OTTAWA, May 8 .- (Special) .- Boys playing in the fields started a brush fire which caused the explosion of "Uirite" this afternoon of the magazine of the General Explosives Co. in Hull, Que. Ten deaths now and at least twenty cases of serious injury co stitute the tale of casualties, while the damage to Hull and to the neighboring City of Ottawa may reach $100,000. The list of dead may

The factory comprised a number of small buildings on the out-skirts of Hull. It was devoted to the manufacture of a specially powerful explosive used in railway construction and similar work. It is under ordinary conditions of handling extremely safe. ss has been felt in Hull at the situation of the factory.

While on the outskirts of the town, it was situated within two or three hundred yards of a number of shacks inhabited by poor people. The city council had taken steps to oblige the company to remove its establishment, but the litigation resulted in a defeat for the municipality, the latest judgment in the case having been rendered a short time ago.

Small Boys Started Fire.

The fire started by the small boys extended about 5 p.m., to a building used as a workshop. This burned quietly for about three-quarters of an hour, when the building in which the detonators were stored, exploded with a sharp report, which was heard all over the City

About two minutes afterwards the main magazine, which contained about five tons of the explosive, detonated with a tremendous shock. The noise was peculiarly sharp and enormous clouds of smoke rose to a great height in the air, while stones, many of which were of great size, were showered upon the adjoining area, many of them wrecking buildings hundreds of yards away. Thousands of windows were shattered in both Hull and Ottawa.

Spectators the Victims.

The fire had attracted a great number of spectators, and it was due to their presence that the terribly heavy casualty list is to be ascribed. The hail of falling stones beat them-down in numbers. In particular, a bridge over Brewery Creek was thronged with onlookers. and it is feared that some of those struck down are submerged beneath the waters of the stream.

All the hospitals of Ottawa are filled with the injured and including slight injuries by falling stones, it is believed that from 100 to 150 casualties have occurred.

A MAN OF SACRIFICES.

The new King is a serious and sorrowful man, a man who all mis life has had to make sacrifices because of his station. He had to give up the sea and the navy, to which he was at tached, when his elder brother died; was with no joy that he found himself on the same occasion; a little later state reasons forced him to marry the finance of his glead brother, tho it has since proved a happy marriage; every day since the great change came to him, his life has been one of duty, study, sacrifice, service to the trade of king-to-be.

Proclamation of Accession.

While King George was signing the proclamation of lifs accession in the presence of his privy councillors in St. James' Palace on Saturday, a battery in the adjoining park was firing 68 guns, denoting the age of his predecessor. The first official utterange of the new king was market by feeling eloquence and made a deep impression.

The King, while the brief ceremonies were proceeding in the throne room, showed signs of deep grief. His large eyes were red, obviously from much weeping. Thruout the solemn reading of the proclamation, the new sovereign listened absorbedly with his eyes downcast, but chin upthrust. His voice and bearing thruout the speech and the subscribing of the proclamation gave evidence of a keen feeling of responsibility and of deep emotion.

An immense but quiet multikude passed about the palace for a sight of George V., who passed with but little appearance of state. He wore an admiral's uniform and ween the devent of the formalities being preceded with.

Street Car Accident.

HAMILTON, May 8.—(Special.)—
Hamilton mourned King Edward today in its churches. In practically every church in the city the deep sorrow of the various religious denominations was made manifest, either by special services or sermons. The special form of service ordered by Bishop Dumoulin was used in the Anglican churches and his lordship himself occupied the pulpit in Christ Church Cathedral in the morning.

The bishop spoke of the King's death as a calamity which he viewed with not a little alarm. He did not mince his words, when he said that the people should pray to God to hely England.

Dorner, 15 East Ferrie-street, all except Mrs. Nichois sustained only cut and bruises so far as it at present known. One man had several teeth knocked out, and Fireman Develin sustained a nasty cut on the head. The accident happened owing to the spreading of rails. Owing to the great seating capacity of the new Island Stadium, those who tried to estimate the number of spectators prethe new Island Stadium, those who tried to estimate the number of spectators present at the race on Saturday were usually greatly in error, estimating, as they did about it or seven thousand, while the sate showed an attendance closely bordering on the 10,000 mark. The grass track, which was in excellent shape, was five laps to the mile. Hans Holmer (Hall-fax) had the rail, and the other runners were placed as follows: Fred Meadows (Guelph), St. Yves (France), Ljungstrom (Sweden), Woods (Montreal), Coley (Hamilton), Red Hawk (Christian Island). When Ald. McGuire fired the starting pistol, Holmer jumped to the front, but had gone only half a lap when he was passed by little Percy Sellen. Sellen led for the first mile, having to cut out some lively sprints to stall off Holmer, who was trying for first position.

