HAVE you saved up your share of the national debt of Canada yet? It is now about sixty dollars per head, for you and every member of your family, including infants in arms, and as you will have to pay the interest on it for the rest of your life you had better hurry up and save something to earn that interest.

PAY your bills at SWIFTS' and buy for cash.

In order to help the Red Cross Society and make room for the announcement on page five, we are compelled to leave out some interesting items this week. We consider the needs of our wounded soldiers are of more importance than the pleasure obtained by reading some interesting news, and no doubt our subscribers will agree with us in this matter. Read the announcement and be prepared for the collectors on Thursday next.

THE union thanksgiving service held in the Armory on Monday night was well attended. The Reeve presided and the local ministers conducted the exercises. The service closed with the national anthem and benediction by Bishop White, of Honan. After the close of the meeting, Rev. Reeve Kenward explained the appeal of the English Red Cross Society for a collection of funds on Trafalgar Day.

PFR. WM. McNALLY of the 2nd Batt. Pioneers, London, was home here over Sunday. On Thanksgiving Day the employees of the Andrews Wire Works, where he worked for some time before enlisting, presented him with a wrist watch together with expressions of regret at losing him from among them, and approving of his action if placing himself at the disposal of King and country.

MONDAY was a beautiful day for a holiday and everyone who possibly could enjoyed the day out of doors. Almost everyone owning a car went away from town and the railway carried quite a few people to Port Huron, Sarnia and London. In the afternoon the baseball game was a big attraction and a large number of people came here by auto from neighboring towns. After the game the main street presented a lively appearance and it is said that over forty cars were in sight at one time.

HAVELOCK LODGE meets next Tuesday evening. First degree work.

No woman is entitled to the ballot who at this season of the year cannot supply her husband with nice, deep, rich pumpkin pie.

D. A. MAXWELL knows an auto from the ground up. If you buy a Maxwell car you make no mistake and you get D. A. Maxwell's services on your car.

A VERY successful Epworth League convention was held in the Methodist Church here on Wednesday. A report of the proceedings will appear next week.

REV. J. A. SHAYER, M. A., B. D., of Stratford, will give an address in the Presbyterian church, on Monday, Oct. 18th, at 8 p.m., under the auspices of the W.M.S. The public is invited. A thank offering will be received in aid of the work.

THE Ontario Department of Agriculture has sent 200 boxes of apples as a first consignment to the Canadian hospitals in England. The plan is to send consignments from time to time as transportation arrangements are suitable. At least 5,000 boxes will be eventually sent.

THE Watford High School will hold their annual field day on Thursday, Oct. 21st, at 1.30 p.m. A small admission to defray expenses will be charged. Every other expenses will be given to the Red Cross Fund. Pupils from Stratford, Forest and Alvinston will compete. Everybody cordially invited to attend.

In compliance with a proclamation of the Lieut.-Governor of Ontario an urgent appeal will be made throughout the province for individual contributions for funds to be collected on Thursday, Oct. 21st (Trafalgar Day) to relieve the sufferings of our wounded soldiers and sailors from home and overseas at the various seats of war.

HERE is some gloomy news for the householder. It is announced that the opening prices for canned goods will be higher. For instance, corn and peas, which formerly sold 3 cans for 25c., will henceforth be sold at 10c. straight and canned tomatoes, which formerly sold for 10c. per can will be 12c. per can.

THE ladies of the Presbyterian Church last week sent a barrel and box of canned fruit, jam, syrup, etc., to the Redemptive Home at Sydney, N.S., in connection with the social service department of their church's work, an account of which was given by Miss Marie Ratt in her addresses here on Sept. 12th last.

A new wholesale shoe company, the McFarland Shoe Co., has commenced business in Calgary. The company is organized by eastern and western interests, will be managed by Delbert McFarland, for many years with A. McKillop and company, limited, as vice-president of that company. Travelers will cover Alberta, British Columbia and Saskatchewan in the interests of the new company. Mr. McFarland states the company will distribute in that province the product of three of the leading Canadian factories, going to the trade direct with factory prices. Mr. McFarland is a former resident of Watford and well known in this district. His many friends here wish him success in his new undertaking.

Fair Notes

J. H. Morrison captured A. Brown & Co.'s special for the best single roadster. The Guide-Advocate special for best hand bouquet was again captured by A. Hall, of Theford. This is the third year in succession that Mr. Hall has taken this prize.

In the special prize donated by Dr. Kelly and Mr. John Zavit for mounted men in uniform the number of entries was not sufficient to guarantee two prizes for each race so the three races were made into sections of one event and the prizes consolidated. There were four entries, Basil Maddock, Geo. Annett, John Downing and W. A. Lucas, and the prize money was awarded as follows:—Victoria cross race—Maddock first, Annett second, Lucas third, Dowding fourth. Smokers race—Maddock fourth, Annett first, Lucas third, Dowding second. Pop race—Maddock second, Annett disqualified, Lucas first, Dowding third. Annett being disqualified in the last race gave the first prize to Maddock, the second to Lucas and the third to Downing.

