EXPLORER, THOUGHT DEAD, IS HEARD FROM

Radford Three Years In The Silent North Country of Canada

FACTOR BRINGS WORD

Tells, Too, of Indians in Great Slave Lake Region Who Have Sewing Machines and Phonographs in Their Cabins—Herd of Buffalo

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 7.—Harry Radford, an American explorer, who left Edmonton for the silent north country three years ago, reached Trenton river last winter and has been hunting there this summer. News of his arrival at the bay, across the barren lands, reached our post before I started on the journey southward.

J. Harding, factor for the Hudson's Bay Trading company at Fort Resolution, on Great Slave Lake, brought this message to Edmonton and requested that it be communicated to newspapers in the United States and Canada to dispel rumors that Radford had perished.

"Radford started eastward from Fort Resolution early last winter," Mr. Harding added, "going toward the bay across the vast barren wastes. For months we heard nothing of him and the folk at our post were driven to the conclusion that the explorer had lost his life, but this was lifted by the arrival of fur-traders, who saw Radford alive and well at Trenton river, where he is now making investigations."

Mr. Harding, who was accompanied on the trip from the north by his wife, said also that the impression prevailing in many parts of the United States and Canada that the northern Indians are improvident, ill-nourished and altogether worthless is erroneous. The Chipewyan, Eskimo and Inuit are industrious and do most of the trapping for the company. He mentioned a number of them who have sewing machines which the women make clothing for their families. Some have even done the greater amount of trading for the Hudson's Bay company, he says, are the best Indians in the north.

The factor has been at Fort Resolution eight years and knows the Indians intimately. The Chipewyan, who were once the greatest amount of trading for the Hudson's Bay company, he says, are the best Indians in the north.

On the other hand, the Dog Rib Indians living east of Fort Resolution do no more work than is necessary to keep their animals and their mode of life is as primitive as that of the tribe of 200 years ago. They are small, undernourished people, and it is only a matter of a few years when they will be extinct.

Mr. Harding said there are more than 350 wild buffaloes in the Slave Lake district. While the animals are at liberty, he added, they are well protected, and there is every reason to believe they will increase rapidly. There is ample forage in the country. The Indians in the district will not shoot the buffalo, since the edict has gone forth that the animal is protected by law, and they will not guide any one to the wallows nor permit big game hunters to go after heads and hides. The Indians know more about the habits than any other persons in the district, but they will not give any information to any one.

BRUCE ISMAY'S VIEWS ON MATTER OF BOATS ON OCEAN LINERS

London, Sept. 7.—"I feel strongly," said Managing Director J. Bruce Ismay, of the White Star line, commenting on the board of trade new rules, "that a passenger liner's boat capacity should be determined by the number of passengers rather than by the length or tonnage of the ship."

GERALDINE FARRAR IN NORWICH SANITARIUM

London, Sept. 7.—Geraldine Farrar, American prima donna, is seriously ill in a sanitarium in Norwich. According to reports received here and in Paris Miss Farrar is suffering from a nervous breakdown, over the announcement of the engagement of Charles Ives, an American actress, to Antonio Scotti, grand opera baritone, whose name has been linked with that of Miss Farrar in engagement and marriage rumors for half a dozen years.

CANADIAN FORESTRY ASSOCIATION HAS CONCLUDED SESSIONS

Estimate of $40,000,000 a Year Spent in Labor and Material in British Columbia Lumbering

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 7.—The Canadian Forestry Association concluded its sessions here yesterday. The convention was a great success. Resolutions were adopted, without discussion, congratulating the government of British Columbia upon the excellent showing it had made in forest conservation, and endorsing a suggestion made by the British Columbia Lumber & Shingle Manufacturers' Association that a course in logging engineering should be established at the University of British Columbia.

T. H. Finlayson of the Dominion Forestry Service, whose territory covers Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, told of the harmonious results obtained since the first establishment of fire patrols of the prairie and interesting papers on different phases of the forestry situation were read by Clyde Leavitt, forester of the conservation commission; R. E. Benedict, assistant chief forester of British Columbia; Dominion Forester Campbell and Allen Forest of the Western Forestry & Conservation Association.

Dr. Jackson F. Clark in dealing with the financial aspect of lumbering, estimated that $40,000,000 were spent on labor and material yearly in British Columbia. Various speakers alluded to the fact that practically all the young men now engaged as trained foresters in Canada have been pupils of Doctor Ferenow, dean of the school of forestry in the University of Toronto.

SWEETHEARTS YEARS AGO IN NOVA SCOTIA MARRIED IN WEST

Captain Haley, Daring Navigator, Marries Miss Nellie Denton

The Digby Courier says:—As the climax of a romance extending through thirty-one years, Captain George Gilbert Haley, popular skipper of the schooner J. W. Olin, who has been with the last ten years, last Friday married Miss Nellie Gertrude Denton, daughter of William Congdon, of Digby, N. S. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. W. Fitcher, of the Digby Congregational church, Green Lake.

As soon as the vessel is ready to sail next week, the bride and groom will start on their honeymoon trip to the Indies, which will take a cargo of lumber to Halifax, Peru, for W. R. Grace & Co. of Seattle. At present Captain Haley and Mrs. Haley are living at their new home, 2221 North Fifty-seventh avenue, Green Lake.

Haley and Miss Denton were schoolmates in Nova Scotia, where they both were born. When Haley took up the sea calling, Miss Denton was teaching at a school. She was teaching at Star City, Saskatchewan, when a telegram came a few weeks ago from Captain Haley urging her to quit her work and come to Seattle to be married. The wedding Friday was the result.

Captain Haley is the daring navigator who took the steamship Stamboul off the coast of the Yukon in the early days for her name, Col. J. W. Williams, of Paris, Tex. Captain Haley knew he was taking great risks in sending his vessel through the dangerous passage, but he half expected Haley to make the hair raising trip. Captain Haley was highly complimented for the successful exploit, especially by the St. John's owner, who had said to him on starting:—"George, if you sink my ship I won't say anything."

Colonel Williams did say a great deal when the Stamboul got through, and in all praise of the wonderful pluck and skill of Captain Haley, whom he rewarded with what he called a "baronet of mail."

SOCIETY LENDS UMBRELLAS

An Original Idea Employed on a Large Scale in Brussels

Brussels, Sept. 7.—A new company has just been founded whose originality will be hard to beat. This is the "Umbrella Lending Society." The company has a capital of several million francs and half as many umbrellas, and its object is to save people from the trouble of buying and carrying these occasionally useful but cumbersome articles about when not in use. Subscribers pay $1 a year, and are given an aluminum counter with a number. It is much easier evidently to carry a counter than an umbrella. If the subscriber is caught in the rain all that he has to do is to go into the nearest restaurant, tobacco shop, or big store, and he is furnished with a respectable umbrella. When the sun comes out again he enters the first similar establishment and deposits his umbrella in exchange for another counter.

Reported Railway Purchase

Marquette, Wis., Sept. 7.—It is understood that the Soo Road has purchased the Wisconsin & Michigan railway, which runs from Peabody to Iron Mountain, Mich. The deal, it is said, will be closed within ten days. With the acquisition of this road various extensions are said to be planned by the "Soo."

LONDON OUTLOOK GOOD IN SPITE OF THE RAINS

Trade Booming and Every Promise of Very Prosperous Winter

Scientist's Address, Anticipated as Blow at Orthodox Religion, Falls Flat—A Great Trades Union Congress—Young Unionists Demanding a Constructive Programme (Times' Special Saturday Cable) London, Sept. 7.—London, despite the phenomenal rains is filling. Trade is booming and there is every promise of an exceedingly busy and prosperous winter.

SCIENTIST'S ADDRESS HAS FALLEN FLAT

Professor Schafar's much heralded presidential speech upon the origin of life at the British Association meeting in Dundee has proved a damp squib. His address was anticipated as a damaging blow at orthodox religion, but the blow has failed. His ex cathedra declaration that synthetic chemistry may confidently be expected to produce life is met by his fellow scientists with amused incredulity.

