REVEALS THE BATTLE BEGAN ON MONDAY, BUT DETAILS ARE MEagre ON EAST SIDE OF PORT ARTHUR

Japs Said to Have Made Advances from Petecous Mountain.

Shankung, Aug. 17.—The Japanese began a night attack on Monday after dark from the east and west of Port Arthur. From their position north of the fortress they set fire to thousands of feet of lumber which had been carried down from Wolf's Hill, and the favoring wind sent mountains of rolling smoke southward against the trenches and the inner forts of the fortress. Under cover of the smoke Gen. Nogai's army brought up howitzers to the top of the Etze Hills, digging trenches and the engineers making that important tableland tenable.

On the east side there was a tremendous all-night battle, no details of which can be obtained, but it is probable that the Japanese advanced from Petecous Mountain, which is now known they captured on Saturday after having been repulsed on Thursday and Friday with great loss on both sides. This morning there was a violent storm of rain, but in the westerly headwinds the Japanese were numbering more than forty, were in action. Companies of infantry could be seen winding up the Yabu hills to take the place of those killed or wounded on Monday night and this morning.

The lugger shanghai, in here from the sea directly southwest of White Wolf Mountain three of the largest Japanese gunboats were firing an incessant high angle fire against forts Nos. 4 and 5 of the inner fortress. More than 700 Japanese were wounded and carried down this morning on Monday night and this morning.

TELEPHONE COMPETITION BETTER THAN MONOPOLY

Retain Merchants Journal of Canada Gives Result of Practical Investigation.

The argument that telephone monopoly is preferable to telephone competition is effectively answered by the Retain Merchants Journal of Canada. It does not depend on hearsay for argument, but gives the result of a practical investigation. The evidence furnished by The Retail Merchants' Journal is of particular importance to the City of Brantford, which is just now being warned by interested parties against the installation of a municipal telephone plant, with the familiar cry against a dual system.

He swam out to the rescue of a young lady who was alone in a rowboat and without means of propulsion. After heading her on shore, he turned and started to swim into shore, but suddenly sank without warning in 6 feet of water.

Young Baidige, who is but 18 years of age, had just passed his first-year examination in mining and electrical engineering, and had been spending a couple of weeks on his vacation at the Temperance Hotel in Bronte. He was born in London, England.

The great peace meeting of the Friends' conference last night was concluded by Dr. Janney submitting a memorandum on the adoption of which great unanimity and hearty approval were shown. Dr. Courtice, in approving it, hoped that the court of the Hague, and not the battlefield, would be the scene of the settlement of all future Anglo-American disputes.

QUAKERS REAL MYSTICS VIEW LIFE FROM INSIDE

Practical Problems Successfully Met by People Who Use the World and Don't Abuse It.

"We need the world and the world needs us," was a motto received with favor at the Friends' conference yesterday. The tone of the addresses and the character of those taking part justified the enunciation of a sentiment so animating. Far from being an impracticable people or in sympathy with the secularists, the Friends appear to be interested in all that concerns humanity. The fine meeting last night, reported elsewhere, in which the peace of nations was discussed, testified as well to this as the sessions in which more personal topics were considered.

The union of the mystical and the practical in religion and in life has ever been the aim of the great thinkers of the race, and to clear up some misconceptions on the point The World saw Principal John William Graham of Manchester. "Spiritual gifts," in the psychic sense, he said, were not characteristic of the Friends at all.

Even more substantial proof of the fact I got from this food was when I exhibited. Critics said it was a masterpiece and I sold it a short time ago at a very good price.

QUAKERS REAL MYSTICS

ously the case in what are called the bodies of the Friends Church in America...

John William Graham speaks simply and earnestly with a calmness and deep thought...

Of course two systems are a nuisance, but we would not like to see our business come over the Independent line.

"No, we can now talk to over 2000 subscribers. With the Bell Company we never had over 600."

"No, we can now have both telephones for less than we formerly paid for the Bell alone, and about 1000 connections where we had 200."

"When it becomes preferable to hire an uninterested party to attend your wants, rather than do it yourself, then it would be better to have the Bell back."

"Positively no. We would rather discontinue the use of the telephone than again be subjected to the conditions that prevailed prior to the coming of the Independent Company."

"Not in my judgment. The management and service is all that could be desired, and it is a pleasure for me to say that day or night the service is 'O. K.'"

"No, these conditions were then in important and they are now in a measure the public can stand a lot, but not that."

