WHEN LOVE Came Too Late.

CHAPTER XXXI.
"We Shall Save Him Yet."

"Yes, my lord," said Bessie, firmly, "and I will find him and bring him to her, if he is to be found."

She caught the evening up-train, and though she had never been in London before, she faced its strangeness and its vastness without quailing; it seemed as if Olivia had infused something of her own desperate courage and energy into the timid country girl.

She drove to Scotland Yard, and after five minutes' waiting, during which, by the way, Mr. McAndrew had been calmly and keenly scrutinizing her from behind a curtain, she entered.

Bessie delivered Olivia's message word for word.

He looked at her with the simple smile which made his face so innocent and commonplace, then nodded.

"So your mistress wants to see Lord Bertie, does she?" he said, in a kindly fashion. "Hem! so do I; and perhaps we shall both see him presently. What's this?" he asked, as Bessie put the necklace-case in his hand.

"My—my mistress said you would want money, and sent this," faltered Bessie.

The great man smiled softly and opened the case, then suddenly his face changed, and his eyes, as they scanned the magnificent gems closely, grew sharp and keen. But it was only for an instant; the next moment his expression was that of the simple, commonplace individual.

"Where did you get this from—your mistress, I mean?" he asked.

"It was her wedding present from Mr. Faradeane," replied Bessie, in a faltering voice.

"Oh," he said, slowly, "from Mr.

Faradeane. Hem!" He snapped to the case and put it in his pocket. "Yes, we detectives always want money, and you can tell your mistress I'll take care of this. Oh, yes, she can rest easy. I'll take care of it." He stood looking at her in silence for a moment, then he said: "And so your mistress saw Mr. Faradeane in prison this morning, eh?"

Bessie started and crimsoned, and she laughed.

"Now you can go back; you don't mind traveling all night, do you? Because your mistress will be anxious, you know."

"Oh, yes, yes," assented Bessie, eagerly, "and if I can only take her some good news!" and she clasped her hands.

Mr. McAndrew looked down at her thoughtfully, then he smiled and offered her his arm. "I'll take you to the station," he said. He got her some refreshment, put her in a first-class carriage, and, but not until the train was upon the point of starting, said, "How is Mr. Bartley Bradstone?"

Indeed, the engine shrieked and was off with its burden before Bessie could reply.

It was not until she had traveled some distance on her return journey that she realized, what a great many other persons before her had realized, that she had not got anything very definite out of Mr. McAndrew. She had seemed, indeed, to have had no will of her own while in his presence, and to have done exactly as he told her.

She reached Wainford very tired and very dissatisfied, and found a carriage waiting for her.

"Why, now did you know I was coming?" she asked the coachman, who was an old friend of hers.

"The mistress had a telegram from London," he said. "Leastways a telegram came for her this morning."

Bessie stared at him with her eyes widely opened.

"I didn't telegraph," she said. "I meant to take a fly home."

"Well," he laughed, "here we are, you see, and you'd better get in, anyhow."

Puzzled and bewildered, she was about to follow his sensible recommendation, when a woman, with a child in her arms, came up quickly, and, pulling at her jacket, said, with a mixture of timidity and earnestness: "Stop, stop, for God's sake, miss. I—I must speak to you! I've been waiting and watching—"

Bessie turned frightfully, and, as the light fell upon her face, the woman shrank back with a cry of disappointment.

"Oh!" she cried, "I thought it was the young lady—leastways Mrs. Bradstone."

"No, I am her maid," said Bessie. "What is it? Are you ill?" for the woman looked worn and pale, and there were deep lines of anxiety and trouble on her thin face.

"I'll, yes, miss. I'm ill enough, but it isn't that. I'm no account. It was—"

She looked round fearfully. "Come out of hearing, miss!" she whispered, imploringly. "It may be too late—but it's not my fault. I've waited and watched, but I'm watched too. It's about the—murder, miss!"

Bessie's courage and self-possession came back in an instant.

"Wait a moment, James," she said to the coachman, and she followed the woman into the shadow of the station wall.

"I thought it was the young lady," she said, speaking timidly, and with palpable agitation, and hushing the child she carried under her shawl. "I tried to speak to her before, by the lodge gate, where you lived."

"I remember," said Bessie. "You are the gypsy woman."

"Yes, I'm Liz Lee," assented the woman, "and I want to tell her something that I'm afraid to whisper. I'm doing it at the risk of my life, miss. I am, indeed!" and she looked up with a piteous terror into Bessie's eager eyes. "He's promised to do for me, if I dare open my lips! And he'll keep his promise!"

"He? Who?" asked Bessie.

"My husband," came the reply. "He thinks I'm safe at the camp; but I slipped out—and followed the carriage; I thought I was going to meet the young lady." She struggled for the breath which her agitation and alarm seemed to deprive her of; then looking round fearfully, went on: "Is it true, miss, that he'll be hung?"

Bessie's face paled.

"Do you mean Mr. Faradeane?"

"The woman nodded, with a sob.

"Yes, yes. Oh, miss, if they only knew! Him commit a murder! Why, he wouldn't kick a dog as bit 'im, leave alone shoot a helpless woman!"

Bessie could have fallen upon the poor creature's neck.

"Go on, go on!" she said, trembling.

"You know something! You will not let him come to harm?"

"No, miss—if I could help it. Look here!" She drew her shawl aside, and revealed the face of a little child sleeping peacefully in her arms. "If it hadn't have been for him she'd have been underground by this time! He saved her life; yes, he did! He spoke to me as nobody ever spoke before, and I can't—I can't—let him come to harm!"

"Go on, go on!" implored Bessie. The woman drew closer to her.

"I know who did the murder, miss!" she whispered, huskily.

Bessie caught her arm.

"Tell me! tell me!" she panted.

The woman trembled under the grasp.

"Promise me, swear to me, miss, that you won't tell who told you—won't give my name up."

"I promise," said Bessie, solemnly: "whatever happens, you shall come to no hurt. I promise for him, as well as for myself."

"Ah, no; he wouldn't see me hurt!" said Liz Lee. "Well, then—"

She stopped suddenly and uttered a cry.

A carriage had dashed up to the station at a tremendous rate; the whistle of the up-train was heard in the distance.

"Quick! quick!" exclaimed Bessie. But the woman seemed to have lost all power of speech, and was staring at the carriage from which a gentleman had alighted.

Bessie looked over her shoulder. It was Mr. Bartley Bradstone.

"You know him!" she said, instant-

EXTREME WEAKNESS AND SUFFERING

Read How Mrs. Goodling got Relief and Strength.

