rushed in at full speed. Through his glasses he could see the German turning up on end and her men crowding aft to stay out of the water as long as possible.

"I'm a bit religious, you know," Hall said to me, "and I didn't like to see the poor beggars going down just that way. I naturally took off my cap and said a little prayer for them. I hadn't got very far with what I had to say, though, when I sort of felt that all was not well, and I cast my off eye seaward.

"Nothing but a torpedo coming dead on amidst! I quit praying there long enough to throw the ship's course over, so as to parallel the

A little cold may not seem a dangerous thing—you may feel inclined to let it go on hoping that to-morrow it will be better—but can you afford to take chances? When a cough starts there's no telling where it will end. course of the torpedo, if possible. Then I took off my cap again and said a prayer for my own crew. We paralleled her all right, and she went skimming by."

This is Hall, the man who guards the secrets of the world's greatest fleet, and seeks the secrets of the next greatest. He believes you should love your enemies—and shoot straight. Appeal to fear is damaging.

Chicago Tribune:—The fact that the United States has avoided war is a good thing. The fact that it is having its courage and confidence broken down is a very bad thing. "He kept us out of war" is the most demoralizing political cry of the American people have heard in fifty years. The appeal to fear is the most damaging political appeal that could be made. The Wilson campaign is corrupting the people. It is asking them to surrender fortitude and self-respect.

Old Man Thrown From Milk Wagon.

NOW IN HOSPITAL.

About 2 p.m. yesterday, while proceeding down King's Bridge Road, near the old railway track, Mr. Jas. O'Brien, of Outer Cove, was thrown from his jaunting car and badly injured. It happened that the old gentleman, who is about 76 years of age, was knocked from his seat by a motor car which was coming up the hill, when the rear part of the motor struck one of the wheels of the jaunting cart, smacking the spokes in splinters and otherwise damaging the vehicle. Mr. O'Brien was picked up and taken into the residence of Mr. J. W. Kinsella where he was tenderly cared for till the arrival of Dr. Cowperthwaite who quickly responded to a 'phone call sent in by Mr. P. J. Kinsella. Seeing that the old man's injuries were of a serious nature, the ambulance was immediately summoned and removed the sufferer to the Lawral Hospital. On an examination being held at the institution it was discovered that his right hip was fractured and several small cuts and bruises were inflicted on his body.

The s.s. Port Saunders arrived from Bell Island on Saturday night. The steamer as usual had some difficulty in berthing at the public wharf owing to a number of schooners being about. The ferry boat Muriel was also made fast to the outer part of the wharf; a war of words took place between parties concerned. An effort should be made to have the public wharf available at all times for vessels arriving.

In this connection would it not be well to have the dredge here and get the place deepened at the head of the wharf, so as the Labrador steamer and other boats call there at all times. This is talked about and is worthy of consideration. What do the Minister of Marine and Fisheries say?

Good Stories from the Magazines.

A clergyman of our town had occasion to catch some young women in a Bible Class upon the parable of the unjust steward. "What is a steward?" he asked. After some hesitation one of the young women, who had been abroad a number of times, replied, with a reminiscent expression, "He is the man who brings you a basin."—Harper's Magazine.

The new maid was entirely a war-time makeshift and the mistress bore with her patiently at first. But on the third day she placed a very unclean dinner plate on the table, and patience broke down. "Really, Mary, you might at least see that the plates are clean." "Well, mum, Mary rejoined, "I owns to them thumb marks, but that dried mustard was there afore I come."—The Treasury.

A well-known schoolmaster once wrote his initials, "A. S.," on the title page of one of his books. A saucy boy in his form, who got hold of the book, added a second S; but the master discovered the addition and, knowing who had made it, simply handed the book back to the boy with the words, "I wish you would not write your name in my book." The lesson of so delicate a retort was not lost upon the offender or upon his companions. — Organist and Choir-master.

