difficulty in quieting the assemblage. No casualties were reported. The Daily Mail asserts that the promoters of the Queen's Hall meeting secured the services of 600 or 700 "stalwarts" as stewards. These "gangs of foreign ruffians" were found inside the hall, according to the Daily Mail, ready to keep order and eject malcontents. The "stalwarts" were drawn from the lower class of foreign clubs in Soho. Many were armed with sticks, and the Daily Mail says they acted with unrestrained violence in excluding loyalists and throwing out a well-known trapper and farmer, committed suicide by blowing off the top of his head with a shotgun. Shortly after 5 o'clock he came into his house by the back door, having been out working on the farm, took of the house. The report of the gun was heard, and rushing out, Mrs. Hodgkinson found her husband lying dead on the green. The deceased had taken off one shoe and torn a large hole in his sock, so that the great toe protruded. Then, placing the muzzle of the gun in his mouth, he put his toe on the trigger, shooting himself in the mouth and blowing off the top of his head. His hat was found with a large hole in the crown. The gun had been loaded with No. 2 shot. He was 55 years of age, and leaves a widow, five sons and two daughters.

Then in spite of the watchman's attempts to stop him, Mr. Gerry tried to pass before a car moving in the opposite direction.

After being struck he was taken to the hospital. EVENING SERVICE

AT ST. PAUL'S Rev. Canon Dann Preached an Able Sermon-An Outing at Springbank.

At St. Paul's Cathedral last evening the annual missionary service in connection with the meeting of the Synod of Huron, was conducted by Canons Hill, Richardson, Young and Brown. The bishop and dean and other members of the chapter were also present. The musical portion was beautifully rendered by the choir under the leadership of Mr. Sippi.

Rev. Canon Dann preached the sermon, taking his text from I. Peter, 24-25: "All flesh is grass and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth and the flower thereof falleth away, but the Word of the Lord endureth forever." A PLEASANT OUTING.

The delegates from the London churches to the synod very pleasantly entertained the delegates from other points last evening at Springbank. The party went to the park in a special car, and on their arrival found a tempting repast awaiting them at the pavilion. Brief addresses were made by several delegates, in which they thanked those who had provided the outing. The chair was occupied by Mr. V. Cronyn. The chairman of the committee of arrrangements was Mr. H. Macklin, with Mr. A. E. Welch, as secretary.

Morden, Man., June 20.—Early yesterday morning fire was discovered in the elevator leased by Kellett, Parker & Riley. Nothing could be done to save the building, but the fire brigade saved the other elevators. Five cars of wheat on the track at the elevator were saved with difficulty. Building and contents fully insured.

CANCER GROWING TWO YEARS.

A Remarkable Case Cured Completely by the New Constitutional Remedy.

Not long ago we had the pleasure of receiving the following letter: "When I began your treatment there was a hard lump in my breast, which had been growing for two years, and it was so bad at last that it drew the nipple in. I consulted two doctors, and they both pronounced it cancer, and advised me to have my breast cut off. Your remedy was recommended to me by a friend, and I am very thankful te say that it not only saved my life, but did away with the necessity of having to undergo the painful opera-tion, which I so much dreaded." tion, which I so much dreaded.

soar through space at a dizzy height and great speed. As the day changes to night you see the heavens glistening with stars, and the faraway earth fades from view. In due time you arrive at your destination on the moon, whose wide expanse you see glistening below. The ship is moored at a convenient landing and you are escorted through marvelous caves and grottoes, where the great and lilliputian inhabitants disport themselves. There is almost a surfeit of novel effects that hold you bewildered until you are permitted to return to the earth. The House Upside Down is equally curious and astonishing. Under the name of the Hotel Topsy-Turvey, it was so popular and gained such renown at Paris, that the inventor, M. Roltair, decided to bring it to the Pan-American. Though the expense in bringing this strange feature from the first great exposition to its successor, was enormous, it is considered that its originality will make the venture as great a success at Buffalo as it was in the frothy French capital. As a type for this strange attraction, M. Roltair chose a feudal castle, but the portcullis is high in the air and entrance is effected through an aperture in the roof, and after exploring the attic one climbs up to the chambers, then to the ground floor and on to the cellar. The idea of upside down is carried out completely. The pictures are hanging in such a way that they seem just opposite from any way that you have seen them before. They defy utterly the laws of gravitation. The chairs, too, are glued to the floor and you look up to them instead of sitting down. The tables, the musical instruments, everything in the furniture line carry out the same effect. Even the rugs seem to be trying to get away from terra firma and stick the ceiling. The visitors' bewilderment is increased by subtle combinations of mirrors, which, combined with other features, give a decidedly unusual, not to say uncanny, effect. There is one particular spot in the Midway that is honored by the constant patronage of women-within the house that Dr. S. Schenck, the con-cessionaire built. It is there that a collection of tiny and spasmodic young sters is found in the various stages of puling childhood, some slumbering, some staring vacantly into space with the little red fists tightly clinched, and all wrapped in swaddling clothes, little ones that are raised by the hot air process, a system that interests the spectator to a wide extent. One of the most romantic and savage

The deceased had reached the age of 88 years and 9 months. At the time of her demise she was residing with her son William. Death was due to heart failure.

The first car on the W., I. and T. V. Electric Railway ran through from Woodstock to Ingersoll on Monday night. The Ingersoll council on Monday evening passed the bylaw granting the desired privileges of the electric railway. The bylaw contains 29 clauses, granting a 40-year franchise, and providing for every reasonable contingency to protect the town's interests.