GREAT TRADES UNION CONGRESS

The Trades Union Congress at Newport this week has been a remarkable demonstration of sobriety, solidarity and of the growing power of British trade unionism. While socialism has been strong in evidence there, it has been socialism of the constructive, not destructive, kind. The syndicalists who only a year ago seemed likely to triumph completely in English unionism have had few supporters at Newport. The 802 delegates represent trade unions with a membership of nearly two millions, by far the largest number ever reached.

GREAT SUCCESS OF TREES PAGEANT

Trees' new play, Drake, is without question the dramatic success of the season. It is a pageant more than a drama, but a pageant poetic in conception and amazingly beautiful and thrilling in presentation. The play is promoted with the loftiest patriotism and the audience night after night are thrilled to almost delirious enthusiasm by the presentation of the story of the foundations of the British navy.

PRINCE OF WALES AND BROTHER MAY BE IN CANADA NEXT YEAR

London Has Report That He and Prince Albert Will Visit Royal Governor

The Times' London correspondent writes:—"According to a usually well-informed person there is good ground for stating that the Prince of Wales and Prince Albert will pay a private visit to the Duke and Duchess of Connaught in Canada during next summer. It will not be in any sense a state visit, but is being arranged to enable their Royal Highnesses to see something of the Dominion. They will not travel on a man-of-war upon this occasion, but will go under the charge of their tutor. They are expected to remain in Canada for about a month, and they may return home by way of the United States, staying for a few days in New York."

ARE GOOD SPORTSMEN

Australia Beaten After Declining To Take Advantage of Technicality

Toronto, Sept. 7.—New Zealand added another victory yesterday, defeating Australia in the final of the tug-of-war, winning two out of three pulls. The contest illustrated the high standard of sportsmanship of the Australians, for according to the regulations, only one team could be entered by any one club. New Zealand entered two and Australia defeated the second New Zealand team in a preliminary. Manager Orr ruled that Australia could claim the cup without pulling the other New Zealand team, but the Australians refused to take advantage of this, and when defeated by the New Zealanders warmly congratulated their rivals.

BIG UNITED STATES PAPER MAKERS TO INVADE CANADA

Utica, N. Y., Sept. 7.—According to an announcement here, first steps have been taken for the biggest invasion of Canada by United States paper makers that has yet occurred. Articles of incorporation for the Dominion Paper Company have been filed at Ottawa.

A TRAGEDY OF PARIS

Murder and Fire to Conceal Crime Followed by Police Fight and Suicide

Paris, Sept. 7.—After strangling a homeless woman whom he had enticed to his home, an elderly mechanic named Alfred Mangot, who was known to be a semi-insane, decided to burn down the house to conceal his crime. He soaked rags in petrol, and poured petrol on the bed where his victim lay, and just before six in the morning he set fire to the place. A workman noticed smoke issuing from between the shutters and called out "Fire!" The firemen arrived before Mangot could make his escape. Believing the fire department a snare, he was held in the flaming bed. A policeman named Rollet realized that Mangot must still be in the building and commenced a search. He decided that Mangot must have retreated to the cellar, and he obtained a lighted lamp. When he was at the foot of the staircase five shots rang at arm's length, was shattered by the first bullet; the other four were fired in the darkness.

GOOD WEATHER FOR CLOSING DAY OF ST. JOHN EXHIBITION

Another day of ideal exhibition weather marks the closing of the Greater St. John Exhibition of 1912 after one of the most successful weeks in the city's history. The children are in possession today, this being observed as the special Children's Day with specially low rates of admittance. Feed from school and with the whole day ahead of them the youngsters began to gather at the grounds at an early hour. There was also a very fair crowd of adults and it is expected that the total attendance for the day will be sufficient to establish a new record.

TO OVERCOME SHORTAGE IN WHEAT FIELDS

Plan to Transfer Laborers To Places Where Most Needed

THE CROP SITUATION

Saskatchewan Reports 55 Per Cent of Wheat and 30 Per Cent of Oats Cut—Slight Frosts But no Perceptible Damage

(Canadian Press) Winnipeg, Sept. 7.—Thirty-five thousand harvesters have actually been distributed over the west fields, in the statement made by J. Bruce Walker, in answer to a query whether 25,000 harvesters had reached the city during the harvesters' excursion.

"We need 50,000 and the demand cannot be supplied this year. The weather conditions are helping matters considerably as the crops are not all in a condition to be reaped. In the sections where the crops are ready, the harvesters are all busy, and when the other districts are ready, I am going to urge the railroads to provide transportation for the harvesters, who have finished to the points where most help is needed."

"It is the only way left for us now in order to save thousands and thousands of dollars for the farmers. Of course, a large number of men who came from the east, on harvesters' tickets, a number never saw fields, and just took advantage of the cheap rate to the west. Next year we must overcome this in some way, and have the harvesters selected in the east before our crop is ready. Just how this can be done, the future will unfold."

DISEASE CARRIES OFF FOUR HUNDRED HORSES

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 7.—Because more than 400 horses have died in western Kansas since a disease broke out, military marines at Fort Riley have established a quarantine prohibiting the bringing of any horse on the military reservation. Fort Riley is wholly a cavalry and artillery post and there are more than 1,500 horses and mules there.

English Turf Event

London, Sept. 7.—The Fervent of the Peak plate yesterday was won by Spirit Prince at 13 to 8. Oliver Goldsmith was second at 100 to 8 and Beaupre third at 8 to 2. The other starters were Alopec, Dinmore, Shirts, Chantrel, Melange, Adam Bede and Serenader.

WILL LIKELY RECOVER

Frank Fitzsimmons, aviator, who was hurt at Piquette Isle fair, on Wednesday, will likely recover.

THE BATTLE LINE

S. S. Pandoza, Captain Wright, from Norfolk for Montevideo, sailed from St. Lucia yesterday.

Aviator Peeli made his first flight this morning at 10.30 and will make his second at 1.45 o'clock.

Bonnette will furnish two new sensations today. His afternoon ascension will be made with the balloon suspended by his teeth from the parachute. In the evening he will again ascend about nine o'clock and will take a supply of fireworks which he will set off as the balloon drifts skyward.

All the exhibition and amusement features will be in place until the closing. Peeli's aeroplane flight today was of about seventeen minutes' duration. He steered his machine first to the fair grounds, and from there turned and struck out for the more central parts of the city, circling again and again, apparently set far over the top of the taller buildings. This afternoon's flight will finish the work in the city. Machines have arrived, and before evening the wings of the great bird will have been packed away.

WHITE NOT GUILTY

Unnecessary Force Used In Arrest is Finding in Police Court

Judgment Given This Morning—His Honor Would Like to See Supreme Court Decision on Matters Involved—Other Cases

Magistrate Ritchie today gave his decision in the case of William White, arrested some weeks ago on the charge of being drunk, violently resisting the police, and also with assaulting Policeman Linton while being arrested. His Honor said that in his opinion the police used wanton and unnecessary violence in the case of White. The latter was found not guilty and was allowed to go.

In closing his judgment His Honor said that he would like to see a special case taken to the Supreme Court of Canada in order to secure a decision on the rights of policemen to handcuff prisoners and also the use of the baton on a prisoner's head. His Honor strongly advised White to keep away from liquor in future and he would not be getting into any more trouble.

John W. Allen arrested some weeks ago on charge of obtaining money under false pretences was sentenced to serve six months in jail.

F. Robert Dodd, charged with soliciting subscriptions for the Canadian Co-Operative, and failing to make returns, pleaded not guilty and was remanded. He told the court that he had collected two subscriptions, one from J. V. Russell and one from D. W. Harper. The amount collected from both was $11.50. He said that he intended to make returns to the company, and did not in any way wish to defraud the company.

Isaac Anderson, charged with assaulting Captain Station of the schoolhouse, Lewis Rockwood, was fined $20. He was allowed to go however, as arrangements are being made to have him deported to the United States.

Three other prisoners in jail on remand, were brought in and again remanded. They were all charged with drunkenness.

Reno R. Horne was fined $50 for not turning his horse to the right side of the road on the approach of a motor car in Waterloo street on Friday evening of last week. The complaint was made by T. P. Regan, president of the New Brunswick Automobile Association, acting on behalf of the association's directors and pleaded guilty.