In the child mile Ljungstrom seemed to be trying to improve his position, and had gone ahead of Sellen to fourth place. Holmer was leading, with the other runners as follows: Meadows, St. Yves Ljungstrom, Woods, Sellen, Johansen, Coley, Red Hawk. At the end of the third mile Sellent went ahead, and the other runners were bunched close behind. In the fourth mile Ljungstrom went, ahead as a result of a fine burst of speed, and was closely followed by Holmer and Meadows.

In the fifth the leaders were the same, with the others well bunched.

People in Canada can judge the King by two things that are wellthe university here in Toronto, and his still more statesmanlike speech in the Guildhall in London on his return from his trip around the world. where he told England that she must "wake up in regard to her future, and in regard to her imperial responsibilities. We now read in the papers that this latter speech was written for the prince by some eminent journalist. that it is so, a prince who has the common sense to seize on such a competent to rule England, and to be adians in American cities, however, able to pick out twenty men to work and these have to be counted before done and to properly boss the job as well. THE KING AND THE BRITISH CRISIS.

King Edward's lamented death will without doubt be most severely felt in the field of British home politics. The refusal by the house of lords to pass last year's budget bill at once created a grave constitutional crisis did not remove, but rather intensifreely affirmed and he could scarcely have regarded with other than diseval government's policy. Mr. Asquith's undertaking that he would, in solutions, require guarantees from the sovereign that the will of the commons shall prevail, presented the King with the most momentous political problem of his reign or indeed that had arisen since the revolution. What he would have done cannot now impartial attitude and to act with strict regard to constitutional limitations and in the best interests of the country would have taxed to the utmost even his unrivaled judgment.

The accession of George the Fifth at this juncture materially modifies the political situation and will add sponsibility. Already there is talk of postponement of the veto question bill next year, and the group of moderate men on both sides who are striving to effect a compromise will be stimulated to more active effort. The advent of the new King will also be used by the extreme Conservative element that is trying to identify the reform party with a disloyal attempt to limit the privileges of the crown. 36 Queen Street East, . . Toronto.

But their case is hampered by the RUBY FINDS IN ASHBY fact that the necessity of house of lords reform is admitted by that august body itself. For the present controversy is stilled and will so remain until all that is mortal of King Edward is laid to rest. It will revive, but possibly not with the intensity which was rapidly degenerating into ersonal bitterness unexampled for before George the Fifth can be asked

Dr. Robertson dwelt on the fact that it must not be conceded that men of the world, so called, were deprived of the means of grace that were generally claimed for the exclusive appropriation of church-going people, and said that men who occupied prominent and useful positions in the world, and whose characters and virtues we admired, drank of the same wine and ate of the same bread that was partaken of by church communicants, and whose lives were nourished and made effective thereby.

CONNAUGHT AND CANADA Some Reasons Why the Duke Wi

Not Succeed Earl Grey.

Marquise de Fontenoy in New York Neither the Duke nor the Duchess of Connaught is dreaming of crossing the Atlantic this year, and the story that they contemplate a visit to Canada and to the United States in the fall has been officially denied in London. Nor is there the least probability of the duke succeeding Earl Grey as governor-general of the Earl Grey as governor-general of the Dominion. There are a number of reasons why he should not accept the appointment. In the first place he has led a singularly busy life, and now at the age of sixty is anxious to spend the remainder of his days where he pleases and according to his own devices—in one word, to enjoy his beautiful country place at Bushey Park, and his palace in London, known as Clarence House, which don, known as Clarence House, which, owing to his continual absence on military duty here, there and everywhere, have remained more or less closed for the last twenty-five years. That a man such as the duke, who has declined a throne-namely, that of the sovereign duchies of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, which came to him by inheritance should care for a mere governor-generalship it is difficult to conceive. And then, too, the same objection applies to the appoint-ment of the duke as governor-general of Canada that has been raised against the proposal to nominate a prince of the blood as viceroy of Ireland or of India; namely, that as such he would be obliged to execute the orders of the cabinet in London—that is to say, of the secretary of state for the ies—no matter how distasteful they might be, and would thus bring on royalty to the Dominion the odium that should be restricted to the home government and impair that lovalty and devotion to the crown and that popularity of the dynasty which are the principal bonds of union between the colonies and the mother country. True, Lord Beaconsfield sent as governor-general to Canada the present Duke of Argyll—that is to say, Queen Victoria's son-in-law. But the duke had not at that time succeeded to MICHIE'S Extra Old Rye Whiskey is always of the same even quality and mellew flavor-nene better Michie & Co., Ltd.

