clear bimand: ver loch to offend his Mafter, fends him back this Anful Subjeat and fere him with his Life and Goods bur would nor expofe himfelf to the Malice of his Ene* mics, of which he was ready to give him the Reafons in Puron, provided he might repair to Cours, and re-- turn to Rantamporc again fafely. Fangheer received this Anfwer, and wonders at Mabober's Prefurmpion; but Kabober, as much admiring at his Mif-apprehenfion of his words; xefolves with 5000 Voluntary Rafboots to RO to Labor, and, make his Defence in Perfon. The Queen and AIfapl-cimo having notice of his Defign, and fcaring his Force, as well as his Reconciliation, perfwade the Mcgulto admit Mabsber, with a few of his Confidents only, to make his Defence. But Mchobet, Sentible of Normer's Deceics, would not adventure his Perfon, bur lent his Excufe by his Son-in-Law, who gladly andertook the Cflice; bur as foon as he came ro Court, and was alighted from his Elephanr, was Atript of his Bravery, and being Cloathed in Rags, chabrect upon the Soles of his Feer with Ractans, and fer bareheaded upon a lade backward; was led through the Army wich Kcrtc-Drums, and made a Scoff no-4he-Mmedritude by Nomai's Order. Mrbobct had quick Tareligence of this uncomely Entertainment, and bore it the more pariently, becatile he belicved is proceeded nor from his Mateer, yer faw the hatred of his Enemies, and what he muth have fuffered, if he had rrutted himfelf to them; whiscurn he refolves to bid Vamal Defiance, and ha the nnezuesin ring withal dee Zeal to bis Mafter, declared in a fhom Manifelto Normal's and Gansama's Abufes tocthe Crown, and the Indignity dffer'd his Son by them. He acquaints his Friends and Fellow-Soldiers with his Defign, who promifed to tive and die with him ; and to wich 20000 Valiant Rafboors he adiantes to find our. Normal's Army and the lifear, which then confifted of fifty thoufand Men. By accident, when he approached them, her Army was parted. che berrer half being paffed over the River Plaxt, and the reft marching after; of which Maaber being advertifed by his Scouts, and knowing the Advanage, falls upon the part on this fide the River Commanded by Eradet-cawn, which in two hours they utterly Difcomfired, flaying alove 6000 , and rutting the reft to flight, who many of them perificd in che Ri ver. The ouher, pats of Noima's Army food Atill, and could hardly be periwaded to oppofe the Victor:ous Rebels ; but being cheared ap by afapl-anawn, Audul-Haffen, and other Omra's, they prepared for an Encounter, Mrebibet being come in view. The Battel was very fierse For five hours, each fide friving for Victory, bur at length Normais Army gave back, and were foundly bearen. AIfapl:-snmon the General was taken, and fhackled in Silver Fersers, twelve thoufand Men were ilnin, the \(x\)
 Note, made Prifoners, and carricd to Kabul. Malmbei fon in mo. thus feated in the Triumphal Chatiot of Fortune, reColves ro detract as lirde as porible from his Mafter, and On'y to clear his own Reputation, and vindicate the Oitgraces and Wrongs done to his Friends for his fake, Nrimal was condemned on lofe her Head by the Advice of his Council. which the pariently fubmited to tecaufe unavoidable, only defiring ro rake her farcwel of hes lord. fangieer fecing her forrow melts into compation, and defires her freedom; and Malaleler, nor willing to difontent his Maftcr. granes it. And riomal, conerary to the Advise of his Confederates, is fpared; not to thank the Merciful Congucroar, but revenige her fulf, as the foondid. The other Prifonsis were treated honourably, and Mabrest holds for a fmall time the way of Ind \(/ \mathrm{f} / \mathrm{tan}\)
Carroon was all this time in Decar, watching an Advanrage ro recover his loft Credit, and hearing of the incre- fimmint dible change of Things in the Empire, wit. That his hamplekre Father and Father-in-Law, Brother Sultan Bultoch, Brother's Sons, and his own Children, were Prifoners to Walober, he gives Melec Amber a thoufand thanks, and with Radree Kbriem's Son, and twelve thoufand Horfe, paftes with leave through Rena's Territories to Afmeer, antending to furprize Agre, and proclaim himfelf King: But the Radger's Death, which drew away half his Forces, caufed him to alter his Refolutions, and fo with che xeft he haftned to Tarta, hoping by the Conqueft of that City to cominand all Intus and Cambria. Curroon being for down before Trittr, fends the Caprain of it, Xeriff Melec, a Summons to deliver ir; bur he rold him, That he had a particular Oxder to defend it againft them, and if be attacked ir, he fhould find the Entertainment of an Enemy. Curroon, enraged by this Anfwer, Storms it in feveral places, but was fo warmly received by Melec, that he was forced ro draw off with lofs; and the Befieged, by a Sally, falling upon his Camp, killed Dorra-chan, with 300 of his Men, and forced Curroom himelf to fly to Deir.
This City, which gives Name to the Cincumjacent dithest Province, belonged of late to the Potan Kings, who were the Original Inhabitants, bur now is fubject to the Crown of Indoffan. It is an ancienr, large, and prety beautiful Ciry, havirg the ancicat Monuments of above 20 Kings, and other Perfons, who lie Entombed in it; which draw Travellcrs to ufe in, and the Banicns to adore chen. About three Miles from it is a famous Pyramid, the Tomb of King Hamayon, who was GrandGather to Fanglrier, fuppofed to be builr by Alcxander by the Frame and Infcription. It is Walled about, Warered by the Femini, over which lies a Bridge of twelre jumi Arches, which yon muft pafs over into the Ciry. This vo. River rifes in che Mountains of fenba, and having pafled Agra, aftex a great increafe of her Channel ar Prage flows into Ganges, and with ic falls into che Gulph of Bengel, ar two huge wide Mouths, near roo Miles afunder, in abour 22 Deg. Northern Latitude.
Ganges, by Coffonographers, is repured one of the No- Gman . beft Rivers in the World, running about, 1000 Miles in frrke. ength, and has many Rivers thar flow inro ir, falling nto the Gulph of Bengnl. The Banians count ir Sacred, and becaufe they have a great reverence for a Cow hey fay the Rock, from whence it fows, refembles a Cows head. C:rroon found no welcome ar Del, and fo haftes 2 way with his chafed Trcops to Bekar, a Fort bewixt Lator and the Sea, that he mighr breathe therc' \({ }^{\prime}\) while. Melec Amber, as foon as Curroon was marched out of his Country, wo procure favour from. Purwecs ave Liberty, without Iseary or Ranforn, to LaskerCawn; Ebrabin-Haffem, and Mirar-Manoutfoir, and with fafe Convoy fends them to Brampore.
Fangheer removing his Court from Cabul to Labor, by forms'sperfivafion condefcends to the Slaughter of fuch fivm: Rafaboots as Mathober had mixed with his Guards, and af dattrof ter declared, That the could nor be facisfied withour the eftraction of Majober, and that before he received any Supplies from his Kinfmen Cbam-Alem, and Radge: Ruftang, who were advancing rowards him ; and to that end
tracte
and \(h\)
and \(h\)
Fathe Fathe
macti fuppo unlat:
to ruil for his
for his
his Sor
picarce
them \(\xrightarrow{\text { Mathol }}\) could could
ed) he
ed) he Maice
vering Radgce
AJfaph Cell in \begin{tabular}{l} Cell in \\
who \\ \hline
\end{tabular} of thre: thought fo advif doubs,

10000 finds C was ame Packer, red into this Ag Fangheer
he falls
Sicknels, Year of ving nam of Suitan of Suitan
till he ha
The d Lnath cander in 13 Years

Chap. XXII. Sir Tho. Herbert's'Travels into Afia and Africa, occ. 425
empried all her Husband's Coffers, to hire Men from all Here they affail him in extreme rage, (tho' by the expence places to ferve her. Mabober-chan had nocice of the of 90 thourand Leek of Roupees he had trebled his ArQueen's projects, and new preparations, bur nor being my at their arrival) and in rwo hours, by the creachery at all difheartned at them, draws up his Forces into a of Amir-cban, and Sheir-Godge; get the Victory, and Body to meet her, who was at the fame tiunc haftning force him into the Caftle, which in three days they rook, owards him Ganzonna was made General of Normets Forces, and Mabobert-cban was nor troubled at it, While thefechings were doing, Purveces, who had con tracted an incimate Friendinip with Malobect-cban, dies and hisDeath was fo afflicting to him; as.well as to hi Father Fanghecr, that he bid the World adieu, and contracting himfelf to privacy tumned Anchorite. Normal fuppofing cven his Eafe ro be in contempr of her, was unfatisficd fo long as Mabober, whom the had devoted to ruin, was alive, and therefore projeets feveral ways for his Deftruction; and tho" the Indignity larely done his Son, by raking his Govcroment from him, fomething pieafed her, yet 'rwould not fatisfy, but calling \(A m i\) ) chan, Nuurndin-Cooly, and Hemprbeg, her Minions, fends them with 15000 Horfe to fizhe with him.
Afaph-cawn, who had fo generouly been difiniffed by Mabolvet, was forry for his Sifter's Lunacy, and fince he could not effect his Reconciliation, (as he ofren laboured) he was loth fo Brave a Man hould perilh through the Matice of a Woman, and fo fends him a Lerter, difo-Radgee no preferve hum. Majober having received Labor, and making Radgee Bandor of his Council, fends ADfepl-cappi's Letrcr, was much troubled, and leaving his him into the Hummums, where he Srangled Bullocly Cell in Zirmol, flics to Gefluneer, and fo to Redgee Rama, with Sultan Sbetyer, Sha-Etbimore, and Sba-Hafen, the who loved him well; but being purfued with Lerters full two Sons of Sultan Purwees, and the two Sons of Sultan of threass, as well as increaries, from Normel, the Redgee Morod, not fufpecting any danger, apd fens cheir Heads theughe ir noc prudent to retain him, or protect him, and \(\int_{0}\) advifed him to fly tocurroon, who would, without al doubt, cnecrain him gladly:
a.chm Mehabet-clian having reccived a Packer-from the Radgee bioucm Rana to Curroon, Cpeeds to Decan with 500 Kafhboots, and 1000 other Men, led by Wazir-chan, with him, and inds Curroon at Guyneer, in Nifambis Kingdom, who was amazied at his coming, till having read the Radgers Packer, he embraced him with unipeakable Joy, and enured into a firm Fricndmip with him. India admires at urd into a firm Ericndinip with him. India admires at Jangheer grows fo afficted at their Conjunction, that he falls into 2 deep Melancholy, and foon after a fatal Sicknefs, of which in three days he dicd, in the 23 d Year of his Reign, in the Year 1627. Heg. 1007. haiving named on his Death-bed his Grandfon Bullochy, Son of Suitan Guffroo, his Succeffor, and fivorn his principal Omrat to fee him crowned, and new Curroon no favour 0 mrat to fe him crowned, and cill he had fubmitted to Bulocim.

\section*{to Curroon.}

Thefe Murders aftonilhicd the Empire, but Curroonowroon Coon quiered it by his Incancations, and then Orders his Coronation ar \(\mathcal{A}_{1} r\) a, which was accordingly performed, in a General Affembly of Omra's. Then he turned to the Affairs of the Empire, placing and difplacing ar his pleafure. He thut up his Farker's Seraglio, confined Queen Normal and her three Daughrers. AIfripiochan was made fecond in the Empire, and Mehobet-chan next him ; and Channa-3ied-chan was re-eftablifh'd Vice-Roy of Bengal. Ambalfadors from Perfax, Arabia, Tartary and Decan, bring him Prefencs, and Congratulate his accefs to the Crown. Divers Radgecs, and all the prinipal Omrt's, sefort to him, who affectionately reccived chem, pardoning all Offences commitred during his Reellion After which he proclaims a Jubilee which was Celebrated with all manner of Sports and Pleafures \({ }^{\text {min }}\), un imaginable; bur Curron wo in the highet Dignes happl Reign: imaginable; but Curron, tho' in the higheit Dignity, can'r be happy, Divine Vengeance purfuing him for his The dead Body of the Mogul was Entombed ar Titc- Sins by taking away his Wife, and fending the Arrows cander in Ecbar's Monumenr, and Sulcan Bullochr being of Plague and Famine into his Kingdom. The Sword \({ }_{13}\) Years of Age, was crowned as Dely with all Royal threatens on all gides, the Perfians having taken Kermaen amdin. loy. Normal being of an active Spirit, and havine all and Candabar. The Tartar Cabu, Sbeuph almuch, en Gapraic Fanghece's Treafure in her hands, arms her felf with dangers Tutta; and Leur Bander, and Radger Foogh Confidence, and a pretended Tirle" refolving to fet her troubles Brampore; and two Counterfeit Bullochyes fir up Son Sberyer on the Throne: To that end the hires Rebellion in the Bowels of his Kingdom. He himfelf 15000 Horfe, and fends to her Son to levy, as many more lives in the higbeft Inceft, having married his own ar fengriore, intending to Strangle Afaph-carm, and Daughter, and cis to be feared Goc's Hand will give a King Butloch, who were advancing rowards her. The fearful Event to thefe chings, as a juft punifhment of bis young King undexftanding this, turns away to Labor to former and prefent Sits, as they deferve. This is what meer Sheryer, who had larely been baftled by Godgec- he garhered and obleryed while be lay ai Surat. Abdul-Hulfan, and was encamped only with 4000 Horfe .

\section*{C н a p. XXII.}

Sir Tho. Herbert's Travels into Perfia, in whicb be gives ant Account of the People, Cities, Tomns, and Produ#s of it.

LEaving the Mogul's Country, Sir Tho. Herbert Fleet; and tail to Ormius. This City is large, but the and his Company came to Diu, or Deroa Town, feated on the Cambayan Gulph, and So incompaffed with a branch of the Induss thar it is made a kind of Peninfula. The Haven is a; good for Anchorage as Swallc, or any of the Havens thercabouts. Alexander returning from the Conqueft of Porw, built a City on the Banks of the River Hydafpes; one of the branches of Indus, called Bucepbala, in memory of his Horfe killed in thar great Battel; and coming to this

431 Sir Tho Herberts Travels into Aga and Africa, 6c, Lib Ill

Winert, Caprain, in 1515: The River Indur, called by Pliny Santiw, and Arricm Sinthur, is now called Sindc. After a Couric of 3000 Miles from the Cafnirvien Mountains, part of Catucefies, it emprics ir felf into the Orcanar two great Offiums. Ir is accounted by ancient Gengraphers one of the moft famous Rivers of theWorld, and gives Name to one of the moft nowle Parts of the Univerfe. The Rivers Bolinat, Revore, Damiater, Obelen, WWiity, or Hydafocs, Ach fins, Coplis, Adrs, Sce. all fow into it. Here it is worth Obicrvation; that at the Mouth of \(I_{m b i s}\) tis full Sca at the New Moon, but at Calecur at the Full Moon, and at S:cotors at the Firit and Laft Quarters.
inurued de.
On the other fide of the Gulph in Arabia Fclix is atrifcat, not far from Cape \(\mathbb{R} a=\) ald satst, anciently called Con rothmam: It is the beft Town, Port and Haven, which the Portugucze have in thele Parts, being conquerid by them when they took Onmus in 1507 . from zaifadin an lufant King of it. The Town is feated in a Plain between two riling Mountains, a Dirch and Paraper drawn from one Hill to che other, to cnvironing it, that to lome it feems inaceentible. The Cafte is large, well Manmed, and fored with grca: Orchancis.
- Dc:. 17. ther failed for Ganhroon in Perfit, coafting on Arabir, where chofe fweer Spices and Guns do grow, whofe Flowers fo perfume the Air, thar it finells fweet at \(S\) a, when no land can be difcerned.
Arsuind: Areinn, denominated from: Arabus the Son of Apollo and Balyicni.t, was anciently a Scminary of very famous lMen, Phyficians, Mathematicians and Philofophers, as Galcn, Hypocreter, Avicr:, Albumazar, &ec. bur now is obfeure and barbarons. It was of Old famous for the delivery of the Holy Decaloguc, but. now 'tis as Infamous for the Alcoran. It is divided into thres Parts, 1. Deferta, or afpera bo leamilis. a. Petrica, or Pctrola, from Petra the Mectopolis of it, built Ly Patrafim, the fifth Son of Mizraim, Gen. 9. I4. In is allo called Imfexicur, and Nabitbar, by Serabo and Prolcmy. 3. Felix, called Sabiea. All there Parts were firt called Eefbiopis diltinguifh theft erthionions by thoin \(\mathrm{H}_{3 i}\) for the 10 ficks may be combed, the African not: In the Defar Arabia is Kclar, in Pecrea, Horct, Sinai, Farbiip and Stecce, places of Account among the Smaccus; and in the Hepts Arabic, now called Memorta, Medina, Subr, and many cther Towns of Nore. All this Country was Peopled at the Divifion of Tongues, by Scba, Rermah, Sabbata and Sabbatbicta; and 'ris obrcrrable at this day' that whercas the ffebrew, Grack and Latin Tongucs, are no wherc \{poken purcly, the Arabick is fpoken in thres parrs of the World. Leaving arabia they crofed the Pcrfinn Gulph, and paffed near Cape Gwader, and in Inght of Cape Goadel, an Infamous Port, inhabitcd: by a People who make a prey of Atroter. On the Cuy. nian Coaft flands 7 affucs, in 28 Deg. 58 Min. Northern Latitude, diftamr aboar 40 Leagucs from Ormus, Albit quergue fubjected it to the Crown of Porrusal, Buitit a large Caftle ind ir, and furnifled it with a 7 Brafs Cannon, but che Englifh rook it from them in 1623 . becanfe they killed Captain Sbillize in it, bur pur itinto the hand of the Perfinn.
Cammenir is twofold, the Grearer and che Defart: The Defart extends from this Town to \(A\) init, and the. Greater is contined by Getrofia to the N. W: Near this is a fmall Ifle called Aplirodofia, from 2 Shrinc 估anding in ir Dedicated to \(V\) chus; 'twas famous in Alcxander's time for Sword-Blades, accounted better than thofe of Demafcus, and for the Orgies he celcbrated here. Then paffing the Streights of Ormus, in view of Rij/2my, where the PortuSuse have another Fort, they came to Anchor at Gembroon, the beft Port the Perjan has. aboutone League trom the Continent in Circuir, lying in the 27 Deg. of Northern Lacizade The Soil is-bartco, but the chicf City is fo elegane for Buildings," To popilous for Inhabicants, and fingular for Trade that it allures Merchants and Travellers to it from all Parts of the World, and by its Marine Power dcriyed from Gor, gives Laws to all its neighbouring Potentatcs. The City is not large, but compat, and the Streces narrow to avoid the heat of the Sun, which otherwife, through the Sandinefs of the Soil, would be intolcrable there. The The hath two Hivens in it, one in the Eaft, and the other in the Weft parts of it. In the midde of it is an Hill, which gives' a deloghteful profpeet on the top, and afford's Sulphiur on the one fide; and Salt on the other, in great tore. The Cryy is welf buile, and the Foufes viehin exceedingly well furfifhed with gilded leather, and india and Clim Raritics : The Bazar is ricti and beaurifut, the Churchés fplendid with. in; and the Captes fo regulaty built both withinaid withont, and to well fortified with dece Trencins, a Councerfcarp and greac Ordnanice, commanding looh The City Kund Haven, that none cxceeds it in all the Eaft. The Kings of this Illand werc
t. Mir Bebedin Ayry, or Ben-Scifin Ben-Cchadin, whō̃ion: King, flain by his Brother Mocred, an Infant Aralian" King, flain by his Brother Mitarid, or Mifad, npeoted Throne, forcing him to Dy to ths, and kept hian from the Throne, forcing him to fly to Kermacm , where Morat ol taining Affiftance of the Twhs, brought fo great an Army againt him, that he was forced, wilh many of his Fricnds, who hated the Tyrant; to remore to Rifhmy bur nor woll liking that.plase, he departed, and ferfled uponthe lace Gerul, which he fortify'd and named \(0_{i-}\) merr, in 1312 . Heg. G92. To him fucceeded, 2.Emir-Azadir-Gourdan-ham, a Rcrfon of a Noble Extraction, whofe Son, 3. Malcratadir-bratron-fha, a Brave Prince, inherised Mif Bu was treachcroully thain by chafe bur a little wibile, for 4 enjojed his wicked Purhale but a little while, for
5. Mira-Codbadin, his Predeceffor's youngert Bro. ther, reraliated his treachery upon him, and cha' for a while his Coufun Mclec Na-ancdin forced him to fly the Kinguom, yet as his Death he recorcred it, and left is at his own to,
6. Paci-Turan/ha, a Victorious Prince, whom nothing could cofiquer bur Death, which ftripping him of h:s Regal Power in 1488 . he had thefe Succitiors,
7. \(\mathrm{Moz}_{0}\) ad- -B b Redin.
8. Salger-for.
9. Shemes. And
10. Saffedin, whom Aibuquerque Cubdued in \(150 \%\) and caufed him to be ftrangled.
Nording, Cojeature, and Dolemfer, Ceverally atrenpted the Sovercignty, but Mal:omer, in the fpite of them crowned King, being the Right Heir; and to him fie ceeded his Son Scid-Mintemet-fhn, in 1622. who was filbdued by the Englifh and Perfinns when they took Ornurs which being 2 remarkable Conqueft, it will be wordh our while to ake the prrticulars of it.
Sim-abbais, the Emperor of Perfia, reforting to fubduc caxy Orman, commanded Emangol-chaipn, Governour or onmbty Duike of Shyran, to underrake it. who advaness toreard triph Gamberon with goco Horle and Foor, ar fuch a time a he expected to mect the Engtifh Flect there, whofe Af fintance he obrained upon thele Conditions, which they firt Setricd under Hand and Seal: I. Thar the Cafle of Ormile, if: it were taken, with all the Ordnance and Ammunition, thould beleng to the Entifh. 2. That the Perfians might build themflves anothcr in any parr of the inc, if they pleafed. 3. Thar the Spoil mould be equaly divided. 4. That the Eralifa fhould have the Cliritian, and the Perfint the Pagans, their Prifoners. 5. That the Perfitns mould pay for half the Victuals, wages, Sher and Powder. 6. That the Englifh mould be Cufomfree in Gambroon for cyer.' Thele Arricles being Signed and Scalcd, each Party prepared for fight.
Fen. 20. 1622 . they becaunc Mafters of the Fort with Tue finall difficulty, and then played upon the Cafte witheris Profizns fprung a Mine, which blew up 2 great pait of the Wall. The Portugucze were nor furprized at it, bus making a Sally at it, maintain'd an obftinate foint with the Porfans, and when they recreated, fo plied the Pom fians who purfued them, with Hand-Granadocs, Fircfians who purfued them, wirh Hand-Granadocs, Firc-
Balls, Powder-Rors and Scatling Lead, that they lof above 1000 Mcn .
The Perfians Courage was much cooled by this Skirmilh, and litele was done for fome time; bur Marcili 28. the. Portutuce being humbled by Neceflity, vit. the Plague, Famine and Fluxes, were forced to more for a Ceflation of Arms, promifing to pay the Dike down two handred thoufand Tomans and a Yearly Tribure of an hundred and forty thoufand Rials," bur notabeing accepred, they theid out to April 13 , when the Portupufe agreed to furrender the Cafle to the Eng if mic themfelves, and all they had, to their Mercy, upon Condition that they might have their lives, and a lafe ar as lay in the Emplifh, for the Pcrifians not ofly inkercepted 300 Atiabs and Portuigief, and curcints off their cieth Heads frit then to Gambroon as a Trophee, but violared the Womern, defited the Temples, and defaced the Houfes, and becaufe an Eng lifomen, contraty to Order, was found pillaging a Monafty, they broke thicir Articles with the Euglif, reize on all, and gave them only twenty thoufand pound, Befides their part of the Cannon of the Catle. The King of Ormus, . Seid-whermetbia wasmadePrifoner to the Pefons and is a Prifoner citrons, Aimonds
as alfo
titics.
Nor h Mutron, liye in.
the Shaw
The Engl of his H the raking
At the Caftles, ted; they are unskill manm. few and confícuov pralled, an Screets are Pcr/an and tata mith Afinego's, their Grav habirants \(h\) they are to When th
 bers of Wo
ving their Cheeks hun with broach pudent:
Among Fleth. Epgs or Wire-Vin Souls into I throught thei

Chap. XXI. Sir Tho. Herbert's Travels into Afia and Africa, Gc.
at Diem. and day, under an Allowance of five Marks Conrage. About thrce Miles from Gambrcon is a Tree Place in the World, which was latterly the Glory of the Eaft. This happened after the Porruguefe had been fixfore Years Mafters of it.
On fan. 10. 1627. they came to Gambroon, called by the Perfians Bander, i. e. the Port Town, becaufe it is the beft Port the Petfinn has : It is firmated upon a level Miles. It teands in carmania, and before the Fall of Orrus was a finall Town, but fince is fo increaled in Buildings and Inhabitants, that for Grandeur it may be ranked with the Towns of beft Note in Perfit; becaufe being frequemted by Merchants from all Parrs, it is be Come a City of great Commerce for raw Silk, Carpets, Cotron, and other Commodities brought thicher by Land, and all Corss of Merchandize by Ship.
The Buildings are for
The Buildings are for the moft part of Brick baked in the Sun, which will fo harden chem, that they appear as well and lafting as if they were burnt. Thcy are builc low, and moft of them wich fmall Courts and Belcomies, terraffed a top, where thcy fleep in the cooler Weather upon Carpers, and pargerted with Phaifter, as hard as chat of Pans.
The Windows arc Letticed, and made to thut or open as they pleale. as they pleare.
In Summer the Air is fo hot, that the Inbabitancs are forced to remove to Lar, and other neighbouring. Villa goo, for cool Streams and Stades. Their Summer lafts 9 Months, and in chat time tis rarexo fee a Cloud in the cool themfelves, which yer parb in roughs of Water to makes ihem apr to carch cold.
finter cof. Here is the beft \(S /\) Yraz-Wine in all Perfia. They drink Coffec or Coho much; it is a black Drink, or Broth mina of made of Bunny--Yowers, or Coava-Bexries. It is not poothfome, being fomewhat bitrex, but very wholfome roothome, beinp fomewhar bitter, but very wholfome, (the People fay) for it comiforts raw Stomachs, helps Digetion expels Wind, and removes Drowfinefs. Drink made of Water fweerned with Syrrap of Limons ord mixed with Rofo water, tho' they refule not Arack or Suang-wzerer, qualified with Sugar, as a Cordial in the horreft Scafons, efpecially where their Diet is coarf and Sromiachs are crude and raw thirough diffufion of hear.
They have plenty of Froits, bur moft of them Im ported, as Oranges, Limons, Pomegranares, Poomecityons, Figs, Dates, Currans, Myrobalans, Apricock citrons, Figs, Dates, Currans, Myrobalans, Apricocks, Almonds, Pitacho', Aples, Pears, Ouinces as alio Flowers and Nuts in grear variery and quarn titics.
Nor bave they lefs abundance of Carbarito's; and Murron, Hens, Eggs, Rice, with Oyfters, and miany linds of The which make the place more plearant to lipe in. The beft Houfes in the Town are the Sultanis, The Shaw-banders, and the Engli/h and Dutcch Agents. of his Houre, in memory of their good Service done.at the raking of Ormus, and for fome time they had half the Cuftoms for Goods Imporred.
At the North and Sourth-end of the Town are two Caftles, which have 30 Pieces of Brafs Ordnance planted; they were brought from Ormus, bur the Gunners are unskilful.
The Matbomertan Mofques, and fewifh Synagogues, are conficiuoure andiderable, but the Hummums are more conppicuous, and much reforted to. The Town is unwallicd, and badly fupplied with frelh Water, and the Streets are narrow. It is well furnifhed with Camels, Perfinn and Arabian Horfes of the beft fort, Mules and mid Afinego's, but much infefted with Jackals, which invade the 1 orwn by Night in Troops, and rear the Dead out of their Graves, howling in a dreadful manner. The Inhabiants hunt them with Swords, Lances and Dogs, bur they are too many and daring to be conquered. When, the Mcrchants flock to this City for Trade, in bersof Worme Decmber and January, here are grear numving their Hair neazly phaited, Faces painted, and Cheeks hung with Pearl, Ears with Rings, and Nofes with broaches of Gold, but Lewd, and intolerably Impudent:
Among the Trajers, the moft obfervable are the Bannicns, an unfociable fort of Ment. They eat no or Wire-Vinegar. \({ }^{\text {or Winse-Vinegar. They belicve the Tranfmigraion of }}\) Sools into Beafts and. Vegerables. Thiey are healthy, through their Abtinence, but of weak Bodies and. fmall called the Bannian-Tree, which foreads 209 paces, aod will aftord covert crowding. It is adoricd with A bhs of Men without Trec . of Taffara of divers Colours Rid inds, and Streamers in Taffara of divers Colours, and nearly trimmed within in Arches. Within them is a Pagod, wish chrec Images in it, of grim Vifages and deformed Shapes, ;epre-thectr ragod enting their three Forefarthets, Curtary. Sturddery repe-nd hangi. 1Tje, whom thefe Idolaters formally Workhery and ramried 24 days at Gamliroon, and then deparred with the Engli/h Embarfador, Sir Dudmore Cotsten's Caravan, of 12. Horfe wirh borh, and they weris. The Sultan furnilhed them The Ca nels whey were of the beff rort::
The Camels were of that fort called C:Oxillurfh Ca- Camels They a Beaft abounding in \(P\) c/fia, and of great. ufe They are long-lived, gentle, patient in .rxayel, and of greaz ftrength, for they will catry well near 2 thouland Weight; conrent with litcle Food, and less Drink, from which they will abfain near four days. The Embaffa dor hcaring that Shr- Abbas the Perfinn Emperour was Afharaph, upon the Sea-hore of the Caffian. Sea, fer Ally, Q Village for Audience, and came firft to Band Ally, a Village five Pharffangs, or 16 Milcs Enzlij乃 from hiorc. The.
The way of counting Ditances in Perfin by Phar-Pherfarge fangs is ancient, and ftill continues ; the Word comies wher from Porfa, which fignifies threc Miles, both in the thich

> Pand Arabick Langnage.
the Canadanty are near Caravan-Serrays, or Inns, for rmada ufe of Travellers where charitable Mahometans for the curely. At the ware of rfey may reft fweetly aud focurely. At the Gare of fome of them is a Bazar, or Sutlers Tentr, to furnint chem with Provifons. They are furnithed wich Water from furnifhed wich Water from certain Tanks, or Cifterns which are fo plaiftered as to preferve the Rain-water fweer a fweer a long time ; and being fo preferved, "is the wholfomeft of all Warer.
Grom hence they travelled the next day to Gacclect, Cacthem, com.
 ven Pharfangs, and the next day to Tanghy-dolen, thro' 2 nariow way, where is a near Caravan-Serray winth Cu pulos; 2 ineigtbouring Hill fupplies it wirh Waith buful, but which in its courfe renders all the Valley fruitproduces plenty of Dates. it is barren and fandy, yer Thees pienty of Dares.
Their next days Journey was four Pberfaings to Whar-Warmoort moor,' in the way chey faw three gray-headed Arabims etring crofs-legg'd in a black Tent, łinginig a doleful ording to their \(C\) dead Brother with highs and tears, acare Duzgum, Lazrande, and ocher Townic, whete is the beft AIfafxidid in the Eaft. The Tree which gor duces it exceeds not the Briarin The ree which pro- afofrida. cefemble thofe of Rofes, and thighr, but the leavcs fonell is offenfive, bur the rafte fo good, that rhe Nacives, who are accuftofned to it, like no Mear, noi Sauces withour ir. The next day they gor to otrmangel, fivd Pharfangs, and in another co Lar.
Lar is boch \({ }^{\circ}\) City and \(₹\) Province, within three days Lar defers Journey of the Perfian Gulph. The Province is abour an 1.0. is barren and fandy, bur wheres part of the Country Springs, the People live and improve it are Rivolets or ges, Limons, Pomgranates, Fips and Fruits, ard variery of Grain: Dares and Palmis prow of Grain: Dates and Palms grow in the barrenneat Soill and cis thought there are Mines and Sulfhar in the ground. The City of Lar is in the middic of the Proude. It was founded or ine. 40 Min: Norrhern LatiPhroc, who was Prince of it and by Latageb-g, Son of Phroes, who was Prince of it, and had 18 Suucceflors, of which the laft, Etrathim-casm, was conquered ely-camn, Duke of sycamm, was conquered by Emen-ha-Abba's Do of Syrraz, and his Kingdom added to Penfion promifed hims. Ebrabsim had his life, and a Sha-Abbas not being eafie, he was pur to Death. It is feven days Journey from Gemltrocn; fourtcen from Sty it and twenty from Balylon." It is but meanly Warerd by a few Springs, which they ufe to Water tineir Gardens, where they flade themfelves in their hor Seafons
It is fubjest to Earthquakes, by which it hath fuffered
 whelmed many of the Inhabitants ; and the Caffle in one tho' founded on a Rock, was in very grear danger. li is unwalled, becaafe defended on the Eaft and North with lofy Rocks. The Caftle is brave and ftate';', aw- Trw cific buil the lown, as well as threatning the Enemy. It is and beg goon Stone, and the Walls are well turnifhed are mounted 12 Brafs Cannoins Pedt Plaiforms, on which re mounted 12 Brafs Cannoin Pedfós, anil two Baffisks

\section*{428 \\ Sir Tho. Herberts Travels into Afia and Africa, Sc. Lib. Ill}

Lii it are Huts for the Soldicrs, and an Armoury fufficient to furnifh with Lance, Bow and Gun, 3000 Men. It is ufually well Victualled, Armed and Manned, to Command the City and Country, and defend rhem againf any Invafion.
The Bazar is 2 Noble and Elegant Fabrick, built of white Chalky Sronic, and covered over. . The Circumference from the Center is about 80 paces ; 'tis full of Shops of feveral Trades.
The Mofques are many; the moft xemarkable is round, varuithed within with Arabick Letters, and painted with Knors, and beautified wich. Mojaick Work Thicir famous Trophce, Emmr-Alij-Zeddey-Amecr, whon they greatly revercnec, is buried here, with fome others of Ieffer Nate.

The Country abciur it affords varicty of Fruits, as Dates, (which being Male and Female, the latter will nor bear, unlefs a flowred Bough of the Male be applicd to it) Oranges, Limons, Mclons, Pomgramares, and moft cxecllent Pomcitrons; and Flowets, as Jafming, Rofos, Tulips, Eic.

Here are alfo Goars, Hens, Rice, Barley; Rack and Aqua-vita are fold ar cafic Rares. Bus the Musketto's are very croublefome here, and Warer bad; their Tanks ftinking; Necedity indeed obliges the People ro drink of it, but it caufes Catarihs, breeds fore Eyes, putrefies the Guts, and breeds long Worms in the Legs, by no Oint ment or Medicament to be prevenced.
The Prople. matas asid Mahome sans, moft of them Blear-ey'd, Rotten-toothed, and Mangy-lcgged, caufed by the violent hear and unwholfone warer. Their Habir is a Wreath of Callico abour cheir Heads, a Girdle of PLad of divers cotours, and Sandals on their Feet, being naked on the reft of their Body; bur fome few have golden Sathes on their Heads, Robes of Sartin on their Bodies, and Rings an their Fingers. They delighs much in Arcbery, and in rich Swords.
Their Learm
Here are Come Proficients in Philofopky and Machematicks, but they pleafe themfelves moft in Aftronomy; bur in Mechanick Arrs is equals any in Perfia.
Weft of Lar, abour 60 Miles Englifh, is a Town cal lad facroven, inhabited chiefty by \(\mathcal{f e w s}\) which fome repure ar leaft one thoufand; buc others five thoufand; 'cis probable that this place is the Kirjak-featim, mentioned Nich.7.29. from whence fome of the 76 wes recurned to Ferufalcon to build the Temple by Crus's Ediat; but moff certain thar they were the Captive's Childrea, which Aprecious Liquor or Mumpmy growing, they cath is Mumnat-kook, whict is carefully preferved for the King's Ufe only ; in diffils from the top of the Mountains in \(\mathcal{F} \mu \pi e\) about five Ounces. It is a inoft odorifuous Gum, and Soveraign againft Poyfon, and a Carholicon for ath forts of Wounds. This Baliam the Emperor prefencs to orberlyinces in froall quantiries, when they fend him colly Prefents of Gold, Pearl, Eec.

Alexander, after he had Pray'd and Sacrific'd at Sufa endeavour'd to lead his wanton Army over the Hills of Fanroun to Perfipolis, bur being beaten by Ariobaränes and his little Army, was forced to find another way.
They, lefr Lar Feb, 1r. ander the Conduct of an Old Coozelbaph, who, our of hopes of a Reward, provided Great Rains fell fome \(R\) lartes every Night. In this lowney chere fell lome Rair, which ftopped their progrels by an immoderate Flood, for Rain fadls bere but feldom, hut when it does, it comes fometimes with fuch a Deluge as fweeps away Men and Houfes; yea, whoke Caravans.

On the Iteh day they arrived at Di-achom, or Tocluco where they faw many Tombs, mott with Grave-ftones, and an srabick Memorial. The Alcoran commands, Thar none be buried in Cities, for fear the Dead infect the Living; and shat no Grave fhall be made in the place where another hath formetly been buried Mile from the Town they. faw aboue 60 long Pavilions which wcreblack withour, but within were full of Fc male Beaurics. The Pcrfians call them Tlickes, and the Ancients Nomades. They live in Poverry, but contenr, frec from Care, Envy, Tumule and Rior. From bence they paffed forward to Berry, baving obferved nothing remarkable in the way, but a chick Wall of, grear lenguh and height, cur out of the Rock, as a Boundary of Oid between the Kingdoms of Lar and Sbyrax Nirry AGio Berry is but a Village, yet famous throngh all Perfor for the Immunitics grantedi ir by ailearned Syet, and for an Aruicick School, where is rangat CivilL Law; Aftrology and Phyfick, and a Rytlacorns's Silence; to Difcourfe by Signs. Near is is the Tomb of their grear Doctor great. Veneration, coucting it continaally with a white Lining Cloth; it fands in a Chappel, on the rop of which lincir Cloth, it ftands in a Chappel, on the rop of which is a Stecl Mirrour, in which, thicy fay, they lee the deis a Stec Mirrour, in which, they lay, they fee the de-formity of their Sins. None may enter it with loors or Shocs on; and all may find Satistaction to their Defircs, by prefenting larye Otferings to ir.
From Rerry they travelld to Binnarow, where they were Entcrtaincd with Fcalting and Mufick, and fo palfed to Gcyoone, a Town which brags of a thoufand, buit cymot. chey are but ordinary Houles. Here Mclec Malsmer, a Man famous for on'arging the Authority of his great Propher, lies buricd. From hence, through a dcrolate Wildernels inhabired only by Oftriches, Storks and Pelicans, chey came frit to Cut-boble, and then to Mobacke. Here ic buried Maluomer; Hodece, \(1 / \mathrm{bmach}\) and \(A I_{y}\), four Aiuf. cl-men Doctors, whofe Tombs, faid to be of 400 X cars thanding, are reforted to with much reverence. Nicxt day they went to Courghton, and fo through Uinginen, Monesbaw, and Puly-pet-foam, to Sheraz.
This Ciry is one of the pleafantet in all Aft, lyings in 29 Deg, 20 Min. NorthernLatitude, and 88 Dcg Long fervet. gitude: ir probably derives its Name from Sherabin, a Grape, which abound here, and thofe of the moft gegerous fort. It is watered by Kur, 2 River, which riang in the Tapirian Mountains, after a Currens of 200 Miles, mixes with Coafpes (now Tel) and Vhey, lofes is felf in the Gulph, which difcharges it felf into the Intian Ocean. Tbe City is abour ferenMiles in compafs, Wal-1470, feated pleafantly on the N. W. fide of a fracious Plain, 20 Miles long and 6 broad, inclofed wish lof Hills, defended by Nature, enrichict hy Trade, and made lovely by Art; the Vincyards, Gardenc, Cyprefles, Sodatories and Temples, ravibing the Eyc and Smell, 'Lo as in all places appears Deligher and Beaury.
Here 'tis laid Magick was Invented, Nimod liven, zi m sta Cyrua was born, and lics Entombed all but bis Head famiof which is ferot to Pifegerd; the firf Sibil that prophectied of our Saviour's Lncarnation : and from hence "ris thought the Magi fer forth to. Worthip our Saviour at his Birth. The: Honfes anc of Sin-kurnt Bricks, yct bard and dpFable, terrafied above, bar nos very lofty. Their chief Furniture is Carpers, and few are without Gardens of high Chenaers and Cypreffes
There are in is is braye Mofques, roumh, and ti'ed with a Plaifter made of Lime ftone burnt, which being dry, becomes fo hard, thar is refembles true Srone. Thic top and ourfide is pargetred with Azure-ftone refenobling Turquaifes, and the infade is lined with black well poLind Marble. Tbe taps are beautified with many doube gilded Crefcents or Spires, which refleet rbe Sunbeams moft delightfully to fuch as behold the Ciry from the neighbouring Mountain: The Stecplcs of two of them, of which the one is fquare, and the other more round, rife to a vaft height, being adorned with Gold, and blue Varnihed with Knots and Poefies. Moft of cheme are rendired. Venerable to this Superfitious Pcople, the Doctors, which are fo adorned, as of their Alcoranifm Doctors, which are fo adorned, as if Art were at a lols to exprefs the Excels of their Devotion to them. Ahtde out of the Town lie incerred twa of their fomous. Poets, Muffatini Sridds, (who wrote the Rofarium tranilatad into Lacin by Gcmius) and Hodgee Fasier, whofe Focms are in grear efteem through all Parfic.
Herc is alfo a College, whercin is read Pbilofophy, A curs Aftrology, Phefick, Chymiftry, and Mathemaricks, which makes it the more famous in Perfia. The Gardens are vexy large and beautiful, well. Walled, and a bousiding with Uaks, Cypreffes, Chenaers, and the like Trees for hade; and Oranges, Limons, Pangrauates, Poukirrons, Pitacho's. Apples, Pears, Peaches, Chef nuts, Cherries, EGc. for Fruics, As affor tare and fyreet Flowers, and lhyfical Herbs. The Earth is dry, bur green, the Air a litrle flatp, but wholfome. And indeed, as the Eaftern Parts are more warm, fo they are more pleafant and refrefhing than the Wef, and produces betrer Fraics, Plants, Grain, Spices, Drugs, Herbs, Gems, Minerals, and other things.
The moft ufual Paftime afed hare is Swinging upon swirmb Ropes ftrerched from Tree to Tree, efpecially during the Birane. They have a fcarcity of Warer, becaufe there is only 2 finall Rivoler cear is, bur is oughe to be imprited to the lazinefs of the Inhabitants, fince within fifteen Miles there is a gadlant River, which might be brought thither by Pipes, or Aluarducts.

The lahabizants of this City, at the Nutrouis or Thenemit and fpenidigh their cime in Drinking. Simging and Play-me
ing. . The Gardens are all open to walkin, and the \(W o\).
fion,
pire;
Lar \(n\)
\begin{tabular}{ll} Lar \\
an \\ Ch \\
\hline \end{tabular}
of Perf
Proce 12
Delight.
fand \(T\)
bur out Mufter
Concu
himfed Lion, nelling
trics,

\section*{whalint} Sberf 370. parched omma Sultsn bred up o enlar sinith hi: orced \(A, D .10\) nity, lea fes of hi troubled minions corered hisSubje Royalty Aben began Ra Abum. mention ter of mancrer, Hedied ivas bu Kingdon \(\therefore\) Abum fpared fo bulied hi Cofroeritorics,
Grandfar eity to \(h\) minc \(A b u \tau c d\) deft Brorl fed him \(b\) his Afoci: keep his k Fancle, curina hin with his

Chap X XI. Sir Tho Herberts Travels into Afia and Africa, *c. 42 多.
men; for "x days, have the liberty to appcar in publick, and they will not lofe their sime, but confume it in a \(L_{a}\) byrinch of wanton Sports. Chafticy is no Virtue at this time, when Pleafure is to take its ranges. This Feal was begun by King Sbntelladyn, Son of \(\tau / p-a r \Omega_{a n}\), and is commonly celcbrated. when the Sun enters Aries, with a greater Solemniicy than any other.
The Duke of Shyrat, who at prefent is EmangolyGutrn, a Georgian by defcenc, and Maffal-man by Proferfion, is one of the Tetrarcis thar Rule the Perfian Empirc; his Territories teach near 400 Miles round; and afford him the Titles of, Arch-Duke of Stiyraz, Sulfan' of Lar and Jaarown, Lord of Ormus, Maquetoon, Kermoan. Chufiftan, Sigeftan and Farfiftan, Rrince of the Gatph of Perfia, and yhes in it; the Great Begleabeg, Commander of 12 Sultans, 50 thoifand Horfe, Slave co Sha-Abbas, Protefor of Mufful men, Nutimeg of Comfort; and Rofe of Delight. His Revenue is faid ro be four hrondred thoufand Tomans, (cvery Toman being five Marks Stetling) bur out of it he is to pay fifty thouland Horfe upon Mufter: This Dake, in his Seraglio's, has above 300 Concubines for his Pleafures axihome, while he Exercifes himfelf in more Manly Spotes abroad; as chatring the Lion, hunring the Tyger, diflodging the Boar, unkennelling the Jackal, Ejc. at wfich he raifes whole Count tries, not lefs than rwenty thourand ahen lerring to rouze chat kind of Game. Shroaz was the Scar Roral of the Kings for near 700 Years, and they are lately remored from thence. The Lineal Defcent of them is as follows :
Abuiven Dcilamphan, defsended, as they fay, from Adfore, laft King of Perfin, the hundzedth in defcent from Adam according to their Pedigree.
Dcilimflaw, Surnamed Boja, or Mebect; who had chree Sons, vit.
Ally, who died withour Ifiue, and left his Territories to his fecond Brother Hufan, who had fffie, but they were deprived for a white by Zeddn-Mobel, a Atranger Brought int by Muflapia the Betylonian Caliph. 'He was fucceeded by Eyni-daddaut, who having no Iffue, the Succelfion fell upon Hiufan's Son
- Rocnadicul, who being poffeffed of his Father's Seigniories died peaceably, A.D. 980 . He left threc Sons, wha lineally inhcrited their Eather's Juriffiction, win.
Sherfa-diputc, who died lefucIers, A: D. 990. Heg. 370.

Sbems-daule, who foon afrer his Coronation was dif parched by Treafon.
Babro-dau!c, whorcigned i2 Years, and at his Death commanded chat his Eldeft Son, Sultnn-daule, Mould fucceed him. This Prince was bred up in Warlike Excrifes, and wanted, nor Courage to enlarge his Empire, yer could not defend himfelf againit his reftlefs Brother Hocem-Mafharef-daulc, bur was forced ro yield him a part of his Kingdom. He died A.D. 1025 . and was buricd in Shyraz with grearSolemnity, leaving his Kingdom to

Abdul-camn his Son, who was by the unnarural practifes of his two Uncles, Abulfrourr, and Gclaldidaul, firf troubled and difturbed, and after difpoffered of his Dominions; bur ar length, by che Death of the former, re corered his,Righr again, and was received joyfully by hisSubjects. He lived nor long, bur bequeached his Royalty to Aben-Mclec-Rabim, who dying without Ifuc, the Mabeyan Race ended in him.
Abumanfer, the pretended Son of. Gelaladaut abovementioned, fucceeded. He marricd Dautr, the Daughter of Fobal-beg, by whom he bad fire Sons, wiz. Abu manfer, Chozros-pberuz, Abubcicr, Abūeddat, and Aboally He died at Kermoen, when he had reign'd five Ycars, and ivas buried in \(H\) Hurknipn not far from Fafous. The Kingdom came to Abumanfer his Eldet Son, who cnlarged Shyran, and fpared for no Coft to make it bcautiful; bat while he bufied himfelf thus at home, his ambitious Brother Cofroc-p/crus unexpectedly took poffeffion of his Territorics, but Revenge purfued him, for geing to fec his Grandfacher Tofochbeg, he was Imprifoned for his Crueity to his Brother, and died there with Srench and Famine. Yet chis did noe difcourage

Aburediat, the fourth Brocher, from ufurping his Eldeft Brother's Righr, till the Inur'd Abumenfer difpoffef fed him by a Barrel, in which 'Abureddai, and moft of his Afociates, were nain: Yet could not Abimenfer long keep his Right for Facel, his Licutenant, unawarcs feized him, and feurink him in a noifome Prifon; adorned his bafe Head curim him in a noifome Prifon, adorned his wich his Mafter's Diadem'; bur his Brocher

Abbathy, nor able to bear this treachery, rook an advantage of Farelery, and having pulled che Croivn from his Head, fer one berrer becoming his Head, fer one becter becoming him upon. ir, viz of flaming Iron, and tranfplanted the Regal Diadem upon his own Head, which heheld Seven Years, and thechdying withour Iffire in the Year of Chrift 1100. Heg. 480. the Scepter fell ta Malunmed-Abutatip-Togrulbeg; Sen of Michach, Son of Salgucin's. Son of Didncus a Turkoman, in whofe Family ir continued till Matrimed-Abul-cafan died, A. D. 1220, Heg. 600 . withour 2 Succeffor, and then it fell to 2 Race of Tarsars, of which Cimgis-cawn, Lord of Kcton-camon, Maurnaber andi Gaxneben was the firft, He died 1.D. 1228. and Tukinkapon fucceeded him, and after him
Clogaiay-caim, from whom defcended Tamerlane, whaifo Ifiue now Rales all the Indies within Ganges. After thi Tartar, the Turks planted themfelves âfefh here, lec by Climra-Malamed, A. D. 445 . Heg. 79\%. whofe Pofterity enjoyed it till 1470. Heg. 870. when they were banithed by whofe Gran, otherwife called \(\tau\) frn-Caffan; an Armonian, whofe Grandfon infloan was, \(A_{r} D_{2}\) 1504. Heg. 884. utterly defpoiled of all, by his ambirious Kiniman spmmol-Sophy, Great Grandfather to Alfors, the Pirfian King, that now reigns, and is of the Ben-Allyan, or Sophian Stem.
From Shorraz they trayelled to Parfopolif, 30 Miles N.E of it. The Way is fandy and billy ; about Mid-way is Preftedelide. the River Cyr, or Corus, over which lies a will-buill as intics in Stone-Bridge called Bynd-Emir, in C C. che Prince's Bridge. Ruin, Fig \(^{2}\) parfepotis, as it is called 2 Macch. 9. 2r or Elcmms parfepots, as it is Called 2. Macch. 9. 2 r or Elcmes, t Macch, 6. was the Metropolis of the World, under the Reigns of the Perfian. Kings frotn Cyrus the Grent. The the Found Fouther of it is thought to be Sofarmus, Grandfon of \(B c\)-ofi: loctrus, bur being enlarged by Cyrus and Cembyfes, it was made the Royal Seat of the. Perfinn Kings. In its moft floutining condition it was (as Cirtius fays) the richeft, tobiet, and lovelieft City in the World. The Buildings were moft beatiful and ftately, being moit of Cedar and Cyprefs Wood, but char which gave it the grearett Tin pios Luftre, was the Palare of the Perfian Monarchs, which o ther:mi for its Situation, Profpeft, rich Materials; and curious mua ct. Art, was incomparable. It was buils ar the Eaft-cnd of 2 frucious Vale, upon a Rock, 400 Paces from the Ci:y, the Platform containitg 50 Acres of ground, or thercabouts. The Walls of either fide were Elaborately carved with Men and Beafts. The fecond Story was of Porphyry mixed with Marble of feveral Colours woll polilhed, and imbellifhed with coftly Siones in ahofaicik Work. Towards che Eaft.swas an high and ftately Tower encompaffed with a triple Wallof Marble well polithed, and fo batricmented, that the King could from the top have a delightful profpect all over the City... Adjoyn-TheTorid ing to it was a Mountain, on which was a ftately Mriz- of the Kily: Slewm; in which were the Tombs of the Kings. . The Roof and Cafements were of Gold, Silver, Amber and Tvory: The Fcmpleof Diana, called Ausia by the Perfians, The Tcmpi exquifitely, and with cxrraordinary Coft, wit. of the bett fort of Marble of feverefiforts, intermixed with precious Stones; nor was the Furniture lefs admirable. Whan The Fimithe Macedonian Conqueror encred it, for in che cnirrance curr of the wras a Throne of pure Gold, thick powdered with fpark- kalace. ling Stones, in the Bed-Chamber, among other Curiofities, was an Artificial Vine prefenied by Prelocus, the Stalk of which was of Burnin'd Gold, and the Clutters of Orient Peanl, mixed with Rubics of great price; nd no lels rich was the Bed, for the Bedftead was of Gold thick fet with Gems, the Bolfter was worth 5000 Talents, and the Fooftool 3 coo, each Talent containing 4500 1. Sterling, but this Palace and City was fired by Alexander, 2t the inftigation of. Thris a lewd Strumper and all its galiantry confuméd, yer there are feveral Re-The Reman:s mains of it to this day. Ir was buile upon- part of a oftia tazace Mountain, and the Foundation is of dark-coloured Marble. The Afcent, which is on the Weft-fide of the Hill, is by 95 Steps, cvery fep being 20 Inches broad, Inches high, and 36 Foot in length from one fide 0 the Stair-Cale to the other, which is fo contrived as to lead both ways. Every Stair bas an half-pace very large and fquare, flagged with Porphyry; and a bright colour ed Marble: At the Srair-head are fome Relicks of the Gare tinto the Court, which is about 20 Foot wide. On The Gre: the Left Fand of which feems to have been a large Garden:plat, and Eaftwards are the Figures of, four frauge Four Reats.

Sructire
\(\begin{array}{ll}\text { Structure ranges all along towards the South to the top } & \text { Miracles of this Nature upon Earth，and＇tis pity a per－}\end{array}\) of the Stairs．A little diftance from the Beatts，is a large fquare Ciftern 12 Foor in Diameter，and 12 Inches thick，near which are fome broken Pillars，but fo demo lifhed，that is can＇r be conjectur＇d of what ufe they were Flinking this is a Marble－Wall running from Eatt to Weft，about 9 Foot thick and 30 high；and in the middle of it arc another pair of Stairs of 30 or 40 Seeps
A proceflion．Thic Wall on each fide is Engraven with feveral Figures in Relief，in rows，relembling a Procefion，with thei faces toward the Stairs；and baving Spears in their hands， fome icading Horfés，Elephants and Camels，and ocher Mules，Oxen and Stece，with long Ears，which makes founc think it the Pourtraiture of a great Sacrifice to the Sun，and the rather，becaufe not far from thence is a Sculprure of their Priefts and Magi．Adioyning to thefe toward the Weft，is a Jafper or Marble Table about 20 Foor from the Pavcment，well polithed，and inferibed with zo lines of Characters，every line being a Yaxd and half broad，or thercabouts，of a ftrange and unufual fiape，neither like Letters nor Hienoglyphick，and fo not legible．A Specimen may pleafe the Curious，and there－ fore the feveral varietics are here inferred：

\section*{}

Adjorning to this Table is a fpacions．Ronm，which fome think was a Temple．in ir are 19 Pillars almoft perfet，where the Storks build their Neft，and are ne－ ver ainurbed，becarife the Peopic have them in Venera－ tion ；they axe 20 Cubits high，and about 3 Yards round． Afconding a few Marble Steps is another large fquare Chamber， 80 pacos long on each fide，having 8 feveral Doors；is fecms to have becna Room of Prefence．Out of th＇s you go into another laxge Room contiguous，with 7 Doors，and from thence into a leffer，where the Walls are of black Marble，fo brightand refplendent，that Men Eare G．ing．may foc their faces in it；and the gilding of the Cor－ nithes，and Verge of the Vefls（of the Figures）．are as freft as if is had becn newly done which frem as if is had becn newly done，which hews the Ex－ ceilency of the Artifts，who laid it \｛o，shar it continues alore 2000 Ycars．The Images on the Walls，which are fomething larger than the Life，reprefent Princes feated in their Chairs of State，with their Officers abour them．＂pon the Treez，over the Heads of the Images， ar：fome Characters fomething like the ancient Georgian Lerters，which were corrupred from the Greck．Near 40 paces hence is a large Room，and in the middle of it an hole，which leads inro a Vaule through an Entry fe－ ven Foor high，and five broad，paved with large fquare Marble Sence，and arched above，into a fair Chappel， fupporic．t by four large Pillars，on the Wall whereof is fage into another fipiare Chappel，ftrongly arched and fupported w：th four well－wrought white Marble Pillars each about feren Yards bigh；in it are the Figures of a Prince fitting in a Chair of Srate，guarded with feveral l＇ike－men，and Officers of Srate attending him．There are a：fo fercral heaps of Rubbifh，which doubcleifs bury many rare piecces of Ait，and ainong others the famous Temple of Dirme，called by them Anay，reputed the moth curious piece of Art in the World，except Diana＇s 25 Fiphofins at athe Eaftend of which riles an Hill，on which ftands the Imaxg of a King，who with ereated Hands iecms to adore the Kifing－Sun，and by him is the Figure of Fire，and a Serpenc engraven，tho＇is is much worn by Wind and Wiather．Scarce ten Yards diftant from thefe，and upon the fame deciiviry of the Mountain ftands the lmage of their greac Pagod， 2 Dxmon of a very vencouth and ugly hape，of a Gigantick fize and magininde，w th a mott dreadful Vifage terween Man and Bralt．He has feren Anns oneach fide of his Rody， and inftad of Hands he hath Claws like a Vulrare They tell ws that this Image reprefents 3 fem／bert，the greareft Prince Peffac cver had，both in refpect to his Extent of Empire，and the Power he had over Infernal Spirits，which he could Bind and Loofe as he pleafed by his Magick Spells．According to their Stories，he lived about 100 Ycars after Keromarraz，or Kestr－Laomer，whom Alurabron vanquibed．On the Lcfe Hand of this Image ftand a Guard of Pike－men，and below thefe 20 Flamens． Many other things very remarkable，forh for Ait and Srory，omighr be ohferved by the Curious，and exact from this unparallel＇d piece of Antiquity，which，as is is undoultedy withour Impoture，fo ir exceeds all the ect Draught of it is no．where extant；efpecially hince the Pcople near it have no value for ir，but are every day defacing it，becaufe they are now and shen forced to give free Quatrer to fome soldats，and ochers，who repair thither to fee it out of mecr Curiolity，tho＇the Dukes of S／yrat，now called Chilmynar，punifh them Dor it． Lirtle more than a Mile from Shrriz is Mardefh，a Mration Village of near zou Hourcs；the People of whish are sucetp fo tranfeendentiy Superfitious，that if anyy Chrititians fithent come among them，they．Sift athes and duft upon the places they tread on，apprehending that the Earth is pollured by them．This，and the neighbouring Villa ges，being watered froin the River El－chyr by Aquax ducts，are very pleafant ar moft Scafons，the Gardens and Fields being rendred fruitful in Flowers，Fruits and Corn，but they draw the River very low．Northward about three Miles from Shyraz，ar che foor of a Mountain verging toward Ratsifols，Atands car：ed the Figure of a Giant，which：the Perfiens．Fay is one Ruflan，an Hero much celcbrated in their Annals for his Romantick Won－mmpr． ders and Acts．He is thought to have lived abour the Reign of Artaxirxucs，or the Grear Ahof hucrus，whio mar－
ricd Hefer the fewe ricd Heffer the \(\mathcal{F}\) ewofs，in whofe Wars tis likely he was a Wur Commander．Near him ftand feveral Images of Women and Maidens carved；one of which they fay is the Figure．of Ruffan＇sEarthly Godders，for love of whom he，like a Knighr Errant，performed many brave Adven－ turcs．
Not far from thence，in a place wihere the Mountain \(\mathrm{T}_{\mathrm{w}}\) firita is made froorh，are two large Figures of Giants on ch horto Horfeback，facing each other，and contending for a berk． Ring，on which they both lay their bands．This Sym－ bol poffibly reprefents the grear Conteft for the Monar chy of the World；which happened between Deriuts and Alcxiander，Crus and Artaxerxes．There are feveral other Images carred in this Mouncain，which are worth a Travellers notice．Upon eicher fide of this Mountain are cur，or picred，feveral holes，fome of a larger fize than ochers，which are thought：to be the Sepulchres of he Perfian Kings，who，as Diod．Siculus tells，were not Befides thefe upon but in the Marble Mountains．
Befides thefe，upon the fame Mountains are fome pie－p ces of Perfpetive elaborately and．regularly cut our，rem perractis fembling the nobleft fort of ancient Structure，and em－ bellifhed with fome fuv Pictures of Men，which ferve for Ornamenr，About 300 paces Southward froin Cbis manor，is a fingle Column entire from top to botron，bur fo low，thar＇tis hard to conjecture for what ufe it was． Some fpace from the Mouncain towards the Valley，are everal Coffins or Troughs of Stone，fome whole，bur noft bruken，in which one may prefume dead Corps have been laid．There are alfo fome Relicks of Tanks， or Confervarories of Water，towards which one may lead． lead．
March 28．they came to a Town called Mryomn，a Mrom
place wery delightfully feated and wall accom with fweer Warer，excellent Wine，plenry of Wood，and Towr． forc of Grals；is belongs to their highly honoured Pro－ pher Ifhmael，whofe Tomb in a well buile Machir，called Emoom I／hmach，is here feen，and is endowed through the Liberality of many Princes and grear Men，with the Xearly Maintenance of twelve chouland Mawnu－fhaws of Rice，and four choufand of Barley．
Next Night they Lodged as \(\mathrm{O}_{\text {－jone，}}\) a Village confift－o．jms ing of 30 Families，moft of them Prophets，or Prophers Children，which makes is a place of bad Enrertainmenr， becaufe they drink no Wine，nor are allowed any Grapes， nor is their Water good，tho they have good Tanks． Over craggy and ftecp Hills they ravelled to Tarteng，mata fmall Town remarkable for a Merchir，in whith is the Tomb of the King＇s Grear Uncle covered with Violet－ colourcd Velver，and came the next Nighr to \(1 f(\mathrm{p} p \sqrt{f}\) ， which has nothing obfervable but an old Cafte，fome times a Garrifon，in and abour which iñhabit no lefs than 4000 Georgians and Screnfes，who arc by profeflion Chriftians，but live in Captivity，and grear Tempration， or if any of them turn Mabometan，they are immediate－ ly prefcr＇d beyond vulgar Meric．The Villages which followed in the way had nothing remarkable till they came to Gombazallello，where there is a good Carril ans－Gmber raw，and the beft Wheaten－bread in Perfir；bit in the io Road is a Mountain of black Marble，where doubtlefs are alfo．Quarries of Serpentine and Porphyry if the Earth were examined．Out of this part of the Perchor－ rrian Mouncains the River Rhogamana fprings，which ha－ ving watred S／yraz runs into the Perfian Gulph．The next Night they lodged at \(Y_{\text {under }}\) denw a Town which

\(\qquad\)

\section*{am}

\footnotetext{
Tatin：
}

\author{
 \\ ntinatita
}

\(\qquad\)
\(\qquad\) ich \(\begin{aligned} & \text { ひ̈edicars } \\ & \end{aligned}\) tands

Chap X XII. Sir Tho Hercerts Travels into Afia and, Africa, occ.
ftands pleafanty in a narrow Valley, and the nexr day palling through De-penxalicessia velled to Anmebiat, or Bayet, a Village of 30 Framilics, bus molt Apoftate Georrinms. Ir is inclofed, wich an high, ftrong and round Wall, with Batdements, which makes it refemble a Calth:- It is commanded by Daviu-clamon,' Brother to the Duke of Shyrax, whofor his Apoftacy was made an Eparch. Herc is a neat Carravins-rgip, with Banquet-ting-Houics, and well ordered Gardens. From imnohan they rode to Commeffam, or Calmaxa, which boaft in a thouland Houfes, where the memorable Battel bc twixt Actaxerxes, and his Brocher Cyrus, was fought and the nexr day came to Maycer, a Lown of alout a thoufnd Houics, which tho' they aregnear, are not commrable to their Dove-Houfes for curicus Outfides. Which Bird they much reverence, partly in memory of minm, who, as Berofis relatcs, was in her Infancy ourincd, and at her Leath transformed into a Dove and partiy from thofe, which being taught to feed a Hatumice's Ear, communicated to him as the l'cople believe, and he pretended Intelligenee from fome Angel. The nexs Night they came to Spathonet, a Village lix Milss Sourl from Spabarn, where having remained a diy or rwo, rill the Governour could provide for the Rcecprion of the Englifhe Embaffadour, who was with chem, they were conducted to Spalonan, April no.by the Vifict, Sultan Miloyonber, and frodqc-Nanar, the Armenian Prince, with a Cavalcade of about 4000 Horfe, and innumerable Foot, Mcn, Women, Childrea, and Bomnians, who lined whe Way and Bridges for above nwo Miles, and welcomed them with the Acclamations of Hofiomody, Soffanardy; and the betrer fort, Hofleraidem, Soffigaldom i.s. Welcome, Wcleome, hearily Welcome. The ancimr Inhabitants of this Couniry are Gorgians, inrermixed with orher Nations; and there is a Suburis of this City inhabired by Georginns and Armenians, called from thence felptrelias, as fome think. The Soil is for the moft part Mountainous, much refembling Helosciat, where the Swit ars live. From the tops of Tome Hills the Coffian and Euxenc Scas may be difoovered. They derive thicir Name from St. Gcorge their Parron, and from the Gordian Hills, which they inhabir, tho the Grecks derive thein Name from Turezoi, Fiusbandmen, becaufe moft of them are of this Profefron. Thefe People, chrough the goodnefs of God, with their Neighbours the Carcafbians and Armenians, hold faft cheir Chritiana Profeffion, norwichtanding they are. fufficiendy threatned by Turk, Tarter and Perfin, which furround them? and tell them that all Natolia, where once were the famoufert Churches in the World, is now overfpread with \(\qquad\) taria the Orthodox, by Dioforys Parxiarch of Conftensinople; neverthclefs, under Sapores, rwenty thoufand of them Futfered Marryrdom. By Proferion, they are now moft of them Nefforiens:ind Fecobites, and more inclinable to Arms than Trading, as their Neighbours the Armenians be. For comelinefs of Body, height of Spirit, and faith falincls in. Truff, they are in fach repure with the Perfirm; that they are employed in the greateft Commands againtt the Thilk, and the King bas the greatef number of lis Confelbafbes from them, it bcing feldom or never heard that any of them prowe falle, or having ferved the Perfian will rurn Turks.
Now concerning the armenians. They have their tir some- Name from their Councry inco Mafor-and Mimor. The leffer is part of Natoiac, and the greater lies berween Terearyon the North, Media and \(A \int\) yriaion the South and the Euxere and cespian Seas on the Eaft and Weft. It included anciendy Cotchri, Albanic, Iberic, EGc. which are now fivallowed up in che Cities of it axe Brembit, Affotica, Carcathocerta, Śr. and in the leffer Nifopplis, Cofarea, E'c.
They have two Patriarchs whorefide; the one ar \(\mathcal{F}\) f7im faien, and the other at Simal in drabic. They have 12 Titular Bilhops, who are very poor, tho that oughr not to render them defpicable. They honour much the three firt General Councils. They read the Old and New Teitaments in cheir Mother Tongue, and hare 2 Litany, part of which they Expound every Lord's-Day in the Church. They allow of two Sacraments only; and adminitter the Lord's Supper in both kinds, and deny the teal Prefence: They celebrate Baptifm after the Eurydin fort, as 7 acoleus Father of the \(\mathcal{F}\) acobites, and Fonnmes Patloprozus miltaught them; and moof of them follow the condemned Opinion of Neffori:ss, cncouraged by Correcs in bured opin or felyte Gentiles. or inftiometmus, they fign in rhe Forehead with burning Crofs, bur others they fign only with the Crols, as glorying in: that Hicrogypluck. which the Jeps and Mabometans cftem foignominiounty of." They arc grear Lovers of Tradition, and do nor pray for the Dcad, belic ving that they come not either into a State of Happinefs or Torment till the laft Juigricur. They abftain cycry Ycar.five Sabbaths from Fichn, Filh, Chece and Butter, in memory of thele fire Ages, in which their Gentil. Fórefathers facrificed their Children to the Dc:il.

They faft on EFrdncfdays and F idays cvery Wcek, ex. Thair Esh: cepr berwecn Eafter and Afcenfion, and are itrict Obfar Fers of lent, refraining from their Wires, as well as Fleh, Fifh, Milk, Eggs and Burcer, fecding upoi Oil Honcy; Datcs, Cucumbera, Herbs, Oic. and drinkins only Water; but at ocher tiancs cat Flefa of all fores; Pork ir felf not excepted, which they account a dainty Fare. Before the three grear Feftivals they fall twolve days.
They marry often 359 or 12 Years old, the Lait Ther: wice, and the Clergy bur once; but Trigany is hared riags by all. They honowr their Elders. Thi:y allow of no mages in Churches, and condemn the Gruek for doing the contrary, but have Images in their Houfes. Ther refpect the Crofs, but worthip is not. They do not beucre a Purgatory.. Their Churches are but mean. They pay Obcdience and Refpect to their Superiours, and punid. Thefr and Adultery. Yer they have fotseldolatrous Cuftorns among them, for ar their Burials they lead a amb withour blemith about the Church; which they after kill, and give to every one a bir, as a Symbol of Charity. On Geod-Fridey they reprefent the Butial and Dcath of Ourlord dicarrically, with forrow in their faces; and on Eafter-d.y they joufully celebrate the Refurcetion, with a reprefcnative Erody, ufirg she oll Salvo which the Grecke do, in the Morning, If is sivicra indeed. which they call an Angelical Note, and afer celebrate is as a great Fectival, the Mabomerans and jews not being allowed to mix with then. They faft upon the Naxivity. The fefiuts have been very iaduftrious to bring hem orer to the Roment Commanion, butstrain. Thes infit mpel2 upon Antiquicy, and have a Catalogue of Their ar 200 Bithops funce their Converfion, and fome of them quis. were noble Martyrs. The -trmeniens at this day are the greateft Travellers, Enft and Wet of any of the AC sicks, through a defire of Gain, and aftectation of Noveltics, their Country lying convenient for Navigation upoa the Cafpicn, Euxiche, and Mediterrancan Scas, anid the Palus Mroors; and tho' the Tuick and Pevfane ofen caufeleny quarrel with then, and domincer over them, yer chey are avcric to War.
learning is not dow in fo great repute as it was for- time sim merly, yer chey have Sch:ools and Univerfitios. They 11 have Draid's Pfalms, and rome other parts of H. Scripeure, S. Chiyffom, during his Banifiment from Confentizople into that Counary \(;\) as alfo che Works of Gremo Nin \(\tilde{T}^{\text {cenc }}\) and Cyril, trandated out of Gred into their own language. Their Alphabec confitis of 28 Letrers. The write from the Left Hand to the Right.. Their Lan- Temir Is. guage is rery difticult to learn, by realon of the hath grage. Afpirations.
 39 Min. Norchern Latitude, and 56 Deg. 30 Min. Lon- of Spuiziz. gitude. This Ciny is ancient, and in deveral Ages has charged her Name. Two thoufand three hundred Years ago it was called Dxra, then Hecatompulos, aficr Nymĩn menc.: Bca fonas calls it Afnbchen and Ac/ucthar, and Cluecrius Hagifan, and the Arabian Gcograpper Asbabemo. At chis day it is called by the Natives Splian-ban, İpaan Spalian, and Hifpelonn. This Ciry: is the Mcropolis: of the Perficr Monarcliy, and feared in the Parthent Territory (now called dyrac) in the middle of the Empire: Ir is in compars abour 9 Milcs, inclduing abour feven thouland Houfes, , which contain abour: two Gundred rioufand Souls ; of which, befides the Natives there are-Merchants of many Nations, as Engi:/F, Dutc: Portugucfe; Poles, Mufcozites, Indims, Arabians, Arm: nims, Geortians, Turks, \(\mathcal{F}\) ws, and others, drawn thither by topes of Gain. The Situation of is is pleafana, the Buildings neat, of which the Mydan, Meffuers, Hummums and Palaces; are moft obfervable;; rich in Trade and very full of People, as being the place of, the ufua Refidence of the Courr. The Airr is pure, quick and healthy, and the Soil is fruirfol, being Warexed by the River Sindery, which tho' fo wide in rainy Scafons as to require a Bridge of 35 Arches, yer in Summer is fo low and fhallow, (being drained by litele Rivolers to water the Gardens) that Children can wade over it; and after in has zone a few. Lengues further, it is drunk up by the rhirty Valleys, and peyer arives at the Ocean.

\section*{432 Sir Tho. Hetbert's 1 ravels into Alia and Africa, \(6 c\).}

The Mydan.
The Mydan is as fpacious and pleafant as any in the Univerfe ; it is a thouland paces from Norch to Sourth, and above rwo hundred from Eaft to Weft. The Building is of Sun-dried Brick, and full of Shops within fraught of fundry forts of Wares, arched abote in Cupulo's terrafs-wifc, and pargetred with bluc Plaifter, and being the noblett part, is placed in the heart of the City.
The Ring
p. Lace.
The King's Palace, called Chonna Pofthauth, joins is on the Weft-fide, which poffefes a large fpor of ground backward, but is cven with the orher Buildings in the trone ; it is pargerted and painted with blue and gold, cmbroider'd with Pocfies of Aralich, which after the cirecefo manner makes ir fhew very pleafant. Within the Rnoms are Arched, colightencd by Latrices, cmboffod above, and paineed with red, white, blue and gold, and on the fides with Sports and landskips; the Floors fricad with Carpets of Silk and Gold, withour other Furniture, rerraffed above, and garnilhed with a Tower over-ropping many Mofques. The Garden, or Wilder ncis, fragrant with Flowers, and full of Birds.
Within the Hipp-drome many of the Cavalry ufe to The Hipm
drome, \(t i d\)
fie firm of
is, F : B : 13 . ride, from whence they xepair to the Court-gate with their Lances in their Hands, and Swords and Quivers by their Sides, to attend the King, if he pleafeth to go abroad; if nor, after they have waited a while, they depart. The North tile of the Mydan hach 8 or 9 arched Rooms, uf aliy hung with Lamps and LattenCandilefticks, which make a great finw. Hither the Pcthaut,, and others, repair frequently for Paftime, as Tumbling, Slight of Hand, dancing Girls, and painted C.tramires.

As the fartheft ond North is the Mint, where they Cuin Gold, Silver and Brafs, and by it are Cooks Shops: Before the Kings Doors are 31 Demi-Cannons, and 12 Iron Culverins, brought thicher-from Otmus, or Enlylor.
Oppofite to the Palace is a fair Temple, or Jewma
the Mifaces. Machit, bui't round, but withun diftinguifhed inoolacs. The ourfide is Stone, and the infide is lined is foor high, with whice polified Marble-Cupulo's, and compaffed with Walls, and open to the Air, the Ines excepted which are corcred. In the Center is a large Tank of purc Watcr, and at the Portal another. The other Mofiges are much of the fame form, tho lefs fumpth:ous; and fome have dender high Sreeples, or Towers, terrafed near the top.
The Hummums in the City be many and beautiful, fome 4 fquare, but moft round; they are built for the mof part of whire Stone well polifhed, the Windows are large withour, bur narrow inwardly, and the Glafs thick and dark. The Roof is round; Tiled with counscrfeir Turquoifes, which is perfect blue, beautiful and lafting. The inlide is divided into many Cells, fome The Buths. for Delighr, others for Sweating; all for Ufe, for Bathing with the Perfians is as familiar as Eating and Drinking, and almoft as neceffary, becaufe they ufe much firting, and litcle Exercife. The Baths are of pure Stone, faved with black and chequer'd Marble. Men frequent thene in the Morming commonly, and Women in the Afserroon. The price for Bathing is very fmall, which makes them ute it oftner; fo that the Gain is great.

The l f.of Butha: g :
The City 5 : bathing is accounted a Catholicon againf moft Difcafes, efpecially Colds, Cararrhs, Flegm, Aches; Agues, the French-Pox, and the like. The City is built upon a Level ground, and in an Oval form, having many Strects, and fcarce any Houfe but is accommodated with Large Gardens full of Cyprefs-Trees. The City Wall is of no force againtt Cannon, but of ufe againft Horfe and Lances. Some Parapets and Bulwarks it has, but more for Ornament than Ufe, the Perfian being fo Magnimimous, as to Die rather than be Befieged. It has 12 Gares, but + of them are larely thut. The Padaces are few, low buitr. pargetred and painted withour, and gitt within, and spread with Carpers. They have all large Gardens beautified with Flowers, and plentifally Warered.
The Royal Seraglio is famous for the Treafure and Beauties it contains; but fince 'tis dangerous to inquire into thern, little can be fuid of them, The Cafte is large, ftrongly Walled and Moated; made Defenfive with fome Picces of Brafs, but more by the Troops of Eunuchs who guard the Ladies. The Gardens, for Grandeur and Swoctnefs, excel all others in Afia; fo thit yon may call ir another Paradife.
At the Weft of Spnwbinon is the King's Garden, called Theringt
Fouddn. Nina-farech, which is very famous. From the Mydan you go to this Garden by Cherbaugh, through a Surcer wo Miles long, moft of the Way on borh fides being Garden-Walls; here and there adorncd with Summer-

Houfes, and planted all along with Chenaer-Trees, which ferve both for Shade and Ornamenr. Being come to the Garden Nazer-Farecb, you find it encompaffed with a Wall alour three Miles in Circuir, wide and well-builf. From North to South 'ris abo:it a thoufanid paces, and from Eaft ro Weft feven hundred, the Walks in 9 cafic Afcents paffing through is boch ways. In the middle of the Garden is a fracious Tank, having twelve equal fides of 5 . foor long fer out with leaden Pipes, thonfe: which \{pout up the Warer in iariety of Conceits. As the North-Gare is a Summer-Houfe erceted for Profpect and Pleafure, garnihthed without, and within divided into 6 Roans. The lower Rooms are adorned with Tanks of white Marble, and the higher Rooms are beaurificd with variety of landskips, which reprefenc their Manner of Sports, Hawking, Fifhing, Kiding Sheoring, Wreftiing, Courting, and other Fancies. The Roof upon the Parger is gilt and painted with blue, and orher Colours. This Garden is replenithed with Trees of all Korts for Medicine, Shade and Fruir, which are all fo green, fweer and pleafanr, that is may be termied the King's Paradife.
Monumens of Antiquity, in or about thisCity; arc ony thefe few, vit. Ruftan's Tomb almoft riuined and prefericd by y prelerved by Gowers Cabala : Derius (or Xerxers) Moune, a rifing Hill, where derxes ftood when he views ed his innumerable Army, and confidering thar none of them fhould be living in a few Years, wepr: Demanini Hills, through which albas, by the unfpeakable roil of 40 thoufand, and fometimes 100 thoufand Men, in 20 Pillars time forced a River to Spambanpn: A Column or fritime Pillar of Hcads of Men and Beafts, fain by Abbeas for their! Rebellion againft him; it exceeded the Steeples of many Mofques in Spabamn as firft, but now is much ruin'd. The Heads of Peafts are mingled with Mens, becauf the Mufti perfwaded albus to fpare the Men, thar fur vived the hear of his fury, and flay Beafts inftead of em.
Spiztjapm has many Suburbs, viz. Felpbry, Goiper-cbaur, Tre sturbe felphey is Governed by a peculiar Poteftare, an Armenien 1 . 74 mom Chriftian Prince, ftiled by them Hodge-Nazar, a Merhant by Profeffion, but having 2 Superincendenci over hem. He and bis Subjects enjoy frecdom of Confcience, bur for Money Matters, and Publick Taxes, are ar the fole difpofition of the King. The Inhabitants of this Suburb are reckon'd 10000 , and thefe in \(A\) ãm-abaut 4000 Families. They are habited like the Perfians, but have greyer Eycs, and brighter Hair. They are for the moft pars Merchancs, Factors for the King, who gencrally eizech cheir Eftares ar their Death, if they are rich. They profefs Chriftianity, taught them erroneount by Fccobus, the Sjrien Monothelite, and have two Patriarchs, one refiding in Felphoy, the other at Sis near Tharfus, and fumetimes at Ecmerfin. Gower-abaut, fo called from the Gorpers, who are Relicks of the ancient Perfinus, and inhabir there. The other Perfians contemn them, parely becaufe they are more ancient, and partly becaufe they thame their Idlenefs by their Induftry. They are Idolaters, and worthip the Sun, whom they call Mythra, but build no Temple to it, beraufe they fay no place is fufficient capacious enough for it. Their l.awgiver was zertooff, or Faroaffer, who firft raughr the Rerfians Magick and Judicial Aftrology. Thdir Flamens are a for of Platonifts, for tho they acknowledge many Crearures to be excellenr, yet they fay they are no way comparable to their Creator, who is the Center of all Perfection Neverthelefs they Deify an Elemental Fire, which they ray doch ncyer exinguifh. Their Marriages are the lame with the Indinn Perfees above related. In xcverence to the Fire they forbear to burn the Dead, as being Unclean things, but pur them into the hollow of a Tree, flanding upright, till their Obfervation releaferh hem; for if the Vultures pluck our the Righr Eye, then they conclude thar the Party's Soul is in Paradife, bur if they pull out the Left, than an Evil Spirit vexes him, and fo they Feaft or Faft as they think they have cautc. Thefe People are for the moft part Mechanicks, or Husbandmen, and very few Scholars or Merchants. Their Habit differs little from the common Mode, fave chat their Head-attire is after the Hyrcanian fathion. The Women Thew their Faces, and their Apparel and Hair is tinctur'd with yellow, and their Scarf is Flame-coloured, refembling the Sun their Deity. Many of chem, either out of Zeal or Poverty, go barefoor, uling neither Shoes nor Sandals.
The Porturuefe Friers, Cermelites and Aug:finizns, have two Houfes here, and their Chappels are nearly giti Firín and adorned with Organs, Alrars, Crucifixec, lmages, amovgh Candles, and other like Ornaments, with which they cndeavous
the 1
raw, lithe raw,
lifhed
Caufo Caunc
built a bog and \({ }^{2}\) had anc:
fix WI ley of 500 H
Abbar Foon, fomefe which whom with nor be ed Lol from \(G\) feated
feated
is ufua
nuts,
\(\stackrel{\text { Fro }}{ }\) Miles
fides fides h Pheafa
mof o Warer Water, wood Man,
atro Gber, abound very pla they for Hyrcani

\section*{Chap. X XII. Sir Tho Herbert's Travels into Afia and Africa, ©ic. 433}
endeavour to converr the Peopic to Popery, but the Ar mensans are rather Spectators than Auditors, and hate all Innovations, and the Pefians by their Principles contemn Images, yet are thele. Religious of great ufe to fend Incelligence to Goa, and other parts of Chriftemdom.
Leaving Spabaton, May 1. to go towards the Court, which lay ar Ahbaraff in Mozendrnm, 400 Miles diftant Northward from ir, they came to Reiz on Horfe-back and finding the weather intollerable hor, cravelled the reft of the way by Night, refrelhing themfelves by Day in Garavans-raws, where the Gmats were noc too troublefome.
From Reig they travelled firt to Sardaban, which is 16 Miles ; then to Wiromg, 27 Miles, where they refted.

Ncxt they came to Tamghovaut, an Houfe and Garden of the King's, which for beaury and fwectness, equals any in Parrbia, tho" "tis planted in a barren Soil; for it not only abounds with moft forss of Trees familiar to the Climate, but with Perfian. Fruirs and Flowers, viz. Pomegranarcs, Pcaches, Apricocks, Plums, Apples, Pears, Cherries, Chettnuts, damalk, red, and whitc Rofes, Tulips, and other Flowers in grear varicty, watered with Streams, beaucificd with artificial Grots, and having alfo Hummums of Stone, paved with white Marble.
delightul to the yicw being cmbors'd with Gold and painted with various Colours.
From hence they paifed firft to Bamf, and then to Obigarmy, two of thic King's Houfes, over an horpitable and fandy Defarr, icn Miles broad, bur an hundred long. The Ground is covered with a loofe and flying Sand, which being agitated by the Wind, moveslike Waves of the Sca, and overwhelms Paffengers, bur the dryefs of the Soil makes thefe Vapours nor very common.
The next Night they rode 21 Miles to Suffedap, and the Night following 3 c. ro Syacom, as a good Caravansraw, as the other was a bad one, made of white polifhed Stone. This laft Nights travel was upon a Stone Caufcy, broad enough for ten Horfes to go a-breaft, builtby extraordinary labour and expenfe, over a part of 2 boggy' great Defart, which will not bear Horre or Camel, unlefs on the Caufey, which thro drifts of Sand and Salr, Travellers fometimes mifs of, and fo perif. They bad the like Caufcy furcher in their Road for 22 Miles, till they came to the Borders of Old Parthin, where they pirched, and the next Night came to Gberi, which is 18 Miles, a pretty Lodge belonging to the King.
Here they met with fome of thofe Crears, or wandHabitation, but for Profir or Delight, remove from place to place, as Fancy and good Pafturage invices tlem, with all their Familics and Subftance in Waggons of fix. Wheels, two Srories high, covered with Felc.
Part of this Journcy lay chro' the Ryle Ca/pia, or Valley of Mount Taurrus, which is not more than four yards broad, and cighr Mileslong. This Pars a Thief with 500 Horfe, underrcok to keep againft all Commers in Abbas's Reign, to the grear forrow of the King of LarryFoon, and even abbas himfelf, but an Armenian, with fomefew Coofixl-Bnfoams, undertook the conqueft of them, which he effected by fingle Combare with the Thicf, whom be overcame and killing, by the help of the Ccofle-bafba's, fcattercd hisFollowers. Abbas was pleafed with the bravery of the Action, and rewarded him, but not being able to bear the Glory of it long, command ed Lollebeg to cut off his Head.
Their next Night's travel was to Halvary, 18 Miles from Gherz, a Village pretty woll built, and delightuilly feated by a fweer Rivuler, and on a pleafant Soil, which is unually green, and produceth plenty of Olives, Wallnuts, Whear, Wood, and ocher things.
From hence thicy rode the next Night to Perifcom, 20 Miles, where rhe King has an Houfe, and fometimes refides here for the conveniency of Hawking, becaufe Pheafants and ocher Game more abound here, than in moft other parts of Partific. This Town has very fweet Water, and flands ufon the Brow of a Hill very well wooded, but at this cime was governed by a corrapt Man, one Mahumed, who fought always to extort Bribes ever from Scrangers.
After two days ftay in Perifcom, they travelled to Gber, 24 long Miles, and the nexr Night to a Village abounding fo with Frogs, that their abode was unpleafant there chro' cheir loathfome noife.
Aliciar, 2 Miles further, was their next Manfion, 2 very pleafant place for Earth, Water, and Wood : Here they found ftore of Pheafancs, a Bird abounding inchefe Hysanian Towns, but originally proceeding from the River Phapis in Mingrelia, twhich. cmpties it felf inco he Euxine Seà, near Trapezond.

From thence they went to Necam; 25 miles, where Nienw. the King has an Houfe, and the other Buildings and Churches are like ours in Europ:- Here, as in fome other parts of Hyrcanic,they are exiccedingly peftered with Flecs and Gnars in Summer-time. The Ficids alfo are much feItered with Snakes, which will wind about thre Horfes Legs as they travel, but do no orthet hiarm.
Next Night they got to A/heraff, 2 City tipon the ifharaff Cof pi,tn Sea, where she Empet ur of Per/in was at that dofribeid. time, expecting the Engliß Embaffador. The Sultan of the Town with 50 Coofabuabaes, met the Embarfador three Miles from the Court, and brought him with his Artendants civilly into Afoaraff, bus the Cercmotny was far below the Stare of fo great a King, and we Perfon of the Embaffador, Alairraft is diftant about two miles fiom the Cafpien Sca, feared in a low Ground, furrounded with many falc Marfhes, and but meanly watered, with 2 fmall Spring only from che Moirttains of Tcurus.
She Groind is reafonably far, but nor well cultivated, the greareft patr of the Inhabitants being Soul-diers. There arc about diers. There are about 2000 Families in chis Town bur doubrlefs muft increare, becaufe the King begins to affect the place, and has newly built him a Palace there but not very large. The King has two other Palaces near, viar. as Farrabaut and Abaffibeut, whicre there is a Summer-houfe, cxcelling all his culhers for Profpect Paincings; Hummums, Warcr-works; and a Forrett ftored with all forts of Gainc. The Palace here is no very regular, but rather confuredly divides is ielf into our Mohuls or Banqueting houfes, which be gorgeouly painted, and were they united, they would more deight the Eyc. From them you have a pleafant profpect into the Cafpian Sea, and may lee Mount Taurus as a diffance. The Palace looks diffance. The Palace looks into very pleafant Gar-
The Bazar is but ordinary, and the Machits not to be admired: The Chambers of the Palace are large and Square, the Roofs arched and richly guilded, the Ground is fpriad with Carpers of Silk and Cold: In the midit Flagons, Cilterns, and other Velfels of abour them which are fomet, and other velrels of Masig-Gold, Perfumes, Wine, Rofe-warer, Flowers
This City lies in H
callit, Mozendrem, which is a Country in moft places Mozanitianti. of a good Soil and Clime, abounding in Grafs; Fruit, Corn, Flowers, Ơc, and having Caitle in grear plexty, moreover for their manner of Hubbandry, Buildings and Civility, more refembling Europe than any uther part of Afia. The Goodnefs of the Soil is much bertered by the many Rivers and Rivolets, which \{pringing from Miouns Tcurus, water the whole Country, and empry themfelves into the Cafpian Sea, fuch as Cyrus and Cambyes, which gavetwo Kings cheirname, Araxy, Obfel, Comnec, Mazeres, Bundana, Hydiro, Aragus, and others. This Country in ancient times fo abounded with Wood, thar ir was called Sylva Hyrcamia, and nourificd feveral forts of noxious reatures, as Snakes, Lions, Foxes, Wild-Cats; Boars; and Tygers, inftead of which, now thicre is plenty of Cows, Buffalo's, Horfes, Camels, Sheep, Mules, Deer red and fallow, Antelopes, Hogs, Goass, and other Bealts, as allo Birds, Hens, Phefants, Parridges, Nightingales, Pouts, Quails, Wood-cocks. Thrufhes, and other Birds: and Finh, as Scurgeon, Mullet, Muffels; Dog-filh, Tunnyes, and others: Ir produces all forts of

Amo. \(\quad\) Trees that grow here, which are Oik, The Graind Elm, Allywulberryes, and the like, there is one thar and Triers diftils a Juice fweer like Honcy, which is called Occibus. The chief Towns of this Councry are Firrabaur, Abseraff, Abafcebrus, Perifon, Omoal, Barfrufblea; Chacopero, Caban, Baldith, Baedæ̈, Daralricr, Dengec, Sumachy Eren, and Baclou, nigh which laft is a Spring of that rare kind of Oyl, or clammy Subftance, called \(N \cdot f t\) or Neptri, which will take firefrom the Sun-beams, or other heat. If it be not the fame mentioned 2 Maccl. I. 36 , Aphria are ris muchlike ic. Near Chacoporo allo is a Spring, whofe Water is fivect and profitable for eleven Months in the Year, but one Month is fo brackifh, that is is unfir bort for drinking and dreffing Meat:The Natives here for the moft part are exceeding courteous to Strangers, and hofpitable, induftrious in Hufbandry. They have a Dialect of their own, but fpeak Perfian for the moit part; tho imperfettys.
The Tapiri inhabited bete of old, who had a Cuftom the tipnit after they had three or four Children, to lend their Wives to their Neighbours to brecd on, to which the Women as willing condefcended; a Cuftom now abro-

KKk
gate \({ }^{\text {a }}\),

\section*{434 Sir Tho. Herbert's 1 ravels into Afia and Africa, \({ }^{(O c}\) c.}
made defenfive by regular Fortifications: the Circuit of the Wall is three Milos, and affords a profpect to the Cafpian Sca. Ir is fituate in that prat of Armenia the Great, which is now called Fiurin and Myral, but silbanin of old, in 4 D Deg. is Min. Northern Latimute Ir ftands in the Confines of the Turl: \(\mathrm{S}_{\mathrm{S}}\) and Perfian Do minions, and fo has been ofren the Subject of Conenthon between chofe two mighty Prinies.
Twixt A/tracan and Derlent is the noted Emporium called Ara/b, becaufe the River Araxes waters it, where fuch an abundance of Silk is bred and fold, that fome think it the Repio Scrica; and indeed many Came load are carried from here unto Cafhan, where the Manufactures of Carpecting and other Silhen-fluffs are made in perfcction, much ro che advantage of the Town. At this place alfo is ftore of Corton-wool and Galls, which Merchanrs valuc, and of Piftachocs, Pomegranares, Grapes, Mclens, Oranges, and other' Fruiss liked by Travellers, in great abundance.
From hence to \(\operatorname{li}\) tis, a fmall Town, yct thought confiderable cnough'by Geographers to give the Culpian Sca the name of Mare de Beciotn, is 18 'Englift Mi'cs. Near this place is a Spring, out of which the Inhabitanes oyl in filh a blackim Oyh, which ferves for I amps and other ourofa Houthold-ufes, and has no offentive finell.
Thence to bilditi, is 14 Miles, thro' a level and fruifful Country, watered by grexes and Cyrus.

From hence the way lay be the Sea-fide to Claceporo 2 miles from Ferral.ase. This Town lies by a Beat of chapery the Sea, which cofts the Inhabitants forne charge of guard themfelves againft. Here is a River which is falt one Month in the Year, bur the Reafon is nor known.
The nexx Town they came to was Barfrufoder, a large Bufrpat Town, well built and peopied, trading in Silk-worms, and having plenty of Wood and Watcr. The lihabitants deligheed much in Archery, an Exercire long ufed here; on the North fide of Mounr Taurus, and inhabired by 3000 Families, but a mixture of feveral Nations, 3000 Families, but a mixturc of feveral Nations, Armenians, Scrinians, Perficns, and 7 crss, Curds Bans nians, Scythians, Perfians, and 7 cws, Curds, Banjans, InLanguages wn Forms, and having ady togerher, all molerating this baths; for the Bamians keep Tturfiaj, the Rerfans saztuint Friden, the \(\mathcal{F c w s}\) Saturdit, the Armenians Sunder, the Wext, Peguans Mumday, the Goosers and Curds, or Fire-worhippers, Tucfday, and if the Sc;ehians beyond Bociar wer there, they might complear the Week. The Town is built in a large Level, bur withal upon a very pleafant and fruisful Soil; the Buildings are ruinous, bur thew fome figns of Greatnefs. The Cainte is fair and ttrong, being fortificd wich a decp Moar or Trench, full of Waters, which ferves to defend them from Infules of the Mountainecrs of Taurus. Moft of the Houfes have Gardens to them. The Cathedral or \(\bar{f}\) cume Moickit, is noft noted, in which they fay, there are \(4+4\) Frinces and Prophets contombed, which raife veneration amonig the People, and admiration among Paffengers; ctpccially that of Mecr ascmomedicen, to which they cheerfully ofice the Myfteries of their Religion, and perform their Fuseral Rites: Rites:
From Omoal rhey travelled to Lemr-folm, or fom, 30 Miles, whore Mount Tiurus bounds the Kingdom of Lamim Hyrcamia: This Mountain is reputed the greateft in all the World, borth forlength and height; for it reacheth in length 3000 milies, from the leffer Afia to the fartheft parss of Eaff-India, and it is fo high, that its top mounts a good way up into the middle Region, leaving the Clonds a great way below, as fuch who bave arg the it, do witnefs. From the top of this Mountain you have a Profpect Northward of a part of Ta tary, which \(\boldsymbol{T}_{\text {meg }}\) is Tolarge a Country, that it not only contains a third difctibed part of Afia, but extends in felf Eaftward a grear way in Europe. It is divided into Sarmatia, Afaticn, Softibi, and Catbria; or as others, into 1. Tertary the old, 2 Zacathai within Imaus, 3. Cathai without Imaus, 4 Sarmatia Afarica, and 5. Tartary the lefs. Their Name in Hebrew imports 2 Remnant or fcatcered Gencration, as they really are, for they have no certain Habiration, but are ever wandring to and fro, they farce know whither, their wealth wholly confifting in their Cattlc.
Polygamy they allow, and in their Marriages abtain only from Mochers and Sifters: A fierce, perfidious and pollownes crafty People, expcri in Riding, Darting, and Rumning, altogether barbarous, unlefs at Tarction, where Comnerce bartaught them a lirtle Civility. They feldom eat Bread, for Mares Milk; Fleh balf boiled, foure Milk and Herbs are the greareft Daincies.

arto di.

Polygint
ilowzi.

gated, but not wholly left. The Country is Champion, but inclofed near the Towns. The Paftures xte full of Snakes, and Woods of large Mulberry-Trees, which Feed the Silk-worms, about which the People employ therrfelves. This Worm came into Perfin from. the Scres, or Regio Serica, in Scythia, towards Iud.jfan:: Theif Worins producc the Perfinn King 7600 Batmans of raw Silk yearly, which, they day, will be of that colour you lay before the Worm commonly; tho it is ufually white green, ycliow, or Sand-colour Upon Wriffunday they left MBeraff, and came to Terrabrut, five Miles from it, and lying South-Eaft of the Cefpian Sea. The Situation of this City is flat, the Soil rich, and beaucified with Gardens full of Fruit, watered with a River of fweet water 40 Paces broad which Springing from Mount Truris, incorporates here with the Cafpiari Sca. The Air is nor fo purchere as it is higher up che Counrry. Inftead of Walls it has a decp Moat, the Banks of which are planted with Willows and other Trees for Shade and Ornament. The Houfes are not flat above, according to the Perfian way, but the foof is harp, and tilect as ours in England, and the Windows are glazed. This Town has about 3000 Familics, the Strects are broad cnough, but not regular. The Mofyue is bur ordinary, and the two Buzars not fingular. Moit Houfcs have thcir Gardens, and fome reach down to the Cafpian Sca. The King's Houfe' at the North end of the Town is of moft note. From the Jalconics of it you have a fine profpect on to the Sea. it has two large Courts, diffinguifhd into Knors and Grals-plats, which fo abound with Flowers and Trees, as if they would furfeir the Senfes with delight. The Houfs is 1pacious, bur low, the Rooms are high, bur fo long, that they refemble Gallerics. Thiree of the Chanbers aremoft richly furnifted with Scilings well painted, and embuffed wirh Gold, Looking-glates on mented with Gold. The Floors new laid with 'Yelvet, and Carpets of Cloath of Gold.
The Cafpian Sea, which lies near this Ciry, is deferhas this wonderful in it, That tho it xeccives many great Rivers ineo it, and has no vifible vent, yer is never overLows the Banks. In is \(j 000\) Miles in circumference, and the flazec and figure of it is oval: from North to South 'ris 600 Miles in Diamerer: 'tis Challow by the Shoar, and full of quick-fands; but more off ar Sca, 'tis deep plenty, and efpecially for Caveare and Porargo, which are made, the one of the Row of Sturgeon, and the ocher of the Mullets, and for Salt, which they make there of the Salt-water, and vend in grear quantities.

Fige dsf.
Six Leagues from Aftracan muns the great River Votga, or Wrige, which fprings out of a Mountain abour an hundred Miles fion Teralceve in Ruflia, in 60 Deg. Northern latitude, and after 2000 Miles Courfe, difgorges it folf at leveral Mouths near this Ine into the Cafpian Were the depth of this River anfwerable to its breadth, is would afford an cafie Paflage into Pcrfira and the Indics.

Derbent is a Poft-Town upon the Cafpicn-Shoar of grear ftrctgth, and no lefs Antiquiry, being founded, as is faid, by dexander the Great, who allo esected the grear and fircag Caftle of K4fow adjoining: This Town sor trade, is nor inferiour to any otber upon that Sea, which makcs, it rich and populous. Itis a Garrifon, and the fides, and Mufcuian Glats in large clear Panes, cevedly reckoned one of the Wonders of the World: for -greatnefs, tafte, and colour it refembles the Ocean, but and unfathomable. Upon the Norm it has a part of Tariery, called Nagay, on the Eaft Ningathas, on the South Iry cania, and on the. Wct Media and Armenia, furrounded with lofty Hills, furnifhed with Filh, and upon the Shoar hath many Towns weil-peopled, and traded to by many Nations. Tis thoughr chat it hath fome fecret courfe with the Enxine, and fo much the rather, becaufethat Sea hath a Current Flux xunning from the Eaftern Shoar, which is nigheft the Cafpian, towards the Tb:acism Bofpborus. The ebbing and flowing, if any, is farce difcernable in this Sea. Ships in eighr days will crofs this Sea from Forrabaut, or Dervent, to Aftracer, if che Winds be favourable.
This Town and Ine lies in 47 Degrees of Northern Lasitude, is feared upon a rifing Ground, and has a line about it for defence, and upon the Works fome Pieces of Cannon mounted. The Houfes are not many; nor well built, bur fufficiently peopled; for altho' the Soil be barren, and Air bad, yer fuch is the Defire of Gain, that it is much reforted to by the Merchantore feveral Couniries, who trade thither for Furs of \({ }^{2}\) Sable; Woolverin, Ermyn, Lufern, Miniver, Bever, O, wiz, quirel and the like, which are brought thither out of Rufter and ferirary, as alfo for Filh, which the Sca produces in grear

About the Ycar 1200 they received Mathomet's DoCtrine, yet have many Fews among them, and fome Hoords profefs Chrift, tho infected with Neftoxious Herely abour two Natures in him. The Mu/covites have inuroduced Iminge-worihip a monget them, yet only in painc, and not in Sculpture, which laft they think violates the Cormmandment only. The reft are Gentiles:
Zagatbai comprehends Merginnn, Sogdiana and Baceria Mergiana is a Country fo fruifful for Cornand Wine, that as Stralo reports, one bunch of Grapes prefented to Alexander, fillod a Balket a Yard round. The Pacriarch Noash is raid to have planted here after he forfook the Ark, and in his Mcmory was the City Ny \(/ f_{a}\) or Noy \(/ f\) built, and from hence Nimrod, and the reft of the Builders of Babel being defeated in their Attempr by the confufion of Tongues, difperfod themfelves into feveral parts of the Earth Sagriann adjoins this Province, watcred by the River Orcus or'Nycaplotac: It was the Boundary of the Rerfian and Afyrian Monarchy. From ic at feveral times have iffucd our fuch fwarms of the Reople, as have well-nigh orer-ipread the Univeric.
Betiria has Mergirne on the Weft, Sordiannand the River Oxts on the Eaft and North, and Arin, with part of Paropoiniffe onche South, and is now known by the Name of Corazan.
Samerchend in former Ages was notonly famous fur being the chicf Mart both of this and all other Counerics thereabouts, but for being the birch and burial-place of Tamerlene, thar great Victor, who fubducd more Nations in 8, thari the Romans did in 800 Years, but'cis now a poor piace, and gives precedence se Bocbrer, the Birshplace of the great Naturalift Aricenna.
Aria; now called Heri, had a Governour of its own Sha-Ablas. Eri is che principal. Town of ir, and is three Murnines abot. It abounds fo much with Rofes, that it furnifhes all the Country round about with Rofe-water; much cxcelling ours in Europe for \{weenels, which they ufe in Sherbets, Banquets, and Entertainments, to per fume the Floors they fit on, and places.
In thefe parts alfolies Tochariffan, from Tocliara: It is she Original Seat of Torcis, the Pofterity of Togarmach, the Son of Comer, a People nor appearing in the World till roufed by Hercclius, in his long and fiexce War with Cofroesthe Perfian, and not till 200 Years after, breaking thro' the in part of arme called 1 arcin ved Mabomet, Sultann of Perfit, againft the Calyph of Begant, bur. bcing abufed by his Caprain Tangrolipix made themfelves Mafters of Perficm Rabbi: Ben Fonas fays, that the \(\mathcal{F}\) ews carricd captive by Salmaneffer, affociThiturfijp a.cd chemfelves with theic Forecs of Nisapire. They Eminh how wore not heard of in Eurcpe, till the Year 1200, and the nild Foundation of their vaft Empire was nor laid till 1300 , when Ortomen, the Head of the Ogurinn Family, having conquered Pontus and Bitinnic, now called Burfic, and othex parts of Natolia, left fo great an Army to Orcben his Son, thar he ventured over into Europe; and fince, his Succeffors under three Princes and cleven Emperours wirhin the face of 300 Years, have enlarged their Dominions over much of Afrisk, more of Eurcpe, and moft of Afia The moft confiderable Towns are Tuzin, the great Birth-place of Nanarradyn, the grear Mathematician, Gelack and oth Commentator upon Eucria, S.archans, maus. There is a pars of this Country called Mautenibar, which hath to the Souch theRiver of Githon or Febun, and to the South-calt Garneber, a large, bur defolate Country now, tho' once fo well govemed by the Gentiles, thar they punilhed Murder, Thefr, and Adultery, and difallowed Idol-worhip.
risorpiers More Northrie Scrthiensbeyond Imaus intabit. Their Councry was of old called tha Regio Sirico, by reafon of the abundance of Silk and excellens. Tapeftry and Carpeting there found.
Momiarut Concerning Mount Taurus, the things moft memorable ducribed, are, I. The Pytec of Idol-fire, which (according to thei Tradition) has conrinued uncxinguifhed for full 50 Generations. The Fane is round, reprefenting Eternity in the midft an Altar raifed s Sreps from the Ground under which the Fire was placed within a Trench, which they worthipped with Divine Honour, and facrificed not only Children, but Men init. 2. The Meleike Babaman, who commanded many Hills and Dales in thar Mountain, with mutual Love between him and his Subjects tho' envied boch by Tartars and perizins. Abbas having conquered Mozendram, refolved to be no longer bearded with this Mountainous King, who pricd, as he pretended, into his Affairs, and to that end fent Methicul:beg with 30000 Men againft it, bur when all warlike Attempts proped in vain, by Falfenefs, Oaths and Trea chery; he drew the Old King, and his tivec hopeful Sons, to a Banquet, where chey perilthed ; and fo Ablem gained his Poffeffions and Kingdom. 3: The high Peak of Damonn', whofe rop, like a thaped Pyramil, furmounts all other parts of Taurus, from it the CafpianSca tho ar Eightfcore Miles diffance, is very vifible. At the rop is is compored of Shulphur, which caufes is to fparkle like Efna, and yields a plicalant Object to the Eyc; tho' it offinds the Nofe. Moft parts of Perfia and sifia, are furninged with Brimitone from hence. The Sulphureous Veins in this Mouncain produce hot Bathe, whirth are wonderfully flocked to in Ayguft by difeafed Pcople; nor only from feveral Parts of Perfia., but of other tenote Countrics, and they receive from them notahle Cures. Three of them are compaffed with Walls for he Nobility, and the other two are open for all The \(\mathcal{F}\) cws inhabic abour this Mountain in great Mul titudes, affering, That they were ferted hicre by \(s \frac{l}{l}\) mancffr, A. M. 3220 . as is foricd, 2 Kinss 17.6 . Thefe Fcws will necds have in, that Nonil's Ark refted upon this Pique of Tatrus, and not upon that which is nearer Armenic called Baris, which fignifies a Ship, as if is rerained the Name of thar Accidenr; for as to the Name of Ararat, that and Caucnfus, and Taurus, are all the Names of this Ridge of Mountains, which environ the Cafpian Sca.
Eaft of this high Peak is a Town called Nour, in N: which. are about an hundred Familics, and hard liy, is Damaon; by the fews called Fchud; it is a Town of goo: repute among the Perfinns. It is fituate in 36 Dcg .20 Min. Northern Latitude, and 83 Dcg: Longirude. It is included in a Skitt of Taurus, and is the utmoft Limit of Medin to the North. It is watered by a branch of 0 .ter. Herc are 200 Families of fcws. The Bazar is buil: high; and Wine and Fruits are fold there at calis pricse, ceaule very plentiful.
From hence they went to Bomabcen, in the ancient Eumakemm Medin, a Province fituate in the Center of Afin, and accounted a rich and noble Country.
The Grecks fay it takes its Name from Medus, the Son meti., ter of Fefon and Mcdsa, bur the Licberews more truly from srixad: Madat, Fapber's third Son. It was anciencly divided ino the Greater and Lefs, but now into Ghey!en, Dilen, aaz-pracen, which are the Leffer Medir; and fiderbry , Harran, Sultenian and Trabrizasen, which is the Greater Media. It has Mount Taurus on the Nosth, Partbia.cn the South, BaArin on the Eaft, and Armenia, and parc of Afyrir, on the Wcft: A rich and puiffant Country in the World's Infancy, bur now barten and miferable, yer Camels and Dromedaries make a thift to live upon the Sandy Plains, upon the Boughs of Trees and Shrubs, hich they rarely meet wich.
Thefe Beafts are of one Defcenr, and vary according to the Countries they breed in. In Bratia and Porfit they have bur one bunch, bur in Arabia two. In Rur ang-time the Males are mad, yct will nor Couple with any but their Conforr, and this they do backward. The Female carries her Burden 20 Months, and Suckles her Young one (for thcy commonly have bur one ac a Birth) wo Years, nor lofing her Milk by a ficond Concepricn. They live 60 Xears, labour much, ear litcle, refrain Drink three days, but then drink immeafurably. Their Milk is cordial, and their Flelh rank and lean, yer in Afin preferr'd before Beef, Veal, or Pork, becaufe the Alcoran commends is to them.
From Bomabeen they rravell'd to Tyrocn, 2 Town of groan Tome Greaneff and Antiquity, feated in the midit of a arge Plain. The Air is remperate in the Morning, and ar Night, bur at. Noon very hot. TheHoufes are made of white Bricks hardned by the Snn, and are computed a be about 3000 , of which the Bazar and Duke's PaA Rive the faircht, but neither of them to be admired: A Rivolet in two Branches runs through the Town, maang the Groves and Gardens very verdent and fruitful. The King has a Garden ncar the Town as large as the City. The Mafters of Families lodge with their Concubines, fome 3 , Come 6 , upon the tops of their Houfes. The Caravans-raw exceeds che Morque for elegancy: The Gordong" Inhabitanes are ttately, and the Women lovely, boch \(r_{0}\) Fig. 6. defirous of Novelties. Tyrcan ftands in 35 Deg. 40 Min . Northern Longitude, and 80 Latitude.
From Troan they rravelld to Cbarra, a place for the calding Sand and frying Sun Inhofpitable, neverchelefs, herefofore of fome repure; when called K Kr , or Chyr , and gave Name to the Counnry round abour.' Here the AJjrian Prince Figlath-Pylefer fettled the Inhabitants of Damafcus, 2 Kings 16.19. From hence to Tauris is two day's riding. This City is che Metropolis of Medic, ficuate in that part of it which is called Atropasia, now Taberit , or Teveris. In Scripture it is called Achmetha.

KKk 2
and

436 Sir Tho. Herbert's \(\%\) ravels into Afia and Africa, (oc. Lib. III.
and Eedur, m, by which Name it was molt famous, and was 16 Miles abour, having Walls ftrong and ftarely, 70 Cubits high and 50 broad, beautified with many lofsy Turters and batelemeners. In is were many noble palaics, and the chicfeft of them was that which Deniel buite, made afierwards the Matyoleum of the Median Nings; and next the Palace of Darius, buils of Cedar, -he Koof being ftudded and plaited with burnifhed Gold, but now there are no Remains of them, Now ic is a City large and populous, famous for an In-land Trade, and fo well governed, tho there is a Garrifon kepr in it, that Mexchanss may rraffick there withour fear or danger. It is lituare near a part of Taurus called Baronfa. It is compallicd with \(x\) Mud Wall s Miles about. The Houfes after the commion Mode are flac a top, and buile of Sundried Bricks. The Bazar is large, and Gardens lovely, efpecially that planted by King Tamas, whinch is now rurncd inro a Patture for Horfes. If is badly supplied with freth Water. Ic was a long time a Sear of War, betwen the Tarks and Pc Jians. Selini, A. D. 15 x. . Sent an Army againt it under a Baina chat ranfack'd is; and Solymen, in \(15 \hat{y}^{\circ}\). pillaged is, and burne it \(;\) and when it began a litrle to revirc, \(0 \rightarrow\) man, in 1585 . utterly ruined recovering it from the Tuk ks, to whom he gave a notable Overthrow betwixs this City and Ardavil, rebuilr and fortificd ir, and Sir-dibens compleared iss Grandeur in 1619, which is now enjoys under the Perfian Govern\(\because\) ment.

Three days Journcy from hence is Sumachy, or Shamakic, a Town confifing of 4000 Houfes, well Pcopicd, and nuch reforted to by the Ruffian and Armenisn Merchants: In lics in 39 Dcg. Northern Latitude. Ncar the Town is a Fountain, of Spring, which fends forth a Liquor thick and clammy like Tar. From hence they traicll'd to Sang:irctint, a Town of about 100 Cortiges and fo to Shant-lce; i. c. the King's Town. The People dwall hers in Cotrages like Orens, to helter themfelves from the foalding Sun. In probability, this was the Land of Nood, i.c. Cain's banilhment from the prefence Enoch is? no now to be found here, yet the Mountains Enochi, a part of Taturs, niew fome foodteps of ir.
From hence they halted to Casbyn, or as the Perfans pronounce it; Ka \({ }^{\text {ving; }}\); it was ancicntly called Arfacea, from Arfaces, the Founder of the Median Empire. It is likely this was Rages, mentioned in Tobit. In lies in 36 Longitude. It was made the Metropolis of the Rerfisn Monarchy by King Tamas, to confront ihe Oetoman Kings. In ftands in Mhedin, in the Province of Sbeiroan. Ir is at this day, for multitude of Buildings and Intizbitants, the chief Ciry in Media, and equals any other Ciry in the Perfian. Empire, except Spahawn. It is feared in a large Champion, which yiclds fore of Grain and Grapes, bue litule Wood. Herc Epleffion, Alcxander's Favourite, wastburied, but his fumpruous Monument is devoured by /ime. If is watered by a fmall River, which helps the Induftry of the Inhabitants, fo that the Soil produces an abundance of Rice, Roors, Fruits and Flowers, in variery, for they have an Art here of drawing Rivers into Subremaneous Channcls. Here are many plearant Gardens, which bear many forts of Fruit, as Grapes, Oranges, Limes, Limons, Pomcitrons, Musk, Warer-Melous, Plums, Cherrics, Peaches, Apricocks, Figst Goofeberries, Pears, Apples, Piftachoes, Filberds, Hazle-nurs, Wall-nurs, Almonds and Pomeranates, This Ciry is compaffed with 2 Wall about 7 Miles in circuit which contains about twenty thou fand Families in them, and near 200 thoufand reople. The Bazar is large and pleafant, the Mcidan uniform and beautiful; and the King's Palace and Haram low, bur built of raw Bricks, varnimed within, and painted atter the Perfian Cutom, the ground being fpread with rich Carpets. Near the Palace-Gate is a great Tank of Water made atche Common Charge. The Hummums are many, and, handfomIy adorned with azure Tiles and pargetting. The Common Buildings content the Inhabitants, buc bave nothing of admiration. The Gardens are many and large, but not to be compared with thofe of Spabisoin and Siyraz. The Mofques are neither fo high, nor curinus in Architecture, por glorious within, as in many leffer Tovens, tho' they exceed in number. The Air in che Spring is temperate and plealant, buc in the Summer exceeding hor, and in Wiarer as cold. Sir Rubeit Sherlog, and Sir Duimore Corton, the two Enfili Embaffadors, with whom Sir Tho. Herlers travelled, died, and werc bury'd in chis City ; fo chat his Recinue were foriced to ger a Phiman; or Pals-port, for their fafe paffige homeward, before they could travel farthor, which by Imporrunity, and

\section*{dancing a long Attendance upion Mabamet-Ally-ber, the King of Perfin's Favourits, they hardly obtaince, and is was to this cffect :}
- The High and Mighry Star, whofe Head is co. The form of vered with the Sun, whofe Motion is compa-a Rainpott. : rable to the Firmament, whofe Imperial Ma" jefty is come from A/beraffe, and hath dif " parched the Lord Embalfador of the Einglifh *King, Era The Command of the Great King © is, That his Followers be Conducted from - Our Palace of Cazlin to Samay, by che Darr-- griod of Samay, to the City of Coom, and by - the Sultan of Coom to the City of Cafbrn, E'G * through all my Territorics. Fail not my Command. I alfo Command thern a Safe cravel. Fuly Belymen Heg, \(\mathbf{j o o 8 ,}\)
With this Leave, Sir Tho. Herbert and his Company Ieft Casbyn ty Nighr, to a yoid the hear of the Sun, and came by Pcrifoplioon, Afaph and Brgun, where there is a Royal Caravans-raw, of Horpital of Charity, built by King Tamas, in evcry thing convenient, but wanting good Warcr, to Satiocy, a Town both great and fruifful, of Old called \(\bar{i}\) cffrbartba, or Ortacma. It lies in 35 Dcg 7 Min. Northern Longirude. It is pleafiantly firuared Lribed. upon a rifing Hill, having twelve hundred Houfes, and refrefled with a pleafant Rivoler from the Mountain Ban rontr, which makes the Earch fruicful in variety of Grain, as Whear, Rice, Barlcr, Figs, Pomgranarcis Olives, and Honcy. The Birds here make fuch fween Mufick, efpecially the Nightingales, that they much advance the delight of the place. From hence they pafied over certain Plains full of Artificial Mounts and Trenches, where Lucullus and Mifiridatcs encamped cheir Armies, but the Learnct King became a Caprive to the Roman, and came to Coom. This City is fituate in 34 Deg. 40 Min. Northern Latirade, and is at this dir Conmaces. City of great Norc in Parfax. If was anciently called. Arlinita, and was one of the four bett Citics of the Empirc, equal to Babylon, if thicir Tradition be rrac, being ar leaft so Maics in compals, whercas Bulylon is faid to be bus 60, and Rome so Miles round. It his fereral Names; as Coinn, Kcm, Kmic, Como and Comr. It is finare in a large and delightful Plain, the Conntry round abour, for fome Miles, being very fruitful, and air fwecr, never over hor or foggy, refrethed with contimual Breczes, and cool Gardens; which nor only afford thadow, bur delicious Fruits, oi2. Grapes, Pomgranates; Melons of all forts, Pomcirrons, Apricocks; Plums, Pcars, Piftacho's, Almonds, Apples, Qainces; Cherries; Figs; Wallnuts, Small-nurs, Peaches, Berries, and the beit Whar in Perfic, exceprchat of Gtmbracellello. In has about 2000 Houles, moft of than more than cummon Structures, well built, formed and furninhed, and Surects fpacious. The Bazar is beaudiful, but the City is unwalled. The Moique is famous and venerable, richly adomed, and bautified by the enthrining of the Body of Firime, Mortis-Ally's Wife, and their Propher Malbomer's Hcits. The Mofque is of the Epirnrick form, the Tomb is three Yards high, covered with Velver, and the Afcent is by three or four fteps of refined Silver. From Ccorn they role to \(\mathfrak{n}\) enzen, of Old called Zoarr, and To to Caftre which is 36 Miles; the Way is eafic and plain, sho fandy.
Cafhan ftands in 34 Deg. 7 Min. Northern Latimde. It may wortbily be repared the fecond City in Parthia colmm. for Grandeur, Wealth and Beauty. It is a City bothroibuch grear, losely and ancient, well feated, comely buids, and abundandy Pcopled, bur sery hot, and incommoded with Scorpions, which breed in grear Numbers herebouts. It is a litileSexpent, a Finger long, which alone soppir tings wirh the cail, but fo venomous is its Scing, that theirstig. many dic of the wound, and few cecape Madneis for a and a Rescr day at leaft. The beft Remedy againft it is Oil of Scor- dy maxat pions applied to ir, and Bleeding. This Noble Ciry is bout as big as Yurk, and contains near 4000 Families. The Houres are fairly built, pargetred and painted without; the Morques and Hummums curioully adorned with Cupulo's; blue like Tarquoifes. The Bazar is fracious and uniform, furnilhed with Silks, Damasks; and Carpers of Silk and Gold, and ftore of Spices, and orher Merchandize. The People are Indultrious, Civil, Active, rrim and near in their Arrire, yet being nerer Idle, work abundance of Satrins, Silk, and Cloch of Gold. They have a lingular Arrin Dying Silks with curious Colours, Ataining Imen Cloths like che Indian Pantadoís, and making lively Flowers and Knors apon Learher. Nor are places for Pleafure wancing. bhaving Gardens which abound with Fruirs, and Ficlds yieldiurs pleary of Corn, being Tilled by the Laborious Tymars
The Caravans-raw in this City is the Nobleft in all thicurith P'erfia, \({ }^{\text {ra* }}\) pirfia; b greateft grearet
above gT
Brick paa - Arabick laid in O fett Qua the midd arc adde dition, to adore and tho \({ }^{\circ}\)
Milcs fro in the ne is called Darius Hills, fr
the adjay
Fromit Biliglon, is nothit Coromon-perficm
by Xcnopl
Concayc Men, El Of Bn
memorab under the Country
plarates, was afte
To the \(E\) and the \(S\) from the thole pre udaciou:
thould re them to 5000 pac unfinifhed
But N ed Neighl dying, w:
dying, w
Bcius, Governme Name of man in Scripcu byr, Arcbi verfal Mor Tigris, be rex by Ned Afrer his and dedi and Rbca somen. ed in it to This Vira the Empir ganr Gard at Babylon, rmated E oxiziks that we re in Babyion, 25 in thicl inplucs the Tigris Palaces on tending 30 fed with a was the no ty; of blas every fide: another e rofe: At nitionple nous Bed three gold Ops, i, e Staruc beir thefe thole whole was out of Gree the bortom aboye. St buile a Wa in height \(s\) Batilement

\section*{}
pirfit; being large enough to lodge the Court of the greareft Prince in Afic. The Foundation, rifing 6 foot above gronnd, is Marble, and the Saperftructure dried Brick pargetted, and adorned' with knots and fancies in Acafick Charaeters, in azure, red, and' white Colours, laid in Oil, after the maniner of thic Romans. It is a perfett Quadrant, and every fide is 200 paces, and tias in the middte a fyuare Tank of excellene Water, and to it are added noble Gardens. The People here have a \(\mathrm{T}_{124}\) dition, ahar the chrce Wifemen, who went from the Ealt to adore Chrift in the Manger, came from this City; and tho it wants not probability, yet ir dorh certainty.

Aut: 23. they came' to a Village called Bizdebode, 18 Miles from Cifloan, and refted there thar'day : they came in the next Night to Naranc. Here Diann hias a Temple, and is called from thence Nareet. Therc is a Tradition, that Darius was here flain by Beffus. It ftands betwect two Hills, from whence there is a deligheful profpect into the adjoyning Country.
Fronehence they" went to Rcir, and fo to Bagdar; or Biblon, palling through many fimall Towns, in which is nothing worthy of Nore, fave that 'tis Faid, that at Coromon-fhaloon was decided that fanous Conselt for the pefficn Crown, betwixt Artaxerxes and Cyrus, recorded br Xenophon, and in memory of which, there are in the Concave of the adjoyning Mountain fercral Pictures of Mcn, Elcphants, and ortter Beafts.
Of Bagdat, or Bablon, fince there are many things memorable of it under both Names, If fhall defcribe is under them. Babyion was of Old a City, ftanding in che Councry of Shinar, Gen. 1 i.2. a Vale watered by E \(\mu-\) plirates, one of the Rivers of Paradife. The Country was afterwards called Cbalderea; and laftly, Babyionin. To che Eaft it had Sufcaria, so the Weft Mefoporamia, and the South the Perfian Gulph. The Name was taken from che Confufion of Languages, which God fent among thole prefumpruous Builders, who, under Nimrod, their audacious Leader, refolved to fecure chemfelves an Alytum againft all Dangers, by building a Tower which them to carry on by 30 lears labour, to an heighe of sooo paces, as fomefay, yet by this Accident ir was left unfinithed.
Buc Nimrod fertling by it 56 Years, increafed it into 2 large City, and fer up a Sovereignity over his conquered Neighbours. He firft taught his Reoplc Idolatry, and dying, was Deify'd by the Name of Sadormyn, which the Komans afterwards changed into Saturn.
Beius, Surnamed Fupiser Babylonicus, fucceeded in his Government, A. M. 1800 . he was worlhipped under the Name of Baal, or Bel. His Son Ninus (called Amraphet in Scriprure) ruled after him, and having conquered Libyr, Arcbia, Media and Bntric, became the firtt Univeral Monarch. He enlarged Ninivels sbe Grest upon Tigris, begun by his Great Grandfather Nimrod, and after by Nebuchadncezar made the Capital City of a/foric.
Afrer his Death and Burial in the Temple be had builr Afrer his Death and Burial in the Temple he had buils, and phea his Grandmorher whofes. 3 uno his 1 ed in it to be worthipped, Semiramis his Widow reigoed This Virago roled 40 Xears, and in thar rime calarged the Empire from Cthbiopic to India. She alio made ele gant Gardens in Media, bur more efpecially made one as Babylon, upon many high Pillars of Stone, and brought warer out of the River Orontes into ic. She alfo contrated Eupbrates, and buile the nobleft Bridge over it that we read of in any Story. She raifed rwo Obelisks in Babyion, the leaft of which was 134 foor high, and 25 in thicknefs, hewn our of Arerar, and brought down wase the Tigris thithet. She allo crected two incomparable Palaces on the Eaft and Weft-end of Balylon, the one extending 30, the other 60 Furlongs, and each encompaffed with a ftarely Wall. Bur thar which cranfeended all, was the noble Building crected in the middle of rhe Ci ty, of black polifhed Marble, being a thoufand paces on every fide at the Bafis, and having 8 Towers fer upon one another, each 9 Furiongs high, and diminifting as they rofc: At the rop was a Chappel, in which was a fumpmous Bed and Table of Gold, in which were placed three golden Images, reprefenting Fupiter, i. e. Belue; Ops; i. e. Nimis her Husband, and Frino her felf, each Statuc being 12 Cubits high, of pure Maffy Gold ; and thele thole ldolaters wormipped for many Ages, will the whole was demolifhed by xerxes, when he was beaten out of Grecc:- Semirimis; at ber Death, was Interred at the bottom of ir, and her Hearr pur in an Orb of Gold aboye. She alfo much entarged the City ic felf, and builc a Wall about if more than 300 Furlongs in length, in height 50 Cubits, and in thickness-40 Foor, and fo Batilemented on both Gdes, that fix Charioss mighe drive a-breaft on the top of ir, arid nioc fall. It was alen compaficed with a broad Trench full of Water, and it bur by an hundred Gates of Brals. Semiramis begain Wh but is :was perfe太ted by Amyrtis, Nibucbadecizar's Wife, as fome Cay, buc others fay by Nitocris his Daughter. Nebuchadnezzar alfo buile a Palace fo magniticent reforestatee. noe ther Great Babel sho this ampious Boalt from him, is not ther Great Babel shar 1 baso luith? This Cicy, for mai:y Gencrations, was the Refidence of the Morarchs of the whole Wprid', honoured with the Courr of 4 Emparo from Nimrod to Betfbazitar, for abour 600 ) Empenors, 5y. fo beautiful and fately, that paufamias calls it the mort Glorious that cver che Sun bebcid; and the Scripture the Golden City, Ifa. 14. 4 . The Princels and Glory of Kingdoms, Ifa. 47. and che Praife of the whole Earth A Ciry folarge, that Arifotle faid one part knew noc that the Enemy was entred, for threc days after it was taken by Cyrus. A City fo rich, that when Alcxindior ook ir, he found a Treafure of 20000 c Talents of Gold But this great City, according to the Prophefics of Scripture, is fallen, and become a defolation, fer. so. 5n. Rev. 17. neverthelefs, as her rife was, fo was her deScleycua by degrees. The greatelt blow given it was by sitencen iu who building another Ciry 50 Miles North of ir, ar the place where Tigris and Eupporates meet, where Ci,athe mentioned GEm. : 0. Io. ftood, which he called Scirt ic, pardy by perfwafions, bur principally by menaces, forced: fix hundred thoufand Souls out of Balyign to Pcople his new City, and ro laid it wafte.
Begdat is raifed our of the Ruins of Old B.thrlon, and Destat, liesin 36 Deg. 20 Min. Northern Latirude; firf ar \(B u\) gia, for the Caliph's Charge, who disburfal two Mil ions of Gold to re-edify it, but ir enjoyed not this Spicindor long, for Chyta the Tarrar facked it.
Almanfor the 23d Caliph, having by Magick found our a lucky cime to reflore her, as he thoupht, buile a fine Mofquc, and repaired the City, and Ceveral Caiphs perfected her beaury, tho fince the has ofren changed her Governours, having formetimes the Tu;ks, and omerimes che Perfans its Maiters; ir is under the Tuks now. At this day it fcarsc equals Brifol, either for bulk or beauty, including abour fiftecn thoufand Famiies, It is watered by Tigris, which there is fonnewhat ble, are, 1 . The Bridge, which refembles remarkable in it th: ber BaitNorpandy, being made upon 30 long Boats, which are i. Th: boarded and chained one to anocher, and made no be pxited as pleafure. 2. The Mofque, which is large, 2. Tix wisture round, and pleafancly raifed of white Frec-ftone brought own. the Tigris from Moful. 3. The Sultan's Palace, \({ }^{3 \text {. The Su: }}\) which joins the bazar or great Market-place, is large, tan's madac: but low, and near it are fome Brals-pieces, which the Turks brought thither, or the Perfatrs took from Ormas. - Alitcle Chapnel called Panclin Aly, memorable for an a panita mprellion of 5 Fingers, which they (ay Morti-filly made 1 M n the folid Stone therc. S. The Colio-Houfes, or ; The coli:ohoutes of good Fellowfhip, where towards. Evening hiowis. many fruf fulmen commonly affemble to drink Coffice, and fuddele themfelves with Arack and Tohacso. Coffice is moft efteened, becaufe they hold thas Mathomet fiped no other. Broch fave this, and chat Gabriel invented it. 6. The Bazar is large and fquare, the Houfes are comely, and Gardens fweer, yer all purs together are much infoc The Baiour to many lacer built Towns abour her tho for her Antiquicy the is much honoured by Travellers. Twelve Miles lower rowards Eupprates is feen a confufed Mouns which fome imagine to be the nubbith of Timrod's Tow, ar, but I rather luppore it to berthe Ruins of Belus's Temple, buile by Scmiramis. Bagdac is diftanc from. Aleppo. 40 days Journey by the Caravan; and in thic way "cis worth our while to fee Old Sufhan, which gives Name o the Provincc of Sufcaria.
Sufben was one of the famious Palaces of the Kings of inforn de Medit, where they fpene three Months in the Spring, fributh as they did the rwo Summer Months in Ecbafen, and the even Winter Months at Balylon. It was built by Darus the Son of kiffafpes, A: M, 3444 as Pliny rclates. Achencus derives the Name from the plenry of Lillies growing therc, which in Hebrew are called Su/ben, but rather fuppote it derived from Chus (Noalis Grandfons) being called from him Couffana, from whence it fill reains the Name of Cbuffitan, At this day'tis called Vol Now called ac,: or Baldech ; is is watered with the River Cborfpes, Vatac or which arites in the Mountains of Faaro, and falls into Budash. the Perfian Gulptinear Balfort-. The Water of this River was of fuch account of Old with the Perficn Kings, that they wouk drink no ocher, as they would ear only. the Wheat of Allos; and SaIt of Mempbr:: Skufhem was in compais 120 Furlongs; the Wall was Quadrangular. where Adam was placed immediately afrex his Creation

\section*{Gree Batyicur.}

The Royal Palace is faid to be built by Mordecris 5 the Outfidc and Pavement werc Mofaick-work, made of finall pieces of Chequered Marble, arched alfo, and fupportedswith Pillars richly gilded, and fee with Stones of luffre. The Roof. is paiuted in the refemblance of the Sky, and in all parrs as rich and finc as Art or Naturc could make it. It was alfo famous for its clear Springs, and nore ecpecially for Naplorm, an Oily liqnid Subitance, which being fer on firc will inflanc the very air. It had fome form and beauty, till shofes; Surnamed \(A_{i} k\) kr, A. D. \(6+1\). Heg. 21 . depopulated is,- buc now "cis like N:nevel, or Moful, nothing but Ruins.
Pradif
Be.
c.
.
Near this place was Raradifc, or the Garden of Eden,

Authors aboure found many wild Conceits in Ieveral Authors about the place where Paradje is, fome faying
tis in the middace Region' of thie Air, orthers in the tis in the middle Region of the Air, others in the Mountaius of the Moon, others in Happy Arabia, and the Mountaius of the Moon, others in Happs Arabia, and the ay, and by which it was bounded, determincures fay it scen in Mcfoporamia, in the place ftill called Eden, for queftionless is was watered with Eupplanets and Tirrm which in their feveral Courfes, the ince from Periardo in Armenia, and 'The other from Mounc Libanurs, divide themflves into four branches, of which Pifon and Gilon are two ; and tho Pifon is faid ro compals Havilhh, ris not that in India, but in Srfiame, fo that all thingsoccus to fix the place here.

\section*{Сн а р. XXIII.}

\section*{A Compleat Succeffion of the Perfian Kings, from Nimrod to Abbas now Reigning.}

The Succef-
fion of the

SIR Thr. Herbert having thus given us an account of his Travels, by his Chorographical Defcriprions of the Countries he paffed through, to make his Hiftory compleat, adds an Hiftorical Acceunt of the Succeffion of the Kings of Perfa, fo far elpecialiy, as they had relation to che places taken rosice of in hir Travels, and tracing them from the firf Original, Lays, Thar Noabshaving forfaken the Ark, and in the face of 130 Xcars peopled the Eaft, Cent out fome of his Children to plant the more Weftern Parts, who accordingly travelling from the Eaft, pitched in the File of Slinar, and Legan to build a City; and a Tower which mighr reach up to Heaven, God abo their impious Delign, defcended to them, and confounded thei: Language; fo that chey were forced to difperfe themfelves upon the face of the whole Earth.

Nimere, with a certain number of there Builders, remained ftill in thofe places, and being found a Perfon active, courageous and afpiring, was chofen their Governour, and having fubdued the neighbouring Plantations, became the firlt Monarch of the Earch, and the beginning of his Kingdom was Bclijlon, Erech, Accad and Calnch, in the Land of Shirar. For his Tyranny he became a Proverb, As Nimrod: 6 mighty Humrer before ebe Lord. He ruled 25 Years as King, and dying aboutche Year of the World 8844 - was buried ar Babytan.
Belus his Son fucceeded him, who is filed 7 fupiter Babylenicus, Baal and Bel, which in Cbatdee fignifies the Son, or Sovercign Lord. He at 60 Xears of Age gave place to Nimus.
Ninus his Son, who imitating his Anceftors, added to his Einpire Arabia, Ammenia, and the Countries that crected his Stritue of Gold, which he commanded his Subjets to wormip. This was the Rife of Idolatry. When he had re:gnid ;o Years, his Wife Semiramis, an Afinatiate, on whom he doated, fo captivatcd his Reafon, that fie facrailed with him to leave the Supreme Command in har hands for five days, which the fo managed, as to deprive him both of Powcr and Life; and to fhe fwayed the Scepter without Comperitor.
Semiramis.
Scrimrams was a Woman of a Mafculine Spirit, and fo enlarged the \(A \int f y r i c n\) Enipire, that fhe added to it nor ouly \(A\) efliopia and Bectria, but alfo feveral Parts of the Edf- Ithlics: hito trater ithm G Alexendrum nemo intraz wif, fays an Old Hiftorian, bur ar laft mer with fuch a misfortune as made her Victory inglorious, for Strurnbates forced her to an hafty and confuled retrear over Indus, which fwept away all her Army but 20 Perfons viru- three Nillions of Foor, ren hundred thoufand Horfe, and an hundred thoufand Ciariors. Her other memorable Actions are above relared in the Defcription of Bebyion. Her Death, after 42 Years reign, is variouly re ported i fonge afirmit to have been Narural; but other lay the was flain by her Son Ninias, or Ninus II. by others called zance;, Mars, and Amrapich, to revenge his Farher's Death; bur however that be, be fucceeded her in the Kingdom. He is fop pofed to be the Prince whom Abraliam overthrew with Keder Laomer King of Elam, or Perfin, near Dameffus, to Refcue his Nephew Lot, whom they had carricd away Captive from them. He began his Reign in the 2000th Ycar of the World, and reignce 33 Years.
Arius, by fome called Thuras, fucceeded him, and af cr him followed 37 Emperours more, of whom we have hardly fo much left as their Names, rill whom we hate Sardanapalus, who began to reign over that Monarchr, smana A.M. 3124 . Hiftorians reprefent him to bave been a Prince fo degenexated from the Warlike Spirit of bis reat Anceftors, that he is Atiled, Vir mulicre corrapticr Man more effeminare than Woman, for he fequcftred Hisf himfelf from the Company and Bufnefs of Men, and ay. gave himfelf up wholly to che Sociecy of his Wives and Concabines, imitating them both in their Habit and Employments. In this Drefs Arbritus, his Licutcnanr of Media, having obrained admilfion to him, with difficulty found him; and when he faluted him with all due Reverence, Saying, Saloe Domine Imperator, he anfwercd , Nis die me Dominum Precor; Ego enim Jum Domint, Call me not Lord, BurLady. The Lieutenant, aflianced that fo valt an Empirc hould have fo weak an Heac, immediately rebelled; \({ }^{\text {a }}\) and having drawn Belcchus, the Batoronian Governour, into the Confpiracy, balted to befiege Ninect, and depofe him, but by the rigilancy and fidelity of the Gorernour ir was fo well Victualled, Manned and Defended, that it bid defiance to the Befiegers, and at divers Sallies forced them to retrear. And thus ir held our near two Years, till by the overfowing of the Tigris fuch a breach was made in the Wall, for 20 Furlongs, that chere was no way to keep the Enemy out. Sardariapalus being thus driven to defpair, retired wirk his'Wives and Concabines into bis Palace, and ferThus it on firc, was confomed with them in the flames. Thus the Succelion from Nimrod, which had continued for 1350 Years, ended, and the two Confpirators divided his Empire to themfelves by agreement Arbartus amrogared to himfelf Medir and Perfit, with atdea the adjacent Provinces, (tho fome fay Perfic fell to Actran intime mencs who affitted them, and of whom Cyrus ibe Greaf was defcended; bur Belocbus had for his hare Baby!on, and the Eaft of Affria, Nineveh bcing included.
Arbactus having thus raifed himfelf by Sardanapalus's Fall to the Sovercignty of Mcdin, died, and wasfucceedcd by Mandanes, as fome, or Solarmuis as others: He ruled thirty Years a Ammen Dearh gaie place to Medidur, who reigned 25 Years, as fome hold, or 40 wa as others, and then left his Kingdom to Cerdicas, who, after 13 Years rule, bequeathed his cortioin Royal Scepter to Diocles, or Dejoces, whom tome repute to bave been Dixath that Arphaxad whom Nebucbadonofor ilew in the Mountains of Ragau, \({ }^{\text {Fuditb }}\) I. is . bat the diftance of time between Nebucbadonofor and Diocles being 8o Years, itsts nor probable chat Arphaxad was Diocles, but fome of his Succeffors ; for Diocles dying A.M. 3291. was fucceeded by inemth Pbratrtes, 2 Prince of grear Courage and Succels. He died before the Walls of Nincyeh, as he was beffeging it and left the Median Crown to his Son Cyaxares I. He profecured the Affrian War, begun forced to raile the Siege, uponice dy of Squthian Horle had invaded his Councry, and there refted. This was an unexpected Chance of War, which he was forced to endure fome Xears, till by invicing the moft confderable of their. Officers to a Bannquet, and picking a quarrel with chem in their Cups, upon a Signal given by Cyaxares all their throats were cur, and to he sccovcred bis Right; for this Accident was of that dread to the other Scythians, that they willingly departed into their own Country with this Charatter, that they were overome more with their own Drunkennefs than War. He reigned 40 Years, and then gave place to Aftoges his Son, who was proclaimed King after his Father's death, and crowned with all due Ceremony. He is mentioned in the Apocryphal fory of Bell and the Dragon. He is memorable in Hiftory, not for his Warlike Actions, buc his neat Apparel, in which he excelled all the Princes of his time. His Daughter Mandane, whom he had by Arianc his Wife, he gave in marxizge to Cembyfes the Perfian, Father of Cyrus the Grear, whom fearing, becaufe the Aftrologers had foretold by fome Dreams of his, that he thould over-run all Afia, and out-Shame all his Pofterity, he endeavoured to make him away, bus in vain. To him fucceeded his Son Cyaxares, who is thoughr to be the fame Pcrion, who in Scripture is called Darius the Miede, who left tbis Kingdom, A. M: 3406, to Belockus fertled himfelf in the Affrrian Empire abou the Ycar of the World 3546 . and left it to Pul Affer, called figicesh Pilefer, who is faid, 2 Kings 15. 29. to haveover-xun Gatilee, one of the three Protinces of \(\mathcal{F}^{u d e a}\), and carried all the Inhabitanes of Naplom cali and Damaficus Capcives into Affrian. He reigned \({ }_{23}\) Ycars, and Salmanaffar, by fome called Narbonaffer, who profe cuting his Father's Defigns, plundercd Sameria, and made the King of Ifraet to pay him Tribuse; which be caufe Hefleen, King of Ifrael, neglected to do, he again beficged Samaria three Years, and raking is, carried away the ten Tribes into Medir, and Yettied them in Halakend Havor, by the River Gozan (God permitting is tor his Peoples fins.) This Prince, after ten Ycars reign, was fucceeded by Sennacharib, who going againit Tirbakab, King of隹biopia, lent a biarphemous Meffage to King Hearekiat by Relfbakeh, thinking to fright him to fend him a grear Prefens, but Hezekeliah commending his Caule to God by Prayer, God fenr his Angel and deftroyed his numerous Amy of 180000 in one night. Semnacharit frighited with this difafter fied to Ninevel, and as he was worthipping his God Nefroch, was dain by his Sons Adrammeleck and Sharcier, who fled inco Armenia, and his Son (after be had ruled 7 Years)
Efarbaddon reigned in his ftead. He revenged his Father's Death upon his two Brethren, bur they oppofing him, in the confufion gare opporrunity to Meroditch, or Beradac Balfidan, Governour of Babylon, to rebel, and fucceeding in his Attempt depofed him, transerred the Sear-Royal to Nineveb;' and reigned in his flead 40 Years, and left the Thronero Ben-Merodach his Son, who after 20 Years left his Kingdom to dom to Nalopuillozar, who vanquilhed Pharcob Nerio, King of \(\operatorname{Exyp}\), and 25 the end of 25 Years, left his Government to his Son Nebuckadonofor, who by reafon of his many Victories was called the Hercules of the Eaft: He was the Golden Head, to which God gave a Kingdomi and Power boch over Men and Beats: He made festpt a Rrovince, burn Ferufalem, and carried the Fews Captives, fubdued Syria and Arabia. In a Word, extended his Dominion to the Confines of che habicable World. He abaied Nincuel and beautified Bebylon, erected a ftately Wall and noble Palace for himelf, of which he was to proud, that God fo humbled him; caufed him to dwell with Bealts; yer \({ }^{25}\) length reftored him to his undextanding again, and after 44 Years rule, he leff his Throne to Evil-Merodrch, who was a Friend to the Caprive fews, and particularly to \(\neq \mathrm{fisojachin}, \mathcal{F e r}\). 52. 3x. yer being a Princc of no courage, Amaflirevoled from him in cappr, Aftages in Medin, and Cyrus in Perfia. Thefe deprived him of his life and Kaint him, and in the cond Bol/hazzar fucceeded him Kingdom.
Prince; who tho in a befieged Cit courious and tyrannical Prince; who tho in a befieged City, could not forbeat caroufing in the Veffels of the yevos Tump es, and io by God's decree, was lencenced to Deftrustion, which immediarcly befel him, for that Night the Cicy was maken and he flain. Cy ta rares obeained his Empire wwo Xeals and then left this, with the Command of Axodia, and Perfin, to

\section*{Cy tis the Rc fian.}

\section*{cyrus.}

He was the Son of Cambyfos and Mandane, the Daughter of the King of Media: Cembyfes was. Son of cyr./s, Son of Darius, Son of Achemencs, Son of Pe/fes, who gave his Name to Perfat. Acharmincs was a Prin ce of the vame of \(\begin{gathered}\text { nd repute, as gave his Race for many Years }\end{gathered}\) the name of Achemenica. Cy us (whofe Name is derived from Chry Sheren, which in Hebrent fienifics the Sun) calling to mind fome Years before, the Deftruction intended him by his Grandfather Affyages, Ambition pre dominating overs all parental Refpects, marched againt - Hi quarrei him with a gallant Army of Pe, fiams, under che Cond on win ati of Harpergus, who had preferved Cyrus from his Grant farter's cruelty, and having fubdied him, fene hien l'rifoner into हHrcenia, where he died foon after of gricf. Difisel Emperes was old when be fucceeded, and the chanden was his Heir, both that Cyrus, whole fuccels he diliked Was his Heir, both by Birth and Conquelt, proclaimed a Leagainft Grrus, and drew Cr.cfurs King of L.ydin, inro Labrgue with him. Cyrus knowing the defign of the Babjionian, with a Body of Hurfe, quickly marched into Cappadocia, to prevent their conjunction, and engards, the Lydians firft, forced thein to retrear into Thras, which he affaulted and rook, with their King The Cbaldenns apprehending their Danger by this Overthrow of their potent Ally, and fearing that Cyrus would make their Councty a Sear of War, victualled BabyLon with Provifions of all forts for 20 Xcars fiege. But Cyrus was preordained for the Conqueft of thar Ciry and Empire, Ifan 44-28. 45. x. by God, and tho' the Ea Butpion, hos blonians could out-braveFForce, ches could noo withitand their Face; bur while they fecurely crufted to their Walls, which were inexpugnable, the crafty Encray driins their River, and gains an eafy entrance into the City, which bcing furprized, became a Prey to the Conqucrour, the Penple flying, the King buried in Wine and Sleep, and all defencelers, and fo the Miftris of the World fubmitted to the Rerfian Xoke. The Fame of chis Conqueft ferved to fubdue the reft of Alis with little trouble, but Cyrus giving the Reins to his reftlefs Deires, muft be conquerour of scretici, and accordingly marcbed with 2 - numerous Force againtt the Scythians: Tompris was Queen of the Scytbinis at that cime, and op. Bored him with an Army of equal number and refolurion: Both fides were defirons to engage, but Tomyris after a Marp Conflict, was Viator, and having Cy us in her Power, who had before flain her Son spardapiare, the Cores foin commanded his Head ro be cut off, and throwing it by temarn inro a Bowl of Blood, faid, Cgrus! now drink thy fill of Blood, as Herodofus and 7 fu/tin, relares of his dcart, but Valerius Maximus, and Strabo report, that he died in peace at the Age of 70 Years, and in the 29th of his Reign, and was buxied royally at Pafargoda, a Ciry in Sufcana, and his Son Camurfes fucceeded him : He was infamous for Cruelty Camojes. and Luft, bur his Reign was thort and turbalent: He ubducd Eegyp and Lerbinpin, as tar as Elcphinstina and on a jealous Huxnour murdered his Brorher Smerdis, by the Hands of that Villain Prexefps, for which being afrenward grieved, he was almoft enraged with a Frenzy, when he beard thar 50000 of his Men whom he had fens to burn the Temple of Fupiter Ammm, were buricd in the Sands. He alfo demolifhed the Temple of Mempl. He alfo demolithed the Temple of Anabis at Memplos, and broke the Neck of their bcaltly Ged, and amafcus, attempting the fame Inpiety, he was ca could wounded by his own Sword fo mortally, that he could not be recovered, bur in excremity died frantick and unpitied, when he had reigned nor quite nine Xears The Deputy whom Cambyes had lefr to gotern Perfia in his abfence, had a Son, which refembled Smerdix, whom Prexalpes had flatn, and bore the fame Name: Hin he vefted with the Imperial Robe and Crown which Crus left, and the linpolture pailed well enough 'becaufe \(P^{2}\) corerpes denied thar he had tlain Smerdis) till Otanner's Daughter difooveted is to her Father, thar he had no Ears, by which he was know to be Smerdis the Magiciar. This begat a Comfiracy agan!
him among the reven Princes that governed the Realm and they foon found a way to deltroy him, when he had wornthe Diadem eight Years. Thefe Princes after his Deach not finding any right Heir to the Crown, agreed That he lhould : reign whofe Horie neiphed firft the next Morning as the rifing of the Sun, which Darius's Groom effeted for his Malter, by cauling his Horfe in the Nighe to cover a Mare in the place whices he wasto conce in the Morning; for coming there again, be neighed couragioully, and fo his Mafter was crowned King at lecrfagard, by the Arch-flamen; by the Name of Divius H: fatpis (from his Horfe, which in the Perfinn Tongues is called \(A / p\) or \(A(p i)^{\prime}\). During the Interregnum Belylon sevolted, and by the Faichfulnefs of z"pruw was reluced. He was very kind to the jems, who minding him of Cyrus's good Inrention to reluill their City and Icmple, obtained leave to profecure that Defign The Rathe's will needs have him to be Ahaflecrus, who marricd HIfer, and preferrid Mordicai. His Embaffadors, whichlhe fent to Anvmeas King of Macedm, being datin for thecir hafrivious behaviour to the Women in their Cups, the took it for a Breach of the Law of Nations, tho he much dill ked their Conduct, and marching with a great Army over the Hil-fpont, he haraffed Giecee as fir as the Piain of Minrctinn, where Milfiades with a mall n:mber of Athenints, oppofed his Pregrefs, and gave him Battic. The Perfians it feems had been suluch afrighed wi:h Apparitions before the Fight, and joining Bartele, were fo hamefully routed, that they never durt rally, till they were gor over the Hellef pont. This Defar encouraged Ezip: to revole, which together with the Dificntions among his Sons for the Crown with the Diecntions amons his Sons for the Crown, broke his Heart with uricf; to that he died Coon after when he had re:gned 96. Years. He nominated for his Sucecffor: notwithftanding Area Bafbancs was his eldef Son) his fecond Son, but tirit borm after he came to the Throne, named

Xerxes, for his Suecefor : He firf reduced Eegyp, and thun made mighry Preparations for the War with Greece, raifing 190000 Foor, \(\S_{0000}\) Horke, and 1000 Ships, which is the moft moderate computation. With this vaft Army, which at a review extorted Tears from him, wher he thought they mutt all die in a few Years, he marched into Gircece, having made a Bridge with \(600^{\circ}\) Boass, coupled together, and planted over the Hellefpont: At the Tisermpplie, a marrow Pafs between the Mountains that Separate Thof half an Acre, Leomidas the Sperten King, with 300 Laced om:nian:, oppofed his Paflage, and hindred bis further \({ }^{\text {i }}\) progrefs, till they were all Iain, with a grear lofs to che progrefs, till they were all hain, with a great lofs to the his Enemies, made ar Arerxerrxes himfelf, and affauted Perfichs. Ne, xis having maftered this Difficulty, kept on himfo fiercely, that 'twas thought he was dain, but drhis march to Athens, which being abandoned by the trxerxes was only enraged by it, and returned his blows ihenians, he fired it. In the way his Ammy plundered fo beavily, thar Cyrus gave ground, and being knownby the Temple of Delphers, which was much enriched by the falling off of his Train, was hain by Mitbridetes, a the Gifts of many Princes and Kings. This Sacrilegi- young Pcilian, which fo difperited the Army, that they ous act (for lo it was thoughr, becaufe he acknow-|fled. The Athen: ins among whom Nerophon was, kept ledged Afoilo ro be a God, cho to excufe it, hefaid, 'twas themfelves rogeriner, and in defpighe of the Perfians, inpious to confine the Celeftial Gods to Earth) caufed made a fafe rerrcat into Girecce. Mitiridates was after inany Calamitics to purfuc him; for his firth Armado was the Battle, highly rewarded, but foon after by Parafatio's beaten and fank by Tbemiffockes, the atbenian Admixal, Subtlery, crucliy put to death, and Starira for fhewing a which put him inso fuch a fright, that he fled into Afin, and left Mardonise to manage the War in Greces, which he did with like Succefs, being overchrownar platara by land, and at Myeate by Sea in the fame day. Thefe Defcats put him into fuch a Frenzy, that he imprifoned Nicfrume, Borcas, and Proten's Images, and commanded their Hands and Legs to be loaded with Fetters, becaufe they had favoured the Gresks againt him, and chained the P.iladium, and fired Mincrva's Temple, becaufe the was the Titular Goideds of the Atbenicins. Being arrived at Bchyin, be pulled down part of the Walls, to fhew that he pat no confidence in their ftrength, and demolifhed the Temple of Belus, the nobleft piece of Antiquiry then crient inthe World, taking away from thence the Statue of Bells, which was twelve Cubits high, of mafly Gold, and naying the Flimens that endeavoured to refouc it. He aifo exercifed the like Tyranny againt Men, for he Rew hhofiflis the Bociricm Licutenant, with his Wife and Childrem, which Fate drrabaius his Uncle fiaring, confpired with Mithridates, an Eunuch, his Chaniberlain, and new him. A Fact fufficiendy re renged on him by Araterae Rcign Ar. M. his Son and Succeflor, who began his Rciga A. M. 3500 , and governed the Empire honoura ily full 44 Xears. He was called Lompimanus, ot Lomp brnd, becaufe his Righr hauk was longer than his ILeft He made a peace with the Athenians in the firft Year of his Reign, by the advice of Timagorat, and red:iced
dity\%: Ticmijfocics being banillod by bis ungraceful

Comery-men, thed to his Court, and was enterained kindly; but being defired to ferve under him in REypf againft the Grecians, he poifoned-himfolf, rather than be obliged to fight againtt his Country; tho, ungratcful to him, to pleafe his friend. The reft of this King's Reign was peaceable. He was kind to the Fctro as apper rom Eîrn, c. 7. and Nebemial, c. 2. and therefore by mont is raken to be that Abafbucrus, who kepthis Court at Simflan, his Name in the Perfian I Ianguage being ArtiShafbr. He pcrmitred Nehemiah, Ezra; and चarobithel, to return and build fcrufalem, that it might be again inhabited. He was contemporary with Frjaclimm the HighPrieft, and died in a good old Agc, aud was buried at Perycpolis, as his Father Xerxes was.
Daries Norbur, or the Baftard (after the death of Xerses D and Segdicnus Queen Heffer's Children, who is faid to divthen have been married to his Father Artaxer.xes) poffeffed himfelf, of the Empire, and held is 19 Ycars. Agyp: rebelled againft him, and by making a defcofive tcaguc with che stheninns, preferved their Liberty under his and his Succeffors Reign. He had two Sons by an inceftuous Marriage, Arraxerses and Crus, a Princefo ambitious, that his Facher was frrecd to keep him at a difance from him, by making him governour of Afua the lefs; in which Poft he was when his Farter died, and left his Empircto his cletei:Son
Arraxerxes II. This Prince fell into great Troublo from the reftlefs Ambition of his Brocher Cyus, who being encouraged by clic favour of his Mothes Parafatis, and lecrec. Infinuations of Tijfaphemes, his pretended Friend, who told him he had molt right to the Kingdom becaule he was born after his Father was King, whereas his Brother was born before, began to afpire to the Gocrament: Tiflaploemes being cautious of his Defigm informs Arfaxerxes of is, whe chereupon fends for him of Gold, bur wy the he appeared, was feccured in Ferters of Gold, but by the Intercexion of his Mother, he was fet at Libersy, and reftored to his Lieutenancy of 4 , fet ar Liberty, and reftored to his Lieutenancy of Lydia urn was adjacent Provinces. Cyrus's Ambition at his reobrained Aids from Grecece, who were willing having the Breach in Perfin, to fecure themfelves, xaifed Forces with a refolution to win the Crown, or find a Grave. pofition pofferfed himfelf of \(S u f a\) and Brbyion, which made him think the reft his own: But Artaxerxe'sap proach with a huge Army of 900000 Men altered rmer Apprehentions. The Armies no foon alrud prepred for Ba. The Aries no foner mer, but hey prepared for Barcle, and quickly engaged. Cyrus Cyrus ceft of

\section*{Chap. XXIL Sir Tho.Herbert's Lravels into Atia and Africa; oc 44} at an end, after they had ruled the Perfian Empirc abour \(23^{\circ}\) Years. Bagers, altho of great Powcr, yer for his treafonable practifes was grown foodious to the Subjects, that he found is in vain to attenet the Throne himfelf, and checefore he thought it the befl way to fecure himed by proferriug his Firiend, the Licutcnant of drminict to it, pamed
Codomamus: He was of the Royal Blood, and of fueh noted Valour and Courcefy, that he was no fooner methtioncd than approved. Being fettled in the Regal Scar he alfumed the Name of Darius, to ingratiate himfel with the Pcople, who had that Name in Vencration He was a Man of as great Prowefs and Virtuc as any of his Koyal Predeceffors, but the Supream Power had irrefiftibly decreed his Ruin, and the downfal of the Perfian Empire, as Daniel had forctold, c. 11. 2. And in order to it, Philip the Father of Aicxander, fo foon as he could prevail with the Grecien Seates to be their CapsainGencral, recolved to invade Afin, but his Defign was.oppord fo effectually by Memnon, a Rbodern Officer under Davius, that Pbilip made litule progrefs in it during his Life, and his Dearh fecmed usteriy to pur an end to is frix Alcxander fucceeded him, and was for fome sime bufied ynting o with inteftine Broils ac home, which be had no foones it. compofid, but he refumed his Facher's purpore of invading ifita, to retaliaze (as he precended) the Perfians for the many Invafions and Vexations they had given Greese, bit principally to quench his Ambitions Thirf, and fo give the Reins co his boundlecs Spirit. He difpofed of his own Kingdom to Antipater's Truft, and diftribured his Treafure amons his Friends, faying to Parmenio, Tis Hopes of Afia roas futficicut for bim. The Army which he provided for this Expedition was inconfiderable, viz. 30 thouland Foot, 5 thoufand Horfe, and 150 Ships, but his Men were moft of themold Souldiers, bred up in his Father's Wars. He landed an afis without any Oppofition, bad Defiance to the Parfiens at his firtt landing, by throwing a Dart, and offered a Solemn Sacrifice upon Ackille's Tomb: Darius's, Army under Spithridares, their refluenField, and encountered him; Spittridates performed the part of a gallant Commander in this Fight, but beingllain, the Army fled, and Alsxander gained a comp!cas Victory, with the llaughter of 20000 of his Encmics but not above 30 both Horfe and Foot of his own. This Vietory made himMafter of the molt parts of Afice the lefs, and furnilhed him with Recruits and Provifions. Paffing thro' Phorgia, he cut che fatal Knot at Gordis, upon which the Conqueft of afic, according to the Orsele, depended. Dains by this cime began to think is feafonable to fecure himfelf, and refolved with a numcrous Army to engage Alexender in Perfon, and ro that cond raifed 300000 Foor and roocoo Horfe. Ali the Riches almont of Afia marched along with this Army, the Pricfts, Chariots of the Sun, the King's Mother, Wiyes, and Concubines in their richent Apparel, and Chariots of Gold attending the King in this Royal Expedition. The Perfians doubsof but rheir multitude would either affizhe, or op preds Alexander sfew Men, bur chey found the contrary, for hopes of fuch vaft Spoils rranfported them with 2 D , firc of fighting, to that they no fooner mer them than they engaged. The Fight was fhore, for the Porfinns being more careful to preferve their Riches, than encounter a parcel of rough Fellows, fled, and the macedomians purfuing them, liew of them 100000 Foor, and as many Horic, took all the Treafure, which was 2000 Camels and Mules loaded, and maic Dcrius's Mochcr, Wife, Children, and King, Prifoncrs, whom he ufed as a No ble Prince, nor fufferisg them to be violated, or their Jeweds to betaken from them: The Spoils of this Batric were very many and rich. Soon after this Batele Per menio routed Prince Mcmnor's Brigade, near Damefcus, flaying the Prince, and taking noc only the Wives and Daughrers of moft of the Perfian Nobility Prifoners. bura further Mafs of Darrius's Treafure, amounting to 6aoc Talents of coincd Money, and 5co Talsuts in Bullion, befides other Wealch of grear value. This. Victory fubjected Phenice, and the greateft part of Syria to him, of which, chat he might make a thorough Conqueft, he berieged Trre and Gaza, and rook them. Then he went manis up to ferufalem, buc Faldas the High-Prieft, with his Brechren the Pricfts, mecting him in cheir Pontificals, he put off his Hontile Temper, and defired a Bleffing of him as the Prieft of the moft High God. From thence he marched into \(\mathcal{E g y p t}\), which fubmitred to him: Here he vifited fupiter Ammon's Temple with srcar Difficulties, paffing thro the fealding fandy Defarts, and was faluted by the name of fupiter's Son by the Oracle. Returning to Memphis, he marched toward the North part of

King offered Alexander his, Daughter; with all afin and Kegpr, and 30000 . Talents for her Portion, but Alexch-
ler had grafred the swole Worldin his Dctigns, and an ler had graffed the whole World in his Defigns, and anwered, Thert as firmement could not chdure tiwd Soms, and To they prepared on both fides for anocher Fight. Diarius recruited his Army so 500000 Horle and Foot, and Alcx- D:tine yam, amder to gecoo. They foon mer and erigaged, and mech yotrd indent Bravery was hewn on both bides, but the Vicsory anain A-sim 'cll so Alexander, tho' with the lofs of '300 of hissbelt Men, of which were P.romenins, Perditer, and Epligftion, but he new abeve 40000 of his Encmics. This Vistory onkethe Hearts of the PefianNobility and fer the freterial Crown upon his Head, for the Citics mond about Lur endred to him ; firtt \(\alpha\) bela, near which the Eattle was ought, then ballylon, which he moit detired and admitod ; Mar.ctes or Mreifos, the Goverrocur, furrealred is to him, with all its Treafure and Riches, and han lee icte to preferve it with a Gurrifen, and fodepatecito bitcori, abibsod. which werc ano furtemured on hem this M mall harch, moct him firt in the nal party of redur mins to detionded that incxance, after thelofs of more Capains and Nien than in the two great Battics, he was foreed to find anothis way, and then hafted to fecure \(P\).rfep olis for his Miafter, buc being denied Admiizion by Tioderes, he wheeled in bour, and met the Macedomian Victor, and foushe him in nother place, where his former Su cefs frilc. 3 , and he ound his Grave. Alexender after this nareched to Powice oin, and tho he was admited withour Operfition, yet burnt. he liecnfed his Souldiers to kill ard fpcil as they lified, and after he had taken to himelelf, befides \(: 2000\) Talents in Coin, fer the City and Palace on fire, to reve:pec the Mifchicfs done to Grecec by Xerxos, ic lesing the Pri:cipal cat and Burying-place of the Kings. Al:xander afier this, having received Incelligence that Beffes had perti Deries lacit couny Rain his Mafter Dariur, who at his Death retain-by \(\begin{gathered}\text { dime }\end{gathered}\) d fogrearful a Mcmory of his Civility: to his Kindred, hat he impiored all his Gods, that Alicxander might bat his Defirces, and be conquerour of the whele Werd gave order for a fecedy Marchin perfuit of this Regici.c and to with 22000 koor and 3000 Fiorfe, march di towards Bactric, dengrning to carty on his Congurt in ards the Eaft ar the fame time Havin poti Ec, nd Hurcent ill 5 davs he came to . pre. \(B\) of, w, who was for his Treachery become the reproach Men, being aprichended by his own Farty, was brought to Aitwoul, who athorring the fyat of lisa, crucred that he thould be deizered to Orenees, Derius's Brother, to be diffofed of as he thought fit. This done, he appointed the linterment of the Royal Emba'nied Corps which was performed in a military mamer, himfelf be ing the Chicf Mourner, and cxpreting fo mncis grief in his Countenance, that he won the Hearts, of the Profien Princesto fubmit rofuntarily, whom before he had furced. Thisfuneral being thus performed, Alsxander paficd his Army o f the Rivers Oxus and wioweser Faxartes, and thirfting after the Conquett of Indic, d-кagor ects his Courfe thro fart of the Mieflayites Councry. In this Part he laid the Fo:ndation of twelve Citics, but falling into fome Exceffes, he Acw C/rou; his old and trulty Scrianc. After this he rarched to ivje and repofed himclf and Army there a-while. Hereabours he was thewed moft anciens Monument of Camar; the fouth in defeene from Adan, who reigned over the Indians of thele parts before the Deluge. Here he conltiented his Airsy a/sides, who had their Armour filierted and damatied with notice of Alicxander's approach towards his Comatry with disx which contain'd a grear pars of what the hirombiocis in ndifan) methim on the Banks of Eydefper Thith a great Body of Horle and Foor, and many-Elephants of War where they fought, and gave the Greces fich a Rroot of heir Valour, that tho' they for the Victory; fet Shey grew weary of conquering wifh fo much dificulsy; and defired to pur an cad there to this tedious War. Aicix. ander was unwilling to hear of fuch Dcfigns, and to pur he Thoughrs of chem our of their Minds, he celebrated he Becchimalia, and for fifreen days allowved the Army'to indulge themfelves in all manncr of Debaucheries, and the Atmy henmarched from the Mountain Mares, thro Dsdata cetire to and Acedera, where he rook a Cafile which could not begohone ubjected by Hecules, with Mazarge and Nor,a, two principal places of ftrength, and fo with fome dificuliry pafifd his Army over the River Acsfanes, a Branch of the River The Riven Indus, and fer Foor in Indic. Here be acquained his Acrfike. grear Officers with his Defigns to pencrrate as far as Craties, which they feemed to approve of, bur when it was known to the Army, it railed fuch a general difconrent, that finding he could por allay it, either by Threars or

L1:
Promifes:

\section*{\(44^{2}\) Sir Tho Herbert's Travels into Afia and Africa, ©cc. Lib. III.}

Pronifes, he was forced to feem contented, and fo he de his Horfe and Foor together, which had gone feveral ways, he invaded the Councry of the ox diacnis, and formed the Principal Fort the wallians had, but rathly mounting the laraper, and leaping into the ' Sown with two Oficers only, had perilhed, had nor the Arm) forced their Eintraice as Men defucrate to reicue him. Aftel thishe lubduc.! dic Bracimums Countrey, and preparing for his March againit the mott remore lndians, aifumbed on the liver saines, dhe Camp luroke out inso frem Murmuring, which not bene able to appeate by all the Arguments he could ufe, he was forced to condetiend, and fopubilhed his Recolutions to trar, which was received ivith general Acclamationsof Jov, tho' he had a Defing rather to recruit his Army, by mecting with thole 15000 which were marched towards him as tar as Faf:utr. Having thercfore refted a Month upon the Banks of tudus, he prepared for a March rowards Ormus diverting himferf in that time with otberving the Flux of the Ricer, the Situation of the Sea-Coafts, the Largenefs of the Horizon, and Profpeet of the Ocean, which for his further Recreation he would needs one day venture upon, and accortingly went aboard his Admiral riding dear Diu, and lailed 20 learues South weft on the Occan, but the Contrariety of the Eecmen: taving iss whal Effect, and the Sky threaning á Storm, ir fonn became unplealant to him, and fo he haftened to land, being fatistied, that tho he had futdied the Land, he mult leave the Sea unconquerable. And now nexernder having given his Admiral Intructions ton furround not only Arabia, but dfrick:, taken imbigor's City hy ftorm, and laid the Foundations of the City Bherre : the latt of 70 Cities which he had buile in his nime Years (io ernment ; he lid thatia and she Occan farcwel with a Sish, and alvanced into the Counry of the Orytes. Here the met with great farciry of Provifion for his Army, rill he came into (iod, flim, which compenfated then with as greas plenty. Marching along the Coalts, here he mer with Recruits nearthe Ciry firm, which is under the Tropick of Crincer, at which his Army tired, and near fpent, greatly rejoiced. Here he folcmnized the Fealt of Barcchus again, with the former Luxury and Riot, and foon atcer at Tirfpucus viewed his new Flect, and took fome acercation by Sca, bue the Tradition of hiscoafting about Arabic, and landing as Socotora, deferves no Credic. Removing his Camp further to a convenient plase for pitching his glorious Tent, he gave Andicnce to an hurndred Enbaffadors, which were come from the remoreft parts of litein on this and the other fide of Genges, with tio in Pretenes ro congraculate his Victorics, and crave his Alliance. Theie Serangers he entertained, and afrer Audicnce, fealted them moft magnificenty upon an hundred Eeds of Burnithed Gold, and difmifs'd them with Prefents fuitable to his Greatnefs. After this he marched thro' Carmania to La), and thence to Pe,fagard (now scfio Helyucre) where Orfines, a Prince of the Blood-Roval of Pc fit, was inconfiderately put to death by allextender for robling Cyru's Tomb, upon the falic Accufation of Bizoas his Encmy, who upon furcher Examination, was dikovered to have wronged him, and fufficed the fame Punilhment, his Houfe and rich Furniture valued as 6ocuoo Crowns, being given to Perducas. Here Cielanus the Indian Brachman, in conrempr of death; built his own Funcral-Pite, and burne himfelfalive. After this, Alexchider returned to Sufban, and married the Porficn Princels Statira himfelf, and gave her Sifter to his dear Epionfion, and other Perfian Ladies to the grear Officers of his Ar my ; for the grcater Magnificence of which Marriages, he made a Royal Featt for 9000 Gucts, to cach of whom he gave a Golden Cup for their Sacrifices,and difcharged all the Debrs of his Alacidionian Souldiers nut of his own Treafury, which amounted to \(907 \circ\) Talenss, which is of our Moncy 500700000 Crowns. This was a great Sum for Aliextuder to fpare, lince his Ycarly Revenue was 300000 Talcnts, betides the valt Sumstaken by him out of the Treafury of Babion, Eic: Having fome Apprehenfions of Deach in going to Balylan, he turned with his Army towards the North, and came to Ecbaran, *here his Fa: ourite Eploftion dicd of a Fever, which caft Alexender into fuch an cxtrean Pafion of Grief, that he caufed a general Howling to be made thro' the Camp for feven days, ordered all the Horfes in the Camp to be thonn, and no Initruments of Mufick to be heard. Fo him he crected a Monument, which coft him 12000 Ta lents, and caufed his dead Corps to be worfhipped as a Deity, by offering lucenfe to him. While there Obfequics were performing, Aicaiander had notice that feveral Einbaffadorsfrom Can shage, and feveral parts of Africa and Europ:, attended his coming to Batylon, to congrarulate his Succefs in the Eaft, and divert his Journey into the Weft, by craving his Alliance, which caufed him to haten thither. The Cl/aldiean Mavicians oppofed bis En rrance into is, and prevailed with him to tutn afide to The chedr Byrfa beyond liuphrates, lue here mecting with Anaxar- - hrympry cibus the Philofopher, who laughed ar their Art, he re- Entaterentin curned to Baly nin, where he made as felendid AanEnerrance as Art could invent. Affer Andience, he fummoned a Purliament of the whole World, and gave them the moit fumptuous Enterainments, in which having piven to Perdicas Darius's Ring, with which be fealed all his Commidions and Difpacches, he dicd, not withour fupicion of Poyfongiren him by cafjaniter his Cup-bearer, at the 33 d Xar of his Age, and 12 ch of his Reign.
Arideus his Natural Brother by the Suffrage of the -rident Army, was cholen to fucceed him, and Perdutin adigned his Governour, but were boch nain not long after, the one by olympia and the ocher by Peotemy. After their Death, the Empire, tho' large enough to have fatiated the Ambition of all, was corn into many pieces, till by the Sword it was all in a thort time reduced under four, of which Seleuctis was one: He obtained the Government of jetimes Srria, and made prefit a Subordinate Province of his Empire: Under this Prince and his Heirs Perfia remained 30 Ycars, notwithtandtong the Difionrenss of the Perficn Nobility, unril Thenincus Govemour of Bactria, which wa; chen a rich Country, and far diftant from Syria, rerolted, and took upon him the Supream Title. His exampie encourageduthe rett of the Eaftern Pcople to flake off the Miscilouian Yoke, and electe chemfelics Kings of their own Countrey. Among them Arfaces, a Nioble Scythian, being well acquainted with the Difcontents of erfia, but chietly moved by Ambition, enters the Coumry in an hoftile manner, defears Andragorras the Licutewanc of the Province, over-tuns Efrcanic, and having obtained the Adfifance of Tirodatis's Son, affronted Seletchus, calted Calcimncolus, in the Field, and having gaira a compleat Victory, urreily abolithed the Syricu Go vermment in Perfia, and arrogated to himfelf the Empire Conqucrour.
Arfaces being thus raifed by Fortune, A. M. 3718 , itr- utarin rited the Scytbians to be Sharers with him in his good ack, and named the Country Partbis, from them (for Pabifunt sexules Perfirum ) keeping the Narive Perfians fabjectionto them: Me enlarged the Bounds of his Dominion almolt from Eupfratus so Indus, living fo high\(y\) honoured by his Subjects, that Crus was not more tecmed by the Perficms Peocmy with the Alayptians, amulus with the Romars, than Arfices with the Parthians: He buitr Dara, aferwards callectaf antara, and now poleripn. The ninth from him called Heredes, had the Honour to give the Reman General hareth Crafus a mernorable Defear, at Carras ; and his Suc-

Phraortes forced Marcus Antonius with lofs fufficient to cercat over Araxir into Syria, bur \(V\) cntidius his Lieuteant two Years after redcemed his Credic, by Rajing
Pacorus, the King of it, in Batrle, and bad reduced fome. the Country to the Roman'Subjection, had not Anthon envying his Glory, recalled him; nerexthelefs the Reman Name was of fuch Terrour by this Defear, that the Parshians acknowledged Obedience to Augiffus Cefry, who by his Election fer overthem Ploraortes II. in whofe time our Saviour the Prince of plament Peace was born.
Orodes, whom fome call Dorideus, fucceeded him, and onten, had for his Succeffor Vonones, to whom Tiridares, thelattof the Arifacide, fucceeded. He was Trumath lain by.
Artalinnus, whom the Perfians call Ard-Babamen: twelve of this Prince's pufterity fwayed the Parthicn Sccptar afer cach other, until the latt was treachercully flain by Caracalle the Roman Empcrour, under a Pretence of a Marriage with the proctizian King's Daughter, which. Breach of Faith to highly incenfed the pa.thinns, that they maintained a gallane and defperate Fighe againft the Romans under Caracellc, nor would bexeconcilet, cill they underfood, cmaxich thar
Mar

Macrinus, his Gencral, had revenged their Quartel Narimen, upon Craracalla, and poffeffed his Throne: Neverthelefs he cnjoyed the Kingdom but one Ycar, and then' gare place to Heliogabalus, who held the Roman Scepter three Ycars, Heirade and then gave place to Alexander Severtus, who was buried ar York. In bis time the Perfinus under the Command of Artaxcracs, endeavoured to recover their Ercedom,

\title{
the mor dor
}
.

\title{

}

\section*{lien
ther
Sap \\ Sapr
Stheir} him

\section*{at lad he ha}
, imple and af
\(V_{\text {ara }}\)
call \(B r\)
\(10^{\circ} \mathrm{A}\) at Ning
No
fible whofe him wi tel was height 0

to Shapo
ro the \(R\)
Chriftia
Chriftia
vereign ing fer
ung ler \(u\) 马utinn th in the Le the Grear

akis the pract ftians, ro thele Tyr
thele Ty Memory
the Blood Church, :
© Ecch-fias
soccijhias to the Chr Territoric
Mai Clefiphon: defpairing abour the the Age ou dom to his Artcxere his Farewe - Sapires ruled ten \(T_{n+d}^{d-g i r}\) Socrater rep thop of Me thap of Me end by Po whofe pert Temple, a preceding \(C\) thenibly wo rizid ; bue 426. in the Varanes 11

\section*{Chap．XXII．Sir Tho．Herbert＇s Travels．into Afia and Africa，occ． 443}

Freedom，and after three days fighr broke off the Roman ；．e．Father and Iom the Perfians call Ardiyr－Balian－cham， he Perfian Throl mans had en－roach，burt confidering how much the Re－ dor to them to demand Refisirc；fent his Embalfa－ dor to them to demand Refticution．Severus，with a confuerable Ariny，advances towards Perfin to return an Anfwer，but having divided his Men inio three parts， fo weakend himfclf，that he recurned withpur effecting any thing，and tho little Bleod was file，yer this want of fucects fo raifed the Spirits of the Perfians，that when was dead，marched againtt them wich hopes of ficceed－ ing berter than Scuerus had done，is fell our worls， for Sapores his Succeffor beat the Reman Army，and took Valerian，Surnamed Colobus，Prifoner，whom，to his \(d y-\) ing day，lie made his Foottool；a greac contempe to the Roman Name，yer the deferved punith：nent of this Emperour，who had been fo greas a Perfecutor of thie Chriftians，and had broiled S．Larprouce to Death．Gith－ lienus fucceened Valcrien in the Reman Empire，bur nei－ ther hic，nor any of his Succelfors，for four rums，gave Sappres any moleftation，fo bad was the Encertainmens their Predectlors had found againft them：This gave him the more leifure to exercife his Tyranny ar home， and difurb the World abroad，for he coafted with his Amy into Syin，cilicit，menfoonmia，Cappadocin，and at laft was Main by Oderiatus the Pcimyrian King，when he had reigned \(=0\) years，
Hormida reigned after Sapares；the Perfians called him Bromitul．Kirman－foit，he ruled bur i Mon ， Kirman－fin，he ruled bur a 3 Monchs，and then yiclded his place ra his place to Vararanis，who porfeffed the Throne 3 Years．
Nar／fs，called Yẽ̈d－gird by the Pcrfans，followed him and after 16 Years reign lefe the Crown to his Son cull Braran．He，after a few Monchs，left the Thronc 102 atranger named rofll sinfes：This Prince profccured the War with all por－ fible rage againtt the Acmenians and Mcfopatamions，in whofe behalf Galkrius，the Raman Conful，fought againft him with bad fuccefs at firft，but vencuring a fecond Bat－ tol was Victor；which ro difheartned Narfer，that in the height of Defpair and Impatience he burne himfelf，af－ tcr 8 years Governmenc．
Mizdates reigned 7 ycars afier him，and left che Throne ta Shapores，or King Porus．He was a reftlefs Adverfary to the Rommens，and tyrannical to the Perfazns，and to the Ceriign before he wasicious．He was acknowledged So－ vereign before he was born，the Crown as a venture be－ ing fer upon his Mocher＇s Belly before fing ler upon his Mocher＇s Belly before the was delivered． in the Leffer Alia，than Sapmore againit the Chrittian the Greater，the foms perfwading him，that che Cbriffians frumpry Moltare Romans；and lo from the Year 337 to 347 min he Mallacred above rhinty thoufand Chriftians，is being the practife in chefe Primitive Times，anong the Chri－ ftians，to oppore force with patience only，and tho thefe Tyrants thoughr，by thefe means，to afftroy the Memory of Chrift and his Doetrine，yer they found that the Blood of the Martyrs was indeed the Seed of the Church，according to the Old Verfe；Sanguine fundesa tecligias Sanguine crcpit，\＆cc． 7 ulian our of Cruelty to che Chriftians，as well as our of Ambicion befieging bis Teritories，was mortally wounded under the Walls of Clefipton by an Invifible Hand，and＇expired with chis defpairing Exclapartion，Vicijit，Galilac，Vicifi；and abour the fame time Sapores being at Mopfiorior，a Town under Mount Taurus，fighed out his affrighted Ghoft ar the Age of 71 Years，and A．C． 380 ．leaving his King－
domto his Brocher dom ro his Brocher
His Fancrux of itho in the 14th Yearof his Reign took his Fancwel of The World，and Sapires fucceeded him，bur reigned bur five Years． Warancs，Surnamed Cimmiarar，was the next Heir，and ruled ren Years ruled ten Years．
 Socrater reports，thar he was Converted by Maruthas Bi－ Thop of Mefoporamia，who was fent into Perfia for thas whofe perfwation tent and Theodofirs the Emperor，by whole pertwafion he deftroyed the Prraum；or Idol－
Temple，and extinguifhed the Fire，which for many preceding Generations had by thofe，Gentiles been Hea－ thenifly worfhipped．The PerfianStories fay he Apofta－ tizid ；bur that is not fo certain，as that he died \(A, D\) ． 46．in the 2och Year of his Reign
Varanes IV．or Babaran，Inherired the Regal Dignity．

Defence Theodofius Jun fery to the Chriftians，for whofe my．Varancs diftrufticig his draburus with a gillane Ar－ Aid from Alamn durus his own ftrength，requefted mies had their Rards，an Arabicm Saracen．Thele Ar mies had their Rendeżvous about Bnly！on，buit before the Batrel begun，fuch a pannick fear feized the Pagan that they fled，and were above a hundred thoufand of chem fwallowed op in Eupbrafes，befides what fell by the Sword of their Purfuers．Thic Pcrfian King fecing Divine Vengeance chus to purfuc hinn，was Heart－broken Weath grief，anid dicd，whica he had tymanized cwenty Xears．His Succefor was Varancs V．he made a l＇eace with the Einiperor Mar－Furanci it： Peroats died in the 17 th Year of his Reign． was a Prince more rath poflefed che empry Thronc．He Perrar： Wars with the Scjeticula than valiaut；and perifthed in his Years．
Valens，or Belax；or \(\mathcal{F}\) ular，was then chofen King，and Polent ruled four Y cars．
Cabiacs，or Cobad and Cancedes，gor nexe into the cubakst Throne，and poffeffed is cen Ycars；and then was Depofed formazind reigned four Xears，and hambafe， men ohould be for making a brutith Edict，that Wo Then mould be common，and Cancilcs placed in the Wrocher ：Bur he being through too much lenity to his fored made blind uncexpectedly；the Tyranr was re－ becaufe sher He made great Wars upon the Romans Colchos they had induced Zatus，King of the Lazars in ror fuftininn himfelf Atanding Conftanrinopls，thé Empe－ ror fultininn himfelf ftanding the Godfather，and meft of the Nobility of offia honouring the Solemnity．He how many thoufand of the Lazims and Armenians in this War，and died when he had reigned jo Years． Cybro；，his Son，was after the accultomed Solem－ Tyrame that ever reigned in ：He was the moft cruel yrams that ever reigned in Perfic．He made a Peace with fuftinien the Roman Emperor for an hundred Ycars， moft．He it roon，and exafperared him to the utter molt．He put ro Dearh his innocent Brocher Brlax and aged Uncle A／pebides；and when the Reople mumpured 25 it，he commanded them to follow him inno Syrin where he engaged them in a defperare War againft the palmerich，who，under zenobin＇s Condut：bear them oundly．In revenge whereof，he plundered Barroofa Infoch，Seleucia，Apamola，and ocher Parts chereabouts． of her bepor Havilhed Euphemia，a Chriftian Lady，and Hii Luft and manded the Nymphs of Deptme to him，leaft he foould of papme to lacrifice Incenfe－to Church befigould ravilh them．He burmt Sr．Michaels rufolcm，bureged sergiropolis，and atteropted to fpoil \(\mathcal{F}\) e rencwed his Learing thar Bellifanus was approaching，he which he never incended to Romens to avoid the ftorm， next Year．Ar this time the foep，for he broke．it the Chriftian Faich，and the Romans tencico received the Crom the Chriftians of Romans reccived Complaints Fuftin the Emprians of Colaros＇s Cruelry；wherenpona or，with an Aeror fencs Tiberius to －relieve them．©cofr－ but was overpowerd and vanquilhed．＇Many Perfinns were flain upon the place，and many in the purfuis Cof hros himfelf efcaping narrowly，bur when he came ro．reflect upon his lors，efpecialy of his fire－god．be fell inro fach defpair，that he for afer fire－god，tre buried at Clefipbon， 2 City in Sufcama，nor far from Her culess Alcar，after he had reigned Eighr．and forry Xears caving his Regal Power to Hormind his Son．He was crowned King A．D．s89 thisd year Maurite was very rroublefome，for in his Tiber year Mauritius，Son－in－Law，and Lieutenant to ner of entred Perfia with an Army，and acted all man－ ner of Hoftilities，alcho＇Tama，Cofaroc，\＆ce．did all Come Rmmin tegent it．A．D． 589 ．Pbilippicus，with fians in chofe Parts，encred Poydr，to relieve the Chri－ thar they were brts．Cardarigas being rold by che Megi unar they were brought thither to be deftroy＇d by fome uncontroulable Deftiny，engag＇d them，but lok above chirty thouiand Perfinns in the fight．Berames，a noble Batrian，elcaped from the Romians，：Bur being forced by Hormisda，who was almoft diftracted for this Overthrow 0 put on Womens Garmenrs，and with a Diftaff in his which to brave the Enemy，he retreated into thofe Parts which affected him；and prevarling with Ferra－chan and Byndok，Perfan Noblemen of Account，to joyn with him，they Speedily raifed fuch a Force，as to feize the Cofbroc The The him，crowning in his room his Son Cofbroc．The Soul of his cruel Grandfather fecmed ro coproe be tranfmigrated into this Man，for he firft caufed his own Father to be Affafinated，whom the People had in in thatefteem，thar they deify＇d him．Barames abomi－ Lil 2 natins natriag this Cruelty, thought to have pulled him down, as he lade raifed him up; bur the King having notice of his defign, endeavoured to have raifed fome Forces for his defence, but nor finding any that wonld appear in tis Service, (io gencrally bared was tre) he was forced, to fare his life, to Hy to Byiantium, with his Wife Ceffrea. Mamritius and his Emprefs teccivid him courteoufy, and after he pretended to become a Chriltian, he fent and Army, commanded by Narfes and Commentiofss, to reinuct him in his Empire, which they effected, and Crffroce in gratitualc, profeffed to become a funcere Chri. fian, fending the Emperor a Crois of grear value in Gems and Gold, and a Chalice of the fanc Metal; but as foon as he beard of the Maflacre of Mauritim, with my ane and Chridren, by Phocas the Captain of his Arthe Title of T'piverfal Bifhop, he denied Chrift, yer vowed to Sacrifice himfelfin Mattrisin's quarrel. Thisdone, A.D. 603. with an Army of a hundred thomfand Mcn he entred into Syria, and there did all the mifchief imagirmble, as well as in Pateftinc and Phcruc:. The Leffer Alia alfo underwene his fury, and he chafed the poor Chriftians to Calcedor. After that he cakes Capcffa and Edy/fa; ;and to his facisfaction, in 612 , tears of the unmincty Deatios of Narfes :and \({ }^{\prime}\) hocos this Enemies, who were beheaded by Hernctius. That Year alfo he facked appamer, C.sfrref, Cappadccia, Brc. and was overjoyed at a Victory over the Chirifians at Anrioci, which encouraged thin to over-rum Priefine, and ravage Ferufatem, where tre derided the Venerable Patriarch Zacharias to wex theChriftians, and wok the Crofs from thence, and carricd it to Shrantro, where 'rwas kept fome Xcars:
He much infefted the Roman Enpire, efpecially in Mia Ciuclisy to the atime thians, vowing that he would exterminare their very ained a Victory over the lerfians, atid purfuing Coforoc, made a forcible entry into Clefiplom, which he firft plundered, and then totally demolifhed by Fixe. Cofbros hearing of Sarbarcis ill fuccefs in Tlirace, was inflamed with paffion, and. Cent \(2 n\) Affafine to murder him, but the Emperor's Son having notice of it, difcover'd it to the Gencral, who being provok'd by bis Mafter's ingracitude, raifcd a dangerons Rcbellion.
Coftree fecing things fucceed thas unfortunately, fell cofmet into a Ferex fitti, and then into a Flux, of which he Disti. died, having nominated Mardefes, the Son of Srra his beloved Wife, for his Succeffor, bur before the Crown could reach his Head, he was hain by his Brother Syrocs before his Father's face, which Frarricide, when Cof hroe curfed, his Son commanded fome Villains to fhoor him, and fo he fuffered for the Cruelry he had ufed rowards his Father Hormidda, and breathed our his wretched Spitit when he bad xeigned, or troubled the World rather, 50 Years.
Heraslins hearing of Cafbroc's Death, hoped that the Theines old Quartel was at an end, and sherefore travell'd to fres sprems rufalem to prefent the Parriarch T̃acharias with the Crofs ani hisen he had rectucd from Cofhroe, and arrived there Sepf. 17. peliticts 628. the Saine Xear chac Bmiface Fublifhed his Znizerfal Supremacy to the Workd, and Maluormes his Alcorar.
Syroes, or as the Tarick calls him, Scyrziah, reigned fix \({ }^{\text {Srom }}\) Years, and was then rewarded for his Parricitle, being flain ty Sirtaras, whom the Rerfims call Sbaborr.
Ardchyrlen Xirviah was the next Heir to the Crown, midym bur enjoyed it 3 Manhs only, being alko Murdered by \({ }^{2}\) drant Sarbarai, who was within eighr Mounhs ilain himueff by Joon-fba, or Sbon-form, Lord of that part of Txarus called Larry-Tom.
Foon-/he, at the end of three Months, was banithediongot by Turvan, or Turan-Dra, Nacural Daughtex to Cefher, Tintem who ar the end of 16 . Monerhs was made away by Poifon, and died much lamenred. To her followed

Frinan-Z cddah , who suled 9 Monchs and then died \(;\) frmm. and after him. ruled
- Aiturm-Doit, Cofaroe's youngeft Daughter, who go Amm serned but \(x 6\) Moncls and then died, leaving the Go but. vexmment to Shezir, or Keir, who ar the end of 6 Weeks was Aain shan by .Phong-xeddah, who was poifoned, and gave place Phure. to xffagird, jwhonras forthwith made away:by Bornarm, who met with the fame fate from Iternifdes, who was raken Caprive, and bis Kitan made fubje9t to Mathomer; A.C.640. Hegyra 20. And fo:Pcrfin, after ibere. 2 Succefion of 28 Kings, who ruled it for 400 Xeans, was forced for 2 time to fubmis to the Power of the 5 s. moons, Msolomes wras then in:the Roman Army, and firt putring his Arabian Brigade inro a Mutiny for want of Pay revolted, and being made their Gencral, guickly reduced Artbia, fegypr and Sysia; and finding Perfia in a perplexed, condirión, leized it, Ebubochar fuoceedod ahahomer; he is faid to hare Warred againft the Abnfiner, Drganes and Bermagafec. He died in his, great Climacterick Year, having fat as Caliph, and King of Rerfin, two Xears, and was fucceeded by

Omaror mofomar, Son of Kattab-Taruques, a Wealify \({ }^{0 n \mathrm{me}}\) Mexchant tic purfoed athy, the Son-in-Law of Mato mer, for pretending to the. Caliphohip, and having raifed 2-grear A rnyy, fached Bafhra an Arabian City, and proceeding as:tar as Gabafi, tyranizized oucr Syria and tigyt, Forraged Palftine and Lberia, and Invaded Affria:
After thefe things coming: to Ragdar, his head Quar. encime rens the refolvestarepole there, andif pend the:remainder curithiut of his time in Exercifes of Devocion, making a Vowto encteavion the umoft Extippation of Chriftianity, which he judged the fureft way to propagate the:Alcoran. To . thisend hegavea Cominifion ro inneut, and fends him with:a numerous Ariny firft againft the Sriens, and with fmall oppofition took Dameftus, a City at that time very Weatchy, and fo full of:Delights, as Achemen acknotrledged, that he durft nar tratit himixelf: there for fear of remprations.
Intike manner he fent fondry.orber:Captrins, widh canfiderable. Forfes, to reduce otber Connurics with the 5 word ; 2s Ruffant beg; with 15000 Horfe, to cobyithan. Bar hebeing hain ac the Siege: of Efoair-Mecron, Mifet, pot Sumamed Afber,:commanded afrer him, and fubdured mom

 AName. FEractius bad his hands full arthat ime, and
dofring: Ceffation of Arms, bor not obtrining it, was forced toengage him.once, and again, and was as rifen Victorions; and ar the Batrel of Gazncos pur his Anmy Woflight and :made thim reck his ownirafery in Metith Heractius foughr for :Coforos, bur could not find him, whercupon he executed his iWrath oponihis Xdoh, facrificing:the Flamons for:in, amd excinguifhing the Poraum, mizth which hermixed common Fire, and made is aitive to confume the City to aftes. Coftroetby this time had Qubblecca; to Eorage Atbania; but hearingathey were in a good pofture of defence, he renurnd to wain for Sarbaras writhinew Forice, which, trad they joyned, would have defeated both trofe Ámies in one day, neither knowing of the others dof: Mabomet, the falle-Prophet, was a common Soldier in Feracitios.s Army at this time, becaufe the Inhabitants of that place threaten'd to kill him'for his Innovations, \(A \cdot D\). 622 . and of this Empe or'sReign 13.
Cofbroe being of:a reetlefs temper, commands Sarbaras again,torake the Field with a mamerous Axmy, to try ins fortune with Heractius, who, as 'foon as he heard of oft Jictor; many loft their lives, bar the Perfian Horfe, xivith the General, made : \(a\) fair retrear. The'Emperox shad his Winter-Quarters in Raplidaonint; bue Ceffroe Twells: wich paffion, and refolves to wy another:Batrel before his laft Exir, and: to that end: Mufters rogether an Army of 150000 Men, which be divides inco-tirce pars, giving one to Sajn, whowas to go againft the Emperor, anothenco Sarbaras, who was tomareh to: Conflawineple, and a chind he commanded himelf, flaying uponithe Eromtiers. Heractiusihaving Incelligence of his force anc drifti-divides his Army alfo into threepere, one paxt he aftens inoo Thrace, and anocher under Thte adore to oppofe giment of cbryjobocol, which be mifted-moft in, was routed, and no wonder, fince Gou vifbly thelped the Chriftians in Heraslius's Army, by pouring down fail ftones upon their Enemies. The terfians'flet, "and Sey bimfelf was llain, but his'Bodywas redeemed, which the Tyrant, inftead of allowing: it a decent Burial, commanded:ic:Ahould be :arrayed in: liags, perfuned with Dods-rurids, and cat in opieces, isarbarts in. the mean time entred Thraoe, Fipilaged Cbalcedon, and-laid Siegerto Confantinapic, and for ten daysfonmed:it: but fuch wa the refolution of the Chriftians, that they could nior gain an enirrance, but' heating of Heraclitess eoming they mais'd the-Sieg c, zand made a:fafe; tho'difionourable Re trear, into zheir "owni Quarters. The Enpector refot ving ta retalitue che Perfians'for this': Wiolenee, "ientred Armie - wio with a coafidesable Army, : and in a dong Battel ob

\section*{hap.XXII. Sir Tho Herbert's.Trivels into Afia and Africa, ©c. 445}

Habu-Obed-ben-Mafudli alfo, with 13000 Horse, fubdued Erac, Wrafic upon Digifit and Ei/beer, tho' at firft xepulfed with the lofs of sooo Men ; Yefigird the Perfian General oppofed the Saracms at Galula; Spaliamm and \(r_{\text {azd }}\) but Omar's fortune in other places difpirited his Men, fo that they did noching with fuceels. After \(\mathrm{P}: / \mathrm{J}^{2}\) irrd's Death, Hormifda laboutcd to repel the Saraccus, and recover the Liberry of his Country, but was flain with his whole Army. Omar, about 6 Months after this Battel, was flain treacheronny, and was buricd in the Alaba ar Mecfa near to Elubocar, his Predeceffor, afte he had ruled 12 Xcaps.
\(O_{i} \boldsymbol{i}^{\text {man, }}\), in delpighr of \(A l l\), fucceeded him, and reigned ten Years, having the Pontificacy four Months. By Hucba, his Field-MAarhal, who commanded a grear Body of Horfe, he Cubjected divers Parts of North-Aficik, as Nimidia and Maturifania, as tar as Tunis or Carbage.
Miaui, Sultan of Damaffo, over-run Syric, Eoypt, Cy-by chates of Lyudus, at the expence of 300 Talents in 12 dears, This huge Image was of gilded Brafs; 80 Cubits high, the Thumb as big as a large Man, the Legs food on cither lide of the River, fo wide, that a large Veffel under Sail might pafs between them. In one Hand is held a Jayelin pointing to the Eaft and in the Breaft was a Miirrour, in which the-Inhabitants of the lile conld defcry Ships at a diftance. He fold it to a Few of Emisfo for 200\%. Sterling, who broke it down, and loaded \(930^{\circ}\) Camels with the Brafs of it. He allo defaced 100 opher Colofur's, and 70000 Softly Manuments: Haraclizs the Roman Emperor died A. C. 640 . after be had reigned 30 Ycars, and Heracliur's Conftantinus fucceeded him. He was poyfoned in the 7 th Month of his Empire, by Martina bis Step-Mocher, thar the mighr advance her Son Heracleonas, but conurary to their expeftation the Reople banifhed them both, curting off cheir Nofes and Tongues, and Confans was falured Emupon the Alcoran, which he digefted into feven finall Tracts, and fubdivided into an 1 ITA Cbapters. And fince. hrabomer in thie fecond and rhird Axoara, promifes the greateft fliare in Paradife to fuch as deftroy mont \(U\) ubedicvers, ozman:hasing done his Church-work, devifes from this Doctrine to enlarge his Empire. but under chis Charitable.pretence, to khew other Nations the way to Pasadife; and to thatend, promifes his Blefung to any that would undertake the Conqueit of India. Abdel-Bex-Enyr, a Mian both Valiant and Saperfitious, accepts the Task, and with 30000 Mcn haftens thitherwards, but by \(O_{\text {In }}\) man's Inftructions fret directs his Courfe towards Tarfert, and fubdues Afiz, Corafan, Maurenabar, Gafreben, and Dilengen, as far as \(\frac{\text { felrun and } A \text { - }}{}\) dor, Rivers beyond the Oxus. Oinman by thefe Conquefts made himfelf the moft puiffant Prince then living, yct the Mulcitude at home was fo enraged againft him, that he,was forced to driots Poifon yoluntarily to efcape being tlain by them; and to he died in the \(\delta 8\) Ycar of his Age, in tice sth Xear 2nd Sch Month of his Caliphrtip, A.D. 655 -

AMy, the right Ficir, was afeer his Death faluted Caliph by the Army, which confitted of 10009 Rerfiens, and 20000 Arabs, ar Meccha; but his Reiga was full of trouble, for Mawi the Syrian, chicf of the Ommiari Race, ftorming ar Ozman's fall, and thinking himfelf worchy of fucceed thim, enters Arabia wish a hupdred thouland Men relolving to Depole Aly, but in the firt Encounter was welt bearen, and loot ten chaufand of his Men, bur at the fecand Batrel, Aly lot not only the Day, bur bis Life and Chown, and Mavi, or Mnamias, was faluted King, Aly died in the 3t Xear of his Age, and was buried at chofqued oear Cufe, apan Explorates. He left a Ring, with which the Perfan Kings Wed their Kingdom, and the Motto of it is, Corde Sincero Deum Vcincror. By Easima, Mabomet's only Daughter, Ally had Ffocem, who had twelve Children, which Mavi Ilew all, bur Mufa-Cherfim, or Ma-homet-Mabadin the youngeft, who efcaped, and is thoughiftill to be alive.

mevishaving thus ftated himedf in the Government, fent Sufindus bis Kizrman with a great Force again!t the Grecians, and so befiege Syracufe and Bytantium, but by Confantine the:Emperor he was thain, with chirty thouand other Saracens of his Army.
The fame Year the Plague raged fo horribly in the Mabonetan Empire, that the like had not ever been known, and Mowi liimifelf died of.it, in the 77 th Year of his, Age, and 24 of his Reign; his Symbol was ignefce precor. He w was.fo implacably bentiagaintt the Family of Ally, that befides the Slaugher of his Son and Grandebildren, the caufed an ana-bemin to be ufed daily in their Common-Prayer againft him, which the Onminrị Family conninued fur cíght Defecrits, till by Omer it was abolithe.t, and the Murder of Aly's Family wa revenged by Ablalla-Sophy the 2ad Caliph, who inviting all the Ommiriri Race, being so Perfons, to reccive the Fealty, caufed them all so be Murdered, and then had this Dirge fiung over them; For slie day of Huffan and lis Even Sous. Abour this time there were fuch terrible troter Earthquakes in \(A f\) :, that 600 Cities and Villages were firctiywness o: erturned by them in one Nipht.
 Poct, and pur the Alcorim ino Khime. His Rior and Vencry fo exasperated wher-Atrevia-Bem-Abdella, that he made hum away when he was but 40 Xears old, having ruled bue three Xears.

Mutar ivas as quickly Dethroaed by Aldt-Ben-facd a Ban and then was depofed by and then was depoicd by Marvan, who was difoofferfed by ALdilla, who was bercfe of Life and Kingdom by Aben, or Audal-Melec, who was foreced to fly by Didacus, as he himfelf was by Oyldore, who was hain by fiffin:an:a help by Solyman, who was expulfed by Sturent
dianis.
sien:
Distrus.
opictice.
Aldat-Mcicc, who returning from Banifmacir, took re--, venge to the uttermoft upon Matais Murdercre. The Acto Chridtians were the worfe to this En.l.tment, for he forthwith Forraged Syric, Armenia and T...ers, and in the fifteenth Year of his Empire died, orlaining Succefor. This Caliph died of griet, beeante the Armics, which he had rear into spoin; rebelled a;ami him.
zulonmy fuccecded him, ant him
Omar-Ben-Abdemanat, who was depoled bj \(x_{s}=i d\), the Son of Melec the late Caliph.
znemme
 Hutmas \(\xrightarrow{T \cdot c t a}\)
Eb: ahim marched off fonn afrer him, a fool-hardy and teramm nnfortmoate Prince. iffer his Death the Empire was diided berwcen Afick, invaded Europ: with all the Forecs they could get ogether. Lfai:d's Armv, lad by Aidirame, having firt crofled the Streight in Veffels, marched into spain, conquered Granada, and ferled thenifelves rhere for feven hundred Xears, till of late Firdinand and his Succelfors diove them our, and foreed them inen Burbery. Geaid Forces, led by S'a-Rel/an, entred Fance, but mot with fuch reliftance from Charics Martel, then fings, and 3 cens Fremel, that after a long and fmare fight, in lightof the City of Tours, in Tourcine in Frence, the Smatens wers bearest, and chree hundred thonfand of them flain, 7 u ly 22. 726. The News of this misfortune to afficted the two Caliphs, that they died mad.
 in his Gencral parpofed to invade Tersay with an hundred thoufand \(M\) cn, but in the way was affauted by Sophy Scilyr, Sr. \(A_{i} m a l / \bar{\prime}\) Son, defended from \(A l l y\), and in the condict \(\mathbb{A}_{\text {ain. }}\) Naroan, in revenge, invades Per fia with three huncired thonfand Men, and encounecrs s:on near Spabatn, who vanguithed the Arsbian with the lofs of an hundred thourand of his Men. Marionnaffrighted ar this lofs fies to Belohon, and from thence by Mecce inta EAgp:. Salyn purtucs fim, and by his Baniflument or Death put an cins to the Race of his inveterate Enemics the Benbumiant, begun by ifeci. The Family of Ally, or Ber:Abbers, beran by risis means to recover the Scepter of Perfa, A.D. 750 . Hes. 150 . when
St. Apmulli mounted the Throre. He wais Cownod sin amplio. King ar Cufe, and far as Caliph alfo; for atho Ahetritia oppored him for a while, yer he held ir asaint him. Abour this time ir was thar the Tares, living then in the moit Northerly Paris of Keferbas, made an liruprtion chrough the Cijpien Sereights, and for fome time feared themelves in Tarsomanta, a Province in simeni.. she Grearer. This \(A_{2}\) mulli it was, thar revived Murer's Tenenss to the Honour of \(A l l y\), and Difgrace of the chate Succeffors of Mabom:r, publiliced aftexward liy Sict Gunet of Ardavet!. Sr. Aizmuli being dead, his Son

Salign wasfalured King, who living bur 3 Years, Abubcor, called Bugfoftr and Almanfor, fucceeded hum, niatuer A. D. 75 S. Hes. \(13^{8}\). He repaired Brgder.

Mchad-Abubilla followed him, and next to him matati reigned Mafes, or Eladi Mirza. In his time Charlemegne flou-Mofs ilhicd, and this tle underKing Edgar changed its name from Brigain ro England. He was the Father of

\section*{446 Jir Tho．Hetrbert＇s \ravels into Alia and Africa，Wc．}
of．He had a grear amity with the Empeak fo much and they fent Emballadors and Prefents to one another He is faid to have died a Cbriftim，In his time fome Fanarick Schollars undertook to fly in the fighre of thou fands，bur perifhed among the Rocks，tho＂the Wind was high．Anron，after 33 Xears Rule，died，and was fuc－ coeded loy
Mathomer his San，who reigned five Xears． Abitaten came after him．Heraged againt the chrifti－ ans，and trouhted feveral．Illands in the Mchiterraneal． Sca，and dying，wax fuccecded by thall．－ce：wn，who equally vexced the ctriflions，di－ furbed Ital），andalarmed Rom．，bur he in a thore ciarc yinlded to fate，and was fuccecded by thefe caliphop in order．
\begin{tabular}{|c|c|}
\hline \(15 * 5\)－ & Motader． \\
\hline Aimuta． & S／hakr． \\ \hline Minutacer． & R．f／an． \\ \hline Albar． & Reit－By \(/\) ． \\ \hline Aluliacircn． & Aluctati． \\
\hline Almotes． & Mrrial．\({ }^{\text {a }}\) \\ \hline Mantat－Biln． & Taytha． \\
\hline Aimer－llemed． & Krankract． \\
\hline Mutaicc！． & Moirmer． \\
\hline
\end{tabular}

MToctafi－bjlit．
Mnirmer．
E：－Traere，in whom conded the Caliphs of the Arabik or Pergian Stem；for then A．D． 1030 ，Meg． 410 ，came in

Tengroipix the Tircomen，who was called into Pe：fia by the then sultan，to aifit him againft the Butrolonian Pitaftry：When the Tirk had freed Mithonce from his Danger，he defired to go into Armenia to vifit his Kin－ dred，who were lately feated there；bur was denied， which he relented withfuct impatisuke，thar betiore Ma－ lomere could appcafe the angry Turk，he was bereaved！ bothof Life and Kingdom．In his Death the Family of 5．\(A\) Fimuth was eciipicd，till slan－l／pmel received the Splendour of is．From Tang rolipix defiended Heg．6Sat 矢id the Foundarion of the Turkifo Empire in dfi．s ant Euripe，as the Salghuicars commanded Perfin， begun by

Togrui－3ct，Son of Sa＇ghuicrs，Son of Didacus che Turk or Tircter．He was Rain by Treafon，and his Succefour was Fharera－zese．
Ebruim－lent
ALSHA．
Pberug－icd，Mofuc＇s Son，who was Alain by Olo－ben－ ESolan，Prince of Gainchen，and Icft his Government to Elrcim－bcn－AMrfud，whof Son Ahafud having marricd the Daughter of treicc－fb．King of Turqueflan，entred Perfic with a great Army from Cornfan，and near Tabriz Alv Aimodfar／had－bia－Caliph，and in ant ther Fight Refroul－bilc，his Son at Sptiantr．To Mufudin Gax－nchen， fucceeded Shro．Eform，whe was nain by Batheron－fha his Brother，and Cofrbao his Son ruled in his Atead，whoafter he had furaged indic，died \(H E g .6+0\) ，and in him the S．tbutaque Family came to an ent．In thefe rimes whofe ferenth Succeltor Mrogerd．armm and Rimifianfore
bita ilangor． and

Ciarartr－Ma－
Kurn－IIIPph． chace． Cbarar Mabomes the T：iok，enercd Perfia，A．D． 1415. Hes．795，and having ruled threc Years，left Karc－tijupb to fuceed hin．He alfo died after three Ycars at Casbyn，and leffolix Sons，of which all of chem died untimely，except Feon－Si：In his time the Orionicn Race had to en－ larged their Conqueft in the Leffer Afin，that che Grecian Princes，（to fop that Imperuous Torrent）were forced by their Embaliadors to beg the Protestion of the Victo－ rions Taran，Tamberlanc，who haring lately reccived an Affront from the Turk，willingly undertook it，and with a！！the Force he could make，marcherh againt Bajazet． Near Mount Scells（in the Phin where ponipo worfted －hithridates）was maintain＇d a long and bloody Fighr be－ tween them，bue the Vialor fell no Tambertane，who few many tho：fand liark to gain ir，and having raken Ba－ javer，pur him in an Iron Cage，as Men ufed ro do Wild Beatts，and carried him in thar ridiculous pofture，thro＇ all his Marih，after whelty the reft of the Turbifh Pro－ vinces fubmicted to him，withour any confiderable re－ listance．Tamberlane pafing thro medic towards Sa－ meicland，gave a Friendly Vifir so Sysf，or Shec－Scffe，a reputed Saint at that time；living in Ardavil，who per－ cciving that by He jarc－Miran＇s Advice，the Conquerour had decreed many thoufand Prifonersto Slavery or Death， begged their Libert：，which Tamberlane grancing，this Aicrey highy increaled the Opinion of his Holynefs．

Tamberlane foon after died，vir．A．D． 1407 ，and was bu． fian Saine followed，leaving a Son behind him，allea Sics Ganct，who pretending to great Zeal，and，Anglled Contemplarion，firted all things for Zeal，and Angelical Comemplation，tirted all things for the pulling down of oom－S／ar，which he thus cffected：He invited menian，King Overthrow of Milaonones，and the death of \(\mathcal{F}\) by the Overthrow of Mrataonols，and the death of Fcom－Sha， was quickly cffected，\(A\) ．\(D\) ．1470．Hea 8 ． Was quickly effected，A．D．1470．Heg．850．The Saint of didaveil in the mean time compoled a new Mo del of Church Affairs，with a Defign to make a perpetu－ al Schifm berween the Tu ks and Perfirme，which the Victor was concented to permic．The Opimion of the Syet＇s Holineds made his new Dostrine robe received with－ out Examination．He raught them，that Eiculnci \(i\) ，Omrr， and \(0_{i}{ }^{* \prime \prime n}\) ，the three Caliphs that fucceeded Alatomer， whom they had formeriy cflecmed as Propicts，wore hopoflors，and Ineruders upon the Caliph．Ship（is being ashifor Ally＇s right，upon the account of his Marriage with Tuterem Eirti，n．t，thatomer＇sonly Danghter）and to it wis chought Permend fir chat thofe three pretended Prophers thould le expung－ ed the Calendar，and reputed Herericks．This has caul－ ed an irreconcilable Difference berwecn．The his has cauf－ iants So thar the Former accoune the 1 Theres and Per and the Mufti declares it more meriterious Hereticks， l＇crfian than an hundred Chrftians．This Breach wascon－ trised by Cranet to advance bis owa Tribe；as defcended from Mirat Cerifim，the Grandfonof Ally，and to make his Accets to the Crown caficr，which，when Foom－fha perceived，Gunes withdrew himfelf into the Arabian Ter Cations，where he married Merriba the Daughrex of Ujar－ Caflan to his Son Ayder．Myrate，that hisAccefs to the Throne might be rendred more cafy．Ufan－Cialfan ftill kepr whac he had conquered，and lived long in Peace，maincaining a good Correfpondence with Malomer the Grear Turk，till Turks Dominions，in by the Icnetians，he invaded the wirk Dominions，and foughe feveral times fuccefffully with two great Turkjb Gencrals，Muffeplan and Amurretn or grief of was overpowered and werited by Mabomst； Ycar 1477，and was buried at Casbyn．He left in the Sone Ycar 1477，and was buricd at Casbyn．He left fcyen
Sons，bur moft of them came to untimely ends andtheir Sons，bur moft of them came ro untimely ends，and their Children fell into many Quarre＇s among themfelves forthe Diadem，till at lengch mof of them being kilid，and the reft fled，
Evan－brg got the Poffolion of it，and kept it peaccably Eiment． five－Xears，nill fecing Ayder his Brother－in－Law grown popular by his Sanctiry，he grew Jcalous of him，and fo by the Suggeftions of facup，he cauled him to be murder－ ed，and had done the like to his Son Ifbmal，bur that hav－ ing dimely notice of it by a Friend，he withdrew to Pr－ Ally，the Governour of Mozendram，and fo cfeaped the Danger．If mate in the mean time，as his Years cincteaf cd，fo did his Repuration with the Perfirns，whe fecing his Couraqe and ingcunity，wifhed for an Opportunity to raife him higher，which he was as ready to embrace． Morta，or Avnarath，Eitian＇s Brother，aiming at the Crown，gave Ifomarian Occalion to raife what Forces his Friend Pri－Ally could allift him with，upon the jut Pretence of fecuring himfelf，and revenging bis Farher＇s Death；and lo he yoffificd bimfelf of Sumerl，which he fortified．Elvan immediately advanced with all his Forres to fupprefs thefe Rebellions，：and fortunarely wortted Morad，and obliged him to fly for fafery into Arabia；bur his Succefs with lfomael was clear different； for Ifbmacl having obrain＇d many additional Recruits from Taurs，and efpecially from arzeniom，firt dew Pharac－Ifupl，his Father＇s Murderer，and then joining Bato ile with his Uncle Elyan，at ornear Xefdicakz，the Mid－ way herween Speliamen and Sbrore，after an hour＇s Fighr bad the better，añd pur．Etuan＇s Army so flighr，himilelf eing dain in the purfuir，and to
I／kmael，furnamed Sopliy，borh by Blood and Conqueft，gomatsom gor the Perfian Scepter into hisHand，the People receit－ ing him with univerfal Joy，for．the Reitauration of the Dadem to a Prince of cheir own Blood．The Crown was no fooner on I／hmait＇s Hicad，bur by Proclamation he ratified the Reformation his Grandfather had concriv＇d， and declared the Turks Herericks，and to affure then of his Fitnefs ro govern，he cntred liartbic wich a confidera－ ble Army，and reduced ir，and foon after did the like to Armenia，Aibania，ILena，and SarcenBia，which he chat－ lenged for his Righr，as defeended of Ufrn－Cu／han，to Aydars，Difciple，our Turks．About 1506 ，Tecbellis Aydars，Difciple，our of zeal to propagate his new Conformity，with，a cond force the crroncous Turk to 2 Conformity，with a confiderable Party of Horfe，which正nel gave him liberry to raife，and divide with：his Fellow－Difciple Caffor，gave a notable Difturbance ro

many
into \(D\)
the Turks for fome time, for having adjuitged the Turp's Hereticks, and proclaimed them Enemies to the Faith of the Mulfalmen, worthy to be profecited with Fire and Sword, they entred Natolia in an Hottile manner, with twenry thoufand Horfe and Foot. They defeated Orean the Governour of thofe Parts, under Bajazer, in a piech Battel, at Liomium ncar h.ycaomix, and foon after did the like to Carago-es, and Ally Bafor, in the Plains of Ancyra; fo that \(B\) ijaret himfelf was ftartled at theirSuccefs, as if Tamerlanc's Gholt were revived. And certainly, had Iflomucl furnibhed this Captain with Recruits, and given him fich encomragement as he deferved, he had made a great progrefs againit the Turks, but filing, he was forced to maintain his Men uponPlurder, which rendred him odious to the Country, and gave the Tark advantage againft him; fo that Iflemacl, to appeafe the one and gratify the Ther, pur Tectollis to Death.
This Storm being blown over, Briazer obferving that menexe Thnmel's Prudence and Con tuet might difappoine his Demonel figns of extciding his Empirc, both Ealtward towards Indur, and W"cftwatd againtt the Chriftians, thoughe is Wifom to make a Peace with che lorfom, that he might not be interrupted in his Detignis. During this Pace, Ilhmach was as active as \(B\) ajiacec, for he reduced Sherem, Giy/an, the Princes in Hiceng cheuflan, Krmoan, and Nation, that were not Fcudatory to him; part of Mefmedicm, and made Aenn-Aity, King of Cornan, an Homager to him. I/bmat having this cularged his Domimioms, directs his march, witil al his Foree, towards otus, and having pafed thar River, harraffed and ploundered all the Provinces, Citics and Towns, of that part of Sothia, as far as Balke, the Merropolis of the \(\tau /\) ensTertios; thas fufficienty sealiating the Tartar for the Inroads and Difturbancei dicy had at fercral times given the Perfin to oblige the Turk.
But hearing that Bryster, at the importunity of the bear war Tertars, was drawing towards the Confines of Porfic, on with spil holy of hore and root, he retreatedioad was brought him, that the Turks were drawing tewards Riazn, and that the Mclopotamians, under che Turk, had by trachery sor inro Brasdat and plundered it, ufing the Pofinn Garrifon barbaroully, by calling them Raffadins, or Hercticks, and cutring nif the Noics and Thumbs of many of them. I/bmec/, to revenge thefe Cruelties, fell into Dicruee with tifty thouland Horfe, and harraffed the Tirkifh Quarters to purpofe, and engaging the Enemy near Caramir, had the better of them, and purfued them to the Banks of T:gres.
In the X'car 1 git. Mcg. Sgt. Ifomacl again recovered bum of the treachery of bame-uct, who for a certain Potaructe igene was civilly troned by thmas at Ban, and Bciazacs was poifonct by a fem, and his Son Selim fuccected hinn. Ifbmecl provoked him to make a War asaint him by harbouring Morch, or Amurath, his Elder Brother's Son, and purting him at the Head of ten thoutand Horic ; whercupon Selim in Perion marched againft him wirh an Army of 300000 Foor and Horle, and paffed the River Arcuis by the help of their great Guns. Ifmeel having Intelligence of Selim's approach, marched againft him with thirty thoufand Horfe, and fixtr thoufand Foor' tho' the Perinim Annals allow nor above half the number. The Empcrors and their Armies drew up in a large place, called the Cellderen Plains.not fas from Coy, and nearer unco \(\lambda_{a}\) fiz:an, where for full 16 hours 2 moft memorable Battel was fought, with equal fierceaefs and refolution on both fides, and tho there was Tound Ien Turksto one Perfien Alain, yet-for as much as there was no Chafe, the Victory is not clear ; but becaufe Selim immediarely after the fight retreated into Cerrmamin, it may feem to thave inclined to the Pefinn fide. In his recurn he caufed Aladeales, the King of Anti Tuurus, to be frangled for his Correfpondency with Ifkmeel, and his Nephew Morrd. Soon after this, Sclim with all his Force invaded. Ezzpr, and by the treachery of Caer-ber, the Sultan of Aleppe, vanquifhed Campfon Gnurus the King of it, and made his Kingdom a ProFince, which the Turk holds to Ehis day: Soldien mean time Ifomac/ took care of his wounded duedr, and having recruired his Army; petfectly fubdued Monendram; and for the better prefervation of his Perfon and Honour, inftituted a Life-guard for himfelf called Conac-Bc/ba's, confifting ar firft of an hundred, but now of a thoufand Horfe, moft of thein Georgians, all well-experienced Micn, and well-reputed for Arms, and for that reafon thicy have extraordinary Pay. While thefe things were doing, Bagdat, by the treachery of mabomet Ally-ber, was again delivered to the Turk, and Sha-Tamas was born at Ardavil; and in the five fuc-
v: . Helcawn, Sermi
In the Xear 1520. Sclym the Grear Turk died, ande was selim digd, rucceeded by Solynan, sfomat furvived him but five and selyman Years, and then left his Crown in the 20th \({ }^{\text {Yedran }}\) of his tucceceded Reign, and 4orh of his Age, (being buricd at Ardavil near his Anceftors) to Tamas,or Tiloamas-f?np. In his time Solyman having got- tome ten Bnisylun, reduced Diarlec and parr of Cbyfifth, with all the ad acent Countries that conitine the North of Arabic, as far as Britforr. From henice the Great Turk had a fair profpect into the Perfian Gulph, and began to think of Conquering all che Regions as far as Inelus. To that end having buile a great Navy as Sura, he fent is under the. Commaud of Solyman Boifo, wich ten thoufand Men, to furprize Dia. The Porturu-t had private notice of the Dotign, and tho' fecretly carricd, had fo well provided for them, that when the Turks came before it, they re pulfed them with gricat lofs, and funk fo many of their Sps, that not one third part of then lived to return. a suceefs fo grateful to the Pe.ficn King and Mogut, that they Congratulated the Chriftians for it.
solyman was hearrily vexed at his lol's and difgrace, bur thoughe fir to difemble ir, and ctrawing up all his Sarman inHoric oue of Diarbe: and Caremania, he fell unexpected-and ir roured y into Modia, and entred Tabiis withour oppofition by Dimened where be cur down the Trecs, fprilid the Gardens, Ice ther. velled the King's Palace, and oches Houfes, to the ground and carried away the rich Spoils to Caramit in Diarbec. Tran is, and the Perfian Nobility, who were fufficiently iscenced by thefe Actions, was not idle in the mean time to find means to retaliate, and for that end ordered Delementics, a Perfon who had many times engaged the Turk, with ocoo Horfe to fullow them in the Rear, which he did, and much galled them; and when their Army was drawn up nar Bethis to fighr him, he fell into their Quarters in che Niphas with a mighty noile, and after a lirtle refittance put them into luch a Confufion; hat they fed where they could beft to fecure themfelyes. In the purfuir, five Sanziacks, cight hundred Janifaries; and twenty thouland private Soldiers, were flain, forty ieces of Cannon taken; and all his Scrazlio of fine Wohardly of wheded Old Soimm dorcd. The two Baffa's lardly elcaped, and Ebratim the chicf fell under his Mafter's difpleafure; and was foon after ftrangled. Solyman the next Year, in the Head of an hundred and fifry thoufand Men, re-enters Pcrfir; and Sha-Tamar, having had expericnce that the Turks had great advantage agrinft them by their Ordnance, prevailed with the Vice-Roy of Gor to furnim him with 5000 Rorturusi good Fire-men, from their Garrifons, whicia they willingly granted, becaufe of the lare Invafion of Din by the Tarks. The Portugufe biought with diem a Train The Peffert of trency Pieces of Cannon, which in the fight fo mif-worlt tic chicyed the Tarks, thar the Per/izns had the better, werk. Which they impured to the good Services of the Chriftiams. Solfman by this mifinance was forced to draw back into Natolin, but hearing that Maftapion, whoo had incurred his Father's difp'cafure, had commitred himfelf to the Perfinn, he marches elinther again with an Army of cighty thoutand Men, Loing all the mifchief he could. Tamas, to prevent the fpuiling of his Councry; advanced with all the Force he had as far as Eerci, where coming to an Engagement, thè Perfian Horfe, not cndering the noife of Guns, forfook the Ficld and lied.
Muftapio. being thus left to mijti for himfelf, fled to his Father's Tenc, and befought pardon for his Mother \(R_{2 x} x\)-ftronglet Ellana's fake, but the inexorable Thet, wanting bowels ordered him to be ftrangled, tho his only Son then living by that Venter. Nor long after it, Old Solman died at the Siege of Zigeth in liungrer, and Amurath fucceeded him, the Ambaffadors from moft parrs Congrztulacing his Accefs to the Crown. Sbr-Tamas alfo dif patched Shacely-chan in an Embaff) to Corffensinoplc: The Turks, in the incerim, took Nioffit and Cyprus from the Venetians, which occafioned a perperual L eague with Spain, and all the Princes of Itchl, and caufed an Enbafly to ke fent to the Perfians, to engage them to fall fpecdily upon the Twikib Quarcers ; but Shr-Tamas, either through fear, or love of his own cafe, would not jeld to their defires. Neverthciefs, Amuratis bad no fooner made an end of the Cyprian War, and re- \(\mathcal{A m w r a t h , ~}\) ruited himfelf afrer the grear deficat given him at the cereded seft Lepanto, but he fell afrclh to quarrel with the Perfian : mime inyadez Temas, nor fufpecting his defigns, was invading the \(\tau \cdot f=\) Prfia. begs Country, and happily took Cabul, but hearing that the Turk was about to make War upon his Country forthwith retreated to the Ceslin", where amidft his Marcial Confultations and Provifions, he was feized with Death, MGy 11, 1576. when he had reigned 50 liears. and lived 68. and was ineerred at Ardevil wich all due Cercmonr Ceremony among his Roval Anceltors. He lefe 12 Sons ged to find the Encmy, the Twres laid an Ambull fur them behind him, and 3 Daughrers. Malowet the Eldeft ar their return, and having flain many of them, took claimed the Crown as his Birth-right, but could not the Perfing General Prifoncr, whom they kept under a rint have it, becaule of the ftrong Faction which ftood for Ifomael his fceond Brother ; fo that he was forced to fly into Gen'sin for fafery. In the mean time, Perin-Conconne, his Sifter, and sabamal-chan, who headed Jftmect's Fation, put ivder, and 8 other of the Sons of Trmas, to Death; and foon after, Ifamect himelf was ferved the fame Sauce by her. Matoomer at the fame time was gathering Men in Geargia and Curdiftor, to obrain his Kighr, and having gor together 12 Cc 0 Men , made his way by force to it.

Mribomet was no fonnes arrived at the Throne, but he commanded his Amazomian Sifter's Head to be cut of which was accordingly done, and prefented to him on a Spears Head. The Two obicrving the advantage that thefe inteftine Broils gayc him, refolves, with all the Forecs he could draw out of Natolia, Diarbec, and the Parrs about Bngdat, to make an cnitre Conqueft of Pcrfi.r, and ordered Murtaploa, the crucl and perridious Baffa to undertake the Task, which was fo agrecable to his temper. Nathmet, in the inecrval, gor himfolf quietly cetablithed on the Throne, infornuch, that upon the firft
News of the Turks:approach, Sulean Tocomac, Governour of Kervan, an expert Soldier, and fcared by the Tuk \(k\), with a gallant body of Horfe encounterd them on the Froncics of Armenia, in which Engafement, he fhewed a great deal of Refolution, and routed the Van of Muflaphris Army, yer the wrathful Baffa, advancing his whole Body, opprefled the Perfirn fo with numbers, that tho' they foughe defperately, they were forced to recrear, leaving 4 cco of their Men dead behind them. Mufappre, as a Trophec of this Victory, faced a Bulwark with the Hcads of the flain; bur finding upon a Mufter that he had loft 40000 of his Men, by Fluxes and the Encmies Sword, he thoughe it beft to retrear, but by the way bcing cncouraged with a large Recruic of Men, led by Mchucliarn a Georgien Prince, he refolyed to re-enter Shervan.
The Prfium
rally and tworlt th Tocomas, the Perfian Gencral, had no fooner notice of it, but with a fpriceful Rarry he bear up the Turks Quar ters, as they lay difperfed in a Valley by the River Conac, which being increaled by fome Rains, fyepr a way abore 10000 of them in the flight. Norwithftanding this lofs, Muftapba continued his march as far as the Ciry Eres which finding unpeopled, he pur in a cartifon of 5000 Men, moft of them Georgiems, and going on took Samá chy withour refiftance, and appojitted ofman-beg chicf Commander in thofe Parts, and then departcd to Frict rom his Head Quarters. Emyr-hamic, Mahomec's Eldeft Son, having in the mean time got Come Experience in the Indian War, fo ill endured thefe Brayado's of the Turks, that he nevex left folliciting his Fathes, till he gare him a Commillion to raife what Horfe he could to oppofe the Turk. This valiant Prince foon raifed twenty thoufand Horfe, with which he profecuted the Enemy To bravely and fuccefffully, thar his fame fpread through all Afia, info much that the Turks gave out that Caffriot was revived, for be firt defeated Cyres the Balha, as he was a forraging, he rook Erei by Srorm, and fent all the Cannon to Casbyn as a Preicnt to his Father, he roured the Becopence Tartar, deftroying moft of their Mcn, and raking Abdul-Cherey their Gencral Prifoner; he took Stumacho, making all the Turks Prifoncrs of War, and this by his Valour broke in picees the Twhila Army of ferency thoufand Men, fo that for fome Years after the Counury had reft.

The Turks being thus happily cspelled Perfit, Emiabamac, loaden with Spoils as well as Victory, in rriumphant manncr returned iato Casbyn, where. he was embraced by the King, his Mother, and the young Tarsirian Prince being in company. The Tarsiar had his liberty, giving his Parole to be a true Prifoncr, but being allowed too much libersy with the Queen-Mocher, the Sultans envied him, and caufed him to be flain by the Rabble, which provoked the Crim, whofe Brocher he was, to joyn with the Tuks to revenge his Dearh.
Amurath, upon the-News how formidable the Prince of Perfia was like roappear in the enfuing Spring, gave \section*{riatr, grea} M:ffapha Orders to levy a greater Army, and profecute the War with Firc and Sword, who accordingly drew rogether all the Cavalry the Turk had in Syrie and Armenic, the Gicater and Lefs, and a huge Body of Foor, and Haffir: Aga marched with the Van to Tcflis. Emanjolychan, lare Governous of Genge, was contitured General of the Pe firms, and having notice of Heffan's intent to fall into Sherper, be took the advantage of a Pafs , and falling upon them, fiew many of them, and featrered the rett in the Woods, in which, while the Perfiens ranGuard at Eracrom threc Xcars, and would neither accept \({ }^{k}\) an Exchange, or Ranfom. If.ffon being now ainiter of the Fiedd advanced to Tefirs, but was uncxpe?cdly chor ged by the Peryians, and that with fuch admirable Cour rage, as the Thut was put to fight, and their Train and Treafure taken; Haffan efcaped on his Horfe, and carried Maytaphar the Nicws of his defear, which the Ohd Man was fo angry ar, that he had firancled him, had not his taking the ferfirn Gencral, and his relation of the Grand Vilier, pleaded for him. This Difater, and the approaching Winter, caufed Muftapi a to ferd blis Army into their Winter-Quarters, and fo gave the veafians time to prepare againft the Spring.

simarath having notice of theic actions of his Facir moned hich were mifreprecented by his Enemies, funnwas dif him to Stambul to anliwer his Mifarringe, and was diccharged his Command, and had loft both his Life and Eftate, had not the Sulcana interceded for lim Sinan-Beffa, his Encmy, was put into his phace, which vexed him moft of all. During this, the difictences beween the two Brothers, Emilinmze and Albot, (iovernour of Afia, hindred the necoflary preparations apaint the Turk. fo that the Perfian King chofe tather to fue fie Peace by Maxut-inn, his Embafador, with a fie Prelent, than proceed in the War. The Granal Scignior accepted the Prefent, bue would not grant a Pcace, uIcfs the Perfinns would Acliver Tifliri, Cabis, andal inces under the Tu \(k\), to be enro!'cd for erer in the Proones under that Crown. The Emballador would give oo anfwer to theic Demands, till he had confolted with his Mafter, and thercfore fent to Mchomer abour tien, who called his Chicf Officers together to confule abour it, and the refule was, Itar n:s inci of Earrely froo.ist given the Turk more shan be coidd proin liy his srood. To, prevent which, a great Army under thic Vistorious Em: Hamacis Command was fent to the Fronticrs of Alman:: and Alb, -Micine was fent with another Army to profecute the War againft the Mogru. Mcuri-ciain was im: mediately callod home, and that be nighte dificoverthir Order and Force, he parcd chrough the Encmics Qrarters, of which he gave fuch a faristactory acco:nt, when he came to Casbyn, that he was made Treafurcr, a place both honourable and profitable; but Emir-cion made hain fo uncalic in it, that he was fored to withdraw, and live privatcly ar \(F_{\text {ron, rather than run any further }}\) hazards. Emir-Homze drawing towards the Turk, entruated Simon-chann the Geongicn, and Toccmac the hian, with part of his Forecs, and io formed an Amieur \({ }^{f}\) cade, into which they drew the Iis \(k\), and llew above Goco of them; the reft cfcap'd to Eratom, the Bata's cad Quarters, a Town of greacftrenget as well isy \(\mathrm{Na}^{-}\) ture as Art, and very convenicnt for Provifions, which: \(x\) at may be brought thicher firm the-Midland, If, in and Cafpicn Scas: It flands in Cappadicia, called of Oid Ceuco Syrie, and has dimenia on the one hank, whit the River Euphratc: dividos from it and Cairmenic, which comprehends therancient \(L y\) yis, c:ic:a, lamen:lia and Care, on the othor. Ammatis refolving to fall into kiw, sizy, and thofe parts, thicughe fic to call bomic Simar-E.iffe, to advife with concerning that War, and conftitute Maleme:-b-f/a (Nephew to Mu/fuf/a, who was lately deal of Age and Grief, but forre rather thinis of Poyfon) Gencral againft the Perfiene. As Ereeoon he mufterd all his Anmy, and the Scalon beirg good, marched withouc refiftance as far as the River \(A\),arais, burning and Hoing all the Spoil he could. Emir-Hamre, ty his Scours, having notice of their number and apreach, ordered Ticomac, with Simon the Georgiar, to ftop their progrefsas well as thcy could, till he came up with his Horfe and Dragoons. Thefe Capcains falling upon the Tuiks, in their march towards Tcuris, made goou their ground, till they ware over-powared by Mabemets Horle, but when he underfood by fome Prifonets tha: the Pcrfan Prince was an hand, he thought beft to retrear; which, when the Prince knew, be purfucd them with unufual hatte, and killed many in the Kcar as well as caufed many to be drowned in their pathing the Rivers haftily, but he continued his march will he came to Tcfits.
Ebrebim-chawn, Embaffador of the Perficn King at ware made a Prifoner fome time, with his Attcadincs ; but \({ }^{\text {com }}\) Methomer would take litele notice of ir, becaufe the difference berween his Sons threatned a Civil War, but at ength they were feemingly reconciled, In the mean cime, Frrar-chan wasmade General of the Tuke aganat

the Perfians, but doing little in that place, he was called home, and ofman-Baffa put in his place. This - Baffa was quick of Refolution, and by Natuíe fierce, and having raifed an Army of 200000 Horfe and Foot, with a fuitable Train of grear Guns, be marched thro Medin, almoft in view of Tauris, deltroying his Enemies Country all along. Emir-Himze, the Perfian General, knowing the way of the Turks Maxch, advanced againft them with 10000 good Horle, the King following with 80000 Horfe and Foor more. The Rerfian Prince ensamped five Leagucs Sonthward of Taurí, and expect ed the coming of Ofmen, who knowing that the Perfinn Horfe were afraid of his Artillery, concinued bis March with a refolution to try the Fortine of a Field, but Ofman not shinking is convenicpr to have Taurs on his Rear, refolved to take ir; Alliculi-chrn was the Governour, and before he could fummon it, made fuch a fally our upon the Turks, as killed thicm a thoufand Men, and retreared with a litile lics. 7 his unexpected Arfault fo curraged the Turt, that he haftened his approach, and having planted his Batterics; plaid fofurioully upon the Wall, that he made a large Breach, and refolved to form if. The bcficged feeing their Danger, beat a Parley, and furrendred the Townitupon Conditions; but fome of the Inhabirants breaking them by making away fome Janizaries in a Stove, the incenfed Tark gave the Souldiers liberty to plunder, kill, ravifh, and do whar they lift, lome fow only eficaping to the Perfinn Camp. fimir-Hamze hearing the Relation of this Cruelty, drew out 2 Party to be tevenged of the Enemy, but Ofman ordering a Party of 40000 to beat him back, he was forced to retreat, yst fo gradually, as fhewed their Valour.
Sor Soon afier this, the whole Armics engaged, but the Perfins bad the betrer, tho the Turks by the help of their Mentr, made a pretty good retreat, leaping 6000 the Prince fent a Defiance to the Tword. Upon this was acciepred by the General, and within five Days bock Armies drew our for Bartle. The Turks were upwards of 100000 , bur the Perfians fcarce amounted to half the number, yet being fuperiour in Refolution, gain'd the Victory; for after chat the Ba/fa of Caramif fell by Emir. Hemre's Sword, the Turks gave Ground, and fled in Confufion, having loft the Baffa of Frepinorid, fix Sanzincks, and 20000 Common Men, and had not the Turks grear Guns difordered now and then the Perifian Horfe, they had obrained a complear Victory : The perfiams loft 2000. Of man. was to dannted with this ill fuecefs, that baving confticured Giaffer-ebian Governour of Tauris, with whom he left a good part of his Army to defend it, he went himfelf to Eraorom, to tecover his Flux, bur tho"O \({ }^{2}\) man got thither fafe with his Guard, yes his Foor and Train, which marched flower, were intersupsed, forthe Perfian Horfe croffing a nearer way, gor before them, and fkirmifhing with them, fiezed their Caravan near Sansaten, which confifted of above 6000 Camels and Mules, with valuable Burthens, befides Af megers loaden with Provifions, and when the whole Army came up, there followed another Engagemenc. The Turks (tho" Ofman was abfent) were fo well commanded, that tho' the Perfinus had the better, yer 'twas with 2 conficerable loss, which they requited with the death of 20000 Tu/ts. The Relation of this Encounter being carried to \(O_{\text {and }}\) an by the reft of the Army, was fo unpleafant to him, that it increafed his Diftemper, infomuch that within a few Days after ke gave up the Ghoft, leaving the Conduct of his fhattered. Armyto Baffa Sinan Cicala, a good Souldier, and Wary, whontien he came rorake his Mufters ar Eracrom, found thac Ozman, one way or another, had loft 100000 Men. The Perfian Rrince after chefe ViAcies, returned to Casbin, where he was embraced by his aged Father, honoured by all the Officers, and litrie lefs than adored by the Vulgar; but after a litcle Refrelhment he was-unteafy that Taurg was in the Hands of che Tork, and became reftlefs in his Defires to reduce it, but was rerarded in his Preparations by the xenvious Conerivances of his Brother Abbas and Alliculy-chan, who fought all ways to eclipfe his Glory, and leffrn him in his Father's Opinion, whom popular applaute had made jealous of him. In the mean time Eerrat Beff, with 2 great Army was marching with 2 Icafonable Relief to Tauri, which was diftreffed for Victuals, and by Fluxes and other Diftempers, had loft moft of its Men. The Parfian King rous'd lby this Advance of their Enemy, by the Periwafions of his Son Abbs, Commiffioned Aliculr-chan his Friend, to go Commander in chief of and Army diftinct from thas, which his Brother Emir-Hamze commanded, Emanpely-chan alfo brought anorber Army of 15000 . Mcn, but the Prince had the Command of the main Body of Horfe and Foor, bring abour 40000 more; Emangely-siam by the Prince's Order, went to difcover che Enemy, an! in beating up the Quarter of Tome exccurion, but as foon as Alliculy-chinn faw the chliritijo. Turkifh Aimy, he drew back, and fuffered the Ensmy to chesr. profecute their way, harrafing the Countrey. This creacherous Act of Alliculb-clan angred the Prince, but not being leafonable to punim ic; he refolved to join with Emangely-Cban, and cucounter the Encmy, to which he was encouraged by the coming in of many Volunreers to ferve him; bue when he was in the height of his hopes, he was dain by an Eunuch as he lay decping on e a Rallat in his Tent, fuppofed to be done by the Procu- ftumen nait: death of his Brother Alluss and Alli-culy-ctren. Hi death over-whelmed \(\rho_{\text {cr }}\) fic with \(\mathrm{G}_{1}\) isf, and made the Army heartlefs and carelefs to give any further refiftance to the Turks, who rejoiced at it as their greaceft Fortune. The Eunuch was fevarcly torrured, and the Prince buried ar Ardevil, with all Demonfrations of lovic, Scpr. 1986, near the Dormitories of his Anceftors. Ferrantchan the Turkifh Gencral, tho he could not but thew fome Tokens of Sorrow for this Noble Heroc's Death, yer let not the Advantage Ilip, but in a thort time made Contribution from Sumachy abour Gn, ge, and forced a Contribution from Sumachy and all the Country berwixt Chat and the Cofpian-Ser. When he was called home Cicalan-Baffa, Governour of Rigdar, had the Charge of the Pofian War. He walted the Medion Territories, which ly upon the Frontiers of Diarter ; but while Mres. omef was tending Emantiy-chen to oppofe his Mocions, Amprath the betticr to profecure his jintended War in Europe by his Embaffador, defired a Ceffation of Arms with the Perfinn, who willingly condefeended to it, that he might have leifure \(\uparrow \boldsymbol{j}\) enlarge his \({ }^{\text {D }}\) Dominions towards Candabor and Cliabut, and fo Arricles werc agriced and figned. Hoflage exchanged, and the Peace proclaim'd at Conft tomsinople and Casbyn. Shaw-Mebomef, tho' he had quiet in his Dominions, yer had none in bimfelf; EmirMamres Death was fuch a wound to him, thar he never had one joyful Day more, but feent his I ife in continual Sorrow, till Death put an end to his difconfolare Cer, in the Year of our Lord 1597, aind with all due Ceremony he was buried among his Princely Anceftors, and in his place Abbes his Son was proclaimed, and foon after crowned abbas, whis King. Embaffadors from moft parts of the World came his Effigion loon after to congratulate his Accefs to the Crown, 2nd among the reft, one from Turkig, who after that Complement, threatied abbor with War, unlefs he fenr his Son, or fome eminent Hoftage inftead of the King's Nephew lately dead, which being done before the orther Embaffadors, was fo highly refented by Abius, that he Axwrejim commanded him to be gonc, at which when the Em-Emb:IGato baflador imiled, the King fell inno fo great a Partion, that treated ill he ordered him ro be lain, bur this Sentence was after Pcrions. recanted, and being chabuche on the Soles of his Feer, he was fent 2way miferably difgraced, partly to thew hoiv litule be valued the Turks Amiry, and partly to be quir for the oncivil Treatment a Perfirn Embaifadour had not loing before received ar Conftimninople. Amurath looked upon this ufage of his Embaffador as an high Affront, and blafpheming, breathed Defiance, vowing the utter Exrirparion of the Sippian Race; bur being forced to xefpite his revenge by reafon of fome Wars in Kungary, and Troubles ar home, he died before the Execution of is, in 1604 , leaving Sultan Achmer his Succeffor, who being intent upon the eatire Conqueft of Hungary, fill put off the Revenge he defigned the Perhis. Abvers by this means had time given him to compals his Defigns, and underftanding thar Cicain-Baffa, Garecnour of Bablon, was abfenr from his Charge in prorecution of zei-Ally, a famous Reler, he caufed feveral of his Officers, and Coorl-Ba/ha's, to be difguifed like' Merchants, and under colour of a Caravan, conter Brg:der unfurpected; and fo be became Mafter of the place. cicela having made his Peace ar Court, levied a power: ful. Army to invade Perfia, and befiege Begdat, and accordingly the next Spring fell upon the Viceroy's Quarrers ar their Van, fpoiling all becould; but young Emir-Hamzc-Mirza, Abban's eldett Son; with a ftrong Body of Horfe, merting him abour Sulecny, gave him fuch a blow, that in a litcle time after all che Perfinn Provinces Were cleared of the Turks. Sha-Abbes now moving in his own Orb to fecure himfelf the betrer againft his In veterate Enemies, fent his Embaffadors to the Eniperour Rodolpbi. King of Poland; Henry IV. of Fraince, Pbilip IV. of Spain, and the Venetians, to engage them in 2 joins League againft their common Enemy, which Acbma knowing, ordered Naffaph Barfra to raife all the Forces be could, to find him work as home; but before either \(\mathrm{M} \mathbf{H I m}\)
* the Pcace orlevics for War were finimod, a Poace upon concluded botwen theie two Mmbosaeran Princes, and 1613 , to she Porr, that he might more vigoroutly profecute the War with the Grear Moguln Bue this Pcaco did not hold kong, for in 16.8. the Trukby way of tireroum, catred Media, the Army being commanded by Ath Preffa, and raking the Opportunity of the Kings ab Sence, plunderced as far as Ardews/, bur Fmir-Hanear advancing towara them, they came te ruce again, bur foon broke ic, and infifted upon the reftirution of Tamerim The Command of the Parfian Army was given to Emir Hamare, whom the Turk dreading, thought not fir to pro fecute she Defignt and fo things fecmed quiex, till Abeo having fercled things abour \(\operatorname{karry-700n}\) in Mozendraw, recurned home, and then taking the Oppormunty of the Turks, he engaged in Hungary, in the Head of a Royal Army, he cheared Shervax, expelled their Garrifons, cut off Fian and Trflif, and foon afrex mafted Balform and Brgitar, which foon revolted to the Turks again. In the mean time the Rerfina having Inteltigence from Confanornoptr of the Deftuctions there oin That the Famenrios hide vion forne gight difyuft pur to dearh Ofman and Muftriplor, the Griund Sritgnio,s, which they had made fucceffively. and Delavir the Grand Vifier, and fet up Actomit the Brotber of OTmen, invaded. Diarbeck with a confiderable Body of Horfe and Dragoons, and having bribed one of the principal: Officers of Bagdar, got ent trance-inro is, and becarme abfolute Maler of ic, before tho Govemenk Ac!mar hat any notice of it for prevention. Achmat hercupon not daring ro, rruft himfelf in is, withdrew with a cmall pacry of Horfe into Karemiania, and by his Flighe fo difcouraged all he lefr behind, thas not only the. wholo Province, bur all the Counemes trom Armeniatio Brifors fubmized no the Rerfian. Crown, the Turks which food out, flying eitber into Syria. or Exapr. Fhe Perfian after this Succels caft his Eye upon Nacolico The ferfian arter this Succeis calt his eye upoa Naroxin,

For his hnte Revoult, the Perfiam doubeed not but he would cipoufe their Caufe for his own Defence, but trying him o deliver Eiraram to them, the crafty. Tark lew 2 thonfand af their Men thac, they fent to take Pofferfion of it, lar which being partaned his former. Revouls by the Port, and prefented, he fell inco biarle, trith all the Force he could make, and gave a conficterabla deteat to a Body of Porpion Horfo and Foot: Abicos was Rarticd at chis Lofs, sud havinig norice of his frength, and of his fummoning Bagdaf, he marched is the Head of 30000 Hotfe tawaid the Encmy, who were double his numer. The Turks neweribelefs refolved to continue the iege, and entrenchat themfelycs, but Abbas giving them ominual Alarms, and cutting off eheir Provifong duced them no fo grear want that the Twres were forced co draw off, and recreat with Bag and Bagage; bur being retarded lay their Arcitlery, the Prefiams prurfied thein o for rend days thar few of thera efcanicd. Ables having hus fufficienrly froured the Weltern Pares, was no lets ctive and fucceisfuldewhere; for the next lienr nin 1627, by the good Conduct of Kurchiki-camm, he drove out the Turf quite out of sherven and Gi,helan and redared the Nakires eq their Allegiance; and by pire, having done the like a lircle before by Lolla-keg avd Emangely-amps, in the Conqueft of lar, Karnaen Ormag Chrfifan, Macran, and part of Ajaman and. Fanixcy fo.as he cxtended his Terrifories, one way from Iudie to Euphranes, and the other from the Cafipien-Sea ro Ba byfor, and the Gulph of Rofin, which ro this Day the Prefonen keep to the Honour of their Crown and Trriou of their Neighboors.

