

WE GIVE THANKS to our many friends for their liberal patronage in the past and trust by attention to their wants to merit its continuance.

CHAMPIONS OF ALL CANADA.

QUEEN'S DEFEAT MONTRÉAL BY 29 POINTS TO 11.

The Kingston students do most of their playing in the First Half with the Wind in their favor—McGee's Menace for the Flying Frigate—the Best Team Won.

McDAVIES GO BYONGESTREET, TORONTO.

A CHASE AFTER SLY REYNARD.

The Toronto Hunt has the Best Run of the Season—J. Maxwell on Fritz Was First in the Killing $100.

The hunt had one of the best runs of the season yesterday afternoon. There were two down in the saddle, and the start was made at McFarlane's Hotel.

The hounds were thrown off at the railroad track with the course north over half a dozen fields, and through the Smith farm and Elm Grove property.

The hounds were then followed through the Eglington section to the Don Estate and through King's Bob Davis's farm. Reynard was killed at the Dutch Farm, Mr. J. Westwood, on Fritz, being first in to get the brush, and George Cartwright on West with Glen Fox and took the prize.

The master participated in the run on Baffle, and there were present besides Messrs. James Cartwright on Grey Fritz, Fred Doane on a good looking chestnut, Dr. Capon on a lively mare, George Cartwright on Glen Fox, Edgar Cartwright on Surprise, A. R. London on George C. and Frank McPhillips on the Laddie.

Trotting Fliers' Interesting History. Director's history is an interesting one and bears out in a measure the truth of the old saying that "great trees from little acorns grow." Director was bred by John Green of Dublin, Cal., through Monroe Salisbury over his trotting qualities.

The horse is a veritable beauty, being coal black and standing 15 1/2 hands high. It is said that when Director was a 2-year-old he was such a miserable-looking runt that it was thought he would never trot a bit.

The champion stallion did not start in his yearling or 2-year-old form. His first appearance was at Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 12, 1892, in a 3-year-old purse for $1,000. He won the race in 2:27 and Director the next three in 2:23, 2:24 and 2:23.

This performance at once attracted attention, and Director was regarded as a promising 3-year-old. At Independence, Iowa, Aug. 25, in a 3-year-old purse of $500, he met the best of the breed, Kentucky Union, by Aberdeen, and Director only secured third money in a five-hat race, in which two heats were trotted in 2:19.

After that came a long string of races in the South, his earnings for the year 1892 amounting to $10,000. His best record is 2:05 1/4, while Alix has 2:07 3/4 to her credit.

Alix up to a recent date was considered a "day" horse, because all her achievements had been performed in the woods of the Northwest. The "males" did not take kindly to her because she was not owned by any flashy horseman, and it is said that combinations were made to secure her defeat.

Alix was bred in North Wisconsin by Morris J. Jones of Kenosha. She has 15 heads and 15 heads and 1 inch behind. She is of the thoroughbred type.

The Steeplechase Declared Off. WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—First race, 5 furlongs—Capt. Bowen, 1, Aurelian 2, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

Director and saddle matched. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—A match race, $500 to $250, has been arranged between Trotter Director (2:05 1/4) and the pacer Salsin (2:05 3/4), to be run at the Philadelphia Driving Park Association to start at 2:00 p.m. The conditions call for a good day track. Flying 11/2 (2:04) will also attempt to beat his record for a purse of $100.

Turf Topics. Director has won more heats in races in 2:10 or better than any other trotter. The Columbus (Ohio) Driving Association will give trotting meetings in July, August and September next year, and between the three will offer $40,000 in stakes and purses.

Stamboul trotted in 2:07 at Stockport, Cal. Nov. 23 of last year, and with this single exception Director's third best time of 2:08 on Tuesday is the fastest ever trotted at this time of the year. But California weather and New York winter are two different things—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Montgomery, Ala., is to have the last trotting meeting of the year apparently, having announced a series of events to take place Dec. 5 to 8. Kremlin, it will be remembered, turned the Montgomery track in 2:09 along in November last year, and should have few records made there this season.