Cecil Moyer, a native of Alvinston, died in Ottawa last week. He was on the teaching staff of the Ottawa public school.

ALVINSTON BALL TEAM CHAMPIONS

Sudden Death Brings an End to Season's Struggle.

The prolonged battle for supremacy, which has been waged all season between the Alvinston and Forest baseball teams, was brought to a sudden close on Monday afternoon, when Alvinston plucked the laurels from their opponents by the overwhelming score of 12-2. Each team having won three games alternately this season, the final contest was looked forward to with considerable interest and an exceptionally large crowd, comprised of local fans and representatives from the entire district, congregated at the park. It was a complete walk-away for Alvinston, they handling the game in their own hands after the second inning. The neutral spectators were sadly disappointed in the game, there being practically no exhibition of real playing.

The net receipts of the game, which amounted to about $40, were transferred to the Alvinston fund. The proceeds from the entire district, and representatives from the entire district, congregated at the park. Seaforth Expositor: A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride's father, Mr. G. W. Holman, in Egmondville, on Wednesday, September 29th, when his younger daughter, Miss Rena, was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Jones, of Watford, and formerly of Stewart Bros. staff, Seaforth. The ceremony was performed at high noon by Rev. Mr. Argo, in the presence of a small company of friends and relatives of the bride and groom. Mr. Earl Van Egmond played the wedding march. The bride, who was unattended, wore a beautiful gown and the usual bridal veil, and looked very pretty. After the ceremony a dainty wedding dejeuner was served, following which the young couple were motored to Seaforth, where they took the afternoon train for Watford, where a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents. The bride was becomingly attired in a black tulle suit and a smart black hat. After a honeymoon trip to Detroit and other American points they will make their home in Toronto, where the groom holds a good position as traveller for a leading silk company. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents, among the number being a cheque from her brother, Gordon, who is now in the trenches in France, and also one from her brother, Wilmot, in training at Camp Sewell, Manitoba. The best wishes of many friends go with Mr. and Mrs. Jones in their journey down the stream of life.

MARRIED.

In Petrolia, on Wednesday, Oct. 6th, by the Rev. J. M. Macgillivray, Mr. Beecher Edward, son of Mr. A. C. Edward, to Miss May, daughter of Mr. Charles Wilson.

Saunders—Oke

A very pretty event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Oke, 4th con., Brooke, on Wednesday, September 22nd, when their eldest daughter, Laura Viola, was united in marriage to Alexander Vernal Saunders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Saunders, of 12th con., Brooke. The bride entered the parlor, leaning on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's bridal chorus, played by Miss Olga Oke, sister of the bride. She took her place beside the waiting groom under a white bell decorated with myrtle and asters. Miss Nellie Oke, sister of the bride, and Miss Lizzie Downie, cousin of the groom, acted as bridesmaids, while the groom was supported by his cousin, Mr. Harold Carter, of London. The bride was trimly gowned in cream silk poplin, trimmed with lace and pearls, and carried a bouquet of white lilies and morning bride, while the bridesmaids wore cream cashmere trimmed with satin and pearls, and carried bouquets of pink dahlias. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. T. W. Wickett, of London, Mr. M. Temple and Mrs. F. W. Oke sang sweetly, "The Beacon Light of Home." After a dainty wedding dinner was served by the bride's girl friends, the happy couple left amid showers of good wishes and confetti for eastern points. The bride travelled in a dove grey ladies cloth and wore a dainty white satin hat with plume.

Weyler—Osborne

The home of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Osborne, River road, Delaware, was the scene of a very pretty event on Oct. 6th, when their only daughter, Jennie, became the happy bride of Mr. Martin Weyler, a prosperous young farmer of Delaware. To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Lottie Weyler, sister of the groom, the bride attired in white chiffon over silk voile, her wedding veil caught up with lilies of the valley, and carrying a bouquet of American beauty roses, entered the parlor leaning on the arm of her father. The young couple were unattended. Dr. Rayson, of Delaware, performed the ceremony in the presence of about forty guests. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful brooch set with amethyst and pearls, and to the organist a brooch. The parlor was tastefully decorated with autumn leaves, white ribbons and dahlias. After the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Weyler motored to Komoka where they left on the evening train for Detroit and other western points. The bride travelled in a suit of brown gabardine cloth with hat to match. Mrs. Weyler was the recipient of many useful and costly presents, including a shower from the members of Delaware Presbyterian choir, of which she was a member.

PALE, FEEBLE GIRLS

Weakness Generally Comes on as Womanhood Approaches

Girls upon the threshold of womanhood often drift into a decline in spite of all care and attention. How often one sees girls who have been strong and lively become suddenly weak, depressed, irritable and listless. It is the dawn of womanhood, a crisis in the life of every girl, and prompt measures should be taken to keep the blood pure and rich with the red tint of health. If the blood is not healthy at this critical stage the body is weakened and grave disorders follow. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have saved thousands of young girls from what might have been life-long invalidism or an early death. They are a blood-builder of unequalled richness, strengthening weak nerves and producing a liberal supply of red, healthy blood which every girl needs to sustain her strength. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved their great value over and over again to young women whose health was failing. Miss Minnie Duffield, Erasmus, Ont., says:—"It gives me great pleasure to tell you what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. When I was approaching the age of womanhood I suffered greatly from bloodlessness, or anaemia. My work was a drag to me, I had no appetite and never felt rested in the mornings. I could scarcely walk for five minutes at a time without taking a rest. I was troubled with severe headaches, and things looked gloomy indeed. I doctored for a long time and got but little, if any, benefit. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and did so and after taking them for a time felt better. I continued taking the Pills until I had used six boxes, when I felt like a new person, and was again enjoying splendid health. I would strongly advise any girl who is weak or run down to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills from any dealer in medicines or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MOTHER OF SCHOOL GIRL

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Daughter's Health.

