Son of Wealthy Chicago Man Held Under $25,000 Bonds in Connection With the Death of a Former Wingham Woman.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—The mystery in connection with the death of Fanny Gilmore Thompson, the Canadian woman who was found murdered in a house on Michigan avenue in July, seems to be nearing a solution. Luman C. Mann, son of a wealthy resident of Oak Park, has been positively identified as the purchaser of the room in which the murder took place. The police say Mann has been identified by one of the tenants of the house in which the murder took place as the companion of the victim. When he was arrested a watch said to belong to the murdered woman and a key to the door of the death chamber were found in Mann's possession. The accused protests his innocence, and declares he is able to prove an alibi.

J. M. THOMSON

Teddy Bear Winners.

The following girls and boys won Teddy Bears at Bennett's Vaudeville Theatre on Saturday: Florence Brener, Gregory Harnwick, Bartman, Marion Davis, Chester Hicks, Lillian Nee, Marguerite Blake, Lillian King and several others whose names could not be learned.

Saturday next a handsome hobby-horse, with real saddle and bridle, which may be removed at will, will be given away to some lucky child. The horse is as big as a small Shetland pony, and is a beauty.

A Good Bill.

The bill at Bennett's this week is a good novelty bill, and furnishes excellent entertainment for theatregoers. It differs considerably from that of last week, but it is just as good.

The headliner position belongs to the Piroscotts troupe, a European novelty act of more than usual excellence. The troupe consists of three men and two women, and they juggle almost everything from chairs to small houses. There are many novelties introduced which to be appreciated must be seen. There have been many acts of this nature shown in London, but none with the finish and dash that this one boasts of. The feats of juggling are thrilling, and place the act as one of compelling interest.

This act is worthy of a top place on any bill in America, and is a real sensation.

The man who wrote "Laugh and the world laughs with you," must have heard Lotta Gladstone before he wrote it, for when she laughs everybody else does the same.

She simply throws back her head, and gives freedom to the most contagious laugh heard here in years. As a killer of that sad feeling it is a wonder.

Fourteen of Seventeen for Liberals Defeat Ahead for Leader Borden

Nova Scotia Certain to Stand by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 12.—Halifax Liberals are confident that Nova Scotia will send at the very least fourteen Liberals out of eighteen representatives to the next Canadian Parliament, and even the four seats are not conceded, but are deemed uncertainties, with Liberal chances at least equal to Conservative.

Conservatives, on the other hand, claim advice warrant the belief that victory in Nova Scotia for them is in sight. They claim six seats theirs beyond a question of a doubt, and concede the Liberals the same number. This leaves six to be fought for, and Conservatives look to win at least three of them, and they calculate getting all four seats in Prince Edward Island, where they now have three.

Conservative Hopes.
Colchester and Cape Breton Counties are two of those in this province the Conservatives look upon as certainly theirs, but the Liberals promise a great fight in both. In Halifax the Liberals feel confident of re-electing their two men, Roche and Carney, but the Conservatives look upon the election of the Catholic member of their ticket, Mayor Crosby, as a certainty, and hold that R. L. Borden, the Conservative leader, will be elected with him.

May Defeat Borden.
Independent opinion seems to be that Mr. Borden, who has not been in Halifax much of late, stands a good chance of defeat in this constituency. Mayor Crosby is a strong candidate in the city, but the outside county may offset this strength. As no elections have been run on the present lists, and there has been an increase of 2,000 city voters since the previous election, the uncertainty is greater than ever, so far as the city is concerned.

Mr. W. W. Rutherford at Aylmer Statement to East Elgin Electors

Read by the Liberal Candidate on Saturday Night.

A statement read by Mr. W. W. Rutherford, the Liberal candidate, at the meeting at Aylmer Saturday night was as follows:

"While in Vienna, preparatory to a public campaign meeting, I had a public message to say that a public meeting had been called in the town hall tonight for the purpose of considering a circular letter that has recently been placed in the hands of every East Elgin elector. I had not then seen the letter in question, but shortly afterwards it came into my hands. In it I found that I was asked a series of four questions, two of which, or rather one and a half, are legitimate questions, asked for information and bearing, though remotely, on the campaign.

"The other questions concern my private opinion, and are asked not for information, but for insinuation, subtly devised in legal method to place me in an unfavorable light with the electors.

"Now, in my campaign hitherto, I have persistently refrained from resorting to personalities, or in any way casting reflection upon the character of my opponent. Even now I would not condescend from personal motives to adopt a different method were it not that the interests of my party and of justice demanded it. It is always easy to play the innocent injured, and this appeal to the public always easily aroused sympathy with the unjustly treated.

"My object is simply to respond to my opponent's request, and to answer, in as far as I consider an answer due, the questions proposed, or rather the insinuations implied in the questions.

"In the first place I may say that I must, of course, accept the statement made in this letter by Mr. Marshall, though I cannot help but feel that it would have been more charitable on his part to have contented himself with simply disclaiming any connection with the Hepburn plot and to have refrained from thus publicly insinuating that I was a party to a plot against him until he at least had some grounds for his suspicions.

"Without further remarks to Mr. Marshall's first question, which reads 'thing to do with the publication of that article in the Globe, directly or indirectly?' I answer emphatically and unreservedly, I had no connection, directly or indirectly, with the publication of the article in question when he was in Aylmer. I do not know him even by sight. I did not know he was in town, and knew absolutely nothing about the publication of the article. This then is that straight denial of any and all connection with the matter which Mr. Marshall, in his second last paragraph, demands.

With reference to those questions, or parts of questions, which concern my private opinion, I do not recognize Mr. Marshall's right to make them. They are not pertinent. They are so evasive in setting, of no help to the electors, and of no help to the public. I might, however, say this, that if he with all his influence in our town, found himself unable to check proceedings in the plot against Mr. Hepburn, surely I, a negligible quantity, a man, as my opponents are so eager to insinuate, of no influence whatever, could not be expected to stop proceedings which in no sense partook of the nature of a plot, but was merely an investigation into the plot against Mr. Hepburn.

With reference to this investigation, while I strongly disapproved of the publicity in the matter, it was, and is still my wish, as surely it must be that of every honest man who loves British fair play, to arrive at the absolute truth. While there is the

It merely means that one deposits a certain amount—any sum over $100—with this Company for a period of time, not less than one year, preferably five years, or less if desired. The debenture form which the depositor receives is a promise of the Company to pay the sum mentioned, plus the interest, at 4 per cent. per annum at the time of expiration. This promise is secured by over $11,000,000 of assets. The interest coupons attached are the same as cash and can be deposited as such. ## ANOTHER "SCANDAL" PETERS OUT.

One of the pet "scandals" of Conservative orators and organs in the present campaign is labelled "Robbins." It has been advertised as a choice sample of official graft by Mr. Borden and his touring companions in the eastern provinces and by Mr. Ames in the west, but it is a significant fact that in Medicine Hat, where the people are most deeply concerned about irrigation, and where the operations of the Robbins Company are to be carried on, Conservative speakers are silent on the subject.

So well does Mr. C. A. Magrath, the Conservative candidate in Medicine Hat, know the opinion of the people whose support he is seeking, that instead of speaking of it as a "scandal," he openly praises the Robbins Irrigation Company transaction as a wise and statesmanlike act on the part of the Government, and a great development project.

But that is not all. The city council, board of trade and agricultural society of Medicine Hat have all passed strong resolutions memorializing the Minister of the Interior to grant such further concessions as the Robbins Irrigation Company desires. The resolution of the first-named body declares that, owing to semi-arid conditions prevailing in the Medicine Hat district, and the uncertainty of the rainfall during the season when it is most required, the vast unoccupied lands surrounding the city can never be brought under cultivation until some practical system is put into operation by which the abundant flow of water from the Rocky Mountains can be conserved, and held by a system of reservoirs and basins located at various points over the highlands throughout the district, and distributed over the lowlands by a system of lateral canals.

To the claim of opponents of the project that it will close up large tracts of land that otherwise would be available for homesteading, the Medicine Hat city council replies that "possessing intimate knowledge of the country, embraced in the scheme, we have no hesitation in saying, and we challenge contradiction, that the land is valueless for other than grazing purposes, without a guaranteed supply of water, and that the company has already expended in the neighborhood of $100,000 in preliminary surveys, drilling, etc." The resolution urges the Government to grant any reasonable concessions to the company, so that it may be able to bring about a speedy consummation, and to put in practical operation its irrigation enterprise, which is of such vital importance to intending settlers in the district.

The resolution of the Medicine Hat Agricultural Society reads:

"That owing to the almost complete failure of the crops by drought in this whole district, we would respectfully urge upon the Government the speedy completion of the South Alberta Land Company, Limited—i. e., the Robbins Company—'which would give employment to men and teams, and further that we consider that the land is utterly worthless for anything but grazing, unless a plentiful supply of water can be had for irrigation."

