

IMPERIAL ASPECT WAS GREAT FEATURE OF THE CORONATION

Events of the Day Were Marked by Splendor Unsurpassed in Previous Ceremonies 'No Hitch in the Day's Events at Westminster Abbey—Every Village in the Land Gave Evidence of Devotion and Loyalty to the Throne—Weather less Favorable Than Expected but Cold Day Lessened the Number of Cases of Illness.

London, June 22—On this day of the crowning of George V., King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the Dominions beyond the seas nothing has been wanting to make the solemn and impressive ceremony one long to be remembered, not only throughout the country but in every corner of the great empire.

Never before in history has the imperial note been struck in such a magnificent manner. Its imperial aspect undoubtedly has been the most remarkable feature of coronation.

George V., more than any sovereign of the past, represents the embodiment of the imperial idea. He only, of all his predecessors on the throne, travelled through his vast dominions and thus acquainted himself at first hand with the needs and aspirations of all the various people of his empire.

Then, by happy coincidence, the imperial conference sitting at the time of the coronation enabled all the representatives of the King's overseas domains to participate in the significant ceremonies at the opening of the new reign, which if the hopes of those attending the conference bear fruit, will bring all parts of the empire into closer and more intimate relations.

The great state pageant was carried through with dignity and impressiveness and made a deep impression upon all those privileged to witness it, and it was accompanied by an outburst of loyalty throughout the kingdom that might appear surprising at a period in the world's history when thrones no longer appear to be established on the surest foundations.

The remotest suburbs of the great city and every village in the land tonight gave evidence of devotion and loyalty to the throne. Not the humblest cottage but displayed a flag or illuminated device, portrait of the King and Queen and a loyal motto. The stirring events of the day were carried through without hitch or serious accident of any kind.

The weather was less favorable than had been hoped for, but even that had its compensating advantages since there was practically no need of the services of ambulances for cases of fainting, etc., which are generally frequent on such occasions. On the other hand the rain was not sufficient to detract seriously from the splendor of the pageant.

The attendance of the general public in the streets while large did not approach that at King Edward's coronation. This probably was due to fears engendered by the unusually severe police regulations and the barricades erected to protect the line of the procession route which under the circumstances, therefore proved to be useless. Gloomy prognostic with smoothness and in perfect order which excited universal admiration.

London, June 22.—Perhaps never in history, certainly never in the experience of any person whose senses it has been an historic witness to so magnificent as the ancient abbey of Westminster presented, when George V. and Queen Mary were seated in state upon their thrones. All who attended the crowning of Edward VII. agreed that to-day's ceremony surpassed that spectacle every circumstance—regal state—setting of solemn ritual, imposing music, the host of royal and eminent personages, the wonderful display of rich uniforms, bright bows, marvelous jewels, which combined to create an impression of awe and admiration.

Their majesties with gleaming crowns on their heads and gorgeous robes outspread behind them, the great Culloden diamond flashing from the imperial crown, all the nobles of throne in quaint costumes of ancient times with a few modern uniforms, the four peeresses attending the Queen in shimmering gowns, pages in light blue and white gowns behind them, an array of church dignitaries robed in scarlet and gold formed the centre of the picture.

The Prince of Wales Below the King and Queen were the young Prince of Wales, almost smothered in the dark blue robes of the order of the garter, with the peers, a crimson mantle around his shoulders and the Duke of Connaught in the uniform of a field marshal. Yeomen of the Guard with halberds lined the aisles throughout the space of the abbey, and in the great boxes rising high against the walls an illing the transepts and galleries were 7,000 spectators forming blocks of quivering variegated colors. In one group were the future rulers of most of the kingdoms of Europe with their aces. In another were the diplomatic corps, competing with the royalties in the splendor of their uniforms and decorations. Two blocks facing across the nave were composed of peers and peeresses wearing red robes and ermine capes, holding in their laps their coronets until the King should be crowned.

