Fears Sir Adam Beck May Quit Hydro Commission

POCOCK THINKS CHAIRMAN WILL ABANDON POST

Member of London Power Department Expects 'Startling Developments.'

DISCUSSES DRURY STAND

Believes Premier Prompted Resignation of Hon. D. Carmichael From Board.

That the resignation Friday of Hon. D. Carmichael as hydro-electric commissioner for Ontario was a premeditated move that will lead to further startling developments, culminating probably in the resignation of Sir Adam Beck, is the frank belief of Philip Pocock of the London hydro department, and generally known in his city since the inception of hydro as "Beck's right-hand man."

Commissioner Pocock feels that Carmichael's resignation was prompted by Premier E. C. Drury.

"He is a member of the Drury party, and no doubt he has to do what the premier tells him. It will be noticed, however, that Carmichael withdrew his statement about 'dishonesty' and substituted 'misleading' or a similar expression."

"I certainly would not be surprised to see further immediate developments. Sir Adam is between the government and the deep sea, and I would not be at all surprised if he also tendered his resignation. It looks to me as though everything was heading to a climax and more than likely the moves are prompted by the government. As a matter of fact the whole proposition is between Premier Drury and Sir Adam."

Claims Efficiency Lead.

Touching on the charges by Mr. Carmichael that inefficiency has been shown in the preparation of the estimates for the Chippawa canal, Commissioner Pocock held to the opinion that from an efficiency view point alone the hydro-electric department of Ontario leads the way.

"There is no doubt, of course," he explained, "that when an undertaking of such gigantic proportions as the Chippawa Canal is involved certain difficulties will be encountered by the engineers that had not been anticipated. Naturally this will increase the general cost, and when this is done there are those who do not consider the question from every angle, but lose no time in condemning. I'll admit that Sir Adam seemingly is in a tight fix, but what the people do not seem to realize is that every five-cent piece that is expended for Chippawa or hydro will be recovered by revenue."

"We notice that the farmers, headed by Premier Drury, are still contending that they should have all the advantages of hydro as in the municipalities. They desire a flat rate, but they'll never be able to have it. It is impossible. The cost of furnishing hydro to the farms is so much greater than in the cities and towns."

Have Different View.

"The farmers do not regard the question from our viewpoint. There are certain things they are able to obtain at a price considerably less than we can. They will let apples, for instance, rot on the trees and drop off because they claim the cost is too great to make it worth while to bring them into town. It is the same with us and hydro. The cost is too great unless they are willing to shoulder their just share."

Commissioner Pocock referred to the fact that an "uninterested" party in Ottawa had declared "exonerate Beck or else let him go," and expressed the belief that something of this nature was about to transpire.

Claims Faith and Hope Are Farmer's Assets

WASHINGTON, March 4.—A Minnesota farmer's wife, Mrs. N. Radick of Fulda, Minn., today told the Senate agricultural committee of the hardships and poor financial returns of farm life and advocated the Ladd bill for government fixing of prices on agricultural products.

"The farmers live by hope, faith and accident," Mrs. Radick told the committee. "We plow and sow in hope; live in faith and market by accident.

SENATOR MILNE OF HAMILTON PASSES

BORN AT ABERDEEN, 1839

Came To Ontario In 1854 and Was Appointed To Senate By Sir Robert Borden.

Hamilton, March 4.—Senator John Milne, head of the Burrow, Stewart & Milne Foundry Company, died this morning at 8:45.

Hon. John Milne was one of Hamilton's most prominent business men. He was president and managing director of the Burrow, Stewart & Milne Company, manufacturers of stoves and other metal products. In addition he was president or director of several other big concerns in this city. He held various important municipal appointments during the last twenty years.

In politics he was a Conservative, and was appointed to the Senate during the government of Sir Robert Borden, in 1915. He was a prominent Mason and Presbyterian.

John Milne was born and educated at Aberdeen, Scotland, in 1839. He came to Ontario in 1854, and entered business as an iron founder. His wife (Mary Manson) survives with three sons.

Senator Milne had been in failing health since October, and recently gangrene developed in one of his feet. He was too feeble to undergo an operation and his intimate friends knew that his death was only a question of days.

In the death of Senator Milne this city has lost not only one of its most widely known and highly respected citizens but one of its most noted and outstanding political figures. He had been president of the Conservative Association of Hamilton, for the past twenty-five years, and in recognition of his services to the Conservative party, he was summoned to the Senate on December 1, 1915.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, Charles K. and William M. of the Burrow, Stewart & Milne Company.

14 KILLED WHEN EXPRESS TRAIN HITS MOTOR BUS

N. Y. C. Flier Crashes Into Vehicle at Crossing in Painesville, Ohio.

WRECKAGE SET AFIRE

Many of the Victims Were Proceeding Home From Dance.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 4.—Fourteen persons were killed and approximately a dozen injured, four perhaps fatally, late last night when New York Central express train No. 600, eastbound, crashed into a bus at the St. Clair street crossing in Painesville. Only five of the dead were identified at a late hour. All are believed to have been residents of Painesville and Fairport, between which cities the bus operated. According to railway officials here, New York Central train No. 3, westbound, crashed into the wreckage.

Most of those killed were residents of Fairport. Many of them had left a dance hall in Painesville less than half an hour before the crash, while several others had attended a lodge meeting. Two had just boarded the bus and had just settled in their seats when the accident occurred.

Gasoline Tank Explodes.

An explosion of the gasoline tank of the machine set fire to the debris and several of the bodies were badly burned.

The bus, which was operated between Painesville and Fairport, was making its last trip to Fairport for the night. A. W. Barnes, the crossing watchman, declared he flagged the driver, who had stopped on the south side of the tracks to pick up passengers. A declaration by Chester Parrish, manager of the bus line, that a large oil tank obstructed driver Adams' view of the watchman's lantern and the approaching train, was discounted by Carl Sullivan, one of the injured.

"I saw the train before we reached the tracks," Sullivan said. "We had stopped to take on two passengers just south of the railroad or we would have been across.

"People near me screamed as the engine came on. I saw the driver reach down and pull something. I don't know whether it speeded us up or slowed us down. It was dark in the machine. I thought we had cleared the track. Then it hit us."

Composed of Twenty Coaches.

The train was composed of twenty express coaches. It was made up here to go to Buffalo, and does not stop at Painesville.

"I blew the whistle just as we reached the limits of the town," Engineer Fernandez declared. "An instant later I saw the automobile on the track immediately ahead of me. The space before we struck it was so brief I could not even know whether the automobile was standing or in motion.

"As I threw on the brakes I felt the collision and fragments of the wreckage flew past the engine cab. I am sure we stopped as quickly as possible."

COAL MINERS MAY STRIKE ON APRIL 1

Calgary, March 4. — (Canadian Press)—Canada and the United States face an international strike of coal miners, to commence on April 1, according to a statement issued to the Canadian Press last night, by Robert Livett, international board member for district No. 18, of the United Mine Workers of America.

Mr. Livett stated that ballots have already been sent out to all locals of the U. M. W. A. in both Canada and the United States, and that the members are being asked if they desire to give power to the policy committee, appointed at the Indianapolis convention, to call a general strike on April 1, if agreements are not consummated by that date.

The ballots are to be returned to the various district headquarters by March 15. Mr. Livett would not express an opinion regarding the probable outcome of the vote further than remarking that the decision rests with the members collectively.

FRANCE'S BILL TO BRITAIN SURPRISES

London, March 4. — (Canadian Press Cable)—The Star expresses wonder as to why nearly all the morning newspapers suppressed a disclosure made in the House of Commons yesterday in answer to a question as to Great Britain paying France £32,000,000 for "dock dues, rent of houses and public buildings, rent of trenches and compensation for damage and disturbance caused by British troops." The Star adds: Surely this is the first time that an ally has been charged rent for trenches wherein he shed his blood for the charger.

APPRECIATE HONOR GIVEN TO RT. HON. A. J. BALFOUR

London, March 4.—The conferring of the order of the Garter by the King upon Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, who now becomes Sir Arthur Balfour, has been received with general appreciation, Sir Arthur being a universal favorite. There is some good-natured speculation, however, as to what induced him at length to abandon his lifelong disinclination to receive decorative distinctions.

It is said that he has four times successfully resisted royal pressure to accept a peerage, the latest occasion reported to have been when he returned home recently from Washington. As apparently Mr. Balfour remained inflexible as regards the peerage, there was nothing else King George could confer commensurate with his public services than the Order of the Garter. The garter is rarely bestowed upon a commoner, the most notable recent occasion being in 1912 in the case of Sir Edward Grey (now Viscount Grey of Falloden). Strictly speaking, however, the latest commoner to receive the decoration was Viscount Lascelles, who married Princess Mary last Tuesday, whose title of viscount is merely a complimentary one, borne by him as the son of the Earl of Harewood.

HAY WILL NEVER LEAD LIBERALS IN UNSAFE PATH

58 Years of New Leader's Life Stamp Him as Apostle of Commonsense.

LISTOWEL PROUD OF HIM

Special to London Advertiser.

LISTOWEL, March 3.—Publicity is generally the forerunner of famous men. However, there are exceptions to the rule, and Francis Wellington Hay, now Liberal leader in the Ontario House, is in that category.

A few short days ago Hay was an ordinary member of Parliament. His identification disc read, "Member for Perth." Of course, for a short period his light in the political constellation at Queen's Park shone a little brighter, but it was somewhat paled by the stronger beams from such stars as Premier Drury.

Mr. Hay was only occupying the place of a fallen star at the best—acting Liberal leader, he was designated.

Was he destined to wane or shine brighter?

This was the question that the electors in the back concessions of Perth were asking.

The Liberal convention at Toronto yesterday decided that. Now all Ontario is asking: "Who is this man Hay, that he should gain such prominence overnight?"

Perth, which expressed its confidence in him, despite the U. F. O. deluge of 1919, was the logical place to find the answer. And so to Listowel, Mr. Hay's "home town," the searchlight of public curiosity directed its shafts.

Listowel should know Wellington Hay intimately, of course, because it has known him for nearly 58 years. Wellington Hay was born here in November, 1864. He went to school here. He was married here. He has carved his career here.

Not Anything Freakish.

Thus, if Francis Wellington Hay be a prodigy, certainly Listowel should know. Listowel's verdict, however, is that her son of recent fame is neither a prodigy nor a phenomenon nor anything else freakish in design. One learns, in fact, that if there is any one thing which Wellington Hay is not it is a freak. The most remarkable thing about him is his supreme normality.

All this may sound as if young Wellington were a boring and uninteresting youth, but his boyhood friends will tell you that he was "the most popular young fellow in these parts." One gathers that Wellington was rather a young blood of the day, but that he filled the role in a judicious way which prevented his becoming obtrusive.

Anyone who sees him now will notice the inevitable pink flower in his buttonhole. That is merely the natural sequel of youthful years in which the wearer kept careful watch of fashion's latest foibles. Those were the days of the Prince Albert coat and the bell-bottom trousers, and Wellington's choice in each of those requisites was the despair and envy of the town. Popular with the ladies, was young Wellington Hay. He never missed a dance or party within miles, and when he married Josephine Riggs, "Joey," as Listowel still calls her, it was conceded that the beau and the belle of the town had captured each other.

Young Wellington did not play cricket or baseball, and he was an indifferent skater. But in one activity

SOUTH AFRICAN STRIKING MINERS RETURN TO WORK

Industrial Federation Summons Emergency Meeting for Consideration of Conciliation.

London, England, March 4.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The South African striking miners are returning to work in increasing numbers, Reuter's Johannesburg correspondent states.

Over 1,000 strikers have gone back to work, so that, with the officials and others, there are now 5,000 men at work along the reef. There were indications last night of a progressive resumption of work if the present calm continues. There is more peace talk today than there has been since the beginning of the strike.

The industrial federation has summoned an emergency meeting for tonight, and a conference at Germiston tomorrow, which will be attended by representatives from the whole Reef, Witbank and Vereenining districts. There has been much talk of a breakaway today, especially at Germiston, while in the outlying districts an immense amount of interest is being taken in what is described as the Germiston peace conference."

CIVIC RECORDS OF GREAT VALUE ARE DESTROYED

Loss of City Hall Is Heavy Financial Blow to Quebec's Metropolis.

EXPECTS FEDERAL AID

Mayor Martin Declares Loan of $2,500,000 May Be Sought To Rebuild.

Montreal, March 4.—A total loss of at least $10,000,000 is Mayor Martin's estimate of the net result of last night's fire at the city hall, without counting the incalculable loss of historic documents, works of art and records of a moral and sentimental, rather than a financial value.

In this total his worship includes not only the value of the building destroyed and of its contents (not a dollar's worth of which is insured, his worship believes), but also the cost of replacing and recompiling lists of assessments, taxation lists, etc., the furnishing of temporary accommodation for the city hall staff and the meetings of the various committees and of the council and all the other expenses inflicted on the city by the loss of the city hall.

The disorganization of the city's finances, said Mayor Martin, was bound to be inestimable. He thought it probable that the government would facilitate the city's recovery from the disaster by authorizing a special loan of two and a half or three million dollars, with which to build a new city hall of such quality and proportions as would be a satisfaction to the community for many years to come.

Among the historic documents destroyed are some records going back as far as 1897, which a city hall official was busy compiling and had left late night in the drawers of his desk. Tax records were saved because they were in the vaults.

The city hall was built in 1878, and cost in the neighborhood of $700,000, and could not be replaced today under a million.

In addition to the great property loss, six firemen were injured and it is feared that one of them, Captain Riley, will lose the sight of an eye, having been severely cut and burned by a piece of fused glass which fell on his forehead.

Hon. Mederic Martin, mayor of Montreal, was promptly at the scene of the fire. Sergt. Ferdinand Lefleur, the mayor's personal bodyguard, succeeded in saving the mayoral chain of office, but nothing else of value except some personal papers.

In the large fireproof vaults containing the city's documents were signed debentures valued at $5,000,000, the proceeds of the recent city loan, and the mayor conferred with Fire Chief Chevalier, asking if it were not possible to concentrate on the wing where they were housed. But the fire chief replied this would be as difficult as it would be futile, on account of the tremendous draft from the center of the building ,and the direction of the wind. Jules Crepeau, director of services, stated that the documents of his department were probably safe, and the debentures also, since they were stored in fireproof vaults.

UNUSUAL STORIES ABOUT UNUSUAL PEOPLE

LONDON, March 4.—Thrown out of Oxford University because of extreme political views, Arthur E. Reade, 20, one of the university's most brilliant students, is publishing a communist students' magazine.

His magazine already has a greater circulation than any other college publication.

Reade's main difficulty is getting the publication printed. The first issue was printed at Manchester, but the printers refused to get out any second was printed at printers there also editions.

ONE-MAN PARTY COMPRISES OFFICIAL OPPOSITION ON ALL LONDON CIVIC BOARDS

THE official opposition on all of London's municipal boards consists of but one man on each.

This interesting fact has been emphasized by the action of Bryden Campbell, who blossomed out as the only insurgent against the recent large appropriation of $637,000 for new schools.

Of the twelve members of the board, Mr. Campbell was the only man who opposed the expenditures. He made three motions to prevent the approval of the board's program. He failed to get a seconder.

At just about the same time, the official opposition of one in the council, Ald. H. B. Ashplant, was also making motions against proposals of the administrations, and like his fellow insurgent on the school board, he thrice times failed to get a seconder.

Here is how the opposition lines up:

Council—Ald. H. B. Ashplant.

School Board—Bryden Campbell.

Utilities Commission — F. G. Mitchell.

Housing Commission—Dennis Tallant.

Board of Health—Chas. Mitchell.

Mr. Campbell is serving his first year on the school board and he was amazed, he said, at the way the board votes money. The members seemed to think nothing of $100,000. They vote such amounts right and left.

The new member on the board wanted a chance to breathe. He wanted a little delay, and thus playing a lone hand, he blossomed out as the one opponent to what has been widely commented on as "a policy of extravagance."

On the council, Ald. Ashplant is making about as much progress as Mr. Campbell on the school board, but he has a couple of matters shaping up rather promising for the future.

The alderman's fight was staged, first, against paying the deputy magistrate, until his salary had been provided for in the estimates. He was not on the regular city pay roll.

The second was that the Springbank dam be submitted to a vote of the people.

The third was that the special committee named to interview the solicitor in regard to annex school taxes, should be empowered, if the solicitor's ruling would allow, to instruct city officials to collect the full school rate in taxes for this year.

In neither case did he get a seconder. He is also facing a merry battle when he presses his motion, now that he has the solicitor's opinion, to have the school tax in the annex collected on the full assessment. Mayor Wilson is a strong opponent against interfering with the agreement. Ald. Ashplant says there is no agreement in regard to school taxes.

Fred Mitchell, who has sat on the utilties commission for a number of years, has always been considered an anti-Beck man and during the first few years that he was on the commission waxed quite strong in opposition.

Mr. Mitchell is today a very sick man. He has been confined to his home for a few months, and while he improved materially for a time, he has been forced of late to take to his bed again.

Dennis Tallant was named on the housing commission at the beginning of 1921 to help clean-up a rather trying situation that has existed. Troubles galore and not a few "spats" had marked the commission's work. Mr. Tallant put up a stiff fight in regard to the Pine Lawn housing situation, interest centering on the faulty roofs. The roofs were repaired as a result.

Charles Mitchell is a new member of the board of health, but is considered one of the best lay authorities on health matters in the city. He is now making a close study of the work of the health board, and promises to revolutionize things when he gets a real grasp on affairs.

"I am going to know something about the board of health before I get through," declared Mr. Mitchell at a recent meeting.

WILL INCLUDE WAGE CLAUSE

Special Garbage Committee Decides On Provision To Be Inserted in Contract.

WANT EFFICIENT SYSTEM

Frame List of Penalties For Non-Fulfillment of Specifications.

The special garbage committee on Friday night, decided that a wage clause providing for the payment of a wage of $25 per week of 53 hours, shall be included in the specifications for tenders for the collection and disposal of garbage by contract.

This was perhaps the most important feature of the specifications as prepared and as they will be presented to the city council.

The idea of calling for tenders is to get a more efficient collection of garbage, and as one alderman remarked, when the specifications are gone over, efficiency will be the highest, if the rules laid down are lived up to.

"The O. T. A. has nothing on this," remarked Ald. Judd, when the committee came to consider the penalties provided for in case the contractor does not live up to the terms of the contract, and for the most part the penalties as prepared by the engineer were approved without change.

An interesting point made on several occasions during the discussion was that the engineer's department shall tender on the specifications and the same rules and regulations shall apply if the contract is awarded his department as would apply to a contractor.

Centers on Wage Clause.

The main discussion of the meeting centered on the wage clause. Dr. Douglass, chairman, said that in his opinion a wage clause was not necessary, but it was open to the committee to act.

Ald. Drake said the desire was to have good respectable men on the job.

Ald. Ashton said the job of garbage collector was the hardest job he knew of. It was harder than delivering coal.

The discussion centered on this point for a time.

Dr. Douglas said that if wages dropped the contractor would not be able to take advantage of it. He said that a paving contractor would not be bound.

Counter suggestions flew back and forward. Engineer Brazier suggested that if wages dropped the contractor be allowed to cut his price and the city would reduce payment in keeping.

Ald. Judd said that the city would benefit from this. He reminded the aldermen that the specifications they were drawing were for the city, and not for the contractor. The contractor would read the specifications and put in his tender with his eyes open.

Ald. Ashton suggested a fixed wage, and Ald. Douglass said that by so doing the city would benefit, as it would get better service.

Finally the matter simmered down to three points—the prevailing minimum wage paid by the city, $25 for 53 hours, subject to reductions, or a straight $25 for 53 hours' work. The latter was favored.

Engineer Brazier said that the incinerator, which cost a little over $40,000, was worth about that amount today. To replace it would take $80,000. He thought the city should have a rental and at the same time make the contractor responsible for maintenance. The interest and sinking fund charges on the plant are $2,700, and the committee decided to fix the rental at $2,400 yearly.

There will be a decision later as to whether or not the contractor is to get the $3,000 now received by the city department for heating Victoria Hospital. The question of sorting garbage is involved. The engineer stated that if the contractor sorted out the paper he would be removing the combustible material necessary to burn the garbage, as the rest of it was 75 per cent moisture, and for this reason would not burn well with the paper out. It was suggested that if the contractor sorts out the paper the charge to the hospital be cut to $1,500. This point was undecided. However, it was decided that, if he desires, the contractor can sort out incombustibles, bones, bottles, etc.

The city may want to use a large amount of the ashes from the incinerator for filling in if a breakwater is erected at the rear of Front street.

Must Remove Ashes.

The provision is made that a contractor must remove the ashes to any point within 1,200 feet of the incinerator. If the city wants it carried further it must provide the equipment.

Ashes collected must be placed where the city desires, either on highways or public property.

Dr. Douglass said that if the city did not want ashes, the contractor should have the privilege of selling them to private individuals.

There was considerable discussion over the clause relating to equipment. This calls on the contractor to take over the city equipment at a valuation to be arrived at.

Dr. Douglass suggested that if at the expiration of the contract it is not renewed the city should repurchase at a valuation.

Engineer Brazier objected. He had good horses. The contractor might sell them and put "old skates on the job." The city would not want them even at a valuation.

Ald. Drake said the contractor might purchase trucks and the city would not want to take over trucks.

Ald. Judd reminded them that they were making the contract for the city.

Ald. Watkinson said that he thought Dr. Douglass wanted to be fair to both sides.

Ald. Douglass said that from what he was told, it looked like a good chance for the city to get rid of some old junk.

Ald. Drake said the city had the finest equipment in the province.

As adopted, the clause makes no provision for repurchase by the city.

The committee decided to make the tender a double one, allowing a contractor to tender on collection and disposal or collection or both, as he desires.

Make Specifications.

The main features of the specifications are as follows: The term of the contract shall be for one year, and tenderers shall put up 5 per cent of the amount of their tender. If after being awarded the tender the contractor does not make a start within fourteen days his contract may be cancelled and any expense charged to him. Tenders may be for collection and disposal or collection only or both.

The medical officer of health shall have supervision of the service. The contractor shall employ bona fide citizens and shall pay a wage of $25 per week of 53 hours.

A ban is placed on a contractor using garbage for feeding hogs, dumping or reduction by boiling down grease or other fats.

The incinerator shall be taken over by the contractor at a yearly rental of $2,400, and he shall be responsible for repairs and maintenance. The matter of whether the contractor gets the $3,000 for heating Victoria Hospital stands over. It may be made conditional. If he sorts garbage he may only get half of the $3,000. If he doesn't he may get the whole. The contractor shall provide two of the three engineers needed at the incinerator and the hospital the third.

The contractor shall be allowed, at any rate, to sort out bottles and non-combustibles.

Ashes from the incinerator shall be moved to any point within 1,200 feet of the incinerator. If the city wants them taken further it must pay the cost.

On Order of City.

The disposal of ashes collected shall be on the order of the city, and shall be dumped on public highways or public property.

The contractor shall take over the present equipment of the city at a valuation to be arrived at by three valuators, one representing the city, one the contractor and an independent third. A central office to receive complaints shall be maintained, and a report made to the city on the loads collected, and complaints received.

Neglect to remove garbage or ashes, $2 each offence.

Neglect to keep wagons clean and sanitary, $5.

Failure to distribute cards as to regulations, 25c a house.

Failure to replace cans properly, 25c each offence.

Failure to remove spilled garbage, 25c each offence.

Failure to discharge incompetent, abusive, intoxicated men, $10 per day.

Failure to maintain phone service, office, etc., $10 per day.

Rosy-Cheeked Healthy Women

Know the Full Value of Rich, Red Blood.

Robust, healthy, red-cheeked women seldom worry. Their condition of mind and body is such that they can rise above the causes that bring melancholy and brooding. It is the woman with weak, watery blood who is thrown into nervous unrest by little annoyances that grow so great in the imagination that it seems as if she must scream to relieve her feelings.

A woman's health quickly fails her when her blood becomes thin and weak. The stomach is disordered and all appetite vanishes. The nerves lose their strength and so sleep is not regular and does not refresh the body. A state of weakness arises that increases gradually and gives further cause for worry. Good blood is necessary to every woman who has grown pale and weak, and in this condition Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be found of great benefit, because they enrich and purify the blood. Women who are anaemic, suffer from indigestion, palpitation, headaches and nervous attacks will find new strength through a fair use of these pills. Among the women who have proved the value of this medicine is Mrs. Enos Levy, Hackett's Cove, N. S., who says: "About two years ago I began to fail in health and was very weak. My constitution was all run down, and my blood was weak and watery, as was manifest every month. I had heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and what they would do for the blood, and being in such a low condition I decided to try them. By the time I had finished the fourth box I found to my great delight that I was a great deal stronger, and my blood a deep red color. I have a lot of work to do besides taking care of my little one, and with my good health I enjoy it, and I can truthfully say I owe this condition to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained through any medicine dealer, or may be had by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.—Advt.

WOUND 2 IN NEW BELFAST RIOTS

Irish Republican Soldiers Fire On and Burn Royal Constabulary Cars.

PRIVATE HOME IS BOMBED

200 Raiders Armed With Machine-Guns Seize Government Lorries.

BELFAST, March 3.—When three cars containing members of the Royal Irish Constabulary were leaving Tipperary for Dublin yesterday they were fired on and forced to halt before barricades which had been thrown across the road, it became known today.

Captain Galiaway and Purdy were taken prisoners, and the other members were lined up in the street and searched by members of the Irish Republican army. Two of the cars were burned during the firing, and two of the police were wounded and sent to a hospital.

One of the most sensational features of the affair occurred when, during the firing, a policeman was seen to jump from a car with his clothing in flames. He dashed madly down the street, but collapsed after having gone some 50 yards.

A Sinn Feiner went to his rescue and quickly stripped off the burning clothes, and had the man removed to the hospital for medical attention.

A police escort with seven motor lorries and one armored car was held up by 200 men at Dunkitt, two miles from Waterford, this morning. The lorries, which contained government property, including rifles and ammunition, were seized and driven to an unknown destination. The monetary loss is estimated at £12,000. The police escort was not harmed.

The lorries were on the way to the Gormanstown camp, County Kilkenny, which is the police demobilization centre.

The raiders were armed with machine guns and rifles.

A bomb was thrown this evening into the home of the Burnet family in Cupar street in Belfast. Two daughters were injured and taken to a hospital.

DONATES TUBES TO WESTERN "U."

To form a nucleus of a medical historical museum, a number of intubation tubes used by the late Dr. Joseph O'Dwyer have been donated by his sister, Mrs. (Dr.) J. R. McCabe of Strathroy.

Dr. O'Dwyer, who was a native of this district, was the originator of the intubation method of treating asphyxia in diphtheria, which has since its inception saved many lives. Included in the collection donated are original tubes of hard rubber, silver and metal alloys in various sizes, and the modern perfected tube.

This collection is to be placed on exhibition in the medical school. It is expected that Capt. Allan McCabe, a fourth-year medical student at Western, and a nephew of Dr. O'Dwyer, will address the Medical Historical Society of Western University on the life of his uncle and the intubation method of treating diphtheria in the near future.

New M.P.'s Apparently Not Inquisitive.

OTTAWA, March 3.—Parliament will get started next week with little in the nature of private members' resolutions and questions on the order paper. Instead of a score or more there are but two resolutions in the hands of the house officials.

A fact which has considerable bearing on the matter is that of the 234 members now elected to the house, something like 130 have not previously sat in the Commons Chamber.

CLAIMS MASH NEW KIND OF FOOD FOR CHICKENS

St. Thomas Man Arraigned For Breach of the Inland Revenue Act.

ST. THOMAS, March 2.—Thomas Holland, a resident of the east end of this city, was arraigned in police court, Friday, charged with keeping a still and making liquor contrary to the inland revenue act, but because the court was unable to determine just what the evil-smelling liquors discovered on the premises were, the case was adjourned one week so that an analysis could be made.

Holland claimed that he was not guilty. He was merely experimenting to see if liquor could be made. He claimed that the liquids found were non-intoxicating. The corn and raisin mash, he said, was a new kind of chicken feed which he was endeavoring to make.

When the prisoner learned that the liquor was to be analysed, he generously offered to have it done for the court, producing a small medicine bottle to take a sample. The court refused the offer.

Holland was permitted to return to his home to care for the multitude of animals and birds he harbors.

A complete still, a keg of mash, and several gallons of liquor were seized at Holland's residence, Thursday afternoon.

PROPOSE NEW FORM OF DISTRIBUTION OF RELIEF

St. Thomas Aldermen Find Appropriation of $2,000 Has Already Been Used.

ST. THOMAS, March 3.—Because the appropriation of $2,000 set aside by the city council for the distribution of free fuel among the destitute of the city throughout the year has already been extended, members of the city council will in all probability adopt a new method of administering relief at the meeting of that body Tuesday next.

The subject was broached by Ald. Penhale, chairman of the relief committee, before a meeting of No. 5 committee on Friday night. Ald. Penhale doubted the wisdom of leaving the distribution of fuel in the hands of the relief and public health officer. He believed that all relief work should be put in the hands of a committee, preferably the Women's B. and T. Society, which already distributes food and clothing among the poor.

Ald. Meehan stated that he was absolutely opposed to a one-man control and suggested that all relief work should be in the hands of a committee. He stated that all accounts of relief distributed should be laid before the council each month.

Ald. Penhale was asked to bring the matter before the council as a whole when a change will be discussed.

The chairman of the relief committee stated that he would have to be given permission to exceed his propriation, as people could not be letf in want. He asked the committee to back him up in any action that he took.

Several of the aldermen expressed the opinion that people undeserving of help were receiving it.

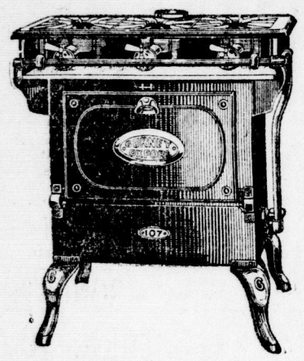
Gurney Gas Stoves and Fireless Cookers---An Economic Combination



The Gurney Gas Range is recognized as the most economic consumer of gas of any stove on the market today—this has been proven over and over again by actual test.

The fireless cooker cooks without fire or fuel. Fifteen or twenty minutes on the gas burner will heat the disc, which when closed up in the cooker, will cook for five hours without fire or fuel.

Just figure out how much gas you will save by this process in one year or even a month, cooking for the average family. The reduction on your monthly gas bills would soon pay for your equipment. Better results, too,—there is less shrinkage, meats are more juicy as the substance is all retained, and it tastes different. See for yourself this equipment in the basement.

Watch Pugnacious Boston Bull Hold Innocent Cyclist At Bay

ST. THOMAS, March 3. — With a persistency that would have done credit to a purer bred dog, Boston bull terrier, too vicious to be comforting, held a cyclist on Talbot street near Railway street for fully 30 minutes on Friday night, while hundreds of passersby looked on without offering help.

As the man was riding a bicycle the dog rushed from the sidewalk and pulled him from the wheel. He then stood guard, licking his chops and daring the man to mount the wheel again.

The rider attempted to accept the challenge on one or two occasions, but with a snarl and a leap the dog forced him to change his mind. Every attempt to put a foot on a pedal was met with a menacing growl.

The pavement was cold, and the man shivered, but the dog was relentless. Twenty, thirty minutes passed by, and the case seemed hopeless. Then down the street hove a belt line street car bringing to the man a breath of inspiration.

He waved frantically to the motorman, who, although puzzled at the tableau, slowed the car. When the door opened the man jumped on the steps and dragged his wheel beside him.

The motorman by this time realized the situation and sped up the car. Furious in his defeat the dog gave pursuit, leaping and barking as the car rolled westward.

WRECK TIES UP LONDON TRAINS

BROKEN TRUCK BLAMED

Lines Blocked For Several Hours, Despite Efforts of Auxiliary.

Seven freight cars were demolished, the Hyde Park overhead bridge partially wrecked and all traffic west of London held up for many hours when a broken truck on train No. 488 running from Chicago to Buffalo caused the cars to telescope just east of the Hyde Park Grand Trunk station at 7.25 p.m. Friday.

When the truck broke the train came to such a sudden stop, that the cars immediately following it piled up, wrecking the bridge and leaving only the trucks of the freight cars intact.

The cars were laden with lard.

It is considered remarkable that no one was injured, as there is considerable traffic over the bridge.

The London auxiliary was rushed to the scene shortly after the accident, and it was not until 1 o'clock Saturday morning that the line had been cleared sufficiently to allow the resumption of traffic.

The Chicago train was sent via St. Marys and Sarnia. The Detroit train was sent via the C. P. R. line to Chatham, where is was switched to the Grand Trunk lines again.

BRISBANE STREET MAN FINED FOR HITTING BOY

Charles Brooks Pays $5 for Alleged Part in Brick-Bat Fight.

Charles Brooks, 4 Brisbane street, was fined $5 in police court Saturday morning on a charge of assaulting the small son of William Bennett, a neighbor, last Monday at noon.

According to the evidence of William Bennett, he asked Brooks to apologize for the abusive language alleged to have been inflicted on Mrs. Bennett and her mother that morning. He refused and, according to Bennett, Brooks threw a stone, hitting his 3-year-old son behind the ear. The doctor bill was $2, and Mr. Brooks will have to pay this.

Mrs. Bennett and her mother corroborated this evidence.

Brooks stated that Bennett swore at him and had most of the conversation. He walked away from him, he said, and Bennett started throwing stones, hitting him on the back and head. After this, he started to get into mid-season form and threw a few bricks back at Bennett. He wouldn't say that a stone had not hit the boy, but he did not see it happen.

Cross-examined by Albert Judd, Brooks said that "Bennett came at me grinding his teeth," and had used some very bad language.

FATHER OF SICK GIRL SUMMONED INTO COURT

Flourishes Certificate From "Best Doctor in Town" in Defence of Case.

"My girl's still sick, magistrate. She has got a certificate from a good doctor," stated Fred Smith in police court Saturday morning. Mr. Smith had been summoned by public school attendance officer, Dr. George Weir, for not sending his daughter to school.

"Who was the doctor?" demanded Dr. Weir.

"Dr. F. J. H. Campbell," was the reply, "and I defy you to get a better doctor than he is, to say that my daughter is not sick," exclaimed Mr. Smith.

"Well, that's all right. I am willing to take Dr. Campbell's word any time. "I thin kif this girl is tubercular she should be sent to the 'San.'"

"You had better have the board of health look into this case," said Magistrate Bartlett.

"I have been after these people for four years," declared Dr. Weir. "The girl has not much education."

FAILS TO STAY IN AFTER DRINKING

"I wasn't anything out of the road your honor," protested a citizen in police court Saturday morning, charged with being drunk.

"Well, will we call the evidence" asked the court.

"I don't care," was the reply with a large yawn thrown in for good measure.

"He wouldn't have been brought in if he hadn't been drunk," declared the chief.

The prisoner stated that he had his liquor at home.

"Why didn't you drink it there, then?" questioned Magistrate Bartlett.

"I did, but I came out afterwards. That is where I made my mistake," was the answer.

"Stay in the house after this, where you are as safe as in church," advised the court. "Ten dollars and costs this time."

YOUNG BOYS TO BE CHURCH'S GUESTS

The "Young Boys" of Askin Street Methodist Church are to be the guests of the "Old Boys" next Friday night, when the annual father and son banquet of the men's brotherhood will be held. George W. Sulman, ex-M.P.P., of Chatham, is going to be on hand as the speaker, and will tell of some of his experiences in the Far East.

The number of boys and young men attached to Askin Street Methodist Church makes it rather a difficult task to find "fathers" for them all, but the committee in charge is going to attempt it, and the attendance promises to be the largest that has yet marked one of these annual affairs.

