Editor of the Weekly Mail.—I have picked up some notes on the Royal Farm, Windsor Castle, which I will devote to the paper.

At present I propose to give you a few notes on my visit to the Royal Farm, Windsor Castle, which I will devote to the paper.

On leaving Paris for London Mr. Owen, Secretary of the Royal Commission, who has shown every kindness to the Canadian Commissioners, and who is now in the midst of visiting the Royal Farm, forwarded letters of introduction through Dr. Owen to Mr. Thomas Biddell, K. C. E., and Mr. William Seabrook, Inspector of the castle.

The first named gentleman is a very capable English gentleman. I was accompanied by him to the farm, and he was most kind to me in every respect.

THE GRASSES

The number of grasses which are highly esteemed in this country, for meadows and pastures, is very few.

With many farmers, timothy, red-top, or June grass, constitute the entire catalogue.

There are many hundred known species, some of which, if they could be subjected to proper cultivation, would doubtless prove valuable.

And the enterprising cultivator, who, by undertaking the task, should introduce, out of the great multitude, but one or two valuable species, would richly deserve the thanks of the whole country.

The object of this article is to point out those of the most valuable kinds, and, carefully observed, with a little additional description, will enable the reader to recognize them at once.

There are a few general terms that every one should understand. For example, the head of wheat, barley, rye, or timothy grass, growing in an oblong, compressed form, is termed a spike.

The spikelets are the small spikes on the panicles, often consisting of several seeds and awns, and are called spikelets.

When the spikelets are about an inch long, and often have a downy seed, or in the June grass, where they are about the length of an inch long, and contain five or six seeds.

A spike, as in timothy grass, is also composed of several spikelets, but they are less distinct or more crowded together.

FOOT-ROT IN COWS AND SHEEP