CORONATION DAY IN LONDON, HOUR BY HOUR London, June 22—Following was the coronation program in London hour by hour. 4.30 a.m. royal salutes from heavy artillery at the tower and Hyde Park; 5.50 a.m., police began to close streets in preparation for the procession; 6.30 a.m., entrance into Westminster Abbey opened; 10.30 a.m., royal procession started from Buckingham Palace; 11.15 a.m., coronation ceremony within abbey began; 1.40 p.m., departure of King George and Queen Mary, crowned, from the abbey for Buckingham Palace; 2.50 p.m., royal party arrived in palace; 7.30 p.m., night fireworks display begins.

Some Came Down River A large contingent of peers and peeresses came down the river by steamers in a larger number made their way on foot, the peers with their coronets on their hands and their robes in many cases dragging in the mud. As the morning drew, occasional heavy showers sweeping into the stands drove the people to their seats, but only temporarily. At last the guests have arrived, the troops were drawn up and the Duke of Norfolk, the commanding general and the chief of police before 9.30 o'clock. There was a shout of greeting which was continued till they were lost to view and then repeated as King George and Queen Mary were recognized.

No End of Enthusiasm. There seemed no end to the enthusiasm of Londoners. They hardly had time to get their suppers between the conclusion of the procession and the National Anthem. Instantly the lights were turned on for the illumination. In spite of heavy showers the streets were crowded from curb to curb, the roads, as well as the sidewalks being given up to the merry-makers. By common consent the people converged in front of Buckingham Palace until the throng reached such dimensions that it was impossible to move. A group of boys struck up the National Anthem. Instantly the strains were taken up by thousands.

A wonderful display of uniforms preceded the royal coach. After this in still another portion. A scarlet block represented the army, a blue one the navy; a third, scarlet and white, indicated where the judges wore uniforms, but the majority were in black street dress. Indian attendants with gaudy turbans and marvelous jewels formed a striking group. Members of Commons Another large section was occupied by members of the House of Commons with their ladies. Some of them wore uniforms, but the majority were in black street dress. Indian attendants with gaudy turbans and marvelous jewels formed a striking group. Official Announcement An official announcement was made from Buckingham Palace that their majesties stood well the physically trying ordeal and were but little fatigued. After luncheon for which all the members of their suites remained, their majesties spent the hours quietly in the evening they dined on formal, the only guests being the royal representatives residing in the palace. The queen mother, Alexandra Princess Victoria, and the Dowager Empress of Russia spent the day at Sandringham Palace. They attended coronation services at the parish church and an entertainment given to the workers on the Sandringham estate.

With Ambassador Bryce and the entire British embassy I am, Sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States."

THE CROWNED KING OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE

THE UNITED STATES JOINS IN CELEBRATION OF CORONATION

New York, June 22—America joined with the British Empire today in celebrating the coronation of King George V. and Queen Mary in Westminster Abbey. In this city there were services in Trinity Church on Lower Broadway. Many residences were decorated in honor of the occasion and on the north and east river in the anchorages of the harbor and at the Brooklyn docks were seen many flags and bunting. In other cities on the New England seaboard coronation day had fitting observance.

Proceedings Today. All the illuminations were extinguished by order of the police at midnight and the tired crowds retired early in comparison with various nights. It was quiet tomorrow a procession of police and other officials in full regalia, the militia, police, and other officials, who had been assigned a place in the parade, might be seen marching from points north, south, east and west, towards the foot of Kingston avenue, whence the procession was to move upon its way.

Most Imposing Parade Starting within a few minutes of the advertised time the procession proceeded in a most imposing and impressive manner. In size and magnificence surpassing anything of its kind that has ever been attempted in Western Canada, it was marshalled with a degree of skill which reflects no little credit upon those who were responsible for the arrangements.

Among its most striking features were the floats of fraternal societies, symbolic of the objects of their orders, several of them being of most elaborate and artistic design. The float of the Sons of England was selected by the judges for the prize. Drawn by twenty stalwart sons of England, it was painted in the white and blue uniform of the British sailor, the float represented Britannia, seated upon her throne, and standing at each corner were men in fitting attire and with suitable emblems, representing British's four greatest overseas dominions—Canada, Australia, South Africa and New Zealand. The whole design was in excellent taste, and so effective that along the whole course of the parade it was greeted with most enthusiastic applause.