York, Pa.—"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found it to be all you say it is. I was so sick that I could not stand at my sink to wash dishes and I could not sit without a pillow under me. I had the doctor every few days but since I have taken the Compound I don't have to send for him. I have had three children and could not raise any of them, but since I have taken the Compound I have a bright baby boy. I advise every suffering woman to try it and get relief. It has done wonders for ailing women. Try it and see for yourself."

—Mrs. CATHERINE GOODLING, 138 E. King Street, York, Pa.

When a medicine has been successful in bringing health to so many, no woman has a right to say without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me." There must be more than a hundred thousand women in this country who, like Mrs. Goodling, have proven what wonders Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can do for weak and ailing women. Try it and see for yourself.

If there are any complications you don't understand, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

ly. "Does he know anything of the murder; does he—"

The woman shuddered as she watched him go up the stairs.

"No, it's a fate!" she gasped. "Oh, I'm afraid to tell, afraid, afraid!" and she seemed unable to remove her eyes from his receding figure.

Bessie almost shook in her agony of suspense.

"You must!" she said. "You have gone too far."

"If I must!" panted the woman. "Yes, he does know. Don't let him get away. Do you hear? Stop him! Follow him—"

In her uncertainty and excitement, Bessie took half a dozen steps towards the station platform.

Then she turned, and with a start, found a man standing between her and the woman, who was cowering against the wall, as if she had just received a blow.

"What, you, Liz!" he said, addressing the woman, but keeping his eyes on Bessie. "You're drunk again, are you? What plant have you been a-puttin' on this young lady? You ought to be ashamed of yourself. What's she been a-sayin', miss?" And he turned to Bessie with a half-threatening, half-whispering air. "Something about this yer murder, wasn't it? Blessed if this yer murder haven't gone and turned my missus' head. Don't pay any attention to her, miss! I 'umby begs pardon for her. She ought to know better than to stop a lady with her rubbidge!" and, seizing the woman's arm, he hurried her to the steps.

"Stop!" said Bessie, "stop! She is not drunk, and you know it! She shall speak!"

The man glanced hurriedly up at the platform, at which the up-train was just arriving, and, tightening his hold on the woman's arm, swung her round. She was crying covertly.

Local Fish Carrier Torpedoes

IN MEDITERRANEAN.

The crew of the Maggie Belle, which arrived here a few days ago, which made history during her absence of virtually nine months, that some few months ago a New foundland fish carrier was torpedoed in the Mediterranean sea, where the Maggie Belle had such a chequered experience. The name of the vessel we are informed, was the John Pritchard, which was fish laden and on her way to Greece. The Maggie Belle was bound to the same destination. The latter vessel went ashore and while around her crew saw a submarine approach and torpedoed the "Pritchard." The crew was taken off and the vessel sent to the bottom. But for the accident that befell the Maggie Belle she might have shared the same fate as that of the other fish carrier.

BOYS LIBERATED.—The two arrested a few days ago for stealing turnips, were before Judge Hutcheon and discharged.

Bay de Verde Notes.

A terrific gale raged here on Monday morning and caused great destruction to fishing property. The schrs. Edith V. Greta and Mary Alberta parted their moorings and went ashore and are practically total wrecks. The former schooner belonged to Fortune and was loading fish for Halifax; she had 380 qtrs. fish on board. The latter schooner belonged to Mr. Moses Blundon and had 280 qtrs. nearly all the Blundons summer's voyage. The loss is a very heavy one as there was no insurance on either schooner or fish and as Mr. Blundon is one of our youngest and most energetic fishermen, the sympathy of the whole community will go out to him. About 40 fishing boats were destroyed and several motor boats lost. Stages, with few exceptions were carried away and the greater part broken to pieces. The loss is estimated from eight to ten thousand dollars.

The schooner Sea Bell, J. Morris, with a load of fish on board collided with a motor boat, breaking the jib-boom of the Sea Bell and smashing up the motor boat.

Mr. Thomas Lockyer of St. John's arrived by S.S. Susu on a business trip.

The storm has seriously impeded fishery operations and many of the fishermen will have to abandon the voyage owing to the destruction of their fishing property.

The price paid for fish has now reached the $7.00 mark, while Labrador cure is quoted at $6.00 here. Even at these prices it will be difficult for many to make two ends meet when we consider that four and all the necessities of life have advanced to unprecedented prices.

Wedding Bells.

COLBERT—MURPHY.
 A very pretty but quiet wedding took place last evening at St. Patrick's Church, the contracting parties being Mr. Thos. Colbert to Miss Rose Murphy, both of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Pippy. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. John Byrne, while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Jas. Colbert. The happy couple drove to their future residence, McKay Street, where the immediate friends of both partook of refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Colbert were the recipients of many presents.

City Fathers Met Last Night.

Mayor Gosling and Councillor Tait's Letters to the Press Criticized.

Mayor Gosling presided at last night's meeting of the City Council, the full board being present. It is not customary for citizens to attend Municipal meetings, and not for several years have there been any visitors, other than representatives of the press, but the spell was broken last night when a small number put in an appearance.

Councillor Mullaly criticized the letters written to the press by Mayor Gosling and Councillor Tait. The Mayor explained the meaning of his communication which was accepted by Councillor Mullaly, who on attempting further discussion was ruled out of order, and the matter was dropped. The same Councillor asked that the Government be requested to send a formal report of the street car accident of the 17th.

On complaint of P. J. Denief, Quiddi Vidi Road of the condition of that thoroughfare, the Engineer will report.

A complaint from a resident of York Street of the condition of that street will also be attended to by the Engineer.

The Horwood Lumber Co. asked permission to excavate in Bambrick St. for the purpose of making fast stays to support the smoke-stack in their factory. They also acknowledged receipt of bills for $660 from the Council, the cost of laying a water main to their factory from which their newly installed fire apparatus would receive its supply of water, and suggested that as the city would benefit by the new main in the addition of an extra hydrant, a reduction might be made.

At the suggestion of Councillors Mullaly and Tait, the Mayor appointed Councillors Ayre and Brownrigg to inquire into the matter.

Mrs. C. Feild, Feild Street, wrote asking the Council for assistance, as her husband, an employee of the city council for the past 38 years, was ill. The Secretary will attend to the matter.

M. J. Power, 74 Patrick Street, asked to have the hopper removed from in front of his house.

Councillors Tait and Morris will visit the spot and report.

