BRANTFORD DAILY COURIER

FORTY-FOURTH YEAR

BRANTFORD, CANADA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1913

ONE CENT

STOLEN WIFE CASE BEING TRIED TODAY

Robert Craig, Plaintiff Against Charles Wooden, Submits Evidence In High Court To-day—Wooden's Employes Testify Against Him.

The case of Robert Craig of this city vs. Chas. Wooden of Burford, for alienation of his wife's affections, proved a very interesting case at the Fall Assizes to-day. The plaintiff is asking for $5,000 damages. The defendant is a contractor who moved several houses from the Waterous property in order to allow the company to extend its plant.

Robert Craig, the plaintiff, was the first witness examined. He said he had been married twenty-five years, and had lived pleasantly with his wife until two years ago, when the defendant became acquainted with her, when a house they were living in on Jex street was being moved to make room for the Waterous shop. On the 20th of May this year, the plaintiff had seen the defendant and his wife talking on Market street near the market sheds, and he later saw them on Dalhousie street near the old Wilkes' property, where he says he surprised them, and both left. He "got her" and his wife was in bed. He called her "Bess" and she had words, and she left him. The witness again saw the defendant and his wife at the corner of Clarence and Dalhousie street, his wife apparently at the time he saw them about to enter a boarding house. A disturbance followed and the three were taken to the police station in the patrol.

Mr. James Harley cross-examined the witness, and the witness could not explain why he did not speak to them when he saw the defendant and his wife talking on Market street. The witness could not explain how it was that his wife was at home and in bed when he had only been 20 minutes away.

Mrs. Raines said she had seen defendant and his daughter go to plaintiff's house when plaintiff was absent. One time she saw plaintiff's wife stop defendant from entering when his daughter was home. Cross-examined, it was brought out that she had no clear view of Craig's home from her house as her house was in the rear and to the west.

Alma Crosby, 53 Greenwich street, remembered when the defendant last fall was moving the houses. He knew where Craig and his wife lived. He saw the defendant go to the plaintiff's house once. This was in the forenoon of a rainy day. When Craig went in the back door Wooden went out the front door.

Examined by Mr. Harley, the witness paid no attention to comings and goings of Wooden.

Lady Strathcona Succumbs After One Week's Illness

Contracted Influenza Which Developed Into Pneumonia—A Notably Active Career Ended.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Lady Strathcona, wife of the Canadian High Commissioner, died last night at 28 Grosvenor Square, in her 80th year. Her ladyship had been ill just a week. On Thursday evening last she contracted a severe influenza, which a day or two ago developed into pneumonia. The Times, referring to the death of Lady Strathcona, says: "More than sixty years of singularly happy married life are ended. She was a woman who was beloved and trusted by a wide circle of friends and was conspicuous for her charitable nature. There was only one child of the marriage now Hon. Mrs. Robt. Howard, who married Dr. Robert Howard of Queen Anne street, Cavendish Square, by special remainder Mrs. Robert Howard is heir presumptive to a barony."

Dublin Strike Is Most Distressing

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—A cable from London to the Tribune says: "Two thousand men were added yesterday, by a dramatic stroke, to the number of men and women, estimated at 30,000, who are already working owing to the labor war in Dublin, which has now lasted nearly three months. More than 100,000 men, women and children are living on what charity can obtain. The trade of the city is paralyzed. Many firms have had to appeal for financial assistance to save them from filing petitions in bankruptcy, and there are no signs of a settlement. At the dinner hour yesterday delegates from the Transport Workers went round the shipping sheds calling out on strike all the dock laborers engaged there. All the shipping lines trading to and from Dublin are affected. No explanation was given to the companies. Many vessels were in course of discharge, and are now laid up, and the port is closed except for passenger traffic."

OVERTURNED FREIGHTER, north of Sarnia. Name not yet known.

HUERTA IS UNMOVED BY U. S. ULTIMATUM

Mexican Situation is Regarded as a Critical One—Great Britain Will Doubtless Remain Passive—War May be Declared Any Minute.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—A London cable to The Tribune says: "The Times publishes a despatch from Washington which describes the message which Secretary Bryan says is to be issued soon of the utmost importance in setting forth Wilson's policy for the elimination of the Huerta Government. The despatch says: 'We have reason to believe that the attitude of the British Government in regard to the dispute between the United States and Mexico remains strictly in accordance with the spirit of Asquith's Guild Hall speech, an attitude of non-interference with a background of sympathy and good will toward the United States. 'Should Huerta allow his conduct to be influenced by the assumption that he is likely to enjoy active or passive support from Great Britain he is likely to be unswayed. Pending the fruition of attitudes of other European Governments toward Huerta, further developments are improbable.'"

The Mexican question is likely to prove momentous in the history of America's foreign policy. Already it has led to a remarkable extension or rather amplification of the Monroe doctrine and will probably perpetuate the same service for Van-der-Hoop in an organized and dynamic sense. The idea of President Wilson is that the situation in Mexico constitutes a problem not only of practical interest to the United States, but of moral interest to all American republics, and consequently he proposes to associate all republics with himself in counsel, and if necessary in action, for the solution of the Mexican problem. The idea is striking and is likely, if successful, to have tremendous consequences."

