VOL. XXXII., NO. 168

THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 9, 1895.

WHOLE NO. 12188.

START RIGHT AT SPRINGBANK. | way of Liberal progress was the House Mayor Little takes a strong and proper stand in favor of starting right, as regards Springbank, and of making it the favorite resort for women and children, and citizens generally, by absolutely excluding the sale of intoxicating liquors there. We understand that this view is heartily concurred in by the authorities of the proposed downriver electric railway, and, for that matter, also by the city license hold-

Three-fourths of the traffic-and it will be a large traffic-to and from our delightful Down-River Park will consist of women and children.

If there are any rapid youths of the thirsty variety who must have an outof-town resort to paint red, they will have to find some other place to spoil afraid of its provisions. The Governthan Springbank.

THE ELECTRIC RAILWAY.

The text of the main portions of the proposed agreement for the electrification of the London Street Railway is now before the citizens, the feeling on the whole being that substantial progress has been made.

There is no lack of ability on either side, and we do not see why the remainsatisfactorily adjusted. The City Council will be sustained in any reasonable effort to bring the matter to a conclusion, provided always that the interests of the citizens are fully conserved.

EDUCATION IN RUSSIA St. Petersburg, May 8.—It is stated that the educational budget has been increased 300,000,000 roubles, the increase to be applied to the support of elementary schools. CONCESSIONS TO RUSSIA. London, May 8 .- The United Press correspondent in St. Petersburg learns from a high source that Russia has a separate understanding with China. This understanding does not cede Man-churian territory wholly to Russia, but 12 places it under Russian control to the extent of allowing Russia when so disposed to prolong the Siberian Railroad from Nertchinsk through the valleys of the Nonni and Sungari, in the Karin province, to Broughton Bay, in also to let Russia build a branch railroad from Kirin City to Newchwang. Paris, May 8.-The Temps has this dispatch from its correspondent in St. Petersburg: The question of Japan's equivalent for the Liao Tung territory which she gave up is the subject of active negotiations among the powers. There is every reason to hope it will be

THE QUEEN'S DRAWING-ROOM. London, May 8 .- The Queen's drawing-room, held in Buckingham Palace, was eminently a success. The weather was delightful and the attendance large enough to be described as a crush. The debutantes and many other ladies wore white, but fawn color and sky blue were often seen. The bouquets carried by Mrs. Walter Winans and the Misses Grace and Bertha Potter were greatly admired. The Princess of Wales was cheered on entering at 2:30 o'clock. The Queen of the Netherlands and her mother, the Queen Regent, did not attend the ceremony, but stood where they could see Queen Victoria as she entered in state.

HAND IN HAND. London, May 8 .- The National Liberal Club held its annual reception this evening. Lord Rosebery made a most noteworthy speech. He referred briefly to the "untiring and brilliant Government leader (Harcourt) in the House of Commons," and then turned his attention to the persistent rumors of Cabinet crises. The daily reports that this or that Minister would resign, he said, had grown wearisome. The Ministers would never for a moment think of striking their flag as long as they should have the confidence of the party. They would continue to uphold the flag, but they must express their regret at the ten-dency of the party to discontent or carrided. It was well to remember that these failures caused the leaders as much disappointment as the followers. Finally, Lord Rosebery reminded his hearers that the abiding obstacle in the riticism of the leaders because certain

Sir William Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, spoke in another room regarding the Cabinet's unity and programme. His remarks were similar to Lord Rosebery's.

THE ANTI-SOCIALIST BILL,

On Which the German Ministry May Be Defeated.

Berlin, May 8. - In the Reichstag today Chancellor Hoenlohe declared that the Government had introduced the Anti Revolution Bill in compliance with a great popular movement throughout Germany last summer. He was astonished to see that those who had been the noisiest in their clamor for the measure proposed in the bill were now disclaiming any connection with or responsibility for the bill, and he was especially amazed that a large class of poets, thinkers and savants were ment, he said, did not intend to interfere with art or science, and he hoped that some positive result would be the fruit of the debate. Paragraph 3 was then discussed. Dr. Barth, Radical-Unionist, arguing its rejection.

The galleries were not so much crowded as yesterday, the excitement having subsided. The consensus of opinion is that most of the paragraphs will be re-

Baron Von Manteuffel, Conservative, said that unless the Conservative amendment to paragraph 3 was adopted the Conservatives would oping points of difference should not be pose the whole bill. The danger of revaluation, he declared, had not passed. The present mood of the Socialists to keep within the law was only a blind.

Herr Auer, Socialist, ridiculed at length the kind of offenses which the bill penalized. His party, he said, disowned all Anarchistic theories, which were long since dead, except for the Conservatives to reclaim the police to stir up. Herr Auer was severely called to order by the president for saying that it seemed to him that the governing clauses of the bill were endeavors to produce a state of affairs which would enable the Government to try their new rifles on the people.

ROSEBERY LOOKED ILL.

Had to Be Prompted.

London, May 9.-It was generally remarked at the reception of the National Liberals last evening that Lord Rose-bery looked pale and wearied, the lapse of memory from which he suffered causing him to lose the thread of his argument for several minutes, in spite of the fact that he was repeatedly reminded by Earl Spencer and Campbell-Bannerman.

Meanwhile the Premier gazed him in a dazed sort of way that was painful to see. When he recovered himself he was inclined to end his remarks then and there, but he was persuaded to proceed, which he did with great effort. Some ascribe his condition to the use of drugs.

She was afterwards taken off safely.

SIX VICTIMS.

Terrible Disaster in a Baltimore Sweat Shop_A Teamster's Heroism.

Baltimore, Md., May 8.-Six persons were probably fatally burned by the explosion of a gasoline stove and the fire which followed in a sweat shop at deputy supreme regent, assisted by J. 1,424 East Pratt street this evening. The F. McWatt, of Barrie, supreme repesentative for Ontario, installed the pfficers and exemplified the secret wrk of the order, after which the Grand Council adjourned. The next annual for help, five of the unfortunates would for help, five of the unfortunates would meeting will be held at Niagara Fals not have been taken out alive from the garret.

Morris rushed upstairs and found the door of the sweat shop securely locked. He reached the veranda in front of the second story window, and called to the panic-stricken inmates of the third story to jump. One woman had already leaped from the third story window to the street with her clothing in flames. She was miraculously saved from instant death by Tom McGargan, whose outstretched arms broke her fall. Morris caught two others in his arms, smothered the flames in which they were enveloped and carried them to the sidewalk. He then ran upstairs again, kicked open the door of the sweat shop, and hauled out the prostrate forms of two men and a woman. The victims were all alive at a late hour tonight, but Dr. Giering said he did not expect any of them to recover. The injured are: Sarah Silberman, aged 19; Silla Silberman, an older sister; Sam Silberman, aged 17; Molly Sizks, aged 22; Marcus Korn, aged 40; Abraham Silberman, the father of the

D. R. A. ANNUAL MEETING. Ottawa, May 8.-There was a good attendance at the annual meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association here today. President Lieut.-Col. Gibson occupied the chair, and Lord Aberdeen was present. The annual report was adopted. In reply to a vote of thanks, Lord

Aberdeen said he always took an interest in rifle shooting. Mr. Dickie, Minister of Militia, said the Martini rifle was not satisfactory, but the Dominion ought to stand by its bargain if the Imperial Government said so. They would have to make the best of a bad bargain. He did not ex-pect any war with the United States, although we ought to be ready to prevent trouble from the Indians on the other side of the border. The Snider rifle was a poor weapon to stand before an enemy with a modern arm. The old officers of the association were

The Scrap Bag.