Mr. Regan told the court that he was driving down Waterloo street and after tooting the horn on his car Mr. Horne refused to turn to his right side of the road. Mr. Regan said that the full penalty is imposed as he wanted the drivers of vehicles to know that there was a law respecting the driving of teams in the city streets and that the drivers must respect the law. The fine was allowed to stand. Mr. Horne promised to drive on the proper side of the road in future.

His Honor again took occasion to cite the law in regard to motors and vehicles. Two prisoners charged with drunkenness were fined $8 or two months in jail.

F. MASTERS TO RETAIN POST UNDER NEW CONDITIONS

New England Superintendent of Eastern S. S. Corporation—Sees Great Tourist Travel to Maritime Provinces

Boston, Mass., Sept. 7.—John F. Masters, who has been New England superintendent of the Dominion Atlantic Railway, with headquarters in Boston, ever since the company established its successful steamship service between this city and Yarmouth, will continue to fill that position under the new Maritime Corporation, now in control of that line.

This announcement will be learned with more satisfaction in Boston by many friends throughout the maritime provinces, as well as by the travelling public generally. During his residence in Boston he has done much to build up the tourist trade between the United States and the provinces, and has long been a recognized authority on this subject. At the same time he has been very active in the Canadian Club, the British Charitable Society and similar organizations in Boston, and has held the highest offices in the gift of these associations. He is also a prominent member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and the Boston City Club.

In the course of a recent statement regarding the future of tourist travel to the maritime provinces, Mr. Masters said: "After an experience here of nearly twenty years in the line of tourist development from New England and the United States to the maritime provinces, I can say that we have as yet merely scratched the surface, as it were, in point of possible development."

"New and larger steamers are now being built and are promised by the various lines running from Boston and on to the maritime provinces. An era of remarkable development in tourist travel will take place during the next five years and each and every county should participate."

"The maritime provinces today enjoy not only the greatest advertising feature to be found in any country, namely: the famous 'Land of Evangeline,' but it is fast becoming distinctly known as 'The Playground and Vacation Land for New England.'"

ENDS LIFE IN SEINE

Berlin, Sept. 7.—One of the cleverest and most successful of Berlin barbers, Conductor of Justice Michaelis, has committed suicide at Epilone, near Paris, after vainly endeavoring to retrieve his fallen fortunes at the gambling tables.

Here Michaelis filed a prominent position in many ways; he was devoted to art, literature and the drama. His legal advice was sought in intricate questions of international law. One of the biggest cases handled by him was that of the Russian government's deposits at the Mendelsohn bank.

Happily married himself, one of Michaelis' specialties was the divorce suit. He made an average income of $25,000, but his passion for gambling was paramount, and finally, unable to meet his liabilities, he drowned himself in the Seine at the age of fifty.

BIBLE MEN HAVE MANY STRANGE EXPERIENCES

WHERE MONEY STARTS PANIC

A People Who Do Not Want To Look at It—Adventures With Wild Men and Beasts in Distributing the Scriptures

(Times Special Correspondence.)
London, Aug. 24.—Anybody who bored with his hum-drum existence and yearns for a life of adventure can get it by becoming a "colporteur" with the British and Foreign Bible Society, and apparently these "colporteurs," whose business is to distribute the Scriptures, have as lively a time as the most reckless dare-devil could wish.

There are no actual cannibals, it is true, in this year's record of their adventures in many corners of the globe, but a lot of them have close calls from wild men and beasts, and others have suffered hardships and come in for experiences which are as fantastic as novelist ever invented.

Brigands and blizzards, tigers and terns, snakes and scorpions, are among their enemies. One would not expect to find the selling of Bibles resented in any part of Europe, but in some instances are recorded where this, and no more, nearly cost a "colporteur" his life.

One of them tells how, near Vienna, he was "times without number" insulted and abused by a crowd of Social Democrats. In Trent, in the Tyrol, another of these scenes was described in the papers in the back kitchen of a house where his Bible was burnt before his eyes. EAST AND WEST

Despite the brighter outlook in these provinces one can scarcely read a lower business paper without learning about some individual or family going to the west. The movement is not large in numbers, but it is a constant drain. It will require many immigrants in the course of a year to offset in mere numbers the loss due to this westward trend. The fact makes it all the more imperative that the governments of these provinces should make greater efforts to encourage the development of local resources, so that there may be a wider field of effort for our young people. So far as this province is concerned, the members of its government are great talkers, but when one sits down to study to see up what has been done during the last year, apart from what enterprising citizens and corporations have done, the record is neither long nor impressive. The people themselves, however, can do much more than has been done to improve conditions. There is still need to encourage the spirit of optimism, to encourage home investment and the development of local industries, to grapple with the power question, to agitate for better country roads, and to put forth united effort in many ways that are open to intelligent citizens in town and country, to realize the splendid possibilities of what is really the best position of Canada. That is the way to meet the westward movement, and to bring about a counter movement toward the east.

NOW FOR POLITICS

Premier Borden has returned to Canada and Sir Wilfrid Laurier has begun his speaking tour. The centre of political interest has been transferred to Canada. Unionist members of the British parliament who are now in this country are doing what they can to arouse here such prejudice as their friends are fostering in Ulster, and we may also expect to hear something soon from Mr. Bourassa. The stage being ready and the actors on the scene, we may fairly expect several interesting weeks.

The Conservatives are great believers in reworkings, and there is to be a great demonstration in honor of Mr. Borden's return. The Tories in England beat the big drum when he was there, and the story press on both sides of the ocean has sought to give to his reception and his utterances an importance wholly out of proportion to their real significance. He has not yet delivered any goods. What he said about Canada's loyalty was not new, for it had all been said before, by able men, and had been proved where bullets fly. What this country and the mother country and Australia are now waiting to learn about is Mr. Borden's policy with regard to imperial defence. So far as the Dominion went any partisan discussion on their part before Canadian audiences of matters of local British politics.

Liberals throughout the country will await with the deepest interest the views of Sir Wilfrid Laurier on current political affairs. He in opposition is a greater imperial figure than Mr. Borden in the office of prime minister.

THE BOARD OF TRADE

In St. John today, in all matters relating to business, action is taken, and it is expected that the city has entered upon a period of growth, and that this fact should be borne in mind.

No doubt the Board of Trade, in securing a new secretary, will take a little of its commendable vigor that nothing is too good for St. John. In this growing period the Board has a wider field of usefulness, if ever before; and for that reason its new secretary should be a vigorous and able man, devoting his energies to the furtherance of the general interests of the city.

The Board has broadened the scope of its activities, perhaps because there was no other organization to take up matters which, though not strictly pertaining to trade, were yet of great importance to business men as well as other citizens; and the result has in all cases been beneficial. This broad policy should be continued, and the most wide-awake and energetic secretary would find ample scope for his activities. It goes without saying that good men are not picked off every town, and to secure valuable service it is necessary to pay a proportionate salary. That is the experience of merchants in their own business, and will no doubt be recognized by the Board of Trade in the selection of a successor to Secretary Anderson. This organization should continue to lead in promoting the forward movement, and lay its plans for a busy winter.

FARMERS AND LOANS

The necessity of enabling farmers to get cheaper money is dealt with at length in an article by President Youham of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway. He says that United States farmers pay 8 1/2 per cent. for money, compared with 5 per cent. paid by German and French farmers. This undue interest tax is paid every year by the American farmer because he has no organized machinery to supply capital he needs, and no encouragement. President Youham says:— "Cheaper money for the farmer is the first problem. I am not thinking of the bonanza farmer. The farm of 80 to 160

THE HEATH CLAD HILLS AT HOME

Sweet blow the bracing breeze along each brown old heathery knoll, Flowery heath long had been, Bright and blue the Springtime sun down on moor and marsh and lawn, And cooed the mountain lark, and apollo's ceanabian.

I feel the odor-laden breeze blow fresh upon my brow, And when I kneel the heart of days long gone beats high within me now. By paths ways where led my steps on the heath-clad hills at home!