Huerta Won't Yield. MEXICO CITY, Nov. 13.—The hour of midnight passed, with no indication from Provisional President Huerta that he intended to accede to the demands made of him by the United States Government in regard to the newly elected congress which he was requested to prevent from convening. When John Lind early yesterday sent a notification to General Huerta that the United States Government would have no further parley with the Mexican Government unless the provisional president replied to the American demands by six o'clock last evening, he also let General Huerta understand that the Mexican Government must inform the members of the diplomatic corps of its action in respect to the congress by midnight. John Lind, the personal representative of President Wilson, who left the federal capital last evening has arrived in Vera Cruz while Nelson O'Shaughnessy, charge d'affaires of the United States, de la Huerta awaits instructions from Washington. It is generally anticipated here that Washington will instruct Mr. O'Shaughnessy to close the embassy or to turn it over to the legation of some friendly power. All speculation as to the future, however, is tempered by some doubt as to the state of affairs at the national palace. Representatives were made late yesterday to both John Lind and Nelson O'Shaughnessy that in reality Provisional President Huerta had not been apprised of the ultimatum from Washington and this appeared to be substantiated by the statements made at the government offices late last night. It was declared that Adolfo De La Loma, Mexican Minister of Finance himself had engaged in the search for Provisional President Huerta and up to a late hour last night had not succeeded in finding him either at the national palace, at his family home, or at any of the places where he was accustomed to go. Eearly in the evening many persons had regarded this absence as a ruse on the part of General Huerta to avoid the receipt of the notification from the United States, but there seems to be reason to believe that this country and the United States arrived at the point of rupture in their relations without the knowledge of the provisional president of Mexico. Close friends and political associates of General Huerta

Now The War Really Starts

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—A cable to the Tribune from London says: "The enrollment of the 'suffragette army' started at Bow, in the east end of London, last week, when about three hundred men and women made a declaration of war. 'The people's army. I promise to serve the common cause of justice and my comrades under our duly-elected officers. I will be a friend to all and a brother to every member of the peace army. I am a sincere believer in universal adult suffrage.' Not a single army officer of the several expeditions was present, but Zelle Emerson, the suffragette, announced that the new army would have as instructor a soldier who had served his country in Egypt."

JOE. STRATFORD HAS PASSED AWAY

Prominent Resident of Brantford by Years Called By Death

Was Manufacturer and Hospital Manager Here

It is with sorrow that the Courier records the death of Mr. Joseph Stratford, who fell asleep early this morning. He was 67 years of age, and yesterday attended a meeting of the Farmers Binder Twine directors, when he was apparently in his usual health and spirits. In fact, as late as 11 o'clock last evening he was chatting over the phone from his residence. At about 2 o'clock this morning Mrs. Stratford was awakened by his heavy breathing, and before medical aid could be summoned, nearly his convulsions had become the reality. Without any apparent pain he had been called home. Mr. Stratford was the descendant of a fine old English family. His father, the late William H. Stratford, was born at Sheerness, County of Kent, England, the son of John Stratford, M.D., a member of the Royal College of Surgeons, and surgeon in Lord Grantley's regiment. William came to New York in 1831, where he resided for three years, then went to Oswego, and afterwards came to Brantford in 1844, when he established a wholesale drug and grocery business in the premises now occupied by the Borden Club. Joseph Stratford, the second son, when in his teens, went on the road, and achieved very great success as a salesman. Those were the days when travelling, especially in the winter months, imposed very great physical hardship. Vehicles had to be used, and many and interesting were the stories that he had to tell of his adventures and experiences during that period. His associates in like business of that time included Mr. Robert Henry and other well-known early travellers.

In 1856 the late Mr. John H. Stratford, the elder brother, became a partner with his father. In 1869 Mr. Joseph Stratford came into the business, and later the third brother, the late Charles Stratford, John withdrew in 1871; and in 1875 the father also retired, the deceased carrying on the entire business until he also withdrew, some 20 years ago, to take up other pursuits. He was a very effective platform speaker, and was enthusiastic for many years in the interests of the Patrons of Industry, and addressed many meetings throughout Ontario in connection with that movement.

He took great interest for many years in the raising of high-class stock, especially sheep and poultry, at his country residence, Glenhurst, and at his model farm, Oakwood. He was the promoter and prime mover in the establishment of the Farmers' Binder Twine Company, Limited, which enjoyed many years of remarkable success. In connection with the flotation of that concern he spoke at scores of meetings in various counties. Under his management the company paid one year 60 per cent, the following year 90 per cent., and another year 100 per cent. in dividends. Until a year or so before the

IMPRESSIVE SCENE AT THE COURT HOUSE

When Judge Kelly Sentenced Taylor to be Hanged--Prisoner Was Given Time to Prepare to Meet His Maker ---Deplorable Crime, Says Judge

Justice, sure, swift and complete, was carried out in full accord with British tradition at the High Court of Assize in this city yesterday.