Ablas having: afrained no this grear Degree of Glory, died in, the Year 1628, Heg. 1008 afrer the had lived So Years, and ruled 43. His'Borly was carried frome cishon to Ar dovil, and there buried by his grase Anceftors, and he was fucceeded by Sophi his. Grandfon, who affer 15 Years refgned the Crown to his Son tibles now reigning and was buried ar Cocm.
niw:
nat
ner
thei

Primini 10.
\(10 \times \operatorname{Cing}\).
2 ccc fror fent 465
othe he inde de The hear and tenth
The frafou Kian how bonursd.
ador
Infini
they carnin
fumin Hand
ing th
himp.
give juch which rerim
Hish in dinane
\begin{tabular}{c} Haz, and \\ rach \\
\hline \end{tabular}
jects, Marec Tnisure Co
xtac loo limbd

\section*{Chap. XXIV.}

\section*{Some Mifceltaneous Obfervations refating to the Perfons, Cuftoms, and Maxners of the Perfians.}

Miftelldnics.

SFR Tho. Herbert hating given us a brief Account of the Revolutions of Stare amongtthe \(P\) erfinns, under: a long. Succerion of Kings, has addod: inany other ufcful Obicruations concerning the Counity and People, which nor being capable to ber reducce to one Head, are fet down promifcuouly in this Chapter, which follow in order.

Concerning the Names of the Councty, he obfecives that no Nazion hath had greater Charges and Variation of Names chayk Perfia: ; fon in Nimroa's, days'rwas called Churf or Cuth, from Cuth the Son of Cham; who firt feetled here: In Chedarlaomer's davs it bore the Name o Elam, from Elam the Son of Scm , from whom the People were called Elamites, or Elemacims; and fo is continued till Duniel's time, after which twas called Perfor, from Preffus a Grecian. Heso, who fubduod it in the tipee of the Rerofficms it was called. Arfacr, from airfaces their beloved King, and after that Arrec, which fgaifics, a Noble Countiy; and from thence many of their Kiogs and Nobles have takcn cheir: Fore-names, as Arenxerxes, Artabcnus, & they did the greater part of \(A f a t\), hax o namodit \(G b p\) foriza, or rather Corfoce. The Arabicins, A. C. 598 , when, Ato. bomet fubdued' in, named it Sircaccoias and the Turto Ajenica. The Sigtbians call them Aranai ; and Sife Gumer, the lare Reformen of the Alchoram, callsit Emis zaria and Agrania.
\({ }^{2}\) The Empire is bounded with India, Arabia, Mefoper samia, the Calpien and Perfien Seast Erom Candibar: to Babion it firceches 440 Pharfangs or 1300 Milos. Eng lifh; and from Ferpity near Van in Gecrgiansto Cape Grardir in Gedrofit, 496 Phariangs, or 1448, Milos. Eng lifs ; fo. that the Compars is not much lefe than 4000 Milcs. The North and Eaft part of the Councry is fertile in Grafs, Cotn and:Eruis; hecauferthe,Air: isperat perate, and the Soil ofren mointened with Showers; bur the South and Weft (excepr by the Rivers) is barren nounrainous, and fandy, baving. no Rains, becaufe of the Hear, yet habitable; by reaton of the frequent Breezes. In gencral, the Air is,healthy, tho' wich ia ricty of Hear and Cold.
Concerniag the Revenue of the Kingdom, he fays, he muft go upon conjeeture much, becaufe nothing is more oinkerem uncercainly computed than the Wealch: and Revenucs of jim K na aKingdom. The publick Fevenue of old was \(1+5^{\circ \circ}\) Eaboic Talents, which being broughe to the King's bequer in differeat forts of Coin from the feveral po vinces, was melied down, as foon as it came in, and kepr in Earchen fors tillithere wasoccahon ro coin is for ufo The profent Revenue, of the Porficm Kings is about 357000 Tornans, which amounts to about 1190000 Srerling, which is raifed from Raw Silk; Cortons, and Cuforos The Rorfian. Kinge thinks no way of getuing Money dilhonourable, forhe fends into the Marker crery day Rrefents of Eruics apd, Elowess in moftof his Towns which afe 90 . walled, Towns; and above 40000 Villanges, who munt 90 retualich kis Prefents, with Gold and Silver. He whe, mult return kus Rreicnts, with Gold and Silver. fe othersin five of feven. Xears, giving no Aicount to uleir Commifioners; and if they rerurn cmpty they are carelyf fenragain, but if they come full fraughr to his iking ho rewards them confiderabiy, and further gratifies them with a Woman our of his Haram, an Horle, afiesthem with a Woman our of his Haram, an Florle, Swod, a Mandil; or the like. The Caravans from padoften, Tartary. and fsabia, which pafsitbro his Counry every: Year, importing Merchandizes of feveraliorts, as Cbinc. Ware, Satrens, Silk, Srones, Drugs, Eic. he hodsArss to make them fell at moderate. Rates, or pay wellfor their fafo Parfage, and fugains greauly by them Bofides, bya Cuftomaxy Law, hemakes himfelf Heir to whom he pleares, fo,thar fow rich mend die, bur be ciaim rawny,
Them They
upper-l ing do which the Ref
fancy, where Head, or from Hnbakkz den to and ma with w
Thitre Infte hear of Mof? of for the \(n\) People: h rich Frin ac Fealts ac Fealts
Ropes of prccious hape fro is more u covered : cheir Dev coums it \(i\) lowing Cuitoms bcfore the veredthei of their fomerime

\section*{Thir Gin They \\ ars. Garment}

Cotron.
ed Silk, a riery beft black, an uniucky: reaehech Sathes of ftinguilh and Noble bribes of:
Wool.
Stockins fe br rwo incl chey fancy and nailed their orher

\section*{Chap.XXIV.Sir Tho. Herbert's Travels into Afia and Africa, ©c: 45 t}
their Goods, and none dare difpute his Title. He difo, our Sleeves, and furred, In hor Seafons they wear Seoraccording to an Old Mode, expects Annual I'refents kins of Engliß Clóth hecled with I.eacher. fented the King with as many Larrees as were valued an 465000 Rlorins, 49 Goblets of Gold, 72 of Silver, and other Rarities, too great a Prefent for a Subject, unlefs be were allowed all hinifer ways to enrich himfelf, as indeed the Governours under all Matomeren Princes are. They have Power of Lifc and Death, condemn without hcaring, and difpofe of Mens Rerfons and Eftaces, when, and how they pleafe, without any refpect of Right, efpecially at Mens Dearhs, where there is any confiderable Ettate, their Heir Celdom coming in for aboye a tenth parr.
Concerning the Hononr shey give their Kings, is is the Cuitom in Perfor, as in other Eaftern Countries, to adore their Kings; fo that as of Old, they are not content to revercuce him as the Image of God, who by his Infinite Wifdom governs and preferves all chings, but they have a more tranfeendant Opinion and Eftecm con ecrning hium, making proftrations before him, not prefuming to fort or cough in his prefence, nor pull thei Hands out of their Sleeves, Xwearing by his Head, bowing their Bodics, and kiffing the Iecters thar come from him. In his Titles, to ilfuftrate his Perfections, the give him the Epithets of Amber, Nurmers, Rofer, and fuch fweer Odours and Flowers as moft delight the rafte which is the Cuftom all over the Eaft. Bur tho' in Go rermment they are Abfolure, yet they have certain Or risc kind of Imperiad law to be obferved by all orher Subjects, which they have Judges conftiruted to Execute bar they are fo frbject to Bribery, undefs in Crimina Marters, thas litele Juftice is to be had from them

Concerning the Natives, they are generally well awny, id fraight; the Zone they live in makes them rawny, the Wine checrful, and Opium hufful. The Women pain, the Men love Arms all affect Poctry. They allow no hair in any parr of the Body, bur on the upper-lip, on which they wear it long, thick, and turn ing downward, and on the rop of their Heads, by which they aremade to believe, that their Prophet, at the Refurrection, will lift them up into Paradife; which Eancy, 'cis probable, that Matomer rook from Ezck. 8.3. where the Angel took up that Prophet by a lock of his Head, and lifted him up betwcen the Earth and Heaven, or trom the Apocryphal Story of Bel and the Dragon, whexc Habatkuk the Propher is faid to be iranfported from fudea to Balolion. The reft of their hair is thaven of and made incapable of growing again by the Oil Dopac with which they anoint che places thrice.
Teitre Inftad of hair, they wreath abour their Head rolls of Linen, not-only for Ornament, but.ro keep off the heat of the Sun, and defend them againft an Enemp Moft of the Perfians wear them large and valuable, tho for the moit part of Callico ; and une Superiour. fort of People have chem woven with Silk and Gold, with a rich Fringe or Taffel of Gold and Silver ar the end; bu ac Feafts and Entertainnticnes they wrearh them wich Ropes of Orient Pearl, and Chains of Gold fer with precious Stones of great ralue. The Kings differs not in hape from others, but in bignefs only, or in that he fets is more upright. With there Turbants the Perfiens go coveredi all day long, and are never uncovered neither at their Devotion, nor in the King"sPrefence, becaufe they coum it irreverent, but they exprefs their complaint by owigg the Head towards the Heart; but both thefe Cuitoms were bronght in among them by Mabomes, for before they wore a kind of Hat, or Bonner, and uncovered their Heads boch at Salutations and in the Prefence of thcir Superiours, and fill to Strangers they will da it fometimes in Complaiance
They wear no Bands, and their Alijoba, or upper Garment, is of Callico ftirctrd withSilk; or quilted with Cotron. The better fort have Garments of Parti-colour ed Silk, as Sattin, or Gold and Silver Chamlors, for variery beft pleaferth thiem. No colour difpleafeth biu black, and that is never worn, becaufe 'tis difmal and unfucky. Their: Slecves are fraighe and long, their Veft reaetect to cheir Calves. Their Waftes are girt with Salhes of Silk and Gold cight Yards long. They diftinguilh the Qualitics of thofe that wear them; Dukes and Nobles have thien of Gold, Merchanis and CoofalGalbes of Silver, and Mer of inferiour Riank of Silk and Wool. Their Stivits are of Cotron, their Breeches have Srockins fewed to them, which do not rouch theirSboes brewo inches. Their Shoes are of leather of any colour chey fancy; welt-ftitched; Marp-roed; with high hieels, and nailed, yet not for Thrift, but out of Cuftom: Over their other Cloaths they throw a flort Cloth-Coar with-

Glowes, or Gold Rings, are of no efteem antiong titicm, their Ring:but they wear Silver Rings in Memory of 'Mustomet's Ring left to Ofman for a Legacy: They paint their inils and hands with Alcanna. or Chaa-powder, into a red or tawny colout, jor for Ornament only, but to cool their Liver, and make them Valiant in War. In their Rings they war Agars or Torquoifes, which of all Stones they moft delight in; bus fome have their Name, or a Word our of the Alcoran engraven in them.
Their Mullah's, or Clergy, engrofs all their Learning. Thrir Leumi They write with a Reed or Cane,' and knecl ufually ing anding. while they write for their cafe. Their Paper is very gloffy, made of Bombatine, or Cotron-wool; and dropping Oiled colours, they vein is like Warble.
They waih with great Geremony, joyning the tops of heir Fingers rogether of boch Hands, both before and after Mcals, and upon their natural Occafions, which they do in the open Strects
Their Swords are more bending than the Faulchions, of pure Meral, and as tharp as a Razor. The Hilts ar withour Wards, being of Gold, Silver, Horn, Ivory Steel and Wood:
Their Perfian Scimitars were of that value with the Perfim Scicyrthions, that they wormipp'a them as the Image of mats wo Mars. Their Scabbards are of Camels Hide corcr'd thipped with Vetrec on Feftivals, and embroidered with Gold or fer with Stones of price. They feldom ride with ouc Bows and Arrows. the Quiver being weoughr or cu very artificially, the Bow fhort, but Atrong, and the Ar rows long and well-headed. They are fo Skilful in Ar chery, in which they chiefly delight, that they can in a ull carecr cleave an Orange hung crofs the Hippodrome and when paft che Mark, rurn backward and hit che reff They trave fome Cannon mounted at \(L_{\text {ar }}\), &c. but fel dom ufe them in Ficli-Services, which give the Tark ome advantage againft them, who diforder the Horfo with the noife of them. The ufe of Muskets they have carnd from the Portuguefe, and ufe them well.
The Women veil their faces in Publick. They are Their Wico ow in ftaturc, bur fraighe and comely, more corpulens perims and han lean, for. Wine and Mufick farten them. Their gu rb. complexion is naturally pale, but by painting made fan- Gid. Fis. is guine. Their hair is black and curled, their forehead righ, skin foft, eyes black, haye high noles, pretty large mouths, mhick lips, and round checks. Honeft Women, when they go abroad, rpeak to none in their Way, nor unveil theirfaces. When they ride, the vulgar fort fit aftride, but the betrer fort are mounted on Camels in Cages of Wood covered, to kcep them from the fight of Men. Theirhalr curing hangs abour their hhoulders, and formeimes is plaited in a Cawl of Gold, round abour their face and chin they ufually hang a Rops of Pearl: Their Eyc-lids are coloured Coal-black wirh a fine Pencil dipped in the Mineral called Alowbst. Tincy make alfo Incifions in their fich of various fiapes and forms. TheirNofes are hung wich Jewels of Gold ier with rich Srones, and cheir Ears have Kings of equal luftre. They beaudify their Arms, Hands; Legs and Feer, with painted Flowers and Birds.
The Courtezans have a'more lafcivious Carriage and. Their Cour Drefs: This force cyery Limb to dance to the Mufick trzanc. of their Bells and Timbrels. Their Habic is loofe and gavdy, reaching to their midileg \(\dot{x}\), under which they wear Drawers of Cloth of Gold Sartin, tifucd Sruff, or coftly Embxoidery. They are of no Religion, look remptingly, drink notably, and covct Mea and Moncy greedily. The Queen is prefent with che Perfian Kings at Supper and Banquers, but withdraws when the King is difpofed to drink and be merry, for then they all for Mufick and Courrezans, for they will not hare their Wives pxivy to their Intempcrance and Wanronnefs.
Concerning the Arms of Pcrfir, Zenoras obferves, that The Armis in Old time they bore Lunc, an Eagte crowned with the of fatim Sun, difplayed-Saturn, which continued till Cyns altered ir, who, as Xenoplion rells, had an Eagle hung upon long Spear for his Arms. The Par/inn Kings bare chis Efurcheon, till Crafis was overcome by them, and chen chey Blazoned a Sagitrary on their Royal Siandaid, with which alfo cheir Doricks (a piece of Goldef 15 s. valuc) was itamped. Bur Mabomer, when he had conquered them, and-introduced his Law, rejeeted thefe, and chofe 2 Mercury, and Moon Crefccor, with rhis Impiefs, Tctum dum impleat Orbicm, alluding to an Univerlal Cormand which:che French have cranferibed and fer up at Fou:s.z; ;bleau. Sict Ginnet changed Mabomet's Coat, and inveni red a new Enfign; viz. Venus; a Lion couchane Sol; the Sun Orient in his face of the fame, Minted allo in then Brafs Medals, and as a tye of Amity accepred of by the \(\mathrm{Mmm}^{2}\)

Great Micgul and Neighbouring Princes. The Camons, - Bialerhegs, Sulfans, dsa's, Solicrgars, and Corfel-bathee, beir no Cont-Armour, becaute they are ignorant in Hc taldry. No honour among the lecrfiuns is Hercditary, They are rery civil aind nobls in their Natures to one anocher, and efpecialiy to Strangers. They allow Degrees anong themfetre, and other People, and give a tue refpect to Men according to their Degrecs, Quality, or Merit. In Old time they were Idolaters, as the Go. vernours now are, bue by converfing with the Gircese: and Romins, they have learacd to wormip Dremons, and abolithed thcir Celeffia! Workip. They honoured \(\mathcal{F}^{\prime \prime}-\) pirer, or the Firmament; but dpollo, i. c. the Sun, or Mythra, they mott affected, and to him they dedicated many Temples, and giving him Ticles of Honour, Healch and Gentlenefs. The Moon alfo they had no adoration of, fuppoling her to be cfpoufed to Apolfo, and ftill they bowed to is at its firft appearance. Vemus alfo had equal Revercence, and the Elements were Deify'd. Reward and Punifiment came allo into the Number of their Gods. Eerrooft commanded them to ksep a continual Fire, not to be fed with common Fuel, nor kindled with profound Air, bur fuch as iliould come from the Beams of the Sun. Lightning, Flints, or the like. The Harce they would not allow to be corruptíd with dead Carkaiks, Dirt, Urinc, or any other nafly thing. ImatKes they little regarded, performing their Religious Rites in Groves. Mounts, or orher places. TheirMar rianes they commonly celcbrated in the Spring abour the dipuinex, and che Bridegroom eat nothing but Apples and Caincls Marrow. Polygany they approve of; nor only from the Example of their Kings, but becaufe they honour fuch mof as have many Children.
The Einca. They eldom Kaw their Children till they were four cars old, from which Age to twenty they learn ro ride and thoor, fare meanly, lodge hard, watch. The Old Men went plaiu, bur the Young Mins thcir Arms and lcgs being hung with Chains of busnimed Gold, or Brafs, which imicared the Sun's brighnelis. In their War they wore Coats of Mail, or Sreel, curionlly linked, and their Breaft-plares fealed: Their Tar gers were of Ox-hide, large and round, and their Cap of Linen in many folds. Bows, Swords and Axes, were their Arms, which they kepr well, and managed dexteroully. The grear Mens Tables were frlendid in rich Furniture and Dithes of Gold, bur in Mcats very ordinary and paring, They wrre much given to Drunkennefs, with which they fealed all their Negotiations and nels, with which they fealcd all their Negotiations and Bargains with, neverthelefs thcir Complements are hearFy, embracing their Equals, and giving the Head and Knee to Superiours. Superfitious they are, and care not to ad in any Affair, unlefs by calting the Dic they light of a Fortunate Chance. In Sicknefs and Troubles fome ufe Sorcerv, prefribing Charms, Crofs-Characters, Letters, and the like, traken commonly out of the Alcoran Necromantick Srudies they much admire, becaufe abore common reach, and few of cheir Siersbut can exercife. Friday is their Sabbath, which they keep licencioully.

Concerning their Callings, Bufinefs, Arss and Scienwhich the Soldiery is moff in requeftiamong them, of mars, and more defpicable. Upon the Timanter, or Turgfirm King can march three hundred the Mufter, the Perferenry thoufand Foot or Mufquctoons, fuch force he can advance, but feldom exceedsfifty thoufand, becaufe tis as many as can be Forraged in fuch barren Councrics, whith afford limede Pafturage, or other Provender for Hories, and therefore they feed them with chopt Straw and Barle;, which renders chem lefs apt to Difeafes, and kecps them in as good heart as ours, which bave better Provilion. In Peace they are nor ide, but exercife themfelves in fundry forss of Martial Fealts. They love so hunt and chate the Stag, Antelope, Gazal, Tyger, Boari, Goar, Fox, Jackal, Wolf, and the like. They know well how to ufe the Bow, Dart, Scimutar, Gun and Javelin. Their Harquebuz is longer chan ours, bur thinner, and they ufe is well, but deteft the trouble of Cannon, and fuch Inftrumenes of War, as require Carriage. They hare large Greyhounds, of fuch Courage, as to encounter Lions.. They have Spaniels, but nor fo gond as their Hawks might challenge, for they have Eyerics of Eaples, Lannars, Gawfe-hawks, and Hobbics, wish excellent Falcons, out of Ruflia and Sorthia, which they fly commonly ar Harcs, Jackals, Partridge, PhenCant, Hern, Pelicans, Poors and Oftriches. The Vulgar Tort delight in Morricc-dancing, Wrafting, Bandying, Swinging on the Ropec, Ram and Cock-fighting, in, t.hich Excrifes they fpend both Time and Money.

Cars are more in requeft with them than Dogs, which Chcy frequencly carry in their Arms, in imitation of their Propler Mationere, who ufually carry'd a Cas ia hisSlecye. Merchants are in cttimationi among them, who tratc inco Chrkiy, Kullia, Indin, and other Parts of d/fin, burs feldom into Ekuropr: Their Mcchanicks are indultrious and ingenious in working Silk and Cotron, dying and weaning Carpets, and printing Flowers of all forts in Leuhar and in Colours, of which they make buskins, Saudals, Saddles, and Furniture for Houts.
Their Rhylicians are greas admirers of Nanure, doting Therm fo much thereon, that they oftea make the Kamtrument ficion che Caufs, they are well Morilled, and civil inlanguage and Guarb, which beget then cffeem from all that Sturate with them, bur are Covctous, and love Manick in tics. They have degrecs trankending one another in Tirle, as their Skill and Scniority merics. They are moft of chem Philofophers, bur their Librarics are lmail and their Books ufually Arabick, but choice and uftu! They preter Plants and Vegetables before Minerals. In their Schools they affect Silcone, and fitting crofs-leged, way their Bodics, imaginine thar motion advanta ges their Study, and ferves for Exercife. The Doetors are named liackeem;, i. c. Lcarned Mca, bur their Moun tebanks Shitan-Tabib, i, e. the Devils Chirurgeons. They are Mafters of much Knowledge. and delighr are Mafters of much Knowledge. and delighs much in orlh in Natural Phany Arabick Writers, Icarned lourimed in chore Parts Hippocrafcs, Galen, Averrocs, Alfarabiuk, Āicicma, Rein. Albumanar, &c. In Gcography they bave shnifesce, and in Oratory Alptreganus, which they xcad and become admirable. They have plenty of Herbs, Druggs, Guns and Odours, which they underftand the ufe of, and can apply frafonably.
For Fluxes they give Slocs, Rice, Cinnamon, Pomegranates, and Barbiaries. To purge Melancholy, Aloss, ithe tre Scnna and Rhubarb. For Flegm, Turbith ; and fordim, Colds and Sweatings, Oils of Beavers, l.copards. Jackals, Iterlan Ma, is, and Ladies Rofe. The Counrry atfords platty of Gallanum, Scommony, Ammoniac, Mame, Pijftciocs, Dares, Rhubarb, Opopenax, Sarcocolla, and siffy&itit: which laft is found in greateft quantitics alout L.tior, and the Kiver Indus. Bur Sweating is the Epidemich' Phyfick, being of lealt Charge and moft Ufctial, iniomuch thar fome Citics have chrec kundired Hunumums, or Baths, and others many, tho nor fo numerous. By; frequenr Bathing their Skins are made foft and fine, and their Bodics render and active. They compure their Years by Moons, and nor by the Sun, fo chat the nump ber of Days in the whole Year with them amounts bur to 353 , which our computarion by the Sun excects 12 Days, and makes a grear difference berween their Hegyra and our Year of the Lord.
Such as practife Manufactures are of an Inferionr account to the Soldiers, neverithelefs they live plenifully, ofren of the reach of the King's jcalous Eyc, which ofren ruin the great oncs. The Peafants are Slaves, and can call nothing their own, becaufe they are fo fubict to the Rapine of the Begs and Coofet-by ares tho' upon complaint they find reafonable Juftice from the Canfess. They are of a gentile and obliping Nazure, facctions, harmalefs in Difcourfe, anel litule inquilitive after Foreign News, feldom inquiring morc abour any Country han, Wherher they bave good Winc, fair Women, ferviceable Horfes, and well-temperd Swords. Few of them can read, becaufe that Science is ingroffed by Church-men, Clerks, Santo's and Merchants, yer honour fuch as can.
Some liritle Skill they have in Mufick, which refem- 1harist Above all Pocic and Phrygic, a foft and lofry Confort.aul bany Above all Pocruy lulls chem, bit their Pocms are Amo rous and Lafcivious. Abul-Cifen, who lived Anno #grs. 385. E/gainuly, Ibual-farid, and E/fargani, are their principal Poers in thofe fancies; nor is Pocrry rewarded berrer any where than there. Mabones the Great, Alimanfor's Sön, gave Poer Mervan for feverry Difticks, which he prefenced him with, \(7^{\circ 0000}\) Scatcrs : And Talicr, King alider-Haymon's Gencral, for three Veries, which a Po er gave him, requited him with three hundred pieces of Gold ; and tho' their Verfes be but lame, yer their ling ing them makes them harmonious.
Gre inc Men affectuno dancing, yet rake no fmall plea-the conform boys and Garls thar do, who to admiration cing conform the parts of their Bodies by ftrange windings and gefticulations to the found of Bellis, Timbrels ard Cimbals. The Art of painring the Face in thele Countrics, is more ancient than commendable, nor only Woncu, but Men uling it.
withou
fpurn 2
making EC.
Then di and he Afs for ferve th praifed rity fort vide a!
has 2 m has 2 mi bach an report Friends theMat with'La
accompa
accompa
the is \(m\)
Cereme
Proteftar things, 2 Food an their Cos
atheir Har
 Voice in finging, Bir principally for the guariling of the Seraglio of grear Pcrions, which tho it lufficiendy effeminate them, yec fome Eunuchs have neither wanted Courage nor Reputation, bur have been elected Gencrals for the Ficld. They are of ancient ftanding in che Court of Pe.fit. and were formerly made by the Excifion of the Tefticles only, but now all the Secrers are cut off, the Tefticles only, but now all the Secrers are cut ofr, becaule a jealous Turk obierved onc of thefe Geldings becauls a jealous Turk oblerved onc of thefe Geldings covering a Mare. Honef Women rarely Mew their facos, covering their beauty with a whire Shect; and no Man dares to praife anothers Wite, for fear of ftirring up the Jealoulie of her Husband.
Concerning Circumcifion ; it is here ured, and none grimion Conccming Circumcinon ; it is here ured, and none mir timmes Women, conform to is; the Mcn for Paradife, and Wornen for Honours fake. The Males arc Circumcifd at Iffmact's Age, which was thirtecn Xears old, and the Woinen berween nine and fifreen, as is practired in and abour Cairo. The Arabiams practifed is befure Mafomer, who is thought rather to have nermitred than commanded it; a Fee is to be paid as the Ceremons, and for want of it the nooreft fort are feldom cut. The Ceremony is more or lefs, according to the difference of degree, performed either 25 home, or in the Mofques, If a Son to a Miräa, Cawn, Sultan, or Chelaby, be to be Circumcifed, it is done with grcat pomp, for his Kindred and Friends, in their beft Equipage affemble ac the Parents Houfe, and as a Symbol of their Joy, prefent him with Gifts of fundry prices. After a fmall ftay, they mount the Boy upon a fine. Horfe, with, rich trappings. He is fanely Cloached, holding in his Kight Hand a Sword, and in his Left Hand the Bridle. Two Slaves go on each fide him, one bearing a Lance, the other a Flambeau. Before goes the Mufick, and the Father follows, whom the reft of the Kindred attend in Order, according to the nearnefs of cheir Relation. The Hodgee attends at the entrance of the Mofque, helps him down, and ballows him, and then they go immediately to their Work: One holds his Knee, a fecond Difrobes him, and 2 third holds his Hands, whillt others, by fome trivial conceis, feek ro divert his thoughts, to extenuare his enfuing pain. The Prieft having faid his Prayers, delares the Fore-skin, and in a trice, with his Silver Scizzars, Circumcifech him, and then applies an healing Powder of Salt, Date-ftoncs, and Cotron-wool.' The Sranders by, to joy his iniciacion into Mabometani/m, throwing down cheir Munera Naralitia, falute him by the Name of 2 Muf ul-man, but if the Cercmony be performed 2 t home, they provide a Banquet, before which the Boy enters before the Company uncloarhed and circumcifed; and in memory of it chey Feaft threc days, as Abraham did when If anc was weaned. At che end of thefe days, the Child is led abour in State, bathd and purged, and haring a white Turbant upon his Head, is laluted with without any cercmony Circumcifed; which done, they fpurn ar the Crofs with their feet, and fpit thrice as ir, making their profellion in thefe words, Lu, \(l a_{n} l n_{,}\), illah, Ge. God is firft, praife him, and nexc to him Manomer. Then chey hold up one finger, to renounce the Trinity, and he receives anew Name. Then he is led upon an Afs lowhy through the City, thar every one may obferve that he is become 2 Profelyte of Mabomes; but praifed be God; we have few Examples of fuch ChriAtians.
Concerning rheir Weddings, they have not much vamaine br riety: All marty, is ther precend, so furnifh the Emprovor with Soldiers for Detence, and Paradife whith Sints, to fing the Prifes of Mabosmet, except their Deroics, which are an Order of begging Friars among them, who from 2 tranfeendant conceit of their own Purity forbcar Matrimony. Such as intend to marry, pro vide a Sum of Money to buy the Womanis good-will he has a mind to, ber Parcnts having no more to do bur to bath and purify her. They chule their Wives more by report of others than by their own knowledge, the Friends of either. Party recommending and concluding the Match. On the day of Marriage the Bride is Veiled with-Lawn, and bravely Mounted, 2 Troop of Friends accompanying her to the Church, and in the Mid-way the is met with as-many more, and all to greaten the Ceremony. Entring the Mofque, the Mulay takes the Proteftation of thcir good likinge, and the demands chree things, as the 7 fewif Women did of Old, Bed-right, Food and Cloathing.: Their Farhers having declared their Confent, the Prieft circles them with a Cord, joyns their Hands; takes a reciprocal Oath, and calls Mabomes oo witners; and then the Caddi havine onrolled their Names, with the Day, Hour; Month and Year of their Nuptials; difmiffes them with an Eure. The firft day is (pent in Feafting and Jovialty, the Men and Women afunder. Ar Nighir the Bride is walued and perfunted, that the may be better accepted by her Husbanid. The oxx Niglit they bathe together, and fo concinue fiven days Fealting, in which time, if the Man difcover, the Woman not to be a Virgin, the is returned to her Parents with dithonour, otherwife the is keps zill Death makes a Divorce.
The Akroran allows Inceltuorsi Marriages, undera pre- incenuma tence of preferving I ove in Familics. If a Man be wea- Maniwes ry uf his Wife, or the be barren, he acquaints the Authat animiverse: with is, who will give him a Divorse upon his allowing his Wifc a Dowry; and if chcy agrec again, thry may be marricd apain, and that ofeen. 'They may nor marry any of another Religion, but ufe them as Slayes or Concibincs. They refrain from them in their Difiafes. Their Law ailows four Wives, and Concubines withour number. They sever wed Prottitutes. The Wouc: gire fuck two Xears. They perinit not Widows to marry again, till 120 days be expired from their Hiff band s Death.

Concerning their Dearla and Burials. They retain Their toanth many of the anciens Cercmonics ufed by she fews and and Burate. Gentiles; when a Mian dies, the next of Kind cloverh his Eyes; as did \(\mathrm{Fr} f \mathrm{fop}\) and Telcmaciurs. The not-lex fors bave cheir Scpulchres in the fides of the Mounatins alout Parfepolis, in very deep Pits; and fome arc Enn',almed, their Brains being drawn our wich a Silvcr Indruncrat, and their Belly (as foon as the Bowels are taken our being filled wirh Spices, bur the poorer forr ufe only Bitumen, or the Juice of Cedar, which relifis putrefactions. Their moft ufual way of Burial is this: They wath the Corps firf with clean Water, and then carry f \(t\); th. Grave orderly, and with filence, and lay is in the:s Church-yards, where none have lain tefore, for they never bury in their Mofquas, or Churches. They place his Head towards shedina, and the next 2 -kin watch for even days ro keep the Eril Angel from his Grave, Iinging Pfalms of Lamentation/for the Dead. Others take different Mechod: In the fiff place go Kinesed of the Dead, then his Slaves naked ro the Wafte, who, to exprefs their Zeal, feratch their Arms and Brealts, and cur 2nd prine Circles in their Fleth, to that the Blood runs down in many places. Next follow fome youths, who carry on their moulders fome Texts of the Alcoran, while they utter the praifes of the Dead. Next thefe go many Perfons of the beft rank, who put their hands to the Cord that draws the Hicarfe, and on every fide throng the Mulaitude with Laurel, Cyprefs, or Flowers in their hands. In the laft piace go the Pr&fite, or Mourning Women, who tear their hair, and counterfeit tcars, and hrieks to pro:oke others to patirn. In chis manner they go fówly with , Gilence ro the Burial-place, and baving firt cried our, Lala-Kiza.!, i. co. Let us praife God, uncloath, waih, and anoint the Carkais, and fo wrapping it in fine Linen bury it, with his Hesd towards Mextian, his Face towards Heaven, and his Arnis fpread out to embrace Mabomer. Upon the Grave the: tix two ftones, one at the Head, and the ocher'ar, the Feer, on which his Name, Quality, and time of his Burial, is noted ins Arabick Characters. Therechey leave him, bur gotwice 2 day to fing his Requicm, befeching Malsomes to fuccour him againt his bad Angels, of whom. as a part of their Creed, rhey hold chis Ofinion, viz. That fo fuon Tacir Opi-: 2s 2ny MuJuf-mon is buried, forthwith chiucugar and nion anizur Quarequar, two ugly Devils, affail him, one with and he trial ron Club, and the other with an Hook of flaming the Diad. Brafs. in which pofture they view the Carkais, command him to lift up his Head, and falling on his Knces beg his Soul, which then rerurns to him, that he may give an account of his former life. If upon his Conte:Ion it appear good, the Devils flee away, and pive place o rwo Angels apparelled in white Silk to comfort h:m, noc leaving him till the day of Doom, nor feeming unwilling to prote thim ; but if upon Examination his Life appear bad, the two Devils, one beating him down into the Earth with'2 Club, the other pulling him up again with his Hook, corment him in thas manner till Mabomet calls a Partianemt to give him deliverance. In former times chey ufed to burn the Bodies of the Dead in a Linen called Linum Vivum, made of the flone Asboftos, which will not conlume in the Fire, but prererves the athes in it unmixt from the alhes of the Pile.; bur this Cultom is now left off, and they bury their Dead in the ground.
Concerning the Furniture of their Houles 2nd Diet: The F:minA Pan, 2 Platter, and a Caspet, is the Epitome. Their Houfer nuis Diet Diet.

\section*{Sir Tho.Herbert's Travels ixto Alia and Africa, ©c.}

Diet is foon drefo'd, quickly eaten, and as readily digefted as defcribed. Their Table is ufually the ground covered witha Carpet; over which they fpread a Pintado, and fit crobslegged as Taylors do. Before eycry Manthey lay five or fix Cakes of Whear like Pancakes which are cheir only bread; they tear it in picces with all their fingers. Spoons with handles half a' and long, and large Bowls, lic fcartcred up and down the Board. Tlicy feldom go beyond Pela, but will make forty feveral forts of Difhes of it, by drethup is feveral ways, sivi with Butcer, Fruits, Turmerick, Saffren, Onions, Garlick, Almonds, Raifins, which give is a different colour, Eir. or withour, giving is feveral Names, as Chelo, cifbfermbling Minan, which was Mcal mixad with Warcr and Oil, with Gobbers of felh. They have allo little Pafies of halhed Mcats, like the Turks Samboufes. They cat Rice, becaufe they call it an Holy Grair, fprung from Mahomet's Civet. They cas alfo Salads, Salats. Achairs, and hard Eggs. Their Mutcon is fweet, but fat prineipally in the Tail, which commonly weighs tiwenty pound. The Country yiclds Camel, Goats and Phealants, and their Law allows the eating of them, but prohilits Becf, Vcal, Pork, Hare and Buffolo. They cll Cimels tleth in the Markets roasted upon Scuets, or cut in Mammocks and Carbonado'd; threcor four Spits are fold for two pence. The Poor cone=ns themifelves with dry Rice, Herbs, Lentils, Roors, Fruirs and Flammery, and are well farisficd with fuch ficnder Diec. Lusuis. They fometimes car Locults, and Dates preferved in Syrrup mixed with Butter; Milk is with them a pre Checte sud cious'Food. Their Checfe and Burter is the wortt chat ever was tafted, the Checfe is blue and hard, bad to the eve, worft to the rafte, and worle of all to the digction. Thir Butrer is nuctifh, full of hairs, and unfalted Their Drink is fometimes fair Water, Sugar, Rofe Water, and juice of Limons mixed, and confected with Citrons, Violets, and other fweer Elowers; and for more delieacy, an addition of Amber, which we call Sherbet. They alfo drink Wine, pretending a pecatiar Privilege intulged them by Ally and fier Gzner, which the Tirks are not worthy of. They alfo drink Arack and Aquavitre, and take Tobacco much, which they nofic, its Bituos.保 Coho, a drink as black as Soot, wholfome as they fay, but nat toothfome, if fupped hor it comforts the Brain expcls Melanch, ly and Slecp.' purges Choler, lighrens the Spirits, and begets an excelleut Concostion; and by Ci:fom becomes delicious; but all thefe Virtues begen not thisirliking of ir fo much as this Romance, that it was invented and brewed by the Angel. Gabriel to re fore Mriomer's decay'd moifture, which it did fo effectur ally, as that he did Wonders both in Mars and Venun' Camp.
Opium is much ufed anoong them: They chew in, and \(n_{i}\) m and fay it helps Catarrhs, Cowardice, Epilepties, ftrengriens much; fo that Foor-Pofts are cnabled by it torno Day and Night withous itrermiffion. The Prifiant, for the moft pars, car in Porcellanc, or orher Earth, nor valuang Silver, becaufe, they fay, mafoomer going into Hell; fow the Devils at Dinner feryed in Silver. In feeding they afe no Knives, bur feed themfelves wirth four fingers, which is cnjoyned chem by Tradition: They never cuic, but break or end their Bread, becaufe Ozman in his Pa rody tells them, that Shitan, or the Devil, cuts all be ca:s. Ac their Mcals they are the merrieft Men alive No Pcople in the World have better fromachs, drink more frecly, and car more plentifully, condemring the Epithers given. Wine in the Aicoran that 'ris Giants Elond, and Devits Gall.
Theirpri kn They rever quarrel in their Cups, nor defire.any Man to lit longer, or drink more than he pleafes: They nerer cirink Healths, nor one to anothet, as the Chriltians do, who have that civil Cuftom, But too ofen abufe ic.
Their Beds are Cots of two Foot high, or four low Poits frengchened with Girth-Web, a Shiag or Yopangee fpread a rop, which is of double ufe, tor it fervesas an Umbrclla abroad, anit at bome for a Coverlet. In Summer their Slaves atiend atoour them, fome to waft and beget conl air, others to fcare away the Grats, and fuch like buzzing Vermine, which trouble them exceedingly in hor Weather. The Men accounc is a Thame to make Water ftanding becaufe Dogs do ic, and when they pils, they have Slaves attending with Silver Ewers filled with Warer to cleance the pollurion.
The betrer fort ride.fo often on Horfetack, tho' bur rair R,ding few Rods, that they counr a Mad Manthat walks. Their Horfes for Scrvice are of the Arebian breed, Ealhiened like Jensets, bur fwifter, and of more courage, The Curb their Aictal in with : Marp Birs. Their Bridjes are long, and fometimes ftudded with Gokd, of which Mc cat aze their Stirnups and Pummels often. The Saddles of the bettar forr are ufually of Velver, high and clof hike our great Saddles, and the Trees are curiounty painted. Their forores are generally in good liking, tho their farc be nicank viz. Chope Straw and a litple Baricy Mules with Mules with them are as valuable as their Hoifes, beecalfo more fervicrable in. Ways fandy and mountainous. Mirn commonly ufe Horfes, and Women Muies and Camels On cucry Camel they hang two Canua's, which hold two Women apiece. They are a forr of WrodenCages covercd with Cloch, in which they fir. When any Ha ram travels, they ars guarded with Eunuche amany waBows and Swords, both for Offence and Defence.

Now conserning their Religion, or Supertition rather, the ran Schifm yet they accouns one ancther Hereticks. The Schifm was begun A. D. 1400 . by Siet-Guner, the better to advance the Soplsian Tirle, and is held up ftill of fur riouly, thar thole two Might riouly, that thole two Mighty Monarchs profesure one annther with an batred irrecnncileable.
Mafomer was the Son of Abdar. a Ragan, and Emma a cwefs, born as \(7 n\) nthreb in Arabin, Anno Chr. \(57+\) Fuft:- Paripre rian governing the Reman Empire, and Cofbroe, the Fa- add ift: ther of Hormerde, the Perfian. His Parents, were foor, and thercfore he became an Apprentice to zayed-ber:fartal, a rich Merchanr, who dying, left bis Scrvaria confiderable Legacy, bur Traffick decaying by reafon of the Wars between Coforoes and the Fomans, Mabomer hited himself firt under Herccizus, and after under the Perfian, not caring who was vanquithed fo he gained. Having moch increafed the Eftate his Mafter left him by the War, be ventured ta fec up for himfelf, and hating Crcdit enough no Command many Tartars and Arabias he attacks frit the Chriftian Forces, and then the Prrfian and beats them both. Upon this Occation, obferving the Difconds among the Romans by the Dearh of Makri ines, whom Pioses, llew, he gives in our, that he was Or. dained from the begianing of the Worth to Eclipfe the Power of the Rope; to Intruch the World in a berter way thao Mnfes or C/riff had; that he was the Comforter, and ent to advance the Aratian Niame above allo othci io the Univerfe. The Jopes 2 l firt cried bim up for. rbe Meffah bur when thay faw him car Camels flefh abhorred him; but the Savages fill admired them, credived his Revelas ions, and hopedt be would effeet his Promifes. But before he could effect them, the Porfians broke in upon lim and his Aden, and fo mifcrably beat them, thar be was orced toffy for bis life upon his Dromedary, leaving his Men to the fury, of the Rerfiams, and lofing all his Moey. This Misforrume, filled his Heart with fad re bections for a mime, but afterward confidering that be Himaric might retrieve all again if he had bur Money, bid ciofe siege to Chodaige, a. Woman of great: Weath, ado by fome thought Quece of corafon, and by. his amorous aflauts wor hee. By her be had three Sons, and as many Drughters: His. Soara died- young, and מis Eldeft Daughters Eatoma; and Zameh were marricd so All; and his, Younger Oim-K Cistom. to Abuboker. He had many orber Wives and: Concubines. And now havine raifed himfelf aginin the World, he began to think of diftharging his. promife in giving the: Worth a more excetlient Doctrine than Affes or Cbrifshads and having taught certain Eoves moffeed our of his, Ear, and Camels.taixpeat their Food from hina; be got fo greatiairepuration for Holincfr, chac all Aralia expected greas things from him.
 a Sabellian, difroorented biecrufe be miffed of, the Bifitio- -on prick of Byizanoh and Fobip of, Antioch an: Henetical Neforint, two fabde Spirits, he:fuenithed his. Alcoran by Yixing Tixumb: wich Fallhood, ©A: D: G20. being then 46 Yicars of Age. etaving: compofed his, Alcoran, he went 1 o Mecrito bare at received but the trats perreiving bis defign, and knowing his Birth and Bnectiong; banilhed hom; and froul defroyrd him, had nor his Wixes Rela ioss: faved him. Nirbormet was fo ditheartnod:at this repulfe, that, be once refolved:to, burn his Boola, bur Sorius tethong thim thas fo great a Whik couldnoct fill of Oppoarion, revives his hopes, and fecludes himafelffifom Corpany fortwo. Ygare, aind zhen again. ventrses to divulge bis Boatrine, is wohich by gifis, and orhers perwafions, be atiaded fo many Followess, that viithin even: Years, his Alcoran wiss,received ar Mecca. and from thence: fpread is felf ineo all the Eafl. Midrometioon afeet dies, in bis Climactaick Xieac, A: D.. 637 . Heg - 17 ordaining: Alsto, fucceed tim, and his Coips, ro. be Enorabedias Ayfes, Grave in, fordriop, which tre: uncwnamed

aloud
Coms 4th in A \(\substack{\text { Plape } \\ \text { andit } \\ \text { atime }}\)
cabine
Atrengt Atreng
torall
\(\underset{\text { cring }}{ }\)
Trave have rellers, Bridal for them tablc is Thend abe is \begin{tabular}{l} for \\ farred \\
\hline
\end{tabular}

They :
when tincy Before
afide th ofit erety
fay t
Holy Go. ciful Goc as the \(b_{e}\) not thet Prager

\section*{Lib．III Ihap：X XIV．Sir Tho Herbert＇s Travels into Alia and Africa，Occ：}
les 2 ch Me． Saddics od close iy pain－ oo thea Baricy becauf 8．Mor th hold Cages

Comentr Truth，or Legend for the Faithfis，is ftuffed with Phi－ an Alv Lolophy，borth Moral and Natural，and mixed with to many Fancies and liventions，as renders the whole alx fard and ridicu！ous．In the Preface＇tis faid，that the Book was fent from God by Gabricl to Mortien－Ally，bur be miftaking the right Man gave is to Maloomet，brit God feeing him indued with equal Virtue，the Angel was not blamed，bur the Gift was confirmed．They report alfo， thar as foon as he was born，the Angel brought him threc Keys，by which a threefold Dominion was conferred on him，wix．over Law，Victory and Prophecy．
The Alcoran，called ty them Kariapor，i．e．Seripgure， Alefalem，in c．the Law of Reace，and Alsecan，i． Judgment，was digefted by \(O_{\text {anman，}}\) is Xears affer Ma－ mmar＇s Deark，into a Volume twice as big as Drvid＇ Palms；and divided into \(11+A_{i}\) nora＇s or Chapters， pur by \(O\) amem inno a kind of Rhime，and writ originally in Arabick．It comains not fo much Rules for Devotion and 2 good Life，as a Relation of his own Acts，inter－ mixed with the Art of War and Peace，Syftems of Rherorick，Machemaricks，and Erinicks，borrowed onr of Ariftorle，and orher Philofophers，bur grolly and con－ fufedly handled，His Mother inftrueted him in the fewijb Rices，2nd Sergius in the Gofpel；from whence is is chat he mentions Noah，Fonus；David，and other Pro－ phers，commending their Writings，and quotes St．Luk＇s Gofpel at large．It fays of Cbrift，That he is the Meffias Will．Word，Spirit，and．Lighr of God，nor omitring his Ascention；yer he will not own him to be the Son of God．He fays，that he was the moft Holy，Chaft，and Powerful Saint that ever lived upon Earth，and fays，he thall fare the Cbriftians，as Mofos thall the 7 cops，but in another placehe afferts，char no Soul Thall be faved bur by che Alonran：No Man thercfore among them dares un－ dervalue our Bible，bur pra\＆tice is fo far as is commanded by the Alcoran．And fo they reverence Cbrift and his Apoftles，and vifit his Sepulchre and the Saints Tombs， pe with Arriks it denies Chrift＇s Divinity，with Sabcllicus the Trinity，with Macedomius the Proceffion of the Holy fricurn Chot，and with Manictrelur the Death of Chrift．In mandith Chap．32，he policickly Commands thar no Man be fo impious as ro queftion any tittle of his taw or difpute about it．Their Commandments are cight，vit．

I Commandmens．There is bur One Greaf God，and Mahomet is his Propher．
The Musizins and Talimans，cery fourth hour，fing this aloud from the Seeple－rops of every Mofoue．This Command is borrowed either from the Decalogue，or 4th of Ezekiel．The ancient Berds and Druids made in Article of their Faith in thofe dark Times．
II Commandment：＇Tis mithre Good nor Joft that ang Mufful－man live ummarrici，＇，lenfithe Profefors of the Alcoran be dimimified．

\section*{mex} Polygamy is tolerated by this Liw，yea，fuch are thought mott Honourable，who fuperabound in Wives and Con－ cubines．Mabemet boafts in his Alcoran，that he had trength enough to fatiate 40 Women；and＇ris to be booghe，that in this Precept he had refpect to the Na－ raral Difpofition of the Arabians，who are better pleafed with fach Freedom and Voluptuoufefs than Virtue，not aring how，fo he could make them Obey him．
LIL Commandment．Is bebieres Mufful－men so be Cisa－ ritable，and to harc Contenrion． Travellers find fpecial Advantage by this Commandment for whereas there are no Inns in there Countries，they have ereted Buildings for the Accommodation of Tra－ vellers，which are always open and clean kepr，and near that for them is 2 large and convenient Srable：Yca，fo remark
What able is their Charity，that chey not only erect Hofpitals for the lane and difeafed，but fometimes tor aged， farved，or huxt Birds，Beafts，and fuch Creatures．
IV Commandment．If bebooes Muflut－men to imo cate stair Propher every dof froe times af leaft，and so areond bs ceming patiently．
They accomplifh this Precept with fo much regard，that when the thasinin call from the Steeple of rixe Mofque， thry fall to Praycr，whaterer bufinets they are about． Before chey enter the Mofque they wath their Feet，lay afide their Shoes，and being affrmbled，turn their Faces forfan all one way．In their Prayers they Ihur fomerimes their mind Eyes and Ears，and fomecimes drop their Beads，and at erery Name of God or Mathoncet kifis the Earth．They offen repeat llas－lala，or Hitila，i．e．Prailes，and then fyy a Prayer to this effect：In tbe Niame of the Good and Holy God，praifed be she Sovereign of all Worlds，the Mer－ ciful God of Doom，Tbee：we feroe，thee we cell apon，forew as the beft way，that which thou haft revealed to Niahomet， not shat whereby thour punifheft the Ungodty．Anorber Prayer they bare，which is a Taurology of the Names of God，which they ufe often in all Makometan Coun tries．Thefe are the anoft ufual Prasers，but they ary not without other fet Fomms of l＇rayer，compiled by Ofman in his Parody，and menc largely by the fanno： Almorannably，who in his high－flown Conccits cudea voured to cxale his Name and Hisputation above ．Hefine met＇s．Thefe Praycrs are for the falery of their Kings an happy lffue，the welfare of their Country，thanks Chat they are Mufui－m：r，or truc Believers．Their five th－ir hom Canonical hours are，1．Alkou：bretk of Day．2．Noon．of leyt． 3．Threc in the Afternoon．4．Sua－fce．5．Midnigh． The firft hour is performed by four Tyfatems，and two Prayers．The fecond by ten rimes kifling the Earth with five Elfatais．The third by cight Grovelires，an！fear Ejaculations．The fourth by five sizedre，on kianime the ground，and shree Orations．The fifth hath iffeen Te／－ alems，and cighe Repetitions：Howicit，the ferfire：， ance their Reformation，think is cnour：h to pray thrice， i．Morning．Noon and Night，in zithours．On cheir Guaman or Sabbath，they alfemble in their Mofoues， which are without Scas and Bell）fifit wathing their Faces，Hands，and Arims to the Elbom，then Kineciatig with their Faces toward Medine，Speak not onc to ano－ ther，nor fpit or cough，if they can avoid it

The Lenf：or Rimetan，begins common＇y as the Sun＇s Twis Lem entrance inso dries，in imitation of our Lent，or rather whines the the forty days of Mofes abode in the Mount，tho thes fuet． fay in memory of Mathomer＇s hiding himfelt in the．Dry lart，when the People of Meces perfecuted him for di－ vulging his Alcoran，or rather for his remaining fo lons in the fixth Heaven，when he fays，He had the Honour to thake hands with the Almighty，（which he fays wa feventy times colder than IIce）and to prove it to the Pcople，commanded the Moon sodefcend，Єric．During this Ramadan，they eat nothing all che day，and he is ac－ counted a Herctick that abftains nor；bur the Sun is no fooner down but their Camival begins，and they let out their Appectite to all manner of Pleafures，and Epicurize n all manner of Daintics．This Feaft they kecpiwenty nine days，or ônc Muon，for tho＇the Alvoran ecmmands forcy days，yet thofe of the New Reformation hale！i－ mired it to a Month
The Byrem beginsas foon as their Lene is crited，w！．h the of ever they celebrate for three davis with＇the greatelt Mer：－ mene，and on the lait of them wiually reflec men a Pilgrimage to vifir their Prophet＇s Sepulthe，not en－ combed in an Iron Coffin，and hangat beiween two Load－ftones，as fome ha：c ropored，bue hid tinder ay fair Marbis，polifhed，and engraven with Arabic Scnten ces out of the Alcoran．In the Way they wallow in at kind of Turpitude；and are no，where minuled，－teings cloathed with a Pilgrim＇s Cuar，and Hypocritick Sanctity
The Burcarie chey tolemnize in tovember，ia comme－Thesuscari： noration of che Ram facrificed by Aluatiam，at which time as ifomael（asthey fay thould have been offered．
Oudhuffon， 2 Feftival kept in Memory of Hccem，or The Onn－ Huf \(f\) en the Son of \(A l l\) ，who was dain，with eleven of masian． his Sons，by Many the Caliph of Damofur，Nephew to O＇man，as a Triumph againit the Benbunicns，who lefs no means unamempred to have rooted out the Family of Aly roor and．branch，which netrerthelets was provi－ dentially preferved in one of the Scem，named Mirac Sherrfirt，from whom Ajomall，Sic：Gunet，and the pro－ rent Sophian Race，is defcended．On this day they pu nifh Mave，by a deformed Image of him with a bu，Mary＇s pu Face，Nofe pierced through with a Dart，and clad with Sraw，which chey dragithrough ule Streets in great Mulititades，curfing and tormanting of it in the vileft manner．In token of Joy，they ubanimoully fing their Epinicia，and crying aloud，Tougb ally，ftrive to rend the Clonds with Clamours．At a fer－time they ceafe，and giving fire to a Train of Gun－fowder．blow up the de tefted Syrian，Squibs ratling，sind the People making an hideous noife at his Funcral．He \(\delta\) ：n＇s Ghof after this fleeps quierly，asthey think，and each Porfian commen－ ding one another＇s Zeal，fpend the following Night in Merriment． Fedr－Onetimt，which is kert in Memory of the afore－Fedt．Onfemt faid Huffan，All＇s Son，who they belicre；was loft in a Wildernefs，where chirft，or rather Mazy the Caliph kil led him．Nine days they wander up and down，having neither Head nor Beard；nor feeming Joyful，but incof Ganty beaxing their Breafts；and fome tear their Gar nents，crying Ifufan，Huiffax，in a melancholy Notc，fo long and load，till they are hoarfe．The Dervices，and The Dirvicts other Sorm soons，being in the Croud，exprefs their Zcal Divotion． by carning round with incredible fivifnefs for a long time．The teath day they find an Imaginary \(H\) iff co ，at ex: which they thour with all their Mighr, rill they bring Which they thout with all their Might, till they bring hint to his Grave, wherc he fleeps till next Ycar's Zsal fetch bim out to accompany their Devorion. This Fealt is like the Heathen Feftival of Adonis, the Ekyptian of Ofyris, and the \(\mathcal{F}\) ¢T if for Tamut, Eick. 8. I4.
Thcir kem-
The Nomponz is in imitation of our New. Years-Day, only they begin their Year as the Vernal Equinox. This is a Feftival of Jollity, wherein few Prayers, but all manner of Pleafures are ufed. For the relt of the Year, very few Women of Quality appear in publick, and Now one all places are full of thein, they difoover their Faces, frisking in amorous Poftures, and drawing the Eyes by a forced Magick. They alfo fend Gifis and Pres by a forces tu and down one to another, as Silk, Gold, Horics, Fruits, and the like. Nothing bur Riding the Horic, Drinking, Cök-tighring, Fortunc-relling, Sing= ing, liwinging in she Air, Courting, and the like, being obferred to the laft minure of the Feftival.
The Imemy is kepr in Memory of Mai omer's Camel. In Noucmber, the Prieft of Mccea ferdi-a Camel by his Son to Spaphanon, where it is welcomed by many thouGand Mufful-men with cxtreme Joy for fo Holy 2 Prefent. The Ifelfee that brings it, perfwades them to a chankful 7h: sich ria remembrance, and Bleffes chem. The Multitude chronging about it lead it inro a Field, and has ing plucked off the hair with admirable dexterity, which they keep as a Kacred Relick prevalene againtt fudden Deach, Hunger, Thirf, Poverty, and the like, the Hodere: figns is for facrifice; and then the Darragued piecress is with his Javelin, the Vitice belicads is and gives it the King, and then the Multitude tear the Carkals in pieces, greedy to obrain a Charm of long Life and Plency, as they imagine is to bs.

The Cadijer-Aiir is a Fcaft in Memory of All's Visiory oucr the thres Caliphs of Mecca, Conquered by Death. not Ally. Afict fone Lamentations they utter many Prai ers, Sing-fongs, and bettow Alms. The King is at molt Charge as this Sulemnity, becaufe of the Honowr which reflects on him by the Memory of his Ancctors. .

The Aurpepation (Or Orodt-bapsficn) is celebrated in Memory of Mitormst's Baptifm by Scrgius. Many of the ordi nary fors of \(M\) ifomerrins affemble at this Feaft, and when the Duiragusd has ended his Sermon, promifcuouly fprinkle one anothers Faces with Water, then befmear theix: Flefl with Dirt and Filth; (which to pleaféthe King the grear ones will alfo fometimes do) ar laft they walh themfelves, and fuppofe themfelves purer than ever.

Thic Soplitin is a Solemnity of Fafting, Feafting and Prayins, fur the profperity of their King, and concinuation of the line of the Sophits.
The Ferft of Rofes and Ocffidils, is begun by a Proceffron of San:oons at the firtt budding of thofe Flowers, and for chirty dajs is celebrated wirh all manner of Sports and Recreations. This Feaft feems to be derived from the cimes of the ancient Kings of Perfin, who had the Supreme Monarchy of the World, At the kesping of this Feaft they let up an infinite number of Tents, which are full of Men, Women, Boys and Girls, who frort chemfelves with Arms, Mulick, Songs and Dances, niuch like the Games of Olympors, or Orgyes of Bacchus.
VI Commandmenc. Reocrence thy Parents. How they perform this Law, many Tragical Scories daily hew us.

VII Commandment. Curfed be the Slayer. A Lav fo well practifed in Perfia chrough the rigour of the Governours, that one may travel in their Country in any place, and at any time, without dangers; for tho they are bred up to War, and are great lovers of Wine, they fcarce ever quarrel, or kill any Man. Yet to enJarge their Territorics, and propagate their Faith, they think in a Meriorious Act to kill and lay their Enemies, withoticany tindure of Mercy.
VIII Commandmene Do \(\int_{0}\) so others, as thou mouldf orbers hould do to thec.
This Law obliges them to be Humane and Courteous, as they generally are, but whoever. reforss to them for Inftice, will foon difern that Bribery, which is lately crept in among them, hinders the Obfervation of this Law in the enve lenfe of it.

The Alcoran being a Mifcellany of divers Sciences,con-Tomporn ains many Paracoxes in it. In the 33 Azaora, he fays, That Dig:al, or shytan, i.c. the Devil, ar lenget fitall be fared by Hatiomet's. means. And in the 72 Azaora, he adds, That Elgeitermy, i.c. the Infermal Ghofts, Ihall after I know nor how many Years be freed. In the 85 A ziora he trears of the Zodiac; and in the \(91,92,93\), of the Moon, Nighr and Morningr and in che 113 of the Fimament, but his Philofophy favours of his Ifnorance, who declares of himfelf, Thar he could neither Read nor Write, and therefore pretends his Leaming was Supernarural. In one Chapter he fays, Solomon wasa great Magician, and that he learned it of Maros and Arer, two bad Angels; bur we may with more reafon fay, Mabome was one, if that be true which he fays of himn felf, that being on a time compaffed with a grear Affem-Migion bly of Araivinns, he poinred at the Moon with his Thumb and long Finger, and in Obedience to him it immediately clove afunder, and fell upon the Hill of Mecece where Melomer at that time ftood, and having embraced Morts-Ally, afcended again. In another place he affurcs his Profelytes, that Mesce, Medinn and \(\mathcal{F}\) erufeilom be holy Citics, built by \(1 d \mathrm{dam}\) in Paradife, but framed in Heaven; but Ehnedin in Claaldera, Antioch in Syria, Vafter in AErypr, and Et-bercm in Armeria, fprung out of Hell, becaule they refifted the progrefs of his Al,a ran. In che 4ith Azaora he records his alcent into Hea\(v \mathrm{cn}\), where he faw rare Objects, and from whence he in mind brought a defrription of the feveral Spherss, Heavens, 10 thic Hell and Paradife, as alfo of Angels and Saints, Juds. mons, the Refurrection, Joy and l'ain. Their Authors rell it chus: One Evering, as Malhomer was foorting with Ayfce his young Wife ar Mecea, Gabricl (called. by the Par Ians Serappicl) entred the Chamber in a fiath of fire, and thus faluted Malbomet, Hail shou beloucd Mrn! come to fetch ther: God, whom thou fo acalcu/turaifhippef defires to jes thee af /ivi own fitabitation. Aintiomer demands how he fould afcend? The Angel ficws him an Afs, called allarack, and bids him mount him, and he carried him to \(\mathcal{F}\) rrufalem ar four fteps, where the Angel ta king him into his Protection, carric him into Heaven, inro which Gabriel the Rorter, who keeps feventy thoufand Keys, for fo many Divifions in Paradife, lec him in. He paffed che feven Heavens in a momene, (tho' he fays they are sou Years riavel) and fays, The firft is of reth- Hemen ned Silver, in which all the Stars are fixed with Chains of burnimed Braks. The fecond is cf Gold, tried fe:en times in the Fire. The chird of Pearl. Here he faw innumerable Troops of Saines and Angels, as Adam, Encch, Samuel, Abrabam, &c. They faluted him, and he prayed for them. The fol:rth was of Smaragdin, where he faw innumerable Companies of other Angels inceffantly praifing God. Among them he law Pbair; the Angel of Mercy, who kesps the Holy Pan with which God regifters all chings paft, prefent, and to come, with Ink of fure Light, and in fuch a myfrerious Character, that none but bimfelf and Seraphael can tead it. The fifth Heaien is of Diamonds, where he faw the Wifeft of all the Angels, who keeps the Book wherein all Mens Names are writien, and as he blots them our they die. The fixth is of Turquijs, and the ferenth of Alabsb, i.c. Fire and Light congcaled. All there inclofe one another like Pcarl, or Onions, and are of cranfanrent Meral. Above all is the Heaven of Heavens, full of Lighe and Silence. There Mehomer faw the higheft of fare Throne, fupported by feven Angels, and on it the Almighry, who laid his hand. on Nathomer's Facc in a fign of Welcome; ar which nishomes bluth'd for hame, and fwet for fear. From him, after he had received full InAtructions, he defeended with his Alcoran. Of Angels he fays, they are eicher good or iad, both are fubje 4 to 30 mid Death : The Good, becaufe they confint of flame, an Element, and to fin, becaufe lucifer for his Ambition was driven out of Paradifc. Bad Angels are imprifened in Dogs, Swinc, Toads, Wolves, Bears, Tygers, G3. After the Day of Doom they thall be cormented in itell rome Millions of Xcars, but in the end thall be delivered. Of the Great and Genctal Judgment he fays, 'Tis as certain as the Day of Death, and will happen fudecn-jdanet ly, when the World is wript up in carelefs Security. xitixum The Angels know not the time, till Mahomef points it our ne by a great and fearful Duel' berween Adriel and Death, whom in the end he vanquiftech, but becomes therebry fo enraged, thar he deftroys all the living Creatures of the World. After this crfues an Univerfal Earthquaks, artended with 2 thower of puriing Brimftone, which deftroys all Grafs, Trees and Vegerables, and turning the Earth top fy-curry, reduceth them ro their firft Chaos. Forty days it remains in this condition, and then God will for forry days and nights more rain a fhower of Mercy, and then by a gracious and gentle breath reduce the World into a frefh and glorious Eftatc. Then be wit call up Serapbich, and bid him found his Trumpet. At the firft found thall enfue a revivitication of Men and Angels, and at the fecond Angels fhall refime their Giories, and Men their Fleft. Then Miclicel fall in his Balance poife every Man's Deeds, and they, whofe good Actions over-poife their bad, are pur upon the Righthaind,

Erizt fully Leave of pu Elows
and Singi
cnmp (for \(C\) are ev
excee
a com
hand, and all others on the Left. Such as are loaden patick Doetrines of the Alcoran,"which are firmly belicwich fins, are to pafs over a narrow and weak Bridge to ved by the Afidticks.
Hell; fuch as have few fins go over fafely, but they that There are fevency Orders or Degrees among them;and Their feven have many break; che Bridge, and fall into an Abiss. The Alcoran then rells is what Hellis, wiz. That 'tis in the midde of che World, encompaffed with a thick Wall of Adarthant, entred at feven Gates of flaming Brafs, divided into many Cells; fome of which are morc loathfome, and fuller of sorment than others. Some have fharp Pikes and Swords placed upright to torture Souls, fome are full of Oil and Brimftone cever flaming; others abound wich Toads and Scrpents, and all the noifomic Crcazures imaginable. The Damned eat nothing but forbidden Fruit, which being in their Bowels, burns like Sulphir, and makes chem, roar concinually. Some Rivers are full of Crocodiles, and ochers fo cold as to make them gnalh and chazter: Howbeir, their Doctors reach, that thefe pains thall not endure for cver, but after each Soul has fuffered fo many rboufand Xeass as their fins delerve, Matomet will deliver them, and the Devils alfo.
The nature of Paradife he fays is this: 'Tis a place of as much delight as Mabomet's Carnat imagination is able to fancy. He fuppofes it will be upon the Earch aftet the Day of Doom. The. Alcoran fays, riis as many Miles about as there be Mores in the Sun, the Wall is Gold ninc times refined, it bas leven Gates, the firt of Cartuuncle, fecond of Pearl, third of Emerrald, fourth of Turquoife, fifth of Jacinch, fixch of Smaragd, and feventh of Amethyft. It is divided intoo feven f pacious Cardens, which are fubdivided into fevency times feyen places of delight, each filled with Inhabitants, Mufick, Wine, and all Senfual pleafures imaginable. All have cool refrefhing Rivolets of Chryftal, drilling oyer Pibbles of Amber. Summer-houfes ic hath alfo fladed with nremincte Trees evet fruifful and verdant. In the cencer of this fitio fre Elizizum is fo broad a Tree, thas all Paradifc is delightfully fhaded by it; the Trunk of it is Diamond, and Leaves Gold. From feveral Quarters come four ftreams of purcet Warex, Milk; Coho and Honey. Aromatick Flowers are there in abundance, which ravilh both Eye and Smell. The Birds pleare with far more delightful Singirg than the frvecteft Nightringales. The Air is cmmpounded of felf-ravilhing Odours. Mabomectans (for Chriftians; Fews and Gemtiles; hayc not fuch Glory) are ever young and frightful there. The Women are exceeciing beautifal and courteous, and the Males have a complexion brighter ctian the Suni: Thefe axe the Faoo their Tenets are very cidiculous, yer they ate To mal oriters \(^{2}\) efteemed of here, chat in their defence they will become \({ }^{\text {of Church }}\) Martyrs 5 for thefe falfe Tcachers are fo ravibed ind men mid ranforiced by having gained a Dominion over the Faith and Confciences of Mgn, that no Rerfccurion can make them leave it. They have various forts of Ecelcfianticks. The Mufti is the Chicf in hearing and deciding Cafcs of Exror, which if he fail in, the Prieft of Mecer deeter mines it. The Caddi-Cadelffris are ncxt. The FTodge's, Emeris, and Mulai's. The firft arc Expofitors, the other are Mendicants, who ear chcir Bread in Idicnefs. The Tylalli converfe mof, and the Dervices are wandring Wolves in Sheeps Cloathing. The Telifimans regard the hours of Prayer, by turning the four Hour-glafs. The Muezim cry from the tops of the Mofques, Llala-fillafa: The Calenderi, Abdalli and Dervifari, are Pederatss and dangerous to mect in Solitary places. The Terlınilikeria Cobsini, are of the Family of Love. The Lefbari and Papafis, arc Fortune-tellers sad Star-gazcrs; The Sumi, Naappi, and Tcesui, Vow Silence and Affafinate. The Sictri and Imcmi, fomctimes pull out their Eyes, having recn Medinn, and orhers their Tongues. The ffraziemals fing amorous Songs, fome for Rennance, go naked and others are covered with alhes. The Dcoannini aro Fools and Madmen, yer thought Infpircd. The Minde.e affict cheir Bodics by Thirft, lafhing and wounding hemfelves, and in Charity carry Burdens, or do any Cervile Work gratis. Some abjure Flon, Fin, Winc and Rofe-warcer ; fome live like Hermits, ochers build Houfes to Safc-guard Birds and Bcafts, and feed them, and have Mufick to keep them from melancholy. Others uild Horpitals, Inns, Baichs, Mofques, and thic like. Some are Roets, orhers Mimicks. Others have Sceds and Charms to make Women fruifful. Some fcorchitchir Skins in the Sun, and ochers anoint their naked Bodies with Honey, to invite the Flics and Walps to torment them ; and this they do, as they think, our of Pity and Picty- Theffey and many other fuch like things, they. do in Obedicnce ro chcir Alcoran, and are pat all Conviction in thefe Follies, becaure the Crafty Lawgiver, percciving his Divinity and Phai:ofophy anfufficienc ro abide the trial, has Commanded them, that nons upon pain of Damnation thould prefume to queftion 2 Sillable of his Law, and thercfore as few, bur the Ecclcfiatticks, will fudy ir: fo all by a reverencid Igriorance azad \(Q b\) atinacy hope to befaved by ic.

Снар. XXV.

\section*{Sir Tho. Herbert's Travels into otber Parts of India, with bis Obfervations of things mof remarkable in them.}

SIR Tho. Herbert and his Company, having feent fome time in travelling over Perfia, returned 2gain to Swalle, and on April 12. Fet Sail to make fome Obfervations upon other Parts of budia, than which the Worla. for Pleafure and Wealch has sone more confiderable. Being three or four.leagues off at Sea, they had a profperous gale, and thad fighr of fome noted Towns, wiō. Gundavec, Daman, S. Fobn de \(V\) acke ctooul and Dabul. Moft of there Towns were fub jected by Alberquerg to the Crown of Porrugal.
Dabul, of Old called Dung \(a\), is firuare in 17 degrees and 35 min. Northern latitude; herecofore it was under the Command of the King of Decan, but now is Subjeal to the Portugutzé, to whom Fr. Almeida gained it by frarigem. It is : feated upon an high, pleafant, and fruit fill Hill, from wheace freams a Rivolet of frefh Water, very ufeful in that por Clime: Thie Road is rearonable good for Anchorage. The Hours. appear to the Sea ward beauriful, tho they are but low, and verrafled a top to qualify the hear and cold: An old Caftle, and a few Temples, is all ine boafts of at prefenr, for the Ba zar is bur ordinary, the Streees narrow, and her Mart inconfiderable her Trade being removed to Goon, and Calicut on the Sauth; and Surat and Canbaic on the Narch

Cboulties in 18 deg. 30 min. Northern latitude.; is Comenden was raken from the King of Decan by Almmidid in \(150 \%\). fribce. and to fecure it to the Porrugueze he built a Fort, which he fortified with Canuon. Mifamoluc, the King of Decan, endeavoured to recover ic with a numerous Array of Horfe and Foor, belides Eleptancs, but by che galant Defence made by the Rorizuguęe the was forced to raire the Siege with lors and thame. The Inhiabirants are a mixture of Portugueze and Bennians; ; it affords noching elfe obfervablc. After five days Sail. they came clofe to the Ific of Gor, where chey found the air fo hor, that they were forced to fiweat and liies tike Salamanders.
Here they. were troubled much with an Indian Rly a Fly ofles called Caccroch, which adive vexes the flefh witith its bi, coseruch ing, and dead the Nofe with an odious fmell. This Weither continued bur a Wcek; and therthaving a freth gale, they came ro an Anchor Aprii 3 3. in Mount Ely, or Delyis Bay, a Port in the Dominions of thic Aitlabict. Ddjai Eq? Here the treachery of the Inhabitans kept them in their Ships, who yet brough then" in their Canoes Coco's, Mango's, Jacks; Green Pepper;' Caravances, Buffole's, Hens, Egss, and other things, which they fold dear: Here they had the Wood called Calembuco, a Tree much valued and arcd at Funerals; it is very hweer anid delighrfal to the ficill; grows hich and eren it is found
cosmonily
commonly in the lofty Mountains of Chamoys, in CochinChina, and being hardly got, is fold ar excelive Racs, becaule the annimm dellght to have it or Ornament in their Houfes, for they imagine no Pillow fo wholfome to qeep un. The Richer fort alfo burn Arabian Guins with the Dead. which they firf wapp in pure white Linen, Aof Limors fweer and fine, or tranfparent Taffata. Here are the and Oranges.faircft Limons, as alfo Pappa's, Coco's, Banana's and Plaintains, very fwcet and delicious. The Oranges are juicy and dainty, and of fo curious a relifh, as that they aff:et the Eater beyond meafure, and the Rind is no lefs picafant than the Juice. The Tree has bloffoms, green and ripe Frilit all together. The Banana's are no lefs delightful, the Tree is low, bur fpreads gracefully ; the Frtic is like a Saufage for hape, but woft plealant in tafte, they are yellow when ripe, and the kind peels off caffy, and she Fruir diffolves in the Mouth with an in compirable relifh. The Jack grows upon a Tree very luw, it is in thape like a pumpion, without of a yelow colour mixed with Veins, and within full of Kernels, which lie in golden Cloves; the Frnit is fomewhat unpiealant at the firt rafting, but of double benefir in the flomach, being refturative and good for the back. The Anana is as big as the Jack, fpringing from a Root like an Artichoak, and neter rifing above two foor high, and fo cafily garhered. It has an hard Rind, but pleafant within, and che fomach müch covets it, being calic xtmDuroen.of digeftion. The Duroyen refembles the Jack; beautiful on the nutfide, and excellent within; beingopened is fmells like a roten Onion, but the Mear is white and cordia!; natritive and dainty. It abounds mont in Mriacen and 7 rua; Arec 2nd Bercle are hete much ufed. The Arecea-Tree grows high, and is like the Palmeto, the Wood is fuzzy, and che Fruit like a Walnut, but like good Oil has neither rafte nor finell, bur being wrapped in a Leaf of Betel, or Be-srec, and chewed, they fay it cares the Cholick, removes Melancholy, kills Worms, purges the Maw, prelerics Ieeth, prevents Hunger, and fupifies the Senic, which makes the Indian Womger, and to chew it when they are ro be burned with their dead Husbands.
Mount Elly is in 12 dcg , laritude, and 55 deg. 30 min . longirude; 'tis as hilly place as any in the indres, and parts the two rich and populous Kingdoms of Decan and Matlibar. Stormy Weather is ufually here when the Sen is neareft, and makes their Summer; and from the Summer-Solttice to the Autumnal Equipoi, it continues windy and rainy. Thefe extraordinary Rains caufe the . overnowing of the Menan in Siam, and Suban in Pegu, as the like Weather about the fame time in Erhiopin raifes the Waters of the Niger and Nilus. This is the Winter of the Eaftem People, the Wrather being always fair for the other 8 Months, and more efpecially along the Indian Coaft of Malabrar, of which a litrle.
Malabar is as this day a great and famous part of India, extending from Batricaln, 2 Port in 14 deg. to Cape Comrn, which is abour 7 degrees North of the equinoctial, bur 400 Miles in length, bus no where above an hundred in breadeh; and in fome places not more than iffry. The Country is fo populous, that rhe Samoryn of Celicut is able, upon occafion, to take the Field with rwo handred thoufand Men, to oppofe his powerful Neighbours the Kings of Niarfinge, Decan and Goicunda. It is verdant for the greateft part of the Year, abounding with Camel, Com, Silk-worms, Peppers, Ginger, Tamarinds, Caifia, Cardamom, Rice, Myrobalans, Anana's, Pappa's, Meions, Dares, Coco's, and other Fruirs; and Cocion Citenive town ana The as Coalam, Cocitn, Calicur, Mangebore, &c. The Roads abour it are anchorable and fecure, and afford as good harbours as any in the Indics. Malabar is divided into feveral Pety Governments; which are all fubjeet to the Great Samarcer, 2 naked Negro, bur mightily exalred by beproud. The Nigroes are his Nobles, who exercife no lefs Authority over their Infegiours, than the Sapmorem doch over them, being freely tolerated ant Arbitrary liberty, Life excepred: They are extremely Libidincus, provoking their apperites by Art and Diet, and efpecially by the ufe of the Herb Deutroa, which heightens sheir Security and Recrearion. They are Proud and Lazy, and ufrally go armed. They load their Necks and Arms with Silver, Bracelets, Ropes of Pearl, and orher Effeminare pieces of Büyery, and are fo ftately, shat they expect more than ordinary refpect, for they will not allow an inferiour Perfon to look them in the face and Ratit. or appear within fifty paces. Of colour, they are ra ther black than olivafter, sheir hair cuills, and grows lomger than the Africans, and tho chey wear cheir dair, yet they wreath about their Temples 2 curious fort of Linen, fomerimes wroughr with Silk and Gold. They wear about their Wafte a piece of Callico, but are na ked in all other parss of their Body. The Vulgar wear abont their Wafe a parti-coloured Plad, and pink their Skin. The Women Veil chemfelves like ocher /pminms. Their grearelt pride is expreffed in adorning their Ears, with many weighry Baubles to dilate them, and their Nofes wich Jewels of Silver, Brafs and Iron, and hans: ing their Arms and Legs with rich Chains.
Thbeir Colour

Concenning their Marriages, it was formerly a Cuftom Their Mz: thar the Braciman had the firft Nights Company with the rivega. Bride, but that Cuftom is wholly abrogated. The Samoreen confers his Command on his Sifter's Iffue, thinking they were of his Blood. They are a People addicticd more to Arms than Arts, and tho' the Porrugucre chought them eafie to overcome, becaufe they were naked and unlearned, yet were deceived in both, Nature inftructing them in the ways of their Defence, TheCountry abounds with Minerals and Stones of price, the and no parr of it is deftitute of Fruit and ocher Provifion; of the 10 mem but the Land, efpecially by the Sea-fide, is Wooddy ty. and Mounrainous; and in thofe Parts that lie berween Nar/inga and Malabar, there are many Wild Beafs, that make the Ways dangerous, and Serpents thar have Wings and Feer, if Report may be belicved.

Moft of the People in their Diet abftain from Fleft and Wine; yea, Wine-Vinegar and Strong-Warer, notalently called Callicari, once a Town of Trade, but now fixibet fraitful in Grafs, but the Gardens, by the help of Brooks chorin; there are near it the Remains of rwo flrong branch our four grear Tosks. His Nofe is flar, and his
\(\qquad\)
\(\qquad\)

anision lowing themfelves the Liberty of Radifh-Roors, Onions, Garlick, or other Roots and Herbs, that have a cincture of red, and refemblance of blood, thar they may keep to the Rules of the Shafter, and Example of their Anceftors; contenting themfelves with Milk, Rice, Sugar, Herbs, and Fruits of feveral forts and Spises, being of the Bannian perfwation, who will nor take away any Crearures life to preferve their own. Paffing from hence they came before Callicur, thought to be Prolemp's Canthapri, and anci-cuman ruined by the Portugueze, who have transferred their Mart and Sraple to orber Towns, and fo made this place poor and defolate. Ir lies in the in deg. Norchern laritude, and ftainding in the hor Zone, muat needs ar fome time of the Year be very hot. The Earth is bur meanly bronght into them by Art, are for the greatelt part of the Year redundame in variety of Flowers and Fruits, The Ciry is of it felf large, but the Houres are low, chick ard dark, and the Streets narrow. The Haxbour is an fome diftance from the Town, and bur indiffercont to anForts, raifed by the Rorruguezc, bur demolifhed by the Malabar. The Sormineen ufually refides in this Ciry, 2 Prince of great Power and Awe, black in colour, and treacherous in difpofition. They worthip many Pagotha's here, pretending thar they adore not Iaols, bur the Dern mo's chey reprefent; the Portuguene have defaced moft of them. Theic-Grand Caco-Dcumo, whore Chappel is uncowèred, and the Walls about three yards high, has upon his Head a Diadem, whence iffue out four greas Ram's Horns. His Eyes are fmall and fquinr, and his Mouth large, opening like a Porr-cullice, from which Beard fpreads like the Rays of the Sun His Handsrefemble the Claws of a Vulture. His Thighs and Legs are ftrong and hairy, and Feer and Tail are like a Mor kjes. All which pur together, make the Devil like himfelf apd the People grols Idolaters.
Other Temples they have full of Pagods, equally de th:To formed, yet all differing in their thapes, fome black, plame fome red. Every Morming the Priefts (2 Jogue) per-aifa. fomes and wathes them, the Devil it feems leaving a firthy fricll behind him. Every Morning, the Priet attired in Lawn, Sacrifices a live Cock, which having killed winh a farp Silver Knife, and embowrelled, he fends to the Somareen, who receives it as Food lent him from his Duomo, and what he leaves is given not to the Poor, but to the Crows, his Servireurs.
They exchange Wives, and tolerate. Polygany bath in \({ }_{\text {Rojpm }}\) Mep and Vomict, and the Iffive is bequeathed as the Foman nominates. They write in Sedge and Palmeto Leaves, as the Ancients did, but inftead of a pin of lron, they write with a piece of hardezed Wieod cut fharp. Then they parfed by Cowinm, it is a Town and Province, and fands in conter \(\frac{1}{2}\) deg. North. About 200 Years ago the Town was \({ }^{\text {fatad }}\). rich, great and populous, uraded: to by masy Indians, enlarged fo by whe Soxitreen, that in numbred 100000 Inhabitancs, but now the period of ker Excellency is come, Gallicur and Goa have Monopolized the Trade

\footnotetext{
\footnotetext{
\(\qquad\)
}
}

6hip．XXV．Sir Tho Herbert＇s Travels into Afia and Africa，©ic． 458
from her．The Banmians all along this Coaft fwarm in e！mmin Multitudes，fucking in gain by an unmeafurable thirft cuxd and induftry，which is ravifhed from them by Drones， the Moors and Genties，who are Lords over them：For the Bannian is no Swaggerer nor Royfter，he abhors Doi mineering and Fighing，and fuffers himfelf ro be fleeced by any Man，xather rhan refift，or Mhed Blood by breach of Peace，or making the leaft Oppofition；they love no Tumulr，no Innovation，ate content to fubmit rather Than govern．They are Morally honeft，courteous in their Behaviour，remperate in Palion，decent in Appa－ rcl，abftemious in Diet，induftrious in their Callings， charitable to the Necdy，humble，merciful，and fo in－ nocent，as not to take away the life of the fillieft Ver－ min，leaft by deftroying any living thing，they fhould dillodge the Souls of their Friends from their Manfions， for they believe the tranfmigration of Souls into Beatts． Among them are mixed fome Chriftians whofe An－
es 5 ime ceftors were coniverted by St．Thomas the Apoftle，as in－ deed there are Chriftians almoft in all Mabometan Coun－ tries，becaufe the Mabometans allow Liberty of Confci－ cire，according so 2 Chaprer in their Alcoran，That none are to be diffwaded from the Religion they have firked in from their Cradle．Thefe Indian Chriftians have fundry Ccremonies and Forms，of long time practi－ fel among themfelves，differing from the ufages both of Yapifts and Proteflants．Their Churches are low，and poorly furnifhed，bui neatly kept，and without painted lmates．They affemble cheerfully，and at their entrance thut their Eyes for contemplation．They kneel with their faces toward the Altar，where the Prieft is feared， whom they falure with humble Reverence，and he re－ turns his Blefling by lifting up his Hands and Eyes．At a fes hour Praycr begins，and the whole Service feldom lafts above two bours．Thicy finft make a brief Con－ feffion of Sin，and then Expound fome part of the Scrip－ turc，to which the People attend with gravity and fi－ lence．They fing an Hymn，and at their going out of the Church re－falure the Minimiter，who ceafech not to clerate his Hands till they are departed．At home chey uinally read a Chapter our of cach Teftament in their Morher－Tonguc，inro which they held St．Thomas tran－ fared them our of the Originals．Every firft Sumday in the Month the Pricft reads an Homily，writren，as ihey fay，by the fame Apoltle，or fome of his Seholars． Birth if They if the Parents delire it nore looner，and at in． wafh all over with Water．The Lord＇s Supper they Ad winifter in both kinds，and the Communicants receive it kneeling．They obferve two days Preparation，in which time chey eat no Fleh，revel not，and company hot with Women；and in the Church，if need be，make their Confetfion．The Clergy marry but once，the Lai－ ty twice：Widows，if they marry before the Year Be rux udexpired，are ill reported of．None，unlels in cale of zarimo Adultery；are allowed to Divorce．In Sicknefs the Prieft is ufually fent for，both to Pray and give the Eucharift， ifdelared；which donc，they take their farewel of their Wife，Children，and other Friends，and fo rid chem－ felves of Worldly diftractions，thar by contemplating on the Joys of Heaven，zhey may micigate the grim an arding Death．Being dead，the Survi pors rather Joy than Mourn，and having firt wathed the Corps，lay it in clean Linen．Friends：accompany him to 由e Grave，and place the Body with the Head Wert fremand five days after vifit the Family．They Feait and shat Faft according to our Cuftom．Their Lent begins in the Spring，and is obicerved forty days．Their Year is So－ lat．Our three chicf Feftivals they celebrate；and on the firt of fuly commemorate the Martyrdom of S．Thoo mar．They have many Protomi／ts，and the chiefof them refide in an Houfe builr upon a Mouncain 9 Miles from Ciangnzor．Since the Portugucze have fetled in India， they fhave their Heads．＇Laicks pay Tirhes，affeet Juftice， profefs Truth，practife Hụnility，and belicie no Pur gatory
May 7 they came clofe to Brin－7ohr，an high Moun rain，and paffing Cape Comory failed by－the Maddives the King of which files himfelf Empermofis 3 Prövinces and 12000 Itlands，and fo kept on cheir Cobrfe to Zglon，calied by the Inhabitantiscbingal；who are a very comely People，and well－featur＇d；norhing like the Africans fave irrcoloury．They are very ingenious，and god Mechanicks．The berrer fort wear Silks；bat the Valgar are naked from the Wafte upwards．：The air is tery hot，being within \＆degrees of the 府quinctial． The length of is is about 70 －leagues，a，breadrh 40 ，and Y circuir 250，or thereaboucs．The Seeds of Chriltian Know＇edge were fown in this Inand very early，＇pertiap by Queen Candace＇s Eunuch；fince Darotbew，who lived． in Conffantine＇s days，fays he preached the Gofpel in ma－ ny paris of Arabia and Indin，and fundry llos there－ abours，bur now they are moft of them turned Apoftates， In Cliudisr＇s days；＇fome of the Natives of this IMand came to Rome，and pretended much to the Knowledge of Aftro－ nomy and the Sphere，which＇tis probable they derived their Skill of from the Gymmofophifts the．Scholars of \(\overline{\text { 人 }}\) o－ ronfter．Latarentions，the Son of Alimeida，difcovered it in r500．At prefent tris over－run with Heathenifm，and chere is farce any Village or Mouns without its inani－Their t 隹， mate Pagod，their fuppofed Deiry，or Malc Geny．Among others was the tnfamions Idol calted ETanimant，or Apes－ Toorh，which was highly efteemed and reforted to by Millions of Indians，rill Confantins，the Vice－Roy of Gon，took it away from them ax Columbo，and tho chey offered him 300000 Ducats burnt it ；＇yet 2 Crafty Ban－ nian forged another fo well，that the Fogucs believed is the fame，and fo he fold it to the joyfull zeionians for great price．
Not far from Matracala feands another famous Pazin． thn，of which the Fogues report，that Foffana their King believing it a fenfelels Idol，the Image on a rime，when he entred his Temple，breached ont Fire，his Eyes feem－ ed ro fparkle with ragc，and his Scimitar in his Hand wrashtfully bent againft him；at which the King being arizized，cried out for help，accules his Infidelity，and having facisfied for his Error，became 2 zealous Ido－ later．
Upon Columbo＇s－Peak they thiew utte foot－fteps of Old Aden＇s fos： Adam，who they believe was born and buricd there；ftep． and not far from is is a Lake of Salr Water，faid to be the rears of Eve，which the fhed for her Son Righreoius abel，for whom the wept roo Ycars．The Soil is good， and abounds with fundry forts of Spices，as Repper，Gin－ ger，E＇c．but there is the greatef plenty of Cinnamon， which is a precions Baxk．The Tree is fraight，and the the cinna－ Boughs grow in 2 comely Order；it refermbles the Olive－men－mar ien tree in height，but che Bay in leaves．The Blofoms ane feribed． very white；the Fruir round，hard，and dark coloured． It is covered with 2 thick Bark，of which the Reafants Arip it in rhe Summer，and dry it in the Sun．This fand affords many ocher Raricics，as Oranges，Dares Coco＇s，Anana＇s，Plantains，Maftick Elephants，Buffa－ lo＇s，Cow＇s，Sheep and Hogs，Smarages，Rubics，Balafs－ Diamonds，Amber－greefe，O＇c．Thefe things firnt invi－ red the Danes to trade hither；and then the Portugnetes， under the Victorious Almeida，to covet it，who in figh： their united Heptarchy，in 1506 ．made them pa the Annual Tribure of 250000 pound weight of theis beft Cinnamon ro their King Emenuch．Store of Peari－ Oyfters have been raken berween Cape Comryn and \(Z o\) lan of good value．Here allo is no want of Gold，but the King thinks Porcellane－Dimes more valuable．
From Zofon they failed by the Coaft of Coromendel，cavrominde： which itrerches above 300 leagues from Cape Comryn un－ der 8 deg．North，towards the 1 Efurivirm of Ginges now called the Gulph of Bengal．Upon this Coalt are reveral Towns of Nore，as Negapatan，Meliapore，Poly cat，Armagun，Narfingri；Mefipatan，Bipilipatan，and fundry others；in Come of which the Englifh，and in others the Dufch，have Factories．
The Gantes is one of the largef Rivers in the World，Xhe Ganga it holds its Courfe of 3000 Miles，and is increafed by \(50^{\circ}\) deficrbed． other Rivers that：run into it，and for above noo Miles is double the breadrh，and mbice the depth，that Eupbrares is at Babylon．It divides India inno rwo parts，and bran thes it felf into feveral freams．Upon the Banks of it tand many noted Towns，and at lengit at 5 Mouths，of Old called Cambyfum，Magnums；Cambericum，Rfcudcfoo mum and Anribotum，emprics ir felf into the Gulph of Bengal，and then into the Indian Sea．The Banniens have the Water of Ganges in thar grear efteem，that chey：cover to have their Mouths wetted with in deady Fits：

 Banks is fands，hes． odd Minm． mon here fome part of the Year，yet，whey have good Water，well－relifhed Fruits，which nourifh much．The People are blackifh，and umin for Srudies，much vexed with Fevers，Fluxes；and．orher diftempers：The Heat is fo：great here，that it weakens their fomachs，and makes them unfic for liabour，They wear a fine Shod dery，or Veil over theirSecrets，and 2 fmall Wreath 2 bour their Heads，going naked in the reft of their Body in all forts of Weacher \(\mathrm{r}_{\mathrm{t}}\) ，They have Gold；precious Srones，and．pther Merchandizes，：which draw Trade to them．They rolerate．all Redigions
\(\mathrm{Nan}_{2}\)
The

\section*{460 . Sir Tho. Herbert's Travels into Afia and Africa, Frc. Lib.llil}

Their
siner,
The menaer of their Marriaget is extraordinary. The Prieft with a Cow, and the Man and Woman, go so the Water-fide, whete the Bramm murters 2 Chort Prager, and then linka their hands about the Cows cail, pours upon them all his hallowed Oi ; and laftly, forecs the Beatt into the River, into which the goes willingly fo Bares all ther be up to the middie in the Water nor do they return till the waves force them. Being come on fhore rhes. untic, and hold this Myfterious Conjunction forcible and racred for ever after.
The Heathens are averfe to Law and Morality here, Barnt wit therr HuIL dedd and \(2 s\) if they were ipnorant of the 1.2 w of Self-prciervation, allow their Wives so burn with their Husbands fo rhar Death having feparated them, the Wifc conceits her felf a dead Carkafs, and refolves to make her felf an Holocauft. To this end the Cloaths her felf with Lawn, Fetcexs her Arms, Legs and Thighs, with Cbains, expretting Lore, buc hex Ears, Nofeand Fingers, are adomed with Pearl and precious Stoncs. With one hand the holds a Nofegay of Flowers, and in the other a Ball, both which they account Emblems of Paradife. She is attended with a great number, fome accompanying her for love, ochers for civility, but moft to encourage her, and grace the Ceremony. The Prieft all the way dotreibes the Jors the thall pofficls witb her Husband, whorn fhe ftall immediarely enjoy in Paradife. She returns 2 modett fmile, erips on, and chews fomething in her Mourh to intoxicare her Brain. Upon the light of the Pile the fermstranforred with facisfaction; and when her Husband's Carkals is laid upon is, and is begins so burn having bid farcwel to Parents, Children and Friends, the, like a mad Lover, whirls abour the Pir, and wrillingly throws her felf into the midtt of the flames, which foon tarm both of them into athes. Mulick of fundry forts, with the Asclamations of the Spectators, make 2 great noilc, both for the greater honour of the Obfequy, and that the frieks of the foor wrttch may is not be heard to difcourage others. The Mahowetans fince they have come info thefe Parts, have prohibited them the ufe of this barbarous Cuftom, bur fome Women have made themiflves away, yct others more wife do refure it; but them, by way of ignominy, they are commanded to mave their Heads, and fequefter chemfelves from Company, as a pumimment. This Cuftom, that the Wife abould be burne with the Husband, is not fo ancient 2s thar of burning the Dead is, but was Ine Origi- broughr in apon chis Occafion: Several hafivious Wives, ral of burn-upon fome Alighr provocation, or ather diftafte, did or his Drem law devifd and enioyned the widow which tho" it feems a fevere Infticution, yer it was neceffary to extinpare fo bad 2 Cuftom. Nor is fome part of their Devorion leis Tragical, as well as Lewd and Wieked, as this inftance may prove: Upon a certain Fealt they fet 2 Mafiy Pagod, oridol of Metal gits, upon a Chariot of eighe Wheels richly gidded, into which they afcond by feveral eafic fteps; uponit the foguex, and Several proftimetcd Girls are placed : for chrough an helluh Zcal the Parents deftinate their frecty Children to Lewdinefs.! Thus mounted they go on the Procelfion, and hanper is the Man, (in their cfteem be be xich or poor, greas or bafe, that can bend an hand to draw the Chngiot ; yea, they accoumt them happieft, who out of 2 frantick Zeal ramly throw their naked Bodies in the way, to the end, that by the weight of the Chariot chey may be croflied ro Deact, and becorne thereby the De vils Martyrs. But eniough of thefe things, hee us come now to

Mestepore, a fantous Town in the Kingdom of Bifna grr, lying in 13 deg. 20 min. Northern tatitude. It wras Arft ealled Salamina, then Melange, after that Mexliapore, and now \(S\). Thome, becaufe that Apofte is fid to have fuffered Marcirdiom here, after he bad finithed his Labours in publinhing the glad Tydings of Salvation through Perfia, Hyrcanit, Badria and Sogdiann, and many octer Parts of Indic. His deach happened abour thirty Years after our Saviour's Paffion, and a Commemorative Feaf in his Memory is celebrated \(\mathrm{Fmply}^{3} \mathrm{~s}\). by all the Native Chriftians of Indies. This is all that makes this Town famous ar this day, for ir's but finall and poor in it felf and bas but litule Trade to it, unlefs for Cocton-Ware and fome common Commodities. Is is frid thar the In habitants of ehis place have this mank fot upon them for cheir Cruelity ro S. Tbomes, chaz one Leg is 2lways brgger than the other in the Calf. S. Thomas Sepuichre remained in this Town, and was mach reforted to and honoared by the Indian Chrifians, till abour so Years firce, when the Reticts of this tholy Apoftie were zaken away and enflrined in the Virgin Marg's Chosch at Gan by we Command of Yom HI. King of Perrugal. Near

This Town are Polycat, Armagom, Caleture, Timnffery and Petipoly, Englifh Factories, and all in the way to Narfinga, a noble Part of India, and famous all over Afa, bounded by Malabar, Golcunda, Bengal, and the Nemmas Ocean. The King is fo rich, that he defpifes bis Neighbours, and fo powerful, that he values neither Mogul Decan, Somaryn, nor Pegunn. The Country is fo full of all things neceffary for Ufe and Pleafure, as fair Towns frong Forts, pleafant Fields, and choice Minerals; and has fuch Rivers, as fo enriches the Earth, that it abundantly produces Corn, Cattel and Fruits, infomuch, thas he is reppred as confiderable a Monarch as any is in Irdic. His Annual Revenue is computed to be two Mil lions of Money. The Bannians (warm like Locufts in this Kingdom, and the Brachmans are no where more repured of having feveral Temples, of no fine Structure, but full of Idols. but full of Idols.
Bifneter (which is the Binagra of Ptolemy) is now the rcond City for Grandeur and Trade in that Kingdome, filiod. encompafted with a Wall of near four Miles in Circuir, Tegularly fortificd, well built, and no lers Wealchy, The Haven is good, and the City frequented by Ships from Eiarope, and Junks from all paxts of India, Perfis and Arabia: The Cuftom herctofore was, that a Traveller, when he came to the Court, had civil Enterrainment, and was many times invired by the King, the better to thew his Bravery, for his Coar was thick Cin \(^{\text {a }}\) with Srones and Gems of luftre, which when he was Cloathed with, he fo nearly xefembled the Sun, whont they worlhip, that he was little lefs than adored. His Court was full of Majefty, and his Guards confifted of a thoufand Men. Polygany he affects, and reckons it one of his principal Ticles, that he is the Husband of 1000 Wives, many of which have him all his life in fuch efteem, that at his Death they voluncarily burn themclies wich him. More Northward upon this Coaft Mefulipatan, or by concraction meffaparan, a Town mia ituate in r6 deg. and half Northerndacitude, and in the chsitit: Skirs of the Bengalan Gulph; the Province has a mixture of Idolarers. The Gensiles are moft numerous, bur Mahomerms are moft powerful, fince is has been made fubject to the Mogul. The Town is neither for bulk or beaury confiderable, being abour so Ycars ago almoft unpeopled and made defolate by 2 xaging Morcality and Faminc. The Streets are but few, and thofe narrow ; the Houfes are low, and Fields parched by the extreme heat that rages there from March to \(\mathcal{F}\) ull, from which time to November, Wind and Rain as incelfanly difturb them, fo chat of 12 Months they have but four, wiz. from Noosember ro March, whollome and moderate. Neverthelefs, the Rains fo prepare the Earth for the xe-
 Rice, Caravans, and other Grain. The Englifo at pre-mer. ent have their Refidence bere, and bring a Traffick hiber for Rice, Callico's, and the like Commodities which will increase daily, unlefs the deceifful difpofiion of the People occation their remove thence to \(A r\) r magum and Pobcars, Towns upon the fame Coaft, and seighbouring to Mcfulipersen, where they may fit down wich more Eafe and lets Charge, and have as great vaiety of Merchandize.
Near this place is an onchafte Town, tho its Name can an ceros to import ortherwife, being called Cafta; a Town bud Infamous for ldolatry. The Mofques 何ew Art is the Sculprure, but are hateful in their impious Devotion, cheir Pagods bearing fome refemblance wish the Images of Priapow and Pan, which Servitur defcribes with great Eyes, a flat Nore, wide Mourh, four great Horns, a ong Beard claws for Hands, and Crook-legg'd, all over deformed. The Feafts of Baccbus are fill here Ce chrared; for they cover themfelves with Skins, adorn beir Heads and Treffes with Ivy, in one Hand holding Javelin; and in the other Cimbals of Brafs and Timrets, attended by many Boys and Girls, which ramble ike Co many diftracted People up and down, and ftriving to rend the Air with cheir continued Elamours.
The Cow is here adored as the \(\mathcal{E g}\) gptian Aptis, or Pyd com: Boll was, and foare the Sun, Moon and Stars, as Czeredmo efinil Soals. Otwers there be among them, that have Rivers and Trees in. Veneration, as the Celse"defcribed by Tacis had In one of their Feftivals they have 2 ricked Cuftom to faften ficik and needy Men to an Engime, which elevaring him equal with the Pagad, the Blood trickles from his wounded moulders, and at his defcent he is dafted againft \(a\) Tree. Then affer he has Im vocated the Drumo to accept his Offering, he returms bome with hopes to, thrive the berrer ever after. They often Saci6ce in the Night, making the Streets brigh: withelights.

Thit pue They have a different kind of Burial from what we find in mort other places, for here the Corps is placed eigher in a deep Cave, which is long and namrow, or elfe between rwo Walls built on purpofe, whierein the fimple Relia voluntarily inclofez her felf, expecting Dcath by Famine, which is the mon languifting and formidable Dearh. They go for the moft part naked, the heat of the Zone excufing Cloathing.
trim Curi- They delight in Firhing and Sporting vpon the Water
 to

Malacce, which is in, or near the Aurea Cberfonefous, places fo Celebrated for the plenty of Gold thas has been brought from thence, that \(\mathrm{Op} / \mathrm{yr}\) is not without reafon fixed hereabouts; for tho' Rabinmus Maurw, and after him Clurifopher Columbur, places it ịn the Gulph of Mexico, and Geropius in Peru, which recains the Name of Pervapm, a Name of the fame import as Ophyr; and Orte lius would perfwade us, thas he has found it in EEgefyma, or South Africk, at a placc called Pbura, 2 part of Soffo a, yer thar Opbir was ar and abour Malacee or in fome contiguous Parts of the Eaff-[rudies; and that Fokran, with all, or mott of his Sons, were planted in the Eaf-Indies, appears by the continuation of the Names of the principal Planters fill remaining in thefe Parts, for the Old Name of Ganges is foktan, and the Tapion near it retain Oplisi's Name plainly. In Pegu is 2 Country call'd Ava, Chavn and Chevilat, and the In habiants Eulei, which hew Hroilals to be their Founder. Of Hadoram, the Aramai in Gujurat feem to bedefcended. Abimael is the Facher of the Malls, or People of Mulabar, as chey were called of Old. Of Ohal are the Obelicts, and Alvelotes, which Hiftorians place about Ganger. From Elmodan, the Emodian Mouncains may be fuppofed to take their Name without ftraining. The Town and Province of \(\mathcal{F}\) oor, or \(\mathcal{F}\) chor, plainly recains the Name of ferab, and the Sabei, whis in conjunction with the Tococe oppofed ilcxander's Conqueft, bear the Name of Shebn; fo that there are plain foocteps, thar kurationt Ophir was hereabouts. Mralacca is Gituate in 5 deg . Nor fird rite thern lativude, and is a City in the Kingdom of Siam find Pro to whofe King is was fubject till alberquerq took it from him, and pur ir under the King of Porsugal his Mafter, and made 2 Garrifon, fortifying in with 3000 Ordnance. He alfo feized the King's Exchequer, in which he found above 1250000 pieces of Rials of Eight, but the Death of the King was fo ill refented by the King of Siann, and the neizhbouring Potentates, that combining rogether, and taking the Advantage of Albugnerg's Abfence, they fuddenly appcared before the Town, and by a defperate Sorm maltored the Ciry and Ciradel, yet generouly gave the Portugneze leave to Ship themfelves away, commanding their Works to be demolifhed. Neverthelefs, it was not long after brought under the Crown of Porrugal, and fo continued, till it was lately wrefted from Thi Duth them by the Holtuonder, who have gotuen many Planta-
arit
tions in thofe Parts and by their Naval Force have not tions in thofe Parts, and by their Naval Force have not moft all the Trade of the Eaft. Melacea is 2 place of good account boch for Srrengeth and Trade, tho' being a low Land 'ris nor rcpured healthy. The Town is long, extending about two Miles, but not half fo much in breadrh. The Buildings are low and ordinary, and the Streets narrow. The Bazar is the only place of beauty in in. It is watered by the Gaza, which here admits a Bridge tho' near the Sea, 'ris 3 leagues wide. For irs defence it has a Caftle ftored winh Cannon, and 2 Wall radunably flankered and ftrengthned by 2 latr Graff and Counterfcarp. The Siamites; who being banifhed cheir own Counrry fetcled here, being civil and induftrious have invited the Trade hinther, and fo made the Town
Trif Fris wealthy and confiderable. The Garders and Fields 2
Corm bout ir abound with Fruit, among which the Duroyen and Pine-Apple are the principalt, and tre Land being low, and Soil far, it encourages chem to phant Corn, and leveral forts of Geain. But being near the Equinoctia Line, che Air is ufually very warm, and fomcrimes above meafure. They have frequent Thunder; but qualify'd wiith long nights, and frequent flowers and breezes. Here the Manzoons blow W. N. W. from Anguft to Ofioker, about which time the Wind veers N.N.E until Morcch be ended, and thenit turnsS, and holds till the beginning of Auguff. The Indians'are numerous hereabours, the beteer fort war rich Apparid, but che Vulgar go for the molt part naked. Thity are generally Wirty and Holpitable, love Mofick and Norehties, ciril in Peace, fierce in War, deceiufnl if too much credired. Their Language is Copions, as che Eucin and Arabick are. Sincapuria divides chis Concinent from Sumacra, being farice half a degree to che Norch of the equinotial and the mof Southernly Cape of the Afian Concinenc. It was a place of great Trade with the Cbinefas, Javinns, Sumatrans, and the People of other Ifes chereabouts, untreeiphat in drew the Commerce from thence. 'The Streighe is not above a Mufket-Ihor over, and to rocky, that at affords a dangerous paffage. From Malacca 'zis not above 12 hours travel to Pasania, called Posinga by Psolemy: It lics in 7 deg. Potania dco Northern laxitude in the Gulph of Bengal, called Sinis fribud.
Argaricus extra Gangem, between Malacea and Siam. Is affords many Commodities, which draw the Mcrchants thither. 'Tis under 2 Regal Government, and the l'rinces derive themfelves from one Gingee Son, and ViccRoy to the King of Dell, Certled here when Patania was fubdued. The Mogul, his great Neighbour, has often threatned to Dethrone him, "but he kecps his oven, being defended by the Ganges, and fmall 1 nands in it, which he has well forcificd. The Town is by ficuation ftrong, which is increafed by 12 brafs Ordnance; ons of which is 26 foor long. Here are fome Idol Temples, but the Monuments of mott Note are the Tombs of cheirKings. The People are black, and by reaton of the hear go for the moft part naked. They take great delighr in chewing Betel and Opium, and drinking Arack, a ftrong I.iquor, which they do to excels. The beter fort ufually cat in their Plates of Gold, others in Porcellanc. The Ticir tar as many different ways, wiz. the Malai, from che Righsas many diffcerent ways, wiz. the Malai, from the kighthand to the Left, as che Hictrep; the Sinmefe, from the hand to the Leff, as the Hictrep; , the Sinmefe, from the Right-hand to Lefr, as we; and the Chinefc, downrigit all chice are ufeful to fuch as Traffick. They are a mixture of Mabomstans and Gemiles, the one wormip God, as the other do their P2gods, both crroncoully. They Their her are very inofpitable to fuch as come to refide among them pratuy and or Novelty or Gain, and enquire not after their Coun- vice. try, Bufinefs or Religion, bus they are to addieted to Vice, char Scrangers had need to pray for Grace to refiit Fcmale cemptations, for the Women are foolifhly frotick, and fearlelly merry; idienefs and heat provokes them ro, that they wallow in all manner of Turpiruds. The Grape moves thern to Wickednefs, for they delight their Palare with the choiceft Wines, Arac and Fruits, bur by their Intemperance they morten their days. Near it is Siam, called anciendy Sabamis, and Corrasion, 2 City siar and Kingdom diftans from the Equinoctial 44 deg. a greas and famous pars of India. The King of it has a large Jurididiction, Foor, Milacce, a great part of legu, Brama and Cambogia were Tributaxy no bim, Pritania alFo; Famolay, Odjee, and other Taritorics, watered ly Ganges; acknowledged him, fo that within the memory of Man, he was able to bring into the Field soo Elcphants, and 200000 fighting Men arried with good Swords, Bows and Arrows, Shicids and Lances. He precends to a long Race of Royal Anceftors. The Zone is hor, which makes the Men black, and Cloathing almoft needelfs, fo that they content themfelves with 2 Cambolin of Lawn of fad colour, trebled about their moulders, and carry a Sambrero in their hands to abate the bear. They wear no Sandals, that the foorching Sands may morcify their fleth. They allow liberry to Ther triz Cbriftians, Moors, and ocher Superfticious, yer che Nin worait. rives are tranicendent Idolarers, werfhipping Deitiss in the thapes of Ren and Prizpus, with other Goatith fancics, and in fuch poftures \(2 s 250\) not fit to be mentioned. They Fave Groves and Altars, on which they Offer Flem, Fruirs and Flowers; and many times, when their Tallapoi tells them their Duomo is melancholy, they make harmonious Mufick to them to make them chearful. Others by break of day, run to cheir Pagods with a Bafket of Rice, hoping that day will be bappier. The Kings of Arrachar, "Tanaffer, Siam, Peg", Auva and Tangu, are all Gentiles, and have cheir Temples fuffed with Pagods. The Tallapoi preach ufually every Monday (their Sabbath) in the Market, and call the People rogether by the found of 2 Copper Baton. They feem Mendicants by Profef200; yet what by dbeir Rolicy, and what by cheir Incantacions (for they forecel fucure Events, and have greas Knowledge in things paft, prefent, and to coms, by Magick, and Moral Oblervations; relo!ving, diffwading. applauding, and direeting them) they afe had in very grear Eftimation. Thefe are their Priests. Their Pcople are very great Sodomites, a Sin which Natare abhors. Sedge and Palmeto leaves are ufed for Paper. The ufual place of the King's. Refidence is at Indy, 2 Town fituate in an Ine compasfed with the Manon. His Palace is large pretry well bailt, and held defenfibie. The other Houres are low and mean, and rhe Sercets narrow, bat very ufeful to keep out che exrreme heat which fomerimes rages. The Inhabipans of Cormicendel and the chionefs, trade hither with Sayens, Poxcellaocs, and other Commodities of vilue, which make the place more nored. The Boys of ien paime themfelves with blue noted. The Boys ofern paint themiclves with blue from top to toc, and cut, gaih, and pink their Skins, for Beaury and Orrament, The Men affect Perfímes, and practife Complements. The Soil, tho watered with the Menam, is bur indifferent for Grafs, bur abounds in rich Stónes, as Diamonds, Chryfolites, Onyx, Magnets and Bezoars. Is bears plenty of Lignum Aloes, Benjamin and Corton. It has alfo Mines of Iron and Copper. There is Gold and Silver alife, bue moft of their Silver comes from 7 apan. They have fuch plenty of Provifions hroughe to them from other Parts; that they are boughr here cheaper than in many ocher flaces. Among Sones, the Cabriz or Blood-Atone; which is hete geherated, is moft mentiorables the Vertue of which is 10 marvelfous, that tis faid, when the Portuguicze killed a Man who had one about him, tho they gave him many wounds he bled not till they pulled is from him, to their grear admiration. The Beaft our of which it is raken is called a Caball. The Cbinefes reliding at Bantam underftand it beft, tho fome fay that in Siam and fave they are feen ofteneft. Near this Kingdom lics Pegu, called by Ptolemy Leffarum Regic; bounded by Siam, Ganges, and the Ocean, was a greatct Monarchy 50 Years ago than now it is, becaufe the Siemites have raken many wealchy Seigniories from it, Bur is ftill Commander of many Ternitories and Inands. It is the Braman Merropolis, and is fitinate in 16 deg. 40 min. Northern Latirude. The Ciry is walled with Stone, beanrified with Turrets, has 4 fair Gates, and 12 Pofterns, bur is chicely defended by a large desp Graff that compaffes is. The Strects are noc many, bur large and broad, which is rare in the hor Countrics. Before moft of their Doors do grow Trees, ufeful for Shade and Fruic. It is divided into the New and Old, bus this balt is largeft, anid beft inhabired. The Councry is now bare of Wood, tho anceently well Timbred. They are Wormippers of Dcvils, for their Varella's are ftuffed with ugly Idols; and that at \(D\) g:rmee, for Strufture withour, and Orna-
The Trodua ment within, excels any in the. Eaft. This Kingdom abounds with all forts of Nature's Bleffings, viz. ftore of Gold, Silver, Lead and Iron, as alfo Smaragds, To pazes, Rubies, Saphires, Garnats, Emperalds, Efpmels and Cans-cyes; allo plenry of Rice, Caravans, LongPepper, Sugar, Benion, Musk, Lac, Bamboos, Cotton and Callicocs. Is is probabic \(S\). Tbomas preached the Gofpel here, but they delighted in darknefs ratherthan light, for chsy now wallow'd in abominable Sins, and their Kiacks arefull of filchy Idols, Yes Bomferius tells us of remarkable Opinions among them, wir. They beheve chat the Worlu confiting of Heaven, Sea and Earth, confifted of 4 Creations, and wat for Impiery it was 4 times deftroyed, vi \(i\). by Fire, Wind, Water and Was 4 times detroyed, via. by Fire, Wind, water and Earchquakes. Each Age was go enned by a Guardian Deity. which was Tranfitory and Morrat: They reckon that the Deftruction of the World, and the Death of their laft God, was 30000 Years apo, and that all hall once more fuffer a Chaos. They aifo imagine that a great Tord, who is Ommicient and Omniporent, and Rules in Hearen, but they do not workip him, becaufe Sacan affures tinem he defires it not, and does them no hurn, and therefore they worthip him that he may do them no mifchief. They believe a Refurrection of the Body after Death, and a Re-union with the Soul, and as (Bomfe rion rells us) 2 threefold Receptacle of Souls departed Nafber, Niffoci and Scheca, in e. Heaven, Hell and Purgatory. Their Habit is a thin fine Lawn, they wear no Beards, and dye their Teeth black, becaufe Dogs-teeth are white, whom they hate to be like. They can and pink their Mefh to become as Modih as rheir Neighbours. Fhe Crows and Parrots here are ufually grey; as they are in Africk. The Land is low in many places, and fubject to Inundations; but that which rroubles them moft is, the multitude of ravenous Beafts among them, as Tygers, Wolves, and the like-offenfive Creatures, to avoid which they raife their Houfes upon Arches, or Pofts of Bamboos, and get up to them by Ladders. About 1 roo Years ago the King of Pegu was a very formidable Monarch, having 12 Wealchy Provinces which acknowledged him their Sovereign, vit. Siam, Auva, Chavilan, Brames, Fangomer, Tangram, Cablan, Larran, Meliotalke, Arracban, Tannu and Racban, out of which he Yearly extracted 2 Millions of Crowns, and a Million of Men, to ferve him upon all Occafions; but this woald not content him, be moft bave all his neighbouring Princes in conternpt, Which begat a Rebilion fiff from the ViceRoy of Siam, and theri from thofe of Brama, Tangui and Racbar, who miferably harraffed his Kingdom by Civil Wars, till by a Marriage the Kingdoms of Siam and Pegu are now divided; but fettled in Peace, and begin again to flourion. To Pcgu from Bengal, Negravi-bar and Wisre Cofmin, are brought in Paro's or Boass by Watcr, Vcifeds trogetri which are pterty large, and fowed together with Cairo \({ }^{\text {Sty }}\) (as'ris hets called) which is a Cord made of the Rind o Coco's, for they have no Iron, their curious Quilts anid Carpers, Atirch'd and wrought with raw Silk and thread of Gold and Silver, and the Bark of a Tree called Mcra Callico's, Rice, Pepper, Ginger, Sugar, Honcy, Burier Lac and Wax, with other Merchandizes, As Coplen are found Stones of price. This Monarch, when he will \({ }^{2}\) apprar in his Majefty, loads his Head, Ears, Arms, Aph m Hore pl. Hands, Nofe and Legs, with Gems, which fet him out phiperef: kikeStars, and when he Worhips, Deifies a white Elephant of an unufual bignefs. The Elephant is for growth Elemhras and underftanding the chicf of SenfitiveCrearurcs. Ihee diffrive: go two, and fometimes three Years, with Young, an have extreme torment in their Labour. Their Teat is between their Fore-legs, which she Young Ones eafily find. As three Years of Age chey wean themfelves, and eat Herbs, Shrubs, Boughs of Trees, and other Vegetables, bur when they are in Service, they arcallowed more dainty Fare to increafe theirSrength and Courage, as Corn, Fruits, Roots, Sugar-Canes, Milk, Wher, and the like. They grow till they are 15 Xcars Old and are ufually 18 foor high, and fome of the hipheff mount to 24 foor high, Norwithftanding their bigncts, they are nor dull and unweildy, bur nimble and brisk firitited. They can, and ufually do lie down, as othcr Beafts; and Suesonins lays, onc at Rome was taughe ro dance upon a Cable. They are hiehby commended tor Courage; and thio" their Tusks and Probofcis are their beft Wrapons, yet they can frame their mighry Body into Offcnfive and Dcfenfive pofturcs. In Rutting-time, which is in che hotreft Seafon, the Males are mad, and can hardly be ruled withour a Females company. His Trunk is compored of frall Nerves; which be full of itrength, and very active; his Skin is rough and Amcoloured. His Tceth are proportionable to his Body, 13 Foot long fome, and wcigh upwards of 130 pound. Muddy Rivers, and cool thady Places, are his delighr, but he hates Swinc, Serpents and Mice; The Growing of 2 Cock alfo offend him, Here are atfo fore of Munk-xilici: Cats, a Beaft bigger than a Caftor, with a litrie Head, clear Eyes, long Muzzle; marp Teeth, pari-coloured, hard and briftly hair, yellov above, and white below. His Pocker is near his Genicals, which is fraped with a Stick or Spoon when he is in Services, but when free, fends it our voluntarily, and it is difcorered by the fimell. By there Countries lie feveral IIAands, the Defeription of which follows.
Sumarta, called of Old Taprobañe, ori Taparoane, and by inuacta Come fuppofed to be Ophir, or Paroam. By the Inhabitanes sfixath called Salytre, or Sabutra. It is one of the larget lines in the Univerfe, in length 600 , and breacth \(=40\) Miles. Alvero Tcliñ' diforered it in \(\mathrm{r} 50 \mathrm{~S}_{\text {, }}\) and fince moft Mcrchants in the World made thither. Tis under the Etquinoetial, fo that our Role-ftar is nor vifible ro them. It is governed by many Perry-Kings, bur the King of Acbern is the moft powerful. All of them have ftore of Gold and S:oner, buc miferable in their Superfition. Moft of them, not many Years fince, adored Cats, Rass, Dogs and Deri's ; but fince the Alcoran has been receiwed there, the workhip of thefe Elementary Crearures has been abolihed. Boch Sexes go naked. The Soil is good by the Rivers-fides, but barren where the Gold is found. Here are fevcral Towns of Note, as Acheen, by the People called ABon, Pedér, Pacem, Deqa, Tyco, Bjaman, Fambec, Tycon, Baruzec, Catraringa, Menantatry Grmbar, Aru, Daru, and Pafaman, which has plenty of Gold. Manancalo is the mof Inland Town, whici does nor want Gold. In.the Streighr betwixt this Ifland and the Continent, againtt For, which the King of Aclient conquered in in 613 , are the Barells, and orher fmall, but pleafant Iflands. The Rivers abound with Fifh, and might prove more delightful for the Net and Angle, did not the Crocodiles, which fwarm here in grearer mumbers chan in the Nile, fruftrate both. .Thefe Creatures craxi:s are the greareft Wonders we meet with in Narure, in defriikn chat from as frall a beginning as an Egg, not much bigger than a Turkics, it increafes to 8 or 10 Yards in length. and whereas other Creanures have their growth unio a period, and then decay, the Crocodile grows bigger and bigget until its Death. Their Bodics are no longer than cheir Tails, which they ufe as the Elephanr doth his Probofas: Their Mouth is fo wide, thar they can fwallow an Horfe or.Man whole; their Teech are engrailed. They have no Tongue, and camor move their UpperJaw. Their Belly is penetrable, but their Back can hardly be pierced. They eat nothing all the Autumnal Quarter, but all the reft of the Year greedily deyour all

\title{
Chap.XXV. Sir Tho.Herbert's Travels into Afia and Africa, ©cc.
}
fors of prey; The Namber 60 is norable in the Fe male. Before the lays Eggs 60 days pafs, and the lays ufuaily 60 Eggs; fhe conceals chere 60 days, and fits on them 60 days before hatching. She has 60 Teerh and 60 Joints, and chey ufually live 60 Years. It is 2 Monfer, being neither Beaft, Fih, nor Serpent, but the mof noxious of Monters. The &yprians make it the Hierogliphick of Impudence, becaufe it's daring to all but fich as are very bold, to whom is is very fearful. The Icbreuphons aws ir, becaufe it often fteals into its Belly, Trochitur into his Mouth to pick his Teeth, which is the Food that Creature lives on. The fleth of ir is fo good and fweet, that by many ic is accounted a dainty. From hence they failed by fome fmall Illes called Marrab and Lampon; in the Streights of Sunda to Fave Major, is an Inand fruate in \(7 \mathrm{deg} .40 \mathrm{~min} . \mathrm{S}\). Latinude, and in an 120 deg. Longitude, 2 wery greac and noble ine, for from Eaft to Weft in itretches 150 Leagues, or 450 Miles,and from North to South 90 Leagues, or \(27^{\circ}\) Miles Englifo. The Midland is for the moft part Mountainous, and chinly Reopled, but the Sea-Coafts is low and very populous. The Uplands are very fubject so Wind, bux healthy, but the Coafts are marlhy and unwholfome. It is a Ccmpendium of the World, for it abounds with all things that be either uleful or excellent. The Coaft (by reafen of the Trade for Pepper) has Towns bett built and moft wealchy: Upon che North-fide and to the North-Eaft are Bantam, Palamban, Fackafre, (newnamed by the Dutcb Batmoin) Faparra, Tuban, Foitan, Grect; Cheringin, Serabaja, &c.
Bantam lies in 6 deg. 20 min. Southern Latirude, and 3 deg. of Wefterly variation. Is isthe biggeft City in the liland, as the Natives own, and ftrecthed almoft two Miles in length. The moft remarkable places in it are the Pengrans Palace, the Bazar, 2 few itregular Streets, and as the fartheft end the Chinefes joyn rogether, as the Fews do at Amfterdam, but their Houles are nothing to fplendid. The Town of its own growth affords little tave Rice, Pcppert and Cotron-wool, but the greateft quantities of Pepper are brought by ine Indultrious Cbiefors in Jonks, or Praws, cvery Fanuary, from \(7 a m b y\) in Sumatra, Bornse, Malacer, and other places, making Bantam the Magazinc; out of which, by Mone; or Exchange for Commoditics, they furnifh the Durch, Englifh, and other Nations. The Chimefors are no quaricllers, tho' Voluptuous, Venereous, coftly in their Sperts, great Gamefters, and in trading too fubele for young Merchants : Oftentimes fo great Gametters at Dice, that when they have loft-fieir Ettares they 11 ftake their Wives and Children, yer in a little time, Fero like, by gleaning here and there they'll redcem alf; but if they do ir nor by che day appoinred, they are fold in the Market for the moft advantage. The lue has one Sovercign Prinee, whom they call the Mat(aren, who has four Depury-Governours, and is fo pow efful as to be able to carty 200000 Men into the Field upon Occafion, who are indeed ignorant of Martial Difcipline, expecially as we ufe ir, but of approved Courage.and Dexterity, and fufficiently ingenious, as to the invention of their Arms and Execution

They commonly ufe Lances, Darts, Axrows and Shields, but the greareft Bravery is in their Crizes, 2 Weapon two foor long, and four inches broad, waved, Thatp both in the edge and poinc, but, contrary to the Laws of Nature and Nacions, venomed. The handle of them is ufually of Wood or Horn, (bur fometimes of Gold, Silver or Iyory) cur into the form of a mifThapen Pagod, which they Idolize; for after they have committed any Murder, they ask the. Pagod on their Creft pardon, as Lewis XI. the King of France, did the Crucifix in his Hat. The Favans are a comupe People, and trade in Murder, Adulrery, Theft, Rapine, Deceir, and all other Wickednefs. Magick and Aftrology delights them, and their Priefts are cxcellent in thofe Studies, in which Sacan inftructs them to oblige him in gracitude to worthip him. The Narives, till of late, were not acquainted with Navigarion, but in the Art of Swimming (as mot Negroes) are moft expert. Such as dwell \({ }^{25}\) tome diftance from the Sea make Hunting rheir chief Recreation, a Sport which tries their Conrage, as well \(2 s\) their Agitity, for the Ife has ftore of Tygers, Ounces, and fuch Beafts, as will bear chafe and refitt. The At coran is received in this Ifand as well as its Neighbours. They are very friendly to the Englifh, efpecially fince the Dutch have forced 7 acatra from them, berwixt whom where is \(2 n\) irreconcileable Enmiry. The Oran-kays are the chief Fort of People, who are lazy and fociable, but decciafal. They repure themfelves delcended from China, and have a Tradirion; that cheir Ancettors in a Junk were calually driven upon that lile by 2 Fempeft 700 Years.ago. They are a very proud Race, wear their hair pretty long, and about their Heads fometimes wreath a valuable Sah, which none bur themfelves dare touch Ellewhere they go naked to the Wafte, where they gird themfelves with 2 parti-coloured Mantle, which falls no dceper than their kinees. Their ordinary Food (and that bought not at cafie rates) is Rice, Pinange, Whear, Becel, Opium, Goats, Hens, Eggs, Coco's, Plantans and Jacks. They have excellent grod Water to drink, and for Wine, Rack-2-pce, which being remperarely drunk, cheers the Heart, kills Worms, cures Fluxes, and helps Digertion, bur immoderate drinking it hattens Death. Thefe Counrries, for the greareft part of the Xear, are fubject to fuch loud thunders and flafhes of Lightring. as are very dreadful.
In this Ine nothing bre Pepper and Corton is worth Pepper de our noting. Pepper comes of Seed firft fown: and in the growth is fupported by Poles like Hr ps or Vines, rill by its mazarity it gets the frength of a bnihy, round and pleafanc Tree. The Pspper hangs in many Clufters, four Inches in length, and one abour, and yicld each abour 50 or 60 Corms, which be ful', round and fragrans, bur the fmooth are beft accounted of.
The Cotton-rrec is Aender, buc Atraighr, a Yard bigh, The Got:ar. but like a Briar. At the top it divides is folf into feve mr : . ral fmall branches, which are each of th:m charged wirh many Balls, round, and like a Wailnut, which consain the Bombaft. When they are ripe, they beat che Cotton out with Flails, to the great enriching the Owher.
Baly is an Ine near fava, lying on the Eaft-fide of it, Balj, on Iac inhabited by Gensiles. The Women there continue the Cuftom as yec of burning as their Hurband's Funcral more than in any other places in India; where the Mabometans have Dominions. The Way from frua to the Celebes is North-Eaft, diftant from Bantam 200 Icagues.
Celebers, of Old called Caffireria, and Solis Injula, now the Cetris Makafler, from the bef Ciry in it, is an Iale for quani-defribed. ricy and quality very confiderable; is firetches from the Equator 0 degrees South, is of an Oyal form, and is at leatt 200 Miles long; well-peopled, But with bad Men, being till of late the worlt of Savages, Men-Eacers which is now reformed by their receiving of the Alcoran, tho' che greateft part of the Inhabitants are ftill Gensiles. The lile is- fruifful, tho under the moft frying part of the Toriod Zone ; they go maked, fave that shey tie a few Fig or Plantain-leaves abour cheir middles. Their day is Son, but complexion Night. The bette are Tulip-painced, and wear a thin Shir,, with a pure whice Shaddero, for Orramert, to fer off their black hae. The Women paine cheir Faces and Body, but are very impudent and amorous, and fo Skilful in the Art of poyfoning, that they can fing fafety to themielves while they deftroy orhers. They have Poyfons that deftroy immediately, others operate in an hour, she Veins and Body rotting to amazement. This place is an Hell upon Earch, no ftaying in it, and to they hafted to
The Mofuccoes, called Solis Infule in former Ages, zire The Mirin. five in number, Moluceo, Gillolo, Tarnets, Tidore and Ma-core dof richan, or Matan, where Mfrgellan, afrer his long Voyage \({ }^{\text {brd }}\) in 1520 , ended his Life, thro the treachery of thole Barbarians, to whole Prince he had a litcle before given Af iftance. The Englifh were che firft Chriftians that traded hither, but the Dutch have chroft them ouki Gillolo is the biggeft, and Ternate the higheft of thefe Inlands; all of them bear Cloves, Mace, Nutmegs, Ginger, Pep per, Oil, Aloes, and Honey. They lie under the Equinoctial, bur by the daily howers and breezes, which the nearnefs of the Suncaufes, the Fruits ripen fooner, the Earth fmells more Aromatical, and the Air is more Nutritive there, than int moft ocher places thereabous.
The Clove-tree differs in proporion according to the the Ourw \(^{n}\) Soil where it grows; fome are as big as the Bay-ree, tree. which it refembles, the Leaves being only fomewhat narrower, orhers no bigger than the Box-tree, or other Trees of little growth. Tis for the moft part of the Year green, having Leaves long and Small, Spreading, into many branches. Is bloffoms early, but che Flowers change their colour three times a day:- In the Morning they are pure white, at Noon a diftempered red, and at Night black. The Cloves difeover themfelves at the very tip of the branches, and in theiri growth fend out foch a fmell, as ravifies the Senfes. Thicy are pruned drice every \(Y\) ear, and gratefully return a ureble \(V_{i n}\) tage; , and tho it be perfocted but once is three Years, yet it proves a grear advantage Phyficians fay, thas Cloves are hor and dry in the chird degree, Arengthen the ftomach, help concoction, and fack tep moifture to execedingly, that ra other Plan will wrive near it. The \section*{not very lofty, fearce rifing fo high as the Cherry; fome} fiave likend it to the Peach, but it differs in the fhape of the:leaf and grain, and affects more compals. The Nut is compaffed with a coarfe defenfive hufk, refembling the thick Rind of a Wall-nut, but ar full ripenefs difcovers her rreafure, the Mace with 2 Vermilion blum cwining round it, and both fending forth inoft pleafing Sun. The Mace in a few days aurns yellow by the Suns beams, and invites the Gatherer. In thefe Ines only are found thofe rare and beauriful Birds called commonly Mannucradint.e, or Birds of. Paradife; the is of the bignefs of a Parrot, the Feathers upon bis Head are fo Gmall, as rarher refemble Hair than Feathers, his Train thick, very long, and carioufly coloured, being in fome parts of his Body green, and in others yellow. His Wings are large, and of a brighr colour, but he has no Feer; in flying be mounts croecding high, and conti & nues long in mocion, Travellers mich efterm ir, but the Natives fuperfticiou Ily reverence ic.

\section*{464 . Sir Tho.Herbert's Travels into Afia and Africa, ©ri. Lib. Iil}

Several othicr Iflands of Note there are hereabouts, Ambopma, fome of which, namely \(A m b o y n\), were in the quiet pof dhe englifh, unil they were. diffited by the of Friey and cruelty of the Dutch, who, under a thew of Friendinip, invited their Factors to a Fcait, and not onfy got poffefion of the place, but pur them to Death, only got poflefion of che place, but pur them to Death, with moft cruel and exquifite Tortures, to the cyerlafting Difyrace of their Perfons and Nacion.
Bantadre
arrbed.
Banda lies near the aitoluccoes, in 4 deg . 30 min . of Southern Latitude, and 20 Leagues from imborna; it * hatmany fmall lifles round \(\mathrm{i}_{5}\) viz. Patavey; lantore the biggett, Batmi; Labitackn, Nero, Tycobeffa, Cumbicr, Puarcer, Saljma, and others; which are called by the Name of The ffes of Bidnda, they appear like one continued Wildernefs of Nutmeg and Clovertees, Pepper, Vibes alfo Olives. Oar Englijb Merchants. firft rraded hithet rual and the People by their means contracted a perperual amity with our King, but the Durch have now exritle themfelves Lords of Bande caring for no Man' Right nor Intereft but their own; ahtho' 'tis well known thar the Dutch traded thither after the Englif, and that till the Year 1598 , they had no trade in any part of the Indies, in which Year 3 Ships and a Pinnace fet forth from Amfterdam, being thsir frit Venture into the EaftIndics, but whar they wanted in Time, they have gor by unjuft Craft, and now are increafed to the wonder and adiniration of the Natives. Near thefe Ilies lies Equator; it is fuppofed to be the Infulcty under the and is of an Oval form. The greater part inclines to the North, towards which it is extended 7 deg. but to the South but thrce; it was accidentally firft dificovered by Mr. de Bret, and is fubject to the Spanifh Goremment and Avarice, which is indefatigable and infatiable afrer Gold. It has many Viltages, whict are full of people, but chey arepoor, and miferable Idolaters. The plenty of Gold, Diamends, and other Merchandize, which is found here, as Bezar, Lignum, Aloes, Muik, Civet, Benjamin, Amber, Sauguis Draconum, Wax, Rice, Ratrans, or Canes, draw a great conccurfe of Merchants and Travellers thicher. Her beftSea-Towns and Porss are Socodenia, which lies in 1 deg 35 min. South," and from Bentam' N. E. an iso Leagues, or thereabouts, and Bemernaffin; the, reft are fcarce worth regard, Bezar, or as the Pcrjans call it, Pezar, and•Pazahar, is of two forts, one forr found in. aljia, viz, in Perf:a, and ac Pegu and Brrner, which is the beft, and the other in Americe, but inferiour to it. It is found in the Stomach or Maw of a Goat, and other Beafts, but that which is taken from Bealts which feed that which is taken from Beatts which feed upon Theriacal Herbs is moft Soveraign, and of greareft Vertue ro expel Poyfon; it is of divers fhapes, for fome refemble a Plamb, a Date-ftone, or Doves-cgg; ochers are likic Chefnurs, Goars-kidncys, but all blunt ar the end. The colour aifo is as various, for fome:arered, or pale green others are Dark-yellow or Sky-coloured; the laft are beft. They confit of many Scales, which like Onions inclole one another, and as they grow lefs, yield more fiplendor, and increafe in vertue. Many are Counterwith hor Bodkins, them in cold Water 4 hours ; if they do notcreck not increare in their weight by lying in che Warer the no held good, burt if they do either', 'is a fure fign they are the value with the Perfan Iignumm Alocs, called by the Fauans and Malayans Garro, : by the Indians and Portu cueze Diquile, and by the clinefes and Cockin-chinefe Calemba; it is formed of large round Sacks of a clouded gran mixed gith yeins of Ah colour. Is iz pleafantio che eye, weighty in the hiand, birter so the tafte, but amomatick to che fmell, and takes fire very quickly. upon maxick to che frmell, and takes fire very quickly; upon Peguans, Cambogratos, and Borneans, Mfe no other Wians, Siats, Peguens, Cambogatos, and Borneans, ufe no other Wood when they' burn the Corps of their deceafed Parenos, M wiun them is the noblet way of Burial ellow, is bred in the Navel of: ihe Cat, and is either yellow, brown, or black; the firlt is the beft, and the unlike Spikenard, and is covered with ar-colour, nos hoors out fome brifly is covcred with a Skin, which inell, that to brinty hairs; this kort is of fo ftrong: affects the Atrongef it feems offenfive, and being taftel rmell of it. If it diffolves foon in the Mouth, and low ly in the Hand, 'tis known to be good.
Civet (which is a fort of Mulk bred in a little Bladdes Ciret within the Tefticles of a certain Creature not unlike a Car) is of different colours; the decpeft yellow is ufic ally the beft, the worft is white and greafy, neverthéiefs. when it is new, 'tis pale, and gradually turms yellowith.
Benjamin, which is called by the Maliyans Meinan, &mjit and by the Indinns Benyan, is either white or yellow, and both fores are ftreaked; this Gum iffucs from a Tree which is high and fmall, fpreading with fruirlé's bran: ches, the Leaves are fomewhat like the Olive Arabia breeds good, bui Pcgu and Siambetter; that from Sume rras Pricman and Berrovfe, is coarfe and bad:
Amber is of many forts, Ercy, brown, whitc and aris black; the grey is repured the beft, the black the worff and the other two indifferent. The beft fort of grey is pure, and intcrlaced with alhy veins, and nor fubject to Ink; it is for the inoft pars gotten in Soffala; Magadoxn, Monibafla, Mofambique, Madagafcar, Mohelia; Ascinds, and otber parts of South africk, but at grcat hazards.
for them are thefe: The Emerald ceported moft famous \(p\) for them are thefe: The Emerald Calchedom, Onix and pires: Sardonix. Sardor; Bezar, Amber, Hemathift and Tur- froin quoife, are for the moft part to be had in Axabic, 1 tidoften and Perfic. Pcarls, Beryls, Saphires, Adamams, at Zeglon; Jalper, Cornelion, Chryfolite, Agare", Hilio: rope and Jacinth, in Malabar, Narfinga; and Coction china. Diamonds come from Borneo, Delly, and the Illes near the Borneo, -Golcondar, Bijnagar; Delly, and the Illes near, the Greater \(\mathcal{F}\) rova. Gold, SilSum, Rubies and Porcellane, from Pegu, Siam, Bergat, umatra; Эapan and Cbina.
The beft and moft Oricm Pearl are finhed near Babrim; Pint in the Perfarn Gulph, where they fay have been found no lefs than 100 Pearls, grear and fmall, in one Oyfte neverthelefs, ftore of fmall Pearl are had in Oyters Muscles, and ocher Shell-fift, all along the Coafts of indic. Not far from Borneo. was found 2. Pearl, round and orient, as big as a Dove's-Egg, and of great value; and the Mcyul has Pcarls of an incredible bignefs.
By a N. N. E. Courfe they failed by Mindane, an Ide disun as big as Siciij, cxtending from 6 to 9 deg. North. The Pbilispines lie Northward of Mindano, and near them all the Manilles, called by Peolem, Infule Satyrerum They are namelefs, becaufe numberlefs, but the biggeft of them, and moft famous, is called Lucomia, which lics 4 deg . North Weft of this INand lies Cambogia, a nich part of the cmbw Afiatick Continent; and North, Shyma and Shicoca, two Ilcs beft known to the Inhabitants of China and fapan. Formofa, anIfle very advanrageovily firuated for Trade, Eirvein itandsin 22 leg. and is 150 Miles in length, and 50 in breadth, lies in efit way to Fapan, ncighboring upon Cbina; it was firt inhabited by the Spaniards and Cbina; it was firt inhabited by the Spaniards and Mulattoes, who grew very numerous and xich, till the Dutch hruft in a Colony among them.
Coren is a long, narrow Peninfula, famous in the Sirur cort anon, but infamous in the Inhabitants, who are a People thar ; more fubtle than the Ching mifchief to cheir NeighFours; more lubtle than the Cbinefes, or Faponefes.
Fapan was unknown to the Old Geographers, and fift Tam d dilcovered by Morws, Pefforus, and Zcymorus, three ba-fítoch nifhed Portugucic, who fecking their Fortune in a Veffel were driven by Srorm ipon this Tie in 1542 , and from har time it became well known to that Nation; but the Englifh did nor rrade thicher ill \(16 \times 3\), and the Dutith more lately. Wherther it be an 1 lle or no is difputablet tho' forme precend to know the Dimenfionsof \(1 \mathrm{I}^{-}\), and accordingly limir ir between the 35 and 48 Degrees, afCerting it to be 230 Leagues long, and 109 broad. The Soil is barren and coarfe, but fruitful in Minerals: The Towns of beft Nore and Traffick ase Meano, the Mctropolis, a Midland City, Surunga, Ozacca, till of late the Cefidence of the Court; the Buildings in them are vey ordinary: Of beft Note are the Foligues, which are alled with Manade's, to which the. \(\mathbf{F a p o n i a n s}\) are exicedingly addiacd.

\section*{ple to many} Gince
Gemi Fraith which ir \(\begin{gathered}\text { With } \\ \text { Th }\end{gathered}\)

Prince
Coun
Coun
Rivol Miner than of Cr
rorture reafona and res Learni
in Geol rope an only,
only,
their \(S\) s and far and hi ding \(t\) contain Tithares They d

\section*{narchmo but are}

2 gofor
an impl prey up in their monies are fo thernfel from the true. \(\mathbf{N}\)
nifled fo good No regularly tiled wit and the full of \(W\) Caftle wo of Eiqua
fimma 1eif, and SovercigI
fians.
gee, a.To gec, 2.10
Fuccete 21
warcred a Forreft and unde Peop'
green Tro where the Priapus, \(\begin{aligned} & \text { y } \\ & \text { all the } \mathrm{C}\end{aligned}\) all the C fail of pr canes, tha Air: In 1 fome hav Dcities, \(c\) Amida (as latios Galendar.
firs in is 70
to hold 15
and the ref fuch anoth high: But where Sata traordinary

\section*{Mrasel Among}

Primod this is one a 40 to
into the Tc the Idol. minated wi but foon af and in grols her: At he Songs; and Queftions,

The Cefuits have taken great pains to Convert the Reo－ ple to Chriftianity，and in Xaverius＇s days there werc many shat profeffed their Belicf in Chrift，but they have ance Apoftatized，and the grateft Number becoming Gentiles，have Maflacred the conftant Profeffors of the Faich，infomuch，that there are now bur few Chriftians among them，the Pcople rather inclining to the Alcoran， which is of late come very near shem，and agrees beft with their Senfual Appetircs．
The Government is Monarchical，above 60 Petty－ Princes doing Homage to the Empcror of Japain．The Conntry is for the moot part Mountainous，but full of Rivolets，which make ic abound with Corn，Girafs and Minerals．The Norrh and Eaft Parts are lefs Peopled than the South and Weft．The Old Roman punimment of Crucifixion is here ufed，a Death not more full of torture than Ignominy．The Pcople are Valiant，and reafonably Civil，but affecters of Noveltics，very jealous and revengeful upon Occafions：They pretend much to Learning，and efpecially pride themelves in their Skill in Geographe，tho＇ignoramt of that Art，as ufed in Eu－ rope and Africk．They divide che World into three Parts only，Cbine，Fapan and Siam，which fufficiently thews their Skill in it．Ar their Entertainments they－fir long and fare well，and in their eating ufe Sticks，or Forks， and hift the Table，as new Courles－are lerved．In ri－ ding they mount on the Right－fide．Their Alphabet contains bur 20 Tetrers．＂Ar Funcrals they wear whitc． hred They deny themfelves to be defcended of the Chinefos
normom buc are really Exiles of Chins；banifthed above 600 Years \(2 g o\) for an Infurrection；upon which account the fretain an implacable Animofity to the C／inefes，and rob＇and prey upon them on all Advantages，yca，abominate them in their Prayers，and in all their Complements and Cere monies are oppofite to them as may be．The Children are fo fenfible of their Repuration，that to vindicate themfelves from a falre Accufation they＇ll cut off a Joint from their Fingers，and wifh it may never heal if it be true．Murder，Thefr，Treafon and Adultery，are pu－ nifhed fevercly，either by Crucifying，or Beheading with 2 Cutran．Ozazca is 80 Leagues from Bungo， 2 Port o good Note，bur in nothing to remarkable as for a Cafte regulanly fortified，and of excellent foone，varnifhed and iiled with Plates of Gold，the Walls are 20 foot thick and the whole is encompaffed with a large deep Trench full of Water，over which are fome Draw－bridges，This Cafte was of late the Prifon of Coja－îamma，Eldeft Son of Eiqua－zamma the late Emperor，whofe Father Eaxiba amma rubjected all the other Rrinces of Fapan to him－ felf，and made them by Oath to acknowledge him their Sovercign．Over－againt Ozecia，on the other fide of find is not far from ir， 2 place frongly Walled ace，a Towned．Foren Leagues from thence is orim Fuccete are Englib Factorics．Fuccatc is a pretty Town warered with a Sweet River，and defended by 2 Caft \(a\) Forreft of 3 Miles long encompaffeth the Town almoft， and under the lofry Pines and preading Sycamores che Peopic pay thicir Idolatrous Wormip，for under thofe green Trees are many finall，but richly tiled Foriques， where they adore their Pagods in the fhape of Pen and Priapus，yea，Satan himelf in his uglicet Forms；fo in all the Councry，where there are mont Trecs and Corn， there are moft Idolaters．In fune and 7 fuly they feldon fail of prodigious Storms，called Tuffons，or Hurri－ canes，that for 24 hours thunder mont dreadfully in the Air．In Mencco are 60 Temples．and Colleges，in which fome bave numbred 3333 chamelire，or litule gilded Deities，called by them Manada＇s，of which Sbaca and Amida（as che Bonizces fay）have the higheft rank in their b）Tycc－zemma of Ari－ceike，fo large，that the Chair he fir in is 70 foor high and 80 broad，his Mead big enough to hold 15 Men ，and his Thumb 40 ．Inches in cumpals， and the reft of the Body proportionable．As Dabys is fuch another Coloftus，of hollow Copper raifed， 24 foor high ：But the Fotigue at Tencheday is moft remarkable， where Saran ofren appears．This Temple is of an ex traodinary Structure，and Kerved by many Borzees．
Among orthex Sacritices orForms of Worthip uled bere Manel this is one ：Thar a Damofel every New Moon is brough To into the Tcmple by a Boñ̌c，and placed right againf the Idol．At her entrance the Room is forthwith illu－ minated with Lignum－Aloes burning in Lamps of Gold bur foon after the Lamps are extinguifted miraculoufly， and in grofs Darknefs the Deity is faid no company with her：Ar her return the is entertained with Mafick and Songs；and the Enthufiaftick Girl refolves them many Queftions，and is of more repure wirh them ever after．

A Notable Delufion of Satan．Due WeAt from Fapan
Chima，this Country is the moft Eafterly part of the chime a Continent of the Grenter Afra，a Kingdom no lefs Grcat firived． than Wealthy，and as Famous as Grcar，but not well dif covered，becaufe they are jealous of Syrangers．．It has many Names，becaufe ic is a Cuftom among them，thas very new King gives Names both to themflelves and the Kingdom．Prolemy calls chem，Siur um Regio，and orher Geographers Seres．The Inhabitants call their Nation ramen，and themfelves Tamerines．If is a fpacious Mo－ parchy，extending from 17 to 47 deg ．of Northern La－ aitude；is is almoft fguars，and from cvery fide 1500 Miles，and fo is 4000 Miles in compafs．The Counrry sfull of fweer and navigableRivers，fome of which are no lers inhabited than the Citics，which are faid to be 600 ，befides Walled Towns 2000，Unwalled 4000 Caftles rooo，and Villages almont innumerable，which contain（as rhe Friars citimate them）above co Millions of Men ；befides Women and Children， 4 times more han all France is fuppofed to have．The whole Empire is divided info 15 Provinces，governed by fo many Qun－ tu and Laufia，who havetheirDeputies called Tutons and Chyms．Each lrovince has a Mceropolis，bur the chicf of them are Paquin，Nanquin，Cantam and Quinzar．Pit－ uin has now the precedency，tho＇Quanzoy had it former－ \(y\) ；it elevates the Pole 41 deg．is min．and is，if the Relation of fome be true，not only the greared and bett Peopled City in all A／f．1，but the whole World，for they ay is hath 30 Durch／Leagues in circumfercnce，in which are many flatcly Buildings， 2400 p Manilarins Scpul－ chres，the meanct of them are not without fome beatery， and as many icte gilded Chappels，befides 3500 Idol Temples，as many Gates and Pofterns as there be Dazis In the Year， 120 Bazars，and above \(x 000\) Bridges．This Ciry is diftant about too Miles from that marveleus Wall built 1000 Years fince by chrifingol，or as others all him，Zaintzan，their 117 th King，to kcep ont the Tertar．The．Wall is 1200 Miles long， 12 Yards thick， and 6 Fathoms high，and was 27 Years ercting，by the ontinual Labour of 750000 Men ；neventhelefs，is could nor hinder the Tartar of late from over－running，and fubjecting this great Empire to them，by forcing their paffage through it．Nianquin is the Cecond City for wamen at Grandeur in the Cizinef Empirc，once the Mactropolis offiribch． it；it is fruate in 35 deg ．Northern Latitude，and is 8 Leagues from the Sea．It is 12 Lcagucs abous，being cncompafed with ftrong Walis and Ditches．The King＇s alace is very large，and the orher Buildines many，be ing accounted 200000 ，but nor beauriful．The Temples are 200c，the Strects fair，and Pcople induftrious．It s 600 Englifis Miles from Pequir，the Way for the moit part being Navigable．Cansem lies in 25 deg．Lacitude ；©n：ami it is a rich and fpacious Town，Ships ride commonly in viciv of it，bur from Paguin it is litile lefs than a Mcnels ravel．Here Merchants are permited to os abore int when they enter the City－zate，wfualiv Enral thait Niancs in a Book，engazing themfelses upon a Penaley to go on board at Night，but of late they are aliowed a lirtle more liberty．The Mcrchants trade hicher for Musk，Gold，Silks of all Korrs，Cabiners，Poreellane， and feveral orher rich Commoditics．Ruinzor borders \(2 \cdots=0\) on Cockim－cbinar ；it was of Oid the greatelt，and is at this day the moft remarkabic Ciry in the Oriens for va ricty of ancient Raritics，of which the mbte No：ableare their Manni，or Idol－Temples．The Country is Cham－ pain，and cxiceding Fruitful．The Rivers abound with Filh，which the Chincfes nor only Feaft themfelyes with but upon Frogs，Snakes，Rars，Hogs，Degs，and fucia like Creatures，which other Na：ions abuminate；and for better difparch，thicy fin with Cornorants．The People are Olive－colourcd，more black or white as they ive ar a diftance from the Equ：noctial．They wear their hairlong and filletred，bur chacir Bcardsare thin and ugly．Their Eyes are commonly black and fmall，No res licrilc，Nails almoft as long as thetr Fingers，bur fer－ ving to diftinguifh their Gencrofity：．The berter fort have their Cloathing of Silk，and a light Sotr of Satrin and the meaner in black Cloth made of Cotronn：Boch wear their Coats long and quilted，made to tie on the Left Atm；their Sleeves are long，and the Wriffs very ftraic．Their Shoes are of fuch Stuff as their Coass，but föme have them richly embroider＇a，the Soal bcirs of Cloth or Callico．The greateft variery is in their H cad－ atrire ；fome knit their hair in Cawls of Silk，or Horre－ hair，others with Fillers of Gold and Silver．Others wear high round Caps made with fine twigs fitched with Silk of divers Colours，burothers fancy an Aurtick forr of Hac，which is Nigh－crownid and round，and one half withour a brim．No colour pleafech them fo much

Sir Tho Herbert'sTravels into Afian Africa, Erc. Lib. TH.
as tavney. The Women are Modert; and differ norhing in their Apparcl. They cover themfelves with a \(V\) cil of white Linen, fo that nothing appears but their Feet, which from theis Infancy they fo itraten to make, thenifelves A-la-mode, that they becone many of them lame. They Tolerate Polygamy, and that odious Sin of Sodomy, and are not alhamed to expofe them to publlck view by paincings. They are a proud, lazy, jcalous and voluptucus fort of People. Mufick, Pootry, Paincing and Srape-plays, delight them exccedingly, and they carc not what they fpend in Luxury and Fircworks. They eat in Porcellane, and put their Meat in feveral fmall Difhes, which they love to Mince; and cake it up with two Sricks of Bone, or lvory, or with their Nails, which fome wear very long for that Ufe, for they account is abfurd to rouch either their Mouths or Mear with their Fingers. Their Drink is commonly hot, and appears to be Coffec by the colour and tafte. They drink 2 little and often. The Loutljayes ent on Tables, fit on Srools, and will be Cetred on the Khice: Nanars. Tho' they are given to ldlenets, yer they have few or no Begears; for if a young Perfon beg tie is whipped; if an old ons, he is fent to anHofpital to be provided for Thwirpunith. Murder and. Thefr they punifh with Death. The leaft mo.ts. punilhinent they ufe is the Strapado. Their fuffice is fevcre, their Prifons. ftrong; and Executions quick The f tonour their Mandarins, reverence the Chjamis, and almoft adore their King. No Subject can have xecourle to him but by Pection. HisWives Children and Eunuchs only have accefs to him. Ambaffadors enter nor inro his prefence wirhour fome Gifts of value. The Pcople are much pleared with Novelties, and more efpecially love ro fee ftrange Arts, which they practire with delight. Few of them but have Skill either in Tillaige, Thsir Atts ang Cbinc-Dithies, Painting, Singing, Playing, of Mathematicks. They ufe no Letters, but Chiarakters, of which the have above 40000 . They write downward with Pencils made of Horfe-hair, fuch as Painters ufe. Their Langoage is almoft all Monofyllables. Moft of chem have a Vein of Poetry and Mufick, and are ftudious in all the Liberal Sciences. Scholars atind Metchants are in greater eftecm with them than Men of War.
Their ho- Nio People in the World honour their King more than nonr to their they, for they fuppofe him roo Glorious ro look oin. Kir. They obey his Will in every thing, they fill his Exchequer Yearly with above too Millions of Crowns, and call him the Undaunted Emperor, Lord of the whole World, Son of the Sun, and Beauty of the whole Earth. Nor do any Pcople cxprefs more filial Rcfpect to their Parents than they, for they obey them ar all times, and in all places; maxry not withour their Confent, leave their Childrens Names to chem, honour them be they never io mean, maintain them be they never fo poor, and at cheir Death exprefs all Symproms pofible of Duyy, Mourning in white Linen as the \(\mathcal{F}\) coss did of Old, feldom lefs than two or three Years; the longer they mourn, they think they better exprefs their filial Affection. They arrogate to chemfelves the Invention of all Aits and Knowledge in the Liberal Sciences, and is can't be denied but they have fome of them, as Logick, Rhetorick, Mufick, Arithmerick and Aftronomy. They are, they fay, the moft unmix'd People it the Univerfe; have all from their owningenuity, and botrow nothing from others. They boaft that they firt invented Characters, Guns, Painting, Tillage and Navigation, in which if they do not fallify, yer they come far thote of the Europeans in che perfection of thole Arts; for their

Gons are mort like Piffors; their Painting is winh mean Theit Gus Defigns and fitchy Pottures; tho' their Colouts are good. They thadow bur meanly, in which confifts rhe excellency of Painring. Their Husbandry is withour much Art, for tho' their Grain is good, the Sóil rich, and the \({ }^{\text {Husuantr }}\) Zone moderare, yet is neither their Coth fo good, various, and critain as ours. Their Natigation is lame, Nevigrino they build many Ships, but, without beauty or Atrength. Nor have they much Skill in Sailing, having no good Mathematick Inftruments, nor knowing the Ufe of the Compals. They are ignorant of the Load-ftone, ufing the Dog-Star and Vifa Mintr for their beft Directors; yet, they fay, they fee with both Eycs, the Eutopeans with one, and all othicr People are blind: They love Gaming exceffively, and will Stake their Wives and of Garic Children in cheir playing, which if they lofe, they wishlingly part with them till they can redeem them: They are Horpicable one to anothex, and believé a Reforrection, for they will fometimes lend Moncy to be paid in'another World:. Stage-plays, Masks, Fire-works, and fuch Devices; pleafe them wonderfully, nor care chey what Moncy they expent in foch Spons, if their expectation be not fruftrate. Thici Houfes are meanly brilt; and as badly furnifhed, Their Merni have no ex-their Ter. terinal Beaury nor Grandeur as mighr be expeeted in fo pím rich a Country; and among fo Soperftitious a People, but thed are many times hined with excellent good Porphyry, Sexpenrine, and like Marble. Their Colleges their cin and Temples exprefl, by fomeInvention or orher, theix kga. Infernal Art and Familiaricy with the Old Magician to whom they devore fome Enthufiaftick Boys, who pronounce fomewhar that points at his Worfhip and their Obedience. They Celcbrate theid Birth-days very fo- Ther Fail lemmly for a Formight, fpending the Day in Paftimes, rain and the Nights in Feafting, indulging themfelres much in choice Fraits and Wines. Nex-g:ar-Day, which is with them in March, they Keep witfin alt folemnity, Atriving to exceed each other in the fancies of their Pageants anid adorming their Doors with Paper-Arches and Imat ges by Day; and with Lanthorns amd Lighis by Night. Their Weddings have more or lefs Ceremony, accordimp to the Quatity of the Perfons Their Furticrals ate chins 7 .e. Ea Celebiared: When a Main dies, they firt Waft, then ais Perfome, and laft of all put his beft Cloaths on, and covering his Head, fer him in a Chair. Then his Wife having paid her Refpects, goes to him and kifics him and takes her leave of him with all the forrow imagi nable ; and after her, the Chitdren and Relations do all the fame in their Order. This done, after thrie day they lay him in a Coffin of precious Wood, which they cover with a Silk Cloch, and over ir place his Pieture. For is days the Corps refts in that fort; and erery day a Table is fpread before ir well-furminhed with Meat; which the Priefts, who burn Incenfe and offer Sacrifice; are allowed to cat in the Night. When they carry it to the Grave, Women are hired to howl, to move otbers to compaffion; and upon the Coffin fometimies they fer the Imiage of a Dead Man; who is to fhew him the rea dieft way to Elizium. Whetr-she Burial is orer, the Thi: Widow and Children keep themfelves from Companf aruss fome few days, and when they go abruad; wear Sackcloth next their Skin, have long and plain Cloaths, and for chree Years fpace are nor feen, to laugh or joy in any thing, but to the utmoft of their power fliew their lore by their concinued lamentation, abftinence from Feafts and Paftimes, and fublcribing their Letrers by the Name of fuch 2 ones (viz. the Dead Man being named) Difobe-le Sola, &ce Country, buc Ovias Negcro qua NaEn &c. was always the clofe of his Oblervations ma 20 lerting Sail horncward upon fune 7. after a long Voyage through Srorms, codured with much patience, he cane to elic lle of Digairoys, which is 50 Miles about and in the 20 deg. South Latitude. Here they would not anchor, becaufe they knew that the Ine of Maurisim was but 90 Leagucs diftant upon a W.N. W. Courfe, and there they expected fome refrelhment. The Ine of Digarions was finft difcovered by the Porrugucze; it is a defolate Inland without Inhabitants, but plentifully furnithed with Wood, Tortoifes; Dodo's, and the like FowI. At the Sourth-Weft are Shoals, which are long and dangerous. By che benefic of a conftane Wind, they Coonarrived ac Maurisius.
Mruritius is an Inc ficuate within the TorridZonc, un-上ntim. der 20 deg. 5 min. Southern Latirude, and 20 deg . 20 min . Longirude from Cape Comerym. The variation is 24 deg. and 19 min. Ir properly belongs to Africe, and is removed 100 Leagues, or thereabouts, from Madazaferr to the Eaft. For variety of Temporal Bleffings, this Ife miy comparci with any place in the Univerfc. It was finf difcovered by the Induftry of the Rortugueze who gare is the Name of Dc-cerne, which the Durch changed into chat of Mrurice, for reafons nor known to us. Ir was thought by the firf Difoverers, that Chrifians had formerly inhabited this Ine, by the Croffes, and other Symbols found there. It abounds with; and iscapable of all things neceflary for Humane life,which can be required in the Zone thar 'ris placed in. The land upon the Sca-coaft is high, but elfewhere Champian and Plain. Ir is of an Oval thape, and in Circuit not above 100 Englifh Miles. The Air exceeding good; and the Soil, tho untilled, To fruitful, thar it produces wichour Sced, Grals, Herbs and Flowers Ambergreefe is often found floating about this Ifland but how generated is not known, but it is highly valued acoording to ies Natarc. Here is alio Coral in abundance : 'Tis a green Shriblo or Plant in the Salt Sca, but bas no Leares. Ir bearech white Berries, which by force of the Sca and Air turn into Stone, and when it tums red :it is valuable. Is grows alfo upon the Malabur Coaft, in the Red-Sea, and fome orher Parts of the Affican thore, and near the Philippine Iflands. Ir pro duccth Trees of feveral forts, fome good for Timber, others for Food, all for Ufe. The moft rare Tiress are black is moft waluable. The Tree is commonly high, and rexy ftraight, covered with a fmooth Bark. They were found here in grear plenty, but the Dutch and French have carried away fuch abundance, that the pleninglem, ty is much abated. Here allo grows that Phxnix in Nader, but rery high and round, not branching but near the top, and rhen refembling Sedge rather rhan Boughs. which are ever green. Under the Sedge appears a ioft pulp, not unlike a Colliflower, bur becaure the vegeratiee Vertue of the Trec confifts in it, it will not thrive after it is fee cerca, but while thar fubtance remains it ricds a Liquor like the Toddy, which is in colour and relifi not unlike Muft, or new Wine, which iffucs out of cte Bark, when is is pierced. thie quantity of a Potule in an hour. It is a kind of Trichoney, and bcing drunk with moderation comforts the Spirits, purges and helps Obftructions, and kills Worms, bur being immoderarely taken intoxicates the Brains, and difpofes to Fluzes, but being fer rwo days in the Sun, turns acid, and then is binding. Here are alfo Coco-Trees, borh Malc and Female ; they both bear Blofloms, but the Female is only fruitful, and thiar by inoculating a flowering branch of the Male into it, or planting it near ir, and not orherwife. Lizards and Parrors, and ocher Birds, flock to the Trees chas are pierced, when Men are gone, to fuck upenc remaining Liguor: Se:col other Forts of Trees there ate, \({ }^{\text {² }}\) which differ in quality and form, which tho' they had a refemblance to Pines, Sycanoroces and' Limes, and the Fruil to Artichokes; Plums, Nuts, Éc. yet were in Nature different. This Inc has greas vario- The Bide y of Biras, and forme of them very rare; as the Dodo, the Dodo and is fo big, as to weigh no lefs than 50 pounds: It is Flig at better to the Eye than Stornach, for the flefh is Ko oily: betcr ro the Eye chian stomach, for the flefh is fo oily:
and cloying, that only frong Stomachs can digeft it: \(1 t\) is of a melancholy Vifage, and has fuch frall Wings as are unable'to hoitt her from the ground. Her Head is haif covered with down of a dark coloor, and the other half naked; the Bill is hooked, and from the thrill or breathing place to the end, is of a light grten colour mixed with a pale yellow, ber Eyes are round and bright, Thie hias fine down inftead of feathers, which grow only 3or 4 ar her Tail, her Legs are thick and black, her Tallons grear, and hex Ston:ach to hotas to digeft S-mes. Herc are alfo Acrics of Hawks, and fundry o:hcr Birds, Harks: as Gofhawks, Tannars, Hobbics, Rafc-Flemingocs. Geef. Pouis, Swallows, Kitcs, Black-lirds, Sparrows, Ro'sins Herons, whire and beautiful, thicir fefl good, but feathers more valuable :Cacato's fierce, and nor to be tamed, Bitterns, Hens, and many ochers, bur the Parrors arc moft curious in thcir feathers, and more efteemed for heir prating. In the Rivers arc found grcai: variety of Fifh ; the xaref are the Man-atce, a Fifi which ufes the Man both Elements, their Fins ferving for Seiles on Land, as ance, Faid tee rom Vcal in raftc. They affcet Ihoal'd Waters, and ufia ally fwim near thic fhore, that thicy may graze uron is their eyes are fmall, their butk about three Yardslons and in breadth albouc half fo nuuch. A gentle Fiff, dcligtted in beholding Manis face, and valuabic for aStone found in the Head, which being pounded and drank in Wine fafting, curcs the Stone and Colick. The Torpe- The Tarre:
 catches leffer Filh very ftrangely, for by his colturcis he fro. benoms fuch Fin as fivin over him; or lodgc near him, and fo prcys upon then. When they are takch, they affeet the Hand of the Catcilicr with a fudden trembing, by craporating a cold breath. which furifics the touchi. The Eagle-fint, made morc for Edmiration than Frod, The Ears the Eyes are 5 quarters afunder, and the Fins, fromit onc \(t=2\) end to the crther, 4 lards; its Mouth iv fo wide, and Tecth folong, that it refemilecth a farall Port-cullice. The Tail allo is very long and finall. Oilerftrange Fifin are alfo mer with here, fome have the flapes of H clecehogs, other of Cats, tome trund, and fo:me triangular. Morcodinary Fifh are found alfo here in abandance, as Dolphins, Boncta's, Albicorcs, Cavallo's, Rorpices, Grampaffes, Mullers, Breans, Tcuch, Trour, Soals, Fhounders, Tortoifes, Eeles, Pikss, Sharks, Crabs, Lobfress, OyAtrs, Craw- 6 fih and Curte-filh, Rock-filh and Lampits. Morerer, this IRe affords Goars, Hogs, Bectes, and Land-Torroits. Tortoifes, fome of which arc fo big, as to fufier two \begin{tabular}{l}
icn \\
\hline
\end{tabular} ofir on them, and fo ftrong as to carry them; yea, fome report thar is Men have ftood upon one of them. The Sailors ufe to cat them, bue they are betrer Mear for Hogs thian Mcn; as are alfo their Rats, Bats and Monies. Hens cxcel them, and ara cafily carched, for they Hess. lock together in companics of 30 or 40 togerher; and if you kill one, they will none of them be frighted at it. In Br ;, bis Ille are fercial good places to anchor in. bur twio are mott frequented, the one on the North-W \(W\) eff, and the other on the South-Eaft; borth which Bays feem to be Land-locked, and havc Ouzy-ground, to that Ships ride afe there in 5,10 , 15 , or 20 Fathoms, no wherc dangeous. The Soil of it is ftony towards the fore, bus at more \(x\) tes coit difance has rich Mould, covered with Grafs and Herbs, and bcaring Wood in abundaicc. It bassprinss of fond Water, and nothing wanss which may delight the Eyc, or \{atisfy the Tafte. It is mininabiece, , hut fuch inviiaions tis like will be focm accepred. From the linc of E-rimes Mazrice they fer fail, and on the sth day canne to an Erist, aa

Commander of the Pearlin 1613 , bute fome of late have given is the Name of Scignior Maforemas. This plealans lle is abour so Miles in Circuit, it lies in 20 deg, 55 min. Southern Latitude, and is diftant from the lhe of Mauritius 37 Lcagucs. The ground is very high, and raifeth ir felf a good way into the middle Region; the Earth is cvery where green, efpecially in tall lirecs. It had no Creatures in it bur Birds, till the Englifh put fome Hogs and Goars into it, char by mulriplication they might Hoss an appr Relief no Paffengers. Here are pienry of thern weighing 30 pounds, and they are very moift and fweer to the rafte. The Birds are much the fame as thofe mentioned in the Ine of Mauritius. From hence they failed into the Mare de Zur, where for many hundred Miles they were recreated with many Shoals of Fint, that play'd about their Ship, and among others the Whale, fome of which feemed longer than their Ship, tho of grear burden. This Fith ufually exceeds any other Crearure in bignefs, being near 40 Cubirs long, and i \(4^{\text {th }}\) part in thicknefs; yea, Nearcbus told Alcxander, he faw one 50 Cubirs long. And pliny, in his Nat, thit. days. hail they came to the Inand of 70 days hail thcy came to the lland of simeme, an S. Helena, placed in a rough Sea, but lecured from noce, defri- Inundation, not fo much by its height, tho extraordinary, as by the Supreme. Providence, which fers Bounds to the Sea. Is has no Ines near it, bucftands in anequal diftance between the Ports of Rio Grandi in Brafit, and Cape Negro inthe Kingdom of Congo in Africk; itsName was given it by Folm de Aicen about the Year 1502 , becaule he difcovered it in his return from Indire to Lisbon, Moy 3. a day Confecrated to the Memory of the Moft Religious Emprefs Helenc, the Morher of Conftentine che firt Chritian Emperor. This Ine lies in 16 deg. of Southern Latitude, and from the utmoft Promontory of South Africk 22 deg. Longitude. Ir is distanr from the Lands end of England 4500 EnglißMiles, and from the Cape of Good Hope 1740 . It belongs to Africa. It is but frall, not excecding 30 Englif Miles in circumference, but fo excefive high, that it veils its head often in the Clouds, which fend down fufficient moifture to cool the Sun's ardour. Neverthelefs, the Land is not more eminent in its heighr than the Sea is profound in its depth, being fo deep, that it affords ill anchoring fave at the N. W. where'tis but 20 fathoms; yet to ride fecurely, 'ris beft to carry the Anchors afhore. The flux and reflux of the Sea hardly appcars here, becaufe of the great depth. The Land is fo fteep thar is can hardly be afcended, infomuch that the Sailors thus defcribe the Way up to is: That "cis fuch, as that, a Man may cbufe mbether be will hreak bis Hears in going up, or bri Neck in coming down; but being once up, fearce any place can yield a more large and delightful profpect. The Land is very even and plain a top, wichout any Hills. Ir has fome Springs, which are fweet at thear rifing, but running through the Salc Hills, and drawing near the Sea, where they meet with a faicilh Vapour, they are brackifh. There are bur two nored Rivolets in it, the one running down towards the Chappel, Built there for God's Wormip by the Spanierds, bur pulled down by the Dutch? and put to common Ufes; the other running into Limon-Villty, fo called from a Limon-Tree growing there. There are Come Ruins of a lirde Town lately demolifhed by the Spaniard, becaufe ic was become a Magazine of a private Trade from both Indies; other Monuments or Antiquitics there are nonc. There are no Inhabitants ar prefent, but plency of Hogs and Goats, who mulciply there to admiration. Here are alfo ftore of Pheafants, Pouts, Quaits Hicts and Partridges, as alfo of Hicrbs and Roors, tho \({ }^{\circ}\) not naturally growing here, bur fown by the Porrugucere, as Wood-Sorrel, Three-leared-Grafs, Scurvy-Grafs, and the like; all Herbs forcraign againft the Scurvy, the ufual difeare ar Sea, and molt predominant with the Illanders, Bafil, Parncy, Mint, Spinage, Fennel, Annife, Radifh, Muftard-feed, Tobacco, and the like me. Coudifh Mr.Candifh, in his Voyage round the Globe, putring in pur in berce. here, found fore of Limons, Oranges, Pomgranates, Pomcitrons, Figs and Dates, but now none of thefe Fruits are found here, fave one Limon-Tree, which how it comes to pals none can rell. After a Weeks refrefhment here they took their leave of this Ine, a profperous Gale inviting their departure, and on ORtob: 16. came juft - under theSun. The Thurfdiny after chey had a prorpect of Afienfion:-I/le, fo named by foln de Nuza in the Year 1 men 1502, becaufe he difcovered is firf upon that Fcaft. It \({ }^{2}\) lies in the 7 th deg. of Souchern Latitude, and is little more than 30 Miles in Circuit ; 'tis neither well woodded nor watered, has nothing obfervable in ir. From Sr. Helena 'ris 720 Enzlifh Miles, or chereabouts. On the 27th day they crofied the Equinoctial a fourth time. The Weather here is very hot, lare that it is qualified by the continual blowing of the Manzoons and Tornadoes, which caule a ranahle Weather, viz. Lond blafts of Wind, nalty flowers of Rain, and rerrible Thundes and Lightning. On Neoember it. they became parallel Th : a , to Cape de Verd, and thofe lines called by the Poecs Gorgra - orsasie: das, becaufe they feign chat thofe three thands were the Habitations of the tbrec Gergins, Mcdufa, Stenia and Uriabe, making them Faries inftead of Beauties, concrary to Perfous's report of them. Leaving thefe Ifles upon the more Wefterly Courfe, they coafted part of the Americann Continent, viz. Guiann, Florida, Virginia and NiciEngland, and other Parts of Norembegri. Here they obServed, that the Sez in many places, as they failed, was fo covered with green Weeds, and finall Berrics, even where the Water was not to be fathomed, that it rather feems a Field of Grafs than the Ocean, and much retarded their way in Sailing. About the beginning of \(D_{i-}\). cember rhey had fight of the Azores, or Ficmifh Inands, ort tomp which Name feems to infer as if they were found our \(b\), firct, , wh, the Dutch; for according to Tradition, 2 Merchant cf Bourges, bound for Lribon in 1449, was by ftrefs of Weather driven fo far Weft, as unexpectedly, betwixt the Latitude of 38 and 40 degrees, he defricd feveral fmall Inlands in view one of another, but at that time withour Thew of :any Inhabirants. Hie called them the Fl.mifh Illands. Coming foon after afhore.ar Andalyfia, and reporting his Adventure, the Portugu=-2e, by his Compafs, cafily found the Way to them, and quickly planted them with Men, and whatever elfe was neceffary, giving them at the fame cime the Names of S. Gecrgs,. S. Nischat, S. Mary, three Saints, to whofe Patronage rhe Captain thought fir to recommend threc of the Ines; Fcyell, from the Beach-Trees which then abounded in this lac, Pyce, from the Pyramidal hape ir bears, and Tercera, becanfermet, is it refembles three Ithcs. This is the biggett and fruitful- bpatiof left of them, for ir abounds with Wine, Oil, Corn, watces Fruir and Oade- Angra is her beft Town, and Brafice her ftrongeft Fort, which alfo command the Haven. Pyca is extraordinary high. Land, and furges in a Pcak, or Spire, like Teneriff, to far above the Clouds, that the top is ufually covercd with Fogs, and is feldom to be dif. cerned by the Sailors. This Ille is not above so Mites in compaifs; the higher Earth is for the moft part Suiphor, and hews many hollow places, as which fmoke and flime often evaporate, and now and then fend forth Brimftone, bur in the Valleys are delightful Sbades, and cool Rivolets, into which when the Fire is vomited, is caufes a terxible noife, to the terior and amazement of Scrangers. Thefe Illands are more fubject ro Earthquakes Erimanic than orher places. In 1591, in S. Micljacl's liand, therc momet happcred an Earthquake which continued 1haking from the 26 th day of 7 uly to the 12th of \(\operatorname{Aug} \mathrm{y}\) fi, to the cxmeme affrighting of the Inhabirants, for by the force thereof, they perceived the Earth to remove from place. to place; and Villa Franca, the beft Town, it bad quire demolifhed, the Ships that rode at Anchor in the Bay trembled and quaked, infomuch thar the Inhabiants thought verily that Dooms-day was ar hand. The Spaniards repor for a rruth, that che Ille Corvo, adjoyning This is to the formex, rofe out of the Sea, being before under cirt Water ; but this Miracle is not fo credible, as that this Ine and Fiores was difcovered by the Spaniards. Theic Inlands fuffered much from the Englifh in the quarrel chey bad with Sprim, for in 5588 , the Earl of \(E J_{c \times x}\) facked Flores and Corvo; and gave S. Micbael to be plundered by the Soldiers, and the next Year Fayall underwent the fame Fate. In 1597, Pyco was made a piccy to the EntIjf under Sir Welter Rawleigh, fo thas the Inhabitames of thefe Ines had reafon to curle the Catholick ambition. At S. Michacls the truc Meridian is only found, for therc tivitanter. the Needle hews no variarion either Eafterly or Wefterly, concrary to what is obferved in other places. Leaving the Azores, the Wind being.fair they entred the Cantabrian Occan, and at léngth came to anchor at Plimouth, giving God hearty thanks for theif prefervation from fo many Dangers in their loog Voyage.

\section*{Navigantium atq; Itinerantium Bibliotheca:}

\section*{B o or IV.}

\title{
CONTAINING Voyages, Trafficks, and Difçoveries
}
T. 0

\section*{Chap. I.}

\section*{The Fournal of : William de Rubruquilh, a French-man, of the Order of the . Minorite Friers, into Tartary and China; Written to Lewis IX King of France, 1253.} ived in be Tartars Councrif, who have no fected
 Winter, and when the Spring approaches, they remore agzin towards bhe North Their Hout So are made of Wickers plareded wogather and placed in Carss fome of which are fo large, thar meafuringonce ine bradde between the Whect-rus of one of their Currs I foumd it to be 20 Foor over, and when the Houle wis upon the Cart, it reach'd over the Whects on acch fide five Feet a 2 leaf. 1 told. 22 Oxen in oìe Tam, drawing anH Houfe ppon: 2 Cart, eleren 2 breaft The Axle-पroof of the Cart was of an buge bignocss tike to the Maft of 2 Ship. The Man thar drove the Oxen food in the Doorof theHoufe They go. 2 fow pace, zod when they come to any place where they incend to makeclome thay, thes tuke down their Houffes foim dheir Cars, and turnimg the Doors Southwards, the Mantcris Bed is is laced ax the North end of the Hoofe. If he have more Wivesthanone, fhe with whom he leper the Night before, firsby hisfide the Day following, and all hisother Wives moft that Day refort unto the fame Hooufe to drink.
In Wirmer thes make excellerx Drink of Rice, and

When they have gotten a guantity of thisMilk, they pour itinnoagreat Bladder or Bag while it is new, and beat the Bag with a Club, tillit begins to boillikenew Wine, and to be fowreand iharp of tafte. It bires the Tongue like Wine of Rapps leaving a cafte bchind it like to Alinond Milk; is intoxicares weak Brains, and ftrongly provokes Urine.
The Caracofmos or black Cofmors, for Men of quality todrink, is made on this manncr. They beat the Milk cmacofme till the thickeft part defcend to the bottom. like the Lees of White-wine, which is given so Servants, and makes them fleep exceedingly. That which is thin and clear, their Mafters drink, and is a very fweet and wholfome Lizuor.
Their Cows Milk is churned into Butter, which is Their Batert boiled and pur into Rans Skins and referved for Winrer. They par-no Salt in ir, and yet it purrifies not, by reafon of the long boiling. The Milk chat remains atterthe Butrer, they lei ftand till ir be as fowte as may be thenboilis till tis all turned into Curds, which they \(d\) y in the Sun until they are as hard as the Drofs of 1 ron, and flore it ap in Bags agzinft Winter; ar which cime when Milk failech, they pur the faid Curds, called Gryur, into a Bladder, and pouring hor Water into it, bear it till the Curds are diffolved, and the Warer become very fowre, and then drink ic.
As to their Food, they ear all manner of Carrion of that without Exception, and among fo many Droves it cannot Ditt. be, but fome Cattle muft needs die. Bur in Summer, as long as their Mares Milk lafts, they care nor for any Food. When 2 Horfe or \(0 x\) dies, they cur the fiefin into chin lices, and hanging it up againft the Sun and Wind, it prefencly dries withour Salt, and alfo withour fiench or Corruption. They make better Pudings of men.

\section*{509 Tbe fournal of William de Rubriquilh}

Their Wic.

Marti-gCs
hiverion his Bed with 1 Citron in in is fowe foumd Wife frting by hith, the upper part of whofe Nore feemed to be pared avay; that fhe might feem flat nofed, and the place was anointed with a black Ointment. befought him that he would vouchfafe to accept of that hinall Gift at our hands, excioning my felf that I was a Monk, and that if wate gainft may Rrofertion to poricis Gold, Silver, or precious Garments, and, therefore had not any fuch thing to give him. Hercupon he caufed our not any luch thing to give him. Hercllpon he caufed our Prefenr of Wine, ofra to be received and difributed Prefent of Wanc, Oca to be received, and diftributed it among his Mcri, who.wape mot togather to , trink mad make merry. I delivercd himalfo the Emperour of cim Pgntinoples'sletters, He asked us if we would drink Iny cifmos Y forthofe Chrifians which li e among them as the Ruffirins, Grccians, Sic. duill nevicr drink of is m, account themfelves no Chrifians after chey have once drank it, and their Pricfts reconcile shem to the Churcli as if chey had renounced the Chriftian Faith). I aniwered, that we had as yer fufficient of our own, and that when ir fhould fail us, we mult be contrain'd to drith luch as hould be given us. He then asked what Words wh prould deliner to Duke Sutrinte: 1 anfwered, the Words of Chriftian Faith. Heasked again, whar there Words ware, for he was defirous to hear them. Then I expounded untohim as well as I could by myInterpen I We Apoltles Creed; which when he lad heard, he 1herok his Head. When we had rravailed in his company unti Whit) unday, he oxter'd ano Tarsars to drive: our Carts and one to conduct us tn: Duke Sartacla alfa one Goan antmany Bladders of Cows Milk; but, ineir Cone Goar is fo highlyeftern'd, tuar he gave us but liele of ir. Our Tarrar Servant would intrude upon us, when we fer under our Carts in the fhade, to avoid the vehement heat at thar rime, and would car upour Victuals; and had to litele mannersas to lay their Tails in our prefence while they were difcourling with us. Thus we travelled with great roil, till we arrived at the Bank of the River \(T_{3}\), natr, which divides offir from Eirrop:. It ishere as broad as the River Stin et Parsi' We.were arf fertied orer, and then our Carts in wo Boets bound rogether, one Wheel in each Boar. The Tarsars move no together, one Wheel in each Boac. the tariars move no. further northwards than this place, but in the beginning of Auguft reO
On the lat of fulu; +ipe-arrised at the Conrt of Duke Hartach, within three days journey of the River Volen. Cons of He had fix Wires, and each of chem about 200 Carts, Our 6 rim Guide addreffed himfelf to one Coint a Neftorian, a nipmim Man of great auchority, whofe Office is to introduce Forreigners. When I came before him, I rold him fo what purpofe I was come, and requefted fo much favoura bis haidis, as mo bring nyy Lerters to the Gight of his Lord excufing my feif for bringing no. Prefent to him or his Eost, by reafon of my bcing a Monk, not recciving no ufing,any Gold, Silver, or orher precious things, fave ons our Books, and the Veftments wherewinh we ferved God. He anfwered very courreouly, thar being a Monk in fo doing I did well, for fo I mould obferve my Vow neither did he ftand in need of any ching we had, bur mas ready to beftow mponus fech things as ive wainta and canfing us to fer down and drink of his Milk, he're quefted us to fay our Devocions for him. Then he me quetced us to lay our Dovelons for him. Them hetitnguired who was we greut rince among the Fr , s , Erairce. Thenrecurning to our Lodging, we font him next Morning a Fiagon of Mrifcactel, and a Box of Bis cuics; which mas tore acceperble to him. The Bis Moming he commanded me ro come to h. The next bring the King's Letuers and my. Veftmenrs and Booice with me, "becaufe his Lord defired" to fee them. We went accordingly, lading one Cast with Bistet, Winc, and Fruics; and mocher with our Books and Vef ments, which he cauled to wherher I would beftow allthofe things apon his Lord. Weanfwered, Thar our humble requeft wis, that our Lotd his Mafter would vorchifate to accept our Bread, Wint, and Fruits,not as a Prefenc,becaufe it is roo mean; out as a Benediction, left we thould come with an cmpty:Hand before him; and when he Ruall fee the letters of my Soverigin Lord the King of. Frasuce, he will by chem underftand for what caufe we are conc unco him and chen our felves and afl that we have fhall it him his courrefy - bur as to \(V\). \(V\) have. fhall itand to his courrely; but as to our Vetments, they are holy andic was unlawal for any but Priefts to courh them Then he cormmanded us to put on the faid Garmens hat we mighigo before his Lord, and we did fo. I pur on che moft precions Ormamens, and took in my Arms very fair Cuthion, and the Bible which your Majefty gave me, and a mof beautiful Pralter which the Qucen iffodind upon me, wherein were goodly PiCtures. My put on a Sook a Miffel and a Crots, and the Clerk having put on a Surplice, sook a Cenfor in his Hand. When e cane near, the Felr banging before kis. Done wo third 2 Ban was a fecmi fecmic abour che \(N\)
dwell:
ly tow becau but 50 Car as from Court
becaul many dmor Comn
our mi the fir
jefty h

On a and on the Te grear cious \($\) footed ly, the directic bowed apon be cumftar me to II
caulel manner
" good
" make the fo © ble.
ci: unlels
socr belis behereets deftly fr
and no d
\(\overbrace{}^{1233 \text {. }}\), lifted up that he might behold us. Then they caufed the \(\sim\) Ms chey required no fuch fubmithion. They dilieconty us chey required no fuch fubmithon. They diligently
- admonim' \(u\) s, thas in going in and coming out, wc Thould not touch the Thrshold, and requefted us to fing a Benediction; We entred in, finging Saloe Region, The roorls or rich Tarrars, thrufting in with us, priffed us very much: All his Wives were there affembled. Then coiar carried on his Lord the Confor with Incenfe, which be took in his Hand, and becheld very dili;enntl? Then he carricd the Plfalter to him, which he. and his Wifechat lare bs, loiked carnectly wron. Laftly, he carried the Bible on him, and Serrath asked if the Gof pol were contained thercin: I rold him is was, and all the Holy Scriptures bcailes. He took the Crofs in his Hand, and asked if she Innage upon it were the Image of Chrift: 1 faid it was. Then lic commanticed all to tand afide, that he might the betecr fee our Ornaments. Idelivered \(o\) lim your Mapeltics Letects, with 2 Tranflationiato dratick ant Syriuck. Wimn he lad heard them he order'dour Bread, Wine and Fruits to be received, and permitted us to depart' with cur Veftments and Books \(n\) nur lodging: But in the Morsing carly, a Prieft, who was Frother unto Coist, canse to us, and requeffad to have our Box of Chrifinc, bciante surtacid (as be faid) wasdelirous to fee is, and fo we gave is him. In the Ercning Coiart fent for us, faying, Your Kirg harhh writesen good words to my Lord and Mafter Scrache, bur thers arc fomeDifficulcics in them, concerning which, be dare not decermin withour the advice of his Farher Batur, and therefore you muft go thither, leaving your Veftments and Bocks in my cuftody, becaufe my Lord is defirous to cakc a more diligent vicw of them. The nexr day he fext a Nigifoizn Rriét, who cook them from us.
Thencame our Guide, telling us we muft depart immediardy; and fo travelling caftward, wc came on the third day to the River Vozes, and paffed down fteam in 2 Bark to the Courr of Bartu, which when I beteld, I was aftonifhd at the fight; for the Houres or Teuns Feemed like a husc and mig htry City, the Pcople ranging aboutit for the fpace of three or four Leagucs. The Court is called in their Language Horda, which fignific we Middle, becaufe the Chicf among ticm always dwells in the midftof his People, excepting that directly rowards the Sourh, no Subject may place himeff, becaufe toward that K egion the Court Gates are open bur to the righr and left; they may extend themfelves as faras they will, and ecery onc knows on which fide of che Court he ought to place his Houfe when he takes it from the Cart. The next day we were brought unto the Court of Baitu, and caufed a large Tent to be crected, becaule his Houfc or ordinary Tenr would nct contain fo many Mcn and Women as were afiembled.' Our Guide admonithed us not to freak; till Bantu fhould give us Commandmenc fo to do, and that then we fhould focak our minds bricfly. When we came into his Preefence, the firtt Queftion he ask'd us was, Whether your Majefty had fent Ambaffadors unto him or no; 1 anfwered, That your Majefty had fent Meffengers to * Ken-Can Empigine and would nor have fent to him or Sartecti, if you had ninmaco nor heard that they were converted to Chriftianity:
 pinf ph to rouch the Cords of the Tenr, which they yhinke quivalent with the Threfhold of the Houfc. Bantiu fate on a Bed guilc all over, with three Stairs toafcend toic, and one of his Ladiesfate by him. . Ac the entrance of the Tent wasa.Bench furnilh'd with Cofmos, and ftately grear Cups of Silver and Gold, richly adorned with precious Stones. We ftood beforc him in our Habits Gare footed and barcheaded : After he had behild uisearnet If, the commanded usto fpeak: Thenour Guide gave us direction to bow our Knees and fpeak: Whereupon 1 bowed one Knce, but he fignified that 1 Thould kneel apon borth Knecs, and bcing loth to contend abour Circumfiances, ldid fo. And the Prince again commanded me to fpeak; then I thinking of Rrayer unto God, 1 becaufel kneeled on both Knces, began to pray ou chis manner. "Sir, We befech the Lord, from whom all 4 Good things do proceed, and who bath given you thefe : Earthly Bencifits that it would picafe lim hercafict to " make you Parcaker of his Heavcnly Blefings, becaufe "' the former withour thefe are bur vain and unprofita\({ }_{4}^{4}\) ble. And r rded farther, Be ic known unto you for "certain, shar you fhall not obrain the Joys of Heaven, unlefs youb become a Chritian; Gr God faith, Wrofobefieve:t, rot, Ball be condemned. At thele Wordshe mo deffly fmiled, bat the Moals began to clap thcir Hands end ro deride ris, and my Incexpreter himirelf was atalhed and utterly dhathed one of countenance. After filenca \(\operatorname{sizj3.}\)
 we hoard that he wastrecome a Chrifiian, and I Frought unto him 1 etrets fiom my Soveraign Lord the King of krance, and your Son fenc me hither unto you; the canfe of ny coming is therfore beft known unito your felf. Than hs cauled me to rife up, and criquired your Majefties name and my name, and the names of my Aflociate and Intespreter, and ordard them all to be put down in wrixing. He demanded (having been informíd that yourMa cefty was departed from your owniCouncrics with an Army) againft whom you waged War. I an fwcred, againft the Saracens, becaufe they had defiled the Houfe of God at 7 Fry.falem. Then he ordered us to fit down, and gave us Coffmos , which is accounced a great ravour when any Man is admitred to drinik it in his own Ho:ife. As foon as we had taken our leave, our Guide canticto us and faid, Whereas yrour Mafter requens that you may remain in this Land, Braru cannor grinn it withour the confens of Mang acian, whercfure you and your Affociate with your lnctrpreter. nult go to him; bur the Clerk and the Lad mallicraun ro the Courr of Screct, and tarry chere till you come back: I instraacel himm to peak to Baatu that the Clerk mipht so wirh us He faid, No merc whrds, it being refoled that fo it thall re, and cherctore I dare not go to the Court any more. Thus weparted with teans, theClerk and the Lad being fent lack to the Court of Sartach, wherc (as 1 aftriwards inderfood) they found the Nefforian Priel's in his prefcnce, adorned with our Veffments.
I with my Affociate and Incerpreter, rode forward with Bartu along the Bank of \(V\) olgs 4 fox five Weeks rogeticr at length; abour che middle of Sepicmber, 2 Moril came to us faying, I amshe Man thar muft condusi you to Mangu-Can; we have thither a Journey of four Morch long to travel, and there. is fuch extream cold in thofe parts, that Srenes and Trecs ars tiven afunder; therctore pors, thar Strnesand ress are ny your ander a therctore beable to cadure ir. Ifaid, Thoped by Goit's help, wo fhould be able ro trook that which orticr Mes can cir dure. Then he bid us to thew him all cor Garments and what he choughr lefs needful for us. he willed us to cave bchind, and the next day they brought cash of us a furred Gownmade of Kams Skins, with the Wool fill upon clacm, and Brecches of the fame, with Buskins and Shocs made of Felt, and Hoods of Skins after their manner.
On rhe 16 th of of Scpecmber we fer forward, having three Guides to direct us. We had on the North Gice Bulgarian the greater, ori the Sourh the Cffibick Sca. Wo rode concinually caltward over the Plains of \(\mathrm{C}_{4} \%\) gic : 46 days, travelling almoft every day as farby my entimation, astrom Paris to Orteans, and fomectimes firnher, as we hapned to be provided wirh Poft-houfis; for foinc days we had changeof Horifes rwiccor thricea day; at other times we cravefled two or chree Days together, and faw no Pcople, and theri were confrrioned not to ride fo fait: We being Strangers tad always the worft Horfes. Thicy always mounred me upon z' ftiong Horfe, becaufe I was corpulent and heary, but whether he wenc cafic or no, I durf not queftion. We endured much Hunger, Thirft and Cold, caring no Vietuals bur inthe Evcring: In the Morning we fupt off fomefodden Millet; and ac Nighr we fad fome Rams Murion, and cvery Man a neafurea guauriry of Broth to drink, which Aefl Broch dial muetr refreh ns: We were fomecimes for want of Fewel; frin ro ear ourflch half boiled or almoft raw, having feckiom any other. Fewel but the Dung of Horfes and Oxen unlefs it were 2 fer Thorns in keme places. There are Woodsgrowing oin che Banks of fome Rivers. but are very rare. Our Guide ar thefoft feemed to diflain us, and it wastedious to him to conduct fuch bite Fellows bur when hé began ro know os better, he directed us ro he Habiataions of rich Mocls, who live difpers'd over his vatt Defart. They marvell:d that thar we would receive ncither Gold nor Silverar their Hands: They in quired concerning the great Pope, whether he was to old as thicy had heard, it keing reported among theim that he was jeo Xears old: They enquired alfo of our Countries, whether there mere abundance of Sticep, \(\mathrm{O} \dot{x}-\) en and Horics. On the Erc of thl-Saizes we forlook the way leading towards the Eaft, and went direetly fouthward, and on the gth day came to Mounr Canicafur, not fa, from whichiftandsthic Ciry of Coiizt, where we taried is days for "Bansu"Secterary; who ought to hareaccömpanied our Guide for the diffarching fome Affars in the Court of Manghi :Thence tre condinued oar Journky antil the 27 of Dceember, at which time we artived 'as the Court of Mangioct, and on the fifth of Fannery were admitted to his prefence.
\(A=222\)
Finf,

Firft, Tome Neforim Pricfts came to us, demanding him, we withdrew, his Secretary and Interpreter ac- 1293 . of us what Reverence we would do no Cban, whethe after our own fathiont or theirs: I anfwered,' That wo were Priefts given to the Service of God, but would humble que felyes to all Men for the Lord's fake and that if chey pleafed, we would firt fing Praifes to God, who had brought us fafe hither from a far Country and would afterswards do whatfocver their Lord mould and would aftcrwards do whatiocver their Lord thould
pleafe, provided that he command us nothing, againit the Weafe, provided that he command us nothing, againit the Houfe, deliver'd what we had faid, and their lord being contentel, they placed us before the Gate of the Houfs, lifting up the Fels which hunig before it, and becaufs is was C/riffmas we beganto fing,

> A Silis ortou Cardine Sit ifine Terric limitem? Clrif/ani Gannmus Pizacipom, Niffiom Marià Virginc.
> From the firt EafternLand To furticeft Weftern Srand, Ler us Chrift laud and fing, Blef Virgins Son, our King.

When we had fung chis fiymn, they fearched us to fec if wehad any Kinves about is, then we were admated Inthe Entrance there flood a Benchiwich Cofmos, by which they order'd our Interpreter so ftand, and caufed us fo fit on 2 Form before the ladies. The whole Houfc was hung with Cloath of Gold, and on 2 Hearth in the middle of the Houfe, a Fire was made of Ox Dung Thorns, and Wormwood Roors, which grow rhere very hig: Herate on a bed cloathed with a fported Fur Aining likea Scals Skin. He was a flat nofed Man, of a :nidill f Pature, about the age of 45 Ycars and his Wite, a litule pretry young Woman, late by him; and one of his Daughters who was marringeable, with divers litrle onss, fate next to them upon a bed. He had that Daugheer by a Chriftian Lady whom he dearly loved and altho he had marricd thar youngWife, yer theDaugh ter was Miftrefs of all that Court which had beca. he Mothers. Ha made them ask us what we would drink whether Wine or Rack, i. e. Drink made of Rice, o Cows Milk, or Mcad: I anfwered, Sir, we are nor Men who rake pleafure in drink, Wharpleafes you thall con tent uis: Then he commanded fome of that made of Rice ro begiren to us, clear and favoury as White Wine whereof I cafted a little for Revercnce lake; but our \(\mathrm{I}_{\mathrm{n}}\) retpretcr ( to our misfortune) flanding near the Butlers rbey gave him much. Drink and he was quickly drunk Thea Cisen caufed Falcons and other Birds to be brough unto bim, which he took upon his Fift, and after a long time commanded us to I Feak, which I did as followeth. "Wefirft giveThanks andPraife roGod. who hath brought "us from remote Parts of the World to fee Mnngu"Chan, to whom God hath given fo great Power upor "Earth; and we befeech our Lord, by whofe Com"s mand we livcand dic, to grant hima long and profpe" rous Life, Sir, we heard that Sertach was become a "" Chirifian, wherear che Chriftians, but efpecially the " King of France, rcjoiced, and fent us withlicters to him "" whercin are Words of Peace, teftifying whore Ser"vants we are, and intreating him to permit us to 2 " bide in his Country, ir being our Office to reach Men " to live according to the Law of God. Sarrach fent us " to B.astu his Father, and Bactu hath fent us hither "unto you. Ye arethey to whom God hath givengreat "Dominions upon Farth, we therefore inerear your "Highneís ro give us leave to contime in your Country, "" to do the Service of God for you, your Wives, and " your Children. We have neirher Gold nor Silver " nor precious Stones to prefent unto you, nor any thing "bur our felyes, whom we prefent ta ferve and to pray umro God for you. At the leaft give us. leave to con tirue rill thecold be pait, my Companion being fo weak thir he cannot travel. He then anliwered, "As the Su " Cpreads his Beams every where, cven fo our Power and "'B.afu's fpreads it felf, forthar. we haveno need of your "Silver and Gold. Hitherto I undertood my Incerprerer, bur further 1 could nor perceive any perfect fen rence, whereby I found that he was drunk, and Mangh Can was drunk alfo, as I thought. He feemed to be difplealed that we went to Sartact before we came to him but my Intcrpreter being out of order, I held my peace, only beg d, his Highnels wodld not be difpleafed at what 1. had rpoken of Gold and Silver, becaure Ifpoke it no as if he laxd need of fuch things, or defired them, burbe canfe we were willing to honour him with temporal a vellasipiritual chings; then makion our Obeifance to \section*{compainying us, who wore very inquifitive of the King-} dom of Fiance, whether there were many Rams, Oxen, and Horics there. They appointed one to attend on us, In the Evening the Interpretcr came again to us, faying Mangu-Can hath rompation on jou, and gives yon tw Mnurhs sime to flay, in which rine the exeream cold will be palt; and furcher fays, will be palt; and furcher fays, dhat within ten day journey rowards the North, there is a good City called c.rracaum, if ye will go thither, he will furnifh you with Niccoffrics, or if ye will abide here you may but it will be a troublefome thing for yout to foliow the Court. I anfwered, The lord preferve itang:-..an, and grant him 2 grofperous and long life, but by the gooiproidence of God, we have found here a Monk, who we think to be an holy Man, wherefore we would willingly ftay with him, becaule we would pray together for the Lite of Chan, which Anfwer being carried to him, he fent to the Monk to know if he would have our Company, whoglady anfwerd that he would; and fo me dwelt with him till our departure to Caracirum.

On Scpruageifima Sumic, \({ }^{2}\) the Armenian Pricfts went in procefion to the Hove of Merre; and the Mcnt procelion to the Hovfe of Mergs, and the Mcnk, my went in with the Pricfts. As we were if sering, Ind Knives) went in with the Prictts. As we werecnrring, I obferved one of the Scrvanss carrsing out the Showide- Bones of one of the Scrvants camsing out the Showiue- - Bones of Rams burnt to the blacknets of Coals: Ufe enquig it was informed, that the C'Jm never does any ij) enq, notry io much as permit 2 Man to enter into his Howle, before he have confulted with chofe Eones, which is done in this manner.
He caufes threc Bones to be brought unto him ur Thing, and holding them in his Hand, he thinks of the Mommof Thing whereof he wouid contult, whether he nay do is or brin flice not, and then delivers the Bones to be burne. When they poas are burnt black they are broughe unso him, and if the Bonesby the hear of the fire are cleft forth rigbr, then he oncludes that he may do it ; but if che Bores be cracked athwart, or round picces fly our of them, then he doth ir not; yctif one of the daree be cleff forth right, he doth it. We werc admonifh'd as our encrance nor to rouch the Threthold, bu:cmy Companion coming out laft, baftily following us ane and bowed to chan, and then hattily following us, fumbled ar the Threthol3, whereapon, they thar obferved the Threfhold, laid hands on him, and commanded an Officer to carry him to Bularii phethin who is the Judge of thofe tharare arraigned of life and death. When llooked back and fawhim nor comine, thoughe they had detained him to give him fome lifitici Garments, he being weak and fo laden with Pelt Gar ments, that he could farce go. The next day Bulue came, and diligenty enquired whether any had warned us to takehced of touching the Threhold; I anfwered Sir, our Interprecer noc being with us, how was it pofit ble we fhonld underftand? fo he pardoned him, bui would never after fuffer him to come into any of the Houres of Mangu-Can.
About Praflon Sundey the Chan beganhis Journcy to Caracarum, and the Monk and we followed him: As we paffed berwcen the Hillsit was extream cold, with much Wind and Snow, whereupon he fent abour, mid-night to the Monk and us, intreating us to pray unto God thathe would mitrigate that Wind and Cold, becaure theBrafis in the Train being with young and ready to bring forth were in danger of their Lires sthe Monk fenshim Incenfe, requiring him ro putit ont tite Coals and offer it to God, which whether he did orno, I know nor, bur the Tempert ceafed, which had continued two dals. Oncaramin Palm Sunday we enored Caracarum, carrying the Crofs aloft with the Banner. The Ciry is enclofed with a Mud Wall, and hath four Gates, rwo Churches for the Mtebmetens, one for Chriftians, but moft of the Inhabitants are Idolaters, called by them Tuinians:
One day I was fent for to the Court, and the chicf Sccretanies were very urgene with me to know the caufe of my coming, telling me that Chon knowswell enought that you have no meffage unto him, buronly come ro pray for him, as many other Priefts do, bur if you have any thing elfe to lay to him, declare it. I told him I had noWhing more to fay to him, unlefs I thould ficak the Words of God unto him, which I would sladly do, if he would hear them. They asked what Words of God I would Ipeak unto him'; I faid, This is the Wort of God: To whom mucb is committed, more is required it hes bands; ro whom mare is forgiven, be oughor is bove mirce. I old Mangu himfelf, thar God bad given bim nusth; for the Powper and Ricles lo Arth, weere not given bim by rise Ludols of the Tainians, bur by the Omniporeis God, who biath mades. Heeren and Eartb, 20 whofe Honds all Kimbons aid renflates shem from Narion to Nariont for ithe Sius of \(\lambda\) Actis

.

\(\qquad\)
\(\square\) Threteds:
pathion

4583
4
4
4
\(\qquad\)
\(\qquad\)
\(\qquad\)
\(\qquad\)
wherefore if ye loochim, it fallgo well pirh, liom, if orhcrwife les hin tnow that God will require all thefe Clhints at his bands. Then one of them faid, Is thac any Man stiat toves not God? I anfwered, Ged airl, if aty Alan love me, be will kerp my Commandment: ; shee ffore be rhate ketteth not she Commandments if Gerd, loucth not God. Then faid he, Hove you leen in Henten rhat you might knons rbo Crmmmdments of fiod? Ni, raid l, bue he beth, given thom from Heaven to Holy Men, and at laff he bimfelf deficented from Herven to tench, us; and we wave thefe thinss in the Scriprates, and can fic Ly'the Efirks of M. \(n\), wolether thry kecp them or ne. Hexcplied, Will you stion fay that ManguChan keps not etre Commandinon's of God; I anfwerced, If it plenfe Mangu-Chan, Itoili recite to bim thecommendmenes of God, and be fartl be bis opn Gudgr, wherker hs keep them or nct. So they departed and told him that I faidethat he was a Trinie or ldolater, and kept nor the Commandments of God: Whercupen he called me before him, and faid, Tell me the truth, whether you faid that I was a Thininm: I anfwered My Lord, I haid not fo ; but if rour Highnefs plealf, will recite the Words I fpake: "Then reciting what I had faid, he replied, I thoughr you faid nor io, for is is a Word you thould not fpeak, and your Interpreser hath not rightly inectpreted. Then hold ding forth his Staff to me hefaid, Fear not, me Möallians, faut he, belicus ther stosce is but God, throts id whom we live suddifc; and we hase an upright Hate toparids lism. As Cod batis given unto sho Hend divers Fingers, fo hath be given meing Wias so Men; God buth given obe Scripturesto you, and reCbriftians kecp chem bur I told your Highnels from the begimning, that 1 would not conterd with any : I fiech it nof, faid he, as to ram In likemanne", ye find is not, that for Alonyat Man eughe ro decilne from Faffice. No'Sirfaid \(I\), neither came I Into thefe Pars to get Money; nay, I have refufed that which was given ure. I do net Speat ir, faid he, for chat Goot inath givimy ou the Seripeures; and yakep tiem not, but be bath sizenur Suturyers, and by diano there which they fiduc, welive in porce. Then he began to fpeak of my Recurn, faying, You have ftaid a long time here, my pleafure is thercfore that you recurn: Willyou carry my lenters? I anfwered, Thar if be could make me underderftand his Words, and that they were fet down in writing, I would concavour to deliver them fafcly Then he asked if I would bave Gold or Silver; I faid, we reccived rofuch things, but we have not wherewith to defray our Expences, and without your help we cannot get out of jour Country. Then taid he, I will provide you all Neseffaries through my Counery; how far would yoa be brought: I Laid, let our Pals bring us into the King of Armenic's. Ccuntry, if I were there, is werc enough. He anfwered, 1 will caufe you to be conveyed thither, and afier look to your felf; toI departcd from his Prefence, and never faw him more.
Affoon as the Lerters were difpa:ched, they called me and interpreted them, the Tenor whereof I wrote, as I could undertand then by my Interpreter, which is this.
" \(T\) He Commandment of ibe Eternal God is thin; There ohme dr a Hut one Lord, Cbingis Can Temingu Ting ij, that is to -Iron becaufe of lye [they call chases the found of "which is fpolear to you; whatiocver Mcals we are, " whatfoerer Nigmans, whatfocver Merkets, whatioever ", Mufulmans, whatfoever. Ears may hear; where"foever Horfe may go, there caufe it to be heard " and underfood, thar fince they have heard \(m\) m "Commandment and would nor beliere it, and "xould levy an Army againft us, ye thall hear and "fec, that they fhall: bc , as having Eyes and nor feeing, "and when chey wonld hold any thing, wey fhall be "withour Hands, and when thcy would walk they fhall " be without Fcet. This is the Commandment of the "Eternal God, ty the Vertue of tine Eremal God, by "the great World of the Moal. The Commandment of "Mensth-Cban is given to Lewrs the King of Erance, and "all other Lords and Priefs, and to the great World of
" the Frank, that thcy underftand my Words, and the "Commandment of the Excinal Gcd, made to Cbingz

"Ambaffador of the Manis bur he was a Lyar, and "" with him you fenc your Anuafiadors to Chn-Can, who " arri:ed norar his Courr uncil afier his doath. Charmus his "Wife fent rou fome Cloth called \(N=\sqrt{2}\), bur how mould "thar wicked Woman more vile than a Dog, know ". Matters appertaining to War and Peace, to letrle the great World in guiet, and to dopeod? Thoretwe Monks which camefrom you unto jarraci, were fent " by him to Bactu, who, becanfe Ahers:-Cion is the greateft-over the Werld of the soonl:- 1 cine them unto us ; bur now, that the grear Worl, and the Prict:s and Monks might live in peace, and empo their Goods, and thas the Commandnent of (iod ninghe be beard among you, we would bave fone our Ainbalfadors of Monl with your livefts; but they ankwered, that between us and you, weremany bad Mien and troublefome Ways, fo that they fraired they cculd not bring them fafe uno you; bur if we wouid deliver thems our Letters containing our Commandment to King Lemin, they would carry them. Wherefore we have fenr the Commandment of Erernal God by ycur faid Pricft, it is the Commandmens of the Erernal God; which we haven gisen you so underfland; and when youmall hear and becieve ir, if you will oley us, fend your Ambaffacors anto us, fo chall we be certified whether ye will have Pcase with us or War. When by the Power of the Eternal God the whole World fhall be in Unity, Joy, and Peace, from the rifing of the Sun unto the going downof the fame, then hall is appear what we will do; but if, when ye thallhear and underfand the Commandment of the Exernal God, and will not hearken to it, nor belices it, faying, Our Country is far off, our Hill's are Atrong. Our Sca is great, and in thisConfidence fhall lcyy anArmy againt us, to know what we can do; he who made thas which was hard, cafy, and that which was fitr off, near, the Etcrnal God himfelf knows it.

On the ninth of \(\mathcal{F u l y}\), we were called to Cotrs, and one of the Cfficers holding three Garments or Coats, faid to us, Ye hare faid long here praying for Cuan, and will nor receive Gold nor Silver, he intreats you, thar at che leaft every one of you would receive a ling'c Gaxment, that ye depart not empry from him; then we received them our of refect to him, for they take it very ill if their Gifts are contemred ; fo taking our leave we vent to Caracarum.
My Companion, who had been long fick, defired to ftay here, fo we parted with tcars in our Eyes, and I proceeded on my Journcy with my Interpreter, my a rafiofan. Guide, and one Servant. We were cwo Months and ten Days travelling from Caracerum to Batu; in all which time we faw fome Graves but no Town, nor, roken of any Houfe. Sometimes we had no Suftenance bur cof mos for two or thrce days together, and were once in greardanger, norbeing able en find any People, ourHorres tired, and our Provifien failing us.
In the cond of Ruytufl met Sersact, who was then travelling to Margu-Cban, wich his Wives and Childrent Flocks and Herds: I paid my Dury to him, laying, I would will.ngly have tlaid in his Comurry, bur Aiceg Chan would have me rerum to ma ownand carry his Lestters. Heanfwered, That I muit perform the W'ill of Mangu-Cran, and meeting with Ccier in his Train, I re quired him to reftore our Clochs 2ad Eocks: He replied, Did you nor bring them to Earrach? 1 faid, Tho I brought them to Sarrach, yer it Eve them nor to him, and chat he knew. He anfwer'd, youfay true, and none can refift the rruch, I left your Goods with my Father, who is near Sarai, a new Town Braiu hath made on the Eait fide of Volon, tut oux T'riefts have fome of the Vettments. I told him, if he liked amy thing, he might kecp ic, fo my Books be reftored. He being in halte to be gonc, faid, The Train of Ladies follows us near ar hand, you Thall alight there, and I will report whar you fay to Sarach, and fend you his Anfwer by this Man. In the Erening the Man returned with two Coats, faying, Betold two Garments, the one Sartacl:hath fent ro you, and the orher, if it feem good ro )ou, you thall prefens to the King on his behalf. I told hina. I wear no fuch Garments, I will profent them both unto my King, in honour of your Lord. He gave me alfo Sartach's Letter to Coint's Father, to reftore all chat belonged to me, to fetring forward, we came to the Court of Batru the 16 th of December, 125 , the fame day 1 departed thence the Ycarpait: I found the Clerk and the Lad I had lefr there in good health, tho' they had fuffered much Waint, and if the King of Armenia had not comforted them and recommended them to Saristh, they had prrifhed. The Terrnisthinking I hadibeen dead, had demanded of thom if they could keep Oxen or milik Mares, and if I had not rerurned, they had certainiy been made Slaves.
Batafy hearing of iny coming, commanded me to appear before him, and ordered the Lerters which Miang..can fends unto your Mayefty to be intexpreted to me; for Mangu had written to him to add, leave our, or exchange
change what he thould think fit. Then faid he, You frmaltones left, in one of which the Clenk and I kept the Shall carry thefe Icterers, and caufethem to be underttond. When Coiarts Father had read Sarracli's Letrer which I brought him, he reftored my Veftments, execft three Albes and an Amice rrim'd with finc Silk, a Stole, a Girdie, and a Tualin adornce with Golden Embroidery and a Surplice: He reftored alfo all the Silver Plate, exespt the Confor and a little Box where the Chrifme was, all which, Sarrach's Pricft had zotren: He gave me all my Bonks again, cxcept our ladics Pfalere, which 1 could not deny him, becaule he faid Sariach took much deJight in it.

I travelled a Mouth with them before I could have a Guide, anid then parting from them, being the firft of Noacmber, we went to ward the South; for rhe firft tive days we farr not a Man, and were ingreat danger by rcafon of thirit.
On the rith we came to the Mountains of the Aleni, and in two days more to Porto Ferren or Derlent, buile ly yllexender the fircat: The City is above a Mile long, with a ftrong Cafte on the top of the Hill: Here we found Vincyards, and drank Winc again.
Four days Journcy hence we came to a great City called Semer or Shemesk, and then enered a grear Plain, chro whilh the River Cur flows, f:om which the Curgi hace their name, whom we call Georgians.
Then leaving Perfir and the Cafpinn Mountains on the left towards the South, and Curria on the right, we direted onr Joumey \(S\). W. till we came to a Ciry called Dinvnen, formerly the Metropolis of a great Kingdom, whercin was 800 dimemian Churches, bur the Tartors have made ita Wildernef; and chere are now but two Feafl of Chrifmor as well as we could. An Armenicn Bithop told me, there was a Church not far diftain where Sc. Barrholomew and Sc. Fudas Thandicks were mara ty red.
Near this Ciry is a Mountain called Meffis, on which they fay the Ark of Noab refted; and there is a little Town ncar if called Comninum, which fignifies Eighr, fo called, fay they, from the cight Perfons that founded it, who came forth of the Ark. They fay many have eflayed to climb the Hill, but cruid not, tho it did not reem fo high to ine, bus that Men might well get up unto it: An old Man gave me this Reafon why mone thould climb it, becaule, faid he, Mafis is che Mether of the World. the World.
Thefecond Sunday in Lent we came to the River Eubrites, by which we defrended cight Days, always go-mheron ang to the Weft. Thence we paffed weftward through wetion very hilly Countries and decp Snow. There was fo reted, great an Earthquake there that Xear, that in the City of Arfengen 10000 Perfons of note perifhed, befides poor Proplc, of whom no norice was taken. Riding three days rogether, we faw the gaping of the Earth as it was cleft ly the Earthquake, and hiaps of Earth which came from ine Mouncains and filled the Valleys; to thas if 2 little more of she Earth had been noved, that which Efay fpeaks tad been literally fulfilled, Every Va; lcy foall be filled and cuery Moumsain and little Hill fhall be bumbicd. We continued our Journcy to Lionium, thence to Curcum a Havean of Cilicia, from whence I pafred into Cyprus, where I.arrived 16 fune, and ar Tiip. \(/ r_{\text {, }}\)

\section*{Chap. It.}

\section*{Sir Hugh Willoughby's unfortunate Voyage to dijcover and fettle a Trade in Ruffia, 1553.}

IN the laft Xear of the Ricign of Eitionad VI. threc Stijus were let torth by whe Company of Nierchents Aheitherres fir the Difcovey of Picaces unknosn, wherof S-b:fien Culote was Governowr, win the Ecac: Escretive of 120 Tuns, Admiral, commanded by Sir Huth whiliungler; the Edmard Bonadiatacucr of 160 Tuns, commanded by Rechard Chanclior; and the Bma Confiniofie of 90 Tuns, whercof Cornclius Du:oith wais Mafter.
They deperted from Deptford the atch of Mary, and on the iccend of \(x^{\prime} x\) aji ar Nighry being near the Coast of Fiamal \(k\), the Edioe \(d\) loft lighr of the ocher two, in very foul weather, and tecering their Courfe for iFa:ilioufs in iverio, (as is had been agned apon) they marricd there icren ciays, expecting the axrival of the prher two Ships bur they nor appearing. Mr. Ch, inceilor inthe Edperd purEicd his Volage, and firft difcorered the Bay of Sr. Nireve, whers anchoring, he effied fome Filhermen in 2 Bur, who ocing amazd at the ftrange Greitnels of his Ship, endeavoured to dicape from him, oure he overtaking them, was informed by them that whe Country was callct it: in or Mifcour, and that the Duke's name was Fisen Fafitis:ct.
The Govermpar of the place fent advice hereof to the Cours, and the M-ffenger rerurned with Orders for Poffhorfer and Sleds to be goteca for Mr. Cbancellor and his Compans wichour any Moncy; aidd after a long Journey of near 8500 Miles, he arrived as Mofor, the chict Cicy of the hingiton. Twelve Days after his arrival, the Seerctary advertifed him, that the Duke's Pleafure was, that he liould atend with the King of Englana's Letters Lie mas tizlt broughe an an Anti-chamber, where fate aInut soo Gemicanan all in Clach of Gold, and from thence was on! utich woo the Counlel-Cbamber, where hase the Duke himelf. in a lony Garmetit of beaten Gohidad 2n Interial Ciown upon bis Heach. When he had deliyered his Letter, the Duke told him he was welcome, and enquired of the health of rbe King his Maitcr, and then inviting him sodimer. In the middle of the Dinins-Room/was a Table covered with Cups of Gold: The number of Perfons that dined were abour aoo, all ferved in Veffets of Gold, and the Genticmen that waited wereall in Cloth of Gold. Before the Serrice came in, the Duke fent io cvery Man a piece of Bread, and the Bearcr called the Party fofent to, by his nemic aloud, and faid, John Bafliuich, Emperoir of Ru.in, an:d & ent Dukeof Mufcovia detio rewarid thes mitit Brenic ; ar which Words all Mcottand op, and folikewife when he fendech drink. Dinmer being done, be departed to his Lodging, an hour within night.
Mr. Chercelleur having obtained a Priviledge written in Ru/fr, with the Grear Duke's Seal, did in the beginning of the Year 1954, xerucn with the faid Ship Eifard to Loudion. The other two Ships attempting furher Northwards (as appears by Six Hugbwilioughoics Papers') were in Scpanter encounred with fuch extream cold, that they put back to feck a Winering Place, and minfing the faid Bay of St. Nicholta; fell upon a Defars Coaft in Lerplent, aud enrred into a River ciulled Araina, vhich was foon frozen up. Thicy fent our three Men S. S. W. three days joumey to tee if they could fund Proge; then they fent outchree Men Welfward for: days ourncy; and lafty, threc Men S. E. thace days journey whoall returned ivathout finding of Peopic or any Hab:tation: Here they all perifiesi, being 70 Ferfons, for want (as fomethinis) of making Caves and Srows TheirBodies were found in the Ships the next Sommer by Riffirn Fitlrermen; and is appears by a Will found in Sir Reagi, ifillergbies Stip, wattion by his Kiniman Ga brii ifiongion, thar heand molt of the Company were alive inazamary, 1554.
\(\stackrel{1134}{\sim}\)
\(\sim \sim\) ACopp of the LLetcers Milfrue, from Edward the VI. to the Kings, Princes, and Potennotes, inherbiting the North-East Parts of the World, wben Sir Hugh Willoughby attempled bis Vojage tbithber, Anno Dom. 1553. and in the feventio and lafe rear of bir Reign.

\author{
Edvardus fextus Angliae. Francic, & Hubernid, Rex, Omnibus Regibus, © © c.
}

EDuard the VII. by the Grace of God, Ring of England, France and Ireland, Eic. To all Kings, Princes, Ruturn, Yudges and Governours of she Earth, and all orbers brving :any excellens Dighity on the fame, in all places under the umiverfal Henven, Peace, Tranquilizy and Honour. be anto you, and your Lands snd Regions under your Dominiens, amd roceres of you as \(\dot{n}\) comvenichr.
Forafmuuch as flicGicat and Almightot God brati, given unto Mankind abooce all of orer living Creatures, firco onn Herrt and Defire, that every Man flecks to join Fricnd/hip with other, to tove and be lived, affo to give end rcceive muturil Benfess, it is elerefore the Duty of all Men actording to thcir Power, to maintein and increafe shiss Defire in eosty Man, with well deferving to all Mcr, and especially to fhew thin good Afferion to fuch, as being moved with good Defirc, come winto them from fer Councries; for bow much she longer Voage thity bnve artempred for this Intent, fo much sbe more do thoy thereby declare, thac thin Defire bath been irdern in them. Farrbermore the Examples of our Eethers mad Predceefours do invite is bercinto, who have cuer gently and looingly treated fuch as of friendly mind came so sbem, andell from Countrics near band es far remote, commitring themflties sotbeir prosection; and if is be right and juff to Bew fuch bumanicy fomerds all Men, doulckefs thc fame oughs dirfly to be fecon to Merchants, mho weandring abour tbe Fiorld, fearcib both stbe Land and the Sere, focarty fuch good end proficable things cs are found in thecir Counstries, to rcimoore Regions and Kingtoms", and fo Lring thence Juch things as ibr find therce commodiouk for their own Countrics, es well that the Reople to whom tho go, may nof be defticuite of fuct Commoditics as tbeir Counsrizss do not produce, and thas they ticmetetoes may be Partakers of fuch sbings whercin thog abound; for the God of Heaven and Earth, in prooiding for Mankind, woould now tbre all things Sould be found in one Region, po diecnd, that one poutd broe necd of anothbr, ther is thin means Friendfhip mighes be eftablijbed fo mong all Men, and roery one feek re gratify all. For the cfabbifbing and furtherance of which anivecfat Amitr, certrin Men of out Rectm moved bercumos by the faid Define, bave inkerp a Vogage upon slem b, Ser into far, Countries, to the hneeming that bewect our People and thbimo a wiay mag be opered so bring in and cant autr Merchandize, defiring wo so further tbeir Enterprize: Who afenting so shetir Recticion, broe licenced the right adiant and wortly Sir Hugh Wil loughby, Knighr, and otber oirr trufy and faithfulServaurs with bim, accordixg 50 shbir Defre, to goto Countries to 5 bcm \(\pi t\) unknown, a well to feck things as weil lacho as alfo to cam antotberm from our Regrions, fich shings as shey, wient; So that bereby Commodity manjenfue, boto to tbern and ws, and an indiIDoluble and perpanal League of FriendSip be Fhabithod between as borb: We therifore defire your Kings and Princers, and all other co wbom Ebere i a any Poweron tbe Eairth, so permit' unto tojof our Serrants, free Paffage. by. your Regoions ond Dominions; for too fall not souch any tbing of yours, you being durviliting. Corsfider you sbats sho allo are Min if therefore thy fral fiand in need of ant thing, we defore you of all brmanit, and for tbe Nebility mbicb; \(\dot{x}\) in yan, zo aid cnd belp them wish fuch things as tho lacter receiving again of them fuch rbings astbog foalbe able to give gon in recomponec. Shew your fetroes fo sonpards them, as pox would that wes. and our Subjetts foyuld fhew our felves sowands your Seroants, if ar any rimertog fhatt pafs by our: Reg:ins.
Tlus doing, we promife you by the God of altizings that are contained in Hecrocn, Eartb, and the Seic, and by abs Life and Tranquility of our Xingdoms, thet we will mith Like Jumanity accepty your Seroams, if at any sime ther. foall come to aur Kingdoms, where tho fanll as friendy, and groty be entersained is if thog, were born in our Dominions,

Xings and Princes, &c. withan kiumenit and Fatour fo ein- \(\underbrace{1554}\) tertinin our well belaved Servintrs; we will pray our A/mighty kave emt.
Wrifrem in Lond,n, which is the chicf City of our Kingdom, in the Year from the Creation of the World 55 r 5 , in the Month of " liarr, the fourteenth Day of the \({ }^{*}\) For \(\mathrm{h}_{\text {m }}\) Monsh, and the feveinth Year of our Reign. to fet Shipa no Sem

Cofy of the Emperour of Ruffra's Letters', fent to King Edword the VI. by the Hands of Richard Cbaincellor, 1554 .

THEE Aimight Pooper of God, and the incompreterijbble Emperour of all Rufia, great Duke of Volodemer, Mof co.end Novogrod, King of Kazan, King of Aftracan, Lord of Plefico, and great Duke of Smolansko, of Twerria, Joughoria, Pcrmia, Vadska, Bulghoria, ©s: Lerd and great Ouke of Novograd in the Low Country, of Chernigo, Rezan, Pooorskof, Roftore, Yaruaaveley, Bealozera, Lieflana, Oudoria; Obdoria, and Condenla, Commander of all Siberia, and of she Narsl) Pairt, and Lord of many other Coumtries greeting. Before all, right; great, and morthy of Honour, Edward King of Enghand, OC. according fooir moft bearty and good Zeni, with good Inrent and friend's Defire, and according so our Hols Cbriftian. Faithand great Gooernance, and being in the light of greac unito .our Kingly Governance, at the requeff of yoir faithful Servant Richard Chancellor with bis Company, as tho Joath les you midely know, in this. In the flrength of she 2ook Year of our Governance, be it known, that acoutr Sca Coaffs arrived aShip with one Richard and bis Compary, and faid that be pres defirour fo come inro our Dominions, and according sobis Requeft, bath feen our Majeff and our Ejes; and linab declared untoous your Majeftics Defire, as shar we fhould grans amto your Subjeats so go and come, and in our Dominions and romong our Subjetets, to frequens free Marrs mith all Gorts of Merchandife, and upon sbe fame so have Wares for their return; and shey bave alfo delivered us your Letters, which decterce the fome Requeff. And bereupon we hroe sin ven Orders, that jour faithful Seramt Hugh Willoughby be well enterrained mberifocior be fall lend or toxth in our Dominions, who is yee is nor amixed, as pour Servont Richard can declare.
And we with Cbriftian Belief and faistfulneff, and according to your bonowatbe Requeft and my honourable Commandment, will not keave if undone, and are farthern:are willing sbat you fond unto ws your Sbips and Veffels niber, and is often as tho mag have panfage, wittry good af furance on our part ro feerthem harmicess -and if you jend one of your Mcijfties Couxffel to trias wish wr; whersly your Conntro. Merchernsmay with all kind of Ware, and where they will, make their Martees in amr Dominions,' the Atall bave their free Mart mith all free Liberties sthrough:my mbole Dominions, mith all kind of Wates so come and go as sheir pleafircs, witboome ang let, damage or impecdimetht, nccording totbis ourr Letter, our Word, and our Seal, which we baves:ammarded to be under fealed.
Writen in our Dominion, in our Citr , and our \(\mathrm{Pa}_{\mathrm{y}}\) lace in the Caftle of Mcfco, in che Year 7060 , the fecond Month of Eebruary.
This Letrer was written in the \(M u f\) foroian Tongue, in Letrers much like to Greek, yery fair written om Paper, with a broad Seal hanging to the fame, much like to the broad Seal of England, having on one fide a Man on Horreback fighing wish a Dragon. Under this - Eeter was another Paper written in Dutch, which was the Incetprecaion of the oiner. \(t\)

\section*{Tbe fecond Voyage to Ruffia.}

THE Company. fent two Ships for Refric this Year; viz. the Edmard Bonadventure and another, wirh divers Agenss and Factors, who had with them Letrers from their Majetties King Philip and Queen Mary to the Grecir Duke. They paffed up the Dwims to Voicg ta, where where leaving the reft of my Company, Richard Clan-R-bert Beff, went forward in Poft Sleds to Mofce, where arriving the fourth Day of Oilober, and giving notice of the faid Ierters, Houfes and Diet were appointed for them and their Train, and they were foon after conductcd thro'the City of Mofico to the Palace. They paffed thro feveral Rnoms, wherein were many ancient grave Perfons in long Robes of Gold, Tiffue and Violer, rich Capi, Jewels and Chains. Thife proved to be no Courticrs, but Merchants and other ancient Inhabitants, who were chus furnifaed from the Wardrobe and Trea fury, to wear them fora rime, and fo in reflore them.
Then cutring into the Prefence, being a large Room flored wish Carpers ; there fate abore 100 Men in richer Habiss, who when the Englifh came in and paid Rescrence, all food up, the Prince only fitring, and yct fifing when the King or Qureen's name was mentioned They. were then admitted to kifs his Hand, and invited to Dinmer; the Prince fate bare headed, his Crown and rich Capupon 2 Pinnacle by. Not far diftant fate his Metropolitan, with divers of his. Kindred and chicf Terraian Cartains. A Table was appointed for the Englif in the midft of the Room, directly againft the Prince, who fent rhem fereral Meffes from his.own Table, in Dithes of malfy Gold, which were delivered to them by their Chriftian Names, as Richard, George, Heno, &cc. likewife Bread and feveral lorrs of Drink of puritied Mcad made of clarified Honey. : Ar their rifing, he Prince called them to his Table to reccive each of then 2 Cup of Drink from his Hand, and took into his H.und Mr Killingworel's Beard, which would reach over the Table, and plealantly delivered it to the Meropolitan, who freming to blefs it, faid in Ruffe, This is Gon's Gift: His Bcard was chick, broad, of 2 yellow colour, and in lengrh fiveFoor and rwolnches of affize. Then taking lave, being night, they were accompanied by many People, carrying. Pors of Drink and Dilhes of Meat dreffed o their l.odging.
Mr Killingmorth being informed that the two Ships; with the dead Bodies of Sir Hugh Hilloughly and his Pcople, were found by Rufinn Fifiermen, fent thither, and much of the Goods and Victuals was recovered and faved.

The Letters of King Pbilip and Queen Mary to Juan Vaflivich, Emperor of Rajsia; wricten the firtt of April, 1555 and in the fecond Voyage.

PHilip endMary, by the Gract of God, King and.Quecn of England, France, Naples, Jerufalein, end Ire lañd, Defenders of the Faith, Primees of Spain and Sicily, Archdukes of Auftrich, Dukes of Burgundy, Milan, and Brabant, Counts of Kiarpurg, Flanders, and Tirol, to the right High, right Might, and right Extellent Prince, Garnifhed with all Gifts of Nartres, by Gods Grace, John Vafilivich, Emperonr of all Rufia, Grent Duke of Volodemet, Molso, and Norogrod, King of Cazan, King of Aftracan, Lord of Plesko, and Greas Duke of Smolensko, of Tueria, Joughoria, Permia, Vadska, Bulghoria, and otlers, Lord and grear Duke of Novogrod of rbe Low Councry, of Chernigo, Rean, Polocskoy, Rotove, Yeraftave, Bcalozera, Liefland, Oudoria, Óbdoria' and Condenfa, Commander of cill Siberia, and of the Nortb Purts, and Lordef many orther Corntrize, grecting. WTereas by fle Cenfent enid licence of cur moff dear and entivels Leimedicts Brafict, King Edward fle VI. wiofe. Soul Gad parden, Sundry of our Subjects, Merchants within the City of I ondon, within this outr. Realm of England, did at thecir own proper Cafts and Adventure, fumnih sbree Sbips to dificuer, ferrch and find Lands, Ifands, Rezions, aid Tervitories, before shis Adionstare not known, nor commonnt Waunted end frequyned by Scets; ome of which .sbree Ships, nemed the Edward Bonadventure (whereof opir rigbt wecll beloved Richard Chancellor was sthen Governowr and Great Captein) chancedby the Grice of God and good Conduat of the faid Chaukcllor, to arrive and winner in the Niarth Part of your Empire of Ruffia. . For.fmaxchas mebecredibly informed by the Report of our tru/fty and welbelooed Suljica, sbat your. Majefty did not only call bim and certain of bis Campany so jour Imperial Prefence and Spzech, entertained and bengreted rbem with all Humanity and Gentlonefs but alfo being requefted parsly bs the Letters of our' faid Brotber, and parib Gribe reizu:fa of she faid Richard Chantellor, have by your Letters Patents under your Seal amons of her things granted, Thnt all fuch Merchants on Sall come forth of any of ow Rcaims of England or Iacland with all manner of wires, if they will travel or accupy within your. Dominions, shey may freely and at florir lilicrty, ernvel aut andin, willour bindiance or any mamer of infs; .nd of gear' further ample gocinels. bave promifed slantorr Emberfandors, if we find any, ny hindrance or lcoss, with juch Meffage as Soll come unto you, and so return the fame to mer Kingdoms well anfwered, * by the fame your Letrets written in your Lordiy Palnce and Caftle of Mofeo, in the Year 7063. the Month of Fchruary more at large appeareth. Like a wec campor but much, romniend your Princely Favortr and Goodnefs, and in like mamer thandik jou for she abundant Grace extended to nid Richard Chancellor, and oeflers our Subjects Merchants cuch fo thefe are so pray and requeft you ro continue tim Fame Benczolence rowards shem, and other our Merclicmrs and Subjects, wobich do or 解all bercaficer refors ro your Covitr: And for the more Affirance and Encouragement to trade and exercifs the Fiat of Mercliandije with, jour Subjeats and allother Merchents wirthin your Doominions, that it may plenfe you as chiss our contemplation, to affign and ciuthorife fuch Commiffaries as gon Shall think meer, to trade and confe with sour wotheloied Subjefis amd Merclannts, the foid Richard Chancellor, Gcorge Killingworth, and Richard Grey, Bearets of chefcour Lefters, woloo are by us autior:fen for that purpofe; and so confirm and grant fucto other Lai ants and Commonaly of sle Fellamohip of she fridi Mci chants, as the faid Bearers in sheir neme, propot's and ria guired by you so be gramted for their faff Coriduct, gooul Gcocrnment, and order to be erefted and continued amons them in your faid Dominions; and this wislj Such gour Clic meng and Expedirion, we wpon the nexe arrival of the frid Richard Chanzellor, mop be infirmed of your gracious Difpofition rand Anfwer, which ycur Bencoulences fosto le cxtender, we be minded ta requite towards any your Suljci:s Mercl:ants that hall frequ: nt thris our Recelm, ar yen Contempic rion thereforcso be medc. "Thus right High, right Excellemt, and right Mighty, Almin/sy God, the Fasher, tioe Sum, ant she lioly Ghofl, bavegru in bis bicferdecping.

Given under our Seal at our Palace of \(H\) refminfire, the firit of April, in the Ycar from the Bleffed Incamaron of our Saviour Fefus Clriff, 1555 , and in the firft and fecond Ycars of our Reigus.

