LADY LAURAS' RELEASE

(THE STORY OF A SPOILED BEAUTY.

CHAPTER LV.

The drawing-room at Cudale Hall was well filled with a brilliant party when Captain Wynyard entered. He looked round at once for Gladys, and not seeing her there, he went to his hostess and asked impatiently where she was.

"Miss Rane," repeated Lady Cudale. "She is with the rest of the party. I should imagine. I have not seen her since luncheon."

"I was told that she was with you this afternoon," said Captain Wynyard.

"Only for a minute," replied Lady Cudale. "She told me she wished to go to Cudale for some wool or colors—I forget which. I asked her to take the carriage; but she said she preferred to walk. I have not seen her since."

"She is not here," said the captain. Lady Cudale smiled at his undisciplined impatience.

"My dear captain, how impatient you are!" she remarked.

"I am," he confessed, in grave tones. "I want to see her particularly."

"She has probably come home late," said Lady Cudale, "and will therefore be late in coming down."

The captain did not like to pursue the matter further; but he would have given much if he could have asked Lady Cudale to send to Miss Rane's room, in order to ascertain if she were really there. He was longing to see her, for he believed that her presence would banish the fearful vision that haunted him persistently. His hands trembled, and he had a strange sensation of faintness. "I shall be all right the moment my eyes rest on her face," he told himself. But the last bell had rung, and still she had not come.

Lady Cudale, taking compassion on him, quietly left the room and sent for Franchette. To her astonishment, she found the girl in a state of great alarm and distress.

"My mistress has not returned, your ladyship," she said.

After a few questions, Lady Cudale herself grew anxious.

"I wish I had made her take the carriage, Franchette," her ladyship remarked. "Do you think it is possible that she has lost her way?"

Franchette's face brightened at the idea.

"I think it very likely, your ladyship," she answered.

"Send two of the men to Cudale to inquire," said her ladyship. "Do not spread an alarm, Franchette. I will say that Miss Rane will not join us at dinner. But," she added to herself, "I must tell the captain the truth. He will not be satisfied with an excuse."

The captain looked much distressed and concerned when Lady Cudale called him aside and told him that her young friend had not returned.

"Do not speak of it until after dinner," she added. "It would only create unnecessary alarm, for I have no doubt she is all right. I have sent two of the men servants to Cudale."

"With your permission," said the captain, "I will go myself as soon as dinner is over."

"By all means," agreed Lady Cudale, "if she has not returned by then; but do not tell any one. Miss Rane would be much annoyed at the idea of any commotion or alarm, even supposing that she had lost her way."

"I will be careful," said the captain.

Lady Cudale, on joining the company, announced that she was sorry Miss Rane would not join them at dinner.

The captain took down another lady, to whom he hardly spoke, his gay humor and courteous manner having apparently completely deserted him. He was in no mood for conversation, for the remembrance of the hand emerging from the water haunted him. Nothing but wine perhaps could make him forget it. The lady whom he had taken down to dinner was astonished that the world should call Captain Wynyard a general man, for he seemed completely to forget her existence.

The captain longed for dinner to be ended that he might be at liberty to seek for Gladys. Nothing worse could have happened to her than that, from not knowing the neighborhood well, she had missed her way. But then the road from the park to Cudale was straight as an arrow.

When dinner was over and the ladies had left the room, the captain excused himself to his friends and also retired. Lady Cudale was lingering outside to speak to him.

"Miss Rane has not returned," she told him, "and I am growing quite anxious about her. Will you go and look for her at once, captain? If you find no trace of her, I shall have to raise an alarm. I want to avoid that, if possible. Everyone would be distressed, and our party spoiled; let us hope she is safe and well."

"I am anxious too," said the captain; "I shall lose no time."

But the men returned and the captain returned without bringing Miss Rane with them. They ascertained that she had been to Cudale and had made purchases at two shops—silk at one and colors at the other; but both the tradesmen who served her said she had left Cudale about four o'clock, and one had seen her walking down the High Street. The conclusion arrived at was that, if she had lost her way, it must have been between Cudale and the Hall.

Lady Cudale, seriously alarmed, sent to her husband and told him of her distress.

"What an extraordinary thing!" he cried. "You are quite sure that it is not a jest, Nellie?" he asked.

"Do you think that I am capable of jesting on such a subject?" Lady Cudale said indignantly. "I tell you the girl is lost."

"That is nonsense!" declared Lord Cudale. "She must be somewhere! There are no woods between the Hall and the town, and there is no piece of water."

"Something must be done!" cried Lady Cudale.

"Nellie," he said, "do you think she has eloped with anybody?"

"No, I do not, since there is no one else missing," replied her ladyship. "I am truly and honestly afraid that some accident has happened to her. What shall we do?"

Lord Cudale consulted his male guests, and the mysterious disappearance of Gladys Rane was thoroughly discussed. One suggested that the chief of the local constabulary should be sent for; others that the whole party of men and all the men servants in the house should go out in search of her. Yet that plan, though most sensible, seemed to strike every one as utterly useless, for she could not have mistaken the road, as it was known to her, and even if she had, she would have found her way home long ago.

The news soon spread throughout the Hall. It was found impossible to conceal what had happened from the ladies who were eagerly anxious.

ON GIVING. We're not so wise with what we own. And yet, we think it funny. The rich don't call us in and ask us how to spend their money. We know just what they ought to do. Just whom they ought to give it to. And strange it seems they never see what is so clear to you and me. It is signed, "The work of the slave of the threshold, Mahqud of Kashan." The making of rugs as an industry grew up in the East owing to the glut of cheap labour natural in a country where it is customary for each son to bring his wife to reside in the house of his father. Romance of Rugs.

Sixteen Years' Work to Complete a Hand-Made Carpet.

In a London museum we have "the most famous carpet in the world," known as the Ardabil rug, which is valued at something like fifty thousand pounds. It is about thirty-four feet long by seventeen feet wide and contains 30,000,000 knots.

This rug was ordered in memory of a Shah of Persia who died in 1524, and was presented to the mosque most closely associated with his ancestors. The making of it took the full time of the most famous rug-maker of the age for sixteen years, and even then he had apprentices to help him with the simpler parts. Buying Votes.