The clearance sale of stallions and brood mares from San Francisco to the State Senator, took place at San Francisco. A great number of breeders were in attendance. The average price was the highest ever realized at such a sale in California. Paloma, dam of Armistice, brought $7,500, the highest price ever for a brood mare. Flying 11/2, brought $3,000. Over 50 head were disposed of.

At the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Shelburne Turf Association the following officers were elected: Directors, Dr. Norton, William McCutcheon, A. V. Galbraith, John Hamilton, Charles McLean, treasurer, R. A. Siky; secretary, R. L. Mortimer; auditors, G. B. Keys and Frank O'Flynn.

TAILORS. ESTABLISHED 1843. A SPECIALTY Score's

(SP. CAS.) "Guinea" Trousers R. SCORE & SON, TORONTO, CANADA. Samples sent by mail if required.

MINUTES OF THE SOCIETY.

The South African Cyclist Club of His Trip and Successes.

L. S. Meininger, the South African cyclist and winner of the long-distance world's championship at the International meet in Chicago in August, has returned to his distant home, and it is possible he will be seen no more in this country if an interview had with him by an English paper soon after his arrival in England can be accepted as true.

In reply to the query whether he would return to England or America for next season's racing, he is reported to have said: "No, I can't afford it. Although my club, the South African Wanderers, contribute generously to my expenses, I am, nevertheless, a few hundred pounds out of pocket. It's impossible for a scratch man to continue cycling racing nowadays and remain an amateur, and my estimate of what the total cost of a season's training and cycle racing is, for instance, for a scratch man, is a completely neglected very profitable business for seven months, a loss which I estimate at not less than $2000."

He then went and drowned himself, in order that his family might be helped out of misery by his letter to the editor, which he had written in a fit of despair. In his childish ignorance he did not know that his doing so would be considered a fraud and bring no benefit whatever to his relatives.

This is the letter which he wrote to his mother, and he went to his death: "Dear Mother—I spent 4/6 for your benefit, and I hope the money will bring you to England the success which has attended my efforts."

"Did you or your club anticipate before you came to England the success which has attended my efforts?"

"No!" emphatically. "In fact, the idea of my attempting to compete against the crack Englishmen was laughed at by the South African. The primary object of my visit was to insure a representative at the 100 kilometre championships. My 100 kilometre win at Chicago has delighted them, I hear, and has secured a representative every year to the international championships wherever held. Such is South African success."

"How do you account for your brilliant record performances and yet comparative want of success in England?"

"Inexperience in tactics and not knowing which men to watch. I learned a lot this season. First of all I consider that the English habit of sitting well behind the work is a mistake. American racing men are more nearly over their horses than the English. The gear most favored is 60x68. The advantage of sitting over the work is that it enables you to see the muscular exertion in not so great, and common sense teaches that it is more natural for a rider to lift his feet from his seat than from in front. Hence the American fast sprinters."

Meininger made a great army of friends while in this country. At first inclined to be a little cold, he rapidly thawed out under the genial and friendly many of his far-away home he was held in popular favor, second only to Zimmerman. His work at Chicago was regarded as a good run, and he was held in high esteem at that long distance riding he was without an equal.

A. Pelland, rode 50 miles on a safety bicycle in 2 hours, 20 minutes and 30 seconds. This is now the English record.

Harry Nickless and Dick Borge signed this week in London to fight with gloves at 140 pounds, for 20 rounds, the 140-pound championship of England. The fight will be held on Jan. 22 in the club fighting at the Ring, at the Ring, at the Ring. Dick Borge has offered a $250 purse.

In Dayton, Ohio, at a rat-killing contest W. T. Rogers for ferret, won $100 by killing 16 rats in 1 1/2 hours. There were 100 rats and 100 cats in the contest. Each dog had 25 rats confined in a 24-foot ring.

Thirty-two ounces was the amount of iron carried on each foot by the owner, Alice Ensign, when she trotted to her present record of 2:23. She is a natural trotter, it appears, having a side and speed at the lateral gait. She is by the sire of Blue Sign, 2:08, the pace that Dictionary had such hard luck with the past season.