Plover, Iowa.—"From a small child my 13 year old daughter had female weakness. I spoke to three doctors about it and they did not help her any. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had been of great benefit to me, so I decided to have her give it a trial. She has taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound according to directions on the bottle and she is cured of this trouble. She was all run down when she started taking the Compound and her periods did not come right. She was so poorly and weak that I often had to help her dress herself, but now she is regular and is growing strong and healthy."—Mrs. MARTIN HELWIG, Plover, Iowa.

Hundreds of such letters expressing gratitude for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished are constantly being received, proving the reliability of this grand old remedy.

If you are ill do not drag along and continue to suffer day in and day out but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a woman's remedy for woman's ills.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

WATFORD, OCTOBER 15, 1915.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Guelph Mercury: There is one noticeable feature about all the taxation that has been imposed up to this time, and that is that it falls heaviest upon the married man—the one who is the head of a family. Almost every move he makes brings him in contact with the war tax. Very often he does not know it, because the grocer, the general merchant and other dealers are all collecting taxes for the government. The single man is not in the same position.

What is patriotism? A young man engaged with an Enniskillen farmer, on Fair Day evinced a desire to enlist but did not care to do so until he had talked the matter over with his employer. This he did but his employer did not want to let him go until the time stipulated in the agreement had expired. Is this patriotism?—Petroles Advertiser.

Victoria Times: If any newspapers or speakers in Great Britain are citing Canada's percentage of enlistment as an example to the men at home, it is only fair to suggest that they should investigate the figures. If Canada's enlistment percentage were as high as that of the United Kingdom she would have more than half a million men under arms instead of 150,000. The three million who volunteered for Kitchener's army represent more than seven per cent of the population. Of course, neither this Dominion nor any of the other overseas British countries will be able to enrol such a large proportion, and they are not expected to. Geographical and economic difficulties stand in the way, but our percentage will have to be increased considerably before we shall be justified in feeling that we have done our full share. The voluntary enlistment of three million men in Great Britain is one of the finest things of the war to date.

Look Out for Air Battles

The air continues to claim its share of interest in the war. The watchers for the Allies are easily one to the mile, and they often crowd closer up. They seem to be counted on for a lot in the new offensive. They are to go behind the German lines and blow up railway junctions, troop trains, munition depots, in fact do everything to prevent the requisite amount of defensive force being at the selected on the long battle line for a rushing offensive.

Inasmuch as the two rushes of Saturday had much of the element of successful surprise attack about them, there is a big chance that the aeroplanes got home their blows most usefully in the areas chosen for the onrush. This sort of thing is bound to relegate observation flying to a position of relative unimportance and to lead to pitched battles in the air as a regular, not to say constant, occurrence.

For years Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator has ranked as the most effective preparation manufactured, and it always maintains its reputation.

What is a Slacker?

It takes all sorts to make a world. What wonder then that in the same country, in the same city, in the same street, yea, in the same house, there should be found soldiers and slackers. After all, what is a slacker. He is simply a man who has no imagination—or who has too much. The war means nothing to him or it means everything. He sees in it no reason why he should give up his creature comforts for the hardships of the trenches, or he sees in it the big possibility of coming home maimed if he even comes home at all. In other words, he is indifferent or a coward. But you cannot get the material of a victorious army out of such. The Germans have a conscript army. They have to make their brave men fight doubly hard in making up the deficiencies of their cowards. It was the unwilling element of their army that stained German honor with the horrors and shame of the Belgian atrocities. Let us be glad we of the Empire take no such risks.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

PLIGHT OF A POET.

His Vivid Imagination Once Nearly Got Coleridge in Trouble.

From his early youth Coleridge lived in a world of books and dreams, yet his favorite walk seems to have been the Strand, the last place in the world for a poet to lose himself in reverie. As he strolled down the street he imagined himself swimming the Hellespont, the feat of which other poets had written and which the poet Byron was to accomplish later. Once while the mind of Coleridge was thus far from the busy Strand he absentmindedly thrust his hands before him in the manner of one swimming. Suddenly one hand came in contact with a gentleman's pocket.

The gentleman, thinking to capture a thief, seized the hand and exclaimed: "What! So young and so wicked!" He accused the poor, poetic boy of an attempt at pocket picking. With some fright and a few tears the boy explained, and we can imagine that words did not fail him who was to become the most brilliant poet of his age. The gentleman was delighted with Coleridge's imagination, which could turn the Strand into the Hellespont. The intelligence of the young Leander made the stranger inquire into Coleridge's tastes, and when he found the boy liked books he opened for him a subscription at the circulating library in Cheapside.—Westminster Gazette.

