Figures that Testify.
(Manitoba Free Press.)
A correspondent asks the Free Press to verify the statement recently made in these columns that before Great Britain adopted conscription a much larger proportion of the population had been recruited by voluntary means than has been the case in Canada. The proof of the accuracy of this statement is easily obtainable, and is in a form which cannot be questioned. On May 25th, 1916, the measure providing for complete compulsory service in Great Britain received the royal assent. In a message issued on that day to the people, the King expressed his recognition of the patriotic and self-sacrifice which had raised already by voluntary enlistment no less than 5,041,000 men—"an offer far surpassing that of any other nation in similar circumstances recorded in history, and one which will be a lasting source of pride to future generations." As the population of Great Britain and Ireland is about 45,000,000, the voluntary enlistment works out to about one in nine of the population. In Canada, out of a population of some 8,000,000, there have been recruited by voluntary enlistment some 400,000, or about one in twenty of the population.

The Truth About Corns
You have read much fiction about corns. Were that not so there would be no corns. All people would use Blue-jay.
Here is the truth, as stated by a chemist who spent 25 years on this corn problem. And as proved already on almost a billion corns:
"This invention—Blue-jay—makes corn troubles needless. It stops the pain instantly, and stops it forever. In 48 hours the whole corn disappears, save in rare cases which take a little longer."
That is the truth, and millions of people know it. Every month it is being proved on nearly two million corns.
So long as you doubt it you'll suffer. The day that you prove it will see your last corn-ache.
It costs so little—is so easy and quick and painless—that you owe yourself this proof. Try Blue-jay tonight.

Pansy League.
Government House,
May 31st, 1917.
Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Please will you let me write to all my friends through your valuable paper. It is the kind Mr. Editor that made my League so successful, for I have received so many letters asking me to write another Pansy League letter. Some members have been searching the papers for weeks. Well, here I am, dear friends, quite well. I am looking forward with excitement to my birthday. I do hope all my friends will remember to send their 1917 subscriptions not later than June 29th. I shall have a lovely birthday cake, two candles this year, a blue and a pink one, and round it some pansies. I do hope I shall get a very heavy money box this year; I have now 645 members. I have to thank so many kind friends for such jolly letters and all the kind wishes of success. Humphrey writes such a jolly nice long letter, he is Scotch, you know (real). He even said he admires me, very kind of him; as a rule he pays no respects to cats, but I am a special favorite of his and as he says gentlemen are always polite to ladies. Thank you, dear Humphrey. My love to my dear daughter Frills. Yes, I am quite sure you will take care of her, also her kitten.
I paid a visit to the Dentist. My little Misses thought that my teeth might require a little attention. Well, they sat me up in the big chair and the kind Mr. Dentist—so gently and very kindly examined my teeth. He said lovely teeth, all in perfect order, so no work for him. You see I did not chew gum, and after reading the following in a newspaper I do not think any one would like to.
"Dr. Dixon of the Metropolitan Tabernacle told a cheating gum story at the Mansion House. He said the Standard Oil Company of America were for a long time unable to dispose of their waste product, but now through the action of a scientific genius they got $2,000,000 a year from their refuse, which was manufactured into chewing gum."
What a nice Orphanage I could build for the Orphans with the profit.
Anyhow, dear friends, I hope to sell bunches of pansies and nice Pansy brochures on June 29th and 30th. I wonder if you all know the meaning of the cheerful pretty flowers named Pansy. It means Kind Thoughts, so when you are buying pansies you are doing something for others. And the little children in the Orphanage in Newfoundland are very much in your thoughts. It is for them I write this appeal that in the very near future they may have some nice gardens to grow pansies and many more kind thoughts will be planted for many years to come by the little Orphans who would so like a nice field to romp in, not near a dirty dusty road. I have so many hard working members that I feel sure we shall have that field and garden of pansies (not forgetting the potatoes) before very long.
I have to thank dear Topsy's friend for another five dollars. Friend you are an excellent rat catcher to catch all those rats. My little Misses really love the kind rewarder of Friend's useful work and we do so thank you for your generous help. Please Topsy thank your little mistress for all the help she has given the league. She is going to help me sell pansies. So are the goats Bluebell and Mary Contrary. They will load their cart up with pansies to sell on the 29th and 30th. If any kind friends would like to send us pansies we will bunch them and send them to our very kind friend, Mr. Calver, who so kindly offers them for sale in his shop for the Pansy League.
Do you know I am often asked, What is the Pansy League? It is to help the Orphanage get a nice new home. And now this is really a very important part of the Pansy League to help all dumb animals by being very kind to them who in return will be to you, far more than my pen can tell. If you wish to be a member or any pet you have, please send 25 cents (more if you like) with the Pet's name, owners name and address to Pansy.
The League thanks Capt. J. Keen, of the Sable I., who so kindly brought in a baby seal to exhibit for some patriotic fund, but the poor creature cried so, and it was a very kind act when with a smile Captain Keen said these words, "Have it over boys." That was the act of a true sportsman and a gentleman to give that baby seal its freedom and a chance to gain its natural home. Good luck to you, sir, and also to the kind friends whose hands gave the seal its freedom.
I should like to ask our kind friends the Scout boys to help us with our League. I believe that is one of the rules of a Scout boy that he must always be kind to animals. This is all ways be kind to animals. This is all I ask you, if when any of you see from hoops or a broken bottle put out by some cruel children in the road just to see if some poor horse will walk on it will you please remove it to prevent any pain to animals. And ask all your little friends not to throw stones at any animals or birds. Sorry I often do see stones being thrown even at dear little ponies trotting on the roads. I wonder if the school teachers ever see it too. Never mind, ponies, the Boy Scouts will prevent it for the future.