London Landlords Refuse to Rent Houses to People With Children

London has been referred to as old-fashioned, but it is not so much so that it has not landlords and landladies, who refuse tenants with children, states the head of one London family, who reports that during the past two weeks, while searching for a desirable residence, he encountered four owners who refused him as a tenant because he had a baby.

In all four cases a suitable agreement could have been entered into, but for the fact that the family was made up of husband, wife and a year-old baby. The latter was the fly in the ointment.

"We cannot allow a baby, cat or a dog," said one landlady, according to the housekeeper, and he added that she, a mother of children herself, was the second woman he had met in a week who refused to rent him property because there was a baby.

This house-hunter stated that he found that desirable places were scarce in the city with the result that rents were being maintained at a high rate. He found that $40 to $60 was the rent being asked for houses; $45 to $75 for duplex apartments, and apartment suites $60 up.

Less than five years ago, the choicest apartments in the city rented for $38 and $40.

SPRING SONGSTER RETURNS TO CITY

Prairie Horned Lark First Real Harbinger of Summer Welcomed This Year by London Bird Club.

MANY PINE GROSBEAKS

Have Been Noticeable in Great Numbers at Springbank Park During Whole of Winter.

The McIlwraith Ornithological Club has just issued an interesting report on the movements of the bird life in this district during the month of January. An outstanding feature in connection with the birds this winter has been the presence of so large a number of Pine Grosbeaks, located to a large extent at Springbank Park. The Prairie Horned Lark is the first really spring arrival. The report of birds observed is as follows:

Jan. 1.—Crow, Chickadee, Cardinal, Junco, Downy Woodpecker, Hairy Woodpecker, Red-Breasted Nuthatch, White-Breasted Nuthatch.

Jan. 2.—Bluejay, Snow Bunting, Tree Sparrow, Golden-Crowned Kinglet, American Merganser, Screech Owl, Mourning Dove, Herring Gull, Snowy Owl, Goldeneye Duck, Brown Creeper, Song Sparrow.

Jan. 3.—Kingfisher, Long-Eared Owl, Great Horned Owl.

Jan. 7.—Grouse.

Jan. 8.—Sharp-Shinned Hawk.

Jan. 9.—Robin.

Jan. 10.—Flicker.

Jan. 14.—Red - Tailed Hawk, Bronzed Grackle.

Jan. 15.—Northern Shrike.

Jan. 17.—Prairie Horned Lark.

Jan. 21.—Pine Grosbeak.

Total, 33.

This list includes most of the permanent residents such as Crow, Chickadee, Downy, Hairy, etc., quite a number of winter birds, Snow Bunting, Snow Owl, Pine Grosbeak, etc., also the usual scattered representation of our summer birds a few of which remain over each winter although the most of their fellows seek a warmer climate. It will be observed that the latter includes the Song Sparrow, Kingfisher, Bronzed Grackle, Flicker, Mourning Dove, also the "First Robin" which was seen on Jan. 9.

The only one which might be termed a spring arrival is the Prairie Horned Lark. This hardy species is due back the first week in February, and no doubt the one seen on January 17 returned a little earlier than usual on account of the mild weather. By February 4 they were quite common and were heard singing in the fields northeast of the city. On February 19 a flock of between 200 and 300 was observed a mile west of the city on Oxford street, while smaller bands were seen farther along the road.

The feature of the winter birds has been the unusual number of Pine Grosbeaks. They have been most frequently reported from Springbank Park, where they have been living largely in the tamaracks.

NEW CLARIFYING PLANT READY FOR OPERATION

Horton Street Building Now Awaits Inspection by New York Engineer.

London's new clarifying plant on Horton street is now completed and practically ready for use, it was announced Saturday at the public utility department.

Nothing remains now to be accomplished except the placing in the filter of the necessary sand for clarifying purposes and an engineer from New York will arrive in the city at the first of next week to attend to this work and inspect the new plant.

It is explained that the water from the Horton street wells, which will pass through the clarifying filter, is by no means impure. It does contain, however, a certain amount of rust, that while disagreeable probably cannot prove injurious.

It is expected that the Ohio well diggers, still busily engaged upon their last two tests for pure water in London, will be able to submit a report upon one of these prospective wells at the next regular meeting of the public utility commissioners.

REPORTS 39 MILES PAVED IN LONDON

COSTS ARE DECLINING

Mill Rate in 1922 For Cleaning Will Be Same As 1920.

Reports on the cost of street sweeping, oiling, watering, etc., presented for the year 1921, show how rapidly London is increasing its paving area.

Today the city has 39.43 miles of pavement as compared with 6.58 miles in 1912. The cost of pavement sweeping in 1912 was $8,550 or $1,299 per mile. Last year the total cost was $46,111 or $1,169 per mile.

The charge to the ratepayers for pavement sweeping is placed in zones the charge running from 3 cents to 19 cents per foot.

In view of the demand for garbage collection by contract, now being considered, the cost for 1921 collection is interesting.

The total 1921 cost was $74,771.62, and with a deficit from 1920 of $1,-611, the total to be raised in the 1922 taxes is $76,383.

The mill rate in the 1922 taxes will be 1.3 mils. This is the same as 1920, and .12 mills lower than 1921.

The mill rate for garbage collection in 1913, the first part of the year was .80 mills; 1914, 1.50 mills; 1916, 1.20 mills, 1917, 1 mill; 1919, 1.6 mills, the highest of any year.

In 1912 the cost of street cleaning was $14,894. In 1915 it was $10,575; 1918, $5,362; 1921, $7,425.

Jack Miner's Wild Geese Return, Presaging an Early Spring

JACK MINER, who was in London, Friday, the guest of Rev. Walter Millson, William street, addressed the pupils of Lord Roberts school, interesting the children greatly with his tales of the wild life of Ontario, with which he is so familiar. Mr. Miner reports that the wild geese have already arrived on his place, the earliest at which they have ever been known to come. According to Mr. Miner, this fact should indicate an early spring.

OPTIMISTIC OVER BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Reports from over all Ontario received from commercial travelers by G. T. Hair, secretary of the Ontario Commercial Travelers' Association, in this city, show that there is still a tendency on the part of buyers to purchase on the "hand-to-mouth" principle.

Despite this most of the reports are optimistic in their trend, says Mr. Hair, and conditions are improving rapidly. The travelers are in direct touch with business and their observations made as they are at close range reveal things as they are, says Mr. Hair.

WILL AID RUSSIA THROUGH 'SAVE THE CHILDREN' FUND

Canadian Churches Decide on Appeal to Conference Held in Toronto.

Rev. W. R. McIntosh has returned from Toronto, where he attended the conference of representatives of churches of all denominations to consider the question of the Russian famine relief fund. Mr. McIntosh stated that Sunday, April 2, is to be set apart specially for contributions which are to go to the national committee of the "Save the Children Fund."

Col. Mackie is in charge of this fund, and his statements of the terrible conditions which prevail in Russia and the dire need for assistance are received as absolutely authentic.

By means of co-operation of the Dominion and British governments, foodstuffs and supplies purchased in Canada will be available for use in Russia in the space of fifteen days. Relief trains are being sent from Riga, a port on the Baltic Sea. These cars are under the official seal of the Latvian and Russian governments, which seal is not broken until the cars have reached the sources of relief distribution.

Steps had already been taken by the London Presbytery and the Ministerial Alliance toward raising funds, and Sunday, March 12, had been designated as the date on which special contributions would be received. However, this will in no way conflict with the date set in Toronto.

The question of the Russian Famine Relief Fund has been in no way neglected in London, but there has been hesitating on account of the fact that very little reliable information could be obtained as to the channel through which money would be sent.

However, representatives at the conference were fully satisfied that the "Save the Children Fund" offers a safe and reliable channel through which funds may be sent to relieve the dire conditions which prevail in Russia, and ministers are urged to do their utmost in securing a generous response.

ESTIMATES ARE $6,000 LARGER

Necessary Expenditure in City Engineer's Dept. Shows 7 Per Cent Increase.

WORKS ITEM $143,768

Probable Requirements For Finance Committee Are Not Yet Completed.

The estimates of the city engineer's department for Nos. 1 and 2 committee show an increase of about $6,000 as compared with the totals estimated at the beginning of 1921.

For the works department, the engineer estimates the necessary expenditure at $143,768. This is an increase of $10,000 over the 1921 estimate, about 7 per cent. The board of works went carefully into every item but found that the engineer had pared matters to the point that further cutting was impossible and the total was approved as it stood.

Streets Cost Most.

The main item of works cost is streets general expense, $54,557. This is made up of paving repairs, $7,300; supplies, $16,585; labor, $26,772 gravel and cinders, $12,000; five foremen for the city cost $7,747, and road roller repairs, $1,250.

The cost of maintaining the autos of the department is placed at $1,771; bridges, $6,720; which includes $2,820 for painting the new Wharncliffe road bridge. One of the alderman thought this item could be struck out, but the engineer said that the painting was absolutely necessary. New walks for Oxford and Blackfriars bridges, costing $650 and $425, respectively, are provided for.

Garbage Collection.

The city's portion of the garbage collection expense is $7,745; pavement sweeping, $11,013; street cleaning, $1,717; oiling and watering, $7,885.

Sewerage pumping stations cost $4,212; sewers and culverts, $26,281; railway maintenance cost $6,075, along with bridge cost, are responsible for the major portion of the $10,000 increase in the estimates.

The engineer's estimates for the finance committee are yet to be passed on. They take care of three departments, street lighting, market and comfort stations.

The former is the big item. The engineer estimates that the cost to the city this year will be $34,174. Last year the cost was $33,323. Of the total $650 is to provide for new lights, but does not provide for extension of the ornamental lighting system.

BEGIN ERECTION OF NEW HOTEL IN NEAR FUTURE

Plans Discussed at Friday's Joint Meeting of Directors.

Directors of the new Lloyd George Hotel and the directors of the Chamber of Commerce held a joint meeting at the London Club Friday and discussed and reviewed the progress of the campaign from the time it first started until now.

It was announced at the meeting that the Anglin-Norcross Company will begin the erection of the structure in a few weeks.

The Bank of Montreal had assured him, stated George M. Reid, at the meeting, that the hotel company may take possession of the bank at the corner of Richmond and Queen's avenue May 1.

Senator Belcourt of Montreal, member of the privy council and president of the Canada Hotels, Limited; W. Baker, Montreal, treasurer of the same company; J. P. Anglin, Montreal, of the firm of Anglin-Norcross; George M. Reid, R. N. Rosenbaum and H. C. Howard attended the gathering.

That a more comprehensive statement will be issued shortly by the Chamber of Commerce is the assurance given Saturday.

Saw in the War A Second Chance

Dr. Beattie Tells How Men's Souls Developed in Crucible of Struggle.

"War, Through a Chaplain's Eyes" was the subject of an address delivered by Col. Beattie to the Women's Canadian Club in St. Andrew's Church Friday afternoon. Col. Beattie brought home a most vivid picture of all phases of the soldier's life.

"That heterogenous mass presented a most interesting study in psychology, and it amazed us to watch the development of their minds under the trying conditions of war," said the speaker. "Rough men who felt that heretofore their lives had been somewhat of a failure seized upon the war as a second chance to make good, and they succeeded.

"A marvellous spirit of self-sacrifice manifested itself. Men who up till the time of the war had no occasion to exercise self-sacrifice performed the most heroic deeds of valor, risked their lives, their chance of safety, everything, for their comrades. When a parcel came its contents belonged to everybody. Each man shared another's burdens, and his sorrows as well as his joy.

"The war brought forth in the men a new spirit of courage. No man left the trenches for an attack without being afraid, but, in spite of fear, they went. And that is what takes the courage. Through it all was their magnificent sense of humor which kept them up. No circumstance was too hard that something to laugh at could not be found. No Christian effort has ever surpassed the work of the Y. M. C. A. and other organizations in staging plays for the men at the rear of the trenches that no time might be given them to brood over the horrors through which they had just come. That hour of hearty laughter was their salvation."

Col. Beattie emphasized the rejuvenation of faith and restored confidence in the triumph of right over wrong which war inspired in the men.

"Men did not wear their religion on their coat sleeves in those days, but I have heard but one man give a flippant answer to his belief in efficacy of prayer."

In the course of the business program it was decided not to have a booth at the fair, as was done last year. Plans were made for carpeting the choir platform, and Mesdames McVicar, Tales, Cottermole and Paddell were appointed a committee to look after this. Arrangements were also made for a bazaar to be held on the 16th. Mrs. Leonard sang a pleasing solo. The hostess entertained at tea, Mrs. McVicar and Mrs. J. Miss Hawkins presided, and Miss Alice Garthwaite took charge of the study hour, based on the section of the study book dealing with Japan. The hostess served refreshments at the close.

UNITY CLASS HOLDS PARTY.

A most successful and unique social gathering was that of the young ladies of the Unity Bible class of Empress Avenue Methodist Church on Thursday evening last. Pre-St. Patrick affair, the schoolroom was decorated with the old-fashioned colorings, beautifully designed and of a most pleasing nature. The 50 young ladies of the class thoroughly amused themselves by playing games, after which they sat down to a delicious repast at a table beautifully decorated with green carnations and hyacinths.

END IN SIGHT OF HUGE TASK

Children's Hospital Committee Hears Encouraging Reports at Annual Meeting.

CHAIRMAN GIVES $10,000

Total Expenses of Administering Work $317—All Services Voluntary.

"If money was available now the hospital could be completed in six weeks," was the arresting statement made by the honorary secretary of the War Memorial Hospital committee, Mrs. F. J. Greenaway, in connection with her report for the past year, the outstanding feature of interest of the annual meeting held on Friday afternoon in the club rooms of the King street Y. W. C. A.

While the good work of healing and helping children that will be done by the new memorial hospital must wait until the necessary funds for finishing the building and equipment are at hand, the report was a most encouraging one, telling of the crowning of success of the unremitting efforts of the convener, Mrs. A. H. Smith, and the members of her committee and the unfailing support given by the I. O. D. E. and other organizations.

The committee has reached its first objective of $180,000. This announcement was greeted with enthusiastic applause, as well as reference to the canvass in progress by the men's committee, led by J. J. Foote, to complete the "last hundred thousand." Including grants, donations and the proceeds of various entertainments held, the sum of $128,870.38 has been raised in the past year. Of this and a balance of $24,950.63 from the previous year, the sum of $141,500 has been paid over to the chairman of the building committee, Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore. With the building completed to the point where it has been insured by the city treasurer, Mr. Bell, the committee is focusing attention upon the securing of equipment.

Eleven Rooms Furnished.

Mrs. Greenaway stated that the furnishing of eleven rooms has been guaranteed by the following organizations and individuals: Lord Roberts Chapter, I. O. D. E.; Princess Patricia Chapter, Lieutenant-Col. Campbell Becher Chapter; Mrs. Emery, Jacksonville, Florida; Mrs. W. M. Spencer, London; Trafalgar Chapter, I. O. D. E.; Mocha Temple Shriners, Union Mothers' Clubs, Royal Arch Masons, Mr. James Cooper, Overseas Chapter, I. O. D. E. The furnishing of still another room is in prospect.

Eighteen cots have been guaranteed by Dundas Center Methodist Church, Good Cheer Club, Abigail Becker Chapter, I. O. D. E., Lord Elgin Chapter, Sir John Carling Chapter, C. E. F., Returned Chapter and G. W. V. A., Nightingale Club, Victoria Alumnae, East Lambton, Westminster Township, Mrs. Duffield, Knights of Columbus, London Township, 7th Regiment Chapter, I. O. D. E., Isobel Hampton Chapter, Senator Coffey Chapter, Mrs. (Dr.) Eccles, Miss Buckle.

Cribs guaranteed—Mrs. Ivey, Janey Canuck Chapter, Mocha Patrol of Shriners, Old Golf Club, Trinity Chapter, O.E.S., Birr Women's Institute.

One ward ($10,000)—Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore, chairman of building committee.

In addition to a grant of $12,000 last year, the Middlesex County Council has given $1,000.

Representatives from the Hugh Niven Chapter, I. O. D. E., were present to state the chapter would be willing to act as a purchasing committee and send out patterns and supplies to be made up, receiving these again, on condition that a suitable room for the work could be provided and guarantee given of practical co-operation on the part of other chapters of the order in the city. On motion of Mrs. J. S. Niven, it was decided to ask for the use of Cronyn Hall.

Mrs. Niven, Mrs. R. M. Tagg and Mrs. Guymer were named an advisory committee.

Start Sewing.

Mrs. Greenaway made appreciative reference to Kintore Women's Institue, the first to take supplies to be made up for the hospital. Other organizations which have already volunteered are the Loch Lomond, Lord Roberts and Princess Patricia Chapters, I. O. D. E., and the Wortley Road Mothers' Club. In addition to regular hospital supplies, girls dresses, rompers, etc., will be required.

A warm tribute was paid to Col. Gartshore, chairman of the building committee, and appreciative reference was made to the quiet canvass organized under the direction of Mrs. J. Gemmell.

Sorrow was expressed for the loss of two good friends of the committee in the past year, Miss Margaret Stanley and Dr. Cl. T. Campbell.

To be or not to be responsible for presenting in London in May the band of the Royal Scots Guards was a question which occasioned prolonged debate, in view of the magnitude of the undertaking and the possible large returns for the hospital. It was decided to approach the various chapters of the I. O. D. E. and certain clubs to see what they would actually be willing to do in the way of support before making a final decision.

On motion of Mrs. A. E. Miller, a resolution of appreciation was passed to the honorary treasurer, Mrs. Cl. T. Campbell.

An idea of the magnitude of the work which goes quietly on every day in the year is to be gained from the casual statement that the honorary secretary, Mrs. F. J. Greenaway, had sent out 4,000 letters and circulars in the past year. The total expenses of administering the work amounted to $317.99.

SELL BAKING FOR GIFT FUND

The community around Thedford, which has been most generous in the past to the War Memorial Children's Hospital, has sent through The Advertiser a donation of $5 to the Princess Mary Wedding Gift Fund to endow a room in the hospital. Forwarded by the Thedford Women's Institute, this amount was made up by the proceeds of a sale of baking held by the U. F. O., which amounted to $4.25. To this Mrs. R. D. Thomson added 75 cents to complete the $5.

Further donations acknowledged by the treasurer are as follows: Mary Panet, London, $5; Marion Reid, London, $1; Ailsa Craig Women's Institute, per Mrs. Hay, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. W. F. Ross, Mrs. I. McArthur, Mrs. R. Cameron, Mrs. A. D. Stewart, Miss Wylie, Miss Hay, Mrs. D. Stewart, $2.75; Mary J. Thomson, Yonkers, N. Y., $1; Miss Frances Brownlee, St. Thomas, $2.

Ribbon Popular!

BY MARIAN HALE.

LONDON, March 3. — Ribbon is playing a very big part in the ornamentation of summer frocks. It does a very novel thing in this Claire gown when it fashions itself, by means of little squares, into a very handsome insertion for a very bouffant skirt.

The unusual treatment given the ribbon is that of being folded into squares and caught together by a narrower ribbon, thus forming a trimming with an openwork effect through which may be envisioned a bit of lovely lavender petticoat. Verily the season seems to be one of lavender.

If the frock itself is not lavender, then there must be somewhere about it a touch of lavender ribbon or a lavender flower.

The bodice of the gown is snug and wears very short and very snug sleeves, while the skirt is full and quite long. Undoubtedly long skirts are on the way. Panels never stop short of the ankle and those skirts which are panelless and straight hemmed are rarely more than seven inches from the floor.

Collegiate's First Annual Social Is Happy School Girl and Boy Party

Faith in the old saw, "Early to bed, early to rise, makes a man (or woman) healthy, wealthy and wise," was manifested Friday evening by staff and students of the London Collegiate Institute, when the first annual social evening was held in the beautiful new building under the auspices of the Students' Union. Guests were invited for 7:30 o'clock, and the rule prevailed, "Positively, lights out at 11:30 o'clock."

The special guests of honor for the occasion were the members of the school board and their wives (or husbands, as the case might be) and the graduates of last year who were honored at the commencement exercises earlier in the day.

Aglow with lights and elaborately decorated throughout in the school colors, purple and gold, given expression in bunting, candles and flowers, the new collegiate home presented a most festive and inviting appearance. A strictly collegiate, happy girl and boy entertainment, the varied program furnished amusement to suit all tastes of the hundreds who attended. Nobody needed to be dull or a wall-flower for a single moment.

Following a short concert in the auditorium, there were games in the club rooms, under the leadership of Miss Edna Holland, assisted by Mr. R. Liddle of the Y. M. C. A. and teachers of the staff; music in the library for those who liked to rest and chat awhile there; orchestral music for the promenade in the corridors, and music for danging in the gymnasium.

In the receiving line just inside the entrance of the auditorium at 7:30 o'clock were Harold Newell, student president of the Students' Union; Dorothy Silverwood, vice-president; Eleanor Grant, secretary, and Ernestine Partridge, Barbara Daly, Louise Wyatt, Albert Lawrence and George McCracken. Later George McCracken, as student president of the literary society, performed in a capable manner the duties of chairman of the concert. Much appreciated were a solo by Viola Stevens, a recitation by Viola Leff, an address by E. A. Miller, and numbers by the collegiate orchestra. A sing-song was led by Jack Wilkins, and the "L. C. I. Rag" formed a fitting wind-up, Dorothy and Cameron Wilson singing the verses and the audience joining in the chorus.

Miss Mary Macpherson was convener in charge of the delicious refreshments, served from 10 till 11 o'clock in the cafeteria, and credit for the decorations was due to a committee convened by Miss B. McCamus.

Others who had a prominent part in making the affair a huge success were Principal W. H. T. Mooney, J. A. Dolan, chairman of the social committee, and E. A. Miller, president of the Students' Union.

The patrons and patronesses were Principal W. H. T. Mooney and Mrs. Mooney, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Silverwood, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. A. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dolan, Mrs. E. T. Cleghorn.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

SWEETBREADS

SWEETBREADS are an excellent meat for an invalid. They are easy to digest and delicate of flavor. Calf's breads should always be procured for sick persons, but beef breads are delicious to serve the family. The beef breads need longer cooking and more careful blanching than calf sweetbreads.

These recipes may be used for either beef or calf sweetbreads.

No matter how sweetbreads are finally served they should always be put into cold water for an hour as soon as brought from market. Then drained and cooked in acidulated and salted boiling water for twenty minutes, thirty to forty minutes for beef breads, again drained and put into cold water. This keeps them white and makes them firm.

Broiled Sweetbreads.

Parboil sweetbread. Cut lengthwise. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper, dot with bits of butter and broil five minutes. Turn and broil three minutes. Serve with lemon butter.

Sweetbreads and Chestnuts in Cream Sauce.

Parboil and blanch a pair of breads. Shell and blanch 20 Italian chestnuts, saute 12 button mushrooms in butter. Make a sauce as follows:

Four tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, 2 eggs (yolks), ½ teaspoon salt, paprika.

Melt butter, stir in flour and when perfectly blended slowly add milk. Beat yolk of eggs slightly and add a little of the sauce. Then add egg mixture to sauce slowly, stirring constantly. To this sauce add the sweetbreads cut in neat cubes, the boiled chestnuts and sauted mushrooms.

Heat over hot water and serve on rounds of bread. To make the rounds of bread cut rounds from the soft part of the loaf about two inches thick. Drop in deep hot fat and fry to a golden brown. Drain on heavy brown paper.

Braised Sweetbreads.

One pair calf's sweetbreads, 1½ cups water, 1 small onion, 1 small carrot, ½ small turnip, 1 strip celery, 6 peppercorns, 2 sprigs parsley, 1 cup tomato sauce, 4 small squares fried bread.

Blanch sweetbreads. Slice vegetables and put in stew pan with water and seasonings. Put the sweetbreads on top the vegetables, cover with buttered paper, cover with a closely fitting lid and simmer for forty-five minutes.

Prepare the bread as in the preceding recipe. Put the sweetbreads on the fried bread, pour over the tomato sauce and serve at once.

Sweetbreads and peas are often combined in a white sauce and the whole served in patty shells.

If serving sweetbreads to a convalescent the simpler the way they are prepared the better. Broiled sweetbreads or sweetbreads in a plain cream sauce are preferable to more elaborate concoctions.

Bit by bit the Princess Mary Wedding Gift Fund in aid of the War Memorial Children's Hospital has grown until on Friday the creditable amount of $582.66 was announced. The objective is $1,000 to endow a cot in the War Memorial Children's Hospital, hence the need of a big push to get the final $418 before the list of contributors can be sent to the Viscountess Lascelles.

A happy evening was enjoyed this week, when Miss Mabel Tedball entertained at her home at 905 Dame street, in honor of Miss Thelma Worrall, whose marriage takes place this month. About twenty girl friends were present to shower the bride-to-be with pretty towels and good wishes. During the evening Mary Lennox, a tiny maiden of 3 years, brought in a prettily decorated wagon piled with gifts. The evening was spent in music and dancing, Mrs. Johnson serving a dainty supper.

Gaily decorated with flags, palms, ferns and bunting, in which the association colors, white and gold figured conspicuously, the Masonic Temple was the scene on Friday evening of a brilliant event, the first of a series of dances to be given by the United Commercial Travellers' Association.

Forty or more card tables were kept in play in the banqueting hall, while a program of dance music furnished by the Versatile Six orchestra in the ballroom in the main auditorium proved irresistible to scores of guests.

Among novelty dances were the serpentine and balloon.

The members of the reception committee included Mr. and Mrs. George T. Hair, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Blackie, Mr. and Mrs. J. Doidge, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. McGugan, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Heaslip and Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Dillon. Mrs. Hair wore a smart gown of black charmeuse; Mrs. Blackie, blue georgette with iridescent beads; Mrs. Doidge, black canton crepe, with panel embroidered in blue and pink; Mrs. McGugan, a black lace gown, and Mrs. Heaslip, black lace with silver garniture.

Amongst those who had a prominent part in making the entertainment the great success it proved were Messrs J. W. St. Lawrence, A. E. English, W. J. McCallum, W. Whittle, K. S. Charters, J. McKenzie, J. Tobias, R. D. Edgar, Geo. Price, A. E. Cowley, J. S. Oakden and W. Wyse.

A very successful event of Friday afternoon was the musicale and tea in connection with Maitland Street Baptist Church, for which Mrs. A. J. Morgan opened her charming home in Wellington street north. Mrs. E. Pierce and Mrs. (Dr.) Sowerby poured tea, while assistants in the tea-room were Mrs. J. Doig, Miss Gladys Noyes, Miss Ellen Cole and Miss Gertrude Morgan. Miss Gertrude Norton attended the door, and Mr. J. Westervelt, jun., and Dr. Sowerby were in charge of the offerings.

Mrs. Edwin Wyatt sang two solos, which were most enthusiastically encored, and the audience was greatly delighted with a violin solo by Mrs. G. Grant, and several songs by Mrs. Ernest Tremer, Mrs. Malton and Miss Wanetta Cox. Miss Aleta Cox and Miss Gertrude Morgan rendered pleasing instrumentals.

In the neighborhood of $60 was realized.

MANY WOMEN NEED BETTER BLOOD

It is a fact proved by thousands of grateful letters that Hood's Sarsaparilla is remarkably beneficial to women, whose most common ailments drain and weaken the system and sometimes result in anaemia, nervousness, general break-down.

Women overworked by family duties or overtasked socially, find their nerves all unstrung, faces pale, appetite poor, sleep unrefreshing.

"IF WINTER COMES"

The Greatest Novel of the Present Decade

BY A. S. M. HUTCHINSON

(Copyright, 1922, Little, Brown & Co.)

Sabre found but little business awaiting him when he got to his office. When he had disposed of it he sat some little time staring absent-mindedly at the cases whereon were ranged the books of his publication. Then he took out the manuscript of "England" and turned over the pages. He wondered what Nona would think of it. He would like to tell her about it.

Twyning came in.

Twyning rarely entered Sabre's room. Sabre did not enter Twyning's twice in a year. Their work ran on separate lines and there was something, unexpressed, the reverse of much sympathy between them. Twyning was an older man than Sabre. He was only two years older in computation by age but he was very much more in appearance, in manner and in business experience. He had been in the firm as a boy checker when Sabre was entering Tidborough school. He had attracted Mr. Fortune's special attention by disclosing a serious scamping of finish in a set of desks and he had risen to head clerk when Sabre was at Oxford. On the day that Sabre entered the firm he had been put "on probation" in the position he now held, and on the day that Sabre's father retired he had been confirmed in the position. He regarded Sabre as an amateur and he was privately disturbed by the fact that a man who "did not know the ropes" and had not "been through the mill" should come to a position equal in standing to his own. Nevertheless he accepted the fact, showing not the smallest animosity.

II.

Twyning was of middle height, very thin, black-haired. His clean-shaven face was deeply furrowed in rigid-looking furrows, which looked as though shaving would be an intricate operation. He held himself very stiffly and spoke stiffly as though the cords of his larynx were also rigidly inclined. When not speaking he had a habit of breathing rather noisily through his nose as if he were doing deep breathing exercises. He was married and had a son of whom he was immensely proud, aged eighteen and doing well in a lawyer's office.

He came in and closed the door. He had a sheet of paper in his hand.

Sabre, engrossed, glanced up. "Hullo, Twyning." He wrote a word and then put down his pen. "Anything you want me about?" He lay back in his chair and stared, frowning, at the manuscript before him.

"Nothing particular, if you're busy," Twyning said. "I just looked in." He advanced the paper in his hand and looked at it as if about to add something else. But he said nothing and stood by Sabre's chair, also looking at the manuscript. "That that book?"

"M'm." Sabre was trying to retain his thoughts. He felt them slipping away before Twyning's presence. He could hear Twyning breathing through his nose and felt incensed that Twyning should come and breathe through his nose by his chair when he wanted to write.

But Twyning continued to stand by the chair and to breathe through his nose. He was reading over Sabre's shoulder.

"Well, that book's not written for me, anyway," he remarked.

Sabre agreed shortly. "It isn't. But why not?"

Twyning read aloud the first words. "'This England you live in is yours.' Well, I take my oath it isn't mine. Not a blooming inch of it. D' you know what's happening to me? I'm being turned out of my house. The lease is out and the whole house and everything I've put on to it goes to one of these lordlings—this Lord Tybar—just because one of his ancestors, who'd never even dreamt of the house, pinched the land it stands on from the public common and started to pocket ground rent. Now I'm being pitched into the street to let Lord Tybar have a house that's no more his than the man in the moon's. D' you call that right?"

"No, I don't," said Sabre, but with a tinge of impatience. "I call it rotten."

Twyning seemed surprised. "Do you, though? Well, how about that book? I mean to say—"

"I shall say so in the book. Or as good as say so."

Twyning pondered. "Shall you, by Jove? Well, but I say, that's liberalism, radicalism, you know. That's not the sort of pap for kids."

"Well, the book isn't going to be pap for kids."

Twyning snorted a note of laughter through his nose. "Sorry, old man. Don't get shirty. But I say though, seriously, we can't put out that sort of stuff, you know. Radicalism. Not with our connection. I mean to say—"

Sabre gathered up the papers and dropped them into a drawer. "Look here, Twyning, suppose you wait till the book's written before you criticise it. How about that for an idea?"

"All right, all right, old man. I'm not criticising. What's it going to be called?"

"England."

Silence.

Sabre, appreciating, with the author's intense suspicion for his child, something in the silence, looked up at Twyning. "Anything wrong about that? 'England.' You read the first sentence?"

Twyning said slowly, "Yes, I know I did. I thought of it then."

"Well—'England'—'this England.' I mean to say— What about Scotland?"

"Well, what about Scotland?"

Twyning seemed really concerned. The puckers on his face had visibly deepened. He used a stubborn tone. "Well, you know what people are. You know how touchy those Scotchmen are. I mean to say, if we put out a book like that, the Scotch—"

Sabre smote the desk. This kind of thing from Twyning made him furious, and he particularly was not in the mood for it this morning. He struck his hand down on the desk: "Well, damn the Scotch. What's it got to do with the Scotch? This book isn't about Scotland. It's about England. England. I'll tell you another thing. You say if 'we' put out a book like that. It isn't 'we.' Excuse me saying so, but it certainly isn't you. It's I." He stopped, and then laughed. "Sorry, Twyning."

Twyning's face had gone very dark. His jaw had set. "Oh, all right." He turned away, but immediately returned again, his ace relaxed. "That's know. I say though," and he laughall right. Only my chipping, you ed nervously. "That 'not we.' You've said it! I'd come in to tell you. It's going to be 'we.'" He advanced the paper he had been holding in his hand, his thumb indicating the top left-hand corner. "What do you think of me above the line, my boy?"

The paper was a sheet of the firm's notepaper. In the upper left-hand corner was printed in small type, "The Rev. Sebastian Fortune." Beneath the name was a short line and beneath the line, "Mr. Shearman Twyning. Mr. Mark Sabre":

The Rev. Sebastian Fortune.

Mr. Sherman Twyning.
Mr. Mark Sabre.

Sabre said slowly, "What do you mean—you 'above the line'?"

Twyning indicated the short line with a forefinger. "That line, my boy. Jonah's going to take me into partnership. Just told me."

He had released the paper into Sabre's hand. Sabre handed it back with a single word, "Good."

Twyning's face darkened again and darkened worse. He crumpled the paper violently in his hand and spoke also but a single word, "Thanks!" He turned sharply on his heel and went to the door.

"I say, Twyning!" Sabre jumped to his feet and went to Twyning with outstretched hand. "I didn't mean to take it like that. Don't think I'm not—I congratulate you. Jolly good. Splendid. I tell you what—I don't mind telling you—it was a bit of a smack in the eye for me for a moment. You know. I've rather sweated over this business," — his glance indicated the stacked bookshelves, the firm's publications, his publications. . . "See what I mean?"

A certain movement in his throat and about his mouth indicated, more than his words, what he meant. A slight.

Twyning took the hand and gripped it with a firmness characteristic of his handshake.

"Thanks, old man. Thanks awfully. Of course, I know what you mean. But after all, look at the thing, eh? I mean to say, you've been here—what—ten or twelve years. Well, I've been over twenty-five. Natural, eh? And you're doing splendidly. Every one knows that. It's only a question of time. Thanks awfully." He reached for Sabre's hand again and again gripped it hard.

Sabre went back and sat against his desk. "What rather got me, you know, coming all of a sudden like that, was that Fortune promised me partnership, twice, quite a bit ago."

Twyning, who had been speaking with an emotion in consonance with the grip of his hand, said a little blankly, "Did he? That so?"

"Yes, twice. And this looked like, when you told me—well, like satisfaction since, see? Eh?"

Twyning did not take up the point. "I say, you never told me."

"I'm telling you now," Sabre said. And he laughed ruefully. "It comes to much the same thing—as it turns out."

"Yes, but still. . . I wish we worked in a bit more together, Sabre. I'm always ready to, you know. Let's, shall we?"

Sabre made no reply. Twyning repeated "Let's" and nodded and left the room. Immediately he opened the door again and reappeared. "I say, you won't say anything to Jonah, of course?"

Sabre smiled grimly. "I'm going to."

Again the darkening. "Dash it, that's not quite playing the game, is it?"

"Rot, Twyning. Fortune's made me a promise, and I'm going to ask if he has any reason for withdrawing it, that's all. It's nothing to do with your show."

"You're bound to tell him I've told you."

"Well, man alive, I'm bound to know, aren't I?"

"Yes—in a way. Oh, well, all right. Remember about working in more together." He withdrew and closed the door.

Outside the door he clenched his hands. He thought, "Smack in the eye for you, was it? You'll get a sight worse smack in the eye one of these days. Dirty dog!"

IV

Immediately the door was closed Sabre went what he would have called "plug in" to Mr. Fortune; that is to say, without hesitation and without reflection. He went in by the communicating door, first giving a single tap but without waiting for a reply to the tap. Mr. Fortune, presenting a whale-like flank, was at his table going through invoices and making notes in a small black book which he carried always in a tail pocket of his jacket.