An elector who is offered a bribe ought to give the briber a bad few minutes. When a briber attempts to bribe a man he holds that man in contempt, or else he is experimenting with him to see whether he is worthy of respect or contempt. Send the bribers to the right about. No man can afford to sell his vote. It means selling his share in running his country; and that is something that ought not to be for sale. And what sort of Government is to be expected from men who buy their way into Parliament? Good Government or bad Government? Do we want our members to respect us or hold us in contempt? Does it not make a difference to us whether they despise us or not? Well, the man who buys another despises his purchase. Make no mistake about that. And all men who have a right view of the duties of citizenship despise the man who sells his franchise. These remarks, we believe, are in order just now. They are never out of place at election time.—Antigonish Casket.

Cross and Crescent.

The national emblem of the Turks is the crescent, and, among all the new and old flags of the nations, it is unique as being entirely contradictory. The Turks are bitterly anti-Christian, yet the flag under which they have massacred millions of Christians is a Christian emblem! The crescent was first used by the primitive Christians of Constantinople and the eastern provinces of the old Roman Empire as an emblem of the growing power of Christianity. It was not until about the year 1453, after the Turks had captured Constantinople, that they adopted the crescent as their national emblem. The reason why has never been satisfactorily explained. The crescent is essentially a symbol, and yet the Koran forbids the use of all symbols or images in the religious ceremonies of the Turks. The crescent is used, however, and none seem to object, or recall its Christian origin and significance.

Better Bits.

Better be silent than speak it. Better not to break than to have to mend. Better really be than seem to be. Better to say nothing than nothing to the purpose. Better for the foot to slip and not the tongue. Better to show too much courtesy than too little. Better is open reproach than secret calumny. Better be right and poor than wrong and rich. Better break your word if it is done by keeping it. Better, of two evils, to choose neither.

Trade With West Indies.

In view of the continued trade expansion between Canada and some of the principal ports of the West Indies, it is announced that the Canadian Pacific cargo steamship Methven will be transferred within a few months to the West Indies service. The Methven, together with the Mistawa and Montezuma, at present in regular service between Canada and Bermuda, Trinidad, Demerara and Barbados, will then provide a regular fortnightly service of particular value to Canadian exporters and importers.

Ideal Standards.

In the barter of one commodity for another which is the common occupation of life, good seems so mixed with evil and evil with good, principle with policy and policy with principle, that unless the mind is kept free from sophistries, and unless the inner vision holds unobscured these wavering lights which are given to guide us all, choice becomes more and more a matter of surrender. No man can escape compromise with his ideals, but certainly he is most a failure whose compromises are so many that at last he has no ideal standards for the measurements of his practical judgment.

bought by the pound this is a serious consideration. After the dyer in importance comes the tribal clipper, who cuts the pile of the rugs. In factories this is done by a machine on the principle of the lawn-mower. In certain parts of India, notably Gwalior, carpets famous for their beauty are the result of prison labour. Long-term men are invariably sent to the looms. Between each two of these sits a pattern-maker, who channels the colours and number of knots to be made. Some of the designs are so intricate that a gang of six men will barely complete two inches in a working day.

Wonderful Boats.

The wonder of a modern eight-oared racing-boat is that so frail a craft can carry a crew of nine men, whose total weight is at least 100 stone, and stand the strain of being driven through the water at a speed of some twelve miles an hour. The average eight-oar is sixty-three feet long, less than two feet wide, and only nine and a half inches deep. The boat herself weighs only about 240 pounds, or less than one-sixth of the weight she carries.

The cedar planks of which her skin is composed are only three-sixteenths of an inch in thickness, and if a man put his weight on one, his foot would go right through it. So fine are these planks that a veneer saw has to be used in order to cut them. The outriggers, in order to save weight without losing strength, are made of welded steel tubing, while the material for decking in, fore and aft, is the finest Irish linen. The cost of such a boat is about £120.

Man and His Shoes.

How much a man is like his shoes? For instance, both a soul may lose; Both have been tanned; both are made tight. By cobbles; both get left and right. Both need a mate to be complete. And both are made to go on feet. They both need healing; oft are sold. And both in time will turn to mold. With shoes the last is first; with them The first shall be last, and when The shoes wear out they're mended new; When men wear out they're mended, too! They both are tread upon, and both Will tread on others; nothing loath. Both have their toes, and both incline. When polished, in the world to shine; And both get out; now would you choose. TO USE TO LOOK AT.

All people are divided into two classes, as Gletch Burgess has pointed out. You can make your classification to suit yourself and your mood. The lover is "Daisy and the rest of the world." Another are people who eat olives and people who don't (I have an amendment to that—people who like ripe olives and people who don't). Mr. Burgess' own is the Bromides and the Sulphides. The one I want to say a word about to-day is people who get a lot of their enjoyment out of the books of things and people who want things for use rather than enjoyment.

Take books, for instance. To one man books are something to read. He is interested in the contents not in the container. Such a man will mark a book or turn down a page to keep a place (if it is his own book, of course he will not do it to anyone else's book if he has the slightest pretensions of being a gentleman). He will not care if the cover is torn off a magazine, he would just as soon have a paper-bound book as any other kind. His only interest in typographical appearance is that the type be easy to read.

The Booklover. The other class of man cares not only for the contents but also the container. He loves handsome bindings. Good typographical effects give him great pleasure. He will never turn down a page and will seldom mark a book.

Most strikingly is this contrast between the two classes of people shown when they became automobile owners.

To the first type, an automobile is something to get somewhere in. He may buy an expensive car, because he wants it known that he can afford an expensive car, or because he likes the engine performance, but the fine points of the car's design are lost on him. He does not take particular care of his paint. A muddy day does not worry him. A machine is something to get him—and usually his friends, for this type is almost always the generous, hospitable type—somewhere.

Just Had His Car Washed. To the second type, the automobile is not only a joy forever but a thing of beauty. He loves the lines of it and its gleaming surfaces. He polishes it and dusts it; he hates to take it out on a rainy day; a scratch on its lovely surface wounds him almost as poignantly as if it were a scratch on his own skin. You will invite him to your home and will hear when the day comes that he is not able to come because he has just had the car washed and it is a bad day.