\section*{A Copy of the firf Priviledges granted by the Emperour of Ray/ia to the Englija Merchants, inthe Year 1555.}
- Fobn Vaflivich by the Grace of God, Emperour of Rufla, Great Duke of Nooogrod,' Mrfcovin, &c To all Pcople that hball fee, read, hear or underftand thefc Prefcrits, grecting. Forarmuch as God hath planted all Rcalms and Dominions, in the whole World with fundry Commoditics, fo as the one hath need of the Amity, and Commodities of the other, and by means thereof Trafick is ufed from onc to another and Amity thercby increafed; and becaufe amongf Men nothing is more to be defired thaniAmity, without which, no Creature bcing of a natural good DifnoGiton, can live inc̣uictucls; to that it is as troublefome to be utterly wanting, as ir:is perceived to be grievous to the Body to lack Air, Fire, or any other Necefa ries moft requifite for the Confervation and Maintenance thereof in health confidering alfo bow need ful Mercbandife is, which furnifheth Mcn with all that which is convernent forcheir Living and Nourture for thcir Clothing, Trimming, the fatisfying of thei Delights, and all otherthings converient and profitable for them, and that Merchandize bringeth the fame Commoditics from divers Quarters in fo grear abun dance, as by means thercof nothing is lacking in any Part, and chat all things be in every place' (where entercourfe of Merchandizes is received and imbraced) generally in fuch fort as Amity thereby is entred into and planted to continue, and Injoyers thereof be as Menliving in 2 Golden World : Upon thefe Refpeets and ocher weighty and good Confiderations, us here unto moving, and chiefly upon the Contemplation of the Gracious Letters, direated from the Right High Right Excellent, and Right Mighty, Queen Mur, by the Grace of God, Quecn of England, Franes. &c.
in the Fariour of her Subjects, Mercliants, the GoIgs. vernour, Confuls, Affitants, and Commonalty of W. Mernour, Conmuls, Adventurers for difovery of Lands, Eic.
- Know ye therefore that we of our Grace fpecial - meer Mocion and certain Knowledyc, have given and - granted, and by thefe Prefents for us our Heirs and Suc-- ceflours, do give and grane as much as in us is and li-- ah, unto Sabaftian Cabora Governour, Sir Gcorge Barmes - Krighr, Go. Confuls, Sir Fobm Greflam, Éc. Affit - ants, and to the Commonalty of the aforenamed Fch \({ }^{4}\) lowthip, and to their Succellours for cret, and to the - Succeflours of every of them, ticice Articles, Grants - Immumitics, Franchifes, Liberties and Privilcdges, and - every of them hereafer following exprefied and de-- clared, Videlicet.
- Firff, wic for us, our Hcirs and Succichours, do by - thefe Prefents give and grant free Liéence, Faculty - Aurtiority, and Power, uto the faid Goverriour, Con-- fuils,' AAlitants, 2nd Commonalty of the fiad Fellow:
- mip, and ro their Succeflours for cver, that all and fingn-
- lar the Merchaots of the fame Company, their A-- gents, Factors, Doers of their Bufurels, Atturney's - Servants, and Minitters, and every of chem, may atail - rimes hercafter for evermore, furely, freely and fafcly with their Ships, Mcrchiandifes, Goods, and things - whatfoever fail, come and enter into all and fingular - our Jands; Councries, Dominions, Citics, Towns, - Villages, Cantles, Ports, Juíídictions, and Diftriats by Sea, land, or frefl Waters, and thete tariry, abide © and fojourri, and buy, fell, barter and change all kind - of Merchandizes, with all manner of Merchants and - People, of wharfoever Nation, Rite, Condition, - State or Degrees they be, and with the fame or other -Shrips, Wares, Merchandizes, Goods, and Things \({ }^{4}\) whatoever they be unto other Empires, Kingdoms, - Dukedoms, Parts, and to any other place or places ar - their Pleafurcand Lilberiy, by Sca, Land or frem Wa-- ters may departand exercife all kind of Merchandizes - in our Empire and Dominions, and cyery part thercof, - freely and quiecly, wichout any Reftraint, Impeachment, Price, Exactions, Preft, Straight, Cuftom, Toll, - Impofition or Subfidy to bedemanded, taxed or paid, - or ar any cime hereafter to be demanded, taxcd, fee, - levied or inferr'd upon them or any of them, or apon \({ }^{6}\) their Goods; Ships, Wares, Merchandizes, and things, of, for, or upon any Part or Parcel theroof, or upon the Goode, Ships, Wares, Merchandizes, and Things of any of them, To that they fhall not necd any other - fafe Conduct or Licence, general nor fpecial of us - ourHeirs or Succeffours, neither fhall be bound to ask - any fife Conduct or Liceace in aniy of the aforefaid places fubject unro us.
2 Irem. "We give and grait to the faid Merebante - thisPower and Liberty, that they nor any of rhem, not - their Goods, Wares Merchandizes or Thinigs, nor 3 * ny part chereof, thall be by any means wishin our Dominions, Lands, Countries, Caltles, Towns, Villages, - or ocher Place or Places of our Jurifdiction; at any - rime hereafier attached, ftiyed, arrefted nor diftarbed - forany Debr, Duty, or other thing, for the whichthey be - nor principal Debrors or Sureties, nior allo for any - Offence or Trefpals commitred, or that liall be com-- mitred, but olny for fuch as they or any of them fhall - actually commit, and the fameOffences (if any fuch hap"pein) fhall be by uis only beard and determined. 3. Itcm. We give and grant that the faid Merchants - fhall and may have free liberty, Power and Authori* ty to name, choofe and aflign Brokers, Shippers, - Packers Wcighers, Meafuriers, Waggoners, and aill " orher meet and neceflary Labourcrs for to ferve them in "theirFeat of Merchandizes, and minifter and give unto - them and every of them a Corporal Oach, so fervo "them.well and truly in their Offices, and finding them - or any of them doing comrary to his or. their Oath, "may punith and difmifs them, amil from time to time - choofe, fwear and adimir ochers in their Place or Places, - wichour Contradiction, Let, Vexation or Difturbance, ccither of us, our Heirs or Succeflours, or of any arher our Juttices, Oficers, Xhinifters or Subjects whatfocver.
4. Ifem. " We give and grant unto the fand Meichanes "and their Succeffours, that fuck Peifon as is or ghall be - commended unto us, our Hieirs or Süceeflours, by the Governour, Confuls, and Alfiftants of the Caid Fel'lowflhip refianc within the City of London, within the Rcalm of England, to be tineir chief. Factor within this Our Empireand Dominions, may and fiill have. full Power and Aurhority to govern and rule all Englif Mcrii that have had or liall have Aćcelsy or Répirt im or and hall and may miniftct nurió theni, and crevit of them, good Jútice ihall thicir Canfec, Pizints, Quarreis and Dilorders betiveen ebem moved, and to be fribed and affemble, deliberate, confult, conclude; aicfine: deterninc amd make fuch Acts and Ordinances, as he focommended wirh his Alliftants, Imall think sood and meet for the good Ofder, Government and Ruie of the faid Merchants, and all othcr Einglijh Men repaiting to this ourfaid Einpire and Deminions, of any fain there of, and to fet and levie opon all and crecry Englifb Man, Offender, or Offenders, of fuih their Acts and Orciniances made, and to be made, Pchalties and Mulas, by finc or imprifolfment.
5: trem. If it happen that any of the faial Meichaits or other Eirglifh Men, as onc of mote do rebel againft fuch chicf Factor or Factors, of his of their Depurics and will nor dirpofe him or themfelies to of cy them and ciery of thicm hs mall apperiaint, if the fata Rehels or Difobedicnrs do coms and be found in our. kaid Enpire and Jurifdictions, or any Part and Place thereof, then weparmife and granc, thar all and crery our Officers, Minitceis and Subjects, thall cffictually aid and aflitt the faid chicf Factor or Factors, and their Deputics, and for theit Power thall tcally work to bring fuch Rebel, or difobedient Rebels, or Difobeaients, to due Obcdience, and to that Imtern. Bhall lend unto the fame Factor or Faceors, and their Deputies, upon requett therefore ro be made; Prifons and Inftivments for Punilhments, from tirtic to time.
6. Ircm. "Wepromife unto the faid Merchants and their Succeffours, upon their Requefts, to exhibic añd do untro chem, good, cxact and favourable Juftice, with Expedition in all thcir Canfes, and that when they or any of chem thall have accels, or come to or befcre ahy of our Juftices, "for any their Phints mored, and to be moved between any our Subjects or orter Serrata fors, and thetit or any of them, thar then they thall be firft and forchwith heard, as foon as the Pasty which they fhall find before our Juftices, thall ke impeached, which party being heard forthwith, and aftoon as inat be, the faid Englifh Mcrchants gall be rid and difparched, and if any Action thall be moved by or akainft any of the faid Merchanes being abfent out of our faidd Empire and Deminions, then fuch Micrchain may fubitirute an Atrorney in all and fingular his Caules; to be followed as need yhall require, and as fhall feem to him expedient
7. Ifcm. 'We giant and promife to the faid Mex. chans and to their Succeffours, that if the fame Mcr: chants or any of them mall be wounded, or (twhich God forbid) Aain in ang part or place of our Eupire or Dominions, then good informacion thercof given, we and our Juftices and ouher Officers; thall execure due Correction and Punifhiment wichour delay, acoording to the Exigence of the Cafi, fo that ir thall be an Example to all others not to commit the like; And if is Thall chance the Facrors, Servants; or Miniftcrs of the haid Merchants or any of them to rrefpals or offend: Whereb they or any of them mall incur the Darkger of Deeith orkinilhment, the Goods, Wares, Marchandizes, and things of their Maftes fall nor therefore be forfeited, contileared, fpoiled nón feized by any means by us our Heirs or Succeflours; or by any our Cfficers Minifers or Subjects, but flall remain to their afi frank, free, and difcharged from all Punifhmerit and Lois.
8. Item. \({ }^{\circ}\) We grant, that if any of the Eighliß N'ztion be arretted for any Debt, he fiall nor be laidi in Prifon, fo far as he can put in fufficient Surcty and. Taun; neither fall any Sergeant or Officer lead them or any of them ro Prifon, before he halli have knofers - wheiher the chief FaEtor or Factors, or their Deputies Thali be Surcties, or bringing in Pawn for fuch asrictect then the. Officers fall releafe tif Party, and halt fei hinior them at libeny.
9. liem. " Morcover wé give, grant and promite ro the faid Mcrchancs, thar if ans of their Ships of ather Veffels thall be fpoiled, iobbed, or Damnified in failing, anchofing, or recuming ro or from our 1 atio Enipires and Dominions, or any part thercof, Ly any Pirats, Merchants, or other Perfons, wharfoever, fie or they be; thar then and in fuch care, we will do all that in us is, to caufe Refticurion, Reparation, and Saitio faction to be duly made to the faid. Eng bifh Merithantrs; by our Eetters anid ortierwife. as fhall thand with our Honour, and be Confonanis to Equity and Joftice:
 "promife and grapito perform; mainain, corroborare, \(\mathrm{Bb} b \mathrm{~b}\) audenauthenticate and oblerve all and fingular the aforefaid Liberties, Franchifes, and Priviledges, like as prefent-- Iy we firmly do intend, and will corroborate, auchen, rick and perforix the fame by all Mcans and Wiays : thatwe can, as much as may be, to the Commodity and Profit of the faid Enzlifo Merchants and rheir Succeffours for crer.
*Gad to the litent thar all and fingular the faid Gifts, Granes, and Promiles nay Le inviolable obferved and - performed, we the faid Foint:afizich, by the Grace of & Aiglio, sic, forms, ourtheirs and Sucesfours, by our - Inifprial and lorely: Word inftead of an Oath, have and do prom?fs by thefePrefents, inviolably to maintain and obferves and raufe to be in: ichably obfer cod and maineaincd, 111 and lingular the aforclaid Gites, Grants and Proniifics from time to time, and as all and cevery rime and times hiercafer: And for the more corroboration hercof, liave caüfal our Singer hereunto to be put.
Datci in our Cafle of Nofon; whe zoth Day of in the licar

We Chartcrof the Merchonts of Ruftra, granted upois the Difiouciry of the faid comntry, b) King Philip and © 2 uce:s Mary.
* Phicior and Mary, ly the Grace of Gol, King and * Quccin, Eic.. Ta ali manner of Officsts, true - Jury Men, Minifters and Subjects.and roallother Pcople - as well within this our Kealm or elfewhere under orar Obeyfance, Jurijuction, and Rulc, or orherwife uno - whom theic our letters thall be hicwal, fent, or reat, srecting.
a Whereas we be credibly informied, that our right
rrufty, right faithful, añd welbeloved Counfellors - rrofty, righs faithful, and welboloved Counfellors - of this our Realmiof Finsichel, Lord High Treafurcs - of this our Realmiof Einziant, ITenr Earl of Arundel - Lord Steward of oar Houthold, Folon Earl of Bedfard - Lord Keeper of our Privy Scal, Wwillian Earl of Pem-- broke, Hilliam Lord Howard of Effingham, Lord High Admiral of this our faid Rcalm of Englnnd, &i: have vided, rigged, and rackled cortain Ships pi proand othermeer Veffels, and the Came furips, Pinaces, and other meet Veffels, and the fame furnilhed with all rhings nceelfary, have advanced and ferforward, forro difcover, afcribe, and find llks, lands, Tcrritorics, - Dominions, and Scigniories unknown, and by our Subjects berorethis not commonly by Sea frequented, it fall chance them hailing Northrards Niry God, - wards, and Norrh-wationg Northwards, North-calt< wards, and North-weftwards, or any Parts thercof, - in that Race or Courfe which other Chriftian Mothe difiove." Mrcias (being with us in Leaguc and Amity) have If pracipaily a ed heretofore by scas traftcked, haunted; or frequentGodiclor. fot the Glory of Gixd, as forche linufrating of as well - nour and Dignity Royal, in the Increate of of tho-- vour and Dignity Royal, in the Incereare of the Res other our Realinsand Do scireral wealch of this and - of the fame: And to this Inimens, and of our Subjects - cifica and named, have moit humbly befecched us a that our abundant Grace, Faveur and Clemency may, be gracioully cxtended unto them in this behalf - Whereupon we inclined to the Pcrition of the fore faid our Counfellors, Subjcats and Merchanre, and willing ro animate, adranic, further and nouriih, them in their faid godly, honett, apd good Purpofe, and, the mope, profitable Adrenture, and that they may - the more willingly and readely archieve the fame, of our fpecial Graie, cerain Kiowledge, and ineer Mo"rion, have granted, and by thefe Prefents do grant for us, our Heirs and Suceeflours, unto our faid righr trufty, and right faithfol, and righ: welbeloved Counfellors, and theotherbefore named Perfons, that they
by the name of Merchants Adventurers of England, 6 minions, and Scry of Lands. Territories, Illes, Dominions, and Scigninrics unknown, and not before that late Advenrure or Enterprife by Sea or Navigation, commonly frequerted as aforefaid, thall be from henceforth one Body and perpetual Fellowhip and Commomalty of themiclves, both in Deed and in Name, and them, by the Names of Merchants Adventuress forthe difcovery of Lands, Terricorics, Ifes, and Seignio-rics unknown and not by the Seas and Navigations Navigation faidlate Adventurc or Entcrnrife by Sen Or Navigation coinmonly frequented, we do incorporate, name and declare by thefe Prefents, and that the fame and may have ome Gonalty from hencc forth fiall be, and may haye one Governour of the faid Fellow/hip and Commonalty of Merchants, Adventurers.
And in confideration that one Seloffitin Cabora hath Sthatim been the ahicfet Scter forth of this thercfore we make, ordain, and confiny or Vojafe, manamin the fame Felloswhip and Commonaliy boyernour of compmit. fents, to have and cnioy the faid Office of thefe Prerents, to have and cnioy the faid Office of Governour, in hinn the fald scbiftian Criber during his in huns the fald sclaffian Crloria durring his natural Liff, Withour amoving or difmifing from the fame Room.
And furthermore, we grans unto the fame Fcliowthip Kaid Fillowhip and Commonalty, and their Surce the atice the deceafe of the faid solaftian ancir Surceffors and unay ftecly and lawfully in places covericnt hall, honeft, affembic themfelres together, or fo mand and them as will or can affemble together, as wall of our City of Lonicm, orcliewherc, as it hall well with in in fuch forr and manner as other worthip pliafcthem, tions of our faid City have ufed to affemble, andforaycarly name, clect and choofe one Governour or there of themfelyes and their Liberties, and alfo or two ycarly during the natural life of the faid alfo as well bort, now Governour, as alfo ar the clection of fuch faid Governour and Governours before his deceale, to choric, name and appoint 28 of the moft Gad, dificer and honctt Perfons of the faid Fellowithip and Come monalty of Mcrchant Advencurers, as is above fpecifr ed; and fort of the moft experr and skitful Perfons of the faric a8; to be named and called Confuls, and \(3-4\) of the reliduc, so be named and callicd Aifilanats to the fad Governour or Governours, or Confuis for the theritug, whichnall reinain aral ftard in their Anthor:ty for ons whole Xear then acre following: And if it iball for:une the faid Govcracur, Confuls and Aniffunts, or any of them fo to lo cleatc!? ana and fon as is aforcta:d, to dic within the Year after his or their election, that then and fooficn, it thall and may be latrual io and for the faid Fellowihip and Commonourt, to clect and choofe of chenafelves other Gorer nour or Govemours, Confuls and Acfiftants, in place and ftead of fuci as fo hlall happen to in the ferie our the fance Year.
And further we do make, ordain, and contitute dong Barnes Nn:ght and Alderman of our Ciry of 1 ie don, Walliam Gariet Alderman of our haid City thonie Hulre, and Folon Sutibcor, to be che firt and mimr. prefert fover Confuls of the faid Fellowe the firt and ante. Oomalty by dhefe Prefents, to have and cnioy the faid Smeme, Offices of Confuls to them the faid Gcorge Bernes, thin- cita liam Garret, Anthong Hufit, and Surlicor, for tcrm of Patents ycar next afrexthe Date of thele cur-Leiters Patents; and we do likewife make,-ordain, and conAtiture, Sir Folm Grefh.m.Knighr, Sir Andreto Fudde Knight, Sir Tbornts Wiote Knight, Sir Falm Torke Knigbr,-Thomes Offlo the eldcr, Thoonar Lodre Yoar Herdfon, Fobm Hapkins, William Watoon, Lodis, Hem Clif: fon, Ricliard Pointer, Ricliard Cbismberlaing, Williom Manoric, Tiromas Pallis the elder, Mrillism Allen, Hemp Beche", Geffre Htalkenden, Riciard Foris, Rowland Sanders, and Miks Morairy, to bethe fift and 24 Afintants to the faid Gorcmour and Governours, and Confuls, and to the faid Fellowithip and Commonalty by there Prefents, to have and enjoy the faid Ofices of Affiftants to them for rerm of one whole Year of after the date of thefe our Letters Parencs. And further, we for us, our Heirs and Sucefor And furin us is, will and grant by thefe Prefenours, as muchas Governour, Confuls, Afiftants, Fellowinipand Come pany of Merchamts Adventurersaforefaid, and ro thent Succeffours thats the faid Governour or Gond to their: four Confuls, and 24 Affint Governour or Governours. rents are nominated and apront, that now by thelef by the faid Fellowilhip and Commonalty of Merchants beeten pers, or the more part of them which hall that chere be is at the leaft wholly to be chofen, fo the faid the laid Governour or Governours, or one of them, and two of the faid Confuls thould be there, and rwelve he faid Acfure of the faid number of 15 , Mall be of nour. that rhenthree of the faid Conce of fuch Gorecand laid Affirtantsar the lcaft for the time being, ftall and may have Ure ald Exercife, full Power and

Aurhority,
- Authonity oo ruke and govern all and fingular the Mer" clantself the faid Fcllownip and Commonalcy, and to cexccute and do full and fpecily juftice to them, and c'very of them, in all thicir Caufss,-Differences, Vari - ances, Controverfics, Quarrels, and Complaints, - withinany our Realms, Dominions and Jurifdiantions a only moved, and to be moved touching their Mcr-- chandife, Trafficks, and Occupiers aforclaid, or the " Rood Orderor Rule of them or any of them.
' Alfo we for us, our Hsirs and Succeffors, fo much as " in us is, do likswife by thefe Prefenis grant, that the - gaid Gevernour, Confuls, Allitanas, Fellowithip and *Comme nalty, and sheir Succeifours fhall and may - have perprrual Succetfion, and a common Seal, which - thall perpetually ferve for ths Affairsaned Bufincts of the " Caid Feilowilhip and Commonalty. And that they and "their Succulours thall and may be for ever able Perfons, * and capable in the Law, for to purchafe and potfefs in - fee and perperuity, and for term of life or lives, or " for term of Xears or otherwife, Lands, Tenements, - Rents, Reverfions, and other Pofferfions and Heredira--ments whatfoever they be, by the name of the Gover \({ }^{}\) nour, Confuls, Abiftants, Fellowihip and Commonal ty of the Merchants Adventurers by Seas and Naviga " tions for the difoorcry of Lands, Territorics, Mles, "Domimions and Scigniories unknown, and before the - Faid Jaft Adven:ure or Entexprife by Seas nor frequent© ed, as before is (pecified, and by che fame names, - thall and may lawfully alien, grant, let and fer the - fame or any patt thereof, to any Perfon or Rerfons-a' - ble in the law to take and reccive the fame ; io that - they do not grant nor alien chefrme, orany-pats there-- of inmo Mortmain, withour fpecial Licence of us, our - Heirs or Succellours, firft had and obtained.
"Alfo we for us our Heirs and Succeffours have grant-- ed, and by thefe Prefents do grane unto the faid Governours, Confuls, Affittants, Feilowithip and Com* monalty of theifaid Merchantes and to their Succelfours, * thar chey and their Succelfours, Inall and may lawful" Iy purchafe uno chem and their Succefours for crer, Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments whatoever, of the clear yearly value of rhreefcore and fix Pounds thirteen Shillings, and four pence of lawful Money of "Exyland and norabove, 25 well of fuch Lands, Tcnements and Hereditaments, as be bolden or thall be - holden of us, our Heirs or Succeffours, as of any other Perfon or Perfons, the Statucs provided againft Alicnations into Mortmain, or any of them, or any Articleor Clanfe in rhem or any of them contained or any other Law, Cuftom, Scatuecor Provifion tothe concrary in any wife oorwinhitanding: And that thcy by the mame-of the Governour, Confuls, Alfitants, -Fetlowithip and Comomonalcy of Merchants Adventu-- mers, for the difcovery of Lands; Territorics, Incs, Dominions and Scigniories unknown by the Seas and Navigations, and nor before the faid late Adventure or Enterprife by Seas frequented as aforefaid, fhalland may be able in the Law to implead, and be impleaded, to anfwer and to be anforered, to defend and to be de-- fended before whatfoever Judge or Jaftice remporal or firitual, or ocher Perfons whatiocver, in whatfoever Courtor Conits, and in all Actions perfonal, real, and mixt, andin every of them, and in all Plaints of noo: Diffeifon, and alfoin all Plaints, Suices, Quarrels, Af-- fairs, Bulinefles and Demands, wharfoever they be, touching and concerning thefaid Fellowfhip and Commonalty, and the Affairs and Bufinefs of the fame onhy, in as ample ma:uner and form, as any other Corpo-- ration of this our Realm may do.
- Morcover, we for us, our Heirs and Succelfours, - have givex and granced, and by thefe Prefents do - give and grant unto the faid Governour, Confuls, Allith-- ants, Fellowihip, and Commonalty of Merchants Adventurers aforelaid, and to their Succeffours, that the faid Governour or Gavernours, Confuls and Alifitants, and theirSucceffours, in manner, form and number afore rebearfed, thall have full Power;and Aurhoriny froin time to timehereafter, to make, ordain, eftabliff and crect all fuch Statues, Auts and Ordinances, for the Gavernmenc, good Condirion, and Laulable Rule of the faid Fellowlhip and Commonaley of Merchanios Adventurers aforefaid, as to them fhall be thought good, meet, convenicnt and neceflary, and adro to admit unto the faid Corporation and Fellowthip to be freeof the fame, fuch and as many Perfons as to them flall be thoughr good, meet, convenient and neceffary. "And that every fuch Perfon or Perfons as Mall fortune - hereafter to be admitted into the faid Fellowflip. Com-- monalty and Corporation, hall from the rime of his or - cheir admittance, be free of the fame. And alfo we ' will, and by thefe Prefemss grant for us, our Heirsand 1554. Succeffours, unto the faid Governours. Confuls, Afift- \({ }^{1554^{\circ}}\) ants, Fellowihip, and Commonalty of Merchants Adventurers aforclaid, and to their Succelfous, thar the Governour or Governours, Confuls and Affitants of the fame, in maner, form and number afore reticarfed, and their Succeffours for che time be:ng, thall and may have full Power and Authority by thefe Prefems frum time ro time, as to them tha! ficm good to limit, for, ordain and maks Mulsts and Penaties by Fines, Forfeit res and Imprifonament, or any of them upon any Offender of the faid Fellownip and Commonalry, for any Oitence rouching the fane Fellowhif: and Commonaltyand alfo that aill actsiand Ordinances. by them or their Succeifours to be made, which time thall think nos necefary or prejudicial to the faid Fel. lowithip or Commonalty; at all cimes to revoke, break, fruftrate, annihilate, repeal anid diffolve as their pleafure and liberty. And further we will, that if any of the faid Fellowihip and Commonalty fhall be found contrarious, xebeliious or difobediens to the faid Governour or Governours, Confuls, and the faid Alififants for the time being, or to any Starues, Acts or Ordinances by them made or to be made, that then the frid Governour or Governours, Confuls, and the faid Adiftants, in manner, form. and number above fpecificd, for the cime being, fasill and may by vertuc of thefe Prefines, mulet and punith every fuch Offender or Offenders, asche Qimatity of the Offencerequireth, according to their good Diferctions.
- And further, we will that none of the faid Offender or Offenders lhall decline from the Power of the faid Governour or Governours, Confuls and Anlifrants, in manner, furn atid number abovefaid for che time being; fo alwass, that the faid Acts, Sarutcs, and Ordinances, do only tourth and concern the faid Governour or Covernours, Confuls, Aifittants, and the faid Fellowihip and Cominonalty of our before named Mcrchants Adventurers, or the Men of the fanc Fcllowthip and Commonalty, and none orther; And fo always, that foch their Acts, Statutes and Ordinances be nor againtt our Prerogacive, Laws, Starutes, and Cuftoms of 3 our Realms and Dominions, nor contrary fo the fexcinal Duty of any of our Subjeets towards-us? our Heirs and Succeffours, nor conciary to any Compacts, Treaties or Leagues, by us or any of our Progenitours heretofore had or made, or hereafice by us, ourtheirs and Succeffours to be made, to or with any forcign Prince or Petentate, 1 or aifo to the Prejudice of The Corporation of the Mayor, Commonaltics and Citizens of our City of Londor, nor to the preiudice of any Perfun or Pcrions, body Polícick, or corporare. or incorporate, juftly prectnding, claiming, or having any Liberties, Franchifes, Privuedges, Rights or Preiheminences, by vertue or preecxt of any Grants, Gifr, or Lerters Parcirs, by uc, or any our Progenitours bercrofore given, granted or made.
\({ }^{4}\) Moreover, we for us, our Heirs and Succefours, will, and by thefe Prefents; do grane unto the faid Governours, Comfuls, Alliftancs, Fellowihip, and Commonatty of our Mcrchants aforefaid, thar theirfaid Governour or Governours, Confuls and Aexfanis, and their Succeffour in the time being, in manner, form and number above rehearfed, fhill haye foll Power and Authority rozefign, countirete and ordain one Officer, or divers Officers, as well wirbin our aforefaid Ciry of Londor. as alio.in any orber placeor places of this our Realmi of Englanid, or clfewhere within our Dominions, which Officer or Officers, we will to benarmed and called by the name of Scrgeant or Scrgeants to the Fellowhip of Commonaley of the faid Merchiants, and that the faid Scrgcantor Sergeants, thall and may haiare full Power and Autbority by theic Prefents, to take, levy and gather all manner of Fines, Forfeitures, Penalties and Muidts of cyery Perfon or Perfons of the faid Fellowhip and Comanenalty, convict and that thall be convicted upon, or for breaking of any Starutes, Acts, or Ordinances, to ke made by the faid Governour or Governours, Confuls and Aifitares for the time being.
"And further, we will and alfo grant \(f r\) uscurHeirs and Succeffours, that the faid Cfticer or Ufficers hall have further Power and Authority for the Defaulr of Paymeat, or for Difobedience in this behalf (if need be) to ferhands and arreft is well the Body and Bodics, as the Goods and Chardes of fuch Offender and Offenders; and Tranfgrelfors; in every place and places nor framchifed. And if it thall fortune any fuch Offender or Offenders, their Goods and Chardes or any part thercof, so be in any Ciry, Borough, Town Incarporated, or Bbbb 2
orher
other place franchifed or priviledged, Where the faid - Officer or Officers may nor lawful. yintromir or inter-- medde, that then the Mayor, Sheriffs, Bayliffs, and - orher headOfficers or Minifers withinevery fuch Ci : *Borough, Town, Incorporare, or place or places franchifed, unon a Preiept to them or any of them, to be directe 1 irme the Governour or Governours, Confuls and huittanes of che faid Fellowhip, in number and - formaterecaic!, under the commonScal of the faid Fel-- lorithip and Commonalty for the rime heing, Mall and may attack and arieft the Fody or Rodics of Luch Offender or Offenders, as alfo rake and fieze dae Coonds and Chattics of all and every fuch Offender on Offenccrs, bring within any fuch place cr places tranthited, ؛ and the Sume Body and Bodics, Goods ard Chattles - of all and cuory fuch Offender and oftenders, 'boing within any rech Piace or Pla, es franchifed. - and svery part chereof fo attacked and liezced, hall, *ac:ording to the Tenor and Purpore of the faid Precept, rectrnand deliver unto the faid Officer or Officers of the atorefaid Fellowihip and Commonalry.

And furher, we will and gramt for is, our Heirs - and Succefferst by tbele Preicnts, that all and cvery - fuch Mayor, Simeriff, Bayliff, or orhcr hcal offeefsor or ocher piaces franchifed, thall not be impeached, - molefted, rexcd or fued in any of ourCourt or Courss,for exccucing or putringinexcuation of any of the faid Precept or Presepss.

And furthermore, we of our ample and aiumiant Grace, mecr Morion, and certain Knowledge, for us, our Heirs and Succetlours, as much as in us is, have given and granted, and ly theic Prefonts do gire and srancuntorhe faid Governour, Confuls, Adiftants, Fellowinip and Commonaltr of Marchants Adventurces, and ro their Sucielfors, and tuthe Fictor and Factors, Atignand Anigns of crery of them, full and fice Authores, 1 ibsery, Faculty and tience, and Power to - fail to all lorio, Regions, Dominions, Territorics,

Sine tion
mols, ism
do difanal
pure fict danus, hics, Mands, and Coafts of the Sca, wherchower betore cincir late Adicntrire or Entcprife unknown, or by nur Micrchants and Subjects by the Seas not heretofore commonly frequenced, under our Ban-- ncr, S:andard, Flass and Entigns, with their Ship, -Sbips, Park, Pinsaces, and all octer Veffels of whatFecver Portage, Bulk, quamisy orqualiry they maty be, and with any Matincts and Menas they will lead with them in fuch Ship or Ships, or other Veffels as their own proper Cofts and Expences, to traffick, defery difoover and find, whatfocrer Inc; Inands, Countries, - Regions, Provinces, Crecks, Arms of the Sea, Rivers and Streams, as wellof Gentiles, as of any nher Emperour, King, Frince, Governone, or Lord wharfocyer he or chey litall be, and in whatoever part of the World they be fituare, beine before the faid late Ad* 7 onturc or Entcrrcife unknown, and by our Mcrchants - and Subjeets not commonly frequented, and to cmer and hand in the fame withont any mannct of Lenfing, - Pain, Penaley or Forfciturc ro be had or caken by any of our Lairs, Cufioms ne Seatutes to our ufe, or to the afe of our Heirs or Succelfours for the fame. : And we have alfo granted, and by thefe Prefents, & for os, our Heirs and Succeffours, do grant unto the - faid Governours, Confuls, Affitans, Fellowhip and

Commonalty, and to their Succeffours, and to their
conqur porentia - Factors and Aitigns, and to crery of them, Licence for to rent, plant, crećtend faften oux Banncry, Standards, Flags and Enfigns, in whatocter City, Town, Viliage, Cafte, Inc, or main Land, which fhall be by "them newlv formd, ritiour any the Penalties. For-- feitures or Dangers atorcfuid, and that the faid Fellowfrip and. Commonalty, and rbcir Succelfour:, Factors and Afigns, and cicry of them thall and may fub-- duc; foriers and occupy all manncr of Cities, Towns, Illes, and main L ands of Intidelity, which is or mall be by them orany of them newly found or defried, as our Vaftals and Subjects, and for to acruire and ger the Dominion, Title, and Infurrection of the fame Cines, Towns, Cafties, Villages, IIes, and main - lands, which iballbe by them or any of them, newly difovered or found unro us, onr Heirs and Succefours for cver.

And furthermore, whereas by the Voyage of our
-inm isga. Subjects inthis laft 月 Year atcompted by Nivigation enverds the difovery and difclofure of unknown Places, Realms, Ifands and Dominions by the Seas nor - frequented, is hath pleafed Almighiy God to caule ore - of the three Shipsby them fer forth for the Vojage and Purpore above mentioned, named the Edmard Bonada.: sentuit, ro arive; abide, and winter within the Empire and Dominions of the high and mighry Prince our Coufin and Brother, Iord - frlm Bafiv:ct, Einfetour of all Rufin, Voiadcmer. Great Duke of Mu/sm rour of all Ruflim, Voiodemer, Great Duke of Mu/imy , Tix nimp &cc. who, of his Clemency, forour Love ank! Zcal, did not only admir the Capuin and Marchants our Sula trifas: jects inro his Protcetion and Princely Prefence, but al the \(\mathrm{Cr} / \mathrm{l}\) for recised and enterrained them yory gracioully and howorably, giancing unto them 'Ey his I ctecrs ad drcifed unto us, frank Aucefs in all his Scigniorics and Dominions, with licence frecly to traffick in and our with all his Subjects in all kind of Mcrchandife, with divers other gracious Priviledges, Libertics and lmmunitics, fpesified in his frid I erters vender his Signet: Know yctherefore that we of our further Rovia Favour and Munificcnce, of our mecr Motion, ccriain Knowicdge, and Special Grace, for us, our Heirs and Succettours, have given and gransed, and by thefe Prefenss do give and grant naro the fame. Governours, Confuls, Afiftants, Fcllowthip, and Commona'ty above named, and no the: Succufours, as mutich as in us is, that all the main linds, lles, Ports, Havens, Crects, and Rivers of the haid mishry Emperoar of ail Rufira, and great Dukc of Mofer, See. and 2il and Porrs Hether lands, Domimons, Territorics, lales, Porrs, Havers, Crecks, Rivers, Arms of the Sea, of allanderery ocher Emperour, King, Prince, Ruler and Gorimnour, whatfoever he or thicy before the faid late Advenfure or Enterprife not known, or by out aforcfaid Mcrchants and Sulycats by the Scas mencommony frcoucntad, nor by any Part nor Parcel thereof ling of the the Northwards, North-aft wards or Norch-wceleofrds lying isco oi in Northwards, North-aft wards or North-wcflwards, as isfonic is aforefiad, by Sca lall not be vifired, frequented nor haunted by any our Subjects, other of than the faid Company and Fellowhif, and theirSuccelfours withous cxprefs Licence, Agrecment and Confent of the \(\mathrm{C}_{\mathrm{i}}\) vernour, Comfuls, and Aniftants of the faid Felinwthip and Commonalty above-named, or the more parof them, in manner and number aforefaid, fir the rime being, upon painof Forfciture and Loks, as well of the Stip and Ships, with the Appurtenances, asaifo of all she Goods, Merchandifes, and things whatfocver they be, of thofe our Subjects, nor being of the faid Fellowthip and Commonalty, which final! attemp: or prefurne to inill to any of thofe places, which be or hereatier thall happen to be found, and traficked unre, the one half of the fance Forfciture to be to the ufe of us, ourHcirsand Sacceffours, and the other half to be to the ufe of the faid Fellowitip and Commonaltr. And if it Mall fortunc any Stranger or Strangers for to atrempt to hart, hinder or codamage the fame Mcrchants, their Factors, Depricies or Afigns, or any of them in failing, going or returning at any time in the faid Adventare, or for to fíilor trade toorfrom any of thofe Places, Lands or Coafts, which by the faid Merchants, their Factors, Deputies and Adigns, have beenor thall be defried, difcovered and found, or frequented, as well wichin the Coafts and Limirs of Gentility, as within the Domitions and Seigniorics of the faid mighry Emperour and Duke, and of all and cvery \(\alpha-\) ther Emperour, King, Prince, Ruler, and Governour, whatocver heor they be, before the faid lare Adventure or Enterprife not known by any of our faid Merchanss and Subjeats by the Seas nor commonly frequented, and lying Norchwards, North-weftwards, or Nordi-caft-wards as aforetaid, then we will and grant, and by thele Preferus do licence, and auchoinit for us, our Heirs and Suceefours, the faid Merchants, cheir Faćors, Deputies, and Alfigns, and every of them to do their beft in their defence, to refift the fame their Enterprifes and" Atremprs. Willing thercfore, and fraightly commanding and rharging all and fingular our Offects, Magors, Sheriffst Efichearors, Contables, Bailiff, and all ami fingular other our Minifters and Liege Mon and Subjects whatfoeter, to be aiding, farouring, helping, and atifiting unto the faid Gover nour or Governours, Confuk, Afiftants, Fellowflip and Commonalty, and so their Succefors and Deputies, Factors, Scrvants, and Affigns, and ra the Dcputics, Factors and affigns of every of them, inexecuting and enjoying the Premifles, as well on Land as in the Arwis! Sea, from time to cime, andar all times when sou or any of you fhall be thcreunto required. In witnefs whereof, GJc.

Apad Wiftmonefretium, 6 dic Fcb, Annis Tcsmorum noftroram primo frimend.

\section*{Furtber Priviledges granted to the Merchants of Rufia．}

THefe Lemers Patents were confirmed by act of Par－ ＊liament，8．Elin．1566．wherein it isenacted， －That by reafon the name by which the faid Fellowthip ＂is incorporated by the Letters Patents aforefaid is long，and confifteth of wery many words，that there－
－forc the faid Fellowhip，Company，Sociecy and Cor－ －poration，fiall from henceforth be incorporared and －called only by rherime of the Fillowfhip of Einglifh Mcr－
c chants for difcnuery of mew Trades．Provided that it －Mall be lawful for any of the Subjects of this Realm to fail so the Port，Town，Territory or Caftle of ＊W＂ardhoufs，or to any pars of Nintray：Not to tranf－ ＂port any Cloth or Kerfics before the fame thall be －dreffed，and for the moit parr died within this－Reatm， －uponforfeirmeof－firefound tor cvery Cloth and Kcr
－fy，one half to the Queen，the other half to the Ma －fter or Warden of the Cloth－Workers of London．Nor to tranfport anj Commodity of this．Realm but only S in Engliß Ships，and Sail for the moft part by Ens／ifh －Mariners，on forfeiture of 200 Pound，one Moicry to ＊the Quecn，the other to the head Officers of any Port－ －Town，havins any Haven or Harbour decaycd，by ＊whatfoeter name they be incorporated，to the repa－ racion of fuch Harbour，that will fue for the fame in 4 any Courr of Record，by Action，Bill，Plaint or In－ －formation，wherein no Effoin，Prorection or Wager of －Law for the Defendane lhall be allowed． ＊Provided alfo，that whenfoever the faid Company －thall willingly wirhdraw，and difcontinuc wholly by ＊the fpace of three Years，in time of Peace，the difcharg
＂ing of their Merchandifes at nhe Road of Sc．Niiboia
－Bay in Rufler，and do not difcharge their faid Merchan－ －dizes as fome other Port or Road lying on that －North Coaft of Ruffr or other Terrinory now fub －jectrothe faid Prince，hitherro by the Subjects of this －Realin not commonly frequented，that then during the －rime of any fuch difcontinuance and wichdrawing as is aforcfaid，it mall be lawful to all the Subjects of this －Realm to trade to the Nirroe only in Enghf Bottoms a any thing in chis Act to the concrary notwithitand－ ！ing．

\section*{The Tbird Voyage to Ruffian}

THe Company fent two Ships to Ruffathis Year，win the Edwerd and the Phitip and Mary，with Supernu－ metrary Mafters and Mariners，to bring home the Bona Speranza and the Corfiderutia that had been frozen up in lapland．They touched ar Lapland，and thence failed to the Bay of St．Nicholas，from whence ticy came all together on the 2cth of \(7 n=\) ，bringing with thema Ruffr an Embalfador，named Ojep Nicpea，with 16 of his Re－ tinue，who were thipped with Mr．Chanceller inn the Ed werd，bat by contrary Winds and violent Tempetts they werc ccparated．The Confidentia was feen moperith on a Rock on the Coaft of Normen；the Speranñ \(n\) ，whercin were divers Ru／fe Merchants and Servants of the Em－ baffador，was never fince beard of．Tis fuppofed；that bo two Years wintering in Laplend，the became un－ flaunch，and furk．The Philip and \(M\) arj arrived in the Thames che 18th of April，1557．the Edmard on the renth of soocmber 1556 arrived in the Bay of Pcetifiesc， in：thie North of Sertlend，where forced from her An－ chors，fle was fplir upon the Rocks in the Night，and Mr Cbancellor with feven Ruffer and divers Mariners were drowned，the Embatiador with 2 fcw orhers，with mach difficulty ercaping：
As foon as the News of this Difafter came to Londom， the fixth of Decemler，the Company obrained Leterrs from the Queen to che Quecn Dowager and Council of Scotlaric，in favour of the faid Embaffador，and imme－ diarcty diffarched Lawrence Huffy，Doictor of the Civil Law，and Gerge Gilpin，into Scotland，wisth Money and other Neceffaries to relieve him，and conduct him with his Recinue into England．They arrived ac Edingturgh，the 23d of December \({ }^{2}\) and after vifting the Einbalfador， repaired to Queen Dowager with their Letcers，who gave them hopes of fpeedy refticution，and in order
thercunto，fenc Commiffionert with an Herald of Armes to Pertifege，commanding by Proclaniation all Pcrfons 2956 as had any part of fuch Goods as were fpoiled，and taken out or from the Ship，to hring them in and cetere the fame ；fo chat after much Trouble，Time and Char－ ges，fornc firtall Parcels of \(W a x\) ，and other fmall riffing things of no valuc，were by the poorer fort of Scois broupht to the Commidioners，but the Jewels，rich Ap－ parcl，Prefents，Gold，Silver and coftly Furs，were con cealed and embercelid．＇Whereupon the Queen at the re－ queft of the Ambaflidor，cauled about 880 of them to appear before her and anfiwer the fame，whereof nor on－ y good Teflimons by Writing was produced，bue alio the things themiclucs found in the Hands of the Scortijil Subjects，who by fubtril and crafty dealing and connin－ rance of the Commiffioners，aburcd the Embaffadorand his Artendants，fo that no effectual Reftitution was made ；whercupon he departed towards England on the fourtcenth day of Fetruniy，and on the isth came to Berpict，where by the Quccon＇s Commando the twas tronouratly reccivec by the Lord Wimarton，and on the 27th was met twelve Miles from Londom by 80 ．Mcr－ chanss with Chains of Gold，well－mounted，and ail thcirServants in onc Livery，and conducring him to a Merchants Houre four Miles from London，he there re ccived 2 quantity of Gold，Velvet and Silk，with ail Furniture thereunto requifite，wherewwith be made him a riding Garment，repofing himfolf that Night．The nerr day he was conducted to London by 140 Marchancs of the Kulian Company，and as many of their Ser－ rants in one Livery，and by the Queen＇s Command was met on the way by the Lord Moumtagule，with 300 Horl， who conducted him to the North part of the Citr， where four enninene Mcrehants xichly apparell＇d，pre－ fancol hima fairlarge Geiding，with rich Trappings and Foor cloch of Crimfon Velvec．The Embatiador be－ ing mounced，was met at Smirtfifld Bars by the Lord Mayor and Aldermen in their Scarlet，and rode thro London bewsenthe Lord－Mayor and Lord Mentazus to his Lodgings in Fan：Shurch Serect，a great number of Merchants riding beforc，and their Servants following ater．
Herc he raxricd，expecting the King＇s recturn from Flanders，which was the 2nt of March，during which time lhe was daily vifited by the Aldermen and chief of he Cotnpany，who fens him 2 tich Cup－board of Plate， and provided all kind of Victuals for his Table and his Scrivants，with allforts of Officers to attend upon him．
Thic Qucen alfo prefented him with a rich piece of Cloch of Tiffuc，apitce of Cloth of Gold，another piece of Cloth of Gold raifed wath Crimfon Vicleet，a piece of Crimfon Velvetingrain，a piece of Purple Velvet 2 picece of Damask parpled，and a piece of Crimfon D2－ mask，all which he thankfully ascepred．
On the 2 sth of March he was conducted into the pre－ Fence of the King and Queen，where，after he had de－ liver＇d his Letters，made his Speech，and prefenced their Majefties with rwo Timber of Sables（the reft being loft 4 Timbera ia in the Shipwrack）he was difriis＇d wich much Honour（wice \＆o， and Refpect．

The time of the Xear approaching for his departure； hereceived the Prefents from their Majefies to the Em－ perour，which were，

1 Two rich pieces of Cloth of Tiffuc．
2 One fine piece of Scarlet．
3 One fine Violet in grain．
4 One fine Azure Cloch．
5 A pairof Brigandines，with a Murrain covered with Crimion Velvet and giltNails．
6 Two Liois， 2 Male and Female． Giffs given to the Embaffador ar hisdeparture．
x A Chain of Gold of 100 I．value
2 A large Bafon and Ewer of Silver gilt．
3 A Pair of Portle Pots gilt．
4 Apair of Flagons Gilt．
Gifts fent from the Emperour of Ruffia to the King and Queen of England，fpoiled by the Scors afice the Ship－ wrack．

1．Six Timber of Sables，rich in colour and Hair．
2．Twenty entire Sables，exceeding－beautiful，with Teeth，Ears，and Claws．
3．Four living Sables，with Chains and Collars．

4 Thirty Lufarns, large and beauriful.
5 Six large and great Skins, very rich and rarc fuch as are worn by the Emperour only.
6. A large and fair white Jerfoulcon for the wild Swan, Cranc, Goofe, and weher grat Fowls, with a Drum of Silper, ufed as a Lure to cali the Hawk.
1556.

This Ticar allo she Cumpany ferout a Pinnaic, called the Senci, Teriff, Stepien barronp Mafter, to dikover dhe Harhours in the Northern Scas. He were beyond the mocting with mich lic and Soow, amd sintimal North-catt ami Northerly Winils, and the Nights begiming to grow dati, he thought it bett to rcturn to the whof vicirias, where he arricil an colngen-athe the apmoach of next Summer to proceed in the difeovery of the River \(C_{i}\), buticing fens to WFardhe.fe next Spring in liarch of the \(1: n \mathrm{n}\) tijp Ships; the Defign for that tine was laid afide.

\section*{The Fourt I'rage t, Rufia, ove}

\section*{Wrinten by fonie of the Englifh, who} then motns over to lerve tbe Emperonr.

\section*{T} IHE Company fer ont four Ships this Year, rit.
 Gomisy: The Embatiadine O/sp dipica was Shuped on Miry, and arrived in the Bay of St. Nibholas the thirreenth of \(\mathcal{F}\) uly, having Cuiled from Louidon unto the faid Bay 7so Leagues.
The Embalfador and his Company with great joy wentalhoar, and as many of us Englifh Men as came to ferve the Empcrour, travelled with him to Mofoo. We went up the River Dwine to Vologhde; being 1,000 Vertts, and every Verft is threc fourths of an Englif Miles. There we jaded our Chefts and things in fonail Wagons with oneHorfe, and we were fourteen davs in travelling from Vologhde to Mofic, which is sce Verits.

The tweitith of Sepromber we arrived at \(M \mathrm{ff} \mathrm{fm}\), and worc brought by Napea and two of the Emperori's Genalemen unto a large Honic, where cvery one of as had his Chamber appoinred.
The foartecnch of Sepremter we were commanded to come unto the Emperour, and were immediately admitted to his Pretence, and kiffed his Right-hand: He fate in a Chair of Stare, wich a Crown on his Head, and a Scaff in his Left-hand, garnithed with coftly Srones He told ns by his Inecrprecer thit we were all weloonic, and willed us to dine with him ; fo we gave Thanks and depareed till Dinner was ready. When Dinner time approached, we were brought into the Dining Room, and were p'aced ata Table orer againt the Emperodr, that he might kehoid us all.

Ar the upper end of one Tableface the Emperour, his Brother and the King of Crizal, who is a Prifoncr: About two Yards lowerfate the King of, Canars Son, a Child of five years of age, and beneath him fate anany of the Nobility.

At anothar Tableneartoche Empcrour's, Farea Monk alonc, who was in all points as well ferved as the Emperour. At another Table fare Cibirkeffes, cnterained by the Empciour to Kerve againt his Enemics.

Alle che Tables were caverel only with Sale and Bread, and afer we had fate a while, the Emperour fent to evirinne of us a picce of Bread, the Metienger ufing the Words, Tie Eimperour antl great Duke gives thee Br at sim De\%. Thare came infix Singers, who flood in the indtle of the Chamber with their Faces towards the Emperour, whofe Voices .were nor delightful, to our Ears.
The Empcrourdid not put a morfel of Mcat into his Mouch uncil he had firft blefied is, and in lixe monner when be drank; for he reas very x cligions in his way, and cetecmed bis Religious Men above his NobleMen.
The Dinner lafted five Hours, and the Tablcs being taken away, we came inno the middie of the Room, and revercnced the Emperour, who delivered to cvery onc of us with hisown Handsa Cip of Mcad, and ga:c us leave \(\underbrace{155 \%}\) to depart. He. fent to our Lodging the fame Etèning, three Barrels of Mcad of feveral forts, in all abour a Hozhead.
The a th of Seprember the Empcrour fent toorr Lodging for every ons of ws a Tarrar Herfe; the Strects of Mefon being very ditty in the Sumtner.
The 18 th he fent ns furred Gowns of branched Ve!ret and Gold, and fome of red Lamask; that of Doctor Scatudifl, our Phyfician was furred with Sables; and the rett with white krmin, and furne with giey Squirrel. and all faced and cuged round about with black Bca\(\stackrel{c}{\text { ier. }}\)
The foth of OCtaber the Emperoun gave Dr. Siminif) Dr.thylick, \(7 \circ\) Rubles in Monsy, and to the reft of \(A\) Rubis : us that werc Mcn of Occupations, thirty Rubles a wormatices. piece.
stallope
Every ycar upon Twelfun Day, they hollow the River Stcilck milow Mofsun, which runs thro the City, after this maniver, ing of tex They make ahole in the Ice three Fathom fquare; the fides whereof are trimmed with white Boards; then at ar nine in the Morning they come out of the Church in Procetion as followerh Fiff, young Men with Wax Tapers burning; then follow Banners, the Crofs, Images of our Lady, Sc. Nictolus, and orher Saints; then abour 100 Pricfts; then the Metropolitan led berween rwo Pricfs, and afier him the Empcrour with his Crown upon his. Head, attended by his Nobility. When they came to the Holc; the Pricfts fate themfelves in order atour it: On onc fide of the Holc was a Scaffold, with a Chair in which: the Merropolitan fate, bur the Empcrour ftood upon the Ice; then the Priefts began to fing their Scrice and bleffed the Warer, which doue, the Metropolitan took a litcle in his \(H\) Hads and caftit up nothe Emperous and his Nobles, and then itheytecumed to the Church wath the Priefs. When the Emperour was gone, there was 2 grear Crowd, for there came aboye sooo Pots to be filh Icd with that Water, a Mrficritte thinking hinifelf unlappy if ne lath not fonne of this Watcr. Many went naked into the Water, Men, Women and Children, divers fick Pcople were thrown in, and plucked our quickly, and when the Crowd was gone, the Emperour's beft Horfes were brought to drink of the fame Warer, and many other Men brought their Hoffes to drink, and by thar means make their Hories as holy as themiclves.
The Ruffes begin thicir Lerr cighr Wecks before Eafter; Thas Lam the frift Week they cat Eggs, Milk, Checfe, Butter, Pincikes, and fech things, vifiting one anothet, and from that Sunday untilour Shoci-Sunday, there are but few RuIfr fober, and ir is accounted no reproath amons hem.
The next Week being our firt Weck of Lent, they кecp a great Fuaf, and the People are perfwaded that the Mictropolitan neithereats nor drinls any thimg for the Space of feven Days, and they fay wexe are many Religimes Men which do the like.
The Emperour ears bur one Morfel of Broad and drinks bur one draught of Drink in a day daring, that Week, and none of reputation come our of their Honses in that time, fo that the Strees are void of company, except 2 ew poor People: Theorher fix Weeks they kecpas wedo ours, butnor one of chem will eat either butter, Cheef, ours, butnot on ERes or Milk.
\({ }^{\circ} \mathrm{On}_{n}\) Palm-Sumhy they have a Solcmn Proceffion in chis manner.
Firft, there is a Horfe covered with white Lincen down tothe Ground, his Ears being made long with the fame Cloch like to affos Ears. Upon this Horfe the Metropolitan fits on onc fide like a Woman; In his Lap lics a fair Book with a golden Crucifix upon the Cover, which he hold:th faft with his Lefr-hand, and in his Right-hand he hath a Crols of Gold, "wherewith he blefficth the People às he rides.
There are ahour 30 Men who fpread their Garmeres before the Horle, and as foon as the Horfe is pait oucr any of them, they take chem up and run before and pread them again, to that the Horfe alwars' gocs on Come of them. They which Ppread the Garments are all Priefts Sons, and for their labour the Emperour gives chem new ones.
A Nobleman leads the Horfe by the Head; but the Emperour himfelf going on foor, leads the Horieby the \(\pi\) oin Enyc. Reins of his Bride, holding a Branch of a Palm-Trec in Mertepoofic his orher Hand: Then followed the Nobility and Ger-untit trifi ry, and a grear number of People. In this crder they in frocetia went to Church, and then the Emperor:and fome of the Nobility dincd at the Mctrofolitan's Houfe.

The reft of this Week until Eafter Dary, they kept very folemniy, continuing in their Houlces for the moft part, and upron Morid.ry or Thurfiay, the Emperour always reccives the Saurament, and fo do moft of his Nobles Upon Good Friday they concinue all the Day in Contemplation and Prayers, and they ufe to let loofe a Prifoner inftead of Barrains. The Night following they go to the Church, where they ilecp until che nexr Morning. They have A Cuftom to colour Eggs red, of which every Man and Woman gives one to the Prict of their Parifh upon Eaffe-Dry in the Morning; and they carry fuch Erge in cheirthandson thar day and threc or four days aticr. They wie is they fay as a Token of cheirmanimons foy ior the Returtection ; for when wo Fricnds meet in the Holydays, they take one another by the ingers, It in foof firuct, and thenthey kifs and cxchange their Eges, borh Men and Women, continuing in killing four Days togecher. The Emperour hears all Complaints himfelf, and giver Sentence with expedition, but refers Relipious Martersto the Metropolitan.
They have Monks, Fryers, and Nuns in many great Thentio and rich Monafteries, who kecp great Hofpitality, and ring their liycs, as is reporred, bur they may car Fifinevery day. Many of thefe Monks are great Merchants, and have Boats which traffick in the Rivers from place ro place.
They bave no Preachers, whereby they live in grofs Igrorance and Idolatry: The Prictts are married and wear the fame Garments with other Men : Their Crowns anced are maven, the reft of the Hair hanging over their WexT. Shoulders: They never thare their Beards. If a Prieft's Wife dic, it is not lawful for him to mant again.
At the Communion the Priefts breaks the Bread, and cosemion: perts it into the Winc, and rakes it out rogether with 2 spoon.
Their Churches are full of Images, urto which the Peopic borr, and knock their Heads againft the Growni before them, that fome will have large Kunbs on their Forelicads. Their Service is in the Ruffem Linguage, but few of the common People undertand one hatiof what is read in their Churches.
When a Child is boin, it is nor baprized intil the nes:sumday, and then they may take as many Godfathers and Godifothers asthey will, who fettle themfelves about a Table in the Church, whercon ftands an Eartien Por fall of warm Water, ciery one holding a fmali Wax Candle burning; then they repeat certain Words affer the Prief, smoig which is, that the Child mall forfake the Devil, at which Words they all rpit: Then fie bleffes the Watcr in the Poc, and breathsorerit, and taking all the Candles which the Goffipshave, holds them all in one Hand, and lets part of them drop into the Warce, and then gives every one his Candle apain: After the Water is thus fanctified, he holds the Child in a fmall Tub, and one of the Godfathers tates the Pot with warm Water, and pours it all uponthe Child's Head.
Then follow many more. Ceremonies, as anointing the Childs Ears and Eyes with Spittle, and making Croffes with Oyl upon his Back, Head and Breaft : Thein the Prieftraking the Child in his Amms, carries it to the Images of Sc. Nictrols and our Lady, Éc. and \{peaking to the lmages, defires them to take charge of the Chiid that he may live, and believe as a Chriftian ought to do, Ecc. Then clipping off fome of the Childs Hzir, he delivers the Child to the Godfathers and Godmothers, one of whominangs 2 Crofs about the Child's Neck, which he moft always wear, for thar \(R u f_{\mathrm{E}}\) who has not 2 Crols \(2-\) boor his Neck, they eftem no. Chriftian.

Their Matrimony is performed inf this mannert: marrimous The Man fends to the Woman a fmall Box, wherein is a Whipr, Necdles, Thread, Silk, Linnen Cloth, Sciffars, Toc. as alfo fome Railins, Figs, E'c. to let her know that if the offend the muit be punifhed, but if he do well, no good thing Mall be withheld from her; and the rendsto hima Shirt, Handkcrchicfs, Gor of her own making. When the day of Marriage is come, the Bride xefints and ftrives wichithoferhar would have her our of the Houic, and pretends to weep; yet in the end two Wonet get her out and lead her tothe Church, her Eace covered, that her Diffimutition may not be perccived, becaufe ihe makes a great noife as if the were fobbing and wecping, until the conse at the Church, and then ber Face is uncovered : Thencometh the Man accompanied with his Friends, who bring with chem a Por of Wine or Mead: Then the Priett joins them rogether, much after our Order, they promifing to lore and ferve cach cther duting chelr lives; shich done, the Woman drinks to the Man, and when he hath drank, he letsthe Cup fall to the Ground, hafting to tread upon it, and fo doch file, and which of them trcads firf upon ir, they think wifi have the Vigory, and he Mafter ar all times after, which for the moft part happens to be the Man, becaufe he lers is fall himielf, and fo is moft ready to fet his Foor uponit: Then they go home, the Weman's Faccunco:exed, the Boys in the Strcers following them and tutrering immodett Words. When ticty come home, the Wife is fet at the upper end of the Table, and the Hufbant next toher; then they drink till thicy be all drunk, and fometimeshave a Filler or two, and awo Men who led the Brice from Church, dance naked aiong time before the Company: When they are weary of drinking they go to bed, and the Bridegroom puts fome Money into one of lis Boots, which the muft pull off, and if hhe happen on the Boot where the Moncy is the hathit forher pains, and is excufed from pulling off his boots for alltime to come; bur if the mifs the Boot where the Money is, the is bound from that day forward to pull off his Bonts continutilly.
They marty yery young, the Sons at 16 or 18, and he Daugirers ac 12 or 13 . Mcn of credic keep their Wives icry clofe, fo that they are rarelyfeen, but when rhey go to Church at Chijitmas or Enfer, or to vifit fome of their Friends.
Moft part of the Women ride aftride ind Saddles with Stirreps as Men do. Painting their Faces is counred no fhame among them, and they colour thcir Ese-brows as black as jett.

Whenany nodies; they fretch him out, and pur a muin new pair of Shoes on his Feetr, then wind him in a Sheet, and the Pricft puts a Cerrificate invo his Righr-band, to affure St: Niclolar tha: the party dieda Ehriffian; bur chore who are hanged or behcaded, hate no tech Teftimonual wich \(t \mathrm{~cm}\), Many poor Pcople among them perin for wint of Bred made Food; fome are forced to cry Straw ?nd Srampit, and of Sxam eat it inftead of Bread; Intic Sumner thicy make. good thift with Grafs, Hert)s and Roors, Bark of Trees is good Meat with them arall times;. No. People in the World live more miferable than the Poor in thofe Parts; moft of thole who have fufficient for themlelyes and other, are To unnerciful, that the; care not how many they fee dis of. Hunger in the Strects.
The Country is fubject ronian Difeares; and chey hold so the beft Remedy is, to go ofieninito the Sroves or Baths, and almoft every Man hath one of his own, which he hear commonly twice a Week, and all the Hounhold fweat and wath themfelves therein.

\section*{Citar III.}

\section*{The feveral Voyages of Mr. Anthony Jenkinfon, the frit mobereof was in the Primrofe, with the Ambaffador Olep Napea, in the year 1557.}

*MR Fenkinfor, Commander of the Prinnrfe, having fee the Embathador aftore ar the Bay of St.Niciclofe, 12 3ul) 1557 ,2s was faid inthe laft Cbapter, he ranried chere till the faid four Ships were difcharged and laden ageip, which de parted for Engh Lnd the tirft of Avouff.
Hc arrived at Mofeo che 6th of December, and on the 2 2sthdined with the Emperour: The Enterainment was very fpitendid, bur being defribed already in the laft Chapter, I fall not repeat it here.
The City of Mofco, be f2ys, is grear, the Houres for the moft partof Wood, and fome on Srone, with Windopys of Iron, which ferve for Sumititie. There are mat ny fair Churches of Srone, but more of Wood, which are made bor in Winter. The Emperour's P2 lice is in a fair large Cafte firuate upon aHitil, \(x\) wo Miles aboui; and the River on the Souib-weft fide of it; It hath 16 Gates in the Walls, and as many Bulwarks.
Thie Councry is fullof moriih Ground, and plain, a bounding with Woods and Rivers, and prodices greas plepry of Corn They bave many Lorts of. Mear and Drink whenthey Banquet, and delight in exiing of grols Mears and finking Filh: Before they drink they ufe to blow in the Cup, and their greateft Fricndidhip is in drinking. They are grear Takers and Lyars, without any Faith or Truft in their Words. Flaceerers and Dif femblers.
In every good Town there isa Tavern, called a Curfe \(m a 7\), which the Emperour fometimesters ourt to Farm, and Sometimes beflows for 2 Year or two an fome Duke or Gentlemanh in recompence of his Service; and during thas rime he is Lord of all che Town,tobbing and fpoiling, and doing what he pleafes, and when he is grown rich, che Emperourremoves him, and fends him to the Wars again.

Inche \(W_{\text {inter they }}\) travel upon. Sleds the Way being tard and fmooth with Snow, and the Waxers and Rivers all frozen; and one Horfe wirh a Sled will draw a Man uponit 400 Miles in three Days; but in Summer the Ways are decp wirth Mirs, and travelling is very ill.
A Ru/fe, if he be a Man of Ability, never goes out of his Houre in Winter, bur upon his Sled, and in Summer uponhis Horfe: In his Sled he firs upon a Carper, or 2 white Bears Skin. The Sled is drawn. with a Horfe decked wirt Foxes and Wolves Tails abour his Neck, and is guided by a litrle Boy on his Back: His Servants fand ufon che Tail of the Sled.

\section*{Mr. Anthony Jenkinfon's Voyage from Mofco to the City of Boghar in Ba&ria, Anno \(155^{8}\).}

T[HE 23d of Aprit, 1558 (having obcained the Emperor of Rufia's Letters to divers Kings and Princes through whole Dominions I flould pars) I departed from Mrffo by Water, having with me twn Scrvants, Richard and Rdert Fobmfon, and a Tarsarien Int'rterprecter, with feveral parcels of Warcs.
On the y uth day of \(M\) ge we came to 2 fair Town and Caftle, fruate at the falling of the River Ocea into the River Voiza, called Nife Norogrod, where we taricut till the nineteenth, for the coming of 2 Caprain, who was fent by the Emperour to rule at Affracan, who bcing arrived, and haring soo grear. Boats under his Conduct, with Viatuals, Soldiers, Mrnition and Merchandife. we departed all together rhe gid igth day, and cn che 2gth day came to \(\mathrm{C}_{\epsilon}\) enn, formerly 2 City of grat wealth, where we tarried till uis 1 nth of Junce, and the nexr day parfed by a goodly River, called Caman, on our Lcf-hand, and all the Coun- Therimene try from thence to \(A f\) fracin, and from thence on the \({ }^{\text {ce }}\) North fideof thc Ca/pian Sea, to 2 land of the Traters, called Tirkmen, is called Mangar or Nagno, whore Fnhr while. I was at Aftracan ) by Wars among therafelves. accompanied with Famin and Pettilence, to that the faid Counntry is now defolate, to the great content of the Rufers who have had cruclWars with chem for a long cime. Thefe Nagayan, when they flourithed, were divideci into Companies called Hords, every Hord having a Rule, whom they obeyed as their King, and was called 2 Murfe. Harb. They bad no Towns or Houfes, but lived in the opcn Fields crery Murfe having his Hord abour him, with. their Wives, Childrem, and Carte, wha when chey had confumed the Pafture in one place, removed to another; and when they remore, they bave Houfes like Tens fet upon WagonsorCartes, which are drawn from place to place with Camels, and therein their Wives, Children and all their Wealth, which is very litele, is carried \(2-\) bour, and crery: Nan hach at leaft foar or five Wives, befides Concubines. Ufe of Moncy they have none, bur barter their Cancle for Apparcl and other Niccelfarics. They delighr in no Ait or Scieace, cxccepe. is be that of War, whercin they are cxpert, but for che moft part chey are patturing People, and their Riches.confifts in Cattle They car much Flech, efpecially the Horfe, and drink Mares Milk, wherewith they are ofreon drunk Corn they fow nor, nejithcr do chey cat any Bread, mocking the Cluriftians for the fame, laying that, we difible our Strength, by cating bee top of a Weed, and drinking. a Drink made of the fame, and impure cheirown Strengh mo their grcardecoouring of Fleth and drinksing of M Mill Bur to procecd on my . Journey
All the Country on the Righr-hand of the River Votgn, from quer againft the Riven Cama uneo the Gity of Afracan, is the Land of Crim, whofe linhakionass, ate alfo Adalionctans, and live.for the mooft part like to the Noggrans, having condinual Wars widhthe Rufficms: Thes are valiant in the Field, and are fupported by; the Turk.
The 28th we came to a grear Hill, being the juft mid-way between Cajan and affracant, which is about 200 Leagues.; it is: in the Latiunde. of 51 Degreex 47 Minates.
The fourtocnth of \(\mathcal{F} u\) ly we arrived ar Affracin; conquered by this Emperour of Rufia. fic: Ycars patt; 1552 : it is.fiom Mofoto Aftracan 600 L caryes The Town is fiume uron an Illand on the fide of an Hill, having a Caifle within the fame, walled. about with Earth: and Tumber. The Town is alfo walled abour wint Earnh the Houres for the moft partane vecy mean. The Inand is deftitate of Wood and Pafture, and the:Ground will bear no Corn.
The Air is infocted by reafon of much Fin, cipecially Sturgcon, which is the chief Fobd of the Inhabitancs, ssur a \(x\) Flefhand Bread bcing very fcarce. They hang up their Fith in the Strects and Houfes to dry for their Provifion, which caufes fuch abundance of Flics, as the like was never feen in any Land.
There wasa great Famin and Plague whileI was chere, crpecially among the Naginan Tarters; who come thither frmine in grear numbersso feek for Succour from the Ruffitus, rleren their ancient Encmics; bur they werc butill crrertained, 2 great number of them dying for hunger, and lay dead in heaps all over the INand, very pitiful ro behold. Many of them were fold by the Reffes; I could have boughr xooo Tartar Children of cheir own Parents, a Boy or a Girl, for a Loaf of Bread not worth above fix. pencc in England. England.
Afiacem is the furthert Hold that the Ruffians have takken from the Tertars towardsthe Ceffien Sca: The Trade there is but fmall and beggerly, altho' there come Merchants from divers places: The Ruffes bring red Hydes, red Shecp-Skins, Veffels of Wood, Bridles and Sadules, Viank other Trifles, allo Corn, Bacon, and other and wrought Silks: The Porfinns from Shermaki bring coarfe Sowing Silk, Craft-Girdles, Shirts of Mail, Pows, Swords, and fuch like things, and fome Xear Cornand Walmus, bur all things infuch fmall quantity, that there is no bope of any Trade in thofe parts worsh following:

The litand is 12 I cagues long and threc broant, and lics Eatt and Victt, in Latitude 47 Dcg . 9 Min . Wc tarticd there till the fixth day of Auguft, and having bougles and provided a Boas, in company wich certain Forios and Pcefline, we laded our Goods and embarked our felser, and thefuneday deparred; my lelt. and the rwo fol fors hating the whols clarge of the Navigation down the River fóst, bsing yery crooked and full of Flats near the Mouth thereof. Wic entred the Cajbien the 1 ochof \(A\) uguf, bcing 20 Leagocs from Altracan, in I.at, 46 Des .27 Min . And on the 19 ch , being at 2 n Anchor rncara River called? 7 aic, and allour Men athoat (excepeny folt then very fick, and five Trirfais, whereof one was reputed a Holy Man, becaufe he came from Metci ) there came unto us a Fioat with 30 Mcn , weill armed, who hoarding us, besan to cotcr into our Bark, which our holy Thrtar, named hoy, perceiving, asked them what they would have, and withal made a Prajer; whercupon the Rovers ftaid, declaring that they were Gendemen barifhed from their Councry, and in great want, and same to fec if there were any Ruffes or other Chrittiansin our Bark. . Aizy anfwered them refolurely, that there were nnne, avowing the fame by grat Oaths of their Law (which lighty they will nor break) whom the Rovers helicycd, andupon his Words departed; and Sothro' the fidelity of this Tirtar, 1 with all my Compaar and Goods ivere fared, and our Men being come aheard, we deprarted, ftecring Eaft South Eaft, and on the afth there arofe fucha Srorm, that we thought verily we flould have perifhed: Is continued three days, and put us from the porr we deligned, and forced us to anchor in a bad Haven, and fendingfome of our Men on Land to calk with the Governour and Pcople, for Provifion of Camels to carry our Goods from the Sca-fide to 2 place calld Scllyix.c, which is 25 days journcy, our Mefine gersceurned with comfortable Words, and fair Pro mifes of all things.
Wherefore the chird of Scprember 1558 , we difcharged ourbark, and I with my Company were civilly enterranced by the Prince and Pcople ; bur before our deparrure we found them to be a yery bad and brutithPcople for chey ceafed nor daily to molet us, cither by tighting, Atcaling or'begsing, raifing the Pricc of Horfes, Camels, and Victuals, double twhar ir was wons to bc, and forced us to buy the Water that ive drank, which made is to liaftenaway, and to conclurde with them for the hire of Camels, Efc. according to thlicir own demand; fo chat for every Camels load, being but 400 weight of ours, we 3 greed to give three Hides of Rufin, and four wooden Dilthes, and to the Prince or Govcrnour, one ninch and two fevenths, that is to Cay, nine fercral things, and twice feven feveral chings; for Money they ufe nonc.
And thus being rcady the 14 of Scprember, we departed, being a Caravan of a choufand Camels; and having xavelled fire days journcy, we came to another Prince: Dominion, and upon the way were met by ceraijin Tarters on Horfeback, well armed, and Scrvanss to Timor Sultan, Govcrmourof the Country of Mangy //arce, where we meant ro bave arrived anddifcharged our Bark, if the Srom had nor difappointed us. Thefe Tartars ftaycd our Carasanin the rame of their Prince, and opening our Wares, rook fuch things as they liked beet, for their Prince, withour Money. They took from me a ninth, whereupon, after much contention, I rode upto the Prince, and prefented my felf before him, requeftinghis Farour and Pafport to travel thro his Country, and not to be robbed and froiled by his People. He granted mi Requef cintertaining me very civilly, and commanded me ro be well feafed with Fich and Mares Milk, for Briad they have none, nor other Drink except Water; Burhe had no Money to give mefor fuch things as hetook of me, which were worth akour is Rubbles, however he gave me his Letter, and a Horfe worthabout feven Rubbles, and fol departed from him, glad when 1 uas gone, for he was reported to be a very Tyrant, and if Ihad nor gone to him, I underftood his Commandment was, thac I thould be robbed and deftroyed.
This Sultan lived in the Fields, withour Caftle or Town, and fate in 2 little round Houfe made of Recds, and corered with Felt withone, and with Carpers within. There was with him the grear Metropolitan of thar wild Country, ctteemed by the Pcople as mich as the Biflop. of Rome is in mioit parts of Eurofe, with maoy more of his chicf Men. The Spiran and he demandcd of me many Quections of ourKitydons, Laws, and Religion. as allo the canfe of my coming into thofe parts. To mhomlanfivecias tome fermed beft, which they tonk i:1 pond part.
So Ideparted and overrook cur Caravan; we travelled twene taja 20 days in the D. Lirss, funn the Sca-fide. withour fecing furneg th Townor any Habitation, carrung our Victuals with os the ereftr, ret were nereffirated to car one of my Camels and a -Iorfe for our part, as ochers die the like; and during the aid 20 diys we found no Water, bue finch as we drew ons of old decp Wells, very brackilh, yer patfed fonetimes wo or three days without is. And the tifth of October we came to a Gulph of the riefpisu Sca again. Herethe Cuftomers of the King of Turimen mer us who took Cuftom, of cvery 2 ; wor, and fercn ninths for the faid ing and his Brethren
Having refrelhed on felves, we departed the next ary, andonthe ferenth arrived at a Cafte called Sclliatrc, wherethe Kint, called inim Con, jefided, with hree of his Brethren, and on the ninth day I was commanded socome betore him, to whom I delivered the. Emperor of Rufla's lecters, and gave him allo a Preent of a Nuth, whereupon he enteatained me very well, and caufed me to eat in his Prefonce as his Brethcindid, feafting me with Flech of a wild Horfe, and Mares Milk, withour Bread. And the next day he fent ormeagain, and asked me divers Queltions about the Affiiss of che Emperour of Ruffic, as alfo concerning our Comntry andl aws, and as my departure, gave me his anters of fatic Conduct
The \(14^{\text {th }}\) we deparred from Scllizure, and on the Gith arrived at a Ciry called Cericher, where we payed Curflom as woll for our own Hicadi as for our Camels and? Horfes; and having there fojourned one Month, the King called slly Sutte", Binther to the forenamed Aiom Can, returned fiom a Town called Corefen, within the Borders of Perfia, wieh he hat lately conquered from the lecrfirms, with whom he and the reft of the Kings of Therreric have coutinual Wars. Being commanded to ome beforchim, 1 prefented the Einpe:our of Rufin's letcers, and afterasking me divers Queftions, he gave me his Letrers of fafe Conduct.
Crgence ftands on a plain Ground, with Walls of Earth. by climation four Milcs atout; the Buildings arealio of Earth. Ir hath onc long Screct, covered above, which is the place of their Market. It hath been won and lof four dimes within feven Years, by Civil Wars, by mears whercof there are but fow Mierchants init ant hey are very poor, fo that in all that Town Icould nar ch alove four Kerfics. All the Country from the Cafpion Sca to Z'rgence is called Tminnen, fubjert to the faid Arim Can, and his fiye Brethern. The chief of them is calle Can, but is litde obeyed exicpt in his own Dominion ; for crery one will be King of his own Portion, and one Brother is perpectually fecking to deftroy anodier; for being begotecn of divers Women, they have so natural Affeetion, atd as: commonly the Children of Slares, either Chriitians or Gentiles, whom the Father kecps as Concubines, and crery Cent or Sultent hath four or five Wives, befiles young Maidsand Boys; and when there are Wars betwen the brethen (as they are feldom withoms) Ife thas is sanquithed fies ro forne watering plaecs in thic Deliars, with fuch Company as will follow him, and chere lives by robbing and froiling as many Caravans of Mcrchants and oriers, as heis able to overcome, uncillie be in a capacity of invading fome of his Brethrenagain. From the Cifpitn unto the Caftle of Sollizurs, and in all the Countrics about the faid Sea, Pcople livein the open Fields, removing from one place co anocher ingreat Compainics, with their Cartie, whercof they hayc ftore, as Camels, Horfes, and Shecp, both. came and wild. Their Sheepare of great ftature, with Buttocks weikhing 600080 Pound.
There are many wild Horles killed by the Tartars, wild horke. with cheititlawks, who are saughe to ficze apon the Horle's Head or Neck, till the Hunter can come up with him and kill him with an Arrow or Sword. In at this Land there grows no Grafs, but a certain Brufi of Heath, whercon the Cattic fecding, become yery fat.

The Tirtars are good Archicrs, and never ride without their Bow, Armers, and Sword. They are great Devourers of Flem, which they cut in imall pieces, and eat ir greedily by bandtuls, efpecially Horfe. Fleth.
C.sce

The

\section*{518 Mr. An. Jenkinfon's Voyage from Mofco to Boghar. Lib. IV.}

The 26 th of November, We departed from Vrgence, and the fevench of December arrived at a Cattic called Keir, fubject io a Sultan called Siramer, who defigned to rob all the Chriftians in the Caravan, had is not been for für ef his Broilherthe King of Urgence, as we were informad by ons of his chicf Counfellors, who willed us to make him a Prefent, which we did, and befides for Cultom, one red Hyde of R:Jfin for cyery Camel, and Tome petty Gifts to his Oflicers.

Thus procecding on our Journif, the tenth of Dccomuer at Nighr being at reft, and our Watch fer, there canc to us four Horfomen, whom we taking as fipics, difarmed and bound chem; upoin Examimation they confelfed, that they had feen the Tract of many Horiemen and no forting' of Canacls, and affured us that there were Roversand Thicves abroad, lecaufe few Pcople travel in that Conntry, but in company of Caravans, where are, many Camels; and the print of Horfes Fect newly made, withour Camels Fect, was to be fufpected: Whercupon we confeled, and fent a Poft to the faid Su't.an of Nait, who inmediately came himfelf with 300 Men , and cxamined thefe four fufpected Men ro Atrich, uling many Threass, that they ar laft confeffed, there was a banilhid Prince with forty Men three days journcy frrward, who lay in wait to deftroy us, and char ther themfives were of his Company.
The Sut:n thereupon appointed a Captain with So weli armed Micn to conduct us; the Suifen himfelf retumed tack a amin, taking the four Thicres with him. Thie Souldiers travclled with us two days, condiming mich of our Victuals, and the third day very carly in the Morning, they fet out before our Caravan, and rangieg: he Defert for the face of four Hours, they came toward's us as fiat as their Hortes could run, telling us they had tound the Tract of Horfes notfarfrom us, and thercione wilied us to make ready to receive our Encmies, and asked us what we would give them to condact its further, or elfe the; would rexurn. We offered as we thoughe good, bur they refusid our Offer, and would have more, and fo not agre-ing they departed from us, and rerumed to their Sulsan, who (as we conjestured) was Privy to che Confpiracy.
The Tr-arts
As fron as they were gonc, ecrrain Tarfars of our Company, called lioly Micn, becaure they had been at Merci, canted the whole Caravan to itay, and would make their Prayers, and divine whether we should meet with any ili Company or no, to which our whole Caravan did agrec: Then they killed rome Sheep and firt rod the Blade-tones of them, and then bums them, and minging the Shecps Blood with the Powder of the faid Boncs, they wrote certain Characters wish ir; uting many other Cexemonies and Words, and by the fanc divincd and found, that we fhould nincer with Enemies and Theves to our great trouisle, but hould overcome :hern : I and iny Compamy seyc litale credicto their Sorecry, bue we found it true for winhia three Hours. after the Departure of the Sol diers, we deteried far off divers Horifemen making to wardsus, whercupon we gathered our felves together, being to of us, well appoincel and able to fight, and then goins to Prayets, eycry one after his Law, we profefied to live and die together. The Robbers were 37, well armed with Bows, Arrows and Swords, and the Capeain a Prixec banihe! from his Country. They callow us to yinld our felves, or clee so be dain; bur we defyed thear, whercupon they thot at usall at once, and weat then very toot:, and 10 concinusd fighting from Notaing smil two Hours within Night, divers Men Horics and Camols beins wounded and Rain on both Gudes, and had ir nor becis for forritland Guns, which I and my Companyufal, we had been overcome and defleyect, the kobbers being beter armed, and alfo better Archers thanwe: Bur after we had flain divers of their itinn and Korfes with our Gans, they durit noe approne: boiar, but came to a cruce with us till next Aonnas. We cifampod our felves upon a Hill, encloing rer Camp with Packs of Wares, and placing Jur thoriss and Canch within the fame, ro fave them from the Emenics Arrows : The Rabbers alfo coramped whinan Axrow thot of us, bur they were betwixt us hi.nibe Water, to our great difconfort, boave ncither we nar our Camels had drank in two days before.
Thus teeping a good Watch, when half the Night was foenr, the Caprain of the Robbers fent a Melfenger half way to us requiring to talk with our Caprain, when they call the Caiavin Daflia, who anfwered the Mefenger, I will not depart from my Company to go into the half way to taik with chec, but if thy Prince with all hisCompany will hwear by our Law to keep che Truce, then will I fend a Man to talk with thee, or clfe not. Which the Prince underttanding, he and his Compuny fwore fo loud, that wenight all' hear, and then we ent one of our Company, reputed aHoly Man, to talk with the fame Meffenger. The Meflage was pronounced aloud thus, Our Princedemandetb of the Caravan Balla, and all of you sthat be Bulfarmans (chat in so fay Circum, cifcti) no defirint your Blood, that you deliver into hos Fiands ay many Caphass, that \(\dot{n}\), t'inbelicvers ( meaning us tie Chriftians) as are among you, with their Coods, and in So doing, be will Suffer you to deparf mith your Gcods in quicrnefs, otlicrwife, you farll be bandled with no lecs cruclty than the Caphars, if lieovercome your, at be doidecrb nor. To which our Caravan Bafba anfwercd, Thar he had no Chriftians in his Company, norother Strangers, but rwo Tarks which were of chcir Law, and altho' he had, he would rathicr die than deliver them, and that we were not afraid of his Threatnings, and that he flould know when Day appeared. The Robbers in the mean time, contrary to their Oath, carricd away our Holy Man to their Prince, crying with a loud Voice in token of Victory, ollo, ollc, which much difcouraged us, fearing that the Holy Man would herray ns, but he tho' trietly examined and cruclly handed, would nos confefs any thing that might be prejudicial to us, ner ret what Men of ours were dain and wounded the day be forc. Day afpraxing, we prepared our felves to Batle again, which they perceiting, required to come to an agrecment with us,demanding muchof us, and moft of oum Company being unwilling to hazard another Partle; they having but little to loofe, and a fafe Conduct to pafs, we twere orced to agrec, and to give the Robbers 20 Ninths, that is oray, twenty cimes nine feveral things, and aCamel to car\(y\) away the fame, which being received, they left us, and we went forward, and that Night came to the Ricroxus, where we refrefhed our felves, baving been chrecdays without Water, and tarried there all the nex day, making merry with our dain Horles and Camels and left we hould meet any more of chat Gang, we left the High-way by the River fide, and went chro a fandy Defert, where we were four Days before we came to Water, and then came ro 2 Well, the Water whereof was yery brackih, and we were then in great need of Water and Victuals, being forced to kill our Horfes and Camels no eat.

Here we were in danger of falling again into the Hands of Rabbers ; for one Night being at relt there came cerrain Scouts, and carried away fome of our Men which lay at a fiftle diftance from the Caravan, wherewich there was a'great Shout and Cry. We thercupon immediately led our Camcls and departed, being about midnighe and rery dask, and drove hard till we came to the River Oxzrs again, and chen feared nothing, being defended by the faid River; and whether it was char we had gotten the Warer, or that the Rogues were far from us when the Scours difcoverest os, we know not, bur we elcaped that Danger Uponthe 23dof December we anived ar the City of Boghar in Baitria. The City is very great, the Houfes for the moft part of Eath, tho there are alfo many Houfes, Temples, and Monuments of Stone famptrouly built andgnilded, efpecially Eatb Stooes, to amificially built, that the like is not in the World.

There is a listle River running thro' the middle of the prore City, but the Water thercof is very unwholfome, brouizg breeding a Worm of an Ell long in the Legs of fome br that drink it, cipecially Surangers; it lies berween the Flefh and Skin, and is pluckr our abour the Ankle rith great skill; every day about an Inch, which is solled up, and if it break in pulling out, the Party dics: And. yer is ischere forbideden to drink any thing bur Water or Mages Milk, and whofoerer is found ra break that Law, is cruelly whipped through the open Markets; and there are Officers who have Aurbority to go into any Mars Houfe, and fearch if he have igan Virce, Win? &c. and if they find any, break the Veffels, froil the Driak, and feverely punith the Mafter of the Houfe; and many simes if chey perceive by the Breattr of a Man, char' he hath drank any fuch Liquor, he Jhall be punifhed withour further Examination.
There is a Metropolitan in Bogharr; who caufes this Law to befofridtly kept: He is more obeycd than the King, and will depore the King, and fubstivase another at his pleafure, as he did by the laft King, whom he betrayed, and in the Night killed biminhis Chamber: He was a Prince thar loved \(1 l l\) Chriftians well.
This Councry was herezofore fubjeat to the Perfons; whofeL anguage they now f peak, bur is nowi a King it felf, and hath continual Wars with the Perfans aboutRcligion, altho" chey beall Mabomercns. One Occation of their Difcord is, becaufe the Perfians will not cut the Hair of their upper Lips, as the Boghariens and all other Tartars do, which they account great Sin, calling them Caplorrs, or Unbelievers, as they do the Chriftians.

Chap. III. Mr. An Jenkiafon's Voyage from Molco to Boghat. 519

The King hath no great'Power or Riches, his Revenues are but fmall, being chiefly maintained by the City taking the renth Penny of all things that are fold, as well by the Crafffitern as che Merchants, to the great impoverilhmene of rine Prople, whom he keeps in great dibjection, anhi whenhe lacks Money, he fends his Ofticers to the Shops of the Merchants, to take their Warss to pay his Debrs, as he did no pay me fome Moncy that he owed for 19 picces of Kerfey. Their Moncy is Silver and Copper, fre Gold they have none current: They have but onc piecs of Silver, worth twelve pence En?difh, and their Copper Pieces are called Pooles, whereot 120 are equal to one piece of twilve pence, and are more common in payment than the Silver, which the Kine raifesand fallsto his moft adransage every Month, and fonctimes twice a Month, not caring how much he oppreffes his People, becaufche cxpectstot in reign above two or three years, before he be cither Alain or expelled, to the grear Deftruction of the Country and Merchants.
The \(=\) Sth day of the Month I was commanded to come before the King, to whom I prefented the Rufiran Emperour's Letters: He entertained us verythivil!? cauling usto cat in hisPrefence, and often fent for me, and duicourfed familiarly with me in hisfecret Chamber, about the Dower of the Emperour and the Great Turk, as alfo of our Councry, Laws and skeligion, and made wis to thoot in Hand-guns before him, himeif alfo practifing upon the fame. But after all this great Encertainment, befure mydeparture, he hewed himfelf a very Thr:ar, for he went to che Wars owing me Moncy, and tho he gave order for my Payment, yet il was bur ith fatisfied, being forced to rebate part, and to take Wares in payment for the reft, contrary to my Expectation; but of a Beggar better Payment I could not Dave, and was glad no be fo paid and difpatched.
Borone thing I muft needs commend inthis barbarous King. which was, that as foon as he was informed of our trouble with the Robbers, he difparched roo Men well armed, with charge not to return before they had eithe: lainor raken chem, who acoording to their Commiffion, tanging the Defart, new part of chem, and four they took and bronght unto the King, two of whom had been fore wrourided by our Gans in the Skirmifh; and after the King had femtor meto come and fee them, he caufed them allf four to betanged at his Palace Gate, becaufe they were Gendemen, to the example of others; and of fuch Goods as were gorten again, I had part reftored to me, and this good Juftice I found ac his Hands.
There is yearly a great Refort of Merchants to this Ci ty, who travel in great Carcouns from India, Parfin, Balgh, Ruflia; &ec and herecoforc from Carbit, when there was paffige; but they zre fo beggerly and poor, and bring fo fmall quantity of Waras; lying two or thrice Years to fell the fame, thar there is no hope of any trade there wortif the following: The' chief Commoditics broughr thither areias followeth.
The Indians bring fine Whites, which whe:Tarta:s roll abour their Heads, and other kind of Whires made of Corton-wonI and Crafcr, which ferve for Apparcl, But Gold, Silver, precious Srones and Spices, they bring none. They carry back wrought Silk, red Hides, Slaves and Horics, Es. bat of Kcrfies and other Cloth they make but lictle accounn. I offered to barter Kerfies with fome Merchants that came from Bengala and the River Gam zes, but they would notbarterfor fach Commodity as Clorh
The Perfians bring Crafca, Woolen-Cloth, Linent Cloch, divers kinds of wrought Silts, Atgomacks, Éc. and do carry thence, red frides, other Refficro Wares, and Slaves of divers Coustries, but Clorh they would buy none, for they broughr it chither chemfetves, being fup plied with is, as 1 was informed, from Aleppo in 5 ria.
The Ruffes bring red Hides, Shecps Skins, Woolen Cloth, Wooden Veffels; Bridles, Saddles, Gc. and carry thence Wares made of Coiton-Wool, divers kinds of Silks, Crafca, &cc.
From Catbey wercbrought in time of Peace, when the From Catbry werebrought in time of Peace, when rhe
Ways were open, Musk, Rhubarb, Satxin, Damask, \(\mathcal{O}_{6}\)
During my ftay at Bogber, there came Caravans from all thefe Councrics, except from Catbay; and the Realon why none camerhence, was the Wars between the Cities of Taskent and Casker, directly in the Way terwist

Boghar and Cathay ; fo that for three Years before our being therc, no Caravan had gone between Bughar, and Ciarling, and when the Way is clear, it is nunc Months Jourrcy.
The cime of year being come for all Caravans to de fart, and the Kiny being gone to the Wian, and news carne that he masticd, 1 was adverized by the Metro politan himelfif to depart, becaufe the Town was like to betefieged. Ideternined firft to have fone thence into Perfit, and to haveleche the Trade of that Country but was diverted by the Wars naswiy begun Letween the Scply and the Kines of Tarsaria, which inauc che Hcad unfate; and theres was a Carazan chat came from frodin and perfin with fafe conduct, was robucd about cem dars journcy from Begian, and many of them diain. Alfo the Metrofolitanof Bryturt rook the Eimperour of Ruffia's Letters from me, without whech \(l\) thould have been taken Slave, in cvery place. And befides, all fuch Warcs as I was forced to taike of the King and his Nobles for payment of Cloch they had of me, worc nor vendible in Perfin; for which and divers other Reafons, I was conftraind to return to the Cafpian-Sea the fame way I came; fo that on the 8 ch of March, x 599 , we leftBor har, beinga Caravan of 600 Camels, and if we had nos departed when we did, I and my Company had been in danger to have loft Life and Goods; for ten days after ourdeparture, the King of Samarcand laid fiege to the Ciry, while the King was ablems, and gone to war againt another Prince "obo was his Kinfman.
The asth of Mach we came to the aforefaid Town of \(\tau_{i g}\) cnce, and clcaped che Danger of 400 Rovers, who lay in wait for es back again, molt of them being of Kizrdred to that Company of Robbers whom we merwith going ferth, as we perceived by four Spies whom we ronk. There were in my company, and committed to my hares, two Embaftadorsto the Emperour of Rulyr, one fom che King of Boghar, the obher from the King of Britg; and afrer we had rarried at Urgence and the Cafics of Seilifire cightr days for the affembling our Caravan, wedeparted the lecond of April, haring tour more Embalfadors in our Company, fent from the King of \(\tau_{r}\) gerac and his Bretfiren, unto the Emprour of Rufic wich Anfwers to fuch Letters as I brought them: and the fame Embafladors were alfo conmirted to my charge y the faid Princes, 50 whom I promifed faichfully, and fworc by our Law, thar they dhould be well afed in Ruffe, and permisted ro depart tulace again in fafery, as the Emperor allo had writen in his 1 etters. They werefomewhat fearful, becaufe none bad zone from Tarray to Ruffiain a long time before.
The 23 d of April we arxived againat the Ca/pian-Sea where we found the Bark we had lefr there, but neither Archor, Cable nor Sail, but having brought Hemp with us, we fpun a Cable our felvcs, with the reft of our Tackling, and making a Sail of. Cloth of CotronWool, we rigged our Bark as well as we could, burt Boar or Anchor we had nont. In the mean rime, while we were concriying to make an Anchor of a Cart Wheel, there axrived a Bark from Aftracan with Tartars and Ruff:, which had two Anchors, with whorn I agreed for one; and thus being in areadinels we fer fail, \(I\) and the two \(\mathcal{F o b n f o n s}\) being Mafter and Mariners, having in our Bark the faid fix Embaltadors, and 25 Ruf \(\int\) os, who had been a long time Slaves in Tarcert, nor cyer lad before my coming, Liberty or Means to gea home, and there Stavesferved to row when need was. Thus failing along the Coatt, and fometimes our of fight of Land, the 13 ith of May , having a contrary Wind, we came to an Auxchor chree Leagues from the Shore, and there arofe a Stom which continned 44 Hours, which brake our Cable, and being upon a Lec-hore, and no Boart to help us, we hoifed our Sail and ftood in swith the Shore, looking for prefent death; bur as God provided for \(\mathrm{ts}_{3}\), tre ran inro a Creek full of Oze, where we lived in grear fear for a cime; for if our Bark had periftrod, altho' we had craped with our Lives, yet we had citherbeen deftroyed or madeSlaves by the wild People of that Councry, wo live IikeBeats withourHabitation. The Storm be ing over, we went out of the Creek again, and taving ret rhe land wirh our Compafs, and raken Marks during the Tempef, while we rode as Anchor, we weens di- vers reis lof rectly with our Bark to the place where we rode, and Anctios: found our Anchor we had loft, the Taiferis much marvelling how wedidit. Two days afore, thère arole another Storm at North-caft, and v/c lay a cry, being driven far into the Sea, and bad much ado to keep our Bark from finking, the Billow was fo great ; but at laft having fair Weather, we fell in with the River Keik, ac cording to our defire, whereof the Tatars vere very glad, fearing ive fhould have been ditiven on the Coast of Perfia, then at wat with the Tartars.

\section*{520 Mr. An. Jenkinfon's Voyage from Mofco to Boghar. Lib. IV.}
On the 28th of May we arrived at Affracan, where we

The red Crofn fet up in the caf pion.sca.
cmained till the tenth of 7 ums , to provide Boats to go up againft the Scream of Volga with our Goods. Norc that in our Paffage over the Cofpias we for up the red Crofs of Sc . Gearge in our Flags, in honour of the Chriflians, which I fuppofe was never fecn in that Sca be ore.
The Crefpian is in length about 200 Leagues, and in Greadth 150 ; it hath on the Eaft, the grear Defart Counrry of the Tertars, called Turkmer, on the Weft the Councry of the Cbirkofos, the Mountains of Ciucafies, and the Euxine-Sea, diftant from the Cafpian 100 Lcagucs on the North is the Land of Niray, and the great Ri-- cr Voint, and on the South are Media and Perfit. The Warcr of this Sea is freth in many places, and in fome places as falt as the Ócean; alcho' many grear Rivers fall nito it, yet it hath no Our-let; unle's it be under ground The River Volga alone, by the Tartars called Edel, is one of the greatcit Rivers in the World; it arifes out of L Lake in a Marith nor farfrom Nromorode in Rufia, and is is from thence to the Cefpian-Sca, above two thoufand Englif Miles.
I caquired touching the Trade of Medici and Perfia, bordering on the Cefpicn, and find it much like the Trade of Tirtary. The few Ships upon the C.afpian, want of Port, Poverty of the Pcople, and the Ice, areHindrances to Trade.
Iofferedat Aftrasan to fome Mexchants of Sbamaky in Ardia, to barter Kerfies for their Wares, but they would nor, fayine, they had them as cheap in cheir Councry ail offered them, which was fix Rubbles for a Kerfy And while I was at Boghar, Cloth and ocher Commodicies of our Councry, were brought thither from Perfia, and fold as cheap as I could afford ours.
The 10th of fune we departed from Aftacan towards Aiofco, with 100 Gunners in our Company at the Emperour's Charges, for the fafe Condue of the Tartarian Embaltadors and \(m e\), and the 28 th of 7 fl , armived at the City of Cazan, without any refremment of Viturals in chat time, there being no Habitation in all thar way.

The 7th of Auzuft we left Canan; and came by Water to the City of Morum, from whence we tranfported our Goods by Land. On the fecond of Seprember we arrived at the Ciry" of Mofor, and fourdays after I kiffed his Majefties Hand, and prefented him a white Cows Tail of Carbay, and a Drum of Tertary, which he well accepted I then brought before him all the Embaffadors that wer commitited tomy charge, with che 25 Ruffian Slaves; and that day I dinedin his Majefties Prefence, who fent me Meat by a Duke, and asked me divers Quftions rouching the Countries where I had been.
On the 17 th of Fetruary I obrained leave from the Emperour to depart, and on the zrft came to Vologhda and there remained till the breaking up of the Year and then having feen all the Goods Iaden in Boars, I departed with the fame, and arived at Cotrnogro the grb of \(\mathrm{May}_{2} 1560\)

A Letter of Sigifmond King of Polonia, written in the 39th Year of bis Reign, to Elizabeth, the Queens most Excellent Majefty of England, ơc.

S\(\mathrm{S}^{\text {leifimund Auguftus, by the Grace of God King of Po }}\) lonia, Grect Dukeof Lituania, Ruffa, Prufta, Mar fovia, and Samogecian, UC. Lord and Heir, &zc. to the mol Noble Princef, Lady Elizabech by the fame Graze of God Quect of England, France, and Ireland, E̛c, ouir dear Sijter and Kin womin, geeting and increaf of all Fe-ceived two of otir Letrters, we bave booked that your fould intrented more ar large, in furbidding the Voyage to Narve; boleish if it hatio been donc, we bad been umburdened of \(f 0\) of ten writing of one Marter, and might bave engbered your Majefty much berter to the purpofs; Now we times anffoer to our Maichy so ibofe Matters of she whith you write to ut be shird of October, from Windfor. kirft, forafmuch our Majefty ar the Requeft of our Lecreers hath dijcharged she Arreft of Merchents Goods, and of she Niames of Men of Danske, our Subjects, which woas fos upcnthem by the Commendment of your Maicfy, and alfolsuoc refiored ghe old and ancient Liberty of Traffick, we asknowiedge great Plerfine done unfo us in she fame; and alfothink if so be done ac cording to common Agrecmentmade in simes pnft. Nieither were we cuer at anysime of any orther Opinion souching your Majefty, Gur shat we fhoutd obrain Right and Reafon as your Hand: Forafmuch os we likewife 乃all ar all times berendy so grant to jour Majcfin, making ang Requeft for your Sabjetts, o far as Sallftand with Fuftice, yer fo far are we from viclding to any thing so your Majefts in Looe, Bencoolence, and murual Office, shar we judge coerr good Turn of genrs to be recompenced by us to the utmeft, and shat fall we proit ascafion foall ferve, therefors we fhall copimand the Arrefts, if eny bemade by our Subjeds (ax it in unknown to ws) of Merchanrs Goods and Englifh Names; to be dif chargch, and Seall conferve the old Liberty of Traffick; and all otber things whicll Sall feem so appersain to Nefigh bourthood berween wo and yrur Majefty, procided thar"none of sbe Subjefts of your Majefty, berenfrer prefume to wfo the Nnvigation of the Nerve forbidden by us, and full of dam ger, not on'y to our Parts, but alfo so the open Defitustiom of all Clorifians and liberal Nations, which as we broe witi ren refore, fo now we write again to geur Majefty, that pe know and feel of a furesp, the Mufcovise, Encmy to all Liberty under the Heatens, daily to grow mighrier by the Increafe of fuch Things as be brought to she Narte, while not only. Wares, but alfo Wecapons beretofare unkmwn. to bim, and Artificers and Arts be brought wonto brm, b) menns whereof be makesh bimfelf ftrong to vanquifb all cthers; wbich Thiniss, as long as this Voyage ro Narve \(\overline{\text { a }}\) ufed, cannor be fiopped. And wee perfectly know your Majeft anmot be ignorant bow great the Cruelvy it of thet faid Encmp, of what Foriee be in, what Tyanny be ufeth on bu Subjeats, and in wobat fervile fort the be under bim. We cemed bitberto to vanquifo bim owh in this, that be was rude of. Arts, and ignorant of Policies; if so be that thi Navigation rothe Narve centinue, what foall be unknown sobim? therifore wee that know beft, and border upon bim do admoniß other Chriftian Pringes in time, shat they do not betrey their Dignity, Liberty and Life of them and sheir Subjetts, to a mof barbarous and cruel Encmy, as we can no lefs do by tbe Duty of a Cbriftian Prince; For now woe do forefee, except orbar Princes sake this Admonirion, the Mufcovite puft up in. Pride, wirb chofesbings that be brougbr to tbe Narve, and made more perfed in warlike Affairs, wiss Engins of War and Sloips, will make afault this was ax Cbriftendom, to Rag or make abound all sbas ßall with tand him, which God defend. Wish wbich our Admonition divers Princes already content ibemfeloes, and abfain from the Narve. Tbearbers that will nor abftain from ibe faid Voyage, Ball be impeached by. our Navy, and incur the Danger of lofs of Life, Libert, Wife and Cbildrem. Now sherefore if the Subjects of your Majefty will forbear chis Vojage to the Narve, there farll be nothing denied to them of us. Les your Mijeft well weigh and conjider tbe Reafons and Occafions of our flopping of Ships going so Narve in ubbich foopping, our Subjetis of Danske be in no fauls, as we bave clready written to your Majefti, neitber ufe woe sheir Council in sbe fance. In axy otber Matter, if shere be any fault in sbem againft your Majefty or your Sub je民ts, we:will gladly do juftice upon sbem, sbast jour Majeft may well underftand zbes we be careful of you and you Subjects. . Neither think we is meet to sake Hamburgh or ang otber place to judge sbe Matter. f for we bave our Coun cil and Fudgment Seat at Rie, where your Majeßn ard yow Subjects, olany otber, Ball bave Fufice adminiftred unts beem, with wbom we broe bad ancient League and Amitg and thus mruch we bavethought good to Let your. Majeß̧) unt derfand.

Farewell.
Dated thefixth of Decem, the 3 gen Year of our Reign
Sigjonuraducizugulum, Rex

\author{
Chap. IV.
}

\section*{'Mr. Anthony Jenkinfon's Sccond Voyage from London'. to Mofco, and thence over the Cafpian-Jea into Perlia, Anno 156I.}

THE Smoflow and two other Sthips were this Year fet out by the Company of Merchants Adpenrurers, and on board the firft I enbarked. We departed from Gravefend the i4th of May, 1561 , in the third Xearof the Reign of Qpeen Eiliznbetl, and on the i 4 ch of \(\mathcal{F} u l y\) arrived atColmogro in the Bay of \(S\). Nicholas, and after fomeftay there, I came to \(V_{6}\) loghde, diftant from Colmogre 700 Miles, where having tarried four days, I arrived at Mof \(f_{\text {ce the }}\) acth of \(A w g y f^{t}\), and notifying miy comung to the Sccretary, and that I hadletters from the Quecn's Majefty to the Emperour, be inforned him thercof. Bur I was told that the Emperour was then goins to be married to 2 Chircafian Lady of the Maijomictai law, and had commanded thar no Stranger, Embaffador, or orher, thould come before him for a time, and chat during the three daysof the Feaft, the Gates of the Ciry fhould be fhut, and that no Pcifon, Stranger or Native, fhould ftir out of their Houfes during that cime.

On the úth of Seprember the Emperour made a great Feant, whereunto all Embaffadors and Scrangers of quality were invirch, among whom I was one; but the Secretary requiring me to come to him and thew him the Qucens Lerters, I refured fo to do, faying, I would de liverthemrothe Emperor's own Hands, and nor otherwife: The Scerctary replied, that unlefs he mighe firt perufe thern, lthould not come into the Emperour's prefence; fol was notarthe Fcaft: Bur I was sold by a Nobiernan, that che Emperour enquired for me, and chat whe caufe of my abfince was to him unknown. The next diy I gare a Pcrition into his Majefties own Hands, ferting, forth the caufe of my coming, fignified by the Queersletters, and the Anfwer I had from his SecretaTf, befeeching him so accept her Majefties Letters with fuch Honourand Fricndfhip, as his Letters fent by Ofep Nereat; were received by the hands of our late Soveraign I. a? Qucen Mry, or clie that it would pleale his Highmels re inimifs me, faying, 1 would nor deliver the haid Letrers ber an to tis own Hands, as is ufeim oreric Country. After fomic Conlideration, I was commanded to come with the faid Lerters betere hisMajefty, anddelivered the fame into his own Hands, with the Companics Prefencs, which were gratefuliy accepted, and the fame day I dined in his Profence with great Entcrainment. Shortly after I Lefired ro know wherher I mighr be licenced to pals thro his Majerties Domimons into Perfia, according to the Cucens requeft: I was anfwered, thar I Mould not pais thither, becaufe his Majefty intended to fend an Army thar way into Cbirenfia, which would make my Journey dangerous, and if I foould perith tbercin, is would be much to his ditronour. Thus having reccived his Anfwer, neither to my Expectation nor Contenr, I remained there a good part of the Year, and haping inchat time fold moft part of the Kerfies and other Wares appointed for Perfia, when the time of Year required to rerum for England, I defired Pasport and Poft-hories for Money, which was granted: Burbeing ready to come away, Ofep Niapen came to our Houfe, and perfwaded me thar I thould nordepart that day, faying, ther the Einperour was not truly informed, imputing great fault to the frowardnefs of the Secrerary; who was nar my Fricnd. The next day 1 mer them borh rogether, and when after much conceftation, they perceived that I would depart, they willed mero fay until the Emperour were foken with againgouching my Paffage : And chree days atien; the Secresayflent for me, and rold me that the Emperouxts pleafuretwas, that.I hould not only pafs thro his Dominions into Pcrfia; But allo have his Letters of Recommendation ro forre: gn Prisces, with fome of his own Aiffairs commitred to my chargc. Whereupon I prepared myffelf for the Voyage, and the 5 th of March dined again in his Majeftics prefence, in company of a Perficn Embaffador and others; and receiving a Cup of Drink at his Majeftics Hands, I rook niy leave of him, and departed from Arofict the 27ch of sipril, 1562, down the River Volga, in company of the Gaid Perfion En baflador, with whom I had great fricndfhip, and arrived in health at Aftracan the noth of Frme.

As foon as I came there, I went to.the Captain, unto whom the Emperour had given charge, not only to fupply me with all things needful during my abode chere, but alfo to conduct me with \(5^{\circ}\) Gumers in two Brigan-tines into the Cafpian Sea, until I had paffed fome dan gerous places where Pirates do haunt; and having prepared my Bark for the San (the Perfian Embaftador being gone beforcin a Bark of his own the \(15^{\text {th }}\) day of Gilt) wedeparred from Aftracan, and the nexr Evening paffed the Mouth of the River, lying South-ealt from Aftrecan, 20 Miles diftart. The 22d arofe a great Storm, whichlatted to the 30 th, and made our Bark io leaky, that with conrimual pumping we had much ado to kecp her above Water, alcho" we threw thuch of our Goods ovcriboard.
On the fourth of \(A u g 1 /\) ? we amived ar Derbent, in the Latitude of 41 Degress, where I and my Company going anoar, we dined with the Caprain, to whom I gave a Prefent, and thentaking in fomefrelh Water, we failed South-caft abour 8o Miles, and :he 6th of Augu/i we arrived ar Shabran, where we unloaded, and being in my Tent, the Governour, called Alican. Murcy, came to me and enterrained me very civilly, unto whom giving a Prefenr, he appointed 40 armed Mext to watch and ward wish me.

On the \(x 2\) th, Orders came from the King of Shivian char I thould repair to him wich all foced, and 45 Camels, with Horfes for me and my Company, wexc in readinefs? fo departing thenee we cameon the 18 ch ro a Cry called Shamaky, where my lodging was appointed, and the next day I was fent for to come before the King, named Obdowlocan, who chenkepr his Court in Tents upon the Mouncains; 20 Milesfrom Shemakr, to avoid the Heats: On the 2oth I canc inco his Prefence, and kiffing his Hands, he invited me to dinner, and commanded me to fit down not far fromhim. The Kiog with his Nobiliry richly atired, farecrofs legid uponrich Carpers, and perceiving ir was painful for me fo to fits. he caufed a Stool to be brought in, and willed me to far thereupon after my fathion. I told in the firft coarle 1,0 Difhes, and in the fecond, confalting of Fruir, E's. 150 Difhes Dinner coded, the King faid unto me, luijh gueldc, that is to fay, Wicleme, and calling for a Cup of. Water, drawn from a pleafans Founcainchar flood beforcioh, he raifed of is and delivered me the reft, asking how I liked is, and if there were fo good in our Conntry. Then he asked me divers Quettions about the Religion and ftate of our Country, and whether the Emperour of Germang, Ruffa, orthe Great Turk had moft Power; to all which I anfwered to his content. Then be demanded the caure of my coming, and if 1 intended to 30 2ny. further: 1 rold him char I was fent from the Quecos molt excellent Majefty of England unto the Grect Saflig, to innreat Friendifip and free Paffage for Englifh Merchants ro trade in his Dominions, with the like to be granted to his Subjects when they thould come into our Countries, to the Honour and Profir of both Realms. The King anfivered, that he would not only give me paflage, but alfo fend Men ro conduct me to the jopi.y thenar Casbin,3® days journey fromSkamaki. Three daysafter be fenc for meagain, and I coming in the Morning bcfore he wasup (for'fpending the Nights in banquetring with his Women, beiny 140, he feeps moft part in che Day) be ordered thar I hould ride on Hawking with fome Ger clemen of his Court, and thar they fhould fhew me as much fport as they could; which was done, and many Cranes killed: We rcturned about three inithe Afterroon, the King being then rifen, and ready for Dinner, to whichI was invitid, and axthe entry of his Tent was merby two Genclemen with two Garments of that Counary falhion. one of Silk, the ocher of Silk and Gold; Cent co me from the King, and caufingme to pur offmy upper Garment, being 2 Gown of black Velvet furrel with Sables, theyeput the Garment upon my Back, and
\(\qquad\)
Ertant armo

\(\qquad\)

\(\qquad\)
focondueted me to the King, before whom doing reverence and kiuting his Hand, he commanded me to fit not far from him, and fo Idined in his Prefence, he being very merry, and asking me many Queftion. Dinner conded, I requefted his fafe Conduct to the Sophy; who difmiffing me with grcat favour : and apnointing his Emballador, who came lacely from Rulfr, and others to conduct me, he gaveme at my departure a fair Horfe, with all Furniture, and difmifing me with all & my Goods Cuftom free; fo xerurning to S/sannkt I rar ricd there until the fixth of October, to provide Camsls, Horfs, and other Neccffaries for my Jourricy: And then leaving Sbamaky, we rravelled 60 Miles, and canc to a Town called \(Y_{\text {avefte, }}\) and pating thro' a fruifful Country, on the 16 th we arrived ar 2 City called Ardouil, where we lodged in an Hofpital built with fair Srone, by Ifimath, Farher to the prefent Sophy, whercini all Travellers have Horfe mear and Mans meat for three days, and no longer. ThisancicatCity is in the Laticude of 38 Dcg.
Four days journcy to the Weftward; lies the City of Tauris, the greateft City in Perfia, but not of fuch razde asit hath been, or as orhersbeat this time, becaufe the Turks bave conquered all the Councry almolt asfar as the City, and once fack'd the City it felf, which has caufed the Seply taremove his Court ten days journey from thence, tothe City of Cofjuin.

The 2 ift we departed from Ardowil, travelling over Mountains in the Nighr, and reitcd in the day, being deftitute of Wood, 2nd were forced ro ufe for Fewel, the Dung of Horfes and Camels, which we boughr of the pafturing Peoplear a dear rate.

On the fccond of Nouember we arrived at Casbin, where our Lodging was appointed ncar the King's Palace. After two days the Sophy cominanded a Prince called Sbally Murary, Son to Obdolonecam King of Shiruan aforcfaid, to fend forme to his Houfe, who asked me in che Name of the Sofly, how I did, and if I were in health, faying, I was welcome, and invited me to dinner, where I had grear entertainment, and then returned ta my Lodging. The next day I fent my Interpreter to thie' Sophy's. Secretary, declaring, thar I had Letrers directed from our moft gracious Soveraign Lady, the Queens moft excelleur Majefty of the Realm of Euglend, unto the faid Soph, defarinth that I mighr be admitted into his Majefties prefence, who advertifing the Sopby thereof, foon after \(2 n\) iwered me, that there were great Affairs int hand, and that I thould have admiffion as foon as they wcre finithed, willing me in the mean tirme to make ready my Prefent, if I had any to deliver.
The Tirkit
before me, who was fent thicher to conclude a four days Peace with the Soplo, and brought with him a prefent in Gold, fine Horfes, rich Furnitures, \(\mathcal{E}_{6}\).worth forty thoufand Pound. The Peace was concluded with Feafts and Triumphs, corroborated with frong Oarhs by their Law or Alcoran, to oblerve the fame, and to liveas fworn Brethren, aiding each other againft all Princes that fhould war againft them or either of them: And upon the conclufion of this Peace, the Sophy putto death the Grear Turk's Son, name Brifet Sultan (a valiant Prince, who fled from his Father to the Sophy, and had remained in his Courr feur Years) and fent his Head as a Prefent do his Farher.
The 20 of November I was fent for to came before the Sopby, called Shapp Tbamas, and at three inthe Afternoon 1 came ro the Court, and alighting from my Horle ar the Courr Gate (beforemy Fecr rouched the Ground) a pair of theSoply's own Shoes, fuch as he wars when he riTes in the Nighirio pray (as his Cuftom is) were put upon my Feet, otherwife I might not be fuffered to tread upon his Holy Ground, being aChrifian, called by them Gower, that is, Unbeliever and Uncican. Atthe CourtGare tuy Prefents were diftribured no Servants of the Coust to canty beforeme, none of my Company being permitted to enter into the Court with me belides my Interpreter. Thas coming before his Majefty with fuch Reverence as I thought fit to be ufed, I delivered the Queens Letter wich myPrelent, which he accepring, demanded of what Country of Franks I was, and whar Affairs I had there todo. I anfwered, that I was of the famous City of London, in thenoble Realm of Exgland, and that I was fent thither from the moft excellent and gracious Sove raign Lady Elizabeth, Queen of the faid Realm, torrear of Friendfiip and free Paffage for our Merchants to re pair and craffick in his Dominions, to bring our Commo dities and carry away theirs, to the muruad Commodity of boch Realms. He then demanded in whar Language the Letters were written; I anfwered, in Latin, Italiam, and Hebrew; Hereplied, We have none in our Realms who underftand thofe Tongucs. Whercunto I anfwercd, thar fuch a famous and worthy Prince ashe was, wanted not Reople of all Nations within his large Dominions to intcrpret the fame.
Then he queftioned me about the State of Europe, and Who had moft Power, the Emperour of Germany, the The swt King of Spazin, or Great Turk; I anfwered him to his conrcnt, not difpraifing the Great Turk, their laic concluded Friendthip condidered. Then he reafoned wish meabout Religion, demanding whether I was a Goper that is to fay, an Unbeliever, or a Mifceman, that is, of Mathomer's Law : I anfwered, that I was neither Unbe ievernor Mahonetran, bus a Chriftian. What is that faid he untoche King of Georgia's Son, who being a Chriftian, was fled unto the Sophy, and he anfwered, thar a Chriftian was he that believes in Fefors Chriff, affirming him to be the Son of God, and the greatert Propher Doft thou believe fo, faid the Soply unto me: Yea that I do, fiid I. Oh thou Unbeliever, faid he, we have no need to have fricndinip with the Unbelicvers, and fo willed mero depart: Ybeing glad thereof, did reverence and went my way, accompanied with many of his Gencmen and others, and afrer me followed a Man with Sand, fifting all the way that I had gone within the Palace, from the place Thad difcourfed with the Sophy, unto the Court Gate.

Thar Night Shally Muarzy, Son to the King of Lircanit, who favonred me much becaufe I was recommended so him by his Father, willed me not to doubt of any thing, purting me in hope that all would end well.
There daily reforted rome divers Gentlemen fent by the Soply to confer with une, efpecially touching the Affairs of the Emperour of Reffic, and to know by what way I intended to retarn into my Country, whecher by the way that I came, or by the way of Ormu, and' fo with the PortugalShips. I anfwered, thar I durft not return by the way of Ormus, the Portugn's and we nor being Friends; for 1 was advertifed that the Sophy intended war againtt them, and would have charged me for coming as a Spy thro' his Dominions unto the Pirturath, hinking them and us to be all one Peoplc, and calling all by che name of Franks; bue by the Providence of God this wasprevented.
After chisthe Saply conferred with bis Nobility and Council concerning me, who advifed him that he thould not entertain me well, nor difmifs me with Letters or Gifts, confidering that I was a Frank, and of a Nation that was Enemy to the Grent Turk his Brorber; for if tre did otherwife, and the News thereof thould come to the knowledge of the Turk, ir would bea means to brcak the new League and Friendibip larely concluded. Ad. ding further, that he had no need, neither was is requifire for him to have friendilip wich Unbelievers, whofe Councrieslay farfrom him, and that it was beft for him ro fend me with my Letters unto the Turk for a Prefens: And this (I heard) be was fully determined to do, as foon as he fhould fend his Embaffador to the Great Turk, which was intended to be very Speedily. But Shally Mor7 hearing of chis, fent a Man in poft to his Facher, to impars in to him, who wrote unto the Sophy, that it would not ftand with his Majefties Honour, 'to do meany harm or difpleafure, but rasher to entertain me kindly, becaufe I came into his Dominions of my free will, and not by confraint, whereas if he thould ufe me ill, few Strangers would refort inro his Counry, which would be much to hishindrance, Ejc. which after the Sophy had confidered (much efteeming the faid King of Hircam, being a valiant Prince and his near Kinfman) he changed his mind, and on the 2oth of March fent me a rich Garment of Cloch of Gold, and 'fo difmiffed me without tarm.
While I fojourned ar Casbin, fome Indian Merctanes cold merhey could bring all forts of Spices if they were fure of vent: I gave them encouragement, and doubs norbut grearftore may be there provided.
The faid 2oth of March, 1562, I returned from Casbin, where I had refided all the Winter, having fent a way all my. Camels befores and on the 3 oth came again to the City of Ardowil, and on the 15 th of Aprilto Zavas aforcfaid, whereKing Obdowlocan was ar prefent, who immediately fending for me, dechared, thar if it had not beenfor him, I had been utterly ruined, and fent to the Turk for a Prefent. by the Perfivation of the Sophis wicked Council: Thar the Holy Men were the firf Movers thereof: That the Sopbryintended me much good ar firft and had fo. done if the Leágue bad nor been concluded between him and the Turk. Neverthelefs, faid he, the. Sophe hath written to me to entertain you well, and you are welcome into my. Country, and forarrying chere feven days, he ufed me very civilly, and gave me letrers of fafe conduct, and two Garments of Silk, and then difmiffed me with grear favour, fending with me his Embaffador again to the Empcrour of Rulfia. On the roth of Aprill came to the City of Shamaky, where tarrying cerrain days to provideCamels down to the Sca-fide, I fent fomeMen before to get my Bark in readinefs; and leaving Shamaky onthe iGch, I came to the Sca-fide on the 2 ift of the אaid Month, and lading my Goods, attended a fair Wind.
On the zoth day of Moy, 1563 , wearrived as Aftracan, having paffed no lefs Dangers upon the Sca in our xetirn, than we fuftained inour going forth, and tarrying at Aftracen until the roth of func, having 100 Gunners appointed formy rafe guard to conduct me up the River Volyr, I arrived at Cazan the ath of 7 uly, and at Mofco the zoth of \(\operatorname{Auguft,~} 1563\).
Soon after my arrival, I came before the Emperour and prefented him the Apparcl given unto me by the Sophy; afrer much confercnce about the Affairs he had commitred to"my charge, be faid, I perceive your good Scrvice, for which I chank you, and will recompence you for it. I anfwered, Thar I hearcily rejoiced that my Service: was fo acceptable to his Highnefs, that all I had done was but my duty, befecching him to concinue his favour to the Eng Ejfl Rufinn Company, and that he would be pleafed to give them a new Privilege more ample than the firft, all which he immediately granted, and fo deptrted. Afferwards having penned 2 brief Note how 1 meant to have the Came Privileges made, I repaired daily to she Secrecary for perfecting the rame, and obrained it under his Majetics broad Scal, which as my coming away Idclivered to Mr Thn. Glover, Agent for the Company there; and forhaving fojourned all that Winter at Miofeo, I departed thence the 28 th of Fune by Poft, and coming to Colmogro, and fo down to the Sca-fide. \(I\) embarqued on the Smallowp the ninth of Fuly, and after great danger of lofs of Ship, Goods and Lifc, arrived ac London (God be praifed) the 28rh of Scprember, 1564

The Queen's Majefties Letters to the Emperour of \(R w \sqrt{2 a} a_{0}\) requefting Licence and fafe Conduct for Mr. Anthomy Fenkinfon to pais through his Kingdom of Ruffa into Perfra, to the Great \(S_{o p h y,}\) 1565.

ELizaberh by sie Grace of God, Quecr of England, Evo Tohn Baflivigich, Exticent and righe mighty Prince, Lord ond nof heth, Empcrour of all Rulia, Ec. greesing, the Amity of your Majefty toriards us and orirsuljeqsis vim \(\eta\) pleafont to us to be rcimembred, whith be ing begun by the Goodnefs of God in tle Reign of our moft deai' Brotijer of bappp memory, Kinr Edwaid VT. and afterwards shrough your not onty Singular Humanicy fed and nouribed, but alfo througt your incredible Goodness increnfed and augmented, is now firmed and cfablifhed wirh all manner of Tokens of pout bencuatence, that norp pec doube not, but that from beneeforti) diering many Ages, she fame flall.endure to the Praife of God, to botho our Glorits, to the publick great Commadity of our Realms on cither Part, and totheprioete defired Hope and cerrain Felicity of ath your Subjects. And atthough stbat this jour'Goodnoss bath been abundantiy extended io all our Subjcets chat bave at any sime repaired inco any part of your Empire, for the which we give (as reafan is ) your Majcfly rigbt hearty Tbanks, and will again theto ctis like unta yours, right willingly, mbenfoever Opporthnity foell require; yce ibse atundance of your Benignity, both in receivinr ridd alfo entertitining our faithful and beloved Seroane Anthony Jenkinfon, the Bringer of shefe our Letters, is unto us for fim privately very thank ful: For befidest this, that in all places of your Empire, be not only by your Majefties fufferance, bus alfo your Commandment, exjoyed much Libercy and great Friendfhip, your Goodnefs not ceefing in this your Domeftical Difpofition of Glemency, did rigbs willingly and of your own abundant Grace, commend the Same our welbeloved Servant, by your Letrers fealed with your Imperial Seal, to fundry forreign Princes, unto whom be was minded to Fourner, which your Magnificence did purchafe unio bim bappily, according to bis defire, boith pafage witbant ath peril, through your notable Credit, and atfo atchieving of bis Fourney ibro your Commendation. Tberefore like - thefe your duplicated 'Benevoknces, both shat one gens-rally cxbibired to all our subjects frequenting thate. your Recim, and alfo this the other cxicended apart io sbiss our right faishful Scrvant Anthony Jenkinfoii, is right affurad ly foflened in our remembranice, not only for' a perpeturl and gratcfulmemorial, but alfo for a murual and mect C cmpenfarion: \(\sqrt{0}\) ape defire of your Majefy sovourds ofc frombenceforti, to conferve end coneinus in the gemincte difpsfition of your Bc nevolencics, Vorb gencrally so all our Suljects, and alfo privatcly to this our beloved Scrvent. Sind we doult noes; but that at our requef, you. will againg graciotfly foem wito de fame Anthony, norp admitecd into outr Scrvice, the life fa vour as heresofore your Mrjefly of your mecr motion did cxhibit unto bim, being then a private ecrfon; and thercforc pemdefirc your Majcfty ngain to grant to the famc our Scrgant, your lefters of licence, Pafpert and fafcConduct, ripough, the Tcnour, Autbarity and Halp whercof, loc, his Sis, avids, fogctiper mith tijetr Marchandizes, Baggages, Horricd out, ly or thra' all your fart, and shere carry fo long as it fall pleafe bim; and from thence returin mponfocver if foull fecm good to himor biss. And as wa doubr not but shat your Majefty in she goodnciss of your Nature, will gracioufty anc abundantly grane all thefe good Offices of bumanity, fo tre do beartily defire cijac your Majefty will likemifa voulisafe ta commend the fome our Scruant, cogether with all bis Goods, by your Letters to other forrcign Princes, and efpecially to the GreatSopliy and Emperour of Peria, into whofe Empire and Furidikitions, tho fame our Servant purpofect with Dis to journcy; clisefly for tipal of forreign Merchandiñes.
We eljerefore do truft that all thefe our Demands balt rend and brove effect, according to che loope of our. Servant; and to our Expectation; for jour Werlch, for the Commodity of both our Subjedls; lucky to bim, sbrinliful to us, accepeable to your Majchy, and very profitable to our Subjects on cim ther part. God grant your Majefty long and bappy folicity in Earti, and cuerlafting in Kicaven.
Dated in ourfamous City of Lendon the 25 th \(^{2}\) day of the Month of Aprit, in the Year of the Creation of the World, 5523 , and of our Lord God Fefis Chisf 1561 , and of our Reign the third.

\section*{The'Queen's Majefties Letters to the Great Sophy of Perfa, fent by Mr. Antbony Ferskinfon, \(156 x\).}

 Sopi, Rerfanum, Medorum, Parthorum, Hivcanorum, Cearmanorum, Margianorum, Populorumn cis & ultra Tisrim Fluvium, & ominium intra Mare Cafpium & Rerficum, finum Nationum atque Gentium Imperatori falutcm,

Elianabeb by ithe Grace of God, Gueen of England, E'c. to the right mighry and moft wiktorious Prince, the Grear Sophy, Emperour of the Perians, &c. of the People on this jide and beyond the River Tigris, and of all Nations berweren the Cafpian-Sca and sbeGulf of Pcria, gresting, and moft bappy increafe inn allproffericy: Byy the goodnefs of Almighry God is is ordained, that thofe Pcople mplam nos only vand diftence of Lands; and ribe invincible mitdenfs. of the Seas, bue alfa ibe very Quarters of the Heracins. do fartheft feperate, may nevertheless by moriting communicate their Thoughes and Deliberations mish other mratcful offices of Humanicy. Therefore wheress our faichful and rigbe pelboloved Scrvant Anthony Jenkinfon, Bearer of thofe our Letcers: is determined with our Licence, Favour, and Grace; to pafs out of this our Realm, and by Gods permi/fion to travel info Perfia, and otber your furifdiztions; Wite mind truly with our good Favour to fet formard and advance that bis rigbs laudable Purpofe, and tbat the more willingly, becaufe sbis bis Enserprife is only grounded upon an boneft Intent, to efablijb trade of Merchandife mith your Subjeas, and otbers trafficking in your Realms; wherefore me bave thought good to iprite is your Majefty to souchfafe at our request, to grant to our frid Servant Anthony Jenkinfon; good Papporcs and fafe Conducts; by means and authority whereof, it may be free and lanful for bim, togetber with bis Fumiliars, Servants, Cirr riages; Merchandizes, and Goods mbbatfoever, through yourRealms; Dominions; Furifdiaions; and Provinces, frcely and without impeachment to journsty go, pafs; repats, end tarry o long as be fall plenfe, and from thence retiant whenforier beorthey Ball think goad. If ancfe Holy Distics of Enterfaimment; and fivect Offices of Netrral Humanity may be

\section*{524 The Tbird Voyage into Perfia, by Rich. Johnfon, שec. Lib. IV}
 bernecenus, andonr Realms and Subjects, then wa do hope that the Almighty God will bring it to pafs, that from shefe fmall Beginuings, sreatermoment of stings Shall bercafter fpring, borb to our Finniture and Honours, and alfo tothe grest Commodisy and \(\tau\) jc of our Pcople; fo it will beknown chat neicher Earth, the Scas, nor the Heavens, bave fo musls force to foparare us, as the gadly difpofasion of natural Humanity and perpetual in Hsaven.
Dated in England in our famous City of Liondon, the 25 th day of the Month of Apri/, iax the Ycar of the Creation of the World, 5523, and of our Lord and God Fefis Christ, 1561 , and of our Reign the chird.

\section*{C н а}

\section*{The lecond Voyage into Perfia, made by Tho. Alcock, George Wren, and Richard Chenie, Servants to the Ruffian Company, in the Year 1563.}

THE ioch of Mny, 1963. we departed from Xerafisve, and arrived at Affrican the 24th of Fity; and deparring thence the fecond of Aubutt, on the fourth we curted che Cafpicn, and on the nth arriyed at ourl?ort in Mcedia. On the 2 nt of the faid Month we came to Shamaky, where King Obdowicain then was, who calling us before him the thind day after ourarrizal, we gave him a Prefent, and he enrecrained us wery well.
The King farce upon the Ground in his Tant, wirth his Legs i-crofs, theGround covered with Carpets; we were commanded to fir down, the King appointing every Man hisplace to ift; and the Kings ondered the Emperour of Rufficis Merchants to rife up, and to give us the upper hand.
Kio: Närok The 2oth of October Themes Altockdeparted from Shom maki rowards Casbin, and in his return was dain in the way between Lcuectis and Sbamckr: Some think his death was procured bya Noblcman whom he had offended, by carnefly demanding his Debr; others are of opinion, that riding from the Court with ous Company, fome Rogues thinking he had much about him, fer upon him and Aew him.

\section*{The Third Voyage into Perfia, begun in the Tear 1565, by Richard Johnfon, Alexander Kitching, and Arthur Edwards, Servants to the Ruffian Company.}

W \({ }^{\text {departed from Aitracan the }} 3\) oth of \(\mathcal{F}\) uly, 1565 , and by reafon of concrary Winds, it was the 23 d of Augusf, before we arrived as our defired Port called Na; avoc. On the fifth of Scptember, having procur'd Camels, we departed thence and came to Sbameky on the 1tth, and on the 17 th we preernted to Obdowlocen the King of thar Country,. one Timber of Sables, one Neft of Silver Caps, part gilt, thrce Morfes Teeth, four Arfhines of Scarlet, three pieces of Kerfics, with 40 red Foxes.
He recieced our Prefents, and thanked us for our good Wilts demanding if Mr. Fenkinfon were in good health, and if he would, xerurn into there parts again. He commanded'us allo to fir down before him, the diftance of a Quoits caft from his Tent, wherc he fate with divers of his Council and Nobility, fending us fuch Mear as was before him. He told us, chat if he flould hear of any wrong done to us by any Man, he would punifh him for aneiample to others. He gave us a litale Houre for the Prefent, umrila a better could be provided in fuch place as we fhould think nioft mect; and \(x\) our taking leave, he willed us to put our Requeft in writing that he might the better underftand our Deftrcs; but while we were doing fo, God took this good King, ber, 15 bs, whereby we lon all hops of recovering Mr. Alcock's Dobts, which had nor been lon if the King had lived.

Grat Troubles infued the death of this King, which much hindred the fale of our Goods; fome of the old King's Council and great Officers werc caftinto Prifon, others fined, and foms were tens for by the Sbayth.
On the ath of april, Mr'. Arthar Edmards wà aph pointed by the Agent Mr. Richrord Folurfon to go in Company with fome Noblemen to Cestin, having with him an hnterpreter and two Serrants, whiete he arrived the x5th of Mary, and of his Negotiation thicre, he gave the Company the following Account.
 I was brought before the Ş/.uygh, and difcourfed with him abour two Hours. He commanded me twice to comentitiz nearcr him, demanding what were my Requett; and conpurt. having heard chem, promifed me his gracious Letters, Afterwards he called me twice again to come nearer him, and talked with me about the Affairs of Bertrope. Thech he faid hewould have the Company to fend hing all forts of Cloctis, but oace fpecially, which Maidens do make (2s he faid) called Karcengi, I fuppofe he meant Wefern Dozens died into Scarlets. It was frange to his People (confidering our Religion) to fec me fo lang in ralk with him.
Afrermy firt Audience, Incglected no time in daihy attendance on them who had my Privilege in writing, that I might have it in readincs ar my next appearance before him, which was on the 2gth of func. I was then in Apparel that he gave me, and reccivcd your Letters or Privilegcs, fealed and firmed with he Sbauyth's own Hand. That day is one of their chidex Feftivals, at which all hi§ V obility were prefent. He Laid to me, that if my Letters were not to my mind, in time to come they fhould be mended; whereupon I made my R. yerence, and faid, thar with as much ipeed as might be, our Queen fhould underfand his Kindnefs towards our Mcrclants, and fodeparted.
Since the recciving of the Sbrugh's Letters, I have caten with Dukes and ochers, who before would not come near me ; and cvery day fome would come to my Shop, and eat and drink with me out of my own Ding; and at my return to Shamaky, when I fate down to dimero on the Road, they would come and car with me unbidden, when I withed them further off; for 1 fpared them thar which gladiy I would have caren my felf.
I was asked by the Shaughif the Company were able to bring him yearly one hundred thoufand pieces of Kerfies and Clochs. I anfwered him, that you were able ro furnifh his Country wich two hundred thouland, whercat he rejoiced; far I was told that the Turk's Embaflador laft year, had put the Shaugh in defpair, by telling him that the Turkwould not permit any Cloch to be brough into his Country.
There are many Venetians dwelling at Aleppo in Syrit, and others chat come yearly chere and buy Wools, Galls, Tallow, Saffron, Skins, Cotton and ocher Wares, and greas forc of Spices: And the Armenians receive from the Venetians, Kerfies in barter for raw Silks, giving fometimes 60 pieces of Kerfies for 70 Batmans of Silk of this Country, and forty pieces for Girofing Silk. Alfo Kerfies fla commonly for ready Money in Aleppo, \(2 t\) II and 12 Duckest the Picce (the Ducket being here worch 12 Shillings.) maycof the firt penny 132 and 144 Shaughs a Kerfy. By report it is one Month's.
travel
travel from Shamaki to Aleppo. Here is much Venctian Cloth. worts, being cromn-plifted, a Yard and hilf broad, and fold here from 24 to 30 Sbreughs their Arfhimc, being langer by awo lathes than the Ruftam drfhime. Xou would do well to fend of Landon Clochs three or four of all forts for a Sample, being well hoom and dreft Violess in grain, and fine Reds be moft worn, bur other good Colours will away, when they fhall fee them I wore a Garment of London Ruffer, which was much cfecmed. You thall do well to fend fuch forts as are lively to the fighr, and fome Blacks for Womens Girs incnes, with fome Orange Colours and Tawnics. Hiere is much broad Cloth worn, and they talk much of Londin Cloths; they that know dic ucaring of shem, prefer them before onkes:: But forger nos to fend fome Weftern Kerfics, wa*. Dozens, which are well thickned and clofe thut in the wequing, being died inco fine Reds and fome Scarlets; for think there is no fuch Cloth for their Cäps.
The drmenians and others are defirons' to barter with us, glving Silk for Kerfies, and will ferve us with all kind of Spices, to be delivered tous in Shamiky at thefc prices.

Pepper 18 Sheugbsthe Batman.
Mace large, 40 Sharybs and 45 the Baman:
Clove 4o Stapghe the Batman.
Nutmegs 16 and 18 Shatugss che Batmani.
Cinamon qu Shaugts the Batman.
I was told the Armonicms bring from sileppo yearly four, five and/rix thoufand pieces of Kerfies and Clorhs befudes thofe whichother Men bring. Sixty Barmans of Silk is a Mulys lading, and is is reported that one Village of the Armenians ycarly carrics 400 and 500 Mules lading of Silk to Aleppo, and brings thence 800 or \(10 c 0\) Mules laden with Kerfiesand Vonise Clothis; is pieces of Kerfies area Mules lading.
From Orpus to Casbin is fix Wceks travel, and from Casbin to Spamaky is fixicen Days with Camels laden butif one rraycl with a good Mule unladen, is may be gonc in feven or cight Days; bur here Travellers muft cany their own Provifions on Horfes, and fo mult trayel buca foot pace.
The s5th of futy. I left casbin and came to this Town of shamaky: As for Gatts here to be bought, there is no profir to be made by them: They are brought from Alcppo, and fold here not under three or four Shaughs their Bacmani, being fix Pounds Englifh Weight. Grain that you die Scarlet withal is worth the

Batman in ready Moncy, 200 Sharaghs, which computBarmen. Bammo

The Privileges granted by the Shaugh to the Compary is as folloreth.

\({ }^{1} \cdot{ }^{\prime}\)Hat you flall pay nomanherof Cuftoms or Toll now, nor in time to come; And that fuch privicge. Emslifh Merchanss as you thall appoinc now and herc- friceced com afrer, fhatenas and repafs inco all his Dominions and pany br. Countricsexjoining to buyand fill all forsof Ccm - the smp. moditics-yinh all obiancer of Perfons.
2. "Thawin all places wheire any of our Merchane fhall refors or abide; his chicf Governours, Rulers and Juftices, thall aid and defend us againtt all cvil Perfons, punifhing thofe that mall do usany wrong 3. That for all fuch Debts as flatl be owing by any Perfon, Juftice lijill be done ona the Party, and we paid at the day.
4. That no manizer of Perfons, of whacfocrer State or. Degiecterey be, thall prefume to take any kind of Wares or Gifts, withour leare and good will.
5. "If by Chance-medly any of our Merchants or Servants (which God forbid) Mould kill any of his 'Subjects, that no parrof your Gouds hall be touched or micdled withal nor any. Party but the Offender; and true Juftice to be miniftred, and none of us to fuffer withoutche Prince's Knowlege and Advice.

6. "That all Debrs thall be paid to any of us in the abfence of the other;' be the Party dead or alive.
7. 'That no Perfon rerurn any kind of Wares back again, being once bought or fold.
8. "That whengot thall ferta your Goods to thore his People fhall prefently help us on Land with them. them.

The Shangh caufed his Secretary to write the faid Ar ticles in the four Letters he gave me (whereof two are in chie Turkif Language).
thave compured all Charges from hence to Colmogro to which adding the Fraighic to England, at three pound per Tun, the whole will nor ftand you in above 18 or 20 Shillings per Hundred. God grane me in health to fee your Worflips, Ejic. Sbamcky in Medin, the Sth of Augufti 1566.

Aribur Edpards.

\section*{С hat. VI}

\section*{The Fourth Voyage into Perfia, in the Year 1598. by Mr Airthur Edwards, Agent, Lawrence Chapman, and ocber Servants to the Rufian Company.}

\(\underset{\sim}{1568 .} \times 7 /\)E departed from Xerafave in \(\mathcal{F u l}^{\prime}\) is 68 , and arrived ar a Porr called Bilbil, on the 1 ch of \(A x g u / f\). The People were not fo ready ro aid ns in bringing the Ship invo Harbour, and unlading the Goods nor io obedient to the Sbaugh's Privileges as we expected. As foon as our Goods weregor on Sboar, we were compelled to open and fell it at their price, or elfe it would have teen worfe for us.
We departed thence as foon as we had got Camels, and came to Sbamaky the firft of scprember. Thence we came to Ardouil, where we fold nine pieces of Kerfies at 150 Shaughs the Picce.
And being then not far from Taurrs, thic Agent fent thither Mr. Chapman and an Inrerpreter, with 54 Kerfies, buthe found there fuch ftore of broad Clorh: and Kerfies brought thither from Aleppo; that no Man offred more than 140 Shaughos for a Kcrly:
At Amadia, fix days journey from Tauris, grow abundance of Galls; bought up yearly by the Venetians, and fold there fortwo Biftes the Trarris Barman, abour fix Pound Englifh weight. Many Drugs were to be fold both ar Tauris-and Cisbin, but in goodnefs, nothing like fuch as arebroughs into England from other places' and the price fo high, that there would be but fmall gain in buying chem. The price of Spices at our being there enhanced by reafon of War againft the Porrugals as Ormus ) Pepper 25 Sbaughs the Tauris Batman; Cloves \(5^{\circ}\) Shaughs; long Pepper 25 Shaugbs; Mace large, 50 Shaughs Ginger 24 Sbaughs, and the beft raw Silk is 60 Shaugbs the Tauris Batman:
Mr. Edoords the Agent proceeded in his Jouirney to Casbin, and when he firt came into the Soph's Prefence ftanding far off, the Sopby (who fare in a Royal Sear) commanded him three times to come near him; until he came fo near thathemight have touched him with his Hand; then asking what Country-man he was, the an fowered, that he came from England. The Sophy asked. his Noblemen if they knew any fuch Country, which Edmards perceiving, he nained it Inghilterra, as the Ita lians call it. Then one of the Nobles faid Londro, ta which Mr. Edwards replied; that was the name of the chief Ciry of England, as Tauris was of Perfict. The Difcourfelaitted two Hours, wherein afier many Quettiftions about the Stare of Europe, he demanded of him what was the chief cuafe of his coming incobis Realm ?

D d d \(\dot{d}\)
to which Mr. Edipards anfwered, that it was to promote Merchandizing, and that if his Majefty would grant us frec Paffage into all hisDominions, with fuch Privileges as might fecure our Lives and Goods, we would furnill his Councrics with fine Kerfics and broad Clochs of all forts and Colours, as Scarkts, Violcts, Ec. in. Shorter time, and cheaper than he could have them at the Turks Hands. Whercupon new Privileges were granted to us, writen in Azure and Golden Letters; one Article whereof was, That if any Merchants or their Scriants would turn Mabometans, that then the Agent might imprifon fuch Perfon whercrer he thould find him, and that no Man Mould keep or conceal him. Before we obtained this Privilege, fomeScrvants would rob their Mafters, and then turn Matometans, that their Mafters mighr have no Law arainft them, cither to punilh them or xecover their Goods. A young Man, Servant to one of our Mexchants, rather, than abicte the Correction of his Mafter, would forfake his Faith; bur as God would haveir, he fell fuddeñly fick and died, before he gave himelf to the Devil. If he had rurned Matiometan, is would have caufed much trouble to the Merchants, for if he had faid that half their Goods had been his, they would have, given credit to him; for, before the Seply granted Printeges to our Nation, the Pcople abufed them very much, and fo hated rhem that they would not toush them; calling them Cafars and Garpers, that is, Unbelicvers, and thoughr.it no wrong to defraud or tob them, bear falie witneis againt them, and fuch Merchandizesasthey had bought or fold, make themtake it again, and change it as ofren as they lifted, and for the Debes of any Scranger, would take the Goods of any other of the fame Nation, with many other fuch liks Abufs.

\section*{C h a p. VII.}

\section*{The Fifth Voyage into Perfia, by Thomas Banifter and Geofrey Ducket, Servants to the Ruffian Compa\(n y\); begun in the Year 1568, and continuing to the Year 1574.}

aPon the third day of fut, 5568 , they cmbark and ocher Mcrichandize, he continuing inin Tauris two ed at Yeraflrve, in a Bark called the Xbemas ycars antia half, making fale of the Companics ComBonndventure, of 70 Tuns, accompanicd with inoditics. Lionel Plumerce, and twelvc Entififond 40
The Emeitin Retfos. A Lionel Plumerce, and twelve Engifionud 40
Burk eflull- werc aflaulted by the Nogayrn Tarrars in is Boats, fome ed ly the zarsiats. Bows and Arrows in all abour 300 Men . The Fight continued two Hours, and they fo galled the Tartars with their Firc-arme, thar they fled with the lofs of 200 of their number, as they were informed by a Rufficm Prifoncr, who efcaped from the Nagayans and came to AIfracan, where they arrived the 2oth of Auruf

2MK. Banijher srecurned from Tauris to Sisamaky and thence went so"dirafh, four days Jcurney with Camels from Siomaky, to buy raw Silks but there, by the unwholfome Air, and corrupt Water in the hot time of the Year, he with Lampence Chapman and fome ocher Englifh- Thedent men died, which being made known to Mr. Ducker, niturnd he immediarely came from Tauris to Arrafh, to take Lamter pofferion of the Good's, for otherivife by the Cuftom of :hamim the Country; had there been no Merchant or other Friend to cnter upon what was lefr, all had fallen into the

Kierc ticy were compelled to zarry fix Weeks, and then prose \(\overline{t i}: g\) on their Voyage, they arrived at Bilbit rowa:ds the cnd of october, from thence they went to Sistatron, where, as they lodged in their Tenrs, they were much troubled with a lort of Foxes, who ftole their Vietuals from them, and in one Night devoured to the bare Bones a mighty wild Boar, that was fent unto them as a Prefent from the Governout.
Having fitaid here threc or four days, they travelled in four days to Shameky, where Epending the Winter, in April following they took their Journey towards Ar douil, a place of great account by reafon of the Sepulchre of the Perfann Kings: Here they tarricd fix Monchs, finiding bur imall Traffick, the City being morefrequented by Neblemen and Gentlemen than Merchants.
The Enperour Sbat Tisomas fene a Meffenger to this place for our Men to come to his prefence ar Casbin; Mr. Ducker being fick, could not go, but Mr. Banifer went, and was received with grear farour, mort of his Requefts being gratged to him, this only excepted, that whereas he defired leave to carry fome Horfes out of his Dominions into India, the Sbaggls feemed unwitling to yield to ir, and yet dia not altogether deny ir, bur referred it to fome further time. The Sharghboughe of himmany Kerfies making sood payment, and would ofientimes fend his Money before che Wares were delivered.

There is one thing \(I\) thought fit to remember, .That whereas he purpofed to fend a great Sum of Money to Mesca in Arabia, for an Offering to Mabomet, be would not fend any of his own coin, butfent to the Eng \(/ i\) JMMerchants to exchange it for theirs, giving this Reafon for it, That the Merchants Moncy was gotten by good means, and was therefore worthy to be made an Oblarion to their Holy Prophet; bur his own Money was gotten by Fraud, Opprefion, and difhoneft Means, and therefore was not fir to ferve for fo holy a ufe.

Afrer lix Months fpent in Casbin, Mr. Banifter went therice to Tauris, where be found Mr. Ducket well recovered, whom be had lefffick at Ardount. There is a place withinone Day's Journcy of Tiateris, where great tore of Galls grow; Mr. Duckei bought many of them, Shangfis Hands; which Goods notwithitanding could nor be recover'd from the Officers who had fered and fealed up the fame, until Mr. Duciec had been in Perfon with the Slough, and procured his Order for the delivery of them.

Whill Mr. Ducket was ar Cosbin in fute for Goods, Lionel Plumerres by perfwation ofcertain Bortharians, made provifionfor a Journey to Catheir, with Carriages and Commodities, and having all things ready, departed fecrecly with a Caravan; bur being fix days jounney upon his way, 50 Horlemen by precurcmens of liumpiny Grcenfol (who was afterwards burnt by the Portuyals in ithotem the Inquifirion as Ormus) were fent after him in Pof by armpaben the Sbaugb'sLieutenant, to ferch him back again, forfar of divers Inconveniences that might follow.

Mr. Ducker returacd from Casbin. to Sbameky, and theace went to Caffan, four days journcy, carrying with him four Afules laden with Moncy.
'In his way he paffed thro' Perfepolis, herctofore the fermotis Royal Seat of the Parfim Kings, but thexe remains nothing now to be feen but two Gates, diftant twelvè Miles from each other, and fome few Pinnacles in the Momtains, and Convenicnces for fieft Water.
Caffan is a Town of great traffick, muich frequented by Indicn Merchants; noidke Perfon is fuffered to live a-c.ajo. mong them; playing at Cards or Dice is by the Law prefencdeath. Here they tarried ten Weeks, and then returned to Shamaky, and thence to Bilbil again, where their Ship was in Harbour, and fetting fail the 8th of May, 573 , by reafon of contrary Winds and dangerous Flats in the Cafpian-Sea, they bearit up and down 20 Days; and on the 28thriding at Anchor upon the Flats, about 150 Ruffe Caffaks, which are Out-laws and. banified Men, having intelligence of them, and of the great wealch they bad with them, came to them in the Ent divers Boars under colour of Friendmip, and armed ship " with Calivers and other Weapons, entred rheir Ship, by and New divers Ruffians that belonged to the Ship; whereupon Mr. Ducket, Plumerce, Lfilliam Smith the Mafter, and Amos Rial, being under, the Spar-deck, did fo behave themfelves, that they foured the Hathes and Alsw 14 of them, and wounded about 30 more; Mr. Ducket and the reft in the mican time received divers wounds, and. were fo overpotucr'd with the mulcitude of their Encmics, that they were at laft conftriined to furrender rheir Ship to thic Caffacks, thicy fwearing upon their Crucifixes to do no further harm to their Perfons.
TheShip thus caken, and all the Englif/ zricyoully hurt, the Ciafoks pur chem all into the Ships Boat, with two or thrce Pu, finh Targers full of Horfe-flemp and Swines-ficth, wichour other Victuals or Relicf. In this cafe they made what haft they could to d/fracan, and being conic to the Town, Mr. Ducker made grear fute to the Caprain to have Men and Boars fer out for recovery of the Ship, if pofitible, who immediately fens out his Son with 40 Boats and 500 Mcn to purfue the Pirats, and by good hap cane to the phace where they rode as Anchor with che Ship, bur by their folly in ftriking up their Drums before they were come near thems the Ciffars cifeovering the Boats, cur their Cables and puit to Sca, whereupon the Boats nor being able to follow them, rerurned to iffirncan. Then fixty other bears were feat to purfue them the fecond time, who caine to a place where thry found many of them, and flew them, and found our cheplaces where chey had hid fome of the Goods in the Earth in the Ship's Chefts, all which they recorered again for the Englifh Merchants, to the value of 50001. our of 30 or 40000 , but all the reft the Calfiks in the Ship had carricd away.
In the fame placenhey found alfo divers of the Caf. faks lain by the Emglift, buricd in the Earth, and wraps, fome in to or so Yards of Sartin or Taffara; and fome in Turke Carpets cut and fpoiled by thofe Pirats, of whomasmany as coula beraken by the Rerfans (jutio entirely loved the Engliß Merchants) were pur to moft cruel. Torments in all places according to their deferts.
Our Men thus fooiled of their Goods and wounded in their Bodics, remained two Months at Affracan for their cure, and rhen wenr up the Volge to Ceivan, with fuch: Goods as they had recovered from the Caffaks. From. Cazan they wear rowards Yerafare, but were intercepted by fuch a Froft in the Night, about the beginning of. October, thar their Boats were crulhed and cut afunder with the Ice, whereby they were in danger of lofs of Life and Goods, but as much as chey could preferve, they convey'd over land in Sleds to Vologhdic, and rhence to St. Nicholas to be laden in Stips for Englend

Bur Mr Ducker; Plumeree and Ríal went with certain Parcels to Moffo, and fold fome to the Einperour, who pitying the mighty Lofs they frad fuftained from his own rebellious Subjects, boughr himfelf' as much as he liked, and payed prefent Money for the fame. So fpending that Winter in Mofso, in providing fuch Wares as ferved for England, they conbarked at. St. Nicholas in Auguf., and after a terrible Pafage of nine Weeks and thrce Days, with want of Victuals, chey arrived at London in ORober, 1574 , and fo made an end of an unnorrunate Voyage, which if is had pleafed God to profper, that all things had come as fafely as they were carefully provided, and painfully laboured for, it had proved the richeft Voyage, and inoff proficable Rcturn that had ever been undertaken by Englijh Merchañts, who norwithttanding all Misfortunes, loft nothing of their princi-migtie have rifen by die ufe of thatr Srock in the mead rime.

\section*{Fartber Obferwations concernitg Perfia by Mr. Ducken}

THE King of Pather (whom we call the creat \(S\) poy) is not there to called, buris callcd the Shay, It were dangerous to call him by the Nane of \(3^{\circ} \mathrm{p}\) on which in the Perfinn Tongue fignifies a Begger. He lives at Cushin, fituare in a feruileValley three or four days Joirncy in length. The Ciry/is ill built, being for the moft part of Brick, not hardned with fire, but only dricd iat the Sun, as is molt part of the Butiding in all Perfin. Thac King hath not come out of his Palace in 33 or 24 Xears, whereof the caufe is nor known, but as they Cay, is is upon a Supertition of ceriain Piophcfics, to which rhey are greatly addicted. He is now abour 80 years of age, and very lufty: He hach four Wives and about 300 Con-manc Con cubincs, and once'every Xear he hath all the fair Vir-cubioes gins and Wives that can be found thereabouts broighit to him, andraking fuch as helikes, he puts-away fomic of them he had before, and with rhem gratifies fuch of his Officers ashavedone him beft Service; and if lie chance to take any Man's Wife, her Hufband is very glad of if, and in recompence of her, he oftimes gives the Hulband one of his old fore, whom he thankfully receives.
When any Chiiltian coimes before him, hemult pur on a new pair of Shocs made in that Country; and from the place where he enters, there is tailed as in were a Caufcy all the way uncil he come to the place where he Thall ralk wich the King, who flands always above in a Gailery when heralks with any Strangers; and when the Srranger is departed, thenis the Caufcy caft down, and e Ground levelica again.
The Religion of the Porlicns is the fame with the Reipion of Turks, only they differ about the righr Succeffor of Mr- tha Promen Woontr; ; the Turks fay it was one Omer, and the Pcrjanis Kay ic was Mortus \(A l i\); whofe xerunn they have long expectcd, and the King always keeps a Horf: ready fadled for him. They fay chat Chrift was a Holy Man and a great Propher, but nor like unio Mabomer, who being the laft Propher by whom all things were finillied, was thercfore the greateft.
Thercis often great mutiny among the Pcople which of Mortus Alâ's Sons was greatelt; anid I faw in Thuris a Man coming from one of théfe Skirmithes with four Mens Heads in his Hand, holding them by the Hair of che Head; fortho they weekly thaye their Heads, jef they lcave a Tufrof Hair abour tivo foo: leng.
The Cafpian-Sea ncither ebbs nor flows, bur fwells ve-Defriptioc ry high in rempettuous weather. The Warer is very of the cus. Calr; unlefs ir'be at the Mouth of the great River Volja pian. Sea. where the Warer is frem at leatt io Leagues into the Sca, It is tery full of Fifh, but no monftrous Fiih, yce has it many forts which are not in thefe parts of the World.

\section*{C H A P. VIII.}

\section*{The Embally of Thomas Randolph, Efq; to the Emperour of Ruffia, Anî́o 1568. briefly wiritten by bimfelf.}

THE 22 d of Fune \(_{\text {I }}\) went aboard the Horry in Harmich Road, having in my Company \(2-\) bout 40 Perfons; whercof onchalf were Gentlemen defirous to fee the Wofld. In otr Voyage was norhing remarkable, butt the grieat nüniber of Whales engendring together, and the 'Spermis Ceti fwimiming upon the Sea. On the \(32 d\) day after but departure, we anchored in St. Nicbolas Road, and landed there the 23d of \(\mathcal{F} u l y\), where chicre ftands an Abby of aboar 20 Monka Their Prigr prefented me with two great Loaves of Rye, Fin falt and frefh, one live Sheep. The Abby is built of Wood; the Church full of painted Images, Tapers, and Candles; the Monks eat together are much given to drunkeninels, unlearned; ceremonious in their Church, and long in their Prayers.

There wete no Houses ar St. Nicholas, befides thiée on fournear the Abby, and another built by the Englifh Compasy for their own ưfe.
 and nue inhabied by reafon of the cold in Winter. St. Nichoies ftands in \(6_{4}\) Degrees; the River that runs there into the Sca , is called owim, very large bur fhatlow; It hath its beginning about 700 Miles upin the Country, and upon this River flandech Colmogro, and many pretty Villages. The River is pleafanr, runting between high Hids covered with tall Fir-Tress, aud ocher Wood.
As Colnogre, leing 100 Verts or 75 Emplifh Miles from St. Nicioble, we tarried three Wecks, until a Gentleman came from the Emperour to conduct us, and furnilh ins with all Necedfarics at the Emiperour's charge. The allowance of Mear and Drink, was for cyery day two Rubb'es, belades the charge of Boats, and 80 Rout-horfes

Colmraro is a"great Cown buils of Wood, not walled, and the Houkes fertering. I was five whole Weeks upon the River Dipima before I came to the Vole \({ }^{\text {ghed }}\) d, 1000 - Verft, or 750 Ergifo Miles, being drawn with Men asainlt the Stream, there being no other parfige: It thands upon the Rivcr of Voinghata, which talls nito Dwinta. The Town is great and long, buike of Wood, as all their Towns are: In it are many Churchics, fome of Brick, foinc of Wood : Many Monks and Nuns: Iris a Town of gricat Trafich, and many rich Mcrchants there 10
From lience, we palfed by land towards \(M\) fofo in Poft, being 500 greit Verfts, which are equal with our Miles. The Councry we paffed chro was plain and pleafanc, well inhabited - abounding with. Corn Panture, Mcadows and Woods.

At Yeraftrve we paifed the River Voigia, moxe than a Mitcover, and arrivedar Mofio about the end of \(S c p-\) Country-men fufferca to incer us, which bred fufpicion in mer of fome other Courfe intended, than we had hitherro found.

We were brought to a largethours, buile on purpofe by the Enuperour for Embatiadors. Two Gentoanen wercappointel to attend upon me, the one to fee us furnifhed with Vietuals, and that. welacked nothing of the Emperour's Allowance; the orher to fee that we thould net grout of the Houfe, nior permin any Man to come in to us, in which they left nothing undone that belonged to their charge; but efpecially he that looked to our Perfons watched us "fo ftrictly, that we had no fmall caure to doubt that Come evil had been incended us: Ao Supplication could take place for our LiBerty.
Having parfed orer 17 Weeks in this matiner, the Emperour fant us word that we thould be ready atatinit Ticfay the 20th of February, at cighe in the Morning.

The Hour being come, the two faid Gentlemen, Priflaues (as they call them) came unto me in much berter Apparel than before I had ever feen them. They preffed tas to cicpart, being mounted upon their own Horfes, arid I upon fuch a one as I had borrowed, my Men marching on foor to their grear grief. The two Prifaces conycyed me into a Room where I rarried two long Hours bcfore I was frut for to the Emperour.
farc, I was conveyed by the faid priftares up a pair of His sumin Stairs thro' a large Room, where fare about 300 lerfons perroundere upon three ranks of Benches; all in rich Robes takencence.t out of the Empcrour's Wardrobo for that Day, that chey mighe refemble Men of Quality and Honour.
At my firlt carry into the Chamber, I with my Cap gave themreverence, fuch as I judged their ftately firting, grave Counitenances, and fumptuous Apparel required, but feeing that ir was not anfwered again by any of them, l coversd my Head, and fo pating toa ChamEer where the Emperour was, two of his Councellon' received me at the Door from the rwo Priftaves, and thewingme to the Emperour, broughr me imothe ariddle of dic Chamber, whereI was willed ro ftand ftill, and deliver whatl had tofay; I by my Interpreter npened my Mcíageas I reccived it from the Qucen my Miftrefs, at whore Name the Emperour ftuod up; and asked divers Queftions of her Healch and Srate: He gave me his Hand in teken of my Welsome, caufing me to fis downand asking me many Qucftions Thisdone, I delivered her Majeftics Prefent, which was the Qee:; notable great Cup of Silver curiondy wrought, with lefcut. Yorfes cagraven in it, explaining the Hiftorics engraven on the fame.
All things faid and done to lis contenmene, he licencedme and all my Conrpany to depart, who were all inhis Prefence, and were falured by him with a nod of his Head, and faid unto me, I dinenor this day openly, by xeafon of grear Aiffairs I have, bur I will fend chee my Dinner, and give leave to thee and thine togo as liberry, and augment our Allowance to the in token of our love to our Sifter the Quecn of Englimd. -
I with reverencetook my Leave, being condiated by two others of greater Digniry than thiofe who brough me to the Emperour's Prefence; who delivered me to the swo firf Gentemen, who coniveycd me to ary Lodg ing.

Wrthin an Hour came to my todginga Duthe rich ly apparell'd, accompanied with 50 Perfors, cach o them carrying a Silver Dino with Meas, and covered wich Silver. The Dake frift delitered 20 Loaves of Bread having fint talted the fame, and delivered every Din inro myown Hands; and'tafted of every kind of Drink thar he broughic. The Duke and his Comparty fate down with me, and'rook'patr of the Emperotir's Mear filling themifelecs whith all forts, and wentior away from me unrewarded.
Nor long aftex "the Emperour fent for the in the Night to fpeak with me fecretly, 'where, 'after above three Hours diffourfe, I was difintifed towiras-Morning and he going nexrday' ro'stonda his Houfe of pleafure 1 heard no morefromhin in fix Weeks, which tvastin the beginining of april; and the Euperour then teruming, he Cent forme again: I then dealr effeetratly with him in Behalf of our Emgliflo Merchants, and found thin fo graciouly inclined rowards them, that i obtained my whole Demands: Then'he commended ro my conduct into Emgland, a Nobleman of his called Andrem Sarvin, a his Embaffador, who embarked with meariSt. Nictiotas about the end of \(\mathcal{F} u l y\), and andived fafely at London'in Sep sember following.

\section*{Сиar. IX.}

\section*{The Fourth Voyage of Mr. Anthony Jenkinion, Embafador from the Queen's: mof exceltent Majefts, to the Emperour of Rulfia, Anno 157 I .}

Note, That Mr. Jenkinfor made a third Voyage into \(R u \int f a_{2} 1566\).

ON the 2 gith day of fuly, \(\mathrm{r} 57 \mathrm{I}, \mathrm{I}\) arrived in St. Nictolas" Bay, with the Spollow and the Hairy \({ }^{\prime}\) and Tent iway my Incerpreter to Hirry," and Ient away my Interpreter to igo to advertice the Emperour of my coming, and toknöw his pleafure for my furcher acccls. Difcourfing there with fome of the Companies Serrants, .they told me chat I was entred. into grear poril and dangexcf my Life, and that they heard at Mofo that the grit rather than to return home in vain. Wherefore leaving the faid Ships on the 29th, 1 arrived the fint of leaving the Caid Ships on she 29th, 1 arrived the firtt of Anguft at Colmogro, where I actended the retarn of the Anguftat Cotmogro, where I atcended the retarn of the Meflenger; but the Councry being vifited with the Phague, none amighr pafs on pain of death, and my Mcfrenger being 800 Miles upon his way, was ftopt at a Town called Shasko, and nor fuffcred to come firther, or return back, nor to fend to mc ; fo chat in four MonthsI could not hearwhar was become of hin. In the mean time \(I\) fonnd means to fend another Mcffenger with a Guide by an unknown way, thro' a Defert Coun try a thoufand Mikes abouc, thinking thar way he might pafs without hindrance; but it proved contrary, for af ter he had paffed a.grcat part of his Journey, the fell into the Hands of a Warch, and efcaped narrowly 'from being burnt, both he and his Guide, and their Horles according to a Law provided for fuch as would feek to pass by indicect Ways, whereof many have folc the fmare, who had not wherewith to buy-off the pain; neither could that Meffenger recturn back to me.
And thus lremained at Cotmogro until the 18 th of \(\mathcal{F a}\) nutry, 'withour any Gentlemen to protect me, or lodg ing appointed me, or allowance of Victuals according to the Country fathion for Emballadors, which as it ar gucd his Majefties grievous difpleafure towardyour Nation, fo the Rufics perceiving it, ufed fome Difcourtethes towards meand my Company; but abour the 28 ch day of Frmury, the Plague cealing, and the Paltage being opered, order came from his Majelty that I thould have Poit-horfes to go to Peralnove, near to the Court, 'his Majefty being newily returned from'the. Wars'againit the Spedes.
Tarrived therethe thind day of Februnery where I xemaned under the charge of a Gentleman, having a Houte appointed'forme, and allowance of Victuals, bus Troftrietly kept, that mone of our Nation or odrer, might come or fend to mic, norl to them.
On the fourth of March I was fent for to the Court, and being within three Miks of theifame, a Poft was Sent to the Gentieman who thad charge of me; to xeturn back igain withme to Pcrmflave, ant there axtend his Majeftics furcher pleafure, whereat I was much difmayed, marvelling what that fudden changemean5, and the rather, becaufe xt was a croublefome time, and his Majefty much difquicted with the ill :fucceif of his Afairs.
- Onthe \(=0\) hh: was fent for again to the Cours, and on the 33 d came before his Majelty, who caufed me to kifs his Hand, giving gracious Audience to my Oration, and gratefully accepted the Queeris'Lecteers and her Prefent, in'the Preface of all his Nobiliry. The Emperour, who all this while fate in Royal State, ftood up and faid, How doth Qreen Elizabests my Sitter? is the in thealch? To whoon I anfwered, God doth blefs her Majefty with Hellctrand Peace, and doch with che like unto thee Lord her loving Brother. Then his Majefty firting downagain, commanded. all to depart but the Secrecary and one more of his Council, and willing me to approach near to him withmy Interpreter, faid unto me thefe Words.
s Anthony, thelaft sime chour waft here, we did com\({ }^{-}\)s mir unto thee our unaly and-fecret Meflage, to be de-- clared unto the Queens Majefty her, falf, thy Miftrefsat - thy coming home, and did expect thif coming unto us a gain as the cime we appointed, withafull Anfwer of the - Camefrom her Highnefs; and in the mean rime there - cameunto us ar feveral times, three Meffengers, the - One called:Manly, the other George Middleton, and Ed" mard Goodman, by the way of the Narve; about the Mer: - chants Affairs; to whom we fene our Meffenzer to - know whecher thou-Anthony was returned home in fafe-- ty, and when thou fliould's recurn to on again: Bur - thofe Meffengers could rèl us nothing, and did mifcal is and abufe wirt evil Words, both our . Meffenger and 6 thee, wheretwith we were much offended; ;and underAtanding thar the faid Goodman hid Letters about "him, we caufed 'him'to be fearched, with whom - Were found many Letrers, wherein' was writren much - agaimf our Princely Eftate, and that in our Empire - were many unlawful mings done, whereat we were - much grieved, and would fuffer none of chofe rude - Meffengersta have aceefs unto us. And finorty after 'We wereinforned that one Thomes Randotph was" come © into ourDominions by' the way of Dwina, Embaffador ' from 'the Quéen, and we' fent a: Gentleman to meer 'and conduct him'to our City of Mof fo, ar which time - we looked that thou fhould't have texurned to us a©gain. And thefaid Thoms being antived-as our faid Ciry, - Ave fent unto him divers cimes that he fhould come and confer with our Counfel, whereby we might underfand the caule of his coming, looking for anfwer of thofe our Princely Affairs committed unro thee, but he refufed to come to our faid Council, whercfore and becaufe our faid City was vifited with the Plague, the faid Thones was longer kepr from our prefenice, which being ceafed, we forthwith gave him accefs and audicnee; bur all his talk with us was abour Merchants Affalrs, and nothing touching ours. We know that Merchants Matters are to be heard; becaufe they are the ftay of our llincely Treafures; hue firf Princes Afrairs are to be eftablithed, and then Mcrchants. After this, the faid Thomas Randelph was with us at our City of Voleghdn, and we dealt with him abour our Princely Affairs, whereby Amity between the Qucen's Majefty and us mighs be eftablifhed for cver; and Marters were agreed and concluded betwixt your Embaffador and us, aud thercupon we fent our Embaff dorinto Englan:l with hiri to end the fame, but our emballador tenurned unto us again, withour fininimg our faid Affairs, contrary to our expectation, and the Agrecment betwixr us and your faid Enbatiador.

His Majefty baving thus made a long Difceurfe 1 humbly befecched his Highnefs to hear me gracioully ro give me leave to fpeak withour offence, and ro belicve hofe Mords to be true whichl hoould fpeak, which he granting, I faake as followerh.
"Moft noble and famousiPrince, she Meffage your Highnefs : fent loy me unto the Queens moft excellens Majcity, touching your Princelyand SccretAffaits, imine diately, and as foon as I came home, I diydeclare bouh fecrenly and muly unto the Queens Majefty her. felf,word for word as you commanded me, which her Hishnes did willingly aceepr, and being mindful thereof, and willing to anfwer the fame, the next Shipping her Majetty fenr unto your Highnefs. Hier Embatitalor Tite mus Randolph, whofe approved Wifdom and Fidelity was unto herMajefty well-known, and therefore rhoughr meer to be fent to la worthy a Prince, who had Commilion notonly to sreat with your Majefy about Mer chants Affairs, 'bur alfo thole of Princely and Secres Affairs committed unto ine.And the caufe (molt gracious Prince) thar I was noc fenr again was, by reafon I Was employed in Cervice upon the Scas againit the Queen's Majefties Encmies, and was nor rerurned home when Mr. Thomos Randalph. departed with the Ships to come into your Majenties. Country, otherwife 1 had been fenc. And whereas your Majelty fays thas Thomas Randolpb would noc trear with your Council abour the Watters of hisLegation, he did therein arcording co his Commifion, which was, firt to deal with your Majefties own felf, as is. commonly ufed among all Rrinces when they fend their Embalfadors about Marters of great weighr. And. whereas the faid Thomas is charged that he agreed and concluded upon Matters at the lame cime, and promifed the fame thould be perfonmed by the Queens Majedty; and thacreupon your Majefty fent your Embaffador with him into tingland: In anfwer thereunto, may it pleare your'Majefty to underftand, chat-as che faid Thomas Remitoiph doch confefs that he had divers cimes difcourfed with your Highrefs and Council abour Princely Aftairs, even 10 he denies that ever he did agree, conclude, or make any promife in any condition or order, as is alledged, ocherwife chan it ihould pleafe the Qucen's Majefty to approve of ar his return home; all which he did juftify to your Highnefs's Emba!fador's Face in England; wherctore molt mighty Prince, it well ap pears, thar either your Embaffador did nerrighely inform your Majefty, or elfe your Princely Mind, and the true meaning of the: Queen's Embaffador, for want of a goodi Incexpreter, was norwell underitood; and how thankfully the Queen's Majefty did xeceive your Highnefs's Commendations-and Letrers fenr by your Blajefties Embarfador, and how graciothy the gave hinm audience.fundry times,' ufing him with hich: Honour in all Points for the fake of your Majefty, her loving Brorber \({ }^{2}\) as the ike was never thewed to any Imbaifador miour Realm; and how honourably with full anfwer in allthings, her Majefty difniffed him, when: Ee had frnifhed all your Rrincely Aftairs (as ir feemed ) tohis own contenr, maty appear by a Cextincate lately ent-with hex Majefties letrers unto your Highnefs, by her'Melfenger-Robert Benf?, and her Majefty did fuppofe thatyour Embaffadorwould ha vernade report accordingly, and that by him your Highefs would have beenfacisfied in all things, otherwife the would have fenuther Embaffador ovith hinn ;unto your Majelty a-
* again, bur now her Highnels perceiving that your Ma-- jelty is, nos fully Katisfied in your Princely Affairs, nci-- ther by Thomas Ramdolph, her Highnes's Embalfador, - nor by your owin Embaufador dudtca Savin, nor yecby - her Majeitics Lerters fene by the faid Andrea, and al-- So underftanding your prear difplicaliure towards Sir - brilliam Garret and his Company, Merchants traffick-
- ing in yourDominions, hath thoughs good to fend me - at this prefene unto you hord Emperour and Great * Duke, as well with your Highnef's full mind touching - your Princely Aftais's, as alfo to k:ow the juit caufe - of your Majeftics faid diffeafure towands the faidCoin-- pany of Merchants, and hath commanded me to anfwer all things intheir behalf, and according to their true - Meanings; for her Highuels doth fuppofe your Ma* iefties Indignation to prosed rather from the evil and - falle Reporrs of your late Einbaffador in Eingland,
- and of luch wicked Perions of our own Nation refi-
- denthere in your Hignefis Dominions, Rebels to her
*Majety and rheir Country, than trom any jutt Deferts ' of the faid Merchants, who never wilingly deferved * your Highnefs's Difpeafure, bur rarhce kavour in all * their Doings and Meanings; and tince the tirtt time of 6 their trafficking in your Majeitics Dominions, which ' is now 19 Years, the faid Merchanes haic been, and

- are alwas ready and willing truly to cerve your * Highnierevittrall chings. meer tor your Treafury, in * time of Peace or War, in defpire of all the Enemics
- (aliho' the Princes of the Eaft Seas were agrecd to ftop
- the Sound and the Way to the Narve) and have broughr, and do bring from time to time fuch Commoditics to your Highnefs, as her Majefly dothinor fuffer to be - tranfported forth of her Realm to any other Prince of - the World \({ }_{3}\) and whar great Loffes the faid Sir Willicm
- Garcef with his Company, have fuftaind of late
- Ycars in this Trade, as well by Shipwrack ag by falle - Servanty is manifeftly known; and what-8cerice the - fuid Colhpanies Ships did unro your Majefty againf - jour Encmics, two Xcars paft in going to che Narve, * when they fought with the King of Polanh's Free-boot"crs, burning the fame, and laying the People, and - deliveringas many as were taken alive unco your Cap-
- tainat the Niruegt truft your Highnefs doch not for* ger. Whercfore modt mighry Prince, the Premifes - conildered, the Quecns? moft cxcellenr Majefty your
- loving Sifter, doth requeft your Highners to reftore che:
a faid Sir William Garres widh his Company to your.
- Princely Favour again, and their Priviledges for free. © traffick, with your accuftomed Goodness and Juftice, - to be miniftred unto them throughour all your Ma-- jeftics Dominions, as aforetime; and thar the fame - may be fignified by your Princely Lecters directed to *the Officers in all places, any Commandment or - Reftraine from your Highnels to the contrary notwichAtanding. And furcher, that is will pleafe your Ma-- jefty not to give credit to falfe Reports and untrue Suggeftions of fuch as are Enemies, and fuch as ncither
? would have mutual Amity to continue berwixs your
- Majenties, nor yet entercourle betwixr your Councrics.
- And as to fuch Rebels of ourNationas Rapb Ruftcr and * others, who lie lurking here in your Highnefs's Do-- minions, feeking fo fow Diffentions berwixr your Ma-
- jefties by falfe Surmifes, fpending away their Mafters
-Goods riotouily, and will not come home to give up 'their Accounts, advancing themelves to be Merchants, and able to ferve your Highnefs with all things fir for your Treafury, whereas indeed they are of no credir, - nor able of chemfelves co do your Majelty any Scrvice * ar all, the Queen's Highnels requclt is, thar it would * pleafe your Majetty to command chat fuch Perfons - may be delivered unto me to be carried home, left by - their remaining here, and practiling with fuch as are * nor your Highnels's Friends, their evil Doings may be a crufe hereafter to withdraw your Goodnefs from Sir
'Lf:lliam Gniref and his Company, who have true * meaning in all their Duings, and are ready to ferve your
- Highnefs at alltimes: Uling:many other Words to the advancemens of your Credit, and the difgracing of your Enemics, and fo \(I\) ended for that time.
Then faid his Majefty," We have heard you, and will confider of all things further, when we have read 6 the Qucen our Sifters Letters: To whom I anfwered, - That 1 fuppofed his Majefty Mould by thofe Leters - underftand her Highnefs's full mind to his Contentati-- on, and what wanted in Writing, I had credit to - accomplifir in Word. Wherewith his Majefty feemed to be well plealed, and commanded me to fir down; and after pawfing a while, his Majefty faid, . It is now a - rime which wo fpend in Fafting and Praying, being the \(\therefore\) Week before Eaffcr, and becaufe we giall thorty depart hence towards our Borders of Nougrods; we cannorgive you anfwer nor your difpatch here, but you thall go hence and tarry for us on the way, where we will hortly come, and then you thall kncw our Píciafurc and have your Difpatch. And io I was difimiffed to my Lodging, and che faine day had a Dinner ready dreft, fenc me from his Majelty, with divers - forts of Driak, and the day following being the 2ifth of stanci, a Gentleman cane to me from the chicf Secretary, to acquaine me the Einperour's Pleafure was, I thould immediately deparr towards a City called Ofper, 300 Miles sithods: from Slobotr, and there to tarry his Hignefs's coming un- Howe so a place called Scerres, 60 Miles from Usiner.
Then fending my Interpreter to the Sectetary, I requefted him to thew his Favour to our Merchanes in theit sutes, which they thould have oceafion to move in my abfence; who anfwered, Thar they thould be wellatfured of his Favour in all. And forthwich. Polt-horfes were fent me with a Gendemann to conduct me, and fo departing from Sloboda, I arrived at Otwer the 2 sth of March, where I remained cill the 28ith of may. Then I was lent for to come unto his Majelty to the faid Sirrits, where larrived the soth, and on the sath was appointcd to come to the Secretary, who at our mecring faid minto me there Words.

Our Lord Empcrour and Great Duke, hath not only pcrufed the Quecn's Majetties Lerters fent by you, and thercby perceives her mind, as well rouching their Princely Affairs, as allo her camett requelt in the Merchants behalf, but hath alfo. well pondered your Words, and therefore his Majeftics Pleafure is, that you let me underitand what Sutes you have to move in the Merchants behalf, or otherwife, becaule to morrow you fthall have accefs again unto his Highnels, and thall have full anfwer in all things, with your difpatch .away.

Then after long Confexence had with him of divers Marters, I gave him in writing certain brief Articles of Requerts, which I had drawn our ready as followerh.
I. THE Qucen's Majcflicsicqueft is, thatit would - pleafe the Emperour to letme know the juft caure of his grear difpleafure fallenupon Sir william Garres and his Company, who never deferved the fame to their knowledge.
II. " That it would pleafe his Highnefs not to give credit to falfe Reports by fuch as feek to fow Dulention, and break Friendihip betwixtche Quecn's Highnels and his Majcity.
III. *Thar it would pleafe his Majefty to reccive the Kaid Sir Wh:lliam Garref with his Company into hisFavour again, and to xeftore them to their fotmer Pririleges and Libervies, for free Traffick in, anid thro' and out of all his Majefties Dominions, in as ample manner as aforetime, according to his Princely Lerters of Privilege and accuftomad Goodners.
IV. 'That it would pleafe his Highnefs to grans, that the faid Company of Merchanes may bave Juftice of all his Subjcets, as well for Money owing to then, as ocher their Grict's and Injurics, throughour all his Dominions, fuffered fince the time of his Difpleafure, during which cime, the Merchants were forced by fevere Juftice to anfwer all Mens Demands, bur theiss could nor be heard.
V. * Alfo thar his Majefty would undertand that many Debis are owing to the faid Merchants by divers of his Nobilicy, whereof pare are in durance, and fome executed; and that the faid Merchanrs kriow nos how to be paidand anfweredthe fame, cxcept hisHighnefs pity sheir cafc, and command fome order to be taken therein.
VI. 6 Thar it would pleare his Highnefs to command that the faid Merchants may be paid all fuch Sum or Sums of Money as are owing and due unto them by his Majefty, for Wares, as well Englifh as Shamaky, raken into his Highnefs's Treafury by his Officers in fundry places; the long forbearance whereof hath been, and is grear hindrance to the faid Company of Merchants.
VIL. That fome Englifh Merchants now in Perfia, would have come to Aftracen laft Year, bur that the Ship with fome of our Merchants and Mariners appointed to go for chem, was ftoperar Astracan by his Highnefs's Captain there, to the great prejudice of the faid Merchants : wherefore it may pleale his Majefy to dirted his Letters to his Cartains at Astrecan and
"Cajan, to fuffer our People to pals with their Ships, - Barks, Éc. and to be fafely conducted upon the - Volana.

Vilii. 'That wherens lately cur Merchants coming - from Shemaky, have been ill uled by his Majeftics -Cuftomers both at Cazan and affraci", where they - were forced to pay Cuftom, alcho they fold none of - their Wares, the faid Cuftomers exact ng more chan - wasdue, and for wane of prefent Moncy, took Wares - much exceeding their exacted Cuttom, and kepe the
- fame as a Pawn: Thas ie may thercfore pleafe his - Highnefs to dircet hisCuftoners coreftore and fend the - faid Gools to \(M \cdot / \mathrm{co}\), the Merchants paying fuch Cu-- ftom as his Majenty thall appoint.
IX. " That it would pledfe his Highnefs to grant that - the Company may cftablinh cheir Trade at Colmegre, and
- that fuchWarcs as lhall be brought out of our Councry fit
' for his Treafury, may be looked upon and received by - his Officers there; and that his Majefties Pcople ' trafficking with our Merchants may bring down thicis - Goods to Colmogro, wherely the \(E m \pi / i / \beta\) avoiding grcat - trouble and charge; in cranfporting their Goods fo far, - may fellithe famebetrer cheap, to the bencfit of his Ma-- jextics Subjects.
X. "That the whole Tiade from Perfit and other - Couneries beyonl the Cafjian, may be citablifhed at "Aftracan.
入I. 'And forafinuch as it pleafed his Majefty imme-- diately aficr the burning of Mrfoo, to command that 6 the faid Engif Marchants hould give ma Notc into "his Trcafury for their Lolfes fuftain'd by the faid Fare, : which was accordingly done, and the Parsiculars amonnted to 100000 * Rubbles and above; ir may oomuks. "pleafe his Highnefs of his accuttomed Gooduess and - great Clemency to confider of the lime, and to give the - Company fo mutich as thall feem good unto his Riajefty towards their faid Lofles.
XII. "Tharit would pleare his Highnefs to undertand ' that the Oucen at the carneftSure and Fiequent of \(A n-\) - drica Siroin his Embaffador, did not only pardon and - forgive Tionior Gioerer his grear Offences againf her * Highneff commiritce, for his Majeftics fake only, bur allo command Sir th:llinm Garrer with his Company, to deal favourably with the faid Glower in his Accompes, so whon he was greatly indebed, and being their 'Scrvant, detained their Goods in his Hands a long! * time. Whercupon Sir william Garrer and Company - comnted with the Said Glover, ending all things to his * contents, and he was found to be Debtor to the Com' pany above 4000 Rubbles, and bound himfelf by his - folemn Oath and his Hand-writing, to pay the fame "immediately after his return into Resfa with the faid Andrea Savin, unto the Companies Agenr there; Bur ' altho' it is now two Xears paft fince che laid Agreement, - and that the Agent hath offen requefted the Money of the faid Thomas, yer will he nor pay the fame, bue 'makes delay from time ro cime, alledging, that his \({ }^{*}\) Majeity owes him a greas Sum of Money, withour payment whereof be cannor pay the Company. In \({ }^{6}\) confideration hercof, that it may pleafo his Highmefs 4to give order that the faid Glower may be paid, and thathe may difcharge his Debt to the Company, and she rather becaufe he found fuch Mercy and Farour in * England for his Majefties fake only.
XIII. ' And forafmuch as Relpl, Rutter, a Rebel to the - Qucen's Majetty, an Enemy to his Councry, and to Sir William Garrec and his Company, bath a long time remained herc, living on the Spoils and Goods of the faid Merchants, which he wrongfully derained in his "Hands, riocouly fpending the fame, during the time *he was their Scrvant, and would not come home when - he was fene for; and-alfo becaufe the Qurecn does un-- derfand, that the faid Ra/pp, with his Adherents, leek ' by all falfemeansto fow Diffention berwixt their Majefties, and to overthrow the Trade of the faid Mer--chancs, her Highnefs's requeft is, that che faid Ralp/s with his Complices may be delivered to me, to be carried home, and none other of her Majerties Subjects, nor 4 being of the Company, tobe fuffercd to traffick with-
"in his Highnefo's Dominions, bur to be delivered to their Agent to be fent home, becaufe the faid Merchants with great Charges and Lofes, :both by Ship' wrack and riotous Scrvants, did firft find outchis Trade, - and have continued the fame 19 Years to their great hindrance.
XIV. * And whèreas divers Artificers of our Nation ' here in his Majectics Service, are grieved thar they cannot have Licence to depart home into their native Councry, the Queen's xequeft is, according to her writing in that behalf, that not only it will pleafel his Majelty to permic fuch Areificers here refideat in the Service of his Highnels, to have frec Liberty to depart and go home with me if they requett the fame, bur alfo thofe which thall come hercafter to ferve his Majefty, to have freeLibercy to depart likewife ar theis will and pleafure.
XV. " That during iny long ftay at Coimgro, attending his Highnels's pleafirefor my further aceels, I and my Company, with che Merchants there, were ill ufed by one beflou, your Majeftics chicf Office, who dithonourcd me, and fmote my People, and owes the faid Marchants much Moncy and will nor pay them A wherefore may is plcafe his Highnefs to fend a Gentled man with mesto Coimorre, to enquirc into his evil Ficd haviour rowards her Majefty and me her Embaffador, and to punifh him accordingly, and that he may be forced to pay all the Moncy le owes to the faid Aicrchants without delay.
XVI. 'And whercas the Company hearing of the great dearth in his Majeftics Domininins, by lisence trom the Queen ( nor ocherwife permitted) hath fens cextain Sthips laden with Com into his Highnefs's Country of Dmim, rather for the Kelief of his Majeltics Subjects chan for any gain; yst the Good Will of the faid Merchants lighily regarded, they were forbidden to fell the faid Corn, to their great d:foouragement hereafere to fend any more: Wherefore may it pleafe his Highnels to acecpe the Good Will of the laid Merchants, as well in conding the faid Corn as in a!l other things ready to ferve his Majefty, and to or cier his Officers of Dipina to permit the Merchants to fell the dad Corn, without paying Cuftom.

Thefe Articles-being delivered to the Secretary, I returned tomy Ledging; the nexrday, heing the 13th of May, I hat warning carly in the Morning to be at Coure betwixt ten and cleven, at which time, being brounht before his Majefty, who fute fumptuoully apparelled with a rich Crown upon his Head, garnilhed with precious Sroncs, his eldeft Son fiting by him, and many of his Nobility abour him: After my dury done, he commanded me to approach very near him, and foake as follows.
- Artbony, the Queen our loving Sifters Letecrs vec have ca:led to be trannated, and do well underiland the fame, and of all things as well by us contaised, as by word of Mouth by you to us declared, we have well confidered, and do perceive that our fecret Mcflage unto you commitred, was done truly aceording to our the Cautes mind (alcho we werc advertiled to the contrary) ot the Em and now we areby you fully katislied. And when we plafure. fent our Emballador into Eng;and about our grear and weighry Affairs, to conclude the fame with the Queen our Sifter, he could end mothing for wane of fuch Affurance as was requifire in Princely Atizairs, according to the manaer of all Countrics, whe was dilimifed unto us again, withletters of mall eftect, and no Embaffador fent with him from the Queen, which cauled us to think that our Princely Affairs were little regarded, whicewith we were at that time much grieved; for which caufe; and for the evil behaviour of your Merchants here (who have divers ways tranfgrefed and broken our Laws, living wilfully in all their Doings! we did lay our heavy difflcafure upon them, and did take away from them their Prisilcge, commanding that the fame chroughoue all our Dominions, thould be void and of nonc effert, and thercupon did write to the Qucen our Sifter touching our Griefs.
- And now her Highnets hath fenc unto us again you her Embalfador, with herloving Letrers and full mind; which we do shankfully receive, and afe thereby futly Gatisfied; And becaufe our Princely and Secrer Affa:rs were not finifhed to our content at our time appoinred, according to our expectation, we do now leave of alf thofe matters, and let them afide for a time, becaule our mind is now changed, bur hereafter, when occalion thall move us to the like, we will then talk of thore matters again; and fince ir hath pleafed the Qucen our loving Silter, ro fend unto us at this Prefonc, and doth defire rocontinue in friendfhip with us for ever (which we do graciouly accept and willingly agree to the fame ) we of our Goodnefs for ber Highnefs's fake will nor only from henceforth pur away and forget all our difpleafure towards Sir prillinm Gartet and his Company (as tho' they had never offended us) but will alforeftore them to their Privileges and Liberticsin and throughour all our Dominions, and we will fognify the fame by our Letters, to all Iownsand Citics where the faid Merchants dorrafick, and will thew them favour
＂as formerly，if they deferve not the contrary：And ＂if the Qreen our Sitter had root fent thes Ambony unto cus ar this prefenr，God knows whas we thould have －done to the faid Merchants，or whether we thould －have called back our Indignation．

Then I humbly befecched his Majefty to let me know the particular Offences commitecd by the faid Merchants and the Offenders Names，thar I mighe beable to make report thereof to the Quecn my Miffrelsaccordingly，and that the Offenders might have juit punithment tor theit Deferts：He anfwered， 1 thould not know them，be－ caufe he had cleariy remitsed all Oficoces：and further char it was nor Primely to forgive，and afeer toaccule the Partics；whereby her Mapeitics difpleafure might fall up－ on them ar home；Notwithltanding，I afrerwards came to know fome of them，by other means．
Then his Majefty procecding，faid，＇As to the Ar －ricles of Requelt，concerning the Marchants Affairs， －which you Xefterday delivered to our Scerctary，we ＊have read the fame，and appointed our Sccretary to de－ －clare unto you our mind，and anfwer the fanic；and －becaufe we arenow upon our Journcy towards our －Borders，and thall depart hence thorely，we will dif－ ＇inifs you to the Quecnour loving Sifter，your Miftrefs， swith our Letters，and full mind be word of mouth， －touchingall your Requefts，and will fend a Genticman －of our Houthold to conduat yout to your Ships，and －of our Goodnefs will give you Vietuals，Boats，Men －and Poft－horifs，as many as you thall need；and then his Majefty ftanding up，and putting off his Cap，faid， －Give our hearty Commendations to our loving Sifter －Quecn E／iarleti，unto whom we widh long life and －happy tuccefs；and therewith extended his Hand for metokifs，and commanded his Son fieting by him，to fend the like Commendations，which he did，whore Hand Ilikewife kifed，and chen caufing me to hir down， he commanded Wine and divers forts of drink to be brought，whercof he gave me to drink with his own hand，and fo Ideparted．
The next day I was fent for to come to the Secretary and one other of the Council with him，who at our mecting faid，＇We are appointed by the Emperour to a give anfwer to your Requefts deliver＇d in writing， ＊which his Majelty himfelf laath perufed，and anfwered as followerh．

I．\({ }^{5}\) TTO the firft Requeft it is anfwered，that all his Majectics Grief and Difpleafure（ now put ＇away from the Mcrehants）did grow，becaufe the ＊Qucens Majefty did not accomplith and end with his －Embaffador，his fecrer and wcighty Affairs；according ＊tohiscxpectation，and the promife made by Tiomas －Rendolpis ac his being hexe，and alfo by reafon of the －ill bchaviour of your Merchants refidene here in our －Country，as his Majefty did himelf yefterday declare －unto your． 1I．－To the fecond，his Majefty willed you to under－ －ttand，that he harh nor，nor will norhercafterbe moved －to break Friendmip with the Qucens Majefty wirhour －good and juit caufe．
III．＇To the chird，you areanfwered by the Emperour ＂himelf，that his Favour to the Merchants thall be fe－ ＂tored，and che fanc to be known by his gracious let－ －ters of Privilege now againgranted．

IV．＇To the fourth，his Majecty hath commanded －thas your Mcrchants here refidene thall exhibir and pur －in writing，unto me his Majefties Sectetary，of all ＊their Cricfs and Complaints，as well for Debrs as In－ －jurics offered to them．fince the time of his Highnefs＇s －difpleafure，and they mall have Juftice truly admi－ ＊niftred throughour all his Majefties Dominions wishout © delay
V．To the sth，his Majefty doth nor know any －Debrs duc unto the Merchants from any of his Noble－ ＊men，as is alledged，and wherher it be true or no，he ＇knoweth not；the Truth whercof munt be tried，and ＇thercupon anfwet to be given，and bereafter his Ma－ －iefty would not have the Merchants to truft his Reopile －too much．

VI．＊To the fixth it is anfwered，that his Majefty hath －commanded farch to be made，whar Moncy is owing \({ }^{6}\) to the Merchanss for Wares received into his －Treafury，as in the Article，（moft of the Books of －Accounts beine burnein \(M o f(5)\) ）and fuch as is duc，and －found meer to be paid，fhall be paid forthwith to the －Merchants，rheir Faetors or Servants，who thall come
－for the fame；and for paymens of the reft，his Ma－
\(\therefore\) icfties further pleafurethall be fignified hereafter．
－The \％th and 8th are gramed．
＊To che gtli and －orthArticles，hisMajefty will confuler of thofe Matrers，and hercafter will fignify his Prinecly pleafure thercin．
XI．＂To the 1 the as enuching an Tnerntory given into the Treafury，what Goods the Merchaneshad burnt in their Houfes ar \(\mathrm{Ml}_{\mathrm{l}} / \mathrm{fo}\) ，his Majettics pleafure was to underftand the fame，to the intene he might know the l．offes of all Strangersat that pretient，but not to make reftitution，becauk is was God＇s doing，and not the Empcrour＇s．
XII．＇To the 12 th，concerning Thomes Glover，his Majcity was informed by his Embatfador，of the Quecn＇s prear Mercy and Clemency towards the faid Thomas，fur his fake，which his Majctty reccived in good part，bue whar Agremener or Dealings was te－ tween Sir Milliam G．rret and his Company，and the Snid Clover，or whar he owes mro the faid Merchants， his Majefty knows not ；and as for the Moncy which the faid Thomas faith isowing unco him by the Empe－ romr，his Majeftics Plealure is，that fo much as thall be found due，and growing upon Wares delivered inro the Treafury，out of the time of his Majefties difpleafure， thall be paid forthwith to the faid Thomas，and the relt， is forfcired torhis Majefty，and taken for a Finc，as appctaining unto Rutter and Bemet，accounted Trai－ tors unto his Highncls，during the time of his dif－ pleafurc．
Xlli．＂To the I ath Articlc，onncorning Ruter to le delivered unco you to be carried home，the Anlwer was，thar as his Majefty will iotdetain any Eng lifh－men in his Councry，who is willing to go home，according to the Quecris Requeft，fo he will not force any to de－ part that is willing to tarry with him；yct his highnefs to fatisfy the Quecn＇s Requeft，is contented at this pre－ fent to fend thefaid Ralph Rutter home with you，and hath commanded that a Lecter fhall be written to his chief Officer at mofec，to fend the faid Ruitter away with fpeed，chat hemay be with you at Vologhde by the cod of Mry withour fail；and touching the reft of your requeft in the faid Article，his Majefties pleafure thall befignified in the Letress of Privilcge granted to the faid Merchants．
XIV．＇The iqrh Article is granted．
XV．The rsth touching Bcffon，the Emperour is much offended with him，and will fend down a Gen－ cleman with you roinquire into his ill behaviour，as well for fpeaking undeccnt Words againf the Quecn＇s Majefty as you have alledged，as alió againet you， and for his Ourrages againt theMerchanss，mentioned in the Axticle：And the faid Beffon being found guilty， to be imprifoned and punifhet by fevere Juftice accond－ ingly，and afterroput in Surcties to anfwer the Empe－ rour＇s high difpleafure，or elfe to be brought up like a Ruifoner by the faid Gendeman，to anfwer his Offences． before his Majefty；and his Highnefs doth requelt thar the Queen Would do the like upon Middlezon and Min－ b，her Moflengers fent hithertwo Xears paft，and upon allorhers for their ill behaviour towards his Majetty， as may appear by Letrers fent by Daniel Silueftre from his Highnefs，lef by bad demeanour of fuch lewd Per－ fons，the Fricndmip berween their Majefties minighr be diminithed．
XVI．＂To the 16 th and laft Article，rouching the Corn broughr into the Emperour＇s Dominions by the Merchants，his Majefty doch greatly com－ mend them for 10 well doing，and hath com－ manded to give you 2 Letter forthwich in their －behalf，directed to his Officers of Dmina，to fuffer the faid Marchantsto fell their Corn at pleafure，with－ our paying Cuftom．

Thus having reccived my Anfwer to the 16 Arricles by me exhibited in writing，with the Emperour＇s Letrers alfo wo the Queen，I thenrequetted that the new Letrexs of Privilege granted by his Highnefs，might be dif parched that 1 might carry the fame wich me；and alio that fuch Money due to the Company，which his Ma－ jefty had commanded me to be paid，might be delivercd o me．
Touching the Letrers of Privilege the Secretary an－ iwered，it is not poffible you can have them with you， for they muft be firft flewed to the Emperour，and then three to be writen of one Tenor，according to yous requcf，which cannot be done with fpeed，becaule his Majefties pleafure is，that you thall depart this Nighs before him，who removeth himfelf to morrow towards Novogrod，bur withour fail the faid Letters fhall be ferr after you with fpeed to Colmogro，and as to the Money you require，it cannot be paid here，becaufe we have not the Books of. Accounts, for want whereof we know not efer whom the Emperour himfelf had commanded before what to pay: wherefore is will be beet that jou fend one of the Merchants after. the Emperoitr to Novogrod, and les him repair unro metherc, and withcut faill I will pay all fuch Money as thall be appointed by his Majefty to be paid afrer the Books fecm.
Bur there being nonc of the Companics Servants with me, I requefted the Secrecary that 1 might leave Camicl my lnterpreter with him, as well for the Reccipt of Money, as for the fpeedy Difparch of the Lerters of Privilege, bur it would by no means begrourcd that I thould leave any of my ownCompany behind me and thcreuponl took my leave and went to my Lodging, where prefantIy there camez Gentleman who had charge to conduct me, and to provide Boats, Men, Polthorfes, and Vietuals, all the way to the Sca-fide, being 1300 Miles, and alfo to do juftice upon Bc/fon aforefaid, and faid unro mc, The Emperour's pleafure is, that you fhall piefently depart hence, and I am appoinred to \(5^{\circ}\) with you. So that Nighr being the xath of Mny, I deparred from Siririres, and arrived at Voleghede the lait of the faid Month, where 1 remained five days, expecting a Mefienger with the new Letrets of Privilege, as alfo the coming of Rut-my Face to be fent unto me withour fail, and I did fee the Letters writen to the chief Oflicers at Mofce about it. Neverthelefs the faid Ruter did nor come, neither could I hear of him after, nor know the caule of his ftay, constary to the Prince's own Word and Mcaning, as Suppofi: : I thersforedifparched 7 chn Noich, one of the Companics Servants wath lecters to Nouograd, where the Courc then lay, to advertife his Maicfty that Rufter was not fent to me according to his Highnef's Order, as alfo about che difpatch of the faid Letters of Privilege, and reseipt of the Moncy giving the Meffenger ftrif charge so return unto me again before the departing othe shirs; Water towards Colmagro, where I aritived the 2 int, and remained there until the 23 d of Fulr, expecting the return of my Meffenger, who had cime enolugh to have difpacched his bufinefs and come back again, bur he came not, it being otherwife derermined before his going, as i did afcer underitand, and thall ar large.declare unro the Worlhipful Company as foon as I thall artive in England.
--

Y:
\[
\text { C. } \mathrm{H} \text { A P. X. }
\]

\section*{The Voyage of Arthur Pett and Charles Jackman, in tzoo Barks, the George and the William, fee forth by the Rulfian Company; for the difcovery of the Nortb-ealt Parts of the World, Anno 1580. Written by Hugh Smith.}

UPon Mondoy May the 3oth, we departed from rechrec, and two and a half, and one and a half. Therc Harwich, and on the 23 dof Func, we par anchoring, we fenc onr Boar to found, and all to Lecinto Whardlouffe to feek the Whilliain, whofe waxd had four Foor, three Foot, and two Foor; thero Company we loft oncthe 6rth, and to fend was nor Warex for the Boat between Vaigats and the oLetrers inro England; Ar one in the Afternoon the With- cher fide. Findingno more Warex, chere was poo other licm arrived, with all her Company in health.
On the firt of \(\mathcal{F}\) uly the Wind coming fair, we failed On the 20 th we plied to the Northwards, and gor inro from"Wardhoufe. On che fecond we bare down to the fix or feven Fathoin Water. Willicm, who failing very ill, Mr. Fackman told us he - On the 2xft we hated along the Coaft North and was willing to go to Kcqro, to mend her Sterage. Mr. North-weft, and had cight, ninc, and ren Fathoms. Pet anfwered hinu, thatif he choughr himfelf not able to On the 22d the Wind blew much with grear Fog, and keep the Sea, he thould do as he thought beff, and char he we lacking. Water and. Wood, bare with an thand in the mean time would bear with \(W\) Hrllougbbies Land where we found foreof both. Under a Point of Land (it being part of our Intructions) and would meer him we found a Crofs fet up, and a Man buried at the Foos again at Vaizats; and to we fer our courfe E.N.E. of it : Upon the faid Crofs Mr. Pcts did engravc his The thind we were by our reckoning so Leagues Name, with the Xear of our Lord, and folikewife upon E. N. E. from Kezor, no Ground in 120 Fathom. The a Stone at the Foot of the Crofs; to the end, that it 4th wehaled S. E. by E. Lat. 11 Dige. 38 Min. On the Wtilliam thould chance to coms thicther, they might Aforof the fifth we faw Land, but could not come at it, the \({ }_{x}{ }_{x}\) and und \(W\) Wind being Northerly. On the 6 th we mict with Ice, nuxtiontib and on the feventh there appeared more Land North from us, being perfect land: The lie was between us and if, fo that we could not come nearer to it.
On the tenchat ten in the Morning, we. faw Land again, but durft not bear with it by reafon of a rhick Fog Thar Night we came with our Ship within an Inand, where we rode all Night, and went into a Bay to xide inear the Land for Wood and Water.
The rith, abour a League from us to the Eaftward, we faw a very fair Sound or River, that paft very far into the Country in two or three Branches, with an Iland inche midft.
The 12 th at cleven in the Morning, there came a great white Bear to the Watce-fide, and rook the Water of his own accord ; we chafed bim_with our Boar, but for all that we could do, he got to Land and efcaped from us: We named the piace Becrbay.
This Afternoon we fet fail, and on the 13 th met with great fore of Iee, and on the iqth were fo einbayed with it, that it was by God's great Mercy we came out of it, otherwife it had been impoffible; Lar. \(70 \mathrm{Deg}^{\mathrm{om}}\) 26 Min Wc lay along the Coaft North Weft, thiniking it to be anlland, but finding no end in rowing fo lorg, we fuppofed it to be part of Nova Zembla.
From this time to the 88 th, we were conftrained to go many Points of the Compafs, as the Ice would give us leave, and on the r8th had fight of the Sourh part of Vaigats We had but four Fathom Water, fomecimes

The i3d the Wind came S. W. a Sea-board we raw hix fair tlands, we haled N. E. and E. N. E. as the Land did urend. At eight very much Wind at S. E. with Rain and Fog, and great forc of Ice a Sea-board At twelve it tecame calm on 2 fudden, and the Wind coming W. N. W. we rcok in our Boat, and therc came downfo much Wind as we were not able to feer afore ir with Courfe and Bonnets of cach. We found the Ice to ftretch into the Land, thar we could nor gee clear to the Eaftward, fo we hid it to the Shoar, and found it clear near the Shoar, and we found alro a very fair Illand, which makes a good Harbour, and withinare twelve Fathoms.
This Illand is four or five Yeagues to the Eaftward of Fargats; the Land of the Main Eends S. E. and S. E. by E, tis an even and plain Coaft, with fix or feven Fa. chom Water a League from the Shoar. This day we foûnd the Pole to be clevared 69 Dcg. 14 Min. Wepu: inter the Ice to feck fome way to get to the Northwards of it, hoping to have fome clear Paffage that way, tur thare was nothing but whole Ice. At nincin the Aftern noon we bad fighriof the William, and there was a great Land of Ice between us, fo that we could nor come one to the other, but we founded our Trumperand thor off two Muskets, atwa fic pur our her Flag upon her Fore-rop-maft, in roken char the did fee us. wic thortned fail, fecking a way thro' the broken !ce, and as ry for the William.

Eceá

\section*{¢34. The Voyage of Airthur Pett and (harles Jack main. Libiv.}

The Grems. The 2 gth at five itu the Morning, the defliam came to broken, fo thae the Rudder Maging clean befider the Scern, the could in no wile port her Helm. Wich all hands we lighened her Stern and rrimmed her Head, and when we had broughe her forward all that we could, we hroughe a Cable mater her Seern, and wath our Chathth did wind up her Stepn, and bomade is as irclt as the fiace wond give us leave, and in the cond Irought her fo fter apain. We acknowhetge this our mecting to ke a yereat bletimg of God for oue mactual Comfurt, and save de divine Matety thanks or it. Alt that Night we touk our relt, belme made fatt to 2 pices of Jece and indeed we were fo incloied with Ice, thate wecould noe s: Il wiidhway ro pals. Winds we have had ar will, bur F eanie Fog coo much agantt our Wil.s, it is had plealud the Lord Grod orherwife.

The 2 eth, othe Wintat W: N. W. we fer fial to the Norrhirants, to feck if we could find any way char to palis to the Eafteard, but the fortice we went that way, the nore and thicker was the liee, for that we cothd yo wio finther, but were ronftraincd to moor upon another picee of lice. I chisk we faited in all a Leage e chis day ; here we found is Fathons Oze, and this (ize is all the Channel over. This day Mr. Jurmon did tec land E. N'. E. from us, as lie did think, whecher it were 1 and or no, 1 cannot well tel; ; is was very like tand, but tic Figs have many times deceived us.

The 27th, the Wind at N. W.- we ferfail toleek the Shoar; further into the lee we could not go, and at Feven in the Aftericon, we moorad to a piece of lee, the IF : iam being with ist, here we had if Fathoms Oze. We wrape from one ke to zrothes, and inoored again to a pice of Iec urrif uext das: ATI this Night it did fnow, with mich Wind at W. N. W. N. W. and by Wett.

The 2 Sch, the Wind at S. W. and S. S. W. a very fair day, Nir fiet and Mr. 手cheman conferreed togecficr What wist teft so be doure, contidering the fare Vinds we had, and yet we were nos ainle to pals for fie ; they aareed to feck the L.and again, and fo to lrairats, and there to conter further. We warped from one picee of kee to anocher, to gee free of them if it were polible. Here-were pices of lee fo great, that we coukidnofec beyond them ous of the top
The 2 ath, the Wind S. Fr. we plied to the Shoar; The Currens making many turus among the tee to fmatt purpore, for tuns with with the Wind doth the Current run.
The 3oth, the Wind ar S. E. and by S. we did our beff to feck our way as the Ice wonld gire us leave; fonmetirres welay Sourh, fome:imes Wen, and fonnctimes Eaft.
The 3 rit, the Windat S. W. We did cuebet in turning to windmard, but the Current wond not give us Feare; for, as Ifaid, the Current gres mith the Wind. Perceiving thar we did oo good, we faftned our. Shiprö a pieceef Fec: All this day the trilhim lay fill, and did as much good as we that had taken fo much paitrs. This day the Pole was clevared Oo Deg. 20 Min, and here we had 17 Farhoms Oze.

The firf day of Auy,ft was very calm in the Morning the Wind ar W. N: W. and continued fo that Nighe with great Fos
The fcond lay the Windat S. W: all duy with Rain ande Fog. welaytill; being inclefed with lec; here wo had 21 Fathoms Ozc:
The thirt day, the Wind as Weff, and W. N. W. we lay fill, inclofed in Ice, the Wcather being dark with Fos: Thus abiding the Iord's teifure, we sontimed with paciener, and founding we hind is Fathon:s
The formeh lay we lay fill inclof d. with IEe, the Wind at W. N. W. the lecerciy dap imereafod upon us, yec futting our truft in God, we hoped to be delivered out of it in food tinke.
The fifth it rained all the Moming with very much Wind at S. S. E. when we fer fail, and profently ir be cane calm foran Hour, and them the Wind came ro N. N. E. and we mane way anons the Ice S: W. and S. S.W. and W. as we could find a way for the fuace of chree Hours; then mecting with a molel Land of Ice, we could go no fircher, but mored our Ship to tarry for a further opening: Here we found 45 Fachoins Oze, and all the Night was very dark with Fog. To The Gth, 7th, and 8ch, the Wind from Wh. by \(S\) ti) W. by N. we lay till, being indofed with Ice thar we corfd not ftir, labouring oufly to defend the Ice as ir carme upon is, the Wiud towards Night came to S.S:W. and then the Ice beran a litele to open: Here we hiad? lathoms \(\mathrm{Oz}_{\mathrm{e}}\), the \(\mathrm{Nigla}_{\text {foge }}\) f.

Tlie g the We Wind ar N. W. by W. we lay till becaufe the Ice did yer inclofe us latitude by Obferration, \(7 \circ\) Deg. 4 Min. the Xiytre very taif, but is freczed, fo that in the Mormins we bad muchato to en rimo ir und wa feared that if it flowald frecze fo much rhe Night following, we thould never ger one of it. This Nifhe one Srarappeared to us.
 Oars, made mity thois cheles, and thacNights is fixowed very much.
The sth, the Wind at \(S\) W. by grat force we made cur way throughthe Ics, which we thought a thing inpollible, bur Earremiry maxies Men do munh, and in the Weaknels of Man, Goul's firength nolh arpears: This Nivat we had 97 Fathoms.
the i2th the Wind from S. E. no W. S. W. alt the day very daris wish Siow and Fog. An fax in che ifternoon we iceraii, the Wind ar N. N. E. and bare away S. W. all this Nighe we found the Iec more faveurable tor us chan is was before, which gave us good hopes to get ont of it.
The 1 thith the Wind as N. E. with a blow againf a biaw againt a piece of lice, we hrake the Stock of our Anchor, and many other great hows we had, thatit was marrellous the Ship was able to abide thim. The tide of our Nous was broken by the recoyling of our Ship. the Boat being betwixt a great piece of lee and the Ship, and it perilhed the Head of our Rudder, This day was 2 very hard day with us, and all Night is blew vory much Wind, fo thas we drove with the lee, and cur trift was Sourh, and we had grear fiore of Snow.
The ath the Wind continuct Northerly, we fallnd our Ship ro a picec of Lee, and drove with ir.
The 15 th, the Wind at \(N\). E. as nine in the Morning ire enered into a dear Sea withours lec, whereat we rejoiced, and not without greatcaufe, giving Ged the praice. We had 19. Fathom Witcr, and at twelve a Clock had bight of the f and these I cagues from us. This Dty we had rhe Polc eleiated of Lieg. 49 Mint. We ran along the Coatt in ten and nine Fathens perpered Sand; It is a bok! Coalt withour Sinds or Rocks.

The 16 tin the Wind was ar Ealt ; we were rroubled again with lec, but we gor between the Shoar and it. Ae twelve we swere thwart of the Scuth-caft piars of Whitats; alt along which there was grear fore of lee, fo that we dombed of. Fiffage, yer with much difficulty we gor tewecn the Sticar and it. The day was dark with Fog we haled N. by W. and fometimes N. by E. for年 the Canderends.
The 17 th we haled Weft, for fo the Tand lics. The Wind at S.E. very dark with Fog, and in running along the Shoar wecame aground, bur God be praifed, with ourhart, for we were prefently off agnin. The rrilliam came ro an Anclior to ftay for us, and fent fome of their Merrito helpus, bur before they came we were under fril: We wear within fome of the lands, and haled V. S. W.

The risth, 19th, and 20th, the Wind Eafterly, \(2 t\) fevenclis Morning we had 30 Fathons black Oze, and at twelve werc uponthe fuduenin thoul Warer, amonz great Sands, and could fiad no way out. Ey founding and Fecking about, we came agroumd, and fo did de trithom, bur the Wind being off the Shoar, we had no hurr, and the Niphe leing calm, we did our beft all Nighr, bur could nor fer her aticar. Theic Stioals lic of of Coigciece, is is very flar a great way off and it docs rothigh abovetwo or threefcor Watry;-ir flows N. E. and \($\). \(W\).

The 21 ft, the Windat S. W. an lbeing fair Wcather, wo did lighien our Ship as much as was ponble for us to do, by featon of che flace The fame digh Warer, ty the help of God, we gur loothafloat, and the Winubcing at \(S\). W. did helin us, fer it caufedic to flow the nore Warer, Latitude 68 . Deg. 40 Min . We fertail rofeek 2 way our of thete Sands, our Boar a head founding havinig fix, feven and eight Fachom. We bite to the Southward, and the Wrilliam bare mocic to die Eunt waird.
The 22dar eighrin the Mornisg, we faw the twathm Ther orn under our Lee as far as we could fee her, and in a grear igin of im Fog loft Gighe of her and never faw her more
On the 23d we had fight of the Land of friuri, and and on the \(37^{\text {th }}\) we faw land again, which. we nadc to Be Kgror; and on the 3 It we doubled the Norch Care.

We met afcerwards with Sontherly Winds; which obliged us to purinto divicts Sounds in Normat, wher we lay untiltie firft of December, and then departing from toop Sound; on the ninth we had fight of sceticut and on the 26th anchored at Ratclif, and praifed God and theredid Winter; and from thencedepartedagainin for our fafe return. Fetruary following, and wenr in Company of a Shp of Charles Fackman in the फrilliam arrived at a Port in the King of Demmarks, towards Iflend, and funce that Nortey, berween Fronden and Roffock, in oltober is8o, time hewas never heard of.

\section*{CHA P. XI:}

\section*{The Voyage of Sir Jerom Bowes Knigbt, her Majofties Embaffador to Juan Vafilvich, Emperour of Ruifia, An. 1583.}

THE Emperour having the laft Xear fencanam-' with Provifions, and to be ufed by him upon all ocher cient difreect Genteman of his Houthold Occations. named Pheodor Andreuich Pbifcmsky, as his The Embarfador having becn fome days in Mofoo; Embatlador to Englend, who had in Ifpcial was fent for to Court, and was accompanied with acharge to follicict her Majefty to fend over with him to bour 40 Genclenen, well mounted and fumpritoully arhis Mafter an Embaffador from her, to urcar of impor-- raied, and in his palfage froin his Loulging to the Court, tant Affairs concerning borth Realms; Her Majefty made ftood fivcor fix chouland Mufquetcersof the Enpcrour's choiec of Sir. Ferom Bowes, a Gentleman of her Cour, Guards. Arthe entry of the Court he was, mer by forit who being a arcended with 40 . Perfons, whereof many were Genticmen, took his leave of her Majetty the 18 th of func, and with tbe ocher Embaffador embarked at Haimich the 22d of the fame, and after a ftormy Voyage at Sea, arrived at St. Nicholess the \(23^{\text {d }}\) of \(74{ }^{\prime \prime}\) Yotlowing.
The Ruffembaflador having rcpofed himfelf one day in the Abby, took his leave of the Endilif Embaliador, and departed rowards Mofco.
The Englifh Embarfador cartied four or five days, and then went to Colmogro, about 80 Miles diftant from S.. Nichots.

You muft here underftand, that before the Englijb Embalifadorsgoing into Ruffia, the Hollanders had inntuded inro our Traje, norwidiftanding a Privilege was long before granned to the Englifh for the fole trade chirher. The Dutel/ had by chargcable means won rhree of the Emperour's chicf Counfellorsso be their aflured Friends; namely Mekita Remanozich, Bodan Belskor, and Andrew Shalkan the Chancellor; for befides daily Gifts which they beftowed upon them all, they rook fo much Money of theirs at Intereft ar. 25 fer Cent. 25 shey paid to one of them 5000 Marks yearly for the ufe of his Moncy, and the Englijb Merchants at that time had not one Fricnd in Court.
The Embaffador having fpent five Weeks at St. Nictioie and Colmgro, there came a Gcnticman from the Emperour to conduct him up the River towards Mofco, and to provide Victuals for him on the way.
This Gentlemanbeing 2 Follower of Sbaclkan the Chancellour, was by him (as it feemed) foifted into that Service, on purpofe to offer Difourtefies and Occafions of Ditaft to the Embaffador; for the Chancellour with the ocher two grear Counfellours were refolved to oppofe themfelves dircetly againft her Majetties Embaffage, effecially in thar Point, for the barring all Strangers from trading into the Emperour's Country:.
This Genteman condacted him 1000 Miles up the River Dwina, as faras \(V o l o p / d d n\); where he was reccived by another Geundennan of greater quatiry than the orther, who prefented the Embalfador from the Emperour, with fwo fuirGeldings, well furnihed afeer their manner.
At Xeraffave he was met by a Duke well accompanied, fent from the Emperour, who prefented him from the Emperour witha Coach and ren Gcldings, for the more eafy conveying him to Mofso, from whence the Ciry was diftant 500 . Milcs
Two Miles on this fide Mofo the Embarfador was met by four Gearlemen accompanied with 200 Horfe, who after a litrte falutation, not familiar without cmbracing told him that they had fomewhat to fay to him from the Emperouri, and woiald have had him alighr on foot to hear if chemfelves ftill fruting on Horreback, which the Embarfidor ieffafing to do, they ftood long upon terms, whecher borh Partics thould alight ornor, which at laft was agreed upon, yet there was grear nicencis whofe Foor Fould noir be firt on Ground
Their Meffage delivcred, they cmbraced cach orther, and the Embathador was by them conducted to his Lodgings at Mofco, a Houfe built on purpofe for him, themrelves being placed in the next Houfe. to-it, to furnihh him

Noblemen in Cloth of Gold and rich Furs, their Cays embroiderd with Pearl, who conducted him till he was met by four ochers of ereater quality than them, who conducted him to the Empcrour's Chmber-door, in which Paffage there food along the Wa!ls, and tate upon Benches an rows feven or eight hundred Perfons, faid to be Noblemen and Gentlemen, all in coloured Satcins and Cloth of Gold. As the Door he wats received by the Emperour's Herald, and all the grear Officers of his Chamber, who condueted him to the riace where the Emperour fate in ftate, having threc Cromas ftanding by young Noblemen on each fide of him, apparellid in white, cach of them with a fine broad Ax upen his Shoulder, and there fate upon Benches about- log Noblemen in Cloch of Gold.
The Embaffador thus brought to the Emperour to kifs his Hand, after fome Complemenes and linquiry of her Majefties health, he witfed him to fir down in a place provided for that purpofe, night ten Paces diftant from him, from whence he would have-had him to fend him hor Majefties Letters and Pexfititwhish the Embafador chinking not reafonable, ftepr forivard towards the Emperour, but was intercepted by the Chancellour, who would have takerthis Letters, to whom the EmbiziCador faid, that her Majefty had directed no Lerters to Eim, and fo went on, and detivered them himfif to the Emperour's own. Hands.
He was thence conduicted to the Council Chamber, wherc, after fome conference; he was fent for againto the Emperour, where he dined in his prefence at a fide Table ancar unro hinn, and all his Company ar annchic Board by; there alfo dined an other Tables in the fame Rcom, about soo of the chief Noblement that were abour哥 Court. The Emperour ufed many Favours to the Ed daflador, and abour the midule of Dinner ftood ap, ada drank a grcat Caroufe to the Health of the Qucen his good Sifter, and fent him a gras Bowlfull of Rhinith-wine and Sugar to lledgc him.
The Embaffador after this, was often called ro Comrt, where he had conference with the Emperour and his Council, touching boch Embaffages, which di ers times raifed many Jars; and in the end, after fundry Mcerings, the Emperour bcing diflatisficd, becaufe the Embaliador had not power by his Commiffion to yicld to cvery thing he thought fit (as a Man whöfe Will wàs feldom uied to be gainfaid) Ist loofe his Paffion, and with a ftern and angry countenance rold him, that he did not Ieckon the Qucen of England to be his Fellow, for there are (quorh he) that are her Betrers.
The Embaffador greacly duliking thefe Speeches, and being very unwilling. (how dangexpus focver it might prove to hisown Perfon) to give viay to the Emperour to derogare from the Honour and Greatnels of her Majefty, with like Courage and Countenance to bis, told him, that the Quecn his Miftrefs was as great a Prince as any was in Chriftendom, equal to him that thought himielf the greateft, well able to defend her felf againft the Malice of any whomioever, and wanted no means to offend any thar either the had, or fhould have caufe to be Enemy unto. Yea (quoth he) how faif thou to the Erench King, and the King of Sprin? Eece:

Truly

Truly（quoth the Embalfador）I hold che Queen mid doneaccordingly，and kine moto him，who feemod for well Miftrefsas great as cither of them．Then what faift ro like them；as he caufed them to be publickly read thou（quoth he）to the Empcrour of Gorman＇？The（with good approbaticn）before divers of his Council Embatador anfwered，Such is the Grearnefs of de and many ochers of his Nivbility． Queen my Miftrefs，that the King her Father had not long fince the Emperour in his par，in his Wars againt Fratrice．
This Anfwer fo difpleaiced the Emperour，that he rold him，if he were not an Embalfador，he would throw him our of the Dcors：whercunto he anfwered，that he might do his will，forlic was now falt within his Conntry，but he had a Miattels，who（he doubted not）would be re－ venged of any Injury fhould be done unto him．Wherc－ upon the Emperour in gacat heat，bid hime get him trome and he with no more reverence than fuch ufage required， aluret the Eimperour and departed．
The Embalfidor was no Cooner gone，and the Em－ prour＇s choler fomewhat fetled，bur he connmended the Fmbaifador befire his Conncil，becaufe the would not condure one ill word to be fpoken againft his Miftrefs， and therewithal wifhed himelf to have fuch a Scr tanc．
About an Hour after he came to his Lodging，the Enyprour fant his Principal Secretary to himno tell him， that notwithtanding whar had patt，yet for the great love that he had for che Queen his Sifter，he ihould very thortly be called again ro Court，and haye a refolution of all the Marters in queltion：And furtherimparted to him， that the Emperour would fend a greater Nobleman home with him in Embalfage to the Qucen his Sifter，than crer he yet at any time fent out of his Country；and that he determince alifo to fend to the Quecn a Prefent worth 3003 ．and to gratify himelf ar his departure，with a Gifi that mould be worth re00／．and told him alio that the next day the Emperour would fend a great NoBleman to him，to confer with him－about certain Abules done to him by Shalkan the Chancellour and his Mini－ fte：s．

And accordingly on the day following，he fent Bidnn B＇esky，the chicfeft Chancellour he had，and moft in cre－ dit with him，who examined all the Embalfadar＇s Gricvances，righting him in all things wherein he had ferwionged，and fupplying hins with what he want－

Soonafrer，the Emperour ordered a larger Allowance of Dict for the Emuaffador than he bad before．It was fo grear，that the Embalfidor oftentimes foughi to have it lefen＇d，but che Emperour would nor by zny dicans．

\section*{The Scroul of the new Diet was chis－}

As much of．Mallpmovo Mead．
Two Quarts of burnu

Then he feemed very cager to marry fome Kin＇woman of her Majecties，and caid，he would fend again into Ensland tolave one of them to Wife，and it her Ma jefty would not upon his next Einbafage fend hima fuch a one as he required，he would then go into Englemet and carry his Treafure with him，and marry one of them there
Here youmuf underftand，char laft Year he had fent to her Majety by his Embalfador，to have had the Lady Mary Haftings in Marriage，which Treaty by means of her imabiliry of body，much Sicknefs，or perhaps by rea fon of no grace liking cirher her felf or Friends，or bort， took no place．
The Embaffador was now fo far grown into the Em－ perour＇s Favour，that chofe great Councellours who were his great Enemics before，were now defirous of fome publick Courtefics athis Hands fortheir Advantage to tho Einperour：Nor durft chey nuw any more interpofs be－ twixt the Emperour and him；for not long before this， the Emperour had gricyouly beacen Shalcan the Chan－ cellour，for abufng the Einbaffacior，and fenc hime word that he would nor leave one of his Race alise．
The Embaffadour improving his Favour with the Em－ perour，obrained divers Suies trom him for the Benefit of his Councrymen，among which was an old Debrit 3000 Marks，a Debe fo defperate，that it had becnleft out of their 4 ccouncs four Xcars，and in the opinion of all the Merchanss，not fit to be mentioned for fear of offending the Empcrour too much，anul was thesefore left out of his Inttructions from her Majefty．
He cibrained a to the xppayment of 1500 Marks，which had been crasted from them therwo latt Y carsbeforefis coming chither．
Alfo that all Strangers were forbidden to trade any more into Ru／jin，and that che Trade in altrhe Empernur＇s Northern Coaft，fromirfardbufe to the River of，thould be only free to che EngliffiNation．

He obrained alfo for che Englijh Merchants，the abare－ moar of all Cuftom，which ticy had long befure paid and agreed itill to continue，amounting to 2000 \％． carly．
And among tis private Grases，he gor leave for feme Ricardo to return hame；the was the Widow of Dotor Bomelius a Nutch－auan，and Phy\＆ian to ahe Emperour， who for practiong Treatom winh che King of Painish： gainit the faid Emperour，was roafted to death ar Moffr， nt che Xear 1579.
All thefe wacte granted，fome of the Maney akeady xepaid；the old Privileges figned，fealed，and was tobe delipcred to him at his next caining to Court，before withich Eime the Einperour died of a Surfeit，on the i Sth of ispri／Ticdathof
\(\qquad\)

Onc Bufhel of－five Mcal far three days．
One Bumel of Whear Meal for a day and a half．
Two live Geefe for 2 day：
Twenty Elens for a day：
Screa Shéep for a day．
One \(O x\) for three dass．
Orie fide of a Pork for a day．
Seventy Eggs．
Ten Pound of Buater．
Seventy Pemy white Loaves of Bread．
Tivelve Penny Loaves of Brcad．
Onc Gallon of Yine－ sar．
\(T\) wo Gallons of falt Cab－ bages．
Onc Pock of Onions，
Tien Pound of Salt
One Altide or fex penny worth of Wax Cari des．
Tro Aftines of Tallow Candles．
A Quare of Gremy Wine．
One Gallon of fodden Mead．
Three Gallons of fweet Mead：－
Ten Gallons of white Mead．
Fiffeen Gallons of ordi－ nary Mcad．
Four Gallons of rweet Bect．
Fiffeen Gallons of Beer． Half a Pound of Pep per． Thiree Ounces of Saf fron．
One Ounce of Mace One Ounce of Nutmegs Two：Ounces of Cloves． Three Ounces of Cina mon．

Prouender．
One Bufthel of Oats One Load of Hay： One Load of Srraw． 1584 baving xcigned；；Xears．
The cafe was now wonderfuly ater＇d with the Em－ baffador，who now feth into the hands of his great Enc． mies，Mekioa Romanouch and Andrea Shatkan the Ctran－ cellour，whazfer the deanthof the Entpirourt，took the Government upon themfelves，and prefencly eaufedi the Embaffador to behur up： 2 clote Prifoncr in his own Houfe，fois the fiace of nine Wiceks，where he was fo Ropictly gmanded and badly，ufed，as he dxity fufpected fome further mifchief to have：followed：：Ac laft he was fent for to Courr to bave his Difparch，andito take his leave of the Euperour，wherher being conduched（nor afecr the ufual manner，and：brought eo the Council Chamber，there came to him onfy Sionikan the Chan－ cellourandia Brother of：his，wwo withour enore Worts， told him for the Sum of his Difpatch，That this Eiri－ pesour woild＂not riear of further：Amity with the Quech，thanfich as was butwern his lane father and her，before his coming thitien；：－and－they would nor heac any reply to be mida by the Embaifitor；but pre－ fently caufed him andall his Company to be difarmed and gotowardsthe．Emperioun＂In this Paffage fuch Out rages wereioffered hims，an had bee not wfed more pari－ conce than kisnarural difpoftionaffarded him；he that opt in likelyhoodefcaped with Life；jer：at laft was brough joro the Emperionr＇s preferice，who faid nodting to him more than what－cheChancellour had raid，butoffited him a Letwer do carcy to her Majefty，which the Embaffador （becaufe haknow it contained nothing comerning tis Embaify refus＇d，tilthe fawhis Danger jraw toogrcat Neither would the Emperour fuffer the Embaltidorio reply，nor could be well；becanfe they had taken away his Interpreter，that the Emperournightror know tion difhonourably he hadbeen ufed．He was ordered todo part from．Mofto befora the Coronation of the inew Em－

\section*{}

Now he，began fo much to difover his Parpofe and Afrction towards her Majefty and her Councy；that he feat tor the Embaifador，intreating him that Mr．Cole his Preacher，and Doctor Jacob his Phyficiam，might fet dowin the Points of the Religion in England，which was perour, and there was no Favour or Friendhip left for Emperour infead of that which wais incended Cor him him, Shalkam the Chancellour having fenr him word that by the old Emperour, knowipg all this to be donie "inil the Englifo Emporour was dead. He had only one Gen- difgrace of her Majefty and hitrifelf, he refolved now to tlemanappoincid to accompang him to the Sea fide, and be difcharged of the Letrer and Prefent, and fo furmall:undertanding before he left mofio, that fome fudden revenge was detigned againft him upon the way, he provided thebeft he could for his defence, by arming his Servants, and commanding the Englifb Merchants in her Majefties mame co accompany him, chat if any fuch ateempt frovid be made againft him, the Aggreffors thould dic with him for Company: This Refolucion of his was thought to concribute to his fafery, altho' none" of the Englifb Merchants did accompany birn. He was forced to digert many Injuriesupon the way before he reached St. Nitholas, and then recollecting his ill ufage at Mofec, and the poor and difgraceful Prefent fent him (in the name of the and placing mis Men ro anfwer any allauit that mould be offered him in getting to his Ship, he bid arcwel to the uncontreous Genteman that btcughin him thither, and then fene thiree or four of the moft valuane and difcrect Men he had, with his Majefties tweak Letrer and worfe Prefent to bedelivered ro him or left are his Lodging, and then recovered his Ship in fifety alcho prefently aftex there was grear harly burty after hitm, to force him to rcceive the fame again, but they failed of their poxpofe; fo departing from Sx. Niclo olas the 12 th of Auguft, Fie arrived ar Gravefend the a zth of Scjifamber; in the Xcar \(\times 5^{8} 4\).

\section*{Canp. XIl.}

\section*{4. Bort Narrative of the Tragical Revolutions in Ruffa, after the death of Juan Vafilowich.}

Than Vaflowiot dying in *aw in the 54 th Year of his Reign, left two Soss, Pbodorg aged 25 Years, who lucceeded him, and Dimerriur 20 Infant, who was fent with his Mocher to a Town called Ouplers. He left allo one Daugher nmarticd to the Lord Bornt, whofe Sifter Iremia was married to the Empepour Pboodorc. This Loid aiming at the Soveraignty, procured the dearh of the young. Prince Qemetrius in this mannox. The Tmmim mankared. ire fome war fut the Inhabitants, to putaway fufpirion from themfelves, Killed fuch of the Family as they mer in their fury; notwithftanding which, Boris exercifed fevere Tontures and terrible Exccutions upon them. Not long after, the fufpicion of biop poymed by 14 Ycars. He wasimpoticnt in Body and Mind, and yesy fuperficious in Religious Matters, fo that his Factiet was wont to fay of him, Thas be mas firter soring bells on Caureber, tham to govert an Empire.

As foon as etie Funcral was over, his Will was read, whereby the Emprels (Sitter to the Lord Boris) with the Patriatch, were intrufted with the Adminittration of the Government. Hercupon a general Asfembly of the Sutcs was held ar Mofic, and ther Oaths given po the Emprefs, who immediately went ineo 2 Nuntresy, there mornig, in.which:time the Empress profeffed Theting, ctranging her Name to Atexnaxdrins. inno Ca 1 Nownuxy ended, tho poppo wore called Cate, where the Chaxcllormate anOfation, perivading them to fweas Obedience to-the K (mazey's ant they would do ix no none but the Onvetnind Lord Boris The Council fiering ro confider cherobf; the Chancellour wheupan shoy urmaimoully manred. Lord Boris as one worthy of theStacc; do.whom they were ready to fwear: Hebeing: prefent, more up andi moderth: axcurfed himfelf, procefting his unwiffingneefoandi unworthinefs, and wit chence immediately roward the Church, they laid Hands on him, wisch toud Criesand. Lamentarions; beffeching theix defres, atemmed and mid himedf a woltole Month wich hio Sther in the Numery. The People fearing bis elighr, Defiged cbe plach, and with concinual clamours utgad abe Gieen to perforade het Brother to accept itic Empire. Sheagain fends them io the Khticys atio Boïrrans, uppon the methiening of whofe Niancs they Began ro moruay, Botis then weme forth and rold them, if chey were no queter, he affo would take Sack-cioth, and con rer inter Monafley, as his Sifter hadcioke; whercupon they caf dex fornte delpetaite threats of looking ro themrelves, fince the Coriftemitealth was fo reglected. As laft the Queen by their importunity, peifivaded her Bicther ne lengerio reffit God's Will, who had put this conftatisy inteo the Rcoples Minds, athid to acecpr that which God feeneet efins to corituinid Bors afeet mathy Exerfes, at lat fecrned to be ourcicone by his Siftrt's Intreaties, and alfenred to heri whorgnified as much to the Pcople, to whom tie prerented him, praying them ro be as loyal to him, ás thei had been earneft for him. Beris allo fpake varo ticin in this mannex. 'Forafmeth as' it feemerth geod to the Divine Grace and Providence wheteby all thinigs are governed, that by cotmmon Confent ands continual seris his Prayers, I take npon me the Principality over you Specti. and all the Provinces of Rufic; I will no longer refif, how heary fotver I conceive this Buttien to iny Shoriders, bur have determined to andertáke your Protection with greareff Fidelity, being ready to fiwy the Reuflion Sceprer and Goveinmerit, äa Fai as God's Grace frallemble me; on the other bde, beyou Caithfof to me and to my Cominatid', is Giad may you licly. I am your moft gentle Rimg.

Joyfur Axceramations followed, with Proteffations of their Fidelity and farure Obedience. Hè entring the Monafiey, after Prayers reccived the firf Benediation; and the Bells of Mofyco ( of which are reckoned 30co) relomadedtre publick Joy. Atli the Magiffraicis, and fich as received Salaries of the Kinge preferited Birs, aceording ts euffoit, wint Gotd, Silver, preciousitiones; Breat and Satt thumbly defirine his ácepiance, wirt Withes of long Life and Happinefs: He reidring eticm Franks, accepret the Bread and Salt only, faying Thof were hir, thei reft they fould kcep themferives. Thicn iñ vieing: chem to a Feaf, he with Maiy his Wife, Thoodare his Son of aen, and Atericat his Daughiter of is Years of Agre; wertiout of the Monapery in रolemar Eroceftr: on tothe Eaftle. The like Preficnts were offercid ta his Wife ant Childrens who aciepred the Bread and Salt onity.
Fhe Fertical endent, x folemin Oath wastakeri from all the Govemours: Ther carioe News that the Crim Tarsars had cnered the Borders, hoping to find all rhinge in confluion'; whierempon the atcinbled an Army of coooo Meti, and marched in Perion againft rhem; the the Emperour's Tents, and returinc hemie. witereupon ed byithc Pátianth.

Twactre

Twelve days together all Onders were feafted in the Caftle, and the Magiftrates and Officers had a Years pay given them; the German Merchants had Money lent them, to berepaid feven Years after withour ufury, and Immunitics and Privileges were granted tothofe of other Councries: Alms were diAribured to Widows, Orphans, and otherpoor Perfons: Pheodorc's Obfequies were folemnly performed, the Prieftsichly rewarded, and the whole Empire, which fecmed to be dead, received a glorious Refürrcction
And now to cftablith what he had begun ; his firft care was to incrcafe his Treafure; and as ar firlt he was popularly prodigal, fo after is fmall rime he became very , penurious, thortning the Allowance of the Court from what it had been in former times. His next care was, to hold good Tarins with orher Princes, and by forreign Alliances, to fectle on his own Race, this new gorren Empire. He is faid for thisend, ro have foughr aWife for his Son out of England, and a Hurband forhis Daughter our of Denmark. His Wife being a Woman of a haughry Spirit, thoughr her too good for any Hellop (fo they call their Slaves, and fuch fhe eltecmed all her Subjects; and for thar reafon refufed to give her in Marriage to Percer Bafinan, the beft Commander in the Army. Aximy.
But while his Sun now thined in the height of his Courfe, there arofe fuch grois Yapours out of Demerrius's Grave, as not only eclipfed his Imperial Glory, bur engendred fuch a bloody Storm, as nor only overwhelmed him and all his Family, but alfo the whole Empire.
About the middle of Oftober, 1604 , news was brought to Court, that one who named himfelf Demerries Eoancopich Beala, who was fuppoled to have been murther'd at Ouglets, was up in Arms for his Right and Inheritance. This Demerrius was in his yourh fhomn: a wriar in a Monaftery, from whence making his efcape he went into Poland, where calling to mind thefond conceir among the Rufles, that Demetrius Evanowici was fecretly conveyed away, and that fome other was murthered in his ftead, and knowing the general diffatt of the Government of Boris, having alfo many \(\mathrm{Cir}_{\text {- }}\) cumflances of Time, Age, and Features, to advantage and fccond hus Pretence; Grft made himfelf known to the Principal Jcfuits in Polend, to whom he promifed, if he might receive help for the recovery of his juft loheritance, his firft care frouid be to reduce the Ruflans to the union of the Roman Church. The 3 efkirs communicated the Matter to the Pope, and brought bim to the Palarin of Sendomir, a porent Man in that Kingdom, Whofe Daughter he covenanted to marry if he fucceeded in his Ruflan Enterpxifc. The Palétin brought him before King Sigifmund, who gave hina a Cbainof Gold, and promifed to affist him.
Thus by the King's Fayour, the Ralatime's Money and the \(7 e f\) firs Loduttry, he raifed ani Army of 10000 oulders in Polma, and in his march was joined by 10080 Caffrcks. Boris fent an Army of 100000 Men againft him; he alfo fene Embaffadors into Poland, to put them in mind of the Lcague betwe both Nations and to defire that this Counteffici Dcmetrius, a Pricfts Baitard, might be delivered to him aliveor dead, adding Threats if they perfifted: The Patriarch alfo with the Bithops and Spiritual Men of Rufta, wrote unto the Spiritual Men of Poland, declaring unro thicm suhat that Hererick and Traitor was, from whence he came, and the occation of his runining aviay, as alfo the manner of the making away of Prince Demetrius, and withal requefting the Rulers and Spiritual Men of Poland, that thicy now knowing what a Runnagate this was, would nor give credir to him, nor break the League concluded benveen them Bur fuch was the prevailing Powcr of the Pope and Jefuirs in Roland, that no credit was given to thefe Writings, Both Armies-meeting, Demerrius confidenr on God, fo as he mighte juitice of ais Caule, called upftreiched forth, and his Eyes lifed upto Hearen, in fuch itrecthed forth, and his Eyes lified up to Hearen, in fuch like Woras, \(0 \mathrm{mof} ~ j u f\) Fudge, kill me firft with a Thumder-bolt, defircy me figt and lpare this Clrifion Blopd, if unjuflly, if coveruoufy, if wickedif I uinderrake shis Enterprije; thou f:eft mine Innocency, belp the just Caufe; so thee O Queen of Herven, I commend my folf and athefe m Scuildiers. Demeirius got the Victory, which he ufed With great modefty; Boris hereupon fent fome with large Proinifes to murther him, and the Patriarch crommunicated all that favoured him: Demerrius wrote hereof modertly to the Parriarch, and to Boris allo, offering fair Conditions if he would refign this ufurped Empire, which he with Indignation rejected; and is haid to fiave been in fuch 2. chafe that he fell down fuddenly Ears, and in paffing from his Mouch, Noftrils, and plexy, orhers thar of 1 pril died, fome fay of an Apo- The deut feven Years. His. Wife and the Nobilicy fworn to them, Pcter Baf Throne, grear Gencral, who had them, Peter. Bafmant their Services, and was the Man performed many honourable cion inthe whole Empire of greatert hope and expceta- Prer Bdem an Army, bur uponhis march revolted to Demetrius wish \(\begin{gathered}\text { Cevols } 10 \\ \text { iomerns: }\end{gathered}\) with him all the Englifh, Scofs, Frencl). Dutch, and Fic. mings. They were atl kindly reccived by \(D\) emecrius who marching towards Mofor, kine Meffengers with ters to the Lords of the Conncil, which enrring therburbs, were conducted by infinite numbers of the Sumons to a Rpacious Plain before thic Caftle Gate wherthe Council then fate, and were fummoned by the faid Meifengers, to come and hear their rightful. King Dometrius fonnowich, fpcaking unto chem hy lecters; many of them cams, for ocherwife the Commons wers remany to fetch came, for ouncrwife the Commons were refolved read aloud to this effeet.
-Thathe much wondred, having fenr many I.ctrers and Meffengers to them, with manifon Proofs of leing Demetrinn their lawful Prince, as being the Son of fuma V" hiiketia wich, and the only Brother of Pheudorr, Selfe Upholder of happy memory, their late Emperour; yer norwith - Atanding his long Pationce, they had nors only refured to anfwer his Princely Letrers, bur had been fo prefume to tuous as to decain his Meffengers; all which, norwitftanding, he being confidenr of his jutt Fitc, and wit ling to fpare his Subjects Blood, had in his Pit witFing to pare his Subjects Blood; had in his Princely Peace-requiring and Gracgain wrote, there his laft end had lent Men of great Birth. with Commuffion th difplace his Encmies the Godonoucs, and others, till his further Pleafure were known ; and if they would novr fubmitehemfeives tohim, as to thicir lawful Prince and Soveraign(as be was well Carisfied they in theirConfiencesknewhim to be) they hould yer find him a gacienand merciful Lord, if not a fevere and juf Avencious thcirmany mídeeds, E'c:

But before this Letrer was:lalf read, the Multitude anviolently into the Cartle, and releafed rwo of Demcwhits his, Mellengers, who had becn milerably rorturcd whipr, and roalted: Then the Prince, Emprefs, and Princess wereiaken into Cuftody, and "Dcmetrius was by confent of the Nobles; (fome few excepted) declared and Jawful Emperour
The empress advifed the joung Prince and Princefs to the Enpre follow their Father's cxample, and murder themfenves by and frime drank firit, and was bear them Company ; the Mother pryforitina immediatcly, but the Prged by the Son, who both died vived. Others afcribe this Murther to the commantio Demicrius, and that this Self-murther was a pretiuce only.
He entred Mofco the righ of Fume, wirh pompous Procetion of Soldiers and Priefts, the latter carrying Banpers, with Pictures of the Bleffed Virgin : and N: cholos, -their tutelar Saint. Dencrrius mounted oná whire Ralfey, and attended by the Parriarch and others, went firf to the Tcmple of our Lady, and after Prayers to S. Michacls Church, whercin Fuan Vaflicwich lay buricd, and hearing thar Beris, lay there interred, he. prefently commanded his Budy to beraken up, and to be removed to a meaner Chapel without the City. Then paffing by he fent Worms, he was fo offended ar the light, thas procecding to the lmperial Palace, and taking uponhim the Government; he fiewed more favour to tha Poles and other Forreigners, than to the Ruifs whetes hafned his nuin. Seventy noble Families of the Kindred or Faction of Boris were exiled; that their Goods and ands mighr be thared among Strangers.
But his Clcmency was remarkable to Suisky, his Suc ceffourin the Empire, who being condemned: for refufing bisclemeny o acknowlege him as Empcrour, and urrering reproach- to suits. ful Speeches on hiun, as, that he was of bafe Paremtage, and had confpired with the Poles to overthrow the Ruffan Nobilicy and Religion; yet when he was ar the place of Execution, after he had ended his Prayers, and on his Knees expected the faral Stroke, received his Pardon.
The firft of Septembe being New-years-day with the Rufcs, was appointed for his Coronation, and Martba the Enprefs (his fuppofed Mother). Widow of Chip. Xu. An Account of the Kerolutions in Rullia.

Frim Vafilowich was fent for, from the Momatery far from Court, whare Bois had placiat her. An honourable Convoy was hercin cmployed, and he with grear laew of Piecy wene to meet her, cmbinced her wish Tears, and bare-teaded on Foor, atremed her Charion to the Cadte. To the fefinirs he allortant a fair place not far fromme Catter for the exctcife of the Renmifo Religion, and Whilt have then declared hime.it in riat point bur fiaring Sask", he waited:a firrerOpporcunity.

His nexe care xwas to recompence the Roles, ro enter in to a league with that Naticn, and to confummate the marriage ; for which realen he funx Afbentfius his Ticafurer with 300 Horfenen, and fewels for the lacy and ber Fiather worth 200000 Crowns, when in Noucmue cance to Crucovic, hrd awdience of King Sirifinund, where he winh all thankfulners, acknowletecd the King' forvardncts with his Nobles in recorering his Mafters Right, ro. mhich God harh given fucex ls beyond expestation ; Thathe deplored the Tu kiffanokences in Fumga and ather parts and would willingly join with the Pel and ocher Chiftian Prinecs againat them. In the mean cine that he was willing ro make an cverlafting Lragne with him, and ro that end increated his good Leave to sake upon himfelf a Wifc our of Poinnd mancly, Anms Aincia, Danghter of Gco ge Mcoinfic, Palatinc of Scridemi, in purfuance of a Contract made with her ar the sime of her being in leoland, whiche is as fullowerh.

\section*{chy of the of all Reffia, 2 Ci . calling to memory cur former Life} fimist in "being norin that forin and manner, as in orher grea tshme of Monarshics, as wasitithe tinc of our Predectiours iverang in and odher Chriftian Pconk. Newerthelefs, by the - Proridence of Almighey Gad, from whom proceeder - a begiming and an enu, and from whom cometh Life and Death, we waveby him efpiod anid made choifern * so our felf, wich good liking it the time of our being in the Kingdom of Polonit, of a Companion of gaca and honourde Birth, and of Godly Education and is fuch a Companion, with whom we thall by the Meriy of God live peaceably, which is the refplendan - atipioble Lady Marina, Daugher to the great Pala-- cin Scymemerske, and upon this Occafion hate raken him for our Father, and in regard that weare norye in our own Kingdom, we do therefore pirpore - hercafter to rake order for her coming unto us, - winh the faid Gemeral Smidamersko. Likewife wheni
- Ithallcone to live in my orm Kingdom, then thall * the Palatin Sendamersko remember his faithfol and tric - Promife with his Daugher, zhe Lady. Marima; her Vow, my felf remembring my own Yow, and fo both - of ns co told is faithfully with Love and Affection, and to chat end do we bind our felves by our Wrixings - Likewife firt and principally in xhe mame of the Holy Trinity, I do give my faithful and tric 'Princely Promife, that I will take in Marxiage thic
- Lady Marina; if on the contrary I do nor, then. wilh that I mighe give this as a Curfe upon my felf alfo as 1 thall enter into our Kingdom and Heretage : of Mofor, sthen will I gire the Palaxin her Father, aReward of tor:000 Pieces of Polifh Gokt, and to 'the Lady Marina our Wife, in confuderation of hergreac and long Joumey, as alfo fur the providing and furnilhing lier felf, I will give ous of may Terature, Yelvers wroughe with Silver and Cold, and the Meflenger that halil be fert to me from the Lorid her Facher, or from the Laly her felf, I thath nos "hoid or keef, but lialllet them pafs and ;hall rewart them wirh Gifes, whith dhall be a Tokeif of our Princely Favour." Sccomuly, as foom as we that come to the Inperial Throne of our Father, then prefencly will we fend our Embatador to rhe reiplendent King of Polenid, And to the forenamicd Lady Merzina our Wife, we give two Lordllips, viz. Noongrod the Great, and Fobske, with all the Provinces belonzing to the fange, with Counfllors, 'Gentlemexn, Sand Xcomen, and Pricfts firting for a Congregation, ‘to rule and goveran freely, wirth full Auchority, in the fame mannerand form as if we xuled; and my felf ta have no more Right, Tite, or Auchority in the faid two Cirics; and do wholly give and beltow all on the faid Lady Merinat, that is contained in thle Writing, as foon as by Gol's help, we fhall be married to 3 shher, and chercunto have given this our Writing, Ycaled with our Princely Scal; Bur if our Wife mall noo have by us any Children, rlen in thofe two Lordmhips before fpecificd, the thall place Men in Authority of her own, to governa and do jufitice: And if thall be fice for the fixid Men in authority, to give lands and Inheritauce to their own Souldicrs, and to trade frecly ar pleafure, as if it were in their own rracend lawful Dominion, and to build the pramifer Monattcriss, and for up the Romi/h Religion, and to the sfulitat have Lasin or Rem:for fricfts and Schools, bue he hir Mcienemu., fulf to abide and remain with ns.' And concerning her Prieds, to have as many as gall be needfits to be kepe tor Her own Godly Rmith Religion, withour all lee nr hindrance; and as we our feif by the Mency of Gid, are already inctined to the fame, fo will we likewife with carnett carte, fick by: al means to bring all the Kingdonn of mife to the konuledge of the Ron:Ib Religioni, and to fet up the Church of Pom: Alfo if God thould nor grans unio th good fuccefs, whereby this be performed within a Yoar, then it that be at the pleafure of our Fiacher to fepirace me and his Daughter araina; bur if is thall pleafe him to fonbeit till Another Year, then do I pafs this my Bill with my own Hand-writing, and rhereunto I have fworn m. celf, and gi:cn a Vow according to the Holy Orier; and atl in th:s bill to hold and keepcarcfully ; as allo chat I that bring all the Rerff: Pcople to the Latith Religion, Writrenas samiorc the ath of Mcy, Anno \(\mathrm{CO}_{4}\).

