DESPERADO SHOTS POLICE IN A PISTOL FIGHT AT COVES

Officers Harry Green and Walter Smith Wounded
While Making an Arrest—Bullet in Green's Neck.

T. E. FLEXEN, OF BRICK ST., LODGED BEHIND BARS

In a revolver fight with Thos. E. Flexen, of Brick street, yesterday afternoon, Officers Harry Green and Walter Smith were slightly wounded. Flexen escaped unhurt, and is now behind the bars.

Green's injury is a bullet wound under the right ear, while Smith's right arm shows where a bullet skimmed it. The officers had a narrow escape from death, and it seems little short of a miracle that both were not killed and that the charge which is now entered opposite Flexen's name on the blotter does not read "murder" instead of "shooting with intent to kill."

The story of the shooting is one of tragic interest, and illustrates the great dangers to which the police are exposed, as well as the faithfulness to duty of Officers Green and Smith. In the very teeth of death, and suffering from wounds, they followed their man until they brought him to bay and bore him back to London a prisoner.

Drunk or Crazy.
It was exactly 4:10 yesterday afternoon when a telephone message reached the police station that a man was acting in a wild West manner in South London, brandishing and discharging revolvers, singing, shouting and swearing.

"He's either drunk or crazy," said the sender of the message.
The police asked no further questions, but started for South London. Officer Smith drove the patrol wagon and Officer Green rode in the rear.

In accordance with directions received, they drove along the Pipe Line, Flexen having taken to the railroad tracks, going westward. After a time the officers came up with him just west of the Coves.

The first sight they got of their man convinced them that the person who sent the 'phone message had not exaggerated anything. Flexen was seen discharging a brace of revolvers right and left. The revolvers were big ones and the reports they made sounded like the discharge of guns.

Beginning of the Fight.
The officers drove the patrol horses to the fence at the side of the road, where Officer Smith tied them. Then Officer Green, who was considerably in the lead, hailed this man, but Officer Smith warned Green that the fellow was acting in a very bad manner, and to be careful.

Make him throw up his hands before you go near him, Harry," he said.
By this time both officers had reached the railroad tracks, and Green shouted for Smith to stop. The man, who was acting like a lunatic, and he took no notice of the order of the officer. He continued to shoot right and left, and Green, followed by Smith, started after him on the run. Flexen allowed the officers to approach within a few yards of him when he began to run. He was no match for Officer Green in a footrace, however, and the policeman soon overtook the desperado.

Shooting to Kill.
This was when the first shooting took place. Just as Green reached for him, Flexen turned. He leveled the revolver at the officer's face and fired. Green, realizing that the scoundrel intended to kill him, threw his head back and the bullet struck him just under the ear. He fell like a log, and Smith, a few yards in the rear, thought his mate was dead.

With a pluck that is admirable, he made straight for Flexen, snatching the trigger of his revolver as he ran. But to his chagrin the cartridges would not discharge.

Flexen was having all the better of the fight, for one of his bullets struck Smith on the right arm, just above the elbow, tearing out a piece of flesh as big as a 25-cent piece back of the muscle.
By this time Officer Green struggled to his feet, and he began firing at Flexen, who, with deliberation, answered every shot. As Smith passed Green, the latter handed the former his revolver, and Smith resumed the chase.

Thought It a Holdup.
Flexen at this juncture left the railway tracks and took to his heels along the line of the street railway.
As he struck the line, a Springfield car was in sight, just east of the curve at Woodland Cemetery. As he neared the car the passengers saw him running with a smoking revolver in each hand, and they at once jumped to the conclusion that he intended to hold up the car and rob them. In an instant panic reigned among the four women and two or three men.

The car was in charge of Conductor made out by the victim was identified by a woman who came here from Denver for that purpose. This woman claims that the dead woman lived with him, and was heir to a fortune of several thousand dollars. She disappeared mysteriously some time ago. The blouse worn by the victim was identified by the Denver woman as one the murdered woman had made at her house.

Flexen in the Police Court—One Charge Against Him—More to Come.

Thomas E. Flexen, the man who nearly ended the careers of Police Constables Green and Walter Smith, has given the detectives quite a little difficulty in the matter of looking up his history.

Flexen, when he was placed in the prisoners' cage at the police court this morning looked decidedly boyish, and he appeared to be completely worn out with the strain of events of the past day and night.

As the officers led him in he shuddered, as though he really realized that liberty for him is gone for some years at least. In the cage, he had ample time to think over his crimes, for two hours cases occupied the attention of the court for over two hours. All the while he shifted uneasily from side to side of the bench, he being the only occupant of the cage. At times he would study the magistrate, policemen and officers intently, and then his gaze would turn to the crowd of curious people who flocked to the court room to see what manner of man it was that had attempted to kill two policemen.

Flexen appears to be about 23 years of age. He stands about 5 feet, 7 inches and weighs about 150 pounds. He is sturdily built. He is of swarthy complexion, with somewhat flattened face, high cheek bones and deep set brown eyes. He is said by his father to be an Englishman and his mother a half-breed, being a mixture of Indian and French. At times the Indian cast of features is most conspicuous. Flexen, though there is nothing intelligent in his face, he has plenty of determination, as evidenced by his heavy set chin. He has dark brown hair, parted in the middle. His hands are large and muscular and show the effects of hard work.

But when left to himself, Flexen appeared to thoroughly realize his position, and when he threw himself back in the cage and gazed at the ceiling, (Continued on page 8.)

LADY DIXIE DEAD

Explorer, Writer and War Correspondent During Boer War.

London, Nov. 7.—Lady Florence Dixie, the well-known writer, explorer and champion of woman's rights, who acted as war correspondent for a London paper during the Boer war, died today at her home, Glen Stuart, Annan, Dumfriesshire, Scotland.

SOLD LIQUOR TO GIRLS

Bartender De Mille Fined $25 and Costs at Police Court.

Wm. DeMille, a bartender at the Berard House, Talbot and Carling streets, was fined $25 and costs this morning by Police Magistrate Love.

The charge was one that has very seldom been lodged in the local police court—that of selling liquor to girls under 21 years of age.

DeMille acknowledged the offense, paid the fine, and received a reprimand from the magistrate, who said that bartenders and hotel proprietors should not degrade their business by doing as DeMille had done.

John Cooper, a drunk, was fined $5.

Two Indians Dead After an Alleged Debauch at St. Thomas.

Komoka, Nov. 7.—Jobe Antone and Nicholas Antone, of Delaware, died suddenly—Jobe, on Sunday at 3:40 p.m.; Nicholas, on Monday at 11 a.m. The Indians had been at St. Thomas, and while there had purchased liquor, which they drank and it is supposed to have been the cause of death.

Coroner P. H. Midehell summoned a jury and an inquest will be held today.

Yankee Poachers Plot Raid Into Our Waters

(Special to the Advertiser.)
Toronto, Nov. 7.—According to information received at the Parliament buildings by S. T. Bastedo, deputy commissioner of fisheries, a raid is to be made on Canadian waters in Lake Erie about Nov. 15 by American fishermen. The plan is to get clearances from Ohio and New York ports to the port of Erie City, Pa., and after leaving the original port to first raid Canadian waters, get what fish they can, make their port, and claim they got the fish from the state from which they got their clearances papers. The American authorities have been communicated with, and Captain Dunn of the Vigilant has been notified.

STILL HARD ON ROCKS

Engines of the Steamship Bavarian Are Completely Deranged.

Montreal, Nov. 7.—Today's information from the stranded Allan Line Bavarian is to the effect that she is still firm on the rocks. The boilers are moved fully four feet. The engines are completely deranged, and the funnel raised five or six feet out of position.
The lighting of the ship's cargo only commenced yesterday morning, for in consequence of the disaster to her boilers she could not get up any steam, and it was necessary to get boilers aboard for the purpose of raising steam for her engines. There are now eleven lighters at the stranded vessel. It is said that the pilot was just about anchoring when the accident occurred.

Sarnia, Nov. 7.—The opening meeting of Mr. Pardee's campaign will be held on Nov. 13 at the Victoria Opera House, when Mr. Robinette, of Toronto, and Mr. W. S. Calvert, M.P., will speak. The campaign has been exceptionally quiet, but a big meeting is promised. Mr. R. E. Lesner, the Conservative candidate, will hold his highest and lowest readings of the thermometer at the local observatory for the 24 hours ended at 8 p.m. Monday were: Highest, 47°; lowest, 35.5°.

DEATH OF B. A. GEMMILL

Prominent Ottawa Barrister Passes Away in His 58th Year.

[Special to the Advertiser.]
Ottawa, Nov. 7.—B. A. Gemmill, of the firm of Gemmill & May, barristers, died this morning. Mr. Gemmill was ailing for a week or so with a severe cold. This morning a clot of blood formed on the brain, and he never afterwards regained consciousness. Deceased was 58 years of age. He was a native of Lanark County, and has been practicing law since 1870. For several years he edited the Parliamentary Companion, and was an authority on divorce law. He was an enthusiastic Scotchman, and was president of St. Andrew's Society. He was married to a daughter of the late Senator Ogilvie, Montreal. His connection with the British Columbia Southern Railway and the Crown's Nest coal fields brought him a small fortune. He leaves a widow and family.

A CRISIS TODAY IN THE STATES

Honesty and Graft Battling at the Polls.

A HUGE VOTE BEING POLLED

Republican Machine in Philadelphia Doomed—New York's Great Three Cornered Fight.

New York, Nov. 7.—Election day in this city dawned clear and crisp with every indication of an enormous vote being polled, the greater part of it in the early hours. The polls opened at 6 o'clock, and in nearly every precinct hundreds of voters were already in line. There was practically no cessation between the formal closing of the canvass and the opening of the voting booths. Many night-before meetings extended into the small hours of the morning, and the final shout had scarcely died away when the city awoke to the rumble of carriage wheels as party workers were borne here and there, arousing and marshaling in line the more enthusiastic voters.

The morning papers were filled with minute directions as to voting split tickets and the advice was timely, as the prospect was that an unusually large number of ballots would be unintentionally invalidated by the voters. The Republicans, members of the Municipal Ownership League and supporters of District Attorney Jerome, independent candidates, have all directed their efforts against Tammany, but without losing sight of individual interests until a wholesale scratching of ballots become inevitable.

Plot to Knife Jerome.

The exposure by Mr. Jerome last night of an alleged plot by which 60,000 circulars were to have been distributed among voters, ostensibly illustrating how to vote for Jerome on a split ticket, but which directions, if followed, would invalidate the ticket, served to increase the fear this morning that in the confusion of tickets and candidates many votes would be thrown out as illegal.

A Unique Situation.

Today's situation is unique in the history of the city. The Democratic ticket, when opposed by two straight and strong party tickets. Heretofore, the voters have been able to vote for a straight Democratic ticket, or for a straight Republican ticket, or for a straight Independent ticket, but today the voters are faced with a unique situation.

George B. McClellan (Democrat), for mayor, 2 to 1 in his favor.
William R. Hearst (M. O. L.), for mayor, 2 to 1 against.
Wm. Ivis (Republican), for mayor, 5 to 1 against.

A development of interest this morning was the publication of a significant statement by Arthur Brisbane, one of Mr. Hearst's editorial writers, who declared that his employer was looking for greater things than the mayoralty of New York. Mr. Brisbane said: "Mr. Hearst is built for greater things even than the mayoralty of this city, and he is going to get them. This country is hard-up for rich, intelligent and powerful men."

Heavy Vote at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—Bright, crisp weather, and a clear sky in this city, and the first hour indicated that the vote will be fully as heavy as that of any presidential election. The polls were opened lines of voters, numbering in some cases more than one hundred, stood waiting to cast their ballots. Never has such intense interest been displayed in a municipal election here, and the managers of the City Party, the reform body organized to defeat the Republican machine, express the opinion that the heavy vote indicates a victory for the reform movement. Much pressure was brought to bear on the stay-at-homes by the reformers, and it is claimed that a large majority of these were induced to vote.