ORDER OF THE BATH.

It Was a Realistic Ceremony in the Time of Charles II.

The last Knights of the Bath made according to the ancient forms were at the coronation of Charles II., when various rites and ceremonies, one of which was bathing, were enforced. According to Froissart, the court barber prepared a bath, and the candidate for membership in the order, having been undressed by his esquires, was thereupon placed in the bath, his clothes and collar being the perquisites of the barber. He was then removed from the water to the words "May this be an honorable bath to you" and was placed in a plain bed quite wet and naked to dry.

As soon as he was quite dry he was removed from the bed, dressed in new and rich apparel and conducted by his sponsors to the chapel, where he offered a taper to the honor of God and a penny piece to the honor of the king. Then he went to the monarch and kneeling before him, received from the royal sword a tap on the shoulder, the king exclaiming, "Arise, Sir—" and then embraced him, saying, "Be thou a good knight and true."—London Strand Magazine.

"Choir"

Churchgoers who follow the service in their prayer books would certainly miss the "dear old phrase" concerning "quires and places where they sing," and in time the old fashioned "quires" may be made new fashioned again by the coming of rationalized spelling. "Choir" was a most unnecessary outrage upon the language. The old English "quer" or "quere" became quite naturally "quyer" or "quiere," and so it remained until the end of the seventeenth century, when somebody seems to have introduced "choir" because it looked more like the French "choeur," as if that were a valid reason. There could have been no danger of confusing a church "quire" and a "quiere" of paper, which is a different word, the French "chalet," probably from Latin "quaternarius," a collection of four leaves.—London Standard.

Seventeenth Century Sheep.

"The best and biggest sheep," says Fuller in his famous "Worthies of England," published in the year 1662, "are those of the vale of Aylesbury, in Buckinghamshire, where it is nothing to give £10 or more for a breed ram. So that should a foreigner hear of the price thereof he would guess that ram rather to be some Norman engine of battery than the creature commonly so called. Foreigners," he adds, "much admire our English sheep because they do not, as those beyond the seas, follow their shepherds like a pack of dogs, but wander wide abroad."

Locating the Laughs.

Once upon a time De Wolf Hopper was required to play Falstaff in a special performance of "The Merry Wives of Windsor." He sought the help of William H. Crane, a famous Falstaff twenty-five years ago. "I will help you," Mr. Crane said. "I will lend you my wig, my beard, my costume and my pad, and I will go page by page through the text with you, pointing out as I go just where the laughs are not."—Indianapolis News.

They Came Back.

"How's this, son? Yesterday you cleaned up the back yard nicely, but today it looks worse than ever." "It's not my fault, dad. I fired everything over the fence, but last night the kid next door slammed 'em back."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Good-bye to Asthma. Persons suffering from that extremely trying trouble known as asthma know what it is to long with all their hearts for escape as from a tyrant. Never do they know when an attack may come and they know that to struggle unaided is vain. With Dr. J. B. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy at hand, however, they can say good-bye to their enemy and enjoy life again. It helps at once.

A Big Birdcage.
A very peculiar institution in the New York zoo is what is known as "the flying birdcage." This magnificent aviary is the largest of its kind in the world, being 55 feet high, 72 feet wide and 150 feet long. Large oak and other trees grow in this cage, and the birds live within its wire netting bounds in the utmost freedom. The frame of the cage is built of iron pipes, which are covered over with thin meshed netting.

By Proxy Perhaps.
A well known metropolitan choral conductor was once holding voice trials preliminary to the organization of a colored choral club of jubilee singers. One of the soprano applicants was extremely reticent when asked to sing a scale. Finally the director, becoming impatient, asked, "What's the matter—don't you sing?" "Well," she hesitatingly replied, "not puhsonally."—Argonaut.

Contrary Efforts.
"The man who forged the indorsement of his friend went to the bank to cash the check."
"Will?"
"The friend went immediately after him to check the cash."—Baltimore American.

A Great Principle.
"Forgive your enemies," said the earnest man. "That's good religion."
"Yess," replied Senator Sorghum, "and sometimes it's good politics too."—Washington Star.

What will you do for these?

MAGNIFICENT soldiers and sailors from every part of the British Empire are laying down their lives for you and yours. Perhaps some of your own blood are amongst them.

An urgent appeal has gone forth from the Marquis of Lansdowne, President of the British Red Cross, for funds to provide medicines, appliances, comforts, and hospital equipment of all kinds to alleviate the sufferings from wounds and sickness of sailors and soldiers from all parts of the Empire. This appeal is endorsed by their Majesties, the King and Queen, and every British possession is setting aside, by official proclamation as a day of public giving to aid in this splendid cause, which stands in severe need of assistance owing to the tremendous demands upon Red Cross work.