The honeyed breath from off those hills, Oh, what that which first I drew, Their shades my childhood's wondering were—their rich, gold brown and blue.

Oh, give me back those fresh young days that bind me in a snare, Oh, give me back the innocence that blessed my home with joy, And give me back the sunshine shone on when a boy!

It cannot be! Then, but a grave—not in their foreign lands, but here, But laid to sleep where bluebells weep on the heath-clad hills at home!—Seamus MacManus, in Joe Chappie's Letter.

LIGHTER VEIN

A lady, having left her umbrella in a street car, applied for it at the office. "Oh, you ladies, you ladies!" said the official in charge, as he brought forth the umbrella for her inspection; "you are so terribly forgetful!"

A TATTOOED HEART.

"You," sighed the rejected lover, "would find your name written in imperishable characters on my heart could you but look."

THE PESSIMISTIC LOVER.

"Oh, the bluish on that beautiful rose!" "It is blushing," her pessimist lover replied. "At the price, I suppose."

THE AWAKENING.

Love laughs at all the wall and woe About high coat of living, And chuckles at the needless pain It seems folk to be giving. For Love's content with simple fare When he can roll in bliss, And asks no better dish on earth Than bread and cheese and kisses.

OUR GRAIN TO FRANCE

First Cargo at Havre Had to be Shoveled Into Sacks (Times' Special Correspondence) London, Aug. 27.—On arriving at Havre last week the steamship "Tonian" discharged the first cargo of Canadian wheat since the grain trade from Canada and the absence of elevators bring into effect a new condition. That high price for Canadian farmers and the construction of elevators will be the result of the grain shortage here is the opinion in grain circles. Direct consignment service to and from Canada seems to be growing in favor with transatlantic visitors going to the continent who they by avoid the necessity of changing into a cross channel steamer.

JURY DISAGREED

Hopewell Cape, N. B., Sept. 6.—After being out two hours the jury in the perjury case against John W. Colpitts, charged with talking a false qualification oath of the recent provincial election, reported that they were unable to agree on a verdict and were discharged by the court. They stood eight for conviction and four for acquittal.

HALF MEASURES

A gentleman in the north had in his employ a groom who always wore an air of sadness and dejection. On going around his stable one morning the gentleman was surprised to find his groom dangling in mid-air at the end of a trace, one end of which was fast to a beam of the roof. The man had huddled around the man's waist. "What on earth are you up to now?" queried the owner. "I'm a-striving to hang myself, sir," said the groom in a tired-of-life tone. "Then why not tie the trace round your neck?" said the employer, thoroughly tired of the man's foolishness. "I did try it that way once, but it came the reply in all solemnity, 'but I couldn't breathe.'"

SCHOONER WALTER MILLER IS DAMAGED

Boston, Sept. 6.—The schooner Walter Miller, St. Martins for Quincy, Jamaica, was towed into port today in a damaged condition. She was leaking badly and only the constant working of her pumps kept the schooner afloat. Her rudder was missing and the bottom badly damaged from pounding on a ledge at Cape Ferris (Me.), where she went aground on Monday. She pounded heavily for nearly two hours and then a sea carried her into deep water and the anchor was dropped before she went back to the ledge.

French, German and English are taught in the schools of Holland, and pupils are required to pass an examination in these languages before graduation.

A FURTHER GAIN MADE YESTERDAY

Exhibition Attendance Figures Now 8,000 Ahead of 1910

THIS IS CLOSING DAY

Some of the Features — Daring Performance By Parachute Man — The Travelers Enjoy Themselves at the Fair; So, Too, the Orphans

Fine weather, big crowds and a full programme marked the sixth day of the Greater St. John Exhibition and the results of the combination were such to gladden the hearts of those who are in charge of the big fair. The exhibition of 1912 has proved successful in the most substantial and satisfying manner and sets a standard which requires some effort to improve upon for the next fair.

The attendance yesterday was 12,316, as compared with 11,883 for the corresponding day of the Dominion Fair in 1910. This makes the surplus over the last fair for the first six days the substantial one of 8,000, and is 12,000 greater than for either of the two preceding fairs.

Travelers' Day was observed yesterday and the presence of the genial commercial men helped to enliven the evening performance. Another group, of different character was present in the afternoon, when the orphans from four city institutions attended the exhibition and were given a royal good time.

Plunge in Harbor. The aerial features of the programme again attracted great attention and proved as thrilling as ever. Aviator Peck made two successful flights over the fair, the first being for the first time at 10.30 o'clock, being for altitude and the afternoon for distance. Bonnette's ascension in the evening was one of the highest he has yet made and ended with a plunge into the harbor channel.

The other outdoor features all passed off successfully, and as usual were watched with the interest which their merit warrants. The grandstand concerts were given by the City Cornet Band. Judging was completed yesterday and in the afternoon the prize cattle were paraded in front of the grandstand for the benefit of the spectators. The butter-making competition was also completed yesterday afternoon.

Children's Day is the special feature for today and all children up to sixteen years of age will be admitted at the rate of ten cents. Although this is the last day there will be no lessening of interest and no reduction in the attractions. All departments will be kept complete and all the features which have helped to make the show successful will again be seen. The exhibits will not be removed and even the live stock will remain in the show. Out of doors the full amusement programme will be given and the side shows, merry-go-round, Ferris wheel and other features will be in operation until the close of the day. Singing. We will hang our apples on a sour apple tree, the members of the Travelers' Association arrived at the exhibition grounds and about the building. The grandstand show alone received their patronage and each of the acts was as great a favorite as any of the others. The Japs and the "Three Shorties" were at their best, though the Japs were a little disturbed and their work was made a little more difficult by the great good humor of the crowd. The visitors enjoyed the sights immensely and when they left, much of the spirit of the evening's entertainment seemed to have been conjured away with them.

From the Protestant Orphan Asylum, the Wiggins Male Institution and the different Catholic orphan homes went some 500 children yesterday afternoon to see the wonders of the big fair. For the afternoon, officials, exhibitors and visitors were at their beck and call. Prominent merchants about the building played the part of benevolent grand-dads and gave the children a fine day. Along the line of march through the buildings, all the souvenirs available were marshalled out and the children treated to whatever could be found. On the grounds, the grandstand was at their disposal and the acts were much enjoyed. Leaving, they were tired and happy, after seeing the fair as few others have seen or will see it.

An automobile ride was a pleasant feature of the day's outing. Cars placed at the disposal of the committee by generous owners called at the institutions and, with the children on board, assembled at King Square. From this point they paraded the streets and finally deposited the youngsters at the gates of the fair grounds.

In spite of the injuries sustained in his accident on Thursday evening, the evening, ever during Bonnette rose in the air

THE LURE OF THE WEST

Bridgetown Monitor.—A. L. Anderson has received a letter from L. D. Shafner, who lately left for Vancouver, stating that he had been successful in "getting a shipyard and mill on a bank, and that now the only thing I am lacking is good men."

Mr. Shafner says in his letter that he wants forty or fifty good men, and from the tone of his communication wants to get some from Bridgetown. Our townsman has certainly not lost any time in commencing business in his new home, and we cordially wish him every success. But more hath it that Mr. Anderson and others may join him shortly. Guest (in backwoods hotel) — "Say, my good woman, how do you serve here, a la carte or table d'hote?" Proprietress — "Well, er—er Mister, it's like this—we jess 'pute the stuff on a tray an' totee it in."

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY

ON THE MIRAMICHI
In response to a somewhat hurried call several Englishmen and men of English descent assembled at the Town Hall in Newcastle the other evening to take advantage of the presence of J. C. Anderson of Fredericton, who would give an address on the Miramichi. Such a society was formerly in existence on the Miramichi, but it was allowed to die out. At the conclusion of Mr. Anderson's address, it was resolved to form a branch of the society on the Miramichi, and a committee consisting of Messrs. Malby, Town Clerk, membership and to endeavor to enlist their co-operation and sympathy in the formation of a society.