Mayor Weaver distributed his extra force of nearly a thousand special policemen, sworn in yesterday. In the wards where disorder was anticipated, and in one ward, the fifth, 27 alleged repeaters were arrested during the first hour. In the suburban precincts the vote is said to be the heaviest on record.

FIENDISH DEED OF TRAMPS

Committ Terrible and Inhuman Crime Upon a Young Lad.

St. Thomas, Nov. 7.—M. C. R. Detective Heenan yesterday received word from Agent Miller, of Springfield, that three tramps had been put off a train some time during Saturday night and Sunday morning, and that on Sunday afternoon they got hold of a lad named Beek and committed a most inhuman and unprovoked offense on him. When last seen the tramps were about one mile east of Springfield. One is described as being 35 years of age, stout, has sandy hair, and is roughly dressed. The other two are young men, with pale complexions.

Rioting in Quaker City.
When the polls opened at 7 o'clock, disorder began in several wards. In the eighth ward 50 men were sent in at one precinct resulted in a disturbance which the police were unable to subdue, and a riot call was sent in. Every person at the polls, including election officers, were arrested, but all were discharged by the magistrate.

NEW RUSSIA GETTING UNDER WAY; WITTE GATHERS HIS CABINET

A Sweeping Extension of the Suffrage for National Assembly Election.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 7.—The project for a sweeping extension of the suffrage in elections to the National Assembly, promised by the Emperor, is published. Count Witte's new government appears to be getting fairly under way.

The cabinet with which he will undertake the difficult task of guiding the nation on its new course of constitutionalism and preventing the radical and agitatory elements from driving it on the rocks of revolution is now beginning to take form. The names of the two Shipovs, one of them, Ivan, having been Count Witte's former assistant in the ministry of finance, and his associate at Portsmouth, N. H., and the other, Dimitri, the Moscow zemstvois, who was president of the first zemstvo congress, have been semi-officially announced as his selections respectively for minister of finance and comptroller-general.

M. Nemechaieff, president of the Southeastern Railroad, who, as the Associated Press is informed, is recommended by the railroad men to succeed Prince Milko, is now on his way to St. Petersburg to consider the tender of the portfolio of ways and communications. With the nomination of Prince Alexis Obotensky as procurator-general of the Holy Synod already gazetted, this provides four of the eight ministerial posts at the disposal of the Premier. For the portfolios of education and of justice, Count Witte has been disappointed in not obtaining the men he originally desired, but he has other possible cabinet timber in view for these posts.

The former ministers, except four who are not subject to the jurisdiction of the Premier are slated for dismissal. The new measure grants representation to the workmen on the same basis as peasants, one representative for each 25,000, and extends the suffrage to the great class of "intellectuals" possessing college degrees, who have been the heart and soul of the reform movement. Voters will also, under the new regulations, include tenants paying an annual rent of $240, petty traders except the lowest class, holders of high school diplomas, and officials of St. Petersburg and Moscow with salaries of no less than $600.

The news from the provinces indicates the dying down of the reign of riot and license following the promulgation of the imperial manifesto. Normal conditions are gradually returning. The most interesting developments are in Poland, where a Polish national movement has blossomed forth under favorable conditions. The greatest manifestation has occurred in Warsaw, where the town is decorated with Polish flags, whose display heretofore has been treated as a crime. A giant demonstration, including 250,000 persons, was organized, paraded the streets last night and listened to speeches delivered by Henry Sienkiewicz, the author, and other prominent Poles. The demonstration passed off without interference or disorder, though in the Jewish quarter seven persons suspected of being provocateurs, agents of the police service, were killed by the enraged populace after the nationalist parade.

BABY THROWN FROM MOVING TRAIN

A Dastardly Crime Unearthed by M. C. R. Sectionman Near Kingsmill.

Kingsmill, Ont., Nov. 6.—As Mr. F. Gable, of this place, sectionman of the M. C. R., was walking down the track about one mile east of Kingsmill station, he discovered the remains of a dead baby boy, dressed in its night clothes, lying in the ditch by the side of the track.

It would appear the baby had been thrown from some express train during the night of Nov. 5.

Dr. Smith, coroner, of Aylmer, was promptly notified, and after examining the body, declared that the baby was alive and in a healthy condition when thrown from the train.

The infant's clothes consisted of a little undershirt and napkin, also a night-robe made of shaker flannel, and a pair of black stockings.

MR. HYMAN LENDS A HAND

Will Assist in York, Wentworth and West Lambton Bye-Elections.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 7.—Hon. Charles S. Hyman left last night to take a hand in the bye-elections in Ontario. He goes first to North York, and from there to Wentworth, afterwards proceeding to West Lambton. The Minister of Public Works will make Sarnia his headquarters while in the latter constituency.

Cleveland's Big Vote.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 7.—Intense interest marked today's election in this city. A very large proportion of the entire vote was cast during the early morning hours. At many of the booths it was said that practically every ballot deposited had been scratched. The weather is cloudy and cool.

Norway's New King.

Christiania, Nov. 7.—The future King and Queen of Norway (Prince and Princess Charles) are expected to arrive in Christiania Nov. 25 or 26. The prince will take the oath before the Storting immediately after his arrival.

MURDERER CORNERED BY POLICE KILLS COMPANION AND SELF

Dramatic End to Career of Man Badly Wanted by Police.

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—Cornered in his rooms by the police and fully aware that his last avenue of escape had been barred, Milton Franklin Andrews, who it is said murdered Essie Bouton on Custer Mountain, near Colorado Springs, ten months ago, and who murderously assaulted and robbed Wm. Ellis, an Australian horseman, at Berkeley, Cal., last night, shot and killed Nalda Olivia, his former companion, and then fired a bullet into his own head, causing instant death. Andrews, for whom the police of the entire country were searching, was fully prepared for the tragedy that closed his career.

Having learned that Andrews and Nalda Olivia were living in an upper flat in McAllister street, the police department sent a detail of two policemen and two detectives to make the arrest. Although certain that the persons wanted were in the two rooms apartment, the officers received no answer to their repeated knocking on the door. At the moment one of the officers was dispatched for an axe with which the door was broken open, Andrews fired the shot that ended the career of his companion. The bullet was fired into her right temple and she dropped dead on the bed, falling backwards with her hands clasped.

When the officers gained entrance to the apartments they found Andrews lying on the floor, grasping a revolver in one hand and a mirror in the other. The revolver was of large caliber, and but two of the cartridges had been fired. Extra ammunition was found in his pockets.

On searching Andrews' body the coroner's deputies found $30 in gold and an English sovereign, all the money that remained of the $500 of which Ellis was robbed at the time he was lured by Andrews to a cottage in Berkeley. Considerable jewelry was also found on Andrews. A railing typewriter statement, written presumably by Andrews, who denied that he had anything to do with the murder of Essie Bouton, was found in one of the woman's stockings. Andrews and his companion had been living at the McAllister street house for three weeks. The landlord said that he had believed that only the woman occupied the apartments, as he had not seen the man.

LONDON'S STARVING IDENTIFIED BY WARN BALFOUR

Deputation of Women Tell Him Hunger May Bring on Bloody Riots.

London, Nov. 6.—The desperate condition of the poor of London was brought to the notice of Premier Balfour today by a remarkable deputation of the wives and other women relatives of the unemployed who did not hesitate to tell the Premier that unless something is speedily done to lessen their sufferings there will be bloodshed.

"Don't forget that hungry men are desperate men," said one of the speakers. All had the same tale to tell of husbands out of work and starving wives and children.

Enormous crowds of women from all parts of London marched through the streets headed by the wife of Mr. Balfour, who received at the office of the local government board.

Only thirty of the women were admitted to the presence of Mr. Balfour. The Premier was very sympathetic. He acknowledged that the evil was very real but he had little to suggest in the way of alleviation except an expression of hope that public charity would come to the aid of the unemployed. They had his genuine sympathy and he felt most acutely the magnitude of the evil from which they were suffering.

A mass meeting of the women was held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. To hear the report of the delegation, Mr. Crooks, M.P., and others made speeches. Mr. Crooks said that Mr. Balfour's reply to the delegation was unworthy of the Premier of a great country. He added that he had started an agitation which would not cease until every man who wanted work was supplied with sufficient to support his wife and children. The speaker urged his hearers to continue the agitation. He said that a revolution in England would not be behind the revolution in Russia in securing the demands of the people. A resolution was unanimously adopted to continue the fight for the employment of the unemployed. The meeting broke up amid uproarious scenes and the singing of the "Marseillaise."

Trepoff for Finland.

London, Tuesday, Nov. 7.—A dispatch to the Times from St. Petersburg says that Gen. Trepoff is mentioned as the successor of Prince Ivan Obolensky as governor-general of Finland.

Victim of the Barton Murder Mysteriously Disappeared From Colorado City.

Hamilton, Nov. 7.—It was stated today that the victim of the Barton murder was identified by a woman who came here from Denver for that purpose. This woman claims that the dead woman lived with him, and was heir to a fortune of several thousand dollars. She disappeared mysteriously some time ago. The blouse worn by the victim was identified by the Denver woman as one the murdered woman had made at her house.

Although the Buffalo clue did not work out as the police expected, they say the mystery will be cleared up before long.

FOUR KILLED IN CRASH
Fatal Collision on the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg Road.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 7.—A passenger train on the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg Railroad, bound for Watertown, leaving this city at 5:45 this morning, collided head-on with a freight engine, drawing two cars, near Liverpool, six miles from here. Four men were killed and one seriously hurt. One of the dead men is still under the burning wreckage.

Milton F. Toms, of Lyndonville, mail clerk is one of the men killed. The other dead are members of the engine crew, whose names were not known at 5:30 a.m. No passengers were hurt.

Y. M. C. A. FOUNDER DEAD

Sir George William Passes Away in His 84th Year.

London, Nov. 7.—Sir George William, founder of the Young Men's Christian Association, and president of its London headquarters for twenty years, died yesterday. He was born in 1821. Sir George was knighted by Queen Victoria in 1894 for his service in behalf of the association.

Council Did Not Tackle The Waterworks Bylaw

Will Deal With It at Next Meeting—Ald. Cooper Tries
Ald. Forristal's Patience.

The city council, at its regular meeting last evening, did not tackle the bylaw to issue a quarter of a million dollars of debentures for the extension of the waterworks system.

In the first place, the bylaw had not been prepared, and in the second place, Chairman Forristal, at the council's invitation, was not present to answer the fusillade of questions that it was expected the aldermen would fire at him.

The bylaw will come before the council at its next meeting—on Nov. 20—and it will then receive consideration.

As is invariably the rule at the council's sessions, Ald. Cooper did not begin talking last evening until after the other members combined. He never lost an opportunity to make himself heard. Particularly was this the case when the reports of Nos. 1 and 2 committees were being considered. The report of Auditor Jewell was brought up by Ald. Stevens, chairman of the committee, and it was sent to committee for consideration.

Before this was done, however, Mr. Jewell for occasion to criticize the report of the committee on the subject of the city's water supply.

Then he voiced a protest against what he considered to be a change of the date of motion to move to shelve the subject of the water supply, which the council had previously decided to consider.

The next opportunity for Ald. Cooper to talk was provided when Ald. Forristal read the clause in the board of works report recommending payment of $1,000 to Mr. W. J. Reid for a strip of Tremont Park, and also to repair the fence along the breakwater at the base of the ball grounds.

Mayor Campbell carefully explained the position of the city in the matter, showing that the proposed work was way out of the difficulty, yet Ald. Cooper kicked, as it would be tying the council of 1906 down to the expenditure of $1,000, which it might not otherwise see fit to make.