The sale of the Fashion Farm trotting stock was concluded at New York Wednesday. The average price realized was $150. There were 100 head in all sold, which brought the handsome amount of $38,750, an average of $387.50. Afterward the sale of stock from J. H. Shute's Park Farm began. "Andy" Welch of Hartford secured the bargain of the evening, buying a mare named Hilda for $140.

The horse show sale by Patterson of New York took place Wednesday. The sale was a success, and many horses were sold to the United States Treasury at Washington. The money was shipped Nov. 17, and should have been here Saturday. It is coming by way of the Baltimore and Ohio and Lake Erie and Western Railways, in care of the United States Express Company. A letter mailed since the money left arrived yesterday. Agent Bud Thomas has kept the wires hot with messages since Sunday, but the package has not yet been found.

A Hebling Sen Blue Book. LONDON, Nov. 23.—A British blue-book concerning the Behring Sea arbitration case went out to-day. It consists mostly of notes from Charles H. Tupper, Canadian Minister of Marine and British agent at the arbitration to Lord Bessborough, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, of narratives of the progress of the proceedings and of the proposals and abstracts from reports of the sittings.

The only new documents are notes of minor importance exchanged by Mr. Dupuy and John W. Foster, the American agent. In one of these notes Mr. Foster denies the question of the right arrangement for daily shorthand reports of the proceedings. Mr. Foster gave as his authority for this the withdrawal of the fact that the United States counsel found the reports so incorrect as to be useless, while the British counsel of revision would have been an intolerable tax upon the time of the American. Mr. Foster cleared up this matter because the London daily had been such misleading statements as to the action of the American. The blue book closes with complimentary letters from Lord Bessborough to the Marquis of Dufferin, British Ambassador in Paris, and all the British officials suffering from the arbitration.

Everybody engaged from St. Joseph should use Burdock Blood Purifier, and be cured, make no mistake, get the genuine B.B.P.

SUICIDE WITH GOOD INTENT.

TOOK HIS LIFE TO PREVENT HIS MOTHER STARVING.

A Boy of 13, Despairing of Being Able to Support His Mother and Sisters, Invented in Artless Bearing Insurance Coupon, Thinking They Would Benefit By His Death.

Denver, Nov. 23.—In a house in the Cobble Hill a family consisting of a mother and four children, who had been well-to-do people and were well connected, but owing to the bankruptcy and suicide of the father had been reduced to penury, and they other families also occupied. They were in rags and almost starving.

A little son of 13 was so distracted at the sufferings of his mother and sisters that in desperation of being able to support them he bought the latest new shilling which had earned some articles of clothing and papers entitling the buyer to insurance coupons.

He then went and drowned himself, in order that his family might be helped out of misery by his letter to the editor, which he had written in a fit of despair. In his childish ignorance he did not know that his doing so would be considered a fraud and bring no benefit whatever to his relatives.

This is the letter which he wrote to his mother, and he went to his death: "Dear Mother—I spent 4/6 for your benefit, and I hope the money will bring you to England the success which has attended my efforts."

"Did you or your club anticipate before you came to England the success which has attended my efforts?"

"No!" emphatically. "In fact, the idea of my attempting to compete against the crack Englishmen was laughed at by the South African. The primary object of my visit was to insure a representative at the 100 kilometre championships. My 100 kilometre win at Chicago has delighted them, I hear, and has secured a representative every year to the international championships wherever held. Such is South African success."

"How do you account for your brilliant record performances and yet comparative want of success in England?"

"Inexperience in tactics and not knowing which men to watch. I learned a lot this season. First of all I consider that the English habit of sitting well behind the work is a mistake. American racing men are more nearly over their horses than the English. The gear most favored is 60x68. The advantage of sitting over the work is that it enables you to see the muscular exertion in not so great, and common sense teaches that it is more natural for a rider to lift his feet from his seat than from in front. Hence the American fast sprinters."