James Taylor, murderer, and mutilator of Charles Dawson, a boy, is to be hanged by the neck until he is dead in the Brantford jail yard, on Friday, January 23, 1914.

The jury, as announced in the Courier 6 o'clock edition last night, required only 20 minutes to reach a unanimous verdict of Taylor's guilt, in spite of the plea of intoxication put forward by the prisoner's counsel. From the time the jurors left the court-room until the time they returned and through the foreman, James Burns, announced the death verdict, there was no question as to the fate of the maniacal mutilator of the body of Charles Dawson. When all the evidence was presented yesterday there was not a sympathetic eye in the court-room for the prisoner, least of all that of Justice Kelly, whose address to the prisoner was of such a stringent nature that it marks a record in the annals of crime in Brant county.

"I still hope to get life imprisonment," remarked Taylor, when he was taken back to the jail and there placed in the death chamber with two special guards to watch him from now until the day of execution, January 23. Taylor was told to follow the Judge's advice and make peace with his Maker. Luke Ludlow of Onondaga township and John Cornell of St. George are the men who will alternate day and night in watching the prisoner. They were appointed by Sheriff Ross, and the turnkey and jailer have now no concern as to Taylor's safety.

Had there been any doubt as to the fate which awaited Taylor, it was dispelled when Crown Prosecutor Drew addressed the jury. The address was trenchant, it was positive. No room was left for the jury to entertain the plea of intoxication weakly filed by a murderer. Above all, the prisoner's story in his own defence showed the cunning which proved to the jury conclusively that Taylor was

There was a hush, a deadly hush. The Judge, trembling, and visibly affected, gave the prisoner a scathing denunciation seldom heard in the court room. The Judge, incisive representing the majesty of British law, stern yet kindly in his recognition of the Creator of all things, extended the mercy to Taylor, which he said Taylor had not extended to the poor boy whom he did to death. In the meantime, Taylor gazed into space. Not a muscle moved. There was no sign of repentance, of feeling, or consciousness of the awful crime committed. Men in the court room felt their hearts beat for the Judge, in sympathy with his mission, in full accord with the traditions of British justice. A life for a life! The act had been completed all in a day, sure, swift and complete.

Taylor's keepers to-day say his demeanor is the same as usual. He eats heartily, sleeps soundly and acts nonchalantly. He has not asked as yet for a spiritual adviser. Mr. Hewitt—Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon your verdict? How say you, is the prisoner at the bar guilty or not guilty? Foreman Burns—We find the prisoner, James Taylor, guilty of murder in the first degree. The Judge, James Taylor stand up. Have you anything to say, why (Continued on Page 6)

AROUND THE CITY

Hall This Morning

The City of Brantford is threatened with suit by the Toronto General Hospital, according to a letter received this morning from the secretary-treasurer of that institution. Nicola Soldah, a foreigner, who left Brantford to go to Toronto, was only there a short time when he fell ill with typhoid fever. The foreigner had only resided in Brantford a short time. Toronto now bills Brantford with the cost of caring for Soldah, and this city has refused to pay. It is said that the act stipulates a period of time for residence whereby a municipality can be forced to recognize an indigent's upkeep.

A Query. A query was made at the city hall this morning, if there was a by-law relating to billboards in the city. If so, it was asked if there was any clause in it against travelling billboards such as displayed on local street cars these days. In other cities the practice has been tabooed by the municipal authorities.

Court of Revision. The Court of Revision meets again this afternoon to give its decision regarding the assessment of the Farmers' Binder Twine Company. Mr. Geo. Ludlow made an offer in writing of $15,000 to the company, but at a meeting of the directors held

There will be no row over the purchase of civic directories in the city hall this year, said the city clerk this morning. Last year there was one or two in every office, and when the bill came the finance committee roared. The directories are being distributed now through the municipal office. To Close Street. The T. H. & B. Company has made an application for the closing of Newport street. In a letter to the city clerk, the company says the street is of no use to the public, and as it owns property on both sides of it, it is desirable in the interests of public safety to close the same. A plan is filed showing their request to be closed the street from Erie Avenue to the Waterous Engine Works. Minor Matters. The buildings and grounds committee of the city council meets this afternoon to take up the city hall plans. The Board of Health holds its annual meeting to-morrow night. The town of Flora will appoint a Hydro Commission, and wants to follow Brantford's make-up of the commission. Guelph wants to know if fees have been abolished on Brantford's market

PATENT LEATHER HATS THE VERY LATEST.

Once in so often patent leather appears upon millinery—and usually one must confess its effect is rather harsh and unpleasing. In this season's type of millinery, however, patent leather is a rather piquant feature. The glossy, stiffly folded stuff "fits the picture" on the small, pert hat of the moment. Here is a new walking hat of black patent leather with a very expensive Numidie feather mounted at the front. The band of pleated leather around the crown is most effective.