Ald. Cooper's objection tried the patience of Ald. Forristal, chairman of the board of works, who was finally compelled to remark that he had come to the conclusion that, if Ald. Cooper could not understand the mayor's explanation, he could not see through a plan of six-foot fence. "Let it go to next year's council," said Ald. Forristal. "You will no doubt be here then, and you will be able to hear your own eloquence once more."

The committee's recommendation went through. There was a heavier grist of communications than usual.

City Engineer Graydon wrote, drawing attention to the fact that his present stenographer wished to be relieved from duty, as she had only come to the office for a short time as a favor to the department. He had two or three applications for the position, but as the salary demanded was $6 a week, with an advance to $7 at the end of six months, if satisfactory, and as he did not have authority to engage any person at that salary, he asked for power to make an appointment. The matter was referred to the board of works.

A petition against a sewer on Lyle street, from Kinross to York streets, was referred to No. 2.

Stephen Grant and others petitioned for a cement curb and gutter on both sides of Mill street, from Richmond to Talbot streets. No. 2, with power.

The board of works will also deal with the petition for a walk on the west side of Talbot street, from Dundas to King; a claim for damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained by Mrs. Kew, and W. H. Bartram's chase of land from Wm. Scarrow for breakwater purposes is not set aside. Mrs. Ethel Parker's application for relief of the city of London, Ontario, for the Central Prison, for nineteen months for assessing Mrs. Sigsworth, and she is not only in destitute circumstances but is friendless as well, and is dependent upon her.

Dr. English, chairman of the board of health, recommended the council order the payment to Dr. Hutchinson of the salary of the militia detachment for the treatment of Private Wonsch, who contracted smallpox during the camp, No. 1.

RECEIVED MEDALS FOR BRAVE DEEDS

Pleasing Little Ceremony Performed at the Meeting of the Council.

A very pleasing little ceremony took place at the opening of the city council last evening. It was the presentation of the Royal Humane Society's medal for bravery to Mr. Thomas Trevelyan and Master Eddie Evans.

Mr. Trevelyan, it will be remembered, was in bathing at Fort Stanley on July 11, when George L. Sterling, of Chicago, another bather, was seized by cramps and was going down for the last time when Mr. Trevelyan went to his rescue and brought him safely to land.

Eddie Evans, the one-armed lad who plunged in the river at Clarke's Bridge and rescued Charlie Johnston, six years old, from drowning.

Mr. Trevelyan and the lad were presented by Inspector Sanders to the objects of the Royal Humane Society, which was organized one hundred and thirty years ago.

"It is an act of bravery for a full-grown man to save the life of another person," said Mayor Campbell, as Eddie Evans came forward, how much braver is it for a boy laboring under such a physical disability as the loss of an arm, to save the life of another."

The medal was pinned on Eddie's breast, and the brave little fellow acknowledged the honor done him.

Mr. Trevelyan had his medal pinned on and acknowledged the honor done him. The society's recognition of his deed, he said, was a great encouragement to him when he brought the medal to land. Mr. Trevelyan drew attention to the lack of swimming facilities in London, and the need for a swimming bath in the center of the city.

He said, "and in twenty years' time you will have bigger men than you."

On the deputation present from the local branch of the Humane Society, D. S. Hamilton, both of whom complimented the recipients of the medals on their bravery. Mr. Hamilton was in position to speak particularly of Mr. Stanley on July 11 and witnessed the rescue of Sterling.

Princess von Metternich to Marry Prince Max von
Thurn and Taxis.

Vienna, Nov. 7.—The betrothal of Princess Pauline von Metternich to Prince Max von Thurn and Taxis has excited unusual interest in this young lady was, by the Emperor's order, forbidden to appear at any court functions.

The Holburg parties are open to all who are entitled by rank to attend. Such a prohibition, therefore, launched at a member of one of the first princely houses of the empire occasioned a great sensation.

It became known that the Emperor acted at the instigation of the Duke of Orleans, herself an Austrian duchess, because her husband had fallen desperately in love with Princess Pauline.

The Duchess appealed to the Emperor, as he confessed his desire to marry Princess Pauline, but the Emperor, sick of all the scandals, which roused the pride of the duchess, obtained from her husband to continue Princess Pauline.

The Duke was not easily persuaded, but his friends in France told him they would renounce their allegiance if he separated from the duchess and contracted an un-Catholic marriage with Princess Pauline. This argument convinced him and the matter ended there.

Prince Max is first cousin of Prince Albert of Thurn and Taxis, whose wife is a sister of the Duchess of Orleans, and Vienna society is interested to see if the Emperor will renounce the court ban from her.

U. S. WON'T INTERFERE

Cannot Do Anything at Present for the Jews in Russia.

Washington, Nov. 6.—President Roosevelt has decided that no action can be taken by the United States Government at present which will be of any benefit to the Jews of Russia.

This information was made public at the White House today in the following statement: "Oscar Straus called upon the President today to consult with him as to whether there was any possibility of action which would result in a cessation of the horrors connected with the President of the Jews in Russia. The President stated that, of course, he had been watching with the deepest concern the reports of these massacres, but he had been appealed to within the last few weeks to try to take some action, not only in behalf of the Jews in Russia, but in behalf of the Armenians, Poles and Finns."

DOWIE'S VERY ILL

Wires to Zion City That He Feels the Worst—Asks for Prayers.

Waukegan, Ill., Nov. 7.—Gloom spread over the congregation in Shiloh Tabernacle, Zion City, today, when a message was read from the First Apostle, dated at Victoria, Mexico, in which he admitted he is far from well and fears another and fatal stroke of paralysis. All previous messages have borne news of Dowie's improvement and this is the first that he has told of a setback.

"Pray that your leader may be spared to accomplish this great work," said the First Apostle, "I have been able to be while, expected any moment another stroke of paralysis, but thank God, who in his infinite mercy has spared me. My return trip will be made for December. I ask you again to pray for me."

LOUBET'S TERM IS CLOSING

All France Regrets That Popular President Will Soon Quit Office.

Paris, Nov. 7.—President Loubet has returned to the country over whose destinies he so happily presides, after visits to King Alfonso in Madrid and King Carlos in Lisbon, which not only have been pleasant to him, but of service to the republic.

One of Loubet's term of office approaches its close, and it is not without regret that his determination not to accept re-election remains unshaken.

Another citizen of the republic who will put foot on the soil of France soon, but after an absence which was different from much longer than the president's, is Paul Deroulade. Deroulade is now on his way from Vienna, happy as he put it, that he has preserved his physical and moral strength so as to be able to take part in the service and for the defense of his country.

"I am," he added, "a soldier of France and a servant of the republic."

COLLIE AS CASH COLLECTOR

Wise Dog Secures $100,000 for Railway Servants' Orphanage.

Newcastle, Eng., Nov. 7.—Duke, a wise collie dog, has collected nearly $100,000 for the railway servants' orphanage, an admirable institution whose name describes itself.

The Duke, an admirable institution whose name describes itself, is a familiar figure to travelers on the Northeastern Railway between this city and York and Leeds.

The collie got out of a train at Bank Top station, near York. None of the passengers admitted ownership of the dog, and the station master claimed him.

Accordingly a saddle with two collection boxes attached was made for Duke, who was sent out to solicit donations for the orphanage.

Duke quickly appreciated that he could get more money from a rich man than from a poorer one. So Duke soon learned the difference between dining in a restaurant, ordinary expenses, and "dining out" for months past has confined his family to the most exclusively to the dining car trains on which the fares are highest.

He regularly makes two journeys a day to York and back, and one to Harrogate and Newcastle. When the train stops at any of these big centers because late, or on the arrival of another train, Duke is always on hand to collect.

A COUGH is often the forerunner of serious pulmonary afflictions, yet there is a simple cure within the reach of all in the form of Bickel's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, which, if resorted to at the inception of a cold, will invariably give relief, and from any serious consequences. Price, 25 cents, at all dealers.

Dear Mother

Your little ones are a constant care in Fall and Winter. They will catch cold. Do you know about Shiloh's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, and what has done for so many? It is said to be the only reliable remedy for all diseases of the air passages in children. It is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take. It is guaranteed to cure or your money is returned. The price is 25c. per bottle, and all dealers in medicine sell.

SHILOH

This remedy should be in every household.

Canadian Tobacco.

The Federal Government has engaged a French tobacco expert to test the possibilities of the Canadian leaf, and instruct the growers in the best methods of cultivation, drying, curing, etc., so as to produce the finest grades of which the soil is capable. It is desirable that these experiments should precede legislation giving further protection to tobacco growers, having regard to the interests of the great cigar industry of the country. The smokers, although merely consumers, have also a right to be considered.

The growers have the advantage of a tariff of 10 cents per pound on the raw leaf. The excise duty on Canadian cigars made from the imported leaf is $5 per thousand, and on cigars made from the domestic leaf $3 per thousand. This is a very wide margin of protection for the domestic product, but all Canadian cigars are not finding favor with the smoking public. The returns show that the number of cigars made from Canadian leaf was 3,714,150 in 1902, 2,831,360 in 1903, and 2,209,410 in 1904, a decrease in two years of 41.7 per cent. The manufacture of foreign leaf cigars increased from 12,064,171 in 1902, to 17,934,170 in 1904, or 23,849,075 in two years.

The growers are asking an increase of 100 per cent in the customs duty and a uniform excise stamp for cigars. At present separate excise stamps distinguish Canadian leaf cigars from imported leaf cigars. Canadian growers claim there is an unreasonable prejudice against the home product and that if it were not identified by the excise stamp, smokers would make no distinction between the domestic and imported article. The manufacturers argue that they must be governed by the popular taste, and that if they were taxed into the use of Canadian tobacco exclusively, the demand for imported cigars would be greatly stimulated and they would lose a large share of the home market. If the tariff on raw leaf is raised, they ask a proportionate decrease in the excise duty. They say they are willing to encourage the growing of Canadian tobacco, but the growers must produce a quality satisfactory to the smokers of the country.

It is believed that superior grades can be grown in Canada, and the experiment is being carried on in a spirit of confidence which it is to be hoped will be justified by results.

Chas. Dana Gibson.

Charles Dana Gibson, the American artist, has renounced an income of $55,000 a year, and will remove to Europe to study the highest branch of his art, painting in oils. He says he has exhausted his resources in black and white, the matter in which he has won world-wide renown. Gibson is a genius, a creator of familiar types, which are purely ideal, but at least present a standard of physical grace to which the youth of the country may well aspire. His work is pervaded by a refined humor and a gentle satire, which is especially efficacious in hitting off the foibles of a certain section of American society. Here, at this time, he is true to life. Although a humorist and satirist, he has taken his art seriously, and has given expression to nothing low or base. He has sought to realize the beautiful, if not the sublime, and he has been an uplifting influence when the craze for illustrations has flooded the periodicals with pictorial crudity. Mr. Gibson has been an idealist, and no better proof of it could be furnished than his aspirations towards higher forms of his art. At the sacrifice of what most men hold to be the only object of a profession—money-making—there is a valuable moral lesson in Mr. Gibson's decision. It is a rebuke to the commercialism which is vitiating every department of life. It is the spirit which makes for the noblest products of genius. Hence it is to be hoped Mr. Gibson will be rewarded by achievements in his new sphere, which will enhance his fame. He has deserved success.

Irrigation in Western Canada.

By turning the mountains into a watering-can and spending money on making a spout that will do the sprinkling where it is needed, tens of thousands of acres of land in Southern Alberta and British Columbia, which were thought to be doomed to sterility, are blossoming like the rose. Mr. J. C. Walsh, of the Montreal Herald, writes to his newspaper that if one wants an idea of how the west is growing he has only to take the statement that the C. P. R. people are now disposing of one block of 110,000 acres in their first irrigation district, every bit of which will be sold and under occupation by the 1st of June next. On the streets of Lethbridge one sees streams of water which have already flowed a hundred miles through artificial ditches, and which pass on, to provide crops still farther away. The Mormons have settled on such land, and the gentle American farmers are following them in swarms, beating them at their own arts of cultivation.