The town of Woodstock will on July 1 become the "Industrial City." The event is to be celebrated by the most imposing celebrations ever given in Western Ontario. celebrations ever given in Western Ontario. A large committee of Woodstock citizens have been laboring assiduously for the past three months, working out the details of the programme of events, which will extend over three days—Sunday, June 30, and Monday and Tuesday, July 1 and 2. On the first the various eity pastors will address themselves especially to the old boys and girls of Woodstock who have been invited to return from their distant homes to join in celebrating the advent of the town into cityhood. Monday morning at 9 an immense trade and calithumpian procession in which about ten bands will take part will pass through the streets. The Woodstock manufacturers and merchants have arranged to spend large sums of money in fitting up carriages and representatives of their various lines of industry and commerce. A splendid programme has been prepared for both Monday and Tuesday. Bands from Woodstock, Ingersoll. Norwich, Plattsville, Tilsonburg, and probably from Windsor and Toronto,

General Assembly Discusses Young People's Societies.

Difference of Opinion-Fears of a Line of Cleavage-Financial Reports Show a Good State of Affairs.

Ottawa, June 19.—An interesting natter that came before the General on Tuesday was Rev. Alfred Gandier's report of the young people's societies. He said the reports from those societies were less complete this year than ever, and the statistics were altogether inadequate to represent the actual state of affairs. thought it would be necessary to add one-third to the membership in order to arrive at a correct estimate of the membership of the church. Mr. Gandier thought there should be unity of name as well as unity of aim and effort in the work of the young peo-He also raised the point whether the time had not come to move along denominational lines, and organize the ed that the effort made in connection young people as the Methodists and with the century fund would affect Baptists were organized. Ministers had a duty to perform in directing the young people to a class of reading which would strengthen their minds and enrich their character, and give them a worthy conception of the great periods in the history of Christ's Church upon earth. At present the tendency of the young people was too much towards useless, shallow fiction. He closed by moving the adoption of

He gave an intance showing discrepancy in the re-urns, and expressed the belief that the statistics were very incomplete There should be unification of the young people's work under wise leadership, and it should be brought into closer touch with the church.

A NOTE OF WARNING. Rev. Dr. Gregg. Toront done a vast amount of good, there was a tendency to create a line of gregations, etc., were as follows: was a tendency to create a line of cleavage between old and young, which was not desirable. The young people's societies, from their strength and influence, exerted much weight in the selection of a pastor, so much so that the opinion of the older members gregations, etc., were as 1010ws.

Overworked Wage-Earners

What hosts of pale, weak and debilitated men and women are sapping the vitality from their bodies by plodding long nours in poorly ventilated shops and factories! The blood gets thin and vitiated, digestion is bad, the nerves become list for this year.

The report of the western section received shattered and exhausted, there are headaches, backaches and weariness that is not overcome by the night's rest. Despondent and despairing of having strength and vigor restored, life appoint an agent to stir up the churches to increased gifts was becomes a burden to the wage-earner who cannot afford the voted down and the report was carrest he so much needs.

The system demands unusual assistance. It requires just such aid as is best afforded by the regular use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great tissue builder and nerve restorative. show a decrease of 12,000 members in five years. This was not caused by inaccurate returns, but a spiritual condition which the superficial suggestions of the committee fail to meet. He agreed with Dr. Gregg that there is too much cleavage in the church. He moved an additional suggestion that the committee consider whether or not it would not be better to have the young people's societies brought under the supervision of the Sunday school committee.

Rev. Dr. Somerville said he knew societies where the members balloted to see whether their pastor should be admitted as a member or not.

The Christian Endeavor Society found an ardent champion in Dr. Dickson, of Galt, and Rev. Anderson Rogers, of New Glasgow. The former said he was pained at the display of ignorance made about the C. E. movement. After a discussion which lasted until 12 o'clock, Dr. Johnston's amendment was defeated, and the recommendations of the committee were adopted. FINANCIAL REPORTS-EASTERN SECTION. The report of the finance committee eastern section, was then presented by Mr. E. A. McCurdy.

The report notes with great satisfaction that the contributions of the members and adherents of the Presbyterian Church in Canada (eastern section) for the past eleven months considerably exceed those of the preceding

The balance sheet shows $1,425 80 to the committee's credit. The cost of administration for the ordinary schemes was 3.37 per cent, while by including the century fund and Indian forming for the receipts it was only 2.34 famine fund receipts it was only 2.34

MR. MADILL'S CASE.

Rev. J. C. Madill has not succeeded in his application to be received into the Presbyterian Church. The committee of the General Assembly which has the matter in hand will report that for the coming year he be employed in the mission field of the west, and that his case come up again later before the General Assembly. Rev. Mr. Madill has philosophically accepted the situation, and has left Ottawa, where he has been since Friday, for the west.

AUGMENTATION COMMITTEE. The augmentation committee's report took up the afternoon meeting of the General Assembly, and at night the report on "Church Life and Work." A recommendation to appointment of Sunday school missionaries was presented by Rev. Dr. Bryce, convenor of the committee appointed to consider the best means of promoting Sunday school work. It is proposed that a Sunday school missionary be appointed for the Maritime Provinces, another for Quebec and Ontario, and a third for the West, the salaries of the two former to be $1,000 a year and expenses, and for the latter $1,200 and expenses, the money to come from the children's day fund.