To bring this semi-arid land under cultivation was the object of the Government in entering in to an agreement with the Robbins Company. By that agreement the company is allowed to purchase 280,000 acres of land at $1 per acre; but not one acre can be purchased until the company has irrigated one-quarter of the entire area at an outlay of $1,000,000. The basic principle of the enterprise is that $1,000,000 must be spent by the company upon land which is at present useless, and after that has been done it has the privilege of buying 280,000 acres made valuable by the expenditure of its own money, at the price of $1 per acre. The project was entered

The Public Domain; Records Compared

Conservatives Gave Millions of Acres to Corporations—Liberals Hold Land for the Settler Only.

The Liberals have always advocated that the land should be given to the settler and not to the railway company. This policy has been literally carried out. What a contrast to the days when the Conservatives were in power. In eighteen years the Conservative Government voted to railway corporations

56,087,072 Acres

In twelve years the Liberals voted to railway corporations

Not One Acre

In eighteen years the Conservatives alienated 56,087,072 acres, which were earned, that is, the Government lost entire control of them. They disposed of lands absolutely to SPECULATORS, AND OTHERWISE THAN TO SETTLERS, TO THE EXTENT OF 31,500,000 ACRES.

The total quantity of land which they gave to actual settlers in the same period for homestead and pre-emption was less than

9,952,840 Acres

Altogether the Liberal Government, while not giving one acre to a railway corporation, has disposed of 2,000,000 acres otherwise than to actual settlers. This includes 500,000 acres to an irrigation company, which must spend $1,000,000 on the property and then pay $1 an acre. Also 250,000 acres to the Saskatchewan Valley Land Company, which of itself was the best operation in land the Government ever entered upon. It includes all the half-breed scrip and a few sales that could hardly be included in sales to individual settlers.

To the actual settler and homesteader in individual amounts of 160 acres or thereabouts, the Liberal Government has given in twelve years in round figures

35,501,600 Acres

Compare the following tables, being the history of the Conservative Government for eighteen years, and the history of the Liberal Government for twelve years:

HOMESTEADS UNDER CONSERVATIVE RULE.

Then examine this table and see the exact performance of the Liberal pledge to keep the lands for the settler:

Or 35,501,600 Acres

What becomes of the Conservative argument that the land has been alienated at ridiculous prices to speculators? The men on these homesteads are the factors contributing to the great crops of the west, and the wealth of the Dominion.

Is not this ample vindication of the claim that the Liberal Government promised the land for the settler, AND THE SETTLER GOT IT? Is not satisfactory proof that the pledge to the people to keep the land for the settler HAS BEEN AMPLY AND FAITHFULLY REDEEMED?

In face of these actual figures what becomes of the taunt that the Liberal Government has been unfaithful to their pre-election pledges?

The public domain of Canada belongs to the people, and the Liberal Government recognizes this. The very fact that the people of the west are now extending canals, and more and better shipping facilities, is monumental evidence that the Liberal Government have placed THE PEOPLE ON THE LAND, and the public improvements called for are the natural consequences of this in the proper demand for the wherewithal to move the enormous crops which have resulted.

A crop in sight of 150,000,000 bushels, thousands of harvesters being hurried across the continent, a frenzied call for grain cars, and steamers accommodated on the great lakes, demand for more and greater elevators, all have the same story that THE LAND WAS GIVEN TO THE SETTLER, AND HE IS MAKING GOOD USE OF IT.

Into the ordinary course of business, the sole intention being to secure development of that section of the west.

As in this case, so with others of the Opposition "scandals." When traced home they turn out to be without foundation in fact, and part of an organized slander campaign.

OPPOSED TO A GREAT NATIONAL WORK.

If the utterances of Conservative papers and politicians are to be taken seriously, the Conservative party would, were it to gain power, undo or imperil what has been accomplished by the Government towards the construction of the National Transcontinental Railway.

During the last session of Parliament Mr. Haggart, the Conservatives' railway expert, declared against the eastern section of the road, and recently Mr. Colla H. Campbell, a prominent western Conservative, asserted that the whole line from Lake Superior to Prince Rupert is not needed, and that "there is no hope of the Grand Trunk Pacific ever being anything but a dead loss to the people whose money built it."

It is thus clear that the Conservatives are as hostile as ever to this great national project, and that if returned to power it is possible they would at once stop such construction work as is now being carried on, and perhaps substitute Mr. Borden's so-called "alternative scheme," which makes a line nearly 300 miles longer between Winnipeg and Halifax than the line which the Government has projected. Construction east from Winnipeg is as yet advanced no further than the junction point with the branch to Lake Superior, and all the mileage so far constructed could be made to fit in with the Borden "alternative," the main object of which, it becomes more and more evident, is to secure the Canadian Pacific from transcontinental competition.

But the Canadian electorate recognizes the great need of a highway such

THE GOD-GIVEN CURE FOR ALL DISEASES OF BOWELS, LIVER, KIDNEYS AND SKIN.

Few people seem to realize how important—how absolutely necessary—it is to keep the Bowels, Kidneys and Skin in proper working order. They wonder why they have Sallow Complexions, Indigestion, Headaches, Rheumatism, while all the time their systems are clogged and poisoned with waste tissue and indigestible food which these organs should have removed.

What they need are Fruit Juices—nature's provision for keeping the eliminating machinery of the body working right. "Fruit-a-tives" are the concentrated juices of fresh, ripe fruits, combined in such a way that their medicinal action is greatly intensified. They stimulate and regulate the action of Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Skin, thus clearing the system of the accumulated waste and poison, purifying the blood, and banishing those distressing troubles that make life miserable.

No other remedy has ever been discovered that does this so effectively as "Fruit-a-tives." Fifty cents a box of 6 boxes for $2.50. Trial size, 25 cents. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

No one ever questioned Mr. Foster's ability as a phrase-maker. "Turn on the Tap!"

To change the subject, has the Forest City ever looked lovelier in her autumn livery?

Every Forester ought to feel it a bounden duty to chase Mr. Foster into the woods on polling day.

Our city contemporary is still an ardent advocate of filtered mud for drinking. In the political field it gives us the mud in its native state.

"The Government is grossly extravagant! Give my town a postoffice!" This was the argument of a score of Opposition members in the last House.

Politicians in this city and elsewhere who have been in the habit of carrying the Calgary Eye-Opener in their inside pockets and showing salacious bits to party friends, are not much superior to the author of the stuff.

The Conservative candidate in West Middlesex is an amusing tyro. He is crying for lower railway taxation, which is the business of the Whitney Government. If Mr. McLaughlin doesn't know this he doesn't know enough to be sent to parliament.

Some of the Opposition factory editors sneer at Hon. George Graham for presuming to discuss railway problems after graduating from an editor's chair. It is barely possible that Mr. Graham, after a year of constant study of railway questions and of contact with the working Intercolonial, knows more about the matter than the chaps who are flinging ink at him.

Men's lives should be open books. So their good wives expect; And they seem to check each page Should represent a check.

PHLEGMATIC BRITON.

[Punch.] Impatient American (after an hour's pause)—Say, guard, what in thunder are we waiting for? What time'd we pull out, anyway? Guard (who has survived two generations of hustlers)—That all depends, sir. American—Depends on what? Guard—Judicially—Ah, sir, that again depends!

CONCLUSIVE ARGUMENT.

[Wasp.] "Never," groaned the picture dealer, "never try to argue a woman into believing that she ought to pay a bill when she thinks otherwise. I tried it this morning—presented a bill for some stuff ordered two months ago. Here was the irrefragable logic: "I never ordered any pictures." "If I did, you never delivered them." "If you did, I never got them." "If I did, I paid for them." "If I didn't, I must have had some good reason for it." "And if I had, of course I won't pay."

IN A LOSING GAME.

Premier Robin has lost his voice. But he first lost his temper. He has a sore throat. But what people noticed before that was his sore head.

A STATESMAN!

[Winnipeg Free Press.] The Montreal Star says that the Conservative party has stultified itself by nominating Mr. T. M. Daly, "thus calling back to the memories of those who lived through the 'scandal' session of 1897, one of the most open, aggressive and insulting obstructionists who ever fought a parliamentary committee. It was Mr. Daly's pleasing habit, when the Oppositionist questioners failed to elicit a fact from a Government witness which they were plainly after, to taunt them in open committee with such remarks as 'Oh, you are in the soup.' The Montreal Star might easily have made a collection from Hansard of similarly statesmanlike utterances by Mr. Daly as minister of the Interior.

INACCURATELY REPORTED.

[Lippincott.] In one of his burlesque sketches on English history, Bill Nye spoke of Julius Caesar jumping into the water as he approached the English coast, wading ashore, running up to London and walking through Regent street. "An acquaintance of mine told me," said Mr. Nye, "that he had asked an Englishman how he liked the story. 'Not at all, not at all,' was the reply. 'That fellow Nye doesn't know what he's talking about. There wasn't any Regent street, then, you know.'"