W. Chafe, 10 Stewart Avenue, asked permission to make extensions to his house. The Engineer will report.

On report of Inspector Rooney, who submitted a list of houses in Pennywell Road not connected with the sewer, it was ordered that the regular term notice be sent. Owners of other houses in the city similarly situated will receive notice from the Council's Solicitor.

Supervisor Dwyer, of the Sanitary Department, in answer to a complaint that the Sanitary men were depositing night soil in one of the man-holes on Reginald's Mill Road, said it was impossible for his men to perform such an act. Inspector Bambrick was granted $50 to repair Springdale Street.

Thos. Driscoll, Hamilton Avenue, will have to submit plans before he can build a small store.

During Sunday night's storm some damage was done the Sanitary Stables, which will be repaired.

The meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock.

REPAIRS ALMOST COMPLETED.

Painting and repairs to the s.s. Pere Marquette will soon be completed. When ready for sea she will load cod-fish for England.

Wounded Veteran Returning

Mrs. LeMessurier, Masonic Terrace, received a message from her husband, Pte. Frank LeMessurier, on Tuesday saying he was leaving Liverpool on the 27th by the S.S. Scandanavian for home. Pte. LeMessurier was with "Ours" during the trying days on the Gallipoli Peninsula and was attached to a machine gun section, but escaped with slight injury. Being of an exceptionally strong physique, he soon recovered and with his greatly diminished Regiment was sent back to Egypt for a well earned rest. Leaving the lands of the Pharos, he was shortly after landed in France, and accustomed himself to a far different class of warfare, in which he was called upon to perform some advance work prior to the big drive on July 1st. In company with his gallant comrades he dashed towards the German trenches, and in that immortal charge, described by military experts as "Hell let loose," he was twice wounded in the left thigh and leg. Pte. LeMessurier is the proud father of five children and his patriotic action should cause many young men throughout the country who are physically fit to blush with shame.

ROYAL THEATRE STAR HALL.

A very large audience assembled at the Royal Theatre and all left well pleased with the fine show. The pictures were magnificent from the Lubin and Biograph Companies. To-night as a great many are asking the manager Mr. Ryall, to put on the Great War Picture "The Soldier's Son," by special request it will be shown for the last time and those who had not the pleasure of seeing this picture on Monday night can do so. To-night Miss Ryall will sing "Widow Macree," and Miss Cleary in popular war songs. Miss Petrie will preside at the piano. As the admission is only 5 cents all over the hall, a large audience should attend.

Overland Cars Are Built to Last.

Ed. St. Pierre, taxi owner in Wolcott, Ind., owns a Model 59 T Overland, which he has driven 117,000 miles in livery work of all kinds. In writing to the Overland factory recently of his performance he says that his repairs for the entire period have not aggregated $100. "And it is still in fine condition," he says, "I have not missed a single day on account of the car."

SPORTSMEN RETURN.—A batch of sportsmen, who had been hunting for porcupine and other game since the opening of the shooting season on the 20th, returned to town last night. All had poor bags.

EVERY STATION REPORTED.—We learn from the Postal Telegraphs that with the exception of a few broken insulators, and falling trees that rested across the wires, no other damage was done, and that twenty-four hours after Sunday night's storm every station reported.

THE ATHOS AT GLASGOW.—A message received in the city last evening from Glasgow said that the s.s. Athos had arrived there after a passage of 12 days from Trepassey. The Athos, which docked here for repairs to her hull and bows as the result of a severe pounding at Peter's River, will be examined at Glasgow.

FISHERMEN DO WELL.—About a dozen fishing crews were out on the local grounds yesterday and again this morning. God was found fairly plentiful and practically all the boats returned to port with full fares. Large quantities of newly cured fish also reached the city yesterday from suburban points and the well made article fetched an unusually high price per cwt.

Russia On the Move

It seems as if the silence kept so long by the Russian staff is, at last to be broken. The short message this morning tells of successful activities in a region where they are certain to have good effect. Following the recent stiffening of both the German and Austrian lines in the East, the Russians were checked at many places and Berlin claimed a few victories, but it was admitted that Brussloff's army in the Carpathians had made progress. Now he is clearly on the move again from Bukovina, where his forces are almost in touch with the Roumanians. The line from Kimpolung to Marmarosziget is an important one, for it directly flanks the great Transylvania salient. We have heard little from the Roumanians there for some days, but these silences are becoming familiar. If a joint offensive by our Allies, carried on in concert and at full strength, takes place in this region, it should have a momentous effect. If it did not at once achieve its object, the breaking down of the barriers before Hungary, it would be because those living barriers had received auxiliaries in great number from elsewhere, and thus another of the cardinal aims of the Allies' strategy had been achieved.

The fact that the new Russian offensive, which is yet in its beginning, comes on the heels of the great western army. Fritz may find an antidote, but it will take him some time and time is precious on the Somme front.

The London Times states that Sir Edward Morris informed his audience at a luncheon given by the West India Club, that "Newfoundland, a country larger than Ireland, only a few years ago had not a human habitation a mile from the coast." This is evidently one of those elastic statements to be varied as occasion demands. We can imagine with what a storm of indignation it would be repudiated at another time and coming from another source. It seems a little out of place, too, in its present connection. Evidently our Premier was hinting that a little capital would be welcome here. A strange inducement to hold out to investors, to represent our country as just emerging from a state of wilderness! After all, we can hardly expect outsiders to know the truth about us if we cannot tell it ourselves.

Attacked and Robbed

BY AN UNKNOWN SCOUNDREL LAST NIGHT.

Mrs. James Dodd, aged 30 years, who lives on Freshwater Road in the suburbs of the city, will not forget for some considerable time to come the fright she got early last night as a result of being attacked and robbed by some villainous and unknown assailant. Mrs. Dodd had been in town yesterday making some purchases and transacting other business. She was going home last evening unaccompanied. It was just about seven o'clock and darkness was setting in. When near Oxen Pond, a distance of close on three miles from town, she was attacked by a scamp, who seemingly lay in ambush when she saw the woman approach and when she drew closer he savagely pounced upon her, beat her brutally about the head and then knocked her to the ground and took her purse containing $20. The woman screamed and attracted the attention of two small boys, who ran hurriedly to the scene and threw stones at the villain, who by this time was making off at a lively clip. Mrs. Dodd lay on the ground bleeding and in a fainting condition. It was some hours before she could proceed home, aided by her husband, who is particularly anxious to meet the outlaw who attacked her. Mrs. Dodd describes her assailant as a thick set fellow, of medium height, who wore dark clothes and a down peak cap. The matter has been reported to the police. It will be a pity if such a scoundrel is not captured and given his just deserts.