A house-hunter, getting off a train at a suburban station, said to a boy standing near—"My boy, I am looking for Mr. Smith's new block of semi-detached houses. How far are they from here?" "About twenty minutes' walk," said the boy. "Twenty minutes!" exclaimed the house-hunter. "Not more!" The advertisement said five. "Well," replied the boy, "you can believe me or the advertisement, whichever you want. But I ain't trying to make a sale."—The Windsor Magazine.

"Would you bring a cake of soap for this room, please?" said the new lodger. The gaunt landlady sternly pointed to a minute and well-worn fragment reposing in the soap-dish. "That is all the soap I can allow for this room in war-time," she said. "Well, then," he replied, "I will take two rooms. I sometimes like to wash my face in the morning."—Pearson's Magazine.

A company of British soldiers were camping near a railway station "somewhere on the Continent." One morning early the sergeant came to the tent and sang out: "Hey, you fellows! some of you are wanted at the station to take the place of the porters, and so on! Now, Private Jones, what are you going to be?" Private Jones: (drowsily): "Oh! put me down as a sleeper."—Boy's Own Paper.

A newly married lady was being interviewed by the reporter of the local newspaper just after the ceremony. "And after the honeymoon, where do you intend to settle down?" was his final question. "At the old manse," said the bride, as she hurried away. The reporter thought it sounded unusually familiar, but he decided to use it, so when it appeared in print the report finished up: "After the honeymoon the happy couple intend to live at the old manse."—Cassell's Magazine.

Out at the front, "somewhere in France," two regiments were returning to the trenches when they chanced to meet. At once there was the usual exchange of wit. "When's this bloom-in' war goin' to finish?" asked one Devonshire lad. "Dunno," replied one of the South-shires. "We've planted some daffodils in front of our trench." "Giddy optimists!" snorted the man from the West. "We've ylanated acorns!"—Royal Magazine.

Dr. Prince's Race With Death Across the Atlantic Ended.

Uncle of Famous American Aviator Who Gave His Life for Allies Was Aided by British Government With Fast Destroyer.

Wenham, Oct. 30.—When the doors of Princemere were opened to him last night, Dr. Morton Prince, 4,000-mile race with death, through England and across the Atlantic, was ended. In France he left the body of his nephew, Norman Prince, the American aviator who was killed in the service of the Allies, and in the course of his long journey he was haunted by the fear that his brother, Frederick H. Prince, the father of Norman, who has been seriously ill with typhoid fever, would not survive his arrival. Upon arriving in New York yesterday, on the steamship Philadelphia, from Liverpool, Dr. Prince learned that the condition of his brother was such that he now might be regarded as out of danger.

Dr. Prince was in England at the time that his nephew, Norman, received the injuries which resulted in his death a few hours later. Norman was still alive, however, when Dr. Prince started for his bedside in France. When his purpose became known to the British government it at once placed a fast torpedo boat destroyer at his service, and on this he crossed the channel.

In this race, however, death was the victor. Dr. Prince failed to reach his nephew before he died. He was making preparations for the removal of the body to this country when he received news of the serious illness of his brother. The body of Norman was left in a vault at Luxall, and Dr. Prince's long, anxious journey to Liverpool, and thence across the Atlantic was begun.

Wilson's Opportunity.

(From the New York Herald.) If the merchant steamship Marina was sunk without warning, and the lives of Americans were lost or jeopardized the Government of the United States must pronounce the attack such a violation of law and of the pledges of Prussianism as President Wilson has said would mean a severance of diplomatic relations. If Mr. Wilson acts promptly and breaks off diplomatic relations he will almost certainly be re-elected.