Farmers from Alberta and Saskatchewan are discovering new riches on the sunny slopes of the mountains. Says Mr. Walsh:

"They are using the mountains as sprinklers in the southern valleys, and so. Our party drove for 275 miles, from Grand Forks, on the Crow's Nest branch, through the valleys of the Okanagan, Similkameen, Kootenai, and Nicola, back to the main line, and anywhere there was a sign of a peculiar growth upon it, there, too, was to be seen an irrigation ditch sweeping round the foot of the mountain, and when they got the water that the grower got from the apple to the almond, where hitherto the sage brush had reigned in its domain. There is some imagination in it, too, for the actual existence of one orchard sets people to valuing adjacent sage brush lots at $500 an acre. But that is part of the fun of the game.

You have to see the fruit trees growing in the California valleys, and miles up into the hearts of the mountains, before the fabric of the vision quite appeals to you, and even then you may find orchards grown and bearing in a well-settled country offered for $125 per acre, whereas the owners of the Canadian sage brush insist on counting their riches at $200 an acre, but this is a matter of degrees and will adjust itself."

The railways projected by the C. P. R. and James J. Hill in British Columbia will bring these fertile valleys into intimate touch with the world, and they will fill up as the west increases its fruit-consuming capacity.

One Result of Competition.

Mr. Statist Kidd says Godesch is to become "The Chicago of Canada." We shall have Chicago to cremate soon. The new life that has been breathed into Godesch, according to Kidd, is the result of the coming of the Canadian Pacific. The advent of the big road has caused the Grand Trunk to take "a lurch." "Officials grown curt in the days of impregnable monopoly," he says, "are reading books of etiquette." Hereafter, according to Mr. Kidd, there is to be keen competition, the assurance of which causes the people of that promising lake port to cheer up. Well, the people of these Ontario towns to be quickened by the touch of railway competition are in a position to sympathize with the west, by the lack of this sort of competition. It will be hard, too, for the people of Godesch to believe the widely-circulated stories to the effect that the west would not welcome the Grand Trunk Pacific, that the people out there were content and almost resented the coming of railway competition.

Today the good citizens of New York and Philadelphia hope to rout the forces led by General Grant and General Bull. The whole country is watching the battle.

The Toronto master plumbers are to be indicted for conspiracy in the indictment of the Attorney-General of Ontario. The public may now be let into some trade secrets.

The judges in the Kingston election trial will do well to pursue the investigation and probe the conduct of the election on both sides. If some persons are hurt political morality will be the gainer.

Hon. Geo. W. Ross' address at the unveiling of the Mowat statue was an oratorical masterpiece, the effort of a thinker, and not a mere rhetorician. It can be said of too few of our public men that their addresses are also literature.

Premier Seddon has posed as the greatest imperialist among outer Britons, but he declares that no Japanese will be allowed to enter New Zealand, and that the colony will not submit to dictation from the mother country in this matter. New Zealand would be glad to look to the mother country, if Japan chose to have her own way about it.

end. The hero, had his life been prolonged, would have been exposed to influences of different kinds very dangerous to such a character as his. There would have been found people silly or wicked enough to flatter his failings and even to represent them as signs of a peculiar greatness. In the character of Wolfe we have another example of that union of sensibility and heroism which is so attractive in the character of Nelson. But in Wolfe it is found combined, with perfectly pure as well as warm affections and with a stainless life.

In Memoriam.

[Chicago Record-Herald.]
The Lankark (Ill.) Gazette publishes the following pathetic little ballad, which we are informed is "founded on facts":

Willie was a gentle lad,
To smoking cigarettes.
Were felt when Willie one day took
To smoking cigarettes.
Harder every day,
Saw took long coupons, and
She put them all away.
Willie dear has left us;
'Twas a mournful shock,
Slater dashed the coupons in
And got a masterful look.
Now we gather round it,
Is the minutes fly,
It is something that we Remember Willie by.

The Old Blacksmith.

[Chicago Tribune.]
Nigh to a car he had repaired,
Stood the roadside smith. His arms were bare,
His work was done. He'd mended a spring,
He had patched a tire, and fixed the drag.
That broke the flogger that caused the crash,
And he stood there waiting for his cash.
He said to the chauffeur with a grin:
"I gather 'em in! I gather 'em in!"

Lack of Skilled Labor.

[Philadelphia Ledger.]
A curious phase of the present activity in all branches of industrial enterprise is the scarcity of skilled labor and the resulting shifts to which manufacturers are sometimes put to retain the services of their employees and to the additional help needed. Some large industrial centers are actually bidding against each other and shops are losing men to neighboring towns where more attractive offers are being made. The workers are reaping the benefits of this healthy state of the labor market.

In the Editor's Absence.

The editor was absent last week and will be compelled to be absent the present week.
This week, as last, he leaves the Courier in the hands of "the boys" in the office, and Col. Buell Stark.
In doing so he leaves to them all the credit their efforts may entitle them to, and as a natural sequence the professional kickers and "kussers" will know whom to "kuss."

[New York Times.]
"We're lost!" the captain shouted, As he took the vessel's helm;
For a storm had swept the vessel All the way to the equator.

"Now the telephone is busted,
And the steam heat's swept away,
While the patent dynamo is broken,
Only funeral hymns will play.

"Swimming tank is leaking badly,
And the ice plant's put to soak,
Can't get our wall street prices,
For the wireless mast is broke.

"Mandarin and masser missing—
Open plumbing can't be found;
Printing presses all are broken,
And the incubator's drowned.

"Ship is just as good as ever,
Engines sound and working well—
But we're shy on coal and fuel,
That's become a good feature."

"So we're lost!" the captain shouted;
"It's a chock we've got to drown;
Eleven hours we've been mired,
Obviously, 'going down.'"

Stay in Canada.

[Catholic Record.]
Which, then, is the better thing to do—to risk becoming a nonentity among the aliens—to be chained to labor in a factory—to herd in reeking penitentiaries, or to be a Canadian anxious to make a home for himself under his own flag, and to avail himself of the opportunities which now are his? The answer is plain. The Northwest and New Ontario beckon to the no man's land of servitude, and sit beside blood that awaits those who have fled from their veins. So get a stake in this country, young man, head not the tales of the peif and presser across the line. Tell a story of your own making that shall be read by those who like to think that the spirit and tenacity of the pioneer are our heritage. But be no laggard in beginning the tale.

Kipling's Technical Jargon.

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

It is not often that the reading public hears from Rudyard Kipling nowadays, and this is all the more reason that after his "eloquent silence" he should give that public something entertaining instead of encyclopedic, inasmuch as he knows more than many and can entertain us as well as he can best. It cannot be said that he has done anything of the kind in his latest short story, "With the Night Mail," published in McClure's Magazine for November. It is not entertaining, but exasperating. It is not even a story, but a catalogue of mechanical appliances, chiefly interesting to captains and engineers of mail steamers. This is a habit of Mr. Kipling's, this sudden dropping into jargon apparatus, and machinery in general, and passing it off as a story upon the unsuspecting reader, who suddenly finds himself mired in a slough of unintelligible technique, uncertain whether to go on or turn back, and tending to believe that the author is expecting pleasant diversion from the jargon, and that he is to be thankful that this habit is not a frequent one, but we should be more thankful if he would abandon it and leave technical encyclopedic to the scientific experts. It is all the more exasperating that Mr. Kipling drops into this habit immediately after he has produced something in his best vein and has aroused the reader's expectation that more in the same vein is coming. Mr. Kipling's "Enforced Habitation," the one exquisite and almost ethereal, the one significant. From these he suddenly lapses into a trip "With the Night Mail," and through a dozen tedious pages we are treated to such statements as that "Floury's Paradox of the Bulkheaded Vacuum is in full blast, and 162's Limit is low on account of the small size of her nine screws, which, though the handier than the old colloid screws, bell sooner," and, again, "Thellousons, bell sooner," and, again, "Even Flcury, who begat it, and, unlike Magnolia, died a multi-millionaire, could not explain how the restless little imp shuddering in the U tube can, in the fractional part of the second, strike down the furious blast of gas into a chill, grayish-green liquid that drains from the far end of the vacuum through the education-pipes and the mains back to the bilges"; and after all this that "Bilge better, upper tank, dorsal tank, expansion chamber, vacuum, main return (as a liquid), and cycle," and that "you can hear the trickle of the liquefied gas flowing from the vacuum into the bilge tanks and the soft gluck-gluck of gas locks closing, as Capt. Furnall brings 162 down by the head."

All this may be found on a single page and more of the same kind on every page, but why set this forth as a story? If Mr. Kipling must do these things, why not do them for the Popular Science Monthly or the Engineer Magazine? Still better, why should he do them at all? We concede that he knows all about machines and engines, and that "you can hear the three soldiers, and Kim's India, and the three soldiers, and the barracks, and Mandy, and Danny Deever, and Tommy Alay, and the engine-room, 'I was fore- get' the Kipling of the 'Plain Tales of the Hills' and the 'Seven Seas.'"

POEMS THAT LIVE.

"Poetry is the music of the soul, and above all of great feeling souls."

Song of the Mountain.

[Bills Carman.]

Son of all the cities,
With their culture and their code,
What brings you to my doorway,
You who are so far from home?
You may walk or steam or ride,
But you'll never, never know me
Till you come without a guide.
You may come with rod and level,
With compass and with chain,
To parcel me for profit,
And barter me for gain;
You may tell my tale in poems
By the scars on drift and slide;
But you'll never, never know me
Till you learn how I abide.
You may range my slopes for silver,
You may wash my hands for gold,
You may tally every jewel,
But you'll never, never know me
Till you cross my wildest divide;
You may tell my tale in poems
By the scars on drift and slide;
But you'll never, never know me
Till you learn how I abide.
You may sleep for nights together
With your head upon my breast,
Your companion of my silence,
The receiver of my rest;
You may come with all your wisdom
To guide me in my pride,
But you'll never, never know me
Till you love me like a bride.

LOUIS LIKES ROOSEVELT

Edward a return personal message by Prince Louis, which will be delivered when the Prince next visits London.

Before his departure for Annapolis, Prince Louis said to the correspondent of the London Morning Post: "I have long looked forward to seeing the President, and he was good enough to give me the opportunity at dinner at the White House on Saturday. I was greatly impressed with his strong personality, his intelligence, his strength, his comprehensive knowledge of his democracy, but at the same time, the majesty of a monarch. He is a man of great dignity, of a masterful, bold, I am only sorry that I cannot see and know more of an extraordinary man as well as a very charming man."

This is the first time, I believe, that a British admiral has been received by the President at Washington; now I should like to see an American President received by the King in London.

At the tomb of Washington, Prince Louis stood reverently in silence for a few moments.

Upon leaving Mount Vernon the prince was presented with a spruce from the tree which grows about the tomb. "I shall treasure this," he said, "as a souvenir of this morning."

The President is sending to King Hamilton Girl Waded in to Her Knees and Then "Quit."

Hamilton, Nov. 7.—Yesterday afternoon Lizzie Whitney, 225 North Park street, wrote a note calculated to make her family sorry for the way she had been used by them, pinned it on her dress, waded out in the Dundurn marsh until the water reached her knees, and then herself in. The cold water brought her to her senses, and she jumped up screaming for help. She was rescued by a passing milkman and taken to the city hospital. Though her condition is regarded as rather serious, the doctors have hopes of her recovery.

THROWING LIGHT
On the Subject of HOME DYEING

Home dyeing is a fascinating and money-saving work when Diamond Dyes are used. Home coloring has an attraction for ladies in all ranks of society, and the wonderful results achieved by the Diamond Dyes for women, have made them the popular dyes in all parts of the world. One ten-cent package of the Diamond Dyes will do the same work that a steam-dyeing establishment charges $1 for.

