OFFICIAL.

LONDON, June 15.—The Governor, Newfoundland: The situation in the Gallipoli peninsula has developed into trench warfare. On the night of the 11th, British regiments attacked, and after some fighting, captured advanced Turkish trenches. The situation favorable, but necessarily slow. Turkish offensive is noticeably checked.

The French Government reports that Belgian battalions have crossed the east bank of the Yser, and organized ground. One German work east of Lobette was captured. Some trenches recently won north of Souchez Sugar Refinery, lost. Their progress made in Labyrinth, enemy attacks southeast of Herve, repulsed. In Lorraine, 1st Army at Embarras in the Forest of Hainoy, the French line was carried forward.

The Russian Government reports stubborn fighting on the San Rie enemy succeeding in advancing on certain points. Obstinate fighting on the Dnieper continues.

The Italian Government reports occupation of Volaya and Valent Passes in the Carri Alps, and the armament of the forces of Albania. Positions won on the Isonzo are being consolidated.

In Kamerun the town of Garua by the Vomie River, surrendered conditionally.

BONAR LAW

REPORT UNTRUE.

LONDON, June 15.—Official denial was made of a report circulated in the United States that the British battleship Agamemnon had been sent down in the Dardanelles by a German submarine. Further announcement was that other fighting unit not already officially reported had been lost at the Dardanelles.

A GALLANT EXPLOIT.

LONDON, June 15.—Mr. John Buchanan in a despatch from the British headquarters at the front to the Daily News says: "Nothing plays a large part in the attack for it is the only way to clear the trenches. Chief exploits of our fighting have been amongst the grade sappers. For example, a company Sergeant and Major Barlow of the Welsh Fusiliers, went out on a night attack on the 16th and seven men. He cleared with his own hands and occupied five hundred yards of German trenches, and in the process captured 102 prisoners, including three officers. This is an exploit which would be hard to parallel. The lesson of the war in its present phase is the value of young officers."

BRILLIANT WORK OF AVIATORS.

LONDON, June 15.—Another extraordinary adventure of two British aviators was recounted in an eye witness narrative dated June 12th, published yesterday. On that day, says the writer, two comrades of the Royal Flying Corps had a most adventurous flight while performing reconnaissance about twenty miles from the front. They were attacked by several German aviators and during the engagement the pilot was shot through jaw and neck; another collapsed and lost control of his aeroplane, but quickly recovered sufficiently to run the machine. It began a running fight in which the men were fired at by a successful

ARCHITECT GIVES EVIDENCE IN MANTOBA GRAFT CASE.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 10.—V. W. Horwood, formerly Provincial architect of Manitoba to-day voluntarily gave evidence before the Manitoba Royal Commission in connection with the investigation into the contract for the parliament building at Winnipeg, which is said to have been the medium of graft for about $500,000. Horwood's evidence implicated former Minister Caldwell, and he stated that Mr. Caldwell has interested himself in keeping away from Winnipeg important witnesses wanted in the investigation, paying as much as $10,000, the witness stated, and given to M. G. Hook, one of the conspirators, but Hook lost the money in Omaha, where he was robbed.

GERMAN BAND QUILTS KAISER.

New York, June 11.—Officials in the Federal Building at Washington and Johnson Streets, Brooklyn, got a surprise when the eight members of a German street band after playing several patriotic airs in front marched into the building in a body and mounting the stairs made their way to the office of Clerk Percy Gilkes of the United States District Court.

The bandmen told Mr. Gilkes that they wished to renounce allegiance to the German Emperor, and become American citizens, and after the usual formalities received their first papers. They are three brothers, Johaan, Wilhelm and Gustave Kriescher; Julius Goppel, Wilhelm Wahr, Rhenhold Christian, Heinrich Wool, Gustave Schneider.

PRESSING BACK THE RUSSIANS.

LONDON, To-Day.—An Austro-German rush in Galicia is again on. Both Berlin and Vienna officially lay claim to progress along practically the entire southeastern front. Lemberg seems again to be in danger. Mosiska, east of Przemyel, has been captured by the Austro-Germans. According to the German contention, the Russians are falling back south of the railroad connecting Przemyel and Lemberg. All the Russian counter-attacks have been repulsed with gains for Teutons from a point north of Przemyel into Besarabia. Far off as this front is from England and France it has been watched more closely than on the western front, because it would appear these operations have been pressed to attempt to clear Galicia of Russian preparations to a breathing spell in the east, which is likely to be followed by a crushing blow aimed at Italy.

LEMBERG BY JULY 1.

LONDON, To-Day.—General von Mackensen telegraphed the German Emperor he hopes to capture Lemberg, the capital of Galicia, before July 1, according to a despatch from Amsterdam.

CREMATION AT THE FRONT.

PARIS, To-Day.—A special committee of doctors and scientists has returned to Paris from the battlefield, where the experiments in burning the bodies of soldiers and dead horses are conducted. The committee reports this method of disposing of the bodies of man and horse can be successfully carried out and will indicate the manner in which it can be done.

MACHINE GUN FIGHTING.