And now, Reader Friend, tell me with which type my sympathy is. I challenge you thus because I don't quite know myself.

I Like to Mark Books. Not to get any joy out of the outside of things is to miss one of the big sources of happiness. But to care so much for the outside that you don't get half the utility out of the thing itself spoils one's own and other people's enjoyment. Personally, I can see that it is too bad to turn down the corners of a book, but I do love to mark my books as I read them, and I love to read books which my friends have marked. It's like talking the book over with them. On the other hand, I have a great respect for the joy the booklover gets out of a fine binding and artistic typographical arrangement.

I suppose the golden man is the man who can thoroughly enjoy the beauty of a thing and at the same time not let that appreciation interfere in unreasonable degree with its utility.

He arises maybe at 10 o'clock, and after a delicious night's snooze and a late breakfast he reads the papers, has a smoke or two, wanders about in his best clothes and parades with the children by the hand—nice, clean children, whom he praises to his neighbors and brags about as he walks abroad with them. Isn't papa nice!

Mamma has been up since dawn with these same babies. They arouse by early light, and she has to take them away from the hearing of papa so that he may enjoy that late morning snooze. Mamma knows what sort of day it will be if father is unduly disturbed in the morning. Mamma scrubs the children, disentangles their curls, braids their hair, cooks their cereal, prescribes what they may eat, dresses—Sunday school books, hears their bible lessons, kisses them away into the street, and then goes and cooks papa's breakfast. Isn't papa nice!

Mother has a luncheon for the children on Sunday on their return from Sunday school, but papa does not care to eat until later at a regular dinner. She waits for the children to come home from church and then she reads the comics to them, prescribes their play, tells them the things that they must not do, does a bit of hasty darning of the children's frocks, prepares husband's dinner for mid-afternoon, punishes one or two of the children in spite of papa's protests, and papa cuddles them sobbing in his arms. Isn't papa nice!

After dinner mother collects the Fake Mutiny.

WHY NO BLOOD WHEN SO MANY CARTRIDGES ON "RUMMER". NEW YORK, April 17.—(Associated Press.)—Belief that the crew of the rum-runner Patricia M. Boman, found adrift with sails set Sunday morning off the Long Island coast had staged a "fake mutiny," and had fled with the $200,000 obtained from selling a cargo of 4,000 cases of whisky, was expressed by authorities last night. Lack of blood-stains on the craft, whose decks were littered with empty cartridge shells and with a machine gun mounted on the cabin, led officials to drop the theory the rum pirates had looted the ship after killing or "abandoning" the crew.

Over a mass of black satin, having panels trimmed with wide bands of white lace, a short jacket of white fur is worn.

WOMAN'S HEALTH RESTORED

She Claims Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did It After Everything Else Failed

Milwaukee, Wisconsin.—"I feel that I ought to let you know about my case. I was ailing and could hardly do my housework and washing I was so run-down, just from having one child. I took a lot of medicines and had doctors. Then I gave them all up and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel wonderfully good now. I do everything that comes along, and we all take your medicine as soon as we need it. I feel just so. I am thankful for what the Vegetable Compound has done for my health and for my family."—Mrs. MARY SAEBCHACK, 644 29th Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Letters like these testify to the value of the Vegetable Compound. These women speak from the fullness of their hearts. They describe as correctly as they can their conditions: First, those symptoms that affected them most conspicuously; and later the disappearance of those symptoms. They are sincere expressions of gratitude. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a real blessing to women.

Fish for Shoes and Mole for Furs.

Women's shoes are now being made from the skin of the sea-serpent, who belongs to the porpoise family. The shoes resemble brown leather ones, but have spots on them about the size of sixpences. "Sharks' skins are also being used for women's going shoes, and they make very pretty ones, being dark brown and tan in colour." A "Daily Mail" reporter was told by a shoe-maker, "Shark's skin shoes are being largely worn; they are comfortable and keep out the wet."

"Human Fly" Killed.
CINEMA ACTOR'S CRASH FROM SKYSCRAPER.
Familiar throughout America as "the human fly," and known to every cinema goer for his unexampled daring, Harry Young has been killed in Broadway, New York. He fell to death from the eighth story of the Hotel Marlborough before thousands of horrified spectators. The street was packed with a silent crowd. Hundreds of eyes, fascinated by the daring audacity of this man who had challenged death in every big city of the country, followed his upward climb. Cinema operators turned the handles of their cameras with slow monotony. From buildings opposite, from the street far below, from the roof of the great building high above, from windows level with him, the film men followed "the human fly." He was dressed in white, with the words "Safety First" blazoned on his back. His courage and the keen edge of his nerves were a proverb. His wife, white-faced in the crowd, had faith in her man. He had told her, "My nerves and muscles are so under control that I cannot fall." At the eighth story he hung from a window sill, his body swinging small and black above the dense multitude. His fingers slipped. He fell. The camera handles turned faster. Young, spinning in an awful death dive, turned over and over in space. The camera eyes followed. It was tragedy, swift and awful, not to be surpassed in melodrama. Every second of it was recorded by the cameras, which did not cease to turn even as the crowd surged forward and round the dead man. Young's wife fainted and was hurried away in an ambulance. Young had climbed hundreds of America's tallest skyscrapers within the last three years. He did not know the meaning of fear. His ambition was to climb every famous building in the country. Once he held a crowd breathless with fear while he scaled the sheer face of a skyscraper at night in the white blaze of a searchlight.

A New Prison Horror.
(Many of the convicts in Sing Sing have lately taken to writing poetry.)
When Number Nine-Eighty objects to the chops
That they serve in the prison canteen
His knife and his fork and his napkin
he drops
And scribbles the following lay:
"Me molars is nicked; me biceps is bent.
Me jawbone is lame to de ears;
But dem chops wot you give us shows never a dent.
Dat sheep must 'a' lived eighty years!"
When Seven-Eleven observes that the cot
In his cell is uncomfortably hard
In meter he roundly complains of his lot.
For Seven-Eleven's a bard:
"Dem bunks ain't a place where a turtle would flop
If a comfortable stump was in sight,
If you want to be nice to me, Warden,
Ole Top,
Lemme sleep on the rockpits tonight!"
In cell and in corridor, all the day long,
At work and at play and at meals,
From the convicts the music of improvised song
Bursts forth in continuous peals.
They sing at the bowlers with hammers they hit;
They sing as they're running about;
Till the Warden declares that they simply must quit
Or he surely will put them all out.

