The New Factory

The incorporation of the Waterdown Manufacturing Co. which is now under consideration, if carried out as proposed, will give this town one of the largest Toy factories in the country, and will be the means, more than anything else, of stimulating the growth of the village. The following proposal is being made to the public by the promoters of the new company.

1st—That a limited company ($40,000.00) be formed, and known as "The Waterdown Manufacturing Co. Limited", to be incorporated under the laws of Ontario, 4,000 shares to be issued at par value $10.00 each.

2nd—That the object of this company will be,—1st, to manufacture goods not at present made in Canada, catering to the Hardware, Furniture, Fancy Goods, Departmental and General Store trade, and profit there-by. 2nd—To create employment for 100 to 500 people who would in turn create a demand for land and houses and stimulate the growth of the town, making it possible to build up business in other lines.

3rd—That no stock be issued for good-will or services, and no commission be paid to raise money for this enterprise.

4th That no one man be allowed to buy 51% of the stock.

5th—That when the full amount ($40,000.00) has been subscribed, a meeting of the subscribers be called at which the Officials of the company will be elected and 25% of the money subscribed called in, the balance to be paid in 10% installments as required.

6th—That the property on Mill Street known as Strathers Mill be purchased, altered and improved, that an additional building be erected, three stories in height and extending 150 ft. in the rear, such building to be equipped with modern wood-working machinery and such other machines as are needed to produce finished goods from material in the rough.

7th—That all the property, assets, liabilities and business of the Crown Manufacturing Co. be absorbed by the new company (The Waterdown Manufacturing Co. Ltd.) and stock issued to its present owners to cover surplus as shown by inventory, and approved by the Directors. About $5,000.00.

It is a well known fact that the manufacturer in Canada faces an opportunity to-day which never has and possibly never will again present itself in the history of this country. The importation of almost every kind of manufactured goods into the United Kingdom is prohibited, and it is now up to Canada to get her share of the orders which in pre-war days went to the central countries of Europe. Harrison Watson who is Chief Canadian Trade Commissioner at London England, reports that his Office for the past few weeks has been receiving a constant stream of enquiries from British Firms as to the possibilities of their being able to purchase from Canadian Manufacturers all kinds of wooden goods which were formerly bought from foreign countries.

Mr. W. E. Duncan, President of the Export Association of Canada says "Unquestionably" Canadian Manufacturers will be able to send their steel and iron products abroad and sell them in competition with the other manufacturers.

The Waterdown Manufacturing Co. Ltd. will operate two plants, in one department Steel Stamps, Dies and Tools will be made, and in another Wood and metal products. It can be made a great industry and a credit to Waterdown.

Already many of our public spirited citizens have subscribed for stock in this enterprise and we would be pleased to receive at the Review Office the names of others who would like full particulars.

Women's Institute

The Women's Institute met with Mrs. W. G. Spence on Wednesday afternoon May 7th. The President Mrs. W. A. Drummond occupied the chair. The minutes were read and approved and after the business was disposed of the Secretary read the annual report and also a financial statement of the years work.

The retiring President, Mrs. C. W. Drummond was then presented with a bouquet of flowers and a very suitable address in slight recognition of her work during the past three years.

The election of officers took place and resulted as follows, President Mrs. Ed. Blagden; 1st vice pres. Mrs. Thos. Allen; 2nd Vice Pres. Mrs. Walker Drummond; Sec. Treas. Iva M. Langton; Ass't Sec. Treas. Miss H. Gibson. Directors—Mrs. (Rev) Leake, Mrs. W. Thompson Mrs. A. Robson, District Director, Mrs. W. A. Ryckman, District Representatives, Mrs. J. O. McGregor, Mrs. C. W. Drummond, Auditors, Mrs. Geo. Rhor, Miss J. McGregor. Representatives to Library Board, Mrs. W. G. Spence, Mrs. Inksetter, Mrs. Cooper.

Mrs. Blagden then gave a reading on "The House Cleaning Season" after which Miss Gertrude Davidson played an instrumental solo.

The National Anthem was sung after which refreshments were served and a social hour was spent.

On June 4th the members of the Patriotic League and the Kings Daughters are requested to meet with the Institute in the Bell House.

Returned Boys Entertained

A most enjoyable evening was spent at the home of J. F. and Mrs. Thompson last Tuesday when about 40 of the young people of the village gathered in honor of Sergt. Lorne Mount and Lance Corp. W. Thompson, who recently returned from overseas. The evening was spent with music and progressive euchre. Miss Nona Rasberry and Earl Griffin being the winners, after which Pte. C. Gallivan made a very appropriate speech and presented each of the heroes with a fountain pen. Lunch was served at which all did ample justice. The party broke up in the wee' small hours all having spent a most enjoyable time.

Reception for Pte. Mew

Last week Pte. Wm. Mew, who lately arrived home, was given a reception by his parents at their home on Mill street. About thirty young people were present to greet the young soldier and the evening was spent in games, music and dancing.

Pte. Mew enlisted at Goderich in September 1915, being but 17 years of age, and went overseas the following spring going almost directly to France, where he took part in a number of the important battles of the war. He was twice wounded, and at Arras was completely buried by a shell explosion. A younger brother, who enlisted at the age of 15, arrived home about a year ago.

Wilfred Langford arrived home from Siberia last Saturday evening looking well and hearty. Pte. Langford left with the first Canadian troops for Siberia, being attached to the Hospital Corps, and later transferring to the Ambulance department. He relates some very interesting narratives of life and conditions in that far off country, but still thinks Waterdown the best place yet. His many friends were pleased to welcome him home again.

Henry Slater had the misfortune to have one of his valuable horses badly injured yesterday at his work near Hamilton.

Red Triangle Overseas

Probably no institute was more constantly before the eyes and so much in the lives of men overseas as the Y. M. C. A. In every camp in England the Red Triangle had its huts and wherever one went in France the big marquers were to be found with a bright cheery welcome for all. The canteens were very much appreciated. Rations were sometimes short, but generally there was sufficient nourishment in the days supply. What was needed was variety and the canteens of the Y. M. C. A. among other institutions did much to supply this change. And in connection with every Y. M. C. A. was a reading and writing room where Red Triangle paper was supplied free to any who wished it.

Whenever any sports were being arranged the "Y" officers were ready to help in every way possible, supplying sporting goods of all kinds, planning field days, and carrying them through. No one did as much more for Army Games than the Y. M. C. A.

The free concerts they arranged were nearly always crowded. Some of the parties were very good indeed, solos, violin, piano, elocutionists, ventriloquists and every kind of entertainment. It was very pleasant to spend an hour in one of these concerts, as a change from huts, dugouts or billets.

Lieut. H. O. RODGERS,
Can Engineers.

The above letter was received from Lieut. Rogers, and is a testimony of the valuable work done by the Red Triangle during the war. Help this institution to carry out its program of reconstruction in Canada, now that that the war is over.

Victoria Day

All the arrangements for the 24th of May celebration have been completed, and with favorable weather that day the result will be nothing short of success. The afternoon sports at the Fair grounds will consist of base ball games, races and other sports with prizes for the winners.

The evening entertainment at the rink will also be a public reception to the returned soldiers who have arrived home since the Banquet and will be under the joint supervision of the Patriotic League and the Library committee. The best talent possible has been obtained and the evening promises to be an enjoyable one. Harry Bennett, the Scotch comedian, is considered one of the best imitators of Harry Lauder on concert stage. Vernon Carey is well known here, and Miss Marwick of Hamilton comes highly recommended.

Ladies' Aid

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church held their annual meeting for election of officers etc. on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Geo. Nicholson. Their report showed a very successful year. The officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Pres. Mrs. John Prudham, Vice Pres. Mrs. Jas. Attridge, Sec. Mrs. Henry Slater, Treas. Miss Haliburton.

Greenville

Mrs. Jas. Irving of Dundas is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. N. Tunis.