All faded and dingy-looking dresses, skirts, suits, blouses, jackets, ribbons, stockings, coats vests and trousers can be recolored in the home and made to look as good as new, at a cost of from 10 to 20 cents, when the never-fading Diamond Dyes are used. Have a money saving can only be guaranteed when Diamond Dyes are used. Have a money saving can only be guaranteed when Diamond Dyes are used. CAN WITTE DO HIS HARD TASK?

Press Agrees That Russ Premier
Has Most Difficult Problem to Solve.

London, Nov. 7.—The tremendous difficulties of the task now facing Count Witte in the sudden birth of Russian freedom are fully recognized in the editorial and the special dispatches from St. Petersburg in this morning's London newspapers. Count Witte, however, are freely expressed as to whether the count will prove strong enough or the Russian nation sufficiently self-controlled to surmount the labor involved in the growth of a new constitution. The Daily Telegraph in an editorial says: "An epoch has been reached in the fortunes of a nation corresponding to the fall of the battle in the history of France, but there is a warning as well as an inspiration in the great parallel of the French revolution, which, through impatience, was returned by anarchy, massacre and terror to a despotism mightier than the one it destroyed. Russia now stands at the golden moment of constructive compromise, when everything depends upon controlling the forces which may otherwise sweep the empire into chaos. Let the leaders of Russian revolution remember the fate of the Girondins while they still have power to pause. Other papers dilate the text that the Emperor's charter of freedom has still to be translated into deeds and action on the part of the revolutionaries and the autocrat, which, they say, are both likely to resist to the utmost any attempt at compromise and moderation.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Morning Post points out that Count Witte is "only a liberal from expediency, is distrustful by all shades of popular political opinion and is openly disliked by the aristocrats."

"It has been remarked that the count's cabinet list is likely to be accepted by the Emperor as he could submit no names more distasteful than his own."

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, commenting on Tuesday's demonstrations, says that the "blowing off of steam" may be a correct description of them, but that some give them the name of "puffs." "It is feared that this revolution will be carried to the bitter end. The correspondent continues:

"The Socialists and revolutionaries on all sides, strong in their victory, declare their determination to carry the struggle further, even though it should end in a military dictatorship. The Government will be compelled to resist all such demands as the formation of a national militia, because it can have no guarantee that such a militia would not be used in an attempt to overthrow the monarchy and establish a republic."

The Odessa correspondent of the Standard sends a report that the civil governor has fled.

The Standard's Warsaw correspondent says that the "blowing off of steam" may be a correct description of them, but that some give them the name of "puffs." "It is feared that this revolution will be carried to the bitter end. The correspondent continues:

"The Socialists and revolutionaries on all sides, strong in their victory, declare their determination to carry the struggle further, even though it should end in a military dictatorship. The Government will be compelled to resist all such demands as the formation of a national militia, because it can have no guarantee that such a militia would not be used in an attempt to overthrow the monarchy and establish a republic."

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times says:

"The constitution has come too late. It has satisfied nobody except the very moderate element, which is devoid of any influence upon Russia's political population. The inhabitants of St. Petersburg whose political education is vastly more advanced than that of those in the provinces react passively, if not actively, on the side of the revolutionaries. The manifesto is regarded as an avowal of weakness and an inclination to further agitation. We are thus facing a situation which is perhaps more serious than ever."

Painful, Fatal Kidney Disease

CALLS FOR IMMEDIATE AND ACTIVE TREATMENT WITH
DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Kidney disease—marked by back-ache, pains in the loins, scanty, dark colored urine, puffiness under the eyes, dropsical swelling and gradual loss of flesh—is always to be dreaded both on account of the suffering it entails and because of its fatality.

The kidneys and liver share alike the responsibility of filtering poisons from the blood, and it is therefore necessary to regulate both these organs in order to effect a cure for kidney disease.

This fact accounts for the extraordinary success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which is the only treatment obtainable having a direct and combined action on the liver and kidneys.

For years evidence has been piling up which goes to prove that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have positively cured obstinate and complicated cases of kidney disease which defied physicians and ordinary kidney medicines.

Nor is this to be wondered at when it is remembered that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the result of the long and varied experience of the great American physician and author—Dr. A. W. Chase.

Kidney disease is not to be neglected. It is too far serious to be allowed to develop. You can profit by the experience of thousands of your fellow-citizens and obtain prompt relief, as well as thorough and lasting cure, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or E. W. Gillett, Ltd., Toronto.

"IN DAY'S WORK" SAYS FIRE HERO

Choose Path of Death to Save
Scores in Way of Flying Engine.

New York, Nov. 7.—Engine No. 56 of the fire department was one of the big steamers called to a small blaze at Columbus avenue and Ninety-Sixth street at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Engine No. 56 stopped against an elevated pillar at Columbus avenue and Eighty-Third street, and its crew went home in an ambulance.

It happened as it has happened many times before when a driver of the fire department has to think quick. Driver Richard O'Keefe was getting the best speed he could out of his three big horses. They were tearing across Eighty-Third street with a stream of small boys in the rear, the bells clanging, crowds stopping to see them pass.

Two cars got to the Eighty-Third street crossing when No. 56 was making for it at full speed. A north-bound car started ahead. The south-bound car stood still. They effectively blocked the crossing for such a big engine as No. 56. O'Keefe was heading his team straight at the south-bound car. On the back platform were a dozen men, and the inside of the car was packed with the home-going workers. To those who stood breathless to watch the impending crash it seemed that nothing could save either the car or the engine. The men on the back platform of the car began to crowd off, with yells of warning to those inside.

O'Keefe, as his captain said later, "never turned a hair." He just swung on his left rein. The three big horses swung with him, and just what O'Keefe expected would happen, did happen. Engine and team went smashing against the big pillar of the elevated road.

O'Keefe was shot through the air and fell on his head, and his crew, Capt. Michael McNamara and Daniel Flaherty, the engineer—were slammed against the front of the engine and dropped to the ground like so much dead weight. The heavy engine plunged over the horses for a brief second. The three horses went down, one of them under with a broken neck. The two kicked and squealed and had not the others of the engine crew, running up at that moment on the tender, grabbed the horses and yanked them to their feet they would have ended the captain and the engineer with their hoofs.

When the ambulance arrived from Roosevelt Hospital Dr. Johnson found that O'Keefe had a four-inch cut along his scalp and was so badly stunned that it took fifteen minutes to bring him around. Capt. McNamara got the brunt of the crash. Three of his ribs were broken and his back was injured. Engineer Flaherty broke his ankle and bruised himself from head to foot. They all refused to go to the hospital, and the ambulance took them to their homes.

As for Dobbins, the horse that went under, he was ended with a policeman's bullet. The engine was a wreck. O'Keefe said it was "all in a day's work" when the car passengers he had saved crowded around to shake his hand.

GOOD OLD ONTARIO

Read This and Then Cut Out Race
Suicide Talk.

Hamilton, Nov. 7.—There is a physician in Hamilton who is thoroughly convinced that if there is such a thing as race suicide in this country, there are some very notable exceptions right here in Hamilton. He was forced to this conclusion by an incident which occurred yesterday, and which is unique in medical practice. This case of a patient who had been engaged for some time, and who was a girl of 17 summers, but only 16 years, her 17th year not being completed until next spring. Arriving at the house yesterday afternoon in response to a hurry-up call, he was surprised to find that the patient was not this young woman, but her mother, and he had the satisfaction of bringing her to the hospital, where she was confined, and the doctor learned that it was her fifteenth. She is not yet 24 years of age, was married before she was 16, and eleven of her family were spared to her and her husband.

Half an hour later she was a grandmother. In the same house and on the same visit the doctor performed a similar service for her daughter. In this case it was also a daughter—three generations of the gentler sex, grandmother, mother, aunt, niece and two new daughters all within a few minutes, and all doing well.

It is a good Anglo-Saxon family, and the doctor thinks old Ontario is safe yet.

Liner Was Near Sinking.

Copenhagen, Nov. 6.—The Scandinavian-American Line steamer Higelow, from New York, Oct. 25, for Christiania and Copenhagen, touched ground on the middle ground in the Kamegat, during a storm today, and was run ashore to prevent her from sinking. The forehold of the vessel is full of water. Her passengers have been transferred to the Danish steamer Koch.

Murder and Plunder at Kieff.

Kieff, Russia, Nov. 3.—The retirement of Gen. Kleigels, the governor-general of Kieff, who was removed Wednesday and has been succeeded by Gen. Soukholinoff, has not served to restore order. The whole city is in a ferment. A report that the Jews had destroyed a Christian monastery was circulated among the mob and served to provoke renewal of the attacks on the Jews. The massacre continues. Gen. Karaas, the military commander, called out the Cossacks who were met with bombs whereupon they fired into the crowd, killing twelve persons and wounding forty-four.

DEATH OF CHAS. ALEXANDER

Well Known Philanthropist of Montreal Meets Strange End.

Montreal, Nov. 6.—Charles Alexander, one of the oldest and best-known citizens of Montreal, about midnight Saturday night was found in a difficult condition in front of his house, on McKay street, and passed away shortly afterwards. It is supposed that Mr. Alexander, who was about 80 years of age, was apparently in his usual vigorous health Saturday, and attended to business as usual.

It was as a philanthropist that Mr. Alexander was best known. Throughout his long residence in Montreal he displayed the warmest interest in local charitable and philanthropic circles, and was one of the leaders in all movements of this kind originating among the Protestants of Montreal. He was prominent in many local institutions. In 1885 a claim was made on Mr. Alexander's behalf to the dormant earldom of Stirling, but it was not successful.

Throughout his life Mr. Alexander was hale and vigorous up to the last, and attended to business daily.

He is survived by two sons, in Montreal, and two daughters, in St. Louis, Mo., and Chicago, and Mrs. Robert Darling, of Toronto.

All the stores in the Jewish market have been plundered and destroyed.

Dilation of the Stomach

The gravity of enlargement of the stomach cannot be overestimated. One of the principal causes that produce this distressing condition is indigestion and flatulence. Weakness of the muscles that propel the food to the intestines is also a factor in allowing the food to accumulate in the stomach, and thus causing it to become enormously distended. Constipation and inactivity of the liver is also a prominent cause. In this condition you feel a coated tongue, thirst, loss of appetite, emaciation, oppression at the pit of the stomach, belching of food and vomiting of sour liquid, varying in amount. Weakness, pain and want of energy are usually present.

Now, to overcome this distressing and dangerous enlargement of the stomach and all its symptoms, take Smith's Pile and Butternut Pills today. They will give tone to the weak propelling muscles of the stomach and intestines. They produce a natural movement of the contents of the bowels and avoid the formation of gas, which if retained produces symptoms of self-poisoning. Food long retained in the stomach and retained in the bowels show all the signs of putrefaction, when examined after the stomach pump is used, viz: sour odor, bacteria, yeast, acridities and organic acids, which are deleterious to the entire system.

Smith's Pile and Butternut Pills cure constipation as if by magic. They regulate the functions of the liver, cleanse the poisons from the blood, remove the bilious elements from the circulation and strengthen the nerves. If your eyes are clouded without an appreciable cause, if you have specks and floating objects before your vision, use Smith's Pile and Butternut Pills and get the poisons elements out of your blood. Remember, they always cure sick headache, constipation and biliousness in one night. 25 cents all dealers.

The remarkable advance made by the Dominion of Canada during the past five years, and the great development of its natural resources, have been so significant as to attract the attention of capitalists and investors at the financial centers of two continents.

It may very properly be said that no new country at a similar stage in its history, not excepting the United States, has given such promise of commercial greatness and material prosperity. Canadian securities—Government, Railway, Financial and Land—occupy a very high position in the stock markets of the world.