A Close Competition Immediately preceding it was the float of the Society of St. George, a close competitor with for the popular favor. In the centre was a tastefully designed throne, upon which were seated, in costume, two pretty children, a boy and girl, whose appearance evoked a storm of applause. Seated at each corner of the float was a small boy dressed in white naval uniform.

The float of the Ladies of the Macabees attracted marked attention. Driven by four of the ladies of the society tastefully attired in white, on the side of the float was inscribed the warning, "Stand back poverty. We protect the child." In the centre of the float stood a lady of the order, one protecting arm thrown round a child, while with the other, in which she held a drawn sword, she threatened an approaching wolf. Was Presently Decorated Erin was represented by the tastefully decorated car of the Irish society, while the Canadian society, who had been commemorated by their achievements in war and literature of the Scottish race. Each in its turn was greeted with rapturous applause, in which the Welsh society, led by two ladies clad in the quaint costume of their native country, shared.

EDMONTON'S CELEBRATION WAS MOST IMPRESSIVE

Residents of Capital City Realized Significance of Great Event of National History—Imposing Parade With Patriotic Ceremony at Diamond Park—Immense Crowd at Afternoon Sports and Rink Thronged at Patriotic Concert in Evening.

Marked by one of the most imposing demonstrations ever witnessed in Western Canada the occasion of the coronation of Their Majesties King George V. and Queen Mary will be long remembered by the thousands of loyal citizens of Edmonton who participated in the program of events by which the day was observed in this city. Few cities within the Empire date the beginning of their growth from a point so recent in the which the day was marked by the birth of Capital City of the province of Alberta, yet it is safe to say that nowhere was the significance of this great occasion realized more fully or observed with greater enthusiasm.

Elaborate preparations had been made and overcome by patient effort on the part of those who with commendable sacrifice undertook the labor which alone could ensure the success of the celebrations. The result was such that they can have no reason to feel that their efforts were wasted. Dusk in the early morning, with the first rays of sun, the sky remained overcast throughout the whole of the day, but by good fortune no rain fell until after the coronation, when the programs of events which might have fallen short of success in reason of inclement weather had been practically completed.

City Gay with Decorations. With public buildings and stores gaily decorated with flags and bunting, the streets presented a festive appearance, and long before the time for the first of the events in the day's program were thronged with people. Many took advantage of the opportunity offered by the special service held at 10 a.m. in All Saints' church to mark the religious significance of the day with fitting observance, and the church was filled to overflowing. Among those who were present Archbishop Cameron, Canon Wynn, and a suitable music was rendered by the choir. The form of service was that authorized by the Archbishop of Canterbury and York and used on this occasion in all the churches of the Anglican communion.

Before 10 a.m. thousands had gathered along Jasper avenue, the crowd growing rapidly as the parade approached. Bands, playing festive and patriotic music, were four abreast, and clad in the uniforms of fraternal organizations in full regalia, the militia, police, and other officials, who had been assigned a place in the parade, might be seen marching from points north, south, east and west, towards the foot of Kingston avenue, whence the procession was to move upon its way.

MOTION TO REGULATE SHIPPING IS DEFEATED

New Zealand's Suggestion That Dominion Have Power to Legislate in Respect to the Kind of Labor to be Employed on Ships, Is Not Endorsed.

London, June 20.—At Monday afternoon's sitting the Imperial Conference resumed the consideration of the proposal of wider legislative powers with respect to British and foreign shipping. The Right Hon. Sidney Buxton, president of the Board of Trade, said the resolution was too wide and vague for the government to propose legislation founded upon it. At present the principal of merchant shipping legislation was fairly plain and was simply modified by the power of the self-governing Dominions to regulate their own coasting trade, and by territorial provisions within their jurisdiction. What New Zealand now desired was the power to regulate round voyages beginning and ending in a certain dominion, and that the dominions should be empowered to pass reciprocal legislation providing for the labor legislation of their dominion should apply to their own registered vessels while in the territorial waters of other dominions which were parties to the agreement.