Tombs of Chinese Kings.
The famous Ming tombs are located near Nanking, China. On the road that leads to them from Nanking are colossal figures of carved stone. These are statues of Chinese kings. The Mongols under Genghis Khan's successor swept across Asia and Russia with field guns and overran Hungary. He defeated the Germans and Poles in 1241. But the Mongols were beaten by Egypt in 1260. After that their power waned, and China was able to throw off the Mongol yoke in 1368, when she established a rule of native kings—the great Ming Dynasty. Under the Mings, China flourished until 1644. Then the Manchus, another Mongol people, reconquered China, and remained masters until 1912.
There is a fence built around these statues, because the Chinese believe that the statues would be very mad if a common Chinaman were to touch them.

Rod and Gun.
There are numerous features coming to make the May issue of Rod and Gun in Canada one of merit, and it will greatly please sportsmen all the way from the Atlantic to the Pacific. In this issue, a new department, "Outdoor Talk" begins, and it is to be an addition to the interest that readers will enjoy. It is edited by W. C. Motley, the well-known British Columbia sportsman and is almost certain to meet with instant approval. Bonnycastle Dale,
Robert Page Lincoln, C. S. Landis, J.
W. Winson, F. V. Williams, and other regular contributors whose work is always in popular demand, have splendid contributions in the May issue, and there are a host of others.
William MacMillan being the author of a very fine story, "Woo-Na," the "Polar Bear." There is an interesting, illustrated article on "The Bauff Winter Sports Carnival," not to mention the splendid Kennel Department, edited by Frank H. Walker, and many other features.

Rod and Gun in Canada is published monthly at Woodstock, Ontario, by Inter-Club Billiards.

MASONIC WIN FOUR STRAIGHT.
 The Masonic and B.I.S. players continued their series of games last evening. Two games were played, and resulted in a win in each case for the Masonic. The first game was played between Angel (Masonic) and Walsh (B.I.S.) Angel won by 88 points. The breaks were as follows:—

Angel (850)—10, 10, 10, 10, 13, 14, 23, 14, 10, 22, 16, 11—168.

Walsh (268)—19, 10, 11, 10, 18, 13, 11, 12—104.

In the second game, Foster (M.) and Wallace (B.I.S.) gave a good exhibition of billiards. Foster won out by 76 points. The breaks were:—

Foster (850)—14, 11, 24, 16, 22, 17, 17, 20, 17—158.

Wallace (274)—12, 15, 12, 11, 10, 12, 12, 10, 14—117.

Operetta, "Flowerland."

DELIGHTED LARGE AUDIENCE.

St. Joseph's Hall was packed to its utmost capacity last night, when the pupils of the Convent School presented a pretty operetta, entitled, "Flowerland," to a delighted audience. The various roles were cleverly portrayed and the performers showed how at home they were in the carrying out of the minutest detail. The talented young performers who played their parts to such advantage are as follows:—Miss Carrie Walsh, as Miss McStinger; Miss Kitty Conroy, as Barbara; Miss Mary Taaffe as Madge; Miss Christie Larkin as Mrs. Treacle; Miss Annie Colbert as the Fairy Queen and Misses Madge Byrne, Minnie Kennedy and Nellie McGrory, as fairies, were very dainty. The entire programme will be repeated to-night, and it is safe to say that another full house will greet this popular production.

Congratulatory Messages

TO THEIR MAJESTIES AND TO H. R.H. THE DUKE OF YORK.

25th April, 1923.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.
LONDON, April 25.
Sudden skies and chilly winds forecast unpleasant weather for the royal wedding at Westminster tomorrow when the Duke of York weds Lady Elizabeth Bowes Lyons.

CANADIAN PATROL FIRES ON U.S. POACHER.

VANCOUVER, April 25.
The United States fishing schooner Sliam, of Seattle, suspected of poaching in Salmauder Bay on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, was captured last night by the Canadian fisheries patrol boat Malahina, after the schooner had been struck by a broadside from the patrol boat and had been scuttled by the fleeing crew, who left one wounded man behind. The remainder of the crew succeeded in escaping inland on Vancouver Island, and are being pursued by Federal and Provincial police. The Sliam is said to have fled when the patrol appeared and after a chase of a mile the patrol boat sent a volley through the cabin of the schooner. This is believed to be the first time that a Canadian patrol boat has fired on United States craft in Canadian waters.

THOUGH FAITH BE WEAK, HOPE IS INSPIRING.

RYE, New York, April 25.
Agreement on the terms of payment of British debt to the United States is likely to lead, not only to agreement in regard to other inter-Allied debts, but to a settlement of the whole reparations problem, declared F. C. Goddough, Chairman of Barclay's Bank, England to-day, in an address before the Executive Committee of the American Bankers' Association.

EXECUTIONS IN FREE STATE.

TRALEE, April 25.
The Free State authorities this morning executed three captured rebels, Richard Hatheway, Joe McEnery and John Greaney. Hatheway was recently captured in a cave in the Kerry Cliffs. He was a deserter from the British Army.

ARMING AGAINST LAWLESSNESS.

LONDON, April 25.
A Dublin despatch says the Free State Government has announced its intention to issue revolvers and ammunition to citizens of standing in order that they may protect themselves from robberies and violence, which are becoming prevalent.

EPSOM WINNER.

EPSOM, April 25.

PRESBYTERIANS AND UNIONS.

TORONTO, April 25.
By a vote of 20 to 11, the Presbyterian Church Union Committee with delegates from all parts of Canada, to-day resolved to press the proposed bill for union with Methodists and Congregationalists before the coming general assembly.