"Can I speak to you a minute, Mr. Fortune?"

Mr. Fortune entered a note in the small black book: "Twenty - eight, sixteen, four." He placed a broad elastic band round the book and with the dexterity of practice passed the book round his bulk and into the tail pocket. He flicked his hands away and extended them for an instant, palms upward, much as a conjurer might to show there was nothing in them. "Certainly you may speak to me, Sabre." He performed his neat revolving trick. "As a matter of fact, I rather wanted to speak to you." He pointed across the whale-like front to the massive leathern armchair beside his desk.

The seat of the armchair marked in a vast hollow the cumulative ponderosity of the pillars of Church and School who were wont to sit in it. Sabre seated himself on the arm. "What it about this partnership business?"

Mr. Fortune had already frowned to see Sabre upon the arm of the chair, a position for which the arm was not intended. His frown deepened. "What partnership business?"

"Well, you recollect promising me—being good enough to promise me—twice—that I am going to come into partnership—"

Mr. Fortune folded his hands upon the yhale-like front. "I certainly do not recollect that, Sabre." He raised a hand responsive to a gesture. "Allow me. I recollect no promise. Either twice or any other number of times, greater or fewer. I do recollect mentioning to you the possibility of my making you such a proposal in my good time. Is that what you refer to as 'this partnership business'?"

"Yes—partly. Well, look here, sir, it's been a pretty good time, hasn't it? I mean since you spoke of it."

Mr. Fortune tugged strongly at his watch by its gold chain and looked at the watch rather as though he expected to see the extent of the good time there recorded. He forced it back with both hands rather as though it had failed of this duty and was being crammed away in disgrace. "I am expecting Canon Toomuch." He hit the watch, cowering (as one might suppose) in his pocket. "You know, my dear Sabre, I do think this is a little odd. A little unusual. You cannot bounce into a partnership, Sabre. I know your manner. I know your manner well. Oblige me by not fiddling with that paper knife. Thank you. And I make allowances for your manner. But believe me a partnership is not to be bounced into. You give me the impression—I do not say you mean it, I say you give it—of suddenly and without due cause or just im—just opportunity, trying to bounce me into taking you into partnership. I most emphatically am not to be bounced, Sabre. I never have been bounced and you may quite safely take it from me that I never propose or intend to be bounced."

Sabre thought, "Well, it would take a steam crane to bounce you, anyway." He said. "I hadn't the faintest intention of doing any such thing. If I made you think so, I'm sorry. I simply wanted to ask if you have changed your mind, and if so why. I mean, whether I have given you any cause for dissatisfaction since you prom—since you first mentioned it to me."

Mr. Fortune's whale-like front had labored with some agitation during his repudiation of liability to being bounced. It now resumed its normal dignity. "You certainly have not, Sabre. No cause for dissatisfaction. On the contrary. You know quite well that there are certain characteristics of yours of which, constituted as I am, I do not approve. I really must beg of you not to fiddle with those scissors. Thank you. But they are, happily, quite apart from your work. I do not permit them to influence my opinion of you by one jot or tittle. You may entirely reassure yourself. May I inquire why you should have supposed I had changed my mind?"

"Because I've just heard that you've told Twyning you're going to take him into partnership."

The whale-like front gave a sudden leap and quiver precisely as if it had been struck by a cricket ball. Mr. Fortune's voice hardened very remarkably. "As to that, I will permit myself two remarks. In the first place, I consider it highly reprehensible of Twyning to have communicated this to you."

Sabre broke in. "Well, he didn't. I'd like you to be quite clear on that point, if you don't mind. Twyning didn't tell me. It came out quite indirectly in the course of something I was saying to him. I doubt if he knows that I know even. I inferred it. It seems I inferred correctly."

There flashed through Mr. Fortune's mind a poignant regret that, this being the case, he had not denied it. He said, "I am exceedingly glad to hear it. I might have known Twyning would not be capable of such a breach of discretion. Resuming what I had to say—and, Sabre, I shall indeed be most intensely obliged if you will refrain from fiddling with the things on my table—resuming what I had to say, I will observe in the second and last place that I entirely deprecate, I will go further, I most strongly resent any questioning by any one member of my staff based on any intentions of mine relative to another member of my staff. This business is my business. I think you are sometimes a little prone to forget that. If it seems good to me to strengthen your hand in your department that has nothing whatever to do with Twyning. And if it seems good to me to strengthen Twyning's hand in Twyning's department that has nothing whatever to do with you."

Sabre, despite his private feelings in the matter, characteristically followed this reasoning completely, and said so. "Yes, that's your way of looking at it, sir, and I don't say it isn't perfectly sound—from your point of view—"

Mr. Fortune inclined his head solemnly: "I am obliged to you."

"—Only other people look at things on the face of them, just as they appear. You know—it's difficult to express it—I've put my heart into those books." He made a gesture towards his room. "I can't quite explain it, but I felt that the slight, or what looks like a slight, is on them, not on me." He put his hand to the back of his head, a habit characteristic when he was embarrassed or perplexed. "I'm afraid I can't quite express it, but it's the books. Not myself. I'm—fond of them. They're not just paper and print to me. I feel that they feel it. You won't quite understand, I'm afraid—"

"No, I confess that is a little beyond me," said Mr. Fortune, smoothing his front; and they remained looking at one another.

A sudden and unearthly moan sounded through the room. Mr. Fortune spun himself with relief to his desk and applied his lips to a flexible speaking tube. "Yes?" He dodged the tube to his ear, then to his lips again. "Beg Canon Toomuch to step to my room." He laid down the tube.

Sabre roused himself and stood up abruptly. "Ah, well! All right, sir." He moved towards his door.

"Sabre," inquired Mr. Fortune, "you get on well with Twyning, I trust?"

"Get on? Oh yes. We don't have much to do with each other."

"Do you dislike Twyning?"

"I don't dislike him. I'm indifferent to him."

"I regret to hear that," said Mr Fortune.

From the door Sabre put a question in his turn: "When are you going to make this change with Twyning?"

"Not today."

"Am I still to remember that you held out partnership to me?"

"Certainly you may."

"When is it likely to be?"

"Not today."

Maddening expression!

Sabre, in his room, went towards his chair. He was about to drop into it when he recollected something. He went out into the corridor and along the corridor, past Mr. Fortune's door (Canon Toomuch coming heavily up the stairs) to Twyning's room. He put in his head, "Oh, I say, Twyning, if Fortune should ever ask you if you told me about that business, you can tell him you didn't."

"Oh—oh, right-o," said Twyning; and to himself when the door closed "Funked speaking to him!"

V

Arrived again in his room, Sabre dropped into his chair. In his eyes was the look that had been in them when he had tried to explain to Mr. Fortune about the books, what Mr. Fortune had confessed he found a little beyond him. He thought: "The books. . . Of course Fortune hasn't imagined them. . . . seen them grow . . . . helped them to grow. . . . But it hurts. Like hell it hurts. . . . And I can't explain to him how I feel about them. . . . I can't explain to any one."

He thought: "One knows what it is, what it looks like, with ants. They're all plugging about like mad like that, not knowing one another, nor caring, because they all seem to be looking for something. I wonder . . . I wonder—are we? Is that the trouble? All looking for something. . . . You can see it in half the faces you see. Some waiting, and knowing they are wanting something. Others wanting something but just putting up with it, just content to be discontented. You can see it. Yes, you can. Looking for what? Love? But lots have love. Happiness? But aren't lots happy? But are they?"

He knitted his brows: "It goes deeper than that. It's some universal thing that's wanting. It is something that religion ought to give, but doesn't? Light? Some new light to give every one certainly in religion, in belief. Light?"

His thoughts went to Mabel. "Those houses in King's Close are going to be eighty pounds a year, and what do you think, Mrs. Toller is going to take one." And he had not answered her but had rustled the newspaper and had intended her to know why he had rustled the paper: to show he couldn't stick it! Unkind. His heart smote him for Mabel. Such a pathetically simple thing for Mabel to find enjoyment in! Why, he might just as reasonably rustle the newspaper at a baby because it had enjoyment in a rattle. A rattle would not amuse him, and Mrs. Toller taking a house beyond her means did not amuse him; but why on earth should he—?

He put the thing to himself in his reasoning way, his brow wrinkled up: She was his wife. She had left her home for his home. She had a right to his interest in her ideas. He had a duty towards her ideas. Unkind. Rotten.

Upon a sudden impulse he looked at his watch. Only just after twelve. He could get back in time for lunch. Lonely for her, day after day, and left as he had left her that morning. They could have a jolly afternoon together. He could make it a jolly afternoon. Nona kept coming into his thoughts—and more so after this Twyning business. He would have Mabel in his thoughts.

He went in and told Mr. Fortune he rather thought of taking the afternoon off if he was not wanted. He mounted his bicycle and rode purposely back to Mabel.

Shaw's Cycle Play As Long As Methuselah Himself

BY JAMES W. DEAN.

NEW YORK, March 3.—Presentation of George Bernard Shaw's "Back to Methuselah" by the Theatre Guild this week for the first time anywhere marks a new epoch in theatricals.

It brings the cycle play to the stage. The drama is the most pretentious in Shaw's pretentious career.

So comprehensive is the ground covered by Shaw—from Eden as far into the future as the mind can conceive—that one must go to the theater three times to see the entire play.

Throughout the play Shaw preaches the gospel of discontent, making it appear as a virtue. Adam wasn't betrayed by Eve. The humdrum existence of Eden made him discontented and ready to listen to the serpent's proposition.

SHAW'S BEST EPIGRAM.

In "Back to Methuselah."

"Life is a disease. The only difference between one man and another is the stage of disease at which he lives."

When Adam learned that other Adams could come to supplant him he arbitrarily fixed the span of his life at 1,000 years.

A thousand years later he and Eve concluded that the human race was deteriorating because of the lessening length of life.

Cain typified the new order. He lived by killing. Toiling for the daily bread as his father had done was too much like work. Cain's wife neither toiled, nor spun, nor bore children, but Cain was content in that he believed himself her master. Eve, however, saw that Cain was slave to his spouse—he risked his life to clothe her in furs.

In the next cycle action moves to the present time. The Barnabas brothers, one an ex-churchman, the other a biologist, figure out that all the maladies of civilization will be cured if life be prolonged to 300 years.

After Shaw's pronouncement of this theory he employs his characters in a typical Shavian diatribe against present day statesmanship.

MARGARET WYCHERLY, WHO IMITATES A SNAKE'S VOICE IN "BACK TO METHUSELAH."

One character burlesques Lloyd George, another Asquith. Lloyd George, delineated as an opportunist, seizes upon the 300-year span of life theory as a popular measure for parliamentary consideration.

Shaw puts into the mouths of his characters a bitter arraignment of world politics and more especially those of Britain.

There has been no disposition on the part of the Theatre Guild to blue-pencil Shaw, so performance of the first two cycles lasts four hours.

To the legion who digest Shaw fodder with relish this is a dramatic banquet. To others it's too much.

Probably no stage prototype of recent years is so true to the personage mimicked as A. P. Kaye is to Lloyd George.

Margaret Wycherly's conception of a snake's voice passes unchallenged, as this is probably the first time a snake has spoken on the stage. She is the only member of the cast who appears in all five cycles.

FREED OF FRAUD CHARGE

Port Stanley Man Given Benefit of Doubt.

ST. THOMAS, March 3. — A. B. Scairio of Port Stanley was found not guilty of securing a cow valued at $30 from Francis Stanton of Southwold, under false pretences, when he was arraigned before Judge Duncan Ross in the county court Thursday.

Judge Ross issued a warning to Mr. Schairio, however, claiming that he had transgressed very close to the border line when he gave a check which was marked "no funds" when presented at the bank. The manager of the bank swore that Schiario's credit had been cut off near the end of January. He could not swear that the check given was dated before that time or not.

The prisoner was given the benefit of the doubt.

CHAPTER XXXVII.—Guests Are Coming.

By Zoe Beckley

"Strange!" she scolded herself silently. "I can be as happy as a lark—until he mentions Violet's name. Then something cold and hard, like steel, grips me. I'm afraid of her and because I'm afraid of her, I hate her."

"S'matter, Pusscat, aren't you keen on the housewarming idea?" Paul interrupted her bitter musings.

She looked gravely at him, trying to read what was behind his merry eyes. How much could Violet make him care if she tried? How much had she tried? Had she succeeded—even a little? But no—she didn't believe he cared, she couldn't believe it. He loved her * * * But Violet was so handsome and dashing and a little unscrupulous.

Polly forced herself to respond gayly.

"Yes, dear, it's a bully idea. I was only thinking we'd have to go out in the highways and byways for guests—"

"Not a bit of it. The place wouldn't hold more than we've got—"

"All right, we'll have an intensive housewarming," and Polly plumped herself on the arm of Paul's chair, determined to be the good sport and put her jealousies from her. "Now who shall we ask—Miss Rand and Monsieur Barray, Norma Bradley and her Englishman, Sutton (we couldn't leave him out because he got the flat for us—he's really the guest of honor), that makes six counting us. Oh, yes, the man from your office—what's his name? Ralph Miller, that's seven—seven, we must have an even number."

"I say, Pollykin, why not Clotilde, the beautiful concierge's daughter—I mean the beautiful daughter of the concierge? She seems a darn nice girl; and instead of Miller, we'll ask a young French chap at the office—Revelle—maybe he'll take a shine to her."

"Fine! That makes eight, even. Just right. And how shall we amuse them and what shall we have for refreshments?"

"I'll bet you seven dollars they won't need amusing. Paris air just naturally makes everybody gay—you'll see. As for eats, anything'll do. Shake up a fruit salad and a biscuit and I'll make 'em a punch—French fashion, which is to say with mighty little punch to it!"

All the guests accepted, even Clotilde, "the beautiful concierge's daughter," and with singing heart Polly set about sweeping and garnishing the tiny flat and making it as pretty as her skillful fingers could. Then she shopped for her "eats"—crisp lettuces and fruits for her salad (she found grapefruit unknown, but oranges, bananas, pineapple and small wild strawberries that were strange to her, served nicely); materials for sandwich-filling—cream-cheese, chopped pickles, olives, nuts and paprika; little warm brown rolls the old baker who spoke English made specially for her; and lots and lots of "petits fours," the tiny crisp cakes for which Paris is famous.

"I feel," beamed Polly, "the party's going to be a success."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS.

A NEW START

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

"WELL, now what?" asked the goat.

"If you mean what are we going to do," replied Nick, "I guess we're going on our travels. You see, Nancy and I are on our way to hunt the lost record of Longhead the Wizard."

"What's that?" asked the goat, pretending not to know.

"Oh, it tells whether the Diddyevers with the blue hair are handsomer than the Korsknotts of the green beards. Whoever is, must give up to the other and rule all of Fairyland. Then it's to be decided who shall marry Princess Therma. She lives in the Castle of Mirrors and can see everything that happens, even on the other side of the world."

"Can she see us?" asked the goat with a worried look. This part about the mirrors he did not like.

"I suppose so," said Nick. 'But we're very late and must be starting. I can't think how Nancy and I happened to stay here so long. When we started it was morning and now it's nearly night."

The goat changed his voice so it was very sweet. "Would you like company?" he asked. "Perhaps if I would go with you, I could be of use. One can never tell when he may meet an enemy."

"Yes, you may come," agreed Nick, although no one said anything about it."

"And we'll take the cake along," suggested the goat. "You can put it into a basket and I can carry it on my back. Just wait, I'll get the basket myself."

He ran into the cave and slyly slipped the Cloth of Dreams into a large basket, and when he returned Nick laid the cake carefully on it.

"Are you sure we may take it?" asked Nancy.

"Oh, yes," nodded the goat. 'The gypsy woman baked it for us herself."

His Rheumatism and Backache Both Gone

Saskatchewan Man Tells of Relief From Suffering and Gladly Advises Others to Try Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Percival, Sask., March 3.—(Special).—"I am more than glad to say a good word for Dodd's Kidney Pills."

These are the words of Mr. John Nordin, a well-known resident here. And Mr. Nordin is always ready to give the reason why.

"For about ten years I suffered dreadfully from backache and rheumatism," he says. "Then I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Now my backache and rheumatism are gone.

"I always keep Dodd's Kidney Pills on hand in case of need, and to everybody with kidney trouble and backache I say, 'Try Dodd's Kidney Pills.'

Dodd's Kidney Pills put the kidneys in shape to strain all the uric acid out of the blood. With no uric acid in the blood there can be no rheumatism.

Ask your neighbor if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the greatest of all kidney remedies.—Advt.

BOOKS

EDITED BY CARR.

WHAT NEXT IN EUROPE? By Frank A. Vanderlip, New York: Harcourt, Brace & Co., 1922. 308 pp. $2.

THIS review of the European situation, economic and political, resembles in most respects the author's earlier book on the same subject published two and a half years ago and entitled, "What Happened in Europe."

Like that other discussion of the subject, the present book is interesting for its reflection of the impressions derived by an experienced businessman from personal observation of Europe's economic condition and personal contact with European statesmen.

Mr. Vanderlip's opportunities for such personal contact have been wide, and he gives in several instances a clear view of the attitude of these statesmen toward their countries' economic problems. Although he quotes few of them directly—remarking at the start that such publication of their opinions would be improper and unfair—his own discussion seems to indicate that in the main he had accepted their judgment on events and policies.

He says frankly that his own conclusions are "the composite of those interviews, assorted, weighed and emphasized." This is not always the surest road to correct judgment on controverted questions.

The reader will find in Mr. Vanderlip's book no thorough reconsideration of the governmental policies and programs described to him. He explains them; sometimes, as in the case of the paper inflation of Central Europe, he gives the apology for them; but searching analysis is not employed.

The defect of Mr. Vanderlip's book lies in precisely this absence of thorough examination of the economic problems. The pointing out of unpleasant aspects in the situation, the explaining how and why they came to exist, should for the economist be only the introduction to his careful investigation of the probable consequences, for better or worse. When the title of a book is framed in a direct and categorical question the reader naturally expects a direct and categorical answer. To the question "What next in Europe?," which Mr. Vanderlip chooses as his title, the answer might reasonably be conditional.

Alternatives might properly be stated, in describing the possible sequel to Europe's political and economic situation, those alternative conclusions being based on adoption of one or another policy by the governments. But with that reservation the probable course of events ought to be clearly indicated if the book is to redeem the promise implied in its title. Mr. Vanderlip's failure to do this constitutes the most serious criticism of his work.

He gives, it is true, a number of warnings as to what may happen if certain tendencies continue or if certain policies are persisted in; but the warnings are of the utmost vagueness.

For France his expressed conclusion is that she "still has before her a gigantic task," and that "the future is still in doubt."

England may possibly conduct her foreign trade hereafter as before the war, provided her continental customers are "economically rehabilitated"; but if such recovery is too long delayed "the great tragedy of Europe might still be in the future," and "its scene would lie in the British Isles."

Germany, as a result of its huge paper money inflation, "is headed toward financial ruin." If Austria and Central Europe do not get help from other countries, "the outlook promises further deterioration that may become catastrophic."

Mr. Vanderlip has not solved these economic problems; possibly nobody can solve them by a formula of national policies or banking machinery. On the other hand, the fact that he does not yield even tentatively to the notions which have prevailed in some London banking circles as to the necessary evils of "deflation" and the possible desirability of "devaluing," the standard gold coin deserves particular recognition. He has not said the last word on any of the problems of the day. Most of them will be settled in the end through the remorseless logic of events.

A simple way to add to the brightness is to make a white cardboard shade. If made large enough this will reflect a brighter glow all over the kitchen.

To Help Put on Good Firm Flesh and Round Out Your Face and Figure

Genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets Often Produce Most Surprising Results. Get a FREE $1.00 Package Today as Explained Below — Try Them for Ten Days and Watch the Results

Science has at last shown how we sometimes grow weak, thin, and emaciated on an abundance of food (lacking in vitamines) while with a much smaller amount of food, rich in vitamines, we may quickly take on good firm flesh, increase in weight, and make a remarkable gain in strength, energy and endurance, provided your blood contains sufficient quantity of oxygenated organic iron to enable your body to assimilate your food properly.

Without organic iron both food and vitamines are absolutely useless as your body cannot change lifeless inert food matter into living cells and tissue unless you have plenty of organic iron in your blood.

For centuries scientists tried in vain to make organic iron. At last the problem was solved so that you may now obtain pure organic iron like the iron in your blood from any druggist under the name of "Nuxated Iron."

It has been arranged to give every purchaser of Nuxated Iron, who wishes something to help put on flesh or increase weight, a large regular $1.00 package of Genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets absolutely free. Be sure to take only Nuxated Brand Yeast Vitamine Tablets with Nuxated Iron. Do not be mislead by imitations which often contain drugs.

Jonah's Big Job.

THERE are many men in the Old Testament who balked at doing what they were told to do. Jonah was one of them, and it is probably for that reason that the story of Jonah has been held in such an unfavorable light.

The story of the shipwreck and escape of Jonah when he was seeking to run away from the commission to go and preach in Nineveh, has been turned, twisted, caricatured and ridiculed until it occupies a place entirely out of keeping with the achievements of the servant of the Lord.

The book of Jonah in its entirety is rightly considered one of the most remarkable in the Old Testament, and has been the object of criticism, sarcasm and skepticism from all classes, orthodox as well as heterodox.

If fiendish ridicule, whale sarcasm and agnostic denunciation could accomplish its purpose, Jonah, Tarshish, Nineveh, the storm, the boat, the great fish and all would have long since disappeared from between the covers of the Bible. It is a fact that there are many people today who are actually choking their Christian experience in worrying over Jonah.

For those who want to rule Jonah out of the Bible, there are some points hard to overcome, chief of them being the fact that Christ compared his own burial and resurrection with the experience of Jonah, and declared the certainty of His own upon the fact of the other.

Then, too, the experience of Jonah has been twisted so that the popular usage of the name signifies some person of an objectionable, undesirable character, whose space is more desirable than his presence. How often we hear of some firm undergoing reorganization, out of which some person has been ousted who was regarded as an obstacle to success. Then we hear that things will be all right now as the firm has been rid of its Jonah.

As a matter of fact, Jonah is one of the finest "come-backs" in the whole Bible. Sent on a great and a dangerous mission to Nineveh, 600 miles northeast, he turned westward to Tarshish, in Spain, a distance of 2,000 miles. Jonah was afraid of the Nineveh commission. It was too great. The city at that time is often referred to as the London of the ancient world. Built in the form of a quadrangle, sixty miles in circumference, it was surrounded by a wall 100 feet high, and had a population that must have been very close to the million mark. It was the chief city of the gentile world, a city as intensely abhorred by the Jews—and Jonah was a Jew—as Carthage was by the Romans.

And so it was that to this big, prosperous, wicked center that Jonah was sent—one man against a city; no home or foreign mission board to send him off; no place where he could turn back; simply he must go, and give his startling, trumpet-like message, a strange, fearless man, moving from place to place with his message of doom. In the final carrying out of instructions, Jonah showed that he was faithful to the last word, and that his previous schooling had made of him a fearless exponent for Jehovah.

And so the scholar, in his Sunday school lesson for this week, has the picture of a man who was called to do a work, but who fled from it, only to find himself faced with neglected duty. Unfortunately we have always had, in popular conception, more emphasis on the flight and trouble of Jonah, than we have on the courageous manner in which he came back and performed a task, great in its magnitude and wonderful in its results.

Getting the People.

WHY SHOULD committees and sections in various parts of this country not work in conjunction with the Immigration Department at Ottawa? As one looks over some of the townships of Western Ontario, and counts the farms that are only under partial cultivation because there are not enough people there to work them properly, the suggestion is not hard to make that there must be people in the British Isles who would be glad of a chance to work on such land.

There are possibilities in looking at immigration in this way that can never have been realized in any other way. As the thing is done at present, the department picks out the men to come, and in a very general way—because the size of the country makes it necessary—puts them here or there.

Why could not sections, or districts have something to say as to who they wanted, and in this way give the immigration department something to work on? We refer especially to making efforts to interest some of the better class English agriculturists in this country.

It is time we went further than bringing in hired men. That is all right in its place, but what is needed is prospective proprietors as well.

VERY good success attended the opening of an office in London a year or so ago for the purpose of bringing out farm help. It was felt, and afterwards proven to be the case, that distribution could be made much better from here than from Toronto.

It is a fact that while men in the cities are looking for a day's work, men are being placed on many of the stock farms. JOHN FARRELL, from near Forest, in Lambton, was discussing this point. He claims that a stock farmer can save more than a man's wages in the winter by securing careful feeding of stock, by seeing that nothing is wasted and that the feed used is right up to standard.

Many of the farmers in Western Ontario are not quite in shape for the all-year contract yet, so that may be why a portion of the men who go on the farms do not stay. As a general thing a farm hand has two choices, (1) a contract with current wages for 12 months, which rate may not be very high, or (2) a contract for eight or nine months, or lasting until the roots are in, at a higher figure. Naturally a man will take a short term and the high wages, which turns him loose at the end of the fall work, just at a time when it is often hardest for him to locate elsewhere. There is the chance of him turning to the city for inside winter employment, and once in the city, in too many cases, the city will hold him.

Canada has enough hit-and-miss farmers. Farming cannot be carried on as a side-line and be made a success, and the man who is farming in this way is not going to become a farm owner.

Arbitration.

THE NEW YORK Times on Wednesday morning, came out with eight pages, carrying the following explanation:

A board of arbitration dealing with conditions in the newspaper pressrooms rendered its decision last week. Both the Pressmen's Union and the Newspaper Publishers' Association pledged themselves in advance to accept this decision.

Notwithstanding this pledge, the Pressmen's Union met last night to determine whether to accept the decision or reject it. At the appointed time for printing the newspapers the pressmen had not appeared at their posts. Hence the appearance of the newspapers in reduced size.

Here is another case where accepting an arbitration award in advance ends in failure. It means going in the dark for both sides, and is one of the weakest spots in arbitration.

Go a step farther back and then you come to the premise, if the award of arbitration is not going to be accepted by both parties, why arbitrate?

The disappointment of one side as the result of an arbitration award, takes the place of the cost and harm of a lost strike.

Arbitration gives to the public—very often one of the most interested, yet helpless, parties—the benefit of a disinterested opinion on a controversial issue, and no doubt has much to do with sending that very powerful factor, public opinion, in one way or the other.

No Sympathy.

THE NEWEST fad seems to be publishing sob stories about the ex-kaiser and the hard time he is having, trying to make a living on what he has.

Then another report shows him as much maligned because the report went out that he was going to be married again to some rich widow.

As a matter of actual fact the world at large doesn't give a hoot for the kaiser or his troubles.

The world is paying the price today for the assinine dream of this much over-estimated personage.

Canada is paying its interest debt on millions and millions because the kaiser forced a world war.

Canada mourns yet for thousands who went and never returned, because they were determined that the German empire should not sprawl itself all over the world.

Sob stories about the ex-kaiser haven't got a chance to get an audience in the civilized world today.

JUST AN OUTCAST!

BRITAIN'S DEBT TO U. S.

THE suggestion has been made at various times that Britain should transfer Bermuda and the West Indies to United States as payment for the war debt Britain owes to that country.

T. B. Macauley, president of the Sun Life Assurance Company, writing in the New York Independent, deals with this matter in a way that will give cause for serious thought.

From the outbreak of the war Canadians have considered that the men of Britain and of the Dominions were fighting the battles of the United States as well as of our own empire and of our allies. In the early days of the war I have heard many Americans express that opinion. Though it took some years for your people as a whole to recognize that fact, it was as true in August, 1914, as it was later when the gallant boys of both nations were fighting side by side. Germany aimed at world domination, and, had she won the war, her political and commercial control of all Europe, all Africa, and much of Asia would have been at once established. She would probably soon have made an alliance with the rest of Asia. She would have been the Colossus of the world. Her eyes were already fixed covetously on South America, and developments there would have followed rapidly. With the naval, military, and financial resources then at her back, what would she have cared for the Monroe doctrine?

We do not claim that the United States should have entered the war at its outbreak, for the people had to be awakened. It is doubtful if they were sufficiently informed as to the merits of the struggle prior to the Lusitania incident. What would have happened, however, if the United States had intervened even then? The war would have been shortened by two years, millions of lives and tens of billions of dollars would have been saved, and the condition of the world today would not be what it is.

When at last you threw your vast power into the scales, that great addition to the cause of civilization and righteousness was decisive. When you did act you acted vigorously, whole-heartedly, and effectively. We are all unspeakably appreciative of the part played by the United States in bringing the war to a conclusion. It was some considerable time, however, after you declared war before your armies were organized, trained and transported to France, and during that period you could render but little help other than financial.

For whom did the allies sacrifice the lives of their men before the United States entered the war, and from that date until the American troops arrived? For all who did not wish a German world, for all free peoples, including Britain, Canada and the United States.

The war was fought not merely with lives, but with money. The financial burden fell chiefly on Britain. She had to advance huge sums to her allies. Had she not done so, Germany would have achieved a speedy victory, and the turn of the United States would then have come.

If we Canadians are right in believing that the United States had as great a stake in the war before she entered it as afterwards, do you wonder that we ask ourselves whether it is fair that the allies should bear alone the crushing financial burden of those earlier years during which your people accumulated much of the wealth of the world? Surely their awful losses in life, before the United States lost a single man, are enough of a handicap.

Americans are a proud people. I know that they do not wish in this matter to stand on legal technicalities. In coming to a decision, let them remember the stake they actually had in the early years of the war, and the purpose for which the money was borrowed in the later years. I feel sure that they need but to know the facts.

The suggestion has been made that even if the war debt be not cancelled the United States might accept from Great Britain a transfer of an equal amount of debts owing to Britain by other allied countries. That might be fair to Britain, but how about the others? Do Americans think that either Britain or the United States should exact payment from France, which has bled at every pore? What would they think if Britain were to demand a transfer of some of the old French colonies in return for cancelling the debt of France to her? Britain will probably cancel the debts owing to her by her allies without bargaining or reward. Can the United States afford to be less generous?

Brantford lost a big man in the passing of MAYOR GEORGE WEDLAKE. He was distinctly a man of the people. From actual experience he could and did appreciate the situation that every man has to face, because he started in as an apprentice in a molding shop and ended as president and general manager of the Cockshutt Plow Company, one of the most outstanding industries of the Dominion. Success never had a tendency to spoil GEORGE WEDLAKE—on the other hand, it seemed only to increase his sense of responsibility in the handling of the enlarged opportunities that greeted his efforts.

COMMON SENSE WAYS TO KEEP WELL

Avoid Eating White Bread

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

NEXT to milk, bread is the most satisfactory individual food. However, I do not mean that all kinds of bread are good foods.

There are several varieties of bread, white bread, graham bread, whole wheat bread and bran bread. Of all these forms the pure-white variety is the only one which is defective as a food.

This is because the white bread is the only one that is made solely from the interior of the wheat kernel. The outer wrapping of the grain contains the mysterious substance called vitamine, which is essential for proper nutrition.

The whole wheat, graham and bran breads contain this substance. Further the three healthier brands have a higher quota of mineral salts. It has been shown that seven-eighths of the phosphorus and eleven-fourteenths of the potash and lime contents of the wheat are removed in milling the flour.

How can we expect to make children grow on this demineralized and devitamined product? Animals fed on white bread alone soon show signs of improper nourishment and give evidence of nervous ailment.

There is some argument to the effect that there is enough vitamine in the average diet that it is not necessary to substitute whole wheat bread for white bread. This is perhaps true in the diet of our well-to-do classes. But in the poorer homes bread is the chief article of diet.

It is surprising that a bread so palpably defective as is white bread is sold by the billion loaves, when a satisfactory loaf of such an excellent food as whole wheat bread is rarely available in our markets.

Another statement made in defense of white bread is that it does not leave as much waste in the bowel. This is true, but the significant fact is that the material that enters the blood of our children after eating white bread is material which does not nourish them properly whereas the whole wheat product yields material that makes strong, robust, disease-resisting men and women.

Bran bread is especially useful as a food for people who are troubled with constipation. As an article of diet for continual use, however, whole wheat bread is to be preferred to bran bread.

READ YOUR CHARACTER

[By Digby Phillips.]

NO. 152—STUBBY HANDS.

Don't confuse the "stubby" type of hand with the "knotty" type, for both in the physical appearance of the hands and the trends of character they indicate there is a big difference.

The knotty hand, which denotes the philosophical temperament, is usually of generous proportionss. The knuckles are bony, and it may be a very muscular hand, but its structure is decidedly what might be termed "rangy."

The stubby hand is almost the direct opposite. It is compact and rather shapeless by comparison with the other, though it is quite a different thing from the small, plump hand, or the hand which is shapeless from fat.

It has a thick, hard palm. The thumb is short and blunt. The fingers, likewise, are short, thick and blunt. It is a compact, stiff sort of hand which seems built to stand rough usage, but it is awkward and clumsy.

This hand indicates an elementary type of nature. It denotes the person in whom instincts are strong, and to whom concise, definite thinking comes very hard. Failure to get ahead in the world seldom bothers these people. They are content to follow along in the grooves in which they find themselves. You'll never get much out of them by appealing to their ambition. Often they have violent tempers, but while generally hardy and patient, they are rarely capable of courage that endures.

COULDN'T DO HOUSEWORK, HEART WAS SO BAD

Many women get weak and run down and unable to look after their household duties owing to the heart action becoming impaired or the nervous system unstrung.

Nature intended women to be strong, healthy and happy instead of sick and wretched. But how can a woman be strong and healthy when day in and day out she has to go through the same routine of work, sweeping, dusting, cooking, washing, etc. Is it any wonder that the heart becomes affected and she gets irritable and nervous, has hot flushes, faint and dizzy spells, smothering and sinking spells and can't sleep at night.

To all women whose heart is weak and whose nerves are unstrung we would recommend as the best remedy to tone up the system and strengthen the weakened organs.

Mrs. Daniel Bezanson, Loganville, N. S., writes: "As I was troubled with a weak heart for nearly two years I am writing to tell you what your great remedy, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, has done for me.

My heart was so bad at night I could not sleep, I would take smothering spells, and was so weak I could not do my housework. I tried two doctors, but got no results. A friend advised me to try your pills. I used six boxes and am completely relieved. I think they are the best remedy for heart trouble there is."

ACID STOMACH

In five minutes "Pape's Diapepsin" ends

Indigestion	Gases	Heartburn
Sourness	Flatulence	Palpitation

"Pape's Diapepsin" "really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world.

If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous—and the joy is its harmlessness. A large 60-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin is worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the most efficient antacid and stomach regulator in the world.

EUROPEAN POWERS WILL CONFER ON REPARATIONS

Will Decide On German Payments Distribution Among Allies and Proposed Moratorium.

LONDON, March 3.—Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the exchequer, will meet the ministers of finance of Italy, France and Belgium, at Paris, on March 8, for a three-day conference on reparations, it was announced today.

Although the reparations commission will settle matters direct with the German government, it was pointed out in official quarters today that there are some question which only the allied governments are empowered to decide, such as the distribution among the allies of German payments and the general principle of the proposed moratorium.