I had such a nice letter from Tim. He lives with his master at a light-house. A very useful place we will all agree, but at times very lonely. Well, done, Tim, you cheer your master. That was very high praise he gave you—he said you are the best of companions and the best cat in Newfoundland. I more than welcome one so honored to my league. Did you read in those papers I sent you of the wonderful care they take of all the horses and mules in this cruel war; how some kind people of the Blue Cross have worked and raised large sums of money to buy a perfect hospital for the horses when they were wounded? Good kind doctors, soldiers, nurses to attend to them, and of course you all know our soldiers have nice comfortable ambulance carts which are marked with a Red Cross. Well the horses have also lovely comfortable ambulance carts but with a large Blue Cross which takes them—like the soldiers are taken—to the hospital. And I am very much hoping after the war a nice ambulance finds its way to St. John's to take any poor animal that is too ill to walk to the animal hospital where a kind animal doctor and his good attendants will cure them. I hope a soldier animal doctor who wears the Blue Cross will find his way to St. John's. He would find a welcome and lots of work.
May I remind all my friends that 1917 subscriptions are due this month and my birthday is the 29th. I have to thank so many kind friends for their nice letters and those very kind wishes of success. I have also to thank a very kind C. E. teacher of Bell Island who has sent me 15 members. Many thanks. WOMEN'S STOMACH TROUBLES
The Great Woman's Medicine Often Just What Is Needed.
We are so used to thinking of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy exclusively for female ills that we are apt to overlook the fact that it is one of the best remedies for diseases of the stomach.
For stomach trouble of women it is especially adapted, as it works in complete harmony with the female organism, since it contains the extracts of the best tonic roots and herbs. It tones up the digestive system, and increases the appetite and strength. Here is what one woman writes showing what this medicine does:
Newfield, N. Y.—"I am so pleased to say I can recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as an economical and beneficial remedy in most ailments pertaining to women. At least I found it so by only taking two bottles. I had indigestion in a bad form and I am now feeling in the best of health and owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."
Mrs. BURE WILLIAMS, R.D. No. 29, Newfield, N. Y.
Many women suffer from that "all gone feeling," and "feel so faint," while doing their work. Ten chances to one their digestive system is all out of order. A tablespoonful of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after each meal should completely remedy this condition in a few days.

The Drive in Belgium

The new British offensive, brilliantly successful according to latest reports, is striking evidence of the extent to which the initiative has passed to our side. In spite of enormous reinforcements of the enemy, holding up the advances upon Douai and Laon by sheer weight, the British have been able to pin them to their desperate defence while they have prepared another stroke in an entirely different region. They have delivered it with masterly skill. Messines is reported to be in their hands and the advanced village of Oostaveren. The effort to shake the German hold upon Lille is carried a long step further. Whether or not Messines Ridge deserves the claim made for it of being more important than Vimy Ridge, it is the only high ground in miles of low-lying country, and the advantage of its possession is obvious. It seems likely now that the offensive will soon be extended along the greater part, if not the whole, of the Belgian front. The mere fact that this attack has been made shows how confident the British command are of pressing home that upon Douai to the south, which will probably reflect the effect of the diversion. One by one the enemy's vantage points are being wrested from him. His line is so strained at so many places that only heroic efforts will keep it intact. A few more blows of this sort and some key to the whole position will be taken and far-reaching effects follow. The news is most welcome at this moment, for it shows how merely apparent the lull on the British front has been for the past month.

The Twillingate Affair.

The debate yesterday in the House of Assembly upon the recent disturbances in Twillingate is an illuminating example of the manner in which the essential points of a case can be missed, and others entirely irrelevant seized upon. What are the undisputed facts of this matter? A number of pit props were cut and paid for by the purchasers. They were stowed on the bank until ships should be available to take them away. It is alleged that many of them were cut from the three-mile limit, and that is urged as an excuse by a number of men who deliberately carried away some of them for their own use. With the subsequent proceedings we will not concern ourselves here, but we think the majority of our readers will concur in the opinion of our correspondent "Law and Order" as to the attitude of the authorities towards the whole occurrence.

The question of cutting props on the three mile limit has nothing whatever to do with the legal aspect of the case, but since it seems to have to do with the cause of the disturbance, we will notice it. Several speakers in the House yesterday were eloquent upon the wrong done the outports by indiscriminate cutting of trees near the shore. If matters are as bad as they say, the people deserve every sympathy. But their complaint should be against the members of the House, now so solicitous of their rights, for their utter failure to protect them. If the trees on the limit should be reserved for the use of the inhabitants—a reasonable claim—why did not the Legislature expressly forbid the cutting of them for props, and impose a penalty for infraction of the law? Instead of this simple provision they merely made it a condition of export that the props exported should not have been cut on the limit. It cannot therefore possibly be contended that the props cut there were "illegally" cut. There has been no violation of the law, since no one has yet attempted to export them. The law is about as sensible as the majority of our laws.

But whether these trees were rightly or wrongly cut, it is plain that those who took them had no property whatever in them. They committed a plain larceny and they must have known that they were committing it. The law should take its course. It is not a matter between private parties, as some have stated, but between the Crown and the offenders. There is nothing to argue about in the case. The affront to the Flag is another matter. For the information of those who have questioned our statement in that regard, we may say that our authority, among others, is the Twillingate "Sun," to the last issue of which we refer them.

The Nfld.-American Bakery Co. vs. Alberto Wareham.—This is an action for damages for breach of agreement. Howley, K.C. for plaintiff; Mr. Blackwood for defendant. Howley, K.C. announces a settlement between the parties which is consented to by counsel for defendant.
T. & M. Winter vs. T. Mitchell & Co.—This is an action for goods sold and delivered. Morrison, K.C. for plaintiff; Howley, K.C. for defendant. By consent of counsels the further hearing of the case was postponed till Wednesday, June 13th.

Pte. Cecil Hunt.

The Official Casualty List to-day contains the death of one of our soldiers who is favorably known in St. John's, in the person of Private Cecil Hunt, who died at Ayr, June 7th. Deceased who was not yet 21 years of age, was the youngest son of the late James Hunt, and brother of our popular Barrister and Solicitor, Mr. C. E. Hunt. Cecil had a most engaging personality. He was noted for his cool headedness and good judgment in athletics, particularly at hockey, as for several years he was the almost invincible goal-keeper for the "Victorias." He was educated at Bishop's Paoli College and before enlisting with "Ours" occupied a position in the office of Harvey & Co., Ltd. He has two brothers fighting with the forces, George with the Canadians, since the outbreak of the war, and Nix, belonging to the 1st Nfld. Regiment. Deceased is also survived by a mother and five sisters, to whom the Telegram offers its sincere sympathy.