Fat cobs, slender thoroughbreds, little Shetlands, hired hacks, everywhere. London is a city of equestrians and equestrienne. Each fine day now brings them out along our streets and avenues. I do not know of any city in Canada where (in proportion to the size of the place) there is more riding done, or in very much better style. Only yesterday I saw such a stunning girl coming along Queen's avenue at a smart trot on a perfect little beauty of a chestnut mar-Elegant habit, perfect seat, hands well down and elbows in. I have spent many hours in Central Park watching the throngs of fashionables recruited from the ranks of the "Four Hundred," on their beautiful mounts. But I never saw one who rose straighter in the saddle, or rode with a lighter hand than my fair Canuck of the avenue yesterday, who, I happen to know, is only 17, and has seldom been out of London, Ont. And then just take the Hunt Club! Why-but there!-I'll be "digressin" before I know where I am if I let myself go on the subject of our London Hunt Club, and I mustn't -though there's nothing so nice, or that I love better, than to digress. Speaking of horses and riding, etc., naturally makes one think of the proposed bridle path for equestrians in Victoria Park, a subject on which there is much to be said. There is no space in this department for a homily, but to the authorities about to make a bridle path I would just like to give the opposite of Punch's advice to those about to be married, "Do." That is if you can arrange on some road or path already there, without cutting up the park any

The Prince of Wales is said to have an extraordinary and accurate knowledge of the signs, colors and membership of all orders of merit. It is a matter, however, in which he permits no trifling, as the following incident shows: At a recent state ball a beautiful young girl wore a glittering jeweled decoration on her breast. She danced opposite the prince. When the quadrille was over, he said gently:

"That is a pretty ornament. May L ask to whom it belongs?"
"To Lord Blank," said the frightened girl. "He is my fiance. He allows me to wear it." "Can you unfasten it easily?" "Yes, your Highness."

"Then may I ask you to take it off, and to tell Lord Blank that it means something more than a bit of gold and a few diamonds to be worn merely as an ornament, even by a charming woman." Dusters are now seen in flaunting colors and they have also gone up in price. They have long sterling silver handles and feathers in all the new and aesthet-Sick Headache, Foul Stomach, Biliousness, will be avoided, as the food that is eaten contributes its nourishing properties for the support of the as soft as down rival those of cerise in popularity. Mother-o'-pearl handles are also in vogue. These dusters are supposed to be used by milady herself and not by her maid. Throw away the sachets that have done duty all winter and with a fresh installment of powdered orris root and violet make fresh sweetness for the bureau and closet. A perfume that is beginning to be a little musty is of all disagreeable ones the worst. A prominent physician has declared that hot water is woman's best friend. It will cure dyspepsia if taken before breakfast, and will ward off chills when she comes in from the cold. It will stop a cold if taken early in the stage. It will relieve a nervous headache and give instant relief to tired and inflamed eyes. It is most efficacious for sprains and bruises, and will frequently stop the flow of blood from a wound. It is a sovereign remedy for sleeplessness, and, in conclusion, the doctor asserts, vanish before its constant use."

An attempt is being made to have the Confederation Act amended to secure the legality of another fat office—that of Deputy Speaker of the Senate. This is farcical, in view of the fact that the Senate Speaker gets $4,000 a year, and that the daily sederunts are rarely longer than two hours. Just now the Senate has adjourned for three weeks because it had really nothing to do. But the yearly indemnity of $1,000 will

Such Was the Experience of Frank Menger, of Fergus-The Detail of His Recovery Related.

(From the Fergus News-Reced.) The many friends of Mr. Fran Menger, son of Mr. George Menger, of the Dominion Hotel, know that fo over six months he was all but helples from an attack of paralysis, and that e has again recovered the entire use f the parts affected. Mr. Menger wasquestioned by a reporter of the lews-Record regarding his recovery, and, while not anxious for notoriety, endidly admitted that Dr. Williams Pink Pills was the first medicine to stat him on the road to renewed health. Three years ago," said Mr. Menger, "I vas a telegraph operator at St. Josep's, in Waterloo county. I was taken down with an attack of la grippe, and became so enfeebled that I was fored to quit work and return to my hose, at that time in Alma. I was then sticken with partial paralysis and was mable to move my limbs. I remained h this trying condition for over six months, and was well-nigh giving up in dspair, when my father brought home Di Williams' Pink Pills, which I began tking, and soon felt an improvement. Continued the use of Pink Pills till I had taken twenty boxes, and daily found life and strength being restored o my limbs. Only those who have ben attacked as I was can understan the feeling of joy occasioned by a renwed lease of health and activity, and you can rest assured I shall always seak in warm terms of Dr. Williams' link

Mr. Wm. Houston's Lecture on The Princess," by Tennyson. Tennyson's "Princess" was the sibject of a lecture delivered last nght under the auspices of the Young Vomen's Christian Association by Mr. Wm. Houston, M.A., of Toronto. The chair was accupied by C. Barnes, N.A. Before the lecture an instrumental piece of music was given by Miss Green, and during an intermission in the niddle of it Mr. Stockwell sang a solo

The lecturer began by giving some account of "The Princess" as a roem, this being made necessary by the fact that in any general audience there are apt to be at least a few who havenever read it. "The Princess" is a story within a story, the latter being contained in the prologue, the epilogue and a short passage in the middle of the formen. The story proper of "The Princess" is in seven parts, and between every two parts there is inserted a song. The story is told by seven young collegians, each taking a part in turn, while the songs are sung by the ladies of the company as interludes. And the women sang

Between the rougher voices of the men

Like linnets in the pauses of the wind. Essentially "The Princess" is a discussion of the woman question, of which it furnishes one solution. Tennyson was what may be called an "institutional" poet. He believed in organized society, of which law is the will and institutions are the mechanism. Moreover, the institutions in which he believed were those he knew best, namely English institutions. He believed in the state, in the church, in Parliament, in the judiciary, in the army and navy, but above all in the family as made up of husband and wife, of parents and children. In the family he saw the greatest possibilities for the growth of the highest affections and for the development of the finest characters. The love that he approved was love tending to and resulting in marriage, to go on after-ward in uneuding evolution. The interlude songs all have for their theme the mutual influence of husband and wife, of parents and children, and they are lyrical expositions of themes which his other poems show to have been much in his thoughts. While marirage is one solution of the woman question, it is not the only one. some married people it is the best, and not all peoare ever married. Some wochoose to remain single, and some become single by bereavement. The life of a single woman may be an honored, useful and helpful one, as we can see from the most casual observation. Some single women prefer to work alone, spending beautiful lives in works of blessing. Some enter into communities, like the religious sisterhoods, giving up their property, if they have any, for the common use, and accepting voluntarily a life of toil, for which their only material reward is their living. Many prefer to work in co-operation with others for the dissemination of charity, the reform of social evils or the promotion of culture. Tennyson has not in this discussion of the woman question pressed any of these solutions on our attention, and when one is tempted to ask why, the answer may be easily found. He was before all things an artist, with an artist's eye for the beautiful. Any other solution of the question except one that was susceptible of poetic, which means artistic, treatment, could not serve his purpose, and the only one any of us would care to read about in a poem and if he erred he at least erred in good company. Love resulting in marriage is the great theme of the novelist and the dramatist, as well as the epic poet. Instead of condemning the treatment of the woman question in "The Princess" as too narrow, therefore, we should be grateful to him who has in a Work of surpassing artistic merit dealt with this great theme so as to create an imperishable embodiment of the beautiful

OUR CITIZEN SOLDIERS AND THEIR ARMS.