Prof. Mulveney in His Laboratory

Prof. Mulveney's Announcement

LADIES and gentlemen: In making this announcement, it is my earnest desire to spread glad tidings of joy, for the remedies I am going to talk about have brought joy to thousands who have used them, and their smile of satisfaction and relief has brought joy to myself. I would be pleased to have you call at my office at 211 Ossington Ave., and see the evidence of what these remedies has done. I'm sure you will be more than surprised. An eminent lawyer of this city called one day to purchase some of my Worm Remedy for his boy. After looking around a few minutes, this was his remark: Well, said he, you have the evidence here. I have read about your remedies, but had no idea you were doing such wonderful work for suffering humanity, a person must see before they can realize, you are certainly a public benefactor. An eminent physician called to purchase my Tape Worm Remedy, after looking around, he said: You certainly have us all beaten on this job. He purchased my remedy, which proved satisfactory, and this physician sends all his patients suffering from Tape Worm to purchase my Remedy. A lady from Newmarket called, she was wonderfully impressed with the sight of the exhibit of parasites, she purchased my remedy and her last words before leaving were: Prof. Mulveney! You are an angel of mercy, may God spare you, you are doing a wonderful work. A gentleman called the other day, he had two children with him. Said he, pointing to the youngest of the two, you see that little one, well she took fits and we had her treated by many doctors without relief. We were recommended to try your Mother's Friend, the first few doses relieved her, she has not had a fit since; you can see how healthy she looks; I am buying this bottle for the boy, he has not been well lately, and I am sure Mother's Friend will do as much for him as it did for her, she has not had a fit for over two years. I receive many letters from people who have been relieved of tapeworm, who are highly delighted, and finish their letter with a prayer that God will spare me a long time to continue the good work. This brings me great joy; also to know my remedies are such a blessing to humanity. My remedies are sought for all over the world, as an exhibit of envelopes of letters from anxious enquirers can be seen at my office, 211 Ossington Ave., from England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Japan, China, India Klondike, Florida, California, Vancouver, and thousands from other places too numerous to mention, and the letters in my possession received from satisfied customers are sufficient to convince the most skeptical person on earth. I will publish a few as evidence of the wonderful work my remedies are doing, so if you are a sufferer you will know where to get certain relief. You are invited to call and see for yourself.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tapeworm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels, where it is located, and some times a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy the parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm and remaining there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe that the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints when ore or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm, with one dose of medicine, without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms, and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince us of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are—Ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headache, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are fat and from three-quarters of an inch to one inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take too long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitutions have very little distress.

Mother's Friend for Sick Children

EXPELS STOMACH AND PINWORMS, BUT IS NOT FOR TAPEWORMS.

This valuable medicine expels Stomach or Pinworms. It is not only valuable as a Worm Medicine, but it is an excellent Tonic, Physic and Appetizer, strengthens the Stomach, Liver and Kidneys and has stopped some of the worst cases of Wetting the Bed. Many children that were wasted away to a shadow have been built up and made healthy and well from its use, and their mothers made happy. Good for Coughs and Colds; also checks Fever. It is a real Mother's Friend, and gains its name from restoring sick children to health and quietness.

This valuable medicine is working wonders in all cases of sickness among children. I have one case in mind just now of a little girl eleven years old who had been treated for over four years without any marked improvement. In fact, she got worse all the time. Her case seemed to puzzle the physicians in attendance, and they finally agreed that an operation on the stomach would be necessary to find out what was the matter. Her father being opposed to an operation, called and got a bottle of Mother's Friend. He told me his little girl was in almost a hopeless condition; that she measured 38 inches around the stomach, and her body was wasted away to skin and bones; her arms no larger than a broomstick; she was a beautiful, patient child, with a lovely disposition; to make a long story short, Mother's Friend took away the enlarged condition of the stomach, built her up, so she was able to go to school, which was, of course, a surprise to everyone in the neighborhood, and her mother and father made happy.

Another case comes to my memory of a baby about two years old. The mother brought her to me in her arms. She was wasted away to a living skeleton, and it was a pitiable sight. The case was beyond all reasonable hope of recovery. I thought, well, your faith is great if you ever expect this child to get well. She purchased a bottle of Mother's Friend, and took it home, used it, and the little one was relieved of scores of worms of various kinds. It was about three months later when this lady brought the little one to my office. She was after another bottle of Mother's Friend for her own children, and another for one of her neighbors she had recommended it to. I did not recognize either the lady or the child until she had told me of the circumstances. She said:—"Do you not remember me bringing a baby in my arms, all skin and bones? This is her. Isn't she a fine, healthy child now?" No one would have believed it. Worms were the trouble. She got rid of scores of worms. Now you can see for yourself what a fine, healthy child she is. Just look at the rosy cheeks."

About 2 o'clock one night a lady called for a bottle of Mother's Friend. She said her little boy had been taking fits for 24 hours and the doctor had given him up with brain fever. She had asked a lady friend to call in and look at him, and she pronounced him to have worm fever, recommended her to try Mother's Friend, and a few minutes after taking the first dose he went to sleep, and next morning was relieved of a lot of stomach worms. The little fellow has had no fits since and is healthy and well. Just send $1.00.

This is to certify that my son was in poor health for some time. We did not know what was wrong with him. He doctored with several doctors without success. I went to the druggist and got medicine for him several times without any benefit to him whatever. I was beginning to think there was no cure for him. I went into a grocery store one day and I noticed part of a Toronto paper on the counter. I picked it up and looked at it. The first thing I saw was Prof. Mulveney's Tapeworm Remedy. I told my son about it. That is how I found out about the Tapeworm Remedy, so we decided to try the remedy. I sent for the medicine, he took it according to directions, and one hour and thirty minutes after taking the tapeworm was expelled from the system. Words would fail to express our gratitude. It is my earnest prayer that Professor Mulveney may long be spared for the sake of suffering humanity.

B'WELL?

It Makes People Feel Well

B'Well is a medicine that assists nature, made from roots, barks, herbs, leaves, etc. The concentrated extracts of these herbs tone up the stomach, regulate the liver, act on the kidneys, and it contains a harmless worm destroyer that is sure death to worms, and can be used with perfect safety.

B'Well is restoring thousands of people to health. I am not going to enumerate the different diseases and complaints that people have been relieved of from the use of B'Well, as it would take up too much space. I can simply say that restlessness and disease cannot remain if you take this medicine for a time, and it will surely make you feel fine.

It does not contain poison in any form, or narcotics that only relieve pain, but the different roots and herbs that regulate the system. It stimulates the stomach, liver and kidneys into healthy action, helps digestion and keeps the bowels regular, expels all gases from the system and takes away the bad feeling around the heart, and fearful feeling from the head, depressed spirits and melancholy simply vanish and a cheerful spirit takes their place. B'Well is a blessing to those that feel life is a burden to them, that are downhearted and unhappy from disease. B'Well carries the poison out of the system through the natural channels of health, and, as the poison is carried out of the system, nature restores herself, and a cheerful spirit follows, as there is nothing like good health to make a person cheerful and happy. People treated for Epileptic Fits have been restored by its use. Don't ask me if it cures this, that and the other disease. It is different from most medicines advertised as cure alls, and I am not advertising this remedy as such, but simply advertising it as a medicine that has and will regulate the system, carry the poison out of the blood, and common sense must surely tell you the result. Men and women who have been nervous wrecks, with hollow cheeks and sunken brow, have become plump, healthy and cheerful from its use, and I can only say what it has done for others it will surely do for you. Young men and women whose faces were covered with pimples and a sickening sight to look at are now free from them from its use. Men, women and children who had eating ulcers and running sores have been healed, and what it has done for them it is likely to do for you.

Prof. Mulveney's World Famous Tapeworm Remedy is saving thousands of valuable lives, and B'Well is doing just as much for those requiring this kind of medicine.

B'Well is put up in powder form for convenience to send to foreign places by mail, which does away with all breakages. The package of powder makes twice as much medicine for the same amount of money. Full directions for making. Price $1.25, six packages $6.00.

Write for further information, free, and send self-addressed, stamped envelope with your address, written plainly for reply. These remedies are sold only by Prof. R. L. Mulveney, 211 Ossington Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

Dear Sir,—Your wonderful remedy received, and I took it according to directions, and am pleased to say the tapeworm was expelled, the head and all, in one hour and a half—first motion of the bowels. Your medicine is certainly a wonderful discovery, and no words can express my thankfulness to you. During the last nine years I have taken five other doses of medicine and starved from 36 hours to 48 hours and 60 hours before I took their medicine, and it would only fetch part of it away. I shall tell my doctor at _____ of your great remedy, that he may direct others to you. I know of another lady who has been troubled longer than I have, and I will send your address to her. I feel it a duty to let all who need help, as I did, know of your worthiness, for what you can do for me I know you can do for others. I hope you may be spared a long life to continue your noble work, but sincerely hope you will in some way leave your discovery so that it won't die with you, for it is so easy to take and acts so quickly.

Gratefully yours,
Mrs. _____

LIBERALS WILL ACT CAUTIOUSLY WITH REVISIONS

Careful Consideration Will Be Given to Alterations in Tariff.

FRAME NEW POLICIES

Legislation Affecting Immigration To Be Introduced in Dominion Parliament.

OTTAWA, March 4.—The legislative program of the government for the first session of the fourteenth Parliament, which opens Wednesday, March 8, for the election of a speaker, with the formal opening and delivery of the speech from the throne on the following day, has been under consideration by cabinet council for some weeks, and is believed to be well in hand at present. In view of the short time that the government has been in office before the opening of the session, it is not expected that this program will be very heavy, though there are bound to be many things crop up after the opening which will require legislative measures to deal with them. Of the new legislation, probably that of most interest to the general public will be the taxation proposals.

Consideration of the budget proposals and any contemplated changes in taxation has hardly begun as yet. The budget is not usually brought down for some weeks after the opening, and there have been a multitude of other things to be dealt with before the finance minister, Hon. W. S. Fielding and his colleagues, were able to consider taxation changes. It is not anticipated, however, that there will be any attempt at a wholesale revision of the tariff in the present session. There are many reasons for this, including the fact that the government is still comparatively new in harness and would probably require some time for careful study before making such important alterations.

The preceding government appointed a tariff commission, which toured the country, taking evidence and preparing for a wholesale tariff revision, but whether or not the present government would want to base its changes on the evidence gathered by that commission, if that evidence is available, is problematical. Some of the private Liberal members of the house, in conversation, take the stand that as most of that evidence was secured in answer to leading questions by Conservative ministers, it could hardly be used as the basis of a Liberal revision. The government has, however, a great deal of material on which to base certain revisions. In addition to other sources from which information as to how the present tariff is affecting manufacturer, middleman and consumer, there is the mass of material gathered up by the board of commerce, which would be of value in such a circumstance. Whether or not this will be used is as yet unknown.

Favors Downward Revision.

Some changes in the tariff are expected, however, probably affecting many of the items which appear in the average family budget. Premier King has announced himself in favor of a downward revision of taxation on articles of food and clothing, which come within the category of necessities of life, and also upon the implements and instruments of production in the basic industries of agriculture, mining, fishing and lumbering, but it is thought likely that not before another session will the government be able to make the extensive changes indicated in such a pronouncement.

That there will be legislation affecting re-establishment of returned soldiers is a foregone conclusion. The government has promised to appoint a parliamentary committee on this subject, which in its report will say whether it finds further measures necessary for the proper re-establishment of the returned men. There are stated to be many directions in which the returned soldiers themselves desire the government to move, and it is expected that some of these plans will be laid before the parliamentary committee when it meets and are passed along by that committee to the house.

Immigration is a vital matter at the present juncture in the country's affairs and legislation affecting the incoming settler is looked for. The need of a clear cut immigration policy has been pressed upon the government from various sources in the past few weeks, and some changes in the Act are expected during the coming session. One of these, it is thought, will be the removal of that clause which permits the deportation of British-born on the decision of the minister. Last year such an amendment was defeated by the Senate, though it was a government measure. With the additional Senate majority against the present government the fate of a similar bill is problematical.

The future immigration policy is now receiving considerable attention. For the purposes of settling up the vacant lands, and also of providing additional business for the national railways, the government has been urged to bring in people from any country, but on the other hand, there is a strong agitation against opening the gates to anyone but men and women who will devote themselves to agricultural pursuits when they reach Canada. Whatever measure is brought before the house, it is felt, will seek to encourage immigration from the British Isles, the United States, and some sections of Europe rather than from the late enemy countries of Central Europe, where, it is stated, there are thousands of people willing to emigrate to Canada but whose presence here is not particularly desired at the present.

May Merge Departments.

Revision of the bank act, which comes every ten years, will be one of the matters before the select committee on banking and finance, to be followed by submission of a bill to the house, it is expected. If the census returns are complete in time, there may also be a redistribution bill before Parliament during the next couple of months or so, and this will undoubtedly bring many changes in the representation, the western provinces will be reduced as to their membership.

One of the important measures of the session will be that providing for the amalgamation of the militia, navy, air force and mounted police under one minister of defence. Steps to carry out this amalgamation are already under way, and a bill to provide for the change is to be submitted early in the session. This carries with it a pronouncement of policy in regard to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, which should prove interesting. From various sources there has been a move to have the mounted police return to its old footing of a force to police the unorganized territories of the country, and a bill providing for this would not cause surprise in political circles. The headquarters of the force may remain at Ottawa, but it is thought that eventually the brilliant uniforms of the constables will be withdrawn from the streets of eastern cities.

The policies of the new government in respect to railways and merchant marine are understood to be under consideration at the present time. When the legislation affecting the national railways comes before the house, it is expected to carry with it some pronouncement from the government as to its decision in carrying on the present system. There are opponents of government ownership in the government's own support, it is well known, but there are also many strong supporters, who will demand that government ownership be given a proper trial, extending over several years, before any change is contemplated. What will be done with the Canadian Government Merchant Marine is also a matter of interest. At present the government has the ships, and shipping is not a paying business, but their sale, if such were contemplated, would perhaps be a difficult matter. In those sections of the country where the Liberals received the strongest support in the recent general elections, ownership and operation of these ships by the government is generally opposed.

All of these, and probably many important matters will require to be dealt with during the coming session, so that it does not appear possible that it should be over very early. The general impression is that it will last until some time between May 24 and June 15, to be followed in the Fall by another regular session, which will last until the early months of 1923.

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which restores circulation promptly and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the mustard plaster's sting and blister.

During the "Flu" epidemic a few years ago Musterole was used in our training camps. The Y. M. C. A. War Board sent thousands of jars to France for our soldiers overseas.

Doctors have been recommending it to their patients for years for colds, aches and pains.

Just rub it on with your finger tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

CIVIC BUILDING PROGRESS REFLECTS TRUE SPIRIT OF COMMUNITY

CITY BUILDERS PREDICT BOOM AS COSTS FALL

SEEK SERVICE AND VALUE

Investors Warned To Be Sure and Get What "They Pay For."

London builders are looking forward to a good summer of home building this year. In 1921 there was quite a rush of after-the-war construction, and it is believed that the number of homes built in that period will be materially surpassed during the coming summer.

Much home building has been delayed in London, owing to the general belief that there was going to be a drop in costs. The next couple of months will show if this is to be realized or not, and then the new house construction will go ahead rapidly.

"The policy to go on when you are building a house, is not what the house is going to cost you, but what you are going to get for what you pay," is the way one contractor sized up the situation, when asked how much an ordinary citizen should put into a six-roomed house.

This query opened the flood gates for a discussion on home building. "My proposal may be considered extravagant, but really it isn't, said this builder, and he advocated that in building a home a wage-earner is justified in going just a little above the size of his pocketbook, to get something good in a house.

Consider two completed new homes, ready to live in, both practically the same size, style, equipment and conveniences, one costs $5,000, the other $7,500. Because of the $2,500 difference in total cost you may say the $7,500 home is "high priced." In the end the $5,000 home may prove the most expensive due to poor materials, cheap workmanship and the need for constant repair. In other words, the $5,000 home is what is known as a "priced high" home.

The house which is cheap at the outset is the one that is likely to cost money, worry and troubles in the end. There is a difference between things costing high on the initial payment, and cheap articles which prove costly in the end.

Take a specific example. Suppose you pay $10 for a pair of shoes and they give you three years of hard service with small upkeep and repair cost. Consider another pair of shoes at a purchase price of $5. At the end of six months their shape may have gone, perhaps they are worn and frayed at the edges, the uppers open to the weather and out of repair, their service has reached the limit. It would require six pair of shoes at $5 per pair, or an outlay of $30 to give you the same length of service you would be sure of from the higher priced, $10 shoe. It is easy to see which is the least expensive shoe.

Service first and then value are the terms to think on when starting to build a home. A few dollars saved on the initial cost by skimping will prove more costly in the end.

A case in point was instanced recently by Manager Buchanan, of the utilities commission. He had been to see the electrically-furnished house in Toronto, and one point which the demonstrator made was in regard to the cost of wall sockets. In building a house they would cost about $3 each. If the owner desired to put them in after they would cost $15.

There is a typical case of skimpy-costliness.

You can build with cheap materials and poor workmanship, you can cut and prune costs, you can use substitute and inferior materials and equipment. If, however, at the end of six months the roof leaks, the plumbing balks, the paint peels—don't blame the roof, plumbing or paint.

It pays to use quality materials. If anything goes wrong, if the plumbing, heating or piping fails, the makers of quality materials are ready to stand back of their products. Their reputation is at stake. They value it more highly than the products they manufacture and sell. True economy in home building means getting full value for the dollars you spend. Quality materials will give you service and service means value. It is worth while to remember this point in selecting your materials.

The easiest way to cut cost and practice true economy is to eliminate waste.

DECLARE CHARGES TRIVIAL

Official of Galt Church Declines to Reply To Rev. W. S. Webb.

Galt, March 3.—Officials of the First Baptist Church today declined to make an official reply to the charges of Rev. W. S. Webb, the pastor, made in his letter of resignation yesterday, indicating from their remarks that they considered the complaints of too trivial a nature and did not wish to enter into any controversy. The pastor's resignation had been accepted and that ended the matter with them.

One official, who requested that his name be not used, said in regard to the incident that the church authorities had refused to agree with slight alterations to the choir stalls, that previous to Mr. Webb's coming the choir gallery had been remodelled. The congregation provided its pastor with a modern house, rent free, and had installed an electric range in it.

As to the charge of "tragic lack of co-operation," it was pointed out that during Mr. Webb's pastorate he had been greeted by good congregations, but recently some of the members became displeased with the utterances of an evangelist brought to the church.

BELIEVE PRINCE MONARCHIST YET

Berlin, March 3.—In the opinion of socialist, democratic and radical newspapers, Frederick William, the former crown prince, has assumed the mantle of democracy to promote monarchistic propaganda, and to advertise himself for his forthcoming book of memoirs.

Various journals recite details of Frederick William's history in an attempt to show that he is no more democratic than "his noble father."

The publication of letters and telegrams of the former crown prince, sent by him recently to the Hamburg Senate and other bodies, is taken by anti-monarchist circles, which have been greatly exercised by the anti-republican propaganda here, to indicate simply an attempt to popularize the former royal refugee.

HOLD CANADIAN BANQUET AT N. Y.

New York, March 3.—Chefs at Hotel Astor busied themselves today with such unaccustomed viands as loin of Canadian buffalo, beaver tails, Yukon ptarmigan, Hudson Bay fish and the "makings" of Labrador flapjacks in preparation for the annual dinner tonight of the Canadian Camp.

Nearly 500 sportsmen and sportswomen, on whom the lure of the northland has fallen, will be present, many of them journeying hundreds of miles to sink tooth in Canadian fare and revive days with gun and rod.

Speakers include Rev. Allen MacRossie, who will serve as toastmaster; Lieut.-Gen. Nelson A. Miles Henry C. Walsh of the Explorers' Club and Melville E. Stone.

The Canadian Camp has a membership of more than 4,000 persons in the United States and Canada, according to Dr. G. Lenox Curtis, its president.

DEEPER STUDY URGED AS HELP IN BUYING HOME

Most Careful Consideration From Financial Viewpoint Brings Buyer Best Results.

CASH DOWN BEST PLAN

Prospective Builder or Purchaser Loses Money Paying in Installments.

When one decides to build a home and expects to save money at the same time it is expedient that the financial viewpoint be considered thoroughly from every angle before the actual building operations are commenced. As a matter of fact the more time that is devoted in this direction the greater will be the saving and the more appreciable the general results.

Should you find it necessary to borrow the money or part thereof for this purpose it will be well to remember that you must pay for the privilege of using this amount just as you would expect to pay for the lumber, bricks and other materials that will be used in the construction of the building under contemplation. Naturally then it is imperative that you interest yourself to the fullest degree in obtaining this money at the smallest possible rate of interest consistent with safe financing.

Discussion Is—

The mistake is often made by persons who build houses with a certain small amount down and the remainder on contract that they are not paying commission for the money. It is desirable that this point be reasoned out clearly. It is even more than probable that you will in the finish pay greater than the customary commission by reason of the increased cost of your home.

As an example: You buy a home for $5,000 with $1,000 down. You would more than likely have been able to purchase the same building for $500 to $800 less had you had all the cash in your possession.

Also remember that people who build homes to sell on easy payments have to charge enough extra for the home to cover the cost of the first mortgage and the discount on the contract.

It is often possible to save a large commission on a second mortgage by securing the amount of money required above a first mortgage from a friend or relative who has confidence in you and is willing to loan you the money at a reasonable rate of interest—perhaps without charging you any interest rate at all.

In many cities home financing corporations have been organized for the purpose of financing homes beyond the first mortgage.

On the American side, as an instance, about 1,000,000 homes have been financed in this manner, while throughout the Dominion scores of similar cases have been noted. The average size of the loan is $4,000, while the average amount of the loan has been about 80 per cent of the value of the property. Hence the average value is $5,000.

Saved One-Fifth.

Through these organizations you can usually borrow about four-fifths the value of your home. The balance, one-fifth, you must have saved.

There is one particular advantage to be gained through a home financing corporation and that is that you will be able to obtain all your labor and materials for cash, thereby getting the lowest cash price together with any discount that may be given for cash.

When making building loans where the money is to be advanced to meet bills when due, the money-lenders usually require that the amount of the money will be adequate to complete the building of your home in order that all bills for labor and materials will be paid thus preventing liens for the same being filed against the property in question. In most places such liens would be prior to the first mortgage.

It is imperative that you place your money first, following which the lender will furnish the money for the bills as they become due from time to time, always retaining sufficient, however, to provide for completion of the home and the settlement of bills for labor and materials.

REPORT INCREASED FIRE LOSS.

GALT, March 3.—High School Inspector Rogers in his annual report to the Galt Collegiate Institute Board again points to the fact that the school has grown beyond the limits of its capacity, and steps should be immediately taken to provide further accommodation.

COXEY, OF "ARMY" FAME, SEEKS NAVY

Washington, March 3.—Accompanied by a dozen men, who, he said, were out of work, "General" Jacob S. Coxey, who years ago led an "army of unemployed" from Ohio on a march to Washington, appeared yesterday before the house merchant marine committee, asking authority to take over and operate 112 government vessels now idle.

Unfolding a plan which calls for the issue of $40,000,000 in treasury notes to pay for re-conditioning of the ships, Mr. Coxey declared he proposed to appeal to the people to subscribe $50,000,000 to be used as a fund to keep the vessels in operation as "tramps" on the high seas.

Mr. Coxey admitted having had no experience in operating ships. His plan, he contended, would greatly mitigate unemployment.

BUILDING MATERIALS AND LABOR AT LOW LEVEL

PREDICT GOOD BUILDING BOOM IN NEAR FUTURE

Experts Believe Londoners Will Take Advantage of Low Prices Prevailing.

MONEY REPORTED EASIER

Spring brings talk of building booms, and with building booms comes the question of building costs.

Will they decline further? That is a question which is puzzling the contractor as well as the man who intends to enlarge his plant or build a home, and the material men answer emphatically prices have been cut to the last possible degree.

Building materials and the wages of laborers and skilled workmen have been on the toboggan for the past few months, and money is "easier" as they say in the money markets of the world. In other words, there is available cash to be obtained at reasonable rates.

A few months ago the man who intended to build and did not have the necessary money found it hard to raise money in London. But all that is now a matter of remembrance, a shadow of the cloud of depression which is skudding across a rapidly clearing sky toward the horizon.

Until just recently bankers were not particularly anxious to make mortgage loans based on the inflated values which have prevailed. Now they voice the opinion that while the various costs in connection with construction work will not drop to the level of pre-war years, they have waned to an entirely safe level.

Faces Bright Future.

Statistics, and impartial and unprejudiced reports on investigations made reveal the fact that the building trade in London has suffered its worst in the few years left behind, and that now the dawn of a bright and busy future is breaking. Conditions on markets point to a change from a buyer's to a seller's advantage.

Londoners who intend to build homes have acquainted themselves with the foregoing facts, and are preparing to take advantage of the conditions that now exist, and the low prices, which, it is authoritatively stated, will be the best for a long time to come.

Careful analysis has shown, architects and engineers state, that labor is responsible for 88 per cent of the cost of building. This, of course, includes the mining, milling, manufacturing and delivery of the various raw materials.

The average advance in wages of various trades during the "inflated" period has been reckoned as 90 per cent. Experts do not believe that the wage standard will be the same as that existing in 1913, for they believe that Canadian employers want their workmen to be justly paid, no matter to what class of labor they belong.

Insures Skilled Labor.

Today, however, labor can be obtained at a price that insures skilled workmanship and a full day's results for the monetary outlay.

Small homes are being constructed for a total cost never even dreamed of several months ago. Contractors, as a rule, are willing to deliver actual work and take a day's wages for it.

As the warmer spring sun brings with it hopes of "big things" ahead, and an era of prosperity, in which all will share, Londoners are beginning to "buck up" and "think up" helping business to "wake up."

They see an opportunity, not afforded during war years, to escape high rents by building their own homes. And manufacturers and merchants are planning extensive additions to their plants and stores, basing their firm belief that a rosy future awaits them in the near distance, on the present condition of business in the Dominion, and the remarkable strides it has made in such a short period.

And as visible proof that Canada is about to embark on the long-heralded "era of prosperity" they point to the exchange rate on the Canadian dollar, which has been reduced so materially in such a remarkably brief space of time.

BUILD NOW!

THE time to build is now! Lay your foundations with the coming of spring!

The time is ripe. Material is cheaper today than it has been for many years, and the need of employment is greater than ever!

Keep your money in circulation by building.

You benefit yourself and you benefit the man who does the work. Hundreds of men are at present out of work, and months of business depression have kept the country at a standstill. By putting the laboring man back to work a critical situation will be relieved and a chance to succeed will be given every man.

Scores of desirable lots are standing vacant in London, and scores of men are anxious for a job. The material is cheap. All that is needed is the impetus and things will hum. Once a boom in the building trade is under way prosperity for Londoners is assured.

Unemployment will be no more and the old happy times of "a job for every man and then some" will return.

There is no safer investment than money put into property, and no investment whose results will be so far-reaching. Building is an investment which benefits not only the man who puts up the money, but the man who does the work and the man who supplies the material as well—capital, labor and the middle class!

Prosperity for everybody depends upon employment. Keep London moving and you yourself will be carried along by sheer momentum. Build and build now! The opportunity was never better and the need never greater.

The buck has been passed! Do your share in bringing London forward with the times of prosperity.

MARRIAGE IS ANNULLED.

Montreal, March 3.—Mr. Justice Coderre, practice court, has annulled the marriage of d'Arcy Dennis Bogue and Margaret Gretta Hughes, which took place in this city on Sept. 3, 1920, because the former furnished documentary proof to the effect that the woman he married in good faith already had one husband living, Christopher Lawrence, a compositor, of Dublin, Ireland. Bogue informed his lordship that the woman left him four months after the ceremony, and that he did not know her present whereabouts.

PAYS $204,000 TO CHARITIES IN 1921

Heavy Demands For Aid Made On City By Institutions.

CLERK SUBMITS FIGURES

Declares Grants In 1910 Totalled $55,000.

What constitutes a charity grant? asked City Clerk Baker on Friday morning.

He evidently answered his own question for he stated that he had figured out under the heading of charity, the 1921 donations amounted to $204,000.

In 1910 the charity grants totalled $55,000.

Mr. Baker arrived at his 1921 figures by using some of the totals of 1920 and estimating for the past year. The main items which he included in the total were:

Grants, $7,761; hospital and sanatorium payments, $158,000; sailor's and soldier's grants, $17,000; general relief, $12,000; hospital debenture charges, $7,000.

The items given, Mr. Baker states, are met by the people of the city as a whole and are paid out of the general tax rate.

His hospital charge as a charity was questioned. He pointed out that those able to pay, do so. Others unable to pay, get attention and their maintenance is met by the rest of the city out of the general tax rate. The same applies to the sanatorium.

Demands on the city for grants to charitable works have been heavy of late and a fairly large budget of grant requests will face the finance committee when it tackles its estimates.

TORONTO FIRM ASSIGNS

Waive of Brokerage Failures Reaches Toronto.

Toronto, March 3.—The wave of failures of stock brokerage firms has at last reached Toronto, and this morning it was announced on the floor of the Toronto Stock Exchange that the firm of Bryant, Isard & Co. had made an assignment.

The notice of the assignment, addressed to the president of the exchange, reads as follows:

"We beg to inform you on behalf of Bryant, Isard & Co., that on account of circumstances over which they have no control, they have been compelled to make an authorized assignment, under the bankruptcy act, to J. L. Thorne of this city."

Mr. Thorne is taking possession of the offices of the company, located in the C. P. R. building, and is preparing a statement, and will proceed to liquidate their affairs.

EXPLOSION CAUSES FIRE.

KITCHENER, March 3.—The fire department was called this afternoon to the plant of the Merchants' Rubber Company, where a fire broke out as a result of a benzine explosion. The prompt work of the operatives in the use of extinguishers saved the building from serious damage. The loss was slight.

KILLS WIFE FOR BEING OUT LATE.

Newton, Mass., March 3.—Enraged because his wife stayed out late at a motion picture show, William T. Garvey, 49 years old, shot and killed her, wounded Mrs. Doris G. Atwood, a young woman boarder, and took his own life late last night. A 17-year-old son, Raymond, and two other children, witnesses of the shooting, tried unsuccessfully to stop their father, one of the girls jumping at him.

GIVE SPECIAL ATTENTION TO THE

Electrification of Your Home

No Other Detail Is So Vitally Important

Thousands of houses are wired for electricity. The light comes when you touch the button. The iron heats when you attach the cord. There is really no trick in going that far.

But if you want your home to be the complete realization of your fondest ideals your electrical installation must be more than a product of "time and materials."

There is one right place for every switch in every room; a place to save steps, to avoid fumbling in the dark. A place for overhead drop lights, or a balanced setting of side wall fixtures to give those exquisite lighting effects that draw the line between a vacant blazing barracks, and a snug and cozy home.

And lighting is after all only one phase of your dependence upon electricity for a full measure of home comfort. Provision must be made for using the appliances you own or intend some time to buy.

The Hydro Shop Will Be Glad To Co-operate With You in laying out a modern installation that will add inestimably to the enjoyment of your home and give it a selling value far above the commonplace—Hydro will do the wiring for you at moderate rates.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS For a Well-Wired Home

Don't fail to make provision for your electric range. You will save money by putting in the stove service while the house is being built.

Provide plenty of Convenience outlets in all parts of the house; base plugs to which you can readily attach the vacuum cleaner cord wherever it is needed.

Convenience outlets are genuine "conveniences." They save labor and wear and tear on fixtures. Lamp replacements are reduced to a minimum when you don't have to take them out to use the socket for some other purpose.

An electric fireplace is the housewife's ideal. More beautiful than the rest. Definite heat control. You can have any degree of heat you want, yet avoid dirt, soot and the work of handling fuel and ashes. Can be placed on any wall. No vent flue needed.

Have floor plugs installed beneath your dining-room and reading-tables, so that lamps and appliances may be attached from below, thus to avoid the clutter of dangling wires.

Use a bell-ringing transformer for door bells or other annunciators and make the first cost the last cost. Cheaper and better than dry batteries. No replacements.

Light is the best burglar insurance. Hydro can wire your home so that you can flood every room in the house with light from any points designated.

EXPERT URGES DEALERS TO CONSIDER SPRINGTIME NEEDS OF AUTO OWNERS

BY J. L. MIDDLETON.

First at this particular moment we are at the threshold of the new spring season, and soon reawakened nature will throw off the drab of winter and break forth in new, colorful raiment. The motorist will then step forth, and, under the spell of the changing season, demand the wherewithal to put his motor car in tune with its surroundings. He will react, as he always has, to these brighter influences, to the urges and lures of the open road.

Some will want brand new cars of better construction than the ones they drove through the winter's slush and snow. Many will want to dress their old "boats" up and put them in good running condition. To do this they will buy! They will buy the services of the garageman; they will buy new tires, etc., and the dealers and garagemen of London who are going to sell these things are ready to meet the demand with well-selected, well-displayed and well-demonstrated stocks.

There will also be a large number of new motorists welcomed to automobiledom this spring through the medium of used cars—men and women who wish, and rightly too—to master the details of driving sufficiently before taking a chance with a new car.

Conversing with a local distributor of automobiles the other day on the subject of used cars, he said:

"Owners are often worried when they begin to consider their selection of a new car concerning the value of their used car.

"The trade-in value of used cars quite naturally differs in various sections of the country and you will find invariably that the locality where the car has the highest resale value, is one where that particular car is represented by a firm that maintains a completely departmentized institution for servicing that particular make of car.

"A completely departmentized institution is one which carries a full line of parts, meaning each and every essential part of the car, and a thoroughly capably managed machine and repair department, and a painting and trimming department.

"It is the popularity of the car coupled with the guaranteed service by a departmentized organization that establishes the resale value of the used or rebuilt motor car.

"The resale value of the customer's used car determines the depreciation he must necessarily stand and realizing this to be true, more than four years ago we adopted the policy of never offering for sale a used car until it had been thoroughly rebuilt in our own shop. Meaning by this, doing everything necessary to the mechanical parts to put into the chassis the service we expected the customer to pay for, and then renewing its outward appearance to meet the personal pride of the buyer.

"This policy has resulted in the saving of thousands of dollars for car owners in London and many other sections of the province, and has enabled us to practically determine a fixed resale price on each yearly model.

"Knowing the resale value of each model after it has been rebuilt we are enabled to give our owners the true worth of their used car in trade on a new one."

And just another word in closing about preparations for spring. To put the automotive merchandising establishment in tune with the season it will not be amiss to look about at what other people are doing. The farmer will be clearing away the debris of last year's crops and preparing to turn the soil for the new crop. The housewife will be hauling down curtains, scrubbing and polishing paint and brightening things generally. Little Willie will be spending his Saturday mornings picking up about the yard, routing out things in the cellar and the municipalities will be throwing out gangs of cleaners to remove the winter's collection of sand and soil from the roads and brightening up the arteries of travel.

Everybody will be cleaning up.

463,448 AUTOS USED IN CANADA

Total Number of Cars in North America Approximately 11,000,000.

12,588,949 WORLD OVER

Liberia, With 3 in Monrovia, Has Fewest of All Countries.

Compiled from the most reliable statistics obtainable, there are in use 12,588,949 motor vehicles throughout the world. This includes passenger cars and commercial vehicles with motor trucks. Of this large number, 10,505,660, are in the United States. This represents 83 per cent of the world registration, and is a remarkable object lesson of the extensive motorization of the United States. Next in order come Great Britain with 497,582 motor cars, Canada 463,448 and France 236,146.