Infectious Disease.

Infectious disease of various kinds continues to increase daily in the city. A new outbreak of measles was reported to the Health authorities by the Methodist College. The malady has shown itself on a boarder who has been removed to the hospital. The College is undergoing thorough disinfection and everything is being done to prevent a spread of the disease.

Do not allow chicken or fowl of any kind to soak in water before cooking—the flavor will be spoiled.

 To-night, by special request, the great war picture in 3 parts will be shown at the Royal Theatre. As this film is a masterpiece, entitled everyone should see it. Miss Ryall will sing "Widow Macree." Miss Cleary in popular songs.

FRESH RUSSIAN SUCCESSES.
PETROGRAD, To-day.
 The Russian commander General Brussloff has pushed forward his left wing during recent days to the highway running between Kimpolung and Marmaros, cutting that important Austro-German line of communication some miles above Kirilbaba. After a series of desperate battles, the Russians succeeded in capturing the mountain overlooking the highway, which gave them an important strategic advantage. At the same time they took a range of mountains overlooking Kirilbaba; according to a correspondent at Novoe Vremya that town was for the first time in the campaign under the fire of Russian cannon. Immediately to the north of this district, the Russians forged ahead in the upper reaches of the Charny-Chromosh, where the stream bends southward to Kutly. In this extremely difficult mountainous country, offering every advantage to the defenders, the advance has been made against tremendous odds. Success has been achieved by General Brussloff's centre in the neighborhood of Manouva and Kharbuzoff, villages on the Upper Sereth, where the Russians made an advance in the face of strong German reinforcements, capturing 1,500 Austro-German prisoners. A recapture of prisoners and booty taken by Brussloff's army, as sent out by the staff, shows a total since the offensive began of 420,000 officers and men made prisoners and the capture of 2,500 guns and mine throwers and six hundred cannon.

FRENCH GAINS.
PARIS, To-day.
 Some further progress was made by the French last night between Fregiecourt and Morval on the Somme front, according to a statement issued by the War Office. On the Salonika front the Serbians repulsed four Bulgarian attacks in Kaimakacalan.
MORNING POST ATTACKS LLOYD GEORGE.
LONDON, To-day.
 A bitter attack by the Morning Post on Lloyd George has stirred London.

The Post's intimation of friction between civilian and army officials is considered unjustified and due to misapprehension and over-zealousness. However, they believe it may serve the Government's purpose in the growing light of publicity upon the unpleasant rumors that are wide-spread and in clearing up the situation.

REMAINS TO BE SEEN.

LONDON, To-day.
 The Allies cannot break through the lines on the Somme, Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg told the Reichstag yesterday, according to an account of his speech to Reuters' by way of Amsterdam. The German Prime Minister made a similar statement in regard to the eastern front. The English and French, it is true, he said, have achieved advantages.

TO CONVOY INTERNED CRUISERS.

NEWPORT NEWS, To-day.
 Eight American battleships will convoy the interned German cruisers Kronprinz, Wilhelm and Prinzseitl Friedrich when they leave here tomorrow morning for the Philadelphia navy yard, each of the cruisers will be under the command of an American naval officer, and the transportation is being made because the Portsmouth yard is overcrowded.

HOLLWEG'S SPEECH.

BERLIN, To-day.
 The speech of the Chancellor in the Reichstag to-day contains no peace proffers, which he declared would be useless in view of the Entente Allies' attitude. There was no intimation in the speech of a resumption of submarine warfare. The Chancellor scathingly arraigned England as Germany's relentless and unscrupulous foe, and declared that the statement who refrained from using all possible and suitable weapons and tactics such an enemy, owing to sentiments of consideration or a desire to keep open a basis for future understanding, deserves to be hanged.
 Our first lines have been pressed back some kilometers, and we have also to deplore heavy losses in men and material. That was inevitable in an offensive on such a mighty scale, but what our enemies hoped to accomplish, namely, to break through on a grand scale and roll up our position, has not been attained. The battle of the Somme will cost further sacrifices, still another trench and another village may be lost, but they will not get through on the western front.

The Chancellor said the Russians had renewed their offensive with heavy attacks and predicted the same result here too. The battle is progressing, he said, but just as surely shall we hold our own. Referring to Roumania, the Chancellor said that the old King of Roumania has died as the result of mental excitement caused by the consciousness that Roumania had betrayed her Allies. The speaker said that Roumania's entrance into the war would bring in its trail the succession of Turkey and Bulgaria, but Turkey and Bulgaria were not Roumania and Italy, he concluded.

The Army and Navy Sports.

A favourable change in the weather made possible the Army and Navy Sports at St. George's Field yesterday afternoon and contributed not a little to their success. There was a large attendance and consequently large proceeds, which will be given to the W. P. A. The organization and arrangement of the sports were the work of the committee of both services, consisting of petty officers and N. C. O.'s. The refreshment tents, which did much to swell the total, were under the supervision of Mrs. MacDermott, who had the assistance of several other ladies. Another attraction was provided by the bands of the Church Lads' Brigade and the Catholic Cadet Corps, which played selections during the afternoon. The sports were held under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor, who, with Lady Davidson, was present. Sir W. H. and Lady Horwood, Commander MacDermott and Officers of H.M.S. Briton, Sir Joseph Outerbridge, Hon. J. R. Bennett and other prominent citizens were also present. The program was as follows: Flat Race; Obstacle Race, Army only; Three-legged Race; Skipping Rope Race; Sack Race, Army only; First Aid Race; Wheelbarrow Race; Attack Race, Army only; Red Cross Race; Sack Race, Army only; Alert Race, Navy only; Tug-of-War, Army and Navy; Obstacle Race, Army and Navy. The various items were all of a military or naval character and many of them unique to the interested and amused spectators. The most closely contested event of the day was the Tug-of-War, which was only won by the Army after the teams had twice changed places. The prizes donated by Mr. J. S. Munn and consisting of pipes, cigarettes and tobacco, were presented by the Governor at the close of the programme. The sports were a success in every way and reflected great credit upon the originality and 'savoir faire' of the organizers. It is expected that the net returns will be large.

The Runaway Spirit.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Did you ever plan to run away when you were a child? Of course you did if you were a normal child. Probably you had been punished in a way that seemed unfair to you, you were burning with a sense of injustice, you wanted to make the grown-ups sorry, and so you decided to run away.