[Toronto Star.] What with the Canadian banks importing Scotch bank clerks, and Canadian churches importing Scotch missionaries, the impression strengthens that the Scotch must be a saving people.

A NATURAL THOUGHT.

[Boston Transcript.] An Englishman, witnessing his first baseball game, was struck by a hot one off the bat. On coming to, he asked faintly, "What was it?" "A foul," they told him; "only a foul." "My word!" he exclaimed, "I thought it was a naut!"

ELECTORS OF SOUTH PERTH

Committee Work.

He referred to his work on the special committee appointed to deal with patent and proprietary medicines, which had resulted in useful legislation for the protection of the citizens of Canada. He had also acted on the special committee appointed to deal with the alleged lumber combine in the west. This committee had thoroughly investigated the matter, and had reported to the House, and the result of their investigations the combine was broken up, and some of those engaged in it were brought to account.

"I have not believed nor do I yet believe that the Senate should be abolished," said Mr. McIntyre, "but there are many incongruities and abuses which I believe should be removed. I brought the matter up in the House, and some improvements were suggested and carried out. Later in the session, at the request of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, I again brought the matter up. A discussion of considerable length followed, and the matter became so important that the Senate took it up, and it was discussed there. As a result there was some improvement in the Upper House. However, the desired results were not all obtained, but progress had been made, and will eventually lead to reform. Mr. Borden was so impressed with the progress made that he embodied in his Halifax platform practically the results of our discussion. Sir Wilfrid Laurier as in 1893, is still in favor of changing the Senate to bring it to the ideal state we have in mind. If the Liberals are returned to power, it will be again taken up and a solution will be found."

"I was elected as a supporter of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and have been such for the four years I have been in the House. Since that time I have listened to all the debates and have followed the course of legislation closely, and I have found nothing to destroy my allegiance to the party. I favored rural free mail delivery, even if it should be at its inception, crude and imperfect. The Laurier Government was in favor of it, and when the details were arranged it was at once introduced. It will be a great boon to Canada, and a forward step in legislation. The postal department has always been our special pride. In spite of the fact that the Laurier Administration has lowered the postage to half what it formerly was, we have always had a surplus, this year amounting to million dollars. The Government was not satisfied with that. They wanted to take a forward step, and we now have rural free mail delivery. The principle has been adopted and put into practice. It will improve conditions of rural life, and bring the people of the country into closer touch with the rest of the people. That is one reason why the Laurier Government has appealed to me. 'The Laurier Administration appealed to me because of the old age annuities' law. This act is to encourage men to lay by as they go, and the Government has instituted the annuities for such purposes. It is not a dolo, paid out by the Government, but a man's right. A citizen may have done splendid service for his country, and in his old age have nothing at all. There is nothing quite so pitiful as a penniless old man. For such cases the Government has instituted the annuities' act. Not many of them have been taken up, but in the future it will be a great thing for the people of Canada."

The Lord's Day Act.

Mr. McIntyre declared the Laurier Government appealed to him because of the enactment of the Lord's Day act. Although it would not seem so on the surface, the Lord's Day act was one of the most difficult he had ever seen passed in the House. There were so many interests to consider, so many viewpoints, that it seemed as if the bill would be wrecked. With great tact and diplomacy Sir Wilfrid had put the measure through. It guaranteed to the workman a day of rest, and also assures a quiet and peaceful Sabbath to all classes.

Capital and Labor.

The Laurier Government appealed to him for its successful endeavor to allay the feeling between capital and labor. The Government was not iconoclastic, desiring to destroy capital and by so doing destroy labor, but it had gone quietly and sincerely about solving the great problem. The Laurier act was the result. It was not perfect. It was crude in many ways, but up to the present it had prevented 90 per cent of the strikes threatening, and had produced a better feeling generally between the employer and the employee.

Imperial Questions.

The Government appealed to him because of its attitude to Imperial questions. The loyalty of Canada has increased since the advent of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Government. The British preference not only lowered the tariff but captured the sentiment of the old land. It was a generous act and has resulted in much better treatment of Canada than if the Government had approached the British people in a bargaining spirit. It was responsible for increased interest in the Dominion, and a larger immigration.

The speaker referred to the colonial conference, in which the Premier took so distinguished a part. The sending of the contingent to South Africa was a master stroke, although some supercilious persons had found fault with the Government because it had not acted sooner in the matter. There was no precedent to go by. Mr. McIntyre pointed out, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier had been sure of his ground. Within three days after war had been declared by Kruger, the offer of a contingent was made to Great Britain.

The Government appealed to him because of its record. Mr. McIntyre compared conditions at the present time with the conditions prevailing prior to 1896. It required no figures, no statistics, to prove that the country was prosperous, that it had grown and developed. It needed no figures to prove that trade had grown wonderfully; every factory in the country was eloquent of that fact. It also required no proof to show that domestic trade had increased by leaps and bounds during the Liberal regime. The Conservatives cannot get away from the fact and they assert that the Liberals stole their policy, and that is the reason the country is so prosperous.

"Even granting that the Liberals used their tools," continued Mr. McIntyre, "would he be wise to turn out a Government that knows how to use them to the advantage of Canada, and put in its place a party that for eighteen years made practically no use of them at all? We have not taken their policy. We have a policy of our own, and that has resulted in unparalleled prosperity. It would be unwise to make a change and break the chain of continuity of progress."

Mr. McIntyre regretted the low level of the present campaign. It was usual at election time to hear great principles expounded, and hear great issues discussed. The Opposition had abandoned apparently all efforts at criticizing the policy of the Laurier Government. It has not even espoused the Halifax platform, but has turned its attention altogether to departmental expenditure. The scandal issue is paramount. Such campaigns as this were calculated to develop enmities and engender bitter feelings. The

It required no figures, no statistics, to prove that the country was prosperous, that it had grown and developed. It needed no figures to prove that trade had grown wonderfully; every factory in the country was eloquent of that fact. Mr. McIntyre regretted the low level of the present campaign. It was usual at election time to hear great principles expounded, and hear great issues discussed. The Opposition had abandoned apparently all efforts at criticizing the policy of the Laurier Government. It has not even espoused the Halifax platform, but has turned its attention altogether to departmental expenditure. The scandal issue is paramount. Such campaigns as this were calculated to develop enmities and engender bitter feelings. The Opposition had the choice of battle ground, and as they had chosen this ground, the Government could do nothing more than defend itself from such attacks. However, he would not say that every dollar of the Government's money had been spent wisely. There have been times when, perhaps, too much was paid for pemmican. He was surprised that a man of Mr. Borden's undoubted ability should spend so much of his time in discussing the price of a few pounds of pemmican when the whole length and breadth of the Halifax platform was before him, giving him scope for his abilities.

"I have heard the debates in the House, and the Opposition has looked at every question from the one angle—to see if out of it they could not draw an inference, or make an insinuation. I have given these so-called scandals my closest attention and I cannot see any wrongdoing."

The speaker dealt with the Election Act as showing the sort of criticism the Conservatives indulged in. In the act a clause had been introduced to the effect that if a ballot had been marked distinctly by the voter, it was valid no matter what marks the deputy returning officer might put on it. When this was brought down the Conservatives objected strenuously. They declared that it was an encouragement to deputies to mark ballots to tell how a man voted. The debate waxed hotter and hotter until one day a Liberal member got up in the House and read the identical clause in the election act of Sir James Whitney. They had not noticed it. As a result there has not been a word about the "scandal."

Mr. McIntyre also instanced the visit of Hon. Mr. Brodeur as another case in point. Mr. Brodeur had to go to England on important business, and his going was announced. There was no appropriation for the trip, so the expenses were paid out of the contingencies fund, to be brought up in the House later. Mr. Foster worked himself into a great fury over the question and it appeared as if another "scandal" would be unearthed. However, an Inquisitive Liberal member looked up Hansard one day, and found there that Mr. Foster had done the same thing when finance minister. Since that time Mr. Foster has not dealt with that "scandal."

The Arctic Expedition.

The speaker spoke of the Arctic expedition, spending some time in discussing its equipment, which he said, was proper under the circumstances, and patterned after similar expeditions in the United States and Great Britain. There was a charge that the price of pemmican was too

A BID FOR A BRIDE

By BLANCHE EARDLEY

Author of "Kitty Bell—Actress," "The Lady Killer," Etc.
All Rights Reserved.

She shrugged her shoulders when she was sitting in a hansom on her way back to Park Lane. This man, rough, simple colonial as he was, interested her immensely. She had met him twice before the day that Clifford Hawke had seen them together in Piccadilly, and because she had hated the financier as bitterly as he, they had struck up a bond of strange friendship, and though he had not revealed fully her suspicion about Clifford Hawke, he had confirmed her suspicion about the former wife in the past. She had not mentioned her real reason for asking—that she had seen Clifford Hawke start at the sight of a faded canvas.