These world motor figures, compiled by Automotive Industries, present many interesting social and commercial phases. Those countries which possess 10,000 or more motor vehicles are:

Country.	Cars.
United States	10,505,660
Great Britain	497,582
Canada	463,448
France	236,146
Germany	91,384
Argentina	75,000
Australia	73,900
Italy	53,000
India	45,983
Dutch East Indies	45,000
Spain	37,560
New Zealand	37,500
Russia	35,000
Belgium	33,200
Union of South Africa	26,468
Brazil	25,000
Mexico	25,000
Denmark	22,260
Cuba	20,000
Switzerland	18,011
Austria	16,350
Norway	14,340
Sweden	14,250
Holland	13,500
Philippine Islands	12,381
Japan	12,260
Algeria	12,000
Poland	10,700
Chile	10,000
Uruguay	10,000

The motor registration in some of the lesser motorized countries is: Rumania, 8,500; China, 8,150; Malay States, 8,000; Porto Rico, 6,500; Turkey, 5,500; Ceylon, 5,350; Egypt, 5,084; Portugal, 5,000; Czecho-Slovakia, 4,133; Gold Coast, 3,500; Morocco, 2,500; Trinidad, 2,221; Siam, 2,187; Mauritius, 1,600; Hawaii, 1,500; Jamaica, 1,350; Barbadoes, 1,000; Newfoundland, 600; Guatemala, 500; Portuguese East Africa, 430; Angola, 250; Madagascar, 150; Bahamas, 150; Madeira Islands, 100; Azores, 80; while Monrovia, the capital of Liberia, is credited with three motor vehicles.

North America Leads.

Divided into continental classifications the figures show 11,162,110 motor cars in North and South America, 1,110,990 in Europe, 134,730 in Asia, 125,281 in Oceania and 55,832 in Africa.

In discussing the export possibilities in other parts of the world for Canadian manufacturers, Automotive Industry says:

"France, Russia, Germany and other smaller European nations, however, are not of particular interest from an export view at the present time, due to the generally unsettled economic conditions in those areas.

"In certain European countries, moreover, there is active domestic production of motor vehicles, notably in France, Italy, Germany and Belgium. This home competition will always be a large factor of sales resistance to Canadian products.

"The countries which already have a considerable number of cars, however, are likely to prove the most accessible to the exporter, since he is not under so great a necessity of selling the idea of motor transportation."

Most Cars in Cities.

It will be noticed that in the list of motor vehicles, only four South American countries are in the class with 10,000 or more. Argentina leads, with 75,000, followed by Brazil with 25,000, while Chile and Uruguay have 10,000 each. The great majority of these cars are in and around the cities, where good road facilities have been chiefly developed. The general scarcity of motor vehicles throughout the great area of South America reveals very clearly the dependence of wide automobile use upon satisfactory highways. Mention is made that Uruguay, the smallest country in South America, and with but 1,250,000 population, has more good roads than any other country on the continent, which explains why it has 10,000 motor vehicles. In Montevideo are registered 7,461 cars, and there were imported into Uruguay from 1903 to May 31, 1921, a total of 13,194 vehicles. There are not over 100 users of motor trucks in Uruguay.

Automobiles credited to some of the other South American countries are: Peru, 3,343; Venezuela, 2,500; Colombia, 2,000; Panama, 1,950; British Guiana, 1,050; Ecuador, 500; Paraguay, 500, and Bolivia, 300.

The 236,146 motor vehicles in France represent an increase of 100 per cent, as compared with the motor registration before the war.

GIVES ADVICE ON SALES METHODS

Edward S. Jordan Urges Dealers To Study Customers' Needs.

APPEALS TO WOMEN

Confidence In Salesmen Secured If the Proper Line Is Followed.

EDWARD S. JORDAN, president of the Jordan Motor Car Company, has long been engaged in studying sales. We are quite in accord with him when he suggests that the women can help you get winter business. The methods enumerated below, according to Mr. Jordan, have helped many an enterprising dealer to make good in the cold weather:

The Sense of Sight.—A salesroom of extreme cleanliness—a salesman just as clean—good light at any cost—a car completely drained of oil on an inexpensive rug—a tall, narrow mirror on the wall directly opposite the steering wheel—the car itself perfectly clean, polished and free from rust.

The Sense of Feeling.—A warm but well-ventilated salesroom—a very comfortable chair—the deeper and softer the better for women who tire of walking around a car.

The Sense of Hearing—A quiet, convincing tone of voice—no noises from the shop—no tiresome exploitation of mechanical details—sell the woman on your own confidence in the ideals back of the name on your car, which is your greatest selling asset.

Atmosphere.—Pictures on the wall which suggest pride of ownership and pleasing satisfaction in outdoor life—no flaring colors on the walls—no mechanical parts on the tables or floors—an atmosphere of extreme cleanliness.

Taste.—Make the woman feel that if she is buying a low-priced car she is exercising good economical judgment; if a medium-priced car that she will find it indorsed by people of good taste; if a high-priced car, that she cannot afford to buy anything else and maintain her recognized position in life.

SIMPLICITY IS KEYNOTE OF AUTO DEVELOPMENT

Comfort For Motorists Is Aim of Engineers.

ENDURANCE, freedom from repairs, simplicity. That is what the motorist wants, and that is what the motor car manufacturer promises him as automobile development proceeds.

Signs of this development appear in almost every new model presented this year. There are the individual step instead of the running board, more and easier control from the dash, rear signal lights, fuel economizers and many other changes which make for ease and comfort in riding.

"Development work during the coming decade," says Colonel J. G. Vincent, Packard engineer, "will be confined largely to a simplification and standardization of construction with a view to securing greater endurance and freedom from repairs and adjustments."

Motor Simplified.

Most attention is being paid to the motor, for the simplification of its parts and economy of operation.

Scarcity of fuel in the future may send every present-day engine to the scrap heap to be replaced by a more suitable type.

But until then, engineers are seeking to bring motor and fuel costs down as low as possible.

"Eventually," says Colonel Vincent, "the demand for greater fuel economy may develop, as it has in England and continental countries, cars of less weight and horsepower.

"Already there is a movement in this direction, but until our public highways are materially improved I do not believe it will be a dominant factor."

Changes in body design will depend on the public, is Colonel Vincent's opinion. There will be no unwarranted departures from present lines.

"Unless there springs up some pronounced public preference for some new motor car quality," he adds, "the manufacturer's efforts during the next decade will be invested in refining and perfecting the already existing design."

CARE IN WASHING CAR.

Whenever water from a hose is used to wash the car, it should flow easily from the nozzle. Water under pressure will injure the car's finish.

BRACKET HOLDS SPOT.

A bracket from a piece of pipe can be attached to the outside of the inclosed car windshield, to hold the spotlight and rear-view mirror, as shown. This is easier than attaching the light to the frame.

FRENCH THEFT LOCK.

A Frenchman has devised a combination lock device by which the emergency brake and control levers are held in place and cannot be moved before the lock is opened. The device is set between the levers, as shown, and the arm extending from the lock is grooved so that it will hold the levers in place—the emergency set and the control in neutral. Knowledge of the combination, a word or syllable of three letters, is needed to open the lock.

CLIP FOR TIRE GAUGE.

No need of looking for the tire gauge if it is held by a pen or pencil clip, as shown, to the edge of the door pocket. If properly replaced each time after it is used, the gauge will always be at hand and there need be no futile searching.

AUTO NOTES.

Keep battery connections tight and terminals clean.

Distilled water is best for batteries.

Average life of a tire on a racing car is less than 500 miles.

There are 2,395 motor cars to every horse in Connecticut.

France registered 237,125 automobiles in 1920.

Examine the battery about every two weeks.

Any unusual sound requires immediate investigation.

Never shift into reverse while the car is moving forward.

When the car steers hard the tires may need inflating.

Cover battery terminals with vaseline to prevent corrosion.

Do not draw brakes up too tightly.

Renew water in the cooling system every week.

Place fuller's earth on oily clutch or brake surfaces.

About 34,000,000 tires will be needed for use on all the motor cars of the country in 1922.

Ordinary laundry soap can be used as a putty to fill leaks in gasoline or oil lines.

In 1909 there were less than ten automobile standards; today there are more than 300.

Seat covers may be cleaned best with a non-alkaline soap and warm water.

Occupation of chauffeur has as high a rating as locomotive engineer.

SEEKS TO IMPROVE GARAGE WORKERS

PUBLIC IS DISSATISFIED

Owners Beginning To Realize Unskilled Labor Does Not Pay.

There is an agitation on the part of some few garagemen, and perhaps a larger few than we know, towards improving the mechanical ability of the garage employee. The car owning public today is becoming somewhat sore at the class of service that it is getting from the average garage. A man takes his car into the garage to have it looked after, and in a great many cases the car comes out of the garage worse than when it went in. The trouble is due to the fact that a great many men are posing as auto mechanics who perhaps ought to be between the handles of a wheelbarrow. They know very little about a car, and their skill is only a bluff, so the car owner suffers.

Every Tom, Dick and Harry cannot fix a car. It requires a reasonable amount of skill. A car is a finely adjusted machine. Its construction represents the highest engineering skill in the world today, and when it is put in the hands of an inexperienced operator it is subjected to a considerable amount of abuse. It requires mechanical skill to put a car back in shape again, and the skill is not, in a great many cases, available.

It might not be a bad policy to have every auto mechanic, or at least a certain portion of the men in a system of examination. We will admit make skilled people. Men may read in books sufficient to enable them to do the work required in a thorough manner. Examinations, however, would be a step toward bringing about a better class of garage mechanics who would give to the public the service to which the public is entitled. This better service would mean a better feeling in the business as a whole, it would make the car owner more satisfied and there would be more cars purchased, and consequently more tires and accessories sold.

It is estimated Australia could absorb 150,000 cars, but has only one-sixth that number.

WARNS BUYERS OF USED CARS

MAKE THOROUGH TEST

Points Out Necessity of Trading With Reputable Dealer.

BY WILFRED HODGINS.

During the years of 1917, 18 and 19 a dealer did not give much thought or attention to the condition of a used car when offering it for sale to the public, but conditions have so changed in the last year that a progressive dealer who has any thought for the future, before offering a used car for sale, will see that the car offered represents the value asked.

A buyer will notice from the ads in the daily newspapers a number of the dealers offering a thirty-day guarantee with their cars. This point should not be overlooked, as nine times out of ten, before the dealer made this offer, he had to send the car to his repair shop to have some repair work done before he could sell the personality of his firm into the car.

Every used car sold to a satisfied customer means a boost for the dealer selling the car. Many prospects are handed to dealers from the satisfied owners, also this same owner in a good many cases forms a new car prospect later on.

One point a used car buyer should always take into consideration is the fact that a dealer's reputation is behind the sale of a car and that it is much better to purchase a used car from a dealer who backs up his advertising, than an individual who has no further interest in the purchaser's welfare than the immediate deal they are transacting. Another important advantage in purchasing a used car from a dealer is the monthly payment plan. By paying down 40 or 50 per cent of the list price the purchaser can pay the balance monthly and have the car help pay for itself, or in the case of a businessman he can use the additional money to further his own interests in his business.

A good many used car buyers simply examine the outside appearance of a car, never taking into consideration the condition of the motor, transmission or rear axle, and in this way very often run into an expense bill which they never anticipated. This brings me back to my former point of the advantage of purchasing a used car from a dealer who stands behind his 30-day guarantee, which he advertises. If some unforeseen part breaks the buyer is protected at the expense of the dealer, when if he purchases the car from an individual he has to stand the loss himself.

Prices asked by some dealers for Used Cars depend on how POOR a salesman sells the New Car and how GOOD a salesman sells the Used Car.

Our allowances for Used Cars taken in on New Models are uniform, because they are properly appraised at actual worth and not at some imaginary figure.

No matter what the profit is on New Cars, no dealer can sacrifice it by taking less on the resale of Used Cars and continue to render owners, the service to which they are entitled.

Any dealer who allows more for Used Cars must take a loss on his New Car profits. If his New Car profits are so great that he can do this, then he is getting more for his New Car than it is really worth—and the man who buys his New Car is the one who stands to lose in the end.

Wise buyers of New Cars are more concerned with what the New Car is actually worth than what the old car will bring.

EXPLAINS WHY CARS BACKFIRE

Autoist Claims Slow-Burning Charge Usually Cause of Trouble.

MAY BE CARBON DEPOSIT

BY F. G. TOPP.

A slow burning charge is the cause of backfiring into the intake manifold and carburetor, fire remaining in the cylinder through the exhaust stroke and igniting the gas in the manifold at the opening of the intake valve. This slow burning charge is usually lean, lacking in gasoline, the air predominating and separating the particles of gasoline so greatly that the flame has difficulty in "jumping the spaces," doing so slowly and prolonging the time of combustion.

The remedy lies, of course, in obtaining a better mixture, and the seat of the trouble is the carburetor,which is admitting too much air, or not enough gasoline. The spring of the air valve should be tightened, or its amount of opening lessened, which will cut down the air. In case a carburetor suddenly develops such a disability to deliver a proper mixture, and the air valve seems as usual, it is well to inspect the needle valve, which may be partially stopped up, or the nut on the needle stem may have become loose and allowed the needle to work down.

If the trouble does not seem to be with the carburetor, inspect the intake manifold. Sections of gasket have been known to drop out, admitting air, and the manifold to become loose on its studs. The latter will, of course, be noticed as soon as the carburetor is touched.

An over-rich mixture is another cause of back-firing into the carburetor, though not as common as the lean mixture. Gasoline predominates, and the flame has a hard time finding enough oxygen, with the result that, as in the former case, flame is left in the cylinder when the intake valve opens, and ignites the incoming charge back through the intake manifold to the carburetor.

Another and still less common cause is carbon deposit. A projecting point of carbon in the cylinder becomes red hot and retains its heat through the exhaust stroke, igniting the incoming charge. Backfiring through the carburetor from this cause is always preceded by violent and characteristic pre - ignition knocking, the point of carbon at first not being hot enough to ignite the mixture until it is compressed. After the motor has run long enough with this pre-ignition the carbon becomes hot enough to ignite the charge as it comes in. The remedy is, obviously, remove the carbon by either chemical or mechanical means.

Incomplete combustion, caused by an impoverished mixture, is that condition which causes a motor to backfire into the intake pipe and carburetor.

The mixture may be impoverished by a carburetor adjustment admitting a surplus of air, in some cases only at the higher motor speeds, or by leakage at some one or all of the joints between the carburetor and cylinders. It may also be impoverished by admitting an insufficient supply of gasoline past the needle valve with correct air adjustment.

As an impoverished mixture, otherwise known as a lean mixture, burns slowly and spasmodically, owing to the excessive amount of oxygen present necessary for the combustion of the charge, there is at times a portion of it still burning at the end of the exhaust stroke, and as the inlet valve opens it fires the gas contained in the intake pipes and carburetor, because of the fact that this gas is moving towards the cylinders at a slower rate of travel than that of the flames propagation; but as this does not happen at every intake opening, the next inspiration stroke or one closely following it again starts the flow of gas through the carburetor, and puts the engine in operation until the same things occurs again.

I have also known of cases where carbon deposits, becoming incandescent, have ignited the gas during the inspiration stroke and caused the same action.

Justly Indignant.

"Blankety, blank, blank these corporations, they don't care anything about the public," raged a man who drives his own car.

"What's the trouble now?" someone sympathized.

Great For Bad Coughs and Colds

Make Your Own Medicine and Have the Best There Is.

You'll Say It's Good When All Mucus Disappears and Clean Healthy Membrane is Your Reward.

Here is an inexpensive home made remedy that you can't beat and one that will quickly bring up that phlegm, stop the snuffling, relieve the clogged nostrils, make breathing easy and cause stubborn colds and persistent coughs to vacate—many times over night.

Try it right away if you suffer from Catarrh, Chest Colds or any irritating nose or throat troubles and you'll be glad you run across this little bit of advice.

Get from any druggist, one ounce of Parmint (double strength) add to it a little sugar and enough water to make one half pint. You can make it in two minutes and when it is mixed you can pride yourself on having a medicine that acts directly on the membrane of the nose and throat and acts so effectively that all phlegm, all tickling and inflammation speedily disappears.—Advt.

Advise Adjustments of Carburetor To Overcome Missing at Low Speeds

If the engine is being sparked by a magneto, the speed of the magneto may be great enough to produce a spark of sufficient intensity regularly to ignite the cylinder charges. If the engine is running slowly on a wide-open throttle, the resistance to the passage of the spark within the cylinder is much greater than when the engine is running slowly with the throttle nearly closed. The power and intensity of a magneto spark is very much less with the magneto revolving slowly than when revolving rapidly.

Having ascertained that a good spark is occurring in the cylinder, the fault may be in the carburetor. With a carburetor having a mechanically varied needle valve opening and an automatic auxiliary air valve, at low engine speed and wide-open throttle, the carburetor will frequently supply too rich a mixture. The remedy is properly to adjust the cam or other device which mechanically varies the needle valve opening; or if this does no good, the tension may not be right on the auxiliary air valve spring, it probably being too strong. The adjustments and the order in which they should be tried depend on the make and form of the carburetor, and the best suggestion would be to write the maker asking his instructions how to overcome the difficulty in the simplest manner.

With the present low-grade gasoline in use, with the engine idling on an almost closed throttle, great variations exist in comparatively short periods of time in richness and condition of the mixture passing to the cylinders. The butterfly throttle valve has a tendency to throw any liquid drops coming from the carburetor against one side of the manifold. This liquid will creep along the walls and along the outer radii of all the curves and one or two cylinders in the engine will get a mixture too rich, while the others get one too lean. The remedy under such conditions is to hot-jacket the carburetor around the throttle valve and the inlet pipe for the first six or eight inches from the throttle.

If the faulty running occurs at low engine speed and wide-open throttle, and a strong fat spark exists, and the carburetor is supplying a mixture having the proper proportions of air and gasoline, the trouble may be due to entrained drops of liquid gasoline and the uneven distribution of the manifold, which can be corrected by applying heat exactly as above.

The compression may not be uniform in each cylinder, due to leaky valves or leaky piston rings. The remedy is to regrind the valve and put kerosene in the cylinders overnight. If the rings are prevented from properly expanding because they are gummed up with oil, the kerosene will put them in good condition. If the openings in the rings are all in the same vertical line, or one or more rings are broken, it will be necessary to remove the piston to remedy the trouble.

In the case of leaky valves or rings, at high engine speeds, the leak might not be of sufficient size to make any appreciable difference. At low engine speeds, due to the greater time allowed the gas to escape through the leak, the result will be very noticeable.

WOULD OVERHAUL SECOND-HAND CAR

SCORES PIECEMEAL PLAN

Finds It Cheaper To Do Job Right in First Place.

BY J. LEONARD.

I recently bought a second-hand Ford—my first. It looks like Sam Patch, but it runs like Sam Hill. What I mean is that while it looks a jitney, and will till I can afford to get it painted, it has an engine that could hardly be bettered, as Ford engines go.

I dwell on the excellences of my Lizzie simply because it all lends point to a conclusion which I reached a month after I drove her, purring and contented into my barn. My advice to any novice who buys a second-hand Ford is, take it to a regular Ford shop and have it overhauled and put in condition from the tires up; and count that, not as a repair cost, but as a part of the original investment. It will save you time, temper and money.

I have said that my Lizzie was as substantial as she is plain. But she was born in 1916, and she had been run constantly ever since. She had had excellent care, but there was wear, here, there and everywhere which soon began to call for attention.

Ah, That Curious Pounding!

The first thing I noticed as soon as I learned to distinguish between a knock and a bump in the road, was a curious pounding. I inquired. She had had that knock ever since she came from the factory. It had done no harm, but—it was a piston knock. Well—I couldn't put up with it. Besides, the pistons were rather worn. So I had four new pistons put in. That was the beginning. Later came necessary repairs, or semi-necessary repairs.

For instance, the steering gear had some worn bushings down in front, that went rattlety bang on the smoothest pavement. I couldn't put up with that either. Result, new bushings, some anti-rattle contraption, and a long bill. Then she began to buck and kick, and that meant new transmission bands. The high speed band took to slipping and had to be tightened. Then the rear axle began to drip grease on the tires, and that called for new washers, which didn't wash, and which I suppose will need more doctoring later. The bearings of the front wheels had to be tightened. Some of the springs of the front seat, supposed to sustain the driver, were broken, and had to be replaced. A new commutator improved the starting of the engine, but cost more money. Just now the upholstery of the car needs attention. It is frayed about the edges. The rubber mat is worn through. And so on.

Well, that is enough for one wail. It cost me, counting what I have named a lot more, some one hundred dollars to get things right, they are not right yet.

I could have had the car overhauled for some thirty-odd dollars plus the cost of repair material. Suppose it had cost me $75. That would have been cheap beside the plan I followed of getting the thing done piecemeal.

This has proved true even with what I know to be an unusually good car. What it would have meant with a poor one I can only guess.

The Judge: "You were found under a bed with a bag of tools. Any excuse?"

The prisoner: "Force of habit, Judge; I've been a motorist."—Selected.

There is a knock in my Ford motor. What can I do for it?—P. D. Q.

Answer—Take a hack saw and cut a large hole in the exhaust pipe—close to the motor. Then no one can possibly hear the knock.

FAILS TO MAKE RETURN.

Hamilton, March 3.—Though required by law to make a return of personal election expenses within two months of a federal election, John Newlands, defeated Liberal candidate in East Hamilton, has made no return to Lyman. Lee, returning officer. All other candidates have made their returns. The expenses in all cases were quite nominal, with the exception of ex-Mayor Booker. It cost him $1,015 to be a bad third. This was more than twice as much as any other candidate spent.

AUTO HAS CREATED CHANGE IN SOCIETY

Motor Car Proves Boon To All Classes of Citizens.

HAS WIDENED FRIENDSHIP

Markets Formerly Inaccessible Now Open To Farmer.

The motor car has been a social agent of the most advanced type. Its advent has worked many changes in the ordinary everyday lives of both city and country people. In fact, the distinction between the two trends to the vanishing point. The farmer is becoming better acquainted with city ways, city viewpoints, and with business methods generally.

The city man, with all his wealth of ignorance of the real business of production of our natural products, is seeing with his own eyes, and feeling the jolts and jars with his own nerves that which comes to him who works a farm or depends on our ingenious transportation systems for the carrying of his products from the farm to the factory.

So it is that distinctions of class are being leveled. Charity for the other fellow's viewpoint is growing. An all-round good is being gradually spread over the people through the benign agency of a motor-driven vehicle.

Markets have been opened up for farm products. Many things that formerly went to waste are now put into consumption because of the motor truck. Fruit and vegetables, poultry and dairy, as well as other products, are placed on the distant market at little cost and with the minimum of lost time. The farmer, forty miles from the city, formerly took two or three days to get his produce delivered. Now he has it done in less than a day, with no loss of sleep and his earning powers increased.

The best evidence that we can give that all these things are efficiency producers, and therefore business investments of a high order, is the way some of the most utilitarian farmers have broken all neighborhood traditions for economy and invested heavily in these conveniences. Such men do not continue to spend money this way unless they are getting something back from it. Some of the neighbors who have always been regarded as tight-wads, close, shrewd, hard businessmen, invested readily in motor cars, tractors, trucks, gasoline engines and better living advantages. There was no other reason than that these things paid them to do so.

The car has enlarged the neighborhood. It would be a bad state of affairs indeed, if, with our decreased population on the land, with our smaller families, and consequently fewer local gatherings, there was no compensation. But we have it in that our circles of friendship grow wider. We go where the crowds are, when we want a U. F. O. picnic, a family reunion, a church social or a farmers' club gathering. The car puts the fellow ten miles away about as near to us as Farmer Jones on the next concession formerly was.

SORES SPREAD ALL OVER FACES AND BODIES

Mrs. Howard Houlette, Waskatenau, Sask., writes: "I wish to tell you of the benefit we have received by using your valuable medicine Burdock Blood Bitters.

"My children started to break out on their faces in small white pimples which kept getting larger each day. Pus would form under the scabs, and they would come off, and each time the sores would be larger; some were as large as a twenty-five cent piece, and would spread all over their bodies. I was nearly in despair and sent to the village for a bottle of good blood medicine. The druggist sent me a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, which I commenced giving them at once.

"In about ten days I saw an improvement and they grew steadily better each day, and in one month the sores had all disappeared."

All blood and skin diseases are caused by bad blood, and to get it pure and keep it pure you must remove every trace of the impure and morbid matter from the system by a blood-cleansing medicine such as a remedy that has been on the market for the past forty-five years, and one without an equal for all diseases and disorders of the blood.

URGES REGULAR BRAKE TESTS

Expert Appeals to Service Men to Ally Themselves With Safety First Movement.

SAVES LARGE EXPENSE

Gives Hints on How to Keep Mechanism in Order.

Good service is that which results in as nearly complete satisfaction to the owner as is possible—and it will bring its reward in the long run. Little disputes may arise over what the owner imagines excessive charges or something of the kind, but after he has patronized the other fellow, of whom he has heard, he is apt to go back to the original good service place and then stick.

Service men easily may ally themselves with the safety-first movement and, perhaps, be the means of preventing many bad accidents, if not material damage, by making it a practice to suggest to the car owner the advisability of regular and frequent examination of both sets of brakes on his car. If it happens to be a garage, the opportunity of brake inspection comes more readily, and in all events the suggestion is only necessary to obtain an order to have the work performed.

Poorly-acting brakes have been responsible for more accidents, more property damage and more disaster than any one thing connected with the motor car or with driving it, and any reasonable amount of money spent on the brakes will earn the biggest kind of dividend in a short and, generally, unexpected time.

It must be remembered that either service or emergency brake should perform its functions thoroughly—one quite as well as the other, so that if one does happen to fail the other can be used. It is not enough to have one working and the other failing, because the owner never knows when something will happen to make one inoperative.

Test Easily Made.

It will require perhaps ten to fifteen minutes to go out on a side street and test the brakes. Roughly, each brake should prove its ability to stop the car correctly under the following figures:

Car speed.	Car should stop in
10 m.p.h.	10 ft.
15 m.p.h.	20 ft.
20 m.p.h.	38 ft.
25 m.p.h.	57 ft.
30 m.p.h.	85 ft.
35 m.p.h.	100 ft.
40 m.p.h.	150 ft.
50 m.p.h.	225 ft.

Remember, each brake should be capable of upholding these figures and not merely be somewhere near them. It will require two persons to make the test satisfactorily, one to drive and apply the brakes, the other to watch the speedometer and give the signals when to apply brakes and note where the car is brought to a complete stop.

A well-defined chalk mark on the pavement should be made for the starting place. The driver will approach this at a predetermined speed, say, twenty miles per hour, the usual driving speed. Just as the car reaches the mark the observer drops his hand as a signal to the driver, and the latter immediately declutches and applies the brake. The distance the car travels is, of course, easily measured.

Brake Linings.

Brakes cannot be adjusted properly unless the lining material is kept in good condition, and it is not in that state if allowed to become hard and glossy. Whenever you hear screeching brakes make up your mind those brakes need attention and unless they have it an accident may be the result.

Once in two months the rear wheels ought to be removed entirely, so the brake bands may be wasned off thoroughly with kerosene to remove accumulated oil and grit. It is best to jack up the rear axle and have both wheels off at once. Then, while the bands of one are being given their first application of kerosene, those on the other side are soaking and the kerosene is eating into and softening the grease. At the same time the pores of the lining material are being opened and the fibre of the material is swelling.

A few moments after the kerosene has pretty well disappeared, apply ordinary lubricating oil, see that it is thoroughly smeared all over and is permitted to remain until the material absorbs it. This process, as a matter of fact, should be performed at night, when the car is not to be used, for then the oil will have had a chance to get well into the fabric and thereby will keep it from absorbing water and grit. At the same time, it will keep the material expanded that much longer.

After the surplus oil, if any, has been wiped off, and the wheels replaced, the owner will be astonished at the way the brakes will take hold, and what slight pressure of the foot is needed to make them perform.

Oil Once a Week.

An application of oil once a week will keep the brakes in condition, and this is only a moment's work. It will not be necessary to remove the wheel or to have anybody help. It calls for putting plenty of ordinary lubricating oil on the service brake bands, starting the engine, running the car back and forth in the garage or on the street, and keeping the service brakes gently set, so the oil will be carried by the brake drum to all parts of the band.

Moving back and forward only a few feet is as good as going a block, and the slowest speed possible is necessary, for it must be remembered that the brakes will not yet hold, and an accident might result. In the morning the surplus oil may be wiped off and the car taken out with absolute knowledge that the brakes will work perfectly if they are kept in adjustment. Of course it is the service brake that needs the once a week treatment, for the emergency brake is inside the drum, gets oil frequently from the axle housing, and anyhow is protected to some extent.

Keep Little Ones Well In Winter

Winter is a dangerous season for the little ones. The days are so changeable—one day bright, the next cold and stormy, that the mother is afraid to take the children out for the fresh air and exercise they need so much. In consequence they are often cooped up in overheated, badly-ventilated rooms and are soon seized with colds or grippe. What is needed to keep the little ones well is Baby's Own Tablets. They will regulate the stomach and bowels and drive out colds, and by their use the baby will be able to get over the winter season in perfect safety. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.—Advt.

"The Home of Satisfactory Service"

MOTHER BUYS MOTOR CAR, FAMILY PAYS FOR "JUICE".

About five years ago lived a family of no-accounts. The father was a discouraged workman who seemed somehow to have lost his grip—the mother a drab, spiritless drudge. The eldest boy appeared to be going to the dogs—reckless and unsteady—the girls frivolous and without ambition, the two youngest boys inclined to truancy, bad company, cigarettes, movies, etc. There was no harmony or home happiness—no mutual bond.

An unmarried sister of the mother's, living in a distant western town—a plain, hardworking woman, lost her life through accident, leaving no will, and the mother found herself heiress to $750. In a genuine burst of filial awakening it was decreed that mother's day had come, and this money must be solely used to give her a taste of joys and comforts to which she had been a stranger down the long hard years. Mother must have a trip to the coast to see her other sister—she should have a fur coat and some real clothes. Her protestations were thrust aside, and there came a morning when the girls bustled her out of the house to a millinery opening, warning her not to dare put in an appearance back in her ancient hat—and that they would get dinner ready.

They were gathered about the big table when mother returned—still wearing the censored head-gear at a somewhat rakish tilt over her left eye.

"I—I spent all the money—I drew out the whole business," Mother announced tremulously, yet as if bound to have done with an awful confession. "Good for you, old sport!" cried the family gamely, knowing of course she must have gone the limit on a Hudson Seal, and fixings to correspond.

"Yes, I did—I—I bought a car, an' I guess you'll all say I'm a fool."

"Mother!"—when speech came—"A car!"—To these young people the word spelled a magic world of undreamed of bliss.

"Oh mother,—but why didn't you get something for yourself?"

"Well," replied the mother mildly, "I calculate that's who I bought it for. I guess you'd all thought me crazy if I'd ever gave voice to cherishin' such a wish, but I ain't really wanted nothin' else—least ways nothin' else money coulda bought me, for years without count. The man give me my first lesson on runnin' it. Say, it's great."

"It costs a sight to run them things," ventured dad, after the family had come to.

"Yes," agreed mother complacently, "gasoline is something scandalous, an' there ain't never no margin left over from the housekeepin' no matter how I contrive. Looks like it's up to you kids to cut out the movies and ginger-pop an' gum an' so on if we're to go ridin' out-any."

Milly, the second girl arose and reached down from a shelf a squat marmalade jar, which she passed around for contributions with the innovation. "We sure gotta raise some juice"—and the 'Juice-jar" immediately became an institution.

Well the long and short of this absolutely true story is that a revolution from that hour took place. Boys and girls, their hearts touched to the very quick by this glimpse of mother-love, aroused and banded together in a common interest and innocent delight.

The actual possession of a new car with all the dignity entailed seemed to lift each and all to a higher plane of self-respect and ambition. Parents and children came together in a common bond of joy and profit. They were thrown among associates of a better moral and social fibre, and their better instincts awakened and characters steadied. The boys and girls quickly lost interest in profitless pastimes and idle companions and became an industrious and united family.

Their next achievement was a suburban lot on which now stands a pretty home, fully paid for. The father and eldest son are in partnership in a repair business of their own—the one daughter yet unmarried a legal stenographer—the younger boys in high school. The mother looks like any of her own girls; she took that trip to the coast two years ago—and yes she wore a Hudson Seal coat.

NAME CAR AFTER DETROIT FOUNDER

ESTABLISHED IN 1899

How names are chosen for automobiles forms one of the interesting chapters of the rise and growth of this great industry. Usually the majority get their name from the founder and builder; a minority are named after some great figure in history, persons of remarkable moral quality as well as noted achievement.

The Cadillac car is in this latter class, named after Sieur de la Mothe Cadillac, who founded Detroit in 1701. The reason for the choice of this name are threefold: because the Cadillac Motor Car Company was the pioneer automobile company in Detroit—established in 1899; because the seal of the Cadillac family and the life of Cadillac embodies principles which were taken to guide the builders of this car; and thirdly, because the Cadillac Company, first known as the Detroit Automobile Company, decided to build an organization and a car to an ideal rather than to any one individual's ideas.

Cadillac's life in America was one of exploration and romantic adventure. As the first commandant of the French territory in Michigan, he built Fort Pontchartrain, and established a small trading village on the present site of Detroit. As the governor of the great French territory of the Mississippi he came to the notice of the French court. On his return to France in 1717 he was honored with the personal friendship of the French monarch, King Louis XIV. He was likewise appointed a chevalier of the military Order of St. Louis, and colonial councillor of the crown for his services in America.

The armorial bearings of the Cadillac family represents the highest ideals of truth and public service. The birds shown in black against a gold background denote wisdom, riches and cleverness of mind. The birds (merlettes) without legs designate that the bearers should look to the wings of virtue and merit to succeed. The "fess," or bands on the seal, indicate that the bearers "must always be in readiness to undergo the business of the public weal."

The Cadillac Motor Car Company placed the Cadillac seal on their cars because it represents the ideals back of the makers of this car.

GREEN SHIRTS HAD EDGE FROM FIRST TINKLE

Ice Was Heavy, and Game Was Not Sparkling — Falls Played Defensive Game Throughout, Depending on Solo Rushes.

KITCHENER, March 3.—Outplaying Niagara Falls at every stage, Kitchener O. H. A. Intermediates won the first game of the home-and-home series for the intermediate championship by the score of 6 to 2. The ice was rather slow and sparkling hockey was only occasionally seen, but at that the Green Shirts were much superior to the Falls crew.

Kitchener have a 4-goal margin on the Falls for Monday night's return game.

Kitchener opened the scoring after three minutes of play, when Schell batted in one on his pass which bounced off Shirk in front of the net. Niagara Falls was playing a defensive game, even at the start, and most of their rushes were solos.

Shirk counted Kitchener's second goal after fifteen minutes of play, as Mayo was trying to clear Gildner's drive. Erb made it three when he intercepted a pass to Herrington and sent in a hard drive that fooled Mayo. Niagara Falls got their first goal half a minute later, when Frazer eluded the defence and drove one in that was too much for Zuber.

Notched Fourth.

Only one goal was scored in the second period, and this went to the visitors half-way through the session, when Herrington's drive from well out went by Zuber, whose view was partly blocked by the defence.

Mayo's sterling work in the final period prevented the Green Shirts from rolling their count to an even larger score. No markers came until eighteen minutes of play, though the play had been in Niagara's territory practically all the time. Shirk finally notched one when he slammed the puck through Mayo's legs from a mixup after Karges' pass out from behind the net. With a minute to go Shirk poked one in from around the corner.

The line-up:

Kitchener.		Niagara Falls.
Zuber	Goal	Mayo
Karges	Defence	Frazer
Gildner	D.	Bawtenheimer
Shirk	Center	DeGray
Schell	Wing	Herrington

CLASSICS of the DIAMOND

Before coming to the American League Hildebrand played, then umpired in the Pacific Coast League.

In that league was the late Hap Hogan, who, in his day, was to the coast league fans what Nick Altrock is to the big league circuit.

Hogan was nothing if not original. On the coast they still talk of some of the stunts that he pulled at the expense of players, fans and umpires. Hildebrand's sory deals with an umpire.

In those days it was customary for the umpires to fine the players for various offenses. Often in assessing the fine it was a habit with most umpires, if the fine was $5, to raise his hand and say, "It will just cost you that much."