Mrs. Bamberger has moved to her summer home here.

Wilfred Grightmire arrived home from the front on Friday night and Harry Fenton on Sunday night.

Several electric washing machines have been installed in the village.

FAITHFUL TO HIS TRUST.

Native African Kept Eyes On Watch for Hour.

France has many black fighting men from Senegal in the field; nor are they the only troops recruited from savage or semisavage races engaged in the great conflict. A young British officer found himself one night, by a mischance to his motor-cycle, stranded by the wayside, and with only a little group of negro stragglers anywhere in sight. He was very tired, having had no sleep for many hours. One of the Africans talked pidgin English of a coast town, and this man informed him that some motorbikes would be coming along soon, upon which it would be possible to get a lift.

"Soon," in the mouth of an African, is an elastic term, but the captain thought he could afford to wait an hour before setting forward on foot in search of some other means of transportation. he wanted a nap—

Do you shave with a saw?

FOOLISH question No. 11991! Maybe. But compare for a moment the illustrations above. They show pretty well what we're driving at; that is, unless a blade is stopped regularly it develops an edge very like a saw, and causes that "pulling" and after-smarting of which you complain.

Not so with the AutoStrop Razor. For the self-stopping feature, you see, reforms the saw-like edge that results from shaving, and provides you with a sharp blade for every shave. The beauty of it is you don't have to remove the blade from the razor to sharpen it, nor do you have to take the AutoStrop Razor apart to clean it. From first to last—stopping, shaving, and cleaning—the blade remains in the razor.

wanted it desperately—but he could not trust himself to wake at the end of an hour. The African could not tell time, but the captain determined to depend upon him, nevertheless. Showing him the dial of his wrist watch, he explained that he wished to be awakened when the long hand reached there and the short hand there. Then he lay down, with arm extended, and the negro crouched beside him, with his eyes on the dial.

Exactly at the right moment the sleeper was called; and as he opened his eyes they fell upon the African, in precisely the same position, with something strained in his aspect that suggested inquiries. It appeared that he had not dared look away during the entire hour.

"For sure him clock trabel slow, massa," he explained. "But s'pose him stop go walkee, walkee? S'pose him go jump, jump."

Upon a river steamer in Africa Miss Mary Kingsley, the English explorer, face heard other passengers giving directions to the native steward in the adjoining main saloon:

"You savvy six o'clock? When them long arm catch them place, and them short arm catch them place, you call me in the morning time."

"You savvy five o'clock? When them long arm— And so it went on, until each passenger had pointed out on the clock face the proper reaction of the two hands to each other at the moment he desired to be called. The ignorant native steward, who could not tell time and could not learn to, was yet sufficiently observant to place and remember the call correctly; he never got them mixed.

IS THERE A BABY IN YOUR HOME?

Is there a baby or young children in your home? If there is you should not be without a box of Baby's Own Tablets. Childhood ailments come quickly and means should always be at hand to promptly fight them. Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal home remedy. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach, banish constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers—in fact they relieve all the minor ills of little ones. Concerning them Mrs. M. J. Cadotte, Makamik, Quebec, writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best remedy in the world for little ones. My baby suffered terribly from indigestion and vomiting, but the Tablets soon set her right and now she is in perfect health." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHURCH TO BORROW.

New Glasgow Congregation Permitted to Issue Bonds.

Under the title of a bill to amend an act to incorporate the trustees of the First Presbyterian Church, New Glasgow, the trustees of that congregation are empowered to raise a loan of $20,000 for such purposes as they may deem desirable at a rate of 7 per cent. The debentures shall be in sums of $100 and the coupons attached shall bear the name of the secretary for the time being of the trustees. The trustees may sell the debentures from time to time for such sums as they can obtain. It is provided that all moneys so borrowed shall take priority over all mortgages or other encumbrances. They are to run for twenty years, but may be redeemed at any time after three months' notice. It is a new way of financing a congregation—new at least in that part of Canada.

An Official Flycatcher.

Redlands, a town in California, some time ago established the office of municipal flycatcher. That official acts on a single observed fact—that flies instinctively fly upward and toward light. He constructed a large trap, a screened frame, 12 inches square and more than two feet in height. He raised this two inches from the ground, and attached to the bottom a cone-shaped screen, with the large end down. He nailed the contrivance to a post on a street corner and the flies did the rest.

In the first month, from the 100 traps that he scattered throughout the business section of Redlands the official fly-catcher had emptied and burned 50 gallons of flies. That means not far from 4,000,000 flies.

There are now many hundreds of the flytraps in Redlands, and, according to the residents, all the flies in Redlands were in those traps last summer.

The Toad.

The toad is useful because of its diet. No less than 83 specimens of insects, mostly injurious, have been proved to enter into his dietary. George W. Hunter, says: A toad has been observed to snap at 128 flies in half an hour. Thus at a low estimate it could easily destroy 1,000 insects during a day, and do an immense service to the garden during the summer. It has been estimated that a single toad may, on account of the cutworms which it kills, be worth $19.88 each season that it lives.

NOTES OF FASHIONS.

Black, cream, jade and tobacco brown horsehair are prominently used in millinery.

Pastel large hair hats will likely be an important summer item.

Chapeaux are used by leading milliners for large shade hats, faced with georgette.

Petals of all sorts are freely used in hat trimmings. Sometimes the brighter the better.

Orchard seems to be a favorite for undergarments where color is wanted.

The fad for pastel colors has invaded the cotton undergarment field.

The gilet camisole is meeting with a good deal of favor in some quarters.

FOR THE BRIDE.

Elaborate bridal sets of undergarments made from white satin are among the ones most wanted, it is said.

Satin and chiffon in two-tone effects are combined with a skirt draped as in lace flouncings.

Black lace spangled with silver is used over silver cloth in some dresses.

One taffeta frock seen in a prominent window was unlicked in satin.

The square bib collar of lace is used at both front and back on silk dresses.

Many of the new afternoon and informal evening dress models show the short, tight-fitting dress sleeve or the puffed baby sleeve.

AN INDIAN NOTE.

An Indian draping is a feature of a gown of white satin.

Gowns of Empire and Directoire types are worn by both brides and bridesmaids at weddings.

Odd belts on the latest spring imports of coats and suits show pearl buttons used as the tacking of embroidered eyelets spaced two inches apart.

Cheruit features the odd color combinations of leather and rose in a motor wrap of heavy burella cloth.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION

May be Overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — This Letter Proves It.

West Philadelphia, Pa.—"During the thirty years I have been married, I have been in bad health and had several attacks of nervous prostration until it seemed as if the organs in my whole body were worn out. I was finally persuaded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made a well woman of me. I can now do all my housework and advise all ailing women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I will guarantee they will derive great benefit from it."—Mrs. FRANK FITZGERALD, 25 N. 41st Street, West Philadelphia, Pa.

There are thousands of women everywhere in Mrs. Fitzgerald's condition, suffering from nervousness, backache, headaches, and other symptoms of a functional derangement. It was a grateful spirit for health restored which led her to write this letter so that other women may benefit from her experience and find health as she has done.

For suggestions in regard to your condition write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of their 10 years experience is at your service.

National Prayer Days.

The first time the people of the United States were called upon to observe a day of national prayer was May 9, 1798, by proclamation of President John Adams. A controversy had arisen between this country and France and all Americans were called upon to pray for a continuation of peace. In 1815, when the United States was about to make war on Algiers, President Madison proclaimed a day of prayer. During the Civil war three Presidential proclamations were issued appointing days of prayer for peace. In 1865 the authorities called upon the people to pray for Lincoln, and in 1881 President Arthur proclaimed a day of prayer to mark the burial of President Garfield. In the autumn of 1914 President Wilson issued his proclamation for prayers on "Peace Sundays."

Compulsory Change of Name.