LONDON, To-Day.—The Daily Mail in an editorial to-day urges the Government to hasten the production of machine guns by placing orders for an unlimited quantity in England, Canada and the States. The Germans, it says, in an editorial, are virtually substituting man armed with machine guns for the old-fashioned infantry armed with rifles. Experience is proving the army which attempts to fight machine guns with rifles is committing the same mistake as men who run foot races with locomotives.

Gerhardt Head of Munitions Supply and Spy as to America's Preparedness for War.

NEW YORK, To-Day.—The Tribune prints the following: Doctor Anton Meyer Gerhardt, German Red Cross Lecturer, and Count Von Bernstorff's special envoy to the Imperial Government, who landed yesterday at Christiania, Norway, has perpetrated a gigantic hoax on the State Department of the United States according to evidence now in the hands of the Tribune. He is no other than Dr. Alfred Meyer, Privy Councillor of the first rank and chief of the Department of army supplies of the Imperial German Ministry of War. The real Dr. Anton Meyer Gerhardt

The Hour Calls For the Man.

Seldom in the history of Britain when the hour has called for the man has the man been wanting. These are perilous times which call for a man of light and leading at the head of affairs, and fortunate is the Empire that a man of the parts of Sir Asquith is at the head of affairs at home. In the Commons yesterday he struck the right keynote when he said:—

"There is a fitting place and fitting work for every man and every woman in the land. Be it sooner or later, it will certainly come, when our cause has been vindicated, and there is once more peace on earth. May it be accorded on the proudest day in the annals of this nation, that there was no home, no workshop in the whole of this United Kingdom, which did not take its part in the common struggle and earn its share in the common triumph."

Mr. Asquith has struck many superlative difficulties in the course of his political career, but these difficulties have made a man of him, for he has risen superior to them on every occasion. He is fortunate also in his colleagues. Sir Edward Grey, the Secretary for Foreign Affairs, stands pre-eminent today in the world of diplomacy. Lord Kitchener has more than sustained his old reputation as the maker of armies. Lloyd George, after winning golden opinions among financiers, of whom he was the chief bane before the war, has undertaken the whole of work in speeding up the output of munitions. Mr. Balfour, the leading parliamentary hand of our days, has sunk his pride of place in the greater pride of doing his "bit" at the Admiralty, and last but not least Mr. Winston Churchill has taken upon himself a modest, little expected in a Churchill, of hiding his light in a subordinate position in the Ministry for the good of all. All honour to him and all of them.

Bruce Passengers.

The Bruce arrived at Port aux Basques at 6.10 a.m. to-day with the following passengers in saloon:—

Rev. F. J. Devine, H. T. Brown, R. T. and Mrs. Wood, J. E. and Mrs. Mullins, S. E. and Mrs. Logan, J. E. Dewling, J. C. Jones, Miss J. Doyle, Mrs. C. James, H. C. Campbell, Chas. Stoddart, B. C. Woodman, Capt. H. B. Saunders, John Nelson, H. M. Wylie, Miss L. Dugwell, J. A. Clift, H. G. Duder, C. K. Bell, Mrs. A. W. Wakefield, Miss A. Brown, Miss J. Weller, Miss McLellan, E. W. Robinson, Miss L. Gorman and Miss M. Connors.

Wedding Bells.

KENT-OBRIEN.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at Holyrood on Monday last, the contracting parties being Mr. Patrick J. Kent, of Job Bros. & Co., and Miss Kent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien of Brigus. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Donnelly, P.P., of Bay de Verde, assisted by Rev. Fr. Finn, of Holyrood. The bride was attired in a travelling suit of blue and was assisted by the groom's sister, Miss Nellie Kent, the groom being supported by Mr. Thomas O'Brien, brother of the bride. Following the ceremony the party, including the immediate relatives and friends of the happy couple, lunched at Rorke's Hotel, after which Mr. and Mrs. Kent left for Salmonier where the honeymoon will be spent. The Telegram joins in the felicitations extended.

MONEY FOUND.

Dear Sir,—In yesterday's issue of the Telegram appeared a notice concerning the loss of a sum of money. Shortly after the paper was on the street a little girl returned the money and the poor woman was made happy. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, THE WOMAN THAT ADVERTISED. June 15th, 1915.

Messages Received Previous to 9 a.m.

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, June 15. The Governor, Newfoundland: The situation in the Gallipoli Peninsula has developed into trench warfare. On the night of the 11th, two British regiments attacked, and after several days fighting, captured advanced Turkish trenches. The situation is favorable, but necessarily slow. The Turkish offensive is noticeably weakened.

The French Government reports that Belgian battalions have crossed the east bank of the Yser, and have organized ground. One German work east of Lobette was captured. Some trenches recently won north of Souchez Sugar Refinery, lost. Further progress made in Labyrinth, and enemy attacks southeast of Hebuterne, repulsed. In Lorraine District at Emberville in the Forest of Parroy, the French line was carried forward.

The Russian Government reports stubborn fighting on the San River, the enemy succeeding in advancing on certain points. Obsolete fighting on the Dnestor continues.