\section*{Prince Demetiy of Gaglets.}

At the end of cighe Days the Contract was folemaly anihe by the Cardinal Bimop of Cracom, amt the Entbatfador with her Parentswere feafted by the King.
"to the end of taniat, the Brite, her Facher, Unele and train of Women, accompatied the R filis Embatiorinhis recurn, and arrived ar inffoin the cn! of \(A\)-Denieriqs: pri, where chicy were marriced by the Pat:iarch, and ham harine: hoch of them folemnl: crowned.
ed.
Onmervias had bronghe a Guard of Cocmens wirh him from Poicnd, which being withour cxample of his Predecefors, and fecing it dilliked of his Subjects, he difmided, mgether with all forcign Souldiers. They beine chus fure away without pay recuruct with the cathiered polanders to the Borders, where they committed many Outrages, to the greas difcontent of the Refien, many of whom were offended at his too much refrect rothe loles, others queftioned his Birth, wherevpon hic ontertained many Lirflender: and Ge:mens for his Guards, o whom he added 100 Eurlis/h Hallecrdicts, witch as many Scors, and roo Ficull atmed with Partiants.
Ar this tinte came an Enhaffador with letrers from sigifimad King of Polind, which becante they gave him oor the Tithe of Emperour, were nor received nei opened. In excofe whersof, the Embaffador ufed Words inwfferable to R uflam Patience, telling him that he thoukd go and deprive the Grest Tirk of thofe Titles. Dimerims diflembled his Refentment in regard of the Amitiance he formenty had, and might titll expeot from the peles.
On the fixth dar after the Marriage, being the 17 th of \(A\) bloois May, a fokma Feaft uas held, whercin the Emperourand Diy. Empressfarc erownied in the Hall; at which the fol: \(f 0\) Embaffador refufed to be prefent, excepr he might far at he Princes Table, as the Ruffian Embalfador had been homarod atCracon'; the Ruffes denied ftifly, but Dentcrius at laft yielded. The Potes had dominecr'd over the gilfes as if they had been a congricrd Pcople, whicreuponthe Nobility and Commons taking the advartage of this nime, when the Poles ftood leat on their guard, camero the Courr acthree in the Morning, and yitisky their Lender having caufed the great Bell to be rung in roken of Fire, that Denmerius might be rais'd and come forth of his Apartment, Pecer Brofman, who come run- purt Bufman ning ort half uaked, was thain by one of his own Sci-ilain. rants, and Denserius awakned with the noife, and now ceing a greater danger than Fire, took a Tw \(\mathrm{j} / \mathrm{h}\) S Sword, and dipping down from a Window, brake his I.cg with the all, whereby he was eafily taken, and by Suisk's command, carried inso the greas Hail where Embaifadors have Audience; where fome upbraiding him with his Impoftares, he with his Sword laid one of tham on the Ground, and thea deliring the Nobility that he might be permitred to fjeak to the Pcople, it was denicd. Some fay that heobtained of Suisky, thachemigheberried by the Teftimony of the Emprefs Aferiba, Widow of fuen \(V_{\text {aflamich, who being bronghe our of the Nunnery, }}^{\text {and }}\) affirmed before the Nobles on her Garh, thas her Son Dometriers was matay Xears before murthered by the command of Boris; cxecuting her foaner Acknowledgmeats of this Impofture, as procecling from her Fcar, and the general acceptance he found among the Peopic, Demerme wher:unan they ran upeo hine, and wach many Wounds nitia.

New him. His Body was dragged thro' the Mire into the Market-place, exprofed fome Days to publick vicw, and then burur
Among his Papers was found the Contrat between Kimx and the Palatimg; beforehis coming our of Poldand, That asjoon as he ilgiguld acquire the Kingdom of afore:, he would take hisDaughere to Wife, and give her the Provinces of Nsioterod and Vobsto, thercin frecly to butild and tice up Monatteries, and eftablith the fom:/h Religion. There were found alfo by him, Lerters from the Pope and Cardinals to that effect, and that he fhould be 1nindful to take in hand Speedily, what he had promifed and vowed to \(\operatorname{sig}\) isimend and the Cardinals, wit. To be himelf of the Romibs Religion, and to bring all the Peophe of R'ffit intothe fame, not only thofe that of themEelves were willing, bur others alfo, and ro put them to death that Mould licek to oppole it.
The Palarine Sendomir, Father of the Emprefs, was blocked up in his Houfe: The miferable Bride was fooilad of all her Apparel and Jewels, withour Garment to cover her, or Bed to lic on, careful only of her Facher and Uncle, and withed that the with them might fave their Lives and recover their Country.
Many Enstifi and other Merchants fuffered in this Tumult; Amibrefe Ccllar loft his Life, and 30000 Crowns; Fanesfran was beheajed wich his own Sword; Aiathan loft is0000 Florins; Nicjolus limborough 50000 ; twelve hundred Poles lott cheir Lives; many of them were faved by che Boicrens; 400 Ruf/es wercdain; ar NighotheTunuule ceafed ; the new Emprefs, her Father, his Brother, with other Poles, to the number of 8 orgooo, werecommitred to fafe cultody.
Afer the Tempeft was calined, the Boiarens affembling in Council, Suisky made a Spsech to them, profeting himfelf forrowful for whathad paifed in the execution of a jutit'Zal for the Imperial Family and his Country, and in hatred of a cruel Tyranc. That furn Vefloo wici, (how injuriouly foever raxed by fome) had left Kinydomsannexed to his Inheritance, as Monuments of his Magnanimity. That Plicodore fucceeded, bur Boris ruled, who firft murtherea the youngeft Brocher, as was thought, and after that poyfoned the orber, to atcain the Empirc. That for thcic Reafons Demetrius (whofoeter he was) found Friends, himfelf amonglt ochers; bux when Religion was endanger'd, Forreigners advanced, Laws violared, Exorick Falhions introduced, and Liberric: fuppreffed, he wichftood bim with the Pexil of his Lific, which ir grieved him to havecnjoyed by his Grant, who being a Robber, had no Right to take it. Ycr feeing their forwardnefs in to juft a caufe, he (more regarding his Countries Safery than Rumors and Reports) had been their Caprain, to do that which God, the Difpofer of Kingdoms, by une fuccefs had approved; to that ic remained now, feeing the Imperial Family was extinet, they thould feck one of the nobleft Blood, moft religious Zeal, and cexperienced Wifdom, who would eftecm his Pcoples Hearrs hisftrongeft Forts, to become their Prince.
Thus was be chofen Emperour, who not long before was at the Block to be behicaded, for reporting that he had fcen the Body of the rrueDemetrius after he was dead, and did help to bury him. This Suisky was 50 Years old, tiever married, a Prince of grear Wifdom, and a Favourct of the Eingith Nation.
Cne of his tirft Acts was ro fend an Embafly into Pa lant, to complain of their obrruding thar Changeling on Rufic, whereby above 200 of their principal Nobility had Hoft their lives, demanding Refticution of the Monies which that Impofter had caufed to be tranfported into Peland, or elfe he would, with King Elarles of Swedem, enter Polan.i with an Army, to be revenged on them for brealing the League they had fyorn to. Sigi/mund anfwered modeftly, excufing their helping him whom they conceived to be the xight Heir, and defired that the feace in'ght continue.
But when things were betrer fetled in Roland, and Afteond grown worfe in Reflia, by the Dillike conceived againf Suishy, another Demervius arofe, who pretending to have made his cfrape on the day of che Malfacre, to cunning: ly and confidencly related prarticular Paliages of patt 0 C currents, that che Lady of Demetrius was by bim bedded and being anfitted by the Pbics, he raifed ann Amy and laid licge to Mofog .
There was ar that cime fome difference berween Chares King of Spocden and Sigi/mund King of Poland, who hide claim to the Crown of Speden. Suisky rakes hold of this Advantage, and is atfifted by the King of SmeWer, with an Axmy confinting chiethy, of Englijh, French and Scors, under the command of Pontus de la Gardic, 2 Frensh-man. Thele march to Mcf(co, then befieged by the now \(D\) metrius, and Poles, and pur him inio fuch fear, that not crufting the Pelcs, he ftole away by Night with a imall Retinue; the Poles obeained Articles of Compofition, and departed. Buc Denserizus raifing another Ar my of fuch \(\mathrm{K} u f \mathrm{fes}_{\text {s as }}\) voluntarily came to hini, again laid liege to Mnfen, wherein Suisky then was, while Zolkicwarthy a Polif) Gencral belcagred anocher pare thereof with 40000 Mcn , whereof 1500 werc Erigliff, Scors and French. Suisk. fecing no hopeto withfand them, betook himfelf ro a Monaftery. The Mufcouises foon after furrendred their City to the Poics, and joined with them 2gainft Demerriws, who thercupon fled, and was after- minurien his Liberty and Empire, was carried Caprive inso Po- Snity diun land, where, afterhe had been cxpofed ro foorn and ma- in Peseat. nifold Miferies, he died in Prifon.
The Mufcovites, to refcue themfelves from their prefent Miferies, agrced with the Folifh General Zolkictesky, to chorifine En, clect Vladillaus, Son of King Sigi/mund, for their Emps- provern tour, bur whether for Breach of Conditions on his part or out of an invercrare hatred to the poles, or narura ealoury and diftruft of Strangers, or a National Incontancy, they foon grew weary of him, and began to think how they might reftore their forince Governmene which they cffoted in this manner:
There dwelc in the North about Dwina, a bold Fellow, Enco:reme 2 Burcher, who railing at the bafenefs of the Nobility, heromum and Corruption of the Officers, faid, If ehcy would \({ }^{\text {asuribrt }}\) choofe a good Treafurer; and pay Souldiers well, they mightroon have thofe chat would fighr and expel thei Encmies che Poles, provided they would firlt choofe a worthy General, for which place he recommended to them a poor maimed Gencleman, named Poñarsky, who had done good Service, but being neglected, did now live retircdly. The Mulcirude approved his Council and chofe Poararsky for their Leader, and the Butcherfor 2 Treafurer, delivering inro his. Hands whar Money chey had, which he fo faichfully difburfed; and Poãariky fo well difcharged his cruft, thar a great Army was gathered and Mofoo then befieged by the Poles, was relieved. And for further fecurity againit the Poles, and to recompence the Sufferiugsand Imprifonment of the Ruflain Chancellour, thenin Poland, they elected his young Son Mi-nsichlomi callonich, under whofe Empire (having a good Council Sain on appointed) they might live happily; che Butcher alfo Chanainnt was made a Councelior. Embafladors were fent to divers erom Princes to mediate between them and the Poles, and by the Countenance and Interceflion of the Emperour, thi King of Great Brirain, and orther Princes, the, young Emperour was peaceably fecled in his Dominions, and making a truce with the Poles for 14 Years, he obrained thereby his Farhers liberty, who was afier confecrated Pacriarch of all Ruflit.

\section*{C H a p. XIII:}

\section*{An Account of the Englinh Affairs in Ruifia, after the deatb of Juan Vafilowich. Written by Mar. Jerom Horfey, then remaining in Ruffia, as Servant to ber Majefly, 1584 .} Unn Voflowich being dead the 18 of 1 pril, \(1584{ }^{\circ}\) Lord, Emperour, King, and Great Prinse of all his Son Plicodore Fnnancmich, aged 25 Years, was Ruffa, &e. crowned with great Solemntity on the 1oth of Junc following- As foon as the Ceremony was over, Mr. Horfy was called to che Emperour as he Gate in his Imperial Sear, auxd then Fobn de Wate, a farmous Merchant of the Nerthertends, lately come to \(M t / f 6 p\), and prem tondivg himielf a Subject to the King of Spain, was called alfo. Some ofthe Nobility would have preferr dim beforic Mr. Horfor, to which Mr. Hor/ay would not agree, faying, He would lave his Legs cut off, tather than yield to fuch an Indigniry offered to the Quecn his Sovcraign, as to bring a Prefem to che Emperour, afrer a Sabject of the King of Spain or any ocher whatloever. The Emperour perceiving the Controvery, fene his Lord Treafo rer and another of his Council to them, who rerurning and declaring to the Empcromx what they had heard, Mr Forfoy was firftadmisted, and made his Prefene to the Emperour in behaif of the Enylifo Merchants crading thither, wifhing him joy, and long, to Reign in tranquility, and to kiffed the Emperour's Hand, who accepred the Pre-\(\therefore\) fens, and faid, that for his Suftersfake, Qucen elizatyef of Eugland, he would be a giacious Lord to her Merchames, in as ample manrer as ever. his Farher had been. After him, the faid Subject of the King of Spatio was adrnited with his Prefent, whom the Emperour willed to be no teff faithful and ferviceable to hinn, than the Quecn of England's Subjeits. had been, and then the King of Spairi's Subjects fhould receive Favour accotdingly.
Nor long after: Mr. Harfg wasfent from the Emperone on 2 Mctiage 50 the Queen of Emgland. He departed from \(M a /\) co the fifth of September, and uavelling over Land, delivered his Letter to the Queen, and was forthwith commanded to repalsinto Ruffra, where he arrived by Sea on the 2 oth of April, 1586. He now obrained fuch ample Privileges for the Mexchants, as in 20 Years before would not be granted; the Heads whereof are as follows.

THrough the Will of the Almighty, and without minniva begiming God, which was betore this World, nay in whe , wher we glorify in the Trinity, one only God.the Fa-

Won, and the Holy Ghoft, Maker of all
6 all rhings, by which Will and Working, he both loveth and giverh life ro Man ; that our only "God, which © infpireth every one of us, his only Children, with - his Word, so difecm God, through our Liord Jef fus Chrift, and the holy quickning Spirit of Life now -int thefe perilous times, eftablifin us to keep the right - Scepter, and fuffer us of our felves to reign to the good - profit of the Land, and roche fubduing of the People, together with thie Encomies, and to the maintendnce/ of Veriue.
: We pheodone, the Off-fpring of 30 onn, the Great

Forour Sifter's fake Queen Elizabetl and becaufe the Englif Mexchants do alledge, that they have had great Lofes by Sca, Ihave granted/that they mull trade inro all parts of our Dominions, withour paying Cultom
But they fhall not bring in nor carry/out of ourDcminions, any other Mens Goods but their own, nor fell them, or barter them away for them.
' Alfo our natural Reople, thall not buy or fell for them, or from them, neither thall they keep any of our Subjects Goods, or Pawns by them to colour them.
' Alfo they thall not fend any of their Ruffe Servants, into any City no ingrofs/Commodities, lu: into what Cify they themfelves ma'l come, they mall buy and fell, and thall fell their own Comnodites and nor ours.
A Alfo they thall fell all their Commodicies by who'e fale and nor by retail.

And they mall buy, fell, and exchange their own Commodities, themicelves, and the Ruffe Mcrchants thall normake fales, or exchange for them or from rhem any of their Commoditics.
- In care of Shipwrack on our Coaft, we will caure the Goods to be foughr our in true Juftice, and ro be given to the Endlifh which fhall at that cime refide in our Comnrry; and if it thall fo happen that there be no Englifb-men within our Realm, then will we caufe thefe Goods to be laid ap. in a place rogether, and when the Pcople of Ensland thall come into our Realm, then all thofe Goods to be delivered to them
6 And whereas we have gratified the Englifh Mcrchants with a Houfe ar Mofio, and alfo at Yerajlave, Vologde, Colmogre, and acthe, Hayen of the Sea, we have commanded that there thall not be taken of chem any ycarly Rent for rhofe Houfes, neither thall they pay any Duty or Tax with any of the Townimen of thofe places.
- Our Officers and fworn Men at Colmogra, liall rake anaccount in wriring, of the Commodiries of Enaland and Ruffa, what the Merchants ihall declare themfelves, bur they mall not overlook their Commoditics, nor unbind any of cheir Packs.
- And if any Concroverfy happen concerning Mer chandife or Injuries, then they. Thall be judged by oux Treafurcrs and Secretary of the Embalfadors, who ihall do Juftice between boch Parries; and if the Cruch camor be difcovered by Law, then it thall be fough outby Oath and Lot, and the. Judges or Juftices thal rake of them no kind of Dury, for marters of Law, in any place throughout our Realm.
* Givenin our Princely Palace within the City of Mofco in the Year from the Foundation of the Woxld, 7095 ; in the Month of February.

\section*{С н а р. XIV.}

\title{
A Treatife of Ruiffia, by Doctor Giles Fletcher, Embaffador from Queen Elizabeth to Theodore, Emperour of Rulfia, A. D. 1588.
}
HIS Country formerly called snomatit, is bounded on the Northwards by I.apimen, and the North Occan; on the South by the Fircris called Cetrims; on the Ealt by the Niggaan Taitars, who polfefs all the Country on the Eaft hade of Velp.t, rowards the cinfian Sca; on the Wert and South-wcit by Lithuania, Livonin, and Polonin.

Thi Counrry is of great length and brcadth; from -Nave in the Weft to Siberia in the Eaft, is 4400 Verts, or thacreahouts; and from Cola to A/fracan, is reckoned 4260 Verts." A Verit by their reckoning is 1000 Paces, yet lefs by one quarter than an finglifh Mile.
or the Soil
The Northern parts towards ionla, St. Victholess, and Siberin, areall very barren, by reafon of the cxtream cold in Winter, nothing growing there bue grear Woods of Fir and Birch, and confequently but few Inhabitants; fo likewife along the River Volgn, berween Cajan and dferecan, altho the Soil be very fruitful, there are bur few Pcople, by reafon of the Neiphbourhood of the Cb-im Tarfars, who will neither build Towns, nor fuffer die Ruffes to to do. The Country differs very much from is lelf according to the Scafon of the Year; fo thar a Man would marvel to feethe great alteration between Winter and Summerin Rtfia. The whole Country in Winter hes under Snow fomerimes 2 yard or two thick, bur grearct towardsthe North. The Rivers are all frozen up a yard thick or more, how fwift or broad focver they te; and this commonly from the begiming of Noyember till the end of March, at which time the Snow begins to mele; fo thatit would breed a Froft in a Mant to look abroad in that time and feethe Winter Face of that Country: The Tharpnels of the Air youmay judge of by this; Water calt, up into the Air, congeals into lec before ir come to Ground: In the extremity of Winter, if you hold a PewterDith or Pot in your Hand, or any orher Meral ( except wherethcir warm Stoves be ) your Fingers ? will freeze faft toit, and draw off the Skin at parting. When gou pals our of a warm Room into a cold, you thall fenfibly feel your Breath to wax ftark, and even flifeling with the cold as you drawis in and our. Xou thall fee many drop down in the Strects, many Travellers brougho not the Towns firting dead, and 1tiff in their Sleds; divers lonfe their Noics, the Tips of their Ears, and the Balls of their Checks, their Tocs, Ecet, ©̌c. Many cimes, when the Winter is very hard and extream, the Bears and Wolles inlue by Troops out of the Woods, driven by hunger, and enter the Villages, tearing and ravening all they can find, fo that the lnhabitants are fain to tlee for fafeguard of their Lives. And yer in the Summer you thall fee fuch a new Face of a Country, the Woods, which are for the moft pars Fir and Birch, fo frefh and fo fivect, the Paftures and Meadows fa green and well grown (and that upon a fudden) fuch variety of Flowers, fuch noife of Biids (efpecially Nightingals, that fecm to be more lond, and of a more variable Nore than clfewhere) thar a Mian ftall rarcly cravel in a nore pleafant Country.

This freth and freedy growth of the Spring there, reemsto procced from the benetic of the Snow, which all the Winter rimekecping the Ground warm from the rigour of the Froft, in the Spring tivie, when the Sun diffolvesit into Warer, it io throughly drenches and foaks the Ground, which is for the molt part of a. night fandy Mold, and then thines fo hotly upen it again, that it draws forth the Herts and l'lants in great plency and varicty in a very thorttime. As the Winter exceeds in Cold, fo the Summer inilinesto too much Heat: efpecially in \(\mathcal{F} u m\), \(\mathcal{F} u l y\), and muguft, being much warmer than in England.
The Councry is well watered with Springs, Rivers, and lakes; fome of chefe Lakes are \(60,80,100\), and 200 Miles lons, with brcadthproportionable.
Thechicf Aivers are, x. Voldon, which hath its Spring 200 Vertsabove Titchive, and grows fo big by the conflux of orher Rivers, tharby thar time is comes thither, it is an Enntifh Milcbroad and more, and fo rums inte the \(C_{1} f\) pian Sca, about 28 co Vcrits in length.
Thie next is Borifthencs, now called Nsper, dividing the Country from Lithuania, and falls into the Eusin. Sca.
The third is, Tanais or Don (the ancient Boureder be tween Europe and Afia), is rifech in che Provincs of \(R c^{a n}\), and fo running thro' the Country of the Cbrim Taifars, falls into the Lake Martr, by the City of \(A\) rof drawing your Boat over a litcle Ifitmur; 2 few Verfs oycrthwart.
The fourth is Dwinn, many hnodred Miles long, with grear Rocks of Alabafter on the Banks, towards the Sca-fide, cmptying it felf into the Bay of. St. Nistwas.
The fixth oners, falling into the Bay of Soloret for, Verfts from the Bay of St. Nichoores; from which Pore in to the Finland-Sca, and fointo the Sound, may le paffed all by Warer.

Scren Mirskua, that runs thro' the City Mcfee, giving is the Name.
Ath thefe are large Streams, the leaft to be compared to the Thames in breadth, and in legesth far more, befides diversothers. The Poleat Mofso is 55 Dcg . 10 Min , and at St. Nïcholes 63 Deg. 50 Min.

Of the Native Commoditics of the Cokntry:
For Fruits, they have Apples, Pears, Piums, Cherries, Melons, &cc. Whear in foch plenty, that it is fometimes, Their frin rold for two Alteens or ten Pence Sterling the Cherfird, which makes almoft three Emgliß Buhels.
Their Rye is fowed before Winter, all other Grain ith theSpring, and for themoft part in Miay. They thas dwell far North, are fapplied from the Southern Pars and are fometimes forced to make Bread of a Roor called Vegomoy, and of the middle Rind of the Fir-tree.
The Native Commoditics are, Firft, Furs of all forts whereof are tranfporred fome Years by Merchants of Fer Turky, Pcrfir, Bougharia, Georgia, Armenia, and invo fome Parts of Europ:, to the valuc of four or five hundred thourand Rubbles.
The fecond Commodiry is Wax, whereof hath becn Thipped fify thoufand Pood ycarly, cvery Pood contain- Hix ing 40 Pound
The thind is Honcy, whereof, befides an excceding great quantity feent in their ordinary Driaks, great fore Honcy. is carried out of the Country.
Fourthly, of Tallaw, they tranfport much ycarly, the richer fort ufing Wax for their Lighrs, and the poorer Tallow forr, Birch dried in their Stoves, and cur into long Shivers. Of Tallow there has been hipped one hundred thoufand Pood yearly.
Fifthly, Their Lofk-bide and Cowi-bide; their lob or Buff-inde is very large, their Butl and Copo-bide (for Oxen they make none, nor Weathers) is of a fmall fize: There have been tranfported in forme Yeans onc hundred thoufand Hides, befides grear ftore of Goats Skins.
Sixthly, Trein Oil drawn from the Serl-Eif; to wards dhe end of Summer, they go down with cheir Train Oit Boats roche Bay of St. Nichoter, to a Cape called Fi, xnofe, where they leare their Boars till the next \($-\mathrm{ing}\), and then recurning thither again, they draw rheir Boats over the Sealce, and ufe them for Houfes to reft and lodge in. Then dividing themfelves five or fix Benats in a Company, they that firft find the Haunc, fire a Beacon which chey carry with them, and thercupon the reft joyning them, they incloferhe Seals in a Ring, thar lic funning themfelves rogether upon the Ice, commonly. 4 or 5000 in Shoal, and fo invadecthem, cvery Man with his Club in his Hand. If they hit them on the Nofe they are foon killed, but if on the Sides or Back, they will bear grear blow, and many times catch and hoid down the Club with their Teeth by main force, that the - Party is forced to call for help to his Fellows. When they have killed what they can, they take the Skin from the Body, with the Lard or Fas, and all thar cleaves to the Skin. This they take with them, leaving the Bodies behind, and fo go to Shoar, where digging Pits of a Fachom and a half deep, they rake the Far or Lard from the Skin, and tirow it into the Pir, cafting among is hot burning Sones to melr ic withal. The upparmoft and pureft is ufid in oyling Wool for Cloth ; the groffer, (whichis of a red colour) they fell to make Soap.

Seven, Ickary or Cavear, whercof a great quantity is smm: made upon the River Volga, out of the filh called Bellougina, the Scurgeon, the Severiga, and the Sterledey, and is cxported intromoft parts of Europe.
Eight, Hemp and Flax, whicreof grear quantity is uranf ported ycarly.
Nine, Salt, which at'Afiracan is made naturally by the Sea Water, which cafts it up into grear Hills, and is digged down and carteet way by Mcrchants, paying three Pence Cuftom for every hundred weight.
Ten, Ter, whercof they make grear quantiry out of the Fir-trees, and fenid much abroad.

Abour the River Droint grows a Koff Rock called Slude; this they cut into pieces, and tear it inro thin Flakes, whichthcy ufe inftead of Glafs for Lanthorms: It gives 2 cleaxer light than Glafs, and is better than Glifs or Horn, becaufe it is not fo apt to break or burn. burn
Salipeter they make in many places, and fome fmall fore of Brimftone, bur want skill torefinc it.
Their I ron is fomewhat britcle: They have no acher Mine growing within the Realm.
They have Fallow-Deer, the Roc-buck, and great flore of Goars. Their Horfes are btit fmalt, bur vciy fwife and hardy: They travel them unfthod both Winrer and Summer, withour all regard of pace. Their Sheep are but fmall, and bear courfe and harlh Wool.

They have great Alore of Hapoks; whercof the moft efteemed is the Gerfaukicon; of ocher Fowls the priat cipal are the Swint, the Stork, the Crane, the Tedder, of the colour of a Pheafant, but far bigger: Of Pheafant and Pacridge ticy have great plemis.
For frell Water Finh, befides thofe common with us, as Carp, Pike, Pearch, Tencti Roach, Oc. they have divers kinds very delicate, as the Bettouga or Bedouginn; fous or five Ells kong; the Ofirina or Sturgeon, the Seocrigt, and Steried, like roia Scurgeon, burlels. Thefe fout kinds of Fif breed in the Volga, and are fent thence into the whole Realm for 2 grear Food. Of the Roes of thefe four kinds' is made grear ftore of Cavenre. They practice ther Fining in Sommer, and fend ir frozen in the Winter into atl parso of the Realm.

\section*{The cbief ciries of Ruffin:}

The chief City of Rerfia is Mofco; it is in 2 intannet round, with three firong Wallsione wiehin theother, and Streets lying berween; wheteof all within the inmoft Wall (fenced and watcred by the River Moskua, that runs clofe by it) is accounred the Emperour's CaAtle. Thenumber of Houfes, (by the Accoume given to the Emperour) Beforeit was fired by the Chriminthe Year 1-57r, was 41500.
The next in greatnels, and in a manner aslarge, is Neoograd, whexe (as the Ruffirm-Lay) chat grear defeat was given by the Scrtbians to their Slaves, who, duxing their Diafters ablence in the Warsagainft the Treters, thad poffers'd their Houfes, Lands, and Wives; whereupon: advifing what was beft tobe done, it wos reionved to fer upon them widfi their Horfe-whips; and fo-marching on, and lathing atl wogether with their Whips in their Hands, they gave che onler, which fecmed fo terrible in the Ears of their Yillains, and fruck fuch a fenfe into them of the frmart of the Whip whith they kad fele before, that they fled like Sheep:- In memory of which Victory the Novegradians have ever fince ftamped their Coins, wich the Figure of a Horfe-man. Amaking 2 Whip alofi in his Hand.
The Strees inftead of paving, are planked with Fir-trees, plained and laid clofe one to the orter. Their Houfes are of Wood, withour any Lithe or Stone, built very clofe and warm with Fir-trees plained and pifed orte upon another; betwixt the Trees they thruft in Mofs ro keep ourthe Air; every Houfe hath a pair of Stairs up into the Chambers our of the Yard or Street. ThisBuilding feems far better for their Country than Stone or Brick, which are colder and more damp than their wooden Houfes; efpecially of Eir, which is a dry and warm $ood; and whereof they have fuch plenty; that a fair

Houfemay be buitr for 29 or 30 Rubbles, where Wood is fcarfeets shegreareft inconvenicncc, is iss aptntifs to take Fire, which happens often, by reafon of the dryncis and farnefs of she Fir, which burns like a Torch, and is hardly extinguilhed till all be confumed.

Of the Empervar's Tislc.
The Emperour's file runs after this manner; Theodors Furiovich, by the Grace of God, Grear Lord and Emperout of all Rufin, Great Duke of Volodemer, Mofec, and Novogrod, King of Cazan, King of a/fracen, Lord of Plesko, and Gryar Duke of Smolenske, of Thsiria, fourgho rin, Permin, Vidska, Bulghoria, and ochcrs, Ford and Grear Duke of Nowgrad of the l'ow-Country, of cherni30, Rexan, Rolorskoy, Roflove, Xaruftavely, Bealoz̃cray Leifland, Oudoria, obdoria, and Condenfa, Commandex of all Siberia, and of the North Parts, and of many other Countries, Oic.
This Srile contains in it all the Emperour's Provinces and ferss forth his Grearnels, and therefore they have great delight and pride init, forcing not only their own Pcopic, butalfo Strangers that have any Matrer to deliver ro the Emperour by Speech or Wxiting, to repeat the whole Form from the beginning to the end, which breeds much Cavail, and lomerimes Quarrel betwixt ahem and the Tartar. and Poland Embalfadors, who refufe to call him Cxar, that is, Emperour, and to repear the other parts of his long Stile. When I hid audience of the Emperour, I faluzed him only with thus much, viz. Emperour of all Ruffa, Grear Duke of Volodemer, Mof \(\mathrm{co}_{2}\) and Noograd, King of Cazan, King of Aftracen, the reft I omitted of parpofe, becaufe I knew dhey gloried wo have their Stile appear larger than the Qacen of England's, but this was to ill raken, that the Charicellour, who then attended the Emperoar, with the reft of the Nobility, with a loud chafing Voice, salled ftill upon me to fay our the reft. I antwered, chat the Emperours Stile was very long, and could not to well be remembred by Scrangers, and thart had repeated to much of it as might thew thaci gave honour to the reft, Ef, Bur all would nor fetye, rill I commanded my Incerpreter to fay irall out.

Of the Strite or Form of their Governmient.
Their Govermment is mucir after the Tirkih manner, which they feem to imitate by applying all things to the admantage of the Prince, as near as the Country, and reach of their Capacities in Politick Affairs will give ahem leave to do.
Their higheft Courr is called the Zabore, chat is, the publick Affembly. There are prefent at it, 1. the Emperour; 2. About 20 of his Nobility, who are of his Council; 3: Sonte of the Clergy, about the fame number. Asfor the Burghers or anty to reptefent the Conthmonalty, they have no place there, the People being of no berteriaccoumr with eicm than Servants or Slaves, who are to obley, not to make Laws, nor to knowe eny thing of publick matuers before they are concluded.
The Court is held in this manner, The Emperour frominns foch of his Nobility as he thinks fit, being, as was faid, all of his Council; together with the Patriarch, who calleth fuchBifiops, Abbots, and Friars, as are of beft reputation aming them.
The Emperour attended with his Nobility, is mer in in Ante-chamber by the Clergy, following their Parriauch, who bleffeth the Enperour with his two Fore-fingcts, laying themon his Fore-head and the fides of his Face, and then kifferi him on the righr fide of his Breaft Then oneof the Secretaries propounds the caufe of theit Affembly, and the principal Marters which they are ta con Gder of; and che Partiarch with hisClergy have rhePrerogative to be finflasked their opinion, what they think of the Points propounded by the Secretary, whereto they anfwer comanonly to this effeet, That the Emperons and his Council are of grear Wifdom and Experience in the Policies and publick Affairs of the Realm, and - far better able to judge what is profirable for the Commonwealth chan they are, who atrend upon the Ser' vice of God only; and Marters of Religion, and therefore may it pleaferhem to proceed; that inftead of their Adrice, they will aid them with their Prayers, up fands'forme Abbor or Friär (appointed'before hand) and defires that it would pleafe his Majefty to command ro be delivered unno them, what his own Judgment and dererminate pleafure is, tourching the Matters propounded by his Secretz̈ry.

Whescunto he replied by the Secretary in the Empe－them，forfeaping out，whersupon he fer a Malet upon rour＇s name；＂That his Highncis with thofe of his noble Council，upon good and found Advice，have found the －Marters propofed to be very good and neceffary forthe Wcalth of his Realm；notwithitanding；becaufe the －arc rcligious Men，and know what isright，hisMajcfty requircs their Godly Opinions，＂yea，and their Cenlures too，for the approving or correcting the faid Propofiti－ ons；and therefore defires them again to fpak their －minds frcely，and if they hall like，to give thei
＊Confents，that then the Matters may pals ro a full Cont clufione
Hercunco，when the Clergy have given their Confents （which they commonly do withous much paufing）they take their Leaves withbleffing the Emperonr，who brings the Patriarch on his way as far as the nexi Room，and to remurnis to his Seat．The Acts thus palled by the \(\bar{z}\) a－ lerc，are drawninto a Proclamiation；which they fend into every Province and chicf Town of the Realm，to be pablified by the Dukss and Diaks；or Secretaries of thofe places，The Seffions ended the Emperour invites the Clergyto a folemn Dinner，after which，they depart to their own homes
Among other Methods，thefe following have been u－ fed by their Emperours toaugment cheir Treafurs．

I．They would fuffer their Sabjeets to give freely to the Monafteries（which many do，efpecially in their laft Wills）：and to lay up their Money and Subitance in then，to keep it more fafe；whereby their Monafteries are exceeding rich．This was done to have the Money of the Realm more ready for their Hand，when they lift to take is ；which many times is done withour any poife， the Fricrs being content to part from fome，rather than hazaid to loofe all ar once．
To this end Fuan Ifaflowich did what few Princes would have done in their greateßt Extremities；he re－ figned his Kingdom to the Emperour＇s．Son of Crazan as tho he meant to setire to a private Life．Towards the cnd of the Ycar he caufed this New King to call in all Charters granted to Bifhopricks and Monatteries， whichichey had enjoyed many hundred Years before，and ro cancel them all．This done（as if he had dilliked the Fact and Mifgovemment of the ncw King）he refumed his Scepter，and－fo was content（as in favour of the Church and Religious Men）thar they Ihould renew their Charters，and rake：them of himself，referving and annexing to the Crown，formach of their Lands as he thought Good
By this－practice the wrang from the Bifhopricks and Monaftexics，an huge mals of Money，from fome 40， rome 50 ，fome 100000 Rubbles，and this as well to in－ creafe his Trcalure，as to abate the ill opinion of his hard Governmenr，by a thew of worfe in another Man．
II．To make an open hew of want when chey intend to lay 2 heavy Tax upon the People，as was deneby Tbec－ dore Fumowichs：at the beginning of his Reign，when being left very rich（as was thoughr＇）by his Father，he fold moft of his Plate，and ftampt fome inte Coin，that he might deem to wand：Money，whereupon prefently came our 2 Taxation．

III．They would fomerimes fend their Meffengers into the Provinces ro foreftal and ingrofs Commodities，tak ing thern at fmallil rizes（what thernifelves lift）and felling them again at exceffive Rates，to their own Mcr chants and Strangers；If they refufed to buy them；then to force them to it．The like is done when any Commo dity，native or forreign（as Cloth of Gold，broad Cloth，Eic．）thus engroffed by the Emperour，happens co decay or marre by long lying，which is forced upon the Mcrcbants at the Empcrour＇s price，whether they will orno．
IV．By engrofling foreign Commodities，and then forcing his Merchanes to buy them of his Officers at his own．price．
V．By making a Monopoly for a Seafon of all fuch Commodities as are paid him for Rent or Cuftom，and to enhance the price of them，as Fors，Com，Wood， Ec．During which time none mult fell of the fame Com modity，until the Emperour＇s be all fold．
\(\mathcal{F}^{3}\) unit Vaflomich fear into Permia for certain Loads of Cedar，whereof he knew that none grew in that Coun－ Iry：The Inhabicants returned－anawer，Thar they could find noncthere；whercupon he taxed their Counrry in 32000 Rubbles；as if they had concealed the Commo－ dity．Again，he fent to the City of Mofco to provide for him．a Colpack，or Meafure full of live Fleas for a Mc－ decin：They anfwered，that the thing was impotible， mind if they could get them，yet they could nor meafure them，forteaping out，whercupon he fer a Malct upon them of 7 roo Rubbles．
To ubefe may beaided their Seifures andConficarions To thefe may beailded their Seifures andConfications upon fuch as arein difpleafure，and the Conniving at cheir Dreses and Eyacksin the Provinces，till their time be cxpired，and then turning all into the Emperour＇s Treafurs，burneverany thing tack again to the right Owaers，how grear or cyidetit foever the Iugury bs．

Of the Nobility and Degrecs of Perfons among sbem：

\section*{The Degrees of Perfons or Eftates in Rufla are as follows．}

I．The Vadelng Knaity，that is the exempt or privi－ sged Dukes．
11．The Boiarens，who befides stheir Nobility＇，are ho－ oured with the Ticle of counsellors．
1II．The Voyavodey，or fach Nobles as are，or have becn Generals，whofe Title defcends to their Pofterity alfo Thefe cake place of all Dukes and Nobles that are no of the two firf forts：And thefe three Ranks of Nobi－ lity have the addition of \(V\) ich pur to their Sirname which is a Note of Honour that the reft may not afurp； and if it be not added in the naming of chem，they may Gue the Beffchefi or Penalry of dithonour upon them，that otherwife mall terra them．

IV．The fourth and loweft degree of Nobility，is of fuch as bearthe name of Knazcy or Duk：s，but cone of the younger Brothers of thove chicf Houfes through many defcents，and have no Inheritance of their own Tave the bear Title of Duke．For she Title of their Dignities delcends．to all their Children alike，whatio－ ever elfe they leave them；fo that the Sons of a Voicurs－ dr，or General in the Field，are called Voiavodey，tho they never faw the Field；and the Sons of a Keci，or Duke，：are called．Knazcy，tho＇they have not one Groat of Inheritance or Livelyhood to maintain themfelves． Of this fort diere are fo many，that the plenry makes them cheap；Io that you ．Thall fee Dukes glad to ferve a mean Manfor five or fix Rubbles a year，and yet they will ftand highly upon their Beftchefts or xeputation of their Honors；and fo much of．their Nobility．
The fecond Degree of Perfons is their Sima－Boiatsh7 orSons of Gentlemen，who areall preferred，and hold def frem that name by their－Serike in the Wars，being Souldicers trines． by their very Stock and Birth；to which order are pre ferred their Diacks，or：Secretaries，who Rerve the Em perour in every chief Town，being joined in Commifion with the Duke of that place．
Laftly，their Commons，whom they call－Mouficks；in which number they reckon their Merchants and Arrifi－ cers．Thefe are reckoned in no degree at all，nor have any place or Suffrage in the Z．bore，and are eftecmed no better than Kolopliey＇s or Villains，and fo fubreribe then－ relves in all their Writingsto any of the Nobility，as they of the Nobility do unto the Emperour；and indeed no Bond laves are keprin more awe and fubjection，than the common People are by the Nobility，Officers and Scul dicrs；To thar when a poor Moufick meets with any of them upon the High－way，he maft rurn himfelf about as nor daring to look him on the Face，and fall down with his Head to the ycry ground．
As to their Landsand Goods，they are fo cxpoied to the femit
he rapine of the Nobility and Souldiers，belides the and mifth Taxes，＇Cuftoms，Scizares，and orher publick Exactions ble ctar of laid upon them by the Empcrour，that they are difcourx－the pelle ged from following their Trades，becaule the more they have the more danger they are in，notonly of their Goods but of their Lives alfo；and if they have any thing they convey it into．Monafteries，or hide it under Ground or in．Woods，as Men do when they are in fearof forcign invafion ；fo that many．Villages and Towns are without Inhabitants；and in the way rewards \(M c / c\) ，berwixt Vologhde and Xerafare，abour 100 Engliff Miles，there are so Villages at leaft，tome half a Mile，fome a Mike ong，that ftand vacans and defolate without any Inha－ itant：The like is in＂all other－places of the Realm， as I hare been told by thofe that have travelled the Country．
This oppreftion makes the Prople（tho＂orherwife hardned to bear any toil）to give theinfelves，over to la dlenefs and－Drinking，as caring for no more than from hand to Mouth．
In every grear Town the Emperour hath a Caback or drimking Houre，wherc is fold Aqua Vits（which they anku cr call R．ffe Wine）Mead，Beer，Ejc．Out of thefe he re－Housts． cives Rent；amounting ta a great Sum of Money，fome ield \(800,9=0,1000,2000\), or 3000 Rubbles a year． Here the puon labouring Mian and Artificer many times
Chap. XIV. A Trearife of Kuffia, by Dr. Giles Fletcher.

Spends all from his Wife and Child can; fome will lay in 20,30 , or 40 Rubbles or mesicinno the Caback, and vow themfelves to the Por until all that be fpent; and this (as he will fay / for the honour of 1 fiJp \({ }^{\prime}\) daic, or the Emperour. You fhall have many rhere, who havedrank all away to the very Skin, and fo walk naked. While they are in the calack, nonc maj call them forth, whatfoever caufe rhere be, becaule he hinders che Empcrour's Revenue
Altho' the Pcople feem apt enough to receive any Art (as appears:by the natural Wirs in the Mcn, and very Children) yet they excel in no common Arr, much lefs in any learned Science. They are kepe in ignorance, that they may be firter for the fervile condition they are in, and have neither Rcafon nor Valour to attempt innovarion ; for which purmofe they are keptfrom rravelling, afrimed io thar they may lcarn nothing, nor fee che Fathions of other Councries abroad. Yout thall feldoun fise a Ruffe Traveller, except he be with foine Embatiador, or make an cicape our of his Country, which he can hardly do, by reafon the Borders are warched fo narrowly, and the Punilhment, if he be raken in the Attempr, which is death, and confifcation of all his Goods; neither do they. willingly fuffer any Stranger to come into their Realm our of any civil Country, farther than necelity of uttering thcir own Commodities, and taking in offoreign, cnforces them to do.
And therefore in the Ycar 1589 , they confulted about the removing of all Merchanrs Strangers to the border Towns, to have their refidence there, and to be more wary inadmircing other Strangers hersafter into the Inland parts of the Realm : For the fame purpofe alfo, they are kept within the Bounds of their Degree by the Laws of their Country, fo that the Son of a Morfick, Artificer, Ge, is evcr a Moufick, Artificer, Erc. and hath no means to alpire any higher, cxcept, having learned to writciand read, he attain to the preferment of a Prieft or Diack. The Ruf \(f_{c}\) Character is no other than the Gresk romewhat diftorted.

Of:tisir fublick Tuftice, and manner of proseeding in Civil and Criminch Matters.

Their procecding in Civil Actions is on this manner, fracids Firft the Plaineuff purs up his Supplication, thewing the Wrong done unto him, whercupon a Warrans is granted to him, ivhich tie delivers to the. Priffave or Serjeant, to arreft the Parry, who muft pur in Sureties to anfwer at theday appointed, or elfeftand at the Serjcants mercy, for his lafekecping.
- ThefeSerjcants are comimonly very cruel towards their Prifoners, clapping as many lrons upon chem as they can bear, to fqueeze out of them the larger Fees; tho it be but for Six-pence, you fhall feethem go with Chains on their Legs, Arms, and Necks. When they come before the Judge, the Plainciff declares according to the Contents of his Supplication. They have no Artumies, Counfel lors, És, to plead their Caufe For chem, but every Man is to rell his own tale, and plead for himfelf as well as he can
If they have any Witnels or other Evidence, they profanoured by duce it before the Judge; If they have none, or if the kifng tre Truth of the Caufe cannor' fo well be difcerned by the Plca, or Evidence on bort parts, then the Judge asks the Plaintiffor Defendant ( which he thinks good) whether he will kifs the Crofs, upon that which he avouches or denies. He thar takes the Crofs ( being fo offered by the Judge.) is accounted clear, and carries the Caufe. This Ceremony is not done in the Coust, but the Party is carried to the Church by an Officer, and there it is done, the Money in the mean rime hanging upon a Nail, or lying at -che Idol's Feet, ready to be delivered to the Party, as foon as he hath kiffed the Crofs before the Idol.

This kiffing the Crofs is as their corporal Oath, and accounted with them 2 very holy thing, which no Man will dare to violate or profane by a falle Allegation.
If both Parties offer tokifs the Crofs, then they draw one of which is the name of the Plainriff, and in the a ther chat of the Defendant ; then the Judge calls fome By-ftander, and commands him toftrip up his right Sleeve and with his bate Arm in God's name, feverally to takeout the rwo Balls, and he whofe Name comes out firft, is prefumed to have the xight on his fide, and the other Party is concicted and delivered to the Serjeant to carty him to the Rraveulb if he do not pay the Money, or content the Party. The Preveufbis a place where foch as have Seritence paffed againft them, and refufe to pay that which is adjudged, are bearen with grear Cudgels on the Shins andCalves of theirLegs Every Morning from eight to eleven, they, are fet on the Praverf乃 and beaten in this manner till the Moncy be paid: In the Afternoon and Night time, they are kept in Chatins, unlis they pur in fufficient Sureties for cheir appearance at the Praverfo at the Hour appointed. You thall fuc to or 50 fland together on the Piaverfball on a row, and their Shins thus culgelled every Morning, with a pircOuscry. If after a Years ftanding on the Pr,vouft, the Party will anor, or cannot fatisfy his Crediror. it is lawful for him tofell his Wife and Children, eitheroutright, or for a certain term of Years; and if the Price of them do not amount to the full payment, the. Creditor may rakethem to be his Bopdnaves, for years, or for cver, according to the value of thic Debr.

When a Man is apprehended for Treafon, Murder, Theff, Grc. he is brought before the Duke and Diack Proceedrig of that Province ; the Examination is all by Torture, as mastes. frourging with Whips made of Sincws or white Learber, asbig as a Man's Finger, which enters the Flelh and gives a forc lath; or by tying to a Spit and roafting at the Fire; fomerimes by wrenching and breaking one of their Rits with a pair of hot Tonges, or curcing the Flefh under the Nails, छ'c.
The Examination thus raken, with all the Proofs and Evidences alledged againft the Parcy, are fens to the Co:ncil Table ar Mo/co, where only Judgranen is given in matter of Life and Death; and that by cridence upon Information, without fecing or hearing the Party, who is fill keptin Prifon where che Fact was commitred, and never fent up to the place where be is tricd. If they find the Parry guilty, they give Sentence of death according to the quality of the Fact. The Prifoner is carried to the place of Execution with his Hands bound, and a Wax Candle burning, held betwixt his Fingers.

Iheir capital Punîhmenss- arc Hanging, Beheading; Exscutiona knocking on the Head, Drowning, purtiog under the Kee, fetting on a Srakc, EGc. but for the mof part the Prifoners condemned in Suirmer are kept till Winter ro beknockr on the Head and pur under the Icc. Thefe Punifbments are to be undextood for common Parfons for if. Thetr or Murderibe commitred upon a poor Moufick by one of the Nobility, he is feldom punifhed or to muchas called to account for is, becaufe the Mouticks are looked upon as cheir Kolophey's: If a Murder or Thefn be commitred by a Gentleman Souldier, perbaps he thall be imprifoned at the Emperour's pleafure; or if the Faet be very nororions, he may be whipped, which is commoniy all the punifhmentinflicted on them:
If a Man kill his own Scrvanr, litule or nothing is faid. to him, becaufe he wasaccounted hisbondllave, and fo to have a right over his Head; the moft is Come Mulet to the Emperourif theParry be rich; and fo the. Punifhment is rather. againft the Purfe than the Injuftice. They haveno writren Law, cxcept a froall Book containing fome Judicial Forms and Circumftances, but nothing ro dircet rhem in giving Semence upon Righn or Wrong.

\section*{Of cheir Military Furce}

The Souldiers of Ru/fia are called Siraboiarskr, of the Sons of Gentlemen, cvery Souldier being a Gentleman by virrue of his Milirary Profefion, and none arc Gende men butSouldiers. When they are of Xcarsable ta bear Arnis, they enter their Names in the Office of the Great Comftable, who allors them certain Lands for their maiocnance, for the moft part the fame their Farthers enjoyed For the Lands atigned to maintain the Army are ever certain, withour addicion or dimintution, and are re giftred in this Ofice: Bur if the Emperour have as many Souldiers in pay as the ycarly value of thofe Lands does amount to, then thore who come and conter themTelves in the Office, bave nothing allowed them for the prefent, except fome one portion of land be divided in two, which oftencaufes great diforder in that Country; fora Souldier who hath many Children, thall have fometimes but one entertained in the Emperour's pay To that the reft having nothing, ate furced to live by unjuft and wicked Shifts, and opprefing the People.
The Ruff: truftech rather so the number thaxu. to the valour of his Soldiers; they charge on all together in 2 hurry withour order; their Enfigns is the Image of \(S_{5}\). George; the Foor are commonly placed idi a moving Caftle, fo framed tharic may be fet np in lengric (as cc- The morint cafion requires) one, two, three, four, five, fix. or feven Miles, for fo long it will reach. It is nothing elfe but a double Wall of Wood, with abour threc yards ipace berwixe the two fides, fo that they may ftand within it and have room enough ro charge and difchargerheirPicces and to afe theirother Weapons. It is clofid ar both ends, and maile withLoop holes on cither fille,tolay out the muzzles of their Guns, and to puilh forth any other Weapon. It is carricd with the Army wherefoever it goes, being taken into pieces, and fo laid on Carts fparred tozether, and drawn by Horfes that-are not feen, becaufe they are covered wirh their Earriages as with a PaintHoufe. It is ealily pur rogether withour the Kelp, of a Carpenter or luttrumenr, the Timber being to framed as thest ons piece within another.
The Reffes have been everobferved to be vanquithed by thepelss and Suredes in a pitched Field; bur in defending a Caffe or Town, they iprove good Souldicrs, as was feen arthe fiege of Volesk, where they repulfed the King of Poland with his whole Army of 190000 Mcn , and forced him in the end to give over his ficge, with the lofs of many of his beft Captrins and Souldicrs.
If any Man fignalize himfelf, by doing come inecial piece of Service, the Empercur fends him a piece of Gold famped with the Image of Sc. George on Horfelack. This they hang on their Sleves and fer in their Caps: and this is accounted the greateft Honour they can reccive for any Service they do.

\section*{Of their Ecclefinftical SEarc, or Charch Governmont.}

The Patriarch of the Greck Charch refided formerly at Conltamsinopls, and being forsed thence by che Tark, remored to the Inc of Scio, to which place the Emperours and Clergy of Ruffir wore wont yearly to fend Gifts, and to acknowledge a Spiritual Subjection to him.

In the Xear 1588 Hicromymo Patriarch of Scio (banimed by the Turk as fome faid, others, deprived by the Clergy) came to Mof co where the Emperour, who was Yory fuperfticious, gave him great entextaiument. Beforc his coming to Mofsr, he had been in Itaty with the Pope, as was xcported by fome of his Company.

His chicf Bufinels was (inrevenge of the Tuhk and the Grcek Clergy, who had thruft him from his Seat) to trear al-our reducing the \(R(f)\) Church under the Pope of Rome, whercin it may fecm that coming lately from Rome, he was icton by the Pope, who tho be had in vain attempted the farre many times beforc, (and namely, in the time of \(F\) uan Vifilowich, by one Arshony his Legate) yet thought this the moft proper time to obrain his purpole, by the Mediation of their own Patriarch; but this not fucceeding, be Pzeriarch came to a fecond Point, concerning the refignation of his Pa triarchmip, and manflation of the See from Confantinople or Scio to the City of Mofco. This was fo well received by thicEmperour, as marter of Religion and Policy, watno other Treaty nor formeign Embaflages were regarded, till that Matrer was concluded.

The Rearonsalledged by the Patriarch for the traflating hisSee, were there, -1 . Becaufe it was under the Turk, who is an Encmy to the Faith. 2. Becaufe the Ref \(f_{c}^{\prime}\) Church was the only matumal Daughter of the Grick at this time, and holds the Came Doctrine and Ceremonies with it, the reftbcing all fubject to the Turk, and falIenaway from the true profeflion ; and, to make the berter Markct of hisbroken Ware, he infitted upon the Honour that would grow to the Emperour and his Country, to have the Patriarchal Seat rrampated imto the chief City of his Empire. As for the righr of tranflatingit, and appointing his Succeffour, he made no doubr of ic but that is pertained wholly to himferf.
-So the Empcrour and his Council, with the principal

The Ratri.
archal lee
fromilarcal
simpole to Sofan thar the Metropolite of Afof 50 fhould become Patriarch of the whole (irce' Church, and have the fame full Authority and Jurifdiction that pertained keforeto the Patriarch of Cenftantinople; And that it might be done with more folemnity, the 25 of 7 an. 1588 . the Greck Parriarch accompanied with the Rufs Clergy, went to the great Church of our Lady, (having firft wandred thro the twhole City, bleffing the People with his two Fingers where making an Orarion, he delivered his Refignation iman Inftrument of Writing, and fo taid down his \(\mathrm{P}_{2}\) sriarchal Staff, which was prefenty received by the Me tropolitc of Mofso, and divers other Ceremonies ufed 2 bout the inauguration of this new Patriarch.

FIz Sent hin from the Emperour and Emprefs, of Plate, Clorh of Gold, Furs, Eic. and at his departing, received many Gifts more from the Emperour, Nobility andClergy. Thus the Patriarch/hip of Comfinntiziople (which bach continued Girce the Council of Nise) is now tranlated to Mofos , or they mide belicve that they hate a Patriarch with the they miale belicve that they hare a Patriarch with the Tame Right and Authority that the other had a However with a rich Booty into Poland, whether their Fatriarch1hip be current or not.
Lierommo made good adramage of it, and went away

The Clergy of Ruffin, are alrcgether ordered and o-Fcelefation veruled by the Emperour and his Council, as well con-Jurifition cerning their Lands and Revenves, as their Authority and Jurifdiftion, and bave fo much and no more of borh, than his pleafure does permit them. The Ecclefiaftical Jurifdiction extends so all Teflimentary Caufes, Marriages, and Divorecments, to which purpofe thes have their Officiate or Commiffaries, that arc Cay-men, of the Degree of Dukes or Gentlemen, that kecp their Cours, and exccure their Juxiddiction, who, belides their op, prefing the common Reople, rcign over the Priefts atCo. There Osficials are not appointed by the Bifhops, buts by the Emperour or his Council, and are to give account of their Doings tonone bur them.
The election of Bimops pertains wholly to the Empe Eleationas rour; they areever cholen out of Monafteries; to that घinopp there is no Bihop. Archbithop, nor Metropolite, but hath beena Monk or Friar before, and confequently muft be unmarried Men. Their Revenues tomaintain their Dignities are fomewhat large; the Patriarchs yearly Remss of his Lands, befides other Fres, is about \(30 c o\) Rubbles or Marks; the two Metropolites, and four Archbitions about 2500; the Binhops, fome riooo, fome 800, 5eo; EGs.

As for Preaching, they neither nfe it, nor have any skill in it, the whole Clergy being atrerly unleamed; Thechmirt and as themfelves are void of learning, fo are they wary cf the mint to kerp our allmeans that mightbring is in, leaft their \({ }^{\text {chg }}\) Ignorince Shoutd be difcoveted ; and havecherefore petfwaded the Emperours, that it would breed Innovation, and prove dangerous to their State to haveany novelity of Leatning come mithin the Realm. There came once a Prefsand Letrersout of Poimd to Mcfo, where a Printing Houfe was fer up with the Approlation of the Empsperour himfelf; Bur not long after, the Houfe was fired in the Nighr time, and the Prefs and Lerrers were burne, as was thought, by the procurement of the Clergy.
The Pricts' ( whom they call l'apocs) aremadeby the riche. Bithops; without any grear tryal of their Parts or Gifts before they admir them. Their Heads are horn (not thaven, forthey like not thar) abour an hand breadition the Crown, and chat place anointed with Oil by the Bimop who putsupon him fint his Surplice, and then a white Crofs of Silk upon his Breaft, which he wears cight days and no more; and fo gives him authority to fay and fing in the Church, and to adminifter the Sacraments.
It is lawful for a Prieft to marry once, but if the frft Wife die, hecannor takea fecond, bur he muft loofe his Priefthood and his Living withal.' The Reafon chey rake from that place of St. Paul to Timothy, 1. 3.2 oot well rmdeftood, thinking thar to be fpoken of divers Wives foccefively, which the Apoftle fpeaks of as one and the fame time. If he would needs marity again after his frift Wifeis dead, he is no longer called papa, bur Rofpape or Luondam Prieft. This caufes the Priefts to make mach of their Wives, who are accounted as Masroins, and of beft reputation among the Women of the Parifh.
The Priefts receives no Tyths of Corn or ocherching; bur ftandsto the Conrtcyy of the Parifh, and makes up his Income by Offerings, Shrifs, Marriages, Buxials, Dinges, and Prayers for the Dead. They ufe alfo ro, rifit their Parimoners Houfes with Holy Water and Perfume once a Quarter, and to thaving fprinkled, the good Man and bis Wife, with the reft of deir Houhold and Houlhold Stuff, they receive a Gratuiry according to the Man's Ability. Therc things laid sogether, may make abour thirty or forty Rubbles or Marks a year, whercof he paysa tenth part to the Bithop of the Diocefs.
Of Friars they have an infinite Rabble, far greater than in any Conntry where Popery is profeffed the Reafon whereof feems to be, becaufe the Friars life is the fafeft from che Opprefions and Exactions that fall upon the Commons; and befides, fach as are voluntary, there are divers chat are forced ro put on the Frians Habit, upon' fome difpleafure; thefe are for the moot part the chief Nobility: Divers turn Friars to avoid the Pupimment chcy have deferved by the Laws of the Realm; for if a Man can get a Monaftery over his Head, and there par on a Coul before he be atracked, he is for ever protected againft any Law, for all Crimes but Treation; But they will admit none bur uch is bring their Stock with them (except fuch asare commanded by the Emperour to be received) fome bring 1000 Rubbles and more, but none are admitred inder atire or four hiundred.

The manncr of their Admiifion is thus, Firft, he is Atripr of all his fecular Apparcl, then the Abbor purs upon him next to his Skin, 2 white Flannel Shirt, with a long Garment down to the Ground, girded upon him with a broad leather Bele; then is his Crown thorn, the Abbot pronouncing thefe Words while he is clipping his Hair, As shofe Hairs are clipped off and taken from shy Head, fo wo now sake thee gind feparite clee clean from the World and Worldly Things. Thisdone, he anoints his Crown with Oil, and purs on his Coul: They vow perpernal Chaltiry and abstincency from Fleth.
Befides their Lands, they are the greareft Merchants in the whole Councry; the Landsof fome Monafteries. are worth 1.000 or 2000 Rubbles a year \(\dot{f}\) there is one Abby called Troits; that hath in lands and Fces 1,00000 Rubbles or Marks 2 year: There arc of Friars within it about 700 , befides Officers and Scrvants. Tlicy have allo many Nunncrics, whercof fome may admit none but Noblemens Widows and Daughters, who the Emperour will keep ummarried to extinguifh their Familics.

Of shcir Lithurgy or Form of Church Scruite.
Theit Morning. Scrvice is done in this order: The Pricit being come into the middle of the Church, fays with a loud Voice, Blaffaver Vladikn (that is) Ble/s: ins Henvenly Pastour, meaning Cbriff.- Then he adds, In \(t b=\) name of the Father, and of the Som, and of the Ho!, Ghopi, one very God in Tixinity; and AfPndy Pomelius or Lord hirer mery upon ur, repeared three times. This done, he enters the Chancel; where ftanding at the Alear or Table fer ncar to the upper Wail of the Chancel, he fays the Lord's Prayer, and then again AlpodyPomelius,or Lordhave mercy upon us, pronounced twelve times; then, Praifed be the Trinity, she Farber, the Son, and the Hoi'y Gibof for sver and ever ; whercunto the Deacons and People fay Amen: Then the Prieft adds the Pfalms for that day, and begins with, O come let uswor/hip and fall downh before the Lord, Eic. and therewithal, himfelf with the Deacons and People, turn themfelves towards their Images that hang on the Wall, and crofling themfelves, bow down three cimes, knocking their Heads to the ferry ground, After this he reads thic Ten Commandments, and Atharafuus's Creed our of the Service Book.
This done, the Deacon whoftands without the ChanFedi cll, readsa piece of Legend out of a written Booic. of fome Saints Life. Miracles, छ'c. This is read with a kind of a plain finging Nore; afcer which, he adds cerrain Collects, and toends his Service, which lafts commonly an Hour and half or two Hours.
All this while fland burning before their Idols, a great many Wix Candles (whereof fome as big, as a Man's Waft) vowed, or enjoyned by pennance upon the Pcople of the Parifh.
- Abour nine in the Morning, the High Service is fung by the Priefts and Chorifters; and if it be a FeftivalDay, then Blefedbe the Lord God of Ifreel, and whe praile ctiae oGod, &c. are fung with a more folemn and curious Note: This commonly lafts swo Hourss.
In the Evenivg Service the Prieft begin's as he did in the Morning ; and after the Pfalms he fings, \(M y\) Soul doth magniff the Lord, &c. and then the Priefts; Deacons and People; all with one voice fing, Afpody. Romelius, of Lord brve mercy upon wos; thinty cimes together; whereunto the Boys anfwer as faft as their Lips can go, Vcrii, Verii, Verii, Verii, or Praife, Praifc, Praifo, &ces thirty times togectict: Thenis read or fung by the Prient the fufPGalms, Bleffd is tbe Man &ace and in the end of in is added Allelygia rcpeated ren rumes: Then follows fome part of the Golpel read by the Priefts; which be ends with Allimia, repeated three times: All this while the Prict ftands above at che Alcaror high Table within the Chancel, whence he never moves all the Service time; the Deacons wittrour the Chancel Door, and the People fand the whole Service time in the Body of the Church, they having no Pews or Seats in their Churches.
The Sacrament of Baptifm is adminiftred after this manner. The Child isbrought tothe Church within eight days after it is borm, the Prieft ftanding ready in the Porch with his Tub of Water by him, declares unto them, that they have brought a little Infidel so be madea Chrifian: Then hereaches the Wirneffes in 2 fer form out of his Book, whar their Dity is in bringing up the Child after he is baprized: This done, in the name of God, he commandsthe Devill after a conjuring manner, to come out of the Water, and fo after certain Prayers, plunges the Child thrice over head and ears; for they hold it neceffary that no part of the Child be undipped in the

The Form of Baptifm is the very fame ufed by us, viz In floe name of the Finther, and of the Som, and of afe Hoi) Glopf: And as foon as the Child is baptized, the Pricft lays Oil and Salt tempered together upon the Forc-head, both fudes of the Face, and upon the Mouth, drawing it along with his Finger over the Child's Lips, raying cerrain Prayers chat God would make him a rood Chaiftian Ec. Alu this is done in the Church-porth. Then is the Child ( as being now made a Chriftian, and fir to be received within the Church-door) carricd imo rhe Church, the Prieft going beforc; and there he is prefented to the chict Idol of the Church, being laid on a Culhion before the Fect of the Image, by is (as by the Mediator) to be commended moto God. If the Child be fick on weak (efpecially in Winter) they make che Water luke warm. After Baptifom, they cus off che Hair fromn the Child \({ }^{\circ}\) Head, and wrapping is up with a piecs of Wax, lay it up in anfecret place of the Church.
When rhey rake a Tarcer Prifoner, they will common- Turtarchoof ly offer him Life, on condition so be baptized; and yet then curne. they perfwade very few of them fo roredeem their Lives. Chriains. The Year after Mofeo was fircd by the Cirim Tartar, there was taken 2 Divoxmorfo, one of the chicf in that Exploin, with 300 Tarsars more, who had all their Lives offered them if thcy would be baptized after the Ru/fe manner, which they all refufed to do, with many Reproaches against thofe that perfwaded them; and fo being carried to the River. Mofco, they were all baptized after a violent manner, being brought to the brink of a Hole made in the Lec, and by a knock on the Head forced into the Watcr.
The Sactament of the Lord's Supper they reccive but The Loida once a ycar,-in their greac Lent rime, a licric betore, Ea-Supper. fter; thrce armoft are admitred arone rime, and never above: The Priet? begits with certain wfual Prityers, the Communicants 1 tanding the mean while with their Anms folded : Then the Priept fills a Spoon with Clarer, and putting a fmall picce of Bread into ir, tempcrech them both rogerher, and fo delivers thems in the \(S_{\text {poon to }}\) the Communicancs that ftand in order, fpeaking the ufual Words of ihe Sacramenc, Eaf thir, ECa Drink sbr, &c. both as one time, without any paufe.
This done, he delivers them again Bread by it felf. and Winc, tempred together with a litele warm Water. to reprefent the Blood and Warer that flowed out of the Gide of Chrift. While this is doing, the Communicants unfold their Arms, and then folding them again, fol: ow che Prieft thrice round the Communion Table, and Go retura to their places again, where, after fome Pray? ers, he difmiffech them, charging them to be merry for, fevendaysfollowing; which ended, he enjoins them to faft as many more; and this chey obierve with grear devotion, eacing nothing but Bread and Sale, cxecpra litele Cabbage, or ocher Plant, and drink nothing but Watex.

Of the Dostrine of sbe Ruffe Cburch, and its Errours:
1. They will not publicily read fome Cononical Books of Scripcure, 2 ss the Books of, Mofes, cfpeciailly, the four laft, which they fay (not difcerning the differ. once betwecn the Moral and Ceremonial Law) are all annulled and of no ufe, by the coming of Chrift. The Books of the Prophets they allow of, but read them not publickly in their Churches, becaufe (fay they) they were buit Direttots unto Chrift, and proper to the Nation of the Jews; only the Book of Pfalms they have in grear ctimation, and fing and fay them daily in their Churchics: Of the New Teftament, dhey allow and read all except che Revelation, which, though they allow it, they read oor, becaufe they donot undertand it.
II. They hold with the Papifts, that their Church radizions are of equal Authority with the write Tradrioatal Word of God, and prefer themfelves to otherChurches affirming, that they have the true and right Traditions delivered by the Apoftes to the Greck Church, and fo to them
Ill. That the Church (meaning the Greck, and ef-Authoricy to pecially the Parriarch and his Syncd, as the head of the inerpres reft ) bavea Sovetain Auffiority to interpret the Scrip- Scripure. rares, and thatall are bound to hold Liar finterpretacionto befound and aurhentick
1V. Concerning the Divinic Nature, and the three the goly Peifons in the one Subitance of God, they hold that the Ghof to from Holy Ghoit proceeds from the Father only, and nor from cedd from theSon.
.V. About the Office of Chrift, they hold many foul \({ }^{\text {coly }}\) Errors, and the fame almoft with the Popifh Church, nimely, tharke is the fole Mediator of Redemprion, but not of Interceifion VI. For the means of Juftification, they agree with the Papits, tharit is nor by Faich in Chrift only, but by cheir Works only.
VII. They fay with the Papifts, that no Man can be affured of his Salvation, will the Sentence be palfed at the Day of Judgment.
VIII. They ufe Auricular Confefion, and think they onfers ro the Prieft
IX. They hold three Sacraments, Baprifim, the Lords piminc. Supper and Excrome Unction- yer they hold northe latt Co neceffary to Salvation, but think it a grear Curfe, and Punithment if any dic without it.
X. They think thercis a necellity of Baptifm, and that all are condemied thar die withour it.
XI. They rebaptife as many Cbrittians (not being of the Greck Church.) as thoy convert to their K"Je Profelfion XII. They oblerve their Falts fo Rtrietly \({ }_{y}\) and with fuch blind Devorion, that they will rather dic than cat a bir of Flefh, Eggs or fuch lixe, for the balth of chair Bodics in extream Sickncis.
dill. They hold Marriage to be unlawful for all ClerTrmen, except Pricts only, and for them alfo aftex the firft Wifc, as was faid beforc,

\section*{of their Marriages.}

The manner of folemnizing their Marriage is difficrent from that of other Countrics ; the Man, tho' he never faw the Woman before, is not permirted so have any light of her all the rime of his Wooing, which is not managed by himielf, burby his Mother or fome grave Matronof his Kindred. When the Parents or Guardians are agrced, (for withour their confenrthe Concract isnor luwful) they have a Conference about the Dowry, which is commonly as large as the Ability of the learcass will admit.
The Man makes no Jointure in recompence of the Dowry; butin cafe he have a Child by his Wife, the cujoys a Third aftex his deccafe: If he have two Chilaren by het or more, the is to have an Addition at the diferction of her Hutband: If the Hubband depart with our Iffue by his Wife, the is retumed to har Friends withour any thing bur her Dowry, if the Hubband leave:fo much behind him: If the Woman were never marriod before, her Farthet and Friends are bound to affurc her a Maidet; which occafions many Brawls and Law Suits among them
The Conrract thas made, the Parties fend Tokens to each other, the Woman fift, thentheMan, bur yet fee not one another until the Mamiage be folemsized. On the Ere brfore the Marriage Day, the Bride is carried to the Bridegrooms Houre, withi her Weeding-Cloths and Bed with her; for this is always provided by the Bride; and hath commonly moft coft beftowed uponit: Here the is accompanied alt thar Night, by her Morher and other Women, but not welcomed or feen by the Bridegroom himrelf.

The time being come, the Bride puts on a Vail that coversher Headiand Body to the midde; and thus accompanied with her Friends, and the Eridegroont with his, they go to Chusch all on Horfeback, tho' the Church Be near, and themfelves but of mean condition: The Words of Contrate are much the fame with thofe nfed with os, with a Ring affo given to the Bride, which being put on, and the Words of Concract pronounced; the Bride's Hand is delivered into the Hand of che Bridegroom who flands on the other fice of the Table: Then the Bride cometh to the Bridegroom, and falls down at his Fect, knocking her Head upon his Shooe in token of fiet fubjection and obedience; and the Bridegroom catts the lapof his Gown or upper Gammentovex the Bride,' as ' 2 Token that he will protce and cheriht her.

Fhen rhe Bridegroom and Bride Atanding both together ar the. Tables end, the Father and Friends of the Bride bow themfelves down low to the Bridegroom, and: then his Friends do the like to the Bride, in roken of Affinty and Love ever after betwixt the noo Kindreds. Fite Eridegroom then taking the Bride by the Hand, they zre mer in the Church-porcti by forte with Cups of Mead in their Hands; the Bridegroom takes otre and drinks to tie Bride, who opening her Vait below (fturt flie tray nor be feen by the Bridegroom: puts the Cup to Her Wourth ond crneakiit, and pledges himi. Thas returxing all together from the Church, the Bridegroom goes not home to his own, bat to hiss Eaticr's Houfe, and the ineewift to hers, where cither emertain their Friends aInti: At the Entry in the Houfe, they fing Corn out of the Windows upoin the Bridegroom nad Brite, is a roken of Kruitfulinefs and plemry.
When the Evening is come, the Bride is brought to the Bridegrooui's Fathers Houfr, amd thete lodges that Night, with her Vailitill orer her Head: All shat Nighe the may not fpeak one Word. (for that chargellec reccives from her Morher and other Matronsher Pricons) that the Bridegioom murt ncither hear nor fee ther, rill the day af rerthe Marriage ; neither muft the \{peak in rhree dayi after, cxccpr a few words at Table, with great revereme to the bridegreom; it the behare ber Kelf otherwife is is a grear prejudice to her credir evet afrer; and will highly be dilliked of the Bridegroom himelf.
After the third day they departo their own höne, zan make a Feaftro both their Friends sogether. On the mat jinge dia and during the Feftival, he is called Xoung Duke and The Xoung Durchets.
The comaion Poople generally ufe their Wives like Sciyants, and upon diflike, the Man may enter hinfelf into a Monattery on pretence of Devotion, and fo leave his Wife 50 dhiff for her felf as well as the can.

\section*{Of ortier Ceremonics of she Ruffe Climech.}

The Sign of the Crofs is much abuled by them, fetting is up in their Hipls-ways, rops of Churches, and in every Door of their Houfs, ligning their Foreheads and Breafs with it concinually, and chat wich great devotion as thouk fecm by their ourward Gefture? The lite is done when they begin any Work, lit down or rile up from Mear; and think all ortherChriftians to be no berter than Turk', becaufe they donor dign themfelves with the Crofs, as the Rufirms do.
They have Holy Warer in grear cetcem as the Popil Church hath, and on Twelfth Day they hallow all the Rivers in the Country: It is done ar Mofco with great Solcmnity, as hath been before defcribed. The Patriarch after certain Prayers, conjures the Devil to corie out of the Water, and therefore on the Morning befote all the Pcople of Mofoo make Croflss of Chalk over every Door and Windows of their Fforfes, left the Deril being conjured out of the Waier, soould fly into their Houfes.
Ac cyery Brewing, they bring a Diff of Wort to the Prieft withinthe Cburch, which being ballowed by him, is poared into the Prewing; The like is alone with the firft Fruies of their Corn in Harvef.
Befides zheir weokdy Fafts on Wedmefdays and Fiidotr chry have four Lenes every: Ycay; in their great Lene they bave threc Vigits, and rhe laft Friday they call their grom Vioil, as which cine the whole Paxilh munt be prefent in be Church, and warch from nine in the Ercaing uncil Gx inthe Morming, tanding alf the time, except when they fall down and knock therir Heads 50 their ldols, which muft be juft 170 times in the whofe Night.
- About their Buriats they bave rinany Supertitions and prophane Ceremenies, as purwing bectween the Fingery of the Corps, a: Letrer to St. Nicholm, whom they make the Porter of Heaven Gates; as the Papiff do Sr. Pettr.
In Winter when all is covered with Soow, and the Ground fo hard frozenas no Spade nor Pictax can enter cheir Cuftom is not to bury the dead, but to kecp the Ro dics of fuch as die in. Winser; in an Hopfe in the Ort parts of the Town, by them called Bitfedicm or Coct's Hou \(\int\) e, where the dead Bodiesare phied uplike Billersin \(x\) Wood Srack, as hard with the Froftas.a very Stone, till the Spring come; and then efery Man rakes his dead Friend and commits him to the Ground. They bury their dead as they afed to gb ; with Coat; Hofe, Boors, and the reft of his Apparel.

Of therr prioutce Bebationt, athil maither of tirnig.
As to the Connfitation of their Bodics, they are generally of a large fize, and account ata Grace to be grofs and burly.

Their Dite is raticr math than curiots; they com- Dice monly begin their Meats with a fmall Cap of Aquatits, (called bytiem Reffe Wite ) and drink not a gaint till cowards theerid of their Meals, and then take it in Largey, kifing one andethet at cyery Pledge: Affer Linnicr there is no tadking with them, but every Man goes id his Bench ro take Tis Afrernoon flieep winch is as ordinnty with them astheir Nights itft: They begintheir Meals with their baked Mears, next their Pioaft; (thercof ficy ofe burlitile Jand'sftly thetr Brodhs.
This Diet would breed in them kilany Difeates; but thas they ute Bath-ftoves or K fot houferwice or thitice a Week, inftead of all Rhyfick; All the Wincer, and almoft
a Stra ( fpeci and col Compl with C and the rers for rers fon they do they do no noti,
The cics, of than Sa (to fear ro fear allona and pre pour co tremisy The moft inf trcam W manner, fuch lik. The futh, \(n\) This qu: c〔pecial! honeft al thought ing, hat Heathen lies South
the Coun Year, an try.
co , with the Emp marched purpore, cupected
gign to bo
The C werc all Hours tir alio, beir of the Pe Enemy, the Croud The Cb his Army, to ftabhin neither da crult to hi
The pri che right pofferied b Afracan a sy of Mof right, whi themfelves Empcrour itanding o: felf firting Cap, and mage ( the Emperour, changed ib was afterw perour. Hercupo invading hi cide or Har he brings \(y\) Men, other lefs number almoft the whole Summer they fo warm the Houfe, that 2 Stranger can hardly bear ir. Thefe two Exireams 2 Stranger can hardly bear it. Thefe two Exireams (fpecially in he Winter) of hear within their Houfes (fpecially in the Winter) of hear within their Houfes and cold withour, makes thom of a dark and fallow and cold withour, makes them of a dark and fallow Complexion, theirSkins being ranned and parched both with Cold and Heat, cipcially the Women, who are fur the moft pars of far worfe Complexions thain the Mien; and therefore the Ruffans allow their Wives and Daughters fomewhar to buy Colours to paine theirFaces, which they do fo vifibly, that cvery Manmay perceive ir, and yet no notice is raken of it, becaufe it is common, and pleafes their:Hulbands.
The Ruflans being thus accuftomed to both Extremicies, of Hear and Cold, can bear them more paricnely than Strangers can do. You thall lee thern fomerimes (to feafon their Bodies) come out of their Bath-itoves all ona froth, and fuming as bot almoft as a Pigat a Spit, and prefently to lcap into the River ttark naked, or to pour cold Water allover their Bodies, and this in the extremity of Winter.
The nuinber of cheir vagrant and begging Poor, is almoft infinite; They are fo pinched wirh Famin and exircam Wantr, thatchey beg after a violent and defperate manner, as, Give and cut me; Give me end kill mc, and fuch like Phrales.
The- \(\langle\) ifis are faid to belicere nothing another Man Giath, nor peaketh any thing worthy to be believed this quality makes them otious to all their Ncighbours efpecially to the Tartars, who account themfelves tabe honeft and juit in compraxifon of the Ruffians; and it is thought that the Offence they take at their double dealing, hath been a great Caufe to keep the Tertars ftill Heathenilh, and to millike the Chrittian Profeffon.

\section*{Of the Taxtars, Samoiss, arid other Eorderet s,}

Their Neighbours, with whom they have great Dealings bodh in Pcace and War, are the Poionians, the Siredes, and the Tertars, who are divided inro many Tribes, difiterent in Name and Govermineme one from another, of whom, the greatelt is the Cirrim Tartar, that lies South and South-caft from Kulia, and moft annoys the Country by frequent lavafions, commonly once every Year, and fometimes penerrates very far into the CounYea try
In

In the Ycar 157:, he came as far as the City of Mof co, with an Army of 200000 Mcn , withour refitance, the Emperour \(\mathcal{F}\) uan Vafilopich with his Army having marched a wrong way, which was thought done on purpore, as not daring to adventure a Bartle, becaufe he fupected his Nobility and chicf Commanders had a defign to betray him to the Tartar.
The City he took nor, but fixing the Suburbs, which wercall of Wood, they burnt fo furiouly, thar in four Hours time the greateft part of the City was confunced alfo, being 30 Miles or more in compais. The throng of the People preting our ar the Gates farcheft from the Enemy, wasfogreat, that thexe perimed by the Firs and the Croud, 8nooo Pcople.
The Chrim having thus fired the Ciry, returned with his Army, and fant che Emperour a Knife (as was faid) to ftabhimelf, upbraiding his Lofs and defperare Cafc, neither daring to meer his Enemy in the Field, nor to truft to his Subjects at home.
The principal Caufe of this continual Quarrel, is for the right of cerain Borders, claimed by the Tartiar, but poffeffed by the Ru/fs. The Tartar alledges, that befides Aftracan and \(C_{a z a n t}\), the whole Country as far as the \(\mathrm{Ci}_{-}\) sy of Mofco, yea, and Mofco it felf pertaineth to his right, which feems to be trueby the Report of the Ru/tes themfelves, who rell of a Homage done by the Rulfe Empcrour evcry year to the Cbrim, the Ruffe Emperour ftanding on foot, and feeding the Cbrim's Horfe, (himfelf firting on his Back) with Oars our of his own Cap, and that withinche Caftle of Mofoo: And this Homage (they fay) was done till the time of Bafikus the Emperour, who furprifing the Clorim by a Scratagem, changed this Homage inro a Tribute of Furs, which was afterwards denied to be paid by che fucceeding Emperour.
Hercupon they continue the Quarrel, the Chrim Tartar inviding him once or twice every Year, about intititonside or Harvelt. If the Cbrim come in his own Perfon, he brings with him an Army of 100000 or 200000 Men, otherwife they make fhort and fudden Inroads with lefs numbers, invading and retiring as they fee advanage.

Their common Practice (being very populous) is to make divers Armies, and fo drawing the Ruffe to one or two places of the Fronciers, to invade fome other place Iown chat is lefr defencelels.. They arcjell expert Honfe-ma, and will moor as readily backward as forward: Their Armes are a Bow, a Sheaf of Arrews, and a Scymi, tar: The common Souldier hath no other Armer than Wool inary Ajparel, wiz. a black Shecps Skin, with the Wool lide outward uncre Da. time, and invard in tiae Nightcinos, and a Cap of the fame; but their Ahow or's or Noblemenamitate the Tu ks both in Aupacer and AFmor. When they pals a River, they rye three or four Horfes together, and taking long Poles or fisees of Wood, bind them faft to the Tayly of their Hourfes, io Witting on the Poles, they drive them over

When they give anialfaulr, they nate a great thont,
 belpus. They choole rather to die than to yicla to their Enemy, and will ofren bite the Wcapon, when they are palt ftriking or helping themfelves, whercas the Rufle Felf, nor intrears for his life, alf, nor intrears for his life, as reckoning trait to die and she Turk commonly when he is palt hope of creaping calts away his Weapon, and holds up both his Hands; wa as it were to be tied, hoping to fave his Life by offering \% The Bondlavs.
The chief boory the Tarrars feck for in their Wars, i to get itore of Captives, efpecially young Foys and Girls, whom they fell to the Turks or other Neiphbours. To this purpofe they take with them great Panuicrs, to carry thein tenderly, and if any of them happen to tyre or befick on the way, they dath hiun againt the Ground or fome Tree, and to leaie chim dead. The Souldicrs are nor croubled with kecping Capives or other Bonty, becaufe they have certain Bands for that purpofe, who mind nothing elfe.
The Rufo Borderers being ufed ro their Invalions, keep few Catele thexe befides Swine, which the Tartar will no touch nor drive away with himn, becaufe he is of the Turkifs Religion, and will car no Swines Flefh. Oi Chrift ourSaviour they confels as much as the Turk does in his Alcorsn,vi;. Thar he came of the AngelGabrici and the Virgin Marr, that he was a great Prophct, Ejc. Bur thcir Religion differs from the Turks in this, that they have Idols made of Silk or other Stuff, of the Fanhion of a Man, faftned to the Door of their moving Houfes; and have befides, the Image of their King or grear Cbam of an huge bignefs, erected at every Srage when the Army marches, to which every one mult bow as he paffes by, be he Tarsar or Stranger
Inrbeir Marriages, a Man may takc any Woman, excepr his Mother, Sifter or Daughter; and altho he accompany with the Woman, yer he accounts her not for his Wife, till he havea Child by her: If the be barren, after a certain time he turns her horne again.
They have Dukes called Morfers or Dyvormorfos, thate rule over ten, twenty, or forty thoufand a picce. which they call Hoords: When the Clrim hath occafion for them in his Wars, they are bound to come with then Souldicrs, every man wich his rwo Horfes at che leaft, the one to ride on, the other to kill, when it comes to his turn to have his Horfe cat; their chief Food leing Horfi fleth, which they ear wichout Bread or any other thing with it, fo chat when a Rugf takes a Tarra, he comp monly finds a Horfe Leg orfome other part of kim ar his saddle-bow.
While I was at Mofco, there came thither the Clrim's Nephew, accompanied with 300 Tartars; he had two very large and fat Horfes flayed in a S'ed, fent to his Lodging to bemade ready for his Supper for him and his Company. They prefer is before other Fleth, becaufe whe Meat is flronger than Beaf, Murton, EGc. Aud yet which is a marvel) tho they ferve all as Horfemen in the Wars, and eat all of Horfc-flelh, there are brought carly to Mo 0 co to be exchanged for other Commoditics, hirty or forty thoufand Tariar Horfe. They keep alfo reat Herds of Kine and Flocks of black Sheep, racher for the Skins and Milk, than for the ufe of the Flen? cho' fomerimes they ear of it. The \(\bar{\prime}\) drink Milk or warma Blood, and for the moft part mix them togerber. In travelling they will bleed a Horfe in a Vein, and drink it warm as it comes from his Body
Towns or ftanding Building they have none, as being in their opinion neither pliafant nor wholfome; bur their Houfes are built upon Wheels, and when they come to their Stages, thele Cart-houfes are placed vary orderly in a Rank like Srreets, and refemble a very large

They begin to move their Houfes and Cattle in the Spring time from the South towards the North, and fo driving on till. they have grazed all up the farthert pari Norchwards, they rerurn back rotward the South Counntry, by ten or twelve Miles a Stagci, and chere cominue

Ggg
all Wintcrefthe Grafs in the mean time being grown up hand, for more hardinefs and feadinefs in executing their ngain, to ferve their Catele as they rerurn.

\section*{Affairs.}

Of Moncy they have no uff ar all, negleting Gold V. To wear any bafe artire, and to patch cheir Cloths, and Silver, and ail Tillage of thcir Ground, to be more whother there be any need or not, that when chere is nced, free for their wandring kind of life, and to keep their it may be no ihame to wear a parch'd Coat.
Coun:ry Ietsrubject to lnvafions, which gives thema great Vi. To take or ftcal from any Strager whatoever they advantage orcr all their Ncighbours, cyer invading and never being invaded.
For Rerifon and Complexion, they have broad and fas Faces, of a tamucd colour, ticreclook, thin haired upon the upper lip, and a pit on the Chin, lighthodicd, with mort less, as if they were narurally made for Horfe men, which they practice from their Clildhood, feldom going a footabour any bufincts. Their greatelt Excrcife is Shooting, whercin they main up their Children, noefuffering them to cat till they ha c fhor near the Mark
There aredivers other Tirtars that boeder upon Ruffa, as the Nagnies, the Chercmiffens, the Mordmites, the Cbirrcaffers, and the Sbalcens, which all differ from the Clirim Tarsar in Name more than Regiment, except the Clist caffes that border Souch-weft toward Liturnin, who axe far more civil than the reft of the Tartars, of a comely Perfon and ftately Behaviour, applying themfelves to the fathion of the Polinians. Some of them have fubjected themiclyes to the Kings of Poland, and profeffed Chriltianity. The Nagayans lic Eaftward, and are reckoned the beft Warriours among all the Tartars, but more Savage and crucl chan the reft. The moft rude and barbarous is the Mordovife Tarsar, who worthips the firft living thing he meers with in a Morning, and fwears by is all thar day. When his Friend dies, he kills his beft Horfe, and flaying the Skin, carries it on high upon a long Pole, before the Corps to the place of Burial.

Altho' the Tartars are yoid of Learning and without wrirten Labo, yer cereain Rules they hold by Txadition, which are cominon to ail Hoords; which arc,
I. To obey their Emperour and other Magiftrates, in whatforver they command for the publick Service.
II. Except for the publick behoof, every Man to be frec and uncontrouled.
III. No private Man to poffefs any Lands, but the whole Country to be as a Common.
IV. To neglect all daincinels and variety of Mears, and to content themflyes with thar which comes next to an ger, as being Enemiesto all Men bur fuch as will fubjet themfolves to them.
VII. Toward their own Hoord and Nation, to be ruc in Word and Dced
VIII. To fuffer no Stranger tocome within the Realm, if any do, the fame tobe Bondilave to him that firft takes him, except fuch Merchants and ochers as have a Tartar Pafporsabous them.

The Permians and Samoits that lic North and Northcaft 'from Ruffra, are of the Tartici kind, having al': broad and flat Faces: They are now fubject to the Rulfe, and live by huncing and crading with thcir Furs: They are clad in Sal Skins, with the hairy fide outwards; are all black haired, and beardlefs: They are all Idolaters, worthipping the Sun, the Ollen, the Loh, Ec. They live a Savage Life, roving from one place to another, withour Habitation: Their Lcader inevery Company is their Pricat.

On the North fide of Ruffia next to Corclio, lies the Country of Lappin, part of which is fubject to the Kings of Speden and Denmark, who cxact Tribure and Cuftom from them, bur the greateft part belongs to the Ruflinn. The whole Country is either Lakes or Mounrains, bat the Inland Parts are furnilhed with Woods which grow on the Hills fides, the Lakes lying between. Their Diet is very plain, having no Bread, bur feed only on Fifh and Fowl. They are utterly unlcarned, having not fo much astheufe of any Alphaberor Letter among them. For Wirchcraft theyare thoughr to pafsall Nations in the World, tho' as to the Scory of felling Winds by rying Knors on aRope, ir is a mecr Fable. Theit continual Practice of fhooting Wiald Fowl, makes them excellent Marks Men. They travel upon Sleds drawn by the O!cn Deer, which they turn a grazing all the Summer in an Ifland, called Kilden, and rowards the Winter, when the Snow begins to fall, fetch themhome againfor the ufe of their Sleds.

\section*{C H A P. XV.}

\section*{The Firft Voyage of William Barets into the Norts Seas, 1594 Written by Garet de Veer.}

IN the Year 1594, four Ships wert fer our frem the United Provinces, for the difcovery of Cathria and China, by failing to the Northward of Normary, Mufcovia, and Liartaric, whcreof William Ban ents was chicf Pilor
Upon the sth of \(\ddagger\) une chey failed from the Texcl, and on the fourch of July faw Noua Kcmbla in 73 Deg. 25 Min.

On the ninth they entred into Beeren-Fort, under entred their Boat, and fhor her into the Body with Musket; the Bear leaping up, took the Water, and the Men in the Boat rowing after her, caft a Rope abouther Neck, and dragged her at the Stern of the Boat, intending to carry heralive in the Ship, and thew her for a Wonder in Falland, but the ufed fach force, that they were glad to be rid of her, and content themfelves with her Skin; for the Bear fwimming to the Boar, gor hold of the Stern with her fore Feet, which Berents perceiving, frad, the will there reft her felf, but the frugled fo violently, that arlaft the had gotten half her Body into the Boar, which fo daunted the Men, that they ran to che further end of the Boar, thinking they fhould bave been fpoiled by her, bur the Rope abouther Neck caught bold upon the Hook of the Rudder, which held her from coming further, whereupon one of the Men thruft her into the Sody with 2 half Pike, wherewith the fell down into the Water, and fo dragging her to the Ship, they killed her out righr, and flaying her, brought the Skin to Amferdama

The xeth of \(\mathcal{F} u\) ly they failed our of Beeren-Fort, and on the 13 th found grear ltore of Isc; as far as they could difern out of the:op, is feemed like a plainField.
Ont the i 7 th William Barents took the height of the Sun, and chey werethen in 77 Deg . and :-
On the 1 gth, they were clofe by the Land of \(\mathrm{Noran} \mathrm{cmm}^{\mathrm{cm}}\) ba, about Cape Na/fam
On the 25 th, they were fo inclofed with flakes of Ice, thas out of the top they could not difcern any thing beyound it, and indeavoured to make their way thro' is, but could nor.
On the 28th, the heighe of the Sun taken at Noin with che Atrolabe, was found to be clevated above the Horizen 57 Deg. 6 Min. his declination being 19 Deg. 18 Min. which in all is 76 Deg. 24 Min. the Laind lay all covered with Snow, the W carher being clear, and the Hind Eart.
Onthe 3 ath, having laboured forward between the Land and the lice, they gor to the lifands of Orange, upon one of which they faw about 200 Sca-horfes ygeting upon the Shoar and basking themfelves in the Sun. They or vorke: are bigger than Oxen, thcir Skins like a Scal, with very fhom Hair, and rwo Teeth fticking out of their Mouths on each fide one, abour half an Ell long, as white, hard and even as liory, and as much efteented in Mufcovia, Tartaria, and the Parts adjacent
Our Men fuppofing that the Mofes could not defend themfelves, being our of the Wazer, went on Shoar to affault them and get their Tecth, bur they brake all their Hatches, Cutcle-axes, and Pikesin pieces, and could noi

Rurc
tay, \begin{tabular}{l} tay, \\ us th \\
\hline
\end{tabular} \begin{tabular}{c} ust d \\
rofrc \\
\hline
\end{tabular} to frc freez tiarea Mern

> 3 of t Eaft at wh botro
them them
feven feven much

Chàp, XVI. The fecond Voyage of Wil. Barents into the N. Seas.
kill one of theni, but fruck forme of their Teech out of their Mouths, and brought them a way with them.
William Barents finding that he could not accomplifh fixplicum his intended Voyage, and his Men refufing to fail further, on the firft of \(A u g \mu / f\) turned his courfe to fail back again to meet the orher Ships chat had taken thcir courfe to tweygats, or the Srreights of Naffap; and on the esth, the-Sun being S. W. William Barents took the heighth thercof, and found is ro be clevared above the Horizon 35 Deg. fo that there waured 55 Deg. of 90 , which 55 Deg. being added to \(1+\) Deg. to which was the Sun's dectination, makes 69 Deg. 15 Min. for the heighth of the Pole in that place ; and coming totice llands called Masflo and Detgoy, they met with the ocher Ships, chas came zapme: out of \(L\) prygats the fame day.

One of the threc Ships had paft the Streight of WFMgats, and at the end of it found a large Sca, on which they failed 50 or 60 Miles Eaftward, and were of opinion that they had been abour the River Ofi, that falluth out of Tartai), and they faid that the Land of Tarrai', from that placeftrecthed North-caftward, wherelly they thought they were nos firr from Cape TnLir, and fo thinking they had difovercd cnouph for that time, anal it being too late in that X 'arat to tail further, they xeturned to Weggats, and meeting with Burener, and theothcr two Ships, they fet fail rogether on thu 88 sch of ditapff, and arrived at Texe the rofih of Septomber.

\section*{ChapóXVI.}

\section*{The fecond Voyage of William Barents into the North Seas, 159.5. Written by Geret de Veer.}
\(\stackrel{1199}{\sim}\)

THIS Year the States of the United Prouinces and Prince Maurice fer forth feven Ships to fail chro" che Weygatcs to Cathaia and China; fix of them were laden with Merchandizes, and the feverth being a Pinnace, had Commiffion when the orher Ships were paft abour Cape Tabin, to reuurn and bring news thereof.
On the fecond of \(7 u l y\), we friiled from the Texcl, and Fivb. on the 17 the of \(\alpha\) utguff faw grear flore of Ice along the Coaft of Noua \(\widetilde{c}\) embla.
On the 1yth we entred Wograes, and as we went in, we caft out the Lead, and bad feven Fathom Water.
The 2oth of \(A u\) gif the height of the Sun being taken ugyff. with the Croofs-taff, we found is elevared above the Horizon 69 Dcg. \(20^{\prime}\) Min. when ir was S. W: and by S . being at the highett, or before it began todefend.
The art we went on Land with 54 Men, and being two Miles within the Land, we found many Vel-merck, Tracn, and fuch like Wares, and the Foot-fleps of Men and Deer, as alfo many lmages. In the mean sime our Mafter fentour a Boat to fee if the Tarrarian Sea was open, but it could not ger into che Sea becaure of the Ice, lo they went over the Land to the Weft Point, and thereperceived that the Ice inn the Tarrarian Sea lay full upon the Ruffarn Cozth, and in che Mouth of Wigrozes.
Thic \(=3\) d of Augith we found a Lodgicer Boar of Pitjore, fowed rogecher with Ropes, that had been. Northward to feck for Sca-horfis Tecth, Trane, and Geefe, which they fecthed in their Boat to lade ing cerrain Ships thas were to come out of Riffia chro' Wergates, which Ships they faid were to fail into the Tartarian Sea, by the Riveroig, to a place calied cigolite in Tristrria, there to tlay all Winter, as they ufed to do every Year, and rold us that is would yec benine or ten Weeks before is began to frecze in that place, and that when it once began to freeze, is would freeze to hard, thar Men mighr go into Xirratry upon the Ice, over the Sea, called by them Mermere.
The \(=4\) th in the Morning, becimes, we went on board of the Lodsic for further Information of the Sea on the Eaft fide of Wegsates, and the like we did on thic 2 sth, at which time they gare us eight fat Geefe that lay in the botrom of their Boat: We defired that one or two of chem would go with us aboard our Ship, whercupon feven of them went willingly with us, and wondred muchat the greatncfs and furniturc of ourShip. When they had looked intoevery place, we fer Fifh, Butter and Cheefe before them to ear, but they rcfufed it, faying, thar Day was a Fafting. Day with them; yet at laft when they faw foime of our pickled Hexrings, they eat them Heads, Tails; Skins, and Guus, and baving caren them, we gave them a fmall Firkin of Herrings, for which they gave is grear thaiks, and faid, they knew not what friend dhip they could do us to xequite our Courrefy. At Noon, we gotyp our Anchors and failed North eaft two Miles, but were forced back again by the great flore of. Ice, and fo came to our old Road, there to flay for a more convenient time.
On the laft of Auguft William Barents our Captain failed to the South Gide of Woggates, and going on Shoar, our Men, being ninc in number, wenc abour a Milc intr They land in they had been on Shore an the Fieggaces at othcr cimes. and faw none ; and being midly weather, they perceived about 20 Men, who were very neat them before they kncw ic. Our Interprecter wexic alone towards chem to fpeak with them, which they perceiving, fene' one towards us, who coming almoft to our Men, took an Arrow our of his Quiver, offering to fhoor ar him, wherewith our Interpreter called unro him in the Rulfar, Tongue, Siont nor, we are Ericnds; which thic other hearing, calt bisBow and Arrows to the Grounid, and faia, \(Y_{o u}\) are melcome, and faluting each ocher, by beinding thcin Heads towards the Ground after the Rufliant manner, our Inrerpreter queftioned him abour the fituation and ftrectching of the Sea Eaftward of the Streight of Woggates He anfwered, That when we flhould palsa Poinr of Land abour five days failing from thence (pointing with his Hand towards the North-ealt) that then we thould come to agrear Sea (pointing towards the Southerint.) faying thar heknew is yery widll, becaufe one had been there, who was fens thither by their King with certain Souldicrs, whereof he had been Captair.
They are for the mott part low of Scature, with broad Defripioiois flai Faces, fmall Eycs, fhort Legs, their Knees ftanding of the seo ourward, and are very nimble: They are apparelled in mpecul. Der's Skins from head to foot, and wear long Hair, which they pleat and fold, letting is hang down their. Backs.
Their Sleds flood always ready with one or two swiftenci of than our Horfes.
One of our Mexa floc a Mufquer toward the Sca, wherewith they were in fo grear fear, that they ran and leapt like inad Men: We told them by our Interpreter; that we ufed our Picces inftead of Bows, and to convince them, one of our Men rook a flar Srone, and fer ir upon a Hill a good ditance from kinn, and with a Bullee ftruck the Soone afunder, wheriar, they wondred exceedingly.
Aftex they were gone from as, one of them came riding to the Shoar, to fetch a rough hewcd Image which ose Micu had raken off the Shoar and pur into their Boar:35fbon as he faw it in chc Boar, he made us a fign chat we had aot done well in raking it away; whercupon we gave it him again. Not far from thence we found hurn dxcess of fuch caryed Images, having a lictele Hill inftead of a Nofe, and two cuts in places of Eyes, and uniter the Nofea cut in place of a Mourch. Befoier che Imagcs we found greaz itore of Afhes and Boncs of Deer, whercbiy ive fuppored clarthey thecre offered unro them:
On the fecond of Scptemben we fer fail, bur by reafor of the Ice, the Mint, and the ninfing of the Wind, we coutd sppember hold no Courfe.
On the fourch we failed berween the Firm Land and the Stares Ifland:
On the fixth fome of ourMcnwent athoar on the Firmix Land, to feck for Stones which looked like Diamonds and two of our Mien lying together:in one place, a great Kiiled by lean white Bear camse ftealing our, and caught one of Beat.

Gggg2
them

\section*{552 The third Voyage of Wil. Barents into the N. Seas \\ Lib. IV}
them faft by the Neck, who not perceiving what it was, Puxfer advancing, thot the Bear into the Head between cricd out and faid, Who \(\dot{s}\) if that pulls \(m e J_{o}\) by the Neck? the Eycs, and yet the held the Man fill faft by the Neck they wherewith the ocher lifting up his Head ro fee who it was, cricd out, and faid, ob Marc, if ix a Bcar, and therewith prefently rofeup and ran avay.

The Bear at the firft falling upon the Man, bir his Head afunder, and fucked out his Blood, wherewith the reft of the Men that were on the Land, being abour 20 ran prefently thither, either to fave the Man, or clfe to drive the Exar from the dead Body, and having charged their picecs and bent their Pikes, fer upon her, who was ftilldevouring the Man, bue the perceiving them to come towards her, fiercely ran ar them, and gerting anothex of them out from the Company, tore him in picces, wherewith allthereft ran away.
We perceiving out of our Ship and Pinnace, that our Men ran to the Jea-fide to fave themfelves, with ath freed carred into our Boats, and rowed as faft as we could to theShoar to relicucchem; being coine alhoar, we beheld the cruel Spectacle of our two dead Men corn in pieces by the Beax, whercupon we encouraged our Men to go back again with us, and with Picces, Curtle-axes and half Pikes to fer upon the Bear, bur they would notall agree chercunro, faying, thar our Mcn are already dead and thar we might ger the Bear well cnough, by taking her at Come advantage, and nor expofe our felves to \(R\) open danger. The bear wastaill derouring her Prey, nor caring the number of our Mcn, altho' they were thirty at leaft; whercupon the Mafter and Purfer of Barenr's Ship and the Pilor of the Pinnace, went forward, and when the Mafter and Pilot had ghor chree times and miffed, the and lifted up her Head wirh the Man in her Mouth buck, beginning to ftagger, the Purfer and a \(s\) netco Mand drat out their Curtle-axes, and ftruck at her fo hard, than drew out their Cutcle-axes, 2nd fruck at her to hard, that they broke them, and yet ihe would not leave the Man, till at latt the Rilot went to them, and with all his might ftruck the Bear upon the Snout with his Piece, wherewith me cll to the Ground, making a great noife, and the Pilor eaping uponher, cur her Throat. The feventh of Scpcmier we buried the. Bodies of our Men in the Stefics Mand, and having flayed the Bear, carrice thic Skin to Amflerdem.
The.gth we failed from the Srates Ifland, but the Ice came fo thick uponus, that we could nor ger thro'.
On the roth we failcs towards the Waygetes, and fent two Boats into the Terfarian Sca, to certify us whar fore of Iec was abroad ; and thar Evening we anchored all of Ice was abroad; and thar Evening we anchored all to gecher in Waygares.
On the tith, we failed into the Tartarian Sea, but met with fo much lee, that we returned the fame day to Waygates.
The 14th, we hoifed up our Anchor, thinking onec againto try what we could do inthe Tartarian Sca, but our Admiral being of another mind, lay ftill.
The 15th, the Wind driving in at the Eaft end of triny rates, forced us to get up our Anchors, and fail out of the Weft end with all our Flect, and make homewards a gain.
On the rgth of September we entred into Wardhoufs, and uponthe 18 ch of noermber arrised in the Macs.

C hat. XVII.

\section*{The Third Voyage of William Barents into the Nortb-Sear, 1596. Written by Gerat de Veer.}

\section*{Whata hapned to sbem at Sea, before they buile tbsir Houffo}

THE States General of the United Provinces uponthe return of the faid Ceven Ships from their Northern Yoyage, with lefs benefir than was expected, refolved to fend fome Ships a hird time, to fec if they could bring the Voyage to a good end: And accordingly two Ships weremade ready; in the one facob Ficemskerk. Henidricli.fon was Matter and Factor, and Wrilliam Bercuts chief Pilor; in the orher Folm Cornelifon Riitp was Mafter and Factor. We departed from che \(V\) lis the 13 th of May, and on the zoth were in the Latitude of 69 Deg. 24 Min.

Func:
On the firtt of funs we had no Nighr, and on the fecond, when the Sun was about S. S. E. welaur a ftrangefighrinthe Element; for on each fide of the Sun clean thorow the three Suns, and then more, theone compaling round abour the Suns and the other crofs thorow the grear Rundle, which Rundleftood winth the uttermon Point, elevared above the Horizon 28 Deg. At noon we took the height of the Sun, and found it elevated above the Horizon 48 Dcg' 43 Min . his Déclination being 22 Deg. 17 Min. which added together makes 7x Deg. for the height of the Pole.
On the fifth. one of our Men walking on che Deck, cryed ourthar be faw Swans, which we that were under Deck hearing, came up, and perceived that is was Ice that came driving from the grearheip; at midnight we failed thro it, the Sun then about one Degree above the Horizon in the Northe:-
The fixth weentredinto the Ice, which was fo ftrong that we could nor pafs chro' it, fo we failed along by it, N. N. E.

The levench we were in the Latirude of 74 Deg. and we failed thro" the Ice as if we had paft berween two Lands; the further we failed, the more and thicker Ice wefonnd, and the Water as green as Grafs.
The 8th we came to fo thick a heap of Ice, that we could not fail thro it.
Kivirymand The aul thro it 30 Min . and as we gueft, it was abour fies in 74 Deg. leere we found the Compais to vary 13 Deg.

The 12 th we law a white Bear, which we rowed after with our Boar, thinking to caft a Rope abour her Neck, but when we came near her, the was fo great, thar we durft nor do is, buc rowed back again roour Ship to ferch our Arnis and more Men, and fo made to her again with Mufquets, Halberss and Harches, the other Ships Boar coming alfo to help us, we rowed to her and foughr her two Hours, our Weapons doing her but litule hurt: One of our Men ftruck her into the Back with an Ax which ftuck faft in her Back, and yer the fwam away wath in, bur we rowing after her, did ar latt cleave her Head wirh an Ax, wherewith the died, we flaied her Head wirh an Ax, wherewith ofe died; we flaied her and found her Skin to be twelve Foor long: This done, We car fome of her Flellh, but did not well approve of it: Rerrs Talled chis place Bcar Ihand
The r3ch wo leftrbe llland, and failed. North fome. what Eafterly, and on the 4 th we caft our Eead 113 Fahom deep, but found no Ground.
On the 15 ch in the Evening, we faw a great thing driving in the Sea, which we choughe had been the Hull of 2 Ship, bur pading along byir, we perceived ir to be Dead hais a dead Whale, thar tunk horribly, and on it there fate agrear number of Sea Mews.
The roth we continued our Courle N. by E. with mifty weather.
The 17 ch and x 8 th , we failed along by great florc of ice.
On the roth we faw Land again, and raking the height of the Sun, we found that we were under 8oDeg. if Min. This Land was very great, and we failed Weftward along by it, till we were under 79 Deg. 30 . Min. where we.found a good Road, bur could not get near the Land, the Wind being ar N. E. the Bay reaches righr North and South into the Sea
The 21 it we anchored in 88 Fathom, and faw 2 white Bear fuimming towards our Ship; we rowed after her in our Boar, and croffing her in her way, drove her from the Land, and ferced her to fivim a Mile into the Sca we following he with the moft of our Men in three Boats, cuting and hewing her till:moft of our Arms were broken in pieces; fhe ftruck her Claws fo hard into

\section*{gax.}
his O mitby
\(m\)
\(m\)
\begin{tabular}{l}
\(\mathrm{O}_{\mathrm{p}}\) \\
\hline
\end{tabular} fhoulc
nion, Eaft wepa
becau Eastc ath
relves
rel Willor On that lo towar wain. had Tho Loms as the furthex Inand, Land, while,
"it, we upont or the us, wh pons ab
- ftill loc

Mafter he had offerto ther, a glad th:
Oníl
?
we four they had
The
rhereon,
Aug Aff.
The Ship, th
the Head of our Eoar, that the left the priat of them be-pher in the Foot, wherewith the ran halting away. The hind her, and had it beenin the middle of the Boar, the had peradventure overfer ir; at laft we killed her, and Hay ed her, her Skin was 13 Foot long. Then rowing to- ward he lind, we found a good Haven, and a great Creck or Riycr and upon an INand thercin; we found many red Gccfe Eggs; the Geefe were of a perfect red colour, fuch as come inro Helland about HFiringen; and ycarly taken there in great plenty, but will this time it was never known where they hatched theirEggs; To thar fome have written that they fit upon Trecs in Scosicnd, that hang over the Water, and fuch Eggs as fall from them into the Water, become young Geefe; but 'ris not to be wondred at, that no Man could tell where they breed their Eggs, becaufe no Man that ever we heard of had ever been mander 8o Degrecs.
, wo weibhed Anchor, and ralica N. W but were foon ftope by the Iec, and fo anchored in the fame placeagain. In the Evening, the Sun as N. E. we tcok the height of it, and found it elcvated above the Horizon, 13 Deg. 10 Min. his Declination being 23 Deg. 28 Min. which fubftracted, there reft 10 Deg. 18 Min. which fubutracted from 90 , the Pole was clevated \({ }_{79}\) Deg. \(4_{2}\) Min. We fet fail again, and fome of \(n\) went athoar to oblerve the variation of the Needle; in the mean time a great white Bear fwam to the Ship, and would have climbed up into it if we had nor made a noife: We hot ather with a Picce, whereupon the left the Ship, and fwam to land where our. Mcn were, which we perceiting, failed with our Ship towards the Land and gavea great Shonr, wherewith our Men were much ababhed, thinking we had fallen ona Rock, the Bear alfo being frighred, fwam off again from the land, and left our Men, which made us glad, becaufe they had Deg.
The 28 th we met with a great number of Birds that flew againft our Sails.

Ona the 3 ork we were in 75 Degrecs.
Tuly the firf, we faw Bear INand again; Cornelifon and his Officers came aboard out Ship, to fpeak with ns abour altexing our Courfe, bus we being of a contrary Opinion, ir was rcfolycd that we thould follow our coul , and nion, that there be fhould find a Paffage thro', on the Eaft fide of the Land that lay under 80 Degrees, and fo we parted, they failing Northward, and we Southward, becaufe of the Ice.
The fecond we failed Eaftward, and to continued an Eaftcrly Courfe, as the Ice would give usleave, wnio the a 3 th, when taking the height of the Sun, we found our Iclves in 73 Deg. and were of opinion that we were near Willougbby'sLand.

On the x6th we faw a great Bear lying upon the Ice, that leaped into the Water when the faw us; we made towards het, which the perceiving, gor upon the Ice again. This Bear apon the Ice made us fuppoferhar' we wercnot far from Nous \(Z \mathrm{cmbla}\); we caft our Lead, and had noo Fathom.

The 17 th we faw the Land of Nore Żembla, about Lomblay, then altering our Courfe, wefailed N. E. by N. as the Land liss.

The 19 we came to the Crofs Illand, and could get no. further by reafon of the Ice: We anchored under the IMand, and manning our Boat with eighrMen, rowed to Land, and weni to one of the Croffes, where refting a while, we wenr roward the next Crols, bur coming near it, we efpied two Bears by the other Crofs. who rofe up upon their hinder Feet to fee us, having fmelt usbefore, for they fmell furcher than they fee; thiey came towards' us, wherewith we were in no fmall fear, having no Weapons abour us: We retreared towards our Boar in all haft ftill lookingebehind ustofee if they followed us; but the Mafter ftopt us, faying, he would thruit the Hake-ftaff he had in his Hand, into the Ribs of him that hould firft offerto run, and faid, it was better for us to keep rogether, and fee if we could make chem. afraid with hooping and hallowing; and (o we went foftly towards the Boar, glad that we had efcaped thcir Claws.

On'the 21 if we were in the Latitude of 76 Deg. 15 Min and found the variarion of the Compafs to be * 26 Deg
?hapis. We went alhoar with our Arms, and coming to the Crols, we found the Foortteps of two bears, and perceived that they had followed us 100 Paces at leatt.
The 22d we fer upanother Ctols, and made our Mark thereon, and lay before the Crofs Iland till the fourch of :Aucuft.
The 3och ar: 2 North Sun, a Bcar came fo near our Ship, thatwe might hit her with a Stope, and we Mor her in the Foot, wherewith the ran halting away. The rame day at Noun we found the Variation to be 17 Degrecs.
On the fifth of Auguft we fec fail, and on the fixth get Arguff about Point Nafaip, and failed E. and E. by S.alongthe and.
The 7 ch we failed S. E. and S. E. by E. as the Land ics, and faw burlittle Ice, and thin paft by Truft Point, which we had much longed for. At Evening the Wind came to Eaft with mifty weather, fo that we were furced to falten our Ship to a picee of Ice which lay faft on ice; a Era: the Ground in 36 Fathom Water, and it was 16 Fathon thom thist above Water.
The 8th and 9th, lying fill faft to the grear pisce of Ice, it fnowed hard, and was mifty Weather, and when che Sun was South, we went upon the Hatches (for we alwa. kepr watch ) where, as the Mafter walked along. the Ship, he heard a Bcatt fouff wich his Nofc, and leoking over-board, faw a great Bear hard by the Ship, and was geruing into our Boar, but we giving a thout, the was afraid and fwam away, but prefently came back again, and went behind a gras picce of fcc, and climbing uponit, boldly came towards our Ship to enter into it, but we thor her into the Body, to thar the ran away, yct could not fee whether the went, by reafon of the Snow falling fo faft, but we fuppofed he ray behind. fome Hil. lock, whereof there were many upon the picce of Ice.
The roth the Ice began mightily to brcak, and then we fixt perceived that the grear picec of Ice whereunto we bad faftned cur Ship, lay on the Ground ; for the relt of the Ice drove along by it, which put ins in fear that we thould be concompaffed with it, and thercfore ufed all the mans we could to ger chence. We failed upon the broken Ice, and faftued our Ship with oour Shecr Anchor upon anorher pi.ce; and when we had fupped; the faid picce of Ice with once crack, betrft into at leaft 400 picces. We wcighed our Cable and got off from it: It was ten Fathem under Water, and two Farhom above Warcr, and lay uron the Ground. We ficicd another great picce notfar from us, that was as niarp above as if it had been a Tower; we rowed to is; and cattingoutour l.cad, found that it lay 20 Fatiom deep, fait on the Ground, and 12 Fathom above Water.
On the isth we came to the lilland of Orange, where we were inclofed with Ice, and ingrear danger of loofing our Sbip; bur with grear labour we got to the Inland, and while we were bufy in turnaing to wistd ward (the Wind being at S. E.) our noife awakned a Bear that lay here and Ilept, who coming rowards the Ehip, forced us to leave our Work, and to defend our felves. We thor her into the Body, and then purfuing ber, ftruck her on theHead with a Hatchet, yer bad much ado to kilh her, becaufe as often as we ftruck ar hee with the Harcher, ibe duck'd under Water.
The 16th, ten of us rowed to the firm Land of Norif Zembla, and when we had drawn up the Boat upon the Ice, we afcended a high Hill to fee the firuation of the Land, and found thar it reached S. E. and S. S. E. and then againS. which we difliked, becaufe is lay fo muck Sourhward; but when we faw open Water S. E. and E. S. E. we were comforted again, thinking we had accomplithed our Voyage, and knew nor how to cerrify trillicm Barcuts thacreof.
The i th we prepared to fec fail, butit was all in vain, for we had almoit loft our Sheet. Anchor and swo new. Ropes, and with much labour got to the place again from whence we came. The Stream ran with a mighty Currens, and the Icedrave fo.ftrongly upon the Cables, that we feared we fhould loofe all the Cable chat was withour the Ship, which was 200 Farhom, bur God provided well for us, fo that at laft we gor to the place again from whence we putout. 6
The igth it was indifferent good weather, the Wind at S. W. the lice ftill dxiving, we fet fail and paffed by Roint Deire, whereby we were once again in good hope, and being gotten about the Point, we failed S. E to Seaward four Miles, but then entring into more Icc, we wereconftrained to rezurn, and fail N. W. to thic Land again:
The \(2 x\) we failed a grear way into the fee Haven; and that Nighranchored therein. The next day, the Stream goingextream hard Eaftward, we haled our and failed 2gain to the llland Poins, and being mifty wearher, we faftned our Ship to a piece of Ice, and then went upon it, much wondring at che ftrangenels of the Ire; on the top ir was.fullof Earth, and not like wo other Ice, being Eanth oa the of a perfect azure colour, like to the Sky, which caufed top of azure great contention among us, fome faying that it was Ice, Ice. great contention ameng us, fome faying that it was lec, orfers thatir was frozen Land : Ir was clofe to the Ground in is Fathom Water, ten Faitom above the Water; we found atow 40 Eggs nron at. There we ftaied all that Storm, the Wind ac S. W. by W:

The zad we failed again S. E. intothe Sea, but prefently met with Ice again, which forced us to returan to the fee Havel.
The nexr day it blew hard N. N. W. and the Ice came mighrily driving ii), whereby we were encompaffed with it, and the Wind riling, the lece drave harder upon us, forthat che Rudder and our Buat were broken in picces, we expecting nothing elfe, but that the Ship alfo would le cruthe in picees with the lec.
The 25 th, the Weather began to be better, and we laboured much to free our felies from the tee wherewith we were inclofed; but it was all in vain. We now defpairing to perfect our intended Difoovery, thought to fail Southward about Nour zembla to the Streight of Heygates, but coming to the Striam Bay, the Ise lay fo faft thereabouts, that we were foreed to go back at gain.
The 26 th, we determined to fail back to Point Defirc, and fo homeagain ; but when we had paft the Ice Hawen, the Ice began to drive with fuch force, that we were inclofed with it, and had loft these of our Men who were upon the Ice to make way for the Ship; if they had nor been nimble and caught hold as the Ship drave by them, whercby they efcaped a miferable death. The frme Evening we got to the Wett fide of the Ice Biaven, where we werc foreed in great Cold, Polcrt;, Mifery and Grief, to ftay all that Wincer, the Wind being then E. N. E.
&. The 27 th, the Iecdrave round about the Ship, and - Yet in was grod Wcather; fome of us went alhoar;, and the- Wind beginning to blow at S. E. the Ice came in with great force, and drave the Ship up four Foor high before, and behind it fecmed asif rhe Kecl lay on the Ground; fo that they in the Shipthinking the would be overfer, put out the Boas to fave their lives, and withal hungoura Flag for a fign to us to come aboard When we beheld che Ship lifred up in that manner; we began to defpair of faving her; but coming to her; we found her in better cale that we expeeted.

The 28ch, we gor fome of the lecfromit, and the Ship began to fer uprighr again, bur before the was fully upright, as willinm Barents and the ocher Pilor weor for ward tofec how the Ship lay, and how much the was tifen, the Ship burft out of the Ice with fuch a poife, and fo great a crack, that they verily thought they had been all caft away.

The 2gth, the Shiplying uprighr again, we ufed all the means wecould with lron Hooks and other Inftuments to break the Flakes of Ice that lay heaped upon one another, bur all in rain, fo thas we determined to commir our felves to the mercy of God, and to attend aid fromhim.

The 30, the Ice began to drive one apon the other with grearer force chan beforc, and bare againt the Ship with a boifterous S. W. Wind and agreat Snow, fo that allthe whole Ship was bom up and inclofed, whereby' all that was about if and in it, began to crack, to that it feemed burfing in a hundred picces, mont dreadful to fee and hear, and madeall the Hair of our Heads to rife uprighr with fear.
The 31ft, the Ship was driven up four ot five Foor high ar the Head, and the Stern being lodged in a cleft of Ice, we thoughr the Rudder had been fafefrom the force of the flakes of lice, bur it proved otherwife, for it brake in pieces, Suaff and all, and if the hinder part of the Ship had been in the driving Ice, as the fore part was, then all the Ship had been driven upon the lce, or elfe had ran on ground, whereof we were much afraid, and fer our our Boats upon the Ice to fave our felves, if need were; but within four Hours the Ice drave awhy of its felf, tobur grear comfort, becaufe the Ship was then afloat again, and chereupon made a new Rudder, and hung is our upon the Hooks, thar if we thould be forced again upon the Ice, irmighr be freed from it.

The firt of Seprember being Surday, while we were as Septem. \({ }^{25}\) Prayets, the Ice began to garher again.
The fecond is fnowed hard with 2 N. E. Wind, and theStip began to rife higher upon the Ice, fo tchat we thought good to purthirteen Sarrels of Bread and two Hogitheads of Wine inro our Scure, and to cariy ir aOhoar in chat bad Weather, to fuftain our felvesin time of need.
The thind it blew hard at N. N. E. but frowed not fo much.
On the fourth it cleared up, and we faw the Sub, but it was very cold, ard the Wind being at N. E. we were forced to lic ftill.

The fifth it was fair Sun-fhine weather, and very calm. in the Evening the lee inclofed upon us again, and the Ship began'to lie on one fide, and leak mulh, but by God's Grace, it became faunch again. Wc then confulted together and caricied our old Sail, with Powder, Muskecs, Cfc. ahoar, to make a Tent about bur Scure, and fome Timber to mend is, that is might ferve us in time of necd.
The fixch it was indifferent fair Weather, and the Wind Weft, which gave us. fome hopes thar the Ice would drive away, and thas we might get thence again.

The feventh it wasgood Weather again, bur we could perccive no opening of the Water, but lay hard inciofed with Icc.
Threc of our Men went two Miles into the Land, and there found a Kives of fweer Water, and grear ftore of Riveroffere Wood that had beendriven thither, and rhe Forfteps of of dreft forc Decr, as they fuppofe, by being cloven foored. The as they fuppofe, by being cloven foored.
The cighth, it blew hard. N. E. 2 direct contrary Wind to do us any good, and faftned us more into the Ice.
The gth we lay four Foot deep in Ice; in the Niplit two Bears came clofe to our Ship, but we founding our Trumpet, and firing archem, they ran away.
The inth, being calm weather, cighe of tus went afhoar, every Manarmed, to fec if it were rruc what our Companions had faid, thar there lay Wood about the River; becaufe we now began to defpair of getting our Ship loofe from the Ice, and were thercfore refolved they tere. build a Hoofe upon the Land, to defend us from cold ter teres, and wild Beafts, and fo to commit our felves to the Tuition of the Almighty; and to that end we went furthex into the Land, to find out the moft convenient place soraife our Houfe upon: We found cerrain Trecs R and all (as our Companions had told wis) which had beendriven apon the Shoar either from Terteary, Mnfeovy, or elfe where, there being nonc growing in Nou, zembla, This Wood ferved nor only to build our Houfe, bur alfo to buraduring out lorg Winter, otherwife withour douts we had peribied with exuream cold.
The i2th ir was calin weather, and our Men went unto the other fide of the Land, to fee if they could find any Wood nearer to us, burcthere was none.
The 13th, it was calm, but very milty, fo that we would nor venture inro the Land, becaufe we could not fee the wild Bears, and yet they could fmell us.
The rath it was Sun-mine, but very cold, and then we wene inro the Laided and laid the Wood on heaps that \(t\) might nor be covered with Snow.
The \(15{ }^{5} 1\), in the Morning, as one of our Men kepr watch, he faw threc Bears; one of them lay ftill behind a piece of Ice, the other two came clofe to the Ship: There was a Tub full of Becf thar ftood upon the lee at a diftance from theShip; one of the Bears went unroit, zna purring in his Head ro take our a piece, as the was Cnarching arit, wethor her in the Head, thar the fell down dead and neverftirred; the other Bear ftood filliand looked upon her Fellow, and after a while fmele to her, and perceiving thar the was dead, ranaway, bur we folowed her with Halloers and other Arms, whereupon me urned rowards us, and rifing up upon her hinder Fcer, to ramp ar us, one of our Men dhother into the Belly, fo ro ramp at us, one of our Men hot her into the Belly, to that the felf upon her Fore-feet again, and roaving aloud, ran away. Thar Nighe it froze two Fingers thick in the falt Watcr, and was exceeding cold, bhe Wind at frexecro N. N.

The 1 thth the Sun thone, we ferched Wood upo in oncijitu Sleds we had made; the like we did on the 17th. We drew five and fivein aSled, and the other chree helped to lift behind; and in that manaer we drew Wood wice a day to the place where we jutenided to build our Houfe.
The 23 d our Carpenter died, we buried him under the Sedges, in the clett of a Hill; for we could not dig up the Earth by reafon of the Froft: That day we ferched Wood rwice.
The 2 sth it was dark Weacher, the Wind S. W. and che Ice began to. open 2 lictle and drive away, but is contimued not long: The fame day we began to raife our Houfe.

The 26th wehad a Wcf Wind and an open Sea, bur our Ship lay faft, to our grear grief, but ir was God's Will, to which we moft patiently fubmitred, and. began to make up our Houle; fo ferched Wood to burn, the reft performed the part of Carpenters. We were in all 16 Men (the Carpenter teing dead) and of chofe 16 , there was fill one or other fick.

Tho \(2-\mathrm{ti} \mathrm{a}^{\text {it }}\) blew hard at N. E. and froze so hard, thar a: m"eputa Nail inro our Mouths (as Carpenters wie to do) liee would hang thereon as we took it out, mil make the Blood follow. The fame day an old Bear aiad a young one came rowards us, as we were going all together to nur Houre (for we durf nor go alone) we rhoucht to thoot at her, but the ran away. Altho' it was fair Sun-miny weather, yes the lee came forcibl: driving in, and it was fo extream cold, that we could hardly work, but extremity forced usto ic.
The 28ch was fair weather, and the Sun thone, the Wind Weft, and very calm, the Sca allo was open, bue our Ship lay faft in Ise, and ftirred not.

The 2gth, we faw three Bears berween us and the Houfe, an old one and two young oncs; we norwithftanding went on, drawing our Goods from the Ship to the Houfe, and got before them ; looking behind L s, we perceived they followed us, whereupon we hollowed as loud as we could, thinking they would have gone away, but they would not go our of their Path, bur atfo gor beforc usagain; Then we and they that were in the Houf, gave a grear fhout, which made them xun away.
The \(30 t h\), the Wind cafterk, it fnowed to faft all that Night and the nexr Day, thar our Men could fetch no Woed.

We made a grear figs withour the Houre to thaw the Ground, that we might lay the Earth abour the Houle, mard to make itthe wammer; but it was loft labour, for the norn was to hard, and frozen to deep, thar we could and therefore we lcfr off thave colt

What bappened ro stiem after their Houfe was builta.
The firft of ofober the Wind was ftiff at N. E. and after Noon it blew a great form as North, with fuch a drift of Snow, that we could bardly go in the Wind. The Snow drave fo hard in our Faces, thar we could. fcarce draw our Breaths, and could nor fec rwo Ships length from us.
The fecond, before Noon the Sun thone, ftill weacher, the Wind fhifred from North to South. We went on with our Houfe, and placed upon it aMay-pole made of frozen Snow.
The third, before Noon ir was calm fun-miny weather, but fo cold, that it was hard to be endured, atreriNoon it blew hard at Weft, with fo extream cold, that hatd is continued, we hould have been forced to leave out Work.
The fourth, the Wind came to the North with much Snow; we brought our Anchor upon the Ice to lay the fatter, and were not then above an Arrow fher from the Water, the Ice was fo much driven away.
The fifth, it Blew hard ar N. W. and the Sea was veif open, and without Ice, as far as we could difeern; but we lay ftill frozenas we did before, and our Shiplay two or three Foordecp in the Icc, which was there three Fachom and a half decp. The fame day webrake ap rhe lower Deck of the fore part of our Ship, and with thofe Deals covered our Houle, making it flope overhead that the Water might xun off.
The fixch, a great Snow, and fo cold, that we could hardly chruft our Heads ont of the Door.
The fèventh we caulk'd our Houfe, and brake the Groundabouritat the Foot thereof: This day the Wind flifred round the Compals.

The cighti, in blew fo hard and fnowed fo fait, that we had been fmothered if we had gone out into the Air, it was not poffibly for any Man to have gone one Ship's length, tho' his Life had lain thereon.

The gth; the Wind ftill concinucd North, and it fnowed hard, fo that all that day we were forced to ftay in the Ship, the weather was fo foul.
maxs in is The noth, the weather fome what fairer, the Wind maxcletha S : W. the Water flowed two Foor figgher than ordinary, 0 is Kda Wind, which till therihad blowin. One of our Mengoalmoft at him before he knew it; whereupon fie prefent- Iy tan back ro the Ship and the Béar after him ; but flie coming to the place whete before we had killed another Bear and fer hér upright, anif theié left her to freeze; ftood fill, whereby our Man fiad tume to get into the Ship. Inthe Evening we carried the gireatef part of our Bread to the Hoore.
The 1 rith, the Find South, formewhat warm, we carried our Winte and Vietuals on Eand, and as we were hoifing the Wincover-board, a Beax whom we had atrakened with the ploife we made, cane towards ourShip;
we had feen her lic there, butthought her to be a picce of Ice; as the camenearto us, we fiot at her, and hac rалаway.
The x 2th it blew North, and half our Menkept in the Hoinf, being the firf cime chat we lay in ir, where we endured great cold, becaufe our Cabbins were not made andd befides, we had not Cloashs cnough, neither could we keep a Firc; becaule our Chimncy was not yor made.

The 13th; the Wind was N. and N. W. three of us went aboard, and when we had laded a Sled with Beer, tocarry it to our Hotif, chere arofe fuch a form, chat we were forced to go inm the Ship again, lettiag the Becertand withour upen the Slect. In the Ship we condurcd extrean cold, having but few Clotlis in it.
The 14th, as we cance oute of the. Ship, we found the Barrel fatt frozen at the, Heads, and the Beer that purged our, froze as hard to the fides of the Barrel as of it had been glued on.: In this, thick Yeantthat was unfrozen lay the ftrength of the Becr, fo that it; was too Arong to drink alone. There was fcarce any Beer left in the Barrel but what was frozen; this we melted and drank it mixt with the other, but is had neither ftrength nor taft.
The 5 th, the Wind cafteriy, we macic a place to fet up our Door, and hovelled the Snow away.
The 18 , we fetched our Bread out of the Scute, which we had drawn upon the Land, and the Wine alfo, which was chen nor much frozen, alcho' it had lain fix Weeks thercin. The Sea was now fo covered with Ice, that we could fee no open Wazer.
The rgth, there being but two Men and a Eoy in the prar ofssi: Ship, a bear foughe to get into the Ship; the two Men the Slip thot ar her, yer the ventired upon them, and pur them in great fear; the two Mcn leapt into the Ballaft, and the Boy ran upinto the Fore-matt-top; in the mean time fome of our Min llior at her with a Mufquet, and then The ran away.

The zoth, it was calm Sun-mine weather, and thenagain we faw the.Sea open.. We went aboard to fecich the Barrels and reft of our Beer, where we foand Come of the Earrels \(\begin{aligned} & \text { tron Fioops } \\ & \text { broken with }\end{aligned}\) frozenin pieccs, and the Iron Hoops that werc upon the the \(E=e^{2}\)
Fofrm Barrels, were all frozen in pieccs.
The 22d, a fiff Gale ar N. E. with grear Snow that we could nior ger our of doors.

The 23 d , calm weather, we went aboard to fee if the reft of our Men would come home to the Houre, but we feared it would blow hard again, and durft nor ditir with the fick Man, but lethim lieftill that Day, for he was very weak.

The 24th, the reft of our Mcin, bring eight Perions; came to the Houfe, and drew the fick Than upona Sled; then with great labrur and pain, we drew our Boat home to the Houfe and tirned the bottom upward, that we mighe ufe it hereafter, if God thould fave our Lives this Winter, and therebeing now nothing lefs to be expected chan the opening of the Water, we put our Anchor into the Shipagain, that it might nor be covered over and loft in the Snow, for we always trufted in God, thar he would deliver us in the Spring, one way or other, The Sunat the higheff, began to be wery low, and we ufed all the fpeed we could to ferch all things with Sleds oue of our Ship into the Houfe, not only. Mcat and Drink, butall orher neceffarics: The Wind ar North.
The 25 th, when we had laden the laft Sled, and tood ready to draw is to the Houfe, our Malter 负ied three Fight wiat Bears behind the Ship coming towards us, whereuponhé Bear cried out aloud, to fcare them away; by good formune there lay two Halberds upon the Sled, tine Mafter took one and I the other, and refifted them as well as wo could, but the reft of our Men went to fave themfelves in the Ship, and one of them fell into 2 cleft of Ice, which grieved us much, becaufe we thoughr the Bears would have ran unto him and devoured him, but God defended him ; for the Bears ftill made rowards the Ship after the Men thar run thither to fave thenfelves: In thi mean time we and the Man char fell into the Cleft, took our advantage, and got into the Ship on the ocher fide, which the Bears perceiving, cance fiexcely rowards as, who had no other Arms to defend our felves befides the two Halberds, which we feared would not be fufficient, and therefore gave them work to do, by throwing Billets and ocher thungs at them, and every time we threw, they ran after them as a Dog will do at a Srone caft at him. We fent a Manin the mean time under Hatchesito ftrike fire, and anotlier to fetch Pikes, but we could get no Fire ; at laft as they came fiercely upon us," we fituck one of them with a:Halberd upon the Snour, wherewinti the gave back and went away; which the other two; that were not fo big; perceiving, ran away; and we thanked God that we were fo well delivered from them， and lodrew our Sled quicely to our Houfe，and informed our Companions what had hapned to us．

The 26 th ，the Wind at North，with indifferent fair Weather，we then faw open Warce hard by the Land， but perceived the Iee to drive into the Sea towards the Ship．
the 27th it frowed fo faft that we could not work without door：Thes day our Men killed a white Fox and thaied him，and when they had roafted him，eat him， his Flctir talted like chat of a labber．The fame day we fet upour Dial and madecthe Clock ftrike；and we hung up a Lamp，wherein we nied Bears Far meleced，inntead of Oik．

The agth，the Wind at N．E．we forched Seges from theSex－fide，and laid them upon the Sail that was fpread upon our Houf，that is mightberthe clofer and warmer； for rlae Dea＇s were nor driven clofe together，and the foul weather would nor permir us to do it．
－Nesmber the firtit，the Wind atill continued N．E． Nuermber we faw the Moon rife in the Eaft when it beyan to be dark，and the Sun was no highice above the Horizon than we could well fec is：Much Snow，and fo extream cold， that we could not go our of the Houre．

The fecond，the Wind W．by S．but in the Evening sun rifes Norch．wich calsm weather；we faw the Sun rife S．S．E． S F．and and wiene down S．S．W．but it was not full above the eit，S．S．W．Earth，but paffed in the Horizon along by the Earth One of our Men killed a Fox with a Harcher，which was flaicd，roafted and eaten：Until：the Sun began to «cilinc，we law no Foxes，and then the Bears left us．
The Wind N．W．with calm weather：The Sun rofe S．by E．and fomewhat more foutherly，and went down S．by W．and fomewhat more foutherly，and then we could fee nothing bur the upper patt of the Sun above the Horizon，and yer che land where we were，was as high as the Maft of our Ship．We rook the height of the Sun，then in the sich Deg．and 48 Min．of Scorpio， his Declination being is Deg． 24 Min．on the Souch fide of the Equinoctial Line．
The fourth was calm weather，we faw the Sun no 3hy fec the more：Our Chirurgion made a Barh in a Wine Pipe to sun mo more bath usin，wherein we entred one after the other，and of Nourmber，，it did us much good．The Bears left us at the fitting of sitio aouo，or the Sun，and came not again before it rofe，whereas our ousbobr the Foxcs now came aboard，and we this day rook one．
The fifth che Wind was North，and then we faw open Moon onti－：Water upon the Sea，burour Ship lay faft in the lce，and nualiy ferm in when the Sun had left us，we faw the Moon continually， she suis il boch Day and Night，and never went down when is wais Fnce．．in the higheit Degrec．

The fixth we ferched a Sled of Fire－wood，but by reafon of the Sun＇s ablence，it was yery dark wea－ ther．

The fercnch，it wasdark weather，and very ftill，the Wind Weft，we could hardly difeern Day from Night． Our Clock food till．and we nor rifing our of our Cab－ buns all thar Day unles toeafe our felves，we were in doubt whecter thelight we faw，was the lighr of the Day or of the Moon；ar latt we found it to be the light of the Day，abour swelve of the Clocir at Noon．

The eighth was ftill weather，the Wind S．W．we fecthed another Sled of Fire－wood，took a whiteFox，and then：we faw open Warer in the Sca：The fame Day we harcd our Bread，each Man baving four Pound and ren Ounces for his allowance in eight days：We had no need to thareour Fleh and Filh，having more fore thereof； bur our Drink failed us，fo that we fhared that alfo：Our beft Beer was for the mof part without ftrength，and had no favour at all．

The ninch，the Wind at \(\mathrm{N} . \mathrm{E}\) ，we bad not much day light，but was altogether dark．

The x oth，the Wind N．W．calm weather，our Men wear into the Ship to fec how it lay，and found the Bal－ last covered with Water，which was frozen and could not be pumped out．

The irth；we made a Net of Cable Yarn to catch Foxes，and that day caughitonc．
The 12th，the Wind ar Eaft with liede light；this day we beganz to flhare our Wine，two Glaffes a day to a Man，but our common Drink was Warer made of melr－ c．l Strow．
The 13th，was foul Weacher and much Snow，the Wind ar Eaft．
The afth was fair weather，with a clear Sky full of Stars，and an Eaft Wind．
From the isth to the 19 th，dark and foul weather，the Wind Eafterly．
－The 2oth，was fair till wearher，the Wind Eatterly
we wathed our Sheers，and when we had wathed an wrung them，they prefently froze fo R．ciff，that altho＇we laid them by a great Firs，the fide that lay ikexs the fire rhaved，bur che other lide was hard frozen，fo thar is was cafice to tear them afonder，than to opech beina in We werc forced to put them into festhing Warcr again to thaw them．

The 2 It was indifferent weather；the Winind N ．E chen we apreed that every Man thould take his turn to cleave Weod，thereb：to cafe onr Cook，who had work enough to do rwice a day to drefs meat，and to melts Snow for our Drink，but che Mafter and the Pilor were ex－ amperd．
The 22d，the Wind S．E．fair weather：ive had now bur 17 Cheefes，whercof one we did eat among us，and The 23d，we made traps of
The 23d，we made Traps of thick Planks，whereon we laid Srones，and round abour them placed pieces of Shards faft inthe Ground，that they mighe not dig un－ derthem，and by thas means gor fome Foxes．
The 2 th was foul Werther，the Wind N．E．four of us not being voty well，went into the Bath，and when we came our，our Chirurgeon gave us a Purgacioni， which did ns much gocd，and this day we took fous Fuxes．
he 25 th was clear weather，she Wind ar Wieft ；this day we took two Fuxes．
The abrti was foul weather，and a great form at \(S\) ．W． with much Snow，whereby we were fo clofed up in the Houfe thar we could not go our，but were forced to care our fel ses within the Houle．

The 27th，fair weather，the Wind S．W．we made more Springes to catch Foxes，which feried us for Mear， as if God had fent them purpofely for us．
The 28th was foul formy weather，and the Wind blew hard our of the North，and the Snow ha clofed up our Doors，that we：were again fhur up in our Houfe．
The 2gth，clicar weather，the Wind Northcrly，we gotone of ourDoors open，and found all our Traps and Springes covercd with Snow，which we made clcan and fet them up again．The Foxes did noc only ferve us for Mear，bur their Skins ferved us to make Caps tokere ur Heads warm．
The 3och，the Wind Wieft，clear wcather，fix of us well anned went to the Ship，and when we were under deck，we took 2 Fox alive in the Ship
The firt of December，the Wind S．W．foul wea ther，and great ftore of Snow，whereby we were once Dermits again foptup in the Houfe，which froak＇d 60 much chat we could hardly keep a fire，and fo were forced to ic all day in our Cabbins，but the Cook was neceffitated to make fire to drefs our Mear
The fecond we were detained in the Houre by foul weather，and yet we could nor fir by the fire becaufe of the Smoak，but lay in our Cabbins，and heated Stones which we putin our Cabins to waxm our Fect，for boch the Cold and the Smoak were infupportable．

The third，we had the like weather，and as we．lay in our Cabins we could hear the Ice crack in che Sea，at tho＇it wasar leaft half a Mile from us，makiug a huge noife，and we were of opinion that the grear Hills of Ice＇we had feen in the Sea in the Summer，did now break one another，We making lefs fire for two or three days paft than weuled to do，by reafon of the cxereaplactrobis Smoak，it froze fo hard within the Hourc，that the Walls spre tovic and Roof were frozen two Fingers thick with Ice，and fo likewife inour Cabins，during thofe duree days，we could nor goour．We fer up a Glafs of rwielve Hours， and whenir was run our we fer it up again，fill warch－ ing is，left we thould mifs our time；for our Clock was frozen and would not go，altho＂we hung more weight on \(C\) it than fornerly．
The fourth and fifit was fair weather，the Wind at N．E．
The fixth，it was foul weathor again，with an Eafter－ y Wind，and extream cold，almoft not to be cndured， whereupon we look＇d pitifully upon each orher，being in great fear，thar if checold mould increafe，it would kill us all；for whatiocver，fire we made，ir would nor warm us，and ourSack was frozen very hard，fo that when we were every Man to have his part，we were for－ cedtomelritat the fire．We thared every fecond day bouthalf a Pinr foraMan；at ocher times we drank Warer mielted out of Snow．
The fevench continued foul weather，with a great form at N．E．which brought extrcam cold along with it，fo that we knew not what to do；one advifed to burn rome of the Sea－coal we had brought our of the Ship， which would caft a great heat and concinue long：An Io as Evening we made a griar fire chercof，asuitokecfin

\footnotetext{
\(\qquad\)
}

\footnotetext{
\(\qquad\)
}

\(\frac{1}{3}\)

\(\qquad\)
chan
\(\qquad\)

\(\operatorname{sict}\) firan

\section*{ \\ }

\section*{a} \footnotetext{

the
}

\section*{Chap. XVII. The third Voyage of Wil. Barents into the N. Seas.}
thic heat, we agreed to ftop up all the Doors and the means we could with great Fires, ftore of Cloath3, hor Chimney, and fo went into our Cabbins to fleep, where, when we had lain 2 great while talking togecher, wo found our felyes ill at cafe, and fome fwounded and fained away ; whereupon fome of us that were ftrong eft, Atarted our of our Cabins, and firtt opening the Chimncy, and then rhe Doors, he that opened the Door fell down into a fivound upon the Snow, and was recovered by cafting Vinegar in his Face. As loonas the Doors wsre opencd, we were all well again, and the Mafter gave every one of us a litcle Wine to comfurt us.

The cighth was foul weather, the Wind Northcrly, very tharp and cold, but we durft not lay on more Coals.
the ninth, was fair clear weather, the Sky full of Stars ; then we fet our Door wide open, which had becil clored up with Snow.
The soch wasfair ftax light, the Wind N. E. werook two' Foxes, which were good Mcar for us, becaule our Victuals becian tobe icanr.
The x xth was fair and cleax, but very cold, our Shocs froze as hard as Horn upon-our Feer, and werc frozeñ white within, fo chat we could nor wear them, but were forced to mako great Patrins, the upper patr of Shepsskins, which we put on over threc of four pair of Socks to keep our Fece warm.
The twelfch was fair clear weather, the Wind N. W. but cextredm cold, fo thatour Walls and Cabins werc frozen a Finger thick, yea, and the Clorths on our Backs werc whice all over wich froft; and altho' fome were of opinion that we flould lay more Coals on the Firc, and let the Chimney. ftand open, yet twe durft nor do ir fearing the like Danger we had efcaped.
The igth, clear weather, the Wind ar Eaft; we bufied our celves in preparing our Springes, and if we ftaid toolons wichour doors, there atófe Blifters upon our \(\mathrm{Fa}_{2}\) ces and pur Ears
The x4th was fair, the Wind N. E. and the Sky full of Stars; wie rook the heighr of the righr Shoulder of the Rens, when it was S. S. W. and Comewhat more Wefterly; (and then it wasar the highcft in our Compafs) and it was clevated above the Horizon 20 Deg .28 Min . bispoŕclination being 6 Deg. 18 Min. on the North fide of the Line, which taken from the hicight, there refts 14. Degrees, which fubtracted from 90 ; the hcight of the Pole was 76 Deg.
The 1 gch was fair, the Wind Eaft; we faw che Moon iife E. S. E. when it was 26 Days old, in the fign of Scorpio: This day we rook two Foxes.
The 16 th was clear weather; wie hal now no more Wood in the Howre, bur round about our Houre there lay fone covered with Snow, which with grear labour we digged out of the Snow, wherein we yexc forced to ure great fpeed, nor being able to cindure long withour the Houle, altho' we had double Apparcl upon oar Backs.
The x 7 th and 18 , the Wind N. E. fair weather: feven of us went ro the Ship to fee how in lay; we found that in our 18 daysablence, the Water in the Ship was rifen abour a Finger high, but was all Ice, forinfroze as faft as it came in.
The sqth, fair wearticr, the Wind South; we comforted each orhet, becaure the Sun was then almof hal over; and ready to come to us again, which we mach longed for, it being very tedious to us to be fo long without the Sun, and want the greareft Blefling God give to Man upon Earth, and that which rejoices crery living thing:
The zoth, there rofea Siorm in the S. W. with fo grear 'Snow, that all the Houfe was inclofed with it.
The \(2 x\) Rf, fair cleax weather, the Wind N. E. we Govelled away the Snow from our Door, and made a Why to goout, batu there fell fo much Srow the next day; the Wingial 8 . W. that our Door was fopt up again, and we were at siece trouble of clearing in almolt every day.
The z3d cönzutrucd thé fime Wind and Weathier; but

Thie 24th being fatr, we opened our Door, and faim much open Water in the Sca; for altho it was not day, yet we could fee a great way. In the Evening it Blew hard ar N. E. witith mitch Snowit to thaty, che Paifage we had made was flopt up again:
The 2sth being Chrifima/s-day, was: foul weather, the Wind N. W. we heard the Foxes run over our Houfe, which forme of our Men fancied to be an ill fign.
Thie 26 thl foul weather, the Wind N. W. and fo cold, that we could not warm us, alcho' we wfed all the Stones and Billets hid upon our Fece and Bodics as wo lay in our Cabins; but norwithfanding all this, in the Morning our Cabins were frozen, which made us bechold one another with fad councenances, bur we confforted ourfelves againas well as we conld, that the Sun was then as low as is corld go, and was now coming to us gain; altho" wo found the Proverb cruc, thar, Jobe Deng egin to lengethen, the Cold legins to fremyrteri.

The 27th; the fame Wind and Weather; we had not bsenout in three days togecther, nor durft thruft our Heads ont of Doors, and withing the Houfe it was fo extreanly cold, thitaswe fate before a great Fire, and fenued to burn on the forefide, we froze belhind at our Backs, and were corcred over with hoar Froft.
The 28ch, the Wind Wert, foul weather, at Evening it lecan no cicar, and one of our Men made a hole at oncot our Doors, and went out ro fce how it wasa. broad, but found is fo hard weather, thar he ftaid no long, and told us that it had frowcd fo much thas the Snow lay higher than our Houre, and that if hee kad ftaid öut longer, his Ears had undeubecdly becn frožen
Thie 29th wascaltn weathcr, and a pleatant Air, the Wind being Southward; that day he whofe turn it was, opencu the Door, and making a Raffage thro' the Snow, we wens out of the Houre upon Steps, as if it had been ourof a Cellar, ar leaft fever or cight Sceps high, eaid Step a Foor from the ocher; and then we cleanted cur Springés for the Foxcs, having taken none of late.
The zorth was foul weather again, with a Storm as Weft, and much Snow, fo that all the pains we had taken in making Scepa, was in vain.
The 3 aft conrinued foul wrather, with a ftom ac N. W. whicreby we were faft thut up in the Houfe, and it was fo extream cold, thas the Fire would fcazec caft any hear ; for as we pur our Fece to che Fire, we burnc our Hole before we could fecl the hear ; and if we had not fooner fmels chan felt them, we thonld have burne them cre we had known it.
After we had with grear cold, danger, and divers Mirexies ended the Year 1596, we began the next Yearin the fame manner; for on the firt of Fanuary we were Fanuarn inclofed in the Houle by reafon of the Snow, the Wind at Weff. Wecthen agreed to flaare our Wine, to cyery, Man a fmall Meafurc full once in two Days.
The \(2 d,{ }^{\text {d }}\), and 4 th, is blew hard at Weft; a great torm wich Snow and Froft, fo that we could nct put our Heads our of the Doors, aud alitho we had almoit burnt all our Wood, yer we durft nor go ont to fetch more, Tor there was nol:cing withour door; biut feeking abour, ivc found fome picces of Wood thar lay over the Door, which we clove, and withal clove the Blocks whercorg we ured to beat our fforck-Fihh. The Wind fiifted ton 5. W. and to know where the wind blew, we thruft a half Pikeout of a Chimney, with a piece of Cioth or a Feathicr upon it, but it would be precicenty froze as hard as a piece of Wood, and could nor go about or ftir with the Wind:
The sch being pretty calm weather, we digged our Door open again, that weminght go out, and carry our all the filth that had been made during ourconfinemient : We fetch'd in as much. Wood as was pofible, fearing; lett we foould be fhut up again; after much pains this day, we prayed our Mafter tbat we mighr be merry that Night, it being Twelfrl-Evorn, and told him char we werc content to fpend-fome of the Wine thac Night; which we had frared, which was our fharc every fecond day, and whereof for certaindays paft we bad not drank; and fo that Night we made merry, and drank to the threeKings of Cullen, and had two Pound of Meal, wherewith we made Pancakeswith Oyl, and every Man a white Bisker, which we fopt in Wine; we alfo made Tickers, and our Gumner was King of Noou Z cmbla , which is at eaft 200 Miles long, and lies berweeni two Seas.
The fixth wasfair weather, the Wind N.E. we fetched nore Wood.
Thic feventh was foul ggain, the Wind N. W. with Snow, and yery cold, which put us in grear fear so be hut up in the Hoifc again
The eighth the Wind was Noith; fair weatict, and dey time thenday light Begafit to appax, which putr is in no liede appacm. omiort.
The ninth was foul weathet. the Wind N. W.
Itre 1 oth twas fair', with a North Wind; then feven of us went to our Ship well armed, which we found in the fame flate we leftit in, and init found the Foot-fleps of many Bears, both great and fmall; we went under hatches, and ftriking Fire, lighted 2 Candie, and found the Water nifen a foot higher in the Ship.

Hhbh

The with and 12 th fair weather, the Evcuing boing very clear, and the Sky full of Scars, we found Oculus Tauri tobe elevared above the Honiann 29 Deg. 54 Min . his Declination being 15 Deg. 54 Min . on the North fide of the Line, which fubftracted from the heighe aforefaid, there refts \(i_{4}\) Des. which fubitated from 90 , leaves 76 Deg. for the height of the pole in chat place.
The 13 th, ifth, and 15 ch , fair weather, with the Wind Eafterly.
Onthe sohit came Northerly; we wene now and thenout of the Houfe to firecth our Limbs, and about Noon faw a certain rednefs in the Sky.
The nextday, when we had a gond fire, there fell
The cold down pieces of lec from the Wal's of our Houke, and the lecmelted in our Cabins, and the Water drop dd down, which it would not do before, how great foever our fire was; but that Night it was cold again.
The tSth was clear weather, the Wind S. E. then we agiced to burn fome of our Sca-coals, ard nor to fop up the Chimncy, whi.h we did, and found no harm dhercby.

The 2ift was fair, with a Weft Wind, the Foxes now began ro fail us, which was a fign that the Bears would come again, as nor long afrer we found to be true; fur in the alifence of the Bears the Foxes came abrond, and upon the return of the Bears, the Foxss werefeldom feen.

The 2ad fair weather, the Wind at Weft; we perceivedchat Day-light began to apprar to us; bur Hilliam Berents on che contrary, faid, that is was yer iwo Weeks too foon.
The \(24^{\text {th }}\), three of us wear to the Sea-fide on the South Sur apperss fide of Nowis Zemble, where, contrary to our cxpectariRRKin Sumit. on, we law the edge of the Sun, and returned immediately to tell the joyful news to Hilliam Barents and the reff of our Company; bur Barents would nor believe it, Kaying, it was yer 14 days too foon.

The 2 th and 26 th was mifty weather, fo that we could notice any thing; bue the 27 th being clear weather, we faw the Sun in his full roundnefs above the Horiant, whercb; is manifetly appcared char we had fecin is on the 24ch Day. This appeaxance of the Sun fofoon, being soncrary to the nature and roundrefs of Heaven and Earth, and to the Opinions of all learned Men, made tome of ustoimagine, thar becaufe in a long time we dand ficen no day, we had over flept our felves; but that could nor be, for we ufed our Clock till it was frozen, and after char made ufe of our Hour-glafs of 12 hours long; and for our betcer affurance, we confulted Fofephus Sciata's Eplemerides, printed in Venice, for the Years of our Lord 1582, till the Year 1600, and we found therein, that upon the faid 24th of fanuary, when the Sun firft appcared unto us, that at \(V\) cuice at onc of the Clock in the Nighs time, the Moon and \(\mathrm{Fuphicer}^{\text {were }}\) in conjunction, whereupon we foughs to know when the fame Conjundtion was orer the Houfe where we then ware, and found is to be with us on she fame day in the Morning, when the Sun was ar Eaft; for we faw the two faid Manets approach each other until the Moon and Fupiter ftood juit over each orther at fix of the Clock in the Monning, at which time the Moon and \(\mathrm{fupiter}^{\text {were }}\) found by our Compals to be in conjunction over our Houfe in the North and by Eaft Point, and the South part of the Compals was S. S. W. and there we had it tight South, the Moon being eight days old, \(;\) whereby it appears, that the Sun and the Moon were eight Points diffcrent, and this was abour fix of the Clock in the thistace of Morning; fo that it is plain that we were five Hours Lungraude (cach Hour being 15 Degrees) more Eaft than Vonice, auc and and confequently that we had norfailed in our Account plice where. Niore, that-alcho' a Degree under the Line be 15 Miles they, w.a- yct in the Latizude of 76 Deg . where we wintred, 2 Eer) Deprec is but three Miles and two third parts.

The 25 th dark and clondy, fo that the fecing the Sun the day before, was again doubred of.
The 26 th was clear weathcr, but there hung a white Cloud in the Horizon, fo that vere could not, fee the Sun. That Night our fick Man, who had lain ill a long time, died.

The a qu vvas fair vyeather, the Wind S. W. after reading fome Chaprexs, and Gnging Pfalms, vuc buried our Man in a hole vre had digged in the Snovr feven Foot deep. This day wre all lavy the Sun in his full noundnels a limle above che Forizon, and then it vas palt , doubt that ve had feen him the 24 th of fanuary, which mane us all glad, and vve gaye God hearcy tianks for his favour in fheving that glorious light unto ns again.
The 28th vvas fair veeacher, vvith Weft Wind, and verns our to exercifeour felves.

The 29 vias foul weather, voith a N. W. Wink. and fo much Snovy, that ous Houte. vvas ai, Auctof " \({ }^{2}\)

The zoth was dark vveather, vithan Lialt Winc: We made a hole "thro' che Door, and feeing what veather it was, had no delire to ge abroad.
The next day being cala weathe;, we vient nue and favy the Sun thine dear; a Bear came tovyards our Huafe, butas foon as we tiont at her, fire ran avaly.
The inft and fecond of Fibruary vaas boifterous weather, witha great format N. W. and much Snow, to thar our Houte was clofed up again.
The third was fair veather, vith an Eaf Wind, but to nidty, that we could nor fee the Sun, vulich made us fomev what melancholy; we digged our Door openagain, and fetched the Wood that lay vyithour the Door, vhich vith great labour voe digged eut of the vhich Snove.
The fourth valas foul wharher with much Snow, the Wind at 5 . W. and being nowy clofed up again, vee took not 10 much pains as before, to dig open the Door, but vulan vichad orcation, climbed out of the Chinncy, and weat in again the fame valay.
The fifth and listh continucd full ryeather, vith mich Sanvy, the Wind Eaft.
The feventh the fance veather, with a S. W Wind.
The 8th it began to be fair, and then vee veent our, and fave the Sun rife S. S. E. and vyene dovyn S. S: W' by the Compafs that yve made of Lead, and placedac: cording to the Meridian of that place, but by our com: mon Cognpals it differed nvo Points.
The gth, 10 th, and 1 ith vycre fais weacher, the Wind Soutberly, and vye chen began to feel fume hea: fromthe Sun. At nighe vve heard fome Foxes 位iring, ywhich fance the Bears came abroad, vie had mot much feen.

The 12th was clear vecather and very calm. While we were cleaning our Fox-craps, a grear Bear came towards our Houlc, which made us all go in, aind when barkinel the came beforc our Door, we lhot her, the Buller paling thro" her Body, went our again at her Tail, and was as flar as a Countex; the Bear feeling the blow, leapr backward, and ran 20 or 30 Foor from the Houfe, and therc lay down, whercupon we ran to her, and when he faw us, reared up her Heid as if the would have done us fome mifchicf, bur we trufted her nor, having tricd their ftrongth fiufficiently bofore, and cherefore fhot her wice into the Body again, wherewith the died. He cook ar lealt a hundred pound of Fat our of her Beily, patentin which we melted and burnt in our Lamp; the Skin was in ant nine Foot long and feven Foor broad.
The 13th and 14 th w we fair clear weather, with 2 hard gale at Weit.
The 1sth was foul weather, with a great ftorm as S.. W. and much Snow, whercby the Houfe was clored upagain. In the Nighr the Foxes came to devour the Body of the dead Pear, which put us in feat that all the Bears chereabouts would come thicher, and therefore we agreed, as foon as we could get out of the Houfe, to bury her decp under the Snow.
- The 16th was foul weacher, with much Snow, the Wind S. W. it being Shrove-Tuefday, we made our telles fomewhatmerry in our great grief and trouble, and evey one of us drank a draughr of Wine.
The 1 gth was foul weather, the Wind S. E. we took the height of the Sun, which in long time before we could nordo, becaufe the Horizon was nor clear, as alfo becaufe the Sun mounted nor high enough to give as much fhadow as was reguifite; we found the un as the highert, to be elevated thrce Deg. above the Hork
The 2oth was foul weacher, the Wind S. S. W? taith much Snow, whereby we were again hut up in the Houfc.
The 22d, the Wind S. W. fair weather, eleven of us well armed wert to fetch Wood; but returning back with it, we were fo tired, that we thought we flould neverbe able ro ferch any more, and fo muft baveperimed with coid. When we came neaf our Houfe we faw much open Water in the Sea, which in long time we had nor feen, and pur us in good hope charthingswould be better.
The 25 th was foul weather again, and much Snow, with a Norch Wind, whercby we were again clofed upin our Honfe.
The 28th was ftill weather, witha S. W: Wind ; then ren of os went and fetch'd anorher Sled full of Wood, with no lés pain and labour than we did before, for one of ourCompasions could nor help us, becaufe the fintt joins of onc of his could do nothing.
The firft and iecond of March fair weather the Wi Weft, but very cold, and we were forced to fpare our Wood, becaule it was fo great labour for us to fecch it. In the day rime we excraifed our felves with ruming, going, and lcaping, and gave hot Stones to them that lay an their Cabins: we found the Sun to be clevated 6. Deg \(4^{8} \mathrm{Minn}\) abovethe Horizon.
The third and fouth fair weather, with a Weff Wind ; five of us went to our Ship, and found the Bears hiad made mad work there, and had opened the Cook's. Cupboard, and dragged it out of the Ship.
The feventh was foul weather, and much Wind, 10 har we wercapain fur up in our H oure ad wey, Law more open Warer in the Sea and about the Land whercby we were in fear that the Ship in thar foul weather, and driving' of the Ice, would be loofe and drive away, while wc were fhut up in our Houfe, and had no means to preyent it.
The 8th continued foul weather, and much Snow, 2S. W. form, whereby we could fee no Itce in the North-caft, which made us think, rhat North-caft from us there was a great Sca.
The ninth we could fee further from trs, and perceive that the Water wasopen in the North-caft, bur not from us towards Tartary, for there we could fee the Ice in the Tarrarian Sca; fo that we werc of opinion that there it was not very wide, and when ir was clear weacher, we offen thought wefaw the Land \(\delta\). and S. E. from our Hourc.
The tith was cold, but fair fun miny weather; the Wind N. E. we found the Sun ro be eleryated 10 Deg. 19 Min.
The 12 th was foal weather, the Wind N. E. and then the Ice which the S. W. Wind had driven out, came mighrilydriving in again; it was then as cold as ic had been in any time in Winter:
The 15 th and \(\times 6\) was fair weather, the VVind North, we opened our Door to go our, but the Cold rather increared than diminithed, and fo continued rill the 2nft.
The 2 ift was fairwcacher, but very cold, the VVind North; the fame day the Ston wàs in the Equinoctial and at Noon we took the height of the Sun, and found if elerated \(\mathrm{I}_{4}\) Degrees above the Horizom, robich fubffracted from 90 (there being no declination) there refts 76 Deg. for the heighr of the Pole VVe nowv made Shooes of Felt or Rugr, our old Shooes being as hand as Horns.
The 2 zad wvas very foul vveather, and mof bittex cold, the VVind N: E. fo chat vre vere forced to make more fire, it being then ascold as ever it had been.
The fame rveather concinued the 24th, writh much Snorv, and a North VVind, whbereby wve pyere once again thut up in our Hourfe, and then the Coals pvere of great we tous, vwhich before, by reafon of our bad ufing them vee diliked.
Tie. 26 th was clear weather and calm, then we digged our fclves out of the Houre again, and ferch'd another Sled of Wood, for the greaz eold had made as bura up all we had,

The 235 fair veather, the Wind S. W. wherety the Ice dirave away very fatt. Six of us vent aboard the Ship to fee how is lay, and found is as weleft it.
The fecond of April was fair weather; the Wind N. E. the Sunvas this day clevated 88 Deg. 40 Min. The fixth keing foul weather, with a ftiff N. .W. Wind. theic came a Bear to our Houfe in the Night, and mare oftani: one of our Men Ievelling at her, the Picce mift fire, the Hours. whereupon the Bear came bollly towards the Hour, and carne down the Stairs clofe to the Door, and fought robreak into the Monfe, buti our Mafter held the Deor faft to; for being in great halt and fear, hc could nor bar it with a piecc of Wood we ufed for that purpofe; the Bear finding the Door Thur, wenc back again, and returned within two Hours, and went round about and upon the top of the Houfe, making fuch a roaring as was drcadfull to hear, and at laft gor to the Chimney, and made fuch work there, that we thought fhe would have broken it down, and tore che fail that was made faft about it, in many picces, with a great and fearful noife : Wc made no refiltance, becaure ic was nighr and wc could not fee her; ar laft the weni away and leftus.
The 14th, was fair clear weather, with a Weft Wind; we haw greater Hills of Ice round aboit the Ship, thari ever we had feen before, which was a fcarfill thing to behold, and much tobe wondred at, thas the Ship was or frimitten in pieces.
The ryth fair weather; the Wind North, feven of us went aboard our Ship, to fec in what care ir was, but found no alceration. As we came back, a grear' Bear came towards us, and then made away from us again. We went to the place from whence fhe came, to fec her Din, whexe we found a grear hole made jia the Ice, abont a Man's length in depth, the entry clereof being very narrow, and within wide, where we thruft in our Pikes to fed if there were any ching within is, and perceiving it was empry; one of our A Mencrept into it, bur not too far, ir being fcarful to behold. Thence wc wenr long by the Sea fide, and there we faw, that in the end of March and beginning of April, the lce was itrange\(y\) rifen and piled up oncuponthe ocher, as if there had been whole Towns made of Ice:
The \(1 \in\) th was foul weather, the Wind N -W. whereby he Ice began to break:
The inth was fair clear weather, with aS. W. Wind, andthenfeven of us wens to theShip, and from thence reing open watei inche Sca, we went over the Icc-hills as well as wee could, to the Water, having not been fo near it in fix or feven Month sbefore.
The 18 [if, the Wind S. W. fair weacher, the Sun was levated 25 Dcg . xo Min. we fetc' y more Wood in 2 Sied In the Night another Bear came upon our Houre, which we hearing, went all out with our Arms, and the Bear ran away.
The 28th fair weather, the Wind North, che Sun was clevated 28 Deg. 8 Min. above the Horizor.
The 29 th and 30 th, the Wind S. W. fair weacher; this Night we faw the Sun in the North (when it was at the higheft) juft above the Horizon, and from that timefaw the Sun borh Nighr and Day.

\section*{Chap. XVIII. -}

\section*{They depart in a Boat and Scute both open (that is, whitbout Decks) and arrive at Cola, 318 Flemih SMiles. Their many Dakgers by the way.}

THE firft of May we boiled the laft Flefh wè had, which we had fpared a longtime, and was fitl wery good.
The fecond and chird wias fool wieather; with a torm at \(S\). W. whereby the Sea was ahnouft clear of ice, which made us 'begin' to talk of getting thence, having kept houfe long enough there.
The fourth fair weather, the Wind S. Wi. five of tus wert to the Shipł and fouind it lying as faft in the Iceas ever; in the midde of March it was bat is Pacesfirom the open Water, and now it was 500 Paces from the Water, and inclofed with high Hills of Ice, which pui ns in no fraall fear how we fhould bring our Scute and Boat over thofe fills into the Waiter, when we fhould leave that place.
The fixth was cleat weather, wirh a great \(S\). W \(V V\) ind, whereby we faw rhe Ses open borth in the Eaift and in she VVofs which made us rejoice.

\section*{560 The thirdVoyage of Wil．Barents into the N．Seas，I ib．IV．}

The 7th the Wind North，and foul weather，with much Snow，whereby we were clos＇d up again in our Houfe． The it th we ferch＇d our lant Sled of Fire－wood．
The \(25^{\text {ch }}\) fair weather，the Wind as EAft；theSun was elevated 34 d .46 m ．
The asth the Wind came to \(N_{0} E\) ．and brought in the Ice again．

The 27th was foul weather，with a grear N．E．Wind which mightily drove in the Icc again，whercupon the Mafter，as the motion of the Ccmpany，order＇d us to pre－ pare to be gone．
The 29th，the Wind \(w_{\text {foft，fair weather，ten of us wetit }}\) to draw the Scute to the Houfs，to make is ready to fail bur we were＇fo weak that we were not able to do it but the Maftet encouraging us，told us，We muft flrive to do me c shem we mere cible，and thas if we ceuld nof ger the Scute from sbense，we muft dwell there as Burghers of Nova Zembla，and meke our Graves in diar place．While we were bufie at work，a great Bear came toward us， whereupon we retird into our Houfe，and food to watch her in our three Doors，and one flood in the Chimney with a Muffuer．This Bear came on more boldly than ever any bad done before，for the came to the neareft Step thar went to one of our Doors，and the Man that ftood in the Door faw her nor，becaufe he look＇d toward the other Door，but they that ftood with－ in faw her，and in grear fear call＇d to him，wherewith he turn＇d abour，and altho＇he was in 2 maze，thor her thro＇the Body，whereupon the ran away．If the Piece had mifs＇d fre，it had coft him his Life，and it may be tar of aBnct the Bear would have gotten into the Houfe．We ripp＇d foumd in a her open，and found a piece of a Buck with the Hair and Bofis Belly．Skin in her Belly．

The 31 ft ，fair weather，the Wind \(S\) ．\(F F\) ．whexeby the Ice drove away，and we wrought hard abour our Boat to get it ready；and while we were ar work there came another Bear（as if he had fmelt chat we would be gone and was defirous to tafte a piece of fome of us）and forcd us to leave our Work and go into the Houfe The Bear following us，we thor her，and ripping up her Beily，we drefs＇d the Liver and eat it，which tafted well cnough，but made us all fick，efpecially three of our Company，who were fo ycry fick with ic，that we verily thought we fhould have loft＇em，for all their Skins came off from Head to Foor，bur they recover＇d again．
The 3d of fune we were precty well recover＇d，and haring now wrought fix days upon our Boar，we ar 12 ft got is ready；and the next day eleven of us wenc to our Scute and drew it to the Ship，which ten of us had at－ rempted before，and could not perform it．And it being 2 Herring Scuce，made narrow behind，we faw＇d it off behind，and made is a broad Stern，and built it fome－ what higher，that is mighr betrer brook the Seas．
While fome were thus employ＇d，the reft were bufie in the Houfe to make allorther things ready for our Voyage， and drew two Sleds with Victuals and other chings unto the Ship，which lay about half－way berween the Houfe and the open Water，that we might have fo much the morter way to carry our Goods to the Water－ide when we fhould go away．
The sth was foul wearlecr，with much Hail and Snow， the Wind \(W_{\epsilon} \in\) ，which made an open Water：We could then do nothing withoor the Houfe，but within made all things ready，as Sails，Oars，Mafts，Rudder，Gic．

The 6rh was fair weather，the Wind N．E．bur i thifting to \(S, W T\) ．there arofe very foul weather，wish Snow，Hail and Rain，and we could nor be dry in our Houfe，there being nothing bur 2 Sail over it，for wehad caken offrhe Deals to ment our Boat and Scure．
The roth we drew our Goods in Sleds to theShip；the DTine that was left we put into fmall Ca：ks，that we might divide ir into toth our Veffels，and the eaficr hoift it in and out when we thould be enclos＇d with Ice，as we ex－ pected．
The rath was foul weather；and it blowing hard at N．N．LF．we could do nothing all that day，and were in great fear left the Storm fhould carty the Ice and the Ship both away together（ which mighr well have come ro pafs ）for then we had been in grearer mifery than ever， becaufe our Victuals and Goods were then all in the Ship．
The 1 亿th，bcing fair Weather，we went with Harchess， Halberts，Shovels，and other Inftuments，to level the Knobs and Hills of Ice which lay in the way between our Scure and Boat and the Warer－fide：We wrought hard with our Harchers and other Inftruments，and in the abear come mean time a grear lean Bear came out．of the＇Sea upon out of chese the Ice rowards us，which we fappofe came out of Tar－ 4 pon the ios．tary，becanfe we have feen fome of them 20 or 30 miles within the Sea．We having but one Mufquer with us， which our Surgeon carried，I ran towards the Ship ：o fetch one or two，whercupon the Bear ran after me，and was likely to have overraken me，iut our Compas．ice－ ing that，left their work and ran after her，which made the Bear leave me，and turn towards thrm；bu：bring thos into the Body by the Surgeon，fle san a \(\%\) iy，and was foon overtaken by us and killd ontright，having fmote her Tecth out of her Head while fie was yer iving．
The 13ch，being fair Weather and open Water，with They deper
2 good WCAF Wind，the Mafter went to the Houfe and Spake unto Willinm Barcnts，who had been long fick， telling him，that he thought it good（fecing it was a fi time）to go from thence，and fo will＇d the Company to drive the Boar and Scute down to the Water－fide，and in the Name of Grd to begin our Voyage．Then＇Mrilliam Barents wrote a Letter，which he put into the charge of 2 Mufquer and hung it up，in the Chimney，fetring forth how he came out of Holland to fail to the Kingdom of Clinna，and whar had hapned to us in this place，with all our Croffes，that if any Meni fould chance to come thi－ cher，they might know what had hapned to us，and how we had been forc＇d in our Extreminty to build that Houre and to dwell ren months therein，and that now at laft we adventur＇d to Sea in two fmall open Boars．The Mafter alfo wrote two Letters，to which moft of us fub－ fcrib＇d，fignifying how that we had ftaid there upon the Land in great Trouble and Mifery，in hope chiat our Ship would be freed from the Ise，bus that is fell our to the concrary，and the Time pafing away，and out Vieuals beginning to fail us，we were forc＇d，for the faving our Lives，to leave the Ship and to fail away－in our open Boats，committing our felves to the proredticn of the Al－ mighty．And fo，having all things ready，we drew the Boat to the Water－fide，and leaving 2 Man in ic，went and fetch＇d the Srute，and after thas eleven Sleds with Goods and Victuals，which beine pur into the Sleds，we return＇d so the Houfe and fach＇d Witliam Barents and Clacs Adrianfon（who had look been long．fick）upon Sleds to the place where our Scures lay，and to cmring inco eem，divided our felyes equally，and pur into each Boar a fick Man，and fo committing our felves to the Will and Mercy of God，with a W．N．H．W．W．ind and and indifferent open Water，we fer fail and pur to Sea．
The \(14^{\text {th }}\) in the morning we pur off from the \(l\) and of Noon Zembla and the faft Ice adjoyning，and faild E．N．E． all that day to the Illands poinc，which was five miles： But our beginning was nor rery good，being enclos＇d again with lice，which pur us to no fmall fear and trou－ bie．Four of us wicne on Land，and kill＇d many Birds with Srones uponthe Cliffs．
The 16th we faild 2gain，and gor to the Ifland of Orange，which is eight miles diftans from the \(P\) init of Defire；there we went on Land with two fmall Barrels and a Kctule，to mele Snow and pur the Waser into the Barrels，and to feck for Birds and Eges for our fick Mien． We put to Sea again，with a S．E．EFind and Mizling Weatber，and failing \(W \in \mathbb{R}\) and \(W\) ．by \(S\) ．to the Icc－－poins We faftned our Scutes to a grear picce of ice ；but the Wearber grew worfe，fo that we were again enclos＇d with Ice，and forc＇d to tay there．
The \(17{ }^{\text {th }}\) the Ioe came to fatt upon us，that it made our Hair ftand uprighr upon our Heads，for we drave away fo hard with rhe Ice，and were fo fore prefs＇d be－ tween Flakes of Ice，thar we thought verily the Scutes Would burft in a hundred pieces．In this Extremiry the Mafter faid，That if we could take bold with a Ropo upme
she faft－Tce，we might sherepith dram the Scure up and fance the faft－Tce，we might sherempith drap the Scure up，and faget． it out of the great Irift of，Ice．I being the lighteft man in the Company，undertook this hazardous fervice，and creeping from one picce of driving Ice to another，by God＇s help got to the fait Ice，where faftning a Rope－to a high Hillock，they in the Scute drew it to the faft loo． and firft in all hafte we rook out our．fick Men，and Jaid them apon the lce，having firf por Clothes and orher things under＇em，and then took all our Goods out of the Scutes，and fo drew them ipon the Ice，whereby for that time we were deliverd from that great dan－ ger．

The 18th we repair＇d our Scutes again，being much brais＇d and crulh＇d with the racking of the Ice，＂and were forc＇d to drive all the Nails faft again，and to piece many things about them，God fending us Wood，where－ with we melted our Pitch，and did all orher thingis ne－ ceffary．Themfome of us went upon the Ladd，with no fmall danger berween the Ice and the firm Iand；we found four Birds，but coald find no：Egge，which our fick Men long＇d for．
The igth was indifferent Weather，the Wind N．W． and WoS．WF．bur we were ftill enclos＇d with Ice，and faw no opening, which made us think that there would be aried the whole in her Mouth as lightly as if it had been our laft abods, and chat we fhould ncyer get from nothing. thence.

The zoth Claes Adrianfon and William Batents died the Death of the laft put us in no fmall difcomfort, as being the chicf Guids and only Pilor, on whom we repos'd our felves next under God.
The 22d in the morning it blew a good gale our of the S.E. and the Sea was realonably open, but we were forcid to draw our Scutes over a piece of Ice fifty paces long, and there put them into the Warer, and thendraw them up on other Icear leaft an hundred paces over, before we could bring them to a good place, where we might cafily get out; and being gorten unto the ofen Warer, committed our felves to God, with an indifferent galc at S.S.E. and fail'd W. by S. till Noon, and then were enclos'd with Ice again, but not long afrer it operid like a Sinice, and we pals'd thro" it and fail'd along by the Land, but were prefently enclos'd wirh Icc, which we us'd all the means we could to break, bur all in vain. At laft (God be prais'd) is open'd of ic felf, and wegot oot, and faild along by the land \(W\). by \(S\), with a Souts Wind.

The 23d we gor to the Truft-point, which is diftant from the icc-point 25 miles, and then could go no further, becanfe the Ice lay fo hard and clofe together, and yet it was fair weather. We took the height of the Sun, and found our felves to be in the Latitude of 76 d .30 m . Altho' is was fair Sunfhine weather, yet it was nor fo frong as to melt the Snow, that we might have Water to drink, fo that we fer all our Tin Platters and other things full of Snow to melt, and purSnow in our Mouths to mels is down our Throats, but all was not enough, to that we wexc compcl'd to endure grear Thirf.
The 24th of \(\mathcal{F}\) une it ftill blew hard our of the South; we rowd hace and there among the lce, to fee where we might beft get our, but could find no opening. When the Sun came to the South we gor into the Sea, for which we thankd God moft hearrily, that he had cent us an unexpected opening, and an Eaft Wind, which carried us luftily forwand, fo that we hopd to get about Point Na/faw, which we could then fee about three miles diftam.
The 26th it blew hard at South; and brake in picces the Ice whereumto we were faftned, whereby we were driven into che Sea, and in danger to be calt away. We row'd as much as we could to get near the Land, and the Waves went fo hollow, that we faxt nothing but Death before our Eyes: Bur God help'd us once again, and contrary to our expectation fent us a N. W. LDind, whereby we got to the faft Ice again. It was then milty weather, and we had loft light of our other Scute, much fearing that they were drown'd. We faild a mile along by che faft Ice, and not finding hex, we fir'd a Mu\{quer, which they anfwerd with another; ar laft we gor near thens, trid finding them faftned in Ice, we went over the Ice, ania help'd them to unlade their Scute, which with great labour tue drew over the lee into the open Water zgain.: While we lay by each ocher we fod fome Bread and Water together, ardd car ic warm, which did usmuch good.
The 28th we laid all our Goods upon the Ice, and then drew the Scures upon the Icealfo, becaufe we were fo hardly prefs'd on all fides and the Wind came out of the Sea upon the Land, that we fear'd our Scutes woild be crufld in pieces. We laid Sails over -our nom Scures'; and laid our felves down to reft; and whicn the Suri was North three Bears came totrards our Scutes whereupan he that kept Warch cried, Three Bents, Tirec Bears; a: which noife we leapd our of our. Boars with out Mufquers, that were laden with Hail-hor to fhoot ar Binds, and having no time to difcharge them, fhot at them thercwith, which tho it conld not hürt em muich get they ran away; and in che mean time gave us leifure co lade our Mufquets with Bullest; and by that means the fhot one of 'em dead, which the other two perceiving; ran away, and within two hours return'd again; but when they were almoft at os, and heard us make a hoif; they rini 2way.
The next day they cane again to the phace where the orkurion cead Bear lay; and one of them took the dead Bear in mio modre lis Mouth, and went a great way with it over the ragativoong ged Ice, and then began to eat it; which we perceiving thot a Mufquet at her, whereupori fhe randiway: Then four of us went thither, and faw that in fo thort a time the had eaten almoft half. We haid the dead Bear upon 2 high piece of Icè, that if the Bear came agaid, wi might lée to fhoor ar her from out Scute; and we four had enough to do to carry the half Bear betwieen us, which-fhews the greas ftrength of chat:Bear which car-

The if of Foly was indifferent fair, with a WT. N.WW Wind; in the morning a Bear came from the driving Icc towards us, and fwam over the Water to the faft Ice whercon we lay, but hearing us make a noife, man away.
As a S. E. Sun the Ice came in fo fat uponiss, that all the les whacron we lay brake and rin one piece upon another, whereby molt of our Goods feil into the Water but we with grear diligence drew our. Scures further upon the Ice towards the land, which when we had done and went to fetch our Goods, we ran into grearer dange than wehad hicherto mes with; foriwhen we laid hold upon one parcel, the reft funk down with the lee, which would allo many times break under our Fect, which made us almoft to defpair of fafety.
One of rhe Scutes, wherein was a fick mann, was broken in many places, fo that we gave it over for loft, and beheld each other in pitiful manner, not knowing whas to do, our Lives depending thereon; bur Gollfo order'd it that the pieces of Icedrave from each orticr; wvhereyvith vre ran to the Scute, and drevy it unto us ágain, in fuch cafe as is voas, and laid it by the Boat upon the fart Ice, vyhere is vyas in more fecurity.
This dangerous Labour lafted above feven hours, which made us extream vycary, and rvap more dreadful to us than the dangers vre had cfcap'd vothen Wrilliam Barents died, and vye loft this day trva. Barrels of Bread, a Chet vyith Linnen Cloth, ä dry Fac vvith Sailors Clothcs, our Aftronomical Ring, a Pack of Scarlet Cloth, fome Cheefes, a Rundles of Oyl and a Rundlet of Winc, vyhich laft vvas bilg'd vvith the Ice, fo that wve could fave none of it
The 4 th it ywas fo fair clear vyeather, thiat from the cime veverere firft in Neva \(\bar{\chi}\) embla yve had nor the like.
The sth fair pveather, the wind S. WF. the fame day dicd Foim Franfon of Harlem.
The 7th fair vycather, vyith fome Rain, the Wind WF. S. W. we vuent to the opea Water, and there kill'd thisteen Birds, vihich wre found upon a piese of dxiving los.

The gth che Tce bsgan to drive, vvhereoy ve gotope Water on the land-fide: Then the faft Ice wwhereon wre lay began to drive alfo, vvhcreupon vie vient to fetch the Pack and the Cheft that ftood upon the Ice, to pur them into the Scutc, and then drovy the Scures ac leaft three hundred and forty paces to the Warer, as vreak as vve vvere ; and then vive fet fail vwirh an Eeff thind; bur wtere foon forc'd to make to che faft Ice again.
The soth wre took great pains to get thra' the Ice, and at lalt got thro' and rovv'd forth, nutil wre happen'd to fall betryeen two grear flakes of Ice, that clos'd fo that yve could not ger thro", but vrere forc'd to dravv the Scutes upon them and unlade the Goods, and then to drarv them over to the open Water on the ocher fide When rue bad done this, vre muft ferch the Goods allo to the fame place, being at leaft an hundred paces, and when yve prexe in open Warex, fre rovy'd forvyard as vvell as rve could, and had nor rovv'd long e're vere fell bervven tryo grear fakes thar came driving one againit the other, but by God's. help and our fpeedy rovving vre got from berven 'em before they clos'd up; and being thro', yve had a hard WFift Whind right in our Tecth which conftrain'd us to make novrard the faft Ice that lay by the fhore.
The rith in the morning, as vee fare falt upon the A Berikilld Ice, a grear Bear came our of the Warer, running to 2 . foothog. voz̨rds us, and vohen fhe came vivithin thirty paces of us rve difcharg'd three Mniquets ar her, and kill'd her outcight, fo that fhe firr'd not a foor, and the Far yubich came out of the vrounds did fvim upon the Water like Oill : VVemeafarid her Body, and found is to be eighr foat thick.
Thice of our Men pient tô àn Illand thar lay before us, and being there, fivv the Crofs-Ifand lying Weftpard from them, and vrent thither upon the Ice, to fee if any Ruflam had been there that Summer, bur chey could not perceive that anỳ Man had bceni ini it fince vve prece there. They gor feventy Eggs there, bar knevv not how 0 bring them to us; ar laft one of them put off his Breeches, añd tying them faft belowv; they carried them betveen two of cm ; and the third carried the Mufquer, and to came to us again after ihey. had been 12 hours gone; vohich puic as in no frnall fear to think voliar vias become of them. They rold us, they had gone at leaft fix Ficmifh miles to and fro bervveen both llands, and many times up to the Krees in VVater, which made us wonider how chey could endure its; fee ing we were all foweaic 'VVe were much comforted with the Eggs they broughr, fo that we found fome telicf in our grcat mifery, and then thaned our laft VVine-amongit us, whercof svery one had thres Glafics.

The 22 th and 13th, the VVind Eafterly, feven of oxr Mcn went to the firm Land to feck certain Stones, and found fones, tho' nor of the beft fort.
The s 4th fair weather, with a good Souch VVind, and then the lec began todrive from the Land, whereby we were in good hope to have an opea V Vater, but the \(V\) Vind turning VVefterly, the Ice lay ftill again. Threc of our Men went to the next liland, and hor a Bercheyner, which they gave amongit us, for all our goods were commion.
The iGiftra Bear came to us from the firm Land, we could not difeern it to be a Bear, becaufe it thewed fo like the Snow, bue at laft when the came near, we perceived her by her ftirring, and thot and hit her, but theran away.
The nexr day fire of our Men went again to the next uland, rofice if there appeared any open VVater, and being half way thither, found the Bear which the Day before had beenthot by us, lying behind a picec of Ice; as foon as the heard them the went away, bus one of the Manfollowing her with a Boat Hook, thruit her into the Skin, wherewith the Bear rofe upon her hinder Feer, and as the Man thrut at her again, he ftruck the Iron of the Boa: Hook in picces, wherewith the Man fell down uronhis Burtocks, which our other two Men feeing, beth of them thor her into the Body, and with that the ran away, bur the orher Man went after her with his broken Siratf, and fruck the Bear upon the Back, whercupon fie rurncd upon the Man chree times one afeer the other, and then the ocher swo came to her and thot her in the Body again, whercwith the fate down upon her Buttocks, andthen they for once again, wherewith the fell down. All that day the VVind wasN. E, clofe weather.
The 18 th in the Morning three of our Men wemt upon the highent part of the land to fee if there was any opcn V Vater in the Sca, and returning to us, faid, that they had feenmuch open VVater, but it lay fo far from the Land and the faft Ice, that they feared we fhould no: be able to draw the Scures fo far; But neceffry urging us, we were refolved to try whar wecould do, and with indefarigable Pains furmounted all thofeDifficulties; and fecting fail, we prefenty fell among Iceagain, and drew up ourScures uponit.
The rith, feven of our Men went to the Crofs Ifiend, aboura Mile from us, and bcing there faw great fore of open VVarer in the VVcft, wherewith they much rejoiced, and made what haft they could to the Scutes, bur before they came away, they gor 100 Eggs. They told us they had fecr open VVater in the Sea as far as they could difern, and were in good hopes this would be the laft time welhould draw our Scutes over the Ice, whereupon we made fpeed to drefs our Eggs, and drawing our Scutes at leaft 200 Paces over the Ice, got them into the VVarer, and pur to Sea with a good Gale at E. and E. N. E. and paffing by Crofs-I/and, ten Miles diftant from Cape Naffaw, the Ice left us, altho' we afrerward faw fome in the Sea, buris croubled us not, and fo we ticld our courfe VV. by S. with a good Gale at E. N.E

The 2oth, \(2 t 2\) S. E. Sun, we paffed along by the Black Point, twelve Miles diftant from Crofs-I/and, and failing VV. S. VV. we faw the Admiral's lifand ar a \(V\) Veft Sun, and paft by it ar a North Sun, diftant from the Blach Point cight Miles. In pating by ic we faw atount 200 Sea-hories lying upon aiflake of Ice; and we failing clofe by them, drave them from thence, which was tike to have contus.dear; for they being of mighty force, fivam romad abour our Scutes wint a great noifo, as if they would have devoured us, bur we elcaped from themby tceron of our good gale of VVind, yer it was not wifcly done of us to difturb them.
The 21 if wc patt by Cape Plazerio, lying VV. S. VV. cight Miles from the Admirals Ifland.
The 22d, haring fo good a gale of VVind, when we came to Cape de Cent, Tre wenr afhear to feek for Birds and Eggs, burfiadingnone, we failed forwards, and faw 2 Clifithat was full of Birds, and fteering thither, we cilt Sooncs at chem, and killed 22, and got 15 Eggs; ; we might have rakein many more, burbeing unwilling to toote that fair Winks, we failed along the Coaft till we came to another Point, where we gor 125: Birds, fome of which we took with our Hands our of their Nefts, and killing Some with Stones, they fell down into the Water. They had each of them bur: one Egg in their ZIJefts, 2xd that lying:upofithe bare eliff, without Straw or other thing under it, which fecmis thater, how they bly they the the young ones in ?arpeat cold, but polfithat is necefary inbrecung io 1 hio, may be given wholly to cne.
The 2, the fair weathor, the Wind Northerly; we rook the height of the Sun. in. i found our felves in the Lati73 Deg. \(10 . \mathrm{RA} \mathrm{A}\)
The 27 th we mited from Cape de cant, along by Cofting/ark tothers ajspuint, 20 Midec, our CourfeS.S.E.
The 28th fir
The 28 th fair weather, the Wind N. E. we failed.along the Coaft of St. Lapence Bay where foll Rufian lodyes or Ships, we werc think we wes or Ships, we were nor a little comfored to bur we were fome to a place where, we found Men were fo many, for we fawar leafto of them, and kncy not what they werc. As foon as itc camie near the Slooar thcy leff off their work and came towards us, bur with our Arms, and we alfo.went on Land, as many as were well (for divers of us were very ill with a great (couring) and faluted, each ochcr in friendly manner, they afte their fanhion, and we afrer ours ; the Mafterand I, who had been chere the Year before, knew rome of them to te the fame Men which had been aboard our Ship when we paficd thro' the Weygates, and we perceived that they were oreatly aftonilied thar we who ar that that they to well tirnifhed with a great Sbip, well provided with all chings neceflary, thould now appear in thar Country lo poor and defticure, in a couple of fmall Scuccs: And amongit them chere were two, thar in friendly manner clapt che Mafter and me upon the Shoulder as Bring us fince the laft Voyan the Shoulder, as reinemble, mcaning ourSt. Voyage, and ask'd us for our 'Crawell as we could whereupon they faid, Crable pro pat (which we underftood to be, Have youl ifs your Ship?) 2ud made anfwer, Crable propai. They feemed to be forry for ons lofs, and made us figns, thar when we weric there before, they had drank Wine in ourShip, and asked us what we. had now; wherewith one of our Men went to the Scute, and drew fome Water, and gave them a taft of is, bur they thaked their Heads, faying, No dobbre, that is, It is nof good. Then our Mafter went nearer to them and hhewed them his Mouch, ro let them underfand thar we were rroubled witha loofenefs in our Bellies, and to have their advice how to helpit; but they thought he had, made a fignthar we werc hungry, wherewith on of chemr went torhcir Lodging, and brought a round Rye Loaf. reighing about cight Pounds, anid fome Fowls. which: weaccepted tbankfully, and gave them in exchange.halt a dozen of Mufthuir. Then our Matter led rwoof the chief of theminto his Scate, and gave them fome of the latele Wine we had left, being ;almoot a Gallorn We Went to the place where they lay, and fod fome of our Mufoluit with water by cheir fire, that we might eat fome warm thing down into our Bodies: and indeed we were much comforted tofee the Rafficns, having not feen any Man, fince we departed from Fobm Cornclifon, being 13 Monshs before.
The 29th, was fair weather, and the Ruffans prerared to fer fail, and digged fome Barrels of Trair Oil our of the Sedges, which they had buried there, and, pur them into their Ships.
The 3 oth, the VVind blew a great form ar N: VV. with much Rain, fo that altho we covered our Scutes withour Sails, yer we could nor lie dxy, which was an unaccuftomed thing to us, who had fels no Rain ini a long time before.
The 3 ift, we rowed from that Iland to anocher, vhercon there: ftood two Croffes, boping to find fome Men there, bur wefound none. The VVind continnced N. VV. and drave the Ice tovvards \(W_{c e g}\) atcis. VV went ahoar, and found great tore of Leple Leaves or surve which were of great ufe to us; many of us being then pris curt fick, and mortof usfo trovibled with a fourins in our inir sion Bodies, that vee vvere therefy fo weak that we could hardly rovv; but by eating thefe Leaves, ve vere preTenty recorered to admiration, and gaveGod great thanks for that and many orher his. Mercies fheived unto us in this our dangerous Voyage. VVc eat them by handfulls, having heard in. Hollond of their great viruue and found it to be much more than vve expcited.
The firf of Auguft the VVind continucd bard a N. VV and theilce, that for a while had driven tovvards Wigates, taied and drave no more, but the Sea vyentvery hollovt, vihich made us removeour Scuresto theother fide of the Inand, and going, a ahoar, found more Leple Leaves, whercby we forecoverad our hcalths, that fome of us could ear Bikcragain, vibich before vie could notdo.

The feo blowing it having no fome of 4
The th what betr crols over cross over we fer fail we cu fun w puy us in thercof, a ome lec, The foul chelec, w our courfe before us, might bed Now Coift Rufiniz all abovc diuars, bu that we that we ha from Cand it, as aftex Beparicource wa Cumpai which ftar simmon yary at le: more fou: bur alfo
The 12 we faw a ceiving fr defired the defired the ome Vial Candiners Candimats not whar t cheir meat and they \(b\) it lay N. by our. Co rer intellis their Ship, to know i piece of c with fome South Sun

The 17 of the \(t h h^{2}\) fome inftr
he gave us he had fecr in milfy w fevenFing in the othe Flen, Fin. Compasin fiwains, a him.

The ist which we \(u\) the Coalt t with the fin of the \(2 F i\) defired to having ags God, and a good Wind
Morning Ser, which which wet the 值bites the leaft, o
The zod on then, \({ }^{n}\) Rond, and great \(R u / f / \bar{a}\) and then w cd usgreat 13 Retlinns, they lived Bread. W Evcning, th chem in the for but wo allNight.

The fecond was dark miny weather, the Wind fill blowing ftill N. W. and our Victuals were near fpent, having noching left but a litele Bread and Water, and fome of usa little Checfc.
The third, at a Nortly Sun, the weather being fomewhat better, we refolved to leave Noun Eombla, and fo crofs over co Rufir, and to commisting our felves to God, we fer fail with a N. W. Wind, and laiked S. S. W. till the Sun was Eaft, and then entred into Iecagain, which pury us in great fear, and about a S. W. Sun, got clena thercof, and entred into the large Sea, where we faw fome lec, and having failed and rowed about 20 Milcs, we entred into Ice again, and it was then very cold.
The fourth, at a South-calt Sun, being gurten our of the lec, we failed forwaid with a N. W. Winid, holding our courfe Southerly, andatNoon fawthe Coaft of Rafir before us, being very low Land, like a bare Serand tha mighe be overfowad. We had failed from the Point of Noza fempha thither 30 Miles, and thence running along the Coift with an indifferent Gale, we faw another Ruffani Vofel, and when we came near them, they came all abouc Deck, and we cried unte thern Candinaes, Ciandimaes, but they anfwered lititora, l'itzora, intinating that we were thereabouts, whereas we thought verily that we had been far more to the Weltward, and not far from Candinaes, altho' we were rinrec days failing from it, as after we perceived. The"caufe of this Error in our mag courle was, that we were deceived by our Compass, weon which ftandingupon a Chett bound with Iron, made us simaxh vary ar leaft two loints, whereby we were notonly much more foutherly than we thoughe our Courfe had been, but alfo far more cafterly.
The tath of shusut in the Morning being fair weather, we faw a Ruflan Lodgic come rowards us, which weperseiving from the Serand where we lay with our Scures, defired the Matter that we mighr fpeak with them to get fone Victuals of them. When we got to thein, the Mather wene inno the Lodgic to ask them how far we had to Candimes; they held up five Fingers to us, but we knew not what they meant thereby, but we after perecived that cheir meaning was, that there ftood five Crolfes upon it and they brought their Compalsout, and fhewed us that it lay N. W. from us, which reckoning alfo we had made by our Compafs. When we faw we could have no berter intelligencefrom them, the Mafter went further into their Ship, and pointed to a Barrel of Fifh, making figns to know if they would fell it unso us, thewing then a piece of eighr Rials; whercupon they gave us 102 Fiftes, with fome Cakes chey had made of Meal, and abour a South Sun we letr them.

The \(17^{\text {th }}\) we faw a Ruffen Lodgic that camefailing out of the trbite Sec, to whom we rowed that we might have fome infruction from him, and when we boaded him, he gave us a Loaf of Bread, and by figns thewed us that he had feen ou- Companions (who werefcparared from us in mifty weather) fointing to che Scute, and holding up feven Fingers, thereby thewing that fo many Men were in the other Scure, and that they had fold them Bread Fleh, Fin, and ocher Victuals; and we faw a fmal Compais in their Lodgic, which we knew to be our Boatfivains, and chey achonowledged chey boughr it of him.

The ISth in the Morning we pulled up our Stone, which we ufed inftead of an Anchor, and rowing along the Coaft till Noon, we thenfaw the Point of Cendinaes, with the five Croifes ftanding upon it, lying at the Mouth of the Haite Sca, which we were to crols, and had long defired to fee. We paft the Poine ataN. W. Sun, and having a good N. E. Wind, fer forward in the nameof God, and all that Night and the next Day failed with a good Wind, and fo likewife the Night following; in the Morning we faw Land on the Welt fide of the FVbire Ser, which we knew mutt be the Coaft of Lapland, for which wethanked God, who had helped us to fail orer the Whate Sen in 30 Hours, it being 40 Dutch Miles ar the leaft, our Courfe being Weft, with a N.E. Wind.
The 2och, we ficel certain Croffes with Warders upon them, whercby we underftood thas it was a good Road, and fo pur into it, and being cnered, we faw a great Ruffian Lodpis at anchor, whereunto we rowed, and then wene ahoar to fome houlcs, where they thewed usgreat Friendhip. In thefe little Houfes we found 13 Rethinns, who every Morning wone to fill in the Sea; they lived very poorly, cating nothing but Finh and Bread. When we were returning to our Scute in the Evening, they prayed the Mafter and me to ftay, with them in their Houkes, which the Mafter thanked them for, but would not accepr, and I alone flaid with them all Night. Refides thofe 13 Ruffans there were two \(L\) Phatio., and three Wemen and one Child, who lived upon what the Ruffinns yale them, as a picce of Finh, and the Fifhes Heads which the Rufinns threw away, and they with great thankfifters tock up : to that atho' we had litele encugh, get in conparifon of their povert. we thought our felves in a hapry condition.
The ant we meenirother Company, and hewed each other how we had filed to and fro in grear necertizy and hunger, and yet they had endured nore than us. We gave God thanks who had preferved us alie e and broughe us together a aian ; and the next day we prased the Rififia Couk to bake a Sack of Mcal fur vis, payina him for it, which he did, and our Matter borghe four Conls of the Fithermen, which we boiled, and white we were cating, the checf of the \(R\) :/ans came voto \(u\), and pereiving we bad not much Bread, fetched a loaf and gave it to us; and altho' we defired them to fit downard tar with us, yet we could b; no means perfwade them to it, bceanfe it was a fafting day w'th them, and we had poured Butcer and Fat to our Finh: And fos lupertitio:s they were in their Fationg, that we could not fer them once to drink with us, becaule sur Cup was fanewhat greafy, weither would they lend us any of their Cups, cft they fhould be greatied alfo.
The 24th, the Wind at Eatt, we got to the feven Ihands, where we found many Fifhermen, of whon we enguired for cole and Kilduin, and they made dignsthat they lay Weft from us. They calt a Cudinto our Scute, or which we gave thein greatchanks, much wondring as theircourcefy. Pafing between the Eeven llands and the Land, fome Filhermen rowed to us and asked us wher our Crable was; we anfwered with as much R fian as wo badlcarned, Crablc propal, that is, Our Slip os loff, which they undertanding, faid unto us, Cool Braborfe Crabic whereby we underftood, that at Cola there were fome Netherland Ships, but wodid notmuch regard theirNews, becaufe our defign was to fail to trerdl:ouf:, fearing left the Emperour of Kulfa 1 hould ftay usat Colic.
The 25th we had fight of Kilution, where are five or fix fmall Houres inhabited by Lnpirmides: We put in with the Land and asked of the Lapiandi"s if that were Kilain, who anfwered, that it was, and faid, that at Ccia therc lay three Brabants Cralles, whereof two were to fail from thence that day. Then we asked them if any of them would go with one of our Men by Land to Coin, promiling ro reward them well for their pains; but they excuied chemicives, faying, They could noego from chence, bar they would bring us over the Hill, where we hoould find certain Laplanders, whom the:" thought would go with us; and fo the Mafter and one of our Men going with them over the Hill, found linae impa Lander: there, of whom they goroncto go with our Man, promifing him two Rials of light for his pains. The Laplander took a Gun upon his Shoulder, and our Man Boat-hook, and about Evening they fet forward.
On the 2gth we fipied the Laplenter coming alone, without our Man, whercar we wondred, but when be came unto us, he fhewed us a Letter directed to our Mafter, which he opencd before us, the Contents thercof being, Thost the trititer of the Lester mendre.! nouch at our arive inctiat place, and fione long fince be ter:by thoughe that we hed been all coft amay, being excesding ghad of our bappy deliverance, and bhat be mould prefentiy come unto us with Victuals end all other Necefarics to fuccour uts. It was fubfrribed folm Cornelifon Rip. We wondred who this thould be that thewed us fuch great friendhip: for tho it appeared by the Letter that he knew us well, yer we. could notimagine (as it proved afterwards) that ir was the fame Fohn Carnelifon, who the Year before lefr us about Bear Ifand. We paid the Laplender his hire for his good nows, and befodes thar, gave him Hore, Brecehes, and other Furniture, fo that he was apparelled like a Hollaz:ter. This Laplander walked well, for our Man faid they were two Days and two Nights in going to Cula, and yet walked apace, whercas he was but one Day and a Night coming back to us; he broughr us a Partridge whicla he had killed on the way.
The nexiday we fav a Ruffian Foll come rowing with Gcon Corze:ifon and our Companion, who being landed we received each other with grear joy. He brought us a Barrel of Rofwich Beer, Winc, Aqua Vit.e, Bread, Flefl, Bacon, Salmon, Sugar, and other things, which were a grear relief to us, and we rejoyed together for-our unexpected mecting; and ar that rime gare God greathariks for his mercy mewed. to us.

The fecond of Sapicmber in the Morning, we rowed un the River, and faw fome Txess on the Bank fide, which made us glad, as if we were come into a new World, for in all the time we had becon cut, we bad act fecu any Trees. Ia the Evening we gor to foln Co: ach: foris Ship, and made merry with hus Saylers who had been inethe Voyage with him the laft Year. Then we rowed ferward, and late in the Night got to Cola, and rowed fcrward, and late in the Night got to Cola, and vered us ourding ghad Dangers and Troubles, and broughe us thither in fafery.

Thrir Scure
anin sawe The inth, by the comene of the Ruffan Governour aid up for a we broughr our Scute and our Boar into the Mexchants Monum:ne Houfe to ftand for a Mcmorial of our long, dangerous Monument and never beforc faileci Voyase, which (by God's help) vedy then was performed in thofe open Scutes, being almoft 400 the Arg. Durci) Miles.

The 18:h we failul from the River Colt, and on whe firt of خoomber arrived as infter.lam, in the fame Cloaths we wore in \(\mathrm{Vioviz}^{\mathrm{F}} \mathrm{mbl}\), with our Caps fur'd with white For Skins. The news thercof being fpread abroad, it wasallo carted to the Prince's Court at the Hayue, to which plate we were brought by the Scout and two of the Burghers, and there in prefence of Prince Maurice, dirers Emioaffacors, and the Burghermafters, made a re-- heargil of our longand dangerous Voyage.

We found by experience, that our greateft hindrance was the lee about Nive Kembla under 73, 74, 75, and 76 Degrecs, which was more than we mer with ar Sea berwecn boch Lands, altho' we were then much more Northerly, which thews that it was not the nearnefs of the North Role, bue the lee that came from the Tartarian Sea abour Nova fembli, that made us feel the greateft cold. And it is oblerrable, that in (irecmland under 80 Dearecs, there is borh Leaycs and Grafs, whercon Deer and fuch Bealts as feed on Leaves and Grafs, do live; whercas on the concrary in Niva Tombla, rhere growerh ncither Leaves nor Grafs, nor are there any Beafts there, bur fuch as carFlelh, as Bears and Foxes, ©'c. alcho' in lies four, fise, and fix Degrees more Southerly than Gresmind : So likewife ic is oblexved to be much hotter abour the Tropicks, which are 23 Dcg . and a half from the Line, than under the Lincir felf. Our Piloswilliam Bareuts died in this opinion, being fully perfwaded that ourintended Difcovery had been perfected, if we had held a N.E. Courfe from the North Capc, which Courfe we could not hold from Nova Zembla, becaufe we were then entred into thelce.

The following Notes were pritten by William Barents, the Pilos before mentioned.

THE 2 th of Ausiff, Neio Stile, isis, we fpake with the Samoieds, and asked them how the lane and Scadid lic to the Eaftward of LFcygeres: They faid, after fire days journcy going N. E. we fhould come co great Sea towards the S. E. The Sea to the Eaftward of Weygrecs, they faid, was called Marmora, that is to fay The celmi Sca, and the Reople of Wardlooufe told us the fame. I asked them if it was frozen over at any time of ame. I asked them if it was frozen over at any time of the Year: They faid it was, and that fomecimes they pafred it with Sleds; and the fame was affirmed by the Ruffer sue mer ina Ladgic or Bark the firft of Sepermber 1595, twho told us that this Sca was fometimes fo frozen thar the Lodgics or Barks going from Pechora to Giell/ fid; are forced fomerimes to winter therc. This laft place was won by the Ruffes from thie Tartars three Yeas palt.
As to the ebbing and Howing of the Sea, I could find monethere, but wich the Wind, fo runs the Surcam
The chird of Seprember the Wind was S. W, and the Ifound the Water higher than with the Wind ar N. or N. E. My Opinion is grounded on Expericnce, thar if wiere be a Paffage, it is friall, or elfe the Sea could rife with a Sourherly Wind; and for the better Proof to know if chere were a Flood and Ebb, on the ninth of September I went afhoar on the South end of the States JRand, and laid a Srone on the brink of the Water and teentround abour the Ifland to fhoor a Hare, and wher I İcrurned, I found the Srone as I. lefi it, and the Water neither higher norlower, which proves that there is no Flood nor Ebb.

\section*{Chap XlX.}

\section*{The Voyages and \(\mathcal{D i} i\) coveries of Henry Hudfon tonoards the North Pole, fet forth at the Cbarge of certain Merchants of London.} 1607.
dary.

TH E firt of \(M a y, 1607\), we departed from Gravefsnd, our Ship's Crew confilting of ren Men and a Boy, betides the Mafter, and on the 26th we were fix Leagucs to the Eaftward of Shotland, in 60 Deg. 12 Min. We had 64 Fathoms at our founding, black, ozy, fandy, with fome yellow Shells. The Compars had no yariation.
The 3 oth we were in 6 : Deg. if Min. this day the Necdle inclined 79 Deg, under che Horizom.

The ath of 7 une we haw fix or feicn Whales near our Ship: We ftecied N. N. W. and on the x \(3^{\text {th }}\) faw Land on Head of us, with "fome Ice: We called the Head Land Xoung's Cape, andia very high Mount near it tike a round Caftle, we callied the iviount if God's Merc: Our Sails and Shrouds werc frozen. We lay a hull from the 15 th to the 17 th, and perceived a Current fering to che \(S\). \(W\).
The i8th and \(1 g^{\text {th }}\) we ftecred N. E. purpoling to ee whether the Land we defericd the 13 day were an fland or part of Grentard; but it being a thick Fog with mack Wind at Sourlh wechanced ourCourle, and fteered N. N. E. hoping for an open Sca tofall with the - Norw calica body of * Nicopland terentand.
The zoth at two in the Afternoon it cleared up, and wee faw the Sun, which we had not feen fince the fecond of this Monch. We kepr a North-eafterly. Courfe, mceting with many Fogs and Calms, and much Ice driving in the Sea, and on the 27 th vere defcried Grem land. The lce lay very thick along the Shoar, and having a fair Wind, vrecoafted it in a fmooth Sea, and had no ground ar 100 Fathoms four Leagues from the Shear: We reckoned our Yelves to be in 78 Degrees, and morfar from Vogel Hook: As vve ran along the Shoar twe found nogreat cold: Ar eighr at Nighte we haped our Coaft N. W. and at ten favy grear flore of Ice on head of us, whereupon vye tacked and ftood avvay S. S. E

Nore, that altho' wye ufe the Word Night for diftinction of time, yer the Sun vvas long before this, at vvays above the Horizon, butwvehad not as yer feenhim upon che Meridian North.
The 28th, it cleared up at 12 ar Night, and yro found ourfelves berveen the Iand and the Ice, VogelHook bearing Eaft of us.
The 29 and 30 th rvere ftormy, vye lay a hull.
The firft vee flood N. E. for the Shoar, and yrere foon embayed vvith Ice; by our oblervation we were in 78 Deg. 42 Min . whereby we acconnted our felves chwart of Ine greas Indraugbr. In the Evening it cleared \({ }^{\text {up }}\), and we found our felves fhor far inco the Inlct, and had no ground ac roo Fathoms.
The fecond, the Wind N. E. and cleap weather, the Ice to the Northward of us, and an open Sea to the Southward under our Lee
The chird and fourch our Shrouds and Sails were frozen.
The fifth much Wind at N. E. we lay a Hull, being then pear the Mouth of the Inlec.
The fixth the Wind N. E. and the Sea grown, and very green; Latitude by Oblervation 77 Deg. 30 din.
The feventh was clear, and we were encompaffed with Ice, and were now cntred again into a black Sea, which by proof we found to be an open Paffage.
The eighth very foggy, we fteered S. by E. we faw much drift Wood, and many Seals, and tro Mores.

The gth and soth little Wind, we were encompaffed with Iec, and faw many Scals.

This was written by Fofly P!nyce, one of the Ships Company; that which follows feems to be taken from Mr. IIudfon's own' Notes.

The frth was elear weather, the Wind at S. S. W. we twere got into a greca Sea agnia, and haw many Whakes. We had the Sun on the Meridten S. by W. his grearet height was 37 Dcg .20 Mins by this obfervarion we were it 79 Deg. 17 Min . we had a freft Gale and a finoorh Sea, by means whercof our Ship had ourrun us. Many of ing Company werefick with cating of Bears Fleth the day betém, unfilted.
The 12th was toggy, the Wind at South; inthe Morning out Shrouds were frozen; at Noon we seckoned our felves under \(\delta\) c Deg. we ftecred N. and N. E. unci! we faw lee ahead of us, and then ive caft about to the S. E. Artwelvethis Nighe it cleared up, and we faw Grennland out of the top, bearing S.S. W.twelveLcagucs fromus.
The 13th, the Wind at S. by E. we food N. E. by E. aind were by obfervation in 80 Deg. 23 Min. we faw many Whales: This Murning being very clear, we couid not les any les our of the top, bur'as three in the Afternoon we faw fo much Ince a head of us, thar we were forced to alter our Courfe as the Ice would give us laye.
The 14 rh, was calm with Fog; at nizee a mall galcat Eaft, we ftecredS. E. by E. and ther with a green Sca again, which we found by expericnce to be freerfrom lce, than the azure or blew Sea : At this time we had more birds than ufually. At Noon, being a thick Fog, we found our felves near Land, bearing Eaft of us, and ruming further, we foundr2 B4 & to to the Weft and by North. The Northern fidteth Bay's Mouth bcing high Land, is a fimall tidutw which wescalled Collins Cape, by the name of our Boatwain, who firtt faw ir. Here we faw many Whales, and one came under the Keel of our Ship, and made her heel, yer by God's mercy we had no Fiarm: At.a S. W. Suna Flood fer into the Bay from the N. W. by N. At af avouth of this Bay we had 30 Fathom Water, and theifit, bur further in we had no ground at 100 Fathom, and thercfore judged it rather a Sound thian a Bay : On the Southern fide lie thrce or four fmall 1 Rands or Rocks folm" Colmen my Mate, and UTillian Collins my Boariwain, with two on thers, went alhoar, Ghtere they found and brought a-Whales Boncs, and wouta dozen Decrs Homs: they faw the footing of other forts of Beafts; they faim alfo fome Ror-gcefe, with muct drift=Wood on the Shoar; and fonnd a ftream of rwo of frelh Warer, with which they coold their thifft, if being tior on the Shoar. This Night proved cleary, and we bad the Sun on the Meridian, on thic N. by E: part of the Compals: From the upper cdge of the Horizon with the Crold-ftaff, we found sino Des. his height to Deg. 40 Min. without allowring any thing qumphimh for the Semidiameter of the Sun, or the diftance of che krialigh end of cine Staff from rie Centcr in the Eye.

The 5 th, clear vycather, the Sun hining varm; Collins Cape bore of wis S. E. and vie could fee che high Lamdof Greminend 20 Tcagues fremrusto the N. E. By iny accountr, the Northern part of this Land which novy vecfave, tracched into 8i Dcg. All this day vais ss \(\ddot{\text { Efgrem: }}\) clear vrcather, lirte Wit, d, and reafonably vyarm.

The ibrh, vairm and c!ma vveather as North; vve vecre encompafied with Ice, and having novy ruin towvard the furthot part of the Land by us difcovered, which for the mont part trinds Ni E. and s, W. vve could difeern more Land joining to the fame, dtreeching far North into 82 Degrees, and by the bovying or hevving of the \(3 k y\) much further, which vohen \(I\) firlt favy, Hhoped to find a free Seabetryeen the Land and the Ice; and to to have compaffed this Land by the North, but novy finding is impouible by reaton of the abundance of Ice to the Northvvards of us, vehich joined to the Land, wve bore up the Helm and rerurned; and this I The: reiun can affure, that bervecen 78 Dcg .30 Min . and 82 Deg . by this veay there is no paffage. We ftcered W.S. W. from Collins Cape, in \(8 \times\) Dcg, 30 Min. bearing N. E. from us. From this day tothe 2fth, we fteered vaxionis \({ }_{30}^{81} \mathrm{Drg}\) : Courfes, in which norhing hapned remarkable.
Onthe 27th, a thick Fog, calm, and the Sca very lofry; ve heard the rut ornoife of the Ice and Sea, wrhich vyas the firft Ice vve heard or favv fince vve wvere at Collitis Cape. The Sea heaving us tovrard the Ice, vve cndeavoured wyith our Boar to tovy our Ship further from the danger; but the Sea veent So high, thar it was to frall purpofe, and vve had herc ended our Difoovery if God had nor given us a fmall gale in our Diftres. Here vre found the rvant of a good ship-boat, and alfo of half a dozen long Oars to rovy in our Ship. We found by the Icy Sky and our ncarnefs to Grecnlant, that there is no Paffige that way, vwhich if there had been, I intended to return by the North of Geenlined to Devis Strcights, and fo for England. Herc having the bernefir of a W'cfeily Wind, vuici hapned feldom during this Voyage, wealtered our Courfe and ftecred to the Eafiratrd, and on the 28 ch found our felves in 76 Deg. 35 Min.
On the 29 th vie heard the rut of land to VVindrvard, and I knevvit to be fo by the colour of the Sca. It was fo thick a Fog, thar vee could hardly fec a Cable's length from the ship. VVe had ground at 25 Fa thom, fmall black pebble Srones; ar the next founding 30 Fathoms, fmall Stones like Beans; ar the next catt no ground ar 60 Fathoms: VVe tacked and ftood 5 . VY. all thisday an extroam thick Fog.
The zoth ircleared up, and vee favv part of Grect land bearing from is E. S. E. vve then reckoned our Cllves to be in the Latitude of 76 Deg .
Orithe 3 aft, the VVind atE. S. E. and being like to prove much VVind, conitary to our purpofe, the Fogs more thick anid rroublefome thanformerly, divers things neceffary vranting and our time vicll nigh fpent to do further good this Year, I commanded to bear up for Enfland, and fecred avtay S. S. YY. The nexr Morning at four vve vyere thvvart of Cherr-lland, being a very ragged Dand on whe VVettern fide, rifing like Haycocks.
On the ts of Auguf vive pir into the Illes of Fero; in 62 Deg. and arrired in the Thames the is th of Sep- Auguf: cmber.

\section*{Chap. XX.}

\section*{The fecond Voyage of Mr. Henty Hudfon for finding a Paflage to the Eaft-Indies by the North-eaft: Written bip bimjelf.}

\(\underbrace{1608}_{d_{1}+2 i /} \quad \rightarrow\)Pril the 22 d , vic fer fail from Sc. Katherins, and fell down to Bleckwall, our whhole numberbeing is Pcrfons.
The 2orh of Mcy vre yvere in Latitude of 64 Deg. 52 Mirr. the Needle then declined under the Horizon by the Inclinatory 81 Deg . and vie had then a fmooch Sea, vuhereby I am affured my Obfervation voas good.
The \(22 d\) vee reckoned our felves in 67 Deg. the Sea \(v\) rasfmoorh, the Needle declined \(\delta=\) Deg.
The 27 we accounted our relves in e9 Deg, 40 Min . and the Needle inclined, being a fmoort Eca, almoft 84 Degrees.

The 29 th \(\psi v e\) favi the Sun orn the North Meridian 5 Deg. 35 Min. above the Horizon; Latitude by Obfervztion 73 Deg. 13 Min.
The 3d of fune vve had fight of the North Cape, bearing S. VV. eight Leagues from us: Obferving the Variation, Ifound it to the VVeftvvard If Deg. and having a fmooth Sea, the Needle inclined under the Horizon 84 Deg.e Min. the nearett I could find.
The 14 vive favy the Sun on the Norch Meridian 5 Deg, 40 Miuphigh.
The 7 th vvehad Snovv for four Hours; I accounted thar vye vyere then in: 74 Deg. \(30^{\circ}\) Min here the

Necale inclined 86 Deg and the Sea vvas of a dark blevf colour．

The 9 ch，being in Latitude of 75 Deg． 29 Min．we entred into the firft lce we had feen this Voyage；we flood into it，hoping to get thro＇it，and held，a North eafterly courfe，loofing for one piece of Icc，and bear－ ing up for another，rill we were por four or five Leagues within it，and found the lee a head of as fo firm and thick，that we were furced to return as we wemt in，and as laft gor frec of is．
Mermuia

N．N．Nat h
The．Inn was on the Mecidian wa the a Point catterly before is bezan to thil his height 4 Deg .45 Min．Inclination 22 Deg .33 Min． which makes the latitude 72 Deg． 12 Min．
The 2 gth and 3 cth calm，hor wearher，and a finooth Sca，the Necdledid incline \(8+\) Deg：we anchored ncar an Inand in the Mouth of a Rivcrin＇ 7 ，Deg． 1 ；Mina and Taw 40 or 50 Morfes fecping on a litrle Rovk；all my Company went athoar，but my felf and Boy，yer they killed bur onc，the reft ccaping by being to ncar the VVarcr．Ac Mid－night our Anchor came home，and we cailed aground by the frength of the Arcani，bur hea\％ cd off again without hurt

The firf of \(\mathcal{F}\) uly I fent my Mate with foes more to Search a Solith or River in the botod hite the Bay which fent opra a great Atrcam to the Nortiwards，2－ gainit the Tide which came from thence．This ftream was fo ftrong，＂that it carried away the Ise or any thing elfe againf the Flood，and ir fows from the North three Hours and cbls ninc．VVc had the sun on the Mcridian lon the \(S\) ，by VV．Poins；balf a Poine VVefterly，hat 71 Deg． 24 Min．
The ad－our Company returned，with their Boat halif laden with drift VYood，four dozen of Fowls，a greas Deers Horn，and：hcy law ren white Deer in one Herd． They ccrificd me thatethe gras River or Sound，wastwo or threc Leagucs broad，and had no ground an \(20 \mathrm{~F} \mathrm{~F}_{-}\) thoms，and dhat the fircam did fee frongly out of it，and was of the coloux of the Sca，and very falc．I had great hopes of this Northerly Rifiex or Sound，and fene my Mare fuer with ifive more in our Boat to learch it，why went up fix or feveriteagues，and founded is from 20 to 23，and then to cight，fix，and one Fathom，andlafty to four Foot．Being returicd，we fer fail to the S．Vin grieving tharovitheore was in vain，for had this Sound held as it made fhe to mitmar hayc yiclded an excellent Paffage to a more＇t if sea；Generally，all the Land of Noomaghly that wed w，was pleafant to the Eye， much high trid，with now on it，looking in fome places green，and Decr feeding thereon；it is no wonder that there is fo much Ice in the sea towards the Polc； there being fo many Sounds and Rivcrs in Nicun Grecnland，Groentizis，Tärary，Ruflit，and Lappia，tocns gender it，from wh．ce I am apt to think there can beno navigable Palfage tr way．This place upon Novancm－ bla is not the fame which，the EFofinders call Coffing Serel； it is Broad，mindake to ytia a Paffage ar Wergates，and my hope was，that bit to ftrong fream is would have cleared itelf．But bcing Dow roíd blopes of a N．E．Paf－ fage，I redolvelio fail to the Nozwert，and to make trial of that ace called iumbincs， 4 ，and the furious Oi er－fall mentioned by Captait Dite to but meeting with contrary VVinds，and haviog focit more than half the time，befre I had gone theot of tem part of che way， maped min Courfe homeward， 4 行化话ited at Gravgend the 26xh of Augyff， 1508 ．

㨁线：
A chird Voyage towards Nooan imbla wis attempted by Mr．Hudfon in she Year following，and writren by his Mate Robers Ifet，whercin is fet forth，that on the 21 ft of \(M x y, 16 c 9\) ，they had fight of the North Cape of Finmark，and after much roouble from Fogs，Ice，and concraxy VVinds，they serarned to the Iaes of Fero in 62 Degrecs，which he fays axe placed too far YVefferly in our Sea Charts．Thence they failed to Nemfoundlinnd， Cape Cod，and Virginia，which being a Voyage weh known，and nothing remarkable happening in is， 1 nall proceed to his laft Yoyage，where he was treacherouny cxpoled by his Mate liert，and otbers，of his ships Com－ pany．

\footnotetext{
}

The 2crlh we heard Bears roar on the Ice，and Gw in incredible number of Seals upon ir．We had the Sun on the AcridianiN．by E．balf a Poin Eafterly；his height masferen Deg．twenty Min．
The \(2 I f\) clear and warm weather；our Caritude at Noon being 74 Deg． 9 Mina．it appeared that we were hald to the Nothward beyond expectation．
The 22d，having a fonooth Sca，we found the Necdic to inclize 8；Degrecs；we had then the Sun on the Me ridian N．by E．half a Toint Eatterly；his height 7 Dcg 45 Minn which made the Latitude 74 Deg． 43 Min．
The and we had Snow，the Sun at the loweft was N．N．E．his height 7 Deg． 15 Min the Roles beigh 74 Drg .18 Min, Thic atthand 2 sth cool and clear，with fome Snow： The Sun was on the Meridian on the S．W．by S． Point of the Compafs cre is began to fall；Laticude 72 Deg． 52 Min．The lce was to the Eaftward of us，and our hope of a Palfage was yone this way，by our nearmed to Noun ncmble，and the abundance of Ice．
The 26th，we had the Sum on the Meridian on the S．E．by S．Point of the Compais，in Lacioude of 72 Deg． 25 Min，and had fight of Spart－Clift in Newa zembia，bearing from us \(S\) ．E．five Teagues off．
The 27th，we being bur two Miles from the Shoar， and almoft calm， 1 Kene Rebert liee my Mare，and Fobn Cookmy Boat（wain on thoar，with four ochers，to fill troortinee Ca1ks with Water；they told me they faw Grafson the Shoar of the laft Year，and young Grafs come up anoongit it a \(\ldots\)－－long：That it was very hot on the shoar，the Ground brogy，and that they fats the focting of nuany Bears，Deer and Foxes．There was \({ }_{2}\) Crofs thanding on the Shoar，much drift Wood；and digns of Fires that had been made there．They brought aboard fome VVales Hins，two Deers Horns，and the Dung of Dect，Alofs，Flowers，andocherthings thatdid

Chap. XXI. Hudfon's Voyageyfor the difoctery of a N. W. Paflage. 567

\section*{C н а р. XXI.}

\section*{A fournal of Mr. Hudfon's last Voyage for the Difcozery of a North-mef: Paffage: Written by Abacuk Pricket.}

NVE faiked from St. Katharins the 17 thof paffed on in fight of the South Shoar, till we raifel f fuir werc at the tlles of Orkher and on the \(x\) tith fell with che Eaftern part of ifand: VVe faw Mount hecla caft out much firc, which was thoughr to be a gign of foul weacher approaching. VVs pur into a Harbour, called by the Engiljb Loufy Bay where we bathed our felves in a Bath on the Shoar, the \(V\) Vatcr whereof was fo hor that is would fcald a Fowl.
From hence, the firt of Func, twe pur to sea for Furre Giorklant, which we raifed omberfourth, the Iand vas rery Mouncainous, and corcter ith Snovi, and there was fo much Iec on the Coafistant we could nor come ncar the Shoar. VVe fteered on between the VVeft and North.vect, until vec raifed-the Illand Devation, and from thence flaped our Courfe N. VV. the VVind bcing againft us, or elfe vve fiad gone more Northecrly, and abour the end of 7 fed Land to the North of us. In our Courfe vere me th grear. Inands of floating Ice, and faw one ofthetior prarning for us not to cooriet vas a good woinued our Courle as the lewide fedthar vve could go nó fed char rve could go no in defrair, and (as he aftedt thould never getity of it?
 ry veas therefore broighenorth his Card, ane che wive he Company, thatelt was entred above (6atexagnes furcher chan ever any Emplifh Man had deyerthilefi is to yea ornay: VYhercupon fome vatuof ofternind, and fome of ansther, fome vvilhing chemeilves ac home, and tome not caxing vvhere, fo they vvere our of the Ice; but there vere VVords then fipoken by fome, which vrexe remembred a great vykile affer
Therc vras one vyho rold the Mafter, that if he had roo \% he voould give go to. be at home; to vyhom the Garpenter anfivered, thatif he had 1 oo Pound, he would nobgive ten upon anyfficticondicion, bur fhould think it Hometefthe leave of God. After many words, we weine to wotrk all Handsto get clear of the Ice, and after miuch labour and time fent, we gor into open Wa*. ter, and fleering N. W. on the eighr of fuly. we raifed Land ro the S. W. covered with Snow, which our Mafler named Diffrc Proosk:s, lying in the Latitude of 60 Degrees. Here we heard the noife of a grear Over-fall of a Tide that came out of the Land, and were now fenfible thar we had been cmbayed before; and we were now To well acquainted with the İce, that in foggy or foul weacher, we fought out the broadeft lland of Ice, and there anchoring, we went our and fported apon the Ice, and filled Waterchat food in Ponds apon the Ice, very \(\{\) wert and gond. Bcing now in the Tide's way the lec was opened by being carried firft one way and then another, whereas in Bays it is unmovable; and in that Bay where we had been fo rroubled with Iice, we faw many of thofe Mountrins of Ice aground in fix or feyen fore Fathom Water. We fill plied to the Weft ward as the Ice would give us leave, and fearing a florm, we found an Harbour at the Wett end of an lilland, whereinto we went at a full Sea, over a Rook which had then two Eatriom and a half Watcr upon it, and the nexe Momitsiwesa wo Fathoms above Water. Our Matternamed tyerex od of God's. Mercis.s. The Warce flows here bugeritin four Fathoms; and :che Fiood conyes from the Notth, fowing eight the change day; Lart. 62 Deg. 9 Min.
Then plying to the \(S\). \(W\). we were on the 1 trh in the Latitude of 58. Dcg. so Min. but found our felves embayed, and nuch ph.ftrid wish IEe, whereupon we toon toctheN. W. uncil we faw the Land, which oar Maficr inamed krold m.tio Hope, and being yotren again inro a clear Sca, our Niafter ftood to the Weft along by the Sourth Shoar, and raiied three Capes or Head-lands lying one be) ond anocher, wriach he named Cape Herry, Cape Fames, and Muen Am,'s Ferchand; wc alfo raifed 2 high Hill, which our Mafter named Mounc charlest We Apit, 16 Ko , and on the 5th of M.y Head-land (winith sur Mafter took to be part of tic main Norch Land, bur is an lland ), and named is D:sp's Cape; and the Land on the Sourth fide mowfalling Desp's Capc; and che Xand on the South fide mew.falling away to tice South, makcsancther Cape or Hcat away to the South, makciancther, Cape or Head-land, me and the Carpentur, with1 foms othersanioar sicar Detp Capc; we there faw fome Deer, 12 or 16 in a Herd, bure could nor come within thor of chem; we found pienry of Sorrel and Scury -grafs, and faw fornc tound Hills of Stone, like to Grals-cocks, and when we cance to them, I turned off the uppermoft Stone, and found them hollow within, and full of Fowls banged by cheir Necks. We went aboard and rold t t \(\ddagger\) Mafter what: we had fecn; and whar refrethinenrmight chere be had, intreating hirat ro ftay a day or wwo inthis place, bur he was noc pleafed with the mocion, nor soould be perfwaded to fitay. Then tanding Sourthward, we loft fight of the main Land, that we had all this while followed, and came into thalow Water, broken Ground and Rocks and paffed down fo far norithward, till we had Iand on both fides, and the Water hoaling apace, wa canse so an Anchor. From hence we flood back again towards the Norch, and one day a Debate arifing concecrning our coming ine- Diforct. to chis Eay, and how we lhould ger ous again, our Mafter took occafion to reviveold matcers, and to difiplace Robert: Ivee his Mate, and the Boarfwain, for Words fpoken in the firft great Bay of Ice, and made Rubirt Rilues his Mate, and Wulliam Wilfom our Boarifwain. We plied to and fro from the North to the South, and thence to the North again, till we came inco Shoal Water, where we anchored in feven Fachom, and there lay eight days, in all which time we could not ger onc hour to wcighoux Anchor; bur the 8th day the Wind beginning to ceace, our Mafter would have the Anchor up, againift the mind of all that knew what belonged thereunto.

Well; to it went, and when we had broughrit Well; fo it went, and when we had brougin it to a Peak, a Sea rook her, and caft us all off from the Capftion, and hurs many of us. Here we lof our Anchor, and if the Carpenter had noc beennimble, we had loft our Cable too, bum he fcaring fuch a matter, was ready with his Ax, and fo cur is.
From hence we ftood to tbe South, and then upon divers Courfes until we came to 2 . Bay ncar che North aioar, where we anchored. While we iay there we aww a Ledge of Rocks to the Sourhward, abouta Lcague long, which wcre covered at fill Sea, for a frong Tide retsin here. Ar Mida-night we weighcu, and tood to go our as wie came in, and had nor gone long, before the Carpenter rold the Mafter, that if he kept that Courfe he would beupun the Rocks; the Mafter conceived niar he waspaft chem, when prefently we ranon :hem, and there

Wc frood to che Eaft, and anchored in a Bay ; herc che Mafter fent meand the Carpenter in the Boat to feek a placero winter in, and it was time, the Nights being ong and cold, ardit he Farth covered with Snow, having penct three Monthas to mo preprofe, and it being now the ant day of oither:
On the firf of ingty te whereinto we brought our Sht,
On the !oth wet ts ro take care of whiz we'mighr have wherewitite concerined ve might have wherewith wot 24\(\}^{\text {nd, }}\), chat hould come to the Cafectothoty yrowl bred, for there wasall the hope we brid off fitizing fubiftance to bring us home. Our. Maltert fleffore peopounded a wcre victualled for lix Monithititiscody, mentind of that which was good, and y equstiater wablifivive had more, he might have been fuphtred as liomeänd in ocher places; and ili is frange that he did no prevent the Hunger we endured, which occafiond the crerthrow of himprelf and many orher bonef Miens
Abour the middle of Nocember our Giunner Folm withiams died, and his Cloaths were cedered to be fold ar the Mxir-malt to the highct Bidder, as is ufual 1之iz \(x\)

The

The Gunner liad a grey Cloth Gown, and Heny Grecn prayed the Mafter to befric:ud him to much astole malave it, pajing for it as another wouls, and, told others who delired to buy ir, that Green thould bave ir, and nonc elfe.

This (ireen was born in Kenr, of good Parentage, hur by his lewdlife, had loit the good will of all his lifends, and frent all he had. This young Man our Mafterkept in his lloufe at fondnn, and would have him to Sca with him, becaufe he cdula write well. He was much in the Miatter's Favcur, and was indecd a ferviceabic Man cvery way for manhood. When he was athoar at Ifand, he lo beat our Surgcon, that we had much ado to gethin aloord arain; which Action of his fet all the Company in a tage, and when I to'd the Maitcer of it, he bin me thas woukd wrous the beft kiriend he had. But Revers Iver the Mafter's Mate, being drunk, told the Carpenter a long taic, that the Malter had broughe in Grecn, to crack the credir of any one that thould difpleale him; which words coming to the Mafters Ed:s, he would have soie back on thm, when he was to Leagues from is, ro have fent home fiet in a Fifterman; buc was at latt o:herwife perivaded, and the Breach made up.

Now ois of feafon, the Mater called on the Carpenter to ge in hand withan Houmeon fhoar, which at the ligginning our Mafter would not hear, when it might hive bech done. The Carpenter told him that the Siow and 「roft were liuch, as he neister could, nor would goin hand with luch work, which when the Matter heard, he ferreted him our of bis Cabin, calling him by many foul nancs, and threataing to hane him. The Caxperter cold him, that he knew what belonged to his place beter than hinfeif, and that he was no Houie Carpenter; io thus falled, and rhe Houfe was a frcrward made, but to no end.
It was an order amonget us, that no. Man fhould go alone, but one with a Gun, and another with a Pilie, and ir happened fo, that the next day after the clathing be tweenthe Mafter and Carpenter, the Carpenter going 2broad, took his Piece and Ifenry Grecn with him. This Co sxafperated the Mafter againft Henry Green, that he ordered Koyere Biller his Mate, to have the Gunnexs Gown, and it was delivered to him, which when Hiem Green Giw, he challenged the Matter's Promife, bur the Ma-fter railed on him with many difgraceful Words, relling him, tharall his Friends would not truft him with 20 Shillings, and thercfore why mouid he: As for Wages he had none, nor none fhould have, if he did not pleare hini well, Xer, it was faid, the Mafter had promifed him to make his Wagesasgood as any Mans in the Ship, and to procure him to be one of the Prince's Guard at our return. This fo wroughe upon Grecn, that from thenceforth he fought all means to diferedir the Mafter, Grens sco. and at laft confpire with others to chruft him and other fpiracy. honedt Menovt of the Ship.

It would be tedious to relare the. Hardinipa we endured while we wintred in this place; the Cold was foexricam, thatit lamed moft of our Company. Bur I muft notiorger God's great mexcy to vs in fending us fuch titore of whice Partridges during the firit chree Monchs afrer hebaydetwe would concagain, as he dis. When he cameagans: te drew afect him a Sles, and uron it two Decr Skins, and two Beaver Skins: he haid theknife upon ons of the Beaver Skins, and his Glafes and Buttons upon the otlicr, and fo gave them to the Molter, who received them, and the Savage took thote things the Matter inad given him, and pur then inso his Scrip Then the Mafter flacwedhim an Harcher, for which he would have given the Maiter one of his Deer Skins, but. the Mafter woud bave them both, and fo the had, lue not willingly. Afice many figns of People to the Niorth and to the South, and thas affer bomy Sleye he would come again, he went his way, but never came more.
The scomds being not shear of lice, fo that our Boat could go trom one place to another, \(1 F / 1 / 2 n\), (irect, and tive more, were oiscred to go a filhing with our Nict; they canghr the firf day fivo hundred Fithes as big as large Herrings, which pur us al! in good hopes to have our Wants flipplice; but theie were the molt that ever the) caught inome day, and many days they got nor a quarter to many. la this time of their finhing, Grocn, Writgon, and fome others, plotted to taike the Ner, and che Shallop, which the Carpenter had wewly fer up, and to to timifs for themfelves; but the Shillop bcing ready, our MaAter would go in it hime the the South and South-weft, to fec if he could meet with Fenple, for that way we could fee the Woods burning ; fo taking with him as anuch Victuals as would fervefor eight or mine days, he went toward the South, andfer no time fur his return; becaufc he was perfwaded if could nicet with leople, he tiould have Flech of the. fd that geod ftore, but he rerurned y , he "tyerth; for altho he was

 and fif eto a mor \(\quad\)
 deliverectstation of Return, wilht them to have that to thetesutuat mould pleafe God they hould come home, and wisk when he gave it to them. But to heip us with fomerndistathis poor eftare, our Boar went to work on Finfoy Mt g and ftaied till Sunday Noon, and brought fouricore frall Fifhes, a poor Relief for fo many hungry Bellies. Then we weighed and food our of our Wintring place, and anchored withour in the Mouth of the Bay, where our Bread being gone, that ftore of Checfe we had was to fopp a gap, whercof there were five; arwhich time the Company grudged, becaufe by their reckoning there thould have been nine; bur those that were left were equally dividea by the Mafter, al tho' he was advifed to the egpirraty; becaufe chere were. fome who could nor govern themlelves. I have, known Wilfon the Boarfwain to cat his Formights Bread in one day, and was fick for two or three Days afterwards; and Hirny Green gave his Formights Bread to another to kecp for him, and prayed him noc to ler him have any uncil next Manday, but he neyer let him reft until he had it again, which was before Hiednefley Night. The reafon of the Mafter's delivering the Cheefe; was, becaufe they were not all of one goodnefs, and that they might fee chey had nowrong done them, bur every Manfhculd bave alike, the beft and worit together, which was three Pounds and a half for feven days.
We weighed and flood to the N. W. and on the 18 of \(\mathcal{F}\) une fell into the Icc, and lay there in fight of Land, here the Mafter told Nichoias Simmes, thar there would be a breaking up of Cheits to fearch for Bread and willed him if be had any, to bring it to him, whereupox he delivered the Matter 30 Cakes in a Bag. This Deed of the Mafter (if urue) hath made me ofren to wonder, why he did nor fooncr prevent the Hunger we now endured, bur ler is grow to that extremiry, as. to cautethe overthrow of himfif and many others.
Being thus in the lice on Sacerday 21 it of fune at Night, Wrifon the Boatwain and Hext Gefirin came to me lying in my Cabinlame, and toly \({ }^{\text {site }}\) the they and their Atrociares would hift the Comp ary all the fick Meninio the Shatlot, and let them filifi for themfelves; for there was not it Days Victuals deff for all the Company as that poor allowance we were at, and that thexe we lay, the Miafter not caring to go one way or other; and what they had noe earen any thing thele three days, and were therefore refolved cither to mend, or end, and whar ther had begun, they would go thro' wish ic, or dye. When I heurd this, 1 rold them I marvelled to hear fuch uingsfrom them; confidering that they were married Men, and had Wayes and Childern, and that for their fakes they hould nor commitiofula a Sir in the fight of Goa and Man; for why thould whe banith thar we killsd above a hundred dozen, beffdes others of funciry forts. The Spring approaching, tie Partridges left wis, and were fuccecded by other Fowl, as Swans, Gecie, Ducks, and Teal, but hard to come by. They came from the South andflew to the North; but if they be taken hort by a Northerly Wind, then they fall and ftay tillithe Wind ferve them, and then fly to the Narthwars. As the Summer came on, thefe Fowls were gone, and few or none to he icen. Fiten we Cearched the Woads, Hills and Vajeme for anstigy mat might lerve for Food, thoud the the (in the time of their cingy \({ }^{\text {ch }}\) nort thents were noiparmons is brourit horm erse firec, full of a Tursentinef ftance ; of this our strgeon made a Decoction to drink and applici the Buds hortofich as were troubled with Aches in any parióf their-Bodics; and I muft confcts I recivedintis nd pticent eafe of my pair
As toarto thet teadegine break our of the Bays, a Savare cirme to ofistatifbeing the firt we had feenin all this time. Our Mafterencertaincd him well, promiting to himelf great Matters by his means, and therefore would hare no his own ufe, all the Knives and Hatchets Whichevery dian hat, bue reccived none, except from Foinh Kirg, the Carpenter, and my felf. To this Savage our Mafter gave a Kuife, a Looking-glafs and Burtons, who reccived themthankfully, and made fipas; that themfelves from their Native Country ? Whangigreen bid Quarter-mafter rofe and went into the Hold to give him me hold my peace, for he knew the wofflywhich was, no be hanged when he came home, and thefefore of the two, he would rather be hanged at home, than ftaryed abroad, but for the good willthey bare me, they would haveme to ftay in the Ship. I tharkikd them, and cold them I came into her, not to forfake her, yer not to hurs my felf and others by any fuch decd. Heny Green anfwered, that then I muft take my fortune in the Shallope If there be no remely (faidI) the will of Godbe done.