Working with Hildebrand in a certain game was an umpire who had only three fingers on his right hand. Hogan got into an argument with this umpire. The umpire finally decided he wanted to fine Hogan $5, but he merely raised the hand containing the three fingers and said, "It will cost you that much."

Hogan neglected to pay the fine, hoping the umpire would forget it. The "ump" didn't, and the president advised Hogan he should pay it immediately if he desired to continue playing.

Hogan immediately sent a check for $3. On its receipt the president suspended him. Hogan refused to pay the other $2. As manager of the club he refused to put his team on the field.

The president of the league was gotten on the telephone, the conditions of the fine explained, and the president ruled in favor of Hogan.

Technically he had only been fined $3.

WOODSTOCK-INGERSOLL SIX DEFEATS LISTOWEL

Himes Also Helps Combination Team To Win Fast Exhibition Game.

WOODSTOCK, March 3.—In one of the best exhibitions of hockey witnessed this season the Listowel Northern Leaguers were defeated here tonight by a Woodstock-Ingersoll combination, assisted by Norman Himes of Galt, by a score of 9 to 4.

Norman Himes was the bright particular star, and he gave the crowd one of the finest exhibitions of stickhandling and skating seen here in some time. Outside of Himes, Douglas, Crossett and Holland were best for Woodstock, while for the visitors, Dicky Root, Kelly and Cully Rocker were the stars. Johnson in goal was good.

The line-up:

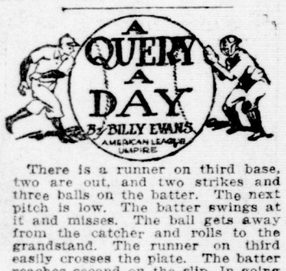
PT. COLBORNE PUT PARIS IN DISCARD

PARIS, March 3.—The Port Colborne juniors defeated Paris here tonight by the score of 4 to 3. This puts Paris out of the running for the rounds trophy. The visitors owe their game to the superb work of Finch, who was invincible. The Port team was much heavier, and used their weight. Taylor, Cross and L. Minor starred for the visitors, while Emmett outshone them all. The whole Paris team played a stellar game.

The pitchers in the two major leagues are saying a prayer for next season. The prayer is all about the lively ball. All the authorities in the world couldn't convince the big league pitchers that the ball used a greater part of last year wasn't the livelliest ball that any batter ever swatted. If the trouble was too good quality of material and too excellent workmanship, the pitchers say cut 'em down.



There is a runner on third base, two are out, and two strikes and three balls on the batter. The next pitch is low. The batter swings at it and misses. The ball gets away from the catcher and rolls to the grandstand. The runner on third easily crosses the plate. The batter reaches second on the slip. In going to second he fails to touch first base. The first baseman calls for the ball and touches first base. The umpire declares the runner on second out, which retires the side. Does the run that crossed the plate score?

THE runner who has crossed the plate does not score. The failure of the batsman to touch first base, and later being declared out for so doing, makes the run void. A run cannot score on any play in which the third out is a play on which the batsman fails to reach first. While the batsman actually ran to second, technically he never reached first since he failed to touch it.

BROWNIES MEET IRISH

Shamrocks Entertain Hamilton Girls at Armories Tonight.

Hamilton Brownies and London Shamrocks will provide the feature game of three, billed for the armories tonight. This game should turn out to be the real cage test of the year, because both teams appear to be on an even basis in every department. The Colleens were given an awful fright at Hamilton three weeks ago tonight by the Brownies, when they only gained the verdict by a small margin.

The Brownies and Shamrocks are considered about the best ladies' teams in Ontario, and the outcome of tonight's affair should give London basketball fans a fair idea of London's chances for another championship.

As preliminary games, Smallman & Ingram Imps meet L. C. I. girls, and L. C. I. intermediate boys play the L. C. I. juvenile O. B. A. team.

W. O. S. S. A. WINTER PROGRAM NEARS END

Co-Operation of Schools Has Been Splendid in Most Cases All Way Through.

HOCKEY FINALS IN SIGHT

Basketball District Winners Must Be Declared by the 18th of March.

The executive committee of the Western Ontario Secondary Schools' Association feels very gratified over the success which the association has had this year. Two very excellent oratorical contests have been held. The hockey program is nearing completion. The committee regrets that some schools have not made an effort to complete the elimination series as suggested. Listowel and Clinton have not been heard from, and so Sarnia and Woodstock have been ordered to "play off." Woodstock College plays at Sarnia on Saturday, March 4, and the return game will be played at the college on Tuesday, March 7. If Simcoe does not play Tillsonburg this week, the latter will be permitted to play the winner of the Woodstock College-Sarnia series for the championship of Western Ontario.

The basketball series is progressing in excellent shape. District winners must be decided by March 18 at the least. This will permit a series of elimination games before the tournament in April. It has been suggested that two final competitions be held—one for girls and one for boys. These contests will last one day instead of two as last year. The number of competing teams will be reduced to four by the elimination series. The girls' contest will be run under Spalding's rules for girls, with certain exceptions which have been made known to the various teams. A trophy is being arranged for this series.

The secretary, Prof. K. C. Hart, experiences great difficulty in keeping the records complete, owing to the delays caused by some schools who do not send in reports of games promptly. On the whole, however, the co-operation is excellent. Below is given the standing of the various teams in Western Ontario.

Judge Landis Is Touring Spring Camps

WHEN presiding on the bench Judge Landis was a mighty serious individual. It was all business with him.

The judge has now decided to devote all his time to baseball. That is also a serious game for the judge during his business hours.

However, Judge Landis is not only commissioner of baseball, but a dyed-in-the-wool fan as well.

If you have any doubts on that score just look the judge over as he enthused at a home run made by Babe Ruth at the White Sox Park in Chicago. It was the longest hit ever made at the park.

It is the irony of fate that Babe Ruth, who is a big favorite with the judge, should be the first player to feel the effects of the "big stick" the judge wields when someone breaks the rules of the game.

Landis is making a tour of the southern training camps to study the training systems that are used by the major league clubs.

"Some of the rookies have complained to me that they don't get a chance to prove their worth. That they are shunted back to the minors without a real trial.

"I am a rookie in the game myself, and I want to get wise to a lot of things that are now foreign to me."

ST. ANNS REFUSE TO PLAY S. OF I.

MONTREAL, March 3.—St. Anns, who last night played a draw game with Sons of Ireland of Quebec in the Allan Cup elimination series to decide the championship of this district, today refused to go to Quebec for the second game.

The Quebec Amateur Hockey Association will in all probability award the series to Sons of Ireland.

BISCUITS LOSES TITLE TO LEWIS

WICHITA, Kansas, March 3. — Ed. ("Strangler") Lewis regained his world's heavyweight wrestling title here tonight, winning the second and third falls from Stanislaus Zbyszko. Lewis got the second fall in 18 minutes, with a headlock, which so dazed Zbyszko that he was an easy victim in the third fall which came with a headlock in three minutes. Zbyszko took the first fall with a body scissors and arm lock in 41 minutes, 30 seconds.

The Lucknow boys were a little lost in the larger rink and the Greys had the better of the play all through the game. Four goals were scored in the first period, one in the second, and one in the last period. Flarity, the sub, is a new player on the Greys' line-up, and is a pleasing surprise. The whole team played good, hard hockey. Lucknow put up a hard fight, especially in the last two periods.

DUBS BEAT SCRUBS

Teams Played Almost to Breakfast Time To Get Decision.

A fast hockey game was staged at Westminster rink Thursday night in which two picked teams from the Alert Club participated. The game, which was started at 11 o'clock, was played far after midnight, as the teams were tie at full time, and overtime was necessary to get the Dubs a 4 to 3 verdict.

Wray Carfrae for the Dubs was easily the pick of the two teams. Roy Baker and Horace Land were the pick of the fast-going Scrubs, while Jack Reid in goal stopped many unconscious shots which should have been tallies for the Dubs.

Pork Anderson played a stellar defensive game for the winners, and his lone rushes brought much applause from the spectators, though he was cheated out of goals time and time again. Pork sure can skate.

Hap Land for the vanquished proved to be another bright spot of the evening, his stick-handling and skating were features.

Frank Baker opposed Stan Carter at the center position. As these two men are of equal calibre they kept each other from scoring throughout the game.

There were a few mishaps on each side, but none were serious.

The line-up:

ALERTS DEFEAT GLENCOE KIDS

GLENCOE, March 3.—London Alert Juniors defeated the local junior team in an exhibition game here tonight by the score of 8 to 7.

The game turned out to be just about the best played here this season. Totten, Kenny and Crittle showed best form for the Londoners. McMillan was the star for the locals.

REORGANIZE JUNIORS

Monday night's meeting of the district's junior soccer club at the armories for 1922 organization will probably see a number of new clubs represented.

Junior soccer is a game that should appeal to many of the churches of both St. Thomas and London now engaged in athletic programs, but which, up until now, have not touched football.

There is a possibility also that several militia units will enter junior teams this year.

Its inexpensiveness is a big factor in making junior soccer an ideal game, and makes its further introduction to London and district much easier.

Elect Officers.

Monday night's meeting will proceed with the election of officers, and every attempt will be made to hasten the work of organization for the season. Affiliation with the Ontario Junior Football Association will be taken up and the benefits fully explained. However, as the league last year was strong for organized football, there will be little opposition.

The result of the election is expected to bring forward some veteran footballers interested in the junior game, and their support and help should do a great deal to making growth both rapid and stable.

PAISLEY WINS CUP FOR SIXTH YEAR

PAISLEY, March 3.—For the sixth successive time the local senior team won the Bowman Trophy, emblematic of the championship of Bruce County, by defeating Chesley, 11 to 4.

FORMER BRITISH M.P. SUCCUMBS

LONDON, March 3.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Sir Donald MacMaster, former member of the British House of Commons, died at 7 o'clock tonight.

He had been confined to his bed for several months, growing gradually weaker until the end came.

PRISONERS RAVE AS PRISON BURNS

FORT MADISON, Iowa, March 3.—Prisoners of the Iowa State Penitentiary here beat upon the bars of their cells and yelled for several hours early today when fire caused damage estimated at 250,000 to several buildings within the prison walls.

Cries of "There goes your old prison," and "Let us out," were yelled to the guards who tried to quiet them.

SHOW FIRST WIN WASN'T ANY ERROR

SECOND CHAMPIONSHIP

Fans Wonder Now How Aura Lee Lead the Curlers in the Group Race.

TORONTO, March 3.—Granites won their second Senior O. H. A. championship in three years tonight, when they defeated Aura Lee, who headed the standing at the end of the regular season, by 10 to 3, making a total of 16 to 5 on the two-game series, and after witnessing the two games there is considerable wonderment as to why Aura Lee finished in first place ahead of the Curlers.

Granites tonight showed that the superiority they demonstrated on Tuesday was no flash in the pan, but was merely an indication of what they were capable of.

The winners had everything that goes to make up a real hockey team and very few, if any, of the faults that mar one. They had speed, stick-handling ability teamwork and condition, among other things, and only in the second of these did the losers compare with them. Both on the attack and in back-checking the Green and White displayed speed, and at times they made their opponents look as if they were standing still. Time after time did a Granite puck-carrier lose possession of the rubber near the Aura Lee goal, and then wheel about and regain it before the Red Shirts reachedthe half-way mark. The Curlers showed a fair amount of combination, but the majority of their goals were gained by individual rushes.

The line-up:

ST. ANDREWS MAKE IT TWO

First Methodist and St. Andrews meet Monday afternoon at Westminster rink to decide the championship of the Church League. St. Andrews won the right for the finals when they defeated Knox Presbyterian sextet Friday afternoon by the score of 2 to 1.

This game was fast and clean throughout. The losers had plenty of shots at their opponents' goal, but the St. Andrews goalie played a stellar game.

BOY SCOUTS STARTED IN LONDON BACK IN 1909

One of the Clubs Organized Then Is Still Going Strong Here.

It may be a well-known, but unthought of fact, that the Boy Scouts Association is the second oldest organization for boys in this city, the premier position being held by the Y. M. C. A.

The birth of the Boy Scouts Association in London, Canada, dates back to the year 1909, one year after the organization was formed in Great Britain.

Let it be known that one of the troops then formed is still going strong, and is still under the same scout master, a noticeable achievement that shows a remarkable "stick-to-it-iveness" under many adversities.

It will not be out of place to mention here that the idea of forming this organization first presented itself to Lieut. General Sir Robert Baden-Powell during the siege of Mafeking in 1890, he having taken notice that Lord Edward Cecil had organized and drilled the boys of that town into an efficient messenger service, and thus allowing more men to take their places in the trenches against the Boers.

On his return to England in 1902 Baden-Powell fostered his idea, which received popular support, and a general plan of organization was formed in 1908, and a Royal Charter of Incorporation was granted in 1913, the organization being recognized as a "non-military" public service body.

The Boy Scout movement has now spread throughout the whole civilized world, with a membership of more than a million lads of all nationalities, creeds and colors, commanding wherever it is known the support of parents and boys, and of all who take an interest in the welfare of boys.

The aim of this great movement is to develop character, to aid in furnishing equipment for a career, and to train in service for others, physical health and efficient citizenship by utilizing the natural activities and interests of the adolescent period of a boy's life.

The Boy Scout's promise and laws are such that no other organization in the world can show a better, and it has been proven in many cases that the boys live up to them.

Although a non-military organization in every shape and form, thousands of its members joined the colors during the late war, and many also too young to render their country this service proved their worth in many ways in all the Allied countries, and in the two largest concerned, if not in others, they have received the recognition of the government for such services.

It is a regrettable fact that so many boys are content to wander the streets and aimlessly waste their spare time when such an organization as the Boy Scouts is open for membership.

They do not realize the great times, healthy sports and fun they are missing; if they did, there would be such a rush for membership that the present meeting halls would be overcrowded.

It is a well-known fact that today many fathers are saying to themselves, "If I were only a boy again," for in their younger days there was no such an organization to belong to. Even they, with age and experience, are welcome to teach the young idea.

SOME GOOD SCORES.

At the usual weekly shoot of the W. J. R. C., held at the Y. M. C. A. ranges on Friday, Feb. 24, some very good scores were made. The best target for Unit 1224 was shot by A. Jeffery, making 25 out of a possible 25. The members in attendence were twelve.

On Saturday afternoon Unit 1235 held their weekly shoot between 2 and 3:30 o'clock. The members in attendance were 20. The best score was made by A. Collins, with 25 out of a possible 25.

The Ki-Yi boys then took their places in the ranges at 3:30 o'clock. There were ten members in attendance. The highest score was made by Harold Baddock, with a score of 18.

In the evening the ranges were occupied by the instructors and a few of the members of 1183. The highest score was made by C. Bridal. He made a perfect score of 25. The ranges were in charge of Chief Instructor E. E. Murtagh. The instructors present were H. Nicholas, Lou Nye and Chief Recorder Francis Floyd.

A challenge has been received by Unit 1235 of the Y. M. C. A. from Unit 1935 of Honolulu, Hawaii, to a match. As this is the first foreign challenge to be received in Canada, no doubt the team for Unit 1235 will make a good showing. The match will be fired on Saturday, March 11. The firing team will be picked on Saturday, March 4, from the boys making the highest scores.

Staff of Boys' Own Tiser To Have Banquet Monday Night

A fine spread is being given the entire staff of the London Boys' Own Tiser on Monday night at the Y. M. C. A.

It is very important that every member be on hand.

LOU BUCKLEY WELCOME

Tall, handsome, athletic frame, and a might good speaker, was the feeling of the boys at the "Y." Wednesday night towards Lou Buckley. Mr. Buckley is the National Y. M. C. A. boys' secretary, who has just returned from a trip out West.

He spoke to us on "The Boy, the Y. M. C. A., and the Community."

He stated that we no longer measure a city by the square miles, but by the number of square men in it. Character is recognized as the standard of success. He stated that the city without a Y. M. C. A., with its four-fold developing activities was suffering a distinct loss. There is a tremendous flow of interest in the boys of today, which the "Y.," with its trained, efficient leaderships, has the power to direct. He challenged us to clean play and clean thoughts and clean living, and I guess he had the right, because we heard that he was the best all-round football halfback of the maritime provinces.

Come again, Lou Buckley.

FIRESIDE GEOLOGY.

The Boy Scouts of Evanston, in America, have built at their headquarters a wonderful rock fireplace, enabling them, while sitting round the fire, to have a series of practical lessons in geology and physiography.

At the base of this fireplace are arranged in layers different kinds of rocks forming the earth's crust, and these are in their relative positions as they appear in the strata. At the top of the fireplace are many different kinds of ore, together with models of a lake bed and the bed of a river.

The fireplace is very ornamental and attractive, and the arrangement is strictly scientific. As the boys sit round the fire, science experts give them talks on geological subjects, illustrating their remarks by pointing to the various rocks appearing in the fireplace.

GREAT CARE NEEDED IN FOLLOWING THE TRACK

BY BADEN-POWELL.

There are some very good native trackers in the Sudan and Egypt, and I have seen some of their work there.

The colonel of the Egyptian Cavalry had had some things stolen out of his house, so a tracker was sent for from the enighboring Jaalin tribe.

He soon found out the footprints of the thief and followed them a long way on to the desert, and found the spot where he had buried the stolen goods. He then traced the tracks back to the barracks.

So the whole of the regiment was paraded without shoes for the tracker to examine, and after he had seen every man walk he said, "The thief is not there."

Finding the Thief.

Just then the colonel's native servant came up to him with a message, and the tracker, who was standing by, said to the colonel: "That is the man who buried the stolen goods." The servant, surprised at being found out, confessed that it was he who had stolen his master's property, thinking he would be the last man to be suspected. But the tracker was one too good for him.

Here is another example of tracking a thief. One Sunday morning lately the maid at a vicarage observed a strange man near the stable and ordered him off the premises. Later in the day she had again occasion to visit the stable and, on approaching, heard some keys drop and saw a man disappear in the darkness.

Scouts on the Trail.

The incident was reported to some Scouts who were camping near by. Two of them went to the stable with a cycle-lamp, examined the ground and discovered fresh footprints, which they followed from the stable to a cottage about 500 yards away.

They tried the cottage gate, but found it padlocked; at the same time a man in the garden stepped from behind a bush and inquired what they wanted. They asked if he had any eggs to sell, and on receiving a negative reply returned to the rectory and gave a description of him.

The maid identified him from their description as the man she had spoken to earlier in the day. The police were then informed, and they visited the cottage and brought the man to the vicarage, where the maid, without hesitation, was able to identify him.

Try Life of Adventure, But Are Glad When Chief Comes To Rescue.

PARIS, March 3.—Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer, Mark Twain's famous characters, may have had an easy life, but Donald Fraser and Teddy Hill who tried it don't think so. These young Parisians acquired a canoe at the dockyards yesterday afternoon, and, provisioned with blankets, a rifle and other stores, embarked on the river. They portaged over two dams and had visions of the Great Lakes ahead.

However, they struck a rock which upset their hopes and marooned them. When darkness fell they became alarmed, waved lanterns, and shouted for help. Finally their cries were heard and the fire chief rescued them.

PUBLIC SPEAKERS MEET

Interesting Lecture Marks Weekly Meet.

At this week's meeting of the Public Speaking Club held in the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday, Feb. 28, Mr. Lloyd Houlding, B.A., conducted the lecture. His subject, "The Well-Delivered Speech," was very well received.

The speaker stressed the necessity of accentuating important words or phrases by stopping for an instant before them. As an example, he asked the members of the club "The Homes of the People." After to read a passage from the book, each reading, Mr. Houlding criticized the tones and accents of the reader, thus helping the entire class.

Frank Clarke, gave a very interesting poem by Rudyard Kipling, depicting the love of the Indian soldiers for a British boy lieutenant, showing the class his ideas of where the gestures should be put to leave the best impression.

The Public Speaking Club has been in operation now for about two months, and is still going very strong. The reason no member of this class likes missing any of these lectures is that all members of this class are well chosen from the many C. S. E. T. groups and appreciate the fact that there are many fellows waiting for an opening in the club's membership. The boys are making good use of this opportunity in learning to master the world's greatest weapon, the art of public speaking.

BOYS HAVE PARTY

Bluebirds and Invincibles Spring Surprise On Tom Carter.

The Bluebirds and Invincibles had a surprise party on Tom Carter last Tuesday evening. Games were soon got under way and everyone was on the go. Piano selections by Wilf Boyce were much appreciated, and he was in constant demand. Bert Bell was a shining light on the fortune-telling games. A good lunch was served by Mrs. Carter, being enjoyed by all. The party broke up about midnight, everyone declaring it a success.

ONE SCOUTS OF AMERICA.

The Red Fox Tribe has a fine bunch of members and wishes to give them the benefit of the Lone Scout movement to its fullest extent. In order to do this a general meeting of all the Lone Scouts in the city is necessary. Therefore the chief extends to all tribe chieftains and sachems, also any other Lone Scout who wishes an invitation to meet at the Red Fox Tribe rooms at 159 St. James street on Friday, March 10, at 8 p. m.

The purpose of the meeting is to develop the Lone Scout spirit and to arrange for inter-tribe contests. Another important matter to be brought up will be the planning of a London Lone Scout rally. Other cities have been holding these rallies regularly every year and have met with great success. Major Murtagh will probably be present, as well as some other men interested in boys' work.

THE BOY SCOUT'S RABBIT.

When the Boy Scout skinned the rabbit,
He just sat down and went and skinned it;
Went and skinned it to a finish,
Then from its skin he made some mittens,
Made them with the outside inside,
Made them with the inside outside,
Made them with the fur side inside,
Made them with the skin side outside,
Made them with the warm side inside,
Made them with the cold side outside,
Had he placed the fur side outside,
Had he placed the skin side inside,
Had he placed the inside inside,
And the outside outside,
Then the warm side would have been outside,
And the cold side inside,
So to get the fur side, warm side inside,
Placed the skin side inside outside,
Now you know why the Boy Scout placed the outside, fur side, warm side, inside and the inside, skin side, cold side, outside.

WINGS MIGHT AS WELL BE USEFUL.

Sammy—I ain't goin' to run up four flights for no coat.

CHEERFUL OTLOOK.

KNOX WINGFOOTS WILL HAVE CAMP THIS SEASON

Arrangements Already Under Way For Big Time For the Boys.

The mention of camp brings a thrill to every boy. The time has come when the snow is gone, and the sun comes out from behind the clouds. This is the time every real C. S. E. T. group begins to plan for its summer months.

I know of no better place where group loyalty can be developed, and at the same time give the mentor an opportunity to get a personal contact with his boys.

One of the most successful and unique camps in the history of the C. S. E. T. was held at Bayfield by the Knox Wingfoots last August. The camp was situated on a high cliff, overlooking Lake Huron, two miles south of Bayfield.

The greatest question that confronts every mentor when at camp is how to keep the boys happy and active. The Wingfoot Club was fortunate in having its officers at camp with them, and through their efforts all the activities were well conducted.

The Mitchell and Seaforth Scouts, who were camping nearby, furnished all the materials for group competition, such as baseball, running, jumping and pole vaulting. In most cases, the London boys upheld the honor of the Forest City.

At night all the boys gathered on the lakeshore and had sing-songs around enormous camp fires, and occasionally had a regular Indian war dance. The eats were very good. The groceries were delivered from Bayfield every day; milk and eggs could be secured at the farm houses nearby.

The boys were sorry when the time came to break camp, and even at this early date are preparing for their second annual camp.

NEW ST. JAMES PRESENT PLAY. "VILLAGE DOCTOR"

Neil Miller Stars With Miss Goldie in Production.

The Pirates of New St. James's Presbyterian Church, assisted by some young ladies of the congregation, put on their play, "The Village Doctor," in the Sunday school room, in aid of the cradle roll department of the church, on Tuesday evening, before a very appreciative audience.

Neil Miller as the village blacksmith was exceptionally good; his professional bearing could not have been improved on. Phil Burton as the farmer and Bob Williamson as the village hick provided the humor. Miss Margaret Goldie as Jane was very romantic, and Miss Mottashed also was good. The rest of the cast acquitted themselves very well.

After the show all went downstairs and enjoyed a very tasty luunch.

LONE SCOUTS OF AMERICA.

The Red Fox baseball team is holding a work-out this Saturday afternoon. Hodgson is back on the line-up after a year's absence. The most probable team is as follows: A. Hodgson, p.; D. Thompson, c.; I. Westlake, 1st; F. Clark, 2nd; F. James, ss.; L. Sadlier, 3rd; F. O'Donnel, rf.; E. Getsinger, cf.; P. Lango, lf. L. Brodie, G. Wright and H. Sadlier are on the list as spares. Each player must sign a contract, so as to protect the Tribe in the event of one player belonging to two teams at the same time.

GOOD REFERENCES.

Near a little village in England there is a stream which has a nasty habit of overflowing its banks after every rainstorm, making it impassable at these times.

The good citizens of the village decided that something must be done to warn travelers of the danger, so they selected a large stone on the bank and in bold letters set forth the following:

NOTHING COULD BE SAFER.

One cold winter morning a customer entered the office of his stockbroker and began to vaguely question the broker as to what stocks he should buy. The broker was busy and the man's dallying got on his nerves. "I'll tell you what you can buy safely," he said, "thermometers. They're low now and very sure to rise."

Positive Proof.

"How did you contrive to convince your wife that you could not afford to own an automobile?"

"Pure luck on my part. She wanted to clean an old dress and bought a gallon of gasoline."

MR. HULL ADDRESSES KENSALL PARK CHURCH

Gives Boys Warning That They Reap as They Sow.

On Sunday, Feb. 19, a Father and Son service was held at Kensal Park Baptist Church, when the following program was carried out:

Scripture Readings.....Four Boys (N. Axford, R. Kilbourne, J. Thompson, S. Wilcox.)
Prayer ..... Wilmer Hull
Scripture Lesson....Robert Garside
Prayer ..... Mr. Smith
Solo ..... Sidney Wilcox
Address ..... Mr. H. Hull
Address ..... Mr. Finch
Selection ..... Men's Choir
Selection ..... Men's Choir
Address ..... Mr. N. Scoyne
Benediction ..... Edwin Atkins

The address of Mr. Hull was exceptionally good, and read as follows:

"My short address tonight will be ini the nature of an admonition to the sons and the fathers of this congregation, and these few remarks will be based on the words found in Proverbs, iii., 1, also chapter xiii., verse 1, and others just as true.

"'Hear, ye children, the instruction of a father, and attend to know understanding.' 'Hear, oh, my son, and receive my sayings.' 'My Son, attend to my words.' 'Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life.' 'My Son, forget not my law, but let thy heart keep my commandments.' 'Be not wise in thine own eyes, but remember that a wise son heareth his father's instruction, but a scorner heareth not rebuke.'

'These words are from the pen of the greatest monarch that ever ruled an earthly kingdom and are very fitting for us in these days, when a great many sons seem to think that they know so much more than those who have run the race for several years, and know something of the snares and pitfalls which beset the feet of the young and untried ones, and sometimes they are apt to criticize the actions of their fathers. 'Be not wise in your own conceits.' 'For whatsoever a boy sows, that shall he also reap,' 'For men cannot gather grapes of thorns, nor figs of thistles.' If you boys sow wild oats, you cannot expect to gather in the future years an experience of peace and live to be a ripe old age, in which you may glorify your God, and know the fellowship of Jesus Christ. 'If ye sow to the flesh, ye shall of the flesh reap corruption—but if ye sow to the spirit, ye shall of the spirit reap life everlasting.'

"Let each boy in this congregation tonight realize that the fathers of this neighborhood, especially of this church are putting forth their best efforts and grandest endeavors to make it as hard as possible for you boys to go astray, and are continually warning you of the rough places where lurks temptation and sin, because we fathers have been over the road and know somewhat of the pitfalls and have passed some of the spots of danger and earnestly pray that none of our boys may make a wreck of their lives. May God help each one of you."

ADDRESSES TUXIS BOYS ON TYPES OF IDEALISM

Wilmer Reed Contracts Ambitions Of Edison With Those Of Napoleon Bonaparte.

The Tuxis Boys' Club of Centennial Methodist Church held a successful banquet Thursday evening.

After a sing-song and the usual toasts, Wilmer Reed gave a short address on "Ideals," in which, drawing comparisons from historical figures, he emphasized the importance of every man having his ideal and living up to it.

Mr. Reed referred to Thomas Edison and Columbus, men who were dreamers, and yet in living up to their ideals, were able to realize their dreams to the benefit of all humanity.

Contrasted with these were King John of England and Napoleon Bonaparte, men who were possessed of the wrong ideals, and whose energy was spent solely in the furtherance of their own selfish aims.

Mr. Reed referred to three kinds of idealism. Egotistic idealism has no thought for anything but self; altruistic idealism broadens a man's vision, causes him to care for his brother man and respect his duty to society, but following the ideal of Christian principles, man regards his duty not only to his brother man, but also to God.

Rev. G. E. Thomson also gave a short address.

CHALMERS BANQUET

On Thursday, Feb. 24, the Young People's Society of Chalmers' Church held a banquet in honor of the minister, Rev. G. M. Young, and family, who are leaving the city.

Books were presented to Mrs. Young, teacher; Helen and Billy Young by Travis Chapman.

My wife is very wild—she insists on driving my Ford Sedan.

How can I keep her from it?—J.E.F.

Answer—She must be wild—sell the car or kill your wife.

BOYS ADMIT ROBBERY.

WOODSTOCK, March 3.—About two weeks ago the home of Bert Lewis was broken into and considerable jewelry stolen. For the last few days the police have been receiving the loot piece by piece from Barrie and other towns where it had been disposed of. Today two local boys, one of whom was arrested in Toronto the other night, appeared in court and pleaded guilty to the robbery. They were let off on making restitution.

LONE SCOUTS GETTING READY FOR MORE WORK

Meeting Called So the Boys Will Have Chance To Get Acquainted.

London, Ont., March 1.—A general meeting is hereby called of all the Lone Scouts in the city of London and the surrounding district. The date is Friday, March 10, 1922, at 8 p.m. The place is the Y. M. C. A., boys department. This is an important meeting, so a large turnout is expected. Remember you do not have to be a registered Lone Scout to attend this meeting. If you are interested in the Lone Scout movement come up. You are assured a real welcome. Mr. Murtagh, an active Lone Scout, and Mr. Lloyd Houlding of the London Y. M. C. A. will be present at the gathering.

The Young Men's Christian Association has given the Lone Scouts of London and district the use of a room in the London Y. M. C. A. building to conduct this Lone Scout rally meeting. We extend a cordial invitation to all Lone Scout tribes, including the Red Fox tribe, the Otter tribe, the Red Plume tribe, also all other tribes whom we have not mentioned. We also want all members of this organization who do not belong to tribes to be sure to be present. If you have anything you want to say regarding the Lone Scout movement come prepared to make a speech and help the organizers in making this meeting a success.

The object of this meeting is to get acquainted with our fellow members of the Lone Scouts of America. We want to form a union of all the tribes and have them all operate together instead of separately as has been the case in the past years since the founding of the organization in 1915. There will be a grand chief elected and also a grand sachem and a grand wampum bearer. Mr. Houlding has also promised us the use of the different sections of the "Y" in which we can hold our competing events. Another very important event of this meeting offered by the owners of the building was a lunch and a sing song entertainment.

If all this is not enough to give us lonely Scouts the spirit of co-operation the helpers will be very disappointed in the L. S. A.

THE OTTER TRIBE

Organized Nov. 8, 1921, and Thrives From That Date.

Organized Nov. 8, 1921. The home of Major Murtagh, 860 William street, was the scene of the first organization meeting. The tribe started out with a charter membership which since then has been very heavily augmented.

The Otter Tribe meets weekly, and their present financial goal, according to Frank Galloway, is a complete athletic outfit for their summer camp. The camp this year will be held on the property of Mr. Elmer Sage, fifth concession of London Township, where the boys will compete in team games, such as baseball, football, swimming and shooting.

In this year's work the chief, Russell Brewer, reports that all members are prepared to take their degree. The officers are: Chief, Russell Brewer; sachem, William Galloway; scribe, Francis Floyd; wampum bearer, Frank Galloway.

HORTICULTURISTS MEET

Tillsonburg Exhibition To Be Quite Ambitious Undertaking.

TILLSONBURG, March 3.—The local Horticulturla Society held an interesting meeting in the library hall Thursday evening preparatory to the annual membership drive, which starts on Monday and continues for ten days, with an objective of 250 members.

Mrs. Gibson, president, occupied the chair, and Rev. T. B. Howard reported on the Toronto convention, giving a resume of a paper delivered in Toronto on "Soils and Their Fertilizers." During his stay in Toronto Mr. Howard was much impressed by the U. F. O. program of tree-planting along the highways under the capable supervision of Mr. Moore, formerly of Niagara Park, who will be in this district in April, and will be invited to address the local society.

A large number of beautiful slides were shown of the methods used in beautifying the town of Kingsville, also the wonderful rose bowers at Jack Miner's home. The slides were loaned by Mr. Brown of Kingsville.

AS OUR EDITOR VIEWS IT.

The Tuxis Boys' Council of the city of Brantford recently passed an "anti-loafing bylaw," which provides for a census to be taken of all chaps out of school and work who are not attending church or Sunday school. This is a good piece of legislation on their part, and it is hoped that the contents of this bylaw are carried out to a successful conclusion.

A bylaw was also passed by this body to have a "commissioner of justice" incorporated in the list of their council officials. It is presumed one of his duties will be to see that the contents of the "anti-loafing bylaw" are carried out, and mete out justice where necessary. This is also a very good piece of legislation, but the chap who holds this title will have an unenviable position.

Let us consider the chap whom this bylaw will affect and who is doing the "loafing" and not attending church or Sunday school. Is it because he does not wish to belong to either of these organizations that he does not connect up with them? Or, is it because these organizations do not offer him sufficient inducement to join?

We prefer to give the chap the benefit of the doubt. The chap a bylaw of this nature will affect will, in most cases, be the chap who is now known as the "under-privileged" boy. He is the boy who is not fortunate enough to belong to a family whose means will allow him to attend high school and university and enjoy countless other privileges his more fortunate brothers are enjoying. He is the boy who, upon reaching a certain grade in school, has had to get out and work to help keep the family finances in such a condition that his family can live with a certain degree of comfort.

Do our churches and Sunday schools and boys' clubs offer this boy sufficient inducement for him to join? They may in some ways, but in the most important way we do not think they do; that is, taking him in and making him feel right at home.

Here in London we have probably the finest boys' work organization in Canada, maybe in the world, but we have not yet been able to reach every boy we possess. Why? One reason is that some of our clubs and organizations, not all of them, but a few, are conducted for the benefit of a few by a few, and no one else whatsoever is allowed within the "sacred" precincts of that club unless he can measure up to a certain standard, which in some cases includes "social" and "financial" standing. In other words, he has got to have a "pedigree" to obtain admittance. This is, in many cases, the reason for the necessity of a bylaw of this nature. The "under-privileged" boy, of course, could not measure up to the standard required, and consequently he is left out in the "cold"; the true character of the chap is not taken into consideration at all.

Very often the "under-privileged" chap is more fortunate than the other fellows, in that he has to get out and work diligently and secures his training by going through the "university of hard knocks," which though not always a desirable method of securing training, is a very good one, as there you learn by actually doing things.

So, fellows, if we ever run across a chap of this kind, and we have the opportunity of inviting him to join our club, our church, and our Sunday school, let us not let him slip by without our doing something for him. Invite him in, give him the "glad" hand and make him feel right at home among you. Then, the necessity for a bylaw of this kind will be eliminated entirely.

The annual election of the "London Boys' Community Council" is now in the offing, and election talk has already begun circulating around.

This council is elected each year by the boys who are taking the C. S. E. T. program and consists of the mayor and eight commissioners, the two commissioners polling the highest votes remain on the council for a term of two years, thus providing a certain degree of continuity in the work of the council. This body of boys works in co-operation with the London Boys' Work Board in connection with the operation and promotion of the C. S. E. T. program in London.