The report of the Dominion Minister of Militia for the year ending June 30, 1894, though its publication was long delayed, contained much that will interest the public. Major-General Herbert says that he deeply regrets that the rural militia were not called out for training during the last year. He says:

"No one appreciates more fully than I the value of the men of these corps, as an element of the defensive strength of Canada, and though the time allotted for their instruction is inadequate, the asembling of these corps periodically serves to maintain a military spirit in the country which cannot be too highly

The general says that when the men sacrifice so much to perform their duties, the least the country can do is to give them systematic training.

What will the general say when he hears that so extravagant has been the expenditure of public money on speculators and needy hangers-on, that no money has been provided in the estimates for either city or country drill in the year 1895?

As to the arming of the militia, the Major-General says:

"During the past year 1,000 rifles, on the Martini-Metford principle, have been received, of which 730 have been issued on trial. The reports received show it to be an admirable weapon. It differs, however, in many points, from any weapon which has hitherto been used by the militia force, and it will only be after some practice and experience that the full advantage of it will be realized. The ammunition issued with the rifle has not been satisfactory. This defect, however, will be remedied by the decision which has been arrived at, to adopt the Cordite ammunition, in use in the Imperial service, and to manufacture the same at the Dominion Cartridge Factory at Quebec. Two hundred Martini-Metford carbines have been issued to the cavalry, with Cordite ammunition, the results proving fully satisfactory. The absence of recoil, of smoke and of fouling are all that could be desired. "The general adoption of a modern rifle will undoubtedly necessitate the closing of many rifle ranges. The ranges at London, Ont., and at Fredericton, N. B., have been altered to meet new conditions, and a range, suitable for practice up to 1,000 yards, has been secured at Vancouver, B. C. The necessity for rifle ranges, throughout the country, will be felt more and more, and must undoubtedly render necessary special appropriations, to meet this requirement. Musketry practice of the militia in Canada must, for a long time to come, be almost entirely voluntary, and for this purpose a range should be readily available for every company in the rural districts." Here Major-General Herbert takes strong issue with Mr. Patterson, ex-Minister of Militia. In his farewell speech to the force at Montreal, the retiring member for West Huron condemned the Martini-Metford rifle in no stinted terms, denounced it as too heavy and otherwise ill-adapted for use as a defensive weapon, and announced that it had been decided not to issue the rifle to the force. In view of Major-General Herbert's declaration, it will be interesting to know where the militia management of the country is

When, two years ago, Mr. Patterson was appointed Minister of Militia, and the disgraceful condition of the management of the force, was brought under his notice, he pleaded general ignorance, as he had but newly taken the department. Now he retires, declaring himself to be totally opposed to the working head of the force in Canada on the vital question of the proper arming of the militia. One of these days Mr. Dickey, the new Minister of Militia, will have to explain the estimates of the department to Parliament. Will he, too, fall back on the excuse that he is new to the business, and that he has no policy with regard to the future? This constant shuffling of portfolios by the men in power has its special disadvantages for the citizen soldiers of the Dominion.

MARS INHABITED! The Atlantic Monthly for May contains the first of an important series of papers by Percival Lowell on Mars. Mr. Lowell is convinced that Mars-after the moon our next to nearest neighber in space—is inhabited. He asserts that the trend of all latter day investigation has been to such affirmation; for science has been demonstrating more and more clearly the essential oneness of the universe. Matter proves to be common property. We have learned that the very same substances with which we are familiar on this, our earth, iron, magnesium, calcium and the rest, are present in the far-off stars that strew the depths of space. Nothing new under the sun! Indeed, there is nothing new above it but ever-varying detail. So much for matter. As for mind beyond the confines of our tiny globe, modesty, backed by a probability little short of demonstration, forbids the thought that we are the sole thinkers in this great universe. That we are the only minds in space it takes indeed a very small mind to fancy. Our relative insignificance commonly escapes us. If we reduce the universe to a scale on which we can conceive it, that on which the earth shall be represented by a good-sized pea, with a grain of mustard seed, the moon, circling about it at a distance of seven inches, the sun would be a globe two feet in diameter, two hundred and twenty feet away. Mr. Lowell goes on to demonstrate that a Martian atmosphere exists, and

"One deduction from this thin air we must, however, be careful not to make: that because it is thin it is incapable of supporting intelligent life. That beings constituted physically as we are would find it a most uncomfortable habitat is pretty certain. But lungs are not wedded to logic, and there is nothing in the world or beyond it to prevent, so far as we know, a being with gills, for example, from being a most superior person. A fish doubtless imagines life out of water to be impossible; and similarly, to argue that life of an order as high as our own, or higher, is impossible, because of less air to breathe than that to which we are locally ac customed, is, as Flammarion happily expresses it, to argue, not as a philosopher, but as a fish.' Mr. Percival sums up that we have proof positive that Mars has an atmosphere; that this atmosphere is very thin-thinner at least by half than the air upon the summit of the Himalayas; that in constitution it does not differ greatly from our own, and that it is relatively heavily charged with water will be;ot.

Women and Votes-Liely Episode in the Commens-Mr. Laurier's Declaration-Militia to be Drilled This Year-Government Forced to Change Its Policy—LCarthy After Lieut. Gov. Schultz's Scalp-A Pohibition Resolution Will Be Introduced.

(Specially telegraphed by our owrRepresentative.)

Ottawa, May 8.-Mr. Davin (West Assiniboia) introduced this resolution in the Commons this afternoon: "That in the opinion of the House the privilege of voting for candidates for membership thereof should be extended to women possessing the qualifications which now entitle men to the electoral franchise." Mr. Davin adduced many excellent reasons why women should vote. He pointed to the position women have attained in arts, in letters and politics, and adduced such women as Queen Victoria and Elizabeth, Margaret of Austria and Harriet Martineau to show that woman was well able to cast a ballot intelligently. This, he said, was indorsed by Gladstone, by Disraeli, by Huxley, by Sir John Macdonald, and even by Mr. Laurier himself. Hon. David Mills, interrupting, said Sir John put woman suffrage in his franchise act and then canvassed his supporters to vote it down.

"My motion," said Mr. Davin, "will take from women the stigma of being put in the category of infants, idiots and lunatics."

When Mr. Davin sat down all eyes were cast towards the Government leaders, but the Ministers sat dumb. Then Dr. Montague arose and moved adjournment of the debate. Mr. Laurier thought on so important a question there should be a Government declaration. Dr. Montague said he had moved adjournment of the debate in order to study up the question. He was not prepared to vote. Mr. Charlton said this was an attempt to shirk a vote.