THE OVERALL. Before the great European war opened up there were a great many indigo blue overalls with a stout rigid complexion in this country. A pair of these overalls could be sent to the steam laundry week after week without shrinking around the waist or looking pale around the gills. This was because they were vaccinated with German dyes, which have never been taught how to run. But as these dyes have now become scarcer than tooth-brushes in Chihuahua, we are compelled to rely upon a base imitation, which holds its color about as long as a timid man in a free clinic. There is a disposition in some quarters to look down on the man who wears overalls, but with brick-layers asking for $1 an hour this is poor policy. Why should a man who wears creased pants and a green sport shirt and earns $15 a week by stabilizing an adding machine in the face look down upon the humble and unostentatious bricklayer, who earns more money than anybody in town except the postmaster? People who stick up their noses at the dexterous plumber because he goes to work in overalls will do so no longer when they consider the high, Mt. Shasta altitude from which he labors. Overalls are not worn by women in this country to any marked extent, but in the warring countries of Europe their neat, baggy outlines can be seen on every corner. It must be very humiliating to the proud European to have to confess that his wife or sister or sweetheart can do his work better than he can, which teaches us that when woman begins to wear the pants man's dominion is not worth ten cents on the dollar.

Children Had Eczema Doctors Failed to Cure.

Two Letters Which Prove the Efficiency of Dr. Chase's Ointment as a Cure for Eczema. Mrs. George McNair, River Charles, N.B., writes:—We use Dr. Chase's Ointment in our home, and would not wish for anything better for cuts, burns and bruises, and to thereby prevent eczema and similar skin diseases. Mrs. W. L. Barnes, Timmins, Ont., writes:—I want to tell you about the case of my little boy, who had baby eczema when he was three months old. It started on the top of his head, on his forehead and around his ears. The doctors failed to do him any good, so I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment on the recommendation of a friend, and in a month's time the child was entirely free of this disagreeable skin disease. He is now four years old, and has never had any further trouble from ailments of this kind. I also have great faith in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and believe that it cannot be beaten as a restorative for pale, nervous women.

"Don't Worry."

Miss Kathleen Burke, who is writing in "Land and Water" a series of articles descriptive of her visit to the French front, sets forth the following Litany of the Poilu:

"Of two things one is certain: Either you're mobilised or you're not mobilised.
"If you're not mobilised there is no need to worry; if you are mobilised, of two things one is certain: Either you're behind the lines or you're on the front.

"If you're behind 'the' lines there is no need to worry; if you're wounded seriously of two one is certain: Either you're resting in a safe place or you're exposed to danger.

"If you're resting in a safe place there is no need to worry; if you're exposed to danger, of two things one is certain: Either you're wounded seriously or you're wounded slightly.

"If you're wounded slightly there is no need to worry; if you're wounded seriously, of two things one is certain: Either you recover or you die."

And finally, "if you recover there is no need to worry; if you die you can't worry." This sums up the philosophic litany of the brave sons of France.

A speck within a boundless universe His home, and he an atom on that speck.

The slave of tyrant forces that coerce His will, and all his aspirations check;
And yet a being made to dominate The world of sense by mind's controlling power;

Spotted favorite at once and sport of fate,
Time's fool indeed, yet its consummate flower!

Alone did Nature to his soul impart
Power to create the wondrous world of art,
And gave, in giving thought, her master key;

So great and yet so little! blessed and cursed—
Nature's most noble offspring—yet her worst!

H. M. SHIPS MUST HAVE FREE WATER — COMMITTEE STANDS FOR INCREASE OF FIREMEN'S WAGES.

Vice-Chairman Mr. W. A. O'D. Kelly presided at last night's meeting of the Citizens' Committee and in the absence of the Secretary, Mr. W. Smith, who could not attend owing to illness, the minutes of the meeting were kept by Mr. Lindsay.

It was decided that Sections 209 to 283 inclusive relative to "Taxes and Sources of Income" and matters pertaining thereto, be added to the work of the Sub-Committee now considering those sections; 264 to 273 dealing with "Water Rates for Shipping" were passed with the exception of Section 272 wherein it is stated "His Majesty's ships of war shall be supplied with water whenever the same is required at the rate of ten dollars per annum for each ship." It was the unanimous opinion of the Citizens' Committee that the section in question be expanded, and that in future all British ships of war on visiting this port be supplied with fresh water free of cost.