Two Young Men Rescued Just About

in Nick of Time.

There was almost a double drowning in the lake Saturday afternoon, when Bert Moore, the Parkdale rugby club player, and Frank Marsh were upset from a canoe into the chilling water. Luckily their plight was noticed by employes of the Mimico Asylum, who got them out after 15 minutes' immersion. When reached Moore was sup-porting Marsh, and both were all in when lifted from the water. Medical attention soon brought them around.

AS GEORGE V. IS PICTURED KING'S BODY IN STATE TO THE AMERICAN READER

Surrounded With Mystery and Little Known to His People-Prefers Life of Country Gentleman-Saddest Man in Britain To-day.

The New York newspapers edi-The New York newspapers editorially refer in highest terms to the late King Edward; for instance. The Sun says of him: "A strong power for good, a mainstay of the peace of Europe, a preventer of mischief in England, a steady friend of the American people." Of George V., references, principally in the news columns, are rather to his supposed idiocyncrasies. The American concludes an editorial, "Great Britain has lost a republican King. She may gain a republican constitution."

The London correspondents of The New York daily papers view George V. in an attitude tending to curiosity, but with a disposition to give him a fair chance to make good.

The New York American's London cable says:

The Prince of Wales, who emerges from the obscurity of a quiet domestic life at Mariborough House to rule the British Empire as George the Fifth, is a man of whom his fellow countrymen know practically nothing.

Probably no other British prince ever ascended the throne surrounded with such mystery When Edward was Prince of Wales the nation knew his private as well as his public life, his weaknesses, traits, intimate characteristics.

George V. is an unknown quantity. He comes reluctantly from a quiet life as a country gentleman to assume the crown. Not one man in a hundred is able to tell anything about the per-so able to ten anything about the personality of the new ruler.

His blameless, rather colorless, existence as heir to the throne causes misgivings in the minds of some old-fashioned Britons, who prefer a monarch of the "robust" type, with frankly defined vices as well as ostenof the world's greatest empire at forty-five, would rather command a warship or collect postage stamps than administer the affairs of a nation. He is to-day undoubtedly the saddest man in Great Britain, not only be-cause of the death of his father, to voted, but even more because he must put behind him his harmless fads and hobbies to which he was hither-to devoted and plunge into the maelstrom of politics, having at the out-set of his reign the most perpiexing and intricate crisis that has ever menaced empire. In countless ways the new King differs from the late monarch. The latter was above all a shrewd, tactful diplomatist and a polished man of the world, whose suave intercourse Tomb in Albert Memorial.

The tomb of Edward VII. will be beneath the Albert memorial chapel at Windsor, where the body of his closet son, the Duke of Clarence, has a sepulchre. The obsequies probably will be held on May 20. Before the funeral, it has practically been decided, the body of the King will lie in state in Westminster Hall, which was last the scene of a similar ceremony when for two days and nights a constant stream of citizens filed past the coffin of the great commoner, Gladwhen he became Prince of Wales. After his marriage with the Princess May of Teck, he settled into a comfortable methodical life of domesticated Briton and an impenetrable veil with which a domesticated Briton envelops his family hearth, effectually shut the heir to the throne from the public gaze. Thru years he remained the same shy, retiring individual who made an unwilling appearance at levees and other state functions, or sometimes

King Edward's casket will be fashioned out of oak grown in the royal forest at Windsor. It will first be lowered to the vault beneath the chapel floor at St. George's chapel, Windsor Castle. Afterwards, when the permanent tomb has been prepared, it will be removed to Albert chapel.

Will Lie in State.

Queen Alexandra and King George conferred with various officers of the During Victoria's reign Edward discharged may duties which the Queen relegated to him because of her advancing age. He thus kept constantly in the public eye. But when he ascended the throne he was unwilling to leave any official function to his son which he could perform himself.
George was content to devote him-

His wife was engaged to Duke Clarence, but his death necessitated alteration of state Queen Alexandra and King George conferred with various officers of the state and the household to-day concerning the funeral arrangements. The date of the burial was tentatively fixed for May 20, altho it may be May 18. For one thing the British nation is profoundly thankful. The new King is thoroly English to the core. The late King always made speches in daap guttural tones with more than a suspicion of German things was well-lection to German things was well-leken to the German army for British troops Edward showed the reason to the German upbringing and strong Teutonic influence which pervaded the home life of the late Queen.

Not so with the present monarch, however. He speaks in the clear, well-modulated voice of an English gentished in the nation's grief, and the music was such as is customary at funeral services. Immense crowds attempted to obtain entrance to St. Paul's and Westminster, but only a small fraction was admitted.