In the meantime Paul Steinway—"Mr. Smith"—waited till it was dark, and then went out for a walk. During his brief stay in Clifford Hawke's office he had used his brains to some purpose, and had, by buying certain shares and selling them again, made a comfortable sum of money, and the unexpected opportunity he had had of effecting himself had suggested a new and more subtle form of revenge against the man who by now was probably congratulating himself upon being free from fear of the past.

As he strolled along the Fulham road wondering what it was that had made Isobel Frant, the society lady, seek him out and urge him on to crush Clifford Hawke, there was a sudden cry from a girl who stood in the middle of the road, hesitating in the midst of the throng of traffic. It was the work of a moment to dash forward and draw her on to the kerb, and as she turned to thank him he dropped her arm and stared at her stupidly.

"Who—who are you, girl?" he said thickly, "tell me your name quickly."

"My name is Lottie Bond," she said with quiet dignity. "I don't understand why you should ask me."

He flushed suddenly. "I beg your pardon," he said hastily. "You remind me of someone I once knew. I saw her last when she was a girl like you. But you must let me put you in a cab, he went on. 'You are trembling all over. I am afraid you are shaken.'"

"Please, I would rather go in a bus," she replied. "Don't trouble about me."

He smiled gravely. "I must. For the sake of that someone you remind me of I must see that you run no further risk of being hurt."

As he put her in the hansom he had hailed, he glanced at her again. There was something peculiarly fascinating in the sweet face in its frame of light brown hair, and the wistful blue eyes stirred him, strangely. She was poor, but neatly dressed, and he wondered whether he would ever see her again.

"Where shall I tell the man to go to?" he said.

"Vincent Buildings, Westminster," she replied, then added, "and thank you very much."

He held out his hand. "May I post that letter for you? It will save you the trouble."

She gave him the letter with a little smile. "Thank you. You won't forget it, will you? It is very important."

As the cab drove off Paul Steinway glanced after it thoughtfully.

"Vincent Buildings, Westminster, and her name is Lottie Bond," he murmured. "When I saw her I thought it was Alys Tennant, that blackguard Hawke's first wife, come back from the grave after twenty years! Then he glanced at the letter in his hand. 'I'll post this at once; the poor little girl must be writing for a billet.'"

He looked casually at the address as he slipped it into a neighboring pillar box, then uttered an exclamation. It was addressed to "Mrs. Clifford Hawke, Hotel Ritz, Paris."

"What has this girl to do with Clifford Hawke's second wife," he muttered. "Was it something stronger than accident that made me meet her tonight?"

CHAPTER XIX.

The Man With the Scar.

In the pretty little Devonshire town of Paignton, Mr. Wellington Scaw was enjoying himself hugely. The sea was delightful, and he used to sit on the pier sometimes and shudder at the thought of returning to Scotland Yard and his duties there. But he had little time to complete his inquiries in Paignton, and now, seated in the shade of one of the many covered little shelters on the front, he took out his notebook and glanced through it thoughtfully, coming the items to himself in an audible voice.

"A Mrs. Ford and her baby stayed at No. 10, Freeman street, for two years. She was a widow and lived a quiet life, seeing no visitors and going nowhere, and telling no one about herself."

He turned the page and went on in the same manner.

"Once a man called to see Mrs. Ford, a tall dark man. He stayed three days in the place, and it was noticed that Mrs. Ford was very sad for some time afterwards, and from that time she wore black."

Then he took out of the pocket of the book a folded sheet of paper. It was a birth certificate, and stated that a female child had been christened at the church of St. John, on December the sixth, eighteen eighty-eight, and the name of the child was Carlotta."

Mr. Scaw folded the paper and put it back into the pocket book, then he sat and gazed out to the sea.

"Then the girl should be about nineteen if she is. I should very much like to know what became of her eventually. The mother left these parts when the child was two years old and left no trace behind her, it seems. I am tracing her—if I ever do. It's a pity all those letters were stolen from Mr. Tennant; it would have been easier to discover the mysterious Mrs. Ford, whose name might be anything."

Presently he rose and strolled along the pier, and then, after having exhausted the attractions to be found there, he left it for the now almost solitary beach. He had struck up an acquaintance with an old fisherman who had a cottage close by, and his steps took him that way almost unconsciously. The old man, whose name was Peter Crane, was about the oldest inhabitant of Paignton, and though he cultivated the old "salt" for his own sake, Mr. Scaw also had an eye to his business.

As he near the cottage, Peter Crane came out and greeted him cheerfully.

"Anything exciting?" the detective said, taking out his cigar case and handing it to his old companion.

"Some yes, and some not; but one thing stands out as clear as clear, even now after all those years."

"What was that? A wreck?" queried Mr. Scaw carelessly.

"No, not a wreck, sir, but an accident to a private party that at the time I was inclined to believe was meant to be a murder," the old gossip answered.

The light sprang suddenly into the detective's eyes. "A murder!" he exclaimed, "how did it happen?"

"It was high on twenty years ago now, sir, but I can recollect it as plain as plain even now. I was in charge of some boats on the beach, and one day in the summer a gentleman and lady hired one of the boats from me, and the gentleman refused to let me go out with them, as he said he could manage it himself. About a couple of hours afterwards I grew anxious about them, when the boat didn't turn up, and set out in another boat in search of them."

He paused and wiped his mouth reflectively. "Well, I found the boat lying keel upwards, and quite close by some rocks that the tide was quickly covering, I found the lady unconscious—but the gentleman had vanished."

The detective stared at him wonderingly. "Vanished? How on earth do you make that out?"

"I don't know, sir; I only know that the gentleman was not to be seen, and the lady and the boat had disappeared. To my mind it looked as though it had been a purpose. The rocks were slippery, and she might have fallen; but it was a blow that had knocked her down, and it struck me that the gentleman had meant to kill her."

Mr. Scaw was silent. In the old sailor's story he saw a sudden possibility in connection with his own quest.

"I suppose it's so long ago that you don't remember what the couple were like?" he said presently.

"The lady was very young and fair, and the gentleman was tall and dark. But I'm wasting your time, sir," he went on. "I can't leave off when once I begin."

"I am very much interested," the detective said quickly. "Do you know if the gentleman was ever found?"

The old man shook his head. "No, sir, I don't; his body was never washed ashore in these parts, and I've allus 'ad strong ideas as he was never drowned! The poor young lady got better, but to all questions she would say she couldn't remember, and shortly after she left the place, and the whole thing was forgotten. I've not talked about it since, sir."

Mr. Scaw drew a coin from his pocket. "You must be thirsty after our long conversation, and I should like a little mild refreshment myself. Can we get anything about here?"

"If you'll accept what I've got in my little place, sir, you're welcome; there's not much, but what there is is all right."

As they entered the cottage Mr. Scaw put down the coin on the table, where the old man would find it after he had gone, and then, seeing he was gazing wistfully at the paper that was sticking out of his pocket, he drew it out and handed it to him.

"This is the London Daily Reformer. Would you care to have it? It is illustrated."

The old man seized on it eagerly. "Thank you, sir, I don't often get the London papers."

As Mr. Scaw turned to pick up his drink, he heard an excited cry come from his host, who was gazing at the sheet of the paper with amazement in his weather-beaten old face.

"What is it?" the detective said. "Found a missing relation?"

"I don't know, sir. I'm fairly mottled and puzzled, but if this 'ere chap isn't the living image of him what we was just talkin' about a few moments ago, I could eat my fat."

The detective looked over his shoulder. There was a group of illustrations, and he could see no particular one that could have reminded the old man of his conversation.

Presentation to a Former Londoner

The Aylmer Express says of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Learn, of that place:

A great surprise awaited Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Learn upon their return on Saturday afternoon last from a visit to Mr. Learn's brother, at Vassar, Mich., and other friends in different parts of the state. No sign of what friends had arranged in honor of their home-coming and in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding was visible as the travellers reached the house, but a sudden change of appearance which a house untenanted for some weeks would ordinarily present, they were received most cordially by some thirty of their friends in the living room, where cheerful fire, shaded light and a general scheme of decorations lent an added charm to the greetings. After the home-coming had removed the signs of travel, a very tempting repast was served in the dining-room, also beautifully decorated and lighted by yellow candles and Chinese lanterns, carrying out the color scheme, which was golden. Lunch being over, Mr. and Mrs. Learn were escorted by the entire company to the parlor, where ex-Reeve Wm. Hare, in well chosen words, expressed the pleasure which those present experienced at being able to bestow congratulations and good wishes upon the golden anniversary of their marriage.

Mr. Hare then called upon Miss Minnie Bremer, who read the following address:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Learn:

A HOUSE OF MYSTERY

Wealthy London Lady Dead Alone in Her Mansion.

London, Oct. 12.—A discovery from its circumstances stranger than anything realized by fact or recorded in fiction, was made by the police at Ramsgate. In Vase Square is a large house named Mildred, standing in its own grounds. It was the property of a Miss Taylor, whose friends had become anxious as to what had happened to her.