"Our Day" For Sailors Oct. 21 and Soldiers Oct. 21

Ontario's Quota is set at $500,000

We can and will raise this amount as a token that Ontario feels for our wounded heroes and will not see them languish in their pain and suffering for the want of medical and other comforts. Do your part and make "Our Day for Sailors and Soldiers" a tremendous success in your locality.

"We shall be truly grateful to you for assistance in relieving the sufferings of our wounded soldiers and sailors from all parts of the Dominion."

Lansdowne,
 President British Red Cross Society.

"This is the first appeal of the Motherland to Canadians in this present war. It calls upon our humanity as well as our loyalty."

John S. Hendrie,
 Lieut.-Governor of Ontario.

Give to the Red Cross

Every cent collected goes to British Red Cross headquarters, where it is officially and wisely spent. No money is wasted in expenses, even this advertising space is donated by the publishers.

Give a day's pay. Do your part. Give liberally and loyally. Give your money, because these brave ones—our sailors and soldiers, are giving their lives for us. Collectors on October 21 will solicit your subscription—or make it through your Mayor or Reeve.

Collectors will call on the citizens of Watford on Thursday next.

WILL WE EVER WALK ON AIR?

Brain Of Thought Inspired By A Letter About "Fruit-a-tives"

MR. D. McLEAN

For over two years, I was troubled with Constipation, Drowsiness, Lack of Appetite and Headaches. I tried several medicines, but got no results and my Headaches became more severe. One day I saw your sign which read 'Fruit-a-tives' make you feel like walking on air. This appealed to me, so I decided to try a box. In a very short time, I began to feel better, and now I feel fine. Now I have a good appetite, relish everything I eat, and the Headaches are gone entirely. I cannot say too much for 'Fruit-a-tives', and recommend this pleasant fruit medicine to all my friends! DAN McLEAN. "FRUIT-A-TIVES" is daily proving its priceless value in relieving cases of Stomach, Liver and Kidney Trouble—General Weakness, and Skin Diseases. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

HIS BOYS

How They Won a Mother

By AGNES G. BROGAN

It was a very bedlam of screeching sounds below which caused Mollie to swing wide the casement of her study window. What could it mean, this riot of noise in a house supposedly vacant? For the owner's assurance that the house next to the bungalow was unoccupied had been one of Mollie's reasons for renting the place in the country. Here, far away from city distractions, she might fittingly finish the clever serial for which a publisher waited. But now! From a rear door of the neighboring house came a rushing line of boys, boys bareheaded, boys shouting, leaping good naturedly at each other's shoulders—five of them. Indignantly Mollie descended to seek explanation of this intrusion from her housekeeper. "Sure, they moved in last night," said Nora, "and devil a wink of sleep did I have all night. No one left to look after them but an old red face of a cook, and the father ridin' off this mornin' in his automobile." Disconsolately Mollie wandered out into her well kept garden, the spirit of writing destroyed. Mr. Boffin, the cat, came scampering wildly from his customary seat on the garden wall, his exit evidently hastened by a well aimed missile. "Dear me," cried Miss Mollie, "this will never do! Peace, indeed, and quiet and all the desirable advantages promised by that real estate man! Well, we shall see!" And then her gaze fell upon one small lonely brother seated in a sunny corner of the old veranda. Near to the touch of his thin white hand rested a wooden crutch, and presently, bearing his frail weight upon it, the little cripple swung himself out into the garden. "Poor child!" sighed the girl in ever ready sympathy and retreated thoughtfully to her room again and her seat before the casement window. From this viewpoint she could see the lively brothers vainly trying to climb her garden wall to reach the hollyhock row which bordered it. "If they dare!" she murmured, with flaming cheeks. But the cherished blossoms were just out of reach of the grimy fingers; then, with upraised fingers, the little crippled brother leaped against a nearby tree and, much to the enjoyment of the others, deliberately lifted his wooden crutch and with straight aim knocked from the hollyhocks their brilliant blossoms. "Oh!" cried Mollie, and "Oh!" again, and rushed down to deal with the offender. It was necessary to make the circuit of the great house, which had been empty yesterday, and to knock loudly at the close fastened door. When this was opened the red faced cook confronted her, and Mollie, pointing toward the limping culprit, asked, still a little excitedly, if the boy's mother was there and if she might see her. "Tim's mother?" asked the cook; then she stared curiously at the girl. "Why, Tim's mother's in the hospital, havin' an operation."

But a physician who takes life seriously is not always a dangerous man. Men are like potatoes—they never know when they will get into hot water. When got off a good thing, no one ever said: "I always liked that joke." Some men resemble pyramids—broad at the foundation, but rather narrow at the top. The imprudent man reflects on what he has said and the prudent man on what he is going to say.