Mr. Laurier said the Government was derelict in its duty if it was not prepared with a view on this important question. It has been again and again debated in this House. "I agree," said the Liberal leader, "in a large measure with what has been said by Mr. Davin. I deny that women are inferior beings, though in the past it has been so taught. The present sovereign of Great Britain is an illustration of woman's ability." Mr. Laurier denied the contention that woman's participation in public life would be injurious to her or it; but he pointed out that he and his followers had always held that the question of width of the franchise was a Provincial one. Let each Province decide whether woman shall vote or not. In the Province of Quebec he knew there was no demand that women should vote. If public opinion is different in Ontario, let it be so decided by the Local Legislature. It may be, in the not far distant future, that the Provinces generally will agree to woman suffrage for all Dominion elections. There is no feeling in Quebec that women are unjustly He moved in amendment: "That the question of woman suffrage is one which, like other questions affecting suffrage, more especially belongs to the Provincial jurisdiction."

Dr. Montague withdrew his motion. Dr. Sproule opposed the amendment. Hon. David Mills said it was a proper solution of the question.

Mr. McMullen was surprised at the Government having no opinion on the subject. Mr. Davin would again have to act as a funnel to put ideas into the Ministers. (Laughter.)

Mr. Craig (Durham) said it was not to be expected the Government would be united on the subject. Mr. Davin was a bachelor, and he was surprised at his action. He opposed woman suffrage because he did not want politicians to come canvassing his wife, and by being agreeable to her cause her to neglect her household duties. Dr. La Chappelle (Hochelaga's Conservative M. P.), regarded woman suffrage as a fad, and said only tough women would vote. Mr. McLean (York) coincided. Women would be guided by emotion, and would elect men like Mr. Spence (Toronto) as Finance Minister. (Mr. Spence was in the gallery, and he enjoyed this.) Mr. McInerney opposed the amend-ment. The Provinces should not decide the question. Mr. Foster here moved the adjournment of the debate, and it was carried.

As expected, the extraordinary conduct of Lieutenant-Governor Schultz of Manitoba in coming to Ottawa and procuring and publishing a long letter on the subject of the school question will be brought before Parliament. Mr. McCarthy tonight gave notice that he would bring up the matter tomorrow.

Mr. Edgar was informed today that under the new tariff the excise duty on spirits would be graduated as follows: '65 per cent over proof, $2 80 per gallon: 50 per cent. $2 25: 20 per cent under proof, $1 56; 25 per cent, $1 27 1-2." Mr. Edgar was also told that the new customs duty on spirits would rule: per cent over proof, $3 71 per gallon; 50 per cent, $3 37 1-2; 20 and 25 per cent under proof, each $1 91 1-4."

Mr. Costigan informed Mr. Allan (Essex) that Henry Smith, Chatham, is not in the Government employ now, and that Henry Lindley, Cedar Springs, is fishery overseer on the Lake Erie

Tremendous pressure having been brought to bear on the Government, the country corps of militia will this year be drilled, in spite of the fact that no money is provided for the purpose in the estimates. The Government is ow considering the question of voting pay to the city corps. So strong a Conservative as Col. Henshaw, Montreal, told the Government today if they treated he would vote for is defeat. Surprise is general that an attempt to starve the militia should have been made. Each Minister blames his neighbor when asked to explain.

I attended an important conference of a large number of members of Parliament today to meet a delegation from the Dominion Alliance and agree upon the course to pursue with regard to the resolution given notice of by Mr. Flint, M.P., in these terms: "That in the opinion of this House the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxi-cating liquors in Canada, except for sacramental, scientific, manufacturing and medicinal purposes, should be pro-hibited by law." of London, are already well known to which had come in from newinvestors. many of our readers, and we think a few remarks in reference to 'Doc' will be of interest to wheelmen generally. An enthusiastic sport Dr. Balfour half always been, and whether in baseball, football or curling-and by the by he is an ex-president of the Forest City Curling Club-his plastic countenance was forever "bobbing up serenely," and he has never failed to win the admiration and respect of his fellows for the hearty and thorough manner in which he has supported everything; but after all it has remained for cycling of all the sports to claim him for her own, and since the happy union took place he has almost turned his back upon his old loves, so infatuated has he become with the new. There is a peculiar charm about the wheel that other sports do not possess, and Dr. Balfour may well be pardoned for his infatu-ation. The subject of our sketch is superintendent of the General Hospital in London and a member of the medical department of the Western University. His association with the London Bicycle Club dates back two years, and he has just been elected president of that popular organization by ac-clamation. Those who know the doctor personally speak well of him, and his wheeling friends in particular are pround of him. At the last meeting of the C. W. A. he was recognized as a coming man, and the fact is sustained by his recent election to the office of vice-president. The gentleman who nominated him for the office in question (Mr. P. T. Carroll) made the remark that the doctor's abilities were requisite for the highest honors in the association, and his admirers declare that he will make himself felt before many sessions are over. His meek and docile 'wouldn't hurt a mouse" sort of countenance must not be taken as typical of the man; 'tis whispered that he has a regular bull-dog pertinacity and very strong opinions of his own when things don't go right. In fact he is just the sort of man for an important office, and President Doolittle is to be congratulated on having such a worthy coadjutor as Dr. J. D. Balfour, of Lon-

WHAT "REX" SAYS. The wide-awake reporter of the London Club has these few lines to say in the Canadia Wheelman which are of interest to local cyclists:

"Do not think because you have not heard from us for some time that we have been, like the bear, asleep all winter, for we have not. We have had, however, such a delightful winter season that it knocked considerable of the 'wheelmen's thought' out of our head. But with the balmy air and sunshine of the spring now before us, we have re-turned to the old love, 'cycling,' as the annual club dinner, also the annual business meeting, held this month, testify. Both were very largely attended, especially the dinner, and all were very enthusiastic over the prospects for the coming season. "We have been handicapped in the past for the want of a cinder track, but the prospects are bright now, and we expect to have one soon, but sorry we could not have it ready in time, or we should have stood by our bid for the meet this season. We will all be at 'Lagerloo,' and if we don't have a good time, why, we aren't wheelmen. "We are to appear in a new uniform this season, and we think it will 'catch your eye,"

SPOKES. At a meeting of the Alvinston Bicycle Club the following officers were elected: D. H. Newcombe, president; C. W. Pray, vice-president; Dr. Martin, captain; A. McDougall, lieutenant; R. M. E. Mc-Diarmid, bugler; J. E. W. Branan, secretary-treasurer. The club has 26 members, eight of them being ladies. PISCATORIAL.

Then just to demonstrate the fact Old Uncle Ike went out; He guessed he'd "get below the dam An' ketch a mess o' trout."

We went at noon and took a peep. There Uncle Ike sat, still And motionless, as if asleep, Beside the rippling rill.

And when he came in after dark He had one little trout That measured just three inches And a half from tail to snout.

A COLOSSAL SWINDLER.

Jabez Balfour, Ex-M.P., Arraigned for Examination

At London—History of His Frauds—Many Ruined.

London, May 9.-Jabez Spencer Balour, the wrecker of the Liberator tuilding Society and other similar entrprises, was arraigned in the Bow Sreet Police Court this morning for eiamination.