On proceeding to the house Thursday Detective Sergeant Paine could obtain no answer and was compelled to force an entrance. Just as the door was found, amid a great accumulation of dust, a pile of letters on the mat. Some of these were three or four months old, and among them were several inquiring the whereabouts of Miss Taylor. From these it appeared that her relatives had lost sight of her since May. Room after room was examined without yielding any clue until a bedroom was reached, and there the body of Miss Taylor was found in bed in an advanced state of decomposition.

There was an air of culture about the house and the room in which the grim discovery was made had well-stocked book shelves. The house had only recently been refurbished, redecorated and fitted with electric light, and it was understood that Miss Taylor was a person of means and had recently come into a considerable legacy.

The last time Miss Taylor was seen by her neighbors is stated to have been six weeks ago, but it is not clear how they fix the date. She is described as being of handsome appearance and always exceedingly well dressed. The house is one which would only be tenanted by a person of means. There is no indication of the cause of Miss Taylor's death, but the fact that her body lay for weeks in a house in the midst of a large town without any disquietude being aroused is not the least remarkable feature of a mysterious affair.

DREYFUS WINS AGAIN.

Paris, Oct. 12.—Major Dreyfus has forced the Patrie, under threats of prosecution, to print his answers to the charges which the Patrie and other French papers have made against him in a campaign which they have been carrying on in connection with the decision of the court of cassation.

A few of your friends have come here today to extend to you our congratulations and best wishes on this the fiftieth anniversary of your marriage. We thank our Heavenly Father that he has brought you both safely along the pathway of life thus far, and pray that you and all the friends here assembled may be spared to meet at your diamond wedding. Mrs. Learn, we now ask you to accept this gold clock and these golden candlesticks as a slight token of love and esteem in which you are held by us. We ask you, Mr. Learn, to accept this gold-mounted umbrella as a shelter from both storm and sunshine. May our Heavenly Father guide and protect you both through the remaining years of your life, and grant that we may all meet in that house of many mansions prepared by him who has gone before.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Learn were much overcome they managed to express their thanks and appreciation of the kindness extended. Besides the presents mentioned they were the recipients of beautiful presents at gatherings in their honor at Detroit, Vassar, and Marlette. From her children Mrs. Learn received a beautiful gold chain and pendant, and brooch containing a pearl for each year of her life, and Mr. Learn was given a set of gold cuff links. The evening was brought to a close by the company joining hands and singing, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Mr. and Mrs. Learn are former Londoners, and Mrs. James W. Westervelt, of this city, is their daughter.

THE EYE-OPENER CASE.

The Danger Of Piles

AND THE CERTAINTY WITH WHICH THIS OBSTINATE DISEASE IS CURED BY

Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment

It is a mistake to look on piles or hemorrhoids as merely an annoyance, for they are serious and dangerous as well, and in their chronic or aggravated form have been known to result in the ruin of health.

The cause of piles is very different in different cases, but there is always relief and with regular treatment thorough cure in the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

There is nothing severe or disagreeable about this treatment, for by its soothing influence it helps almost as soon as applied. You feel the benefit, and know for a certainty that it is doing you good.

On the circular which goes with every box of Dr. Chase's Ointment are given full instructions as to the use of the ointment for itching, bleeding and protruding piles, and itching skin diseases. If you follow directions, we guarantee satisfaction as a treatment for every form of piles.

Mr. D. MacVicar, Caledonia Mines, N. S., writes: "For years I was troubled with bleeding, protruding piles and could not obtain a cure. I would be laid off work for weeks. Two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment completely cured me."

Mr. J. Mawer, Roden, Man., writes: "I had itching piles for five years, and the doctor told me there was no cure for me and that I would have to undergo an operation. Dr. Chase's Ointment completely cured me in one week. As this was six months ago and there has been no return of the old trouble, I believe that the cure is a permanent one."

Dr. Chase's Ointment has an unparalleled record of cures; 60c a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Girlhood Vigor Regained.

The difficulty with most women lies in the fact that while they are anxious about the health and welfare of their family and loved ones, they rarely ever pay attention to themselves until Nature says Stop. To prevent this every woman should take Psychine regularly. It creates an appetite and is the greatest of digestants. Psychine is a boon to run-down, tired and over-worked women, for there is LIFE IN EVERY DOSE. Mrs. J. T. Miller, of 63 Notre Dame St., Winnipeg, proved this, for she says: "I am thankful for what Psychine has done for me. I was laid up with weakness. Oh, how I suffered. My appetite was very poor and my stomach was greatly disordered. To-day I am strong and well, for Psychine has brought me permanent relief. I feel like a new woman now to what I did before taking Psychine. I feel the vigor of girlhood in my veins once more."

GOOD PRICES FOR PEARS AND APPLES

Conditions and Prices for Canadian Fruits for September.

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—The fruit division of the department of agriculture issues the September bulletin, of which this is a summary.

Weather conditions have been fairly favorable for pears, peaches and grapes, but not for pears and winter apples.

Apples—Early and fall fruit nearly all harvested, winter fruit ripening prematurely and dropping, reducing the crop already below medium.

Pears—Are ripening rapidly and are of good quality. Exports to Great Britain larger than usual.

Peaches—All harvested but a few late varieties. Prices have been below the average.

Plums—Nearly all harvested, except in northern districts.

Grapes—A full crop of excellent quality. Prices lower than for several years.

Tomatoes—Have ripened too rapidly for the canning factories, but are of excellent quality.

Cranberries are a good crop. There is a demand for the Canadian berries in the United States. Insect and fungus diseases have developed slightly this month.

Winter apples in the United States have depreciated in quantity and quality.

Prices for Canadian pears and apples in Great Britain have been good and shipments larger than usual.

HAD PILES FOR 13 YEARS! PAIN SO BAD AT TIMES HE FAINTED

One of the best points about Zam-Buk is that it cures chronic cases of piles as well as those of more recent standing. Captain A. W. Strachan, R.E., of St. Catharines, (Ont.), a man who has served his country in India, China, Japan and Egypt, says:

"Nobody has suffered greater agonies than I have through piles. For near 13 years this terrible scourge afflicted me and at times the pain was almost too much for me to bear—especially while enduring the heat and fatigue of foreign duty."

"I think I tried almost every remedy known in India, China, Japan and Egypt. While in India I was in the hospital for three weeks with bleeding piles, and thought I would be compelled to give up the Service."

"I have had to fall out when on the march as I could not endure the pain any longer. Once I was picked up on the field for dead—the pain from the piles was so great that I had fainted."

"An Army officer told me about Zam-Buk having cured a friend of his, so I decided to give it a trial. From the first anointing with this great herbal balm, I was relieved, but even after using one box I hardly dared to hope it would cure me permanently. I had got so much relief from it, however, that I decided to persevere, and by the time I had used several boxes, to my great joy I was completely cured."

"Zam-Buk is worth its weight in gold. It has cured me and given me now over six months of perfect ease—something which I have not had for thirteen long years! I trust this statement of mine will lead other sufferers to try Zam-Buk and prove its great healing virtue."

THAW SENT BACK TO MATTEAWAN

Justice Mills Refuses Trial by Jury to Test His Insanity.

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Mr. Justice Mills, in the supreme court here today, recommended Harry K. Thaw to Matteawan Asylum for the criminal insane.

Thaw will have to remain there until the court of appeals shall decide whether he is entitled to a hearing before a jury to determine whether he is insane. Justice Mills refused recently to grant the application of Thaw's counsel for a trial on the sanity question and decided to hear the case himself without a jury. The hearing was fixed for today. Thaw's mother and several relatives were present when he was brought into court.

The prisoner's counsel again moved for a jury trial, and when this was denied asked that Thaw be discharged from custody on the ground that the jury in the last trial for murder did not find Thaw insane. This, also, was denied. Thaw's counsel then declared that they had appealed to the New York State court of appeals from the decision refusing jury trial and that until the higher court had given a decision they would submit no evidence on the question of Thaw's insanity.

Justice Mills said there was no other alternative than for Thaw to be returned to Matteawan asylum, and so ordered.

District Attorney Jerome, of New York, who withdrew from the case when Justice Mills refused to transfer it to New York, did not appear in court today.

As soon as the judge had ordered Thaw sent back to Matteawan an order citing him to appear in Pittsburgh forthwith and give testimony in the United States court in the bankruptcy proceedings brought against him there was served upon the prisoner. It could not be learned what action will be taken in this matter today.

LIBERALS EXPECT BIG ELECTION ROORBACH

Montreal, Oct. 12.—The local Liberal chiefs have word that between now and nomination day the Conservative interests will likely launch another surprise, even more notable than that tried in the report that the G. T. R. were trying to get out of the G. T. P. bargain.

The Liberal chiefs, as yet, do not know the nature of the next boomerang, but state they are more than prepared for anything may be sprung on them before election.

ARE YOU WEAK AFTER SICKNESS?

LATER ON IT WILL BE HARDER TO GET STRONG THAN TODAY.