The Italian Government reports the occupation of Volaya and Valentini Passes in the Carni Alps, and bombardment of the forces of Albertino. Positions won on the Isonzo are being consolidated. In Kamerun the town of Garua on the Venué River, surrendered unconditionally.

BONAR LAW.

REPORT UNTRUE.

LONDON, June 15. Official denial was made of a report circulated in the United States that the British battleship Agamemnon had been sent down in the Dardanelles by a German submarine. Further announcement was made that no other fighting unit not already officially reported had been lost at Dardanelles.

A GALLANT EXPLOIT.

LONDON, June 15. Mr. John Buchanan in a despatch from the British headquarters at the front to the Daily News says: Bombing plays a large part in the attacks, for it is the only way to clear the trenches. Chief exploits of our recent fighting have been amongst the grenade throwers. For example, a Company Sergeant and Major Barlock, of the Welsh Fusiliers, went out on a night attack on the 15th with seven men. He cleared with bombs and occupied five hundred yards of the German trenches, cut 11 mines and captured 102 prisoners, including three officers. This is an exploit which would be hard to parallel. One lesson of the war is its present phase is the value of young officers.

BRILLIANT WORK OF AVIATORS.

LONDON, June 15. Another extraordinary adventure of two British aviators was recounted in an eye witness narrative dated June 12th, published yesterday. On Monday, says the writer, two comrades of the Royal Flying Corps had a most adventurous flight while performing reconnaissance about twenty miles from the front. They were attacked by several German aviators and during the engagement the pilot was shot through jaw and neck; at first he collapsed and lost control of the aeroplane, but quickly recovered sufficiently to right the machine. Then began a running fight in which our men were fired at by a succession of hostile aeroplanes. The pilot gradually became weaker and weaker through loss of blood and at last was scarcely conscious of what he was doing. His companion meanwhile bandaged him and helped in binding the wound which was a dangerous one. The German pursuers and landed observer did not fail to take notice, performing a complete reconnaissance. In the end our men escaped and the German pursuers landed safely with valuable information.

FIFTEEN MILLIONS A DAY.

LONDON, June 15. Asquith in moving a vote of credit for £250,000,000 informed the Commons today that the expenditure the next three months would be not less than $15,000,000 a day.

PREMIER ASQUITH SPEAKS.

LONDON, June 15. Referring to the construction of the new Government, Premier Asquith claimed for himself and his new colleagues the staunchest adherence of their respective political parties. The situation was without parallel in our history, the Premier said. The demand which it would make upon the energies of the nation, and on the patience and foresight of the Government, and the confidence felt by one in the other, could not be measured by any precedent, but our national policy remains unchanged, to pursue this war at any cost, to a victorious issue. Dealing with the situation since March, the Premier said that the importance of the accession of Italy to the cause of the Allies, it was impossible to overestimate the moral and material value thereof. In concluding, he said: "In every speech, I have tried to strike two notes, a note of warning as to the gravity of our task, and a note of confidence as to the ultimate issue. There is no discord between the two sections. We shall do well to continue to pay no heed to blind counsel, hysteria and panic. We have for the moment one plan, paramount duty to perform, to bring to the service of the State, the willing, organized help of every part of the community. There is a fitting place and fitting work for every man and every woman in the land. Be it sooner or later, it will certainly come, when our cause has been vindicated, and there is once more peace on earth. May it be recorded on the proudest day in the annals of this nation, that there was no home, no workshop in the whole of this United Kingdom, which did not take its part in the common struggle, and earn its share in the common triumph."

IN THE DARDANELLES.

LONDON, June 15. The following announcement concerning operations in the Dardanelles was given out officially today: The situation on the Gallipoli Peninsula has developed into trench warfare. After our success on the 4th inst., the Turks have evinced great respect for our positions. By day and night they have to submit to captures of trenches. On the night of the 11th and 12th of June two regiments of the British regular brigade made simultaneous attacks on advanced Turkish trenches and after several days fighting, which included the killing of many snipers, succeeded in maintaining themselves in spite of bombs, and captured the position. On the morning of the 12th a counter-attack was made by the Turks, who rushed forward with bombs, but coming under the fire of the naval machine gun squadron, they were annihilated. Of fifty who attacked, thirty dead bodies were counted in the front part of our trenches. The situation is favourable for our troops, but it is necessarily slow on account of the difficulties of the ground. The Turkish offensive has sensibly weakened.

BRITISH NAVAL CASUALTIES.

LONDON, June 15. Thirteen thousand, five hundred and forty-seven officers and men of the British Royal Navy, including members of the Naval Division, have been killed or wounded, or reported missing from the beginning of the war up to May 31st, according to an announcement made in London. Of this total, 8,245 were killed.

McKENNA'S FINANCE.