The home government would not stand in the way of this, but if, as understood from Premier Fisher's explanation, the proposal was to go considerably further, great caution was necessary. It should be borne in mind that a greater proportion of British and foreign commerce is conducted not by liners regularly trading between given ports, but by tramp steamers trading now to one port of the world and now to another, according to the state of the freight market. The question, which would arise from the view of competition with foreign shipping, was that in the dominions which were parties to the agreement, the proposed powers would discriminate to the disadvantage of British ships. If an attempt were made to impose conditions and restrictions on foreign ships and that attempt failed, a preference would be given to foreign shipping, which would certainly cause the whole force and the brunt of which would fall on the shipping of the United Kingdom. It was carried for the whole world a large section of the carrying trade and were very vulnerable to the competition of the United Kingdom.

Asked For Its Withdrawal. He regretted His Majesty's Government had not been able to carry out the proposal, and it was difficult to amend it in an acceptable manner, and he hoped Premier Fisher would not insist on it.

Sir Joseph said that he was absolutely certain that something in the nature of the proposal was necessary to enable New Zealand to give effect to labor conditions which the people there required. The resolution was intended to give the dominions wider legislative powers than were contained in the Imperial Merchant Shipping Act. The proposal was that they would be able to meet the position which recently had arisen, and he must therefore decline to withdraw the proposal dealing with this matter, which was so vital to his country.

The Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Canadian minister of marine, stated that in which the Canadian government had passed legislation based on the Imperial Act, where these provisions had been repealed by subsequent Imperial legislation, with the result that Canada's legislative power had been seriously curtailed. They had a bill before the Canadian parliament at the present time with the object of re-creating sections of the Imperial Merchant Shipping Act of 1894, which were in conflict with their own legislation.

The Right Hon. Lewis Harcourt said that the British government would abstain from voting on the resolution.

Now have wide powers. Premier Fisher moved that the United Kingdom continue to give its influence for the maintenance of a substantial reduction in the recent changes of the Suez canal. This was also accepted.

At today's session the conference approved the report of the committee of militia and defence, which had held two sittings after which Premier Fisher moved that the United Kingdom and the ministers of the Dominions being the conference should exchange reciprocal visits, and so make themselves acquainted with all the self-governing parts of the em-

OPERATION ON BRAIN ENDS SUICIDE MANIA

Before Remarkable Operation Was Had Tried Many Times to Kill Himself—Even Played a Piano Until She Became Exhausted.

New York, June 20.—As the direct result of a remarkable operation on the brain Mrs. M. M. Bard, of Cleveland, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. George Jungles, in New Haven, Conn., for the past two months, has been completely cured of a suicidal mania which many times has brought her face to face with a violent death. She also has been completely relieved of a craze to play the piano so strong that it has forced her to sit at the instrument until she has fallen exhausted over the keys.

Further than this, her nervous ab- sence which had been growing worse and worse since the initial attack of the suicidal mania had driven the young woman to make and trips in an effort to shake off what physicians thought to be merely an attack of nervousness brought on by overwork, has disappeared as if by magic. In fact, from a nervous wreck, whose one thought was to seek the honor of Cozart, she is now a happy and contented woman. Her husband, Dr. Slattery, made the diagnosis two days before, set at naught the theories of half a dozen of Cleveland's best known physicians and found just what he expected. Shorn of its medical verbiage, what he found was a depression at the base of the brain which when relieved removed the delusions and obsessions under which the patient had been laboring.

New York, June 22.—The Tribune's London correspondent cables: "Sir Wilfrid Laurier has vindicated his reputation as the strongest statesman in the Imperial Conference, carrying without dissent the resolution enabling the overseas dominions to withdraw from the conference the favored national treaties and appointing an Empire commission for the promotion of trade and commerce. The conference, while rejecting various artificial proposals for Imperial councils, has accomplished important practical results."