HANDS OFF THE LAW STRETCH TO THE "HIGHER UPS."

WASHINGTON, April 25.
Completion of the jury and beginning the oral presentation of the Government's case by District Attorney Gordon, marked the trial yesterday in the district of Columbia supreme Court, of Charles W. Morse, his three sons and four others. They are charged in indictments returned more than a year ago, with conspiracy to defraud the Federal Government in connection with ship construction and operating contracts awarded during and after the Great War. Over forty million dollars worth of contracts are involved.

AUDIT SYDNEY ACCOUNTS.

SYDNEY, April 25.
Two bank officials from the local branches of the Bank of Montreal and Canadian Bank of Commerce, C. T. Morrissey and H. W. Peacock, respectively, began this morning an audit of the city books to check the Carter report and discover if possible the nature of the five thousand dollar shortage reported in that document.

BELGIUM AND RECONSTRUCTION.

BRUSSELS, April 25.
Belgium is floating a loan of one billion francs, the proceeds of which are to be applied to reconstruction work necessitated by war damages. The nation's note circulation is now nearly seven billion francs.

Do Our Bodies Really Change.

The cells of which our body is composed are really in perpetual change. Every instant some particles of us somewhere are wearing out—only to be replaced immediately. A scar may remain for years, but this is only because the exact shape of our bodies, the frame of the cells, as it were, remains constant, but the tissues bordering that scar all change. In early life, new cells are born faster than the old ones die, and so we "grow," but the changing process is with us all our days. Actually the tissues are renewed all round in a good deal less than an average of seven years, but since some magic virtue was supposed to attach to the old number 7, this figure was adopted as a rough measure of reckoning what was then only half-understood.

The basket weave is prominent in white sports frocks, and is especially attractive three-piece costume with skirt embroidered in wool of pastel shades.

The ruffled glove is a most pleasing novelty. The three or four ruffles are edged with material a shade darker than that of which the chamotte-like glove is made.

What Does He Mean, Liberal?

Sir Richard Squires, the dyed-in-the-wool Tory now poses as a Liberal. Liberal, how are you! The only reason we see for his calling himself a Liberal, is the fact that he has been so liberal with the taxpayers money.

Then again he has had liberal holidays, liberal trips and a liberal share of the public confidence. But it is all through now, Sir Richard, and you will be beaten by such a liberal majority that you won't know your way home—Good-by.

Canadian Wrestlers Condition is Serious.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 14.—Unconscious as the result of a headlock applied by Strangler Lewis, world's champion wrestler, in a wrestling match here last night, Wallace Dugid, Canadian wrestler, was taken to the hospital. He was unconscious and ringside physicians expressed the belief that he was in a serious condition. Nineteen headlocks were applied on Dugid, the last one coming after an hour and 32 minutes of wrestling.

lives, attempts have been made to terrorize this city until it was shown that the people of St. John's would not stand for this imported hooliganism. Even last week the ropes were cut that held the Earl of Devon on which Mr. Monroe and his colleagues were touring Bonavata Bay, with the idea that the steamer might be driven ashore. Through all the career of the Coaker movement rowdism and appeals to mob law have been its principal plank, and the time is now come when the people of this country should remember that a further continuance of this sort of thing is bound to end in something that we will all live to regret. The passions of illiterate men have been so inflamed of late that nothing could be too vicious for them to attempt, and respect for constituted authority has been so undermined because of the incendiary utterances of men in authority that respect for the emblem of the Empire must of necessity be made to take root in the minds of those prepared to believe anything that their poisoners may soak into their brains. Take no risk, then, that would lead to a condition of affairs in this country that would make life intolerable and that would give the men of unreasoning maddening views of absolute control of all our institutions. The flag of freedom, that pure and unswerving emblem that symbolizes all that stands for justice, honor and liberty and fair play to every man, must continue to float over our heads to signify that Newfoundland is a place where peace and good order reigns and where mob rule will not be tolerated. Every elector has a special duty cast upon him in this matter. It comes home to every man, no matter what his class or condition or where he lives in the city of St. John's or in the smallest outpost in the Island. The mainstay of this country is respect for law and order. That respect has been challenged time and again by Coaker and those connected with him. It is therefore the duty of every man who values the future of his country to vote against the Coaker menace and put in power men who will see that right is respected and that the stability of our institutions is maintained. Vote for Bennett and Better Times.

GLOVERTOWN ENDORSES BENNETT AND BETTER TIMES.

GLOVERTOWN, April 25. In spite of bad weather nearly 200 supporters greeted the Opposition candidates at an enthusiastic meeting last night. Every indication of magnificent majority in this section. OPPOSITION COMMITTEE.

NOT "OPEN" HALL FOR COAKER AT OPEN HALL.

OPEN HALL, B.B., April 25. Coaker arrived yesterday but found no supporters. Then he held a meeting for his outside union men and his five union men here. Out of 52 voters at Open Hall 12 attended. On his arrival and leaving there was continually cheering for Monroe and colleagues. Coaker and panper relief must go. BENNETT AND BETTER TIMES.

TRUTH.

ANOTHER ADVOCATE STORY WITHOUT ANY FOUNDATION.

MONROE, T.B., April 25. We the undersigned wish to contradict a statement in the Advocate of dated April 21st from White Rock saying that the Opposition candidates were driven out of Apsey Brook, Burgoyne's Cove, Petley's Cove and Britannia. They had a splendid reception at each place, and held a meeting at Spook's Harbor which included Apsey Brook, and also at White Rock. They held no meeting at Britannia as the schools and churches were closed owing to sickness. Stone, Bradley and Hodder will poll a two-third vote in Smith Sound. The Coakerites are getting frightened, a couple making all the fuss. (Sgd.) E. Stone, Jr., A. Dalton, E. Dalton, John Reid, P. Lopez, J. Samson, S. Holloway, E. Frampton, Wm. Strong, A. GOVERNMENT MEETING AT TREPASSEY A FIASCO.