The present council was elected [illegible] the "National Athletic [illegible]mories, at which [illegible] of votes

COMING SOCIAL EVENT

Ahmeek Dance Coming Attraction.

The young people of the city are looking forward with great anticipation to the second annual dance the Ahmeeks are preparing for Friday evening, March 10.

A very propitious impression was created by them at their last dance, which was proclaimed by all to be the best of the season.

The members are exerting themselves to the utmost limits and putting all the energy they possess to again have the distinction of giving the young people the best night of the year. The club is to be congratulated on having again secured the Versatile Orchestra, which has so rapidly won its way into the hearts of those who appreciate good dance music. The latest pieces are to be played and the best punch obtainable will be served.

The members report that the tickets are selling like hot cakes and have confidence as to the imminent success of the dance.

ONLY A BOY.

Such a terrible kid! Always in the way,
Chuck full of nonsense and talk and play,
Singing and whistling all the day;
Footprints of mud upon the clean floor,
Books scattered all over—two dozen or more;
Always ready for something to eat,
Always forgetting to keep things neat.
Asking questions: When? How? or What for?
Teasing the dog or slamming the door,
Can anything in the world compare
With two round red cheeks and nut-brown hair,
An image of God in the making—a boy!

Only a boy! God, that men could see
In a common lad the man that shall be.
Build cities that's good, grand houses and all,
Build churches with spires shining and tall
But remember when these shall have passed away
One building alone must forever stay;
The character framed here, the shape of a soul,
With truth for foundation and love as a whole.
Build for eternity! In God's name help the lad
To stand for the right, to hate only the bad.
Some day you will see the world cannot compare
With a common lad, whether dark or fair,
An image of God in the making—a boy!

WEINERS CLUB BANQUET

Boys Entertain Parents At Y. M. C. A.

A father, mother and son banquet was held in the Y. M. C. A. building on Monday, Feb. 2, at 6:30 p.m. The banquet was put on by the "Weiners Club" of Talbot Street Baptist Church. The tables, which seated 37, were decorated with the club's colors, green and white.

Following the banquet, all the parents and the members of the club joined in a sing-song, which was followed by the opening ceremony, led by the grand praetor of all the C. S. E. T. groups in the city.

The toastmaster, Mr. Hudgell, announced that a toast would be proposed to the Sunday school by Ben Foulks, and responded to by Mr. Houlding. In responding, Mr. Houlding pointed out the many good features of the Sunday school, and not only the Sunday school, but the mentor of the "Weiners," Mr. Hudgell. Just at this time, Frank Muma, the treasurer of the club, presented Mrs. Hudgell with a beautiful reference Bible.

The toastmaster then announced that another toast would be proposed by C. Vanbuskirk to the parents. This was responded to by Mr. McGill. Following this, the fellows all stood up and sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Mr. Hudgell then outlined the club's activities at the Y. M. C. A.

After a little delay, the initiation of a new member was started, which, when completed, was heartily applauded by the parents. The club then gave their several yells, to the applause of the parents.

Mr. Liddle of the Y. M. C. A. started a lively game, in which most of the parents and fellows took part. But those who didn't were requested to sing a song, which they did, after some coaxing.

Following this, the parents and fellows were honored by a solo given by Miss Wright, who also acted as pianist of the evening. Mr. Day spoke for a few moments on the good time which they had, and hoped that it would be possible to have another such a time.

Mr. Hudgell then extended an invitation to the parents to a "Weiner Feed" in the spring at Wonderland Park. The parents and fellows broke up with the "Weiners Farewell Grip."

BOY SCOUTS DRILL

Eighth London Troop Meet at Dundas Centre.

Tuesday night, Feb. 28, at 7:30, the Scouts of the 8th London Troop were assembled at their meeting room at Dundas Center Church. After opening the meeting with prayer, drill was carried on under the leadership of the patrol leaders. Then the classes for signalling and tenderfoot work went to their rooms and carried on work until about 8:30. Then the name of a new boy was passed by court of honor and after he had been sworn in the boys divided into various classes for games. Boxing and long horse headed the list of sports, and although one Scout's nose was a little puffed up, the fun was enjoyed by all. The Scouts were dismissed at 9:30.

PRESENT SHOOTING CUP

Naval Cadets Show Enthusiasm Over Event.

At a meeting of the Naval Cadets Shooting Club committee on Tuesday it was decided that the cup presented by Mr. Jarmain would go to the boy making the highest average for the month. If won by a boy three times it would become his own property.

The medal presented by Mr. Ross will go to the boy making the highest score on one target during the month. We are in hopes of raising the money so as to be able to purchase a medal for the best shot each month.

Mr. Penticost presented the cup and medal to the boys on Tuesday night. He explained the conditions for shooting for them. The boys were very pleased to know people were taking an interest in them, and if Mr. Jarmain and Mr. Ross had been present it would have done them good to hear the cheers given for them. Mr. Jarmain and Mr. Ross, we thank you for your kindness, and hope it was as much pleasure for you to give as it was for us to receive these very nice gifts, and hope that on the first Tuesday of next month, when they are awarded, that you will honor us by being present and making the presentations.

CORRECTION.

REV. JEWETT IS MENTOR

First Methodist Group Making Success of Their Work.

The Swastika Club, quite a young organization, only having been in existence about six months, has already made quite a name for itself among the young fellows of the city. It has for its mentor one of the finest, most capable men it would be possible to find anywhere, in the person of Rev. E. W. Jewitt.

The club has made itself felt around the church more than once by putting on concerts, providing a program for its Epworth League, etc. The last triumph for the club was at the annual senior treat of the First Methodist Sunday School, when they put on a comedy written by the club members themselves, which made a big hit with the large audience present.

They have a basketball team which is fast developing into one of the best intermediate C. S. E. T. teams in the city, already having defeated some of the best teams in the city. Among those that they have defeated are: New St. James', Dundas Centre, Askin Street Meteors, Talbot Street Weiners, Colborne Street Comex, and others. If you know of a team that would like to play a game, get in touch with Nels Sumner, phone 2115, or Doug McTavish, phone 2274J, and they will arrange games.

SCOUTS GET CLUBROOM

Troop No. 8 Established New Club Rooms.

On the evening of Friday, February 24, the officers of the 8th London Troop, Boy Scouts, held their weekly meeting at the residence of the scoutmaster. This meeting was not very long, as the scouts later went to the new club room. This club room was obtained through the kindness of Mr. J. A Stone, father of one of the scouts.

The room will be used for patrol meetings, patrol leaders' meetings and a club room where any night in the week, Sunday excepted, the boys can gather and read interesting books, play games and work on the scout tests. Suggestions were given by the scouts for outfitting the room with various articles enjoyed by boys. After having made arrangements for fixing the room, the boys left for home.

PLAYERS WERE ALL ABLE TO SIT DOWN TO SUPPER

On Monday, February 27, the Woodstock College hockey team were the guests of the Com-Tech Club after the game. Supper was served in the Y. M. C. A., after which they held a sing song. "O Canada" was sung and the yells of the Woodstock College and Technical School given. Mr. Camelford, manager of the Woodstock hockey team, gave a short speech in which he heartily thanked the boys of the Tech for the excellent time they gave them and for their spirit and cleanliness in their athletics, Mr. Robertson of the Technical school, gave a very nice reply and wishes the Woodstock team their very best luck in the games, yet to be played, and hoped they would be successful in bringing the cup to the Woodstock College. The captains of both teams said a few words and then A. R. Kennedy of The Advertiser gave the boys a very short and emphatic speech on their future life and its connection with the present. The Woodstock College team departed on its way amid the cries of good wishes and congratulations of the Technical School Club.

COLBORNE COMEX WIN

Defeat Hawks in Fast Basketball Game.

In an exhibition game of basketball played at the "Y" gym Saturday, Feb. 25, the Colborne Street Methodist Comex group defeated the Hawks of Askin Street Methodist Church 11—5.

Both teams put lots of pep into the game, and the result was fast and interesting basketball. The first period was quite even, the score at half time being 6—4 for the Comex boys, but in the last period close checking kept the Hawks from scoring any more field baskets.

C. Brown was best for the winners, while C. Vollick played a fine game for the Hawks. The teams lined up as follows:

Comex.		Hawks.
W. Logan (3)	Forward	C. Bradshaw
K. Murray	Forward	R. Baker (2)
E. Johnstone	Center	C. Vollicks(3)
R. Allin (4)	Defence	M. Calcott
C. Brown (4)	Defence	W. Smith
F. Lindsay	Spare	E. Sperrin

BEAVERS BEAT.

On Feb. 25, 1922, the Beavers and Kohanas Club played a game of indoor baseball; the Beavers won by default as the Kohanas only had two members present.

There were some other boys there and the Kohanas took them.

A snappy game followed in which the Kohanas won by a score of 11 to 10. Batteries—Beavers, Mannas, Clarke, Voden; Kohanas, Samways.

The Snookum Club has grown bold as a result of the support they have received from the public. The members have grown bolder and have decided to reform the popular cage game of basketball.

TECHNICAL SCHOOL WINS FROM COLLEGIATE BOYS

The East End Boys Hand London Collegiate a Defeat.

At Westminster rink on Thursday, March 2, there was a swift and exciting exhibition hockey game between London Technical High School and London Collegiate Institute. The boys on the Technical team showed very excellent spirit and hockey talent. A very effective rush was carried out by Gord. Black within a minute of pucking off, for the Tech. team scoring a goal. This started things and the L. C. I. team had a nice piece of work cut out for them if they wished to take home the bacon.

Before the game ended the Collegiate boys woke up and started to play hockey, but alas it was too late. The game ended 4 to 1, in favor of Technical School.

The teams:

Technical	Position	Collegiate.
Dutton	Goal	Adair
Atkins	Defence	Crosswell
Black	"	Sessions
Slater	Center	Ross
Shaw-Wood	Wing	Johnston

Referee—T. Crittle, L. C. I.

WOODSTOCK BOYS WIN

Collegians Defeat Local Technical Lads, 4—2.

At Westminster rink on Monday, February 27, the Woodstock College hockey team defeated the team of London Technical High School, 4-2. The game was a clean, swift and exciting one. The college team showed some remarkable combination, and it was with this aid they defeated Tech. The men of the technical team also showed some excellent talent. Only a few minor penalties were given. This game was the return game for the game at Woodstock on Saturday Feb. 25, in which Woodstock College defeated the Technical 9-0. The Woodstock College will play a few more games with the other group champions, and by their showing on Tuesday, will stand a great chance of obtaining the championship for Western Ontario.

NAVAL CADETS SHOOT

Boys Show Good Shooting.

The boys of the B. N. B. held their weekly shoot at the armories on Wednesday evening. The shoot was finished with A. Horner leading the shoot with 45 out of a possible 50. There were several others who followed closely. The boys are looking for real sport this summer, and boys who do not belong to any club should join the B. N. B. and so insure a good year of sport. The uniform is supplied free by the government, and it doesn't cost a cent to join, so, fellows, be sure and come in and have a good time. Ages are 14 and up.

ALERTS DID NOT MEET.

The Wellington Street Methodist Alets Club were unable to hold their weekly meeting on Tuesday, owing to the annivesary supper and concert of the Sunday school.

They will hold their next meeting on Tuesday, March 7, and hope to have a large crowd out for a good time. Geo. Hodgins is to give a Bible talk, and Mr. Loveday, a practical speech, after which the club will indulge in strenuous sports.

Any boy who would like a night of good sport will be welcomed.

The Alert Club is growing fast and all the fellows are eager for the success of the paper and hope to make the club name familiar in the eyes of the boys of London.

METEORS VICTORIOUS IN THE RAILROAD CITY

With a team representing the St. Thomas Y. M. C. A., the Meteors of Askin Street Methodist Church played a series of four group games. The events took place last Saturday afternoon in the St. Thomas "Y" gym, and a number of supporters took the trip to St. Thomas with the London team.

The feature event, the basketball game, was lost to St. Thomas by the score of 36—24. The St. Thomas "Y" certainly has a fine team, and it would go a long way in an inter-city league.

In the mile relay, however, the London boys were more successful, and won by a good margin. The relay team was the same one that recently won the city championship among Tuxis groups in this city, and it made a fine showing against St. Thomas.

The shot-put was another victory for London, as also was the broad jump. This last event was closely contested by the St. Thomas lads, and proved very exciting to both competitors and spectators, the total distance jumped being 73.1 for London and 71.8 for St. Thomas.

This is the first attempt of the Meteors at barnstorming, and they were greatly pleased with the results. This group is the making of a fine athletic body, and during their four years in C. S. E. T. work have always been a hard bunch to reckon with. Their class room at Askin Street is decorated with the spoils of many victories. This season is their first in Tuxis work, and they are making a fine record in this advanced program, not only in the athletic field, but in all the other phases of the work. They are, however, always ready to contest in all sports, and have done well this season, as in the conclave held at the "Y" last fall, they took third prize. Recently they won the relay championship, and in the hockey they are waiting to play off the semi-finals.

These boys are certainly to be commended on their efforts in the sports line, and we hope the other three sides of the program are receiving as close attention. We also wish to congratulate them on opening up their new territory of group games between St. Thomas and London. The collegiates in both cities have done much to keep the amateur sporting interests between their cities alive. A series of inter-city Tuxis and Trail Ranger competitions would, we think, go a long way in increasing the good feeling between the sporting circles of both these neighboring cities.

EAGLES PLAY FAST

Have Exciting Game At Dorchester.

The Chalmers' Church hockey team paid a visit to Dorchester on Saturday last, playing an exciting and fast game with the team of that town. At full time the score was 2--2. Thirty minutes overtime was played, but the tie remained unbroken. The return game will be played at Westminster rink today at 1 o'clock.

EIGHT TROOP HIKE

Boys Scouts Pass Firelighting Test.

The Hawk and Crow patrols of the 8th London Troop, Boy Scouts, held a very successful hike on Saturday afternoon last.

The two scouts, Vernon Sullivan and Alan (Bud) Foote, who tried fire-lighting test, passed easily, lighting their fire with only one match.

This is a very tricky test, inasmuch as the fire must be lit in the open and built of such sticks as can be found in the vicinity.

Only two matches are allowed.

This troop is considered the best in the city.

Under the able leadership of George Metcalfe, it has progressed very rapidly within the last few years.

FIRST METHODIST BEAT KNOX IN HARD GAME

Presbyterians Lose Out After a Hard Battle—Score 1—0.

The fastest and most thrilling game of the season in the Church League was staged Monday night at Westminster Rink, between Knox and First Methodist.

The game was clean and snappy from start to finish, despite the darkness of the ice, which made the puck difficult to see, and resulted in considerable over-skating of it.

Very little combination work was attempted by either team, and the play moved rapidly from end to end. Reid in goal for Knox played a stellar game and stopped many difficult shots. The one goal scored had a wicked twist and was hard to handle. His teammates had difficulty in locating their opponents' nets, but threatened nevertheless to tie the score at many stages in the game.

First Methodist is composed of older and heavier players than Knox who have a bunch of likely looking youngsters. Graham at left wing show promise of developing into a fast player when he takes on a little more weight.

Dennis of First Methodist made a number of spectacular rushes, and was responsible for the lone tally. The game was exceptionally well handled. Few offsides escaping the vigiant eyes of the referee, who did not have occasion to impose any penalties.

BILL LIGHTFOOT GOOD

Start Things Moving in Collegiate Sports.

The boys of the L. C. I. have formed a basketball league. The inter-form system has been dropped and a much fairer system has been adopted. Bill Lightfoot, physical director, in the absence of Simms, is proving a fast worker, and all the boys are in favor of his changes. Twelve captains have been chosen, six from the middle and upper school and six from lower school.

The captains of the middle and upper school teams are: Phil Burton, Gus Reid, Gard Cummings, Buzz Daly, Ken McFarlane and George McCracken. Of the lower school: Logan, Aikenhead, Seers, Hunter, Smith, Hart.

C. S. E. T. TEAMS AGE LIMIT

New League Drafts a Different Age.

Unfairness In Junior Grouping Felt.

A meeting of the different C. S. E. T. groups was held in the Y. M. C. A. on Monday 27. Each group was notified to send a representative and the body met to draw up the rules and regulations concerning the basketball league. Eighteen representatives were present.

The ages for the past three years has been:

Intermediate—Those that have not reached 18th birthday, prior to January 1.

The unfairness in matching twelve year old boys against those just turning sixteen was felt, and the representatives decided to amend the junior age limit to those not reaching their 15th birthday up to Jan. 1, making the age limit 14 years. The intermediate and senior limit was not amended.

The junior boys will have the option of entering either the basketball or indoor baseball league if enough intermediate clubs, not participating in basketball, desire to play indoor baseball, steps will be taken in that direction.

The games of basketball and baseball will be played on the new "Y" floor. It will be available on Saturday afternoons, and baseball will be played from 1 to 2 and basketball after 2 o'clock. A body of officers was elected to consider all protests, etc., after the usual fee of $2 has been paid. President, Gordon Cummings; vice-president, Milt Walker; secretary-treasurer, Mr. Houlding; committee, Dr. Gordon, A. Horewood, Dave Allan (ex-officio), Phil Burton (ex-officio).

All entries have to be in by Monday at 6 o'clock. The president of the executive has called a meeting for 8 o'clock to draft up the schedule, and is very optimstic about the basketball.

WRECKING FIRM REPORTS MOST SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Lumber Company Forced To Purchase New Premises To Extend Business.

The London Wrecking Company, under the supervision of Harry Goldberg has just completed a most successful year

Commencing just a little over a year ago the business has grown by leaps and bounds until the company has been forced to seek larger quarters. The company has purchased from Hayman and Mills the property of 495-500 Bathurst street, where a full line of new as well as old lumber is always in stock.

Since the decline in the price of new lumber the demand for old lumber has somewhat fallen off, so with a view to accomodate customers the yard has been stocked with new lumber at cut rate prices.

"While we are always in the market for buildings that are to be dismantled we are buying extensively from lumber mills located all over Canada, and can supply complete bills of material for new buildings at cut rates," said Mr. Goldberg.

"People come from all over to see our powerful 4-cylinder outfit for ripping plank."

"We are now featuring new celar fence posts at 20c each, pine lath at $11 M., 5X shingles at $6 M., etc."

"At present we are preparing for the tremendous activity that is anticipated will be experienced in the building trade within a few weeks."

PETITION GOVERNMENT

G. W. V. A. Seeks Solution To Home Rentals Problem.

ST. CATHARINES, March 3. — A campaign for fair rentals was started last night by the St. Catharines branch of the Great War Veterans' Association, which appointed a committee to investigate conditions and formulate remedy action for present conditions.

The Ontario government will be immediately petitioned through the provincial command to seriously consider widening the scope of Ontario savings banks, and arrange to make loans to returned men to purchase homes, and also to take up existing mortgages contracted at a high rate of interest and heavy monthly payments.

STRIVE TO OBTAIN ELECTION BILLS

MONTREAL, March 3.—Returning officers who officiated in the twelve Montreal divisions during the last general elections are now up in arms over their failure to receive a settlement of their bills from the federal government.

The average account of each returning officer is approximately $2,000, and they are being disputed by the auditor-general on the ground that they are excessive, and not based upon the tariff outlined in the elections act.

The aggregate accounts from the city of Montreal alone will be some $25,000.

Succeed In London

IT has been remarked of the successful old boys' reunions which have been staged in London, that this city "seems to have been a good place to come from," judging by the number of her sons who have sought fields apart from their native city in which to court success.

There may be those who look at it in that way, but there are many of those native sons who would be tickled to be back in London today.

Other places may have their booms and take great spurts. Not London. Her growth is steady. Nothing stops it.

Other places have their depressions. Business stagnation is the lot of the large proportion of cities, and especially those known as boom towns, where there has been a mushroom growth.

In London business goes along merrily. It is not as brisk as when there is lots of surplus money floating about, but the sales at the recent auto show evidence the fact that Londoners are far from suffering.

"I doubt if there will be an auto show in the Dominion record the sales that the London show did," remarked one London optimist recently.

London is a good place to be in business. Trade is steady. London merchants are used to a steady trade and therefore their prices are steady and reasonable.

London is a good place to live in, for holler as one likes about high rents, high taxes, etc., investigation will show that by living in London, one is materially better off than in other Ontario cities.

VELVETEX RUG PROVES BOON TO HOUSEKEEPERS

Canada Rug Company Revives All Colors in Cleaning Old Carpets.

In addition to being a money-saver, the velvetex rug has proven itself a boon to many housekeepers who have been perplexed as to what to do with their old rugs and carpets.

Instead of sending your old rugs to the junk dealer, send them to the Canada Rug Company, 96-98 Carling street, and have them made into a beautiful new reversible seamless "velvetex" rug.

W. C. P. Baldwin, manager of the Canada Rug Company, can make a velvetex rug out of Brussels, wool, ingrain, union, tapestry, moquette, Wilton, velvet, etc., but velvetex rugs cannot be made from old rag carpet or from hand-woven carpets.

All the colors are revived in the process of cleaning the old carpet, and when made up will appear like a pepper and salt mixture of the colors of your old carpet.

"We are working for your goodwill, and will only be satisfied when you are, for we cannot afford to have a dissatisfied customer, and will not if within reason we can prevent it," he claims.

Velvetex rugs are made for churches, lodge rooms, hotels, department stores, public buildings, offices and homes from the largest to the smallest size.

When housecleaning time comes in the spring and you think that your carpet is too good to throw away and not good enough to use as it is again, send it to the Canada Rug Company and have it turned into a beautiful velvetex that wears forever.

FRINGE.

Fringe is seen on many of the smartest of new frocks. Possibly its lasting vogue can be accounted for in the fact that it is the most flattering of trimmings, especially when it is long.

SATISFIED CUSTOMERS BRING BIG BUSINESS

Eggett & Company Report Decided Expansion In Plumbing Trade.

The firm of Eggett & Co., under the management of J. Eggett, has grown during the past few years from one of the smallest plumbing firms in the city to one that is today doing the work in almost all the large buildings and the better class of homes in the city.

The reason for this is explained by Mr. Eggett as the result of satisfied customers in the past.

At this time of the year when new buildings are not being built the firm is busy and expects to continue to be so.

During the year 1921 Eggett & Co. did all the plumbing and heating in the new Collegiate Institute, Victoria School and the Children's War Memorial Hospital.

"Since the stocks of plumbing and heating material are very low throughout the country," said Mr. Eggett, "we would advise anyone thinking of building or making changes to secure the prices on their work as soon as possible.

If business picks up as fast as is anticipated the price of fixtures will undoubtedly advance on account of the shortage and also because the present price is as low as can be looked for for some time.

We are always ready to give advice on any changes contemplated by a householder, and will furnish specifications and price on any contract at any time.

No order is too large for us to accept and none too small but what will receive our utmost attention.

What would be nicer than to have that old bathroom that has been an eyesore for a long time replaced with up-to-date fixtures, or that old dirty hot air furnace taken out and a hot water system put in?

FORMS BODY TO HELP JOBLESS

KITCHENER, March 3.—The Kitchener Community Christmas Tree Committee has organized to relieve families in this city who are in need of clothing, by opening a clothing shower on South Queen street. The object of the shower is to collect clothes that can be sacrificed from all classes of citizens, and to hand them out to families that are at present feeling the pinch of unemployment.

Only persons having cards signed by well-known property holders will be given clothing.

The committee members are especially emphasizing the need of bed clothes in many of the poorer homes.

U. S. ARMY LIMIT TO BE 115,000 MEN

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Reduction in the size of the United States regular army to 115,000 enlisted men has been tentatively agreed upon by the sub-committee which is drafting the army appropriation bill, it became known today.

The present strength of the army is approximately 137,000 men.

The PLAYHOUSE and the MOVIE THEATRE

EDITED BY CABR.

Fiske O'Hara Will Appear At Grand In "The Happy Cavalier"

Majestic Players Present "Dawn of the Mountains"—Famous Contralto Singer, Dame Clara Butt, Comes To Allen's on Farewell Tour.

Fiske O'Hara, the musically-voiced and genial Irish comedian, always an especial favorite with London audiences, will be one of the main attractions of an unusually high-class list of theatrical offerings at the leading theatres of the city next week.

Mr. O'Hara will appear at the Grand Theatre in his latest musical success, "The Happy Cavalier," for three performances on Friday and Saturday. This new medium for Mr. O'Hara's rare Celtic humor and melodious tenor voice is a sprightly, graceful and romantic tale of love, embellished with many new and catchy song numbers.

For the first four days of the week at the Grand, with the usual matinee performances, "The Truant Husband," featuring Betty Blythe, Mahlon Hamilton and Francella Billington, will be the film headliner, and will be run twice daily along with a clever Larry Semon comedy and a vaudeville program of five big-time acts of the same calibre that has made many friends for the Grand in recent weeks.

At the Majestic Theatre the Popular Players will present the romantic comedy drama, "The Dawn of the Mountains," a play which embodies thrill, action, deep love interest, graphic suspense and denouements, and rich in picturesque settings and quaint character delineations. It is a play somewhat similar to "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," which so pleased the Majestic patrons that the management of this theatre has received a great many requests for the presentation of another play of this kind.

The third outstanding feature of the week will be the appearance of Dame Clara Butt, the famous contralto singer, in a farewell concert at the Allen Theatre, on Thursday, March 16.

She will be accompanied by Kennerley Rumford, baritone, and Melsa, the celebrated Polish violinist.

FISKE O'HARA COMING.

The genial Fiske O'Hara is coming to London, and will dispense good cheer and happiness on the stage of the Grand Theatre on Friday and Saturday next with Saturday matinee, in his latest success "The Happy Cavalier," a romantic story in four acts. The more one sees of Fiske O'Hara and his cheerful features the easier it is to imagine fate saying on the star's entry into life: "Thou shalt be an actor-singer and be much beloved." The usual casualties among feminine hearts, young and old, may be looked for at the Grand on the above-named dates.

As a love story "The Happy Cavalier" is said to be magnificent, graceful, sprightly, almost delicious in its dialog and action. It is a tale about which one is attempted to write ecstatically. Mr. O'Hara is said to play the role of Barry O'Brian in a very convincing manner, and never fails to rouse his audience to a rare pitch of enthusiasm with his splendid portrayal. His new songs never fail to captivate his hearers.

"THE TRUANT HUSBAND."

Coming to the Grand as the star of "The Truant Husband," the feature picture for four days of next week commencing Monday, is beautiful Betty Blythe, who scored such a distinct hit in the recent production of "The Queen of Sheba."

The production is sumptuously staged, and contains many human interest features. Billy Sayre (played by Mahlon Hamilton) is much in love with his wife (Francelia Billington), to whom he has been married for six years. But he meets a former sweetheart, a young, beautiful and fascinating widow (Betty Blythe).

They agree to spend a day at a country summer resort where they had often picnicked as sweethearts in the long ago. Billy tells his wife that he is going to take a cross-country flight with an aviator friend, in order to explain his absence from home for the day. As arranged, the aviator wires Mrs. Sayre that they are ready to start, signing the telegram with Billy's name. Halfway home the machine crashes, and when Billy and his former sweetheart return from their outing after a most unpleasant day they find the newspapers filled with reports of the accident, telling of the death of the aviator and an unknown person who has been crushed beyond recognition. In a panic Billy rushes home, to find that his wife, who has spent the day with a girl friend, has not received the incriminating message. Much relieved, he intercepts and destroys it, and renews his vow to never again be "The Truant Husband."

In addition to the feature, Larry Semon is seen in his new release, "The Bakery," which is said to brim with more than the usual comedy thrills.

The vaudeville program consists of the usual five big-time acts of a high and excellent quality. Donald McAdams and company head the bill in a Scottish comedy, singing and dancing revue, in which the airs and dances of the land of the heather and song are produced in most attractive surroundings. Jean and Shayne have a high-class musical novelty, "A Bower of Melody," in which they render a fine repertoire of piano, violin and vocal selections. This act, too, has special scenic investiture. The Triangle Trio mingle comedy and harmony in a most pleasing manner, while Georgia Rose, billed as "a teacher of joke-ology," presents something new in the way of a comedy act. Jolly Saunders, who completes the bill, is a juggler, acrobat and comedian of merit.

"DAWN" AT THE MAJESTIC.

Ever since the Popular Players presented "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" the patrons of the Majestic have been asking for another play of this kind. Managers Secrest and Penwarden announce that they have found such a play, and that for the entire week of March 6 the Popular Players will present "Dawn of the Mountains," a big, stirring comedy drama of mountain life in four acts, by DeWit Newing.

While "Dawn" is a new play to London, it is a tried and true success, and everywhere it has been given the applause of the public and the best of notices from the dramatic critics.

The stroy of "Dawn" is a sincere one. The author set out to write a worthy successor to "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," and if the opinion of the critics, the theatre-going public and the managers is to be trusted in the smallest degree, then he succeeded even beyond his desires.

"Dawn" tells the story of a little girl of the Virginia Mountains, a miss in whose heart burns the desire to get out of the little world that is bound by towering mountains, a girl who is held down by tradition and by the feudal laws of her forebears.

The story is original, thrilling, interesting and novel—pretty and appealing.

There is a love tale—two of them, in fact, that go deep into the human heart, and a comedy end that balances every serious moment that the play affords.

Miss Gustin will have unusual opportunities, for this little bare-footed girl is a part that any leading lady may well be proud and happy to play. Miss Macdonald will be seen as "Sally," Dawn's cousin, another role of great importance. Messrs. Penwarden, Lockhart, Malone and Regali will all have stronger parts than they have had in weeks. Mr. Secrest will be seen in one of his favorite comedy roles.

CLARA BUTT IN CONCERT.

Dame Clara Butt, the famous English contralto singer, will be heard at the Allen Theatre on Thursday, March 16, accompanied by Kennerly Rumford, the well-known baritone.

Clara Butt, who is one of the world's greatest lieder singers, recently received the title of "Dame Clara Butt" from King George V. This is an honor which is bestowed on very few singers.

Kennerly Rumford, who married Clara Butt in 1902, is one of England's greatest baritones, an artist of remarkable vocal endowments, of fine schooling and blessed with a personality that wins all audiences. His solo numbers invariably win hearty applause, and his numbers with Dame Butt are rare examples of duet singing.

With Dame Butt and Mr. Rumford comes Melsa, a Polish violinist of distinction, whose solos have been a pleasing feature of the programs which Dame Butt and Mr. Rumford have presented. Melsa has won splendid acclaim abroad, and North American audiences will find in him a worthy addition to the list of violin virtuosi who have appeared on this continent.

At the piano for Dame Butt, Mr. Rumford and Melsa will be Miss Grace Torrens, whose brilliant accompaniments have elicited enthusiasm throughout the tour. Miss Torrooms is a fine coadjutor for the solo artists.

Dame Butt, Mr. Rumford and their assisting artists will offer programs of a musical but popular character, and will present at various times all of the selections for which they have won world renown.

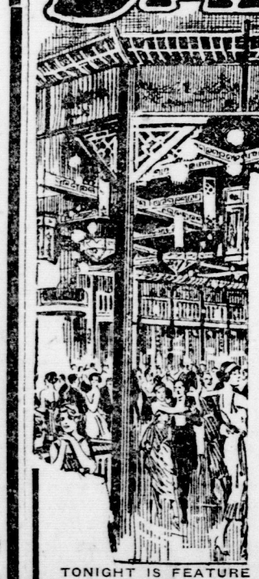
DANCING



TONIGHT IS FEATURE NIGHT.
Come on over. Whether you dance or not you will spend a happy evening.
HAPPINESS!
OPENING THE DOOR OF LIFE'S ENJOYMENT.
Thousands of dancers have in the Winter Gardens found the only logical way to enjoyment; it is a place where all are optimists, and where happiness reigns supreme.
And dancing is the refreshment of the limbs. It is the only pastime which joins advantage to amusement. It is the only recreation which is positively beneficial.
Renowned musicians provide dance music superb. You get dancing de luxe on a perfect floor, in an environment both clean and wholesome, amidst a galaxy of color restful and fairy-like.

GOOD MUSIC ATTRACTS MANY TO WINTER GARDENS

Lombardo Orchestra Provides Varied Program of Up-To-Date Selections.

The management of the Winter Gardens reports that the Lombardo augmented orchestra is proving a wonderful asset to business, attracting scores of lovers of the dance and good music.

Consistent with a policy that they have always endeavored to maintain, they say, Manager Morrison and his assistants have sought to provide dance music as different from the so-called "jazz" as it is humanly possible to obtain.

They promise that an evening spent at the Gardens will convince beyond a shadow of doubt the most discriminating that the public dance hall so conducted can be a power for good in the community. Everything, they say, is accomplished in the open, and nothing distasteful or dubious is tolerated for an instant.

Not only is dancing a pastime, but a healthful recreation, points out the management—a tonic, in fact, for mental as well as physical ailments. Every evening, it is said, the Winter Gardens cure more attacks of depression than would be possible through the combined efforts of all the doctors of London.

Like golf, dancing, the manager asserts, is the luxury of discriminating people, while at the same time, when entered into at the Winter Gardens, proves the least expensive of all amusements.

SEE HOPE WANE OF RECIPROCITY FOR TWO YEARS

FORDNEY ALSO BARRIER

Michigan Congressman Wields Influence To Erect Mountain-High Tariff.

BULLETIN.

OTTAWA, March 3.—(By Canadian Press.)—Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, who has been in Washington for some days, will probably return to Ottawa tomorrow.

Special To London Advertiser.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—There is little cause for surprise in the lack of enthusiasm if not overt opposition manifested by Republican leaders in Washington towards Hon. W. S. Fielding, Canada's minister of finance, in his endeavor to obtain their views, to say the least of it, on the question of reinstating the reciprocity pact of 1911.

There is no prejudice against making any trade agreement with Canada simply because she is Canada—but the difficulty lies, and it may prove insurmountable for at least two years, in determining the articles of manufacture or products of the soil which would be covered by any agreement giving Canada preferential tariff consideration at present.

In the first place terror of the agricultural bloc hangs heavy over the heads of the G. O. P. chieftains, and they fear to incur its wrath.

The western farmers are in distress, and while duties upon cattle and grain without doubt are of little benefit to them, it would be hard to persuade them that taking them off would improve matters.

That this farm bloc is a formidable power is readily evidenced by the achievements, the more notable of which have been:

"First—The Capper-Volstead co-operative marketing bill.

"Second—The future trading bill, regulating grain exchanges.

"Third—The revival of the War Finance Corporation as an aid to helping move farm products.

"Fourth—Increasing funds available for loans by the farm loan board by $50,000,000.

"Fifth—Passage of the bill giving agriculture a representative on the federal reserve board.

Senator Capper of Kansas and Senator McCumber of South Dakota head the agrarians, and they happen to know Canada better than most American politicians, and have always evinced a special interest in her fate. Their inclinations towards Canada have always been friendly, and it is nothing but political exigencies and the fear of a revolt by the agricultural bloc which impels their present attitude of hostility.

Joseph W. Fordney, millionaire lumberman, of Saginaw, Mich., chairman of the United States house ways and means committee, who yesterday told Mr. Fielding, "nothing can be done at present," is a rather different case.

Mr. Fordney takes credit for the bill bearing his name, which is now before the congress. That bill, as it came from the house, provided for a tariff mountain high, some duties running up to 1400 per cent. It has taken the Senate finance committee eight months to scale it down to some reasonable shape, and the bill as reported to the Senate will radically differ from the measure that passed the house.

Mr. Fordney personally is a most likable man, but if he had his way nothing would be imported into the United States that could possibly compete with anything produced in this country.

Fordney, who, by the way, has the ear of the White House at all times, believes in protection as one of the greatest of economic and moral principles, and, unlike most protectionists, does not want to see its application confined to his own country.