You pictured yourself going down the street with your clothes wrapped up in a handkerchief, you imagined your mother coming to your room and not finding you. Maybe you planned a note to be pinned on the pin-cushion, a touching note that said perhaps you would come back some day. Perhaps you even went so far as to write that note, or even further, and shook the money out of your bank and packed some of your clothes into a bundle.

You decided Not To "Make The World Your Pillow."

And then something always happened. Maybe you told your mother you were going away in the hope that it would make her repent. Or, maybe, as you had hoped she would, she came up and found you getting ready and kissed you and you decided not to "make the world your pillow" that night.

But I started to write about the runaway spirit and here my pen has run away with me.

Plans to actually run away belong to childhood but the runaway spirit never leaves us.

Don't You Sometimes Envy Tom Sawyer!

Only it manifests itself in different ways as we grow older. When we want to make people sorry we sometimes vaguely plan a much longer journey. Fortunately the thought that it is a journey from which no man returns, safely deters us. Besides what is the use of making people sorry if you can't see them? I never envied any one so much as Tom Sawyer the day he attended his own funeral.

Again the runaway spirit manifests itself in our restless belief that somewhere else, in some new home, in some different business, in some new locality, some new relationship, we should be entirely different from what we have ever been before.

We Want To Run Away From Ourselves.

We want to run away from ourselves. And we can't. And we can gradually change those selves but we can't suddenly get away from them.

The wisest way is to estimate one's powers, recognize that they can't be suddenly changed, use them to their fullest, and slowly but surely enlarge them.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."

"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured. You can get Zylex at your druggists."

Queen Serves Two Years as Scrubwoman

One of the World's Most Remarkable Stories Comes from Bordeaux Concerning Nathalie of Serbia.

New York, Sept. 19.—The Evening Sun publishes the following from Paris, under current date:—"Former Queen Nathalie of Serbia, whose disappearance at the beginning of the war was one of the mysteries of the world conflict, has been found working as a common serving woman, doing the most menial services in one of the big war hospitals in Bordeaux.

"The identity of the royal scrubwoman was made known by Jean De Bonnefont, a well known journalist, while he was making an investigation of the hospital service in Bordeaux. De Bonnefont, who used to attend court ceremonies at Belgrade, found the widow of King Milan cleaning the hospital floor.

"At the opening of the war the queen, a figure in the most tragic of Europe's court histories, placed her Biarritz palace in the hands of the hands of the Princes Ghika for use as a military hospital.

"The wounded soldiers are totally ignorant of her identity. They speak gratefully of her 'saintly goodness,' and her untiring efforts to aid them. At the queen's urgent request the exact location of the hospital is kept secret, as she intends working incognito until the end of the war."

THROAT BEAUTY.

No part of the body shows age more quickly than the throat, when the face is still fresh and plump the neck will grow creased and shriveled, and so it behooves milady who would be beautiful to take the very best care of her neck.

Scrawny throats, fat throats, flabby throats with double chins are all unsightly, and all must be corrected if you wish to take your place in the ranks of well groomed and beautiful women.

All the care in the world will not give you a pretty throat if you carry yourself badly. Remember that the sky is prettier than the ground, and look up when you walk. When resting bring the book up to a level with your eyes, so that you will not have to drop your head, else you will have a double chin.

Sleeping with the head dropped on the chest is another disastrous habit and will defeat all your good resolutions in wide awake hours. It is just as easy to sleep with the head thrown back and far more healthy for the lungs.

The wearing of high stiff collars tends to leave an ugly red ring around the throat. If care is not taken, the ring will assume a brownish tint, and eventually will be impossible to remove. Before retiring every night, one should give the neck and throat a brisk massage with a complexion brush, dipped in warm soap suds. This will preserve the whiteness and softness in spite of the harsh collar.

Universities and Business Life.

Empire Review:—It is often urged that a university career unfits a man for business life. I doubt whether there is much truth in the contention. A man may be temporarily delayed by his university training, but the habits of mind he has formed, and the spirit of culture he has acquired, are likely to stand him in good stead eventually, and fully to compensate him for any disadvantage he may incur at the outset. The fact that a majority of our ablest civil servants and of our most prominent and successful lawyers are university men would seem to dispose of the theory that the present curriculum unfits its devotees for practical life. In fact, a university career is indirectly helpful to any man of ordinary ability and character, while in addition it gives him those priceless attributes of true culture—attributes which will soften the road of life and provide a welcome refuge from the monotony of daily routine. By all means do everything that is possible to reform and increase the academic and intellectual efficiency of the universities, but do not embark on the perilous and mistaken course of harnessing them to the business system of this country. They are not meant to be seminaries for commercial houses; their ideals are more lofty than those dictated by the maxims of worldly prudence and materialism. The universities are symbolical of the grandeur and dignity of national history; at present they embody all that is noblest and most enduring in national tradition. Let them so remain.

BUY YOUR Floor COVERINGS

—FROM—
BLAIR'S
Because they will Save you Money.

They are offering a big variety of patterns in the New American Floor Coverings at $1.10 yard.

You can buy these same Floor Cloths somewhere else for $1.20 and that is the usual price, but Blair's say September being a kind of a quiet month they can easily cut more Floor Cloths than, so the cut in the price cuts two ways.

They say according to the prices the manufacturers are now quoting, these coverings would cost them all this to land.

They show a big range of Block and Floral Patterns, as they have the manufacturers of three different makers, viz.: Congoleum, Feltoleum and Neponset, and show the best patterns of each make. These are much better than cheap Floor Canvas, of which the cheapest to-day is about $1.00 per yard.

This is mainly because the basic material for Cheap Floor Canvas is Burlap or Brin, and the immediate demand for that is tremendous. It is estimated that for the making of sand bags and the wrapping of foodstuffs, etc., for the Army, that the British Government calls for sixty million square yards per week. Therefore the price of brin has more than doubled. But Blair's are trying to help you all they can on prices, therefore remember—

BRITISH GAINS.
LONDON, Sept. 28. During the night our men advanced on various points of Martinpich and Guedocourt, and posts established west and southwest of Escourt L-a baye, within 800 yards of that village. On our left our position was consolidated. On the ridge N.E. of Thiepvat a battalion of enemy infantry with transport was caught on the march by our artillery and successfully shelled. Fighting the past few days has been singularly economical, our losses being small, not only relatively in importance to our gains, but absolutely. Our total casualties are not more than twice the number of enemy prisoners taken. One division, which had a difficult task allotted to it, took as many prisoners as it suffered casualties.