Incorrigibles Arrested.

Last night Sergeant Furlong and Constable O'Flaherty arrested for larceny a lad named Crossman, who has just been released from the Penitentiary where he has served several terms for larceny. He is now charged with stealing a fountain pen, a latch key and a pair of pliers, the property of the Globe Steam Laundry. He appeared in Court to-day and was remanded for eight days. A 11-year-old lad named Woodland, who is well known in police circles, was arrested for vagrancy. He will receive a few strokes of the birch switch this afternoon.

Aged Man Evicted.

A 92-year-old resident of Feild St. was evicted from his home last night and in forcing an entrance to the home he did some damage to a door. The owner made a complaint and the old man was arrested. At the police station the nonagenarian told of his career, which was a clean one, and stated that he had never been in police custody before. The old man is still detained at the police station as he is demented somewhat. He was before Mr. Morris, J.P. to-day and put under $100 bonds.

Boy Meets With Serious Accident.

At 1:45 p.m. yesterday a little chap named Walter Vail, son of Mr. Joseph Vail, 4 Colonial Street, met with a painful accident which will leave him marked for life. It happened that the victim and a little chap named Osmond were wrestling in the street at the junction of King's Bridge Road and Forest Road, when Vail fell against the wheel of a passing cart, on which were Messrs. George Pippy and Joseph Mitchell, fishermen of Portugal Cove. The lad's face was badly battered and bruised, his top lip being cut open and several teeth broken. He was picked up by the men on the cart and taken into the C. of E. school nearby, where he and his little sister attended school. Practically every doctor in the city was 'phoned for, but not till almost an hour after could one be secured, when Doctor Macpherson was sent in touch with, and on reaching the scene, conveyed the sufferer to the hospital in his motor car, being accompanied by Supt. of Police Grimes. Children playing in this locality should not do so in the middle of the street, where so much traffic is continually passing. Both Mitchell and Pippy are in no way to blame in the matter, as at the time of the accident their horse was not trotting.

Zam-Buk is especially suitable for a child's tender skin, owing to its purity of composition. It contains absolutely none of the coarse animal fat or harsh mineral drugs found in ordinary ointments. Parliament Discusses the Twillingate Disturbance

POLICE RECALLED.
 Discussion on the chaotic state of affairs that prevailed in Twillingate arising out of the pit prop dispute occupied most of the attention of the House of Assembly yesterday afternoon.

After some routine matters had been disposed of Mr. Clift gave notice to ask the Prime Minister if he had any information in relation to a disorderly scene that occurred at Twillingate as a result of a judgment given by the Magistrate there in a pit prop case, pointing out that the matter was of urgency at the present moment.

The Prime Minister stated that he had no information to give, as he knew nothing about the incident beyond what he saw in the evening newspaper. "But," he said, "I will make enquiries from the Justice Department which may possibly have something to give before the adjournment of the House."

Dr. Lloyd moved an adjournment of the House, but would very much like to have the matter dealt with that afternoon, as it was not only of grave public importance but also of extreme urgency. He had been informed that a squad of police had left the city for Twillingate to continue a prosecution. This, he contended, would aggravate the situation, owing to the bad feeling amongst the people there.

The Prime Minister, intimating his willingness to do what he could and immediately got in communication with the Attorney General, Mr. Squires.

The House then went into Committee on Resolutions relative to an agreement for the Bay of Islands steam service.

At the request of Dr. Lloyd the Committee rose and he moved an adjournment of the House to deal with an occurrence of a regrettable character that had taken place at Twillingate. He said it had been stated publicly in the Evening Telegram that certain persons had taken pit props under the advice of parties in St. John's and it was public knowledge he withdrawn. Meanwhile Solicitor Fox was asked to bring proceedings against E.H. Frost. Mr. Coaker received no reply and he wired again stating that if the pit props were not deeded up, Williams was issuing writs against all concerned." Dr. Lloyd said everything possible was done to stop trouble. There was considerable irritation over the matter, due to the fact that the pit props were illegally cut on the 3-mile limit in face of a law passed in the Legislature forbidding the exportation and cutting of pit props over these areas referred to. Consequently there was an intense feeling of indignation amongst the people who had their rights violated. As to flouting the Magistrate at Twillingate and insulting the Flag, he did not condone such conduct, but he doubted the veracity of the statement. He again exhorted that the Prosecutors in this matter go slowly and not help to aggravate it. In conclusion he asked the co-operation of the Leader of the Government to allay this bad feeling.

And the Worst is Yet to Come--

The Prime Minister again stated that the episode was new to him. As regards the personal aspect of the matter he was quite satisfied that his friends on the other side of the House would be the last to countenance such as has been suggested. He felt sure that prompt and early steps would be taken by the Justice Dept. to bring about a just and fair settlement. He hoped that busy correspondents would not interest themselves in this matter by sending sensational despatches abroad about the British Flag being insulted.

Mr. Jennings said that it appeared to be generally understood that he was somewhat implicated in the matter. He emphatically denied that he had anything to do with it. The law provides that pit props which remain on the ground for more than 18 months shall become public property. In any case the cutting of the pit props over the three miles limit was unlawful, under the Act passed in 1915, hence the people thought they were right in taking them. He regretted that legal proceedings had been taken, as the people of Twillingate were not rascals and thieves as they were put up to be. He hoped that the prosecution would go slowly and added that it was unreasonable to expect men to enlist in Twillingate District. He refused to believe for one moment that the Flag had been insulted and did not see why the Evening Telegram should not be made come forward and reveal the name of the party who gave them their information.

Mr. Coaker said that a Minute of Council gave certain contractors permission to cut timber over the 3 mile limit, which, he said, was now all but cleared up. He spoke of the bad feeling this aroused in the fishermen. He didn't believe any man in Twillingate ever dared attempt to insult the Flag. He said the aim and object of the report published was to injure him and the F. P. U. He appealed to the Government not to allow any more arrests to be made, as it would make the disturbance worse.

Mr. Clift said he represented the district for 17 years and knew the people of Twillingate to be as law-abiding as were to be found anywhere. He was doubtful that the Flag was insulted, but if it was correct it was a lasting disgrace to the town of Twillingate, and the law should take its course.