—WHAT ARE YOU DOING TO GET WELL?

A case in point is well exemplified in the following letter from Mrs. V. I. Wilder, wife of a well-known citizen of Pittsfield, who writes: "I had a nervous disorder that completely prostrated me. I couldn't sleep, and would lay and toss about all night, arising in the morning more tired than ever, head heavy, eyes full, and every bone and muscle aching. I tried to get along without calling in a doctor, but was finally driven to it. He treated me for some time, but with no perceptible improvement in my health. Some one recommended Ferrozone. The change it effected in my system was noticeable almost instantly. I gradually took on flesh. The 'all-ways' feeling left me. In less than six weeks I was fully recovered from what looked to me like an everlasting sickness. I will always recommend Ferrozone, feeling with sincerity that it is an honest, powerful, health-giving tonic."

Try Ferrozone today!

The nourishment and vital energy it supplies is wonderful.

Ferrozone makes you feel better at once. It's good for men, for women, for children—just the thing for everybody seeking better health. Sold by all dealers, 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

NEWS ABOUT ICE IN HUDSON BAY

Churchill Harbor Was Easy of Entrance on the Thirteenth of June.

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—Major J. D. Moodie, in charge of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police posts on Hudson's Bay, in a report to headquarters dated July 1, gives some information in regard to the ice movement in Hudson's Bay, which is of interest by reason of the steps which the Dominion Government is now taking to make of Hudson's Bay a commercial route for the export of western produce to Europe. He tells of the arrival at Churchill of a patrol boat which left Fullerton on the 3rd of June. The members of the patrol reported that all ice was well off shore until within 100 miles of Churchill, when they found that it was driven in, and the party was detained 12 days near Driftwood Point. A channel broke through the ice in Churchill harbor on the night of June 15, and next day the harbor was practically free of ice at low water. Owing to the continuous northerly and easterly winds the ice had never got sufficiently far into the bay to get out of the river current, and so travelled in and out with the tides. The report adds, however, that both in the bay and river the ice is loose and in needles, "and a good steamer would have no difficulty in working through."

The spring at Churchill this year was early, the snow having completely disappeared from the level by May 5. Summer, however, was late in coming, and there was practically no snow until the end of June, when the mosquitoes began to get in their work. A police patrol began pushing its way overland this season from Great Slave Lake to Chesterfield Inlet on Hudson's Bay. This is in charge of Inspector Pelletier, who was expected to reach Hudson's Bay by Sept. 2. There is no word, of course, as to whether he did so, but the police have sent a boat up from Churchill to await his arrival at Chesterfield and to carry his party to Churchill.

Game Very Scarce.

All kinds of game have been scarce in the north, and last winter was reported the worst in years for wolves and foxes.

Deer were very scarce everywhere, and only to be found in small bands. Great destruction, Major Moodie says, exists among the natives. One man died of starvation between Fullerton and Baker Lake, and others were so weak as not to be able to get into the barracks at Fullerton. It was necessary, on different occasions, to bring native families to the barracks and to supply them with food. Many of the native dogs died also, for want of food, and this made matters worse, as the hunters were dependent on them. From the barracks these natives went out hunting and brought in whatever they got. They are not lazy, but are always eager to get off hunting if able to do so. There is no doubt, Major Moodie adds, that the loss of life would have been considerable had the police not been there.

COL. STEEL SELECTED

Will Act as President of South African Service Association.

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—Today there assembled in Ottawa veterans from all parts of Canada and formed the Canadian South African Service Association, which will embrace all local veteran associations. Col. Steele was elected president. Those present protested strongly against the tag on the new land grant whereby settlement duties must be made within six months of location, and a telegram containing the protest was sent to Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Montreal in the name of the association.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—William Burke, a 16-year-old boy residing near Kingsmere, was accidentally shot yesterday and died last night. Burke and two companions set out for the woods, taking a rifle with them. Careless handling of the weapon resulted in a premature discharge, the bullet entering Burke's body.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

Detroit Tigers Wallop the Mighty Cubs at Last
Superb Pitching by Mullin Turns the Trick

World's Champions Fail to Withstand Tigers' Fierce Onslaught—Cobb Stars at Bat.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Through the superb pitching of George Mullin today the Tigers were able to break their losing streak against the Cubs. After practically throwing the game away for the big twirler, the Tigers pulled themselves together and hammered Pfeister, the Cub south-paw, all over the lot, showing at their best in every department of the game. The rally was typical of the Tigers. If they can keep the pace they set in the closing rounds of today's game, the world's championship title is theirs.

When the clouting was over the Tigers led, 8 to 3. In the early rounds they seemed worried by the idea that the Cubs had the "Indian sign" on them, but Mullin, pitching the best ball of his life in the first inning, seemed to imbue them with new confidence, and once granted their chance, they were the same fighting mad Tigers the American League has feared for two wildly exciting seasons.

Chance's men, starting out bravely, collapsed under the strain and in the closing rounds, with Mullin still steadily mowing them down, seemed to go all to pieces. Jennings determined to change his line-up today and sent Coughlin back to third and Schaefer to his old position at second. The change worked well and this line-up will probably be maintained for the rest of the series.

Tigers Jubilant.
The Tigers are wildly jubilant over their victory. For the first time they have been able to humble the Cubs, and now they are no longer worrying.

"Tomorrow's game will decide it, I think," declared Jennings tonight. "If we win then the flag will just about be ours. After the way the boys worked today, coming from behind as they did, I am satisfied. Summers is ready for the game and I will use him. If he is right they will never touch him, and then we have Donovan again for Wednesday. If Summers wins, Donovan will surely come through. It is still a hard, uphill fight, but I am confident that the boys can do it."

Crawford, Cobb and Rossman led in the onslaught against Pfeister. Cobb was the star of the day with the stick, getting four safe drives—one a double—in five times at bat. They called the Georgian a joke-batter here last year after the world series and they said Johnny Kling was the man who made him look like a "shine" by "kidding" him.

Cobb has nursed this grievance all year and today he had a chance to get back. He showed up Kling after the Tigers had secured a safe lead by stealing second and third. Then he came within inches of stealing home. It wasn't good baseball with two out, but the game was safe and Cobb was just having some fun at Kling's expense.

Mullin Tames Cubs.
Mullin, on the strength of his pitching, should have shut out the Cubs. He had them eating from his hand all day long. But in the fourth inning three wild heaves, two by Rossman and one by Coughlin, put him to the bad, and for awhile it looked as if the Tigers were to lose their third straight game.

They opened the game by getting a run when O'Leary singled, made second on Crawford's out and scored on Cobb's first hit of the day. This lead was overcome by the Cubs, when the Tigers' wild throwing gave them three runs.

But in the sixth the Tigers opened a run when Pfeister, with a vengeance, Mullin was the first man up and worked his way to first on four balls. McIntyre followed this advantage by a clean smash to left for a base.

O'Leary, up to sacrifice, bunted to Pfeister. The pitcher turned to throw Mullin out at third, but was too late and the bases were full. Crawford lined one of the famous Wahoo variety past Chance and Mullin scored. And the bases were still loaded. One run behind, and with Cobb up, the big delegation of Tiger rooters went mad with joy. They cut loose with a bunch of rooting that made the Chicago fans ponder on the volume of noise.

Cobb hit a bouncer at Tinker and made first with a burst of speed. McIntyre dashed over the plate and the score was tied.

Rossman shot one on a line between Evers and Chance and O'Leary and Crawford scored, Cobb making third. Tells Story.
Schaefer fled to Hoffman in centre and "Circus Solly" threw to the plate to nail the Georgian. Kling made a brilliant play on the ball, getting it on the short bound and turning as Cobb dived for the rubber, ready for the game and I will use him. If he is right they will never touch him, and then we have Donovan again for Wednesday. If Summers wins, Donovan will surely come through. It is still a hard, uphill fight, but I am confident that the boys can do it."

Crawford, Cobb and Rossman led in the onslaught against Pfeister. Cobb was the star of the day with the stick, getting four safe drives—one a

Thomas doubled to right, sending Rossman home with the fifth of the inning. Tinker threw out Coughlin. Chance is being criticized by those who watched the game because he did not take out Pfeister. But it is said by a man close to the Cub team that it was the only thing he could do. He was afraid to send in Brown, for it is claimed that Brown is about "in" for the season and was being saved for the opener in Detroit. Reulbach and Overall are not the men to send in to such a position, as there was no way of bettering the Cub chances.

Busy in Eighth.
The Tigers did nothing in the seventh, but in the eighth they started again. Cobb doubled to left, Rossman pulled off the unexpected bunt and got away with it as Pfeister was flatfooted. Schaefer fled to right and Cobb was held at third. Thomas was walked and the bases were again full. Coughlin lined to Schaefer and Cobb dashed home. Mullin lined one at Chance. It deflected from the Cub first sacker's mitt and while he was booting it around the lot trying to pick it up Rossman scored.