A notable feature of the past five years has been the growth of the trade between the Mother Country and Canada. The very certain prospect of increasing trade relations—with the probability of their being further encouraged by a closer union—the much more active interest in the Dominion now being taken by the capitalists of Great Britain, and the tide of improved immigration now making for Canadian shores, suggest that the time is most suitable for the establishment of a bank which shall not merely realize success in its operations, from the actual needs of the Dominion, but shall emphasize the rapidly-growing commercial relations within the Empire.

The UNITED EMPIRE BANK OF CANADA will operate throughout Canada, with an office in London, England, and later, if the occasion demands, at other large centers in Great Britain.

While being a thoroughly Canadian institution under Canadian management, its directorate will include three or more prominent financiers of London, England.

Although the Provisional Executive have already received offers of large subscriptions for stock from English investors, it is intended to limit the holdings of any one person or corporation and to secure the greater portion of its share capital in Canada, in as widely distributed holdings as possible.

While there have been since 1900 three new banks established in active operation in Canada, all of which are meeting with success, there

The Directors of the United Empire Bank of Canada will be men selected with a view to their business capacity and financial ability. While they will be men of means and thoroughly representative, special regard will be paid to their fitness and capability for the position.

The General Manager will be Mr. George P. Reid, for ten years General Manager of The Standard Bank of Canada. The success of this institution under his management has been widely recognized. Mr. Reid possesses an enviable reputation as being a sound and conservative banker.

Shares will be $100 par value. As preliminary expenses will be kept within very small limits, it is not considered necessary to issue the stock at a premium.

The terms of subscription will be $10 per share on allotment, $10 per share on the first day of the month immediately following the date of allotment, $10 per share every month thereafter on the first day of the month until the whole amount is paid.

Interest at the rate of FOUR per cent per annum up to the date fixed for payment will be allowed on payments made in advance.

The provisional directors reserve the right to reject or allot any subscription in whole or in part.

Applications for Stock should be made to MR. GEORGE P. REID, Secretary,

GREAT HEIRESS FANCY FREE

Lady Hamilton, With Income of $570,000 a Year, Has No Lover.

London, Nov. 7.—Lady Mary Hamilton, Britain's greatest heiress, is celebrating this week her twenty-first birthday at Breckin Castle, Isle of Arran, the ancient home of King Robert Bruce. She is a daughter of the twelfth Duke of Hamilton, who died on board his yacht at Lisbon in 1888, leaving her all of his vast estates, every acre of which is not entailed and all his money, while a second cousin, a paralyzed cavalry lieutenant, inherited the title and seven palaces of which he can not dispose of, and about $20,000 a year.

Lady Mary has a net income of $520,000 a year. Her mother is still living, having married within a year of the duke's death Carnaby Foster, a Leicestershire squire. Lady Mary rarely comes to London. She has no taste for the social whirl, but delights in the wild, free life of her Island of Arran, in the Firth of Clyde, where she virtually reigns as queen over its 5,000 inhabitants. She takes a deep interest in the welfare of her tenants, whom she visits in their cottages; she organizes parties for their children, and generally fills the role of Lady Bountiful.

Arran has some of the finest deer forests, grouse moors, and salmon rivers in Scotland, and Lady Mary is notable alike with rod and gun, enjoying the arduous sport of stalking deer with the utmost zest. Many matches have been suggested for her by her grandmother, the Duchess of Devonshire, but Lady Mary remains fancy free, although rumor has it she may accept the addresses of the handsome young Marquis of Graham, who is now among the guests at her birthday house party. He is the eldest son and heir of the Duke of Montrose.

BANDINI TURNS UP

Italian Involved in Terrorist Plot Returns Wealthy.

Rome, Nov. 7.—Italian papers relate the romantic life story of Enrico Bandini who, after being believed dead for thirty years, has now returned to his family at San Casciano, near Florence. In April, 1877, Bandini went to St. Petersburg, where he sold Florentine straw hats and objects of art. Suddenly all news from him ceased, and inquiries remained unanswered. Investigation through official channels also remained without result. It was noticed, however, that Bandini's sudden silence coincided with the assassination of Czar Alexander II. Bandini's family gave their relative up as lost.

A few days ago a man of about 53 entered a cafe at San Casciano and made inquiry from the proprietor after the Bandini family. On being told that Enrico Bandini had disappeared long ago and was believed to be dead, the stranger dramatically revealed himself as the missing man. His relatives did not recognize him, but his knowledge of certain minute particulars concerning the family convinced them that he was really the man whom they had mourned as dead.

Bandini's story is that he became involved in the revolutionary movement, and, though entirely innocent, was arrested, together with fifteen companions, the day after the Emperor Alexander's assassination. He, however, managed to escape to America, where he succeeded in saving some money, and others sent to Siberia, among whom was his friend, an engineer named Condi. The Russian officials promised to save him from the gallows if he would betray the secret of the revolutionary organization. After telling all he knew, he was sent, loaded with chains, to the Siberian mines. Bandini afterwards ventured to return to Russia under an assumed name, and even succeeded in obtaining a post on the trans-Siberian Railway. In 1899 he returned to America, and through fortunate speculations became the owner of $25,000, with which he has now returned home, and expects to spend the rest of his days in peace.

Miss Wilks, of Galt, Ont., had splendid success at the Chicago Horse Show last week, and it is to be expected that she will have pretty nearly the same at New York next week. Rhea W., in the standard-bred class, won the $100 prize on the first evening. On the second day the same mare, with Easter Belle, won the $200 offered for the best roadster pair. On the fourth day Rhea W. won in two roadster classes, on the halter and to wagon. It was on this day that a riot nearly occurred because of the Reginald's decision in the carriage class for pairs. J. H. Moore getting first over Reginald Vanderbilt and E. B. Jordan, On Friday evening Miss Wilks again won with Rhea W. and Easter Belle.

An able writer in the Chicago Tribune has this to say about the racing game, and what he says is largely true of Canadian tracks:

Percy Taylor's plea for racing, which appeared in last Sunday's Tribune, was a good presentation of the commendable side of racing, but his hope that "it might lead to a general discussion and possibly a solution of the question, and to the introduction of racing as a pleasant recreation for the people," is not likely to be realized. The fact is, few people of influence in America, outside of New York State, Kentucky and California, care for running races, and some of the influential few who at times do "care" for the sport are actuated apparently by the financial returns. A country where the dollar mark stands for so much is not a good field for the temperance of the people will be like that of the English people, who have supported racing for hundreds of years, maintaining it on a high plane, betting on it as they reasonably can afford to spend their money on any other amusement, and not jumping at it as an imaginary means of making money without work, but the United States seems to be a long way from that stage, judging by the character of the sport as it has existed in most places in this country. The New York tracks are in a moderate degree an exception to this rule, possibly because at the metropolis there is something more nearly approaching a leisure rich class than anything else. The place and the metropolis tracks the idea of "beating the books" and the fate of the "favorites" are altogether too conspicuous to cause the sport to appeal to headstrong people who have a contempt for gambling as a means of making money. Perhaps the sport may survive through the present ordeal in the middle west, and it may get into the hands of those who have an honest sentiment for it, but until there is a general change of conditions racing will continue to grow less popular instead of more so.

Variety are the undoubted champions of the Inter-Collegiate Union, and now have the privilege of challenging for the Dominion championship. They did not play up to their usual form on Saturday last. They took the fastest of the three teams, at that. The Tigers got their scrimmage out and worked it against the McMaster College team. It looked well. The place and the time of the Rough Rider-Tiger match has not been settled yet. The Hamilton team will not play at Ottawa, so it seems as if Montreal will get the game. The Tigers actually think they can win. But it looks all the way like the Ottawa boys, especially since they have landed Ross, of Montreal. He fills up the only hole in the lineup.

London's last chance for his junior team to win the district has now gone a-glimmering since Sarnia has defaulted. It is to be regretted that our team did not make a better showing. The material for a championship team is there, but that last game lost them the medals. Petrolia has a strong team and will make a few of them hurry. That back division of theirs is fast and strong, and liable to uncork a dangerous run any time. Their wings are strong and shifty. Now that we cannot win, we would like to see Petrolia bring the championship back to this part of the country. Petrolia has worked long and faithfully for a team, and have stood by the game under discouraging circumstances. Here's that the Oil Town team win.

A GREAT JUMPER IS WILLETS' HEATHERBLOOM

Cleared Seven Feet Ten Inches and Lowered His Own Best Record.

Howard Willets' world's champion jumper Heatherbloom has again distinguished himself by establishing a new world's record for high jumping. At the recent Norfolk, Va., Horse Show, Heatherbloom cleared the bar at 7 feet 10 inches, beating his own previous record of 7 feet 8 inches, made two years ago at Bryn Mawr.

Heatherbloom is without doubt the greatest high jumper the world has ever produced. Just before he made his Bryn Mawr record he made a jump of 8 feet 2 inches in practice, but under the circumstances it did not stand as an official record.

Whenever Heatherbloom has hung up a new record he has always cleared the timber by several inches, and it is the belief of his owner, that he will continue to improve until he has equalled if not surpassed the wonderful performance he accomplished in practice. Richard Donnelly, who rode Heatherbloom in his recent record-breaking performance, has ridden the champion to every one of his record jumps since the champion came into prominence. Both horse and rider have met with numerous mishaps during the past four years but fortunately none has been serious.

Heatherbloom will continue his record-breaking trials just as soon as he recovers from the attack of sickness which prevented him from showing at the recent Chicago Horse Show. Mr. Willets says that he will allow Donnelly to continue in his record trials with the present record. Every year for the past four years Heatherbloom has added an inch or two to his record, and his owner and his rider predict that he will

MEDS MAKE IT FIVE STRAIGHTS

Defeat the Barracks and Spoil Soldiers Chance for Championship.

A very enthusiastic game of football took place on Carling Heights last evening when the Meds defeated the Barracks by a score of 2-0. The weather being unfavorable, only a small crowd was in attendance. It was the Barracks' last chance for the championship and they were determined to win.

The Meds started with only ten men and scored almost immediately. The game was kept well down in the soldiers' territory, and no other score was made until near the end. Kidd, the Meds' new man, played a star game. In the second half a great deal of body work was done and in this the Meds, profiting by experience, easily showed themselves superior.

This makes five straight wins for the Meds, and as the Barracks' season game to be played, and that with the Collegiate, there is little likelihood of their being overtaken.

Dr. J. H. Downing refereed the game to the satisfaction of all.

The Meds and Collegiate meet on Wednesday at 4:30 for the last time. Everyone should see the game.

NOW IS THE TIME TO REORGANIZE

That's What Tim Murnane Says About Baseball—A New League.

Boston, Nov. 6.—The time is ripe for reorganizing the baseball business and the conditions of the game, says Tim Murnane, starting with the major leagues and following to the smallest brush leagues. Murnane, who is the greatest season ticket holder in the country, is now in a blaze of glory at New York, yet the conditions must be changed to suit the times, says Murnane, who would, no doubt, like a larger slice of the baseball pie.

The history of the game has shown that the major leagues are absolutely necessary to keep up the interest in the game, and at least four of the larger cities can well support two clubs each. The time has come when the clubs in a town will pay people like to see a winner; and it must indeed be a poor city that cannot support a good ball club. If the major leagues have weak links, why not break them up and take in some of the large cities, now on the outside, still keeping up the rivalry between the great rivals?

The American League was a grand success financially, and the National League was no less so. The place where good ball was offered, let the two leagues amalgamate, and a new league would jump in at once. The major leagues are not satisfied with the present prices. The popular-price idea won the public five years ago, when the American League was first formed. If it was worth it, the time will come again when the same ball will be thrown to the public.

Men are winning today figuring on the same old plan that Andrew Freedman originated, all clubs under one corporation, but the scheme can never be worked out, because of the fact that outsiders will always have a chance to break in and win the baseball public away from this style of a trust.