Mr. Piccott, Mr. F. J. Morris, Dr. Lloyd and the Premier again spoke on the matter pointing out the desirability to the Chief of Police of having the squad of police recalled to St. John's, the former stating that the presence of a few policemen to make arrests among an infuriated crowd would be like showing a "red rag to a bull."

After the adjournment of the House an order was issued and the police ordered back to St. John's.

Stories About the Late Joseph H. Choate.

One of the great Americans, the last, one might say, of his school, for he was past 85 years when he died, Joseph H. Choate maintained the traditions of his father's cousin, the even more famous Rufus Choate, and Daniel Webster, from whom both derived most of their inspirations. For more than a generation he was at the head of the American Bar; he was the first citizen of New York, a man who stood out from all contemporaries in something like the same way that Mark Twain stood out. Like Mark Twain, with whom he had much in common, his reputation was international. He will be mourned in all the Allied countries. In London the Judges assembled to express publicly the loss that the legal profession had experienced in his death. King George sent a personal cable of condolence to his widow. Mr. Balfour has spoken of him as his old-time friend. He was, too, a friend of Great Britain. No American did more, and it is possible that no American did as much to dispel American prejudice against the English as Mr. Choate.

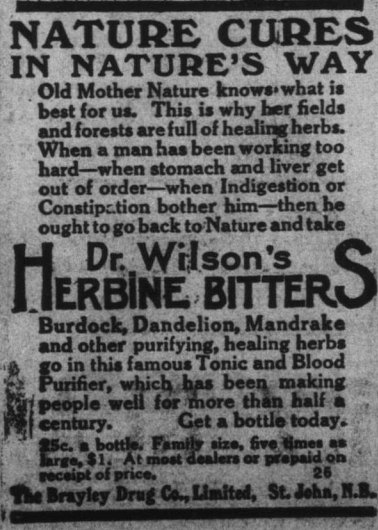

A Compliment to His Wife.
 Much might be written of his varied activities as lawyer, as ambassador, as public-spirited citizen, as philanthropist, and as after dinner speaker. He was a man about whom anecdotes naturally accumulated, and some of his flashes of humor are likely to become immortal. Perhaps the most that best represented the grace and the gallantry and the tenderness that were inseparable from Mr. Choate was a dinner-table remark made some years ago. Someone had asked who he would like to be if he were not himself. He reflected deeply, evidently reviewing in his mind's eye the famous worthies of the past, and then he came to his conclusion. His eye rested on his wife and he said, "If I could not be myself I should like to be Mrs. Choate's second husband." Equally famous is a retort, credited to various celebrities, but undoubtedly originating with Mr. Choate, when at a London dinner a guest, observing his evening clothes, which may not have been freshly pressed, and mistaking him for a servant, said abruptly, "Call me a cab." Choate answered, "Certainly you are a cab." The indignant guest supposing he was being insulted by a drunken waiter complained to his host. Explanations ensued, and Mr. Choate remarked, "If he had spoken to me more civilly I should have called him a hansom cab."

his Alma Mater. A Yale graduate was boasting to him about the achievements of Yale. "Yale," he asserted, "is everywhere." Choate said, "Yes, and she always finds Harvard there when she arrives."

Toast to the Ladies.
 One of the happiest introductions was a toast to the fair sex. He said: "And then, women—the better half of the Yankee world—at whose tender summons even the stern Pilgrims were ever ready to spring to arms, and without whose aid they never could have achieved the historic title of the Pilgrim Fathers. The Pilgrim mothers were more devoted martyrs than even were the Pilgrim Fathers, because they had not only to bear the same hardships that the Pilgrim Fathers suffered, but they had to bear with the Pilgrim Fathers besides." Mr.

Choate made some of his best speeches at the dinners in honor of the Pilgrim Fathers, and of these gatherings he once spoke as "an unhappy company of Pilgrims who met annually at Delmonico's to drown the sorrows and sufferings of their ancestors in the flowing bowl, and to contemplate their own virtues in the mirror of history."

A Great Lawyer.
 His famous cross-examination of Russell Sage in a civil suit he once described as "skinning an intellectual peal." On one occasion a witness testified that a certain family was in the habit of having family prayers. The opposing counsel repeated, sardonically, "Family prayers?" Choate observed, "Yes, don't you know what they are, Brother Parsons?" He had the vituperative remarks of opposing counsel. Once he was defending some officers of an insurance company who had been described by the opposition in a burning speech as "vampires, monsters that feed on the blood of the people." He sat down, in the midst of a great sensation. Choate remained seated, his hands in his pockets, his eyes fixed on the ceiling. "Mr. Choate," the judge said, "it is your turn." Choate slowly rose, his hands still in his pockets. "Your Honor and gentlemen of the jury," he said, "do you know what a vampire really is? Look at the Quaker gentleman over there who is the president of the insurance company. Look at the innocent young man, his attorney, who sits next him with a smile on his face. From my opponent's description, you probably thought vampires were something out of the common, didn't you? They are not. Look upon these two gentlemen. They are regular, genuine vampires." The storm of laughter that followed completely spoiled the terrific denunciation that the opposing lawyer had indulged in.—Halifax Chronicle.

The Ubiquitous Post Card.

The Friend of the Lazy Letter Writer. But there is another development almost as remarkable which one seldom hears comment about. Yet did anything ever permeate civilization so thoroughly in so short a time as that joy of the tourist, that faithful friend of the lazy letter writer—the souvenir post card.

Do you remember how crude the first cards were,—just highly colored pictures of a few places of note. On these one wrote proudly that one had looked upon the place thereon pictured, thus presumably giving it a peculiar lustre in the eyes of the recipient.

"This is My Room"

But it was not until progressive hotel keepers began to have pictures of their hostelries printed that the full possibilities of the picture post card opened up. Wouldn't you like to have a penny for every such picture marked with a cross and underneath an explanation "this is my room," that went through the mails. One could certainly live on the income of those pennies for the rest of one's life.

and the footnote "This is I" (or more likely "me," for in spite of its correctness there always seems to hang a suggestion of affectation about "This is I.")