WAS BRANDED BY ANARCHISTS

New Jersey Reds Mark for Life a Man Suspected of Being a Spy.

New York, June 20 .- All through life, one of the men who have composed the Paterson group of Anarchists, will carry upon the back of his right hand a livid "T," burned in the flesh, and marking him as a traitor to the cause to which he swore devotion to which he swore devotion.

The branding was done at a picnic in Liberty Park, Ridgewood, L. I. A steel instrument, heated to redness, was used upon the man, who is believed to have betrayed his fellows.

Extreme reticence is observed by those who have absolute knowledge of the punishment of the alleged traitor. It is known that the man whose flesh was seared is named Reppo.

Of all those at Ridgewood, on Monday afternoon, none pounded harder upon the tables with his glass than Reppo, but others refused to accept his enthusiasm as sincere. There had been whisperings about him, and his nemies did not hesitate to denounce him as a hireling of the oppressors.

Late in the afternoon, Reppo was enticed to one side in the shadow of some bushes, was seized and gagged. Fully a score of "reds," each of whom belongs to the Paterson group, surrounded the truggling man. He was searched, and in his pockets were found two incrimnating exhibits.

There was a letter from the Italian consul to Reppo. That was enough to asten guilt upon him, but whatever lingering doubts his judges may have ad were dispelled when, in an inside pocket, they found bank notes to the amount of $90. No genuine Anarchist ever had so much. Reppo's fate was

ONTARIO FARMER'S VALUABLE

DISCOVERY. Toronto, June 20.—Mr. Speller, form-erly asphalt analyst for Toronto, told the city engineer yesterday that a short time ago a farmer from near the ity brought to him a block of stuff that looked like crude asphalt, and asked what it was. Mr. Speller analyzed the material and found that in all essentials it corresponds to the famous pitch lake asphalt, and has about the same proportion of bitumen as that paving material. The farmer, whose name for the time is withheld stated to Mr. Speller that he had a fleld that had never been worked, and some time ago the material began to come to the surface. He poked it with a stick and the deposit was fully ten feet in depth. A full investigation will be made at once.

Ontario Liberal Platform Enunciated by Premier Ross.

1. The early settlement of the unoccupied lands of the Province by colonization and by projection of railways into New Ontario.

2. The manufacture within the Province, and so far as practicable by Canadian labor, of the products of our forests, such as pine and spruce, into lumber and pulp, and the smelting and refining of our mineral products, such as iron, nickel and copper ore, for the markets of the world.

3. The increase of our agricultural wealth by improved methods of husbandry, fruit-growing, dairying, cold storage and the production of beet root sugar, and by reclaiming the undrained lands of the Province.

Great Britain in all natural products, but especially in cattle, horses and dressed meats.

5. The disposal of our forest wealth, with a view to its perpetuation by reforestry, timber reserves and parks. 6. The improvement of transportation by the better construction of highways and the removal of tolls. 7. The regulation of rates for passengers and freight on all railways subsidized by the Province, and the ultimate control of such railways, at the option of the Legislature.

8. The application of public revenues for the development of the Province and the relief of the taxpayers.

9. The revision from time to time as the public interests may require of the laws governing the municipal and political institutions of the Province, and tural College since May, 1892, which all laws affecting public morality.

10. The maintenance of the independence of the Legislative Assembly as Unknown rights of the Province.

11. The application of sound principles of education to the courses of instruction in all our schools and colleges, including technical schools for those concerned in industrial pursuits, agricultural schools for those concerned in husbandry, and schools of mining and engineering where a wider range of scientific knowledge is re-

Two Great Murder Trials.

Roland B. Molineux is under sentence of death for the murder of Mrs. Harry Cornish, a member of and physical instructor in the Knockerbocker Club of New York, received a small ten-cent phial of bromo-seltzer. This package he took to the home of his cousin, Mrs. Catherine J. Adams, a little of the stuff in water, gave thing French-Canadian. some to Mrs. Adams, and drank a portion of what remained. Molineux was held before the grand jury, but they found no bill. He was rearrested on a charge of assaulting Cornish, and acquitted. In the following July he was again indicted and

The hearing of the motion for a new trial has been completed at Buffalo, and the decision of the appeal judges will not be rendered until the fall. His father, General Molineux, has stood by his son as a father might be expected to do, and much sympathy is felt for him. Eminent counsel are engaged, and the result will be watched with great interest. There is no direct evidence of considerable commercial value, eswhatever. His counsel claims that as pecially if the door to Chinese trade strong a case could be worked up can be kept open. against anyone the detectives chose to prosecute, and intends, it is said, to argue also a conspiracy against him.

The other trial, attracting almost as wide an interest, is the Kennedy case. Dr. Samuel J. Kennedy was indicted for the murder of Dolly Reynolds at the Grand Hotel, New York, Aug. 16, 1896. Her head was crushed in. A cheque for $13,000 was found on the woman, signed "Dudley Gideon," and indorsed by Dr. Kennedy. This was believed to have been won at the races. The skull was believed to have been broken with lead pipe, and the police claimed they found traces of "Young Ontario," who were given the

He was tried and convicted. The Court of Appeal granted a new trial in November, 1900. He was again tried in the latter part of last year, and the jury disagreed.

The third trial began May 6 last. The jury were locked up 22 hours, and again failed to agree after seventeen hours without sleep. The identification of the prisoner causes the difficulty, only a rear view having been obtained of whoever the man was leaving the hotel. The jury were not convinced of the identity.