LADIES' TAILORING AND DRESSMAKING

FOUGHT FIERCELY FOR THEIR LIVES

Terrible Tragedy in Lachine Canal - Nine Went Down to Death.

MONTREAL, Nov. 13.—Survivors from the ferry boat which capsized in the Lachine canal last night, nine passengers losing their lives, tell of the fierce struggle that ensued when the heavily laden craft overturned in the wash of a passing tug.

A boy named A. E. Porter, was struck a terrific blow in the face by a hairy negro, while they both were trying to secure a hold on the bottom of an overturned boat. The blow stunned young Porter and blackened his face, but it did not make him lose his grip on the bottom of the boat. He was rescued by the crew of the tug a moment later. It is thought that the negro who struck him was drowned.

The fact that the water was so cold and the men were clad in their heavy winter clothes is believed to have been responsible for the heavy death list. After desperate fights with one another, several men seized planks thrown into the water by those on the bank twenty feet away only to be unable, owing to their numbed hands, to hold them. The canal was dragged this morning for bodies, seven being recovered.

An inquest will be held and it is understood the coroner will endeavor to find out who was responsible for permitting the ferry boat to leave shore with its gunwales only an inch or two above the water, while the tug was passing.

This Will Help Several Degrees

A short time ago the Courier called attention to the unifying fact that the two telegraph offices in a place of the importance of Brantford closed too early at nights and were only open for a few minutes on Sundays. As the outcome Mr. E. Cameron of the Great North-Western Company to-day received instructions that from this date the local office will be kept open until 9.30 p.m. each evening.

Made King Edward Laugh.

At Riby Grove near Grimby, Richard Aves, the well-known shepherd of the world's most famous breeder of Lincoln long wool sheep and shorthorns, has just celebrated his golden wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Aves never had what is termed a courtship, for Aves' new employer told him there was only one cottage available, and that he had better get married. The shepherd proposed to the cook of a neighboring farmer and was accepted, the marriage taking place at once. Aves was well known to the late King Edward and when his Majesty once asked him how it was that the Lincoln sheep came to have a black ring around their neck he raised a hearty laugh with the reply: "It's due to the London smoke, your Majesty."

A GOOD CITIZEN.

The late Mr. Joseph Stratford was in many respects a remarkable man. Like all those possessed of strong individuality and purpose, he made his foes, but no one was quicker than he to extend the hand of reconciliation, and his friends were legion.

Always cheerful, with a ready wit and invigorating manner, he carried the burdens of a strenuous life with an inspiring effect upon all with whom he came in contact.

With regard to the hospital, agricultural interests, and in other directions, he did yeoman service, and in hours of trial he showed himself to be thorough and through a true man.

The bereaved have at least the consolation of a life well and truly lived.

SIR RICHARD MCBRIDE'S SPEECH.

The Premier of British Columbia has come in for some criticism, because as one of the speakers at a non-political gathering in Ottawa, when the Governor-General was present, he spoke out on the navy question.

What he then said, is well worth repeating.

"First, I wish to speak of the navy and what Canada should do towards her share of Empire responsibility. If my voice from British Columbia be of value to this assembly, I would like to say with all the emphasis I may command how deeply we regret and deplore the inability of Canada to do her share towards Imperial defence, in failing to vote the $35,000,000 as was proposed a few months ago for the assistance of a program of the British Admiralty.

"The theme of national defence should occupy a plane higher than the political war room, the hustings or eyes the national forum. If we live to introduce political differences into such a question, we will drift and drift till we are so seriously involved that we cannot extricate ourselves without sacrificing our dignity and self-respect. We in British Columbia feel that we have come to the point when, in man fashion, we should do our share in the defence, not only of British Columbia, of Canada, but of the Empire as well.

"We have been for years glorying in the circumstances that have permitted us to proclaim ourselves part and parcel of the British Empire. We all have been proud of the Union Jack, and feel, if we are to be consistent with the privileges, the best evidence is to come up at the time, and the time is now, to come up with at least the handsome contribution of $35,000,000 towards Canadian, towards Empire defence.

"We would not for a moment consider a policy of segregation of Canada by which she could sail on in her own fair way without undertaking her responsibility. Canada has gone so far—that it is the exacting duty for the Canadian people to come through with a vote, even if twice the amount was necessary. We have spent millions in railways, getting the money for the most part from London town. We do not hesitate to indulge in industrial and commercial expansion. It is good and necessary business, but it is not quite in line with work of this character that we should be prepared to get even more quickly on the matter of national and imperial defence than in the question of local development, bearing in mind that for years and years the source of supply has practically been good old London town.

"There may be some discussion as to the question of an emergency, but if the Empire has got to wait until there is an emergency before we respond, things have come to a pretty pass in Canada. "Strong and great as we are in this great big and important part of the British Empire, it is possible for us within the next few years to be still stronger and greater as a component part of such a huge state.

"With the money voted for the help of Empire, the way is made clear for a larger imperial movement. We want in Empire matters to be prepared to take on Empire responsibilities and it will not necessarily mean that with one stroke of the pen the whole scheme of federation has to be adjusted, to give us a proper place.