TRAINING POOR GIRLS

Miss Dorothy Whipple, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman L. Whipple, of Boston, has renounced the social life to meet poor young girls in the art of housekeeping. Each week Miss Whipple invites ten girls to her home in Clun-tonville, where they are housed in a cottage on her father's estate.

After getting the girls to the cottage the houses in with them every two minutes.
She sets two meals out of three daily with her guests, cooks with them, helps make up the beds and drives, motor, awning and does the marketing with them.

Miss Whipple has the housekeeper to aid her in running the cottage and to show the girls how things should be done. Miss Whipple says she is not interested in social life. She prefers to leave her sister's to be entertaining. Her one enjoyment is to be among the children whom she can teach.

THE LAST RESORT

Arguing he would go, so he bought a very complete outfit at a great cost and spent several hours dressing himself for the part.

Then he hid himself to the course, and engaged a caddy to carry his expensive set of clubs.

But he couldn't play golf. The nearest he could get to hitting the ball was lifting the huge pieces of turf, which the caddy sternly told him had to be replaced.

After the 17th miss, he lifted a large square of grass, and, holding it up looked apprehensively at the caddy.

"What shall I do with this?" he asked dejectedly.

"I dunno, sir," said the caddy, in disgust
"unless you take it home and practice on it."

to no avail. When a young girl I sprained

HOW TO CHOOSE NEW FRENCH PRESIDENT

The Names of Five Men Are Being Spoken

BIG FACTOR IN CONTEST

Type of Man Depends on Temper of Nation at the Moment—Revival of Catholicism in France—Can Always Tell a Parisian (Times Special Correspondence.) Paris, Aug. 26.—Half a year onward, and we will have the election for president at Versailles. None can tell who it is who is not a candidate, and therein lies one of the little differences of the French and American systems.

The most conspicuous by his republican virtues is M. Leon Bourgeois, minister of labor. He shone at the Hague conference, where he represented France with particular lustre. Not can he be accused of seeking office. It was with reluctance that he entered the cabinet, and it is certain that if he now consents to be the nominee of a party, it will be because the argument of state service has overcome his reluctance to retire. Far from robust, and far from the quietude of his study to the glimmer of drawing-rooms.

The name of the premier, M. Raymond Poincare, naturally to the lips, but it is doubtful if this brilliant politician would care to sacrifice a highly remunerative career at the bar for the somewhat colorless existence of chief magistrate. Again, he is going for such a position, and will wait another seven years. I think we may dismiss him from the likely figure at the poll notwithstanding the glowing prophecy of the music halls.

Says the "Compteur," in showing one of St. Louis's irreverent caricatures, M. Poincare: "I think the 'iron point' (point) will be succeeded by the 'iron care' (square point). And there is something particularly appropriate in the joke, for M. Poincare is in character very much 'the square point'.

Next in order comes Paul Deschanel, the brilliant and comparatively young president of the Chamber of Deputies. When by reason of rupture in the radical ranks, M. Deschanel was elected, the astonishment and qualifications for the post, which he had occupied with general acquiescence a few years before, had been suspected of reaction.

The whole of France is dominated by the Socialist, who joined hands, momentarily and for their own party purposes, and do not include the thousand of children who are learning the English language in school and who will grow up bilingual, but who use English in their everyday life.

And then there are the outsiders—the French word is "outsider," the most important is M. Pams, minister of agriculture, and a comparative unknown name, M. Pams, by a steady and yet progressive administration of his department.

There is also M. Jean Dupuy, the proprietor of the "Parisian," a journal of "the largest circulation." M. Dupuy, millionaire journalist of Paris, is a great little man like Napoleon III. His influence is said to include the purchase of another big metropolitan newspaper. It would add to his already large interests in the press. He is one of the chief proprietors of the "Parisian," one of the most influential political organ outside Paris.

The type of man elected depends upon the temper of the nation. His character and quality will be an indication of the national feeling, the surest barometer.

If the present spirit prevails, we may look for a man of prestige and independence at the apex of the republic. On the other hand, should there be a setback to the patriotic movement, timidity will be reflected in the choice.

Revival of Catholicism Some interesting details of the revival of Catholicism in France since the separation act are given in the French press. It was certainly thought that the loss of property consequent on the act would cripple the French church for many years to come. But the contrary is the result. The bishops are no longer compelled to ask the government for permission to open new churches or divide parishes that had become too large. There has consequently been a steady increase in new churches and parishes.

REVIVING OLD TONGUE IN IRELAND

The Bi-Lingual Ideal Looks Like Being Realized There

CHILDREN LEARN GAELIC

Speak it to Grand Parents and English to Father and Mother—An Interesting Feature of The Census Just Completed

(Times Special Correspondence.) Dublin, Aug. 26.—Not the least interesting feature of the census of Ireland which has just been completed is the section devoted to the language of the people. This, for the first time since the beginning of the Gaelic revival, enables us to judge whether the old tongue is holding its own or losing ground.

At first sight the figures are rather discouraging, for in only one of the four provinces—Ulster—there is an absolute increase in the number of Irish speakers over the figures of 1901. In Ulster, however, although there is an absolute decrease in the percentage of Irish speakers shown, the increase in the figures for the four provinces are as follows:

Table with 3 columns: Province, No. of Irish Speakers, Decrease. Rows include Munster, Connaught, Ulster, and a total.

The five most Irish counties in Ireland with the number of their Irish speakers are:

Table with 2 columns: County, No. of Irish Speakers. Rows include Galway, Mayo, Donegal, Wick, and others.

The extent to which the language is being taught in the elementary schools is shown by a set of figures just received from the National Educational Commission by P. O. Daligh, secretary of the Gaelic League.

In the schools the day's programme is regularly bilingual, in 374 schools Irish is taught as an "extra" subject, and in 135 schools now in which it is not taught at all.

Twenty-nine national schools are recognized as competent to examine in Irish and 173 teachers are qualified to teach the language, while 312 are undergoing training.

The ideal of a bilingual Ireland was held up the other day by the Most Rev. Dr. O'Donnell, Bishop of Raphoe, at the opening of the seventh session of the Four Masters Irish Training College, run in connection with St. Eunan's College, Letterkenny.

THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

THE LORD'S COMING

(Mr. Moody closed one of his meetings in Montreal in which he had deeply touched his audience by a wonderfully affecting portrayal of the Saviour's triumph over pain, sorrow, and death, culminating in His coming, by reciting Miss Porter's beautiful poem, "Coming.")

It may be in the evening. When the work of the day is done, And you have time to sit in the twilight, And watch the sinking sun, While the long bright day dies slowly over the sea.

And the hour grows quiet and holy With the thoughts of Me; When you hear the village children Passing along the street, Among those throbbing footsteps, May come the sound of My feet; Therefore I tell you, Watch By the light of the evening star, When the room is getting dusky As the clouds afar:

Let the door be on the latch In your home. For it may be through the gloaming I will come.

It may be when the midnight Is heavy upon the land; And the black waves lying dumbly Along the sand; When the moonlight gleams dully, And the light looks calm and blue, When the fires burn low and red, And the watch is ticking loudly beside the bed.

Though you sleep, tired out, on your couch, Still your heart must wake and watch For it may be that at midnight, When I will come.

It may be at the cock crow, When the night is dying slowly In the sky, And the dew looks calm and holy, Waiting for the dawn Of the golden sun, Which will usher in the night: When the mist is on the valley, shades of grey.

When the stars are in the firmament, And my morning star is fading, fading, Over the hills to you, Watch; Let the door be on the latch In your home.

Between the night and the morning, I may come.

It may be in the morning, Whenever the sun shines brightly, And the dew is on the grass, and the birds are in the air, and the flowers are in bloom, and the world is full of life and joy, and I will come.

Every day, Whenever the sun shines brightly, And the dew is on the grass, and the birds are in the air, and the flowers are in bloom, and the world is full of life and joy, and I will come.