It will be argued that two disagreements are equal to an acquittal, and pean country, and the past week has his release will be asked in accordance with that theory.

Both cases have attracted very much public interest-perhaps the Molineux case the most-and there are many interesting features which will doubtless be ably argued by the eminent counsel employed for the de-

Sober Ontario.

During the past quarter of a century of Liberal rule in this Province, there has been a steady diminution in the number of liquor licenses issued. Six thousand one hundred and eighty-five licenses were issued annually before the Crooks' Act came into force. This number has been reduced, so that in the year 1900 2,950 licenses were issued. This great reduction in licenses has been also accompanied by greatly de-4. The extension of our trade with creased drunkenness, with a corresponding lessening of crime; as evidenced by 4,797 convictions for drunkenness in 1889, compared with 1,892 for the year 1899. The result of it all has been the promotion of a healthy temperance sentiment, so that Ontario holds a position for sobriety superior to that of any other country in the world.

Usefulness of Agricultural Colleges.

It has been stated by those who would disparage agricultural training that students who attend the agricultural colleges do not return to the farm. In refutation of this contention we give the occupations of the alumni and ex-students of the Ohio Agriculthe improvement and enforcement of may be considered a good average among agricultural schools of the continent:

Testimony Re the Shooting of Rev. John Keller.

James Murphy to Answer the Charge of Manslaughter at St. Catharines.

St. Catharines, Ont., June 19.-Jas. Murphy, of this city, appeared before the police magistrate yesterday on a charge of manslaughter, as a result of the verdict of the coroner's jury. It is charged that on June 8 he killed John E. Pattison, of Grantham. The evidence of Dr. Oldrige and several other witnesses was heard, being the same as that given before the coroner's jury. The case was adjourned until Monday next. THE ESCAPED CHATHAM JAIL-

Dissolution Sale.

As announced yesterday, for the next ten days we shall hold a special sale. This will be something unusual. In drygoods circles, seldom, if ever, is a clearing sale brought on just when the season is at its height. But the flat has gone forth, and shrewd buyers may expect to reap profit during this great sale. The goods must be cleared to make room for new purchases and a readjustment of the business, which must be done quickly.

OTTAWA'S ACTION DECLARED ILLEGAL.

Toronto, June 19.-Chancellor Boyd has handed out a judgment granting an injunction to prevent the city of Ottawa from interfering with the tracks of the Canada Atlantic and Montreal and Ottawa Railways located on the city streets. The point involved was whether a railway char-tered under federal authority has a right to run over a public street without expropriation of compensation to the municipality. The chancellor holds that it has, and that the fight of the Ottawa authorities to prevent this was illegal. The injunction is granted without costs and the city's counter-claim Walters, con. 2, Westminster, where he is employed. He turned from the Pipe Line road into a side road running south to con. 2, and after riding threequarters of a mile he saw a mai standing on the south side of the road and heard him say, "Stop, or I'll shoot!" Piercey, thinking some one was joking him, replied as he rode past, "Guess you'll have to shoot." The unknown shot, the bullet striking Piercey in the back of the left leg, between the ankle and the knee. The ball passed through the flesh and emerged, leaving a painful wound. A second shot, fired immediately, missed Piercey, who pedalled on about a mile to the farm of his employer. Here his injured leg was attended to and he was brought this morning to his home in the city. He has no idea of the idendescription of him. The police think the case one of attempted highway robbery.

THE DEATH OF EX-GOV. PINGREE

One of the Most Striking Figures in the Public Life of Michigan.

Hazen S. Pingree was born in Denmark, Maine, in 1840. In 1889 the Republican party nominated him for mayor of Detroit, and he was elected by a big majority. He was re-elected in 1891-93-95 by increased majorities each time. In 1896 he was elected governor of Michigan by 83,000 plurality. He was re-elected in 1898 by about 100,000 plurality, and served out his term, which expired in 1900. Last March he started on the trip to South Africa, which resulted in his death in

AGGRESSIVE AND PROGRESSIVE The Detroit Free Press says: Hazer S. Pingree was one of the most striking figures in the public life of Detroit and Michigan, and his official and political doings not only attracted at-tention in the United States, but caused him to be known in foreign countries where English is spoken. His independent, reckless, forceful style of politics, forcing his party into lines of policy distasteful to its old-time leaders, created a new class in politics, and raised a crowd of followers at home and imitators in other places. His career was one that appealed to many people because of its aggressiveness and novel features, but to many property-owners the word Pingreeism was a synonym for an unwelcome disturbance of business conditions, wild tendencies and a continuous state of

No one knew what Pingree would do next. He veered like a weathercock. He plunged into schemes with amazing energy and as quickly turned from them to another. Some were good and some were considered very bad. His obstinate attempt to make the citizens of Detroit pay about $17,000,-000 for the street railways of Detroit, in order to test his municipal ownership plans, was one instance of his willful opposition to the wishes of a great part of the citizens. Hazen S. Pingree's first work was that of a farmer. He left home at 14 and went to work in a cotton mill it Saco, Me., but later he took up his ife work-that of a shoemaker, at Hopkinton, Mass.