"The question of foreign affairs, which is so much involved with the question of defence, may be dealt with to give Canada recognition as part of the Empire so that we may have control of things consistent with our position and at the same time make no inroads on the movement of all the overseas dominions for the great big scheme for imperial federation. This work must be undertaken and brought to a successful conclusion, but to my mind may be well proceeded with only along reasonably graduated plans. If my words of mine may make it known how we feel in British Columbia towards this great question, I will feel that I have not imposed on this audience, but that I have made good use of the few moments allotted to me."

Sir Richard is right. The manifest duty of Canada is, too plain, to have Laurier make a political football of a clear obligation.

JOSEPH STRATFORD HAS PASSED AWAY

disastrous fire which swept the concern out of existence, the company never paid less than 10 per cent per annum. The company was largely composed of farmer shareholders, and they reaped an immense benefit from the enterprise, not only in generous dividends, but in keeping the price of binder twine down by the big combines. Mr. Stratford was only yesterday re-elected a director of the company at the annual meeting, and was also offered the presidency.

He was also instrumental in establishing the Brantford Co-operative pork packing industry, now operated by the Matthews Company.

For many years he was interested in the militia, and was captain of No. 1 Company, Dufferin Rifles, and for a long period on the staff as quartermaster.

He erected and conducted the first opera house in Brantford, and was one of the first directors of the Brantford Club. He was likewise prominent in Grand Trunk circles, and for many years was city agent of the Grand Trunk railway and minor steamship lines.

As an after-dinner speaker at public and social gatherings he had few, if any, equals. With a true touch and in a most delightful way, he possessed the faculty of limning the idiosyncrasies and the individual peculiarities to which all are subject, and this, too, he did without giving the slightest personal offence.

Upon the death of his brother John in February of 1888 he succeeded to the presidency of the "John H. Stratford Hospital," an institution most generously presented to the city by the first-named, and for over 20 years he was the active and directing head. The institution was very dear to his heart, and its interests occupied very much of his time. Only those familiar with his activities there during that period know how much fruits and vegetables and other commodities from his estate used to be freely sent and always without charge. Not long ago, in a most magnanimous way, he consented to have the deed of trust altered so as to have a general board and have the title changed to that of "General Hospital."

His demise was heard of with great regret in Masonic circles. Mr. Stratford was a life member and one of the oldest members of Doric Lodge. On Nov. 21st he was down for a speech at the banquet to be given by the lodge to "Absent Members"—certainly a pathetic coincidence. Mr. Stratford was initiated into Doric Lodge in 1870.

It is not for the writer of this tribute to encroach upon the saddened home circle. Suffice it to say that Mr. Stratford was a most devoted husband and father. He made companions of his boys and girls, and it was always a delight, an inspiration, and a privilege, to participate in the sweet domesticity which characterized his home and hearth. As a host he was the personification of affability, courtesy and bonhomie.

He was married to Mary E. Killmaster, daughter of the late Mr. B. Killmaster of Port Rowan, and in addition to the sorrowing widow he leaves ten children to mourn his great loss. Mrs. R.G.O. Thomson (Toronto), Graham (Toronto), Harold (Kansas City), John (Calgary), Joseph (Brantford), George (Toronto University), Arthur (Royal Military College, Kingston), Reginald (Guelph Agricultural College), and Mayden and David at home.

A true citizen, a warm friend, an exemplar of parental responsibility, and a man of many kindly deeds has been called home, and his departure will cause deep regret to very many.

The inward effects of humors are worse than the outward. They endanger the whole system. Hood's Sarsaparilla eradicates all humors, cures all their inward and outward effects. It is the most effective and tonic, whose merit has been everywhere established.

A DUKE'S OFFER TO CHANCELLOR

200,000 Acres of Deer Forest in the Highlands—Purchase at $10 an Acre

Mr. Lloyd George's references in his land campaign to the deer forests of Scotland has drawn a notable offer from the young Duke of Sutherland to place a huge tract of the Highlands at the disposal of the State at a nominal price.

In his Bedf. speech the Chancellor said:—"The landowner can devastate the countryside. He can sweep every cottage away, and convert it into a wilderness. He can do what no foreign invader is permitted to do now by the laws of civilized warfare—destroy cottages, and drive the peasantry away into exile; convert land into a desert.

"If anyone doubts it he has simply got to take his next holiday in the Highlands of Scotland, where he will find millions of acres which formerly maintained the sturdiest, bravest, and most gallant race under the sun—a desert.

"What has become of the inhabitants. While their sons were maintaining the glory of Britain on Continental fields their parents were having their cottages burnt down. You will find the remains of the old crofts, but the crofters are not there—the land is trodden by deer."

"At Swindon he said:—"We want to repopulate the waste glens of the Highlands, and you can do it by reforesting hillsides, protecting glens, getting back the population, who will have winter employment in looking after the forests, and summer employment in cultivating the valleys. The timber supply of the world is gradually getting exhausted, and the values which will be treated will be enormously increased and appreciated in years that are to come."