THE REICHSTAG SESSION.
BERLIN, via London, Sept. 28. The autumn session of the Reichstag which begins to-morrow, will be only in a minor degree a legislative occurrence. It will partake far more of the character of a political manifestation on the one hand, and an announcement of the Chancellor's faith and an explanation of his conduct of Imperial affairs; and on the other hand a strong offensive from a group of stalwarts, which for long months have been fighting Bethmann's policy.

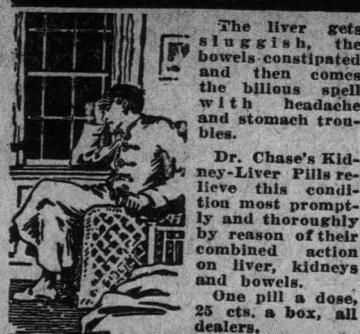

ANOTHER SUBMARINE TO SAIL.
LONDON, Sept. 28. The Amsterdam correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company says that travellers who have arrived from Bremen, report that a third German commercial submarine will be ready to sail within a month. This submarine is to be known as the Kaiser, and it is said to be slightly larger than the Deutschland.

ASSAULTS REPULSED.
PARIS, Sept. 28. A strong attack was made by the Germans last night on the Verdun front between Thiaumont and Fleury. The War Office announced to-day that the assaults had been repulsed with heavy losses for the Germans. On the Somme front French batteries are actively bombarding German positions.

BULGARIAN ATTACKS FAIL.
LONDON, Sept. 28. The repulse of four successive Bulgarian attacks on the Kaimakalan mountain is described in a despatch from Serbian headquarters to Reuter's, dated Wednesday. The despatch says that the Bulgarians, after receiving reinforcements of more than a regiment, yesterday, attacked the Serbian line at Kaimakalan. In the darkness they were able to get into the first line of trenches, but at heavy sacrifice. An officer who was taken prisoner, said that crossing the space between the opposing lines was like walking over a field of corpses. Des-operate hand-to-hand fighting occurred in the trenches. The Bulgarians attacked four times, but were driven out and finally retired, beaten. The Serbian losses were heavy, and those of the Bulgarians fearful; fifty prisoners were taken.

Bulgarian forces made two attacks last night near Florina on the western end of the Macedonian front. Repulse of these attacks by the French and Russians is reported in an official announcement given out here to-day. No further attack on Kaimakalan height has been undertaken by the Bulgarians.

PROMINENT SHIPPING MAN DEAD.
LONDON, Sept. 28. Sir Chas. Cayzer died this morning at Aberfoyle, Scotland. Sir Charles, who was 73 years of age, was head of the prominent shipping firm of Cayzer, Irvine & Co., owners of the Clan Line of steamers. For many years he sat in Parliament for Barrow-in-Furness, being the first Conservative elected for Barrow. His daughter married Sir John Jellicoe, Commander-in-Chief of the British Home Fleets, in 1902.

PARIS, Sept. 28. Violent cannonading continued on the Somme front, says an official tonight. Elsewhere there is nothing of importance.

Your Boys and Girls.

Just now mothers all over the land have the school lunch box problem to solve each day. The child naturally craves sweets and they should be given in moderate amounts, as they are necessary to furnish fuel. Sweets should be given at the close of the meal so that they may not clog the taste for the substantial things.

Eggs cooked hard and well seasoned make a most satisfactory sandwich filling. The sandwich is an important factor and should have first place in the lunch box. Besides now may be bought at a small price which will hold a hot drink of soup, cocoa or milk, these being the drinks best for a child. A handful of nuts or raisins or a few figs or dates will add to the enjoyment of a lunch as well as to its nutritive value.

Fresh fruit, apple or orange, a cake of sweet chocolate or a few pieces of good candy make a well enjoyed finish to a meal.

Our Air Supremacy.

"In moments of despondency let us bear these few facts in mind," says the aeronautical correspondent of the Telegraph. "The anti-aircraft defences of our islands are more perfectly organized at the present time than those obtaining in any other country, and Germany, with its occupied territories, in chief. If we cannot ward off air attacks, still less can the Germans. For every raid they have made over here, we have made a dozen over their territory and more.

"Most important of all—since this alone can affect the final issue of the war—every one of our raids has been aimed at the securing of some military objective, and in nine cases out of ten that objective has been secured. But for all their preparations and threats of frightfulness the Huns have never yet attained their aims."

A Thousand Times More Daring.
"It is scarcely probable that the enemy air service would be particularly pleased if it knew just what a soldier of the 125th Regiment, captured in Delville Wood, had written about it in his diary," says Reuter's correspondent.

He says:—"During the day one hardly dares to be seen in the trench, owing to the English aeroplanes. They fly so low it is a wonder that they do not pull one out of the trench. Nothing is to be seen of our German hero airmen, and yet the brilliant ratio is supposed to be twenty-one to eighty-nine! The fact that the English are a thousand times more daring was, however, not mentioned. One can hardly calculate how much additional loss of life and strain on the nerves this costs us. I often feel doubtful regarding the issue of our good cause when such bad fighters are there to champion it."

If Your Throat is Husky, Catarrh May be Starting.

A weak or irritated throat is the first step towards Catarrh. Every thing depends on your remedy. A cough mixture slips quickly over the weak spots, drops into the stomach and does little but harm digestion. It's altogether different with Catarrhazone—it cures because it gets right at the trouble. You inhale Catarrhazone, breathe in the vapor of healing balsams that strengthen and restore the weak throat tissues. You'll never have colds or coughs. Throat trouble and catarrh will disappear with the use of Catarrhazone. Get the large dollar outfit which includes the inhaler, it lasts two months and is guaranteed to cure. Smaller sizes, 25c. and 50c., sold everywhere.

STRANGE DOINGS.

Such strange things happen every day! Old Hiram is a stingy jay, who never once, since he was planned, blew in a cent with heedless hand. All through his journey in this vale, his motto was, "Salt down the kale!" A dime was bigger, to his view, than is a skating rink to you. The large round dollar was his god; no charity could touch his wad; privation could not make appeal that would obtain from him one wheel. No safe investment, in his town, could make him lay some money down; he slaved and starved to gain the plank, and hid his plunder in his trunk. And then a stranger came along, and gave old Hiram a dance and song; he had a patent truss to sell, which truss would make a sick man well. Enchanted by his siren tones, old Hiram dug up a thousand bones. The stranger took that princely roll, and jumped the town, the genial soul. That truss (which heals all sickly gents), our druggist sells for fifty cents, and Hiram haunts the busy mart, and talks about his broken heart.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mr. Hibbs, of the Union Trading Co., was in town yesterday in connection with the sinking of the schr. Dorothy on Monday morning.