When the civil war broke out, young Pingree was one of 47 from his town to enlist in the First Massachusetts Heavy Artillery. He took part in the first battle of Bull Run, and on May 24 and 25, 1864, was in the fight at North Anna. On the second day of this conflict Pingree and a number of others of his company were captured by the guerilla leader Mosby. spent several months in the hardships of Confederate prison life, but he managed to escape by assuming the name of a sick soldier. On his return to the Union lines he rejoined his regiment in front of Petersburg. Pingree's regiment was mustered out Aug. 15, 1865. After a short visit to his home in Maine, he came to Detroit, and obtained employment as a shoe sales-man, but later he engaged in business for himself being very successful.

He was married in 1872 to Miss Frances A. Gilbert, of Mount Clemens, and had three children. Mr. Pingree was a 32nd degree Mason, a Shriner and a member of Detroit Post, G. A. R. He attended the Woodward Avenue Baptist Church.

Mr. Pingree left his family well provided for. Seven or eight years ago he took out a life insurance policy for $75,000, with the New York Life, and this, it is believed, he kept up till his Besides this he carried polideath. cies with other companies, bringing up the total to something over $100,000.

LADY BETTY TRAVELED OVER 28,000 MILES

Remarkable Horse Ridden by Major Septimus Denison.

Rain About Her. Intelligent Animal for Whom Gallant Owner Cherishes a Very Warm Regard.

"It's a running beast-the major's," a soldier on the heights remarked admiringly yesterday, as Major Denison, C. M. G., charged across the field. war."

"Yes, and what it means to be the only one here that did, too. Look at her now." And they looked, and nearly everyone on the ground looked, as the dashing

nificent animal. Lady Betty, she was named, though possibly if her owner had first seen 'When We Were Twenty-One," would have named her Firefly, after the masterly mistress of the Imp, for by the major's stories, Lady Betty, too, has a fairish flick of the devil in her. She is a sturdy little structure of sinew and bone, and boundless energy. The major is devoted to her; man about the barracks is, naturally for it's not every horse that has the same beauty, and mighty few, at least in Canada, that have had such exper-enamored of her beauty, her strength her unusual speed, and on May 23, 1899, Lady Betty became his. Her military career began on the 30th on Carling's Heights. She bore the major during the camp of No. 2 district at Niagaraon-the-Lake, and then returned to London again. That was the first of a series of remarkable trips that milady has taken since. With her owner she journeyed down to Ottawa, and then on to Sussex, N. B., whence she returned again to London. From then until the end of last December, Lady Betty had numerous and novel experiences. She left London to go to Quebec with the first contingent, and sailed on the steamship Sardinian to Cape Town, a 30-day voyage. With the other Canucks, Lady Betty was hurried immediately to Belmont, where her rather lengthy rest was broken by flying column trips that Major Denison was engaged in. Subsequently, she entrained for the Modder River, where she became one of the equine 400 that was led by Earl Roberts' beautiful white Arab. It was there, we be-lieve, that the first seeds of Lady Betty's vanity were sown. It is the memory of her aristocratic acquaint press the intention of striking should ance of the famous march to Bloemfontein and Pretoria that is respons-ible for the saucy fling of the head and the toss of her tidy hoofs when she is on the field with those very uninter-esting horses of the first and second brigade. Lady Betty made two side-trips from Pretoria, one to Balmoral, and one to Johannesburg. Then she entrained again, went down country to Cape Town, and after a long sea voy-

MR. BALFOUR'S STATEMENT. In a speech made here last night Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury and government leader in the House of Commons, referred to the charges of barbarity to women and children in the British concentration camps in South Africa. Mr. Balfour said that naturally it was the desire of everybody that these people should possess every comfort, but it was an absolute military necessity to clear certain parts of the country. This could only be done by removing pro-visions and stock from farms and leaving the women and children to starve or taking them to the camps, where they could be provided with food and

CHARLTON TALKS TO DETROIT BANKERS

On Trade Relations Between the United States and Canada

Detroit, Mich., June 19.-About 70 members and friends of the Bankers' Club of Detroit at the Hotel Cadillac last evening participated in the semi-annual banquet. The address of the evening was by Mr. John Charlton, M.P., of Canada, on "Trade Relations Between United States and Canada." The great mass of the Canada people, Mr. Charlton declared, if no trade modifications could be secured from the United States, would be disposed to adopt the United States tariff rates, which are double those at present levied in Canada, not as a system of protection exactly, but as a system of or 50 per cent to Great Britain and other countries admitting Canadian products free of duty. Mr. Charlton however, expressed the hope that more reasonable counsels would gov-ern the action of those who framed the United States fiscal policy in the future, and that Canada would be treated, not with generosity, for did not ask that, but with a reasonable degree of fairness. Canada, he said, was ready to meet the United States half way in concessions at any moment, and even to go further than half way, but the policy pursued by the United States, if persisted in, could only end in estrangement, hos-tility and imitation of the United States tariff system on the part of

Clif inquired, as if the time was the only matter that required any consideration, and the thought of the operation itself had not given him a moment's uneasiness. "In a week or two—as soon as we can brace your system up sufficiently to endure it," Neil responded, wondering to see him so cheerful and resigned to the measure; for he had expected that he would be greatly shocked by the mere mental the state of the second of it. Shirtey started and glanced searchingly him as he said this. She had not reamed of his having realized that she was unhappy.

endure; but let it be as soon as possible, please."

"I think you may go the day after tomorrow, and I will myself attend to all the necessary arrangements," Dr. Wallace remarked. Then, after chatting a few moments longer about the matter, he took his leave, feeling thankful, for Shirley's sake, that his patient wished to make the change.