A notable instance of compulsory change of name occurred in Scotland in the seventeenth century, when the clan Macgregor was ordered to abandon and forget its ancient patronymic. The English government thought by this means to stamp out the spirit of Rob Roy's redoubtable kinsmen, and so sternly was the decree enforced that the use of the old name was treated as a capital offense. For the time the clansmen submitted and took other names; but, so far from forgetting the old designation, later generations proudly reverted to it, and to-day there are more Macgregors in the world—to the world's gain—than ever before.—London Standard.

Keep Minard's Liniment in the house The Largest Frog.

Among the rare specimens not open to public inspection in the Harvard zoological museum is what is claimed to be the largest frog in the world. It weighs about six pounds, is twenty-seven inches long from tip to toe and of a silty black color. Its web feet are equal in size to those of a large swan. But three of its kind have ever reached the United States. Dr. Boulenger of the British museum was the discoverer of the new species in 1906 while on an expedition in central Africa. All known specimens have been found in two districts, called Kribi and Etaha, of the German colony Kamerun.

An attractive cape of pearl gray duvetyne has a deep circular yoke of heavy novelty applique lace dyed to match.

Quilted pongee coats are shown for summer motor wear.

The Greek note is strong in the embroidery on a recently imported series of voile over-blouses.

She Didn't Say.

If a Maori wishes to speak words of insult to another Maori he calls his adversary some kind of food. One Maori chief once told another that he was a roast veal. Then he fled to the bush, hid in a cave, was tracked, captured and beheaded. The cave is still shown to visitors, and when Lord Kitchener was in New Zealand he was taken to it by a pretty Maori girl acting as guide. She told him the whole story, and at the conclusion the stern soldier's face softened into a smile as he said:

"Ah, then, I suppose it would be highly dangerous to call a Maori lady a little duck?"—London Mail.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Permanently Cured

NEW BRUNSWICK LADY GIVES FULL PARTICULARS OF HER RECOVERY.

There are many types of rheumatism, but none worse than inflammatory.

It was this kind that almost killed Mrs. Edw. Warman, of Kent Junction, N. B.

Every known remedy she tried, different doctors gave their advice, but the disease increased.

Weak and despairing she was at her wits' end when the remarkable cure of Thomas Cullen was published. This gentleman was cured of rheumatism by "Ferrozone." Consequently Mrs. Warman used the same remedy. Here is her statement:

"For five years I have been rheumatic. I tried various forms of relief without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles; these swelled, caused excruciating pain and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were lame and prevented me from working. Week by week I was losing strength and despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day I heard of Ferrozone. Every day I took Ferrozone I felt better; it eased the painful joints, gave me energy and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism, cured it so that not an ache has ever returned. Even damp weather no longer affects me."

Ferrozone has power to destroy Uric Acid, neutralize and enrich the blood, and therefore does cure the worst cases. Mrs. Warman's statement proves this.

By removing the cause of the disease and building up a reserve of energy, Ferrozone is certain to cure. Sufferer, isn't it about time to stop experimenting? Ferrozone is a CURE, order to-day, 50 cents per box or six for $2.50, sold by all dealers or direct from The Catarrhose Co., Kingston, Ont.

GERMAN SHELL DEPOT "BLOWS"

Where Canadians Were Reviewed Recently.

Many Killed and Wounded in Blasts.

Brussels, Cable—A depot of German ammunition, containing shells and bombs of every calibre, and many gas shells, has been exploding since Monday morning at the railway station at Groendael, six miles south of Brussels, where Canadian troops were inspected by King Albert eight days ago. The depot has been under guard of 150 Belgian soldiers, and 600 German prisoners have been at work near it. It is believed there are many killed and wounded, but the number of victims will not be known for several days.

Many houses in the neighborhood have completely collapsed, and windows and roofs for two miles around the scene of the explosion have been shattered. This is especially the case at Hoeysaert and neighboring towns, where there are thousands of hot-houses. The movement of trains over the Namur-Luxembourg line has been interrupted.

Away With Depression and Melancholy—These two evils are the accompaniment of a disordered stomach and torpid liver and means wretchedness to all whom they visit. The surest and speediest way to combat them is with Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which will restore the healthful action of the stomach and bring relief. They have proved their usefulness in thousands of cases and will continue to give relief to the suffering who are wise enough to use them.

ENEMY MAY TRADE DURING PARLEYS

Official Details of Relaxation of Blockade

And Plans in Event of Foe Obstinacy.

Paris, Cable—The following official communication was issued this evening:

"The Supreme Economic Council held its sixteenth meeting May 5th, at 10 a.m., under the chairmanship of Lord Robert Cecil at the Ministry of Commerce."

"Propose blockade measures to be adopted in the event of Germany refusing to sign the peace treaty."

"The council considered plans which had been formulated to bring about the complete economic isolation of Germany in the event that the German delegates should refuse to sign the preliminaries of peace. The blockade section was directed to draw up and submit for the approval of the Council of Foreign Ministers a plan of blockade measures to be immediately put into effect should the associated Governments desire to have recourse to economic coercion."

"Removal of financial restrictions of trade with Germany."

"Upon recommendation by the financial section, the council decided to make the following relaxations of financial restrictions of trade with Germany pending the signing of the peace treaty:

"First—The financial list to be suspended (if this had not been done already), and announcement to be made that neutrals are entirely free to extend credits of any kind to Germany or to its nationals."

"Second—That German-owned cash, balances and bills already in neutral countries, are freely available in payment for imports."

"Third—That the proceeds of exports from Germany may be freely available in payment for all kinds of permitted imports."

"Fourth—That the finance section shall have discretion to grant licenses for the export of gold and securities from Germany in payment for imports, on application from the German authorities."

"Fifth—That the above be communicated to the financial commission at Villette and to the committee of neutral financiers, and that their suggestions be invited as to what further relaxations are desired by them."

"Control of traffic on the Danube."

"The council considered again the question of the control of navigation on the Danube, and it was decided that this control should be placed entirely under one authority. A sub-committee was appointed to arrange the details with a view to expediting the reopening of commercial and relief traffic on the Danube."

Asthma Doesn't Wear Off Alone. Do not make the mistake of waiting for asthma to wear away by itself. While you are waiting the disease is surely gathering a stronger foothold and you live in danger of stronger and yet stronger attacks. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy taken early, will prevent incipient condition from becoming chronic and saves hours of awful suffering.

HOW THEY KNEW OF ARMISTICE

Paris, Cable—(Reuter Despatch)—Gen. von Lettow Vorbeck, commander of the German colonial troops in East Africa, in an interview stated that his army at the outbreak of war consisted of 200 whites and 2,000 Askaris, but the numbers increased to 3,000 Europeans and 13,000 natives. At the armistice the force was reduced to 250 whites and 1,200 Askaris by losses. The force covered nearly 4,400 miles in the course of the fighting, and for many months running no European news reached them. The news of the armistice was obtained from a motor-cyclist who started from the frontier, carrying orders to the British, but took the wrong road and was made a prisoner on November 13. The motor-cyclist's despatches contained the order to suspend hostilities.

There is no poisonous ingredient in Holloway's Corn Cure, and it can be used without danger of injury.

The Dunmow Flitch.

Among the little humors of the dictionary this from the Century Dictionary of Names perhaps deserves a place: Dunmow, Flitch, The.—A flitch of bacon awarded to any married pair who could take oath at the end of the first year of their married life that there had not only been no jar or quarrel, but that neither had ever wished the knot untied. The custom has originated in Great Dunmow, England, by Robert Fitzwalter, in 1244. The flitch of bacon has been claimed as late as 1876.

GENERAL DEBILITY FOLLOWS INFLUENZA

HEALTH CAN ONLY BE RESTORED THROUGH THE USE OF A BLOOD-MAKING TONIC.