It, but, after all, the green sprouts came peeping above ground, then the stalks, and after, oh, ever so long a time, the green tiny leaves, next the buds unfolded slowly, slowly and then—"The boy's eyes widened expectantly. "Then," finished Mollie, "came the flowers—the wonderful, glorious flowers." Her voice fell sadly. "And in a thoughtless moment you killed them all! I'll tell you," she added at the boy's conscientious stricken face. "You may come over and gather all the flowers you want, but don't kill them." The lad sank down upon the porch step of Mollie's home, and his small eyes regarded her shrewdly. "Say," he asked, "after all I did you'll let me come over here? You'll let me have your flowers?" The girl nodded. "Well, you are a good sport," said Tim, and their laughter mingled together. "But you must be good," she admonished him. "You must be my knight errant and guard my garden." And so faithfully did Tim perform this task that Mollie was called hastily one day by Nora to bandage an offending brother's head upon which Tim had used his one weapon of correction—the crutch. Mollie watched each morning with eyes which tried to be sternly disapproving as the master of the lawless household entered his waiting car. It was difficult to frown continually upon one so gayly happy. And the man's own brow would wrinkle perplexedly at the girl's forbidding salute in return to his friendly "Good morning." Mollie wondered if the suffering wife in the hospital had no influence at all over those cruel blows. She heard him call to the boys quite savagely one evening, "You stop that!" Seizing upon the first excuse for intervention at hand, she picked up a tray of Nora's freshly baked cookies and ran to the garden wall. "Here, boys," she called over its top, "I've something for you." In an eager medley they came and, when they had been rewarded, as swiftly departed. Mollie found herself looking directly into the man's smiling eyes. "You are very good to my boys," he said. Mollie hesitated, in anxiety to say the right word. "One can do so much more," she remarked, "by kindness—than by—force." "I agree with you." The man's tone was hearty. "And," continued Mollie, "little Tim was, no doubt, too frail for much schooling, but—he has such an apt mind—if he had but—half a chance now." Her voice reproved his neglect, but the man was most amenable. "I know," he said, "I intend to see that Tim has a good education."

Mollie turned slowly away—again that helpless feeling of defeat. "His mother," she asked perfunctorily—"is she doing well?" "Very well, they tell me," the man replied. He sought to detain her as she went up the path. "I'm going to take Tim in to see his mother tomorrow," he told her. So, in strange contradiction of emotion, Mollie gathered her choicest flowers, and when upon the morrow the shining automobile waited before the next house door she went forth in her white ruffled frock to place the roses in Tim's thin arms. "You will give them to your mother," she said. It was hard to reconcile this tender father who settled Tim, the little cripple, so carefully among his cushions with that unspeakable father whose cruelty had scarred the same small body. In the evening the man came back alone. "I had to leave Tim there in the hospital," he explained. "It seems he was not as well as they at first thought. The broken limb has not mended as it should, and it has to be forcibly broken again. He wants you. He says he can bear it better if you are there, holding his hand." The man's voice broke off huskily, and Mollie raised a pale face. "I shall be ready to go with you in the morning," she said. So as they entered the hospital room the boy looked up with his own cheerful grin. "I knew you'd come," he told Mollie. "You're a good sport."

The girl laughed shakily as she pressed her tear wet face to his. "You must show me now," she said, "what a 'good sport' you can be." "Sure," Tim answered bravely. "When it was all over Mollie turned to find the man's eyes fixed upon her in a sort of worshipful adoration. Warmly he grasped her trembling hand. "You are one of God's angels," he said softly. So across the still motionless body of the little lad they gazed wonderingly into each other's face as at the birth of some new joy. "Say," murmured Tim's weakly returning voice, "don't let them keep me here. Make him take me back to the country. You—make him." His entreating eyes were on Mollie. "Tell do whatever you say. He's dead stuck on you." Mollie turned about breathlessly. "Oh," she cried, "he doesn't know what he is saying. He is quite out of his mind." But the man regarded her timidly. "Tim does know," he replied, "just what he is talking about." Then as Mollie stood staring speechlessly the boy again spoke. "He is good," said Tim—"most as good as you are. Doesn't he come down to the hospital with those homeless kids are getting better of different things, and doesn't he pick out a bunch of 'em and carry them out to his 'get well house'? You come along," he says to me, 'and I'll fatten you up in the country,' and my mother didn't care where I was, and my dad had broken my leg." "Your father?" breathed the girl incredulously. Little Tim nodded. "They're me downstairs," he explained succinctly. "Oh," cried Mollie remorsefully. Shamedly her eyes met those of the man. "And I've been thinking," she confessed—"thinking you were that father, blaming you all along." "Good heaven!" exclaimed the man. His tone was eloquent. "Geel!" echoed little Tim. "But, say," he added quickly. "Won't you get him to take me back to the country?" "I'll make a bargain with you, Tim," the man began steadily. "I will promise to take you back for an indefinite time if you will try to persuade her to take me for good and all—later." With a sudden tremulous laugh Mollie inhaled the boy in her arms, while Tim winked back over the girl's bowed head. "She will," said Tim confidently. And she did.

The story of Jack the Giant-Killer has always fascinated. One small boy destroyed a great menace. So it is with the wonderful TAKAKE, which unaided destroys the Giant Pain. Headaches, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Sleeplessness, and ALL nervous affections, fly before it to their utter destruction. Because you have used all other remedies without results, is the best reason for using TAKAKE, which gives quick and permanent relief in the most chronic cases. One of its many attractions is its absolute freedom from any habit forming drug. Use one box, and the result will show you that, like little Jack, you can live happy ever after. Get TAKAKE! There is nothing the same or just as good, 50c at your druggist's, or 45c by mail from Georgian Mfg. Co., Collingwood, Ont.