TREPASSEY, April 25th. Special to Evening Telegram. The report of meeting held here by the "Three Bees" appearing in Daily Mail 18th inst, which paper only reached here yesterday is a barefaced falsehood and the writer who wrote such a tissue of falsehood should be branded as a down-right liar. The meeting was worst ever held here and the hall was only half filled, a large percentage being boys. Capt. Bonia got off some of his old dry humor, but it fell as flat as a pancake and Skipper Tom soon found that the audience had his measure, and his wit wasn't good enough to gull his hearers. Bindon and Browne tried to explain the Humber Deal, but didn't appear to know why Squires failed to accept the challenges by Sir M. P. Cashin and party to place his cards upright on the table. They offered no excuses for the political sins of the Government, and when the chairman asked some pointed questions regarding the Humber Deal they could not give a satisfactory reply. The meeting was a fiasco from beginning to end. The splendid meeting held by Walsh the incorruptible hero and his colleagues has stirred Trepassey to its depth and eighty per cent. of voters here will vote for Bennett and Better Humber and Bounty on Codfish. From all around the district glorious news reaches us and the election of Bennett Candidates by largest majority ever polled in this district will be verdict on Polling Day.

FREDERICTON SOLD FOR CHANGE FREDERICTON, via Carmanville, April 25th.

Special to Evening Telegram. Mr. Long arrived to-day and held his meeting at night in the School Room. This settlement showed its appreciation by flags flying and guns firing. Men also attended from Nes-idge Cove and Carmanville. Mr. Long held our close attention for two hours over the squandering and spending of the Government and showed us the benefit of the Bennett Government when elected. The meeting closed with the National Anthem and cheers were given for our future representative. Fredericton will vote solid for a change of Government.

PLACENTIA ANSWERS ADVOCATE SCRIBES BLUFF.

PLACENTIA, April 25th. Editor Evening Telegram. Referring to message in Daily Mail signed "Fisherman" dated April 23rd, SQUIRES' "CROCK" HORSES.

Squires the Jockey, in his mad race, has overtaken our best horses and has laid them low in a very short time. But poor Old Newfoundland has to stay in the race to the last ditch. So, as it is with a jockey, when he has been given a chance and has ruined two horses, HE HAS TO GO. Squires, in this case, has been the jockey and HE MUST GO.

On the 3rd of May
Will see the downfall
Of Coaker and Squires.

Last night's meeting put the finishing touches to the Coakerites in St. John's.

Another meeting and they won't be enough left to tell the tale.

Coaker's new regulations would drive every independent man out of the country.

By independent I don't mean those of the Dr. Jones or Dunfield class.

Dr. Jones and the heavyweight with Hawco will make a desperate race to save their nomination fees.

Who will be the leader of the Independents, Jones or Dunfield?

Arthur Bulley is some number.

And Campbell is some grumbler.

The news from the Northern districts is great.

Coaker's strongholders are gone dead against him.

Reliable information from all sources from disinterested people endorse the opinions of a landslide.

As Bennett will surely have the Government the North is anxious to be in the swim for Bennett and better times.

Monroe, Stone, Long, Ayre and their colleagues have done the trick.

Coaker is working desperately to save himself.

Higgins' vote will be the largest ever polled by any candidate in St. John's East.

The third man of the Bennett party will defeat Squires by more than 500 votes is the way the betting is going in St. John's West.

Oh! Mr. Gallagher. Oh! Mr. Gallagher. Did you hear the latest news that's going around?

Mr. Squires is feeling blue Campbell and Fitzgibbon got the flu On the 3rd of May we'll turn 'em up side down.

Now, Mr. Shean. Now, Mr. Shean. They must think the people here are very green.

For if we have another Reid deal We'll be eating Indian meal At the institutions, Mr. Gallagher No. The rock sheds Mr. Shean.

One week to-day.

Altogether! East, West, North and South.

Shout it from the house tops.

Size of Atoms.

If a diamond in a ring could be increased to the size of the earth, the individual carbon atoms in it would be only about as large as a tennis ball. This was one of the illustrations used to express the minuteness of atoms in the Truman-Wood lecture prepared by Sir William Bragg for a meeting of the Society of Arts in London. It was pointed out that the combination of X-rays and the crystal had opened up a new field of research into the properties of atoms. Every crystal was in a way a long avenue down which we could look and see at the far end of it the most primitive groupings of the atoms.

Squires and the Working Classes.

If any proof were necessary to establish the tyrannical and autocratic spirit assumed by the presumptuous and self-constituted leader of the so-called Liberal-Reform Party, his attitude towards the laborers of St. John's would fully prove it. Through the columns of his newspapers Squires, in the most dictatorial and arrogant manner possible, assumes to tell the laborers of the city of St. John's what they should do and what they should not do. This is the limit of his impudence unless there is more to come. What connection Sir Richard Anderson Squires has with the laborers of St. John's we fail to see. He has never given them any employment. He has never had any employment to give and we doubt if he would give any to the St. John's laborers even if he had it to give. We fail to see where his interest in the laborers comes in. He has no association with any enterprise that calls for the employment of labor. The most he can do in that way is to employ a couple of men to put in his coal once a year, but there begins and ends his employment of the laborers. Then take Dr. Campbell. What labor has he given? What labor has he ever given? It is true he has been active the past few months providing work for men at breaking stones or shoveling snow, but that has been merely in the hope of getting their votes, and he has taken very good care that none of his own money is going into it. If anybody could be found who has ever got a dollar of Dr. Campbell's own money for any purpose, then the man ought to be put in the Museum as a curiosity. Campbell is very generous with the money of the taxpayers, but we have yet to see or hear of the man who has benefited by Campbell's private generosity.

So much for these self-constituted patrons of the laborers and their interests. Now contrast these "captains of industry" with employees of labor like Sir Michael Cashin, Sir John Crosbie, Hon. A. E. Hickman, Walter Monroe, and others, men who have built up big industrial enterprises and who are ever ready to take their risks in the fishing and other industries of the country, thereby giving hundreds of people an opportunity to procure employment which enables them and their families to live in comfort. Has this country ever seen a man more generous in his private charities, more ready to assist in any charitable

What The Reids' Sold What They Got, and Will Get! -- Squires The Denouncer and Their Greatest Benefactor.