The card which has a sentiment instead of a picture is another line along which the souvenir card has developed amazingly.

Are There Condolence Cards Too?

Greetings for Christmas, New Year, St. Valentine's, Easter, Mother's Day, birthdays, and every form of congratulation are expressed for you much better than you can do it yourself,—at least so the majority of one's friends seem to think. And last year after Christmas I received what was to me a novelty,—postal card which in carefully general terms thanked me for my pretty gift and wished me a Happy New Year. Not a personal touch except the signature. Canned gratitude. And very much lacking in flavour to my mind.

I wonder if there are sets of post cards expressing sympathy for various kinds of bereavement. I shouldn't be at all surprised.

Boarding is a substitute for home cooking which is bought in large quantities by Americans with case-hardened palates. It is an exciting pastime, also, for the boarder always has ample time between meals to guess whether it will be roast beef or roast pork.

The cheerfulness of the American people under adversity is illustrated by the manner in which they resign themselves to the boarding-house boiled potato, which is a water-jacketed crime against the laws of nature. A great many boarders revolt against this entree, only to see it reappear at the supper table in the guise of corn-beef hash.

Women take to boarding more eagerly than men.

As a rule, women take to boarding more eagerly than men. After a woman has tried to retard the appetites of her husband and five grown sons three times a day for ten or fifteen years, without any excitement except the prospect of a new cook-stove, the only way she can keep up her courage is by remembering that there is no dish-washing in heaven. That is why the boarding-houses of the land are filled with housewives who no longer have to hang out the "Ice" sign and wrestle feverishly with the flour bin.

Men are attracted to the boarding-house because it is a social centre where they can air a collection of opinions which nobody down-town is interested in. These opinions range from the outcome of the European war to the effect of the safety razor on a stout beard. It is a dull meal at which some great national problem is not solved to the entire satisfaction of the speaker.

The boarding-house shows up the peculiarities of the male sex in a strong and lurid light. For instance, a man who always made it a point to be half an hour late for his meals at home will be the first one down at the boarding-house, and instead of reading the daily paper he will fairly bristle with vivacity and repartee on which the patents have expired. This no doubt is what reconciles many a wife to the regularity with which veal loaf served for Cunday dinner bobs up on Wednesday in a cosy setting of lettuce leaves. Boarding-house veal loaf is harder to get rid of than a relative from the far west who is trying to tire out a sixty-day ticket.

It will probably be admitted that there would be better boarding-houses in this country if all boarders would remit the first of the month in long, sinewy silver certificates instead of putting up furniture which escaped the chattel mortgage.

Stern Measures Demanded.

(Toronto Star.)

Some may say that it is a very drastic measure for the government to control the price of food and to take all war-profits for the use of the nation, and to exercise an unlimited power over wealth.

So it is. But what is the parent of drastic measures. Conscription means the power of compelling a man to devote himself to the service of the nation, to give up occupation, ease, comfort, safety, perhaps life or limb. It is impossible for a government to go further than that. Taking possession of all food, taking control of production, distribution, and consumption, rationing the people at home as if they were in the trenches—all these measures fall short of taking possession and control of a man.

So, if taxation were carried so far as confiscation of all wealth over what is enough to sustain life—even that would be a less vigorous exercise of State control than conscription. Money is nothing compared with the life of a man or the life of a nation. It is not likely that any government measure will go that far. Governments are far more likely to err on the side of favoring wealth and business. Old laws used to punish offences against property more severely than offences against the person. We are still to some extent under the influence of that worship of property. But that idol must be broken.

A nation which consents to conscription is in a stern mood. It will laugh at the complaints of taxed profiteers. It will demand the strictest control over food. It will demand that nobody shall make a dollar by speculating in food. It will be impatient with objections to interference with the traditional methods of business. Custom, profit, property, all must go if necessary to maintain the fight for which men are laying down their lives. When the voluntary system is abandoned for the purpose of raising men, it must be abandoned for the purpose of backing the men with all the resources of the nation.

The Gas Range!

The Gas Range means comfort for the housewife; shorter kitchen hours for her, and a cleaner kitchen. It is a great mistake to think that cooking with gas is expensive.

Whenever a woman becomes used to gas for cooking, thoughts of a coal or wood stove fill her with gloom. A Gas range is so much easier to operate, so efficient for all kinds of cooking, and so much cleaner, that the idea of going back to the old style methods is decidedly unpleasant. Yet in winter many housewives think they must use a coal or wood stove, because there is no other way of heating the kitchen. THERE IS ANOTHER WAY AND IT IS FAR BETTER THAN THE OLD. THE CLOW GAS STEAM RADIATOR WAY. may 23, 17.

While the fashionable belt disappears now and then, there are some very good frocks with belts that go frankly around the waist.

A pretty way to trim a high-crowned hat is to wind narrow ribbon around and around the crown, each time overlapping the last lap a little, and end in a perky bow either in the front or the back.

OTTAWA, To-day.
The text of the correspondence between Sir Wilfred Laurier and Sir Robert Borden shows (the views of the latter) that a Coalition Government should be formed, that a Military Service Bill should be passed, that a pledge should be given not to enforce it until after a general election, and that Parliament should be dissolved and the Coalition Government should seek a mandate from the people. On June 4th the possible personnel of the Cabinet was discussed and some differences arose. On June 6th a Conference took place and Sir Wilfred Laurier asked if conscription was the only basis, to which Sir Robert Borden replied in the affirmative. Sir Wilfred Laurier then announced that he couldn't enter Coalition. At this and previous interviews, concludes the opposition leader, "I always stated to you that whenever conscription was adopted after consultation with the people I would certainly urge in every possible way obedience to the law."

Hebrew New Champion

The pugilistic world got a surprise last night, May 28th, when Bennie Leonard, of New York, knocked out Freddie Welsh, of Wales, in the ninth round, thereby gaining the world's lightweight championship. Welsh won the title by receiving the referee's decision after outboxing Willie Ritchie, the American title holder, in a twenty round bout in London, July 7, 1914. Since coming to America he has engaged in a great number of bouts, mostly limited rounds, and he has been noted for simply satisfying himself by keeping on the defensive and saving his title, as he did not worry over the popular verdict being against him, as long as there was no referee's decision. He and Leonard had met twice before in ten round bouts which went the limit, but last night Leonard was too much for him. He took the offensive in the first round and held it until the end. There was never a moment that he was in danger and although the champion fought valiantly and succeeded in landing many blows, they appeared to have lost his judgment of distance, for he missed repeatedly.