Passed it On. Doctor—You have nervous dyspepsia, just the same as Brown had. His was caused by worrying over his butcher's bill. I directed him to stop worrying. Eat cottage cheese with jelly, mixed with cucumber dices, minced nuts, chives or onion juice, with tomatoes in a salad or with spices. Salt before straining off the whey and then add a little cream and butter. Peppercorn chopped fine, when it is obtainable, adds especial piquancy, and chopped almonds is sometimes used when the cheese is made up into balls to be served on lettuce. Plain cottage cheese is good in brown bread sandwiches, the bread well buttered first. The mixture with cucumbers is also good for sandwich filling. Cottage cheese combined with bread and fried is a famous Italian dish. Green peppers are sometimes stuffed with this cheese and fried. Cottage cheese may be cured, but keeps fresh only a short time. Wrap in paraffin paper to exclude the air and put in the refrigerator. A Bird. Peggie—Why do you say he is a bird? Folly—Well, he is chicken hearted and pigeon toed, has the habits of an owl, likes to wear a swallow tail coat and collars with wings, he is always acting the goose and he is a perfect jay.—Judge. A MARVEL IN METAL. Story of a Steel Flea Made in Germany and Sent to Russia. The Russian peasants, of course, are neither scientists nor technologists; but even they think that they can do a few things—and especially work metals—as skillfully as anybody. A century or two ago, according to a folk tale current in Russia, the possendar (the czar) called together a dozen or more peasants who had a reputation for skill in the working of metals and exhibited to them a steel flea of natural size which had been "made in Germany" and had been sent to him, partly as a gift and partly to show the delicacy of the German smith's work. The possendar handed it to the peasants on a plate and said: "Look at that! You think that you can work metals, but I don't believe there's one of you can duplicate that steel flea." The peasants said, "Perhaps not, butushka (little father), but if you will let us take the flea home we will see what we can do." The czar consented, and they retired. A day or two later they reappeared, and with low bows presented to their monarch on a plate the same German flea, but without the expected duplicate. "Ah!" said the czar. "You couldn't make another. I knew you couldn't." "Will your majesty deign to look at the flea through a magnifying glass?" replied the peasants. A glass was brought, and upon close inspection it was found that the Russian metal workers had shod the German flea with steel shoes.—Outlook. DEEP SEA EXPLORATIONS. Fishing With a Line That Is Some-thing Over Six Miles Long. The Albatross, the vessel that has been used by the oceanographers for some thirty years in deep sea explorations, fishes with a line three miles long, often four miles long, sometimes six miles long or over, a line of slender cable, but wonderfully strong, rolled off a deck winch by a sputtering steam engine, that will bring up from the ocean floor a three or four ton haul of sponges, crinoids, jellyfish, sea urchins, giant crabs, long white worms that break in two if you touch them, phosphorescent trees (really animals), sea cucumbers with hideous heads, starfish, devilfish, pelican fish, lantern fish, sharks' teeth, whales' ear bones, sea cows' ribs and scores of other extraordinary things. The Albatross follows no beaten paths of commerce. She goes where other vessels rarely go. She explores forgotten corners of the seven seas, drops her great nets by day and by night, takes hundreds of soundings in uncharted waters and, after a cruise of months, brings home her trophies for final safe keeping in jars filled with alcohol and labeled with Greek and Latin names. This sort of work she has been doing for thirty odd years, ever since George W. Baird designed her engines for the United States fisheries service in 1882. It is worthy of note that the Albatross was the first steel steamer built in America.—Cleveland Moffett in American Magazine. Aisle of the Car in a Railroad Wreck. A veteran railroad man gave a piece of valuable advice some time ago. "If you ever get into a wreck," he said, "and have time to follow out this suggestion remember this: Always stand in the aisle. Most of the injuries that are suffered occur because the victim is crushed between the seats. If you are in the aisle you will be thrown forward and bruised a little, but there is much less chance of receiving serious hurts." It isn't always possible to get out of your seat before the crash comes, but if it is follow that advice.—Louisville Courier-Journal. Strong Paper. TO MAKE LIMEWATER.

There are innumerable uses for limewater, and so no home should ever be without it. It is used to keep milk vessels wholesome, to make the milk digestible, to soften water, sweeten drains, etc. By beating limewater well into olive or linned oil there results one of the best known remedies for burns and scalds. To make limewater put a lump of quicklime as big as two fists into a clean earthen pitcher, pouring over enough fresh drinking water to cover six inches deep. Stir well with a wooden spoon, let stand half a day and then pour off the clear liquid without disturbing the lime at the bottom of the pitcher. Strain through doubled cheesecloth and then keep in small bottles tightly corked. When using always pour off a little from the fresh bottle or one that has been opened. Thus one gets rid of the crust that forms.

separate skirt and moyen age blouse with a flounce of the black and white striped jersey. Inserted vest and rolled sailor collar of the same material as the plaited flounce.

Why?