LONDON, June 15. In the course of a debate on the new credit, Reginald McKenna made his maiden speech as Chancellor of the Exchequer. The keynote of his remarks was the necessity for economy. Sir Frederick Banbury said he had heard that the Chancellor proposed to rehabilitate American changes by issuing a loan to the States, a step which he approved. Geoffrey Collins suggested the establishment of a central body to collect American securities in this country, which could be exchanged for Government scrip, and the securities he suggested, the Belgian contended he did not know war had been declared when he entered Newport.

GERMAN STEAMER CONDEMNED.

LONDON, June 15. The Prize Court has condemned the Hamburg-American Line steamer Belgica, seized at the beginning of the war at Newport, Monmouthshire. The captain of the Belgica contended he did not know war had been declared when he entered Newport.

BRITISH STEAMER HOPEMOUNT.

CARDIFF, June 15. The crew of the British steamer Hope mount, sunk by a submarine off St. Ives, have arrived here. The men report the Germans shelled them while they were taking to their boats and that the captain and three members of the crew were wounded.

TRAWLER ARGYLE SUNK.

LONDON, June 15. The trawler Argyle has been sunk by a German submarine. Seven of the crew were lost.

GERMANS CAPTURE MOSCISKA.

BERLIN, June 15. An official announcement was made here today, that the Austro-German forces operating in Galicia, had captured the town of Mosciska.

KARLSRUHE BOMBED.

KARLSRUHE, Baden, June 15. Five hostile airmen bombarded Karlsruhe for forty-five minutes this morning. Several were killed and wounded, and a number of places suffered material damage. Karlsruhe is on the Rhine, 200 miles from the French frontier. Its population is 100,000.

DERBY WINNER.

NEWMARKET, June 15. Pommeron won the new Derby stakes today.

GOOD PLENTIFUL.

Codfish were plentiful on the local grounds this morning and several well filled boats returned and disposed of their catches cheaply in the city markets.

Amusements.

MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY.

The Million Dollar Mystery is the attraction at the Nickel Theatre today as the fourth episode will be shown. This is the most exciting and attractive of the chapters yet given. It is full of sensations and thrills, with brilliant photography and settings. Nothing to equal it has ever been given here before. Mr. Howard Stanley sings "China Town" and the orchestra will render some high class selections. Do not miss to-day's performance it is a genuine holiday show.

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.

There was as usual a good attendance at the ever popular little house last night, and all were delighted with the show. To-night there will be a complete change of pictures in-structive and amusing; always clear, and a sweet little singer who receives great applause for her charming Irish song. A pleasant evening can always be spent in the cosy little house in the West End.

BRITISH THEATRE.

As will be noticed in the advertisement of the British Theatre another very fine programme has been arranged for all lovers of this particular type of amusement. Every play selected is of the highest class and if any preference is to be made it would in all likelihood be given to the beautiful and stirring drama entitled "The Ethics of the Profession." This is a most remarkable story and it is one of the handsomest pieces of work turned out by the world-renowned Biograph Co. Summed up in few words: It is the intensity of excitement throughout. The entire entertainment is most varied. "The Upper Hand" is a strong play with a Western flavour; "Dick Potter's Wife" a subtle comedy of the first class; "Brought to Justice" a story of the "Plains" and the "Eugenic Girl" an athletic comedy of particular merit. Arthur Priestman, Cameron, the man from Yorkshire and Miss Keating, pianist, complete a combination programme which may be equalled but can not be excelled.

CRESCENT PICTURE PALACE.

"The Right of Way" a special two part feature produced by the Vitagraph Company, is a story of convicting justice and cleverness, unwritten by a woman's perspicacity and keen sense of justice. "The Ethics of the Profession" is a gripping Biograph drama of the "Cycle" and the comedy element of this great programme is made up of two excellent comedies. "The Brewery Town Romance." Mrs. Hannaford sings a very nice ballad and Mrs. Nurse has prepared a special programme. This big show at CRESCENT, summer prices, 5 cts. afternoon and night.

PANTOMIME MATINEE A TREAT FOR ALL.

A splendid house, last night at Roseley's and the pantomime is declared by one and all to be the very best seen yet. The delightful transformation scene alone is worth ten times the price of admission. The costumes are all in keeping with the story and are very beautiful; there is a lot of fun in this pantomime, and while Miss Madge Locke and Jack Roseley hold the stage the house is in roars, especially when Jack, as little Simon, shows the audience the watch he bought and the works fell out. There will be a special matinee today which is under the patronage of His Excellency and Lady Davidson and the Misses Davidson. The various songs and dances are all new and the little troupe have had less than six changes of costume. The tickets are selling rapidly for the big contest on Friday night; the great double programme, don't miss this Friday's contest.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

I am always sorry for the woman who constantly sighs and says: "Well, they didn't do it that way when I was a girl." I am sorry for her because she has never grown in intelligence since she was a girl. If her children romp home from school fresh with new ideas on ventilation or a new method of working out their algebra, this selfsame woman will hold up her hands and exclaim that they didn't do it that way when she was a girl, etc.

She cannot realize that while she has not grown in intelligence for thirty years, the whole world of things has changed. She is one of the kind of people who retard progression. She is the "kind" of woman who cannot understand her daughter's desire to tango instead of polka, and she is the kind who nags, and fusses, and tries to turn the hands of time backward.