In his view it is good for every country, and he has no objection to other countries raising barriers against American goods as long as he is free to raise very substantial walls against importations to the United States.

These three politicians represent quite different political interests and schools of thought, but they voice quite accurately the sentiment now prevailing in political circles at Washington.

A very generous offer was made in 1911. It was refused by the Canadian people and it is no longer compatible for acceptance.

The time may come when a new deal can be arranged, but a start must be made on a completely fresh basis and a new agreement drafted, for obviously the Harding administration regards the old agreement as a dead letter.

Tariff Measure This Session.

How soon such an opportunity may come it is difficult to prophesy. Mr. Herbert Hoover has predicted that the United States will cease to be a grain exporting country in ten years, his statement being a favorite argument against the St. Lawrence deep waterways project.

When the farmers of a country cease to have an interest in export markets they are apt to become more and more protectionist and cling to the belief that tariffs will raise domestic prices for them.

On the other hand, the rural population is gaining at a far slower rate than the industrial south of the Canadian line and its political strength is growing proportionately less.

The agricultural bloc has gained notable victories and forced acceptance of its will on many policies, but it has earned for itself a great measure of unpopularity, and if the urban workers think the measures sponsored by it have reacted to their disadvantage there may develop a powerful alignment against the bloc and all its work.

The Republicans will probably pass some sort of permanent tariff measure this session which will contain many high schedules. It will fail to promote any increase in prosperity to agriculture or revive industrial business, both of which depend for betterment on the rehabilitation of Europe. It will become exceedingly unpopular, especially in the east, and if the Democratic party can secure vigorous leadership and develop a strong anti-protectionist campaign, it might do very well at the elections for the House of Representatives and Senate which are due this fall.

If the Republican party saw the control of one or possibly both houses wrested or slipping from them, they would begin to look with apprehension upon the prospects for the presidential election of 1924. Like President Taft and his friends about 1910 and 1911 they would soon see the necessity of a policy which would counter the attacks upon their recent tariff, and they might well evince a disposition, as Mr. Taft did, to find reciprocity a very welcome measure. It is true that it did not save Mr. Taft from defeat, but it is often forgotten that President Wilson in his first election won on a minority vote, and that the two wings of the Republicans who passed reciprocity had between them a huge popular majority over the Democrats.

Real Chance In Two Years.

The real chance then for a reciprocity treaty may come eighteen months or two years hence, but the matter largely hinges upon two factors, whether an economic revival in Europe will improve business in the United States and enable Mr. Fordney and his friends to attribute the improvement to their tariff, and what course American politicians will take.

So Canada must patiently bide her time, and it is some advantage to know exactly where the Dominion stands as the result of Mr. Fielding's mission.

WALTER SCANLAN IS REAL COMEDIAN

HAS EXCELLENT VOICE

Capable Supporting Cast in "Irish Eyes" Wins Approval of the Large Audience.

A genuine comedian with an excellent voice is Walter Ecanlan, who presents his new comedy "Irish Eyes" at the Grand Friday and Saturday of this week.

As might be suspected from the title, the spirit of the comedy is of the renowned "Blarney" type. In saying this the beautiful love theme which is the supreme note of the play, must not, however, be overlooked.

It may be said of Mr. Scanlan that he is possessed of a really fine voice, quite worthy of the manner in which it was heralded by his press agent.

Undoubtedly, the song in which Mr. Scanlan scored Friday night was "Mother O'Mine," which the artist sang by request to be greeted by four curtain calls at its conclusion. Along with "Mother O' Mine" might be classed, "Judy, You're the Jewel of Them All," a comic song that met with a splendid reception from the large audience.

From an apartment in Riverside, New York, the setting of the scene of the first act, the story turns back to County Galway, 20 years before.

Mr. Scanlan plays the role of Dan Riley, in the first act, a prosperous New Yorker, who had made his money after emigrating to America. He is the brother-in-law of John Brady, with whom he had come to the new land. Now Brady, played by Charles W. Dingle, wishes to marry his daughter against her will, she being enamored of a rising young lawyer, Shane O'Brien, played by Albert West, and Riley, by recalling his blighted romance with the daughter of an English earl in County Galway twenty years ago, converts John Brady to the recognition of the fact that love alone counts, and all ends happily, even Riley's sweetheart turning up unexpectedly.

For the purpose of the telling of Riley's tale the scene reverts to Ireland, and many picturesque lighting effects are achieved, in the picturing of an Irish moonlight night and a storm on the bay.

In support of Mr. Scanlan is a capable company. Bennett R. Finn, as the old Irish butler, displayed exceptional talent, and the execution of the parts, the Earl of Bray and Captain Danforth, by Pacie Ripple and Clay Cody were notworthy.

Of the women members of the cast, Olive Meehan, who plays the part of the sister to Dan Riley, was excellent. Mr. Scanlan will play today at a matinee, and conclude his stay in London with the perfarmance tonight.

HAY UNLIKELY TO LEAD PARTY ASTRAY

he led the crowd, and, consistently enough, it was the fashionable thing of the day—cycling.

Introduced Bicycle.

One day in the early eighties Wellington created a sensation by appearing in the streets with an imported English bicycle, the first of its kind in Listowel.

It was one of those high front-wheeled affairs, with solid rubber tires, resplendent in nickel plate, and young Wellington cut a dashing figure on this creation speeding down the main street with his coat tails flying behind. For years he was an enthusiastic member of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association, and took a prominent part in its contests. He is still interested.

One day last June during preparations for old boys' week he astounded the town by resurrecting the old wheel and peddling down the main street again, not in coattails this time, but in a neat Palm Beach suit, with the usual flowered buttonhole, of course.

Among Wellington's other hobbies was fishing, in which he was admired for his skill. He still fishes.

Abnormally Normal.

Thus, Wellington Hay was an abnormally normal young man, neither too good, nor too wicked, nor anything extreme. His fame has come rather suddenly, but the success behind it has been a gradual process dependent on hard work and keen business ability.

Wellington Hay started many years ago to become Liberal leader of Ontario. He did not know it, but he started when as a boy of seventeen he left Listowel high school and spent three years as a bank clerk in Petrolea, Guelph and Palmerston. He started then because he attacked his work with a concentration which he has never lost and which provided him with a financial experience valuable to him when he returned to Listowel in the early nineties to enter the mill of Hay brothers, owned by his father and uncle.

He has stayed with this organization ever since and he and his late brother Nelson have gradually developed from it the prosperous firm of grain dealers with elevators and agents in every part of western Ontario.

Wellington Hay has made a good deal of money, he has acquired intimate knowledge of industry and economics, he has learned to judge men accurately, and the only secret of it all is years of hard work.

The new Liberal leader has inherited politics. His father and three uncles came to Listowel in 1856, four years after the town was built. Among the uncles was D. D. Hay, member of the provincial house in Sir Oliver Mowat's regime and famous as a stump speaker. With his uncle as example and instructor, young Wellington was steeped in Liberalism and the ways of politicians, and that he should rise to his present rank is a not unnatural result of this training, after preliminary experience as Listowel's mayor in 1903 and 1904.

Has Common-Sense.

The 58 years of Francis Wellington Hay's career stamp him as a man whose chief characteristic is one which people notice least: common-sense. Wellington Hay has the faculty of doing the right thing. He is not a genius, and it is not likely that he will climb any stupendous political mountains, but one feels assured that, on the other hand, he will never lead his adherents into paths which are unsafe.

STRIKERS CUT POWER LINE

Streets Of Mexico City Left In Darkness By Action Of Vandals.

Mexico City, March 4.—The streets of the city were in darkness last night the striking employees of the Mexican Light and Power Company having, it is reported, cut the line furnishing the city with power. The residences and stores, however, were lighted except in isolated districts where switch boxes had been torn out.

The box forces patrolling the streets were reinforced by soldiers, but reports indicate that thieves and robbers reaped a profitable trade in the darkness.

The greatest concern to the inhabitants this morning was that the water supply would be shut off entirely, as strikers were reported to have forced the pumping stations to cease operations last night, and the only supply is being drawn from reservoirs and tanks within the city limits.

STREET CAR GOES OVER BRIDGE

Saskatoon, March 4.—No fatalities resulted from the accident here yesterday, when an Exhibition Line street car crashed over the traffic bridge on to the rocks of the river bank below. Ten persons are more or less seriously injured, five are badly cut, bruised and shocked and the remaining five who were on the car are suffering from minor cuts and shocks.

FINANCIAL AND [illegible]CIAL

EGG PRICES DROP ON CITY MARKET

Good Supply of Green Stuff and Poultry Is Provided.

There was a record attendance on the local market on Saturday.

Eggs was one of the features, nearly every farmer having a supply. In the early part of the morning they were selling at 30@40c a dozen retail, but near noon they had dropped to 30@32c a dozen wholesale and 35c retail. It is too early in the year for the storing of eggs, resulting in the farmers dumping all they have on the local market.

Chickens were plentiful and were selling at 30@35 per lb wholesale and 35@38 retil. The demand was good. Ald. F. R. Watkinson and Dr. Tamlin made an inspection of the produce offered, especially the poultry.

Green stuff was plentiful and sold rapidly. Rhubarb was sold at $1.25@1.50 per dozen. Green onions sold at 60c a dozen bunches, and lettuce at 75c a dozen bunches.

There was a plentiful supply of butter, which was rapidly bought up at 36@38c per lb wholesale, and 40@42c retail.

Potatoes were selling at $1.50@1.65 a bag.

Hay sold for $16@19 per ton.

New oats are higher in price, at $1.35@1.40 per cwt. The quality of the new oats offered in the past month has been poor. Old oats are very sacree, resulting in a shortage.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, March 4—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Selected issues, particularly those under pool control, were firm to strong at the opening of today's stock market, but elsewhere the customary week-end realizing movement was in evidence. Gains of 1 to 1½ were made by National Lead, International Nickel preferred, and Laclede Leads and Coppers were inclined to add to yesterday's advances. Reactionary features included Studebaker and United Fruit, which declined 1 point, and several of the junior rails and steels. The market became more unsettled within the first half hour on heavy selling of Studebaker.

WALL STREET REVIEW

New York, March 4.—More hopeful financial, commercial and industrial conditions reported from various sections of the country found expression in the executive and comprehensive dealings on the stock exchange this week.

IN MEMORIAM.

SPENCE—Lila Ada, who died one year ago, March 5, 1921,
In Woodland, softly sleeping, where the flowers gently wave,
The flowers we place upon you, they wither and decay,
But the love we bear thee, dear mother will never fade away,
—Husband and Children. b

TURNER—In loving memory of my dear son, Thomas H. Turner, who was drowned in the Thames River, one year ago, March 6, 1921, aged 5 years.
Just when we thought his life was sweeter
And his young life just begun,
Then Jesus though it better
To call him to his everlasting home.

Some may think that we've forgot him,
When at times they see us smile,
But they little know the sorrow
That our smile hides all the while. b
—Mother, Grandmother, Uncle Bert and Brother Joseph.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. William Carrothers and family wish to thank their many friends and relatives for their kindness and sympathy shown them in their recent sad bereavement, and also for the beautiful floral tributes and kind letters of sympathy. b

1. To vary the agreement made between the Corporation of the City of London and the London Street Railway Company, so as to enable the London Street Railway Company to obtain sufficient revenue to keep the railway in a reasonably safe condition and state of repair, and to meet the working expenditures and such return on the capital actually invested as shall be deemed reasonable. And for the said purpose to authorize the said company for the unexpired term of its franchise to charge and collect from every person on entering any of its cars for a continuous journey of any distance on its railway from any point therein to any other point on a main or branch line within the limits of the City of London as now existing or hereafter extended a sum not exceeding 5 cents, except for children under five years of age, accompanied by a parent or other person having them in charge, such children to travel free, and excepting children between the ages of five and twelve years, such children to be entitled to ride as aforesaid for a sum not exceeding 3 cents, and the said railway shall carry free of charge all police constables in uniform and all city firemen in uniform or wearing badges when going to or returning from a fire, and all health and water inspectors and city detectives wearing badges.

2. For the purpose aforesaid to vary any term of Bylaw No. 916 of the Corporation of the City of London, or any other bylaw relating to the matter.

The reason for requiring the legislation is that the revenues derived from the present rate of fare are not sufficient to provide for the increased cost of operation, and that the company is in need of immediate relief if the railway system is to be kept in a reasonably safe condition, and the citizens of the Corporation of the City of London supplied with a street railway service.

D. CARMICHAEL QUITS AS HYDRO COMMISSIONER

Charges Either "Dishonesty or Inefficiency" in Preparing Chippawa Estimates.

RAPS $14,000,000 DEMAND

Wellington Hay Asks Why Government Did Not Keep Closer Check on Work.

TORONTO, March 3.—The storm broke over the Chippawa hydro development in the Ontario Legislature this afternoon when the house resolved itself into committee to discuss the government's resolution for a vote of $3,500,000 to pay an overdraft in the bank in connection with the Chippawa undertaking and to carry on work there until the regular estimates are voted later in the session.

The storm did not last long, for neither group wanted to do anything that would hold up the work, and so the vote was carried. However, this was done with the promise that there would be ample provision made by the government to debate the question later in the session.

While it lasted, it proved the most lively debate the house has had since it opened, and began with the announcement by Hon. D. Carmichael, minister without portfolio, and the government's representative on the hydro commission, that he had placed his resignation from that commission in the hands of the premier.

Maintain Keen Debate.

There has been an understanding among the leaders of the different groups that the vote would go through without a debate, but the minister's resignation from the commission carried away all such understanding, and the committee of the house kept in keen discussion until 5:30.

When the resolution was presented, Mr. Carmichael stated he had assured the house a year ago that the estimate for $55,000,000 would complete the work for the five units development. He then traced the history of the undertaking and the various estimates submitted from time to time, and announced that the last estimate was that to complete the five unit development to the extent that it is planned to be completed by March or April of next year, will require nearly $69,000,000.

Not only is this $14,000,000 more than the estimate of a year ago, but that vote provided about $6,000,000 for contingencies above what the hydro engineers figured would be needed.

Mr. Carmichael therefore figured that the cost was really twenty million dollars more than the hydro engineers had estimated. It is expected that three million dollars will be salvaged when the construction plant is demolished.

Inefficiency Alleged.

The minister said he had come to the conclusion that there was either "dishonesty or inefficiency" in preparing the estimates submitted to the house a year ago, and therefore he felt it was his duty as the government's representative on the commission to resign from that body.

He had on different occasions expressed verbally to the premier his desire to retire under the circumstances, but he now had written out that resignation, and it was in the prime minister's hands.

He later explained that what he meant when he used the word "dishonesty", and he said it might be the wrong word, was lack of frankness to the government on the part of those who prepared the estimates. In other words, they were either inefficient or they presented to the government estimates purporting to be sufficient to complete the five units knowing that the work could not be done for that amount of money.

These were the only alternatives in his mind to explain how the estimates came to be $20,000,000 below actual costs.

Will Conduct Inquiry.

Premier Drury later announced that preliminaries were already started for an investigation into who or what was to blame for the variance of the estimates with the actual costs, and took the position that Mr. Carmichael had chosen the right word "dishonest" in connection with the estimates submitted a year ago, if it turned out that although they had been submitted to the government as sufficient to complete the work, the people who prepared them knew they would not be sufficient.

"A false report is a dishonest report," he said.

Hon. Mr. Ferguson and the premier got into a misunderstanding when the leader of the Conservatives asked the nature of the preliminary steps the government had taken to investigate the Chippawa project. The premier refused to give this information.

"That is our business. The government has a duty to perform to the province and I do not propose to lay our plans open to be spread broadcast and give persons interested an opportunity to forearm themselves."

"I don't want to know whether you are employing Pinkertons, or who you are employing, but an outline of the plan," Mr. Ferguson replied.

Announce Methods Later.

The premier then explained that the government was taking steps which would pave the way for a thorough investigation and when things were advanced far enough, everything would be submitted to the house.

Mr. Ferguson explained that was what he had wished to know. Mr. Ferguson said that when he had agreed with the premier that the vote should go through without discussion he had no idea that such a "serious" accusation would be made against the commission as Hon. Mr. Carmichael had made. In view of this fact, he suggested that the debate be adjourned until Monday to give the members an opportunity to consider the figures which had been submitted by Mr. Carmichael.

The premier declined to adjourn.

Premier Drury went over the various steps of the relations between the hydro commission and the government as prevously placed before the house. He said Col. Carmichael had informed the government in the late summer that he feared the $55,000,000 would not be sufficient to finish the work covered by the estimates and when the commission was summoned before the government on October 12, the government was informed that it would take $10,000,000 more.

Higher Costs Claimed.

The explanation given for this increase was higher costs of materials and labor, encountering a new rock formation, and that the steam shovels were not doing as much work as it had been estimated they would.

On the other hand, the reports from the government's works department showed that wages and materials had gone down and the efficient contractor can tell almost to the cubic foot what work a steam shovel can do. The government also took the position that the engineers should have known the rock formation. The government, therefore, was not satisfied with these reasons advanced by the commission.

Wellington Hay said it was very strange that the government had allowed this thing to go on for months. In a private undertaking of this size the directors would meet almost daily to provide money, and would be able to tell almost immediately when estimates were being exceeded.

The premier made it clear that the government was highly satisfied with the work of Mr. Carmichael on the commission and the fact that he had the minister's resignation did not mean that he necessarily would accept it.

Mr. Carmichael, in giving his figures on the cost of the Chippawa project, said that there had been spent up to the end of January a total of $61,083,215.

The house adjourned until Monday afternoon after voting the interim estimates for the Chippawa project.

Matthew Bullock Again Set Free; Quits Hamilton on Toronto Train

HAMILTON, March 3.—Matthew Bullock, of Norlina, North Carolina, wanted by the authorities of that state on a charge of inciting to riot, who was liberated by the Hamilton magistrate today for lack of oral evidence against him, left the city tonight on the 7:45 Toronto train.

Bullock was warned by his counsel that he was liable to rearrest at any time evidence charging him with an extraditable offence should be presented fram the state of North Carolina.

It is understood the negro has decided not to seek any more publicity, and to remain away from Hamilton. He will, however, stay in Canada.

GHANDI ARREST IMPENDS

London Telegraph Reports Agitation Grows Beyond Control of Officialdom.

LONDON, March 3.—Scattering reports to the newspapers indicate that the situation in India is causing increasing anxiety to the authorities, particularly in the Punjab and the United Provinces of Bengal.

There is said to be danger in Bengal that the members of the old revolutionary party will take control of the political movement out of the hands of the nationalist congress party, owing to the anger of the extremists at the postponement of civil disobedience.

The Daily Telegraph prints details showing that agitation is growing in all the above named districts, where the situation is getting more and more out of the control of the authorities. The report of the impending arrest of Mohandas K. Gandhi, non-cooperationist leader, is reiterated.

The Daily Mail says that the Prince of Wales has abandoned his intention to visit Amritzar, where, it is recalled, troops fired on agitators in April, 1919, killing 380 persons. The reason for the alteration in the prince's plans is not stated.

The Prince of Wales' popularity has not wavered throughout his stay in the capital of Punjab, says a Reuter dispatch from Lahore, India. Crowds everywhere have been cheerful and responsive. The prince hugely delighted the enormous crowds on the gymkhana ground when he requested permission to participate in a race and was speedily provided with an excellent mount with which he won the race.

Come · To · Church · Tomorrow

"YES, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator in a grove of trees or by a running brook, or in a man's own house, just as well as in a church. But I also know as a matter of cold fact the average man does not thus worship."

Here are a few benefits to be derived from church attendance:

"You will listen to and take part in reading some beautiful passages from the Bible. And if you are not familiar with the Bible, you have suffered loss.

"You will take part in singing some good hymns.

"You will meet and nod or speak to good neighbors. You will come away feeling a little more charitably inclined toward all the world, even toward those excessively foolish young men who regard church-going as a soft performance.

Make your start in church service tomorrow. A fair trial of church attendance will convince you it's well worth while.

FIUME REVOLT PERTURBS ITALY

President Zanella Reported To Have Fled With Wife To Buccaro.

REBELS BESIEGE PALACE

City Capitulates After Sharp Fighting With Many Casualties.

ROME, March 3.—Alarming news from Fiume has been received by the Giornale d'Italia, reporting that the Fascisti revolutionists are masters of the city and have formed a government.

The accounts received by the paper say that the Zanella police attempted a sortie from the palace, but were repulsed after a sharp fight. The palace was then besieged, a lieutenant of carabineers was killed and many on both sides were wounded.

The revolutionists tried to bombard the palace from an armored boat, but were prevented from doing so by an Italian torpedo boat.

The Italian destroyer Mirabello is expected to arrive shortly at the scene of disorder.

A Fiume dispatch to the Stefani Agency says that the committee of national defence has issued a proclamation reading:

"In consequence of the capitulation of the provisional government, which occurred Friday after severe fighting from dawn until early afternoon, the committee declares the provisional government and constituent assembly definitely dissolved.

"The committee has assumed full powers conferred on it by the official head of the government of Fiume, and has intrusted maintenance of order and security to the carabineers and royal troops and requested the Italian government to assure administration of the city by the appointment of a representative who alone would be in a position to guarantee order and tranquility."

Italian troops now are maintaining order in Fiume, and a national guard of armed citizens has been formed. Public services will be resumed tomorrow.

KIWANIANS STAGE SPORTS CARNIVAL

London and Ingersoll Clubs "Make Merry" To Provide Funds For Public Health Nurse.

HOCKEY GAME FEATURES

Curling, Broomball, Boxing on Ice, Among Numbers on Novelty Program.

INGERSOLL, March 3.—The Kiwanis spirit found expression in burlesque tonight, when Ingersoll and London members of the "K" clan made merry as a means of providing funds in aid of the public health nurse.

They presented a bill-of-fare that bristled with originality, and entertained a large audience at the Martin Arena in a fashion that was a "strain on one's ribs."

The Londoners came over with a jazz band. They had their war paint on, and went the limit in all the features. Jack Pollock sipped again at the fountain of youth, and as if moved electrically won the speed race on skates in dizzy time. London curlers also grabbed the honors in three games played during the afternoon.

The results were: London, Skip Hodgins, 10; Skip Hindmarsh, 11; Skip Dr. Wright, 4; Ingersoll, Skip R. W. Green, 6; Skip O. E. Robinson, 3; Skip R. B. Hutt, 9. Majority for London, 7.

Following the curling games a sumptuous supper was served in the Masonic banquet hall by the Local Council of Women. The attendance was large and the president of the local club, H. P. Stoneman, presided.

Community singing was a splendid feature, and during the meeting four new members, John E. Boles, H. J. White, Dell Johnston and Ellis Clark, were introduced by Rev. W. E. V. McMillen.

At the conclusion of the banquet a parade was held to the arena, in which the bands participated.

Hockey Game Feature.

The opening feature of the program was a hockey game, which brought out several players who established a reputation many years ago. Among them were Ken Casselman, Chandler and George Beck, the former diminutive defence player of the Ingersoll intermediates of about twelve or fifteen years ago. This was the line of battle: Ingersoll—Goal, H. Hall; defence, Stone and Beck; center, Rogers; right wing, Mason; left wing, Forman; sub., Bartlett. London—Goal, Baker; defence, Casselman and Chandler; center, Arthurs; right wing, Kelbourne; left wing, Purdom Love; subs, Gough P. Quick, Beck, Casselman and Chandler were features. Hall in goal did brilliant work for Ingersoll, the latter winning by 2 to 1. Rogers and Mason scored in the first period, and Chandler tallied for London in the final session. H. P. Stoneman handled the bell.

A game of broomball was the next feature, which created intense interest. The players did a lot of strenuous work and were so evenly matched that the contest was scoreless.

The clothespin-eating contest was a real novelty affair, and was won by Geo. Sutherland, while Wilson won the keg race after Geo. Beck had been bottled up.

In every way the occasion was the success which the object and the Kiwanian spirit merited.

TRADE OUTLOOK IS REPORTED BRIGHT

Creditmen's Trust Association Sees Encouraging Future Ahead For Canadian Businessmen.

OPTIMISM IS PREVALENT

Satisfaction Displayed at Return to Normal Conditions in Retail and Wholesale Houses Expected.

WINNIPEG, March 3.—(By Canadian Press.)—Canada's business outlook is very encouraging, according to reports received through wholesale and manufacturing circles, states the weekly trade report of the Canadian Creditmen's Trust Association.

Montreal, Toronto and Eastern Canada generally find manufacturers in several lines very optimistic, more particularly in ladies' wear, drygoods, millinery, etc., while boot and shoe manufacturers are also feeling the impetus, although not in the same degree, business in this line being in a rather unsettled condition.

The movement is reflected in wholesale reports and retail merchants in several of the larger cities display more satisfaction with business conditions.

Winnipeg wholesalers find the "slow but sure" movement toward more normal conditions continued. At present, however, the movement is too slow for many to enthuse, while in some instances little if any change has been noted. Retail trade is now between seasons and reports are contradictory.

Saskatchewan advices do not agree. While some wholesalers report improvement over the same period last year, others report trade very poor and practically the same as for the last few weeks. The weather throughout the West is now spring-like, and merchants from the retail trade up are anticipating a further improvement in conditions.

FINAL RETURNS ENHANCE ANTI-SOCIALIST VICTORY

Record Vote Is Polled in London, England, in the Municipal Elections.

LONDON, March 3.—(By Canadian Press Cable.)—Final returns in the London municipal elections have enhanced the victory of the anti-Socialists.

The Municipal Reformers, otherwise the Conservatives, have gained 14 seats; the Progressives, otherwise known as Liberals, have gained one seat and lost 14, and Labor, with 94 candidates in the field, gained six seats and lost six.

London voters seem at last to have awakened from indifference to municipal politics, voting having doubled in almost every constituency and even trebled in some constituencies.

PLAN TO BOOST CITY CAR FARES

St. Thomas Aldermen Propose To Seek Straight Five-Cent Rate.

WILL CUT DOWN DEFICIT

Increase, However, Is Not Enough To Wipe Out $52,000 Loss.

ST. THOMAS, March 3.—Streetcar fares in this city will be boosted to a straight five-cent fare if the city council Tuesday night next acts on recommendations which will be made by the street railway committee.

After discussing various ways and means of increasing the revenue to reduce the huge deficit which the railway experiences each year, the committee decided Friday night that the fares should be increased from 6 tickets for 25 cents to 5 tickets for the same money.

It was suggested that even a greater increase possibly to 6 or 7 cents should be made but it was felt too large an increase would defeat its own end, by discouraging people from riding. It was also suggested that 1 cent should be charged for transfers but no action was taken.

With a straight 5-cent fare it is estimated that the revenue of the lines will be increased by $2,000. This increase will not cancel the deficit by any means, but it is felt that with saving in other quarters such as the power bill, the possible use of buses on the Wilson street lines and in the reduction of the staff the $52,000 deficit of last year will be greatly reduced.

Salesmen from five different motor companies, namely, the Ruggles of London, the International Harvester of Chatham, the General Motors, the Beaver Truck of Hamilton, and the Ford Company, addressed the committee in an effort to sell buses. No action was taken, however, as the council as a whole will be asked to decide the issue Tuesday.

Statement Encourages.

The statement of the street railway for the month of February was the most encouraging in months, although it still showed a deficit on operations of $377. It was pointed out, however, that $100 of this amount was left over from last month as the power bill is estimated every second month.

Compared with the corresponding month of last year, business showed a big increase for February. During the past month approximately 70,000 people patronized the company, while in February, 1920, only 47,000 people rode the cars.

The cash receipts showed an increase of $900, and the ticket sales were increased by $300.

Ald. Burger opposed any greater increase in fares than to 5 cents straight, although it was shown by Ald. Middleton that a seven-cent fare would increase the income to $41,000, while a six-cent fare would net $35,268. His belief that people would be discouraged from riding was shared with other members of the committee.

It was suggested that no tickets should be sold, but Mayor C. E. Raven doubted the wisdom of such a move.

The care of the street railway cash will be put in the hands of the city treasurer, it is expected. Ald. Middleton was appointed to make all arrangements.

Old-fashioned ways are not businesslike. New business methods are the ones that win—and one of the best business-getters is the little Want Ad.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

UNABLE TO WALK FOR A YEAR

Paralysis Entirely Relieved by "Fruit-a-tives"

The Wonderful Fruit Medicine

Paralysis is a break-down of the Nervous System and affects the victim in various ways. Sometimes, nervousness makes itself known by hysteria, insomnia, constant headaches, or it may be so bad that one is partially or completely helpless in some part of the body, just as Mrs. Heacock was.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

"When I was twenty-eight years of age, my doctor advised me to have an operation, which I did and it proved very serious, leaving me weak and unable to walk for a year. Seeing your "Fruit-a-tives" advertised in the papers, I decided to try them. I continued to use them regularly, and today I am able to go about my home duties and care for my family."

MRS. J. W. HEACOCK.

Any form of Nervousness is often caused by, and is always aggravated by, Constipation, which poisons the blood, irritates the kidneys and inflames the nerves. "Fruit-a-tives" stimulates the action of liver and bowels, kidneys and skin—tones and sweetens the stomach—keeps the blood pure, and builds up the entire nervous system.

In a word, "Fruit-a-tives" has proved that it is the most scientific and effective remedy in the world for Nervousness or a disordered condition of the nervous system.

50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.—Advt.

URGE ERECTION OF TECHNICAL SCHOOL

St. Thomas Trades and Labor Council Passes Resolution Favoring Immediate Move.

WANT ZOO ABOLISHED

Delegates Believe Authorities Will Force City To Improve Quarters If Animals Are Kept.

ST. THOMAS, March 3.—Members of the trades and labor council of this city strongly favor a vocational and technical school for this city. At the last meeting of this organization the delegates unanimously supported a resolution favoring the erection of such a school in this city in the near future.

The meeting took exception to a statement which according to one of the members of the deputation from the board of education who addressed a mass meeting of labor men last week was made at the last meeting of the city council, that the electors who opposed the industrial site bylaw would also oppose the technical school proposition. This assertion was branded as absolutely unfair.

According to the resolution the workers believe the school is absolutely necessary, and that the rising generation is entitled to every educational advantage which can be afforded them.

Embodied in the resolution is a clause calling upon the board of education to employ only labor from the city on the erection of the school.

The trades council passed a second resolution favoring the abolition of the zoo. This resolution was deemed unnecessary, because certain members of the city council apparently favored keeping the animals despite the verdict rendered by the people on Jan. 1.

The delegates believe that if the zoo is kept the authorities will force the city to make considerable expenditure on improvements to the quarters occupied by the animals. The money could be spent to better advantage, it was thought.

THREE SERIOUSLY HURT AS TRAIN SOMERSAULTS

Saskatoon Exhibition Car Runs Off Bridge With 20 Passengers Aboard.

SASKATOON, Sask., March 3.—An exhibition line street car left the tracks at the foot of the long hill on the Natuna side of the Saskatchewan River at 1 o'clock today, ran off the bridge with 20 passengers, turned a complete somersault and landed on the bank 30 feet below.

Three of the passengers were seriuosly injured, the others escaping with bruises.

The car collapsed completely as it struck, but the momentum of the fall carried the heavy trucks over the heads of the passengers. Most of the passengers were able to clamber up the bank without assistance.

"My brakes would not hold," is the motorman's explanation. "She got away on me."

2 SHOT BECAUSE LOOT TOO SMALL

CHICAGO, March 3.—Incensed because their loot was smaller than they had expected, two colored men, who robbed a real estate office today, shot down a 19-year-old girl stenographer and a clerk in the office.

The clerk, Frank Kleiner, cannot live, according to physicians.

SCOTS GUARDS COMING.

CHATHAM, March 3.—Advice was received in the city today that the regimental band of His Majesty's Scots Guards, together with regimental pipers and dancers, will visit this city about the middle of May. The band is coming to the city under the auspices of the Great War Veterans of Canada, Dominion Command, who are sponsoring the trip.

URGE PREMIER TO REMAIN AS BRITISH HEAD

DIE-HARDS UNREPENTANT

Younger Still in Saddle as Leader of Conservative Party.

LONDON, March 3.—Premier Lloyd George's threat to resign has been suspended at the urgent solicitation of his Unionist colleagues in the cabinet, according to an authoritative statement tonight, but no justification for its withdrawal is said to exist as yet.

Official denial is made that any exact time limit has been fixed for receiving assurances of loyalty to the premier from the adherents of Sir George Younger, the Unionist leader, although it is added that obviously the tension cannot be extended indefinitely.

Meanwhile there is no indication of any move on the part of the Unionist party to dethrone Younger as its leader. The general opinion is that the only happening will be that the Unionist ministers in the cabinet—Arthur J. Balfour and Austen Chamberlain — may publicly reprove Younger for his tactics, as Lord Birkenhead has already done.

Speaking at Oxford today, Austen Chamberlain announced that the Unionist ministers had unanimously requested the premier to continue as head of the government.

"Die-Hards" Unrepentant.

Not the slightest repentance has yet been shown by the "die-hard" Conservatives, whose opposition to the leadership of the prime minister is primarily responsible for the present crisis. They are co-operating with the Ulsterites in the House of Commons in putting up a stiff fight against the Free State bill by presenting amendment after amendment.

The government has next Thursday scheduled for the reading of the measure, and owing to this determined opposition the government will on Monday propose suspension of the rule whereby debate terminates at 11 p.m. in order to get the committee stage finished before the night sitting ends.

In addition to this manifestation of restiveness in the Commons, it is said that the Unionist leaders are receiving from all over the country communications promising loyal adherence to the Unionist party, but declining to extend that adherence to the coalition. This is really approval of the position assumed by Sir George Younger, and the present indications are that the party will refuse to depose its leader.

Offered To Resign.

Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, secretary of state for war, in a speech at Colchester tonight, revealed that the premier lately offered to retire from the government and support it in carrying out its unfinished program, but all the Conservative members of the government assured him of their support and begged that he continue.

In the endless speculation about the crisis there is much insistence on the view that Mr. Lloyd George has arrived at a point in his political career where he must define whither his future path will lead—toward Liberalism or Conservatism. Since he became leader of the coalition under the abnormal circumstances of war, requiring a national, not party, policy, his political coloring has been in abeyance. If the coalition now disappears, it is argued, he must elect to attach himself to one party or the other.

According to some beliefs, his present action is a bid for leadership of the Unionist party, and that is this fails there are two alternatives before him—first, to form a new Centrist party, and, second, to try to go back to the leadership of the Liberal of Liberal-Labor party.

Building Material Men Lose Lien Law Fight.

TORONTO, March 3.—The attempt of the supply houses and building material men to secure legislation in Ontario along the lines of the Mechanics' and Wage-Earners' Lien Act of Ohio, has met with failure. The special committee of the Legislature appointed to report on the bill, submitted their finding to the house today. They express the opinion that the present Ontario act, with some amendments, should meet the situation.

WINS BANK PROMOTION.

MONTREAL, March 3.—Otto O. Sharp, assistant to the general manager of the Bank of Montreal, has been promoted to be assistant general manager of that institution.

"You Are Working Too Hard, John"

"WELL, I cannot help that. I am trying to figure out how the business is going to pull through and meet the liabilities with prices falling the way they have been lately."

"But, John, if anything happens to the business your health will be more necessary to you than ever, and you cannot afford to take chances of putting such a strain on your nerves. You are looking so worried and nervous, and you do not half sleep."

"What am I to do? You know I have got to keep plugging along and try to see things through."

"One thing you can do is to begin a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You know how well that brought me around when my nerves gave out and I was so miserable."

"My system became generally run down, and I suffered from dull, heavy headaches. I was nervous, could not sleep at night, and my muscles used to twitch. My appetite became poor. I had indigestion and weak spells. I consulted a doctor, who gave me a tonic, but it did no good. I used other remedies, too, before finally trying Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I found that this did me more good than anything I had ever taken."