The problem of the ascent of sap in trees, an English botanist tells us, is yet unsolved. It appears that in the highest trees the sap is raised to a height of nearly 100 atmospheres, and as we cannot suppose that leaves can exert so intense suction, the only theory at all probable is that the cells exert some sort of pumping action on the wood.

TALK OF PONDS AND THE PARKS

Supt. Moore Says Redmond's Pond Is Surface Water.

WADING POOL FOR THE KIDDIES

One May Be Put in at Springbank—Also a Stock of Red, Black and Flying Squirrels.

The probability of an additional water supply being secured from Redmond's pond was dispelled by Supt. John M. Moore in his report before the water commissioners yesterday afternoon.

The water from this pond was characterized as being chiefly surface water, and aside from this the supply would but fill a six-inch pipe after a rainfall. Nearly 300 acres of land were drained into this pond and the water would be unsuitable for drinking purposes.

Supt. Moore had made an estimate of the quantity of water in Crow Creek and what could be obtained between there and Springbank. The water in Crow Creek, although amounting to a supply of 1,000,000 gallons a day, would not be any more than the river water, but that between there and Springbank was spring water. A supply of 1,000,000 gallons daily could be secured from here.

Chairman Darch said that rumors had been going around that there was insufficient water in the vicinity of Springbank to warrant the issue of a $251,000. He thought that the public should know that the board was unanimous in believing that they were warranted in expending this money.

Commissioner Jones thought that the pumping capacity at the power-house only adequate to the pumping of water furnished. Superintendent Moore explained that the hydraulic pumps used could pump 6,000,000 gallons daily, and that a city with a population of 100,000 could use 3,500,000 gallons a day are used.

"We waste far more water than we need," said the mayor. "Railway engines use more water here in London than they do from Toronto. Aside from this, water is being unnecessarily used."

Commissioner Jones thought that the railroads should have meters, and the water should be metered. That the water should be metered, and the railroads should have meters, and the water should be metered.

The Annual Surplus.

At present the surplus of the water department was about $25,000 annually. The department expressed his opinion that this surplus was no surplus from this department, but was a surplus from the city. It did not seem to him that the surplus was a surplus from the city, but was a surplus from the city.

Mr. Jones was against issuing debentures for more than 30 years. The debt of the city should not be increased by more than 30 years, and new things have had to be instituted.

Wading Pool for the Kiddies. Park Commissioner Pearce sent the board of water works the requirements for next season's wading pool at Springbank Park, and embodied in the letter several suggestions, all but one of which were favorably received.

Mr. Pearce thought that the larger cities had instituted would be a good thing to have at Springbank. The plan was thought to be a good one, although the expense of instituting it would be considerable. A rearrangement of some of the water works might greatly enhance the park, and Mr. Pearce thought that the plan would be a good one. The plan would be a good one, and Mr. Pearce thought that the plan would be a good one.

Several expressions of satisfaction were expressed with Park Commissioner Pearce's work.

Mr. B. C. Platt was given a permanent position on the waterworks staff at salary of $600 a year, he has been filling a somewhat uncertain position for a short time.

Besides Chairman Darch, Commissioner Jones, Secretary Ellwood, Mayor Campbell and Engineer Moore were present.

FUCHS COMES TO AMERICA

Fresh From His London Triumph and Will Paint Portraits.

London, Nov. 7.—Following the example of Carlos Duran, Chattran, and several other continental portrait painters of great reputation, Emil Fuchs, sculptor, painter and medalist, is about to start on a portrait painting tour through the United States, which he has been invited by some prominent members of the New York society, who have entrusted him commissions for portraits. He will sail on the Kronprinz William on Nov. 8.

Few modern painters can boast of as distinguished a list of sitters as Fuchs has had during the few years he has spent in the British capital. He is an Austrian by birth and a cosmopolitan by training, having studied under the famous sculptor, in Vienna, and taken a course in the Berlin academy, and subsequently worked for a few years on the classic soil in Rome. He was awarded a marble bust of Mrs. Carl Meyer, the completion of which took him to England in 1896. A bust of Lady Alice Montagu, the Duchess of Manchester's daughter, which was exhibited in 1898 at the Royal Academy, together with the fine marble statue of "Mother's Love," and a silver statuette of "Flora Marcella," bylaw led to a long succession of portraits in marble and on canvas and in relief on the entire of his career.

Besides designing the King's head for the postage stamps now in use in England, Fuchs painted a life-size portrait of King Edward in the uniform of his Prussian regiment, and was rewarded by his majesty to make a few drawings of the late Queen Victoria on her deathbed, and a marble bust of the King, and at Balmoral, he has modeled memorials to Queen Victoria, Empress Frederick and the Duke of Coburg, while at St. George's Chapel, Windsor, he has modeled a memorial to Prince Christian Victor, executed for Queen Victoria.

Among the medals designed by this versatile artist was one for Queen Victoria, and others with portraits of Winston Churchill, Sir George White, Lord Roberts, and Lord Charles D'Almeida, and others with portraits of the Duke of Devonshire, Lord Curzon, and Lord Lansdowne.

Fuchs is a portrait painter of more than ordinary skill. He is a man of more than ordinary skill. He is a man of more than ordinary skill. He is a man of more than ordinary skill.

Cousin of King Peter of Serbia Passes Away in U. S. Metropolis.

New York, Nov. 7.—A prince of Serbia died in New York. He was a prince of Serbia. He was a prince of Serbia. He was a prince of Serbia.

On the black covered coffin that lies in the parlor at No. 200 East Eighty-second street is a large silver escutcheon with engraved on it the royal arms of Serbia, and this is inscribed beneath the blazoning:

CROSS ZEBRA AND HORSE

Hoped to Produce New Breed of Speedy Draft Animals.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Secretary Wilson and the officials of the bureau of animal industry of the agricultural department, with the co-operation of Dr. Frank Baker, superintendent of the National Zoological Park, are about to engage in the most curious zoological experiment that has ever undertaken by a government. The Germans are making preparations for a similar experiment, and the Congo Free State, in Africa, will also attempt it. Robert P. Skinner, United States consul-general at Marseilles, who was recently sent to Belgium to make a treaty with that Government, has obtained through the Ras Makonnen at Harar, Africa, a pair of Grevy zebra stallions. They are large, powerful animals, and are now on their way to Mr. Skinner's farm near New York. The department of state has been advised of the shipment.

By crossing these zebras with the American horse it is proposed to create an entirely new breed of draft animals, which, it is believed, will excel in speed, strength and endurance every variety of the horse or mule which we have now in existence.

The experiments will be conducted at the Washington zoo, under the direction of Superintendent Baker, and the zoologists of the agricultural department. They will be watched with the greatest interest by zoologists and live stock men all over the world. The German colonies in Africa have been endeavoring to domesticate the zebra and use it for cross-breeding because it is proof against the tsetse fly, an African and has caused a great deal of trouble.

It is believed that a half-breed zebra will be as much immune from the tsetse fly as a full-bred animal, hence the experiment is considered worthy trying. The German authorities also hope to possess of a new animal, some beast of burden that can endure the climate of Central Africa, neither horses, mules, nor oxen thrive there. Carabans, or water buffalo, from the East Indies, endure the climate much better, but the zebra, which is a native of that zone, would be even more useful if it could be domesticated.

DERMEN TALK LICENSE REDUCTION; DEFER ACTION

Will Secure Solicitor's Opinion Before Disposing of Temperance People's Petition—Vote Will Be Taken.

The petition of the temperance organizations of London, asking the council to give two readings to a bylaw fixing the number of saloons licenses in London at 26, and then submit it to a vote of the people in January for approval, came up for consideration at the regular meeting of the aldermen last evening.

A deputation of very prominent temperance workers appeared in support of the petition, and from two or three hundred friends of the cause—mostly ladies—occupied the main hall. The council, however, disposed of the matter for the time being, without hearing the views of the deputation. The legality of the council giving the bylaw two readings, the first being passed by the council of 1906, was questioned, and until this point is settled, the petition is deferred to action.

The petition was accordingly sent to the council of 1906, which will secure the opinion of the solicitor.

No opposition was expressed to the vote of the people being given to the desire was shown to have nothing done that might cause any difficulty.

When the petition was read, Ald. Cooper, seconded by Ald. Carson, moved that the vote of the people be taken without the first and second reading of the council. He said that early in the year he thought it very unfair for the temperance people to ask members of the council to reduce the number of licenses, and the council should go to the people.

In amendment, Ald. Garratt moved that the petition be referred to No. 3 committee to secure the opinion of the city solicitor on the legality of giving a bylaw two readings this year, and leaving the third for the council of 1906.

Ald. Greenlee was disposed to say that the matter should go to the people. He said that the matter should go to the people. He said that the matter should go to the people.

Ald. Forriestall told the council and the deputation that the aldermen must be fair to all parties, and that they should look after the interests of any one class.

By crossing these zebras with the American horse it is proposed to create an entirely new breed of draft animals, which, it is believed, will excel in speed, strength and endurance every variety of the horse or mule which we have now in existence.

The experiments will be conducted at the Washington zoo, under the direction of Superintendent Baker, and the zoologists of the agricultural department. They will be watched with the greatest interest by zoologists and live stock men all over the world. The German colonies in Africa have been endeavoring to domesticate the zebra and use it for cross-breeding because it is proof against the tsetse fly, an African and has caused a great deal of trouble.

It is believed that a half-breed zebra will be as much immune from the tsetse fly as a full-bred animal, hence the experiment is considered worthy trying. The German authorities also hope to possess of a new animal, some beast of burden that can endure the climate of Central Africa, neither horses, mules, nor oxen thrive there. Carabans, or water buffalo, from the East Indies, endure the climate much better, but the zebra, which is a native of that zone, would be even more useful if it could be domesticated.

they had told the hotelmen that they must keep hotel and increase their accommodation for the public. It was well known that the city did not have too much hotel accommodation. Would it be fair now to come forward and cut off ten more licenses? He did not think so. If the temperance people were in earnest, why did they not come forward and start temperance houses, and risk their money, and then it would be possible to do away with licenses altogether? But, no. They had never done it in London, and Ald. Forriestall doubted very much if they might if the temperance people were as generous as others. A man, he said, who would spend a quarter over a bar would very frequently give 25 cents or $1 to help others along, whereas it might be the temperance people would not do the same.

The temperance people found a warm supporter in Ald. Wyatt, who raised his voice against the barroom. In reply to Ald. Forriestall, Ald. Wyatt said that the temperance people were generous, for it was their duty to support the charitable institutions of the city.

Mayor Campbell referred to the legal matter involved in the petition, and said there was ample time to refer the matter to committee to secure the solicitor's opinion. There was no question of the council voting to send the matter to the people. The point was whether it was legal to give the bylaw two readings this year. Ald. Greenlee had drawn attention to the council in 1890, but he said there was no reason why the council should do likewise this year. His worship wanted to have no mistakes made—no loopholes which might result in the whole thing being overturned.

Ald. Cooper opposed delaying the matter, and he pressed his motion to have the matter sent to the people without giving the bylaw a first and second reading.

This Mayor Campbell said, could not be done. It would require a notice of motion.

Ald. Greenlee said he would support a motion to send the question direct to the people, but if it was intended to first give the bylaw two readings he would favor having the solicitor's opinion. The council should not be asked to settle the matter.

Ald. Greenlee was of the same opinion as Ald. Cooper, and he pressed his motion to have the matter sent to the people without giving the bylaw a first and second reading.

The matter was carried, and the petition was referred to No. 3 committee. The council of 1906 will secure the opinion of the city solicitor on the legality of giving a bylaw two readings this year, and leaving the third for the council of 1906.

PRINCE A. N. Y. FURRIER

Cousin of King Peter of Serbia Passes Away in U. S. Metropolis.

New York, Nov. 7.—A prince of Serbia died in New York. He was a prince of Serbia. He was a prince of Serbia. He was a prince of Serbia.