Meininger made a great army of friends while in this country. At first inclined to be a little cold, he rapidly thawed out under the genial and friendly many of his far-away home he was held in popular favor, second only to Zimmerman. His work at Chicago was regarded as a good run, and he was held in high esteem at that long distance riding he was without an equal.

A. Pelland, rode 50 miles on a safety bicycle in 2 hours, 20 minutes and 30 seconds. This is now the English record.

Harry Nickless and Dick Borge signed this week in London to fight with gloves at 140 pounds, for 20 rounds, the 140-pound championship of England. The fight will be held on Jan. 22 in the club fighting at the Ring, at the Ring, at the Ring. Dick Borge has offered a $250 purse.

In Dayton, Ohio, at a rat-killing contest W. T. Rogers for ferret, won $100 by killing 16 rats in 1 1/2 hours. There were 100 rats and 100 cats in the contest. Each dog had 25 rats confined in a 24-foot ring.

Thirty-two ounces was the amount of iron carried on each foot by the owner, Alice Ensign, when she trotted to her present record of 2:23. She is a natural trotter, it appears, having a side and speed at the lateral gait. She is by the sire of Blue Sign, 2:08, the pace that Dictionary had such hard luck with the past season.

The sale of the Fashion Farm trotting stock was concluded at New York Wednesday. The average price realized was $150. There were 100 head in all sold, which brought the handsome amount of $38,750, an average of $387.50. Afterward the sale of stock from J. H. Shute's Park Farm began. "Andy" Welch of Hartford secured the bargain of the evening, buying a mare named Hilda for $140.

The horse show sale by Patterson of New York took place Wednesday. The sale was a success, and many horses were sold to the United States Treasury at Washington. The money was shipped Nov. 17, and should have been here Saturday. It is coming by way of the Baltimore and Ohio and Lake Erie and Western Railways, in care of the United States Express Company. A letter mailed since the money left arrived yesterday. Agent Bud Thomas has kept the wires hot with messages since Sunday, but the package has not yet been found.

A Hebling Sen Blue Book. LONDON, Nov. 23.—A British blue-book concerning the Behring Sea arbitration case went out to-day. It consists mostly of notes from Charles H. Tupper, Canadian Minister of Marine and British agent at the arbitration to Lord Bessborough, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, of narratives of the progress of the proceedings and of the proposals and abstracts from reports of the sittings.

The only new documents are notes of minor importance exchanged by Mr. Dupuy and John W. Foster, the American agent. In one of these notes Mr. Foster denies the question of the right arrangement for daily shorthand reports of the proceedings. Mr. Foster gave as his authority for this the withdrawal of the fact that the United States counsel found the reports so incorrect as to be useless, while the British counsel of revision would have been an intolerable tax upon the time of the American. Mr. Foster cleared up this matter because the London daily had been such misleading statements as to the action of the American. The blue book closes with complimentary letters from Lord Bessborough to the Marquis of Dufferin, British Ambassador in Paris, and all the British officials suffering from the arbitration.

Everybody engaged from St. Joseph should use Burdock Blood Purifier, and be cured, make no mistake, get the genuine B.B.P.

THE EXPERIMENT.

"Where is my vest? Oh, here 'tis—just where I hid it last night!"

The vest was not to be found. When long he hunted through the bed, and then looked around for his collar.

In a wonder, now, if that collar be carried off to the wash! Just like Susan! I never held of one of that kind since I was a boy. Oh, here 'tis. Dear me, what a drawer! I wonder who interferes with my things? I never get it into such a muddle as this."

Stirring among collars and neckties, he found the vest in the wash, and he looked for it. "Now, my necktie. Where did I put the one I wore in the morning, when I dressed in a quarter of an hour. Of course, someone was in here straightening up my room. I never know where to find anything in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it."

"Good morning! Are you ready for breakfast? Here is one of your neckties."

"Yes, the very one I was looking for. Susan carried away for the wash the clothes you took off when you dressed and then washed them. You must have thrown it down."

"Yes, I know somebody must have been here. My dear boy, mother looked around with a discouraged face, 'how often must I speak to you about keeping your things in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it."

"Good morning! Are you ready for breakfast? Here is one of your neckties."