Re Section 276 wherein the Council shall pay to the Government the sum of thirteen thousand dollars per annum towards the expense and maintenance of the Fire Department. The discussion of this section brought almost every man of the committee to his feet and many were the suggestions made to try and arrive at some definite plan whereby the present difficulties surrounding this department could be overcome. It was the opinion of all present that the present salaries (if such there be) paid the City Firemen, in view of the increased cost of living, were a disgrace to any civilized community. In order to be fully prepared for the recommendation which the Committee will make to the Select Committee of the House of Assembly when reporting this matter, a Sub-Committee of three consisting of Messrs. Chase, Peet and Lindsay were appointed to enquire into the conditions under which our fire fighters are now compelled to live.

"The Bravest Thing I Ever Saw."

(From the Canadian Gazette.)

First let us record the following story of an officer. This Canadian says: "Poor old Pringle (Lieut. Pringle) was killed. He charged, single-handed, a Boche machine-gun, and killed the crew with his revolver. He was shot and instantly killed just as he reached the German parapet. It was the bravest thing I ever knew, for had that machine-gun ever got into action our casualties would have been very heavy. Captain Whillans was badly wounded. Captain Chrysler was wounded; also others. I had a narrow shave from a bomb, and also from a piece of shrapnel which hit me on the head. However, my steel helmet saved me, and I came through without a scratch.
"A chap in my platoon, aged 20, in the line for the first time, had his nose taken off during the advance. He cried, 'By Heaven, I'll get my Hun.' He went to the Boche trench, got his Hun, took his helmet, and then walked back to the dressing station. There is no such thing as leading the men. They would just push you forward. I saw some ghastly sights.
However, that is war."

Troubles of Life in New York.

A gentleman in New York writing to a friend in this city under recent date sums up some of the many disturbances which have taken place in that city. Regarding the Car or Railway train man's strike it was soon righted, as the Government took hold of the matter and divided the question at issue. The men wanted 8 hours and more pay; the Government told the Companies that 8 hours was legal and that the men must not stop the running of trains, so they returned to work again. The Surface Car employees struck out for both questions, the Companies offered them more pay and nearly all of them went back to work.

Just two lines remained out. Then the Bread Baking Companies said they were losing money on their loaves, so they made them two ounces short in weight. The Government then arrested 175 of the Boss Bakers and fined them for short weight, and that straightened that matter up. Then the Garment Makers struck and had their troubles fixed up. The Oil Wells laboring men had their strike and after a few were killed (three at least) more than half of the men went back to work again. Next the men driving the delivery wagons for the Milk Companies struck and after one week the Companies gave their drivers one dollar per week more, which made their wages twenty-one dollars per week, so that kind of satisfied that bunch. Then the farmers turn came next; they would not send the milk into the city unless they got one cent per quart more for their milk, but the large companies refused, so the city consumers went short of their milk supply until the Government compelled them to make some agreement; they then agreed to give the farmers the cent per quart but raised the price of milk in the following manner:—A grade milk to 12 cents; B grade, 10 cents; Heavy Cream to 16 cents per pint; Then came the consumers turn to kick. Every person who could possibly lessen his orders did so, and the companies have now started stations in every district, so that a person can, if they will, go to them with their pail or milk bottle and get their milk at 8 cents per pint. So altogether the New Yorkers have their own troubles in many ways.

JU-JITSU!

Self-Defence!

(Edited by W. Bruce Sutherland, Specialist in Ju-Jitsu.)

Ju-Jitsu is the general name for a system of physical training which was practised in Japan over two thousand years ago. There are certain points of the body where pressure or a slight blow is sufficient to paralyze a nerve centre or even cause death. A knowledge of such facts and how the different holds can be applied are shown in this book. It describes and illustrates over 250 locks, holds, throws, counters and grips, which can be readily learned and easily practiced. 120 pages with about 100 illustrations.

Price, 45c.
Postpaid, 47c.