Jabez Spencer Balfour was a member of Parliament for Burnley, and a man of repute in financial circles. The frauds for which he will now have to stand trial were committed in connection with a concern known as the Liberator Permanent Building Society, and wee among the largest that have ever been perpetrated. They involved a loss to he investors of about $35,000,000. The crash came in 1893. Balfour fled at that time to the Argentine Republic, and although vigorous measures were at oice taken to have him returned for trial, it seemed until recently as if he woull escape. A number of allied corporatons went down with the failure of the Liberator Permanent Improvement Company.

The title Liberator seems to have been choser with a view to making the company topular with the Dissenters. The company was advertised and in other ways systematically introduced to the notice of thrifty persons of the middle classes, and among workingmen who had sared money. Many ministers among he Dissenters were not only investor in the company, but they also advised nembers of their congregations to jut money into it. For a big time the institution paid regular 5 er cent dividends. Connected with this parent company were, among others, the Lands Improvement Company, the Real Estate Company, the Building Scurities Company, the House and Land Investment Trust, and the Sheringhan Development Company. After the rash it was shown that for years the deidends had been paid, not out of earings, but out of receipts The directors had left the afirs of the company in the hands of Bfour, and had taken his word that verything was all right. The London and General Bank was another concern allied to the building society. This had been formd in 1882, to give banking facilities to le Balfour companies. When the crash one it was found that the capital and eposits of the bank had almost all beerabsorbed by the advances made to the iberator Society and the other concus men-tioned. Many of the person who lost their savings through Balfor's frauds were entirely beggared. A lief fund was opened and more than $0,000 was raised. Fourteen hundred ar fourteen women applied to the commtee having charge of this fund for elief. Of this number 652 were unmitted, 601 were widows, and 57 of the women were each more than 80 yearsld; more than 500 of them had passed ( years of age.

Three persons have alreadyeen sent to prison for participating in the frauds. They are Henry ranville Wright, a solicitor; James William Hobbs, a builder, who was formerly mayor of Craydon, and a ma named Newman. Hobbs and Wright ere sentenced to twelve years' penalervitude each for forgery, and Newma to five years. Balfour in his public capeity had made many gifts to institutins. In a number of these cases the mory value of his gifts was returned afte he ran away, and this money wentinto the fund for the relief of the persos whom he had left destitute.

HOURS FOR CLOSING ARS.

The Temperance People ad the License Commissioner.

To the Christian Public of th City of London:

The following has been hande to the "Advertiser" for publication:
To deliberately shut one's yes to danger is both cowardly and colish. As supporters of the temperace reform, and active workers in itsranks, we feel that the time has come usound an alarm. A crisis is upon t, and should we remain inactive it mus be at the peril of great future loss.

By decision of the license commissioners the bars of this city hav been granted additional privileges o sale, the hours having been lengthene from 10 to 11 p.m. As this was donein the face of strong adverse pleas, andat the instance, not of the citizens, orin response to any public appeal, butsolely as a result of the requests of thse engaged in the liquor business, the natter may well demand a little closer nspection than that likely to be aroued by the newspaper reports of it.

To begin with, let it be remembered: 1. That this retrograde action is taken by men who are servants of a covernment pledged to temperance rebrm; a Government that secured a new lease of life only a little more than v year ago, through the votes of the Chistian and temperance people of this Prvince, and despite the strenuous opposition of the liquor elements. 2. That the people of Ontario, by 82,000 of a maprity, and the citizens of London by over 900 of a plurality, have given a ballo box branch, and have thus declared heir purpose of destroying it. 3. That two years ago (as the liquor faction glried in conceding as soon as the opportunity for redress was past), this city pronounced in favor of the closing o' all bars at 7 o'clock every night; that in view of the outrageous fraud usel in that election to defeat the will of the people, these same commissioners placed the evening sale limit at 10 o'cbck; furthermore, that to restore to the seople the 27 minutes taken from then by legal technicality, the Ontario Hoise, just adjourned, passed a special act.

Taking all this into consideration we find a chain of circumstances surrounding the present action of the comnissioners that makes them without excuse in betraying, as they have, the interests of the homes of this city, for the influence of the saloons. When the appointed representatives of the Ministerial Association, the London Temperance Union, the W. C.T. U. and Royal Templars, paid on the 19th of April their annual visit to the com-missioners, the chairman of the board intimated to the delegation that no alteration would be made in the hours of sale, alleging as a reason the probable passage of an act by next year's Legislature setting a uniform hour for the whole Province. No change meant 10 o'clock closing. What, then, is the meaning of this radical change of base? The one argument used by the liquor men-the all-night county bars that fringe the boundaries of our city-has been nullified by the action of the East Middlesex commissioners, in granting the plea of the temperance delegation and passing a 10:30 closing bylaw. What will be the result of this conession to legalized wrong? One more hour in which to wreck the home life, ruin the characters and destroy the souls of our citizens. And let it not be forgoten that, by admission of the liquor dealers before the commissioners, and in presence of the temperance delegation, this hour was declared to be more to them financially than any other hour in the day.

Weigh that thought for a moment. More liquor between 10 and 11 than in any similar period within legal limits! Then think of the corresponding moral loss to the community. If, as none can successfully deny, the use of intoxicants is the prime factor in producing the crime, disease and misery of every land, what a black record of shame and sorrow will be that indelible and invisible one, kept by the righteous judge. as over against whatever of gain may have accrued through this one hour of "license to sell."

The representatives of the 40 licensed bars asked for 11 o'clock closing. The representatives of the 40 churches, with the various temperance organizations, asked for 9 o'clock closing. The representatives of the Government take away from the churches and the temperance societies privileges already conceded as theirs by virtue of the acknowledged right of the majority to rule, and give to the representatives of the saloons not only the 27 minutes that the law had restored to their opponents, but an additional 33, rounding out the coveted hour which comprised their full request. For the second time the churches get nothing, but for the first time in a number of years the pendulum of reform swings backward, and the bars of London get all they ask. Signed on behalf of the Western Ontario Prohibition Union, H. A. Arnott, M.D., president; William Bowman, Rev. J. R. Gundy, vice-presidents; D. A. Mc-Dermid, treasurer; F. W. Daly, secre-

EAST MIDDLESEX TEACHERS.

Annual Convention Being Held in the County Buildings

Able Address by the President Mr. J. W. Plewes Papers Discussed.

The East Middlesex Teachers' Association began its regular annual convention in the county buildings this morning, with a large attendance of

The president, Mr. J. W. Plewes, called on Rev. E. B. Lancely to open the meeting. Miss C. A. Jeffery, secretary, submitted the minutes of the last institute.

Business of routine character was summarily dispatched, changes, recent and proposed, were announced and their effects discussed. Mr. Plewes opened the programme proper by an able presidential address. He emphasized the duty resting on the teacher to put and keep himself abreast with the times, especially in matters ertaining to the making of the history of the nation in which we live and in those around us. At present no other subject exercises the civilized world so much as the conditions of society. He referred to Benjamin Kidd as the writer who had most fully and clearly set forth the rise, progress and present status of social conditions, and gave an able resume of the propositions, arguments and conclusions of that au-

Mr. Liddicoatt discussed Mr. Plewes' paper and the effects that reading Kidd's book had exercised on his own mind. He eloquently emphasized the advantages to the teacher of reading, observing and thinking in fields outside of school routine.