\section*{Chap. XXI. Hudfon's Veyage for the difcovery of a N.W. Paffage. 569}
Away wont Green in a rafc, Swearing to cur lis Throat thas hould go abour to difturb them, and left wifin with me, with whom I had fome difcourfe, bur could not prevaid with him, for he was perfwaded that there was trow no Remedy. but to go on while it was hot L.ft their pasty frould fail them, and the mifchicf they intended to others, mould fall on themfelics. Green returned, and demanded of him what I faid; Wi.fom ant fwered, he is inhis old Song, ftill patienr: Then I defired Creen roftay threc days, in which time I would fo deal witl: the Mafter, that all hould be well; whenthey would nor yield to that, I defred them to forbear but two dajs, xay, twelve Honss, but they replied, that there was no way bur to do is our of hand. I then told them, that if chey would fay rill" \(\lambda\) funder. I would join with them to hare ali the Victuals in the Ship, and would jultify it when I came home; bur this would not fatisfy them; wher fore I told them, they had fome wortemar ter in hand than chey made ihew of, and thar it was Blood and Revenge thicy fought, or elfe they would not ar fuch a time of Nighe undeirake fucha. Decd: Where upon Greentrook up my Bible that lay. Before me, and was for the good of the Voyage; apar porge, and that ail the reft frould do the fikery the fanks.
Grecr wenc away, and prefenty cartion, bo be saufe he was an anciemt Man, I hoped to hive found more moderate; ; but he was worfethan Green, and fwor plainly that he woutd juftify this Deed when he thould come home. Afrer him came 7 obu Thomass and Michere Perce, Birds of a Feather, of whom I fhall fay no more, becaufe they are fince dead. Laftly came Meter and Benmet, of whom I demanded, if they were well advifed what they had taken in hand: They anfwered, they werc and therefore came to take their Oaths.
Now, becaule I am much condemned for this Oarh as one that plotred with them, and that by an Oath I thould bindrhem rogecher to perform what they had begun. I thoughe good ro fet down to the view of all, how well their-Deeds agreed, with their Oath, which wa chis, You batl fwarr truth to Goid, your Prince and Ccan; ;ors Joal do nothing hat to the clory of Ggd, aind the Gond of etre Altion in bathe, and berne to no Mant. This was the Oath without adding or dimininhing: I expected more of their Companions, but there came no more. Ir was then dark, and they in a readinefs to pur this Deed of Darkners in exccution. I called to Green and Ftilfen, and prayed them nor no go in band with is in the dark, but to tay till Morning: I hoped thar every Mian would go to his reft, bur wickednefs leeps not for Greonksps the Mafter company all Nighr, and others were as watchfulas he. Green brought me fome bread which his Cabin-Mare gavehim, and I then asked him whom he would pur oar with the Mafter; he faid, the Carpenser, and Jobn King, and the fick Man. I faid des would not do weil to part with the Carpenter, becanfe they knew norwhat need they might have of him. The reafon why they hadino more regard for the Carper: ret, was, becaule he and folm King were condemned for wrome doncinthe Victual ; burche chief caufe was becaufe the Mafter loved him, and (dipplacing Robert Bilfer when we came from our winuring place) had made him his Mare, at which the Confírators did grtage, beciufe he could neition write nor read; and faid, that the Mafter and histignorant Mate would carry the Ship whechicr the Mafter pleafed, the Mafter forbidding any Manto kecp accountor reckoning, and having takenfrom all Men, whatinererimight ferve for that purpofe. At latt Iobtained of Green and trillion that the Carpenter foould ftay in the Ship, by whofe means I hoped that the Mafier and the poor lick Man might be raken into the Ship again. This Night folin King waslate up, and they thoughr he had been with the Mafter, but he was with the Carpenter, who lay on the Roop, and coming down from him, wasmer by his Cabin-Niare Ravart Biller, as if is had been by chance, and fo they went to their Cabin togerher. Is was nor lone ere ir was day, then came Bemer the Cook fer Wa:er for the Ketric, Kine the forme, and wheshe was in, che Hatch was fuut upon him (but who kepr irdown I know nos) and scumer returned apon the Dcck.
In the mean rime Green and another went to the Car pencer, and he!d him in tatk, tilithe Mafter caific out of is Catin (which lie fonn did) then fain Thernes and Betmer cance before ham, while ofteret lound his Atms behind him. Hea.ked them whar they meams they mold him he nould know when the came into the shallon. While this was doing, fort went to 701 or Kin in the Hold, who was provided for him, having gottmas word and had killed him if oclecrs had not coine to telp him. The Mafier called to the Carpenter, and tod him that he wastound; buc theard no.anfoter ine made, An:oh, I.cdto and Micorel Buce were all rhis while railine ar Grcenand his Companions, telling him that their Villiny would hew it felf. Then was the Shallop haled up the Ships fide, and the poor fich and lame Men were called upon to come out of their Cabins sinno the Shallop. The Maiter salled to me to fpeak with him at the rlatch way. 1 canc out as well as I could, andmon my Knces bfoughthem for the love of God to remenber themclves, and to coas they would be done unto. They bid me kecp my felf well, and get me into my Cabin, and would nor fuffer che Matter no focak witin me; bucas he went over che fide, he called to meat the Fiora which gave light into my Cabin, and told me that tict would overthrow us all; Nay, fadd I, it is that Villain Henr Grecr.
The Carpenrer, who was all this while at liberty, asked them if they would be hanged when they came home, and as forkimiclf, he faid, he would not ftay in the Ship unlefs they would force hum: They bid him go then, for they wou'd not ftay him. I will (faid he) to I may have my Cheft and all shat is in it: They fa:d he ihould, and prefendy they pur is inco the Sitaliop. Then he came down tome to take his leave of me; I urged him toftay, which if he did, he mighe fo work thar all thouldbe well. He \{aid, he believed they would be glad to rake them in again (being perfiwaded be the Mafer that there wasnorone is all the Ship that conld tidl how to carry her home) but if we mutt parr, faid he, which we will not willingly do, for we will follow the Ship) he prayed me, if we came to the Capes. before them, that I would leave fonetoken that we had been there, near to the place where the Fowls breed, and he would do the like for us; and fo with tears we parted. Now were the fick Men driven out of their Cabins into the Shallop; bur folm Ttomas having a kindnefs for Finnis Clenentry and Bennet for the Cooper, fomic high words paffel between them and Grein; who faid they thould go, and the other fyore they fhould not 50 , bur uch as were in the Shaliop thould rerumn. When Gicem heard thar, he was compelled to give place, and to put out Arvold Lodlo and Michacl Bufe, which with much ado was done.
Now were all the poor Men in the Shallop, whofe thane were, Henry Hudfor, Fohn Hudfon, simold Lodir, Sidrach Fancr, Pluilip Siaff, Carpenter, Thomas Lrydonfé; Alfm Most, Hemy King, Michasi Buec. The Carpenter got of thema Peece, and Powder, and Shot, fome Pikes, anIron Por, with fome Meal and other thiags. They then ftood out of the Ice, the Shallop being faft to the Stem of the Ship, and as foon as they were our, they cur her Headfaft from che Stern, and out with their Topfails; and ftood towards the Sea in a clear Sea : Then raking in their Top-fails, ther righred their Helm, and lay pader their Fore-fail citt they liad ranfached and ferched all places in the Shipt In, the Hold they found one of the Yeffels of Mcal whole, and tbe other halr pent, fer we had but two; we found alfo two Firkins of Butter, 27 pieces of Rork, and a Pullel of Pcafe; had fied from an Enemy:
Then I prajed them yet to remember themfelics; bus Thliam Hitilfin (more than the reft) would hear of no uch matter. Coming zigh the Eaft Shoar, they can abour and food to the Wef, ard anctioning near an I. fland, fer the Boar and Ner athoiar, to fee if. they could have a draughr, but could not for Rocks and greas Stones. Hore they gathered good fore of that. Weed which wecalled Cockle-grafs in cur winering place; and we iay thererhar Night and bef part of nexe day, in all which time we faw nor the Shalop, nor ever faw her aficr. Hentr Grcen came to me and haid, thar is was the Companics Will; thar I fiould come up into the Mafter's

Cabiv,

Cabin, and take charge of it. I told himit was more fic for Robere fuet; he faid, he thould nor conve inro ir, nor meddle with the Mafter's Card or Journals: So I wenr ur, and Grecen gave me the Ficy of the Mafter's Clicft, (a) ing, that he had laid the Malter's beft things torecther which he would ufe himelf when time thould ferve ; the Bread was alfo delivered to me by tale.
The Wind ferving we food to the North-calt, and his was Rubert billess courfe, conisary to fiere, who would have gone to the North-weft. Wis had a flout Galc of Wind in the Night, and ftood afore it till we mes with Ice, into which we ran till we conld get no further: 1 lay fo thick a hatad of us, and the Wind brought it after us aftern, thar we could nos thir lackward nor forward bur lay cmbaycd it days in worle lec than we had hicherto met with; for sho' we had been where there was greater ftore, yes it was not fo broad upon the Wa ecr as this. fome picess of it being half a IMule or 2 Mile incompaf. We had a decp Sca, and a Tide of Flood and Ebb, which fet N. W. and S. E. As haft, beins clsar of it, we continued our courfs in fight of tinc Eaftern fhoan, tili we raifed four Mlands which iay Niorth and South, where anchoring between the two Norther moft, we fenc our boas amoar to fec if they could find an) thing, but there was nothing to be had but Cocle-grafs whercof they broupht ftore aboard. Before we came to this piace, I could well perceive that I was keps in the Ship againh Heny Gircen's mind, becaufe Ifavoured their Procecdings no beatcr. He then began ycry fubrilly to perfwademe to take upon me to fearch for thote things which himelf had folen, and accufed me of a matrer no lefs than Treafon amongit us, that 1 had deccived the Company of 30 Cakes of Bread. They had now many Derices in their Heads, and began to ralk among themCelvesthat Englemi was no fife placefor them, and Green fwore that the Ship mould keep the Sca, and not put into ann place, till he had his Majefties Hand and Seal to thew for his fafety ; for Henry Green was now their Captain, and fo called of them.
Fiom thefe lilands we ftood N. E. and raifed thofe Inands which Mr. Hudfon callicd Rummics Inands, between which and the thallow Ground to the Eaft of them, he went down into the firft great Bay. We kept the Eatitern Shore in fighr, and coming clowart of che low land, ran on a Rock thar lay under water, and ftruck buc once, osherwife we had been made Inhabitants of that place. We continued our courfe, and raifed land a head of us, which ftretched out to the North; whereupon ti.cy faid, that Bi:ler by his Northerly Gourfe, bad lefr the Capes to the Sourh, and that it were beft to feek down to the S. in time, for relief, before all was gone, for we liad but fmall fore lefs; but Bilics would follow the L.and to she North, faying, what he hoped in God to fine fomewhat to relieve as that way as foon as to the South We ftood to the Eaft, leaving the main Land to the North and anchored in a narrow Guit between twollands. The Boat went ahoar, but found nothing but Cockle-grafs, which was a grear relief to us, for withour it, we mould hardi! have got to the Capes for want of Victuals.
The next day we weighed and doubled the Poinn of the North Land, which is high Land, and fo continues to the Capes, lying North and South 25 or 30 Leagues We frood to the North to find fore of thofe Fowls that breed in the Capes: We raifed the Capes with joy, but bearing in for chem berween therocky Iflands, we ran on a Rock that lay under waser, and chere fuck faft eight or nine Hours. It was ebbing Warer when we came on, caim and fair weather, and the Flood fer us afloat: The Fith came from the Eaft and che Flood from the Weft we food nearce to the EalternStore, and there anchored.
The next day, being the 27 thof \(\mathcal{F} \mu \mathrm{l}\), the Boat went to fetch fome Fawl: they lad a great way to row, and fo couid not rach to che place. Where the Fowlbred, but found fore of hey killed ato mad now brough and sinere anch a a Sheff of Ground in 18 or 20
 cain, anditoetnearer to the place whete theFowl bred they could nosfind ir again, norno place like it; butwere Fain to tim to and fro in the Mrarh of the Strcight in dasetr of Rocks, becaute they could not find Ground to let fill an Anctior in, the Water was fodecp.
The 2Sth the Boat went vo Digse'sCape for Fowt, and thade directly for char place where the Fowl bred; and heing near, faw fiven boats come aboatthe Eaftern Poins tuwards them. When the Savages faw our Boat, they clofed together, and drew theirleller Boats inro the bigger, timen rowed' rowards our Welt; our Men in the mean time made ready for all

Aftays. ntititavages came to them, and by ligns they grew famithe forse with another, fo as our Men took one of theirs intoonor Brat, and they took ons of ours into their Boat. Then they carried our Man to a Cove wheo their Tents flood, toward the Wett of tinc place where the Fowibed. Uur Boat went to the place where the Fowl bicd, and our Men were defirous to know how the Savageskilled theirs: One of them mewed the manace how, which was thus; They take a lony Tole wrin a Snare at the cond, and putting habour the Necks of the Fowls, pluck them down. Our Mien fherved the Savaic the uic of our Pieces, which at one thot would kill fiven or caght. Our Boar's-Crew went tu their Cove fus our Man and to deliyer theirs ; when they came theSa; ages made great ioy, with dancing, leaping, and troaking their Bralts; they offered divers things to our Mach, who took only fome Morfos Tecth in cxchange for a Knife and two Glais Butrons; and having reccived our Man, they cams aboard, much rejoicing at tinus chatice, as if they had mest with the molt limple and kind Pcople in we World.
The next day bcing the 29th of \(\mathcal{F}\) uly, they waigined anchor, and ftood as near to the place where the howl bred as chey could, and becaule l was lame, I was to go in the Boar, to carry fuch things as I had in the greas Cabin, under my care, of cyery thint fomewhat; and fo with more hait than good fpeed ( and noot withour IWeating) away we went, Henry Grest, William Wifon Fobn Tismar, Micijaci ferfe, Andrew Moter, and my felf When we camencar the Stiozx, the People were on the Hills, dancing and leaping; we came to the Cove where they had drawn uptrier Boats, and brougin ous Boat to the Gide of the Cove, clofe tothe Rocks. Afhoar they went, leavingine in the Boat, which they faftned to a grear forme Shoar. The Pcople came, and every one, de the iariahis Hand to barter; burGrecn fwore ché a mpex pepothing till he had Venifon, for fo theyby, ad promiled him. As foon as our Mcn werc landed; the Savages made figus to their Dogs (wherenf there were many like Mungrels, bur as bis Hounds) and pointed to cheir Mountain and to the Sun clapping their Hands, Green, Tinomas, and Witlon ftool band by the Boat's Head, Perfe and Mot.r were gor up on che Rocks, gathering Sorrel; nor one of ther had any Weapon abour him, nor fo much as a Srick, fave Henry Green only, who had a piece of a Pike in his Hand; nor faw I any thing the Savages had wherewithal to hurt us. Green and Wilfon had Looking-Glafles, Jews-Trumps and Bells, whiththey were thewing to the People, and while the Savages wereftanding round abour chem, one of them cameinto the Boat's Head to me to fhew me 2 Botrle: I made figns to him to ger him ahoar, but he made as tho' he had nor undentood me, whercupon I tood up and pointed him afhoar; in the mean timeano surv ther ftole behind me to che Srern of the Boar, and as foan Nredict. as I faw him anoar that was in the Head of the Boar, I fate down again, when fuddenly I faw the Leg and Foot of a Man byme, and calting up my Head, faw a Savage with his Knife in his Hand, who ftruck ar my Breaft o. ver-my Head; I catting up my Righr-arm to fave my Breaft, he wounded my Arm, and fruckme into the Body under my right Pap; he made a fecond blow, which met with my Lctt-hand, and then he wounded mic in the Right-thigh,and had like to cur off the little Finger of my Letr-hand, I gothold of the String of the Knifes and had wound ir abour my Lefr-hand, and he Ariving with borh his Hands to make an end of whar he had begum found him but weak in the gripe (God cuabling me) and getring hold of cheSlecve of his Left-arm, bore him fom me; his left-fide chen lay bare tome, which when Iaw, I held che Scring of theKnife fartinmy Left-hand, and having my Right-hand at liberty, I foughe for fomewhat to frike him (nor remembring my Dagger as my ide) but looking down 1 Caw, it, and cherewich itrack him into the Body and the Throat.
While I was thus affaulted in the Boar, our Men were fct upon on the Shoar, Fobn Ibomas and Whiliam Willon had their Bowelscur, and Micbael Perfe and Herry Grein cing mortally wounded, came sumbling into she Boas ogetiker; Andrew Mceer feeing what hat happencu, came running down the Rocks, and leaping into the Sea, fwam to the Boat, hanging on the Siern thercof till Miclacl Perfetookhim in, who manfully defended the Head of the Boat 2gainft the Savages that preffed fore upnus: I faw him ftrike one of them with a Hatches, thas he lay fprawling, in the Sa; Green cricd Corat: \(a\), and aid abour him with his Trun theon; I called to them to clear the Boar, and Andrew Moter callel to be taken in. The Savages then betook them to their Bows and Arrows, which they font among us, and Rew licn: Green out-xight ; Micluct Perfe, who had received many wounds, cleared the Boat, and put it from the Shoar, and helped Andect Meter in. In turning of the Boar, I received a crucl wound in my Back with an Arrow. Perfe and Mom ter rowed the Boar away, which when the Savages kaw, they ran to their Poats, and I feared they wonld have bumehed them to follow us, but thicy did nor. Oiur Ship was all this whale in the midlle of the Chancl, and could nor fee us.
When they had rowed a cood way from the Shoar, Miclacel Peyfe fainted, and could row no more; then was Ansicts Moter forced to ftand in the Boat-head, and waft to the Slip, which at firt faw us net, and when they did, they cound not tell what to make of us ; but in the ctr thacy ford fior us, and fo trok us up. Hem, Green was chrown out of the hoat into the Sea, and the ref were put abnard, the Savare being yer alive, jer without fenfe; but they died all there that day, withinm wilfon livearing and curfing in a molt fearful mannct; Michact Perfocmly lived two daysafter, and then died. Thus you have heard the trapical end of Hent Green and his Mates, whom they callci Captain, thefe four being the only luity Men in all the Ship.
The noor number that wereleft, were to ply our Ship to and fro in the Mouth of the Streight there being no place to anchor in near hand; befides, chey weretoso in the Boart to kill Fowl no bring us home, which they did, alcho' with grear danger to us all; for if the Wind blew, there was an high Sca, and the Fddies of the Tides would carry the Ship fo ncar the Rocks, as it frighoned our Mafter Reberc Bilice, for fo I will now call him. After they had with grear labour killed abour 200 Fowls on the Sonch Cape, we ftood to the Eaft, bur when we wexc fix pr feren Lcagues from the Capes, the Wind came up at Eaft, whereupor we fto to the Capss again, and killed 1 co Fowls mite ait the Wind coming at Wctt, we food along the \(\mathrm{N}_{\text {. }}\), Shoar, till we fell into broken ground abour the Queen's" Forcland and there anchored.
Thence we went to the Illand of Gods Mercies, and fo to the Illards in chic Mouth of the Streight, not feeing the Land till we wicre ready toxan our Boats-fpir againft the Rocks in a Fog. As foon as ir cleared a lietle we faw our felves incloted with rocky lilands, and could find no ground to anchor inn. We ftood to the Eaft, and pur our felves to hard allowance of half \({ }^{2}\) Fowl a day; with the Portage, having nothing now left of our old ftores, bur fome Meal; we made crial of every thing that was earable; we flaid oor Fowls, for we could not pull thein, and burning the Feathers, eat the Skins, nor was the Garbidge thrown away.

We continued our Courfe E. S. E: co raife the Dsfolations, and thence to fhape our Courfe for freland; bat che Wind coming againit us, we altcred our Courfe, by the perfwation of kobert firte, who told us that we fhould and great relicf in Nemfound-land, if our Country-men whe there; and if they were gone before we came, we thould find great ftore of Bread and Filh left athoar by them; fo we food to theS. W. ro 57 Des. when by the will of God the \({ }^{W}\) ind came up as S. W. Then the Mafter asked ane if he thould take the benefic of this Wind, and hape his Courfe for Ireltred. It tod him I thonghe it host togo where wekew Corngrew, and ane to feck it where it was caft away, and not to be fomed. So we ftond cowaitls Ireiand, with profperous Winds for many days trgether. Nu: was all uur Mcal ipene, and our Fowl rufty and dry; bur, there being no reinedy, We were content with the fale Brorh fior Dintere, and a half Fowl forSupper. Next weatotr Candlesto wrack and Benner our Cork made a Mefs of Meat of the Rones of our Fowl, fyying them with Candle-greaje till they were crifp, and with Vincgar put to them, nade a good Oith of Aiciat. Our Vinegar was hlared, and to cvery Man a Pound of Candles for a Wcek, as a grear Dainry Robert lert reckoned us to be within 60 or 70 l cagues of relind, when we had 200 thither. ' \(I\) is probable our Courfe was fomewhat the longer, by reabon of our bad ftecrage; for our Men were fo wak that they could nor ftand at the Helm, but were fain to fir.
Then Rnvers fyet died for meer want, and all our Men wercin difpair, faying, we were paft l.chmad, and surbatt Fowl were now in the Sreep-tub. The Maftex was much grievad to fee his Men in this condition, for orne of the:n would ficand fee the Fore-fail or Mainail fly up to the Tops, the Sheces being broken, and would neither help it themfelves, nor call to others for help. Now in this extremiry ir pleafed God to give us fight of Land, not far from the place our Mafter faid be would fall withal, which was the Bay of Galloway whercas we fell ro the Weft of the Derfes, and fo ftood along by the Coaft to the \(S\). W. In the end there was 2 joyful cry, A Sail a Sail, towards which we food, and called to him; his Bark was of Forpy, and was as anchor a.filhing. This Man carried us into Berc Haven, where we ftaied a few days, and dealt with the Irifh to fupply our Wanss, but found no rclicf; for in this place there was neither Bread, Drink, nor Moncy ; wherefore they advifed us to deal with ous Counrry-mon, who were there a firbing, which we did, but found the:n fo cold in kindnefs, that they would do nothing withour prefens Money, whereof we hadnone in the Ship. As laft one zobm Wrymouth, Mafter of the Bark that broughr us into this Harbour, furnifhed us with Money, and received ourbeft Cableand Anchor ini pawn for the fame. With chis Money our Mafter boughr Bread, Beer, and Beef of the Mafters of Come Veffels that were there finhing.
We agreed with fome of our Country-men to give them 3 1. tos. 2 Man to bring our Ship to Plimoutis or Dartmouth, and to give the Pilor 5 l . The Men would not go with us, unlefs whym uth would pais his Word for their Wages, which by the parwatron of one Captain Taylor (who was much ourtixiend) he did, and acceptcd of a Bill forour Cable and Anchor; 2 and fo from Berf Haven we came to R Plimenth.

\section*{С н а Р. XXII.}

A Note found in the Desk of Thomas Wydomfe, Student in the Mathematicks, being one of thofe who was put into the Shallop.

HHE roth of September, i6io, afrer Dinner, Mr. Hudfon, our Mafter, called all the Company together, at the requett of Robert Foet, that the Mafter might redrefs fome Abufes and Slanders (as he called them) raifed againt him, the faid foct, by fome of the Company; and after a full hearing fo many and great Abufes; and mutinotus Marters againft the Mafter and the Action, were proved againft Ivet, that there was danger to have fuffered them longer, and ir was fir time to punim and cur off further Occafions of the like:Mutinie;
I. It was proved to his Face by Benner Mrether our Trumpecer, thac upon our firft fight of 1 fland, he rold the faid Binuer, he believed that in the Voyage there would be Manflaughter, and that it would prove bloody to fome.
Muthe our coming from \(\mathrm{I} / \mathrm{anid}\) in bearing of the Compans, he did threatento turn the Head of the Shap home from the Action; which Words were at that time by ous Mafter, wifcly pait by, in hones of amendnacint
III. It was depored by Philip Staff our Carpenter, and \(A\) rrud L L d 4 , to his Face upon the Holy Bible, that be advifed them to kecpSwords in their Cabitrs, and Mufkets ready, for they hould be charged with Shot ere the Voyage were over.
IV. We being pefter'd in the lee, he had ufed murinous Words, tending to the difcouragemerre and lander of the Action, which cafily took effect in thofe that were cimerous; and had noithe Mafter in time preyented in, might cafily have orcichrown the Voyage ; and now late ly being embayed ina deep Bay, which the Mafter had a defire to fee, for Reafons beft known to himfelf, his

Wordsa tended alrogether to put the Company into a mutiny, by telling shem of winering in cold, and jefting at our Matter's hope of fecing Bantam by Cancmas
For thefe and divers other bafc Slanders againft the Mafter, he wasdepoied, and Kebers Biller, who bad be haved himfelf honeftly, refpecting the good of the Action, was made Mafter's Mate in his fead
Alfo Framis Ciement the Boarfwain, was ar this time pue from his office, and wfillian ifill fon, a Man thoughe more fir, preferred to his place: This Manhad bafcly car ried himrelf to our Malter and to the Action
Aradretw Morer was appointed Boatrwain's Mate, and a Promide from the Mafter, that from this day luer's Wages Thould remainto Biller, and the Boatfwain's overplus of Wages thould be equally divided between wilfom and Foim King, one of the Quarter-mafters, as the Owners hould think fic.
The Mafter promifed, that if the Offenders fhould behave themfelves henceforth honeflly, be would endeavour their Good, and forger Injurics.

\section*{Снар. XXIII.}

\section*{The Ten feveral Voyages of Captain Thomas Edge and others to Greenland (called by-the Dutch Spitsbergen) at the (harge of the mor/bipful Mufcovia Co wang.}

IN he Year 1510, the Company fer our two Ships Tit, che Lionecs, Themas Eitge Mafter, for Clueric Iiland, called by the Dutch Bear-IIAand, in Latirude of 74 Degress; and thic \(A\) mity for 2 Northern difcovery, wheccof Genas. Rool was Mafter, who in the Month of \(M\) May fell with a Land, and called it Greentand the Year 1553. This Ship contunuid on the Coaft, difcovering the Harbours and killing of Morfes, uncil the Monith of Ahgulf, and rhen recurned for England, having gotten 12 Tuns of Goods and an Unicorn's Horn.

In the Year 16 nf, the Company fer forth two Ships for Greenicinil, the Mary MA. gitree 160 Tuns, Tboonas Edge Máfer, and the Elitabocti, 60 Tuns, Fonas Pool Mafter. They departed from Blackori'the 2oth of April and acuivedat the Forciersd in Grecniend, in Latitude of 79 Degrecs, the zoth of May following. This being the frit Year the Company fet out for the killing of Whales in Grectlend, they fene aboard. the Adminal fix. Bijc:iners, expere in killing Whalcs, who on the 12 th of Fune killed a mall. Whale, yiclding iz Tuns of Oill being tie fiff Oil that cver was made in Greenland.
Two Shallops which they had fet up, went to fcarch th Fiarbours for Whales, and the \(\approx 5\) th of \(\mathcal{F}\) unce, rowing into Sir Ticnies Smiti's Bay, fay grcat ftore of Sea-borfes or \(M_{2}\) fos, and prefently rowing to the Ship, which was feren Leagues ofi, acquaineed Capeain Edge whar they bac' found, who ordered the Mafter ro take 50 Tuns of empry Castss into the Ship, and fail into Fcul Sound, the Caparin in the mesn tine taking wiith him fix Men, with Liences, went away in onc of the Shallops, and coming to the Morfes, fot on them, and killed 500 , and eff abour 1000 alive place whete che Morfes wete killed, moft of the Menbelonging to the Ship went alloar to work and make Oil of the \(\lambda\) Sorics, and when they had wrought two or three dars, a fmall quanciry of Icc came our of Foul Sound, and pur the Ship from her Moring. The Mafter and ten Men jeing then*aboard the Ship, let go the Sheet An chor, which broughrithe Ship ap to xide; but the Ice them at Sea . Then dividing his Men into themis equally; wich as much Victuals as they could well cañoz affer Prayers faid altogecher on the Land, they departed from the place where they loft their Ship the is of fuly; with: 2 Southerly Wind, being \(5 \circ\) Perfons, and after rowing 40 or 50 Leaguesm the Souchward; thcy loft company of iwo of their Boass, which meeting with a Hump Ship. acgaainted him with the lofs of the Londom Ship, and that fic had lefic on land, Goods worth 15001 . To thof Men condurted the हrull Ship to Foul Sound, to take in the Companies Goods, and to kill Morfes for themfelves. The othes three purf from the Coaft of Greminnd, and fee their Courfe for cheric-IInand, fometimes failing, and rometimes rowing, where arriving the 2gth of \(\mathcal{F u l y}\), in 2 great ftorm at N. W. having been \(x_{4}\) days at Sea, with muct difficulty they landed on the South fide of the illand.
Being on Shoar, Captain Edge fent rlarecof his Sailors Fse if the Eliz cobeth worth Road, threc Miles diftant, to hic NorR Eizaberh was there; they Law a Ship riding in he North Roack, and being overjoyed, returned to the Captuin to acquaint him with it, without faying to peak with nay of the Elizabbetb's Company ; but by good hap, the Mafter of the Elizabeth, who was then weighing Anchor to fer fail for England, efpicd Men on the Shoar, upon which he ftaied, and fent the Boar an hooar to fec what Mcr they were; and the Elizabetl's. Men coming afloax, and finding themi to be the Men of the Mary Margaret, haftened back to acquairs the Matar, who immediarely weighed anchox, and came to the South of the IAand, and rook in Captain Edge with his Company, who undertanding what a poor Voyage the Elì abect, had made, gave order to the Mafter ro fail for Greenland, there to take in fuch Goods as the faid Capain had lefr in Foul Sound. They departed from ChericINand the firl of Auguff, and arrived at Foul Sound Itfe 24th. where they found the Crew of the two Boatis which had been feparated from them ar. Sea, and were Fill kafe aboard the; Frull Ship. The Cargo which the Elizalesh had broughr from Cheric-INand, confifing of Ca-horf-hidesand Blubber, being litule worth, Caprain Edge ordered the Mafter to clear bis Ship of it, and to take in the O il and Whale-fins left altoar by the Mery Margarer's Company, and the Matter in unlading his Ship, broughr her folight, thar he overfer her. Both the London Shipsithus loff, Captain Edge agreed wirh ffie the blacia M Irer of the Hill Ship, totike in the Goods that, tere Gertmberin being 90 Ment a anived 35 Hull the fixth of September, F6:

\section*{Chap. XXIII. The Ten /everal Voyages of Tho. Edge, Ec.}

The Company fer forth two Ships the next Year, the to mect with two of his Conforts, which he had lof the 1612. iffole 160 Tuns, aud the Sca-liorfe 130 Tuns, ander the command of 7 olon R Rufer and Themas Edgr, in which Voyage they killed 17 Whales and forme Sea-horfes, whercof they made 180 Tunsof Oil. This ycar a Ship of Holland was conducted to Grecninnd by one Sallowes an Eng lifs-man, who had becn for many Years cmployed by the if foovian Company in the Northern Ycas, and leaving his Counery for debr, was entertaincd/by the Hollanders as Pilot to Crecnlamd; hut the Companics two Ships mecting with the Dured Ship, commanded them to depart, and to frequent thofe larts 10 móre. There was alfo a \(S_{p}\) : \(/ f h\) Slup arrived there, whercof one woodeock was Pilor, who had formerly been employed by the Company, upon whofe complaint bie was imprifoned 16 Months at his return ro England, for conducting the Spa* nifp Ship chither: This Ship got her full lading in Greenbidrlonur.
The next ycar the Company fet ont Keven Ships, under command of Benjamin \(\operatorname{Fivep}\), and Tbemas Edyc, who departed from Grainfond the a6th of April, and arrived in Grecninnd the 4 4h of May. The Company had now obtained the King"s Patent under the Broad Seal of Eurhaml, forbidding all Strangers and others, except fuch as were of the Company, to ufe the Coatt of Grecnland. The Emgiff met with 15 Sail of great Ships, two whereof were D:act, the reft were Ficuch, Spanifh, and four Englife Intcrlopers. The Companics Ships forced dicm all from the Coaft, nor fuffering any of them to rmake a Voyage, and rook foine Goods from the two Dutch Ships, whercby they loft their owntime of fithing, and renurncd home with rwo or three hundred Tuns dead Fraight. This Year was Hope-Illand, and orher Illands to che Ealtward, difcovered by the Company.
In the Xear following, the Company fer our 13 great \(161+\) Ships and two Pinnaces, under command of Benjamin Fopsphand Thomas Edge, well appointed with all manner of Arrillicry. The Hollanders alfo fer out 18 great Ships, whercof four were of the States Men of War, and being much fronger than the Eingtifh, they ftaied and filhed for the Whale by force, whereby the Englifh returned halt laden, and the Dutch made but a poor Voyage. This Ycar Thomas Sberwin and EVIlliamBaffin, employed by the Company, in the Ship Thomazen, difcovered rothe Northwards, as far as 80 Dcg . odd Min.
The nexr Ycar the Company fet out two Ships and \(\sim_{15}^{1615 .}\) two Pinnaces, under the Command of Eenjamin Fofcpl and Thomas Edge, who arriving on the Coaft of Grecn-land the fixth of \(\mathcal{F}\) rme, found it much pefter'd with Ice, and being fogsy weather, fan into it fo far, that they were faft in it 14 days before they cofind clear chemfelves of \(i t\). The Hollanders alfo fet our 14 Sail, whercof three werc Stares Men of War, of grear force: They killed Whaics in Forn Sound, Bell Sound, and Exir Haven, whereby the Englifh rerurned balf laden. This Year alfo the King of Denmark fent three of his Men of War ro Grecrland (whereof one Vaden an Englift-mana was Pilot ) to demand Toll of the Englifh, who mecting with Caprain Edge as a Fore-land in 79 Deg. he refufed to pay themany Toll, alledging that Greenland belonged to the King of Englend: Thele were the firt Denifh Ships chat cuer came to Grecnland.
The Company now fet our eighr great Ships, and two 1616. Pinnaces, under the Command of Thomus Edge, who arrived in Grcenland the fourth of Fune, and laded all their Ships with Oil, and what their Ships could not take in, they lefrbehind chemi in the Country. One of the Pinnaces of 20 Tuns and 22 Men , ditiovered the Eaft part of Greenlend, as far as 78 Dcgrecs, and killed a thouland Sca-horfis on Edge's Inland, and brought their Tecrla to Lordon. This Year the Company had made IA or 1300 Tuns of \(O y\) in Greenland by the 1 th day of Aus \(x\) f \(A_{\text {, }}\) and was the firft tear whercin all their Ships \(\pi\) turned with full lading: They all arrived in the Thames in Seprember. The Hollenders had this Xear but four Ships in Grecniand, and made but a poor Voyage.

The Company fer our i4 Ships well manned, under 1617. the Command of Captain Edge, who departed from Gravefind the 24th of April, and anrived in Greenlend the 28 th of May, wheric meecing a Durch Ship of 200 Tuns, heconmanded the Mafter aboard, who told him there were ten fail of Dutch upon the Coant, and two Men of War. Caprain Edge fhewed him the KYing's Commiffion, and commanded him by virtue thereof to depart, the Coaft, willing him to acquaint the xeft of his Councry men with it; and further told him, thar if he mer with him, or other Dutch Ships hereafter, he would rakefrom them whar they had gorren; and having entertained him courtcoufly, difmiffed him withour raking any thing from him. The Dutcl-mana promifed to dtay no longer than day before, and would then go directly for fulthing, and acguaine his Merchants that the Englifh would not fuffer him to ftay upon the Conft of Grecmend; but mecting wirh his Conforts, they agreed to go all together into Horn Somnd, where they killed a few Whales, which they raved in Blubber. Captain Elege hearing of it, ordered his Vicc-admiral to fril to flun Sound, and put the Flcmings from thence, and take what they had gorten, which he did accordingly, but the Goods he rook from them being nothing bur Blubber and Fins, were not worth 20 . to the Englifh, who had altcady killed as many Whales as would lade all their Ships. The Eingiifh made this Ycar \(10^{\circ 0}\) Tums of Oyl, and all their Ships arrived fafely in Ampland seftember. This Year the Fill Men (who always followed the. Secpis of the Lendoners) Iet out a himall Ship or two to the Ealtward of Grecnland, where the Company hiid difcovered Wirches Inand, and many other 1 Nands as far to the Northwards as 79 Degrees, and after a Ycar or two, the kialt Mcn gave out that they were the firtt Difowerers, which is falle and untrue, as by Oath in the Admirally doth appear: The Duth likevife practice the fame Courfe.
The Zealanders fending over to Engiand for teftitution of the Goods taken from them by the lingiifh the lait Ycar, a Grant for a new Company, confinting of Engifh, Scoss, and Eclandres, was procurcd by Sir \(701 m\) Cuminusham, and many of the Old Companies Servanss were hired by the New, and much Shipping and Provilions agrecdfor; which Project, if is had taken effect, might have urterly ruined the Trade of the firt Difiocerers. To avoid this Inconvenience, is was agreed that the Scor's Patent ihould be diffolved, and that the E.r:-Intica Adventurers fhould join frock with the Nidfowian, and become one joint Company for the Trade of Greemiami: They fer forth 13 Ships and two Pinnaces, under the command of the aforefaid Captain Edge, who arriving onthe Coaft the beginning of \(\mathbf{F}^{\text {unc, }}\), feparared themfelves to fevcral Harbours, the mot part being Ships of no force. Soon after, divers Ships of zeaiand of grear force, arrived in all the Harbours where the Eng \(/ i / 3\) were, with full purpofe to drive them thence, and to revenge the lnjury (as they termedir) done to them the laft Ycar, by taking Goods out of the Zealand Shup, as alfo by diffolving the Scottifh Patent, whercin many ficmings were intereficd. And accordingly ten fail of zelonders did fer upon William Freley, Vice-admiral of the Englifh uttcring many uncivil Specches 2gainft his Majerty, and defpifing his Commiffion; alledging, that there was gond Law in Flanders for whar they did. The Englifh defended themfelves cill moft of their Men were killed or wounded; and being at laft forced to fubmir, the चenlanders rifled theirShip, taking from rhem all their Goods and Artillery; and burning fuch Goods as were on the Shoar. The reft of the Eng lifh Ships being far difperfed, could nor join togecher, and were in all places over powercd by the Flemings, to the great lofs and charge of the Company, moft of their Ships returning home withour any Goods.
This Ycar the Muforvia and Eaff-India Companies fer out nine Ships and two Pinnaces, under the command of Captain Edge, firc of which went to the two Northex moit Harbours, bur were difappointed in their Expecta cion, dy reafon of divers Holland Ships, which twere ar rived there before them. Whereupon the Stiallop. with ten Men was fent from Captain Heley to acquaint Cap tain Edge with their ill fuccefs; which Shallop was calt away, and all the Menloft, to the grear hindrance of the Voyage. The Hollanders this Year brought over grear quantiry of Whale Oil, and fold it at under rates, fo chat he Company. were forced ro keep theirs on their Hands wwelve Months, and fell it afterwards at a very fmall price, and loft one Ship homewagd bound near Yarmourb all which did fomuch dimeartenteing, that they though verily to adventure no more thither, their fuccefs the two years paft, in which the Enf-India Company joined wish them was fo bad; that any that would bay their Provifinn might enjoy the bencfic of the Trade thare. At which ime the worthy and famous Merchane Adventurers Ralph Frecman, Benjamin Deicrom, George Seroud, and Caprain Edgen, all Brcthren of the Mufcovia Company pitying the downfall of fo worthy a traffick, wherefn fo many poor Land-men yearly received grear comfort, and many Mariners were bred, at their own chdyge compounded with the faid Company, and took that Trade into their own Hands; and in the Year 1620 fet out even Ships under command of Hrillicm Goodial and Wi/ icm Heley, bue by reaton of Elemings and Denes in the Northormort Hartours, they returucd half laden, with 700 Tuns of \(\mathrm{O}, \mathrm{l}\).

The next Xcar, 162 s , the Adventurers aforefaid hired fint difoovery towards the South-catt of Girecnhand, in winch Voyage the Firmingsand lages being to the Northwares, had put the Whale by her Courte, whereby they Cout, that alterwaris meeting with Whales in fome Har-bunts, they broughit home iseo luns of Onl, to the freiserreuragement of the Adsentures, otherwife the Trade had been utceriy overthown.
The Xear tolluwing, 1622, the fad Adrenturers fet ont nine S!.ips, onc of the biggett of which, having in her 200 Tuns of Casks, Coppers, and divers l'torifions, was unfort unately catt away againit a pices of lec, fuur Leagues from the shoar, whercin 29 i en peribed, and 23 remaining, were iy the Providen c of God, miraculoudy faved in a Shullop, aficr they had coafted 30 Leagues to mest with lome other Ships, and werethree daysia the Shal'op, without Brest, Drink, or any manner of Siffemance: Some of their Hands and Fect rosted orf, and nany died when chey came alhoar. The rett of the Ships could not get theerfuithading, by reafon of the F, mings and banes being to the Northward; however, they mernith f.unc Whaies, and returnal home with \(13 n 0\) Tun of cyl.

\section*{A Defripa} Brat of The Nature of it is nothing like the Name, there beingno place in the Wirrd, yer difeovered, that is lefs gre en than it: Both the lower Lands and Mountains are him, and cur the Fat (which we call Blubber) into Gquare pieces with a cucting Knife threc or four Foot long; then to raze it from the Flen, there is a Crane or Captonplaced on the loop of the Ship, from whrne cheredefends a Kope, with a Hook to taic there delecnds a Kope, with a Hook to taike hold on a piece of Bhiber, and as the Men wind the Carting picce of Bhilker, and asthe Men wint the Caplom, fo Fich Cuter with his long Knitfe, looiens the liat from the Bicth, and when a picce iscir off, they ice down the Bialber tu flome upon the warer, making a hole in fome part of it to pura inope thro' ir, and 'o proceed to rite off more, fiftening ten or twenty pieces rogether to bo rowed athoar at one time at the Serrin of the lioat. Whe 2 Cranc, or arrica up is two Menoar, is trawn uphy Crage, there or co bece up by two Mon on a Barrow unto 2 Stage, there to becut more thinfinall pieses about a Foor long; thence it is carricd to the Choppersby two Boys, picce, who pur ic ind-hooks, taking in cach Hand 2 picce. who put it into half-Tubs which ftand bechind the Clinppers, who are at the fide of a Boat raifed of a the Clinppers, who are at the lide of a Boar raifed of ans equal height to the Furnace. The Bour cqual height to the Furnace. The Boar be:ing fieted he Chopming-blocks made of the Choperes they plare Blubber is os Wocks made of the Whale's Ta :l, and the Board whercon dhy ftand: Then the Choppers take it up with Hooks, and laying it on the Blecks, chop it in covered with Show till abuut the beginnirg of func. The land is very Mo:ntainvus, bearing micher Tree nor Giaf, except fuch as grows in the North of Engitud, callcd Heato or Ling. I his grows when the Sinow melts, ani the Groundlegins to be uncovered, and the Deer aind the Ground cyms to be uncovered, and the Decr fict on it in the \(S\).imaner, and become very far in a Aionth, but how they heve in Winter, is not cafy to be imagned; for the Ground being covered with Snow at: the enis of ater, it is probable that chere is no part bare in Wirter, epeciaily whule the Sun is totally deprefied

it is nerinhabited, yer poritily Men mighe live there, carruing ftore or Viciuals, and all chings neccfary againf the Cold, which mutt be vehement in Winter by reafon of the Sun's concinuing under the Horizon.

The Souchermolt parc is 1276 Deg. 30 Min. called by Raffs the Eingift, point lo \(k\) out, who have difcovered all the Weft fide as tar as 80 Deg, odd Minutes, and on the Weft fide as tar as 80 Deg. odd Minutes, and on the Eaft fade as far as 78 Deg. and had difoovercd farther Eaft fide as far as 78 Deg. and had difoovered farther, if they had nor been ditturbed by the Dutch.
A Whale of an ordinary lize is abour 55 Fontlong, ratiores of: and 35 Foot thick, hisHead is a chird part of him, conWhates and caiungg a vcry grear Tongue, and there are about 250

Fins growing on cach fide of his upper Chop, which fpread over his Tongue on boch fides of his Mouth: The longet are in the middle of his Mourh thorrning longett are in the middle of his. Mouth, thortning by his Eyes nor muct Uigger than thofe of an Ox; the furepart of his Body almoft round, growing narrower from his Belly towards his Tail, which is about 20 Foor broad, and of a rough folid fubitance, as are alfo histwo fwimming Fins. He appcars often above Watcr, fpouting eighe or nine nimes befure be goes dowin again, whereby be may be defried two or three Leagues otf. Then the Whale-killers in two Shallops row towards him but commonly he is gone down again tefore they come near him, and contumes a geod while before he rifes fo thar fumctimes tiey row beyond him. In the mean time they endeavour to find has way under water, which they call hiswake, and as fom as he comes above Water, row towards him very refolutely, and one ftanding up in the Head of the Boat, darts has Harping Iron as himi wish both Hand, wheriupon the Whale defcending to the bortom, they veer our a Rope of \(2 c 0\) Farhom, which is faftned to the Harping Iron, and lies coiled in the Boat. They let him have as much Rope as will reach to the bottom, and when they perceive him rifing, they bale inf the Rope to getnearhim, and as foorr as ic appears above water, lance him ncar his Fins, and as low under water as they can, whereupon he frisks and ftrikes with his Tail fo forcibly, that oftentimes he f flits a Shallop in picecs, and maims or kills forme of the Men; \(S\) mimming, is therefore very neceffary in this bufinefs, and may fave a Man's life when he hath loft his Boar, and another is not niar to help him.

The Whaie clurs woundel, , frouts Blood, bur before be dies, he will fometimes draw the Shallop three or four Miles from the place, and as he is dying, turns his Belly npwards; then faftening a Rope to his Tail, they tow him towards the Ship with his Tail forward: Then laying him crofs the arern of the Ship, they gee upon

Chop the Hins, which sow ast kate on his upre Whop, they are ortered in this manner. While the Whale is floating at the Stern of the Ship, they cut of his Head, androw it with a Boat as near the Shoar as it will come; but it will be a ground in 12 or 13 Foor WaMer; then at high Warer they draw it near the Shoar, that Men ar low Water may cut off the Blubber and Fins, which are drawn afhoar by the Cranes, and the Fins being fevered with Axes, are miadeclean, and packed up by 50 in a Bundle, and to thipped.
thereare cight forts of Whales; The fort is called the Grand-Bey, from a place in Nemp-found-iand, where they were firt killed, he is black, with o fmoorh Skin, and white underneath the Chaps: 7 his Whale yields a out ice Hoghthads of Oyl.
The fecond is called Str: da, of the fame colour, bue Comewhat lefs, and yields abour \(7 \circ\) or 80 Hognteads; he The white things growing on his Back like to Barnacies.
The third is called Trampa, as leng: as the firft, but thicker forwads, grayer than the former, and bur one Spoutin his Head, whercas all the reft have two. He hath Tecth abour a Spanlong, and as thick as a Man's Wrift, bur no Fins; his Head is bigger than cither of the former, and in it the Sperma Ceri is lodged in a Hole like Well: He yichis aboux ao Hogheads of Oil.
The fourth is called Orra Socta, of the fame colour With the Trumpr, his Fins all white, but nor aboye half a Yard long; he is thicker than the Trumpa, but not fo ong, and yiclds the beft Oil, but not above 30 Hogh cads.
The fifin is called Gibarte, of the fame colour, and as big as the firft and hath a Fin half a lard long on the top of his Back. His Fins are worth Jittle, being not ahove half a Yard long, and yiclds atout i2 Hogfteads. of Oil, which comes our of his Back, his Belly. yielding none atall.
The fixth is called Sedsor, of a white colour, and bisgex than any of the former: Hiss Fins arc not above a foor long, and yields bur litule or no Oil.
Theferenth called Sedcon Nicgre, is black, with i Bump on his Back: Altho' he be very- big, he yields ncither Oil, Fins, nor Teeth.
The eighth is called Semria, as white as Snow, nor bigger han a Wherry, has no Fins, and yields not above a Hogss: head or two of Oil, and is good Mear to be eaten

\section*{Chap. XXIV.}

\section*{The Firt Voyage of Martin Frobifher to the North-meft, Anno 1576. Written by cMr. Hall; Mafter of the - Gabriel.}

"WE departed from Depffard the 8th of hattened to our Boat, and being in it and they afmear: Funs, in two Barks, vir. the Gabricl and the Mictach, with a finall Pinnacc of ren Tun, and paffing by the Courtar Greenmich, her Majefty was pleafed to bid us Farcwel, by fhaking lect Hand at us our of che Window.
On the 1 ith of Fuly we had fight of Frifland, bearing W. N. W. from us, rifing like Pinnacles of Stecples, and all covcred with Snow ; Latitude 6 ( Deg. we had no Gruund at 150 Fathom: The Caprain cnd cavoured to get alhoar in his Boat but was hindered by the Icc. Nor far from hence the Pinnace was loft, wherein were four Mcn ; and the Micheeftood away privarely; and reruíned home.

The 18th, I found the Sun to be elevated 52 Deg. and 1 judised the variarion of the Compafs to be two Points and a half to the Weftward.
The 28th, uponclearing up of the Fog, we had fight of Laind, which Ifuppofed tobe Leitridor, but couid not some near is for the lec.
On the \(x_{i}\) th of \(s u x: 1 f\) we were in Latitude of 63 Deg 8 Min. and chis day we curred the Streight.
The 16 th was calm, and withour Ice, but in two Hours time ir was frozen round abour the Ship a quarrer of an Lach thick; we were then as anchor in Prior's Bay:
The igth in the Morning, the Caprain and I with cighr Men rowed afboar, to fee if we could find any Pcople; and going to che top of the INand, we faw fefea Boats rowing towards us, whereupon we returned aboard, and fent our Boas wich a white Cloth and five Men in her to fee whether they rowed; they followed our Boat along the Shoor, rill they faw our Ship, and then returned: Then I wentathoar, and giving to cyery one of them a Roint made of Thread, one of them came aboard with me, where he did ear and drink, and then we carried him afhoar again; whereupon all the teft came aboand in chcir Boars, being is Pexfons, but we could nor undertand their Language. They are like the Tarrers, wichlong black Hair, broad Faces, and flat Nofcs; of a cawny colour, the Men and Women clad in Seal Skins, of the fame fanion, but che Women are known by blew freaks down their Checks and round their Eyes. Their boars weremade of SealsSkins, with a Keel of Wood within the Skin, flat botrond, and flarpat both cods.
The next day we weighed and went to the Eaft futc of the Inand, where che Caprain and I with four Men wont ailioar, aid cticke we faw gheir Houfes, and the Peopic fpying iss, came towards our Boar; whereupon we they called to us, and werowed ro them, and one of them came into our boat, and we carriced him aboard and gave him a Pelland a Knifc. Then we ordered tive of our Mento fet him afhoar at a Rock, and not among the Company they came from; bur their wilfulnels was fuch, thar they would go to them, and fo were taken by the Savages, and our Boat lof.
The next Morning we food near the Shoar, and not off a Falconer, and founded our Trumper, but could hear nothing of our Men; fo weplicd our of this Sound, which we named The five Men's Sound and anchoring all Night in 30 Fathom, the Snow in the Morning lay a Foot thick uponour Harches. We thenweigh'd atid re-sinw 1 Ewo turned to the place where we loft our Men, where we whe: Caw \(4+\) Boars, burcould hear noching of our Men. We enticed one of them in his boar to our Ships fide with a Bell, and in giving it to him, we took him and his Boat, whercupon, finding himelf in caprivity, his Cho- onsw ler and Difdain were fuch, that he bie his Tongue in two within his Mouth; yer he died not rhereof, but ivied until he cancro Engiand, and then diad of cold taken ar until Sea.

The 26 th we weighed to come homewand, athe the firt of Scpember had fighs of frichend, cight Leagues diftanr, but could not come ncarcr to is for the lec. diftant, but could noi come nearer to is for the les.
The ferenth we had a terrible Serm, and one of our Men was blown from our Waft into the Sca, butearching hold of the Fore-fhecr, was pulid into the Ship by the Caprain.
On the 25 we had fighr of Orkncy, and anchored at Harmich the fecond of October.
Afterthe Caprain's arrival at Londen, it happened that once of the Adycaturers Wives thatew a pisce of black Stone into the fire, whichthe Captain had broughr home this Voyage, which being taken forth andon guenched in Vinegar, gliftcrd like Gold ; whercupon fonke Refiners in London making an Aftay of it, reporred rhar ir held Gold and shar very richly for the quantity, and promifed great matters from ir, if any fore could be found. offering themfelves to adventare for the fearching ci thofe parts; and fome fecretly endeavoured to gera licaik from her Majefty, thereby toingrols the whole profit to chemfelves.
The hopes of more of the famic Ore, kindled a great Opinion in the Hearts of many, to advance the Voyage again; whercupon preparation was made for a new Voyage againft the Year following; and the Captain was directed by his Commifion ro farch for a further difcovery of the Paffage, burcfpecially for more of his Gold Ose.

\section*{ Swsin}

            On riv.
ago

\footnotetext{

}
\(\qquad\).

\section*{С н А Р. XXV.}

\section*{The Second Voyage of Capt. Frobilher to the North-wieft, 1577.}

Wdeparted from Blackoal on Sumda Mry the 26rh in one of ber Majeftics Ships called the Aid, of 200 Tun and roo Men; and two Barks, the Gabriel and che Micijac!, cach abour 30 Tun. In the frit were 18 Men commanded by Mr. Fenton, a Gendemanof the East of Utraticks; and in the laft 16 Mcn , cosmanded by Mr. Yurk. a Gendeman of the Lond Admirals; all viatuallod for \(5 x\) Months.

Thenext day we all riceival the Conminnion abcard the Aid froome Me Minitier of Gravefrid, and prepared our felyes as good Chriftians and źefolute Mcn for all Fortunes, and thar Night fell dewn to the :lope.
The next day we cameto ifarwich, where we ftaidrill Friday to take in Victuals; in which time carac Leiters from the Lords of the Council, feraitly comranding our Gencral not to exceed his Complement; which ivas 120 , wheresponhedifcharged many proper Men; who with unwiling minds departed; he alfo difmiffed all his condernned Men; which at firt hechoughe mighr have beem ukful for fome Purpofes; and putring to Sea the laft of ofy; we arriycd as Orkne the 7 th of 9 unc.

Kkkkz
\(\hbar\)

In fands in Latitude of 59 Deg. 30 Min. aboundsithe 26 th departed to the Northern Land with the two with Poultry, Eggs, Filh, and Fowl ; for chcir Brcad they have Oasen Cakes, and Ewes Milk for Drink, and in fome parts Als. Thcis Houfes are poor and lurnith, chey born Heath and Turf, there being no Wood.
On the 8 th we fet fail, traverfing the Sea 26 Days withour lighisof any Lanit, and met with much dritt Wood, and whole Bodies of Tress.
Onthe fourth of 7 fuly we came in fight of the South part of Fric!!and, in tatitude of 60 Urg. 30 Min. we met with greac lollands of Ite ten or twelve leagues from Shoar, foum of which were halt a Mile or mors in compafs, and 30 or 40 Fathom above Water, and, as we fuppofe, failt on Ground, the depth being about 80 Fathom. None of thefe lifands were fale to Sca-water, but mut be prosincad by melced Snow from the Tops of Monntains, or by concinual accefs of frem Rivers, which mingling wich the Salt Water, may caufe fome part of it to freeze, fo as to make it taft brackin, bur ocherwif: the main Sca freczech not.
Oin the soth we raifed the Land, which our General the Ysar before had named the \(Q\) nsert's Forshand, at the cnerance of Frob: fher's Sercight, which at our coming feemed to be lhut up with lie, to our grear diffouragemone ; but the Gencral with two finall lianaces, palfed thro' the Sucight to the Eaft Shoar, (the reft lying off at Sca) where fenme of the Natives thewed ulemfelves, leaping and dancing with grcat Shrikis and Crics; whereupontwo of our Men went and mer two of theirs, neither Party having Weapons; they would not come fo near our Men as to take any thing from their Hands, but ours leaving a Knife or other thing unon the Ground, and then withdrawing, they cameandrook it ap, leaving tomething of theirsto countervail the fanuc. The day being near fent, we retired to our Boats, which the Pcople perceiving, with great Tokens of Affction, they carneftly called us back again, and foliowed us almoft to our Rears; whercupon the Gencral taking the Mafter with him, wenc unarmed to meer two of them, who came down withour Weapons, intending, if they could lay fure hold upon them, forcibly to bring chem aboard and to difinifs one of them after courteous Reccption, and beftowing on him fome Toys and Apparcl, and to retain the other for an Interprecer. Afrer fome dumb Signs and mutc Congraculacions, tiley cxchanged fome things, andone of she Savages cut off the Tail of his Coat, and gave it to the General for a Prefent, who giving the Word roshe Mafter. they fuddenly laid hold on both the Savages, bur the Ground beipg llippery, they loft their hold, and their Prey clcaping, rañ away, and Frelendy recovered their Bows and Arrows, which they had hid not faxfrom them behind the Rocks, and purfued our Gencral and Mafter to the Boats, hurring the General inthe Buitock with an-Arrow. Our Souldiers wha kepr the Boar, came fpecdily to their refcue, and che Savages hearing the Report of one of our Mulkets, ran away, and our Men followed chem. One Nicholas Cmiger, 2 good Foot-man, and nor cumbred with any Arms, haring only 2 Dagger athis Back, overtook one of them, and being a Cornifb Man and a good Wrefter, thewed the Savage fuch a Cornifh trick, as made his ihewed the Sarage fuch a Cornif trick, as made his fides ach a gainft die Ground, and brought himback, but the ocher effaped.
On the igth, the North-weft and Wert Winds having ariven the lee into the Sea, we entred the Seraits, and frund a Harhour on the Wettern Shoar, which we named aficr our Maftcr's Matc, \(\mathcal{F}\) ack \(\mathrm{kman's}\) Sound. Upon a finall Ifiand within this Sound, called Simitis Inand ( lecaufe he firfifer up his Forgerhere) wasfound a Mine of Silker, bue could not be yotren our of the Rocks wirhour great labour. Here our Refiners made affay of the Ore, and found is to hold Gold in good quanticy Here we allo found a great dead Fith like to 2 Porpur, 2 tour twelveFoor long, with a Horn of two Yards long growing out of his Snout; it is wreathed and ftrait; and may.be thonghe to be the Sca. UTricorn, and is now refervad in her Majefties Wardrcbe.
The 23, the Gencral with fuch as could be fpared from the Ships, being feventy Perfons, marched with Enfign difplaied upon the Southern Land, part of the fup poicd Continent of americn, and having travelled about firc Miles toward the Tops of the Icy Mountains, we re turned to our Ships without fight of any Pcople, orlikelyhood of Habitation. Here divers of the Gentlemen defired the Gencral to permit 20 or 30 of them to march 30 or to I cagues imro the Country ; but he, confidering his Inftructions and the lhorr time he had, thought is berter oo feek for Ore to frait his Ships, and leave the furcher hikcovery tobe accomplithed hercafter; and therefore on Barks (the did ftill riding in Fackonan's Sound) where huding a very rich Mine, as ir was fuppofed, and having goralmoit 2c Tun of Oretogether, we wereforced thence by the lec which came driving in upon us, and for hath lefrthe Ore we had digged behind us. We went farther up the Srreighrs, and having failcd five Ica guen up the Srreighrs, and having failcil five Icagues, we dircovered a Bay which being fenced on cach fide with finall Xllands, diabreak the forse of the Tides, and made ic frec from any lindraughts of lee; here we anchored under a fmall IMand, which we named Ha. misk-liland: This is the fartheit place that we were ac within the Screights, ©ilitant from Qucen's Foreland 30 leagues. Here we found good fore of the Ore, which in wathing hald Gold to our thinking, plainly to be feen; whercuinn on it was thought better to load here chan to feek furcher, and the General having fer the Minees ro work, fear the Michaclover to 7 ackmanis Sound for the did and hes whole Company to come to us

From theinand we could difecin the poor Dwellings of the Pcople, which are commonly firuated at the Foor Theirthat of a Hill to thelere them from the cold Winds, with the skins sted: Doorzalways to the Sourh : the Foundation is fwo Fathom under ground, with Holes like a Concy-berry, to vifir their Neighbours, and thele placesare under-trenched with Gutters, that the Water falling from the Hills above them, may dide away without annoying them: lirom the Ground upwards thcy build with Whales Bones for la k of Timber, which bending one over iznother, are band omly compacted in the top togecher, and coycred Scals Skins: Bur ir fecmed to us be diucrs Cirs win ces that they change their Habitations often, and are difperfed and wandring Nation, living in Hords and Troops like the Tartar
The laft of \(\mathcal{F}^{2}\) ly the Miclact returned to us with the Aid from the Southern Land: Captain Cork reported that coafling along the Shoar, he cfpicd two Tents of Seals Skins, and going with his Company athoar, encred into them, but the Prople were all fled. They found here raw and new killed Flefh of unknown forrs, with dead Carcales and Bones of Dogs, alfo a Doubler of Canvas afrer the Englifh fahion, a Shirt, a Girdle, and threeShones of the Men we loft the Ycar befores abour \(5^{\circ}\) Leagues from this place, further within the Sercights. The Caprain left 2 Letter there, with Pen, Ink, and Paper, thar our poor Captive Country-men might, if they were alive, be advertifed of our being there, and return an Anfiver; He left alfo fome Trifles, as Glaffes, Bells, Knives, Efr. not taking any thing of theirs cxcept one Dog.
The next day being the firft of Auguft, all the Genclemen and others that could befpared from the Ship, went athoar under the Conduet of Mr. Pbilpor, to try if by air means they could allure the People to familiarity, or otherwife, to take fome of chem, and thereby atcain to fome knowledge of the Men that were loft the Year before.
Ar our retum to the place where their Tents had been, we found chey had remoyed them further into the Bay, that they might if they were dxiven from the Land, fy with their Boass intothe Sca: We parting our felves inro two Companies, and compafing a Mountain, came fuddenly upon them by Land, who efpying us, fled to their Boars, leaving moft part of their Oars hehind them, and rowed down the Bay, where our two Pinnaces meeting them, drave themafhoar; but if they had had all cheir Oars, it had been in vain to chafe them
When they were landed, they fiercely aflaulred on Men with their Bows and Arrows; we wounded chree of them, who percciving themfelves hurt, defperately capt from the Rocks into the Sea, and drowned them Celves: The reft tledinro the Mountains, except one old Woman, and another with a Child, whom we rook. The old Wretch, whom our Sailors fuppofed to be a Witch, had her Bulkinspulld off to fee if the were 2 Anoberse Witch, had her Buikinspulid off to fee if the werecloven foored, and being very ugly and deformed; we ven footed, and being very ugly and deformed; we lec her go, the young Woman and Child we broughr away.
Having now got 2 Woman Captive to comfort our Man, we brought them together : They as firf/ beheld each other very wiftly for a good \{pace, withoú urtering a word, with great change of Colour and Counremance, as if the Gricf and Difdain of their Captivity had deprived them of their Speech: Ar laft the Woman very fuddenly, as tho' fhe difdained or regarded not the Man, tumed away, and began to fing as tho the minded anothermartcr; but being again broughr together, the Man with a ftern and ftaid countenance, began to tell a long fo emn tale to the Woman, whereunto fie gave good attention,and did not internupt him till he had tinifhed, and afterwards being grownmore familiar, they were curn'd together; but we could never perceive that they ufed as Man and Wife, tho' the Womain Spared not to do all neceffary things belonging to a good Houfwife, as making clean their Cabin, killing, flaying, and drefing of Dogs for their Dies, and making him clean when the was Sca fick: They feemed to be very modeft, for the Man would never fhift himfelf until he had cauled the Woman to depart out of his Calin. and they were borh very thy left any of their Privy Parss thould be difeover'd by cach-other, or by any other Body.
-On the third we left the Weltern thoar, fuppofed part of the Continenc of Amsict, and on the fourth came to our Gencral ar Warwicl--Inand, wherc he traited the Ship and Barks wich fuch Stone or fuppofed Guldmincral, as he thought mighr countervail the Charges of both his Voyages to thefe Countrics.
Onthe Gth, while we were all at work, we perceived many of the Natives upon the top of a Hill over againt us, wafting a Flag, and making grcat Out-crics unto us; whereupon the Gencral saking the Savage Captuve with hiun, and fetting the Woman where they might bent perceive her in the higheft place of the lीand, went over to talk with them. Our Captive as the firft encoune ter of his Friends, burft out into tears, and could not fpeak a word in a long tince, bue affer a while, he difconffed aradiftance with his Companions, and beftowed friendly upon chen fuch Toys and Trifies as we had given him. Our Gencral by figns required his five Mcn which they made Captives the laft Year, and promiced nor only to releafe thofe which he had taken, bue alfo ro rewardthem with great Gifts. Our Savage made figns in anfiver from them, that our Men were yer living, and thould be deliverd to us; and made figns likewife to us that we thould write Lerters to them, bur becaufe is was lare they departed withour any Letter, alcho" they called carneftly in haft for the fame; and the next Monning carly they called again for the Letrer, which being delivered to them, they fpeedily departed, making figns with three Fingers and poincing to the Sun, that they would rerum in three days. The Lerrer was as follows.
- IN the Name of God in whom we all believe, who (I rruft) hath preferved your Bodiesand Soulsa - monght chere Infidels, I commend me unto you. I - will be glad to feek by all means you can devife for - yourdeliverance, cither with force or with any Com-- modities within my Ships, which I will nor fpare for "yourfakes, or any ching elfe I can do for you." I have - aboard of theirs, 2 Man, a Woman, and a Child, - which I am contented rodeliver for yon, but the Man * which I carricd away from hence rhe laft Year, is dead - in England. Moreover, you may declare unto them, - that if they deliver you nor, I will not leave a Man a-- live in their Country; and thus, if one of you can - come to fpeak with me, they fhall bave either the Man,
- Woman or Child in pawn for you. And thus unco
- God, whom Itruft you doferic, in haft I leave you, - and ro him we will daily pray for you. This Tuefday : Morning, the fevcnth of Auguf? 1577.

Yours to the urtermoft of my Power,

\section*{Martin Frobiher.}

On Saturdiy the itth, the People flewed themfelves 2gain, and called unto us from a Hill over againtt us: The General, hoping for an Anfwer to his Letrer, and bear of his Men, went over to them; no more than threc appeared in fight, who by figns endeavoured to train our Boatabout a Point of Land from fight of our Company; bur we fufpecting them, kepraloof, and yet fet one of our Company alhoar, who took up a great Bladder which one of chem had laid down, and leaving a Lonking glats inthe place, returned to the Boat. In the meantimeour Menupon the Iland, who could berter difern than thofe in the.Boar, made a great out-cry to our Men in the Boar, becaufe they faw many Savages creeping behind the Rocks towards our Men; whercup- ture on the General returned without tidings of his Meni cure.

Our Captive made figns to us that this Bladder was fens him tokecp Water and Drink in, but ive rather fufpected it was given to him to halp his cfape by fwimming; for he and the Woman fought ofecn to make their cfrapes, having loofed our Brafts from àtern cur Ships, and had prevailed if they had nos been timely difeo. vcrd.
The is th, our Gericral with wwo Fmall Ecats, well apprinted, wene up a blay, where he faw forne of the Natives, who made great O:t-crics, and with a Flac made of Bladders fowed together with the Guts and Sis news of Beafts, wafted us a main unto then, not dhewing above three of their Company; but when we came near them, we could perceive a great m.- Itifude creepit:g behind the Rocks; twhereupon we made figns to them, that if they would lay their Weapons afide, and come forth, we would deal fricndly with them, altho' we per ccived their intert; bur for all the figns of Fricnd hip wh could make, the jcame fill crecping rowards us from behind the Rocks to ger more adyantage of 'tes, as tho' we had no Eyes to fee them. Their Spokes-man earneftly perfwaded us with many finir hhews, to come alloar and cat and ilecp, and clapning his lareHands over his Head in token of Peace and lnnocence, willed us to do the like; But the better to allure our hungry Stomachs, he brought us a picce of raw Fleth, which with our Boarhook, we canghe info our Boar. Then one of his Fellows came halcing from behind the Rocks towards thic Sea-fide, and in fuch places where he fecmed unable to xteachery of pafs, the orher took him upon his Shoulders, and ferting him down by the Warer-fide, went away and left him, hoping that one of us would venture athoar, and nor be afraid to make his part good with a lame Man; but the General fufpecting cheir rreachcry, commanded a Soutdier to fire arhim, who fene him away a true and ro cigned Cripple; whereupon the relt came our of their lurking holes rothe Sea-fide, and defperately maintained Skirminh with their Bows, Arrows, Slings, and Darrs, withour fear of our Shor. They had belaycd the Coaft for us, and we faw above roo of them, and had caure ro fufpect a greater number. Alltheir Axrows and Darts fell flort of us, fo chat we rerumn'd to ore Ship without barm.
Our work being now finithed, having laden almort 200 Tun of Ore, we prepared to retum; and nhe 22d they retire: of Augiff we plucked down our Tents, and making a Boinfire ontop of che Ifland, we gave a Volly of Shor, and fo departed aboard.
The 23d of auguft we fec faill, the Wind at Weft, and thenext day leff the Queen's Fareland a-fterniof us, and had Snow half a Foor deep on the Hatches.
The 2gh the Micbrel loft company of us, and maping her Courfe towards Orkney, arrived at Yarmourb. \(^{\text {a }}\)
The zoth the Mafter and Boatfwain of the Gabrial were fruck over-board by the force of the Wind and Surge of the Sca. The Mafter, who was a young Man Gaftrist oftis and able Mariner, had been very pleafane all rhat Morn- drowneri ing, and told his Captain that he dream'd chat he was caft over-board, and that the Boarfwain had him by the Hand, and could not fave him ; which came to pals accordingly, for the Boarfwain hera him by one Hand, having hold on a Rope with the ocher, until bis ftrength failed, and the Mafter was drowned.
Thefirft of September the form was grown very grear; and the Gebriel not able to bear fail ro kecp Company September. with us, our Ship being higher in the Poop whereon the Wind had moreforcetodrive, wear fo faft away, that we loft fight of them, and left them to God and their good orrane ar Sea.
Onche \(17^{\text {th }}\) we arrived ar Padfow in Cormanal, which being a bad Road; we pur to Sea again, and anchored at Milford \(\mathrm{H}_{2}\) ven, from whence our General wric to the Court, who orderd the Ship to Brifol, where the Ore was lodged in the Caftle: Hete we found the Ga= briel arrived in fafety. In this Voyage we loft but two Men; one blown ovex-board, as was mencioned, and one chat died ar Sea, who was fick when he came aboard and was to defirous to go this Voyage, that he tather hofe to die, that not to make one in this noble Adren-

\section*{Cifap. XXVI.}

\section*{The Tbird and laft Voyage of Captain Frobilher to the Nortbweff, Anno 1578.}
\(\underbrace{1578}\)

THE Surpoicd Gold Ore brought home the lat Voyase, made nhew of great Riches and Profit, and dhe hope of patage to Cuathin, was preatly inereafed; fo that her Majefty appoinced fuccial Commidfioncrs, who upon fufficicis trial and proof madeot thic Ore, and upon fundry ReaRons and fubitantial Groundsbeing convinced of she probaixil:y of a laflage, adsertifed her Majefty chat she Voyage wasof imporiance, and worthy to be advanced again. Whercupon 15 Sail of good Ships were orderel to be gotrsaly, whercof all were to return again with
- their hading of Gold Ore at the end of Summer, execpe three Ships, whinct thould be leff for the ufe of Captain F:utur, Captain fiefl, and Capeaina plo:lpor, who were to tarry in the Country, with 40 Mariners, \(j 0\) Mincrs, and 30 Soldicrs, in which hatf are included the Geindsmen, Refiners, Bakers, Carpcuters, and other neceffary Pcrfons. They carrici with then a ftrong Houfe of Timber framed hare, and to be let up there.

The Namass of the Ships, with their Captains.

Tbe Aid, Adminal,
The Thom, ill:n, Vicc-admiral, The fuditt, Rear-admiral, Anuc Franc., Hopresell,
Bear,
Tiompo of \(7 p_{\text {puicit }}\)
Emmitutel of Excter, Firacici of Ec y ,
Moon,
Eimmanuel of Bridgwater,
Solomon of Wiynmouri, Gark, Dembis, Gialricl, Moicusel,

Wie departed from Harmich the 3 in of Mar, and coifting the South part of Exgland, we pafied Capeciarc the lixth of Fum.
The acth of \(\mathcal{F}\) unc, at two in the Morning we defcri-Fune. cd Frighond, and failing along the Coaft, we ficd one place pretry clear of Icc, where the Gencral well accompanied went alhoar, and faw fonie Tents made of Skins, whercin they found, Flefh, Fifh,Skins, and a Box of Nails. The Geperal commanded his Men to sakenothing away with them, only two white Dogs, for which he kef Pins, Poins, Knives, and ocher Trifics, and fo returning aboard, we hoifed Sail and continued our Couff, and on the laft of fuse mex wich many great Hinalos, one of which received fach a blow frow the Solornom who came upon him with a full Stern, bcing under borh her Courfes and Bonwers, thar the Ship itood titil, and tiired neither forward nor backward: The Whale made a great and ugly noifs, and caftuphis Rody ardi Tail, ard fo went under Wiater. Two days afoer, a atondead Whate was formedferting on the Sen which wefurpoled onle the farne thar dhe soranesw Aruck.

The ferond we fell with the Rasen's Forcinud, where
Sts. We met with fo mucb lec, that we chought is impofibla to enver che Streight; forme of the Fleet where they found the lec open, wentured in, and whillt others were followr. ing them with full Saik, the Ice wuuld clofe, and the Bark Demnis (wherein was part of ous Houle which was co be erected for them thas fhould ftay all Wincer) was fo bruitu, tiar he funk in our highr, but we manned our Boats and laved the Men.
This was a dicadful Spectacle, becaufe the Storm
The Tiles: is thidh followed threatend the like danger 00 us all having left mach. Ice behind ws, thro" which we had palid, athd finding more befure us; thro which it was nor portible to pars, there arofe a terrible Srotm at S. E. which blowing f:om the main Sea direetly neon the Sircights Mowih, brought upon us all the Ice we had left behind us, and debarred us from getting Sea-room again: Te took down our Top-maits, and hanged over-Eoard picecs of old Cables, Beds, Manks of three Inches thick, which were cur afunder at the fides of our Ships fone of which wercheaved up out of ele Sca betwecn tilandsof Icc, near a Foor aboye cheir Watcr. Mark havangrheir Kinces and Timbers winhin board bowedand broken therewith. In this diftrefs is pleafed God tofend us a favourable Wind the next day at W. N. W. which difperfedine Ice, and then the whole Flect plyed off to Sca-ward, till the Sun theuld confume, or the Winds difperfe the Iec that lay inthe Screights Mouth.
The fevench we food in again, and defericd land which fome, and dole not thic worit Mariners, judged to be the North Forclanid, tho others were of a contrary Opinion. The new fallen Snow does yearly fo muchalter the flape of the Land, that ir takes away the Marincrs Marks. Mr. LAall the chicf Pilot declared publickly, thar he had never feen the Coaft before, and tharhe conld not make ir for any place of Frobifor's Strcights:
The soth, the weather fill continuing thick and dark fome of the Flec: lon fight of che Admiral, and ftood back againtoSca-ward; the reft following the Gencral, paffed oo Leagues, within the faid doubrful and fuppofed Straits, having always a fair concinent on their Stap-loond fide, and an open Sca before them.
The General, alcho' 'sis probable he was fenfible of the Error, and that this was nor the old Streights, pet he diffembled his Opinion, the berter to induce the Filect to follow him, he being then in great hopes of difeprecing a Faifage chis way; and fome of the Company reporred, that he hath fince declared, that if is had nor been for the charge and care he bad of the. Flest and fraited Ships, he would and could bave gene thro' to the South Sea, and diffulved the tong doubt of a Paffage to Catheitic.
The atch there foll fo much Snow that it lay balf 2 Fors decp upon the Deck.
On the 31tt we anchored in EFarpoick-Sound, in the curcance whercof, the di.d having a titule before weighed her Anchor a Cock-bill, ran againt an Iland of Ice, which fruck the Flook of the Anchor thro the Ships Bow under Water, and cauficd fo great a Leak, thar they had much ado to preferve her from Goking.
At our Arrival here, we found the Michast and the Gabricl, wha had becn long milfing, and whom we never expected to heas of again; for which we heartily praifed God, and Mr. Whoffilt, a learned Man, appointed by her Majclies Council to be our Minifter, madea Godly Scrmon, exhorting us so be thankful to God for our manifold deliverances in chefe dangerous places, and pucting us in mind of the inccrainty of Man's life, willed us to makcour felves ready as refolute Mcn to accepr thankfutly whatower adventure his Divine Providence monld appoint. This Man bcing well feated in his own Counriy in a good Bencfice, well eftecract, having a vinuous Woman to his Wife, and very hopcful Children, refufed nor to undcratact this painful Voyzge, for the carehic had to fave Souls, and to teform thote Infidels, if it were prifible, to Chriftianity, and wrundt hare flaid there the whoic ycar if occafion had foried, bcing in every ne ceffary action as forward the sefolurett Mas of us all: So tharbemay be called a true Paftor and Minifter of God's Word, who for the good of tis Flock, fpared anto vencure his ona life.
Caproin Fcrisur in the Michacl arriving, as. was faid, ten days beforcus, fpert his time in fearching for Orc. He alfodifcover'd ren Miles up into the Counkry, which was very barren, as ail the reft chat we have Ecen, nor did he fce anfy likelyhood of Habitarion. His Ship bad been Ftruck chro" and thro on both fides, and his falle Stern born quite away. When they found an lltand of Ice bigger than the reft, they moored an Anchorapon it, and then rode under the Iecof it, to guard themfelves from the danger af the Iffer driving Ice. They mer with one ficce of lee, which by meafure was found to be \(6 ;\) Fax lice or rat thom akoue Water.
 confider about crecting a Houfc or Fort for thofe who were to inhabit there the whole Ycar ; and is was found that only two fides of the Houfe were arrived, and thofe not perfeet and entire; for many picees were broken in ufing them for Fenders when they were diftreffed inthe lec. Neither was there Drink and Fuel to ferye 100 Mcn (the number aprointed to inhabir there) the greatef fore whereof was in thofe four Ships which were not yet arrived. Then Captain Fenton fecing the fearciry of the neceffary things aforefaid, was contented, and offered to inhabit there with 60 Mcn . Whercujonthe Carpenters and Mafons were asked in what time they could erect a lefs Houfe for that number, they required cight or nine Weeks, if there were Timber fufficient ; whereas we had but 26 Days to tarry in chat Country; it was therefore refolved in Council that no Habitation lhould be there this Ycar.

The 24th, the Gencral with two Pinnaces well mann'd went to try if he could encounter and apprehend any of the People, who offen fhewed themelelves, fometimes with feven or eight Boats in a Company, as if they hau defigned toattack fome of our Pcople who were workint at the Mincs in no great numbers; wherefore we endeavourd with our Pinnaces to encompals an laand they baunted, hoping to insercepr fome of them; bur they kept fuch watch inthe Mountains, that they conveyed themiclives away before we could come near them.
The zeth, the Anne Francx, which with the other Shipshad now joincd us, was brought aground, and had cightgrear Leaks miended which the had received by the Rocks and Icc.. They had ftruck upon a Rock, wherc they lay more than half dry uncil the next Flood, when by God's Providence, contrary to all expetation, rice came afoat again, being force:l all that time to under-fot heir Ship withtheir Main-yard. Mr. Woffall afrerSermon. celcbrated the Conmunion upan the Land, as he had before done in feveral Ships, beraufe our whole Commahy could never meer in one friace.
The Flser being now in good readnef, the Ceneral called the Captains and Gentlemen togecher, and toind them that he intended not only by God'sheld to binis home his Ships laden with Ore, bar alfo to make a lierther difcovery of thefe parts. After long cebate, it.wat udged impofible athis time for the Reaions following Firit, It freczed fohard ceery Night, that if they horit? be keprin by contrary Winds, it was to le feared they thould be thut up the whole Winter, to their utar dcitruction. Secondly, Drink was fo fearec thro' ail the Flect, by reaton of grcar leakage, that not only thg Provifion laid in for the Habitation was wafted, butallo the Provifion of each Ship was fpent and loft. The caufe of this Leakage wasthe great Timber and Sea-Coal. which lay fo weighty aponthe Earrels, that it bralic, bruited and rotted the Hoops afunder.
On the laft of \(A: \operatorname{ig} \mu / \mathrm{l}\) we left the Comerr, and that Night arofe a furious tempett, which fepanaced our Flect, fochar notany of us met rogether again until the 28th of September, which day we fell on the Coalt o! England, between Syllcy and the Landsechd, and the sut of the Flece arrived alour the fame time, fone in ene place and fome in another. There died in this royago not above 40 Rerfons, which number is not greit, min: fidering how many Ships were in the Flect, and the :niny Hardihips we had endured.

\section*{С н а р. XXVII.}

\section*{The firft Voyage of Mr. John Davis for diccovery of the Nortb-weft Paffage, An. 1585 : Written by John Janes.}

SOric Noblemen, Genrlcmen, and Mcrchants; defirous to advance the Glory of God and the Good of thcir native Country, confulced together about 2 difco ery of the Norch-weft Paffage, which having been herctofore attempted, bur unhappily given over by rcafon of fome unexpected Accidents, they refolved affer grod deliberation to beconic Adicurcurers, and accordingly did fer forth two Barks, viz. the Suti-fo:ne of so Tuns and 23 Men, Foim Divis Captain 草 Khd the Moon-fbine 35 Tuns, r9 Men, William Bruton Caprain.
Wedeparted from Daremouth the feventh of funr, and werc forced to pur inro Falmouth and Scill, by redion of concrary Winds.
On the 28th we departed thence, and on the 20th of faly,difcoverd land corcerd with Snow, which appeared over the Fog like a white Lift in the Sky. The rouling of the Iec which reached from the Shoar a League off inro the Sea, made a prear noife: Our Captain named tuis place The Lend of Defolation.
The 21ft, the Wind being Northerly, we ftood S. S. W. along the thode, for we perceived that we were ran into a vcry deep Bay, wherc we were almoft compaffed with Ice. The next day we hoifed ouc our Boat, and rowed roward the Shoar, bur when we came within a Leiague of it, we met wirh To much Ice thar we could nor ger to Land. We rried to get fome Fifh with our Lincs, becaufe we faw many Seais on the Coaft, and Birds beating on the Water, but all was in vain. We had ground in 120 Fathom, the Water black and thick like a franding Pool. We faw much Wood floating apon the Coaft, and the Moon-fbire took up a Tree in the Sca 6o Foot long and is Handfulls about it, with the Roor upon it.

The 25 we loft fight of this tand, and fteered N. W. till the 29th; when we difoovcred Land in 64 Dep. 15 Min. bearing N. E. from us. Coming ncar the Coalt we found many fair Sounds and great Inlets into the Land, wherrby we judged it to be a grear number of llands ftanding together. We went antioar on a fimall the Sun.
thand to feek for. Warer and Wood, and perceived Wefound no frefli Water among thele Illands, butonthere had been People; for we found a fmall Shoe, and ly Snow Water, whereof we found grear Pools. The pieces of teather fowed with Sinews. Then we wert upoin anocher LAand, and the Capeain, Malter and I being gor upon the top of a high Rack, the P'copie of the Country cleying us, made a lamentable nilif, which we thought ar firft had teen the fiowling of Wolves; then I hollowed again, and they anfwered; at laft, percciving where they ftrod, fome on the Shoar, and one rowing in a Ccroa, we made a great noife, partly to ailure thein to us, and partly so warn our Company of them: Wharcupon Mr. Bruton and orbers of the MocrBinte, haftried to our refcuc, and brought with them our four Muficians to allure them to us if pontiole: Our Muficians plaied, and we danced, making many firns of Friendthip:' Aclaft there came ren Canot's, two of which came fo near us thar they talked wirh wis. Their Pronunciation was very hollow, and dicir Speech fuch as we could not undertand. Onc of them pointing to the Surn frorchis Breaft fo hard thar we could hear the blow; this he did many vimes, till ar laft one of our Men, pointing to the Sun, ftruck his Brcatt in the fame manner, whercupon one of them• came afloar, to whom we threw our Caps, Stockins, and Gloves, and fuch things as we had abour us, playing wich our Mufick, and Dancing, till he Night coming on, we recurned aboard.
Thenext Morming, the 3 orf of Fuly, 37 Canon's camc rowing by our Ships, calling to us to come alhoar; we nor making any great hatt, one of them went. in to the top of the Rock, where he leaped and danced, ithewing us a Scals Skin: Whercupon we manned our Boars, and owed ro their Canoas, and having fworn by the Sun after hcir fathion, 1 thook Hands with one of them, and he kiffed my Hand, and we became very familiar. They gave us whatfoerer we asked of them, and were fatistied with wharfocter we gave them. We bought their Cloths from cheir Backs, which were all made of Seais Skins, or Birds Skins with the Fearhers on them: We boughtalfo five of cheir Canoa's, with fome Oars and Darts. They are a mactablc Peoplc, void of Craft or double Dealing, bur feem to be Idolarers, and worfhip

Clifes werc all of fuch Oar as Caprain Frobifber brought from Meta Incogmita. We found here Fir, Spruce, and Juniper, which whether it floated hither, or grew in lome grear launds near this place, we know not, but we fuppofed it mighr grow thercabouts, becaufe the Pcoplehad great ftore of Datts and Oars, which they exchanged with us for fmall Trifles. When they perceived that we defircd Skins and Furs, they made ligns that they would go inro the Country and bring them the next day ; bur the Wind coming fair, we departed on the firlt of Auruft, and procecded towards the North-wefton our Difcovery.

On the fixth we difcorered Land in 66 Dcg. 40 Min clear of Ife; we anchored in a fair Road under a Mount, the Clifts whercof were as orient as Gold; we named it Mount Releigh. As foon as we had anchored, we cfpied four white Bears ar the Foos of the Mount; one of them we thoo in the Neck, who after had roared a little, took the Warcr, and we following him with our Doar, killed him with Boar-fpears, and swo more that Night: Wc found nothing in their Maws, but judged by their Dung that they fed upon Grals. The next day we went on Shoar to another Bear, who when we came near him, was fatt aflece; my Piece minfing firc, he Iooked up and laid down his Head again: Then I fhor him in the Head, and we all ran upon him with boar-fpears, and chrult him into the Body, yer he grip'd away our Spears and went towards the Water, and fwam o a Core where we killed him: The breaddi of his Foretoos was 14 lnches.
The 8th we coafted along the Shoar, and on the xith came to the Southerly Cape of this Land, which we named tinc Cope of God's Atery, being the place of our firft entrance forthe difcovery. We coafted the Shoar and when the Fog brake up, we found our felves tho into a fair entrance or Pafiage, in fome places 20 l cagucs broad, and elcar of Ics, which gave us grear hope of a Pafage. Having failed N. W. 60 Leagues thercin, we Saw fome Inandsin the middle, whercupon we divided, one failing on the North fide and the otber on the Souti fide of them, the Wind at S. E. very foggy and foul Weather.
The afth we wentafhoar and found figos of Reople, for we faw Stones laid up together like a Wall and the Scull of a Man or Woman.
The \(15^{\text {th }}\) we heard Dogs howl, which we thinking to be Wolves, went on fhore to kill them; the Dogs came very gently to our Boat, but we fearing they came to prey upon us, fhot ar them, and killed rwo; abour the Neck of one was a Leathern Collar. There were 20 of them, like Maftives, with prick'd Ears, long buthy Tails, and a boncin their Tizels. Then going further we found two Sleds like ours in Eimitand, one was made of Fir, Spruce, and Oaken Boards; the other all of Whale bone: Wc law here Ravens, Larks and Pacridges.

The 17th we went alhoar, and in a kind of Oven made with Stones, we found a fmall canes of Wond a piece of Wood like an Image, a Bird made of B , a and other Triffes. The Coalt was very baren win, oue Wood or Grats: The Rocks looked like Marble vcined with diversColours

The Ciaptain and Mafter confulted what was beft to be done, and gave thefe Reafons for the probability of a Pailage.
1. The Watcr being of one colour with the main Rerons Occan, whereas we never came into any Bay, but the the Prolib: Water was altered vcry blackilh.
What e the to the Wen of thece Mands thres Whales, which we judged socome from a Wefterly Sea, becaufe we faw no Whale to the Eaftwand
III. As we were rowing into a yery grear Sound lying . W. from whence thefic Whales came, on a fudden there came a violent countcr-check of a Tide from the South-weft againft the Flood which we came with, not knowing from whence is was maintain'd.
IV. In failing 20 Leagucs within the Mouth of this Entrance, we had founding in 90 Fathoms, fair, grey ozy Sand, and the farther we ran to the Weftward, the deeper was the Water, to thar hard aboard the Shoar among thefe Ithands, \({ }^{\text {s }}\) we had no ground in 330 Fa thoms.
Laltly, Ir didebb and flow fix or feven Fathom up and down; the Flood coming from divers parts, fo as we could not percsive the chicf maintenance thereof.

Thefe things confider'd, it was refolved if the Weather brake up, to make furcher fearel.
The acth the Wind came directly againt us; and the 23 d is came ar S. E. very formy and foul weather, and fecking for harbour, we fell. into a faix Sound, and anchored in as Farhoms
The 24th, the Wind coming fair, we directed ous Courfe homeward, and on thic roth of Scptember fell with the Land of Defolution, and that Nighr a ftorm arifing, welott fight of the Moon-fluine, and on the 3oth of Seprember we came into Dartmouth, where the Moonof seprember we came into Dartmout fine was arrived two Hours before.

\section*{Chap. XXVIII,}

\section*{The fecond Voyage attempted by Mr. John Davis for difcovery of a North-weft Pafage, Anno 1586: Written by bimjelf.}

> N my firft Voyage, not expericnced in the Narure of thole Climates, and having no direction by Chart, Globe, or any certain Relation, in what alcitude that Paffage was to be fearched, I thaped a Northerly Courfe, and fell onthe Coaft of Greenland, 500 Leagues from the Derfes W. N. W. Northerly, the Land very high and full of mighty Mountains, all covered with Snow no Wood, Grals, or Earth to be feen, and the Sea two leagues from the fhoar fo full of Ice, that no Ship could come near the Land. Thencecoafting the thoar towards the Sourh, in the Latitude of 60 degrees, I found it to crend towards rhe Welt, and following is jo or 60 Leagues, it failed, and lay direetly North, which I Atill followed, and an 30 Leagucs failing upon the Weft fide of this Coaft, by me named Defclaricn, we were paft all Ice, and faw many greenand plcafancIllands bordering upon the fhoar, but the hills on the main land were covered with fnow Then thaping our courfe W. N. W. we fell with anocher Thoar in Latitude of 66 Deg . and found a paffage 20 Leagues broad directly Weft into the fame, which we entred 30 or 40 Leagues, and found it neitherto widen norftratien. But nor knowing che length of ir, and the year being farfent, we thought it our beft courfe to retumn. And acquainting Secretary Wrejfingham and the reft of the Honourable and Worthipful Adventarers with tom of this Strait. In this fecond amempt the Mcrebants of Exeter, and other places of the Weft, became Advenrurers. And on the 7th of May 1586. I fer our from Dartmouth with Four Sail, viz. the Mermaid of 120 Tuns, the Sun-fbine of 60 Tuns,' the Moon-fline of 35 Tuns, and a Pinnace of 13 Tuns, called the North Star.

We coafted the South fide of Irelind, and on the rath teered away N. W. till weecame to the Latitude of 60 Deg. at which time I divided my Flees, and ordercd the Sun-floine and the North Star to feek a Paffage Northward, between Greenland and Ifland, to the Latitude of 80 Dcg . if Land did nothinder them.
I departed from them the feventh of fime, and on the 15 th difcovered Land in Latitude of 60 Deg. and in Longitude from the Meridian of London Weftward, 47 Deg. The Ice lay in fome places 10 , in fome 20 , in fome 50 Leagues off the Shoar, fo thar we were conftrained to bearinto 57 Deg . to double thefame, and to get a free Sea, which thro God's favourable Mexcy we at length obrained.
The 29th, after many Srorms, we again difcovered Land in Longitude from the Meridian of London 58 Deg. 30 Min. and in Latirude 64 Deg. being Eaft from us; into which fince it picafed God by contrary Winds to forceus, I thought fic to bear in with it, and to fet up our Procecdings, I was againappointed to fearch the bor-l our Pinnace, which we had providedinthe Marmaid tole our Srout for this difcovery, and fo muth the rather, becaufe the Xear before I had been in the fame place, and found is very convenicne for fach a Purpose; being inhabited by 3 Pcople of tractable converlation, and the Sca void of lice.
The Shipsbeing within the Soumef, we fent our Doats to fearch for thoal Watcr, where we might anchor which in this place is yery hard, to find. The People of the Country efpying then, came in their cicmoss towards them with Shouts and Cries; but when chey faw in the Boar fome of our Company that were there the lut Ycar, they rowed to the Boar, and taking hold on the Oar, hung about the loar, expreting a great deal of ioy, and making figns that they knew all thole that had been with them the Xearbeforc. I went ahoar withothers of the Company, and took wich me 20 Knises : We had no fooner landed, but they leap'd out of their Canoa's and came running to us, and cmbraced us with many figns of hearty whliome: There were 18 of them, and I gave to cach of them a Knife; they offered me Skins for a Reward, but I made ligns that they were not fold, bait freely given to them, and fo difinifed them for that time, with ligus that they fiould xcturn after certain. hours.
The next day with all poffible fpecd the Pinnace was landed uponan Ifland, there to be finithed, and while it was fecting up, the Pconle came continually unto us, foarcimes soo Canoa's at a time, bringing with them Scal Skins, Stags Skins, white Hares, Seals, SalmonWral, fuall Cod, dry Caplin, with other Fin, and fome Birds.
1 fent one of the Boats to fearch one part of the Land, while I went to another part, with ftrict command that there fhould be no injury offered to any of the Pcople, nor any. Gun thot: They found Tents made of Scal Skins, whercin was forc of dried Caplin, being a little Finh no bigger chan a Püchard, fome Bags of Trane Oyl, many litrle Images cur in Wood, and SealSkins in Tantubs, whereof chey dimisifhed nothing.

When they had falled ten Miles within the Soowy Mountains, they came to 2 plain Champion Country with Earth and Grats, like to our moory and wafts Grounds in Erigiend. They weneren leagues up into a River, which in the natroweft place was two Leagues broad, fin ing is ftill to concinuc, they knew not how far. But I withmy Company took anocher River, which altho' at firth it offered a large Inler, yet ir proved bur a deep Bay, the end whercof I artained in four Hours, and there leaving the Boar well manned, went with the reft of my Company threc or four Miles into the Country, bur found nothing, nor faw zny thing but Gripes, Ravens, and fmall Birds, as Iarks and linners.
The third of 7 uly I manned my Boat, and went with 50 Canca's attending upon me into anorher Sound, where the People by figns willed me to go, hoping to find their Habitation. At laft they made figns that If houtd go into 2 warm place to deep, at which place I went on thoar, and defired they would leap with our, Men, which they agreed to, but ours did over-leap them. From Leaping they wear to Wrefling; we found them ftiong and nimble, and to have okill in Wactuing, for they calt fome of our Men that were good Wreftlers.
The fourch, the Mafler of the Mermaid went to certain llands to ftore himfelf with Wood, where he found a Grate with divers buricd in it, covered with Scal Skins only, and a Crofslaid over chem.
The Reople axe of good ftarare, well proportioned, with frall. Nender Hands and Feet, broad Vifages, fmall Eyes, wide Mouths; the mof part unbearded, great Lips, and ciofe toothed: They are much given roblecd, and rhercfore ftop their Nofes with Decrs Hair, or that of an Elan.
One of them kindied 3 Fire after this manner; He took a piece of Board whercin was a hole half thro', then he put into the Hole the End of a round Stick like a Beditaff, werring che End thereof in Trane, and (as your Turners do) with a piece of Leather, by the vio lent-motion he fpeedily produced fire; this done, he madea fire with Turfis, "into which, with many Words and ftrange Gefures, he pur divers things, which we fuppofed ro beafacrifice: They defired me to go into the Smoak, and I willed them likewife to ftand in the Smoak, which they would by no means do: I then thruft one of them into the Smoak, and connmanded one of my Men to tread our the fite, and fpurn it into the Sea, to new them that we did contemin their Sorcery. They are very fimple in their Converfation, but marrelouny theevifh, efpecially of fron, which they have in greas efeem: They curaway the Moon-fhine's Boat from her Scern, they cut our Cables, and our Cloth where it lay to air, tho' we did carcfully look unto it : They fole our Oars, a Caliver, a boar-fpear, a Sword, with divers cthicr things', which fo gricyed the Company, that they defired me to diffolve this now Friendihip, whercapon I ordered a Caliver to be fhor annong them, and immediately upon the fame a Falcon, which ftrange noife did fo amazethem, that they departed with allipsed; but within ten Hourschey returned, and intreared a Peace, which being granted, they broughr us Scals Skins and Salmonpeal, but when they faw Iron, they could not forbens ftealing, which when I perecived, I commanded that in no cale they fhould be any more hardly ufed, bur that our own People flowld be more vigilant to kecp there things. They did ear all their Meat raw, they live moft upon Fifh, drink falt Water, and car Grafs and Iec wirl delight: They make fifhing Nets of Whales Fins. T Tis \(\begin{gathered}\text { nts male or }\end{gathered}\) probable they have Wars with thofe on the main Land, whale Eng many of them being fore wounded, which Wounds they reccived upon the main Land, as by figns they gave us to underfand: We learned thefe following Words among them.

\(K_{c} f_{1}\)
Madlycorte, Mufick. Aginyob, Go fetch. rifinoutc, I mean no harm Ponancir, a Boat. Fatacteck, an Oar. Afanock, a Dart. \(S_{\text {ampormeg, a Knife. }}\) Udictab, a Nofe. Rot, Iron.
Blete, an Eyc.
Unuicke, Giveit.
Tuckfoach, a Srag or Ellan. Rrmigmah, a Needle: Aob, the Sca.
Myfacoat, walh ir. Letbick faner, 2 Scal Skin. Canglom, Kís me. Zignere, my Son. Ach, Shot. Consh, Leap.

Martukr, Fifh.
Sambet', Bclow
Maconmer, Will youhare this?

Coczh, Go to him. Abn, fallen down. lcunc, come hither. Amonny, Yonder. Niufe, No.
Tutckrodr, a Fog
Leclickent, a Skin. Macionl, a Dart. Sugnacom, a Coar. Gouml, come down. Safobneg; a Bracelet. Z'gncke, a Tonguc. Matneg, a Scal. Mecuní, a Bcard. Pignigogal, a Thrcad. Quoga, Give isto me.

The ferenth of fuly I went alhoax in our aew Pinnase, and with the moft part of my Company went to the top of an high Mountain, hoping from chence to fee into the Country, but che Mountains were fo many and o mighry, thar we could not fee far, whereupon returning to the Pimnace, wefarv a frange fight, which was, a a frage mighry Whirlwind, continuing threc Hours with little Whintwiad incermifion, which raking up the Water in grear guanti\(y\), furiouny mounted is into the Air. The next Mornng che Storm being over, we Gaiied into a mighry gras River, directly into the Body of the Land, and tound is ro beno firm Land, bur huge, waft and deferi Iolands, with mighity Sounds, and lnlets pating between Sea and Sea.
On the ninth we meurned to our Ships, where our Mariners complained heavily against the Peoplc, that they bad folnan Anchor from us, had cur one of oir Cables very dangeroully, and fpared nor to ding Srones at us of half a Pound weight. The nexr day 1 went alhoar, and ufed them with much courtefy, and when I remumed, they followed me in their Canoas. I gave fome of them Bracelets, anid feven or cight of them came aboard, whom I ufed kindly, and ler them depart. As foon as the Sun was fer, chey began to practice their devilifh naruxe, and with Slings threw Stones very fiercely into the Mioon-bine, and knock'd down the Buar-\{wain, wheceafon we purfued chem with our Bears, and het at them but they rowed fo fwiffly that we cou'd nor reach them.

Onthe rach, five of them came to makei new Truce the Mafter acquained me with their coming, and defired they might be kepr Prifoners until we had the Anchoragain; bur when he faw the chief Ringleader and Mafter of Mifchief was one of the five, the was then very urgent to have him ficzed, and fo it was deremined to take him. He came crying liinctre, and ftriking his Breaft, offered a pair of Gloves to fcll, the Mafter offer ed him a Knife for them: So two of tiem came to us, They ficis onc of them we difmiffed, but the other was foon made they fince one Captive among us: Then we poinred to him and his the Nattere: Fellows for our Anchor, which being bad, we made figns he thould be fet ar liberty. About an Hour after, the Wind came fair, and wefer fail, and broughe him away with us: One of his Companions following our Ship in his canoc, ralked with him, and femed to lament his condition, we ftill ufing him well, and firying tohim, llinour, i. c. We nean no barm: Ac laft he alooard fpake four or five Words to the other, and clipping both his Hands on his' Face, the other did the like, and fo parted: We judged the covering his Face and bowing down his Body, fignitied his death. After fome time he became a plealanc Companion among us; I gave him a new Suif of Frize of the Englifo fathion, of which he was very joyful : Ke crimmed up his Darts and all his fithing Tools, and would make Okam, and fer hishand to a Ropes con: : He fed upon Caplinanddry Nenolan. Fith.

Ll111
lamen:
The 17 th, being in latitude of 63 Deg. 8 Min. we fell with a miphty mats of Ice, very hiph like Land, whith bassand Capes, andruppoting is to be Land, we Fent our Pinnace to difooverit, but at her return we were allured that it was only fec, which cauled grear Admiration to us all, amd the rather becalife in this place we had very Itichleand itrong Currents.
We coalted this mighty mafi of Ice until the 3 oth, finding it a grear Bar coour purpofe. The Air was now to fogey ance the bea fo pedternd with lee, that all hope of procecting wabanithed for on the 24th our Shrouds Ropes and Sails were fo frozen and compafed with Ice, only by a grofs Fog, as feemed to me very frange, who the latt ycar found chis Sea free and navigable, without Impediments.
Our Men thro' this exeremiry began to grow Gek and fce'sle, and withat hopelefs of good fuccels; whercupon very orderly and diferectly they intreated me no:regard our prefent flate, and withal advifed me, that in conflicure l ought to refpect the prefervation of my owa life and theirs, and that I hould not thro my over-boldnefs leave cheir Widows and Fatherlefs Childien to give me vitter Curfs. This did move me to commiferate theis condition, yet confidering the Importance of this Difcovery if ir could be ascomplithed, the grear hope of a Paffage, by whas we had fecun the laft Yoyage, and that there was yet a third way artempted, I thought it would turn to my dicredir if the tetion thould fail thro my neglect, and therefore refolved to profecute it ; and confdering that the Aiermaide by reafon of her Burthen, was not fo nimHic and conveniene for this Purpofe as a fmaller Bark, and was 100 i. a Month charge to the Adventuress, I determined to re-victual the Moon-fine, and proceed as God thould disect ms. W'bereuponl alterd my Courfe co recover the next thoar where this migbe be performed, and the firft of slereyt difcurered Land withorr Snow or Iec, in latitude of 66 Deg. 33 Min . and in I Iongicude from the Meridian of Londent, 70 Deg.
The fecond we anchored in a very gool Road, where with all fyeed we graved and re-victualled the Mocin-ßhine; we found it here very hor, and were much croubsed with MLski:o's, which did dting gricrounly. The People of the Country ianght a Scal, and with Bladdersfaltcied to him, fent him to us with the Flood, fo as he came righe wich our Shirs, which we rook as a friendly Prefeat from hem.
The sth, I went on top of a Hill, and efpying thite Camon's under a Rock, went to chem, and found in them Skins, Darts, Eic. whercof we diminithed nothing bur left upon erery boar a Silk Point, a Bulkt of Lead, and 2 Pin. The n'xe day the People came ro us' without faar, and battcred with us for Skins: Our Sayage kept clofe, and madethew that he would fain haye another Comprion.
Being thus provided, I departed the 12 th of Auguft leaving the Akermaid at Anchor : Her Crew finding ma Themermaik ny Occafions of Difoontent, and being untwilling to proceel, here forfook me:
The 14th, failing Weft 50 Leagues, we difcovered Land in lat. 66 Deg. 19 Min. and the next day we thocd to che South, and on the 18th difcovered 2 very fair Promontory North-weft from us, in 6s Deg. having no Landon the South, which gave us great hopes of a Paflage.
The 2oth I wens to the top of an high Hill, whence I perceived thar this Land was all Iflands;; we coafted thic 1 and towards the South from 67 to \($ 7\) :Deg.
The 2Sth, having grear diftruft of che Weacher, we arrived in a fair Harbour, and failed ten Leagues into the Game, being two Leaguesbroad, with fair Woods on bothfides. Here we conizinued rill the firft of scprember, in which time we had two very "great Storms. I went fix Miles into the Conntry, and found the Woods were Fir, Pise-apple, Elder, Yew, Withy, and Birch: Here we faw a black Bear, and fore of Birds, as Phesfancs, Patridges, wild-Geefe, Ducks, Black-Birds, Jayes, Thronkes, and ocher fmall Birds, Thromes, and ocher fmall Birds,

The firt we fer fail, and coated the Shoar with fairsinem; whather. The fourth we anchored in a gond Road a place, wa had Ithands. Eight I cagues to the North of this place, we had itrong hopes of a Pallizes, by reafon of a mighry Sea pafing between two Lands Weft. Wegriatly defired to go into this Sea, bur the Wind was directly againft us.
Thic fixth wefens five young Men athoar to an Inand Nigh. The Fin; which we had left there covered all ly alliulted our Mes, which we perceiving, Ier fuddenCable, and under onr Fore-fail, bare inno ing, Icr Hlip our difcharged a double Mulker upon them twice; a and noife whercof they fled, having killed two of ; at the with their Arrows, and gricrounfy wounded wo Men Eno.th flen the other cfeaped by fwimming, with ani Arrow the, by Sivgig thro his Armapt This Evcning it plafald Cod furrher thot increafe our Sorrows, witha furious Storm ar furcher to which lafted to the tenth: Wie unrigod our Sh. A. E intended to cut down our Mats anged our Ship, and Anchur brake, fo thas we expected to be clriven alhoct and become a Prey to the Canibals. Yet in this deep ditres, God gave us fuccour, and fent us a fair Lee, to as We recovered our Anchor again, and ncw mored our Ship, where we faw that God had manifently delivered us, for two Strands of our Cable were broken.
The noth, the Wind coming fair at W. N. W. w departed with truft in God's mercy, haping our Courke for England, and arrived in the Wof Country the beginning of Oftaber, where the Sun-fine arrin ed few days before us. She hatd been at Ihanc, and from thence to Groenland, and fo to Fifolitond, and thence to Dcfolarion. whicre fle trafficked with the Peoplc, ftaying in the Country 20 days. They loft tight of the Pinnace, calles form, and lay a hull to rafry for her an a very great form, and lay a bull to raxry for her all the nexr day bome. hernomore: The faid Pinnace never return'd bome.

\section*{The Third Voyage attempted by Mr. John Davis, for dijcozery of a North-2peff Paffage, Anno 1587.}

1 N my laft Vovage, in Laritude of 54 Dcg .30 Mis on the third of Seprember the Finh did Twim to thick abour our Bark, as is incredible; and alcho' we werc unprovided of Finting Tackle, yes with a Hook made of a lons Spike Nail, and faftared to oure of our Sound-ing-Lines, before the Bait was changed we took mare than 40 great Cods, which divers Fibier-men thas were with mefaid, were the largeft and beilfed Filh chascver they Gaw. This excoraged fonse of the Honourable and Worthipfol Advencurers to continue cheir Favour and Charge ( tho all the Weft Country Mcrebanots, and moft of thof in London fell from che Action) and chree Ships were appointed, riz. the Elizaberi, the Sm-fbine, and the fielene, two of them for che Fithing, and one for he Difoovery.
Wedeparted from Dertmouth the tigth of May, and difoovered Land on the i4thof Fune.

On the 16 ch we anchored among manty low Iflands which lay before the high Land; the Prople came to us crying Iliaour, and hewing us Seals Skins.
Onthe 20th I lefr the two Ships to follow their Fifhing, raking their faichful Promife not to depart mail niy reurn untocthem, which ghould be in the end of Auguft; barthey finifhing their Voyage in 16 Days, prefently return'd for Englend, without regard of sheir Promife whilft I nor diftrufting any fuch hard meafure, procecded on the Difcorcry.
Onthe 24th, in Latioude of 67 Deg. 40 Min. the Weather wras yery hor; rhirty Savages came to usin cheir Cenoas, 20 leagues from the 1 and, intreating us to go afhoar. I coafted the Shoas of Groctimend from the 2sftro the 30th, having the Sea all open cowards the Weft, and the land on the Srar-board fide Ealt from me: The weather extreamiy hos, and very calm: The Snn was fivcaDegrees above the Horizon at midnigbt, Lat. 72 Deg 12 Min. The Compals in this place varied 28 Deg. towards the Weft.
The chird of \(\mathcal{F}\) uly we fell again with Ice, and on the fixth put our Bark thorough it, leeing the Sea free on the Weft fide, and when we had falled five Leagues

Wcft

Weft, we fell with anocher mighty Bank of Ice, which we Yefterday, fo was it the North Promontory or Beginning coild not pafi, and therefore rcturning again, we gor of another great Inler, which we paffed over thisNight, clcar onthe cighth as midnighr, and recovered the open where we faw the Sea falling down toward the Inler, Scathro' God's favour, by giving us fair. Winds and calm with a mighty Orct-fall, and dircularMotions like Whirlweather.
On the t . 5 th, in Lat. 67 Deg. 45 Min, a greas Current fet us to the Weft fix Poines from our Courfe. pools an the fame manner as forcible Strcams pafs thro the Arches of Bridges.
On the \(13^{\text {th }}\) of citg \(1 / f\), as we were fecking for our Ontlic s gth, we had fighr of Mount Raleigh. Ships that went to fith; being among many lilands, we ftruck ona Rock, and had a gteat Leak. The next day we fopped our leak in a ftorm, and on the 1sth bring in Lar. 62 Deg: 22 Min. and not finding our Ships, nor (according to their Promifs) any Mark, Yoken, or Beckon, which I willed them to fet up, and they procefted to do upori cyery Headhand or Cape within 20

On the 3cth, we croffed over the Entrance of a great \(I_{n}-\) let or Paffage, being 20 leaguss broad, and firuatc betiween 62 and 63 Dcg. in which place we had cight or ninc grcar Races, Currents, or Over-allls, like the Water under Lionden-bridge, and bending their Courfe into the faid Inlec.
The 31 ft , in Lar. 62 Dcg. coming clofe by a ForeJand, we fell into a mighry Race, where an lland of, having butbittle woort in our slup, and haif a Hoothead Icc was carricd by the force of the Current as faft as our of frefh Water, I maped my Courf for Engitend, andarwas the Southerly Limic of the Gulph, we pafied orct

\section*{The Voyage of Sir Humphry Gilbert in the Country of} Devon, Knight, for difcovery of Countries to the Northmards of the Cape of Florida, Anno 1583: Written by Euward Haies, Capr. of the Hind.

.WHen firt Sir Humplery had procured Letrers Parents from her Majefty for inhabiting fuch places in cimerice as were not in actual Pofferion of come Chriftian Prince, many Gentlemen of good efteem aflociated him in fo laudable an Enterprilc; but when Shipping was prepared, and Menready upon the Coaß rogo aboard, fome failed in performing their Contracts, and others deferted who promifed to accompany him, ic thar he was forced to put to Sea with a few of his affured Friends, wheremeeting with Misfortunes, and loofng one of his Ships, he returned home.
Having thus buried a great deal of Moriey only in a preparation, and much impaired his Eftate, yet his Mim: was not ddumred, but continuing his purpofe, granted Afignments out of his Commiffion to divers Perions of mean ability to plant and fortify in the North Parts of 1 m merica, abour the River of Canada, frem whence no great marter tras expected, to whom if God mould give good fuccels, he thoughr it would much advanec che Hopes of cheSouch; bur time paffing awiy, and nothing done by his Affigns, he was necefitated to take a Voyage in. Perfon to kecp his Paient in force, which was to expire if he gotnotactual poffefion in fix Ycars, and four. Years were then clapled.
Afrer marit Difficultics and crols Accidents, hie fet out fiveShips, wik.
The Delight; 120 Tuns, Admiral, whercin he went in Perfor
The Bark Raicigh, 200 Tuns, fet forth by Mr: Waiter Rakigh.
The Golden Hind, 40 Tuns.
The Spallow, \(4{ }^{\circ}\) Tuns.
The Squirril, to Turs, a friall Frigat for Fearching Crceks and Harbours.
We were in all about 260 Men, among whom were Ship-wrights, Mafons, Carpenters, Smiths, Refincrs and Muafiains. Our Flect affernbled at Plimourt, where it wasrefolived to pur to Sea before our Provifion and the Summer were too far fpent. But a Doubr arole whether we thould begin our Difcovery from the South Northward, or from the North Southward.
The firft feemed withour controveify to be the beft becaufe we hoould liare the Current with us, which fets Northwards from the Cape of Fiorida; and it being now Fune, we were not to fpend time in Nortberly Courfes; where five flould be furprized with Winter, but to haften to the South; where the, Winter would be milder and thorrer than in the North.

On the othri fide it avas alledged, chat fince our Viatuals were diminithed, and not lafficient for fo loing \(a\) Voyage and the wintering of fo many Men, we ought to hape our Cruirce mon likely to miniter furpiy, and that was, to take Newforndinn! in our way, which is nut 750 Leagues from cur oven C aft, where a multitude cnd of Auguft, we thruld be a! undan:- dipplied with Neceftarics, which after the filiung ended, they might well fparc; and frecly impart to : \(: \mathrm{s}\). This done, we might procecd Srui:hward and fullow the Sun, until we arrived ar places more remperace. Whereupon it wa- sefolved to begin out Difcovery Northwards fibmitteng to Necestry, which on if be fupfited; altho' we had putt. reafon to fcar the Curtents Lrom the Cape of Fioriac towards Cape Brifon and Cape Rafe, wonld be grear Impediments to our further proceeding this Year, and compell us co winter in th, fe colu Resions, fubject ro continual Fogs; thick Miits, and rempeftuous weather.
Onthe sith day of fure, we failed frem Plimouth, and on the isth the Vice-admiral fignified unto us, that he Caprain and many of the Men were falien fick and abour midnight chcy furfonk us, altho we had the Wind at Eaft, far and good: I could never undertand the reafon. Ir was afietwards repored, that they were infreted with fome contagious diftemper. and arriyed greatly diftreflid ar plimrute. 1 am conifident no coft was fpared by Mr. Releigh, their Owners, in fetting forth; therefore I leave is unto God.
By this sime we were in 48 Dej. of Latitude, not a litele grieved at the lofs of the moft puiftant Ship in our -leer, afeer whofe departure the Golden Hind removed her Flag from che Mizen to the Fore-top.
From the 15 th of \(\dot{f}\) une to the 28 ch , we never had 2 fair day, wichour FogorRain, and conrrary Winds, moft parrat W. N. W. whereby ive were driven Southward 041 Deg .
Ar this cime of the Year, the Winds abour Newfoundand are commonly within rwo Points of the Weft, cither ro the North or South, which makes the Courfe thither obe long and tediuus afer \(\mathcal{F}\) ume, which in March, April, and.Myy, hath been performed from Euglend inlefs than 22 Days. We had the Wind fo feant, that our traverfe was grear, running to almolt-41 Deg. Sourh, ind thento 5I Deg. Norch: Wie werc alfo to pefter Zwith Fogs and Mifty, that we loft Company of the Suiallow and squirrel.
Alour 50 Leagues on this fide Nerfoundiand, we paffed the Bank, which is a high Ground or Mountain under The Aank of Wazer, beginning in 52 or 53 Deg. Northwards; and ex- Nerfemed tending to 42 Deg. Southward. Its breadth is in fome places more, in lome lefs; we fund it about ioleagues over where we paffed. There is feldom' lefs than 25 or 30 Fathom Water upori it, but we had no Ground on either fide, with almoft 200 Fatiom of Linc. While the

L1112
Filfing

Fiuhing Scafon latts, a Man may know withour founding fatisfy him and his Foliowers, there it was, and advifed when he is upon the Bank, by the incredible number of him to feck no firther, offering to engage his life uponit, Sea-fowls hovering over ir, to prey upon the Offa's of which (he faid) was as dear to himas the Crown oftimeFith thrown ont by Fithermen, and tloating on the Sca. The Partuguea and Focuch lawe a nighty trade of thines: on this Tinak.
On the zoth of \(x_{\text {tul }}\) we had fight of Cand, winch we conid mat well difecm by reafon of the great For ypon the Coaft. We followed the Coatt to the Southward until we came to the Bay of Conecptic:, where we met a guin with the Swall. w, and wondred to find all her Micn an other Apparel. They hapoed to meer with a fecere! Voffelhomeward bound, and therefere defired the Capraintogne them leave to go aroard the had Veffel to berrow finch Provifion as timght be frated. I casc firen, with itrict charge to deal favouraly, they contred, and riffed her of Tackle, Sails, Cables, and robd the Nicn of their Cloanhs, windins Cordsabour their Heads to make thiem difeoter whit they had hiodden. As they were returning in theit boat, the over-fet by the Ships fide, and fome of them were diowned, the feft were favect. and delivered fafely aboard the sperlion by thofe roor Creatures whom they had fobarbaroufly utcd. They liad alfo newly taken a Fiencl. Veffelladen with Wines, and another with Sale, hoch which we fet at liberry, and raking the smottom with us, we held on our Cours Southerly varil we came to the Harbour of Sc. Fohn's, where we lound the sicuiril at Anchor: There were then of all Nations within the Hariour 36 Sail. The Mathers of the ling/fis Ships came aleard to know the caufe of our Arrival there; the General fiewed his Commition totake polfetion of thofe Countrics for the Crown of Entland, and advancoment of Chriftian Rcligion, requirias their lawful aid for repairing his Flect, and fupfly of lime Nicectaries fo far as mighe conveniently be atfordel him, out of that and other Harbours adjoining. in recompence whercof he offs to gratify them with any Farner and Priviledge they hould demand, which they could noterpeet roobrain hereafter upon fuch reatonable Terms. The Mafters promifed to ufe their beft endeainur to facisfy his rcafonable requeft, and derarcel.
Every Ship of our Flect was order'd to deliver to the Mafters of Ships in the Harbour, a Note of a!l their Wants, and Commiffioners were appointed, part of our own Company and part of theirs to go into the adjoining Harbours, and levy our Provifion, who were to tax all Ships as well Euglijh as Serangers, at an cäfy rare to lurply us; the Porrugals above ocher Nations, did moft willingly and liberally concributc.

On the fifth of Auguf: the General had his Tene fer up and beins well accompanicd, fummoned the Merchant and Madters, both Entifh and Srangers, to be prefent at his taking pofferion of thefe Countrics, bcfore whom wasorenly read and interprcted his Gommifion, by virtwe whercof he took poffetion of the faid Harbour of St. Foln's, and 200 Leagues cyery way, and (after the cultom of Enzlend) had a Rod and Turf of the fame Soil delivered to him in roken of poffefion of the fame for him, his Heirs, and Alligns for ever; and fignifieg unto all Men chat from that rime forward, chey. thoufta rake the fanc land as a Territory appertaining to the Quecn of Eingland, and that all Pcrfons coming thither hercafter to inhabit or traffick, mould be governed by fuch Lavs as he Ihould ordain, which fhould be agrecable (as naras conveniently might be) to the Laws of England; and for a beginning, declared charel aws to be in force immeriatcly. Firft, For Religion, which in publick Excreif, flould be according to the Church of England Scondly, Formainrenance of her Majeties Right and Puffiffon of thefe Countrics, againft which, if any rhing were atcompred, whe Party offending to be cxecured asin cafe of hight Treafon: Thirdly, If any Pcrfon thould utter Worls ro the dilhorour of her Majefty, he thould loofe his Ears, and (if a Merchant or Matter of a Ship ) to have his Ship and Goods conficate.
After Publication, Obedience waspromifed as well by Straugers as \(E_{i} g i t h\), praying for continuance of this new Goverment. The Arms of England allo were engraven in Lead and fixed on a Pillar of Wood, and the Genexral graned in fee farm divers parcels of Land by the Warer-fide, whereby the Owners were for the future af fured of a convenicnt place to drefs and dry their Fith in, whercof before they were frevented by them that came firf inco the Harbour, for which they covenanted oo pay a certain ycarly Rent to Sir Humphry and his Atigns.
We had with us one Danicl a Saxom, well skilled in Mincrals, who broughe a parcel of Ore to the General, and proectech chat if Silver were the thing which might pirat, dicscline induce mero efo further ; amb as :athe 0 ore I lige fint ir alocad, and-nauld liave no talk mede of it reinic we eic in latbrur, whece fo mary Portugals, Bifiains, an: Trench-min are: : Wtan we ere at Sere, pronf fonil le mate, nat if it aryipur cur Expectations, we may tie fonier rcturnatain.

I wasme fatished with this configent Afertion of tha Refiner, bute took ocation to ask the Gencral's opinion

While fome of ws were occupied in providing ricesfaries for our Vojage, others were wathing for an op portunity when the Captains lay alioar, to fteal away with our Ships ly night; others got away in a Shipladen with Fith, which they fiezed in an adjoining Harbour and fer the poor Men afhoar; many hid themiclvesin the Woods, watching an opportunity to return home bif fach fhipping as caily departed from the Coalt; fome were fick of Fluxes, and lieeneed by the General to return and many dead; fo that upon a review we found our Company fo diminifhed; that we wanted Men to furninh our Ships; whereforethe Gencral thought good to lcave the \(S\) wallow with fuch provifion as could be ipared, to carry home the fick Pcople.
Our Ships beting now ready, zix, the Delight, the Gidien Hind, and the Squircl, wherein was the General we departed from St. Fohns the 2othof Akguft. which we found by exact Obfervation to be in 47 Deg .40 Min . and the next day wore at Cape Knfc, 25 Leagues S. S. W. from Sc. Tolms, it is a low Land, in Latitude 46 Deg: 2; Min. Thence we fhaped our courfe for the ine of Sabion, lying abour \(2 ;\) I cagucs to Scaward of Cape Briton, upon intelligence given us by a Porturucfe at St. Fachns, who rold us that he was there 30 Years paft, when the Porsuzals Jeft in the fame Ifland boch Neatand Swine to brecd, which were fince execedingly multiplied. This femed happy tidings to us, to havefuch fore of Cattle in an Inand to near the place tweintended to plant upon, fren whence twe mighr be Cupplied with Victuals for the prelent and the furure.
From Cape Race to Cape Britor is 87 Lcagues, in which Navigation, we feenc eight days with indiffercnt good Winds, and never had fight of Land, being hindred by the Current; at latt wefell among fuch Flass chat it was wonder any Ship efcaped.
1 fhall fer down the beft Reckonings that were keptby apert Mcn the Mafter and Mate of the Hind; in our Courfe from Cape Race towards Capc Briton and the lland of Solion.

The Maftcr's Mate's Reckoning.
Auguft 22. Weft - 14 Leagues.

On the 17th of Auguf we had 35 Fathom, white Sand, LaL. 44 Deg.
The 28th, the Wind came South, and wo followed the Delight; who bare with the Land all that Night, contrary to the mind of the Mafter of the Hind, who could nct periwade them to hold other Courfe, they allcdging they could nor make theShip workberter, nor to lic orberways.

The Evening was fair and pleafant, tho not without oken of Storms approaching: They in the Delights token of Storms approaching: Thcy in the Delight The next day teine the 20th of Aupuft, the Wind blev vehemently at S. by E with Rain and thick Mits, that \(v\) ve und \(f 0\) a Cabs? our felves encompaffed with Filass and Sands, we made figns to the Deligtt to catt abour to Scasward, but chey kept fo ill a Watch, that they knew not the danger before they felt it, and friking upon a breach, her Stern was foon beaten in picecs; whereupon the General in the Sipuirreland we in the flime caft alout to Scaward, is no being in nur power to give them any fuccour, the Sc going mightily high, yet ailtharday and part of the next we bear up and down as rear the Wreck as was potifible looking our to fee if perhaps any of them had faved themfeles in Feate, or upon Rateres, or other ways There petithed in her near ino Men, amons whom was a learned Hampraicn born in Bula, who out of Picty and Zcal to zood Ätcompts, advencured in this Action, intending to reerel in the Latin Tongue fuch things as thould hapren in this Voyage worthy of remembrance. Here allo perithed our Saxon Refincr and Dilcoverer of inctimable Riches, as many of us werefully perfwaded alfo Capiain Mifurice Biown, a irtuons, honelt and dif crost Gentleman.
As God would have it, the day hefore was very calm and a Sonldicr having killed a Fowl with his Piece, de firel the Boat might be hoifed out to fetch it, which was granted, and was not hoifed in again that Night, and when the Ship was caft away, the Boat was aftern, being in burthen abour a Tunand a half; there was left in the naivence. Beat one Oar, and nothing clfe. Some of the Compa ny that could fwim, recorered the Boat, and haled as many Men out of the Water as chey could, but efpecialwarched for the Captain or the Mafter, the firft of which they could never fee, but got hold of the Mafter and when 16 were in the Boat, they cut off the Rope, and committed themfelies to God's mercy, deftitute of Food, and noza drop of frefi Water, but were forced to drink their own Urine, withour any other fuftenance for fix days rogether.
After this heary chance, we in the Hind and Squirrel continucd beating up and down, expecting when the weather would clear up, that we might bear in with the Land. The Squirgei's Company being pinched with fhort allowance and want of Cloaths, befought the General to renurn for Eyaland before all perithed; wherempon mored with compalion towards his poor. Men, in whom he taw no wais of good will, but of means to perform the Action, he refolved to return, and calling the Caprain aed Mafter of the Hind, he gave them many Realons inforcing his unexpected recurn, withal protciting himfelt farisfied with whar he had feen and known already, retiterating theic Words, Be content, pee bave feen enough, cond taie no care of Expense paff; if God fand us fafe bione, I will for you forsij roydly the next Spring, therefore 1 pray you les us no longer forive berc, polere we fight atainftice Elements. So upon the 3 If of Auguff in the tat rum, Afremoon we changed our Courfe and returned for Englend, at which very inftane, jult as we were winding abour, there paffed between us towards the Land, a very Ass Me. Lion toour thinking, in Shape, Hair, and Colour, with his whole Body in fight exceps the Legs; the rurned his Head to and fro, fhewing his long Teeth and glaring Eves, and comingrighr againtt the Hind, he roarea much liken Lion. The General took it for a good Omen, rejoicing tharhe wasto war againt fuch an Enemy, if it were the Devil.
The fecond of September wè paffed ia fight of Cape Rec: f the General came aboard the Hind, which was our laft meeting. He much lamented the lofs of his greas Ship, and of his Books and Notes, and fomething elfe for which ie was ous of meafure grieved, which I conld not draw from him, but I guefs ir to be the Ore which Donicl the Saxm brought to him in Newfoundland, the reancmbrance whereof touched him to deep, that he at the fame time beat his Boy in a great rage, becaufe when he was' formerly fent aboard the Delight to fetch fome things, this, being the chief, was forgotten and left kehind ; after which time he never had an oppotranity of sending again.
The Gencralar oux firft reting out, had nö good opinion of thefe Northern Parts, and was willing to grant Affignments to fuch as required them; whereas now he becanc contrarily affected, refufing to make any Grants, efpecially of St. Eorn's, which fome Englifh Merchants made fuir for, offering roemploy their Money and Travel pron the fame; jet meither by their own Suit, nor of ochers of his Company, whom he was willing to pleafure could is be obtanct ould is be obtanct.
Alfo fpeakinç of his Refolution to reatempt this Voyats the next Spring, he affined the south part to the Cdprain and Matter of the \(H\) init, an. 1 relcrial the North tw himfelf, afirming that thi Vonage hat won his Heart from the South, anit that he was now berome a Northern Man altogether. Apd when we asked him whar Means he had at his arrial in Engleml, to compafs the Charec of fuch an Expedition, he determining upon two Ficers, one for the North, and another for the Souch: I case that to me (he replicel \(\Gamma\) l will ark a l'emay of moman I will bring good Tidirgs to her Majelt, who will be fo gracoustoiend me icozo i, willing is derefore to be of good checr, for he chanked God, he faid, whith all his Hears for what he had feen, the lame being cmongh for usall, and that we necled not to fock any further I hefe lait Words he would often rencat with grear fervency, being very confident and fected in belief of inctimable good by this Voyage; tur the greaser number of is Followers were of a contrary opinion.
The Captain, Mafter, and orhers of the Hiind, endeavoured to perfwade him to fail in lier, and not to vencure in the Squirrel, which was o:er-charged with Nertings and fmall Artillery, more for flacw than lafety, being too cumberfon for fo finall a Boat, and was after ward the occation of her lots; but hus anfwer was, \(l\) will nor foriake my litelc Company, with whom I have paifed fo many Sorms and Perills. When we haw we could nor divert him from his Refolution, we fupplied him with Provifion out of the Hind, and fetting him aboard the Siuirrel, committed him to God's prorection we being then more than 300 Leagues on our way home.

When we came into the Latitnde of 50 Deg. we met with wery foul weather, the Scas breaking thorr and high like Pyramids, fo thar thofe aboard us who had ufed the Sca all their life-time, never faw mose terrible Seas. We had alfo upon our Main-yard, an Apparition of a hitlle Fire by Night, wifich Scameń call a Corpufant, or Caflor and Pollux whd is ufually feeningrear Sorms. We cejar and had only one which is commonly believed to te a fign of Prima more termper to come.

On Mundey the Gth of Scptember, in the Afternoon the Squirrel was near caft away, oppreffed by Waves, yer at that time recovered, and fhewed ligns of Joy. The General fitting abaft with a Book in his Hand, cried our unto us in the find, as oftas we approached within hearing, itic are as near to Heaven by Sea as by Land, Reitering the fameSpecch, well befeeming a refolute Soldier of ifefis Cirift.
The Lame Nighr abour rwelve a clock, the Squirrel being a head of us, fuddenly her Lighrs were out, and our Watch cried our, the General was caft away, which Sir \(\begin{aligned} & \text { wemph }\end{aligned}\) proved too truc. Xet. we ftill looked out all that Night, Gilbert and ever after rill'our artival in Eingland. After much bad weather, we arxived in Falmoйth the 2id of Scpsember, 1583.

\section*{A Relation of Richard Clark; Mafter of the Delight,s woritten to vindicate bimpelf from the fault of cafting azoay the Sbip, imputed to bis Overfight.}

DEparting from St: Fobns Harbour the 20thof Auguf unto Cape Raze, from thence we directed our Courfe to the Ine of Sablon, bur when we came within 20 Leagues of it, the General came upin his Frigar, and demanded of me what courfe was beft ro keep; Ifaid chat W. S. W. was beft, becaufe the Wind was at Jourh and Night at hand, and unknown Sands lay off a great way from the land. The Gencral commanded me to go W. N. W. I told him that the Ine of Sabion was W. N. W. and bur is Leagucs off; and that he thould be upon the lland before dy if he went that courfe The General faid my reckonillg was untrue, and charged me in her Majetties Name, and as I would fiev my lelf in her Country, to follow him that Night. if faring his threatnings, beciufe herëeprefented her Majefties Per fon, obeyed his command, and about feven in the Mora ing the Ship ftruck aground aind was caftaway. Sixteen of us got into the Boar, which was folitele, and focrouded wish Mcn, that we expected svery moment to bs fwallowed by the Sca. When we had remained in this coadition two lays and two Nights, and faw that it pleafed God that our Boat fill lived in the Sea, and might bring fone of us to Jand, if not over-charged One Hordly a Souldice made a motion thas all but my relf thould caft Lots, and choie four which had the fooreft Lots, thould be thrown over-board; bur I refufed and advifed to abide God's pleafure, who was able to faveall as well as a fow. He then asked mie if my remembrance was geod; I replied, I gave Gud praife it was good, and that I knew how far 1 was from the land where I hoped we thould cone within two or threc Days, and to put themincomfort, told them is was bent 60 Leagnes, altho it were 70. Thus we continucid the third and fourth day, without any fuftenance, but Weedsthat fram on the Sca, and lalt Water to drink The fifth day Hendif died, and one more; then we al defired to dic, being pinched with hanger, and the weather fo foul, that in all thefe five days we faw the Sun but once, and the Stars bue one Night. Thus we temained the fixth day, and the Company were very importunate, and drubted they fould never come to land; I comforted them as well as I could, and promifed they hould come to land the nexr day, or clie They thould caft me over-loard; and accordingly the ferenth day at cleven we had light of the South part of Nemjoundland, and at chree canc alhoar. All thele feven cays the Wind kepe at Sourh; had it thifred we had never gos to Land (having bur one Oar) and the Wind came In at North within half an Hour after our arrival. W'c were fu weak that one co: Id lcarce help another out of the Boas, \(y \mathrm{ct}\) with much avo, lecing all come athoar, we kneeled down and praifed God that he had dealt to mercifully with us. Then the fire ngeft helpe the reft to freth Brook, where we fatisfied our iclues with Warer and Berries very well. We made a litrle Houfe with Boughs, where werefted that Nighe: In the Morning I difperfed the Company three and there to feck every way for Food, appointing them ro mect all againat \(\lambda\) con. They found grear fore of Peafe. as good as we have in England, wherewith having refrefled our felves three days, and made new Oars, we rowed along the Shoar Givedays, and when we were hnngry, wens alhoar and gachered Peare and Berries. Ar laft we hapned on a Ship of St Fotm de Lur, which brought us to Bijcay; the Miafter was our Friend, or elfe we had been put to death; for when the Vifitors came atoard, as is the cultom in Spain, they demanding what we wcre, he faid we were poor Filher-men, who had loft our Ship in Newfoundlend, and fo they enquired no more. As foon as Nighr was come, he put us on Land, bidding us thift for ourkelves; we had not above ten or twelve Miles into Frence, which we walked thar Night, and wers then our of danger, and horty afer came into Engicnit toward the end of the Year 1583.

\section*{An Accommt of Sir Humphry Gilbert's \\ Virgage to Newfoundland: Written by Stephanus Parmenus Budeus.}

To the Reverend Mr. Ricbard Hakluyt. Mafter of Arts and Philolophy at Cbriff Church in Oxford.

\section*{My Friend and Brother,}

Thad nor purpoled to write to you, when the Promife of vour Lerters came to my mind; you had thoughrs of following us your feif in \(\overline{\mathrm{f}}\) ane laft, and therefore 1 defired Doctor Hismphry 50 acquaint you how it was with me; Bur thar nor farisfying you, Inall repear the fame, having no leifureat this time to multiply words.
On the xith of •fane, we did at latt fet fail from Pliminth in good eamelt, our Fleet confifting of five Ships, the grearelt of which the * Admirals Brocher had lenry, us, withdrew her felf from us the thind day, we know no: upon whatoccafon; the reft of us kept cormknow no: upen what occarion; the reft of us kept company till the 23 d of ' \(u\) u' \(\gamma\), at whith time the grear Mifts pany tiil the 23d of \(u\) u. , at which time the great Mitts ing alone; we deicried Land the firt of Auguf, about the Latitude. of 50 Deg. after we had run beyond the datitude of 41 Deg. in hope of Southerly Winds, which did not blow at that tume, as utually.
The Mland is by the finglifl) called Pengroin, becaufe of the mulcitude of Birds of the fame name; but we faw no Birds, nor came near the Land, the Wind beine fair for our defigned Port, where, by the Roodnels of God and to our gract Joy, we arrived in two hours. The place is fituate in Newfin, diand. between 47 and 48 Deg. calld St. Foivirs. The Sh p's Compan: aioard the Admiral, tvere fomewhat fikity, by rear n of the multitude of Men and fmalnefs of the Ship, and two of them were dead of a Flux, of the reft we have good hope. Of our Ships Company (for I am lhipp'd aboard anciarior Bronn a gallant young (Gcaticman) swo were cafually drowned, the reft are in fafery, and ftrong, and as for my own parr, I was never more healthy. We arrived here the thind of Auguft, and on the fifth the Admiral took pofcetion of the Country, for himidf and the King dom of Eirglind, ordaining and publithing certain Laws concerning Religion, and Obedicnce to the Queen of Eng land. Ar prefenc our Fare is fomewhat better and daintier than it wasbefore; and Experience baving taught us what contrary Winds we have mer with, and what we may yet feel, we thall take order that nothing be wanting. We found in this place about 20 Porrugar and Spaniff Ships, befades Englifh, who being inferiour to us in Power, muft not let us fuffer by Hunger. The Jinslifh, altho' they were ftrong enough, and Gafe from our Foree. yer fecing our Authority under the Qucca's Lerters Patents, they showed us all thanner of Duty and Humanity.

The Country and Manners of the People remain next to be fpoken of: But what thall I \{ay; my \(H, k, \ldots s\), wheri I fee nothing but a ver: Wildernefs: Of Fith here is an incredibleplensy; from whence arifes great profir to the Underrakers: The Hook fra:ce reaches the betrom, icforefome goodty Fulh is taken. The whole Land is fuli of Hills and Words: The Tiecs are for the moft pare of Pines, whoreof fome are deca c.1, and others fpringing up. Many of the old being falen down, ftop the was', and hinder the lighe of Travellers, that they cannor go furward. The Grais and ticrbs are long and rall, litrls differng from ours. Aarure ir iclf ficms to Bladesand the Production of Corn; for I found fome Bladesand Ears in a manner bearied, to thar by mannuring and fowing, 谢y n.ighe cafly be made fir for she ufe of man. The Buffes and Strawberries:ipringing up in the Woods,caft a pleafant odour. Bears do fonsetimines appear alout the Futhermens Cotrages, and ar: three kill ed, bur they feem by theirSkins tobe white, and arelefs than ours. Whether there beany People in the Country is uncertain; I could never mect with any Man that had feen any, and indeed how is it potitible he mould when the Country is impafiblé. For the fame reafon is is unknown wherher the Mountains contain any Mecals, altho the col,nur of them feems to promife fome Mines in them. We moved the Admiral to fire the Woods, that we mighr march and view the Country ; which Mo. tion did not difpleafe him, had it not been for fear of great inconvenience that might enfue; for it was reported and confirmed by very credible Perrons, that when the like happened by chance in another Port, che Filh neves came nearithe place in feven Years afrer, by reafon of the Warer being made bitter by the Turpencinc and RoTin of the Trees, which ran into the Rivers. The Wcather is now Yo hot, that unlefs the Fifh which is laid out ro be dried in the Sun, be every day rumed; it will be parched and foiled. How cold it is in Winter, thegrcar Mounrains of Ice in the midft of the Sei, have taught us. Some of our Company reporr, that in May they have been inclofed with Ice 16 days tegether, foric of which Illands of Ice were 60 Fathoms high, and when the fides nexr che Sun were melted, it would fo alter the baliance of them, that the bottom part would rife upward, to the grear Peril of thofe thar were near them. The Air upon the land is indifferently clear, but at Sea towards the Eaft are nothing but perpernal Mifts ; and in the Sea abour the Bank ( 40 Leagues diftant from fboar) there is no day without Rain.
When we have fupplied our Neceffity in this place, we purpofe by the help of God to pals towards the South, with fo much the more hope every day, by how. much the grearer the things are, that are reported of thofe Coumtries we intend to difcover: So much to our prefens condition.

Now I defire to know fomewhat of your Affairs, but I fear in vain, and chiefly. I defire to know how my P2tron Mr. Henery Umpron bears my-ablence. My Obedience and Duty fhall always be rcady towards him as long as I live; and I hope this our Voyage will anfwer his virtuous Halklayr, frora St. Folsis-Pors in Nswfoumdlands: Expectations. It remains thar you believe me to be fill the Geh of Auguff, 1583. yours, and fo yours as no Man more. The Sonof God blefs all our labours, fo far as that you alfo mas partake Yours, Stepben Parmenias of Buda. of them. Adieu moft fricndly, molt fweer and moft

\section*{С н а р. XXX.}

\section*{An Extract of divers Vayages attempted by Friglifh Navigators, at the Charge of the Mufcovia Company, for Difooveries towards the North Pole.}

\(\sim_{-}^{1602 .}\)Nino 1602, the \(14 y / 600 i a\) Company did ferffore Nighr, they would fire 2 Murker, and our People forth two Fly-boars, of \(7 \circ\) and 60 Tuns, might hearticm.
victualled for a Ycar and a half, to difcover The next day it was refolved that feven of them thould the North-wet Paffage, under the command go over in the Boat, with Mufkets, Swords, and, Tarot Mr. (iemgerfeymonth, who departing from Reddif the gecs, to try if they could fee or hear of the Mafter and Second of May, met with so muct Iec, Frott and Fog in his Company, whiom chey feared were furprifed by Sathe middte of \(94 y\), in lat. is, 53 , that his Men vages, or devourred by wild Beafts; but when rhey came being difcouraged, would proceed no further, alledgng to the Sea fide, they could nor ger over for lice, and to rethis reafon, That if it were granted, they might winter rurned to the Ship, to fave what things they could that between 60 and 70 Degrees of Latirude, with fafery of day.
their Lives and Velfels, yet it would be in whey next be- The next day beins faly weather, they gor all things fore they could unmore them and launch them invo the our of the Ship, and mede her clcan in hold, keeping Sca again; and cherefore if the Merchants would pro-ther as light as they coald, that he might not bear and sced in the difcovery of thefe North. weft Parcs of Ameri- bruife her Hull, becaufe me lay upon hard Rocks. Ar ca, their Sbips mighr be in the faid Latitudes from, nincar Night it began to raio, and continucd all Nighr, Engifnd hy the frit of May, and fo be betterfurnilhed and aboutone, the Boarfwain and Steward being upon with Men and Victuals to proceed inthe Action: Where- the warch, the Sceward went aboard to pump, leaving upon they Maped their CCurfe for Engkend, and anrived at Darmouti the fifth of Septrmber.

> the Boartwain at warch about a Muiket thot from che Tent. While he was pumping, many of the Counery Pcoplecams over the Rocks towards the place where the Boatfwain was, who when they faw bim, hor their Arrowsar him, running towards him as faft as they could; Alrule Sages whereupon he difcharged his Murker at them, and fled Mon so the

\section*{The Voyage of Mr. John Knight.}
\(\underbrace{1606 .}\)
Nina 1606, the faid Company didfer outa Gark of 40 Tuns, for difcovery of a Narthweft Pafiaye, under the command of \(\mathrm{Mr}_{\text {. }}\) ुolm Kuighr, who deparciug from Gravelgnd the 18 th of April, delcricd America on the 19th of \(\mathrm{F}_{\text {unc, }} \mathrm{Lar} .56 \mathrm{Deg} .48 \mathrm{Min}\).

The 24th tr blew a Srorm ar Norsh, and fo much Ice came in, that their Rudder was driven from cheir Stern; fo that chey were forced to hale into a Cove, to fave their Cloaths; Furniture and Victuals, and when the Ship was a-ground, worked hard ingetting the Water out of her, fopping ber Leaks, and faving as much Bread as they could, whilit others werebuficd in building a Shallop.
The 26 th, intbe Morning the Mafter, his Mare, and fourmore rook the Boar, carrying with them four Piftols. threc Mulkes, five Swords and two half-Pites to go over to a great lland, not:above a Mile from cheShip to learch for a better place so mend their Ship. When they weregoneto the otherfide, the Mafter, his Mare and two more went on thoar, leaving two Men in the Boas, wich one Mofker, one Sword, and a half Pike, to keep ir, who ftaied in the Boat-from ten in the Morning till to the Tcins. The Steward hearing the Mufker go off, Night. came out of the Ship, and perceiving the Savages ro rum rowards the Shallop, cricd out to thote that were allcep in the Tenr, to haften to the refcne of the Boarfwain and Shallop. They made what haft they could, but before they could ger torthe Shallop, the Savages were got into it; whercupon rhey feat two of their Mcn back to the Tent, and the reft, being cight Men and a grear Dog, advanced towards then, the Dog formoft, and ditcharging thrce or four Mukets ar chem as.they foodin the Shaliop, they held tap their Hands, calling to onc another, and then ran arvay toward their Boars. They were abour so lietle Poople, rawny, thin Beards and fiat No- Difrippion fes. Their Boass were wery large, and as they were ot the \(s\) rowing away thes ftuck faft in, the lce, which the Enr- wiges. lifo percciring, went as near as they could, and pade about 2 dozen thor 25 chem before chey could ger clsar, which made them to cry out bitterly.
\(\therefore\) The 29 th wasfrent in gerting fuch things aboard as they could, left the Savages fhould return in a greater numberand befer them. Then all hands went to work with Axes and Pickaxes, to break the:Ice and make way for che Ship, and the next Nighr they gor her our, and with Oars rowed her away amofie the broken Ice, with litale hopes of recovering their Country, the beins very leaky, and no Rudder to ftecr her. This labour contieleven at Night, but coutd hear no news of them after nucd till the thirdof futy, when faftening the Ship to an mithree theywent up che Hill. Then the Trumperer founded ort incm swo or three times, and the other difcharged his Murker sings \(\because\) av often, and fo recurned to the Company on the orher tiden, and to tecurned to the Company on whe other. Carpenter made whar thift he could to bang the Kudtur: M, whoilering no more than two, enquired for the Mhey broke the Matters Chett, and with the Iron Rands tell no and uhe rett, andwere antwered, that chey could oo it, made falt two Pickaxes for two pantels; lo as pincts de Boar bur that they faw them.go ap the cop of the Pincils and Cablergro the middle of it, to Kcce it co tallinehtioth Boar, bur that they law them.go ap the top of the Rinteds and Tacks.
- confidering the extremity they were in, wanting their The next day they difoovered a great Leak ciofe abafo harge it:o Matter and threc of their bett Men, and their Soip lay, their fore-Fcor, where the Ked was filintered in wivo or iut funk, to that they had nothing to cruft to bur their Shal- three p,ases, and the Sca came running in io faft, thar it lop, wisich was nor half finithed. Tbey lay alhoar that was not polibice to keep her frec with both Pumps, and Night in a Tent berween two. Rocks, keeping a good they could not come to ltop it, becaufe ic was under the warch, and hoping that it the Mafter and his Company Timbers; whercupon they balted their main Bonnet with thould travel, to tar thas they could not come again be- Occum, and pur it over-board righis agaute dee leak, which eafed them 4 or 500 ftrokes in an hour. It was \(A u g u f\) in repairing their Ship and refrefhing themfelves; then refolved to hape their courfe towards Newfoundland, and then putting to Sca, arrived at Dartmouth the 2oth hoping to mect with fome Englifhor Frencl, and on the of Scptember, a60G, from whence they wrote to the 24 ch of \(\mathcal{F} \mu\) l they fpied about a dozenShallops, who werc Owners at London, of the lofs of the Mafter and his firhing two l.eagues from them, who conducted them to three Companions, and of the doleful fuccefs of the the Bay of Eogo, where they continued cill the 22d of Voyage.

\section*{Снар. XXXI.}

\section*{The Voyages of Mr. Jonas Pool.}

IWeighed from Blackmall the firt of Marcl; 1609 in a Ship called the Amity, of 70 Tuns, having 14 Mcn and one Boy. On the 23 d of May 1 was withia threc Leagues of Cape Cold in Crecnland, in 78 Deg. 43 Min. I am fully perfivaded that a Paffage may be as foon astained this way by the Polc, as any other way whatfociver, by reafon of the grear heat of the Sun in this Climate; and I obrerred the Ice here to be nothing fo bip as I have feen in 73 Deg.
The firft of Jume we faw near 100 Morfes lleeping upon'a littic recky thland, as we went towards thenn, we efpiedfome Decr, whereof we killed four, but when,we canne tothe Rock, the Iec that the Morfes lay on was hollow and loping, and .while we wexe kifing them, it broke, and Ife and Morfes alid into the Sca together, carrying onc of our. Men with it, who was much bruifed not only by the weight of dead Morfss and Ice, bur by the Morfes that were alive, who ftruck ar him in the Water. We faw great fore of Decr in this Country, which have neither Bufh nor Tiees to Meltex them from the nipping cold of Winter, of whom we killed 37, befides the four before-mentioned, moft of them rwo or three Inchesthick of fat on che Haunches. There is alfo greas ftore of Fowl in this Country, of which we killed fome, and wealfo killed above 20 Bears.
1 found the Air here to be temperate, and not near fo coldas Ifound at Cherie-INand, in five feveral Voyages, altho the Inand be five Degrees more foutherly.

The 23d, at 2 North Sun I was near Black-point, which harh many funken Rocks on the Southermoft end of it, therefore you muft come no nearer than 25 Fathoms.

On thefirft of AugufI ftood for England, and arrived at London the 21 1 , bleffed bcGod, for ever and ever.

\section*{The Second Vayage of Jomas Pool, for the difcovery of Greenland, and towards the Weft of it : Set fortb by the Mufcovia Company, Anno Dom. 1611 .}

D E filied from Blackpall the rath of Aprit, with four Ships, visi- the Mei Maryerct of 150 Tuns, 49 Men:and Boys; the Elizablecth ( whereof I fonas Pool was Mafter) of 60 Tuns, 18 Mcn and Boys; the Amit, 7.0 Tuns, 24 Men and Boys; che Refolution, 16 Mca and Boys. The Mary Margarecwas appointed to kill Whales, for which parpore fic had fix Men of Sc. Folm de Lut, with all chings firting for thiar purpofe: The Eizazabeto was ordered to keep hor company as far as Greenland, and thence to fearch thofe Scas for a Paffige towards the Pole: The Reflution was bound to S . Nictolos, inhopero make two Voyages thither this Ycar; but before we were as far as the Laxitude of 65, we were all feparated by foul weather. The Elizacbeth was foked; that the \(W_{2}\) ter that was in her could not come to the Pump, but hay apon the Ballaft, whereby we could bear no thil to keep the Mary Margaret company.
I came to Cusric-Iland the 13 th of May, where I flaid till the 6 th of \(\mathcal{F}\) une, in which time we fet up our Shallop, and ranged fome part of the Coaft. We had a Storm ar Sourh, which funk our Shallop, and I faw the \(\infty\) digrec lec lie ciole to the Land in 82 Deg . wheretore pereerving it impofible to \({ }^{2} 26\) that way, and there running yory

Atrong Tides, in which it is dangerous dealing with tide Icc; Iftood to the fouthwards along the faid ice, to fee if I could find the Sca open that way, and fo ger to the wettward of it; but 1 found it to lic S. S. W. and ran along it about \(12 j\) Leagues, ar which time I fuppored my felf ncar dold with Hope in Groenland. I ran near 40 Leagues to the Wcftward of the Eaftermoft part of the faid Land, as it is laid dovrr, and by my accounr was to the Sourthward of if, near the Latirude of 74 Degrees, where If 2 w many Whales by the fides of the IEc. We commonly founded every Watch, but had no ground at 200 Fathoms.
The 27th of furre, the Wind coming to the North Atood for Cherri--IX and, where 1 arrived the 29 th, and aw abour 300 Morfes on Land, bur aform coming, they went all intothe Sea.
The 12th of Finf, we killed above 200, and ladedthe Ship with their Far, Hides, and Tcech.
Onthe 2sth at Night, I, went aftioar, and met with Ship was caft away in Grectland, and that Captain Edge, with Mr. E:nner the Mafter, and others, to the number of 30 Perfons, were ampived on the South fide of the Inand in three Boats. I took them in, and at Night fet fail for Greentand, where I anshored near the Marr Mal jares on the chird of \(A n g u f\), and found there a Ship of Hull, whereof one Marmadake was Mafter, who had killed above 130 Morfes, which Mr. Edge lefr on Land when he came from thence inthe Boats aforefaid, and wc intended to kill at our arxivai. As foon as the Ship was moored, we got out our Blubber, and fent it alhoar to be made into Oyl, and followed our work rill the \(1 \pi\) th, at which time having Oyl by the Ships fide, we put out all the Blubber which was in Hold, Layc two Tuns and.a half, nor doubaing but the Ship had Ballaft enough inker there being 12 Tun of Hides (which were the chicf caufe of the lofeof che Ship) and nine Tun of Oy , and Ti E Ean feyce-Tun of Ballaft, befides half a Tun of Sooncs, a tan bef Hogficad and a Barrelof Teeth, in all about 29 Tuns, which to any Man's jadgment trad been \{ufficient to mift a Baik of 60 Tuns; bur as the laft But went our of her, deShip began no hecl, and withal a great many Mcn wentro lecward, there being above 40 aboard; whereapon the Hides in the Hold tlid. to lecward, and brought heraliogecher down, and then every Man mifted to favc his life : I being then far from the Hatches, could not get up fo foon as octhers did. I faw death before minc Eycs wo ways; if I ftaid in Hold I was fure to be drownced, and if I wear up the Harches, I muft run the hazard of being killed; for down ar the Hatches there fel Hogtheads of Beer, and divers weighry things, the leant of which was fufficient ro break a Man's Bones, and in attempring to ger up, I was bearen down rwice and hurt; but it was not the will of God to take my life from mic then, but to pluck mefrom the very Jaws of Death, and by fwimming and crawling, I gor into the Seaclear of he Ship, where a Boat took me up, and blefled be God no Man perifhed in this dangerous Accident. We being all goi into three Boats, went to the Hull Ship, where wc found bur fanall comfort, Marmadatpe telling us plainl \({ }_{j}\) we fhculd not come aboard his Ship, and caufed Piks and Launches to be brought to keep ns out. Then Mr Edge and others defired him to lee me come aboard, and wich much ado 1 gor aboard with many Wounds and Bruifes.
In this our grear diftrefs, the Mafter of the H:ll Ship raid he would try if he could recorer our Ship; bur he defered the time a whole week, till the was full of Oze To thar whicn we came to weigh her, borh her Cabls burf, and fo we forrowfully leff her, withourt hope of recovery. Then we went aboard the Hull Ship, which (hap. XXXII. A Voyage to Greenland, Oc.

Tix inem God had prepared for our Succour, where our Mer3 Men nod chants agrecing for the Fraic, we gor the Goods aboard, nants yiz, about 21 Tun of Oyl, a Barrel of Bears Oyl, amentlt bout ten Tun of Whalc-Fins, and fire. Hogheads of In. Morfes Teeth.

The spth of \(1 u s, 1 / f\) we directed our Courfe for Englent, and arriced at fifll the \(\hat{\text { th }}\) th of Scptcmher.
As our firf coming to Gricnland, the Mountains and Vallies, excepre fome few places, were covered with Snow; butbefore we came away, the tops of che Hills as well as the Vallics, apipared green with Mols, and fome lictle quantity of Grafs. This Country and the adjacent Seas, arefubject to thick mifty weather, efpecially when the Sun with his forcibic heat melrs the Ice and Snow, whofe Vapours obseure the Lighr of the Sum, that there is but frall difference between the Day and Night

We found many fat Decr, which we killed with our Picces and Doss: There arcallo many white Bears, and white, gray, and dun Foxes. Wc faw abundance of Fowl, as Culvidines, Sca-pidgeons, white Parridges, wild Gecfe, Whllocks, and one we called an Allen, which would beat the fmaller Birds when they had got any thing, till they caft up what they had eaten, which be aying hold of devourd. ind fo with lawena an their Gorges, and few Featheds on thcir Backs, leaves them to ger more. There is ftore of frefh Water in every Vallcy, procecding from nelced Snow, and plenty of drife Wood, bur hot a Bufh or Tree as far as we havedif12 covered.

The \({ }^{d} d\) Voyage of Jonas Pool to Greenland, zobo was bafely murthered be. twixt Ratclif and London, after bis return from this Voyage; fet fortb by the Mafcovia Company, A.D.. 1612.
1612. WE failed from Blackwall the fercnth of Aprit with third of May arrived at Cberic-Inland, where we found a Shipof Hollend, in which onc Allen Sallmes an Englifhman was Pilot. The next day Salloms went aboard our Admiral, and Mafter Ruffel fent for Mr. Eidec, Mr. Arthingren, Mr. Mafon, and my lelf, where we confulted about detaining him and bringing him to I:ngland; bur in the crid he was let go.

The ghl we weighed and ftood to the Weftward.
The Srh we faw the IFollonder ftanding with us, and totenat Night came to us, whercupon the Admira! fens his Shallop aboard him, commanding him to be gonc ut of our Company, and as a North Sun he ftood away fom us.

The 2oth, we fooke with our Confort, who told us ther had almoft folit their Ship with a pisec of Ice which broke nine of their Timbers, fo that they had five Foor Water in Hold.

The firf of \(\mathcal{F}\) me we ftood into Fawl Suund, where we pake with Thomes Murmaduk of Hull, in a Ship callcd he Ffopewell, who, as we were afterwards informed, difcorcred as far as 82 Degrees, two Degries beyond \({ }^{82}\) Degress. Finklurtshead-Land. We had in ourtwo Ships fix Bifcremers, expert in killing the Whale; and on the 27th as we rode in harbour, we law fix Whales clofe by the Ships fide, and within an hour, fo many that we co:ld not count them:- Some ran againt our Cables, Come a-manywhule gainf theShip, and one againft the Rudder; one lay under the Beak-bead, and flepr there a long time: O:ix Carpenter having then hung a Stage over the Water to lay his Tools on, we durff not difturb the Whale, for fear he hould over-throw the Stage, and drown all the Tools: In the end he went away, and carricd the Sinip's Hcad round, his Tail bcing foul of tre Cable.

Wekilled if Whales.and fome Morfes, of which we nade 180. Tuns of Oyl, with which having fraited our two Ships, we:returned for Enolhnd.

Ch:

\section*{}

A Voyage to Greenland, mith Iax Ships and a Pinnace, fet forth by the Mufcovia Comipany, unider the Command of Benjamin Jofeph and Thomas Edge, Anno Dom. 1613 : Written by Mr. William Báfin.
\(\sim^{1613:} \rightarrow>/\) E departed fom oneringouth the 13th! The fouth, in the Morning was thefurt Whale killed; of Mar- with Tre good Ships; the wve had no Night fince the 23d of Maj: Tigrc, whe Mätrhew, 'the Gamatic! the Defirc, the phontif, and: the Richard and Bernicid; -the Fobn and Frintieir was floorth in follow.
"The 21ft we find figfir of the Conit of Nornect; in
 Dck. Eaft
The \(23^{3}\), we wercinLar \(6 \rho\) Des 45 Nini the Needle declined under the Horizon 63. Deg: 30 Min: by the In ftrument which declined 54 Deg. at Rotodom:
The zoth we defcried Greeminitin 76 Deges 5 Mint arn Sound - the Compals raned r3'Peg. Wet
Fune the fecond, at five in the Morning, our Adiniral Opiche fixch we-met wich four Ships in Poopy Bay, any of ithern being Follainders, one a Rociocler, and the other of Burdeaur.: The Matters of the Hollemiers came aboard the Admiral," and produced a Commitfion from Grate Maurice to fillin this Connery; but when they Sawioar'King's Commiffion granted to the Mrfcosin Company, they rold the Admirat they wơuld depart the Coaft, he giving urem a Cextificare to fhew to their: Adycriturers, that: they, had been there; and had made their Port, and chat we would nor permit them to filh We anchored clofe by the Burdeatrx Stip; whercin Allen Sallowes was. Pilioc being ready to fight if they 'refafed to come aboard us; so we fent our Shallor, and the Ma- fent his Shallop to a frnall Pink thar lay inder the-סhoar, to comimand their Matter and Pilet to come aboard, which they did. The Maifer told us that he was concorted "with another Ship that whs his Admirall "com manded by: one Fop of Dunkirk, now upon the Cocaft: We kept the Mafter and Pilot aboard of ns; and fending fome of our Mer aboard of her, brought her under our tec; and then trefent their Mafter aboard again; charging them to follow us. In the Afremoon we took their Shallop,' whercin were two "Englifomen and one Sco. fer and Surgeon cameaboard, who conld freak Engifh. Ac firf they': deniedtrthat Sallowes wasaboard them, but. being hardly urged they confiffed that he and one Fi/ber. on Emplifh-itan': were:aboand; who were both prefently fent for.
On the 8th; the Mafter of the Buriceux Ship, being about 300 . Tun, agreed to gire the Admiral balf the Whales he thoulde kill, that lee mighr ftay. and fiff on the Coaft." The Mafter of the R Wel Ship promifed to depart the Coaft; Lar. 78 Deg . 24 V Variation is Deg. 21 Weft: A : H M m m m

The soth we fet up a Crofs of Wood, and nailedthe King's Arms upon ir, upon 2 Point of Land called Lono-nefs
The 13th, we fpied fix Ships at anchor ina fmall Bay, onc of them was Caprain Fop the Duokicker, four of them were Bifcains, and the Gaxth was a Ship of Ampeidam, whercin was one Bonner, Mafter and Filor, and above 20 Einglife-men morc. All the Bifains came \(2-\) board of us as foon as we werc at anchor, but Bonner refufed to come, being fent for by our Admiral, who thercupon commanded our Gunner to fire ar him; he thinking te get from us, cut his Cable and fer rail, but we for him chro three or four times, and then he came aboard. Our Admiral kefrethe Ship for the ufe of the Mrfexia Company, and charged the Bifcnins to depart as foon as they had filled frefh Wacer, which they faid merination they wanted. 1 obferved the Latitude by a Quadrant molination 30 of furur Foor Sanidianneter, and found is to be 76 Deg. Min harati- 55 Min. the Declination of the Needle under the Fiori-
 \(1+\) Men but pointing to the Sourhwards it was 80 Deg. Variation was 12 Deg. 14 Min. Welt from the true Meridian, bur from our common failing Compats 17 Deg. becaute the Compats is touched five Degrees and a half to the Eaftward, and theVariation isto the Weftward.

The eoth we had news that the Folm and Francis was come rwo days ago, and had killed 23 Whales. We anchored in Green-Harbouf, where a S. W. Aicon makes full Sea.
Fuly the roth, our Admiral went ahoar and kille 1 four Decr; the next day we perceived five Ships in BeilScund, and came ro an Anchor by them with our throc Ships, the Tigre, the Mrttioct, and the Riciard and Bernerd, having made all things ready to fight. Thefe five Ships were dhe two Hollanders which we found the 6th of 'jun= in Pospr-Bay, a great Ship of Bi/cíy of 700 Tun, a fmall Pink of Amflcrdam, and a finall Ship of Recliel. This grear Ship of Bifcay which we expected would have fought with us, fent their Mafter aboard our Admiral, and fubmitted; butche two Ships of Amferdum would gladly have fought wich us, if the Bifain would haveaffifted them.
The 1 sth we came to the Ships in Gresn-Harbour, where we found they loa killed 18 Whales; four of chefe Ships were French, which had killed eighr Whales for the Company, according to agreement with our Admiral, which was, that they thould kill eighr for us, and what they could kill more, fhould be for themfelves.
The efth of Autuft we weighed Anchor to go homeward, and cnored.che Thames the fixth of Scprember.

\section*{Cha p. XXXIII.}

\section*{Extract of twoo Voyages for difcovery of Seas, Lands and J/lainds, to the Northwards; Jet forth at the Charge of the Mufcovia Company, Anno Dom. 1614, 1615; Written by Robert Fotherby.}
- Afierwards

ON the fourth of MaI I departed from Lee Road, in company of ren Ships more and two Pinnaces, all bound for Greenland, under the command of * Caprain Benjamin Am in 2 fofepi:
 Corrick weplicd thro'intill the 2 ith, and being then in fightof land wereall \(f 0\) inclofed with Ice, char we could not go forward or backwarty

On the fecond of fune we atrained an open Sea, where leaving the reft to purfue their Voyage, I proceedcd to Esir Forelend, and thence to the Norchward, hop: ing-to find the Shoar free from lce; but it fell out cor: trary to my expectarion; for when wie came to the Lat. of 79 Deg. 34 we faw much Ice becwitr us and Hak init's Heg.land, fo that nor being able to pais fücher, we anchored in Mandlin Sound, which we found open.

On the sorh of \(\mathcal{F}\) une we departed thence, and. coapled to the Northward till we were paft Hakliur's Herdland, but then we faw the Ilice lie before us, that it was nor polfible to pais furcher chat way.

We came to : an anchor in Crofs-road, and fes up,our Shallop which we had brought from England, in pieces; and while Mr. Beffin went in her to the Northwards, I went in the other Shallop into Mandlin Sownd; there \(x\) :fet up the King's Arms.- I caufed a Crof: to be fer up, and the King's Arms to be mailed thereon, under which I naitcd a piece of Sheer Lead, with the: Mnfours Companies Mark, Day of the Month, and Year of our Lord: Then cutting up a piece of Earth, carriedi ir aboard, and: in the hearing of the Men, faid to this effect-

St take this picce of Earth as a fign of lawful Pof - Senfion of this Councry of Kins. Fame's, Nempland; and Cof this particular place, which \($\) name Irizuity, Harbour, - Taken on behalf of the Company of X Merchants, called ' the Merchants of New Trades: and Difooveries, for The ufe of our Soveraign Iord Fames; by the Grace of God, King of great Britain, France, and Ireland. whofe
- Koyal Arms are here fecup, to the end that all People - whu Mall hereariive, may cake notice of his Majefties \(\rightarrow\) Riphr and Title to rhis Country, and, to every part - thercof. God fave King fames ereacer then

On the 23 Mr , Bafirreturned in the Shallop from the

Northwards; hefaid he hadbeen at Cape Barren, three or four Leagues from Hakluy's Hoad-land, but could nor pafs further for le which lay clofe to the Shoar

On the 27th I went again in the Shallop to the Northward; we rowed to Cape Barren, and a Leagne beyond. In themean rime ic.began to fnow, and grew robe a grear ftorm ar W. N. W. which continued from Munday Night rill Eridaj Morning, during all which time we had been but eleven-Légues from our-Ship, yer we went as far as we conld liavegone, had the weather been never fo fair.
On Eriday Morning we xeturned to our Ship ina Fair baven, where we tarried will the fixth of 3 uly, and then faiding thence to mate crial if we conld get to the Weftward of the Ice; and fo proceed toche Northward. We hadifent away the orkier Shallop the day before, provided with 20 days Bread, to coaftalong the Shoar, and fet uf the King's Arms at places convenient, hoping thereby to prevent the Hollanders, who had two Ships now in Erit hnven, ferforth for 2 Difcovery, and repdy wowkepof refion of fuch Harbours as they.flould fidd
We. failod Weetwards from Fair-haven fexen Daptes, and then mer with a main Bank of Ice. The"Sea apyear ed opentoche Northwands as far as we could fee; to we plied that way feven oreight Leagues, and then the Ice lay fo thick on every fide that. we couldproceed no further Then ttanding imtothe Shoar, we met with Mr. Bnfforin the other Shallop, who told us the Shoar to the Eaftwand was muxch pefter'd wirh Ice, and the wearher being now clear, Mr. Sherpin, Mro Baffin, and I, refolved to go upon fome high Mountaing from whence we mightfec what likelyhood there was of further proceeding: Accordingly we mounced a very high Hill, from whenie wefaw the Sen covered with Iofevery way, exceptro the Eaftwards, and thooght we Gaw open Wacer beyond che Ice, which pur us in hope we thould ere long ges a Paf rage with our Shallops along the Shoar, if we coullinor pals; with our Ship. We then retorned aboard our Ship, and plied towards. Fcir-haven, where we arrived che: 12 th between which time and the isth of Auguft we madefe veral Attempos with bothour Shallops to the Nothwards but were al ways forced back by Ice, Snowy. and: formy Wearber. The Snow lying an Inch thick on che Water, did, hinder our Shallops way, and our Men began to \(\mathrm{fear}_{2}\) that if it hould now freeze as if did one Nigh fince now b high, 1 had Sixpe was ge finding Poft they \(p\) in Lea
procce
Th
fince we came our, we thould be here frozen up, and it now beginning to blow much Wind, and the Sea running high, we paffed over Broad-bay, to Poins Wricome, where 1 had fet up a Crols above a Month ago, and nailed a Sixpence thereon with the King's Arms; and whiln 1 was gone up a Mountain to look into the Sca, our Man finding the Sixpence taken from the Crols, and another Poft Set by ir, with the Arms of Prince Marice thereon, they pulled is down, and I caufed the King's Arms caft in Lead tobe nailed upon the Crofs. From thence we procceded to our Ship, and the 19th of duguft came aboard of her in Eair-baven.
The 2ad the Mafter of the Gamalicl came to defire atimelay help to haul up a Whale, which had becn funk 14 das 5 Aski4dry in 120 Fathom Water, or elfe to pull the Warp and Harping Iron out of her, for now it was time to rake her or forfake her. We manned our long-boat, and coming to the place where the Whale was funk, as foon as we began to hale, theprefendy rofe, bolting fuddenily up with a thundring crack made with che luriting of ber Body; and nowvithtanding the had lain folong, yer had the all ber Fins faft.

The 27 th we faited from Fati-batern, and made another Attempt rowards the N. E. till we conld pais no further for Ife. We then ithod homeward, and on the soth of September we faw a light upon the Fore-bonner, which che Sailers call a Corpo S.nnev; ir appeared like the Flame of Srorm and ( as Seamen obicrve) alwa)s prcfages a Som. It contunucd very foul Weather all that day and was fo vehement the Night following, that the Sca of-times over-raked our Ship.
The fourth of Oitober the Ship came to Wapping, with the whole number of Men the carried forch, being 26, all in good healch.

\section*{Mr. Fotherby's Secund Voyage, Anno Dom. 1615.}

I departed from Harmich the 12 th of Ma7; in company of eight Ships bound for Greenland; I arrived in. Fairfaven the 19th of \(\mathcal{F u n c}\), from whence I failed to the Northwards the third of \(3 u l y\), but inceting with Ice in Lat. 79 Deg. 50 Min. 1 anchored in Crofs-roes, and departing thence on the 17 th , I proceeded rowards the S. W. till I was 200 Leagucs from Greenland, in Lar. 7 ! Deg, and am verily perfivaded wewere not then far from Land, altho we could nor fee it by reafon of thick fogsy veather, bur the Wind coming up at S. W. and blowang hard, I took the bencfir of is to return to the N. E. again, and came coan lland, which I named Sir Thomas Simitis ifand, about ten leagues long, high Land, at the Norch end whereof is a Mouncain of a wonderful heighr, covered with Snow, which I called houmf Halluyt: In lies in 71 Deg. where the Needle varies eight Deg. Weft. The land is recky and barren, worle than lhave feen in Grectilard under 80 Deg. hexe bcing no Grafs but Mofs, and where 1 firf landed upon low Ground, all the Stones were like to 2 Smich's Cinders in colour and. thape, and the Sand is gencrally mixed with a Corn like Amber. The Beaches are ftored with difif Wood, and many Srones like Pumice, which will fivim on the Watcr. I faw many rraces of Foxes and Bears, bur nor any lign of Decr or other living Crearures, and few Fowl.

The Wind coming up N.E. fo that I could not prooced that way, I refolved on another Courfe, which was chis, Having perufed Hudfon's Journal, wherein he had fighe of certain Land, which he named Hold with Hope, Ifound that by his own reckoning is mould nor be more than 100 Leagues diftans from Greenland, and in Lat. 72 Deg. 30 Min . or thereabouts; therefore fecing I could nor proceed to the Northwards, I purpofed to go to the S. W. to have a fight of this Land, and difcover is, if Wind and Weather would permic: So' I ftood away S. W, and W: S. W. till I had run 130 Leagues, and was by account in:Eat. 72 Deg. 30 Min. where having the Wind contrazy to proceed Weftward, I thood Eaftwaid till I had run 30 leagues, in which I mould have feen this Land, if credit mighrbegiven to Hu.lfor's Journal, bur. faw notany, and it being now the 28th of Auguft, and the Wind at Norch, 1 -directed my Courfe! for England, and on the 8th of September had fight of theCoaft of Torkfire. fons an

Abftract of a Lettor from Nir. Fotherby to Captain Engen writte's on Coois-rcail tiois Fayge, the 15 th of July, \(16: 5\)

\section*{\(S I R\)}

WHen I came in hither, here were threc Ships and a " Pinnace of the King of De,mn.k's; the Admiral came to an anchor clofeby me, and fene to intreas me to come abiard of him; l werie aboard and was courtconlly cnecrained by him. He aked me by what righs the Eratfif. Merchants did refort and fin in this place: I to: himby the King of E, 'rim,'s Kiphr, who had granced a Patent to the inityon Company of Merchants, whereby the authorifes them, and forbic's allothers to freguear thefe place. Then he intreated me to go with him to the rwo Euglifh Ships in Sirfocman Smith's Bay. I told him to would be lofs of time to me, becaufe I had fome bufinefshere rodo ar prifent, and muft then go to Sea again and profecute my difiovery. He faid that he would have me go with him so be witnefs to whar paffed betwixthim and you, for he had Matters of importance to acquaine you withal, which concerned our King and theirs, and thercfore intreated me prefenty to weigh aml fet fai!, for I mult nceds go with him.: I replied again, thar ir would be a grear lofs of time to me, and likncw nor how ro athfwerit; but he told me peremprorily thar 1 muit go with him ; fo feeing no ramedy, 1 orderid the Matter to weigh, and the Dnnifr Admiral weighing, kept me aboard of him, bur afecwards metring with the two Caprains thar came from you, be refurned and anchored again increfs-road. I had very courteous entertainment from the Admiral, Vice admiral and Captain Killingham, but the ladt feemed to go away difonrented fromaboard my Ship, becaufs I refufed to give him a young Morife I have aboard, and told me as he went off, that he would thoot down my Fias; and foon after there came a thor from the Admural, which flew oper us, atal I expected another, bur prefently there came a Man aboard from the Admiral, to fee if any of your Men in che Shallop would go with chem inso the Bay, and he fivore unto me that the Shot was made to call their Boat aboard, becaufe they were ready to weigh. As faras I can perceive, their purpofe is to fee whar Grant the King of England hath made unto the Company, for they pretend that the Right of this Lane belongs neither to the Enrlifh nor Hellanders, burto the King of Denmank. Thus with my hearry Commendations, Ec.

\section*{Abfract of a Letter from William Heley,}
\(S I R\)
Y OU may pleafe to undertand, that thro God's Blecting, our Voyage is performed in all the Harbours in the Country this Yeat, with a grearex overplus than ourShips will carry; fo that in fome places we mult leave good ftore of Oyl and Blubber behind for the next Year. 'We are all ready to fer fail, being full laden; only I defire ro fee the Coaft clear of Interlopers, whereby our Provifions may be left in fecuricy. We rook in Horn-Sound a Ship of Fiuhing, called the Nocl's Ark, having our of him 200 Hoghicad of Blubber, with two Whales and a balf to cur up, a great Copper, and divers orber Provifions, and femr him away ballafted with Srones. There were rwo more of them who were gone laden with Blubber before we could get thither, having intelligence of our coming. There were alfo two Daves, who made 100 and odd Turs of Oyl, and left the Country the fixth of Auguft. The fmall Ship Ells is returned from the S. E. having made a further difcovery, and killed abour 800 Morfes, and laden the-Teech, and 30 Tun of Hides; the reft of his Lading is Oyl. The Whales killed this Year in the Countriare about 150 ; and the Oyl will be about \(18 c 0\) and odd Tuns, befidesthe Blubber left for want of Catk.

Portnick the 12th of Auguf, 1617.

A Leticr frome Mr．Salmon in Sir Thomas Smich＇s Bay，the 2tits of June，1642，to Ar．Sherwin in Bell．Sound．
\(S I R, \sin\)

ANorthcriy Sorm has brought in fo muchlec upon us，that we lave been indofed cight days；there \＆wane fuch a Sca in the Ice，keatiüig our Ships for \(2+\) －Hours，chat I thought tlicy had been fooiled；the Icc －brake two of our Anchors．Herc are five Flenninst， which bave 14 and 16 Picces of Ordnance in a Shup and they do man out＇\({ }^{\text {a }}\) Shallo 5 ；fo that wich theirs 4and ours，herc are 30 Shallops insthe Bay，too many for us to make a Voyage；they have ac icati isoo Tuns of Shipping．We have reafonable good quarter with ＇them．for we are merry aboard of them，and they of us．They have good flore of Sack，and are very kind to us，profering us any thing that we want．The Com－ pany muft take another courfe．noftryear，if they mean ＇to make any bencitic of this Country；thcy muft fond berter Ships，and bear thefe Kinaves ous of it；for，as faras l can underfand by them，they intend to conti－ nue the Trade．They have every one of them Grave Hic rice＇s Commition under his own Hand and Scal． Wie have killed 1 今 Whales，but they yiclded but lirte， Incauferhe lec much hindred us at our work：We are －all well，シ̈．

Ahifrate of a Ieftcr writtion 10 Mr．Heley from Fair－haven，toc 12 th of July， 1618 ．

\section*{SIR，}
－Am very forry to underfand of the Annoyances by Sthe Flominits，both with you and at other places； ＊wehavebeen fo pefter＇d with lee thefe 20 days，that＇； ＇，we have not been able to pur to Sca above rwice with －our Sballops，and could do no good by rearon of foul －Weather and Foss nor have feen any more chanone －Whalcin all thattime，which after the was killed，gave －us much crouble，and we wercforced at laft to leave her：
＊in the Ice，where the Bears made a Prey of her，and I＇ －fear will fpoil het befure fac can be recorered．All the －Sea to the Nothwards of Hakluit＇s Head－land，and －both Eaftward and Weitward there is packid fo full of －Ice，thar I fear is will over－throw our Voyage；fo wifh－ 6 ing you healch，ofic．

At Letter to Mr．Heley from Beil－Sound，the 1 6th of June， \(16 \times 9\).
\(S I R\) ，
I Am forced to writc in tears unso you forthe lofs of our －Men，by the moft uncourh accident，that ever be－ －fcl unto poor Men．The 13 th of June laft，we were －put ahoar in the Icc－B．ry，our Shallops being notaboard；
－but as foon as we heard of it，we made what haftewe conld，and haling our Sballops upon the lee，went a－ © board our Ship．By that cime we had been there an Hour，ufing whar means we could to get her out， 2 －main piecc of．Cliff fell，being the fearfulleft fight that ever I beheld，and cxpected nothing eife but deathto ＂us all；but thi＂we were pait all hope of Life，yet God ＜of his great mercy and providence delirered us，that －we were nor then appointed to dic．The Ice was fo grear，and fell down from fuch a height，that it carried away our Fore－maft；brake our Main－maft，fpring
－our Bonifprit，and made the Ship fetch fuch a Carreer －that the heaved a Piece of Ordnance over－bpard from c under our Half－deck，hove meover－board，and yet I －thank God I was not hurt altho＇others were fpoiled and killed clofe by me．My Mater and Nicholas Green， and Allin theBurcher，are killed，and many more hurt who thope will recover by the help of God，and the ：Means of a good Surgeon I take my leave，Ẻc．

In the Tear 1622，nine Ships motre emplqued， of which one for Difcovery：Their difaftroins Sucesess I bave fooken of before．The laft Flect，Anno \(\times 623\) ，wass fet furth by the former Addoenturers，under the command of Ciptain William Goodlard，William He－ ley being Pice－admiral；of the Succefs whicreof you may read the Lecter following．

Fair－Haven，the \(24^{2 b}\) of July：

\section*{Mr．Helcy，}

WE arrived here with both our Ships in fafery on the third Inftant，and by the eighth had killed in Whales，and on the 15 th two morc，which being all boiled but the Heads，will hardly make paft 8o Tuns， which is a very fmall quanticy．
－As rouching our Order for the Flemings，we went Yefterday aboard them，fuppofing that we hould have found the Demes there，but they are not yer arrived． The Flemings are five Sails；the Admiral soo Tuns，the Vicendmiral of the lame burden，the other three 200 Tun apicec ；they have 24 Shallops belonging to their firc Ships：They told us they expected one or wo Ships more everyday．After fome time，we had con－ ference with the Admiral，concerning the Order given us，and told him that the time granted them to fifh was expired，and thercupon his Majefty had granted to our PrinciplesaCommillion under the Broad Seal of Eng－ land，for the deprefing of any Inverloper or Fleming whatfocver，that we hould meer upon this Coalt；yct notwithfanding ir pleaced our Principals to appoint us to goaboard them，and in a loving mannex to inform them thercof，which if they would condefcend unto， and defitt from Filling，they thould manifeft themflics Fricids to our Princifals，if otherwie，they would caule then to compel them by furse，who had rather periwade by love．Unto which he anfwered，That he heard of no fuch Matter in Ifolland，and if there were is mould have beencertificd by Writing．We replicd． That Sir Nopell Carroon their Agent was nor ignorant of it，who ought to have given intormation．He faid，he had a Commiffion from the Prince of Orange，for the making of his Voyage upon this Coaft，which was procured by his Merchants for his defence；and this was all char could be gotten from him by Words．
－On the 23d we killed three Whales more；－and thus we doubt not by degrees to accomplith our Voyage．

Iam yours，\(\hat{e}^{3}\) ：．

\section*{A Letter from Captain Goodlard in Bell－ Sound，the 8th of July， 1623.}

Mr．Hekf，
TO cerrify you of our Proceedings，we have killed 4here in Bell－Soznd 33 Whales，and lott many more by Ironsbroken，yer I hope we fhall have fuffici－ ent to fill our Ships，We have boiled ： 80 Tuns，of which 160 are aboard our Ship，and make account 50 Tuns more will fill our Hold．Our Whales here prove very watrifh and lean，which maketh bad Oyl，and hindreth us much in boiling．They have killed at Fait－ bnven 18 Whales，which prose very fmall，yiclding but 120 Tuns．There are in that Harbour five Flemines，well fornified，fome of them of 500 ．Tuns，and two more expected evcry day，which I fear will much hinder our Ships in their fifhing this ycar，and in my judgment not to be removed from hence；for they having 2 Commiffion from thic Stares to fith upon this Coaft，wereour whole Fleet there，and could put them avay，yer would they fy to one of our Southern Har－ bours，and fo thould we feend our time in following them，and rhereby loofe our Voyage．There were two Frencl Ships of St．Fobn de Lu \({ }_{\text {T }}\) at Fair－heven，which were put away by the Fiemings and onr Ships，and＇tis thought are gone for the Cape．．
5. With a heavy heare I write you the lamentable Ac- cident which happencd here the 28th of 9 une. Our Shallops being all out in chafe, and my felf allecp, my Brother Peter having a Shallop lying by his Shins fide, and efpying a Whale going into the fce-Bay, followed him and fruck him, and his Rope being new, ran out * with kinks, which overthrew his Shallop, where he Kolt his life, with my Boy Bradrake, being, as we * think, carricd away with the end of the Rope. Never : any lofs went fo ncar my heaxt, שir.

Extract of a Letter from William Baffin, wobo bad becn twice employed by the Mufcovia Company, for difcouery of a Paffage to the North-weef.

\section*{To theRight Worfhipful Fohnitiofenbolm Efq; \(E^{*} c\).}

\section*{\(S I R\),}

HAving coafted allor near all the Circumference of 1. 4 Drvis's Streights, we found it to be no other - than a greac Bay, and no hopes of a Paffage; however Mr. Davis was not to be blamed for his Reporr
* the Sca being open, and of an unfearchable depth as - far as Hope Senderfon, which is in 72 Deg. 12 Min. only
- the Tides kecp no certain courfe, nor, rife bur a finall
- height, as eight or nine Foot, and the Flood comes
- from the Scuthward; and in all the Bay beyond that
- place, the Tide is fmall and not much to be regarded.
- Yet by reaton of Snow melring on the Land, the Ebt;
- is ftronger than the Flood, by means whereof, and the
- Winds holding Northerly the fore part of the Yeat;
- the great Ifles of Ice axe fet to the Sourhward, fome
'into Hudfon's Strait, and others towatds Nemforndland
- for in all the Channel where the Sea is open, are many of them driving up and down, and till this year nor well known whercthey: were bred.
- In the nexr place I fhall acquaint you what profir © maybe made by this Voyage, if it thall be again at tempred. In this Bay are grear numbers of thofe Whales, called by the Bifocincrs the Grand Bay WTonles
- for webeing bur one day in uThale-Sound (fo called for * the many Whales we there faw fleeping on the Warer)
- mighr haveftruck more than would have made three Ships a faving Voyage; had we been provided with "Men and other things neceffary.

"Burt here fome mas object and ask, why we fearched that Coalt no betrex? To this I a wwer, That the Weather was io exceeding foul, iwe could not ; for fivhen we anchored in WToftenboim-found, our Ship prefently drove with two Anchors a head, fo that we werc forced to ftand forth with a low fail. The next day in twinaleSound we loft an Anchor and Cable, and could fotch the place no more; and if we had found a good Harbour, yet having but our Ship's Boar, we durit nor fend her far from the Ship, having but 17 Men, and frme of them very weak. But the chicf caufe ve fent fo lictle time in fecking a Harbour, tras our great defire to perform the difcovery, having the Sca open iniall that part, and a continual probability of a Paffage; but when we had coafted the Land fo far to the Southivard, that hope of Paffage was none, then rhe Year bsing too far feent, and many of cur Men very weat. we hoped thas fome Ships would be fene next Y car iukill Whales. which might berter do it than we.
" Having thus briefly fer down what hope' chere is of making a profitable Voyage, it is not willit you chonld know whar hindrance may happen to the fame: the chiefct and greateft caufe is; that fome 3 cars by rcafon of the lec lying berween 72 Deg. and a half, and 76 Deg. the Ships cannor come into thofe flaces cill toward the midat of "Fuly, fo that want of time to tay in the Country may be fome hindratice; yet they may rarry till che laftof Austif, in which face good ftore of Oyl may be made, and whar cannot be made into Oyl may be brought home in Blubber. , Another hindrance may be, becaufe the bottom of the Sounds will nor be To foonclear of lec as might be wilhed, whicreby a Whale may fometimies be loit, ter I amperfwaded they will be all clear before the 2 cth of \(7 u l y\). "Furthermore chere being lirtle Wood to be expected hercabours; Coals muft be brought from Englend.
"And now alcho" we have not performed what we defired (rhat is, to have found a Paffage) yet I hope souwill think that we havenot fpent our time in vain, confidering how much ice we paffed, and the difficulty of failing upon a Traverfe fo near the Pole, and aboveall the wonderful variation of the Compals- in this Bay, increafing and decreating fo fuddenly and fwiftly, that in Sir Thomas Smith's Sound in 78 Deg. by divers good Obfervations, I found it varied above five Points or 56 Deg, to the Weftivard, fo that a N.E. By E. is ttuc riespra 6 a North, a thing incredible, and matchlefs in all the to tiec \(\psi\) if World befides. - In finc, whatrever my Labouts axcor "ard. Thall be. I cftecm them too little to exprefs my thankful mind for yourmany Fayours, ©ैc.

\section*{C h. a. XXXIV.}

\section*{The ftrange and dangerous Voyage of Captain Thomas James, in .bis intended Difcovery of a North-mef Paflage into the South Sea, 1631.}

THE worfhipful Company of Merchanr Ad- their Offices upon thecir Credirs, knowing it tobe à geventurers of the City of Briffol, undeffand- ral bufinefs, and theirvutter undoing if they. faited in Pering that our Sovecraign Lord Charles che firft; formance , burtruly they proved themfelves Mafters' it had an earneft defire to be cerrified whecher their Arts, and have my praife for their honeft care, there were any Paffage or not, by the North-weft into wherein confifted a great part of the performance of the the South Sea, did fit and fet forth a chioice, well-condi- Vovage tioned, ftrong Ship, cailed the Henrietra Marra, of the burthen of 70 Tuns, vilualled for 18 Months.
I was ever of opinion that this Adtion might be better effeted by one Ship chan two; becarfe in thofe Icy Seas fo much fubjeat to Fogs and Soorms, they might be eafily reparated; and a place of meeting in Difcoveries canfor furely, or withour much hindrance be appointed; wherefore 1 refolved to have but oneShip, the Ship-boat, and a Shallop.
A grear Ship (as by former experience I had found) was unfir to be forced thro' the Ice, I therefore made choice of a Ship of the burthen aforefiid, which the Cappenters milade as ftrong and ferviceable as poffibly in their underftanding chey could.
The Baker, Brewer, Burcher, and others; undertake \(\left\lvert\, \begin{aligned} & \text { Keeping the Powerinmy own tands, I had all the Men }\end{aligned}\right.\)
The number of Men thought convciineitito manage chis bulinefs was 22, whereof 19 were choice able Men, two Younkets, and my felf;, noluniary Loiterès I difclaimed and publifhed I would have none but approved able Scamen, and unmarried. The whole Company were firangers ro me and each other, but privarely recommended to me by worthy Merchants, fortheir Ability and Fidelity. I was fought to by divers thathad formerly beenin places of the chicfett command in this Action; and others' alfo that had uedthe Nothern Icy Seas; but I uiterly refufed hem all, and would by no imeans have. any with me that rad been in the iike Voyage or Advenures, for fome privite Reafons, unneceflary here to be related. Thus Brewer, Butcher, and others; undertake to acknowledge immediare dependance upon my felf, Aalone, both for directing the Navigation, and difpofing all other things what mever.

On the fecond of May, 1631 , accompanied with divers Merchants of the City of Britol Adventurers in this Action, I went aboard where Palmer preached a Sermon, exhorting usto continue bró therly love amongit us, and to be bold to profefs the cruc Chrittian Religion whereyer we thould happen to come. After they had received fuch entertainment as I coukd affurd them, they returned to Briflol, and the next day, aficr Prayers for a profperous Voyage, we food down the Channcl of Severn, with litrle Wind, and got to the Weftward of Lundy, when the Wind coming againft us we anchored in Lundy-road, where we rergained until thecighth, and then fetting lail, we were forced to pur into Mifford Haven, where we remained till the 17th, whenec with the firtt fair Wind, we procceded and doubled Cape Clare in lieland. Here I ordered a W. N. W. Ccurfe to be kept as near as the Wind would give leave.
The fcurthof func being very thick foul weather, we made the Land of Gicenland, and the nexs day at two in the Morning, were encompaffed with Ice, and endesvouring to clear our felves of it, were the more engaged, becaute we could not fee farabout us, and we ftruck many fcarful blows againf it. Ar, laft we faftned to a very great picce (is blowing a Storm) and wrought all day and night to keep off the Ice, in which labour. we brake all our Poles.
The fixth, at two in the Morning we were befer with many extraordinary great pieces of Ice, that came upon us, as it were with wilful violence, and doubelefs had crafhed us to picces, if we had nor ler fall fome Sail, which the Ship prefently felt. In efcaping that danger weran againft another great piece, thar we doubred whether our Ship had nor beenftaved to pieces, bue pumping, we found the made no Water. The former pieces of Ine had cruthed our Shallop all to pieces, wherefore I ordered our long-boar to be had up from berwixt the Deeks, and put over-board, by help whereof wexecorercu our broken Shallop, and had her up on the Decks, inrending to rebuild her. Allchis day it blew a ftorm, and in the Evening we were inclufed with picces of Ice as high as our Poop, and fome of the tharp blew corners of them did reachquite under us. All theregreat pieces (we-being near the ounvard part of the Ice) didheaveand fet, and fo beat us, that it was wonderful how the Ship could enNure one blow of it; bur it was God's only prefervation of us, to whem be all Honour and Glory. In this extremiry we let fall all the Sail we could, and the Ship fored her fiff chao' it, tho' fo toffed and beaten, as. I thinknever Shipwas. When we were clear, we cried the Pumps, and found hicritanch, upon which we wear inttanciy ro Prayer, and to praife God for his merciful deliverance.
The 7 th, , ch, and ath, we endeavour'd to double Cape Fniswell, lying W. N. W. from the Blefguesin Len Irnd, and in Laritude of 59 Deg., the diftance about 4to Leagucs. The variation of the Compals 3 leagues to the Weftward of Irelend, in Latitude 52 Deg. \(j^{\circ} \mathrm{Min}\) is about chuce Dcg . to the Eaftward. When we were about 310 Leagues W. N: W. from the Blafques, in 1 atitude of 57 Deg. the Compals varied nine Deg. to the Weftward: About 40 Leagues to the Eaft ward of Cape Frrepell, in Lat. 59 Deg. is Min. the Variation was abour 14 Dcg .45 Min . In this Courfe I obferved whether any Current did fer to the N. E. as fomchave written there did, and that as well in calm weather as otherwife, bur l could not perceive any. The Winds we fornd variable, and the Sca of an unfearchable depth; we faw no Whales or other Filh. The weather for the moll part was foggy and mifty, and Wees as bad as rain:
The is th was very foul wrather, and a lrigh grown Sea altho' we had lice not far from us, and lome pieces as high as our Top-madt-head. Our Long-boar, which wastowed ar ftern (tecaưfe we were bnilding our Shallop on our Decks) broke away, and put us to forne trouble to recover ber again; ar laft we got her into the Ship, rbo very much iruifed, and two Men were fore hurt and like to be loft in gerting herin. At cight in the Evening we were frot up as high as Cape Defolation, in Liat. 60 Deg. and the Land from Cape Farcwell to it, trends N. W. the diftance abour 40 : Leagues. From Cafe D.folarion to the South end of, the. Iland of Kefo\(\mathrm{br}_{2}\) ion; is abour 140 Leagues, the Courfe Weft half 2 PoincNorth: Aboar 12 Leagues to Abe- Wefward of Cape 'Dfformion, che Variation is 16 Deg .00 Min . In this Courfe we were mach; cormented with Ice, many pieces higher than our Main-top-mall-head; we faw many cirsmpufis, The weather was for the molt pat . ftinking Fog, and the Sea very black, which 1 concuive - be occationsed i,y the Fog.

The inth, at Night we beard the rut of the Shear, as we thourht, making an hollow and hideous noife, like an Orcr-fall of Watcr. We frood off from ir till breaic of day, and a four in the Moraing found is to be a rut againtt a Bank of lecthat lay on the Shoar, and fay the Landabove rhe Feg, which we knew to be the Jland of Kcfolurion. This Night all our Rigging and Sails were frozen. Here runs a quick Tide into the Streighr, but saib tirzza the Ebb is as Atrong as the Flood. "The Foy was of fuch in mme a piercing naturc, that it fpoiled all our Compances, and co. made chemfo heavy that they would not traveric; whete-twom - fs fore I advife thofe that thall travel this way hereafier, \(t\), kcol provide Compaffes of Midecuire Glafs, or foine other mater that will endure the moilture of che weadier. As the Fog cleared up, we could fee the entrance of the Streighr, which was all full of lee clofe thronged together. Endeavouring ro go forward, we were fatt inlorsd in ir, and so drove to and again with it, finding no ground as 230 Fathom four Leagues from tlie Shoar. No contil The 20th wegot about the Southern Rint of the Inand, \({ }^{251230 \mathrm{~F}, \mathrm{~F}}\) and the Wind coming upar Weft, drove both us and the Ice upon the Shoar. When we were driven within swo 1. eagues of the shoar, we came among the ftrangeit whirlings of the Scachar potibly can be conceived. There were divers grear pieces of Ics aground in 40 Fathom wa- ine agmand Ter, and the Ebb coming out of the broken Grounds of the 1 lland amonget thefellis of Ice, made fuch a diftraction, hat we were carried round, fometimes clole by the Rocks, fometimes fo near thofe high pieces of Ice, that we feared they would fall upon us. With our kidger and Grapnels we made faft two great pieces of Ice ro our fides, that drew nimeor ten Fathom, thar fo chey mightbe aground before us if we hould be driven alhoar. Our Boat being now finibed, I fent her to find lome place of fecurity, but the was prefencly inclofed, and foriced to hale up on the Ice, or clie the had been crumhed in picces. They ran her over che Inc from piece topicce, and in the mean time with the whirling and encouncring of the Ice, the two pieces broke awry from our fides, and carried 2way our Kedger and Grapnels. Then we made figns to che Boar romake all the hatte they could to us, and we made fome fail, and gor to that piece of Ice which had our Grannel on it, and recovered ir again. By chis time our Boai was come, and we put a freth Crew inno her, and fent them toferch our Kedger, with much danger both of Boar and Mcn. The Ship in the mean time was driven fo.near the Shoas; that we could See the Rocks under us and about us. We wene over Rocks that had but 12 or 13 Eoot Water on thom, and then let fall an Anchor, which had never been able to wind up the Ship, but that by good fortune fice ranagainft a great picec of lee thar was aground. This ruth brake the main Knes of her Beak-head, and rore avay four of our main Shrouds. We had but 15 Fathom Water, being alfoin the Tides way; where all the Ice would drive upon us. Nor fecing our Boar, whercin was the third parc of our Company, we feared the had been crulhed in picces, butat laft we law her come about a Point amongt the Rocks, haring recovered our Kedge Aichior, which made us joyful. With all feced we laid our Hawfers to the Rocks, and every one worked: to the bol of his ftrength to warp her out of this dangcrous place to the Rocks fide, whicre we had chree Fathom Water, and were under the theleter of a great piece of Ice which was aground, and kepr off the lee rbat otherwife would have driven upon us. Here we lay very well all the Ebb, but when che Flood came, we were affaulted wirh pieces of Ice that made us almoft defpair. Ar full Sea our grear piece of Ice, which was cur Buckler, was afloans and do what we coukd, got away from us, and left us inimoft eminent danger, by reafonof the Ice thar drave in upon us; but as foon as the Ebb was made, this great piece of lee came aground again, and thelter'd us. We wrought hard all Nighr in fhifting our Cables and Hawers, and faftning thein alofe on the Rocks, thac the. Ice might the better pats under them. It frowed hard all day and night, and blew a Storm as Weft; which drove fnow. in in all the Ice out of the Sea upon us. In working againft the violence of the Ice, the Fiook of our Kedge Anchor, wwo Arms of our Grapnels, and two Hawfers were broken, and our Shallop again very much bruifed.
The 21ft the:Harbour was choak'd with Ice, but when the Ebb was made, it did move. Some grear pieces caine agroumd, which alterd the Courfe of the orher lce, and putus on the Rock.: Here, notwithftanding all our ut- The Sthip moft endeavours, the fetled upon a Mharp Rock, about a Reck Yard abafi the Miain-maft, and as the Warer cbbed away, fhe hung after the Head, and heel'd so the Offing We faftned Cables and Hawfers aloft to her Maft and to to the Rocks, ftraining them taur with our Tackles; but as the Water cbbed away, The funk ftill, and at laft was fo turned over, thar we could nor ftand in her. Having now-done all to the beft of our underftanding (tho' to litrle purpofe) we went all to prayers upon a piece of Ice, befeeching Cod to be merciful unto us. The Ship was fo turned over, that the Portals of the Fort-caftle was in the Warer, and we looked every minute when the would apmide. overfet; indecd at onc time the Cables gave way, and the funk down half a Foor ar that fip; bur uncxpeAtedly i: began to flow, and the Water rofe apace, and the Ship withal; whereupon we all on onr Knees praifed God for his mericy in fo miraculous a deliv erance.
As foonas the was freed from this Rock, we wrough hand to get her furcher off. All the Flood we were pretty quier from the Ice, but when the Ebb was made, all the les came driving again upon us, and pur us to great exeremity. We gor as many pieces betwixt us and the Rocks as we could, to defend us from nhem. There came a great picce upon our Quarter, whith was above 300 of uny Paces abour, but it came aground, as did di vers grear picees befides, which was the caule of the Harbour's being quite choak'd up this tide, fo that a Man mighe walkover it from lide to fide. When it was threc guarters Ebb, thofe great picces thar came aground began to brcak with 2 moft scrible noife, which put us in great fcar that thofe about us would break us all to picces, bur God preferved us.

The 2id, in the Morning the Watcr ebbed lower by two foot than the laft Tide it had done, whereby we taw God's Mercies apparent in our late Extreminy. That Flool we had fome refpir, bur afier full Sea, our Hopes cbied too. The grear picee that was by us fo fopid the Channel, that the Ice came all driving upon us, to tha now undoubredly wethoughe we thould loofe our Ship. To work we went, with Axes, Bars of Iron, and any thing proper for fuch 2 purpofe, to break the Corners o the İce, and inake way for it sodrive from us. It pleafcd God so give good fuccefs to our Labours, and wemade way for fome, and fended off the reft. This day I went afhoar, and fer up 2 grear Beacon with Srones upon the higheft place of the loland, and putting a Crols upen it namedir the Harbour of Gods Providence. In the Evening the Harbour was fuller of Ice than ever it had been fince our coming, and the Ship lay as it were in a Bed of Isc.

The 23d, the Iee with the EUb drore all out, except one extraordinary great piece, which coming aground not far from us, fethed it felf in fuch a marner, thatwe much fared it; but there came no more grear ice af terir, otherwife we muft have expected as great danger as at any time before: I went athoar upon the Eaftern fiac to fee if I could End any place freer from danger than this unfortunare place, where amongft the Rocks I found a likely place. From the top of the Hill where I was, I could fie the Ship, and it being then almott low Waicr, the forcfaid piece of Ice brake with a rerrible noife into four pieces, which made me fear it had fooiled the Ship, in being full half maft high. I made what hatte I could to be larisficd, where I found all well God be chanked; and prefently fent away the Boat ro found the way ro. 2 Cove thar I had found. At her re tum we unnoored the Ship, and warp'd away from this cerrible Ice. We wite not a Mile from it when it brake all to pieces, and we had furely born in company, had nor God been merciful to us. When wehad broughr the Ship to the Cove, we made faft to the Rocks, and wens athoaragain so fee whar I could difcover. I found ir all broken rocky Grounds, without Tree, Herb, or Grafs upon it. I faw fome Pondsof. Warer which were not yer thawed, and thercfore nor ready for the Fown \(I\) found norany footing of Decr or Bears in the Snow bur faw enc or two Foxes. We found where the Savages bid been, but it was long fince: They had made Hearths, and lefr fame Firebrands abour them, wirh fome Heads and Bones of Foxes, and fome Whale-bones. I cannor conccive to what purpofe they thould come thither, there beinglitrle or no Wood, and no Fifh at all, tho'wedaily endeavourd to take fome, bur it may be, the Seafon was not yet come. The Fire-brand had been cur with fome Hatchet or other Inftrunient of Iron. From the rop of the Hills we could fee the Mands on the South Shoar, called Sir Ti omas Buttens Ifes, It or 15 Leazues diftant. It Hows here feren 2 Clock and a balf upon the changeday, and the Iide highed ar moft three Fathom: The Flocd comes from the Ealtward, and thisher in returns.

The atrhin che Mforning there forung up a fair gat of Wind at Eaft. Atter prayers we fec fail, Atceriny to rween grear pieces of Ice that ware agrotad in 40 Fa thom, and iwice as high as our Top-mait-head. We ferwics en within a League of the llland of \(k \int!\) sicm, where we with hid. had fome clear Water to fail thro, whereas the lec vasa very thick in the Offing. By 12 we wer: falt inctofed, and notwithfanding it bliw very hard at Ealt, yct we could make no way thro ir, and the hard Corners of che Ice did grate us with that vinicnce, chat I veril: thoughe it would have gratel the llanks from the ships dides. Thus we continued in tormentrill the 2 eth day, diaving 0 and again in the Ice, not being able to fec an Acre of Sca from the Top-maft-head. I cauted the Man to lay out fome Fifhing lines, but to no purnofe, for I sculd nor perceive the Baits had been touched. The Ni:ghte were very cold, fo that our Rigging was frozen, and feth Ponds of Water ftood uron the Ice above ha'f an Inch thick.

The 27 th, a finall Gale at \(S\). E, ard the Iice did fomewhat open; hercupon we let fali our Fore-fini, and forced the Ship rhro' ir. In the Evening the Wind came consrary at W.N. W. and blowing hard, we faftned to 3 great picce till the 2gth.
I am farisficd by many Experiments I have made, that here is no Current; namely, by caking Marks on tbe Land, and noting our Drifrto and again, with the Ebb and Flood for many days together, and as well in calm weather as ocherwife. By all which, I found exaetly that the Tide was no ftronger there chan betwecn Englan.d and Frencr.
From this 29th to the sth of Fuly, we failed thro the Ice with variable Winds and Fogs, and Taw SclinburyIland, and foon after Prince Clertes Cape: The Sea to the N. N. W. pefterd with lee, which grieced me very much, becaufe having determined to profecure the difcovery to the North-weltward, I now faw it was not pollibie this Ycar; wherefore I order'd to fteer away W. S. W. in which Courle we Atruck more fearful blows againit the Le chan we had everyer donc. This was the fret day that we went to, half allowance of Bread on Fleth Days. Inthe Evening we anchored. and Ifent the Boar alhoar to try the Tides. They broughs me word that whilit the Boat was afhoar, is flowed three Foot, and we found by the Ship and the Ice, that the Waterat thas cime came from the W. S. W. and chat the higheft Tides ( fo fax as they could perceive) had not highed above wo Fathom. They found that Savages had been there, but faw no Tracks of any Beats befides Foxes.
Next Morning being the 17th, the Shoar keing pretry clear of Ice, we flood along ir S. and S.by W. rean Leagues, and then the Wind coming contrary, we anchor'd, and I wencathoar to bercfolved of the Tide, and found whilft I was afhoar thar it did flow two Foor, and ar that time the Flood came from the \(\mathbf{S}\). W. by W. I doubred it was an half Tide, which afterwards I found ro be urac. It flows on the Change Day about cleven a clock.
The iSth we fteexd away. Weft; being come as we thought, into an open Sea, bur our foy was forn quailled; for by ten ar Nighr we heard the rut of the Ice. We ftood along it, hoping to weacher is to the Scuctsward, till we became to blinded with Fog; and fo ent compaffed with Ice, that we could go no further.
Thus we continued till the 21 ft , in lar. 60 Deg. 33 Min. and thenlooking whar damagcourShip hadrcecived, we perceived, tharbelow the Plate of Iron which was before her Cut-water, fhe was all bruircd. and broken, the two Knees inc had before to ftrengthen her, froiled and rorn, and many other Defects, which we could nos by any means come ro mend: Norwithftanding all which, and the exrraordinary thick Fon, thar we could nor fee a Piftol hor abour as, we proseeded with the hazard of all till the 27 Th , being the fint time we had clear Wearher to look abour us. 1 he Water now began to Thoal, for whercas the depth was ordinarily \(x=0\) Fachom, ir was now but 80 .
The 28thand 29th, we were fo faft inclored with Ice, that norwichitanding we had pur aboard all the Sail we had, and thar it blew a very hard gaic of Wind, the Ship titred no more than if the had been in a dry Dock. We all went boldly out upon the lce ro recreate our felves, letring herftand ftill under all her Sails. It was large flar Ice, the wort to deal with that we had yet found : Imeafured fome pieces, which were 1000 of my Paces long. This was the firft day our Men began to murmur, chinking it imporfible to get either forwasds or backwards. I comforted and encouraged them the kett I could; and to pur away thefe Cogitations, we drank 2 healch to his Majefty on the Ice, not one Man in the Ship, and the fitl under all her Sails. I mutt ingenuoufly contets, that their murmuring was not without caure. And doubring that we floould be frozen up unthe Sca, Iorder'd Firc to be made but once a day, the better to prolong our Fewel whatfocver thould happen. We put out our Hooks to try tocarch fome Fill, bur to no purpofe; for there is not any in this Bay.

From the firft to the sith was thick fogey weather. On the third we faw a litric open Water to the N. W' and ele a fweiling Sea from the Weft, which alfured us there wasan open Sea to the Weft wayd

Ondic netio we faw the Land; it is from Digs linand to this Kectern land, about 160 Leagues. The Tides - do fer in themiddie of the Bay Eaft and Weft (as we have oftentricd by our lead aground) but nearer the Shoars, asthey are forced by the 1 and. I am of opinion. tharjunthe Occan or in large Bays, the Tides do narurally'fot Eaft and Weft, and that this thercfore gives litelehopes of a Paffage. The greareft depth in the Bay 19. 10 Fathom, and fo moalding as you approach to Land. We coalted this little Bay, which is abour 18 lcagucs dece, and had 8 and 6 Fathom Water, and in che bortom of it we were in two Fathom and a half, and. Faw the Firm-land alionof round abour us. Then we proseeded to the Southward, within fiphe of the Breach of the Shear, kecping the Icad continually going, and in the Night anchored with our Kedger, but in weighing of it, we loft in, having no moreaboard us
The 12th, we were in Lat. 58 Deg. 46 Min. two Leagues from the Shoar. The variacion about 17 Dc grecs.

The 13th, Afternoon, being fomewhat hazy, we fasw fome Breaches a head of us; our depth was nine or ten Fachom, and luffing to clear our felves of them, we fuddenly fruck upon the Rocks, the Ship then under ourtwo Top-fail;, Forc-fail, and Sprit-fail, with a freft Gale of Wind. In this fcartul Accident, we fruck all our Saus amain, and is pleafed God to fend two or threseood Srue:ting Seas, which heared us over the Focks info three Fatiom, whise chopping to an Anchor, we elfaied the Pumps, and found the made no Water, altho' he had three fuch terrible blows, that we thought ber Maft would have fhiverid to pieces, and that the had been affuredly bulged. We hoifed our the Boat to find a Way our of this perilous place; the was no fooner'gone, but there rofe a Fog. fo that we were fain to fpend tome Powder, that the night hear whercabouts we were. The Wind dulld fonething, or clfe is had been doubrful whether the could ever have recovered us again. Afrer the had been abrent two Hours, the broughe us word that it was all Rocks and Breaches round about us, bur that fhe had found a Way where chere was not lefs than two F2thom and a.half, and that aftervards the Water did decper. We prefently weighed and followed the Boat, and paft over two Ledges of Rocks, whereon was fcarce 14 Foot Water, which we saw the next day dry above Warer, whereby 1 know is flows here wo Fathom at lcaft.

The 15 th, in the Evenirg our Cable galled off, by reafon of whith perilous and fudden Accident, in which we had not timero put a buoy to it, we loft our Anchor, and were driven into four Farhom Water before we could fet our Sails, and it growing dark, we anchored again, and rode a good ftrels all Nighr.

The stch, in the Morning a freth galeac North, we fet fail, and by aine a clock it grew to be a very form. Thenext day ar Noon, Lar. 57 Deg. 15 Min. we reckoned our felves fix or feven Leagues to the Southward of Port Neilfon:. Here the colour of the Water changed, and was of a puddliin and fandy red colour. We could not fee the Iand from Top-malt-head, and Nightcoming on, we ftood off again.
On the 2cth wefaw the I and, being a very low flat Land, whicin I named Ties Now Principaliy of Souzb Whats, and drank a licaled in the beft Liquor we bad, to Prince Charles; whom God preferve. We ftood along is till che Evening, and then anchored: The Tide didfer N. W. by W. and S. E. by E. There went a chopping thor: Sea, and the Ship did labour exceedingly, leaping a blow on the Breaft with a Bar, that he lay frawling for Life ; another had his Head berwixt the Calle, and hardly cfaped; the reft were flung, and fore bruifed. But our Gunner, an honeft diligent Man, had his Leg Therem.. caught lectween the Cahle and Capton, which wrungheplut. off his Foot, andcore all the Flem from his Leg, cruhbed the Eone to pieces, and forely bruifed his whole Rody : In which niferable condition he remaineal crying, till we had recovered our Memorics and Strengths tockitr him. Whilit we were putting him and the reft downto the Chirurgion, the Ship drove into Shoal Water, which put usall in fart; but it pleafed God the Anchor heid again, and we rods it out all Night. By midnight the Chirurgion had takenoff the Gunner's Leg ac the partering place, and dreft the others that were hurs and bru:ed, after which, we comforted each other as well as we could.

The 22d, we weighed and ftood into deep Water, and prosecded along the Shoar till the 27 th, when we anchors in five Eathom. Ifent off the Boat well mannd and armid, with order in writing what they were to do, and a charge to return again before Sun-fer. When Erening came, we had no news of our Boat; we fhot and madefalfe fircs, but had no anfwer, which much perplexed us, doubting feme difafter had befaln her, and in her we thould loofe aill : We aboard were not able to weigh our Anchor not fail the Ship. Ac laft we faw a Firc on the Shoar, which made us the more doubtful, becaufe they did not anfwer our Shot nor falfe Fires with the like: We thourght alfo chat it had been the Savages, who now triumphed in their Conqueft. Ar iaft they returned all fafc, and excufed themfelyes, in that upon their coming a fioar, is cbbed fo fuddenly, that a Bank of Sand that lay withour them, was prefently dry, and they could nor come away till that was covercd again. They reported char chey founid great ftorc of drif: Wood onthe Shoar, and that there was Wood growing on the land: That they faw the Tracks of Decr and Bears, good fore of Fowl (whereof they killd frme) but no fign of Pcople: That is flowed very ncarthrec Eathoms, as arpeared by the Shoar: Thar if was'low water at four 2 clock: That it flowed half Tide, and that the Elood came from the \(N\). W.
The 2gth, in the Moming as it cleared, we faw a Ship three or four leagues to 1 ceward of us, and bearing up wich her, found her to be his Majetics Shir, Cap-reere: tain fox Commander. We faluted cach other accord- wiat craria ing to the manner of the Sea, and the next Morning he \({ }^{\text {Fox. }}\) with his Friends came aboard me, and were enfertained in the beft manner I could, withfuch frefh Meat as 1 had gotren from the Shoar. I made known to him all the Dangers of this Coaff, as far as I had bcen. He rold me that he hadbeen in Port Niclfon, and had made bur a curfory difcovery hitherio, and that he had not been on Land, for had many times feen the Land. In the Evening, afres I had given his Man fome Tobacco and other chingswhich they wanted, he departed aboard his Ship, and next Morning food away S. S. W. fince which time I never faw him, and we ftood in for the Shoar, and proceedce in fight of it. This Month of Ahguff. ended with Snow and Hail, and the Weather as cold as at any time I hate foit in Ergiond.
September the firft, wercoafted along the Shoar, and on Scpetriber the fecond had a violent Storm.
Onthe chird we defried a Head-land, which we namcd Cape Hemictre Maric, in Lat. 55 Deg. 5 Min- It is diftant from Port Nelfon abour 130 Leagues: The Yariation taken by Amplitude is abour 16 Degrees: A moft fhoal and perilous Coaft. in which there is not one Hari bour to be found. In the Afternoon we had a teariing Storm ar North, which continucd till midnight with extram violence.

The fourth, in the Morning the Srorm brake \(\mathrm{i}_{\mathrm{P}}\), and we ftood in again, founding cortinually At Noon we faw the Iand treeding S. by E. and the Tides did fet along it with a quick motion. In the Erening there came a grear rowling Sea from the N. N. E. and by cight a clock it blew very batd at S. E. and by reaton of the ent counter of the Wind and the great Sea, the Sea was all in a breach, and to make up a perfect Tempeft, is did.fo lighten, fnow, rain, and blow all the Night long, that I was never in thelike. We skipd many Seas, but one moft dangerous, which raked us forciand afr, that I veriIy thoughe it bad funk the Ship. The Ship did labons moft terribly in this deftraction of Wind and Wavies, and we had mach ado no keep all things faft in the Hold and berwixt Decks.

The fifth, in the Morning the Wind hifed S. W. but continued its fury. In the Afternoon it mifed asain to cheN. W. and there thewed its utmett matice, with in Sprit-fail-gard, Fore.cattle and all. Ar nine at Night Lead that the Ship did drive, wherefore bringing the Cable to Capfton to heave in cur Cable, (for we thought we had loft our Anchor) the Anchor hicci'd again, and upon the chopping of the Sea, threv the Men from the Capiton. A fmall Rope in the dark had gotten foul \(\mathrm{a}^{-}\) bour the Cable, and about the Mafter's Leg too, but with help of God, he cleared himelf, tho not without fore bruiling. The two Mateswere hurt, one in the Head; the ocher in the Arm. One of/ our lufieft Men had fuch that pcaring violence, that ncither I , ness, any that were Our Ship did fo labour wea in fuch a terrible breach. and a thoth ends, that we were in mof in on torth fides, in this unknown. place. At eight at Nighr it diftel's and we had fome quietncfs, none of us havitrake up, wink in 30 Hours before. If this ftorm having ilepr a Eatterly as it wasat firtt, withour God's had continucd all perithed.

\section*{Chap. XXXVI. A Voyage for difcovering a Paflage to the smet:}
The fixth, the Wind being at \(S\). W. we could do no good to the Weftward; we ipent the time therefore in things opardhip, we broyght our Coals and othet did pick our Bread, much whecrof her before; others we could, we flhippd abundance of wet, for do what into the Hold and Bread-room. Water, which ran Tacks and Shoots, with other Ri, We overlooked our caufe benceforward we were t Riggings of Strefs, bewinter weather. This Evere to look for no other but ful Man, who had labourening our Boatfwain, a paindays, was very fick, fivounding amay thefe two or threc to that we verily thought he would prefertly bave dicd.
We flood off and on in thick foggy weather, amongh Sands, Rocks. and Breaches, nutil the 14 th, when I went alhoar on an Inand to fearch for Scurvy-grafs, Sorrel, or ing none, 1 recurned a refreth our fick Peoplc, but find Mento another pard afoard, and fens. many of our fick could fortunately find any relicf for thcir Griefs: Inche Evening they returned comfortefs: I could nor percche that the Tide flowed above two Foor. There perccive looking 14th, 25 break of day we were ioveru:drift Wood on the Shoar, and fonc of it drove up much this was the Shoal that lay about two 1 sese'ce git high on the North fide of the lland, wherchy I 1 very Anchor, and flood to clear about it. Wis po: wi:

The 12th, in the Morning it began to blow hard, and heaved in our Anchor and being foft ozy Grournd; we heaved in our Anchor, and failed under two Courfes and whilf moft were bufy in heaving our of Cop-fidse

Oirt Shallop went yery high, and was all fail-7urthy Our Shallop, which we did now tows and in a Brect. Moored with rwoHalfters' was furk an siers, beim Moorings, with her Keel wap rwenk, and did ratss: This made our Ship to hull very bry cimes in an Eintr. did continaally overak to hull very broad, to thas the hit. to recover he overrake us, yer we endurad: ... sec Nighercr her. The Srorm continued end is, thektue Night, with fome rain inche Morine with iainenot weather. The Wacer foaled apacian, wat rey the grown Sca wishal, thar a fild apace, wise fich an oiv Whar was worfe, that a fail was not to tercithan on now thercfore we, there was ro tru!ting tiontan; tia good end of a me berath toprepare our kely an anchor: is cleating up, we faw rwo mented Lifc. Abrat bearing up to them faw two inands unter coty: endearourd them, faw an opening becwitr an and hope of us if wec in beforc N:ght ; for thesen, at fope of us if we continued at \(\overline{\text { cen }}\); for thas we te We found in to come Dcath. we mult ren this ;izre, We found ir to bea good Sound where we tode bazard. Shallor moored with we gor irio this gone rece tace: loft her to our with two Hallers, breke an place, cur the hnip-boar, and the touch had now trine lef wo we remained till se 1 th , in torn xnd bruled. Here thing bur fiow wed fow, in ail which rinic is dit \(\%\) Fur our Boat ovex-board. extreamly, fo that we derit nit: The rith we weigh and anchored undcragnet and food to the Southward hhoar, and mamed it wandred upanddown ive Earl of Birifo's Shord been any Pcople on io, but could not perceive there Hert, The Tides bighed aboure any Fifh, Fowl or being Northerly: The Flood cint Foor, the Winds and it flows half Tide : It was colll Sca from dhe Norrh, clock. Here feeing the Winds contiwa this day ar one a we. could nor ger the Winds continuc Norticily, thas thought it neft to look out to go "into Hidforn's Bry, wr vifed ro go for Port Neifon, beceutring place; - fome ad was a Core where we migt bive werc certain there not that Counfll becurft is bring in our Ship. I liked might be fo long crewe would a perilous place, and is me debard by the Ire; befides ger thither, that we mighti Latitude, thar our Rigging was, it beirg fo cold in this that fome Mornings wis frozen cvery Nishe, and chick off our Decks it hovel'd the Snow half a Foor theother place, and thercu pir it would be far worfe in: the other place, and thercuror rcfolved to fand. again Cove forour Ship. there to look for fonse littic Creck or
The 2fft, we we in the Evening the Wind and food to the Southward took in aliour Sails Wind ins reafed, and blew hard: We took in aliour Sails, and Ic her drive to the Southward, beaving the Lead every Glaif. Ofr depth when we took in our Sails was 30 Fan which was a grear contort Fathom, and increafed to 45 night it fuddenly decreart to us in the dark. At midnight it fuddenly decreafed, and asfaft as hate Lcad conild chnoid to an Anchor, and trimmed our Ship Aft, to -mouns on the Sea, and titted all things so ride is out: There was no need to bid our Men watch. We rode it oit well all Night, altho the Sea went very lofty, and that is blowed yery hard.

The 2ad, in the Morning we faw an fland a League off umer our Lee, all being Shoals and Breaches berwixt usand it. At Noon, with the help of the Windward Tisic, we attempred to have up our Anchor, alcho the Soaftill went very lofry. Joining allour Strengths, God te thanked, wegotir up; bur before we could let our Sails, were driven into nine Fathom; whercupon we condeavouring to double a Point, and ger under the Les of the Ihand, the Water moaled on feven, fix, and five fathom, bue when we were abnut, it deepned again, and we anchored in a very good place, and at was wall for us that we did, for the Wind increaled to a very form. Lalt Niglit and this Morning it fnowed and haild, and teas rery coll. 1 went afhoar to look for forme Creck or Cove to have in our Ship, for fhe was very laky, and the Company were fickly and weak with mech pumping and extram labror. 1 afeendec the rop of a Hill, but could nor fee whac I looked for: I named it Sir Tiom.s Rec's Ilhmi. Ac Nion we weighed, fecing an liland that bareS.S. E. of us, four Leagues off; but as we cime near it, it fuducnly thoalcd to fix, five and Lour Fachom; wherefore we fruck our Sails amain, and chop'd:o an Anchor, but it was very foul ground, and we had but threc Fathom at her Seem, Holding it no fafe to stay longer here, we fetled every thing in order for the Ship tofall the righe way, We had up our Anchor, and itrool overagaia tor Sir Thomes Roc's I/and, which by Nighr we broughs in the Wind of us two Leagues off, and did well thelere us.
The 2 ath \(^{\text {th }}\) in the Morning it threatned a Scorm, where upen we weighed rith the Windward Tide to get nearer under the llland. It was very thick foggy weather, and as we ftood to the N, E we came to very uncertain depilis; at one caft twenty Fathoms, the next feven, thento tive, cight, and three, and coming upon the othe laci, we were worte than we were before. It pleafed God we got clear of them, and endeavour'd to get under the lec of thellland; bur not being able to effect it, we were forced to auchor in 35 Fathom two Leagues off the Shoar. All this Night if fnowed and hail'd, and was very cold.
The a-sth we weighed, and as we tacked to and again, the 1 Vind thifted fo in our Teech, that it pur us within 2 \(G\) arter of a Mile of the very hoar, where we chop"d to an Anchor, and rode it out for life and death, Such MiErics we cminred amongt thefe Shoals and broken Ground. Our Shect Anchor was down rwice or thrice a day; ard thiscontinued till the laft of joftember, which we thcughe wrould have pur an end to our Miferies, there being nuthing but Rocks, Shoals, Overfalls, and Breaches round abour us.
The firft of OAtover was indifferent fair, and our Boat ai brr. Scunded a Channel ro help us our of chis perilous place. She returned in rwo Hours, telling us the had been a way wherethere was nor lefs than twelve Fachom. We preiently weighed, but fourd it otherwife, the Water hloaling to fix Fathom; bue there was no remedy, we mutt so forvard. Is plealed God fo to dircce us, that we for thro is, fomerimes twenty Fathom, then on a Cudten leven, fix and five, to we ttruck all our Sails amain, and chopd to an Anchor, where we rode till midnight for life and death; ir blowing a mercilefs gale of Wind, and the Sea going very lofry, and all in a Breach ; the Ground was foul alfo, fo that we doubted our Cable cyery Minuic.
The fecond, in the Morning was lietle Wind ; wefent the Boas to found; which returning in two Hours, told us they had found a place of fome fafery to ride in, and had been in noleis warer than \(s\) Fathom. We weighed, and fo md our Cable galled in two places, which had foon inich ns if the foul weather had continued. We trood the fanc way the Boat directed us, and anchoring in 18 Fa torn, I went alhoar on an Mlind to the Southward of us, which I named the Earl of Denly's l/land. From the hisheft place in i , 1 could fee it all broken Grounds and Sicais to the Southwards, and rather worle than beter than tha: which we laulbeen in. I found thar People had been upon it, and chat it was full of Wood. Towards Evering is besan so blow hard, wherefore we made towards the Ship, and rowing for Lite to recover her, we sit to lecward of her; but they in the Ship putting Orfin a buovand a Warn, we got hold of it and haled up tolier. It blowed a yiolent gale all night, with frow and Hail.
Ihe third, the wind dulld, and weighing, we frood further into the Gay, into four Fathom and a half water. I went prefently athoar to fee whas confore I could had onthis Mland, beine the fame we did after winter upon. Ifound the Tracks of Decr, and fasy iome Fuwl; lue thas which I reioiced at moft was, that I faw an ()pening into the land like a River; wemade to it with allfrect, but found it barted, and not two foor water at full Scacn the Bar, and yet within an excelleme tine Harbour, having four Fathom water.
The fourth, it fnowed and blew yery hard; I and our more went four or five Miles up into the Comitry, bur could find no rclicf for our lack Mcn, befules a few Eerrics. When we had wearicd our felies in the trouberome Woods, we returned aboard with no good Nicue is continued foul weather rill the 6th, when we tood dicarrroulc Shoar andmoored our Ship.
The 7th, it fnowed all day, and blew a ftorm withal; it froze fo, that all the Bows of the Ship, with the Beakhead, werc all Ice, and the Cable was as bip as a Man's Middle. The Bowsof the Boat were frozen half a Foo thick, fo that we were fain no hew and bear it off. The Sunthining very clcar, we tore the Top-rails our of the Tops, which were hard frozen in thern, and let them hang a funning all day, ina very lump, the Sun nor hav ing Power to thaw them. Secing now the \(V\) Vinect to come fo exercamly upon us, and fearing that we thould nor able to go toand again with che Eoar, we rowed athoa with much difficulty; and filled the Boar w:thy Vood and fent the Carpenter and ochers to cut Wrow, bue having but litulc aboard. It was miferably cold alrcatif abozathong Ship, every thing freezing in the Held and by the fire-fide and fince we could now no longer make ufe of our Sails we began to fear that here we muft ftay and VVinicer VVhen we had brought as much VVood aboard as we could conveniently fow, and enough as I thought would have lafted rwo or three Months, the fick Mende fired that fome little Houle or Hovel' mighe be buile a hoar, whereby they might be frelterd, and recoverthcir tovit: healchs. I took the Carpenter andothers, and choofing ut a place, they went immediarcly to work upon it In the mean time I with fome others' wandcr'd up and down in the VVood so fee if we could difoover any figns of Savages, that fo we might the better proide for out fafeties agaioft chem : VVe found no appearance that there was any on this Ifland or near it The Snow by this rime washalf Leg high, and ftalking thro ir, we rs rumed comfortefs roour Companions, who had wroughs hard upon our Houfc. They in the Ship took down our Top-fails, and making a great fire upon the Heath in the Hatch way, thawed them and folded chem up, and pur them berwirt Decks, that if we had any good weather, they might bring them again to Yard: In the Evcning we return'd aboard.
The 12th, we rook our Main-fail from the Yard, and carried it alhoar to cover our Houfe, having firtt rhawed it by a great firc. By Night they bad coycrd it, and had almoft hedged it about, and the fix Builders defired to lic init that Night, which I granted, having firt furnifhed rhem with Mulkers and other Arms, and charging chem to keep good watch all Night. They had alfo two Grey hounds, a Dog and a Birch, which 1 had broughts from Englarrd, to kill us fome Deer if we fhould ies any.
The 13th, our Houfe was ready, and our fix Builders defired they mighe uravel up into the Country to fee what they could difcorer.
The xith, carly, being firted with Munition, and ordetid to kecp together (but efpecially to feek out fome Creck or Cove forour Ship) they deparred. We aboard rook down our cwo Top-matts and their Rigging, intending if we hould remove, to make afe of our Fore-fail and Mizen

The s sth, in the Evening our Hunter retumed vory weary, and brought with him 2 fmall lean dear in fourtion Quarters, which made us all rejoice, hoping we thould \(D=\) have more of them. They reported that they had wandred above twenty Miles, and had brought this Deer above rwelve Miles, and had feen nine or ten more Thar laft Night they had 2 very cold lodging in the Woods, and to it appear'd, for they all looked as if chsy were almoft ftarved, nor could they recover themfelves in three or four days after. They haw no figns of Pcople or wild Beatts, nor any place for Harbour.
The 17th, my Licutenant and five more defired they mighr try their Fortunes in cravelling about the Iffind but they had worfe luck chan the others, and returne comfortels and difabled with cold; but what was worf than all, they loft one of their Company, Fobn Barton tika our Gunner's Mare, who being very weary, rather thaned. go abour, would go ovet a Pond a quarcer of a Mile

\section*{(hap. XXXVI. A Voyage for difovering a Paflage to the Souts Sea}
over, where when he was in the very middle, the Ice brakeand cloied upon him, and they never faw him more brake and cloled upon him, and they never faw him more. Being now cerrain that there were no Savages upon the Illand, nor on the Main neither as far as we could difiover, and the cold bsing now fo extream, that they could ont come to us if there werc any; we comforted and refrelled our felves by Alecping the more fecurely, and chanped our Garrifon crety Weck.
From the xth to the 2gth it did for the moft parr fnow and blow fo hard, that we conld feldom get athoar with the Boar, without wading in the thick congeal'd Water,

\section*{and carrying one another. \\ The firtt, I reckoned.}
our Victuals, the third part of our Stewird concerning out.

The third, the Boat endeavour'd to get aftoor, but could not fet thro' the congeald Watcr. The next day they found a place to get alhoar, and carried Beer toonr Mon athoar in a Barrcl, which wonld frecze firmly in the Hovice in one Night. The Icy Beer being thawed in 2 Kerte, was not good, and thicy brake the Ice of the Ponds tocomeat Water to drink. This Pond-water hac a loathome fmell with ir, fo that fearing is might be infectious, I caufed a Well to be Tunk near the Houfe, where we had very good Water, flatecring our felvesthar it cafted like Milk.
The roth, having ftore of Boards for fincth purpore 1 ordcrid the Carpenter to make a litcle Boat, which we might carry, if occafion were, over the lee, and make ufe of her where there was Water. At Noon.I found the Latitude to be 52 Degrees
The 12th, our Houfe took fire, bat we foon quenched it; we werc fain to kecp an extraordinary fre Nighsand
Day, and if our Houfc and Clothing had boentorn Day, and if our Houlc and Clorhing had been burnc, we had been in a miferable condition. I lay amoar till fowed and freczed errearr Muienes did encreafe. 1 picce of Iecrefcmbling a Ship; Our Cables froze in the Hawfe, woonderful to behold. I got aboard, where I fpent the long Nights with cormenting Cogitations, and in the day time I could nor fee any hopes of faving the Ship: This I was furc of, that it was impotible to endure thefe Extremities long. Every day the Men mult beat the Ice off the Cables, while forme within board with the Carpenter's long Calking lron, digged the Ice out of che Hawres; in which mork the Water did fo benum them, that chey could hardly ger inoo the Ship without being heared in with a Rope.
The igth, our Gumner, who as you may remember had his Leg cur off, grew rery weak, defiring that for the lirtle timehe had to dive, he might drink Sakk alcogether, which I orderd be hould do.
The 22d, in the Morning he died; an hones and a the Gun-room, and as many Cloaths on him as vas convenient, with a Pan of Coals continually in his Cabin; Wound anding which, his Phanter would freezc as his him into the Sea ata good diftance from the Ship. We put The 23d, the Ice increafed excreamly: In the ing after the Watch was fet, 2 grear piece came athrar our. Hawfe, and four more followediafter it, the leaft of them a quarter of a Mite broad, wfifich \({ }^{\circ}\) in the dark did much aftonilh us, thinking it would have caried us ont of the Harbour. It being newly congcaled, and not \(2-\) bove two lnchesthick; we brake thro it, the Cable and Anchor enduring an incredible ftrefs, formetimes ftopping the whole Ice. We fired chree Mufquets, fignifying to ed us again, but condd not help us.. By ren a clock it was all paffed, neverthelefs we watched carefully, and the weather was warmer than wre had felt ir amy, rime this Month: In the Moming I fent for our Men aboardAiany picces of Ice drove by the Ship, tho not fo large as the former, yer much thicker: One of them came foul of the Cableand made the Ship drive As. foul of the Cable and made the Ship drive. As foon as folved to bring the Ship aoround for no Cables chors could hold her. The reafons why IErought her no fooner aground were, itt, It was all.ftory ground, forne Stones lying dry three or four Foor above Water, fo that we had refon to fufpett thatic was the fike all about os. Secondty, is ordinarify flowed bur two Foor and a thalf and if tre thould bed deep in the Sands, we could never come to dig her out again, becaufe fhe vrould not be dry by foreror fire Foor. Thirdty, fo was a loofe Sand, which migtet rife with the Surf, or fo mount about her, that ail our geak Powers would not be able to heave it away the bext Spring rime. Fourtily, We doubred the tides would not high fo much in the Sommer as they now did. Fifthly, We could toot bring her our of the Tide's way, which nun fomewhat quick herc, and the or tearher, and- carry awn uponher, and foover-fee her, or tearher, and carry away Planks and Iron Work, fo that we fhould have nothing left to fer up \($\). Pinnace. Sixthly; If it blowed a Storm as N. W. or thercabous, the Water would flow ten Foot and upwards, and that Ice, and bof the Shoar, would blow away all the bour the Shoal wound come in an cxtraordinary Surf an decp Orcr-fall. Morcoint, whirh was occafioned by a decp Oucr-fall. Morcover, the would beat extreamly; and if the fhould be pur up by the Sca or that Surf, it was very doubrful that we fould never heave her off: '2 gain.
For thefe Reafons we endured all cxtremity, fill homping for fome good and fortunate accident; bir wc now law all our provident Defigns become foolinhuefs, and What we had fpent a grear deal of labour in vain. The made the now South, which blew upen the Shoar, and made the loweft Tides. We brought rhe Ship into owelve Foot Watcr, and laid our one Anchor in the Offing, and another in shoal Water so draw her alard at command. Our hope alfo was, that fome Srones to the Weftward of us would fend of fome of the lsc. We then being abour a Mile from the Shor, abour ten a lock in a dark Night, the Ise came driving upon us, and our Anchor came home. She drove abour two Cables length, and the Wind blowing on the Shoar, the camic aground at two a clock, and toppd much Ice, yot lay well all Night, and we rook fome reft:
The 25 ch, the Wind hifred Eafterly, and put abundance of Ice upon us. When the Flond was made, I caurcd ourtwo Top-failsto be had up from becwixt Deks and hoifing them up with Ropes in all haft, foried the hip athoar, when the had not half a Cables length to drive op the rocky Shoals. In the Evening twe brake away thro' the Icc, anid pur an Anchor to moarward in He Foor water, to keep her to the Shoar if poltible. Here Sir firgit willoughly came inro ony mind, who without doubt was driven out of his Harbour in this manner, and fo ftarred ar Sca; but Gord was more mercifol to us. Ar nine at Night the Wind came up ar N.W. and blew a Srorm : This Wind was off the Shoar, and fow away all the lice from about us, long before we were ompanied we came in a great rowling Sca withal, acwere we lefr on the Ground on the Shoar; and now Bysen the began to rowl in her to the mercy of the Sea: gan to becganko rowl in her Dock, and loon afecr beas che Captagaint the Ground. Asmany as could ftocd fifth or fixth blow would have favied her to pieces: Wc heaved to the utmoft of our Strengths, to keep her as near the Ground as we could. By reafon of this Wind, it. flowed very much Water, and we drew her up fo high, that upen fecond thoughts we doubted if cver we mould lock nexr Morning She continued thus beating till two a we went to fleep to reftore nature again; whereupon Tide to be tormented again.
The next Morning our Ship did not float: After P̈rayers I called a confultation of the Mafter, my Lieuterant, Mates, Carpenter, and Boarfivain, to whom I faid, cll me what were now pur toour laft fhifis, they fhould cell me what they thought of it; namcly, Whether is were not beft to carry all our Provifion alhoar, and when the Wind llould come, Northerly, to draw her farther off no unk her. After many realonings, they allowed of ny purpore, and fol commanicated it to the Company, who all willingly agreed to it; and fo we.fell to gertins up our Provifions; fint our Bread, whercof we landcil his day twodry Fats, with a Hogitcad of Becf. In the Evening the Wind came up ar N. E. and choaked the Bay with ke. the.
The 27th, the Bay was ftill full of Ice, and I hoped would fo continue, that we might nor be put rofinic our Ship. This day we could land nothing.
The 28th, at break of day three of our Mcn went athoar over the Ice, unknownro me, and the Wind coming up at Wef, drove the Ice from betwixt os and the Shoar. I made the Carpenter to fit a place againt all Indden Extremities, becaufe with the firf Northerly Wind I meant to effet our laft project: In the Run of her, be cut away the Seeling and the Plank to the Shearhing, four or fire Inches fquare, four Foor hish from the Keei, that fo it might be boared out in añ inftant. We brought the remainder of our Bread our of the Bread-room into the grear Cabin, and all our Pouder, ferting our lighe dry things betwixt Deeks.
The 29 th, at five in thre Morning the Wind came up W. N. W. and began ro blow very hard: It was ordinary for the Wind to thifs W. hy N. round about, I orderd the Croper so go down into the Hold and look to all our Catks; thofe that were full, to maul in the Bungs of them ; thofe that were empry, to get up, or : they conld nor be gorcen up, to ftaye chem- Then 1 orderid all our Cables to be quoiled upon our lower Tire and to lay on our (pare Anchors, and any thing that was weighty, to kesp them down from rifing. By feven a Clikit ilew a itoro at N. W. ourbirter Encmy: The Ship was already bedded about two Foot in the Sand, and whilf it wastlowing water, the muft beat; yet we ad leen fo ferresed ly her laft beating, that I xefolved to fonk her righe down, rather than mun that hazard. By fine a clock the beran to rowl in ber Dock, with an extraordirary greas Sia; and this was she fatal Hour tha: pit us ail to our wits end; wherefore I went down. in Hoid with the Carpenter, and raking his Auger, bored a bole in the Ship. amllet in the Wacr; then with all rea! we legan to cut out other places, and to bore thor.ow. Bur every place was full of Nails. By te: the loucr Tire wascurced with Water, and the bearin her Dock more and more, fo that we could not ftand to duany thing in her; nor would the fink fo faft as we would have her, but contimued beating do:ble blows aaft matrefore, that it was wonderfal how he tould enare :s a gearter of an Hour. By twelve a dock her lwer Tire rofe, and did fo counterbeat on the infride, that 1: Weat the Bulk-heads of the Bread-romm and Powder room all to pieces; and when is came betwixt Decks, the Cheitsfled wideiyabour, and the Water Gid flalh ant fly wonderfully, to that we expected every minuit when ehe ship would open and break to pieces. At one a Clich the beat off her Rudder, and that was gone we kncow rot which way. Thus me continued beating till three a clock, and then the Sea came uron the upper Deck; and foon after the treganto fetele. We were torced to link the moft part of our Bedding and Cloaths, and the Chirursion's Cheft. Our Men thar were afhoar food roking upon us, almott dead with cold and forrow, no Ficour mitcrics and sheir own. Dark Dighr came on, ard I order'd the Boas to te haled op, and commandirs iny loving Companions to enter, I went laft out of the Ship.

Nn口n?

Wis were 17 poor Souls in the Boat, and thought we were now loapt out of the Frying-Pan into the Fire. The Ebb was made, which we thought would certainly have carricd us away into che Sea; we thereupon double manned four Oans, and with the help of God got to the Shoar, haling upthe Boatafer us- The Water was chick congcales with Snow, notwichfanding which, there went a grea: fivelling Sea. Being amived upon the land, we were fo frozen all over, faces, Hair and Apparel, that we could not know each other by our itabits or Voices.
The Winds finee we came hither have been very variathe and unconttant, and rill within this Fortoighe the Southerly Wind was the coldeft. The reaton tconceive to \(\dot{b}\) e, becaufe ir blowed from the main land which wasall covered with Snow, whereas the Noith Winds came out of the Bay which was hicherto onen.
A N. W. a N. W. by N. and a N. N. W. Wind, if it blew a Srorm, would rife the Tides extreamly; and in Mort, from the W. N. W. to N. N. E. the Tides would rife in proportionas they blew from the middic Point: The Wind being on the oppofite Points, if is blew, it would flow very limele ar all; the harder it blowed, the lefs water it Howed. The Tides do ordinarily high abour three Foot, but when forced by the forefaid Winds, upward of ren Foor. I could perceive no difference berwixt Neap and Spring Tides: It flows balf Tide, that is, the Flood comes from the Northwards, and chither returns again two Hours before it le high waicr, as is commonly feen in Bays and Inlets.