Don't be this kind for the sake of your children and progression. Accept things as they are and try to adjust yourself to the trend of the times.

"An Old Man at 40"

How often you hear that remark! How many such men there are! And how needless it is!

Wrong food is the big cause.

When one feels old at forty the first thing is to correct improper diet. The main fault with the dietary is often a lack of the vital mineral salts in food. Without these mineral elements old age steals on rapidly.

To meet this very condition a food was devised which supplies those mineral elements such as phosphorus, iron, sulphur, etc.

That food is

Grape-Nuts

Made of whole wheat and barley, this delicious food retains all the nutriment of these grains, together with the priceless mineral elements— notably lacking in white flour foods—which the system must have to build and maintain vigor and elasticity of body, brain and muscle.

One can avoid this "old-age-at-40" business by proper eating and living.

A Reconstructed Life.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Or watch the things you gave your life to broken. And stoop and build 'em up again with worn out tools."
—Kipling.

Some day I'd like to write a book on heroes and heroines. I have known. To be sure, Jack Binns of wireless and Captain Barker of North Pole fame, are the only two heroes in the common sense of the word that I have met, but that isn't the kind I mean.

I mean the heroes and heroines of a seven-routine day-in-the-week existence, the countless folks who face life instead of facing death.

A Million Pin Pricks Or One Shell.
I wonder which takes the more intrepid spirit to face: a million pin pricks, or one shell from a cannon?
No, I on second thoughts, I don't wonder.

And when I write this book, among its characters will be the family who built over their life.

To lose an only son, a man in the full prime of young manhood, honored, respected and loved by the whole community, is an earthquake of the heart and soul.

I know there must be some who read who have undergone such a loss, and I know that no matter how old the wound it will ache at these words.

Suppose You Lost Two Such Sons
But listen! Suppose you had lost two such sons, suppose they were all the boys you had, and suppose you lost them both in one day by a needless tragedy!

Do you think you could go on living after that?
Do you think you could deliberately leave the old home which suggested sorrow too poignantly and build the new home you had planned with the lost ones, believing that they were watching you and would be glad? Do you think you could learn to smile again, could teach yourself to take a genuine interest in the doings of the day, could make yourself a cherished friend of both old and young, and your home a pleasant, peaceful place to which people liked to come to lose their weariness and unrest? Do you think you could be always remembering to do kind things for everyone?
In short, do you think you could reconstruct a beautiful, and in its way, a peacefully happy life on such ruins?

Don't You Think They Deserve a Carnegie Medal.
And if you did all that, don't you think you would deserve to be enrolled among the heroes whose courage in facing life is full as great as the courage that faces death?
I do.

And if I were a man I think I should feel like taking off my hat whenever I passed that home.
It is not that they have forgotten, or tried to forget. Far from it. It is because they always remember and love and hope. It is because they have always seen the star shine through their cypress trees that they have had the courage and faith to reconstruct a life.

Questions and Answers.

Reply.—Certainly. Just think of the happiness and pride a child gets out of the ownership of a cat or dog or rabbit. The boy who grows up petless is a pathetic creature. A

Canada's Wheat Crop

Greatest Crop in History of the Country Put in Ground.
Ottawa, June 11.—The largest area ever sown to wheat in Canada, is how the census and statistics branch of the Canadian Government described the present in an official bulletin issued to-day. The bulletin says:
"What is estimated to occupy this year a total area of 12,896,000 acres, which is more by 1,662,500 acres or 18.8 per cent. than the area sown for 1914. Not only is the wheat area this year, under the double stimulus of the patriotic impulse and the high prices, twenty-five per cent. in excess of last year's harvested area, but it is also the largest area ever sown to wheat in Canada."
"Whilst every province shows an increase in the wheat area, it is the three northwest provinces which preponderate in the national effort to produce more wheat."

Everyday Etiquette

"Please tell me how long a guest should remain after a dinner?" asked troubled Jane.
"It is never polite or kind for the hostess or a guest to hurry away to meet another engagement before the last course has been served. If a guest spends an hour or so with her hostess after dinner she cannot be adversely criticized," said her aunt.

U. S. Court Seize 35 Teuton Ships.

Boston, Mass., June 5.—That the United States, in the event of war with the Kaiser, would find itself in a position to seize $100,000,000 worth of German and Austrian steamers is shown by the list of vessels interned in American ports.
These ships include the flower of Germany's transatlantic liners, the floating hotels that a year ago were carrying the cream of European traffic. A dozen of them are first-class passenger liners, and all, except a few of Austrian register, are in comparatively good condition.
Many estimates place the value of Austro-German ships lying in our ports at well over $100,000,000, but conservative steamship men consider the latter figure approximately correct.
The finest of the interned ships are tied up in the ports of New York and Boston.