Mr. R. H. Thompson, of London township, dealt with the topic "Home Lessons." The advantages of home study are that the evening review of the day's essons give thoroughness and facility, opportunity for special pains and care in execution of written work, color-work, map-drawing, object work, and practice in reading aloud. These lessons should be thoroughly taught or explained before assignment to be done at home. They should not be too lengthy. One difficulty the teacher meets is that some parents object to home lessons, while others condemn teachers who do not exact them.

Mr. Plewes defended giving home study on the ground that children cannot accomplish the work expected of them in the term of school hours. Mr. Duncan, of Pottersburg, advised giving such kind of work to be done at home in which the pupils are most nterested in to minimize the trouble to parents. Miss McColl found that home work s done by pupils who have been absent, but who are anxious to keep up with the class. Miss A. Davidson advised suggesting experiments to be made at home, and supplementary reading. Miss McKellar wished to know what to do with pupils who are kept at work until dark and are then too sleepy to do school lessons. Mr. Parkinson referred to the diffi against the traffic, root and | culty and the necessity of seeing that work assigned to be done at home is done. It may be worse than useless to give home lessons and then overlook

Mr. Mawson advised using the spare time at home for investigation and reading good literature.

Duck Will Fly High

In fashion. We mean Duck Suits. They'll be more in demand than last season. We've got a great quantity of them, and our prices are right, too. There's no cooler or nobbier costume made than our Duck or Pique suits. We are showing only those qualities that you may rely upon. Sleeves that are sleeves —the very full kind — and seven gored skirts are not able changes from last year.

Shirt Waists.

Those with stand up and turn down collars, plain and pleated fronts, the kind usually sold for $1 25, our price is only 95c. We have also a job line of print waists at 37 ½c and 50c, which would be reasonable and good value at double the price.

Children's Dresses.

Ours come in fast color prints, chambray and lawn, with a great variety of embroidery. These dresses for the little ones are well made and beautifully trimmed, and cost very little more than you could possibly buy the material for. We have them for children of two years and for children of two years and

How important this injunction to every young man! How many ruin their health and future happiness through pernicious practices contracted in ignorance and repented of when too late. Parents, guardians and humanitarians can do no better service to the rising generation than to place in their hands the information and warnings contained in a little book carefully prepared by an association of medical gentlemen, who have had vast experience in dealing with the grave maladies here hinted at, and who feel that they owe it to humanity to warn the young of the land against certain destructive habits which are far more prevalent than any layman can possibly imagine, and which, if persisted in, gradually undermine the constitution and health and destroy the future happiness of the victim. Cut out this notice, and inclose it with 10 cents in stamps (to pay postage) to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main street, Buffalo

MORMON SOCIAL CONDITIONS. Advantage of Town Life Blended With the Charms of Rural Existence. Social changes of a marked character will be wrought by the occupation of the arid region. In this matter also Mormon experience is luminous. Brigham Young sought to found his poster-ity not only on industrial ethics, but also upon the happiness of the people. He would not tolerate idleness and the walls of cobblestones stil' standing in the older portions of Salt Lake City were invented that the church might pay for the labor of men who would otherwise have been temporarily supported by charity. As a means of furnishing entertainment, various diversions were planned, includ-ing the Saturday night dance, led by the bishops of the wards.

The leader's wisdom is almost as clearly exhibited in his social scheme as in his plan of industry. The central idea in it was the farm-village. A village site generally half a mile and a scheme as the scheme as t lage site, generally half a mile square, is selected in the midst of a tract of 5,000 or 6,000 acres to be colonized. In Utah there are many small valleys between the towering mountains, and the village site is generally located near the center of the valley, and near the river from which the water is diverted into canals on each side at a sufficient elevation to command the irrigable lands. The half a square mile is then laid out into blocks of four acres, with broad avenues between, and the blocks are divided into lots of an acre each. On these acre lots the farmers have their homes. Here also are their com-modious barns. Here they have their poultry and swine, while considerable space is devoted to a market garden. The farmer then has his farm on the outlying lands, which are divided into lots ranging from two acres up to twenty acres.

From the public park in the center to the farthest outlying farm is only two and a half miles. Most farmers traverse a much shorter distance to reach the farm from their homes. On the other hand, the women and children enjoy the important advantage of having near neighbors, while the church, school house, stores and post-office are near at hand. Under this system the advantages of town life are blended to a very considerable degree with the charms of rural existence. It is a system full of delightful possibili-The Mormons have realized its substantial advantages in neighbor-hood association; but their model will be much improved upon by many col-onies of more recent establishment. Farm life under the old conditions has involved isolation. The hunger for human sympathy and company has driven thousands from the country to cities already overcrowded. This factor is responsible for many a social tragedy, as well as for the problems which have arisen in congested city populations.

There is no reason why farm-villages patterned after those of Utah should not have a social life and an outward beauty quite as pleasing as, for instance, the suburbs of Boston. There the architecture seems almost nuiformly pleasing. Attractive lawns, with trees, vines and flowers, are everywhere. People of small means will be

Chicago, May 8.-The arrivals of cattle today were larger than on Monday, and there was a larger proportion of choice beeves, which fact led shippers and exporters to hold back for lower prices. Trade was slow, and prices were no more than steady as a rule. There was an active demand for hogs from local packers and eastern shippers. Prices were firm, and an advance of 5c was made. The low prices which have been prevailing are causing country people to hold back supplies. There was a good demand for sheep, and prices were 10c higher.

Chicago, May 8.—The market today opened firm, and after a half cent reaction on realizing sales the elevator people began to sell, and marketed a good deal of stuff. They appear to be short, or, rather, have sold against their stocks more freely than usual, and would like to see a decline to help them out. Trade conditions are turning rather bullish again, and for the present favor the outsiders, who are the chief longs. There is an increase in the demand from shippers, which may become very active. The weakness in the Northwestern markets, and especially Minneapolis, has been quite pronounced. It is said parties who had spreads in those market have been selling long stuff there and covering shorts elsewhere. The trade is not very broad at present, and the professional element is inclined to take the short side; but it is doubtful if prices can be pushed down much more unless some new factor is brought in.

Corn has been strong and active most of the session. Receipts are falling off and the shipping demand is surprising-

The Great Hyams Murder Trial Opens at Toronto.

The Judge Declines to Let New York Lawyers Plead

For the Defense - Brilliant Array of Counsel-The Charge.

Toronto, May 9.-The great Hyams trial opened this morning before Mr Justice Street, and there is intense excitement around the city regarding the proceedings. The charge is that on Jan. 16, 1894, Harry P. and Dallas T. Hyams, at that time engaged as commission merchants on Colborne street in this city, murdered Wm. C. Wells, to secure $34,000 of life insurance, held by him in the New York Sun and Cov-enant Mutual Insurance Companies.

Wells was found crushed beneath the elevator weight, and Dallas Hyams, who was the only other person in the office, announced that the weight had fallen on Wells accidentally and killed him. No charge of foul play was made at the time, and shortly afterwards Harry Hyams married Martha Wells, sister of the victim. It was when an attempt was made to put large insurance risks upon her life last fall without her knowledge that the matter was again taken up by the police, and the brothers arrested on a charge of mur-

In the court this morning the array of counsel was the most notable in recent years. For the crown, B. B. Osler, Q.C., Deputy Attorney-General Cartwright and County Crown Attorneys Dewart and Curry appeared. For the defense, W. C. Wellman and W. W. Gooch, of the New York bar; Wm. Lount, Q.C., E. F. B. Johnston, Q.C., W. C. Murdoch and T. W. Horn appeared.