The Reids sold their Humber properties to the Armstrongs for the "sum" of $1,500,000 and a large part of the common stock in the Humber Company. So, Mr. Mail, both the Bennett Manifesto and the Telegram were right. See! By reason of the share in the common stock of the Humber Company, the Reids share in the control. In other words, by giving their lands for common stock, the Reids purchased control. See! To assure the Humber Company that the railway would be continuously and efficiently operated, Squires has agreed to buy out Reid rights in and claims against the Railway, and Tear The Truth From Him!

The illogical Mail says (1) that in 1905, Bond was blamed by the Tories for not submitting the Harnsworth Deal to the country, and (2) that the same Tories are now complaining because Squires is submitting the Humber Deal to the electors. As ever, the so-called Tories are consistent, right and logical! It is the Mail which is blundering. In 1905, Bond proposed to give the Harnsworths very large forest areas, and to take away from the people, in respect of those areas, certain common law rights which they had enjoyed from the outset. After he had placed his plan before the Legislature (and to his credit, he did it clearly) a demand arose that the measure should be submitted to the people for their approval. That demand was right. But in 1923, Squires is not "submitting the Humber proposition to the people." He is submitting himself to steal a new lease of place, and power. He dare not be frank, as Bond was. He has not Bond's courage or honesty. Instead of submitting the proposition to them, he is trying to bunco the people by a host of false statements. He defies and insults the public by his secrecy, and they would be justified for rising in their strength, and tearing the truth from the coward.

Four Years in the Service of the Public—The Evening Telegram.

TO THE POINT.

(By WILL U B WISE.)

The people of St. John's are satisfied that after last night's meeting of the Coaker-Squires candidates, that Bennett's six city candidates will be elected by record majorities.

The meeting was a colossal failure, a fact which is proven beyond doubt by the large numbers who left their seats between 9.30 and ten o'clock.

At ten o'clock fully two hundred chairs were vacant.

Compared with the Bennett meeting in the Star Hall a short while ago, it was a joke.

Members of Squire's committee contended the Premier made a mistake by taking the chance of showing his weakness.

Make no mistake about Conception Bay which will roll up nine seats for Bennett.

To show how weak the Government is in the Bay. They are looking for odds that Squires will get one out of the nine.

Mark it down St. John's and Conception Bay 15 for Bennett.

That bet of $6000 advertised in the Telegram since Monday is still waiting to be taken up.

Cashin's challenge to Squires for a joint public meeting is still unanswered.

What better proof can one ask to tell what is going to happen this day week.

St. John's, Conception Bay and the South West Coasts are not going to take any more chances with Coakers Fish Regulations.

"Nothing doing" the experience of the past 40 months is too much for any public spirited people.

One week more and the race will be run. Coaker and Squires themselves will be sadly defeated.

Bennett will be in charge of the Ship of State and will guide much abused Newfoundland into the straight path of progress and prosperity.

The fishermen will receive encouragement never equalled in the history of the country.

One dollar for every quintal of fish caught paid direct to the fisherman himself is better than repulsive Fish Regulations as Mr. Coaker secretly tells the F.P.U. Councils he is going to enforce this year.

The Humber Deal will be made worth while to Newfoundland and Newfoundlanders by the Bennett Government.

St. George's Coal Fields, Bell Island, Grand Falls and every other enterprise that benefits the country will be encouraged.

And in a short while we will have a contented people, a growing trade, reduced taxation and employment in demand.

A dollar will be worth more than 22 cents in purchasing the necessities of life than it is to-day.

The workman's earning power will be increased and the fisherman will be given every opportunity to better his position and that of his family.

An industrious, sane, honest Government which the Coaker-Squires was not, can do big things for Newfoundland during the next four years. That is why the Bennett Party is going to sweep the country on Thursday.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 27.—(Canadian Press.)—The schooner Patricia M. Beman, formerly the Halifax county schooner Edith Helen Verge, 89 tons, which was found abandoned on Sunday off the United States coast with bullet marks telling a story of piracy, mutiny, or fake, carried six men when she sailed from Halifax November 16. They were Captain Geo. Thor, whose home address was not given; R. Nelson, 34, mate, of Sweden; Lans Gallander, 36, cook, France; and seamen J. Johnson, 28, Norway; A. Barkman, 39, Riga; and John Hodder, 21, Newfoundland.

Ruffing is a favorite trimming for the gingham dress. The collar of the material is as popular as the white collar.

Five Years to Make a Cigar.

It takes from three to five years to make a cigar. That is to say, every cigar represents an investment of labor of three, four or five years, and, in the aggregate, millions of capital tied up for that time. The actual making of a cigar in the factory is really but a minor process in the long line of operations. What counts most is the careful, expert preparation and the skilful blending of the tobacco. No sooner has the leaf passed into the hands of the agents of the manufacturer than there begins a series of most important steps, calling for a wide range of technical skill in the perfecting of the raw material, that treatment of the tobacco in storage which gives to it the flavor, the mellowness and the sweetness which comes with age.

"From three to five years' imprisonment in the warehouse," is the sentence imposed upon each and every crop of tobacco leaf that goes into the manufacture of cigars or cigarettes. That is to say, there are from three to five crops as many years old continuously being mellowed by age in the warehouses.

VULCANITE ROOFING

Vulcanite Roofing is made and guaranteed by the Beaver Company, Ltd., makers of Beaver Board. During the year 1920 and 1921 Vulcanite Roofing sold at seven dollars per roll. THE PRICE OF VULCANITE ROOFING IS NOW ONLY $4.00 PER ROLL. Each roll of Vulcanite Roofing is full size, complete with nails and cement for laying. A roll of Vulcanite Roofing contains 108 square feet and will cover 100 square feet of roofing surface. Vulcanite Roofing when laid by a certificated roofer, is guaranteed to last for fifteen years. Vulcanite Roofing is guaranteed fully equal to higher priced roofings of similar weight and size. At $4.00 per roll Vulcanite Roofing is cheaper than felt, because giving better wear it outlasts felt. When Vulcanite Roofing is used, you do not need to buy nails or tins, and your roof does not need to be painted or tarred, or otherwise coated until the Vulcanite has been 12 months on your roof. Roofs covered with Vulcanite Roofing pay lower insurance premiums than roofs covered with felt.