Duke of Sutherland's Proposal—"Mr. R. O. Eschroter, the Duke of Bedford's agent, attacking the new land proposals in the "Morning Post," remarked:—"Offer the Duke of Sutherland £2 an acre for 200,000 acres of his Highland property and he will jump at it."

Taking up this observation, the young Duke of Sutherland, in a letter to the "Daily Mail" wrote:—"This is true. I will gladly sell 200,000 acres of land or more, now under deer, to the Government for £2 an acre. This is cheaper than land can be bought in any of the countries named by Mr. Lloyd George at Bedford, and is hardly more than the price of prairie land in Canada."

This offer was brought to the notice of the Chancellor, who wrote to the Duke of Sutherland, intimating that if the duke would be good enough to write to him officially, stating the exact nature of the offer, together with the price, he would care take that it was placed before the proper Department with a view to a report being made on the proposal to the consideration of His Majesty's Government. Mr. Lloyd George desires to be assured that the offer of sale comprises both the fat and the lean of the land, and not simply the most rugged parts; and that the cost of £2 per acre, if considered by independent valuers excessive, must not be regarded as an absolute irreducible minimum. If the Duke's offer is satisfactory on these points, the procedure will be that the Treasury will request the Development Commissioners to report on the proposition.

Fat and Lean Land

Telegraphing on Tuesday the duke said:—"I shall be pleased officially to make offer to Mr. Lloyd George of 200,000 acres. I shall be very glad to make compromise about fat and lean land with him, provided we have right to retain certain areas around residences quite irrespective of quality of land."

George Granville Sutherland Leveson-Gower is both the youngest duke and the biggest landowner in Great Britain. He attained his twenty-fifth birthday last August, two months after succeeding to the vast family estates on the death of his father, the fourth Duke of Sutherland. He is a lieutenant in Prince Arthur of Connaught's regiment, the Scots Greys.

Last year, as Marquis of Stafford, he married Lady Eileen Butler, the beautiful daughter of the seventh Earl of Lanesborough. The Duke of Sutherland owns 1,176,450 acres in Scotland.

The Sutherland red deer, are the biggest and fattest in the country. At the beginning of the nineteenth century so plentiful was the supply that many shepherds supplied their families with venison during the whole year. Every day during the season they were out with their guns, and generally shot two fat bucks. These were taken to their houses on horseback, where they were salted and packed in barrels. Earlier still, in 1760, Pococke marvels at the abundance of the deer, and speaks of a party shooting sixty in one day. Venison, he declares, "is commonly brought to table in most houses, and even where it is not fat is excellent food, minced and dressed like a hash, which they call minced collop."

Military Night Observed

By New Masonic Lodge

Distinguished Guests Present at Ozias Lodge Function Last Evening—Gathering Proved a Notable One.

The military night which was held by Ozias lodge No. 508, A.F. & A.M. last night in the Masonic Temple, was a decided success, and the event was one that will long be remembered by members of the craft who attended the affair. There were present military men from all parts of the province.

The distinguished guests present included the Hon. Colonel Samuel Hughes, Minister of Militia, and Past Grand Master, Sir J. M. Gibson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and Grand Master W.B. W.D. McPherson, W. B. Northrup, M.P., and others.

There were military men present of all ranks, from the Minister of Militia down. The first part of the evening was devoted to lodge work, after which a banquet was held in the banquet room. After partaking of a splendid repast, Worshipful Master W. Bentham acted as chairman, called the gathering to order, and a lengthy toast list was then in order.

Seated on the right of the chairman was the Minister of Militia and on his left the Lieutenant-Governor. During the time lunch was being served, the 25th Dragoon orchestra rendered a number of selections.

W. B. Northrup arose and stated that he was pleased to welcome so many guests, especially those who came from a distance. Bro. Bentham said that he was pleased that the Worshipful Brother was present, the Hon. Colonel Sam Hughes, the Minister of Militia.

M.W. Bro. Bentham proposed the health of the King, which was responded to by the singing of the National Anthem.

W.B. M. Wilbey arose and proposed the toast to the Grand Lodge of Canada. Mrs. A. Burch then rendered a most delightful solo in capital style. Worshipful Brother, W. D. McPherson, the Grand Master, on rising, paid a flattering compliment to the new lodge and also stated what an honor it was to be a member and Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario. He stated that the "Grand Lodge was instituted some 60 years ago. The speaker spoke of the charity that is being bestowed upon those who are in need. He reviewed the works of the Grand Lodge for many years back, and the grand deeds that have been accomplished by the same. He said that in the craft were to be found the best men and the best intellect in the country. The speaker referred to the fact that members of the Masonic lodge were to be found holding some of the most important positions in the land. The Worshipful Master called upon the members present to be loyal to the principles of Masonry.

Miss Jean McLennan favored those present with a solo, which was rendered in delightful voice.

The toast to Canada was proposed by W. Bro. L. Harris, who, on rising stated that every Canadian should be proud of the heritage of this broad Dominion.