OTTAWA OBSERVES CORONATION DAY

Though somewhat tardy in starting the Dominion Capital Shows Its Loyalty to the British Monarch, the afternoon Interfered with Part of Procession.

Ottawa, June 22.—The capital of the greatest dominion of the empire today observed the coronation day despite the tendency of the weather to interfere with the day's London fashion in weather.

It was the discomfort of the intermittent showers of rain that cancelled the more elaborate parade which the St. George's and Sons of England societies by the Boy Scouts and headed by the Governor General's foot guards marched to Christ Church cathedral where most of the Anglican clergy were in the service of the day.

MASSES CHEER KING AND QUEEN

Their Majesties Show Themselves to the Common People Today.

London, June 23.—King George and Queen Mary today showed themselves to the masses as distinct from more favored classes who were able to obtain access to the circumscribed area of yesterday's event. Today's procession was on a grander scale than that of Coronation day. The route was more extended, including a circuit of some of the most populous districts of the capital and the crowds that looked on were correspondingly greater. Then, too, Their Majesties were accompanied by a larger escort. The scenes along the route were to a great extent a repetition of those of yesterday with a much greater crowd of spectators.

The procession began to form in the yard of Buckingham palace and adjacent streets at nine o'clock and two hours later it was under way. Between lines of cheering thousands the royal party made stately progress from Buckingham palace by way of Constitution Hill, Piccadilly, Trafalgar square through the city over London bridge by Borough road and West- minster bridge, and finally to the Albert Memorial. The parade included four full squadrons of cavalry, representing all branches of that arm of the service, Life Guards, Dragoon Guards and Lancers, each accompanied by its own band and a section of the Horse Artillery.

How to Get Reciprocity.

Proceeding, Dr. Clark said that the farmers had asked as a first step reciprocity, and if Mr. Borden and his followers would let up on their policy of obstruction it would be an accomplished fact in a few weeks. That afternoon he had spoken to a United States senator, who assured him that if the United States would reciprocity is the first issue, get that and then discuss the other matters.

Two Drowned at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, June 22.—At Winnipeg Beach today, Blanchard Jacques aged 16, a matriculation student at St. John's College, and James Ferrero Howard, aged 15, an employe of the C.P.R. as stenographer to Supt. McKay, of Winnipeg terminals, were drowned while bathing. Edgar Grant, a fifteen year old companion and neighbor was rescued.

Safe Robbers at Coast.

Vancouver, B.C., June 23.—Robbers who were evidently high-class safe robbers, attempted to break into the vaults of the Traders Bank at the corner of Hastings and Homer streets last night.

Seaman's Strike Ended.

Southampton, June 23.—The strike of seamen which has seriously inconvenienced many of shipping lines particularly at English ports for several days was finally ended today when employes of White Star Line accepted the terms of the company and returned to work. Other lines had already compromised with the strikers.

Value of Competition.

He illustrated the utility of the Opposition by showing that the C.P.R. is making more money today and giving an unexcelled service despite competition. They had to reduce rates, improve the service, and build branch lines, and are making more money than ever and their stock is among the top-notchers; so competition in markets would increase trade and prosperity.

Cholera in Italy.

Paris, June 21.—News despatches from Rome received here say that cholera has been discovered at Naples, Salerno, Palermo and Venice.

Great Reception For Minister of the Interior

High River Enthusiastically Receives Hon. Frank Oliver The South of the Province is Decidedly Strong For the Reciprocity Agreement.

High River, Alta., June 22.—Mr. Oliver closed his series of meetings in Southern Alberta at High River last night, and received a welcome which left little doubt as to the overwhelming sentiment of the district. It was over a gracious reception, the town hall being packed with an interested audience which demonstrated their sympathy by frequent outbursts of applause.