A business man of Curling who arrived in town this week says that St. George's will elect MacDonnell by a large majority. Bay of Islands will give him 75 per cent. of the vote and this was supposed to be Downey's stronghold.
 They want the Humber Deal, but they want to see it carried on by a clean, capable Government not steeped in jobbery and graft.
 They laugh at the statement of Squires, who says "If I am not elected with my party it will not be carried on." They are intelligent men and know that Squires is saying this merely to get votes.
 The Humber Deal will be carried on by the Bennett Government in a clean, honest manner and free from the blunders and grafting of the past three and a half dark years.
 Like all other districts in the country they are disgusted with Squires making a political football of it, and at the same time concealing from the people the particulars of the terms in which they are most interested.

 They believe that there is something that Squires does not want the people to know till they have deposited their ballots. Therefore they will not trust him but will elect Bennett men who will do the job much better than this corrupt Government.
 After three and a half years with 32 broken promises on Squires and Coaker he trusted with this Humber Proposition! Let them but get four years of a clear road again and they will "chastise us with scorpions" having already "lashed us with whips."
 The people are in no humor to listen to their deceptive talk now. They have made the country naked and hungry and are driving the young men out in droves every steamer.
 There are good industrious fishermen and their families staggering with hunger in Placentia Bay and other districts. They certainly would not have been brought to this state only for the mismanagement and criminal extravagance of the Government and the killing blight of the Fish Regulations. There are countries we know of in which if this thing happened those responsible for it would not get the chance to brazenly seek re-election.

 The Government spent money at the rate of over one million dollars a month, while at the same time the people in many parts of the country went without food enough to eat and clothing to keep themselves warm. But the Government gang suffered not and wanted for nothing.
 Fully one-third of the Squires meeting at the Majestic last night were Bennett men, who went in the hope of having the mystery of the Humber Deal explained by Squires at last. Needless to say they were disappointed.
 It remains as great a mystery as ever because Squires knows if he revealed the full details of the terms he and his candidates would not save their Nomination fees.
 As it is the people will not be caught and will vote for the Bennett party, who will quickly get at the bottom of this secret graft bargain when they get control on May the 3rd. If it is a good, clean contract they will carry it on at once in a manner devoid of graft and corruption. There will be no "rake off" for anybody.
 Mr. J. V. O'Dea, who acted as Squires' Chairman last night, must now realize that that life-long coveted seat in the Upper House is as far off as ever. Poor John V! The idea of calling any party that he is associated with "a Liberal party" is enough to make a horse laugh.
 The lesson that cannot be escaped as the result of last night's meeting of Squires' supporters at the Majestic is as plain and convincing as though the ballots were counted, viz. St. John's will give Bennett six men. Of a certainty we are going to have BENNETT and BETTER TIMES.

THE FIGHTING TRIO, HIGGINS, FOX, VINICOMBE, St. John's East Representatives.

 Under Bennett Government they will see that employment is given to the labourer, the mechanic, the tradesman and the clerk.
 Every man is entitled to follow his own trade. With BENNETT and BETTER TIMES every man will be able to.
 Coakerism must be stamped out of St. John's. The Fighting Trio have undertaken to do it.
 The menace of the Uncrowned King of the North must never again threaten the existence of the fair city of St. John's.
 The Fighting Trio have declared war on the ruinous policy of Coaker and the loyal old liberal district of St. John's East is rallying in a body to their standard.
 As knights of old they go forth to battle with the invader, and the

Absolutely False
 IS ADVOCATE STATEMENT, SAYS
 HON. J. R. BENNETT.
 Questioned by the Telegram as to the truth of the statement in Monday's Advocate that he had sent a message of congratulation to Mr. Brian Dunfield after his nomination for St. John's East, Mr. Bennett replied that this was absolutely false. He also contradicts flatly the suggestion that Mr. Dunfield came into the political field at the instance of himself or his party.

How the Workmen Are Treated.

Editor Evening Telegram
 Dear Sir—Please allow us space in your highly esteemed paper to make a few comments on the position in which the workmen of the city find themselves. There are men to-day amongst those employed on relief works capable of filling the highest positions in the land. Last fall the workmen of the city found themselves in a starving condition and had to apply for work of some sort, anything in fact that would keep their children from starving. First we were given work breaking stone at $2 per day for 5 days per week. As the winter came on and the number of unemployed increased, we formed up a committee and interviewed the Prime Minister. The deputation consisted of nine. Six of these were from the East End. They secured an increase of $2 per week, but we of the West End were left at the mercy of the highest authority in the land. Nothing daunted we fought and won out because our cause was just. The politicians who are professing now to be our benefactors in order to get our votes are the very people who threatened us with the law because we dared ask for food. However the Prime Minister arranged matters so that a man with three children could get 4 days work or $8 per week, and a young man three days per week. How could a woman run a house on $8 per week, considering the cost of coal, rent and food, not to talk of clothing. Again, how much in debt would the young man be by spring of the year who has to pay $7 per week for board and receives $6 in wages. The genial Dr. Campbell told our committee that three days work per week was enough for any young man—when we tried to tell him different he raged like a tiger and one would imagine he was giving the relief out of his own pocket. A few days ago we found that the Prime Minister dismissed a man from the Militia Department because he carried out his orders—that was to have a roll call every hour at the rock-sheds. There is another thing we might mention in connection with these men who are now seeking our votes. The relief work was guaranteed to continue until May, regardless of the fact that an election was pending. We were told this by the Select Committee who stated the matter had been arranged by order in Council. It could be done and it is legal according to section 149 of the Election Act, 1913, which specially states that work "urgently necessary" Surely the relief is urgently necessary, and it cannot be classed as bribery and electioneering to prevent children from starving. The law of Great Britain is not to starve children. The law does not say it is illegal to feed them. Oh, no! The English law is a square deal for all. Thus why dangle the best law in the world. Why not give us a square deal?

 Yours respectfully,
 M. BENNETT, Chairman,
 B. F. VISCOUNT, Secy.