\section*{Tie Wintering. :}

After we had hated up the Boat, we went along the Beach fide in the dark rowards our Houfe, where we niade a good tirc, and with it and Bread and Water, werthawed and comforted our felvese We then beginning so reafon with one another concerning our Ship, I reguired every oric to \{peak his mind freely: The Carpenter was of opinionthar the was foundred, and would never be ferviccable again; he alledged, that the had to Ecaren, that it was not poilible but that all her Joints were fonie, anal Scams open; and by reaton ic flowed to little Water, and no Creek nor Cove near, whercin to bring hirr aground, be could not devife how he might come ro mend it; mercorer, her Rudder was. lott, and be had no tron to hang on another. Some alleded, that we had heaved her up to high upon the Sande, that they choughe we thould newor have her oft apain, and that they were aflued the was already dockd hice Four. Others, that the hay in the llew's way, and thas the I.e mights car bit to pieces of the Gremend: Betides which, we could not now get owo of our Ahchors frban under the ce, which would be of a grat thicknefs in the ipmen and when it breaks; would breakour Anch.rs 10 pless, and shen ( Guppoling we fhe, thed get off the Ship, and hat he proved fuand alfo) we theuld laye ho Ahthora \({ }^{\circ}\) bring us home. I comforsed them the beat I could with words to this cticet ; Countrimen and fuirhful Compamions, le not difmaied for any of thefe Difafters, buts let us fut our whole stuft in Cod ; is is he thine gives ard he that takes away; he throws to wal wich one Hand, and ratise up with another; his will bedone: If is be our furtune to end cur days here, we are as near Heave. as in Eingland; and we are muck lxund ro Alfninht: God for giving us fo large a time of repentance, who as it were daily calls upon us, to premare ohr felves fer a veter hafe in Heaven. I make no doubr bur he will he: mercitulto us, both here on Earth, and in his biclicd Kingdam. He doth not in the meat time deny, bit that we'may ufe all honeft means to fave and prolongotr natural Lives; and. in my julgment we are not yer to farpaft hope of returning into cur native Councry, but that I leca fair way by which we may effect ir. Admis the Ship to be founder'd (which God forbid, I hope the beft) yet have thofe of our own and other Niations, When they have been pur to the efextremitics, out of the Wrack of their loftShip buile a Pinnace, and returnid to cheir Friends again. If is be objected that they have bapned inco betrer Climates, both for temperate Air and pacifick and open Seas, and provided with all of alundance of freth Visuals; yet there is nothing tea hard for couragious minds, which hisherro you bave thewn, and doubenar will ftilldo to the urmolt.
They all prorefted to work to the beft of theirftrength, and that they would refure nothing that I thould order hem to do, to the utmoft hazard of their Lives. I thanked them all, and tothe Carpenterfor his encouragemens I promifed to much Plare prefencly as mould be worth rean PoundsSterling; and if fo bel wentro England in the Pinnace, I would give her to him freely, and so Poundsin Money over and above; and would moreover gracify all thein that I mould fee painful axid induftrious.
Thus we refored to build anew Pinnace with the Timwe thould ger upon the IAland, that fo in the Spring, Nighe piank her with the Ship's Planks; and ootor thas Noght we feted our felvesclole about the fire, and took fome reft till day light.
The firt thing we were to do, was to ger our Cloaths and Provition alloar: The Matter and his Company were to gerthings outs of the Hold; the Cookswain and his Gang io bring things athoar ; my felf with the reft, to carry it half a Mile ithro' the Snow, to the place where tve intended to build a Store-honfe; as for the beavier things, we purpofed to lay them on the Beach. In the Aftermoon the Wind wasat S. S. W, and the Water eb bed folow, that we lanched our Boar, and rowed thro the congealed Water, thinking we might ger fomething out of our Hold. It froze yery hard, and Iftocd oanthe Shoar with a troubled mind, thinking verily that with the Ebb the Boat would be carried into the Sea, and chen we had been/all loft Men; bur by God's affittance ther gor fately to the Ship, and made a fire chere, to fignify their arrival aboard. They fell prefently to work, and gos fome things out of the Hold apon the Decks, bus Night coming on, they durt nor adventure to conne athoar, but lay on the Bed in the grear Cabin almoft tarved.
Des. the firft was fo cold, that I wento:er the Ice to the Ship, where the Boat had gone Yeterday. Thisday we Da:cm. 6 carried upon our Backs in Bundles, 500 of our Fin, and muchof our Bedding and Cloaths, which we wexc tain ro dig out of the Ice in the Ship.
The fecond was mild weather, and fome of the Mcn oing over che Ice, fell in, and very hardly recover'd, to thar this day we could land nothing. In che Evening the Wind came up at Weft, and the 1ce did break and drive out of the Bay, that we feared it would have fpoiled the Ship.
The third, divers grear picces of Ice came thwart the Ship, and the fopp'd them. yer not fo, thar we could go over them. We fouid a way for the Boar, bur wher the was loader, the drew four Foor water, and could nor come withina flight thor of the Shoar ; forhat

Whe was am abour abour a in the E Foor dis failed.
micans \(n\)
none ne:
cd with The E
our Al:
frong boughs ciof: T
the Mcn were forced to wade thro' the chick congealed at the cmisalmoft upto the very ton, where we lefie t:io

Watcr, and carry all things upon thcir Backs. As chey waded thro, they fecmed like walking pieces of Ice, moft lamentable to bchold. There being new fmall hope that the Boat thould go to and again any mure, they cut away as much Ice from her as they could, and pickid ir with Hand fpikes our of her, and condeayourd to hoife herinte the Ship, bur ufe whas mencans they could, me was fo heavy, that they could not hoife her in, bur were fain toleave her in the 7 ackles by the Ship's fide.
The th, heing Sumday, we tefted, and ferformed Chriftian Datics.
The , thand 6 ch were extream cold, and we made Bags of our ftore Shirts, and in them carried our loof Bread over the Iec athoar uponour Eacks. We aifo dig. ged nut Cloaths and new Sait's with Rand-fpikes of Iron out of the Ice, and carrying them athear, dricd them by 2 grear firc.
The 7th was fo extreamly cold, thar our Nofer, Cleceks and Hands dud frecze as white as Paper
The Sth and pth it fowed much, yer we continued oar labout in carrying and rowling things allioa:. In the Evening the water raifed the loe very high, and brake two thaughss of our Boar, and brake in the fade of her Wut tor chat time we could not help it.
The 1oth, our Carpenter found Timber to make Kect and a Sicrnfor our Pinnace: The ren wrought abour our Provitious cill the 13 ch day, which was fpent in digging our Boas out of the lee, which we were fain to do to the very Kicel, and dig the lice out of her, and then we gor her up onthe Ice. The cold increareticexcreamly fo that by the tith we could get no more things our o oir Hold, but were forced ro leate five Barrels of Bee and Pork, all our Beer, and divers orher chings, which were ail tirml'y frozen in her.
The 2 alt was fo cold, that we could not go out of the Houfs.
The 23d, we endeavour'd to lave our Boas afioar, ruming her over our Oars, bur by ten a rlock cherecame fuch 2 chick Fog, that it uras as dark as Night. I made them give over and haften to the Shoar, which we had much ado ro find; at laft weall mer ar the Houfe the moft mifcrably frozen that can be conceiv'd: The Cold had raifed Blifters upon fome as big as Walnuts: Our Weil was now frozen, fo that dig as deep as we could, we can conct by no Water: Melted Snow-water is unwholfome, cither to drink or to drefs our Victuals; it made us to thort breath d, that we were fcarce able to fpeak. Af! our Sack, Vincger; Oul, and crery ching clfe that was Huid, was now frozen as hard as a piece of Wood, and tie muft cur it with a Hatcher. Our Houfe was all frozen oan the infide, and ic froze hard within a yard of the Fire-ide. When I landed firftupon this IMand, I found 2 Spring under aHills gide, and caufed forme Trees to be cfft ior hlarks to know the place again: It was abour aree ef our AMen who had been formeriy with me, who thorclire away the Snow, made way to the place, and anf it They found it fpring very ftrongly, and brought the a Can of it, for which I was very jofful. This Suring continued all the Year, and did nor freeze fo Fach, but that we conld break the lee and come ro it. We labourcd very hard thefecthre or four daysin bring. ing Wcoat rothe Houfe, which ivas very troublefomethiro thedeep Sincw.
We thein fetied our Bedding and Provifion, in order to kcep Cirijlmes-dey holy, which we folemnized in the joy fal.cht manncr we could : To likewife did we St. fofin's any, upon which we named the Wood we wintered in Wintcr's Forreft, in memory of that honourable Knight Sir 7 con utinter. And now inftead of a Cbrifmas Tale I will here deferibe the Houfe we lived in, with thof 2hoinitg.
When I firt refolved to build a Houfe, I chofe the narmelt and moft concmient place near the Ship. It was amongft a Tuft of thick Trece, urder a South Bank abou: 2 fight Shotfrom the Sca fide. True ir is, that we could not dis into the Ground ro make us a Hole or Cave in the Earrth (which had bcen the beft way) bccaufe in two Foordigging we found water, and cherefore that Project failed. It was a fine white Sand, fo thar we could by no micans make up a mud Wall. As for Stones, there were none near us, and if there had, they were all now covercd withSnow.
The Houfe was about twenty Foor fquare, as much as our Main-courfe twould well cover: Firft we drove ftrong Stakes into the Earth, which we watled with boughs as thick as mighr be, beating them down very ciofe: Thisour firt work was fix Foos on boch fides, but

Holes for the light ro coine in and we we lift t:a At both ends we furk up three row: of thack Bubl. Ti. cs as clede as pomibly uighebe: Then at aciatatar frem tho of hax foor, with wheh we mate a plee on breth hacs Door wor thick, andas many high: We lett a lettle low Wiles of Wond, that the Wind autghe ner bhew into it We chen faltoed a rough Tiec cuct oll, upen which we ing our Rafters, and our Main-couric uver them, reacr. ing down to the Ground on cather fide; and formeth to round atour ; then we drouc inftacd cur Bonnerea is round abour; then we drote in Stahes and unde secu itcad Frames, which Bediteads were double, one windr another, the lowermoft being a foon fom the ciround Thefe wefirtt filled with Boughs, then lait! on founc fFire Sails, and then our Beddiug and Clonths: We made a Hearth or Caufy in the mudde of the Hov:f, laying furme Boards roundabour ir to ftand upun, that the cold dump hould not firke up into us; with cur wafle Clonehe wo made us Canopiss and Curtains. Our fecond Houfe was not paft rwenty Foor dittans, and mads much after ith rame manner, bue lefs, and coveted with our risc courfe. Is had no Piles on the South fide, bur inftead ot them we piled up a! our Chefts on the lefide, and indicid die teflex of the heat of the Fire againtt them, did make it warmer than the R.laufion Houtc. In this Houfs we dreft onr Victuals, and the inferior Crese did refrem themfelves all day in it. A chird Houre, which was cur srore-houle, we built twerry Races cff from this, Eor car of fixing. This Howfe was only a rough Trectaltned alofs, with Rafters laid fremz it to the Ground, and covered over with our new fuxir of Sails. On the Infide we had laid frall Trees, and covered them over with Boughs, wheresn we laid our Bread and Finh, about Tho Foor from the Ground, the bercer to preferve them: Mie diftance from our Houre to the Ship was about a Milc. Long before C/rrifimes our Manfion-houfe was covercd with Snow, almoft to the vcry Roof, but our Stonc-houfe all over, by rcafon wemadeno fite init. We made Pachs in the Snow about the length of ren Sters and one of them was our beft Gallery for the fick Men, and for myown ordinary walking
The Grti, I obferved the Latitude ro be5r Deg. 52 Min .7 Fmum this difference is becaufe hercis a grearrcfraction.
The 21ft, I obferved the Sun to rife like in Oval twice as long as it was broad, and as it gor up higher, is The das roundnels
Moon dith, loblerved when the Eaftern Edge of thi then in the Eaft Quarter 2I Der. 45 Min. above the Way rion; but this was not done weg. 45 Min. above the Hic donc other Obfervations.
The 30th and 31f, there appear'd in the beginning of the Nigtis more Stars chan ever I had before feen by two and all 1 could iecthe Cloud in Cancer full of fmallStars, and all the \(\sqrt{\text { ra }}\) Laciea nothing buc fimall Stars, and a grear many amongat the Plciats.s. The Wind fer the moft pars of this Monch hath been Nornherly and rey cold. We employed our felves for the mont part in ferching Wood, And working upon our Pinnace. In the beginning of this Month the Sca was all firmly frozen over, fo that we could fee no Water any way. I thatl heredelivermy opinion how all this Ice comes to be engendred.
The Land that encircles this great Bay (which is fuil of IMands and dry Sands) is for the moft part low and flar, and bath flar Shoals adjoining to it, half a mile or a Mile, what are dry at low watct. Now, as I have aid, it flows half Tide, tharis, from whence the Flood comes, the water thither returns two hours before it be high water or full Sea. It feldonn rains after the middle of Srpecmber, buc frows, and that Snow will nor melt on the land or Sands. At low warer when it fnows; the Sands are covered over with ir, which the half Tide officiounf carries twice in \(2_{4}\) Hours into the great Bay, which is the common Rendercuz of it. Everylow water are the sands lefr clear, to, gatherraore to the encréafe of ir. Thus daily gathering in chis mataner rill the end of otaber, it by that time brings the Sea to fuch coldnefs, thar as ir fnows, the Snow will lie opon the Water in flakes, and as Winter comeson, will frecze on the Surfacc twoor three Inches or more in a Nighr, which being carried with the half Tide, foon meers with fome Ob tacle, and then crumplesand runs upon it felf, that in a cw Hours it will betive orfix Foot thick: ThehalfTide till flowing, carries in to faft away, that by December it is multiplicd exrreatnly; and thus by this foring of it up, the cold predominates in the Sea (which aifo furnithes the Springs in the low flat Lands) and cool it like it felf. Our Mcn tound is much colder to wade thro' the Vater in the begisming of \(\mathcal{F}\) une, when the Sca was full of Ice, than in December when it was in creafing. Our Well alfo, which giclded Water in Dec:mbe, had nonc in 3 uir.
furnihes
The Gromid
The Ground arten Fooedece was frozen, and yer Iam fromisiten Tr opion that Bay frezzes all over for the Wand blowing a Storm at North, we perceived the Ice to rife fomething in the Bay.
Fiviarty.
The Cold was cxrrean this Month, and many of our Men complained, fonne of forc Mourhs, all their Teeth loofe, their Gums fivoln with black rotten Flefh; which mutt every day be cut away ; ochers of pain in their Heads and Breafts; fome of weakness in their Backs; others of aches in their Thighs and Kinees, and fwelling in their lecs. Thus were two thirds of the Company under che Chirurgion's hand; and yer they mplt work aaily, and go abroad to fetch Wood and Timber, at thu they had no Shoocs to put on. Their Shoocs upon theirfirit coming tothe fire out of the Snow, were fo furmtand forched, that they would not come upontheir Fert, and our ftere Shoocs were a! funk in the Ship Our Carpenter alio wasnowfalnfick, to our great dif comfore:

1 fratiod fome obfervations by the rifing and fetting of the Sun, caiculating the rimes of his rifing and fettins by very truc ruming Glafics. As for our Clock and Cloxk fing Watch, notwithitanding that we fill kept them by the
the the Ei:'s Fire fiuc in a Cheft wrap'd in Cloths, yer they were fo frozen that they could not so. Miy Obfervations by theie Glafics \(I\) comparch with the Sears coming to the i icrilisn. By this means Ifound the Sun to rife twenty Minvers leffire it Mould, and in the Evening to remain Whove the Horini intwenty Minutes longer chan it floould do, and this ly reafon of the Retraction.
When we went upon the lecto our Ship, the cold was fonctimes fo extrean; that it would freeze the Gair of our Eyc-lids, io that we could not fec; and I verily belicre is would have ftificd a Man in a few Hours. The Coldi alio in the Woods would fircze our Faccs; or any patt of our Ficth that was bare, but was not fo mortify ingas the other. Our Houfs on the Outfide was coyer cd twothird parts with Snow, and on the Inhede huns with Icefickles. The Cloaths on our Beds would be covered with hoar froft, tho not far from the Firc. The Cooks Tubs wherein he water'd his Mear, ftanding about a yard from the fire, and which he did all day ply with melted Snow water, would in the. Night cime while be lept but one warch, be firm frozen to the bottom; fo chat he was forced to water his Meat in a Brafs Kertle clofe to the fire; and I have many rimes felr by putring my hand into ir, the fide next the firecobe wason, while the other fide mas an Inch frozen. The Chirurgions Syrups and other liquids, alcho' he had hang them as conveniendy as he could to preferve diem, yet they were all frozen. Our Vinegar, Oil, and Sack, which we had in finall Caiks in the Houfe was all fimmy frozen. It is further remarkable, that in the beginning of foone the Sea was not broken up, and that the Ground was then frozen, as we found by expericace in burying out Men, Ground fro. in letring up the Kings Standard towarus the lateer end \(x=n\) in jume. of furne, and by our Well ar our coming away in the beginning of \(\mathcal{f u i j}\), altho at the lame time in was very hos wearber.
Adarch. The firf of this month being St. Droins-dif, we kept Hols-day, and prayed for his Highncis cloarles Prince of itales.

The 1 sth one of our Men thought he kad feen a Dect, and he with two or threc Men delixed if they might go and try if they could kill him; bat they returned at Night fo difabled with cold which bad raifed blifters as big as Walnuts on the Soals of their Fect, and on their legs, that thcy were not well in 2 Formight after.

The 26th, three moric defired that they alfo might go and ury their fortunes; but they returned more difabled than the former, and almoft titifed with cold. This Evening the Moon rofe in a very long Oval along the Horizon.

By the laft of this Month the Carpenter had fer up 17 Ground-Timbers, and 34 Staddies, and made what progrefs he could, tho he was to weak that he was led to his labour.
All this Month was rcry cold, the Wind abour N. W. the Snow as decp as it bath been all chis Winter, bur
Ofijatan whercas it maybe objected, 1 ou were in a Wood, and therefore might make fire cnough to kcep you from the cold : To this I anfwer, Ir is true, we were in a Wood, and under a South Bank roo, or elfe we had allitarved: But I mult tell you withal, how dificule it was cohave

Woodin a Wood; and firt mall make a mufter of the Ases indecd, butone of them was fpoiled in cutting down Woal to pile about our Houfe' before Chriftmas we had but two whole Hatchers when we came firft a Shoar, which in a few days werc broken two Inches below the Sockets; I called for three of the Coopers Hatclects the Carpenter's Ax, and the Cooper's beft Harchet lokked up, and orderd the other two Hatchers in lee new helved, and the Blades of the two broken Hatchers to be pat into a cleft piece of Wood, and then to be bound alour with Rope yarn as faft as might be, which was repaired every day; and thefe were all the cutting Tool: we had before Clorifimas. The Carpenter in Fibrunry had out his beft Ax, and one of the Company in his ablence, by indijerect handling of it, brake that to, two 1 n ches below the Socket, whercupon 1 orderd the Carpenrer fhould have one of the Coopers Hatchets, they that look'd for Timber in the Woods the other; and they that cu: down Wood to burn, were to have the two pieces.
Thofe that were appoinred ro look for crooked Timber did ftalk and wade (fometimes on all four) thro' the Snow, and when they faw a Tree likely to fit the Mould they muft heave away the Snow to fee if is would fit the Mould; if not, they muft feck further: If is did fit the Mould, they made a fire to it to thaw it, otherwife is could notbe cut: Then they cut it down, and fited it to the length of the Mould, and dragged it a Mile thro the Snow.
The firft of this Month being Eafterdey, wekeprioy, this day and the two following days were extriam cold ; and now fitting all about the Firc, we reafoned cogether abour our prefent condition: We had five Men whercof the Carpenter was onc) not able to do any thing; the Boarfwain and inany other were very infirm; and of all the reft, we had but five that could eat of their ordinary allowanse. The cime and feafon of the Year cameforward apace, and yet the coldedid verylitele mitigate. Our Pinnace was in an indiffercnt forwardncis burche Carpenter grew worfe and worfe. The Ship (as wethen thought) lay full of folid Ice, which was weight enough to open the Scams of any ncw and found Velfel, crecially of one thar had lain fo long upon the Ground as the had donc. After much arguing, I refolved upon this Courfe, that with the firt warm weather we would begin to clear the Ship: In the. next place, we looked to thore Tools we had to dig the Ice our of her; we had but two Iron Bars ( the reft being funk in the Ship) and one of them was broken to. We fitted thofe Bars, and four broken Shovels, wherewith we intended (as after we did) to dig the lice out of her, and lay it upon 2 heap uponthe Lar-board-bow, and to fink down the Ice To faft tothe Ground, that is might be 2 Barricado to us when the Ice thould break up, which we feared would tearuis allto pieces.
The 6rh was the deepeft Snow we had all this Year: In was'moifter and greater chanany we had before ; for formerly it was as dry as duft, and as fmall as Sand, and would drivelike duft withthe Wind. The weather conrimucd with this extremity until the 15 th, at which nime our Spring was harder frozen than it had been all the \(X\) car mairs.t. before.
The r 6 th was the molt comfortable funfniny day that befri:n came this Year. I put fome to clear off the Snow from the upper Decks of the Ship, and todry the grear Cabin, by making fire init. Others I put to dig down thro the Icero connc by our Anchorthat wasin Shoal water, which the next day we gor up and carried aboard.
The 18th, I put them to dig down chro' the Ice near the place where we thought our Rudder might be; they digged down and came to warer, but could not find it. We feared it mightbefanded, or that the Icemightha.e carricd it away the laft year. If we could noe recover i: by digging before the Iee fhould break up, there would be little bope of it.
The roth, we continued our mining work aboard the Ship, and in the Evening fupped ahoar, The Mafter and two others defired thar they mighr lie aboard, which I condefcended to; for indeed thcy had lain very difoommodioully all the Winter, and with fickBedfellows, as I my felf had done, every one in that cafe taking their Fortunes. By lying aboard, they avoided the hearing the miferable groanes and lamentarions of the fick Men, who endured (poor Souls) intolerable torments.

On the 2Ift, we had laboured fo hard in digging out the lce in the Ship, that we faw a Calk and could perceive there was fome water in the.Hold. This we knew could not be chaved water, becaufe it did fill freeze Night and day.

On the 23 , we came to pierce the fore-mentioned Calk, and found is full of very good Beer, which did much rejoice us-all, especially the fisk men, now withstanding it did taft a little of bulge Water. By this we at that time thought that the holes we had cut to fink the Ship were frozen, and that this Water had food in the Ship all the Winter.

The 24th, we went betimes in the Morning to work, but found that the Water was rifer above the ICc, where we had left work, about two font, by reason the Wind had blown very hard at North the Night before. In the Morning the Wind came to South, and blowing hard, we expected a lower Veer of Water: I thereupon put them to work on the ourfide of the Ship, that we night come so the lower hole which we had cut in the Sternhots. With much labour by Nigher we digged down throw" the Tee to it, and found it unfrozen (as it had been all the Winter) and to our great comforts we found that on the infuse the Water was ebbed even with the hole, and that on the outride it was ebbed a Foot lower. Hereupon I canted a board to be nailed on it, as right as might be, to try if the Water canc in any other way. We had dipped to the other two Holes on the infide, and found them frozen: Now I did this betimes, that if we found the Ship founder d, we might refolve of forme course to fave or prolong our Lives, by getting to the Main before the le c was broken up; for as for our Boat, it was doolittle, and bulged befides. Our Carpenter was by this time raft hope, and confequently we had little hope of our Pinnace. Bur what was wort of all, we had nor four Men able to travel tho' the Snow; in fuck miserable condition we were ar prefent.

The isth, we facisfied our longing; for the Wind coming Northerly, the Water role by the Ship fade (where we had digged down) 2 Foot and more above the Hold, and yer did nor rife within board. This did fo encourage us, that we fell very luftily to digging, and heaving the Ice nut of tore Ship. I put the Cook and forme others to thaw the tuinps, who by continual pouring hor Ware into them, by the 27 th in the Morning had cleared orc of them, which we found would deliver water very Sufficiently, and having cleared two Foot water, we chen left off, to have a lecond trial. Concinuing thus to dig the Icc, on the 28th we had cleared our other Pump, which we also found to deliver water very well: Wc found likewise chat the Water did norrife in the Hold.

The lgth, it rained all day long, 2 fuse fight that Winter was broke up.

The both, we were becuines aboard at our work; this Lay and the next were very cold, with Snow and Hail, which .pinched our flick Men more than any time this year. We returned late to our Houfe, and is being May Even, made a good fire, and chore Ladies, and did ceremonicully wear their Names in our Caps, endeavouring to revive our delves by any means: And because you hear us in this merry humour, I hall next make known to you what good cheer we kept ar Chriftmes and Eeffer, and how sichad dieted our felves all the Winter.

Atcur coming from England, we were trad with aN forts of Sea Provinion, as Beef, Pork, Fin, Etc. but now having little hope of refrefhing, we ordcriditin this manner.

The Beef which was to ferve on Sunday Night for Supper, our Cook did boil on Saturday Night in a Kexthe full of Watch, with a quart of Oatmeal, about an Hour; then taking out the Beef, he boiled the reft till is came to half the quantity, and this we called Borridge, which wedid eat with Bread as hor as we could, and after ir, bad our Ordinary of Fin. On Sunday as diviner we had Pork and Peale, and ar Night the former boiled Beef made more Pottage. In this manner our Tuefdaj's Beef was boiled on Munda Nights, and the Thur (day's upon Witchncday Nights; and thus all the Week except Friday Night, we had fomething warm in our Bellies for Supper, which certainly did us in great deal of good. Bur ion after Christmas many of us fell flick, and having fore Mouths, could eat neither Beef, Park, Fin nor Portage; their diet was only this: They would pound Bread or Oatmeal in a Mortar to Meal, then fry it with a little Cyl, and fo ear it: Some would boil Peale to a fofl Pant, and feed as well as they could upon thar: For the mot fart of the Winter, Water, was our Drink. In the whole Winter we rook nor above a dozen Foxes, many of which had been dead in the Traps two or three days, and when the Blood was feted, were unwholfome. But when we took one alive that had not been long in che Trap, we boiled him, and made Broch for the weakest of the flick Men, who car the Flelh alto after ir was well boiled: Some white Partridges we killed, but nor worth the mentioning.
Some of our fink Mon were fo weak, that they could nor turn chemfelves in their Beds; others were almost cripled.with Aches; the reft had fore Mouths: \(\mathrm{O}: \mathrm{r}\) Surgeon wasup betimes cicely Morning, and wind he picked their Teeth and cos array the dead lien: front their Gums, they bathed their usn Thighs, Knees, and Legs: The manner whereof was this ; There was no Tree, Bud, or Herb, bus we made rmalof 5 :, which being firth boiled in a Ketic, and poured into final dubs and Batons they put is under diem, and covering chemfelves with Cloths, the grieved parts were 10 mollified thereby, that tho' they could farce stand when they ruse cut of their Beds, yet within half an hour they would be aiders go (and mutt go) tho' the Snow to the Wood, and to the Ship. By Night they would be as bad again, and then they mut be again bathed, anointed: and have their Mouths dreftbefore they went to belch. And with this Diet, and in this manner we went tho" our RJiferies.

I ever feared that we thould be weakeft in the Spring, and therefore had referred a Tun of alicante Wine unto this time: Of this, by putting even parts of Water to one of Wine, we made lome weak lienverage, whicli was lithe better than Water, the Wine being frozen, having ion its virtue. The lickericithad a fins of ali:cent 2 day by it Self, and a , little Dram of fuch poor Aqua Vier 2. we had, every Morning next their Hearts. And thus we made the beftufe of what we had, according no the Scafons.
Miry the fort, we went aboard betimes to heave ont the Icc.

The fecond, it did frow and blow, and was fo cole, that we kept in the Houfcall day. This unexpected cold ar this rime of the Year, did fo vex our nick Men, that they grew worfe and wore; we could nor now rake them out of their Beds but they would lwound, and we had much ado to fetch life into them.

The third, thole that were able went aboard betimes to heave our the Ice. The Snow was now melted in many places upon the Land, and food in planl.cs, and now there came forme Cranes and Geefe so it.
The fourth, while the rets wrought aboard, I and the Surgeon went with a couple of pieces to fee if we could kill any of the fe Fowl for our fuck men; but never did I fec foch wild Fowl; they would nor endure to fee any thing move, wherefore I returned in two Hours, not being able to endure foaling thro" the Snow and wet Plathes.

The fixth Fobs Warden, ourchief Mate, died, whom we buried in the Evening in the molt Christian marne r in tr we could, upon the sop of a bare Hill of Sand. The weather continued very sold, freczing fo bard in a Night, that it would bear a Man.
By the gath; we were come to, and. got up our aye Barrels of Beef and Pork, and found our four Buts of Beer, and one of Cider, which God had preserved for us. It had lain under water all the Winter, yet we could not perceive thar it was any thing the worfe; God make us curer thankful for the comfort it \(\xi^{\text {ave }}\) us.
The 13th, it flowed and bowed fo cold, that we could not fix our of the house; yer the Snow vanifheth away apace ufonthe Land.
The nth, we were aboard kermes, to heave ours Icc. By the 12th at Night we had cleared all the lee out of the Hold, and found likewife our fere Shoos, which had lain foaking in water all the Winter; bur we dried them by the fire, and fitted our elves with them. We track again ourCablesinro the Hold, and there tow-: ed a Butof Wine alto, which had been all the Winter on the upper Deck, and, continued as yet firmly frozen. We fitted the Ship aldo, making her ready to fink her again when che Ice thould break up. We could hitherto find no defect in her, and therefore hoped thar the was flanch. The Carpenter nevertheless did earneftly argue to the contrary, alledging, that now the had lain on.the Ground in her Dock, and that the Ice had filled her Defects, which for the prefent kept our the Water, but when the thould come to labour in the Sea, then doubtless the would open; and indeed wectould now free quite thro' her Seams betwixt Wind ana Water." But chat which troubled us mot was the lois of our Rudder; and that the now lay in the very ftrength of the Tide; which whenever the lice hiould drive, might rear fer to pieces; but we fill hoped the belt.
The 13 th, being the Sabbath-day, we folentoly gave God thanks for thole Hopes and Comforts we daily had. The Weather by day was pretty warm, burin did freeze by Night. We could now fee tome bare parches of Land.

\section*{he \(x\) \\ 3 0 0}
\(\qquad\)
\(\qquad\)

The 14 th, the Boatfuain and others fought the reft of outcine bole, and fink the Ship, as likewife to look for cur Kigiing alloar, which was much fooiled by peckas is out of the Ice, and then fitted and ferved it. I fer the Conper to fitour Cank, my intent being to pals fome Cuiulcs muder the Ship, and fo to buoy ber up with thele Caik, if we could not otherwife get her off. Some Iorderid to go and fee if they could kill fomewild Fowl for out tuk Men, who now grew werfe and worfe. We had no hiut lout what we made of the Aprons of nur Guns and Some old old Pewier thatI had; for the Carpenter' Shecr-I ead wedurft nor ufe.
Ihe 15 th , I manured a little patch of Ground that was barc of Snow, and rowed it with Pcale, hoping to hatis fome of the Heriss of them fhortly to eat; for asyet \(\because\) cantand nogrecn thing to comforr us.
The 18 th , our Carpenter William Coif died, a Man - gencrally brononed by us all, as much for his innare no miocs as for the preient necelfity we had for a Man of his profefion. Hi had endured a long ficknefs wich much parience, and made a yery gouly end. Inthe Even ins ore buricd himby Mr. ofridin, accompanied with as na:ny as could go; for threc more of our principal Men, lay chancxpecting a gocd hour. Before his extream Weaknets, hehad made che Pinnace ready to be boulted and recialld, and to be joined together to receive the Pant; fo that we were not fo difcouraged by his death, iut that wehoped of cur felyes to finith her, if the Ship proved uncervicable.

Thenir Pinace was 27 Foor by the Kecl, no Foot by tie beam, and fue Foct in the Hold: She had in Groundtumiers, it principal Siaddles, and cight thort Staddics He had contrived her with a round Siern, to favelabour, ani ineed the was a well proportioned Veffel: Her Lethenwas 12 or \(4+\) Tun
So the Eircning, the Mafter after Burial returning aan! Ship, and lociking abour her, difcovered fome anir oi our Cunce under the Gun-room-ports. This finn in: inai eommitted to the Sea, at a good diftance from ue Siap, and in deep Water, near fix Months ancruni ?le :oth. I fent Aen to dig him out, he was fat in the lex, his Heat downward, and his Hecl upward, for he hadibut one lees, and the Plaifter was yet at his Wemi. In the ificrnoon they had digged him clear cur, andicwas as fice trom noifomnels as when we Gmmitted lim to the Sca, the Icc, Water, and Time anias woughr this only alteration on him, that his Cut. wouic thipup and downepon his Bones, likea Glove ona Mhn's ifandi: In the Evening we buried him by the chers. The Snow was by this tume pretry well wafted in the Woods, and wehaving a high Trec on the higheft atce of the linand, which we called our thatch-riee, ituentheto of it could fiec into the Sca, but faw no aptearanc of hreaking up yet.

The zoth, being ithi:/antich, we fadly folcmnized The sexrday was the warmelt funlline day that carme iht year: Ifon: nwo a fowling, and my felf, the Mafter, Sutgeon, and onemore, withour Piecesand Dogs, went inio the Wroods, and wandring cight Miles from the Howe, returned comforless, nor inding an Herb or l.eaf that was eatable: Our Fowicrs had as bad fuccefs. The Snowin the Woods was party wafted away, and the Ponds were almoft unthawed, but the Sea appeared all.firm frozen.
The Snow dothroormelt here with the Sun or Rain, aini fo make Land-floods as in Eusland, bur is cxhaled up by the Sun, and fuck'd fullof holes like Honey-combs, ia that the Sand whereonit lics, will norbe at all wetted. Weobrerved alfo, that lex itzain nerer fo much, we had no Land-foods afictir.
The zed, we wene aboard the Ship, and found that fue bad made fo much Water, that it was now rifen above the Eallat, which made us doubr again of her found-the Rudder betwixt the Ice. This he prefently performed, and ahappy Fcllow pecking betwixt the lic, fruck pon it, and crying that he had found it, the reft came, they forl and got it upon the Ice, and fo into the Ship. In the meantime with the littic drift the Ice had, it began to rife and mount into high heaps, againft the Shoars and Kocks, and alfo againft the heap of Ice which was our Berriciedo. We were forced to cur away 20 Fathom of Ice feticd again, not having ilce. After an hour the Ice fcticd again, not having any, vent outwands. This wasa joyfull day to us all, and we gare God thanks for the hopes we had of is.
The 2sth, wasa finc wamulay, and with the Ebb the Ke drove againit the Ship, and nook. her Mrewdly.
The 2Gtb, I took the Chirurgion with mic, and went to that Bay where Fohm Barton was loft laft ycar, bur could find no fign of him; and having wandred in the Woods, creturned wishour any relicf
The 28th, it was pretey clear berwixt the Ship and Shoar, and I hoped the Ice would no more dangeroull yonprefs us, wherctore I caufed the lower hole to be firmly foppid, the Water then remaining three Foot above tine allat.
The 29th, being Prince Charics his Birth-day, we kept Holycay, and difplayed our Colours aboard and aflioar and namedour Habitation Charles Torm, by contraction Chariten, and the illand Ciaarison I/and. The soth, welanched our Boat, and had iatercourfe betwixt the Ship and Shoar by. Boar, which was news to es. 0 is .
The laft of this Month, we found on the Beach fome Vetches appearing out of rhe Ground, which I caufed io be pigked up and boiled for our fick Mcn. This diyy we hod fitted all our Rigging and Sails. and it being a very hot day, wedried and new made all our Fifh in the Sun and aired all our other Provifions. There was nor a Man of usat prefent able to cas of oer fait Providions, but my fulf and. the Mafter of my Sinp. fi mayy be here remembred, that all this Winter we had not been croubled with any Rheums or phlegmarick Difiafes. All rhis Month the Wind was vaniable, but for the mott part Northeriy.
Jume, the four frift days it did fnow, hail, and blow vCry hard, and was fo cold, that the Ponds of Water did freeze over, and the Water inour Cans did freeze in the reiy houfe; our Cloaths alfo thar had boce wathed The fift to dry, did not thaw all day.
Toad fiden, it continucel blowing "cry hard in the broad fide of the Ship, which did make ner to fwigg and wallow in her Deci, and much thake her, altho' fte was funk; the Iec withal did drive againit her, and give ner many fearful blows. I refolver to cndearoor to hang the Rudder, and when Ged Cent us water (. notwithAtanding the abundancciof Iec thar was yet about us; to have her further off. In the Afternoorwe underun our fmall Cable to our Anchor, which lay afteta in decp water, and with fome difficulty got it up. This Cable Wiad lain flack under Foot, and under the Ice all the Winter, and we could nothave a clear flatch from Iseto get it up before now; wefound it not a jo: the worf put fome to make. Cole-rakes, that they might go into Rudder and rake a hole in the Sands to let down our Rudder.
The 6th, we went about to bang it, and our young lufticf Men took turns to goinrothe water and rake away the Sard, but they wore nor able to endure the cold of it half a quarter of anhour; is was fo mortiying, and would make them fwound away. We broughe it to the Stern Poft, but were then fain to give it over, being able to work at it nolonger. Thea we -ifs; we fell to pumping, and pump'd her quite dryugged up the upper boles within board, and pumpid Wre had now fometimes fuch hor elooms, that we could but were forcel wrought fomerning about our Rudder, or cridue the Sun, and yet in toe Night ic would freeze over board very hard. This unaturalnefs of the Seafon cormented; that pals, that we might keep her right in her Dock, cur mon, that they now grew warfe and worfe daily. when we fhould bring her light.
Ike \(\uparrow\) d, our Eoarfwain, a painful man, having been long fick, which he had heartily refified, was taken with tuch a pain in one of his Thighs, that we verily thought icy vonld prefendy have died: He keps hisBed all day in

By the 8th ar Nighr, we had pump'd all the water our 3 cat extemity; and it was a Miaxim among us, that if folved to heave out allthe Ballaft, hecaufe the hotiom of dny one kept his Bed rwo days, he could rife no more; 'her being to foaked all the Winter, I hoped was fo hervy this made cyery man ftrive to keep up for life. as to bear her. If we could nor get her off that way,
The \(=4\) th, was a very warm funhine day, and the Ice I then thougit to cut her down to the lower Deck, did cenfunc hy the Shoar's file, and crack d all over the and take out her Mafts, and fo wathour Catk to buoy Bay with atearful noico. In the Afternoon we perceived her off.
the do with the Eifto drive by the Ship, whereupon I: Thegth, wo hoificd out our Beer and Ciler, and o

\section*{Chap. XXXIV.}

The Beer and Cider funk prefently to the Ground, which drawn to the life, and foclofely wrapped in doubleI rad was not ftrangeto us, becaufe any Wood or Pipe-ftaves that had lain under the Ice all the Winter, would link down as foon as it was heaved over-board: This day we heaved outren Tun of Ballaft, And here I muft remember God's goodnefs to us in fending the atorefaid green Vatches; fornow our fick Men thar could not itur thefe three Months, were able to walk about the Honf, and it was wondecful to fee how foon they were resovered. Twice a day we gathered the Hicrb or Leal of thefe Vecthes, as they firtt appeared our of the Ground, shen wahted and boiled chem, and fo with Oyl and Vincgar that had been frozen, did cas rhem. Ic was an excellent fultenanccof refrelhing; mott part of us did ear nochung cife: We alfo bruifed chem, and mixed the juice with our Drink, and did cat chem nay withour Bread.
The oth, being very warm weather, we did hang our Rudder: The Tides now yery much deccived us, for 2 Northerly Wind would raife the Water hut very little, which made us doubr of getsing off nur Ship.
The 14 h, we heaved our all the Ballaft, and carried all our Yards and other weighty things afhoar, to that the Ship was now as lighe as potidibly couldue.

The isth, I went to our W'utcl-tree, but the Sea (for any thing l could perceive to the sontrary) was ftill firmiy frozen, and the Bay we were in, all full of lee, having no way to vent ir.

The reth was wondrous hor, with fome thunder and lighring, fo thar our Men wertinto the Ponds athoar to fwim and ciol chemfelves; yet was the Water very cold ittill. Here Iarely appearcudivers forts of Flics, as Bur-ter-flics, Burcticrs-fics, Horfe-flics, and fuch an infinite abundance of blood chirfty Muskicos, that we were more tormented with them, than ever we were with the cold weather: Thefe ( I think) lie dead in the old rotten Wood all'Winter, and in Surnmer revive again. Here belikewife infinite Companies of Anss, and alfo Fross in the Ponds, but we durft not eat them, they looked fo ypeckled like Toads. By this time there were neither Bears, Foxesinn Fowl to befeen, they areallgons.
The 17th, the Wind came Northerly; and we expecting a high Tide, in the Morning beringes, pur ous our fmall Cable aftern our of the Gun-room-port, but the Morning Tide we had nor watcr by a Foor. In the Evening I had laid Marks by Sroncs, and obferving the Water to flow apace, 1 made figns for the Boat to come athoar, and taking with me aboard all that were able to do any thing, alcho ar high water the wanted fomething to rife our of her Dock, yer we heaved wich fuch a good will, that we heaved her thro the Sand into a Foor and a half deep Warer; furcher than fo, we durtt not yet bring her, becauke the lee was all thick about us. Afrer Wehad thanks for giving us our Ship again.
The 1 Sth, fome filled fref water, ochers piled Stones on heaps, which wers carried aboard in the Boas. We firmly liopped the two upper holes, and firted convenien places to make others if occafion were.

The 19th, we were betimes at work; thefe two days our Ship did not float, and it was a happy hour when we got ber off, for we never had fuch a high Tide all the time we were herc. 1 wene up to our Miatch-tree, and this was the firft time I faw open water: This pur us in fome comfort that the Sea would fhortly break up, which we knew muft be to the Northwares, being certain there was above 200 Leagues of Sea rhar way.
The zoth, the Wind ar N. N. W. the Tide rofe fo bigh, that our Ship floated, and we drew her off into a foor and a half decper Water: Thus we did it by litel and lietle, becaufe the Ice was ftill very thick abour us

The 22d, there drove much. Ice abour us and within us, and brought home our Stern Anchor. At high water we heaved our Ship further off, thar the might lie a Hoatatlow water.
The next low water we founded all abour our Ship and found it very foul ground : We difcovered. Scones three foos high above the Ground, two of which were within a Ship's breadth of che Ship, whereby manifeftly appeared God's mercy to us; for if when we forced her athoar, the had ftruck one blow againt thofe Srones, it had bulged her. Many fuch Dangers were in chis Bay, which we now firft perceived by the grounding and tiing of the Iccagaintt rhem. In the Evening we rowed off the Ship to the place whore the rode laft Ycar, and there moored her.
The 23d, we laboured in fetching our Provifions aboard, being forced to wade a flight fhot to carry them to the Boat; and whereas I had formerly cur down a to the Boat; and whetcas I had tormerly cut down a wry high Trec, and made a Crofs of it, now fattned to the upper part of ir, the Pititures of the King and Quecn that no weather could hurt chem. Betwixt them I affixed his Majefties Roy al Title, viñ. Charles the I. King of England, Scotand, Francc, and Ircland, as aifn of Nicwoundland, and of thefe Tarritories, and so the thif? wata as Far as Nova Albion, and so the Norrliward to fle Lafirude 80 Degres, 8 sc
On the outtide of the Tead I faftened a Shilling and a Sixpence of his Miajeftics Coin, under thar we faftened che King's Arms.faitly cut in Lead, and under that the arms of the City of Briflol; and this being Midjammen1cy, we raifed ic on the top of a bare Hill where we had uricd our Men.
The Wind continuing Southerly, and blowing hard, put all the lec upon us, to that the Ship now rode amonget it in fuch apparent danger, that I thought verily we itould have lott her: We labourcd Flood and Ebb with Poles and Oars, bur is was God that preferved us; for ir was palt any Man's underitandiug how the Ship could endure ic, or we by our habour fave her. In the Nighs the Wind mifted ro the Weftward, and blew the Iece from us, whereby we had fome reft.

The 25 th, we fetch'd the reft of our Provifions aboand, and beganto xig the Ship. Acten at Night, when icwas fomewhat dark, 1 rook a Lance in my Hand, and one with me a Mutike: and fume Fire, and vene to our 1 Fationirectomake a fire on the molt cmancor place of che Ifand, to fie if is would be anfwered : Such Fires I had fornerly made, to cry of there were any Savares on thiz Main, orthe lhandsabour us. Had there becnany, my purpole was to have gone to theme, to ger intelligence of lome Chriftians, or fonce Ocean-Sea chercatouts. When l canc rothe Tree Ilaid downmy Lanes, and to diad my Confors his Mufker, and while I climbed up to the top of the Tree, 1 ordered him to put fire to fome low Tree thercabours. He unadvifedly pur fire to fome Trecs chats werc ro wind ward, fo that rbey and ail the reft being very dry, took fire likeFlax, and the Wind blowing ir to y dry, took fire like Flax, and the Wind blowing in to- The Carwia wards me, I haftened downthe Tree, but before I was nerrovisty half way down, the fire took in the bottom of ir, and \({ }_{-2}\) blazed to ficrecly apwards, that I was forced to lcap offi the Trec, and with much ado cfeaped burning: The Mofs on the Cround was as dry as Flax, and would run like a Trainalong the Earch: The Mulker and Lance were both burnc. My Confort at lant came to inc, and was joyful to fee me, for he thought ierily I had been burnt; and thus we returned together, leaving the fixe incrcafung, and ftill burning mort furiouly. Ar break of day I went again to the Hills, from whence I Caw it lill burning moit vehemently both to the Weftward and Norchward, bur could feeno anfwer of in. Leaving one upon the Hills to watch it, I came home immediarely; and maderhem rake down our new fuir of Sails, and carty them to the Se2 fide, ready to be calt in if occafion werc. Abour Noon the Wind lhifted Northerly, and our Centind came running home, bringing us Word that the Fire did follow hand at his Hecls like a Train of Powder: It was no need to bid us takedown and casy all away to the Sea-fide. The Fire came rowards us with 2 moftecrible ratling noife, bearing a full Mile in breadth, and by tharcime we had uncovered our Houfes, and laid band on our laft things, the Fire had feized ous Town, and in a thrice burne it down to the Ground : We loft nothing of any value in ic, having brought allthrir Honice away into a place of fecurity. Our Dogs in this com-burge. buition v:ould fit down on their Tails and howl, and then run into the Sea on the Shoals; and there fay. This Nighr we lay all rogecher aboard Sbip, and gare God thanks that had fhippd us in her again.
The 27th; 28th, and 29th, we wroughe hard in gerting our things aboard, and in fecching drift Wond, our Tools being fo fpoilcd that we could cur none: I had caufed our Pinnace to be faved in picces, wherewith we towed our Calk, and intended to burnit arlow waters, and fuch other times as we could not work in carrying things aboard.
The 3och, we brought our Sails to Yard, habouring hard to finithour bufinefs with the Week and the Morith, that we might the better folemnize the Sabbath aftoar to morrow, and fotakeleave of our wincering IA and.
The Bays were now clear of Lec, for ir was all gone to the Northwards. The manner of its breaking up was thus; Firlt you mult krow thar it doth nor frecze naturally aboye fix Foor, as wefound by cxpericnce in digging The Six bes to our Anchors; the reft is by accident, tuith as char Icenor fieceat here which is fix Fathom thick. When the heat increaf-naturay \({ }^{3}\) es in May it thaws firt on the Shoals by the Shoar-lick, theve fix and thenthe courfes of the Tides do to thake the main Ice that it cracks and breaks, and having thus gor roond formorion, onepicce of it, rums pon ainother, until it come to a vaft thicknefs. The Scafon in this fandy Country is moft unnarural, for in the day time is will bc fo hor as noc to be cndured in cinc Sime and in the Night again is will frecze an lnch thick im the Ponds, and Tubs in and about our Houle; and all this rovards the snd of Fune.
The Afukitu's uponour coming away werc moft in tolcrable; we tore an ohd Enfign in picece, and made Bags to put our Heads in, yet notwithitanding they would find ways and means to fting us, and were inore tormenting to us than all the cold wehad cudurce.
Fuly the dirft, being Sunday, we adorned our Slip the bett we conld, our Eulign on the Poop, and the king: Colcurs on the Main-sop. I had provided a hhort Narrative of all the Rallages of our Voyage to this das; in what ftate we were at prefent, and how 1 intended to profecnte the Difenery both to the Weftward and the Southward, concluding with a requeft to any noble minded Traveller that ihould take it down, that if we bould ferim in the Action, thentomake our Endeavours known to nur forctaign lord the King; and thus with oor Arms, Drum and Colours, Cook and Ketrle, wo went athoar, and firt march'd up to cur cminent Crofs, adjoining to which we had buricd our dead Fellows, where we read Morning Praycr, and then walked up and down cill Dimmer time. After Dinier we waiked to the highert Hills to fee which way the Fire had walted; we
The Fire he: at leaft, and the whole breadth of the llland; is could not come nearour Crofs and Dead, being upon a hare fandy Hill. Afrer Evening Praycr, as ( walked along the Beach, I found an Hert sefembling Senryy-grafs, which we boiled with our Mear at Supper: lit was excollentiy good, "and far berter than our Vecches. After Supper we all went to feck and gather more of it, and got about two Buthels, which mech refrefled us; and now the Sun was fer, an! the looat come alhoar for us, whercupon we affembled and went up to take the laft view of our dead, where leaning upon mine Arm on one of their Tombs, I utcer'd thele Lines, which tho" perchance they may procure laughter in the wifer fort (which thall be glad of) they yet moved my young and tender ficarted Companions at chat rime with fome Compafion.
I were unkind unlefs that I did fhed,
Before 1 part, fome Tcars upon our Dcad:
And when my Eyes be dry, I will not ceafo
In heart to pray, their Boncs may reft in peace:
Theirbecter parts (good Souls) Iknow were given,
With an intent chey thould recturn to Heaven
Thcir lives they pent to the laft drop of Blood, Secking God's glory, and thcir Countrics good. And as a valiane Souldier rather dics, Than yieldshis Courage to his Encmics;
And ftopstheir way with his hew'd Flech; when Death
Harh quire depriv'd him of his Strength and Breach;
So have they $pent themeflyes; and heretbey lie,
A famous Mark of our Difcovery.
We chare furvive, perchangee may cnd our Days,
In fome Employment meriting no praile,
And in a Dung-hill tor; whenno Man names
The memory of us, but toour hames.
They have ouclivid chis frar, and their brave conds Will cere be an honour to their Fricrds.
Why drop you fo mine Eyes : Nay racher pow's My fad defarture in a folcmin Showr.
The Winter's Cold that lately froze our Blood, Now werc is fo cxtream, might do shis good,
As makechecfe Tcars bright Pcarls, which I would lay Tombed fafcly with you till Doom's fatal Day.
That in this rolitary place, where nonc
Will ever come to brcart a ligh orgroan,
Some remnant might be citant, of the truc And faithfullove, I Icrer tendred you.
Oh: reftin peace, dear Fricnds and lex it be No pride to (ay the fomerine part of me.
What painand anguiff doch affict the Hc cad, The Heartand Stomach, when the Limbs are dead. So grier'd Ikifs your Grates, and row to dic, A Foftci-father to yourmemory.

Farewel.
We then took Boat and departed: The Illand was vecoming we faw fone Decr, and killd one bur never any fince. We faw many Foxes all the Winter, and any unce. Wo cow many foxens of them, bue they went all away it

May; we faw bur fow Bears, and killid none. In Map there came Come Fowls, as Ducks and Gecfe, of which we killd very few: We faw fotne whice Patridzes, but in fmall numbers, nor had we any Shot to fhoor ar them. Filh we could never fee in the Sea, nor no Benes of Fifh nuthe Shoar-fide: we faw indecd a few Cockle- ion pinn thels, bur nothing in them.

\section*{Ost Difgovery, and coming lirme.}

Fnly, 1632, Mundey the 2d, we fowed and fitted our. Ship, and weighed our Anchors, and when the laft was a trip, went to prayers, befeeching God no continue his mercy to us, and rendering him thanks for having chus reftored us. Wre found no defect in our Ship; had abundance of fuch Provifions as we broughe out of Sema and; were in indifferent health, and gathered ftrengith daily. The Wind as N. W. we fer fail, and ftcod over to Danly Illand notake in more Wood. I went a moar in the Boar, becaufe fome of the Company told me they Law fonc Stakes the laft ycar driven into the Ground: I went toche place, and found two Stakes driven atoura Foot and a half inoo the Ground, and Fixc-brands by them ; I pull'd up the Stakcs, which were abour the bigncis of iny Arm, and cur flarp as the ends with a Hascher, or foms goud Iron Tool: They were diftant about a Srones chrow from the Water-fide. 1 cannor conceive to what purpors they mould be thers fer,' unlefs is were for feme Marks for Boats. In the kerning we rcrurned with a Boat's lading of Wood:

The third, at break of day weweighed, and withour Lead founding for a Channcl among thefe perilous Shoals: and were many timesin fiveand four Fachom. We ftood away Weft, and by Noon faw all Ice to he Northward of us, cundeavouring therefore to compals the Weitern Point of Cbartion lland, and fo. Seek to the Southwards, wefound it all Shoals, Rocksand Breaches. By tour we fav the Weitern Land, all full of Ice,' whercupon we tood along it to rhe Northward.
The 4 th was calm, bur fo thick a Fog, that we colla nor fee a Piftol-nor from us. The next day we weighed, bue Icebcing all about us, we knew not which way to cumus; and thus we continued peftered and tormented with Ice and Fogs sill the 22d. We ftruck fuch blowsagainft the Icc, thar the Fore part of the Ship would crack again, and make our Cook and others run up amazed, thinking the Ship had heen beaten all to pieses; and rwenty cimes in a day the Men woutd rum down into the Hold to fee if be were bulged.
Sometimes when we had made her faft in the Night to a grear piece of: Ice, we fhould bave fuch violent forms, that our faftening would break, and then the Storm would beat us from piecero piece moft fearfully: Sometimes we were inclofed with Ice as high as our Pcop; this was made, as I formerly oblerved, by one picec raming upon another, which made it draw eight or ten Fathom Water. Sometimes the lowvermoft would rife from underneath, and frike us under the Bulge with pieces of fix or cighr Tun, thar many nimes we have pumpdd clear Warex for an Hour together, before we could make the Pump fuck. Among thefe hourly Dangers, lover-heard the Men murmur and fay, that they were happy that I had buried, and that if they had a thoufand Poonds, they would giveit, fo they lay fairly by thein; for we ( faid chey) are dettined to ftarveupon a picce of Ice. I was forced to endure all with paticnce, and to comfort them again when I had them in a better hamour.
The 22d, after a ftormy Nighr, we faw Cape Henrin eftn Maria, and hoifting out our Boat, took our Arms and Dogs; and ivent alhoar: We crected a Crofs upon the mofteminent place, and fattened the King's Arms, and the Arms of the Ciry of Brifto to it; and chen feeking abour, we faw abour a dozen Deer, very goodly Beafts; we frole towards them with the beff fkill we had, and \(\chi_{\text {Gige }}\) fit then put our Dogs on them, bur the Deerran away from them at pleafure. We tired the Dogs, and wearied ourCelves to no purpofe, neither could we come to fhoos ar them. We took half a dozen young Geele, by: wading rothem in the Pools, and fo retarned to our Boat, vexed that we had found a place where there was Refrefhment, and could get none of it. Whereas cherefore we had keprour Dogs with a great deal of inconvemence, aboard the Ship all the Winter, and had pardoned them many Mifdemcanors (forthey would fteal our Mcatour of the Stecping-rubs.) in hopes they might hereafice do us fome fervice, and feeing they now did nor, and that there was no hope they could hercafter, I left them afhoar: They were a Dogand a Bitch, Buck Dogs of a trery good Race. I faw no fign of any Sayages, nor found any Herbs or other refrelhment herc. In the Evening returning aboard, we made fail, hoping for an open Sca to the N. W. and failing amongt hatterd Ice till the 3 oth, is will be needlefs to relate cvery particular day's Paflage, which was much alike to us. Out Ship was now bscome verylcaky, fo that we mult pump cuery half watch. Herc l cilled a Confulcation, and we were all of the fame opinion, that it was impoffible to get to the Northwards or the Eaftwards, by reaton of the Ice; wherefore I refolved ro ftand to the Wettward, and catied the Ship to be fitted, and placs convenient again prepared to link her the fecond ume, if we thould bepur to catremitiss.
The \(5 t^{2} 1\), we were in Latitude of 55 Deg .30 Min . The Cape bearing S. E. by E. Come 12 Lcagucs off, and this is all we have gotren fince che \(22 d\) of \(\mathcal{F u l}\). It blew a violent pale of Wind all Night at W. N. W. and about Midnight our Hawfer by which we had made faft toa picce of Ire, broke, and we loft it Fathom of is. We bear all Night moft fearfully, being toft from piece to pisce, becaule in the dark we durtt nor vencure our Men to go fortb on the Ice for fear of loofing them. The Storm continucd all the Grh, and drove us again with the Ice almoft to the Cape.

The 7th, was the moft comfortable day we had fine we came our of our wintring place: our leak thond of its own accord.
The 8th, we anchored in cigle Fathom, the main Iec swo Miles to windward of us. The Wind increafing about Midnight, rhe Ship did drive, and was quickly in five Fathom, whereapon we let fall our Shect-Anchor, and bork held her. Bur that which troabled us moft tvas, that we expected ereyy Minute when the main fie would come upon us, and then we muft, Be put 2 ihoar.
The \(x h\), I caufed all our empry Cank ro be filled yivi Water, and the Ship to be lett unpumpid, and the places looked to that we had prepared tofink her, we being at prefent in as apparent danger, as any. time this Voyage. It was all foul rocky Ground, and if we made faft to a pieceof Ice, then as foon as it came aground upon thefe Rocks, it would break all to pieces, and betray us to our deftruction. Ar Noonthe point of a Rand of Icecame foul of us, and we perceiving open Warer beyond ir, dropid an Anchor, thinking to ride and break thro it; thrafting thexefore and fending with our Poles, ar laft a great piece came thwart ourHiautic, and the Ship fell upon it fo violemty, thar I expcied cvery blow the wonld bear our her Bows; at length fhe drove with it, fo that I thought the Cable had becn broken: We broughr it to Capiton, and found that our Shect-Anchor was broken in the middle of the Shank: We-fet our Sails, and a dark Nighte conning on, we made faft to the biggeft piese we could find. If any Man ank, why we kspr fo pear the Shoar in this contimual danger? I anfwer, Becaufe the Ice was fo thick in the Offing, that we could make no way thro it.

On the 15 th, we had a moft violent Storm, which did break the Ice into picces as Big as a Boas of threc or four Tons, and gave ps many a heavy blow in the dark Nighr: And thus we conxinued for the fpace of fix Wecks, as it were in the Jaws of Death. When we ufed to fer Marks on it to ice how ir did confume, bur could nor in chat time perceive any diminution by de finking of it or otherwife; Neverthelefs I think it is ruined with Srorms, or confumed with hear fome Xicars, orelfe the Bay would be choaked with Icc. I have in Fuly and thebeginning of \(A u z^{2} / f\), taken fome of the lee intothe Ship, and cutring is two Foor fquare, put it into the Boar, where tbe Sun did fhine on is with 2 very firong reflex abour it, and notwithftanding the warmith of the Ship (for we kepta good fire) : and all our Breathings and Mocions, it would nor be melted in cigheorten days.
- The 24 th, we had a violent Storm at S. S. E. fo thar we took in our Fore-fail, and let her drive N. W. The Storm continued all the next day in its utmoft malice, and did fo perplex us, that there were but few char did leep or cat a bit thefe 24 hours.
The 26th, by two in the Morning we were fuddenly come in amongt the Ice. When day appeared, we could from Top-manthead fee the Ice to the N. N. W the N. W, and fo round abour by the South to the Eaft It was all flat found Ice in main Rands, and the Sca as foooch as a Well amongt it. This fruck us all into a Dump, whereupon I called 2 Confultation of my Affo ciates, wit. the Licutenant, Mafter, his Mate, the Chirargion, and Boarfwain, reguiring them to advife and counfel ine how to profecute cur butinefs to cffect. They went together and wealoned among themfelves, and then brought me their Opinion in writing under their Hands, 3.

Our Advics is, that you repair homeward, from this The oniscre prefene 26rh, and that for thele Reafons: Firt, Becnufs Pretimetre the Nights are loug, and fo excream cold withal, that we their retur. can hardly handle our Sails and Rigging. Seconily, The timesare now fubject to ftormy and gufly weather, as witnefs the prefent Ssafon, it having cuntinued a form serefince the \(24 t h\), and is yee no weather to difcover in. Thirdly, We donbe whether Hedfori's Serairs will be fo clear of Iec as so be paffable, Winter coning on apace. Fourthly; we muft havea fer of fair weather to pais the Strait, which we may ftay for a long time, if we neglect the firft Opportunity. Fifthly, Becaufe our Ship is very leaky, fo thas in fuul weather we are orced to pumperery Glafs; and we know her to be fo forcly bruifed with Kocks and blows of the lec, thar the is no more tobe ad:cnturd amonst at; ant befides all chis, our Men grow vcry weak and fickly with extrean habour. Sixthly, The Scalon of the Year is fo farfeent, hat we can expect no nther wearher than we have had, wit. Snow and Fog, frcezing our Rigging, and makirg cycry thing to nlippery, that a Man can foarce ftand; and all this with the Wind Southerly, which if is thould come to the Northward, then we are ro cxpect fir worfe. Seventhly and laftly, That the lec li.s all in thick Rands, in the vary way we flould go; aiad thers: fore we conclude as aforcfaid, that there is no pofibibility of proceeding further; whercfore we here counfli you o return homeward, hoping thar God will give us a favourable Paffage, and return is home tife to cur narive Country, if we take time, and not ten.pt han too fat by our wifulnels.
Indeed moft of thefe Reatons were in sicw, and i knes nor how ro oppofe them; nor any reafon coudd i give how we mighr proceed further; wherefore, with a forrowful Heart God knows, I confented that the Helm hould be boinup, and a Courfe Maped for Ing!.an! well hoping thit his Majefty would graciouny cenfure mi Endeavours, and pardon my rerurn; and alcho we have not difcover'd populnus Kingdoms, and taken fpecinl notice of their Magnificencic, Power, and Policics brought Sambles home of their Riches aud Commoditits, pricad nto the Mifteries of their Traffick, nor made any treas fight againft the Enemics of God and our Nation; yet I wift our Willingness in thefe defert parts, may be acceprable to our Keaders. When we bore up the Helm, ne were in Lat. 65,30 , at leaft, N. W. by N. from Not-ingbim-Inand.
The 27ch, we were thwars of Capectartes; it fnowed much laft Night, and was very cold, fo diar ail u:r Rigging and Sails werc frozen, and allithe Land covered with Show, and having formerly froken of thic much Snow in thefe parts, it will not be amifs to confider the Reafons of ir. When I was upon rharifor-illand in \(\mathfrak{F}\) uns, The currs I did in the Nights (and fome of them' following the withe aina horgeft days) obferve whether there fell any Dew or no, dance of bur could never perceive any, and inded from Mofs and Snow in Sand listle was to be cxpected; nor of what was crhaled tik prot. from the fnowy Iec and cold Sca, could there probably be ceturned bur the lake again.
The latt of the Month we were in the Narrow of the Streighr, which is abcur is Leagues over, the South moars much pefterd with Ice.
Septemiber the third, we faw the South end of the Inand Refolution; the Wind coming Eaftertl, we fe's anorher Sepromber Senour of the Ocean, and the Ship laboured with another motion thar the had donc, with any Sea thar ciane rom the Weftward.
On the Sch, we. were got clear cut of the Sercights, hut were pow come into fuch a tumbling Sea; thas the Ship did fol labour and roll, that we thoughe the would have rollcd ber Mafts by the Board. This unade her to leaky, that we wore forced to pionf eycry Gials, and her Scams did to ofen alof, has wis lay all wer in cr.
This was the laft day we fow day Ice, and the Wind. now favouring us, we made all the haft we could homeward. As we came along, I perfocted iny Obiervations copecrning the fafiblenels of the Action incuaded, which was ro find a Paffage into the South \(S_{\mathrm{en} \text {, and here }}\) ffer it to the judicious Reader.
What hath becn long ago fabled by fome portugnts, that came this way our of the South Sca, I leate to be confuted by their own vanity. Theic Hopes have from time to time firsed up the more alive Spirits of our Kingdom to refearch that mecrly imaginary Paliage. For. my part, I give no credit to them as all, their Diffourfes being abrur't, and the Plats (by which fome have practifed.

00002
practifed to deccive the World) are meer Falkities, making Sea where there is main Land, and Land where is inething bus Sca.
Moft certain it is, that by the only induftry of our Own Nation, the Nouthern Parts of \(/\) Im rica have been difeoverd to the Latitude of so Deg. and upwards, and they have brought this luppofed Paffage to this pafs, as to be certain that is mutt be to the Northwards of co Deg. of I atimude; a cold Climate, petterd with Ite and othss Incommoditics, which the Speniards Difrolitions and their weak Shirs can hardly long codurc. And withal it is kiowi, that the Entrance of Ifudfors' Strecthe is but is leagues herad, in the midd'e nor io muth; and between Selshew willand and the Main-isbur cight I.cagues sen procedine to the Northwards, it is but 15 Leagues from Main on Main. This in length is abour 140 l, eaguss, nitimiedy petterd with lec unril deren?, and fome Xears not palfable then: Xea, I believe the Sereighe is never lear of lec thonsw
Now molt prolaive it is, that there is no Paffage, and that for the Re Rentons following.
I. There is a conltant Tide of Flood and Fbb ferting into firdfen's Strcipht: The Flood itill coming from the Eattward, wheh, as it procects, alecs his sime of full Sca, according.to the diftance; this alfo entring inro Fiaysind briken(jounds, becomes diftracted, and revercs with hatf Tides.
II. Here is no fmall Filh, as Cod, Ece and very few great onfo, which are tarely to be feen: Nor are there any Bones of Whales, Sca-hories, or other great Firh to befound on che Shoar, nor any drift Wood.
111. That we found the Ice in the Lat. of 6530 , lying all over the Sca in Rands, and I am moft certain that the Shoals and Shoal Bays arethe Moticr of it.. Now had there bern any Oceanbeyond ir, it would have been lrokeall to pieces \({ }^{4}\) for fo we found it coming thro" the Siright, into the Sea to the Eaftward.
IV. The Ifrefecks its way to the Eaftward, and fo drives oit as friflon's Streighe, which I have often ob ferved, being afhoar upon the Illand Refolution, and driving amongit the Ice in the Screights,

Now admit there was a Paflage, yet it is known to be nanrow, and petter'd with Ice for 140 Leagues, as hath becnfaid; comparing therefore fome. Oblervations taKen at Bantam, Gilulr, and Firando in 7 apant, and the diAtance betreen fripm, and the Weftern part of californ mi.s, with the Obfervations taken ar Chariton-Iland, the diftance between che Meridians of Cape Cbarles and the Weftern part of Celiformia, will be found to be about 500 l cagues, ins the latitude of 66 Degrecs, where the Meridjans inclinc very much rogether.
To this may be added, that near about Cape Chaties; the Variation is 29 Deg. to the Weft, which makes ir probable that there is much Land that way; and this fircight (if any be) muft be very long, and you have no time to pafs it but in Auguft and Segrember, when the

Nights are long, and the weather fo sold, thas is will roo be indurable
Add to this, that neither can. any grear Ships which are fit for casrying Merchandife, endure the lec withont extraordinary danger. Morcover, 1000 Icagess is foonce and with more faftry failed to the Southward and about the Cape of Good Hope, where the Winds are conftant, than 100 in thefe Scas, where jon muft daily run the hazard of looling Ship and Lives; meither is comfort fir the Sick or retecthment for your Micn, tobe had in these Parts.

Towards the latter end of \(A \mu \mu \mu / f\) and in Seprember, the weather grows tempeftuous, and the Winds incline o be Hicftcrly, that there will be but fmall hope of performing your Yoyage chis way.
- Bur les us by way of imagination, inlarge this fuppored Strcight in its breadeh, and free it of Ice, 3 et what advantage in fpeedy performatice will be gosten by this Paffage if the Winds be withal confiderd ? To Ffipan, Chinm, and the Northern Parts of sjlia, it may be the nearer cur; but to the Enfl-Indics, and other parts where we have the greateft commerce, the other way is as ncar.
Whathencfir of Trade might have been obrained in thofe Northern Parts of Afia (if our Difcovery had fuccceded ) ? I will not prefume to (peak of believing there is a great difference between thofe parts and the Northern parts of Americf, but am fure there is none in any place where I have been all this Voyage.
The 22d of Otlober we arrived in the Road of Briffol having been hindered and crofs'd with contrary tempetuous Winds and Weather. The Ship being brought suo Harbous and haled dry aground, it was there found hat all har Cor-water and Srem were torn and beaten way, asalfo 14 Foot of her Keel, much of berSheathing out away, her Bows broken and Druifed, and many Timbers crack'd wirhin board; under the Bulge 2 fharp Rock had cut thro the Sheathing, the Plank, and an Inch and an half into 2 Timber thar it met withal. Many other Defects there were befides, fo thar ir is miraculons how this Veficl could bring us home again. We wentall ro Church, and gave God thanks for proferving us amidft fomany dangers. I very well know that what I have written, will never difcourage any noble spirit, that is minded an bring this fo long tried Action to perfection; to whole Defigns I wifh a happy fuccels. Now altho' I have fpems fome Years of my ripett age, in procuring vain intelligence from forcign Narions, and rave travelled to divers Honourable and Learned Perfons or this Kingdom for their Infructions ; have boughr up whatever 1 coold find in prim or manufcript, and what Plar-or Paper foever conducing ro chis bufinets, chat poffrbly I could procure, and bave fpent above 200 /. of my own Money ; yet I repent not, but take a great deal of comfortand joy, that I amable to give 2 reaforable Acount of thole parts of the World, which heretofore I was not fo well Garsfied in.

\section*{C н A P. XXXV.}

> An Account of a Voyage made towards the South Terra-incognita; taken from the Fournal of Captain Abel Johnfon Tafman, woto not only difcovered a Nem Paffage by Sea to the South of Nova Hollandria, Vandiemen's Land, &cc. and lailed round a vaft Tract of Land and Sea, but alfo made very ufeful Obfervations concerning the Variation of the Magnetical Needle in Parts of tbe World, almoft Antipodas to us, with Jevieralother curiouis Remarks concerning tbofe Places and its Inbatants : Publihed in Low-Dutch by Dirk Rembrantfe, and fince donic into Englifh from Dr. Hook's Collections.

\(A n, 164=\)
 S.pectr. 5. S. L, at. and 83 Dcg. 48 Min. Longit. They found this Otaber, wherechey bore away E. by S. till the 29 ch of Ihe 50 Ditch Miles more to the Ealt chan their Comipu!
1643. ORcber, to 45 Deg. 47 Min. S. Lat. I.ongit. 89. Deg. 44 \({ }^{1643^{\circ}}\) Min. Variation N. W. 26 Deg. 45 Min.
Noon. 6. They were ar 49 Deg. 4 Min.S. lat. longit. 114 Dcg. 56, Variation N. W. 26 Deg. with milty windy weawiv. 15-ther, and a hollow Sca; Wind S. W. and S. they came to 44 Deg .3 Min. South Lat. Longit. 140 Dcg .32 Min . Variation N. W. 18 Dig. 30 Min. which decreafed apace; foron the 21 ft, being then at the long. of 158
ini, 22. Deg. the Variation was only 4 Deg. The ners day the Compafs would nor ftand upon any one of the cight Points, which made them guefs that fome Mines of Loadftone mutt be thercabours. They were ar 42 Deg.
25 Min . Scanth Lac. and their middle longir. of 163 Deg . 50 Min. About ten Milesdiftant from thern to the E. by N. they difcovered Land, which they called Antiomy Vnm the Longit. of 163 Deg. 50 Min. Being much pefterad with Tcmpefts, they flood away S. by E. along the Coaft to 44 Dcg. South Lat. where the Land runs away E. and afterwards N. E. and N.
They came to ath. Anchor in I ongic. of 167 Deg. 55 Min. and Lat. 43 Dcg. 10 Min . in a Bay, unto whith mherink gave the Name of Frederick Hendricus Bay. They manmit
fancied they heard the noife of fome Men, but faw none: fancicd they heard the noife of fome Men, but faw none:
The Mufck they heard was like chat of a few's Trumper, and at no great diftance. They faw here Trees of two Fathomand abalf in circumference, and 60 or 68 Font high, below the Branches: The Bark of them was cut with Elint in form of Sters, for the Natives to climb up thefe Trees, to take the Birds Nefts: Thefe Steptbeing near five Foot afunder, foem'd to intimate, that they . 2 re eitherbeyond the ordinary fize of orherMen; or have a peculiar way of climbing up by thefe Sceps. They alfo law che Foorteps of Tigers, and fome orher wild Beafts; fome Gum of the Trees, and Gum Lac of the Ground: The Ebband Flood was only three Foor hers; the Trees were not incumbred with Bufhes and Warer-wood: And tho' they could not get lighr of the Natives, they difcovered the Smoak of their Fires in feveral places; fo they only fet upa Pole with the Companry's Mark, and a Prince's Flag faftned so is: The Variation was here three Deg. N.E
They left Van Diemen's L.end at 4 r Deg. 34 Min. Sourh Lat. and 1.69 Dcg. Longir. running to the Eaft to the Longir, of 195 Deg. to find the Illands of Solomon: They
Dr. 9. woreac 42 Dcg, 37 Min. South Lat. Longit. 136 Deg.
Dr. 12. 29 Min. Variation N. E, 5 Deg. the hollow Waves from the \(S\). W. Thewid us that no Land was to be expeated on that fide. They defcried high and hilly Land, Dec: 13. call'd in the Charts now, Nepp Zealand, at 42 Deg, 10 Min. South Lat. Iongir. 188 Deg. 28 Min. Variation N. E. 7 Deg. 30 Min. they faild along the Coaft N. E. as the Maps dirct, till they came to an Anchor ina Bay 2540 Deg. 50 Min. South Lar, Longit. 191 Deg. \(4 \pi\) Mini Variation N. E.g.Deg.
The Natives of this Country were grofs of Body, be-
Dis. 18. twixt 2 ycllow and brown Complexion, with 2 harth Voice, and black Hair, ty'd upon the Crown of the Head like the 7 fuponefer, and near as long and thick, upon which they wear a large white Feather: Their Cloâths were of Mars and Callicoe, but the upper pan of theirBodies naked. They playd upon 2 kind of 2 Moorif Trumpet; we anfwerd chem with ours.
There Antipodes began not to be fo miftruffful as before,
Der. 19. bur came in good Numbers to truck with our People;
Tx introid The Commander leginning to fear the fafety of his Reo-amerilos. ple, fent feven of his Men in a Boar, to advertife thereft notrocruft thefe Burbarians; and hisforefight proved roo true, for fome of them going too far from the Yachr, umann'd, were fet uponty the Nazives, and four of them killd, the reft faving themfelves by fwimming. They calld this Murrberers Bay ( 2 sit is mark'd in the Maps) and would have rerenged the death of their Companions, had they not been prevented by the HighSea. They went in to the Eaft, but found themfelves furrounded with Iand, which appear'd very fruicful. but the bad Weather and Wind inade it very difficult forthem to get cut.

The Wind nor permitting them to go North, and being uncertain whecher they thould, find a Paffage to the North, and the Flood coming from S. E. they rerurned into the Bay, but the Wind ruming more favourable, they tecr North, Comewhar to the Weft, They came South Lat. Longit. 191 Deg. 9 Min. Variation N. E. 8 Der. 40 Min. the hollow Waves our of the N.E. thew did that there muft be 2 grear Sca in the N. E. Here they faw an Ine, which they calld Tibe three Kings Ife; as they came near the Shoar to refreth themfelves, they faw arm'd with Clubs, who calld to them with a harm Voice, 1643.

they perccived chem to make tery latre fteps. they percsived chem to make very larfe fteps. In turn-, \(\underbrace{1643 .}\) ing about the land, they faw butiow more Afín, nnd hatde cultivated Ground, but noce writh a frefl.water River, where theyineended ro ger fonce fref Wian, but being prevented by an unlucky Accisenr, they refolved toprocced an Eaft Courfe ro the longis. of 220 Deg. then N . to the Souch 1 at. of 17 Deg. and fo Weft to che ceco's and Hcmnc/c:1/nss, firf difoovered hy Willi,m Scouts ; for they had met with nothing at K.ui Diemen's Land, and never toun hd the Shoar at ivicro acriand.
They cane to 30 Der. 25 Miin. S. Lat. Inngit. 192 fen. 8. Deg. © Min. Variation N. E. 9 Deg. preat Waves from fen. 8.
S. E. As 30 Deg. 5 Min. S. Lat. Loupit. 109 Deg. 27 fan. 18. Min. Variation \(9:\) Dcg. N. E. chey had hollow Waves from the S. E. and S. W. and canic ar 200 cg .29 Min. S. Lat. Longit. 166 Deg. 32 Min. Variation N.E. 8 Deg. They faw a bigh, ftecp and barren lule, two or three fen. 16. Miles in compaifs, at 22 Deg. 7 ; Min. S. Lat. Lnagir. 204 Fan. 19. 1 cg .15 Min. Variation N.E. 7 : Deg. The S. E. and S.S. E. Winds hindred them from approaching nearer to it: They called it piif/terts-Ifif, from the great multitude of thofe Fowls. The next daje they ger fight of two other Inlands; they came to the Northernioft of thefe Mands, being alfo the biggoft and highent, shey callid it ampel- Tan . 21 .
 flore of Hogs, Hens, Fruiss; the Natiyes appeared very hannlefs, without any Wcapons, but were fomewhas addicted to Theft. Here is bue a flender C.ricar, the Ebb runs N. E. and the Elcod S. W. The S. W. Dioon makes high Wacer when it Hows alove foten or shiphe Foor ; the Wind continualiy S. E. and S. S.E. frefis wacer was yery hard to be gotrin here.
Afrer having palsid in fight of feveral finall Inlands, Fon. 25 they came to the Ine calld Ronite dain (as you fic it the in: of mark'd in the Charts ). The Nacives wcre the fame as he:eftrm. the former; they fownd the Corce Trees planted in vaft numbers and very good order, and Gardens and Orchards well regulated and planted with all firts of Fruittrees, mof commonly in a riphe Linc. affrad:ng an agrecable fight and finell. After they lefe this lile, they faw feveral othersmentioned in the Chars, with a defign to fteer to the Norch till 87 Dcg. S. Lat. and then W. with a S. E. and E.S. E. Wind, for fear of misimg the Trayers and tiernefe Inand. They were got in among Fif: G. 18 or 20 Incs, environ'd with Rocks and Shoals, the le Ilands are in the Maps colled Prince pfriuirn's flainds, and Heemskirk's Sliarls. They had very hard Rains as is E.2. 8. Deg. 29 Min.S. Lar. Longit. 199 Deg. 3 a Min. inblew hard from N. E. and N. N. E, and the weather hazy, making them fear to fall to the South of Nios Grinen, on unknown Coafts, they refolyed to so N. or N.N.W'. to 4,5 , or 6 Deg . S. Lat. and then W. to Xoza Guinca. Till, now they had been always peftred with Rain and Feb. 14. Sromens, bur this bcing a calm day, they halled the Scrhenc, and found their Accounts to agree at 16 Dcg. 30 Min. S. Lar. Longit. 193 Deg. 35 Min. Dark raing F:b. 20 weather at 13 Deg. 45 Min. S. Lac Longit. 193 Deg. 35 Min. the Wind yariable, and the Sea coming out of all Quarrers: The Wind conitantly ar N. W: not one fetb. 26 . day withour rainin 21 , at 9 Deg. \(4^{5}\) Min. S. Lat. Longic. \({ }_{193} \mathrm{Dcg} .43\) Min. variable Windand W'eather ar g Deg. if Min. S. Lar Longit. 192 Deg. o Alin. Variacion Mer. 2. N. E 10 Deg. weather and wind the fame, as 7 Neg. Mar. S. 46 Min. S. Lac. Longit, 190 Deg. if Min. They came Niar. it. to the S. Lati of 10 Der. 12 Min. Longir. 186 Deg. 14 Min. Variation N.E 8 Dcg. 45 Min. They were a ts Deg. 15 Min. S.Lar. Longic. 185 Des. 16 Min. Yariati- Mir. 20. on N. E. 9 Deg. the weather began to grow better. They gor fighe of Land four Miles. Weft from them, Mirr. 22. Wind E, \(25 ;\) Dcg. 2 Min S. Lat. Longit. 178 Dcg. 52 Min. This proved fome IIlands, 20 in number, calid in the Charts, Onstony Faan, 90 Miles diftane from the Coaft of Nova Guinen. They came up with the lfie of Mark, difcovcred by William Scoution and Joinn de Mair, Mar. \(=5\). . 14 or 15 in all, at 4 Deg. 35 Min . S. Lac. Longic. 175 Deg. 10 Min . Variation 9 Deg. 30 Min. The Natives wexe Savages, having their black Hair tyd up likechole of Murtherers Bay in Nicw Zalend, They pafs'd by theGreenlle, and the 30 th St. Fcim's Int \(:\) wint. 27 . Thry reached the Coalt of Novo Gainuce, at the Capio calld by the Speniards Cabo S. Marie, at 4 Deg. 30 Min. S. Lar Longir. 171 Deg. 2 Min. Variation. 5 Deg. 45 Min. They faild along the Coaft which lies N. W. to Anshony Caen's I/lc, Gardners Iflc, and Fijfirs Iferil, to the Cape calld Scruyfbook, where the Land falls a way S. and S. E. which they followed, and went South till ancy thould difeover che Eand, or find a Paiflage to the

\section*{Sourh.}

\section*{610}

\section*{\(\underbrace{1643}\)}

They were furprifed with a fudden Earthquake, which Af: is 12 oothook the Ship, that they thoughe the had fruck againf a Rock, hur could find no Ground by founding at 33 Deg. ti Min. S. Lat. l.ongit. 167 Deg. oo Min. Vatiation N. E. 10 Deg. They-were then within the Se-uybonk. Agril 14- ftanding into the Bay of cioni/Trpe: They faw the Land from the E.N.E. into the South. and fo on to the S.S.W. at 5. Deg. 27 Min. S. lat. Longit. 166 Deg. 97 Min. VariationN. F. 9 Deg. 15 Min. they were in hopes of finding a Parfage between both, but percciving it to be allone continucd Trat of Land into the Weft, they curnid their Courfe W. along the Corft, with inuch Calms.
April 20. By Night, palling by the Burning Iff, they faw a great the Enenes Fircillue from the top of the Hill; at 5 Deg. 4 Min. S. Lat. longit. 164,27 Min. Variation N.E. 8 Dcg. 30 Min. (S aitren mentions this lland) they pafid betwixt it ant the Main, and faw many Fires towards the middle of a high Hill isear the Shoar, which made them coniceture that this hland was well inhabired. All along the Cualt of citimes they were ofen becalined, and faty mach drif: Wool, as imall Trees, Bamboes, Ere carried thither by the Currents of the Rivers. The \(=1\) ft they pafia the B:onint stowntain, failing along the Shoar w. N . \({ }^{1}\).

They 1 cing at 2 Dcg .10 Min S. Lat. Longit. 156,47 Man :houghe to bave feen the Ille of Moe, bur, foumd The ite of tacmidelves mear Fama, another llie more En than Moa; 3ama. here ther provided themfelves with cose-nurs, and feve ral uther Necufaries. The Nativeswere very black, but docile being able corepat cyery word they heardus fay; their Pronunciazion muft be dificule, becaufe shey ufe the Lectres \(R\) frequemty two or threc times in one word They came to Mon, where by concrary Winds, the were detained till May the 6th, which gave them oppor Iprill wnity to truck near 6000 Cor-nuts 100 Bundles of the zat on yfanz/is and other Refrelhmetrs. One of our Ship's Company and other Refrethmerts. One of our Ships Company happening to be thor with an Arrow by onc of the Inhabicants (whether on purpole or by accident we knew not ) the Ship was order'd nearer the Land, which to frightned the Narives, that they brought bim who fhot the Arrow to us, to bedifpoled of as we mould think fir, and were very tractable everaficr; fome of 'our, P'eople would rake pieces of lron Hoops, fie them into Wooden Hafts, make thema littlebrighrand harp, and fofell them for Knives. Perhaps they had not forgor what befcl themin it 66 , with Scorten and Le Mair, who on ac count of fome treacherous Dealing with them, frightned thefe poor Wretches with their Canon Bullets, into 2 omplaifant Temper.
They paffed on the North fide of Hitliam Sceuten's Ifle, Mity bing well inhaticed, and 18 or 19 Miles in lengrh, 25 - Deg. 54 Min, S. Lat. Longit. 153 Deg. 17 Min. Varia ionN. E. 6 Deg. 30 Min.
They bad palfed the cape of Goid Hope, and come from the Wett end of Noco Guinea, a broken Poinc of 1 and 1018 . 250 Der. 26 Min.S. Lat. Lonsit. 147 Deg. 55 Min \(\mathrm{V}_{2}\) riation N. E. s Deg. 30 Min. They were much peAterd with Calms and variable Winds, and Rains.

Hence they failed ro the North fide of Serem: They Moy :r went on thro the Streights to the North of Bourc or Deg. 12 Min. S. Lat. and Longit. 127 Deg. 18 Min, having feent ren Montbs in this Voyage.

\section*{C н a P. XXXVI.}

An Account of a Voyage for the Difcovery of the N. E. Paflage to China and Japan, in bis Majefties Sbips, the Speedwel and Profperous Pink, in the Year 1676, wobere is thexsed the Probability of that Paffage, before the Aitempts, with divers uleful Obfervations made in that Voyage, by Captain Juhn Wood.

"M\(Y\) Intention being to give you the Reafons that induced me to the undertaking of this Voyage, and is Event, ir would be fuperfluous to emré uron a Relation of all fuch as have attempred the N.E. Pafige to Cbint and fapan, (beirg alio recorded in Hockait and Purchafs): yet is may nor be amifs to thew whercin thefe failed in the faid Yovases.

The firft that cyer attempre! this Paffage was Sir Hugh Ita-ight, who fet fail withehree Ships to the N : Cape of Finnaiz, and thence to the lat. of 72 , where he fuppored hefaw tand, which according to my Opinion, was only a Fog-Bank, becaule in my rerurn near the fame place ( where the Maps pat this Land) I could dif crin noinc ; he was forced by Tempefts ind it cma, a Harbout of Laticud, where he was frozen to death with his whole Ships Compans.

The fecond Artempt was made by Caprain Stepien Eurrcigt, who after he lad pafs'd the North Cape, lailo more Eaft, and difcoverid the Streight of Wiosars, or that Streight which rumeth betwixt viora Jembla and the S:mpoles, where be cutred, and believing that Sinus to th: Eatt of the Sreights to be an open Sca, he retumnd avith an opinion of having found a Paflage that way to Cinime and - fepen.
This gave encouragement to the third Attempt, made Cepain Priby Cape Arthur Pers and Cbrriles Fackmen, who being ent to follow the Tract of Burronghs, palsd thro the Surcights of iftyets into the Sea to the: Eaft, but met with fuch ratt quantites of Ice and fuch tempeftuous wearher, that with grear hazard and difficulty, they were forced to reaurn, bur looling onc another in a Storm, Per was never beard of fince; fince which time that Defign being lookid upon as impractrable, was laid a in Eritm.;, but not long after purtucd by the Dutch.

William Berrens Gaild out of Hollend for the Screights of Higgats, \(^{2}\) where being entered, he met with the fame 1666. Obfacles, vira. the Ice, that others had done, but found whemern the Water not brackim but frefh; an Experiment none of the reft had made before him. He return'd, but being refolved to verture a fecond Actempt for a Palfage to the Northof Noore Zcmbla , he faild to the Coalt of Noun Nembla; as 73 Deg. Lat, where meeting with much Ice, he coafted the Shoar to 76 Dcg. Lat. where he was forced athoar by the Ice, and his Ship broken to pieces: They were forced to wintér there, and after chey had endured the greateft extremity of Cold, they got in two Boass to Cola in Leplend, but before their arrival there, Mr. Barrens died.
 rempted the fame Palfage once more, but being difcourag- \({ }^{5}\) sit: ed by the Fate of Barrens, did nor venture very far. hemes an. The Defign of this Paffage lay for many Years after others pos dormant, will within thele two Years, by fome novilc bats mid. Accidents, the Opinion of the N.E' Paflage was revived, and fomething relating thereunto-printed in the Tranfactions of our Royal Nociety. I will now proceed to give youthe Rea!ons which indnced me to the Belicf of a Probability of this Paflage, and of the Undertaking of this Voyage.

The if Reafon was grounded on the Opinion of Capr Barrens, which was, That there was a diftance of 200 Recrons \(\mathrm{E}_{\mathrm{ti}}\) Leagues betwixr \(\mathrm{N}_{\mathrm{n}: \mathrm{a}} \mathrm{Z} \mathrm{cmbla}\) and Greenland, and that in of diin the lice on both fides did nor reach above 20 Leagues Patige from the Shoar; that if he fiad ftecrd N. E. from the North Cape, to the mid-way betwixt thefe two Shoars he fhould have found an open Sea, whereas his keeping too near to the Shoar of Niosa zemble, was the overthrow 1576. throw of his Defign: H: intended to have undertaken cording tothe comanon recciver Opinion, that the Pole \(n 1676\).
another Voyage uponthis Suppofition.
The ad, was a letrer fent from Holland, and publithm dinthe Tranfostions of the Ronet Scietr, which afiures us, that by a peculiar Survey of Nonea Zemble, by the Czer of Mufcory's order, they had found it adjoining to the Continent of the Grent Girens, and that to the North oit it there wasan open Sea.
The ad, was a Diary printed in Hollind, of a Voyage mate from Batavic to fapan, in which they were caft upnitores, a Demithle of Chins, and made Slaves by the Natives. The Aurhor of this Journal, afier is Xears fiavery, made his cfeape to 3 apan, where among orther thinss he obferved, that on the Contt of Coren did at fundry times drive Whales with Englif and Dutch, Har-fon-lrons in them, which if to be credited, is a very trong Argument for a Paffage that way.
My th Reafon was founded upon what I heard Mr. Fofrpin Mcx:" hay, who being in ffollend 20 Years ago, heard a nnect Sca-man fay, (which he telieved to be truth) that he had been under the Pole, and found it as warm there as at Amffeliom in Summer.
The , th Reafon was.furnilhed me by Capt. Goulden, who havins mase 30 Voyages to Gresiland, mads the following Relation to his Majefty; zia. Thar being 20 Yearsagoin company of two Durch Ships, tothe Eaft of Edre's life, and there being but fow Whales to be feen there, the two Hoilandos left him in order rogo more North among the Ice; they returned to their formerStation in 14 daystime, and told him, thar they had been at the l.as. of 89 ( within I Deg. of she Pole) where they met with mo Iec, butan open Sea, and that the Sca run as hollow there as in the Bay of. Bifer: : Mr. Whood being formewhat incredulons, they fhered him four Journals keft in the tro Ships, which teftified the fame, and agreed within & Min. of one another.
The Gth Argument I had from the before-mentioned Capt, Coulden, who told me thas all the drift Wond they found in Gicrmiant, wax caten to the rery Heart wish the Sea-worm, which if granted, muft come from a hor Country; for 'as we are convinced by experience that this Worm biresin no cold Country, ismuft needs come from Fadio, Fapin, or fome Country thereabours.
The 7 th and laft Reafon was another Relation print ed inthe Tranfactions of the Ryal Society; of rwo Ships that had lately attempred this Paflage, and failed 300 Leagues to the Eaft of Noose Tcmbia ; bur the Profecution of their Vogage was ftoped by a Differencearofon aberwize the Undertakers and the Eeff-Iudia Company,
I who being the molt powerful, fuppreft ir, as contrary to their hntereft.

Thefe feven Arguments (if aken for matter of Fact were fufficient to induce me into an Opinion of a North Parlage of Novit Zembla to Chine and-Fapen, befides which, I had forme collateral Reafors founded in Nature, which confirm'd me in the fame, provided there were no Land or Ice in the way to hinder it.
The firt Argument was, that near she North Pole, it might be in Summer as warm as underthe Artick or Amearsick Circle, or at leaft warmer than with us in Win ter; forunder the Pole, the Sun being in \(\mathcal{F}\) rme 23 Deg. high, and thatirithout any Depreffion zowards the Herizon, but alvays continuing at the fame heighr, muft illuminate that part of the Hemifplere, with more Heat than with usin Winter, when the Sun is not above is Deg. at the higheft on dhe Meridian, and but cight hours abore theHorizon; or, that in all likelyhood you might meet with as much warmeth, as in any place near cither of the two Polax Circles ; for the Sun having a declination there towards the Eleri?om, the itmofpbere has as mach Interval to cool, as it has cime to hear, wiich under the Pole continues without intermiffion. What confirm'3 meinchis Opinion was, That I had beard feveral Greenlanid Narigators affirm, that the nearer they went to the North on chat Coaft, they meet with more green Herbs and Grafs, than they do "to the Sotth, and alfo with more Dect.
Tirecond The fecond was, That as I fear'd mof the foggy weather, I hoped is would nor blow hard at the fame rims, it being agencral Obferiation in all other Climates, that the Wind difperies the Fogs; fo that either you might lie by, or clfe have the Opportunity of looking abour jou.

The third was, TheSolution of a Donbr I had leen certainly convinced of before, ciz. That the Pole of the World and of the Magnet are fo far differcmt, that you might fafely pals under the Pole of the World, if net prevented by Land or Ice; with this Provifo howerer, that you muft know where the Magnetick Pole is, to allow the Yariation that will hafpen there, whereas ac-of the World and of the Mignet are the fame, the Septentriomal Declination of the Neculle of the Compals would quise be int near the Polc.
Thefe being the Reafoms bend Arguments that imprinted into my mind the Probability of this Paliagc. The following Deduccments previjed upon me to unictrake this Voyage. (1) The Honout of my King, aid the nicrett of the Nation. (2) Whut of Employment at home, the Averfion I had to an idh life, and the Approbation I mer with from many Emintnt Perfons in L.ondon. (3) The Defire I had ro be fatisfied concerning the Nature of a certain Hypothefis I had framed of the Motion of the two Magnetical Poles (for two fich there \(x\); and by the Obfervations of moft aid that bave writ upon that Subject, with my own Obicrvation and Experiments in many places of the Terreftrial Globe; if fay, I having found out icry near thasir Motion, and thereby the liclimation of the Magnetical Necdle, under the Horizon, in all Latitude and Longitude, and Varmation of the Compals in any parr of this Worid, withour the Afiftance of any other Luminary, it prompted my Inclination to be fully fatisfied in this matrer, which as is could not be done without coming fo near the Pole as was fuppofed, this was the moft prevailing Argument to me to go on in this Defign.

Thus being refolved on this Voyage, I made a Polar Draughr, whersin I rraced all thole that hat attempred the N: E. Paffage ; this I prefented to his Maicity and Royal Highnels, with the beforc-mentioned Keafons, ogether with the Advancages which were likely to arrend the Nation by the difcovery of this l'ailase; as the vending of our Woollen Manufactory on the Contt of the Grenit Tertar, which now they have from Mujicit, with vaft charge: The performing this Voyage to \(\mathcal{F}\) cpon in fix Wecks, which now is nor performed bur in nine Months, with great hazard, by rcafonof the many Sands and Shoals Letwixt Eanram and Faper, and the perperual fear thefe Ships are in from the Dutc', who deftrcy usif ther can; and that the Vopage being fo thort, the King might fend founc Men of War to fanar to force them to trade, which cannot be done now for wane of Provifions, and for the Diftempers that attend Ships with o many Menabcard in fo long a Voyage, and hot a Climare. His Majefty and his Koyal Highnefs, after maure deliberation with fome Merchants and Sea-men ufed oo fail to the North, ordered the Specdacl to be mann'd and rictualled, bur as the many Accidenss' thar actend a fingle Ship in fuch Voyages, makes the Enterprize very hazardous, it was thoughe fir by the cight following honourable Perfons, to buy a Pink called the Pioftrows, burthen 120 Tuns, and to fit the fame for Sea with Men, Ammunition, Provifions, and fúch Commoditicsas were likely to turn to the beft Account on the Coaft of Tertary and \(\mathcal{F}\) apan. The cighr Perfons at whoie Charge the Veffel wasfet our, were, His Royal Highnefs the Duke of Tork, the Honourable Folm Lord Barkler, Sir Fofiph HThliampon, Sir Folm B.ank', Mr. Samuel Pceps, Capt. Merbers, Mr. Dupes, and Mr. Hoopgood. The Specidocl being ex- Two stips traordinary well ftrengthened and heached, and both the equippid fer Ships as well fitted for a difco: ery as ever any Ships of the is. E were, with 16 Months Provifion for each Ship, 68 Mcn Pallgg and Boys in the Specdret, and 18 Mcmin the Profpereus, we were now ready to go to Sca with the firt opporrinity.

> 1 Fournal in bis Majeffies Ship tha Speedwel, Captain John Wood Commander, bound for the Difcovery of a Paffage to the Eaft-Indies, by the N. E. about Nova Zembla, and Tartary, and fo to Japan, 1676.

\(W^{1}\)E fee hail from the Buoy of the Noar, with S. W Wind,' in company of the Profprcus, Captain they berin Fiames Commander, bound upon the fameDifcovery with Sundeg us. At cighe ar Night the Naze Land bore W. N. 2-M.gy 28 bout fix Icagues; we fteer'd N.E. and N.N.E.
A brifk Galc as S. W: and W. S. W. with Rain, Courfe aer Compafs betwixt the N. E. and N. diftance Mu;iday falled by the Log. 73 Miles, true Courfe producted fince Miry 29. at Night cight a Clock, to this Day twelve, N. 28

\section*{\(\overbrace{}^{1676 .}\)}

Des．E．difticence of 68 Miles，and departure E．from rhe Niareland， 36 Miles Lat．by Judgment，as in the Margent．

Tieflilix
Ming 30

From Yeferday at twelve till this day at twelve，the What variable from S．W．to S．E．cloudy weather， with a frelh Gale，Courfe per Compars N．N，W．and 7．W．by N．diftanee faild by che Log． 95 Miles，crue Courfe is N． 28 Deg．W．diftance of Lar． 83 Miles，de－ parture W． 45 Milcs，Lar．yer Judgmene，Merid．di－ itance W． 9 Milcs．
Frem Xeftertay ar twelve cill today at twelve，varia－
Ti．l． 5 ．
Mey 31．ble Winds，with calm rainy wather，Courfes per Tra－ verfe，truc Courfe protracted，with all 1 mpediments al－ low＇d，is \(\mathrm{N} \cdot 43\) Deg．W． 60 Miles，difficrence of Lar． ti Mijles，dicparture W． 40 Milcs，lar．fe Judgmene 54 l）es． 13 Min．Lar．by a good Obfervation at Noon， 55 Leeg． 30 Min．che Land betwixt Nemesficic and Ber－ wick．bite tha W． 8 or a Lcagues，Meridian ditance Current from the bearine of the Land，and tine Lat．is 89 Miles，so Fathom Water；we 反aw two Ships to the 5 withour Colours．
Fromlicterday at twelve till today ar rwelve，a frech beween \(N\) ，and \(N\) ．\(W\) ．diftance faild by the Los． 76 Miles，truc Courfe prormeted is N． 16 Deg．W．Lar． by a good Obicriation， 900 cg ． 41 Min．departure \(W\) ． IMiles．At noon we came uis with a Scorch Fither－ man，of whom having boughe fome Filh，we fiecrid w．th a litif Gale N．abour 7 or 8 Leagues from the I and lerween itheriefs and Edinhorrough；we continued the CourleN．by E．till cight a clock．
From the the firft at twelve，till the fecond arrwelic rarialse Winds，but fair weather，Courfe per Compals N．diftance fail＇d by the Log． 117 Miles，buc bya good Ghicrvation 120 Miles，Lat． 53 Deg． \(4 x\) Min．Wind W．S．W．and S．W．As two a clock a torm，Wind N．W． with Kain．
From Ẍdicriay at twelve till to day astwelve，true allowd，is N．：E． 24 Milcs，Lar．by a good Obervati－ cn，is \(5 y\) ．Des． 23 Min．Meridian diftance from che Nez：Ind nco Miles；at Noon we faw che fmall lanad of Ferit to the South of Shecland，bearing four Leagues W．N．W．little Wind in the Afternoon．N．B．We fund the Ship more to the Weft than we expected，oc－ cationed by a Variation of 6 or 7 Deg．E． Iitule Wind in the Morning，and Calms till twelve， when it beginuing to blow hard from W．N．W．we ply to Windward，and rurning into Brace－Sound，anchored at nine Fathom，oppofite to the Town of Lermick， Where you fee the Ruins of a Fort，erected late war with Holland，bur innce demoluthed．
We thaied here till this day at Reven，when we wighid anchor，Wind at \(S\) ．W．and with che affaltance of a Pilor，fail＇d thro＇the North end of Bracc－Sound，chrce Fachom water at the fhalloweft place．The next day as four in the Morning，Scra bore W．by N． 6 Leagues，a feith Gale ar S．W hazy wearher．－From tour in the Morning till c at Midnight，Courfe N．N，E，diftance fail＇d by the Log． 38 Miles，rrue Courfe allow＇d frorn the biaring of the Land，is N．E． 41 Miles，difference of Lar． 32 Miles，Lar．by Juidgment 6x Deg． 26 Min．Mc－ ridian diftance from Shrtiand， 30 Miles Ealt．From lefterday as twelve at Noon to this day at twelve， 2 trone Wind at S．W．W．S．W．and W．and W．N．W． Curfe per Compafs N．N．E．diftance faild by the Log． \(1+7\) Milcs，difference of Lat． 135 Miles，departure．E． 56 Miles，Lar．by Judgment 63 Deg． 42 Min．Meridian diftance Eaft 86 Miles，cloudy Wearber，little wind ar Nioon．

From the 12that Noon till to day at Noon，little but Turfiay
Zunc 13 variable Wind，with Calms from N．W．to N．N．E． we ply to the Windward．Truc Courfe procraAted，all Impedimencs allow＇d，is N．N：E． 23 Miles，difference of Lar． 21 Miles，Nideparture E． 8 Miles，Lar．by Judg－ ment 64 Des． 3 Min．Meridian diftance 94 Miles，Lat． by azood Obfcruation 64 Deg． 3 Min．
WIncf．From the 13 th at Noon till to day at twelve，variable Fane 14
from heth at Noon till to day at twele，variable N．E．and the N．diftance fail＇d by the Log． 92 Miles； rrue Courfe protracted，all Impediments allow＇d，is \(\mathbf{N}\) ． ：8 Des difierence of tat．8r Miles，departure E． 30 Miles，Meridiañ宅ifance 142 Miles：
From the i4th atNoon sill this day attwelve，variable Thurflay From．the lith w Noon Courfay atcwelve，variable \(=4 \times 515\)

From Yeiterday at twelve cill this day at Noon， freth Gale at W．N．W．and W．S．W，with Rains Courfe per Compafs N．N．E．and N．E．by N dittan frifa laild fer Log． 126 Milcs，true Courfe prorractad is N fums
 63 Min．Lat．per Judgmans 68 Dug． 14 Min．Mcridiai diftance 223 Mikes．
From Yefterday at Noon till to day ar twelve，a freth Suturife Galc at W．N．W．and W．with Rain，Courfe per Com－Fime pars N．E．diltance fail＇d by the log． 127 Miles，diffier cance of Lat． 90 Miles，departure E．go Mhiles，Lat．per Judgmenc oq Deg． 48 Min．Mcridian diltance 303 Milcs，but by a good Obfervation ar Noon，Lat． 69 Desg 53 Min．dificrence of Las．between she dead Accouns and Obicrvarion is 9 Miles，imputed to a Weit Variati－ onl，which is found by an shimuth 7 Deg．Mcridaan diftance corrected，is 300 Miles，the weatherfair．
From Xefterday at cwelve，till to day－at Noon，fuir Sunday weather，wind W．N．W．and W．S．W．Courle per 子ume Compals N．E．by E．diftarice fail＇d by the Log .83 Miles ， truc Couffe protracted，and Variacion allowid，is E． 33 Deg．N．difference of Lat．47 Miles by Obfervation departure 66 Milcs，Tar，by a good Obicrvation 70 Ler 30 Min Meridiandifance 307 MilesE．we faw，many Whales．
From the 18 ch as Noon till this day at twelve，a frefh Mumith Gale at W．by S．rainy weather，at fevemin the fore－fure noon we faw many Sca－fowls and Jubartelics，at ten we fipied the Land，being fome lilands zo Leagues to che Welt of the North Cape；true Courfe allow＇d for Varia tion is \(N\) ．N．E．diftance Faild per log． 135 Miles differcince of Lar． 50 Miles，deparrure E ． \(3^{\circ}\) Miles，Lar per Judgment 7：Deg． 20 Min．Meridian diftance 497 Miles．At Noon the life Senden bore S．by E． 8 or Leagues off this Mle，is a high craggy Land，with fome Snow upon it．
From the rgch at Noon to this day ar twelve，Courfe Turfag， per Compals berwixr the E．N．E．and N．E．diftance func 2 fail＇d per Log． 128 Miles，true Courfe allow＇d for the Variation，is North， 43 Deg．Eaft，difference of Lat 91 Milcs，departure 88 Miles，E Lat．per Judgment 72 Deg．si Min．Mcridian diftance 585 Miles．From Yefterday Noon rill twelve this day，the firt rwelv hours a frefh Gale ar S．W．bur the lait rwelve hours a itrong Wind with fmall Rain；faw many Sea－fowls．
From the 2orh till chis day ar Noon，a atill Galc，with wedref fmall Rains，Courfe per Compafs N．E．diftance fail＇d 7 uns al per Log． 35 Miles，true Courfe allowid by Variation is N .40 Dcg，E．differcnce of Lar．ко3 Milles，departure E． 86 Miles，Lat．per Judgment 74 Deg． 34 Min．Mc ridian diftance 67：Mikes，cloudy wearher；Caw many Sca－fowls．
From the 2 itt to this day at Noon，Courfe per Com－Timplim pals N．E．diftance fail＇d per Log． 116 Milcs，true fink 22 Courfe alter＇d by Variation and Leeward way，is N． 43 Deg．E．difference of Lat． 85 Miles，deparrure E． 79 Miles，Lar．per Judgment 75 Dcg． 59 Min．Meridian di tance 750 Miles，E．Wind，at N．W．weather variable， bur very cold．Ar Noon we faw Ice a head about a League off，we falld clofe to it，and foind it to lie ES．E．andW．N．W．we bore away E．S．E．along the Ice，inche Afrernoon very cold fnowy weather．
Exom the 22d cill this day at twelve，fteering along Frida the Ice，we－found it to have many Openings，which we fune 23 Gail＇dinto，and found them to be Bays；our mue Courfc fail＇d along the Ice，the Variation allow＇d，was E－ 14 Deg．S． 77 Min．Lar，per Judgroent 75 Deg． 41 Min difference of Lat． 19 Minn．departurc 74 Miles，Meridi－ an diftance 842 Milcs，Wind N．N．W．Ar Noon we had 158 Fachom foft green Oar：The Cumencfer S．S．E we found it very finooth to the Leeward of the Ice，and fome pieces of Ice driving a Mile from the Main of the Body of the Ice，reprefenting the Shapes of Trees， Beaits，Fifhes，and Fowls．The main．Body of che Ice was low，but craggy，many pieces lying together anda rop of each other：In fome places we faw Hillocks of 2 blue Colour，but the reft of the Ice was white lik Snow；we faw alfo fome drift－wood among the Ice：The Ice melted，affords good frefh Water．
From the 23 d till this day at Noon，little Windat Saturdy N．by W．we fteer＇d clofe along the Ice，failing into funt： every Opening，but could find no Paffage chro，neicher could we fee over the Ice from our Top－matt－head True Courfe prorracted as we failed along the Ice，is \(E\) 34．Deg．S．difference of Lat． 24 Min．S．departure \(E\) 34 Miles，Lat．per Judgmenr， 75 Deg .18 Min ．buí by 2 good Obfervation ar Noon，the Lar． 74 Deg． 50 Min good Oblervation ar Noon，the Lat．74 Deg． 50 Min Lar．is \(\approx 8 \mathrm{Min}\) ．which difference is caufed by athe Cur reat ferting S．S．E，At Noon we häd 128 ．Fathon

\section*{Chap. XXXVIL. A Voyage from Nova Zembla to England.}

Water, the Currene ftill S.S. E. fair weather, with little time, Meridian diltance 858 Miles.
From Xecterday to this day at twelve, Calms and Courfe protracted is E. 30 Dcg. S. difference of Lat. 13 Miles, S. departure E. 10 Miles, Lat. per Judgment 71 Der 37 Min Meridian diftance 977 Miles Eaft, Wind variabic from the N. W. to the W.S. W. Ai one in the Afernoon the Fog broke, and wehad frecziag weather.
Munty Since Yefterday till this day at Noon, lietce Wind from N.W. to N. Coure per Compafs, between W.S. W. and N. E. diftance faild per Log. 67 Miles, difference of Lar. 7 Miles, N. departure E. 99 Miles, true Courfe prorrated is E .7 Deg. N. Lat. por Judgment is \(7+\) Dcg. 40 Min. Meridian dinance 935 Miles. About Noon, ftanding in clofe wich the Ice, we thought we faw fome Sca-horles or Moxfes, our Boat's Crew difoovcr'd two of them, and hor at them, bue tho they were much woundcd, they got under the Ice. Thelic 24 Hours the Ice bore away E. 70 Fathom grech Oar at Nighs. As nine a clock we faw Land, the Norch pare of ir beating Eaft, and the South partS. E. high Land, covered withSnow, 15 Leagues diftant we had 125 Fathom.
Tuclay
ywill 27. Hrom the abrh to this day Noon, hetrle wind from N. W. to N. by E, with Calms; we kepe clofe to the Ice; and found it join to the Land of Nova Zembla: True Courfe procracted is E. by N. 30 Miles, difference of Lat. 16 Miles, departureE. 29 Miles, Lat, por Juds ment 74 Deg. 46 Min. Meridian diftance 964 Miles; a Noon 83 Fathom water fix Lcagues from the Shoar, the lec five leagues from the Shoar; we killed a young Seahorfe or Morie upon the Ice, and faw many more, but widhout-the reach of our Fowling-picces, for thef Crearures lic always at the brink of the Ice, and take the Seainan inftant. We thad 80 Fathom green Oar, the Water being fmoorh, we could difern the Ground very plain; Mcridian dittance from the Ship to the land \({ }^{5} 5\) Miles, which makech Meridian diftance from the -- Laud to this place 980 Miles.
ifedmef Calm wearher, wind N. to W. true Courle protract-day ed W. N. W. to Miles, Lat. per Judgmenc 74 Deg. 46 ma: 23. Min. Meridian diftance 970 Miles. In the Afrernoon we came clofe to the Ice, and found is adjoining to the Con tineme, flood off agrin ar Nighr.
Itrtrday
Rainy weather, with little wind, we ftood away from frac 29. the Icc, oruc Courfe allow'd is S .27 Dcg . W. 20 Mites differeace of Lat. 16 Milcs, departure eight Miles Latiper Judgment 74. Deg. 40 Min. Meridian diftance 964 Miles. At Noon the wind W. and W. by S. foggy weather, we ftood away S. from the Ice. At eleven at Night the Profperous Pink fired a Gun, and bearing down uponas, cry'd our, Icc on the Weather Bow; we clap'd the Hehm hard 2 weather, veered our the main Sheet; to ware the Ship, bur before the Ship could ware, and bring to upon the ocher Tack, fie ftruck on a Ledge of Rocks that lay under watcr.
Thisied:
mit titiks From. Noon till cleven at Night, foggy weather, winid N. W. to the W. by S. and S. by W. clofe haul'd; the Profperouts Pink, as I told you, fecing the Scabreak on the Weather-bow, cry'd out is was Ice, fo we prefently bore up round to bring to upon the other Tack, bur our Ship not wearing round, rum and tuck faft againft a ledge of Rocks; bur Captain Flames Ship waring rounder, got clear; we gave notice of our Diftrefs by firing feveral Guns, and ufed all poofible means to get off by throwing over-board our Provifions, Fc. for the Water did cbb, and the Snip fued above three Foor, but the Flood broughe a great Sca with it, fo that the Ship making water more than we could pump, we cue our Mafts by the board, and fent ous: Yacht athoar to look for a landing place; word being brought, atece their return, that there was landing, we gor ready our Bread and Carpenters Tools, to make ufe of to rebuild our long-boar, in cafe Caprain Flates fhould not come nearus. At Noon we gor allour Meri alhoar, except two who were drown'd in the Pinnacc, che Sca breaking ints her juft as the pur off from the Ship fide, with all the Bread, Powder and Provitions, which was loft ; fo having nothing lefe but the lonsbort, which could ror carry above 30 Men out of 70 . By this time the Ship being filld up to the upper Deck we could faveonly two Bigs of Bread with a few pieces of Pork and a little Checfe; this, with what other Neceflaries we had faved, we carricd upona 2 Hill, where the firt thing we mer with was a prodigious large whice Bear, ar which we thot, bur ilhe got away: We made up a kind of a Tene with fome Canras we had faved which we faftned to our Oars and Spars, and made a kind of Fence or Trench round it; bur bieing very wer and withour firing, we fuffered much by the Extremity of Cold.
Fosgy weather, with a great Sea, our Ship fplitupon Fidiry the Rocks, and much wreck cominig ahoor, fie got fune 30 Oars, Spars, and Deals fufficient to make us Tents and for Fucl: our greateft grief was, that the weather concinuing foggy, we could notexpect Captain Elames; wind W. N. W.

Wind N. W. a frefl Gale, the Ship broke to picces, Saturdey much wreck, and Provifions was caft aftoar which we fuly i faved, viz. two Calks of Flower, fome Brandy, a Butt The Sihip raved, vir. two Caks of Flower, lome Brandy, a Butt The Ship
fplit aggiunt of Becr, and a Cafk of Oil.
Weft Wind, and foggy weather, we faved more \({ }_{S}^{\text {the }}\) Rock. Flower, Burter, and fome Beef and Pork; our Gunner fundey was feized upon by a great white Bear, bur by the \({ }^{7 u l}\) affiftance of fome of our Men, was faved and the Bear killd ; the was very far and good mear.
Wind W. N. W: but being a foggy day, we defpaird S.atarda; of feeing Captain Flapes; we then began to confiderfuly a. of our miferable ftate, the Lofng-boat not being ableto carry above 30 Men, wich a Deck built on her, and her Waftrailed; we intended to lengthen her twelveFoor in order to carry our whole Company, but what with the want of Matenials and the litule Confidence we had in our Carpenter, this was laid afide, for fear the fhould nor be lengthened : It was propofed to rravel by land towards LFeysats, in hopes of mecring with fome Ruftan, bur foon after, to our unfpeakable joy, we efpicd Captain हlapes; we made immediarely a grear Fire, which he percciving, fent in his Boar to help off our Men; we broke off the new work we had begun in our Longboat, and abour Noon got all aboard Captain Elaries.

\section*{С н а р. XXXVII.}

\section*{A fournal aboard the Profperous, Captain William Flawes Commander, from Nova Zembla to England, 1676.}
Romi yefterday twelve ar Nightrill this day at Ncon, rariable wind and rainy weacher; we flood off to the Wcft, truc Courfe protracted with allowance for Vaxiation, is Weft 8 Deg . S. difference of Lar. 8 Miles, defarture 67 Miles, Lat per Judemenr 73 Des. 42 Min. Meridian diftance from Poinc Stactero, the Weftermort Land of Nove \(Z \mathrm{cmbla}\), and the laft we Caw, 67 Miles; cold weather
Froin the ninthat Noon till this day at tive've, varia-Mmplay ble Winds; from the \(S\). \(W\). by W. to the W. and fo to Fully to. the No and N.N.E. with finall rain and cold weacher ; truc Courfe protracted is Weft 35 Miles, variation al. lowed \(i \approx\) Deg. W. Meridian dittance 102 Miles, a hish Sea from the Weft.

Variable Winds from N. N. E. to N. W. Courfe per Turfdey Compals W, by S. diftance faild per Log. 1oz Milcs, full it cuic Courfe allowed for Variation, is W. 65 : S. diftance of Lat. 34 Miles, departure 96 Miles, Lat, per Tudgmenc. 73 Deg. 6 Min. Meridian ditance 198 Miles, cloudy and cold weather.
From yefterday ar welve till this day ar Noon, 2 tectane little bur variable Winds with Fogs and frall Rains, day diftance fail'd \(p\) er Log. 27 Miles, berween the W: by N. \(\mathcal{F} u l y\) I 2 ? and W. by S. rruc Courfc allow'd with all Impediments, is Wect : At Noon Lati. by Obfervation 73 Deg. 34 Min. which is 34 Miles more N. than expected; the Va\begin{tabular}{l} riation as ll fuppofi, did come from the Lat. we de \\ \(\because\) Panted \\
\\
\hline
\end{tabular}

\section*{614 A Voyage from Nova Zembla to England}
pared from on \(N\) roa \(\mathfrak{i c m b}\); ; Mcridian diftance correct ed, is 222 Milds Weft, calm and fair weather abou Noon.
Thurficy From yefterday till this day at Noon, variable Wind Guig 13. from W. to S.S. W. we ply to the Wert dofe han Courfe per Compals between S.S. W. and W. N. W true Courfe protracted all Impediments allow'd, is W by N.: N. 69 Miles, difference of Lat. 17 Miles, de parture 59 Miles, Lat. per Judgment 73 Deg. 5 I Min Meridian diltance 279 Miles, cold and cloudy weather. From zeltorday Noon till twelve to day, variable Fridey femetimes on one Tacio and fomectimes on the other ruc. Courfe protracted all Impedinents allow'd, W.S. W. 'S. difterence of Lat. g Miles South, depar 're Wert 20 Milcs, Lat. per Judgment 73 Deg. 35 Min Meridian diftance 200 Mi 'cs
Sathedit
Jul) 15.
Etreng Wimels with guls from the N:W. to the W we ply to the Weftward, frmetimes to the South; diItane frild for Lon 70 Miks; true Courfe protracted is S. W. 33 Deg. 45 Min. difference of Lar. 52 Miles, departure \(3+\) Miles, Lat. per Judgmene 72 Deg. 43 Min. Meridian diftance 333 Miles Sundoy, From the sth at Noon till this day at twelve, wind 3.. y ic. at W. S. W. and W. by S. true Courk protracted LecWard way and variation allow'd, is N. by W. 1 W. 31 Miles, difference of Lat. 30 Miles, departure W. 7 Miles, Lat. pre Judgmenr 73 Deg. 13 Min. Mcridian dittancej4c Miles, rainy weather.
ALindity
Fu'y 17.

Tit \(5: 1:\)
Fay is Foge wind from W. by \(\lambda\). so the W. with Rains and Foge, we ply to the Weft clofe upon a wind, true Counic protracted all Impediments allow'd, is \(W\). by \(S\). \({ }_{3}\) W. diffance of Lar. 3 Milcs, departure 23 Milcs, tat. per Julganent 73 Deg. 10 Min. Meridian diftance 360 Miles, at eleven inthe Forencon foggy weather, wind ar S.S.E. From yefterday at in till to dayat Noon, the wind from the S. © W. S. W. We ply to the Weft, clofe haul'd berwegn W. and N. W. diftance fairaper Iog. 87 Miles; trie Cuirfe pretracted is W. by N.: N. \(s\) Miles, diftance of 1 at. is Miles, departure 77 Milcs. Lat. per Judg ment \(73 \mathrm{Deg}\). as Min. Mcridian diftance 437 Mules foggy whather.
FF゙dnct.
fai'y 19 Compals W.N. W. and W. and S. S. W. Courre per er Log. \(7+\) Miles, true Courfe Variation and Leward way allow'd, is W. N. W.' N. 70 Miles; difference of Lat. 32 Miles, departure 60 Miles, 1 at. H Judgment 74 Deg. Meridiañ diffance 497 Mills, much Wind ment 94
anNight.
Timfflly Much Wind andFogs from W.S. W. and S. W. wo fly clofe uron a wind N. W. by W. and W. N. W. cittance \{aided per Log. 65 Miles; truc Courfe, Variatiorrand Leeway allowd; is N. N. W. 3 W. diftance of Lat. is milcs, departure 33 miles. Lar. per Judgment 74 Deg .55 Min . Meridian diftance 530 Mites
Finday
Fur 21 S. W. to the WV Couff \(a\) Comp day ar twelve, wind Sas Sy W. upon onc faild jer Log or podiments allowid, is \(S\) by Courfe procracted, all Impedaments allowid, is S. by W. \(\div\) W. 48 Miles, diftance of I \(a t .45\) milcs, departure 16 miles, Lat. per Judgmént 74 Deg. 12 Min. cold and foggy weather, clears upabour Noon
From veltcruay till this day morning at four, wind at S. W. by W. and W'. wich Fogs, Courfe.W. by N. and N. N. W. is miles, we daw many Willocks and other Sea-fowls, which made me judge we were near the Cheiompland, we frund 60 Fathom rough Sand, we tack'il and tood off S. S. E. and S. E. by E. nine miles, tillNoon, at whichititic we found 78 Fathom; Lat. by udguent at four in the Morning 74 Deg. 26 Min Merisian dittance 5 So miles, when according to m teckeming I was 13 Lcagues Weft from Cherry-Ifland accorditg to the Meridian diftance I made from the Cape co Noa \(-m b l a\), and from thence back here; Lat. at Noin Juigment, 74 Weg .20 Min . Mcridian diftance 582 miles.
Fopgy weather and tariable winds from S. S. E. to Subd, y
W. N. W. Courfeper Compralsberween S. W. and W diftancelaild per log. 91 miles, true Courfe protracted is S.W. by S. \($ 7\) iviles, difference of Lat. 76 miles, departure 43 miles, Las. per Judgment 73 Deg .8 Min Meridiandiftancc 025 ; no grocind ar Noon ar 160 Fa thoms
Aztinday
Fily 24.
Liric winds but variable, true Courfe allow'd is S.S. W. \(3 . V\). 22 miles; diftance of Lar. 18 miles, depar cure it milis, lat. per Judgment 72 Deg. 50 Min. Metidian ditance 636 miles.
Tucfiny

Couriks winds from the N. by W. to the E. with Fogs 88 miles, true Courre allowd W. diftance fail'd per Log. S. W. ins, truc Courfe allow'd for 9 Deg. Variation, is S. W. : W. Jiftance of Lar. 54 Miles, departure 69 miles, Lat. per Judgmene 7t Deg. 56 Min. Meridian diftance 705 milcs. 705 milcs.
Foggy weather, with variable windsfrom E. by N. to Hedur S. dittance fail'd per log. 73 miles, Courfe per Compafi juth 26 tracted is W. I S. diftance of N. W. truc Courfe pro67 miles.
The wind from S. to S. W. with Fogs, diftance faild Therfs per Log. 687 Milcs, truc Courfe allow'a W. : S. Fuly 27
Froun the lat. 7 Miles, departure 62 Miles Wett.
from S.S. W. toS. E. Courfe per Coupar cwelve, wind Fridey by N. and S. by W. clofe upona wind. diturecn W. Fuly 28 , er Log. 35 Miles, truc Courfe prom, 1
W: : So Miles, dittance of Lac. 46 Milcs is S. W. by
+ Miles W. thick Fozs and fmall Rains, S. diparture
From Yeftarday frong S. and S. W. winds, truc Courfe at eweive, Suturdis itrong S. and S. W. winds, truc Courfe allow'd is W. 3 uly 29 .
is Miles.
From the 29 th Noon till this day ar twelve, variable Sundey winds fromS. E. to \(S\). and fo to N. W. ar cight in the 'yaly 3 , Courfe protracted, all Impediments allow'd, is S. S. W
66 Miles, diftence of Lat. 60 . Miles, deparrure . 66 Mil \(\mathrm{Milcs}\).

Much wind at N. W. with rain, Courfe per Compars Mundey
S. W. byS. and S. W. diftance fail'd per Log. 104 Miles, Зuly 31 by Wourfeallow'd for Lecward way and Variation, \(S\) Miles 1 . dikercace of Lat. 103 Miles, departure a Miles, Lat, per dead Account 68 Deg. 13 Min. bur by Obicrvation 68 Deg. oo Mini. dsparture correated as cordingly 15 miles, Meridian difance 953 Miles.
The wind variable from N.W. to S 953 Miles.
faild per log. 8o Miles, we ply to the windward Tuefd. rue courfe protrauted, Variation and Leeward way ; \({ }^{\text {a }}\) Amgafi ow'd, diftance VV. S. VV. difference of Lar. 72 Miles, From si Miles, rainy and foggy weather:
From the firt Noon will this day attwe
S.byVV. and S.VV. with chick Foes Cour atwelve, wind Wedn.f
erween VV. by S. and VV N w, Coarne per Compals aup. 2
Log. 51 Milcs cruc Courf allow' W. diftance faild per Log. 51 Muics, truc Courfe allow'd.VV. by N. diffcrence of lat. 12 Miles, deparrure 49 miles, Lar. per Judgment 67 Deg. 50 Min. but by a good Obfervation Lat. 67 , 55 VVind VY.
VVind VV. and S. S. VV. with Fogs and Rains, Time Courle per Traverte; we ply to windward; truc Courfe Aus. 3 parture 10 miles, much wind ar \(S\) ar Lat. 21 miles, deFrom cight ar migh wind ar S. at Night.
From cight ar Nighr till to day at Noon, a ftorm from Fride he S. and S. S. VV. true Courfe, drift and all Impedi- Aus. ments allow'd, is N. VV. by N. -1 VV.difference of Lat. 1.9 miles, depaxture 16 miles, little wind ar Noon.

VVind from VV. by S: to N. VV. with a cold \(\mathfrak{f}\) orue Courfe allowd is S. by. E. diffcrence of Larm ; Saturdis) miles, departure 15 miles; listle wind in the After-

VVind from VV. N. VV, to VY. \(S\) VY
Courfe allow'd S. : E diftance of Lat. 67 miles, druc Surida parture 8 Miles, wind arS. and S. YV
Sometimes flormy and fornerimes calms; true Courfe Mrund allowed per Judgment VV. N. VV. 1 N. 53 miles, Aus. 7 difference of Lar. 22 miles,, departure W. 47 miles; the wind turn'd W. N. W. as noon, and at cight a Srorm at N. W.

From Yefterday cight at Nighr cill to day at Noon, a Tuefday form from N. W. Courie per Compafs S. S. Wediftance Aus. 8 fail'd by the Log. 116. Miles, true Courfe allow'd, is \(S\). diftance of Lat. 107 miles, departure W. 5 miles.
At three in the Morning we faw many Willocksand Wedarf high Lands, being the INes of Fero; Lat. at Noon By Auf. a good Obfervation 6x Des. 45 Min. the weftermoft fraties good Obicrvation 6x Deg. 45 Min. the weftermoft of there lales bore then Ealt cight Leagues from us; ditance faild from the 8th at Noon till this day'at twelve, 120 milcs, true Courfe allow'd S. by W. 4 W. diftance of Lat. 116 Miles, departare 26 Miles, Lat. by Judgment 62 Deg. 4 Min. diftance between the dead Lat. and the obferved Lat. 20 Miles, fo that the Ship is 20 Miles more South, and confequently more Weft, Meridian diftance 1129 Miles, by correction 1136; we gaye chafe to a fmall Veffel, bur the gor away.
Abrik Gale atN. W. Courfe between the S. and E .E. to get clear of the Illands, diftance fail'd by the Therfday Log. ro2 Miles, true Courle prorracted, is S. E by E. Ahe. Th ©S. diftance of Lar. 58 miles, \({ }^{2}\) departure 76 Mile \({ }_{3}\), we poke with the before-mentiond Ship, which proved a Lymuraso. the 1 Ac of Fak by the Log. 83:MMles. At Noor wind curn'd South.

Variable wind with great gufts. Ac Noon the Onkey Siturday Mllands bore Weft four Leagues: thofe of the orbut lfesweftu, arelow, bot the firr-ffewe difooverdyat Tide of Fime, was high Land, fis leagues off. The Santefi.

Sumbay Feir-ifics: At cight at Night Cimnefstbore alout sight I cagnes off W. by S. we curned away S. E. the wint at W.S. W. it l lew a ftorm

From laft Nightatcighr, fill this day four in the Af ternoon, it iblew ycry hand * wind from W. by S. to W. N. W. We made hergord by Judgment 58 Deg. 16 Win. Depurturafrom Carnefs id 7 miles E. ano faw many Ditterals about the Ship; lefs wind ar Nigh-
Mancy
\(4 \times 14\).
Fromitefterday Noon tn this day ar ewelve, a freh Gake, Courfe per Compads.S. Lar. byagood Obfervati-on 56 Deg. 39 Min. on 56 Deg. \(3^{9} \mathrm{Min}\).
moflo litede wind at W. N. W. Courfe per Compals \(S\). diug. is. Diftance fald by the Log: 53 miles; fair weather, at Noon windar S. we ftood in tor the Lumad, and falke with ewo Fithing-boats under Entrifls Colouss, but were Dutch;: at fix at Night we :gotinnwith the Land, two Lagues Norch of finmoubs. Gaftc, we trek'dand foood off, the wind South. The wind contineed S. to the disg. 16.
Turr \(\langle\mathrm{da}\) bita bead we Shoar co the Sn at two aiclodk Flambrough Ang. 18, we came to an Anchoralleague co the North of Croiner, the Tide being Spenc. At Gix the next Murning we caine to an anchor juft againtt the Fown is ati eight at Nightwe turn'd upabore the Peer, and anchor'd again ; the tide being fpent, wind S. W.
At cight nexr Morning weighed swith the-Elood, and Sundity
Anti 20. urned up windward; weanchored at four inthe Aftcrnoon with etb Tide in Soutbwote Bay, ar eeighr Fathom water, the Church Bearing N. N. W. aifreilh Gale from
S.S.W. boS.S.E. Ar eighr ar Nighr we Uefr the-Bay

\section*{Minday}
 with an anchor. At nuxe in the morning we weighed and urnid into the Slceway, where we axehored ar five in che Evening at nine. Fachom water, the Naze Land Tixfluy bearing W.. by N. At fouria clock we.knrnid wind ward with che Flood, wind at W.S. W. Ar five anchore upround Noon we weighed with tie Ehood curncicco wind ward, wind at W. by \(S\) a ac-fix we anchor-Heturf. id becorv the Shoar. Ac foor in the Morning we weighid
thr. 23. anchor, and tarnid up a Mile abovethe Bury of the Nianr fummone Mind at. W. N. W. we anchored upon the Ebb; abourt ing of the cighra a clock, and weighing anchone againatone, wind at W. N. W. turned up the Rivcr.

Afror che Journal, I will give you my Thoughts of the faid Voyage, and a truc Relation of our. Mifcarriage, with fome Oblervations I made during the Voyage.
My. firte Error was, to follow tic Opinion of William Berans, Din, to fteer from the North Cape directly N. E. and fo to fall in the middle-way berwixt Nova zembla and Grecnilurd: Accordingly having made the Laud rotine Weft of the North Cape, I ftecrid the igth of Fwne N. E. by the Compals, which was nor fo much by the true Couxte, bccaufe of the Wef Variation. The 22d of Furne we difcoverd' the main Body of Ice, at the Iat. of 76 Deg. to Leagues Eaft of Grernimd. Ac fiaft Ifuppofed is ro have been the Ice that is adjoining to AGrectland, and confequendy, that, if I did ftect more to the Eart, I thould meer with an open Sea; co I wemt along clole by the Ice E.S. E. and W.N. W. Every Ieagues lels or more, we met with a Point of Ice, bui when we came round, we could fee no Ice to the North; fo ftanding in N . En an hour at atimc, we ftill faw more Iec a hrad ; fo we werc forced to continue coafting the lic, fometimes in hopes of an open Sea, and fomerimes quire difheartened with fecing more Ice, till we were paft all bopes of having fighrof Noon zembia, and the lce adjoining to it. This convinced mee of the Error of Mr Walliom biorronis, and of the Falaty of the Datch Re lations, as well as of chofe of oor own Councry-ment: for it isnow mi:. Opinion, that if there is noLand to the North of so. Deg. of Lat. the Sea is all frozen and always will be fo - for I could not get beyond the 76 . Deg. and yet foundic frozen withour intermifion; and, itis very proand had becticonveyed ecn Deg. to the South, would have sequired fome Ages to thaw ir ; aid the loofe lee we fave abour the Edges of the mainBuik, wasfcarce a Font thick above che Surface of the water, whereas the reft of the Cake was 18 Foor under water. This made me cont citure, thar all thefe valt Mountains of lee, munt le of necentry reaching from the Shoar into the Sos, which I was cotifirm in by the thallowiefs atong the Iee in the inid. way between the two Lands, being su more dan 70 Fathom ; a fign that there is land on the Nereth, and
 For, if there were a Palaige, there would alfo be a Cur-t.mod thes ent, ofewhich 1 could petceive hardy any, and what ine Cumi litrle Githesas run E.S. E. along the Icc, being only a nem friall gade char rifeth alout eight Foor.
The 20gh of 3 :me was the fatal day to our Ship, which prowirg cacceding foggy, the wind itrong ar Weft, and pebelieving the Weitermoft Land of Nom Zmbin bore E. S. E. of us, Captain Flawes fircd -a Gun, and calid there was lec a head: I no fooner lonked, hut perceivid ittobe a Rock : I dil all I could to ger clear, but in yăm, for the truck againt the Rock; but Captain tiowos naving a xounder Ship, efcaped, by God's lingular: Proidence, and ftood off to Sca: we ufed all potible incans to fave her, but as is blew very hard; and our Anchors could do usnofervice, we were reduced to the nemont defpair. About five hours, to cur'great amaze mens, we faw Land clofe under our fiern; (the Fogs being then difperfed) So we got out our Boats, and the Pinnace was femtalhoar to lee whether there were any laading; they recirned with this doleful news, Thas tis roughnefs of the-Sea, and the fowy Cliffs amoar, made ir imporfible for us to land: we had then recourfe to Prayers, to recommend our Souls-to God Almighry, as leeing no hopes of relicf. After Praycrs the weather proved-fomewhartelearer, when looking aver the Secrn, adifcoverd'a fmall Beach, where lithoughr we might poffibly kand.: I fan tlic Pinpace thitificr; but they durf not land; bur the Boat with about twenty MCD, got fafe alhoar, and then were follow'd ty the Pinnace fome of them reruyned with both the Boars, and I orderid thern to pur into the Pinnace two Barrcls of Powder, fome mall Airms, Mony, Provifions and my Papers; which was un fooner done, bur the was over-fer by a high Sea, buti the Men were all faved by the I,ongboar, except onc who was drown'd: They would neces compelme andmy Secrecary to quir the Ship, which we did at iaft, andatterwards fent the Bcat back to fetch the reft, who were all brought alhoar except one, whohavint nos recovered himfelf fince the over-ferting of the Pinnace, wasforced to be teft Behind. We inade Tents of fome Canvas and our Oars, and raifed the Long-boat wo Foor, and made a Deck to keep out the Sea, intrending wich her to fail or now ro Ruflar; but as fhe could not catry above. 30 Men, this occationed no frall Difconrent among us, civery one challenging the fame righi with the orhers: All I could do in this Exigency, was, oo det rire Brandy-botric go round, which kepr themi always fox'd, rill the cighth of fuly (che minnth day after we had been aftioar ) Captain Elapes came fo \{catomably o our relief.
Nava Zcmbln, i, e. Nomp Lend inn the Ruffien Language, A Defripiia suiknown hitherto whether it be an Iac, or adjoining \(\mathrm{zim}_{\text {mble }}\).
 cred with Snow ; the Ground Boggy upon whof Su perficies grows a kind of Mols, which bearech a imall blew Flower. Abour two Foor under the. Superficies of the Ground, is an entire firm body of Isc: In other Climares the Snow melts fooneit near the Sea-fide; bur here.the foowy Cliffs axe continually fecn near the Shoar, in Come places as high as the Fore-hnids in Kent. At fome diftance from the Sea fide, we found the tops of fome Mountains without Snow: we found the Track of Bears, large Deer, and Foxes: we faw a litcle Crcarure nots untike a Concy, bur no bigger than a Rat, and come finall Birds like Larks. Abundance of fmall Rivulers run from the Hills into the Sea, near which you fee abundance of black Marble with white Veins; bur upon the Hills nothing bur Slate-ftone. Unro the Poine where we loft our Ship, I gave the name of Spcctill; unto the Hightillls that of King Charles's Sunnt-fills; and to the aext Pourt to the South, being the Welt Point of Naod (cmbla, the name of fames's Forcland : the North Point calld Xurk Point. Point Speedill tics at 74 Dcg. 30 Min. North Lat. and in Longirude. Eatt from London, \(6_{3}\) Deg. 00 Min. The Variation of the Compass is 13 Deg. Weft; it is full Sea at S. W. Muon. The Tide ifes directly eight Foor, and fers directiy upon the Shoar, a cerrainnign that there is no Paffage to the Nordh. The Sea Water near che ice and Shoar, is: much falter than any I cuer fafted before, and much heavier, bur fo clear a amore cxact Account of cery thing, which I am now and tranfparent, that at 80 Fathom (or \(4^{80}\) Foot) forced to fuperfede; by reafon of the lofs of my Papers Water, I could plainly fee the Shells, as the borrom. in the Pinnacce, But my Experiments of the Magner, I Had Ifuccesded in this Voyage, I would have given you intend to publinh in a peculiar Treatife.

\section*{С н а р. XXXVIII.}

\section*{A Brief Difcourfe of a Pallage by the Nortb-Tole to. Japan, China, Gc. pleaded by \(\ddagger\) bree Experiments. And Anfipers to all. Objections that can be urged againft a Paflage that moy; By Jofeph Moxon, Fellow of the Royal Society.}

This was one of the Ten is canl Meas :o underrake his Yoyage.

AMong the many Effays that have been made to find a neer Paflage to 'Fapan, China, &c. the moft probable and likely hath as yct (in my Opinion) becn oucr-fecn, or at leaft not atremped; and therefore I lhall hereby communicate
\(m y\) Conceptions to publick Approbationor Cenfure. : It is; that a Paffage may. very probably beabour the NorthPole; and the Reafon inducing me to conceive 10 ; is, That we have no Certainty from all the Difcoveries that have been made of any land lying within cight Degrees about the Pole; but on the comrrary, that I havecredtbly been informed by a Sreer-man of a Durch Grectinion Ship, that there is a free and open Sea underthe very Polc, and fomewhat beyond it: and I-formy own part give credit to his Relation, and do conceive that any Cober ingenious. Man would do the like, did he know in what an honcft manner, and by what an un-intereffed Accidenr I happened to hear it; for thus it was = Being about 22 Xears ago in \(A m / k e r d a m\), I went inno a Dtink-ing-houfe to Jrink a Cupi of Beerformy Thinferand tring by the publick Fire, among feveral People, 'there happened a Sea-man to come in, who. feeing a Friend of his chere, who he knew went in the GrecnlandVoyage, wondred ro fee him; becaufe it was not yer time for the Grecnland Flecr to come home, and afk'd him whar Accident broughe him homefo foon; hisFriend (who was the Sreer-man aforefaid, in a Grrenland Ship that Summer), rold him, that their Ship went not out to filh that Summer, bur only to take in the Lading of the whole Fleer, robring ic to an early Market, Efc. But, faid he, before the Fleer had caughr Fifh cnough to lade us, we; by order of the Greeniand-Company, failed unto the Norrt-Pols, and came back again. Whereupon (his Relation being Novel to me) I cnered into difourfe with him, and feem'd to queftion the Truch of what he faid: bur te did enfure me it ivas true : and char the Ship was then in Amfterdam, and many of the Sea-men belonging to her to jultify the truch of ir; and.cold me moreover, that they had failed two Dcgrees beyond the Pole. I alk'd him, if they found noLand or. Illands abour the Polc? Heroldme. No, there was a free and open Sea: I alkd him if they did normect with a grear cteal of lee? He told me No, they haw no Ice: I ak'd him what Weacher they had there? He rold me fine.warm Weather, fuch as wasat Amfterdam in the Summer rime, and as bor. Ihould hare afk'd himmore Queftions, bur that bee was ingaged in difcourfe with his Friend, and: I could not in modefty inicrrupt them longer. But I be-icyetheSteet-man fookematrer of Fact. and Iruth, for he feem'd a plain honeft and unaffectariousPerfon, and one who could have no defign upon me.
But though I believe this fory, yet mechinks 1 hear many object againft ir, and are aps to urge three feeming Reafois to prove in falfe, or ar leaft fome Particuars of hisRelation. And firit, I hat it cannot be warm under the Pole, becaufe that abont Greciland, and man' other'parts lels Northerly, the Sea is fopfull of great Bodies of Icc, that Ships can hardly fail for it. Second\(y\). Or if warm, yet not fo warm as ar Amferdnm in the Summer time, becaule the farther Northerly, thecolder Weather. Thirdly, Or if they were under the Role, that they conld not tell how to come back; but that they might as well go farther from, as return nearer to home; becimute the viecdle poincing always North, they moft needs loon: themfelves in the Narth-Pols, where it muit indifetren ly tinect a!l Points of the Horizon alike. One Arfucr may ferre to the firlt and fecond Objection ; That if cannot be warm under the Norlh-Pole; \(\mathcal{S}^{\prime}\), if : we confule the Experience of Travellers and Na vigators; we: are told, that between the Tropicks, nay; under the Equinotial, is generally as moderate weather as here in England in Summer-time. Why may it nor then be as wamnurder the Pole, as here or at' Amferdam in the Summer time? The fmall height the Sun hath there, can be no Exception; for then.we having the Sun in its Sumner Solfice in leffer Alritude than between the Tropicks, it must needs be much colder here, which is couradicted. Buc one Reafon why it is as warm here as between the Tropicks, is, becauff between the Tropicks, the Sun remains fearce above 12 hours' of ' 2420 ove the Horizon to warm it, when as here it remains almoft 17 hours of 24 above the Horizon, and therefore lcaves a greater imprefion of beat upon it; and the farther Northward we go, the longer it remains above the Horizon, and lefs under the Horizon every 24 hours, till we come within the Arctick Circle, where the Sun remains for half, 2 year rogether, viz. all the Summer above the Horizon, and never fets: And therefore tho his Beams are nor to perpendicular, yet they munt needs caufe a great degree of hear upon the Horizon.
And if is be argued that it is fo cold about Greenthnd &ce. and the Scas fo full of Ice, that Ships can hardly fail for it ; yet cannot thatArgument prove that it is fo \(2-\) bout the Pole: becaufe the Ice is made about fhoars of Land, butnever in open Sea, and comesthere only by trength of Currents, orhigh Winds, which do indeed carry it fome fmall diftance from the fhoar. Butas this Relator faid, there is under the Pole a free and open Sea EEC. and confequently void of Ice, in Summer time ar leaft. Befides, Experience rells us, that all Land-brietes are colder than thofe that come from Sca, and therefore ir may be cold about Greenland, becaufe of the Land, and yer warm under the Pole, where theSea is open, \(\mathcal{E}^{3}\). The third Objection is, thar if they were under the Poie, they could not tell how to come back, becaufe of the indifferency the Needle fhonld bear to every point of the Horizon.
Icxamined not my Relator upon this Argument, tho when I was parrod from him, I was forry I did nor. But it is eary to apprehend how to guide a Ship, either forward or backward by an Oblervation of the Sun, a lircle before you enter the Pole; for'by finding in or near whar Meridian it is, or upon, whar part of the Ship it bears, whether on Head or Stern, or Star-board or Lar. board, you may meafure Time near enough with a Glafs, to know feveral days after, in or near what Meridian the Sun is at any known or eftimate time, and confe quently know how to proceed forewards, or come back with your Ship: or it the-Moon have Nort 5 Laticude; you may do the fanie by the Moon. But if the Pole were Traded, in thorr time it mighr be found by Variation of the Needle, for there is doubrlefs Variation in it and in all the Meridians about ix, feveral Variarions. Thus far it appears there is 2 free and open Sea in Summer-time (at leaft) about the Norsh-Pole. Bur I Thall idd another Relation of Fames Ben, whofe Fa ther lived abour five Years ago in Crown-Courr in Ruf fei-ftreet in Covent-Garden, and himfelf now lives in Wafping. This Mr: Ben failed to 于́pan with the Dutch, as a Carpenter of che Ship, and he cold me that that Year, viz, I668. he was newly come home from Fapan:I adk'd him how. long they were under-way home from thence? He cold me; he could not weht rell, becaufe whenthey fer out from fapan, the Caprain commanded the Srecr-
(19)

\section*{Chap \(X X X X\). \(A\) Voyage to Spitzbergen and Greenland.}
man to faildue Nowt and they ore fail from thener \(2-\) bout 400 Dutch, Miles, which is almolt \(y\) Degrees due Norith, 1 alk'd him whecther they mer with on Land or Inands, as I had done before the-Dutch Greenlink Stectman: He told me No, they law no Land, butectthere was a free and open Sea fo far as they failed, nor any fign of tand appeared. I afk'd him why they failed to far Northward? He told me he could nos tell; only the Caprain commanded it, Efc. But I fuppofe the Enf-India Company commanded the Captain, eithen to make 2 Difcovery of Land to encreafe Trade, or to facisfy themfelves with the Knowledge of an open Sea that when they faw Reaion, they might cexpedite their Voyages between Holland and rhofe Parts that way. I was thus inquilitive with him, becaufe ever fince I heard the former Relation of the Greenland Stecx-man, I harped at a Paffage through or abour the North Pole to \(\mathcal{F}\) apen, China, &8c. and by thefe swo difcoveries, it appears very probable that there is fo, and that it is paffable in Sum-mer-time.
I come to a third Relation, not only of the Probability, bur of the Cerminty of a Paffage found by the Ruftams this laft Xcar, as it came to the Hands of the Secretary of the Rogat Society from Amferdam, by a Correfpundent of his; which in Tranfą. Numb: to1. runs in thefe words.

A Letere, and Map; not long fince fent to the Pulijber; by an Exfericnced Perjon refiding at Amftetdand, consaining:"a true Defcription of Nova Zembla, together mithat Intimation of the Adoantage of its Shape end Roftion:
S \(\bar{I} R\)
I Herewiti ferid you what I have received our \(\therefore\) of Mufcory, which is 2. New Map of Noon Zembla and Whatgats; as it hath been difcơvcr'd by the cxprels order of che czar.; and drawn by a Painter, called Panelapoefski, \(r\) who fent it me from \(M\) ofoo as a Prefent, by which, it ap pears, That Noun Zembla is unot an Illand,! as hitherto it hath been .believed to be; and that the Marc Glaciale is not a. Sea, but a Sinus or Bay \(;\) the Waters , whercof are tweet \({ }^{\prime \prime}\), which is the trone with what the Tartars: do alfo affure us, whio have tafted thole Watery in the , very midit of the sinus. The Samojeds as well as the Tartars, do umanimoully affirm; that paffing on the Back of Nova Zembln; at a confiderable diftance from the Shoar, Navigators may sell pars as far as \(7 \pi p a n\). And 'ris a great fault in the Englißh and Dutch, that feeing to get to Japan on the South fide of Noom Zemblr, they have almoft always paffed the prigatso, The Let ter 0 in the great River \(\mathrm{OH}_{3}\), marks the place of 2 Cataract or fall of Water. the Letter \(K\) denotes the conjunction of Zembla with., the Conn. tinent. The River marked \(L\), runs rowards China, calledinKitaic, which is not cvery where. nivigeflestive reaton of the Rocks ": and other. Inconveniticies that obitruet thie paffing of Veffels. Weigats it , felf is very. difficult to pars, becaufe of the great quantity of Ice continually falling into it out of che River. Obey, whercby that ftraight Paffage is ftopp'd up. The Sama jeds so every year 2 filhing uponithe faid fweet Sea, and that on : Nood Zembla's. fide. This Map of Noua Zembla is hert omitted, becaufe here is let forth a'Map of all the Lerids nearét abour the Norith-Pote.

\section*{C н А p XXXIX.}

\section*{The firf Part of the Voyage to Spitzbergen and Greenland, containing an Account of the Voyagetbither, and of the Weatber, from April the 15th, to Auguit the 21itt, 167 I.}

VE fer fail from the Elbe, wind N. E. in the Ship call'd the fonas in the Whalc; Petcr Patcrfon of Fricfelend Mafter. The 27th, at 7x Deg. we had cold weather, wind N. E. by E: we difcover'd the lle of folts Marien;'S. W. by W: ten Miles off.
The 2gth foggy weather, we came to the Ice and faild back again, as youmay fee in the Plate; An...The 3oth foggy and fnowy weather \(r_{r}\) wind North.
Snowt and Hail, wind N. W. by W. che Sunfec-no more after this day:
.n Cold :bur fun-thiny:ureather, wind N.W. we:fow bundance of Seals. To Moderate weather, wind N. W. by N. we faw mainy Ships failing abour the Ice, which ask'd one anotricr how many' Whales they had caughr: chey would anfiver by figns with their Hats; and if rbey had their full Freight they hung our the Great Flag; fo that if any would fend a Meflage, he might deliver it to them, as you fee in the Plate; A by A. pearing like a dark Cload full of white Streaks.
Ming
The fame weather, wind S. W. by W. In the Afremoon we miftook a Finfifh for a Whale. From the 2 sth of Aprit cill this day, we had nor takenthe Sun's Altitude, Which we found 70 Deg. 3 Min . Eroft \(\because\) Fine Sunfiny weather, wind N. W it \(\tau<\) Deg is Min -Here the Sca is frooth, even after a Storm, if the wind blows from the Ice, but if from the Sea, ic is very rough: we faw a Whale but could nor carch her. "A ealm \{un-hiny day, wind Nordh; we killed civo Scals or Sea-dogs, and law a vaft number of them orrthe Ice.
Itwas very calus but cold, wind Narth ; the lonist
we failld the bigger Ice we met with. We taild deeper nro the Tee in the Forenoon with awther Hamburger Mas 21 Ship, calld the lcecler, and eighe Dutch-men, and latw abour 30 Ships in all lying in a Harbour of lce, as you miay feezit \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}\) (1)
Fair and calm weather, wind S. W. we faw a Whale May 30 when the Sun was in the Eaft, which we brought to the Ship; and found him fperit with fwimming, having 2 Harpoon-1 ion fuck in his Fich, which Atunk vehemently, and the Birds calld Mallumucks i. e Foolih Grats (a tind of Sea Guls ) fed uporitalive. We filld yo Barrets with the Fắ bar thie Steam inflamied our Eyes. See No (2).The fame Night Corretiuss Secmen loft his Ship in the fice, calld the \(W\) Sffice by the Scamin, becaufe it catends to the Weft. Sce \(\mathrm{N}_{0}\) (3)
A very fevere froff; we faw the Moon look as pale in fune 2 : the Night time, àsit looks by us inn a clear day.
Wind N.E. by N. we came very ncair to a Whale ; fume \(44^{\circ}\) buit juft as the Harpoonter was xeady to fing the Harpoon, he gor under the water, holding ap his Head; and to funk likca Stone. \(\operatorname{Sec} \mathrm{No}^{\circ}\) (4) :
A foggy and frowy day; we faw many Seals or Sca-Fure 8. dogs, and killd 15 of them.
A cold finmy day, and funt-fing Night, but one \({ }^{\text {fure } 12}\) muft be veiry aice to diffinguifh berwixt day and nighr.
In the Afternoon fogity and windy weather 2177 Deg. 7 une 13: the Ice Eaft towards spitybergen : fee No (5). The fame Night we faw above 20 Whales fwimming towards the ice; the jot our fecond Fint, whilk being wounded with Lances bled fo vehementy, wiat the Sea was ringed ed ; we brought him aboard whenitheSun wasar North; or you muft know that: the Suni is our Clock ar Spizzbergen.
A cold, windy, foggy Nighrs we arrived at Spiz- fune ict bergen; firft we came to the Foreland, thence to the feven Ice. Hills; and for to the Haimbargbers Harbour, NHagdaas you fec ar \(N o(6)\), In our Voyage thicher, wefawn widh N. E. Wi pern Compapoof a Shipstmore. Ir Ice till we came to Spitzbergen, becaufe the wind had was a Fop axdd with Sunthine with athain-bow of blownit another way; we filld 65 Kardels, with the Fat white ais pale yellow d, curiougy mix d.

of the befor-mentioned Whale. Wefaw another the A windy cold and foggy day, wind N. W. whe fuly is fame inght, and Hüg three Harpoons inro him; burcherraw many ships befer, in, whe ite in the Deer or. Myphle breakingour, weloft him. We faw alfo rwo Moots or B.y. We kept alopg che Shoar, and ativeht entered.che Sea-hörfes upon the lee; we covered the hole, tho which South Harbour, markd, with No (8). The fane Night they were, come our, and fo kill'd chem; we faw allo we fetch'd water from the Shoar near the cockery of many Whitc-filh.

Fair weather, nearthe Reben-field (Decr-ficld) we faw fix Whales, and got one of chem In,the Night the Sun did fhine very bright.

We faw rwoWhales ready to couple; we kill'd the Female, bue the furt overturned one of our Boats. The Came Morning another Whale appear'd near the wide Harbour, but a Duich Ship took him.
If was fun-hine and precry warm all day and night long; we caught another Male Whale, and being in hat, cut the Fat off and Alung it into tbe, Fore-caitle.

Harlingen, out of ghole, mark'd, with N, (9).
We.law the Moopintha, Morning and ithe 48 th be-Fuly is ing becalm'd we mowed with a'Soax, into the Danif Harbour, to garher, fome Hectbs; among the Rocks. ;We FII had fair weather, and.formy at Nighr whbich continued the 2 och, wind S. W. The zilt, it: rained alli day ong.
Fuly \(22 d^{2}\), we Salld put of, S Hapien, the Sun N. E. Our Recume we faw abundance of, Fin-fifos, in being 7 foggy day and from spment to the fun hing at Night.
The 24 th the Sun did thine fo warm, as to mole the:Tat of our Ship before Magdalcm.Bay.
The \(25^{\text {ch }}\) foggy weather and cold, wind S.W. we came to the-Forclands.
We rurped from the Forelands to che Weft, the Sun ar futy 23 S. E. and fail'd S. W.. and by .WW. rowards the Sea; afrerwards we changed our Courte \(S\). and ftood \(S\). E. we-fail'd along the-Shoar-S.E-by-S. -The Sourh fide of the Foreland being eight Leagues N. Effram us:. then fuly 29, of the Foreland being eghr heagues. N. Efram us:. then 30 and we fail'd S. W. by. S. che wind cold at N. W:.we faw 3 and we faild S. W. by. She wind cold at N. W. we Gaw 3 . abrindancc of Fin-fijbes, but na more Whales.
A windy day, wind ar 'S. E.. we took the Donidian Aug, 9 height of the Sun at 66 Deg. 47 Min. and failld S. W. all along the North fhoar of the Country.
A tormy, and rainy Morning, widdar \(\mathrm{N} . \mathrm{KW}_{\mathrm{W}} \mathrm{H}\) but a \(A u \mathrm{~s}\). 13 clear Mooniznd far-light ac Nighors In che Moming we Sawthe North Side of Hitland, and filing Sourch-after the rain, kepr our Courfe betwixt Hitland and Fairfol, firft S. W. afterwards S. VV. by S. and then S.
\(A\) fair warm day; we faw frilgeland
E. of us and faiting S: E Hilgeland, (the Hob, Ife) Aug, 2 a S. . of us, and lailing S. E took in 2 Pilor, and came ed 29th ar anchor by the firt Buoy in the Elbe'; (calld the Red woy) In the Afternoon we fail'd to Kacks whe we anchored in a rainy and ftormy Night.

\section*{CHAR XL.}

\section*{A Voyage to Spitzbergen, Part IL. Containing a Defcription of Spitzbergen.}

Of the Exrernal \(A\) Ap" peatraite of Sptabergen.

THE lowermoft Parts of thefe Counmies calld Spitzbergen; i. e. Peaked Hills; are Gtuate under 76 Drg. 30 Min . we faild to 80 Deg. beyond which no Ship ventured that ycar; ois: beirg uniknowa ta this day howfar this Councy extends to the North, tho by reafoin of che firmnets of the Icc, it Yecmsas if there were land not far behind ir: Thofe "Counaries are endofed with hightills, or perhaps the whole Councry is the fame, becadife one feies many Hills tehinal one another: However at che Muifte Hevern we found the Country fomewhat more level; and the further yod come to the Eaft, the Ground growech lower, and you don't fee che Hillsfo high over opeanother gamary of Ice and many Rooks tunderncaldy the wower; bur difcover'd by a violenr breaking and foaming of the Ya.
\(\therefore\) You will Gid the Names of the Havens, (as far as Ifrypen have feen ) in the Map of spiszberger; she bef and faf: eft amiong them are the Safe-EFarbour, and the Soutband North Bay; the reft lying for che moft par eiviter opentor the Sea, or are infetted withtrominch Hce and Seoks \(n\) the South or North Bay I have ofien feen ro, 20, and o. Ships atanctior, as you may fee ar No. ( 10 ) andif ris)

Moft of the Birds are feem here on or near che Lamel, Specially when they aretritching wheir Eggs; their Piat e nor made up with far-fetch'd things.
Mof of che:Hetbs utar grow hece; are fach as areeleth fli:for the curing of:ctie Difeates inciderir to this Ptimate: they grow moft where the water runs from the Hills' (and where the North and Eaif winds Jcaft affect ifhem ) watich animented by che. Eicing of the Birds. Nest the Low LLonds of Spisibiergia, wei Lape vaif ninubess of Sez-horfes but carice any Seak.
Ac the Foo of the Mounains fandiloe Hills, reaching foe mun to the Tops of the rocky Mouncain; the Cliffs arefilltame with Snow: Thefe Moumbins malte a frange appearance of Trees, Branches, Leaves, OF. ar a diftance There are feven of chefe fnow Nouncuris betwixe the Rocks, of a fride blewcolour; with ty great many Crack and Cavesin chem? hotlosped ous by he raning down of the frow water; they are encrealed contimually byiche melred Snow and Reain chat falls froin the Rocks, To, chat they may be difcoverd a great way ar Sea, and as you fail underthem, 2 Ship with its Malts is no moreto as betore; rhe Ground is all ftomy.

I fuppofe to come in The Beafts that are feen here I fuppofe to come in the Spring oter the lce, whilft it ftands fimm, and ro go back arain when the long Nighrs begin' Of rhe Birds. We fall apain when the fay more:anom.
Atour arrivalat the Foreland of Spitzbergen, the Fcor of these Mourcains appcarid like fire ar a diftance (the tups teing covered winh Goots) the Snow marbled in various flapes, whade a ghofous Refract in the Air; this ficry appearatec is luot'd upon as the Forcininer'of a Storme,
You meet: with more or lefs' Ice on thefe Coatts, ac cording aseche winds blow, as: if is be Eaf, from Nowa Zemble: if in VY Groad Gtecmiand anderhe Ille of Fobn Alach : foiterines the Coaft is: forrounded wintr: Ice all thie Summer; which when ir is fet 2 floariag in too great a quantity, the Sliips make to the Harbours, Bays, or Rivets s: Ihefe laft have na freft water, nor did I ever mect with:a Spuing here: The Rife of fome of: thete kiversis known, but ofochers noriby reafoin of che waft
    the forn

Chap. XL. \(\quad\) AVoyage to Spitzbergen.

Seeeple : The Snow appeard dark from the thade of the Skies, and abourt the middle fome fogby Clouds appeard.

The troc Rocks appear of a fiery Colour, bur could fcarce fee the tops of them, by reation of the Clonds; fome of them are onc entire Stone from the top to the bottom, reprefenting in mape a decay'd Wall : they have a fweet friell, like our Fields in che Spring, after Rains; fee No (17). The Stones of thefer Rocks are full of white, red, and yellow Veins like Marble; upon any alteration of the weather, the Stones fwcat; which togecther with the Rains, tinges the Snow red. At the Foot of the high Rocks lye loofe Rocks, with Cavesand Colesof a grey colour, with black Veins gliftening like Silver Oar: On thefe grow divers forts cf Herbs, and Mofs in cwo Months, viz in June and Fuly. The Birds build rheir Nefts in the Cracks of the Mountains, tho they feek for their Food in the water; 'Tome live upon the carrion of Fifthes, others upon. fmall Finhes and Shrimps; as the white Bears herc do uponn the dead Carcaffes of the Whales or Men; the Foxes upon Birds and their Eggs ; and rhe Dcer uponHerbs and Mofs. Moft of the figh Rocks scach in a cloudy day half ways up into the Clouds: fee No (13)
We wenr one Nighr arm'd with Guns and Lances ( for fearof the Bcars) upon one of chefe Rocks which look'd Dlack, near the Entifh Haven, which was of fuch a height, that we could lcarce difern the Long-boars bclow in the Harbour. The Mountains I took particular notice of here, are fituated thus; The highelt extend From the Fare-land to the Mu/ble-b/avern; after the Forcland follow feven Ice Mountains, placed between the here Mountanns: The clait are not 10 peaked on che top ten as the two forcmolt Rocks at Magalk then cometh the Haven of the Ramburghers, Marydakn, the Englift, the Danijb Harboux, and at laft the Sorthbaver.
Magdalen Harbour is enclofed with Rocks in form of a Scmi-Circle; on cach fide clofe to one anothcr, ftand two high hollow Mountains, with Points and Cracks on the tops like Batelements. In the Vallcy ftands an Ice Hill, reaching in fappe of a Txre with Branches, as high as the top of the Mounnain it felf. Moun all: adohe bechive (from irs hape) marka with No (14) Doing to this is a buge high Mountain, calla the Fogs, which when the wind blewom feen withour thick Fogs, which when the wind blows, arken the Harbour covered with Snow, two of them ftanding elofe to one anothcr; you fee them anarked with № (is). Juff in the middle of this Harbour lies an Ine marked with No ( 16 ) called the Desd-man's Iffe, becaufe here they bury their dead Men in Coffins, and afterwards lay grear heaps of Sronesupon chem, notwithftanding which, the white Bears wiul fomerimes digethem up; for it is obfervable, that dead Cazeafics will remain envire here, withour the leaft figns of Purcefaction, for ten years and longer: There are feveral more Ylands in this Harbour, which by one general name are calld the Birds Iffes, from the great quantity of the Eggs of MountainDucks and Kirmers found therc.
The next is calld \(S\) cebmerenburgh, where formerly the Dutcib ufed to boil their Train-oyl; forme of them were left there once for all the Winter, but all perifid: fee No (17). There were yer remainigg feveral foures like \(a\) fmall Village; and over againft Schmerenburgb likewife dipers other Houfes, with Cliambers and Warehoures low builta cthe Foor of a bigh Mounrain; as alroa Kertle, with Smiths Thongs, and Come other InAtruments belonging to it; this they call the Cookery of Harlcm. The place wherc they bury theirdead, was made of fomething like Earth, and laid level on pur pofe. The adjacent River is whar they call che Soutt) Harbour, where they refit theirShips, whore in the Val lejs betwixt the Mounrains, and in the Clifts of the Ice Hills, they gather vaft quantities of frefh water from the Snow and Rain: The Shoar is here not very high, but the warer deep, and at that rime without any Ice whenceI conjecture, thatir had been no very hard winter for tho ' che Ice melts much fooner in falt than in freft wa ter, yer could not the thick Ice have been melted quire away fofoon. We obferved alfo the Snow to melr at the faime time on the Mountains and in the Valleys, tho the former are much colder than it is below, contrary to what 1 took notice of fince on the Coaft of Spain, when a N. W. Wind producing very fevere Rains in the botrom, the adjacent Mountains were on the tops coreced width Snow.

In the North, Hatbour you fee a high Mounain, The writ flat at top, call'd the Birds Song, becauft the Birds make futhorr. a hideous neife here; maxk'd with \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}\) (18) More Inands are fet down in the Map, as the Clifeced Keck, &sc. The Recbern-ficld, or Decr-ficld, is a low Ground, com-Durfelfh. pored, as I was told, of Slates fet edre ways, and covered with Mofs. Berhind lics a Rialye of tlarith Mountains, and ncar it runs up a Kiver into the Country, call'd from its fhape, the Hatj;-mponi-b.ay: On the other fide are many more Mountains quire flat on the top, with grcat Cracks filld with Snow. Next you come to Licfic Bay, which has two Hills Lire Bog tanding together, like at Magdalens Bay; they are both not unlike one another. Hence we canic to he Lower Ground behind the Muflc-ELnebo:r, wherc Maptictur. Tre Grafs reached above our Auckks.
The Withegrt, or the Strcights of Hind lopocn, is fo Thewetcrece. calld from the Weilen, i. c. Blowing bard, becautc a trong S. W. wind blows continually out of ir. The and on the Bear-Haven is covered with red Stoncs chind the Weibegat lics the Sourth-meft Land which The South is very low, yet has fome fmall Hills. The fee cn wift Lame Illands we could nor fee; for no Ship wenr further, nor do at any time, as far as I could learn; nor dare they venture fo far to the Eaft every ycar. The beft fifling betwixt the Hile of Fobn Maycen and Spisfbergen, is in Mny and Fune; but in fuly and Auguff hcy goEant beyond Spitzbergen; as the latter end, wo oblerved many Whales fwimming to the Wricilegar. Whecher this Haven paffes thiso' the Councry or nos, is anknown as yet ; but this is a different Harbour from the famous Streights of Weibegats:

\section*{of she Sera:}

The Waves of the Sea here, fwell by degrees fiowly, with thic contimuance of the Wind, cill they rife as high as Mountains, and then breaking themfelves, dafth and foam over: the Ship, efpecially when they are hort ; but when they move betore the wind, they in the Cut D.) For, when the wind changes, the Waves crofs one another, and rofs the Stip, that he is hardly able to live. In a Tempeft the Froth of the Sea drives like Snow or Dut upon the Land. Near the Stoar I found the water neither fo clear nor fo falt as near the Ice; perthaps, by reafon of the fhallow bottom.
They regulate theif manner of failing according to How thy the Degrees of the Wind: In 2 frefh Gale they ufe resules all their Sails; in 2 form the rwo lowernioft only. wher filing The firft Sail is call'd the Fock or Fore-fail, the middiemoft Scijuimfer or Main-fail, and the third the Bafan or Mizch-fail: In a hard form they furl the Forc-fail, and make ufe only of the other two; and in very fevere Tempeft, half furld up.
In and after a Tempett, the Ship is offen vifired by Black-birds, Starlings, and orher imall Biads, which having loft their way, feek for a Refuge in the Ships; bur we faw no Lumbs or ocher water-Fowl. When trear Fifhes, fuch as Whales, Er, appear in great Fortromem: numbers, leaping abour the Ship, it prefages a fiomm of a Romm fome call it playing, bur Iam apt to imagine this violent morion, rather proceeds from fome pain or Other they are afflicted: wirh againft bad weather. When the Stars appeax at Sea, not only of 2 larger ize, bur alfo more in mumber than ufual, ir prognoftiates great Fogs after the changing of the Froft, which is followed by tempeftuous weather. When the Sea mines bright, ( the Sea-men call it Burning) in a dark Night; it is the Forerunner of a South or Weff wind.
Thus much of the Nortb Sea; now of that betwixt Thes scia Spitzbergen and Hitland, near wlich we fornd the Strearn, wixis Spiriz. running with a rapid motion to the North, and tre wrime Waves of this Sea ran longer, like in the Spaniff Sea beyond the Channel of England and France: They rife as high as Mountains, tho' there be lirtle wind, and run as far as you can well difcern chein, which is followed commonly by a harid Gale.: In a ftorm thicy rowl after the lame manner, bur wirth curling and foaming. They are 2 great deal larger than thofe of the North-Ser, but don't dith fo offeri over the Ship: The Waves of the North Sec are foon aid after a ftom, but thefe coiltinue turbulent for three days; and, tho' it be calin, quove the Ship fo violently, as to create the Seasficknefs or Vomiring which by fome is atributed to the Sea-water, tho' I conceive it to be the effect of the excelfive agitation Thaste-i of our Bodies, which caufes an averfion to eating, tapar. giddinefs in the Head, inclination to romiting; and coftivenels in the Body, with a high tinged Urinc. The lect Remedics againft it, are the Aromaticks, fuch as Cinnamon, Cloves, Ginger, Nutmegs, SCc. chawd in the Mourh : To cat and drink plentifully, not to flecp too much. bur keep in the Air, and look into the Wind.
There is almolt as preat a difference in the Swiftencf and Motion of Ships, as there is in Horfes: A Ship fwims near a Foot higher at Sca than in fref water, with the fane burthen.
You miay dificern a Ship chree or three and a half How far you Gorman Leagues in a calm Sca: At a leaguc and a you difcover no more than the uppermoft Maft; and at threc Leagues only the Flag. But Land and Mountains are difiorerd at a much greater diftance at Sea: We faw Spit Thergen twelve German Leagues off, like a black Cloud full of white ftreaks; as you fec is mark'd at \(\mathrm{N}_{0}(19,20,21)\). Near the Ice of this Sca (where there is no depth for anchoring) the Sca-water is very clear, which changes iss colour according to the colour of the Skics. Wi found by our driving, that among the Iec the Stream did run to the South, tho at Mufbicberen it ran North. For the reft, all the Accuune that can be given of che cbbing and flowing here, is, That after ftormy wexther, the water is higher near the Land than otherwife: For, were there any continual cbling and flowing, the Eggs of the Birds would be froild upon the Incs.

Of the Ic
In April and May, the Weft lec bcing broken, dxives in the Sea betwixt the lifle of Folm Mryen to Spicitergen. Sec at No (24). The Ice of Spistbergen is neither fo finooth, tranfparent, nor cutting, as that of our Country, but much harder, and looks like loaf-fugar. Where the Ice is fix'd upon the Sca; there appears a fnow white brightnefs in the Air, occafioned by the Reficction of the Snow; but where there are only mall lec-fields, you perceive nothing of that brightnefls. "By the dathing of the Sca againt the Ice-ficlds (which are a griat deal decper above than under water) many Figures, as decper above rhan under water) many Figures, as Sreeples. Tables, Chappels, Éc. are occafioned upon the Surfaci of them; and this is of a pure biue Vitriol like Colour, whereas that part under water is fomething paler. The Ships are forced to fail among thefe leffer Icc-fields till they are fop'd by the grear ones; for the catching of a Whale being not unlike huncing, they mult look for them every where; it ofen happenHow ther poing that oneShip catches more than they are able to carin farch of ry, whereas another at half a Leagues diftance can's fee de Whales. one. Every Mafter of the Ship is lefr at his own liberty however, to go into the Ice, or not, as he fees occafion, for tho in the Spring, the Whales are in grear numbers among the Weft lec, yet it being very foggy, dark, and ftormy in char feafon, and great numbers of fmall Iceficlds fwimming up and down the Sea, they are in great danger of loofing the Ship; and the deeper they fail in among the Ice, the greatex Ice-fields they meer with; efpecially abour the Weft, where there are larger Icefields than abour Spis bergen, quite white at the top, covered with Snow; as you may fee \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}\) (2sand 26). We faw the Prints of the Bears footing, and of the Foxes near the cdges of the Ice-ficlus; and were nor a lirtle furprized to find the Waves presty froooth betwixt the Iec-fields, tho in ftormy weather. The greateft danger chere, is, from the different bignefs of the Ice-fields, which fwimming accordingly, one fafter than the other, crowd upon one anocher, and break the Ship berwixt chern, as you fee in the Plate B, marked at A. This che Sea-mien cndeavour to prevent by Ice-hooks, cho fometimes to lirtle purpofe; the wortt is, thar the danger is the fame in ftill and tempetuous weather,; becaufe the Ice drives as well with the ftream as the wind, as eicher of them is the moxt prevalent. The dead Carcafs of a Whale is look'd upon as a good defence, to preferve the Ship if tied to the fides of in; and fome make ufe of the Tails and Fins of chis Creature, in the fame manner, and for the fame purpole, with good fuccefs.
The ftriking rogether of the vaft Ice Hills ar Sca make a moft dreadful noife; and I have oblerved, that the lce towards the bottom is very fponge, and confequently melts there in the Summer Seaion; without which, it muft before now have reachied the bottom of the Sea, rho never fo deep. They have a way of faftning their Ships (when among the Ice) to the greateft Ice-fields by the means of great Ice-hooks faftned to Atrons Cables: Bur this is nor always without danger for by the ftrong motion of the Sea, thele Icc-fields, tho never \(\left\{\begin{array}{l}\text { big, break, and grinding againt one anothex }\end{array}\right.\) break the Ship to pieces.

It was in the Monch of April, when we came to the 7I Deg. where we met with the firf Ice, but durft nor venture in it, being too carly in the Year. We afteswards, viz. in May, fail'd to \(77 \mathrm{D}_{\mathrm{cg} .} 24\) Min. into the ce to the South, where then are the moft Whales, which running to the Eaft aftcrivards, we commonly follow them to Spishlergen. Near to the Land the Ice-ficlds are not fo big, as deeper at Sea ; becaufe as the Iec cin'r give way there, they grind and break againf one another. Befides, that from the Ice-mountains upon the Shoar fonctimes rowl into the Sea grear picees of Ice, which are more compact than the reft; and fometimes sefumble various Thapes, as Houles, Churches, Steeples, Pillars, Tables with Pillars underncath. (Sec ac \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ} 27\) ) Near unto 1 ar/hblo-faven, fuch a great piece of Ice drove near our Ship, which reached fo decp under water, that it Som: olic took up our Anchor, which lay is Fathoms decp. The lice Ice, as far as it is above water, taftes like other lec, bue under the water, falt like Sca-water. When we came firt to Spizzbergen, the Ice near Relienfeld ftood yet firm but in a few days after, was put in motion by the wind We found as that time, that the Ice reach'd tron the other fide of Spitistrych, and the Ships fail'd betwixe the Land and the Ice, like in a River ; bue as foon as the Ice is drove thither, the Ships mult feck for refuge into the Harbour, till the wind has blown the Ice thence I did not fee many Sca-dogs, but abundance of Scahorlcs; Birds, and Fowl on this Ice. We אail'd in figho of the Scoen Ihes, but could go no fuxther.

Of the Air.
They told us, that in April and Mry, the hardeft Frof happen abour, 7t Deg. in thofe Parts; which is the reaton that they don't Rend their Sbips fo carly now as they dia formerly. After the third of May. the Sun iets no more forbeing then at 71 Deg. we could fee as well by niger sby day. The weather is yery clangeable here in here two Months; and if the wind changes, the mett erene hir foon becomes foggy; and when the Hitls apcar ficry, it is from Fogs, which foon fpread themfelses er the Sca.
The Air was very bright and clear, yet execfine cold: The other three Months fune, Fuly, and \(A: \sigma_{2 j} /\), woic yexy calm. As to the degrees of Cold, the rame depend in a great meafure on the Winds: For, when the North and Eaft wind blow hard, is freczes fo exceinively, that you are fearce able to kecp your fulf alive; whereas the South and Weft winds, if fomewhat contane, produce Sriow, fometimes Rains, and moderate Cold. the other winds differ or change by the Clouds; for nothing is more common here, than, thar whilf the wind is \(S\). W. and by S. in one place, at two or three Mides diftance, it is quise conerary. Skilful Harponicrs comm mend thofe ycars for Whale-carching, which have the feweft foggy and cloudy days. However there are nofuch ercne Skies wichmarbled Clouds to be feem at Spitntuergen, as with usin theSummer Scaifon, but many ciark and cloudy ones. I never obferved any Thunder-Clouds, nor ever heard of any. The Air always appears white orer the Ice, whence we conjecture where the Grm or fin'd ce ftands. We fouind the Sun Beams fo hor before Feibegats in 3 uiy, that it melecd the Tar between the Sams of the Ship.
There is no remarkable dificrence of Cold betwixt ight and day; but it is nor the fame with the Light, which in the Night-rime appears to thofe thar obferve is attentively, only like a very bright Moon-light; fo that you may look with the fame caic into the Body of the Sun, as you do upon the Moon, the only thing by which tou may diftinguith Night from the day, there being no increafe of cold or changing of the Compafs as far as wo went. The fecond of Auriff, in our Voyage honewards, we firt obferved thes Sun to fer.
As for the Meteors generated in che Air, here I took notice of a Rime, which fell down like fmall needles of Matom. Soö, and corered the Sea, like as if it were Sprinkied the air. with duft: As thefe Needles encrealed, they lay crofs one another, and appeard like a Cobweb: As they are form'd by the cold Air, Co shey encreafe fometimes to that degree, that the Sea is cover'd with them, like with 2 Skin or thin Ice, which has no brackifh talte. It hapecus in clear Sun-ihine, and very cold weacher, and falls down invinibly likeour Dew : If is be a cloudy day, you cant perceive ir, butif you look to a mady place when the Sun mines, it Sparkles like Diamonds, butnever fticks to your Cloaths to wet them.
We obrerve fomeching like thefe finall Needles in the Rime of our Country, which being a kind of fmall Snow, Rime of our Country, which being a kind of mall Snow, vifible both in the Shade and. Sun, falls from the. Trecs like Duft. In the falling Needles of the Norbh, you

mublimid
fee the Bow like the Rain-bow, of two colours, white and a pale yellow; occafioned by the Reflection in the dark Ihades of the Clouds.
There is another Phenomenon (in thefe parts) in the Air, calld the Seathom, which is never feen but in a bright day; in the Atmofphere of the Sez-water, which being blown up by the winds, appears like a Fog: It is commonly feen before the Ship, and fometimes behind to the Leeward, over againft the Sun, in the place where the thadow of the Sail fallech: It appears of divers Colours, like the Rain-bows in the Skies.
armelionor In the Clouds near the Sun, alfo fonmetimes appears a Weater pall Light liké a Rarclion or Mock-Sun, call'd The Wenthersall by the Sca-men: This appears in the thady dark Clouds in the inferiour Region of the Air, where the Sun is reprofented as in a Looking-glafs: For the Sun having changed the. Warer-drops into Vapours or Fogs, the Sun reprefents it felf thus, and produces thefe Colours diftinctly, viz. B/cw, \(\hat{r}_{\text {cllow, }}\) and Red, the three chicf Colours of the Bow. I rook particular notice of this Phenomenon at Spitabergen, which I found to move about with the Sun both by day and night, and appear'd much bigger in the Morning, Night and Erening, than in the Day-time.
Whirl winds are unknown in this cold Climate, ex cept that fomething like chein procects fometimes from the recoiling of the Winds betwiat the high Mountains. It is further obfervable, that the Sca, andothereWaters near Spiszbergen, fend forth certain Vapours, when the cold encreafes, which rarnitig: Anto Rain or Snow, fancll like Fogs or Reaning water. But, if youperceive thefe Vaponis for rife with very litric intermition in at Sunthim day, withour any wind, the cold weather is going to remit: But then the Eir is full of thefe Vapours, they difperfe the Clouds, and concinue a great while with a conftane wind. Thefe Vapours in the Air ftick to our Cloaths and Hair like fweat.

Thefe fmall vaporous Drops are the fame one of bititrent which the Snow is generared: Firft you fee a fimall and ice fomensdrop no bigger than a fingle Sand, mark'd with \(\mathrm{N}^{0}\) (28) raticin. this being encrealed by the fame Fog, becomes a fix-corner'd Rlate, eranfparent as Glafs, the Fog Aticking like rops to the fix comers, 2s \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}\) 29. Then freczing, it fplits afunder, and produces the Figure of a Srar, like \(\mathrm{N}^{-}\)(30) which being in time parted one from the ocher, youfee a Star with fix Poines, as at \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}\) (31) but fome wes drops hang ftill on thefe Points, till at length it is brought by the Froft to the form of a perfect Star, with ferrated Poinss on the fides, like Fernc, as you fee at \(\mathrm{N} \circ\) (32) This is the Formation of the fnowy Star, which falis in the fevercf Frofts, but as laft loofes its Points, as you fee at \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}\) (33). Concerning the different forts of Snow, hat markd with \(N^{0}\) (34) xeprefents the Sorow as it alls when ir is rolerably cold only, with rain, when it alls like unto fmall Rofes, Noedles, and fimall Coras. When the cold abates, the Snow falts like Stars, with Poines like Fernc-lcaves, as in \(\mathrm{N}^{\alpha}(3: 5)\). If ir frowerh much, with Fog, it arpears as in \(\mathrm{N}^{}\) (36). If in exceffive cold and windy weather, as in No (37). If the weather be very cold withour wind, the Snow falls like Scars, butin clufters, as being not feparated by the wind; like \(\mathbb{N}^{}\left(3^{8)}\right.\). In ftormy and cloudy weather, wind ar N. W. there fell a kind of Hail, round and oblong, bue full of prickles, and of the fane bignefs as mark'd at \(\mathrm{Na}^{1}\) (39). There are divers other forts of ftarry Snows, and fome of the fhape of a Hearr, bur all generated after the before-mentioned manner, by the Eaft and North winds: But the needly Snow is produced by the Weftand Souch winds. I haie further oblerved, that when it is excefive cold, the North wind generates both farry and orher forts of Snows, as well in thefe Countries as abour Spiszbergen.
\(\qquad\)
.

\section*{CH A P. XLI.} A Voyage to Spitzbergen; Part III.

\author{
Of the Plants of Spitzbergen.
}

THE Figures of the following Plants were for the moft paxt drawn to the life upon the place, whillt yet frefh, and of cheir natural fize, excepr the Rock-ptemt, with one Leaf, and the Plant like Hor \(/\) c-tail, which were too big to be inferted thus: Many fomall Herbs which I had no time to delicnate, I intend to prefent to the Work hereafter, when I have made my fecond Voyage: Iomisted alfo the potits-poppy (the wholePlant being a (pan long) and the Red-Sorrel; of which kind 1 faw one at Bremer, at the Dutch Gardener's, being of the fame fize with that of Spitibergen, but che Teaves of the Northerm Sorral were ied.
All the Herbs and Moffes grow here upon the Grit of the Rocks, where the water runs down from the rops, and chiefly on chat fride of the Mountains, wherc the Eaft and Nomb winds can'r reach them. The Birdsdung alfo coneributes miuch to their growth. They come to perfection in a flort tigre; for when wearrived at Spitinbergen in furie, shey were fearce greem, and in fuly moft of them werein flower, and fome half their Seeds tipt; Whence you may guefs at tbe lenght of the Summer. I will begin this Defcription of the Plants with thofe thas put forth their Leaves only at and about the Roots, having few or no Leaves on the Stalks: Then thofe chat have pairs of Leaves on their Stalks, or oppofite ones; afrexwaidsthofe with three Leaves, and lafly the imperfect Ptiants.

\section*{Of \(d\) Pliant with Aloe-Lemess}

If is zerbe with thick prickly and dark green Leaves, fike thefe of the Aloer, a brown naked Yratk, talf a Finger long, on which hang round Heads of leifi cofour'a Flowers in' bonethes, fearce difcermble by the Eye, one Flower clofe abore another. See N" \(^{(40)}\)

One Plant produces fomerimes two Stalks, ver each of them has two Flowers. The Root confifts of finall Fibers: The Secd.I could not delicnate for want of time. We faw great plency of is the 17 th of \(f\) fuly, in a running water behind the Cookery of Harkm. I know not whether this beof the kind mentioned by Cafpar Bruhin, under the Name of Limonium Maritimum, which he Gays in Prodrm? bas round fmall and thick Leaves like Houfeleck, between phithear. Lis which come formh fmall Scalks, with pale xed Flowers; C. is. bur his Roor is long, red, and parred at top, whereas ours is nor red, and cunfitts of many Fibres.

\section*{Of fmall Houreleck.}

This Plant has indented Teaves like chofe of out Daies, bur are more juicy and thicker, like chofe of ous Loffer Houfeleck: They grow abour the Roor, and bcwixt them 2 fmall Scalk of a Finger long, round and hairy, without Leaves, except where it emirs anocher Salk, at which place it has one Leaf. The Flowers come forth in Scaley heads (like the Flower of Stachers) are of a brown colour, with eighr poinued Leaves,-and as many frall Chives within, like the Flowers of Hisll pepper or Stome-Crap: TheSeed was nor sipe as yet. The Roor is thick and ftrair, with many thick Fibres iffuing from the fides of it. It may be calld the Small crencted Hourfieck, wigh fcaly heads. We found in the 18th of Fitry in the Dahifo Harbour: See \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}(\neq \mathrm{f})\).

Of Crowsfoos, four kinds:
Somic of thele Plancs are reprefented ar \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ} 42,43 \mathrm{f} 44\) itrd 45 :" Thefe four Plariss are all Crowfect, diftinguifid orily by heir feares.

0999

The firt end The firft and fourth at \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}(42\) and 43 ) are very like foutch kind one another in reffect of their Leaves; of whinch they have both two forts, the undermoft broad, and not much cut ; the uppermott fmaller and deeper carved: Their chief difference is, that the firf grows not fo high with man: Leavesour of one Roor; but the fourth produces nne long falk with one fingle lesaf. This laft bas ycllow Fowers, hut I don't remember whether the firt had the func. The Flowers of the fourth hath five Leaves, broader at the ends than as the bottom, and grow out of a rouph perianthism or Cup, that is fplis into five alfo. The Howers of the firf have fix finail Leaves; theSeed Veffels arelike one another.
The Roots are very diffierene, for the firft hath many mall bibres, whercas the, fourth hias a thick and long Root, with finall tender Fibres: The Leaves of the firt burn the Tongue fike our Perficaria or Flen-banc, Yet not quite fo ftrong; but thofe of the four don'r burato much. If found them hoch in the Danifth Aarbour, the firlt in great quagtities: they bear Flowers in fuly.
The freond The iecund fás diferent leaves from the two beforemenrioned ;'for, tho' the lowermof agree with thofe of the firtf. yet are they not fo big, and thofe that grow above the lowermoft, are decper cur in two places; fo that the firt part of the Leaf itands out before nor unlike a Tongue ; bue the two fides are only a litele indentcd. Sec \(\mathbb{N}^{+}(44)\). There is allo a difference in the Leaves of this Planr, thofe nearett to the Flower Being fimaller and deeper cor, and burn the Tongue. The Flows, thio wery finail, yer has fix, and fomctimes feven leaves. The Seed Veffelis like the two former, only lef: The Koor like that of the firft, only with more Fibres: The Sralk is alfo furrounded with a thick Sheath, like that of the fourth. I found it growing ancar the firft in the Danifh Harbour \(\mathcal{F}\) uly the f th. .
Fir this The third is the leaft of all, with many Leaves, hut much leffer, and not fo deep cut, tho with four Incilions: I did not perccive any difference betwist the lowermoft and uppermoft leaves: It is mark'd with number ( 45 ). The Flower has five whire beaves; the Seed Veffel I could not yer fee: les. Roors arc fmall Fibres. I found is in the Sousthhaven the ithth of 7 fuly: The Leaves are thick and juicy, and burn the Tongue.
In the fanic place I faw anocher little Plant, like to thele, except that the Leaves were not 10 juicy, and the Flowers of a Purple Colour: I took no Draught of it.

\section*{of Scurry-grals.}

This Scuroy-grafs produces many Leaves from one Ront. Ypreading upon the Ground. Out of the mindle of them fprouts forth the Stalk, much lower than in our Country, with a few Leaves undernearh the Sprouts. The Flowers have four white Leaves, many growing on the fame Stalk, one above the orher, and as one fades, anorher fucceeds in its room: 'The Seed comes forth in a longim Box, whereas ours is produced in a round onc. Ir has a thick, Areighr and whire Roon, with fome fimall Fibres below. I found a great quantity of it on the Rocks in the South, Englif, and Daniß Harbours, where they wete nor much cxpofed to the Eaft and North Winds. Is feeds in Fuly, and irs Leaves bave bur little tharpnefs at \(S_{\text {pitiz }}^{2}\) bergen; . To that we did eat it with Salka, which we could not do with ours. (.) \(2 . \cos\) is. Sce \(\mathrm{N}^{\mathrm{N}}\) ( \(\mathrm{f}^{6}\) ). My Figure is like that of (a) Matof bis Germ, thiolus.
arons

\section*{Of cix Herb like Stone-Crop.}

This Piant is without queftion a kind of Stone-Crop, tho' its Leaves are rough or rather hairy, nor 10 rhick nor jaicy, mor biting like ours. Before it comes into the Flower, it appears bike that of the Efula; bur when fult blown, is bas a Purple Flower, with five, fix, and fometimes nine Leaves: 1 did nor tell the Staminn of the Flower, or ever faw the Seeds:. The Roit is very fmall: We found this Planr on the Low Lands at the Englifh-harbour, and among, che Mofles, \(\mathcal{F}\) unc the 26. It is mark'd with \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}\) (47).

\section*{Of. a Snake-weed.}

This: is' a kind of a small snakeweed, not frequently found ai spitabergen: The undermoft Leaves, the bigger than the reft, are not above the breadth of a Man's. Nail, growing fingls on the Stalk, hur not above three of them, beffides the lowernoft: The nearer the Flower, the finaller they are: Nor far rom the Edges, chey have many litale Soors anVering to the Points of the leaves, wherein the \(V\) cins terminate: The Leaves are fomewhac wrinked at the Brims. The Roor brings forth fomecimes a fingle and formerimes a double Sralk, the By-ftalk being never fo tall as the Head-ftalk.
The Fluwer grows in a clofe Spike, with many fellh-colour'd Flowers, but fo forall, that i neglected to tell the Leaves: The Seeds were not ripe. The twifted Roor fufficiently fhews it felf to be of the \(B\) fforra kind; it is about the thicknefs of a litrle Fioger, with fmall:Fibres, brown without and atche colour'd within, ánd of an aftringens talte. We found this Plant in the Danifk-harbour. My. Figure agrees with that given by cannecarius (b). In is mark' with \(\mathrm{N}^{\prime}(48)\).

\section*{of a R Plant like unso Mouse-car.}

This Plaph has rough Leaves like Amoufc-ar, by pairs, 'bir' fmoort-edged : The Stalks are fmooth a their firt fprouting forth, but afterwards rurn rough Tr Tar as the uppermoft Leaves grow, and are round ith at the bottom. At the Extrennity of the Stalk comes forth 2. white Flower our of its Perianthium 1 did not count this Leaves nor obferved the Seeds; but the Root is round and fmall, with flender Fibres: Is appears like the hairy or rough aifire, of the third or fourth kind of Dodencus, (c) but that rb Leaves of his are cur, and thefe are not. I found of hat fres. It in the South-barberr, July the 17th : Sce \(\mathbf{N}^{\prime}\) (49). Lut: Herb

\section*{Of an Herb like the Periwinkle.}

This Plant has roundin Leares by Pairs on Salks, crecping upon the Ground: The Leaves are not unlike thofe of the Periminkle, except that they are fomething more round, and che largeft of them beni inward before: The Stalk is knotty and woody.
The Elower feems as firft as if wrap'd up like 2 Leaf, but afrerwards difcovers it felf growing our berwixt the Laaves on the fame Stalk: I had not the opporrunity of obferving the colour and mape of thic Flowers (ches being not well blown) nor ro gacher the Sced. The Root is long, nender, round woody and knotty, with rmall branched Fibres at the botrom: 'Wc faw it in the Soutl-bay behind the Cookery of Harlem the 19th of Func, and Fuly the 17 th. I am not able to derermine whether it be tioned by the fame Clufius, (e) under the name of Aoronymos colurefí f. and by camerarius, under the \({ }^{(\mathrm{e})} \mathrm{At} 5\); 7 :. name of Anonymos Rcroincì fot. Sce \(\mathrm{N}^{\mathrm{o}}\) (so).

Of an Herb like the Strawberry,
This Plant has three cut-Leaves at the Extremiry of the Stalks, like che Stramberry; the Flower is alfo Like it, fometimes with four, but generally with five Leaves: The Stalks are round and rough and to are the Leaves. On the Stalks you fee two Leaves oppoine to onc anocher, of a different Figure and Bignef; one refembling 2 Hand, the ocher a Fin ger. The Flower is yellow, compoled of roundilh Leaves, bur I did not take nocice of how many. The Root is round and thick, with froall Fibres, 2 litule fcaly at the top:: Iss tafte is aftringent like Tormensit, In all the Herbal's I. found none more like it than that call'd by Lobelius, (a) Fragaria Syl-(1) c : 77 veftris minime Vefca froe Sterilis; tho the Leaves of 5 . 70 . in biia ours are cur deeper, and the Flowet of his is whirer. Ifr derbelip See \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}\) (51).

\section*{Of the Rock-Plant.}

This is the fame Plant calld wier by, the Dusch, and Fucus in Latin. The Sralk is broad and flar like a Leaf, out of which fprout many Leaves no lefs broad, like Twigs out of a Treef, At the top of the Stalks grow foriecimes five, fomerimes feven yellow longuifh Leaves (as the Hexb,is' allo) eranf parent like Glew. Clofe to thefe yon fee other lon guinh Leaves, hollow, and, as' ic wert, blown up with wind, with many leffer. Bladders sound about, clore to one anothcr: Whether thefe contain any Seed or not, I am not able to conjesture; but the Leaves have nothing but wind in them: For when I preff'd rhem together, they gave a little bounce.
If we may credic the Sea-men, the fmall Sea-fnails are progenerated out of the Seeds of this Plant, but whether it be fo or not, I will not determine; perhaps it may be after the fame manner, as we fee on the Leaves in our Country, Bladders.fill'd with the Seeds of Caterpillars; but this is only giefs, The Root grows out of the Rocks (whence it his got its name) with fome Fibres, and is fomerimes tound. I found it in great plenty in the Soutb-Bay near the Cookery of Harlem; in the Mu/ble-baven at Spičnbergen; and afterwards at Cales in Spain.

After it is dried, is is of a dark-brown Colour, but gives again as foom as the South or Weft wind blows; but when the Wind turns Eaft or North, it becomes dry and ftiff again

The only Figure refembling this, which I have met L.39.so with, is in the Iferdumif Herbal, (b) under the Name of Alga Marina Platyecros porffa; but this is more fpongy and white. \(\operatorname{Sec} \mathrm{N}^{\circ}(52)\).
Tix Gras
The Leaves of the Greatrockplant, refemble in Thape 2 Man's Tongue, curled on both fides, buc plain bcfore: Thro' the middle of it run two black ptroaks to the Stalk; and on the out-fide of them many black Specks; within the black Nerves, on cach fide, to the middlemoft plain Suroke. The Plant is curled, except in the middle, where it is fmooth quite to the Stalk; and as the beginning of the leaf next to the Stalk, are two white Veins or Nerves reaching to the middle of the leaf, bending towards one another in fuch a manner, that if they were quire clofed, they would make a perfect oval. The leaf of it is abdive fix Foor long, and yellow: The Sailk is of the faine colour, much longer, round and mooth, thick near the Root, and froells like Mulhels, Thie Root has many Branches, fubdivided into others, which ftick clofe to the Rocks under watex: : It grows fometimes! many Farhoms deep in the Sea. We often ufed to pull ap a grear quantity of it with our Auchiors, and rogerher with ir a certa, hairy Plane growing near the former, 'refembling a Horle's Tail, with fome finall knobs like sitty Hair, or fuch as are fplit at the ends: The whole Plant was brownex than the other, the Roots being entangled with it. : We found fome red Worms wrap"d up in rhis laft, niot unlike Carerpillars, with many legs. Sec thele at Rockfic: \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}(53)\). This Plant being like the Dodder, in may be call'd Water or Rack-silk: It refembles moft the Draught given by (2) Ancbony Dunaf, of a certain Herb (a) Li: a growing about Vonice, call'd Muf̌us argenteus"Marinus fimilis \({ }^{\prime} /\) lume; ; bur this is nor white, bur yellow, or rather brown: Both thefe Plants we found in greas quantities in the Sourb-barlaur, Fuly.2oth, and 21 R.
The Englifk-harifur produces another fort of a Seci-Sca-zraf. plant, which I calld Sea-grafs: If grows likewife under water, and is abouc cighr Foorlong, with yellow Leaves (like Giew) three Fingers broad \({ }^{\circ}\)-ranfparent, and ierminating in a blunt point: They grow from the Reor round abour it, fmooth-cdg'd at. the top, withour prickles, buc plain and even, Sce \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}\) (54).

\section*{C H A P. XII.}

\section*{The Voyage to Spitzbergen, Part IV:}

\author{
Of the Animals of Spitzbergen.
}

THE Animals of Spitzbergen are either fuch as have 5 wo, or four Legs; befides which, they have cextain Creatures living only in the Water, withour Legs, inftead whereof, they have Fins joinred like Legs underneath che Skin; yer fome are amphibious Creatures, and have either rwo or four Icgs. We will begin with the Birds, whereof the moft live in the Water, and few upon the Land or Ice.

\section*{Of Birds with divided Fecti}

The Snics:
I oblerved here but orie Land-bird, viz. the Snite call'd alfo the Strathd-rumner (as keeping ncar the Serind) is no biggex than a Lark, with a thin narrow-comer'd Bill. are fo broad and roundith, with crofs norches like thote of our Srites, which are allo larger than the Snites of:Spitzbergen; but ochervife like one another both in thapeand colour. . The Bill borth above and below is four fquare, about two Inches long, and of a brownifh colour: The. Head is round, and no thicker than the Neck. They have three divided Claws before, and a thort one behind, with thort Legs. They are of the colour of a Lark, but hew like a Duck's Neck in SunPhiny weather. Their Food is Worms and Shrimps. We thor feveral of them, in South-harbour near the Cooker of Harlent; they did not cafteinche lcaft after Filh. See Tab.K. \(\mathrm{N}^{0}(5 s)\).
The Snow-bird is of the bignels of a Sparrow, and the hape of a Linnct, as alfo of the fame colour. Iss Bill is hort, and pointed; the Head no thicker , than the Neck - The Legs are alfo like the Linnet's, with chree divided Fore-claws, and long crooked Nails; the hinder Claw fomething fhorter, with a long-bended Spur : The Legs are fhort, and of a grey colour. TheirBacks and Wings are grey; bat from the Head down over the Belly to the Tail, they are as white as Snow: The young ones are grey all over. They ufed to come into our Ship in whole Flocks, near the lile of Folm Moyen; and were fo tame, that you mighr take them with your Hands. They are only feen upon the Ice, whence they are calld Siiop-birds. We kept fome of them ina Cage; but they Toon died. Thofe we ear were very lean, bur of no ill catte. See \(\mathrm{N}^{0}(56)\).

I gor fight of a mont curious Ici-birat in the Eutifh- The tection barbour, of che bigness of a fmall Pigcon, and thising ike Gold ; but being afraid we thould fooil his curious Feathers by mooting if fo near at hand, ir efcaped us, and fo I could not delincate it, this being the only I faw.of the kind.

Of the Broad-footed Birds.
Of chefe there are divers forts ar Spiczbergen; fome with pointed, ocher with thick and broad Bills. Among the thick-bill'd ones, fome have them parted as the Mallmucken (or Foolif Gnars); ochers undivided, as the Parrets (as they call them). Another differcnce is in the Heels of thefe Birds; for fome of chem have Heels, as the Mountain-duck, Kirmew, and Mathemucken: Others. have none, as the Burgermafter, Rathfor, Strunsiayer, Kutyegehf, Parret, Lumbc, Rigeom, and the R:a-zorft. No. Water fticks to the Feathers of thele Birds, no more than to the Swans and other Water-fowl. Some ane alo Birds of Prey, others nor. There is alfo a great difcrence in their flying: the Pigeor flies like a Partridge; the Lumbe and Red-goofe like a sroaliow; thic Mallemucken, Ratiffor; and Struntiager, like the Merss; and the Burgermaffer like the Stork.
The Birds of Prey are, the Burgermafler, RatL/ßer, Birdsofpery: Struntjayer, :Kutyegbef, and Mattemucken; and their Flefh is different accordingly: The Flefh of the Birds of Prey is fance catable; unlefs you hang thim up for fome days by their Iegs, that, the Air may confume the Train-oil, withour which, it would make you vomit.
The Pigeons: Parrets, Red-geefe, and Ducks, are prcaty hefly, and the Rories, Kimerws, rand young Lumbs, eat olerably well, boild or fryd, provided the Fat be rakan away, which otherwife would rum your Stomach All thefe Birds; except the Stumtjayer, Kirmew, and Mountain-duck, build their Netts upon the Rocks, tho fome higher than others, About- whic latter end of Fime and, the beginning of fuly (their harching-time) they flock together in fuch vaft numbers, that when they ty Qq9q2 up, they darken the Sky like a Cloud: Bure the Kirmems Mountain-ducks, and the Serunficyers, make their Nefts in the low Grounds of the litcle Ines, where we ufed to take up raft quantities of Eggs.

4

The Mnumfain-duck builds his Neft of the Fearbers of his own Relly, mixd with fome Mofs: But there Fen thers are not the Edder Down, brought us from l/and for thefe are taken from a large. Bird calld Edder, a Pound of which, when cleanfed from the Mors, is fold at a Crown per Pound: Buc she Down of thefe Northern Mouncain-ducks, them Sca-men ufed to be put into their Pillows and Straw-facks, which might be worth confderably, if they were well cleanfed. The Kirmeres as well as the Rocits, lay their Eges among the Mofs: The Nefts of the ocher Birds being too high among the Rocks, we could not come at them. All thefe Birds fly directly to their own Netts, let is be never fo- dark. As to the Names of the Birds, I have inferted them, juft as the Sea-men have given them formerly. Some of thefe Birds, as Lumbs, Strunticyers, Mallcmucken, Kirmems, and the Mews call'd Kuricgelf, I have alfo feen on the Coalt of England, Scotiand, and Ireland, as alfo in the Spanifo-Scn, and the two laft even upon the Elbe, the River of Hamburgh.
The Renti,fer (or Alderman) is a thin-bill'd Bird, with threc Claws, being fo calld from his ftately and handfome afpect, but is lefs than the Bird calld the Burstrmefter.
This Bird has a: haarp and thin Bill, and three Claws joind by a black Skin, withour any Spur or Claw behind : Its Legs are hort and black, and to are the Eyes. Ic is fo white, that you may even diftinguijh it beyond the Snow: Its Tail is indifferently long, and very broad like a lady's Fan: It cries lower than the little Kirmew and freads its Wings and Tail in Hying, like the Strumtiner or Crow. It does not much care to fwim in the "ater as the other Birds do here, tho' it is very fond of Fim. 1 have feen them feed upon theSea-horifes dung upon the Icc, upon whore Body they will reft, whilit alive. They fly alone, excepe when they flock together in great numbers abour a Prey.. I did delineate them at Spictbergen, \(\mathcal{F}\) uly the noth, and they wore fo tame, that inttead of ihooting, we could have knock'd them down with our Guns, \(N_{0}(56)\).
Tha \({ }^{5} \mathrm{~m}\)
The Pigecn, or rather Pigeon-diver, is a beautiful Bird, of the bignefs of a Duck, with a thin Charp-pointed Bill, about two lnches long, red and hollow within, the upper Bill being is litcle crooked at the end. It has 2 thore Tail, and thort red legs, with three red Toes, and crooked Claws. Some of chefe Birds are black all over, but fome abour the Wings and in the iniddle, are py'd with black, and are altogether white underneath the Wings. Their Tongue is red and hollow, and they cry like joung Pigeons, whence they have got their, name, they having nothing clfe like them: In their Crops I found Shrimps and imall Land-itones. Their flight is not very high, ar moft like the Partridges, and gencrally by Pares, or elfe alone: They can kcep a condidcrable time under water, eppecially in, if fry'd un But ter, after the Fat is taken away. I fhor the firft on the Fec, May the 23 d , and afterwards ar Spir \({ }_{2}\) bergen, where they are more frequenc. Sce \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}\) ( 58 ).
The Lamb. : The Lumb refembles in its Bill the Diving-pigeon, except that it is more crooked and ftronger. Its Feet are Wlack, with three Toes, and as many black Claws; che Legs are alfo black and frort. Its cry is almott like a Raven, bigner thian the Diving-pigcon, about the fize of a midling Duck: I was told that they feed alfo upon fmall frefh River-filh. The old ones carry their young ones from the Rocks to the Water, where they teach them to fwim; and are fo fond of them, that they will fwim conitantly abour themi, and defend them agaime the Lifults of the Bursermafters. They are not eafy to be thot; for fo foon as thicy fee fire, they get away, or under water. They fly together in Flocks, with yointcd Wings like Swallows, and of a fwift motions. The young lumbs atc not cafily diftinguilh'd from the old ones, unlets you take exatt motice of their Bills, the upperpart whereof rurns befide the urdermoft part, at the Point, and the undermoft befide the uppermolt: This is commonly doni in the 15 th, 1 Gth; or 2 ert year of their age. The old ones are very flefty, bus dry and rough, and therifore frarce earable, unlefs you boid them well, and after you have taken away the Fat, fry them in Buster. 1 Gw thoufands of them or the South and Weft fides of the Mountaiks. ( where the Herbs grow ) near che Dinifhtharborer io but did not meet with fo many neas Sé Magitelens-opaven wherc I drew my Figure, Fu-the 25 th : I met with fome of them afterwarts in the spanifh-Scr, and the North Sca near ilegigelam, Sec \(N^{\prime}\) ( \((\varsigma \%)\).
This is a kind of handume Nicu, calld kurgora/f, The Mer fromits cry : Its Bill is bent fomething like that of the catid Kive Burgermaftor, with a finall knobon the undermoft paris orserf. the Bill. His black Eycs are kurrounded with a rel circle, like the Bus ze mafter; bis three Claws are joind wich a black Skin: "The Legs are of the fame colour, and thort, the Tail long and broad like a Fan. He is as white as Snow on the Belly, bue grey, on the Back aind Wings, the Points whercof are, black. His bignefs is the fame as other Meros, but fomewhar lefs than the Srumtiayer. His Food is the Far of the Whales, which the Scamen ric ta their Hooks fur a bair, and io catch not only thefe, bue moft other Birds of Pray: he never dives, bueflies with fmall. Wings: He is hunted by che Seruntyacr (or Dunghuncer; till he dungs, which the Serunciayer eats: I have been frequently an Eye-witnefs of this: This which 1 delincatcd, was taken at the South-baver, I took notice, that clis Bird, as well as all the others in thofe parts, fwim upon the Water, holding up their Heads againtt the Wind, ler it blow never fo hard: This they do, that their Feathers may nos be opened and entangled, and confequendy they faulter in their flight. This Bird has butlitele nucat upon him : Thave feen fome of them both in the Spanif and in the North-Sea, but fomewhat different from thefe. See \(\mathrm{N}^{*}(60)\),
The Burgermafter ( or Major) has gor its name from its bignefs (being almoft cqual to a Stork) beforc all the The sming other Birds of Spiribergen, He has a crooked, thick, narrow, and yellow Bill, the undermoft fomewhat knobby ac the Extremity, more than the Kutycgelf, with-long Noftrils, and a red Circle about his Eycs: His I egs arc nor quite fo long as the Srork's, and grey, as are his three Claws: He has a broad and whire Tail like a Fan: The Wings and Back are of a plale colour ; the firt tip'd with white, and ro is the whole Bady. Thicy build their Nefts high among the Cliff of the Rocks, bcyond any body's reach, bur will flock in great numbers to \(a\) dead. Whale to feed upon his Fat, where we ufed to hoor them. His cry is like the Raycn's, and his flight Whalcs, as allo the sechon young Limbs and the'.Eatof Whales, as alfo the Sea-borfi's dung. He commonly fies alone, except when they meer at their Prey : 'They love to rett on the water, but feldom dive. The Mcilemucken. (whilf they are fecding upon the dead Whale) lie quietly down before the Birgermafler, rather than to leave their Mcal, who bites them in the Neck, which they don'r regard, by reafon of the thicknesf of their Skin we thor one realon of the thicknefs of their You fee him ar \(\mathrm{N}^{0}(61)\),
The Rorges is a diving Bird, with a crooked, fhort, The Rggth thick, and black Bill, Morr Lces of the fame colour, and three Claws and black Niails, join'd by a black Skin. Some are pied with black on their Wings, like the Diving Pigcons, their Feathers are like Hair on a thick Skin, and their Tails yery thort: For the reft, they recmble both in fhape and fligits the Smallows, and fly in flocks; they walk"wabbling from one fide to another, and cry, Rostet, ter, tef, sef, tet, firft high, and lower by degres, whence they have got their name. As they have a flrill Voice, fo they makea mot hideous noife, tho moft of the ocher Bixds of Spisabergen are not inferiour to them, except that they cry lower. The Rotges are romewhat bigger than Starlings; build for the moft part their Nefts in the Cliffs of the Rocks, and Come on the Mountains among the Mols. Their Food is a crrain grey Worm like Craw-fing (delineared hereafier; as allo red Shrimps or Prawns. The furt we gor May the 29th, on the Ice, and afterwards many more at Spifibergen. They afford very good Food, and the bert, next o the Strand-runner, being boch fleify and fat; we eas cm boild and roalted. \(\operatorname{Sec} \mathrm{N}^{\mathrm{o}} .(62)\) )
The Struntigerer (Dung-Jumieer) Fas a thick black Bill, The sirn it omewhat crooked, and blumi before. His Iegs äre riot \(j\) mer. very long, and bis three Claws join'd with a black Skiat The Tail is like a Fan, with one Feacher ftanding out before the reft: The rop of his Head is black, and io are his Eyes: Abour his Neck he is adornd with a darkyellow Ring, his Wings and Back brown, but underneath the belly white. He is fomething larger than the Kutyegelf, whom he hunts in the"Air, fying fometimes above, fometimes below her, till fhe cafts her Dung, which he carches before it fallsinito the Watcr, (wherce he has gor his Name) and, as I fupriofe; ferves him infrad of drink, his ordinary Food being the Far of the Whale. His Neft he builds not very high, and walks upright like the Burgarm.fler and Rethfor: 'His Flefh' is no more catable than that of the other Birds of Prey : \(\begin{aligned} & \text { reft of the Body of an Anh-colour: The Wings and }\end{aligned}\) He crics \(I\). Fa, or \(\mathcal{F} 6\) ban, with a thril Voicc. I fiot Tail white underncath, and one fide of the Feathers him Fuly the isth, near the Decr-baven (or Rebonfeld) at Spitzbergen, and faw another of them on the back of Scotland, being otherwife a rare Bird, that commonly Alies alone, nor unlike a Crow, bur his Wings are more pointed ar the end. . See \(\mathrm{N}^{\mathrm{a}}\left(6_{3}\right)\).
This Bird, commonly call'd the Pirrer, having a peculiar Bill, among all the other web-footed Birds, has got the name of a Pairet, tho' his Bill is not like that of a rrue P'arref, being broad, and full of cmall ftrsaks of divers colours, viz. red. white, aud the broad part black: Both the upper and undermoft are pointed; ths uppermoft Arch red, with a thin bended Hook on the upper-Bills; the undermoft Arch is yellowifh, which towards the end downwards, is cut off loping: Both the upper and under part is three Fingers broad, and three long: On the upper Bill he has four arched and oblong pitred holes, and as many on the loiver, th. \(0^{\prime}\) the furthermoft is not quite fo plain: Thefe holes on both Bills, make togecher a Half-Moon, as do the clevated parss betwixt them: For, by thefe holes are as many raifed parts, the uppermoft being as broad as the three furrhermont ones, rogether; and has underneath on each fide, an oblong hole, which doubrlefs are the Noftrils; but the undermoof on the under-Bill, is about a Straw's breadth broader; the upper broad part is blackifh, and fometimes blew.
On this broad parr of the upper-Bill, that is thius raifed, is cowards the Eye an oblong piece of a white Cartilage full of holes, whereon you fee towards the innerpart of the Mouth a certain Nerve, which reaching to the under part, there ends, and gives motion to the opening and hurting of the Bill. His Legs are fhort and red, with three Claws join'd with a red Skin, and three ftrong Nails: He has a wabbling Gare. The Eyes are furrounded with a red Circle, above which, ftands uprighr a lirclo Horn, and undernearh the Eyes is another imall oblons black horn croft over The Head is black as far as to the Horn, but the Cheeks white, wish 2 black Ring about the Neck: The Back and Wings are of the fame colour, but the Belly white. They tly either fingly or by Pairs, with pointed Wings like Lumbs. They can keep a great while under waier, and feed upon Shrimps, Imall Fifh Worms, Sca-fpiders, and Sear-fifh. This Bird is flefhi©r -than the Diving-pigeon, whicti affords yery good Food: I never faw any of them among the Ice This, whercof I have given you she Draught, I hot at Scbmerenbergh, near Spirizbergen, Fune the 2oth, and got feveral more afterwards. See \(\mathrm{Na}^{a}\) (64).

Of she Wril-foored Birds mith four Claws.
We will now procced to the web-foored Birds with four Claws, of which I met with three forts about Spitzergen, viz, the Mountain-duck, the Kirmew, and Mallemucken.
The Mown
The Mountain-duck is rather a wild Goofe than a kint of a Duck, being of the bignefs of 2 middle-fized. Goofe, and like her abour the Bill: It is a beautiful Bird, with fine fpotred Fcathers; For the reft, chey dive under warer as our Ducks do: The Drake is pied wichblack and white, but the Duck of the colour of our Partridges; and the Tail bobb'd like that of an ordinary Duck: The hins dermoft Claw is morr and broad, with a thort Nail: I found nothing in chcir Gizzards butSand-ftones: They fly in Flocks, and if they eppy any Body, fterch out their Necks. Their Nefts they make of the Feathers of their Bellics mix'd with Mols, upon the low IIande:

We found rwo, three and four Eggs in a Neft, fome whereof were rotten, bur the reft afforded good Food, being palc-grecn; fomeching bigger than our Duckeggs: The Fleth of there Bixds is excellently good, if Hop throw away the Fat, which taftes like Oil. That which 1 have delineated here, we fhor in the South-baven ar Spisizergen, Fune the 18th. See No (65).

The Kitmox. The Kirmew has a thin tharp-poinced Bill, as red as Blood: Its long Wings and Feathers in the Tail, makes it thew very big; tho without them it is no bigger than a Sparrow. It has pointed Wings, and a Tail longer than a Swallow: It is calld the Kir mew fromi its Crys, which is Kir, Kir: Borh the Claws and Skin. that join them, are as red as Blood, and the Nails on the four Claws black, the hindertiont being the leait. The Legs are alfo red, and frort; the top of the Head black, but the fides white, the of the Wings black. Thef differcnt Celours, toge ther with the red Legs, Fect, and Pim, orender this Bird very beautiful to the Eye: Its Fearhers are hairy it flies moft fingly, unleis it be near their Nefts, whither they flock in valt numbers; there are made of Mosi Boch the Ncfts and Egss are of ah Am colour, bur the laft have black Specks, aind are of the bignels of a Figcon's Egg; I ate fome of them, and they tafted like lap-wings Eggs: The Xolk is very red, and the White blewith; they are tharp pointed at oncend. It W a kind of a Hawk, that feeds upon fonall grey we got bur one, which was tiott its Fleih, becaure We got bur one, which was nlot quite to pieces: fince than thofe of our Coundry spitauergen, are much delincated here, was thor 7 unre the 2oth, at the BirdsJmg pear Spizzurergen. Sec No 66
The Mallemucke has a Bill feverally divided. : The The ifulle uppermoft has fmall longidh Noltrils next to the Head; mm, and underneath them grows ouc as it was a new Bin; rifing up crooked, and into a tharp point. The under part of the Bill is compos'd of four pieces, two where. of mect in a point downwards, cxactly with the poine of the upper Bill; the other two gape upiwards. The Claws and Skin betwixt them is grey, as well as the hindermoft, which is fmaller than the reft: The Tail is broad, and the Wings longifh like the Kirmem. Some are grey all over, fome only on the Back and Wings, but the Head and Belly white. It flics like a Cicaf Mew; it does not much care for diving, flies fingly, has bur fmall Wings, and wabbles a good while betore it can raife it felf from the Ground: As rhey feed upon the Fat of the Whale, fo they follow him in grat numbers, efpecially afrer he is wounded, where they follow the Track of the Blood in the Warer, by which means the Whate is often difcoverd.
It has got the name of Mrillemucke from its fuffering it felf to be kill'd withour firring; for Mell fignifies as much as foolifh or filly, and Mucke a Gnar: If is a vic ry derouring Bird, and will eat till it can fland no longer: It is the firft and moft common Bird you fec in Greenland; their cry; is, at a diftance like the Frogs: It has the leaft Meat of any Bird of Prey I cuer faw; and what it has of it, is very toughand frong; fo that if they are to be caten, you mift hang them up for fomectime by their Legs; -and afterwards lay thein in freth water beforc you fry therm. It builds its Ned high into the Mountains, but not fo high as the Barigormaffer. They are frequendy feen all over in the dorió Sce: This was delineated among the Ice 子une the firf: Sce No (67).

Of fome other Birds noe delinectrad berc.
Befides the fe before-mentioned Birds, I faw a certain kind of Gcefe, calld Red Geffs, with long Legs, and flying in Flocks: Thefe are alfo frequendy feen in Ruflim Normay, and futhnd.
I faw another handfome Bird (callid Folm of Ghent) of the bignefs of a Stork, and of the fame fiape: It is a kind of a Hawk, pied whire and black, very tharpfighted: The Brains of this Bird are highly valued int thefe Northein Parts, bur for what, 1 am not able to tell. They are feen cvery where in the North-Sire, cfpecially where they carch Heriings: I have aifo feen them in the Spanifh Sea. Thefe as well as all the other Birds of Spirinbergen, come hither at certain cimes, abide here as long as the Sun thines, and afterwards reurn in grea focks whence they came before: They reft both in the Water and upon the Land; but which way thofe Birds that have divided Claws, perform their Voyage over Sea (as the Rathfoex, the Snitc, tre. Snom-bird) I am not able to tell.

Of the Four-Leg'd Cretsures.
The Deer of Spitebergen is nor unlike a Hars, with The Dee coven Feer, and Horns nor unlike unto an Elks, and of a greyilh Colour like our Dect: Ii has three or four Branches on each fide abour two Inchics broad, and a Foor long; with long Ears and a fhorr Tail: They run away at the firft gight of a Man, but as foon as you too, they fand alfo, and then you muft fire at them: They are every where abour spitäbergen, but efpecially sear the Hasbour, calld the Reloenfeld (or Dee-ficld) and upon the Fore-tand of Mu/ble-haven. Thicir Meat is very good Foot, but at our furt antival they wièse very lan, which.makes me imagine that they remain Thise is bu linie difference bos)

The Fox:
our Country and thofe of spitzberen. latt have a black Head and a white Body: They live upon Birds and Eggs, They will nor go into the Water, tho never fo itrainly purfued. See No (69). The Bears of Spityorgen are of a guite different dhafe from thofe of our Country, being more like Dogs, with a lons Head and Neck, and the barking of Dogs befides, that they are not fo bulky, and muith fwifer than other Bears. They drefs theis Skins ar Spitabergen in the following mamer: \(x\) They heat Saw-duft, and cread the Skins in it, "which fucking up the Far, renders the Skin chry: They have long and fof Hair. The Nofe and Mouch is black; the Fat of their Feet 1 a good Kemedy againft Rhumarick Pains, and a go Sudoritick, and cafos Womenin travel. - Their Flech is whitith like that of Sheep, but 1 did nor care to rafte ite: Their Milk is alfo very white and Eat; and they have a Head fo chick and firn, that tho' we flruck fome of thern with Cudgels, enough to knock down a Bullock, yer they did nor matrer it, and we were forced to kill them with our Launces. They fwim from pue lee-ficld to another, and will dive fur a confiderabie time: Somerimes they are alfo fecn upon the land. The young ones are diftinguith'd from the old ones, by nothing but their Teeth which in the firft are liollow within, where thofe of the old ones are folid and clofe. Thefe Tacth burne to powder, and given inwardly, diffolves the coagulated Biood. The yount ones kecp qenerally fo clofe to the old ones, thas they" would rather be kill'd than leave old ones, thas they would rather be killd than leave them. Their Food is the Carcaffes of Whales or them. Their. Food is the Carcaffes of Whales or Burging places: They will alfo rem ofen at a living Mm, if they think they can mafter him: They eas alfo Birds and Egec. \(\cdots\) Thar reprefonted ar \(\mathrm{N}^{r}\) (70) we we caught \(f^{\prime \prime}\) the 13 . How the Foxes live in the Wincer-time, I amn not able to cell.

\section*{The Scadio}

\section*{\(0: S c a l s\).} The Scele (calld the Ser-deg, and Ruble byt the Germens) is an amphibious Crcanure, with five Claws on its Fece, ioin'd togecher with i thick Skin Claw Goofe: The Head is not unlike chat of a Dog, with crop'd Ears; tho' fome have rounder, longer, and leancr Heads than orhers. About the Mouth it hias fome thing like a Beard, and Hair on the Nofe and Eye-lides. bur icldom above four: Ir has hollow, large and bright Eyes: The Skin is cover'd with a morr Hair of divers colours, with yellow, red, grey, black and white fpots; like a Tyger: Its Teeth refemble thofe of Dogs, and are to tharp, that they can bite thro a Stick of the thicknefs of a Man's Arm : The Claws anc allo very fharp, black, and long, bur the Tail is but nender. The old ones bark like hoarfe Dogs, but the young ones mew like Cars: They are all lamifh behind; notwichtand ing which, they make thift to climb up on the Icc, where they love to repofe themfelves and fleep, when the Sun thincs; efpecially on the Weftern fhoar, where we faw eniough to have ferved for loading for feveral Ships: And there are many Inftances, that for wanc of Whales, fome Ships have maje their loading with them. The wortt is, that they are very troublefome to flea and are feldom very far ar the time when the Ships arrive on this Coant.
It is a gencral rule, that where the Sec-dogs are feen in grear numbers; but few Whales appear; becaufe the firt derour all the fmall Fifh, Worms; \(\begin{aligned} & \text { ec, before them. }\end{aligned}\) Thofe we opened had nothing bur whitifh. Worms of a Finger's length in their Stomacks.
How chey
When we have a mind to take thern, we get upon one of the Ice-fields, where they lie, and making a great noife, fo aftonith them, that they pull up their Necks as long as Grey-hounds, and in the fright, gives us an oppormunity to ftrike them with Poles and Half-pikes upon their Nofes, till they are half dead. Some of them recover themfelves; and bite at the Men, ruaning zatter vexy fwiftly, notwithftanding their lamenes; for they move like the Eel to the Watcr, where they hide themrelves by diving, and leaving a ycllow Dung behind them, which they fquirt at thole that purfue them, (as the Hern does) and tink abominauly.
We took one of their young oncs alive, but were forfed to kill it, becaufe it would not cai. The biggeft are from five to eight Foot long: That which you fee delincated here, was eight Foot long: The Ear lies three or four Inches thick betwixt the Skin and Flefh: The Far affords the beit Train-Oil, and the Fleth is tery black: It is very full of Blood; the Lungs, L j

Wer, and Heart are exceffive large: Thefe wo Tay in ry rank hacrwaxds boil chem, but they talte ye without ring. has alio abundance of fmall Gurs without any Far within: The Parss deftined for Gencration, confift of one Bone, of a Span long, like chat of a Dos; fome were fearce a Fing bur all covered with fome were. frarce a Finger long Eyes is nor with Sincws. The Cryital of thei mes whire much bigger than a good Pea, rome mur whice, tometimes of a ycllowifh or red co uns: you liave. a mind to kcep them, you munt ler them dry by derres, and fo lay them in a linpicces. They are accounced very fictise whith to are coupling, when no body darcs to approach they "pon the lee, but they kill them our of their Lonc: boar: They are fo tenacions of Life, that one of cight Foot long, after is had received proticions blows on its Head and Nofe, nay, after it was flad, and part of the far taken off, it took hold with its Tecth, of a fhort Pike, fo that we were forcud recth, of a thort Pike, fo that we were forced to run a Taunce thro irs. Heart and Iver when fued forch as much Blood as if ind liver, whence ifOx. Ar another time I tun one of thefe Crearures thro with my Sword upon the Ice, in feveral places, otwithftanding which, it gor away from me inro Water. Sce \(\mathrm{N}_{0}(7 \mathrm{x})\).
The Sea-borfos are near of the fama glape as These-drfe tic Serls, with five Claws boch on their fore, and or Morce. hinder-fect, bur fomewhat fhorter Nails; but thei bulk is muck larger, being of the fize of a Bullock Their Heads are alio rounder and thicker than thof of the Scals. Their Skin, efpecially abour the Neck is very thick, and covered with a thort reddifh or grey Hair, and fometimes of a Moufe Colour. Abor their Joints you fee cerrain flicaks or fonill Plen ke the Liness.in a Man's Hzfid. They ha Pleats age leth. 1 n their upper-Jaw-bore, of one, two, greai Trexh Lips: thole of the young ones are nor fo big.
Some of the old oncs have only one, perbhaps becaufe they haye lost one in fighting, or by chance caute they have loit one in fighting, or by chances; whereas otherwife they are clofe, firm, and heary (the Root only excepred) and then they are healy, beyond Irory, being borh whiter and deerer; and are fedrion make Knive-hafts Bones of: In fucland they Their Mouth is broad like that of an their Cloaths. cral Mouth is broad like that of and Ox ; have fewithin of the bignels of a Suraw; of thefe the Scamen rwift Rings againtt the Cramp. Above che uppermoft Brittles they have two Semicircular Noftrils, ounzof which they fpour Warer like unto a Whale, but with lefs noife and force. The Eyes are ar but with lefs noife and force. The Eyes are at a con̂fiderable diftance above the Noftrils of a our- all over like above the Noftrils, of a red coour leg'd Beafts. Thod, Wath Eye-lids like other near to the Eye-lids, and are not unlike thofe of the Senls. Their Tongue is no lels chan a Near's Tongue, and if eaten foon after it is boird; eats to latably well; but if kept two or three, days, turins rank: As they have 2 very thick Neck, they gerieally turn their Eyes abour inftead of their Head Their Fleth is like Hogs Flefh, bur affords no confiderable quanrity of Far: Sometimes we did ear the eart and Liver for want of berter food.
Their Yands are of a hard Bone, about two their yurth oot long, thick ar the botrom, and lets toward's the end, fomewhat benr in the middle: The fide to wards the Belly is flat, but the exteriour fide round and coverad all over with Sinews: Thefe they allo re to make Knife Hafts of. I judge that they feed oth upon Herbs and Fibhes; the frift I conclude rom their Dung, which is like Horfe-dung; gind for the other, they are ofren feen to play with the Whales Skins upon the Water, after they have been throwin away: The Bird calld the Bargermafter, ears the Sen lie upon the Ire abour the T2th of Stu', like che Seals, and roar moft dreadfully; and will dive under water like the Scals: They will neep/both upon the Ice and the Surface of the Water, 6 , that we fometimes miftook them for dead ones.
They are very fierce Creatures, and will not leave their fieco one another till the laft gafp, when artack'd by the nef. Sea-men, fome dive under the Water, and with iheir Teeth cur holes in the Long-boar, whilft the ref endeavorax to get into ir, by erceting themfelves with half the Body out of the Water. One iof our Har- ponicrs

Chap. XLII A Voyage to Spitzbergen.
ponies had been likely to have been drawn inco'red before they are boils, The Head is broad, donthe Water, had not che Walt-band of his Breeches, in which one of there Creatures had fattened his Tugs, broke. They dort give over as long as any of chem are alive; and, if by reafon of their walt of them are alive; and, if by realtor of their vat multitude, the Boar is forced to fly, they purdue is till they quite loose fight of it: This happened to us July the 12 th.

When they lie upon the Ice in great numbles, the Seamen hear them roar, and fo make towards them with the boat; as loon as the Seahorse lee them approach, the fir gives warning to the next, by ftriking him with his Tooth, and fo it goes on fussceffively, till they all take the alarm, and then they rife, roar and look terribly, make up to the brink of the Iecoficld, and throw thetufelves into the Sea with the ecconcen, and throw shetanetres into the sea with fuck fierceness, that, unless they keep off aloof in the Boar, till mont of them are jumped into the Wa Ter, they will leap into the Boas and over-fer her. their Skin thereabouts being thicker and more solid than that of an Elk. The Harponicr commonly takes the opportunity of flaking or darting the Harpobn-Iron at a Sca-horfe, when he is throwing himfelf from the Ice into the Sea, or is diving with his Head under Water, his Skin being then extendded, whereas, whilst he lies alleep, is is loose and winkled, and the Harpoon will not "fo cafily ene wrinkled, and the Harpoon will not "Lo ceafily enter the Skin. After he is truck with the Harpoon, he runs on for rome time, till he is tired, when the Sca-men by dräwing the Line, bring him to the Boas, where he bites, and makes all imaginable re Boat, where he bites, and makes all imaginable refiftance, till he is fully difparch'd with Lances. After the Sea-horfe is killed, they take only the Head into the Ship, they being taken only for the Head's fake, tho farce one in a hundred has two very one, and many more none ais all.
axtlappoon. The Harmon, and Launce or Javelin for a Se horse, are not above a Span and a half long, and an Inch thick, but the wooden Staff thereof is fix Foot long: The Harpoon for the Whale is nor ftrong enough to pierce the Skin of this Creature. We flaw once fo valt 2 multitude of them lying upon an Icc-ficld, that the weight of them had prefs'd down the Ice even with the Surface of the info the Sea, it was rifer to high above the Sea chat we could farce get upon it out of our Boat. I had it from creditable Hands, fuck as wed the Greenland-Trade, that at a certain time, when they could meet with no Whales, they towed with their
- Boar to the Muff Ifli, where meeting with vat mulexitudes of Sea-horfes, they killed a great many of them, but their number encrealing fatter than they could kill them, they made a kind of Fence of the dead Sca-horfes laid upon one another, leaving only 2 place of the bignefs of a Gate, for the reft to come in one after another; and by this Stratagem Kill 2 sufficient number to make a good Voyage of it: For lome Years there Teeth were much decrer than now. The Figure of chis Beat is delineated at No (72).
Of the Teftaceous Fifhes

Of Teftaccous Fifth, we met only with two forts, viz. Cramfigh and the Starfish. Of the find we obferved four different forts, wiz, the Sea-Spider, (as the French call ir) the Red. Prawn, the Small Pram o Shrimp, and the Whate-Louff.

The Sea-Crapofhor Ser-Spider, has fix Feet and two Claws, but no Tail, being in shape no unlike a Lobster, of a dark-brown Colour, prickly on the Back, and hairy all over the Body. I have fen rome of publish in time) but they differ. from those of Spit bergen in their bigness and head, those Northern ones having Heads like Lobsters, whereas the other referDie with Head and Tail, the gape of 2 Lute. \({ }^{*} 1\) did not cate thole of Spisibergen, neither had It time to delineate them, tho we caught rome June the lgth, in the English Harbour. Afterwards paling tho the North-Sea, nor far from England, we bought a large Tarbut froth ar Hilgenland Filhex-man, which had in its Stomach one of thole Crawfifes; of two pans long.
The Garth There is farce any difference betwixt our Prawns
 and wards, juf behind the Flower-like Star, begin ro foremof compored of Strings two liches high above have fome on both fides to their Exereminics. Thefe Knobs arc foftifh like the Shin of an Egg: Its Legs are fcaly, threc Inches long, broader at the beginning where they have Knobs, and growing nar= rower towards the end. Berwixt the Scalcer on buth fides the Kinobs, come out commonly three or four together lite Warts: Thefe Kinobs when it fwims, are foreal as the Birds do their Featers when they are going to fly. Sce No (75).
\(T\) The frcund
We faw here anntlier fore of fine Star-fifh, which from its refemblance to the Branches of Coral, ought rather to be calld the Coral-finh, being of a bright red Colour: The Boaly has ten corners; and on the upper fide a Star, with as many hays; each of thele are broad at the end, but natrower. where they meet, dike a Pigeoris Tail, and feel rough. The under part of the loody is very curious, having in the midule a Star or Mourh, with fix Poines: All about it, it is fofe to the glace where the legs begin ; and becwixt the beginning of thefe Legs are lote Conavitics. The leces begin where they are largett, having in the middle a kind of hollownes like a Gutter, which feels foft: On the Brim they are covered with Scales, lying one over another: Underneath the Scales are rwifted, and have in the middle forwards, finall black Sercaks, and are jointad like the Plates of the Crawfith. Befides, where the legs proceed from the Body, chcy fread themielves into double Twigs, hollow in the middle, a tiar as to the place; where they are feperated into divers other Branches, growing llenderer by degrees towards the Extremities: The undermof fmall Branches are caly all round, but not twifted, and harp pointed like the Spiders Fect, whence fome Sea-men have given them the name of Sea-Spiders. In fwimaning they draw their Legs together, fut cant live long out of the: Water, and clacir-Body breaks to picces loon after they are dead. When they are a dying, they hend their Legs towards the Mouth. 1 got one of both forts \(\bar{j}\) uly the fifth, before-the inc.g.t, where they fuck alive to our Harpoon fan long" from the end of one Foor to the other, ban that reprefented an N. \(\mathrm{N}^{(76) \text { ), was lefs: The big- }}\) but that reprefented at N(76), was lefs: The biggeit are always thic handromefl. Rondeleius (a) has delincated one of the fame kind, but as his is black, and without Plates, is can"r be the fame Species.

\section*{Of the Finned Fifoes.}

Some Finned Fithes I alfo met withal in this Voyage; fome whereof propagare by .hoocing of their Row, others'by bringing forth their young ones alive. We will begin with the firt kind, and mong them with the Mackril.
The Asartrel. This Fifh is in thape like a Herring, but with a large Fin on his Back, and a fmall one a bittle below it; fomeching lower is another broad one, bur not to large as the firft; and ftill lower you fee five imall ones. more of the lame bignes, and at an equal diftance from one another, belides a very lirtic one near the Tail; fo that on his Back he has two great Fins and feven little ones. Or each fide ncar unto the Fins, is another Fin, and another like the former on each fide underneath the Belly: And towards the Tail, one more of the fame big neds with the third on the Back. Bolow this are five maore of an equal bigncts, and below thefe fitll a zels onic; fo that thofe of the lower patt of the Belly, are equal to thofe of the lower part of the Back. On the Cover of his Gills, and under the Eycs, are a great many fmall holes. This Fin has moft glotious Colours when alive; for the uppermont part of his Back is blew, and fomewhat lower greenith, and the Bclly white :as-Silver, as are allo his Fins: Befides, chat from his Back down the fides, tun down certain black marbled Screaks; his Eyes are alfo black: This I am now defcribing to you, wa catch d in the North-Sca. In the Year 1673, 9 ume the 27th,' we catch'd fome of them ncar the like of Kilda on the back of Scosland, which were hall is fametime
bfind North, a Skin grows over their Eyes, which falls off again in the Summer: In the Summer Seafon I have feen them alfo on the Spinifh Coaft. We wed to catch them with a Line and Hook, baited with piece of red Cloth, or a piece of Herring the Back; the hindmoft is not quiec fo Lroad but exrends a great - Way along the Back, but without Srings. Inftead of Gills he jas two holes in the Neck, on cach fiace of which, are tivo thort Fins and under thele a broad one on cach fide: Underneath the Belly is a long narroty Fin reaching to the Tail. His Head is longifa and lony, with rifing Nofe, and a Tail of an Inch lowat. "Th whole Body is long, rount and thin, in nape nee unlike a young Hay or Sbatk, of a brighr Silver cor lour. They are taken berwixt spitpbey, and the Bears-I/lc: Our Cook gor one by shance near hitand, in drawing up his Rucker out of the Water with fome other Fithes of the length of a Joint of of a Finger, in flape not unlike our Herrings. The Sea-men fay there are divers other forts of fuch Fith in the decp holes berwixt the Mountains, near che Soutli-batich.
The Dolphins are feen in great numbers jumping the Defite Sca before a Storm : Their Heads are like thar of the Pifce, and the Mouth full of fmall flarp Tceth On the middle of the Back is a Fin, hollowed otit towards the Tail like a Half Moon; and rwo more Fins on the lelly, like thofe of the Whale: All thefe Fins are bony, join'd together with a thiin Skin, ficlhy all over, and covered with a thick Skin. The Tail is broad, like that of a Whale, but not cut in, and crooked like a Sichle: The Eyes are fmall and round. They are black, except on che Belly, where they are whire, and five or fix Foor long: I did not think fir to delineate is, the faine being fo frequendy done before by o-

The Butskopf's Head is blunt at the Extremicy : The intert Beak of an cqual bignefs all along, whercas the remoditic olphins is thick, behind, and pointed at the cnd. The Fins are tery like there of the Dolphin, bue his Tail more like the Whale's; and he has ons Spourhole above the Nesk: Some of them are lixtecn, ightecn, and cwenty Foor long. Their Head and Back is brown, bur the Belly white; they will follow the Shin for a grear while ( contrary to what mof other Fifh do ) and fwim apaint the Vind as well as the Whales, Finfifh, Dolphins, Eic. You fce there fors of Finh fometimes rumbling in the Sea, which, thoo by fome called playing, I belicve to procect from a certain pain they are fubject to at that time, it having been obferved, that the fame ceafes as roon as the Eaft Wind changes to auother Corner We faw another forr of Burskopf, with quite blume Heads, and a large Fin fanding up threc rimes high er than the others: They were of the fame bulk but fomeching more inclining to a dark-brown. They were neither Swordfith, nor what we call Tumblers fuch as are ofren feen between the Ihigelind, and the River Elbe.
This is a fort of Whitefin, different from ours Weing of the fize of a large Butskopf, not unlike Whale, without Fins on his Back, bue two on his Belly, as I was told, by thofe that have caughe them. His. Tail is allo like the \(u\) balc's, and he has an Hoffel on his Head, like that Animal, and 2 fpour-hole near the Neck : Its Colour is palc-yellow. When the Sca-men fee plenty of them, they prefage themflyes good fuccefs in catching of whiacs, becaufe they live upon the fame Food. I faw a valt maltizude of them func the 19th.
I had not the good. fortune to meet with the The Unimet fight of the Fith call'd the Tinicom in this Voyage tho' fometimes they appear in good numbers. was told that he has no Fin on his Back, bux has a Spout-hole on the Neck, which does nor agrse wish the Curs I have feen of them. They lwim in Sboals, holfting their Teeth out of the Water:: In Sape they are not unlike the Scais; but the undermott Fins and the Tail refemble che LFibale's. Some are black, ochers dappled grey, bur white on the Bely: They are fixteen eighteen, or tweaty Foot lout, and fwim with fuch fwifunefs; as not to be caught withour much difficulty.

The Sawfin or Smordfif, has go: iss name from a The Sum broad Bone fax'd to its Nofe, with many bony-point- \(f\). ed-pegs or Tecth on borth fides, like a Saw or Comb. On its Back are two Fins; the furthermof like the Butskopf"s; the hindernoft has towards the Tail, a hollownefs like a Sickle. Underncath the Belly are four Fins swo on each fide; thofe towards the Head four Fins, two on cach hac ; thole wawards the head are the braxdef and longeft \(;\) tur the. Iowermott, which stand directly oppofite to the uppermof Fins of the Back，are both thorter and narrower．The Tail is nor cut or divided，but refembles a piece of board，on which the Dies ftretel their Stockings， being pointed behind and underneath，and thinner to－ wards the lower Fin of the Back ：Its Shape from the Head to the Tail resembles a Mari）Arm firetchid our naked：The Nostrils are longuilh；the E：cs find high nut of the Head，wish a Month ilireetlywndeanady then They are from two to twenty Foot louis

This Fifth is a profersit Enemy of the vinic．
they pet about him in great numbers，and don＇t cate

Within，on the uppermolt Lip，lies the Wiale－bone，raw a brown，black，and yellow Colour，with Itreaks of different colours，like the Bones of the Linfifh． The Wintemes of the young ones are blew or blew－ in．It one of the Cuts you fie the wheli－bume， N （77）；but in the other Cut you dunt fee it，his， Mouth being that up．The bifloly within the Mouth is all hairy，like Horfehur of as you fee also in the kinjifer，and hanging down on bork fides all Mons．The mallet wimic－i\％is before it do before；they fright awn the smew itfifl）． Of ere， 15 the Bulk of the whole Filly，The werchere lies we haw had two Hins on the Back，the firemolt，and rewards the lips hike a Half－Moon．On each whereof is like to the uppermolt of the But＇s Head；bide are 250 Pies，which makes \(; 00\) in all，betides but the lowermost of ain equal breadth all over，but the binal lrai－ion which grows underneath the hollowed ont like a Sickle：Underneath the Belly are Root，where the sher vistula－ane is broadest，mott lix Fins；The two foremost are the longest，of the of which is not cur our t，as being very narrow where chape of a Tongue ；the two midedemoft a little brow－the two Thees meet．This finally wist－ture does not dee that thole near the Tail，and of the fame thape；grow bigger，but is of an equal bigness，from one and the two late by the Tail，of an equal breath end to the other．The great woulowe is broader from the top to lxyenm，but a little fherter than the at the ton，where it is joint to the urger Lip， middle ones．One half part of the Tail is like overgrown with white and hard Smews no ar the chat of the Spordfifh，but flit below：and the other Root；to that betwixt tiv fixes of at ane fart refcubles in tape the Leaf of a Lilly．They you may put in your Hand．The le sinews look of very harp Teeth；three upper and three under by the Spaniards；fuel pleafantly cinch white tows，one by the other ：The Eyes are longuifh and：Ircth，but think horribly when rotten；they ate bot very clear，tending our more before than behind．tough，and of no ill tate．The breice－onc is um－ －They have five Gills on each file like the Spordfifh：derneath narrow and pointed，and covered with Hairs， －Their Skin is hard，thick，and rough，inclining to a but without hollow like a Gutter，and jointed over grey：They are long，round，and thin；thicket t to－tone another like the Plates of \(C\) aweigh，or Tiles of a wads the Head，and from one to three Fathom in Houfc．I an of opinion that the fe Hairs might be Length．They are very voracious，and will not only employed，as the Spaniards do with the wide simper－ bite great pieces out of the Whale，but alto devonremo adios（call by them Sauna）which they dress Man if they can lay hold of him，being very ca－like Flax or Hemp，and make．Packthread＇s and Stuffs ger after Man＇s Fifth．The Flefh of their Back，if ours of chem． terwards boils or roasted，cats tolerably well．In ll white，and to is the Tongue，but deco with died 7 ne j Spain they fell there Fifth for good Mar，but the lit－black foots：le is very large，and ty dope to the catch them，wheaten fatten a large Iron Hook which being very foot，and consequently very diff－ in a frons Ito Chain and having baited it with a ， catch chis greedy tit

The ， 4
Ships froths

a his \(F\) in swat on them．tiff Sinews，our of css of the bigncls of a Man＇s Hand，won to noted cd together，and thrown againft the Ground，why bound very high，like the Balls made of the Sipesvis of Srargcon，and fore ocher Creatures．The White having no othicr Fins，there ferve him inftead of Cars．

His Tai lies Horizontal，like that of the Finfib， Butskopf，\(& \mathrm{ic}\) ．and is three，three and a half，and four Fathoms broad． herd．The Head makes up a third part of the whole tries grow on the upper and under Lips，which are wite plain，fended almost like an \(S\) ．and enter fate Eves before the no Fins．Upon the uppermon lip are black，or rather dark－brown Streaks，as crook－ ci as the lips：Thee are both finooch，and quire black，round like the quarter of a Circle：when ever they draw them．together，they lock unto one ago－ her：Nay，on the under Lip is a certain Concavity unto which the upper Lip is fo exactly adapted，as a Sheath is to the Knife．I am of opinion，that tho this he draws in de Water，which he afterwards blows our again．

Oil．On his Head he has a Bump or Knob before the Eyes and Fins：On the top of it is on each fistic a Spour－hole，directly opposite to one another，bend ed like an \(S\) ，throw＇which he blows the Water with fuck vioknes（like the Wind in a Cave）that you may hear it at a League＇s distance；but when he解 wounded，he forces is out with Such＇s fierce ene ts than is－roars like the Wind in a Trumpet Behind thin Kors his Head is fomeching more bended in； wind an acer en behind it is pony fart of his x

 bone，what e the so the Head，＂and precinct and therefore is caliett to be wide then Mole of them are red or y the Back and Belly ；their cure the Mane of them are white underneath the Belly， and fame alto coal black：Others are jontibled on the Back and Tail．Anyone the black：ones，font ap－ poach to the colour of a Tench．One of our Hat ponies told me，He caught once a Whale at Spirit－ bergen，that was white all over：Half white ones have feed several，and among the reft，once 2 bean－ diful Female，marbled all ares with black and rel－ ow，but they looks the beauty of their Colours when the Skin is dry by the Sun；of otherwise． They are as slippery as an Eel，but chair Flell be－ ing very fofl，you may ftand upon them lecure \(\mathrm{k} \div \mathrm{F}=\mathrm{B}\) rough enough: The outward Skin is as thin as Parchment, full of large Pores, which is cafly pulld off afer the Whate has over-heared himfelf; or the Skin is otherwife dry'd by the Sun, but fimells ftrong of Train Oil.