Debility is a loss of vitality not affecting any one part of the body particularly, but the system generally. It is dangerous because it reduces the body's resistance to disease. When debility follows acute diseases, convalescence is slow, and one's strength does not return as it should. An attack of influenza often results in debility that persists for months. Everybody recognizes that the remedy for debility is to build up the blood, because the blood goes to every part of the body, and any improvement in its condition is quickly felt through the system.

In cases of simple anaemia, or debility following acute diseases such as fevers or influenza, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be found valuable for growing children, and for men and women whose nervous energy has been overdrawn. They are worth a fair trial in every case where thin blood and weak nerves have started the trouble. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has been proved in the home of Mrs. John Fram, Owen Sound, who says: "My daughter Mabel was troubled with a bad cough; she was pale, weak and her appetite was very poor, indeed I feared that she was going into a decline. A friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking eight boxes she was again enjoying the best of health. Again last autumn Spanish influenza attacked our home, and after the acute symptoms were past, both myself and another daughter were left very much run down. My daughter was so weak that she could not walk to school and would tremble when she got upon her feet. I was so weak myself that I could not do my housework. Again we resorted to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and in each case we took five boxes, when we were as well as ever health than I am now doing, and am able again to do my housework. After our experience it is not possible for me to say too much in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

As Suggested by the Italian Premier.

AN ADRIATIC COMPROMISE

As Suggested by the Italian Premier.

Hinterland and Dalmatia for Fiume.

Paris, Cable—"The last note signed by Premier Orlando and received in Paris embodied a scheme, which, according to the opinion of the Italian Ministers could be accepted as a suitable compromise on the Adriatic problem."

The gist of it believed to be as follows:

"It would renounce the annexation of the hinterland of Dalmatia, Fiume would be constituted a free town under the League of Nations, Italy being granted special responsibility in its administration and, at the end of a period of ten years the whole arrangement would be revised, probably by means of a plebiscite."

So writes the Paris correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.

Worms feed upon the vitality of children and endanger their lives. A simple and effective cure is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

89 HUN SHIPS TO THE STATES

All German Vessels Seized in Their Ports.

Awarded by the Peace Conference.

Washington, Cable—All the Kaiser's and Kaiserin's and Der Grosses, the America, the Vaterland and other big ocean liners which belonged to Germany and were seized in American ports during the war are now the actual property of the United States, at a cost of about $100,000,000 off the money the vanquished Government owes us.

Announcement was made here today that a cable message had been received from American sources at Paris that the Supreme Peace Council has awarded to the United States all the German passenger ships interned in American ports. This information caused an intense feeling of optimism to pervade at shipping board headquarters.

There are forty-one ships for passengers and freight, and forty-eight cargo ships. Chairman Hurley declined to make any comment, in the absence of official confirmation of the cablegram, but it was evident that he hoped there was no mistake about it.

The acquisition of the large passenger ships involved in the decision, is was pointed out by an official versed in shipping affairs, will advance this country ten years toward shipping supremacy of the world.

The present programme of the Shipping Board will give the United States in a very few years one-third of the ship tonnage of the entire world, and the acquisition of the German vessels is looked upon as a wonderful help toward attaining the goal sought.

Worms are encouraged by morbid conditions of the stomach and bowels, and so subsist. Miller's Worm Powders will alter these conditions almost immediately and will sweep the worms away. No destructive parasite can live in contact with this medicine, which is not only a worm destroyer, but a health-giving medicine most beneficial to the young constitution, and as such it has no superior.

INSECTS THOUGHT.

Scientists' Experiment With an Ant Colony.

John W. Coghlin has demonstrated what patience and perseverance will accomplish, and has also exploded the old-time theory that it was impossible to teach insects to understand the human voice and action. Some time since he had the good fortune to discover a hill of Madagascar neuroptera, or marching ants, says the Pittsburg Press. They were about the size of the common June bug and of a dirty brown color, and he says that they are numerous in India and South Africa—that he can account for finding a hill of them in Maine by being brought there on some vessel. Mr. Coghlin invited some of his friends to his camp at Patten's Pond, where he amused them by putting the neuroptera (as he called them) through a course of sprouts. The way he caused the little army to go through their evolutions was a marvel to all present. Marching by twos and by fours, over inclines and bridges made of toothpicks, with the regularity of trained troops, he finally caused them to break ranks by lighting a match before the leaders. He says that artificial light will confuse them; therefore they can be made to perform only in daylight.

SPANKING DOESN'T CURE!

Don't think children can be cured of bed-wetting by spanking them. The trouble is constitutional, the child cannot help it. We will send FREE to any mother my successful home treatment, with full instructions. If your children trouble you in this way, send no money, but write me to-day. My treatment is highly recommended to adults troubled with urine difficulties by day or night. Address:

Conserve Enthusiasm.

Are you a boy or girl who becomes very enthusiastic about some nice thing you want to do? Be careful not to be so enthusiastic in starting a new undertaking that you have no energy left for carrying it through to completion. Enthusiasm is an important factor in success, but it must be a steady flow, and not burst forth like some of the geysers, which send a spout of water skyward, and then are quiet for 24 hours.

The promise of an early spring isn't always indicated by girls in bloomers.

Catarrhose Did Cure

That's the way hundreds of the boys around town are taking since Catarrhose got into the drug stores. Nothing on earth like Catarrhose to really cure Catarrh, Colds or Bronchitis.

"Catarrhose"—it isn't a drug—it's a healing vapor full of pine essences and healing balsams. It spreads over the surfaces that are weak and sore from coughing. Every spot that is congested is healed—irritation is soothed away, phlegm and secretions are cleaned out, and all symptoms of cold and Catarrh are cured. Nothing so quick, so sure, so pleasant as Catarrhose. Beware of dangerous substitutes meant to deceive you for genuine Catarrhose. All dealers sell Catarrhose, large size which lasts two months, price $1.00; small size 50c; sample size 25c.

RECIPES.

PEANUT TAFFY.

Place in a saucepan two cupfuls of light brown sugar, half a cupful of New Orleans molasses, half a cupful of water and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Boil to the hard ball stage, 250 degrees, remove from the fire and add one teaspoonful of vanilla extract and one cupful of chopped peanuts. Pour out on a greased platter, and when cool enough pull as for molasses kisses.

SQUASH PIE.

One quart of sifted squash, one and a half cupfuls of sugar, add a little ginger and salt, four eggs to one quart of milk, and a whole nutmeg.

PLAIN PLUM PUDDING.

Three teacupfuls of flour, one of molasses, one of chopped suet, one of raisins, and a little salt, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one of cinnamon, one nutmeg and one of cloves. Boil or steam three or four hours. Excellent.

BIRDS' NEST PUDDING.

Peel and core as many apples as will stand in a dish, and fill the holes with sugar. Make a custard of a quart of milk, four eggs and a quarter of a pound of sugar. Pour it over the apples, grate a nutmeg over the top and bake one hour.

HOW TO COOK ARTICHOKE.

Artichokes are an acquired taste, but they find favor with all treated this way: Prepare the artichokes as for boiling, but select the biggest you can find. Simmer first for fifteen minutes, then drain and leave to cool. When required for table, dip in a batter and fry a golden brown.

FOR THE CHILDREN'S DINNER.

Nourishing vegetable balls for the children's dinner need an egg to make the dish really good. Boil some rice until tender, and chop up with any kind of freshly-cooked vegetables. Season slightly, bind with a well-beaten egg, and fry in boiling fat.

A Household Medicine—They that are acquainted with the sterling properties of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil in the treatment of many ailments would not be without it in the house. It is truly a household medicine and as it is effective in dealing with many ordinary complaints it is cheaper than a doctor. So, keep it at hand, as the call for it may come most unexpectedly.

Story of Pte. Kinross, V.C.

GERMAN machine guns have given Canada a large number of V.C.'s. One of these was Pte. Cecil John Kinross, who returned to his home in Loughheed, Alta., the first week of January, after three years in the army. His memorable attack on a troublesome machine gun in the enemy trenches was made at the battle of Passchendaele, Oct. 30, 1917.