Sir J. M. Gibson.

This toast was responded to by the most distinguished Bro. Sir J. M. Gibson, Past Grand Master and Lieutenant Governor of Ontario. He was received with applause. He said Canada was too big a subject for anyone to take care of at that late hour of the night, and if those present wanted anything great they would not get it from him. He did not know whether he was there as a Mason, a military man or just Gibson. It was great pleasure to meet old military friends. His Honor passed the remark, amid rounds of applause: "Once a Mason, always a Mason. The Lieutenant Governor paid a most flattering compliment to the Grand Master. The speakers congratulated the officers of Ozias lodge on the splendid banquet and wished the new lodge every success."

The Military Toast.

"The Militia and Defence of Canada" was proposed by Lieut. Col. E. C. Ashton, who paid a flattering compliment to the Militia Department and also to Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, the man who did things. Colonel S. Hughes, Minister of Militia, responded to the toast and the mentioning of the name of the Minister of Militia brought forth round after round of applause.

Mr. Percy Unsworth rendered a solo before the Minister of Militia commenced to speak. Col. Hughes was given a rousing reception. He thanked the officers for their kind invitation to be present. He paid a flattering compliment to Lieut. Col. Howard, commander of the 8th Dufferin Rifles. The speaker assured those present that the new armories will soon be started. He also referred to the starting of a battery by Lieut. Col. Ashton. He said that as long as he was Minister of Militia he would not appoint any honorary colonel who did not deserve the post. He also paid a splendid compliment to Lieutenant-Governor Gibson. The Minister of Militia stated that the Masonic lodge was a grand education for a young man. The training of the young men in our country was the work of the Militia Department. The Colonel was in a jovial mood and told a number of anecdotes, much to the delight of those present.

The toast of the Empire was proposed by Bro. W. T. Henderson and responded to by W.R. Bro. W. B. Northrup.

Bro. W. B. Scace replied to the toast of "The Visitors." Short addresses were made by the following Bro. H. M. Pellatt, Toronto; Bro. Thos. Lester, Hamilton; Bro. A. A. Campbell, London; Bro. F. Watt, Guelph; R. W. Bro. W. P. Guest, St. Thomas; R. W. Bro. L. C. Raymond, Welland; Bro. W. W. N. Ponton, Belleville; Bro. W. A. S. Ball, Woodstock; Mayberry, Ingersoll, Ont.; W. Bro. W. Patterson, Paris; R. W. Bro. W. J. Miles, Brantford, Ont.; Bro. W. S. Brewster, Brantford.

"The Candidate" proposed by W. Bro. W. C. Boddy; response by Bro. Harry Cockshutt. Mr. Percy Unsworth sang, "Four Jolly Sailors."

The singing of the National Anthem brought the affair to a close.

The Straight Line in Creating Demand

"A Straight Line is the Shortest Distance between Two Points"

Whatever troubles old Euclid gave us in our schooldays his axioms were simple enough. In our business life to-day we show a lively appreciation of the truth of this axiom in cutting out superfluous efforts—in the saving of time and labor.

In making goods the straight line is "efficiency." It is the shortest distance between raw material and finished product.

In Selling Goods, the straight line is Newspaper Advertising.

It is the shortest distance between the seller and the buyer. Some manufacturers are applying the straight line in the making of their goods, but neglecting it in the selling of them. Some have no line of communication with the consumer at all—many let their message meander along by-paths of "chance acquaintanceship" instead of telegraphing it along the straight line of Newspaper Advertising.

Newspaper Advertising is the Shortest Distance between the two points of "Supply" and "Demand."

If you are doing a local business, talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this Newspaper. If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of the Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto.

TO BENEFIT OTHER SUFFERERS

You May Publish My Letter About "Fruit-a-lives"

Mr. Jones is proud to acknowledge the great debt of gratitude he owes "Fruit-a-lives". He is glad to have his letter published in order that other sufferers may be induced to try these wonderful tablets made of fruit juices.

SARNIA, ONT., FEB. 5th, 1911 "I have been a sufferer for the past 25 years with Constipation, Indigestion and Catarrh of the Stomach. I tried many remedies and many doctors, but derived no benefit whatever. Finally, I read an advertisement for "Fruit-a-lives" and I decided to give "Fruit-a-lives" a trial and they did exactly what was claimed for them. I have now taken them for some time and find they are the only remedy that does me good. I have recommended "Fruit-a-lives" to a great many of my friends, and I cannot praise these fruit tablets too highly."

PAUL J. JONES.

ERIE AVE. PEOPLE WANT PAVEMENT

A Meeting Was Held in Place Last Evening Matter.

A meeting of Erie Avenue payers was held last evening at the home of Mr. F. Billo, for the purpose of discussing the question of paving Erie Avenue. The fare is in an exceedingly dire condition and it is generally considered that the putting down of a pavement is the only solution.