Clifton informed his father the next morning of his decision, and the man was dumbfounded.

"Going to be moved to Ninth street!" he exclaimed, aghast, when he could find his voice. "Such a thing is not to be considered for a moment. What can you be thinking of, Clif?"

"I am thinking of taking my wife to same place where she will not be liable to be hisulted every hour of her life," the young man gravely replied.

"Insulted!" repeated the father, with sudden anger. "No one has thought of notleing her enough to insult her."

"The worst insult you could offer her is to ignore her presence and position, as you do and have done very day of her sojourn here."

"And so she wants to force you, in your sojourn here."

"And so she wants to force you, in your feeble condition, away from your father's house, where you have very comfort and luxury, and hive you up in an apartment house, where you will be stifled with the heat," said Mr. Vining, getting more and more angry over the thought.

"My wife has not even suggested my being moved; it is my own idea altogether—she has never uttered one word of complaint to me, or hinted that she has been —she has never uttered one word of complaint to me, or hinted that she has been unhappy here. But I have not been unsubservant of the treatment she has received at the hands of you and my mother; and after the statements you made yesterday, I made up my mind that it would be best for us to go and best for you to have us away."

"I don't want you to go, Clif," the man faltered, a sense of shame and the weight of an incalculable obligation stealing over him. "I want you to stay here, where I can give you every care until you are well. I feel that I owe it to you."

where I can give you every care until you."

"You owe me nothing. I will accept nothing for myself that you will not also cheerfully accord to her, who is dearer to me than my own life." Clifton returned, with a firmness which proved his determination to abide by his words. Then, after a moment of awkward silence, he added: "Dr. Wallace thinks that I may be moved tomorrow. He has kindly oftered to arrange everything; and then, after I am settled and rested, there wil have to be—as, perhaps, you already know—an operation."

Mr. Vining had been informed of this, and he had been very anxious and depressed on account of it. He was, however, greatly surprised to find Clif so calm and resigned in view of it.

But he was too proud and stubborn to yield the stand he had taken regarding his son's wife, although he knew he was churlish and unreasonable, that he was basely wronging a good and beautiful woman every day of his life—a woman of any member of his family.

But there are people who, having once assumed an attitude, will never yield an inch of ground, even though all the world and their own conscience condemn them, and Mr. Vining was such a character. Still, he knew that he owed Clifton his could to show that he appreciated the priceless gift; but, with strange unreasonableness, he wanted to pay the debt in his own way, and retain the privilege of hating and abusing his wife as much view of the proposed change; but Ciffe.

"But how are you going to live?" Mr. Vining demanded, when he found all his persuasions and arguments of no avail. "Where is all the money for your heavy expenses coming from?"

Clifton smiled slightly at this question, though he also flushed, for it implied that he need not look to his father for help if he persisted in leaving.

"I have something saved," he quietly replied; "and—my wife has a small fortune in her own right, which yields an income sufficient for our present needs."

"A fortune!" exclaimed Mr. Vining, who was much astonished at this unlooked-for

"It was settled upon her recently by her father's half-brother, who was supposed to have died abroad many years ago," Clifton responded, with some coldness; and then he changed the subject, thus indicating that he did not care to discuss his wife's affairs with one who was so openly aggressive toward her. Mr. Vining was considerably chagrined, and began to wish that he had not been quite so heartless in his treatment of Shirley, for, he reasoned, if her relatives were rich enough to settle a small fortune on her now, there would doubtless be something even handsomer coming to her later on.

To Shirley the proposed change from the Vining mansion to their own rooms seemed like a blessed release

To Shirley the proposed change from the Vining mansion to their own rooms seemed like a blessed release from a terrible bondage, and her face shone with relief and gratitude, as she moved swiftly about Clif's chamber, packing up what few things belonged to them, in readiness for removal.

Annie was the only one who manifested any real sorrow over their departure.

"I cannot bear to have you go," she said, with fast falling tears, while sitting with them on the evening before they were to leave. "I know," she went on, flushing, "that you both will be happier, but the—the reason for it seems almost inhuman."

while I am sure I do not need to tell you that we shall always be glad to see you," her brother responded, with visible emothat we shall always be glad to see you."
her brother responded, with visible emotion.

Dr. Wallace came the next morning with an ambulance and skilled men, who moved Clifton so easily and quickly that he experienced very little pain or fatigue, and when at last he was laid upon the bed in what he called his "real home." he said he felt better and stronger than at any time since his injury.

Shirley's face was almost radiant as she went about the pretty rooms, drawing the shades to make the light just right for his eyes, and arranging various ornaments and other decorations, which she had laid away to make the place homelike and attractive when they should return from their bridal trip.

She had not anticipated any such return as this; but she was so glad to be released from the hateful surroundings and trials of the last few weeks that she was comparatively happy, and tried not to murmur over the affliction which had been so strangely sent upon them.

Madame Marton was also very happy to have her dear girl back with her once more. She seemed unusually well, and was so gentle and social with Clif, so thoughtful and attentive to his slightest need, that Shirley wondered afresh what could have served to change her so from the brusque and cynical creature she had been when she first knew her.

Everybody in the house gave them the kindest possible welcome, and seemed eager to contribute in every way to their comfort.

"It will be so much pleasanter for you to eat together," she remarked, "while the nurse can come to the table and have his meals at the same time."