FIGHT FOR REVUE OF MOTOR-BUS AND COUNCIL TRAMWAYS

THE CARS WERE BLESSED BY REV. DR. BURKE

Opening of the C.P.R. Service on Austrian State Railways

DEPUTED BY CARDINAL

An Interesting Ceremony at The Inauguration of Observation Car Service—A Delightful Trip Along the Danube—Public Works Minister Coming Here

(Times Special Correspondence.) Vienna, Aug. 19.—For the first time the Canadian flag floated over the Rathaus at Vienna in welcome to the guests of the Canadian Pacific Railway who are attending the inauguration of the observation car service on the Austrian state railways.

The chief feature of the entertainments and honours shown to the guests of the Canadian Pacific Railway was their official character. The keynote was expressed in the statements to your correspondent by Count Ledera Laterano, minister of the interior and Dr. Friedrich Rucker, minister of public works in the Austrian government.

"We are anxious for warmer links with Canada and seek closer commercial relations with the young giant of the west whose future is so rosy," said Count Laterano. "We therefore, welcome the action of the C. P. R. in instituting this service and sincerely hope that success will attend its efforts, which will result in the betterment of the Canadian people."

Doctor Rucker endorsed these sentiments and said: "We know little of Canada, but we are convinced that it demands a remedy. Our government is considering a publicity campaign with the object of educating Austria in all phases of Canadian life, and proposes to establish a lecture department equipped with cinematograph lanterns and really did make a great success of child-rearing. It is even possible that, had she taken Eric on to her lap, and coaxed or smothered him, (whenever she was in a hurry to do) his mind, in an amazingly short time, would have evolved in him the quietude of an ascetic."

The mother of today is, maybe, too sensitive. She is too meticulously fair. She doesn't feel so sure, as did the older mother, that she invariably knows better what the child wants than the child knows himself.

The new mother, tenderly trying to soothe her boy, was visibly dropping with the fatigue of apprehending his sorrow as well as worrying over—well, all the things which the modern mother does worry over and which the older mother never bothered her head about.

Germs, infection, suitable clothing, the moulding of latent talents, platyine teaching, physical development, the avoidance of "baby language," care of the eyesight and the teeth, diet and digestion, gradual exercise—the whole of the young parent's brain, in this era, is a seething mass of condiments; agonizing ones, for upon the correct answer of any of them may depend the child's whole future.

That old-fashioned mother, when she pronounced the verdict, "A spoilt child" would have been wiser if she had said "A spoilt parent."

Children, when all is said and done, are not so easily spoilt. The genuinely spoilt child is rarer now than ever, inasmuch as a mother's dread of spoiling is one of the chief obsessions of later-day fathers and mothers. That child in the train was not spoilt; he was only a victim of nerves.

This legacy of nerves was perhaps his parents' fault—but it was not "spoiling" or anything like it. The mother's sympathy was not spoiling; it was only understanding.

I repeat, this is not an era of spoilt children so much as an era of spoilt parents. It is the one-child or two-child family that can find the spoilt parent, not in the five-child family or the even bigger clan.

Motor 'Bus and Council Tramways' Battle

What a Stroll Through The Breadth Places Reveals—Men Adopting New Forms of Foppishness

(Times Special Correspondence.) London, Aug. 27.—The fight between the motor-omnibus companies and the London County Council tramways goes on apace.

It would be more correct to say that the struggle for supremacy between the motor-omnibus and the electric tramcar is being fought in a more reckless and dangerous degree of ferocity throughout Inner and Outer London. For the fight is by no means confined to the L. C. C. tramways and their motor-omnibus rivals; it finds even more violent expression on the roads served by private tramcar companies.

With the starting of through electric cars from Eastbourne to Farnham, and Enfield, a striking example of the battle has been furnished. Not only have penny fares been raised by the tramcars, but speed has been increased by the drivers to accelerate the pace.

For the moment the tramway is in the hands of the motor-omnibus, so far as the discomfiture of the tramcar controllers, it is interesting to note, has led to the discomfiture of the motor-omnibus, so far as speed is concerned. Formerly the omnibus was an easy first in the race for points in a race along the route; but it is now a rare thing for a tramcar to be "caught napping."

Whether or not this setback is to be only of a temporary character depends upon the motor-omnibus managers, who are not likely to fall back into an old position without making an effort to recover the lost ground.

In the meantime, street accidents are multiplying to an alarming extent, as the records of the coroner's courts sufficiently prove. During the next few weeks it will be interesting to watch the further course of the struggle from the point of view of the public safety.

The lot of the London policeman has been far from enviable lately. The men in blue did strenuous work during the strike, and now extra duty awaits them in guarding householders' property while the owners are on holiday. They have special instructions to be carried out during the time he is on duty. Secret marks are placed on doors, and the least sign of these have been tampered with places the watchful patrol on the alert.

As an indication of the force which is being applied, it may be stated that in the North London men are engaged in specially watching over the private houses which are temporarily vacated.

The loafers' holiday season is at its height in London, although the weather conditions have not been all that desirable. With acres of white blouses, fair and Belgravia and the country square of the squares and the West-end streets, the loafers have blossomed forth in hundreds, and may be seen everywhere.

He has sat the parks, royal and otherwise, and carved a public seat in any point of vantage in London today can be had, because the loafers has reentered it for the season.

In the luncheon hour yesterday, between one and two o'clock, from Trafalgar Square to Westminster, in the Adelphi Gardens and Parliament-square, there was not a seat free from an easily recognizable member of the "loafers' holiday."

Regent's Park, St. Paul's Churchyard, "Zoo" Tower Embankment were visited. Of these, St. Paul's Churchyard was most favoured, no fewer than forty-three loafers, dirty, disagreeable, ill specimens looking up leisurely to St. Paul's Cross in silence and idleness. On the Tower Embankment twenty-three loafers were watched for the bridge to go up, and then watched for it to go down again. On Tower-hill, where Ben. Tillett's voice is no longer heard, and dockers are few, was a crowd of 700 listening to an unwarmed orator, succeeded by other speakers, until sunset, on such topics as "The Aristocrat," "The Loafers' Holiday," "The Inconstancy of Samuel Wilberforce," the viciousness of every kind of cabinet.

At Hyde Park 100 loafers lay sprawled upon the grass, looking skyward for the most part, while around seven platforms were perhaps 200 more listening to speeches on the navy, socialism, the "justice of judge," a Jewish view of the Bible, Christian Brotherhood, an attack on John Burns, and the "rights of the working classes." In Regent's Park there were no meetings, but fifty-one loafers slept near the children's sandpit, while all the way down the broad walk to the "Zoo" the seats were "speckled" with the loafers.

One of the royal parkkeepers said—"So long as they behave themselves we have no power to move them on; but they make whole areas of the park unfit for cleanly visitors, and for children wandering at large the danger is real. They change their 'niches' almost daily. Where they come from or go to one never learns. But the average is well maintained, and we can do nothing. One fellow who began preaching a year ago in Hyde Park has slept on the grass here for nearly a fortnight, and has worn the same collar and clothes all the time. No one takes any interest in them, not even the authorities, while they are quiet. Mostly they are quiet harmless, and just mere 'impossibles' at any job. How they live is a mystery."

New Fad in Foppishness A new fashion of foppishness is being adopted by ultra-mart men in London. They are becoming wearers of jersey like knitted with a mesh, and keeping close to the shore, continued his work.

SPOILT PARENTS

The New Mother and the Old—Their Methods of Training Children—What the Over-Anxious Mother Suffers

(London Daily Mail.) Yesterday, in a "cub" train I saw two mothers—the new mother and the old. The new mother was slim and girlish, high-strung, and clever-looking, and she had brought with her a little boy, aged perhaps three-and-a-half, her only son.

Eric was his name. I gathered, and Eric was exceedingly fretful. Perhaps he had a sore in his mouth, his mother told me, and she was trying to soothe him with a piece of toast, but he would not have it.

Eric was intensely self-conscious of her position in the carriage full of people, yet at the same time she was on the defensive with regard to her child's conduct; and with it all one could see that she felt his feet, it pitifully; she knew what he was suffering, and knew how large a domain in his consciousness that suffering at that moment occupied.

Spiritually and intellectually she was intelligent enough to put herself in his place, and as I looked at his tear-wet, crinkled little countenance, and saw the misery in his swimming eyes, I knew that, reasonably or unreasonably, his mother was weeping with him, and that in consequence she was all aquiver with warring emotions, and would be worn out by the time she got home.