The Vaterland of the Hamburg-American Line, the largest vessel in the world, is lying at the Hamburg-American docks in Hoboken, N.J., having made only 2 1/2 trips across the Atlantic. She was on her second visit to this country when the war interrupted her career. This giant of the seas heads the list of marine war prizes to which Uncle Sam might fall heir. She is 950 feet long, registers 50,000 tons and is valued by her owners at $12,000,000.

Vaterland in Good Condition.
According to one of the crew, the Vaterland has been burning 50 tons of coal a day during the time she has been interned and is in fine condition, notwithstanding her long period of idleness. It has been estimated that the Vaterland could carry 10,000 troops.

At this port there is the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, queen of the North German Lloyd fleet. The Cecilie probably was the most popular German liner among American tourists. Her chief asset is speed. She established a new transatlantic record for German ships. She is capable of doing 24 knots. Her cabins, well known to Boston society, are as luxurious as those of the Olympic.

According to a North German Lloyd officer the Cecilie is in excellent condition and could be put into service almost immediately. Her owners value the ship at more than $5,000,000.
The Kaiser Wilhelm II., now at the Lloyd dock in Hoboken, is a sister ship of the famous German express steamers. While not quite as fast as the Cecilie, the Kaiser was averaging better than 32 knots for the transatlantic voyage before she was held up. It has been reported that she was preparing to clear this port and become a sea raider.

Fourteen of One Line Tied Up.
The Hamburg-American Line has 14 vessels interned, the Amerika and the Cincinnati here, and 12 in New York. Next to the Vaterland the Amerika and Cincinnati are the most valuable, the rest of the fleet being first and second-class passenger carriers. Among the freighters are some of the greatest cargo carriers in the world.

The North German Lloyd has six liners in American ports, all but one of them having been used recently as first-class passenger ships.
Tied up at Hoboken piers with the Kaiser Wilhelm II., are the following ships:

Frederick der Grosse, Konig Wilhelm II., the Prinzessin Irene and the Grosser Kurferst.

There are also four Austro-American Line vessels at New York, two of them having been engaged in passenger traffic between New York and Trieste before hostilities began.
The total number of interned vessels in the port of New York include four Austrian and 26 German steamers and one German motor ship, three German ships and one German bark.

In Milady's Boudoir.

KEEPING SWEET INSIDE.

It isn't enough to keep clean externally and all the bathing and powdering in the world will not make Milady charming if she is not sweet in mind. Kindness shines from the eyes and lips. It is the most thorough of beautifiers for it carries behind it a sweet thought which emanates from a kind heart.

The woman who is unkind to children, old people and animals carries the expression of sin in her face devoid of any form of beauty. What tumults she must have to meet when she finds herself alone with her conscience. She herself is the sufferer far more than the unfortunate ones she has repelled by her expression. Kindness and sweetness may be cultivated by the feeling that we, ourselves, are at fault many times.

Milady, who flares into a temper with her maid, loses the maid's respect, as well as aging herself considerably. The calm, serene nature that is difficult to ruffle, regains the youthful lines long after Father Time has touched the owner with his grim hands. When there is so much to be gained by sweetness, and so little to be accomplished by a display of temper, what argument can possibly make losing your temper any profit.

THE KING AND RACING.

The King, I am told, has caused instructions to be sent to his racing trainer at Newmarket that no one employed about his stables should be discharged in consequence of the arrangement concerning the discontinuance of racing. Some time ago His Majesty placed every facility in the way of those employed with his racing stud to join the army if they were suitable, and then promised that their places should be kept open for them and their wages paid to those dependent upon them while they were away; and this offer is now repeated. It is expected that his Majesty's lead in this direction will be very generally followed, especially by the larger owners; but with a compulsory end put to horse-racing for the remainder of the year, many of the smaller owners will be compelled to break up their studs owing to their inability to bear the expense of maintaining their stables in idleness.

THE SECRET DEPARTURE.

Now that Lord Kitchener has again appealed for men an recruiting efforts on a big scale are being renewed, it is to be hoped that something of a more rousing character will be sanctioned than anything that has been permitted. Recruiting has been and soldiers themselves have done their best, but the difficulty is to create a central interest which will bring crowds of people together with the one thought in their mind. There are two ways to create this central interest, but although they have been repeatedly urged upon the authorities nothing has been done. The first plan is to let the people see our soldiers when they are going away, and let them give them a send-off; and the second is to make a display of the trophies they have captured. There was certainly good reason why the troops should go away in secret at the first half of the war, but in any real reason now why this system should be so tightly maintained?

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, May 25th, 1915.

THE KING AND RACING.

The King, I am told, has caused instructions to be sent to his racing trainer at Newmarket that no one employed about his stables should be discharged in consequence of the new arrangement concerning the discontinuance of racing. Some time ago His Majesty placed every facility in the way of those employed with his racing stud to join the army if they were suitable, and then promised that their places should be kept open for them and their wages paid to those dependent upon them while they were away; and this offer is now repeated. It is expected that his Majesty's lead in this direction will be very generally followed, especially by the larger owners; but with a compulsory end put to horse-racing for the remainder of the year, many of the smaller owners will be compelled to break up their studs owing to their inability to bear the expense of maintaining their stables in idleness.