From the first gong Leonard tore into the champion with ruthless persistence. He landed rights and lefts to the face and head at will. Welsh, at first disconcerted by his opponent's tactics, seemed worried when the round ended. In all of the succeeding rounds Leonard concentrated his efforts on Welsh's body and succeeded in whipping his right repeatedly to the champion's stomach. It was this blow persistently used, that wore the champion down.

The punishment had begun to tell when the gong for the ninth round sounded. Leonard, fresh as the moment he entered the ring, jumped from his corner and met the champion as he was leaving his corner with a shower of lefts and rights to the face and head.

Welsh, vainly trying to ward off the blows, worked his way into Leonard's corner, where Leonard succeeded in reaching him with an smashing right on the jaw. Welsh fell on his knees and hugged the ropes. His strength had gone. Welsh strove weakly to strike a fighting pose. As he left the ropes Leonard landed and Welsh hit the floor. He struggled to his feet twice more, but each time he was met by Leonard's right to the face and head, and again he fell to the floor. The champion took the count of nine before he arose from the last knock-down. He tried to stand, but fell across the ropes. It was only a question of moments when he would have fallen and been counted out. At this point Referee McPartland leaped between the two men, and, pushing Leonard away, carried the defeated champion to his corner.

While the crowd was cheering itself hoarse, Welsh sat in a daze in his corner. When he had recovered somewhat and was told of his defeat he refused to believe his handlers, and fought fiercely to return to the centre of the ring.

Benny Leonard, the new champion, who is a Hebrew, was born in New York, April 7, 1896, stands 5 feet 5 inches, and last night weighed in at 133 or 34 lbs. less than Welsh. His recent knockout of Ritchie Mitchell caused him to be regarded as a contender for the world's title. Leonard will enlist in the United States Army after a six round bout in Philadelphia next Monday night.

It was Leonard's fifth consecutive knockout since April 19, when he put Mitchell to sleep in the seventh round. Welsh was not altogether knocked out last night, but when the bout was stopped was hanging helplessly on the ropes in Leonard's corner. It was a technical knockout and will be credited as such.

A BALADE OF BINGLES.

A photograph record I find most pleasant at times to the ear. It banishes care from the mind, providing the record be clear I always perk up when I hear a band or a bugle's high call. But give me, for happiness sheer, Is the sound of a bat on a ball!

Quite off in the past I've reclined In the seat of some theatre near. To hear what the villain opined And learn what the girl had to fear. The hero's brave voice full of cheer, Comes in with a thrill, after all, But give me, for happiness sheer, The sound of a bat on a ball!

And shortly, the players all signed And ready to start their new year, Along at the gate we'll be lined Once more at the pastime to peer— The pastime the rooters revere From Springtime till well on in Fall, It will throw all our nerves in high gear— The sound of the bat on the ball!

The B. I. S., with Manager McGrath in charge, had their first breaking in at their practice grounds last night, and promise to make a bid for the bunting this year. Some new material at their disposal will strengthen their line-up considerably.

With such able linguists as Hartnett, Hiltz, McGrath and Clouston managing their respective teams this year, the umpire of the outfit sure have a delightful summer to look forward to.

Experts announce that married men make the scrappiest ballplayers. Wonder what is implied in that statement.

Francis Neilson, in the Toronto Globe, writes: "Sport, sportsmen, and the sporting spirit to which the newspapers cater have done more for recruiting than any other agency in the world and will continue to set the pace. From these localities and communities in which sport most flourishes have come the most generous responses to the Country's call. And, on the other hand, the fruits have been, least where sport is least encouraged and has the smallest share of publicity." Being right or left handed means nothing in baseball. The real test occurs above the collar. In response to a request DeWolf Hopper's famous baseball poem: "Casey at the Bat" will be published in to-morrow's column.

IN MEMORIAM.

Lance-Corp. Cecll Hunt.

It is with the deepest regret that we have to record the death, at Ayr, of Lance-Corporal Cecll J. Hunt. It is only a few months since Cecll donned the khaki and went Overseas to join his brothers—George and Nix, both veterans of the earlier campaigns.

He was an ardent baseballer, playing centrefield for the Wanderers; the prince of goalkeepers in the hockey league; while many a time and oft have the Fieldian football and cricket teams won their games by the clever prowess and skill of "little Cecll Hunt."

His Epitaph:—"A true little sport, and a very gallant gentleman!"

To his bereaved widowed mother and family we offer our sincerest and heartfelt sympathy.

"Not all our sighs, not all our selfish tears Can call you back, but you whose clear young eyes Looked on the promise of the coming years, You never grudging the final sacrifice.

"Thank God for that pure manly heart and true That kept your face forever towards the light, That lit the only path you ever knew, And made you victor, still in death's despite."

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DIPHTHERIA.

Your Boys and Girls.

For the coming baby's layette the mother should select the following garments, each sufficiently fine for contact with the baby body, but not over-elaborate or "fussy." Six slips of white crepe, made in kimona style, four petticoats, four fine dresses of white, daintily trimmed and having touches of hand embroidery, as well as wee edges of lace, four fine white petticoats, three pairs of cashmere hose, three silk and wool shirts.

Three kimona nighties made from cutting flannel of daisy cloth, these latter made with tucks at the yoke and wrists, so that they may be let out as the wee one grows, three pinners, of outing flannel, three bands of the same, two dozen twenty-seven inch diapers of daisy cloth; several saques.

One bonnet, as many booties as friends are determined to shower—and usually there are enough of these for all future babies as well as for the first, a generous quantity of bibs—at least a dozen. The cost of such an outfit is moderate and the equipment ample.

Black as Dirt About the Eyes

Liver Was All Upset and There Was Pain Under the Shoulder-blade—Two Interesting Letters.

Toronto, Ont., June 8th.—So many people suffer from derangements of the liver that we feel sure these two reports, just recently received, will prove interesting reading and valuable information to many readers of this paper.