Oddly enough, the larger the foot and the thicker the ankle the more absorbing the passion for the new and conspicuous footwear seems to be in the breast of the woman possessing the foot and ankle. She it is, too, who takes up most ardently the stockings with stripes running round which are one of the latest revivals in hosiery and the other fanciful things in hose, but caviling is ungracious work, and there is no preventing abuse and caricature of attractive modes, so why grieve because the lure of the new shoes is greater than the discretion of woman-kind?

A Careful Dealer

A dejected, sallow, friendless looking, low spirited man walked into a grocery store:
"I want some clothesline," he said.
"Whatcher want it for?" asked the man behind the counter.
"To hang clothes on—the old lady's washing today"
"She is eh?" said the shopkeeper, giving his customer the once over from head to foot. "Well, you go back and tell her to come down here and get it herself. The only way a fellow looking like you do can buy rope from me is on a prescription."

The ease with which corns and warts can be removed by Holloway's Corn Cure is its strongest recommendation. It seldom fails.

An automatic fire alarm which can be attached to an ordinary telephone to send a signal to a switchboard operator has been patented by a New Jersey man.

silk stocking for all its beauty and luxury, is not the coolest thing in the world, yet the silk stocking is firmly enshrined in the heart of every girl. Silk stockings are very much better than they once were, as they are made more carefully than formerly, fit better and are in all ways more comfortable to the feet.

A pair of stockings should not be worn more than one day without washing, in the interest of both the stocking and the wearer, for it is a fact that foot perspiration, even just a little bit of it, plays hob with the fine silken fiber, and stockings washed after each wearing will outwear those worn for several days at a time.

EQUATORIAL ECUADOR.

A Land of Earthquakes Nearly All 1/2 Miles Above Sea Level.

The traveler arrives in Guayaquil laden with quinine pills, but he learns that in a journey of a day he can reach the temperate zone. He brings summer clothing for a country crossed by the equator and nearly perishes on the frozen slopes of high mountains. He finds a government as unstable as the volcano shaken soil. He notes important industries that thrive upon these turbulent shores. Ecuador is a land of contradictions.

It is the land where the Incas ruled after they came into Peru. It was the birthplace of Atahualpa, who fell before Pizarro. It was from his capital at Quito along the mountains that Gonzalo Pizarro rode out with Orellana to discover the Amazon.

The land which bears the name of the equator rivals her sister republics in variety of scenery and climate. Her feet rest on the dazzling chrome green shore of a tropic river; her head wears the fleecy crown of eternal snows. With one hand she points to the wide Pacific; with the other, to the matted jungle of the Amazonian valley. Colombia, Brazil and Peru are her neighbors, but who can say where the territory of the two actually begins and the other ends? Two-thirds of the people of Ecuador are Indians, pure and simple. Nine-tenths of the population live a mile above the sea. Her territory is three times as large as Pennsylvania. Her domain is practically unexplored, but commercially she is forging ahead. —National Magazine.

EDUCATING THE INDIAN.

Difficulties the Student Faces After He Has Left College.

The conditions to which most Indian students return are hard, far harder than the average easterner can realize. Many of the reservations are long distances from railroads, so that supplies are hard to get as well as expensive, while in places water is a real luxury. The standards of the community must also be taken into consideration, and in all too many localities the white people living near are not of a type to prove either helpful or elevating. With all these difficulties, and many, many more, we expect far more of the Indian than we would of a white student who had enjoyed equal advantages.

A white boy who has been in school until he is perhaps twenty and in that time has had to master in addition to the usual studies a new language and accept an entirely strange system of living is not expected to raise the standards of his home community to any very great extent. The Indian is. He must not only have acquired a trade and be able to do skillful work, but he must speak English well enough to act as interpreter, understand the Bible and teach in Sunday school, as well as be prepared to advise in the councils of his people regarding various phases of their legal standing and land questions.

Masked Women.

Upper class Swahili women wear curious masks, which are made of leather and beads in a wooden frame. The mask is derived from the traditional usage of Moslem women, who must keep their faces covered in the presence of men. For several centuries Arab traders have frequented this east African coast, and to their influence are due most of the civilized customs found today among the natives of the district. The clothing worn by these prosperous dames is of silk; their shoes are partly of silver, and they wear much silver jewelry. The Moslems in Zanzibar, by the way, are less fanatically strict about religious usages than their brethren in Morocco and Turkey. —Wide World Magazine.

Sleep is the great nourisher of infants, and without peaceful sleep the child will not thrive. This cannot be got if the infant be troubled with worms. Miller's Worm Powders will destroy worms and drive them from the system, and afterwards the child's rest will be undisturbed. The powders cannot injure the most delicate baby, and there is nothing so effective for restoring the health of a worm-worm infant. Trade in Watford and you will go home satisfied.

However;

After all is said and done there is nothing that will take the place of good Glasses. One may move nearer to the light or bring the light nearer to them, they may twist and turn the book or paper, they may do as they please, yet, if the eyes need Glasses they must have them, otherwise there is the inevitable eyestrain, followed by headaches. Why not avoid all this discomfort by coming to us. We are here to help eyes.