"Yes, the very one I was looking for. Susan carried away for the wash the clothes you took off when you dressed and then washed them. You must have thrown it down."

"Yes, I know somebody must have been here. My dear boy, mother looked around with a discouraged face, 'how often must I speak to you about keeping your things in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it."

"Good morning! Are you ready for breakfast? Here is one of your neckties."

"Yes, the very one I was looking for. Susan carried away for the wash the clothes you took off when you dressed and then washed them. You must have thrown it down."

"Yes, I know somebody must have been here. My dear boy, mother looked around with a discouraged face, 'how often must I speak to you about keeping your things in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it."

"Good morning! Are you ready for breakfast? Here is one of your neckties."

"Yes, the very one I was looking for. Susan carried away for the wash the clothes you took off when you dressed and then washed them. You must have thrown it down."

"Yes, I know somebody must have been here. My dear boy, mother looked around with a discouraged face, 'how often must I speak to you about keeping your things in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it."

"Good morning! Are you ready for breakfast? Here is one of your neckties."

"Yes, the very one I was looking for. Susan carried away for the wash the clothes you took off when you dressed and then washed them. You must have thrown it down."

"Yes, I know somebody must have been here. My dear boy, mother looked around with a discouraged face, 'how often must I speak to you about keeping your things in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it."

"Good morning! Are you ready for breakfast? Here is one of your neckties."

"Yes, the very one I was looking for. Susan carried away for the wash the clothes you took off when you dressed and then washed them. You must have thrown it down."

"Yes, I know somebody must have been here. My dear boy, mother looked around with a discouraged face, 'how often must I speak to you about keeping your things in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it."

"Good morning! Are you ready for breakfast? Here is one of your neckties."

"Yes, the very one I was looking for. Susan carried away for the wash the clothes you took off when you dressed and then washed them. You must have thrown it down."

"Yes, I know somebody must have been here. My dear boy, mother looked around with a discouraged face, 'how often must I speak to you about keeping your things in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it."

In a Peck

of trouble—the woman who washes with Pearline. Her work is never done, and it's never done well. With Pearline she can do twice as much, and have it done better.

There is little work, less wear, never the least harm. Try Pearline, and see it go for dirt; when you see dirt—go for Pearline.

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "This is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—read it back.

WANTED—GOOD FAMILY TROUBERT IN exchange for a horse and cart. For particulars apply to Mr. J. W. Thomas, 120 King-street.

TO RENT—LARGE FRONT ROOM, HEATED, suitable for a family, for $10 per week. Apply to Mr. J. W. Thomas, 120 King-street.

FOR SALE—MODERN GAS FIXTURES FOR a kitchen, including a range, sink, and water tap. Apply to Mr. J. W. Thomas, 120 King-street.

OFFICE FURNITURE—A complete set of office furniture, including desks, chairs, and a typewriter. Apply to Mr. J. W. Thomas, 120 King-street.

250,000 ENVELOPES—A large quantity of envelopes, suitable for office use. Apply to Mr. J. W. Thomas, 120 King-street.

ART. J. W. THOMAS, FURNITURE, 120 KING-STREET, TORONTO.

How I hate dust on books! I wish I could get a good dusting now. Jack Harper will call for me in a quarter of an hour.

"Butt out! I forgot to take my best suit to mother. And there's a little rip near the cuff-cut, but I can't think of it now. Dear me, what a drawer! I wonder who interferes with my things? I never get it into such a muddle as this."

Setting the ink on the bureau, he carefully darkened the white-stripe. But, as he was about to study of the effect, his brow took on a deeper cloud.

"My white tie in the blinding light! He noticed it up. 'The last night I have left! And all these,' tumbling over a number which were mixed in with other papers. 'I don't know where to find anything in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it.'

"Good morning! Are you ready for breakfast? Here is one of your neckties."

"Yes, the very one I was looking for. Susan carried away for the wash the clothes you took off when you dressed and then washed them. You must have thrown it down."

"Yes, I know somebody must have been here. My dear boy, mother looked around with a discouraged face, 'how often must I speak to you about keeping your things in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it.'