The Yard of the Whale is ä ftrong Sinew, of , refs of the Animal: Where it is fixed, it has a double Skin, lying juft like a Knife in a Sheath. The Members of Gencration in the Female, are abfolutcly like thofe of the four-legd Beafts; only that on the fides thercof ftand out two Breafts with Nipples, ercerts. like thofe of our Cows: There Breafts are fomerimes white, fometimes fpeckled with black and white fpots. They ate not very large, if. they have no young ones; of which'tis faid, they have never any more than two at a time. How long they go with them is very difficule ta be determin'd, tho fome allo them the fane time as to a Cow; but withour the leaft certainty, I was credibly inform'd, that when they couple together, they faint upright, clofe to one another; with their Heads out of the Water Theis Sperm The Sperm of the 10 thele before it cools, is white and vircid, fo that fou may draw it like Sealing wax or Glew, and fmells like Whear boild in Witef; but afierwards it turns to a Mukk Colour, frnells rank, and little red Worms grow in is, like unto the grey ones delineated at \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}\) (78). Tab. P. markid Divers Ex.
preanentr of make it like 1 vain. I dry'd it in the Sun; but after the thit Aime was cvaporated, it look'd like the Fila Metc mitia, but fomewhat thicker and heavier. Some I in Sea-warcr, which after it was evaporated eft nothing bur fome Sea-kalt, and a nafty brow Slime. The third Experiment I made by boiling it in freht Water, and afterwards in Sea-water, but the longer. I kepe it the more it ftunk, and turn'd quite hard. The fourth Parcel I laid ins Sea-water, with an intention to carty it to Hambourgis but it diffolved by degrecs, and ftunk to vehemently, that I was forced to throw it away: This Sperm fwims in abundance upon the Surface of the Water, efpecially in calm weather, as does alfo that of the Seahories and Seals.

Where the Yasd bepins, it is four fquare, confifting of many ftrong Sinews, which if dry'd, are as tranfparent as Fifh-glew, and ferve the Sea-men to twift Whips of.
Thcis Bont Their Bones are as hard as thore of the fourlegg'd Beafts, but very porous; fo thar when they aredryd and the Marrow is confumed, they will hold a great deal of Water. Two fuch large Bones fuftain the under-Lip, lying one againf the ocher, both making the Figure of a Half Moon, but one alone the Figurc of a quarter of the Moon. I faw fome of them lying near the Shoar, at Spitthers cor, of rwenty Foor long, very whire, and dalcined by the Sun: for before they are dry the the fion filthily, by reafon of the marrow the onoutain
Their Flefh is hard fike. Balls sment, iateif with many Sinews. and ns all che Far lies fthe Skin and the Elem, fo is is very dot
 The tenderef and beft pattishand, hers. The Fat is matudarifmallNerves, which moit textwobe Evemity of the Tail, which ferves this grefe Fiff for 2 Rudder, is his Fins do inftead of. Oars, therewioh fiet fwims with incredible fwift nefs, leaving a Tacte in the Sea like a great Ship andes tail.

The thales of the North-Cape (or fuch as are caughe berwist spitizbergen and Normay) being nor fo big, afford not above ten, twenty, or thirty Cardels of Fat; whereas the middle-fized ones of Spitzbergen sield ferenty, eighty, or ninty, and are betwixt fifty and fixty Foot long. Our biggeft was 53 Foor long and filld us 70 Cardels. Peter Peterfon of Friegand rold me, he had once raken a dead Whale, she Fat whereof filld 130 . Cardels; tho the was not mach longer than ours: whence I infer, that they don't grow much longer, but only in thicknets or fat nefs.

The Fat is, befides the thin outward \(S k\) in, covered with another abour an Inch thick, of the fame colour as the outward Skin of the Fifh: It is neither ftiff nor tough, bur britele when dryd, and confsquently of no great ufc. The Guts of the Whale are of a Flefh colour, containing, bedides much Wind, a yellow dung.

The Food of the Whales is fuppoted to be the 2inis Fort Imall Snails, mentioned in another place (Sec \(\mathrm{N}^{\prime \prime}\) नq). 1 was told of a Whale taken near Hitland, that had above a Barrel of Herrings in his Belly. For the fent, the Whale feems to be no couragious Fin conrecring his vaft bulk; for he rons away under Waier at the fight of the Ship, and hurts no bedy, unlefs forced thereunto by neceffity. Afier be is ttruck with the Harpoon, he will. fwim away fafter than a Bird can tly, and draw fome thoufands of Fathoms of Rope-line atter him.
In the Spring the Whales have their Station to the Weft of Spistbergen, near Old Circenland and the lile of folm Meyen; afterwards they to to Syirabe his As foon as the Finfifh appear, you fec no more Whales, Frobably they go to other places. I faw Findiftes in the Spanifh-Sea in 1671 in December, and in 160 in Fanuary; and in 1673 in the Streights of cit Whaltar in March, and alfo in the Mediterianean. The Whales feem alfo to be fubjeet to certain Diftem pers: An ancient Harponier affured me, that'he onc caught a Whale, the Skin whereof (efpecially near che Tail) hung as loofe as Rags; he afforded bai little Far. which was white, and as cmpty as a Eo.
ney-Comb. They are much romented with the Draught of which, fee N o ven them by the Harpoonin the Far, heal up again, as may be feen by the white Scart that appear in many Whale that are canght afterwards.

\section*{How they catch sbe wiate.}

If they mect with many Seals (which devour the rood of the Whales) they promite themflyes not many Whales; as on the other hand if they fee sood at \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}(79)\) bite-fifh and fmall Sca-Snails, delin"ased at \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}(79)\), they look upon them as the Forcrunners of many 1 Hales, which they take iñ the following manner. As foon as they fee or hear a Whale fpciut, they call our Fall, Fall, when every one hattens to the Long-boat he belongs to (lix or feven to a Boat) and fo they row towardst the wale: When they are come near him, the Harporituwhico fits

 frer him with not

 Ywa ware thicker tind fronger than the Forerunncr Wade of tought Hemp, and tarr'd over. They muft begrary careful that Lincs be. not entangled, or that they \(H\) tiot out on the fide of the Longbous, bat jut before ( calld the State) without which, they would be over-let. To prevent the Rope and Wood from catching Fire by the violent motion, the Harponier wets the Wood continually with 2 wet Mop. The other Mon in the long-boar, take alfo care of the Ropes, boch at letting out and taking in again: The Stece-man ftands behind in the Long-boar, ftering is with an Oar, as occafion we-(c) sen? quires: The Harponier endeavours to dart the Har- (s: poon as near as he can behind the Spout-hole, or the Privy Parts, which fooner enfeebles che Whale than if he hits him in the Belly; and if he frikes him upon the Head, he does him bur little hurr; becaufe the Fat bcing but thin upon. the Bones, the Harpoon eafily breaks our, and the Whale gets away.
The Harpoon is fhaped like an Arrow before (Sce The Hipp: in Tab. Q. at F.) with two Beards fharp at the Edge, but broad back'd like a Hatchet, elfe it could tear our. The Iron Handle is thicker cbehind than before, and hollow, wherein is fix'd the Stick (d). Bc- (d) ser fore this hollow part, the Forerunner is faftened (c). (c) (e)). se \(x\) The beft Harpoons are made of fine Sreel, but not (e) much hardencd，elfe they would finap，and many Whales（one whereof is worth two hundred Pounds） be loft．The wooden Stick is faftened within the toon Funnel with Packthread wound all about the Iron．Somewhat higher，about two Spans off，is a Holc matc thro＇the Stick，whicere the Forernmer is fiffened to it（c）．Afrer the Whale is ftrwik．with the Harpoon，the other Long－boats run out lefore， and takc notice which way the fine ftands，and omerimes pull（f）whether the Whale ttill draus with all his flecugth，or grows fecble，and that the d ine legins to hang loofe；then they begin to pull in the Rope again，which the line－furnifier cakes care to lay round one row upon another，that，if the＂Whate hould draw again，it may te ready without being cnangled（h）．If the What：runs u＇on a lexel，they uult nor give him tod much Rope，for tear he hoold wind it abour fome Rock，and fo tear out the Harpoon．When chacy com：near the Whalc a－ pain，they kill hin wirh Lances；the longer the Whale lies dead in the Water，the higher be fwims above it；fome 2 Foot high，others to the mid－ die．

If the wouncied Whate erets among the lec Sheets，where the Roats cant follow him；the Har－ ponict at the Head of the Long－Poas，trics whether the line be fiif，and if he fears the Whale will draw the Bott under water，he takes the Chopping Knife（i） and aftex having，drawn the Rope in as much as they can，he chops it off；fo that fometimes they loofe thus the Iines of many hundred Farhoms length，and the （a）sec Tab．Whale efcapes their Hands（ \(k\) ）；and，if timely care ans \(\{87\) ）．be not taken，the Long－boat is dathed and folic a－ gainft the lee．When they are wounded，they fpour our Water and Blood，that i－roars like a Cannon， and cinges the Sca；but this Noile abates by de－ grees，as they become feeble．They blow our at the fame time a certain fattifi．Tabftance，which fwims upon the Sca；and as this affords the moft delicinus Food to the Matlennucken，fo they follow the Whale long boats of arother Ship dart in rheirs，and often carry oft the whale：lf rwo Harpoons belonging to ferctal Ships 估隹e the Whale at the fame time， they ，divide the Finh equally（b）．The Sreerfman muti
－oun to oblcre how the Whale curns and winds，that they may cry row cn，or ftrike，i．e．row near to the Whale，or kecp off，that the Harponier －k lances．may reach him with his launce．This launce has a wooden Handle of rwo Fathom long，pointed be－ fure like a long 也Pike，with a tough Sreel，（c）of car a rathom long，wherewith after they have made a great hole in the Body of the Whale，they poke in－ to it every way，as＇they do when they poke Eels（d）．
（iilse in．And，if one remains fticking in his Body，they take another，every Boat having five；fix，or feven of thele Launces．

Hoip they manage the dend Whale．
After the Whate is killd，they cur off the Tail， which lying crofs the Boat，hinders it in iss Courfe． Before the Tail they faften a piece of Rope，and at the other end，at the Stern of the laft Sloop，four or five（c）of them thus faftened，rowing one behind， the other to the Ship．When they have brought the Whale to the great Ship，they faften that part where the Tail is cur off，to the fore part，and the Head abour the middle towards the Stern，near the grear Shrowds of the Main－malt，oni the Lar－ board frde（for feldom any Whale reacties further） The Larboard is that fide of che Ship at the Right hand as you go from the Poop to the Stern，as that fide on your Right－hand，when you go from the Stern to the Fore－part，is caH＇d the Star－board．They fre guently climb up the Mafts to fee whether they can See a Whale，for che firft Difcoverer has a Ducat for his Pairs．
The deal Whale being thus faftened to the Ship， two Sloons on the other fide of the Whale，are haul＇d by a Man by means of a Hook，to the Ship； in thefe ftand two Harfonicrs，who cur off the Far， for which they hare a Reward of four or five Rix－ dellars．The firt piece they ar from behind the Head by the Eyes，Being larger and wider than all the xeft they cur．This they call the Kenser－piecc， and reaches from the Water to the Cradle（or the round Circle abour the Middle－maft）by which you may guefs at the bulk of a Whate．A Atrong and thick Rope is dawn thro＇a hoic if this Kenter－picte， whereby the Whale is born out of the Water，bet ing fattened to the Cradle；whence you may guts at the Toughnefs of this Fat（f．Then they cuc a－（f）se w nother piece near this，which is alfo haulled up cifes the Ship，and there cut into．Irfs picces of a loot quare（ 8 ．．．The Kinives of the swo Men that ut the pen see ：o iquare pieces，as well as of hofe that cut che lat＇s， from the Whale，are with the Hates abont fie：Fuot long：The mote they have chit of of the rat，the more they lift up the Whate with their Pullie， that they fiay come the calict at the rett；which is alfo the Reaton they eften ftand upon Nails falleti－ ad into the Body of the．Whale．Two Men ttand in the Ship With large Hooks tive loot long，where with they Lold up the great pices of Far，till it is cut froo fquare pieces，which are received by another Man ftanding hard by，by means of a horr Hook， and lad upon a Drefing－board，where they are cur bothers into lefs pieces：Thefe ftand upon the Srarboard－file，（a）．The Far of fome whales is（z）ses whice，of fome yellow，and of others red．The（93）． White is full of lirele Sinews，and yields not fo much Oil as the yclow，which looks like Butcr，w and as the beit．The red comes from dead Whales：The finall or minced Far is chrown into a kind of a Gutter，with a kind of Bag at the end，reaching down inen the Ship，whence the Far rims ante a wooden Velfel，and is afterwards put up in Cardels （as they call them）and to is kere till chey tuy it up into Train－Oil．After the Fat is cut off from one fide of the Whate，before they turn him，they cut out the Whale－bone in one cotire piece，and at－ serward that of the other fide in othe fame manner cither of which is fo heayy，that the whole Shit＇s Crew has cnough to do to pall it up，by means of certain Crane made like a Beam of a Pair of Scalcs，with two tharp Points on each end，which being fixed in the Whale－bows，they draw it up with Ropes．The dead Carcaltcs of the Whales，at－ ter their Fat is cut off，are thrown into the Sca， and ferve for Food to the Birds of Prey，but effe－ cially to the Wiate－berts，who at that time（I fup－ pofe by reafon of cheir feeding upon Carrion）thed their Hair and turn ycllow；fo that their Skins are of litule value，（b）．

\section*{How they ory the Ticim－Oil from the Era．}

Formerly the Dutch ufed to try our their Train－ Oil at Spitibergen，at the Cookery of Hailen（of which before，．The Firnch－men generally try it up in theis Ships，which having occalioned the burning of feve－ ral Ships，our Councrymen have fince pirch＇d upon another way，vin．to put up the Fat into Veficls，where－ in is ferments like Beer，and the greareft part turrs Train－Oil in them．At Hembougis they put the Fat out of the Veffels into a large wooden Tub，whence is is emptied in a great Copper fer in Brick－work and flattifh like a Frying－pan，containing a huadrei and twenty， 2 houdred and thitty，and ofien a hun－ dred and forty Gallons．After it has boild for fomertime，in is taken our of the Copper with rmall Kercles，：and pur into a Sieve；that the liquid part may run：into a great Tub，underneath the Sieve and；Falf filld with Water to cool the Train－Oil， and to feparate the unclean and dirry paxt from the clear Train：Oil，＇which fwims upon the Water，the reft fering，on ：the botcoin．．．This great Tub has 2 Spour or Tap almoft at the top，by which the Train－ Oil is let our into another Tub，alfo half filld with Water，wherein it is more cooled，and rendered clear－ er than before：Another Tap in this Tub conveys the clear Train－Oil into a Vatr in the Ware－houfe， whercour they fill it into the Train－Oil Barrels which hold thirty ：wo Gallons a－picce，bur a Car del holds fixty four．Some ufe Bur two Tubs，and ry a brown Train－Oil，the fecond tinge out of the Greaves；others fling them away after the firf try－ ing．

\section*{The Finfin．}

The Finfifh is much of the fame lencth of the Whale，tho the laft has threc times his bulk：The frit is diftinguigh＇d by the Fin on his Back near the Tail，and his－fictec： Spouting our of the Water； beyond what the Whalc does：His Knob on the Head is alfo fplit in length at his Blowing－hole，and lis Back is 7 bot do much bended. His Lips are browinth, and Tike a twilted Rope; and on the uppermott hangs the Whate-bone, like in the Whale Some lay he man's open his Mouth, but chat is a Iab'e. lietwixt the Whate-bone is all hairy; the newertrown. Whale-bone is blew, bur the other darkbrow, with yellow Straks. He is not fo black as fome of the Whates, but rather of the colour of a licuch. As he is not fo fat as the Whals, and norote dangerous to be satchid, the Sca-mon fearce tank him wimth their Laboor.
The Tra:n-(in of the Whale is ufed by the Frizemakers, Curriers, Cloath-workers, and Soap-boilers; hut the greatit part is thed in Lamps.. The Grenlavd Shins carry from thirty to forty Tun, according to their bignets, and have cither five or fix Sloops belonging to them: Their vurthen is from four humdred to a thouland Cardels of Fat. When they go our in the Long-Loats or Sloops, there remain only aboard the Ship, the Stecr-man, the Barber, the Chyrurgcon, the Cooper, and a Roy; the Matter gocs along with the reft. Each Ship has fixty Iances, is Sea-horte Manc., forty Harpoons, ninetecn long Whepoons, wherewith they ftrike the Whate under Water, fix taall Sca-horfe Harpoons, thirty Lines or Ropes of cuphty or ninay Fathoms cach. Befides Fevers and Imboftumes, thesicursy is the mont general Diltmene in this Vo;age; but fuch as are active and wie continual cxercife, arc nor much aticted with is.

\section*{The Rocz-finh and Sca-Qualm.}

The Rot - fing (or Sime-j/ia) is nothing but a tratiopacit flime I have leen divers kinds of them; Fome whereof haic fomething refembling Fins, like That which I call the S:-Mat-Flis: Others tefemblethe the Snai's, cacept that in lien of Fins they have Seaths not unlike Fathers. I obforved beffacs thele, fotir other forts very diffectnt from the former, beingonly a thitis coaguated Sam of the Sca: The Scamen call them Sea-Qucims, and others Sca-Nictrles (after the Lutin ; becaufe they burn like Nertes. Ail the tilth of the Sca titick to them, juft as a Rurr does unto Cloath.

\section*{Ilc Sex-May-Flic.}

The Ser-Mcy-Fi:es are alfo tranfpareat, and will diffolve in your Hand like the Scr-Nertles: They have rwo Fins ncar the Neck, nor unlike thofe of the Whale: chey are broad and thick in the middle, and poinited at both chids; for the relt, thacir Bodies refemble our May-fites, excepe that the body is thicker all along, and pointed at the end. The Head is broad and round, and folit in the middle, with Horns of a Straw's breadth only: Bcforc on the Head are two rows of fix fmall Knobs ( threce in a row ); whecher there be the Eycs, 1 will not derermine: The Mouth is fplit alfo, whence downwards you fee yellow and blackin Guts thro the Skin, by reafon of its tranfparency: The out-fide of the Filh is of the Colour of the White of an Egg, and he moves in the Sea like a Sca-ncttle. I Luppore he affords Food to the Lambs, ligecm-divers, &c. becaufe they are moft feen where thefe Sea-infects are fourd The tame you fee delineated at \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}\) ( 56 ) according to their bignefs, we found the zoth of fune in the South-hay ar Spisflergen.

\section*{Tis Spail-fime-fith.}

The Snitifine-gife is flat, and rurn'd like a Snath, fuck as we find the Shells of fometimes mpone-che Land; for the reft, is is tranfparent like the siencithc. Oar of ats utmoft pare come two brown hairy Salks, wherewith it moves like the Sen-netric. They fivin in prodigious numbers in the Sea, and ber by fome fuprofed to afford Food to the Whales; bur as they are farce noutithing enough so produce fo much Far, I conecture that the Lumbs and fuch like Birds feci upon them. They refemble a Spider ar a ditrance, bur. for the reft, have not the leaft affinity to chem. We faw many of them Fune the, 20th, in the Soutt-boy as Spicabrergen, bur never any among the Fc.

\section*{Tbe Hat-Rime-fifl.}

The Hat-lime-fifh, or Salk-nime-fifh ( 10 calld from its ilhaps) is like a Tuad-itool, with a round and thick Stalk reaching up into the middle of the Head, which is a blew Button, or knob of double sthe chicknefs of the Stalk; like a Woman's Straw-hat. From the Stalk downwards is grows round and thick again, yer much lefs chan the Head. They widl ger unter Water and come up again, jut as a Stick forced under Water, rebounds up again. I gor feveral in the Nortb-Sed, between Hilgeimel. and the Elice; as allo at Ǩuck's-Hewch withina whe Mouth of the titibc. Some cold ane that they come up that River as far as kigithes.

\section*{Tic Role like Slime-fulh.}
 cumberence, but a lietle indenced between his double Streaks or Rays, of which there are fixtecen fpringing out fingly from the midate of the Body, but fubdivicle chembicives afrewards into two Eranches Chy are redbrown, and have their Rife from the Circuunfisence of a fmall Circle. in the middle of che Dody: As the Extremities of thefe Rays, near the outward Circmanference, are thixty two fpots: The Body is white and tranfparent, which it draws together and extends again at plenfore: In is hollow within, which I fuppoles to be the Belly, becaufe I found two or thrce Shrimps in this Concavity. Round about it hang down feven finall brown Threads like fpun Silk: The whole exrent of its Body was alour a Span in length, and might wcigh abour half a Pound; the Threads were of the tame ength. We gor fome of thefe near Lithent; for theie threc firits forts of Scn-lun:ms are almoft infinite in the North-Sea bus are not fo pumacrous abour Spitargen: They twim upon the Water in calm Weather, but eo to the botrom in a Siorm.

\section*{Tles Slime-finn like a Crp.}

July the eighth, near the Mublebliaen at Spistbergon, we faw in a calm Day two forts of slime-fff, one whereof was lix-corner'd, the other with eight Corners: The firft had fix Purpie ftreaks, with blew Brims; betwixe which, the Body was dittinguin'd into fix Ribs, like a Pumpion. From the middle of the Body did hang down two Threads of fmall Hairs, red and rough, haped like the Lertor V. I did not find them to move in fwimming: Within the Body were other hroader Sreaks of a Purple Colour, with light-blew : Edges.: They reprefented like the Lerter W. The whole Body was milk-white, not fo tranfparent as that of the next following, abour as big again, as yon fee ir delincated at No ( 97 ): It weigh'd rwo Ounces : It' did nor burn my Hand, but diffolved in ic like a Slime: Its alape is like a Cap.with Corners.

\section*{The Slime-fin like a Founcain:}

The faft Slime-fik is very remarkable: At the op in has a roindifh hole like a Goofe-quill (which Ifuppore to be the Mouth ) terminating (into 2 Cavity like a Funnel: From this hole arife four Streaks, two and two exactly oppolite to one anocher, two of which are cur tranfverfeway, the other wo not: The laft are about half the breadth of a Suraw, and the firft (which refemble the Back-bones of a Snake) full as broad as a Straw: From the middle of the Funnel proceed four other Screaks, tike the Back-bones of a Snake, but come down lower than the former, and make up eight in all: As we surn"d and look'd upon then," they reprecentcd to us all the Colours of the Rain-bow, and like a Fountain with eight Spouts, whence fome have given ir the Name of the Feuncain-fift. From the end of the Funnel within the Body, arifes fomething jike ax Cloud, divided into Branches, which I fuppofe to be the Entrails. At the Extremities of the before-mentioned ourward Streaks, the Body firft bends a litule inward, and afterwards turns off round, and kas many fimall Streaks. It was of the fame bignefs as you fee ir reprefented as \(\mathrm{N}^{\circ}\) (98): It weigh'd abour four Ounces, and was whice ail over: Ir did nor burt ones Skin, bur diffolved into Slime. Some others
others of thefe Sen-Netales I faw fince in the Spa-themencly, that they raifed Blifters, and cren Inflama-nifi-Ser, of a purple, blew, yellow, and white co- tions, of which I referve the Draughr and Defcription lour, and weigh'd Ceveral Pounds: They burne fo ve- for another Opportunity.

\section*{C. н A P. XLIII.}

\section*{A Supplement to Captain Wood's and Marten's Nortb-Ea/L Voyage, containing their Navigations and Obfervations ta the Nortb-Weft of Greenland, and other Nortbern Regions.}

Cberry and other Manis.

GRecrinnot is by our Navigators fuppofed to and Female; the Female died at Sea, but the Male livea be a grear number of Illands very near, ten Weeks in Engibiad. In 1610, two other Ships were one anochce, or elic a broken Land: If: fent chither, who after they bad kill'd many Bears, bas been difcover'd on the Weft fide to Fowl, and S'all, took poffection of the Ifc for the Myt. cighry two Degres. The North Point they calld croia Company furc the fificenth. In Cull-5:ind thy Point Purctass, whecre they found many. Ifes, untol difcover'd thrce Lead Mincs, and a Coal Minc on thic which they have given no Names, except fix or North fide of it. Three more Ships came to fill at eight Harbouts.- On the Eaft fide chey naver went Cbery-ffand; ; they kill'd five hundred Morfes at ouk tejond fercury cighr Degrecs, being difturbed by the time, and at another time three hundred more. The Dxich.
Here are fome Xlands, as the Fopoc-Ifand, ciifcoered in r613, which perhaps is the fance the Dutsh call Willoughly's Lend, or Fobn Majen's ife tho is has no grear recemblance to cither, being a finall Illand, fing North-Eatt and Souch-wcet; whicre-as the Country ncar which Sir Huph 4 Filloughty faild 10 many Days abour, muft bc a largc Country, lying North to South.
Edge's Ife owes its difcovery to Captain Thomas Edge name, and was dikcoverd in 1617. By the Relation given by Otrrear the Normergian, to Alfred King of Ena lend, where he fays that the Morfes were hunred for their Tecth, it appears rhat Whale and Moric-fifhing was wred above 800 years ago.
The time of the firt difovery of Cberv-Iffe is unknown, but not the Year when it received iss namic (in 1603) from Sir Francis Chery, who fer oar a Ship thither, which found fome Lcad and a Morfe's Tooth there ; but could noc fay by reafon of the adranced Seafon. But in " 1604 , another Ship was fene April the fifteenth from Loridon, whhich arriving at Coln in Lapland May the firft, ftaid there till Fuly the firt, and \(\mathcal{F}\) fiy the cighth cane to an anchor on the S. S. E. fide of Cberry-ile; but being prevented from landing by the rapidncs of sho freank; they were forced to go round about the Thec; wherc oncof them landing, killd with his Gun as many Foowl as loaded their Boat; for the reft, they faw no other Beafts but Foxes: This Port Watifining was ar 74 Dcgrees 45 Minutes. \(\mathcal{F}\) thly the tenth, they came to an anchor in another Bay as cight Fathoms, where coming athoar, they faw a vait number of Morfes, and fhor ar them. feveral times with three Guss; but tho they lay thuddling rogether like Hogs, they could nor kill abore fiftecn our of a thouland, hut before the thirtecnith killd a hundred more and ponly kery their Tecth. In 1605 the fame Ship and Perfons arrived there a fecond time, Ftot the fecond; and going aftoar fuly the fixth, kill'd abandance of Morifes, haying now found the way to diffatch then with lances. They alfo brought away about thircy Tun of a Lead Oar, found near Munns-mimfrrs. In 1606 they went once more and landed Fuly the thind, \(2 t 74\) Degrecs \(s \varsigma\) Minures; they ftaid till the Shoar was cleared of the Ice (for the Morifes will not cone aftoar before). where at once they new berwixt feven and eight hundred Morfes, with their Teech filld three Hoglheads, and made tiventy two Tuns of Oil of chcir Fax. In \(x 608\), it was fo hor Tuns of Pha ship was inct in fere hores that the Pirch of the Ship was sncired, in feven hours they killd ninc bundred Morfss; they fild two Hogslieads with their Tecti, and made thinty one Tuns of Oil: They alfo took aliye riwo yourg Morifi, a Male Defcription of the Morle or Sea-horic, fecin the Voyrge to Spititurger. Some fuprofe Chrir-IIcuid to be the lame with what the Dutch call 7 chn mesecmes Ihe, tho \({ }^{\circ}\) crroncoully; for the Northernof Point of that lics ac 7 Degres 23 Minutes; whereas this (accordeng to the Calculation of the Dutcib) is as 74 Degrees 55 Minutes. Wcades, Cher -Ifand is round, and not frequened by Whales This our Men cravell'd on Foor from North, to Sourb, which can't be done in Mayens Inc, neither do they make any mention of the Bears Mortutain. HapiIgand is indeed a long lac, like Mayens Illand, bur lies more to the North.
Goin Meyen's Jfle, fias pot its Namic (as the Durch jois atriot
 y miftake ir for the Hopc-Tfand : Is extends from S.W. wN. E.being very narrow in the middle. Formerly his lac was much frequented by the Wbale-fifiners in the Summet-Seafon, but fince thefc Animals are gonc further to the North, thofe Fifter-inen have boen forced to follow them to Greenlend. In the Spring the Weft Shoar is pretry free from Ice; but the North-fide, where it runs cur, with a faarp Point into the Sea, kehind the Berereuburgity i. . . Mountanin of Bears, the Ice continucs all the Xear long for ten Miles diftance from the Shoar ; which is the reafon the Mariners take all maginable care to make the Weft Shoar; and, if by chance they come to the Eaft fide, they are forced to ferch a Compafs abour to the North of the life, where they are in no fnall dangor from the ftormy Whirlwinds that come from the Berrs Mountain, bur alfo of the floating Ice; for the Sca here flows from S. to N. and cbbs from N. to S. At the North end of the Ifland is che Bears Moxntain ( fo call'd from the vaft number of Bears feeni there) the botrom whereof reaches from che Eaft to the Weft Shoar; bur on the North fide is fome level Ground betwist it and the Occan. It is inacceffible, by xeafon of irs fteepnefs, and of fo prodigious a height, as to be feen 30 Leagues at Sca. The Sea-Coaft is diftinguin'd thus: ( 1 ), The Nordflacck, or North Point, jerting out to the North. (2), The \(t\) ty.flbock, or the Eaf Poinc Thbergh, mark'd \(\mathrm{r}, 2,3\), are Chree Mountains of Ice, or rather of. Snow, which are falin from she top of the Bcars Mountain. (3), The \(Z_{\text {uydoffticeck, or }}\) S. E. Point, whence the Shoar exten's from E. to W. rowards a lirele Inc, and thence winds to W. and S. (4), Kloyn-Sand-bay, or Littic-Sand-bay, Egecfland, i. e Eggolcud, fo calld from cerxain adjacent Rocks full of Birds: Within 2 Mufquet mhot from the Shoar, there is 60 Fathom Warer, but a liecle further off, no botrom in be found. (5:, Groot-bout-bay, i. e. the Grat-mpodh bay, from the vaft pieces of rotren Timber found theré: Here being the natroweft part of the lland, you may from Tome Mountains be heard on boch fides of the chanm, or Cracriand (formeriy Emgroentand hies form of a Half-Mon to ne Manders, 10 c , as abovir four dass failing diftance; tho is feems. not to ly fo far te the Eaft, but rather to the North of Americ. Its cxtent from' Cape: Fircipai on the Sounth, at 60 Der. 30 Mias to the Nंcreh, is unknown. To the. Eaft and Wen it is cne mpanfel. hy two great Occans, lut to what Degrees of Longit de, is not difoover'd hitherro, except that Ar. fithe the finn it 78 Deceres near the Coalt \(c\) (i, en 1 . \(d\), and the South of it above 200 Leagucs.

The Engs (Pi-bery, befiules feveral others noe worth mentioning.

\section*{(rmion}
Its Difeorery is owing to a certain Normegith Gentleman, calld E, ix kervop, i. c. Kch-iced, who having committed a Murther in I \(\rho\).n.t, fich to thefe parss, and having palsed the Wincr in a Kinail Mand, in the Spring went ower to the Continent, which, from ies Grecn Valleys, he calld (i.ecnomin. Afieswatds having obrained his Pardun from Oinus Trugzer, King of Nitmtury, a Col-nv was fetticd there, and the Country disided into the Eaft and Wefn Diftrict, and rwo Cities were biite, wi. Gericle and alle, the laft whereof was the Vice-roy's Refitence, fent thither from Norma, had a Cathedral Chuich, dedicated to St. Anthony, and an Edife pal See.
Howeser, what the Nowegians were poffers'd of, was incontiderable in reffect of the whole: The No, pergiths themiches ashnowiedge a certain potent Nation chere, call dS iclingers, that inhabited the inland part of the Country; and ever fince 1349 (for what reafon is unknown) dicarce any true Inrelligenie has been had of this part of Grecmindid. The King of Denmark Pent 2 Fleet that was in 1299, to endeavour the Recovery thercof, But being catt a way, this Defign was laid afide afterwards till King Cloriftian lV. attempted the fame again. 'Tis' true, in 1406 , the Archbifiop of Drontheim in Norpong, letre a Bithop thither named Andrew, but he was never heard of afterwards..

Some lott D lane:as by bat \(4 n^{2}\)
sth
F-ubincr's toyaice Foyaje.

The fearch after a N. E. Paflage to Chinc, having proved abortive, the tin!li/b began to loik for the fame on there Coafts to the N. W.
The firit that attempted that Paffage was Martin Fra bifher, in i576: He came with iwo barks to 62 Deg. where finding a grear Inler (. which he calld Frobiber's Straits) he fiald to Leagues into it, with main Land on boch fides, where he found fome Oar like Gold, but proved only Black T.cad. The nexs year they difcovered a Silver Mine, lunt is lay too deep ro be dug. They alfo unclecd fome Gold (bur in fmall cuanniry) out of cerrain Stonss they found in Smith's \(1 / e_{\text {, }}\) on that Coaft, and faw a dead Fifin rwelve Foot long, not unlike a Parpoifs, with a Horn fix Foor long (commonly call'd the Tniccrin's Hozn.) growing out of the Snour, which is ftill kepr ar windfor. In 1571, he took poffclion of part of this Couniry for Queen Elizabeth, unro which he gave the Name of Mete in cognita.
Sir fimping fame Defigh, came to the River of Sc. Lamerence, took polfefion of the Country, and Ferted a Filhery there In: \(5^{8}\) s, Mr. Folm Davis being employ'd upon the fanne Account, with two Barks, he came to the Grectiland Shoar, and calid is the Land of Dcfolation : afterwards he Caild on Giblert's Sutim, at 64 Deg. is Min. where he found fume of the fame Oar Frobi/her broughe into EngIfou', and fome Lapis Sp:cularis. Thence they faild to Minunt Ratigig, Turtnefs Sound, &c. at 66 Deg .40 Min. but faw noching bur Shrubs. He made another Voyage in 1586, to the fame place, where they truck'd tome Copper Oar, and black and red Copper with the Natives. Thence rhey went further to the Weat lin 150\%, he made a third Voyage as far as 72 Deg. 12 Min. the Compals varjing to 82 Deg. Weft : The Country he calid Londm-Conft: He found an open Sea, and to leayues berwixe Landand Land: He gave is the uane of Drien's Strizpots.

Mr. Amsfon.
In 16 io, Mr. Hadfon fail'd 100 Leagues further that way, timanany had done before; and gave Names to fe veral places, as Defire provokes, the lile of God's Mercy, Prince Henio's Capr, King fames's Cape, Queen Anns Caps, 3 Kc . The Iccand mutiny among hisShip's Crew prevented his going further.
In 1612 , fames Hall, and with him William Baffin recurned into England, having difcover'd Cockin's Lend, ar 65 Deg. 20 . Mint differing in Longit. from London, 60 . Deg. 30 Min. Weft. They ury the Mine ar Cimmingracin River, dug before by the Denes, but found it ret worth working. They law fine Rocks whiser chan Alabafter, and abundance of Angeitios: Fances Thatl wa kill'd by a Natire.

In 16.5 , Mr. Bafinn fail'ed again to thofe l'arts, and Mr. s.
 ; Mina. Welt. Thy found Davi's Sercighis tole only a Bay. In 1616 , he went once more, and faild to Sir Thomas Smich's Sound, at 79 Deg. lat. Variation of the Compafs 56 Deg . Weft ; the ercateft that is harown any where. Since that time no Attempts of the N. W Pakage were made by the lingilifh, till Capain Tiom, Frmes went upon the fame Defign in 1631 .
He was much peftered with lee in the N. W. Scas in Cupt firmat Fune and juiy: He faild from Cape Farsencll by the Ince ofllivele of R flution to Mills, Norringham, and Mansfovid luands, yuaticuluere whence taking his Courfe to the Weft, crols a great Bay b.fore. ncar Pors Nic fon, he called the Land New Southetrinles. He afterwards tno:ed all up and down thefe Seas giving certain Names ro his new Difooverics ; As Cape iI:niceia Miatia, Lord Wriftoms Inc, the Earl of Brijfol's Iac, Sir Tiromes Rac's Inc, the Earl of Donts's Inc, and Cijav: ren's Inte: In this laft he wintered, at \(s_{2}\) Deg. o3. Min. Las. and recurn'd in 1632 , having made many Difcorerics, beyond Iİudfon, Baffin, SkC.
Charleton's Inc (according to Captain Fames's A crount) chintern, as well as ail the reft, and the minin Land it felf, is a th light whise Sand, covcred with a white Mofs, and full of Shrubs, and manj Trecs, fuch as Spruce, Firs, and uniper, as alfo grod ftore of Survy-grals, which boil'd, crved for a good refreflament, as well as a fort of Verches that grew there in great plenty. Of Beafts, they faw fome Deer, a few Bears, and many Foxes: Ducks and Gcefe in abundance in Mry, as alfo whise Parcridgcs: No Fifh nor Filh-bones, except a fex Corklo-1hells. In Fune and Fuly, the Days were cxeeffive hot, and the Frofts in the Night fo marp, that the Ponds had Ice of an lnch thick. The weremuch pefterd with Murkiruss, Flies, Burter-flics, Horfe-flies, Ants, and Frose Flies, Burter-flics, Horfe-flies, Ants, and Frogs, and found the Winter as fevere hare, as in any Place lying 30 Deg. more to the North.

\section*{Difcovery made ly che Danes.}

In x 605 , the King of Denmark fent two Ships and a Pinnace, under the Command of Caprain cumninglan, a Scor, and Godske Lindenam: The laft arrived in fome part of Greenland, whence he broughr two of the Natives nto Dermark: The other two Ships faild from Cape Farcwell to Frobifer's Sereights, whence they allo car ried away threc of the Natives, and certrain Sones they
\(\qquad\)
\(\square\)
\(\qquad\) found in a place call'd Crmninghom's Ford, a hundred Comingban ound weigho of which, yitaced 26 Ounces of Silver.
In 1606 , Godske Lind Pinnace, thicher, and carried off five of the Natives. In 1607, Fames fichl (formenly head Pilot to Linds naw ) was fentupon chefame Defign, but his Ships Crew uutinying, was forced to recturn to Dermarrk.
Some time after the King of Dexunark fentit rwa Ships more, with Norrobesiar and Ifand Mariners, undcr thic Command of Cimjitian Richiardforn, a Native of Holfacin, but they recurned before they goo fighrof the Greviland Shoar.
In 16ig, Fohn Munk was fent thither with two Ships: med Mun's coming to Cape Farerest/t at 60 Deg. 30 Min, they met rorpsax with fuch fudden shange of weather, thas one day all their Tackle was frozen, fo that they could not handile if; and the next day they were forced to work in their Shirts, by rearon of the excefive beats. The South part

 Min. which he calld Munk's \(M\) Hzrinct-Hevem, and the Counrry Nes Ditimerk. They endured a graa deal of mifery there : fo that of 6 i Perfons therc were fcarce enough leff to bring home the Pinnace.
 Kin's'Orders wellentertain'd, with Milk, Burter, Cheffc, in \(D\) emea Flch. and Fiih; thefe chey would ear raw, but no Brcad? nor Wine or Brandy, but drunk Train-Oil. Bur they fum'd fo meilancholly (out of defire to thiir native Country) 'that, they could not be brought cither to Tearn the Danijf Canguage nor the Principles of Chritian Religion; threc of them were fent in 1606 , with fome Danijh Ships, to their native Councry, but two dy'd by the way, and the whird was rounght back, they noc daring to land, for fear of the Natives. Afferwards fome of them endecuvoird to make their crape in their lirtcle Boats, bur becing retriced, dyd for frief ; Two ochcos
Livisp Living at Kolditingrn, the Govennour cmploy'd rhem in Pcarl-filining in the Wincter, fo that che cold killd oncof chem, and the other dy'd of Melaicholly, 25 did all the reft

The

Titentrere
The Comntry is gencrally Mountainous, covered all rhe Year with Snow, bur more in the Souch than in the North yarts: Wood there is fuarce any, excepr a few Bufles, and fewer Herls. Their chice fubfititance is upon tilinats; for they know nothing of fowing and planting, tho the Soil berwixt the Mountairs be ferrile cnough. The North Parts remain undifcover'd: thofe on the Sourh fide confitt of divers Illands, which queftionlefs occation the cic various and ftrong Currents, mifcall'd Whirlpooishy feer Booty. The Country fecms to be healehful cnougha ; burf if has been obferved, that the Veneral Dif calc grows woric, and becomes incurable.
Oi Beafts, noine have been foumd in this Country of late, bur Ecars, Foxes, (many of them whisc.) Raindict, and Doss; of thele laft they have two forts, the higgelt they uic fortheir Sleds: They fay, that the Tizzece of there Foxes and Dogs areof Bone.
The Sca affords them Whales, Seals, and Unicorns (belises other filh) the laft of which arc valued only for their Horns or Tecth, which grow in the Snout: It is ftrons, and difficult ro be taken, wneffs calt athoar by the Tiuc, or carangled amnong the Weeds. Of Fowls this Country affords great plenty and varicty, which the Narives catch with Springs and Snarcs ingenioully contrived chicfly for their Skin and Fearhers fake, which being thick, they drecs, and make Garments of them, like Furs; wearing the Feathers outward in the Summer-time, and invard in the Winter: Two or three of our Mcn have killd with rhcir Guns \(\pi 500\) of them in one day. They hav allo many bafsercefe here, fuch as breed in che Bafs, a faunous Rocky Illand ncar Edingburght in thole Pants appears in the North, about the cime of the Nciv Mocn, a certain Pillax or. Bcam of Fire, which darting its Rays every way, moves from place ro place, and notonly enlightens Greenland, but allo Ifand and Nan wny, and fometimes more diftant Councrics, leaving a Mit behind it, nor does it ceaic till tris obicurated by the Sun-beams. This Country is qucftionlefs inhabircd by divers Nations, different in thicir Manners, Habir, and Language: Thotic brought home by 7 cmes Kall, were very ditterenc from thofe carried thence by Lindenam. The ancienc Nortoce ians poffec's'd only a frall part of ic, feveral Nations inhabiting there at the fame cime. Ouir late Difcoverers found a Country at 66 Deg. 50 Min which the Natiycs call'd Sccannngn, govern'd by a great King fitiled Cacbico.
The Inhabiranss are, generally fyeaking, of a ripe Olive Colour ( (rome alio black) of a mean Stature, with black Hairs, flar Nofes, and thick Lips. Their Women ftain their kaces with blcw and black Screaks. They are active, or rather nimble, and ftrong, rather defperate than courageous, thict iff, trcacherous and revengefal; forthey would fteal before the Mariners Faces, and kill them, after they had been well enterrain'd by them; bur arc very affectionate to one anocher, and cheir Councry They delight much in Mufick, and would keep time well cnough with their Voice, Hands and Feet. Their Divine Worfhip feems to be directed to the Sun; ; tho' Fobm Murk, and fome ochers, did alfo find Images of Devils, Horms, Claws, Cloven-fece, Ecc, as alfo fome Altars, with manny Deet, Fox, and Dogs Bones upon chem. They feem'd aifo to be addieted to enchantments, of Caves, round like an Oran, made clofe to one another, ar the Foor of a Mountain: their Doors are to the South, 2nd they draw off the Water that falls from the Hills by Trenches. Before the Doors they have a kind of Porchrieatly made of the Ribs of Whales, and covered with Scals Skins, One part of the Floor is higher than the reft; This they frow with Mofs to Alecp upon. In the Summer or Filling-cime they live in Tents, covered with Skins. The things mott valued among chem, are Knives, Needles, Looking-glaffes, Fo, for which they will truck their Bows, Arrows, Boats, nay, cyen their Cloaths, but never their Wives and Children Their Cloaths are cither of Birds Skins, mentioned be-Cloath; fors; or of the Seals, which they ufe mott in filling, as being not foape to wer thro": they fow them very trong togscher, with Sinews of Beafts, and Necdles ande of Fifh-boncs.

But che greareft Artchey fhew in the Structure of their so.: Eoats or Canocs: Thede are made of Whale-bone of an Inch shick, and broad, reaching in a long row from. Prow to Poop, ftrongly fow'd togenher with Sincws, and co cred with Seals Skins: They are from to to 20 Foo ong, and rwobroad, tharp at both ends like a Weaver. Shuttle. In the middle only are certain Ribs to keep the Sides afunder, and to make the hole whercin the Rower Gits, being about the bignefs of the middle of a Man, made in the Deck of the Boat of the fame Materials: In this he firs 隹retching out his Fect forward into the Cavity, and ftopping the Remnants of the hole wich his upper Garmenc, fo that rogether with the Frocks being clotely ty'd to his wrifts, and hisCaponet on his Collar, he is proot againft taking the leaf wer, tho' the Boat thould overrurn. Thefe Boars they manage wich one Oar, about ax Foor long, with a Paddle of fix Inches broad ar ench end': This shey ufe with to much dexterity and aetivity, that one of our Boats with ten Oars can't out-row then. They have alifo larger Boars of 30 or 40 Foor long, with ten and more Seats for Rowers. Thefe they ufc for carriage of their Tents, Utenfils, and Fimes they have caught.

They fifh commonly with long and ftrong barbed Fifing. Darss, at the other end whercof, they faften Bladders, with an intencion to make the Filh after he is ftruck, to fpend himfelf with ftrugling ro get under water.
Frifland lies 60 Dcg, more Wett chan any part of Eu-Fremetend or ropr, a ragged Mountainous Country, coxercd with Ericstana, Snow, and lcarce accetible by reaton of the Ice. The firf Difoovery of it is afcrib'd to Nicholus and Anthorey ani, two Vencrian Gendemen Shipwrack'd there, who defcribe the Inhabitants as 2 Civil, Caritian, and potent Narion, under the Government of one zichinas, of which Hackluif has left us a Romantick Story: For thofe of the Inhabitants, which fome of our Mariners (rouching accidentally there) Caw, were in Features, manner of living, and all other Relpects, like the other Grecninnders; and many of them were of Opinion; that if belonged to the Continent of Greerlend. They found very gocd fifhing upon the Coaft, and in their Soundings broughe up a fort of palc Coral, and fome fmall Srones tranfparcnt like Cryftal: They call'd it HFcf: Enginnd, ansi one of the highelt Mountains Charing-Crofs

\title{
ENGLISH VOYAGES \\ T 0 \\ The Eaf, Weft, and South Parts
}

\title{
O F \\ \\ AMERICA, \\ \\ AMERICA, \\ W ITH
}

\title{
Their Land and Sea-Fights and Victories oyer the SPANIARDS:
}

\section*{ALSO}

The many ftrange and dangerous Adventures of Englishmen amongft the Americans:

\author{
Lib. V.
}

\section*{Chapl}

An Account of the feveral Voyages undertaken and perform'd by the Right Honourable George Earl of Cumberland, in perfon, and at bis opn Charge, or by bis Direction. Collected out of the Fournals and Relations of feveral credible perfons, who bore a part in thofe Expeditions.

\author{
The Eart's. Firft Voyage.
}
\(\because\)

哭 \(\mathbf{T}\)HE Fleer fer out by this Noble Earl, for his firft Voyage, confitted of three Ships and a Pinnace; the Red Dragon (Admiral) of 260 Tun and 130 Men, commanded by Caprain Rcbers Widrington; the Bark-Clifford, (ViceAdmiral) of 130 Tun and 70 Men, Capt. Cbriftopher -Lifter Commander ( the fame who was taken Prifoner at the famous Battel, of Alcarar in Barbary, in which three Kings were killia) ; the Roe (Rear-Admiral) commandcd by Capt. Frawes, and the Dorotby Pinnace, formerly belonging to Sir Watser Rawleigh:
- A. D. Serting fail from Gravefend, ation directing their Courfe 1586. towatd the Souch Seas; they fell with the Coalt of Bar-

Squ. bary, haling in with the Road/of Santin Cruz, after which they anchor'd in Rio delOror:
 hey anchord in Rio del Orof.
teen leagues up as broad ats at the mouth, which was fome two leagues over. Strom hence chey fail'd to Sicrra L-cona, where clicy made no long ftay, but having refrefh'd, went on for the Coaft of America:

They fell in with the defird Shore in \(30^{\circ}\) gr. \(40^{\circ}\) S. L. its86: and had calm remperare Weather. A litule fhort of the Rio del Plate they had the fortune to take a fmall Porru- Jan. guefe Ship (tho her Lading was only Negroes) from which they had an account of five Towns (each of a-: Towns on enty Hourholds or more; that were feared upon that piat River; Buenos Aores; so leagues up che River; chè reft o or 50 leagues more above each other, of which Tuccanan the uppermoft was 230 leagues from the entrance : This Iaft place afforded ftore of Corn, Catrle and Finits; but neither Gold nor Silver, and comequently too temptaon to a Vifir there
They had the fame Adventure very quickly repeared a prize of with another Portugufe Ship; the only Riches of which Beods and befides Slaves and a few Friers, a art of Luggage which \({ }^{\text {piAura }}\) they had no mind to be cumber'd with) were Beadsand Picures, and other Cpirirual Trinkets, to the value of a thoufand Ducars; that'is, they coft fo minch, tho nor worth fo much to the (lefs fupertitioas) Devotion of our Englifhonen. This Furniture was defign'd for a new Monaftery, and was actually carrying thicher at that rime, when it unhappily fell into the hands of Pcoplc that fo lictle undertood the true Worch and Excellency of is:

\section*{686 Jbe E of Cumberland's 2,3 , \(\mathrm{c}^{\text {ti }}\) Vayages to the Weft-Indies. Lib.I}

Ifter a Confult has, they fald from thefe parts:
Conaft of 4 -fir, with which they fellin about 10 or 1 ar, and water'd firt in the Road of Comenn, and afterwards came r, an anchor before the Town of Beyn Hete they foum a Flect of Pirturel, confifting of cipht or miace ship, four of the bett of which they guigot
Ae.erare fred the Pouturfe to relinguith, and tow'd them for:h on piee nt aid the thundet of great and fimall fine fiom fie liore and the reft of the bhipe. They landed too ans: ero Re wf fom the Miore, tho the Indien and Pert, " \(\Leftrightarrow /\) Troops were drawn ep on nppofe cin. The leaft of -1. the Peizes was 130 "Tun, tho' the moft the: ene by tithing of them was lome great Guns, and forty or file lin:s of Wice.
Ancther lonemeefo ship of 120 Tun a litic after this ATrzenf
Mrat cukn (hod fiowdy agamat licr will) fupplice them with Ablicrintes did rhe Vovare linna come to a ciofe, for they never profind it fo far as wac Seuth Sere, the princifat reafon of which fecms to be the uncafnefs of fome of the Company, then wearinefs of the Sea, and catmet

S. did ater Gonce Jotics on a Ship, Men and Goods by Five.
 Iomer.

\section*{The Earl's Sccond loyaze}
A. Wenft the many of the Ergtife Nobility that rut diemelves on brard Her Majeftics Fleer upon the it prach of the senifh Armada, the Earl of Cumbericind wanche, and one of the moft forward and refoluse; :and two his good frrice done there that gave occation to thi, fecond Youage: The Qucen was to well plest Ine Con.
nus tioin 1 in lanc \(Q_{i}\), mition to so fort
-4. E. 1ts to the Sutbern parts, and for his grearer honour and car curagement leat him one of her own Reyal Flece (the the Preparations, neither did the Earl this time pur his one of which was one of the they took twollizeime re, ingat

 peear dofs of time, at laft wholly difabled them from pur-medirics, had fome fore of Silver too. fuing their Voyage any further; neither were they any other ways recompenced for their Coft and Trouble, than ly one fingle Prize, a Ship laden with Merchandize for Sp.rin, which they took in the narrow Scas and fent home

\section*{Fis Third Foyage.}

RU't the Earl, who was not to be hector'd out of his Reiolution and Detign by noitie rithids and Sterims procird leate of Her Majetty ro make a third Actempr and lefides that, he obrain'd alio a Ship of the Roya Nary calld Tict ITtorg; this, together winh two fimall ones more and a Carvel, compos'd the Fleer for therhird Voyage: Tioc Vieroy (Admisal) was commanded under his Lordinip by Capt. Lyfte; the Mcg, by Capr. What Adoretifen, Vice-Admiral; the Margeret, by Capt. Edparu Caielefs, Rear-Admiral. atad the Carvel by Capt. Pigeon the whole was furniflid with four hundred Mariners and Soldiers, and all ar his Lordfhip's own expence.
3 bime,
They fer fail from lismourb, and within a few days A. O. 1589 twet with tome firncts ships lalen with Fifh from Nemp, ina, wo of wargaret which could moth bear the Sea) were fent for Enghiand Their neat Encounter was with a Flect of ousch, who cxinang dome fow. Shor with them, and then yielded both themfelves and all their Eficts on board invo their hands: This Action being over, chey fail'd for the Azores Auraff. Being within wicw of Micter, Colours, the betier to facilitate the execution of the Plor which was form'd againd the Ships in the Road; there wete four of 'em in all, and his Lordhip refolv'd tha very night to res cheir Cables and bring shem, all off, which he according!y perform'd before the Spaniards were any way fentible of their danger. But tho they wexe thus furprized that they leap'd a good number of them into the \(S\) ca, and by thar means with a grear deal of noife and outcry alarmid the Town, and pur them inro a potture of defence, they made feveral random ho the Eanl St. harv s, where they tock a Prize or two laden with a. the Earls fout in the clark, but they all mifld him and he carricd off his Prize. They were laden chictiy with Wines and Oyl; but another which the Pimace rook thad, belides thirty Twm of Noticra Wines, sood thore of Woollen Cloth, Silkind Taftara's. Te cer, ( a gead boor, and worthtuoking afict) were spanim sin pascel of Ships a: anthor, bus the main lrize wasper fome days byors. It was a trange thing to fee bere at how ill and foor a rate thece spronith Ships detimated themfelves, and how earaly they fufferd themfeles to be made a Prey of: A few Eing lijh Boats attack'd a Verio of a 50 Tun, and becamemallers of her; nay. arla was fuprored by the arear Guus of the Cing tho the piay'd uron the Boats all the time as well as her owa, yet hle souid not freferve her liberty, but was carricd awa with a deah of Triumph. The fame Eoats alto were with a dean of triumph. The fame loats alio wene afrerwards Spmin d:, and brought our a parcel of mall Sinirs onne from Gitime., haden with Elephams Teeth, Graing Co catos, and Gouthins, the modi of which were fert away for finglanci.

Hos Lorlhip having misculthe Carachs, refol ilapontum ancher Prize, which was the Town of Fgall it felf, and Fpu. wh here the Finnifin were pur to very litale coft and trouble for the gecring this into their hands, for the Spamicuds all ran away, both out of the Town and Foat too; they did not fand to make any difpute or oppoficion, bur les. them come quictls and take potiedion. The Recligicus Houles and Churches were ranfern d at acoo Ducats, which being honeftly paid, the Guard that was fet upon them to peain ; them from damage as honeflly quitred thenn ain; befides this, they trok out of the Fort fifty eighe ifes of iron Crdnance. But they had the ill luck to jatt a highe of as twas putting inco dimrora Haycn at Terco a; a ture and a fafe thelere; fo well gumald with a Fort and Cafte, that they were not to be attempred at ar cime.
Affer this they faild to \(S_{5}\). Arcioraers, and thence to Wish the Merat while-the Earl with the reft held thei-

Now they made the heft of chacir way herac, ard sed da Capt. Ly/fer was difpatch'd befrrehand with the rich 6, at 5 se. dian Drize, but he was wreck d upon the Coatt of icrmThe \(h\), and all the Company drownd, cxcept tive or fix. The Earl himfelf, wich his Company, endurd Miforico far woric chandrowning, in a long and tedious wane of freth Water; theit ftrck being fent, they came to Vinegar, and of that the allowance was but threc froonfuls a day ro a man; there was noching elferemaining to quench their Thirfts bur this, except the drops of Kainand Hail that fell from Heaven, and which thicy grecdily carch'd in Napkins and Sheess fpread our for that purfole; fome there were that (not able to bear fo extruam a Drought) went to the great Ocean for relief, and drank themelves - dearh with fals Water.

In all thele Extrenuties the Earl maintain'd his own equal Temper and good prefsace of hind, tho he atoidad no part of the-Diftrels that others endur'd, bur harid throughour the whole of it equally with the poorelt Seaman. However, ar lafi all thefe Diffeulties were overcome, an Inintif ship brougha him a fealonable Relict which dafted sill he came to liolinul, and there a gcod Refrelhment preparid dhem all for a more comfortable Voyage to Einglantct.

\section*{His Fourth Voyage, A. D. 1591.}

THE Flect firted out for this Voyage conlifted of five Ships; the Garland, Adminal, (once of Her Majefties) of 600 Tuin; the Sampfor, Vice-Admiral, (a Ship.of the Earl's) of 200 Tun; the Golden Nobic, Rear-Aumiral; the illtgarba, and a Pinnace call'd the Difociry.
The Advenniues of this Voyage were fo unfortunate that is was at an end rery quickly after is had a beginaing ; in thort, is gives us an account of no memorable Tranfaction either by Sea or Land; we only hear of the taking of twortich Spanifh Ships, which wore alfo foon frer retaken by them, and leveral of the Engl:fo Rrifoners oto the bargain.

\author{
His Sixtb Voyage, A. D. \(1593^{\circ}\).
}
hit ime. ted to have commanded himflf in \({ }^{2}\) mimadatax frrec months Provitions were fipent in Hartours bectare
hmom cip they could gect to the Weftward of \(1 /\) lmouth h his Lordmip having hercby loft the main Defign of his going, (which was the taking of the outward-bound Spanijh Carracks) he transferrd the chicf command to Caprain Noorten, with hnftuctions 50 go for the 1 torers.
Before they reach'd thofe Illands, one Ship of the Filcer wis oltig'd torecturn home, to deliser in a good Porthgute Prize which flic lad takkn; the efft waterid and rcficth'd at the Atores, and puxting out to Sea again, they

Sact cmex, which, as foon as hich had fight of them, made all the fiighr hite was mect byanoilher Engtijh Ship, which hay in amburcade beforc, and - now Popp'd our juft crofs her way : In this diftref, to aroid the Englijh behind and the Envitifo on one fide, ficic was forctd to altect her firt courfc, and endcarour fo recoverer the Road of \(L\) Lfg wnic,
 Her MajectiesShips, as hch had done beforc, bur hir'd of che Merchantsa fubbtantial Ship callid the Tygr, of 600 Tun, which togecher with the \(S_{\text {smplom and the the Golden }}\) Noble, and two fmall Ships more, were all chat went out at this time.
Thect Misfortunes obligd thc E Earl to a fpecty recurn for more lucky Adventures.
1591. for England, where he quickly began to make preparation

\section*{His Fiftb Foyage, A.D. 1592.}

On the South cnd of Fiores. A Srorm fo diftrefs'd our Ships thar they could not come up to her thar night, and confequently occafion'd their lofs of her and all the valuable Efficcts on board her, for by the next day the Portugucfe had landed as much of che Goods as was poifible, and (to prevent her falling into the Enemy's hands) fet her on fire; but they were fo cunning, notwithftanding their haite; as to load all the great Ordnance of her, fo that when the Fire came at ' cm , they went off withour the help of 2 Gunner: This was good fport to the Porruguff, but it did no great harm neither to the Englifh. Howevex, our Man, who with good reafon concluded that the Prey, which was not to be taken on the Water, was to be found afhore if they landed quickly, did \(\mathrm{fo}_{0}\), tho with prodigious diffculcies, and made themfelves Mafters boch of a good part of that and the Town likewife, which was by that time emmircly forfaken of the Inhabitants.
Bur there was another grear Carrack, calld the Madre ds Dios, yet refervidfor them, which afrex a month or wo's expectation and attendance fell into their hands. This Vcifcl being large, well furnihid wich Mcn, and richly laden; coft them fome pains and trouble before they could perfectly conquer her; borh Porraguefe and Englifh fought like Dragons, the one to defend, the orther to obrain to grear Riches: The Englifh were like to be blown up too after the difpute was over, being upon the hunt afier Plunder, every man wish his lighred Candlein his hand, for a Cabbin (in which a vaft quantivy of Powder was laid up) was ret on fire, and if it had nor becn prefently excinguintid by the grear Induftry and Courage of Capc. Norroon, it had reach'd the dreadfull heap and carricd away both the Plunder and Plunderers sogether into che Air.
Aftcr all was fecur'd and in their own hands, there was no finall contention about dividing the Spoil, for thicre were feveral other Ships in confort with them in this action, and all pretended to a mare ; but then thefe Ships being mof of them Her Majeftiest ton, the Pretenfions were the fronger, and the Claim more undeniable. The Earl of Cunberiana's Part (in propertion to his Charges) mutt nceds have been very confidexable, perhaps a million or two, but then becaufe he did rior act in perfon, and his Commiffion had not provicitd for the calc of his recurn, thecrefore the materer was determin'd fo, that he frould tand to the Quecen's Mercy and Bounry; fo his lordbip came off with abour \(360^{\circ} 00 /\) and this not as a juff Share, bur frec Gift and Favour; bur how much he gor by this Expedition is cafic to be counted by chem chat know the Charge of ferting out and main:sining a Flcet.

HE Ships that went one new were the Golde ione Admiral; the Bonadv.ntur, Vicc-Admiral; the Mthon, of 120 Tun; the Piogim, of 100 ; and Lelfides Hefe, the Che'don and the Difiouer.
His lordhip, who comunanded in perfon this time, having taken two Ficrol Ships of veiy grcac-valuc, way rwo frens quickly calld upon by an Armada of the Spaniarids to shipt tand upon his guard, and look to his own Flect ; for is muft be noted, thar the F, cuch and spani.ras keing then united in a League rogether, as their Ships were ercated boch alike by ours wherever they met 'cm, fo they were murually concern'd in cach other's Loffes, and a cordingy cadcavourd to revenge 'cni. This Armacia lay abur Flores, bur the Earl, who knew their number and fore ro be vafly fupcriour to his, kepr out of their why, his Defigns being no ocherwife for fighting than as tighting was a means cither to preferce hinurelf or take Pr zes from the Encmy. But a déperate Fir of Sicknefs forc'd his Earl reni no. Lordhip to return home, while che Anstony, the Pilorim and the Difoovery profecuted their Yoyage to the if rudics; they flap'd their Courfe for the Antills's, and fell in with the Ince of Sr. Lucia, where they refrem'd a fow days, and concluded upon Crizing the Pearl-Eifictics of Ma garite.
Thefe Fifheries contain abour fix or feven fmail Vil- Fincric of lages, which they go to by turns, to that as the Trade Mangerime anls in one place, they remove immediatcly to another; bur the Pearls are always, for fccurity fake, carried e:cyy month to the Town of Margarica, which lies three leagues from the Warer-fide. Our Menkepr out of fiche all day long, for fear of difcovery, but as night landed and march'd to two of the Fincries, which were hoth mpty, fo than they had e'en loft their labour if a Span niard had not come thither by chance in a Boar, but cizing him, they made him their Guide to the other Fifhery, where the Trade was driving at thar inftant : The two Captains march'd by land with 28 Men, and pilleg'd by he Boats follow'd them upon the Water; and tho' thistife Engelipb, Army was fo very fmall, yot shey did not feruple to divide themfelses into three feveral bodies, in order to make three feveral atracks at once. The Sprninirds an firft thought the Governour bad pur a trick upon'emn, and given 2 falle Alarm to try their readinels and courage, but quickly finding there was no jefting in the bufinefs, bur all was in good carneft, they ran away in good earnent too, and thelter'd themelves in the Woods. The Englif took about acool. worth of Pearl, befides fome other Pilliage, and to breaking all the spaniards Weapons they found there, march'd off withour difturbance to Tome place of repofe for that night; in the morning they went on board the Fining-boats, to ear the Oylicrs the Spaniards had taken the nighr before, the Pearl in which (no doubr) paid them well for the cronble of fopening.
After this Expedition they made away to their ownthe Town Ships again, and then fail'd up to the Town in felf, de-raponaid manding Redemprion-money of the Spaniards for their Houfes and Boars, which otherwile clicy threarned imimediately to fire \(;\) fo the bufinefs was form made up, and hey compounded for 2000 Ducats in Pearl.
Thefe Loffes were irrecoverable, and all the kindnefs the Spaniards could now do thenfelves was to prevenspanimes the like for the future, for which purpofe they fent abour Intelligence from one place to another, giving notice of the Englifh and warning all che Inhabicanss to be in a pofture ready to receive em when they came.
This News went fo faft abour, and alamm'd the Reople to that degree, that ours were mightily fruftrated in theis Defigns upon feveral otl:- places: Thus at Cumana chey found 'cm upon their guard, and coarting along Term Firme, at Riodel Anclie the Spaniards wicre not only in expectation of them, bur had upon thar frore fert away all their beft Goods to the Mountains. Being totrefore difappointed in this manner, they faild to Hirpaniola Cape Tuberone, St. Nicholas Bay. Fort Sr. Pint; Éc. and from thence ro Mona, and fo to the Ine Savona.
This Inand is very low, and deftirure of all Spriniss of Water, but rowards the Sea 'tis all a very fine finall Sand; this ferves infead of a Filtre to the Sea-Water for by paffing thro it all the Salt is ftrein'd off and left behind, and the Wates cones forth upon the farface a clear and well-tafted Fluid.
Nor above twenty paces from the Wafh of the Sea they dig holes in the Sand, and fixing therein a Hogitead (the Head of which is knock'd ont) the Wares thus ransform'd rifes up into ir, and that in quanritics fo con-
fideratle

\section*{688 \\ The E.of Cumberland's \(1 \mathrm{I}^{\text {th }}\) Voyage ta the Weft-Indies.}
1593. fiderable too, that it may be faid, tho' that thand has no ountain, yet it docs nor want good Wacer Sank, leagues Eaftward of S. Domingo; and having fail'd a matter of four leagecs up the Riycr, they furpriz'd one night foime of ahe Spaniards great Farm-houfss, for the ranlom of which they had good Atore of Becves, Caffavi and other Fruits.
Eerm-houfes. Thefe Houics are places where the poor Slaves kecp the great Men's Catele, make their Ciffreit Bread, drefs their Ginger and Fruiss, and do all the Offices of Husbandry. It's obferv'd, that no Becf, tho' ever fo good, will kecp in thefe parts atove 24 hours, unlefs it be firft falted and then dricd in che Sun. They cut it into Sides, like Way of prea Bacon, leaving nothing of a Bonc in ir, nor any piese of Fleh thickerthan a Man's Hand; ir mutt be firft fearch d with a Knifc, then rubb'd oocr with Salt, and having remain'd fo twelve hours, ir muft be expos'd to the Sun, and then four hot days drying will preferve it fufficiently. Our Einglifa laid feveral of thefe rich Farms under Contribution, as they did alfo a great Sugar-place upon the River Marracana.
From thefe parts they faild to St. D-minio, 7 amatict and Cube, at cither of which places litue or nothing was thence direstly for England, and the Antiony and the FriEgate to the Bay of Hondaras: Thefe two had the luck to mect with Ceven SpanifuShips in the Read of Porto Cawallo, , the leaft of which was 180 Tun; chey fought with them a day and a nighr, the refule of which was, that the Spanierds quitted chair Ships, (which were now grown too hor to hold them) and in their Boats got to the fhore By the Admiral's order alfo the Rudders were carricd alhore, that if they were taken they might not fail away with 'cm ; fo that 'twas necelfary either that the Spaniards Mould redcem 'cm, or the Englifh burn 'cm; and they xefufing to do the former, our Men did the latter to all of 'em cxcept the Admiral, which they brought home laden with the beft Goods pick'd ous of all the reft. They threw all the Ordnance overboard. ( wo or three Brals Guns only excepred) in hopes rome Englifo mighr be the better for 'em afterwards. Tho' this Action rook them up fome time, yet they made 1 hift to get home the nexr day after the Pilgrim'sarrival.
\[
\text { The }\left\{\begin{array}{l} \text { Seventh } \\ \text { Eightb } \\ \text { Nintb } \\ \text { Tenth }
\end{array}\right\} \text { Vogage, A.D. }\left\{\begin{array}{l} 159.4 . \\
595 . \\
596 .
\end{array}\right.
\]

THE Accounss of thefc Voyages being very fhort, and the Adventures reiared in them likewife of no very great importance, wethall throw them all togerhe into onc sencral Account,', in which the Reader fiall find whatrocrer material parfiges they contain.
The Fleec of the fevenchi: Yoyage confifted of the Royet Excbange, (Admiral) of 250 Tun, commanded by Capr. Gcorge Cave ; che Mayfuwer, of 2 so, (Vice-Admiral) commanded by Capt. Wrillicm Antitiont; the Sampforr, (RearAdmiral) by Capt. Nichooks De:incun; add befides shefe, a Carvel and a Pinnace.
The great Action pcrform'd ac this time was, their fight with, and almoft ruining of, the beft Carracks be longing to the King of Spain; the one was of 2000, and the cther of 1500 Iun burthen, and the former nor a litthe weighty neither in Pcarl, Jewels, Silks, Druggs, and the like: Had they takea this Prize, they might have gone home contented, without looking after any ocher, bur the Atrempr did nor fucceed fo far as that came to the Spaniards indecd loft their Treafure, but the Englif did nor get it; the Ship was conquer'd, but the Victors could nor lead her away in rriumph, in that they fer her on fire, and brought her to the laff extremity, while the defperate Defendants threw themfelves and cheir Treafure overboard; fome of the chief ftripr themfelves of thicir rich Chains and Jewels, and as naked as ever they were born, adyenturd to fwim rowards the Englifh Ships for Quarter, but of all them there were but two Men of Quality, which were broughit into England, and afeerwards ranfom'd: And the xruch on't is, they did nor take the right courfe to have favour fhew'd 'em, for in order to thar they fhould have fwam with fome of their Pearl and Jewels ar leaft about 'em', the Scamen would have becn careful of fuchprecious Lives, and have feen that they flould not have gone to the botrom, if there had been any way poirble to keep them above water. 156 The whole number thus loft and deftroy'd amounted to Numberole eleven hundred Men, abating the two only before mention'd; our lofs (befides fome common Soldicrs) was, the Vice-Admiral kiH'd outright, and the Admiral himnfelf mortally wounded.

In the thres following Voyages the chief Shipsemploy'd oy the Earl of Cumberland werc, the Scorrre, of 900 Tun, ncwly built by himfelf; the Afcenfion, of \(300 \%\) and the Dread-nothing, 2 Ship of the Qucens. Here was no Prize taken worth the mentioning, excepr a Spenifh Shipladen with Sugars, and rhrec Dutch Ships with Wheat, Copper and other maters for the King of Spainis fer ice alfo. Some Encouncers there were with the Spanifh Ships too, but fuch as ended in not much lefs lofs and difadvantage to us than to chem

The Eleventh Voyage, A. D. 1596. March.

THIS Voyage is the moft confiderable of any we find perform'd by the Earl, whether we conlider the Contents and Tranfactions of it, or the number of the Ships that compos'd his Fleer; there went out at this cime in all no lefs than twenry fail, feveral of which were his Lordfhip's own Ships, and the reff furnifl'd chictly at his charge: There was befides a noble train of Commanders and other Gendemen, the principal of whom nexr to the Earl, who commanded in perfon) was Sir Fobn Barkle, his Lieutenant-Gencral; as for the reft we fhall not trouble the Reader with the particula Names cither of Men or Ships, unlefs fome cxtraordi nary Action in which they fignaliz'd chemafelves, lay us nnder an obligation of fo doing.
They had not been at Sea long before they nad an ac count of fire Carracks that were \{peedily to fer \{ail, and thore fo very rich, that none ever went to the Indie richer than chcy; bur thefe were nor all neither, for twenty firc Ships for Brafile were alfo in company with them Our Flece had no fooncr confulted upon this matrer, and caft in what order they would lic, and how they would attack and fight the Spaniards, buc comes anoitiex ungrateful Srory that knocks all thelc grear Defigns and Preparations in the head, and difcharges them from any farther trouble of confulting about that affair ; for the Spaniards had notice of the Earl's being abroad with a good Flect, nay, more than that, fome of their Spicshad feen it, and were fure on't; for the firft Report having given them the alarm, they difparch'd Caryels of Advice every where up and down, who never left fearching till they had found whar they look'd for.

And now the Earl was nor to expect the Carracks out at Sca, but racher to find 'cm lock'd up in fome fare Port, where 'noould be next to impolible for him to attempr them; and this was the care, for ( to pur all our of doubr by ocular demonftration, as the \(S p\) miards did) he himfelf law 'cm riding in the Bay of Wicrs, within the command of the Caftle of Sr. Futim, which had above a hundred picces of Ordnance to bid an Adverfa. ry welrome that thould be bold enough to come thicher to receive it ; befides, the Wind being crer feanr for coming out of the Bay again, (if a man did venture in) and for the moft part hanging much Northerly too, it would be inpoffible in coming out ro avoid failing clofe by cheir Platforms: This was-the reafon that the Earl fpene no longer time in attending upon the Spenicrds in thofe parts, but fer fail with his whole Flicer immediarely for the Scursh Cape.
Having made the Cancries, they came np to the Ifland Lancerots, (one of the fix grear ones): and anchor'd in the Road which bears E.S.E. of the IQand. Here notice was given, both by Englifhand Spanicrds, of a ccr tain Marquefs who commanded borh in this and the nex Mand Forlcuensuryinio whom it would be worth while to make 2 vifir; he was prodigioully rich, and Lorded it in there Iflands like an abfolure Soveraign. The Earl him felf was fick, but five or fix hundred good Soldiers (ap pointed for this fervice) were landed, under the command of Sir \(\mathcal{F}\). Barklo.
They mer with no other difturbance as they march'd along than what the Narives gave 'em fomecimes, out of rheir lurking holes and other places of advantage; if any fraggled from the reft of the Company, thofeny Mountaineers would be fure ro aflanle them with thicir Launces, but then there was no purfuing of them to any pur pofs, for they would run like Bucks, and a man mighs as foon hope to overtake one as the orher.
\(\underbrace{\text { Their landing, fo that the Pcople had time to run away }}_{\text {The Town was at leaft ten miles from the place of }}\) by that time they came, and it fecms cnough too to carry away every thing that was in ir but the Houfes, for they left nothing cife, except a little Checfe and fome Winc: This Wine was extraordinary good, and the Soldices' (who found it fo) were extraordinarily drunk, to that degree, that had an Enemy been ready to have taken the advancase of the Debauch, the beft part of 'cm might have becis knock'd in the head before they were fober again; but the Spaniards. (who did not leave that Winc for a Decoy) were far crough our of the way, the Englifh had time enough to recover their Wits, and go

\section*{} the Prize they chicfly aim'd ar bue there was no doub bue he was catiole of their degign, and would not fir till at home to be carch'd; and accordingly the Party that was fent to his Cafle upon that fcore had nor the pleafure of fecing his Lordfhip, he was not to be fpoken with there at thar time; and if fecms all his Guaxds and Servants were of the fame mind too, for tho' there were ncar two hundred of them, yer as foon as sever our Men were in fight they all rañ away without fpeaking a word or firing a Gun.
. Bur the more cffectually to difooyer the Bravery of thefe Guards, and the noble Temper of their Hearts, or at leaft to flec \(\tilde{\text { W }}\), what good reafon they, had to run away, we múf kno Stonc, flank'd and-fertified moft advancageoufly, and defended with rio frall number of Brafs Guns; befides this, there were abundance of grear Stones laid about in places of advantage, to knock out the Brains of the AfRailants, and the Entrance was xais'd fo high above the level of the Ground, that 'rwas imporfible fora man ever to get in withour the help of a very long ladder. The moft experienced Commanders that faw it declarid it as their Opinion, That twanty Men might with cafc have maintain'd it againft five hundred, onfy by fhutting their Donr and pulling in the ladder.

Now'ris very apparent that thele men had a prudent laudable caxc of their Lives in defering a place of fo much danger and fo expos'd as this: As for thofe that think any thing to the prejudice of their Reputationand Courage, one may ask them whether they underfand the Sin of a man's being acceffary to his own End.
Def riprion
The Town confifted of fomething more thati a hunAfte Sown.dred Houfes, very rudely buile, for the moft patt of one ftory, their Roofs flar and Ioaping to throw off the Rain; they were cover'd with Canes and Scraw. laid upona few Rafrers, and over all a Suatum of Mudd or Dirt, which being haruned by the Sun, was Showré proof.

There was but one Church in ir, and that old and catter'd; it was all one undivided Room, withour any thing of a Chancel, or place diftinguilh'd from the reft, only an Altar with its Appurtenances food as one cnd. There twere no Seats for the People, exeepr the Stone Benches that went along the fides; but to make amends for that, there was this piece of Curioficy obfervable in the Building, tharit had juft as many Windows as Doors, for Doors and Windows were all one, and the Lighr and the People boti came in the fame way. Of all the Edifices of note, the Fricrs Convent was pretrieft and moft convenient: it had finc Gardens and Waters about ir, and was every way much fuperiour eren to the Marqueis's Caftic it אclf.
The Propke The Inhabitants of che Idand arc a frong able-bodica Pcople; very tall, and for fwiftnefs in running not much Ihsir Arms. 1hort of the wild Beafts themelves. Their Aams arc on Iy Launces and Stones; when a man prefents a Gun an them, juft as the Cock is pulld they tall flat upon the Ground, and when they have heard the xeport they far: up again, and firft throw their Stones, then their Launces, and fo min away. Their Senfe is as dull as their Complexion, and their Religion as bad as cicher; our Mcn report they found abundance of Pope'sBullsand Pardnns in their Houfes, which is enoughto prove 'em to be boch ignorant and fupertitious.
The Illand is felf is fomething oblong, ftereching it felf out to the N. E and S. W: "Tis rather bigger than the Ife of Wright, and is parted in two by a ridge of Moun-Produft. tains, as lealy is by the Apcmincs. Thele Huls are barren; affording nothing bur bare Food to the Sheep and Goats thar live upon'em, but the Valleys are fomething better, for tho' they appear fandy and dry, yect they yield extream good Whear and Barley.
The principal Beafts here are Sheep, Goats, and Affes, fome Kinc, a few Camels, bur fewcit Horfes, and thofe of no grear fize.

They have two Harveits in a Year, one before the middle of \(A p r i l\), and arother abjur Michailmas. And this is in fhorr an account of the moft remarkable thatreis relating to this Ifland and Pcople. relating ro this Illand and Pcople.
Our Reople having here had no sreat fuccels, went to enquire after it fomewhere elfe ; and the Defign being fix'd (for many good'Ke.afons) for Diminic.t, they fen rail thitherwards.
In this-pafage they olfurvd (coming yery near the migh mith thore) the high Hills alcout Sania Cruz, one of which (they tell us) has the fame of mounting higher into the Air than that celcbrated one of this Azores; the top of it was then caver'd with Sucw, when ar the botrom the heat was as violcnt as tis in Eng/nnd at Midfummer. The Inc (tho' to the Sca a rery high Land was full of fruitful Plains and Vincyards, our of which the King of Spain draws cuery Year 28000 Butts of fich Sack, as 'ris commonly reported : Bur'tis pretry fure, that tho' it be nor fo fine a champion Country as the Grand Canaris, yer is is richer in fome refpects, of which this is no fmall Proof, that the King feems to he more choice of thisthan the orher, maintaining a far greater Force to defend this than that.
After they had pals'd the Tropick, and had the Sun over their Heads, (which they difcover'd by the lofs of their Meridian Shadows) they were perfecuted with gufts of noifom finiking Rain, which feil for a long time together; it broughe a ftench of Sulphur alons with ic, which was extreamly offenfive to the whole Flect, but eipecially to them that were in the Cabins, as forthe reft ppon the Decks, they efcap'd much betce:: The farther Scinking they went from the Sun, the lefs they had of there ill-Rtinu: fcented Rains; they had, 'ris truc, wer cnough afrer: wards, bur they had it withour thar hogo of Brimftone which piered their Nofes before; and indecd this was all the hurt is did 'em, it bred no Difempers amongit 'cm, ror made any man fick, tho' there might havebeen icafon enough to expeet fome ill confequences of that kind to have broke out in the Flece.
When they were come pretry near the fhore of Domi-indiant grad nica, abundance of the Indicns came out in their Canoestoreceive the to fee what they were. Thefe People were at fift fufpi-Englijh. cious of their Deing French or Spaniards, bur being affur'd they wers Enelifh, preicnrly came on board them and offerd Pines, Plantans, Potaroes, and orher of their Country. Commoditics, for any Triffes they would exchange for fuch things. They were mont of 'cm ftrong wellproportion'd Men, flarp and fenfible in their dealings, their Bodies painted over with red, which they were mighty careful to keep on ; 'Ewas' for this reafon that all their Canoes had Skreens againtt the Rain, fome made of Wieker, others only of broad Leaves; they were afraid of having their paint waflid off, and thercfore they took care to defend themiclics in this manner: Thofe Canocs are commonly of the breadth of one Trec, canose and and fome of 'cri long cnough for cight or nine Men to Oars fit in a row. Their Oars are made in the form of a Bardedore, excepr only that their Palms are much longer than they are broad, growing into a harp. point with a rifing in the midft of 'cm for a good way; the Shanks of them are every where equally big, and have a crofs Stick It top almoft like 2 Crurch.
At che N. W. fide of the Itand chere's a delicare Bay, \(A\) fine eaf: large cnough to receive a very mighry Flect; and hard bj a Rivers-fide is a Hor Bach, which difcharges it felf \(\mathrm{f}_{\mathrm{H}}\) Hos Bation anco that River, as the River does is felf (within a Stone's calt, into the Sca: This Bath is as hot as the Crefs or Kimars Bath in the City of that Name in our own Country, and tis as ufefultroo is fecms to fick Perfons, for here all the difeas'd of the Fleer found their Remedy.
This lfand of Dominica lics North-weft; and Southcaft 'tis bletsd with a fat rich Soil, comparable to the beft Garden-mould in England; towards theSca'tis valt-A Wood ly mountainous, and thofe Mountains fo full of Trees councry: that they are like a Wall of Defence to the Country: The Valleys too are very woody, infornuch that 'tis a wonder how they do to find a Paffige thro them; bur ris not improbable that the Natives leave thefe Outskirts of their Country thus wild and rude on parpoife for their own fecurity:
One of the Caprains went upia River wirth a mall Guard to one of the Towns of thefe Indians; this Town, as little as 'rwas, had a King in ir, and him drefs'd fome-The Kinge thing betcer roo than the moft part of their wild Majeties can be prefumd to be, he had a fine Robe of crimfon Taffata on, a Spanifh Rapicr in his Hand, and the Effigics of a Lyon in Brafs hanging apon his Brcaft. As for his Quecs and the Noblemens Wives, they faw none of them, But his Daughters he commanded into the Room, in Compliment to the Captain; and to dance with the Entlifig Gentlemen after Dinner was taken away. The orher Women that appeard wefe pexfectly naked, \section*{690 The E. of (.umberland's \(\mathbf{I n}^{\text {th }}\) Voyaǵe to the Weft-Indies. Lib.V.} and fecmingly very much alhamid of being to; thei Modefty told 'em they oughe not to appcar fo licfore Men, and cfrecially Scrangers, and fuch as they firw very well cloch'd too, and therifore they wore very bufie to hideas much of themfelves as was polible, when the came into the prefence.

The Cuftom of this Country allows of Polyramy, but antoms of punithes slilultery with a Fevere Death ; a Man mult here have a great care how he cnecs inro any fort of dalliance with his Ncighbour's Wife, for they are vciy jealons, and that Fire feldons is quenclid but by the Blood of him that kindled it. Tho they have no Clothes, yet they are very fond of having then, and feem to fet a sreat value uron 'em, and therefore wont ftick to exchange any of their Comn:oditics for inn old Waftcoat a Cap, or a pair of Gloves. The Maids in this Country are not fufferd to wear Garters till they are marricd, and then upon the Wedding-night they have a pair put on, ty dexcecting hard and ftrait: whatever the realon of this be, 'ris certain'that neither Maids nor Wixes do want Garters ro kecp their Stockings from falling down alrour their Hecls. Men and Wornen wear their Hair of che lame lengeth, and cut in the fame fatmion, and they hore their Ears and Lips alike. They have one common place fur cating, where (all the Men at leaft) wine toze \({ }^{6}\) xher; the King himfelf fits in the fame Room with the reft, only as the beft end of is, and accompanied with threc or four of the mon confiderable Prions among then. Their Mcats are the fine Fruirs of the Country their Brad Cafaci, their Drink \(1 F\) atce, or fometimes made of the C.ffeciz, but they make a better ftill of their pines, and the beft of all of Porctocs, which is refervid onl: for the Kings Cup.
Pxfire to and

Thele Pcople cxprelisd a mighty defire to learn the Ensilfi. Tongue, and in order to get as many Words as they cou'd, they would point to all the parts of their Bodies in order, and repeat the Names of the feveral parts in their own Language, and fo make fignis to have it to 'd in E 'giff, and when this was once done, they wo: IA nover refl till they had the Word chas was rold them perfectity, or at leat perfectly right in their own apprehenlicn. One of their greateft Errours was, in making Diffyliaites of Monofyllables, thus, for Clin- chey would fay Ci:in-nc, for Lip, Lif-pe, and the like.

Firsin pimad. His Lordaip with the Flece fer fail from Dominice for the liagin thands. Thefe are a knot of little lonands wholly uninhalited, fandy, barren, and craggy ; amongt ham there is one calld ofer Bird hand, and that from the incredible numbers of Birds found chere: Therc needs no Snares nor other Artifices to take em, for a Man may catch with his Hands alone almolt cnough to Ierve a whole Flecr.
Mangerour
Here the Earl having landed and mufter'd all his Men pallare thro" declar'd in a full Affembly his defign of going to Port Rice; and as chere were two ways of going thither, either thro theie Vi,gin Inands, or thro the Paffiges, fo they concluded rather to take the latrer Courie than the former, as keing bath the more fafe and the berter known by the Seamen, tho' at the fane time the other is much the nearer, and fome of the Fieer had allo gone is before with Sir Fraticis Drike; but (as was faid) this was the more dangcrous way of che two, and his Lordfhip chofe rather to be the firlt thas took Purto Rico chan the fecond char palsid the Virgins.
Being come withour any trouble or danger to the defirch place, (the laand of Porro Rico) they landed near a thoufand Mcn , and march'd rowards the Town, not lefs ignorant of the right way than they were defirous to find is: They pas'd orer horrid Cliffs and Rocks, having only a Nicgro for their Guide, who, if he undertood the right way, was yet fo teribly frightned that he bad nor Sence cnough lefr to tell' 'm.

Between the Clifis, on which they were drawn up, and the Illand on which the Town food, was a litele解 Arm of the Sca not excceding a Gunfhor in breadth here che spaniards fircd upon cm from a Fort hard by, tho' withour doing any mifelief, but if they had they mout baic chiu:d is, for thece was no gerring over, the Woanshat ing nct yet found any landing place thereabouts. Arlaft, afiter a world of roil; they difcovcr'd a Paffage by which the two lllands communicared with one ancther, but swas a narrow hobbling Cawicy, which lead to a Drawbridge, and that Bridge was pull'd up; on the cther llank too fhere was a frong Barricado, and a litule bes ond that a Fort with grear Guns. The Cawfey was made fo rusged for the purpore by the Enemies that our Men chofe radher to wade in the Water than to go there ipoin dry Ground. Scectal Picces of Ordnance and good fiore of Mufquetcers fcourd that paffage too, fo that it may fafcly be faid the Work was hot, and the Attempt unous and difficult.
Notwithftanding this the Soldiers prefs'd on, coming Thealiwht up to the very Gate of the Barricado, and with their Bills and Hatchets began to hew it; at the Ports and Coopholes roo they were ar the puhf of Pike with the spaniards, and when they had broke their own, they fupplied themifelves with others which dicy wrefted out of the Enemies hands; bur the Tide came in fo faft, thas if they fought before, up to che Kuces in Water, now they did up to the middle: and befides, the Day-light auvanc'd as fatt as the Tide, and had the Speniards had the advantage of thar all the cime of the Engagement, 'rwould have colt the Eigliff much more Blond than ir did; but it was Nighr, and fo they thor by guefs, and not by aim, which was very well for the Troops that came to mainc this bold alfaute.
Thefe things, together with the Soldies wearinefs un- Eng yn dout der the burden of che hard fervice, it me cm retire : of As for the Earl, he was carricd off befort extruanly ill, having fallen into the Sea off from the Cawfey, where by the weight and incumbrance of his Armour) he was very near drowning. Buc the nexr atrack was followid with better fuccels, and indecd becanfe the Defign was better laid and more politickly carricd on ; for white a Party of Mufquetcers was employ'd to bear the Encmy from their Ordnance on ene fide, another of Shot and Pikss was for athore on the other fide herween the Fors and the Town; and the former play'd their parts fo well, that the latter had a fair epportunity of landing withour difturbance: Theiffue of this was, thar the Spa-Eirt fort niards, after a brisk refiftance, were oblig'd to quic their wenc.
Fort, and leave it to be poffefs'd by the Erg'iff.
Now their way was clear to the Town of Port 5 Rico it fcle, and a woody narrow paffage it was, fir for Ambufcades and to be guarded by fuch asdonitcare to figho In the open Field, but there were no Speniards there to difpure their march; neither was there any room for a Difpure when they came to the Town ir felf, for all the military Men had quitred is, and left only Women and fecble Oldeace or feeble Oldage or (which is as bad.) fick and wounded o kecp poffefion. The Refuge the Soldicrs had beraken themelves to was a ftrong Fort to the Seaward, calld Toan deter. Fert More; this was now all their Hope and Confidence, and here they refolv'd to defend themielves with the urmoft Conflancy and Vigour: Tis very likely they intended to do 10 , but Famine and great Guns togecher (épecially when both are very importunate) do often make Men change their Minds in there cafes; and fo twas herc, for by that time the Ordnance had fo prerar'd the Walls thas the Sun began oo fhine thro' thicm, and the Soldicrs Bellies (for wans of Victuals) were grown troublefom anid clamorois, they had quire loft thofe fiff Refolutions of mainraining the Fore to the laft extremiry, and were tiecome rractable and ready to yield. Firft they accepred of a Truce, then a Parkey, nexr they Fort M.w propos'd their own Terms, and laftly fubmitted to thole turremien offer'd 'em by the Entlife; the fum of'cm was, That utora condition of a ppedy. Surientif, all their Lives fould be parid, the odficers and Sollicrs ghould cemr off their porrable Arms, and chic Earl hould provide rbeme Paffage from the Ifand. Accordingly the Governour and all his Company (ro the number of four hundred) came our, and delivcr'd the Keys to his Lordhip, who immediately went in and erccted his own Colours and Sir ychn BarkIf's upon the two Points of the Fort.
This Forr to the Seaward was cxceeding ftrong, and furnith'd with very brave Ordnance, and thofe mounted The franem as advantageounly as could be defird; it's impoffible thar any Ship thould pars that Poine to the Sea, if the Fort don't grant her paffage; and then riding withou the Harbour is very dangerous too, fo that is had all the command upon the Sca imaginable. Belidesthis, in the Weft and by South part of the Town there was a very ftrong Caftlc, full of all forts of Ammunition; and b=tween this and Fort Mora anocher hardy Fortification, that coafts along theSea, and beats the Harbour; fo that confidcring all things, is may well be admird how 2 place of fuch furength as Porto Rico was, fell fo eafily into the bands of the Engl: \(\mathrm{Bb}_{\text {. They loft two Men, and no }}\) more, but one would have expected thar the Guns of two or three Forrs fhould have made a larger. Bill of Mortality for that Action.
The Town of Porfo Rico is fair and well built, having Citydecribis reveral large handfom Streets, and Houfes builr after the Spanilh manner, firong and neat, and of fow fories only; tis larger than all Port/meucb. within the Fortifications, and to the Gighe much more agrecable. Is naftery and Cathedral, that might be fuid to be handfom (tho' not like curs in Englend) were it net for the dif-

\(\qquad\)
\(\qquad\)
\(\qquad\)
\(\qquad\)
\(\qquad\)
\(\qquad\)

Toznde
\(\qquad\)

Chap.
\(\xrightarrow{\text { reng. }}\)\begin{tabular}{c} gras \\
Clim \\
\hline
\end{tabular}

Sirenss.
any mia

\section*{Chap. I. Tbe E. of Cumberland's ait Voyage to the welt-mdies. ... 69 I} graceful Windows, which are of Canyafs intcad of ning a fort of a North-cafterly courfe, it carrics it felf co Clafs; but indeed there is ane a bit of Glafs in all the City, and therefore wherever there fould be Windows chey liave cithicr litpic wooden Doors or this Canvals Me dium, which is fonerthing the mors cranfparent and per vious of the two; the riny dfference is, that the former when that, make dark night in a Houfe, and the others forr of a cicinfeulum, which is melancholy cnough o conicience, tho betere too than madnight darknefs.
The vin ent hears ás this place are very; happily quali ning and blews -no fix cill che brecze rifes tis fultry hor and from the ime ir cods till midnight is the morft of all the 24 hour This reckond dangerone and tinhecalthy being abroad at any of the ef feafons, becaufe of the secmer's (a fore of matignan: Dew; that fall and ofen do mifchicf to them that are wet by em ; they are call'd Serena's, becaute they alvays fall when the air is calma and till, and wichous any diturbance from the breczes.
The Stmation of Poreo Ricn is vory delightful, for it ftands upun the brow of an cafie Hill, and is cocompafsd rery near on three parts by the Sca. The Soil is light and fandy; the Clinate, tho' hor, is otherwile repated healthy (ar leath to the Natives of it) ; 'ris crue, the Expericne of nur Engitif, did pretry confiderably confur the preteni icd Character of its healthinefs, (as we Miall 2firwards fee : but they were Serangers, and not us'd to the Climate; thofe that always berathd that Air were itrong and vigorous at the years tiac Nature ordinarily begins to droop and dic away.

All the reft of the little llland upon which the City pecripiptor or the liate
ands (which is at leat halfa leaguc in length) is alfo a very pleafant fertile fpot, 'tis fo full of green, thar one may term it one entire Wood; the Trecs complainof the want of arfful care and drefling, yet 'tis hard to find any that languifh fo far under the neglect, as to withhold its mealure of Fruit. In thefe Woods a Botanift might walk with pleafure, and fec great Varictics lefore him; Oxen and ocher Animals may be rurn'd in here, and will come forth as far as Butcer to their Owners. Burnotwichitanding, there are fome pieces of Ground that are enclosid and carcfully dret; rais'd-into Hillocks like our Hopgardens, and cyery one of thote haden with fome Fruir or other of the Country

The beft Limons and Oranges that can be feen almoft, grow withont any manner of coft or atrendance; and then in and about the Town are grear fore of CocaoNtts, which, befides their excellens Fruit, are an Orma ment and a dolighteful Shade to it.

In this little lland. therces nor any Kiver or Spring of Water, but every Houfe in the City has a large Well, (and fome two) and thefe are till'd by the Rain, which is both frequent and plentiful in thote parts. Porto Rico Harbour. Belades thefe, there are Rirers and Rivulets, Springs and Fountain3, withour name or number, only this is. to be obferv'd, that minft of rhote tiat run Northerly have the names of the Touns and Villens that are lituared by ent ; for bedides cinnion River, that rifes in the County of Ceama and ruts into the So: th Sca and tefides that on which Sc. (is:mes fotherwite cali. Salaminas) is fruated, town's the Weit cnd of the of any note run to the Lecwand of the Jitand, and fa! into the Northern Sca: As, firft amb next in Patere oo the Weftward you have the kiver (and Town ot Sabuco, next to it Gummo, then the Re. ib, becwaxt whet and the lampunda is another hiver whofe mane our \(R\). laters could not tell : This River Lantu ate? which alio sires name to the Wectern end of the hand, where Sir frances \(D\) ak: water d) is next to the bay chonk with Sand, of which mention wa; madele fire: In this Cunc Bay, at che Nurth-wett pome, is the Riser B, riwn vigaticn; to that the pallage to St Dumimo and other the Languade, that is when the People of that Wiltem chil of the Inland have any bunduels that way
Now all the ece Rivers in gencral are sery ri. a in Gohd, on ati as, and a man may ordinarity find is thete as ficon as he lovisimitin it the Earl of Cumberlant, thats he conld nor chridt a Spede into any of thofe Rivers, bue he would feth out Gold and Experience put the truth of this Report out of S .e.t. for when a parcel of the Gravel was taken ty, atter walhing away the Sand and Duft, there were Gold-grairs lefr behind, and a good quaniry too in proporton. 0 the Gravel.

The Soil of this Ifland is a fat black Mould, and at two foor decp you have a Stratum of reddilh Clay which is an infallible mark by which our Entr: \(/ 6\) Gra fiers know their battle and feeling Groinds. The Gra: and Herbage is cvery where exceedung rank ard high wanting only good ftore of Mouths to overcome tha luxuriancy; and reduce is to that degree of inenetsoment commended wichoes in Emg! anal.
The liland has all over a pleafanc variecy of Plains Valleys, and Hills, amonglt which hareer thexe is a sery high one calld the Loqtib, which (they fay) is conrichic with Gold Mincs: Moit of con indecd have the fame character with the Rivers, namely, to yid. thi ; noble Mctal; a happy Country for a coverous Man, tho may here, either by Land or Warer, mest wirl the farisfactica of his defires.
Belides the large Plains uron which the Flocks ard Herds do xoamabovic; ( with fuci an unconrrould liberty thar they do alment grow wild) theres atundance of the champion Ground taken up with their s.am.c. and Inycrio's, that is, their Ginecr and Sugar Pancations
The Ingenia's are commonly yon fume tiver, orncas fome marihy warcrih places, bicaufe the Supar-canes stence en profper beft in a Ground ef that niture; and nor ent for that reafon, fut alfo becaule they bave occalion for Wia er for the ufe of their Kills, tha' m many of their Mill hey ufo no foree for the turning of em, but only that of Men and Horfes. The Stanfies are genetally in the more inwaid parts of the Country, and yec they detire a conenient nearnefs to fome River or othet, upon accoun of the more enfie sranfportation of the Ginger so Porto Ricr, from whonec they diffatch what and orher Commoditics for forcign Countries
Amongtt the Animals ferviccable to human life which nuimals. this Illand affords, thete is of none to mighey a plenty as of Beeves.i. the numbers of them are alyont incredible, and 'ris affirut'dfor a treth by the Nativcs, that one rich Becves, prea: spor itrd alone, for his flare, couldatiew racec bead of pisayon"en this fore of Cattle. This was in the Welterly parts of the Inand roo, which are reckon'd far untitter forfecding than she Eafterly; and if the woite and pocrett Gircuni magin that they make good found profir this way. The Wacer in the Hariour. Baiammd has irs rife betwixe cong Kine themelves are (as to all their dimendions)

The mott eminent and known Commodities are Gium for, Sume, and fides; fis certain that there are Golu Mines too, but they are neglected, the Treafure is kept f.ut lock'a up in the bowes of the Earth, and none attenipes to dig open thote Coffers: The Spanierds mult needs know a very good reaton for this, fince there's no queftion to be made bue the Gold of this Country is as amiable and charming a thing as char which comes from the rich Mines of Peiu: They don'r wfe to def:fe this Mictal ar fuch as rate, and their noos arempting to ges it here, is a cerrain proof that tis cither becaulethey cannor or dare no:.
Now we muft pals over from this little Mland where Rico and make our Oófervations there alio.
This Jhand lies Eaft and Welt, iss figure oblong, the length about chirty fix leagues, and the breadth tweity, and almott every where the fame. As the Weft end the swo Corners do jur our fo far as ro meake a goodly Bay betwixt 'em, into which a large River would difcharge is lelf, but cannor, being hinder'd by the Sand which the Sea throws up in the mouth of the Kiver.
The Rivers: orh which ran ino the Ciry-Hare Torr and Baimmond much the biger, and falls more with the Weft of the Ciry; the latter wich the South-weft part of the fame Toa rifes out of a Mountain call'd Criamo, on the South fide of the main Thiand, and abour fifteen or fixtecn leagues from the Town to the Ealtward; from this Mountain is suns Norchward in one grear ftream to the Mountain Careis, and there is parts ic felf into two Rivers, the onic of which runs to hiiifi, a Town fix leagues to the Ealtward of sorion Rico, and the octher (as before the divition of the two itreams of Tc.:, from whence man-

\section*{692 The E. of Cumberland's \(1 \mathbf{1}^{\text {th }}\) Voyage to the Weft-Indies. Lib. V}

But the Horfes of this Country are as much worfe than / The wild Grafes are as hig as a good Mufquec Buller, ours as their Becyes are better; they have neither the graceful alpect, the noble ftature. nor the eafic motion of ours; they are all a parcel of dull heavy troters, fit only for thofe vulgar hackney ufes to which they are generally put.
shecp and
are Sheen and Goats are nor very numerous, tho' there are Flocks of the one and Flerds of the other fort to be feen up and down; tis not that the loand does not afford 'em a fufficient mainecnance, bur there is' another reafon, particularly relating to the Sheep, why there are So few of them; the bufinels is, thas there are valt troops of wild Doss that live in the Weods, and when their Livelihood fails 'cm there, they fally out upon the Flocks of Shere, and fupply their wants that way. What thcy generally live upon arg, the Crabs that are found in thole Woods in grear numbers, ant have their Hules or Berrics there as Coneys have: Some of thofe Crabs are black, and wery ugly to lock on, others of a muchabrighrex colour, and thefe chey fay are good mear cnough, tho the Dogs make no diftinction becween black and white, but devour all they light on.
And then when Crabs grow fearee, or chey weary of that fort of Food, they go a Mutron-humting, as was faid before; and thus herween che Woods and che Plains they make a nife to pick up a Live'ihood. As for the Goars, they live nore fecure and quict than the Sheep; they kecp upen the Cliffs of the Rocks and the trps of high Hills, far cnough our of the way of thefe ravemous Curs.
They tell us further, that when the City of Porto Rico was defertad by the Spaniards all the Dogs of thar place quitted it too, and might be feen going in whole droves cogether into the Woods in the day-rime; perhapsthey expected no mercy at the hands of their new Mafters, and that thofe that had driven away their old ones would certainly give them no Mcar, and fo took this courfe to provide for themfillves in the Woods, where they were fure nor to ftaryc as long as the generation of Crabs lafted; and by this means they would grow wild and ravenous too by degrees, lofe all the breeding and civil qualitics of the Town, and conform themeleves to the rude manners of the reft of their Kindred'that were planted there before.
The Iland abounds allo with excellent Hogs, the Pork made of which is faid to be as fine and fweer as any in the World. Harss and Concys there feem to be bur few of, but to make up for thas Defect, the abundance of Poultry, as Cocks, Hens, Guinnes-hens, Tir kics, Êc. may very reafonably be alleds'd. Pigeons are in few places fo good and fo plentiful as here; and nor to mention other places, there are two or thice linte Ines juft by Porto Rico, near the mouth of the River Tea where a Boar may go in a Morning or an Evening and take prefently nine, ten, or twelve dozen Parats and Paraketo's are here (boch for numbers and the litile account that is made of 'cm! as Crows and Jackdaws are in England, 2 man may fee 'cm in whole flocks torectice, and 'ris only fome yery extraordimary one that happens to be valued at a higher rate than one of thofe very vnlgarBirds before mention'd is with us.

The Province is fomerhing larger to defcribe the Vege table Productions of the Ifland chan the Animals of it Rotatoes are very common amongt them, their Pines are in fappe like a Pinc-apple, bur nor arall in rafte, nor to the Hand tha: feels \({ }^{\circ} \mathrm{cm}\), for that which enclofes it is fo foft that it may caflly be fquecz'd to pieces. The Fruit is yery apt to mellow, and confequencly will not keep long; 'tis of a vcry delicious tafte, and muft be caien moderately; fame of 'cm are at leaft a quarrer of a yard lons, and proportionably thick; the Vegetable that bears is is fomething like an Artichoke.
Wammis. Thic Mimmers arc a Fruit of a dark-ruffer colour, the Rind of it very chick. which being pulld off, difcover a ycllow well-ratted Pulp fomerhing like a Carror, bur mack berter; within chis there lic two or three great, rusged. ilh-1nap'd Sroncs, which whecher they have Kernels in ean or \(n\), is nos told us.
The Guiazua arc as big as a Peach, and in the ourfide not much malike, bur within vaftly differenr, and more like a Goofeberry, only the Seeds of this Puln are not fo green as thofe of the Guofeberry, but inclining rather to a red.
Rupa:cs. The Papaics are a Fruit Yike an Apple, but of a waterif unolcafing tafte.
Their black and whire Plums have much Bigger Stones and mich Iel's Ment than outs in England, but they have a good Mcdicinal Quality atending 'em, which is to helpate Flux, and this alio the Guifius and Papries have th common with them.
our they have fo large a Sronc, that the carable part is very inconfderabie; bur this is as improperly calld a widn. Stone as the Fruit ir felf is calld a Grope, for as \(\mathrm{r}^{1} \times\) later has litele reafon to be calld fo, except ondy upon theaccount of irs growing in clufters as Grapes do (and many other Fruits belides them) fo the forner def ny other Fruits belides them) fo the former deferves thic shame of a Soone, more for its lying criclos'd with the meat of the Fruit chan its hardnels, denitity, or any orher fuch rcicmblance. On the other hand 'tis fo foft, that it may be fquesz'd rogecher with one's Finger without daffeuley; and within is lies a Kcrnel of a bitterifh unpleafanctafte whercas the Correx is felf is of a rery good and gratctial onc.
There's no nced of defcribing their Pinmtans, Cocin's, Purrass \(C\) a and Palmeco's, which are known well enough from the cris, , wims. defriptions given of theic Fruits and their refpective Tress, in the accounts of other Counitics.
Befides these, the Illand yields Figss, Pomerranctes, Murkmelons, Pemcitrons, Limes and Oringes in valt pienty ; the Oranges are catromim fair, and well-tafted, bue che Pomecitrons grow to that bignefs, that torerpors 'em as grear as fome have faid 'cm to be, would perhaps be to expore them and their Teftimony to Cenlure.

They have Pefper alfo amongft 'cm, much horter and

\section*{Perpers:} tronger than the black Pepper commonly us'd with us ;
tis fmall, and betwixr a mobire and yellow colour, enclos'd in a little Bag, which is fomertimes very round, and fomerimes fhoots out long and picked. If one firverys any of thefe Trees, one may fee the plealing varicty of buds, grecn and ripe Fitit, and many times Secd, all at the fame ime.
The Vegetables that ferve the Inhabitants with Materials for the main Sraff of Life (chcir Bread) are the Caffavic, Mars, and Ricc. Caffavic is the Roor of a fmall Tree fomething like an overgrown Eyyflof-buft, only the ceffrvic, or Leaves of the caffavic are not fo broad, tho. they itand witke Bred much thicker and clofer together. This Roor is very full of Juice, which muft be carefully prelt out before the remaining part is fir to make Bread; the Spaniards gencrally citeem it a fort of Poyfon, tho the Expericnce of fome of our Englifomen (who miftaking thole Roots for Potafoes, eat 'em without any fuch preparation, and thar withour any ill confequences) be a fufficient refutation of that Opinion. The Caffrvie Bread is extream white, they donit kncad it into loaves, bur roul it our inco Cakes of a moderate thicknefs.
The Bread made of the Mars is much finer than the former, and commonly us'd by the better fort of Peopic. Of this G奴in there are two forts, a fmaller, not unlike Rice in bignefs and cafte, and the greater fort, very like the Guincy Hrieat; ; it grows upon a knotted Stalk with large feater'd Leaves like a Reed, rifing up a fathom and a half in heighr, and ar the very top ihoors our the Grain.
The Ifland would bear (without queftion) other forts of \(\mathrm{Graia}_{2}\) if the Inhabitants would be ar the trouble of Tillage and Sowing; may, one of the rich Speniards did make the Experiment, and had a noble Crop; but they won't take care for Brcad themfelves, when Nature has taken that care for 'em, and furnilh'd 'em with Materials ready to their hands.
As for the Drinks they ufe, they are but of two fir: befides commen Water, and thefe only or chiefly us'a by the Spanirrds too, the former of which is made of Moloffes and Spices together, and che latter (which the bet Pcople drink) of high Spices alone. All the Wines they have are broughr from other Countries, for our of fome poine of Policy or other they are nere fuffer'd to piant or drefs Vincyards themfelves.
Amongtt all the reft of the Vegctables of this Country; the Senfitive Plart is not to beforgotten:- 'Tis a very low searive contemprible thing to look upon, very near creeps upon plann. the ground, and feldom lifis up ir felf above the height of a hand from it: The Phaziomenon (of a ftrange conTraction, and Inrinking up it (elf) which this Plant prefents to the Eyc of him that rouches it, is known well enough; wenced only fay farther of ir, that "tis a very common one in the Ifland of Porso Rico, fince the Rlant is celf grows in fo many places as it does.

Having thus zun over the Defcription of this place, we mult retarn back to our En? 1 iff, whom we faw in the fecure and quiet:poffetion of is, and whofe Affairs we are yet a litele farther to cnquire into.
The Earl of Cumberland had fully decermin'd to kecp this Ifland and Ciry of Porto Rime in his hands, which ho had fo fortunately taken, for he look'd on it as the mazn Key of the Indies, and shat which would let him into ad the Treafures of thar rich part of the World : And this

Delign

Cone to the

Defign did not only pleafe his Lordhip himefif, but was bighly agrecable allo to all the Engiifh there under his command, infomuch that thofe look'd upon themfelves to be very Gignally farour'd whofe Names were enroll'd in the Liitt of them that were appointed to ftay: But a thefo uncxpected Siene appsating, quite broke all our Maneafurss; for a yinlent Flux carried off fo many of for manning the Flece home and kecping the place roo. They came anhore at firf ajove a thouland in number, but now they wers fo reducd by this Diftemper, that they could hardiy reckon balf fo many; and then the Difouragement swas fo grcat, that thofe that thould ftuy behind could look upon themflucs no other than as Sacrifices to the fame furious Diftemper, that had fiwcpt away to many of cheir Companions. Upon all thefeaccounts the Earl refolv'd nor to ftay here, but yer was willing to bring the Spiniards (if polfible) to fome Terms for the ranfom of their liland and Ciry before he went: And chis chey made feveral Precenfions to do, and canc to forne Treatics abour it, bur in fine they appeard to deal very coldly and indifferently in the matter, and to have fome ocher treacherous Defigns on foot.
The Earl finding this, and having allo fome other Therl dse Game in his Eyc, (che purfuit after which would nor fuffer him to lore any morerime) fer fail himfelf from Porto, leaving Sir \(\bar{T}\) oln Barkley there, as well with the better half of the Flece as full Power and Commidion to do all chings in his ablence. How long this latrer Perfon ftaid after the Earl was gone, is not cerrain; as alfo ncither what conclufion was made of that Affairberween the Spaniards and them; but chis is cercain, that after a moft prodigious Storm, (in which both the Flects. werc very near overwhelm'd) Sir Fohn's Ships carne up with the Earl's at the IIand of Flores.

This fierce Srorm bad been preceded by a Calm every
whic as wonderful ; it continucd withour internillion sertare carmo for the fpace of thirtecin days, and the Air violently hot and scormo and fultry all the while: But that which was moft confideralle was, that all the tinne of this Calon the Sea ran monftrouny high, and during the whole Voyage they had not feen greater Seas rais'd by a boiltcrous v'ind, than now they faw without any Winzd atall.
From Inand Flores. ( withour aily remarkable Adventure) they proceced in their Voyage for sing tinus.
And this is the laft of the Voyages perform'd Dy mion Honourable Rerfon, ar lealt that we have an accountot: He was a man of admirable Abilitics both in Civil and Milicary Affairs; he knew how to fighr, and, as well how to govern, and had Virtues capable of rendring him equally illutrious toth in War and Deace. He was io excellent a Pcrion, that it can hardly be faid what was wanting is him; bur yec there was a very coinfuctrabic thing wanting su himn, namoly, 2 ftcady gale of goon Forrune: Had his Sucecfes been anfwerable to his iver: and Abilitics, of but in fome colcrable proportion to his fair Projects and Contrivances, his Charader had beci glorious to 2 degree that not many of our own Nation have exceeded. Bur this muft be fiid of him (tho withour the icaft imputation of blame imaginable) that for the moft part his Defigus werc berter laid than executed; he had not the good Luck he had a juft Ticle to, nor did he come off in his Enterprizes to well rewarted as he deferv'd to be: Confidering the vaft Expences he was at in builuing, hiving, and furniming of Ships, perhaps his Voyages did not cnercafe his Eftare; and "ris obferrable particularly, that the Booty broughr off from chis Porto Rico Expedition was only fome quantities of Hides, Ginger and Sugar, cighty pieces of Ordnanse, and abc \(\boldsymbol{z}\) chouland Ducatoons-worth of Rearl, which was a Prize that accidentally came into their hands.

\section*{C н A p. II.}

\section*{The Relation of the Adventures of Peter Carder, bis Dangers at Sea, and Diffculties at Land upon the Conitinent of America, as well amongSt the Savages as Spaniards.}

THIS Terfon was one of thofe who went along with Sir Francis Drake, in his ro celcbrared

Men, they went up inito the Woods, while the ocher two taid belund to look to the Boai:
or of Sir Feabrake
coupany Voyage with him, being feparated from the reft of the Company by an Accidcne, winichi gave orcafion to thefe his following Adventures.

Twas abour or precty niear the Megclianick Serrits that ourAuthor, with feven more, werc commanded by Admiral Drake to atrend (in a fmall Pinuace) the return of one of the Ships which was gone out of fight of the reft; Ind 'rwas in' this cxpectation that bad Weather, coming fuddenly upon them, drove em fo uncertainly abour, that they quite loft the oppormmity of recorering for fuch a again : They were certainly ycry ul provided for fuch a Difalter, for befides that they thad no Nautical Furnixuic; no Initiument, Chare nor Compais to guide themfelicsiby, they had not Provifions for above one day, and that term of time cxpir'd, they muft be fure so pinch if rome better luck did nor bring em to a place wher they might be fupplicd. However, after chey had beat thus about for a matter of two days, they happily recover'd the Shore, where they relicv'd thematelves with Mufcles, Oyfters and Crabs; and fome wild Roors in the Woods.
Cone to the When they had ftaid here a while; they returnd back Mremaick to the Magelhinich Straits, where they ftaid long crough alfo to lay in a fmall fock of Eatables and fref Water, and then fail'd away to Pergwin Ifand, to furnifh themKelves with fome of thofe Foril which the Ifland affords To plentifully, and from whence it has its Name.
Ror 7 mias. From thence they fhapid thrir Courfe for Port S. Fulian, and then coafting the Land tome hundreds of league
Hand of beyond the River of Platc, they found an land threc Sults.
leagucs from the Main very full of Scals; of thefe they took a good number, and found the young ones roafted a very grateful meat.
 had the hard fortune to lighs aponkixty or feventy of the antauls and. ows very far, as foon as they law cm, fent their Argrievoully, carice off four Prifoners, and purfu'd the other'two to the Pinntice, from whenec; by the belp of he otheis that remain'd there, they were with difficulty repel'd ; but, in thors, they left fuch effects of their Fury behind "cm, that of the four Survivers two died of their Wounds, and only Carder with one more was left to go thro the remaining courfe of their Misfef uncs.
They wore now in chis defolare fiate upon a litule Miferics fift chame neagues off from che place where thefe tre misery Miferics fift came npon"em; and that vehicti added no of the wwo fmall aggravation to all che reft was, that reviv chey loft Engifamem, their Pinnace too, which the foul Wearher dafh'd upon the Rocks, fo that they look'd upon themfelves as. Prifoners here without hope of redcmption.'. They liv'd two months in this place, feeding only upon fonall Eels and Crabs which they got our of the Sand, and a fort of Fruit refenbling an Orange, yrowing upon a very high Tree with a Leaf fomething like an Afpen-lcaf. As for Water they could find none, after a diligent fearch thro the whole Ifland, fo that they were forcid to drink their own Urine, which they chofe rather than the other fort of falc Warer, which the neighbouring Ocean would plentifully have fupplicd them with.
Such Excremicies' as thefe being nos longer to be cmdur'd, their Invention (marpned by the urging violence of \({ }^{\prime} \mathrm{cm}\) ) fet ic felf on work to find means of deliverance and here being miferably ftreightned for want of Tools and Materials too, they could accomplifh nothing faither than the making of a lorry thing that was to feric them for \(a\) Boat, and might be call'd 10 uponithe account of its Having paf'd over the River of plate to the North defign'd ufe, tho nor for any other refemblances; 'twasa gade, they purinto a fmall River, and landing fix of rheir Plank of abour ten foor long, which the Sea' had fome way or other broughe up to＇em；to this the bound \(\mid\) low＇d to have as many Wives as he will，but the Subjects fone other picecs of Wood with Withes and Branches of Tices，and haviof furnith＇d it with a listle ftock of Provilion，and ewo long Poles inftead of Gars，they in－ vok＇d the anfiftance of Providence and put out to Sca． It was but theec lengues betweenthe fitele Mand where ther were and the main land，bue with this pitiful Tackling they made fo litcle way，mad rowd fo badiy， that

Bbbbb
The firf Comfore they met with tipon their coming aftore wasa Ki：ulee of very fivect and pleafant Water this was the Einterainment they had fo long defird and fo milerabiy wanted in the defolate llane，and therefore laving is thue lackily prefented to em ar firtt dath，their Appetics were volentiy cecited by it - ecarder，thoo he twas as thirfty as the other，yoe governid his Appetice with Pratione and drank moderatey，as the fanc time ad ifing he．Companion to to the likc，bue he，furrd on by bis raging Thirt，neglected that good Counfel，and drank foexceffecly，that within half an bour after he gave his Friend the extrean trouble of Fecing him dic befre his face．Now ca，lev had nothing to do but to lury him，and thift for himfelf in this lonely circum－ fance as well as he could ：＇I was a comfort to him that he had frem Arms wich hime，which notwithftanding were o mare than a Sword and a Targer，and thus accoutred be mardid atong the thore towards Braffit．
He had gone no long Journey before he mer a rroop of Savages armid with Bows and drroms，and a fort of Trburs inttead of Drams；they went dancing beforchim abour a Mufurt－hor off，and then ftopt and hung up 2 pirice o：Cot：on えictwork upon a Stick alout feven foot hib，aterer which ther dancid on to the fame diftance as beforc：When Carder came up to this mark，he took it in his hands ard look＇d won if，and to hung it in iss phace again；and then it was that the foctians？who all this time carcfilly obferv＇d his motions）beckon＇d and cilldhime adrance up to em：With what heare the poor man did this，may cafily be imagind；howeyer， they received him in a much inore fricndly manner than he cxpected，and having taken him into their company， they continued dancing along till they came to the place where they intended to repole for that night ：This was by the hide of a River；here they faftned their Hanging－ leds to the Trees，and made Fires，as well for fecurity froan wild Beafts as from the cold Damps and Vapours
binulf：：ad having given the Er，lifoman a porrion with them， they lef him to his reft．

The nexe morning they beftirrd themfelves wery carly and having taken down their Bods from the Trees and pack＇d thein up，they began to march，and comtinued is that day for twenty miles；which broughe cm to thes defr＇d Journeys－end，the Town where the king then re－ fitec．
Fcir Town and bis en

This Town confitted but of four Houfes；and yet con－ ind very near four thoufand．Pcople；the eruth ont is， Gquare，houle was as bis as a little Parilh，being four were buitr all of fmall Tress，and cover＇d down to the ground with Ralm－leares；there were thirty or forty Dours en evcry ane of the fides，by whichall the feveral Fanilies that habited them had their own peculias ways of yoing in and．out．Inco shis Wood cf a Town was our Enet floman brought，and prefented to the migh－ t．Prince of the fame，who was pleasd to conertain hinn after fo civis and hofpitable a minnoner，that he had no Imall caute to be furpriz datic：The very next day after his arrival the King fent fome of his Men abroad to fetch in all the varicties of Penvifion that the neighbour－ ing Country aforded，which were Fifh，（both Sca and Frefi－water：fevcral forts of Fowl，Bealle，Roots，and Frais，and of all this he lent him enough，both for his own ccations and allo to pleafure fome of the reft of the Li．icims，in whife fricndinip he gor no fmall latereft by this neans．Thus he lis＇d amouget em yoid of all fear and appechention of any danger，their kind and free way of reating himperfectly taking away all thoughrs of thar kird．

Ha＂ing been fome months in the Country，he gotpret－ ty gord shill in their Language，and thereby was capable 0 informing himulf berter in their Manners and Cu － dtoms thant：y Obferration alone he could have done
Thers ：Mar
The Religion of this People feem＇d mofty to confift in tine fort of Derorion they paid to the Moon，and that cipuchitj whon the was new；then they abounded in all funs of exprellions of Joy and Tricmph，they leapd，they danc＇dand clapt their Hands，and wich all the Raptures of courage and Bravery in he Wars，for to fich as thete swo Wives are indulged，one to go to the Wars with them，and the other so itay ac home to goe ern the Herfe and Childen：This is a good way enongh to encomage he Me：to be valiant，for as tis a comentele thing io hare a grod Companion abroat，io＇ris an cate to a mares mind tohave a treity Oicelecr to namge his Attars on Tine mean mime at hone．

The only Arms they usd when our Aurhor firt cance
 orts of Weapons more to wher military curnirare，（which they never usd letore ）and the ie were Clu＇s and i gets；the later he ranghe em huw to moke of the batr of a cerain Trec，which was strons and fubborn cuough olicde con a good tetence in that capacity．tic fip－ plied she place of a Cuncral too amonen＇cm，Jead them ous mo War，and brought them home victorious，and hecir Succefs was in a grear mealure owing to the Dif pline he had introduc＂d amonget em，and the core he hat aken to furnilh＇cu wath fuch Weapons boch fur cfietice and defence，as tuas ro be prefum＇d their Encmies had noc．

He had nor been above half a year with＇em befure ne was pur upon this fort of Service，and the Pcople they foughr againtt were entirely routed，and driven cut of thex Towa into the Woods：As for the Soldiers，they gloricd in the Punder of Tobacco and Corron－beds which the vanquith＇d left behind＇cme and the King feafted himpelf upon the marderd Carcaffes，which were broil＇d for his own fpecial entextainment．Inhispraft：ce indeed their favage and barbarous Narure fuficiently ap－ pears；they devour human Ficdh with an intuite greedi－ nefs and plealure，yca，shere＇s hardy any chat gees down with＇con fo heartily and fweetly as chat of therenenemics and therefore never any l＇rfoner falls into their hands （if he be worth earige or fir to be fo）liut the is facritic＇d afterwards without fait；and there＇s nothing can fecure a Man from this fare bur lome rery forl Diftemaper which fhould mate him a Poyfon to thofe that were to cat him．In this cafe the Kinys－Evil or the Pox might perhaps be a lirtle precection to a Man，for the ftrong Stomach of a Savage，it may be，would turn at fuch a Difh as that；bur howfocper a difcas＇d or a raw－bon＇d Enemy might come off，＇＇tis certain a plump well－fed one is look＇d upron by them with the fame Eye that a far Ox by a Burcher．
Our Author himfelf faw this Expcriment made fevcral Execuin： times while herwas with them，and that not only upon the：certwo Come of their Priloners of War，but fome Yorthg fufe too hat accidentally fell into their hands．Their way is to after the miferable Sacrifice to a Stake，and then the whole Company dances fome time abour him，and in the intervals they drink a certain frong Liquor of cheir own Toventy preparation；after this Ceremony，one of them with a huge＇mafly Club bats ous the Wretch＇s Brains， and then they cut him out into picces and broil him，and are very merry at the eating of him．
Thiar Liquor juft now menticn＇d is made by their Tharespa： Women，from a certain Root，in this manner：They firt boil it，and then chew it fubtantially in tlicir Mourhs for fome cime，affer which they fit it out inte long Trough and pour Water upon it，and lee it lie workitig theic（like Ale）for two or three days，then bey take it out and put it into broadmouth＇d carthen Jarrs，and fo let it ftand for ufc．This Liquor has it cems a confaderable ftrength with it，and they have no inconfiderable love for it，for what between the one and the other，they：are very ofren（both Men and Women） as drunk as Apes with it：Bur drunk and fotrill as they are，they are not to be cax＇d with Coveioufnes，they Concmps have no paflion at all for Gold and Silver，nor do they Ritho fcel any of thofe pains and difquierments thar attend the Fescr of avaricious Defires in other Minds；to be rich amongit them is to lie dofr and cafie，upon good Cotton Beds；and to hare pienty of Tobacio and ftrong Drink in there Enioyments they poffefs all the Pleafure they have any notion or conception of and belicue themielves to happy in＇ cm ，that they feek for nothing farther；a very cheapand calac Felicity indecd，that requires nething cle to make it up but good Drink and Tobacco，both which things fince their own Country yields＇em，they ard in a hopeful way never to be miferable．
Thefe People take a mighty deal of care to muke their Valour in War known to octicrs about＇cm，and perhar＇ it cofs＇ cm almott as much to do fo as is did to escert at firt thofe acts of Courage which they are fo follicitous abour publinhing，forthcre＇s not a Manthey kill in Battel but they make to many hales in the：owa Faces upon

Ahar fore; they begin fort with the under Lip', thein to to all, that he was thrown into Pfifon, by this Perfon's thic Checks, nexr to the Eychrows, and laftly to their Ears; all chefe are perforated in proportion to the number of Mer they have killid' fo that the moft horrid and deform'd fellow amonglt them is cafily known to be the mot valiant.
cmiolity,
The grear Commoditics of this Country are Brafilc-andruluto op od, Tobacero, red lecpper, and Corion-wool. The Woads a'ound with Apst, Monkys, Armadillocs, Eloss withnur Tails, and as bie as ours; and for Birds, the chicf are Pariats, Parakertocs, Deves and Oflriches.
Our Aurhor having now ftaid a conflederable time amongtt thefe Pcople, and being prerry well' cetablith'd whon in the King'sFavour and good Oproion, venturd to addrefs him for his libe:ty: And tho' it might have been reafonably thought that a min fo ufeful and acceptable as he would be very difficulely parted with, yer the King granted his requeft, and order'd him a Convoy and Protifion for his Journcy. He travel'd for the fpace of niine or ten wecks under the Conduct of thefe findiums, who brought him honeftly aind fafely at latt to a Portigal Towin calld Babien Detotes ios Santes; but here he was like to fall into worfe dangers than any he had been in amonght the Insticms, fo muith more kind and compaflionate were thefe Chriftians than the Savagcs, for the Governour sery quickly told him his Dcom, which was, to be kept in Prifon there till he was fent into Portugel, to fpend the reft of his life in the intolerable Slavery of the Galleys. This direful Senecnce had infallibly been executed, had it not been for a cercainPortugal Merchanis of that Town, a particular lover of the Englifh Narion, and a Perfon very ready at all times to zalif any of them in diftrefs.
Carker being directed to 50 to this Man ar his firft filly ch. coming to Town, found him as kind and good as he was :arimesf. teported to be; he took the forlorin Englifitmen into his protection, entertain'd him at his Hoare, and did all good to all, that he was thrown into Pfifon, by this Perfon's Bounty and careful Attendance he was prefervid from thofeMiferics which Prifoners (and-thofeAdverfaries too) are very frequently expos'd, to. At laft he was brought to a fecond hearing before the Governour, the refiut of which was, That he ftould be entrufted vo the keeping of his Portugal Friend cill the King of Porturat's Rleafure was kiown concerning him. It wasabove a year before any Anfwer came froin Lishomaboue chat mater, bur it was then order'd, That the Prifoner fhould be fure to be forth-coming till a Ship came over to tranfpore him into Portugal.
In cispectation of this dircful Fate be paf'd wo years panges of morc, fuending that time in the overfighe of kis Friend's Iffairs, looking after his Negroes in the Sugar and Gin- Persore u. ger Plantations, fecing them cur his Brefilowood, gathes the Pepper and the Cotton-wool: At laft there carne News, that the Ship which was to carry him to his fo much feard Bondage twould arrive in a little time; and how his Friend rold him, thar he could nor potibly procect him if he faid in the Country till the Ship was actually come, to therefore counfeld him to endeavour :s efcape in the mean time.
This good Advice Carder pur inf peedy practife, march- Hia efeefe ing off in a Boar with four Negrocs only, under the pre- and arriod rence of going a filhing; the place he gor to was Pervem- buglowd ucer, where he alfoobrain'd a happy paffage for Englamd After he came home, the fame of his Adventures brourch him to Whiteball; and introduc'd him into the Quecris prefence, who was pleas'd to hear him tell all his Story and ar the conclution to give him 2 Reward. He had frent berween nine and ten years in thefe Peregrinations tho the Weftern World, having (abating the Kind neff of oue Gngle Perion) met with as bad trenrment ameroft the Chriftian Portugnefi, as he did with guod amongrt the the Chritian Portugnefs, as he much more Chriftian Saviges. Offecs for him with the Gorernour; and when all came

\section*{Chap: III.}

\section*{The laft and mof difaftrous Voyage of that famous Navigator Mr. Tho. Candifh, extracted out of bis opon Letter directed to Sir Triftram Gorges bis Executor:}

THE Fleer which Admiral Candif fet out this Expedition confifted of five fail, the Leicifter Gallion Admiral, the Recbuck Vice-Admiral, the Defire, the Dainty, and the Black Pimace. We muft follow them out a grear way to Sea kefore we meet wind any thing in thicir Adventures worth rethearfing.
They made it twenty dxfs from the Coatt of Portugal till they had fight of the Canartes, and having gain'd rhat; they faild away direetly towards the Line: Under the Equinortiel dhey lay twenty \{even days driving to and fro withour a breath of Wind, in which time moft of thicir Men fell fick of the Scarey, the riolcat hear of the Sun, cogether with the noctimnal Damps and Vapours, nor a little contributing to the bringing this croublefom Malady upon 'cm.

Afrer fo lons a Calin under the Line, a fair. NorthWeft Wind began to blow upon'em, and this Cerv'd \({ }^{+} \mathrm{em}\) fo well, that in twenty days fail they had fight of Land on the Coaft of Brafic; they knew it muft be here that the Land appear'd, tfio' ignorant of what particular Part or Quarter cf Brafilcit was; but however, a certain Accident gave thicm information whereatout they were, for coming ncar the fhore they took 2 Ship, the Pilor whereof told them, that they were then at Cape Frio which is twelve leagues from the River of \(\mathcal{F}\) encro, and whinty from Santos, the place which they purpos'd to attempt the taking of. They took nothing in this Veffel worth notice but a Frier, hid very clofe in a Tub of Meal: This Divine, when he was pnuld our; to be fure made a very pretey figure \(\%\) in the night he mighe have pals'd for a Ghoft in a Winding-fheet, but a little exercifing of his Back with a good Oaken Cudgel would foon have driven away, the Ghoftike form, and rerurnd chate of the Fricr again.
Their now Pilor foon directed .them to Ilbe Grende, which is rwelve leagues from Santos, and here they refrefh'd themfelves with Potaroes, and divers ocher good i5ci: fort of Ronss, fuch as the folace afforded: They mer with fome fow Hogs and hens too, but as that fort of Provifion was tery fcarce, fo they were as quarrelfom and ready to fall together by the ears alout it, whenever they gor any of it. The piain truth on'r is, the Diforders snmmitted at this place were fad Prefages of chofe great Misfortuncs that afrerwards atrended the Voyage; the Soldiens were like fo many Fews and Turks to cach other, all hiffing for themfelves, diftrufting their Feliows, and notcaring what became of the Publich, fo they could but have their own private fatisfactions; he chat gor a good bit went a way into fome hole or corner of a Wcod to make fure onit by himfelf; neicher was there any ching the int cm : to be gotten from choferbar had to fpare, exceptir were per of the by downight force, or fraud, or cqual excianage; fuch Sol.tert, and horrible tharking was chere amongtt'cm, that fome poor amongft 'fm: fellows who could not feramble fo well as the reft were like ro be farvid, and forc'd to wander in the Woods to ger wild Roors to fatisfic Nature withal.
A certain company of thefe Vagabonds bad, one day betrer fortune than they expected, for as they werebearing abour for fome Proviron in the Woods, they men with a parcel of their Mares thar were boxing each other very furioufly, the bufinefs was, thar they had got a wild Hog, which having killd and dirided into Shares they could nor agree who thould have the largett, and fo went to try it our that way: Bur in the meantime, while thefe futlows were at Loggenheads, the other Party coming in fily, fole away a quarter of the Hog , and went and made mérry with it by themiclyes in anocher pait of the Wood: There happy Thicves afterwards got good tore of Roots, and coming home the next day to the lodgings of fome of their Company, they found 'em. drefing a parcel of young Whelps for Dinner; they had oot fo much Pork the day before, but a piece of a young
\(B 6 \mathrm{bb} \mathrm{b} 2\)
Puppey

\section*{696 The laft Voyage of Admiral Candilh to the Weft-Indies. Lib.V}

Puppey wonld go down weil cnough now, and dherefor iouning their fock of Roors to the aforcinention'd excellens Difh, they were admitred upon thar feore to din with ern.
At this fort of a rate they livid as Ithe Grande, till the Admiral thought fit to give them fome Diverion, by making an attempr upon the Town of Santos.
 work place, they concluded that their long-boat and Shalop only, furnilhd with a hundred iken, would be fulticicar for this purpofe; and when the time caine that the Roars were to be mannd, they were all lo eager of goine + on the fere of the Plunder they hoped to get it now as hut a Difoure arofe about th:s point, as dic befure abourt dividing of the Hog; the conclufion of the bufueis wa. that theyocgan to throw one another over board as fati forms poliibile, cocry man cudeavourd to rid the boat of him that was next bim, fo that while all pretended to eo, was tary likey that no bode at all would le left to do fo. The Admiral was fore'd to appeafe this Tumule himfelf, and by frell Orders to pus the matere out or dipute.
The Paty that wene out ufon this Service very happiy execured the Delign that was laid, they landed at the sery time that the Poi suruefo were at Church in the middic of high Mals; and havitg thas lurpriz'd 'em at their Devotien, they found no srear matter of refifance, they calily gor the Swords of thore Prople that had any, and fo itood there keeping guaxd upon em till the xeft of their Company appointed for this Expectition same up to them They were but rwenty dhree Men that did rhis Exploir, tho there were abore tharee hundred Poremzuff: in the Church, lefides Women and Children. Thofe that were left in the Town took the Alarm at the time that the Church was belet, and difposid of themfelves and their Moncy into places of more fecurity; but as for them that were raken Prioners, the Admiral diviarg them all, excepr feven or eighe of the principal.

The lhunder of the Town conifited in Succats, Sugars, Caljrvic Men!, and (which was better than all) pretty good quantities of Goid and sitaer. One fellow that wook up his lodgings in a Fricris Cell, found a Chefl of Silver under the good Mian's Bed, it contain'd feventeen hundred Riais of Eight, a fimall Hoard which thisderout perion had laid up (tis to be fuppos'd) for a time of necefficy.
The Indinns of the Country rejoycd mightily at the taking of this place, and defird the Acmiral to keep is to himfelf, and never let the Portuguefe come there more now they were once driven away; they protefted they woult be all of his lite, and to jultific the integrity of their Pretenfions, they difoover'd to him all the things they knew of, and amongit the reft three grat Bags of Moncy which the Porrusucfo had hid, and guided bim to a place where he brought off three hunded head of Castic, 2 Stock that frred 'cm all, the time they flaid ar Sintoos. Mof of the Company was for fpending the Winter hers; but the Admiral refus'd it for many good reafons, that they made it full two momths before they went away, and that expence of time was windoubredly the overthrow of their Voyage. At their going off they burne the ourward part of the Town, deftroy'd fereral of their Sugar-Milis between Santos and San Vincont, and fer fire to all the Ships in the Harbour.
From Samtos they faild towards the Marellanick Straits and about the Riter of Plate had a Storm fo. horrible and amazing; that the Admiral with all his great Courage could nor a soid being thockid at it. The Fleer was milerably toft about and difpers'd, but the Admiral having before appointed Port Dejire for the place of their gencral Rendezvouze in cafe of a feparation byany Accidents, the weatherbeation Ships made in there of their own as cord as faft asthey could.
Having refrefid at this Port, they faild to the Streits Alouth, and finding the Winds there very contrary, were rorcd to lic licatins before the Harbour of Port Famme at leaft tiree days befere they could double that Cape for imatiy cinces cititing Anchor withour the Cape, in twerty farhom Wacer, on a fudden the Current would carry awhy the Shirs with Cables and Anctors afloar: Ar laft with much ado they doubled the Cape, and gor into Port Fimine, whicic for ic ven or cight Ca; sthey were Hir ip for mant of Wird to go torvards. All we whid they liv'd on Mifucles and the Fruits of the Conntry, ticre wist no othict more finbftantial Fool to be gorren, the Sa:agesthemfelres (who formerimes vifitcd "em) were ioc akle ro furply cm: Thefe naked Pcople would rearn Fexthers for whatocucr they gave cm , and when they made figns to 'cm for ocher Victuals, the others wint arfwer again ly figne, that they had none for themictues, bur juf what they could ectenty their Darrs They were wonderfully my and foarfiti, elicy would not 1591. come any nearer than the diftance of . tong. Pole, by which they reaclid out and reccivd what parsill betwecn \({ }^{\mathrm{Cm}}\), "Tis cafie to le imagind that ont End liflmen muft ther sur nceds be in very difoonlulate corcumontances at this place twibici Itraitned in Provilion, and pinchis with fuch fevereCold hat 'swas nor an calic matter to live under the exiremity ff it: Many of 'cm that were well in die Morning, be ore Night were frozen to death; and cethers of eme endurd fuch hatrdfips, that perhaps to dic had beena mach efs unlappy thing. One Perfon particuiarly of whe do Adventures we hall hear mors hercafter) fulling off his tockings, pulld off his Tocs along with cm, having is Feet (mortified with the Cold) as black as Scot at the lame time; and another pretending to blow his Nofe, blew it quite off, and threw it into the Fire.
They cryd a grearmany piaces in the Straits, hoping to and berter Shelter and more plency of Provifion, I ur they could mect with nene where 'twas pofible for Mien ro live ar that time of the Year; yor notwithtanding, in Spight of all the Cold and bitter ruffing Winds, as atme as they lad Grownd so anchor in and Tides to help'em. they kept beating on in the Srouits, and they picte'd fo far in, thar they reckon'd they had made no keis th:n fify leagues within the Straits Mourh. The only colcrable place they came to was a fort of a Harbour, whers all the advannage they had, was perlaps not to dic quite fo falt of the Cold, and to be foncthing lefs expos'd to the fury of thofe exeravagant Winds that were then blowins; bit for all this, the Men dicd fo faft, that if they ftaid there much longer, 'twas cerrain, they would have no Men at all lefr; and bad the Men becri invincible by the feverities of the Weather, yes the Sails and other Tackling of the Ships were not, for they deciayd and wafted apace, To thar they were now almoit paft Cervice.
The Acmiral diercfurc feeng that he mun leave the sian emon Straits, (unlefs he intended to bury his whole Ficer there) Grmifion and knowing that the foonce the better too, fer fiil from thence, and directed his Courfe towards Briffe asain Twas his infolent mutinous Company that decerninict him to this Courfe, for he himfelf had projected a Voyage to Chine, and had all things been farourable, had made his paffage thitherwards thro' the Magellanich Straits; bur as that fril'd, and there was yet anorher way ofen, viz. by the Cape of Gcoil Hope, fo he had theoghts of puruing his intended Voyage that way; But there factious cople murmurd, and made fo-many Remonftrinces againft it, that the Admiral (fearing fome tad cffects if he hould exafperate them by anover-obitinate adherence to his own Defigns) (fuffer'd himfelf to be perfwaded by hem, and gave command to ftecr towards Brafic.
in this Courfe they lofe the Defire and Biack Pitmace by ships ian the wa), which the Aumixal charges upon the treachery of Capr. Davis; and it was not many days dfrer that in a moft prodigious Stcrm they loft the Reiback too, fo that now the Admiral had only his own Ship left, whaterici Defigns he had to exccutc unon the Coaft of Brafice.

Twas with extream labour and hazard that they cone ine reach'd the Coaft of Brefite, and came to an Anchor in Stumm: the Bay of St. Vinient. Herc fome of the. Company de- By. frid leave of the Admiral to go afhore to fome of the Portugucf: Farmhoules to ger Provifions, and he yielded to it, giving them a caution not to make any long thay afthore, nor to venture themfelves rery far: And as long as they hearkned to this good Advice matters fikecedicd well cnough, bur when chey began to neglect is, and Gufferd themfelves to be carried beyond the bounds which the prodens Care of the Adiniral had fer them, they plung themleves into thofe Mitchicfs which he to woil forefaw, and fo zealoully endeapour'd to prevent.

A cerrain Indian comes abroad, and rells chem, that at a lirule diftance chere was a very rich Frormioufc, which they would do very well to make a Vilir to, and thersfore defir'd thar a fmall Troop might be fent thither They had fome reafon to given little credit (ar laafi) to this Story, fince the Indicn who told it had deferted his own Countrymen, and been for fome coniderable time recciv'd into cheir Scrvice: Accordingly the Admiral ap pointed Capt. Barker (a Perfon in whom he repos'd more sona an: confidence chan in any one Commander befides) to march wo:: out with enventy or thisty Men upon this Delign, bur with pofrive Orders at che fame time tomake but a very thert ftay, whecher he met with any thing or nothing.
Thefc Men being once gor állore, quickly forgor their Coment Admirat's Otders; they met with good Victunls and denter Drink, and fell to ftuming their own Carcafor, while in the mean time the Admiral and the Ship were to take carc of themfelves. They div'd to weil, that 'ris p'ain

Sectiry of on the cosin

\section*{Chap.III. The laft Voyage of Admiral Candifh to the Wefl-Indies. 697}
they had no thoughts of coming ahoard again, for they fent back the Boar that carricid 'enn, as if they had intended to rake up their Dwelling there. The Admiral expected their teturn with a great deal of impatience he was furpriz'd so fec 'cm fo bold and venturous, and not lefs fararful of fome direful cvent, confidering the place where thcy were, and the finall itrength they had to defend themfelves withal. He fene Mefliges torbern, thut teceiv'd no Anfwers; he commanded 'em to come away, but they werc our of his reach, and ow'd him no Obedience; befides, they were then in a very merry clcrared farc, and confequently wetc all Admirals and Grcat Men in thcir own imagination. Afcer this manner they palsid away two days and two mights, and not the leaft News to be heard what was tecome of 'em; at laft, upon the third day in the morning, the poor finditm, allhoody and wounded, got to the Ship, and put the Admital out of his fulperice by the Story of thefe Cicntemens fite.

The Porturacfe it ferms finding what Bait would take with them, had given them a very pleariful Entertainmens, and fecing them fo entitely abandonid to the pleafures of Eating and Drinking, thoughs they had 2 fair Opporrunity now in their hands of taking a confiderable
5 Tinment Revenge: In thore, they got together a body of eighty 2iconicmper Portuguefc and three hundred Indions, and falling uporx them with that Force whilft they were thus engag'd, Lacrificed every Man there prefent, and 'rwas with much difficalty that the Indian cicipd (like 3ol's Meffenger) to come and bring the News. 'Tis true, thar this was no lefs than perthaps the Admiral expected, and 'ris cersain'twas no more than thefe Men delerv'd for the Crimes they were gailty of, but yet cis catic to imagin that the Admiral muft needs be decply afflicted at it; for befides that, he had loft nor only fo many of his little Company, bue fo many of his bett Mcn, (which made is a double Lofs) his boat was gone into the bargain, and without chat, 'ris well known, a Ship is in a very forlorn cale at Sca; and chere's no doube bur he mult bare fuffer'd the very laft Extremitice, if by good forrune he had not gor an old Boat fromthe Portugucf:, but lighting on that, he was able to ferve himfelf a little (tho" but a little) by rabuckreco that means; befides this, for a little further alleviation re'dagan. of his Miferics, the Rosbuck, thar had been loft in the great Srom, (coming this fecond time to Brafic) came up to hise again in this Bay, bur in the moft miferable condition that ever Ship was beheld in, all her Mafts gone except the mizen, her Sails quite blown away, and crery way extrcamly thatter'd : A Ship fo much weaken'd ard our of order was bur a poor addition to the Admiral's Strength; yet for all he was in no better circuniftances for an Atrempt, he could not but think of fome Retenge upon the Poringucfe.

He therefore mov'd down the River towards their Town, which he intended to beat down abour their Ears; but when he was abour hatf way, he found the River fo narrow, by reatoin of a Shoald, that thofe great Ships could not pafs, and all the Company declarid it would be excreamly hazardous to cndeavour it; nay, it was nor without danger that they weat fo far, for they had very little more Warer chan what the Ships drew, and if they had once come aground, it iad becn impofibie ever to difengage cm again, fince (befides the thatlownels of the Water) 'tis all ozie ticreabonts, and no Anchors will hold to hale a Ship off.
verefry of Now the Admital found the want of his littic light minll Sips Ships, for nothing could be done here upon thar foore; on the count and 'rwas not only here, bur at moft ocher places along the Brafilian Coaft, that they would have been diftrefs'd for fmall Ships, for all their Haxbours are barr'd, and there is no gerting any large heary Ships over em. All the Kevenge that could be taken here was, to land fome Men and fpoil their Farmhoules, which they did, and broughr off fome guanities of Provifion.
Buc a Portugurfe Pilor propos'd to the Admital a far nobler and more confiderable Reycnge chan this, which was, the taking (or battering at leatt) the Town of Spirify Scmat, and promis'd to carry the Ships over that Bar withour any danger, afirming, that they fhould find as leaft five fathom Water there.
This Project, as 'iwas a very grod one upon many accomiss, fo twas cagcrly embracduy the whole Company, and approvid of by the Admiral himelelf, who very wedl knew that chere was no place in all Brffic l.ke that for the fuppiy of thot Wanes he vas in: Eut when it came to be cxecured it would por do, the Paruqucfe was cither yery ignorant of the place. or defien'd to run the Stiprs aground, for the deepeft.Water all over the Rar Was bur three fathom, and the Ships could nor'pretend to pafs there. Befides this ditarpoinment, the Road was fol ill, that they could hadly rite there, neither could of bufinefs.

And now, when is was far meaclikely than nor, that Snip... be our doing any thing, the; difejver d three Ships at anchor nor far from the Town; they were all giad of this: making no doubr at all of tranging them cicars,at of the Harlour; whercupon the Admeral profosid the making the Attempt that wery night, befene they wrte resovid anto a place of inote fecurtsy, and had all the bett thang:
 ver good for any thing hur driakis: and recching, and fecm'd to be bewitchid in!es a faral didike of every thing their brave Admiral put eal upon, prombled, and wete unwilling to dur then, and to the bufin fora defers till the ucat morning, bue then 'twa too late, ant their opporcunity was gow, for the Portur", had brought the Ships in the night-time juft clefe to tie Iown. and forcified the laflage fo, that they who attempted to brias off thore Ships were like to pav prety di ar for their Atrempe; belides, the Kiver was vory narrow which they were to go up, and over and ahove the Ferts whinh the Encmy had rais'd, there was a nacural Fortincation of Rocks, from whence a fmall number inighe heat ouc the Brains of an Army alonoft, by tumbling down great Srones upon 'em.
And now with all thefe difadiantages the ferveric Sold ers were for going to attack the Ships, nothitg clit would fatisfic 'em, and there was darger of a general Uproar amongit 'cm if the Admiral rctis to cell piy; 'twas for this realon perbaps mnec than any thing cite that he confented to their going, but however. rog ther with his Confent, he gave a flice charge that they inculd Spy our a convenicnt landing-place, but \(n\)th land, whas opportunity focrer offer'd is felf; and withal, that if the leaft danger appear'd in coming at the Ships, they flould immediately return, and nor pretcnd to runt thro' it, to the hazairding of both Mcn and Proats.
The Command in this Enterprize was giten to Caft. Morgon, and thcir two crazy Boats were di!patchia crowded with Melqueteers as full as ever they could hold. As foon as they were come within reath of the Guns from the Enemy's Sconccs, they began to play pretty warmly upon'em; and then our Micin fecing all the Difficulties they had to encounter with, Captain hongen, mindful of the Admiral's Orders, told 'cm 'twas belt to retire, and not venture any farther ; bur the toulmouth'd nfol.nere of Soldiers prefently began to al ufe him, calid him oopard, telling him they always theught he was fich a one, and now they faw ir plainly; which was fuch a provocation to the Captain (who was a Man of Mcral and Courage enough) that in that Tranfort be forgot his Duty to the Admiral, and prefendy commanded them to land; but alas,'twas running upon certain and incvitabic Face: 'Tis truc, they had by an excefs of Couraze fome little adrantages at Girf," and the Captain with ten mrore of thic boldeft icaled the Walls of one of the Sconces, while another Party:drove the Enemy out of the other, and poffeft themfelves of it; but the thowres of Indi: \(n\) Darts and Arrows that fell upon'em, and the grear Stoncs that were thrown from off the Trenches, were nor to be avoided: In thort, the hrave Caprain lof his Lifi; and abo c two Cane Morgen thirds of the Company, and of thofe that returnd there pand his com. were not eighe bus what were bitterly wounded, fome having two or three, ochers five or fix Arrows apicce flicking in their Bodies. The number of found Man now remaining was very fmall, they had no hands now to fpare for fighting, having butjuit enough to do the neceffary Work of the Ships.
The Admiants cencern and forrow for thefe Ioftes was inexpreftible, but however he' fer fail from this unfortunate place for the Itland of St. Sebaffian; and rwas in the way to this place thas the Misfortune befell him which compleated the ruin of all his Detigns, and perhaps the treaking of his Heart too.
His Ship the Rncbuck, that had once before been loft The Earfiack by a Storm, now wilfilly loft her felf, that is in p:ain icaves hate rorms, gave him the llip, and left him to thiff for him- Nilurat. folf; But this was tor all; for fice had got on brate her the Surgeons with deir Medicincs, befides the beft fars of the Provifions, and then lad left the Admiral loaded with all her fick and wounded Mon, fo shar as the lick Men were under a necelfity of dying for want of Phyfick, the found ones were no lefs expos'd for wanr of Provifons, if Providence did not fupply them. 'Twas Capr. Dever that commanded the Recluck archis rime, and ro his honour is mult be recorded, That be mas the Mnn that 4.5 bis brese Action:
\(\underbrace{\text { 5592. They made a flift to get to Thand St. Setoffican by that }}\) \(c_{\text {ene the the they that alirady logun to fuffer very greatly upon the }}\) andersen s. feore of the forrcity of thar grand Neceflary amongft acta; son. them. At this pla c they efreth'd themelves, futyey'd their Stores of Tackling and Provifion, nended their Boat, and made her fir for further fervice: As for l'rovifions, they had cuough for fourteen weeks at their Ganty ratrow way of tiving, bur their Tackliniz was much lefs atal worlic in proportion, for they had hardly any Ropen jete, and bue four Sails in all, the Sprit-fail and Foretop-fail (two of the moft nceefliry ; being tholl, wantims, and the reft more than half wom ous. The Admiral here told com plainly his defign ot geing a f:cond tiine for the Mergcllanick Srairs, for they lind the Summer now before cm, and they would nor fail of a ftock of Victuals in going that way, at leaft if Scals and Pen anins would ferve the turn,

Thefe and other Arguments which were terge for this
The Soldiery Courfe thicy had to much Patience as to hear, but fo much to the errait In Apudence as to anfwer with only factious murmurings, and ar laft downight clamours againtt hiun that propo:' ' cm ; in thorr, they fivore all round, that they would never go to the Srries again, bit fail directly home, and thar nothing foulh diver em from their purpofe. The Admiral was of highly incensd at this daring Infolence, that he refolv'd to make one of the principal Mutinecrs an Evample to che rett, and that with his own Hand: This fol ow refurd to go to the Megellanick Straits, bur the Admiral would now forte him to make a much longer Voyage, and for that end whipt a Rope about his Neck, and intended to ftrangle him : When the Company faw that he was in good carneft, and the fellow was yr ing to por indecd, they all defird the Mafter of the promis'd they would beotediems for the future, and take of the Winds together, they did nor come to St. Helcna, fuent to fuil what Courfe he himfelf thould rhink fit; fo the Crimi-. but, as it fhould feem, nuade the beft of their way for homewab.
 math better humbur and more govermble for fome cime, Death, and as bad as his Mcindid the Megellemicke Sc., ints; after the Admiral had chus cxerted his Authority, and for, having been unfortunate, he was afham'd io fie bis thewn that he was not afraid of 'em ; but all the while Native Country wichout fome Perfurmances worthy burk they were not really mended, they did but carry it fair- of it and himfelf: Bur'swas in vain so effit, and ann ly and fimoorhly to his Face, when ar the fame cime chey muf go mhen ibe Dcvil drions, or any fich Furics as thofe fecerty curs'd him and his defigns, and plorted bis de- were that tormented him. Aruction.
tre Admio 'Twas in a terrible fear of their Villany thar he liv'd ral's croubte all the time be was athore at this Tland abour new buit \({ }_{\text {cind }}\) wisus mu- Crew ding the Boat: The Portuguffs had continually a warchsinous crew ding the Boat: The Portuguefs had continually a warch-an the tamd. ful cye upon him, and wanted but an opportuniry to affaulr him; befides, there was bue a fmall Creek char parted thefe Encmies from.him, and he bad reafon conough : to apprehend thar forme of his good People might hold a ! Correfondence with'cm: For him to fufpect dhus much Corrcipondence with em: For him to impect chus much of them, bad nor been at.all any injury to the Rogues; of them, had nor been at.all any injury to the Rogues;
for befides, thar their rebellinus and treacherousDifpofirion was a fufficiens ground for't, they were at that time actually caballing with the Porruguefc, and confpiring the Murder of the Admiral and all the Company antores, and a certain Irifoman. (one of the namber) broughr the Derign to as much perfection as the circumftance would admit of, that is, he led the Porrugumfo oucrint the Night- \(\underbrace{\sim}_{\text {Sigi. }}\) time, and knowing that the Mci' were moftly umanid Horrid frico. he affur'd the Enemy, that they might do cven what: ther, ch.ry. would with 'em, fiuce they coud make no refiftance; and fo all the dick and wounded onc: were murderd up: on the fpor, and the reft taken Prifoners.

Afer this Mifchief done, the Roir tugurfe wene oter to the ocher tide again, bur Ieft feveral Partics of Inlitions planted up and down amongit the Bulhes and Trecs who to diftrefs'd our Men with thacir Arrows (and yer could not be hurt themelelyss) that they were forc'd to quit the thore encircly, ind go on board the Ship: This was a very grear prejudice to them, brcaufe they had nor finith'd all the Repairs they came athore about, neither had they hid at char flock of Wood and frem Water they wanted; but'rwas inpoffible ro ftay, and fo rhey were oblig'd to fubmit to the prefent urgens Nieceffiry.
The Admiral now made only a thew of living, for his Heart was to far broken that he could hardly befaid to live indeed; all his Hopes wiere gone, and be defir'd nothing forere thain to get into fome defolate place, and ro lis down and die ; yet titll he had foine mind to be railing towards the Siraits, bur his outragious Sailors tubbornly refufing it, he propos'd the going for St. Helcur. This Defign they fecma'd to comply with, bur yet in effect endeavourd to frultrate ir, for when he was afleep they would fail directly connrary to his Orders; and when they had gorien roo far to the Northriands for \(\mathrm{St}^{2}\). He/cnn, 'rvas imponible to perfwade 'em ro rack abour St. Heicna, rwas amponable to pertwade em ro raci about a little to the Sourdwards again; fo horribly fearful were chey of the Seraits; and to jealous left the Aimiral hould

He was more than S gre to the Northwards of the Line when he wrote thas Leter, and wear together with it bis laft Will and Teftamenr, bur his account heaiss of there, and we hear nor whether he came afthore or ended his and we hear not whe wcarifom life at Sca.
And thus have we the laft Adventure of that Brave and Grear Man, Admiral Caralifo: His mift Joyage was as full of Glory as this was of Misforrune ; Do Mancyer compafs'd the Globe in fo little time; no Man cyer did more happy things abroan, and return'd to his Country in greater Pompand Triumph than he; and 'eis nor unlikely that he mighe hase fione this laft cime as bright as he did the firt', had nor the ill Humours of a compaay of basc Fellows interposid and eclifs'd him.

\section*{С нар. IV.}

\section*{The ftrange Adventures of Anthony Knivet, (wobo went out moith Admiral Candifh in bis laft Expedition) amongSt the Portuguefe and Indians; together woitb bis Travels thro' thofe parts, and the account of the People, their Cuffoms, and the Products of their Conntries.}

WHEN the Reader has confiderd the whole ' Cas has nine Lifes, becaufe we fee it fo tough and harcourfe of this Man's Advencures, feen what dy, and endure fo many kicks and blows; and for the Dangers he pas'd, and whar Difficulcies he fane reafon we may allow this Man ar leaft io many, if Kurmounted, it may be hell be ready to wondet what not double the number. Bur ler us follow him, and fee could kill fuch a man at laft, and what Death he flould how many Deaths he has confronted, that we may judge die : And indeed one may vencure to fay, that ir "is not the better borh of his good Fortune and Conftitution likely he was born either to be hang'd or drown'd, This was the Man that (firf of ail) loft his Toes by kivat lof rows or Chriftian Shot; to be roafted in the rorrid or alfo very near carcn up with Lice ar the fame time: frozen in the cold Zone, to be devour'd by Wild Beafts Twice they imagin'd trim to be quite dead, and accornor (which is worfe) by Wild Men. We axuaily fay a dingly rook hinn up to fling him overboard, bur juft as they were going to do it the man folke, and delird them to forbear, becaufe he was not yer quite gone; and certainly he cry'd out in very good time, for he was as noar going (inanother fence) as four pence half renny is to a Groat.

Cbap. IV. Kniver's Misforturies in the Weat-Indies.
Nor lows afier, the Admiral making a hlow an one of his mummus Scausen with a piece of a miphty Cable. him for dead uron the leck; and truly huing hain there for fome time and thewn no dipns of Lifi, they ecn took him up, defigting to caft him to the Fifice, but (as before) the poor man fignitice on them in a very haf: py minute that he had yot fonce life remaining, and to Gav'd himelf for thas time allo.

At the lates of St. Schefiten te was broeche athore (with fome alters) in the tioft meable caf: that one can cafily fippofea man to be; his Rody was ail over Hack, his Fect (and what Tues; he had teft) extrcamly raw; be was wholly mable to fark, nither could he fir withouchels; he and all his Cumpany were look'd here to take theit Exte beius left cuirdy wa Providence. As for \(\begin{aligned} \text { ritert: pait, being once laid, he ex- }\end{aligned}\) pected to rife up no more, but the others were in better safe than he, being able to move about a little: However having la:n there upon the Sand, under the powerfil Rays of the Sun, for hive or fie hours, he began to come to himeif, the warm sun carrying off that weady Chill that pofferd him before, and raifing his Blood and Spirits into fome motion again: The fiff thing he did was to gaze and ftare about, like one awak'd out of fome deep Slecp, or a man come lack again into the Worid from an Extafic; and the firf Ofjects that prefented themfelves to him werc his Companions lying about him groaning and a man thar liad lur ;uft iow a melancholy Scene to \({ }^{2}\) 'ewas cnough to have made him lofe em all again: To be fure he was fome time confidering into what fort of World he had gn , how he and they cane thicher, and what brought em into thar condition ; bue having after tome rime recover'd the memory of former things, and concluded (as we will fuppofe) that the Ship's Company had fet them all amore to dic, well believe that the poor man was in no finall diffref. He found that his Companions had haften'd their own End, fome of them by eating a fort of venomous Peafe that grew by the Serfide ; this he relates, tho' how he came to the knowledge of it we can't tell. However, confidering the Calamities they were deliver'd from by Death, he thank'd the merciful l'rovidence of Heaven for thewing that Favour to thoic poor Wretches, and at the fame time bewail'd his own Misfortune that he was left out of the number. and chereby refervid for a life of fuch Miferics as he bad now realon to expect.
He lonk'd rowards the Sca, and faw no fign of any Ship or Bar that came to relieve or fee what was become of him ; and as for Food, there was nothing to be had, unlefs he would have eat fome of the foremention'd Peafe: Nicu to do that, was to be poyfon'd. and to forbear, was to be ftarv'd; and tho he was nor at all fond of Iife, yet te could not determine by which of thofe two ways he had beft put a period to it.
White he was in thefe thoughts he faw fomelhing flir upon the Sea-fiore, and makings a fhift to crawl thither uponall fonr, he found they were Crabs playing abous in the Mudd; fo having goten fome of thole, he carricd 'em to 2 hollow Fig-tree hard by, where he found a great Fire ready made, and laying 'em upon the Coals, drefs'd cm in this manier and ear 'cm.
Afrer chis Repaft he lay down to Reep again, and Ilepr till the next day, and then at the time of the Ebb took his opportunity to get more Crabs, which was all his maincenanec, and withour which he muft of necefficy have been farved. And at this rate he livid cighe or nine days, withour the fight of any living Crearure execpithe Crabs he fed uron; but the ttench of the dead Bodies of his Companions begiming to grow very noilom and offentive, he was fain to remove his Quarters to anocher place, and this was at fome convenient diftance, by the fide of a fair River.

But he had not beco here above half an hour before a rerrible fort of Crcature came out of the River, and marifid direetly cowatds hinx; its Back was all cover'd with Scales, it had grear ugly. Claws, and a.long Tail. Ifutcr was ton weik and lame to run away, if that cr.u'd have been a deliverance to him) and thercfore infiead of that, wene forwards to nect it; the Animal upon theis food Atili and look'd at him, and opcining this Mouth chruf out along Tongec, which for the fown he compares to a Harping-iron. As for his pare, he fide his aft Praycre, and expected the next minute to hase cen Ceizd and arip'dinthofehrid Claws the very inhe of which nade him tren bic ; berall of a \(f\) dede the Catacure turnd al out, and manmontic Ri crawain.

 have more foch Vibutas it he fond in that nace, and ten into che Ifland

His ncar place of fettement :us deteminid b; the fight he had of a mighty Whale fing dead upon the floore, like a Ship wifh the Kel urwads; here be mede himesti a leve fort of a Hute and fed uen the Whal for the fince of a formight, anal no donbe there was cnowh lefe for a formgititno

Bur, as anod luck whild hate it, at this place he ane wure mo with fome Company; there were fort Men more fot fit arisa had been) and having ount himetwith them, all ro gether they nade a rette pood thit, and belides, now he was in a much beter fare of tientintoo, and by fec quent going into the Wace had fo far heald his fore Feer, that he was able to walk vory well.

Thefe poor men knew well cnoush that they fions.? never be taken into the Ship again, and therefore nut provide for themfelves as well as the coull., till fome way was open for em to get clear: But it hapued that the Perfuruf' and Sea ages, having fome sway or other had notice of their being there, landed upen the Illand with a confiderable number of Men, intending to dettroy or rake'cm all Prifoners. This News was brought'em in the Nighr, by one of their own Men, who had elcapd the Enemies hands, and told 'em, that two others of their Campanions were taken Prifoncrs, and would be conItrain'd by the Ponsuruj/c to direat them to their Quarters. Neither was there any way for 'em to avoid the approaching Danger, for they would have marchid along the Shore, but the Sca ian fo high that they could not and thercfore were obliged to kece their Poft and be upon the watch: Bur, in thort, all their Care avail'd 'em little for the Portugen's and init ons broke in upon 'em, and Pormempe feiz'd 'em, and very quickly began to do evecerion 'pon and tudiams hele miferable Captives; they knock'd abou: ha'f of' cm murder 'se on the head, and an fintia:" was going to ler c \(\cdot\) hniont the fame fauce, making two or three blows at him with his fhort Bill, but he catchang hold of a Porfigut: that was jutt by, and crying our, that he werf toil wom fime No:bs if they wiuld Scue brs \(L\) Lise, yot a Repricye for that After he had told his Tale (which 'tis probable was C (rizer faves cren what came uppernoft at that time in his fright the his Lite. Portarucfe deliverd him into the hands of a 5 - 1 zr, wich whom he was to go, but he fearing he mould be murderid, beg'd of the Portugrufe to let him go along with him wherever he went; howerer, being anturd that this Jution was his Slave, and that he might fafely venure himelf with him, he followd bim along the Shore. They travel'd tozether almofis all the night, and when Travels with they came to any Rocks that ran our inis the Sea, the touce Copaio Sacare would take him upon his Back, an.. fwin round the Rocks till they were quite clear of 'em, and then and him again; at laft they came by a great Cliff. that ftood by the Shore, and then his favage Guide whifted, to which another that was upon the top of the Ciaffan[wer'd, and upon this there prefently came our five or IIX Po: fugusf, of which one was the Captain of the Company that had thus affauled them.
When Knives was brought before him, he demanded of him, What Nieps? but the Prifoner being fonething hungry after his Nights Journey, defor'd that he mighe firt have fome Victuals, and then he wou!d rell all he kncw. The Porrugusel laugh'd hearily at this Requef of his, but howerer they enonted it, and gave him a pretty good Meal after whith he fatisfied their Curiofity as well as he could as to the Neass they defird.
The ref of the Prifoncrs being al:o brought bither, re- More Ensitf coivd their Fate at this phace; no leis than twenty cight kixid of them were facrified, while \(\mathcal{E}\) :ict and one mere alune crcap'd.

After this he was carried away by the Portuguce to Knivet carthe Ciry of Sr. Seleftimn, firuated won the Ruver of 7 - nied ro S.s. ucro: At their comarice atmont all the City came our to byjibum. mect \({ }^{\circ} \mathrm{cm}\); they made fuch a nojfe with Pipes and Drums as they canne along in rheir Cances. The barbarousfellows (being cone pretty near the Shore) took him up in their Arms and rofsd him out into the Sea, crying,

Freitci's Moftra.
sens en ite

Rums sumy.

Fintecract

Ticre's our Priac, which had well nigh coft him his life, for the Tide ran fo ftrong that hic was almoft sarricd away with it, and had certainly been drownd if one who had mure compafion: than the reft had not contmanded fome of the Slaves that were by to go and fetch him out.
When he was brought before the Gowernour, he examind him, and chen rate hime fur a Slave to that rery was abour to cut lim down with his thort Bill: This was as gond fortune as he could expect in his prefent condition, tor that Perfon usd him wah ercat hamanty and kincurst, made him always cat with hmm and lodge in his own Room, and then lis buliness was only to kecp his Mater's Hogs, and go down to dhe Sca-five to get him Crats.
But there good days ware ton foon over, for the Goisnour ralhang him to a fecond lexammation, the effec of is was, thas he was fent away to work ar a SugarMi'l in the Country; here he had a miferable life on's, he was laflid and brat like a Cialle-Slate, not fufferd to hate a rag of Cloihes to his Back, and nigh farved into the bargann' all which rue together, was to intolerable, hat he refolyd on run away, and tho he had no Reture but a Wideracts to thee into, yer he choughr he could not meet with more lurly Company, nor endure more Straits, than where he was; fo accordingly he march'd off and finding a icrtain convenicnt Cave, he fix'd upon that for his Habitation: All the Day long he went our to fithing, and as Nights be went up and dowa-to the Indigus Houfes, to cxechange his Fidh for other Neceliaries. And bere he mights have lived quictly crough, had not the Governour's case and diligence found him out, bus 'twas his Chance to be difcover'd, tho' being come back they ufed him betrex, and allotted him a lefs flavih Work than formerly he had for-a time.
But his cuer varying Fortune, not long after, brought him into the Surar Concerus again, and that under a more rimanical infulting fellow than he was with before; he was under the management of one that morsally hated an Englifhman, and made lictle difference between fuch a one and a Dog, except is were that the \(\mathrm{DOg}_{\mathrm{g}}\) were the lels beat of the two.

Knivet groan'd under this cruel trearment for the fpace of four months, and then a much better circumftance offer'd it felf to him ; the Governoun's Son pitying his diftreffed condition, defird his Facher to give him to him, which was granced, and fo he was releasid from the bondage of that fort of life. 'Tis truc, he was a Slave itill, but he was not us'd fo much like one as before; he had a Maffer, but it was a Man that was his Miffer, and nat a Bceft or a DeFil; which was no little Confolation too.
There was at fome diftance an Tudian Town calld Hyanafis, the Pcople of which were at peace with the Porturysfe, and for Knives and Hatchers us'd to foll their Wives and Children to 'cm : His Mafter being order'd by the Governour his Father to refide hee for fometime, Kniver came along with him hither, and from hense to Iaromappo. \(\mathcal{F}\) aramropipo, from which place hc was culparch as his Factor with feven or cighrSlares loaden with knives and Hatchets to anocher Sainaze Topm, the People of which were calld Pories.
Haring purinto one of the hargelt Houfcs, as ioon as \section*{the Tomin} Hammonck was ier up for hum, and he ty Woed to lie down 1 pon it; this done, af leaft twenHeads on came into she Room; and fome laying their began to cry our togerher in a molt fad and doleful manner. Knivet could not tell what to make of this fort of catertainment; the begiming puzzled him fo, that he was in fome doube whether the latter end would be Comedy or Tragedy, yet as much furpriz'd as he was, he let the Women go on with cheir ill Munck without giving them any, diftutbance, and they alfo (when they hau donc) went away without giving him any account of what they meant Dy ic. As foon as che Women were pone, in comes an old Savage with a grear wooden Sword in his Hand, his Body painred all over red and black thatee great holes in his Face, one in the under Lip, and the other two in the fides of his Month, and in each an of way hale a green Stone: This fellow came fwaggering into ofteseritg stangut. the Roon, and ftriking his Breaft in a mof pallionate manner, he look'd as if he had been Itark mad, talk d follow'd would be no other than that of Drath it felf. However, (to mew how pleafandy Kriver was cren \section*{\(\underbrace{150 \%}\)} as rood as his life, which in his own makin. portures and preachments, comes amt ftrokes him upna the Head and bids him welcone; afeer thar, he cillid his Servants so tring out what Provifiuns he had, and then inviting: his Guctt to come and partake with him, he made lam know that he was gladto foe him. And the News of a Stranger's being as the detene quickly Tpread abroad in the lown, and reaifid tien ther Towns tõo that were hard by, fo that abundance of the Camibuls came to gaze and itare upc. this anew Face. Kuives was very kindly entertaind and us'd in all refocets by this old Sarefgc his Hoft ; but that which made it the more confiderable was, that he prov'd to be the King of the Porics, and this Houfe confequently the Palace.

Every one of thefe Towns was a Kingtom indepenident, and that food upon its own Bafis, fome grave experienc'd old Savage or other was their King, and the ceft paid him Obedicnce as fuch; perhaps Kniver lit of one of the beft, and a Man whofe Hoficality, Fidelity, and other Virtucs would have rank'd him amongft a betcer fort of Men than Cannibals.
One day, as our Traveller was in the Houfe, there astory of an comes in a cerrain hatoring Savage, King of another infulear sin Town hard by, that was a violent hater of the Portu\(\xi^{n} u f\) f, and it may be at firt took Kniver for fuch a one; he brought a couple of Women along with him, and laying his Hands on their Necks, in that pofture came dancing uf to Knixer: When he had danc'd thus about a quartic of an hour, he open'd his clnquent Lips, and began in this manner; Doft thou fee thefe It omen? (hays he By my Valour I sot chair Loves, and thair Defire I am frorn to fulfill, whinch is to kíll ather, "os l bave dome many more befors. The other rephed, That he was no: of bis Ewerm, nor dish nor come into the Counery to do bing or fry of lis Countivmen mifchicf, Lut fervice, by bringinis theme thofe shings chicy mented; lut if be presended to offor bim nuy Violcrice, be cand all his Country. frould be farc so pey furts. The Savage did nor mind his Anfwer, bur wenr directly to lay hands upon his Goods that lay there, defigning to divide them berwecn his two Miftreffes, bue Kiviver then knive de ftarting out of his Hammock, and crawing his Sword, fudbhimetif ran at him, and almont overturn'd him, which rude AfCaule fo cool'd the Barbarian's Courage, that he durit nos pretend to meddle any more, and the highet revenge he took at that time was, to rail, foold, and threaren to kill is Adverfary.
The fearful noife he made whilft he was thus pouring our his wordy indignation upon Knive, alarm'd the old King of the Paries, who was not far off, and brought him into the Houfe to enquire what the matter was; and when the Cale was told him, he fharply repror'd his Brocher Prince for this Outrage done againft his Friend, and that under his own roof too, and more than that, commanded him in a great fury to be gone our of his Town, and at his peril to come no morecthere without leayc. So the ocher was fain to march away without his expected Spoil, bur he went it feems with a defign to evenge himelf, for next day News came that he had arm'd his Town, and was coming with a good force to ferch away Knioct, whom he refolvid to facrifice according to the Cuftom of the Country: But the other, The Parios as peremptorily refolv'd to defend him as he was to de- arm in has ftroy him, affembled all his People togecher, and having cold them the occafion, they all wich a great mour declard their unanimous refolution to ftand byi him and the Stranger to the laft man; fo they march'd out into the Field to meer the other Savioges that were then advancing towards' cm , and found 'em much inferiour to themfelves in number, which was the reafon that their Enemies (conftions to themelves how much they were overmarch'd) prefently chang'd their Precenfions, and fent word, Theg did nos come with in defige so firbs, but only in drive a Trade end be merry with shem. Upon this a Peace was prefendy concluded, and they went away together wo the Town of the Prries, into which the King freely aimitred all the reft, bur would nor fuffer their Prince to come in, upon the ferce of che Affons which he had lately offor'd him.
Knioct having feen fo happy a conclufion of this bufanefs, refolvid ro recurn to his Mafter again ; but however, to granifie his Hoft for all Kindneffes to him, tic made him a Prefent of the moft confiderable of thofe things he had broughr, for which in rcturin the other gave him feventy Slaves.
And now he took his leave, having a Guard of three comes \(m\) hundred Bowmea, which the King of the Pories would te Parkh needs

\(\qquad\)

 prodigious loud, and walk'd up and down withour feeming to take notice of any body's being there. The poor man in the Hammock thoughr the bufinets muft be done now withont fail, and indced foch an odd Scene assthis would lavemade any one conclude tinat the next that.
needs fend to convoy him aloing: His Mafter was at that/rupted, and the manifet figns of Purrefaction afpear'd time at fllia Grande, where he was well receiv'd by him, and found him well pleas d with his Negotiacions annong the Savatyos; and 'twas a lign be was fo, fince by that unc lie had been at home two menths he propos'd to him a fecond Journey mio the davage Countrics upon the fame account; but Kiviver, whom Experience had taught the Inconveniencics of fuich Journe)s, and befides finding listle or no Profit in them as to himfelf, refus'd to undertake it, and was thercupon fent away to the Governour again, who made ir his bufincfs to be aild day long upon the Water a filhing.
xis firt on In this Employ being one citnc upon a Rock watch midy the ing for a \(D g\)-fifh, it chanced that he fell aflece, his Line ouremour. lying under him; a while after the Filh took the Bait, and by tugging the Line wat'd him, but he being in fone contufion, and running about the Rock to oblerve the Fin's motion, the Line tangled abour his Legs, and the Fith nill pulling hard, dragg'd him riff the Cliff into the Sea; here was the firmerman catch'd by the Fith, and that by the mece help of a Line, without Hook or Bair, a fine Trick, and a fair \(W_{\text {aruing to all of that Prc fetion }}\) When the poor man was thus attracted inno the Warer, onc may catily imagin he wilh'd himfolf our again, cfpecially when he fec the Filh fimming up to him, to catch himin a far worfe lence than the former, that is, between his Tecth; but having always fome good luck (as well as bad) atcending him, he gor hold of the Line with his Mand, and giving it a jerk, to cormented the Fifh with the Hook that ftuck in his Mourh, that he turnd abouc and fwam away, but Kiniect being fafteca to him by the Linc, confequently fwam along with bim. In clis cafe there had been no tielp for him if he had not remembred he had a Knife hanging abouc his Neck in a String, but wich that he cut the tine, and fo difengag'd himelf from the danger; however, kis Body was fo beat and torn upon the Rock, that he was not able to ftir for the fpace of a fortnight.
As foon as he was recorer'd again the was commanded out ro his old unde of Fining, by which means he had one day an opportunity of informing himfelf of fome Englifh Ships that were coming thar way; and as the bad (no doubr) a very longing defire to get out of this mifcrable Bondage, to he determin'd to try if he could

Enemoura
\(\max _{c}^{\max x}\). even with for blew fuchn light of the Ships, when a conerary Wind Boat driven dafh'd all to pieces, whilft he himfelf, was little better than fo, by the sude blows he had againft thofe Reces; but making a mift to get to the Shore, he lay here upon the thand three whole days without the leaft nourifhment, and here he mult have lain perhaps till his Wounds and Hunger together had kilid him, if the Canocs the Governour had fent out to purfue him had nor by chance landed as this plase, and found him in that helplefs condition.
His Entertainment when he was brought back was uch as was to be expected from fuch an Artempt; he was led with his Hands bound behind him, all the Town raild at him and calld him Runaten ; the Governour after a cholcrick recerprion, commanded him to Prifon, and fave order how he thould be treated chere; for a fortnighs he was manag d more like a Dog than a Mian, he lay upon the bare Ground, and was fea with nothing but Crffavi-menl and Hiarer.
C.ndmand

After this Exercite in Prifon, he was condemn'd to be hang dasa Ren grido, and was brought out of Prifon in order to his exceution; but in his way to the Gallows going along by the Ffuites College, all the Fathers came forth in a body, and carrying a Crucifix along with'cm, they prefented it to the Gorernour as a Symbol of Compaffion, and at the fame time falling on their-Knees betheir requet bo the Life or die pror Malefactor: At their requett he was fav'd, but remanded to Prifon, and afice having been mortified there for three days, he was bronght out inso the Marketpla-c, and there whipt with Cords tull his Skir was fetchd off from Head to Foot, or (to ufe his own expretion) till be liad not, a foot of Skin icmaining upon ill bus Body.
Credy uid This Pumifhment over, he was carrici to Prifon again, and trearcd there both as ro Diec and Lodging as before, the effect of which was, that a Eody fo bruis'd and raw as his was, with lying on the bara Ground quickly corrupted, and the manifect figns of Putrefaction appcar'd Vermin and other horrible inftances.
When he was fo far recoverid as to be able to attend Work, he was fent to the Sugar-mill, that foft, lazy, strt to the pleafant Poft, in which he had enjoy'd in mech cafe be- sumar-atiore, that to be rid on't he threw himfolf into the horrours of a Widderncls: To prevent his rumang away now, they fadtned an Iron Weight of thircy pound to his leg, and pur him under che goternment of a man who never met him but he baflinado'd hin, whether there was reafon for it or no; a man that tiever ftrod to conlides Fanlts, nor caquire into the Nerits of a Canse, be tetot: a pleafurcin punitiang, athd diverted himfelf with Cruc:5y. Offen he complaind to the Governour of the baibarous Practices of the lactor, and thew'd him the marks of his rruel hand in Scars and Bruifes, with which tis whole Bndy almoft was cover'd, bue he had now no more' Compallion for him, and feem to abandon him to the Tyranny of that Officer.
At laft, when he had fuffer'd nine months Opprufion sedbe co of this nature, and fave no hope of relcafe, bur by a dold fisis, x. and cofe ftroke of his own, he determind to make is, and rather chofe to kill the Factor than diteter himfelf to be kill'd by himn; and that barbarous manhimfolt horrly after gave him both the Opportunisy and the Monte to put this violent Refolution in practifc, for as \(\begin{aligned} & \text { सhiset }\end{aligned}\) lay adkep in the Sugar-houle the Factor comes in, and: with a Cudgel frikes tim a found blow over the Ribs. with that he ftarted up, and fecing him ready to repeat his itroke, he carch'd up a Kunife, and givina him two o: three ftabbs, gor off, and made the beft of his way in:e the Woods: Here he wandcrd up and cown, wining fome Lyon or Tyger to come and devour him, rather than fall into the hands of the Portuguefo apain; and rwas in the midft of his moft fearful thoughts of this matter that he heard a great noife of Pcople in the Woods, which pur him almolt betides himfelf, he belicving them to be his Putfuers.
As the Noife encreas'd fo did his Confufion; fome- His erape times he ran and fometines he food ftill to hearkeri, But fom thore ar latt perceiving them to come nearer and nearer, and that purfuse: finding a necellity of fome very fecure Shelrer to be gotren that very momene, he look'd abour and "ried a Caavale in a Trec, which is a fort of buthy ftuff compesd of thick long Lcaves, and as bug as an Eagle's Neft, inno which he gor and lay very clote and Atill; but he had nor been there above 2 quarter of an hour before the Tree was compars'd abour with Indians that were fent to featch for him; they knew nothing of his being rfiere, but fecing it appear like a place proper enough for hiding, they fliot a good many Arrows up into the Tree, and whena they liad done that (no body crying out) they went. away.

Poor Kineet was fo terrificd with this, that he kepe is his Neft two days and nights, in all winch time the eas noching, So thas when he came down he was in a verg weak ard faint condition; Gut as well as he was able he dirested his courfe to the Sea-fide, and went along the Shore, in which mar h he tound rwo or chree Sheregs ying there allecp, with their Fithing-tackic by 'em, and rome listie matters of Provifion; this was to fealonable an occurrence ro a man ready to be flarv'd, that it has. been a fault to have neglected relieving himfelf by ir, but he did it very modeftly, and never wak'd dhe sajages to cellifem any thing cirher of the Virtue or Vies of what he had done.
A litsle farther he met wirle another Sarige allecp, whom (upon a frict obicrvation \({ }^{3}\) ) he knew very well to be one of his fellow Slaves, and him he made bold to awaken, to cnquire into the reafon and manner of his coming thither; and truly, upon comparing notes toge-Solmen mi. ther, dicir Cales were juft alike, for he had thed Blood rons fories: too, and was a Rencrado as well as Knitur, and durf no rem. more go hence than he, fo that she likenefs of their paft circumftances was an Inducement to "cm rofeek their forrunes for the future together. And this conjunction was. To much the happier on Knive's fide, in that this Saurge was a ghear man in his Councry, and befdes of wonderful honeft Principles, infomuch that the other declares he never anct with. crucr friendidip from any than from him.
Thefe two Wandercts (having adjufted the mattersof their Courfe) fwam over from the lland to the Main and came both very feeble and weary afhore, for the Arm of the Sea was ar leaft two miles wide: Now they came out into a horrid Wildcmefs, where Lyons and Tygers and fearful Serpents were very common; their Food was wild Honey and Palmetoes, and a fort of Snakes. whish the Cannibals call Bancyn.

Cecos
When

When they had traveld here thircy feven days, they lhim in fome protit, for in the fice of a Twelvemonth ane our into an open champion Country, and at lati he had laid up two hundred Crowns. reach'd a place, the profpeet of which Knivet feem'd to know; upon confideration he found it imas Piamita, (the Town of the Ponis) where he had been fo well receiv'd before, and his old Hoft was no lefs glad to fee him now allo. Here he told'em the caufe of his coming amonett con, with all the Barbarities the Po:curuf: had excreis d upon him, and this, togicther with fome Periwafions to renounce the Alliance and Freendhip of the Portusuefs, wroughe fo far on them, that they refolved with one confen: to break off from them, and defend both whemfelves and him agant 'em.

And this Kefolurton tis polithe they had maintaind, had not fume of their Xeepheors (that were fond of had thot fume of their Acepheurs that were fond on Opiniche of that Per'c mo \({ }^{\circ} \mathrm{m}\), bet they cred up the a rate, that the others helierd what they faid to be true; and therefore, to gratife fuch a lecep.e as them, poor Khiee was deliucrid bound into their hands, and fo prefinted to his oid Matter the Governour's Son, who was come ino thofe parts to buy S'aves.
'Tis true, the malicious Neighbours had tota Tales, and inkirnid the po tugufe that Kmiot was at the Tonn: of the Pories, and tis cerain alfo that Mcfengers were fent to Pitaitat to domand him, before the Po ins know aty, theg of that Information; fo that is mult be granted'twas a fort of a Supprize uron 'cm, but yet that wil never excufe their Infidelity and Breach of Promife.
Porsis
Khioe leing brought beforc his Mafter, was now under an abfolute nectify of fubmitting to all Condrions imposd upon him, in order to the faving of his 1 itc ; 'rwas in his power to chufe whether he would go home and le hang'd (for that muft be the leaft of his Fate) or take upon him to do the Work enjo: nd him by bis Metter, and which he had fome reafinno believe wonld not be very cafe; however, this being (at leaft to pecfene view) more clisible than pafling immediarely into the hands of an Exceutionc, he chofe that part, and ftond on ins Miafter's Jeafure.
Gocranober Accordingly he was difatch'd (with fome fow Serages pouncy. in company/ into a certain Councry of Cannibris fro craffick for Slaics, and a difmal Journcy he had on'r for 25 days towe:her, over Wood and Mountains, änd in comimual Dangers by fierce and ravencus Animals; at lant they came to a very fair and broad Kiver, epont the Banks of which the Town (where they were to trade) was ficuated, and having get a Cance, as they were fiv mung down the River they overtcok anjther Canoe in winch was two of the Natives: Thefe Saiagrs were infinitely atonith'd to fec Krizer in his P. reugecf: Habit they gized at him wich a ftrange cagernefs; and fecm'd donl tul whether they fhould efteem him a Man or no:
stranze y. lin ofthic
Savica. bour ke. and lock'd more fike Birds than Men, and if they had had Tails, might well cnough have pafsd for a couple of sceat Fowl. In thor, 'swas impotible to fee of what Complexion they were, except by fome few places in their Lees; they had befmear'd themfelves from Head to Foor with a fort of vilcous Gum, and laying their Fcathers on upon that, they fluck fo clofe that no body could be lare (at firt fyghe: thas they did not grow there.
Aficr cach Parry was fatisfied with looking, (which was no litte while firf) one of Knivecs Seogges which was of that Country was commanded to tell "cm the defign of their coming, and to defire 'cm to give norice of ir at the Town, which they did yery willingly, haring been gratificd with fome lit:le Trifles.
Abour two heurs af er came forth a body of at leat five hundred of thele feather'd Anima's, leaping and finging, aiad thewing thenifcl es extreamly glad of the coming of theie Strangers to their Town; and when they had brougit them thither, all the reft came to receive them, and expres'd their Joy in the like manner. Kniet was carertaind with a mighty daal of Ceremony, led from Houfe to Houfe, and had long Specehcs made to him by ail the priacipal Men; and when they came to the main buincis of dealing f, r Slaves, he fucceeded to well in it chat he bought no lets than ninery,
This Affair over, he returnd so his Mafter ar thbia Gronde. with the Slaves he inad sorten, and under his protection, and his company, went home again to the Governmur, who had now loft all fentiments of Difpleafure and Revenge, and was become mighry full of Cire and Fear for him, lett fome unhappy Accident or orher had Priset in a betided him in his Rambles. And now he was advanc'd so 2 Poft in the Sugar-mills fomething like, and broughir

From this pood and credble rate sy that rinc be wos. was come to catt the (wectects of it) he was forcidaway by a War whil, broke our letwecn tome of the mina, which were Frem's and Allicsof the leorewnyand ethera the nolt meral Inenics of bofh.

 march'd under the command ef the Governour's 3 con , amd nice was crifer'd to make one of the Comerny. To r.ll all the Difticultics and Cerrours of this Journey would be a Work soo tedions and irkiom; fometmes they waded thro' Rivers, mardhed thro' marthy and muddy Grounds, crofsd ite p and raperd Montrins chat hafed p ther Heads inten the mide e Region fof the Air; many ames they were pinchid feveroly for want of lood, and Difale mate ufon this fore, together with their ennlant red:rus Marches, the who'e Army was much enfcelled. ard abundance quite worn off their \(i\) egs: Thoy had ferenal creel Distempers rife amongtt com too, bur primipally amongh the confederate Inlifens, who therefore cried out of Sipi rits and Hohgoblins that fluterd abour-and tormented Dincmes. them at that rate; but the oreth on'ris, that the: dicat chicfly (as tis common in thofe he Conutrics in do fo) of excellive Swating and Fainnels, toune her wath the Worms laceding in the Fundamene and confuming thole parts. The Remedy the Indicus ofe fir this is conly to take Slices of Limens and \(z\) ecor Peifn, and pit it into their Fundaments, and with chis they generally perform the Clire.
Bur at one particular Srage in their Jonrrcy they tere veno en mightily troulled with a fore of icry for frous Snakes smans. hat were all abour in a Botrom, where the Am; encampd; they killd atout cee of 'em lefore they coulh face their lndging for that nieht, and yet they had ro more mifchict dnne than only the iof of an Inlisen who was bit by one of'em; this peor man, as forn a; cerer the Wound was given, fivelld vioknd:", and tare Biood guth'd ont of his Eyes and from under his Nails, and in that condition he dicd.
In another place they were much more endangerd by Rud F Ex a kind of Fruit, which was very pleafant to the tafte and as permicious other ways: Here the whole Axmy, both Portuguffe and Indians, were fick, and Knivet fays, for all that he knows had perifid, had it nor been for a piece Company had by: (as be calls ir) which one of the Company had by:him. Their beft Food in this march sarcity of was Pines, Palmetoes, and wild Honcy, and fometimes trovilua. a litcle fin:ne-Wheat and Potatoes, bnt thefe chings were but feldom to be goteri neirher, their way lying tifo \({ }^{\circ}\) more rough and untruitful places'; 'tis a fign thery were hard pur to in for Victyals, when they ear up ail their Leather Targers by the way, nay, the.very Cowhide thar cover'd the Hoft and the facred Utenfils was devoura roo, and had thofe Inftruments been made of Leather, they-would have been gone as well as the reft: But'tis a wonder that inne the prefence of the Hoft has produc'd fo many miraculous Effects, it Mould nor co fumething here, to keep thele gnod Catholicks from coming to fuch Extremities as oblig d'cm to ent up the venerable Hide that covcr'd ic from the Injurics of the Weather: We are told; that the Beafts themfelves have come out of the Woods, and the Fowls down from the Trecs, to pay their Adorations to it: Ah, how happy and feafonable would is have been for a company of wild Hogs or 300 d far Decr to have cone and worthipid the Hoft ar this time, and have given the Pornusuc/a an opportusity to cut their Throats ! But there were Infidels and our Heretical Councryman the Spawn of Luther; in the Company, and who knows whar an obfruttion their prefence might be?
Now this Army (yon'll fay) was in a fine condition to encounter a furious Enemy, they had nothing to dofend 'em from a thowre of Darts and Arrows, for thetir Targets. (which flould have been upon their Shoulders) were in their Bellies; and certainly they had been ina 2 hopcfil cafe. if their Enemies had nor been all ran away but when they by fo many long and horxid Marches had at laft reach'd their Town, they found no body. there: Pcriaps there was fomething extraordinary in this, the wicked Spitirs of thar Town finelr whar was coming, and in a ftrange hurry weie fore'd to fly the prefence; which hapned well eroorgh for ine Poitugucf, who elfe in all probabilicy muft have fled from theirs. The Tamorn's (for fo were cheir Enemies calld ) had lefy forme fore of Provifions behind 'cm, which they took potlellion of, and beffdes reap'd their Harveft of Mandicque for "cm. They faid here two months, the mott rart of whel nime was imploy'd in nothing elfe bur providing a flock of Vietnals for their return. By this Town is a Bog, which after Rains abounds with Frogs that are a very good Mcar and much eaten; there are a great many large Snakes tco which derour chofe Frogs, and are themicles devourd by any thar can carch and kill'em, being a forr of Fiood Gufficiently cftecm'd both by the Ind ans and Portugates, but it fecas they are bold fierec Crcaturcs, and willboth aflaule and purfue a Man, for one of the Company that went out one night a Frog-catching was like to be catch'd by one of thefe Snakes, it was a very great one indecd, at which he came in not a litele far'd; upon this \(k\) miocs (who had more courase) went out with a good Club, and coming to the place where the Smake was, the immediately quited the Prey flic had in her Mouth, and rating up her Skin, like the Scales of a great Fifh, and opening her Mourh very wide, the put her felf into a pofture to leap at him, but he by one found and fortunate blow prevented that affault, for hirting the Snake than this the Fricr was fur to prepare hin for anothe World, and tho' the good Father was fo charitable as to make two Vifits to him, cxhorting him to Confeition, yet not a bit of Sin coula be gor out of had (as he faid) confers'd them all to Hearen before. In thorr, he was led to the place of Exceution, Made his Specch to the Company, and expected the fatal rurn, bur the Officers ( who had many of 'cm a kindnefs for him.) hapned to fall into a Dcbate among themfelves what Authority the Captain had to put hum to death, efpecially fince no Murder was done, neither was he impowerd by any Commiffion from the King; and truly upon confideration they found he had to little, that they commanded the Exceution ro be faid, and went away to the Caprain to intercede for the Criminal's Iife; and tho' he refus'd to grant is, yet they were refolv'd to have in, and fo accordingly by their own Authority (in Spite of all the Caprain's Proteftations to the contrary) they return'd and difcharg'd him.
When the Army had ftaid in this Country fome three months longer, they began to march homewards again, and Knivet addecfid himelf to the fecking new Adventures; to go home with them would be to go to a sertain Dearh, (if at leaft any could be certain to to dippery a fellow) and sherefore he beg'd licave of the Captain to go feck his Fortunc: This was more calily granted him than his life before was, for as he was not fond of the Captain's compant, the Captain was not much conscind about his. but cren gave him tiberty to difpofe of himfelf how and where fe would.
Hic under-
Upon this permillion Kniv \(r\), with twelve more of the Porrupuffe in his company, took leave, and began their Journcy: They went down the River of Faicro in a Canoc which they made of the Bark of a Trec, and coming to a certain Viliage, they landed there, intending for the furute to go alrogether by Land. Here were on Inhabitants at all. but is fcoms the Indians came hither fonctimes to fih; for here, they found good fore of earthen Pots", and in "crin Lincs wich pieces of Gold ticd to them, winch were wed for that purpofe; likewife here they met with many fors of very fine and ficautiful Stones, green, red, blue, white, others very glittering, and as clear as Cryftal. They concluded by thefe tokens that they mult be yery near to Potafin, and thercfore travelling South-weft from herce, they came into a fort of 2 brown barren Soil full of Rocks and Hills, and yet many finall Rivers waterd it 100 ; 'liere they found lumps of Goid as big as Hazle-nurs by the fides of thefe Rivers and great quantitics of fine Duft of the fame Metal.

After this they came our ipto a fair open Country where they had a profpect of a wonderful Mountain at leaft ten days Journey from 'em; it Thone with a dazling Iuftre, and when the Sun came abour, fo that the Beams were reflected off from thence rowards 'em; they declare it was very croublefom travelling againft the light of it: TTis pity they bad not told us what it was that made this Momman to reflect fueh a lahe, for it har a to bo Cuppos'd that Men famuld be bi, te:pid as to pais loy and si:0 not encuite into the caufe of fo temarka! Ic a ibe con: nom, tho' it's not improlalule that the att moners ot thofe fair bright Sotes Mofere mencir: it night let the cafon of fucha thimus.

About the foot of the Mownain they foma dumance of the Timntrdro's or Anr-icers; this hamal is as lis as an ordinary Bear, and like it in the Budy; but it has a Snout of almoft a yard long, and a very great Tail all black and grey; they have the Name of an-berers from their fo conftant devouring thofe lineets, for they thr- 1 their Tongues into the Ant-hills, and then when the Ants are fertled in grat heaps upon them, they draw them into their Mouths, and to fwallow dhem all down Chefe Tamandru's are good Mcar wand ours Tra:clers fer red themfelves of them very confiderally for the Ficthpart of their Provifion.
They went along by shis Monntain at leaft twenty davs before they could find any raffage orer it, bur a laft they did find one, tho not over. ;et unaicr it, and that by a-River that ran quite thre"; where this River went, or whicher 'swould carry cm, what Voricxes and went, or whicher rwould carry cm, what Voncxes and Whiripools, what Cataracts and val talls of $ater over Rocks and Precipices there mighr be, the: krew \({ }_{n}\) not, but yct they refolvad zo actempr a paffage thi; way.

Now who would not think that thefe Mon were in Ther fo fome very great diftefs to find our Death and Danger, down the fir: when they went ro look fort in a River that ran under a semern. mighry Mounrain, and (for all that they krew) dnu: into the great Abyis? Or had they been lure to arowall fuch Dangers, yer King Fames's Reaion ngniat thoontre London-bridfe would have prevented frme People ; cilan: from cngaging in fuch an Enterprize; for firecher Mo:atain muft fall one tume or orher, twas not imnofitic is mould rumble dnwn vpon their Heads: However, they pur that to the venture, and making com a fort of a Boai of Canes, between threc and four yards ivide; and hix yards long, into is they went, carrying frme fouc of Provifion with em, becaufe they could net tell howi'ng rwould be before they came our again; and indeed N ... ver plainly declares, he does not know how long the were in that horrible paffage, he fays thcy went in of a Morning and came out again of a Morning, but chat's a! he knows of the matter : Now this mult cridently be from one of thefe two caules, cither they fiept a great while and fo loft time char way, or clic thcy were ait the while in fuch dreadful darknefs that they could neve: diftinguid Day from Night: However, he fays, when chey hid gone quite thro' and faw once more the chearful Lighr, and the face of the fuperinur World, they were wonderful glad; which any one will caflly believe, that thinks what 'tis to faibunder the bortoms of Muuntains And now fecing How fes all about 'en', ther'determin'd to quit their Boat, and go and throw thernfefies uron the mercy of thofe Sareses that dwelt there, and learn of 'om how to fteer cheir Courfe for the future.
So they made up rowards the Heufes, and as foon as Taker br:
 moce 'cm, whooping and hollowing alt the way. Having raken "cin, they precenty tomand hér Hands, and ticed Cords abwar their Middics, and foled 'cm away to their Town. Being brueghe thither, wo or three grave cld Men came to examine 'cm of what Country they were, anda the Porfíguefe all confefs'd directly whar they were, but Knioct faid he was a Frenchman; and it had been well for Them if they had been Frece men too, for: they were not aware inro what Country they were rambled, nor into whore hands they were fallen; thafe S.rarges were the Titmoyes, theirmoit irreconcilable Enemics and no whom nothing in the World was more pleafant an to thed the Blood of their Nation.
Within two hours afrer chis Examination and Confcffion, Execution came on; onc of the Portigucf: was led between fix Shocges our into a Yard, and then an old Man came to him and bid him look about him and take his laft view of all things that pleasd him, for he fhould now Fee em no more; upon this a lufty young Sarafe with a grear Club advances up to him, Dffe thoul foc me? (fays manner of he to the poor trembling Porruguefo) I cmboriact bas k:li' d mair Excou many of thy. Nation, and will now kill stice; and as foon as \({ }^{\text {sions. }}\) the word was our of his Mouth, with two found blows he difpatct'd him: When he was dead they held him over the Flame, and ftript off all his Skin, and then having takeri nut the Vifcerf, (which they gare to their Women that ftood by) they cut our the body into Joynts, and fent ir about from Houfe to. Houfe as far as 'rwould go. Thus they ferr' \(d\) all the twelve Portugmef one after another; they made fo many Feafts of them, and were merry to the higheft degree, doing nothing bur drink, Cccce 2 dance, dance，and hollow Nighe and Day as loas as thefe Dian－ ties latted．
When Kniect had feen all the Porcmisucfe thius devour＇d， the expested that they would be very yuickly for tafting a picce of a Fchibman too，bue truly whent they hau don all their Sports the：came to him，and told hum he mound not niced to fear the like treamene that the Portusuffe their Friends，hur the portugufe had always been theis Encmics and made Saves of cm ，and＇twas for that rea fon that hey had dealt in this rigorous manuer with them．
Thus ciur Eyrlifomen＇thu＇inder the notion of a F cuctinan）livid noc only free fromall fear and danger， bur alfo ingord credit and eftem anoongt＇ cm ；and he was．Eerviccable to acm upon many aciounts，he taught them how to encamp，to pur themfelies into order of Battel，to fight regularly，and feycral o：her things rela－ cin：s to Military Diferpline；they neese would go out to Bacel without him，and in the time that he was wath them dhey mind feyeral Advantages over other Nations of Sares thar came to difturb＇cm．＇Tis the Cuftom oí thefe larbarous Pcople to go roving abour，wholeNa－ ciuns of＇cm tozerher，from oric Quarter to anotler，and that as rfeen as they have a mind cither to change their Habitations or miake War with any other Peopic whom they are jealous of，orfufpect will be their enemics．

And kinver now found foncthing of an linchnation in thefe Timejes to leave the Country where they dwelt at that time，and remove into thofe pares of the Continesre Where they sonld have Trade wich the Frencl，and where they hadaifn firmerly livid；he didnot ftife this motion betcerear urd ro promore it as much as he could，for his Iaretres feem＇d to be infeparably link＇d to theirs， and thercfore if be went along with them into thote pars，there was fome hope of his feeing Ciriffian Face gain，an？getting an Opportunity to make his cfcape but if they itaid here thole hopes were for cver loft，fince they would never care to part with him．In mort，after he ind given them an account of the place．he fix＇d upon for their fert！ement，and the probabilities of a good Com－ merce with the Fremble there，they unanimouly refolva o relincuith the Councty they were now porfecsid of and so and plant themfelyes there；fo they march＇d away in a body to the number of charty thoufand，thro Wcods and Dcfarts，over Mountains，Hills，and Rivers， fomecimes \(\lambda\) iorthward and fomerimes Sourhward，fhaping cheir Courfe as Necefity and Pelicy together directed them．and had they nor gone ro War with another Na－ tion of Snenges by the way，they might probably have finifid their intended Journey with fafcty and quiet cnough，b：t engaging themfelves againft a certain Pcople who were the Allies of the Porsuguefs，they broughe 2 complear Ruin upon themfelves；for thofe People being confuderably worfted by＇em in one Battel，went and cravd Succour of cheir Friends the Pertuyesf，who quick 1y rasd an irmy，and fenr it ous under the Command of the Governour＇s Son，he with whom Kniuer wear before upon the like Expedition，and who had fo many times been his Mafter；and thefe much better Soldiers，with their Mart al Furniture，and efpecially their terrible great Guns，位daunted the Army of the Tamoges，that they were like fo many Men withour Life or Soul，and not a all pritending to difpure the point with cm ，fubmizted themfelves to their Morsy．

The Capain was aftomifh＇d to find his old Servane Nitact alive amongt thefe Rople，but having examin＇d him what was become of the twelve Porrugucf that tra－ veld with him before，and finding the Tamores bad facri－ fic＇l＇cm，he prefendy save Orders to his Soldiers to maffacre all the old Men and Women，and bind the ren for Slaves．Thius was the whole Nation in a mannercut off， 10000 kill d upon the fror，and the remaining 20000 led into a Captivity worfe than Deach．
Tis sruc indeed，that there was yer remaining a frmal Town of this Pcople，as they accidentally difcover＇d af－ crwands；for gcing ouc upon a new Expedition，againt nitucr fort of sianges，that were come to take up thei Dwellings in fome of thoie places where the Tamoyes had been before；they found a Town of chefe Temoges，who lind liv＇d ty dembelves in a Mounainn ever fince the firf Conqueft the Pertuguefc hadinade of＂cm．Their Captain
A－voli，nts－（Kinices fays）was ar leaft 120 years old，a Man of won pate kins．derfui Serength and Stoutnels for his ycais，and of a very daring Courage；he with his Pcople joynd with the Purturucf，in their Defign againft thele new Enemies， and being come in fighr of their Army，he runs into the thickett ranks of the Poriugueff，and bid them that had never（ecn him oiferve him now，and follow him into