Mrs. F. L. Harris, Keatley P. O., Sask., writes: "I was suffering from liver trouble—had a heavy pain under one shoulder blade all the time, and was nearly as black as dirt around the eyes, so I concluded to try some of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and before I had taken one 25c. box the pain had left me and I commenced to gain in flesh, and by the time I had taken two boxes I was completely cured and felt like a new person. My trouble was caused by heavy work out-of-doors, and, of course, heavy eating and constipation. I would advise anyone suffering from kidney or liver trouble to give Dr. Chase's Pills a trial."

Mrs. Charles Terry, Tweed, Ont., writes: "Before I was married, I was troubled with enlargement of the liver. My liver became so enlarged that you could detect the swellings on either side, and it was only with difficulty that I could get my clothes on. A friend advised me to get Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and take them. I commenced this treatment, and used nine boxes, which cured me at that time. Then, about two or three years afterward I was troubled again with the swelling, but only on my right side. I secured some more Kidney-Liver Pills, and took them, which finally cured me. I have not been troubled in this way since. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to anyone having kidney or liver trouble."

"We have also found Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine excellent for coughs and cold. In fact, any of Dr. Chase's medicines which we have used have been good."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25c. a box, 5 for $1.00, at all dealers, or Edmansson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

BRITISH VICTORY - PRISONERS TAKEN.

LONDON, June 7. British troops made a second drive to-day and carried the village of Oost Taverne, in the Messines region, and the German positions to the east of the village on an extent of five miles, it was officially announced to-day. Many prisoners have been taken.

German made prisoners in to-day's fighting between Wytschaete and Messines, are expected to be more than 4,000, according to Reuters' British Headquarters correspondent. In his despatch the correspondent says the battle was begun to-day by the Second Army under General Sir Herbert Plumer, developed in accordance with plans, and was a brilliant success for the British arms. Already 2,800 prisoners have arrived in camps behind the front, and there are expected to be over 4,000 of them when completed.

British Headquarters in France (From the Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press) June 7.—The attack began to-day, two months after the offensive campaign burst into flame in the Arras region, and was carried out on that slender strip of Belgium saved nearly three years ago from the German invasion. The blow was struck on a front approximately of ten miles against the high ground known as the Messines Ridge, from which the Germans have overlooked the British lines ever since October, 1914. It was not long after the battle began that word came in from all sectors of the fighting fronts that the various objectives had been taken in schedule time. All prisoners say the Germans had been expecting the attack, but were taken completely by surprise by the hour at which it was launched and the fury with which it was carried forward. They had been completely dazed by the most gigantic mining operation yet carried out in this world war. More than one million pounds of high explosives had been placed under the German forward positions during the past twelve months, and in the upheaval of a score of separate mines panic spread among the troops, already harassed as they were to a point of destruction by seven days and nights' firing from the greatest concentration of guns on a given front since the war began. The battle of Arras reached the ultimate in this respect, but to-day's bombardment was carried out by 20 per cent. more guns, especially guns of heavy calibre. Messines Ridge has long been a thorn in the side of the British. They were driven from it in those perilous days in October, 1914, when with weak lines and virtually no artillery they bravely, but forlornly, attempted to hold this point of vantage. If all to-day's gains are held, the pressure on poor old Ypres which resisted every effort of the Germans will be effectually relieved. Not much is left of Ypres but bits of crumbling walls and brick dust, but the British have held it as the last important landmark which survived in the little Kingdom overrun by the Germans in their mad dash against France. Messines Ridge has been regarded as a sort of key position to all the northern sector of the Western front, and in that way is more important than Vimy Ridge itself, although only about half as high. The remainder of the country about Messines is so flat that this sloping ridge, which attains a maximum height only of seventy metres, commands the country for miles around and affords its possessor a great military advantage in direct observation. The British obscured observation this morning with one of the most effective smoke barrages ever set up. The attack came at dawn with a full moon still high in the heavens. The mine explosions were signs for the turning on of all guns which were employed dropping a curtain of fire that swept before the British attacking units. Meanwhile other guns were hurling high explosive shells against all the German communications, while still others were spraying the German batteries with a deluge of gas shells. As a result of this artillery co-operation the German guns were effectually silenced during the initial stages of the attack, and the British casualties consequently were light. It was not long after the battle started that Messines village was reported captured, then came word that Lenfer and Scaeretta had fallen, and that Wytschaete, in the very nose of the German salient just south of Ypres, was surrounded. Important trench positions were taken all the way from Observatory Ridge southeast of Ypres to Ploegstert Wood, north of Armentières. One of the most formidable of these was Danztrasse, which the British fire had all but obliterated. Other positions taken were known as "ungodly trench," "Schnitzel farms," and "Battle Wood." Tanks were in the thick of the fighting this morning, and from all accounts were doing splendidly, if ungraceful work. The troops fighting to-day were English, Irish, New Zealanders and Australians. Having expected there would be an offensive near Ypres the Germans have been rushing guns and new divisions to this front during the past two weeks. Orders were captured which urged the men to hold against the British at all cost.

The British official dealing with the new attack, says: Our operations south of Ypres have been continued methodically throughout the day, and have been attended by complete success. The Messines-Wytschaete ridge, which for over two and a half years has dominated our position in the Ypres salient, was stormed by our troops this morning. In this attack we captured the village of Messines and Wytschaete and enemy defence systems including many strongly organized woods and defended localities on a front of over nine miles from south of Duvve brook to the north of Mentzorel. Later in the day our troops again moved forward in accordance with planned operations, and carried the village of Oost Taverne and the enemy's rearward defence system east of the village on a front of over five miles. In the course of our advance the enemy attempted to counter-attack against the southern portion of our new position, but it was completely broken up by our artillery fire. The enemy's casualties in to-day's fighting were heavy. In addition to his other losses up to 4.30 p.m. over 5,000 German prisoners passed through the collecting stations. Others are still being brought in. We also captured a number of guns and many trench mortars and machine guns, which have not yet been counted. There was again great air activity yesterday with many fights. Five hostile formations, one of which consisted of over thirty machines, were attacked and dispersed with heavy casualties. In the course of the fighting nine German airplanes were brought down and nine others were driven down out of control. Six of our airplanes are missing.