In the ninth, with two out, Cobb made his fourth hit of the day. The Georgian promptly stole second, beating Kling's throw by a swell slide. Then he dashed for third, again out-playing Kling, who threw low. By this time Rossman was walked and Ty and Claude tried the double steal. Ty was caught, Pfeister to Kling to Steinfeldt, but he had the satisfaction he wanted.

Mullin never looked better in the box. Opening with a one-run lead, he had terrific speed and a wonderful break to his curves. Not until after the Tigers made eight runs did he let up and then he seemed to be tied to send them over the plate and let them hit if they wanted to. But all the fight had been taken out of the Cubs by the batting of the Tigers and by Mullin's remarkable pitching in the early rounds. They tried to rally in the sixth, when Hoffman started with a single and Tinker made the home run Sunday, came to the plate. But Mullin struck out the Cub idol and after that there was no opposition.

Mullin Fans Eight.
Big George fanned eight of the Cubs. The fourth inning slump which nearly cost the game was in no way Mullin's fault. He struck out Schaefer, Evers and Chance, and then he struck out Thomas. With these two out, Mullin caught Evers off first base by a quick throw to Rossman. Evers tried for second and would have been an easy out but Rossman threw high to Schaefer and Johnny was safe. Chance followed this advantage with a single to centre, scoring Evers. The Cub manager stole and was safe on Thomas' low throw. Steinfeldt grounded to Coughlin, who threw low to Rossman. The ball bounded to the first sacker but got away. Rossman recovered it as Chance rounded third. He threw wide to Thomas and the second run was in. Hoffman tripled to left and Steinfeldt scored. O'Leary threw out Tinker, ending the scoring for the Cubs. At that stage of the game the two runs led looked good enough to win. But the Tiger hitters opened up in the sixth as described above and the tide had turned. The score:

NOTES OF THE GAME.
With all those loyal London fans in Detroit today rooting for the Tigers, the latter should win handsily, but—

Francis Reid flatly refused to make any statement in regard to yesterday's game. The Cub leader had a "grouch" for fair, and could do nothing but glare and snap his teeth.

To win that fourth game would give them an even break with the Nationals, two and two. And to get it would give them the big edge in the final standing for the flag, for it looked as if they had the Cubs completely on the run in yesterday's game.

President C. W. Murphy, of the Chicago team, remained in his office throughout the game, owing to a severe cold. He stated that he would not accompany the team to Detroit to see the games Tuesday and Wednesday, as his doctor had advised him to cure his present indisposition before further exposing himself.

If Summers can get his game, Donovan will be sent in on Wednesday. Despite the defeat of Sunday the Tigers still swear by Bill. They argue with reason that if the wind had not caught Tinker's long fly it would not have gone for a home run, as Cobb could have caught it easily.

Summers will hitch up against Brown. The three-angled marvel has not yet opened against the Tigers. He finished the game on Saturday in Detroit. They say that he is tired from his hard season's work and is not as effective as he once was. If this be true, the Tigers' chances are bright, for they have no fear of the other Cub twirlers.

With Ty Cobb working again, as he did earlier in the year, with Crawford slugging the ball, and with Rossman also in his stride, the Tigers looked like a different ball team today. The Tigers showed more spirit and fight today than they have shown all during the series. Once they threw off that fear of a hoodoo, they were eating up everything that came their way. The Cubs will find them a far different team from now on.

The opening game at Bennett Park will make the fourth one of the series. It is the last day in which the players get in on the gate receipts. The series has been by no means the money maker for the players it has in other years. The light attendance at Detroit on Saturday and the disappointing Chicago crowds Sunday and Monday have put a crimp in the hopes of the athletes to make quite a clean-up. However, they are banking on a good crowd in Detroit for the opener with any kind of weather.

SPORTING NOTES

London will witness two games of rugby football Saturday at Twickenham Park. The Western University juniors will hook up with Petrolea, and the Londoners will meet the strong Dunelm Intermediates. Both of the visiting teams have trimmed the local fourteen-teams away from home. Will they repeat Saturday?

Edward Barry, the English oarsman, yesterday defeated George Towns, the Australian, by two lengths, in London.

The Clinton Gun Club will hold a live bird shoot on Oct. 20 and 21.

The annual field games of the Western University will be held Friday on the "Varsity" grounds. These games are always popular, and will draw a well. Last year they were held at Queen's Park.

Montreal has become wearied of the pro, brand of hockey, and will attempt to revive the amateur sport again this winter.

London will be asked to join a pro hockey league, including such places as Toronto, Berlin, Guelph, Galt, Hamilton and London. It is doubtful if London could enter in the league. Nov. 13 is the date set for a final meeting to be held at Toronto.

The amateur standing of "Kid" Smith, of the Hamilton Cubs, and Jack Ryan, of the Ottawa Victorias, will be investigated by the C. A. U. Both are held to be professional baseball players, and the latter is held to have played pro hockey as well.

The Oxford Marathon games at Woodstock on Monday, Nov. 5, promise to draw a large field of entries, and it is probable that many Londoners will compete. The events include: 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, one mile, three mile, 120 hurdle, one-mile relay, vaulting, and running long jump. For further information address Alby Robinson, Box 34, Woodstock.

Five Hundred and Forty Fans Go to Tiger-Cub Game Via G. T. R.

Record Run of Two Hours and Forty Minutes Made to Windsor—London Fans Still Loyal to the Tigers—Predict Victory Today.

Five hundred and forty baseball fans left this morning on the Hermitage special over the Grand Trunk Railroad for Detroit. The run was made in 2 hours and 40 minutes.

"The Tigers will win sure today," said the parting salute as the train pulled out.

The Tigers.
And the Tigers look to have as good a chance today as in any of the previous games, for they have for the first time gained a fall on the mighty Cubs, and on the latter's own back lot, at that. The Tigers are full of confidence, and the local fans feel certain that the yellow and the black will wave proudly again tonight, even as it did last night.

The first of the popular Advertiser baseball bulletins is expected to arrive in London at 3:15 this afternoon, the same, so that the Londoners could not get away to Detroit today will know how the game is going a few minutes after each play. Special wires on the ball grounds make it possible for the news to be transmitted to London rapidly.

A Great Crowd.

The scene in front of The Advertiser office last evening was an inspiring one.

IT WASN'T HARD to find the sore-headed losers last night, when the returns of the Tigers' big victory were posted on The Advertiser bulletin board, for with few exceptions, they were going around howling. "They threw the game for the gain the extra games would give them!" We didn't notice the Cubs "throwing" any games last season when the same conditions in reference to gates prevailed.

LOCAL MARKET.

LONDON, Tuesday, Oct. 12.
 Hay was the feature of the market today, and there was also a big supply of oats, but the smaller lines were not very well represented; there was sufficiently produce on the market, however, as the demand was slow.
 Grain—Oats were represented today by at least 30 loads, which sold at $1.15 per cwt; most of the sales were made at $1.05; the farmers would consult their own interests by bringing in smaller loads. Wheat steady, at $1.05 per bushel.
 Hay and Straw—About 40 loads of hay were brought to the market today; the demand was fairly brisk, as at 11:30 o'clock only about half a dozen loads of inferior quality were unsold; prices were not quite as strong as at yesterday's market; sales were made at $1.15 to $1.20 per ton for inferior, and $1.20 to $1.25 for the best. Straw was scarce, selling at $5.50 per ton.
 Butter and Eggs—Butter sold quickly, as the supply was small; prices firm, at 23c per lb for crocks and 24c for choice rolls. Eggs scarce and prices firm, at 22c per dozen for cream and basket lots.
 Vegetables and Roots—Potatoes were rather slow and the supply was small, ranging from 70c to 80c per bag by the load; most of the sales were made at 75c per bag; tomatoes sold at 20c and 25c per basket; they are nearly done for this season; green tomatoes sold at 30c per bushel; parsnips plentiful and slow, at 40c to 50c per bushel; carrots, 25c per bushel; turnips, 30c per bushel; cabbages sold, at 40c per bushel; a trifling slow, at 50c per bushel. Fruits—Peaches sold at 50c per bushel; grapes, 20c per basket; apples, 10c per bushel; pears, 10c per bushel; chestnuts, 10c per bushel; quinces, 30c per basket; apples sold fairly well, some pretty fair Baldwin going at 30c per bushel; the general run of prices was 40c to 50c per bushel.
 Poultry—Old fowl sold at 7c per lb alive and 6c per lb dressed; chickens in good demand at 8c to 9c per lb alive and 7c per lb dressed. Dressed Hogs—A number of offerings, prices easier, at $5.50 per cwt.
 Butchers' Meats—Beef sold at $5 and $5.50 per cwt; veal, $4.50 to $5.00 per cwt; lamb, 10c per lb.

Interesting Lecture.