The attack on Passchendaele by the Canadians, in which Pte. Kinross displayed the fearlessness and skill which won him the highest honor in the gift of the British Empire to her soldiers, lasted from the night of Oct. 28-29 until the night of Nov. 1, 1917. The attack was successful, as history knows, and Passchendaele Ridge was occupied by the British at the end of the engagement, but history cannot estimate how much of that victory was due to such acts of individual courage as won Cecil Kinross the V.C.

The struggle was severe. The Canadian line was withering under terrific fire. One of the sources of this punishment of the line was a machine gun which was pouring its deadly hail into the trenches of the Canadians. Pte. Kinross was seen to make a careful survey of the ground intervening between the Canadian line and the German line. It was broad daylight. Deliberately divesting himself of all his equipment, except his bandolier, the belt that carried his ammunition, and his rifle, he went over the top alone.

He advanced steadily, under direct fire, towards the enemy line, and single-handedly charged the machine gun. He killed the crew of six and put the gun out of commission. Fired by the example of their comrade the other men of his company made a rush and advanced 300 yards and established a highly important position. He was seriously wounded in the head and arm later the same day. It was not until two months later, while convalescing in Orpington Hospital, England, that he heard that he had been given the Victoria Cross for his work that day in October. He was the most surprised man in his company.

Pte. Kinross is the only son of James Sterling Kinross, J.P., Loughheed, Alta. Before enlisting he worked on his father's farm. He joined the 51st Battalion in October, 1915, at Edmonton. By volunteering to go over with a special draft he got to England the following December, spending Christmas Day at sea. In England he was sent to Shorncliffe, where he was in training until March. He was soon in action in the third battle of Ypres. In June he moved to the Somme, where he was wounded, but was back in the trenches in about a month. From that until Passchendaele he was in the battle line continuously, with the exception of ten days' leave in England, just before the big engagement in which he won the V.C.

The Kinross family came from England to live in Canada in 1911. They settled on a farm near Loughheed. Cecil Kinross was born in Uxbridge, Middlesex, England, about ten miles from London. When he was nine years old his parents moved to Hollies Farm, Lea Marston, near Birmingham. Six years later they came to Canada. One sister is now a nurse in Edmonton. The younger sister took her brother's place on the farm during his absence overseas as so many girls have done in England. Two cousins who had come to Canada the same time as the Kinross family, joined the army early in the war. One of them, D. A. Kyle, was a trapper in the Peace River district when war was declared and walked 200 miles to enlist. The other was James Miller. Both have won the Military Medal. Every relative of the V.C., of military age, was in the army.

Cecil John Kinross started school when he was about six years old. He went to a boarding school near his home, Dewes Farm, Uxbridge. A cheering bit of information for boys of that age now will be the fact that the future V.C. was frequently minus dessert, Sundays, for wriggling in church, while he was in attendance at this school. He did not attend that school very long. When his parents moved north Cecil John went to Lea Marston public school, and later to Coleshill Grammar School.

Last spring, obtaining leave from hospital after his wounds were beginning to mend, Pte. Kinross, V.C., visited his old home. Hearing of his coming the town arranged a public reception for him. He was met at the railway station by prominent citizens, carried shoulder high to a waiting motor and driven around the surrounding parishes. The procession was headed by a band and a large number of the boys from Lea Marston and Coleshill schools. The parade ended up at the school, where speeches were made and a presentation made to the boy who had brought distinction to the school.

In the three years that Pte. Kinross was in the army he was engaged at various forms of military duty, always with that tincture of danger that made the life attractive to him. But of all the phases of work he was happiest when he was just an ordinary "Tommy," and with that curious mixture of refinement and keen and fearless daring, which is found so often in the English make-up, he could say, "This is the life for me."—Carolyn Cornell.

Beaverbrook and Nebuchadnezzar.

Lord Beaverbrook has been troubled with his throat for a long time, but is now making satisfactory progress toward recovery. A recent despatch represents it as a distemper, which may have been caused originally "by putting a few blades of grass in the mouth when walking in the fields."

This reminds us that there was once a prize poem competition at Oxford, for which one of the aspirants chose "Nebuchadnezzar" as his subject, and he wrote that the monarch, when turned out to grass,

"Exclaimed as he ate the unwonted foods,
It may be wholesome, but it isn't good."

But Beaverbrook is neither Thames nor Cherwell, and so far as Oxford is concerned he can prove an alibi.

Shorthorns Took First.

In the block test at the last fat stock show, held at Buenos Aires by the Rural Society of Argentina, animals of the Shorthorn breed were first and third in a class of 13, while second and third places were taken by an Angus cross and a pure-bred Angus respectively.

War Museums Proposed.

The Antiquarian and Numismatic Society of Montreal, an old organization located in the historic Chateau de Ramezay and in possession of a valuable collection of historical relics, advocates the establishment of a chain of war museums in the leading cities throughout Canada. The matter was brought up by the president of the society, Mr. W. D. Lighthall, K.C., at the annual meeting, in which connection Mr. Lighthall said: "One of our duties is to record the deeds of our men by a collection of war records, pictures and portraits, of library material and of war relics." The proposal met with unanimous approval and a committee was appointed to take the matter up with the Dominion Government.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson VII. May 18, 1919.
 The Grace of God.
 Print Eph. 2: 4-10; Titus 2: 11-14.

Commentary.—I. Sufficient of divine grace (Gen. 6: 8; Exod. 34: 6, 7; 2 Cor. 12: 9). Gen. 6: 8. The results of man's fall were most distressing. In the immediate family of Adam and Eve there was a murderer, and as the population increased, wickedness increased. God was grieved at the corruption of the heart, and he determined to destroy man and beast, creeping thing and fowl from the earth. In this corrupt age, however, there was one man whose attitude toward God was such that he found grace in his eyes. He had the favor of God and was spared with his family when the flood came upon the earth. Exod. 34: 6, 7. God proclaimed himself to Moses, after the sin of the Israelites in worshipping the golden calf, as "the Lord God, merciful and gracious, longsuffering, and abundant in goodness and truth, keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, and that will by no means clear the guilty." While he would be merciful and compassionate, he would visit the effects of sin upon succeeding generations of men. 2 Cor. 12: 9. The grace of God is not only of inestimable excellence, but it is also abundant. Paul earnestly desired to be freed from a thorn in the flesh. Three times he asked the Lord to take it away from him. His prayer was answered, but not in the way he expected; for while the thorn was not removed, there was given him the assurance that God's grace was sufficient for him.

II. Grace to save (Eph. 2: 4-10). 4. Rich in mercy.—The mercy of God is abundant. His love, as manifested in mercy, has gone out toward his creatures to the extent that he has fully provided for the salvation of the world, and all who will may receive the grace that saves from sin. "Paul likes to associate the word 'rich' with spiritual ideas, as if he would hammer in the great truth that the real wealth is of the soul."—Pelodbet. He speaks of the "riches of his grace" and the "riches of the glory of his inheritance." His great love—He loved the world so much that he gave his Son to redeem it. 5. When we were dead in sins—Man's condition in the loss of the divine image was most unattractive. He was dead to the claims of God and unresponsive to his call.

Hamilton Veteran Tells His Friends

That Dodd's Kidney Pills Are the Remedy for Kidney Ills.

Mr. S. Hodges, Seventy Years Old, But Still Young, Tells Why He Knows Dodd's Kidney Pills Are Good.
 Hamilton, Ont., May 12.—(Special)—Convinced that Dodd's Kidney Pills are a sovereign remedy for kidney ill, Mr. S. Hodges, who lives at 68 Ontario Ave., this city, is recommending them to all his friends.
 "I suffered from kidney disease for about four months," Mr. Hodges says. "It started from a cold, but I rapidly got worse, and cramps in the muscles, headache, heart flutterings and rheumatism were soon added to my troubles."
 "My appetite was fitful and I felt heavy and sleepy after meals. I was very irritable and I perspired from the least exertion. I was often dizzy; I suffered from shortness of breath and it was difficult to collect my thoughts."
 "Mr. Hodges, who is a painter by trade, and seventy years of age, shows the benefit he got from using Dodd's Kidney Pills. He only took two boxes, but with such good results that he can recommend them to all his neighbors about Dodd's Kidney Pills."