Mr. Lount asked that his Lordshir give Messrs. Wellman and Gooch the privilege of pleading in the case. This privilege, he said, was always accorded to Canadian lawyers in the States in civil cases, although no application had yet been made, so far as he knew, in criminal cases. > EDITOR PATULLO ON TITLES. (From Woodstock Sentinel-Review.) Editors in Great Britain run serious risks. In this country it is only party leaders-often of the baser sort-who are given titles. But in the old land every editor seems to be in danger of knighthood. Lord Salisbury fifteen years ago began the system of dispensing titles for journalistic service, and it was followed up by his successors. It is said that the Liberals have worked the system to such an extent that it would now be very hard to find any Liberal publisher of importance who has not received a title of some sort. It is to be hoped that the system will not extend to this country. We can forgive editors who are out at the elbows, when they step from the high journalistic estate to accept crumbs from the party table in the form of office. But a Canadian editor who would work for a title is surely callous to all right Canadian feeling. Sometime since a Montreal editor was insulted by the offer of a Senatorship. What would he say to an old world baronetcy? Imagine Lord Hugh Graham, of Mount Royal, Sir John Cameron, C. W. Bunting, K.C.B., Alec. Piriewell, we simply can't imagine any more! These titles must not be thrust on us. Canadian editors don't want

A Lost Gem

believed in Kingscott, apparently, and in nobody else. Neither would he credit Hertie's statement that he knew nothing ("or very little"—a damaging qualification) about Molly's meetings with John Hannington. Matters became worse when Bertie, in passionate selfvindication, turned upon his uncle and silenced him angrily—all the more angaily because he was certain, from a look in Stella's face, that she trusted Bertie, and not Ralph Kingscott. And then Kingscott smilingly dropped a word or two which seemed innocent enough, but which brought the look of terrified submission back to Bertie's face at once. You had better be quiet for your own sake," Ralph Kingscott said. The words were unintelligible to Stella; they passed unnoticed by Mr. Moncrieff; but they contained a veiled threat that if the boy did not hold his tongue, he, Ralph, would tell his father the story of some money transactions which Bertie was particularly anxious that his father should not know. And so the lad succumbed before the stronger will, and resigned himself to a burden of blame which he did not deserve.

"There is one thing that I have kept to the last," said Moncrieff, when Bertie was silent. He spoke deliberately, but the tightening of the lines about his mouth told their own history of pain.

"Do any of you know this ring?"

He held up a little gold ring, with a red stone set in brilliants in the center.

"Molly's!" exclaimed Bertie. Then glanced at Kingscott, flushed deeply, and was dumb.

"Molly's, I believe. I found it in a locked drawer in my study," said his father, gravely. "I suppose it is easy to see that Molly must have been there. To you three, and to you only, will I tell what has occurred. Molly, it seems, would not leave the house without possessing herself of her mother's jewels. They would have been hers in due course. I hardly blame her for that. But this is not all. She has taken papers, representing property to a considerable amount; and-and money." His voice grew thick, and his head sank as he spoke. "She knew that she was safe-that she might keep her ill-gotten gains. But I-I would sooner have lain in my grave than been obliged to acknowledge that my daughter-my only daughter-was a thief."

CHAPTER XXVI.

Bertie sprang to his feet. "It's not true!" he exclaimed, in great agitation. "Molly had lost her ring; it was not Molly who left it there-He stopped short. Kingscott's eye was turned upon him. He stood, panting and trembling, unable, apparently, to utter another word. "Do you," said his father, slowly, "do you know anything of this rob-He raised his eyes and fixed them steadfastly on his son's face as he spoke.

"No!" cried the lad, almost angrily. "I know nothing of it-how should I w? All I say is, that if you condemn Molly on the ground that her ring was found in your drawer, you condemn her on very insufficient evidence. But you always think the worst of us-you always suspect us of wrong-ding!" "And have I never been justified in ay suspicions?" said the father. He did not speak sternly, but in slow, sad tones, as of one who had just lost all "I did not wish to be unjust," he said, laying the ring on the table, and leaning his head wearily on his hands; "but it seems that I have never understood my children." An odd little silence fell upon the group. Nobody could contradict him; nobody dared to comfort him. They all looked at him for a minute or two, as if he were a stranger for whom nothing could be done; and then Stella's heart went out to him in a rush of passionate love which she would have given worlds to express. She ventured to touch his shoulder with one tender little hand, but he took no notice of the mute caress. He rose up suddenly, indeed, as if he wished to shake it off, and Stella, turning rather pale, felt that he was resolved against consolation from her. He blamed her in part for his misfortunes; and oh, she said to herself, she had indeed been to blame. It was Bertie who broke the pause. He had become first red and then white as his father's words fell on his ear; but his eye did not flinch, and a look of strong determination had settled upon his face. He stood, grasping the back of a chair with his hand, as if he wanted support; but the appearance of extreme agitation had suddenly disappeared. He was now calm, but firm. Kingscott glared at him angrily from his pillows, but Bertle would not look at him. The spell was broken; the lad's

"You have been justified-you have never been unjust," he said, quickly. "Rather it is I who have never understood you: I have been afraid to trust you as I ought to have done. If you will try to believe me I know it will be hard-I will never hide anything from What have you hidden hitherto?" said Alan, catching at once with the suspiciousness that seemed to have become part of his nature at the hint of something concealed. His brow did not lighten as he looked at his son.

"Several things of which I am ashamed," said Bertie, straightening ashamed," said Bertie, straightening his shoulders and looking his father full in the face. "I have debts, sir, that I had no business to contract, in the town. I have gambled and lost money, and, what is worse, I—I was mad, I think—I altered a check that you gave me three months. me three months ago. I turned eight into eighty—it was easy to do—and I yielded to the temptation because I was so distressed for money at the time.

He ceased, looking very white, but retaining the determined expres-sion which, as Stella had often noticed, gave him so strong a likeness to his father. Kingscott's face was livid, but for the moment nobody noticed him. It was the effect of this confession upon Alan Moncrieff which absorbed the attention of his wife and son, who knew so well the exceeding bitterness of the cup of humiliation that he was being made to drink.

He reeled as if struck a heavy blow. His face, which had been pale before, was now of an ashen-grey. "It can't be true! It can't be true!" he murmured to himself.

Bertie answered by telling his own story; but it was easy to see that Moncrieff did not in the least believe it. He believed in Kingscott, apparently, and you want to kill your father outright by your ill-timed confession?"

"Better that Bertie should speak the truth once and for all. Mr. Kingscott," said Stella, firmly. "His father will be less hurt in the end by a frank acknowledgment of wrong-doing than by con-concealment." The look that passed accused him of treachery. Mr. Moncrieff between Ralph's eyes and hers was like a declaration of war. "Speak out, dear Bertie, and let us hear the whole truth. Your father can bear it-can you not, Alan? And you will forgive him by and bye."

"I must bear it, I suppose," said Alan, with a grim, set look like a rock, "alugh it is hard to know that both my children-both-" He could not finish his sentence.

"Not Molly," said Bertie, quickly. "I am sure you may trust Molly—she is not like me."