THE SECRET DEPARTURES.

Now that Lord Kitchener has again spoken for men on draughting efforts on a big scale are being renewed, it is to be hoped that something of a more rousing character will be sanctioned than anything that has been yet permitted. Recruiting bodies and soldiers themselves have done their best, but the difficulty is to create a central interest which will bring crowds of people together with the one thought in their mind. There are two ways to create this central interest, but although they have been repeatedly urged upon the authorities, nothing has been done. The first plan is to let the people see our soldiers when they are going away, and let them give them a send-off; and the second is to make a display of the trophies they have captured. There was certainly good reason why the troops should go away in secrecy in the first half of the war, but is there any real reason now why this secrecy should be so tightly maintained? The enemy know that we are always sending out troops, and they have done their best, without result, to prevent these troops reaching their destination. The time when the troops leave London is no clue to the time when they cross the Channel. So far as one can see there is no reason now why the public should not see our soldiers going off to the war. No more moving and inspiring sight could possibly be conceived than the sight of these young men cheerfully offering themselves for the country. Nothing can appeal so directly to the young man who has delayed joining the army. The enthusiasm aroused by such a sight would rob us, too, of the shamefacedness that most people show when the soldiers go by. The other day in Waterloo Station I saw a company of Guardsmen going off. A few relatives had gathered at the entrance to the platform and a little crowd was held up as the company marched in. An attempt was made to give a cheer, but it died away, and people stood with their hats off watching them file past. The soldiers felt equally awkward, and at last they began to shout to the crowd, "Good Luck!" and "Good Luck to you all!" They—the men going out to the mud and fire, and death on the bloody fields of Flanders—wished us good luck as they left us in secure and comfortable England! Surely the veriest slacker would have felt that!

SHELLS AND AMMUNITION.

I learn that the fighting on the West during the past ten days has caused the War Office and the Government still further to enlarge their ideas on the expenditure of men and ammunition which will be necessary before the German can be expelled from France and Flanders. The question of high explosive shells as opposed to shrapnel shells, has also come up for discussion very strongly. The former are the levelling shells—they sweep away wire entanglements, trench defences, steel shells, guns, etc., and leave the way open for an infantry attack—while the latter, the shrapnel shells, are the men-killers but are no good for destroying defences. It seems to be generally agreed that we must have more high explosive shells, the explosive generally required for these being trinitrotoluol. The expenditure of shells and ammunition has been prodigious on both sides, and wholly beyond the calculations of the thinking and foreseeing branches of the armies of the Allies. Actual experience of war has dispelled forecasts and probabilities, and it is now clear that victory in the last resort will be with the side which can gain and maintain a superiority of munitions. Presumably the German calculations of the consumption of shells and ammunition have been disturbed equally with our own. The factors on which the experts worked out their probabilities were the same, and the German brain was no better able to foresee the realities of expenditure than any other. The question is whether Germany has not been quicker to organize her non-combatant population for a still greater manufacture proportionately with the unexpected depletion of supplies. On this there is no sure information. But what is quite certain is that we shall ourselves have to act with greater and continuous vigor. The situation is serious, and new developments in the Government's organisatory work have become imperative. That, I am assured, is the moral of the recent fighting.

THE RECENT FIGHTING.

An officer's impressions of the recent fighting in Belgium and to the north of Arras, which I heard recently, give an interesting glimpse into the conditions and daily incidents of the struggle. One thing which has been noticed is the careful selection of target which the German gunners seem to make. This, I am informed, is now usually more noticeable than the intensity of their fire. Some of the particular stories about shells falling near the General Headquarters are not true, but it is true that the German gunners systematically search behind the lines for this particularly attractive target. Another point which may justly be emphasized is the credit which the Canadians have won with the rest of the army. They have proved themselves hard and reckless fighters on a soldier's estimate, and there is nothing praiseworthy in the official praises which have been showered on them. There is also, it may be added, a general admiration of the skill with which the French conducted their recent operations north of Arras. Their fire has displayed the traditional French qualities in offensive operations, and their leading in these operations has been very good. It is interesting to know, by the way, that the French troops against which the Germans first used gas were coloured troops, possibly chosen by the enemy as likely to be more susceptible to the first alarm and surprise of this use of the extraordinary weapon.

THE CLERGY AND THE WAR.

It has been remarked that in the clergy training colleges there has been a notable dearth of new students seeking orders since the war began, and hundreds of the younger are known to have vainly begged their Bishops to give them leave to join the army. There are even several instances of clergymen who have resigned living in order to free themselves for enlistment. Some governing bodies connected with the Church are, however, not satisfied with this general appearance of willingness on the part of the present clergy and of most of the students to do military service. They hold the view that even such young men as at this moment wish to take orders should be dissuaded. The Bishop of London's Ordination Candidates Council has passed a resolution to the effect that no candidate shall be accepted unless he proves to the satisfaction of the Council that he is unable to serve in the war.

THE POET AND THE PEOPLE.