One of the simplest observances took place in the chapel royal in Bucklingham Palace, where the royal family with the members of the late King's household worshipped this morning. Queen Mary spent most of the Cay with her. After chapel, the family looked upon the body for a few minutes.

Funeral Plans Not Complete.

The plans for the funeral have not yet been determined, but the royal ceremonial and public mourning will follow the same procedure as when Victoria died. The court will move to Windsor Castle on Tuesday, and it is supposed that the obsequies will take place there, the body of the late king either to rest in St. James' Chapel there, or in a mausoleum to be built at Frogmore, near that which Victoria erected for herself and consort. More royal personages are expected to come to England for the funeral than followed Victoria's hearse. Meetings of Parliament.

Both houses of parliament held a brief meeting yesterday afternoon. The lord chancellor administered the oath of allegiance in the house of lords to about forty peers. The speaker of the house of commons and the deputy speaker being out of the country, there was no one empowered to preside over the house, and immediately upon Home Secretary Churchill's motion, the house adjourned.

The sudden and scanty meeting of both houses of parliament during recess showed that parliament is no longer an instrument of the throne. Many decades ago the lords and commons could not meet except by express summons from the King. That is over now, and parliament is independent of the throne. Parliament itself saw the danger in meetings that could be summoned only by the Sovereign and by special act abolished the peril by the "Act of Succession," known legally as to appoint a permanent commission is immediately to proceed to act and if separated by adjournment or process at the control of the control of the special act abolished the peril by the special act abo

The church was appropriately draped, and the musical selections were in keeping with the occasion. In all the town churches reference was made to the death of the late King.

A North Toronto citizen writes The World as follows: "Tree planting time is now past, and, outside of the efforts of a few land companies, nothing noticeable has been done in the direction of beautifying the streets. A few years back the Ratepayers' Association tried to induce the council to expend an amount each year in planting shade trees. The then and now chairman of the board of works opposed the idea on the ground that it would be unwise because the laying of sidewalks and the grading of the boulevards should be done first. The Ratepayers' Association tried to induce the citizens to put forth an effort on their own behalf, without result, proving that action must emanate from the council. To-day nearly every street leading from Yongestreet has a sidewalk. What is being done? Nothing. It is now too late for action this season. Death of Britain's King An Obstacle to Stock Markets

Wall Street Puts in an Eventful Week and Prices Are Hard to Maintain-Speculative Weakness Develops in Canadians.

A stay in liquidation was thought advisable in the New York market early in the week. Prices were be-ginning to show demoralization, with a resultant loss of confidence, which, if allowed to go to greater lengths, might have caused a condition not immediately desired. Let it be understood that the money in rigging the New York market by the big financiers is made by providing frequent fluctuations. If the market is building for bither refers the market is building for higher prices, sharp set-backs from rallies are used to scare holders into taking small profits, while on a declining market the reverse operation is worked. Since the first of the year, prices have been heading downwards, and it should require something more than a temporary advance to prove that this is not still in effect.

A cessation in the gold movement, tegether with the knowledge that tegether with the knowledge that much financing was to be done in Europe, was sufficient to provide a stimulus to the market in the middle of the week. It has been found extremely difficult to put out bonds at advantageous prices, and several of the railroads are adopting the old expedient of financing on notes. This is not the most hopeful sign, and past records of such transactions have not accorded with advances in listed securities. London does not appear to be enamored with American investments at the present time, and it by no means follows that the short date obligations which are now being offered and taken will assist in creating a demand for the stocks which are still at very high prices.

The stock market closed, regrowing belief that the growing beloek in the showing to be old on any bulge Mond ing.

Wall Street Pointe London closed on account death.

Extent of earthquake of Costa Rica proves much is first report.

House of representatives ministration railway bill in the stock market closed, will be sold on any bulge Mond ing.

Business and crop conditions have nade no recent improvement. On Monday the May crop report will be issued by the government, and if private and responsible accounts are a criterion. Monday's report will show winter wheat in an unfavorable state.

Shipments of flour in 1909 from Canada increased over 585,000 sacks and over 42,000 barrels over the figures of the previous year, the totals in 1909 being 1,700,000 sacks of flour and 210,000 barrels. Prominent milling men state that there is a large field to be covered in various European centres. While Great Britain is the great flour consuming centre, there is also a demand for Canadian flour from practically every country in Europe, with the exception of Russia. In recent years successful efforts have been made to introduc flour into the Orient. It is generally believed that in a few years a very extensive trade will be worked up, especially for the cheaper grades of flour. This extension of the field for Canadian flour is most gratifying to the big Canadian milling companies.