He had become spiritually dead, but even then the grace of God was marvelously exercised toward him. Hath quickened us together with Christ—As Christ was raised from death to life by the power of God, so that power has raised the sinner from a state of spiritual death to one of spiritual life. By grace ye are saved—No Christian has been saved by his own unaided efforts nor by any purely human means. The grace of God has completed the atonement and applied its benefits to the earnest seeker of salvation. 6. Sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus—The children of God enjoy companionship with Jesus Christ. Before the grace of God wrought a transformation in them, they "walked according to the course of this world" (v. 3), but now they enjoy the things of the new life. 7. The ages to come—This expression includes all future time on earth and in heaven.

8.—by grace are ye saved through faith—Grace is a comprehensive term. Grace brought to completion the plan of redemption. Grace convicts the sinner of his guilt, and draws him toward the cross of Christ. Grace saves the repenting, believing soul. While the grace of God accomplishes all this, the act of faith on man's part must not be overlooked. He must believe to the saving of his soul. By repentance and faith he puts himself in that attitude where God's grace can save him, that not of ourselves; it is the gift of God—The salvation that has come to those to whom the apostle was writing was not accomplished by themselves; it was God's gift. There is an important sense in which faith is the gift of God. God gives us the power or ability to believe. The act of believing, however, is our own. 9. not by works—No one can save himself by his good works. God's grace is the saving power and becomes operative as the repentant soul fully believes. If man could be saved through his own efforts, he would be inclined to boast, but as it is, all ground for boasting is swept away. 10. his workmanship—God has wrought the transformation himself. He made our bodies, minds and souls, and he "created us in Christ Jesus unto good works." Good works have not saved us, but when we are saved through the workmanship of God, good works are naturally produced, before ordained—"Afore prepared."—R. V.

III. Grace to purify and preserve (Titus 2: 11-14). 11. The grace of God—Paul never tires of explaining and magnifying the grace of God. In this passage grace is mentioned as teaching, or giving instruction. It shows the way to the noblest things on earth and to the bliss of points due to them. Hath appeared, bringing salvation to all men (R. V.).—This grace appeared in its fullness when the work of redemption was completed. The incarnation, the earthly ministry, the suffering and death, the resurrection, the ascension and the intercession of Jesus fill out the provision for man's salvation, and this grace has brought salvation within the reach of all. Only those who neglect or refuse the salvation which has been provided will be lost. 12. teaching us—Jesus fulfilled a marvelous earthly mission in teaching the truths of the gospel. The Holy Spirit is continuing this work, while God's word and the conscience are engaged in making plain the way we should go. It is only through the grace of God that man is shown "the path of life," denying ungodliness—We are called upon to refuse or turn away from whatever is opposed to God. Grace points out a way of separation from sin, worldly lusts—Such desires, affections and affection in this life, and live without God in the world.—Clarke. The "immoderate love of riches, power and fame" is forbidden in this present world—We are to live now the kind of life set forth in this verse.

13. Looking for that blessed hope—The Christian has something inviting to which he looks forward. He has his heart set upon eternal life, and he confidently expects to realize his blessedness. The glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour—The scriptures speak frequently and clearly of the coming again to earth of our Lord, and his appearing will be glorious, for he will be attended by a heavenly company and there will be a glorious resurrection of the saints. They who are then alive shall be caught up to meet the Lord in the air, and there will be an eternity of blessedness for all the redeemed ones. The Christian awaits his appearing with joyful anticipation. 14. Who gave himself for us—The Father gave his Son and the Son freely gave himself. Redeem us from all iniquity—Jesus died to procure for us salvation from all unrighteousness. We are to be "made free from sin." Purify unto himself a peculiar people—The grace of God has provided for the purification, or cleansing, of the heart from all sin (1 John 1: 7).

does the grace of God include? What has been provided for man through the grace of God? How may man have restored to him the divine image? What does the grace of God teach us about our conduct? What is the Bible standard of character for the Christian?
PRACTICAL SURVEY.
 Topic—The grace of God the source and pledge of our salvation.
 I. The grace of God.
 II. Its power and promise.
 I. The grace of God—Grace has both a secular and sacred significance. In the latter it means God's gracious disposition toward those who have forfeited their claim thereto. He proclaimed himself to Moses as "the Lord God, merciful and gracious, longsuffering, and abundant in goodness and truth . . . forgiving iniquity," and least there should be presumption, "that will by no means clear the guilty." This is the full fountain from which flow all remedial provisions and regenerative agencies. The atonement does not originate grace, but expresses it and conveys it (John 3: 16). Its first expression is in the Edenic promise fulfilled four thousand years later, but potential from the moment of its proclamation. Grace signifies further the provision through which its beneficent purposes are made possible. Contrasted with the "fiery law" that went forth from "his right hand," John tells us that "the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ." He was the manifestation both of the grace and the glory of God, "the express image of his person," and "full of grace and truth." The "eternal purpose" commenced its visible outworking in the call of Abraham; and was consummated at Calvary on the cross in Christ. The apostle leads us to the shore of an infinite deep: "Ye know the grace of our Lord Christ . . . though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor" (2 Cor. 8: 9). Grace also includes the divine influence of the Spirit, acting within the nature of men to regenerate, sanctify and keep. It transformed Saul the persecutor into Paul the great apostle.

II. Its power and promise. Grace is at once the source and means of salvation. The provisions are universal and effectual. "The grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men" (Titus 2: 11). There is no form of bondage to evil from which grace cannot effect complete deliverance, and no peculiarity of temperament or circumstances for which it is not sufficient. By the presence of our priestly intercessor the throne of justice is transformed into the "throne of grace," to which we are bidden to "come boldly." Grace is a growing, expansive force. Christians are compared to fruitful trees (Phil. 1: 11; John 15: 5). Progress is the law of life. Only living things grow, and all living things do grow. There may be moment without progress; and men may be like the mill-wheel which turns, but stays in one place. No man is born into the full Christian life any more than he is born to manhood on coming into the world. No one grows who does not mean to grow. Great progress grows out of a great purpose. "One thing I do." To grow in one grace is to grow in all graces. They are not isolated productions. Grace is the pledge of full and final salvation. It is glory begun, as glory is grace perfected. At Athens there was a temple of virtue and a temple of honor. The latter could be entered only through the former. We reach the kingdom of glory only through the kingdom of grace. Moral fitness is the passport.

Cause of Early Old Age
 The celebrated Dr. Michahoff, an authority on early old age, says that it is "caused by poisons generated in the intestine." When your stomach digests food properly it is absorbed without forming poisonous matter. Poisons bring on early old age and premature death. 15 to 30 drops of "Edg's Byp" after meals makes your digestion sound.

Keep Mind On Work.
 One must make up one's mind to forego the casual word which leads to idly conversation, the most deadly of time destroyers. One must fix the mind on the work in hand, seek to forget that there is anyone else in the world, or any other task that must be done. And only practice can make this possible. But, once gained, concentration will be found to be the most valuable asset that any young woman can possibly bring to any kind of work to which she sets her hand and mind.

Deposit of Mineral Salts.
 Experts employed in the department of biological studies of Mexico have reported that after careful investigation of the lands reclaimed by the drainage of Lake Texcoco, in the vicinity of Mexico City, there have been rendered available some 30,000,000 tons of mineral salts, including common salt, caustic soda, bicarbonate of soda, etc., for all of which there is a large demand in the republic in various industries.

FLYING SALT-CELLARS.