No one can have failed to notice the part played by D'Annunzio in the present fateful moment of Italy's life. He returned to Italy for the unveiling of the Quarto monument, after a voluntary exile of some years in Paris, where he lived in an old house in the heart of one of the poorest districts. He saw hardly anybody, and was charmed with the solitude, the silence, the sound of the bells in the distance, the narrow streets with Italian names. From the moment he set foot on Italian soil he became the leader of the people. Every word he said has been treasured. If a politician had said that the rights of Italy were being bartered, the phrase might have been easily put down as a not particularly original attack of a partisan against the men of another party. When D'Annunzio said it, the people adopted it as their watchword, and Giolitti became Signor "Parechio" (Mr. "Much"), in reference to the opinion expressed some time ago that Italy ought to get "much" out of the present war without actually taking part in it. Not even Signor Salandra has been listened to with greater eagerness and reverence than D'Annunzio, and it is certain that no politician could move the people as D'Annunzio did. His information, moreover, proved unimpeachable. Days ago he declared that the Triple Alliance had been denounced by Italy, a fact which was only made public on May 21st. It is known that the greatest wish of the poet is to be attached to an Italian man-of-war, and perhaps to emulate Tallifer and be the first to give his life for his country.

DUKE OF THE ABRUZZI.

The Duke of the Abruzzi, who will, it is said, take command of the Italian Fleet in the event of Italy declaring for intervention in the war, was for a time very prominent in British yachting. In the early nineties of last century he was frequently to be seen at the regattas of the leading Thames and Solent Clubs, and eventually he ordered the racing cutter Bona, which was built at Meadowside for him from designs by the late George Lennox Watson. He was very popular in English yachting circles, and made a point of playing the game in the British spirit. At first the newspapers, following the example of the club committees, gave the title of the owner of Bona its full Italian flavor, without of course calling him Prince or enumerating his Christian names, of which there are half a dozen. Before long, however, the Duke took the necessary steps to put the matter right from his point of view. "I am," he said in effect, "head of the Abruzzi in the same sense as a Highland chieftain is head of his clan. Therefore call me Duke of the Abruzzi."

BRITISH KNIGHTS OF THE BLACK EAGLE.

There are only four British Knights of the Prussian Order of the Black Eagle, and these are likely to accept with complete equanimity the announcement that the German Emperor is about to remove their names from this Order as a reply to his own dismissal from the Order of the Garter recently. These four are the King, the Duke of Connaught, Prince Arthur of Connaught, and the Duke of Wellington. It was the Emperor's desire some two or three years ago to bestow the famous orange ribbon on the Prince of Wales, but the King requested that this honor might be deferred until the Hon. Apparat was twenty-one, so that, had it not been for the war, it is probable that the Prince would just now have been preparing to visit Berlin in order to be admitted to this Order. Shortly after hostilities began, His Majesty formally divested himself of the Black Eagle and returned its insignia to the Emperor, an example that was promptly followed by the Duke of Connaught and the late Earl Roberts. It is understood that since then both Prince Arthur of Connaught and the Duke of Wellington have taken a similar course, so that the present "dismissal" would seem superfluous.

THE WEEK-END WONDERFUL.

Although, alas! it cannot be seen by tens of thousands of London-lovers, this was the great week-end of the year for London beauty. Nature has made up for the absence of 200 customed window-boxes in street and place by the lavishness of her color in every park and garden. Any railway through the near suburbs just now runs through hundreds of little back gardens of foaming blossoms and showers of lilac. It was "Chestnut Sunday" at Bushey, in the southwest suburbs of London, on May 16th, and the grand old avenue there was more splendid than ever with its millions of white spirals, like candles illuminating a great victory. The valley of the Thames is scented with hawthorn and gorse, and there are Guelder roses everywhere. Kew Gardens are painted with bluebells. That lovely road between Richmond a popular river-side resort for Londoners, and Ham House, a particular nest of early Georgian beauty in red-brick houses stained with water, and old garden walls of a deeper hue, and lovely gardens with formal terraces and dense cedars, is now at its finest. It takes you to the great avenue to Ham House, and then down the little avenue of limes, now at its most magical moment with its sweet grey-green color, past the face of the stately house itself, and so to Twickenham Ferry, where you are rowed over for a penny to Twickenham Town, according as it has been written.

WAR HUMOUR IN LONDON'S EAST END.

A visitor to the East End sends to the London Spectator some amusing statements apropos of the war.

What could be more refreshing than to be told by a mother of "my son's money lying, so to speak, dormouse in the bank?"

It is all a little unexpected, when trying sympathetically to take particulars of an absent husband, the wife suddenly throws in: "And I only 'ope 'e'll serve the Germans as 'e served me."

There is a good deal of confusion relating to locality, as in the case of one mother, who said her son was in France, she thought, "working at the basement."

One delightful old lady, in a conspicuously clean room, described her health as never having been good since the hot summer, when she "made too free with water." She was sure the complications of her son's finances would be straightened out if I would write to the "colored sergeant."

Another mother described her younger son as being now in the "fly corpse," while the elder one "had joined the ditch patch riders."