Mr. Oliver arrived on the 7.30 train and was met by the delegations of High River Liberals, headed by Mayor Wallace and the band, which played a program until the commencement of the meeting. The United Farmers were in evidence by the distribution of scores of their badges bearing the word "Reciprocity," and the letters "U.F.A." The gathering was a most successful one, many present from Okotoks, to the north, to Nanton, to the south.

What Meetings Have Shown.

The result of Mr. Oliver's tour has revealed two outstanding facts: it has indicated the most optimistic estimate in the support being given reciprocity, and to a gratifying extent has demonstrated that Frank Oliver is strong in the south than in the north ever was. His prophetic words of warmth of friendship everywhere and brought the message to the farmers as they lined up with their leader to hear without involved sentences or fervid oratory. He gave the impression of a man who was eager to hear without involved sentences or fervid oratory. He gave the impression of a man who was eager to hear without involved sentences or fervid oratory.

British Steamer Abandoned.

Halifax, N.S., June 19.—The British steamer Ben Barn, was abandoned on Hatt Moos Lodge reef, 12 miles from Barrington Head. She went aground Saturday and was making water so rapidly that Capt. Value of Competition.

He illustrated the utility of the Opposition by showing that the C.P.R. is making more money today and giving an unexcelled service despite competition. They had to reduce rates, improve the service, and build branch lines, and are making more money than ever and their stock is among the top-notchers; so competition in markets would increase trade and prosperity.

Great Reception For Minister of the Interior

High River Enthusiastically Receives Hon. Frank Oliver The South of the Province is Decidedly Strong For the Reciprocity Agreement.

High River, Alta., June 22.—Mr. Oliver closed his series of meetings in Southern Alberta at High River last night, and received a welcome which left little doubt as to the overwhelming sentiment of the district. It was over a gracious reception, the town hall being packed with an interested audience which demonstrated their sympathy by frequent outbursts of applause.

Mr. Oliver arrived on the 7.30 train and was met by the delegations of High River Liberals, headed by Mayor Wallace and the band, which played a program until the commencement of the meeting. The United Farmers were in evidence by the distribution of scores of their badges bearing the word "Reciprocity," and the letters "U.F.A." The gathering was a most successful one, many present from Okotoks, to the north, to Nanton, to the south.

What Meetings Have Shown.

The result of Mr. Oliver's tour has revealed two outstanding facts: it has indicated the most optimistic estimate in the support being given reciprocity, and to a gratifying extent has demonstrated that Frank Oliver is strong in the south than in the north ever was. His prophetic words of warmth of friendship everywhere and brought the message to the farmers as they lined up with their leader to hear without involved sentences or fervid oratory. He gave the impression of a man who was eager to hear without involved sentences or fervid oratory.

IN BANK CLEARINGS.

Edmonton's bank clearings for the week ending Thursday totalled $2,306,639 showing an increase of more than a million dollars over the corresponding week of last year. The total for the same week of 1910 was $1,161,469. The increase is thus $1,145,170 or 98.6 per cent. The bank clearings of the city seem to be increasing at a rate which is greater than in the last nine months during which Edmonton has led all the cities of Canada in percentage of increase of clearings. The increase last week was over 100 per cent.

THE SCHOOL BOARD SELLS DEBENTURES

Good Price Realized for $175,000 Worth of 4 1/2 Per Cent—The Purchases Were the Imperial Bank—Seven Other Tenders Received.

The Edmonton Public School Debentures for the year 1911, amounting to $175,000 were sold at Wednesday's meeting of the School Board to the Imperial Bank for $3,635. All are 4 1/2 per cent debentures, maturing annually at the rate of 1-10 every year. Compared with last year they show a distinct advance. In 1910 $160,000 worth of 5 per cent debentures were sold for a little over 101. Had this year's bonds been 5 per cent debentures, at this year's rate they would have yielded 105. Taking the means of comparison the relative selling price this year has the advantage of 4 points over 1910. Seven other companies submitted tenders, including the Dominion Securities Co., the Ontario Securities Co., and Wood Gundy Co., of Toronto. The Imperial Bank were also successful bidders for Strathcona's municipal bonds, which were sold on Tuesday of last week.