Other Weird Suggestions to Help Harness Nature.
 The Australian Government is seriously considering the suggestion made to them to cause rain, and so overcome the drought difficulty, by sending airplanes up above visible clouds which refuse to liquefy and come down in drops, and to scatter salt on their "silver linings."
 It is claimed that this salt seasoning will produce a rainy season by liquefying the clouds. But not only would thousands of airplanes be required, but each one would need to be provided with a very large salt-cellar!

It has often been suggested that we should get rid of the smoke nuisance, the trouble of fire-fighting and stoking, by turning on the interior fires of the earth. Crazy as the project sounds, it has been handled very seriously.
 The scheme proposes to tap this inner heat where it approaches nearest to the surface. Volcanic regions would be dibbled with huge boilers sunk to the level of the red-hot rock. The difference in the weights of hot and cold water would make the eyes-tem self-acting.
 All civilization would be piped, and civilization thus kept warm in winter. One small experimental boiler is to be seen to-day at the base of Vesuvius.

Methods of securing buildings against earthquake shock have often been suggested. Some method of suspension from above is the commonest, but the trouble has always been—that to hitch on to!
 Someone wrote to the papers last winter seriously suggesting the adoption of some method of camouflaging the moon as a preventive of moonlight raids. Artificial clouds, they thought, might be produced by which a clear night might be turned into a cloudy one.

 A pet suggestion used to be the flooding of the Sahara Desert by the letting in of the waters of the Mediterranean. Those who wrote to the papers about it seemed to think that a canal similar to the Suez would do the trick, and that the waters of the ocean would calmly flow through and convert a desert into a navigable sea. It was discussed quite seriously.
 Bridging the Atlantic, too, has been discussed scientifically, in spite of the fact that the shortest bridge would be 2,000 miles long. However, now that there is a real prospect of the fulfillment of what would once have seemed the most outlandish suggestion possible—actual flight across the Atlantic—probably the bridge will not be heard of again.
 But it is well not to throw too much cold water on a scheme, however apparently idiotic, for with wireless and human flight, and a hundred other marvels of science, "one never can tell."

It isn't nice to interrupt a person in the middle of a sentence, but any sentenced prisoner may get something off for good behavior.

"I like you," she said, "and Jack's a very pretty name, indeed. Oh, dear, what is that? What a beautiful horse, and what a grand man!"

And with childish delight she pointed to Jack's turnout which was packing up and down the street.

"Why it's yours!" she said. "I can see it is by the look of your mouth. Oh, you sly thing—what a beauty! Oh, it must be very nice to have a live horse like that, with such a beautiful tail."

He laughed.

"I'll remember the tail if I want to sell him," he said, and that set her off into a thin silvery laughter, which floated like a cloud around the room and chimed in well with Jack's.

Before the concert had finished the door opened, and Mary blushing with health's beauty, ran in.

She stopped short, and looked confused at the sight of Jack, and his burden did not lessen his momentary embarrassment.

"Why, Mary," she cried, "what a time you have been! I shall dismiss you. I've got another donkey now—a stronger one."

And she laughed with loving malice.

Jack set her down on the chair and took Mary's hand.

"I fear you will think me an intruder—"

"You said that before!" was Pattie's inaudible comment.

"But I am anxious to see Mr. Montague and waited rather than go away without doing so."

"My father will be here shortly," said Mary, removing her bonnet and smoothing her bright brown hair. "We have been to the rehearsal and walked in the park for a while afterward. I am so sorry you have been kept waiting."

"And I'm not," said Pattie, decisively. "For he's been very amusing."

Mary glanced at the little figure and then up at Jack's face deprecatingly, but Jack reassured her with a smile.

"Your Pattie and I are the best of friends," he said. "She has consented to acknowledge me as a new slave, and I to regard her as my special tyrant."

"Very fine," said Pattie. "Will you not sit down?" said Mary, and she touched Jack's chair.

He sat down, and Pattie looked from one to the other with infinite enjoyment.

Jack never could tell what they talked about, although he often tried to go over it again in after years; he only knew that they did talk, all three of them first until Pattie fell gently asleep, and then Mary and he alone.

They talked more with their eyes perhaps, but anyway their hearts beat in unison, and the time flew by on the wings of a dove, and the dream was suddenly interrupted by the entrance of Mr. Montague.

He seemed distressed and agitated at finding Jack there, seated so comfortably and amicably by his children, but Jack's respectful, high-bred cordiality disarmed him.

Stopping to kiss his little elf, he turned his tired and still aristocratic face to the handsome young one of his visitor and prepared to listen.

Jack commenced rather nervously, and, perhaps to help him, Mary arose gently and placed some wine on the table.

Mr. Montague, reminded by this quiet act of the duties of hospitality, arose and poured him out a glass, then with another in his hand re-seated himself.

Jack felt that he must make a bold plunge, and commenced by saying that it was not fair to hide Mr. Montague's light beneath the bushel of an east-end theatre.

The pirate smiled slightly.

Jack warmed to his theme, and at last said:

"Well, sir, if you will accept of an engagement with the manager of the Theatre to perform at that theatre I am here commissioned by him to offer it to you."

The glass fell from Mr. Montague's hand with a crash, and he turned deadly pale.

Jack arose with alarm, that was considerably heightened by Mr. Montague covering his face with his hands and groaning, by Mary throwing herself upon her knees, and imploring him to tell her what was the matter, and by Pattie waking suddenly with a cry of alarm.

"For Heaven's sake!" said Jack, in the deepest distress, "what is the matter? Have I offended you? Have I—"

"No, no, no!" said Mr. Montague. "You are only too good. An engagement at the Theatre, it is my highest ambition. But—but—oh! unfortunate man. I have not an hour since signed a three years' engagement with the Signet for both Mary and myself!"

Jack was dumfounded. Here was an obstacle he had not foreseen.

"Three years!" he exclaimed.

"Ay, three years!" said the pirate, staring at the fire sadly. "It is my luck all over again. I have been an unfortunate man. You see in me one who was born to better things. I have lived in better days; little did I—could I think that I should receive a gentleman at such a place as this; and now, now fortune has smiled, it is too late, too late!"

"But," said Jack, gathering his wits together, "something can be done, surely. There must be some forfeiture to the deed."

"Yes, two hundred pounds!" said Mr. Montague, bitterly.

"You will not refuse to take it as a debt."

Before they could stop him he strode to the table and, dragging the inkstand toward him—for the other two seemed determined not to help him—he drew a cheque for two hundred pounds.

"There," said he, with respect, "you will honor me? Do not fear. I'm Shylock, I shall demand repayment. And now I must go. Miss Pattie will have grown tired of me by this time," and he leaned over her with his frank true smile.

She put up one of her tiny hands, and drew his face down a little lower, then kissed him.

"Good-bye," she said. "Jack's the prettiest name in the world!"

With that child-angel's kiss upon his cheeks the man of fortune and fashion stood outside, his face turned toward the sky, his hat still in his hand and the peaceful purity of a Sabbath upon his heart.

CHAPTER VIII
Jack believed in the goodness, virtue and the gentleness of women to a Quixotic extent.

He believed in his cousin, Lady Maud, as the queen of womankind (next to a fairy before mentioned), and it was only natural that he should desire to take her into his confidence.

He wanted to tell her of his difficulty, to enlist her sympathies for Gentle Mary, to bring Mary herself to her, and watch while the queenly Lady Maud folded her to her bosom and vowed to love her.

Poor Jack! if he could only have gone to the grave with such Arcadian simplicity!

"I know she'll love her; Maud has such a tender heart herself, she will like Mary just for my sake, then love her for her own. Hang me, if I don't go straight on and tell her all!"

"Where to?" said the groom, plaintively, as he stood at the horses' head.

"Oh! ay! oh!" said Jack, self-reproachfully, "you haven't had any dinner yet, have you, Tom? Well, drive home first. There, run and get yourself a glass of ginger brandy and I'll keep him walking till you catch me up."