The genuine shame and contrition in his manner moved Stella to pity, but did not seem to affect his father in the least. "Speak for yourself," he said, coldly, "leave Molly's name alone. You altered the figures in a check, you say; you got the money; how was it that I did not know? I surely must have noticed the discrepancy between the sum in the check and the counterfoil-" He stopped short; some notion of his own carelessness in these matters crossed his mind. He turned abruptly to the bed where Kingcott lay.

"Ralph," he said almost appealingly, "explain this. It must have gone through your hands. You must know." The beads of perspiration were standing on Kingscott's brow. He was furious, and yet he was afraid. Know? He had known all along. It was he, indeed, who had first suggested the alteration in the check, and had helped Bertie to carry out his fraud successfully. Hitherto he had procured Bertie's cooperation in many projects, by threatening to reveal the true history of the unlucy check. Now Bertie had thrown him over; well, he could play the same game, and, as he thought to himself, he should probably play it very much better than Bertie had ever done.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Extensively Used in Collingwood and District

Collingwood, May 9.—There are fewer sufferers from severe rheumatism in Collingwood this year than ever be-fore, and the fact has been much commented on. Several theories have been broached to account for this, but the one most generally accepted is the general use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, which obtained a great celebrity in this section of the country when Mr. Valentine Fisher, of this town, made such a remarkable discovery through their use. The particulars of the case became widely known, with the result that the remedy came into general use, and produced the most beneficial results.

THE TARIFF WALL.

Victoria, B. C., May 8.—A petition was telegraphed to the Government at Ottawa today by representative canning firms having their headquarters in Victoria, asking that the Canadian tariff be amended to enable salmon and other fish of similar character to be imported free into the Dominion. The petition is the outcome of the recent decision of the board of general appraisers of New York, to the effect that these fish are fresh water fish, and as such are entitled to free entry into the United States. The immediate local effect of this order is that while American canners of Point Roberts, Blaine and neighboring towns of Washington can now get salmon from British Columbia free of duty, canners under the Canadian laws must pay half a cent per pound duty, equal to 4 or 5 cents on each almon for any fish they get from the United Eminent Inventor of the Williams Typewriter Owes Strength and Health to Paine's Celery Compound.

The old-time visionary inventor has given place to the practical, hardworking professional inventor of today. The successful inventor must now be a business man as well as a man of mechanical ideas.

The high tension of the nervous system, often kept up for months and months, makes tremendous drafts on the health of those busy brain workers. when they seem just on the point of surmounting every difficulty.
Of all the countless useful recent inventions none has passed through so many or so rapid a course of improvements as the typewriter. Today, the latest perfected machine is undoubtedly the Williams Typewriter, which represents a vast amount of cumulative

Many of the best commercial houses and large corporations in Canada are now using the Williams Typewriter. This perfected machine has also been adopted by some departments of the British and Canadian Governments.

John Newton Williams, its invewas born in 1845, in Brooklyn, New York. He spent his early manhood on the western frontier. Subsequently he settled in Kentucky, where he became known as one of the most successful stock breeders in the State.

But it is as an inventor that he has won his national reputation. Several most useful and important inventions were made by him before he produced the Williams typewriter, a machine Many succumb to nervous prostration that probably excels all others in the most important features.

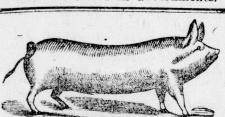

Mr. Williams, speaking of the labor expended in bringing the machine that bears his name to its present perfection, says:

"Some four years ago, when engaged in experimental work on the 'Williams,' I was putting in about sixteen hours per day of hard work and worry, and came near breaking down. Although very particular and regular in my habits and careful about eating, my stomach troubled me. It was difficult to eat, and more difficult to digest and assimilate my food, my stomach acting brain. A friend had sent some Paine's Celery Compound to one of my business associates, and knowing him personally and seeing what it did for him, I thought I would try it. I commenced taking it before meals, and it at once stimulated my appetite and aided digestion. I took two bottles and was much benefited.

Again, two years later, I was troubled with nervousness and indigestion, and again took Paine's Celery Compound with great benefit. My wife, after her long illness last summer, and severe nervous prostration, and some trouble from indigestion, concluded to try Paines' Celery Compound a few weeks ago, and she is now taking it with steady improvement. Several of my friends have taken it on my recommendation, and are now practical believers in its great restorative powers. I have found the Celery Compound a tonic and restorative that I could lean upon with confidence in time of trouble."

Paine's Celery Compound makes people well! As a spring remedy it is in sympathy with an over-worked unsurpassed.

ABOUT THE SCOTTISH NATION. Macaulay once wrote as follows regarding the people of Scotland: "A people whose education and habits are such that in every quarter of the globe they rise above the mass of those with whom they mix, as surely as oil rises to the top of water; a people of such temper and self-government, that the wildest popular excesses recorded in their history partake of the gravity of judicial proceedings, and of the solemnity of religious rites; a people whose natural pride and mutual attachment have passed into a proverb; a people whose high and fierce spirit (so forcibly described in the haughty motto which encircles their thistle) preserved their independence during a struggle of centuries from the encroachments of wealthier and more powerful neighbors -such a people cannot be long oppressed. Any government, however constituted, must respect their wishes and tremble at their discontents."

-The annual meeting of the Hill Street Methodist Sabbath school was held on Monday evening. Rev. E. B. Lanceley was in the chair. Reports from the officers were presented, showing a remarkably satisfactory increase in attendance over the previous year. The following officers were re-elected for the ensuing year: Superintendent, J. H. Dickson; assistant superintendent, A. E. Passmore; treasurer, W. H. Wortman; secretary, Harry W. -The second course of lectures, preparatory to the entertainment in aid of the News Boys' Hall, on May 24, by the Boys' Brigade, was delivered last night by Dr. Wishart. To say that the boys appreciated and enjoyed for one hour the doctor's instructions, is per-haps the best way to describe the doctor's happy and successful method of communicating information so necessary to the ameliorating of pain and the saving of life at critical moments when medical aid is not at hand. Hundreds of men and women can learn in an evening how to act in an emergency in a way that they could not otherwise now, if so situated. Moreover, the ofject is a good one. With the winter months has passed away the more pressing necessity for the needs which the hall most assuredly supplied. During the winter expenses have been incurred which must be met, a statement which need only be made to receive a sympathetic response.

HARD AT WORK. The members of No. 1 committee, who are dealing with the electric street railway agreement, met the representatives of the railway company in the City Hall at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and spent three hours discussing the franchise. That precious document was scanned line by line, phrase by phrase and sentence by sentence Even an overturned letter was regarded with suspicion. A phrase was erased here, a word added there, and an expression modified a little further on. Mr. Ivey, the company's solicitor, was a little chary about accepting amendments to the clauses upon which there is a difference of opinion, and asked for a little time to think over their meaning. The utmost harmony prevailed. During the meeting Mayor Little informed the railway people that the city had decided to call in Engineer Keating of Toronto, as an expert on behalf of the city on all the questions in the franchise involving questions of engineering. "We will have to get an engineer at once, then," said Manager Carr. One of the committee kindly offered to loan the company the city engineer, but the manager evidently thinking that Mr. Graydon's sympathies would be with the city, declined with a smile and some thanks. Another meeting will be held this week.