This was very considerate, Shirley thought, and the arrangement proved to be very enjoyable, while Clif appeared to improve daily in both strength and spirits.

Thus two weeks passed, and then the time arrived for the ordeal which they all so much dreaded.

For several days previous Shirley went about pale and hollow-eyed, although she bravely tried to appear cheerful in Clifton's presence, while he assumed a lightness which he was far from feeling, and was even quietly merry at times for her sake.

THREE DAYS CALLED OFF. Chicago, June 20.—Secretary Nathanson, of the Harlem Jockey Club, has issued a statement calling off the remaining days of the meeting. Following is the statement: "Our intention was to race out the remaining three days of the meeting without of three days of the meeting without al-crash. Golden Bay also went down, and Lyne and Wilson, the jockeys, lay stretched out on the track. Lyne came round in a short time, and seems to have escaped serious injury, but Wilson was hurt so badly that he had to be sent to a hospital. Zeeus, the horse, was killed. Then, with the favorite out, Fatalist, a well-backed horse, came on and won cleverly. Kamara won the Bridge handicap after one of the prettiest races of the day. BEST RACING IN HISTORY OF LONDON TRACK.

Sixteen Hundred People Occupied Stands Yesterday Afternoon.

Favorable Weather Conditions Made Perfect Day's Sport.

Exciting Finishes in Nearly All the Eleven Heats Run-Only One Middiesex Horse Faces Judges.

"The finest day's racing ever seen in London!" was the enthusiastic verdict of several prominent followers of the turf in London, after witnessing some of the sensational finishes yesterday at the second day of the London Turf Club's meet. The same perfect weather smiled upon the devotees of the "sport of kings," and the excellent prospect drew a gratifying attendance. Sixteen hundred people ocsupied the grand stand, and they got their money's worth in both the quantity and quality of the races. Eleven heats altogether were run off, and the finishes of some were unexpected and exciting enough to satisfy the most inordinate cravings for good sport.

"Do you fellows know what kind of a crowd they could get at a New York meet if they could guarantee such finishes as that?" asked one of the race officials of a throng of reporters just after the second heat of the third race had been run. "Why, they could have 100,000 people in the stands to see races run like that at a metropolitan track. You newspaper men should wake up to the fact that you're seeing real racing out here. You and the people are not appreciating the good things you are experiencing right here. Why, they'd go wild over in the States if they could see some of this." The official turned to some other enthusiasts who have seen racing across the border, and asked for their corroborated.

A curious fact about the day's racing was that not a single London horse faced the judges. The only representative of Middlesex county was George Neely's Monta, of Dorchester, which took second money in the 2:30 trot. heir money's worth in both the quantity

At the get-away in the first heat John Storm tripped in his hobbles, but made up the lost ground. The race was all in the stretch. Guinette won handily, with John Storm, Anne Gould, and Eric R. in a bunch. Fred Wilkes was a bad fifth.

AT SHEEPSHEAD BAY.

New York, June 20.—A bad accident marred the racing at Sheepshead Bay yesterday. In the second race on the programme there were 15 starters. Zeeus closed favorite and was ridden by Lyne. The field was sent off on the third break, and just after rounding the first turn Zeeus was crowded on the rail, and went down with a crash. Golden Bay also went down, and Lyne and Wilson the indexes larged there was reached, when Erle Maid broke, letting Opera Fan and Monta past.

mame might have lived long in the history of the turf as a synonym of speed and endurance.

When Appleby appeared on the track, attached to a sulky looking the worse for wear, and driven by its owner, whose appearance struck the crowd as "hayseedy," the pair were greeted with derisive cheers and shouts of encouragement. Later on, however, the cheers changed to those of genuine admiration for the horse's performance, and when they get away in the final heat today, it will be Tom Appleby for which the crowd will yell loudest.

Maggie Bell, the favorite in the betting, led till after passing the half, with Alma well up. Just after the first turn Nono Wilkes broke, and Tom Appleby followed her example, both animals dropping so far behind that their distancing seemed probable. At the three-quarters the Wilkes mare broke again, letting Appleby pass. In the stretch Alma made a strong effort under the whip to score, first. The time for the half was 1:09, and for the mile 2:20½.

A perfect start and an equally perfect finish marked the second heat. Maggie Bell went under the wire for the mile 2:20½.

A perfect start and an equally perfect finish marked the second heat. tion. The official timers said the time was 2:2014.

The only semblance of an accident during the day occurred in the third heat. Nono Wilkes got away first, but Alma soon passed her. Beyond the quarter the Wilkes mare broke and wheeled sideways toward the outer fence. Her sulky tipped and her driver was thrown off, but he jumped up, caught his animal and remounted. Maggie Bell, who was forced toward the fence, and her driver had to pull up dead. Both horses and drivers escaped injury in the contretemps. In the meantime Appleby had forged ahead, and when near the wire, under the whip, he passed Alma and scored his second win. Both the other horses were away back of the flag when it dropped, but in view of the unavoidable nature of the accident they were allowed to stay in.