GERMAN ADMISSION.

BERLIN, June 7. In Wytschaete salient the enemy has broken into our foremost position zone, says the German official issued this evening. Fluctuating battle still continues violently, the communication adds.

COMPLETE CO-OPERATION.

NEW YORK, June 7. Working plans for complete co-operation between the States and the Allied Governments on the prosecution of the war with Germany, were announced to-day by Andrew Tardieu, High Commissioner in charge of the permanent French War Mission which has been formally organized. The Allied Commission in Europe will determine the needs of the respective Allies. They will be communicated to the missions here which in turn will submit them to the United States Government. The latter will determine whether it will be possible to meet the needs of this country taking the requirements of the American fighting forces into consideration first. The United States Government will act as contractor in this country for the Allies, and as such will have complete control of prices and deliveries. No further contracts for French and British Governments will be signed with private concerns.

ROMANIANS ORGANIZING.

PARIS, June 7. Roumania has reorganized her army, and is ready to resume fighting, according to a statement made by Premier Bratiano, in an interview with the Petrograd correspondent of the Parisian.

Civil Service Appointments

Merit and Service the Proper Qualifications for Promotion.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir, Under the heading of "Merit the only test," there appeared in your issue of May 18th a letter signed "Outport," in which the writer voices the sentiments of the people of the outports in the matter of granting Commissions in the Nfld. Regiment. It would be interesting to know just how many young men outside of St. John's have been recommended for promotion.

Surely there must be some of our outport lads qualified to take Commissions, and if they have been passed over that certain city men who have never been to the firing line should be advanced to positions of command, it is about time that a halt should be made in this manner of selecting officers.

I quite agree with your correspondent that service and merit should be the recognized standards in making appointments, not alone in the regiment, but in the civil service as well. Some months ago an item appeared in your paper stating that it is the intention of the Government to retire from its different departments at the close of the present fiscal year, severally rather elderly officials and that it would be worth while watching to see if their places would be filled by those in order of merit or service or by those who have nothing to recommend them but political pull. Like our brave soldiers who have gone overseas to face a desperate situation many public officials in this country, and particularly outport officials, who have given long years of service under perhaps unfavourable conditions have been overlooked and their meritorious services gone unrewarded in the matter of promotions. This should not be and the Government has now an opportunity of applying a remedy to this manifestly unjust condition of things and of setting a wise, honest and sensible precedent for future civil appointments.

I am, yours truly,
OUTPORT NO. 2.

Encouraging Lawlessness.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—In the report of proceedings in the House of Assembly yesterday, the News attributes certain statements to the Prime Minister which, if correctly quoted, are rather remarkable. These statements are said to have been made in reference to the recent pit-prop incident at Twillingate. The statements attributed to the Prime Minister are that "the police proceeding to Twillingate were not to interfere with the people"; that "it would be a pity if disorder were further aggravated"; that "the Government had no part in the matter". All the above statements imply that the disgraceful and disorderly conduct of certain people at Twillingate in defying lawful restraint is looked upon benevolently by the Government, and is condoned, if not encouraged, and that the people concerned are subjected to unnecessary hardship if they are interfered with or interrupted by police or authority while proceeding with their unlawful conduct.

This is surely encouragement for insurrection from the highest authority, and warrants any section of the people to take the law in their own hands at any time when the law runs counter to their own inclinations.

Yours truly,
LAW AND ORDER.

By yesterday's express eighteen Naval men, who had been engaged on active service reached the city to take up duty on H. M. S. Has Invention to Destroy Subs.

Newfoundland Man on His Way to Liverpool, Williams was issuing writs Naval Board.

An invention known as the R. H. Earle submarine boat destroyer, which is built to be carried by ships of sufficiently large tonnage, has been produced by Mr. Reginald H. Earle, St. John's, Newfoundland.

The inventor is now in the Capital on his way to England, where he will submit his plans to the British Naval Board. His latest destructive inventions will be handed over to the Empire free of cost.

Mr. Earle, who is approaching 74 years of age, claims that thousands of lives and tons of shipping would have been saved if his submarine destroyer had been adopted in the naval and merchant services. When the war started, Mr. Earle offered his inventions to the Empire free of cost. In 1916 he invented a shell for the destruction of barbed wire entanglements without the use of explosive projectiles. This was followed in 1917 by a periscope destroying gun.

The submarine boat destroyer is capable of attaining a speed of 40 miles an hour, and is a very comfortable water craft. Its construction and maintenance is said to be of little expense.—Ottawa Journal.

BE READY.

We can't conduct a modern war—the kind that we've been planning for—without a bundle of long green; therefore, go slow on gasoline, and luxuries of every sort; quit drinking grape juice by the quart; quit eating pie three times a day, and idly throwing coin away. For soon you'll face a heavy tax that will put stitches in your backs, and freeze your gay and winning smile, unless laid away a pile. We cannot run a modern scrap, and push the kaiser off the map, that butcher who too long hath sinned—we cannot do him up with wind; 'twill take a large and weighty bar'l, to put the lid on Bill and Carl. The tax that you will have to pay won't set you back for half a day, if you'll be prudent, now, and wise; cut out imported smokes and pies; blow in less staple brands of coin for porthouse and tenderloin; don't bet your money on the nags, spend less for rich and gaudy rags. Life's been for years one grand sweet song, we've lived in luxury so long, it may at first seem quite a strain to save a share of what we gain. But if we pickle sundry dimes, we'll bless ourselves in after times, when tax collectors come around, to nail the shilling and the pound.

A Wonderful Help in Keeping the Complexion Youthful and Clear.

Perhaps you wonder how so many women manage to have a complexion that is always fresh and clear, and how you can make your complexion better. Here's the secret:—

This is the Vanishing Cream that softens the skin and gives it that soft, velvety radiance that we all desire. Nyal's Face Cream is not oily or greasy, and it is readily absorbed by the skin, vanishing without leaving any tell tale gloss on skin. The skin welcomes this pleasant, soothing, cooling cream. It makes dry, tight skin soft and pliable. It makes rough skin firm and smooth, and gradually gives to coarse rough skin a finer, more delicate texture.