On the black covered coffin that lies in the parlor at No. 200 East Eighty-second street is a large silver escutcheon with engraved on it the royal arms of Serbia, and this is inscribed beneath the blazoning:

CROSS ZEBRA AND HORSE

Hoped to Produce New Breed of Speedy Draft Animals.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Secretary Wilson and the officials of the bureau of animal industry of the agricultural department, with the co-operation of Dr. Frank Baker, superintendent of the National Zoological Park, are about to engage in the most curious zoological experiment that has ever undertaken by a government. The Germans are making preparations for a similar experiment, and the Congo Free State, in Africa, will also attempt it. Robert P. Skinner, United States consul-general at Marseilles, who was recently sent to Belgium to make a treaty with that Government, has obtained through the Ras Makonnen at Harar, Africa, a pair of Grevy zebra stallions. They are large, powerful animals, and are now on their way to Mr. Skinner's farm near New York. The department of state has been advised of the shipment.

By crossing these zebras with the American horse it is proposed to create an entirely new breed of draft animals, which, it is believed, will excel in speed, strength and endurance every variety of the horse or mule which we have now in existence.

The experiments will be conducted at the Washington zoo, under the direction of Superintendent Baker, and the zoologists of the agricultural department. MARKET PRICES

LOCAL MARKET.

London, Tuesday, Nov. 7.—The market today was a dull and uninteresting one, as there was not a great deal of small stuff offered. There was a change in prices of any note, excepting for oats, which advanced from 25 to 30 per cwt. In other lines prices were about stationary.

Grain—Oats were higher in price, at $1 to $1.05 per cwt.

Hay and straw—Hay was in good demand and prices were higher, at $7.75 to $8.50 per ton, nearly all the loads sold at $9 per ton. Straw was scarce today, there being only one load offered.

There were no changes in the prices of butter and eggs.

Potatoes sold mostly at 55c per bag; other vegetables steady, as quoted.

The 20 or so dressed hogs that were offered sold at $5 to $5.25 per cwt.

Poultry was in good demand; the market is easier and prices lower today; turkeys sold at 125c to 145c per lb., wholesale.

Butcher's Meats—Sales were slow and prices were inclined to be a shade easier, especially for lamb, which sold at 12c to 14c in 1905 and 10c to 12c in the carcass.

CHALMERS CHURCH CONCERT.

A large crowd gathered in Chalmers Presbyterian Church last evening, and an excellent programme was rendered by the following artists, who rendered solos: Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Misses Beers and Taylor, Messrs. Penny, Harding, and piano selection by Miss Mason and Mr. Steh. An excellent address was given by the Rev. Robert McIntyre, of Tempo, on "A Trip to the Old Land."

An excellent supper was provided in the lecture-room by the ladies, the tables being loaded with all kinds of dainties.

DEATH OF MRS. ALLAN BELL.

The many friends here of the Rev. Allan Bell, D.D., will learn with sincere sorrow of the death of his estimable wife, which occurred on Thursday last at her home at Florence, Colorado. The deceased lady was a daughter of Mr. Duncan Brown, of St. Marys. She leaves her husband and two sons and two daughters to mourn her loss.

About two years ago they removed to Florence, Colorado, believing that the change of climate would restore Mrs. Bell's health, which was declining. For a time improvement appeared, but it was not permanent, and her death occurred on Thursday last. She was much respected by all with whom she came in contact.

THE LATE CHARLES ALEXANDER

Mr. Charles Alexander, whose sudden death at Montreal on Sunday morning is announced today, was well known to some of the older residents of this city. Mr. Alexander, at the beginning of his business career, was associated with the late Henry Matthews, then a confectioner, and afterwards connected with the London Free Press. At that early day the young men did not think that London offered a field large enough for two confectioners, so they drew lots to see which should stay here and which should leave. It was Mr. Matthews's lot to remain in London, while Mr. Alexander pursued a successful career in Montreal. Mr. Alexander kept in close touch with his old friend and associate, and paid frequent visits to London.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

Rev. J. G. Stuart Is President of Lord's Day Alliance.

The annual meeting of the local Lord's Day Alliance was held yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. parlors. Very little business was transacted, aside from the election of officers for the ensuing year.

Rev. J. G. Stuart was elected president. The vice-president are: Messrs. W. Saunders, Alex. Fraser, George Robinson, Thomas McCormick, Rev. E. B. Lancelley was elected secretary, and Mr. George W. Armstrong, treasurer pro tem.

The members of the executive committee will be the ministers of the various churches of the city and one representative from each church of the city.

Revs. E. B. Lancelley and J. G. Stewart were appointed delegates to the Ontario convention, which meets in Toronto on Thursday next.

Lent and Motorman Mercer, and the latter turned on the power to make a run for safety. But Flexen ran past the car, and then Officer Smith was seen running westward. The motorman responded to his signals to stop, and Smith, jumping on the platform, ordered Mercer to back up so as to overtake the fugitive.

Bolted Again.

The motorman did so, and when Flexen saw that he was being overtaken he left the line of the railway and made for the river bank. Opposite to the place where he made the break for the last time the case stopped, and Smith jumped off, still in hot pursuit of his man.

"Look out, there he is," someone shouted.

Glancing in the direction indicated, Smith saw Flexen crouched down below the steep bank of the river. Nothing but his head was visible, and, thinking it was a fight to a finish, Smith advanced, and, taking aim, snapped the trigger. Flexen "ducked," but the precaution was unnecessary. The revolver was empty, and Smith realized that he was up against it. But he is not of the class of people who "quit" under any circumstances. He still kept his eye on his man, and, when the four women in the car lay prostrate on the floor, in fear of being hit in the battle which they thought would be sure to go on outside.

Flexen Surrenders.

The climax came when it was least expected. Suddenly Flexen, whose nerve and ammunition appeared to have given out, leaped on the bank and threw up his hands.

Seeing this Smith held the empty gun at him and ordered him to advance. When the people saw Flexen handed the revolver to Officer Green, who had caught up with the crowd, and at first he strenuously objected to having his hands manacled behind his back, but Smith, once he was near him, a boy continued to swear, howl and sing by turns for two or three hours.

Tribute to Officers.

Mr. W. T. Strong spoke in the highest terms of the conduct of the police officers.

"Officer Smith certainly proved himself every inch a policeman," he said. "I was proud of him. Though wounded, he continued to fight, and practically at the mercy of the scoundrel, he stayed right with him and ran him down. It was a piece of good work and one of great bravery. And for Officer Green I cannot say too much."

"The scene in the car reminded me of stories of holdups I had read when a boy, and I am glad to see Flexen running towards them with a smoking pistol in each hand, they thought of only one thing, and that was a holdup. The women screamed, and one lady fainted. They had just come from Woodland Cemetery, where they had been visiting the graves of deceased relatives, and they were all prepared for the terrific shock. We did all we could for the woman who fainted, but it was a long time before she recovered."

The Battle Outside.

Through the windows of the car we could see the police trying to shoot the desperado, and we every minute expected to hear a bullet from Flexen's revolver, come crashing through the windows. When the car stopped, the scene he carried a revolver which Flexen had dropped, and then we knew Flexen had but the one gun on him.

"When he surrendered, I held a gun directed local opposition is brought in to existence, the local option bylaws will carry in, perhaps, one-third of the constituencies."

The liquor men are advised to "secure the membership and active interest of every business man in the district having commercial relations with the trade, such as landlords, grocers, butchers, house-furnishers and the host of people with whom the license holder trades. Beyond these again there are always private citizens who are opposed to these fool laws and whose active sympathies can be enlisted by diplomatic procedure."

It is also important, says the Journal, that the chairman and officers of the opposition organization should be "persons other than licenseholders, that the campaign is in the public eye as a general issue rather than solely a licenseholders' battle for a personal existence."

Prevent Bylaws Being Introduced.

The next move is to "start right to work to prevent the bylaw being introduced and passed by the local council. A well-selected organization can bring strong pressure to bear on each councillor and pledges of opposition to the measure in council, in return for support of the candidate. His election can in most instances be readily obtained if skillfully handled."

They should also "submit to the council a list of names of persons who are opposed to the measure, and be in a position well armed to defeat it there."

Further, the Journal says: "Leave the Government and the trade free to go about their task of demonstrating what can be accomplished for temperance by the methods now adopted, and if, in say, three years, no improvement is shown, let straight prohibition be introduced and submitted to the electors for their decision. But in the name of common justice and public decency, stop the constant bravado and persecutions and leave us in peace to set our house in order."

"What inducements are offered to a licenseholder to keep his head if the investment of capital in improvements, and brains and energy in service, is made the annual football of these men? Better far, says the licenseholder, to make the 'bar' yield every possible dollar of revenue and ignore the law and policy of the Government. If there is to be no stability—they very properly say—the sooner the trade knows it the better, that they may govern themselves."

Raising the Funds.

"The licenseholders directly interested must personally head the contribution list for as large an amount possible, and the local merchants and interested property-owners must be induced to make up the balance of the sum necessary for the conduct of the campaign."

Incidentally it may not be amiss to point out the very obvious truth that a victory in council is decisive, whereas victory through the polling booth is always fraught with a delightful uncertainty."

Concluding, he says of the programme proposed, "this plan is adopted success is assured in nearly every case. Indifference and inaction are more to be feared than the vote of the licenseholder, and action will rob the agitator of any chance of carrying his scheme to a successful termination."

James Haveron, solicitor of the Licensed Victuallers' Association, stated at Toronto yesterday that he would appear before a good many of the municipal councils, and said that the liquor men did not as a rule do much talking, but they would be actively at work during the next two months.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

BLANCHE WALSH TONIGHT.

Blanche Walsh, without doubt the most powerful emotional actress on the American stage today, will bring her latest and greatest success, "The Woman in the Case," by Clyde Fitch, author of "The Climbers" and "The Moth and the Flame" to the Grand Opera House this evening. Although the play has an intensely dramatic, almost melodramatic plot, the character Miss Walsh assumes is one of those radiant queens of American social life which are the admiration of even the most prejudiced foreigner. Mr. Fitch has, however, made use of this feminine type in such a way that illustrates something more than her mere physical attractiveness. He places her in such a way as to bring home to us the qualities of heart and intellect in no less a degree. Managers Wagnalls and Kemper have been complimented with much enthusiasm for the way in which the play has been staged, and local players are assured that the production will be seen here precisely as presented during its four months' run at the Herald Square Theater, New York, and its recent engagement at the Madison Square Theater, in that city.

"HIS LAST DOLLAR."

"His Last Dollar," or the romance of a Kentucky gentleman, will be the attraction at the Grand on Thursday evening next. The piece concerns Joe Braxton, who has followed life as a jockey, cowboy and ranch owner, and finally enters the mecca of Wall Street. Through the machinations of a scheming broker he is thrust upon the wall

BILL AT BENNETT'S

Some Very Pleasant Acts Are Offered This Week.

The feature of the bill at Bennett's this week is the musical act put on by Prof. Stevens' splendid orchestra. The orchestra go on the stage attired in the most ludicrous costumes, and play in keeping with the clothes they wear. And then they play in their well-known accomplished manner at the conclusion of the act. The idea was originated by Prof. Stevens and it is certainly a good one.

The Sa Vans, the wonderful comedy acrobats, are back again, as are also Edna and Stevens, in "Wistaria Bower," and both make good. The musical act of Stewart and Raymond is fine, but the German comedy work of Howard and Libber is well treated when it is termed fair. Mr. Dwyer, who has been heard in London before, sings a couple of illustrated songs in a very entertaining manner.

The moving pictures this week are first-class.

In Belgium the law of December 13, 1889, provides that children must have one full day of rest each week, while in the Netherlands Sunday rest is commanded for women and children by the law of March 5, 1890, and by virtue of the law of March 1, 1815, no government work is done on Sunday.