"Under no circumstances, real or imaginary, the Bell people being minus of friends, their method to gouge the people all they can, and to regard service or accommodations."

"Not much. It was a 'Russian' form of corporation."

"No, never. The more telephones the more business, for you can reach more customers. People that say two telephones are a nuisance will not say that two customers are a bother."

"Such a condition would not be brought about. The Independent Company serves about four times as many homes and houses as the old, and the convenience is very great."

"While I consider two instruments in an office is somewhat confusing, I would consider the absorption of either by the other a misfortune."

"Never. The Bell people lead the hosts to victory are to-day and watchwords of the gizzard and the slave."

"Decidedly and emphatically no. I think not. The Independent company has done a fine thing for the country and deserves great credit for it, and it should be patronized before any other."

"No, sir, not by any means. Had the Bell Company been decent and put its rates at a living price, the Independent Company would not have been established here."

"Could not think of submitting to former conditions."

"No, for rates would go up and not more than half the people could afford a telephone."

"Rather have no exchange than return to the old conditions. It would deprive hundreds of citizens of the convenience and use of a telephone."

"There would be nothing that it was left to the Bell Company if it was not for the Independent Company."

"No, the present is 200 per cent. better than the monopoly of the Bell Company."

"Under no circumstances. The service is as good as it was under the Bell regime, and the new, or Independent, Company has three telephones in what the Bell has one, and connected with every village in the country."

"The advent of independent telephones has done a fine thing for the city that never reached us before, and we earnestly hope the conditions prevailing before the advent of the independent companies."

"While we have to pay one-half more in rates to maintain both telephones, we do three times as much business by telephone than we formerly did."

"It would not be preferable. It would be a calamity."

"Not at all. Would sooner have the telephone removed."

"As the Independent Company, Replies of equal decision and effect could be quoted in answer to the other questions, but they would be the repetition of opinions which the answer to the last question is conclusive evidence. It may be said, however, that these replies were not secured from people who are furnished with free telephone service, nor were they solicited among subscribers who were local stockholders in independent exchanges. The evidence is secured from among telephone subscribers without regard to their interests, other than those which accrue to them from the competition."

"A return compiled from replies received from sixty-seven cities and towns in the United States shows that in forty-five towns two business phones can be had for less than was formerly charged by the Bell for one. Of the remaining towns the increased cost for both phones is: In two towns $1.00 per annum. In one town $2.00 per annum. In one town $3.00 per annum. In one town $10.00 per annum. In three towns including Cleveland with an increase from $300 to $2,000 subscribers $12.50 per annum."

EVA BOOTH TO LEAVE CANADA

Will Probably Assume Charge in U. S.—Her Career as a Salvation.

Began at the Age of 12.

Since official word has come from London that Commissioner Evans' Booth is to leave Canada, and a rumor emanated from the same source to the effect that she is to become commander of the American branch of the Army, there is a deal of discussion in Army circles as to who will be her successor.

No one has been suggested semi-officially, nor is there any idea among local officials as to who will be the high school principal and public school inspectors by registered post in envelopes marked "examination results."

BETTER STREET CLEANING

Desired by Merchants

Make Complaint to the Controllers and May Make It an Election Issue.

The board of control listened to complaints yesterday from members of the Retail Merchants' Association regarding the dust nuisance. E. M. Trovren, secretary, said no city expense commensurate with the little result. He accused the board of dodging the matter, and threatened that it would be brought up at the next elections. The board apparently arose over three street-sweeping machines brought to the city last year by the Merchants' Association. W. B. Rogers said if the city bought them the dust nuisance would be removed. The machines have been in bond and were tested on Wellington-street some weeks ago.

Acting Street Commissioner Evans stated that on stone pavements they did good work, but on asphalt they were little better than those now in use. The cost would also be very great, as they consume a large amount of fuel charged $6 per day for the use of each machine, which, with $4 for horses and other expenses, would make them use entirely too expensive.

The matter was referred to the committee on the subject, and they will call a special meeting next week to consider it.

The Ontario Power Commission applied for the use of a room in the City Hall in which to hold meetings. The request was granted, but Controller Spence took occasion to criticize J. E. Duffin for his statement regarding the council or delay in furnishing funds. The commission itself had been at fault, and the Niagara power would be in the city before they had ready a report. The telegraphers' strike committee was also given a room, and will probably meet on Monday. A similar request was granted to the Ontario Farmers' Institute workers, who will convene on September 7th.