Ward submitted figures showing cost of bituminous pavement of T. H. and B. to the city to be $28,000; reinforced concrete, a better wearing article, $30,000. This would be for a 36 foot wide and including curbs and storm sewer. The share of the cost would be 50 per cent. The cost of the pavement per foot frontage is $73.25 cents. The matter laid before the City Council.

WIRED HIS REGRET

At Last Minute Duke of Sutherland Was Unable to Come Here.

It was not until late afternoon that officers of Ozias A. F. and A. M. received from the secretary of the Connaught, that His Royal Highness would be unable to attend. Word had been received in the morning that Governor-General would be on a trip. Previous engagements situated a cancellation at request.

PHILOSOPHICAL PHEX AND THE WEATHER

WHERE'S THAT DOG-GONE CHICKEN?

He had all the qualities for the position, and one of the qualities was that he was not altogether insincere. He really believed that at heart he had a real desire to improve the position of the great mass of the people, and not so strongly as the rest of them.

He had the actor's temperament to the highest degree. A really great actor, playing the part of Macbeth, thought like Macbeth, and when it was all over he became himself again.

"When on the platform," continued Mr. Bonar Law, "Mr. Lloyd George is playing the role of 'The Little Brother of the Poor' (Laughter). He feels it. It is not affectation but when he goes home again, he becomes Mr. Lloyd George, and after a most eloquent tirade against the evils of luxury he probably does not deprive himself of any of the little comforts of which many of us have a liking.

It has been said in the House of Commons, continued Mr. Bonar Law, that the Labor party has been "dishd" by Lloyd George, which was the principle of feeding the dog by a bit of its own tail (Laughter). It might be that kind of thing would succeed indefinitely, and if that were so, the Unionist could not help him. All the Unionist party could do was to fight against it as well as they could.

"We are not satisfied with the world—think just as Disraeli preached—that the Conservative party should be a national party, not preached also that it should also have before them this ideal—to raise the condition of the great mass of the people of this country. That must be our ideal, too.

"But we shall never add ourselves in competition with those who I have described to you, and try to outbid them, by making promises which we know we can never fulfill. (Cheers.) Rather than do that I should ten times prefer to spend the whole of my political life in opposition, and I believe that it would be better for the Conservative party that it should be always in opposition than that power should be gained by this means.

Bonar Law's Remarkable Attack Upon Chancellor Of The Exchequer

Mr. Bonar Law, in another speech at the Unionist Club at Newcastle, on Thursday, made some pointed allusions to Mr. Lloyd George.

He said that the Unionist party had this disadvantage—that from the point of view of a fighting team, they were more or less independent. They were not professional politicians, and therefore, there was always a likelihood that there might be divisions on grounds of principle between them.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain's letter (promising loyal support to the Unionist party) enabled him to say with complete confidence that there was a party where there was less personal ambition and showing of one man against another.

Since 1885 political power had been absolutely in the hands of the working classes, and if they could be made to believe that the Liberal party were the friends of the poor and that the Unionists were the champions of the rich, he saw no reason why history should not repeat itself.

A position of that kind, when democracy had full power, lent itself as a field for the demagogue, and with the hour and the circumstances the man would come. He had come (Laughter). The Liberal party was blessed from a party point of view of one of the greatest demagogues who had ever existed in this country.

He had all the qualities for the position, and one of the qualities was that he was not altogether insincere. He really believed that at heart he had a real desire to improve the position of the great mass of the people, and not so strongly as the rest of them.

He had the actor's temperament to the highest degree. A really great actor, playing the part of Macbeth, thought like Macbeth, and when it was all over he became himself again.

"When on the platform," continued Mr. Bonar Law, "Mr. Lloyd George is playing the role of 'The Little Brother of the Poor' (Laughter). He feels it. It is not affectation but when he goes home again, he becomes Mr. Lloyd George, and after a most eloquent tirade against the evils of luxury he probably does not deprive himself of any of the little comforts of which many of us have a liking.

NAVAL BATTLE UNDER A BRIDGE

New York Detectives Injured by River Pirates in Stiff Fight.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—A miniature naval battle was fought under the shadow of Brooklyn bridge just after midnight this morning, when detectives concealed aboard barges and policemen launched exchanged shots with armed river pirates, four detectives were injured, but three pirates were captured and three motor boats loaded with stolen coffee were recovered.

Watch had been set because the Night Dock Company complained that coffee valued at more than $2,500 had been stolen during the last two nights from their barges in the East River. Early this morning three large motor boats with engines muffled were seen to drive up alongside the coffee barge. The men climbed aboard the barge and began to throw bags of coffee into their motor boats. The hidden detectives expected the men to throw up their hands, but instead each drew a revolver and began to blaze away. The detectives closed in however, and a hand-to-hand fight ensued during which one of the detectives was thrown into the river and three others were slightly wounded. One of the pirates succeeded in getting away in his boat, and was rounding the battery at full speed when two police launches intercepted him and effected a capture. The other prisoners were taken on board the barge. They gave their names as Alfred Brecknell, Chas. McNeil and Andrew Johnson, all of Jersey City, and each of them was over forty years of age.