"Good morning! Are you ready for breakfast? Here is one of your neckties."

"Yes, the very one I was looking for. Susan carried away for the wash the clothes you took off when you dressed and then washed them. You must have thrown it down."

"Yes, I know somebody must have been here. My dear boy, mother looked around with a discouraged face, 'how often must I speak to you about keeping your things in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it.'

"Good morning! Are you ready for breakfast? Here is one of your neckties."

"Yes, the very one I was looking for. Susan carried away for the wash the clothes you took off when you dressed and then washed them. You must have thrown it down."

"Yes, I know somebody must have been here. My dear boy, mother looked around with a discouraged face, 'how often must I speak to you about keeping your things in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it.'

"Good morning! Are you ready for breakfast? Here is one of your neckties."

"Yes, the very one I was looking for. Susan carried away for the wash the clothes you took off when you dressed and then washed them. You must have thrown it down."

"Yes, I know somebody must have been here. My dear boy, mother looked around with a discouraged face, 'how often must I speak to you about keeping your things in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it.'

WANTED.

WANTED—GOOD FAMILY TROUBERT IN exchange for a horse and cart. For particulars apply to Mr. J. W. Thomas, 120 King-street.

TO RENT—LARGE FRONT ROOM, HEATED, suitable for a family, for $10 per week. Apply to Mr. J. W. Thomas, 120 King-street.

FOR SALE—MODERN GAS FIXTURES FOR a kitchen, including a range, sink, and water tap. Apply to Mr. J. W. Thomas, 120 King-street.

OFFICE FURNITURE—A complete set of office furniture, including desks, chairs, and a typewriter. Apply to Mr. J. W. Thomas, 120 King-street.

250,000 ENVELOPES—A large quantity of envelopes, suitable for office use. Apply to Mr. J. W. Thomas, 120 King-street.

ART. J. W. THOMAS, FURNITURE, 120 KING-STREET, TORONTO.

How I hate dust on books! I wish I could get a good dusting now. Jack Harper will call for me in a quarter of an hour.

"Butt out! I forgot to take my best suit to mother. And there's a little rip near the cuff-cut, but I can't think of it now. Dear me, what a drawer! I wonder who interferes with my things? I never get it into such a muddle as this."

Setting the ink on the bureau, he carefully darkened the white-stripe. But, as he was about to study of the effect, his brow took on a deeper cloud.

"My white tie in the blinding light! He noticed it up. 'The last night I have left! And all these,' tumbling over a number which were mixed in with other papers. 'I don't know where to find anything in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it.'

"Good morning! Are you ready for breakfast? Here is one of your neckties."

"Yes, the very one I was looking for. Susan carried away for the wash the clothes you took off when you dressed and then washed them. You must have thrown it down."

"Yes, I know somebody must have been here. My dear boy, mother looked around with a discouraged face, 'how often must I speak to you about keeping your things in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it.'

"Good morning! Are you ready for breakfast? Here is one of your neckties."

"Yes, the very one I was looking for. Susan carried away for the wash the clothes you took off when you dressed and then washed them. You must have thrown it down."

"Yes, I know somebody must have been here. My dear boy, mother looked around with a discouraged face, 'how often must I speak to you about keeping your things in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it.'

"Good morning! Are you ready for breakfast? Here is one of your neckties."

"Yes, the very one I was looking for. Susan carried away for the wash the clothes you took off when you dressed and then washed them. You must have thrown it down."

"Yes, I know somebody must have been here. My dear boy, mother looked around with a discouraged face, 'how often must I speak to you about keeping your things in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's entrance followed her tap upon it.'

"Good morning! Are you ready for breakfast? Here is one of your neckties."

"Yes, the very one I was looking for. Susan carried away for the wash the clothes you took off when you dressed and then washed them. You must have thrown it down."

"Yes, I know somebody must have been here. My dear boy, mother looked around with a discouraged face, 'how often must I speak to you about keeping your things in better order. You'll find it, Fred. Turned a face full of absurd presumption toward the door as his mother's