The man touched his hat gratefully, and went for the cordial, telling the people at the bar, with allowable pride, what a good-hearted gov'nor he'd got.

So Jack drove home and pretended to eat a hearty meal, but he was too anxious to reach the villa to do much more than chase the piece of pigeon around his plate and sip the amontillado.

Then he set out to walk, and reached the villa five minutes after Beaumont had left it.

Lady Maud was in the drawing-room, comfortable and charming as ever. There was a slight flush in her eyes that had Jack been a keener reader of woman's looks, he would have known meant danger; but, filled with his own happiness, he took these as signs of hers, and wrung her lily-white hand in his great strong one with a heartiness that told her everything.

"He has just come from her! I know it," she thought. "I can see it in his face. Oh, blind idiot! He has come fresh from her and looks thus?"

Then aloud:

"And so you have come to pity my loneliness. Aunt is asleep in her boudoir. Shall I call her?"

"Not just yet," said Jack, seating himself before the fire and looking around the splendid room with a smile, as he contrasted it with the simple comfort of the one he had visited in the morning. "Not just yet. We will sit tete-a-tete for a while, sweet cousin. And what have you been doing—reading or spider-walking?"

"What is that?" she said, seating herself opposite him and thinking over her plan while she turned the glory of her fine eyes with an open kindness upon him.

"Crochet," he said. "I do hate know that—that she is what you describe her?"

"How can she be anything else?" asked her ladyship, with serene scorn. "An actress at a low theatre! Oh! Jack, can there be anything more degrading?"

"Yes, a thousand things," said Jack, hotly, and would have added—only that the creature sitting opposite him was a leopardess and not a leopard—the mind that has no charity," but he stopped short and Lady Maud ran on:

"It seems," said she, "that he has been to a place called the Swan—no, the Signet—at the East-end of the town and seen her there."

Jack uttered an exclamation, and Lady Maud stopped.

"What is the matter?" said she. "Nothing," he said, rather hoarsely. "Go on."

"She is a fairy or a nymph, or something else equally disgraceful with a pretty face perhaps and a cunning tongue. Still, I cannot understand a man of intellect like Beaumont being deceived. However she came to cast a glamour over his eyes I cannot conceive."

"What is her name?" asked Jack, brokenly.

"I do not know," said Lady Maud. "Of course Mr. Beaumont did not tell me all this, but I am quick and read it."

"How?" asked Jack.

"The other day he mentioned the place, the Signet. I fancied there was something embarrassing about his tone of voice and asked him some questions. He confessed then that there were some pretty girls there, that he had—oh! Jack, I cannot go on with the absurdity. I am ashamed of him."

Jack sat silent, his heart beating fast.

What was this actress? Could it be Mary?

The green-eyed monster leaped-up in to his heart and turned the room spin-

these antimacassars. William, my man, will put them about my horse; his sister or his sweetheart makes them, I suppose, and he's bound to do something with them—and I get entangled in them; stuff them into my pocket for my handkerchief, and find them around my neck or over my head like a veil if I take a nap in any of the chairs."

"A martyr!" said Lady Maud. "No, I have had a visitor—Mr. Beaumont."

"Ah!" said Jack, and there came back to him the confession he was to make. "I saw Beaumont this morning."

"Did you?" said Lady Maud, innocently. "Well, he is a great friend of yours, is he not?"

"Yes," said Jack, heartily, "a great friend."

"I am almost sorry for it," said Lady Maud, commencing her battle by placing the artillery in position.

"Why?" said Jack.

"Because he is likely to give you some pain; he is making a very stupid blunder, Jack."

"Is he?" asked Jack. "I'm very sorry for that. What is it?"

"He is falling in love, or pretending to think he is, with an improper person."

"The deuce!" said Jack, innocently. "I shouldn't have thought it of Beaumont."

"Ah!" said Lady Maud, "I like him, don't you? He is so clever, and such good form."

"Yes," said Jack, not a bit jealous, "he is the best and cleverest fellow going. But what has he done, Maud?"

"Fallen in love with an actress!"

Jack started and stroked his mustache.

"A second-rate actress at some low theatre. At the East-end of London."

Jack started.

"What?" he said.

Lady Maud repeated her announcement with well-bred horror.

"Is it not shocking, so clever and handsome as he is, to throw himself on such a creature?"

"Creature!" repeated Jack, all in a maze and actually beginning to tremble. "Softly, Maud. How do you know that—that she is what you describe her?"

"How can she be anything else?" asked her ladyship, with serene scorn. "An actress at a low theatre! Oh! Jack, can there be anything more degrading?"

"Yes, a thousand things," said Jack, hotly, and would have added—only that the creature sitting opposite him was a leopardess and not a leopard—the mind that has no charity," but he stopped short and Lady Maud ran on:

Jack sat silent, his heart beating fast.

What was this actress? Could it be Mary?

The green-eyed monster leaped-up in to his heart and turned the room spinning. Lady Maud's next words aroused him.

"He is an old friend of aunt's," she said, sadly, "and, Jack, help me to save him from this, I have such a regard for him."

"What would you do?" he asked.

"I don't know," she pondered, looking at the fire and rejoicing at the way in which her scheme was progressing. "I cannot tell until I see her. And to do that I must go to the theatre."

Jack was nearly bursting out again at the shudder of horror that accompanied these words.

"You must?" he said, sternly.

"I must?" she repeated, "and, Jack, I think I should not mind going so much if I went alone with you."

"With me?" he said in a low voice.

"Yes," she said. "Will you take me?"

He nodded.

"Then the sooner the better, she said. 'Will you take me to-night?'"

"Yes," he said; "but of what use will it be if you do not know which—"

"Leave that to me," she said, with a smile of wisdom. "I shall discover the principal thing is to see her."

"I will take you to-night," said Jack, rising and buttoning his coat. "No, I won't stay, thank you. Give my love to aunt. I shall be here at six."

And with averted gaze he shook hands and departed.

At six o'clock the brougham was at the door, and a minute or two afterward Jack in full evening dress stood beside it.

"Send word to your mistress that I am here," he said to the servant, "and that my shoes are too snowy to come in."

By that means he avoided Lady Maud's quick eyes and could keep his stern, grim face out of her sight for a little longer.

In a few minutes her ladyship appeared, beautiful as a passion flower, majestic as a queen.

She wore an evening dress, plain, but deep-hued, and of the richest material.

As he looked at her from his place beside the open carriage, he thought of the Queen or Sheba and groaned.

The journey—voyage, Lady Maud called it—was gone through almost in silence. When the carriage pulled up at the Signet her wonder was great.

"What a strange place, how brilliantly lighted! But, Jack, look there! What a horrid face!" and she gave vent to a long-drawn shudder.

"Come," said Jack, rather impatiently. "String your nerves, Maud. There are some more unwashed faces inside."

For Colds, Catarrh or Influenza.

Do you feel weak and unequal to the work ahead of you? Do you still cough a little, or does your nose bother you? Are you pale? Is your blood thin, watery? Better put your body into shape. Build strong!

An old, reliable blood-maker and herbal tonic made from wild roots and barks, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This "nature remedy" comes in tablet or liquid form. It will build up your body, cure your cold, and protect you from disease germs which lurk everywhere. One of the active ingredients of this temperance alternative and tonic is wild cherry bark with stillingia, which is so good for the lungs and for coughs; also Oregon grape root, blood root, stone root, Queen's root, — all skillfully combined in the Medical Discovery. These roots have a direct action on the stomach, improving digestion and assimilation. These herbal extracts in the "Discovery" aid in blood-making, and are best for scrofula. By improving the blood they aid in throwing off an attack of influenza.

Catarrh should be treated, first, as a blood disease, with this alternative. Then, in addition, the nose should be washed daily with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Send 10c for trial pkg. of Medical Discovery Tablets or Catarrh Tablets to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.