By this time it was 6:30, and the officials discussed the advisability of postponing the finish, but the owners wanted the race decided, and the fourth heat was called. Alma appeared with a new driver up, and this proved an advantageous change, for this time the little Teeswater mare led all the way round and scored. The first quarter was done in :33½, which time was repeated in the fifth heat. At the three-quarters Appleby passed Maggie Bell, and in the stretch Nono Wilkes breaking, enabled the black stallion to again take the place. The time was 2:22½, the slowest of the race. Although the "no racing after sundown" rule appeared in danger of infringement, the fifth heat was proceeded with. Alma led, with Nona Wilkes second and Appleby last, as usual. At the half the stallion had taken third place, At the three-quarters Nona Wilkes second and Appleby last, as usual. At the half the stallion had taken third place till the finish. Appleby took second place from Alma by a nose. The flag fell on Maggie Bell. This heat and the second were the best of the day.

By this time it was sundown in earnest, and the adjournment of the races, with a programme of four events for today, was announced. The crowd broke for the street cars and the second day's racing was over.

THE TWO-MINUTE TROTTER COMING!

Veteran of the Track Thinks Its Advent Is Close at Hand.

That grand veteran of the trotting rack, Joseph Cairn Simpson, in the last issue of Clark's Horse Review. talks learnedly and interestingly in this wise of the possibility of the 2minute trotter being near at hand: "There is assuredly one reasonable argument that two minutes will be recorded in the not-very-near future. That is the requisite speed. The Ab-bot has trotted a quarter of a mile in 29 seconds, according to reliable in-formation. Four seconds may not be sufficient margin to equalize the longer and shorter distances when the test is on a regulation track, but, as the main improvement has been in the capacity to go the whole of the mile at a high rate of speed, the trotter may appear that can make that amount of reserve force available, and chip off a fraction of a second from two "The mile has been made by a pacer well within that mark, measured feet, 35.1, a right good beating. So well established is it that the pace is a faster gait than the trot that a person who denies it cannot be at all con- through a land of picturesque scenery versant with the subject. Why it is makes this the favorite line for the so is not easily decided. The lateral travelor motion, at a very high rate of speed, is not so tiring as the diagonal, in all probability, and thus a prominent factor in the calculation.

"The longest trotting stride I ever 'taped' was 20.5 feet, the longest running, 28 feet. Three trotters, Queen of the West, Ida May and Gloster, made that mark, the only runner, Chance, and he by Venture, the sire of the dam of Directum. The second longest running stride was 26 feet; the most of them were from 19 to 24

"When Azote and Alix trotted on the Oakland track, the stride of each was a little over 19 feet. When a runner can run a mile in 1:40 on a stride of 24 feet, it is evident that, so far as length of stride governs, 20 feet would be ample to enable the trotter to make the mile in two minutes. The the trotter 264 strides, and the time of the stride of each is exactly alike, the decimal .45454 of a second representing both, and would be the same indefinitely.

was something of a surprise when I discovered that a stride of 24 feet in a 1:40 gait was exactly the same as one of 20 feet in 2:00, regarding the quickness of the action. These strides were taken as fair examples of the flying gallop and the very fast trot, close to the limit in the ground covered, and when, in making the second calculation, the figures kept coming 4, 5, 4, 5, I held it was favorable augury that a trotter would come to the front, which had the stride and rapidity of action-"quickness of it-to accomplish the feat. "Assuming that The Abbot had a stride of a shade under 19 feet when he trotted the quarter in 29 seconds, there would be 70 strides in the quarter, the duration of each .4142 seconds.

Synod Committee Recommends the Gothenburg System.

Discussion on Non-Attendance of Laity Resumed—Very Lengthy Debate on the Subject.

The Synod of Huron reassembled at 2:30 o'clock yesterday, the Bishop of After routine, the discussion on the report of the committee on the nonattendance of the laity was resumed, the synod going into committee of the whole. Rev. J. W. J. Andrew said that Christian laymen have as much interest in the synod, as such, as clergymen, but pointed out that the clergy have a special and personal interest in synod matters. It should be the desire of the synod to get all to come as parts of a representative body. R. Bayly, K.C., thought there was a threefold reason for non-attendance by the laity: First, the expense; second, the time required, and third, lack of interest in synod matters. Mr. C. Jenkins could not accept the poverty plea, as the country was now more prosperous than in the past. He was not inclined to increase assessment. He thought there should be a synod Sunday, on which the clergymen should bring before the congregation the acts of the previous synod. Chancellor Cronyn questioned the Chancellor Cronyn questioned the to the cause of temperance. He correctness of the statement that there thought the treating system led to the was a larger attendance of the laity under the old plan of having a church society separate. The attendance now is in proportion as great as then. Rev. Rural Dean Mackenzie said there is no diocese whose funds are better managed, but it takes men with certain gifts, and men from all parts should take an interest in the work and be assisted to come by the help of others nearer London. He felt that the law against the sale of liquors we ought to have a magnificent service, such as St. Paul's was capable of affording, and grand preachers, such as were had in old days when the gifted bishops of the United thoroughly in sympathy with the States preached on opening days of clause. synod. The association anticipates that the annual convention this year will be held at Berlin. On motion the report was received.

The report of the committee on temperance was read by Rev. W. J. Tayor. The committee had corresponded with other synods and religious bodies, and the replies show that the license law is flagrantly and almost universally violated. They show a desire to find common ground to work together for the better enforcement of the laws, and show a difference of opinion as to the advisability of adopt-ting any plan of government sale.

The committee urges the union of all Christian people to this end, and, after careful investigation, is of the opinion that the best solution of the present difficulties, and the best hope of the future is to be found in some form of government sale. The Gothenberg system was recommended as being calculated to meet the difficulties of the case. This was understood to be the taking charge of the sale of in-