What promises to be a very interesting and instructive lecture is to be given in the First Methodist Church schoolroom tomorrow evening, when Mr. W. E. Dyer, of Toronto, will present over 100 of Tissot's Bible pictures, illustrating the great characters and events of the Bible. In addition a number of views of the great international Sunday school convention, held in St. Louis recently, will be shown. Mr. Dyer is a bright and interesting speaker, and a large audience should greet him.

Denies She's Dead.

The following appears in the Hamilton Spectator: To the Editor: Having just last evening seen your notice of my death in the Detroit Asylum, allow me, kindly, to contradict the statement. I am not dead, and am not confined to any asylum. I am at my own room in Detroit. I'm fixing for leaving Detroit, so I cannot hear from you where I am at present unless you let me know at once where you got your notice to publish such a piece about me. I am at present at 627 Wabash avenue, and would thank you very kindly if you let me know by return of mail. Yours truly, Mrs. Nellie Bishop, 627 Wabash Avenue, Detroit, Mich. Someone in Milton saw a notice of the death of a Mrs. Bishop in Detroit and telephoned to the Spectator office the contents of the article published later. Evidently a mistake was made, as the Mrs. Bishop who died in Detroit was not the Mrs. Bishop who formerly resided in Milton and was well known in Hamilton.—Ed.

INQUEST INTO RYAN'S DEATH

ness did not have any time to do anything before the freight engine struck the yard engine and derailed it. Both engines were going east at the time of the accident. Witness did not know there was a freight engine anywhere near. The force was sufficient to break the buffer beam of the freight engine and hurl the yard engine from the track. It was the switch tender's duty to turn the switch, but he did not do it. Witness saw the crossing watchman turn the switch, but it was too late to avert a collision. The watchman had been standing on the sidewalk on the east side of Burwell street, and it was not his duty to touch the switch at all.

Fireman Ryan.

Fireman Ryan had left the cab just before the accident and had gone out to light the rear head-lamp. After the accident witness found him hanging on to the railing at the back of the engine. The front headlight had also been lit, and it must have been lit by Ryan, although witness did not admit it.

Dr. F. P. Drake, who, with Dr. H. A. Stevenson, made the post-mortem, stated that both legs were practically severed below the knees. The legs were also badly scalded. Death was due to shock and hemorrhage.

Watchman's Story.

Anthony Mansell, crossing watchman at Burwell street, stated that he turned the switch, because he was told to do so by the switchman. He saw the freight coming up the main line, but the yard engine was then at Colborne street. Witness had often turned switches to oblige the switchmen.

Turning switches is not a part of the witness' duties. The freight train was coming east at a good rate of speed.

The Freight Engine.

Engineer Burrell, of the freight engine, stated that he did not see the switch turned. The switch was set for him when he first noticed it. He was then about a hundred yards away on Walker's main line.

Witness did not see the yard engine until a few seconds before the accident happened, and immediately applied the emergency brake, but there was not time to avert a collision. The train was going about six or seven miles an hour.

Fireman Roderick McKay, of the freight engine, corroborated this evidence.

Conductor Joseph Symons was on freight engine No. 636, and also offered similar testimony.

The inquiry was then adjourned till Tuesday night.

NILESTOWN LODGE

TENDERED RECEPTION

Pleasant Event Last Night in the Masonic Temple.

The members of Nilestown Lodge, No. 345, visited Union Lodge, No. 380, last night, and were tendered a reception at the rooms in the Masonic Temple. A most enjoyable evening was spent, during which the first and third degrees were exemplified, the former on a candidate of Union Lodge and the latter on two candidates from Nilestown. Worshipful Master James Dean presided over the meeting and extended a warm welcome to the visitors. Worshipful Master Arthur, of Nilestown, responded.

At the conclusion of the exemplification ceremonies the members present sat down to a banquet, after which a number of addresses of a fraternal character were given. Among the visitors were W. M. T. Arthur, Bros. W. H. Lawson, G. Jackson, J. W. Staples, B. Lawson, D. Duguid, C. Charlton, A. Cornish and C. Lethbridge, Nilestown; C. N. Davidson, Windsor; I. E. Cosford, Guelph; J. Lewis and J. F. AGED MAN RUN OVER BY A WAGON

Accident to Mr. Isaac Brooks, the Well-Known Wellington Street Tinsmith.

Mr. Isaac Brooks, a tinsmith, who resides at the corner of Wellington and Horton streets, had a narrow escape from a serious injury, when he was knocked down and run over by a horse and wagon owned by Mr. Alf Tume, at the corner of Wellington and Bathurst streets, about 5 o'clock last evening.

The old gentleman was crossing the street when he noticed the approach of the outfit. He made an effort to save himself, but the driver evidently became confused and drove directly towards him. Brooks was knocked down, the wheels passing over his arm and leg.

Federians came to his assistance and helped him to the sidewalk, where he was found to have received no serious injury, other than a number of severe bruises.

high, and that it could have been purchased at half the money from a Toronto firm. This evidence was not brought to the attention of the committee when sitting, but was submitted later in the form of an affidavit. There was no time to examine as to the quality of the pemmican nor the price.

Mr. McIntyre concluded his speech by an eloquent tribute to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, "the greatest Canadian this country has produced." He pointed out that there had been no malfeasance of office, and no charges against any member of the Government. He was confident that the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier would be returned on Oct. 26.

Minister of Railways.

Mr. Graham was given a very hearty welcome. He regretted that the campaign had been reduced to so low a level by the Opposition. When in St. Marys not long ago Mr. Borden had dealt altogether with scandal, and had not touched the policy of the Government, nor yet his own policy. It seemed as if the policy of the Opposition was now to seek for something nasty to say of their opponents. Since Mr. Borden had dealt with such questions he could not refrain from making an answer, for fear some would say that the charges could not be answered.

"But before I touch this subject, I must pay my tribute to your representative, Mr. McIntyre," said Mr. Graham. "He is much more reticent in the House than his ability warrants. There are a great many more men there who make a great deal of fuss and much more noise, who have not half the ability of your representative. He is one of the most convincing, logical, and, I might add, polished speakers, in the House of Commons. He has always taken a keen interest in the affairs of the House, and has done his duty faithfully. More men of his type are needed at Ottawa. We were delighted with the assistance Mr. McIntyre has given in shaping legislation."

Mr. Graham pointed out that there was a constitutional way of preferring charges against a member. With all their insinuations and innuendoes the Opposition had not dared to make a single charge against any member of the House of Commons. Mr. Graham challenged them to do so.

The only charges made were against some officials. It was a strange coincidence that 90 per cent of those charged were appointed by the Conservative Government. However, reports had come to the Government's notice that there was something wrong in the department, and it was investigated. The committee reported that there was a lack of conscience in the administration of the affairs of the department, but the men were not named. Another commission was named, with Judge Cassels in control. This committee must name the men, and if any are proven to have been dishonest they will be dismissed immediately.

Mr. Graham referred to the timber scandals, so-called. The Conservatives claimed that the Government had given away timber lands.

"They have made these statements, and our Conservative friends should not be annoyed if we say something," said Mr. Graham. "They had the management of the affairs of the west for many years, and all they grew was rebellions. They cost much money, and many men. I have no hesitation in saying that by judicious management the Government could have prevented the cause of the rebellion."

The present Government had not given away one acre of land, timber, or otherwise, save to settlers. The Opposition during its term of office had given away 50,000,000 acres to the railroads, but the Laurier Government had not given away one acre since 1896.

The timber limits were sold by the present Government to the highest bidder. The tenders were put in, and were opened on a certain day. This was the system in vogue under the old administration. There was no set price and it may have been that some limits were sold too cheaply. However, Hon. Frank Oliver did not say that. Now there is a set price, and the limits are sold by public auction to the highest bidder. That was true in every instance.

"During Hon. Alex. Mackenzie's time, from 1873 to 1878, timber limits sold at an average of $22.06 per mile. From 1878 to 1896, during the Conservative administration, timber limits brought only $4.13 per mile, when timber had quadrupled in price. From 1896 to the present time, the Laurier Government had sold timber limits at an average price of $81.62 per mile. The real test is not what Foster says nor what I say, but the facts. The reason why the price of timber limits was so small was due to the fact that in 1883 the Conservatives gave away 10,000 square miles to their friends for nothing. We have sold only 6,000 acres in twelve years. They also cry that we are wasting the timber of the west, and that there will soon be none left in that country. At the present rate of sale by the Laurier Government there is sufficient merchantable timber in sight to last Canada 225 years. We need not worry about that."

The Saskatchewan land deal and the Robb's Irrigation scheme were touched on. Mr. Graham pointed out that the former transaction was one of the best bargains the Government had made, for it had caused the settlement of land hitherto worthless. The Government had received a good sum of money from it, and in addition it was one of the most thickly populated sections of the west. Mr. Borden would not discuss the Robb's transaction in Medicine Hat because the people of the west who knew the facts knew it to be a good thing for them. The Conservative candidate in Medicine Hat supported the transaction.

The meeting broke up with cheers for the candidate, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the King.

Mr. Graham dealt with railway matters at some length, and concluded