Hour：When he had faid this ke took his Row and Arrow and charg＇d into the very middle of che Encony，of whom
```

~ he kilid three proscrety，and was himielf thor with one and twenty Arrows，whach remanind uticking in in Body．Before he died，he defir＇d ro be initructe：in the Cloriffitu Religioun，and to have Baprihn adminiftred to him，both which buing douc，he expird，calling upon God for Micrey in a very devolic and fersene manner．

The Pertu！＇if：had no arcat trouble to put an end ro cmis War，for the Encniy nerer flood to joyn Battel with cm，bur rata all away，and they not thunking is worth heir while to purfue cm，return＇d home．
Afrer this Kmivet liv＇d fomething betcer with the Co－Kniur＇kupe crnour than before，but yce he was grown to horrible to dmoen． weary of this Country，where he had mes with fe many Difafters，and fuffer＇d fo many 及隹erics，thar he refolv＇d once more to attompr the making ancerafe from it；and his Plot fucceceded，he gor on board a Ship，and came to ingria in dffich，froms whence be wear up the Kiver of Gkamfa to the City of Mafangenc，intending to lervethere． as a Soldicr for fome cime，and then mavel chro＇lifibiopia into Twioy，and fo home．
But is fecmis there was another Journcy cur out for him at this time，and inftead of making a Vilit to preficr jolm or the Cromd Scignior，he mult once more go and fee the here by 2 Purfuivant，carried away Prifoncr to Angola，Arnofikh ： and from thenceto Sr．Scbaplian to his old Maftcr again． The Guvernour ceceived him after another manner now than he did the firt time of his roming away，be pu nim＇d him only wich Jokes and Jchts，bid him welcome from Eingland and ask＇d him how all his Friends did there；he order＇d the Fetters to be caken off from his Legs，gave him good Cloches，and us＇d him kindly．
Some rime after this（by a favourable rurn）大nizen had the comfortof breathing the Air of a Chriltian Coun－ ry again，for his Mafter was recall＇d from his Govern－ ment in Brafile home to Liblon，of which（we may be re）he was not a little glad．
They fer fail from Sc．Sebaftien for the City of Feinam－Goon for uso in Brafil，where chey were to ftay forme time，and in this Courfe they fo wondexfully efcap＇d a Shipwreck， that hardly any Deliverance of that kind could be more trange and unexpected：They gor afhore upon this Coalt where they had been expos＇d to to much danger，and made the reft of cheir Journey to Fernambuco by Land．
While they lay at this place，Knivet went to the Wars Gocs p to at Rio Gramic，for that place was befieg＇d by a very porcar Warm Rum Indian King，with an Army of above 40000 Men．The ${ }^{\text {Gread．}}$ Portuguefc fer upon＇cm unawares，and having fuxpriz＇d cm in the midet of their Mirth and Fealts，made foch a haughter；that they were glad to propofe．Terms of Reace the Conditions were，That all their Prifoners footh be re－ csid，$x^{\text {a }}$ and thoy frould be permitted to fire in their omo Cour－
 Spain，and upon sivis fore sb：q would all of ${ }^{\prime} \mathrm{cm}$ ，both King and Pcopif，if baptičd．
The Porsugucle gladly accepred of thefe Condicions， and fo Peace was made，and onc of the largeft Provinces all the Norti of Brafle was added to that Crown The Soldiers got very rich Piunder at this Conqueft，they found Diamonds，Rubies，and Saphires in forme of the Villages that ftood by the Sea，and Kniver for his own part cells us，that he was above five hundred Crowns the octer for this Expedition．
When this was over，he returnd to Ermambuco to his sills to Lif Mafter，and from thence in a fhort time fail，d with him ${ }^{6 \mathrm{~m}}$ ． into Portugal．He liv＇d in the Governour＇s Houfe as Lisbon in pretty good fort for the fpace of nine months； but then falling fick，he was fo far neglected by his Mafter（who certainly owid him more eare and atcen－ dance）that he had fufferd the latt Extremicies if 2 cex－ rain charitable Englifh Nur had not given him a feafonable Relief；and＇rwas by this good Woman＇s means that（as his Sickncfs grew more and more violent）he was re－ mov＇d into the Royal Hofpital，where，he rellis ins，the Pcr：uguefe Doctors bled him rwenty one cimes，and ac laft compleatly recover＇d him；and then when the Phyficians ad done with him，his kind Friend the Nun brought him out again with Money in his Pocker
Now Kuiver chinking all manner of Obligations to his Mafter for the future were utterly canceld by this his crucl neglect of him，did nor go back to his Houfe，but fer up for geting his own living；and the courfe that he becomesm rook for it was，to be an Interpreter to Merchants；＂in this tnerpreterto way he gor as much bufinefs as ever he could rarn his hand to，and maintaind himfelf very well：Abundance of thefe Merchants（finding his firnets for bufinefs）would have imploy＇d him in their Concerns in Brafile and other parts of the $w^{*} f f$ Indies，but he who had liy＇d in that Chap.IV. Kniver's Defcription of the Natives of the Welt-indics

Country bur too long alrcady, and had now a wind ro Frienids to do is for 'ems, and here 'ris a Fancy that there have one look more at Eingland, refus'd their Ofters, and Prople have, to affume as many Nauncs to theinftives as waiced for a favourable opportunity to take that vicw he fo much defirid; bus the Date of his banimment from home was not $y$ er out, his Fortune muft yex have another uathappy turn, and Slat cry that leff him in Berfile meet him once more in Porruyal. To be brief, his old Mafter, that found he would not come ar him, incens'd the Viccroy againft him, and had him laid in a Dungcon, where he was kepe with fo mort in Allowance that his manner of living was next door to flarving: In this Difrefs he conrinucd for fome cime, bur how long we are not certain, as neither alfo how he was deliver'd from thence, bur we know by many intimations that he did undoubtedly fee Eingland again, and rejoyce with his Friends, after all the variois Scences of his difaftrous Foriunc.

Having sun over the H :ftery of this Man's Adventures, we are now to fee the Oblervations he has made unon the Reveral Countrics he travel'd thro', the varicties of Pcople and Nations, with as much of their Cuttoms and Rites as were known ro him, and (after all) thofe Remarks which do more imonediately relate to Navigation and Geography.
The Nativen As for the People of this mighry Country (Brnfic the firt Nation he deferibes are the Petivares, whod well in the Northern farts of $B$ rafil, betwecn Bcya ani Ric Griande; they are not of fo wild and barbarous a difipoGrion as many of the Braflimn Nations are, their greateft rudenets lies in their preferving thofe two notorious Characters of wild and rude Men, which is go:ng quitenaked and devouring Human Fleth; otherwife they are a Pecple of decent and civil Manners enough : If you come to "cm as a Merchant, they'll traffick fairly with you in if as a Warriour and an Enemy, they'll fighr with as much Gencrofiry and Courage. They are gencrally portly, of 2 good Starare, and of no bad Complexion; theirBodics are wroughr all over with fine Works, and cheir Lips penforated with a Rocbuck's Horn, to make room for a green Stone which is to be placed there; bork thele Ornaments (the latrer ar leaft) feem to be peculiar to the Men, neither, do they affume them rill they are of age; but this green Stonc in their Lip is fuch a maxk of Genxility amongit "em, that he thar appears withour it is reckon'd to be of the very Dregs of cheir Nation, and to have no fine Blood rumning in his Veins:
. They allow cvery Man to take as many Wives as he canget, bur the Women can have but one Husband as a time, yer a Wife of one Man may be pals'd off to another, if her prefent Husband gives his confent to it in a publick Mceting. Thefe poor Women are in one refpeet meer Porters to their Husbands, for when they go to the Wars the others lug along all the Provifion in Baskets at their Backs.

But they manage the matrer fill more ody in ano: ther refpect, for when ctiey are deliver'd of a Child, and ought to have all the ceremony and attendance proper to a lying-in Woman, the Husband prefently lies down in the Hammock, (as if he had been brought to Bed himfelf) and all his Wives"and Neighbours come about and ferve him. This is a pleafant fancy indeed, that the Woman muft take all the pains to bring the Child into the Worid, and then the Man lie down and gruntle upon it ! there's few Wamen in the World would like this, to lole all the Privileges and Triumphs of that condition, and inftead of being carefs'd and waited upon by the Men, prefently to become Nurfes or Goffrs ro ${ }^{\text {' } \mathrm{cm}}$ chemSelves ; bur the Cuftom obtains among the Petivares, and their Women is feems don'r difpute it.
The Men are fo vexy fuperticious, that all the while their Wives arc with Child they will nor kill any fernale Animal, Beait, Bird, or Fiih, for they believe that they fhould, their own Child would certainly die.

When they go out a hunting as any time, and bring home fome agreeable Prey along with 'em, they do, by making a Piefent of it to one of their Wives, thew which of the number they intend to lie with that night; the that receives the Favour is not a little glad and proud on't, the fmiles upon she Gift as the happy Sultana does, who reccives the Grond Scignin's Handkerchief upon the like occafion; away the goes to the Water and wafhes, then the comes home, and goes up into her Hammock, and commands all the reft of the Wives ro ferve her $;$ : in inort, the is fole Emprefs of the Houre (as, woll as of the Bed) for that day, and all the reft are very punetual in their obedience to the Orders the gives.

The Petivares are great Enemies to the Portuguef, and certainfy cat all the Prifoncis they take; they that take 'em don's kill ' cm , bur give 'cm to their Brochers on they kill Men.
As for their way of living, they have gend largo Tow: m Towns of their own, and thofe Towns good lake Ho. Cos, for they are with Palructo Bonghs, and have no manner of Particions in'cm: They divide all their Grounds, and jufty enoush obferve every man his proper limirs.
They are not anibincons of high fecding, living nooftly fatap. upon Herbs; Gutinc-mileat, and M.endi que; both Mct, Women and Children walh themfelves every moruing, this is a thing they never omit, but whether there be any thing of Religion in it, or wherher ir be prore Decency and Clcanlincts or no, is nor cercain.
The troft renarkable Animals of this Provinice are the Scrperts and the Monkers; the Serpents are by the Na-like a Crosadile, and are preying. ravenous Crcarüre like them; they lie very till and ciofe upon the ground, and tide their Tails, that they may nor be difooverd 1 y them when they watch for Prey, and then when any Arumal (that thcy dare feize on) comes within reach, thcy raife themfelves, and darting our a coupic of thary, Fins from the fore quarters, kill wharfoever they ftrike.
The Monkeys (which the Perizares call $\mathrm{HF}_{\text {raviva) }}$ ) are as big as an ordinary Spanicl, bur very black, with'a Face almott human, and a scry Ing broad Bedrd ; you nall fee rwenty or more of'em togerher in a Tiec, and cnce of the numocr fhal! walk up and down with his Paw uron his Beard, chartering and making a violenr naife, whitht all the reft fit mighry filland quier, litening to the Dillcourle of thas preaching Monkey.
On the Coaft betwixt Firnamiseo and Bey dwell trie Titpres, which Name Ggrifics Whitd Men, and therefore The Tefge. all the reft of the Cannibals abhor that Perple and their Name, the Warameffes only excepted, who are like the Tapeges in their Manncts, and confequent'y cion t fo much defpire the Name: And they very well deferve to be call'd fo upon this accoune, that they have no fetted Habitations, but run up and down the Woods like the wild. Animads; neirber do they maintain any friendmip or corxefpondence with other People, but are at war wich all, and their next Neighbours are fure to be their Encmies, let em come where chey will: They make holes in their Lips, as other Savages do, but they don't work their Bodies all over like the Periveres, tho' inftcad of that they befmear "exn with a Gum, and then ftick the Fearhers of Parrats and other Birds upon'em. They.are a cowardly treacherous fort of People, never coming our into the open Field to fight. bur hiding themiclves in Holes, and behind Trees and Bufhes, rill they have a fair opportunity to artack cheir Encmies with fome confiderable advanrage; they don't value themifelves by their fighting, but by their running, fo that he's the beft Man amongit 'em who (when he has done a mifchief) can fcour faftef away. They ear Human Flefh as well as their Neighbours, but they \{peak a Language very dificent from all the other Brafticns. The Women here go our to War with their Bows and Arrows as well as the Men; and thercfore if they can but run as faft; are to be oure as good Soldicrs as they.
From the River of St. Francis to Brya de Trdos Santss dwell the Topinaubajes, which are like the Perivares. in all Iopinawasar: points, asto Drels, Language, and Manners, this only excepted, that they let their Beards grow long, which neither the Petivares nor any other Camibals do, but pull it quite away, and that not only from their Faces, bur meir Eyebrows and Privy parcs alfo.
From Baya to the Elems dwell a barbarous and defpe rate fort of Prople calld Wrymores; they are sery big lufty fellows, exceeding ftrong and valianr, (or rather furious) nor cever confidering Danger or the hazard of their Lives, but will atrompr any thing that lics in their way, the' with erer fo grearan odds of Men. They have no Towns nor Houres; the Woods and other Refuges of wild Beafts are their matoral Homes: They don't care where they come, ( into what Province, or amongt what fort of Enemies; for they ate fo very fwift of for, that hardly any body can hurt'em: No L. yon can devour its Prey more greedily than they do the Flefh of Mankind; neither is any Swine more filchy and dirty than (for the moft part) their Bodies are.
The Tomempnes dwell about Spirito Scute, and have The Temserg, every way as much Spirit and Courage, bur withal are ${ }^{\text {mos }}$ nuch more tike Men and ruue Soldiers than the TV:ymares are. They have many Towns, and thote ttronely walld and guarded too; their Houfes are cover'd o or with Bark of Trees; and made with Canes like Hurdies, that they may have the convenicncy of thonting out thro ' em :

706

 Knivet's Defoription of the Natives of the Welt-Indies.Kulive wene to the Wars along with the Porrugurfagainft theic Prople, but lie declares, that tho they had a confidictuble. Army, they tholght every man to dic there, the Scuners andulted em with fuch a well-governd fury and Souners andulted cm with fuch a woll-governd fury and fogreat a refolution: While they were beficed they wo id cone and fand upon the City Walls, (paineed a lacd and black, and befides rrimmid with teathers) he hinge in their hands Whecls fet round with combuttibie naiter, these they would fer of a light firce, atd swaving cm about the heads, cry out to the pe, "ugtif);
 cul atic. One of then troke into the Pirtugefe Army one ding, and coming to the Gencral, took him up in Is $s$ Aims and in fite of all cheir endeasours ran away wih him to the Kiver, where he threw him in, and had certaish drown'd him, if a timely relicf had not come: Bue ar hait they were vanguith'd, and great numbers of 'en killd and taken P'iloners, tho' they made the Portharce io muth work tiett, that they would cafily grant it Was not At ting of trifling difliculty to conquer die timourn:

The Iryernat-r inhabit abour the Norti and South Gile of Cape $l i$ ic, in low marihy grounds; they are bigor Men then the lifymores ane, and wear long black Hair like them; their Women fight as well as the Men, and are accouered with Bows and Arrows; they don'r 1 c in Hamaces: as other Cannibais do, bur like Hogs, Fen the Gromd, tound about their Fires. Thete are a l'cople too that are at War with all Nations, and cat Speniatods, Fecuch, Porturuec, Blackmores, Brafilians, indiferently, according as they can carch 'cm. When you take any of theic feilows Prifunces, and bind em ever fo faft. (unlefs it be with Chains of Brais or Iron) yet you matt hac a watchful cye upon 'cm if you meend tokecp cin. for Kni.et fays that thitteen of cm were left thus in a Houle by rhemifelves bound Hand and Foot, and yer when they came to look for "cm, they were all gone. This hat not harned if they had put out their Fire befine they had goie away, but leaving that burming, the Prifoners mate fifift to roul themfelves to it, and fo burnt afunder the Cords that held 'em.

takiag. arks dare to make to bold with Shacks as they commonly will; have gor con by the Tail, and then drag. 'em along to the chore in that mamer.

Kniver tells us of very great Alligators in this Country, he faw abundanee that were fever yards long, and taking is all rogether, ( the horrible Scales, the ugly Paws, and much more ugly Head of it) hebelieves it onc of the. mof frightful Crearurss thar can be look'd upen, The Pertugus/e are miuhtily for taking thefe Creatures, bat they care not venture to take cm an as the others do che. Si:artes, that is, go into the Water and caich em by their Tails; they finh for 'em with a grear Iron Chain and a Hook as bis, which they bait with a Cock or aHen or fome fuch Animal.: The Tefticles of the sillivaror- (be fays) are as gool as any Musk in the World, and tis upon this accu unt thas the Porrugurf: do fin for' cm .
 of Crablace, that they are a birter plagae to all thar live there; they ftick in the Skin, and when they have once faltned themfelves there sno polling em off again; thereforce Kutiver fays, that when all orter means fail'd, they werc fain to make a Fire of Straw, and findge chemfelves all overlike fo many Hogs, and by that means they were r:d of con. This Country abounds with wild Hogs and a kind of wild Fowl as big as Turkeys call'd Muca's.
The thonanfis dwall eighteen leagues to the Sotutit wand of the River Fancro, at Ition Grandes chefe are People of lower Starure, as well as Courage, shan anyothers we have defcrib'd, but they have much more Humanity; and are nor addictod to ti:ch barbarous Practices as the moft of their Neighbours are; they don't painenor carve thicir Bodics, but the Women colour their Faces and Bodies too winch a forr of red, likeOker, which grows in a round Cod like a Bean, by this means zheir. Faces (which are otherwife fufficiently well-featur'd, and adorn'd with a good natural Complexion too) are. rendred far from enticing, and in hort very ugly. Bbth Men and Wotenen hayectheir Hair prowing long by their fides, and haven on the crown, like Francifian Friers, they are mighty admircrs and rakers of Tobacco, and think it: not: only the beft thing their Councry produces, but one of the grearen Necellarics of Life; for, lefides irs ufein fmoaking and chewing, they practife all their Chirurgery with i 5 , and apply that alone in cafe of any extereat hurt wharfoever.
$\because$ 'Tis of them that the Porsuguef buy molt of their Slaves, and if at any time they: want, they come to-lhe.

Gr.mite, where they are fure to find fome of the whyymafos a firming, who quickly go to their Towns and make provifion for a Mark ct.

The Topineq cos have their Quarters at St Vincene : Tetimagne: The Women bere do all paine themfelves with divers colours, and on thicir ficads they wear a thin Bark of fome Trec, likea Ribbon. When they kill any Man they are all of can (univerfally) painted with a fort of Fruit they call Janipavo, their Heads are ftuck with Feathers, their under-Lips fer with Stoncs, and having cach of cm a Ratele in their Hands, they dance for threc days togem ther: The Men will drink of a very filthy Liquor they prepare themfelves as long as they can ftand, and if they are cyer fo much overloaded and diforderd by their Exceffes, they rake a Pipe of Tobacco, and pretend to be as cafic and freth again prefently as if they had drank noching.

The Pories dwell from thefe as leatt a hundred miles, within the main Land, they are in flature and make moit like the thayanaffes, which is fhort, thick, big-bellied . and broad-footed; their Complexion is a grecable enough, but their Tomper and Qualitics are of all the Savages the moft commendable, for chey will nor go ro wat with any Nation that will but fuffer "cm to live in peace ; they chufe rather to weas Clothes than to go naked, if they can bur get cmi ; and then they take no pleafure in cat ing human Fielh, neither do they make that their Food, bur when they muft do is to keep em from ftarving; in fuch a cafe, if they bave a dead Man by ' cm , they'Il cat him.

- There arc abundance of Lyons, I eopards and Cats of Mountain in this Country; and for Vçetables, Pincs, Cocao's, and Baliamick Trecs, and thefe latt in fuch plenty, that for a Knificor a Comb you may have five or ix gallons of Ballam.
After you have pafs'd the furious River of Paracyur, The Mohit you come into the CQuncry of the Molopaques; thefedif-peques. cr from all the Saugecs (that our Author had feen) in Cois point, that chey have Beards like the Men of other Countrics, whereas amonght all the Nations of Brafile ou thall hardly find any one People that fhew you any bing confidurable of this token of Manhood mends highly their good manners and civil deportmenr Tacir ords: their order and diftinction of Houfes and Families; each man order and diftinction of Houfes and Families; each melling with his own aparr from orhers, and man herc dwelling with his own aparr from ochers, and nor huddling two or three foore rogether in one grear Stall, or under forme thelter in the Woods, as many ocher Savages do. And they obferve their feafons for eating and drinkizs as regularly as rhey do the diftinations of Families; they ear Morning, Ncon and Nighr, and nor (like Beats of Picy) ar every impulic of a ravenous Appeute, or when a bir falls inso their clutches.

The Kingly. Power has annex'd to is the libetry of ex-The Eing eceding all the Subjects in the number of their Wives; and this feems to be the main mark of diftinetion between Soveraign and Subject-in that Country for the King has neither any Garb or Ornamient, any Refpect or Honour, or any thing clife (fas far as he could obferve) to diftinguith him from another man, but only his orcater number-of Women and his Tirle Morouißava, which they always gave him:
The Women Kiveer compares to the Erg: iff, both for tic wome: their Complcxion, Behaviour and good Humour ; they are however, he acknowledges, fomeching too referv'd and backward in their Converfation, being fo very grave that you thall never fec 'en lhugh at any thing thatpaffes, but yet fo quick and apprehenfive withal, that you can Eay nothing bur what they rake. In fhort he believes, with the Civil: and Religious Improvements and Polinments of the Europfan Would; they would be one of the fineft People-upon Earth.
 yellow, brown, black, and they generally wear it fo long that they tie it abour their iniddle (with the Bark of 2 Tree) for a covering; thofe that have not this defence wear a fort of a Furs inftcad of: it.

Their Counery is very rich in Gold, tho" they don't efteem nor ufe it for any ocher: parpofe chan to faften ${ }_{\text {Gold }}$ of about their Fining-lines: This may ferve foranEmblem good enough;:and we know what multitades of fuch filly Fithes theitate in:the World, that are drawn upon the Hook with agoldenPair. They don't trouble themfelves to work' in the Mines for Gold, as the Spaniardsdo, but content themfelves with: fach pieces as they find when the Rain tias wall'd away the Earth.: Where the Golden Mines are, there areno Trees, bur Mountains of dry black Earth; and that particular Mountain-where the Motopagues find moft of their Gold, is calld by them Eteparazangr:

The Morayn＇s porfefs a fairchampion Councry between／by，where an hunden Ships may lie ar Anchor without mader： Molopaques and the Tamares；they are a Pcopic of litule Srature，a good brown Complexion，and they wear their Hair（both Men and Women）nuth as we do in lingland，bur they abhor any ching of Hair nould grow upopa their Chins or Eycbrows，and therefore they alwass pull it away with a Shell．
When Strangets come to their Houres they weleome that they corerain con wih the bell the have： fays，that when he and the Percugn s：＂cance amougt icm， they came forth funging and dancing to mect em upon the way，and bronghe Guiney Wheat and Root；to pre fent＇sm with；but certain＇y never was fuch a Feaftheard of as they made＇cm when rhey came to their Houlco，it crnfitted of Froes；Suher，Scrienss，Doss，Morkeys and Maus－fech，a Tre ar that might have ferved weil enough bad Lfous and Crowadics or fome fuch rude voracicus Inimals heen thicir Gucts；but this was their bett，and it feems fome on＇t went down well enough，tho＇the Macs－ ficth would not，for which the Mosayes la：ghd at them， pitied their ignorance，and told cm ，they had not Palaces nise enough to ditinguin tine Meat when＇was fer be－ forc＇ cm ．
Farther in the Country live the loopos，calld by the Po siftucfe，Bi rero＇s；they are innch fuch fort of Pcople as the former，but their Women more rude and tharac－ lef；mainaining nothing at a．l of the decorum of thei Scx：They live alcogether in the Mountains of．Pinc trees，and upon that Fruir mainly：Their Houfes are only Boughs，tied rosecher with rinds of Trees，and there－ fore are chang＇d as often as they pleafe，or when more Fruit and better Shel：er of Boughs invites＇em to ir．
The Ciountry is as rich in Gold and tinc Stones as mont in all Brafic，but it lies fo far inthe main Land，and is fo populous，that as yer the Portugatef have sot no footing there
The Tract of Land that runs along from thefe Provin－ ces laft defrib＇d，towards the Country of the Tamoyes，is wonderfully rich in Gold and rare Srones；here was that ftrange Mourtain before mencionit，chat caft fuch a luitre at a vaft diftance；here＇twas alfo that Kniver and his Company met with Gold and Precious Srones fo very fre－ quenrly as they were travelling along，that＇twas a won der how it came about that cach of＂cma fhonld not bring otf fuch a Cargo of Riches as would make＇em live jol－ lity for ever after；but he does affirm，that they ofeen timesthxew away the Stones they had，to take up others they met with which they thought fince and more valua－ ble．＂Twas at leaft two months they tratel＇d in this solden Councr；，laving their Eycs crery day fruck wish thofe Beauties and Charms which che whole World is fo mad for，and fo vehemently covers to poffes．

And the Country of the Timoyes it felf is not lefs en－ ticing upon this account：Thefe Indians do no more và lue Gold and Precious Stones than we do Bricks and Triles，and the reafon is，becaufe chey fec＇em almolt as commoniy．They are perhaps the mot handfom raking Pcopk in all Braftic，boch Nien and Women，and that whecher we confider the goodnefs of their Complexion， the cleannefs of their Make，or the juftne！s of their Sra rure and．Pinportion．
Kniut as has becn relared）liv＇d a confiderable rime amonett thefe Pcople，bui he has nor been fo particular as mighthave becei expected in difovering their Cuftoms and Manciss ro us．
The Cotncry of Torcmion was one of thofe that the Temrys pals＇d with Knices when they rravel＇d rowards the Sta．The Inhabitants of it are calid Rigmies，be caule they are of fo very fiviall＇a fize，but they dont ride upon Crancs，nor are they fach foor Animelcul．as the vulgar Fables make．＇cm to be：They divell altoge ther in Cares and other Cubrorrancous retreats，and their main fuftenance is Roots，Wheat and C．$f$ fic：－meal，of which the former is fuch as we have in Eratind．
This Province the Sparia ds clicve to be the common Boandary of Brafite and Perra．becaufe here are the com－ mon Products of both thof Coumries，the Breflizn Roors and the Penctian Com and Grain．They kecp this in their hands，＇tho＇it yields＇em nothing but wild Horfes） for thele litele Tecmans are deferate Enemies to the Peruvitns，and help to keep them in awe under the Spe－ mifh Coremment．
Conith．
Between this and the Country of the Cariolis Aands the fanous Monintain of Metals，fo calle becalife of the Mines of Iron，Gopper，Gold and Qrickfilier that is con－ rains；＇its vaftly high；and all bare，without any thing of a Trer． The chief Town of the Caryots fiands by we Sea；in in tine pleatant rifing Grouod；；there＇s a good Bay hard any dauger，and bere alu｀one nasy be fure to be alwas a furnilhd with yood fore sf $\mathrm{F}_{1}$ ．${ }^{\prime \prime}$ ．In this Comitry a man may buy a dozen Skins of very g，od Furr fer a Knife cr a Finthook，and for any litede paten，ff Trites you hall have an Imdi：n go and fads wo men tirne Butsers af aic－ tals，fome pieces of which nall，it was he，leof nire molt valuake kinds ；tay，fomefir the salue ot ven or drec Riniser and a Comb，and fome fuch chume，In，a lad beught cm to the worth of fun or five the fand crowns in（iod and somes．The C rints are Men of Fro：Courage，they feak the fime lanevare with the Fomyer，and are in molt reficets like em．The romoses warring with thefe Pcople diew the firengeth of the P．．． thay upon therriflese，as was before related，fo that here zwas that our Travelicr hanilhd his Pereerinations at：on this pare of Ancrice，going home from this phace with the lo teras $/ 6$
As to the other parts of fimpian whither his variaide Forrunc broughe．hum，he teils ue，that at Po：t $D$ ；ir，Gymers （whith is the nest Haven to the S：，aiss of $A$ ： there are Pcople which may very，well defere the Name of Gyents：He faw tume di the prints of their 「cet rpon the Shore，and aflims，that th．y invere alove for times the length of an ordimary Mans Foct；and fome of the Fiee turther told him，that when they lay ar Port Defire fome of thefe mentrous l＇enple threw fuh hugestoncs out of Slings from off the Shore ufon them，the they were fored to weieh Anchor and he farther cui at Sce： But more than all this，he acually faw one of them that was taken and brought to Erojuc，a meer Youth， but above thirtcen［ran long；he was fair，we：t propor－ tion＇d to hisheight，and wore his Huir loug，hangng down upon his Shoulders．There are feveral hanali Ri－ vers abour thi：Port，which afoud ercat fore of Pcarl and Coral．
At Port Famine dwell a Kort of Seenars wery diferent Dwarfinteo
 high，but withal wery，thick and well fett；their Mouths are f．wide that they reach almolt from Ear to Ear，and thefe vide Moulls they fill with raw Whardy Fleth， which they de our with an excelive gredlinef：They befmear their Faces and Breatta with Blood，and then lay on lighr downy Feathers，which the Blood makes ftick to their Skins（like fo much Glue．）As for the Humour and Manners of this People，there was nothing as all to be known of cither，for they were fo ciectivily niy and fearful of being catch＇d，that there was no Converfe with them to be obrain＇d．
Knives fpeaks of a certain Beaft in this Country which is bigger than a Horfe，with vaft grear Ears and a Tail like a Cow；they are vcry good Mcat，tho＇he knows no other Name of them than that whith the Indiens of Brafile give＇cm，which is Tipelyw．fon：He Gaw fome of the fame alfo in Etiogia，in the kinglom of anamento， and there the Porruyrucfe call＇em Gomi：．

Bur we muft now take a hori view of his Obferva－ tions of that rart of the World．
＇Twas to Ah：gola that he fled from Brafle，and of this Country he tells us，that＇tis very fmooth and champion． has a dry black Soil，and yields very litile Corn，bur geod Atore of Plantans，if yields neither no forr of Sione，and very little Wood，fo that the Anroinns Houfes are ordina－ rily very pitiful things，co crid wirh Earth；and no bigace than a reaforable Chaunber，but yes divided inso foveral Partitions，in one of which a Man has hardly room to turn or ftand upright．Their Beds are made of Bulrufhes fuw＇d together with the Rind of a Tree．The Moncy moft current amongt them is nothing but the Shells of Fifes，which they pick up upon the Shore，and which the Portugucfe alfo bring in great plency from Brafic ro ingola．Thefe People do much catcem red，blue，and Tin Renpie yellow Clothes，and for a picce of a fan fquare theydl asd their freely give a Slave；the ufe they put is to is，to hang it before，and under that the Skin of a rreat 1 fazel，and this is all cheir Apparel．Their Complesion is the black－ eft of all Africa，and as blach as Jert is fef：The Aven cur long Stacaks in their Faces，that reach from die teps of theirears to their Chins，and the Women war aton－ dance of Shells apon their Arms and the fimall of thicis Legs．The Cuftom of the Counery allows to each Man bar one Wife ar a time，and if ary Perfon lics with his mones ry Neighbour＇s W＂ife，he lofes his Ears for his Offence．All their Children are circumeis＇d，and trave their faveral Proper Names given＇em at that time．

The Apradens do very religiouny frar and reverence their King，they ferve him with all the care and refpect． in the Work，and think it the highelt Crime ro difober dany Command he gives．Finey foght no Duc＇s butwhat

308 Knivet's Defrription of, the Natives of the Weft-Indies. Lib. $\bar{V}$

thev figho by his fpecial cave and per aullion, and in his have not much betrer Dwellings (whatever their Proviprefuce ; they cone beture him, ar falling flat on their Fa, es to pay him their firlt Ald ,izations, they then rife up and knocl, and in that pre .ure crase his, permilfion to fisht; the King thei ${ }^{\wedge}$ akes 'cm over thieShoulders with aHorie-ail, andt y this token fignifics his Pleafure in Sranting thean their D.fire. Afrer the Bated is over, the Surviter at there be any) comes and proftrates himfelf after ".ke fame manner before the King, and having made rion have we run thro' his Remarks upon the Coun-- ony Haranguc, he riks and nakes the Horfe-tail fiom the Kings Bhoudur, and waves is over his Head, and then lavs it uponths shoukderagain, and now he gocs away with abondance of Honour, all the Nobies and Cunteicts attendigy upon bim. When this Priase goes abroad, he that rwo ar three hundred Archars to atend him, ten of rwele Maticame gobefore him playing upon lipes made of Caies, ne:a to thef: follow tive or bix Pages, ant whe car :3 hronsm of by the Nobiliry.

The batumic have a City in this Kingdom, callid sisien S anon, a lace of contiderabic Trade for Slaves and E'uphants Iccti, beciues Provitions, whicta the Blacks bank thather watmer.
Bur chigo (whith cur Traveller vifited alfo) is ect tainly amu in more mighy Kingdom than dursia. This wiour, wa cither fice of his Biephane cheregocs fix Slaves ail of cm Noble, ionic of en of Koyal Blood, yea, Kings thembetes: Thes twas at the time of Knizets Ferng chere, there were two captive Kings, who waited be the hite of this honari hi, Blephant, and feveral of the ref: were brothers amb neat kintmen of Kings; they carry a Cancpiy of Sate over his Hea , and at every the leaf word of command he gives, they fall that upon the ground before him: Before him march at leatt tive humircu Archers; next to the m , and juft immediately before himfelf, goes a Herauld, who proclaims all his great Actions, and cxtcls his Virtuee, thar have made him famous in that pare of the World; then follow his Secretafics and o:her Donctichs; and in this manner he always gues abroad. When he goes to his Camp all the whole inmy worthips him, and they kifs the Ground together; and after a Ratrel, if he vinis his Came, he ever dubts at leaft rewner Knights, and gives'em Livings according to their moris.
The King upon the Throne when our Countryman was chere was a cioriftian, the Portiguefs had made him fo, and confequently were very errar about him: Kniece was brovghe before this great Prince, and finding him gentle and favourable to brangers, he did (ar his command ; entertain him with very free Difcourfes of his oun Quen and Country, and when the Fo tuguce would hate inferepacd juin at his talking ieveral things they Lid nor hice, the King gave com a patfionate Reprimand selling 'on, he ought to be les aione telling the cruth, and $\because$ being his own Counery that he foke of, he was a better juide of what was or was not in than they.

Two things in Kri-a's Diicourie did sery greatly aftonilh this King, one was, That Queen Eli-efecth had fo Jong godernd her Conntry withour any interruption by Rebellion and Tumule; and the o:her, Thas he had all that while liy'd a Maid, and fo vigorounly defended ber felf from a Husbands By this Woader the King feemid to fuppofe that fuch things ware bardly to have been capected in his Country; and is may be fo, for a Cimare under the ling might much more araturally tend to produce the contrany effeets, than one in the middle of the Tempcrate Zone:
That part of the Kingdom of Comar that borders upon the Kingdom of Angica, efpecially that alour the City of Mancurno is yery unbeathy. This Ciry ies juf un aer the linse, in a botron, firrounded with four Hills, and as there is not oneRiver, fo there's sabundance of Bogs. The looruzurfe oblerve a nighty regularity here in their Dies and Clothing and Phylicking of themiclves, and ye fatter all j-die like any Rats; while Knivef, who Rav'd atard ail day lons, and eat or drank any thing he could get, and that ar any time too of the 24 hours, enjoy'd his perect Heath, and never made the least Complains all fere winle he was in this moft insolcrable Climate.
Tne Gold that this Country affurds fo plentifully reconele the Porsusuefic to ir, and makes all the feorching Heats andi cruel Diftempers of is tolerable to 'em.
The Kingdom of eligicat lies under the line; the Natires are tall and very well proportion'd, valiant and refolute to the laft degree; the Rortuiguefe their Ncight Bours ar meffagang do diftrefs them with Wars, but tis their. Principle always to die when they can'r conquer thofe Enemies, for they never yield to 'em. They are a Sxion: :uns, fort of Miabometars, as their Rites and Cuftoms (wel nnown in that Religion) do plainly difover. They Gons be) than their Neighbours the Angolans have; but er we hear of no more, as to the latter, than good Wheat and a Grain like Fetches, of which they make their Bread. And for Fowl, they have Hens, Parrridges, and Turkics good ftore.

Thus have we run thro' his Remarks upon the Countries he travel'd rbro'; thefe that foliow will more directche marine
Rio Crande (calld by us the Great River) is above Rio Gund, two leagues bread in the mouth: On the Conatare many breat Bays, where the Indians frequently find confiderate quantitics of Ambergrife; alo in the Country adjoyninf are greas itore of Sugar-cancs, Pepper, Ginger, and ax
'Tis to be noted, that on the Conft of Breffi's there are chree Rivers that bear the Name of Pararynn ; the firf lics next to fio (irchate, the fecond rans thro' the Country aimolt as far as $L_{\text {P }}$ mo, and comes out betwern Cape Fil, and Spirito Sanro ; the third lies betwixt the River of plete and Sr. Vinicut: The former has a fair great Bay, which Ships of the largeft dimentions may conterand come to an Anchor near the Shore.
Gimene is a frall River that lies by the firf Paracyna; in the Moum of ir itands a Rock char is continually coverill with Sca-fowl, and hercabouts you have wo fathom Water; a quaster of a tuile inwards, upon the Soush-weft. Fide, you may have freth Warer, and good fore of Catele: Upon this River alfo you'll find a greas many: Sugar-mills, and falling. Carvels thar are continual ly carrying Sugar to Fernambuto; likcwile here's Brafilcwood, Pepper, Ginger, Cocao's, Indien Nurs in great plency. plency.
Etramariguc is a Point of Land dike a Cape, it runs half Eemarion a-mile into the Sea, and upon it the Po:tuguefe have buile a Town; you may anchor very near the Shore, both on the South-weft and North-caft tide of the Town, in feven fathom Water. All the Country till you come to Cape St. slimufiue is low Land, and there's no danger in fail ing from thence to Eratemliu. o, except the Clifts which lie along the Coaft of the River St. Fronct, and axe al ways to be cafily feen : When there is a Spring-Tide the Scas overflow the Land benind, and if there be any Wind blowing from the Eaft, is beats the $\mathrm{Sca}_{\mathrm{ca}}$ into the hollows of the Clitis, and makes a terrible noife, upon which accounct the Indians call this The Lend of stie Bre!. Here are precty good quantities of Sugars, and very great ones of Cocao-nuts.
On the North fide of Fernambuce you hall fee white Downs, and when you are paft all thefe on the South, you are then by a place call 4 Crepiguremirini, where there are Fithermen always to be found; from hence to tEernamimeo is not more chan two leagues. At shis time, if conton: you are under 8 gr, you thall fec a flar Land, ceen and bare, which is call'i capitua, and atica you mutt take care char you don's run Southward, for fear of a Poins of land which is four leagues from the Cape, and ftretches into the Sca as far as Cape Auguflin; 'tis calld by the Portuguefs, thunto de Olmidn.
When you hare doubled this Point, gou are to a woid puntods. pucting in with the Town of Olynda, and that becaufe of imnu. the Sands callid by the Porfugu fo, Beyloor de St. Antomic, which lie ar leatt three or four mile into the Sca: Being near the Shore, you will fee all the Ships that lie ar AnThis place where Clifts calld $d$ by the Porrugneff, Areciats. This place where the Ships lie is a league from Fornambuco, and 'ris the noted Harbour into which all the Shipping from Fernambucn comes, and from henes to the Cape you thall fee the Clifts lying one by another, and as even and regular as a Wall made by Art.
The Town of Fernambuco is fcated upon a Hill, and fernation ftrongly incrench'd round abour; rowards the Sea ftand Ceveral Forts, which frour all the Shore from the Arecias to the Point of Olynd:. From the Arcciass runs along a River thro' the Land, abour a Gunhor from the Seathore, and goes quite behind the Iown from the South to the Wect and Eaft, and fo makes it a Peninfula, comunicating with the Land on the North fide only.
The Cape of Si- Augzffin is a moot of Land that ad-Cape as. vances into the Sea two or three miles; tis eafily known 8 yfim. by the thrce Hills that appear, as alfo the Portuguffe Church, and particularly in that half a league to the Suuthward you fee the Illand Sel Al:xyo.
The Illand of Alexyo is long and narrow, ferecching timemetix, North-caft and South-weft, and lying within a league of the Shore; you inay anchor berween it and che Shore in all weathers, for there are feveral fair Bays, where you may lie in ten or twelve fathom Water; alfo uponthe Iland it felf you may take in Wood or frefl Watcr.

Pero

Chap. V. Knivet's Defcription of the Rivers of the We ft ind . . .
Pmo Dessim Perto Docalno lics Souchward of al:xye, it is a low flat which yob will fee doubling a Point fill South fiom you, hard by them you flall have totirtecn fathom Water. This Harbour may cafily be known from the Southern Point of the Itland Alexyo, for when tis lew water yon thall fee a fair Bay, and all the Shore (being a black ground) bare almoft to the Cape. Here you have great tore of Sugar-cancs and Cattle.

About cight Icagues to the Sonthwar! from Porto Doanino is the kerer of se nes; yout thall. tee from sea a great Bay run within the Iand, and before the mouth of it many great Rocks: Now, to come into the Bay, you muft keep clofe to the Shore on the Sourh weft fide, and afer you be in the Bay fo full Weft, and this Ccurte will bring you to a River that rum at leaft wenty leaguc up into the Land. Here y a may (if you be of any tolerable itrength plumeler tic l'arturate of their Sugar: and Cattle, and mect befices w.th biatilc-wood, $\mathrm{Rep}_{\mathrm{P}} \mathrm{Cr}$ Cotton, and feveral other furts of Merchandize:
C.maryiura lies a league to the Southward of the River of Stomes, and, to know it, you will upon kennirg dicover there grear red Hills calld by the pootutase, Berco Varnellies. The place is nos inhabited, and the mouth of the River is narrow and thallow, having not above five foor Warer, bue you may anchor in the Bay hard by the River, and fend your boat very fafcly for freth Warer you may fifh alfo here very fuecefsfully, for there's grea plenty of all forts of frelh Finh.
The River of $\mathrm{S}_{\mathrm{c}}$. Antonio lies feren leagues from Ca matyiur: 7 ; 'cis a very grear River, and is fome fifty leagues within the tand, having feven fathom Warce at coming in, but is fo narrow that no Ship oughr to venrare entring; but the Boats may without danger, and tis as good a place as can be to fupply you, if you want Fille of any fort, efpecially that grcar Fing call'd by the Indicns Varama, which is as big as an Ox. Afrer you are within the River, you have high Sand on both fides, and a treacherous People that dive thercabouts to deal with; if they fec you unprovided or negligens in your Watch, they'll fall upon you, but if they find you able and always ready to defend your felves, then they'll come and trade very peaccably with you.

Thar Bay which is calld The Frenclmens Harbour (and and louns, Giaremn Piafave) lies two leagues. Sourh ard from the River of Sr. Antonio; it may be known by a high Hill which ftands over it, and is tull of Brafice Trees. To enter this Harnour you mult mark the Clifts, and when you are gor to the Northward of all of 'cm but one, you may fafely come withina Stones-caft of the: Shore. To ger frefh Warer, you muft land and go upon the South fide of the Hill, where you'll fee a fine Strcam iffuing out of the Hill inco a great Ciftern cat our of a Rock.

The neighbouring River is by the Inelcns call' $\mathcal{F}$ fauaWeficke, or the River of Crocadiles; becaufe there are abundance of thofe Crearures in it: 'Tis narrow, and is remarkable for the white Roch that ftands in che mouth of ir. To enter ir, you muft kecp on the North frde of the Rock, where you have nine and ren foor water: Afrer you are in it you come to a grear Bay, and on the Nordh catt fide there's a fimall River, where you may be fupplied with freh Watcr. Here a Man muft rake fpecial care how he gocs into the Water, for che Crocadiles lie clofe by the Eank-Gide, and prefently feize any ching that comes into their Elemenc. Herc's nothing to be bad in this place, unlefs you'll finh for Crocadiles, and take cheir Cods or Bladders for the Musk they afford, as the Roringuefe very commonly do.
The River Mia, iun lies three Icagues to the Southward from that of Crocadiles, and four to the Northwatd from the River of St. Michael; on cither fide of it you'll fee a great Hill, by the Porruguffe calld Os Caivor. There is but feven or eight foot watcr at the coming in, tho very clcar of all Rocks; but after you are enterd, youll find a grear many banks of Sand, where fore of Fin is to be had tor che pains of catching. At the coming in alfo, on both fides, a Man may rake in frem Warer.
The River of Sr. Micbacel is known by the Clifts that ftand before ic, like the Arecies Crifts of Fernambuco; you muft enter at the end of the Cliff hard by the Shore on the South-weff, taking good heed to a fmall Clift that flands between the mouch of the River and the Shore; this fmall Clift you are no leave betwixt you and the Shore, and then between it and the Rocks you may enter, and bave three fachom warer: Bur you muft obferve in curring not ro fail to the North-eaft, (tho you fee the Bay large) and that becaufe of feveral grar banks of Sand; therefore you mult keep Weft ftill, within a Stonesaft of the Shore, and fo you fhall be fure to keep in the Yo Chand wery weil, he is in danger ly goiny a.ther. You will fac a Remer that runs up noto the lath, near which dwell feveral Pounem\% ard here wo may ineet with Catrle enough, Caffin; ibrat! -wnod, oytur, : in which youll find tood Pernt) Ballam, Tobace, and Netico-trecs, the Wrod of "ibich is wery valuable, and good fur Bruifes and old if tre.
The River of Tords is citite 1. ations from the place latt Th. F vee which tignifics as moch. Her: :- a sery yond Horbour a man knows how eoge fin well; now the cheram ers between tie rwo great kocks that thand rothe betere the Radrige. When you are entred, you may anchor hard by he Kncks, and found the Chnol, which l:es North-cat rom you. The belt way to get trefh Water is, to go a guarece of a mile by the Seadde, and then won fee a fai Riscr, where you may have lyoh Water and Fift soo.
Cape Frio is a Point of Land that runs inro the Sca are cipe tris: caft rwelve miles, and lies under 22 gr. Youmay anchor on the Eatt fide of the Cape, in a Harbohr call'd Abayia Formonn, which will aford you gord force of Brafite-wood, and lometimes Ampergrife. On the North fode of the Bay you'd fee a great River calld Epertitt, where you may filh to very good rurnof, and in the mourh of this Kiver there's a gredr deal of Coral.
Saquarema is a River that runs four leagues to the renguaze Southward from the Cape; ir is pariow at coming in, and you'll have twelve foor Water till you be threce or our leagues up the River: All atong on both fides you have Brifficewood and fiefh Water plenty. Upon the South fide of the River you'll fee the Hitl calid by the Initians Borpeuc, (that is, the rotecn Mfiate, for the top of clooks like a Whaie) and there, if you wane fuch wild Food, you may have Poratnes, Planians, Oranges, Limons, and the Roots call'd by the Intians Caraviafon, as

A league to the Southrard of the River Safurremt Great Rock ftands the great hollow Rock Efiocr. Bcfore the mouch Eiord. of thisRock, towards the Sea, ftands apother thar Reck that thoors ort a little upon ir, where may be feen very plainly and diftinctiy the prinss of bare feet in feveral places up and down in that inoft folid Stone. Here's very good filhing, and allo plenty of thole pretry grectrstones which the Indians ufe to wear in their lips. Youmay anchor within Mufquet-fhor of the Shore, but if rhe Wind e in the Eait, 'tis very dangerous.
Pirtreniga is a Bay nue leagucs to the Sputhivard of che piratritzt Rock Etioce; itght before it thands a fmall Ioland inhabired by the Porruguefi. Thas Bay runs becween a Mounraina mile and more within the land: You may lie with your Ships ac the Inand, and fend your Boats alhore for Catule, $\mathrm{C} s \int_{\text {Invr }}$, Oranges and Limons, and many other Commodities befides; if a man has a mind to fome Fifh, he may farisfie himelf abundantly ar thar Sport, either by Net, or Hook and Line. Knivet affirms, that at this Bay he faw one of thofe Marine Creatures which the Vulgar gives the name of Mcrmaits to.

The River of Faneto or 3 anaary lics three leagues from River jatere? Piratenizat is is indeed a great Arm of ate Sear which rums at leaft fourtecn miles into the land; in themouth are four INands fituated, bur the beft mark for the Gity of St. Sebafticir is a Forr that tands on the North fide of the coming in of the Harbour; upon a Rock: On the South fide fands a Hill that reaches into the Sea, call'd cautions ist by the Porsuguefe; Camo; (chat is, the top of a Ship) and Shating rafician on the North fide of the Came, at the foor of in, hard by the Sea-fide, ftands the high Rock which chcy cail the Sugarioaf; this is juft as you fail into the Haxbour: Bur then in the midat of the cnerance, an the very mointh of the River) lies a Rock very phain to be feen, to that to go in you mult keep betwecn che Rock and the Fort that tands on the North of you. When you are entred the mouth of the River, and are paft the Fort, you thall fee the Inand of Brigalion right before you: Now you mult be fure to pafs on the North of this liland, and is foon as ou have done fo. you have che profpect of the whole City, both on che Hill and the Sea-fide, before yqu; theil ou thutt take heed not to go right fo the City, bicanfe of theSands tharlic all along before ir as far as thelinand of Sc Bent: This liland is a quarter of a mile from Bria alion, and to the Eaftward of it ftands a great Rock, erween which and the Illand of Sr. Bevt you venture to fil: As foon as jou have entred, you may anchor hatd by the Inand, and then yoult Be a Church Rairding apon a Hill, which is calld Sc. Bent, as which rifine jou need not far to go right before the Town.
Chanel. Thus you muft fail sill you difcover a Howfe,
Ddddd
The

The River le'tration lies three leagues from that of Fore, and ris to be known by wo Mands that lic cractly net re the mouth of it, where alfo you'll difover an h:gh atil. On cither fide, both on the South-weft and Norti-calt is low Land, and there is no cntring for any Ship heic, tho yout may anchor berween the lland and Send your Doats athore. Here are Fruirs and Fith in the fame pienty as in feveral ocher places befors defrabd.

From the River of frective for the face of four leagues is all low fandy ground, and here youll see an high Hill galld by the madicns Astram,naphem, (or the Grance, at the coming in of which Harbour you may be fceure, for hard by the Shore you have twenty tathon. Water. When you are in the mouth of this Harbout you fec right before you a great white Rock, which will Sonthward from you, and then another grear Ihan. cal led Eperatomes in view ; ata Point of this hland which lics fill Weft towards the maia Iand, youll fee two fratil Inands, and when you are reght againftem; a fur Bay. where you may anchor ar pleafurc. To come into thi: Bay, you muft pafi betwecn the two Ihands juft now menvond. This Marbour merted a more particular Direction to be gi:en for the finding of it out, becaufe it has this Alvantage, that a Manmay fail out of it with almolt any Wind whatocver.
1 ons fl inel is safily found our, for 'tis hard by the main Land, and is to be feen diftinctly from the linand Fponer ; and to the Southwards from it (abour half a Neagec) you'd fee two fmall Inands which go by the name of .imambintutur, over againgt which is a deicate River, where you nay be furnilhid with great fore off Eith, and uron the banks find Mandicse, and fereral other good Ronts.
S: Schasizan
I\% Thand of St. Scb ffitn lics about threc leagues from I'? Grande ; 'tin elong and fair liland, and you may fafely anchor between it and the Shore. Abour half a leagne from the lland of St. Sebaftian ftands a fmall lile right into the Sca, calld by the Indians. Craritan, and by the Part:unuf, $A$ iq if of $s$ h here you may always meet with Scals, and fevcral forts of Sea-fowl, as many as you will.
River of That River Parcery: (that runs between the Town of St. Fincent and Kiver of Plate) has a very good Harbour for Ships, and hercabouts fou meet with abundance of the Camibals calld Carios, whom you may wade with for Pepper, Ginger, very rich Furss, Corton-wool and Wax. which they bring in great plenty.
The mouth of the River of plate is wide, and within very near the North Shore, till you thall fee an high Mountain white ar top, then failing Scurhvard as Jcatt four leagues, you'll fee another fanail Hill on the North fisc, which you mult fail right with; this brings you into a fair Bay, where you muft ftill keep along the Shore and afere patling the Weftern Point of this Bay, ynull have the River worne, and then you need net ter any Shal ows till you come before the Town of Bonos dyre..
From the lrovince of Tacman to it. Fteo is cighty Cuntry le leapues, and all the way to be traveld with a Compals, wemen ands and care to be taken in ftecring to a Point as nicely as ifftso. ou were at Sca; the realon of which as, the probligious Mouncains of Sand that are lownd there, and which thift and change places as the Wind doos, fo that to day you have 'cm on this lide, and to morrow on the conerary fide of you.
In this journey alfo you'll pafs feveral Rivers, which will appear to be nos abuve a foot decp, but without good Guides will be found deep enough in Quick-fands to fwallow both Horfes and Waggons torether.

From Sc . Fax, till you come roy $P$ o: $\neq$, yu travel thro" Mountains and Valleys and erear Towns of ladinms, who all are at Peace with the Spemiards; and youthall meet with hundrecis of there frefiens upon the krad, whothall offer to carry you from Town to Town in Niets taftned to Cancs, and fupported by two or more Men; this is the cafect travelling in the World, and the price of it is no more than a Fin-honk, or a few Glafs Beads.
Youll alfo pals by feveral Gold Mines, and may traf fich with the fidians for char and Precious Stones, but this fort of Trade is not brisk hercal:outs, as t:s at Potof ir felf, becaufe there the Mines are open and wioughe on, bur between Srofern and Pown the: are not.
As Reton iou have no wati filaty thing tho the Conntry of it felf be barren) for cic Tratict they have with fime, and all the Towas of the Scaci: Su, teiregs a fufficiont Supply; they carry Ons ans: *us : freat earthen Jarts upon the Bachs of Sucep, wan i.i..... monly call Shece of five. Quarters, beaule the are as big and heavy as one Quarter of the Shee?
The rich Oic (when they firit take in out of tiac theoce Mines) looks like biack lead, then they grind it in certain Engines, and walh ic thro fine Sieves in pavid Clferrs made for shat purpofe. The make the fodiens wert: in the Mines Itark naked, that they may not hide any thing abour"cm; and thus are they kept to the Drudgery, whi: their Mafters, the Spanisticis wallow in all manner of Eale and Pleafures, and grow exective rich into the bargain.

And here we end the Accunt of Knivet's Remarks.

Chap. V.

Some Obfervations of the I/and of Trinidado, the rich Country of Guiana, and the great River Oronoco, with other Rivers; made by Francis Sparrey, who woas left in the Country by Sir Walter Rawleigh A.D. 1595, and after that being taken Prifoner by the Spaniards, and living a Slave in Spain, return'd into England again A. D. 1602.

 HE Country of Guianis bears dircetly Eaft from Peru, and lies almoft under the Eipinoraial. The River of Oranoco (orherwile call'd Bartquan) has nine Mouths upon the North fide of the main I and, but upon the South fide our Oblerver could difoover no more than feren; fo that yet, what between Iflands and broken Lands, it has fome fixreen/Mouths in all. The entrance to this River thro the River Capuri has The cnurance to nine foot water at the mouth in and and and cbb but five foot; the Water flows but a mall cime, but rifes apace, and the cbb gocs but flowly, continuing fix hours in all.River_Amana In the botom of the Gulph of Guanipar there is a River caild $A$ men-, which leads into Ororbce alfo; if a Man enters this River of Imane from Curispan; the can'r poffibly reman che tame way he came, by reafon of the Eafter-ly Winds and ftrong Currents, but he muft of necefinty go into a River within the Iand, which is calld Mi. cario:
If you fail fome twenty leagues in the River Amane, you máy difcover the great and high Mountain Oecopa from whencemay cafily be difcover'd the Plains of Sainia thro which you have a fafe paffage over Land within ren or twelve leagues of.Cumana, or to the Caracar. Up on thefe Plains are four feveral Nations; all which are reputed grear Soldiers; and they are fomething black their Names are, the Samin's, the $A G_{\text {swaics, the the }}$ Wikeries, and the Arrora's.
To go from the Illand of Trinidado to the great River paths Oromece, the River Amana bears South, bur parting from Ormes: this Rvicr by a Branch which bears to the Weft, one may this way enter Oroioco, Riv, Entpa.

The River Emrope lics to the Eaft of Oronco as you go to Pere that way; but he did not go bask exacily come from Trinidade. "Tis very eafie to go from the the fame way thar he came, fot palling the River Pape the Aumpr River Oronose to the Town of St. Domingo, which bears mena, he left that of Salma, and came a imuch more di-h, prigen. N. N. W.directly, but you mult of necelicy pafs the Ri- rect way into the River of Orenoio, even by the River ver Amapria, leaving the Inandrof the Amazous to the S. Limo, as his Indian Pilats imanin'd; but by what went and hold your Couric as ncar as may be N, W. and before 'tis plain, that thers was nu great crestir to lic N. N. W. By this means you avoid all the danger of given to their Surmices. the Cannon and Force of the Town, and land fonie fix days Journey frnm St. Domingo. litrle R Maccal, then directing your Courfe Sourh, This River gives its Naine to the adjacent Country too.
Drano is a fair Rivir, and lics cxactly South-caft from Oronoco, buc ic's dangerous to so Oronoco, but ic's dangerous to go far in is, not upon the account of any Dangers the River prefents to a Boat that rails in it, bur the bad Air and malignant Dews (that fall thereabours and kill abundance even of the Indians themfelves) are Impediments in the way of a frec converfation upon that River. Befides this, therc is another, and that is the horrible corruption of the River by the foul and loachfom Waters thar are concinually drein'd into it frem the Fenns of Anetas; thele are fo bad, that 'ris deadly to drink of 'cm, and many a one has died for't.

The River Arui runs continually North, and fo to the River Caffipa, and from rhence into Oronico: Near to Arui are feveral ocher Rivers, Bur hardly any thing confiderable.
The firft River that falls into Oronoco from the North is call'd Cari ; beyond that, on the fame fide, is the River Limo, to the Weft of that is Paoo, and beyond that the Rivers Caturi, Voari and Capuri; 安hich laft'tis dangerous to enter.
In the River Oronoco are vitious tiliands; particularly in che midit of it a pretty big one, and fomewhat mountainous, calld Ocanita; there's another alfo which goes by the Name of Aio, where the Wind is always Eafterly in the Morning before the Sun is high
The River Ubra bearing to the Weft of Cartbagena; bears to the Southward of the Inand of the Amazons: This River Ubra (if you ftand to the Sourh-weft) leads to that part of the Province of Arimaito which is call'd Erecgoodapos; 'ris a barten mountainous Country, they have neither Guincy-Winear nor Caflavi, but Venifon, Hogs and Conies they have in grear abundance.
TheAutbors 'Twas reporred to our Author by the Indians, that axtmpt to there was (on the North of Peru) a way to enter the River Oronoco, which Incimation enconrag'd him to at$\pi \mathrm{Pmm}$ empt the difcovery of a Paflage from thar River to Peru In this Artempr (he rells.us) he was driven by a Storm into a River' which his Indian Pilots call'd Salma, in which after bie had been for tluree days, he enter'd the grear River of Papemena, which is at leaft fix leagues broad : From hence he came to the fweer and pleafant Iland of $A t b y$ a Spor fo delightful and in 10 benion and rempcrate a Climate, that be profeffes he could wil lingly have fpenr the remainder of his days there: There's abundance of fine freth Rivers, and thofe well ftock'd with Filh; thereare Fowls and other Animals for Food. In the Woods (which are very numerous) you have delicate Fruirs all the Year round, Cotton, Balfam, Brafile, Lignum oita, and Cyprels-reees. The Soil promifes Mecals, nay, fome forts of Ore he did find in divers places; the Rivers $t 00$ afford fine Stones, bur for want of Skill he dares not warrant the goodnet's and valuablenefs of 'em.

This lovely Iland is bur fmall, and it has no Inhabirants, which (he fays) is upon the account of the neigh bourhood of the Caribes, 2 rude fort of Savages, wirhin whofe reach People are afraid of living.

From hence he xetarn'd to the River of Oronoco again, becaufe he found his labour loft, and 'twas impofible nol

He gives usfarther this account of a Voyace lic made from thic Rivet Orenoco Weltwardly, in which Courfe 2 Man is like to mect with moft Goid, tho' there be molt Danger too, (efpecially in going far into the Country) by reafon of the Lipu cmi, an Indidia Pcople char live concinually in Arms; and are never cafic but when they are fighting and killing their Nicightours.
From Oronceo he came into the River of Cafrero, and fo coalted ro Amapain, (remarkable for that bad Cort of Warer before mention'd) from thence to the River 1 froi, and at the trim of fix wecks came into the rich Country of Curea. This is in the Province of Guiana or Mri- Provinen non, and cis character enough of if to fay, that it abounds in the moft defirable of all Metals: In Come places you have Mincs of white Stone, and the Gold running in Vcins between the Soones; in, others you find is in folid Grains in the Sands of the Brooks and Rivulets: Bur a Man can hardly be rich here without venturing his Life for't, that is, he can'r go to the Rivers to pick the Gold grains withour danger of being Guapt by the Crocadiles, There are alfo Pearl in this Councry, fome of which our Travcller faw, but they are neither large, orient nor round; the Spanicrds faid they were not Pcarls, bur Topazes, and perhaps neither he nor they faid true.
Camalaba is a place to the Southward of Oronocio River, Camnalan famous for a Fair of Women-Slaves which is kept there. Fair. Sparrey going to Market here, had fuch a Bargain on'r, that one may venture to fay politively he could not be cheared of his Money; for eight of théfe female Slaves ( and the oldeft of ${ }^{\circ} \mathrm{em}$ nonder eightecn) he gave ; redhafied Knife that coft him exaetly two Mites, fo that 2 Woman bere is four times as cheap as a Farthing Pye is in England, tho' perhaps the is a much-worife bit; ;at this tate a Pedler, out of the Stores of the portable Shop at his Back, mighebuy Women enough to plane a Country almoft as big as the Grent Moguls.
Tar or Taroo is an IIAand to the S.S. W. of Oronoco: Terto mand This Inand has no ftated Inhabitancs, but ferves only for a kind of a baiting-place to the Caribecs; thofe Barbarians go abroad and fteal People, and chen they come hither and ear'em. The Aurhor came to this place with a confiderable ftrength, defigning to factifice fome of thofe Cannibals if tic had found 'em here; but they were gone, tho' their Houfes fuffer'd for'em, and wete burns to the ground. Going about the IXand clofe by the Water fide, he found Srones of feveral colours, tho" he makes no mention what they were, either in his own or other mens Opinions.
 in mof places about which you have $8,10,14,17 \& 30^{\text {bour. }}$ fachom Water; the entrance as the mouth is barr'd; but yet at a full Sea you thall have it \& is foor Water, and in the Chanel where the Canoes enrer (and which is but narrow) there is better than fix fathom. This Habuc is certainly the beft and fureft Harbour for out Ships in all there parts, and tis thor quire cighr days Joumcy from Oronoco.
There is a certain River call'd Capurifol, thto" which capmifil Rit (he rells us) is a moift fure, fafe, and peifect way to Peru, one may whic tho" the Voyage will take up eight or ren weeks to finifh to Rerix. ic, and it muft be petform'd with Ship-boats or Canocs roo, becaule thefe Rivers have always veiy litrle Warer This River lies in 8 gr .2 min . N. L. and in it you thall always have a light breeze of a Weftwardly Wind, Nooncime only excepted, when there is hardly any as all: The Country in which it is has the Name of Emeria; and char Province is the Eaft part of Dorado.

Снар. Vl.

Aiz Accomint of a Voyage to Guiana by Captain Charles Leigh, per'orm'd at the charges of Sir Olave Leigh bis Brother, and bis onon: Takers ont of the Captain's foumal and Letters, and the fourvals of feveral ot bers that ment the fame Voyage.

 Hi Captain fer out in a handfom Bark of fome fify Tun, calld The Oliv. Plame, having no more company with him than furty fix Men and Boys. The defign of this Voyare was, to make a more compleat diliovery of the Councry of Guiant, and to fix an Enz iffe Piantation there ; to which the Captain (with his Brother) was the more encourag'd, in that he had vifired this pare of the Wordd once before.
Comes totse By the $=2 \mathrm{~d}$ of the enluing May they came into the RiRiv ur wis. ver of tratime, in the 1 atitude of $3 \mathrm{gr}, \frac{1}{3}$ to the North of the Line; and the Town of 4 titpoce, which lies on the Coait of Ciutima, was that where they insended to $\mathrm{Rec}^{2} \mathrm{~A}$ take up ther abode. The Natives were ready to give goct encertanment as forn as they came; the were cxrramly willing the Captain and his Company flinuld refide amongft "cm, and yielded to cheir taking frlemn poifellion of the Country in the name of HisMajelty of Esisicnd.
Abeur this River of trt cpoco (onherwife, and by a more mo, crate Name, calid Canocigh,) divelt three Nations of luatines, the Civn's, cirwe.kn's, and Sapeyan's, which beng driven away from their ant ient Dwellings by that p:litear and troublelun People the Cerilies, had fertled themeles here. Now the Agreement the Captain made
A Conera:t with the Indints was this, Thar allowing him a good butwix: cm. quantify of Ground for Gardens, and fome Houfes for the prefent, he thould atiift 'cm againt their inveretate Enemics the Chries. This Contrast was confirm'd by very good Alfurances on borh parts, and to make it the more fure on tae fide of the Indians, the Captain demanded, and they freely gave, four or five Hoitages, as Pledges of their fidelity and good meaning, two of which

The Motit
Herert.: Plantation was upon part of the Mountain that lics on the Weft fide of the entrance of the River, and to which they gave the Nane of Nount Howned, in memory of our famous Admiral of chat Name.
In this Country might our Captain have liv'd a very fortunate life, and onte very ufeful roo to his own Coun-

M.t:no:s

company.
any body would cafily grant to bepofible, fince no doubs but the Skin and Fleflicame along with ir, and 'tis probable the thorms might kecp them company.
Tis to be noted that the Captain, che next year after his arrival, difpatchid the Ship home again ro Eng/and, for frefh fupplics of fuch things as he wanred; it weme under comunand of Caprain Hunclic, and carried in it the five rudian Hoftages. Now the return of this Ship was very greedily expected, for the Company was diftemfrd many ways, and befides, they could not ar all times have from the indians thofe quantities of Provifions they had occafion for; and in this uncafic condition did the Ship tind en when it did come; however, being now a!l rogether, and the honeft Party. fomething ftronger than beforc, they acknowledg'd the Caprains Aurhority in general, and promis'd to aflitt him to the ugrermuft. After this they made an Expedition againft the Crribes, the confedcrare Indicms going along with 'em; but thofe Viliains, as cunning as they are mifchicvous, having taken the Alarm, got away into the Woods, and aroided cm .
The Farigues of this Journey, togecher with the filthy Fruiterf Ex: Liquors they were oblig'd molt commonly to drink, and pdition ${ }^{\text {a }}$ the foul Weather they were cxpos'd to abroad, heightned cantere the Fluxes amongt 'em, and kill'd feveral; and worfe than all, the Captain himelf, jutt upon the point of lidis joing on board for England, to ferch a complear laditig of fuch things as were needful for his Company; was cpram dici. carricd off by the fame Diftemper; and thus by this unhappy froke the whele bufieefs was quan'd, and all the Company began so think of nifting for themfelves, fome went away in their own Ship for Englard, others got on board a Durcliman, and others a Ficnciman, as many as there was room for; bar, in ihorr, there were ten poor some fart wretches that could get no paffage, and fo mult ftay upon berina. the fpor: Here then chey liv'd, waiting for the fame farourable opportunity that their fellows had before them, and recovering by degrees a geod flate of Health, they imploy'd their time in planting. Flax and Tobacco, and other Country Labours. They liv'd in perfect amity and friendinip with the Indians, and made another Expedition with 'em againtt the Caribes, wherein they fucceeded better than before, doing conniderable damage to the Enemy. The care of their Provifion for Life lay altogerther upon the Indicns who had undertaken ir', and they did it at fo cheap a rate, that rwo months Victuals would coft our EMglifh no more than fuch a rifle as an Ax or a Hatcher, or a few Knives.
At laft the bappy opportunity came for thice Men to thergn ina cturn into their own Country too, and that by another Dnerth Ship Dutch Merchantman, which came into che River of Efici- for thlund. pece ; but the way by which they bad nocice of this they themfelves icok upon to be very itrange, for fome months before the Intitans told 'enz that there were chree Ships lying in the River of the Amariols, one of which at fuch a time fhould certainly come into the River of Míacopr, wherechey then were. Our Men fay, that the Indians ofen converle with Porar, (lome invifible Being which they call by that Name) and that this Information came from him ; bur let it come from what is will, 'twas certainly a true one, for the Ship came exactly at the limired time.
The Indians were very loth to part with 'em, and being willing to have yct fome memory of them and their Councry remaining amongft'em, they broughr abundance of their Children co "cm, to reccive fome of our Ergilib Names: Likewife there was great enguiry made afres Sir Writer Ramlcioh, (who was well known in this Country) and one confiderable Indien came as far cut of the Main as Orcingur, to ask what was become of him, and to fend him a challenge of his Promife of returning again. And cerrainly that cxcellent Perton had procur d himielt ach an efteem in cheie parts of the World, and was fo valued eren by the [ndians, who were nor fuch competenr Judges of his worth as we our felves were, that if his ticus (tho' no made their and fixd thenfelics fo fecurcly there, that they wer not to be goten out bue by rearing apen the Flefh with a. Nicedic, and then not without grear pain and dificules neither. One of the Company had his Fect fo overrun
mirec.e forc
ews, inum: was this, they pourd melced black Wax upon the bot toms of hisFect till chey were all coverd, this they let lic oa riil twas through:y cold and hardned, and then with a fudden twitch pulld it all off ar once, and they cay all the iforms came off or out along with is; which

Fare had been to be decided by chem, they would foonct paliuring them with the Promife of furninhing, whatoever have made him the head taller by a Crown, than Ihorres in that fence that we did.
Our Englifhmen having embark'd chemfelves in the Dufch Ship, fail'd with them to $\mathrm{Am} / \mathrm{tcra}$ am, and from thence came lafe to $\Gamma_{\mathrm{E}} \mathrm{g}$ glando.

To this may be adied the following Account of another Ship fent by Sir Olave Leigh to his Brother at Wiapoce, but mbich put in by the way at Ilde St. Lucia, and never finifld ber Voyage to Wiapoco.

1 F
F the former Voyage had an unfortunate iffue, and befides had fomerhing fad and melancholy in ir, tho more than the Scenes of common and ufual Deaths, this now before us was cerrainly much more fad in its Confequences, fince the Scenes here were moft of'em bloody oncs, and the Deaths barbarous Exccutions.
This Ship (the Olive Blefom) fer out for Whapoca the fame Ycar, in $A_{p}$ ril, that the other Ship did in fuly from Wiapoco for England; the Commanders were Caprain Catlin and Caprain Sc. Folmn. What between concrary Winds and Currencs, and cfpecially the unskilfulnefs of the Mafter. they quire loft all hopes of recovering their intended Porr in any duc time, and therefore they put in firt ar Barliados, and afcerwards the Ifland of St. Licia deligning from thence to return to Englend again; but cxamining their Stores of Provifion, and finding nor near enough to ferve fo great a Company"as they were fo long a Voyage, Captain Sf. Fown, with Ceveral of the Palfongers, to the number of 67 Men; frefolv'd rather to Itay and raike their lot upon the aforelaid lland, than run the hazard of being ftary'd as Sca. Here thatefore they were fer alhore, wath their Suvords, Mufquets, Powder, one fmall Piece, and a Barrel of Bifuit for Food, which was all the orbers would allow 'ein; but notwithTtanding they quickly found a way to get 2 conftant fup ply, which was by crading with the Indians, who were willing to mannain chat Correfpondence with em; they would bring 'em all forts of Roors and Fruits thar their Country affoxded, sogentice with Come Fowl too, as Hcns Gulls, Pelicans, Woodcocks and Snipes, and then with a listle crouble shey could every nighr take delicate Tortoife upon the Sands.
For fome five or fix weeks they liv'd in the litric Hurs or. Houfes they had built, and never made any Excurfions gnto the Country, nor any Journcy-towards the difiove ry of it: But the, Captain fecing one day certain'Plates of Mctal upon the Arins of fome of the Indians, and being inform'd that they were Gold enquir'd of 'em from whence they bad it. who rold him pointing to a very high Mountain in the North-wcit part of the tlland: Upon this the Captain himfelf with feveral of the chief (5o the - number of a Boar-full) went in quift of this golden Mountain, the reft being appointed to keep good guard at home in the mean nine; bur the journey not being very long, they promis'd to renurn in a weckstiune again.
When this part of the Company was gone, the others that faid behind expeeted the Indians to come and brins em Victuals as they us.d to do, bur they did not some near cm, and for three days together. chey faw noching of 'emp: The Indians, it leems, had obferv'd when the chat they cut him off, with his whole Company purpofe, Journcy; and this was the reafon why the treacherous Barbarinzs did not come with Provifions according to their Cuftom, for they were then as the flaughter of the Englifh at the Mountain.
And now they intended to make a like riddance of their Companions; for in the next place they began to Aroy dereft, gather about 'ern in great numbers, but yer carricd it fairly and imoothly, to take away all grounds of fufpicion from 'em; but our Men, who well faw how many came to "em both by Sea and Land, and therefore began to miftruft fome ill Defign, kept a ftrict watch, and fortificd their little Camp as well as they could: The Irdians came up and down to 'cm, and drank and fmoak'd with ' cm as before, and amongtt orhers there came a certain defperate Savage, whole Name was-Aug'emert, who was a Captain of the Inand of Sr . Vincent, and .whom they had invired hither to lerve 'em in this Enterprize.Afrer Dinner one day Augramere (who had been well entertain'd) would necds have our Mcn to his Quarters.

${ }_{\substack{\text { rabiant pres: } \\ \text { Pricto to }}}$

Provitions they had occation for; for tis wo be noted that the Indians had laid up large Stores for the ufe of thefe new-comers, tho they had none to fpare for the Engrifh. There was eighteen of the Company that wert along with him and his Father, and very plcafant they along wirh hum and his Father, and very plealant they were cill they came within fighe of the Houfcs, bur dhe: werc cill they came withun fight of the Houles, buternan all of a fudden, whilit Mr. Sr. Foim (who was the Captain's Brochcr) was jefting and playing with Alu'sumit that Savage carch'd hold of his Sword with che hand and his Poignard withtother, and at the lame time the old man his Father knocks him down with a rreat wooden Sword : Then the caribes that lay in anibuth ss:ater: began to thew chemfelves, and the Arrows flew out of fite t: Et the Woods like Hail; our Men were but ciphteen againtt ".t. fons or five hundred, and furpriz'd roo, to that hardly having time to light the Matches of their Giens, thrte were not above fix difcharges made: Howerer, afees their firft diforder, chey rallied and macic a ftand in a serrain Pafs, where they mighe.peflibly have defended themfelyes to fome good purpofe, cren againit that rive ritude, had nor a now Company affaulted "em berinicd, but receiving 2 howre of Arrows in their Backs, they had no ocher way but with their Siwords in their hands to break thro" them, and endeavour to run for't ; but rwas impofible to elcape, for they had laid fo many Ambuthes, and fo effectually ftopr up every Pafs, tharall thefe brate Men (one only excepted) died upon the por, feveral of 'cm being pierc'd with more than a hindred Arrows, and the Savages taking care ail aiong not to come within reach of them till the; faw ' sm "iror, and then with their huge Brafice Swords came and knock? em o'th' head.
He char made his efcape from this direful fa"giter had a hard matrer so do it; he was forc'd to hide h.mrelf in a Wood, and then fwim a Lake, and fo ger.home, which he did cime enough too, to give his Fe:lows the Alarm.

And 'rwas in a very little time after, that a tody of the Savages came and prefented themfelves upon the Sands to their view, intending to aftuult 'em, but they guickly march'd off again when the others let fly with heir Piece of Cannon upon cm .
But in the fpace of two or three days they return'd satrines is: with thirreen or fourteen hundred Men, and befer them ceck chem in round both by Sea and Land, thooring their Arrows con- their Hotio cinually in amongit cm , and wounding feveral: This fort of Combat beld for feren or eight days, but then the Savages bethoughr themfelves of a morc dangerous piece of Policy, they thot Fire along with their Arrows, which burnt both the Houfes of cle pcor Defendants and all their Cheits soo, which shey enrompals'd themelves withal as a Barricado againtt the Enemy ; however They iefer hey maintain'd their ground, and guichly crected them- riemicives. elves a new fort of a Fort made of the ruins of the old one, and cover'd with Earch and Sand; this efficotually fav'd'em from all danger by Fire, and (as they had o:der'd the matter) hept off the ftorms of Arrows two: Their Enemies feeing they could nos accomplifin their de, went all away and left em
But now they were fill cxposd to very dangerous enemacs, tho the ochers were gone put of fight, there was Hunger and want of all Neceffarics for life coming upon cm with violence, and which way to guard againft thefe they could nor teli; but Proyidence was pleasd ro. Sonxe of the incline the minds of fome of thefe favage Creaturcs to Savager fup be kind and pitiful to them in their carremity, for they pry "man wit ame and of themfelves offer'd to traffick with 'em for Provifions, and thus conftantly fupplicd 'em for the fpace of a week: Ac laft our Men rold cm, Tipair defire was noes oflay in absir Counary, to be cony fartber troubleform to ${ }^{\circ} \mathrm{cm}$, bat to be gone, im order so whichs if thoy would furnif ${ }^{2} \mathrm{~cm}^{2}$ with a Boart, they would give them in requite! Harchers, Knivcs and Bends, as memy as would contcne 'cm. To this the Incians agreed, and broughr 'cm a Boas, upon which chey prefently went to work to fir her up for fervice, and went off as foon as polfible, becaufe thefe friendly Savages told ' cm , there were. farther Preparations making againit 'cm.
They pur to Sea in a very bad condition, having no Chart, nor Compals, nor Skill to manage and direct a Boar; neither could they hold out long as to the marter. of Provifion, for four or five gallons of Water, with a fow Plantans, Potatoes, about twenry Bifcuit, and a lintle Rice, was all their Storc.
They were ten days ar Sia, and one of rhofe days had a very great Storm, which tho" ir brought "em often into danger of drowning, yet did ' cm this kindnefs, to bring 'em Rain to quench their thirft: Some Sca-fowl alio (tir'd wich flying) came and refted themfelves ypen the fide of the Boar, and there help'd to eke out their icanty Provifions.
They being ninetecn of 'em in one little Boat, cmwoded and prefs if ic fo, that the Brim was near enough the Water to let every litele Wave roul over it, fo that four of 'cm were concinually imploy'd by turns to lade out the Water.
'Twas upon the tenth day that they firft 'fpicd Land, buc what or where 'rwas they kuew nor, having only gone as the Wind and Sca carried em, except that fometimes they dircited theit Counfic a little by the Sun in the day, and the Stars by night; however, they could not rach Land the fame day they fpied it, but labouring with a Calm till night, they came upont the Shore before they werc aware, and fo fplic their Boat upon a Rock; hore fome icrambled up the Focks, and others the Roots of Tress char tood upon the Shore where they were calt; itwas a corrain lland, buc without lohabitants, and died any thing thas was fit to preferve life.
After they were all gor on.hore, and began to look about "cm, they found into whar a miferable place they were caft, and they eafily concluded that if there was no way found to ger loole from hence (in a very little time toa) they muft every man of 'em fubmic to his Fare; in Mort, they muft be ftarv'd, all of 'cin together, unlets fome (chat could and would autempt fuch a Dif cofery) fer themfclves to find out xelicf. Upon this confideration they agreed, that a certain number of "cm mould take the Boat and go over to the main Land, while the reft itaid there praying for their good fuccels, and a deliverance from the Deaths that chreatned them The. Men that went had cerrainly their fhare of Danger, as well as them that thaid behind, who had nothing in the Earth to Catisfre Nature withal but Salt-water and Tobacso; thefe Travellers (1 fay) were fometimes in Porcisy of danger of ftarving as well as they, but then they were croting feveral Rivers, where fometimes the sbarks and ocher times the alligafors would purfue 'em for a good way rogether.
When thcy had wanderd fome time, and were hardly able to go any further, they came to 2 Cave , where they faw a Veffel of Whear-flower, which without any fuxcher ceremony they made into a fort of Cakes, and gave Thanks to God for's, withour' troubling themfelves about the Owners. Shortly after this, they were fo happy as to lighe upon fome company which were Spaniards, Im dians and Negroes, and thefe were as kind and compafionate to our Men as their diftreffed cafe requird; they featted "em with the beft of their Provifion, and becaule they faw 'cm fo very feeble, let'em ride, and went themfelves on foot: Thus they brought 'em to an Indian Town, where they had the fane fort of trearment ftill, and here 'twas that they began to open the milerablecaic their poor Companions were in at the defolare Illand and as foon as ever they bad recover'd ftrength enough to undertake the Journey and flew the way, the Spaniards and Indians went along with 'em, and carried Provifions for chofe pror Men: Providence had difpos'd of fome of 'em in the mean rime, to that the number was lefs by five, and indeed the remainder was to near going the fame way too, that'rwas a queftion whether Natare were not too far tir'd and fpent to be recover'd again; for they were not able to eat, fo thar 'rwas with a grear deal of Art and Care that thole feeble and fick ones were to be manag'd, and no little pains to be caken to fet 'en upon cheir legs again; bowever, they carricd 'em over to the main land, and from thence to that fame Indian Town where their Companions had been fo kindly enrertain'd before, and fo to anocher Town inhabired by Spaniards.

Both the Spaniards and Indians flew'd all the Gencro- The Ene ith Gity and Good-nature imaginable in the treatmens of tuntering thefe Men, and they feem'd fo glad of the opportunity If at oro. of relicving fo much Mifery, that'rwas even a matter of Contention amougt 'cm who monld be moft forward to do it ; all the Dons of the Town rook each his Man to cntertain as his Houfe, to provide for both ar Bed and Board, and to furnilh with all the Materials of a comfor rable and pleafant Livelihood; and then for a Country Entertaimment, at any time when they pleas'd they went out into the Villages, where the indians would give 'em a true and hearry welcome with the beft Fruits and Mcats they could provide, and fecing alfo that they were pleas'd with Apcs, Monkeys, and Parrots, they woulc carch ftore of thofe Crearures, and have em ready in their Houfes againft the Englifh came; thus well were they difpos'd of after their mifcrable circumitances, and fo confiderable a breaching time hat they to prepare'sm for freh Troubles.
After they had been here fome rime, they began to think of their own Country, and fome of 'em made 2 motion to the Spaniards for a permifion to go; and indeed it was but fome of them thar had a mind to be gone, for as to the others, they liv'd fo much at cafe that they did not care to think of interrupting that form of life by a new courfe of Adventures; befides, they peifwaded the Spaniards nor to let their Fellows go, and fingeefted Tever2l lirtle Jealoufies to 'cm, which was far from the Kindnefs to be expected from Countrymen, and Men too whom common Dangers and Sufferings oughr to have endeard to each other; however, as laft three of em 60 to 6 for gor both leave and opportunity to go, breaking thro" all thaten the rempring Offers of the Spaniards to keep cm in the Councry.
The Town they went from was calld Coro, and the place they were bound for was Cartongeni, where the many Recommendations rhcy had to the chief of the City would in all probability have procur'd a very good reception, had nor the Goremour died juft as they came thither ; bur that liappening, ( unluckily for them) they Imprianis were immediately clapt up in Prifon, and in no fmall there danger of being condemn'd to the Gallies, had not the mediation and kindnefs of one confiderable man prevented that; and by bis means alfo they were conftantly fupply'd with good Provifions all the while chey lay there, for the barbarous Teniente (he thar fapplied the Governour's place) would not allow 'em any thing: This seantibeth fame good-natar'd Spaniard alio, with another as rich and charirably difpos'd as himfelf, were the Bail for thefe poor Men, entring into a Bond of a thoufand Drcats for cheir forth-coming; howevcr, that was more a piecc of Formality than any thing elfe, for the Teniente himfelf, ar their delivery out of Prifon, did give them their Liberty. And now they wexe only to fpend their time in making much of themfelves, till the Galcons were ready to fail for Spcin, with whom they were to go. One of the generous Spaniards carried 'em down to his Country-houle, and treated ${ }^{\circ} \mathrm{em}$ in a manner more like Noblemen than poor commonSailors; then the Dorssand the Grear Men chat came ro his Houfe as Vifitants would (our of their winnings at Cards) give each man of "em Gix or feven Picces of Eight at a rime. And at this rate did he and the reft entertain 'em, till the Galeons went, ar which time be procur'd 'em each their pafige.
As for the reafon of this extraordinary Courtefie this Spaniard thew'd our Englifh, it was the Favour thewn by Sir Francì Drake to his Father; for whenCarthagena was raken and phunder'd by the Englifh, Sir Francri fav'd char Perfon's Life and all his Goods; and his Son did rhis to difcharge himfelf in fome meafure of the Obligation chat laid him unden

С н a p. Vll.

An Account of a Voyage to Guiana, perform'd by Robert Haĩcourt $E f q$; of Stanton-Harcourt in the County of. Oxon: $W$ ritten to Prince Charles.

OMirting the fevcral Parriculars of the Voyage, (in which there occurr no Remarks capable of giving any Encertaimment) we'll confider the Author as at the cnd of it, and alrcady come to an Anr chor in the Bay of Wispoce. It was not long before feycral Canoss of Indians came to fee who and whar chey werc, and finding'sm to bs Engl:/b, camc on board 'cm without any farther Cerrmony.
The Irtizns here were no lefs pleas'd with our Mens Knives, Betds and Toys, than our Men werc with the Plantans and Potatocss the Hens and the Filb, which the others brought with'cm; there was a muzual fatisfaction of Appctites among ${ }^{\circ} \mathrm{cma}$, of the one fide for Eating, and of the other for Play; theBelly here, and the Fancy and Humour there, wers equally entertan'd.
twn ofc. The Town from which thefe Pcople came was callld Caripn, feated upon the Ealt fide of the Hill in the mouth of $M$ rippeso River; and 'twas not a listle advantage to our Men in coming hither, that the lord or perTh: latum, ty King of this very place was on board their own Ship mine doord at this time; he had been if fecms fome yearsin England, and now (with another of his Counerymen) came over with Mr. Karcourt, tho his truc Qualiry was not known till the Indiens now difcover'd it. There was very great Joy amonght them for the return of their Prince, and the morc effectually to exprefs thar, as alfo their Gratitude to the Englifh for this Bencfit, all the chicf Indians of the Town carne on board Mr. Harcourt's Ship, and brought pisnty of their Country Provifion with ' cm . As for their parss, they dcfird no better Entcrtainment than $A q u a$ Vitc, and that they bad till their Indian Humour and Gaiety was raisd to a pretty high pitch; but after thefe fort of Merriments were over, Mr. Harcourt, in 2 Specch, gave 'cm to undertand the defign of biscoming; he pur forc, who by their free confens took poffefion of the Country in the name of the King of Engiand; That His Majefty intended no fort of unjunt Ufurpation over 'em, nor to treat 'cm in any way like Slaves and Vaffals, bur only to be cheir friendly Protector, and deliver' cm from che Inifoleacies and Oppreffions of the Caribes: He told chem alfo of the Kindncfics that had been done them by Sis Walter Repheigh, who frecd 'cm from the SpanifS Scrvirude, burnt the Town of Triniladdo, and deliverid five of their Indian Kings, that lay there bound Neck to Neck with Collars of lron, and would have been Eacrificd; particularly alfo, That their Countrymen the Oronequeponi (who border upon the River Oronoco) did then actually furrender their Country to Sir Walier Refpheigh, in the name and for the ufe of Qucen Elizabeth; and from all bis, That the fame Refolution was likewife expected from them.
The Indians were fenfible of the truath of all there things, but jet they feem'd to be much diffatistied that Sir Wraterr Remleigh himfelf did nor come again amongt ' em , ascording to his Promife; and when Mx.tyyrcoure had excusd thar, they objcted, That they had not room cnough to reccive fo great a Company as now was conce, for their Town was bur 'mall, and befules, their Gardens but liste neither, fo that the Products of 'en would never be fufficiene to maintain boch themfelves 2nd our Men too. But this Obicction they did not urge very ftiffly, for they were told, that the Eng:/f $/$ did not intend to be chargcalle to ${ }^{\circ} \mathrm{cm}$ and live upon their coft, bue to traffick with em for Provilions, upon the Principles of a juft and equal cxchange, and would alfo be no lefs diligene than themfelyes in dretting and improving thcir Garden-grounds, that they might have enough Ther conidu of thofe Neceffaries of Life. Upon this the Indians crayd the liberty to withdraw and go to confule amonght themfelves, which they did, and fate above two hours their final and unanimous Refolution: Thar the Ensif $\mathcal{O}$ frould be rery welcome of ferte amongft them, and that they would furnith them with Houres and all other $\mathrm{N}^{\circ}$-Ting withen celfaries as far as they werc able; but only, lince the tro wopitil. fame things had becn feccral rimes promis'd them before, wandiand no Enntifh had yer planted in their Counrry, they fcard left this thould prove to be incre Werds and Ceremony too than any thing of Performance; however, they would be contenced to rry once more.
And now our Captain, with all his whole Troop, went aflore to the Indiza Town, where the beft reception tha: could be expected from fuch People as they was given cm , and thicy were difposid of up and down in convenient Lodgings.
This Town of Crripo is very advantagcounty fated ; crien) Tow: for, ftanding upon a great rocky Mowneith, it is not 16cefible but only by certain narrow foot-; thic, (which are cafily defended too) and that ly reain of verv beep Clifts and rough woody ways, fo that (ar Micn wero lodg'd here as in a Fort, and wonderful convencent: :n refpect of the Harbour, for thar was bur at the lut:an of the fame Hill, on the top of which they Hid, to that their Ships rid at Anchor jutt underneath cm.
The grear Rains, that fell almoft withus incermifition, mads 'cm lic fitll here in this Nect for at leaft a month, and there was no going our to travel the Country. But that wet feafen being over, the Caprain addretsi himfelf to the fearch of thofe Golden Mouncains thar had ben fo much talk'd of, and whith his Company had becn fo often promis'd from the very beginatig of the Voyage: But as many times great Hopes and Promifis Heros sontrado, So did thofe that they were fed up with, prove vain wist. and cmpty at laft, and their moff forward Guide, who had betore made no doubs of thewing them the ricticit Treafures of Gold, now when it came to the rryal. upon the fpor where he had pretended tuere to lie, could diff cover nothing at all.
This Difappointmens fo ftirr'd the inconftant Hurgour of the coinmon Soldicrs, and thofe that came our mecrly for the fake of the charming Gold, thas they weec like to have pur all into downr:ght confufion; but the prudenr Commander us'd his utmoft endeavours to cool chat heat, and filence rhe no:ie made upon this tcegre, and that fo fucceiffully, that what by foft words ants folitick conrrivances to fer enn at work and kecp taris hands full of bufinefs, he prevented the matter from running up to the extremity of an open Mutiny.
Befices, feme of the Indians difcoverd to him, that the Councry of Guicna was not fo barren of Gold as the isnorance and miftake of cheir Guide might have made it imagin'd, fux they thew'd him one day certain Images of Metal, wisich upon examination werc one third part Goldrokens. at leaft Gold; and they toid him too, that thofe things were made in the high Country of (imicna, where great fore of ' em was to be had. Berthen the very white Spart, of which alfo all dhe high Cowarty is full, was anocher confirmation of this; for as every fers of Minc has a pcculiar Sparr, fo that of Goid and Silver has one, which by its extraordinary whiecnefs and pulencis is very diftinguifhable from all orhers.
But tho the Caprain was our of all hope of adrancing to any of thofe Mines now, yer he fet himfelf to perfect whar Difooveries he could of the Councry in order hereto, and thercfore did in perfon rravel ip the Eiver of Whafeco, to make Obfervarions there, and alfo difparch his Brother (with fome octhes.).) to difcover the Kiver of Arrawary and the Councry bterdcring upouitr, which ad-joyns to the River of the $\lambda m a \pi$ mens: He wenc alfo and took pofflion of the Mouncain Gerincrite, which is the urcermot Poinc of $L$ and to the Northward in the $F \xi ;$ poce; this ho did with the Ceremony of Twis and Turf, in the prefence borh of his own Pcople and the Indians too. After porfetion raken, the Mountain was deliver'd ores to an Incitan to hold and polfers the fange, himelf and his Heirs, of His Majefly fames King of LImgiend paying the ycarly Dusy of a texth part of all Tobacco

Corton-

Contan-wol, Annoto, and oher Conmodities growing within the I mits of the fame Singem:s
beyes.
But the sitempt of the Captain's Brother and Capt Has try, in difolerimg the River Irramary, was atended vi:h great Diffeulties and Hazards, for their length ron by Sea to this River was near an hurdecel leagues; and in the way they had many feartill phunges, by reafon of a highegring Sat that breans men che thats and Shais Grecially at the rext great Cape to the North of Ama Fory, which they namid Pritit Posi, upon the foore of Difowerics the Dansor they fafid there. Then up the River theis op the fiver Difonery procieded fifty leagues ntore, and yct all this whic ticy had nume bre flat-bortend Canoes, nor near fo brana, the lomething lenger than the common Tirmes Vhertics.
Ite !namens they mer with up this River plainly difoverd they hat never feen Earmpan Faces before; they Shy teyte. Wenld mot a long time be enticed to any fort of Trade or Crimetation with them, no, not with the other tndiens the bentegt along with em, becaufe they were as much as the others perfect Strangers to 'cm, but always fond apon their guars, and b; their actions decard that thecj look'd uion cm as Encmic; ; but at Jatt the hine Teys wroughe uron'cm, and an carneft defire th roffers forne of thole things, the looks of which pleasd then fo well, that it induced em to come to fome turms for ${ }^{1} \mathrm{r}$, vifions.
What pronefefs ther made in diforering this Riven Thali be aftervards related, but they had certainly gone farther if they could haic becn fupilied with Bread and Driak, for as for Fleih and Fint, they could procure enough, but the other Neceffarics failing, 'twas impofihle to perivade their Inditn Guides to procecd with the Voyage, and to they failld homewards again: And here their sreareft danger atrended 'cm, for coming to the Catr, iperiny lllands, they would needs pars between them and the min land; now the Indions, who weil knew the extrean danger of fuch an atempr, had faid all that coud be faid to ditivade them from ir, and yet nothing woud do, bur thev mutt so that way. And here twa that they mer with firch a Breach of the Water, that if the Indians had not been extraordinary induftrious indeed, they bad been all lwallow'd up: The Scamen call thefe violene Breaches of the Water by the name of Becrs, for tis like the furious clalhing or runting together of two enragid Creatures; after the firft thock they part and recire back, to mect with more violence, tillone has entirely run down his Adverfary; fuch a fort of a and prels uron each other with a horrible noife and foaming of cheir Waters; and our Men, as if chey had a mind to fee which was the trongeft of the two, muft isceds come where they thus broke uron one another, but 'twas their good luck to efrape and come home fate again to in ataoct.
Reverer Not long after this Mr. Harcorrt was oblig'd to retutn for Ensited, having left his Brother to command inchice in his abicnce, to whom was joynd as Affitant (or rather as his $L$ icutenant) that fame Captain Iferey before mention's.
Having parted from tw.erpoen, he came firt of all to Catene, where finding fome deteet in his Ships, he Ifft them at that place to repair what was amifs, and in the mean time, with his Ship-boar alone, wene to fee what ditcovery he could make. He followd the Coaft to the Wcftward, and rafling by the River of Mecea-aric, he which has an entrance narrow enough, tho' deep, bu withmatiords a good Harbonr. The nexr day he continucd his Weftwardly Courfe alfo, and paling the RiDiver cher vers Monmenary, Sinnamera, Oareffrnini, Cocmeunonia, oomr. the Bar lics two or thrce leagues off at $S_{\text {ca, }}$ and tis all Shal upon it, being but wo fathom Water, bur within is the Chancl is three, four, fiac and Ex fathom decp At a matrer of five leagues within the River are the Illants curctropry, which are wholly uninhabited, becaute at the rifing of the Waters they are overfolv'd, and theec are abundance of ocher lhands' of this nature up and down in this River.

He cmirs feveral thlicn Towns and Villages, rogether with the Entcrainment he had at them, and only tells us, that having gonc alout rwenty leagues from the Sea, he that having gonc about rwenty leagues from the Sea, he found the Kiver in a mancer barrd up with Rocks, ouer Sound the Rivcr in a manice barr up with Rocks, over whith the Warer fell with prodigions violence, ftanding ail which Falls he had the Courage to proced; tut itili the farther he wene, the more darigcrous he found firem in be and the more in number woo; bur then when he bad palsd the firf Mountain towards the high Counved feveral other hiobl Mountain befor him, heing then at latidix da:s lourney up the $\mathrm{F}_{1}$.er, he mes with Fus of wa fo iat and tholy a Water, ma fuch wate Oyertalls, that licing retured topte an cud to his Joumery.
had the followins acin to of of the Copany and Shipe, he man of his, whon had beco it the Crountry from a Kinfmatint has, whu had bect te the troulde of taveling to make fome diforcry. He we Journcy ep the Kiver Mhernisi, whin by the way is wo much difle nor paffille bur when the Waters are fallen to the later is, mom mathe and the former not but when the are rifen on the hipherf. Herc he rame to a Town of the coris. callid tor, mune, whid is above a hondred Ieagus thom the Sca, and three dars Journcy trom and ther days Journcy trom hirgite, anether lown of the fame Pcon'e ato: The inde, formed ham of riveral sreat and mighty ans phace in woud come to, if ine trasedt fome fix or fiven iays be- $\qquad$ and flature beyone other Men, and had confequently drange Arms (Buws and Arrows) waftls biager than what wer us'd or cumld be mamas'd by any other Pen wat wer The feveral very great and contileratic Kivers do fall int the River M: atrim:, (fone of which he faw himfel as weil a, heard of and that tis twenty days Journcy from Tepuramune to the head of Merawimi; morsover that a days Journcy from theace oo the Landward, a nanh comes into a plain kevel Country, sery fo for Carde, upon the account of the mighry Grifs is affords. In fhorr this Perfon in his Journcy met with at ove cighey. Overtho' as he came chey feveal of 'ein very dangerous, which tho as he game they made him difficulty. cnough, yet in Manning they did not a little quicken his raffase; a Manc. gencrally in this cafe fwims threc days Journcy in
Mr. Harcourt now faild homewards with all the ExPort fafe and uable, and had a Voyage to his defrid which we hat prorferous cnough, in this accounts of which we have only one ortwo Remarks to take netice is; the one is, of the excellent Piech at Cape Brece, which pich oetong here in fuch plewty, in the. World upon that foore, tis $E$ may be ftor'd with it, and 'ris fo good and fo.proper for all Ships that go igto the vory hor Countries, thar nothing can be imagin'd more; any Man will caflly conlude this, when he is told that this Pitch will nor metr nor mun with the Sun's heat, as all orher Pitch does: The Hot patiof Mevis, and which Mr. Harcourt conmends as an admirable Remedy for feveral Difcafes; he himfelf experimented the Vertues of it, he brought a verig bad and which which he was vers 反pecdily curd by bathing and drinking the Water; firther, one of hisServants bad his Hand ufe of fome of his the Hand coneracted after a rery odd were nirunk and bathing two orthred times a wery odd manner, bur by better; his $H$ orthree times all was much alser'd for the ducter; his Hand was perfectly heal'd, and tho not reduc'd fo cantirely as was delir'd, set 'rwas in a fair way ro tobe. Scveral others of his Company were alio cured of ugty Swellings in their Legs, and that witbin the compals of a Day.

- Afrer chis account of the Voyage, we muft taike that alfo of the Country to which twas made, its Qualitics and Inhabitants.
It is bounded on the North with the Sea and the great River Orcnoce, on the Eatt and South parts with the celcbrated River of the Amazons. This River of the Aman- River fete World, and feveral yaluable Writers have eftecmid and calld it fo; it has its rife from the Mcuntains of Peru, and (winding and ruming it felf as if does) tuns the pace of fiftecrior faxticen hundred leagues; is difcharges its briden into the Occan with fuch a violent force, that grear way our at $S_{\text {ca }}$ you may drink frefh Water, and Mr. Efarcecurf declares, that being thinty leagues frenk land, they drank as good and well-tafted Water as could come our of a Spring, and this from the River of the 1 mazons

Twould be an cndefs work to defcribe all the leffer Rivers and Branches that communicate with this mighery Stream, 'tis enough to fayethat there is a prodigious numEer of ent, and ferhaps as many fevcral Nations of $\mathrm{In}^{2}$ dians that dwell about 'em; there is a feveral Kingdom almoft at every River, and fometimes to go from onic Bank to another, is to come into a new Country : Bur we are now more immediarcly concern'd with Gaitn. One of the fwecteft and moft pleafant Provinces of this racious Country is thar which they call Corftelery, that

Ine Counry lies to the Northward of the River Arrapoca ( the moft of Comere. Weftwardly Branch of the River of the Amazons that falls Ine courry Weftwardly Branch of the River of the Amazons that falls of cmumes into the Sea.) The Emglif thar travel'd bere found a delightful mizture of open Downs, fruitful Mícadows, and thick Woods; there wcre abundance of ftately Mounts that afforded pleafing Profpects, and very low Valleys beneath' cm , all haded with Trees and moiftned with frem Streams rinning thro' them : According to their defcription, no fpot of Ground in the Univerff could be more capable of charming a man than this, eficcially the Air of ir, being as healehy too as the appearance is inviting. It affords a fort of Stoncs which at firt were taken for Diamonds, bur provid not to be fo, tho' very good and lovely ; buesthis they fay of 'cm further, that they are a fort of a fign of Diamonds, and 'tis oblerv'd that at Tenafficn in the Eafl-Indics, where there is the greateft plenty of Diamonds, thefe Stonesare plentifully found too; our Men gave 'em the Name of Toperes, trut what they were feems to be uncertain.
Befides this Corfolerry, there are alfo the Provinese of Arraconry and Morcmin, which arc very pleafant and fertile oncs. In general, this Country affords as many Mincrals and Mctals as any part cither of the Eaft or theflIndies, and there's demonfration enough that, as for fome of the Metals, they are none of the bafcit.
For Phyfical Druggs, there's Spikenard, Senna, Caffur Fifula, B ic Armonics, Terra Lemnia, yellow Amber, and feveral noble Gums; but chere's one Gum calld Cilliman which they thought merited a particular defcription,' tis black and brittle, and looks almoft like common Pitch if you pur a little of is upon burning Coals, is will quickly fill the Room with 2 moft fweet and pleafing odour and the fame Fumes receiv'd up into the Head, will effectually cure the Verrigo, Megrims, and all Diftempers of their kind; it is commended alfo for its grear ufe in the dead Paiffe, and Womens pains in their Backs, the effea of their Labour; in this laterer cafe they order it to be fpread upon a piere of Leather, and applied to the part Laftly, 'ris good for all Wounds and Sores, for any Ache or Pain, and is very proper to be us'd where any part requires a particular ftrengthning and refrefhment. Befrides this, there is another Gum which they call Barafra which is cyery whit as fovercign a Medicine and as rare a Rerfume.
As for the Vegerables of this Country, there are fome very odd ones; there's an Apple, which gocs by the name of the Slecping App's, but may as juttly be call'd the Purging Apple, fince it produces borh thofe effects, and with violence too; this a certain Englifoman found to his no litule trouble and diforder, he only bit a piece to try how the Apple tafted, fpitring it out again prefently becaule twas to v:olently hot, however that very imall macter which went down produc'd dhe effects of an exuraordinary fleepinefs and purging, and the latter diforder did not fop till it had made the man fir down ar the leaft fixty times.
There is farther a certain Berry in thef parts (admirable againtt the Drenter) ) which the Indifns call Kel${ }^{6} \mathrm{Tr} \mathrm{c}$
The Juice of the Plant Uppec cures Wounds made by impoyfon'd Wcapons, and that of the Leaf Icari is as gevd a Remedy againft the Headach.
Bur the Mechanicks as well as Phyficians may find in this Country Materials for the practife of their ferera Profefions; the Joyners heremay find the delicare Wcod Pirn Timingre, which will ferve for all the Curionties of rheir Trade; it is red and Ppeckled, and worth ehirry or Ingredicnts for Colours thar can well be wifh'd for; the Bexry Annotc, rightly prepar'd, gives a perfect Orapge tawny in Silk, and there's another thar dyes a blue there's a Gum which in Clorh dyes a fure and perfect yellow in grain; Leafs which (well preparid) dye a deep red; 2 Wood which gives.a purple, and another a yellow; bur that which is more worth oblervation is, that there is a certain fort of Wood which tinges a hor Li quor with a noble purple, and a cold one with as good a crimfon. The Wood that intoxicates the Finh is allo before, but tis a fort of a Providance that ir grows fo plentifally here, becaufe the People are hardly ingenious enough to flift for themelves by other methods of Finh ing, as other Indians do.
Tobacco is one of the moft ropping Commodities of this Country, and 'ris the opinion of our Authoss that this very thing alone mighr be manag'd fo, as to bring in the Englife Nation as much Profir as ever the Spaniards had by the richent Silver Mine they are Mafters of in the Indies; the Soil is certainly very kind to and fir for it, no

Flace can be nore natural to it, excere the lipe in which tis to be fmoak'd.
The Sugar-manes are another Probula of as great a soren com character as tike Tubacco, they grow here wa wall b gacfs in a very lietle time, and thi refore (conti icrmy alio the inizighty plenty of 'em) a man may farry conchitic char no lintie advanage might ascrue by crestiug fac good Ingenio's here.
Cotion-wool and tine Klempor Fiax are very common Corturd Commoditics alfo, of the former ihes make Fuftians, Bombaft, and the 1 ndiun Hammecks or Swanging-beds, and of the latese a Cloth extraurdinary fine, and fis for the beft ufes.
And fince we are fpeaking of Vegcrables, it is not amifs co bring the Serficive plans (as tis vuigarly call'd) into the number; they are not unconmon in fome naris of the Country, they alpear alinoft like Rofebufies, and are alour half a yaud high; our I'cople made fe:cral Expeiments upon cen, both by touchang and cutting the l.cafs, and thcy had taken cars to put fome of cm up in loes to bring over, which they had ciffected, butt that the Monkeys (who will always be ibilating what they (ec Mankind do) went to make Conic Expeimints tifon em too, and quite fpoild the Plants.
As for matter of Provifions, the Inhabitanes depend mainly upon what the Earth brings forth ready to their hands; their Food is moftly like theniflyes, wild and in its pure natirals, at lcait if they take any fainc, they Spoil 2 Din by the dreding on'r: The Caffavi Root is their principal ftaff and fupport for Bread, they rub the Roor upon a Stone, and prets our all the Juice of it, and ind Gunce. afterwar's take and fo grate it into flower; the faw wacat. Juice is faid to be Poyron. bur boil'd with Guirec- Perper makes an excellent wholfom Sawce. They have affo a valt dcal of Mins or Guinsi-WFtset, which is a Giain that yiclds a wonderful Encreafe, even a thoufand or fiftecn hundred for one, and many times more; it makes yery good Bread and Cakes, and may be w'd to any: purporex har our Whearmay.
And the are beholden to the Coffici and the Guimea- Timir Dinks IFtreat allo for their Liquors, of which they have ícucral forts, fimall and itrong, thick and thin, clear and miuddy, ome that muft be drank prefently, and others that will kece ten or cwelve days bur ksep ten or twelve days, bur yet (they lay) all of them pretsy colerably tafted. Wine they hatc none ar all, for there is nor a Vine in the Country, but the Soil being Co rich as it is, and the Clime to warm, 'tis more than probable that (were they planted here) they would profpes cxccedingly.
Bur chey have as good Honcy as any in the Worid, and as much of it too, tho ic be all wild, and caken ous of hollow Trees and holes in the Earch.
Their common Fruiss are Pines; Planaans, Medlers Plums, and Nurs of various kinds, the three firlt of which are greatly commerded, but the two laft to be caren with caution, inalmuch as thic Plums are very apt to give the Flux, and the Nuts to Bind too much, unlefs caten moderately.
And as for thofe that cannor content themfelves with beafts wita chere common Products of the Field, therc's Fleth enough and sares. for 'em of all forts, Deer, wildSwine, Hares and Conies, but very diffcrent from ours in Englond, Maipurics (which cafte like Becf, and will take Salr) and Baremoes or AntBeax, that tafte as much like Mutron; befides thefe, Lyons, Tygers, Leopards, Ounces, Marmoze's, Porcn, pines and Armadillo's.
For Fowls there are wild Ducks, Wigcons, Teal, wild Geefe, Phefants, Patridges, Doves, Stockdoves. Woodcocks, Snipes, Blackbirds, Curlews, Goodwits; Birds of Pleafure, as all forts of Parross, Parraketoes, and fmall Birds of delicare colours ; Birds of Prey, as Hawks, Yul ures, and others of the ravenous kind.
The varieties of Fifh are ftill as grear, if not greater, for here you have plenty of Sea-breams, Mullets, Soals, Scates, Thornbacks, Swordfim, Sturgcon, Scal, and Sal mon; of Shell-fifh, Shrimps, Crabs, Lobiters, and Oyfters, which laft may be taken off from the Branches of the Trees by the Sea-fide; bur the moft remarkable frefhwater Filh is that which is calld Cafforraa, it is bigger than a Smelt, and much more delicions Food; this Fin has a flat Back indented, and the Rilbs round, very different from moft ocher Filhes; but 'tis odd enough which is farther reported of in, that it has two pair of Eycs, fo that as it fwims along it keeps the lower fights always within the Water, and the upper ones above or out of it: A very circumpect Fifh indeed, that looks into both Elements at once, and wanes only a pair of Eyes more in the Tail to make it impofible to be catch'd. There is another Fifh too rhar deferves a particular mention; call'd by the Indians, Coiumero; by the Spaniards, Mannti; and The Ser.che our Englifh the Sea-Cew: It is properily a Sca-fifh, but it ond ise Ufe always comes into the freth Water in Wincer and wet wsather, and fomerimes twill come upinto the Shallows in the drown'd Lands, and feed upon Grafs and Weeds.

Eece
The Meat of it catts like Beef, takes Saltevery well, and will ferve to viatual Ships', as many of our Englifh bave experienced: Ir affords anOyl cxcellent goond for many purpofes, and the Fat of ic lerves to fry Fith or Fleth a well as Butcer or any other Fat; but then as the infide of it is furniture for the Belly, fo is the outfide allo for the Back, for the Skin is as good as Buff, and being dry id in the Sun, and preferv'd trom wet, 'twill make Targecs and other pieces of defmive Armour, in which a Man may expole himiclf to a thowre of Indien Arrows.
Before we come to fpeak of the Inhabitants of this Country, their Manners and Cuftoms, we muft take litele vicw of the difpofition of the Land and Air it felf: wis Land and would render it wholly uninhabirable here, were is not for the freth Eaterly Breczes thar cool and remper the Air, blowing generally moft forcibly in the heat of the day and in many places the low Lands are actually very hit tic inhalited for all this Rcmedy, and that becaufe of the overflowing of the Waters, a Diftemper which the cool Breezes can never curc. In the mountainous parts the Air is fine and pleafing, the Soil in many places very ferrile, and in others barren, tho' thas barrennefs is alfo fruitful of rich Mctals and Minerals very often. The champaign Country is very temperate and healthful, and arornds in Mcadows. Paftures, and delicate frem Rivers; tis inferiour to none for all forss of Sports and Pleafures and in many places 500 will give a Man the particular Sport of digging Gold and other valuable Foffiles out of the Ground.
The Weesther onfiderably with refpect to the feveral pars of it, for in the Eaftern parts, towards the River of the Amazons, the dry weather begins in $A u g u f$ t, and the violent Rains and bluftering Winds come on in February; wur in the Weftem pats, towards the Rivex Oroneca, the dry weather begins in ORober, and the Rains and Winds in April; bur as for degrees of Heat and Cold, "ris much ar one borh in the Eaftern and Wettern parts, tho' fomecimes (from fome particular caufes) thole Seafons may commence or end fooner or larcer both in the one and the other of 'em; and this the Experience of them that have liv'd there confirms.
The Nations
The principal Nations of this Country are, the Parai Dagoto s, Arrucporics, the Charibss, the Armaca's, the Xaio's and the Suppaio's; the Entlifh were moftly converfant with the three laft, as being the Inkabitants of thofe pars which they moft frequented, tho chey had fome correfpondence with fome of the friendly Charibes too. Of all thefe the Arwasa's have the beft Character for fober civil deportment; the Xaios are a fort of a proud flouting Pcople, and the suppaio's crafty and clofe in their dealings, and both the one and the other requixe good looking to.
What their Religion is, could never be difcover'd there is fo litule fign of any external Form amongft'em they feem to thew a certain oblervance of the Sun and the Moon, but they don't cxprefs it by any formal act of Wormip, or by any Sacrifices made to them, yet there appears to be roored in cheir Minds a cextain Norion of another ftate, whercin Meriexift after this Life, as alfo Some hinrof of Rewards and Puniftucniss rherein: Thus whenever a theit Retief Prince dies, they always kill fome one or other of his of afiususe Slaves; and they give this reaton for it, That he fhould facic.
feel the effects of their Malire, 'tis no wonder (if they have any Notion of a Being that is both kind and great too) that they mould defire to learnthe way of invoiking Him.
Bur, to let this pafs, they have no other Divifion nor Their .. Computation of Time than ly Moons and Days; and Tunn as for numbering, they reckonfrom One to Ten, and then fay, Ten and One, Ten and Tiso, inftead of Lieven and Twelve, and fo on. In common Converfation they reckon by their Fingers and Toes, by which way they ex prefs their Numbers and keep their Reckoning cxactly and readily enough. When they promife or appoint any thing to be done by a time limited, sach Party taike a bundic of Sticks containing as many as there are Days or Moons in the fpace of time they agrec upon, then ciery Day or every Moon cach Man draws one Stick out of his bundle, and when they are all gone they know the appointed time is come.
Their greatef Solemnity is at the death of any of stite. is. their Princes, Captains or Friends of great note and qua- the drati on lity, bur the plain truth on's is, 'cis no more than a drun- Firchid. kca bour, for the Guianians are exceflively given to this Vice, and tis the fureft mark of a brave Man among f cm , when he will ftand as firm as a Poft over a lars of Drink, and empry two or three down into his Belly Upon fuch an occafion they meer together, and bring feveral Jarrs of their ftrong Liquor along with 'em, for (as was hinted before) this is the very Spirir of the Solem nity, and without Drink they cannot remember the Departed: Here then they drink, dance and fing; and to make the Harmony more complear and ravithing, the Women that are a-kin to the Party deccas'd fer up their Pipes and cry all the while. Thele mighry doings laft juft as long as the Drink does, and no longer, for when thar's nut the Ceremony is over, the Mufick ceafes, and the whole Company is qualtid, fo now they begin to ifperic themfelves again. Oh! did bur fome of the rear Rivers of the Country run with frong Parranow or ome other fuch Liquor, how fron would thefe Pcople change their Element, become aniphibious Animals an leaft, and duck themfelves half the day in the belov'd Fluid?
And indecd, fince they efeem a Man fo much for his Drinking-abilities, one would think this qualification mould determine em in their choice of a General for the War; bur they are not firch defperate Sorts neither, tho they are bad enough of all conlcience; they know Methot of that a General muft know how to handle other forts of Geery Inftruments than a Por or a Juge, and be able to look other Encmics in the face than 2 ]arr of ftrong Parranow or Caffravi Beer; in Morr, they require Patience, Courage and Hardiness in him they elcet to this Charge, and therefore when they have fx'd upon a Man, they thus proceed to try whether he has thofe Virtues or no; they fet bim in themidft of ' cm , and after they have harangu'd him 2 while upon the Qualities of a good General, they take their Rods and begin to whip him foundly; the noble Candidate ftands moconcern'd under this fevere trial, he never ftarts nor flinches, tho' every ftroke draws Blood from him, and the dyd Rods declare hisFleth to be cartonado'd.: Thus when his Virtues have keen writren over and over in fcarier, and the Examiners conclude em to be vifible and manifeft cnough, they pur an end to the examination, and wish one comient falute him Gcneral: A very pretry method indecd! a man thar is ambitious of this Honour need only ger the reputation of having a cafchardned Backfide, and he is in as fair a way o Prefermenar as can be
There People are of a tall near make, well limbid and proportion'd; they go all naked; both Men and Women without any fort of covering, and the. Women fobmir to it with as little concern and regret as the Mon: Bur if it be faid that Paint is a coverung, then indeed they muft be allow'd to be cover'd, for they do befmear their Bo dies with thas, efpecially when they go to Feafts, and would make the fineft figure.
Their Houfes are huile much after the manner of ous Barns in England, bur much longer, for fome of 'em by meafure were a hundred and fffypaces long and twenty broad, fo chat a handred Perions ar lealt dwell in one of 'cm; they are very araficially conrriv'd, and the thatchin3 ts fo nice and exact that no wet whatoever can pof cibly moleft them that are within Thicir Honiholdituff confifts of carchen Pots or Jarrs which hold their 1 iquor, and are made fo near, that hey look as if they were gale; then Baskers of diver orrs, very arrificially made; and their Hammo:ks, fome $f$ which are made of Cotton-wool, and oche:s of the a: $k$ of Trees.

The Men and the Women never keep company rogether all day long, they cat, drink and converfe apart, the former ar one end and the latter at the other end of the Houfe by themfelves: Alfo when a Woman is ro be dcliver'd, the goes inro a Room all alone by her felf, and going thro her Labour without fo much as a Cry or a Groan, when the Child is born the calls to her Husband to corne and take it, who immediately goes and reccives the Infant, puts it in a Por of Water to wath it, and then paints it over with feveral colours.
The Commodities thefe Indians moftly defird of the Englifh, by way of exchange for the Products of their Country before mention'd, were all forts of Edge-rools, Nails, Fifh-hooks, Harpon-irons, Looking-glafles, Beads, Needles, Pins, Hats, Linnen and Woollen Cloths, Shirss, Bands, Salr, Powder and Shor, Swords and Mufquets; bur thefe latect fort of Tools our Men were caurious (and that juftly) of making then very familiar with. They laid a great deal of ftrefs upon the affiftance and friendmip of the Englifh, and 'rwas as great a baulk to any of 'em all to find the Englifh engagid againft 'em.
There was one of thefe Guianiam Princes nam'd Leonard Ragapo, whole Country was that very pleafant Province of ceopberery before defcrib'd ; this Perfon (who was a rruc Friend to the Englif) had invited them into his Councry, and upon that invitation, and by the Captain's order, fome of 'em went and refided with him for a time. While they were there the Caribes broke into his Dominions, committing horrible Outrages, and nor content with doing that mifchief at a diftance, advanc'd their Army towards the place where Leonard himfelf was; The brave Indian arm'd fome of his Troops with their ufual Weapons, Bows and Arrows, marp-pointedStaves, and wooden Swords and Targets, and then defiring four of our Englifh Mufquetiers to bear him company, he march'd to meer the Enemy; he was himfelf the entire orderer of the March, and difpofer of the Batrel, the Enslifh permitring all this as well in a compliment to him, as to fec tlieir way and method in martial affaits, and the pofture he fer em in was thus; firft the four Mufqucticers two abreaft, then two I-dians arm'd. with Swords and Targecs, next two Archers, and theia two carrying flarp-pointed Staves, and thus the whole Army, which was nor near a humdred, went on: The Garib: came on in the fame good order, but comung within view, and 'ppying the four Elgith in the front, they made a ludden ttand; Leonera prefently guefing the reafon of ir, commanded his own Mcn to ftand ren, and chen (raking only his Sword and Targer) advanced to wards the Carites rill he came within heaning, and call'd our for their Caprains to come and meer him ; here he martly reprov'd 'em for the Injuries they had done him and his People, demanded farisfaction, and withal warnd them of ever coming into his Terrirorics more in chat hoftile manner; bur he rold em, if they would not facisfie for the Wrongs they had done, and promife never to diffurb the Peaic of his Country more, he food ready there with his Friends the Engligh to give 'em Baitel, in order to the takitig a juft Revenge; and laftly he bid them take notice, that if they were refolv'd to fight, and any of the Einglifh died in the Conflict, he would fersh all the Power of that Nation from Wirpico, and cut "em all to pieces, and burn their Houfcs. This, fpoke with a good grace and courage, and enforc'd with the prefence of the Englifo, had the defir'd effeet, the Caribes (tho' vaftly more in number) were coold and quicted, they fubmitred to the Conditions of Peace impos'd upon 'em, and fo march'd back to their Habitations.

From hence 'ris plain, that whar by the Factions of thefe Indians among themfelves, and the Necelfities fome of the weaker Parties lie under of protection and defence, 2 foreign Power (managing the matter weh) would find no grear difficulty to plant it Self amongf 'em.

Chat. VIII.

$\Delta$ brief Account of the Country and People about the River of the Amazons; by William Davis Barber-Chyrurgeon of London,who liv'd there fome time.

THIS Gountry (the Relater tells us) is extreamly full borh of Woods and Rivers, as alfo of Lakes and Pools, fo that the Inhabitants are far enough from any danger of wanting thofe two great conveniences of life Wood and Water; the Woods abound veniences of life Wood and Warer; the Woods abound with all forts of wild Beafts, and chere's plenry of good wild Fowl in "em too; but Parrost, he fays, are mote common there than Pigeons in England, and he commends em for as good Mear: The Warers, both the running and ftanding ones, afford as much Finh; bur there are fo many Crocediles, Aligntors, and Water-ferpents, that thofe who frequent 'em for that Sport muft always be upon their guard.
The Country is very fubject to violent Rains, Thander and Lightning, and thofe Srorms, as they are very frequent, fo they commonly hold fixteen or eighiteen hours of the rwemty four. But the worft Perfecurion to Strangets that come hirher is that of the Muskitoes or Flies; thefe importunate Arimals will be continually hovering about a Man and fucking his' Blood, ler hifn do almoft what he can to defend himfelf; and 'nis to be fuppos'd the Author fufferd pretry confiderably under this perfecution, becaufe he feems to fpeak formething feelingly of the matrer.
There are abundance of perty Kings abour this great River and the various branches of ir; they have their Reveral Rivers to themfelves, which confine their Terrirories and Power, and upon which chey very often fight one with another ; "tis upon the Warer that they decide moft of their Quarrels, and he that's overcome is nor thrown out of his Canoe to feed rhe Filhes, bur ferves for a principal Dilh at the Table of the Conqueror, the victorious King eats up him his Arms have fubdued, and buries him in his own Royal Belly; norwithfianding which one is bound to believe, that the honour of fuch a Sepulchre is no rempration to any man to be over come. The Enfigns of Majefty here are 2 Croun of Parrots Feathers, a Chain of Lyons Teech or Claws hang abour the Neck or che Middle, and a wooden Sword in the Hand; he that appears thus adom'd is chexebs known to be a King.
The People go (both Men and Women) as naked as chey came into the World, they wear their Hair loag, but the Men have it pluck'd off on the crown, which is all that can be calld Fanion relating to them: As for the Women, they have none ar all, bur their Hair and Breafts are borh fo long, that'ris a queftion which of the two are longeft: The Men wear litule Canes chruft thro: the foreskin of the Pudenda, as alio thro' their Ears and lower Lips; ar the bridge of the Nofe cincy faften finall glass Beads or Burcons, which hanging down directly before their Mourts, bob to and fro as they \{peak, and in this pretry motion chey rake nor a little pride and pleature: : But as foolith as they are in this refpect, they are crafty and ingenious enough in others; they are horrid treacherous too, light of Finger as well as light of Foor'; they are very dexterous ar thooting, and kill not ouly Bearts and Fowl, bar even the Fifhes too in the W2ter with their Arrows; as foon as:they have ftruck a Filh they prefently throw down their Bows and leap injo the Water to catch him; this. Weapon is made of Brafilewood, 'ris abour two yards long, and the Arrow feren foot, the String is made of the Rind of a Trec, and lies clofe to the Bow without any bend. When they have gor any Prey they meet together in companies, and car every man what he has got himfelf; this they do withour Bread or Salt or any fort of Dritk bur Warer, the Author fays Water and Tobacco, but 'ris to be fuppos'd he does not mean Water with Tobacco fteepd in it, for if he does, their Liquor is ftrong enough of all confcience in one fence, whatever it be in another. The Counery yields neicher Gold nor Silver, as far as the Aurthor copld Eeccez difícó
difcover, but vaft quantities of Fruics and Roots, fuch as hiave been defcrib'd in the other parts of America.
The People are fo wife as so defpife Moncy, or at leaft fo happy as to be ignorant of ir , and they'll exchange a parcelof Pronifions for a glas. Bead or'a Jews-harp that they won'r take ren or cwenty Shillings for, and if all other People had been of their mind, that pats of the World had been lexs yificed than 'tis.

Chap. IX.

A compleat Account of the great Country of Brafile, woitb the Manners and Cuftoms of the Inbabitants; from a Portuguefe and a Frenchman, who liv'd there a great wbile.

WE thall not pretend to reckon up the yaft num- of fifteen fpan, and at every fpans diftance there arecer-Mmesies bers of Nazions with which this mighty tract rain Joynts; our of the fides fooor feveral litele Stalks or ${ }^{\text {Boort }}$ of I and is peopled, to tell their feveral Names Branches, which bave a white Pith within, and if broken and Tribes, nor to delcribe che particular places of their off and fet in che ground, will thempelves in fix or cight abode ; fomeching has been done this way before, in the months have gotten Roors big enough for Food, for,'tis account of Mr, Kniver's Adventures in chis Country, up- to be noted that this Roor is the main thing they make on which fcore we fhall forbear entring any fanther into their Bread of; they fecep it in Water, and then making The uf ofs
Ten $n$ tions that fubject now; ' 'tis fufficent to fay, that amongt all it up in Balls with their hands, they dry it npon Hurdles insegfic who the diverfities of Languages which thefe feveral forts of over the Smoak, then they fcrape and ifft ir, and fordes urf we ame People ufe; there is one which (becaufe it fpreads more Flour which is whiter than that of Wheat $;$ this Flour than any lingle Language befides) may be calld the mix'd in a cerrain proportion wich the raw Mandioct, principal Tongue of Brafile, and 'cis fpoken by ten feve- makce 'cen a Bifcuir, which they call Bifcuif of the Wrar, ral Nations of Indians: This is chat which the Portuguefe becaufe it ferves che Portuguff and Indians when they go do underftand and fpeak in all their converfes with thefe to Sea-fervice. There is alfo another fort of Bifcuit, People, and their Children born here fpeak it much more which is made of the Watcr or Juice of the grten Roor, perfectly than themelves; is is an eafie, eloquent, and congeal'd and dried by the Sun or the Fire; this is of all pleafant Language enough, and very copious, bur the che whiteft and pureft, and is fo delicate, that 'tis made greac fault of it, and thar which renders it difficule to only for the bett fort of Pcople. Leamers is, its having fuch a maltitude of 'Comparifons This Mandioca Roor ferves 'cm for che making fereral "$ in it.

Friepds to shePinforgue

The Pcople that fpeak this Tongue are (and were) the ancient Friends of the Rortusurfe, and 'rwas by their Arms and Affiftance pardy that the Country was conquer'd; they joyn'd with the Porruy uefe in their Endeavours to extirpate the reft of their barbarous Ncighbors, and thcir Endeavorass have fucceeded fo well, thax they are now almoft all gone from the Coant, Cond ancry.
There Prople, as diftingt from the ren Nations before mentiond, are all comprehended under the general Name of Tapooes, and chere is no lefs than feventy fix feveral Nations of 'em, each of which ufes a peculiar Tonguc : they arc invecterate Enemies to the Porsuguf $\mathcal{F}$, and to all the reft of the Braflicms, tho' 'ris faid that there is one fori of em that dwell near the River of St. Francer, that maxititain 2 friendy correfpondence with 'em, many of which ate allo made Chritians after their manner, thar is not inftructed in the Principles of the Chrifian Faith, bur fprinkled with che Water of Baptifif.
The Climate of Brafile is tempcrate and healthful, and (amongt the Natires at leaft) the Thread of Life is fputn out to as grear a length hcre as any where: The Gouncry is full of old People, and 'ris'a common thing to fee ninety and a bundred Ycars in a hopeful way of going on to a grearer number. This will make it cafily belicy'd thar the Air they brearthis pure and clear, as indeed it is, and the Heavens always fhew a brighr face over their Heads; jou feldom fee black Clouds flying abour here, or noilom Fogs and Mifts difing, every fcent of which fomctimes gives 2 man 2 . Difemper, if the fight of 'em does nor make him melancholy. In.the Winter, 'ris'struc, therc are grear Rains, and the Skics help to orerflow the Country as well as the Rivere, but all this wet does nor make it unhealthful, nor breed fuch Diftempers as fiorten rhe Lives of tire Inhabirancs.
There arc reers thiort Twilighes in this Country, 'tis no
Cooner Day bur the Sun's un, as allo'tis Night as foon as cver he is down. The summer begins in Sepeember, and ends in February; the Winter in March, and ends in Auguff, and the Days and Nights are almoft equal all the Year round.
From Fernumbuco:ns far as the Government of Spirito Sanso 'tis all full of Hills, and you hardly meet with any Stone, efpecially "tis fo towards the Sea-coaift; bur from thence to St. Vincent 'tis very rough and rocky, and abounds with Stone Quarries.

- In defribing the Products of this Country, we will begin with the Vegetables; and here the Mandioca comes firf to be confider'd. This is $\mathbf{a}$ : Roor fomething like a Carror, but biggex and longer ; they grow to the height forts of Broth alfo, and thofc fo very hicalchful aind retorative ratic, that they give 'em to fick Pcople, as the mof proper and cffectua! means to secover 'em. Buit belidss all fhefe Ufes, they make Cakcs, Pics, Fritrers, and Cimnels of it y yea, therr's hardiy any ufeful or pleafant fort of Food belonging to a Houfe, and which can be made of Grain, but they ferch it our of chis Roor.
As for the Medicinal Vertues of it, 'tis commendedias an excellent. Remedy againt the bitings of venomous Crearares, when 'tis prepar'd by drying in the Smeak; notwithftanding to ear this Roor raw is of dangeroilis corfequence, forit contains a cold crude Liq:or, which produces fatal effects in the Body of Man, verother Ani-. mals have the privilcge of eating is raw without any hurr, and not only fo, but with a grear deal of Benefit, for is fattens and nourifies them to a grcar degree; bur ghould they driak the exprefid Juice, it would infalirbly kill ' cm , and they would live no longer chan till that gor down into their Stomachs. There is one particular form of it which the Fridions call Alppim, that they excepr fronn this property of poyfoning when caten raw, and which boird or roafted is very well cafted, and makes good Flour. Cor Cakes and Bread; but the Wines which the Indinns make of it are fuch 2 Medicinc for the Liver, that trotheis Frequent drinking of this Liquor is atribured cheic freedom from all Difeafes inciident to that parr.
The Herb Nayna is very common in this Counsry, is is iserb vione like the Semperviv.c or Herb Alos, and has Leaves like that, bur not fo chick, and is all round abour full of fiazp Prickles $=$ in the middle of it grows a Fraft Tike a Pine-applc, full of Flowcrs of divers colours, and victy ptcaing to the fight, and as the hotrom come our foze or five Sprigs, which are fir for plancing. The Fruit is one of the beft in the World, has a graceful fmell and a vecy pleafant tafte, and is very full of Juiec ; if ore would compare the cafte of it to that of any ocher known Fruit, one would Fay it refembies that of a Mclon, but tis vaftly better. The Juice is very good for them thas are troubled. with the Srone, but found to be as hurtful wherever there is a Fever; and for 2 vulgar ufc of ic, it perfectly taikes away all poots out of Clothes. This Eruit is fo very pleatiful, that the Indirans fatten thicir Hogs with ir, and except fome fmall quancities thas are prer. erva for a lort of Sweetmear, they have no ocher way for common Spending of 'cm, bur only to carry them to Sea, where' the Sea-fick People ear ' cm, and find. bencít. by ${ }^{\prime} \mathrm{cm}$; and then to infule em intwine, and drink a draught of is in the morning, they look uron to be wery wholiome.
The Fig-tree Pacoba, which grows herc very common- Fiperre in very big, and grows to twenty quarters long, the Stalk vory fender and thin, and having only one ftrong midele is foft and fpongy, the Leaves extreamly long, frooth rib to fupport and hold 'cm together, the Winds do fo and foft like the Brap,mana Velver, fo pleafantly cool and tcar' 'cm with blowing 'cm abour, and leave'cm haniging refrefhing, that People fick of Fevers have thefe applied in fo many rags, that to thofe that look on'cou at on to ' cm to abate their viokent hears and make 'cm cafic The Fruir grows in clufters likeFigs, uron cersain Pedunculi, which come our of the main Stalk cvery font diftance, and cach clufter concains about two hundred of the Figs, fomerimes mors and fometimes lefs. The Fruit gatherd and laid oo ripen becomes very yellow, and acquires a pleafant cafte; but belides its gratefulneis to the Palate, tis medicinal to the Bod;, as thofe that lie downo Fevers or chat fíit Blood do expericuce to their bencfit This is an ordinary Fruit alfo in their Gardens, and they have of 'cm all the Year round;

Of the Pabn-trees of this Country (of whish they make four or five kinds) there is one fort particularly which our or $P$ ends but the whole is fo large and heavy, that a man can hardly lift it with one hand; the Kernel is of the bignefs of a Cherry, and may be caten, tho of the Fruit it felf we have no"account either one way or the other. Upon the tops of thede Trecs there grow cerrain white Tendrels or young Branches, which dicy cus off and eat and thofe thar haye been troubled with the Piles affirm chey affurd relief in that cafc.
The Tree calld Aijri by the Braflians is fomething like the Palm, bur the Srock is arm'd on crery fide with fharp Thorns and Prickles, which will do the fame exccution upon a mans Fingers that rotiches em that fo ma hy Necdles would do : If bears a Fruis not very large but which courains a Kemel as white as Snow, and no to be earen. This Tree fecms to be a kind of Ebony, for the Wood is very blach, fo hard thar the Brafitians make Arrows and Clubs of ir, and fo heavy thar, being chrown into the Water, it prefently fanks to the fortom.
There are Trees alfo whof Woods are of divers othe colours, and fome of 'cm as varioully enteraining the Smell with their different feents, as they do the Sigh wich their colours; ove particularly perfumes the Air like a.Rofebunf, and another that throws out a fecint like a Bed of Garlick; this latter Trec is fo ftrong, that no tman can endure the place where 'ris either hown or burit ; 'tis cvery way a Poyfon to the whole Body. as well as to the Nofe, and if 2 man cats the Kernel of che Fruir, he is in as much danger of dying by chat as by the borrid ftink withour eacing. The Natives pals by all chefe bad qualitics, and love the Fruir notwithitanding, becaufe it furnifhes them with materials for makins their Ratles. The Leaves of this Tree relemble the Leaves of our. Applectees; and the Fruir appears (in mape) Comerhing like a rough Chefnut.
The Chogne-drec is of an indiffercat hight, with Leaves of the fame green and form too as thore of a Bay-tree and a Fruir as big as a Child's Hcad, not round but oval the bard Shells of chefe ferve em for Ratrles, and being alfo divided int half, they are ufed for Cups and ocher fmaller Houlthold Veffels.
ance, the mrubs.appear to be all Atuck with Feather
This Country affords fore of thofe Trees lihewife that bear the Anan., that noble and nefful Fruir; wheher thefe of the American growth are beter or woric thatn thofe in other parts of the World is nor readijy tolet, bet tis cortain that here they are very excellent. The Phan is in form like the fermer 1: Later, with erookedhending Leaves, which aredivided round about fonethins life the tioc, and of the form of thofe of the greater Thithe; the Fruir is as big as an ordinary Melon, and of che haje of a Pinc-apple, growing, pfer the matace of our Arthoke; when they are repe they are of a golden colour, and yicld the facll of the Fruit of the ris:on Prami le, to that they difcover themfelves by their fine feent to thofe hat walk in the Woods and other places where they grow ; in tafte they excell to that degree, that none of our preferv'd Fruits do go beyond 'cm, ant the Liquor Urawn from cm by expreflign is nething inferiour to the Malmfoy Wine.
The Plant Murcuin runs up the Walls and Trecs like $\qquad$ vy, it is :ery pretry to look upon when'ris in Fiower, and yields a round Fruit, which is not always of the fame colour, but fome yellow, and ochers black, and divers other ed urs befides 'em: The lietle Kernel and Juice wichin are of a pleafant talte enourh, tho fancwhat tart ; but takea all together, 'tis a Fruit of a very good account in the Country, and if no little uff. The leaves of the Plant beaten with Verdegrife, is a Specifick for invererate Ulicers and the Pox.
To thefe may be added the Mulberises; the Daticerries both red and black, C' mmin and Kide:y-Bechs of mane Forts, Potatees, Purp ${ }^{\text {atis }}$, fo large, that when they have hollow'd 'cm they ufe'cm for Veffels to carry Water:a; Millet of many forts, the Rooc Carci, which is like a lia-
nep. and the Thisobit's, atat recembie Cabbages, and purge a man that cats' cm .
But the Ront calld by them Jori, at: (which isthe frosen
Mecoaran of the Ansiliss is fomarkable for this \'crie: alfo; it is a long Roor like a Ridith, of a confuctabie bignefs, and purges fufficiently; beaters alfo in Wine or Water, tis a Mcultine fur the slaue, andagrsfrid or made into a Cort of Marmalade, is taken to very gcod purpore upon โeveral other accounts.
 Stalk is a quarter of a yard long, and the Roor rather kew bit more; it has only four or five lcaves, buts thofe (as inn-tix. decd the whole Plane) of a very rank and flthy fincll: They beas the Roor well, and then infufe it in Water, leting is tand all nighr, tic next mornirg they arer, To this ale 210 do they pur the large Fruit of the Iree Sabrucate, bur Nature has dirceted cm to this by making the Fruir in the form of a Cup. In the bottom of it there are 2 paxcel of finall. Kcrnels that look like Almonds, and have the fame pleafing rafteroo.
The Fruir by the Barba ians call'd Accion concs from 2 Tree of the heighit of our Service-tree, 'ris of the fhape and bignels of a Hens-cgg. and when ripe, of a golden colour like a Quinice; it affords a Juice of a tait quick talte, and that is reckond a very proper and good cooler fortie Body, when diforder'd with any preternatural Keats.
Prco-aire is a Shrub of ten or twelve foot high, with a drock many cincs as chick as a mans Thigh, and yet forall that fo tender that ituiny be cur afunder with: 2 Sword at one ftroke. The Fruic is felf has the name of Prce, and 'tis as long as a man's;Hand, and not unlike: a Cuinuber cither in colour or flape trhen it comes to be tipe; but then, thele grow for the moft part twenty and twenty five thick together upon cyery Bough;- fo that the Brafilians, when they gather and canty em to their Cottages, do ofren find chemfelves loaded with a few of thofe Booghis' When the Fruir is ripe; the Knop being pull'd off after the manner of a frèh-garher'd Fig, ir feems clot ty and full of litile clufters, upon which account them chat ear,it do imagine almoft they are cating a Fig, and indeed the taite is not only as good, but much better than that of che moff delicare Figs that come from Mc/This. The Leaves of the Pacc-aire are in form like thofe of Lhari-joriel, burbigenough to cover the waiter it felf as weltas the Sorrel that grows in it , the length of cm is gencrally fix foot, and the breadth two, but dhey are $\square$ cxtirpated by is Carnpnia is an Herb which for its fingular verrue in onspatia, fecuring the Body from all the mifohicrous cficets of C unterf f Poyfons, particularly that of Serpents, has gor the name of Snakeberts; and cis reekon"l as good a Remedy as the
 There is no part of is of any fignificancy for this purpoie bur thic Root oniy, which is thin and aencer, and in the middle has a Knos like a Burron; this they beat and infufe in Water, and ro drink the this they beat and in fame courfe alfo that is taked if a man be wo nuld with an cnvenom'd Dats or Arrow, or if he h sa Fraer, they have no other method of preparing is, but givencir Parienriircs.
The Herb Throgut or Tareroqui is (as fome tould call it) a Solar Plant, from the particular regard it bears to thar L uminary ; it lies as it were dead and wetherd, quite fhur up and contracted all night long, and in the moring, as foon as the Sun is up, it begins to iccorca and thew all the marks of Life, in the opening and cxpanding of it felf, and Spreading irs Flowers; thus it continues till Soin-fet, and then it dies away again, thll the comfortable Beams of the nexr morning $s$ a: come and give it a new refurreation. The Roor of shis Plant is verj; jagged, the Branches flender, the I cavcs like them of Bafil, the Flowers red, and come forth ald at the very op: It's good ro deftroy Worms both in Men and other Animals, and the Indizns (when they are fick) perfurme themiclves with it, to preferve em from dying; but how, vain foever char Fancy be, tis prety certain thar it may preferve a man from dying of the Blcodralhax, if the nfes is in good time, for 'ris efteen'd a very grear Remedy for that Diftemper, But then tis not the Fumes that sure neither, but the infufion or fome other preparation of the Plant，according as thofe Brafilian Dottors pleafe to manage it．

The fame is partly the vertue of the Herb Embeguack， it helps the $\mathrm{F}_{\mathrm{i}}, \mathrm{x}$ ，and is upon many accounts more pro－ per kir Women chan Mcn；the Roots of it are fo long that fit docs almoft cxceed belief；the Rind is very ftrong， and ferres for the making fubftantial Cords and Cables for Ships，which are of fuch a nature，that by being in the Water they grow green．
Caciobaribga is a finall Herb，which bears a Flower as bis as a Halle－nur，with a very tewLcaves，green above and white underneath ；the Kouts and leaves ftampid are an exicllent Remedy againft all forss of Wounds， but they ufe the Leaf alfo it felf without any ftamping or preting，for only laying is to the Wound，it fticks faft till it has done the bufinels．

The Elerb Cobaura ferves for the cure of old Sores that are advanced part the reach of all orher Kemedics；they lay it boch Lmuis＇d and burut to the part affected，and it quickly mafters the Ulecr，dries up the Humour，and brings a now Skin．
The Ifoiy $H v$（as they call it）does this fervice in the cafe of Wuunds，and a ureat number of internal Mala－ dies 100 ；they ufe is for Afthma＇s，Coughs，Catarrhs，dif－ orders of the Head and Stomach；but the Portugnefs and Instians do make fome other（and thofe very unholy and unclean）ules of this holy Plame，for they＇ll fir and fuck ohe frooak on＇t for a whole day rogether，till chey are as drunk as fo many Apes；they make certain Pipes or Tutes of Palm－Jeaves，and fill＇em with chis Herb dried， and then fecting fire to it at one end，and holding the other in their mouths，they kecp drawing till they have drawn themichies into a itate of absolute Drunkennefs； and they are not contented neither to do this all theday long，bus the Prirtusuefe will do it in Bed，and the Indians as they lic in their Hammocks for a whole night rogether， aidd are the next morning as mellow as if they had been drinking Wine or ftrong Becr all thar time．

Giuaraquimiya is reckon＇d to be the Mirtle of Portugal， and beides other excellent Properties，has this，to effe－ etwally to expel stoms out of the Body，that thofe that ear is do ordinarily void em prefently．
Cama centimbar is a Plant that refembles the Sylun＇s of Porengll，the Water wherein＇tis boil＇d is an admirable Remedy for Scats，Pox，and Green HTounds；the Flower of it is very fair and lovely to look upon，and finely fented，and being fo，they ufe it to adorn both their Houfes and Alcars．

Aipo is che very Smallege of Portugal，and has che fame Yertices；if is found only abour the Sca－coaft，efpecially in the River of Fanero，for which reafon perhaps＇tis that it is to much iharper and more pungent than that of Por－ tygal．

The Mendmallow of this Country has the fame effects with that otherwhere；the Flowers are a curious red， very large，and look almof like Porrugal Roles．
Citragnata is a fort of Thiftle thar bears a yellow Fruir as long as one＇s Fingcr，which caten r2w will blifter the Lips，but boil＇d or roafied，preduces no ill effects，only they are forbidden to Women with Child，becaufe they are faid infallibly to caufe Mifcarriage．

Therc are alfo others of thefe Carninuats＇s that have vaft long leaves like Flags，and bearaFruirlike the Nana coorthre a before mencion＇d，but not at all well－rafted；the beft fom \＆Leaf．part of the Plant is the Leaf，of which a very fine；fort of a Thrcad may be made，fir for many good purpofes，bur in order to the getting of this Thread，they prepare the Leat by fteceping it in Warer．

Timbe is a Plant that comes ap from the Earth like a String，and rifes up to the tops of the thigheft Molberry－ tress，to which fometimes，alfo it grows clofe like Iry＇； they are excecdius ftrong and tough，and therefore ferve tir all mamer of bindings，even thofe that are as big as a Manis Les may be wound and twifted about wichout briaking．The Bark or Rind is an infallible Poyfon to the Finh，and keing caft inip the Water，leaves hardly Ses Knier：any of＂cm alive：This feems to be fomething of the Gane nature with a kind of Wood（before deforib＇d） which had the rike milchierous effects apon the Fithes．
The Bombisfine Cotenn－fbrabs are found in great num－ Eers in this Country；they grow to an indifferent height， and have Flowers like the Jintle ycllow Balls of Cucum－ bers．The Fruir，when ripe，divides it felf into four parts，cach of which yiulds the Cotton in tlocks of the bigneis of a Firtle Ball；in the midft of thefe flocks are found certain black Grains very compaet and ciofeprefs d togecher，in form and bignels not muct different from a Benn．Thie Brafile Womerr are very skilfal in garhering and finning this Bombrfine Cotson，and the great ufe they make of it is about their Beds，as we mall fee farther l：y and by．
Mafticls grows here alfo amongt the Briers and Bufhes， which，together with all the reft of the odoriferous Plants and Flowests，perfumes the Weods after a moft picafant manner．In thefc Woods you find Recus of the bignefs of a Man＇s Leg，and whillt they are ftanding upon the ground，fo very tender，that with one blow of a Sword one may cur oft the largent of＇em，yec let＇cm be bus dried and you＇ll find＇cim hard and ftiff coough；the Bras－ flimin：head their Arrows with＇em，and rhey are fó very piercing，that whatever wild Beaft is Atruck with＇cm is lure ncier to ramble the Woods any morc．
Belides the Reeds，they have as many varictics of Canes，fome of which are extreamly big，and orhers very long，confifting of a great number of Jojnes，and thefe： the Indians ufe for Weapons allo．
To conclude，the Plants found here that co－incide with thofe of our own Councry，are Ferns，P6illy，Pur－ flain，Bafil－Royal，Sorthij！le Rects，Endize，Pcony－royal， Minf，will Segr，tho fuch of thefe as fmell ftrong enough in our Climate，have but very litde（if any as all）in chat．

This following Account of fome other Braflian． Vegetables，tho＇it noas not lit of time enough to be pat into the foregoing one，yet deferven to be prefented to the Reader，which we Jall therefore do．

$\mathrm{O}^{2}$F the Acrion－trees the Author（whofe Name we Know Other Plais． not）oblerves，that the Timber or Wood it felf is that fer even to good fo
wrapt 1
Author againft der to 1
his minc
Beaft＇s Ccrarchir
chis Tre next＇em inderinionsa Amb fords O a peculi Sun for taking o
very go for the of is li anointio with it． tabeacamuri，
Igbace
2 Pot or are cert Bloady

Chap.IX. An Account of the Country of Brafile. 723
the Cover will open of its Own accord and let the Nurs fall out. The Nuts do very much refemble the fndian Myrobinlan!, but if a man cats many of 'em green they bring all his Hair off: The Husks are ufd for Drinking veffels, and the Timber of the Tree (which is very hard, and never rots) is much ufed about the Sugar-mills
The Araticu is a Tree of the bignefs of an Orangetrec, and the Leaf is like that of 2 Citron or a Limon the Fruit is of the fize of a Pinc-apple, being betier fecned than tafted, and more wholfom than either Amongit the feveral forts of ' m there is onc calld Arcricu Panemia, the Fruis of which is fo cold, that much of it caren has almoft che effects of a Poyfon. The Roors of thefe Trees for lenity are as fo many Corks, and thercforc the People out of them do make Buojs for cheir Nets.
Of the Pepusf-trees there be two forts, one bears a Fruir as big as a good Oranige, and the Rind of it is as thick as that of the Orange is, but within it you find a Liguid which you may call a Honcy, if ar lealt the fwect cafte and the fine Amber colour will allow is that name; there is as much of it as comes to the quancity of an Egs and there are feveral Kernels mix'd with is. The other Peguea is only for Timber, bue tis fome of the heavicht and mot durable of this Country.
The Tree $\mathrm{Fa}_{\text {anticaba difinguifles it }}$ felf by this in a prerty remarkable manner from moft other Trecs, that it is wholly befer with Fruit from the very Roor to the top Bough or Spris; all along the Body of the Tree you find che Fruir, as well as in the uppermoft Branches, and fo going downwards you do the lame till you come to the very Earth it felf. The Eruir is of the bignefs of a gcod Limon, and has a Cowre tafte, like fome Grapes; the Indians make a kind of a Winc of in, bur whar or how good. we are not able to fay.

As for the Pinet, Pelms, and Coceno's, they are too common to infilt upon their deferiprion.

The Cebueriba is a very large Tree, and affords Timber for ftrength and fervice inferiour to none; burchat which rendes this Tree moft valuable is the fovereign Balm it affords, a Balm comparid to that of Gilenil, that perfectly heals all green wounds, and takes away the fearr. The way of getring it is, to make an incifion in the Bark, and io the Balm diftills from the Tree into a Veffel fer to receive is: 'Tis a fign that the Balm it felf is a rare Perfume, when the Bark of the Tree is fo good a one, and the Natives make Bracelets and Necklaces of itupon that account; but the Woods where they grow fmeling all over, will make a man fenfuble of this at fome diftance.
Cuproba is a fort of Fig-trec, commonly very hizh, ftrait and big, if it be cur is yields a vaft deal of Oyl that ferves both for Lamps and the cure of Wounds even to the taking away the Scarr is felf: The Wood is good for nothing, the entire Vertue of the Tree being wrape up in this oily matter; and therefore; tho' our Author rells us that the Beafts, who are taught by Nature the Verrues of this Tree, will come and rub themfelves againft is, as if'twere to borrow fomeching from in in order to the cure of their Diftempers; we cannot be of his mind in this marter, but believe that the fence of the Beaft's rubbing is the very fame with that of a Man's feratching where it irches, and that they do ir againft this Tree, and not another, is becaufe this happens to be nexr'em, or to lie readict in rheir way.
stanaringe Ambaigeinga is another kind of Fig-race, which affords Oyl for Lights allo as the former; bur they diaw a peculiar Oyl from the Leaves, by laying them in the Sun for fome days, then ftamping and boiling them, and caking off the Oyl which fivims at rop. $T$ This Oy is a very good Remedy for them thar are troubled with continual Vomitings, and can't tetain what they cat, as alfo for the Cholick and Obftructions in the Bowells; the ufe of it lies alrogether in exremal application, namels, anointing the acgion of the Sromach pretty plentifully withit.
Igbecemaci is a Tree thar bears a Fruit in fathion like a Pot or Pan, and is as good as a Quince; wirhin there are certain fmall Secds, thar are a noble Remedy for the Bloody-flux.
The Tree that yields the Maftich is calld Igcigca, when 'ris cut there diftills a white Liquor, that afterwards congeals, and is the Mcftich it felf.
But there is another Tree of this kind calld lgraigcica, which fignifies in the Brafilien Tanguage Meftich as hard as Srone; and it anfwers its name, for'ris fo hard and mining. withal, that it looks more like Glafs than Gum, and the Pcople do really ufe is to glaze their earthen Veffels, valuing it mighcily upon that account.

Curupicniba is like the Pertugal Peach-trees in the Leaf, curryteaten and the Liquor that comes from the leaves of it is excellent for the Pox, and for all Wounds, borth green and old oncs; the Bark upon inc: fion yields a marter fo clanmy and vifrous, that they ufe it inttead of a Birdlime, and catch the fmaller fort of Birds with it very calily.
The Canroie. Trec is medicinal all over, and nonsa part belonging to is but is forme way or ocher a Remedy; the Leaves chew'd and laid to a Pocky Sore, dry and heal it; the Wood has the fame effect that the Chime Wood and that of the sintills izave in the fame DiftemPer; and of the Flowers they make a Confirve cf noconcmprible ufe in that cafe alfo.
The Wood Cantobmocorandiba has the fame vern:es with the former, and befides it cures the Loofenefs; it's grey, and has a hard Pith like che Chima Wood.
All the Country of Brafice abounds with the Trecs calld by them Faburandibn, and in that with a Remedy faturanditad for a! Difcales of the liver, as powerful os any that's known; 'tis the leaf that is to be earen for this purpofe raw, and as it coines from the Tree; and the Author feems to fpeak with more than ordinary alfurance in this cafe, as having been ('ris probable; ain Ey cwitnefs to a confiderabie number of Curcs.
The Bercluetree affords a Remedy as propet and lure for suctif. the Toothach, which is the Reor (a littebit of it! par in the hollow of the Tooth, but then it bites and tcazes the Tongue like Ginger, and confcquenr:y drawe plenry of Rheum, which may do good in other cafcs.
 and the spaniards declare 'tis as good as that whirh comes from the Eaftern World ; but our Author decs not prerend to have found any here.
The Aluda-rrees are very fair and griat, theit Wood Gerres for all ufes that Wood can be put ro; the Fiuin gives an $\mathrm{O}_{3}$ l for Wounds, but the indians valuc it as mach for the ufe they make of it in their Unetions.
The Mox:reguigha-trec bears a Fruir as big as an O-Moxerexisha range, in which are a parcel of Ketnels, from whence they draw another fort of Oyl to anoine themfelves with; the Bark kills the Fifies, and all orher Crcatures that drink the Warer whete 'tis caft have the fane fate alfo

The Fruir of the Aiuraturiba-tree affords a acd Oyl, Aimatenibu. and that of the Ainbutipitc: a black one, both which the Brafi:ians very frequently anoint themfelves with: 'Tis to be noted too that Fruit which yields the red Oyl is red it celf, as chat which yiclds the black is black, and this later is very much eftean'd among f ' cma, as a Medicine of no fmall rerrue.

The finipaba-ute is a very large one, bearing a Fruit jaitonse. like an Orange, and intafte like 2 Qunce; the leaf rerembles that of a Walnur, and changes e cry month; the Timber is very fit for Icrviee, and the Fruit a Reme dy for all fors of Fluxes; of this allo they make an Ink or a Paint to colour themfelves with, which when firft made is white, and fo it contintics for fome hours after tris laid on upon their Bedics, but then it chanses inro the contraty colour, and they remain as black as fo many Negroes; not thar the Brafilians do make themfelves all over of this complexion, they only give fome fine ftrokes abour che Facc Arms'and Legs, draw a pair of Srockings perhaps,or a lla1h'd Doublet, or fome ocher piece of drels, 0 make themedives a little fine, bur then all this fincry weins offin cight or nine days time, and longer than that thcy can'r keep it upon their Backs do what they will; they muft renew the decaying colour when that time is expir'd, and lay on freft, or elfe they lofe their Eurepatm Habirs, and become poor maked Brafie.ors again as they wercbefore : Repeating this uffen, makes the Skin very rough and hard;' and 'ris to be obfervid, that in order to have a Paiut thar mall anifwer che delignt the Fruit mut e' gather'd green, for being xipe it will not ao.
The Tree calld Faquitimguacu bears a Fruit like the Juenitimean Spinifh Srawberry, the Sced or Kerncl of which is very whening, hard and Black, and thines wirn a glofilike Jert; the hard and black, and hines wich a glofs like. Jert; the Husk of it is bittexer than Aloes, and fcrees for wathing as well as the beft Soap in Portugeh.
To thefe maybe added the fine B-cfitic-wood, of which the red Ink is made, and other Weeds of fererai colours; fit not only for the making other c. leur'd liniss, bur all forts of carvid $\mathrm{m}^{2}$ turn'd Works. Then the Smelling Woods, the Incormiptible Weods, that never ror being either laid in the Earth or in Waser, the Woods of Angooin and siquill,, Cedars and Nurmeg-treses, which tho' not quite fo fine as thofe of Effe-Iniz:.. yet come very ncar ' cm ; of all thefe our Author tells us no more than that they are Natives of this Country alfo as well as tise former. He ends his Difcouric of Vegetables with an accoum of a Arce which will be thought rot a little ftange;

Arange; it is a very great and freading one, growing about in the Fielus and otherwhere in the main of the Country; the Boughs of it are perforateet-15 Fanu down in fe cral places, aut the holes are rany times the length of an Arm, and full of a clear well-rafted Water; they are aiways found full, and itand as the fame ftay Winter and Summer ; a whole troop of weary Travellers may come and refreth themfeives under one of chefe Trees ropole in the cool madow, and quench their thint with the Water of this Foumtain; and the wane of Water being nott commonly one of the greatef Inconvenicncies to thofe that travel the inland parts of the Country, it feems as if Providence had provided this Remedy tor's in dipoling up and down here and there fuch funds of of Water as the fe are, which thould not be liable to the u:certainties that the common ones are.

Hawing done with tiic $F_{\text {crectabics, we come to the An: }}$
He ene Era. mals: The Bees of Brafile differ conniderable from ours, and are more like that leffer fort of back Fles we are trotibled with in the Summer than our Bees by much they make their Coinbs in the holes of iotien Trees, from whence the $B$ efilians gather it with a great deal of Art and Cate; the Honcy being ferarated, the Wax remains as biack as Pirch, and this chey preferic very nicely, but not to make Torctics or Candics with, ffor as for Lights they wic oniy a fort of Wood whigh yields a very clear and brighe: fiame) but to foop ciole up the gricat Canes in which they keen their Feathers, that they may nor be snaw'd by the Burterflics.
ü, artetion.
Thete Creaturcs, (which the Europeans call Butrerffice, and the Brafitious hinvers) are as big as Grahhoppers, they come abour the Firchearths in great multitudes, as our Crickets do, and are furc to confume and devour any thing (muleds it be Srone, or Bone, or Metal) that If 's in their way; but there is nothing which is nor Meat that icapes 'cm worfe than Leather and things made of i5. and therciore if. thex lise of any leather-brecches, Jackes. Shocs, Ere they car off all the upper grain enircly, and leave a thin tighr bufinels behind, which a man may call the renainders of Leather if he pleafes, bur withour he knew it to be fo, he would be hard put to it to prove it. If a Fami or any ching of that kind be in their way, cheyll make a clear Anatomy ont, and fhew a man the wonderful ftructure of the Bones, without giving him the tro:ble to pick off the Fleth. In a word, thefe Animals are not a little yexarious to them, and it their Houfes have nor the plague of Rats and Mise like ours, yet they have Burictilies, which by the ad wantage of their Wings can come where the former fort of Vormia can'r precena.
posters on. 1 Our Authors cell us likewile (bur witheur deferiptions) a. various forts of Spiders here ; of Scopsons, which are alinoti $2 s$ rommon abour their Houles as the Lizards are, and they are in every hole, and the walls themfelves are coverd with 'um: But the fting of the Scorpion is nor fo fatal is feems int this Country as 'tis in many ochers, for they feldom diciof it, nor is it attended with any horrible fymptoms fiteronty, only in the fpace of twenty four hours is: will produce very violent pains; the Remedy the israfi icus ule is 4 a bruis'd Scorpion applied to the parc. In the account of the Snakes and Serpents. we fhall bemore partic:lar.
Divers fors g Sablko

The Guon is one of the largef Snakes of the Country and fome of cm are found of twenty foot lone; the mifchief they do is mor by their Poyfon (for they havenone) but their Teech, as ocher ravenous Creatures do ; they apon the watch along the Highways, and when they ce their Prey within reach, they ar once throw themfelves uronit, and wind themelyes round the body of it with I know not how many folds, by which means the poor cntangled Animal is crulh'd, and all hiskones broke. This Snake ha; it fecms a good large fivallow, for they report of hin, thar no kess than a whole Sag goes down his Throas as once. B ator

The Guivaupefunra is a very black long Snake, and bis a yellow-lireaft; they glide along upon the tops of tie Xrees fanter than any man can run upon the Ground, and hree they carch Birds and cat their Eges, for which reaion the Brafiin,s gave 'em that name, which in their Language-figniñes Eerers of Birds-rgos.
There is ainotber fort alfothat do as well mount the Treen for Birds and Eggs, as deftroy the Chickens and rob the Hienroofts below; thefe are very long and big roo, but all over green and beautiful enough to behold, and the name they give cm is Cominnom Afmake with boytiefuc Sgnincs having a long Snout, and the Snake wim noum of th:s name s remetkable for that; it is very long and llender, and feeds orly upon Frogs. The Natives con-jure with this Suate. Fur when a Woman has no Chit decenthey take and lalh her over the Hips with it, and Ah odive ci: then fay the thall be fure ro have foine; a very probable drin caure of fuch an effes, but fure the help of hea Hlusband.
is not excluded at the lame rime. or fometote
The Gairicpia (alarge Snake) bas all the fecut of 2 Fox, fo ftrong and rank chat he is difcover'd by is whereever he is ; fo has the Boyuna roo, which is blark, and very long and flender. Same l'oult fancy the facil of a Fox is good for the lallic, and if fo, thefe Suakesmight perhay's be keprs to as good purpole.
The Bom-Sneke is call 4 fo from the noife he makes as he gocs along; it is of a very large fize, but does mo manncr of himer.
The Bicupeauge (which fignifies a Snake hauing Prickles upon its Back; is very formidatid, as well . .ur his dimcnfions as his poyfonous nature; and whereas fome of thofe Creatures may be mer with fafely enough both Men and all other An mals endeaiour as much 2 they can to keep out of this Snake's way
Fatraraca is a general name for four forts of very vinomous Snakes; the firft is about ten fpanslong, having two fearful fangs or tusks that lie as it wore cover'd up in their Gums, but when they bite they flecter 'cm out to a great length, and ftrike 'em with a mad fury into the Object that provokes 'cm. Some fay the Vanom is inn The Gum, orhers, that is is enclos'd in the cavity of the Tooth, bur however this is certain, that there is an Incifure along the fide of the Tooth for an outler to ir: this venomous liquer is very yellow, and fo frong thar it difpatches a man in afew hours sime. Another fort have the fame colour and form with the Vipers of Spoin, and are cvery whit as dangerons. The third and wortt of a: has a red Chain along the Back and Breaft, and:at' the reft of the Body grey. The laft kind are bur fenall in comparifon with the others, are of an earthy colour, have fome enings about the head like a Viper, and make fuch noife as that does.
The Curucues is abour fifteen or fixteen fpans long, 2 ficree and poyfonous Creature, that lies clofe among the Trecs, and leapls 25 Men or any other Animals without difinction.
The Boycininge, otherwife call'd the Snake of the Bell, Ben Snac. is twelve or thirteen fpan in length, it is reckon'd very poyfonous, and moveth with a mighry (wiftnefs roward is Prey, infomuch that upon this account they have given it the name allo of The Elying Snaks; but notwink ftanding this advariage, it does not hunt fo fucceffinuily as other Creatures of that kind do, for Nature has form'd a Bell in its Tail, which makcs fuck a noife as is moves along, shat' tis a warning ro all Creatures thar hearit to kecp our of the way. There is azother of thefc BelfSnakes that is fmalier than this, kur black and-very veDomous.

The Snake Ibirncua is remarkable for this effect of its. Srame $\operatorname{lor}$ Poyfon, that it makes the Parcy bit prefently yoid Blood ion. at all the paffages of the Body, 2 a Mouth, Nofe, Eyesand Ears, and thus ir continues freaming forth till by come proper method the Flur is Atopt, which if not done in time too, fignife nothing, and the whole mals will at aft be exhaufted.
But of all the reft known the Snake Ibiboboca is taid to be the rnoft farally poyfonous; this lives in chinks and crannics of the Earth, and by the providence of Narure is to form'd, as to be very dull and flow in its motion: it is all over (both Head and Body) : (putted with red, white and black, which diverlity hath procur'd it the name of the Snake of many colours amongtt the Braflians.
As for that which is calld the Musk Snake, we have no Murk Smar: more faid of it, than only thar ir deferves rhar Name, as catrying a very powerful (bur pleafing and fragrant) friell of Musk.along wirh it whercver it goes, to that the blind man, by the direction of his Nofe, may poffibly keep out of the way of thefe as wellas the other abibve-mention'd. The Braflicns are endangcr'd by thefe venomous Creatures not only abroad in the Woods, but even in their own Houles, and according to the acconns given by our Authors, there's hardly 2 day but fome mirchief or other is done; they find em abour theirScats and in their very Beds, and are pefter'd with 'cm in fo many places, that "tis' (at leaft it muft be thought fo by them that are not us'd to fuch companions a very vexacious life they muft needs lead, to be forc'd to be fo coninnully upon theirguard.
We'will now go on with the reft of the terreftrial Divers 0 oit Animals, and then come to thafe that dwell in the Wa-ot Dest, $t$ ter. The Deer (calld in the Brafilian Tongue Cuacu) is i Creature that the Narives themfelves. do as highly eftecm as any, and that partly becaufe their Sinews fur-

Chap.
thi
wh fiy

| make |
| :---: |
| $\substack{\text { make } \\ \text { Th }}$ |

wife

bardly

| than |
| :---: |
| tast |
| tat |
| 0 |

and 50
therei:
if they troops Swine, folatior one of Indians him no monies
have co that the mer ; th
but a S and Co

Nmrr, b=at Dog, 0
exaticibid. the len
'ris a Sk
notso bc Mouth up the A is full th
cxcecdin have at The frect of ning form

Chap.IX. An Account of the Country of Bralile.
nifh them with Bowfrings, and their Hons with heads the Houfes; they take into their fore-fect whatfoever they for their Arrows: There are feveral forts of 'cm found in che Country, fome that feed altogether in the Woods, and others that frequene the plain Ficlds, and are to be feen there in whole herds; Come that are very large, great-headed, and have ren or twelve Snags; others of a imall fize, and that have one only. The Skins of them ferve for fercral occafions, and che Fefth is alfo of no little.account amongit 'cim

The Tapioret? (which fome call the E/kes) are made jike a Mule, the Tail is about a Fingers length, and the Snout (which they mrink up and extend at pleafure) fpan, but they have no Horns ac all; theyll take the water and (wim a great way, and ner only fo, bur dive too tho when they do this they quickly get to the firm bortom, and going along there, come up again in anocher place.

The wild Boars are of divers fores; the common ones (which ate alfo the ordinary food of the Indians) have exactly the feent of a Fox, by which they are betray'd to the Dogs that hunt 'em.

Others calld Tayecutirice (which Iggnifics a Boar that grinds his Teech) are much bigger than the ordinary ones, and much more rare; they are armid with Tusks, which render em very tormidable to the other Animals, and they are fure to affault any they meet.
But yet thefe are much lefs fierie and xcrrible than a third fort, which they call Tryacupify (thefence of which is 2 Boar that ftands ftill and waits)s thefe will fly upon the greatelt Dogs, or any Huntets, tho' cver fo well arm'd, that come ncar 'cm, and what they mafter they rend in pieces and cat, whether is be Man or Beaft If they purfue a Man; and he rakes rhe thelter of a Tree to avoid their fury, they'll befiege him there, and ftay till he comes down, to chat at this riare he muft of neceffity cither ftay there and be famintd, or become banquet to the hungry Boar at laft; and therefore the Indians that are acquainted with this rrick take care to 80 with cheir Bowis and Arrows, and fo play upon the Befiegets out of the Tree till they bave difpatch'd 'em.

The Tapirouffonisis 2 Beaft that much reicmbles a Cow as to its thape and fize, tho in other refpetts it differs very much from it; ir has long fhaggy Hair of a reddilh colour, no Horns, 2 very horr Neck and Tail, long hangints fars, a llender thitt Leg, and a whole Hoof; 'ris a Crearure of no fierecncfs at all, and notwithffanding Na cure has given is a fetrof. very tharp Teeth, is not at all apt to imploy 'em in any actions of violerice upon Men or other Animals; the Natives hunt em abundantly, catching 'em fometimes in Traps and Gins, and pièrcing "em ar orhers with their Arrows, bur "tis not fo much for the fake of the Flefh (tho that begood enougl, and raft not much unlike our Beef.) as for the Hide, of which they make their Targets, and ins, when well dried in the Sun, of an obftinacy that no Weapon in the World can make yield.

The Brafilien Woods are well fock'd with Gunces likewife, fome black, others grey, others fporred; rhere"s hardly any Beaft to be found in "cm more cruclily furious than chis; the Boars will purfuc a Man to a Tree, and ftay for him there, bur the Ounces will mount rhie Trec, and go up afrer him, efpecially if they ars any ching big; there is zoothing they mect can be fecure from their rage if they happen to be 2 little thulh'd, they'll affault whole troops of other Animials at once, break inro.the hicrds of Swine, deftroy the Henhoufes, and leave wafte and defolation wherever they come in thofe fits; the killing of onie of 'em is reckon'd 2 very glorious action among the Indians, he chat does it gets 2 ' y ame by it that makes him not every one's fellow, and they ufe the fame Ceremonies of Triumph in this cafe that they do when chey have conquerd a human Encmy, the only difference is, that they ear the latect, bute make no fuch ufe of the for mer ; they afford nothing that's good (as far as is known) bur a Skin, which the Parrucuefe Women ufe for Rug and Coverlers, efpecially the fine fported ones.
The Tamendue (or Ant-Bear) is of the bignefs of a large Dog, bur bigger than tis long; the Tail is twice or chric maderibid the length of the Body, and fo well fet with Hair, that ris a Skreesto him from the linjuries of all weathers, and a Cover, in which he can wrip up himfelf fo fecurely as rotro be feert, the Head is fmatl, the Snour thin, and the Mouth rery little; but che Tongue (with which he licks up the Ants after he has open'd the Hills with his Paws is full three quarters long: All the Dogs are faid to be cxcecdingly afraid of thele Creatures, and the Ounces too have at leatt an arcrion to ' em , if not a fcar of' em .

The Acnti's are like the Conies of Spain, chielly in refeect of their Teeth; they are of a dunn colour, inclining fomewhat to a yellow and are bred uptame about ear, and fo carry it to thicir mouths; they always car very faft; and what they leave at one time-they ptetenry go and hide till the noex-1hat they are hungry
The Paca cloes in fome meafure refcmble a Pig, the Elef is pleafant and well tafted, but not verycatic of digeftion; there are grear numbers of 'em, and yer they neyer bring forth more than one at a cime; fome of 'em are pure white, which are grest Raritics, and found chicfly abour the River of Stifrancis.
The Aguti is of the fize of a young Pig , and has a cloven Foot and a mort Tail li'se that, but the colour on is red, athd the Nofe and Eats like chat of a Hare; theie are verydeligh ful Meat:

The Pig or Hegue is of fomenhing a larger fize than the former, and cats like Vcal; the Head is very deform'd bat the Skin oo beauciful and fine, all Spotred with black and white, that 'twould be of no litrle account to thofe that are skill'd in Furrs or would make Merchandize of cm.

The Cariguc is like the Fox of Sprin, (tho fomecwhat lefs) bur fmells much worfe; is has a Bag that reacher from the forc-feet to the hinder, with fix orferen Teato in ir, and in chis Repofitory their young ones are lodg' $d$ till they are big enough to provide their own food. It gencrally brings half a dozen or more as a liteer, which is too many by five for fuch ravenous Vcrmin as they are, for they deftroy all manner of Poulery, and climib up the Trees and Houfes too in the night-time; fearching for Prey; in fhort, chere's hardly 2 Bird that can 'fcape 'cm.
The Tarru or Armadillo is of the bignets of a Pig, of a switifh colour, and has a very long Snour; 'the Body of it is wonderfully defended with hard Plates or Scales which no Arrow can picrec, neither is the Creature inul nerable, except he be hit juft in the Flanks; they will dig fo very faft, that fereral Men with their Mattocks have not been able to do to much as one of thefe twich his Snout alone, fo thar they prefently convey themfelves into a fute refoge under-ground, where ther are not to be undermin'd nor indeed caken ty any other trick, bu only thar of chrowing Warer into their holes, which if it be done, they are cafily mafter'd: Their Flelh is as whise and tender as thar of any Hen or young Pig, and theSkin is ufcful for the making of Purfes; the Brafilians are mightily pleas'd with 'cm, and breed 'em up for domeftick Compiznions.

The Sarigoy is a Best which the Braflians will not touch to ear of, becaufc of the loathfom fmell it has with it, but the Europerns have found 'em notwithftanding that to be very good Mcar, if they are but tlea'd and all the far that lics about the Kidneys carefully taken away, for Experiexice bas told 'cm tis this a'one is the caufe of that vilc frocll, and when this is gone the Armadillo it felf is not more agreable food.
The Woods abound likewife with a fort of grear Rers Theod Raco (as our Author calls 'cm) whichare as big as a Squirct, and thicir Flefh not much inferiour to chat of the moft delicate Conics.

The Canduacu feens to be no other than the Africen cennuscs. (tho' here 'tis the American) Percupine, amongit which there is this differcnce, thar fome of 'cm have their Briftes or Quills black and whitc, orhers have'em yellow and black at the points, and all thefe chrow or dart out their Quills as that Beaft is vulgarly known to do; But then there is one fort of "cun very fmatl, which tho" they are furnith'd with thofe natural Darts as well as the reft, yet never Shoot any abour as they do ; but they all agree if this property, that they are a yexy good furt of Meat.
The Hirara is a Beaft very like the Civet-Cat, and are of fevcral colours, as white, black and grey; there's nothing will fexve this Creature for Food but Honey, fo chat the Braflitins lofe many a fweer fuck by their means chey do nothing elfe but hunt about the Woods for is and when they have found a foock, they go and fetch all their young ones to that place, then the old onc goes in and brings it our to the others rill their Bellies are foll, and Gatisfics her felf with cheir leavings.
Thic Cuati by its grey colour relembles the Portugal Brdger, the Claws and Snout are very long, and by the help of the former it climbs the Trees lite a Monkey they are fo raverious that there's no Animal they light of that is not more than amatch for'em) that 'fapees being devourd by em, buc Snakes, Birds and their Eggs is montly what they live upon. Some keep them rame in their Houifes, as being docible Creatüres and apt for feveral purpofes both of fervice and diverfion, bue they are withal fo malicious, and given no tear and devour all that lies in their way, that they are not much liked for do meftick Companions. Of thefe there is two or three kinds more, which arc as big as Dogs, and have rusks ike wild Boars, and do very picar as much mifebict as

Ffffe
Eind

Wild Cum As for thofe Beafts which onr Authors call Brafiline If bid-C.ses, tis probable they are mother than Tretrs which their delicare Furrs, their extriordinary lwintneis and fiercenefs does feem very fuficiently to juftifie; yet lrey find none of cm bigger than an ordinary Dog; but tor colour they have bortiblack, white and faffron.
Tsoararm The Fagnarmen is call'a the Dog of Briatile, more for its Don-like yelping than any other retemblance; they are of a grey mingled with whire their Tail rery hairy hey live upnn Eruits as well as Anmal I'rct, and will bire what they feize on after a ycry terrible manner
Fine Taperi are like the Conics of Portugel, and they lfo make a kind of a noife like the barking of 2 Dog , but this is cliefly in the night-time, and the Indians never hear it but they are-furprizid, looking upon is as an cril Oirien ; they are very tare, for not only the Beafts of Prey, but the ravemus Birds too do affult and de--our'sm.
The Faguacinate as big as a Portugnl Fox, and of tbat colour; they fecd cliietly upon Sea-crabbs and among the Sugar-cancs, of which they deftroy abandance; they ace a mighty flecpy forr of Creature, and are rery offen saken napping and kill'd.

The biaratiac. is the a Ferrer, bur confiderably bigger, and has a remarkable Crofs of white and grey along the Back ; chis Crcarure makes wretched havock of the poor Birds, and their Eggs, but its moft beloved food is Amber, which ir rery ofren walksthe Sea-fiore to find ; it has neither tharp Teeth nor long Claws, nor any formidable Weapon, and yet is able to well to defend it felfand offend its purfuer, that no Beaft of Prey can do better: In inort, 'ris lry a ftink that is makes; and one fo very onl and horrid, that it has made both Dogs and Men that have taken it fick to the ver)' dearh; they don'trell is which way it comes, wherher upwards (which is lefs probable) or downwards, as alfo wherherir be from any Excrement roided, or is only a meer Fizzle ; but which Cocver ic be 'ris faid of 'cm, that they are fo cumning as to inake a hole in the ground and do their finking occarons there, when they would not be difeoverid, as on the other hanit, when they are furpriz'd, so fcatter that fine Perfume abroad, and to by poffoning the Huntimen and Dogs to puran end to the chale.
The Priguict is like 2 Ahagg'd Dog, very ugly to look upon, his l.egs very long, and am"d with fearfut Clavs. yct with thicfe long Legs they go with their Belly juft ouching the ground, and move fo very flowly along, int 'ris an eatic matrer mo take ${ }^{\text {com }}$ bur all the blows a Man can give em thall never make em mend their pace. Their only or principal Food at lcaft are the Leaves of certain Fig-trees, which if they are deprivid of, they dict

The Sagovin is by rome reckond a kind of Monker, kis of the bignefs of 2 Squirrel, and has red Hair, but in the make obithe Body, the Nofe, the Neck and Brealt, thewis a lively Image of the fately beauty of the Lyon; bur the refemblance is fill nearer in relpect of the Spiris fthis Animal, bur 'ris very haughty and full of Scomach, apt to refent an affront, and would pine to dearh with meer difcontent and rexation, thould any thing be offer'd contriary to its humour; 'ris for xhis reafon partly hat they don't attempt to bring con into this part of the Worlil, ther would never cridure their Prifon, nor diget the injury of the Confinemenr, but would die our of fire by the way, and make their Jaylors lofe their criumph ; bur then they are bur poor little feeble Animals, and don'r appear to be fit for fatiguc and travel efpecially by Sca, fo that tho' they would be mightily ctteem'd in this part of the World if we faw 'cm ' yet upon this account alfo the don't attempt their cranfportation.
The Har is of the bignefs of a Dog, of an ath-colour with a very long Tail, its Feer and Claws are horrible like thofe of a Bear.and its Belly hangs down like a Sow ready to farrow. While this Creature is in the Woods it is exrreamly ficree, bur being taken and us'd to the prefence and company of Men, ir becometh tame and gende.
The Corit is of the fize of a Hare, with thore fported Hiir, 2 limall Head, and little tharp Ears; it has 2 Snout more than a foor long, pirfectly round, and of equal bigeds, excepe juit at the extremity, where it diminithes all of a fudden, the cavity of it is very fmall, and will fcarce recive omes lirtle Finger, it is a very ftabborn, obftinate, little Beatt, and when tis taken will gather up its four Legs and hic down all of $x$ heap, and rith "tis pleasd of it self to rife, will neither be footh d nor beaten into it; zind hor only fo, but it won't ear neicher, ualels you provide a Banquet of Ants for it, which Creatures ic ofren realts upon in the Woods.

The $\mathcal{F}_{\text {anonare }}$ is a Bean of Prey very like the L.ynr. in refpeet of his fpoted Skin; his Chin is furnilh'd with a Beand of long thaggy Hair, his Legs as long almoft as thofe of a Greyhound, and he runs no lefs fwift than that Creature does ; the Brafiliens are horribly afraid of there Beafts, and not withducteafon; for they are many times frapt by cin and rorn in pieces; on the other hand TheArifle:ry when they caach any of the $\mathcal{F}$ anouares in cheir Traps, they revenge themfelves' upon 'cm with all the inialice imnginable, they pur 'em to the moft lingring deaths they cani conerive, pictec 'cm now and then with an Arrow, that they may feel themelives dic, and by their toments make thofe they have offended Come latisfaction for their Crimes; and 'rwas upon this accouns that thefe Pcople the firt cime they faw our European Hounds ran away: cyery man for his lifif, as faft as their Legs could carry em, they fancied ther wore Fanouares, and concluded our Men to be our of their Scmies to let "em leap and fawn upon 'em fo as they did. We read alfo whar fervice Dogs have done the Spani.ards in their Wars with the Irdians upon feveral occations, how the poor Barliarians were terrified, their Troops diforderd and broken by the lecting loofe of the Dogs amongit 'cm, and the Sprnierds Victorics over 'cm facilitared by this only afliftance; nay, tbere don't want inltances wherein we find a main ftrés of the Battel to have lain upon the Dogs, while their Mafters ttood by, look'd on, and only cry'd hallon. Now tis very potible what we have been fpeaking of might be fome caure (ar leaft) of this fo mighry a fear and confternation, and that granting a parcel of Dogs to be capable of difturbing a naked Enemy, as the redians were; yet their refemblance to the moft hared and feard $\ddagger$ anoulares made the imprefion of Horrour much deeper than otherivife 'twould have been.
The Apes and Monkeys are very numerous in this Apes and Couniry ; of the former there is a peculias fort call'd nookerm iquiqui, which are as big as a good Dog, black and very ugly ercty way, the Face is white, and the Beard reaches from Ear ro Ear, and is as precife as if 'rwere cut with 2 pair of Sciflars.: Norwithftanding their colour dher have fomerimes a young one that happens to be reddifh, and the government of the Apes always belongs to thefe, for (we mutt know) their Kingdom is elcetive, tho' che Honour goes along with this Carror-colour'd Family.

There are Apes and Monkeys both of feveral othet colours beildes, and fome of "cm are repured to be fo fierce and ftomachful, that if they are wounded with an Arrow, they'll turn again and fling is ar him that thor it. and then for their cure they look our for 2 ecrrain Leaf, which they chew and cramb into the Wound. Tis Eaid alfo that when their Cubbs are fo very lirtele that they can't go, they leap with'em from Tree to Tice, hanging abour their Necks, and chore little Animals will hold and cling as faft to their Dams as a Burr to a Man's Coat; bur if their young are fo big that they can $g \mathrm{~g}$, but not ftroug cnough to leap, then if they have occafion to more from one Tree ro another that is within their length, one of cheold oncs lies acrofs and makes a fort of Bridge holding faft by one Tree with his fore-Paws and the other with his hinder, and fo all the little onespais over his Back.

To the Land-Animals we may alfo joyn the Lizerds croediernend and the Crocidiles ; 'tis true, the Crocadile frequents the Liwart. Water as well as the dry Land, but thofe that do fo (or which is all one, the Alligasori) thall afterwards be men ciond with the other Animals of thar Region : Wehave here to do with the Crocediles thar kcep the Land; and of thefe, our Authors affure us, there is no frall plenry in Brafile; there are many of en of the bignels of a inan's Thigh and proportionable length, but fo far from-doing any harm, that the litule Children play frecly with 'em, and they run about the Houfes as commonly. (but in fax greater numbers) as Dogs and Cats do about ours.

And that we may be fure that thefe are not really 1 :aards which they call Crocadiles, (mittaking one for the ocher.) 'ris to be obServ'd that they tell us of the Lizerds befides, tow large they are, what colour, and how good mear : Their Skinis ruffer, and adorn'd with multirudes of fpots; they are very harmicis inoffenfive Creatures and never known to do any ching to forfecic that character they commonly have, of being triendly to Mankisx their Flefh is as white, tender. and fweer as that of the beft Capon, fo that chofe who have loath'd it upon the conceir of the Creature, hate upon talting it been fond of it above all other mears. Tis rrue that thefe now defcribid are the Lizards that frequene the Marfhes and Rivers, but then we ase affurid there are others that are misely they hicard a fcarful noif, madic by fome Beaft or other coming towards ${ }^{\circ} \mathrm{cm}$, and quickly aficr, upon a little Hill about thirty paccs from ' cm , they'\{picd whar it was, but 'twas with no little fear and furprize that they faw a Lizard bigger chana a Man in the Body and near $6 x$ fooc long, cover'd with white rough Scales, like Oyfterflells; the Monter, ftood and look'd on 'cm, as shey could well fec by his glaring Eycs, and they bcing in no condirion to make any affault upon him. kepr their ftation, expecting when he would come and fall aboard 'cm; but the $L_{i}$ inid, is fecms, had no fuch defign, for as he ftood upon that rifing ground for a litele frecth Air, (which they faw him draw in with open mouth, the weather being extreamly hor) fo when he had taken his fill boch of that and looking at thems too he turn'd fudtdenly abour and ran away. Twas a full quarter of an hour char this frrerview lafted, and Monficur tedls us he was nor a litrtle glad when'rwas finif'd, and he faw the J.izard's Tail: However, is confirm'd him in the opinion that this Crearure has a love to Mankind, fince in his cafc there was a fair opportunity, if it had lovid only to devonr 'cin.
There are alfo othce Animals befides the L.izards which would make an ordinary Stomach heave at the thoughrs of eating, and , cr arc very acceprable mear with the Bra filizus ; fuch are a grear large fort of Tonds, which they xoaft and car wichour fo much as bowelling, and LandSerpezits colourd with black and red, as big as a Man's Arm, and four or fire foor long; thefe they catch abroad in the Woods, and bring 'mm home and rhrow 'em down amongft their. Wives and Children, who take' 'cmupand bandle' 'em withous any manncr of hart; fo that tis certain thefc Crearures, both Toads and Serpents, have not that poyfonous quality in 'cm thar fome orhers have in the very fame Country ; tho', allowing all that, a man wocld faft as long as Naturc could hold our, and it fhould be oncs latt thift to make a meal of "cm.

Divers fors of Patron, mantict gide.

Let us come now to the wing'd kind, and leaving the grofs Earch, look over tic: Inhabitanss of a finet Elemens.
Rarrots are fome of the mof vulgar Birds of the Counary, they flic togerher in whole flocks, and are killd by thoufands, for all which chey fwarn fo, that there's ncver any mifs of 'em: Therc are various forts of'em, and therc's only one known but what will talk with a very litule reaching; their colours are very beanriful and thining, and fo a dmirably mix'd in feveral of 'cm, that one of thofe Birds alone is an entertaining fighr.

Some havc a Breaft as red as fcaries, and all along che Body arc ycllow or green or bluc, bue not withour a litte fprinkling of all thefe colours too: Thefe never lay more than two Eggs at a rime, and breed in the rrunks of old Trees and abour the Rocks. Others with all the former colours have black and grey beffides, and they'll breed and bring up their young in the Houfes, for which reafon they are much more efteem'd. There is another that is black lprinkled with a little green throughour the Body, the Feer ycllow, and the Eyes and Beak red. Another that is all green, the Cap and Collar yellow the Pinnions red, the Tail red, ycllow and green, and over the Beak a ruft of bluc Feathers that adorn it to a wonderful degrec.
But the Parrot calld the Tuin is fomething more cuxious, if noc for the colours, yet for the fize; 'tis no big ger than a Sparrow, bur fo.chearful, that'ris always tattling or finging affer its manner, and will skip, up and down upon 2 man's Breaft and Shoulders that breeds it up, and ent the Victuals out of his Mouch, or pick his Tceth with its Bill if he'll give it leave; thefe arce efferm'd as very great Raritics.
Bur thexe is another, which they call Guirazuba, that they make more accoums of than the former, but the onIv reafon fecoms to be becaufe'tis fcarce and far-fetch'd: This Bird is hardly feen out of a great man's Houfe, and they value "m as fome men do their Hawks, and as others do the Birds thar delight'em with the moft charming Notes, and yet chis is a Crearure chat never fings nor talks, bur is always fad and fullen, and of a hamournot capable of giving any diverfion; fo that there's no doubs to be made but tis the uncommonnefs of is thar enhance to be made but tis the uncommonnefs of is that enhances the price, and makes 'em fo much efteem it. This filent melancholly Bird is a Jewel in the midft of all the thoufands of talking Parrots in Brafile, for the fame reafon that one of thofe talking Parrots would be fo if all the reft were tongoe-ty'd and dull like this.

The Papt is a Parror of the bignefs of a Pye, its Body of a fine black, the Beak and Tail yellow, and on its Hend is has a Coronet confifting of chree tufts; they are bred up in Houfes, and live upon Spiders, Bectles. Crickest, and fuchlike Infects, in carching of which they are fo tharp and diligent, that they kecp a Houfe very clear of 'em; thcy arc fo much for pecking, thas if a man holds 'cm in his Hand they'll be apt to run to his Eycs and peck therc, for which acalon they don't make 'em fo familiar as they do other Panots. 'Tis a common obfervation of thefe Birds in general, that they are exrrcamly fentible and aps to learn, and we are told a Srory of one whote docility is no fmall fuppore so the Reruration of all Parrors in this refpect; at the command of his MiItrefs he would cither dance, whiftle, talk, or counterfcic the noife the Brafilinus make when they go to battel, and at the leaft word from her leate off in the middle of the Dance or Song, or whatcver elfe he was doing; neither was it polible to make him move cither 'Tongue of to much as his Foor, till the Miftrefs fignified the gave leave: Our Frenchman made the Experiment, and endeavour'd by Careffes to feduce the Bird into a litt'. motion, but all in vain, Poll ftood as immovable as a Poft and as filent too, and paid an exact obedience to the Law his Miftrefs had imposid upon him, in fpit: of all artifices and endeavours to the concrary. The Woman valucd this Parror at fo high a rats, that the abus'd him when he offerd to buy it; and when he demanded the price of it, flie told him, 2 piesc of a brafs Cannon.
The Cuamimligue is commended for one of the neateft and cleverit little Birds that is; in its flight is makes a mile like an Ifumble-Bce, and flies inuch afrer that waving uncertain manner, and then never'eats its Food firting ftill, but always flying; the colour of the Eody is grey, Dut the Cap upon irs Head is fuch, that 'tis hard to fay whas colour ris of, for whatever fide or way you look upon it, you fee almot all forts of colours, and 'tis the faume if one looks upon the Breaft; it has a very long Bill, and a Tongue chat fretch'd cur is full twice the length of the Bill:" Whether this Bird fleeps much or no is uncertain, however the Indiansfay that is feends fix montbs entirely in a profound Slecp.
The Guiranizazefa is of the bignefs of our Geldfinch, the Back and Wings bluc, the Breaft and Belly yellow, and a Diadem of the lame-colour'd Feathers upon his Head; 'ris an admirable Bird for the Cage, indeed in this alone a man has the pleafure of many, for ir has the Notes of a grear many other fors of Birds, and makes fuch 2 variety of changes and turns in its whifting, thas it is a Comforr by ir felf; neither is is for giving its Mafter a litele rouch of Mufick and away, bur continues the Song to fuch a icngth, as cffectually fiews the goodnefs both of the Birds Lungs and Humour at ne fame time.

The Tangra is about the fize of a Spatrow, 'tis all black except the Head, which is of a fine Orange-tapnoy. If there were any way to be let into the Myfteries of the actions of thefe Creatures, or a Rule to know the meaning of 'em, a body would imploy that piece of Skill.
The Fowl that fregucnt the Sals-water are next to be congider'd.

The Gairatinga is as big as the Crane of Portugal, the ser-Efrt! Body extreamly white, and its Legs and Bill vary long, but the former reddih, and the later ycliow; on the Neek a man finds the greateft beaury thar belongs to ir, which is a Plume of very fine Feathers, not to be comparid to any but thofe of the African Eltridges.

The Caripira is otherwife call'd Tie forked Teil, becaufe is Tail is divided in the midf; the fat of this Fowl is good for the Loofenefs, and the Feathers ferve the Indians for their Arrows: Tis faid of 'em, that they are certain forerunners of the Ships arrival, and it very feldom fails that fornc few days after they are feen the Ships come into their Ports.
The Guaca is raken to be the Sea-Mce of Portuga', which, becaufe 'tis common cnough, we than's ftand to defcribe; they live upon Cockles, which to open and come at, they take 'cm up in their Bills, and let' cm fall upon the Rocks till they have broke the Shell in pieces.
The Guiratoutecn is a Fowl, the moft remarkable properry of which is, the Lethargy or deep Sleep chat it is moft commonly found to lie in; the Indians lighr on 'em lying thus on the fhore to all appearance dead, and tho' Ffffiz handled,

Sem Fowl．handled，difcover no gigns of life；bur then to bring＇em to themielves again they give＇em a cant，throwing een a good way，and fo by means of the fall the Bird is tho rowly wak＇d，and makes ufe of ics Wings to avoid being tols＇d in that manner any more．
The Calcemar is as big as a Pigeon，and the repori of the Councry is，thas they lay their Eggs in the Sea，and there hatch and breed their young；they don＇t fly at all， bur by the help of cheir Wings and Feer together foum along upon the Watcr very fiviftly：The Mariners gene rally expect a great Calm when they fee thefe abous，and this they do somerimes in fuch vaft numbers，chat they are cven croubleform to ${ }^{\prime} \mathrm{cm}$ ．
The $1 g$ fion is of the fize of a pie－annet，its colour is whise befputed with red，and the Bill is long and fabion＇d like a Spoon＇；＇tis a mighty catcher of Fin，to do which is ufes flis thight，so itruke is with iss Foot upon the Wa－ ter，and then ftrecch out its Neck to wait for the Fith till a fair orportuniry offers to fcize＇cm，

The Carricara is a litele grey Eird，whofe Eyes are made very beautiful by a eed circle char appears in each of＇ cm ； thofe that hear the noife it makes are decciv＇d，imagining is the Voice of fome very large Bird；bus＇tis odd that this Bird canis fing with its forc－mouth，but muft do it alfo with that behind as the fame time，that the Song hlould come both ways as once，and thar with fo filthy a fmell too，that＇tis no little puniumment for a man to be by．＂Tis crue，as to the concern the Ear has in the mat－ ter，the Harmony may be both ways much alike，and the Fart as melodious as the Song，but fince another Senfe is alfo to give its Verdict and declare it felfoffend－ cd ，we nuft pronounce an odds berween＇cm，and fay the fuperiour Organ makes the fweeteft Mufick．This Enterrainment ufually begins two hours before Day，and lafts all the Evening till the end of the twilighs，and the People obferve that for the moft part＇ris a token of fair weather．
The Guara is as big as a Pipunnet，it has a long Bill which at the end is like a Crefcent，and its Legs are about a fpan；theres hardly any Bird fo ftrange as this， for the varions colours it appears in；＇cis the true Prorcus among the Fowl，and he that knows it at one rime can－ not polithly do it at another，withour he goes by fome furermarks than that of the colour．Whenfirt itcomes our of she Shell tis black，and quickly after turns grey， by that tine it comes to have the command of the Wing it becomes whiter than the pureft Dove，and this inno－ cenr colour it nexr exchanges for chat of Blood，tis red－ Ner（if poffible）than fearier is felf，and fo continues all the reft of its life．Thefe may be bred in Houres；but their food muit be Fiih or Fleth，and always put in Wa－ ter；the Brafilians highly value their Feathers，and make all thoie gawdy fantaftical Ornaments（for which they are io noted）as much of theic as of any other their Country yields．

Our Authors tell us of feveral other forts of Wacer－ Fowl，but not defribing any of＇ cm ，we will hear their account of the Fiim and other Animals that live in the Water，fome alrogether，and ochers amphibious．
 nefs to that Creaturc，particularly with refpect to its Head，which with the hairy Skin，the Ears，the large Tongue and Cheeks，refembles an Ox ftrangely；the Eyes are but fmall in proportion to the Bidy，bur they are defended with Eyelids，by which the Crearure thues and opens＇cm as pleafure，whercin chere is a remarkable differcrice between it and ocher Fifh；bur there is alfo as much in the point of breathing，for this cannot dwell long under water，as others can，but muft every now and then come up for a mouthfut of Air，and breache 2 little：The Body is of a grear bignefs，and all cover＇d with yellow Hair ；it has swo Arms each a cubir long， and rwoHands with five Fingersa－piece，and on each 2 Naillike that on a Man＇s；under thefe Arms the Fe－ males have two Duss，with which the fuckles her young， but chefe are never more chan one at a time：The In－ wards of ir appear exactly like thofe of an Ox，and on all the outide it has nothing of a Finn，fo thar the moft of the Fifh is feen in the Tail，which is notwithftanding all round and clofe：In the Head，a lictie above the Eycs are foind a couple of Srones of a confiderable magni－ tude，white and heai y，and repured to be the bett Re medy for the stome in the．World，being beaten to pow－ der and drank in a draughr of Wine or Warer，ic forces away the Srone if it be voidable，and of this they give us an inttan c of their own knowledge．The Bones of this Fin are all hard and matfy，and nor only as folid， but as white as Ivory；the Mear is to be compar＇d with the beft of Beef，which it much refernbles，and is as fubitantial a food either for a Houfc or Ship；and indeed it is fo much more like Flcm than Filh，that it．sa：s＇d a difpure amonght the Poreuguefc，whether twas a propere Dith for Fith days or no＇；and hoth Parties had cnourh that was plaufible to urge on their fides，for if onic could fay＇rwas an Inhabitant of the Watcr，and came out of the fapse Element that all Fin live in，the other miglit reply，So did Mermen and Mermaids too．and yer a holy Father would hardly allow a Dilh of that fame on a WFadnefiay or Fider ；befides，there＇s the ftrength and fubftance of Flefly in it，and＇ris too rank and high to and fwer the ends and purpofes of a Fillh－day．In thurt，how they ended the natter is uncortain，but the cale being weighty，and the Peace of Mens Confcicmes concernit in it，it oughs to have been well difculs＇d by Divines，and broughe to a complear detcrmination．
The Brijupirn is like the Sfurgem，and nor much lefs valucd，for its good tafte and wholfom nature；they are taken in the npen Sea only with a Hook and aline，be－ ing fix or feven fpans long，their Bodies very round， black on the Back，and white on the Beliy．
The Fith call＇d the $O x$－ge is like the Tunnir，as well for iss fize as form，the inward as the outward parts；it a four－fhilling－ficce of the Portuan Courfes as thick as For all the purpofes of the Portugnt Moncy；this ferves for all the purpofes that good Burter or rather Hogs－lard does．The Eye of is is fo very like that of a terreftrial Ox．that upon that feore is goes by this name．
The Comurupi is as much cetcem＇d for cating as any of the former，it＇s rwelve or chirreen fpan long，and has a Finn upon che Back（which it always carrics rais＇d up） that is as leaft two or three；the grain of it lies all in flakes interlarded with fat and greafe，bur notwithftand－ ing it has abundance of bones，and muft be carcon with much care and caution．They generally kill＇cm with Harpon－irons，for＇tis a thick Fifh and heavy，being bur－ den fufficient for two men to lift；there are multitudes of＇cm to be found in thofe Seas，and they are a profita－ ble Prey enough，confidering the quantitics of Oyl thas are drawn from＇em．
The Pireembu，othervife calld The fnorsing FIh，is known and difcuverd by the fnorting noife it makes， which is heard very diftinctly if it be any thing near：le is pretry confiderably big，and cight or ninc span long， of a good rafte，and much efteem＇d；in the Mouch it has wo Srones of the breadrh of a Hand，whofe ufe and of－ fice is to grind the Wilks and orher fuch hard things whercon they feed：Thefe Stones the Indians prize ar a grear rate，and wear＂em about their Necks as Jewels．
Whales are fo common upon this Coaft，that they are to befeen fometimes forty or fifty together，and many Barks have becn overwhelm＇d by em；any loud roaring noife feares＇em ftrangely，particalarly the beacing of a Drum does it effectually，and makes＇em yery fierce and mad． mad．
The Smordffr alfo（the ceverlafting Enemy of the Wratic）Theswortis is no ftranger in thofe Seas；their Weapon is eight or Encrionio ten fanlong，fer on both fides with 2 row of iery for－ midable Teech，which are longer or thorecr according to the dimenfions of the Fim；the Wiste very frequendy feels the exceeding harpnefs of this Weapon，in the rer－ rible batrels fought berween this Fith and it；bur the Shark comes in tor a thare in the honour of the Viatory too，for the Smordfifh feldom engages alone，bur while thas gives the Wounds the hungry Sherk comes and fucks the Blood，by which means their Adycrfary is fo enfeebled，that ar laft he is forcd to yield the day．
Of the shanke there are fix or feven kinds obferv＇d 2bout the Coat of Brafile，but all fierce and voracions to the laft degree；they will not only purfue $a^{\text {a Man upon }}$ the Water，bur leap amore after him too，aind by that means chey are fometimes prevented fromreturning back again．All that chey can flize or light＇on is their Prey，Ramenum and be it what it will，down it goes，provided it be not eirc of the Harpon－iron，or an Anchor，or any thing of fhat un－ raktable nature；their bellies are fomerimes furpilhid like a Salefpan＇s Shop，for there you minhifind Skins， Cloth，Doublees and Breeches；in fhort，way piece of Tackling froin a Ship，or any Rags thar drops frem the Back of a Sailor，is meat for a Siork．Thofe crưel Tceth of theirs，thair rend their Prey in fo fearfulaminncr，do as much mifchief after they are dead as when they are alive，for the Ludians ufe cm in their molt deadly Ar－ rows，and he that has once feen what thefe Teeth are， may eatily imagine what a wound fucha Weapon（com－ ing with a great force too）would make upon the tender fleh of a human body；＇ris atmoft too cruel for Mankind， and oughr only to be imploy＇d againft the Sbarks them－ felves；and rwould be proper enough to deftroy fuch deftoyers with their own Teech．

Chap. IX. An Account of the Conntry of Brafile.

Diveriforta
The Fiving $\mathrm{E}: \mathrm{f}$ and the Curte abound alfo in there
The Toctfo have both been decrerbed in other places. Amancm, is atour a fpan long, and oddly painted, but the Eycs are fine and fair to look on; when 'tis taken out of the Water it will Coors and fwell ftrangely, for which reaton it had the name of the Tiadfifl. given: If it be flea'd (they fiy) it may be caren, but orherwife it infallibly and fuddenly kills thofe who prutend to feed on it, as fonc have found to their coft; and no grear wonder it thould kill Men, when "tis a Poyfon for Rats, as it feems 'tis, and there's none of thofe Vermin that eat of it but dic for their curiofity.
There are rwo other kinds of there Tondfifors, one chat is all over cover'd with l'rickics like a Hedghog, and finors and fwells ot t of the Water like the former, and may alfo (like is) he caten if the Skin be pull'doff, and (they fay) with adiantage too in rafe of the Bliodr-flux, tho methinks it hy ulf ke a man's latt Remedy, if there be any room for eluice. The other is of a sriangular from, and the Poyton which in the two former wasbur Skindecp) in this is funk down into the Bones and $V i f(\mathrm{c}-$ $r n$, which cieat thicnore, the Foth notwithitanding is faid to be atalle; and carable conly it thould te, withous cice beins attraily caren, unlels it come in for a latt refure in Fool, as the othe thomhd do in Phyfak.
The dmoceny is like the Tordfifte, that is, full of Aharp Spikes or Prickles, for this is arm'd in the fame manmer : It lies co:cr'd up under the Sand upon the thore, fo that fomerines it wuunds the Hands and fometimes the Feer of thent that are fcarching, there after other chings, and in this zafe a man's only remedy is by Firs, this alone draws out the Venom.
The Purapu: is in form like the Sorle, but in nature and quality refembles the Twpel, ; for if a man touches ir, th; bur with a S-ick, his Hand makes like that of a Paralytick, and is benumbid to that degrec, that all fenc: and ufe of it is for a time caken away: NotwithItan:lung aild this, the Filh is catcan wishour any manner of precudice:

The Camerar" is ten or fifteen span long, very fat, and roafted caftes like Pis; the Body is coverd with Spikes, whichac yer a Jefs dangerous Weapon than the Teech, for the Arm or les that's birten by "cm feldom recovers, but ros away. The Natives fay they engender with the Sca-Smian, for they find cm in the Sands wairing for'em and unany times actual!y knit and twifted with 'cm.
The dmor.t Curab is a rounal Fing, and of the bignels of the Prostlo of Spain; it is yery venomous, and irs Body is as full of a fort of Warrs as it can hold, for which reafon is has the Name of Carat, that word Gignifying a HRT.
Deflules this and others mention'd before, there are feveral orher forre of venomous Fithes, and fuch as have fo veibement a Puytin too, that few cicape who cat or routh 'cm.
anmentin
Bue what thall we fay to our Authors accounes of tbe Ypupicpia or Mermar, a Story which for a long time has appeard as ridiculows so forme Pcople as that of the Sphinx or Centaur it felf; neither would they any more believe the Seamentelling of an Animal that is both Finh and Man, than the Poer's defuribing another which is a compound of Man and Horlc, ; not that they mention them ancinher as fuch a mixture ofethe parts of Man and Filh, hur rather as all over and entircly human in their chape; bur yer, tho the deferipion be not particular as to the mazier of fad, they make no manner of doube. They come up to the Barrs of the frefh Rivers, and are to be feen chere very frequagrly; and in Fagoeripe. feven or cight leagues from the Bays, a grear many of "cm have becn difooverd: In porro Sesiro they havebeen both feen and folt too, feveral Indiens having been kilid by "em; aud'ruas but in the Year 1683: that an Indian, upon the Water in a Cance. was purfied by onc óf em, and wirh vory tanch dificuly made his efcape; bur this fellow coming home inifcribly fightned, it feems, told the Advenetire to his Maticr, who would needs go to fee the Moniter, hor he had betct haze taken bis. Man's word for'r asit. s.ll our, for fitwing carclely in his Canoc with one of his Arms out, the Crearure (whio had (pied him) fuddenty fez'd him by that Hand ind carried him under Water: What they catch they are faid to embrace to ftriotly in their Arms, that they do with grafping crufh is ali to pieces.

The Apmat is a Shedl-fif that looks more like che joynt of a Canc dian any thing clef; 'ris good to cat, and if reduced to powder and drank faiting, has che name of very greas sood in Diftempers of the Splecn.

The Fith allld Ser-jormes by the Perrusuefe, Asuas mor-

fitude of folds they have (by which aifo they catchother Fin) do refemble the B.arlary Purfes: Thefe are not no be eaten at afl; their ftinging caufes very great painsand (which is a peculiar property) unavoida'le weepungs, and thercfore we are cold of an Indinn who had receiv'd many a bitter wound with Arrows, and never thed Tcar for any of em, but being ftung by this Creature, weps plentifnlly; fo that it feems not to te the effect of any violence of pain, but of fome paricular property of the Venom, which forces it relf chat way, and well deferves to be further enquirid inro.
There are feveral forss of Crelbs fonnd in this Country, crubt: and moft, if not all, are made Food by the P'sople; one kind that calts its Shell, alwa's when it does fo recires into its hale, and there carries che fpace of two or three months, and then comes our again: Anorher is fo large, that a Man's leg will go into the Mouth of it ; thete Creatures are fo affected with Thunder, that it always ferches cm out of their holes, bu: they make at the fame cunce fuch a rattling noile thenfel cs, that they miay be heard a greac way, and they have fomecimes becil miftaken for rroops of amn'd Encmics upon a match. That kind that keeps in the trunks of the Trees which grow by the Sca-fide live mottly upon Cockles, and ules a notalue artifice for gering the Filh out of the Shell; when they fee a Cockle gaping, (as they do very ofien) they preferdy by the help of their Claws dip fome litale Stone or other into the aperture, 保 that the Cockic cannot poffibly clofe his Shell again, by which means they have an opportuniry to pick out the FiA, which they do with a grear deal of dexterizy.
The Pcripinteles and Mufcies are very finc and good, and plentiful too hereabouts; they both afford a fort of finall Seed-pearl, but of the Mufilc-ffells particularly the Indians ferir themfelves for Knives and Spoons.
But the $O$,ffers, as they are "excreamly large, fo they yicld many of 'em Pcax that are very big and xich: The fudians in former fimes usd to come and fetch raft quantities of Oyfers to ferve 'ems all the Year round, and the Shells they piled upin mighry heaps up and down in feveral parts of the Conitry, which by degrees came to be cover'd with Earth and Trees; the Portuguefe by digging have difcoverd feveral of rhefe vaft Hills of buried Shells, and do continually find morc and more of 'cm the ufe they put'em to is, to make a fort of Lime of 'cm for building. How grear thefe collections of Oyttcr-thells are, may be guefed by this, thar of one heap alone was built part of a College, the Governour's Palacc, and icveral other Buildings, all which notwithitanding had not exhaufted it, bur part was yer remaining when our Aunthors were in Brafilc. This Lime is very white, and very fir for all the purpofes "tis made for; this only is to be faid of it, that che Rain rurns is blackilh.

The great wrilks are valued ar a high rate by the Bra- welk; flizns, for the fake of the many Nicknacks they make of 'em, nay, to purchafe one they'll part with a Prifoner or 2 Slave very frequently. Thofe of the largent fort are two fpan in breadch and one in length, and not to be exceeded in whitencis by Irory is felf. As for the leffer fors of Wilks, Sce:lops, and anocher fort of Shell-filh call'd by the Brafilians Pirazuaig, (which are caten, and their Shells us'd for Ornaments) thefe are too common wich em to be fo much regarded.
Large Shrimps and Pramrss are no uncommon chings in Braficiencither; and in a word, about the holes and cracks of the Rocks are abundapce of Animals to be met with; they afford refuges so the Ser-riffis, Crabbs, Oyffers, Wattr-raft, Parrots, and many ochers, which may at any time be found there by chofe thar will venture ro fearch fuch places.
To the Finh alfo wemay fubjoynthefefollowing; which oter Anjtho' not of that kind, yct do cither in whole or in part masts war ufc belong to the Warer, fome of thefe are of the Serpentine ind, and as formidable as any others/whafocver.
There's the $5_{n}$;ke call'd by the Breftian; Cucurijuber, which is recton'd one of the very largeft that is known in the Country; there are fome of 25 and 30 for long, and 2 yard in compals, whith are dimenfions large enough to make the Report credible of their fwallowing the larger forr of Animats, fuch as great Hons; Stags, and the like: If has a Chain all along the Back from the Head to the Tail, and the Teeth wherewith the monftrous Beaft grinds her Prey are like a Dog's, both for fize and form, but the method it' rakes to feize and fecure it is, to wind and fold is felf abour is, and let is be Man or Beaft that is once made 2 Prifoner in that manner, there's. no pofibility of redemption 2gain. When they havegorg'd and glured themidves pretty well they are mightily difpos'd to neep, which cofts 'em many times their Lives, for the Indians come and chop a picce or two of rheir Tails off when they find 'em napping, and this. (they (ay) is to be done without incurring any danger, for the Animal lies in a Slecp to deep, and fo like a Death, that the does not rouzc cren at chefe abufes. Thus one day they found one alleep, and cus two pieces of the Tail off, and the next day they came and found her dead, and law the had two wild Boars in her Belly; fhe was twelve yards and a half Jong, and proportionably big.

Tails

The Menima is another Wrater-Snike, and rather bigger than the former, and las a fine painted Skin; the Eirffitins hold it for 2 mighty lucky thing to lee this Creature, they blefs themfelyes upon it, asid take it for an Onen of long hife; but other people perhaps would le of a contrary opinion, and rake is for very ill luck, and an infallible Prognoftick of a fudden Death, to mee fuch a filthy Monfter as thisis. Thefe two laft-mentiond are frelh-water Snekes, but the Tcreponowa is a Snake that lives in the Sca.
The word Terepamong in the Brafilian Tongue fignifics a thing that cleaves faft, and this Creature is of that Atrange nature, that whatfoever touches it fticks to it fo faft, that tis not to be parted from is again; this $P$ hornimmetwo is as flrange as any in Nature, and 'twould be worth while to enquire the caufe of it, and to know by what fort of a glutinis is that the Terenmonea binds other Animals to clote to it felf, or whar clife can be the caufe of this adhefion. If feems however that by this means fle gets her Livclihood, 'tis a neceflary advantage that the cannor pars with nor fublift withour; for whether 'will do in the Sca or no is uncertain, bur 'tis fure that the Srat- comes ahore for recruits, concracts her felf up into a litule compafs till the has or formeihing faftned to her, and then the marclies away with ir to the Sea, and returns again to her own natural bignefs, which is çaual to that of a large Cable.

The ancarchinads are as big as Dogs, theit Srone is like that Creatures alio, and their Tecthlong and large their Skin is like Plates of Armour, and will defie any Arrow in the World to picrec if, yes they do no manner of harm, and the fudians, who take "cm often in their fnares, do very feldom (if cicr) deftroy 'sm. Their haunrs ars difcovcr'd not only by the great Cries they make, but alfo the musky fmell they carry with 'em, and which, of all the pars of the Animal, is particularly predominane in the Tefticles. They lay Eggs as Big as Goolc-Eges, and fo hard, that ftriking one againft the other, thicy ring like Iron. They frequent both the Land and the Water too.
The faguamcu is a Creature bigger than any $O x$, and its Teedh more than a fpan; thefe are very mifchievous, and prey both by Land and Warce; they are not yery commo', but fome of 'cm are found in the River of So. Fraicis and in Paraguazu.
Whuif. The $\mu$ Aracape feems to be a Sea-Wolf; 'ris vehementIy raverous, and comes frequently up out of the Water to warch for Mer, and rben ris to fwift a runner, that sis'a hard matrer to cleape it.
Wast-Hogs The Watcr-Hog (calld Cariisoarc) is as big as that which lives altogether on the land, but has no Tail-like that; it will ftay a long time under Water, but yer tho ir be fo familiar in that Element, it lodges on the dry I and, and always brings up its young there: In theroof of the Mourh is has a very great Stone, which ferves inficad of Tceth; its food is Grats and the Fruits that are to be met with along the Rivers.

The Tortoifes may be mention'd noo, there fwarm to an incredible degrec, as well they may, confidering chey lay two or threc hundred Eggsat a tituc ; they lay ${ }^{\circ} \mathrm{cm}$ all in the Sand, and when the young oncs are hatch'd they lead 'em away to the $S_{c a}$, where they are brought up. The Esgs are as bip as Hens-cges, very round; and hare this propery, that whether boild or roafted, the White is cuer foft. Some of the Tortoifes are fóbig, that their Shells make complear Targers for che Wars, and there was one raken upon the Coait of Brafile of fuch a fize that twenty men could not liff ir from the ground.
lia the frem sivers they tell us likewife of Orters and other Water-bcalts that hare rich and delitate Furss, fome of which do no harm, and orthers very fiexce and give so dee our.
Frops h:
thetrat
: faction
onifo
to be the pure effect of odd Notions and Imaginations, and is nor a defpicable Inftance of the danger of yiclding to thof Imprellions at firts. Some fantaflical old Hagg or crackbraind Fcilluw or other amnugit the Anceltors of thefe Indians, dilliking the noife this Animal madc, gave it an ill Name, and lpoke of it whaterer a wild and crazy lmagination dictated, and their Poflerity, who think themfelves bomd to belicere all they fay, took it and kepr is like an Oracle, and now it has patid from Gencration to Gencration, and is fuik fo deep into their heads that they can't throw it our agan, but muft preferie it in fpite of all Sente and Realion. A poor little Frog cant croak in a Puddle, bur half a dozen Lubbers thar bear it muft come home fick and die uror:

That account which has now been given of Piants and Animals relates to fuch chiefly as are the peculiaritics of this Country, at lealt are firangers to us in Fwore; but befides thef , our Authors tell us, thofe of our pars of the World do live and thrive there in abundance too.
Buffie appears like another l'ortugal, for here you have the Horfss, the Herds of Catule, the Poultry, the Grain, the Fruirs, the Flowers, the Plants which that Country yields. The Reader wall cafily underftand this of forme, and not all thefe feveral things; neither do we intend any more by that refemblance of Breffic and Porrugat than that the Porsugucf, who are Mafters of the Conntry, have tranfported a great many of the Products of their own Soil hieher, and made cm now as it were Niaaves of this.
Having now furvey'd the ftate of Nature in this great Country, it remains that we dip a litele into the and moral Hiftory of the Same.
The Religion of the Brafilicns is (like themfelves) forme- The R-ipim thing wild and unpolifind digcted into no Precerts, at-uriarixives tended with no Ceremonics, and (in a word) hardly capalic of any defription. That Power which they call their roion Tupan is explain'd by them to be the Author of the vi, De.j. Thunder and tighening, (or rather the Thunder and Lightning it felf) bur 'tis plain that they have no very good opinion of him, for being violently fcaxed when any Tcmpect rifes upon 'cm, they fay, that's no good God that purs' cm into fuch a fright. Yer ochers of "cm have attributed fome Goodnés and Bounty to Tupan ton, for they fay 'twas he that firft gave 'em thicir Matrocks and Tools for Councry Labours, and 'rwas he thar gave their Food and the encreafe of their lands: Bur when our Travellers difeours'd to them the fubject of the Creation and Government of the World by one Almighty Being, they look'd upon one another, like men that heard a neiv and ftrange Story: Their way is when they are mightily furpriz'd to exprefs themfelves by this word Tch, which is their note of admiration; and folcms with them upon fuch occafions; thus they did now, they anfwerd the Difcourfe with Teh, Teh, and difcorcr'd a confiderable degree of aftonifhment. But the notion of the univerfal of tie perne Dcluge paffes currently amongit com, and they often have ral Elod. it in their Songs, (as well as their Difconr(e) that the whole Earth was oppref'd with a Flood of Waters, and all Mankind wexe drown'd, except fome of their Ancefors, who favid themfles by climbing up into anorAtrous high Trees: This both our Auchors agree in to be a gencrally-receiv'd Tradition amongft em, and they-profefs to have cepredy heard in from 'em.
Neither ase they utterly void of notions of Good and ofa fans Evil, and the confequences of each as to fome kind of tais. furure ftate; 'ris true, that future ftate is blindly dercrib'd by'cm, and their Suppofitions about Rewards and Punifhments as full of barbarous Whimfie as that of their Anceftors deliverance from the Deluge.
Virue with chem is, to defend their Country, to musder their Enemies and car "cm when they have done: And their after-Fclicities are, to be gather'd to che fardiftant Region where their Progenitors are, to live in plcafant Gardens, and fport amongft the Trees and Flowers with them, On the other hand, their Wicked Men (thar is, Cowards and feeble-fpirited inglorious Fellows) fhall be all fetch'd away by Aiguan, and treated in a very fevere and cruol manner by him: Bur.jecthis, with all the whimfie and contcit of it, is fo furcly and firmly theirBelief, that they are infpird by it to do thole things which (according to their meafures) are actions of Virme and Piety. Neither are they fo obftinately fix'd in their own way, and fo fond of their Opinions, as not to bear the Proporal of any orher; or to take it ill if they are difpured with or fometimes conrradieted, they would endure all thefe Itberties with much cafinefs and good humour, nay, would be pleas'd to hear the accounts the Europeans gave of theirGod and Religion. And truly hercin the Endeavours of Leribss the Frenchman wete very good and commendable; he was nor backward ro make nife of any opportunity to inftruet thefe poor barbarous People in thole matters which the other Chrifti.nnis (who upon preterce of their Converfion conquer'd their Coun$\pi$ tr) never took the pains to give 'cm any information abour. But to this purpore the tellst this Story; Thas being one time at a certain Braflian Villare; there was 2 mighty crowd of the Reople about him. whom the novelty of fuch a light as himfelf and his Countrymen had drawn together; the People, glad of their arrival, made 'cm a grear Feaft, at which they themelyes alone Kar down, the grave men of che Brajilians Atunding by and attending them all the while, for cis their Cuttorn never to fit down to cat with thofe whom they highly l:omour and refpect. They ouferved that l.erius and his Companions pulld off thear Hats and fpoke fomac words before they began to car, and an like manner when rhey had done, which appsaring a very odd thing to cin, onc of the elderly Men came and enquird dhe meaning of it, H'ate mermeth othis Cryforn (fays be) winch you now "fed policn sating off yeur Caps rat all kept jilence excepr one ? Whem wass that Spectis monch be mace dirctial any of yort bere prefent, or on fome that are aly, cut : pon which Let ius trok occafnon to difcourfe of feveral points of Religion to them, and they heard him very patiently our, nay, difeover d fo much xelim and liking of the matter he had talk'd of, thar many of 'sm promis d tooblerve the new Law which he had ranghe 'em, and did feveral times joyn with him and his Company in cheir Exercifes of Devotion.
undanotibe. But as they are wonderfully fond of imitating the x.ronnct. Examples of their Forcfathers, and think ic the higheft and.g lory to be like chem, fo it follows that they muft very tenacioufly maimain the Cuftoms their Anceftors did, and keep (as facred) wharever comes by Tradition from cm. Befides, they are apprehenfive of a mighty thame and fcandal in abaidoning an old Cuing and conforme think it argues to ftrange Modes cren in any thingo 2 foolith ficklenels and inconftancy of mind, (tho chey change for the better) which will render them the foorn and derifion of their Neighbours; and this one thing alone weigh'd very heavy with 'em, as appeard by their own confeffion to Lerius; they told him they thould lic under the feots and reproaches of all the bordering People, if shey thould now bccome tame and genck to their mety done. This is fuch a piece of Virue and Bravery among if ' m , to trear their Adverfaries in the moft fevere and inhumane manner, that till their notions of Virnue and Vice arc alterd, 'tis not to be expeeted chey fhould ever leave it. Ye: it mult be own hat they feem'd to whan the fiuroperms who had no weh Cunoms better men mention'd reftraints, cculd e'en be content to part, with cm. Mair, (would they fay to Lerius, for loy thatrame they call all Frenchmen) you are wery bappy, pho knopifo mat - wy Sccrets "t, in do, which are cill kept had from as poor mijc rrbis men.
bue ro proceed; "tis very clear and certain that they has both will, porver, and opportunity fomerimes to do cm mifhicf; the Name they give him moft commonly for they have (everal) is irgnan, 2nds us in no lircle fear and dread of him that che poor wretches live; Lcrius affirms, that he has been often talking with them when they have fallen into an agony without any apparent reafon, actod like mad-men, and cried our raving, that dignem beat. "cm. As for themfelves, they pretend to fee very odd fights not uncommonly, bur what we now fprak of is whar the Arictor was an Eycwicnefs to feveral times: And fuppofing the truth and fincericy of his reation, (and what thould move any man to invent fuch lies of the Devil?': 'ris odd that any Prepoffeffions, any degree of a powerful Imagination, Fletus, Hupo, or any rhing of that kind, Nhould Thake every Limb and Boneof a Man's Body, make him frear with very anguifh, and appear with a difforted counterance, like one futifering the urmott ertremicies of a rack. It is true iniced there are amonsit "cmi a parcel of Rafeals chat go for Witches, and are likely eiough to imprefs the People with the wort of notions, and make em belicve all thofe things which will molt contribure to the reputarion of cheir Im-Theraufion poitures : thele go ty the name. of Caraibes, and their timuating a belicf of a mighry Power they are pofief, dof and the frange chings they can perform; they perifwace cm that they are abde to infpire ' cm with Courage and Forcitude, and thas the very Fruits of the Field are in theis power, fo that they can cither make em flourifh, or hinder their kindly growth if they pleare; and which is worfe chan alt alis, the Brafilitus áre do bewith did as to belicye 'cm, and have fo greas an opinion of tncir Skill, that they don's take it well ro have is call'd in quettion, and 'cis almoft the fame thing there as to deny the Infailibility of the Fope in Earope amonght. them that belicye it: Bus of the blind Credulity of the one and the roguilla Tricks aind Impoftures of the other, this is alfo a further inflance remarkable cnough; the Cix feqes will takethrec or four of thofe Rattles they call. Minfect, which are ats big as Oftricthes Eggs, and dreling thicm up with Fca- Trickrofte thers, they thrutt the Staff unto which they are faftined into the ground, then they command the very bett Meat and Drink that the Houfe where they ate atfords to be fer before thefe Holityhorfes, celling the Pcopic, that the Maraccris will devonr is all, and they as readily beliceve it as that they themelves docver cas or. drink ; and thus shey make them furnifh a conftant fupply of Próvitions for I know not how many days together, all which they take their opportunity to come and fteal away themfelves, and fo play the fame trick that their honet Bre thren the Pricits of Bcll emi she Or.zgon did.
'Tis a common thing in travelling up and dowin the Country to fee 2 parcel of thefe tine Meffes ftanding before i Broomitaff, (for'tis no better, abating the Feathers) but Lerius and his Companions were fo wife when they mer with 'cm as to baffle the Conjuration, and cas "cma themfelves; this made the Caraibes their mortal and ir reconcilable Enemies, and the Brafilians belicy dome refy great misfortunes would happen to 'sin for fuch 2 picce of Impicty.
There is alfo a certain fort of a religious Solemnity in ufe amongt 'em, in which the Cerrnibes bear no littic part. The Tonoupinambaltii (for 'twas amongit thofesolemnizar hat Leriun convers'd moll) have a Cuftom of coming ro- if the brat. gecher in a general Affembly once cyery thind or fourth Ycat ; 'rwas our Auther's hap in his Travels to come to that place when this great Affembly was met, and iceing fome of the Caraibes amongt ' cm , and guelling fretin thence that fome very odd things would ketwhe, he tefolv'd to ftay and fee the end of is stlic multitude was divided into three parts, the Mcn by themfelves, the Women alfo apart, and the Children fo too, and cach roop thur up in 2 diftinct Manfion; Lerius and his company being Strangers, werc thut up with the Wiomen, and the latt Orders, the Ceraibes leff wirh them was, that ther thould nor any of "em dare to titur our of that place, bur diligenty atrend to the finging of the Mcin After ome time they began to hear a low mutrexing noife from the Aparment of the Men, at which the Women rofe up, bufted together, and ftood all of a heap liftning to thofe doleful founds; bur when the Men rais'd their Voices, fo that the words wexe diltinctly heard, particu. larly the loterjection $H i$, $H$, , which they ofren repeared, the Women immediately broke out roo, and anfiverd in the very fame terms; but then they procecded to fuch extravagancies, that che Erencinucn was well'nish fcarid, together with cheir howlings, they ran our inso fuch wild poftures and motions, thaking their Paps, foaming at the Mouch, falling down in Agonics, and lying like fo many perfectly dead, that (to ufe his own expreftion) one would have thought the Devil had raken corporal poffetion of 'em. The Horroar was likewife ciereas'd by the difmal cries and fercamings of the Children, who when the Women were rais'd to this pithh, began to open their Pipes too; and this, lerius contefles, made him loic very near all his Courage, and he began then to think what might be the end of this marter, but he was freed of thofe melancholy thoughrs a lirtle while after by the removal of the caufe of 'em, for the difnal founds languin'd away by little and lirtle, and by doing to gave the Ear the pleafing refitice of a profound filence; the Men had finifhid thar roind of Song, and the Women and Children (like fympatherick Chords, thar beat only upor beating of the others) gave over roo and held their Tongucs.

Afrer a thore interval the Men began arain, but with The Autho To fweet and truly hármonious'a Nutc, rhar our Auchor goes amonga was now as much ravilh'd as he wasterrified before, and"cm. had a mighty defire to remove to thar Manimon where they were that he mighr fee as well as hear cm ; his Interpreter diffwaded him upon the fore of the danger, and told him 'twas an. Enterprize himfolf dur't never atrempt, who had been converfant amongit 'cin feveral years; the Brafilien Women alfo alledg'd the lame thing, bat be being inflexibly bent to fee the Cerem ony, broke thro all periwafions to the consrary, and :accordingly went.
At his corrance (comerary to all expefation): the $\mathrm{Bra}-$ filians difoyer'd no manner of concern, bur; kept their and anl went on with their Dances as if no Stranger had of ther dm. The whole multitude was divided into three parts, and cach of thole threw themichics into a circle, all ftanding very clofe by one another, but not joyning Hands, every man's right Hand was laid upon his Buttock, and the left hanging down ftright by his Side, and in this poture chey danc'd aiong in the round thaking their right $l \mathrm{cgs}$; in the midd' c of every ring food direc or four Craribes Incs's up after their antick manner, and holding in cach hand one of the Marasci's before mentiond; chefe Inpoitors ftood here to do the grear Office for which they are fo lighly revercned by chefe filly Reople; they movid up and drwn, dancid backwards and forwards, and thook their Rattles, with fereral other amuling nonfenlical astions, bur thefe were bur the introductory Ce remonice, for in tire next place they rook long Canes, into which chey flufid an Herb they call Petum, which they pur Size to. then turning themfelves bither and thither, they puff'd our the Sinoak upon the multitude that tiond round 'cm, ufing thefe words, Receice she Sirisit Tre Datacs and the Mutick held on the mean while Wid a, for the latrur, the Author (who was himfelf not istrorams of Mefi-k) ia plain terms profeffes, thar 'twas matere of the highet wonder to him, how People utterly makithat, as they are, houll 1 ever lay their Nores fo inamonimut: togerher, and form Tuncs fo very pleafing as they did; it hut, he fays, then Guch an influence upon hian, touch'd his Pafions to agrecably, and cxcited fo many delightful Senfations within him, that he was all Tramport and Extalic, and gone quite beyond himfelf, neither could he cver chink upon it aftervards, but a fecres Joy would fteal upon him at the remembrance; in a word, he could not forger it, and that pleafing din was always ftriking his Ears.
The Songs they fung at this Solemnity were partly Lamentations fortheir dead Anceftors, repecicions of their Acts, hopes of their own mecting withicm again beyond the Mountains, and difmal threatnings of their Enemies; alfo here 'ivas that our Author (amongtt che medley of Subjects sheir Songs went upon) heard them commemofate the general Deluge, and the drowning of the whole World except fome of their Nation.

The bufinefs being orex, the Brefilians made a moft finptuous Feaft (after their manner) for the entertainments of the Cerraibes, to which they invited Lerius and his Company alfo; neither did they at all relent that liberty he rook in coming into their Affembly without their leave, tho' perbaps the firft thing of that kind "that ever was done by any European.

$t$ enterations

 was done by any Europeantor the Dead, and perforning the of their Lamentations for the Dead and performing the Funcral Rites is no lefs odd than the formor, a nian that is not usd to it, and comes amongt - cm at fuch a time, muft cicher rcfolve to lic awake all aight. or elfe go feek a Louging ar another Village; the Women fream and howl ar fuch a rasc, that the Mufick of a whole Wildernefs of Wolves is not more incolcrable: This is che rrade as fcon as cicer a Parry is dead, the Breath is no fooner out of the Body, but Grief comes out of their Mouths with fo bollith a noife and fury, that 'tis a wonder they don't blow is all cican away, eppecially confidering that they hold it folong too, for if $a$ Perfon dies in the Evening they'll make this melody 2 all night long withour intermifion; treither are they only the Members of a fingle Family, or of two or three perhaps that are allied, thar'make up thefe Conforts, but if it be 2 Parfon of fome confideration amongt 'em that is dead, the whole Town meets to run mad together upon this occafion: They fay all the fine things of the Deceafed they can think of, reckon up all his noble Qualities, as his Valour, his Hunting, his Fifhing, his Boonty in giving Captives to his Friends to be devourd; and this they do fpeaking to each ocher in parts, mixing their Cries and Lamentations between: This our Author heard when the Dialoguc proceeded thus; Thar moft pasant man in dead (fays one Party) wibiclo gave us fo man Caprives to be deracer'; so which the others anfwer'd, of shat noreble Humser, moft excellent Fifber! Ob, valiant killer of :le Portugals and Margaiates! And thís they went on craggerating the Praifes of the Dead, bur then the burden of the Song (or racher of the howling) was thus; He is dead, be a dead pobom we lament; to which the ochers replied, ALs, be in dead, and we fallf fee lazm no more sill we dance with Lim Lelizind tbe Mountains, as onr Caraibes seach us. When they have finin'd therc Ceremonies they wath the Corps and paint it over very neatly, and then ?r of Buid. wrapping it in Cocton, they fet is into 2 Veffel which ftands in 2 deep hole in the Earth; bus 'tis to be obferv'd that their way is not to lay dead Bodies horizomrally, the Cuftom obrains in Europe, bnt either bolt upright or at leaft fitting in that. 'forementionil Veffel: The Ma ters of Families are gencrally buried in the middle of thcir own Houfer, and along with 'cm all thofe things they us'd to value and admire, and the reafon they give for it is, that they may not by lying in the way revive the remembrance of the Deceafed, and caufe new forrow as oftein as they are feen; but if any man has a thing by him when he dies that was given him by another, is returns again to him that gave it, and he may lawfully reize it wherever he finds it, for they fay that a man by dying lofes all righe to every thing that comes to him this way.
Into the Manfion of the Dead they alfoput great fore of Provifion; this is to flop Aignan's mouth, who comes rammaging about the Graves, and if he finds no good Victuals there, eats up the Corps in revenge: And this they continue to do contanty rill they think the Body is confum'd, and the Worms have fecur'd it from Aignon,s Depredations.for ever.

If will be cafily concciv'd that this Notion was put into thicir Heads by the Cerrailes, who come and fteal away the Provifions, and then make cm believe the Devil docs it ; but one would fooner believe he was in their Bellies than any where elfe, to lick fo many Platters clean cyery night as they do, and that for fo long together. Norwithftanding the Brafilinos belicye as they tell 'em, and will do fo indefiance cren of ocular demonftration to the cobszary, Le, ius, by warching their waters narrowly, and heiwing them the Provifions fet in over night remaining untouchid in the morning, made them plainly fee there wasing Devil in the matter, but the hungry Guts of the Pricts, and yet they could hardy believe cheir own Eyes; and as "twas with a great deal of difficulty that fomefew were convinc'd, fo the reft were not to be wrought upon, but perfifted fill in their old Ofinion, that Aignan came and car up all the Victuals. What is the power of Errour and Prcjudice, when infinuated into the minds of Men, and arffully cherifh'd there? It will upon occafion render all their Senfes ufclefs to' cm , and make 'cm as blind with a pair of Eyes in their Hcads as the Moles are that have none at all; bere were People that were in doubr whether a D.emn had not quite dcrour'd the Provifions, tho' they faw it plainly lying in the Dithes before their faces; and no doube but the Carnib:s could make them believe a Pig to be a Dog, or a Goofe to be a Parror, if they fer themfelves ro try their rower over 'cm,
After 2 Corps is buried, all the Kindred continue their How they lamentations nigbt and day for the fpace of a Moon, not mend that howling with open thmar, fo as they do at firft when the lofs is juft come upon 'em, but in the more moderate way of wecping and fighing, and doing a fort of Pemance, abitaining from all Food the whole day, and taking a little refreflmient at night only; but when the dare of the mourning time is our, they immediately apply themfelves to the work of redecming their lof tims, and having becn fo long divorc'd from all Pleafures and Entertaiuments, they plange into 'em with no little eagernefs, both Men and Women fall to drinking, and (that they may never be rroubled with their Sormows more) thicy drown them
But now thefe People, that are fuch paffionate bewailers of the Dead, are very ill renders of the Sick, and one would fancy, by the trouble and pains they put themfelves to upon Deaths and Fumerals, they Mould nor be very fond of "cm. They have indeed a fort of Men amiongtt 'em which they call Pages, and are sheir. Phyficians, but much firter to be Pages in the Englif fence of that word chan in the Brafilien; they pretend ro cure Difempers by Suction, that is, when the fick perfon has Mamer of difcerer'd the affected part, they apply their mouths and curing Dif draw, making belicve rhey draw and fuck away the caufe of the Difteraper. Now fuppore a man had a Fiffula in Anc, thefe Doctors would bave a fine cleanly work on't' and 'rwould be odds if (while they made the Patiens well) they did nor make themfelves fick: The pratifec of Phyfick in other Councries tequires a man to azve a good Head, but here it requires a ftrong Sromach, and be that can eat 2--without fpewing for the maticr, may ict up for a well-qualified Doctor.
In's a frrange Humour of thefe Pcople, that when any Hati tre:body is fick they never give them any Victuals withour memn os "tre: they urge it themiflves, fo thar if 2 man thould lofe the sifk. ufe of his Tongue in a Diftemper, he muft ftarve of conequence withour remedy: But it is much ftranger ftill, that thole who are about the fick Party do nothing but dance, drink and fing all the while he is languiting up on his Bed; this is a very hard cafc, and a man had much better be diffactid our of the way when he begins to be ill, than be tormented with a continual noife in his Ears

Cbap. 1X. An Account of the Country of Bradile.

when he is in fuch a cale: Tis truc, they are willing to wherever they go. They are extravagantly fond of, and be rid of the trouble of Attcndance; and have the fick Man at the and of his pain to as foon as may be, and no doubt bur this is an effatual Method ro arcomplith both; but then they thould not make fuch a terrible Splurter afrerwards, for "tis odd to go frit of all to kill a Man by ill management, and then fall a howing becaule he is ded : Bue they have ( as was faid before) 2 Confolation that comes afterwards, and know how to wath away alf the Remainders of their Sorrew.
$\therefore$ In the Point of Marriage the Brafitians ftick at no degree of Relation but that of own Mothers. Sifters and Daughters; as to all the reft, they are free, the Uncle marries his Niece, and the Neplew his Aunt : Bur tho thefe Bloods may be lawfully mingled, yet thofe of two intimate Friends are held to mar, that tis a Crime amongt tiem to pretend a Marsiage there. No Man may marry the jaughser or Sifter of his Arcuraffep (as they term it) that is, his moft familiar Friend, who lives rogecher with him in fuch a mannct, that all their Goodsarecommon: Their way of proceeding in the getringof. Wives, is; firf to make fure of the Womon's Affiction, and then go to ber Paretus, or (if the has none) the next Kishlred, and ask their confem, which if they gire, well and good, if nor, they are consensed of both hides, and forget one another. A young Man did not afe to be fufferd to marry amongt then, till he had given Some Proof of his Courage in the Wars by taking or killing an Enciny, and he was obliged allo to hold certain Feats for two or shree Y crir before:: So the spung Women having difovered the Tokens of Ripenels, kept their Feafts likewife and then their Parenes began ro think of Huilbands for them. Bur there is a mighry dcal of mirth and featting when a young Bride is brought horme to her Bridegroom; all the Paremts and Kindred of both fides come rogether, and lay the Foundacion of their new Relation in good eatiog and drinking. After the Faft is over, the concluding Ceremony is the delivery of a Ner cleap waithd, to the young Couple; chis ratifies the Marriage; and they go prefencJy away to confummate it. But learing them in the Hamock, the Bride's Father in the mean sime in the orher Aparmicnt ads a very comical part: He takes 2 anid chopping of is, and what is this for, but to chop of the Tails of che young Grand-childred that are nowto be expected. They are mighcily afraid any of their Race phould appcar like Monkeys; bur they belicue they would, and come wich Tails into thes World, if the the Dey rake this Mechod to prevent if, and thenciore how dacial a Tendency ic has to hinder che growing of Tails, any body that confiders the Mater a litule decply, will cafis fec.

When the Brefluons have married their Children, they Timotere then allow then the liberties of drinking and cironfing redt marefrecly, which before they denied them; they think it proper for Yourti, to be bred up in all manner of moderavion and abfincoce, and roc have thar Spur added to their patural bear and vigour, which Wine and ftrong

- Iíquors will certainly add: And they are introduced to thithibeny with homething of ceremony; the old
R Rople makea Speoch to them akou the fober and moderate ufe of Wine, rell them ches muft drink fo as nor to maketheir Tongues run to faft, and encline them tofpenk bad chinis: and chenthey give them the Initiaring Cupz and hold cheir Heads ax, the fametime leaft chsy fopuld befick: and vomit; for "tis. to be nored, chat if their joung Men are over-powerid: with the firft Wime they clkeit as an Omen of their being: Cowards but if uleycarry ur off berzely, chicy neone
When a Child is borp, the Eacher thus far performs the Office of a Midwifes as futt of all ocbers wo It cer mey do becanfe they imagipe the greaect Beriar of their Chilirenito Jie in the flonets of theiriNofes Then wishour weypring is in any forc of Susaddling clonch, be lays it downin a Hmomock, todiff it bea Boy, be brings a liude wooden Smosd, a Bowe and Arows, whichbe puts pown by zo, mas Band of Hents, which repref and leves in with the hoft horcacory Spectl ady Sin

 arinir Backs, foro hear and cold and an woanhers indulgent to them, avoid all things that may make them cry, aña thercfore (even when chey are carable of it) theyneper give them any correction, that they may nos have fo dilpleafing a found in their Ears.. But onc thing deferves particular notice, which is, that the bi, berforg, flism Childrendo ingreat meafure confute cur Nocions sever there here in Europe, abiout the firt management of ther, for heto. tisgenerally faid, thar Chitdren would grow crooked. bandy legg'd, and every way out of mape, if they were not bound and fivathd up very clofe and tite; whercits the Brafilians never ufe a Rag abnut cheirs, they are aid down maked upori a Cotion Bed as foon as they are born, and carried So afierwards at chair Mochers La, ths, and yet none are betrer Thapd than they, and grow moreftrair and uptight; tris nor cummon to lec a deform'd or a diftorted Limb amongit them; or if there be, tispknownio be che Effed of fome other Caufe.
Poligamy is a Cultom generally receiv'd añdailow'd Por any in this Country; chere's nothing so bourd or ftint'zny willwit Man as co the number of tis Wives but his own Hin mour and Circumfanices; ncither do they with a nulcipliciry of Females under cheir Roots, lead- lives lefs quiet and picafant than thole that have bur cne. The Women don'r fold and quarrel about the bigget fhare in the Man's Affetions, nor plor and contrive to circamyent one anocher in $wheir Amours. The Hulband may make one his Darling if he pleates, and the ref will look patiently on, and won'r give him or the hap py. Favourite any croubleby their Jealoufy. If either of ad lat the Wives thould defile his Bed by any aduleerouspinati practice, he has a Power in his. Hands to reverigehimfelf; and that hé maydo, cither by killing ber thar hasfo abufed him, or if nor that, yer by purting her a may with all the ignominy in the world: Death or Divorce are the Punihments of the Otime : Bur unmarried Wu menmay take all che freedom imaginable, and no body Erec we es reproach them for'c. Theyare under no Lure bur that of woman: Indination, and know vo reftraint bat that of want of Opportunity, and if that be caken away, tis cafy to magine what follows; yer to do them juttice, the Authois fay, they wift the furopcans did not give occalion to fay, that they aremore beyond all thame and modelty in chofe matrers than the Brafilian:.
As to whar concems the DreL and Habit of hefe People, "tis quickly defribd, they go naked, cxcept ony the Ornaments of Paint and Feathers in lome Parts where the Porrugurge have to do, thicy hase conform'd themflves a litale to the Eurcpenn Cuftom, and weafome fort of Apparel, but sis phore for pure fa thion's Salke, than segard to modefly and decency, or Gecanfe the Portugueze oblige them to ir, and they dare oor difobey them. Tis plain, that tbey look upoin Cloatis as an incumbrance, and do whar they do colly out of form, by theic way of unge on'c; for amonge thofe that are provided with all neceffary Apparel you thall fee onc come abroad witha Cap only on hist Head and another with a Wafcoat or Morr Jacket that reaches to the Narel, and crecy where elfe as naked as the was borns; thisis diefing to good purpofs, and fuch a thon Jerkinasthat, well anfwers the grear defign of Cloaths. They have vacious ways of crring their Hair; of polling and lazing in ufe amongt them; and indeed this is one of the main Characters by which thefeveril Narions are diftinguifh'd from one arorber. The VVo men always cut sheir hair when they become Mourners for the Dead, and atio when cheir Mutbands go loinis and dangeroas Journeys in bock which Cifes by this Cuftom, they expreis their forrownand concern
TheirHoulesaremade of Timber, and cover'd wirth Palm Leavesghave cwo or chrec Doors each, and conGif of: 2 grear mamer of Roons : Each of thefe is raken up by a diftinct Houthold, and has its ownipro per Fipe-place; Hammocks and orber Fumiture belong ins to ir, they arenot paired from one another by any Vall, 10 than when a Mar is once contred the Door It that, the Hoofe affords or concziass, is open to him Some of them are fo barge, thar they hold 300 People and morc, and geverilly al are governal by one prixcipal Perion, who is as is were, be Diafice of the whole inired Family
Theif Hooifhod Staff confits, of Eachien Jats, Furniure Befkers, Batons, Platiersiad Copirthe Cops are

Gsges
T56
likic Necs, others like folid Cloth; they are five or fix Font inus aial an Ell broad, having ar cither end certain Cotron lionps, thrn' which the Cords pass that faften them io the Beams of their Houfes.
$\forall$ vien thele Harmooks are become dirry with long ufe. or by reaton of the Smoak of their Fires which burn ali Nithe clofe by them in the VVinter time, they cleanic then afier this manner: The VVomen go into the 'r'on's and gather a Fruie not much unlike a plain Ciourd in fhape, bur much biggor, fo that one of them con farie be beld with one hand: This they cur into Fwics, and having thrown ic into a great Earthen Veffel, and peurd onalitele water, they fir it vehemently about with a Srick, till a fort of Froth arices; this is their Soaf, and all befides, and they need noching elfe, for ir makes their Beds comparable to the cleaneft and whitef thines in nacure.
Works and he Men Pend theirtime in Employmenes fuitableto their Sex; in Hunting, Filling, Fowling, Fighting, and making Arms for that perpofe. The vomen frin and weave Cotton, dreis Vichuals and do Gare, in a word, marvellouly indultrious and handy. The chicf Man in cach Family preaches to all the Houfe in the Morning asthey lic in their Mammocks, hetells them when tis time to rife and po to theirfereral abours, and arhat they noould bedtew their cime in for tharday. This Cuftom they fay they learne from a certainbird ( which they call the Lord of Birds) 'ris like a thaxk, and fings cyery Morning with the firt advances of the day; they argue, that as that Disd fets uphes Note to as tole heard of all che reft ahout him, c. cil fo thould the Mafter of a Family make all that he is conemit with, bear his Infructions.
As fur their Dict, it is cen what they can get; what Nature and Providence affords, or Art and Induftry can Proues then: what the VVoods or the VVater, of the Ar wil yeld chon; what they can kill wirhan Arrow, or atch in a Trap, piuck from a Trec, ordig out of the Ground ; 'ris the Fletiof any Creature, rational or irratomal, Fruis, Grain, Herts, or Roots; their Stonacks are nor nice and fucamith, nor do they need the courthip of fine Sauces: They won't fick cren ar the montloathicme Ammals, and many Snakes and Tonds have bece Inftances of the fremeth and goodneis of their Digetion. And as they are indifferent to what they eas, To they are as litele thoughrful about the Concern of providing is; they don't focnd time in collecting and laying up grear hoards of Provifion, but content thimrelves toget in realonable Supplies as their VVants recurnuponthem. The VVoods are at hand, and their Bows and Arrows, and Filling Tackling, are always ready, and if they light of any frort, they ear and are meny, if they fail, they are patient, and bear the In convcnicncies of Hunger and Thinft with ane eafy mind, till they can remore them.

They obferice no ftated times for cating; the Formalities of Breakfaft, Dimer, and 'Supper are not known amongt them: If they have a Stock of Provifions by them, they make bar one Mral on't, but that runs thro the whole 24 Hours; for they cat all Night as well as all day long, and like. fome People that we fay their Moncy burns in cheir Pockets, and they can's be quic: till 'ris all gone, fo the Brafilians are as reftlefs till their Cap-boards are empty, and the Houre be clear'd 2bow them.
Ordinarily they don's drink at theis Mcals, buemake a diftinct and particular bufinefs of that afterwards they love it fo well, that they wont do it, but when they have leifure to atrend and fet to it: and indeed the fiy it fo clofe, that they gencrally lic leyel with the Ho:zon by that time they have donc. But their extra:agancy this way aperars much more at theirfer Feaft, witich they often make. Ufon thefe Occations there are tome of them that gn finging about from Howfe to Houfe, cailing and inviting all they can find to come to or merry. This Mirth lafts two or three days, or perhaps nots, and it's made up of Mufick, Drinking, and Dancing; there is fome eating work allo, bur that's ar -he lieginning, and (as the lefs principal part of the En(etanment) ferves only for an meroduction to the reft And they are fo iadefarigable in thefe Sporrs, that they alinw themiclyes no time for xeft; they never lleepa wirk all the while, bur fpend the whole time in dancing and drniking. Sometimes too the ftrong Linuors work to powertully, that they go to lugaing one amtherby the Ears, to breaking of Pates, and fingering one anothers VVives promifuoully; they fall all of 2 heap, and do all the ruftical things thar a wild MobB ia loote upon one another can be fuppofed to do. Abtraciting from thefeaccidental Diforders, chey are a Reo-ple of fober civil carriage cnouph; they agres wender- Good tully well together, and very Celdom brawl or fighe ; le.es, butif any quarrel happen, and one be weunded by another, if he that did the mifchicf can be taken, he is wounded exactly in the fame part of the Body liy the Kinfmen or Fricends of the Sufferer. In a word, they Therex.es are mighty punctual in their Recributions an cafo of Cor- Jutic: poral Damage; the L.cx salions obnains amongt them in ts utmont vigour, and tis not only Life for life, bus Eyc for Hye and Tooth for Tooth, withour any limitson or excufe.
None are inore kind and genice to their VVives than Kinderet the Brofitians for rhe mof part are; if they are otherwife; tis when Vine has got the maftery of them, and tien they excufe is to the good VVomen afterwards, tedling thene that the faule was in the VYine; which com monly makes up the mater betwixt them. And, whether it be out of love or jealoufy, or a mixturc of hoth. they feldom go our, but their VViyes go with them; when they go from home the Man walks before, and the VVoman somssafter, which is, that if there fould be 2 Danper of any fort, the Man may mect wich it firft, and give his VVifc an opportunity to make her rereat ; but when they come homeward, they mift places, the $V$ Voman is firlt, and the Man comes behind for her guard; fo that cicher way the VVoman isftill neareft home.
They reach their Children very early to dance after Cate f. their Country manncr, and not only that, huts to fing tirerc.. too; thefe are the firt things they learn as foon as they are capable, and tis indeed the chicf part of their lnftitution. But tis obfervable, thas they dosumern 10 . that even whilethcy are very young, one hall feluom fecthof litic Squabbles and Fallings out amongft chicm, that Chideren are very incident to in other places; they don'r fight and call one another names, nor give any for of bad language to one another, bus follow their Play. with a great deal of peace and quictnefs. The Braffians are much more thankful if any one does thele young ones a kinunefs; if he teachesthem any thing, or makes them a Prefent, chan if swas done to themiclucs; and chere's no furcr way to make an cotire Purchafe of their Fricndilhip, than to exprefs a fondnefs for, and a good wilh to their Children. And for this Reafnn twas that they had to great ancftecm for the Rurtuguefe Fathers; thore Priefts were very insent upon the Education of their Children, taught them to read and write and caft account, and to fing after the Eurcpazn manner, and in fhort, always gratificd and delightCd them with onenew thing or other; fo that the Parenes look'd upon them as the very beft of Mcn, and were entircly captivated by thefe Methods.
As ro worldy Grandeire and. Riches, as there is veri conernd. intle of it to be feen amongtt the Breflitins, to they feem nef w: to be a People wholly wid of all manner of Ambition the: mes:
and Defire that way. They affect no
warely and Defire that way. They affect no tharely Pallaces Wizy of Splendid Equipages; or greas and pompous way of living. If they have Kings amongit them, they are crown'd with Fcarhers ; and a Gentleman is nor one chat has 1000 Pound a Year, and is follow'd by half 2 dozen Footmen in gawdy Liverics; but a poor naked Fellow char has. Skin as thick as Parchment, and raced all over after fuch a matiner, that it looks as if they had been pricking Patterns upon it. They content themrelve with their homely Cottages, thas juft ferve to defend them from the lniurics of the weather; and confidering nothing bur Convenience and a bare Supply of the Necefitics of Narure, they move their Diveliings upand down, fixing themelyes here and there, according as Mowe the: they can beit anfwer thore Purpoles. Neither do the up and rouble themiclees any more abour the gerting a great deal of I and than of building fine Houres, making rious Walks and Profpects, and other Delighrs of thar mature. They have Ground indeed to improve and cultivate for the Service of their Families, but not with all thofe Guards of Hedges and Ditches that we have: Every Mafter of a Family ufes at pleafure what will be convenient for his own Houfe, without drawing Linesto mark out properly, or fetting up any Land-marks for a so divifa Caution to his Neightour: So thar here are no Quar-of Lands. rels nor Contentions about the Divifion of Lands and the Bounds of Eftates; $n 0$ going to law for a Hedge or a Fence, or Spending whole Eftares alour a Foor of Ground. The Brafilians wou'd ridiculc fuch Pcople to the laft degrec; unlefs they thought them mad, and fpared them upon that'account; for they look upon the Earch to be equally free for them all, and that "tis every ones. Priviledge to enjoy as much of it as ferves his occafion, and whentratisdone, as he has reaton to be contented, fo no body clie has any thing to do to diflurb him in his Poffefion.

No M.ncy ammgit

Moncy is a thing wholly nuknown amongft them, neither have they any manner of need of is in their happy and eafy way of living. If they have occafion for one another'sLabour or Affiftarce, they make the Recompence in fomerhing or other which Nature furnithes to their Hands. Thus when they call orthers to help them in their Huibandry Works, they make good for ## a Difiourte

Aviween she Leriusonce had wich a Brafilian upon thele Matters, and thofe thing well thews the Sence of their Minds aboun保 your Mairs and Pero's (thar is (fays the Brafilicm )that come fo far as our Counry so fect) Wood? docr your oum Country fford you no. Fuel for she Fire? To this Lerius anfiwerd, That sher bad in his Counrry Wood anough so burn, bur that was not the Ufe shey pur she Brafile-wood so; sbey ufed that in the Bufinefs of Dying, which none that grewe in bus part of abe World woas fir for. But ( xeplics the orher) bave you need of fo greas quantitics of ir, and poon't lefs shan you ferch arpay ferve your surn? He rold him No, ane rich Merchant alone in bin Country was Meffer of many Screrlet Clotbr, Lioking-glafles, Knizes, and Beads; and all the fine stings shat ibey admired, as pould byy freeral Sbips Lading of the Brafile-wood. Ab! fays the Brafilian, Tous rell mevery firange and wonderful shings; but praty does that great rich Man jou Speak of never die? and if be does; who is Heir of all thofe Goods be learoes be bind bim ? Lerius' told him, His Cbildren, or if bebred none' bis nexx Kindred. Surels by thri (xeplies the wife odd Savige ) a Mann majeafity perceive tbat you Mairs are aert greas Fools; for what need yous tire and surmoil your felves at shat rate in failing over she Ocean, where (is you rell tis your felves) yas fuftain fo many Hardbips and Dan, gers? Is it that yout man get Riches for pour Children:ane lianty Kinffolk? Simple Men !. Is not the Earth that has norrifbed you;" fufficient affo so mainsain sthem? Lffe betos Children and Kinsfoll as woll as you; and chom (as you foc) we looe dearty; buit fifce we confidently hope chat it 乃acll come to prass; thete after cur ileparrure befond tive Moutains, the Same Eerth wopich has hourijoed us; Ball alfo rclieve and cberifh them; berein we repofe our felves and reft content, Here theDialogue broke of, and what our Author an fwerd to the laft Sentence of the Braflian, is nor told us; it may be he held his Tongue and faid nothing, which pertrops was the beft reply he could make in this calc.
The good Temper of there People is farther feen in their diffurive bounty and Charity : A Man can't offer them a greater affront; than by calling them Niggards, or any way furpecting their generofity and good nature and they are much pleafed on the other hand; if a Man will make ufe of their Kindnefs, and foffer them to fupply his Wants. They make a contant Prictice of giring one another Fifh, and Meal; and Eruirs, or almoft any thing thar they are Mafters of, and if they know of any one that wants what they have in the Houfe by them, cheyll be fure to fend him a Surply.

They sarty it after the dame frecand kind-hedrted way oScrangers too, and the chey liate the Niane of Barbarians pur upon them, yer none are certainly mots truly hofpitable chan they. " "I'is true, their way, o.f receiving Strangers is fomething odd, and miay icol: a tertaw, liede barbarous, tho the worft of it is, wat as nuy ero- pewn bably frighten thole that are not accutoined to at (le: (erm) io if a Manecan fand the firt Shock of their rude Saletations, and hear all their Wecpings and Out-crics waht thin out fear, helll have no caufe to be afraid afterwards, but may promife himfelf to be made very mucia ci. This Lecrius profeffes that he was not a lictle confowned ar this wn, io: their manner of ereating him at hisfirft arrival aniongit in:mprom them; and expected no other than firft ct all to he riffed, and afterwards fent be fond she Mouncainti. Afoon as ever they faw him, they came fwarning aton: him, and jabber'd out all together, their $M$ itrapic Or i...int tic that is, What's your Nime? In the mean tine Derere? Ane,: off his Hat and puts ir upon his own Heal mane one takes is Coar and a trew over his nated Shouldru and Bels, which he lumy ith his Spils anced Shoulders; 2nd thus drefs'd up with his Spoils, they run up and down thewing the fine things to their Compadions. A litule while after, this firft Tranfort was over, and they came and very civilly reftor'd every thing again; which was fo much beyon? Lerius sexpectation and defire, that he would frecly have given all chat and more, to have had then heer away for good and all, and not have come near him a siond rime. But his Interpreter then told him, they groatly defired to know his Name; now they arcnot able to pronounce any of our European Names, ncithe: can they make any fence of them if they could fpeak them; for all the Names in ufe amongft them being taken from thiligs, and things that ahey ordinarily converie with, it would appear a kind of mockery to them, to tell them, of any other but fuck: Lerins thercfore fuppreficd his Fiquite afies Chriftian Name folm, and thar of Lerius fignifying an plesfed wis Oyfterin the Biafilion Tongue, he took thar hine from plaizs wime. che Interpreter, and told him he wascall'd Let:j-or, fort: This gave them a great deal of Satisfation, and they often ufed thait word Tels at it; at laft they replicd, met with.any Mair shar i, add fuch o ons as chis. All this while herius cou'd nor well rell what to make of them, and was filll under fome fear left chey fhould eat the Oyfter, as they had done many others of the fame kind before; however, his Incerpreter who kneiv their Cu foms perfectly wellencouraging him, he refolved to vencure a lirtle farther amongt themi. When they came into the Village where they inrended to lodge for that Night, they found the Pcople dancing and very merry upon the account of one of their Encmics whom they had taken and killed that day; but lerius could not find in his Heart ro bear a part with them in their Mirth; one of the firtt Sights he Caw, was the Limbs of the dead Man broiling upon a Gridiron, and this made him reiapfe into his tormer fear, and begin to doubr whether his own wou'd nor be the pext to be fodecf'd. Yer he went into the Houfe, and according to the cufom, immediately laid himfelf down in a Hammices where he had nor been laid long, but the Wives and Daughters of his Hoft came wesping and lamenting abour him: They rejoiced ar his happy coming in rears, and fpoke abundance of things in his commendarion: Heve you saken fo much pains so come and fec ats? you are good, you are waligur, you are mife, yut bree brougho inany excellent. Merchand;ass elong with, you sphich we went bere But Lerius undertood neither their Con plements nor cheir Wants, only the Prefence of his lnectirceter was a Comfort to him, and made him hope all would end well. Now they always expect that their Gucits fito: difcover fome fort of Paffion and Concern while the: are entextaining them, affer this manner; and theretor they muft hit with a very fobicr ferticd Countenance and if they canir cry in good caricit, they unuft pretend to do foar leaft, and ferch many deep and bitter fighs Burfome of the French-men did nor need to counterfeit z Paffion; for whecher 'twas out of fear or meer fympathy, is uncertain, but howeyer they cried and fobs'd as well as the Women, and Lerius himifelf was obliged to nake them believe he was nor far from doing the fame. When thisScene had held a whilc, incame the Maucajof the Matter of the Houre ) very buffly employ'd about making an Arrow, which he minded for fome time withur fo much as once cafting an Ey'yc upon his Gucts, on aying any thing to them. At lat he cane up to Lerius, and gave him the Salutation, exprefling a grear deal of Gatistactionat his coming thither, ani cnquiring prefently whether he were nor hungry or no; then he orderd. is People to bring in what the Honfe afforded, which

Gs.s.g $=$
tio
tho' bur their ordinary Fare, and ferv'd up in a homely courfe manner, er gave plain Indications of a fincere and hearty Welcome. The Brafilians of this Village were (as was hinted befors) making merry upon the dearh of a Captive, to which Sports L.crius had 10 mind to go, being weary and indiposd, but inftead of that, berock himiett to his reft in his Hangiug-Bed; but he had nor Acper long, lefore the nowe which she Savages made (dancing and carowfing umon this Occafion) waiked him, and had not chat done it, what follow'd woud; for prefendy upon this, one of them comes up to him, with a roalled Foct of the poor Victim in his Hand, which he heid cur to him, intending thereloy that they look'd uron thar fors of Food as a Daincy, and hat fent him thar piece to taltc. But Lerias who louk'd about him and found his lnecrpreter gone, legan now in att that part hinufelf, and interpreted that the holuing up of this roatted Foot to him, lignified the l. he fiece of Cookery thortly to be performed upon himtelt: Had there becn any way of efcape for him left, he had that Minute quitred his Hammock, and vencured out into the Woods, but there was none; for be faw a G:ard of Brafilians fauding aloore him, and there he thoughe werc to kecp him tor the Gridiron next Marning; bur were indeed no other stan the Whaters which they always make attend upon Sorangers, as a piece of cuvlity they think due to them. Secing himfolf thersfore thut up on every lide, he berook himefle to his Irayers, and foent the whole Night in Devotion; as any dian culy ronchid would, who expected he muft be excutued next Morning. All this while the Braflitims wondred what had conce to the Man, thar he was in fuch an agony; he mutrer'd to himfelf, and figh'd and groan'd, and had a worid of uncaly Poftures in his Hammock iet they fail nothing to him, bur ler him alone. The he nett laterprster for his pare had fpene the Night with the Savages at theor merry Bout, and was in no concern ahour his iliattor, becaufe be knew the Fidelity and good U.f polition of che l'cople among whom he was. Howcrerat break of day home he comes, and finds him yery ill, as pale as Ailhes, and taken with a Feavour, at whithe was furpriz'd, and therefore ask'd him whether le lad not refted well that Nighr. One may eafily imagine what Anfwer Lerius gave to this Queftion, and how the Interpreter was fihool'd afrerhis Night's Paftime; but yer to complear the Jeft, lie sells the Brafiians in whata Tcrrour his Mafter had lain in all Nighr, and he the Man him. They fied hey were very the toated Man to him. They dad they were very forry they had made him no uncafy, and thas indecd they perceived be was out of order; then they were net able to hold out any longer, but broke our into fuch an cxcras agamt fit of haghter, that lecrius initead of being afraid, was now more alhamed that be had made them to muth jport. One may venture to relic upon the Credit of chis Story, fincethe Author tells is of himielf, and it dees not fecin to make much for his advantage. But belides this, he had feveral other Adventures ajnongit the biofitions, all which (as he declares I gave ampic cftimony of their Courtefy and Hofpitality to Strangers, and makes it very certain that no Man need fear to goamongft them, provided he does not exafperate themby Injuries and affronss.
On che other hand, at the expence of a few Trifles, Hos in pro- fuch as Knives and Combs for she Men, Scifeers, Bracecite the laters and looking-glaffes for the VYomen, and Fiththe s.rus:s. hooks for the Children, a Man may purchane the Friendthip of a whole Nation of them; for they value all People (shat difoover any thing of a bountiful temper; at a hinhrate, and thercfore, tho if you havenothing to sitc, you may frecly have the Refreflument their Houfes afford, yet if you obline shem with any of thefe little Toys, theylll be cven Horfes to you into the Bargain: If inti are weary and can't travel, they'll rake you up aitrule their Shoulders' and no along with as much briskT. Mr, twolegidt Fackneys, and the Hire perhaps was a twoforny Kinif. They ned no VVhip nor Spur, but mther a Briule, for they never fop cill they come to the End of thei: Journcy. He out of piry one time defired the Braziicn that zarried him, to ftand ftilland takea little breath, but be anfweri him laughing, What, fass be,
 Siner I fintad taimi and iic doren under mp Burthen? ma, what d uther citry you all the day mitbous any Intermifion This Dridg ry the Brafitins are traind up to from theix Cradics as it vice; for there are no Beafts of burtien ainongit them, for thar all the heavy Loads that hould be laid unon the Backs of Horfes, Camels, and the like, are froced to come upontheir own; and indeed they are broad cnough to bear them.

We have hithersa feen fomething of the mere civil Manncrs and Cuftonis of this Pcople, we mut now confider thofe that relate to War, and therr Treatment of their Enemics, in all which we thall find them as ierce and violenr, as we did the others rame and goodnatur'd. The Brafiumens live in perpectal Wars with one anorher; theres hardjy two Niations of them that agresand league together, unicis perhaps to die deftruetzon of func sthess to wheh they are hoth Finemies. And where a Quarrel is once forung amonget rinem, is is immortal, and gocs on from one Generation to another; ncither (condiderng the Principics and Notions they $g^{\prime}$ upon; can is pollihly be othenvic; fur they are not led by thofe Motives to make War upon one anothor that ofler Pcople are $;$ is is nos Ambition and the Fame 2nd Glory ot a Victory, they are not folicitous $C$ nin o: abour cnlarging their Territorics, nor punid on with a covceous Defire of ponefing the Goods and Spoils of their Encmiss; they fight purcly for revenge, and to do themfelyes juttice upon thofe that have killed and ucroured their Friends and Kinsfolk. Now then every Batele that is foughe belid's revenging the oid Injuties on borh-fides, mult unavoidably inrroduce new ones, for 'cis hard to imagine any Action of this nature, without Cuppofing fome 1 lain or taken Prifoners at the fame cime. So that here are new Wrones and new Qciafions of fighting continually added to their old ones; cerery fime they fight their l'ation and Revenge has a frefh Spur added to it, and every fuccecding Gencration has all the Quarrels of the foregoing ones cntail'd upon it.
The cluer Men, by long Speeches and Harangues made for that Purfole, excite their Courages, and Oit mece prompt them on to Bartle; this is a folemn Cuftom a- nake monght them, and chey feldom go to war withour having firt feveral Scrmons made upon the noble Actions of heir Anceftours, and pationate Exhortations to initiate. them inthe Vertues of flaying and devouring their Enemies. Thus do thefe rude Orarours 隹 up the People in every Village, and they being eafily mored and enflaned, affemble themfelves together, and meer an the appointed place of Rendezrouz. Thefe old Men have alfo the Charge of the Ampy, and the Conduci of all the Military Affairs, and tho' they march their Tronps in no manner of order at all, yer they obierve chis Kulc, to keep the moft valiant Men in the Frons, and make them give the Enemics the firft of his Enterainmanc.
As for Weapons, they are provided with thofe that Ticir Fan:are fufficient to anfiver all the bloody Furpofes of sure. War.

The Swords are made, fome of a red and others of a s:orati black wood, that is very clofe and heavy; they are five orfix Footlong, and a Foor broad in the wideft parr, of a kind of an oval form; the thickeft parr of the Baik is at leaft an Inch, but the Edge is cxcceding chin and Tharp; 'tis true, they are wooden Swords, but they don't cut after a wooden manner; ; for the Author fays a very fharp Ax will hardly do morcexccution.

Their Bows aremade of the fame fort of wood, and Bows. excced ours fo much in length and thicknefs, that few Europeans are able to bend or unbend them; nay, 'ris talk cnough to manage even the Bows they make for rheir Children of 10 or 12 Years old. The Bowftrings are made of a Plant call'd Tccou; which tho' is ber very llender, yet it is fo rough and Atrong, thatic will bearthe force of a Hoxfe pulling in Their Arrows are about an Ell long, confiting of Arown: three Joints, the middle part is Cane or Reed, and the wo Extreams ate black wood, and thefe Joints are fo firmly bound together with the Bark of Trecs that Glew it felf could not make them fafter: The Tails of them are furnith'd with Feathers of a Foot long to make them tly the more fteadily; and the Headsarm'd with the Tooch of fome Beaft, or fome tharp Fin-bonc, or 2 Reed four or five Inches long, and made fmooth and thin like a Surgeon's Launce. Since the Fremek and Portugucie came amongit them, they have learn'd to make the Heads of their Arrows of Iron, and fome times perhaps ftrike in 2 very long tharp Nail as char end: But which way foever 'ris, they are a bloody: Wcapon, and will go thro' any thing almoft; they'll cleave a large Stick afunder, and have been known to flic quire thro" 2 Man's Body and ftick $\mathrm{f}_{2}$ It in :he Ground ontrother fide. Many times they poifon them too, and and notch and jag the Headsat that rate, that they catry as certain death zlong with them almoit as a Cannon Buller, tho' much more cruel and painful.

Hut they are itill more terribic Weapons, by being in skif: the Hands of fuch ekifful Shooters; for there's hardly Arhtere any Mark, tho ever fo limalk, but they will his it, and they
they can not only fetch down the fmalleft Bird froma Tree, bur "flake cven any little Vermine whatfocver that crawls upon the Ground; and chey are cvery whit as quick and dextrous as they are cxact and fure in the ufeof their Bcws; they'll fend one Arrow flying after another with a wonderful nimblences, and tis as much as the beft Eirropern Archer can do to difpatch four or five in the time that they will a dozen.
For defemfice Armour, they have only Targets made of the Hide of a Beaft, with which they cover themfelves in Ratele, and receive the Arrows of their Encmics: Neither do they care for or defire any more, and they are fo far from fancying the Cuftoms of orher Nationsthare ufe Conars of Mail, Head-pieces, and the like. that if they had bur a Sinitt on, they would throw it off before they went to fight, becaufe they look upon any thing of this nature as a burchen and an incumbrance to them. As for Iron Swords, they did nit eftern them for the Rarpofes of War, and when the Fiench beftow'd fome amongf them, they always kept them our of the Scalberds, and usid them to cur Sricks and Doughs of Trecs withal, as tiney wou'd any other Domeftick Infrument.
To cncourage their Souldicrs, they have alfo a kind of warlike Mulick, which keces playing as they march: Somic blow with a Kort of Horns thas are abour an Ell and half long, and broad like a Trumper at the lower eme; others pipe with littic VVhittics, which they inaic of the Eenes of their Encmies, and thele to be furchave a mighty influence to infpire them with courage and refolution.

Their irmics are more or lefs numerous, according to Thit wiy the Occafion, but when they have affembled what Forses they judge convenient, they begin to march towards Borders, 2 Country; and when they have cnterd their Borders, a felect number of the beft Souldicrs advance a Day or two's journey before the reft, and poft themrelves in the V Yoods, waiting there till they havean Op portunity to fall upon the Encmy with fome advantage; or if char Detign faits, and the Encmy kecps ous of their reach, they take theirtime to furprize them in their Villagex, which they mat cafily do, fince they lie all open, and ha:c no manner of fence about them; yet fince the coming of the Eiropeans amongt chem, they havelearnd to fortify themfilvis a litele, making cettain Intrenchmienss about their Villages, and defending the Entrances with harp Stakes, by which means they grew more cantious of affulting one another in the Xight than they uiled to be before. But when they agrec of both fides to sictidethe Controverfy faitly in the Field, and come ro a pitchd Bartle, nothing (as Lcrius tells us, who was an kye-wincts) can be more farful and horrible. He with fome or his Country-men, accompanied the Tupaipinemmathians in an Expelition againft the Marationte. that mont deadly Enemy, tho all the Service they did, was noly to fit the others 0 B and every now and then to let fly $a$ frmall thot or two.

As foon as ever the Toucupinam-batricms had fight of their Encmies, they broke our in:o fuch loud and horribic Oit-cics, that they made all the Shoar ring again, and feritrs \{ays, he belicves Thunder cou'd farce have exen beard ar thar time. Vhen tbey were adranc nearerto eachorher, they redoubled their Crics on both fides, biew their Horns and whiftled with their Bone Pipes, and when thar Shour was over, they ftood threat ningone anotherfor forice time; fome held upthe Bones of their dead Enemies, and others thewid the Teetho them, which they had hung in Strings about their Necks in thort, they had fo many frightful Actions and Ge Pures, that twas cnough to frare a Spectator to fee only what they then did: But when they once came to join Batels, the Terrcur of all the former Sienes was quite forgotten; the Rage and Fury that tranfported the Touourinam-beltians was hardly to be exprefsid; they expofs'd their naked Bodies (coverd only with their Targets ) withour fear or dificerion, to the Showers of Arrows their Enemics threw upon them: thofe thar were wounded, tore the Arrows our of their Fleth, bir them for madneis like fo many Dogs, and then went on fighting as before. No VVounds nor lofs of Blood, no Danecr nor Pain could make them leave fighting, only thofe that died were quier; as for the others. their Fury held upto the laine pirch, and the imfatiable thirft of Piond itill hurricd them on, till the Enemy not able to cndure fo much violence, gave ground, and left thementire Mafters of the Field.
Finticat
pelan: - Find fity: plating and cnreraining to the Eve in it too; for bediace the comisal Actions of the Combatants, in theis whitling, lsaping, and chrowing theonches dhour ita cieveral Figures, with adurpratiny aimblencisand deaterity, thicir Habits of Featiers with the Sun thimung upen chem, and puting a lutre upon all thoke varncues ot Colours; was a veryagrerable lighe ; then the yathan:bers of Arrows fling to and tro in the tirywh thufe long and:beantifuil leathers fafturd to them, made a very glating: Shew, and a Spectatour that trood late out of the way, mighe be tery well pichifed with the bare Phenomenon. Lerius and his Friends purchaled no liutic good will among the Savages/ by going to Was wirh then, for they are mightily pleafid ac any Stransers being winnefs of their valour (the vintue they moft value diemflues uron) and therefore upon Luch Ociations, always defire their Compan along with them, and tike is atreamly well if is be granced. But the plain truth on's $s$, tis a dangerous piece of Civility to yield to them in this matecr, for here 2 :Man may ( $n$ or untikely) complement humfelf out of life or Lienb; while the Arows thus flying about at randome, he that does net gha, but only gapes upon them that do, may chance to have one in his Mouph, and shat would go near to poil him for an Oratoin for the cime so come.
When ahe War is cnided, the victorious Troops march th: a itihome with a grear deal of noify clamorous Triumph; umis in atis now the Bone Whiftes and the Homs of an Ell long Fic: make all the mufick ther can, and the Sonns of the Wo men that follow the Camp (like the Ont-cries of the Mcn before the Bartle ) make all the Country ring obout them. Of all the Honours artainable in this life, thefe Pcople are fenfible of none grearcs than that of beating their Enemies and leading home a multitude of Captives; And therefore they celcbrate no Feafts with to many Cirmonics, nor with fo profufe and extravagant a Mirth, as they do thofe they obferre upon thefe Occafions. But all this Joy is a fad prefage to poor Prifoners, and denounces to them their approaching fate. They areto furnifh the Marcrials of the Featt, and whatever be the Drink, their Bones mut be pick'd to find Meat for't.
He that has taken a Captive (as a marix of his condition) tiesp fmall Cord about his Neck, and if he be nown the thought likely to artempr an Efcaps, faftens one Hand intillourse alfo to his Neck; befdes this, he paints his Eyelids, Eycbrows and Beard, and folls him afrer his Country fathinn, and then rrimming thim up with Feathers (fo thick that nothing elfe can be (cenabout his Head) makes a fhow of him in every Town he comes to. Thus are thefe miferable. Wretches infulted all the way till they come into the Conquerour's Councry, and here they are met apon the Borders by the Women, who come Thouting to reccive them: After chis, they don'tany way tormene or. deal hardly with them, not fo muchas im prifonthem; they only put a hard Collar abour theit Necks, and inftcad of Shackles, tie their legs below the Knces with is very weak form of Bandage, which a Man may eatily get himelf free from. Bur this'they don't often do neither, unkefs they apprchend any danger of loofing their Pres; on the otber hand they appoint him a Kecper or two, thas never fir from him, and fo give him all the liberty imaginable of going abour the Ficids and the Woods: And tis pleafant enough that the Brafiliens mould think their Women fircelt for this Office, and make them guard the Prifoaersasther do: They had fure a mighry confidence in the Vigilcnce and Fideliry of that Sex, to commit that to their keeping, the lofs of which would foil all their Sport Bur however they have been well cnough rewarded fornerimes for their good Opinion; for there crufty Guardians have not only let the Prifoners go, but alfo run awnay chemfelves after them: "Tis true, they have endeavourd to prevent this, by employing thofe Women, whole intereft and relation to the principal Perfons concern'd, thould oblige them to be faithful in he Cafe; bur notwithftanding all that, they expofe themrelvesto hazards, and they oughe to be fure che Woman does nor like the Prifoner befoic chey make ber his Guat dian; for if the does, the lies under a powerful tempra tion to pur him in a way of faving his life, and then when the has done shat, the mutt run after him to fave her own... 'Tis much pleafamer fill, that this Woman who is the Prifoner's Feeper, and bendes, his Cook to drefs his Victuals, is alfo commonly given him for a Wife roo. This is yet a ftrongcr Morive to Infidelity; but cisa fad Dilemma the poor Woman is brought to, The muft cither betray her own Friends ; perbaps herown Father) or refign her Hurband up to a barbarous death, when 'tis in her power to deliver him; and certainly whatever pumilhment the deferves for the former Cribse, et if fie were guilry of the latrer, fhe thou'd e'en go down upon the lame Gridiron and broil together with him.
lim. Bur it happens fometimes that dhere needs not very mach caution and sizilence in the matter; the Prifoner himict defnics liberty, and is contented to be earen Hecars, and drinks, and fleeps, and grows fat upon't he keips company, and rakes his pleafure, as if he were condemn'd to live, and to lise merrily too; and fome of them are io far beiotred as to be pleasid with their fare, and whink ir a mighry great Priviledge (by being burjettim ric Mens Rellics, to be excus'd from the thoiiome Purrtiactions of a Grave, and being caten by fuch Filic Criatures as Worms are. But dich need not trouble thenfelves abour that, for their Encmics are evericady to do them that favour, and will find Burying-places for as many Corps as they pleaic; only this is ro be feard, that they mavine lye altogetice to fecure as they promile chemfelics; for rhe Worms is a very common Ditemper in thofe Purts, and thofe. Vermine may polfibly mese will them ac fecond hand, in the Pellies of the otincr leople.
'Twould be condess to' tell all the Particulats of thefe Fcftivals, low they drink and danse, and drels up the Victim with Feathers, and difguife him with Paints, cill they have made bimiook like a Monfter, thar is indeed more tir to be kurck'd othe Head, than fufferd to live.
many times nor prefently difparch'd, for he that is to dic, what by wrigling about, inclining his Head, and ometimes dapping quite down when hefees the Sword lified up, makes them fo much work, that tho they begin to prepare carly in the Morning, yer 'ris high Nioon before the Slaughter is over. Thefe People have prodigious hard chick Skulls too, and tis not an eafie proresto beat out their Brains; yea, Lerius tells us of one thathad a Skull invincibly hard, and the ftrongett ExcCutioner of them all (with that formidable heavy VVeapon they ufe) was nor able to break ir. VVhen this bloody work is donc, the more folcmn Feafts begin for now the grand Marcrials for them are ready, and therenceds only the Fire to compleat all: And this may be faid of them, thar the moft luxurious Man in the $V$ Vorld, the moft abfolute. Epicure does not fwallow his choicett and fineft bits, either with more greedinefs or truc relifh, than the Brafilians do the Flefh of their Enemics.
As for the Executioner, if he was a vulgar Fellow before, he is now become 2 Gendeman; this A Ctionmakes ceremonic him fo, or at leaft gives him an undoubred Tirle to that Gcoukcmin, Badge of Gerrility, which none thar fee can pretend to deny. His Relations proclaim what he has done thro all the Village, then they rub him with fome part of the dead Man, and lay him down in his Hammock as if he was fick; within a few daysafier they make him fo, for they race his Skin (all over the Body) with the Tooth of a ccrtain Beaft, and then foak him with the Juice of rome Plant mixd with a Powder very fincly Ground which rorments him to 10 fimall degree; bur Honour is the Confolation be has in his Mifery, and the enduring this fmart is one ftep towards his being a Gentleman. Thus he lies in his Hammock till be is perfectly well again, and never fpcaks a word, nox opens his Mouth up on no occifion whatocever; aid thache may have to oocafion to do ocherwife, all his Victuals ftand by him, that he may rake is when he pleales; but this is ncithe Fifh nor Flefh, bur VVater, Flour, and 2 litcle Frait. VVien thisMorrification is orer, they celebrate his rifing with a Feaft of YVines; he cuts his Hair, and paints himiclf with black, and from thenceforth has the Honours and Priviledges of 2 Gentleman.

Chap.- X.

An Account of Sir Richard Hawkins's Voyage into the South Sea; Collected from bis onn Obfervations, and thofe of fome curious Perfons tbat went along woith bim.

4HE Defign of this Voyage was to vifit thece lebrated Kingdom of Clizinc, the llles of Fapan the Molncci's and Philippines, by the way of the Marellmick Scraits and the South Sca; in order to which Sir Richard Hamkins furnill'd ar his own charge two fubftantialShips and a Pimace, with Men and all Neceffaries, intending, if Providence favour'd him; to fetcin no lefs 2 Compals than Drake, Candifo, and the ceft of the famous Circum-navigatours had done before him
$\forall$ Veflall pafs orcrall the Difafters he mer with in the Channel by the roughuefs of the VVinds and Sea, bur uin more by the rndencis and knavery of his Mariners hore ilifting Fellows, who cared for nothing but how to get a Sca of Drink inro their Bellies, took the advanzige of theidictime (that a Srorm found them to ipend ahioar) io run chernfeives and their Mafter in deir, pawning their very VVeapons, Inftumerims and and Shirts upon their Backs, and afuer all ablenting themielves from their Ships, and upon pretence of 2 Prefs then goins on, iunning quite away; fothat if the Admira had nor prudently provided againft fuch Mifchiefs as thefe, by raifing at firft more Men than he had need of te moft have gone to Sea with his Ships half mann'd, or have loft ume, and faid till he had fupplied-himCelf.
By this means it came about that three Months were Apent by that time they came to the Canaric-lifes, which are famousin the VVorld upon fo many accounts. The $V$ Vine of the lle Patma is well known by the Mer-