JUDGES DECISION ON BEST FLOAT

That of the Sons of England in Their Opinion Could Hardly Have Been Improved Upon—Criticism of the Others Shown.

Owing to the unusual interest felt throughout the city in the floats that were exhibited in the procession on Coronation Day, the judges have fully prepared their report in which they state that it was the unanimous opinion of the committee that the prize should go to the Sons of England, which in their opinion, could hardly have been improved upon. In commenting on the various floats, the judges say that the Sons of England float, which in their opinion, could hardly have been improved upon. In commenting on the various floats, the judges say that the Sons of England float, which in their opinion, could hardly have been improved upon.

All Floats Were Progressive. We should first of all congratulate the various organizations on the interesting and artistic floats produced. There were in all cases very expressive of the societies and nationalities, and of a delightfully varied and original character. The Scotch and English floats were strongly national; the former being about an object lesson in the glorious raiment and deeds of Scotch history; they were not, however, very expressive of the coronation ideas and the sentiment of imperial unity associated with the occasion, while we think a little more color in the way of flags or bunting would have heightened the critical effect of the coronation float.

The Ladies of the Maccabees very artistically expressed the philanthropy of their order in the lady with the crown, sword, sheltering childhood from the lot of hunger and poverty. "Gallant Little Wales" while not aspiring to a float gave as the traditional goat escorted by two ladies becomingly attired in the national costume. The Chinese float was a riot of red and yellow and Chinese lanterns, arranged with the fantasy and taste so characteristic of Chinese art. It made a bright feature in the procession. St. George's Good Showing. The Royal St. George's Society made an especially good showing with a very pretty and original float. A special word of praise is due to the little children who took part, particularly little George and Mary whose courage and cleverness in maintaining so elevated a position throughout the parade greatly impressed us.

Two Young Men on Freighter Scalded—One Is Dead. Port William, June 23.—On the arrival at port tonight of the "Turret" Chief, Albert Baker, a young man employed as stoker on the boat, was taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Port Arthur, while the remains of another, a young lad of fifteen, were taken to a local undertaking establishment. The result of a fire on the lake. Both were employed as coal trowers. The bursting of his pipes scalded them so badly that Laughton was removed alive. It is said that the officer in charge, Mr. Laughton, who was on the "Turret" was employed as a deck hand and on the injury of a coal burner he went down with him.

THEIR WORK IS DRAWING TO END

Both Committees Reached Agreement on Street Railway Extensions

With the adoption last evening with great applause by the joint committees of Edmonton and Strathcona of a motion providing for an extension of the street railway through the south-west part of Strathcona along Sixth avenue, and Seventh street, the labor of the amalgamation committees comes temporarily to a close and it will now devolve on the solicitors of the respective cities to carry out an agreement the terms of which have been arrived at in the various meetings that have been held in connection with the proposal by the committees to be passed on by the councils and afterwards submitted ratifiers who are the final arbiters of any contract that is to be binding on both cities.

After the meeting of the Edmonton committee which threw on the troubled waters of the last meeting, both committees met last evening in a conciliatory mood and the first act was the reading of the Strathcona committee's report approving of the proposed extension of the line through Parkdale, Beau Park and other outlying subdivisions, an effort being made to serve the more urgent needs by building the proposed main street line westward along Sixth avenue, south to Seventh and north along Seventh to connect up with the Whyte avenue line.

The Strathcona delegates dissented from the final selection of the line only and substituted therefor an extension of the line along Sixth avenue, an equal distance in the direction of Saskatchewan avenue extended.

Board Still Sifting. Banff, June 23.—The miners' convention board still continues behind closed doors, the main question under discussion being the matter of wages. Progress in this direction of a settlement is slow, and until the attitude of the miners regarding the wage proposals of the operators is fully ascertained nothing can be done to bring the cessation of hostilities. Palling the accomplishment of a settlement of the wage question the only thing left for the board to do will be to digest the evidence and render its findings.