The sellers of glass, putty and nails did quite a business this week, as people are repairing damages caused by Monday morning's breeze.

The schr. New Mary, Duggan, master, is taking on board a load of lumber from the Horwood Lumber Co., for Grate's Cove.

The schr. Eclipse was floated yesterday and is now on the dock undergoing repairs. The damage sustained by contact with the rocks is not as great as at first thought.

Mr. James Tetford and his wife and child, after a visit to friends here are leaving to-morrow for their home in Sydney. Mr. Tetford's sister, Mrs. Jno. Farmer, and two children will also go to Sydney to reside.

A young man of Water St. West happened to notice a heavy board fence lying across Water Street about 2 o'clock on Monday morning, and fearing a doctor or some other traveller in the darkness would come in contact with it, he set to work all alone to remove it, although it was not his, nor had he connection with it. After considerable hard work he had the road passable, when he retired to his home with no doubt the feeling of "I did my best." Another person passing at the time refused assistance, saying no person was responsible. We commend the young-man with that thoughtful idea of saving some person from accident or perhaps death.

The grocery and provision store of Mr. Joseph Ross presents a very attractive appearance just now in its new coat of paint, and pretty red blinds with gold lettering. Mr. Ross has devoted his life to the grocery and provision business, and has a way of arranging his goods and his windows in a way such that the public cannot help being attracted by its clean, bright appearance; with its fruit, vegetables, etc., nicely arranged. We congratulate Mr. Ross on the attractiveness of his premises.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Spencer were among the passengers from Bell Island to this town on Saturday last by the s.s. Port Saunders. They returned to the island on Sunday evening.

Mr. Grace, Sept. 27, 1916.

Makes Hair Grow.

All drug stores sell SALVIA, and it is guaranteed to grow hair or money back.

The time to take care of your hair is when you first notice it to be thinning. If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears.

The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, the Great American Hair Grower, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed. And remember it destroys the Dandruff germ, the little pest that saps the life that should go to the hair from the roots. SALVIA is sold by first-class drug-gists under a positive guarantee to cure Dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in ten days, or money back. A large bottle costs 50c. The word "SALVIA" on every bottle.

Vegetable Sale.

The vegetable sale at St. Joseph's school-room, Holytown, for the benefit of the new church building, was a success in every respect. It opened early yesterday afternoon with a large gathering and continued up to 10 p.m. There was a bounteous supply of cabbage, turnips, potatoes and other vegetables, all of which, however, were quickly disposed of at prices within the reach of the humblest purse. Teas, which would suit the appetite of the most fastidious, were served during the sale and the ladies in charge did a brisk business. This morning the stocks of vegetables were replenished and the sale resumed, closing at five o'clock this afternoon when preparations will be made for a concert, which will begin at 8.15 and which promises to be one of the best of its kind ever witnessed here. The proceeds realized up to last night were beyond expectations and to the efforts of Miss N. Fitzpatrick, the promoter, and her energetic assistants as well, the success of the affair is mainly due.

Germany Will Try to Get Armistice in October Report

Special Star Cable by E. L. Keen, of the United Press.

London, Sept. 28.—Germany will set another peace kite flying about the middle of October, British officials, both military and civil, confidently expect.

Recent apparently well-authenticated rumors have reached London that Germany, suffering huge losses because of the recent Allied offensive, is endeavoring to suggest an armistice through Spain or the United States.

It is understood on reliable authority that King Alfonso so far is unresponsive and is unlikely to act. The Germans, it is believed here, hope to tempt President Wilson to start negotiations at a time when any attendant success would be likely to affect favorably his chances of reelection.

Americans conversant with inside British sentiment feel certain that any such move on the part of Washington would not only be fated for failure, but would arouse the most bitter resentment of the Allies and also permanently eliminate Washington as a possible mediator.

Every indication points not only to the oneness of purpose of all the Allies to continue the war until a decisive peace is obtainable, but to the fact that the army, the navy and political leaders are thoroughly united in the determination to assume responsibility if necessary, for the war's continuation after Germany is willing to quit.

HISTORY WILL TESTIFY.

If this does become necessary, they will leave it to history to justify the additional carnage in the interests of the removal of the menace of militarism.

It is no secret that the Anglo-French are prepared, both in numbers and munitions, to continue the present offensive indefinitely, regardless of winter weather. Although there was much nervousness a year ago when any definite peace proposals from Germany on a basis merely of abandonment of the occupied territory might have been considered sympathetically by the military authorities in view of the real precariousness of the situation, they feel that now everything favors the Allies and that such an abandonment of occupied territory would only be to Germany's detriment.

BE READY for the cold weather. Get in your supply of FUEL GAS COKE is an excellent substitute for hard coal. Incandescent Gas Lighting.

Possibly the feature of incandescent gas lighting most frequently noted by casual observers is the great ease with which tasks, ordinarily arduous under artificial light may be performed under the Welsbach gas mantle.

The light has a peculiarly "interior" quality, difficult to describe, but which is readily recognized by those who have had experience with the gas mantle lamp.

In its general effect upon bodily health and comfort, the use of incandescent gas lighting is decidedly favorable. The currents of air set up by the burning gas improves ventilation, tending to expel the air vitiated by respiration and draw in fresh air to replace it. Harmful or dangerous disease germs are instantly destroyed in the flame. The extent to which this effect takes place may be verified by placing a gas lamp close to a ceiling without any provision for interfering with the up-rushing air currents. The charred particles which collect immediately above the lamp are the remains of dust particles which before passing through the flames were laden with germs and microbes. Actual experiments have shown that the burning of gas lamps in rooms previously containing bacteria, resulted in absolute sterilization of the air.

Contrary to the popular notion the temperature of rooms lighted by incandescent gas lamps is seldom markedly greater than under incandescent electric light, even under unfavorable conditions of ventilation, while in rooms provided with the ventilating facilities required by the demands of hygiene, the temperature in gas-lighted rooms is frequently lower.

Germans Happy in Ginchy Battle.

Munsters and Dublins Had a Feast of Hand-to-Hand Fighting — German Losses Heavy — Kaber's Men Struggled to the Last, Battalions Being Cut to Pieces — "You Did Darned Well," the Brigadier General's Praise.

London, Sept. 11.—The Irish troops who captured Ginchy seldom had a more acceptable task, telegraphs a correspondent at British Headquarters in France. The assault of this well fortified village was the kind of fighting the Irish like, bayonet thrusts, close range bombing, plenty of hand-to-hand struggles in narrow trenches.