Immediately opposite me sat the mother of a previous generation—elderly, comfortable, large-bosomed, rosy-cheeked, black-silk-gowned, and oh, so serene and self-complacent!

The mother of yesterday, in this era, is a seething mass of condiments; agonizing ones, for upon the correct answer of any of them may depend the child's whole future.

"A LIFE SAVER FOR WEAK MEN"

Give me a man broken down from disipation, hard work, or worry from any cause which has sapped his vitality. Let him follow my advice for three months, and I will make him vigorous in every respect as any man of his age. I will not promise to make a Hercules of a man who was never intended by Nature to be strong and sturdy. Even that man I can make better than he is; but the man who has been strong and has lost the strength I can make as good as ever he was. I can give back to any man what he has lost by abuse of the laws of Nature. Dear Sir, I have been wearing your Belt four weeks, and am thankful to tell you that my Indigestion is cured. JOHN V. B. FOSTER, Wells, N. B., Jan.

Dear Sir, I wish to congratulate you on your success in inventing such a blessing to mankind, as your Electric Belt. I should have written to you about my Belt before. I wore it only three weeks, than all the sorrows in my back and thighs left me and my bowels became regular. Washing you continued success in your business. I remain, W. G. FRIZZELL, Municipal Home, St. John, N. B.

Every man should understand that physical power, large muscles and strength of endurance come from animal electricity. My treatment will pump every part of the body full of that, and perfection will result. It not only restores vigor and increases nerve power, but it cures rheumatism, joints in the back and kidneys, indigestion and constipation, and all troubles which result from weakness of any vital organs.

JIM THORPE OF CARLISLE GREATEST OF ALL ROUND ATHLETES IN STATES

New York, Sept. 6.—If there was any doubt about Jim Thorpe's ability after the pentathlon and decathlon events in the recent Olympic games at Stockholm, which he won easily, it was removed in the all-around championship meet held at Celtic park here recently. He not only won seven of the ten events on the programme, but in the other three events he finished second to John Bredeau, a great Princeton athlete, who won the all-around championship four years ago. Thorpe scored up 1470 points for a new world's record, the old figures being Sheridan's, 7,888.

SPOILT PARENTS

(Continued from page 9). The elderly matron opposite who I sat perhaps had half a dozen children, and was happy in them all and honored by them all—but I vow she never understood them. When they left her, she may have sorrowed, but her sorrow was nothing of the modern parent whose only consolation is the child who has been spoiled. This is the tragedy of the twentieth century, in spite of all this understanding on the part of parents, in spite of all this carefully-nurtured spirit of comradeship, nature still exercises her incomparable law, and a day comes when the child departs—perhaps, indeed, departs, enterprisingly—to the other end of the world!

"NO TIPS IN MY HOUSE," SAYS SCOTCH DUKE

His Grace of Roxburgh Takes Lesson From Lady Sefton

(Times' Special Correspondence) London, Aug. 24.—The Duke of Roxburgh, who is staying with the King at Abbeystead, Lord and Lady Sefton's place is delighted with the success of Lady Sefton's attempt to eradicate one of the worst evils of modern British entertaining—the tips-to-servants nuisance. The practice has grown to such proportions that no guest at a really first class house now dares to give less than a "paper" (25) tip after a week-end stay. In every room in Abbeystead notices are posted begging the guests not to give tips to the servants for any reason whatsoever. The notices further state that any servant discovered accepting tips from a guest will be instantly discharged. The duke at first thought these notices were not to be taken seriously and he actually tried a tip on one of the groomes. To his surprise and delight the man politely refused it, saying it was by Lady Sefton's desire.

Diarrhoea, Dysentery, SUMMER COMPLAINT AND ALL BOWEL TROUBLES ARE CURABLE BY THE USE OF DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY

Mrs. Shaw Lunn, Falmouth, N.S., writes:—"I am dropping you a line to let you know what Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has done for us. Last summer my little girl had diarrhoea so bad she passed blood. A friend told me of the Extract, so I sent and got a bottle of it, and six doses cured her. In December, 1911, my brother came home from the woods very bad with cramps and diarrhoea, and thought he would have to call the doctor. I thought of the bottle of "Dr. Fowler's" I had in the house, and gave it to him, and in three days he was as well as ever and went back to his work again. I would not be without it in the house if it cost twice as much."

See that you get Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry when you ask for it.

universal and an making further research for the type of face I believe will best express the ideas of the public. "I believe that everybody has an idea on this point, but you do not see it in art, and usually pictures are influenced by the country in which they are painted, or by the nationality of the artist. For a long time I have searched for the type of face of my imagination, but have failed to find one that interprets my ideal. I do not think it will succeed, but I am going to strive after what I feel is impossible."

Mr. Forbes' picture is seven feet six inches by six feet. It was started in 1909, and was suspended owing to the fact that the artist was commissioned to go to Cornell University, where he remained for nearly two years. He numbers among the famous men who have sat to him, the Earl of Dufferin, Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Alexander Mackenzie, the Hon. Edmund Blake, Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Oliver Mowat, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the late President Harrison of the United States, and Professor Schurman, of Cornell University. His painting of Gladstone in the National Liberal Club is "not to be surpassed as truthful and effective portrait," according to one critic. What many considered to be a better effort in portraiture was that of Mr. Gladstone's home. Of this he says: "I stayed for a considerable time at Havering, staying in his both in private and public life. He would sit in one corner of his study writing and Mrs. Gladstone in another, and I can still clearly call to mind the strong, deeply-lined face of the great man as he sat at the table writing, writing, writing, as if he never would stop. He used a very old quill pen which he would stick into a potato on the table when he stopped writing."

FIGHT FOR REVENUE OF LONDON STREETS

(Continued from page 9). Their money is carried in tiny chain-purses of a fine gold mesh; the softest of silk collars which grate their necks are held together by brooches decorated with a pearl or twisted in a lozenge; a wrist-watch on one arm is balanced by a bangle or a cross-finger bracelet on the other arm; and quite recently a waistcoat was seen set off by "lockets" hanging round the wearer's neck. Then there are the new gold-knobbed sticks, chased and embossed, completing the outfit, and carried with a certain delicate style that forces attention. A gold ring on the first finger of one hand, and another on the third finger of the other hand, each conspicuous with a sparkling diamond, are also features of the modern apparatus of male display. It is the essence of style to vary one's combination of jewelry according to one's dress. A special kind of silk open-work sock, gone with the tops collar. A pearl and diamond tie-pin must be balanced by a short leather watch chain, hanging down out of the left-hand waistcoat pocket, and finished with a gold bob.

SOON TO CHOOSE NEW FRENCH PRESIDENT

(Continued from page 9). roses and orange groves have been attacked by swarms of pests that threaten to ruin the crops. The authorities have sent for specimens of the cardinal beetle from the government's entomological station near Naples, but a far better remedy would have been the protection of insect-eating birds. If the government would pay some attention to this matter the growers of vines and oranges on the Riviera and in other parts of Italy would not have to complain of the ravages of insects. A Parisian staying at one of the most cosmopolitan resorts on the coast of France made a bet that he could always tell a Parisienne, even when the lady was in a bathing dress. As he always won, his friends asked him the secret of his success. He replied that it was very simple; that he looked at the arms. He went on to explain that since short sleeves came into fashion every Parisienne who had any pretensions to smartness walked with her arms held stiff by her sides, and with the palm of the hand turned outwards. The reason he did not pretend to know, but suggested that the pose was possibly intended to bring out the dimples of the elbow, which the short sleeves leave bare. A small provincial town can boast of the handsomest gardeners in France. His right to the championship of masculine dress could not be contested after an incident which happened at the publication of his marriage banns. All the young women in the little town admired him. When the marriage banns were posted up at the mairie the name of the bride caused a stir, and a flutter among all the hopeful ones for miles around. They had all expected to hold the heart of the stalwart brigadier. As they did not succeed, their jealousy towards the bride he had chosen was such that it day and a wonderful improvement in renewed strength, greater energy, and vitality will soon become apparent.

ANOTHER ONE.
So far this year, A. L. H. Stevens, gardener in the Park, has trapped and killed five skunks which have been doing a great deal of damage to the lawns and plants. It is reported that they are very plentiful in the park, and Mr. Stevens is doing his best to rid the place of them.

FUNERAL TODAY.
The funeral of J. O. Craft will take place this afternoon at three o'clock from his late home, Water street, West St. John. At two o'clock the service will be conducted at the home of Rev. Mr. Thompson, after which the funeral, headed by members of Golden Rule Lodge of Oddfellows will proceed to Greenwood, where the body is to be interred.

GOOD HEALTH CONDITIONS.
It was said this morning at the board of health office that the last placard indicating contagious disease had been taken down yesterday and that today the city presented a clean bill of health. This year has been remarkable in the regard. While at the present time in other years the number of cases of typhoid would be quite large, this year there are no cases. In April of last year there were as many as 100 cases of typhoid, diphtheria, measles, etc., as there have been up to the present time this year, which is speaking great praise for the healthy state of living in St. John.

CAPITAL COMMENT ON BASEBALL MATTERS

Federicton Cleaners.—The Houlton team went back home last night and go to Woodstock to play their last scheduled game tomorrow night. Manager Donahue had been interested in a proposition to have the Houlton club play a postponed game at St. John on Saturday, perhaps with the idea that he can jolly the public into believing that the championship is yet in doubt.

However, it would be contrary to all baseball rulings in the past to have any club playing postponed games after the date of their last scheduled game, but even should Houlton play and win two more games, they can't head the old rag as the Fredericton Pets are the champions of the New Brunswick and Maine League for 1912.

By defeating the Houlton Reds at Scully's Grove yesterday, afternoon Captain Stanley and his crew placed the Fredericton pennant out of the reach of Happy Iotti's band and the rest of the clubs have not got a look in.

It has been a great race with Fredericton finishing under weakened conditions, but at that the Pets have worked their heads off and at the critical time they have been there, winning two out of the three games from Houlton in the crucial series the last two days.

When Saturday night comes, and the league is over, Fredericton will have played off all their games with the exception of one postponed fixture with Woodstock, which the local management have been unable to arrange to have played. Of the Fredericton management it must be said that they have been honorable in their relations with the other clubs, and their business has been conducted above boards at all times.

The Lynn club of the New England League and Fredericton will play a series of games. The first game will be at the St. Stephen Fair on Tuesday, and on Wednesday and Thursday the Lynn team will play here, going to St. John for Friday and Saturday. The Pets have been asked to play in Halifax with the Standards, champions of the Nova Scotia league, for the championship of the maritime provinces on next Friday and Saturday.

Frank Hughes of the Houlton club, and Joe Callahan, the infielder loaned to the Woodstock club, are likely to play the post-season games with the Fredericton team. Eddie Ramsey will probably not return with the club from St. John on Saturday night.

WEDDING OF EDGAR S. MILES

The following account of the marriage of Edgar S. Miles, C. E., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Miles, of Margerville, is taken from the Ottawa Free Press:

"The marriage of Miss Jeannette Stanfield McIntyre, eldest daughter of A. S. McIntyre, S. E., and the late Helen Stanfield McIntyre, of this city, to Edgar Stuart Miles, C. E., son of A. R. Miles, of Fredericton, N. B., took place very quietly yesterday morning at Holy Trinity church here, Rev. E. W. Squires officiating.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a smart tailored suit of grey, and a small hat of black and white. She carried a lovely large bouquet of American beauty roses and looked most charming. The happy couple left by the morning train for Montreal and Halifax and returning will go to Fredericton to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Miles. Miss McIntyre, who has been most popular in society circles here and in Montreal, is the grand niece of the late Hon. John Stanfield MacDonald, one of the premiers of the United Canada and first premier of Ontario, and of the late Hon. D. A. MacDonald, a lieutenant governor of Ontario.

THE BAY SERVICE
(Digby Courier.)

We understand that the S. S. Yarmouth, Capt. McDonald, will be withdrawn from the St. John-Digby service next Monday and sail for Boston to go in dry dock, returning to the route again as soon as possible. Mr. Kingston, her popular chief engineer, has kept her machinery in splendid condition and Captain McDonald and his officers have the hull, above the water line, looking as good as new. When the S. S. Yarmouth was placed on the bay route as an additional boat last spring it was only as an experiment, but has proved far more profitable than was expected. The two-boat-a-day service has come to stay and is much appreciated by the travelling public and the freight patrons of the D. A. R. division of the C. P. R.

SAYS COAL IS

FOR PRESENT

President of New England Retailers' Association Makes Statement

TALKS OF CONDITIONS

Sees No Apparent Cause For Increase in Retail Price of Anthracite for Next Few Months
—Result of Investigation He Made

Boston Sept. 7.—That there is no apparent cause for a rise in the retail price of anthracite coal within the next few months, and that the prices which range now will probably remain constant is the gist of a statement made to the New England Retail Coal Dealers' Association in the Revere House by President W. A. Clark, of Northampton.

Mr. Clark does not by any means assure the public that there will be no further rise, but the conditions at present, which he has carefully investigated, indicate that the consumer has no particular need for worry.

Many people are paying more than 25 cents a ton above the price last year, but this is due to the fact that the dealers who supply them are buying the coal at a premium and then in turn demanding a natural increase in price to cover the additional cost. There are many dealers who are doing this simply to fill orders made months ago so that their word may remain good with the customer.

President Clark's assurance that the general run of coal should not rise in price during the next few months was made in a report of investigations which he and Secretary Charles H. Haskell, of Norwich, Conn., have been making in New York and Pennsylvania. President Clark says that the heads of the originating coal companies had all given him assurance of good faith and of keeping their regular scale.

He says the originating companies have not as yet boosted their prices to the extent that he can find no fault with them other than that they are shipping to the western dealers rather than to the east.

As far as the retail price of a ton of anthracite is concerned, he adds, the indications are that it cannot change. The large coal traffic which has been going west will soon stay in the east as the result of market conditions. Just as soon as the grain crop starts to move east coal will begin to come to New England.

The one element which can ultimately cause a rise in price is the difficulty in shipment, which seems bound to arise within two months. "By November 1, I believe," says President Clark, "that the country will have to face the greatest shortage of coal since the shipment of it has met since 1908."

President Clark's statements in regard to the probable range of prices were entirely personal opinions advanced at the request of newspaper reporters. An association of the organization did not discuss prices openly.

A Local Interest in the New York Police Murder Case

St. John people who have been reading of the case in New York in which Police Lieutenant Becker, head of the "Strong Arm Squad," is implicated in the murder of Herman Rosenthal, gambler, will be interested in knowing that he has visited St. John in company with his wife on two different occasions.

He was here on his last visit two years ago, and was in St. John the year previous, passing through to Nova Scotia on a holiday trip. He went through the Annapolis Valley and seemed very much pleased with the outing here and in the sister province.

The proprietor of a local hotel at which he stayed said that he seemed very pleasant and had a genial manner.

Moral and Social Reform Council Pleased—Legislation in Various Matters

Toronto, Sept. 7.—The action of the minister of railways in declaring the Intercolonial Railway system subject to provincial regulations as regards the carrying of liquor in Nova Scotia, was favorably commented upon yesterday at the annual meeting of the Moral and Social Reform Council of Canada with members present from all parts of Canada.

The executive was instructed to press for legislation that would result in the stamping out of professional and race track gambling and to seek legislation prohibiting the practice of polygamy in Canada, and set forth the need of requiring registration of contagious diseases and of a certificate of physical fitness to all candidates for marriage licenses.

Every Demand of Both

Most youths and mothers when they buy Boys' Clothing judge it from three standpoints—how well it will wear, how well the boy will look in it, and the price. The boy is concerned chiefly in whether it fits and looks well and allows perfect freedom of motion.

We do not maintain that it is the lowest priced Boys' Clothing you can buy. What we do say, and say it emphatically, is that Boys' Clothing so good as this can not be purchased at lower prices.