"There were fewer casualties than after panic-stricken fugitive Germans," says the despatch, "than when Gullenmont was taken. The Germans at Ginchy stood up to the Irish and did not turn tail. It was a good fight, but the Irish won it."
"They found Ginchy far better defended than they had expected. The village had been razed by successive bombardments, but the cellar refuges under the ruins offered accommodations to many German infantrymen and machine gun sections. The loopholes, cut flush with the ground and cunningly disguised, gave the Germans in the dugouts an excellent field of fire over the approaches to the ridges."
"For five days and nights the Irish battalions had lain in shell craters south and east of Ginchy, scantily fed and heavily shelled, and with little sleep. Two nights before the attack the shell craters were joined by a shallow trench and from this position the attack was made.

Keen for a Scrap.
"Notwithstanding their fatigue and the incessant strain of lying in the open under a galling fire the men were so keen to take part in the attack that the lightly wounded pleaded to be allowed to stay. Three servants at the headquarters behind the firing line disappeared on Friday night and were found afterwards on the firing line. One of them left a note saying:
"I missed Gullenmont and I must be in Ginchy. If I'm all right I'll come back when it's over. I am very sorry to leave, but I can't keep out of it."
"The troops on the left got ahead, but those on the right were checked by the accurate fire of several German machine guns, from which one battalion suffered severe losses for a few minutes. The men lay down and opened fire with their rifles until a trench mortar was brought forward and held the machine gunners.

Four Men Hold Gap.
"A very courageous feat was performed by four volunteers, a sergeant and three corporals of the 1st battalion, who occupied a 300 foot gap of trenches from which our men had been driven, and machine gun fire remained until relieved three hours later.
"Immediately the heart of the village was reached by the Dublin Germans in a trench running from its western end to the centre promptly surrendered. Those in the cellars and dugouts kept up a stout resistance. Some Bavarians emerged from cover to engage in close quarter fighting. Snipers hidden in trees and behind piles of broken bricks had to be dealt with singly. One man had climbed the stump of a shattered tree and tied himself fast preparatory to picking off the invaders, but was discovered almost immediately and his limp body, pierced with bullets, still hangs there.

PIES

You will find relief in Zam-Buk! It cures the burning, stinging pain; stops bleeding and brings ease. Perseverance, with Zam-Buk, means cure. Why not prove this? 40 Tablets, 25c.

"The line swept northward, to the outskirts of the ruined village white fresh troops pressing in from the other side carried on the work of cleaning up. Within an hour the Irish battalions had taken the village and thrown out patrols 400 yards north of it. The remainder were firmly dug in.

Death Price Surrender.
"Close fighting continued for some time as successive handfuls of Bavarians were rooted out by bombs. Several German officers were captured about the centre of the village. Parties of prisoners were impressed as stretcher bearers. One German company suffered terribly from our artillery. The survivors were seen making signals of surrender, but at once their officers turned a machine gun on them and killed them all."
"The correspondent stood by a brigadier-general beside a dusty road on Sunday afternoon and watched his men the heroes of Ginchy, piled past into camp to eat and sleep in peace for the first time for more than a week. It was a sight to stir Ireland to see the worn, shrunken battalions tramp up hill, mechanically keeping step, with the piper at their head.
"They came on like men marching in their sleep. The Hittite men stepping slowly under the burden of their packs and the big men towering above their heads and shoulders, dirty, unshaven and hungry, thirsty, weary, but triumphant.

"You Did Darned Well."
"The brigadier-general stood up. He, too, was weary, for he had been for hours during the battle, with a telephone on one side and a gunnery officer on the other, directing the loyal men who worked and died. The brigadier leaned forward.
"The proof of you," he said. His voice could be heard by the furthest man. "You did darned well, boys."
"On their heels came other battalions of the 1st and 2nd battalions. Ginchy had been won at a price, though these men of Connaught, Leitrim and Munster paid it willingly, for the enemy was now being driven back by the loyal men who worked and died. The brigadier leaned forward.

The "Ruins of London"

(Birmingham Post.)

German prisoners, buoyed up by the sickly imagination of the Wolf Bureau, are sadly disillusioned, it seems, when they find that London still stands where it did. Several days ago a wounded officer arrived at Charing Cross, manifestly cheered by the prospect of seeing London largely in ruins. His first disillusion was at the terminus itself, which he had been told was a shapeless mass; and, as he passed through Trafalgar Square and towards the West End, and his British guard, in answer to repeated questionings, pointed to the invulnerable Wolfe had declared to be destroyed, his blood grew deeper, and he seemed a stricken man. If a man of his education and position could have been so grievously deceived, what of the masses in central Germany, whose powers of belief in official intelligence are an important psychological factor in the war?

Obituary.

MR. GEO. O'RIELLY.
The remains of Mr. George O'RIELLY who died Tuesday night at Placentia, arrived here by train Wednesday night accompanied by his widow, niece and cousin, Magistrate O'RIELLY, and was brought to his late residence, Barnes' Road, followed by relatives and a large number of friends.
Born in Placentia, October 18th, 1853, Mr. O'RIELLY was the third son of the late Patrick O'RIELLY, of that place. Mr. O'RIELLY later went to St. Pierre and for ten years was manager of the business of Houbre's firm, where his genial disposition and sound business methods soon made a host of friends for him in the French city. Leaving St. Pierre he came to St. John's and engaged in the grocery and spirit business, which he conducted with much success, till the big fire of 1882, when he retired from active business.

Of late years Mr. O'RIELLY has been suffering from heart trouble but his condition was such as did not warrant concern, and on Tuesday he was about as usual but towards evening complained of not feeling well. Dr. MacDonald was called and did all possible but at 10.30 Tuesday night he breathed his last under the same roof that sheltered him in his boyhood days. Rev. Monsignor Reardon, P.P., was in attendance and administered the last rites of the Catholic Church.

To know Mr. O'RIELLY was to respect him, for he was charitable, kind and courteous in his treatment to others and was possessed of a manly independent character that won for him the respect of all.

A life long Liberal, Mr. O'RIELLY took a keen and active part in political life until a few years ago, when, on account of failing health, he was unable to devote the same interest to public matters.

The funeral takes place to-day at 2.30 p.m. from his late residence, 35 Barnes' Road. To his widow, brothers and relatives the Telegram extends its sincerest sympathy.

UNDERSTAND THIS!

That the French Dry Cleaning Process as employed by us is totally unlike the ordinary method of Dry Cleaning.
 The greatest point in favor of our process is that it is absolutely odorless, and those who have had experience with the other method will know just what this means.
